Kidney Disease, First Stage Promptly Relieved By Pe-ru-na.

Catarth of the Bladder.
Mr. James M. Powell, 431 Kensington street, Kansas City, Mo., writes:
"About four years ago I suffered with a severe catarth of the bladder which caused continued irritation and pain. I was miserable, and could not stand up or walk for any length of time without extreme weariness and pain. I began taking Peru-na and it greatly relieved me, and in a few weeks I was completely cured, and felt like a new man."

Kidneys and Liver Affected.
Mrs. Carrie King, 780 North Cascade, Colorado Springs, Col., writes:
"Peru-na has been my favorite and only household remedy for nearly five years. I have suffered for years with biliousness, and kidney and liver troubles. If I caught a little cold, the pains were increased, and backache and headache were of frequent occurrence. However, Peru-na cured me—twelve bottles made me a new and healthy woman. For three years I have enjoyed the best of health. I keep Peru-na constantly in my home, if my husband or I catch cold or feel indisposed, a few doses of Peru-na never fail to restore us."

Mr. M. T. Gaffney, Corpus Christi, Texas, writes:
"I can certify to the truthfulness of Peru-na as a cathartic cure, and am recommending it to every one. I am practically well of the catarrh in my nose."

NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS

Qualify And Enter Upon The Duty To The People Tuesday—A Pointment.

The newly-elected County Commissioners, Messrs. John P. Wright, Cornelius G. Messick and Wesley D. Truitt, qualified Tuesday and entered upon their duties. The retiring members were Geo. C. H. Larmore, Lemuel B. Brittingham and John P. Wright. The two first named have served four years, the last named two years. Mr. Wright, succeeding himself, will make three members of the board, who have had two years' experience—Messrs. Wm. M. Cooper and John E. Johnson being the other two. Messrs. Brittingham and Larmore can retire with the full knowledge of well done services to their county. Mr. Wm. M. Cooper was re-elected president of the board, a deserved recognition of the efficiency with which he has served in this position for the past two years.

The new Judges of the Orphans' Court assumed the duties of office Tuesday, Messrs. King V. White, Edward M. Smith and Alonzo Dykes succeeding Judges Dashiell, Wood and Hearn. Judge White is presiding judge.

Sheriff Larmore took the oath of office Tuesday and appointed Mr. J. Frank Waller deputy. Mr. Waller moved into the jail Tuesday, the retiring Sheriff having moved to a residence in Camden.

The new board made the following appointments: Joseph L. Bailey, attorney to the board; Robert H. Hinch, janitor of court house; S. B. Langrall, surveyor to the Alms House; C. L. Dickerson, keeper of pivot bridge; Vincent Abbott, road supervisor in Trappe District, vice Joseph Parker, resigned. Adjourned to meet Tuesday, December 17.

—Dr. H. Henriot, a noted French chemist, declares that an atmospheric crisis threatens civilization, especially the population of our large cities, that the atmospheric air of these cities is becoming so vitiated, that unless some unforeseen remedy is operative it will affect the race, and result greatly in the increase of disease and race deterioration.

SANTA IN SALISBURY.

Can Find A Full Selection. Christmas Shoppers Rely On Our Merchants' Full Stores.

This is the season of the year when everybody is looking for presents for some one. They are closely scanning the newspapers, catalogues, literature on Christmas shopping, and the shop windows. The custom of giving presents at Christmas has grown to such an extent that every one tries to remember not only their immediate family, but close acquaintances and friends as well. According to the estimate given in the Baltimore Sun Salisbury has now a population of close to 7000, and this will mean many a dollar spent between now and Christmas day for presents, and taking in the population of Wicomico County and the neighboring towns in other counties that send a goodly number of shoppers each year to Salisbury, it will be readily seen that many dollars will go in our merchants' hands in exchange for these tokens of love, respect and esteem.

Value Of Xmas Trade.

The value and importance of this trade has been recognized by the merchants all over the country, and each year they are making stronger efforts to bring this trade to their store. This can be readily seen by the large amount of circulars and advertising literature, that is pouring in on almost every mail to every address the dealers caught hold of. Fine catalogues with alluring cuts and pictures, alluring descriptions of their wares, in fact this mode of advertising has reached a point that can be called burdensome to the worried and busy buyers. There is perhaps nothing more closely scanned in the newspapers of today than is the various advertisements offering suggestions and listing the attractions of the advertiser has to offer in the way of Christmas goods. Those who seldom give any time, or pay any attention to the advertisements are now eagerly scanning the pages to find something that would suit this parent or child, this friend or acquaintance, this sister or brother. The taste in giving presents of course varies as the different tastes of the buyers differ, or the imagined taste of the receiver is supposed to be, from practical to useless and ornate, from those that only amuse and please to those that help.

As a matter of fact tastes and ideas differ so widely that men in all branches of trade feel the good effect of Christmas buying and many a mind is made up by an attractive advertisement, or pretty and tasteful display of holiday goods.

Salisbury Full Of Christmas Attractiveness.

The stores in Salisbury are now commencing to put on their holiday appearance, and attractive goods in every line are being displayed. Our dry goods stores are well filled with all of the latest and prettiest designs in their line, quality and price to suit the taste of all buyers, with attractive lines especially gotten in for the occasion. Our clothing and general furnishing stores are as well stocked with a line that makes attractive and useful presents. Our jewelers have a line, that probably has never been equalled in Salisbury for prettiness or variety. Our drug stores have a large line of articles usually carried by them consisting of various articles for comfort, usefulness, amusements. Our hardware stores as usual are carrying a large line of their special attractions, and perhaps you will not find another town of the size of this in our entire country that carries a line equal to that carried by our hardware merchants—as a matter of fact this can be said about most all the lines carried by our Salisbury merchants. Our toy and furniture stores are well and largely stocked, our grocers have as usual almost anything in the way of table delicacy that the appetite of man may crave, our shoe stores are well stocked with shoes, boots and slippers of all kinds and sizes, with quality and price equal to those in any locality. This has been an unusually prosperous year in this section and there is probably more money in the hands of the people than has been the case in years, and although Wall street has had a panic no effects of it have reached the people of this section, and the condition of our banks will show that more money is on deposit at present than has ever been the case at this time of the year, and that they have more surplus and reserve than ever before in their history, such being the condition it bids fair to be a record breaker in the way of Christmas tokens and our merchants have prepared for it by the large and assorted stock of goods they have laid in. We wish to call our readers attention to the columns of the Advertiser for hints and attractive offerings of holiday goods. They will find our advertisers among the "largest and most progressive business men of our city, and we carry no advertisements that we believe to be fraudulent, false or misleading, or from an advertiser we believe to be dishonest or unreliable.

Some Appropriations Exhausted.

It is true some of the States that have buildings at the Exposition have exhausted their appropriations, and say they cannot participate next year. These buildings are already on the grounds, and if other States do not buy them and change their names, they can be used for exhibit buildings, etc. The beauty is still preserved, and there are many new features that could be added to make the Exposition even more beautiful than it is today.

While many charge that the several changes in management of the Exposition since its opening have not helped matters, all parties have done their best to make the Ter-Centennial a success. Without the attendance it was impossible to bring about success.

A d rgyman who had embarked on a ship for a sea voyage came to the pier with his money and valuables on the first day out with the request that he would put them under lock and key until the voyage was over. "You mustn't think that I wish to cast any aspersions on the character of the other man in my cabin," he said. "I wouldn't like you to think that it was because I didn't trust him that I am doing this."

"Of course not, sir," replied the purser. "Besides the other man has just deposited his money with me, and he made exactly the same remarks on speaking of you."—Pitt Male.

The Red Sea.

By daylight we were in the Red Sea the desert of oceans. Although it is a big body of water, it has no important city on its shores; the country surrounding it is desolate and dry; Arabia on one side and Africa on the other. One of the ports of the Red Sea is Jeddah. Last year 40,000 Mohammedan pilgrims left Bombay alone for Jeddah en route for Mecca, forty miles in the interior. Every good Mohammedan is expected to visit Mecca at least once during his lifetime; oftener if possible. These Mohammedan pilgrimages to Mecca are frightful things, as they spread disease and thousands of the pilgrims die. No white man is allowed in Mecca. Some day it will become necessary for the progressive white races to suppress the Mohammedan religion; it is so intolerant, brutal and so mixed up with filth, inhumanity, murder and disorder. It would not be a particularly big job if America, England, France, Germany, Russia, Italy, etc., should undertake it. The religion which teaches that American bacon is unclean food and all white men worse than dogs, is becoming entirely too gay of late. The Mohammedan religion was invented by a sensual man, intended to appeal to sensual men, as was the religion of Brigham Young. It has no more divine origin than has Ray's arithmetic, yet its followers are the most unreasonable lot of fanatics known to religion. The civilized part of the world will not much longer submit to Mohammedan insolence. I have noted a peculiar thing in the action of the Persia. For five minutes the ship will roll prodigiously; then for the next five minutes it will run along quietly. There is very little wind, the weather is quite warm and the sun shines brightly. Where did the name Red Sea come from I wonder? The water of the Red Sea is as blue as the water of the Atlantic.

It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. THREE BOYS HAD ECZEMA OF HEAD

One Mother's Trials—Little Ones Treated at Dispensary for Three Months—Did Not Seem to Improve—Suffered Five Months.

ALL WERE PERFECTLY CURED BY CUTICURA

"My three children had eczema for five months. A little sore would appear on the head and seemed very itchy, increasing day after day. The baby had had it about a week when the second boy took the disease and a few more developed, then the third boy took it. For the first three months I took them to the N. Dispensary, and they told me that the children had ringworm, but they did not seem to improve. Then I heard of the Cuticura Remedies, and I thought I would write you about my case, and when I got the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment I bathed the children's heads with warm water and Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In a few weeks they had improved, and when their heads were well you could see nothing of the sores. I should be very glad to let others know about the great Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. Kate Keim, 513 West 29th St., New York, N. Y., Nov. 1, 5, and 7, 1906."

LONDON IS STEREOTYPED.

Builder Thinks Sameness of Small Houses Causes Village Effect. A colonial visitor to England writes in the Builder his impressions of England and London from a builder's point of view. He notes that the most remarkable feature in the vast growth of little two-story houses in the last twenty-five years is the uniformity of their plan of arrangement.

In Continental centers which are developing suburbs there is a certain individuality in the small houses. Speculative houses built by the dozen are very exceptional on the Continent. But in England a house built to suit the taste of an individual is so rare as to pass unnoticed among the tens of thousands of villas and cottages erected by speculative builders. He continues:

"As London is approached on the southern side the remarkable character of the modern English mode of living in suburban cottages is apparent. London seems to a foreigner like some monstrous overgrown village or collection of villages with interminable rows of little two-story cottages, interspersed with fields, commons and parks."

"All that constituted a town or city in the old times and in the olden sense has of course long since been swallowed up in this gigantic labyrinth and the country thus transmogrified is inhabited by a people who, to judge by the singularly stereotyped appearance of their houses, are content with as remarkable stereotyping of their domestic arrangements."

Making True Diamonds.

The production of artificial diamonds has long been a dream of the experimenter. The conditions under which they are produced are not understood, and on a small scale they have for some time been duplicated in the laboratory and even—though very rarely—unintentionally in the workshop. Nothing more is necessary than to reduce carbon—a bit of coal or graphite of lampblack—to a liquid condition, combine it with a solvent and maintain it under great pressure until it cools, when crystals of the pure carbon will form just as do crystals of quartz or sugar or salt under like conditions and these crystals are perfectly true diamonds. But the difficulty lies in the extreme reluctance with which carbon assumes the liquid state. Under pressure, to be sure, it will liquefy; but the pressure is about fifteen tons to the square inch. In the depths of the earth, such a pressure may be applied by the weight of geological strata; but how may it be attained in the laboratory?

A most ingenious answer to this question was found by Professor Henri Moissan, of Paris. It is based on the well known fact that the metal iron has the property—which it shares with a few other substances, including water—of expanding instead of contracting as it passes from the liquid to the solid state; combined with the further fact that liquid iron absorbs or dissolves carbon, much as water does sugar. In increasing quantity with increasing temperature. Moissan fills an iron receptacle with pure iron and pure carbon obtained by calcining sugar, closes it tightly, and rapidly heats it to the highest temperature attainable in an electric furnace, bringing it to a degree of heat at which the time furnace begins to melt, and the iron volatilizes in clouds.

The dazzling fiery receptacle is then lifted out and plunged instantly into cold water, until its outer surface is cooled and hardened, thus forming a shell of iron that holds the interior contents with an inflexible grip. As this molten interior cools, the carbon separates from the iron solvent in liquid drops, and under the almost unimaginable pressure of expansion of the solidifying iron these liquid drops become solid crystals of diamond.—Everybody's.

"There's Many a Slip."

The proverb, "There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip," is probably the oldest of all the familiar English sayings. Its origin is found in the following ancient Greek legend told by Lycophron. Anceus, the son of the god Poseidon and King of the Leleges of Samos, took great pride in his vineyards, and treated most harshly the slaves who worked them.

A prophet predicted that as a punishment for his cruelty he would not live to enjoy the wine pressed from his grapes. The harvesting and the winemaking passed in safety, and finally Anceus stood jeering at the prophecy with the first cup of wine in his hand. But the seer replied to the King's mockery: "Many things happen between the cup and the lip." At that moment a wild boar broke into the vineyard and Anceus, setting the cup down untasted, hurried off to direct the chase, in which he was killed.

Largest Retail Drug Store.

The greatest drug store in the world is said to be found in Russia. It exists in Moscow and is 203 years old. Its title is the Old Nikola's Pharmacy and since 1833 it has been in the family of the present proprietor. It is a building of imposing dimensions, with many departments including one of professional education for the staff, which numbers 700 persons. About 2,000 prescriptions are said to be dispensed daily.

"For any of the ordinary diseases of the skin Chamberlain's Salve is excellent. It not only always cures itching and smarting but effects a cure. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store."

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moonup, Conn.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pains don't stay where it is used.

A GENERAL'S COWARDICE.

Made Him the Constant Laughing Stock of the Rank and File.

Gen. Smirnov writes of Gen. Stoessel's conduct during the siege of Port Arthur: "The timidity of Stoessel was such that he never appeared in the fighting lines, but he caused the population as 'poltroons' and 'runners'. When, in September, several shells fell near our lodgings, Stoessel moved to the house of Gen. Volkov, in another part of the town. His orders and part of his household things had been moved when a shell struck Volkov's house. The things were then taken back to the old place. Toward the end of November the enemy began shelling us from 11-inch mortars, and Stoessel again removed, this time to the vicinity of the barracks of the 10th regiment, which was out of range. There he lived in perfect safety until the enemy was able to shell this quarter also. Thereupon he hastened to surrender. Such pusillanimity made him the constant laughing stock not only of the officers, but of the rank and file and civilians as well, but whenever he caught any one ridiculing him he took the cruellest vengeance."

Early Days of Famous Composer.

Signor Fucini, who has come to London for change of air and scene, told a representative of the Chronicle that when he was writing his first opera, "Le Villi," he lived for four months on credit at a little restaurant called the Aida, in a slum in Milan.

"My dinner usually consisted of a piece of badly cooked meat and a cup of more or less sour wine. I can still recall in the half ashamed manner in which I used to tell the waiter to chalk up the bill and then I sneaked out of the place because I had no money for a tip. And I can also recollect my humble dippings, where I tried to exist on the few francs a week allowed me by the Government as a charity pension. Two or three of us lived together, and we often had to pawn our umbrellas and overcoats and boots in order to get a little ready money for immediate requirements."

Signs of Long Life.

"Bacon took a deep interest in longevity and its earmarks," said a physician. "He took the signs of long life and of short life as he true to day as they ever were."

"You won't live long, Bacon pointed out, if you have soft, fine hair, a fine skin, quick growth, a large head, early corpulence, short neck, small mouth, brittle and separated teeth and fat ears."

"Your life, barring accidents will be very lengthy if you have slow growth, coarse hair, a rough skin, deep wrinkles in the forehead, firm flesh, a large mouth, wide nostrils, strong teeth set close together, and a hard, gristly ear."

Troubles of Statesman.

Very heavy are the burdens of some of the high offices in Great Britain and leaders have been driven to various methods to prevent breakdown. When Robert Lowe was Chancellor of the Exchequer he laid down 90 feet of asphalt and got himself a pair of roller skates. That was his method of mastering a liver and the fatigues of office. Earl Spencer, when in Ireland, during the darkest days of his office, found riding fast and far the one thing to relieve his spirits of gloom. Gladstone cut down the trees and translated the classics; Lord Randolph Churchill went racing.

Inventor of the Signal Light.

Mrs. Anna F. Coaton has on Staten Island the oldest laboratory and factory known. It is where the distress signals, her own invention, used in the army and navy, the revenue service and the life saving and light-house bureaus, are manufactured. The signal burns with a strong red-white flame for two minutes and is visible 20 miles away. The formula for the signal light is kept in a vault, and there is no danger of its being lost.

Meaning of "Stovaline."

The curious name of the anaesthetic "stovaline" is due to its discoverer, M. Fournelle. M. Fournelle was anxious to perpetuate his own name in connection with it, but as the anaesthetic was of the nature of cocaine and no compound resembling that could be contrived out of "Fournelle," he translated the name into its English equivalent of "stove" and added the necessary termination.

Pictorial Postal Trust.

Seventeen of the largest manufacturers of pictorial postal cards in Austria and Germany have combined to raise the price of their products to 10 per cent, and their customers, numbering about 700, wholesale firms have resolved to make the retail dealers bear this advance.

Importation of Cocoa.

Cocoa importations into the United States are now averaging more than $1,000,000 a month against $250,000 per month a decade ago. Menstrual importations of both tea and coffee show a decline.

Sugar Consumption in India.

On account of agitators in India circulating a false report that all sugars manufactured in Europe are refined by the aid of bones, the imports of this commodity into India have been greatly affected.

Reading into the Telephone.

A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who has retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day and pay her generously for the entertainment.

THEY WERE NOT INTERESTED

The young woman in the hat that resembled an inverted chopping bowl, with a yard of ostrich plume on one side, hailed with excitement the girl whose headgear reminded one of a rosebush on a rampage.

"Have you heard?" began the first girl, breathlessly. "How in the world did she ever attract him? Why, her complexion is atrocious!"

"What in the world are you talking about?" demanded the other girl. "I'm talking about Bertha's engagement to Richard Startmount!"

"My gracious!" cried the young woman in the flower hat, putting down her package hurriedly and looking for a chair. "You don't mean it! Well, there's nothing like perseverance, is there? Goodness three years!"

"But to that lovely Startmount man!" mourned the girl in the drooping hat. "When there were so many other girls so much better suited to him—and so much prettier!"

"But she's not even pretty at all!" objected the second girl aggressively. "And as for style—Bertha may mean well, but has about as much style as a dress reformer! What could he see in her?"

"Isn't it absolutely funny!" agreed the girl in the large hat. "I should think he could see the contrast between her and—others. Of course, when Richard used to call on me so much I never really went to any extra trouble to entertain him, though I did manage to show him how pleasant a girl with some originality could make it for a man. Not that I claim to be brilliant, but—"

"Oh, it must be hard for you," broke in the girl with the bowler hat sympathetically. "I had forgotten how infatuated you were—that is, of course, you didn't realize it, dear, but you really made a dreadful goose of yourself over Richard Startmount. I always defended you when people said you ran after him."

"That was sweet of you," said the girl in the big hat, with daggers in her voice. "Of course, you judged by yourself and could not realize it was quite the other way round. Naturally you could sympathize with such a situation had it been true after the way you got laughed at about young Smith. He married a Boston girl, didn't he? As soon as he could escape from you—"

"Really, dear," interrupted her friend, languidly, "you have mixed me with some one else. I can't imagine what you are talking about. Young Smith always bored me. But I can't get over my surprise at Bertha's capturing Richard Startmount. Why, she'll look positively insignificant in that huge touring car of his! I should think he'd like a wife who was at least attractive! You ought to see my new automobile hat and veil!"

"It's too bad you won't get a chance to use them now," said the girl in the big hat. "I don't suppose Bertha will let Richard take any one out—"

"I have other acquaintances," said the girl in the flower hat headgear, "besides that Startmount man who owns automobiles. It really doesn't matter in the least to me if he has got engaged to a dozen girls. I don't see why you should be so worked up over it, though of course, I suppose I can't appreciate the surprise and unpleasantness of having a perfectly insignificant girl walk off with a man from under one's very nose when one had planned and angled and worked for months—"

"I really don't know," said the girl in the large hat, idly, "who could appreciate a situation like that better than yourself! You know perfectly well that you couldn't talk of anything else the time Richard took you to the theatre twice in one week!"

"Do you still remember that?" drawled the girl in the flower hat, with an aggravating smile. "I know you were furious at the time!"

The girl in the big hat laughed dramatically. "As though I cared what Richard Startmount did!" she insisted. "I just told you of his engagement because I thought you'd be particularly interested! I don't care a particle!"

"It is absolutely nothing to me," declared the girl in the flower hat. "Absolutely!"

"But what on earth he could see in her—" broke out the first girl after two minutes of silence.

"That's just what I say!" agreed the girl in the flower hat.

A Tip to Frodlings. "I take notice," philosophically said old Brother Dinger, who was a great hand to cogitate, "that in these days, whilst we are des as glad as ever was when a sinner reformed, we don't make so much fuss about it as we used to. We respects and in-dawes his action as much as we ever did, but we don't shout so loud. Nowadays de wise prodigal brings along his own calf; if he don't he's l'ble to butt up ag'in a big dis-appointment. We's a heap mo' for solid business deese times, and lots less for noise, dan we used to was. Yassah!"—Puck.

JAPAN'S INVASIONS

Have Met With Failure in White Man's World.

SUCCESS IN FORMOSA

They Have Been Treated With Greater Severity in All Asiatic countries Than in America—Brought Disorder and Discord in to Siam.

It is customary for the Japanese and the officious friends of Japan to speak of the exclusive attitude adopted by men of Anglo-Saxon ancestry in Australia and Canada, in Natal and in California, as an illustration of race pride and prejudice of which we have no reason to be proud and much cause to be ashamed.

There would be some foundation in the charge, at least enough to demand the most careful investigation, if it were true that the Japanese colonist and coolie laborer were welcome everywhere or anywhere outside of the white man's world; but the advocates of the Japanese and the frothy journalists of Tokio and Osaka themselves overlook the fact that their fellow-countrymen are much more unwelcome and that they have been treated with greater severity in all Asiatic countries than they have been in America, in Canada, in Australia and in Natal.

This hostility was shown in the generations long before trades unions became a power in the world, years before the international struggle for existence became so sharp, and it is undoubtedly founded on the fact that wherever he goes, without wishing to deny his good qualities or too completely cloaking his less amiable traits, it must be confessed that the Japanese laborer and colonist becomes a disturbing political factor says a writer in the New York Times.

They haven't the faculty of being absorbed which distinguishes the German emigrant in our world, and they haven't the ability to play the self-effacing role of strangers in a strange land which characterizes the Chinese coolie in all his abiding places on the East Asian coast, from Siberia to Java and Sumatra.

It was in the days of Taiko Samu, that apocryphal Elizabethan age of Japanese history, and not during the reign of the present enlightened Emperor, as many superficial observers think, that Japan first became the stormy petrel of East Asian politics. In great seagoing junks, which were three or four times the size of Columbus's caravels, the Japanese navigators sailed to India and to Burmah to Siam, the Malay Peninsula and the Philippines. It was they who gave the name Borneo to the island of Luzon, at present our most important insular possession.

They were invariably received with open arms by the surrounding Asiatics, but the friendly relations did not long obtain, and it seems to be as undisputed as any fact of history that the cause of the change was the political activity and the dominating characteristics of the intrepid islanders.

In Siam the presence of the Japanese or rather their bold attempt to control the Government of the country, led to a series of wars. Disorder and discord were the inevitable condition of the country until at last the Japanese were expelled, bag and baggage.

The Japanese have been twelve years the masters of the beautiful island of Formosa, once a favorite haunt of their piratical and smuggling junks, and here, where the political tension is less acute than in Manchuria and Korea, we have a better opportunity than elsewhere to judge of Japan's capacity as a colonizing power. That a measure of success has been attained here is demonstrated by the fact that the colony today is practically paying its way.

To-day Formosa is a crown colony governed exclusively by officials who are guided only by police and fiscal considerations. Vast expenditures of men and money were made in clearing of brigands and brigandage, the sections of the beautiful island adjacent to ports and the campaign, wood forests and along the lines of the new railways.

The Governor has run a surveyor's line about this no man's land, and refuses to accept of a responsibility for what may happen there. The line is defended by blockhouses, and while the savages do their own worst in their savage lands, they are not allowed to force, and for some years back have not been successful in forcing their way into those sections of the country which the Japanese, for reasons of commerce and of convenience, choose to regard as civilized.

The results of the Japanese experiments of the past twenty years cannot be regarded as brilliant, and there are undoubtedly moments when the Imperial Government shows signs of discouragement. It is clear that, should Japanese colonization, either by the Government or by the individual, fail, the land empire will never play the great role across the Pacific which many of its ambitious subjects have dreamed of and sought to reach for decades past.

BRITISH CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT.

One of the most imperative of the reforms promised by the Democratic party in the last campaign is the enactment of a "corrupt practices law." Senator Gorman introduced such a measure in the Senate at the session of 1906, but it came in toward the latter part of the session, when the attention of the Legislature was engrossed in the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad business, and for this and other reasons it failed of enactment. Mr. Gorman now says that he will probably bring in a similar bill at the coming session, and it should be written on the statute books without any opposition. Mr. Gorman is reported as saying that he will confer with the Governor elect as to the character and form of the bill. Mr. Crothers has well defined views on this subject and has said that Maryland should have a law to prevent bribery and the illegal acts in connection with elections, somewhat after the fashion of the English Corrupt Practices act of 1883. That excellent law was designed to correct abuses in Great Britain very similar to those with which we have been unsuccessfully contending in the State for many years. The principal features of the British law are the imposition of severe penalties upon illegal voting and upon those who practice any form of intimidation, undue influence or bribery of voters; the rigid restriction within narrow limits of the employment of paid agents, clerks, messengers and others by candidates or election committees; the fixing of the amount which may be lawfully expended by candidates and election committees and a full and correct account of all such expenditures. This law it is said, has accomplished its purpose in England, a country which for generations was distinguished for vote-buying and various forms of election corruption. It is probable that the long continuance of corruption in England had finally caused a revulsion of public sentiment and that the reform of 1883 has now a popular support without which no law can be rigidly enforced. If the law prevents bribery in England, there is no reason why the same law would not accomplish the same results in this country.

Among the most effective features in the British law is the invalidation of elections by proof of fraud and the jurisdiction of the courts over election contests. This extends even to members of the House of Commons. That body does not decide its own election contests, but delegates them to the courts. This is a most wholesome practice, for it is notorious that legislative bodies do not as a rule decide election contests on their merits. The preparation and introduction of a corrupt practices act should not be delayed until the session of the Legislature is so far advanced that its passage may be jeopardized. There is no reason, indeed, why it and other measures to which the Democratic party is pledged should not be prepared before the meeting of the Legislature and introduced during the first week of the session. That would afford an opportunity for careful consideration and full discussion in committees and in the two houses and would insure their passage in an acceptable form.

N WASHINGTON.

There was nothing notable about the assembling of Congress except the look of anxiety on the faces of most of the Republican members, who fear that the Republican party will be held responsible for the panic and the business depression that has set in. Republican politicians are poor losers, for after years of success they had come to believe that their party was invincible, and indiscoverably suddenly for the panic was a great surprise to most of them—that the prosperity bubble had vanished has left them with drooping wings and crests. The real leaders are trying to rouse themselves and saying that a bold face was put on a bad master. Even the President's Message betrays this discomfited feeling, and instead of the bold and boasting statements presented in other messages there is an apologetic tone running through it, which indicates that Mr. Roosevelt was also surprised and has not yet recovered his security and the fear of the political consequences of the panic upon his party. The Senate and the House of Representatives are already filled up with an army of lobbyists, who always congregate when a Republican Congress is in session, which is the magnet that draws such a conglomeration of patriots, all shouting for, "the old flag and an appropriation." The Democrats naturally feel encouraged by seeing the defection of their political opponents, and all feel that if the party can unite on a platform and candidates, the chances of carrying the necessary doubtful states would be very favorable. But no truthful chronicler of events can overlook the fact that there still exist divergent factions in the party on the question of policies and candidates. This was emphasized by the "split" between Senator Daniel of Virginia, and Mr. Bryan, who the Senator believes is trying to dictate to the party new and untried policies, which he views as undemocratic. As Senator Daniel was one of the warmest and most able supporters of Mr. Bryan in 1896, and is a personal friend, his criticism can only be intended for the benefit of Mr. Bryan and the party generally. His advice to Mr. Bryan in 1900 that to force the Silver issue onto the platform, would be fatal, is now followed by the advice not to dictate new and untried policies. "If you want to succeed," said he to Mr. Bryan, "you must quit riding rough shod over all the members of the party." Senator Daniel's record of four terms in the United States Senate, always voting in the interest of the people, and his leading delegation from his state to six National Conventions, entitles his opinion to the greatest respect on matters of party policy.

RECIPE MIXED OFTEN.

Druggists Hear Much Praise For This Simple Home Made Mixture.

Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple home made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and directions for taking: Mix by shaking well in a bottle one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Kargon three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water. This mixture writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper, has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, overcoming Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles in a short while.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for these ingredients since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once try it "swear by it" especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

The druggists in this neighborhood can supply the ingredients which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood cleansing agent or system tonic known and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

A Sad Accident.

J. Calvin Hearn, son of Fred M. Hearn, of near Whiteville, was accidentally shot and instantly killed while running on Saturday morning, near Whiteville, Del. The full charge of the shotgun he was carrying entered his head, almost blowing it off his shoulder. While stepping over a fallen tree it is thought that a twig caught the trigger of the weapon with sufficient force to pull it back and discharge the gun. The full force of the charge struck him in the head, and he died instantly. His companions do not know exactly how the accident did happen, it occurred so quickly, but this is the only solution they can give. They picked up the lifeless body and conveyed it back to the home of the young man's parents. The funeral services were held at Whiteville Monday afternoon at one o'clock, and were largely attended. The unfortunate young man was about 21 years of age, and was formerly a student of the Wilmington Conference Academy, at Dover. He possessed an exemplary character by those who knew him, and had considerable ability. This year he had been attending a Wilmington business school for the purpose of learning shorthand.

The young man's parents are prostrated with grief at the unfortunate ending of a promising life.—Delmar News.

The Thaw Trial

The second trial of Harry K. Thaw for the killing of Stanford White in New York about two years ago will not come up until next January. Because of the Christmas holidays and other work District Attorney Jerome will ask on Monday next to have it put off. The motion will be made in the supreme court, criminal branch, of New York, where Judge Dowling will sit. Final opposition to the postponement of the trial will be made by Martin W. Littleton, counsel for Thaw. Mr. Littleton issued a statement last Monday that he would not consent to any delay. He says he believes that Thaw's trial has been put over beyond all reason.

VESSELS BLOWN ASHORE

Three Bay Steamers Grounded in Wednesday Night's Storm.

As the result of a terrific wind-storm on the Chesapeake bay Wednesday night three steamers bound for Baltimore were blown ashore, and as many more had to be tied up at the nearest wharf until the storm subsided. The steamers West River, of the Baltimore, Annapolis and West River Line, and the Lancaster and St. Mary's of the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, were blown ashore, while the Fred Avon, Maggie and Olver were tied up at wharves until it was safe for them to proceed on their journeys. There were passengers on all the boats, and many were badly frightened. Several of the captains of the steamers that arrived Thursday morning said that it was one of the worst storms of the year and was dangerous for smaller craft to be out. Even the large steamers of the Bay Line and Chesapeake Line were delayed and the wind blew so hard at one time that the bow flagstaff of the steamer Virginia was blown off.

Passengers in Great Danger.

Passengers on the West River, a small steamer which was on her way to Baltimore when the storm struck her, were in great danger all Wednesday night, and many feared they would never reach the shore in safety again. There were about 20 persons on the boat, including several women, and several of them remained in the saloon all night and prayed that they might be saved.

The little steamer left Annapolis shortly after 6 p. m., and was on her way to West river landings before coming to Baltimore. The storm struck her soon after entering the bay, but Capt. Charles H. Lewis thought he could continue and he headed her up the bay. Everything went well until the steamer was almost opposite Thomas Point. Then, almost without warning there was a grinding sound, and before anyone on the boat knew what had happened the smokestack was wrenched from its fastenings and lay on the top deck a mass of black iron.

Seeing the danger that threatened all on board the Captain ordered all the fires put out and the anchor to be lowered. By this time the women were almost frantic, and men walked up and down the deck wondering what would happen next. It was almost pitch dark, and distress signals were put out, but no sign of help came in sight.

Blew Ashore On Kent Island.

After being tossed about for an hour the little steamer began to drift out into the bay. Captain Lewis, who has traveled the bay many years and has been in many a storm, kept his presence of mind and went among the passengers trying to quiet them. He knew the vessel was in danger, but also knew there was nothing to do but wait for what might happen. By this time the boat was half way across the bay. An hour later she was pounding on the rocky bottom of the bay near bloody Point on Kent Island.

The waves washed over the decks of the steamer, and as the fires were out it began to grow cold, which added to the sufferings of those on board. The steamer was soon stuck fast on the bottom. There was nothing to do but wait for morning to come, and the rest of the night was one that will never be forgotten by those on board.

When the first signs of day appeared in the east the little steamer was still on the shore, but the storm had subsided somewhat, and two members of the crew were sent ashore in a small boat to telephone for assistance.

Tug Takes Passengers Off.

It was late Thursday morning when the office of the company at Baltimore was notified, but half an hour later Mr. Charles W. Lewis, an official of the company sent the tug Lauretta Spedden to the assistance of the stranded steamer. When the tug arrived all the passengers were transferred to her, and soon they were on their way across the bay to their homes along the West river. No effort was made to pull the steamer off the bottom, as she was too far up, and the only thing to do was to wait until the tide came up.

Want Train Service Re-established.

The citizens of Delmar who have occasion to go down the N. Y. P. and M. R. R. are very much disappointed that the company did not replace the 7.30 a. m. passenger train, south, the first of the month. It was thought this would surely be done. It is impossible to get to Salisbury until noon, and if one has any business of consequence is compelled to wait until 3.30 before being able to return. These should certainly be some means of getting south earlier in the day, and it is hoped that the company will restore the morning train very soon.

THE WORLD OF FASHION

Jump Styles For Evening Gowns: Yellow A Modish Color: Black And White Combinations: Black And Velvet Bands For The Neck.

Yellow is one of the most fashionable colors for evening gowns this season and it is also, used to make the most charming cloaks of broadcloth. These soft, beautiful new shades of yellow are worn alike by blondes and brunettes, by society women, young or old, and are more becoming by artificial light and look warmer than any other of the evening shades. Yellow fashions are also smart and with these costumes gilt clippers or pumps and silk stockings of the same rich tint are considered an appropriate finish. Every possible variety is shown in evening wraps from the simple circular cape which can be very easily and quickly made at home to the most elaborately draped collars and Japanese form of garments.

A Stylish But Inexpensive Evening Gown.

Fashion is very kind this winter to the woman with a slender income or the young girl with but a small amount of spending money for there are a great many styles of simple evening gowns that can be made at home very successfully at comparatively small expense. To begin with the jumper costume is strikingly well adapted to this purpose. A successful frock lately seen, made in this style, was of pale blue nun's veiling with one of the new circular skirts trimmed with two deep folds of the material. The jumper portion consisted of two wide straps, with the fulness held in on the shoulder by three deep tucks, stitched down to yoke depth back and front. These straps were edged with narrow blue velvet ribbon and joined across the front and back with five straps of the same ribbon, trimmed at each end by a tiny cut steel button. The draped belt was of wider velvet ribbon held by a handsome steel buckle. This jumper was worn over a low necked blouse of fancy net, with short sleeves coming just below the elbows.

The same idea could be carried out in taffeta or China silk or silk and cotton cellophane and worn with an all-over lace or net waist.

A Black Lace Frock.

Pale blue, pink, light green, and lavender are all popular evening colors this year in spite of the above mentioned fad for yellow. White is of course always worn and a great many black evening gowns have been seen at recent festivities. The sombre color is however usually relieved by touches of scarlet, pale blue or yellow or it is made with a lace or chiffon trim and sleeves. A fascinating frock of this style was of black chantilly lace with the body of the waist and the Mikado sleeves cut in one and finished with a square neck edged with a band of jet. A transparent yoke of white allover lace filled in this aperture, while short puffed sleeves of the same lace extended just a little below the Mikado sleeves of the Chemise. The skirt was one of the new fad gored models with pleated front and back and circular sides.

New Ornaments For The Neck.

The old fashioned, black velvet band has been revived for evening wear and is, at the present moment, the very height of fashion. This worn high up or the throat under the chin thus hiding the least attractive part of the neck and revealing the curves at the base of the throat. These bands are seldom more than three quarters of an inch wide and are often decorated with slides and ornaments of diamonds, paste or rhinestones. Often, however, the velvet band is left perfectly plain and fastened at the back with a handsome brooch. For the woman who cannot afford costly jewels this fashion will prove most acceptable and she can rest assured that it is the very latest. Field Syndicate, Station W. Lucy Carter.

We Are Watching And Waiting For YOU.

This is the time of the year when we sit down and figure over to see how much money we can rake and scrape together, how much of it we must pay, how much we can borrow, and how elastic our credit is. It's the time when every body is wondering what to give everybody else, and also wondering what everybody else is going to give them. Lucy Thoroughgood wants to tell a thing or two. I don't want to put you on what a few people will get so that you won't go and get them the same thing. But suppose you did happen to give a man or boy a necktie, a pair of gloves, a pair of suspenders, a new hat, a half-dozen pair of hose, a muffler, a white vest, a few linen collars, a new cap, a suit of pajamas or a smoking coat, a pair of hose suspenders, a new band, a new sweater, a pair of cuff buttons, a new overcoat, a rain coat, a new suit of clothes—would it make any difference if somebody else gave them the same things? Why, no. No man ever had enough ties or handkerchiefs, few men have enough gloves on hand, and no man ever had umbrellas enough to last six months. If he had friends, Lucy Thoroughgood has two stores and has made extra preparations for everybody to get just what they want in the way of wearing apparel. There are no two stores anywhere that sell better wools than you can find right at James Thoroughgood's and Lucy Thoroughgood's. We have men's and boys' Neckties from all parts of our fair land; our glass cases are loaded with Christmas Neckwear and Mufflers. Almost every coloring and design is here that the mind of man can think of, the taste of woman could desire. A little less than a cabinet of needles arrived this week for Thoroughgood's holiday trade. Wonderful lines, ladies, of correct things to present gentlemen this year, and you don't have to make a noise like a bank to get them; prices are not high. Suggestions here cost nothing, presents but little.

The Story of a Medicine.

The name—Golden Medical Discovery—was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Medical Root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, add to the certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, which is generally employed. So the new world-famous "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the strongest endorsement from the highest medical authorities. The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a medicine that has been recommended by the very best of our doctors for the cure of all the ailments for which it is advertised. A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. W. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial, and bladder affections, accompanied with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

THE HIGHER LIFE

Selected Gems of Thought from Pious and Pious of All Ages.

Pledge of Immortality.

"We carry the pledge of immortality in our own breast. Man is to live hereafter." Professor John Fluke was a firm believer in a future life, and said that the whole momentum of nature carries us onward into the unseen world. Professor Shaler, of Harvard, wrote in unequivocal language in the terms of science of his confident belief in immortality.

What Luxury Offers.

One does not need to pick an unnecessary quarrel with luxury or to plead for any kind of medieval asceticism in order to drive home the contention that, after all, luxury is a trouble-bed at best and no proper cover for a full-sized man. Luxury, taken at its best, has not quality enough in it to give a man the satisfactions of life.—Rev. Frank Williams, Reformed.

Gift of Faith.

We learn from history that faith had well nigh departed from the earth when our Lord Jesus came. "We know that it lived again in the hearts of men and that sons of God and valiant ones were born over the face of the whole earth. This kindness we owe to all mankind—to pray that they may receive the unspeakable gift of faith which we enjoy and which millions of our poor race know not the value of.—Rev. James Wilson, Unitarian.

Value of Pain.

Pain is incidental to all birth. Sorrow must come wherever there are human affections. Pain is not there, fore to be treated as an interference with normal living. It is one of the processes of living. How true this is, and how easy it is for a comfort-loving world to forget that one of the central doctrines of Christ is, that suffering and pain have a high moral value; through pain comes gain, through death we enter into life.—Rev. Thos. Dixon, Episcopal.

Looking to Christ.

Jesus Christ died on the cross for human sin. Thank God for that. The cross is our hope. But He did more than that. He preached to the poor. He healed the sick. He showed men and women the way of love, of honesty, of kindness, of brotherliness. The social, the political, the moral, the religious life of the people. He touched and quickened and saved. My friends, take heart. The country is not going to limbo. The devil hasn't all of the American people in his grasp. Great things are taking place in the name of our Lord and Savior. Let us look to Him, follow Him and victory is sure.

Fidelity in Friendship.

Severely faithful was Christ, when He healed men of their self-deceits, their swollen virtues, their vanity, and their emphasis of the semblances of things. Nothing is more infrequent than fidelity in friendship. Men hate to hurt the feelings of those they love. Criticism seems a form of humiliation. Peel a man of his faults and spread his weakness out before him like a map—and he grows irritable. Even those who are closest to you have suffered so much through trying to be faithful to you that they have finally decided to allow you to go to the devil in your own way. But this way lies death.—Rev. F. B. Hall, Baptist.

The Seeking After Happiness.

A pathetic fallacy underlies some modern thinking, viz: that the end of this present life is happiness and that every man and woman ought to attain happiness in this world. This is a misleading conception. The instinct for happiness has its roots in a great and blessed fact, but the instinct is only prophetic of what is to come when the school is closed and the education finished. No children are quite so unfortunate as those who are the victims of unintelligent affection, whose purposes are never crossed, who never bear the yoke of discipline, and who grow into men and women without self-control, the ability to direct their own powers.—Rev. Wilson Parker, Baptist.

Fallacy of Painters.

The old-time painters delighted to picture Jesus as a sorry specimen of manhood; their work made him look like an antique funeral director or a chronic dyspeptic. As a matter of fact, his active life and his personal attractiveness gave evidence of abundant pleasing health. He who came to show the way of life is not likely to have neglected its elementary laws. He who illustrated the goodness of his Father by the glory of the lilies is not likely to have undone his teaching by his own inglorious appearance. He who came to do the world's greatest work would watch well to his own equipment.

Whatever weakens the body weakens both heaven and humanity. Social service is the evidence of salvation, helpfulness the proof of holiness: The body is the instrument of our service in this world. Health must be sought for the sake of the larger investment it enables one to make in the way of good work. A sound body can always be a better minister of heaven than that of the must plump hypochondriac.—Rev. Edw. Shea, Roman Catholic.

Muscular Pains Cured.

"During the summer of 1908 I was troubled with muscular pains in the instep of my foot," says Mr. S. Palar, of Toronto, Ont. "At times it was so painful I could hardly walk. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was recommended to me, so I tried it and was completely cured by one small bottle. I have since recommended it to several of my friends, all of whom speak highly of it. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md."

ODD RELIGIOUS PAGEANT.

Where Fashionable Men and Women Do Penance for Their Sins.

Where the light is sharpest, the shadow is deepest; and it is close to Ostend—the bright, the haughty, the fashionable and the gay—that a most solemn religious ceremony is annually observed, and that at the moment when this queen of watering places with all her attractions is at her fullest, says the New York Tribune.

The scene is Funes, a small town not far from Dunkirk, on the French frontier, within easy reach of Ostend, and the time is the last Sunday in July, the date—originally in May—having been changed, perhaps, in order to convenience summer visitors.

The religious ceremony, which brings hundreds of people into the little town in pilgrims' garb, consists of a penitential procession through the streets, the story of Christ's life and passion being set forth by living characters as described in the New Testament, with certain introductory elements from the Old.

What makes the procession especially striking is the part played by the penitents, who publicly play many of the characters or perform other acts of contrition, and who for hours tramp through the ill paved streets under a broiling summer sun or stumble barefoot through water and mud in wet weather. Thus the part of Christ at the moment of His crucifixion has for many years been taken by a burgomaster of an important neighboring town, and, like his great Prototype, he drags an enormous cross. Behind him comes a crowd of men and women, who also carry great solid crosses, which are borne in different positions according to a vow. They are completely disguised, these men and women, being covered with black garments from head to foot, so that except for height it is impossible to tell a man from a woman.

More leaders of fashion of both sexes than any one realizes slip away quietly from Ostend and elsewhere when the Funes procession comes on, and, completely disguised, take their places among the penitents, having previously obtained certificate of repentance from their religious adviser, and the secret of identity is closely kept. Only the finer turn of a woman's shapely ankle, the extra curve bestowed on the man's feet, the glimpse of fine lace under the coarse black skirt, the cultivated tone in a voice of prayer, give any indication as to the position of those who pass along in the procession. All are completely covered with woe-bolies for the features; all wear black gloves, so that the hands may afford no clue, and ostentatiously carry white handkerchiefs, large and coarse (presumably for penitential tears), and all are barefoot.

This curious penitential procession seems to have originated in 1109, when Count Robert of Flanders came from Palestine, bringing home a piece of the true cross. He founded a local branch of the Society of the Cross, which adopted this method—then much in vogue, like mystery plays—of teaching the ignorant the Bible story by exemplification. The great Funes procession starts at 3:30 o'clock from a small street behind the church, so as to allow of pilgrims coming from some distance. Playing the penitent in the Funes procession is, it must be explained, no light and easy task. It means downright hard work, for, muffled as the pilgrims are, it involves replacing horses and dragging great carts and lorries or bearing on the shoulders awkward, heavy platforms, on which are placed the wooden figures that represent the stations of the cross with which the procession of living characters is diversified. It means staggering along with top-heavy banners without seeing where you are going, the hard tones bruising delicate feet; it means carrying metal explanatory notices in which arms for hours at a time, and all the while reciting, in penitential psalms, No, playing the repentant sinner at Funes is far too arduous for any one to undertake who is not in earnest.

Hundreds of barefoot penitents appear, dragging as best they can—some in one position, some in another, according to their vows—enormous heavy crosses. Slipping and stumbling under the weight, and gasping with fatigue as they slowly pass along, every now and then some more delicate or feeble enthusiast drops from the ranks to be restored by those near. A few moments' rest and they go forward again to finish their penance. Round and round the town goes the procession till scarce a street has not been visited, then so back to the Grande Place, where the cortege disappears round the corner whence it emerged, looking as if the Middle Ages had swallowed it up till next year. The penitents slip away unostentatiously and return secretly to their homes.—The Sphere.

Selen's Strange Discovery.

The crescent-shaped sand dunes which move in thousands across the desert of Chal, near La Joya, Peru, have been investigated by Astronomer S. I. Bailey, who found the points of a crescent to be 160 feet apart, while the convex side measured 477 feet and the greatest width was more than 100 feet. The estimated weight was 8,000 tons, yet it was carried 25 feet a year by the prevailing south winds.

About Digestion.

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and enable them to perform their functions. The result is a relief for your food, increased strength and weight, greater endurance and a clear head. Price 25 cents. Samples free. For sale at Toulson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

Often The Kidneys Are

Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs. The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is you realize. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policyholders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co.

GETTING EVEN

"That's Leone Fletcher over at the farther table," said the girl with the gold bracelet. "She has on another new hat."

The girl who matched in brown from her head to her feet looked and gasped. "Well, I never!" she said, indignantly. "It isn't just about the end of the limit! That hat of hers is an exact copy of mine that I showed her last week! And I said I didn't intend wearing it till I went away! And she knows my milliner and has got one like it and is wearing it before any one sees mine and—" she ended almost in tears.

"Every one will think it was I who did the copying!"

"That's Leone all over," sympathized the girl with the bracelet. "I owe her a score that I haven't forgotten in a hurry. She asked me to dinner one night and used up all the time telling me how glad she was that Dick seemed so fond of me. She said he was a splendid fellow and I was just the kind of girl he ought to fall in love with and she hoped I'd not throw him over, because that happened to him once and he took it very hard. Then she sighed appropriately to make me understand that she was the girl who had broken Dick's heart long ago. But it didn't touch me, for I knew all the while that she has been breaking her neck for ages to get him to look at her."

"Ever since his uncle took Dick into the firm," continued the girl with the bracelet, "and he set up an automobile and joined two or three clubs Leone has been laying her little traps. I didn't quite see why she should take such an abnormal amount of trouble to assure me that she approved of his friendship for me. Not that I have the slightest idea that Dick is serious—"

"Oh, of course not," agreed the girl in brown.

"Still there's no reason why he shouldn't be," fared up the girl with the bracelet. "Well, Leone took the most beautiful sisterly attitude you ever saw. I really wanted to have it photographed and framed. When I left I said I was going to shampoo my hair the next morning and she added that she always envied me my hair. That should have made me suspicious, but I am naturally trusting."

"The next morning when I just got through rinsing my hair the bell rang and before the maid could come upstairs Leone called up to me."

"It's I, Dolly," she said, in her sweetest voice. "I want to see you just a minute, dear. Can't you run down? I'm in a hurry to catch a train."

"Well, you know how lovely and altogether bewitching a girl looks whose hair is sopping, soaking wet. I don't set up to be a beauty but when my hair is waved and dressed I admit it is my chief attraction—and Dick always admired its blonde color so. But just then, with the water all through it, my hair looked a muddy brown, lank and dripping as seaweed. Still, I didn't want Leone to lose her train, so I wrung my hair as dry as I could, threw Turkish towel around my shoulders—I had on my oldest morning jacket naturally—and hurried down."

"There in the library sat Leone in a distracting golf costume, with an extra marcel wave and pompadour and the loveliest tinge of rose on her cheeks—really, she is getting to be an artist with drug-store color—and across the room sat Dick! He looked as astonished as I felt and the furniture whirled around with me, such were my emotions.

"If I had tried perhaps I could have made myself look worse, but I doubt it. Nobody knows that my nose is large when my hair is fluffed out or that the curve in my cheekbones is too prominent when they are shaded by my pompadour, but I've no doubt Dick made the discovery on the spot as I stood there a living image of rage and despair."

"Oh!" Leone said, still in her sweet voice, looking angelically pitying. "I wasn't in such a hurry as all that! I called to ask you to go golfing with Dick and myself, but of course I see you can't get ready in time. I think it is such a good plan always to be dressed ready to start anywhere at a moment's notice. I always am and it is such a comfort. Well, we must be running on. Good-by, dear!"

"Then she dragged Dick away, leaving me still opening and shutting my mouth, doing the stranded mermaid act."

"Did you ever hear of anything more fendish?" It all looked so accidental to Dick—and even if it were explained to him, being a man, he never would see the fine points of Leone's diabolical scheme.

"Always dressed!" It takes her three hours to get ready to take a street car!"

"Here she comes," said the girl in brown, hastily. "How becoming that hat is to you, Leone! It hides your high forehead so nicely! I gave mine like it to the laundress!"

"You were wise," responded Leone sweetly. "It takes a striking type of a girl to wear this style effectively. I must hurry, as I am to meet Dick for the matinee!"

"Oh," said the girl with the bracelet, raising her eyebrows. "I am so glad you are going! Poor Dick was so disappointed when he asked me and I had to refuse him. I told him I was sure he could get you to go."

"There," said the gold-bracelet girl, as Leone faded away, "we gave her something to think about."

Doan's Ointment Cures Eczema And Itching Piles. Salisbury People Recommend It. One application of Doan's Ointment stops any itching. Short treatment cures eczema, itching piles, salt rheum—any skin eruption of skin itching. It is the cheapest remedy to use, because so little of it is required to bring relief and a cure. Here is Salisbury testimony to prove it: Michael Schults, Barkley Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "Doan's Ointment is the best preparation of its kind that I ever saw. I was all broken out with an eruption like eczema. Small water blisters would appear and itch and scabs would form. The skin on my hands cracked up, got rough and sore so that I could hardly use them. Doan's Ointment was recommended to me by a friend, who had been cured of a similar eruption of several years standing and I got a box at White and Leonard's drug store. I applied it several times and the eruption soon disappeared. I have had no return of the trouble since." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doans and take no other.

—Some years ago a topographer was sent out from Washington to make a survey of what was then Payne Prairie, Florida, a bit of land about eighty five miles in extent. The survey was made and the prairie described. Three or four years later a new surveying expedition found that this land had been transformed into a body of water, and it was put on the map as Lake Alachua. It developed that this lake prairie plays a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde game with itself, sometimes appearing as one and sometimes as the other.

Good Cough Medicine For Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many others, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. P. Starobin, of Ripley, W. Va., says, "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale at Toolson's Drug Store.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

A MODEL DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

(Dec. 8, '07—(Ruth 1:14-22))

Jeremy Taylor, a noted English divine, says of the book of Ruth, that, like a beautiful jewel it lies in the Old Testament, between the ermine of the Judges and the purple of the Kings. It contains but four brief chapters but the story it tells is of universal interest, for it is the old, old story of love and loyalty.

Briefly sketched it is as follows: In a time of famine in Judea a Hebrew family emigrated to the land of Moab. The family consisted of four persons; Elimelech and Naomi the father and mother; and Mahlon and Chilion, the two sons. Soon the young men married two of the Moabitish women; the name of one was Ruth, and the name of the other was Orpah. But man proposes, and God disposes. Afflictions fell upon the home in which they all resided. The three men died, and there were three graves in heathen soil, and three desolate widows were left to weep alone.

And then Naomi got homesick. The aged matron felt she could no longer endure the separation from her native land, and she resolved to return to her remaining kindred in the home of her fathers. So she called her daughters-in-law to her side and gave them her decision and left it for them to decide what course they would pursue.

There was a moment of hesitation and then Orpah kissed the Hebrew matron and went back to Moab, to her people and kin. Her name never appears again in the sacred records. She came into the field of vision and then went out like a shooting star. What became of her no one knows, she vanished utterly from the scene. Ruth on the other hand made a different choice. She put her arms around Naomi and remembering her marriage vows, even though death had separated her from her husband, she said: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people and thy God my God; where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried." And though she did not know it, the most momentous results hinged upon that decision. That decision got her life story in the Bible. That decision made her the wife of the wealthy Boaz, made her the great-grandmother of King David, Israel's greatest monarch, made her the ancestress of the Lord Jesus Christ.

One of the interesting lessons of this old time story is the light which is thrown upon that time-worn subject of jest and witicism, the mother-in-law. Naomi occupied that relation toward Ruth; the Moabitish woman had married the son of Naomi, and he had taken her home to his mother's house. And such had been her treatment there, so cordially and so tenderly loved, both for the son's sake and her own, that when the shadow of death had crossed the threshold of the house, and Ruth was bereft of her companion, so close had become the attachment between the two that Ruth would not be separated from the woman who had been to her a real mother. She cast in her lot with her deliberately, she was ready and willing to give up her old home, her childhood friends, her native land, all her kindred in Moab, without a sigh of regret, and to take that new and unknown journey with Naomi away to far Judea, to face new experiences and enter upon a new career, because of her loyalty to her dead husband's memory, and her love for her mother-in-law.

"The voice I heard this passing night; was heard

In ancient days by emperor and clown;

Perhaps the self same song that found a path

Through the sad heart of Ruth,

She stood in tears amid the alien corn."

But that is Keats' poetry and not fact. There is not the slightest evidence of its truth. Ruth never suffered a pang of homesickness.

Her marriage was to her a new birth into a world which was totally different from the old one, and she outgrew it. And when the time of decision came, so close had been the ties that had been woven about her heart by the Hebrew family, that she was bound to them with bonds of love stronger than death. "She took her with her mother-in-law to far off Judea without a murmur and without a sigh. Such recognition of the family relation would in the majority of cases settle the question of the worn jest most effectually.

We recognize the fact that there are two sides to this as to all other questions, but the probability is that in the vast majority of cases in which the mother-in-law produces friction in the family, there is a failure on both sides to adjust themselves to the inevitable new relations.

Ruth was a model daughter-in-law, and her example shines out on the page of Holy writ in letters of light for the guidance of all her kind.

Types of "Phobias."

There is a class of well defined "phobias," as they are called, with which nerve sufferers are plagued.

"Monophobia," or fear of being alone, "catastrophobia," or fear of closed-up spaces, a "goraphobia," or fear of crowds or of great open spaces, "insomniaphobia," or fear of not going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for all these and similar mental miseries writes Dr. Samuel McComb in "Good Housekeeping," is "auto-suggestion."

THE SONG OF THE LIGHT.

By Eayth Pratt Dickins.

I lift my head where the blind winds spread
The flinging, stinging snow,
My beacons rise like watchful eyes
Where the torn white breakers flow:
I stand apart like the mother heart
To watch and warn my own While the wild storm whips my battling ships
Till their tortured timbers groan.

I fling my light through the fearful night
To bid death's darkness flee,
And hope awake in the hearts that ache
With the wonder of the sea;
Oh, I light them home o'er the blinding foam,
I send them forth to the fight;
My far lights shine like a sleepless
At the edge of the lonely night

And down, far down through the seaweed brown,
On the shelving, white sea floor,
Where the spent ships ride on an aimless tide
As the storms above them roar,
My quivering beam lights up the dream
Of the lonely sailor's sleep:
Like a prayer it lies on his weary eyes
In the endless dark of the deep.

When the sky is spread with the evening's red,
And the tattered sails are furled,
And my ships beat in from the wreck and din
Of the trails of all the world;
Oh, calm and strong as their own home song,
I scan the opaled shore,
As looks the soul toward love's far goal
And frets at life no more. —Sel.

Beware Of Frequent Colds.

A succession of colds or a protracted cold is almost certain to send in chronic catarrh, from which few persons ever wholly recover. Give every cold the attention it deserves and you may avoid the disagreeable disease. How can you cure a cold? Why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended.

Mrs. M. White, of Butler, Tenn., says: "Several years ago I was bothered with my throat and lungs. Someone told me of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I began using it and it relieved me at once. Now throat and lungs are sound and well. For sale at Toolson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

CASTORIA

THE AGED REMEMBERED.

Large Response To Those In The Winter Of Life. Made By The Kind At Heart.

Our national Thanksgiving has just passed, and we should, as individuals, give thanks for our many mercies and blessings. In what better way can we do so, than by endeavoring to relieve the wants and necessities of those less favored. This desire was shown on the part of the teachers and scholars of the Primary and Intermediate Department of our schools, by taking part of their Thanksgiving offering to the Home for the Aged. The teachers were very liberal in their gifts. The children, about four hundred in number, went, not only with their arms full of flowers and good things, but their faces beaming with joy because they were doing what they could to contribute to the comfort, and happiness of these dear old people.

What brightens the lives of those who have passed the dividing line of youth and old age and around whom the lights and shadows are falling, more than to know they are remembered and respected by the young.

The Board and recipients desire to thank the teachers, scholars and all kind friends who remembered the Home on Thanksgiving, and also the one with whom the thought first originated.

SHARPTOWN.

The tidal wave of Thanksgiving from so high last week that even the reporter became submerged in the flood and when he got out it was too late to report the news of the week, consequently will have to give you a few items a little late.

The launching of the two thousand ton Barge, "Severn," built by the Sharptown Marine Railway Co., for the P. Dory Co. of Baltimore was one of the important events that took place last Friday week and we think worthy of notice. She very gracefully slid from her stocks into the water, making a complete semicircle crossing the river and stopping on the Dorchester shore. Mr. P. Dory was here on Tuesday and was very much pleased with his boat. Capt. M. A. Woolford, of Baltimore is her master and she will sail in a few days.

Miss Ruth Gravenor and Miss Laura Buckson, of Dover Academy, who have been visiting Miss Gravenor's parents returned on Monday last.

Al Rayno arrived on Tuesday from Gloversville, N. J., which is 500 feet above sea level and he reports snow two feet deep and sleighing. He was accompanied by his brother, Archie, of Clinton, Mass.

Miss Grace Brody made a business trip to Baltimore this week and is showing a large and cheap stock of coats and millinery.

PARSONSBURG.

Mr. G. W. Parsons, Mrs. S. P. Parsons and Mrs. G. A. Parsons are appointed as a committee to purchase an organ for the M. E. Church here.

Miss Anne Layfield expects to have a new house erected on North Main Street.

We hope the Gas question will be the means of a big boon to this section.

MARRIED IN TENNESSEE.

Mr. Wm. J. Ennis Goes To One Of The Southern States For A Bride. Marries Mrs. Emmert.

Mrs. Keffie Robinson Emmert, who was a year ago divorced from her husband, William B. Emmert, a wealthy coal operator, and who later won in the contest for the custody of their children, a boy and girl, is again a bride. She was married at the home of her brother, Dr. Frank P. Robinson, at Greenville, Tenn., to W. J. Ennis, a business man of Salisbury, Md. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John S. Aiken, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Greenville. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for the home of the groom.

The bride is a sister of Bird M. Robinson, a New York railroad magnate, and until recently president of the Mobile, Jacksonville and Kansas City Railway. Her former husband married Miss Myrtle Johnson, of Pennington Gap, Lee county, Va., soon after the decree of divorce from his first wife was granted. Since his marriage and the awarding of the custody of the children to their mother, the latter has been keeping a store in Bristol in order to support her children independent of the aid of her wealthy brother.

Learning that his former wife was about to marry again, Mr. Emmert, on an occasion when he called to see the children recently, is said to have extended to her congratulations and wished for her much happiness in her second marriage. Master Paul Emmert will go with his mother to Maryland, while the daughter, who is now 14 years old will remain in a Nashville boarding school, where she is a pupil for the second year.—Baltimore Sun, December 11th.

Tribute To The Misses Humphreys from Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md.
To the Editors Salisbury Advertiser.
Will you allow a Salisbury boy by birth to add his affectionate recognition to the many truly deserved tributes paid the late Misses Leonora and Frances Humphreys in your issue of October 19th sent me.

My earliest boyhood recollections recall the personality with Mrs. E. V. Spence, their sister, as vividly to-day as it did then when I saw them on Sunday mornings wending their way to the Old Presbyterian Church in my native town. My impression then as now made me feel the living realities of vital religion lived in their lives from them and many other friends of my boyhood days and young manhood to October 1898, when I became a resident of this city, have made an indelible impression on my heart and life and strengthened me with an inspiration to follow them as they followed their Maker truly. They were inseparable in their lives for good and noble purposes and not long separated to meet again in blissful reunion in heaven. Other scenes and friends have occupied the writer in business, social and religious influences, but no place is as dear and hallowed as the native hearth in which I was reared, educated and prepared for the responsibilities of life, and the dust where father, mother and friends of the days of yore are silently entombed, is the Mecca of all my hopes here and here after. The three Graces never had a more living reality to me than the lives of the three sisters, the Misses Humphreys.

Sudden Death Of Dr. Lankford Of Tyaskin.

The death of Dr. A. J. H. Lankford, of Tyaskin Friday afternoon came suddenly of heart failure.

Up to the time of his death he was apparently enjoying the best of health, and was actively engaged in his practice until a few hours before his demise.

Dr. Lankford was a classmate at the Medical Department of the University of Maryland, of Dr. F. M. Slemmons, of Salisbury, and was graduated from that institution in 1880. He has been actively engaged in his profession since that time. He was born in Somerset county but has lived in Tyaskin, for nearly forty years.

Deceased is survived by two sons, B. W. B. Lankford, of Tyaskin, and Chas. Lankford of Nanticoke, and one daughter, Mrs. John R. Robertson of Nanticoke.

NO THIRD TERM

For President, Says Roosevelt. How His Declaration Is Regarding As Affecting Parties and Policies.

President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a third term. All doubt on this point was Wednesday night dispelled by the authoritative statement from the White House that Mr. Roosevelt still adheres to the declaration of renunciation made on the night of the election three years ago. In the statement just issued President Roosevelt says he has not changed and shall not change the decision communicated to the American people in 1904.

It appears that the President had been awaiting the call for the Republican National Convention to afford the proper opportunity for making his position clear and unmistakable, thus leaving the field clear for Fairbanks, Taft, Cannon, Knox, Foraker and other declared or receptive candidates for the Republican nomination.

The President's Statement.

The President's statement follows: On the night after election I made the following announcement. "I am deeply sensible of the honor done me by the American people thus expressing their confidence in what I have done and have tried to do. I appreciate to the full the solemn responsibility this confidence imposes upon me, and I shall do all that in my power lies not to forfeit it. On the fourth of March, next, I shall have served three and a half years, and this three and a half years constitute my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form, and under no circumstance will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

I have not changed and shall not change the decision thus announced.

Leaves No Room For Doubt.

The announcement that the President would not accept the Republican nomination, if tendered, came at too late an hour to become generally known in political circles, but among those who learned of it, Democrats and Republicans alike, the feeling was general that it left no element of doubt in the Presidential situation, so far as relates to the third term talk, and that it definitely eliminated Mr. Roosevelt from the contest now being waged. Some Democrats, however, express a belief that a Roosevelt stampede in the Republican Convention would shake his resolution, and that he would prove no exception to the historic precedent that no American citizen ever refused a Presidential nomination.

Administration Republicans declared that the announcement gives a great impetus to the Taft boom, while the Democrats, many of the leaders of which party waited to attend the meeting of their National Committee today, are shouting that it means "Bryan in a walk."

Opinions Of Some Democrats.

Among the Democrats who commented on the President's statement was Senator Tillman, who said: This is by way of documentary evidence that the President has seen the handwriting on the wall. It means that Bryan will be the next President of the United States. Roosevelt is the only possible Republican candidate who could be considered formidable.

John Sharp Williams, leader of the minority in the House, said: I believe I am one of the few Democrats in public life in the country who has been saying all along that the President would not run for a third term. I believed he had too much knowledge of history to run the risk of threatening Republican institutions with perpetuity of tenure in the Presidency. I also thought he was a man of so much pride that even if he had come to regret his after election utterance, he would still stand to his word. I think the third term issue would have made Mr. Roosevelt the weakest man the Republican party could have nominated, not withstanding the fact that he is personally the most popular Republican in the country today.

Mr. Bryan Expected It.

Commenting on the positive announcement of President Roosevelt that he would not be a candidate for a third term, Mr. William J. Bryan said: I have assumed from the beginning that the President would not be a candidate. The statement he issued the night of the election left no room for misunderstanding, and I have felt that his friends were doing him an injustice in suggesting that he would change his position on the subject.

BAREHEADEDNESS.

Being Experimented With in Baltimore For Neuralgia. Finding It Beneficial—If Nerve.

Apart from its traditional honor of being the dwelling place of the prettiest girls in the world, Baltimore apparently is not unlikely to become known as a city where men have abandoned hats and rely only on their hair to withstand the wintry blast.

It may be said that it is logical to presume that because Baltimore has so many fair maidens the men naturally are compelled to go bareheaded, but that will mean implication is refuted by the fact that most of the devotees of the fad of going hatless are married. Rather doubtful refutation, but perhaps sufficient.

Mr. Jesse Reifsnider, of 208 North Gilmore street, a business man rather well-known downtown, is the latest recruit to the ranks of the "bareheaded throng." Mr. Reifsnider, however, disclaims the idea that he is the disciple of anyone.

When seen yesterday he said: "I stopped wearing my hat last summer, and since then I have never carried one. I followed the lead of no one and just left my hat off as a beneficial measure."

"Was your hair coming out?" he was asked, that having been the usual reason assigned by the other devotees.

"No," he answered, "I had a sufficiency of hair. Of course, going without a hat has made mine thicker, but my real object in discarding my hat was to cure myself of nervous headaches, from which I suffered many years. I started last winter to go without my headgear, but found that the sudden change in the cold weather did not agree with me, and I waited until this summer. Since then and ever since the weather has been chilly I have suffered no ill effects. On the other hand I have been cured completely of pains in my head."

Does Not Feel Embarrassed.

"Did you not feel embarrassed; does not everyone stare at you?"

"Yes, but I am not embarrassed. I do not care for the opinions of anybody else. There are some who laugh at me when I go along the street without a hat, but I do not mind them. I would not carry my hat in my hand. I don't own one; I don't use them at all. I simply have the courage of my convictions and do not fear the comments of any one. My theory is that one should get all the good out of life that is possible, and when I discovered that I could cure my ailments by going without a hat I left it off, without consulting the world in general as to what it might think."

"Do you believe the same theory applies to the other parts of the body?"

"Yes," in some particulars. I need to suffer from rheumatism. I started several years ago to wear thin gauze underclothing and I find that my rheumatism has disappeared. Bundling the body with clothing does not protect it from disease."

"Do you think it will ever be the general custom to dispense with hats?"

"It would be nothing new for the world. Our forefathers did not wear hats on in their lives, and not a one of them was ever bald or got a cold in his head. Indians are nice people in their way until the white man came and in addition to introducing him to hats, gave him bad whiskey and other 'conventional' things."

Mr. Reifsnider is a man of striking appearance, medium sized, with white hair and "sideboards," he attracts much attention as he walks along the street bent on business missions, lacking a hat and wearing an overcoat.

Other Believers.

Another believer in fresh air for the head is Mr. George B. Ely, one of the bailiffs on the staff of Judge Dobler, now sitting in the Criminal Court.

"I have a plenty of hair and I have no ailments that amount to anything," said Mr. Ely, who is young and athletic; but I never wear an overcoat and often go bare. In summer I have gone weeks without putting a hat on my head. Of course I always carry it in my hand because I don't want to be conspicuous on the street, but I seldom wear it. Even in winter I often discard it and walk bareheaded."

Dr. Thomas Shearer, 905 North Charles street, who first brought the fashion of "bareheadedness" into the glare of publicity, when seen yesterday at his home said that he was still going without a hat, and instead of suffering any ill effects was in reality gaining much benefit from the practice.

Dr. Shearer said: "I stopped wearing a hat for two reasons. One was that my hair was coming out and the other was that I frequently suffered from colds in the head. Since I left off my hat my hair has grown and I no longer have colds. I do not say that I shall never wear a hat," he said in answer to this question. "I don't know what"

NATIONAL CONVENTION

Of Democrats To Be Held July 7 In Land Of Sun Kissed Skies. Resolutions For Publicity.

"Denver, July 7, 1908," is place and time for the next Democratic National Convention chosen Thursday by the Democratic National Committee at the conclusion of its session in Washington.

Denver Made Big Offer.

Denver offered to furnish the hall and a cash donation of $100,000. Louisville offered a hall and $30,000. Chicago simply offered a hall and the expenses of the convention, while St. Paul offered practically nothing. Denver's offer was the identical one which had been offered to the Republican National Committee last Saturday, and which it declined. It was the best offer made to the Republicans, but was thrust aside because Chicago was regarded as the best convention city and because of certain political considerations, including opposition to the Taft movement. There were a few additions to the delegation of "boosters" from Denver, but the proposition submitted to the committee was the same one which was laid before the Republicans, pointing to the advantages of Colorado and its "sun-kissed" skies.

This Convention will be farther west than any other convention of the two great parties that has ever taken place. Heretofore neither the Democratic nor the Republican party has ever gone farther west than Missouri. In 1900 the Democratic party went out to Kansas City. With that exception neither party has ever gone beyond the banks of the Mississippi. Both parties have held several conventions in St. Louis, and in 1892 the Republican convention was held in Minneapolis. There did not seem to be much competition among the cities this year for the honor and profit of having the Democratic convention. Denver offered the best inducements and got it. The only objection which can be offered to this selection is the remoteness of the city and the heavy cost to which a great majority of the delegates will be subjected in reaching it. It is about 3,000 miles from the Atlantic seaboard, from which a large portion of the delegates to the convention will be sent. Denver, however, will be much more convenient than Chicago or Baltimore to Prince David, of Honolulu, if that distinguished statesman, who put 16 to 1 in the Kansas City platform, should again be a member of the convention.

The remoteness of Denver is the only objection that can be raised against it. It is a beautiful city near the foot of the Rocky Mountains. From Denver the mountain range looms up in almost startling magnificence. The sight of the Rockies and the vast plains that must be crossed to reach them from the East, is an ample compensation for the long journey. The hotels of Denver are excellent and the summer climate is delightful. The date selected for the meeting of the convention, July 7, is about the usual time. It is some time later than the Republican convention, and the Democrats, if wisdom rules in their councils, will have ample opportunity to take advantage of any mistakes their opponents may make. It so happens that July 7 was the date of the meeting of the convention at Chicago that first nominated Mr. Bryan. Many will consider that synchronism significant.

Declared For Publicity.

At the first session Col. R. M. Johnson, of Texas, presented the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the Democratic National Committee cordially approves the movement now under way to secure publicity in the States as well as in the nation, of money contributed and expenditures made by any association, committee or other organization for political purposes.

A significant feature of the gathering of the national committee was the development of a movement to prevent the instruction of State delegations for the national convention.

—The Board of Lady Managers of the Peninsula General Hospital desire to thank all those persons, who aided, in any way, in the Oliver Cromwell entertainment, especially the participants, who so kindly contributed their time and talent toward making it a success. They also wish to express their appreciation of the services of the musicians and the kindness of the editors of the town papers.

Dr. Shearer then told of suffering from cold in his finger tips and feet during the winter. When asked if he thought men would ever revert to sandals for footwear he said he would not like to discuss such an intricate problem.

Many of the Hopkins students are following Dr. Shearer's advice and are going barefoot, and little by little the ranks of the "barefoot" are increasing.

The Company has now booked one hundred and fifty names, all of which are from the best people of our city. There are hundreds more just such citizens who will send in their names shortly, and the Company will have all the work they will be able to do all winter putting in pipes ready for all those who will want to use gas in the spring. RELIEF MIXED OFTEN.

Druggists Hear Much Praise For This Simple Home Made Mixture.

"Some remarkable stories are being told about town and among the country people coming in of this simple home made mixture curing Rheumatism and Kidney trouble. Here is the recipe and directions for making: Mix by shaking well in a bottle one half ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion, one ounce Compound Karkon three ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla. Take as a dose one teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime.

No change need be made in your usual diet, but drink plenty of good water.

This mixture writes one authority in a leading Philadelphia newspaper, has a peculiar tonic effect upon the kidneys; cleansing the clogged up pores of the eliminative tissues, forcing the kidneys to sift and strain from the blood the uric acid and other poisonous waste matter, overcoming Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary troubles in a short while.

A New York druggist who has had hundreds of calls for this ingredient since the first announcement in the newspapers last October stated that the people who once try it "swear by it" especially those who have Urinary and Kidney trouble and suffer with Rheumatism.

The druggists in this neighborhood can supply the ingredients which are easily mixed at home. There is said to be no better blood cleansing agent or system tonic known and certainly none more harmless or simple to use.

—Almost simultaneously with the resurvey of the Alaskan boundary, which deprives Canada of a strip and, news comes from Ottawa that as a result of the explorations of Captain Bernier in the arctic, a total area of at least five hundred thousand square miles is claimed for Canada. It would be rash to say that a narrow strip of the Alaskan gold fields is worth hundreds of square miles of arctic island, when one recalls the flippant remarks made, not many years ago about the worthlessness of Alaska.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with Local Applications, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quick medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testinonials free.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF ECZEMA

Affected Hands, Arms and Legs—Endured Terrible Itching and was Unable to Sleep—Would Tear the Bandages to Scratch the Skin—In less than One Week

CURED BY THE CUTICURA REMEDIES

"I had eczema nearly fifteen years. The affected parts were my hands, arms and legs. They were the worst in the winter time and were always itchy, and I could not keep from scratching them. I had to keep both hands bandaged all the time, and at night I would have to scratch through the bandages as the itching was so severe, and at times I would have to tear everything off my hands to scratch the skin. I could not rest or sleep. I had several physicians treat me but they could not give me a permanent cure, nor even could they stop the itching. After using the Cuticura Soap, one box Cuticura Ointment and two bottles Cuticura Resolvent for about six days the itching had ceased, and now the sores have disappeared and I never felt better in my life than I do now. Edward Worell, Band 20th, U. S. Infantry, Fort Crook, Nebraska.

The most torturing and disgusting humors, eczemas, rashes, itchings, irritations, and inflammations of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair of infants, children, and adults, are instantly relieved and speedily cured by the Cuticura Remedies, when all else fails.

Complete External and Internal Treatment for Every Humors of Eczema, Children, and Adults consists of Cuticura Soap, one box Cuticura Ointment, and two bottles Cuticura Resolvent for about six days the itching had ceased, and now the sores have disappeared and I never felt better in my life than I do now. DEATH IN A NEW GUISE.

Scheme That Landed a Hungarian Judge in Town Jail.

In a little village on the Hungarian frontier, not far from Pressburg, a peasant woman recently recovered 400 kronen ($17) from her husband in America.

She promptly deposited it in the local branch of the Post Office Savings Bank, and then the next day went to withdraw the whole amount. The bank official was somewhat surprised, and asked for an explanation, when she said that Death had appeared to her during the night and "promised" to take her away with him unless she had the 400 kronen ready for him the next night.

The gendarmes were communicated with, and when "Death" made his promised appearance he was found to be very much alive, in the person of the local Judge.

The woman's money, adds a Vienna correspondent who sends the story, is still in the bank, and the Judge is in jail.

How London Was Hoaxed.

In 1860 one of the most successful and perhaps the least harmful of all fools' hoaxes was perpetrated. A complimentary card was sent out inviting the public to an entertainment at the Tower of London:

ADMIT THE BEARER TO VIEW THE WASHING OF THE WHITE LIONS.

On the 1st APRIL, at Twelve precisely. Admitted only at the WHITE GATE. So ran the cards, London went in an uproar, and cabmen made small fortunes. "The better the day, the better the deed." Doubtless it was because the trick was played on a Sunday that it proved the most successful of any on a large scale. Many went away convinced of the reality of the spectacle but that they had missed it through failing to find the White Gate.

At the Marriage Fair.

An annual marriage fair at Ecaus-stus, Belgium, resulted in twenty-seven matrimonial engagements, and it is probable that about a dozen more bachelors will shortly make up their minds to enter the state of wedlock. Every year this fair is held, so that instead of emigrating the young men may settle down at home. Maidens and bachelors lurch together and opportunities are thus afforded for forming acquaintances. The young women wear their best dresses and the bachelors are encouraged by motives posted in the market place such as "Abachelor is only half a man."

Explaining the Motive.

The motive of these people, said Bishop Doane, discussing married people who quarrel "is like the motive of a Scot who was found weeping one day. 'Eh, Saunders, mon,' said a neighbor, peeping in at the open door, attracted by the sounds of woe which came from the fire-side. 'What's ailing ye?' 'Oh, dear—oh, dear!' sobbed Saunders. 'Donald Mackintosh's wife is dead.' 'Awful!' said the neighbor, 'what o' that?' 'She's no relation o' yours, ye ken.' 'I know she's not, but it just seems as if everybody's gettin' a change but me.'"

Work of Sand Dunes.

It is stated that along the Lincolnshire Coast the sand dunes which there fringe the shore are moving steadily inland. This, says the London Globe, is due to the wind from the sea blowing the sand from the face of the hills over to the back. At Mablethorpe it is said that two acres of the property of individual have thus been buried in sand. And at Anderby what used to be a field behind the dunes is now a sandy waste 40 yards in front.

Hibernation of Bats.

Nearly all bats have the faculty of hibernating. Their hibernation, however, is not perfect—that is to say, that when the warm days occur in the middle of winter they wake up, together with the insects which are their food. Still, theirs is a true sleep, with very low rate of pulse, heart action and respiration. Probably they would endure immersion in water for an hour or two without drowning, as other hibernators have been found to do.

Conditions in Bulgaria.

From the latest published statistics Bulgaria does not seem to be a workman's paradise. The number of town workpeople, men, women and children, is only 6,149. The average wages are exceedingly low, about 20 cents for a 12-hour day for men and women and 10 cents for children. Scarcely 15 per cent of them earn 35 cents a day, and these are all skilled mechanics.

First Mint Julep.

Common mint is in Greece and Italy so old that Ovid derived its name from Menthe, a young Greek woman who, by the enmity of a harum-scarum goddess, was converted into the plant whose oil is now an essential part of the stock of the druggist, the candy-maker and the cafe impresario.

Hold the Tobacco Record.

Germany once held the record for the consumption of tobacco per head, but it is now held by the Belgian who consumes 6.21 pounds yearly. United States comes next with 5.40 pounds; Germany, 5.44, and Great Britain, 1.95 pounds.

For any of the ordinary diseases of the skin Chamberlain's Salve is excellent. It not only cures the itching and smarting but effects a cure. For sale at Ecaus-stus Drug Store.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run down. Burdock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freijoy, Monson, Conn.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Take the oil out of the can, turn or bruise at once. Pains can not stay where it is used.

HE'D DONE ENOUGH.

Was Not Pleased that Greatness Should be Thrust Upon Him.

In a western Kentucky town Ben Watson had saved the life of Myra Underhill. Miss Underhill had been overturned in a creek with a swift current, and the act of young Watson was a very heroic one. He had saved the life of the girl after she was sinking for the third time, and had barely strength to pull himself and the young woman to shallow water.

The news soon spread, and Ben Watson was hailed as the real, live hero of the village.

Aunt Tabby Wilson, the oldest woman in the village, the mother of the little colony, was loud in praise of the heroism of the young man, and at once declared that Ben and Myra must get married. "Ben saved Myra's life," she said, "and now they must marry and be happy every afterward, just as they do it in the story books."

But Ben demurred; the arrangement did not suit him.

"Why not marry Myra, Ben?" said the old lady. "She is yours, and you must have a wedding." "She is a nice girl, all right," replied Ben, "but I don't think we oughter marry. Seems to me," he went on, "I have done enough for Myra."

Living Death.

"The late Senator Morgan," said a resident of Selma, "was a keen nature student, and nature faking was as abhorrent to him as to the greatest personages in the land."

"I once saw Senator Morgan throw down a magazine with a sneer."

"Another nature fake," he exclaimed. "Why, these things are as absurd as—as absurd as—"

"And then he laughed and said that it reminded him of an address that he once heard an absent minded missionary make."

"In China, dear friends," said the missionary, "human life is regarded as of but slight value. 'Indeed, if a wealthy Chinaman is condemned to death, he can easily hire another to die for him; and I believe many poor fellows get their living by thus acting as substitutes.'"

In a Roundabout Way.

"I had a high compliment from Miss Peachey the other evening," remarked the boarder with the expansive forehead.

"What was it?" asked the other boarders.

"I told her she was a little ducky, and she said I was a horrid old man drake."

"Where is the compliment in that?"

"Don't you see, you bunch of leatherheads? A mandrake is a May apple."—Chicago Tribune.

Misunderstood.

"Your sentence is to be suspended," began the merciful court.

"Great Scott, judge!" exclaimed the prisoner, "if I'd known chicken stealing was a hanging offense I wouldn't have stole."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Forgot Something.

When the train that conveyed President Roosevelt through Virginia on his trip South stopped at Charlottesville a negro approached the President's car and passed aboard a big basketful of fine fruit, to which was attached the card of a prominent grower.

In the course of time the orchardist received a letter of acknowledgment from the White House expressing the President's appreciation of the gift and complimenting the donor upon his fruit. The recipient of the letter was, of course greatly pleased, and feeling sure that his best services would be much interested in the letter he read it to him. "The darky who served in the capacity mentioned listened gravely, but his only comment was:

"He doan' say nuthin' 'bout sendin' back the basket, do he?"—Success Magazine.

A Centre Shot.

A good country mayor found himself at a table in a large restaurant between two young men who began to make fun of him.

"I see, young sir," he said, "that you are making fun of me. But I assure you that I am neither stupid nor an ass."

"Ah," said one of them, "perhaps you are between the two." "Exactly," was the prompt reply; "I'm between the two."—London Tit-Bits.

Reading Into the Telephone.

A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who has retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephones for about an hour a day and pay her generously by the week for her entertainment.

FOREST MADE FURNITURE

Adirondack Guides Who Are Also Woodworkers.

COMMANDS A BIG PRICE

Furniture Well Designed and Durable Turned Out by Them for Use in Camps—Rustic Chairs and Tables That Attract—All Handmade of Selected Timber.

When an Adirondack guide is really master of his craft he is also a great deal more. In particular he is a skilled, quick and ingenious carpenter and joiner, with an expert knowledge of local woods and a deftness in making articles of furniture from cedar and pine in the round that few urban craftsmen can equal.

For the bedrooms they make beds, usually of pine in the round with the bark removed for the sake of greater cleanliness, sometimes of plank. The washstand is made of tongued and grooved wood and shaped to go into a corner of a room or a tent. It is usually provided with ample shelves for storage.

Sometimes the kindling box is completely covered with small strips of some wood that tenaciously retains its bark. In such case the coloring of the bark is carefully considered, and the box with its hinged lid is beautiful. Structurally also it is excellent, for it is nicely joined in every part.

It is the pride of the carpenter-guide to make use of simple materials ready at hand, and accordingly the hinges of such a box are often contrived of wrought nails cleverly twisted and turned so that they serve their purpose to perfection, and give a permanent and easy working hinge.

Chairs for the bedroom, porch and living room are made in a great variety of shapes from cedar with the bark on. All the parts are fitted together so that the chair is at once strong, comfortable, neat in appearance and stable on its legs. Great arm chairs are made thus with seats of cedar in the round like a miniature corollary road. The braces of the back are made with decorative intent, but structural qualities are rarely sacrificed for decoration.

In some parts of these big chairs the cedar is bent, with the result of decoration and structural excellence. Smaller chairs are made on the same plan, and some are of simpler design.

Tables are made of all sizes and for many purposes. A dining table seating a dozen persons and made of cedar in the round, with planned pine top, has been used in one Adirondack camp for fifteen years. It is in every way admirably suited to its purpose, and the bark remains on the cedar just as when the table was made.

Smaller tables on the same plan are used for many purposes. More decorative tables are made of cedar, some in hexagonal form, others round, with three legs, very tippy but not impracticable.

Still others are made entirely of wood in the round with the bark on. The face of the table in such case is made of small pieces wrought into a pattern or rayed from the center.

It is in ambitious efforts like these that the carpenter guide is apt to be betrayed into bad taste. As often as not, though, his aesthetic mistakes come from his effort to comply with the taste of his employers.

Benches, settees, sewing tables, sofas and even sideboards are made of such rustic materials and upon simple lines. Plant baskets are covered with birch bark, and serviceable cups and pitchers are made of that material.

Excellent linen chests are made entirely of cedar in the round save for an interior lining of pine. Indeed it would be hard to name any article of household furniture which can be made of wood that the guides will not undertake to make from the native material.

Cedar is the favorite wood with the carpenter guides because it is durable and easily worked. Every camp should have some seasoned cedar in the round stored against need.

Wild cherry with the bark on is used for small decorative articles, and with good effect. White and yellow birch are also used; and less often beech. Alder is also used for small articles.

The beautifully cylindrical form of the cedar recommends it for large articles. Pine is much used for large articles.

Nails are commonly used rather than wooden pegs for securing joints. For the more delicate work long slender brads are used. The carpenter guides would rather use copper fastenings, but these make articles of furniture rather expensive. For articles not to be exposed to weather iron nails serve very well.

The work of the guides, made by hand in every part and of carefully selected timber by a highly paid mechanic who refuses to be hurried into anything even the smallest detail, can never be as cheap as furniture produced wholesale by machinery. Its virtue lies in its durability and its fitness for the place it is to fill—New York Sun.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AND THE THIRD TERM.

President Roosevelt has broken his silence on the nomination for a third term, and has reiterated his statement given on the eve of the election for President in 1904, that under no circumstances will he consent to become a candidate for the office again. President Roosevelt has put his refusal to become a candidate on the plane that he does not deem it wise for a man to serve in the high office of President for more than two terms. There are a great many things we differ from with President Roosevelt in policy but this one thing he is certainly right about and is to be greatly commended for his stand, especially when considering the great temptation to which he must have been subjected, when he deliberately for Principle's sake decided to sacrifice his chance for the greatest honor in the gift of the American people.

The principle involved is the old one of "Rotation in Office", and this rotation to a great extent marks the difference between a free and democratic country, and that of one ruled by a monarchy, oligarchy or despotism. If the term of a man's servitude in office is to be an indefinite thing then democracy is but a sham and fraud, and outside of other public reasons it breeds corruption, and the belief that the people are not to be considered, and that the office holders alone are the government and are entitled to all the honors and emoluments of office and other things that naturally belong thereto.

If President Roosevelt's idea and patriotism could be followed all down the line, we would have a more democratic government, a better government, and we would get clear of the baneful effects that always accrue when one man holds the reins of government too long. Under a system such as this Pennsylvania would not so long have suffered under the degrading bossism of a Quay, New York under that of a Tweed or Platt, and various other incidents could be cited all over this country of ours both in state and local government.

Let to Roosevelt be given the credit for his standing by this good old principle that many of the framers of our constitution were in favor of incorporating in our form of government, and although it failed in being incorporated in our constitution, it was adhered to by our first president and greatest of American patriots George Washington.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for Women, overworked, debilitated, nervous "run down," pain racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or constipation, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchitis, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients comprising it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is a strong guarantee of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent or secret medicines for they are neither—being of known composition.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation, headache and biliousness. In vials, a convenient vest pocket remedy.

All the good qualities of Ely's Cream Balm solid, are found in Liquid Cream Balm, which is intended for use in atomizers. That it is a wonderful remedy for Nasal Catarrh is proved by an ever increasing mass of testimony. It does not dry out nor is it under any passages. It always soothes and soothes and goes straight to the seat of the disease. Obsolete old remedies, to wit, including Chamberlain's, are mailed by Ely's Medicine Co., New York.

Thankful For His Blessings.

A few years ago a railway porter wrote to Admiral Bessford of the British Navy saying: "Our home has been blessed with twins, and I write to ask your lordship if you will ask the Princess of Wales if we may call the little girl Princess of Wales Brown and the little boy Lord Charles Bessford Brown." Lord Charles procured the necessary permission from the Princess and sent it, together with his own. A month later came the following from the same man: "My Lord—I am happy to inform you that Lord Charles Bessford Brown is well and hearty and that Princess of Wales Brown died this morning."

Substitute for Beeswax.

A substitute for beeswax has been discovered in the leaves of the rafia palm, a product of the island of Madagascar. The wax is extracted by the simple process of beating the dried leaves on a mat to small bits. The particles are then gathered and bottled. The resultant wax is kneaded into small cakes. Experiments are being made with the new substance to find out its commercial value—whether it may be used for bottling purposes, in the manufacture of phonograph cylinders, etc.

Samples of Bird Music.

Henry Oldys, assistant biologist in the Department of Agriculture, has 1,000 samples of bird music written in popular form so that it is possible for the human voice exactly to imitate the songsters of the field and forest. He has recorded the actual tones, setting them in the proper key, and their reproduction is easy for anybody who can read music symbols. Mr. Oldys has been gathering bird language for 13 years.

Echoes in a Courtroom.

The acoustic properties of the courtroom in London's new Criminal Courts Building are so bad, it is said, that the other day a prisoner who had been sentenced to six months thought he had been sentenced to 12. He said to a warden: "One of the beaks gave me six months and another of 'em gave me six months more." Also, besides echoes, "reverberations" are complained of.

Machine For Shuffling Cards.

Someone has invented a machine for shuffling a deck of cards, and it promises to become popular, as no one can see the cards while they are being shuffled nor are the cards in the least injured. It is said that the machine changes the position of nine out of 10 cards in the pack. It stands about 12 inches high, weighs four pounds and can be attached to any card table in a moment.

Carpet 150 Years Old.

A fine old Axminster carpet is at present in the carpet factory at Wilton, where it is being repaired after having been in use for fully 150 years. It was purchased by the present owner's great-grandfather. Carpets had been made at Wilton for 350 years, but the trade languished and finally topped. No wonder, when a carpet lasted 150 years!

A Well Informed Author.

Zangwill the author is a very well informed man. He was asked recently to write an article for use in a newspaper the next morning on famous trials. He sat down at once and dictated about 3,000 words, covering the famous trials of the past 300 years, a thing few lawyers could do offhand.

Bishop Who Wears a Beard.

The Bishop of Oporto is said to be the only Roman Catholic Bishop in the world who wears a full beard. He was given permission to by the Pope because of the great work he has done in Africa. It is said that he is the first prelate who has ever applied to the Vatican for such permission.

Habits of King Leopold.

It is said that King Leopold of Belgium is the most fussy of all the royal dukes. His beard is his special delight and he has it done up in a silk bag each night to keep it from being mussed.

Fish of the Nile.

The Nile is noted for the variety of its fish. An expedition sent to the British Museum brought home 9,000 specimens.

EASY TO MIX THIS.

Prepare It At Home By Shaking Ingredients Well In A Bottle.

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription as formulated by a noted authority, who claims that he has found a "positive remedy to cure almost any case of backache or kidney or bladder derangement, in the following simple prescription, if taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Karkoon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and again at bedtime.

A well known druggist here at home, was asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, or the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic afflictions with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney and urinary troubles and backache, as it has a peculiar action upon the kidneys structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping them to secrete and filter from the blood the foul and waste matter which causes sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who suffer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

A PAIR OF BLUE SPECTACLES.

Once there was a little boy. And the particular thing about this particular little boy was that he always wore blue spectacles. They were placed over his eyes by a bad fairy when he first began to notice things, and so he saw everything blue—every single thing in the world.

He didn't know a thing about red and yellow, or all the other jolly colors. The trees were blue to him, the flowers were blue, the whole earth, everything everywhere, was blue, blue, blue.

His mother died before he had begun to notice things, and there was nobody to tell what was the matter, because no other people care as mothers do, and he grew up very unhappy. Nothing went right with him. He did not enjoy playing with the little blue boys, and the little blue girls with their floating blue hair were disagreeable to look at, so he sat by himself nearly all of nearly every day, with his eyes on the ground.

One day as he sat thus in the garden, he heard a voice very far above him, saying:

"Look up, little boy."
He looked up, and for the first time he noticed the great high dome of the blue sky. Now, it was right that the sky should be blue, and somehow looking at it made him fell happier, though he didn't know that it was because he was seeing something right for the first time.

Then in the middle of the blue dome he saw a tiny speck. As it grew bigger he saw that it was a fairy. Of course the fairy looked blue, too, but it was at least something new and interesting. "Hello," said the fairy, who was very little and very old and wrinkled, but very pleasant-looking. "What are you thinking about?" "I was wishing I was happy."

"Why aren't you happy?" "Why? Because this is such a blue old world."

"Blue is it? Why, my dear boy, that is all in your eye—excuse me, I mean your spectacles. Now, if you could just look through mine for a minute. Allow me."

The fairy handed him a pair of red spectacles.

The boy took them and put them on over his other ones.

Ho, ho! but that changed things! Everything went purple in a minute—purple trees, purple grass purple sky, even the fairy turned purple.

The boy began to cry. "Take them away!" she said. They make the world unbearable."

"Try these, then," said the fairy, and handed the boy a yellow pair. The boy took off the red ones and put the yellow spectacles over the blue ones.

The boy sighed. "No, no, they do not make me very happy. Oh, I wish everything could be different colors at the same time."

"Put on all three pairs," said the fairy.

So the boy put on the red ones and then the yellow ones, over his own blue spectacles. He looked down at the earth. It was all gray—gray grass, gray stones. He looked up, and saw gray trees and gray sky. The he began to cry. The tears stood in his eyes, ready to roll out on his cheeks.

"Look up at the sun," said the fairy. Quick, before your tears fall!" The boy turned his tear-filled eyes upward. A ray of light straight from the sun shot through those three pairs of spectacles and into the tears in his eyes. Instantly the world swam before him—like the colors in a soap bubble. He saw red, blue, yellow, green, orange, purple. They passed and repassed, then slowly dissolved.

And now, oh most wonderful! a little light struck through to his very soul, and blinded him for a moment, so long had he been used to the blue spectacles.

When he was able to see again, the fairy was gone, and all three pairs of spectacles had vanished. The little boy looked out on a new world, a world with a blue sky, green grass and trees, red tulips and yellow daffodils. Down the garden walk came a party of little boys and girls, with pink cheeks and floating curls of brown and gold, and clothing of many bright colors. The little boy thought he had never seen anything so beautiful.

"Oh, let me play with you, you beautiful children!" he cried; and they held out their arms to him. Then hand in hand, he went with them through the tulips and daffodils and the white sunshine played about them. The little boy's tears were dried, and he forgot all about himself in the joy of the world as it really is; and he became a very happy boy.

—The Reformation Play given by the Lady Board of Managers of the Peninsula General Hospital was an artistic, social and financial success, large audiences being present at both presentations, Monday and Tuesday nights. —In the early evening hours Friday last, Chas. H. Williams, a colored man who resides on Poplar Hill Avenue, entered the home of Mrs. L. D. Collier and ransacked it upstairs and down. Mrs. Collier, who was at home heard the noise of a door closing, and starting to investigate almost ran into him. Williams immediately rushed out of the house through the back door, but Mrs. Collier had recognized him, and a warrant was issued for his arrest. Williams, after his arrest, confessed the crime and acknowledged taking a gold watch, about $5 in money, two razors and a pair of trousers. He was taken before Squire Trader who held him under bail of $500 for the action of the Grand Jury. As Williams was unable to give bail he was committed to jail. This is not Williams first offense as he has served 18 months in the penitentiary for stealing strawberry checks from a party in Fruitland.

ANTI-SALOON PROGRESS

Throughout The State Has Hit Baltimore. Taken Up By Law and Order League.

The next Maryland Legislature will be asked to prohibit saloons on the approaches to all steamboat landings and railroad stations in Baltimore by the Law and Order League of South Baltimore. This has been practically decided upon as a result of the fight against license being granted for saloons on the new Light street.

The fight has only begun, according to Mr. Paul H. Stewart, president of the League. He says:

"The League was formed to wage an active campaign against Sunday liquor selling, slot machines, gambling and low saloons and dives. The work will undoubtedly be broadened to include the whole city. The ways and means of doing this will be decided upon in the course of a few days.

The League will probably organize a great party to go to Annapolis. An appeal will be made to the Legislature to make prohibited territory of the approaches to all steamboat landings and railroad stations. This seems the only way to protect these streets.

Both the Representative of the League and the members of the Board of Liquor License Commissioners vary widely in their statements of the number of saloons on Light Street. This is due to the fact that each side has taken a different viewpoint. Mr. Stewart of the League, says that there are eight saloons on the new Light Street. He states that there are four in the block between Pratt and Camden, three in the block between Camden and Conway and one near Lee Street.

Important Notice to Milk Consumers.

The owners of Byrd Homestead Dairy Farms wish to announce to their patrons and the public that after Jan. 1, 1908, Mr. J. Coston Goslee will sever his connection with that Dairy. They will continue to serve milk from the same herd of 50 Guernsey and Jersey cows. They are about to install an up to date sterilizing plant, which will enable them to cleanse the milk jars thoroughly. This is especially recommended by Boards of Health. The milk will be served from two wagons daily. Phones 298, 334.

Ladies' Fall And Winter SHOES

If we had but one style at each price, we could tell you of them all. But with a dozen or so of variations at each figure, how can we? It's for you to fix your price mark, then come here to be satisfied. If you want a shoe at $4.00, you won't need to look at a single shoe of a different price. Something in our $2.00 line will be sure to please you.

Three dollars is a favorite price with a good many women, but unless they have bought here they don't know the full possibilities of $3.00.

Our $3.50 shoes are smart enough and good enough for almost any foot.

But if you want positively the most elegant and luxurious footwear that can be built, the most exclusive styles, the finest leathers—why pay $4.00 or $4.50 and get it all.

We would like to have every lady in town and surrounding towns and counties bring her shoe ideas right in here.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from nervous disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to every doctor, separate diseases, for which he assumes them to be such, prescribes pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better. The cause would have entirely removed the disease, there by dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and insuring comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured." Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs directly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "fainting girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest remedy ever being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuritis, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms, commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

THE HIGHER LIFE

Selected Cases of Thought from Penn and Pulp of All Sects.

Guiding Our Way.

You may have a box of candles but if they are not lighted the room is dark. You must lift the taper to the candle, and then it glows. And your intellect and memory, imagination and conscience are candles, and it is God who lights them. The greatness of man is the greatness of God in him, as the ripeness of the fruit is the power of the dwelling in the seed.—Rev. John Hunt, Baptist.

Priceless Men in History.

Providential men are priceless. They turn the trend of history. They become the beacons of human progress, kindled upon the dome of the centuries. They illuminate the mental and moral atmosphere of the world. History is the story of their epochal deeds. Civilization is the lengthened shadow of their exalted souls. They come at great intervals representing vast issues, opening new doors, founding new institutions, and founding new civilizations.—Rev. Wm. Bancroft, Methodist Episcopal.

Our Original Gifts.

Man, in his original state, as he came forth from the hands of the Creator, was possessed of three gifts—innocence, peace and immortality. Disobedience to God's laws destroyed the state of innocence in man. Tainted by sin and unable any longer to control passion, man was deprived of that precious gift of peace of heart and mind; as a consequence and a just punishment, that which was intended to be immortal became mortal. Christ came upon earth to restore mankind to His original position.—Rev. Frank Case, Methodist.

Our Teachers and Friends.

The evasion of the authority placed in fathers and mothers is a prolific source of crime and misery. It is the untrained boy who becomes the lawless man. It is the undisciplined girl who wastes her life and makes the tragic mistake of supposing that the doing of one's own will is the road to happiness. We are not in this world to be made happy, but to be made strong. We are not here to be at ease, primarily, any more than a boy's first duty in school is to waste his time. This is the meaning of pain and sorrow and death.

Man's Soul an Exile.

Man's soul is in exile. Like the homing pigeon, when he is released, flies back to God. The race is homeward. Man is not forever satisfied with humanity—divinity is planted within him. With Victor Hugo, every true man, the nearer he approaches the end, the plainer he hears around him the symphonies of the world which invite him. Man knows death does not end all, because when he approaches the grave he feels, with Hugo that he has not said the thousandth part of what there is in him. The soul intuitively reaches for life, and the God who gave man this reach will see to it that it comes to his grasp.

Fruits of Labor.

Many years ago a humble pastor labored for a whole year, with only one person added to the church, and that a boy. But years afterwards that boy, whose name was Robert Moffat, was laboring as a missionary in Africa, and when he returned to England Princes uncovered their heads before him and noblemen invited him to their homes, because he added another kingdom to the church of Christ and brought under the power of the gospel the most savage of African chiefs, given a translated Bible to savages and bestowed upon the world a better geographical knowledge of Africa.

In the Crib of Luxury.

Real life with its hardships and battle its scars and wounds, its give and take, its surprises and growing revelations is too big to be contained in the baby crib of luxury. The attempt to make luxury the measuring rod of life is as foolish as for Simple Simon to go whaling in his mother's water pail! The appeal to luxury as the interpretation of life is the beginning of sorrows for an immortal spirit. The reality, the true reign of life, is subordinated and a painted ship upon a painted ocean made to do duty in place of an actual greyhound of the sea, cleaving the furrowed billows with its adventurous prow.—Rev. Frank Willis, Reformed.

Who Are the Successful?

What is to become of the vast majority of the world, if only those who succeed in overcoming life's handicap? Are there few that will be saved? And if few are saved why was man created only to fail? Jesus answered that question by saying: "Strive to enter in at the straight gate." No man knows how many fail. Perhaps some of the seeming failures may succeed the best, but whether we succeed or fail, we know the rules of the game. We know the laws of life, and we know that hindrances are not meant, in the economy of God, to overwhelm men, but to be conquered and to make men strong. This is not only the law of life, but when we come to look at it more clearly it is the soul's necessity.—Rev. Frank Boynton.

Muscular Pains Cured.

"During the summer of 1903 I was troubled with muscular pains in the instep of my foot," says Mr. H. P. L. of Toronto, Ont. "At times it was so painful I could hardly walk. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was recommended to me, so I tried it and was completely cured by one small bottle. I have since recommended it to several of my friends, all of whom speak highly of it." PRE-COOLING OF FRUIT.

Method Which is a Great Saving to California Growers.

For years there has been great loss from decay in shipping fresh fruits, both citrus and deciduous, from this State to Eastern markets. The railroads have seldom been able to get fruit through on schedule time and the necessary allowance for delay has compelled growers to pick their fruit before it was fully ripe, to the loss of some of the flavor and also to the loss of some of the weight which the fruit would gain if left on the tree. Some fruits—pears, for example—ripen best after picking and are regularly picked quite green, but other fruits do not.

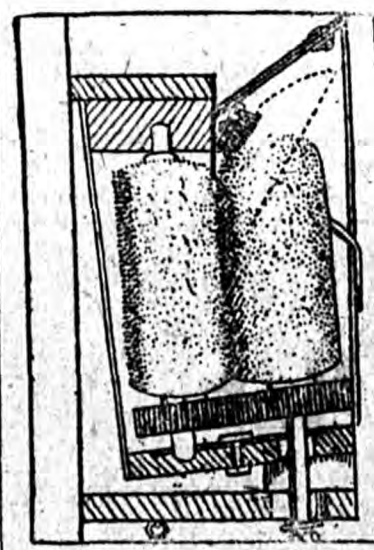

Fruit picked in a temperature in the sun of more than 100 degrees and packed into boxes at once carried very nearly that temperature into the car with it, and it was found that a carload closely packed would probably be more than 1,000 miles on its journey. Heat before being cooled by the ice to a temperature unfavorable to decay, and by that time much of the fruit which was reasonably ripe before picking was in a bad way and went right to pieces when exposed to warm air on arrival.

The evident remedy for that was to cool the fruit before shipment, says the San Francisco Chronicle, and ingenious men got to devising practicable methods of cooling the fruit to a proper temperature before starting the car. This is accomplished by exhausting the air in a car or in a room before loading, and replacing it with air made cool by passing over ice. By the use of machinery the warmed air is continually drawn out and replaced by the cold air, the circulation being continuous. By this method a carload of fruit can in two or three hours be reduced to the temperature in which the spores of decay will not grow and which under former conditions it might not reach for a week after starting on its journey in a refrigerator car. The expense is said not to exceed two or three cents a crate.

The fruit can therefore be allowed to get ripe enough to acquire its distinctive flavor and still reach its destination in far better condition than formerly with correspondingly better prices to growers. Experiments have now been made for a long enough period to demonstrate the value of the process, and cooling plants are being rapidly installed at all shipping stations of importance. When the shipments from a station are not large enough to justify the installation of a plant the cars can be cooled at the first cooling station on the journey. It is evident that within two or three years the cooling plants will be generally installed, and it is believed that the invention will be found one of the most profitable improvements in the art of handling fresh fruits yet made.

Dishwashing Machine.

A radical departure in the construction of dish-washing machines has been made by an Iowa man, as shown in the illustration below. In the majority of such machines the dishes are piled in a receptacle, and the water forced over and around them with great force. This does not wash them—it merely rinses them. In the apparatus shown here the dishes are actually washed, as much as could be done with the human hands. The apparatus consists of a pan for holding the water and a pair of revolving brushes arranged to operate on the opposite faces of the articles to be washed. There is also a small stationary brush which forms a support for the central portion of the dish. The mode of operation will be obvious at a glance. There is no doubt but that the dishes will be thoroughly cleaned, all particles adhering to the dishes being quickly removed by the revolving brushes, which turn the dish around, at the same time bringing each portion into contact with the brushes.

BRUSHES REMOVE DIRT.

Far-Seeing Geology.

The great project for rendering the Rhine navigable right up to the Swiss lakes has brought to light one or two great difficulties that will have to be encountered. It appears that during the 40 years that the river has been embanked the stream has settled three feet deeper in its bed, and there is a hard prospect for Lake Constance, which will become the river's reserve basin. Some day the drift earth from the Rhine will choke it up and make its 300 square miles of site so much plow land. But that will take 12,000 years.

About Digestion.

It is not the quantity of food taken but the amount digested and assimilated that gives strength and vitality to the system. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and enable them to perform their functions. The result is a relief for your food, increased strength and weight, greater endurance and a clear head. Price 25 cents. Sample free. For sale at Tonson's Drug Store, Salisbury, Md.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalence of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a complete bottle and a bottle the size of a tea-cup, sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y. When some Swamp-Root writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Birmingham, N. Y.

What Does It Mean

to let Dividends "accumulate" on a Life Insurance Policy? In many companies it means nothing more than an agreement on the part of the policy-holder, to do without dividends for fifteen or twenty years, and then take whatever dividend the company will be willing to give. Dividends are declared every year in the Mutual Benefit, and the policyholders use them either to help pay premiums or to buy increased insurance. The policies of the contain special and peculiar advantages which are not combined in the policies of any other company. Examine these advantages before placing your insurance. You owe it to your family to have the best.

Mutual Benefit Life Ins. Co.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING

A TALE OF WIDE TIRES.

Their Utility Apparent After the First Demonstration.

A good and practical suggestion to road supervisors and others who have charge of road maintenance may be found in the following tale of the use of the wide, instead of the narrow tire. The story was told to Paul D. Sargent, Highway Commissioner of the State of Maine, by a county commissioner of the same State:

"The heavy teaming in our town is confined mainly to the three miles of dirt road, over which lime rock is hauled from the quarries to the kilns. This teaming has been done for years on 2.5-inch tires, with hind wheels 56 inches and front wheels 50 inches in diameter.

"The resulting repairs, made necessary by the continual hauling of heavy loads on narrow tires, has cost this town thousands of dollars. In order that this might be remedied we made agreement with the lime-rock haulers to furnish them with the wide-tired wheels fitted to their wagon axles, with the understanding that it should fair trial and experiment should prove to be of mutual advantage, the haulers should buy the wheels of the town.

"On consultation with the manufacturers we ordered the sizes above given [rear wheels 44 ins.; front 38 ins.]. They arrived about the first of July, 1905, and from that time until about the 21st of August I used my best endeavors to get them adjusted to the wagons, and used.

"But the haulers claimed that the 44-inch wheels were so much lower than the old ones that the rocks and ruts would 'dig' them; also that they would lower the body so much that the tongue would 'plant' and break the horses' legs. And: Who will pay the damage? was the question.

"As a last resort we put the wheels on one of their wagons, and hauled rock for them one day. Our treasurer hauled the same loads and followed in the old tracks. The road was in a very dangerous condition at this time, and badly rutted, so that even light driving wagons sank to their hubs, in some places. The wide tires soon filled the ruts, so that the wagons with the narrow tires actually hauled more rock on the last or fourth turn that day, than they did in the morning.

"After seeing the work of these wheels for one day, the owner of the wagon wanted the whole equipment immediately, and applications for other three sets came so fast that we were unable to shift the gearing quickly enough. In fact, one teamster drove his team for a week without brakes, in order to have the wide tires sooner. Since that time the wheels have been in constant use, summer and winter.

"At the time of this writing the same amount of rock is hauled in three turns that was formerly hauled per day in four turns by the same teams, and the drivers claim that the work is done easier by the horses. The sand stretch which was the hardest place for the narrow tires is now crossed easily."

Conservatism and Improvement. Few intelligent men will deny that conservatism—adhering to the existing order of things—has done more harm to humanity than the most daring of enterprises; yet opposition to improvement in ways and means for doing the world's work still comes often, if not always from men whose duty it is to be quick to find and adopt better methods and superior appliances for doing the tasks assigned to them, or chosen by them.

Perhaps the most charitable excuse for this conservatism would be that the opponents of progress are too lazy mentally to try to learn or too stupid to succeed in learning whether a proposed change would be better or worse for them. It is so much easier to stick to ancient ways and means than it is to try to determine whether a new device is better than the old.

Possibly this is the reason so many pathmasters and others who are charged with caring for our public roads still oppose, secretly or openly, all proposed changes from the ancient ways of spelling highways, which they continue to call road making.

If such opponents could shake off their mental hostility to mental effort, and use the opportunities and advantages their office gives them to become leaders of their fellows, they might profit largely themselves and do much good for their neighbors.—Good Roads.

ALL FREIGHT CARS

Remembered. "Penny" Completed. The Gigantic Task Started Two Years Ago.

More than a quarter of a million freight and passenger cars on the Pennsylvania system have been repainted and renumbered and it has been announced that the gigantic task which was started nearly two years ago has been completed. It is expected that there will now be none of the confusion which has brought grief to the Pennsylvania's car record office and car accounts of other roads. Troubles arose from the fact that nearly every one of the companies that go to make up that system had its own car numbers. In addition to this the similarity of the legends Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania Company often caused one name to be used when the other should have been.

During the summer of 1906 a committee was appointed to have charge of the renumbering and repainting of all freight and passenger cars. Each of the lesser companies included in the system was assigned a series of consecutive numbers, this series being further divided to indicate kind, class and capacity of car. The result is that the number alone will tell all there is about a car to know, as it can be identified by reference to the official list. To get the new numbers on the cars was a very intricate and complex job.

Agents in the various districts were supplied with a list of the old and new numbers, and when a car bearing the old number came into their territory they had it sent to the shops, where it was repainted and renumbered.

Get Happy.

We are now well into the Christmas season and in less than two weeks the day itself will be celebrated, so that it seems appropriate that we should all take on the so-called Christmas spirit which in the language of the day really means "Get Happy." And why should we not be happy and what is more important still, endeavor to spread happiness to others. We so frequently hear this time of the year called the "little one's season," and so it is and so it should be, but we are not all little ones. Down deep in all our hearts do we not feel the call of childhood if we only listen, the childhood of forgetfulness, of unselfishness and forgiveness. Then why not determine to allow your real self to be the rule and guide of your actions and join in with the rest of us children and make this a roving old fashioned Christmas with turkey and mince pies and gifts and calls and good cheer.

WEALTH GOING TO WASTE.

New Cornstalks May Be Converted Into Alcohol.

Professor Wiley of the Department of Agriculture says that inasmuch as every 100 pounds of cornstalks will yield 6 1/2 pounds of absolute alcohol, it is obvious that the ignorant agriculturist has been allowing an enormous amount of wealth to go to waste.

Say that one acre will yield from 10 to 12 tons of grain stalks, or about 20,000 pounds, and you have a quantity of raw material which will produce 1300 pounds of absolute alcohol, or 216 gallons. Alcohol at the present time is worth 40 cents a gallon.

Ground in a wet condition and dried, cornstalks may be kept indefinitely, and are ready at any time for conversion into alcohol.

Majesty of the People. Queen Victoria had 'id, doubtless some recollection of the theories of the divine right of kings, so when Mr. Gladstone, then Prime Minister, brought her a paper to be signed, she said:

"I cannot sign it. That does not represent my sentiments."

"Madam," said the Premier, "you must sign it."

"Do you say Must to me, Mr. Gladstone? I am the Queen of England."

"Madam, I am the People of England. Sign."

And she signed.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Age and Ability.

Mrs. Eddy was 40 when she discovered Christian Science, just as Mrs. Stowe was 40 when she wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Scott began the Waverley novels when he was 43; Mohammed was 52 when the hehira marked the beginning of his great work; Swedenborg was 54 years old when what is called his illumination began, and if Newton and Darwin had regarded themselves as past their best at 40 there would now be neither the "Principia" nor "The Origin of Species."

The Dreadnought's Fault.

The British battleship Dreadnought proved herself remarkable in many ways on her experimental cruise. She can maintain an economic speed of 17 knots without difficulty, and increase to full power with extraordinary promptitude.

One unsuspected condition, however, has been revealed during her cruise in the Mediterranean. Being heavier than any war ship afloat, she retains her momentum longer. In carrying out evolutions, therefore, she is very sluggish.

Animals at Church Services.

Animals attend a church service in Peru. Pigs, goats, cattle and poultry are brought by their owners to be blessed on All Souls' Day, and the church is turned into a domestic menagerie.

The seats are removed, and the animals can trot about or lie down where they will. After the ceremony the live stock is formally handed over to the monks, who receive little other payment for their services.—Tit-Bits.

Secrecy in Despatches.

Secrecy in the transmission of telegraph despatches in China is to be insured in future by a provision for the decapitation of all offenders revealing the contents of important messages of commerce thus revealed the penalty is to be years in prison. Five years' imprisonment is provided for persons who know of the revelation of such secrets and neglect to report the matter to the proper authorities.

Duchess Olga's Wealth.

Whatever may be the fate of Russia's reigning family when the revolutionists get through with that country, one member of it will be beyond the reach of want. She is the Grand Duchess Olga, eldest of the Czar's daughters. Although still a child she has a fortune estimated at $10,000,000 in her own right. Moreover, her millions are invested abroad, where the terrorists cannot get them.

Novel Advertising.

Japan as an advertiser has taken some billboard ideas from America. Worshippers at Buddhist temples invariably wash their hands in a fountain at the entrance before making their supplications. Formerly the priest hung towels there. Now the merchants of Tokio and other cities furnish the temples with free towels, reserving the privilege of printing their advertisements on them.

Prince Eugene An Artist.

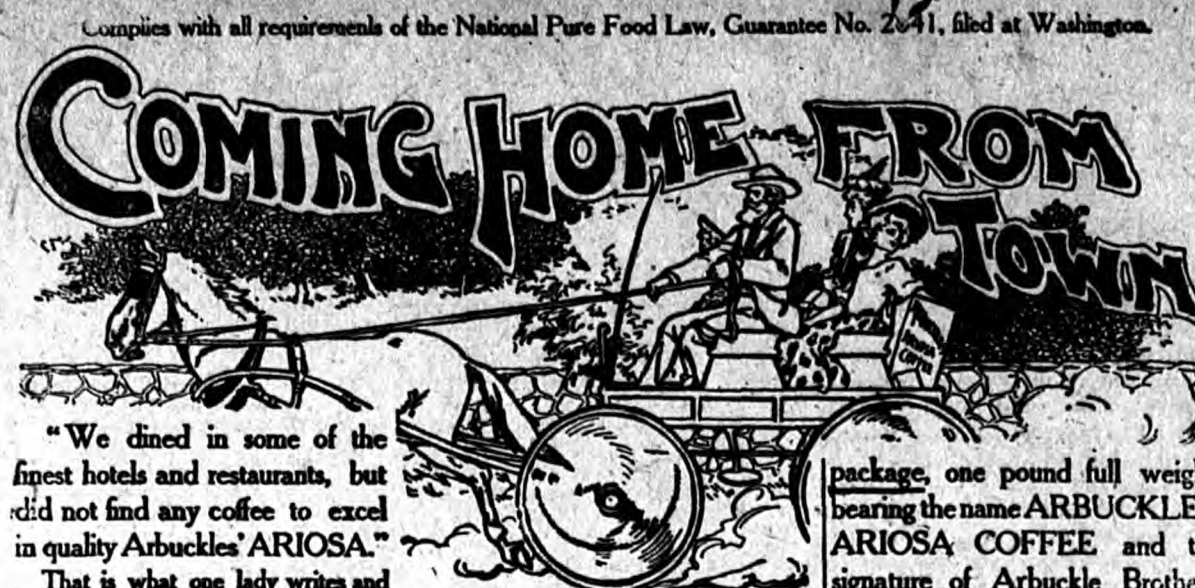

Prince Eugene of Sweden, one of the most democratic of the royal personages, studied art seriously in Paris, where he was known in the artistic and literary world as "E. Oscarson." He is fond of touring Italy and always has for a companion some painter or sculptor friend. He devotes most of his time to landscape work.

Telling a Horse's Traits.

An officer of the British Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons says it is easy to tell a horse's character by the shape of his nose. If the profile has a gentle curve, and at the same time the ears are pointed and sensitive, the animal may be depended on as being gentle and at the same time, high-spirited.

Petticoat Yokes.

Since many of the dresses are shirred, gathered and plaited around the waist, the petticoats must be shaped over the hips. A good arrangement is to make a rounded yoke with darts to fit in place, making the front deeper than the back. The skirt can be sewed to this. Arrange it in such a manner that it can be buttoned and there will be no need of pins or drawstrings to restrain any unnecessary fullness at the waist.

"We dined in some of the finest hotels and restaurants, but did not find any coffee to excel in quality Arbuckles' ARIOSA."

That is what one lady writes and millions of others prove they believe, by using more Arbuckles' ARIOSA Coffee than all the other packaged coffees in the United States put together.

The fact that Arbuckles' ARIOSA Coffee costs less and has suited the health and taste of most American people for over 37 years, ought to induce everybody to at least sample it.

The cities hide many country girls and boys who secretly sigh for a cup of good coffee like "mother" made. "Mother" probably used the old original "Arbuckles", the first roasted packaged coffee.

SEVERE MINE ACCIDENTS

Three Within Two Weeks Startle The Country. Pennsylvania Loses Several Hundred Lives As A Result.

A dispatch from Connellsville, Pa., December 19, says:
"Four hundred miners are entombed in the Darr mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, at Jacob's Creek, on the Youghiogheny river, 18 miles west of here.

Of these 400 fully 100 are Americans, the rest being principally Hungarians.

A terrific explosion shook the vicinity of the mine at 11.30 this morning and announced to all the surrounding community that a great convulsion of some kind had occurred down under the surface.

Shortly afterward smoke began to issue in heavy columns from the mouth of the mine, which is of the slope variety.

Little Hope For Men.

On account of the violence of the explosion, which rent the interior of the mine, and the presence of ore, with the blocked condition of the south of the slope, it is not thought there is much chance for the men inside.

Whether they have survived or will survive is one of the uncertainties of the present hour.

There is no means yet of doing more than to guess whether it was gas or coal dust that exploded.

The scene of the explosion is on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad side of the Youghiogheny river. Jacob's Creek, on the main line of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, is across the river. It is 40 miles east of Pittsburgh and 18 miles west of Connellsville.

Within a few minutes after the explosion the mouth of the pit was surrounded by relatives and friends of the entombed men. The scenes were most pitiful.

The smoke and flames issuing from the mouth made it impossible to enter, and the wives and children were frantic.

Three Great Disasters in Fourteen Days.

December 6—Between 400 and 500 entombed by explosions in Mines Nos. 6 and 8 of the Fairmont Coal Company at Monongah, W. Va. Number of dead estimated at from 325 to 500.

December 16—Between 75 and 100 entombed by explosion in Mine No. 1 of the Yolande Coal and Coke Company, Yolande, Ala. Estimated number of dead 70.

Dec. 19—Four hundred miners entombed by explosion in Darr Mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, at Jacob's Creek, Pa. Little hope is entertained that any of the men will be rescued alive.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING

At The Court House Beginning Sunday Afternoon, January 5. Arrangements Completed.

Plans have been perfected for the evangelistic meetings for the men of our city and vicinity, on Sunday afternoons during the months of January and February, 1908.

These meetings will be held at an hour that will in no way conflict with the hour of worship in the various churches. The Court House has been secured in which to hold them.

Speakers of note from a distance, men noted for their platform ability and righteous lives have been invited. Mr. Geo. F. Tibbets, of Washington, Interstate Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who is known to many of us, has consented to come for the first Sunday, January 5th. Music will be one of the features of these meetings and throughout they will be made as attractive as possible. It is hoped thereby that many men, young and old, that do not regularly attend any church may be induced to attend these meetings and find them profitable socially and spiritually.

The executive committee, which has general supervision, is composed, it will be noted, of some of our leading citizens and business men. In fact the movement seems to be among the laymen of the several churches, and this fact is worthy of special note. The Committee consists of E. B. Adkins, chairman, J. Walter Haffington, Secretary, and the following: James E. Ellegood, Jay Williams, Wm. J. Downing, A. J. Moore, Geo. H. Weisbach, Ohas. Watson, G. A. M. Wilson, O. E. Harper, F. Leonard Wallis, L. W. Gunby, Walter Humphreys, W. A. Crew, I. L. Price, Harry Dennis, Geo. T. Huston, U. W. Dickerson, E. J. C. Parsons, Wm. E. Sheppard, Thomas Perry and Wm. M. Cooper. The ministers of Salisbury are ex-officio members of this committee.

The finance committee is composed of Messrs. L. W. Gunby, Harry Dennis, Geo. Weisbach, U. W. Dickerson and Jas. E. Ellegood.

The committee to provide music consists of Messrs. F. P. Adkins, Jay Williams, W. A. Crew and G. A. M. Wilson and Dr. G. Spring.

The committee of ushers is composed of Messrs. I. L. Price, Walter Sheppard, S. S. Smyth, E. E. Twilley and A. J. Moore.

The publicity committee is composed of Messrs. Geo. T. Huston, B. A. R. McAllen, W. J. Downing, E. J. C. Parsons and Walter Humphreys.

The platform committee, whose duty it is to provide the speakers for the various Sundays, consists of all the clergy of Salisbury.

PUBLIC UTILITIES.

Commission Discussed For Maryland. A Protection That The People Of The Whole State Should Have.

The Reform League of Baltimore city, has been agitating the question of the establishment of a Public Utilities Commission for this State, something on the line of that in effect now in New York. The purpose of such a commission is to regulate public service corporations. Power is given to fix rate for services, prevent stock watering, and prevent the merger of existing corporations when such a merger seems inimical to the public interests, and in all other respects see that the interests of the taxpayer and innocent holders of stock are protected and conserved.

Under such a measure if any telephone, electric or gas company, street railways, or any other corporation having to do with what are usually termed semi-public service, should put an exorbitant rate on their services in order either to pay a dividend on watered stock or for the purpose of putting in their own pocket dividends out of proportion to the capital invested, then it would have the power to compel the reduction of their rates until they reached a reasonable basis of income to the actual value of the plant and capital that should be necessary to run the business.

As It Now Is.

Under the present system these corporations are given franchises and charters by our various cities and states, and some of them immediately proceed to exact all the income the people will stand for, and against any exertion of this kind the people are entirely at their mercy, and it is a question not of what it is worth but one of pay, or get out. In all business where from the nature of the thing itself it is impossible or impracticable to have competition the public's interests should be conserved.

The telephone business for instance is what might be termed a natural monopoly, for more than one company only brings disaffection and additional burdens and expense on the users, and because this is the case it is not right for the public to be placed at the mercy of any corporation of this kind, who often water the stock to an outrageous extent and then make the public pay a dividend on it.

As It Might Be.

Again with a Commission of this kind in the field it would be impossible for two rival lighting companies in the same town—say Salisbury for instance—to get together and consolidate and thus put the public at the mercy of such a consolidation, with competition killed by the uniting of the two companies. All of these companies are entitled to a fair return in dividends on the money necessary to put up and run such plants, but they are not entitled to a dividend out of all reasons, in a business whose most valuable asset is a franchise given by the people and protected from competition by this same franchise, or from other reasons that from the nature of the business makes it impracticable to give them competition. Whenever and wherever there can be legitimate competition then the price of commodities will be such as a reasonable man will be satisfied with on his investments, but when the stimulus and necessities of watching an alert and competent competitor is taken away, and the price can be made such as the public will stand, then mankind is so prone to work for his own interests, that he forgets and the price often rises to a point which amounts to extortion from the people.

Whole State Should Be Protected.

The corporations which are now paying a dividend on thousands of dollars of watered stock, those which are paying an unreasonable and outrageous dividend to their stockholders, those which contemplate consolidating with another, or contemplate the issuing of more stocks and bonds to inflate their capital, will of course, be bitterly opposed to any move of this kind. But the public whose interests would be served, and the innocent stockholders who are entirely at the mercy of the large interests which control the various corporations, should be strongly in favor of the establishment of such a body with full and ample powers to carry out the purposes for which it was created. It is noticed that there seems to be an idea to make this apply to the city of Baltimore alone, but undoubtedly the whole state is interested in a measure of this kind, and the people throughout the entire state are entitled to the benefits that would accrue from a properly constructed and properly executed law of this character.

SALISBURY TO DELMAR

Via Shell Road, A Distance Of Seven Miles. An Important Move In County's Improvement.

The proposed shell road from Salisbury to Delmar, by way of Leonard's mill, is fast working into a much to be denied ability. The project was taken up several weeks ago by those owning farm lands on both sides of this road, and the County Commissioners gave it their hearty co-operation, President Cooper of the Board, giving the construction of the road his personal attention. Work was begun in front of the farm of Mr. J. O. Phillips, where the shelling stopped last year, and up to the present time has been continued to the Leonard farm which was recently purchased by Mr. Wm. Kroenig.

Grading is being pushed on the balance of the road, and it is hoped to extend the shelling to the Leonard mill, 4½ miles from Salisbury this winter. This work is being done under the supervision of Mr. Mimos Oliphant, the road supervisor.

Beyond the Leonard mill work is also being pushed on the improvement of the road. Mr. James E. Ellegood has a large force of men ditching and grading the road bed along his farm property on the same highway.

WANT AN AMENDMENT

Says Senator Price. An Issue In Wicomico And An Obligation On The Democratic Party.

Senator Jesse D. Price, speaking the last election in Baltimore, is quoted by the Baltimore Sun in an interview as follows:—

"Another thing that created genuine enthusiasm for our ticket," said Mr. Price, "was the promise of our party to submit a disfranchisement amendment at the first opportunity, and, so far as the people of my county are concerned, they desire and expect that promise to be fulfilled."

An Effective One.

When asked what kind of an amendment he favored, Senator Price replied:

"I am in favor of an amendment that will accomplish the desired result. I have seen some of the members of the next Senate quoted as favoring an amendment founded on the so conservative as to commend itself to the Republicans, and hoping to have the help of Republicans to carry it when submitted. I fear there is danger in ultra-conservatism. What we want, in my judgment, is one conservative, but effective. We need not deceive ourselves into the belief that any amendment that will give the desired results will commend itself to the Republicans in this State. Any amendment that will meet their approval will be of no value to us, and will be so colorless as not to command the support of our own party. The negro vote in Maryland is too valuable an asset for them to lend their aid to curtail it. Our object and aim is to rid the electorate of our beloved State of the demoralizing influence of the ignorant and imported negro voters, and it can be done and done only by the White Democrats. We need not expect help from our Republican friends to accomplish it for reasons I have stated."

Senator Price was asked as to the probable action of the next Legislature upon the proposition to pass a corrupt practices act. He said:

"Our party is pledged to this reform, and I have no doubt will redeem its pledge. I am in favor of redoubling every promise made to the people of the State, and shall use my influence to that end, and, so far as a corrupt practices act is concerned, I am in favor of putting upon the statute books one so stringent as to make vote-buying too dangerous over to be attempted again in the State."

"The Democratic party in the State has adopted one of the most progressive platforms in its history, and it has a splendid opportunity to show to the people of Maryland that it is a party of progress and success in its declarations, and if the party rises to the occasion—which I have no doubt it will do—there is no question but the people will continually give it their confidence and support."

LORD EVLINGTON'S DOUBLE

By Paul Hardy.

Extract from Ancient and Modern Society, 1st Jan. 1906.

We understand that a marriage has been arranged, and will take place shortly, between Sir Desmond Fallon, of Fallon Park, Northumberland, and the Hon. Muriel Lynn, only daughter of Lord Lothbury, the head of the famous London banking firm.

Extract from the Daily Telephone, 24 January, 1906.

Lord Evlington is leaving England immediately for South Africa, where he will commence a shooting expedition that is expected to last for some months.

I may mention that I am a financial expert or what ordinary people call a money lender, so those who know Sir Desmond as well as I do will understand why I know him so well. It was one of the greatest surprises that I have experienced when I read in the society papers the various references to his contemplated marriage with Lord Lothbury's only daughter and heiress; it was scarcely credible that so keen a man of business should permit his daughter to affiance herself to a spendthrift. Certainly the great banker was sufficiently wealthy to permit his daughter to indulge in the luxury of a love match, yet those who have millions to play with generally prefer alliances with families which possess similar privileges. The only conclusion I could arrive at was that the North Country baronet was even smarter than I had believed him, and that he had contrived in some extraordinary way to conceal the fact that his large estates were heavily mortgaged, while his debts were on a scale that I must respectfully term magnificent.

When he called on me to arrange a trifling loan of twenty thousand pounds, I ventured to suggest that he should apply to his prospective father-in-law, who would, no doubt, be pleased to accommodate him. He smiled, and with the utmost amiability, and frankness pointed out the delicacy of his position; Lord Lothbury, he admitted, was quite ignorant of his peculiar financial position; if the illusion could only be maintained till the marriage took place, all would be well; if not—he shrugged his shoulders.

"And the twenty thousand pounds which you wish to borrow will help to maintain the illusion?" I asked.

"Give me the twenty thousand, and I will guarantee that the marriage takes place within a month," he said.

"And the security?" I suggested.

"I shall be married to the richest heiress in England; isn't that sufficient security?" he demanded.

There was no doubt that the security was not altogether to be despised; I have known large sums of money to be lent, at a proportionately large rate of interest, on the strength of expectations much less substantial. However, I am a cautious man, by training and inclination; I understand perfectly that all engagements don't end in domestic bliss, or the divorce court; and I invited Sir Desmond to dine with me in the evening, when we could discuss the matter more at leisure.

I forgot to send a wire to my wife, though I knew she had arranged to visit her sister at Kensington. Consequently, when Sir Desmond came down he found me alone, and we were able to talk confidentially.

It was about 10 o'clock, and we were just lighting a second cigar, when my friend from the studio dropped in casually, wearing the inevitable Norfolk suit. I was rather pleased at the interruption, because I had finally decided that I couldn't see my way to negotiate the twenty thousand pounds, and Sir Desmond was beginning to make general but acid remarks about people who have the honor to follow my profession.

He looked perfectly astounded when my visitor entered; sprang up, and held out his hand.

"Why, Jack!" he cried, "all the world believes you are in Africa!"

My tenant gazed at him for a moment, and then turned to me with a glance of inquiry.

"You know Sir Desmond?" I asked.

"I am afraid there is some mistake," he said. "This gentleman appears to know me, but, upon my word—"

I explained to Fallon "This is Mr. Grant, the tenant of my studio, and an old friend of mine. Perhaps you have met him at some artistic function?"

Sir Desmond shook his head and dropped back into his chair. "I mistook you for an old friend," he said to Grant. "The resemblance is really extraordinary."

He still regarded Grant searchingly, and with a puzzled expression; after a little while this passed away, and he appeared to reflect; he was so absorbed that he paid no attention to our conversation, and, indeed, seemed unaware of it. He emerged from his reverie suddenly, and with a jest at his own expense, insisted on Grant remaining, though he seemed anxious to get away, and entertained us as a polished man of the world, who has been in every desirable and undesirable corner of it, alone can do. We passed a very pleasant evening, and Fallon became so chummy with Grant that he gave himself an invitation to visit the studio at the earliest possible date. Apparently, he had forgotten all about his disappointment with regard to the twenty thousand pounds that I really couldn't lend him.

It was some days before Sir Desmond accepted his own invitation to visit his new acquaintance—the gentleman who hired a studio because he couldn't paint; but when the ice had once been broken, it was not allowed sufficient time to freeze again; visit followed visit, and casual interest seemed to have developed into close friendship. However, Mr. Grant in no way changed his usual habits; he went out only in the early morning or the evening, wearing always the old Norfolk suit and avoiding frequented thoroughfares. Apparently he never felt any inclination to run up to Piccadilly or the Strand; music halls and theatres, so admirably adapted to soothe the youthful, possessed no charm for him, and any intelligent observer would have reasoned that either his income must be very small, or his bump of seclusiveness very large. Had the observer been a woman, she might have found a third alternative, more romantic and pathetic—for Mr. Grant was young and extremely attractive—that he should remain wedded only to the art which he caricatured, might be due to some desolating disappointment in connection with other matrimonial desires. Sir Desmond Fallon was perhaps as shrewd a judge of men as horses; it was his business to make money out of both, and his motto, to fail frequently when his hopes were most roseate. He was cultivating this acquaintance for a definite and selfish reason; he wished to make a cat paw of his friend, but it was not until he had exercised all his admitted powers of fascination, and established himself on terms of intimate familiarity, that he ventured to allude to the daring and desperate scheme which his fertile brain had conceived on the occasion of the first meeting, and which had since been cunningly and carefully elaborated.

He began cautiously, passing from vague and testing remarks to more serious hints; pointing out that there were neither misunderstanding nor resentment, he advanced boldly; finally, he explained the scheme, coolly, as a matter of business.

"When I first saw you," he said, "you may remember that I was amazed. I thought you were a man whom I know well, if you will excuse the bull, you are more like him than he is himself. There is nobody living who would not be deceived by the astounding resemblance. You have his face, figure, and even his voice. I should not be at all astonished to find that your handwriting also is already a very colorable imitation of his. I have noticed that people who resemble one another closely in their physical attributes frequently carry the resemblance into even trifling details. But this is not a case of mere resemblance; the likeness is so remarkable that even now, when I know you so well, I can scarcely believe that you are not the man himself. My dear fellow, likenesses like this are not to be trifled with; they are special dispensations of Providence, and wise men should make the most of them."

"And whom have I the honor to resemble so closely?" inquired Grant.

"One of the richest men in England—though he isn't in England, by the way, at present. You are the perfect double of the Earl of Evlington."

Grant meditatively blew a cloud from his pipe. "I think you have mentioned his name two or three times lately in your interesting reminiscences. Let me see; isn't he the man who was supposed to be more or less devoted to the lady whom you are going to marry?"

Sir Desmond shrugged his shoulders. "Quite so; he left England immediately after our engagement was announced. I believe he is soothing his lacerated emotions by shooting elephants in Africa. 'You don't seem to like him?' 'No; I have no particular feeling one way or the other. It is true that he inconvenienced me for a time; I almost thought he was going to carry off the prize for which I was striving. However, I managed to put him out of the running.'"

"May I ask how?"

"I contrived that a certain lady should hear of a few creditable episodes which hadn't occurred."

"You must be a pretty damnable kind of scoundrel, you know," observed Grant, surveying him with mild curiosity.

"Oh, all's fair in love and war. Besides, I am still playing for it, and I want twenty thousand pounds to insure success. I am sure you will admire the simplicity of my scheme for obtaining it. Listen. I have several letters from Lord Evlington. You will learn to imitate his handwriting, and I shall also coach you in a few personal details. When you are proficient, you will quietly make your way one morning into the city; you will stroll into Lothbury's Bank and inquire for Lord Lothbury. He will not be there, because we shall choose a day when I know he will be away. You will then ask for a check book, quietly make out a check for twenty, or say twenty-five thousand pounds, and get it cashed. The cashier will be astonished to see you, and you may mention, curtly, that you have just returned. No explanations will be necessary; the amount of the check will excite some surprise, but no suspicion. I happen to know that the balance of the Earl's account is quite large enough to meet the check; even if it weren't, they would cash it. You see, you are Lord Evlington; you have his very accent. 'Man, the thing's beautiful! There's only one other point; if you happen to meet any one who appears to recognize you, you must use your native wit; it's easy to nod, and be in a hurry. Even if you were buttonholed, it wouldn't matter. My dear fellow, if you yourself said you weren't the Earl people would laugh at you. There's not the slightest danger.'"

"And what do I get for my valuable assistance?" inquired Grant, after a pause.

"Five thousand down, and another five—or ten, if you like—when I'm married."

"Why not halves?"

"Because I must have twenty thousand now, and you can afford to wait. It wouldn't do to have the check too large, or I'd say make it forty thousand, and share alike."

"Very well," said the painter who couldn't paint. "Now give me my first writing lesson."

A week later a gentleman alighted from a hansom at the corner of Gracechurch Street. He stroled on for a few yards and was joined by another gentleman. Securing a passing four-wheeler, they entered, "Waterloo," giving the order, "Waterloo."

When the door was shut Sir Desmond removed his hat. "Well!" he said.

Grant nodded. "It's all right; twenty-five thousand in notes."

"Good Lord!" said Sir Desmond; and there was a quaver in his voice. "You'd better give me the package," he added.

Grant fumbled in the pocket of his frock-coat extracted a small bundle, deliberately counted seventy rustling notes, and replaced the parcel in his pocket. "I got twenty in thousands and the rest in hundreds," he observed.

"Give me my twenty," said Sir Desmond irritably. "Why have you stuck them back in your pocket?"

"Because I intend to keep them," said Grant.

His accomplice bit his lip. "Don't play the fool," he said. "Residence honor among thieves, you know."

"You are probably familiar with the ways of thieves," said Grant. "I'm not, and if you don't like it, we'll drive to the nearest police station."

"And expose the whole thing?" inquired Sir Desmond sardonically.

"And expose you, my pitiful schemer," returned the other. "Can't you see even yet that I am Lord Evlington, and that you have been persuading me to act as my own double?"

EPILOGUE.

Extract from Ancient and Modern Society, 2d April, 1906.

We are authorized to announce that a marriage has been arranged, and will take place shortly, between the Earl of Evlington and the Hon. Muriel Lynn, only daughter of Lord Lothbury.

It will thus be seen that there was no foundation for the rumormongered by several of our contemporaries to the effect that the Hon. Muriel had contracted an engagement with a well-known Northumberland baronet.

Extract from the Daily Telephone, 2d April, 1906.

Sir Desmond Fallon, of Fallon Park, Northumberland, has been ordered to Egypt for the benefit of his health.

Spaniards in Egypt.

No less than 20,000 persons in Egypt speak Spanish, though very few of these are Spanish by birth. These Spanish-speaking people are Jews, but not the Jews descended from those driven from Spain in 1492 by Ferdinand and Isabella. These Jews, in the course of time, merged their Castilian into the Arabic, which is closely akin to the modern Hebrew of Syria and Palestine.

The Jews now in Egypt are later arrivals, whose settlement in Egypt was not accomplished until a circuitous path had been travelled from Spain through the Levant. Many Spaniards have settled in Turkey where there are several newspapers established for them. There are two at Constantinople, two at Salonika, one at Philippopolis, and three at Sofia. Recently a cultivated Jew, M. Abraham Galante, has established a paper at Cairo.

Muzzling Dogs.

Twenty thousand muzzles have been ordered from England by the Rhodesian Government for the purpose of stamping out rabies among native dogs.

Estimating the Amount of Butter. With good skill a buttermaker may count on getting about one-sixth more butter than there is butter fat in the milk; the increase being due to the necessary moisture in the butter, salt and a very small proportion of casein, etc., which is impossible to separate. As milk from different cows commonly varies anywhere between three and six per cent, fat, it is impossible to tell exactly how much milk will take to produce a pound of butter without knowing its richness.

CULVER—OLIPHANT

Wedding A Pretty Event in Hebron Society. Many Entertained.

What is said to have been one of the prettiest marriages ever witnessed in Hebron, Md., was celebrated by Rev. Mr. Conaway Wednesday evening at Nelson's M. E. Church, when Miss Margaret Ellen Culver became the bride of Mr. Marion Slemmons Oliphant, of Zion, Md.

Despite the inclement weather, at about seven o'clock the church began to fill and by 7.30 o'clock it was crowded. A few minutes past the hour it was announced the bridal party had arrived. The church was prettily decorated with evergreens and out flowers. Miss Bertha Nelson sang very impressively "Love me, and the world is mine," before the bridal party entered the church.

The wedding march, played by Miss Virginia Nelson, pealed forth and they entered in the following order:

Ushers, Theodore Tilghman and Herman Jackson; the maid of honor, Miss Mamie Smith, preceded the bride, who carried pink chrysanthemums and came in with her brother, Showard Culver, was met at the altar by the groom with his cousin, Chas. Tilghman, where they were solemnly made husband and wife.

The bride was robed in white, tulle-trimmed in Irish lace and carried white chrysanthemums. The maid of honor wore white silk trimmed in white ribbons.

After the ceremony was performed they retired to the bride's home where an elaborate repast was served to about 100 invited guests.

The bride is the pretty and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Culver, of Hebron, Md. The groom is an industrious farmer and mill man, of Zion, Md.

The guests from a distance were: Mr. Chas. Tilghman, Baltimore, Md.; Mr. Theo. Tilghman, Salisbury, Md.; Mr. Herman Jackson, Maryland; Miss Mamie Smith, Laurel, Del.; Miss Neil, Harlock, Md.; Miss Culver, Salisbury, Md.; Misses Oliphant, Delmar, Del.; Mr. H. R. Humphreys, Hinton W. Va.; Mrs. J. L. Humphreys, Killmanook, Va.; Mr. R. G. Humphreys, Wilmington Del.

Important Notice to Milk Consumers.

The owners of Byrd Homestead Dairy Farms wish to announce to their patrons and the public that after Jan. 1, 1908, Mr. J. Coston Goslee will sever his connection with that Dairy. They will continue to serve milk from the same herd of 60 Guernsey and Jersey cows. They are about to install an up to date sterilizing plant, which will enable them to clean the milk jars thoroughly. This is especially recommended by Boards of Health. The milk will be served from two wagons daily. Phones 298, 324.

STOPS ANY ITCHING.

Toan's Ointment Cures Eczema And Itching Piles. Salisbury People Recommend It. One application of Toan's Ointment stops any itching. Short treatment cures eczema, itching piles, salt rheum—any skin eruption of skin itching. It is the cheapest remedy to use, because so little of it is required to bring relief and a cure. Here is Salisbury testimony to prove it:

Michael Sobels, Barkley Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "Toan's Ointment is the best preparation of its kind that I ever saw. I was all broken out with an eruption like eczema. Small water blisters would appear and itch and scabs would form. The skin on my hands cracked up, got rough and sore so that I could hardly use them. Toan's Ointment was recommended to me by a friend who had been cured of a similar eruption of several years standing and I got a box at White and Leonard's drug store. I applied it several times and the eruption soon disappeared. I have had no return of the trouble since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

Good Cough Medicine For Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children.

A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a cold. The quicker you cure his cold the less the risk. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the sole reliance of many others, and few of those who have tried it are willing to use any other. Mrs. F. F. Starobor of Ripley, W. Va., says, "I have never used anything other than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for my children and it has always given good satisfaction." This remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a child as to an adult. For sale at Tealson's Drug Store.

DAIRY AND CREAMERY

COWS AND MILK.

Dr. Huff Speaks of Conditions Existing Which Affect Both.

Dr. Huff makes some good recommendations to the Board of Health of some New York, and among other things says:

Cows confined to the stable require a space of 800 square feet each to obtain sufficient oxygen to aerate the blood properly, but we usually see cattle huddled together in as close a space as possible, generally allowing each cow about 275 to 300 square feet, where they are compelled to breathe and rebreathe the contaminated atmosphere because the dairyman informs us he can get more milk from them if they are kept close together.

The majority of stables are built as cheaply as possible and are roughly finished inside and out, furnishing nooks and corners for dirt to locate and propagate disease. The floor frequently consists of 12-inch planks laid side just where the hind feet of the cows are placed and the milkers stand when milking and a trench about a foot wide is behind the cows. There is not one stable in a hundred that has any way of flushing and no great percentage has any system of drainage. There are stables that have stood for years upon the same ground and have contained hundreds of cows and all of the liquid excretion has been allowed to soak into the ground and there remain.

There has been so much said about milk containing germs of disease that it seems almost unnecessary to mention the fact, but we are so forcibly reminded that dirt and filth are the abiding places of disease and that cleanliness is the surest guide to health, that attention to it should not be disregarded.

Dairy Notes.

Pet the cows. Give them a little sugar with salt at first, then a lump of sugar now and then. Sugar will make a wild heifer gentle. Try it.

If you buy a new cow, give her sugar, and she will not try to break away.

Do not let any extra rush in farm work interfere with the regular milking hour.

If not milked in a reasonable time the cow refuses to give down her milk.

The habit of holding up the milk can easily be formed by harsh treatment.

If the cow is made to feel comfortable and happy, she will pour the milk out to the last drop.

Don't put a calf in a pen by itself; animals suffer from loneliness.

Keep the calves growing. If stunted the first year there is a loss that never can be regained. Any animal that is worth raising is worth raising well.

Breaking the heifer to her dairy duties should begin almost with her birth, by accustoming her to obedience, confidence and kindly handling.

If the cover is left off the milk can, a piece of cloth or mosquito netting should be used to keep out insects.

When salting butter and one tablespoonful of granulated sugar to ten pounds of butter and notice the improved flavor.

If we sell our butter to private customers we should try to salt to the taste of each. This may be some trouble, but after all we depend upon taste of our patrons for our sales. If we miss the mark as to taste, we miss the sales.

Get butter to the consumers as quickly as possible after it is made. The fine, delicate aroma of freshly made butter is quickly lost.

Fill a silo this year. Try it once and you will never neglect it.—Farm Journal.

Why Farmers Buy Separators.

The president of the Wisconsin Creamery Butter Makers Association in answering the question why farmers buy separators says:

1. He wants his own skim milk and wants it fresh and warm.

2. He does not want to drive to the creamery at a particular hour every day in the year.

The farmer of the future is going to be an educated man; hence all this howling and crying about the poor quality of butter made from hand separator cream is not going to change his views so long as there is really nothing against the system.

The facts brought out only go to show that by this system it ought to be possible to make even a better grade of butter and that the faults enumerated are simply the abuses of this system.

The up-to-date buttermaker will arrange to ripen the cream at the farm and send a team out from the creamery to gather all cream regularly and not allow any to be hauled to the nearest station to be shipped to one or the other of the large centralizing plants.

In my opinion the constant "kick" and finding fault with the hand separator is driving our business away to be swallowed up by the centralizing plants.

TWO HUNDRED MARK

Don't Pass in Applications for Gas in Salisbury. This Has Been Accomplished in Four Weeks—The Company Expects to Have 500 Consumers by Next Summer—The Record of Other Eastern Shore Towns.

The Home Gas Company has now booked 220 applicants for gas within four weeks' time. This is the greatest record ever known for a new company. Dover has now about 400 gas consumers, Smyrna has about 300, Georgetown has about 250, while Cambridge has less than 400. This shows the progressive spirit of the citizens of Salisbury over other towns. The great rush the Home Gas Co., is having is owing to the low prices at which they are going to sell their gas. While Cambridge, we are told, has been charging to dollars per thousand cubic feet for years, the Home Gas Co. here is going to make a neat charge of 1.25 per thousand to everybody, payable within ten days. This price it will be within the reach of everybody. It surely can be called the "Housewife's Blessing." Now we print part of the applicants a week.

O. E. Caulk, jeweler has a novel merry go round decorated with jewelry. Hitchens and Phillips are dressing with evergreen and genteel furnishings. The drug store with post cards, stationery and many other articles including some very beautiful boxes, possibly pills. Brodey with hats, coats to beat the band.

We hope the rain is almost over as we are having it very wet around here.

We will have our Sunday School at the regular hour 9:30 o'clock.

Rev. J. W. Gray closed his revival services Thursday eve. There have been many souls saved during the revival at this place.

The people are moving to their new homes around here. Hope they will like very much.

Fifteen farms at a sacrifice. Buildings on all. Plenty of wood and timber to support them. Good water, fine climate, two railroads, good schools and churches. NEW RECOMMENDATIONS Far Banking Made By The New York Committee Appointed During Panic Scare.

The committee appointed by Governor Hughes on November 13, during the severe days of the monetary panic, to recommend modifications of the existing banking laws of the State of New York has made its report. The committee was selected from leading bankers and trust company managers and was charged with the duty of recommending such changes as would be necessary to prevent the development of panics such as the one Wall Street has just experienced.

The report, in general, expresses the view that in New York city State banks should maintain the same cash reserves as national banks, 25 per cent, and that trust companies should also maintain a 25 per cent reserve, not necessarily all in cash. A strong recommendation is made against the practice of promoters obtaining control of a chain of banks to further their own financial schemes.

Former Comptroller of the Currency A. B. Hepburn, now president of Chase National Bank, was chairman of the commission.

The report is practically unanimous. All the recommendations are approved in by Messrs. Hepburn, Baker and Miller. Mr. Friswell would increase the requirement for trust companies from more than the majority deem adequate, and Messrs. Matson and Sheldon would have a scale of reserve requirements governed by amount of deposits. The committee recommends, first, that the State Superintendent of Banks be given veto power upon the establishment of a bank or trust company, or a branch of any existing bank or trust company, or purchase of control of any banking institution by another.

The committee believed that banks in New York city "should not hereafter be permitted to have branches unless they possess a capital of $500,000, and we think that both banks and trust companies should be required to furnish an additional $100,000 capital for each branch opened." In general, the committee would increase and make more direct and intimate the supervisory power and control of the Superintendent over all moneyed institutions including banks of discount and deposit trust companies, savings banks, safe-deposit, companies, mortgage loan or investment companies and building loan associations, so that he could "direct the dis-

Factory Burned At Fruitland—Lady Injured.

Fire on Friday morning of last week, destroyed the shirt factory owned and operated by Mr. Alvord, and came near burning the residence and blacksmith shop of Wm. E. Gray.

A serious accident happened in connection with the fire. Mrs. Carrie Gray, wife of Mr. Wm. E. Gray, and several other ladies were watching the progress of the fire, when the chimney of the shirt factory fell, a portion of it falling upon Mrs. Gray. Her head and spine were badly injured, resulting in paralysis of the limbs. Dr. Louis W. Morris of Salisbury, was called in to render medical aid.

HAS BILLS READY.

Reform League Of Baltimore Prepared For Legislature. Public Utilities, Corrupt Practices And Elections.

The Baltimore Reform League is believed by Mr. William Reynolds, the chairman of its committee on legislation, to have completed the draft of such bills as it proposes to urge the next General Assembly of Maryland to pass. These measures are:

Public utilities bill for Baltimore city.

A corrupt practices act.

Election bill eliminating those features of the present law that are believed to be pernicious.

It is the idea of the Reform League to limit the operations of the public utilities bill to Baltimore city. Other than the drawing of the measure to apply to local public services corporations, nothing has been done by the Reform League to indicate that it has any strong objections to a commission for the whole State. If a State measure is to be passed, it will be necessary to change the personnel of the proposed commission, from the draft prepared by Mr. Reynolds' imposes the task of supervision upon the Mayor and the heads of several of the city departments.

The corrupt practices act is an old friend of the League's. It has been presented for the consideration of the State's lawmakers session after session, but it has been invariably used as a football. If the Democrats controlled both legislative branches, as they usually did, they assumed responsibility for killing it, if the Republicans were in the majority in one house and the Democrats in the other, their respective organizations tried to play politics by placing responsibility for the death of the measure on the shoulders of the opposite party. Neither political organization wanted a corrupt practices act to become a law.

A Party Pledge.

When the Democratic State Convention met last summer it pledged itself to put on the statute books of Maryland a law that would do away with the use of money and other corrupt methods in elections. Legislation along these lines has, therefore, the sanction of the Democratic party as such, and it is assumed that an act of the kind promised will become a law.

Attorney General Isaac Lobe Strass is preparing a corrupt practices act, and Mr. John P. Poe has asked for a copy of the bill prepared by the Baltimore Reform League. The Democratic organization has always heretofore looked to Mr. Poe for all legislation affecting elections, and any bill prepared by him is likely to receive serious consideration.

Features Of Proposed Law.

The corrupt practices act, as drawn by the Reform League, includes among its provisions the following:

Limitation of the amount to be spent by any candidate for office proportionate to the number of voters he aspires to represent.

Provision for the submission of sworn account giving in detail the money expended and the persons to whom it was given.

Prohibiting any person to assume the duties of the office to which he has been elected until he has made a sworn statement of his expenses.

Defines A Political Committee.

Requires every such committee to have a treasurer, who shall be its receiving and disbursing officer, and who shall render an account of the money received and disbursed, the purpose for which it was spent and the persons who received it.

Forbids contributions by corporations for campaign purposes.

States purposes for which money can be expended in elections and makes it unlawful to use money or other valuable consideration for any purpose other than those specified.

When a defeated candidate alleges that the provisions of the act have been violated and files with the court such facts as seem to warrant his conclusion testimony shall be taken before two judges without a jury. They submit the testimony with their conclusions to Federal or State officials or officers when such authorities are the judges of the election of the officials concerned. Otherwise, the court itself is the judge. If the charges are sustained the office is declared vacant. Pending a new election the vacancy is filled as if the incumbent had died in office.

If corrupt means are employed without the consent or connivance of the candidate after he has taken all reasonable means to prevent corrupt methods his office is not to be declared void.

Penalties are severe.

The penalty provided for the conviction of money by corporations is imprisonment. Transgression of political campaign laws by other than corporations is punishable by a fine of $100.

The owners of Hyrd Farmington Dairy Farms wish to announce to their patrons that the public will after Jan. 2, 1908, Mr. J. D. Gresham will have the connection of this dairy. They will continue to serve milk from the same herd of Guernsey and Jersey cows. They are about to install an up to date milk separator, which will surely clean the milk and make it more palatable. GOV. JACKSON DEAD.

Occurred In Baltimore Yesterday Morning At Eleven O'clock. One Of Maryland's Most Honored Citizens.

News reached here Friday morning of the death of Ex-Gov. E. E. Jackson at his home in Baltimore at eleven o'clock Friday morning. He had been in poor health for some time, and had been confined to his home for several months.

Ex-Gov. E. E. Jackson was born on a farm and raised up as a poor boy. He first commenced business in a retail way at Delmar, where he met considerable success in his mercantile ventures. Seeing that Salisbury was better opening and would give him scope to his business abilities, he moved from Delmar and with a few brothers engaged in active business here. He afterwards became interested in the manufacturing of lumber and soon built up an enormous business in this line, his plants and business becoming one of the largest in the country, and in which he accumulated a large fortune. Gov. Jackson's wealth has been variously estimated, but it is safe to say it will run up to the millions.

The Governor took a great deal of interest in politics up to his last days, being a strong and staunch democrat. He served in the Legislature of the state and in the State Senate. He was elected Gov. of the State in the fall of 1887 and served until the election of his successor in 1892. His administration of State affairs was such as to bring praise from men of all parties, having given the state an economic and safe administration, which saved the state treasury of Maryland thousands of dollars. As a political Ex-Gov. Jackson had a potent voice in the management of the party affairs, and it was seldom he was mistaken in the man he endorsed.

Salisbury has lost a great loss in his death, and one that it will be impossible to replace. To those who knew him well his many qualities were recognized and admired. A man of action himself he admired this quality in others, and was always ready to lend a helping hand to those who showed a willingness to help themselves.

Ex-Gov. Jackson was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jackson, who resided on a farm near Union Church, about a mile outside of the present corporate limits of Delmar, the other children were W. E. Jackson, Watson Jackson, Mrs. J. E. Phillips, Wilbur F. Jackson, Mrs. Geo. W. Phillips, and Isaac Jackson. Of these he is survived only by his brother, Congressman W. E. Jackson, and his sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Phillips. Ex-Gov. Jackson was born in 1827 and was a little over 70 years old. He was in life he married Miss Mamie P. Rider who survives him.

He leaves the following children: Mrs. A. J. Vanderhorst, Mrs. W. W. Leonard, Messrs. Hugh W. Jackson, E. E. Jackson, Jr., and Richard Jackson.

Election Law Of 1896.

In its recommendations for changes in the election laws the Reform League proposes to repeal all recent legislation and restore the law to the shape in which it existed prior to the extra session of 1901, which forbids the rendering of assistance in marking of ballots except in those cases where the voter is physically incapacitated. This bill provides for the restoration of the emblem at the head of the column, does away with "black-line" ballots and prevents the throwing out of ballots because the legs of the cross extend beyond the lines of the square.

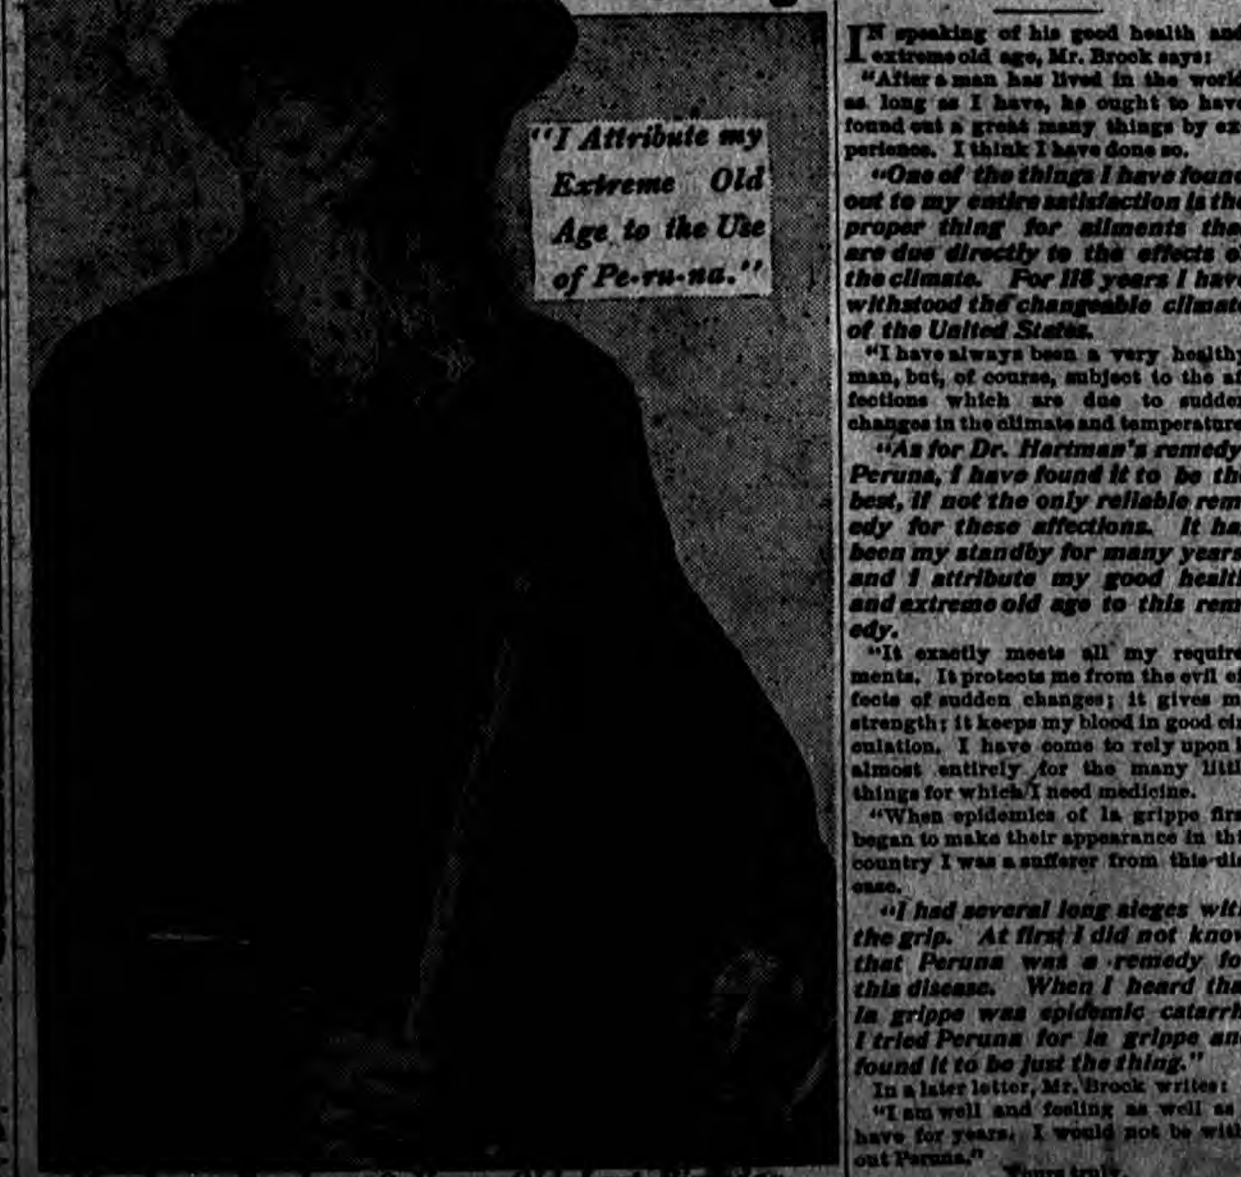

Mr. Reynolds expects the Reform League to take a position regarding the liquor traffic declaring itself either in favor of local option or high license. No bill will be presented by the League. The members will be content with recommending that prohibition be the result of a referendum.

THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters By Using Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Isaac Brock, 118 Years Old Last Birthday.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLannan County, Texas, has lived for 118 years. For many years he resided at Houston Falls, a famous cotton town of Texas, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

When Brock was 100 years old, Dr. J. C. Brock, his son, told him of Pe-r-u-na. Brock had been suffering from rheumatism and other ailments for many years. He decided to try Pe-r-u-na and found it to be just the thing. He has since used it and has found it to be a most effective remedy for his ailments. He has also found it to be a most effective remedy for the ailments of his family.

"I Attribute my Extreme Old Age to the Use of Pe-r-u-na."

"When epidemics of the grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease."

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Pe-r-u-na was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that in grippes was epidemic catarrh, I tried Pe-r-u-na for the grippes and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter, Mr. Brock writes: "I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. I would not be without Pe-r-u-na."

Yours truly, —Isaac Brock.

A letter dated July 2, 1907, written for Mr. Brock by his wife, Sarah J. Brock, states: "Last winter I had just gotten up out of a spell of sickness, when I commenced taking Pe-r-u-na. I found it improved my health very much."

Talk With Young Men.

"There is always room enough up higher," said Webster and so there is. It is better to be a first class cobbler than a third class lawyer. There is more pleasure and satisfaction in it and more money. It is not the "good grade" that makes men rich, but the "good understanding of the trade." Some would be poor all their lives and yet work at the best trade known to man; they don't understand it, and they never will. They toil on, hoping for success, when the work is in direct antagonism with their whole being. We do not believe in giving up the ship until we know it must go down; but, if we find after commencing a work that we are wholly unfit for it, we had better try some other. All men were not born with the power to perform the same work. And yet, it is not necessary that we spend a life time in a fruitless endeavor to find our place. If we know ourselves we shall know our mission. If we do not, poor success is inevitably ours. We care not how much a man may study an experiment, if mechanism is not in his head it cannot come out. You cannot grow pumpkins on squash vines.

Young men, study yourselves, choose your work, and if it satisfies you move on. Bid defiance to all obstacles. Don't surrender to phantoms—they will ever challenge you; fight it out on some line "if it takes all the summer." Our boats are headed up the river, and just so sure as we drop the oars so sure will we float down. Keep rowing.

This is becoming a wonderful world. Everything is done by steam, pressure. When the great Atlantic cable was being lowered it was on all tongues as being the greatest project the world has ever known, and he who was the possessor of an inch piece of the twisted wire was rich in relics. Now we have almost forgotten there is such a thing. The air ship is the one center of attraction, but in a few years that too will move into the shadow of some mightier scheme.

From Skin Disease from Birth Until Six Years Old—Father Spent Fortune on Her Without Benefit—Old Doctor Suggested Cuticura, which Cured Her in Two Months, Leaving

SKIN SOFT AS A BABY'S AND WITHOUT A SCAR

"I have a cousin in Rockingham Co. who once had a skin disease from birth until she was six years of age. Her father had spent a fortune on her to get her cured and none of the treatments did her any good. Old Dr. G. suggested that he try the Cuticura Remedies which he did. When he commenced to use it the child was almost in a solid scab. He had used it about two months and the child was well. I was there when they commenced to use your Cuticura Remedies. I stayed that week and then returned home and stayed two weeks and then went back and stayed with them two weeks longer and when I went home I could hardly believe she was the same child. Her skin was as soft as a baby's without a scar on it. I have not seen her in seventeen years but I have heard from her and the last time I heard from her she was well. That is where I became acquainted with Cuticura. I hope this may be of some service to you in the future. Mrs. W. P. Ingle, Burlington, N. C., June 16, 1905."

THE BIBLICAL ALPS.

Dec. 29, '07. (Review).

For the past twelve months we have been walking amid the Biblical Alps. It has been a marvelous succession of ancient worthies who have passed before us, Adam, Enoch, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Joshua, Gideon, Ruth, Samuel, and the list goes on. We have seen the world's history, and we have beheld some of the mightiest factors in its development. We have seen how these great names are inextricably linked together like the parts of a chain, no one of them independent, each of them laying hold of the others in the great succession.

Like the great mountains the most of these men rear their heads into the clouds, majestic, grand, awful, stupendous, far removed from human fellowship and familiarity. We cannot think of Adam on the line of sociability; Moses, the man of Sinai and the tables of stone; Samuel, the man to whom God talked freely, always appears to us to be clothed with dignity as with a garment. We hold aloof from such men and stand afar off, recognizing their superiority, freely acknowledging that they are superior to ourselves. We cannot think of the idea that somehow they were a sort of demi-god among men. Just as we gaze in awe upon the inaccessible heights and vast bulk of Mount Blanc, and are conscious of our littleness in such a presence, so the most of us regard these Old Testament heroes and heroines as something so infinitely removed from our sphere as to be unapproachable.

And yet, the great mountains have their rough and rugged sides, which have been rent by earthquake shock, smitten by lightning, blasted by fire, scathed by water, aspects which are far from pleasing. And as we have reviewed the lines of these pathfinders of history, we have discovered that they too were men with like passions as ourselves. The Bible does not attempt to dodge the facts, nor to cover and explain away the faults of its characters. So we have discovered that these great Biblical Alps show rugged aspects and storm smitten elements. Adam, is remembered chiefly by the fact of his fall; Enoch, by his own father, is not the example, which his posterity have universally followed, of doing what he was forbidden to do and suffering the consequences. About the only man in the lot against whom no charge is brought is Enoch, but one perfect man in 3,000 years is not a very high average. We are glad that there was one, we are surprised that there were not more. Abraham lied and was no gentleman in his treatment of Hagar; Jacob was a schemer and a deceiver of his own father, a sharp driver of bargains; Moses lost his temper several times and was great provocation and slew an Egyptian, which act sent him into exile for many years, and so on, and so on.

Mark you! There is never a word of palliation or excuse for the bad conduct of these men. Just as nature leaves the scars of lightning, flood and fire all visible to whose eyes will look, so the Bible does not attempt to cover up iniquity in any man. But it gives most people a feeling that after all these Alpine men were but flesh and blood to what the story of their weaknesses. We instinctively feel that there is hope for us if such men were accepted. When we see that even these old heroes met the very same temptations we meet every day, to lie, to deceive, to be harsh, to be unjust, to be unchaste, to scorn people, to take advantage of their ignorance, we somehow come to feel that they were real men after all.

And then, just like the mountains there was a tender and gentle and gracious aspect which we have discovered about these men. The mountains are not all crags and peaks and cloud-capped, thunder-smitten summits. They have pleasant valleys, and mossy dells, green slopes and vine covered terraces, they are vocal with song birds and fragrant with flowers. So with these Biblical Alps. Adam, Enoch, is no great attraction, but when we see his tender love for Eve, a love so strong that he deliberately shared her folly that they might not be separated even in banishment, he becomes a different creature. Abraham and Sarah, Isaac and Rebekah, Jacob and Rachel, Moses and Miriam, the gentle pure-hearted Ruth and the noble mother of Samuel, all manifest in twining wreaths and garlands of these rugged old heroes, covering up their deformities with the tender ministries of love. Happy the man who like them has some dear one as parent, companion or friend to chide him when he is tempted to go astray, to weep over him if he is overtaken in a fault, and to love him to the end.

Those Old Testament men and women are not dead; they were never so much alive as now. As the Alps have an attraction for travelers from all the world, so all the world is gazing in admiration and wonder at the men and women whose mighty bulk is seen in the land where the human race began.

PRE-COOLING OF FRUIT.

Method Which is a Great Saving to California Growers.

For years there has been great loss from decay in shipping fresh fruits, both citrus and deciduous, from this State to Eastern markets. The railroads have seldom been able to get fruit through on schedule time and the necessary allowances for delay has compelled growers to pick their fruit before it was fully ripe, to the loss of some of the flavor and also to the loss of some of the weight, which the fruit would gain if left on the tree. Some fruits—pears, for example—ripen best after picking and are regularly picked quite green, but other fruits do not.

Fruit picked in a temperature in the sun of more than 70 degrees and packed into boxes at once carried very nearly that temperature into the car with it, and it was found that a carload closely packed would probably be more than 1,000 miles on its journey East before being cooled by the ice to a temperature unfavorable to decay, and by that time much of the fruit which was reasonably ripe before picking was in a bad way and went right to pieces when exposed to warm air on arrival.

The evident remedy for that was to cool the fruit before shipment, says the San Francisco Chronicle, and ingenious men got to work devising practicable methods of cooling the fruit to a proper temperature before starting the car. This is accomplished by exhausting the air in a car or in a room before loading, and replacing it with air made cool by passing over ice. By the use of machinery the warmed air is continually drawn out and replaced by the cold air, the circulation being continuous. By this method a carload of fruit can in two or three hours be reduced to the temperature in which the spores of decay will not grow and which under former conditions it might not reach for a week after starting on its journey in a refrigerator car. The expense is said not to exceed two or three cents a crate. The fruit can therefore, be allowed to get ripe enough to acquire its distinctive flavor and still reach its destination in far better condition than formerly with correspondingly better prices to growers.

Experiments have now been made for a long enough period to demonstrate the value of the process, and cooling plants are being rapidly installed at all shipping stations of importance. When the shipments from a station are not large enough to justify the installation of a plant to cool the cars can be cooled at the first cooling station on the journey. It is evident that within two or three years the cooling plants will be generally installed, and it is believed that the invention will be found one of the most profitable improvements in the art of handling fresh fruits yet made.

Dishwashing Machine.

and a pair of revolvable brushes arranged to operate on the opposite faces of the articles to be washed. There is also a small stationary brush which forms a support for the central portion of the dish. The mode of operation will be obvious at a glance. There is no doubt, but that the dishes will be thoroughly cleaned, all particles adhering to the dishes being quickly removed by the revolving brushes, which turn the dish around, at the same time bringing each portion into contact with the brushes.

Far-Seeing Geology.

The great project for rendering the Rhine navigable right up to the Swiss lakes has brought to light one or two great difficulties that will have to be encountered. It appears that during the 40 years that the river has been embanked the stream has settled three feet deeper in its bed, and there is a hard prospect for Lake Constance, which will become the river's reserve basin. Some day the drift earth from the Rhine will choke it up and make its 300 square miles of site so much plow land. But that will take 12,000 years.

Reading Into the Telephone.

A young Philadelphia woman of good family but reduced means, who has retained an extensive acquaintance among her aristocratic associates, has hit upon a novel and original means of earning a livelihood by the use of her voice and excellent reading ability. She has combined some of her wealthy friends of advanced years into a reading circle, who listen to her over their telephone for their evening's entertainment. She has been successful in her venture.

TIRED AND SICK YET MUST WORK

"Man may work from sun to sun but woman's work is never done." In order to keep the home neat and pretty, the children well dressed and tidy, women overdo and often suffer in silence, drifting along from bad to worse, knowing well that they ought to have help to overcome the pains and aches which daily make life a burden.

It is to these women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, comes as a blessing. When the spirits are depressed, the head and back aches, there are dragging-down pains, nervousness, sleeplessness, and reluctance to go anywhere, these are only symptoms which unless heeded, are soon followed by the worst forms of female complaint.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound keeps the feminine organism in a strong and healthy condition. It cures inflammation, ulceration, displacements, and organic troubles. In preparing for child-birth and to carry women safely through the changes of life it is most efficient.

Mrs. Augustus Lyon, of East Earl, Pa., writes:—Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—For a long time I suffered from female troubles and had all kinds of aches and pains in the lower part of back and sides, I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following the advice which you gave me I feel like a new woman and I cannot praise your medicine too highly."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Out of her vast volume of experience she probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

AN AVERTED SACRIFICE.

By Douglas Alexander.

One can always find a quiet spot in Hurlingham," said the man. "There is no solitude like that to be found in a crowd." The woman at the side made no answer to the solitude. Her eyes showed that her mind was far from the gay scene of the changing scene, and there was an unaccustomed hesitation resting on her finely chiseled features, as if she wavered indecision.

She looked very handsome. Though no longer in her first youth, she was still a rare among women, a fair specimen of the female sex. She wore a gown of blue and white, and a hat of brown at would lead the fashion, and was certain to be copied in Dover street the morrow, for although so young she did not visit Mrs. Ransleigh, it did not disdain to imitate her taste in dress, which was everywhere allowed to be perfect.

"I have been alone all my life," she said at that, for, while she had not answered it, the thought had not occurred to her that she had heard his remark. Her words gave him the opportunity he had been waiting.

"Ah, but you will be alone no longer," he replied in low tones. "Surely, you must give way to me this; let my will be your will." He shook her head. "It would never do. It would spoil your whole life."

"You wrong yourself by such words," he returned. "Listen, Eunice, let me tell you a story."

"No," she protested. "I know exactly what you are going to say. You want to make my part of it to have been that of a heroine. What it did was really little but a sudden impulse, no more."

They were seated a little apart from the well-dressed crowd, as much alone as if they had been in a desert place.

"Granted that it was no more than a impulse—it was still an impulse that saved my life," he returned, earnestly. She stared at him, not understanding. "Yes," he went on, "I was so much surprised that I did not and should have done so if you had not come to me that night, more like an angel than a woman, and made a pathway for my stumbling feet. I had contracted debts of honor which I could not repay. To-morrow I should have been branded with the stigma of dishonor that would have ruined me. You came to win, but where your debts had no meet, I could have faced death, without disgrace of that kind. You heard of my hopelessness and degradation; guessed it, perhaps, and ordered upon me the money that gave me back my forfeited honor, would make no denial. Ah, Eunice, Eunice, I think you can never have been too "Wherefore you had saved. A lady's love, perhaps, but true love for all that." His gray eyes shone with an emotion that was rare in him—there were rich notes in his pleasant voice. "But remember," he added, after a pause, "that I took this help from you upon the condition."

"You altered, and looked away from him."

"That foolish promise," she murmured. "Why, it all happened ages ago." Her lightness was admirably assumed, but the man heard the tremor in her tone, noted the restlessness of the gloved hands.

"It's a promise that I shall hold sacred," he said, "and I am sorry that I have not ruined my life before that night."

"By my marriage with a woman whom I loved. Yet, knowing this, knowing that I was tied to this woman—"

"Morant, vulgar—you still promised me, not in jest, Eunice, but in earnest, that if I should ever be free, you would marry me!"

"That was the promise you gave me, and now—now I am free."

"But what you wish can never be," she said vehemently. "You are years younger than I. This other woman tricked you into marriage—I know all about that—when you were only a boy. Shall I trick you into marriage now that you are a man?"

"You must not talk like that, Eunice," was the grave reply. "There can be no question of trickery between you and me. I know my own mind now, at any rate."

She turned to him quickly. "Listen, Philip," she said. "It is useless to quarrel with an unimportant person. You are never thought to hold the title. But since fate has given it to you—ought you to marry me?"

That is the point to decide. As Philip Hardinge might have accepted you, despite all other objections—my own age, my—my dubious reputation—but as Lord Arneston I think I must say—no. And another thing that demands consideration is this: would society take me in its fold? I doubt that very much. You know what my husband's occupation was: you know how his name is excoriated as that of a notorious moneylender, whose methods of extortion were as mercenary as they were vile, and you know that society proper has always cold-shouldered me—his widow.

"Dunice, you know perfectly well that the world will receive my wife."

The looks of

Don't be too generous, Phillip," said, earnestly. "Don't do what brings you regret. If you permit me I'm sure I shall yield—warn you."

He placed his hand on hers for a moment.

"You helped me once, dearest of all," he said; "let me help you now."

"I know that there is one great thing in your life that as yet has been ungratified. You want to be had died, leaving her alone in the world, and partly as a harbor of refuge for herself, a place where she could forget the busy world and the cares of her household and find a warm, peaceful and silent refuge. There was a charming building, a small garden, a close-growing vine that made pleasant shade, the air was drenched with the perfume of roses, passion flowers glowed like immense stars against the red brick walls, and the flowers of the water-lilies of rose-trees, a twining profusion of varied color betrayed where the sweet pea blossomed.

Miss Rastleigh had a very tender feeling of protective love for the girl whose life she had made her own responsibility, and she always looked forward with eager pleasure to staying at Dawn Cottage, where Isabel Rastleigh lived, her sole companion in the quiet, unadventured, in whom she saw the reflection of her own past. Miss Rastleigh had happily married, and the elder woman had rarely taken time to visit to London; but when her husband died, she had been keen as fragrant as the flowers in her garden.

 She was tall and slim, and gave buds have ripened into blossom.

 Mrs. Rashileigh gazed at her searchingly when, upon following after her, she saw the girl drinking tea in the cool of the garden, seeking to read if change had come to Isabel since last visit—three months ago.
 "Yes—there was a change—she denoted that at once, the look of undisturbed youth had gone—her eyes were no longer the eyes of a child.
 "But he did not ask for her confidence in him, though she knew that there was no one else who had to be trusted at the girl would give him permission to tell it her. But presently, on a night fell, and they were

Mrs. Rashleigh turned to Is-and addressed her in low tones, speaking words that were half serious, half playful.

"Give me an answer for some moment, please, then she spoke in a familiar voice:

"Yes—there is something I want to know, Annie, a secret that is on my heart."

Mrs. Rashleigh glanced at her unwillingly, wondering at the throbs of pain in the dear young tones.

"Let me tell it you as if—as if it were a story—a fairy tale," Isabel stammered, and then she paused again.

"Let me help you," whispered
Mrs. Rashleigh. "I—I know about these things. There was once, let me say, a little girl who lived alone in a little house. She was quite contained, perfectly happy, until—"she to the girl's life," murmured Is-prince, because there were no drag-meeting wasn't exactly a romantic one. A shower of rain and a proffered umbrella started it. The fairy prince wasn't so young, but he was nearly as much loved by a princess as if it were the same. He had the voice and the smile and the gentle ways of a prince, and the girl knew that he loved her, as she loved him, though he never told her directly of that love. But—the girl knew why he did not speak. One day—he ex-some women, his promise that he had no thought of leaving,

"I do not know. It would have spoiled the charm, a fairy prince must never disclose his name. He asked no questions, and I asked none."

"And you care for him?"

"A wonderful light came into the girl's face, her eyes shone.

"Yes, I care for him; care for him with all my heart and soul."

Mrs. Rashileigh sat up late that night, thinking of the girl's broken love-story, and, finding herself distressed for sleep, went downstairs to search for a book. Turning over some papers on a table her eyes fell upon some sketches in pencil, all of them outlined profiles. She took them

Now that she knew Philip home once, she felt him a honor bound to remain true to himself. If earlier in that evening he had been compelled to say no, it was she valued most in Arreston's proposal she would said that it was the position he could give to her. But now was a more noble pain, a keener than that frustrated social ambition.
He loved him.
Without knowing it, she must have loved him for years. But the last hours had rent the veil, and her with the full realization of this meant to her, this rellinquent not one of the position entered her, but of the man himself.
And what if his fancy had strayed in the direction of sweet and

Why? He was not a man whose words would be easily held by a girl—least, she did not think that he and her judgment of character always been excellent.

"I knew that," she pitted herself against Isabel, and used all her weapons—her beauty, that was still miraculously fresh, her tact, her charm, her personality, her knowledge of life—that the victory did be hers. She did not under-estimate herself; she knew her own value.

And then she thought of the girl's face; her wistful eyes.

"I must give him up," she said, and sat, speaking aloud. "Yes, I must give him up."

She sat down at a little writing table and penned a brief, determined letter which betrayed no sign of the beating heart which dictated it. She wrote it to prove to him that she could be magnanimous.

She signed up when the letter was "The world shall be as filled with beavers to them as the garden is believe," she murmured; "and what though we there will be but the desert—the desert—the desert!"

He turned back toward the room weeping—for what she had fallen into slumber toward dreams, and was awakened from by Isahel, who burst in as a radiant face.

"Auntie!" she exclaimed, "wake and hear my news, for the unhappy has happened, Mr. fairy cane is here; yes, I'm free to love ma-woman for whom he did not has jilted him. He has written telling me this, the letter came tea-tell us."

Mr. Rashleigh looked up with beattered eyes. Her own letter of association had not even been posted as yet. This could be no reply to her letter.

She listened to the girl's happy words, shared her delight in this story ending so her love story—when she had heard all the asking a question:

"I found some sketches of yours labeled, last night; a man's face. Do you know him?"

The girl turned a perplexed face toward her.

"It is not a friend of mine, auntie," answered. "I thought it must be one you knew. You left a photograph behind the last time you were here. I amused myself with looking it because it is a fine face."
 "You tell me who it is?"

Mr. Rashleigh did not speak for some moments, then she made reply in a low, clear voice:

Tree Trunks as Filters.
A well known Austrian engineer, Pfister, is stated to have discovered a remarkable property of the trunks of trees, namely, that of retaining in the sap the water that has passed through the trunk in the section of the fibres. He has consequently constructed an apparatus designed to utilize this property in obtaining potable water for the use of sailing crews. This apparatus consists of a pump, which sucks up the water into a reservoir, and then forces it into the slit formed by the tree trunk. As soon as the sap reaches 1.5 to 2.5 atmospheres the water is seen, at the end from one to three minutes, according to the kind of wood used, to make its exit from the other extremity.

ly of the trunk, at first in drops and then in thin streams, the water is a glaucous being potent, freed in it, from every particle of the usual taste which is such a drawback to water obtained in the ordinary manner.—Railway Review.

Naplesian Willows Gone.
The last of the six willow trees that grew from slips taken from the low willow trees of the Grand Canal at St. Helena, which were planted just opposite the same street of the Brooklyn navy yard, has been cut down. Admiral Breeze brought the slips to America 50 years ago. The trees began to decay five years ago, with the result that they are now down.

REPUBLIC ON ISLAND.

Five hundred Will Sail From New York—To Elect President Yearly.

Five hundred Americans, Germans, Irish, Swedes and Russians, including clergymen, butchers, salesmen, bookkeepers, stenographers, printers and carpenters will leave New York on the 15th of next month for San Francisco. There will be sailors in the party, too, for the 500 are to go away from that port in a bark to seek homes in the South Pacific ocean, or rather in one of the islands that dot portions of it.

Back of the expedition is Elmer S. Prather, president of the Modern Science Publishing Company. Mr. Prather is a sociologist. Last June, it seems, becoming convinced that the wage earner was gradually becoming weaker as the "trust" and the combination were growing stronger, he decided to start a South sea colony. So he discussed the matter with friends, and then started to carry out the plan, with the result that up to date 478 members have been accepted. Only $300 is required to participate in the enterprise, the entire amount to be put into a common fund to institute a co-operative colony in some island in the South Pacific.

When the proper island is found, everyone will settle down to business. Everyone who can will be expected to work six hours a day, although everyone may have four weeks' vacation a year. The colony will be non-sectarian and the form of government that of a republic, with a President elected every year. He will choose his Cabinet, but there will be no Secretary of War.

Shredded coconut will be the chief product of the colony, but the members may make a try at tobacco-raising and other crops suitable to the climate.

Remarks From Allen On The Years 1907 and 1908.

Editors Advertiser:—

The year 1907 is nearing the period that places it with the things of the irretrievable past. The sun of 1907 will soon set to rise no more, regardless of whether it was a glorious or a gloomy day. The fair queen of night will only a little longer spread her silvery mantle over the departing form of 1907. Nineteen hundred and seven has witnessed many changes and inaugurated many reforms, and will leave behind many problems for 1908 to solve.

Many warm and generous hearts that pulsed with high and radiant hope with the birth of 1907, respond no longer to the throbbings of nature. Touched by the finger of the angel of another sphere, they wake to the tune of another clime.

Many eyes that brightened and sparkled with pleasurable anticipations, have closed to open no more upon the things of this world. The old year grows weak and short of breath, and will soon depart. The vacancies occasioned by the departure of honored and loved ones, remained not long unfilled. The person who waited for the dead man's shoes mounts the stage, and with a crack of the whip and a jerk of the reins, shouts, On, Dander, on! And thus it is. What it all means is the greatest of mysteries to me. I can see naught but a mad chase after the will-o-the-wisp.

It would seem that nature has some great object in view that can only be attained through the instrumentality of deep human beings. But that object seems to belong to the conjectural. Eat, grow, propagate, die, seems to be all of life. Fellowman, showest thou me more? We preach: cultivate; cultivate, refine; refine. Strive after the ideal. What and where is the ideal to which all should turn the eye? Each one has his own ideal. And, besides, if all were scholars, who would be the scavengers? I don't see any Ph. D.'s or L. L. D.'s looking for these jobs. Answer the questions without equivocation or circumlocution.

But turn we now to other themes. Others have said their say, relative to the causes of the signal Democratic triumph in Wicomico County last election. Normally democratic, no money, much negro spell, without doubt, the no-secret. No money plus much negro and the democrats, in Wicomico, will win every time, provided—let that stand for the present.

If duty had always been man's guiding star, there would have been no little need of such places as that called hades, where the king of darkness is said to dwell.

And, if man were as anxious to benefit his fellow man, as he is to secure office, there would be little cause for complaint, and reforms would be accomplished with dispatch. But how many occupy the lofty, altruistic position of the wholly unselfish man?

One of the reforms to which I refer in these closing remarks, as being in order, is the adoption of the Torrens land registry system, which has already been adopted by several of the states, and means progress, and improvement and economy, and is badly needed. The old, cumbersome, complicated and costly system, is out of tune with the times and must go.

The Democratic party now has the opportunity to measure up to the requirements of the times and the expectations of those who elected them to office, and to prove that they stand for something more than politics, office, salary and perquisites; and if it fail in this, what? Well—

Miss Annie Burkhardt, 30 years old, thought she was entertaining a pauper in Thomas Caldwell, an aged recluse who went to Pensacola, Fla., from Chicago two years ago with a stock of groceries in a trunk and who eked out a miserable existence by peddling fish and food.

Miss Burkhardt ministered to the man when he was ill, and he often said she had saved his life.

The girl has just received information that she has been made the sole heir of the estate of Caldwell, valued at $75,000, and that Caldwell's four sons had been cut off with $1 each.

Fertile Facts.

One sixth of the deaths from disease are due to consumption. Ninety eight per cent. of all those who have used Dr. Pierce's Golden Discovery for "weak lungs," have been perfectly and permanently cured. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is not advertised to cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will do that. The "Discovery" does cure obstinate lingering or hang on coughs and all those catarrhal conditions of throat and bronchial passages which if not properly treated end in consumption. Take the "Discovery" in time and it gives a fair and faithful trial it will seldom disappoint.

Free. Dr. Pierce's great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one cent stamps for paper covered book or 31 stamps for a copy in cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo N. Y.

This woman says that sick women should not fail to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she did.
Mrs. A. Gregory, of 2355 Lawrence St., Denver, Col., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:
"I was practically an invalid for six years, on account of female troubles. I underwent an operation by the doctor's advice, but in a few months I was worse than before. A friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it restored me to perfect health, such as I have not enjoyed in many years. Any woman suffering as I did with backache, bearing-down pains, and periodic pains, should not fail to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?
Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HOUSE and DECORATIVE PAINTING.
Work done in a thorough and workmanlike manner.
ESTIMATES CHEERFULLY GIVEN.
THEODORE W. DAVIS,
BALTIMORE, MD.

There are dainty touches of femininity about the model, however. The collar is a little wider than collars of former seasons have been, and this is notched to reveal a plain grey moire silk, applied with medallions of heavy lace. Large silk buttons of dark green, appearing upon the front and three-quarter sleeves, finish the decorative outline of the coat.
Most of the latest coat models of the tailored order show a lengthened line, and single and double breasted effects seem equally in favor. Both open the way for any amount of dainty independent accessories in the way of collars, revers, Empire vests and like details, and the general idea of trimming is repeated in the sleeves.
All the authoritative information from foreign fashion centers emphasizes the importance of plaids for coats and coat suits, and the materials and designs are so multitudinous that one need never fear selecting models that will lose their modishness through over-popularity.

Four Hints Worth Trying.
Never use a metal spoon when stewing fruit. Get a two cent wooden one and use that.
Put several grains of popcorn with the salt in the shakers. They will keep the salt loosened up.
To remove steel rust rub well with sweet oil and allow it to stand two days. Then rub with powdered unslaked lime and a soft leather.
Try lifting the bedclothes from the feet of an invalid by placing an old hat box under the quilts. This will relieve the pressure that often becomes quite painful.

Home Pretty Novelties.
Net, closely dotted, is tied into big haunting bows, to be worn under the chin. Some of the bows are shown in white with colored dots, and others are in palest pink, lavender and blue.
The most modish gowns have the highest stocks. They are molded snugly up to the throat and fit close behind and in back to the very roots of the hair.
For strictly tailored shirtwaists linen turnover collars, either plain or embroidered, and worn with smart little silk bows to match the skirt, continue popular. The collar, however, are much higher than those shown earlier in the season.

Types of "Phobias."
There is a class of well-defined "phobias," as they are called, with which nerve sufferers are plagued. Monophobia, or fear of being alone; catrophobia, or fear of closed-in spaces; a gorgophobia, or fear of crowds or of mixed open spaces; "insomniophobia," or fear of not going to sleep, and many others. The one great remedy for all these and similar mental disorders writes Dr. Samuel McComb in Good Housekeeping, is auto-suggestion.

And from the heart within Finds God and man bird its kin.
All class distinctions appear
Death is new life and health a-sure
Brother is he to "or" and seraph
"Slave to the wheel," mayhap, kings to him
And millionaires seem paupers, from them
Life has withheld its luminous green gem:
Or if his badge be sceptre, hoe or hod That man is king who knows that love is God.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

WHAT THE KIDNEYS DO.
Their Increasing Work Keeps Us Strong And Healthy.
All the blood in the body passes through the kidneys once over three minutes. The kidneys filter the blood. They work night and day. When healthy they remove about 500 grains of impure matter daily, when unhealthy some part of this impure matter is left in the blood. This brings on many diseases and symptoms—pain in the back, headache, nervousness, hot dry skin, rheumatism, gout, gravel, disorders of the eyesight and hearing, dizziness, irregular heart, debility, drowsiness, drops, etc. But if you keep the filter right you will have no trouble with your kidneys.
J. D. Conibourn, farmer, living two miles out from Salisbury, Md., says: "My first attack of kidney complaint was in 1890. I was laid up three weeks at that time. I seemed to recover and able to be around. I had two more attacks when it settled down to a regular daily backache and misery through my loins, limbs, joints and muscles. I do not think that was wholly free from pain one moment during that four years. It was as bad at night as during the day. I doctored, and think I used every known remedy for kidney trouble, at least everyone that I heard of. Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and I got them at White and Leonard's drug store. The first box gave me so much relief that I kept on taking them using in all several boxes. They cured me and the cure was a lasting one as not a vestige of the trouble has ever returned. I made a statement for publication in 1903 endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills, and it gives me great pleasure at this time May 11, 1907, to reiterate all that I said in my former statement." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.
Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts.

ART A BANK ACCOUNT

look on to-day as a mere place, a stop-over point where do not unpack our baggage, but take out the few articles we need for the night, and leave every thing read for the journey of to-morrow.
It is rare to find a person who does not feel that he is still en route to something beyond. The interest centers in something a little further on, not here.

There is always the "beyond".
We are always getting ready for tomorrow for the time when we are really going to live, when everything will be settled, and all things set right, we shall get out of discord into harmony, out of error into truth when we shall get freedom from the things which annoy and shall be surrounded by our friends in the midst of comfort and luxuries. All our faculties and energies are focused on some distant picture; and when we arrive at the point where we thought attainments dwell; we shall probably find that the rainbow has moved on and is as far in advance as before. So multitudes of people impress us as always on the hunt for the real object of their lives, and as not yet having found it.—Orison Sweet Marden in Success Magazine.

The Four D's.

Charles Spurgeon once said that there were three great enemies to man—"dirt, debt and the devil." He might have one more and include dyspepsia. The evil result of this disease could hardly be exaggerated. It's effects are felt in mind and body and are so far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the Jackdaw of Rheims which was cursed in "eating and drinking and sleeping, in standing and sitting and lying."
The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most marked in aggravated and chronic cases of dyspepsia. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quantity of digestive fluids and this at once removes that cramping or gnawing sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the torpid liver and gives the blood making glands keen assimilative power. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures ninety eight per cent of those who use it.
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are superior to all other laxative medicine when the bowels are obstructed.

to support them. Good water, fine cliwhat they will produce. Climate modified by ocean and bay. Come and look, is all we ask. Farms of 150 to 1,500 acres. Six thousand acres at an average of $10 to $25 per acre. The Eastern Shore of Maryland, because of its position, is becoming the garden of the Northern and Eastern cities; so these prices are only temporary.

Why go to the wilds and spend your for less money, in a better climate and
