

ADVERTISER.

$1 Per Annum in Advance.

NUMBER 25

Mr. President, as a reason why this resolution not only should pass, but why it should command the attention of every man in the Senate and in country, the

aving es-

LEWEL MALONE, Editor.

"TRUTH WITHOUT FEAR."

$1 Per Annum in Advance.

VOLUME VII.

SALISBURY, WICOMICO CO., MARYLAND, SATURDAY, MARCH 28, 1874.

NUMBER 28

Salisbury Advertisements.

HOLLAND & COOPER,
ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.
Practice in the Courts of Maryland and Delaware.

HUSTON HUMPHREYS,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.
Will attend strictly to business entrusted to his care. Office West of the A. G. Towdine & Co. Main Street.

LEWEL MALONE,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.
Will attend strictly to all legal business entrusted to him, and to the sale of Real Estate.

PENINSULAR HOUSE,
MAIN STREET, SALISBURY, MD.
J. TRACY, Proprietor.
E. STANLEY TOADVIN,
Attorney at Law,
SALISBURY, MD.
Office four doors from the PENINSULAR HOUSE.

THOMAS HUMPHREYS,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.
Practice in the Courts of Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico Counties.
Prompt attention given to the collection of claims.

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,
SALISBURY, MD.
Will attend promptly to all business entrusted to him.

JOHN D. TRUITT,
JUSTICE OF THE PEACE,
SALISBURY, MD.
Office near to E. L. Bell's.
Prompt attention given to the collection of claims, and all other business entrusted to his care.

DR. L. S. BELL,
Graduate of "Baltimore Dental College."
(Session of 1864).
DENTIST,
MAIN ST.,
SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

At this Establishment may be found at all times a well selected stock of Parlor, Sitting Room and Kitchen Stoves, Ranges, and all work guaranteed. Orders for Stoves from abroad will receive prompt attention, and such orders will be filled on as satisfactory terms as if the buyer were present. No charge for shipping goods. So call and see for yourselves before purchasing elsewhere. Store repairs attended to at short notice. (Oct-18-17.)

PENINSULAR STOVE HOUSE!!!
GEORGE W. MCBRIETY, Prop'r.

MAIN ST.,
SALISBURY, MD.

A. W. WOODCOCK,
Has on Hand
THE FINEST ASSORTMENT OF
Elgin, Waltham & Springfield
AMERICAN WATCHES

Also
SWISS & ENGLISH WATCHES,
For Ladies and Gentlemen, solid 18k gold;
fine Gold Chains, Opera, Matinee, Leontine and Chateleine; handsome stock of Plain, Carved
and Enamelled Jewelry; Bracelets, Sleeve-
buttons, Studs,
etc., etc.

Setts, Rings,
Charms, Gold Keys,
Armeds, Gent's Pins,
Shawl Pins, Scarf Pins, Em-
blematical designs 18k Wedding Rings, etc., etc.

SILVER AND PLATED WARE
Finest quality Cutlery, Table and Tea
Spoons, Forks and Knives, Butter
Berry dishes, Cake and Card
Baskets, Napkin Rings, Ladies, Fruit Knives, Pickle Fork, Sugar and Pro-
serve Spoons, Full line of Black Jewelry.

Celebrated Mable & Todd Pens
None made finer and none can equal.
Agent for the celebrated Lazarus & Morris Spectacles.

Full line of Gold, Silver, Steel and Rubber Spectacles and Eye Glasses.
SILVER WATCHES
Just received a large stock of CLOCKS—Very Low.

Watches, Clocks and Jewelry carefully and practically repaired and warranted.
AMOS W. WOODCOCK,
MAIN ST., SALISBURY, MD.

Baltimore Advertisements.

(ESTABLISHED 1811.)
A. E. WARNER
Manufacturer of Silver Ware, Rich Jewelry
Importers & Dealers in Diamonds, Fine Watches, Silver-Plated Ware,
Table Cutlery, Fancy Articles, &c.
No. 135 West Baltimore Street,
Baltimore.

WM. L. HOOPER & SONS,
Manufacturers and Dealers in
TWINES, NETTING, CORDAGE, AND Woodberry Cotton Duck,
OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
Office Corner South & Pratt Streets,
BALTIMORE, MD.
Oct-18-17.

The Seed of Death
is iniquity," but the THOMAS M. SEEDS
whose

CHEAP HATS & CAPS
go ahead everywhere, is to be found at
NO. 41 NORTH SECOND STREET,
Philadelphia, Pa.

JAMES E. TROTT,
No. 82 Centre Market Space, Baltimore.
WHOLESALE DEALER IN HATS, CAPS & FURS.
READY-MADE CLOTHING,
S. K. G. HENRY'S.

OIL CLOTHING—A SPECIALTY.
WHEN YOU VISIT BALTIMORE
CALL AT
Milliken's Linen Store,
168 BALTIMORE ST.,
For Linen Goods and Shirts.
DEVRIES, YOUNG & CO.
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES.

310 West Baltimore Street,
Baltimore, Md.
WILLIAM DEVRIES,
ALEX. YOUNG,
S. K. G. HENRY'S.

PRICE LIST
OF
B. WASKEY'S
FURNITURE
WAREHOUSES.

No. 3, Nth. Gay Street,
NEAR BALTIMORE STREET.

Wall Chamber Suits $15.00 to $50.00
Parlor Suits 20.00 to 50.00
Bedroom Suits 15.00 to 40.00
Children's Suits 5.00 to 15.00
Cotton Suits 10.00 to 25.00
Woolen Suits 15.00 to 35.00
Lounge Suits 10.00 to 25.00
Chairs, per doz. 8.00 to 15.00
Rugby or Bed Room Suits 10.00 to 25.00
Mats or Suits 15.00 to 25.00
Feather Beds, Bedding, Pillows, Bolsters,
etc., etc.

At the Lowest Rates.
"COME AND SEE US."
Feb. 21, '74-17.

GEORGE PAGE & CO.,
Patent Portable Circular
SAW MILLS,
ALSO STATIONARY PORTABLE
STEAM ENGINES,
No. 6 Schroeder St.,
BALTIMORE, MD.

Portable Steam Engines,
Slinging Machines, Drag and Butting
Saws,
Stationary Steam Engines,
Harrel Machinery, Saw Gummets
Steam Boilers—all kinds.
Wool-Working Machinery—all kinds.
Gang, Mule and Saw Saw Mills.
Circular Saws—Inserted, Perforated
and Plain Teeth.
Portable Grist Mills, Horse Powers,
Shafing and Pulleys,
Timber Wheels, Log and Lumber Cars,
Mill Gearing,
Log Cutting Machines, Log Jacks,
Casting and General Machine Work
Leeds' Turbine Water Wheel.

Agricultural Engines A Specialty.
SEND FOR DESCRIPTIVE CATALOGUE—
July 5-17.

Office of PHILADELPHIA GAS WORKS,
No. 20 South Seventh Street,
Philadelphia, Pa.
Sealed proposals will be received until noon of Thursday, February 19th, for the fuel line made at the Point Breeze, 9th Ward, Spring Garden and Maybank Gas Works. Bids will be received to each work, or for the entire amount. Address a above to the Chairman of the Committee on Gas Works.

Proposals for Fuel Line
THOMAS R. BROWN,
Engineer.

JAN-31-17
AMERICAN HOTEL,
CHESTNUT STREET,
Opposite Old Independence Hall,
PHILADELPHIA.

S. M. HEULINGS, - - Proprietor,
Feb-7-17

MARCH.
In the snowing and the blowing,
In the cruel sleet,
Little flowers begin their growing
Far beneath our feet.
Softly taps the Spring and cheerily—
"Darlings, are you here?"
Till they answer: "We are nearly,
Nearly ready, dear."

"Where is winter, with his snowing?
Tell us, Spring," they say,
Then she answers: "He is going,
Going on his way.
Poor old Winter does not love you—
But his time is past;
Soon my birds shall sing above you—
Set you free at last!"

With a cry of terror she sprang to
her feet, her hand stained with blood,
for from his side a small stream welled
up slowly.

"He is dead and has been murdered."
"No."

It was almost a whisper, and the
heavy lids raised from the dark eyes,
eyes filled with anguish, but yet
strangely dark and fascinating.

"Thank God, there is yet hope; be quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will
tell you all in my power," exclaimed
Leone, and drawing her habit around
her, she ran rapidly a few paces down
the road to where it was crossed by
a small stream, and saturating her
handkerchief drew aside the clothing
and placed it upon the wound—a
small bullet wound in the left side
over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet,
and I will soon return," she said softly, hardly knowing whether she was
heard or not, and then in an instant
she was in her saddle, dashing at
her utmost speed toward the nearest
farm-house.

Dashing like the wind up to the door, and startling quiet Farmer Jes-
sup, and his family nearly out of their
wits—Leone cried:

"Mr. Jessup, let your son ride at once to Dr. Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the road near Hillside Spring; tell him to
come there at once, and you, Mr.
Jessup, please come on with your
carriage, and bring all that you think
necessary."

Every one in the country knew
and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly obeyed her orders; observing
which, she wheeled her foaming horse
and again sped away on her return
to the wounded stranger.

There he lay just as she had left
him, but groaning lightly, and each
instant dampening the blood-stained
handkerchief, the girl awaited the
coming of the surgeon.

Would they never come? she
thought; but at length, when it seemed
hours instead of minutes, the sound
of wheels broke on her ear, and the
next instant the surgeon drove up at
a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss Lightfoot, and if this man lives he
owes it to you," said the good old
physician as he approached and knelt
beside the prostrate form.

"But will he live doctor?"
For some minutes no reply was
given by the man of science, who
carefully probed and examined the
wound, but then he said slowly:

"It is a serious injury—has he here I have the ball; yes, I hope he will live,"
and Dr. Wells took from the wound
a small bullet while he continued:

"Now he needs the most careful
nursing."

"He shall have it. Thank God,
here comes Mr. Jessup," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and
telling the doctor to come on with the
wounded stranger to her brother's
house Leone again mounted her horse
and rode on to have all in readiness
for his arrival.

It was a week before the stranger was
sufficiently recovered to tell his story
regarding the wound that had so nearly
proved fatal to him, and then by careful
nursing, he informed Leone, who had
been untiring in her devoted care of him,
that his name was Clarence Ainslie—
an Englishman, who nearly a year before
had come to America, and purchasing a few acres of land in the West, made it
his home.

He also stated that business had called
him to New York, and that while enjoying a horseback ride he had been suddenly fired upon, was thrown to the ground,
and had an indistinct remembrance that
some one was robbing him, for his watch,

the spot, glancing intently down in-
to the pale, upturned face.

The features were molded with remarkable regularity, the partly open-
mouth displayed even white teeth,
and the dark brown hair and mous-
tache, presented a marked contrast
to the white face, from which every tinge of color had fled. Dressed in a light summer suit, Leone even then
discovered that it was well and styl-
ishly made, while the gauntlet gloves
and riding whip proved that the
stranger had been on horseback.

"He has been thrown, doubtless,
but God grant he is not dead!" exclaimed the maiden as she knelt be-
side the prostrate form, and drew
aside the coat to put her hand upon
his heart.

With a cry of terror she sprang to
her feet, her hand stained with blood,
for from his side a small stream welled
up slowly.

"He is dead and has been murdered."
"No."

It was almost a whisper, and the
heavy lids raised from the dark eyes,
eyes filled with anguish, but yet
strangely dark and fascinating.

"Thank God, there is yet hope; be
quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will
tell you all in my power," exclaimed
Leone, and drawing her habit around
her, she ran rapidly a few paces down
the road to where it was crossed by
a small stream, and saturating her
handkerchief drew aside the clothing
and placed it upon the wound—a
small bullet wound in the left side
over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet,
and I will soon return," she said soft-
ly, hardly knowing whether she was
heard or not, and then in an instant
she was in her saddle, dashing at
her utmost speed toward the nearest
farm-house.

Dashing like the wind up to the
door, and startling quiet Farmer Jes-
sup, and his family nearly out of their
wits—Leone cried:

"Mr. Jessup, let your son ride at once to Dr. Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the
road near Hillside Spring; tell him to
come there at once, and you, Mr.
Jessup, please come on with your
carriage, and bring all that you think
necessary."

Every one in the country knew
and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly obeyed her orders; observing
which, she wheeled her foaming horse
and again sped away on her return
to the wounded stranger.

There he lay just as she had left
him, but groaning lightly, and each
instant dampening the blood-stained
handkerchief, the girl awaited the
coming of the surgeon.

Would they never come? she
thought; but at length, when it seemed
hours instead of minutes, the sound
of wheels broke on her ear, and the
next instant the surgeon drove up at
a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss
Lightfoot, and if this man lives he
owes it to you," said the good old
physician as he approached and knelt
beside the prostrate form.

"But will he live doctor?"
For some minutes no reply was
given by the man of science, who
carefully probed and examined the
wound, but then he said slowly:

"It is a serious injury—has he here I
have the ball; yes, I hope he will live,"
and Dr. Wells took from the wound
a small bullet while he continued:

"Now he needs the most careful
nursing."

"He shall have it. Thank God,
here comes Mr. Jessup," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and
telling the doctor to come on with the
wounded stranger to her brother's
house Leone again mounted her horse
and rode on to have all in readiness
for his arrival.

It was a week before the stranger was
sufficiently recovered to tell his story
regarding the wound that had so nearly
proved fatal to him, and then by careful
nursing, he informed Leone, who had
been untiring in her devoted care of him,
that his name was Clarence Ainslie—
an Englishman, who nearly a year before
had come to America, and purchasing a
few acres of land in the West, made it
his home.

He also stated that business had called
him to New York, and that while enjoy-
ing a horseback ride he had been sudden-
ly fired upon, was thrown to the ground,
and had an indistinct remembrance that
some one was robbing him, for his watch,

the spot, glancing intently down in-
to the pale, upturned face.

The features were molded with remarkable regularity, the partly open-
mouth displayed even white teeth,
and the dark brown hair and mous-
tache, presented a marked contrast
to the white face, from which every tinge of color had fled. Dressed in a
light summer suit, Leone even then
discovered that it was well and styl-
ishly made, while the gauntlet gloves
and riding whip proved that the
stranger had been on horseback.

"He has been thrown, doubtless,
but God grant he is not dead!" ex-
claimed the maiden as she knelt be-
side the prostrate form, and drew
aside the coat to put her hand upon
his heart.

With a cry of terror she sprang to
her feet, her hand stained with blood,
for from his side a small stream welled
up slowly.

"He is dead and has been murdered."
"No."

It was almost a whisper, and the
heavy lids raised from the dark eyes,
eyes filled with anguish, but yet
strangely dark and fascinating.

"Thank God, there is yet hope; be
quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will
tell you all in my power," exclaimed
Leone, and drawing her habit around
her, she ran rapidly a few paces down
the road to where it was crossed by
a small stream, and saturating her
handkerchief drew aside the clothing
and placed it upon the wound—a
small bullet wound in the left side
over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet,
and I will soon return," she said soft-
ly, hardly knowing whether she was
heard or not, and then in an instant
she was in her saddle, dashing at
her utmost speed toward the nearest
farm-house.

Dashing like the wind up to the
door, and startling quiet Farmer Jes-
sup, and his family nearly out of their
wits—Leone cried:

"Mr. Jessup, let your son ride at once to Dr. Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the
road near Hillside Spring; tell him to
come there at once, and you, Mr.
Jessup, please come on with your
carriage, and bring all that you think
necessary."

Every one in the country knew
and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly obeyed her orders; observing
which, she wheeled her foaming horse
and again sped away on her return
to the wounded stranger.

There he lay just as she had left
him, but groaning lightly, and each
instant dampening the blood-stained
handkerchief, the girl awaited the
coming of the surgeon.

Would they never come? she
thought; but at length, when it seemed
hours instead of minutes, the sound
of wheels broke on her ear, and the
next instant the surgeon drove up at
a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss
Lightfoot, and if this man lives he
owes it to you," said the good old
physician as he approached and knelt
beside the prostrate form.

"But will he live doctor?"
For some minutes no reply was
given by the man of science, who
carefully probed and examined the
wound, but then he said slowly:

"It is a serious injury—has he here I
have the ball; yes, I hope he will live,"
and Dr. Wells took from the wound
a small bullet while he continued:

"Now he needs the most careful
nursing."

"He shall have it. Thank God,
here comes Mr. Jessup," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and
telling the doctor to come on with the
wounded stranger to her brother's
house Leone again mounted her horse
and rode on to have all in readiness
for his arrival.

It was a week before the stranger was
sufficiently recovered to tell his story
regarding the wound that had so nearly
proved fatal to him, and then by careful
nursing, he informed Leone, who had
been untiring in her devoted care of him,
that his name was Clarence Ainslie—
an Englishman, who nearly a year before
had come to America, and purchasing a
few acres of land in the West, made it
his home.

He also stated that business had called
him to New York, and that while enjoy-
ing a horseback ride he had been sudden-
ly fired upon, was thrown to the ground,
and had an indistinct remembrance that
some one was robbing him, for his watch,

the spot, glancing intently down in-
to the pale, upturned face.

The features were molded with remarkable regularity, the partly open-
mouth displayed even white teeth,
and the dark brown hair and mous-
tache, presented a marked contrast
to the white face, from which every tinge of color had fled. Dressed in a
light summer suit, Leone even then
discovered that it was well and styl-
ishly made, while the gauntlet gloves
and riding whip proved that the
stranger had been on horseback.

"He has been thrown, doubtless,
but God grant he is not dead!" ex-
claimed the maiden as she knelt be-
side the prostrate form, and drew
aside the coat to put her hand upon
his heart.

With a cry of terror she sprang to
her feet, her hand stained with blood,
for from his side a small stream welled
up slowly.

"He is dead and has been murdered."
"No."

It was almost a whisper, and the
heavy lids raised from the dark eyes,
eyes filled with anguish, but yet
strangely dark and fascinating.

"Thank God, there is yet hope; be
quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will
tell you all in my power," exclaimed
Leone, and drawing her habit around
her, she ran rapidly a few paces down
the road to where it was crossed by
a small stream, and saturating her
handkerchief drew aside the clothing
and placed it upon the wound—a
small bullet wound in the left side
over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet,
and I will soon return," she said soft-
ly, hardly knowing whether she was
heard or not, and then in an instant
she was in her saddle, dashing at
her utmost speed toward the nearest
farm-house.

Dashing like the wind up to the
door, and startling quiet Farmer Jes-
sup, and his family nearly out of their
wits—Leone cried:

"Mr. Jessup, let your son ride at once to Dr. Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the
road near Hillside Spring; tell him to
come there at once, and you, Mr.
Jessup, please come on with your
carriage, and bring all that you think
necessary."

Every one in the country knew
and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly obeyed her orders; observing
which, she wheeled her foaming horse
and again sped away on her return
to the wounded stranger.

There he lay just as she had left
him, but groaning lightly, and each
instant dampening the blood-stained
handkerchief, the girl awaited the
coming of the surgeon.

Would they never come? she
thought; but at length, when it seemed
hours instead of minutes, the sound
of wheels broke on her ear, and the
next instant the surgeon drove up at
a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss
Lightfoot, and if this man lives he
owes it to you," said the good old
physician as he approached and knelt
beside the prostrate form.

"But will he live doctor?"
For some minutes no reply was
given by the man of science, who
carefully probed and examined the
wound, but then he said slowly:

"It is a serious injury—has he here I
have the ball; yes, I hope he will live,"
and Dr. Wells took from the wound
a small bullet while he continued:

"Now he needs the most careful
nursing."

"He shall have it. Thank God,
here comes Mr. Jessup," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and
telling the doctor to come on with the
wounded stranger to her brother's
house Leone again mounted her horse
and rode on to have all in readiness
for his arrival.

It was a week before the stranger was
sufficiently recovered to tell his story
regarding the wound that had so nearly
proved fatal to him, and then by careful
nursing, he informed Leone, who had
been untiring in her devoted care of him,
that his name was Clarence Ainslie—
an Englishman, who nearly a year before
had come to America, and purchasing a
few acres of land in the West, made it
his home.

He also stated that business had called
him to New York, and that while enjoy-
ing a horseback ride he had been sudden-
ly fired upon, was thrown to the ground,
and had an indistinct remembrance that
some one was robbing him, for his watch,

the spot, glancing intently down in-
to the pale, upturned face.

The features were molded with remarkable regularity, the partly open-
mouth displayed even white teeth,
and the dark brown hair and mous-
tache, presented a marked contrast
to the white face, from which every tinge of color had fled. Dressed in a
light summer suit, Leone even then
discovered that it was well and styl-
ishly made, while the gauntlet gloves
and riding whip proved that the
stranger had been on horseback.

"He has been thrown, doubtless,
but God grant he is not dead!" ex-
claimed the maiden as she knelt be-
side the prostrate form, and drew
aside the coat to put her hand upon
his heart.

With a cry of terror she sprang to
her feet, her hand stained with blood,
for from his side a small stream welled
up slowly.

"He is dead and has been murdered."
"No."

It was almost a whisper, and the
heavy lids raised from the dark eyes,
eyes filled with anguish, but yet
strangely dark and fascinating.

"Thank God, there is yet hope; be
quiet, sir, I implore you, and I will
tell you all in my power," exclaimed
Leone, and drawing her habit around
her, she ran rapidly a few paces down
the road to where it was crossed by
a small stream, and saturating her
handkerchief drew aside the clothing
and placed it upon the wound—a
small bullet wound in the left side
over the heart.

"You must keep perfectly quiet,
and I will soon return," she said soft-
ly, hardly knowing whether she was
heard or not, and then in an instant
she was in her saddle, dashing at
her utmost speed toward the nearest
farm-house.

Dashing like the wind up to the
door, and startling quiet Farmer Jes-
sup, and his family nearly out of their
wits—Leone cried:

"Mr. Jessup, let your son ride at once to Dr. Wells, and tell him a gentleman lies dangerously hurt on the
road near Hillside Spring; tell him to
come there at once, and you, Mr.
Jessup, please come on with your
carriage, and bring all that you think
necessary."

Every one in the country knew
and loved Leone Lightfoot, and rapidly obeyed her orders; observing
which, she wheeled her foaming horse
and again sped away on her return
to the wounded stranger.

There he lay just as she had left
him, but groaning lightly, and each
instant dampening the blood-stained
handkerchief, the girl awaited the
coming of the surgeon.

Would they never come? she
thought; but at length, when it seemed
hours instead of minutes, the sound
of wheels broke on her ear, and the
next instant the surgeon drove up at
a rapid pace.

"You are a noble woman, Miss
Lightfoot, and if this man lives he
owes it to you," said the good old
physician as he approached and knelt
beside the prostrate form.

"But will he live doctor?"
For some minutes no reply was
given by the man of science, who
carefully probed and examined the
wound, but then he said slowly:

"It is a serious injury—has he here I
have the ball; yes, I hope he will live,"
and Dr. Wells took from the wound
a small bullet while he continued:

"Now he needs the most careful
nursing."

"He shall have it. Thank God,
here comes Mr. Jessup," and immediately after the carriage drove up, and
telling the doctor to come on with the
wounded stranger to her brother's
house Leone again mounted her horse
and rode on to have all in readiness
for his arrival.

It was a week before the stranger was
sufficiently recovered to tell his story
regarding the wound that had so nearly
proved fatal to him, and then by careful
nursing, he informed Leone, who had
been untiring in her devoted care of him,

Local Advertiser.

Saturday, March 28, 1874.

This paper has the largest circulation of any paper in Salisbury.

Little Locals.

Beautiful weather this week.

A great many cases have been disposed of at this term of court.

Commission Merchants are putting in an appearance.

We "are tired now, and sleepy too," so Good-night.

Numerous drunks and small fights last Tuesday.

A. C. Smith, Esq., is having two tenant houses built on the shores of Humphrey's pond.

Our office has been crowded with job work, the past few weeks.

What was the matter at the oyster house, Wednesday night?

Ten pin playing is now all the rage. It is bull playing for those contemplating playing base ball.

Persons having dental work to be done, cannot do better than call on Dr. Bell, at his office on Main street. The Doctor is the only graduate in the county. His Diploma can be seen at his office.

Shad moderately plenty. Prices range from fifty to sixty cents per pair. Herring one dollar and a quarter per hundred.

Messrs. John Robinson and Bro. of of Marlborough, are very largely engaged in making strawberry baskets and crates this season.

The wharf in front of the Laundry property is now nearly finished. The frame of the building will probably be raised next week.

The conceited Jackass, who is called by courtesy Post Master, of Quantico, is hereby informed that the government furnishes blanks for its employees to make reports on. Writing anything except the address on newspapers, is strictly forbidden and is punishable by fine. The next time we catch him in any irregularities we shall promptly report the fellow to the Post Master General. We are certain he does not intend to keep any man in office who is not a gentleman.

Somnambulism.

One of our young men came to the front door, in his inebriated condition, early Monday morning, inquiring about a fire. He was sound asleep.

Our generally correct neighbor the "Cambridge Chronicle" is wrong in stating that the Advertiser and Bachelor will be consolidated under the name of the Delmar Union. They are entirely separate and distinct papers, and will remain so. The Bachelor is now conducted by Dr. L. Sydney Bell.

Wanted.

An energetic young man to run a wagon and sell Singer Sewing Machines, in Wisconsin County. Liberal commission given, and wagon furnished free. For further information, address Dr. J. I. Smith, St. Michaels, Maryland.

H. Scott Brewington.

Keeps constantly on hand a large stock of Iron, Steel, Carriage Materials, Stoves, Tin and Sheet Iron wares at low prices.

Good and Faithful Servants.

Without any disparagement to any former board of Town Commissioners, we are compelled to say that Salisbury never had a better set of Commissioners than the present ones. They have done much for the improvement of our town, and we would like to see the people testify their appreciation of the services rendered, by nominating the entire old board for reelection.

F. C. Todd has reduced coal oil to 55 cents per gallon. Granulated sugar 123 cents per pound. All other groceries in proportion. Call and see his immense stock.

Town Commissioners Notice.

The voters of Salisbury, are hereby requested to meet in the COURT HOUSE, on Monday next, March 30, at eight o'clock P. M., for the purpose of nominating five gentlemen, to serve as Commissioners for the ensuing year. All interested are invited to be present.

By order of the Board, E. L. WAILES, Clerk.

Jackson's Universal Compound.

A real innovation upon the time honored custom of hard laboring with soap and board at the wash tub all day. An article of real merit, one-half of the time, one-half of the expense, and about one-third of the effort, saved by using JACKSON'S UNIVERSAL COMPOUND. Family Rights for sale at $1.00 by L. A. Hall, agent for the counties of Worcester, Middlesex, and Suffolk, county, Del. March 27-1874.

T. Seabrook, Esq., must be in the employ of the anti-tobacco society, although he is very fond of a good smoke himself. The plan he adopts to break persons from the dreadful habit of smoking, is extremely simple, and if we may credit report, is entirely effectual. He simply takes the strongest and meanest kind of plug tobacco, cuts fine and places it in a neat little pouch labeled "Old Killick-inick," which he carries with him in the same pocket as he keeps his private packet of genuine "Durham." When any one wants to smoke they are furnished with a supply of O. K., and the fun begins. The smoker begins to turn pale about the face, lays his pipe down slowly, makes a rush for the door, and is made acquainted with New York. One application never fails to cure the most inveterate case.

All persons indebted to me on book account or note, will please come forward and make immediate settlement of the same, as I propose leaving Salisbury at an early day. All parties interested will save trouble and expense by calling at once at my office, one door below Mr. J. White's store. M. C. JONES, Salisbury, March 28th, 1874.

The Presbytery of New Castle will assemble in Federalburg on Tuesday April 21st, and remain in session until Friday, 24th.

The Presbyterian church will be dedicated on Wednesday, April 15. Services at 10 o'clock, A. M., and at 7 P. M. Dedication sermon by Rev. J. L. Danner, of Newark, N. J., in the morning, and in the evening sermon by Rev. J. M. H. Oats, of Wilmington.

Rev. E. L. Boing will be installed Pastor of the Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening, April 21st, at 7 o'clock. Sermon by Rev. J. N. Porter, charge to the pastor by Rev. A. H. Hamner.

Public Debate.

The discussion of the following question "Resolved that a Court House and Jail should be built by other means than taxation" last evening was well attended by our citizens generally. Dr. W. C. Masters for the affirmative in opening the argument, in eloquent terms maintained that the Court House should be a work of art and an ornament to the county, and that as taxation was oppressive, it should be built by voluntary contributions, like churches and the charitable institutions of our State. J. E. Ellegood on the part of the negative followed for the negative, denying that this was a practical mode, and maintaining with much force and humor that if this were right as a matter of principle, that it should also be applied to other public expenditures. Concluding he argued that experience was against it, as nothing of the kind had ever been done. Dr. Masters then briefly closed the debate, and referring to Mr. Ellegood's argument upon experience, said that if that proved a thing right then the same might be said of the Devil, as he had more experience, in sinning than any one else. Want of space forbids our giving a larger notice, but we cannot forbear saying that this last illustration of the Doctor was travellingly decided.

The Committee Rev. J. J. Smyth and Messrs. Jas. B. Armstrong and Jas. W. Dougherty then decided in favor of the affirmative.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The average attendance of the High School for the Winter Term, ending 12th instant, was a fraction less than 74 per cent of the whole number registered, which is 8 per cent less than the average attendance for corresponding term of last year.

As thorough progress in the various studies pursued at school, very materially, if not absolutely, depends upon regular attendance and systematic application, we hope that parents will discourage the notion, which many school-boys and girls have—of making school and its duties a secondary consideration, when anything else seems to claim their attention. We earnestly hope that parents, who love their children and are anxious for them to secure a good education, will make some extra effort to have them at school, if possible, every day, and always at the hour of opening; and we can but believe that they will heed our request and assist us in realizing our fondest hopes for the mental culture of our pupils. Let us add—encourage home study.

Below is noted the attendance, absence and tardiness of each pupil during the term.

T. H. WILLIAMS.

ROCKAWALKING, March 25th 1874.

DEAR SIR:—Nothing of local or general interest has transpired since I wrote you last, but I will drop you an inkling of the doings of the flourishing neighborhood of "Rockawalking" as I am at leisure till 9 o'clock this morning, and I am weary of almost to death with the study of Latin &c, so I'll write to you. The farmers of this vicinity are busily engaged at this time, preparing their land for cultivation; some are enlarging their strawberry patches to a great extent, as they think it will be more profitable to engage in the business more extensively than what they have heretofore done. Wheat in this section of the country is looking prosperously and from present indication, there is every prospect of a large yield, should nothing occur to impede the growth. The past winter has been a very favorable one on wheat. Peach trees are now in blossom in this section and there is a flattering prospect of a good crop at present. We trust such will be the result, thus putting more "specie" in circulation in "Rockawalking." The Rev. Mr. Creamer who is appointed to this circuit of the "M. E. Church" is expected to preach at this appointment on Sunday next. The debate on the "Court House" came off last evening; the debaters were Dr. Masters of Barren Creek, and James E. Ellegood. The former contends that the Public Buildings of the county shall be erected by individual contribution. The latter that they shall be erected by a tax put upon the land holders of the county. The contest was a warm one on both sides, but was terminated in favor of our Barren Creek Physician. I was truly glad to see the Dr. "gain the day." He is a well informed gentleman, and has a good head on him, although the Dr. said he was hors de combat, but in my estimation he stood his ground exceedingly well, considering his opponent. The Doctor deserves much credit in every respect, and it is to be hoped by the masses at large that the Doctor's proposition will go through without hesitation, for I think the poor farmer has all that he can possibly stand under, without any more being put upon them, although I may be wrong and am willing to submit to what is just and right. The "Public Buildings" will cost at least fifty thousand dollars and it appears to me that it could be raised by public contribution, without taxing the people for the same purpose. The Public schools have been crowded during the winter but they are diminishing somewhat at present, as people are compelled to a great extent to take their boys home for farm work—that is those who are large enough to do farm work. We truly hope that the patrons of the school will devise some means to continue their children at school till it closes this scholastic year. We have seen that here, as everywhere else, knowledge is favorable to human virtue and human happiness that the refinement of literature adds lustre to the devotion of piety; that true learning, like true taste, is modest and unostentatious; that grace of manners receives a higher polish from the discipline of the schools; that cultivated genius sheds a cheering light over domestic duties, and its very sparkle, like those of the diamond, attest at once its power and its purity. Education is power, and an enlightened and refined mind cannot be enslaved. This education which forms the mind as the tree is bent just as the twigs incline. I truly and sincerely hope that the school of Rockawalking will not diminish as most of the schools do at this period of the year, but truly hope that the patrons of the school will continue their children to school till the termination of it, which will be the 30th of May. There are many persons who keep their children home, with at the same time, not a solitary thing for them to do, and thus they are idling their precious moments away while they should be spent in the school room. Such negligence is really surprising to me, and the fault is not the child's, but all the responsibility rests upon the Parent. Oh! let the people of Rockawalking continue their children at school, thus giving them an opportunity to store their minds with useful knowledge, which will prove to them a great and noble blessing in the future. I write the above not complacently as some one would imagine, for the school has been exceedingly full during the winter. My desire is for it to remain in such a prosperous condition. The health of the neighborhood is very good at present; hoping it will continue so, as it is school time I will bid you adieu and endeavor to teach those boys some good morals promising to give you a more interesting communication in a short time, or at least when I get a leisure. Yours truly &c,

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will, for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St., New York. November 29-66.

T. D. WILDER & CO.

SAIL MAKERS,
514 SOUTH WHARVES,
PHILADELPHIA, Pa.
Nov-24-74

COMMERCIALHOTEL

826 MARKET STREET,
Philadelphia.
HENRY SCHLICHTER, Prop'r.
Board $2 per Day.
November 22-74

RIDGWAY HOUSE.

N. W. Corner
Market St., and Delaware Avenue,
PHILADELPHIA.
JAMES B. LIPSETT, J. B. BUTTERORTH, Prop'r.
April 13-74

JOHN H. WILSON'S

Central Oyster House...
N. E. COR. EIGHTH & CHESTNUT STS.
PHILADELPHIA.
N. B.—Families Supplied.
Oct-11-74.

WATSON MALONE & SONS,

LUMBER
Commission Merchant
Laurel Street Wharf,
PHILADELPHIA.
WATSON MALONE, Prop'r.
Oct-11-74.

HENRY H. MARTER

Commission Merchant,
And Wholesale Dealer in
Fruit and Produce,
Nos. 121, 122 and 123 DEL. AVENUE MARKET,
Philadelphia.
Prompt Returns. Consignments Solicited.
Dec-8-74.

H. L. MATTHEWS,

COMMISSION MERCHANT
FOR THE SALE OF
Green Fruits, Dried Fruits, Produce,
Berries, Calves, Sheep, Hogs,
Cattle, Oysters, Fish,
Game, &c, &c.
No. 323 South Front Street,
Philadelphia, Pa.
H. D. SPENCE, Agt. Salisbury, Md.
November 15-74

A. J. MCCOLLEY,

WITH
MALCOM & STEVENSON, SUCCESSORS TO
STRETCH, BENNETT & CO.,
Wholesale Druggists,
No. 24 SOUTH FOURTH ST.
PHILADELPHIA.

H. L. BOGGS & CO.

FRUIT AND PRODUCE
Commission Merchants,
59 DELEWARE AVENUE MARKET,
PHILADELPHIA.
References: R. B. Smith, Del. City.
J. Geo. Davis, Smyrna, Del.
Dec-6-74.

J. D. ROSENBERGER & L. W. LOVETT

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
AND DEALERS IN
Fruit and Country Produce,
No. 304 S. Front Street,
PHILADELPHIA.
Consignments and orders for shipping promptly attended to.
Dec-9-74.

WM. E. HARPUR,

No. 407 CHESTNUT STREET,
PHILADELPHIA.
Nearly Opposite the Custom House.

POCKET & MARINE CHRONOMETERS

American and Swiss Watches of all Grades.
Ship Chronometers For Sale & Hire.
A full line of the celebrated perfect spectacles and Eye Glasses, in gold, Silver, Steel, Rubber and Shell Frames.
Time Taken by a four feet Transit Instrument.
ment.

THE NEW

Victor Sewing Machine.
THE MOST COMPLETE IN THE WORLD.
Divested of every loose and clumsy attachment and every delicate and complicated contrivance.
SELF SETTING NEEDLE.
MOVEMENTS ALL POSITIVE.
THE MOST PERFECT SHUTTLE.
UNOCCUPYING REACTION FROM SPRINGS.
gates Warranted.

Address
VICTOR SEWING MACHINE CO.,
54 10th St., 4 Doors W. of Broadway, N. Y.
PRINCIPAL OFFICE & MANUFACTORY AT MIDDLETOWN, CONN.
Jan-21-75.

(ESTABLISHED 1853.)

GEORGE W. WEBB,
GOLDSMITH AND JEWELER,
8 E. Cor. Baltimore & Light Sts.
Importers and Dealers in FINE WATCHES, RICH JEWELRY AND SILVER WARE.
Hair Braiding in all its varieties. Orders attended to with Dispatch. Every attention paid to cleaning and repairing of the manufacture and repair of Jewels. Fine Watches repaired by experienced Workmen.
January 24th-75.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, sends a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, to all who desire it, and will also send a copy of the directions for preparing and using the prescription, which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, and a relief from all its symptoms. The prescription will please address Rev. E. A. WILSON, 100 N. 3rd St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Have always on hand a large assortment of American and Swiss Watches warranted for 2 years. Jewelry of the newest styles at all prices. GOLD CHAINS, Silver Buttons, Studs, Lockets and Bracelets in great variety. Silver and silver-plated ware of the newest styles and best quality. SILVER BRIDAL gifts of all kinds. 18 Karat gold engagement and wedding rings of all SIZES and PRICES. Watches repaired and warranted.
P. S. All goods sold at the very lowest prices.

THE LARGEST CARRIAGE FACTORY

HENDERSON & NOCK.
CARRIAGE AND HARNESS
MANUFACTURERS,
CAMDEN STREET, SALISBURY, MARYLAND.

Have now completed their large and commodious CARRIAGE FACTORY and are now ready to BUILD any kind of a CARRIAGE that may be desired in CITY STYLE. We employ none but experienced workmen. And this enables us to do the best work. It is not necessary to go to the city for a CARRIAGE but come to our Factory First, we guarantee all our work. If it does not come up to what we say; we promise to make all deficiencies good free of expense to the purchaser. Don't fail to give us a call. If you want the CHEAPEST and best carriage that can be built. All kinds of Harness you will find at our Factory cheaper than anywhere else. Don't forget the place.

HENDERSON & NOCK,
Camden Street, Near Camden Bridge.
N. B.—All orders by mail promptly attended to.

THE LARGEST ASSORTMENT

HARDWARE, STOVES, TIN & SHEET IRON WARE
SOUTH OF PHILADELPHIA

THE BEST COOK.

THE BEST Cooking Stoves
Now in the Market.

For Wood and Coal. Nos. 3, 7, and 9.
Plain & Beautiful Design, Reversible Centres & finished Workmanship.

Patent Feeding And Sliding Front Doors.

TIN-LINED OVEN DOORS AND PORCELAIN KNOBS.

Easily Managed. Simple in Construction. Sure Operator.

THE PLATES ARE HEAVY AND FLUES UNUSUALLY LARGE

FOR SALE BY

M. S. BREWINGTON
SALISBURY, MD.

SMITH & CO.,

CAN LEATHER BELTING,
GUM BELTING AND PACKING,
OF ALL KINDS, &c, &c.

CASTOR OIL

—DRESSING—
For Oiling and Preserving Belts and Engine Hoses

Lace Leather in sides,
Machine Cut Lacing,
Belt Coupling,
Bel Hooks,
Blacks Studs,
Burr & Rivets,
Belt Punches & Awls,
Eagle Packing,
Canvas Packing,
Suspension Packing,
American Hemp Packing,
Russia Hemp Packing, Italian Hemp Packing, White Waste, Colored Waste.

SMITH & CO., 137 Market Street,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

Wm. H. Hering & Co

COMMISSION MERCHANTS,
FRUIT, FLOUR, BUTTER, EGGS, FISH, OYSTERS, POULTRY, &c, &c.
314 SOUTH FRONT ST., PHILADELPHIA.

REFERENCES.

Gov. James Pender, Milton, Del.
Gov. C. Saulsbury, Dover, Del.
N. F. Luf. Felton, Del.
Jas. B. Conner, Fallow, Del.
Thos. B. Conner, Fallow, Del.
Gov. V. Massey, Fallow, Del.
N. F. Luf. Felton, Del.
Jas. B. Conner, Fallow, Del.

