CHAUTAUQUA STARTS HERE SEPTEMBER 8

This Year's Program Will Be One Of Best Ever Presented In Salisbury.

MANY NOTED SPEAKERS WILL LECTURE HERE

Dr. Frank Bohn and Dr. Jesse H. Holmes will deliver interesting addresses—Dr. Pearson also will speak on opening day—Many high class acts on program.

One of the most attractive programs ever offered by the Swarthmore Chautauqua management will be presented here when Salisbury celebrates the tenth anniversary of its entrance into the Chautauqua realm next week. Chautauqua will open on September 8 and will last until September 15, and while the grounds arrangements have not been definitely made, it is practically assured that this year's Chautauqua will take place on the large vacant lot back of the First Regiment Armory.

A meeting of the local Chautauqua guarantors was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last Wednesday night, at which time Miss Ethel May Burnett, of Philadelphia, advance representative, explained the program for the approaching Chautauqua season and promised one of the best Chautauquas ever seen in Salisbury. Mr. Walter S. Sheppard, president of the local Chautauqua association, presided at the meeting.

Before Chautauqua opens next Thursday, there will be a "Lucky Number" parade, which will be participated in by the children. Each child will be given a number and the corresponding numbers will be placed in a hat and drawings made by the Mayor of that year's Junior Chautauqua. Six free tickets for the week are the prizes to be awarded.

Dr. Pearson Coming Here.

Dr. Paul M. Pearson, director of all Swarthmore Chautauquas will visit the local Chautauqua on the afternoon of September 8. This year Dr. Pearson is making a visit to each of the original 34 towns that joined the circuit. Since the circuit was formed it has grown from the original 34 towns in 1912 to almost 800.

The superintendent for the week is Rev. Selwyn Cockrell, of Woodstock, Va. He served as superintendent of Chautauquas last summer with signal success, and is a man of pleasing personality and marked executive ability. His topics will be "The Man In The House By The Side Of The Road," "In The Nook With The Book" and "Raby Days and Golden Years."

Some of the main features of this year's Chautauqua will be the lecture of Dr. Frank Bohn, who will speak on the subject "All the World and Ourselves," and the address of Dr. Jesse H. Holmes, professor of Bible and Philosophy at Swarthmore College, who will have as his topic, "News Headlines—An Interpretation." Press comments of Dr. Holmes' lecture have been very favorable and it will be well worth hearing.

Some of the other attractions will be the comedy-drama, "Nothing But" (Continued on Page 4.)

TIME TO KNOCK OFF

BIG MARKETS OVERSTOCKED WITH 'SWEETS'

Influx Of Southern Potatoes Into Eastern Markets Has Caused Drop In Prices.

SEASON STARTED IN WICOMICO LAST WEEK

Good Acceage Here, But Many Will Be Stored Unless Present Conditions Improve—Plan Now On Foot To Get The Trade To Show Preference For Hamper Shipments.

The local sweet potato season started off last week, but owing to the main Eastern markets already being over-stocked with sweets, conditions have not been favorable for high prices. As a matter of fact, prevailing prices of sweet potatoes are so low that it is altogether probable that many local growers will store their sweets here.

Warm weather and an avalanche of shipments from the South are said to be the contributing factors in the present over-stocking of New York and Philadelphia markets. On Tuesday, the prices quoted in the New York market for sweet potatoes were $1.50 for bushel hampers and $4.00 per barrel, with Chicago prices being only slightly better.

There is a good sweet potato acreage in Wicomico county this year, but the season has not advanced far enough yet to be able to determine how good will be the yield. The main varieties of sweets grown in the county are Big and Little Stem Jerseys and Gold Skins.

Mr. H. A. Nock, of the Wicomico Farmers Association, stated yesterday that every effort would be made by the Association to have buyers of sweet potatoes throughout the country to show a preference for sweet potatoes shipped in hampers instead of in barrels. Mr. Nock said that New Jersey sweet potatoes sell at a premium, and that they are all shipped in hampers.

Two cars shipped from here by the Association last Friday are said to have been given the preference over barrel stock when they arrived in New York, and it is the opinion of some of the Association officials that it would be a good policy if growers here would put out a few cars from here on consignment in the large cities as a sort of introductory measure to show just how fine our brands of sweet really are.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Coulbourn Brown and daughter, Miss Fannie, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Brewington, Poplar Hill avenue, returned to their homes in Philadelphia on Tuesday.

COL. WOODCOCK CHOSEN AMERICAN LEGION HEAD

Md. At State Convention—Is Tendered Big Ovation.

Col. A. W. Woodcock, of Salisbury, was elected Commander of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, at the State Convention held in Baltimore yesterday (Wednesday).

According to a wire received from Baltimore at the time of going to press, Col. Woodcock received 77 votes on the second ballot and Carmichael 73, after which the Carmichael votes were switched to the Salisbury candidate.

The Baltimore posts moved to make the election unanimous, and a big ovation occurred on the floor when Col. Woodcock arose to make his speech of acceptance.

In accepting the honor conferred upon him, Col. Woodcock pledged that the program of the Legion for the coming year would be one of constructive work throughout.

On a vote of the committee of the whole, Ocean City was selected as the meeting place for next year's convention.

Col. Woodcock served his country with great distinction during the late World War. He was formerly commander of Company "I" and arose successively from a captaincy to the ranks of major and lieutenant-colonel during the war. He participated in many of the most stirring battles in which the American Army engaged.

Mr. John W. T. Webb, of Vienna Claimed By Death, Thursday

Was The Father Of Mr. F. W. C. Webb, Prominent Salisbury Attorney, And Was Well Known In This City—Funeral Services Were Held Sunday Afternoon.

The death of Mr. John W. T. Webb, one of the most prominent citizens of Dorchester county, who died at 6:30 P. M. Thursday at his home in Vienna after an illness of about six weeks, has caused much sorrow among his many friends here in Salisbury and throughout his native county.

Born December 17, 1843, Mr. Webb had ever been an active supporter of everything that tended to advance the interests of his beloved home town, county and State. Starting in life as a merchant in Vienna, he later became engaged in the canned goods business which he successfully conducted for a number of years. For the past ten years he had devoted his time to the management of his extensive farming interests in Dorchester.

In politics, Mr. Webb was a staunch Democrat and was high up in the councils of his party in his native county. His keen, sound judgment in matters pertaining to political questions of the day gained for him much distinction in the many conclaves of his party in which he was wont to participate. In 1900, Mr. Webb was elected a member of the Board of County Commissioners for Dorchester county, which position he held for four years, and helped to give the county a splendid administration all throughout his term of office. For a number of years he served as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from Dorchester county.

The deceased is survived by his widow, who before her marriage to Mr. Webb was Miss Anna Virginia Conway; two daughters, Miss Elizabeth Webb, of Vienna, and Mrs. John W. P. Insley, of Baltimore, and two sons, Alan P. S. Webb, of Vienna, and F. W. C. Webb, of Salisbury. Mr. Webb was the son of the late Samuel and Elizabeth Thompson Webb, both of whom were prominent residents of Dorchester county.

The funeral services were held at 3 P. M. Sunday afternoon from his late home in Vienna, and were conducted by Rev. W. D. Gould, rector of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church, Cambridge, and Rev. J. Harry Garner, rector of St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Vienna. Interment was in the St. Paul's P. E. Church burial ground, Vienna.

"PINE CONE" LOUPES WELL LIKED IN MAINE

Salisbury Man Finds Farmers Assn.
Brand Of Melons Very Popular With Maine Merchant.

That the fame of Wicomico cantaloupes can be spread far and wide through proper grading, packing and labeling of the products—a policy that the Wicomico Farmers' Association has strongly advocated ever since its inception—was strikingly illustrated last week when County Agent George R. Cobb received a letter from Mr. Louis Hoster, 318 William Street, Salisbury, who is spending the summer months in York Harbor, Maine, which said, in part:

"The other day I was conversing with a very popular merchant here who has been under a physician's care owing to fast declining health. His doctor advised him that the best nourishment for his breakfast would be a good cantaloupe."

"He tried several brands, and finally struck a crate of good Wicomico 'loupes. He said they surpassed any that he had ever eaten. After telling me this, upon close investigation, I found the crate had been stamped with the enclosed label—one of the Wicomico Farmers' Associations. I think the general public should know about this."

The label on the crate in question was one of the "Pine Cone" brand labels of the Wicomico Farmers' Association, and the above letter tends to prove what the Association has long contended—that farm products properly packed and shipped will soon find a ready high-priced demand.

SALISBURY REFUSES TO ENTER SERIES

One-Game Plan To Decide Shore
Baseball Honors Disapproved
By Local Moguls.

ST. MICHAELS ALSO DECLINES TO ENTER

Meetings Held Here And Resolution Passed Disapproving Action Of Conference In Eliminating Snow Hill—Series Started Off Saturday With Four Teams In Race.

Despite the fact that the baseball atmosphere has been surcharged with a super-abundance of vocal TNT ever since the Shore elimination series was proposed and started, the contest has proceeded merrily on, and the winner of the series will play the winner of the Blue Ridge League pennant.

Salisbury and St. Michaels refused to take part in the elimination series and Snow Hill was eliminated because of the fact that Drewry, Snow Hill's first sacker, is alleged to have jumped his contract while playing organized baseball.

When it was announced that the Shore championship was to be decided by a one-game elimination series, a meeting of the local baseball officials and a number of the fans was held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and the one-game plan disapproved, with the result that Salisbury refused to take part in it.

Resolution Is Passed.

Several representatives of the Snow Hill Baseball Club also attended the meeting, and much sympathy was expressed over what was termed the unjust treatment accorded Snow Hill. The following resolution was passed at the meeting:

"Whereas it is the sense of this meeting that a championship team cannot be selected in the manner outlined in the Baltimore meeting, and, whereas, we believe that Snow Hill was unjustly eliminated, and whereas we desire to continue playing unorganized baseball for the balance of this season; therefore, be it resolved that all games now scheduled with those teams entering the elimination series for the Eastern Shore championship, as stipulated by the Baltimore conference, be cancelled and new bookings arranged if desired."

Dr. A. B. Burris, manager of the local team, presided at the meeting and voiced his opinion that the one-game elimination series plan was impracticable and would not succeed in determining which is the best team on the Shore. "We have been trying for nearly three months to decide the question," said Dr. Burris, "and have been unable to do so. Therefore, it is hardly plausible that a single-game series would ever accomplish the desired results." Dr. Burris was president of the League formed on the Eastern Shore several years ago and was at one time a major league ball player.

Protest Over-ruled.

With Salisbury, St. Michaels and Snow Hill out of the elimination series, the battle narrowed down to Crisfield, Pocomoke, Princess Anne and Cambridge. In the first game played, Pocomoke defeated Crisfield, 6 to 3, last Saturday, and Crisfield immediately protested the game, claiming that it had played under protest when learned that Salisbury and St. Michaels had dropped out, which left Cambridge with nothing to do but "stack arms" and wait for the final. Crisfield was over-ruled. In the second encounter, played Monday, Princess Anne defeated Pocomoke, 14 to 1, and Pocomoke protested the game on the ground that the Somerset outlaws had no right to play Sharp-ley.

In the meantime, Salisbury has been proceeding with the playing of its regularly scheduled games, defeating Cambridge last Saturday, 5 to 4, in a 9-inning contest, playing Laurel a 11-inning tie game Monday and getting licked by Snow Hill Tuesday in a 11-inning game, 4 to 3.

Criminal Appeal.

83 TRIAL CASES
HAVE BEEN ENTERED

Five Criminal Appearances On Docket Up To Last Tuesday And Five Removed Cases—$15,000 Alienation Of Affections Suit Will Come To Trial At This Term Of Court.

The September term of court for Wicomico county, which will be convened September 12, will be a busy one, there being many cases on the docket.

On Tuesday afternoon, there were 22 cases on the appearance docket, 3 civil appeals and 1 criminal appeal. Eighty-three trial cases were on the docket, seven of them being removed cases. The removal cases are as follows: Frederick county, 1; Dorchester county, 5; Worcester county, 1.

Five criminal appearances are on the docket, and the cases range from carrying concealed weapons to assault with intent to murder. There are 3 criminal continuances and 3 recognizances.

Many important civil cases will be tried during the September term, the principal one being the Murrell-Culver $15,000 alienation of affections suit. This case was continued from the March term of court, and an imposing array of legal talent has been obtained by both the plaintiff and defendant.

Another important case is that involving the death of Clarence Parker, who was killed near Whaleyville about a year ago by a B. & A. train. Suit has been entered in the name of the State of Maryland against the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Co. for the use of Turner Bros. Co. for the benefit of Mrs. Verta Parker, widow, and Irene Elizabeth Parker and Marion Wesley Parker, infant children of the deceased.

Suit also has been entered in the name of the State of Maryland against the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad Company for the use of the State Accident Commission. This case involves the death of Frank M. Johnson, who was killed September 29, 1920, by a N. Y. P. & N. train.

RECORD OF DIRIGIBLES UNFAVORABLE

Accidents Of All Kinds Have Occurred Since Their First Appearance.

THEIR SHORT HISTORY IS ONE OF DISASTERS

In Pre-War Times Count Zeppelin Was Always Having His Troubles With Unwieldy Airships—Even During World War, They Proved Far Less Efficient Than Planes.

Since the ghastly accident that occurred to the American dirigible, ZR-2, in England last week, the attention of the public has been directed to the record of accomplishment of the dirigibles since their first appearance, and that record is one that is very unfavorable to the dirigible type of aircraft. In referring to the record made by dirigibles, an article in the New York Herald has the following to say:

"Dirigibles, under the test of war, in the opinion of most military authorities, failed to make good. Count Zeppelin was the pioneer champion of this type of lighter-than-air war engine and Germany in pre-war times had developed it to its highest degree of efficiency.

"At the close of the World War, however, figures made public by the Germans themselves conceded that of the 83 Zeppelins sent out together 66 were destroyed, a larger percentage than even the Allied General Staff had estimated.

"Prior to the great war the fate of the series of peace-time Zeppelins was hardly less tragic. Zeppelin I made her first flight July 1, 1908. She made several successful aerial voyages thereafter, during one of which Count Zeppelin had as passengers King William and Queen Charlotte of Wurttemberg. On the afternoon of August 5, however, a severe wind drove the dirigible into a clump of trees, the motor exploded and when the smoke cleared away only the framework of the airship remained.

Wrecked in Storm.

"All Germany helped the aged Count Zeppelin to build Zeppelin II. That craft made several successful flights, but she was caught in a storm and wrecked on May 31, 1909.

"Zeppelin III met a like fate at Mönchengladbach.

"The Deutschland, the next Zeppelin, made her maiden voyage June 22, 1910, with 20 passengers from Friedrichshafen to Düsseldorf, a distance of 300 miles. That was to have been the beginning of a regular aerial passenger service between those cities, but six days later the great ship came to grief in the Teutoburgian forest though her 33 passengers escaped uninjured.

"Zeppelin VI was wrecked while being worked into her hangar at Baden-Baden September 14, 1910. An explosion set fire to her shed and it also was destroyed.

"Deutschland II smashed three of her compartments against the wall of her aerodrome.

"The Schwaben, while at anchor before her aerodrome at Düsseldorf, was swayed by a sudden gust of wind. An explosion wrecked the airship and injured 34 soldiers June 28, 1911.

"On March 19, 1916, the substitute ZL was destroyed while attempting a landing.

"The L-1, a large naval Zeppelin, was destroyed by a hurricane on September 9, 1913, and captain Metzger, Captain Hanne, Baron von Bultzahn and 12 others were killed.

Large Dirigible Exploded.

"On October 17, 1913, L-2, the largest dirigible yet built at that time for the German navy, exploded and was wrecked while making her trial trip.

"Other nations than Germany have paid heavy toll in their efforts to conquer the air routes by the lighter-than-air dirigibles. The first naval airship built for the British Government by Vickers, Sons & Maxim, at a cost of about $400,000 was wrecked on its first removal from its shed September 24, 1911.

"In Oakland, Cal., the Morrell airship fell and collapsed during a trial trip May 23, 1908, and 16 passengers were injured.

"By an explosion of the dirigible balloon Akron on July 1, 1912, near Atlantic City, N. J., Melvin Vanman and four companions were killed in the sight of more than 8,000 persons.

"In Chicago, on July 21, 1919, a dirigible fell in flames through the glass skylight of the roof of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank Building. Eleven persons were killed and 21 injured.

"The United States Navy blimp C-10, during the International Yacht Cup races last year, because of a leaky valve, dropped 3,000 feet and was wrecked on the rocks of Jamaica Bay. Her officers and crew were rescued."

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.—Advertisement.

RED CROSS BOOTH POPULAR AT FAIR

Fourteen Emergency Cases Were Handled By Nurses—379 Children Were Measured and Weighed.

The Red Cross booth at the Fair was marked "First Aid and Rest Room" and answered to both of these terms with service during the whole Fair.

This booth was on the "higher side" of the Exhibition Hall. The walls and ceiling were covered with white muslin as were also the tables and backs of the chairs, giving the appearance of light, whiteness and cleanliness which you associate with a hospital.

The bright colored posters on the walls attracted attention: as did the Vanta "pinless" buttonless infant outfit.

The main attraction was the weighing and measuring of the children. A record was kept of 379 children (from 2 months to 17 years of age) who were weighed and measured; most of whom were given tags with their weight and height and what they "should" weigh.

This was so popular (many adults coming) that an accurate record could not be kept of the whole number weighed.

First Aid service was given to 14 persons. Most of these were minor cuts, fainting, etc., not needing a doctor's services but all were advised to see their physician.

One of the patients, a man who had one of the concessions on the grounds, was so grateful that he insisted on giving $1.00 as a donation to the Red Cross.

About 1000 pieces of literature were distributed. This had been obtained from the Red Cross, U. S. Children's Bureau, and Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

The mothers, with babies and small children, and the old ladies were very grateful for a comfortable chair in which to rest.

The Public Health Nurse, Miss Kell, was assisted each day by a graduate nurse and two Girl Scouts.

Seven Ills—One Cause

WHEN your motor is sick, find the reason. If it develops any of the symptoms listed below it is probable that you have been using the wrong gasoline:

- 1 Frequent overheating.
- 2 Pitted valve seats (carbon).
- 3 Uneven running—caused by cylinders missing.
- 4 Dilution of the lubricating oil in the crank-case.
- 5 Necessity for frequent carburetor adjustment.
- 6 Vile odor of the exhaust gases—caused by incomplete combustion or waste power.
- 7 Spark plugs fouled by incomplete combustion.

Using "Standard" Motor Gasoline alone will go far toward correcting these difficulties. This improved motor fuel burns quickly and cleanly; it delivers maximum power. It is the best you can buy—and it costs no more. All power and lots of it.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

Read These ABC Rules About Batteries

Adjustment and oiling make your bearings last longer—proper inflation and careful driving make your tires last longer—cleaning makes your spark plugs serve longer and better. It is worth remembering that there are rules just as simple for making your battery last longer and serve more faithfully.

Here are three rules in A B C form:

- 1—Put in water regularly and keep up the charge.
- 2—Come in every two weeks for battery service.
- 3—And when your present battery wears out, buy a Willard Threaded Rubber Battery—the only battery with Threaded Rubber Insulation between the plates.

There is only one battery good enough for us to back by our unqualified recommendation—that's the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery. Come in—and we'll show you some records it has made right here.

"Y" Educational Committee Active

Many Interesting Features Planned For Season—Lyceum Course Will Start Nov. 25.

Another big feature picture will be shown at the local Young Men's Christian Association, Friday night of this week, at 8 o'clock. "Peck's Bad Girl," a picture of six reels, will be shown together with a series of other interesting pictures.

The weekly pictures at the "Y" are attracting large crowds each week, always showing to a capacity house and are free of charge.

The Educational committee of the Y. M. C. A., which is one of the most active committees of the local institution, has planned many interesting features for the coming fall and winter. In addition to the weekly picture program every Friday night, pictures will be shown each week at the Home for the Aged and to the employees of the different industrial plants of the city.

An attractive Lyceum Course also has been arranged, beginning November 25, for which season tickets have been issued at $2.00 each for five attractions, as follows:

- "The Dietrichs," Friday, November 25.
- "Tschakowsky Quintette," Tuesday, December 13.
- Dr. J. M. Tibbets, Wednesday, January 11.
- "Clifford Foot Trio," Friday, February 17.
- "The Kaufman Male Quartette," Tuesday, March 21.

Because of the limited seating capacity of the auditorium of the Association building, only 300 tickets will be sold. Tickets are now on sale at the Y. M. C. A.

Beginning on September 5, the public library will be open on Tuesdays and Wednesdays of each week from 3 to 5 P. M.

TO DEMONSTRATE CROP-BLIGHT CURE

Exhibit At Elsmere Fair Will Show
How To Eliminate Crop-Destroying Diseases.

How to eliminate diseases that have been blighting and destroying corn, sweet potatoes, cantaloupes, watermelons, white potatoes, grapes, apples and peaches, will be demonstrated in an exhibit which the Department of Plant Pathology of the University of Delaware will have on display at the State Fair, which opens at Elsmere on Monday, September 5. For 10 years specialists at the University have been experimenting to discover remedies for the diseases affecting these products.

Of particular interest will be that affecting sweet potatoes. The experts have found a way to triple the normal crop of these tubers. Particular interest has also been paid to the root, stalk and ear rot of corn, which, it has been found, is carried in the seed, and will not respond to seed treatment such as used for loose smut of oats and stinking smut of wheat. How to eliminate this blight is one of the things the University men will demonstrate.

The Department of Agronomy of the University will have an educational exhibit of soy beans. This will contain many varieties recommended for seeding in Delaware. Seven years of work on fertilizing in connection with soy beans has also been completed, and the results will be shown in the exhibit.

Farmers Buy Co-Operative Coal.

Chicago—Purchase of coal by farmers of nine middle western states through their county and state farm bureaus was decided upon when a plan drawn up by the American Farm Bureau Federation coal committee was adopted.

MANY CONVERTED AT GOSPEL TENT MEETINGS

The two weeks Gospel tent meetings at the Freney School house, Delmar Road, resulted in accomplishing a great deal of good. Twenty-five more were converted or sanctified during these meetings, and the last Thursday night prayer meeting was the best for the past two years. God has graciously blessed whole families, spiritually, and the good work is going on.

PECK'S BAD BOY NEXT WEEK.

Jackie Coogan, six years old and the most popular boy in the world today, will be shown at Ulman's Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week in "Peck's Bad Boy." Jackie's work in this picture is said to equal if not surpass that which won for him such universal praise in the title role of Charlie Chaplin's "The Kid."

Everyone has read the story as written by Governor George Peck and will be especially anxious to see this picture. The dates are September 6th and 7th.—Advertisement 120

ELIMINATING THE "EX".

To mathematicians and other brainy folk, the letter "X" may mean an unknown quantity. Place an "E" before the "X", however, and we have something that is known but has ceased to function in that way which we formerly knew. In the latter class falls the appellation, "Ex-service Man."

Called to the colors in 1917 by the national emergency, millions of young men laid their all on the altar of Liberty, bidding her take what she would. Of many she demanded the supreme sacrifice; of others she asked for eyesight, reason, and bits of their bodies; from still others she required nothing but grim endurance and the courage to face untold mental agony; while from the rest she took but a few short months of strenuous work. Whatever she asked, all was given and accepted under the name "Service."

Did the loyalty, courage, and optimism shown in 1917 and 1918 naturally terminate when the Armistice leashed the dogs of war? Is it right, that the men who "served" in those days of conflict should cease to serve now? Were the arms of Young America needed then against the battle ranks of the Hun more than the minds and courage and strength and efforts of Young America are needed today against insidious propaganda? Are the former service men, in other words, to be completely relieved of guarding further the rights and privileges of this great democracy? Have they done their "bit"? Are they through? Can they step aside now and let others take the reins while they complacently look on, regardless of whether or not the new drivers keep to a safe road or take to dangerous byways?

The one business asset of a nation in time of war is her manpower. The man behind the national treasury is the man behind the gun. Lose the latter and you lose the former. The rifles of the American Expeditionary Forces were effective equally for bullets and billions. What would our great resources have profited us had the service men been unable, or unwilling, to stem the German tide? What will those great resources profit us now if the men who served the colors in 1917 and 1918 fail to respond to the call to rise and crush the enemies that are invading the United States?

To no one, probably, as to the veteran who bore arms in the World War, should the present danger that confronts us be clearer. Bolshevism has reared its crimson head in America. German spies are again winning places of confidence in every city in the country. Socialists of the rankest order, whose one desire is to see the Stars and Stripes displaced by the red flag, are gaining power in several states. The I. W. W. has recently formed an affiliation with a powerful union which greatly increases its potential harmfulness. All these things are bad for America.

How shall we get rid of these sores on the body politic? Call back to the colors the men who fought for the United States three years ago! Equip them not with rifles and bayonets and machine guns, but with courage, patriotism and concerted effort. Give them for artillery support the thunderous barrage of public opinion. Ask them to get to work; for when they do, the Bolshevik and the Hun, the Anarchist and the Socialist, will find America an unhealthy climate.

As for the veterans themselves, it would be well for them to begin a constructive campaign for better conditions without waiting for a request from the public. There is much that they can do; much that they ought to do. They are still service men and are still ready to serve their country. The tasks that confront them can be accomplished by concerted action; and concerted action can be achieved through the veteran's organization, The American Legion.

Overnight, upon the declaration of war, the public made heroes of the men who donned the uniform. With the signing of the armistice the public overnight made them ex-heroes. They have made themselves ex-service men. As soon as they take the "ex" out of "ex-service" the public will take the "ex" out of "ex-heroes." That is a consummation greatly to be desired, not because it might lead to nation-wide hero-worship, but because heroism is needed today just as much as it was in 1917. Let the veterans get going and prove to a more or less indifferent public that they are still serving.

THE SALISBURY FAIR.

The 1921 Salisbury Fair was brought to a close last Friday and that this year's Fair was one of the most successful in the history of the Fair Association is attested by the big crowds that were in daily attendance. Fair Week always is a big event both for the people of this county and for those of the surrounding vicinity. It is a time when all cares of daily life are laid aside and old friends and new ones saunter forth happily to the Fair Grounds to have a good time, a time for forgetting business or farm worries and letting joy reign supreme. Annual pilgrimages to the county fairs are oftentimes made by friends who have not seen one another since "last fair time," and the renewing of friendships, the discussions of various methods of farming, preserving and the like, are only a few of the many pleasurable incidents of Fair Week.

The record number of poultry and cattle exhibits this year was one of the noteworthy features of the Fair, and much credit is due the gentlemen who worked hard for many months in arousing the interest of the poultry and cattle raisers in showing their breeds. The raising of pure-bred poultry and cattle is of tremendous importance to Wicomico, and the placing on exhibition at the Fair of some of the finest specimens in the county always tends to stimulate interest in a way that has a salutary effect. With more than 500 exhibits of poultry this year and the greatest array of pure-bred cattle ever shown at a local fair, all of which exhibits were inspected with great interest by thousands of persons, much good undoubtedly will be the result.

It also was interesting to note that the exhibits this year of fancy needle work, floral specimens, household articles and agricultural products were of high standard and in increased numbers. While the exhibits of fruits were on a smaller scale this year, this condition naturally was to have been expected owing to the killing frosts which practically annihilated the fruit crops of this section during the Spring months. However, the other agricultural specimens on display were excellent samples of what the wonderful soil of Wicomico county gives forth when carefully tilled.

The commercial exhibits were exceptionally fine and the business firms exhibiting at the Fair are to be congratulated for their unstinting efforts in displaying their products in a manner that is splendidly attractive and pleasing. A visit to the various commercial booths, too, convinced one that business conditions are not quite so bad as they have been painted. All down the line, when asked "how's business," those in charge of the booths invariably replied that it was very good. Many sales were made right at the booths, but the big number of prospective customers lined up during the four days was a most encouraging sign of returning normalcy. One exhibitor even went so far as to say that he had done more business at this year's Fair than he had transacted at any similar Fair in four years. The opinion of this exhibitor was that business everywhere was showing general improvement, and such expressions of optimism undoubtedly help to keep it going forward.

The Fair management deserves a lot of praise for giving us such a good Fair, and we wish them even greater success in their undertaking of next year.

THE ZR-2 DISASTER.

Few of the facts regarding the cause of the terrible accident that befell the ZR-2 in England last week have come to light, but from the meager accounts of the tragedy that have been placed before the public, it is apparent that the appalling disaster was the result of structural weakness of the giant dirigible. It also has been set forth in the news accounts that defects in the construction of the ZR-2 had previously been disclosed through adverse reports filed with the U. S. Navy Department. If such accounts are true, it is the plain duty of this government to immediately start an inquiry into the reason why, in view of such adverse information regarding the dirigible purchased from England, so many of the naval officers and men from this country were permitted to take part in the trial trip.

The ZR-2 is said to have been nothing more than an old-type Zeppelin aircraft cut in two and an extra section sandwiched in between to make it longer. When the frames were being assembled, it is claimed that the American officer who inspected the dirigible in 1919 pointed out the structural weaknesses, but his advice was not heeded. That the big airship broke about midships—or just in that part of the craft alluded to unfavorably in the officer's report—seems to be the consensus of all the reports of eyewitnesses of the disaster. Which is all the more reason why this government should start a rigid investigation.

Another thing which is hard for the lay mind to grasp is the policy of this government in purchasing and building dirigibles when the lessons gained from the late World War show them to be far inferior to airplanes. In a summary of the dirigibles' record since Count Zeppelin first introduced them, the New York Herald points out that from the time they first appeared their whole history has been one of disaster after disaster. And even in the late war, the Germans lost a far greater percentage of this type of craft than they did in airplanes.

The ZR-2 was ordered from England in 1918, being put under construction in British yards in November of that year. Since that time, however, the British have decided to construct no more of them for the Army and Navy, and it is generally regarded in all of the foreign countries that for war purposes the dirigible is an obsolete type of air-craft. Japan, too, has discarded the dirigible in favor of the heavier-than-air type, and is concentrating her efforts on airplanes instead of dirigibles. In view of the disastrous record of the dirigibles, it would seem to be far better policy for this country, too, to eliminate them from the air-construction program.

A CURIOUS DREAM.

I dreamed one night, as fellers will when everything around is still, an' what I saw it seemed to me, was true to life as it could be.

It pleased me lots, to realize that I'd been wafted to the skies, where everything was bright an' fair, with music soundin' everywhere.

Each buddin' flower an' shinin' face that filled the mighty boundless space, was chantin' chords so powerful sweet, I really never seen the beat!

I told an angel, standin' near, that I lived in another sphere, an' bein' a stranger thataway, I couldn't think of much to say, an' while I stood to watch it all, I felt concerned, for fear I'd fall.

The angel saw that I was scared, an' told me not to be afraid, remarkin' as he took my arm, that heaven was mighty free of harm.

"This home of ours," he says to me, "was built to last eternally. It's underpinned with love of God, an' latticed with the chastenin' rod; the motor mixed with blood an' tears,—it ort to stand, a billion years. . . I reckon you would never guess that heaven is built on man's distress, an' gained by one, unfailin' plan.—THE GOOD-WILL OF YER FELLER-MAN . . ."

I waked at early dawn of day, an' hated that I couldn't stay,—so I resolved, right then an' there, to treat my friends an' neighbors square.

For your Uncle John's

A BOOK WORTH READING.

By Dick Van Dyck.

It is easy to understand why Gene Stratton-Porter has been chosen by a responsive public as a favorite among American writers, and it is easy to believe that between 1903 and this year, the enthusiasm of her friendly readers has caused the sale of over nine million of her Nature books and romances. This popularity is explained in the pages of her latest novel, "Her Father's Daughter." It is a story that will add new hundreds of thousands to her army of admirers.

Mrs. Porter, has had her new scenes in the California mountains—a place called "Lilac Valley," which she has presented with graceful touches of realistic description.

It is said that Mrs. Porter has made herself familiar with most every native plant, and this intimate love and understanding of Nature on the Pacific Coast has enabled her to move her characters through a lovely atmosphere, she knows it as well as she knows her own "Lumberlost" country.

In this setting Linda Strong solves the puzzling identity of her "sister," who is just as mean and cunning as Linda is strong, honest and innocent. Linda disregards the attentions of the young men who admire her all the more because she is so unconscious of their presence.

As she energetically goes on with her work of studying her lessons, and writing Nature essays that she herself illustrates, Linda unknowingly adds new qualities to her personality in a way that finally gives her the true hearted, faithful character of an adorable woman. And then when she has pointed the way to her high school friend, Donald Whiting, showing him how his work means most of all, she lets Peter Morrison know that he is the chosen man.

Peter is a young writer who has come to "Lilac Valley" to build a home. It is the confusion that results in their lives from a misunderstanding between Linda's "sister" Eileen and Marian that makes Mrs. Porter's novel very interesting, for Marian, who aspires to be an architect, has wanted a home of her own original design in "Lilac Valley," and when her plans have been "lost" and Peter's home has been built from them, Linda and Marian fear that the influence of Eileen has brought about a great unhappiness; each fears that the other loves Peter Morrison.

Mrs. Porter has found a very clever and enjoyable path out of the entanglement, and the best of her story is that when you have finished reading it you love every single character in it except the villainous Japanese high school "boy" with gray hair who tried to injure Donald Whiting and who was outwitted by the clear-minded Linda in a dramatic moment that ties the lives of these characters together in a deeper bond of friendship than ever.

Strongly Endorses Mr. Gordy's Candidacy

Mr. J. F. Coulborn, Formerly of Salisbury, Urges Voters To Roll Up Big Majority For Gordy.

Strong endorsement of the candidacy of Mr. W. S. Gordy, Jr., for the Comptrollership was given a few days ago by a former resident of Salisbury, Mr. J. F. Coulborn, who now lives in Philadelphia. Mr. Coulborn is well known in this community and during his visit here last week he spoke glowingly of Mr. Gordy as a real, efficient candidate—one the people can vote for with confidence. Said Mr. Coulborn:

"It having come to my knowledge that Mr. W. S. Gordy, cashier of the Salisbury National Bank, will soon be placed before the people of the State of Maryland as their candidate for the office of Comptroller, and being a former resident of Salisbury, and knowing personally the good qualities of the gentleman, it is most gratifying to me to know that the people will have in him a great financier for the duties of handling the financial end of the State government.

"It now devolves upon the voters of the State to roll up for him an unprecedented majority that will always be a pleasing remembrance.

"No voter will ever regret voting for him, and being acquainted with quite a number of people in Wicomico and the State in general, I am satisfied every one of them will concur in what I herein say."

FINE MALE QUARTET TO SING HERE OCT. 3

Famous New York Quartet To Give Concert At Arcade Under Auspices Y.M.C. of M. P. Church.

One of the early fall attractions at the Arcade was booked last week. It is to be a musical entertainment and will appeal especially to Salisbury music lovers.

This concert will be given by the official male quartet of the famous Mendelssohn Club of New York City. The baritone of the quartet, Mr. Edwin Swain, was one of the soloists at Chautauqua Institution, Lake Chautauqua, New York, this summer. He sang the title role in the oratorio "Elijah," before an audience of 6,000 persons.

Mr. William A. Sheppard, of Salisbury heard him there and was so well pleased with his voice that he interviewed him then in reference to coming to Salisbury under the auspices of the Young Men's Club of the Methodist Protestant Church. Last week Mr. Swain wrote that he would bring a male quartet to us on Monday evening, October 3. He wrote that each member of the quartet is a soloist with an established reputation, and that they will render a fine program of serious and humorous numbers.

Salisbury is indeed fortunate in securing an entertainment of this caliber.

ODD FELLOWS WILL CELEBRATE CENTENARY

Franklin Lodge No. 2, Baltimore, To Hold Big Celebration From Sept. 4 to 10.

Plans are being formulated for a mammoth celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Franklin Lodge, No. 2, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, at the Temple in Baltimore, September 4 to 10, when officials of the Grand Lodge, and members from every section of the State will be in attendance.

The committee of arrangements, composed of Irving A. Roe, chairman; John Morris and Wm. C. H. Ungerer, has arranged an attractive program, which will begin with a service of Thanksgiving at Hampden M. E. Church, on Sunday, September 4, and which will include during the week a class initiation of 100 candidates, a banquet, grand ball entertainment, and other features, to which all local Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are invited.

Franklin Lodge was instituted September 5, 1821, with but ten members, when Baltimore was a city of little over 60,000 population, and was the second golden link in the chain of American Odd Fellowship. Washington, No. 1, now 102 years old, having preceded it. Like the mother lodge, it was founded by an Englishman, Henry M. Jackson, who had come to these shores to supersede Thomas Wildy as the founder of American Odd Fellowship, but he failed in the attempt, after causing bitterness and dissension. Then it was he started Franklin Lodge No. 2.

It was at the tavern of "The Three Loggerheads," on South Frederick street, near Pratt, that the lodge first met, and the building is described as having been a three-story stone affair, conducted as a public eating place by Thomas Woodward. Here the first session of the Grand Lodge was held August 22, 1821, and this proceeding was had:

"Resolved, that the Grand Lodge receives with entire satisfaction the application of Franklin Lodge, No. 2, and agrees to grant the petition therein contained."

"Resolved, that on and after September 5, 1821, the Grand Lodge acknowledge Franklin Lodge as a legal body of Odd Fellows."

The year 1821 was a momentous one both to the nation and to the order. James Monroe had just been inaugurated President for his second term. Missouri was the twenty-fourth state to be added to the Union. The romantic Wild West stretched from the Mississippi to the Golden Gate, awaiting the pioneer. The pony express, rattling stage coach and prairie schooner were the mode of travel and communication. Nearly the entire world was at war. The first successful revolt by Mexico against Spanish dominion was staged by Iturbide, and independence secured. Peru, Chile and other South American countries also were liberated from Spain's power, while across the seas, the great Greek movement against the Turks was in progress, which lasted until 1829, when Turkey was defeated.

To the order, it was the beginning of a new era of progress, and both lodges were on the road to success. Its members served in five wars, including the Civil War and the late World War, with honor and distinction. Franklin lodge overcame many obstacles in its century of activity, and grew from ten members to over 400 in the early eighties, then it dwindled, only to rise again, until today it is one of the most progressive lodges in the State, with a membership of more than 300, and in benefits and relief has expended more than $386,000.00.

It has furnished eight Grand Masters of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, and one Grand Secretary—the late John M. Jones, who served from 1872 to 1906, and was succeeded by his son, William A. Jones, the present incumbent. In the campaign for an Odd Fellows Home for Orphans and Aged, it contributed $280, and has supported all the efforts of the sovereign body. Glorious as was its past, the future seems even more promising.

News From Our County Correspondents

MARDELA SPRINGS

Right at the time the shipping of melons was at its height, the writer seated himself in front of the post-office and tried to read the faces of the men lined up for their mail. Our purpose was to give the readers of these letters what we saw and what we surmised. There was expectancy mingled with uncertainty visible in every face. It was quite a character study, indeed, as the truckers tore open their envelopes to get the returns from goods shipped. They did not all look alike by any means. With some there was a broad smile lighting up their countenances and a merry twinkle in their eye. With others there was a scowl upon their faces. We have learned that it is best not to say too much to them right at the time; better to let them alone with their thoughts. At such times there is just a slight indication of sulphur. We imagine that possibly they are saying to themselves: "I could only see that Blankety-Blank come on mission merchant, I would let him have a piece of my mind." But here comes another fellow out and he proceeds to tear open his envelope; he whistles as he does so. Something like a person whistles as he goes through a graveyard after dark, to keep his courage up. You don't have to ask a character like this what he got for that last carload of melons he shipped. His merry tune tells that he is satisfied and next year he thinks he will put out several thousand more hills of melons. Then, there is that other fellow who, is stoically indifferent. He has been disappointed so many times that he doesn't seem to have any concern just now. If he gets pearls or pebbles in return, it doesn't seem to make the slightest difference to him. We pity some and rejoice with others. But we do claim, after a long acquaintance with those who till the soil, that the farmer earns all he gets and a great deal more.

Last week, the Rev. E. S. Fooks and family, of Uniontown, Pa., were visitors at the home of Mrs. A. D. Windsor.

Rev. Thomas Barrett and wife were visitors last week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Raymond Seabrook.

The Sharpstown M. E. Church is to be congratulated upon having such a fine Gospel preacher as is their pastor, Rev. H. S. Dulany. His sermon last Sunday afternoon at the Hebron Camp will never be forgotten by the worshippers there gathered. The picture he drew of the Prodigal Son was so true to modern life that one gentleman then present said it ought to be put in print and scattered everywhere. We say "Amen" to that suggestion.

Solomon said, "there is no new thing under the sun—but that was of his time." There is something new under the sun here. New pavements are going down and altering the whole appearance of the town. Mrs. Lizzie Wilson is having pavements put down in front of her two houses next to the postoffice building. Who'll be the next?

Mr. Albert Stout and wife from near Harrington, Del., and Mr. Melville Stout, from Pittsburgh, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Venables. Mr. Albert Stout is a brother and Mr. Melville Stout, a cousin, to Mrs. Venables.

Mr. Albert Bouds was ill when he arrived home last week from Western Maryland, where he has been working at carpentering.

Since the camp meetings are over, it will be a good time for us to take an account of our stock in trade. Honestly, do they pay? Are they worth what they cost? We are willing and glad to grant that the preaching is good, but how few go to hear the preaching? Would there not be many more who would go to hear the preaching? Would there not be many more who would go to hear should it be done in the home churches? Is there any compensation which the camps offer for the disorganization they occasion, if not cause, in all of our churches, Sunday Schools and prayer meetings? In the withholding of converts it would seem that God takes no stock in camp meetings. If there are conversions, these are the exception and not the rule.

Mr. Walter Beever and wife, of Baltimore, with Mrs. Mary A. Hill, the mother of Mrs. Beever, are visiting Dr. and Mrs. B. G. Parker. Mr. Beever is employed in the Baltimore post-office. Mrs. Hill is a sister of Dr. Parker.

Miss Edna Owens has just been spending a week at Porter's Mills.

Miss Margaret Jackson has been in Powellsville for a week with Miss Alda Owens.

Rev. C. N. Alexander and family returned from their vacation on Thursday last. Mr. Alexander seems much improved in health. He was not well when he went away.

Mrs. Glenn Marvell and daughters, Anna and Katherine, are visiting her mother, Mrs. Lottie Lloyd.

Two of our pastors are now home and occupied their pulpits on Sunday. Rev. D. J. Ford, of the M. E. Church, took for his text Judges 1:12. Rev. C. N. Alexander, of the M. P. Church, took for his text Mat. 5:14. Rev. G. W. Gorrell, of the Baptist Church, will occupy his pulpit next Sunday. Now it is to be hoped that the members of all the churches will rally for the fall work.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson K. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller, son and mother, Mrs. Kate Venables and daughter, Helen, of Philadelphia, are visiting Mrs. James W. Eversman.

Mr. and Mrs. George Seelman have moved from Mardele back to their old home in Pennsylvania. They surprised our Sabbath loving people by moving on the Sabbath. Our people are not used to moving on this day and many were the comments of our population.

Misses Nina and Grace Twillev, of Porter's Mills, spent the week-end with their former teacher, Miss Edna Owens.

Has this patent been applied for? The ingeniousness of the supposed thing is worth the telling. Something like the instrument used by inspectors in the coal mines to detect the presence of gas. The suggestion is to use it on air planes to discover the fumes of the distilleries run by moonshiners. It could be used both night and day in the most inaccessible places. Just start the machine in regions where moonshiners are suspected and the liquor fumes could be caught up and the stills, whether large or small, located and armed guards swoop down upon them, arrest all participating in this outlawed business and confiscate the stills. We do not vouch for the accuracy of the above, but simply pass it along for what it may be worth. We can at least think about it.

Our schools opened this Thursday morning. Some of the scholars are not anxious to go back to their studies, but there is nothing strange about this, for it was the same old disease when we older ones were boys and girls.

It is understood that Miss Stella Banks has returned home from the hospital, where she has spent several weeks with the typhoid fever. We rejoice with the parents on the return of their daughter with renewed health. We have heard of no more cases of typhoid fever in our community, but we should not forego the precautions we had been taking to prevent its foothold here. We can not be too careful.

A Gossard Corset is the Foundation FOR THE NEW DRESS OR SUIT

Many things contribute to the appearance of age but nothing accentuates it half so much as an ill-corseted figure.

DOES your figure show a tendency to be rigid, to take on the inflexible appearance that is the treacherous betrayer of advancing years?

DELMAR

Mrs. Chas. Sturgis, of Delmar, has as her guests Mrs. Wm. C. Collier and Little Miss Aline Wilkins, of Salisbury.

Your correspondent is in receipt of an issue of The Washington Star, the newsy paper published by F. A. Robertson, a former resident of Delmar at Washington, N. J. Frank says he is carrying lots of business in his up-to-date weekly, and had 20 pages each week for the last three weeks. In describing the Chataqua which recently finished a very successful week there, The Star says: "Chataqua opened Tuesday afternoon, introducing the superintendent, Dr. John Mason Wells, F. A. Robertson, president of the Washington Association, publicly thanked the people of Washington who had responded so nobly to the appeal for support. He also thanked those guarantors and others who worked indefatigably to sell tickets and put Washington over the top." Frank is getting out a real, live, up-to-date newspaper, and a look at The Star shows that the people of Washington appreciate this fact, and are very liberal in their advertising patronage, the paper carrying about 95 columns of advertising each week.

Practically everybody in Delmar at some time or other during the past week were visitors to the Salisbury Fair, many going early in the morning, taking in the ball game in the morning and the Fair in the afternoon.

Mr. George L. Long, Delmar's popular candidate for County Commissioner, did not overlook the Fair last week, but was present greeting old friends and making many new ones.

Now the Fair is over, the politicians of Delmar have settled down to real work for their favorite candidates in the coming primaries. The merits of the various aspirants are freely discussed these days on every hand.

School bells will ring on the Maryland side of the town today (Thursday) and many is the kid whose face is a picture of gloom.

Two of Delmar's progressive business men—S. N. Culver and A. Brewington—had attractive exhibits at the Salisbury Fair last week. "Sam" was exhibiting the well known Starr Phonograph, while Mr. Brewington had on display a new Oldsmobile Eight. Both booths tastefully arranged and attracted considerable attention during the four days of the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Hickey had as their guests for the past week, the Misses Elizabeth and Miriam Miller, of Havre de Grace; Miss Elizabeth Norris, of Baltimore; Mr. W. F. Hitchens, of Philadelphia, and Mr. C. Gibson, of Philadelphia, who, friends of their son, Mr. William F. Hickey, Miss Nellie Truitt, of Pittsville, was the guest of Miss Lottie Hearn, of near Delmar, part of this week.

Miss Anna Jones, of this place, spent the week-end with Miss Berenice Wright, of Salisbury.

Mrs. Elton Holland and Miss Helen Pointer, Mrs. Elmer Lunn and Mrs. Ernest Pointer of Chincoteague, Va., visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Noah Adkins and other relatives last week.

Oyster Season Will Open Today

Tongers And Packers All Ready For The Season Which Will Last Until Next April.

Oyster tongers and packing houses on the lower Peninsula have made all their preparations for the opening of the season which starts today (Thursday) and continues until next April. Practically all of the watermen now use motor boats instead of the old-time sailing craft, which means a great saving in time in getting to and from the oyster grounds.

General and special oyster inspectors, designated by the State Conservation Commission, recently were requested to learn the general condition of the oyster beds in different sections of the bay, but formal reports have not begun to come in. It is well known, however, that many of the beds have been invaded by mussels, but it is not thought, to such an extent as to damage the oyster much.

The big packing houses in Crisfield, Cambridge and other parts of the Peninsula have been astir during the last few weeks getting things in shape to put their shuckers to work on the opening day of the season.

CLEVEREST DOG PLAYER ACTS IN "PECK'S BAD BOY."

When "Peck's Bad Boy" is flashed on the screen at Ulman's Opera House one of the cleverest dog players will be seen in an important role. "Queenie" is her name. She is Jackie Coogan's pal and partner. "Queenie," according to her master, understands five hundred English words and can perform any feat any other canine actor of stage or screen can do. In the Peck film, some of "Queenie's" antics are the cause of outbursts of laughter and applause. "Teddy" and other famed dog actors will have to watch their laurels from now on, for "Queenie" is setting a fast pace. Advertisement. 12.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear Mother, Mrs. Eliza A. Holland, who passed away February 16th, 1921. Six long months have passed we well remember.

When we stood beside your dying bed to bid our last farewell.

With tearful eyes we watched you pass away.

How lonely the hours dear Mother.

Since we see you no more.

Although we must realize, your short life is over.

And though we dearly loved you we could not make you stay.

You are not forgotten Mother dear, your memory will never fade.

Our thoughts will ever linger in the graveyard where you are laid.

How often we miss your dear face that you left us to remember.

None on earth can take your place.

A happy home we once enjoyed, how sweet the memory still!

But death has left a loneliness this world can never fill.

By her children,

MRS. FRANK PHIPPIN.
MRS. FRANK PHILLIPS.

The report shows that beginning July 11 and ending Saturday, August 27, the period when he was at the helm, Salisbury played a total of 41 games, winning 23 of the contests, losing 15 and engaging in three tied games.

One tied game was played with Newark and two with Princess Anne. The completed record of games won and lost follows:

In turning over the reins to the new management, Mr. Waller stated that he was doing so with a record of accomplishment that had never before been equaled in Salisbury as regarding the financial end. All bills had been wiped off the slate, he stated, and between $300 and $400 placed in bank to the credit of the new management. A ground rent of $600 and $160 for uniforms, balls, bats, gloves and other equipment also was paid.

Mr. Waller further stated that it was the first time in the history of baseball in Salisbury that a team had shown a financial profit.

Mr. Waller left Salisbury Monday morning on a business trip to Western Pennsylvania and New York.

LAUREL AND SALISBURY
STAGE 11-INNING TIE

Salisbury and Laurel battled 11 innings on the latter's diamond Monday afternoon, darkness putting an end to the contest with the score knotted at 6 to 6. Salisbury scored five runs in the first three innings and made another tally in the eighth. Jones occupied the mound for Salisbury and twirled good ball.

Crisfield Takes
Another From Locals

Wins Thursday's Game, 7 to 4—Series Between Two Nines Now Tied, Two Each.

Crisfield again took Salisbury's measure in the game played here last Thursday morning at Gordy Park, the team from the lower end of Somerset gaining a 7-4 verdict. This game put Crisfield on even terms with Salisbury, each team now having won two games.

Salisbury was on the long end of a 2-1 count when Crisfield came to the bat in the eighth frame, but in the eighth session the balloon ascension started, the Crisfieldians eking out 5 runs before the inning ended. Nuth, Crisfield's pinch hitter, started the trouble by poling out a home run over the right field fence with two men occupying the sacks. The score:

SNOW HILL WINS 10-INNING GAME FROM SALISBURY

One of the best games seen on the Shore this year was played between Salisbury and Snow Hill on the latter's grounds Tuesday afternoon. Snow Hill gained the verdict after 10 innings of hard battling by a score of 4 to 3. Salisbury got a one-run lead in its half of the tenth frame, but a homer by Schroll, pinch hitter for Snow Hill, knotted the count, and Bergman later came across with the winning run on a safe hit to center.

Game With Parksley
Ends In Near-Riot

Alleged Wierd Umpiring Caused Rumor Which Started After Final Man Was Called Out.

The alleged wierd umpiring of the game between Salisbury and Parksley last Friday on Parksley's grounds came close to resulting in a serious rumormongering, a near-riot occurring when the Parksley "ump," who is said to have repeatedly given outlandish decisions against the Salisbury team, added fuel to the spreading flames when he made what it said to have been the most glaring of all his mistakes by calling McNiff out at second for the final out of the ninth session. Trouble galore then started and only the action of cooler heads prevented a serious mix-up. Score of the game:

THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS THE DOOR TO LONG LIVING.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Advertisement.

BIG DAYLIGHT STORE, THREE FLOORS,

The Big Fair

The Great Salisbury Fair came to an end last Friday and this year's Fair will go down in the history of the Association as one of the most successful Fairs ever conducted here. The attendance on each and every one of the four days was unusually good, the total number of persons passing through the turnstiles being fully up to the high records of former banner years.

With excellent weather prevailing throughout the entire week, everything broke just right for the thousands of visitors who journeyed to Salisbury to have a good time at the Fair. The racing this year was very good, the midway attractions even greater than heretofore, and the free attractions were of a standard that was entirely pleasing in every respect.

All of the exhibits of cattle, poultry, agricultural products, farm implements, etc., were unusually good, and the big crowds had plenty to attract their attention every minute of the time. The exhibits in the tents and frame structures on the grounds outside the main exhibition hall as well as those in the booths underneath the grand-stand, were wonderfully attractive this year, and a reporter for The News gives below a detailed account of the various exhibits.

Irrigation System Shown.

Upon entering the Fair Grounds, the very first exhibit the sightseer encountered was that of the Salisbury Brick Company, which had an especially attractive lay-out of the new process of building by means of the brick hollow wall. In four tiers artistically arranged, were built-up samples of the hollow brick method of construction, and the arrangement was one that gave the onlooker an excellent idea of the efficacy of that method of building. In charge of the exhibit was Mr. T. H. Mitchell, Jr.

Just on the other side of the road from the Salisbury Brick Company's exhibit was that of the R. D. Grier & Sons Co., which was exhibiting the Skinner system of irrigation. The Grier firm had driven a 40-foot well especially to demonstrate the system, and water flowed continuously from the overhead pipes, which consisted of two overhead pipe lines 40 feet each in length. The pump and all other apparatus connected with the system was in good working order and visitors got a good, clear idea of what irrigation will actually mean for this county when once adopted on a wide-spread scale. Mr. R. A. Ayres, of Woodstown, N. J., an erecting engineer, was in charge of the demonstrations.

In one of the tents near the main gate also was located the automobile exhibit of Mr. U. C. Wimbrow, who was displaying various types of Haynes, Chandler and Cleveland touring cars. Mr. Wimbrow was in charge of the exhibit.

Next door the wanderer came across the automobile exhibit of the Buick Motor Company, which was exhibiting two standard types of Buicks and one Cadillac. This exhibit was under the supervision of Mr. Louis Briddell.

Hardware And Autos Exhibited.

The exhibit of L. W. Gunby & Company consisted of both automobiles and hardware. A Dodge touring car, a Dodge truck, a Nash Sports Model Six and a Nash touring car were all shown to the interested spectators in the hardware line, the firm exhibited the Fox and Caloric types of furnaces, the Duro Water Systems and Hercules gasoline engines. In charge of the auto exhibit was Mr. F. R. Briddell, while the hardware exhibits were under the direction of Mr. George Baker.

The Riverside Motor Company had a big exhibit both in automobiles and agricultural implements. Ford sedans, roadsters, touring cars and trucks were on display. In the agricultural line, the firm exhibited a Fordson Tractor complete with mower-blade, a Cult-Packer cultivator and other farm implements. Mr. Fred Wagner had charge of the auto exhibit while Mr. Louis C. Brewington took care of the agricultural implement display.

The combined exhibit of the International Harvester Co. and the Farmers & Planters Company consisted of all type of modern and improved farm implements, fertilizers, etc. The exhibit was in charge of Mr. Frank I. Clary. Dorman & Smith Hardware Company had on display a general line of hardware and an interesting showing of farm implements. On Friday afternoon three prizes were given away by this firm in a free drawing contest to the holders of lucky numbers. The first prize consisted of a Silver Pyrex Casserole, the second was an Aluminum Kettle while the third prize was a Granite Roaster. Mr. H. B. Mitchell was in charge of the exhibit.

Huge Thresher on Display.

Across the road from the Dorman & Smyth Company exhibit was that of Mr. S. A. Evans, of Pocomoke City, who had on display a giant Frick Thresher and a Frick Tractor. Mr. Evans was personally in charge of his exhibit.

Passing from the exhibits that were on the Fair Grounds and going into the main Exhibition Hall underneath the grand stand, the reporter was tremendously impressed with the general attractiveness of all the booths, with their vari-colored decorations and their natty appearances. The scene as a whole was one that was pleasing to the eye, and every booth contained something of interest to make the spectator pause and tarry a while.

On what is termed the High Side of the Exhibition Hall, the first exhibit from the main entrance was that of S. N. Culver, of Delmar, who had a fine showing of Star's honographs, his booth containing five of the instruments from which pleasing melodies came forth to help enliven things. Mr. Culver had charge of this exhibit.

Next came the exhibit of a Grant Six automobile, placed on display by Mr. C. P. Butler, of Whaleyville. The exhibit was under the supervision of Mr. R. J. Hall, Whaleyville.

The Palace Garage had an automobile booth next to Mr. Butler's. In this booth, which was in charge of Mr. Harry Hall, the firm showed a Studebaker car. On the other side of the aisle, the Palace Garage had another booth in charge of Mr. W. J. Hudson. Shown in this booth were Maxwell and Chalmers touring cars. Both booths were tastefully decorated.

Red Cross Kept Busy.

One of the most attractive booths in the hall was that of the local chapter Red Cross, which was in charge of Miss Mary C. Kell, Public Health Nurse for Wicomico county. The Red Cross booth was fitted up as a First Aid Station and Rest Room and during the four days of the Fair 14 emergency cases were treated in this booth. It was fitted up with First Aid table, cot and complete outfit. Miss Kell stated that between three and four hundred persons, mostly children, were weighed and that 500 health pamphlets were distributed. Assisting Miss Kell were three graduate nurses—Miss Mildred Disharoon, Mrs. R. W. Hammerslough and Mrs. Lee Allen. Two Girl Scouts also were in attendance each of the four days. They were: Misses Elizabeth Adams, Helen Perdue, Ruth Silverman, Rose Todd, Anne Messick, Frances Gunby, Irma Smith and Lois Van Horn.

Many things of interest to the women-folk were to be found in the Needlework department, superintended by Mrs. Stella K. Tull. Exhibits in this department came from as far west as Ohio; many from Baltimore were on display and one piece exhibited was made in France. All sorts and kinds of fancy needlework were displayed, and Mrs. Tull stated that the exhibits this year far surpassed those of former years. A baby dress that was said to be 75 years old attracted much attention while some of the embroidered pieces on display showed marvelous workmanship.

10,000 Visited This Booth.

The exhibit of R. E. Powell & Co. was one of the most beautiful at the Fair, and approximately 10,000 persons visited the improvised living room, completely furnished, which this firm had constructed in such an artistic manner. Upon approaching the R. E. Powell & Co. booth the visitor was actually amazed to find that every detail had been worked out so minutely in transforming it into a "homey," "comfy" living room that multitudes of visitors decided to camp right there and get some valuable pointers as to real, high class interior furnishing and decorating. The living room, which, by the way, required four days' time in being constructed, was built with beam ceiling, English mission finish, the walls being constructed of Carey wall board. A fireplace, with andirons and artificial fire glowing, a large davenport placed in front of it, a davenport table with table lamp, a beautiful floor lamp, a secretary, gate-legged table, Windsor chair and rocker and other high-toned appointments gave to the place an air of being thoroughly human and perfectly homelike. The mantle over the fireplace supported an old-fashioned clock and two candle sticks while on the walls just above a pair of candelabra made the setting complete. To add to the general "homeliness" of the living room, books and a copy of the Wicomico News adorned the table. The two windows in the back of the room had hangings of Rose Rep and cretonne valances and a large Axminster rug was on the floor. The general color scheme, which was so highly effective, has a tone of rose, against gray walls. Forty-seven persons by actual count, visited the R. E. Powell & Company booth on Thursday, and this number included only the adult visitors. Mr. C. William Teubner was in charge of the exhibit and he reported sales of all the articles exhibited in the living room.

Baltimore Firm Represented.

The Eastern Shore Music Company, which has offices in Salisbury, Cambridge and Crisfield, had an attractive exhibition of Columbia Gramophones and records. A large replica of a gramophone record, which was eight feet in diameter, was placed in the back of the booth and kept in motion at all times. A large sound amplifier also was exhibited, and when used on the Gramophones one could distinctly hear in all parts of the exhibition hall the music played. Mr. C. D. Trader was in charge of this exhibit.

McCormick & Company, of Baltimore had a nicely decorated booth in which were displayed some of the firm's products. A demonstration of tea and mayonnaise dressing was a special feature of the exhibition. The booth was in charge of their Baltimore representative.

Another splendidly decorated booth was that of J. E. Shockley & Company. This booth was fitted up with a three-piece suite consisting of chair, rocker and davenport, while a davenport table, floor lamp, rug and other home furnishings made the picture home-like and complete. The J. E. Shockley & Co. booth was in charge of Mr. Arley S. Shockley.

Was a Popular Spot.

An exhibit that attracted crowds in great numbers was that of the E. S. Adkins & Company, located in the central part of the exhibition hall. Arranged in the Adkins Company booth were several household articles that were auctioned off to the highest bidder—each article being auctioned by sealed bids each day. They consisted of a handsome built-in Medicine Cabinet, a triangular-backed China closet of the latest design, a beautiful dining alcove and a collapsible ironing board. That the articles thusly auctioned were greatly admired and eagerly sought was attested by the spirited bidding that took place each day of the Fair. In addition to these articles which adorned the booth, the Adkins Company had on display numerous specimens of building materials which were of unusual interest. Another feature that they had for their visitors was the $10 daily cash prize, which proved to be one of the most popular events of each afternoon for the Fair folk. Mr. John Es-till, was in charge of the E. S. Adkins & Company booth.

Leaving the Adkins booth, on the same side of the aisle, one next came to the exhibit of Chevrolet motor cars. Two Chevrolet cars occupied the booth, which was appropriately decorated and attracted the attention of hots of people.

The Floral Department, under the supervision of Mrs. Mary West Williams, was larger than ever this year and contained many excellent exhibits which included flowers and plants of all kinds and descriptions. Ferns, rubber plants, pagonias, Poinsettias, aspidistras, air plants and sun flowers were just a few of the specimens on display.

Fine Agricultural Exhibits.

Mr. A. Brewington, of Delmar, had an Oldsmobile Eight on exhibition in the booth next to the Floral Department, and reported that he was well pleased with the Fair this year, having secured a number of excellent prospects.

The Gordy-Paige Company also had an attractive exhibit of Paige cars at the lower end of the exhibition hall which received much attention from the passersby.

Starting back toward the main entrance, on the Low Side of the hall, the reporter first encountered the exhibits in the Agricultural Department, in charge of Mr. Theodore S. Hearn. All of the agricultural exhibits were fully up to the standard of former years, said Mr. Hearn, with the exception of fruit and tomatoes. The damage done to the fruit crop by our early frosts, of course, greatly curtailed fruit exhibits, while the growing of tomatoes in this section this year has been at a minimum. Few pumpkins, too, were exhibited, as the pumpkin crop is said to be a failure this season. Corn and watermelons, however, were exhibited a-plenty, and the specimens placed on exhibition

Mr. Banning also gave it as his opinion that the Salisbury Fair was the best one in the whole Fair circuit. This firm auctioned off under sealed bids a Remington phonograph, the highest bid being $201.25. It was purchased by a Mr. Wheatley, of Bridgeville, Del.

Three Newspaper Booths.

The Wicomico News and the Wicomico Countian had attractively decorated booths on the Low Side of the hall, while the Philadelphia Record also had a booth at the Fair. The latter newspaper conducted a bean-guessing contest, the prizes for the best guessers being free subscriptions to that publication.

The Carey Service Station had an interesting exhibit of batteries and automobile accessories that drew many visitors. The articles exhibited being displayed in an unusually attractive manner. Mr. Carey was in charge of the exhibit.

Bunting's Nurseries, of Selbyville, Del., exhibited numerous varieties of trees and nursery stock. It was the first time that this firm had ever exhibited at a Fair and Mr. Raymond Bunting, who was in charge of the exhibit, said that he was entirely pleased with the way things were going.

Mr. R. W. Hammerslough, who was in charge of the Salisbury Young Men's Christian Association booth, had a very busy time during the four days of the Fair. Assisting Mr. Hammerslough were Mr. Wm. Boogs, physical director of the local "Y," and Mr. H. (Continued on Page 14.)

were of high standard. Other agricultural products, too, came in for their just share of attention.

"WICOMICO GIRL" WRITES ABOUT HER TRIP TO FREDERICKSBURG, VA.

Relates Incidents Of Historical Interest Concerning The Old Virginia City—Visit Made To Masonic Lodge Room Where Washington Received His First Degree.

By "A WICOMICO GIRL."

On our arrival at Fredericksburg, Va., we were greeted by a typical Southern people whose cordiality has to be seen to be appreciated and whose history is replete with interest from the date of its settlement in 1727, made by two hundred and fifty men. John Smith, however, discovered the falls of the Rappahannock river just above the city by following an Indian guide. The city was named for Frederick, son of George the Second.

The city has a war history peculiarly its own, having been an important center during three wars, that of the Revolution, War of 1812 and the Civil War. One of the interesting places is the Kenmore with its war history. It was built in 1740 by Fielding Lewis, an officer in command of a division at the siege of Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered, which meant the end of the war. The interior of this building is stucco work, beautiful and attractive, having stood intact for more than a century. This work was done by Hessian soldiers while they were imprisoned in the building. The Hessians, it will be remembered, were men employed by England from the princes of Germany to fight against the colonies in the Revolution.

Is Historic Spot.

Col. Fielding Lewis took Miss Bettie Washington, George's sister, to this home as his bride. Mary, the mother of George Washington, was buried near here, having selected the place because it could never be cultivated, so near a rocky crag. To her memory is erected the highest and most imposing monument ever erected to any woman in this or any other country.

Another very attractive place to the visitor is the plain, old-fashioned one and one-half story dwelling, the home of the mother of our first president from 1772 until her death in 1789. This building has the same architecture and appearance as it had when built. The front room in which she died has the same furnishings she used in her lifetime. The "Teater" bedstead, the old fire place with its brass andirons, the old spinning wheel and pieces of antiquity remind us of what has been handed down to us by our parents and grandparents.

The old kitchen, too, in the rear with its old bread fire place brick floor crane and other things are just as they were used by Mary Washington. Up until the death of her husband, she lived just across the Rappahannock (opposite Fredericksburg) on the "Washington Farm," and in these two homes we learn that the illustrious George was raised to manhood. It was on the farm that he cut the memorable cherry tree and threw a stone across the Rappahannock.

Relics Of Washington's Day.

Another very interesting building to the visitor is the "Chatham" on Stafford Heights from which a splendid view of the city is given. It was built by William Fitzhugh upon one of the largest grants of land ever given in America to a single person, by King George of England, said to contain a few hundred thousand acres, across the Rappahannock 1730. The building is said to be the finest and most beautiful specimen of the Georgian Colonial architecture in America. Through its spacious halls have passed the beauty and chivalry of many of the most distinguished families of Virginia.

The Masonic Lodge Building, in which George Washington received his first degree as a Mason, November 4, 1762 has a cabinet of interesting and valuable relics. The Bible on which George took his obligation, and which was printed in 1668, is still well preserved. A lock of his hair is to be seen, autographed passes given by him during the Revolutionary War, the old minute book giving an account of his initiation, passing and raising; the old parlor chairs of his mother, and many other things of deep interest are to be seen free by applying to the Master of the Lodge.

Country's Largest Cemetery.

One of the oldest buildings we have yet seen is the "Rising Sun Tavern," built many years before the Revolutionary War and the stopping place of Washington, LaFayette and other Colonial dignitaries. The building retains in every way the old style of architecture used in wooden buildings in the eighteenth century.

The National and Confederate Cemeteries are places of deep interest and of lasting impression. The National Cemetery has the largest number of interments of any in this country, there being fifteen thousand two hundred and ninety-five. Of these about twenty-five hundred are known and their names, regiments and States are registered in a book to be seen in the superintendent's office. Twenty-five hundred are buried in the Confederate cemetery and all known and registered except six hundred.

Seven presidents and three of the greatest military leaders were born here or near here. John Paul Jones, who raised the first flag over our infant navy in 1775, was a resident of this city. James Monroe, who announced the American principle known as the Monroe Doctrine; James Madison first saw the light near here. Later we will have something to say of the commercial magnitude of the city.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

This is No. 45 of the fourth series of articles issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th street, New York City. They are appearing weekly in these columns.

THE TWILIGHT STORY HOUR.

By Nella Gardner White.

A daily story time may sound like romance but it is very practical and accomplishes more good than a thousand scoldings. There is a story somewhere for every phase of character growth, and any librarian will help a mother to find these stories. If there is no library available, there can be no better investment for the character building of your child than the purchase of a few good story books. The child lives in a world of fiction. Do not deprive him of your companionship in that legitimate, fascinating realm.

There come in every day, small vexations, irritations because a child does not comprehend grown-up standards or is mischievous or wilful. Never let your boy or girl go to bed with the day's tangle unsmoothed. I have heard mothers say, "I'm too tired when night comes!" or "I'm going out tonight—I can't be bothered." The one who "can't be bothered" perhaps does not realize that a man or a woman with breath of vision and an imagination to accomplish great things may be in the making during that few minutes of every evening. The mother who is "too tired"—and there are so many of them—perhaps does not know what a blessed restfulness it is to have the children on her, quiet after the day's excitement, listening with wide eyes to the twilight story. It is as soothing to the mother as to the children, and there is an intimacy growing out of that time which never ceases to be a blessing in after years.

You may say you have not the time to learn stories—would reading them do as well? For a score of reasons it would not. If you are really desirous of the best for your children and are looking for some way to make a beautiful harmony out of your lives together, you will find the time. It does not take more than a few minutes to read a story, and you can go over it in your mind while you are washing the dishes or preparing the vegetables for dinner. Perhaps the longer time required is in choosing the right story to tell at the right time.

As you study these stories, you will find that your own character is expanding too. There is a lesson for grown-ups in all the old fairy tales and in many of the new ones. The story hour will keep your imagination from becoming dulled, it will quicken your sense of humor, it will make you young with your children and better able to enter into every nook and cranny of their child life.

Do not think that this method of disciplining is too indirect, that the moral of the story will be lost in the interest in the story itself. It has been proved repeatedly that this is not true, even when it may seem so at first.

Be consistent in the story-telling if you undertake it. Do not do it one night and neglect it the next. Make it a part of every day and it will soon come to be the sweetest, most restful and helpful time both to yourself and your children.

Three Parties To A Telephone Call

It is always well to remember that good telephone service does not depend entirely upon the operator.

There are two other persons involved—the person calling and the person answering—and over their movements the operator has no control. She may do her part very efficiently, but unless the others co-operate, the best results will not be had.

It is not the fault of the operator, for instance, if the calling party, relying on his memory, calls for a wrong number or hangs up his receiver in the middle of a conversation. Neither is it the fault of the operator if the called party fails to answer promptly or is already engaged in conversation with another person.

Good telephone operating is brought about by co-operation on the part of the party calling, the operator and the party called.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS for the School of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Civil Engineering Bldg., Homewood, from Monday, September 19th, to Thursday, September 22d, 1921, beginning at 9 A. M. each day.

APPLICATIONS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS IN THE SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING established under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 90, 1912, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship a competitive examination must be taken Friday, September 24d, 1921, beginning at 9 A. M. Appointments will be made thereafter.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Cecil, Harford, Howard and Queen Anne, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1921-1922, in addition to those which have already been assigned. In the four counties mentioned above, all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the School of Engineering are awarded to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each County and in each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200 and is known as a "Senatorial Scholarship." Senatorial Scholarships may be awarded for 1921-1922 in Baltimore City (first, second, third and fourth Districts); Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Somerset and Washington Counties.

COMMENT OF COUNTY AGENT COBB ON AGRICULTURAL HAPPENINGS

By George R. Cobb.

Our comments for this week will be based largely on what we saw and learned at the Salisbury Fair. On last Monday we talked with W. C. Mitchell, superintendent of the Poultry Department, and he said: "Mr. Cobb, people must have heard that we are going to have a Poultry Show this fall because we have more entries for the Fair than before—why, we have over 500 entries and I don't know what we are going to do with so many." We may have to enlarge our poultry building if this keeps up.

The exhibit of live stock was good, in fact we heard that it was the best exhibit of livestock ever held at the Fair. But, it wasn't good enough to stop there, so next year we are going to have a better exhibit than we had this year. Holstein and Guernsey cattle predominated, while Poland China and Berkshire hogs were the leading breeds among swine.

The "hog sale" on Friday was fairly successful and as a result several head of Poland China will be added to Wicomico stock. Among those who brought these pure breeds were George Nichols, M. E. Twilley, John Carey, Claude Bassett, Levin Niblett, Wm. Cooper, Clarence Johnson, E. F. Horsey, etc. Out genial auctioneer Purcell Maddox got good prices for practically all of these pigs, but the sale was not advertised enough to make it the success it could have been.

We have mentioned the Poultry Exhibit, but we will be allowed to repeat that it was the best ever held at a Salisbury Fair. The quality and number of entries may be judged when we say that it took the judges about a day and a half to complete the judging. We believe that much of the success of the Poultry Exhibit is due to the interest and hard work of the superintendent, W. C. Mitchell.

The agricultural exhibit was not as large as we would have liked to have seen, but the products exhibited were of fine quality and very carefully arranged by Theo. Hearn. Eight exhibits of "3 stalks of corn" were hard to beat at any show. The "stalks" that won first prize came from land that was in corn last year BUT a crop of clover came between the two crops of corn. The exhibit of several potatoes could not be criticized except in number. Each basket was packed right, good specimens, uniform and true to type, no more can be asked. We haven't room to mention all of the exhibits but as we said above the quality was fine.

Our Red Cross Nurse, Miss Kell, certainly had an attractive booth. We have no definite figures on totals but as we remember it, Miss Kell and her assistants weighed and measured over 300 children on Tuesday, the first day of the Fair.

Water is still a popular beverage and thirst slacker. This was very easily proved by the number of people who stopped at the W. C. T. U. booth for a "drop of aqua fresca."

Secretary Hammerlough, of the Y. M. C. A., was right on the job as usual and we are sure that good results are coming from his booth and work at the fair. Much interest was aroused, especially among the boys outside of Salisbury, as we heard quite a few discussions about "going to the Y. M. in discussion of the movies "when we go into town."

Records are falling fast these days, and we want to hear of any good yields, early laying pullets, etc. Chris Hastings' account slips show that 1 1/2 acres of cukes returned gross sales of $672.97. We believe that these were all sold through the Wicomico Farmers Association and we know that they were graded.

Be sure to read the letter in this issue that we received from a gentleman, now in Maine, regarding Wicomico leeks, especially those put out under the "Pine Cone Brand." This makes us feel pretty proud.

When a farmer sells a crop he also sells a certain amount of plant food. For example: 200 bushels of sweet potatoes contain about 30 pounds of ammonia, 3 pounds of phosphoric acid and 40 pounds of potash. (2) 500 bushels of cucumbers remove about 60 pounds of ammonia, 30 pounds of phosphoric acid, and 60 pounds of potash. If we would all realize this fact we would have a far better idea how and why certain amounts of fertilizer is needed for each particular crop.

We were sure that Wicomico county poultrymen were as good as any—read the Farm Forum this week and see that Paul Wimbrow has pullets laying at the tender age of four months and 20 days and Chris Hastings has a pullet that started to lay on August 23 and has laid an egg every day so far (we are writing this on August 27).

Raymond Parker and John Smith are almost ready to seed their alfalfa but are waiting somewhat on the weather. The weather man hasn't given us any hope of rain for today or tomorrow, but he may change his mind on Monday—if not we will have to get Mr. Barping to start his irrigation because the first time he started the "artificial rain" caused a natural rain all over the county.

Rye and vetch, or rye, sown this fall, turned under next spring, an application of lime, then land seeded to peas or soybeans, this crop cut for hay or turned under, rye sown the same fall to be turned under or cut for grain. The above method will build up poor or run-down soils because it has done so on several farms here in our own county.

Here is another fact that farmers should know—the amount of lime certain crops take from the soil. One ton of the following crops take the following amounts of lime: Alfalfa, 42 pounds; crimson clover, 40 pounds; cow peas, 34 pounds; soy beans, 35 pounds; wheat, 7 pounds; corn, 11 pounds.

Be sure and field select the sweet potato seed for next year so that you may eliminate as much disease as possible. Select seed potatoes from the best producing plants. Split the stems down to the roots and look for stem rot. If stem rot is present you will find that the inside of the stem is blackened. Black rot will show up on the potatoes as black spots that are sunk somewhat and almost round in shape. Discard all potatoes for seed that show signs of stem rot or black rot as well as those potatoes showing rotted ends. Handle seed carefully because any cut in the surface of the potato makes a fine place for disease germs to locate, thus causing rot in storage.

J. H. Hampshire says, "we are going to inoculate every legume that we sow. We have tried it both ways and know that it pays to inoculate legumes even red clover." Mr. Hampshire also believes in having his soil tested in several samples for he has already brought in several samples for us to test and we hope that some of our farmers will follow his example.

The amount of phosphoric acid and potash in one ton of green plants is shown in the following table: Rye, 4 pounds phosphoric acid, 13 pounds potash; soy beans, 3 pounds phosphoric acid, 12 pounds potash; sweet clover, 3 pounds phosphoric acid, 10 pounds potash; red clover, 2.6 pounds phosphoric acid, 10 pounds potash; millet, 2 pounds phosphoric acid, 10 pounds potash; cow peas, 2.4 pounds phosphoric acid, 9 pounds potash; rape, 3 phosphoric acid, 9 pounds potash; crimson clover, 2.4 pounds phosphoric acid, 8 pounds potash.

CROP PLANTING STATISTICS.

Plantings of 14 chief crops in 1921 cover 332,467,300 acres, according to preliminary estimates by the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. This area is 6,011,000 acres below that of 1920 and 2,093,000 acres below the average of that of 1915-1919. The estimated acreage of the 14 crops in 1921 are as follows: Winter wheat, 38,721,000; spring wheat, 18,023,000; corn, 108,301,000; oats, 44,829,000; barley, 7,713,000; rye, 4,544,000; potatoes, 3,972,000; sweet potatoes 1,186,000; flaxseed 1,242,000; rice 864,000; tobacco 1,336,800; hay 73,842,000; cotton 26,519,000; sugar beets 774,500.

DON'T RISK NEGLIGENCE.

Don't neglect a constant backache, sharp, darting pains or urinary distress. The danger of dropsy or Bright's disease is too serious to ignore. Use Doan's Kidney Pills as have your friends and neighbors. Ask your neighbor! A Salisbury case:

Mrs. Ernest Lucas, 317 Elizabeth St., says: "I was troubled for years with weak kidneys and was confined to my bed for two weeks at a time. I also went to the hospital but got no better. My hands, feet and limbs swelled and puffy sacs hung beneath my eyes. I was certainly in bad shape, and wasn't expected to get over the trouble. Finally on a friend's advice I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they saved me after everything else had failed. I always keep Doan's on hand." (Statement given July 22, 1916.)

On January 8, 1921, Mrs. Lucas added: "I never fail to recommend Doan's for they certainly did wonders for me." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

THE FACTORY ON THE FARM

Modern factories are laid out in such a way as to get the most work done with the least amount of lost motion and back-tracking. Your barn ought to be planned in the same careful, detailed way.

Back hauls, poor loading and unloading facilities, bad arrangements for feeding, and other faults due to lack of planning are expensive. They make your work more difficult and they waste your time and money. If your barn is properly planned, you can save money not only on your building but in the use of that building later.

This farm factory should be large enough to take care of the produce from your fields even when you have extra bumper crops. At the same time it should not be larger than you need. Many real estate men judge the fertility of a farm by the size and character of the barn and value the property accordingly.

If your present barn is not what it should be, you ought to build one of the right kind. A good barn will help pay for your home. If you need a barn, you need it now. You will find that we can give you the most for your money in materials, planning and service. Build that barn now, and let us help you do it.

"I didn't hear what was said, but I saw the overcoated man pass something to Durgin and saw Durgin put whatever it was into his pocket. Then the other man dodged and went away, and did it so quick that I didn't see which way he went or what became of him. Durgin must have run after he left the corner, for I didn't see anything more of him until I got to the office."

"He was there when you came in?"

"Yes, I might. If he had on the same coat and hat."

"That will do, then. Keep this thing to yourself, and if the newspaper people come after you, send them to Mr. Van Britton or to me."

After Morris had gone, Mr. Van Britton shook his head sort of savagely.

"It's h—l, Graham," he ripped out, bounding to his feet and beginning to tramp up and down the room. "To think that these devils would take the chance of murdering a lot of totally innocent people to gain their end! What are you going to do about it?"

"I don't know yet, Upton; but I am going to do something. This state of affairs can't go on. The simplest thing is for me to throw up the job and let the Short Line drop back into the old rut. I'm not sure that it wouldn't save a good many lives in the end if I should do it. And yet it seems such a cowardly thing to do—to resign under fire."

Mr. Van Britton had his hand on the door-knob, and what he said made me warm to my finger-tips.

"We're all standing by you, Graham; all you understand—to the last man and the last ditch. And you're not going to pitch it up; you're going to stay until you have thrown the harpoon into these high-binders, clear up to the hilt. That's my prophecy. The trouble's over for tonight, and you'd better go up to the hotel and turn in. There is another day coming, or if there isn't, it won't make any difference to any of us. Good-night."

CHAPTER XIII

What the Pilot Engine Found

For a time after the suicide of the off-trick-dispatcher the wreck epidemic paused. Acting upon Mr. Norcross's suggestion, Mr. Van Britton called his trainmen in, a crew at a time, and gave them the straight tip; and after that the hoodoo died a natural death, and a good many pairs of eyes all along the Short Line were keeping a sharp lookout for the trouble-makers.

In the meantime, Tarbell, still digging faithfully, managed to turn up a few facts that were worth something. In the Petrolite case he found a lone prospector living in a shack high up on the farther side of the canyon who told him that late in the evening of the day preceding the wreck he had seen two men climbing the slope from which the boulder had been dislodged, and that one of them was carrying a pick. Also, further investigation seemed to prove that the rail which the blow of the rock was supposed to have knocked loose had been previously weakened, either by drawing some of the spikes, or by unscrewing the nuts on the bolts at the joints.

In another field, and this time under Ripley's instructions, our ex-cow-puncher had been able to get and bait a trap. By diligent search he had found the man Murphy, the Clannahan henchman, who, under pressure, had given away the Timber Mountain plot which had climaxed in the kidnapping of the boss. This man had been deliberately shot in a bar-room brawl and left for dead. But he had crawled away and had got out of town to live and recover at a distant cattle ranch in the Limberton hills.

When Tarbell discovered him he had cut out the booze, had grown a beard, and was thirsting for vengeance. Tarbell brought him back to Port City, and presently there began to be developments. Murphy knew all the ropes. In a little time, Ripley, with Tarbell's help, was loaded for bear. One chilly October afternoon the lawyer came down to our office to tell Mr. Norcross that the game was cornered.

"All you have to do now is to give the word," was the way Ripley wound up. "You refused to do it on a former occasion, because we couldn't get the men higher up. This time we can nail Clannahan, and a good few of the political gangsters and bosses in the other towns along the line. What do you say?"

The boss looked up with the little horse-shoe frown wrinkling between his eyes.

"Can we get Hatch and Henckel?"

"No; not yet."

"Very well; then you may lock those papers up in your safe and we'll wait. When you can see your way clear to a criminal trial, with Rufus Hatch and Gustave Henckel in the prisoner's dock, we'll start the legal machinery; but not before."

By now we were right on the eve of the state election. As far as anybody could see, the railroad had stayed free and clear of the political fight. The boss had kept his promise to maintain neutrality and was still keeping it.

At the appointed time the big day dawned, and the political wind-up held the center of the stage. So far as we were concerned, it passed off very quietly. Along in the afternoon the newspaper offices began to put out bulletins, and by evening the result was no longer doubtful. For the first time in years the power of the political machine had been smashed decisively at the polls, and on the following morning the Mountaineer announced the election of Governor Burrell, with a safe working majority in both houses of the legislature for the Independents.

It was on the third day after the election, rather late in the afternoon, that the boss had a call from a mining promoter named Daves, representing a bunch of mine owners at Strathcona who were having trouble with smelter.

The smelter, one of the few Hatch monopolies which hadn't been shaken loose as yet, was located in the quick six miles below Strathcona, and it was served exclusively by its own industrial railroad, which it was using as a lever to pry an excessive hauling charge out of the mine owners. Wouldn't Mr. Norcross try to do something about it?

The boss said he'd do anything he could, and asked what the mine owners wanted. Daves said they wanted help; that they were going to hold a mass meeting in Strathcona the following morning at nine o'clock. Would it, or wouldn't it, be possible for Mr. Norcross to be present at that meeting?

Of course, the boss said he'd go. Daves went away, and before we broke off to go to dinner at the railroad club, I was given a memorandum order for a special.

At the club I invited guest—Major Kendrick. For a week or two Mr. Shella had been visiting at the state capital, and the major's wife and Maisie Ann were with her. So the good old major was sort of unattached, and glad enough I took it, to be a guest at anybody's table.

For a while the table talk—in which, of course, Jimmie Dodds hadn't any part whatever—circled around the late landslide election, and what Governor Burrell's party would do, now that it had the say-so. But by and by it got around to the railroad situation.

"You're putting up a mighty good fight, Graham, my son, but it isn't over yet—not by a long way," this isn't just the way the major said it, but it's as near as I can come to his soft Southern drawl with the smooth-voiced "rs." "I've known Metch Rufus Hatch for a good many years, and he has the perseverance of the red devil. With all that has been done, you must never forget, for a single hour, that your admirable reform struchuh stands, as yet, upon the life of a single man. Don't lose sight of that, Graham."

The boss looked up kind of curiously.

"You and Shella seem to think that point needs emphasizing more than any other," he commented.

The major's fine old eyes twinkled gravely.

"You are mighty safe in payin' strict attention to whatever the little geyl tells you, Graham, my boy," he asserted. "She has a way of gettin' at the heart of things that puts us meah men to shame—she has, for a fact, suh."

"She has been very helpful to me," the boss put in, with his eyes in his plate. "In fact, I may say that she has herself suggested a good many of the moves in the railroad game. It's marvelous, and I can't understand how she can do it."

They went on for a while, singing Mrs. Shella's praises over in a good many different ways, and I thought, wherever she might happen to be just then, her pretty little ears ought to be burning good and hard. To hear them talk you would have thought she was another Portia-person, and then some.

The dinner wore itself out after a while, and when the waiter brought the cigars, the boss was looking at his watch.

"I'm sorry I can't stay and smoke with you, major," he said, pushing his chair back. "But the business grind never lets up. I'm obliged to go to Strathcona tonight."

I don't know what the major was going to say to this abrupt break-away: the after-dinner social cigar was a sort of religious ceremony with him. But whatever he was going to say, he didn't say it, for at that moment a telegraph boy came in and handed him a message. He put on his other glasses and read the telegram, with his big gonies looking more than ever like a dagger and the fierce white mustaches twitching. At the end of things he folded the message and put it into his pocket, saying, sort of solemnly:

"Graham, there are times when Shella's intulferences are mighty neah uncanny; they are, for a fact, suh. This wire is from her. What do you suppose it says?"

Of course, the boss said he couldn't suppose anything about it, and the major went on.

"She tells me, in just seven words, not to let you go to Strathcona tonight. Now what do you make of that? How on top of God's green earth did she know, away off yonder at the capital, that you were meaning to go to Strathcona tonight?"

Mr. Norcross shook his head. Then he said: "There are wires—both kinds—though I don't know why anybody should telegraph or telephone the capital that I expect to attend a mine-owners' meeting tomorrow morning in the big gold camp. That's why I'm going, you know."

"But this warning," the major insisted. "There's a reason for it, Graham, as sure as you are born!"

Again the boss shook his head.

"Between you two, you and Shella, I'm due to acquire a case of nerves. I don't know what she has heard, but I can't afford to dodge a business appointment. Shella has merely overheard an echo of the threats that are constantly being made by the Hatch sympathizers. It's the aftermath of the election, but it's all talk. They're down and out, and they haven't the nerve to strike back, now."

"Shella's Intulferences Are Mighty Neah Uncanny."

That ended matters at the club, and the boss and I walked down to the headquarters. The special, with Buck Chandler, was waiting, and at the last minute I thought I wasn't going to get to go.

"There's no need of your putting in a night on the road, Jimmie," said the boss, with the kindly thought for other people's comfort that never failed him. But as I had begged a little, telling him that he'd need somebody to take notes in the mine meeting, he said, "All right," and we got aboard and gave the word to MacLise, the conductor, to get his clearance and go.

A few minutes later we pulled out and the night run was begun. Like every other car the boss had ever owned, the "05" was fitted up as a working office, and since he had me along, he opened up a lot of claim papers upon which the legal department was giving him the final say-so, and we went to work.

For the next two hours I was so busy that I didn't know when we passed the various stations. At half-past nine, Mr. Norcross snapped a rubber band over the last of the claim files, lighted a pipe, and told me I might go to bed if I wanted to; said that he was going himself after he'd had a smoke. Just then, Chandler whistled for a station, and, looking out of a window, I saw that we were pulling into Bauxite, the little wind-blown junction from which the Strathcona branch led away into the northern mountains.

Wanting a bite of fresh air before turning in, I got off when we made the stop and strolled up to the engine. MacLise was in the office, getting orders for the branch, and Chandler was squatting in the gang-way of the 813 and waiting. Up ahead of us, and too far away for me to read the number on her tender, there was a light engine. I thought at first it was the pusher which was kept at Bauxite to help heavy freights up the branch grades, and I wondered what it was doing out on the branch "Y" and in our way.

"What's the pusher out for, Buck?" I asked.

Chandler grinned down at me.

"You ain't so much of a railroad man as you might be, Jimmie," he said. "That ain't the pusher. It's our first section, runnin' light to Strathcona."

Maybe Chandler was right, that I wasn't much of a railroad man, but I savvied the Short Line operating rules well enough to know that it wasn't usual to run a light engine, deadhead, over the road, as a section of a special. Also, I knew that Buck knew it.

With that last little talk over the club dinner-table fresh in mind, I began to wonder, but instead of asking Chandler any more questions about the engine out ahead, I asked him if I might ride a piece with him up the branch; and when he said "Sure," I climbed up and humped myself on the fireman's box.

MacLise got his orders in due time and we pulled out. I noticed that when he gave Chandler the word, he also made motions with his lantern to the engine up ahead and it promptly steamed away, speeding up, until it had about a half-mile lead and then holding it. That seemed funny, too. Though it is a rule that is often broken on all railroads, the different sections of a train are supposed to keep at least five minutes apart, and our "first" wasn't much more than a minute away from us at any time.

Another thing that struck me as being funny was the way Chandler was running. It was only sixty mountain

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,962 IN JUNE

DEMAND EXCEEDS OUTPUT AS FORD BREAKS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

During the month of June, the Ford Motor Company, through its Detroit Factories and 22 Assembly Plants, throughout the country reached the production of 108,962 Ford cars and trucks, setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921, viz., April, May and June, shows an output of 301,796 Ford cars and trucks against 220,878 for the same three months of last year, or a net increase of 80,918.

Despite the fact, however, that the Ford Plants have been running at maximum capacity, the demand for Ford cars and trucks is not being met, and at the present time, many thousand unfilled orders have been piled up ahead so that Ford sales are still limited by manufacturing facilities rather than marketing possibilities. Particularly is this true with respect to enclosed cars, for which the demand has been unusually heavy.

One reason cited by Ford Officials for the unprecedented demand for Ford cars is the present tendency toward economy. Many of those whose names have been added to the long list of buyers might well have afforded larger and more costly cars than the Ford, but it is the belief that most prospective motor car buyers are investigating all of the costs incident to motoring much more carefully than at any period during the past five years.

The estimated output of the Ford Factories for July calls for 109,000 cars and trucks, or a production of 4300 a day for 25 days. Since the assembling of cars is being handled during an eight hour day only, the hourly output will be 545 cars. In other words, one Ford car or truck leaves the assembly line every 6 1/2 seconds.

miles up the branch to the big gold camp, and we ought to have been able to make it by one o'clock, taking it dead easy. But the way Buck was niggling along it looked as if it might be going to take us all night.

Just the same, nothing happened. The first ten miles was across a desert stretch with only a slightly rising grade, and it was pretty much all tangent-straight line. Beyond the ten-mile station of Nippo we hit the mountain proper, climbing it through a dry canyon, with curves that blocked off everything fifty feet ahead of the engine, and grades that would have made pretty good toboggan slides. The night was blue and starlit, but there was no moon and the canyon shadows loomed like huge walls to shut us in. On the reverse curves I could occasionally get a glimpse of the red tail lights of the engine which ought, by rights, to have been five full minutes ahead of us. It was still holding its short head, jogging along as leisurely as we were.

With nothing to do and not much to see, I got sleepy after a while, and about the time when I was thinking that I might as well climb back over the tender and turn in, I dozed off right there on the fireman's box which was safe enough, at the snail's pace we were running. When I awoke it was nearly one o'clock in the morning, and we had worried through the thirty-miles of canyon run and were climbing the steep talus of Slide mountain.

While I was rubbing my eyes, the eight-wheeler gave another little jerk, and I saw that Chandler was slowing for a stop; saw this and got a glimpse of somebody on the track ahead, flagging us down with a lantern.

A minute later the brakes had been set and Buck and I were off. As we swung down from the engine step, MacLise joined us, and we went to meet the man with the lantern. He was the fireman of the engine ahead, and when we got round on the track I saw that our "first section" was stopped just a little way farther on. "What is it, Barty?" said MacLise, when we came up to the fireman.

"It's them L-1-dred wreckers again," was the gruff reply. "Rail joint disconnected, and sprung out so's to let us off down the mountain."

I thought it was up to me to go back and tell the boss, but there wasn't any need of it. The stop or the slow running or something had roused him, and he was up and dressed, and coming along beside the engine. When he came up, MacLise told him why we were stopping. He didn't say anything about the rail break, but he did ask, sort of sharp and quick, what engine that was up ahead.

We Went to Meet the Man With the Lantern.

I don't know what MacLise told him. Chandler turned to go back to his engine, and the rest of us were moving along the other way, the boss setting the pace with MacLise at his elbow. Three rail-lengths ahead of the stopped light engine we came to the break. The head engineer and another man were down on their hands and knees examining it, and when they stood up at our coming, I saw that the other man was Mr. Van Britt.

"What?" said the boss; "you here?" Our only millionaire nodded. "I ride the line once in a while—just to see how things are going," he returned crisply.

The boss didn't say anything more, but he knelt to look at the break. It was a trap, all right, set beyond all question of doubt, to catch the private car special. The fishplates had been removed from a joint in the left-hand rail and the end of the down-hill rail had been sprung out to make a derailing switch, which was held in position by the insertion of one of the fish-plates between the rail-ends. If we had hit the trap, going at even ordinary mountain-climbing speed, there would have been nothing left to tell the tale but a heap of scrap at the bottom of the thousand-foot dump.

Under Mr. Van Britt's directions the engineer and fireman of the pilot engine brought tools and the break was repaired.

While they were doing it the boss stood aside with Mr. Van Britt, and I heard what was said. Mr. Van Britt began it by saying, "We don't need any detectives this time. You are on your way to Stratheona to put a crimp in the smelter squeeze—the last of the Red Tower monopolies—so Dawes told me. He was probably foolish enough to tell others, and the word was passed to snag you before you could get to it. This trap was set to catch your special."

"Evidently," barked the boss; and then: "How did you happen to be here on that engine, Upton?"

"I've been ahead of you all the way up from Portal City," was the calm reply. "I thought it might be safer if you had a pilot to show you the way. I guess I must have had a hunch."

The boss turned on him like a flint. "You had something more than a hunch; what was it—a wire?"

Mr. Van Britt gritted his teeth a little, but he told the truth.

"Yes; a friend of ours tipped me off—not about the broken track, of course, but just in a general way."

The break was repaired and the men were taking the tools back to the engine. As we turned to follow them, Mr. Norcross said: "Just one more question, Upton. Did your wire come from the capital?"

But at this Mr. Van Britt seemed to forget that he was talking to his general manager.

"It's none of your L-1-dred business where it came from," he snapped back; and that ended it.

Notwithstanding the slow run and the near-disaster on Slide mountain, we had our meeting with the Stratheona mine owners the following morning; and that much of the special train trip served its purpose, anyway. The boss met the miners a good bit more than half-way, and gave them their relief—and the Hatch-owned smelter its knock-out—by promising that our traffic department would make an ore tariff to the independent smelter on the other side of the range low enough to protect the producers.

It was nearly three o'clock in the afternoon before we got away for the return to Portal City.

We had seen nothing of Mr. Van Britt during the day, and until we came to start out I thought maybe he had gone back to Portal City on the regular train. But at the station I saw the pilot engine just ahead of us again, and though I couldn't be quite sure, I thought I caught a glimpse of our athletic little general superintendent on the fireman's box.

The boss was pretty quiet all the way on the run down the mountain to Bauxite, and, for a wonder, he didn't pitch into the work at the desk. I could tell pretty well what he was thinking about. For six months he had been working like a horse to pull the Short Line out of the mudhole of contempt and hostility into which a more or less justly aroused public enmity had dumped it; and now, just as he was beginning to get it up over the edge, he had been plainly notified that he was going to be killed if he didn't let go.

Just as the way seemed to be opening out to better things for the Short Line, a mis-set switch or a bullet in the dark would knock the entire hard-built reform experiment into a cocked hat.

There was every reason, now, to hope that the experiment was going to be a success, at least, at our end of it. If it could go on just a little farther. Slowly but surely the new policy was winning its way with the public. Traffic was booming, and almost from the first the Interstate Commerce inspectors had let us alone, just as the police will let a man alone where there is reason to believe that he has taken a brace and is trying his best to walk straight.

Also, for the drastic intrastate regulations—the laws about headlights, and safety devices, and grade crossings, and full crews, and the making of reports to this, that, and the other state official; laws which, if enforced to the letter would have left the railroad management with little to do but to pay the bills; for these something better was to be substituted. We had Governor-elect Burrell's assurance for this. He had met the boss in the lobby of the Bullard the day after the election, and I had heard him say:

"You have kept your promise, Norcross. For the first time in its history, your railroad has let a state campaign take its course without bullying, bribery, or underhanded corruption. You'll get your reward. We are going to have new laws, and a Railroad Commission with authority to act both ways—for the people when it's needed, and for the carriers when they need it. If you can show that the present laws are unjust to your earning powers, you'll get relief and the people of this commonwealth will cheerfully pay the bills."

Past all this, though, and even past the murderous machinations of the disappointed grafters, there was the old sore: the original barrier that no amount of internal reform could break down. There could be no permanent prosperity for the Short Line while its majority stock was controlled by men who cared absolutely nothing for the property as a working factor in the life and activities of the region it served.

That was the way Mrs. Sheila had put it to the boss, one evening along in the summer when they were sitting out on the Kendrick's porch, and I had butted in, as usual, with a bunch of telegrams that didn't matter. She had said that the experiment couldn't be a success unless the conditions could be changed in some way; that so long as the railroads were owned or controlled by men of the Mr. Dunton sort and used as counters in the money-making game, there would never be any real peace between the companies and the people at large.

It was at Bauxite Junction that we picked up Mr. Hornack. I was glad when I saw him come in. I had just been thinking that it wasn't healthy for the boss to be grilling there at the window so long alone, and I knew Mr. Hornack would keep him talking about something or other all the rest of the way in.

For a little while they talked business. By and by the business talk wound itself up and I heard Mr. Hornack say: "I saw Ripley going in on

"Mrs. Macrae isn't a Widow At All."

Number Six this morning, and he had company; Mrs. Macrae, and the major's wife, and the husky little-girl cousin. They've been visiting at the capital, so they told me, and I expect the major will be mighty glad to see them back."

I didn't hear what Mr. Norcross said, if he said anything at all, but if I had been alone I think I should have heard the thing that Mr. Hornack said when he went on.

DORCHESTER PUPILS MUST LEAVE SCHOOL

Local Board Education Places Ban On Those Now Attending Sharptown High.

RESULT OF CONTROVERSY WITH DORCHESTER BOARD

Failure of School Board of That County To Pay Back-Tuition Said To Be the Cause—Wicomico Board Fixes Tuition Rates—Other Important Business Transacted Tuesday.

Owing to the fact that the Board of Education for Dorchester county has not complied with the request of the Wicomico Board of Education regarding payment of tuition now in arrears for those Dorchester county pupils who have been attending the Sharptown High School, the local board decided at its meeting held last Tuesday morning to refuse acceptance of any more pupils from Dorchester county until the amount of tuition said to be owing by that board is paid.

It was stated that the local board had been trying for about three years to induce the Dorchester county board to make a settlement, without avail, and Tuesday's order was the result of the failure of the negotiations.

The order of the Wicomico county board will affect 13 Dorchester county pupils who already have enrolled at the Sharptown High School. These pupils were notified by Mr. James M. Bennett, superintendent of schools for this county, yesterday (Wednesday) of the order, and were instructed to make arrangements to attend school elsewhere.

Board Fixes Tuition Rates.

The board at Tuesday's meeting also fixed the rate of tuition for school children living outside the county who attend the Wicomico schools. The tuition rates are as follows: For High School students who live outside the State, $85 per year; for High School students who live in another county of the State, $55 per year; for elementary school pupils who live outside the county, $30 per year.

Another order passed by the board touched upon the question of the age of pupils seeking entrance to the Salisbury schools. The board passed an order directing that all children be admitted to the Salisbury schools who have reached the age of 6 years on or before September 2 instead of on September 1, as was the case in previous years.

The request made by a delegation of citizens from Willards that the board establish a Third-Group High School in their town was acted upon unfavorably. It was opinion of members of the board that, since Willards at present has an elementary school in which eight grades are taught, it would be unwise to add another grade due to the fact that such an arrangement would require the principal to teach only the eighth and ninth grades and thus put extra teaching burdens upon the other teachers. There being a Second Group High School at Pittsville and a Third Group High School at Powellville, which are open to Willards' school children, the plan to establish one at Willards at this time was not considered advisable.

TWO NEGROES JAILED ON CHARGE OF STEALING TIRES

Corporal Boyd and Officer Duke, of the State Police force, arrested two Salisbury negroes last Monday and lodged them in jail on a charge of stealing auto tires from the garage of L. W. Wimbrow & Company, Baptist and Water streets. Richard Long, 25 years old, was one of those arrested while the other party has persistently refused to give his name. He, however, is said to be known here under the nick-name of "Raw Dog," and is about 24 years of age.

SALISBURY SCHOOLS HAD BIG ATTENDANCE FIRST DAY

Last Thursday was the opening day of the public schools in Wicomico county and the attendance this year was found to be a little higher than during opening day of 1921. In Salisbury, 1,167 elementary school children were present on the opening day while 456 High School children were in attendance. These totals, it is said, have been greatly increased during the past few days, and every indication points to a record enrollment this year.

ELECTRIC CO. EMPLOYEES ENJOY FINE OUTING

About 75 Employees Of Various Districts Of E. S. Gas & Electric Co., Picnic At Cedar Grove.

The annual picnic of employees of the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Company was held on Labor Day at Cedar Grove, about 75 employees from the various districts of the company attending. The party left Salisbury at 9:30 A. M., and returned home in the evening.

Many enjoyable features made the occasion one long to be remembered. Bathing was indulged in, a crab feast was thoroughly enjoyed and the ball game between a team representing the Salisbury District and one composed of players representing the other districts was the piece de resistance of the day. Salisbury District won by a score of 13 to 6, the pitching of Oswalt for the locals being of high standard.

Boy Steals Parrot; Breaks Bird's Leg

Lad Takes Officer Cahall's Macaw From Back Yard And Treats It In Cruel Manner.

Owing to the alleged cruelty of a local boy, "Pete," the Spanish Macaw belonging to Officer Cahall, of the local police force, is today suffering from a broken leg and the loss of some of his beautiful plumage.

The young boy, who is said to live on Lake street, is alleged to have entered Officer Cahall's back yard Monday, unchained "Pete" and later carried him to the creek and tossed him in. It was stated that when the bird tried to clamber out of the water, the boy kicked him back into the creek, breaking the parrot's leg. "Pete" now is having his wounds treated.

M. P. SUNDAY SCHOOL HAS 1,001 SCHOLARS ENROLLED

Last Sunday morning the Sunday School of Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church reach a total enrollment of 1,001 scholars, the largest number enrolled in the history of the church. The spectacular growth of this Sunday School during the membership drive conducted during the late winter and early Spring months did not end with the membership campaign; as new scholars have been constantly enrolling, and now the total enrollment is equivalent to one-eighth of the city's population.

CHIMES BEING INSTALLED IN TRINITY TOWER

Children Of Jacob C. Phillips And His Deceased Wife Give Set To Trinity Church.

DEDICATORY SERVICES WILL BE HELD SEPT. 18

Chimes Consist of 10 Bells and Cost $8,500—Professional Chimer Will Give Series of Concerts Sept. 17 to 19—Work Installation Will Be Completed Tomorrow.

The set of chimes recently given to Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church by the children of Mr. Jacob Cannon Phillips and the late Mrs. Catherine Jackson Phillips, arrived in Salisbury last Thursday and are now being installed in the church tower. The chimes consist of 10 bells in the key of "E," the largest bell weighing 1,000 pounds and the smallest about 600 pounds, and cost $8,500. When the chimes have been installed, it is believed that Trinity will be the only church on the Eastern Shore to be thusly equipped.

Messrs. Hugh Phillips, of Washington; M. Paul Phillips, of Birmingham, Ala.; Carroll Phillips and Mrs. Nettie Blount, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are the joint donors of the chimes, and the gift was made in honor of their father, who now is living in Brooklyn, and their deceased mother. The gift is considered by Trinity members as being particularly appropriate owing to the fact that Mrs. Phillips, mother of the donors, was a sister of the late Elihu E. Jackson, who, together with Mrs. Jackson, made a gift of the present Trinity Church completely equipped.

Dedicatory Services Sept. 18.

Dedicatory services will be held in Trinity Church Sunday, September 18, at which time Rev. Thomas Rosser Reeves, pastor, will formally accept the gift on behalf of the congregation. Practically the entire day will be devoted to the celebration and all of the donors and their father will be in attendance, with the exception of Mr. Paul Phillips.

Dr. B. F. Lipscomb, presiding elder of the Charlottesville District Virginia Conference, a former pastor of Trinity Church, and who was a close friend of the Phillips family, will preach the dedicatory sermon. All of the resident ministers of the Southern (Continued on Page 6.)

SALISBURY'S POLICE CHIEF IS SUSPENDED

Chief of Police Woodland Disharoon has been suspended for 30 days without pay by order of Mayor Kennerly. Announcement of the suspension was made Tuesday and it became effective Wednesday, September 7.

"Y" NOON-DAY SHOP MEETING BIG SUCCESS

About 75 Attended Tuesday's Meeting—Will Be Held At Jackson & Gutman Co. Plant on Fridays.

The first of the series of noon-day shop meetings that will be conducted by the local Young Men's Christian Association throughout the Fall and Winter months was held Tuesday at the plant of E. S. Adkins & Company. About 75 persons attended the opening meeting, which began at 12:15 and closed at 12:55 P. M. Moving pictures were shown and Rev. R. L. Shipley, pastor of Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church, delivered an address.

On Friday the noon-day meeting will be held at the plant of the Jackson & Gutman Company, at which time a similar program to that of last Tuesday will be in effect. Rev. R. L. Shipley also will make the address at the Friday meeting.

The meetings will be held every Tuesday at the Adkins Company plant and on every Friday at the Jackson & Gutman plant. For next week, the speaker at both meetings will be Rev. W. P. Taylor, pastor of Grace M. E. Church.

Tomorrow night (Friday) the usual "Y" weekly moving picture program will be offered, and several interesting pictures have been secured for the occasion. The program follows:

"The Menace," a two-reel picture; "The War," two reels, and two reels of Booth Tarkington's Edgar Series.

Mr. T. W. Hammerslough, secretary of the local Association, stated that the crowds are growing larger each succeeding Friday night, and that last Friday night many persons were turned away because of the auditorium being crowded to capacity.

There will be preaching this Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at Parker's Chapel. Mr. Parkinson's topic will be "Three Commands of Christ."

CITY APPOINTS COMMITTEE TO ACT ON MALARIA

Vigorous Steps Will Be Taken To Stamp Out The Mosquito Breeding Places.

WILL CO-OPERATE WITH STATE HEALTH DEPT.

Plans Now Being Outlined To Help Rid Salisbury Of The Disease—116 Cases Reported Here During August—Stagnant Ponds And Streams Said To Be Cause Of Outbreak.

Working in conjunction with the authorities of the State Health Department, a committee appointed by the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury at Monday night's meeting will take vigorous steps to rid this city of the breeding places for the malarial mosquitoes.

The committee appointed to devise ways and means for suppressing malarial outbreaks in Salisbury as much as possible is composed of the following gentlemen: Mr. James W. Taylor, chairman; Mr. Charles M. Freeman, Dr. D. B. Potter, Mr. Frank H. Dryden and Mr. George E. Richardson. This committee will hold a meeting within a few days and complete plans for stamping out the breeding places will be formulated and put into effect at once.

The decision of the city authorities to do everything within their power to eliminate the breeding places of the malarial carriers is a move in the right direction and is deserving of much commendation from every citizen of the community who is deeply interested in the health of the citizenry.

Many Breeding Places.

Some of the streams and ponds in this vicinity are said to be veritable breeding places of the Anopheles mosquito, the malarial carrying insect, and by cleaning up such places thoroughly, a great stride forward will have been made.

In a letter addressed to the Mayor and City Council, which was read at Monday night's meeting, Dr. L. O. Tayntor, Acting Deputy State Health Officer, set forth the facts concerning malaria in this section and made certain recommendations for improving existing conditions. He said, in part: "Malarial mosquitoes have been found breeding in various sections of the town. They are most prevalent (Continued on Page 6.)"

CHEMICAL AUTHORITY ADDRESSES ROTARIANS

Mr. W. T. Van Riper Was The Speaker At Thursday's Meeting—Advocated Embargo on Dyes.

Mr. W. T. Van Riper, of the Chemical Research Bureau, was the principal speaker at last Thursday night's meeting of the Rotary Club, held in the "Y" auditorium, and his address was one of the most interesting heard here in a long time.

"The Chemical Future of America" was the subject of Mr. Van Riper's address and he stated that an embargo on dye-stuffs was considered to be the solution for fostering the growing industry in America. Members of the club were asked for their opinions regarding such an embargo, and some doubt was expressed as to what effect it would have on the price of fertilizers. Senator Disharoon brought out many pertinent facts during the informal discussion that ensued.

There was an excellent attendance at the meeting, good singing and a splendid dinner. Altogether, it was a most enjoyable evening.

Interesting Talk By Poultry Expert

Mr. Albert Angell, Jr., of Chicago, Discusses Raising Pure-Bred Stock In Lecture At "Y" Building.

An illustrated lecture was given in the "Y" auditorium Tuesday evening by Mr. Albert Angell, Jr., of Chicago, a poultry expert of national prominence. Mr. Angell discussed the advantages of raising pure-bred poultry, and motion pictures illustrative of his subject were flashed on the screen.

A "Question Box" was placed in the auditorium, and Mr. Angell answered all the questions propounded to him by his audience. In referring to quick-laying pullets, he stated that it was possible to get pullets to lay quickly, but that it was not to the advantage of the poultry raiser to do so, as it would harm the bird.

MR. M. MCKENZIE HILL PASSED AWAY MONDAY

Marrew McKenzie Hill, one of the oldest citizens of Delmar in age and residence, died at Delmar Monday of infirmities due to old age. He was in his 83rd year and came to Delmar in 1868. He is survived by his daughter Emma, who resided with him and Mrs. George W. Hearn. Funeral services were conducted in the M. E. Church on Wednesday afternoon. He had been a member of that church for many years, and many years ago was a local preacher. He was a retired employe of the Penn. R. R.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATED QUIETLY IN SALISBURY

Labor Day was celebrated here Monday rather quietly. All of the banks and a few of the business houses were closed, but no formal celebration of any kind was held. Many Salisburyans took advantage of the holiday to take a dip in the surf at Ocean City.

OFFICER MORRIS DENIES THAT HE IS ENGAGED

Officer William McClelland Morris, of the State Police Force, has requested The News to make denial of his reported engagement to a Salisbury girl. Mr. Morris stated that he is not engaged to anyone, and declared that some one has been taking an unwarranted liberty in spreading such a rumor around.

PRINCESS ANNE AND FREDERICK WILL PLAY HERE

Eastern And Western Shore Teams To Clash At Gordy Park Thursday and Friday.

SERIES STARTED IN FREDERICK TUESDAY

Somerset Countians Decide To Stage The Shore Games Here When Salisbury Offers Use Of Its Ball Park, Gratis—Big Crowds Expected From All Over The Delmarvia Peninsula.

Gordy Park, Salisbury, will be the battle ground for the two games played on the Eastern Shore between the Frederick team, winner of the Blue Ridge League pennant, and Princess Anne, winner of the recently played elimination series. The first of the games to be played on the Shore between the two teams will be played here Thursday afternoon and the second tilt will be staged Friday afternoon. The two Western Shore games were played in Frederick Tuesday and Wednesday.

The decision to play the Shore games in Salisbury was made last Saturday when a party of prominent Salisburyans went to Princess Anne and offered the use of Gordy Park, gratis, for the games. Princess Anne, having no enclosed ball park of its own, accepted the offer.

"Bush" Wright, of the Salisbury team, was selected by Princess Anne to play in the contests with Frederick and he probably will be seen in action in one of the games played on the local grounds. According to the rules governing the series, each team was entitled to pick an outside batter from their respective territories to help battle for the honors.

Will Draw Big Crowds.

Owing to the central location of Salisbury, a great throng is expected to be on hand from all parts of the Delmarvia Peninsula when the gong sounds today. Princess Anne rooters will be here in full force, while a delegation of loyal rooters will wait in from Frederick. Laurel, Seaford and Dover are expected to send down a big bunch of fans, and the towns on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Virginia will all be represented here in goodly numbers when the "ump" sings out "play ball!"

The present series between the Eastern and Western Shore teams is being conducted under the rules of organized baseball, and is on a basis of "best four out of seven games." In the event that neither team wins four straight, the fifth game will be played in Baltimore. Should a sixth game be necessary, a double-header will be staged in the Monumental City on the fifth day. If the series goes the full limit, the seventh and deciding game will be staged on grounds to be selected by the toss of a coin.

Frederick defeated Princess Anne in the opening contest staged Tuesday by a score of 3 to 0. "Bush" Wright was on the mound for Princess Anne and yielded nine hits. Princess Anne was able to collect only four safeties off the delivery of Frederick's hurler.

NEW COUNTERFEIT BILLS ARE BEING CIRCULATED

Treasury Department officials have issued a warning of the circulation of four new counterfeit Federal Reserve bank notes. The counterfeiters include a $50 note on the New York Federal Reserve Bank; a $20 note on the Chicago bank; a $10 note on the Kansas City Bank, and a $5 note on the Chicago bank. The first two are said to be distinguishable by blue instead of green backs and the latter two by the poor quality of the paper.

AUTOS COLLIDE

In attempting to cross the State road near Pittsville last Sunday afternoon, the car driven by Mr. George Moore, of Salisbury, collided with the auto driven by Miss Willie Woodcock. The occupants of both cars escaped with a shaking up and a few minor cuts and bruises.

WEST MAIN STREET PAVING NEAR COMPLETION

The contractors are expected to complete the paving work on West Main street extended within a few days, after which the street will be thrown open to traffic.

Big Building Boom Under Way In Salisbury; Contracts Just Awarded Total $200,000

Hastings & Parsons, Salisbury, Awarded Contract To Build New $125,000 Bethesda M. P. Church—Baltimore Firm Secures Contract To Erect Addition To Hospital—Both Jobs To Be Started At Once—Other Construction Work Now Going On Brings Aggregate Close To $400,000.

Salisbury at the present time is the center of a big building boom that is perhaps unequalled anywhere else on the Peninsula, and within a comparatively short space of time many new structures that are now being erected, or upon which work will be started immediately, will have been completed.

Within the last few days two big building contracts have been awarded that total nearly $200,000, and the sum total of the building now under way here aggregates close to $400,000.

The contract for the new Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church was awarded last Friday night to Hastings & Parsons, of Salisbury, the bid of this firm being the lowest submitted, or $101,741. Work upon the new edifice will be started immediately, and the contract requires that the structure be completed within a year's time.

On Monday the contract for the new addition to the Peninsula General Hospital was awarded to the North-eastern Construction Company, of Baltimore, the bid of this firm being $76,807, the lowest submitted. Work on the new hospital building also will be started at once, and the contractors have less than a year in which to complete the job.

Other Building Going On.

In addition to the above. Work already is under way on the new $40,000 Odd Fellows Temple on E. Main street, and the new building of the Richardson Motor Company on East Main street will cost at least $30,000. Dr. E. W. Smith is building a handsome residence on North Division street that will cost approximately $15,000 and Mr. W. C. Pierce is having a residence built on Camden avenue that will cost practically the same amount. Other residences, too, are noticed in course of construction throughout the city, which will bring the total sum of construction work up to high figures.

The hospital building committee has estimated that about $75,000 more will be expended on the new addition than called for in the contract awarded Monday, as that contract does not include the work of plumbing, heating, wiring, elevator, concrete driveways and equipment.

Two Heating Plants.

Approximately $25,000 more will be expended on Bethesda Church, as the contractors are not required to supply the art glass windows, the furniture, pipe organ and other equipment. When completed, the Bethesda M. P. Church will be one of the finest churches on the Eastern Shore. The general architectural plan is an adaptation of the Gothic and was designed by Mr. George E. Savage, of Philadelphia. Mt. Airey granite, a beautiful North Carolina stone, a little lighter than the Port Deposit granite, will be used in the construction work.

The church will be erected on the site formerly occupied by the old Todd mansion at the northwest corner of Williams and North Division streets and the building will be approximately 130 feet in length from the front of the tower to the rear of the Sunday School room. Seating capacity of the Sunday School room will be about 1,000 and the auditorium has been designed to seat about 500 persons. The structure will have full modern equipment, office space for the pastor and secretaries of the Sunday School and church, retiring rooms for the ladies, gentlemen and little children and a complete kitchen with the latest equipment. All arrangements, in fact, have been provided for the full social work of the church. Two separate heating plants will be installed, which will permit use of the smaller one for heating several rooms for mid-week services without heating the entire building. The ventilation will be secured by means of air ducts in the ceiling that will be connected with a 36 inch electric fan. The window frames of the auditorium will be solid stone work, and the decoration of the auditorium—which is not included in the building contract—is now receiving the careful consideration of the building committee.

Hospital Capacity Doubled.

The basement of the church will be of cement, which will be covered with board flooring, and the ceiling will be 12 feet in height. This will make one of the largest single rooms on the Peninsula. (Continued on Page 6.)

FACTORIES RUSHED WITH WORK

Advancement of Lowered Prices
Big Demand For Nash Cars Factory Schedule Increased.

Demand for Nash cars in July, immediately following the announcement of lowered prices, exceeded production by more than fifty per cent and notwithstanding an appreciable increase in the factory schedule a similar condition confronted The Nash Motors Company for the period ending August 31. A continuance of the heavy pressure for cars, according to all indications, will carry over well into September. Dealers stocks at almost every point are depleted and orders are being booked for future delivery. The demand is divided almost equally between the Nash Four and Six-Cylinder models.

The factory is doing everything within its power to catch up with the demand for cars," said Charles B. Voorhis, vice-president and general sales manager of The Nash Motors Company. "We ended the month of July in an oversold condition and the production schedule for August was considerably increased. Since the first of the month, however, the pressure has become stronger than ever. We would much prefer, of course, to supply the demand with a promptness that would eliminate the necessity of a buyer having to wait for delivery of his car, but the rush of orders that followed the Nash price announcement has made it thus far difficult to supply the requirements of our dealer organization.

"The attitude of the buying public toward the Nash product is gratifying to us and our appreciation of the confidence displayed is very deep. Last October Mr. Nash in a public statement declared our prices would be maintained until July 1. On that statement thousands of buyers purchased Nash cars. They were protected on their purchase by The Nash Motors Company up to the very last minute. Meanwhile refinements were added to the product and when the price announcement was made we offered an even more valuable car at a lower purchase price."

Nash production for July called for 2,470 automobiles, the figures having been made on a basis that would permit the respective organizations at the Kenosha and Milwaukee plants to get back into the work of production to the best advantage. Records at the factory tell the story of the increasing demand for the Nash product day by day throughout the month; they show that orders called for three cars for every two that were built.

TELEPHONE HEROINES DESERVING OF PRAISE

They Render Heroic Service To Public In Times Of Distress—Are Courteous And Patient.

Dr. William E. Barton.

One of the incidental points which I have noticed in several stories of calamity is the heroism of the telephone girl. A fire breaks out in a high office building. The girl at the switchboard calls up every office and tells the occupants to get out.

A dam breaks, and a flood rushes down the valley. The telephone girls stick to their posts and send word ahead, and many lives are saved.

A burglar comes in the night; a frightened woman calls the police station, but before she gets in her call, the burglar strikes her senseless. The telephone girl intuitively knows the meaning of the interrupted call and tells the police where the trouble is.

Such things as this I remember to have read.

I do not know of a town where the people do not complain of the telephone service.

In common with my fellow men, I too, have seasons of impatience because the service is not better.

But every now and then I consider how wonderful it is that the service is as good as it is.

I read how our boys in France broke into cheers when the first contingent of American telephone girls arrived. I cheered with them. I have used the telephone in many foreign countries, and can testify that in comparison with service there, the American telephone girl is an angel.

She has a pleasant voice. She is habitually courteous. She is resourceful. If once in a long time her job gets on her nerves, so also does mine.

I stood a few days ago beside the central operator in a large railway station at a time when trains were coming in in considerable number, and many people were wanting telephone connections in a hurry.

I was impressed by her quiet, courteous demeanor, her voice that did not rise, and the rapidity with which she did her work.

She was doubtless above the average telephone girl, and had a more responsible position than most of them; but she is not the only one of her kind.

Let me suggest that we all try to be a little more patient and courteous toward the telephone girl. In the first place, I think she deserves it. In the next place, I think it will improve the service.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING CHANGE OF U. S. POLICIES

Ex-service men who have converted their War Risk term insurance into permanent government life insurance will be interested to know the conditions under which they may change their policies from one plan of insurance to another.

At any time within five years from the date the converted policy became effective, it may be exchanged for another policy of the same amount, bearing the same date and based on the same age, on any one of the six plans issued by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance.

No medical examination is required in exchanging a policy for one issued at a higher rate of premium. Satisfactory evidence of good health must be obtained before a change to a policy issued at a lower rate of premium is granted.

The difference in the reserve accumulated will be charged, in changing to a policy issued at a higher rate of premium, or credited, in changing to a policy issued at a lower rate of premium.

The six kinds of permanent government life insurance are ordinary life, 20-payment life, 20-year endowment, 30-payment life, 30-year endowment and endowment at age of 62.

FIRST COME, FIRST SERVED.

The Young Men's Christian Association has turned over to National Headquarters of the Legion 2,200 copies of "The Inter-Allied Games—1919" for free distribution to posts. National Headquarters has ruled that one copy of the book will be supplied to each of the first 2,200 posts to apply. Each request must be accompanied by 40 cents to pay postage and must be signed by the post adjutant, who should address the Organization Division, National Headquarters.

"The Inter-Allied Games—1919" is a substantially bound, profusely illustrated volume of more than 500 pages, and is printed on heavy paper. It contains a complete record of the "Armistice Olympics" in Pershing Stadium, near Paris—probably the most complete record of an athletic meet, in fact, ever put into print.

REGARDING POST HISTORIES.

The National Historian is prepared to advise post historians as to methods of collecting and arranging data for post histories. Bulletins on this subject will be sent inquirers who address the National Historian at National Headquarters.

WHEN ORDERING MEMBERSHIP BUTTONS, SPECIFY THE SIZE

The Emblem Division at National Headquarters requests that posts ordering membership buttons specify whether they wish regulation or mid-get size. The Division reports that owing to failure to make distinctions in ordering on the part of some posts, it has had to make changes which consume both money and its well-known equivalent, time.

THEY'RE HARD TO REACH.

"Membership workers everywhere report that the hardest tussle in member-getting comes when the Legionnaire is confronted with the eligible veteran who expresses willingness to remain in ignorance of the privileges to which he is entitled by reason of his veteran status.

"It is necessary now in many cases to convince the membership prospect that the service he receives is worth much more than the cost of membership before he will place his signature on an application," writes Henry A. Borchert, chairman of the state compensation committee of Richmond Hill (N. Y.) Post. "And still many ex-service men continue to paddle their own canoes. Is it any wonder that so many of them ship water and founder before they get properly started? The cost of joining The American Legion is a cheap form of veteran insurance."

"CARRYING ON" POSTERS NOW BEING FURNISHED

National Headquarters is prepared to furnish posts with reproductions of the "Carrying On" cover which appeared on The American Legion number of Life several months ago. The design has been presented to the Legion for use with a credit line to the Life Publishing Company. Space has been left at the bottom of the poster for the name of the post. Sufficient copies of the poster have been sent to department adjutants, according to a recent headquarters memorandum, to enable them to provide every post with a sample copy. Additional copies of the poster may be obtained from National Headquarters at the following rates: 25 copies, 75 cents; 50 copies, $1.35; 75 copies, $1.85; 100 copies, $2.40; 200 copies, $4.40; 500 copies, $10.75; 1,000 copies, $18.50.—American Legion Weekly.

Mrs. Pearl Carey, of Kingston, N. Y., returned home Sunday night after spending last week with relatives in this city. She was accompanied home by Miss Mildred Disharoon and her baby niece, Eleanor.

TOMORROW'S PRIMARIES.

Tomorrow is Primary Day and while there will be no contest in the Republican ranks at the primaries for the various county offices and legislative berths, the opposite holds true with regard to the Democratic party. Five Democrats have filed for the nomination of clerk of the court of Wicomico county on the Democratic ticket, eight Democrats are entered in the race for the four vacancies from this county in the House of Delegates, and the same number of Democratic aspirants have filed for the office of County Commissioner. Two Democrats also have filed for the job of Sheriff of Wicomico.

The News has no political axe to grind, but it is particularly interested in seeing that the candidates selected this year for the various political offices be the highest type men that each party includes in its ranks. It is presumed that the voters have taken advantage of their full opportunity to weigh the respective merits of each candidate for office and that they will turn out in full numbers and give expression to their opinions by voting at the primaries.

The primaries were instituted so that the people might select their own candidates, without dictation from political bosses, and the duty, therefore, devolves upon every citizen of legal age to go to the polls and cast his vote only for those candidates who, in his judgment, he believes will serve the county or State with the greatest distinction.

There will be many important issues to come before the next session of the General Assembly of Maryland, one of the most important being the enactment of a State prohibition enforcement measure, and it is of tremendous importance to the forces of law and order in this State that the candidates selected shall be men who are in sympathy with the passage of such a law. Maryland is one of the few States that has lagged behind in the enactment of an enforcement measure to uphold the Eighteenth Amendment, and it is the duty of the voters of this county to send men to the next legislature who will stand out to the last ditch for prohibition enforcement.

One of the most interesting features of tomorrow's primaries will be the advent of the women voters, it being the first time that women voters have ever participated in voting at the primaries. Just how large a vote will be polled by the women, is, of course, problematical, but it is believed that they will turn out in goodly numbers and that their votes may be the main factor in deciding many of the candidacies.

Wicomico county wants its highest caliber men representing it both at Annapolis and at home, and the voters will do well to study the respective merits of each candidate before they cast their votes.

BUILDING UP THE LEGION.

The great need of the American Legion in Maryland is, as was pointed out in a recent issue of The News, strong leadership, efficiency and fearlessness. The annual State Convention which assembled in Baltimore last week recognized this need and elected as head of the legionnaire forces a man known beyond peradventure of doubt to possess the requisite qualifications.

With the active support of every service man in the State, Colonel Woodcock will be able to bring the Legion to that place of prominence and influence which it deserves. Without such support, no amount of executive ability can achieve success. It is probable, therefore, that one of the first tasks of the new State commander will be to start a genuine campaign for more members. At present only about eight per cent. of the total number of veterans in Maryland can be found in the folds of the Legion. A correlative task will be to win the enthusiastic and concerted action of those men who at present wear the blue and gold button.

We believe that Colonel Woodcock will succeed both in winning support from old members and in securing new members for the organization. No small part of the work of getting things under way will fall on the shoulders of Wicomico County service men. Almost a thousand strong, if they will but fall in behind their fellow Eastern Shoreman, they will become a vast and powerful influence for good in the County and in the State.

The Legion is strictly a non-political body. It has but one great purpose: to make America a better place in which to live. It is today the greatest single force for good in the United States; and though we have seen little of its accomplishments in Maryland, it should read the lessons of other states and learn that when the mighty force begins to move, nothing can withstand it.

The work waiting to be done by the Legion is varied and plentiful. Any man who is wise, will step into it now and help get it done. Any man who is wise will wait until the tasks are completed; then join the Legion. Of the two, the first group will be by far the happier. We hope, therefore, that the service men in Wicomico County will align themselves without further delay with their comrades and set to work on their appointed tasks.

The election of Colonel Woodcock as State Commander was a distinct victory for the Eastern Shore. The rest of the State will look to the Eastern Shore to point the way. Let Wicomico County lead the way.

"PERSONAL LIBERTY" ARGUMENT FLAYED.

The address delivered in Cincinnati last week before members of the American Bar Association by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty was a clear exposition of the duties devolving upon the citizenry of this country to uphold law enforcement. It was received with great acclaim by every law-abiding citizen, and the clear-cut statement of Mr. Daugherty that "as long as I am the responsible head of the Department of Justice the law will be enforced with all the power possessed by the government which I am at liberty to call at my command" is indeed highly gratifying to all of those who believe in rigidly upholding the Eighteenth Amendment.

Mr. Daugherty flayed with great vehemence the "personal liberty" arguments which advocates of liquor continuance have so strongly brought to the front and declared that "those who do not believe in our government and the enforcement of our laws should go to a country which gives them their peculiar liberty."

In speaking of the personal liberty phase as regards the Eighteenth Amendment, Mr. Daugherty said:

"Another subject that undermines respect for law, especially prominent at the present time, is an erroneous theory of personal liberty under our constitutional system. This controversy is as old as the government itself. It has been asserted with especial vigor recently owing to the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States and to the amendments in the various State Constitutions and because of legislation on the same subject by Congress and the various state legislatures.

"The question of the limitation of personal liberty is, in the first instance, a question of political philosophy and not of law. The advocates of personal liberty have ranged all the way from those who favor the widest measure of license to the individual to do as he pleases, on the one hand, to those who would restrict the individual by the most puritanic standards, on the other hand. Everyone has a right to advocate any view that he pleases on this subject. However, when public sentiment has crystallized into law, there can be no question as to the duty of good citizens with reference thereto. They may still debate as to the wisdom of the law, but there is only one course to conduct, and that is obedience to the law while it exists.

"Let me be not misunderstood. I do not mean to impute moral turpitude to him who is opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment or similar amendments in our state constitutions, or who is opposed to the Volstead Act, or similar legislation in our states. All I mean to say is that the argument of undue abridgment of personal liberty advanced today has in the past been advanced by every champion of lawlessness who has sought to find an excuse for unlawful conduct. And, in passing, let me repeat that the question is older than the American constitutional system.

"If laws are obnoxious to the people, it is their province to repeal them. Until they are repealed, they must be enforced without fear or favor. The Government will endure on the rock of law enforcement or it will perish in the quicksand of lawlessness."

"ALL STARS" LAY LAUREL LOW WITH 6-4 BLOW

The Salisbury All-Stars defeated Laurel here Monday afternoon 6 to 4. It was the first of a series of games to be played between the two teams and the battle was an interesting one from start to finish. "Broadway" Jones, who pitched for the All-Stars, had 12 strike-outs to his credit. "Red" Wright put up a fine game behind the bat.

THIEVES CRACK SAFE OF WHISTLE BOTTLING CO.

Thieves whose identities are as yet unknown broke into the plant of the Whistle Bottling Company last Thursday night and after breaking open the safe by using a crow bar departed with the sum of nine cents and two bottles of soft drinks. The local police authorities are said to be hot on the trail of the miscreants and expect to make an arrest within a few days.

THE STRUGGLE OF GENIUS.

I long have harbored the intention, to give the world a great invention; I felt that I should be a power in brightening the passing hour,—that I might be a big promoter, instead of being a third-rate voter. . . . Few men acquire the needed riches to keep themselves in tailored breeches,—too many men, content with clerking, might prosper if their brains were working. . . . Full many a gem works in the sewer, that might invent a patent skewer and line his nest with softest Eider, and soak his pelt with orange cider.

And so, I monkeyed some with science, to give the needed self-reliance, and studied watts and multi-plexes, and waterways from here to Texas. I hung around the soda-fountains, and figured how I'd conquer mountains, and turn 'em into cyclone cellars, and rent 'em out to common fellers. . . .

I turned my thoughts to pests and dangers, to which the multitude are strangers, and labored to produce protection which didn't have no imperfection. A thousand badly needed fixtures,—a million hopeful, helpful mixtures, all helped to keep my thinker addled till all my dreams of wealth skedaddled, and I was left in bad condition, an overstock of dead ambition. . . .

Thrice happy he, and most contented, the chap who never has invented, and if he tries, he's sure to rue it; some other fool will beat him to it.

For Uncle John.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY COUNCIL.

Appointment of Sydney O. Furniss As Member of City Police Force Confirmed By Council.

At the meeting of the City Council held Monday night, the ordinance to grade, pave and repair the sidewalks and curbs on both sides of Washington street from the east side of South Division street to the eastern corporate limits of the City of Salisbury passed the first reading.

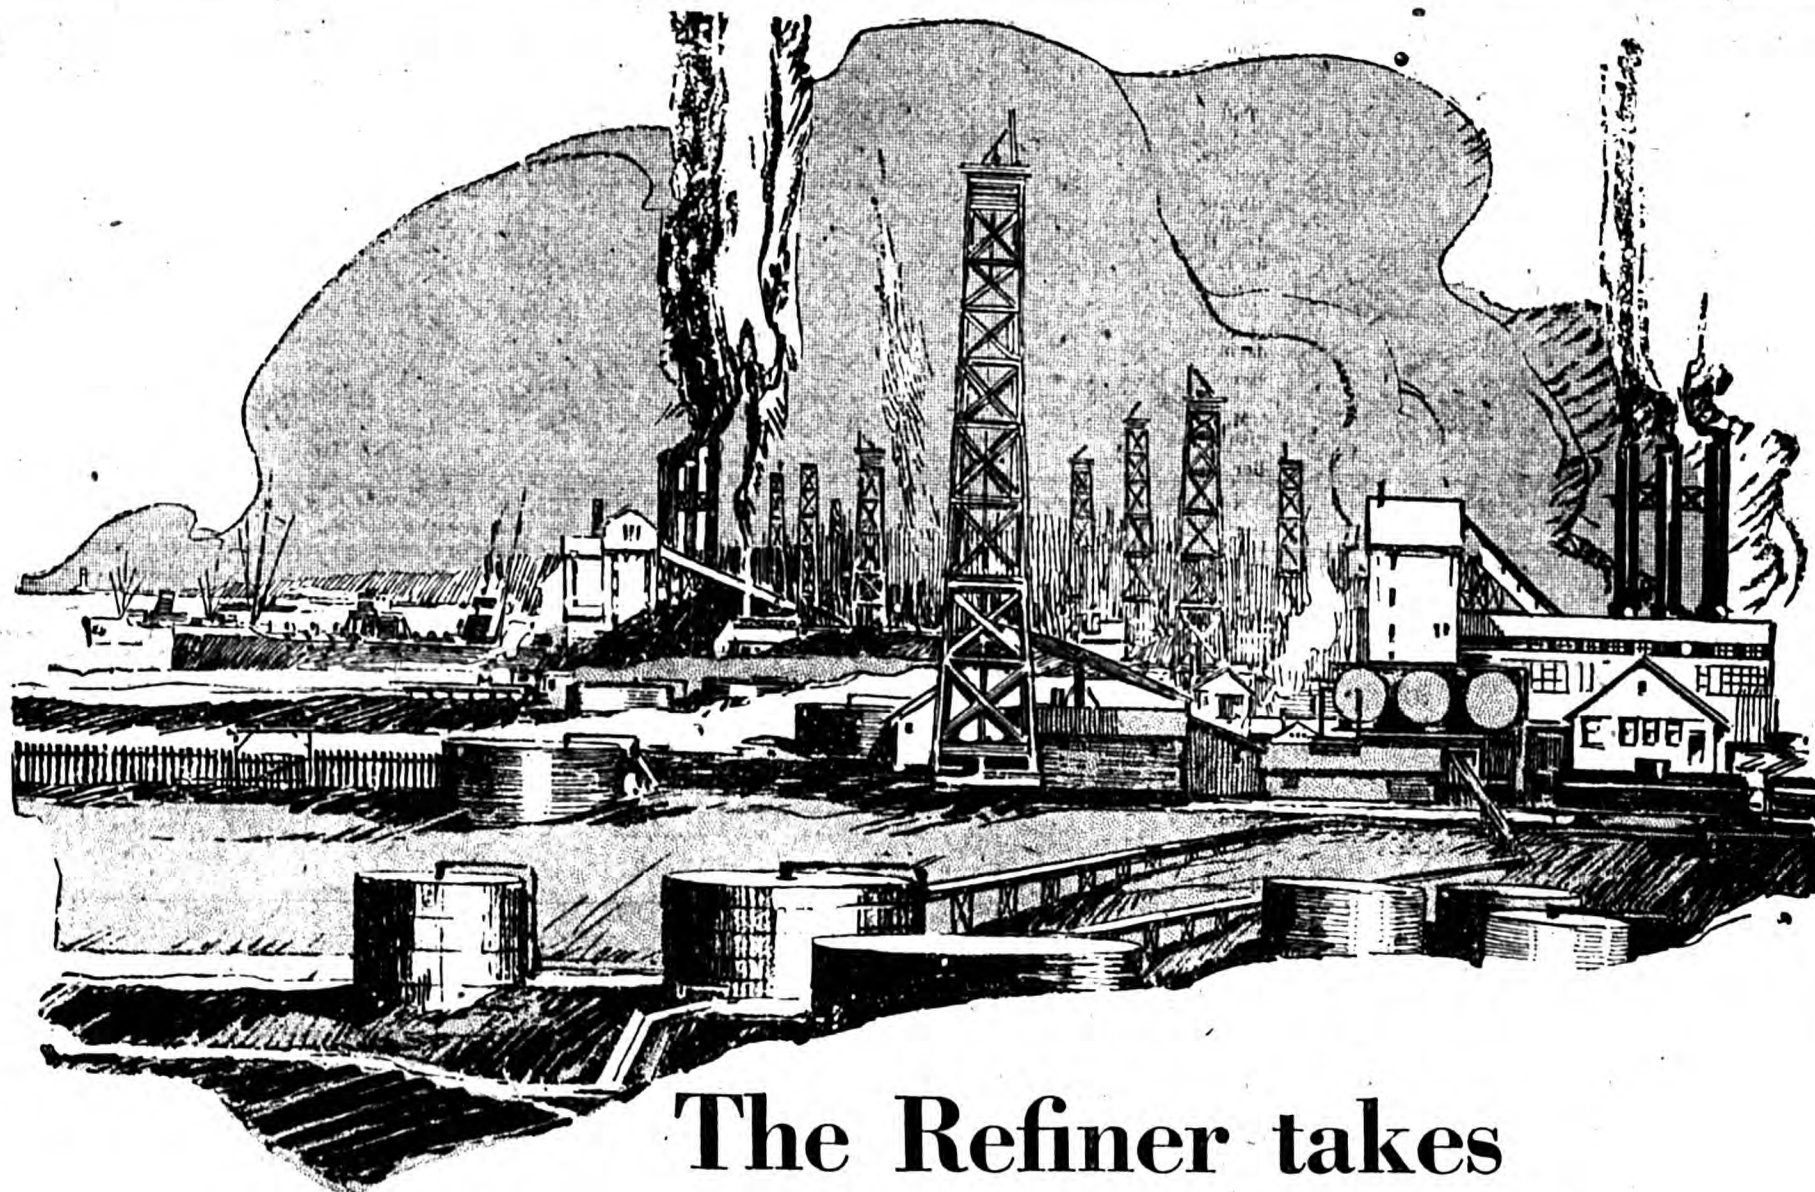

The council confirmed Mayor Kennerly's appointment of Sydney O. Furniss as a member of the local police force, and the Mayor also was authorized by the Council to appoint a special officer whenever he deemed it necessary, said special officer to be sworn in for a period of 48 hours.

Building permits granted Monday night were as follows:

Hastings & Parsons, contractors, to build a church on the west side of Division street adjoining the property of W. B. Miller.

H. S. Todd, Jr., to erect a sun parlor at his dwelling on the south side of Park street adjoining the property of George E. Serman.

Those present at Monday night's meeting were Mayor Kennerly, President White, Councilmen Bounds, Hitch, Serman and Melson.

The Refiner takes on a new Responsibility

REPRESENTATIVES of the automotive and refining industries recently decided that much of the task of instructing motorists as to the proper functioning of automobiles must fall upon the manufacturers of motor fuel and lubricating oils.

The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) had long before gladly assumed its share of this responsibility. It realized that the automobile builders had little opportunity, after the sale had been made, to advise with those who bought engines, trucks or pleasure cars. Branch service stations furnished their only point of contact with users of their equipment.

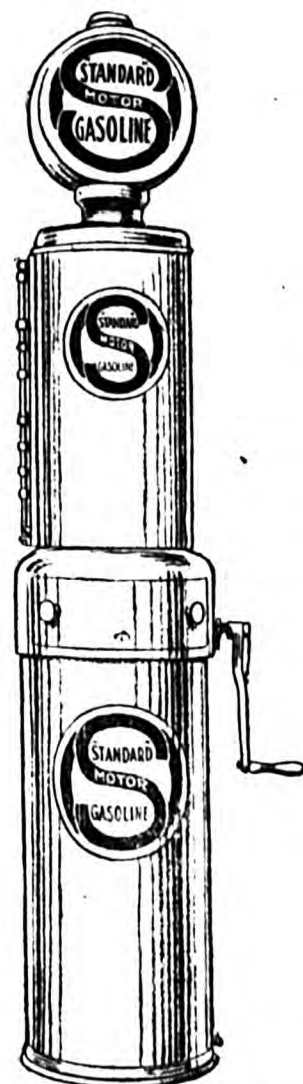

Refiners of gasoline, on the other hand, have almost daily dealings with motorists and chauffeurs. Gasoline engines have been so far developed that fuel quality has become almost more of a problem than mechanical perfection in the motor.

Accurate understanding of the many delicate considerations involved in the making of a 100% motor fuel—in quantities sufficient for every demand—has always restrained this company from making claims for "STANDARD" MOTOR GASOLINE which could not be justified immediately by every purchaser of the product.

Our Development Department is constantly studying possible improvements in the quality of our products wherever the improvement in quality seems consistent with complete and dependable uniformity. We are the largest refiners of petroleum products in the world, drawing on practically every section of the Western Hemisphere for crude oil.

Our unhesitating advice to every motorist is to realize the advantages of this research work by using "STANDARD" MOTOR GASOLINE. This course will, in the long run, insure engine efficiency more surely than it can be secured in any other way.

MARDELA SPRINGS

In regard to the trend of politics in this community, the writer has put out a few feelers, so as to satisfy his own mind and then to let the readers of these letters see how the political wind is blowing. Here are a few straws as we found them, quivering in the wind. We will put our findings in our own language. One man would not vote for a certain candidate because he thinks that the party has already done enough for him. There are many other hungry mouths and these ought to have a chance at the party crib. And why not? For the crumbs should not be taken from the children and given to the dogs. This surely sounds like Scripture, if it is not exactly so. We met only one man who said that he was going to vote for such and such a man, because of his known ability to fill that office, to which he aspires, with honor to himself and to his party. And here is a candidate because he is well groomed and is a man of the church and of sterling character. And here is yet another, who said he had pledged himself to vote for another candidate. But his reason for so pledging he would not reveal. It may be all right to pledge beforehand, but we would like to know as to how many of the candidates he has pledged himself to vote for. And here is just one more and this one seems to be out of the ordinary. He proposes voting for this candidate because he is a regular; he never kicks over the traces. This would seem to be a good reason for a more party standpoint. We know that for the horse to get astride of the traces, instead of between them, he could not do much pulling. And it is expected that the man who is elected will do some pulling for the party which elected him. But last of all and strangest of all, this man intends to vote for a certain candidate to placate, not his feelings, but the feelings of some of his relatives, who some years ago threatened to leave the party if their will was not carried out. All of this reminds one of what the old farmer said when visiting the large city, and seeing for the first time a duck. "It is strange what one is seen when we've no run."

Mrs. Elizabeth Kenney, of Wilmerding, Pa., Miss Madeline Boxler, Johns town, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kenney, of Colver, spent ten days with Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bradley.

Rev. Wm. N. Conaway and wife are again spending a few days in town. They came to see Mrs. Conaway's sister, Mrs. Kate Venables, who is visiting here from Philadelphia.

It certainly was interesting to see the children as they returned to their studies last Thursday. The sweet girls were rigged out in their nice clothing and with bright ribbons and smiling faces. The boys appeared pleased, but with them we know, by their own experience years ago, it was like the lamb going to the slaughter. The boys' clean clothing, before the two days of school had passed, had greatly changed in appearance. Boys will be boys until they grow to be men, but even then, they will have a great deal of the boy in them. We are often led to wonder why some children dress so proudly to go to school. Other children can not afford it and this puts a difference between the children and this ought not to be in a Democracy. To do so would be like some flaunting their wealth or other circumstances in the faces of children whose parents can not afford it. For children to be dressed neat and clean is all that should be required.

Mrs. Herb Parsons and little son, Arthur, of Andrews, S. C., are visiting relatives in town.

Mr. Estella Collier, of Quantico, has been the guest of Miss Annie Robertson this week.

Mrs. Jackson, of Harrington, Del., and Miss Elsie Anderson, of Colver, Md., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Venables.

Mr. George Moore, of Washington, D. C., spent Thursday with his old friend, Mr. A. S. Venables.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Anderson and Miss Lena Edinger, of Baltimore, are spending the week-end with Mr. D. Owens and family.

That is surely a strange piece of twisted logic of the opposers of the Eighteenth Amendment when they charge the advocates of this law with the responsibility for all the lawlessness of the bootleggers, cut throats and moonshiners in the whole community. With just as much reason might they say, that the householder is responsible for the burglary of his premises. For had he not put such heavy locks on his doors the burglars would not have broken up his house in getting in. Can't you see the fallacy of all such reasoning of these opposers of the Amendment? With just as much propriety could they say that God is responsible for the fall of man, for had He not created man, then there would have been no fall of man. And here is another piece of twisted logic of the same sort. Suppose a lot of firebugs should burn very house in Mardele Springs, would it be correct to say that the owners of these houses were responsible for the fire, for had they not built the houses they could not have been burned.

Miss Lena Venables entertained a few of her friends Saturday evening in honor of her guests, Miss Lillian Vines, of Laurel, Del., and Miss Helen Venables, of Philadelphia. Those present were: Misses Dorothy Venables, Pauline and Anna Jackson, Martha and Thelma Seabreeze, Eva Windsor, Willie Heith, Ruth Austin, Madelyn Larmore, Helen Venables, Lillian Collins, Lena Venables, Mrs. Anna Ann Eversman, Miss Olivia Eversman, Mrs. Kate Venables, Miss Edith Eversman, Messrs. James Austin, Ward Donohoe, Ernest Venables, Kenwood Budd, George Cordrey and Sterling Jackson. Games were played, after which refreshments were served.

Mrs. Helen Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller and son, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Miller, Mrs. Kate Venables and daughter, Helen, of Philadelphia, Mrs. Martha Collins, Mrs. Letitia Phillips, Mrs. Ernest Culver and little daughter, Elsie Mae, Harold Collins and Derwood Culver, of Hebron, and Miss Lillian Collins, of Laurel, were guests of Mrs. Mollie Venables on Wednesday last.

Mrs. Nannie Bennett, of Delmar, has been spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. John Bennett.

Mr. Willie Venables visited his mother's home this past week. Willie is one of our boys and we are always glad to see the boys come back home.

Mr. John F. McNelia and family, of Crisfield, motored here on Saturday in their new Velle auto, which he won in the Tall Cedars picnic at Ocean City. They spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Bounds.

On last Saturday Mr. George W. Riggins lost his pocket book containing $30 and some other small change and also containing a learner's license to run his new car. Any honest person finding it, of course, will return it. And should a dishonest person find it and not return it, it will in the days to come burn a hole in his conscience. Favor George by the prompt return of this money and permit us to publish your name as an honest person, willing to practice the Golden Rule.

PREVENTING FIRES IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Deputy State Fire Marshal Urges School Authorities To Exert Every Precaution.

SHOULD BE SURE NO
FIRE HAZARDS EXIST

With Opening Of County Schools, He Says Everything Should Be Done To Insure Safety Of Children From Fire—Advocates Holding Fire Drills Twice Each Month.

Coincident with the opening of the schools in Wicomico county, Deputy State Fire Marshal George R. Percy has written a letter to The News in which he sets forth the importance of school authorities and teachers in doing everything within their power to see that school children are at all times properly safe-guarded against fire. His letter follows:

"Those who are charged with the responsibility of the care of the school children should be sure that everything has been done to insure their safety. Be sure that every fire hazard has been removed; that the heating plant in each building is properly installed and in correct repair; that approved fire extinguishers have been installed when and where needed; that the installation of the electrical wiring has been thoroughly inspected and that same is in good condition, and that exits and fire escapes are in proper shape.

"Ten per cent of all accidental deaths in this country result from fire.
Each year a great many of our school houses in the United States burn. Do not let it be said that any school house burns, or a child loses its life, as a result of your neglect or inattention.

No Fault Of Children.

"Eighty-five per cent. of the fires of this country are caused by carelessness, a proportionate part of which fires are in schools, not thru the carelessness of children, but thru the carelessness of those charged with the legal obligation of safeguarding the limb and life of your child. This responsibility rests upon every school official, including teachers.

"If you are a member of a School Board, a township trustee, county superintendent of schools, or a teacher in the schools, you are charged with the responsibility of seeing that the children are properly protected.
Every parent should make it his or her business to see that their children are properly cared for.

"During an average of five hours each day during 200 days in each year, twenty-five million children are in the schools of the United States. The attendance is compulsory; no fundamental educational problem is greater than the safety of these children.

"Fire drills are extremely important and should be held at least twice a month, but perfection of drilling is of little value if fire exits are omitted or improperly designed, or if doors are locked or do not open outward.
All doors to school buildings should open outward and should be equipped with panic release bar latches.

National Team Work Needed.

"What the country needs is national team work in fighting the fire waste. Our schools have a double responsibility and opportunity in the premises; first, to put their own houses in order, and second, to yield a powerful educational influence. The education of the public in matters of Fire Prevention is the most important step that can be taken toward limiting the loss of life and property by fire.

"If within the next year the teaching of Fire Prevention were incorporated in the courses of all schools and colleges in the United States, it is safe to predict that the effect upon the fire waste would be very great.
Some states already require that a certain amount of time be devoted each month to the study of Fire Prevention in grammar schools.

"It should be remembered that the degree of attention given to Fire Protection in the school buildings themselves will to a large extent determine the importance of Fire Protection in the estimation of the child.
The best literature on Fire Protection should be available in every school library, and important matters should be emphasized by pictures and motions.

"Let each and every citizen of the state use their endeavors to reduce the awful fire waste which visits our state and nation each year."

Mr. Millard F. Ellis, of Fayetteville, N. C., who has been visiting his sister, Mrs. Ray Hearn for the past ten days, returned home Sunday. Mr.
Ellis, who has been connected with the Criterion Amusement Co. for the past seven months, has now been made assistant manager of the Fayetteville branch, consisting of two first class movie houses and one theatre.

Musicals At Home Of Mr. John Hopkins

Given In Honor Of Students Who Will Enter New England Conservatory Of Music This Month.

A delightful musicals was given at the home of Mr. John Hopkins, Lake Street, Wednesday evening, in honor of Miss Musa Kennard and Kenneth Kennard both of whom are his students and who are leaving this month for Boston to enter the New England Conservatory of Music.

There were forty-three students present, most of them taking part in the program which consisted of several piano solos, piano duets, a class of ten boys playing a selection on ten violins together with piano accompaniment, a quartet, two violins, cello and piano.

Master Frank Mitchell, eight years old, played "Home Sweet Home" and another folk song on his violin; Master Richard Workman, nine years old, played "Adeste Fideles" and "Maryland, My Maryland" very delightfully.
A selection from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night Dream," rendered by Mr. Elton Herne, of Delmar, was done in such a manner to cause much favorable comment.

Master Kenneth Kennard played,
"Calm as the Night," a cornet solo, unaccompanied; "The Heart Bowed Down," from the Opera of Balfe, with piano accompaniment, and "Believe Me if all Those Endearing Young Charmers." His rendition would have been a credit to a much older person.

Miss Lillian Parker's violin solo,
"Rose in the Bud," by Dorothy Forster, and "Love Bird," by Master
Howard Calloway were well played.
Miss Musa Kennard's violin solos,
"Cavatina" by Renieke, "Impromptu" by Danciel and a lovely little Mazurka brought much applause.

M. E. Church also are expected to participate in the services.

As a part of the dedicatory exercises, Mr. M. H. Matthe, of Baltimore, the professional chimer of the manufacturers, will be here and give a series of concerts. The first one will be held on Saturday, September 17. A concert for the Sunday School children will be held at 9 A. M. the following day, and others will be held at 10.30 A. M., 4.30 P. M. and just before the Sunday evening service.

On Monday afternoon, September 19, a concert for the school children will be given at 4 o'clock consisting of the playing of patriotic songs, folk songs and classical music. The final concert will be given on Monday evening.

Dr. Reeves stated yesterday that it is the desire of everybody connected with Trinity Church, as it is of the donors of the bells, that the chimes shall be used for the enjoyment of the whole community, and that there is absolutely no desire to use them merely for the advancement of Trinity Church. He stated that they will be at the service of the community whenever the occasion demands.

The bells were made by the Mc-Shane Bell Foundry Co., of Baltimore, and are being installed in the tower of the church. The Console (keyboard) will be located on the second floor, and the chimes are of such excellent tone and quality that they will be heard in all sections of the city.
The work of installation is expected to be completed by tomorrow (Friday).

in appearance with the old one.

Excellent quarters will be provided in the new structure for X-Ray work, a children's ward will be installed, and arrangements provided for taking care of communicable diseases and all other forms of medical and surgical

Have Opened Wall Paper Department

Mr. C. Dyon Humphreys Will Be In Charge Of New Department In Nock Brothers Store.

The Nock Brothers Company have announced the opening of a special department devoted entirely to the purchase and sale of wall papers. This department will be located in the basement of their Main Street clothing house.

Nock Brothers Company have built quite a reputation in the sale of clothing, especially on the merits of "Society Brand" Clothes for men.
They promise the same courteous service in the new department and a stock of papers that compares favorably with their line of men's apparel.

This is the time for fall housecleaning and redecorating. Some of the rooms will probably need to be repapered. Some of them may also need a new coat of calamine on the walls or ceilings. When the time comes to select wall paper a visit to the wall paper department at Nock Brothers store will mean an interesting and profitable trip.

A lot of time is spent in the home during Fall and Winter and no one item adds or subtracts more from the attractiveness of the home than wall coverings do. The home will be more pleasant for everyone if it has that bright and cheerful appearance which only fresh walls and ceilings can give.
Mr. C. Dyon Humphreys, who has had more than 20 years experience with wall papers will be in charge and should be able to make many suggestions that will facilitate the selection of proper wall coverings.
Nock Brothers have a line of papers for every room in the home and invite an inspection at an early date.—

City Appoints Committee To Act On Malaria

in a stream and ponds back of the Smith & Williams shipyard on Fitzwater street and extending up along the western boundary of the city back of Delaware street to the north. Another breeding place of great importance is the Electric Light Company's pond. Some breeding was found in the swamp back of the dump near Lake and Willow streets; also in the swamp west of Camden Avenue and in the rear of Williams' lumber yard.
The most important breeding places are the first two mentioned.

Suggests Altering Dam.

"It is believed that a considerable amount of mosquito breeding can be eliminated by removing a portion of the old dam at Fitzwater street, thereby lowering the water in the ponds and the streams above. It will also be necessary to cut a narrow channel, and farther up, to make both a channel and cut away the grass and weeds at the sides of the streams. Some satisfactory agreement should be made with the owner of these ponds whereby he does not relinquish his water rights."

During the month of August, there were 116 cases of malaria reported in the City of Salisbury, and it is the plain duty of every citizen of this community to give every assistance possible to the committee in its efforts to stamp out the breeding places.

YIELD HIGH RETURN

Although present conditions in the investment market favor the switch of short-term loans into long-term investments by permanent investors, on the theory that interest rates will decline in the next few years and bond prices accordingly rise, there is still a good demand for short term issues by bankers, business institutions and investors who for special reasons desire to place money temporarily at high interest rates.

Never before has there been so many high-grade note issues available at prices to give unusual yields with reasonable assurances that payment of principal will be made at maturity. These bonds run from one to five years and can be bought at prices to yield 6 to 14% to maturity, and in many instances the direct return is over 7%.

Suggests Smoked Glasses For Men.

Manchester, N. H.—Smoked glasses for men were suggested by the Rev. Herbert Whitlock, pastor of the People's Baptist Tabernacle, in a sermon. He said that they should be restrained from staring at the women who resort to paint, powder and bare knees to attract attention. "It is now time," he said, "to save men who stand on the street corners and stare at short skirts and rolled down stockings. These men should be equipped with heavy smoked glasses."

An Open Letter from Ira D. Turner, Candidate for Clerk of the Court, to the Democratic Voters of Wicomico County.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF WICOMICO COUNTY.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

It will be both your privilege and duty to go to the polls on Friday of this week and select nominees of your choice to represent our party in the November election. I trust and believe that when primary ballots are counted my name will be found among the successful candidates as your nominee for Clerk of the Circuit Court for this county.

THE OFFICE—

The office of clerk to which I aspire is one of the most important offices in this county. I feel that I fully recognize this and also how essential it is to the people to have its affairs administered in an intelligent, systematic and efficient manner.

MY QUALIFICATIONS—

I have a keen appreciation of the great responsibility that rests upon the shoulders of any man who fills it, and my assurance of being able to properly discharge its duties, is founded upon the experience gained by me while serving as deputy under two of the best clerks this county has ever had—the late Jas. T. Truitt and Ernest A. Toadvine. While serving under these two able and competent gentlemen I received a thorough schooling in the duties and requirements of the office which should and will prove invaluable to me if nominated and elected to this office.

WHY I BECAME A CANDIDATE—

I want to emphatically state that I am a candidate on my own responsibility; that while I welcome the support of all who are satisfied of my ability to fill the office, I am not the candidate of any man, nor am I the representative of any faction in this contest.

My sole reason for becoming a candidate was because I wanted it. I want it because I know the work and like it. I want it because it has long been my ambition to be the Clerk of your County.

MY DEMOCRACY—

I have been a lifelong Democrat and have been a worker for the success of my party for years. The Democrats know this and that I stand for a policy to build up, not tear down, harmony not strife.

IF ELECTED—

If elected to this office, I promise to give to its duties my time and it will be my pride to conduct this office in such a manner as will cause the people of this county no regrets for the honor they will have conferred upon me.

CAMPAIGN METHODS—

I had hoped when I entered into this campaign that it would be conducted along the lines of fairness and friendly rivalry. I have tried to make a fair, straight and honorable fight and have not indulged in any mud-slinging or unjust criticism. I have tried, at all times, to present my own case to the voters without reflecting upon the character or integrity of my opponents and I shall continue to do so until the polls are closed. As to the attacks made upon me—not so much by my candidate opponents as by others—I shall not dignify them by answering. I am a native of this county and have spent my entire life in your midst. I have tried to deal with one and all honestly and fairly. I am not perfect but I have nothing to conceal.

CONCLUSION—

In conclusion I want to express my sincere appreciation to all those who have given to me their pledges and assurances of support in this campaign. I want to assure those and all others who may vote for me on Primary day that I regard their confidence in me as a sacred trust and that I will do my utmost to justify their faith.

Very respectfully yours,

Ira D. Turner

Mr. H. A Nock Addresses Open Letter To Association Members And To All Growers

He Says That Wicomico Farmers Association, Since Its Inception, Has Sold Farm Products Totaling $600,000 In Value—Many Other Interesting Facts About The Association Are Set Forth In His Letter—Urges All Members And Growers To Support Association Loyally.

Mr. H. A. Nock, secretary and treasurer of the Wicomico Farmers Association, has addressed an open letter to the members of the Association and to all growers of farm products. His letter follows:

"The Association has handled around 1,200 cars of produce thus far this season. We have sold around $500,000 worth of produce for the growers and have consigned around $100,000 worth of berries, beans, Irish potatoes, cukes, loaves, melons and sweets. We have paid our agents all due them for growers some days ago. The growers have had no worthless checks to contend with this season.

"We appreciate the fact that no new association or firm of any kind can attain its maximum capacity or secure greatest possible good to all concerned during the first year of its existence. While errors there may have been, we know the basic principle of this and all similar organizations is for the greatest possible good to growers along all lines. A perfect piece of machinery was, we feel, too much to expect the first season. Such has been more or less the experience of all similar organizations. One feature that surely should appeal to all who have thus far supported this organization is that their money with extreme few cases was ever ready for them upon demand for same at any time.

"I find many growers are blind to their own best interests. Now that the rush and excitement of the auction block seasons on berries, cukes and loaves are over, and the sweets season has started, I find that a regular so-to-speak snip's campaign has set in.

"In other words certain interests are out in all directions dickering with the growers for their sweets, so long as that condition lasts, just so long will this Association be hampered and hindered in fulfilling its main object in securing greatest possible money returns in line with market conditions for the growers. When buyers, either local or at a distance, have to look to one source of supply, then and only then can the situation be controlled by us in behalf of the utmost money returns to the growers. We are sellers not buyers. It is a self-evident fact to all that the buyer is ever out to buy as low as possible and sell as high as possible—that's business of course for the buyer, but how about the seller, the farmer? Is it good business for him? The question, of course, is superfluous.

"Again, I hear some say that 5% with a maximum charge of 12 1/2 cents per package on sold goods is too much. Well, the experience of this Association and all others that I know anything about, is that necessary expenses such as wires, phones, office rents, books, stationery, salaries, bad debts (and the business of any consequence is rare indeed that has no bad debts), etc., all go to make up an expense of operation that makes the 5% narrow margin enough to work on—any less would be unsafe. One word on this subject—does any one think buyers work on a 5% margin? Well, hardly, but it's useless to attempt to prove what I take for granted is self-evident to all.

"One thing that the growers need to give serious thought to is the grading of their goods. We have a letter on file today which states that two cars of sweets we recently sold to this particular firm contained 40 per cent number twos in their so-called number ones. This truly is no way to build up a reputation and demand for our sweets. If any one says grading closely is not necessary, then such a one is blind, to say the least, to your best interests. Let's wake up, and grade our sweets as they should be graded.

"It is a fact that the trade looks largely to the barrel stock sweets till sections south of us are through or more or less cleaned up, and then turn to hamper sweets. It is the purpose and aim of this Association between now and that time to persistently work to move sweets into territory that has not freely in the past taken sweets in hamper. We will work along these lines as many growers cannot store all they grow. We feel that by persistent effort we can accomplish much along these lines—more we feel than has been accomplished in the past.

"We will to every extent possible work to keep out of New York and Philadelphia, as they are such heavily consigned markets that to keep out of them to every extent possible means to keep markets up, and not further depress those two markets. Foregoing can be accomplished by a wide distribution and outlet—this we are at work on. If given time and loyal support by all the growers we feel we can attain all that can be hoped for.

"For the information of the growers we maintain a claim department, and now have filed or in preparation of filing 100 claims or more for the growers and in behalf of the Association. There is no charge for this service to our members or those using the Association to market their produce. These claims cover a variety of matters such as goods lost in transit, stolen at destination, failure to keep cars properly iced in transit with resultant poor sales, overcharges on freight, hauling, etc. We are also checking freight rates, and fighting for lower freight rates.

"One thought in conclusion—growers, I make the prediction that you will live to see the day that you will regret far more than you can realize or dream of now, if you do not loyally support this Association all the time from now on.

"It is an old saying, 'United we stand; divided we fall.' I would change that to read from the growers' standpoint as follows: 'United we win; divided we're stuck.' Growers, in behalf of your own best interests, think over all of this carefully. Some that read this will perhaps scoff and sneer. In all such instances, I venture to say you will not have to look far to see the real reason for such an attitude on the part of all so acting or speaking. "My final word on the subject now is that all of the within is as true as Holy Writ, with the one exception of what the party wrote us about the 40 per cent of twos in the number one sweets. I cannot affirm as to that, as I did not see the sweets in question.

"Yours for utmost success in marketing your products both now and for the future. We can be practically invincible; will you make us so?"

WELL KNOWN MD. ATHLETE VISITED HERE LAST WEEK

Messrs. Holly Kellar and Emmett Andrews were visitors in Salisbury on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Mr. Kellar was selected as all-Maryland quarterback on the State's mythical football team in the seasons of 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918. He also has the unique record of having played in every minute of every game scheduled by Western Maryland College during those four years.

Mr. Kellar was star shortstop on the college baseball team and also was one of the best basketball players in the State. He is now coaching at Western Maryland College.

NEW PIPE ORGAN INSTALLED IN SNOW HILL M. P. CHURCH

A new pipe organ has been installed in the Methodist Protestant Church of Snow Hill and dedication services were held last Sunday. Rev. E. D. Stone of Baltimore, one of the most successful ministers in the Methodist Protestant conference, preached at the morning and evening services. Mrs. Clyde Grimes, of Washington, was organist for the special services. After Rev. Stone had completed his sermon, a request was made for subscriptions to pay for the new organ. Within a few minutes, $2,500 was subscribed.

New York—Nine years ago Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haas, No. 976 Fox street, the Bronx, received a $100 bill as a gift. It was placed on a dresser and mysteriously disappeared. Yesterday a man was called in to tune the Haas piano. Looking inside he found a rat's nest, at the bottom of which was the lost $100 bill.

By GEORGE R. COBB.

It has been suggested that we publish a symposium on sweet potato growing and other crops. This will consist of telling the methods used by different growers and the average yields. It is thought by many that we are not getting as large yields as we should and perhaps we can all get together and work out some method that will increase our yields. We will follow this suggestion and will publish this information when we get it compiled.

Frank Pilgrim has recently returned from a trip through the Virginias, Carolinas, etc. He informed us that we can grow as good soybeans as the famous soybean section of North Carolina if we only go at it in the correct way. Some facts clearly illustrated at Mr. Pilgrim's place this year with soybeans show that (1) a crop of clover makes a big difference in the following crop of soybeans, (2) Tar Heels are about 10 days earlier and make a more vigorous growth than do Mammoth Yellows; (3) 400 pounds of acid phosphate per acre will more than pay for itself; (4) plant thickly for best results; (5) thorough cultivation a necessary factor; (6) don't fool with a "one mule, one row" cultivator.

Arthur Perdue comes out with some White Leghorn pullets that laid their first egg in 4 months and 17 days and still keeping at it.

We spoke sometime ago of the success Chas. Merritt had with artificial lights in the poultry house. We found out today that the hens were not forced too much for breeders and that the chicks were strong and healthy. Two cases of eggs per week from 125 hens during the winter show that Charles has a good laying strain as well as good ideas as to feed and care. You will note on another page that these hens produced daughters that began to lay at the age of 4 months.

Evidence is piling up that corn can be grown on the same land year after year if clover is in the rotation. We found an instance today where corn had been grown on the same land for at least 16 years and this year's crop certainly looks good. But the corn crop has been followed each year by clover—some manure and fertilizer used but not very much as it did not seem to be needed.

We were talking with Claude Hearn on Tuesday and found out that he had used about 150 pounds of salt per acre in corn. The corn looks much better where the salt was applied so we are led to believe that the salt deserves the credit.

Had a treat on Tuesday—went to call on Charles Peters and learned a good many things about growing grapevines. We thought we knew a little something about grape cuttings, etc., before, but we soon learned that we didn't know very much about grapes after all.

Harry VanHorn has already seeded about 80 acres to wheat and vetch. Most of this has been sown in corn. He will seed alfalfa and clover just as soon as the weather will permit.

Some criticism is coming our way for the poor English we use in these notes. We admit that the criticism has come from one of our family but we want to apologize for such errors. The English professor whom we had at college criticized us so much along this line that we became convinced long ago that we sure could "murder" the mother tongue. As long as we can get the facts before the farmers and others we believe that our lapses in English will be forgiven.

We have stopped about six times to read the inscriptions, estimate the weight, admire and wonder how those magnificent chimneys will be raised and hung. This is going to be a real pleasure to us all when these are installed and begin to function. Chimes always remind me of that picture, the Angelus, and I know of no picture that indicates or suggests true peacefulness and devotion than does the Angelus. These chimneys are certainly something that every one can enjoy and we believe that we will all feel more rested and contented when in the evening we hear those chimneys pealing out that magnificent hymn, "Come Thou Almighty King," or "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty."

Oscar Morris has a very clear demonstration on his farm regarding the value of lime. The field is in corn this year and part of the field has been limed for the last three years, another part the last two years, while another section has not been limed in this time. The corn is taller, stronger and with much better color on the limed portions and best where it has been limed twice in the last three years. This is another illustration of the value of lime on land that needs it—have your soil tested and see whether you need lime and how much.

M. K. Dryden was telling us this morning that he practically always seeds crimson clover in tomatoes and hardly ever fails except when the weather is unseasonable. From reports like these it seems that crimson clover does better in tomatoes than does red clover.

Charles Merritt is going after the "pullet record"—Chicks that hatched out on March 8 began to lay on July 8—just four months as we figure it.

We were very much interested to get a letter from C. R. Dickinson of the Homestead Farm. From his letter we judge that he is from North Dakota and he also encloses a clipping from his North Dakota paper: "Mrs. Amos Kinney, of Prescott township, has some pullets of this year's hatch that have started to lay eggs. Just four months from the time they were hatched when they started to lay. We believe that this is a record for this year and a hard one to beat."—Glenburn Advance.

Dr. Jehle, from the University of Maryland, was with us this week inspecting potato fields for those who are growing certified seed. We also inspected a few fields of corn for corn root rot as well as two orchards and a field of tomatoes. W. C. Mitchell, Theo. S. Hearn and M. W. Oliphant are growing the certified sweets and thus far practically no disease has appeared. Some corn root rot in the county and some blight on tomatoes. Apple scab is very prevalent and must be attended to if we want to keep our trees and have good apples.

This hot spell has not only made most of us feel sort of "hot under the collar," but has also killed the present sweet potato market. People do not care for heavy foods during hot weather and they are now calling for watermelons, etc. Makes it hard for those growers who want to dig now but it looks as though the potato market will need another cool spell before it picks up.

BIBLE STUDY PROVES COURAGE IS THE BASIS OF CHARACTER

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

(From Phila. North American).
Without courage there is no character. Given a stout heart, one can get along without many of the finer accomplishments. For both life and faith, youth needs boldness. Just now millions of young persons are in process of having iron injected into their spirits' blood by way of the Book of Boldness.

In our Bibles it is called "The Acts" often. "The Acts of the Apostles" although it might more truly be called "The Acts of the Holy Spirit." Better yet, this record of heroism deserves the title, "The Book of Boldness."

We may well be wary of that type of Bible teacher who is forever finding "key words" and "plans," and all sorts of ingenious symbolisms and verbal significances in the books of the sacred canon. God never meant that readers of His word should have to possess these clever, man-made "keys" for the interpretation of His plainly written meaning.

It is quite another matter, though to observe as any careful reader may do, the main characteristic of a given portion of Scripture. That is a primary purpose of intelligent Bible study. The present six months course in the Acts will have failed of its full usefulness unless it gives a grasp of the general truth that the idea of boldness is dominant in the book. The heroisms of Paul and Barnabas in the present lesson are an appropriate occasion for indicating this striking truth.

Real "Free Speech."

Anybody who will take the root word "bold," with its formations of "boldly" and "boldness," and follow it through the Acts, will be struck by its central place in the story. Ten times the word itself occurs; constantly its spirit is expressed and exemplified.

A Greek-English dictionary will help, for it will make clear that the literal significance of this "boldness" of the Acts is "free utterance." That is to say, Bible boldness is courage in bearing witness. There is no valor greater than that of true testimony.

The Bible is a book of free speech. It honors the disciples who "say so." At once it is apparent how directly this applies to the open confession of faith by the followers of Jesus. To stand up for Him may take more courage than to face a machine gun or an artillery barrage.

In a paragraph, let me indicate the recurrence of "boldness" in the book of the Acts. It was when they "saw the boldness of Peter and John" (Acts iv, 13) that men took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus. The first recorded prayer of the Christian church (Acts iv, 29) was a prayer for boldness in testimony; and its definite answer is indicated in two verses later. Of Paul's first preaching at Damascus and Jerusalem (Acts ix, 27-29), this word "boldly" is used. In last week's lesson (Acts, xiii, 46), we have a similar record and today (Acts xiv, 3) we find him preaching "boldly" at Iconium. The eighth use of this sturdy English word in the Acts describes Apollos at Ephesus (Acts, xviii, 26), and in the same city for three months Paul "spoke boldly" (Acts, xix, 8). As the first record of Paul's preaching was of his boldness, so the last (Acts, xxviii, 31) shows him in Rome teaching of Christ "with all boldness."

Such a study as this—and it may be pursued widely through Paul's letters—does more to stiffen a Christian's convictions than reams of homilies and exhortations. If these lessons have been characterized by candor in dealing with the life of today, it is because as a young man I found myself the secret of "free utterance" in this book of boldness.

Kicked Out—Smiling Still.

This spirit of boldness, born of faith, is the father of the only sort of optimism that is worth seeking. Those folk who have outgrown the Scriptures, but are devoted to bairnly books on "optimism," remind me of the tenement kiddie who, when taken to the country by a fresh-air fund, refused rich milk. He didn't want that "yellow stuff," for he knew that milk, such as he got at home, was blue.

Real fortitude is born of faith. It is the spirit which writes such passages into the record of the itinerant of Paul and Barnabas, after they had been mobbed and kicked out of Antioch in Pisidia (don't get your Antiochs mixed) as this: "The disciples were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit." Divine paradox! Beaten, bruised, spit upon, cursed, humiliated, and yet "filled with joy." What can conquer such a spirit?

More of the same—to anticipate the order of events a trifle. The disciples were driven out of Iconium and Lystra. Paul was stoned and left for dead, and his friends gathered round him, but "he rose up"—and did what?

Scot for the seashore? Make tracks for a cave in the mountains? Seek the protection of the law? "He entered into the city," returned straight into the jaws of the lions. Ah, there was a man for you!

Nor is that all. After continuing their itinerary to Derbe, making converts, Paul and Barnabas, according to the bald, matter-of-fact record penned by Doctor Luke, "returned to Lystra and to Iconium and to Antioch"—not to seek consolation or to be pitied or coddled, but—"confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that through many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of God." That is the matchless might and magnanimity of the Christian missionary.

"All Aboard for Bagdad Railway!" It seems as if this lesson is as appropriate for a class in current events as for a Sunday School group. The fourteenth chapter of the Acts plumps squarely down in the heart of the trouble zone of the near east. If we could actually go to the scene, we would still meet the effects of the Pauline teaching, in the activities of the American relief workers.

What a woman after Paul's own heart is Miss Cushman, of Iconium, whose war experiences are a romance past telling. At Iconium also we might meet Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, who has outmatched all the allies since the armistice.

Frequently in the news cablegrams we read of Konia, as the Turkish center, unaware that it is the lineal successor of old Iconium, and the many-layered survivor of the seat of history-changing events. Ruins there are in plenty in the city, one of the oldest mosques having been turned into an armory when I was there.

Konia is the center of the greatest of the dervish orders, and its home mosque is really impressive. Italian soldiers lounged around Konia during my visit, after the armistice, for this is within the "sphere" allotted to the Italians by the powers before Mustapha Kemal Pasha revised their plans for them. Adelia, the port assigned the Italians, is where Paul and Barnabas landed and left.

We may take the much-discussed Bagdad railway to the scene of our lesson, for Konia is the principal station on the line in Anatolia, and the junction point for all Smyrna. Lestra and Derbe, our other two lesson cities, are along the line to the east.

Derbe is amid the magnificent scenery just before you come to the Taurus mountains. It is almost due north of Paul's home town of Tarsus. If he had already evangelized the Cilician plain (which the French have lately had to evacuate), his carrying the good news to Derbe would be like a general's effecting a junction of his two fronts.

For be it remembered that this missionary tour was no hasty trip, but a campaign covering three or four years. The great apostle entertained none of the easy and superficial conceptions of the missionary enterprise which are sometimes prevalent.

Apotheosized—Then Mobbed.
A theological professor told me the other day of a Boston minister who was examining his face in his study mirror, when a visitor unexpectedly came upon him. The clergyman was heard soliloquizing, "Napoleon Bonaparte Jebb, you are the handsomest man in Boston!"

In so far as he had any reputation at all, that really was the reputation this popinjay preacher possessed. Of course, no man who would care so much for his personal appearance could ever mean anything serious to the world. In this lesson we find Paul and Barnabas hailed as gods, and it wrought them up to a pitch of horror.

They wanted no honors for themselves. After their popularity and then expulsion from Iconium, they had gone to Lystra, where Timothy was doubtless one of their converts, and there, too, they had shared the Master's experience of being acclaimed with hosannas, and then hounded with curses. Popular favor is a fickle mistress.

At Lystra, Paul had healed a lame man. The miracle was sensational. Before ever the Christian missionaries knew it, the word had run through the bazaars and baths that Jupiter and Mercury had come to earth, in the person of Barnabas and Paul. So the mob, led by their priests, brought garlands and sacrifices to offer to the strangers.

Shocked, outraged and humiliated that any glory should come to them that belonged to God, the apostles sprang forth among the multitude, rending their clothes and protesting against such an exaltation and apotheosis of themselves. Significantly, though, these missionaries, whom nothing could divert from their first work, used the occasion as an opportunity for preaching Christ. So they restrained the multitude.

Ere long the bitter Jewish enemies that were now continuously on their trail, stirred up the volatile crowd against the missionaries, who were stoned out of Lystra. Paul was left for dead. Indeed, the test implies that he arose by a miracle. We may easily imagine the deep sorrow, and even panic, that filled the group of disciples, including young Timothy, who surrounded the prostrate and bleeding figure. But Paul's work was not yet done, and the next day he was off to Derbe, later retracing the route to Antioch in Syria, where the church received its envoys with great rejoicings.

THE SANDMAN STORY

OLD DANDELION.

MR. DAN DE LION awoke one morning to find growing near him pretty Miss Daisy.

Dan was ever bold, but this pretty little flower growing so close beside him made Dan bolder than ever.

He turned his bright face toward her and spoke. "Miss Daisy," he said, "in this beautiful world there cannot be two more certainly made for each other than you and I."

"Just look at the yellow in your gown. Doesn't it just match the yellow of my clothes? Now what do you say if we are married and live in this field where the sunshine is bright and warm, as two happy lovers should?"

Miss Daisy shook out her white petal skirt and looked down at the replied that the sun was so bright and warm she could think of nothing else.

"But," she said, "perhaps tomorrow I shall be able to think about your proposal and give you your answer."

So Dandelion sat all day with his face bright and happy because he felt sure the morrow would certainly bring rain and then Miss Daisy would have time to think about him.

The next morning the raindrops were falling fast on the meadow and Miss Daisy's upturned face never once looked toward her lover. She was drinking the longed-for water and had no time to notice poor Dan.

The next morning after the rain everything was so clean and fresh and all the flowers were so bright and happy that Dan again spoke to Miss Daisy of his love.

"Oh, the world is so beautiful and fresh this morning I cannot think of anything else," replied Miss Daisy as she flitted the dewdrops from her white skirt.

But Dan was not discouraged; he still waited and hoped for his answer; but one morning poor Dan awoke with a head quite white. He had grown old with waiting and his long, white locks fluttered in the breeze.

Then one day Miss Daisy grew tired of the beauty around her. She cast her eye toward her lover and, to her horror, she saw he was quite bald. Not even one speck of white hair was there on his head.

"Oh!" exclaimed Miss Daisy. "How funny you look. Why, you are old Mr. Dan D. Lion. I could not think of marrying you now. Good-day!"

And that is the reason, so the meadow flowers say, that the Dandelion grows faded and old with long, white locks on its little round head. Long ago its ancestor waited so long for Miss Daisy's answer that he grew old and bald.

ground, then she turned a sideways glance on Dan, who was swaying with impatience waiting for her answer.

"The sky is so beautiful and blue today," she said. "I cannot think about anything else; perhaps tomorrow I will give you my answer."

So poor Dan had to be content and wait until the morrow, but when the sun rose the next morning and Dan asked Miss Daisy for her answer she

"What's in a Name?"
By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name, its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day and lucky jewel.

SOPHIA.

THE wisest of feminine names is Sophy, or Sophia, as she should be called properly. It is perhaps the only name which is closely associated with divine attributes, since its origin dates back to the dedication of that most gorgeous of Christian temples by which Justinian declared that he had surpassed Solomon. It was called St. Sophia (the holy wisdom of God).

According to the "Preacher" in the Book of Ecclesiastical Wisdom is the mother of fair Love, Hope and holy Fear, and this idea is said to have suggested the allegory of the holy woman with three daughters so called, and in compliment to the newly built church, the niece of Justinian's empress, afterward wife of his nephew and successor, was called Sophia. The name straightway became fashionable among the daughters of the nobility of Greece and was carried, through Slavonians, to Germany.

History records a Hungarian princess of that name in 919, and another, daughter of King Geyza, married Magnus of Saxony and spread the use of the name throughout Saxony. Denmark is said to have received it through this latter princess and has since made it almost a national name. Its vogue with the royalty of Denmark is unmistakable and its use spread through all classes.

England barely escaped, having a Queen Sophia and even though Sophia Dorothea of Yette never actually ascended the throne of England, her granddaughters gave it vogue in the British Isles in the reign of the House of Hanover.

England claimed both Sophia and Sophy. France makes her Sophie; Italy Sofia, Germany Sophia and Helen, and Russia Sofia.

Sophia has an old talismanic stone—macleite. It protects its wearer from danger, if it is engraved with an image of the sun. It is particularly potent for children and is said to ward off disease and promote peaceful slumber if attached to a child's cradle. Saturday is Sophia's lucky day and 5 her lucky number.

The Separate Skirt

A PRACTICAL, neat and very pretty separate skirt, as pictured here, for mid-summer wear, is typical of the majority of separate skirts, which are tailored affairs as useful as suits. It is representative of only this one class of skirts, however, for there are as many types of skirts as there are of hats and they are all made in unending variety.

Nothing is prettier for ordinary wear than skirts of striped or cross-bar materials in which a color or black relieves the plainness of all white. Light wool fabrics with hairline stripes or crossbars in black, like that in the skirt pictured, have found many admirers this summer. Others, with stripes in high colors alternating with white, are box or side plaited so that the white predominates, and there are many patterns in black-and-white combinations.

Among the newest skirts for dressy wear there are heavy crepe weaves in silk with wide printed borders of floral patterns in many colors. The skirts are made up with this wide border about the hips or at the hem, and a sash of white crepe, lined with chiffon in a color, accompanies them. Skirts of georgette banded with bias satin bands in graduated widths, and skirts of taffeta silk with wide borders of duvetyn or other cloth at the bottom, are new and make opportunity for fine color combinations.

INSPIRATION.

A POET sang of human things,
Of gorgeous queens and mighty kings,
And gems that glistered;
He praised the brassy front of show,
The ruby's fire and diamond's glow,
Yet none would listen.

He wrote him many labored lines
Of ended days and coming times,
Of deeds that stirred him;
He wrote of pomp and circumstance,
The flap of flag, the light of lance,
But no one heard him.

And thus he learned to know the pain
Of him who sings but sings in vain—
To eyes averted,
Like one who wakes his sweetest tone
To unresponsive walls of stone
In halls deserted.

When all the merry melodies
He sang his fellow men to please Brought none to hear him,
He turned from splendor and from pelf
To sing a measure for himself,
A song to cheer him.

He wrote a song of long ago—
A vale where yellow lilies grow
Beside a river,
A path that leads the weary feet
Where meadowland and waters meet
And rustles quiver.

He wrote a song of childhood days,
Of pleasant shade and wooded ways
And summer quiet;
A bridge that spanned a gushing rill,
A humble cot upon a hill,
With roses by it.

'Twas not the creature of his art,
This song upheaved from his heart
In moments lonely,
With memory his eyes grew dim,
For then his own soul sang to him,
The poet only.

But other mortals heard his tale
Of woodland path and verdant vale
To heaven winging,
And men who scorned his song before Sought out the poet a open door
To hear him singing.

Thus came to him his mistress Fame,
Clad in her armor of flame,
And smile supernal,
No more a fleeting vision now,
She placed upon the singer's brow
The kias eternal.

And then the poet, food and sage,
Turned gently from his written page,
While braves that fared,
And, when he saw the listening throng
Of those who once had scorned his song,
He greatly wondered.

How It Started

MONOGRAMS.

THE origin of monograms is probably Egyptian; we are certain that the Greeks and Romans used these devices. The merchants of the Middle Ages used cabalistic intertwinings of letters as their distinctive marks, and the great Charlemagne used a cipher as his signature to conceal his ignorance of writing. The old-time painters and printers also had their private marks made of their initials. It was not until the Nineteenth century, however, that monograms became popular.

FIRST CALL FOR WINTER

Will your buildings be an easy mark for the attacks of cold weather?

They won't if you take a little time right now to do the necessary repair work. Be sure to put some good sash in those open windows in the barn, hog house or poultry house. Cut another window in the dark parts of the barn and get more light on the dull winter days.

Inspect the roofs. Will they stand the test of driving rain and heavy snow? How about your cattle barn and other shelter? It doesn't take long to put everything in good shape if you check up on your buildings and get the material now.

If there is one place where a "stitch in time saves nine," it's the roof. Neglect it and you may have trouble from garret to cellar—annoyance, expense, spoiled walls, ruined furniture, etc.

You remember Mark Twain's story about the man who said he didn't need his roof fixed in nice weather, and he could not get it fixed when it rained? Have yours fixed before the next storm.

We have all kinds of roofing for all kinds of needs, at prices that mean a saving to you.

INDEPENDENT STEEL MEN MAY CUT WAGES

Reported They Will Follow Action Of Steel Corp.—Say Money Lost At Present Prices.

According to authoritative advices, a number of eastern independent steel interests, among them Midvale Steel Co., are preparing again to reduce wages, following action by the Steel Corporation. Current day labor rate with eastern mills is 25 cents, as compared with 30 cents paid by Valley independents. It is evident that the independents, as a group, cannot compete with the Steel Corporation on the same wage and price levels. Similarly, it would be difficult for Valley independents to maintain a 50% differential in wages over eastern competitors, though there is normally a 20% differential.

President of an important interest says: "We are losing money at present steel prices, and will probably lose more if operations are enlarged, as the actual cost of manufacturing steel is higher than the selling price. We dislike to reduce wages, and will not do so unless compelled; but the situation is such that labor cost is about the only element in production costs which we fully control."

"As long as miners are paid high wages, we cannot expect a further reduction in the price of coal, and the miners refuse to discuss wages until expiration of their agreement next Spring. We cannot expect reduction in freight rates on raw materials, because wages of railroad workers have not been reduced in proportion to the cuts in the steel industry, and the carriers cannot consequently, sell transportation at a reduced figure. Our stockholders are taking the loss now. We cannot expect them to take even larger losses, if we keep operating."

"On the other hand, we cannot afford to shut down our plants entirely. We have a regular list of customers in good times, who gave us their business, and we made a profit on them. Now we cannot disregard them, but must fill their orders, even at a loss to our company. We cannot further disrupt our sales and operating organizations, which have been reduced to skeletons. We thought that conditions would turn for the better in the Fall, but readjustment is slower than we expected. While steel prices have been reduced next to farm products, other industries have not kept pace, and we will have to mark time until conditions become equalized."—Wall Street Journal.

Department Store Sales Show A Drop

Total July Sales Of 41 Stores Were 11.5% Below Sales Made In July, 1920.

Total sales in July, as reported to the New York Federal Reserve Bank by 41 firms operating 54 representative department stores, were 11.5% below the sales of July 1920, says an item on retail trade, which will appear in the September issue of the Monthly Review of Credit and Business Conditions. It continues:

"When the decline in prices is taken into consideration it is evident that the amount of merchandise sold continues to be larger than last year. The number of individual transactions in July 1921 was 10% larger than in July 1920. The average amount of individual sales, as reported by stores that keep such records, decreased about 18%, from $2.85 in July 1920 to $2.33 in July 1921.

"The volume of department store sales normally reaches its lowest point in midsummer, and July sales were about 31% below those of June. Preliminary reports from merchants indicate that sales during August were also below those of July.

"The decrease in the volume of sales has been general throughout all sections of the store, with the exception of the furniture departments, in which special Summer sales have met with a good response."

WORLD'S MERCHANT SHIPPING
TOTALS 61,974,653 TONS

World merchant shipping in June, 1921, as reported by Lloyd's Register of British and foreign shipping comprised 33,206 vessels of 100 gross tons or over, aggregating 61,974,653 gross tons. Returns cover a considerable number of vessels on which work has begun, but is not completed. Corresponding returns in June, 1920, showed 31,895 vessels of 57,314,065 gross tons.

Corn Products Co. Business Improving

Now Grinding 115,000 Bushels Daily And New Kansas Plant Will Add 25,000 More Bushels.

Corn Products Refining Co. continues to operate at about 75% capacity, grinding 115,000 bushels of corn a day. Its capacity is 115,000 bushels daily, which will be increased by 25,000 bushels at the first of the year, when the Kansas plant is expected to be completed.

The company's German business has shown a distinct upturn. The short-urned of the German potato crop has turned German users of starch products to American starch.

Corn Products officials find a slow but very perceptible and steady improvement in every aspect of their business. Although the company is the largest manufacturer of glucose in the United States and sells about 80% of its product to confectioners, its demand is not dependent on the price of sugar. In fact, it would sell about the same amount of glucose if it were twice the price of sugar. It is used in candies, syrups, preserves, mince-meat, etc., to prevent the can sugar from crystallizing and to give better color.

The company's main product is probably Karo corn syrup, which does not compete with sugar. In 1920, it produced no less than 430,000,000 pounds of Karo syrup.

FUEL OIL SUPPLY IMPORTANT TO U. S.

To Be A Prime Factor In Future International Trade—Mexico Now Taking The Lead.

(From Wall St. Journal).

There seems to be no question as to the important part fuel oil is to play in future international trade. The nation having large fuel oil supplies is destined to grow rich if it handles its industry in a way as to encourage and not hamper private development.

The United States, one of the largest fuel oil producing nations, consumes practically all of its own output. Exports are for the most part the product of Mexican crude, after the gasoline and kerosene have been extracted. Mexican fuel oil is shipped to North America, Europe and South America, with an occasional shipment to northern Africa.

The United States Shipping Board, the Standard Oil of New Jersey and Great Britain have established fuel oil bunkering stations in nearly every port of the world. Specially large bunkering facilities have been provided in ports of the United States and United Kingdom, the Panama Canal and Suez Canal. World shipping is being provided with facilities which will ultimately make practical the general conversion from coal to fuel oil.

Despite the temporary excess of production, the world supply of fuel oil is limited, compared with the great possibilities of expansion in its use. This apparent shortage must be overcome so that shipping can be assured of an adequate supply as a reasonable price for years to come. Development of the Mexican industry with this in view, therefore, seems of vital importance.

The balance of fuel oil production is turning year by year in favor of Mexico. American high-grade oil production is used more and more for its yield of such products as gasoline, kerosene and lubricants.

Ford's New Casting Method Is Success

Company Has Built More Than 70,000 Cars With Castings From Molten Iron With One Melting.

Ford interests says that success of their new method of pouring iron castings has been demonstrated. More than 75,000 cars have been built with castings made when the molten iron was poured direct from the River Rouge blast furnaces. Heretofore, castings had involved two meltings. The first, when the iron ore is converted into iron and the second when it is placed in the cupola furnace to be used for castings.

In the Ford direct method the molten iron is drawn into ladrons having a capacity of 85 tons each. The ladrons are mounted on railway trucks and drawn to the foundry. The iron remains in a liquid state for 36 hours. Conveyor chains bring the molds past the pouring point and the iron is poured directly into the molds. Twenty conveyor lines are under construction. Company now produces practically all the iron used on approximately 4,200 cars built daily. A second blast furnace will soon be placed in operation. Highland Park foundries will then be transferred to River Rouge.

HAY SHOULD BE WELL CURED BEFORE SHIPPED

First Offerings Of Season Oftentimes Sold At Loss Because Not Sufficiently Cured.

Every year when new hay begins to be marketed, reports from several central western hay markets show that much of the new hay arriving is hot and out of condition, and must be sold at a heavy discount under the price quoted for No. 1 hay. There are a number of causes, but the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture believes the principal one is that the hay is baled and shipped before it has cured sufficiently, and while it contains too much moisture.

It is the custom in some sections to bale the hay from the window or cock in order to avoid the expense of stacking or putting in the mow. It is almost always true that the first new hay shipped to the various markets is baled in this way.

The movement of hay from a dry to a humid section, or from a cool to a warmer one, increases the probability of heating. Tight baling and close packing in the cars are contributing causes, and apply to alfalfa and prairie hay as well as to timothy.

The easiest way to avoid the losses caused by hay getting out of condition is not to ship new hay until it has gone through the "sweat" and becomes properly cured in the mow or stack. The premiums usually offered for early shipments of new hay are very inviting, however. The first new hay, if in good condition, often sells near the price of old hay which, as the season draws to a close, is frequently high. The new hay is heavier, too, and the shipper profits from the sale of the water in it, even though it sells below the price of old hay. The chance of getting these premiums causes many shippers to take the risk of the losses that continually occur. It is very doubtful, however, if the premiums equal the losses during the first week or two of the movement.

While the shipment of new hay is not advised until it is cured so as to contain not more than 14 or 15 per cent moisture, a few suggestions are offered by the Department of Agriculture, which, if followed, will tend to eliminate some of the losses frequently incurred. The principal ones are:

Press the hay in the bale as loosely as possible to get the minimum weight in the car.

Load hay in cars with air space about the bales; standing the bales on end is considered a good practice.

Ship first hay to near-by markets only.

Hay shipped into low or humid territories should be drier than when shipped into dry or high sections.

Provide ventilation for cars when possible.

Bill cars so that no delay will occur in handling or unloading at destination.

HOW TO DETERMINE WHAT SYSTEM PAYS

Most Profitable Farming Methods Learned By Analysis Of All Farms
In Given Area.

One method of determining what systems of farming in a community are more profitable or require less labor than others is to analyze all the farms in an area and compare the data thus secured with a resurvey of the same farms a year or more later. This is the plan used by the United States Department of Agriculture in a number of communities, and is known as area work. By obtaining cost figures on the same farms each year, or at longer regular intervals, the department is able to compile very practical information relative to farm management.

This work was started by the department in Indiana in 1910, when all the farms in a given area were studied. A resurvey was made on the same farms in 1913 and each year since. The same method of farm-management studies is being conducted in general farming areas in Ohio and Wisconsin, on citrus and truck farms in Florida, on 150 farms in the Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, and in several other States. Studies have been made on owner and tenant farms showing the economic effect of crop rotation, the effect different systems have on yield, the comparative merits of feeding the crops raised on the farm or selling them, and the advantages of labor-saving equipment.

Since the first surveys were made tractors have been purchased and are now in use on some of the farms under observation, thus giving an opportunity to study their efficiency and to compare systems of management before and after they were used. Comparative studies are also made on farms using tractors and neighboring farms where horses supply all the farm power.

Growing Chickens Need Plenty Water

In Hot Weather It Should Be Given Twice Daily—Weed Out All Diseased Fowls.

Plenty of fresh, clean water is absolutely necessary for all growing chickens. In hot weather it should be given twice daily and put into fountains or dishes or placed in the shade to keep cool as possible. Clean the water dish thoroughly every day before filling.

Except in stormy weather or in winter mature geese seldom need a house. A shed open on the south side, a poultry house, or a barn usually is provided by breeders in the North, and is used by some breeders in the South. Coops, barrels, or some other dry shelter should be provided for the young goslings. But wherever they are the geese should have a clean place, with plenty of straw or shavings for the floor during the winter.

Set your mark at standardbred poultry. Such poultry offers greater combination of practical and utility quality suitable to the needs of the farmer and poultry keeper.

Nothing is better for growing chickens than a liberal supply of sour milk. If it can be obtained it should be kept before them in an open dish or pan where they can eat and drink it freely. Where sour milk is fed, the amount of beef scrap in the dry mash may be reduced one-half.

Once disease gets into the flock, or a single bird is badly affected, the free use of the hatchet usually is the most practical method of wiping it out, as it does not pay to spend two dollars' worth of time trying to cure an ordinary bird. Slight troubles, however, often can be cured with little work or expense. In nearly every case it is better to remove the well birds and put them by themselves.

In case of infectious disease the premises should be disinfected thoroughly.

This Pullet Tops All The Egg-Layers

Minorca Bird of 'Mrs. J. R. Lewis,
Berlin, Lays First Egg in 3 Months and 24 Days.

Another egg-laying story came to light this week. Mrs. J. R. Lewis, Route No. 2, Berlin, has come forth with the announcement that she has a pullet that layed its first egg in 3 months and 24 days. In a letter to The News, Mrs. Lewis said:

"I have noticed in your valuable paper the stories about the egg-laying feats of pullets, and I will now tell you about mine. I have a black Minorca pullet that was hatched March 31 and she laid her first egg on July 24. On August 1, I set one of this pullet's eggs with some other eggs I was setting. The egg was very small—about the size of a Guinea egg—but it has hatched, and the result is a thrift little chick, small in size but very fine. Good luck to the poultry growers!"

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.—Advertisement.

Phosphoric Acid Extracted By Heat

High Temperature Furnaces Used By Government To Get The Fertilizer
Acid By Heat Method.

With the installation of a new high-temperature oil-burning furnace now being installed on the experimental farm at Arlington, Va., the Bureau of Soils, United States Department of Agriculture, will continue investigations into the extraction of phosphoric acid for fertilizer from phosphoric rock by the application of heat.

Experimental runs with an old furnace several months ago apparently demonstrated the practicability of the new method developed by department scientists of separating the phosphoric acid. The present commercial method is by the application of sulphuric acid to ground phosphate rock. It is not practicable for low-grade rocks and makes necessary the shipment of a large proportion of inert material with the phosphate. Early experiments in separation by heat were made with electric furnaces, but the expense seemed a serious obstacle to the introduction of the new method. It was found, however, that the petroleum-burning furnace could be made to do the work at much less expense.

Experiments will be continued with a view to establishing methods which will permit the use of much phosphate rock which now goes to waste, and also to a material reduction in freight rates on commercial fertilizers.

"I heard something the other day in Portal City that seems pretty hard to believe, Norcross. It was at one of Mrs. Staggford's evenings, and I was sitting out a dance with a certain young woman who shall be nameless. We were speaking of the Kendricks, and she gave me a rather broad hint that Mrs. Macrae isn't a widow at all; that her husband is still living."

My heavens! I had figured out a thousand ways in which the boss might get wised up to the dreadful truth, but never anything like this; to have it dropped on him that way out of a clear sky!

For a minute or two he didn't say anything, but when he did speak, I saw that the truth wasn't going to take hold.

"That is gossip, pure and simple, Hornack. The Kendricks are my friends, and I have been as intimate in their household as any outsider could be. It's merely idle gossip, I can assure you."

"Maybe so," said Mr. Hornack, sort of drawing in his horns when he saw how positive the boss was about it. "I'm not beyond admitting that the young woman who told me is a little inclined that way. But the story was pretty circumstantial; it went so far as to assert that 'Macrae' wasn't Mrs. Sheila's married name at all, and to say that her long stay with her Western cousins—and still is—really a flight from conditions that were too humiliating to be borne."

"I don't care what was said, or who said it," the boss cut in brusquely. "It's ridiculous to suppose that any woman, and especially a woman like Sheila Macrae, would attempt to pass herself off as a widow when she wasn't one."

"I know," said the traffic manager, temporizing a little. "But on the other hand, I've never heard the major, or any one else, say outright that she was a widow. It seems to be just taken for granted. It galled me up a bit on Van Britt's account. You don't go anywhere to mix and mingle socially, but it's the talk of the town that Upton is in over his head in that quarter."

I shut my eyes and held my breath. Mr. Hornack hadn't the slightest idea what this fee he was skating over, or how this easy mention of Mr. Van Britt might be just like rubbing salt into a fresh cut. By this time it was growing dark, and we were running into Portal City, and I was mighty glad that it couldn't last much longer. The boss didn't speak again until the yard switches were clanking under the car, and then he said:

"Upton is well able to take care of himself, Hornack, and I don't think we need worry about him," and then over his shoulder to me: "Jimmie, it's time to wake up. We're pulling in."

As he always did on a return trip, Mr. Norcross ran up to his office to see if there was anything pressing, before he did anything else. May was still at his desk, and in answer to the boss' question he shook his head.

"No; nobody that couldn't wait," he said, referring to the day's callers. "Mr. Hatch was up with a couple of men that I didn't know, but he only wanted to inquire if you would be in the office this evening after dinner. I told him I'd find out when you came, and let him know by phone."

I thought, after all that had happened, Hatch certainly had his nerve to want to come and make a talk with the man his hired assassins were trying to murder. But if Mr. Norcross took that view of it, he didn't show it. On the contrary, he told Fred that he would be all right to telephone Hatch; that he was coming down after dinner, and the office would be open, as usual.

I slipped out and went to Mr. Van Britt's office at the other end of the hall. Bobby Kelso was there, holding the office down, and I asked him where I could find Tarbell. Luckily, he was able to tell me that Tarbell was at that moment down in the station restaurant, eating his supper; so down I went and hunted in with my story of the Hatch call, and how it was to be repeated a little later on.

"I'll be there," said Tarbell; and with that load off my mind, I jogged off up-town to the club to get my own dinner.

late this afternoon that I thought ought to be passed on to you without any great delay."

The boss looked up quickly. "What is it, major?" he inquired. "Are you going to tell me that something new has broken loose?"

"I wish I might be that he'llfully definite—I do so, Graham. But I can't. It's really a bit of street talk. They're telling it, over at the Commercial club, that Hatch and John Marshall—you know him—that Sedwick stock jobber who has been so active in this Citizens' Storage & Warehouse business—have finally come together."

"In a business way, you mean?"

The major gave a right and left twist to his big mustaches and shrugged one shoulder.

"They are most probably calling it business," he rejoined.

The boss nodded. "I know what has happened. In spite of the fact that the local people know that their economic salvation depends upon a wide and even distribution of their C. S. & W. stock, there has been a good bit of buying and selling and swapping around. I remember you prophesied that in a little while we'd have another trust in the hands of a few men. You may recollect that I didn't dispute your prediction. I merely said that our ground leases—the fact that all of the C. S. & W. plants and buildings are on railroad land—would still give us the whip-hand over any new monopoly that might be formed."

"Yes, sir; I remember you said that," the major allowed.

"Very good, Marshall and his pocket syndicate may have acquired a voting control in C. S. & W., and they may be willing now to patch up an alliance with Hatch. But in that case the new monopoly will still lack the one vital ingredient: the power to fix prices. If there is a new combine, and it tries to make the producers and merchants pay more than the agreed percentages for storage and handling—"

"I know," the major cut in. "You all will rise up in the majesty of your wrath and put it out of business by terminating the leases. I hope you may. I certainly do hope you may. But you'll recollect that I didn't advise you on that point, sir. You took Mistle Ripley's opinion. Maybe the courts will hold with you, but, candidly, Graham, I doubt it—doubt it right much."

The boss didn't seem to be much scared up over the doubt. He just smiled and said he'd be likely to find out what was in the wind, and that before very long. Then he spoke of Hatch's afternoon call at our offices, and mentioned the fact that the Red Tower president would probably try again, later in the evening.

The major let the business matter drop, and he was working his way patiently through the salad course when he looked up to say:

"Was there anything in your trip to Stratheona to warrant Sheila's little telegraphic dangle signal, Graham?"

"Nothing worth mentioning," said the boss, without turning a hair; doing it, as I made sure, because he didn't want Mrs. Sheila to be mixed up in the plotting business, even by implication.

The major didn't press the inquiry any further, and when he spoke again it was of an entirely different matter. "Away along in the beginning, somebody—I think it was John Chadwick—spoke of you as a man with a snarl of raw head and bloody bones temple, Graham; what have you done with that temple in these last few days?"

The boss' smile was a good-natured grin.

"Temper is not always a matter of temperament, major. Sometimes it is only a means to an end. Much of my experience has been in the construction camps, where I have had to deal with men in the raw. Just the same, there have been moments within the past six months when I have been sorely tempted to burn the wires with a few choice words of the short and ugly variety and throw up my job."

"Which, as you may say, brings us around to President Duntun," put in the old lawyer shrewdly. "He is still opposing your policies?"

"Up to a few weeks ago he was still hounding me to do something that would boost the stock, regardless of what the something should be, or of its effect upon the permanent value of the property."

"Did I understand you to say that these—uh—suggestions from Duntun had stopped?" the major inquired.

"Temporarily, at least. I haven't heard anything from New York—not lately."

"Then Duntun's nephew hasn't made himself known to you?"

"Callagraw? Hardly. I'm not in Mr. Howie Callagraw's set—which is one of the things I have to be thankful for. But this is news; I didn't know he was out here."

The news-giver bent his head gravely in confirmation of the fact.

"He's been, I'm sorry to say, Graham. He has been head quite some little time, vibrating round with the Grigsbys and the Gannons and a lot mo' of the new-rich people up at the capital."

It was the boss' turn to go silent, and I could guess pretty well what he was thinking. The presence of President Duntun's nephew in the West might mean much or nothing. But I could imagine the boss was thinking that his own single experience with Collingwood was enough to make him wish that the nephew of Big Money would stay where he belonged—among the high-rollers and spenders of his own set in the effete East.

party in the special train, and that night at the Bullard he had been drinking too much and made a braying ass of himself. I had to knock him silly before I could get him up to his room."

"You did that, Graham?—for a stranger?"

"I did it for the comfort of all concerned. As I say, he was making an ass of himself."

There was another break, and then the major looked up with a little frown.

"That was before you had met Sheila?" he asked, thoughtfully.

"Why, no; not exactly. It was the same night—the night we all dropped off the 'Flyer' and got left behind at Sand Creek. You may remember that we came in later on Mr. Chadwick's special."

The major made no reply to this, and pretty soon the boss was on his feet and excusing himself once more on the after-dinner smoking stunt, saying that he was obliged to go back to the office. The major got up and shook hands with him as if he were bidding him good-by for a long journey.

"You are going down to keep that appointment with Mistle Rufus Hatch?" he said. "You take an old man's advice, Graham, my boy, and keep your hand figuratively speaking, of course—on your gun. It runs in my mind, somehow, that you are going to be hit—and hit right hard. No, don't ask me why. Call it a rotten suspicion, and let it go at that. Come up to the house, afterward, if you have time, and tell me I'm a false prophet, sir; I hope you may."

The boss promised plenty cheerfully as to the calling part, as you'd know he would since he hadn't seen Mrs. Sheila for I don't know how long; and a few minutes later we were on our way, walking briskly, to keep the Fred May engagement with the chief of the grafters.

CHAPTER XIV

The Dead-Line

We found the three disappointed afternoon callers already on hand when we reached the headquarters. The boss said, "Good evening, gentlemen," as pleasant as a basket of chips, and invited the waiting bunch into the private office, snapping on the lights as he opened the door.

No introductions were needed. One of the pair Hatch had brought with him was a lawyer named Marrow, whose home town was Sedwick; a sharp-nosed, ferret-eyed man who figured as one of the many "local counsel" for Red Tower. The other, Dedmon, was a political place-hunter who had once been sheriff of Arrowhead county.

"You've kept us cooling our heels in your waiting-room for just about the last time, Mr. Norcross," was the spiteful way in which Hatch opened fire. "We've come to talk straight business with you this trip, and it will be more to your interest than ours if you'll send your clerk away."

"Nothing they had been dragging up their chairs and sitting down, I had heard Fred May lock up his typewriter and go, and had been listening anxiously for some noise that would tell me Tarbell was on deck. I thought I heard the door of the outer office open again just as Hatch spoke and it comforted me a whole lot."

The boss didn't pay any attention to Hatch's suggestion about sending me away; acted as if he hadn't heard it. Opening his desk he took a box of cigars from a drawer and passed it. With this concession to the small hospitality the boss swung his chair to face the trio.

"My time is yours, gentlemen," he said; and Hatch jumped in like a man fairly spoiling for a fight.

"For six months, Norcross, you've been mowing a pretty wide swath out here in the tall hills. You've been posing as a little tin god before the people of this state, and all the while you've been knifing and slugging and black-jacking private capital and private business wherever and whenever they have happened to get in your way."

"I thought, after all that had happened, Hatch certainly had his nerve to want to come and make a talk with the man his hired assassins were trying to murder. But if Mr. Norcross took that view of it, he didn't show it. On the contrary, he told Fred that he would be all right to telephone Hatch; that he was coming down after dinner, and the office would be open, as usual."

The Key That Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Advertisement.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTE AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

Working For You

FROM the moment you give your number to the telephone operator, an unseen force of men and women are working for you.

The operator who takes your call, the wire-chief who tests the line, the man who repairs the instruments, the operator at the distant central office, the traffic inspector, the central office manager—all these and a most complete equipment—are working that your call may be put through in the most satisfactory manner.

Bell telephone employees have one characteristic in common—willingness to oblige. This is true in all departments, from switchboard to business office.

Their courtesy, willingness to oblige and patience under trying conditions promote friendly feeling and are essential to good telephone service.

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,962 IN JUNE

DEMAND EXCEEDS OUTPUT AS FORD BREAKS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

During the month of June, the Ford Motor Company, through its Detroit Factories and 22 Assembly Plants, throughout the country reached the production of 108,962 Ford cars and trucks, setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921, viz., April, May and June, shows an output of 301,796 Ford cars and trucks against 229,878 for the same three months of last year, or a net increase of 80,918.

Despite the fact, however, that the Ford Plants have been running at maximum capacity, the demand for Ford cars and trucks is not being met, and at the present time, many thousand unfilled orders have been piled up ahead so that Ford sales are still limited by manufacturing facilities rather than marketing possibilities. Particularly is this true with respect to enclosed cars, for which the demand has been unusually heavy.

One reason cited by Ford Officials for the unprecedented demand for Ford cars is the present tendency toward economy. Many of those whose names have been added to the long list of buyers might well have afforded larger and more costly cars than the Ford, but it is the belief that most prospective motor car buyers are investigating all of the costs incident to motoring much more carefully than at any period during the past five years.

The estimated output of the Ford Factories for July calls for 109,000 cars and trucks, or a production of 4360 a day for 25 days. Since the assembling of cars is being handled during an eight hour day only, the hourly output will be 545 cars. In other words, one Ford car or truck leaves the assembly line every 6 1/2 seconds.

yards and ran us out of business. But I'm here to tell you that your fine-haired little deal to rob us began to die about as soon as it was born."

"How so?" inquired the boss.

"It wasn't a month before your little local stockholders began to get together and swap stock and sell it. In a very short time the control of the whole string of local plants was in the hands of a hundred men. To-day it's in the hands of less than twenty. With John Marshall at the head of them. Citizens' Storage & Warehouse is now a consolidated property, and John Marshall, Henckel and I control a majority of its stock. How does that strike you?"

"It strikes me that the people most deeply interested have been exceedingly foolish to sell their birthright. But that is strictly their own business, and not mine or the railroad company's."

"Wait!" Hatch snarled. "It's going to be both yours and the railroad company's business, before you are through with it. Marrow, here, represents Marshall, and I represent Henckel and myself. What are you going to do about those ground leases?"

"Nothing at all, except to insist upon the condition under which they were granted by the railroad company."

"Meaning that you are going to try to hold us to the fixed percentage charge for handling, packing, loading, and transferring?"

"Meaning just that. If you raise the proportional market-price charge on the producers and merchants, the leases will terminate."

"I thought that was about where you'd land. Now listen: we're it—Marshall and Henckel and I—and what we say, goes as it lies. We are going to use the present C. S. & W. plants and equipment, charging our own storage and handling percentages, based on anything we see fit. If you put that ground-lease business on us and try to drive us out, we'll fight you all the way up to the Supreme court. If you beat us there, we'll merely move over to the other side of your tracks to our old Red Tower houses and yards and go on doing business at the old stand."

The boss sat back in his chair, and I could tell by the set of his jaw that he was refusing to be panic-stricken.

"You are taking altogether too much for granted, aren't you?" he put in mildly. "You are assuming that the courts will eventually nullify the terms of the ground-leases, or, if they do not, that the railroad company will do nothing to save its patrons from falling into this new graft trap."

Hatch snapped his fingers. "Now you are coming to the milk in the coconut!" he rapped out. "That is exactly what we're assuming. You are going to let go, once for all, Norcross. You are not going to fight us in the courts, and neither are you going to harass us out of existence with short cars, over-charges, and the thousand and one petty persecutions that you railroad buccaneers make use of to line your own pockets."

"But if we refuse to lie down and let you walk over us and our patrons—what then?" the boss inquired.

"That brought the explosion. Hatch's eyes blazed and he smacked fist into palm."

"Then we'll knife you, and we'll do it to a velvet finish! After so long a time, we've got you where you can't lie-step, Norcross."

The boss refused to be panic-stricken; or, anyhow, he looked that way.

"We have heard that kind of talk many times in the past," he said. "The way to make it effective is to produce the goods."

"That's just what we're here to do," snapped the Red Tower president vindictively. "You, and the Big Fellows in New York, want a lot of the state railroad laws repealed or amended. If you can't get that string untied, you can't gamble any more with your stock. Well and good. You came here six months ago and set out to manufacture public sentiment in favor of the railroad. You ran up your 'public-be-pleased' flag and beat the tom-tom and blew the hewgag until you got a lot of dolts and chuckle-heads and easy marks to believe that you really meant it."

"Well, go on."

"With all this humbug and hullabaloo you still couldn't be quite certain that you had made your point; that your measures would carry through the incoming legislature. After the primaries you counted noses among the candidates and found it was going to be a tight squeak—a d-d tight squeak. Then you did what you railroad people always do; you slipped out quietly and bought a few men—just to be on the safe side."

"So it was sprung at last. Hatch was accusing us of the one thing that we hadn't done; that the boss knew we hadn't done."

"I'm afraid you'll have to try again, Mr. Hatch," he said, with a sour little smile. Then he added: "Anybody can make charges, you know."

Hatch jumped to his feet and he was almost foaming at the mouth.

"Right there is where we've got you!" he shouted. "You were too cautious to put one of your own men in the field, so you sent outside for your briber. He was a stranger, and he had to have help in finding the right men to buy. Dedmon, here, was out of a job—thanks to you and your meddling—and the steering stunt offered good pay. Do you want any more?"

The boss shook his head.

"It is a matter of complete indifference to me. I don't know in the least what you are talking about, and you'll pardon me, I hope, if I say that it doesn't greatly interest me."

"By heavens—I'll make it interest you! The easy-mark candidates were found and bought and paid for—and maybe they'll stay bought, and maybe they won't. But that isn't the point. For a little more money—my money, this time—each of these men has made an affidavit to the fact that railroad money was offered him. They don't say whether or not they accepted it, mind you, and that doesn't cut any figure. They have sworn that the money was tendered. That lets them out and lets you in. You don't believe it? I'll show you," and Hatch whipped a list of names from his pocket and slapped it upon the boss's desk. "Go to those men and ask them; if you want to carry it that far. They'll tell you."

I could see that the boss barely glanced at the list. The gib story of the bribery was like the bite of a slapping crane-hitch—slow to take hold. So far as we were concerned, of course, the charge fell flat; and upon any other hypothesis it was blankly incredible, unbelievable, absurd.

"The affidavits themselves would be much more convincing." I heard the boss say, "though even then I should wish to have reasonable proof that they were genuine."

Hatch was sitting down again and his grin showed his teeth unpleasantly.

"Do you think for a minute that I'd bring the papers here and trust them in your hands?" he rapped out insultingly. "Not much! But we've got them all right, as you'll find out if you balk and force us to use them."

At this point I could see that something in the persistent assurance of the man was getting under the boss's skin and giving him a cold chill. What if it were not the colossal bluff it had looked like in the beginning? What if... Like a blaze of lightning out of a clear sky a possible explanation hit me under the fifth rib, and I guess it hit the boss at about the same instant. What if President Dunton and the New York stock-jobbers, believing as they did that nothing but legislative favor would give them their trading capital in the depressed stock, had cut in and done this thing without consulting us?

The boss stirred uneasily in his chair and picked up the paper-knife—a little unconscious trick of his when he wanted time to gather himself.

"Perhaps you would be willing to give me the name of this balder, Mr. Hatch?" he said, after a little pause.

"As if you didn't know it!" was the scoffing retort. "There were two of them; one who was hired to do the talking while the real wire-puller stood aside and held the coin bag. We'll skip the hired man." Then he turned to the ex-sheriff: "Write out the name of the bag-holder for him, Dedmon," he commanded, tearing a leaf from his pocket note-book and thrusting it, with a stubby pencil, into Dedmon's hands.

The man from Arrowhead county bent over his knee and wrote a name on the slip of paper, laying the slip on the drawn-out slide of the boss's desk when he had finished the slow penciling. The effect of the thing was all that any plotter could have desired. I saw the boss' face go gray, saw him stare at the slip and heard him say, half to himself, "Howard Collingwood!"

Hatch followed up his advantage promptly. He was afoot and struggling into his overcoat when he said: "You've got what you were after, Norcross, and it has got your goat. We've known all along that you were only bluffing and sparring to gain time. We've nailed you to the cross. You let this deal with Marshall and his people stand as it's made, or we'll show you up for what you are. That's the plain English of it."

"You mean that you will go to the newspapers with this?" said the boss, and it was no wonder that his voice was a bit husky.

"Just that. We'll give you plenty of time to think it over. The joint deal with C. S. & W. goes into effect tomorrow, and it's up to you to sit tight in the boat and let us alone. If you don't—if you butt in with the ground-leases, or in any other way—the story will go to the newspapers and every sucker on the line of the P. S. L. will know how you've been pulling the wool over his eyes with all this guff about 'justice first,' and 'the public be pleased.' You're no fool, Norcross. You know they won't lay it to Dunton and the New Yorkers. You've taken pains to advertise it far and wide, that you are molding this railroad on your own responsibility, and the people are going to take you at your word."

Dedmon, and the lawyer—who hadn't spoken a single word in all the talk—were edging toward the door. The boss didn't make any answer to Hatch's wind-up except to say, "Is that all?"

The other two were out, now, and Hatch turned to stick his ugly jaw out at the boss, and to say, just as if I hadn't been there to look on and hear him:

"No, by Jupiter—it isn't all! In the past six months you've made Gus Henckel and me lose a cold half-million, Norcross. For a less provocation than that, many a man in this neck of woods has been kept back east in the baggage-car, wearing a wooden overcoat. You climb down, and do it while you can stay alive!"

For some time after the three men went away the boss sat staring at the slip of paper on the desk slide. At last he got up, sort of tiredlike, I thought, and said to me: "Jimmie, you go down and see if you can find a taxi, and we'll drive out to Major Kendrick's. I promised him I'd go out to the house, you remember."

When our taxi stopped at the major's gate, somebody was coming out just as we were getting ready to go in. The man had the visor of his big flat golf cap pulled down well over his eyes, but I knew him just the same. It was Collingwood!

This looked like more trouble. What was the president's nephew doing here? I wondered about that, and also, if the boss had recognized Collingwood. If he had, he made no sign, and a moment later I had pushed the bell-push and Malsie Ann was opening the door for us.

BIG BANQUET IS TENDERED SALES FORCE

Jackson & Gutman Co., Salesmen And Officials Hold Annual Affair At Peninsula.

COL. M. A. HUMPHREYS
ACTS AS TOASTMASTER

Addresses Made By F. P. Adkins, W. S. Gordy Jr., Col. A. W. W. Woodcock, A. H. Silverman, J. L. Gutman And Herbert Riffe—All The Salesmen Optimistic.

The annual banquet and "get together" meeting of the sales force, department heads and officials of the Jackson & Gutman Company, which was held Tuesday evening in the Peninsula Hotel, was one of the most enthusiastic gatherings held here in a long time. Former Governor Phillip L. Goldsborough was to have been the principal speaker of the evening, but he was unable to be present owing to illness in the family.

A spirit of optimism as to the generally improved business conditions and the prospects of even better conditions in the immediate future pervaded the whole meeting. The salesmen of the Jackson & Gutman Company, who travel all throughout the United States and are in excellent position to feel the true pulse of business conditions, were unanimously of the opinion that business conditions are getting better all the time.

In fact, all the salesmen said that they felt sanguine about present conditions and that the time now is ripe for excellent business. They expressed the opinion that merchants now have low stocks, and that they will take advantage of the prevailing low prices to fill the gaps in their stocks. In other words, they feel that the pendulum now has swung the other way, and that business is steadily improving.

Col. Humphreys Toastmaster.

Col. Marion A. Humphreys, treasurer of the company, acted as toastmaster at the meeting, and in well chosen remarks touched upon the significance of the gathering. Col. Humphreys paid high tribute to the accomplishment of Mr. A. H. Silverman, general manager of the company, when he alluded to the remarkable growth of the Jackson & Gutman Company under Mr. Silverman's management. During the six years of Mr. Silverman's regime, the company's business, said Col. Humphreys has increased from $250,000 to more than $1,000,000 in the last year.

Mr. Silverman modestly stated that the success of his company was due to the fact that he had received the hearty co-operation of the sales force, office force and officials of the company. (Continued on Page 6.)

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS WILL BE HELD HERE

McCombe-Clase Party Will Conduct Revival Services In First Regt. Armory.

TO START OCTOBER 9 AND LAST FIVE WEEKS

Meetings Will Be Under Direction of Dr. Joseph T. Herson, Pastor Asbury M. E. Church—All Churches In City and County Are Requested To extend Their Co-Operation.

Starting Sunday, October 9, and continuing for five weeks, revival services will be conducted in the First Regiment Armory by the McCombe-Clase evangelistic party under the general direction of Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Herson, pastor of Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church. The meetings, which will be city-wide in their nature, have been sanctioned by the official board of Asbury Church and are expected to prove of vast spiritual benefit to the entire community.

Rev. J. H. McCombe, D. D., who is a Presbyterian minister and who is reported as being one of the greatest evangelists in the country today, will preach at each of the revival services. In the evangelistic party are Harold D. Clase, chorus director and soloist, Arthur L. Roberts, pianist and secretary, and Mrs. Arthur L. Roberts, women's worker and soloist. The McCombe-Clase party at present is in Marion, Iowa, where it is said to be exerting a wonderful influence for good.

Co-Operation Requested. Services will be held in the Armory here every evening during the five-week campaign, except on Mondays, with special afternoon meetings interspersed. On Sunday there will be services in the morning, afternoon and evening.

In requesting the co-operation of all the city and county churches in helping to make the revival meetings a big success, Dr. Herson said:

"We are anxious to have the support of all the churches in the city and in Wicomico county in so far as it will not interfere with the services of any church. Our one object in holding these meetings is to bring spiritual blessing to the city of Salisbury. There will be no particular effort made to advance the interests of Asbury Church as opposed to the interests of every other church.

"We believe that the best interests of the Kingdom of God," continued Dr. Herson, "are greater than the interests of any one denomination or of any particular church. This is the spirit with which we enter this work, and this is the spirit which will characterize every service. Therefore, we earnestly ask the support of all the churches of this city and also those of Wicomico county."

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION ON SEPT. 21

G. O. P. Party In Wicomico Will Hold Open Convention In Armory Wed. Morning.

TO SELECT NOMINEES FOR COUNTY OFFICES

Convention Will Start At 10 A. M. and Women Are Eligible To Participate—All Republicans in County Have Been Invited To Attend and Vote—Interest in Clerkship Nomination.

An open convention of the Republican party in Wicomico county will be held at 10 A. M. Wednesday, September 21, in the First Regiment Armory, this city, at which time candidates for Clerk of Court, House of Delegates, County Commissioners, Sheriff, Register of Wills and Surveyor will be nominated.

The State Central Committee in calling this convention, has emphasized the fact that it is to be open to all Republicans in the county, and that women are as eligible to attend as men.

Under the law the State Central Committee has the right to make the nominations, but in the interest of securing wider co-operation it was stated that it will accept as conclusive the recommendations of the County Convention. Thus, in effect, an old-fashioned nominating convention will be held, with the exception that any Republican in the county may attend and vote. The committee has thus done all within its power to make the nominees actually the choices of the people.

To Sound Campaign Key-Note.

It is expected that in his opening address the chairman will sound the key-note of the party's aims and hopes. It is also believed that he will emphasize the claim of the Republican party to stand for economy and efficiency and to nominate men whom all the voters, irrespective of party, may take pride in supporting.

Particular interest will center in the party's nomination for Clerk of the Circuit Court. Dr. Samuel A. Graham, Mr. R. Harry Phillips, Mr. Alan Benjamin and Mr. Harry C. Adkins have been mentioned as possible candidates for clerk.

MONEY LACKING FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENTS

County Commissioners Already Have Used The $35,000 Appropriated In This Year's Levy.

Due to the fact that the appropriation of $35,000 for road improvements made in the last levy of the County Commissioners already has been used up, the Commissioners are facing a situation where further improvements to county roads will be automatically curtailed unless some other ways and means are found to meet existing conditions.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Commissioners, the board was compelled to refuse the request of Superintendent James M. Bennett, of the county schools, for money with which to purchase a new portable school house, said request having been refused because of a lack of funds.

Mr. Bennett stated that owing to the over-crowded condition of the primary schools in Salisbury, it would be necessary for him to either put on half-day sessions for the primary pupils or else purchase a portable school house to cope with the situation.

A delegation from Melson's appeared before the board Tuesday and requested that improvements be made to the dirt roads in that section, while a request also came from Mardela for street improvements in the latter town.

CIRCUIT COURT WAS CONVENE HERE MONDAY

September Term Started Monday Morning With 83 Cases On Trial Docket.

MURRILL-CULVER CASE
REMOVED TO SOMERSET

$15,000 Suit For Alienation of Affections Will Be Tried In Princess Anne At Approaching Session of Court—Chief Judge Pattison and Judges Bailey and Duer Presiding.

The September term of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county was convened here at 10 o'clock Monday morning with Chief Judge John R. Pattison, Judge Robert F. Duer and Judge Joseph L. Bailey presiding.

The first business of the present session was the selection of the Grand Jurors to make investigation of the criminal charges brought before them by States Attorney Curtis W. Long. After the Grand Jury was chosen, Judge Duer delivered the charge to its members, and the jurors then withdrew to their room to transact their business.

The following names were drawn to compose the Grand Jury:

Ralph H. Grier, foreman; John S. Adkinson, Henry J. Parker, R. Clifford Cooper, Clifford E. Gillis, Chas. S. Cooper, Watson D. Mitchell, Joshua H. Downs, Job W. Hastings, John R. Powell, John H. Shockley, J. M. Inley, Wallace H. White, Gordon G. Banks, George H. Shockley, John C. Rayne, John G. Matthews, A. Sidney Hearn, J. Wm. Freeny, Greensbury W. Waller, Harvey Sprague, Wm. T. Vincent and William J. Nichols.

Murrill-Culver Case Removed.

The calling of the docket disclosed that there were 83 trial cases and 39 appearances for this term of court. Many of these cases, however, will probably be continued.

At the time of going to press the Grand Jury had not completed its work, but it is believed that the number of criminal cases to come before the court this term will be comparatively small.

On Tuesday morning the case of Joseph B. Andrews and S. Elwood Andrews, trading as J. B. Andrews & Company, versus J. Roe Shockley, which suit involved an overpayment for tomatoes, was tried and a verdict of $240 rendered in favor of the plaintiff.

The Murrill-Culver $15,000 suit for alienation of affections, which was expected to prove one of the most bitterly contested cases of the entire September term, has been removed to Somerset county and will be tried at the approaching term of court in that county.

TO DECIDE ON BASEBALL FOR COMING YEAR

Meeting Of "Fans" Will Be Held Tonight (Thursday) In The Chamber Commerce Rooms.

ALL THE "FANS" ARE REQUESTED TO ATTEND

Will Decide Whether Salisbury Should Have a Team Next Year and Whether Sentiment Is Favorable To Organizing a League—Mr. Henry W. Ruark Will Preside At Meeting.

In order to determine whether the local fans want a fast-playing baseball aggregation next year, and whether sentiment in this section is strongly in favor of playing ball next season under the rules of organized baseball, a general meeting of all the baseball enthusiasts will be held tonight (Thursday) at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, at which time the whole situation will be thoroughly discussed.

Mr. Henry W. Ruark and several other prominent supporters of baseball in Salisbury have issued the call for the meeting, and it is hoped that every fan who is at all interested in the great national outdoor sport will be on hand for the occasion.

In explaining the main objects of the meeting, Mr. Ruark said that four cardinal points would be discussed: (1) An effort will be made to find out whether the fans really want a team for next year; (2) if the first question is decided in the affirmative, plans of financing same will be formulated; (3) to decide whether the fans want to play independent ball or are favorable to the formation of a Class D League; (4) to decide about arrangements for a ball park.

Sounding Out The Fans.

"If the people in Salisbury really want a team for next year," said Mr. Ruark, "I believe that one can be easily financed. We want to find out, however, just how much in earnest the fans are about having a good team for next year and whether they are favorable to Salisbury joining in the formation of a league."

CHAUTAUQUAS OVERCHARGED BY RAILROADS

Claim Is Made That American R.
R.'s Place A Discriminatory Burden By Unjust Rates.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION PETITIONED

Relief From That Source Is Sought—Are Classified As Theatrical Companies—Forced to Pay Thousands of Dollars Annually Excessively—May Increase Cost of Chautauquas.

Almost coincident with the advent of Chautauqua came news from Washington which is of the greatest interest to those who have championed the cause of this splendid enterprise, and who look forward to many more annual visits. The news is to the effect that the Chautauqua associations have petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for relief from what seems like a discriminatory burden that is now placed upon them by the Pennsylvania Railroad and other American railroads.

Facts behind the appeal reveal that the railroads, while pleading for public support, justifying their very high passenger and freight rates and from time to time asking the Government to aid them with the people's money, are overcharging one of their staunchest and most profitable patrons—Chautauqua. This overcharge amounts to such a sum in the aggregate that there is a serious question if Chautauqua can continue giving its present high class service at the prices charged.

Classed As Theatrical Co's.
In railroad tariff schedules, Chautauqua is classed with theatrical companies. These schedules are to the effect that when a company consists of 25 or more persons, traveling with their baggage, the baggage shall be carried free. As nearly all organizations other than Chautauquas number at least that many, they enjoy this free service. If, however, there are fewer than 25, the railroads charge thirty-six cents a mile for baggage transportation.

The nature of Chautauqua's service is such that while more than sixty entertainers appear in a town during the Chautauqua week, they are separated into five to seven groups, giving a wide variety of entertainment in a daily change of attraction; the equipment, however, remains for the full course, and is always shipped ahead of the first group. The Chautauqua forces for a town season, therefore, number at least two and a half times the minimum theatrical number, requires baggage service virtually only once a week as against a theatrical company's daily demands, and yet pays thirty-six cents a mile for baggage transportation while the daily service is given the theatrical folk without cost.

Objects To Excess Fares.

Chautauqua, however, is willing to accept this condition. What is vigorously objected to is the fact that in addition to this charge, the railroads demand that it purchase ten passenger tickets with each paid shipment of baggage, in spite of the fact that this is many more than the number of persons who travel in charge of the equipment. It pertinently asks why this discrimination? Why should it be forced to pay out thousands of dollars each season for transportation in excess of its already extensive needs?

Canadian railroads treat all alike and do not make this unjust demand. In this country the Pennsylvania and Southern Railways admit the injustice and have endeavored to abolish it, but have been blocked by the refusal of other railroads to do away with the gouge.

A wide-spread demand of the public upon the railroads reaching towns in which Chautauqua seasons are held to abolish this unjust charge, if effective, as it undoubtedly will be, will insure a continuance of the annual Chautauquas without increase in cost and with standard of attractions unimpaired.

ODD FELLOWS WILL GATHER IN TORONTO

About 800 From Md. Lodges Will Attend 79th Annual Convention of Sovereign Grand Lodge.

Delegates from the Grand Lodge of Maryland, James W. Chapman, Jr., and William A. Jones, together with Grand Encampment representatives Philip J. Bernstein and Nathan Billstein, will attend the ninety-seventh annual convention of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, Independent Order of Odd Fellows which will convene at Toronto, Canada, September 19 to 23. About 800 Maryland Odd Fellows and Rebekahs will accompany them.

Sessions will be held twice daily, and every branch of the order will be represented. Visitors will come from every part of the United States, from Canada, Porto Rico, Japan, Norway, Sweden, Australia, and other countries. Grand Sire Joseph Oliver, of Toronto, will preside over the convention.

An elaborate entertainment program has been arranged for the enjoyment of the visitors to the Canadian city, and will begin on Saturday, September 17, with a reception at the King Edward Hotel. Other features will include a public meeting in the Parliament Building, when Government officials and others will make addresses; Grand Decoration of Chivalry will be conferred by General George M. Hermiston, general commanding, Patriarchs Militant, and staff, followed by a military ball, and as a special attraction the 48th Highlanders Band will give a concert and athletic exhibitions.

On Wednesday, September 21, the big parade will be staged, and it is expected that over 50,000 will be in line, and that the floats and other innovations will spruce in beauty and elegance any previous parade. Many attractive prizes have been offered for the largest unit, the best appearance, most beautiful float, etc. These awards aggregate over $4,000.00 in cash, besides many handsome trophies.

Among the important propositions to be submitted to the convention, is the report of the building commission, which will be of especial interest to Maryland's representatives and to Odd Fellows in this State. This commission will present plans and specifications for the purchase and erection of a million-dollar headquarters building for the Sovereign Grand Lodge in Baltimore, the birthplace of the order over 192 years ago, to be used exclusively for that body. It is anticipated that work will begin on this beautiful structure just as soon as the recommendations and other necessary action is approved by the convention.

Grand Secretary J. Edward Kroh, Baltimore, who will submit his annual report, states that Odd Fellowship has closed one of the greatest years of progress in all its long history, and that the membership has increased 175,000, bringing the total number in the Sovereign body up to 3,000,000. The report will also show that there are 56 Odd Fellows Homes in 42 jurisdictions, and that funds have been raised for the erection of 11 more, including one at Frederick, Md., and that many new temples have been built, and thousands of dollars expended for relief and benefits to members and their families.

From far-off Australia, representative William Lucas, Grand Sire of that jurisdiction, who was in Baltimore during the past week, will tell some interesting facts concerning the progress of Odd Fellowship in that country.

Ford Announcement

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, makes the following announcement:

"We are making another reduction in the prices of Ford cars and the Ford truck, effective today. The new prices average $70.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit, are now as follows:

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On Sept. 22, 1920, the price of the Ford touring car was reduced from $275 to $240; June 17th to $215, and now to $205, making total reductions in this type of $70, or 25 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford sedan was $275; today it lists at $205 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of every known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one big thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices, and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,096. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total for the four months being 463,074, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June, this year, with an output of 117,247 was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for salemen. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a very good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson Tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices! See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without one any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

ELKS AND FIREMEN TO MEET ON DIAMOND

Will Play Series Of Three Games, Starting Today—Proceeds For Benefit New Ball Park.

Salisbury is to have a baseball series this week that should be replete with plenty of excitement from start to finish, and it will be a series that is deserving of the patronage of all the baseball "fans" owing to the fact that the proceeds taken in at the box office will be applied toward the purchase of a baseball park.

The series in question will start at Gord's Park this afternoon (Thursday) and will be played between teams representing the Salisbury Elks and the Salisbury Firemen. Games also will be played Friday and Saturday. Each of the games is scheduled to start promptly at 3.30 P. M., so you'd better go early if you want to get a seat and see the boys cavort around the diamond.

Both teams are well fortified in the pitching department and the rival hurlers expect to make the long remembered twirling of the renowned "Matty" look tame by comparison. "Babe" Ruth, too, had better look to his home run laurels, as the boys have been taking the measure of the fences and are prepared to do a little fence-bustin' on their own account.

Manager R. Fulton Waller, of the Elks team, and Manager E. R. Disharoon, of the Firemen nine, have announced their respective line-ups for the three battles as follows:

Elks—Belvin Turner, 1b; Clarke Truitt, 2b; Bill Feldman, ss; Walter Disharoon and Roland Taylor, 3b; Claude Nock, r.f.; Bill Ward, c.f.; Sam Adkins, l.f.; Lay Phillips and Bill Lowe, c; Dr. Burris, Jim Elliott, George Ellegood and Percy Dashiell, pitchers.

FIREMEN—Emmons Gray, ss; O. H. Grier, l.f.; Vaughn Gray, 3b; L. E. Todd, c; W. B. Disharoon, 1b; W. Dixon, 2b and p; Ted Purnell, c.f.; H. Richardson, 2b and c.f.; "Red" Ingersoll, r.f. and p; Lindwood Ingersoll, utility.

"CLEAN UP" SQUAD ARRIVED TUESDAY

Will Hear War Claims For Compensation From Former Service Men—Headquarters in Armory.

The "clean up" squad operating under the direction of the Veterans' Bureau and the United States Public Health Service arrived in Salisbury Tuesday afternoon and immediately opened headquarters in the First Regiment Armory. The squad is making a flying trip throughout Maryland in order to hear claims for compensation from former service men who have thus far been unable to have their claims settled by the War Risk Bureau.

The squad that came to Salisbury is composed of the following: Louis M. Kines, publicity director; Capt. Charles E. Hummel, chairman; Dr. Fred Clarke, medical examiner; Chas. H. Thompson, rehabilitation, and J. W. Strong, of New York, representing Washington headquarters American Red Cross.

A public meeting was held in the Armory Tuesday evening, and Captain Hummel talked about the purpose of the work. He stated that it is the desire of Washington officials that when this clean-up squad has passed through this section there will not be one disabled veteran whose claim has not been filed or properly handled. The squad was kept busy here all day Wednesday and its members will continue hearing claims right up to the time of their departure, which is scheduled for this evening.

Mr. Kines stated that everyone who knows of any disabled veteran, male or female, who gave his or her services during the late war, who has not received proper consideration for compensation, has allowed his or her insurance to lapse, who may desire and be entitled to vocational training or be in need of medical or hospital treatment, should send these names into headquarters, and immediate action will be taken.

It has been specifically requested that the co-operation of the civic and military organizations be extended members of the "clean up" squad in unearthing claims that may not have been properly handled, as it is felt that the best results will not be obtained unless such co-operation is given.

ADVANTAGES OF ORGANIZED BASEBALL.

Last week's series of games between Princess Anne, representing the Eastern Shore, and Frederick, the Blue Ridge League pennant winner, was an excellent demonstration of the superiority of organized baseball over the independent, unorganized variety. It was a concrete illustration of what we have repeatedly set forth in these columns from time to time since the latter part of April—that organized baseball brings to a town a higher class of ball, intensively played, and that, with the players under absolute control of the team's management and the league officials, the sport is elevated to the highest possible plane.

The series was played under the rules of organized baseball, and the players were forewarned that disputing decisions of the "umps" would result in fines and banishment from the field of play. And it is noteworthy that in none of the games played between the two teams was there any dickering over the umpires' decisions. All of the contests were played in a thoroughly sportsmanlike manner and the superiority of Frederick was clean-cut and decisive.

In view of the fact that constantly recurring disputes on the field of play were so much in evidence on the Shore during the baseball season just ended, it was really refreshing to see games run off with clock-like precision, efficiently umpired and with obnoxious dickering eliminated. That is the kind of baseball the "fans" on the Shore want all throughout the season, and it can be had through the very simple process of organizing a Class D League in this section for next year.

The Frederick team is a well balanced ball club from the top to the bottom of its roster; it played high-class, "inside" baseball throughout the whole series and gave the spectators the impression of being a nicely constructed piece of baseball machinery, with all its parts in excellent working order, and its gears perfectly attuned.

Despite all this perfection, the salary list of the whole Frederick club was fifty per cent. less than that of any one of the six leading independent baseball clubs on the Eastern Shore this season! Surely that should be much food for thought.

On the Shore, the weekly salary lists of the clubs is said to have ranged anywhere from $600 to nearly $1,000, while the salary limit in the Blue Ridge League is $2,000 per month! In other words, by playing organized baseball, which imposes a salary limit on all clubs comprising the league, a city gets a much higher and a much better brand of baseball at cheaper price.

In a league the players are kept under absolute control, more intensive team-play is developed and the spectators receive a "better run for their money." Let's do the thing right and organize a Class D League on the Shore for next year.

COUNTY-WIDE SOIL TESTING CAMPAIGN.

The lime soil-testing campaign which will be started in Wicomico county next week under the supervision of County Agent George R. Cobb undoubtedly will commend itself to all owners of farm land in the county. The work mapped out by Mr. Cobb will be of a scale never before attempted in Wicomico, and when completed it is expected that the results accomplished will be of great advantage not only to present owners of farm lands but also will be of vast benefit to those who later on may desire to purchase farms in this section.

Heretofore, the soil-testing campaigns that have been conducted in the county have been of such nature that tests have been made only in those cases where the owners of farm lands themselves brought samples of their soils to the county agent, or sent them to the government chemists for analysis, and in many such instances only a comparatively small number of samples were received. These tests, therefore, while valuable and of immense benefit to the land owners having them made, and for the county agent's own information, have been so limited in numbers that a county-wide survey was decided upon as being the best means of getting an accurate estimate of the lime needs of each and every piece of soil in the county.

By taking samples of soil from almost every farm in the county, and later analyzing the soil taken from each, thereby determining exactly the lime requirements of each particular parcel or parcels of land, a great stride forward will have been made toward helping improve soil conditions throughout the entire county. When it is known exactly what amount of lime should be added to an acid soil, or whether none at all is required—in fact, when all the facts about the soil of each particular section have been learned and recorded—the knowledge thus gained should prove to be of immense value to the land owners.

Another important feature of next week's campaign will be the systematic and thorough charting of the results of all the soil tests made. When this work is completed, it will be possible for the county agent, for the land owners or for a prospective purchaser of farm lands to simply refer to the chart and find out the exact nature of the soil of any farming section of the county. With such information at hand, the benefits to everyone concerned should be far-reaching in their results.

County Agent Cobb has received promises of assistance from several sources in conducting his soil-testing campaign, and it is hoped that every land-owner will co-operate with him to the fullest extent in making it a big success.

FAITH IN THE PRESENT.

The building activity which Salisbury is now engaged in, and which will be greatly increased within a short space of time, is indeed a most welcome sign. Almost on every hand in this city, one sees new buildings in the course of erection which, when completed, will be a great credit to the community, while one also hears of plans formulated and contracts let for the construction of other fine buildings and homes in our midst.

With contracts already under way for nearly a half million of dollars worth of building construction work, and with credible reports in the offing as to other contracts that will soon be awarded, purveyors of Pessimism, Stand-Patism and all the other "isms" would do well to take careful stock of themselves. And while they are taking stock, we would advise them to either "put on a new record" or else to inject a little better harmony into their wallings.

The forward-looking, the men who not only believe in the future but who also are convinced that the present affords ample opportunities for brisk business action, are the men who are winning out today—they are the men who are making the wheels of commerce and industry buzz, the men who are putting the "pep" in the business atmosphere and who are being well repaid for their optimistic efforts.

They are mightily interested in reading a story a few days ago about the business man who kept sitting on his haunches waiting for things to get "just right." With him, "just right" meant having business handed to him on a silver platter. He had grown so accustomed to the flush periods of war days that he could not reconcile himself to getting back on his feet and to going after the business with all his heart, soul and energy applied to the task. Needless to say, he is still waiting for his "just right" conditions, and the chances are a million to one that unless he has an awakening he'll go to his grave with his "just right" desire unfulfilled.

Except in extraordinary times, the man who gets the business is the man who goes after it, and goes after it hard. It is the worker—the consistent plunger, the doer—who accomplishes things in business as well as in other lines. The business world today has no room for the Pessimist, for the shirker, for the man who waits until conditions are "just right." Such conditions, as a matter of fact, are more a state of mind than anything else—and when we have all attuned our minds to the key of Optimism, we'll find that "just right" conditions were always surrounding us. We will find that we merely failed to discern them; that's all.

As we said before, the hustling signs of business enterprise all around us, as denoted by the building campaign now under way, shows that there are plenty of Optimists in Salisbury. May the good work go on and the number of local Optimists found to be daily increasing.

Uncle John's Poem

BABY-FACES

I love the baby-faces
 That I see most every day,
 As I trudge along, half-hearted
 In my narrow, stubborn way;
 When the world seems cold and selfish,
 With a cloud in every place,—
 O, it turns my soul to sunshine
 When I meet a baby face.

When I spy the little go-cart
 And the darling that it bears,
 The glimpse I catch in passing Softens down the sternest cares;
 Yes, that ugly frown relaxes,
 And a smile will take its place,
 At the magic intervention
 Of a happy baby's face.

I love each little wanderer
 More than he can ever know,
 For he recalls a baby-face
 That cheered me, long ago...
 I recall the childish prattle
 As he perched upon my knee,—
 But shucks! he's over thirty now,
 An' thinks he's bigger'n me!!

For Uncle John.

EDITORS TO MEET IN EASTON SEPT. 26 AND 27

Big Celebration Planned For Joint Meeting of Delmarvia and Md. Press Associations.

President John E. Raine, of the Maryland Press Association, and S. E. Shannahan, president of the Delmar-Via Press Association, have issued calls to their respective associations to meet in Easton on September 26 and 27. Besides the members of the two associations, nearly a hundred strong, Governor Ritchie and Governor Denny, of Delaware, will also be guests of the associations, and Governor Westmoreland Davis, of Virginia, is expected.

Definite program of the joint meeting is now being mapped out. It will include pleasure and business. The visitors are expected to arrive early on the 26th and in the afternoon a visit will be paid to the Furniture Factory, at the invitation of the company, and the wonders of this great plant shown. During the afternoon the visitors will be taken to the Old Friends Meeting House, and then to one or two of the larger country houses of historic interest.

In the evening the Easton Publishing company will tender a dinner to the governors and editors, probably at the Country Club, at which time addresses will be made by the governors and a number of the editors. After the dinner Manager Plummer will run a special movie show for them, beginning about 10.30 o'clock. The morning of the 27th will be devoted to a business session, until 11 o'clock, when the visitors will be taken to Easton Point for a trip to the mouth of the Choptank, returning for an oyster roast at the Valliant plant at Bellevue. Another business session in the afternoon will be followed by adjournment.

This program is subject to amendment. The Easton Rotary Club has promised its hearty support and will provide cars for the editors to visit various points. A number of prominent business houses here are interested in the forthcoming meeting.—Easton Star-Democrat.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION.

To The Voters In The Recent Primaries:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—Please permit me to thus extend my deep gratitude to each and every one of you, who so kindly supported me in last Friday's Primaries. I hold no malice against anyone who may have worked or voted against me, but, to the contrary, I feel that the purpose of our present Primary Election Law would fail, if the voters did not have the courage of their convictions and vote for the candidates of their choice. If elected in November, it will be my pleasure to conduct the affairs of the Clerk's Office in the interest of all the people of Wicomico County.

It now becomes the duty of every Democratic voter, who has an interest in the future of the Democratic Party of this county, to get behind every candidate nominated and roll up an old-time majority in November for each and every one of them.

Again thanking you, I beg to remain,

Yours for success,
 J. CLAYTON KELLY.

MARDELA SPRINGS

Trying to coerce women into voting as their husbands vote won't work in our section. We have already told the incident of the man who said that if his wife does not vote as he does, there will be a divorce applied for.

She did the fair thing when she reminded him that before he married her, he had plenty of rope, but now since the marriage tie has been made, the rope for him is to that extent shortened. It is all well, should the husband and wife see alike in politics, to both vote alike, but if they do not, then what?

Those who are talking so glibly about the repeal of the Prohibition Amendment should recall the fact that now the women are voters and as they have been the chief sufferers from the drink custom, never would they permit the saloon to come back again.

On Monday morning of last week, Mr. John Dougherty stepped upon a nail and ran it through the sole of his shoe and quite a distance into his foot. In his effort to balance himself, he struck the shin of the other leg and this made two very painful wounds.

ACTIVITIES OF THE LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

Moving Pictures Will Be Shown At "Y" Building on Saturday Nights Instead of on Fridays.

Announcement has been made by Mr. R. W. Hammerslough, secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, that in the future the weekly moving picture entertainments of the "Y" will be held on Saturday nights instead of on Fridays, as in the past. This change will be put into effect, it was stated, this Saturday night.

The change has been made owing to the fact that the Friday night program might consist of "gym" classes for the business men, it being felt that the business men would attend the classes in larger numbers on Friday evenings than they would be able to do on Saturdays.

A good turn-out was on hand when the "gym" classes were started this week, and every indication points to a most successful year in this respect.

The regular September meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. was held last Friday at 6 P. M., in the Association Building, at which time Secretary Hammerslough rendered his report for the month of August, which set forth in detail the numerous activities that the "Y" is engaged in.

About 125 persons attended the noon-day shop meeting held last Friday at the plant of the Jackson & Gutman Company.

Rev. W. P. Taylor addressed the Tuesday noon-day meeting at the plant of the E. S. Adkins & Company and will also address next Friday's meeting at the Jackson & Gutman Co. plant. The speaker for next week's meetings will be Dr. Joseph T. Herson.

Beginning next week, Mr. William Boggs, physical director of the "Y," will go to the plants of the Adkins and Jackson & Gutman Companies and personally direct the athletic activities of the employees.

Big Banquet Is Tendered Sales Force

pany, and that the fine manufacturing facilities afforded by the improved machinery, which had been installed by Senator W. P. Jackson, were in great measure responsible for the company's forging ahead.

Mr. Fred P. Adkins, president of the Salisbury Chamber of Commerce, delivered an interesting talk, setting forth in glowing terms the advantages of Salisbury as a city in which to live and work. Mr. W. S. Gordy Jr., Democratic nominee for the Comptrollership of Maryland, and Col. A. W. W. Woodcock, Assistant Attorney General of Maryland, also delivered appropriate addresses.

Mr. Gutman Delivers Talk.

Mr. J. L. Gutman, of New York City, vice-president of the company, who is considered to be the dean of shirt salesmen in the United States, delivered an enthusiastic talk about selling and business conditions in general.

The manufacturing end of the company's business was discussed by Mr. Herbert Riffe, superintendent of the company, who aroused a lot of enthusiasm among his hearers by his straight-to-the-point remarks.

The banquet room was prettily decorated with American flags, potted plants and flowers, and a most delectable dinner was served by the proprietors of the Peninsula Cafe.

Those present at the banquet were: W. S. Gordy Jr., Fred P. Adkins, Col. A. W. W. Woodcock, Col. Marion A. Humphreys, A. H. Silverman, R. Harry Phillips, H. A. Silverman, J. C. Mellott, Thos. Howard, Wilbur Smith, Herbert Riffe, Salisbury; Wilbur Turner, David L. Turner, Nanticoke; J. L. Gutman, New York; Sidney Gottlieb, Chicago; Thos. Smith, Philadelphia; J. N. Hillier, Boston; O. P. RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT LEVIN E. WILLIAMS

REPORT COMMEMORATIVE OF the death of Mr. Levin Ernest Williams. Born January 12th, 1854. Died August 19th, 1921, 67 years of age.

The Board of Directors of the Salisbury Building, Loan and Banking Association at a meeting held August 26th, 1921, all present gave expression of their profound regret of the death of our Treasurer, Mr. L. E. Williams.

Mr. Williams was treasurer of the association for thirty (34) four years. As Treasurer of the association he revealed those traits of probity, integrity and honest worth that made his service of high value.

All his duties he fulfilled with fidelity, courtesy and consideration. He gave himself to the association with a fine spirit of loyalty and devotion.

As a Board we desire to express our sense of loss. In our fellowship of service he will be missed. We would not murmur at this dispensation of our dear heavenly Father, for we feel our loss is his gain, and rejoice in the belief that, whilst absent from us in body, he is present in spirit.

We know, "When the sun goes below the horizon, he is not set; the heavens glow for a full hour after his departure. And when a great and good man sets, the sky of this world is luminous long after he is out of sight. Such a man cannot die out of this world. When he goes he leaves behind much of himself. Being dead he speaks."

To the family we extend our sincere sympathy, believing that from abiding sources of hope their hearts will be comforted.

These resolutions shall have a place on the minute book of the Board and a copy sent to the family.

Committee,
Louis W. Gunby,
Chairman.

The Masonic Lodge met on last Wednesday night for its first meeting this fall. There is a proposition on hand, so it is said, to start a new factory here for the manufacture of "Pep." And when it gets to running well, to give a course of treatment of this excellent remedy to all of the inactive members and mere hangers-on in all the lodges. Some of the preachers have bespoken a plentiful supply of this invigorating remedy to be used in their congregations. In fact, we all need a dose of it. It is claimed to be a specific for many of the ailments of the human body.

The farmers about this section are just about through with their fodder saving. The corn is unusually fine this year. It has been too dry in which to sow the fall seeds. This will make it very late, unless rain comes soon.

One of the first things we heard after the returns were all in from primary election on Friday was: "I told you so." It occurred to the writer, what is the use of going to the expense of an election, if you always have persons around who can tell beforehand how they are going to turn out. If they could only tell the weather as well as they think they can tell the result of elections, the Government has a job for them. It is hard enough, after an election, to tell with absolute certainty who was elected, that we are not willing to be too dogmatic before the election takes place.

Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Lowe entertained on Sunday, E. L. Venables and family, J. T. Hopkins and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Larmore, Mrs. L. W. Bennett and children and Mr. Lee Riggan and family.

SOIL TESTING CAMPAIGN FOR LIME PLANNED

County Agent Cobb Will Take Samples Of Soil In All Parts Of Wicomico.

CO-OPERATION OF THE FARMERS IS REQUESTED

Campaign Will Start Monday, Sept.
19, And Will Be County-wide—Results Will Show Exact Lime Requirements Of Every Farm Section —Chart Will Be Prepared Later.

Plans have been formulated by County Agent Cobb for making a thorough lime soil-testing campaign in Wicomico county starting next Monday, September 19, and lasting for several days. Soil tests will be made to determine the amount of lime needed for each particular farming section of the county, and the campaign will be county-wide in scope.

Letters already have been mailed by Mr. Cobb to about 1500 farmers in which the objects of the campaign are set forth and in which the hearty co-operation of the farmers is requested.

The Farmers & Planters Company and the Tillman Lime Company will extend their co-operation to the county agent in making the soil tests, each company having agreed to furnish men who will assist in taking the samples.

Tests To Be County-Wide.

Mr. Cobb stated yesterday that samples of soil will be taken on an average of every half mile along the roads of the county, and that if any man's farm is inadvertently missed, in order that he may have his soil tested, he can bring the sample to a store that will be later designated and the test will be made for him. Arrangements will be made with the owners of various stores all throughout the county for taking care of such samples.

This will be the first time that a county-wide lime soil-testing campaign has ever been conducted in Wi-comico county, or, for that matter, in the entire State. The Soils Department heretofore has set aside soil-testing days, but upon such occasions the samples have been taken by the farmers and brought to the county agent. This time, however, the county agent will go after the samples, and will do the job thoroughly from one end of the county to the other.

When the Government map of the county is completed, a chart will be made up showing the various types of county soils and then particular lime requirements. The finished map, which will be a combination of government and county work, will not only show the types of soil, etc., but will also show the crops grown for the last three years. Such a map, it is believed, will be invaluable to all persons.

Hen "Vamps" Three Kittens.

Columbia, Pa.—John Arnold, of Fawn township, York county, is the owner of a Plymouth Rock hen which is doing its best to entice away the three kittens of a Maltese cat. The cat looks on with unconcern, however, when "Biddy" struts around with the three kittens tagging after her. Except at nursing time the hen seems to have them weaned away from the mother, covering them at night with her wings. When the hen from a high point sees the kittens cannot follow her she will flutter back to the ground. She fails to tempt the kittens with a worm, but her affections are not weakened by their refusal to accept the tid bit.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of The Farmers & Merchants Bank, the following Resolutions were adopted:

It has become the mournful duty of the Directors of the Farmers & Merchants Bank of Salisbury, Maryland, to bear testimony to the merit and worth of one of our fellow members, Mr. Levin Ernest Williams, who departed this life on Sunday, August 21st, 1921.
At the time of the reorganization of this bank, March 6th, 1904, Mr. Williams became a Director, was immediately elected President, and has been continuously elected ever since.
During all these years he has given careful attention to the affairs of the bank. Being cautious and conservative in his habits of thought and conduct, these qualities made him helpful to the Cashier, as well as to the members of the Board of Directors, in the conduct of its affairs.

During his administration as President, he has seen this bank grow from a financial institution of $25,000.00 capital stock, to become one of the most successful and influential members of the banking fraternity with a capital of $100,000.00 and surplus of $100,- 000.00.

In business affairs Mr. Williams succeeded his father, John D. Williams, in the lumber business, and built up a safe and lucrative trade.

As a citizen, he was recognized as one of the leading and trustworthy residents of the county and town. While we deplore the loss of his fellowship and council, we also wish to express our sincere sympathy for his bereaved family.

It is, therefore, resolved that this memorial be spread upon the minutes of the bank and that an engraved copy, properly bound, be presented to the family as a token of the high regard and esteem in which we hold our esteemed and beloved brother.

JAMES E. ELLEGOOD,
L. W. GURBY,
SAMUEL A. GRAHAM,
Committee.

The Origin of Style—

CLOTHING was first worn for protection against the weather. Later, as men became more civilized, costumes began to reflect the thought and character of the people who wore them.

Thus the stern garb of the soldier, the gay tunic of the minstrel, the fantastic robe of the courtier—each came to express the personality of the wearer.

The young men of to-day demand in their clothing the alert clean-cut spirit of the times.

Designed and tailored in New York, Cortley

BALTIMORE COUNTY NEWSPAPER PRAISES ABILITY OF W. S. GORDY JR.

The Jeffersonian, Published At Towson, Sets Forth In Glowing Terms Its Estimate Of The Democratic Candidate For State Comptroller—Says Baltimore County Will Roll Up Big Majority For Him.

The following article, which strongly endorses the candidacy of Mr. William S. Gordy, Jr., for Comptroller of Maryland, appeared on the front page of The Jeffersonian, Towson, Md., in its issue of September 10:

"After the election of a Republican President, the Republicans in this state flushed with victory and hungry for the offices (State as well as national), usually put up a pretty stiff fight at the next succeeding election. This is naturally expected this year, and months ago the Democratic leaders of the State began looking around for a candidate for State Comptroller. That being the only candidate to be nominated on the State ticket.

"The whole State was carefully canvassed and many excellent men were found possessing all the necessary qualifications for the office, but in this election it was deemed advisable to find a candidate not only sound in his Democracy but a man of affairs, who would make a sacrifice in accepting the office for the good of his party and his State.

His Integrity Unimpeachable.

"A man whose standing for ability, integrity and fair dealing with his fellow man would appeal to every citizen male or female, rich or poor, capitalist or laborer within the State. Wicomico county claimed to have just such a citizen and they presented William S. Gordy, Jr., banker, farmer and man of affairs, of the prosperous city of Salisbury, frequently called the metropolis of the Eastern Shore and it did not take long to determine that the ideal candidate was found possessing the qualities and standing to lead the Democrats to victory. For 'Will' Gordy (that's what they call him on the Eastern Shore) is a man of the people and will appeal to them all over the State. We have visited Mr. Gordy's home town and interviewed the people of all classes about him and are therefore able to give a truthful estimate of the man as he is known by his people, at first hand. Mr. Gordy is cashier of the Salisbury National Bank, one of the strongest banking institutions on the Eastern Shore. He has been connected with the bank for twenty-five years and its wonderful success has been largely due to his effort. This bank with a capital stock of $100,000 has a surplus of $185,000, a very remarkable showing. Truly his successful experience as a banker without another word stamps him as just the kind of a man to deal with the finances of the State. He has been an active member of the State Bankers Association since its organization. He was a member of the advisory board for a number of years and was its president in 1918-1919.

Has Helped The Farmer.

"Mr. Gordy is interested in two farms in his county and is deeply interested in every movement in the interest of farm development. He was one of the first to recognize the importance of the 'Farmer Boys' Club' movement and his bank has assisted a number of farmer boys in purchasing thoroughbred hogs to improve the hog industry of his county.

"He has also a fire insurance agency practically inherited some years ago from his father and is the treasurer of the Peninsula General Hospital and the Home for the Aged.

"But what of Mr. Gordy outside of his business activities? He is a native of Wicomico county and is a product of its public schools. He is happily married and has a lovely home, but the one cloud hanging over his successful life was the loss of his three children by death.

"He has never sought or held a political office, but could always be depended upon to help his friends in their campaigns. During the war he was active in all the Government agencies to help win the war; his bank led the county in the sale of Government securities, contributed largely to the Red Cross and he took an active interest in all war drives.

"Mr. Gordy believes in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man and hence is active in fraternal organizations, and is a Mason, an Elk, a Moose and a Modern Woodman.

His Friends Are Legion.

"Probably outside of his bank he is most interested in the Peninsula Hospital and the Home for the Aged, the burden of the latter institution in point of fact falls largely upon him; he enjoys the work and both institutions by the way are the finest of their kind in the country.

"We have described the man and his business activities; what do the people say about him?

"Ask any banker in Maryland, no matter what his politics, about Mr. Gordy and he will tell you he is a progressive, up-to-date banker and worthy of your confidence.

"Ask any newspaper editor on the Eastern Shore about him and you will be told that he is one of its foremost and most progressive citizens whose integrity cannot be questioned.

"Ask any manufacturer or business man in that bustling little city of Salisbury, his home town, about him and you will be told that he has helped all he could to make the city what it is.

"Ask any fisherman or laboring man in Wicomico county or in fact of the adjoining counties as well, about him, and you will be told that Mr. 'Will' Gordy is a man we can go to for assistance when we need it.

"Ask the newsboy on the streets of Salisbury about him and he will say: 'Who?' Mr. 'Will' Gordy—why he's my fren'.

Is a Rock-Ribbed Democrat.

"Ask old Uncle Sam and Aunt Mandy, as they hitch their mule on Main street to do their week's trading, if they know him, and Aunt Mandy will speak up and say, 'Does we know Mr. 'Will' Gordy? Course we does? how yo' 'spose we got grub to eat time de sweet taters failed in Mr. 'Will' didn't help us?'

"When a man at home stands like this with everybody and at the same time has a high standing among the great banking and financial institutions of the whole State you can't beat him and that's all there is to it. Just a word about Mr. Gordy's democracy. He puts it tersely and to the point. I am a Democrat; first, because I was born that way. I am a Democrat; second, because I believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and I am a Democrat, third, because I believe a good article of government south of Mason and Dixon's Line can only be secured through the Democratic Party.

In Baltimore county we can follow the leadership of a man like Wm. S. Gordy, Jr., and although he will be the only candidate on the State ticket we believe our people will rally around him and give him the largest majority the county has given in years.

Pinched Too Hard; She Gets Divorce.

Detroit, Mich. — When a husband pinches an actress' arms to such an extent that it interferes with her beauty, it is time for her to get a divorce, Attorney Louis Cohan told Circuit Judge J. Richter. The judge agreed and gave a decree to Maybelle Seamans Corney, known to the stage as Maybelle Seamans. The woman said her husband, Peter, often pinched her arms until they were black and blue, which "interferes with my stage beauty."

Eastern Shore District Will Hold One-Day Institute At Painter—Morning and Afternoon Sessions.

A one-day Sunday School Institute for the Eastern Shore District will be held at Painter on Friday, Sept. 16. All Methodist Sunday Schools are urged to send at least one delegate, and all other Sunday schools are invited to join the Methodists in this Institute. There will be two sessions, from 9:30 to 12 A. M. and from 2 to 4:30 P. M.

The program will be one of real Sunday School problems and these will be discussed by Mr. Montgomery and Miss Smithers, of the Sunday School Board; Miss Frances Price and Mrs. Parks, District officers; Mr. Roscoe Jones, Allen, Md., and other prominent Sunday School workers throughout the district.

A demonstration class will be given at one of the sessions, and Rev. W. A. Wright will preside.

Dinner will be furnished by the ladies of Painter, but it is urged that each superintendent notify Rev. A. K. Lambdin, pastor the Painter church as to the number of delegates from his Sunday School.

The Institute should be a very helpful one and all pastors and superintendents are urged to have their schools represented. They are also urged to bring at least one question in connection with their work they wish to hear discussed.

COMES EAST FOR SECOND TIME WITHIN 40 YEARS

Coming East for the second time within forty years, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fletcher, of Tower Hill, Ill., are now visiting Mr. Fletcher's sister, Mrs. Charles V. Hughes, near Salisbury. Mr. Fletcher, who left here many years ago, is a descendant of the Rider family, his mother being Mrs. Martha Rider Davis Fletcher, daughter of the late Charles Rider. At a family reunion held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes many members of the family were present to greet Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher. A delightful dinner and supper were served and the day was enjoyed very much. Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher also spent a week-end with his sister, Mrs. Jonathan Waller, of Salisbury.

may be all right for the camper, but for the man who lives in a permanent dwelling and particularly for the man who owns his own home, pot luck won't do. He must be willing to take care of his property. Not only should he keep it in good repair, but he should cut repair bills down to the irreducible minimum by preserving all woodwork with good paint. He can do that now very cheaply because paint prices have come back to pre-war levels. Do YOU believe in taking Pot Luck? If you don't, come in and let us take your order for

By GEORGE R. COBB.

Dr. Besley, State Forester, will be with us some time this month. Any person wanting advice or assistance on their wood lots should send us word at once so that we may be able to plan our work while he is here. This assistance will cost nothing and we should accept it as far as needed.

Drink milk and grow tall. We read in a Philadelphia paper that the Emperor of Japan had invited a Mrs. S. F. Manning, of Kentucky, to teach his subjects how to grow taller by the proper diet and milk. In this case milk seems to be able to increase size and height—no proof that "coke" or "dope" will do anything like this. Yes, we drink both.

Does poultry pay? When a man can get $400 over and above feed, in six months from 212 hens it looks as if poultry might be considered a profitable line of farming.

"Do not force the chicks"—W. F. Calloway had pullets laying within 4 months and 5 days, but one pullet laid 12 eggs and stopped while another laid 5 eggs and stopped. Neither of these pullets show any desire to lay since they stopped. Mr. Calloway did not try to force these pullets because he knows that a very early laying bird is very seldom profitable. "Build the bones and good body first and then feed for eggs."

This will answer the questions asked by several farmers who are growing or who grew lima beans this year. The seeds, or beans, contain the following plant food per ton of beans: Nitrogen, 78 pounds; phosphoric acid, 84 pounds, and potash, 21 pounds. This plant food, of course, is taken from the soil and must be returned in some manner if you wish to keep your land fertile. The vines contain about 26 pounds of nitrogen, 2 pounds of phosphoric acid and 11 pounds of potash.

Sweet potato yields are very uneven this year. One grower will average over 200 hampers per acre while his neighbor will be lucky to get 100 hampers of merchantable potatoes.

We were over at Willard Hearn's last week and obtained some valuable data on results that he has secured. Just as soon as the pictures we took are developed and printed we want to write more fully on some things we saw and heard. But briefly here are a few points that Mr. Hearn believes in thoroughly: (1) a well prepared seed bed; (2) crimson clover; (3) lime (4) constant cultivation especially in dry weather (5) humps (6) proper rotation and (7) studying your land all the time.

Experiments have proved that manure composted properly for six months will kill out the weed seeds. This will save a lot of labor and plant food if it is carried out by every farmer that composts manure.

That was a mighty good talk on "Poultry" at the "Y" on Tuesday night. We were much surprised that more people did not attend as surely our people do not pretend to know everything about raising poultry. Why are educational talks like these so unpopular while other attractions that have no real value except as a "time passer" draw a larger audience.

For the pessimist—Government figures show that there are 1,661,378 mortgaged farms in the country with a total value of $14,000,000,000. This is an increase in number of 21.4 per cent since 1910 and the value is double that of 1910.

For the optimist—From last fall until June 1, 1921, there has been a "back to the land" movement in Pennsylvania. About 2,400 farms that were idle last year are now tenanted and being tilled.

Mr. Angell brought out three essential points for success in poultry that we sometimes overlook: (1) secure the proper strain of the breed you keep; (2) proper care with proper feeding and (3) lights in the house from the time the days grow shorter until spring.

The question of cutting clover for hay or leaving the whole crop to be plowed under is asked many times. W. F. Calloway tried both ways this year and found that corn was very much better where the clover had not been cut. The increase in yield will probably more than pay for the hay that could have been cut.

This week's issue of "Stockman and Farmer" had a good account of the organization and work of the Wicomico Farmers Association. It pays to advertise and especially when we can get such effective advertising by doing things right. For example, the last two years have given Salisbury a big boost because of the better grading and inspection at shipping or selling point. But we believe that labels were used too freely on loaves this year. No brand or label should be placed on produce that won't grade up to the standard. A little more care in this particular next year will give an added impetus to the good work already started.

How many of us know that Frank Adkins and his Guernseys have an international reputation? A prophet is without honor in his own country, but we don't want that to be true about the farmers who make good. "See America first" is a good slogan but see and know your county first suits our taste better.

We understand that John Tomlinson is going to install about 10 acres of overhead irrigation soon. This will make four plants that we know of as Charles Freeman, Dale Adkins and Mark Cooper have already installed this system.

Lima beans are good for hogs. One of our farmers is feeding barley, tankage and lima beans. This mixture together with mineral matter, fresh water and an alfalfa field to run in is giving fine results.

Experiments and tests conducted by the State Experiment Station show that oyster shell lime gave better results at College Park and Branchville, with wheat and hay than did raw or burned limestone. At Ridgely, in Caroline county, raw limestone was only slightly superior to oyster shells in growing alfalfa. In all this work the raw forms of shell and stone gave better results than the burned or hydrated forms on these crops.

We had a busy week last week trying to attend Chautauqua, help Princess Anne beat Frederick, appear interested in politics and incidentally do a little work. From what we heard and saw this year's Chautauqua was the "best ever"—sorry that we could not attend all the numbers and also sorry that there seems to be a lack of interest in this pleasure, on the part of so many people.

Charles Wilkins is not complaining about his yield of sweet potatoes as he dug 12 hampers to the row or 214 8-10 hampers per acre. He dug some on August 13 and at that time they only averaged 4 hampers to the row or 71 6-10 hampers per acre.

The woodlot thinning demonstration being carried on at the E. S. Adkins farm has proved successful thus far. The first thinning, when sold as cord wood, at $5.50 per cord, showed a profit of $1.05 per cord. The trees left standing will grow much faster now which is the real result we are after.

Many complaints are being heard that it is almost impossible to get any help in saving fodder. The only reason advanced is that the work is so hard and disagreeable that laborers do not care to do it.

The old black tin box that the farmer used to keep his papers in now has four rubber tired wheels.

Farmers, mechanics, railroaders, laborers, rely on Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil. Fine for cuts, burns, bruises. Should be kept in every home. 30c and 60c.—Advertisement.

THE RIGHT THING AT THE RIGHT TIME

By MARY MARSHALL DUFFEE

WHEN TO GO HOME.

And often took leave, but was loth to depart.—Prior.

TIME is money to most of us, in one way or another. Yet many of us forget to go home—and so waste a lot of somebody else's money, in the guise of time.

Were you ever in this position? The maid had gone out for Thursday afternoon, or else there was no maid. A guest was coming at half-past six. The dinner was partly prepared—thanks to your desire to be ready for emergencies. At half-past five it would be time to put the meat in the oven, and at six the vegetables must go on. You must in the meantime dress yourself, and perhaps put a child to bed, or else help an older one to dress. A neighbor called at half-past four. You looked thankfully at the clock, realizing that she could not stay long enough to harm your dinner. But she stayed.

At five you began to be nervous, thinking of the things yet to be done. At half-past five, making some excuse about hearing a knock at the kitchen door, you hurried out to the kitchen and put in the meat. Then you sat in agony, waiting for the caller to take her departure, and when she did, about six, you madly dashed down again to whip the cream for the dessert and mix the salad, and air the dining room, and heat the soup, and set the table, and put things to rights in the living room, and light the lights and do the dozen of last-minute things that ought to have been done in the last hour—not in the last minute.

Most of us have been in some such predicament, and, remembering this, it behooves us to remember to go home before we have worn out our welcome.

This is just one of the occasions when a guest should make an early departure. There are many others. A caller on a sick person should always make a short call, unless by staying for a longer specified time, she can relieve the nurse.

When guests are expected, a caller should always take her departure promptly. If unexpected callers arrive, the first comers should go before many minutes have passed.

If there is illness in the house, a caller should not keep the members of the household very long. Even if they are not bearing the duties of nurse, they probably have many calls on their time.

If your hostess is going out later in the afternoon—if you have found out this to be the case in some chance manner—you should not keep her in, even if she protests that she is in no hurry.

Put yourself in the place of the hostess on all occasions when you are wondering whether or not it is time to go home.

THE CONTEST.

OLD age complains when Winter reigns.
But youth runs out to play
And finds in storms a thing that warms.
Its pulses all the way—
It is the contest so intense
With Winter's angry elements.

The weak perspire beside the fire
And shiver with the cold;
The sturdy go to meet the snow
With hearts increasing bold,
With hearts made stronger by the gale,
Whatever arrows may assail.

The timid groan, the timid moan,
When troubles cloud the sky;
The brave go out and do not doubt,
Unfriendly fate defy,
And find each contest bravely met
Makes each contestant braver yet.

When thunders roll before your goal,
What will your answer be?
Will you go forth to face the north,
Or from the north flee?
Does Winter drive you to your fire,
Or each new storm new strength inspire?

TRADE SCHOOLS.

LET your slogan be better and more trade schools for girls. There are far more trade schools for young men than for young women, yet it is becoming almost as usual for the girls of the family to earn their living as for the boys. Very few girls nowadays are satisfied with staying at home and going into society. They want to work at something; they want their independence. And they deserve training and proper opportunity.

Many women in the smaller towns are eager for training that will fit them to earn a living, and they cannot get it. This is all wrong, and it is up to us to get our schools. One girl I know wanted a course in photography, for which she had a strong leaning. She had to travel hundreds of miles and spend much money to get it. She could afford to do so and she has now a good business back in the town from which she started. What is more, she is conducting a class in her specialty. But she believes that it would pay her town to run a vocational school for girls that would teach photography as well as many other vocations. And she is working for such a school.

It is a pity to force so many girls into the weary road of stenography simply because it is so often impossible to get the needed training in the hundreds of other vocations open to them. Let every town insist on its trade school. It will pay for itself a hundred times over.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline has remarkable pulling Power

GASOLINE that delivers full power and maximum mileage is not the product of chance but of the choice of crude stocks, skillful refining and constant research.

Gasoline properties are determined by a large number of factors. It is only by the closest study that the exceptional pulling power of the improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline is obtained. Our Development Department not only devotes a large share of its work to refining processes, but is also constantly checking up the actual performance of "Standard" Motor Gasoline in various types of motors, in the laboratory and out on the road.

The power obtainable from gasoline depends largely on its burning properties, on how much of it fires and how much fails to ignite, thus lowering the explosive force of the whole mixture. The composition of "Standard" Motor Gasoline is positively predetermined with a view to insuring its complete combustion at motor temperatures.

Thousands of critical motorists have given this "Standard" Motor Gasoline a thorough test under all sorts of conditions. They say that it supplies an unusually even, smooth flow of power, and gives exceptional mileage.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is on sale wherever you see the familiar "S. O." sign. It is the cheapest gasoline per mile you can find.

The "Want-Ads"

The little classified advertisements—the "want-ads"—are a sure index of advertising leadership among newspapers. They are a hallmark of genuine news character in the newspaper. All advertising is news—but in varying degrees.

The "want-ad" columns, however, carry definite, specific messages to the reader. They are ALL news and therefore are the most carefully read part of the newspaper. Every day they bear thousands of messages of every conceivable sort to tens of thousands of readers of every type and class, which reveal with almost photographic detail the life of the day. The future historian who seeks to picture and analyze the civilization of the twentieth century will find in the newspaper "want-ads" of today countless interpretations of the interests and activities of the people of this generation.

There is scarcely a detail of our everyday life that is not reflected in essential aspects in the "want-ads" of the newspaper.

Few of us realize how largely these little messengers of sale and general accommodation to our current needs enter into, and give purpose to, much of our common everyday life. It may be the case of a piece of property worth $50,000, or an automobile costing $5,000, or a $10,000 a year salaried position, or an apartment renting for $1,000 a month, or a vacant lot worth $500, or an ancient flivver at a bargain price of $85, or a job for an errand boy, or a comfortable room at $15 a month, or a lost dog, or a score of other familiar wants or experiences—and a "Want-ad" is the manifest, the easy, the effective, the cheap—and often practically the only—way of bringing the matter to the knowledge and enlisting the interest of those who should be told about it.

Make a habit of reading the advertisements in The News each week. It is interesting as well as profitable.

Concerning Sashes

THE sash is one of those items of dress whose sole mission is to be ornamental. We have it with us this summer in many developments, from narrow girdles with floating ends that are mere finishing touches of color, to gorgeous affairs made of brilliant brocaded ribbons, that dominate the costume. The dress becomes a background for these pretentious accessories when they are made of such splendid stuff.

On midsummer dresses of sheer materials sashes are often made of the same fabric as the dress, and occasionally, narrow ribbon is used with these fabric sashes. Girdles of fabric finished with bows and long ends of narrow ribbon make a happy combination, but the handsomest and dressiest sashes remain, as they always have been, of ribbons. Three of them are illustrated here, found among the simpler designs, for sashes have been much elaborated by combining ribbons of different colors in them and by ribbon flowers and ornaments. The broad Egyptian sash, tied in front and held by some sort of jewelry, is seen on some of the smart imported models. The spirited sash at the left of the picture calls to mind Spanish costumes. It is developed in very wide satin ribbon, draped about the figure and knotted at the side. A short hanging loop and two diagonal ends spread themselves over the skirt, finished off with a rich knotted fringe. Such sashes are usually in one of two colors used in the dress.

A handsome brocaded ribbon makes the gorgeous sash finished with very long-knotted fringe across its straight ends. A sash of this kind is usually tied in a knot or looped over, and is worn with dresses of fine material, simply made, and in a dark color. These dresses feature the sash—and these sashes "make" the dress.

The generous sash of light-colored satin ribbon at the top of the picture is very wide and is ornamented at each side with ribbon flowers. It is draped loosely about the waist and has short full loops and long ends at the left side. It is meant for lace and the handsomest of lingerie frocks.

Health is possible to almost every child. But it is within reach of children of all circumstances, only as they are aided by adults to whom they must look for responsible care and an earnest, intelligent interest in child welfare.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

ORANGE JUICE a teaspoonful at a time, strained free from all pulp, is a most delightful and refreshing drink for very young children. It should be given neither before nor immediately after milk.

The acids in fruit play an important role in destroying those germs which create gases and cause auto intoxication. Fruit juices act on the kidneys and at the same time are a natural laxative.

As children suffer with their teeth, when the little gums are swollen and inflamed, a drink of cool water will give them much relief.

Water should not be too cold but cool enough to be palatable, either summer or winter and the amount each individual should take depends largely upon the food eaten. If one eats freely of juicy fruits, succulent vegetables and drinks much milk, less water will be required. But even a very young baby should be given frequent drinks of cold water.

A juicy, good flavored apple is better than medicine, and should be eaten daily and oftener. Scraped apple may be given to babies.

To keep the body in good condition drink freely of water before retiring and early in the day. The water may be hot or cold, suiting the needs of the individual.

Overeating and little drinking of water is said to be the great American failure in dietetics. We must get away from the Kentucky colonel's idea "that water is all right for navigation purposes, but a very poor drink."

"THE MOVIES."

THE toy zoetrope was the grandfather of the motion-picture machine of today. The oldest invention was one of these toys, patented by W. E. Lincoln, 1867. In 1869 O. B. Brown patented a machine which projected "moving pictures" from a series of glass plates. Maybridge, in 1880, also produced a glass plate machine. M. Marey, of the French Institute, first used the continuous film, and Lumiere, in 1893, invented the "Cinematograph." The first real machine came to America in 1894, and one Edward Butler is supposed to have the honor of being the first motion-picture operator in America.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"HEALTHY" AND "HEALTHFUL."

THERE is a distinct difference in the meaning of these two words, and the distinction should be made by all who desire to speak and write correctly. "Healthy" means possessing or enjoying health or its effects; as, "a healthy person" or "a healthy condition." But "healthful" means promoting health, or adding to it, or preserving it. Thus, we say that a healthy person is the product of healthful surroundings. "The finances of the country are in a healthy condition." "Healthful living is conducive to length of life."

A correspondent of a newspaper wrote, "Are plants in a sleeping room healthy?" It was evident that she meant, "Does the presence of plants in a sleeping room affect the health of the occupant of the room?" Of course, a plant, in a sleeping room or elsewhere, may or may not be healthy; and its presence in a room may or may not be healthful for the human occupant.

WHEN HER BACK ACHES.

A Woman Finds All Her Energy and Ambition Slipping Away.

Salisbury women know how the aches and pains that often come when the kidneys fail make life a burden. Backache, hip pains, headaches, dizzy spells, distressing urinary troubles, are frequent indications of weak kidneys and should be checked in time. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. They attack kidney diseases by striking at the cause. Here's proof of their merit in a Salisbury woman's words:

Miss Lavinia Messick, 109 Fooks St., says: "A short time ago my kidneys became weak and I was so distressed with backache. I could hardly keep on my feet. I didn't know what it was to be free from pains across my kidneys. Nervous headaches kept me feeling miserable and my kidneys acted irregularly. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and got some from Collier's Drug Co. They proved to be just what I needed and soon freed me from the backaches, headaches and other signs of kidney complaint." 60c at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

MOTOR TRADE IS NOT ALARMED BY PRICE CUT

Latest Reduction By Ford Is Causing No Uneasiness Among Other Auto Manufacturers.

(From Wall Street Journal).
Ford's latest price cut of from $45 to $100 per vehicle, which brings the open passenger car model to the lowest level in the history of the company and the closed cars only slightly above 1917 low prices, is causing the motor trade no great concern.

When Ford unexpectedly reduced his prices last September, the automobile industry as a whole was entirely unprepared and, while there was immediate response on the part of a number of manufacturers who followed Ford with substantial price reductions, sales were not stimulated. As a matter of fact, Ford's business took a sudden slump and did not revive until early this year. Most other motor companies had similar experiences and the fact that the last quarter of 1920 was one of the duller periods the trade ever experienced was generally attributed to uncertainties caused by the unsettled price situation.

Early this summer Ford joined in another general price reduction which took in practically every passenger car maker in the country. These reductions brought about the desired results and in practically every instance where downward revisions were made substantial improvement in business was noted. This is perhaps best illustrated by the fact that, excluding Ford, passenger car sales the second quarter this year were 177,855, or more than double the first quarter's shipments of 85,774. Some of this improvement, however, must be attributed to the fact that the second quarter is normally the best three months period of the year in the automotive industry.

Mainly as a result of the business improvement of the past few months, a number of motor companies have greatly reduced inventories and have been able to take advantage of lower raw material prices which, with reduced labor costs, have made possible some further price concessions. A majority of the motor companies, however, are still carrying more or less high priced material and not until this is disposed of will it be possible for them to further reduce their list prices.

In view of this situation it is not expected in the trade that any concerted effort on the part of other manufacturers will be made to meet Ford's latest reductions. There probably will be a continuance of individual revisions from time to time, such as have characterized the automobile market during the past few weeks, but no concerted action looking toward a general price change all through the line is expected.

It was believed in trade circles that this Fall would witness a fairly good demand for closed cars, gradually falling off through the winter months. Ford's action may upset these calculations to some extent, although probably not sufficiently to cause manufacturers uneasiness. Most motor companies are not expecting good business during the balance of this year, but are pinning their faith on a resumption of automobile buying on a big scale next spring.

Big Oil Dividends For Third Quarter

Standard Oil's Cash Dividends For That Period This Year Reached Total of $27,336,817.

Standard Oil cash dividends for the third quarter of 1921 totaled $27,336,817 compared with $29,504,000 the third quarter of last year, a decline of $2,167,183. Cash dividends paid during the third quarter of this year are the largest for the same period of any year except 1920.

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey paid a total of $25,076,268 in cash dividends during the first three quarters of this year, $8,358,756 in each quarter.

Cheesebrough Manufacturing common dividend which came due during the third quarter was deferred by the directors. The Ohio Oil Co. paid the regular, but omitted the extra dividend of $1.25. Prairie Oil and Gas reduced their extra dividend from $3 to $2. Southern Pipe Line paid a dividend of $2 a share, while three and six months ago $3 a share was paid.

New Sinclair Oil Wells Are Producing

Two 400-Barrel Wells Just Brought In By the Wyoming Subsidiary in Salt Lake Field.

Two 400-barrel oil wells have just been brought in by the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation's Wyoming subsidiary. This announcement is the first official admission that the Sinclair company was actually operating in the Wyoming fields, though it was known that the Wyoming subsidiary existed.

Further inquiry develops the fact that the company has now about 1,200 barrels daily production available in the Salt Creek field and seven wells in the Osage (Wyo.) field. The two new wells are in the Salt Creek field, on a 160-acre lease which is considered one of the most valuable in the State. It is entirely proven territory, and one of the Sinclair wells on this lease is said to have produced an average of about 500 barrels daily for a year. Active development on the property has been delayed until recently when the lease was approved by the Secretary of the Interior. The Sinclair company's other producing property in Wyoming is in the Osage field, where they are now operating 480 acres.

EQUIPMENT MAKERS HOLD FOREIGN MARKETS

Government Report Shows That American Manufacturers Are Able To Underbid Germany.

There has been a good deal of gossip, started apparently by bear rumor mongers, in financial circles in the last few months to the effect that American manufacturers of railroad equipment would promptly lose the markets they began building up in foreign fields during the war by reason of competition from Europe, especially from Germany. In some quarters it was suggested that German manufacturers could underbid ours by as much as $20,000 an engine, or about 50%.

Success of American companies in securing substantial orders from Mexico in the face of competition from abroad failed to check these rumors. But now comes a report to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce from Trade Commissioner Frank Rhea giving details of contracts placed on July 4 by Chinese roads for engines and cars and appearing to prove conclusively that American manufacturers are actually able to underbid Germany and are in a competitive position against any other country.

Contracts in question were for 41 engines for three Chinese roads and 36 of the engines went to a Belgian concern and the remaining five to the American Locomotive Co. Altogether 28 manufacturers submitted bids, including British, German, Belgian, French, Japanese and American.

Lowest bids on all the engines were submitted by Belgian or Japanese concerns. In every case the American bid was the third lowest with the German and British concerns highest. Following are the bids per engine converted into taels as given by Mr. Rhea:

Prairie type (30) Belgium, 55,210 taels; Japan, 62,475; United States, 68,510; Germany, 76,280; Great Britain, 78,880.

British type (6) Belgium, 53,025; United States, 67,000; Great Britain, 67,915; Germany, 76,790.

Pacific type (3) Japan, 61,740; Belgium, 62,830; United States, 78,860; Great Britain, 82,710; Germany, 83,560.

Mikados (2) Belgium, 66,930; Japan, 73,500; United States, 80,600; Great Britain, 86,150; Germany, 88,350.

On bids for 100 open cars Germany was low at 3,540 taels, Belgium bidding 3,820; United States, 3,980; Japan, 4,410, and Great Britain, 5,870. Mr. Rhea's report says that certain of the bids were disqualified but that those of the American company were complete and in order, adding, "they were handled by capable men in a satisfactory way."

He also points out that American manufacturers were handicapped by the premium of the dollar over other currencies and that Belgium, in addition to her exchange advantage, is understood to be using up her scrap to make steel with a saving in cost, suggesting the probability that Belgian prices will increase when this scrap is exhausted.—Wall Street Journal.

THE FARMERS' FORUM

A column devoted to the interests of the Farmers who read The News and to the interests of their Families.
Communications Will be Welcomed.

RELATION OF COUNTY AGENT TO THE PEOPLE

He is a Public Official, Who Advises Farmers Regarding the Best Agricultural Methods.

The county agricultural agent is a public official whose business it is to make available in practical form the knowledge of agricultural science as developed by the State experiment station, the United States Department of Agriculture, and the results of the best farm practice. He is expected to show by field demonstrations, publications, and otherwise the application of such knowledge to local farm conditions.

The advantages of improved farm practices as demonstrated on the most successful farms in the county where the agent is employed are called to the attention of farmers in his territory. With these demonstrations before them, individual farmers are able to determine intelligently the extent to which they will apply the lessons of the demonstrations conducted by the agent.

The county agent is an officer of the State college of agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture. He may also be employed in co-operation with the county government or the county farmers' organization contributing to his support and aiding in his work. He is not, however, expected to act as the business agent of the individual farmer or of groups of farmers in carrying on commercial transactions. He is not in any sense a hired man, operating the farmer's own farm enterprises.

The subjects on which the county agent may give demonstrations or advice are as varied as the needs of the farm population in his county. It is his duty to demonstrate the application of agricultural science to soil management and building, to the control of plant diseases and insect pests, to the introduction of better varieties of farm crops, and to improvement in methods of feeding, breeding, and care of farm animals. The economic management of the farm as a whole to yield the largest net returns, the study of systems of marketing local farm products, advice on the purchase of farm supplies, co-operatively and otherwise, are broader phases of his diversified work.

How To Make Pop Corn Pop Just Right

Explanation Given As To Why Apparently Good Pop Corn Sometimes Won't Pop Satisfactorily.

It is a matter of common experience that pop corn varies greatly with respect to popping. A lot of pop corn may pop all right at one time and not at all at some other time. Again, a lot of apparently good pop corn may not pop satisfactorily at any time.

The two main requisites for good popping are: (1) Good pop corn that has a moisture content of about 12 per cent; (2) heat sufficient to cause the kernels to begin to pop in about 1½ minutes.

A number of causes may interfere with the popping of pop corn. The principal ones are: (1) Having the pop corn too dry; (2) having the heat too great, or not great enough; (3) harvesting pop corn before it had ripened; and (4) allowing pop corn to mix with field corn or sweet corn.

Pop corn should ripen fully on the stalk and should not be harvested until the husks are white and the stalk is dead and has lost its "sappy" condition. The ears should then be stored in a cool, well-ventilated place. Small wire crates are good receptacles in which to store them. If stored in a warm room in the house, the ears will soon dry out so much that they will not pop. Pop corn that has become too dry for popping may be restored to condition again by putting it in a cool and well-ventilated place, preferably outdoors, for a few weeks. It should, however, be protected against mice.

Pop corn will of its own accord take on or retain the right amount of moisture under natural or suitable atmospheric conditions, as on a shaded porch on the north side of a building. Exposing the ears to the hot sun for a while will cause them to dry out too much for good popping. They will also dry out too much in a kitchen or other warm room. If pop corn that has become too dry is wanted for immediate use it may be improved somewhat by sprinkling it with water before trying to pop it.

TOMATO SEED WASTE NOW BEING UTILIZED

Fixed Oil And Other Products Are Made From The Seeds—1,000 Tons Of Seeds Used.

Nearly every pulping factory in the country has a small mountain of waste tomato seed. One two-hundredth of every bushel of tomatoes is seed. This doesn't seem very much, or very important, concerning an item which always has been considered waste; but when every manufacturer of catsup, pulp, soup paste, and sauce has several hundred tons of it, and scientists unexpectedly discover that two valuable commercial products can be made from it, the world at large is interested.

Fixed oil and press cake, or meal, are the latest additions to the products useful to humanity saved by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture from huge piles of so-called waste. In the larger factories in the eastern and mid-western tomato belts more than 200,000 tons of tomatoes are pulped annually. The waste seed from these large stations alone totals over 1,000 tons.

The first important step in making the new products is to separate the seed from the wet waste. Several

Entrance Examinations For

STATE SCHOLARSHIPS IN ENGINEERING COURSES

AT THE
Johns Hopkins University
BALTIMORE, MD.

ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS for the School of Engineering, as well as for the College of Arts and Sciences, will be held in the Civil Engineering Building, from Monday, September 13th, to Thursday, September 22d, 1921, beginning at 9 A. M. each day.

APPLICATIONS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS in the School of Engineering established under the provisions of the Laws of Maryland, Chapter 30, 1917, will now be received. If there is more than one applicant for a particular scholarship a competitive examination must be taken Friday, September 23d, 1921, beginning at 9 A. M. Appointments will be made thereafter.

Each Legislative District of Baltimore City and each County of the State, with the exception of Cecil, Harford, Howard and Queen Anne, will be entitled to one or more scholarships for the year 1921-1922. In addition to those which have already been assigned to the four counties mentioned above, all the available scholarships have been awarded.

Under the provisions of the Act of Assembly, the County and City Scholarships in the School of Engineering are awarded to deserving students whose financial circumstances are such that they are unable to obtain an education in Engineering unless free tuition be granted to them. The scholarships entitle the holders to free tuition, free use of text-books, and exemption from all regular fees. One of the scholarships in each County and in each Legislative District of the City carries also the sum of $200 and is known as a "Senatorial Scholarship." Senatorial Scholarships may be awarded for 1921-1922 in Baltimore City (first, second, third and fourth Districts), Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Calvert, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, Somerset and Washington Counties.

Scholarships may be awarded to graduates of Loyola College, St. John's College, Washington College, Western Maryland College, University of Maryland (Maryland Agricultural College) Mount St. Mary's College and Rock Hill College.

Three scholarships may be awarded "at large."

The next session begins Tuesday, October 18th, 1921. For blank forms of application and for catalogues giving information as to examinations, award of scholarships, and courses of instruction, applicants should address—methods may be used, but the specialists find that the most practicable method is to equip the ordinary cyclone pulping machine, now in use in most factories, with a 5-mesh woven screen made of No. 12 wire. The mesh is just large enough to admit the passage of the seeds, and these flow out of the machine in a continuous stream, while the cores and skins of the fruit are discharged through the gate as usual. The stream of seed and pulp is then pumped into an adjoining cyclone machine having an ordinary 29-mesh breaker screen.

The pulp and juice pass through this mesh, but the seed is retained, and passes out through the gate. The operation involves no increase of labor, and is continuous and efficient. Experience with this method for more than two seasons at the Arlington Experimental Farm at Washington, D. C., has proved its effectiveness.

After the seed has been separated from the wet waste it is washed and dried, and is then ready for the oil-extracting process. Two methods of oil extraction can be used—pressure and solvent extraction. Pressed oil is obtained by mechanical presses, and commands a slightly higher price in the market than the oil which is extracted by chemical solvent processes.

The tomato-seed oil obtained by the expeller process is deep brown, and has a strong odor. It is refined, bleached, and decolorized by the usual methods, and is then comparable in quality with the common edible oils of commerce.

and Healthy.

Springfield, Mo.—"My back was so weak I could hardly stand up, and I would have bearing-down pains and was not well at any time," says Mrs. D. V. Williams, wife of a well-known farmer on Route 6, this place. "I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams, describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. I saw after taking some Cardui... that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person."

"After I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down, I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me... My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it."

Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Since it has helped so many, you should not hesitate to try Cardui if troubled with womanly ailments. For sale everywhere.

The Wreckers

"Both of you? Oh, how nice!" she said, with a smile for the boss and a queer little grimace for me. "Come in. This is our evening for callers. Cousin Basil is out, but he'll be back pretty soon, and he left word for you to wait if you got here before he did."

That message was for the boss, and I lagged behind in the dimly lighted hall while she was showing him into the back parlor. I had dropped down on the hall settee, in the end of it next to the coatrack, and when Mrs. Sheila came down-stairs and went through the hall, she didn't see me. A second later I heard the boss jump up and say, "At last! It seems as if you had been gone a year rather than a fortnight," and then Malsie Ann came dodging out and flunked herself down on the settee beside me.

You needn't tell me that we had no right to sit there listening; I know it well enough. On the other hand, I was just shirky enough to shift the responsibility to Malsie Ann. She didn't make any move to duck, so I didn't.

"You came out to see Cousin Basil?" Mrs. Sheila was saying to the boss. And then: "He had a telephone call from the Bullard, and he asked me to tell you to wait." After that, I guess she sat down to help him wait, for pretty soon we heard her say: "Cousin Basil has told me a little about the new trouble: have you been having another bad quarter of an hour?"

"The worst of the lot," the boss said gravely, and from that he went on to tell her about the Hatch visit and what had come of it; how the grafters had a new claw hold on him, now, made possible by an unwarranted piece of meddling on the part of the New York people in the political game.

It was while he was talking about this that Malsie Ann grabbed me by the wrist and dragged me bodily into the darkened front parlor, the door to which was just on the other side of the coat rack. I thought she had come to her right senses, at last, and was making the shift to break off the eavesdropping. That being the case, I was simply horrified when I found that she was merely fixing it so that we could both see and hear. The sliding doors between the two parlors were cracked open about an inch, and before I realized what she was doing she had pulled me down on the floor beside her, right in front of that crack.

"If you move or make a noise, I'll scream and they'll come in here and find us both!" she hissed in my ear; and because I didn't know what else to do with such a kiddish little terrapant, I sat still. It was dastardly, I know; but what was I to do?

When the boss finished telling her about the Hatch talk, Mrs. Sheila said: "You mean that Mr. Duntion and his associates sent some body out here to influence the election?"

"Yes; that is it, precisely. But how did you know?"

"You made the inference perfectly plain," she countered. "I have a reasoning mind, Graham; haven't you discovered it before this?"

The boss nodded soberly. "I have discovered a good many things about you during the past six months; one of them is that there was never another woman like you since the world began."

Knowing, as I did, that she had a husband alive and kicking around somewhere, it seemed as if I just couldn't stay there and listen to what a break of that kind on the boss' part was likely to lead up to. But Malsie Ann gripped my wrist until she hurt.

"You must listen," she whispered fiercely. "You're taking care of him, and you've got to know it."

As on many other earlier occasions, Mrs. Sheila slid away from the sentimental side of things just as easy as turning your hand over.

"You are too big a woman to let an added difficulty defeat you now," she remarked calmly, going back to the business field. "You are really making a miraculous success. I have just spent two weeks in the capital, as you know, and everybody is talking about you. They say you are in a fair way to solve the big problem—the problem of bringing the railroads and the people together in a peaceable and profitable partnership—which is as it should be."

"It can be done; and I could do it right here on the Pioneer Short Line. I didn't have to fight so many different kinds of devils at the same time," said the boss, scowling down at the fire in the grate. And then with a quick jerk of his head to face her: "You sent the major a wire from the capital last night, telling him to persuade me not to go to Stratheona. Why did you do it? And how did you know I was thinking of going?"

For the first time in the whole six months I saw Mrs. Sheila get a little flustered, though she didn't show it much, only a little more color in her cheeks.

"Some day, perhaps, I may tell you, but I can't now," she said sort of hurriedly. And then: "You mustn't ask me."

"But you did send the wire?"

"Yes."

"And you also sent another to Upton Van Brit?"

"I did."

The boss smiled. "That second message was an after-thought. You were afraid I'd be stubborn and go, anyway. That was some more of your marvelous inner reasoning. Tell me, Sheila, did you know that there was going to be a broken rail-joint set to kill me on that trip?"

That got her in spite of her heavenly calm and I could see her press her pretty lips together hard.

"Was that what they did?" she asked, a bit trembly.

He nodded. "Van Brit was on the pilot engine ahead of my car, and he found it. There was no harm done. It was bad enough, God knows, to set a trap that would have killed everybody on my train; but this other thing that has been pulled off tonight is even worse. Mr. Duntion and his unprincipled followers have set a thing on foot here which is due to grind us all to powder. Past that, they have contrived to handcuff me so that I can't make a move without pulling down consequences of a personal nature upon President Duntion, himself."

"Now my 'marvelous inner reasoning' has gone quite blind," she said, with a queer little smile. "You'll have to explain."

"It's simple enough," said the boss shortly. "If Mr. Duntion had sent only hired emissaries out here to bribe the members of the legislature—but he didn't; he included a member of his own family."

I was looking straight at Mrs. Sheila as he spoke, and I saw a sudden frightened shock jump into the slate-gray eyes. Just for a second. Before you could count one, it was gone and she was saying, quietly:

"A member of his own family? That is very singular, isn't it? Was there—was this thing that was done actually criminal?" she asked, just breathing it at him.

"It was, indeed. The election laws of this State have teeth. It is a penitentiary offense to bribe either the electorate or the lawmakers."

There was silence for a little time, and she was no longer looking at him; she was staring into the heart of the glowing coals in the grate basket. By and by she said: "You haven't told me the man's name—the one who did the bribing; may I know it?"

I knew just what the boss was going to do, and he did it: took the slip of paper that Dedition had written on from his pocket and passed it across to her. If there was another shock for her none of us could see it. She had her face turned away when she looked at the name on the paper.

Pretty soon she said, sort of drowsily: "Once you told me that the true test of any human being came when he was asked to eliminate the personal factor; to efface himself completely in order that his cause might prosper. Do you still believe that?"

"Of course. It's all in the day's work. Any cause worth while is vastly bigger than any man who is trying to advance it."

"Than any man, yes; but for a woman, Graham; wouldn't you allow something for the woman?"

"I thought we had agreed long ago that there is no double standard, either in morals or ethics—one thing for the man and another for the woman. That is your own attitude, isn't it?"

She didn't say whether it was or not. She was holding the bit of paper he had given her so that the light from the fire fell upon it when she said: "I suppose your duty is quite clear. In the slang of the street, you must 'beat Mr. Hatch to it.' You must be the first to denounce this bribery, clearing yourself and letting the ax fall where it will."

The boss was shaking his head a bit doubtfully.

"It isn't quite so simple as that," he objected. "I don't know that I'd have any compunctions about sending 'Collingwood to the dump. If the half of what they say of him is true, he is a spineless degenerate and hardly worth saving. But to do as you suggest would be open rebellion, you know; while Duntion remains president, I am his subordinate, and if I should expose him and his nephew, the situation here would become simply impossible."

"Well?" she prompted.

"Such a move would rightly and properly bring a wire demand for my resignation, of a nature that couldn't be ignored—only it wouldn't, because I should anticipate it by resigning first. That is a small matter, introducing the personal element. But the results to others; to the men of my staff and the rank and file, and to the public, which, as you say, is just beginning to realize some of the benefits of a real partnership with its principal railroad; these things can't be so easily ignored."

"You have thought of some other expedient?"

"No; I haven't got that far yet. But I am determined that Hatch shall not be allowed to work his craft a second time upon the people who are trusting me. I believe in the new policy they are trying out. I'd fling my own fortune into the gap if I had one, and more than that, I'd pull in every friend I have in the world if by so doing I could stand the Pioneer Short Line upon a solid foundation of honest ownership. That is all that is needed in the present crisis—absolutely all."

He was on his feet now and tramping back and forth on the hearth rug. At one of his back-turnings I saw Mrs. Sheila reach out quickly and lay the bit of paper with its accusing scrawl on the glowing coals. Then she said, quite calmly again:

"In time to come you will accomplish even that, Graham—this change of ownership that we have talked of and dreamed about. It is the true solution of the problem; not government ownership, but ownership by the people who have the most at stake—the public and the workers. You are a strong man, and you will bring it about. But this other man—who is not strong; the man whose name was written upon the bit of paper I have just thrown into the fire..."

He wheeled quickly, and what he said made me feel as if a cold wind were blowing up the back of my neck, because I hadn't dreamed that he would remember Collingwood well enough to recognize him in that passing moment on the sidewalk.

"That man," he muttered, sort of gratingly: "I had completely forgotten. He was here just a little while ago. I met him as I was coming in. Did he come to see your cousin—the major?"

"No," she said, matching his low tone; "he came to see me."

"Yes. Finding himself in a pitfall which he has dug with his own hands, he is like other men of his kind; he would be very glad to climb out upon the shoulders of a woman."

I guess the boss saw red for a minute, but the question he asked had to come.

"By what right did he come to you, Sheila?"

"By what he doubtless thinks is the best right in the world. He is my husband."

"He Is My Husband."

It was out at last, and the boss' poor little house of cards that I knew he had been building all these months had got its knock-down in just those four quietly spoken words. As well as I knew him, I couldn't begin to guess what he would do or say. But he was such a splendid fighter that I might have known.

"I heard, no longer ago than this afternoon, that you were not—that your husband was still living," he said, speaking very gently. "I didn't believe it—not fully—though I saw that there might easily be room for the belief. It makes no difference, Sheila. You are my friend, and you are blameless. But before we go any farther I want you to believe that I wouldn't have been brutal enough to give you that bit of paper, if I had remotely suspected that Collingwood was the man."

She didn't make any answer to that, and after a while he said: "Having told me so much, can't you tell me a little more?"

"There isn't much to tell, and even the little is commonplace and—disgraceful," she replied, with a touch of weariness that was fairly heart-breaking. "Don't ask me why we were married; I can't explain that, simply because I don't know, myself. It was arranged between the two families, and I suppose howie and I always took it for granted. I can't even plead ignorance, for I have known him all my life."

"Go on," said the boss, still speaking as gently as a brother might have.

"Howie was a spoiled child, an only son, and he is a spoiled man. I stood it as long as I could—I hope you will believe that. But there are some things that a woman cannot stand, and—"

"I know," he broke in. "So you came out here to be free."

"It is four years since we have lived together," she went on, "and for a long time I hoped he would never find out where I was. There was no divorce. I had taken my mother's name, and only Cousin Basil and his wife knew that I was not what perhaps every one else took me to be—a widow with a dead husband instead of a living one."

"Did Collingwood try to find you?"

"No, I think not. But when he was here last spring with his Uncle Breckenridge he saw me and found out that I was living here with Cousin Basil."

"Did he try to persecute you?"

"No, not then. I was afraid of only one thing: that he might drink too much and—talk. Part of the fear was realized. He saw me that Sunday night in the Bullard. That was why he was trying to fight the hotel people—because they wouldn't let him come up-stairs. I saw what you did, and I was sorry. I couldn't help feeling that in some way it would prove to be the beginning of a tragedy."

"You saw no more of him then?"

"No; I neither saw him nor heard of him until about a month ago when he came west with a man named Bullock—a New York attorney. I didn't know why he came, but I thought it was to annoy me."

"And he has damaged you?"

"Until this night he has never missed an opportunity of doing so when he could dodge Cousin Basil. It was his

The Key That Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation, and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Advertisement.

ling of auto accessories. The company now is installing a complete line of accessories, including tires, tubes and auto parts of every kind and description. The present line of Buicks and Cadillacs is the most complete south of Philadelphia, and the company is increasing its stock all the time.

The force in the Service Department also has been increased and the company will have both Buick and Cadillac experts to take care of its customers.

It was stated that the chief aim of the new organization is to maintain its efficiency in service to its patrons and to keep them satisfied at all ing the ceremony the happy couple ern cities.

Republicans Hold Convention Here And Nominate Ticket For Various County Offices

Harmony Prevails At Convention Held In Armory Wednesday Morning And Afternoon—Alan F.
Benjamin Chosen As Republican Nominee For Clerk Of Court And Miss Elizabeth Collier
For Register Of Wills—Resolution Adopted Endorsing Harding Administration
And Scoring Democratic Rule in Maryland.

The Republican county convention was convened here yesterday morning and the following ticket was nominated:

Clerk of Court—Alan F. Benjamin, Salisbury.

Register of Wills—Miss Elizabeth Collier, Salisbury.

House of Delegates—John Harrington, Salisbury District; John G. Brittingham, Parsons District; Howard
S. Bennett, Sharptown District; Peter Bounds, Camden District.

County Commissioners—Lora A.
Richardson, Willards District; Dr.
W. O. Daisy, Trappe District; E. W.
Townsend, Camden District.

Sheriff—U. C. Wimbrow, Camden District.

One of the largest crowds that ever attended a Republican convention in Wicomico county was on hand at the First Regiment Armory yesterday (Wednesday) morning when the convention was called to order by Col.
Marion A. Humphreys, it being estimated that approximately 200 Republicans from all over the county were in attendance.

Mr. Walter B. Miller was made chairman of the convention and Mr.
Isaac L. Price was chosen as secretary.

Yesterday's convention was the first one in the history of Republican county politics that included among its representative members of the fair sex, there being from 15 to 20 ladies

HIGH PRICES PREDICTED FOR IRISH POTATOES

Believed That Fall and Spring Crops Will Be Sold At Top Figures.

WILL BE TREMENDOUS SHORTAGE IN "SPUDS"

Growers Consequently Are Looking For Old-Fashioned "Killing." Sweet Potatoes Are Still Selling At Low Prices And Big Part Of Crop Will Be Stored.

The prevailing opinion of many agricultural experts both in this section and also on the Eastern Shore of Virginia is that prices for the Fall crop of Irish potatoes will be excellent this year and that when the Spring crop of new potatoes is harvested a real old-fashioned "killing" will be made by the growers.

This belief is general because of the fact that there will be a tremendous shortage of "spuds" in the Fall and no matter how large may be the ac-cage in the Spring, it will be far from sufficient to meet the demands. On account of the extreme dry weather, the Irish potato crop is considered to be a failure, and this will necessarily mean greatly boosted prices for the product.

There will be a very small crop of tubers in Wicomico county this Fall, and elsewhere throughout the lower end of the Peninsula the same conditions obtain. However, with a comparatively broad and expansive market, with high prices looming brightly, there is every indication that the growers of this section will take advantage of the opportunity to grow
"spuds" a-plenty in the Spring.

"Sweeties" Moving Slowly.

The sweet potato crop in Wicomico is being marketed very slowly, as the glut in the market has shown little signs of lessening and prices have remained at low ebb ever since the season started. On Tuesday, the average price quoted for a hamper of Wicomico "sweeties" was $1.10, and very few sweet potatoes are being shipped at present.

As a matter of fact, about seventy per cent of the local "sweeties" probably will be stored to await an upward turn of the market. It is believed by many growers that present conditions will not last and that those who store their "sweeties" and bide their time will be amply repaid by getting good prices later for their potatoes.

SALISBURY BASEBALL FANS FAVOR FORMATION OF "CLASS D" LEAGUE

Moguls From Seven Peninsula Towns Invited To Meet Here Tomorrow Night And Discuss Proposition—Pres. Jamison, Of Blue Ridge League, Will Address Meeting.

An enthusiastic meeting of the local baseball fans was held last Thursday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and the sentiment was unanimously in favor of forming a baseball league on the Eastern Shore for next season under the rules of organized baseball and of inviting representatives from other Shore towns to Salisbury with the object of "getting together" on the proposition.

On Monday, letters were sent to those in charge of baseball affairs in the following towns: Easton, Cambridge, Laurel, Princess Anne, Snow Hill, Pocomoke and Crisfield. Each town was requested to send at least four representatives to the meeting which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms tomorrow (Friday) night at 8 o'clock.

At that time J. Vincent Jamison, President of the Blue Ridge League, will be on hand to explain the workings of organized baseball to the assemblage and to go fully into the many details incidental to the formation of an Eastern Shore League.

While none of the towns had been heard from up to the time of going to press, it is believed that the request to meet here and discuss the formation of a baseball league will meet with a ready response from the baseball officials of the other towns and that Friday night's meeting will see the league project obtain a good start.

About fifty representative Salisbury citizens attended last Thursday night's meeting and plans were laid and committees appointed to take care of the local baseball situation for next year. A finance committee consisting of 30 members was appointed to look after the financing of a ball club for next year, an executive committee and a grounds committee also were appointed.

Former Vice-President To Speak At Cambridge

Thomas R. Marshall Will Talk On "Some Pending Problems" In Tabernacle on September 29.

The Cambridge Tabernacle Association has announced as its opening attraction Hon. Thomas R. Marshall, of Indiana, former Vice President of the United States with Woodrow Wilson, for eight years and twice governor of the State of Indiana.

Mr. Marshall will journey to Cambridge September 29 direct from his summer home at Petoskey, Michigan, and will speak on "Some Pending Problems." Mr. Marshall for a number of years has been one of the outstanding figures in our National Life and is a great speaker and now that he has returned to private life, his message will no doubt be watched with interest and taken up by the press far and wide. Hundreds of people from nearby towns and counties will no doubt journey to Cambridge to hear him.

CHOIR OF 100 BEING FORMED FOR REVIVALS

Augmented Chorus Will Sing at Evangelistic Services To Be Held In Armory.

HOME PRAYER MEETINGS WILL START NEXT WEEK

They Will Continue Until the Revival Services Are Started—Several Committees Appointed To Help Out In Campaign—Dr. Herson Again Appeals For Co-Operation.

"For Our God and Our Country" is the slogan that has been adopted for the series of evangelistic meetings that will be held in the First Regiment Armory from October 9 to November 6, inclusive, and plans now are under way to make the revival meetings wonderfully effective in promoting the spiritual advancement of the city and county.

During the past few days, several important committees have been formed to help in the management of the campaign, which will be conducted on an extensive scale. The financial end of the revival campaign will be taken care of by the regular Finance Committee of the Asbury M. E. Church.

Prof. W. T. Dashiell is now engaged in forming a chorus choir of 100 voices for the services, and it is expected that this choir will be ready to offer its services when the McCombe-Class party reaches Salisbury. Prof.
Dashiell has been choir director of Asbury Church for 27 years, and he is being assisted in his present work of getting together an augmented revival choir by the members of the Young People's Societies and by the members of the choir of his own church.

To Have Nursery Committee.

In order that the mothers of Salisbury and the county may attend the meetings knowing that the children will be cared for, it has been decided to appoint a nursery committee composed of ladies from Asbury Church and under the direction of a nurse from the Peninsula General Hospital, to make the necessary arrangements for properly caring for the children who accompany their mothers to the meetings.

Beginning next week and lasting until the opening of the revival services, cottage prayer meetings will be held at different homes throughout the city. These meetings will be under the direction of the laymen of the church, the unit leaders being responsible for the meetings held in the homes in their respective districts.

A personal workers committee also will be appointed next week by Dr.
Joseph T. Herson, under whose general direction the revival services will be held. Dr. Herson stated yesterday that several ministers of the county already have volunteered their services, and he hopes to have the whole-hearted co-operation of everyone in the community.

"I will regard the entire campaign as being a complete failure," said Dr. Herson, "if the only end attained will mean an increase in the membership of the Asbury Church. I am very anxious to see the church life of Wicomico county greatly increased, and it is for this reason that we ask for the help of the Christian people in so far as it will not cause them to neglect the services of their own church."

To Explain Workings Of Chamber Commerce

C. M. Freeman, Secretary Local Body, Will Give Some Pointers To New Chambers On Eastern Shore.

Numerous demands are being made on the Salisbury Chamber of Commerce by other chambers on the Eastern Shore in process of organization. On Thursday, September 22, Secretary Freeman will visit Chestertown as the invited speaker to tell the newly organized chamber there something about the work of Chambers of Commerce. On Friday, September 30, he will go to Easton for the same purpose.

The Chamber in Easton is being organized by the Rotary Club. Dover, Del., has asked Mr. Freeman to forward copies of all office forms used here in order that they may pattern their's along the same line, and the local secretary has also been invited to speak at a later date.

FRESHMAN SCHEDULE AT W. H. S. CURTAILED

Over-crowding At High School Necessitates Excusing Part Of Class
3 Afternoons Weekly.

Owing to the over-crowded condition of the Wicomico High School, it has been found necessary to make arrangements whereby a part of the Freshman Class of that institution will be excused three afternoons each week. This arrangement was put into effect yesterday (Wednesday) and it will affect approximately 75 pupils.

It is said that this is the first time in the history of the local High School that such an arrangement has had to be carried out.

The over-crowded conditions, however, are not confined exclusively to the High School but they also exist in other local schools, particularly in the Camden Primary School. Due to this fact, it is altogether probable that some of the primary schools may have to be put on half time within the very near future, with morning and afternoon sessions, in order to accommodate all the pupils.

Such a situation as the over-crowding of the public schools is one that should be quickly remedied, and the County authorities will do well to take immediate action in the matter.
What is really needed in Salisbury is the erection of a Senior High School where the 10th and 11th grades would be taught, and then to use the present High School building as a Junior High School, where pupils would be taught from the 6th to the 9th grades. If this were done, the primary schools then would be relieved of the present congested conditions, and the whole situation would be adjusted nicely.

LEGISLATURE WILL BE ASKED FOR ROAD FUNDS

Representatives of Smaller Cities of Md. Meet and Will Request Larger Appropriations.

In compliance with a request made by Col. John D. Markey, president of the Frederick Chamber of Commerce, representatives of the various Chambers of Commerce and Rotary Clubs of the smaller Maryland cities met yesterday (Wednesday) in Baltimore and formulated plans for petitioning the 1922 General Assembly in making larger road appropriations in the cities of Maryland outside of Baltimore City.

Salisbury was represented at the conference by Mr. Fred P. Adkins, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, and by Mr. William F.
Allen, president of the local Rotary Club.

It has been the opinion of a great number of people living in the smaller cities that the Legislature, in making its road appropriations, should specify a larger percentage to be used in paving the approaches to the streets in the various cities on the Eastern and Western Shores.

Many of the street approaches in the various towns—the approaches that lead from the State Roads to the city streets—are in bad condition, and it is felt by many that the State should at once complete the work by appropriating the necessary money with which to do the jobs.

HOMEBUILDING ON BIG SCALE IS PREDICTED

Expert Forsees Record Building Period As Soon As Public Realizes The Facts.

SAYS LUMBER PRICES HAVE REACHED BOTTOM

National Survey Said To Show That Industry Has Liquidated Prices To Within Small Percentage Of Pre-war Levels And That They Will Never Go Any Lower.

A national survey of the lumber industry has convinced Edgar P. Allen, publicity director of the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association, that lumber prices have hit bedrock.

The association includes 30,000 saw-mills from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Mr. Allen predicted that an era of home-building, such as the nation has never before seen, will commence as soon as the public realizes that lumber will never be cheaper than it is at present. He said:

"From many points in the United States come reports indicating a widespread awakening of the public to the fact that lumber, the universal building material, has fully liquidated its costs and is down to within a small percentage of its pre-war price level. Of course the manufacturers of lumber have known this for months, but the public has not."

"And the dissemination of this information should have an immediate and stimulating effect upon the great national movement to build homes for our people."

First To Reduce Prices.

"There are more than thirty thousand lumber mills in the United States that have been producing lumber in the face of a falling market and in a majority of cases this lumber has been sold at the mills below actual cost of manufacture. As lumber was the last of the basic industries to advance prices it was also the first to reduce prices in the national interest."

"Here are men with billions of dollars invested in timber and mills and logging railroads who have promptly and at a heavy pecuniary sacrifice accepted their losses and stand ready to-day to supply the nation's lumber needs at prices which will never again be lower and which must, in the very nature of things, steadily advance. The greatest single factor in retail lumber prices is the item of freight."

"Lumber is heavy and bulky and always the distance from the source of supply to the consuming market increases with consumption. In many instances it costs more to transport lumber from the mill to the market than it does to produce that lumber in the first place."

Transportation Costly.

"It costs one and one-half times more to haul lumber from the Pacific Northwest mills to Chicago, for instance, than it does to convert the forest trees into lumber at the mills. It costs an average of as much to transport the lumber of the South, the Southeast and the Northern regions to the average lumber market as it does to manufacture the lumber."

"Will freight rates come down? That is a question that I cannot answer. But even if freight rates are reduced it will not mean cheaper lumber at the retail yards, for lumbermen cannot continue to supply lumber indefinitely upon the present basis of cost. Prices will advance of necessity and in conformity to an irrevocable economic law. The thought I wish to stress is that those who are withholding building operations on the theory that lumber will be cheaper are simply fooling themselves and are losing a golden opportunity to get lumber at the very lowest price it will ever be sold."

Supply Is Limited.

"Anyone can understand that with the supply of standing timber known and limited and being converted into needed lumber every day, the tendency from now on will be continuously upward in price."

"Lumber is the cheapest element that enters into home construction. There are immense stocks of lumber at all the American mills, and when the public finally learns the truth about lumber, when it realizes that lumber has fully accepted its losses, deflated and come down to a normal and rational industrial status, the flood gates of building will be opened, millions of men will have employment, the railroads will rehabilitate bad order equipment and the high rent problem in our centres of human congestion will be solved."

"This, in my opinion, is the touchstone of national prosperity, for lumber is the greatest industry in point of investment, employment and in its contact with every element of human relationship in the United States."—New York American.

24½ Million Dollars Invested by Employees of Swift & Company

More than 21,000 employees of Swift & Company own or are paying for shares in the business. These men and women have attested their faith in the integrity and good will of the company by investing their savings in the business.

Their holdings represent a total of nearly 250,000 shares, the par value ($100 a share) of which is more than $24,500,000.

These 21,000 represent more than one-third of our average number of employees!

One man out of every three, in plant, office, and branch house, from the handworker on the floor to the brain worker at the desk; working with us as well as for us, devoting himself to his own business while devoting himself to ours; promoting his own interests in every motion or moment saved, in every product improved or maintained at perfection, in every service rendered through prompt, thorough, effective distribution of products.

This interested, eager group of fellow partners working with us for the good of Swift & Company and the public which we serve, constitutes one-half of the ownership of Swift & Company in point of numbers, and nearly one-sixth in point of shares outstanding.

It represents practical and successful progress toward the end at which enlightened modern industry is aiming for the solution of industrial problems—toward cooperation, mutuality, brotherhood in business, for the good of all.

NEWS REPORTER GATHERS DATA REGARDING HISTORIC QUANTICO

Is One Of The Ancient Land-Marks Of This Section—Quantico Creek, Upon Which The Town Is Located, Drains Most Fertile Rural Section Of County—Birthplace Of Robert Emory Pattison, Gov. Of Pa. In 1882.

Quantico is one of the ancient land marks of Wicomico county, antedating its formation many years, being one of the social and industrial places in upper Somerset county, closely identified with the political headquarters at the county seat, Princess Anne. It is located on the north of Quantico creek, from which it derives its name, which is of Indian origin meaning a "dancing place," and for many years the people exemplified its traditional definition. The topography of the surrounding territory is excellent and nature's draining system finds its outlet in Quantico creek. This creek has its source in the various little streams that merge into a larger stream near Rockawalkin flowing on toward the setting sun until it reaches what was once Davis' Mill. Here the water was dammed by the early settlers and two mills erected, one a vertical saw mill to saw the timber and the other a primitive grist mill to grind the corn, wheat and rye. After serving its purpose the water passed through the gates on in its natural channel until again dammed at the Bailey Mill, about a mile below. Here too were erected both saw and grist mills, the latter being the last of its kind to pass out of use on the creek. About a mile below this the water was again made to do service and was utilized to grind the products of the field and saw the timber of the forest. There was a saw mill and also a grist mill. These were kept up for many years and until steam power driving modern machinery took their place.

This creek is said to drain the most fertile rural section of Wicomico county, being adapted to the growth of corn, wheat, clover and a variety of vegetables. As an evidence of its fertility we have only to direct the reader's attention to the prosperity of the community. Their possessions, personal and real, are the direct product of the soil, gathered by the busy hands of toil. There is no other source. The town has never been favored with manufacturing industries, nothing to give employment but that which is produced from the field and forest. This has been the condition from the earliest settlements and the chief business through the ages of the past (and true now) has been to fell the timber, put it to market either in cord wood or lumber, saw, plant, cultivate and reap the golden harvest with the smiles of nature ever beaming upon them.

This creek flows on in its natural meanderings until it empties into the Nanticoke river. Not only were roads leading to the mills, but quite a number of wharves were built along the creek and being navigable for large boats it was at one time a busy shipping channel for grain, wood and lumber. Roads were built to these wharves. This however has been greatly reduced and while the creek is much used other means of transit are being employed.

Quantico has not been favored with improved highways like some of the other sections of the county. The Wicomico steamer for many years was the chief means of shipment and the wharf was several miles away; then came the railroad with Hebron, the nearest shipping point and it three miles away with very bad roads much of the year. In spite of these disadvantages no community has achieved more independence than this. While the town may appear somewhat isolated there is no town of its size on the Shore that does a more conservative, more prosperous mercantile business than Quantico. This business is supported by the industry surrounding the town coming in by way of cash and the products of garden, field and woods.

While some of the land in this section may be considered low, it is easily drained and the vast timber sections, before the clearing and cultivating, formed the attractive feature that induced the people moving up from Virginia to locate here. While some few came up the Nanticoke and up the creek most of the earlier settlers came up the Wicomico and worked out from the river into the forest as it then appeared to the people looking for homes and a good place to rear families.

The very best type of citizens settled in and near Quantico and from them has developed some of the best blood in the county, men of strong, stalwart characters, living and moving on a high plane of sociability and rated among the best and most substantial people in the social, commercial and political activities of the county. It is one of the few places in the county that could count among its associations the best people of Salisbury and dating back at least a century the very closest social relations existed between the people of Quantico and Salisbury. They had their social meetings, both at Salisbury and Quantico distinctively their own and shared each others confidence and fellowship and this intimacy has never been lost, but still exists as a traditional legacy preserved from generation to generation. There has always been in the people of Quantico a manliness, a gentility of elegance that has given them a place among the strong yeomanry of State and county. They have a friendly, social air that makes them easily approached and to know them is to appreciate the sterling worth and as an evidence of their ability and achievements the writer would call attention to some of the men who have gone out from this little town and have held their own with the great men of State and nation. They had their social meetings, both at Salisbury and Quantico distinctively their own and shared each others confidence and fellowship and this intimacy has never been lost, but still exists as a traditional legacy preserved from generation to generation. There has always been in the people of Quantico a manliness, a gentility of elegance that has given them a place among the strong yeomanry of State and county. They have a friendly, social air that makes them easily approached and to know them is to appreciate the sterling worth and as an evidence of their ability and achievements the writer would call attention to some of the men who have gone out from this little town and have held their own with the great men of State and nation. HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK

It is very rare that the average newspaper boasts its own business, but gives quantities of space in boosting the affairs of others.

Somebody suggested that it was time for the newspapers of the country to adopt a week in which their own business should be given precedent, and The News thoroughly endorses the idea.

The date set is the second week in November, from the 7th to the 12th, including the great world event, Armistice Day.

The official title for the week will be "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week."

Thousands of papers will join in this event, and our readers will hear more about it as time goes on.

Ever ready to help in any cause that is in the interest of a better community, better living conditions, and better government, we now ask the readers and advertisers of Wicomico News to turn in and lend a hand during "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper Week," and be

RACE TRACK GAMBLING.

Once again we hear the clicking of the mutual betting machines on the big Maryland race tracks, and from now until the latter part of November they'll sing their tunes to the accompaniment of joy and wailing—mostly wailing. Havre de Grace has opened its gates to the bettors and Laurel, Bowie and Pimlico are all waiting for their respective turns at the public's purse. And, incidentally, the State of Maryland has its finger in the pie to the extent of $6,000 a day exacted as its part of the toll!

With the opening of the big Maryland tracks, this State will be the Mecca of the great host of bettors that every Fall and Spring flock southward from New York and environs to make this State the scene of their betting activities. They will be amongst us merely for the reason that Maryland, under the licensed system of race track betting as legalized by this State, has been turned into a super-fine gambling resort—a gambling playground legally sanctioned.

Here we have no "whispering" betting and furtive glances of the bettor and "bookie" such as obtain in New York. The whole shebang in this State is open and above board, for the State of Maryland is one of the most profitable partners in the whole gambling enterprise—a partner that exacts $6,000 per day as its share of the spoils.

At the coming session of the Maryland Legislature, a bitter fight will be waged against continuance of legalized race track gambling in this state, and it will be a battle royal from start to finish. Exponents of race track gambling will exert every effort to block adverse legislation; threats of political extermination and the like for those who oppose the gamblers undoubtedly will be made—such tactics are the usual procedure. But, if the legislators who will have the honor of being members of the next General Assembly have the real interests of this State at heart, if they want to remove the stigma from Maryland's fair name of being a Gambler's Paradise, they will do well to line up solidly behind the movement to put an end once and forever to race track gambling within our confines.

One well known breeder of thoroughbred horses has stated that racing is essential in order to keep thoroughbred strains of horseflesh extant. Such may be true, but if it comes to a question of legally sanctioning betting in order that horse-racing may survive, if it simmers down to the point that to breed horses we at the same time breed an army of gamblers, then we unequivocally say "do away with the horse-breeding." The breeding of upright men, in our opinion, is far more important than the breeding of horses—and race-track betting implants a gambling poison that when once injected into the system is little short of being ruinous.

Maryland's Six-Thousand-Dollars-A-Day partnership in the race tracks is a blot upon the name of this State, and it is the duty of the 1922 legislators to obliterate it.

ATTEND THE REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The revival services that will be conducted in the First Regiment Army here, beginning October 9 and lasting for five weeks, will come at a particularly appropriate time, and it is earnestly hoped that every citizen of the community will get behind the movement and make the occasion a notable one for the religious advancement of the city and county.

Evangelistic meetings such as will be held in Salisbury will give everyone an opportunity for doing good. When we attend these meetings and are brought face to face with the realization that as a people we appear to be drifting farther and farther away from the teachings of Christ, and that our spiritual selves need rehabilitating, a vast amount of good has been done. Only by daily practice of the doctrines of Christ can we hope to improve ourselves spiritually, and these revival meetings will help point the way for us in emulating Him.

The evangelistic party that will come to Salisbury is reported as being one of the best in the country, and it is one that has been exerting a splendid religious influence in all of its campaigns. Dr. J. H. McCombe, the Presbyterian minister who heads the party and who will preach at all of the Salisbury services, is an evangelist who carries his message straight home to his audience in language that appeals to and makes responsive the spiritual emotions. Everywhere that he has preached, Dr. McCombe's influence has been felt long after his departure, and the results obtained have been most beneficial in spiritually improving the city visited.

In the McCombe-Clase party also will be evangelistic workers who will direct the singing and take part in each song service as soloists, and all other arrangements have been worked out for making the services especially attractive and appealing to everyone. To make the meetings a big success, however, the co-operation of all the churches is requested. With all of the churches lending their strength to make the five-week campaign a big religious affair, we are confident that the results will be both beneficial and lasting.

Aside from the large number of conversions usually obtained when powerful revival meetings are in progress, the mere attendance at such services always does one a world of good. For the church-goer, it is a time for spiritual stock-taking, a time for more strongly fortifying the Faith he possesses and a time when he can lend a helping hand in leading others to see the Light. Many persons who have stopped their church-going are led back into the fold following revival services. Therefore, you will be doing a great service to yourself, to your fellow-man and to your community by enthusiastically supporting and attending the approaching revivals.

MR. AND MRS.

What wonderful thoughts come up when these two abbreviations are printed in a news item—what intense human interest these portray!

In the weekly paper they take the one big place in all news items, from the simple visit to relatives to the larger matters of human life.

"Mr. and Mrs."—the great news item of the universe, the bringer of recollections to the man far from home who takes his old home town paper and reads the items of "Mr. and Mrs." and lets his mind wander back to the days when he knew the Mr. in knee pants and the Mrs. in short skirts.

It's the home town paper where the real Mr. and Mrs. news occurs—and to receive the home town paper week in and week out is to know the great happenings of the world, the doings of Mr. and Mrs.

Who has left his old home town and settled in the appearance of his old home town paper usually acts like a tonic to his system—he gives it preference over all other reading because it keeps him in close touch with what is going on back at home, in touch with what "Mr. and Mrs." are doing. And in no other way can he keep as close tab on the things of interest that are transpiring in his old home town than by making sure that the home town weekly is received each week in the year.

"Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper" Week is set for the second week in November, from the 7th to the 12th. If you don't take the home town paper, subscribe then. If you do take it, renew your subscription.

Uncle John's Poem~

If you find yourself a-sinkin' in the quagmire of despair, till you get to spend yer energies in comin' up fer air—remember, that it's judgment that gets you anywhere,

SWIM OUT!

If th' worries allers prods you when awake, or when in bed, an' th' hail-stones of foreboding keep a-peltin' thru yer head—remember that a fainty heart don't win yer daily bread,

KICK LOOSE!

The problems in this life of our'n was made to be attacked; to solve 'em as you meet 'em, makes you happier in fact—an oblivion will be sweeter, when yer mortal doom has cracked,

EDITORIAL LETTERBOX

The News invites letters on any and all subjects of general interest which will be published if feasible in this column. All communications must be signed, though signature will not be published unless the writer so desires. Anonymous epistles will not be considered. Manuscripts will be returned if practicable. While judging all correspondence on its merits from the viewpoint of good ethics of journalism, the News disclaims responsibility for any statement made herein incompatible with its policies and good judgment.

To the Editor:—

It seems the advocates of strong drink are marshaling every force and power at their command to again enthroned the Rum Demon, and some of the editors of our great daily papers seem to take great pleasure at every opportunity in slamming away at the Volstead act and the prohibition law in general. The writer firmly believes it would be far more creditable to our dear editors that they stop beating the devil around the bush, get from astride the fence and declare themselves unreservedly opposed to this prohibition of the liquor traffic. When some dare devil bootlegger swoops down on some town and succeeds in peddling out his vile stuff to the rum gugglers to keep their hides soaked in rum, the editor seizes the pen and writes long editorials one of which appeared in one of the Baltimore dailies of recent date, condemning the Eighteenth Amendment and with a pessimistic whim declares the country is going to ruin and that congress should speedily modify the law that the people may have some rum. All hail to our Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. God help him to stand by his guns to the last ditch to keep inviolate the prohibition law. All true Americans will rally to his support and victory will perch on the brow of a sober America. Let no one listen to this silly rabble about our personal liberty being taken away. There must be no compromise. Oh, then rum fiend kick back to hell with your shackles to slavery that so long, so long, legally manacled our nation. See the Potter's field. It is white with the bleached bones of tens of thousands of lost victims. Thou has rung from the heart and soul of helpless womanhood and childhood enough tears to float the navies of the world. Thank God! Thank God! For the great army of Rinzahs that will brave the very threshold of hell to beat back the jackals of rum, and by the help of the Eternal God never again shall this black winged culture pibbet our fair daughters and sons by law.

DELMARVIA AGAIN IS HIGHLY HONORED

Hon. John Bassett Moore, Native Of Felton, Del., Appointed One Of Judges Of World's Court.

It is gratifying to note that Delmarvia Peninsula has again been greatly honored in the recent appointment of Hon. John Bassett Moore as one of the Judges of the World's International Court. He is, in fact, the only one selected in the United States for that highest of all judicial positions. He is a native of Felton, Delaware and at one time was Assistant Secretary of the United States and now is Professor of International Law at Columbia University, New York.

That Mr. Moore still cherishes a love for his native section is evident in the following letter written by him to John S. McMaster a native of the Eastern Shore and now a lawyer in Jersey City, New Jersey.

"Mr. John S. McMaster, 1 Exchange Place, Jersey City, N. J. My dear Sir:

Let me thank you very cordially for your congratulations of the 15th inst. The occasion certainly would have been incomplete if I had not heard from a representative of the Eastern Shore, that land of delight which, as a boy, I learned to think of as the source of almost everything that was good.

Very truly yours,
J. B. MOORE."

FRANK A. ROBERTSON TO RUN FOR MAYOR

Former Salisbury and Delmar Newspaper Man, Enters Politics of Washington, N. J.

The last issue of the Washington Star, an up-to-date weekly of twenty pages, owned and published by Mr. F. A. Robertson, at Washington, N. J., contained the following article in regard to Mr. Robertson's activities in that New Jersey town:

"At a meeting attended by over a score of the leading business men of Washington at Borough Hall last night, F. A. Robertson was nominated as a business men's candidate for the next Mayor of Washington.

"Mr. Robertson stated that he did not desire the nomination, and had as his reasons among others, that he did not feel that he had been a resident of the borough a sufficient length of time; that he did not have the time to devote to the borough's welfare to the extent that he thought the mayor should; that he was interested already in doing work for the public good, such as the band, etc., and that another candidate should be selected. It was the consensus of opinion, however, that he should be drafted for the job, and he agreed to accept the nomination for the same reason that he accepted the leadership of the band, namely, that he hoped he might do his bit in helping Washington to grow larger and better.

"It was understood and agreed that he be permitted to refuse the nomination should it develop into a fight for the honor. Accepting the nomination against his wishes, he felt that he should not be expected to enter into any campaign for votes; that if the men and women of the town who want a progressive community favored his nomination, they would vote for him without argument.

"Mr. Robertson stated flatly that he did not want the mayoralty, and that if he accepted it, it would be because he felt it a public duty to practice what he preaches, and what he urges others to do—do something for the progress, welfare and prosperity of Washington.

"Mr. Robertson stated that he is opposed to one-man government, and he hoped that, if elected, an organization of prominent men would be formed looking toward cooperation with the mayor and councilmen in helping the public welfare, and that the people of the town would have enough interest in its affairs to work together with him and with the council to one common end."

Mr. Robertson is well known in this section, having been a former resident of Delmar, where he published Delmar's first newspaper, the old Delmar News. He was for a time the editor of The Courier in Salisbury and numbers among his friends many Salisbury people. Especially among the band fraternities is he remembered, having been the organizer of a band at Delmar, and having on numerous occasions played with the Salisbury Band.

THE FINE OLD HOME PAPER

I look for it each week as regularly it comes, And when the postman brings it in, I drop all other chums, I drink it in, from start to fin, ridiculous and sublime, That fine old home town paper, one of the good old time.

News From Our County Correspondents

MARDELA SPRINGS

The other day, a gentleman breathing out curses against our country, because, as he said, "It had robbed him of the right to drink." Should he have exercised for a moment, the grey matter in his brain, he might have learned a great lesson. And this is what he might have learned. Our great country, at the breaking out of the war, was up against this problem. That we could not pay the price of winning the war and pay our drink bill at the same time and as one or the other had to go, we cut off the staggering drink bill, let it go unpaid. And in this did we not show profound wisdom?

In the talk of refunding the foreign debt to this country, it is claimed that England, one of the debtor nations, cannot pay what she owes us. I beg you to "put this fact into your pipe and smoke it." The British Isles spent last year for liquor alone, nearly one-half what she owes the United States. The amount she borrowed from us during the Great War and upon which she has paid no interest, is four billion, two hundred and seventy-seven dollars. Their drink bill last year is estimated at two billion dollars. In view of these facts, isn't it silly to say that Great Britain is not able to pay to the United States what she borrowed from us?

Some of our people have been putting their heads together and trying to account for the result of the primaries last week. One man in being appealed to for his version of the matter, just said: "And the next day it rained." Have you a better answer? If so, out with it.

Mrs. W. O. Lankford and little son, Billy, are spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Isabelle Walter, Mrs. Lankford is from Princess Anne.

Mr. John Adkins is having trouble with his back. It seems strange to see one so active as John, hobbling around on a cane.

Mr. John Adams and wife are spending some days in Baltimore with their son, Walter, who is employed there.

We have been asked: "Is it possible to oppose a man politically and at the same time be on good terms with him socially and religiously?" Our answer is "most certainly." This present writer once ran for Congress and when he consented to run, he put himself up as a target for everybody, but those who voted for him, to shoot at him. And among this class were some who were among his best friends, only they didn't agree with him politically.

Mrs. A. J. Kennerly, of Sharptown; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Feldner, Mrs. Herman Ramsey and little son, Herman, of Baltimore, and Mr. Raymond Kennerly, of Sharptown, spent the week with Mr. D. B. Owens and family.

It would be hard to find a more gentlemanly set of men than the Mardela people found in the telephone men, who were here a few days ago cutting the tree tops away from the wires. It pays to be a gentleman at all times and in every place. And we also feel that a word should be said in favor of the young men who are delivering ice here this summer. These ice men are exceedingly nice men.

Thanks to the Bentztown Band, in the Baltimore Sun, for his humorous notices of items in our letters to the Wicomico News. In such scorching times as these a man is a public benefactor who can succeed in making people laugh. The man who really enjoys a good laugh is out of the danger zone.

There was a large number of members of the Ladies' Aid and Missionary Societies of the Baptist Church present at the home of Mrs. B. G. Parker on Wednesday night. Mrs. G. W. Gorrell is president.

Miss Florence Hopkins is the authorized agent in this section for the California Perfume Company.

Mr. Thomas Bounds is again on the "sick list."

It is well said that there is an undercurrent in law that individual rights end where peril to society begins. Apply this to the drink traffic and see how it works.

Dewey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Robinson, was operated on for the appendicitis on Monday of last week. He is doing well.

Last Friday Mr. Percy Gilbert, one of our local school trustees, used his big truck to take the members of the American History Class on a field trip to Old Green Hill Church on the Wicomico river below Quantico. The class was treated to a very interesting and instructive talk on the history of the place by Mr. Cassius M. Dashiell, of Princess Anne, who illustrated his remarks by actually pointing out objects in and about the old church, many of which long antedated the Revolution. About sunset a fire was built and a picnic supper prepared. The moonlight ride back to Mardela ended a unique and profitable outing. This is only the first of several trips being planned to supplement the regular High School work this year.

The Rev. Mr. Gorrell spoke to the school here last Wednesday morning, his subject being "Education." Several speakers of more than usual interest have been engaged for the near future, and it is to be hoped the parents and friends of the school children will bear in mind that nothing adds to the success of these "exercises" as much as a delegation of adults each Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Plans for a big Halloween entertainment at the school are well under way. The school needs money, of course, but it is far more important that its patrons enjoy a real "get-together" meeting at that time.

Owing to the extreme dry weather this summer the limit of salt water in the Nanticoke river is above the town and as a consequence vast quantities of salt water fish have been caught here this season. Usually the salt water comes just above Vienna.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Protestant Church will hold an oyster supper in the basement of the church on Saturday, Sept. 24.

Berkley Phillips is home from Chester, Pa., and will begin in a few days the erection of a new home on the State road close to the town limits near the baseball grounds.

A reduction of the freight rates on fertilizers and other commodities is well received.

J. P. Cooper and U. T. Gravenor accompanied a company of gentlemen from Salisbury last week to Baltimore, Gettysburg, Philadelphia and other points of interest and were gone three days.

A group meeting of revivalistic features will be held in the M. E. Church on Friday night of this week. Several ministers will be present and make addresses.

A county preachers' meeting will be held in the M. E. Church here on Monday afternoon and evening of next week, Sept. 26.

The boys of the Sharptown High School have elected officers for their Athletic Association as follows: Lawrence Cooper, president; James Owens, vice president; Chauncey Nuttall, secretary and treasurer. The association will take care of the soccer ball, and in this they will strive for the championship of the Eastern Shore. They also will take care of the baseball and all track events.

NEGRO IS FATALLY STABBED BY WHITE MAN

Stephen Long, Colored, Dies After Being Attacked On Streets of Pocomoke By John A. Pilchard.

John A. Pilchard, a farmer of Stockton, Md., while in Pocomoke City Tuesday afternoon of last week, stabbed to death Stephen H. Long, a colored man of Pocomoke City.

It is said that John A. Pilchard and his brother, William, both farmers, went to Pocomoke City from their farms, about seven miles distant, driving a horse and carriage. After transacting several matters of business in town, they drove to the bicycle shop of Noah Gunby, colored. John A. Pilchard left the carriage and went into the bicycle shop to transact some business, leaving his brother, William, outside.

While John A. Pilchard was still in the store, it is reported that some pistol shots were fired by some unknown person in the rear of the store and that soon thereafter Long, accompanied by his daughter, came along the street. It is said he was accused by William Pilchard of "carrying a gun."

This charge was denied by Long and it is said an argument with Pilchard took place, whereupon William Pilchard is alleged to have attacked Long. The two, it is said, were clinched in a struggle when John A. Pilchard came out of the shop. It is reported that he immediately drew his pocketknife and rushed into the struggle, stabbing Long.

The wounded negro was immediately rushed to the office of Dr. N. E. Sartorius, in Pocomoke City, who rendered first aid. He was then started for the Salisbury Hospital, but death took place when the automobile was scarcely two miles from Pocomoke City.

The dead man was perhaps the leading colored citizen of the town, having been principal of the colored school there for a number of years. He was recently made county superintendent of colored schools for Worcester county.

John A. Pilchard was arrested by Corporal Powell, of the State Motorcycle Police, and placed in the town lockup. At the direction of State's Attorney William G. Kerbin, he was removed to the county jail at Snow Hill by Sheriff L. W. Onley, where he is being held.

The Pilchard brothers are both married men of middle age.

TWO NAVAL ACADEMY VACANCIES IN MARYLAND

Appointments Will Be Made By Sen. Weller By Competitive "Exams" To Be Held October 29.

Senator O. E. Weller will make two appointments to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis by competitive examinations to be held on October 29.

The appointments are to fill two vacancies which will occur there in June, 1922.

The Senator is a graduate of the Academy, and secured his appointment by competitive examination. He has determined to give the young men of Maryland the same opportunity he had himself. This gives every boy an equal chance without regard to influence, and will also assure to the Government the best material for making future Naval officers.

A competitive examination for these two appointments will be held by the United States Civil Service Commission on October 29, 1921, at Baltimore, Annapolis, Cumberland, Hagerstown, Easton and Salisbury. Any boy who will have passed his sixteenth birthday, and not his twentieth, on April 1, 1922, will be eligible to compete. Senator Weller will appoint the two who are certified by the Civil Service Commission as having passed the best examinations.

Senator Weller will be glad to furnish any additional information desired, including a form showing the scope and character of the competitive examination, etc. Write him at Room 227, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

RESTORES SERVICE QUICKLY AFTER FIRE

C. & P. Telephone Co., Does Some Quick Work In Repairing Lines Damaged By Denton, Md., Fire.

The fire which destroyed the private garage of Mr. Lee Walston, located in the rear of his residence on Franklin street which is directly back of the Telephone Company's building in Denton, Maryland, on Tuesday morning at 5 A. M. brought to light a piece of particularly quick and efficient trouble work on the part of the C. & P. Telephone Company. The fire did considerable damage to the Telephone Company's system, burning 22 trunk lines, 56 local lines, and a 400 pair cable which interrupted the service of 80 telephone subscribers.

Immediately after the fire, the Telephone Company had its workmen on the scene restoring the service and by 10 A. M. the 22 trunk lines were repaired, and this immediate territory over the Telephone Company's long distance lines. Before the firemen had returned to their quarters the Telephone Company had some of its local lines repaired.

Owing to the Company's 400 pair cable being burned it was necessary for the local lines to be restored temporarily and the Company immediately arranged to transport by special automobile service expert cable workmen to make the necessary repairs to the burned cable. This not only means a tremendous expense to the Company in construction work, it also interferes with the service. Fortunately, the Company is well organized and well equipped to take care of these troubles.

STREET TREE PLANTING A MUNICIPAL FUNCTION

Should Be Planted And Cared For Under Municipal Control, Say Government Officials.

The tree growth on the streets of the average American town or city is ragged and unkempt in appearance, while that of the suburb or small village often is not much better unless the planting has been done under municipal control, and the plantings on a street have been confined to a single kind of tree. The telephone, the telephone, the electric light, and the trolley car have added their share toward the mutilation or destruction of the good trees that were in existence at the time of their coming.

Faulty methods of pruning have caused disfigurement and ruin. "Success follows the careful planting of good trees which are given adequate protection and timely attention," says Farmers' Bulletin 1209, Planting and Care of Street Trees, just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. "Every tree should be trained to its proper form while young so that severe pruning will not be necessary later. Guards are necessary, too, for several years.

"To the mutilation of severe pruning has been added the destruction of many trees in centers of business because they excluded a little light, or made the store less prominent, or were somewhat in the way of using the sidewalk for merchandise."

The bulletin insists that providing shade on city streets is as much a municipal function as providing lights or sidewalks and should, therefore, be cared for by public officials. Probably the most efficient way of arranging for proper supervision, it says, is through an unpaid commission of three or five members which in turn employs an executive officer. Methods of organization are described, and numerous illustrations show how trees should be planted. There are chapters also describing pruning, spraying, transplanting, and other subjects of importance to every town or city whether it has trees or wishes to have them. The bulletin may be had free upon application to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

IN MEMORIAM

IN SAD BUT LOVING REMEMBRANCE of my daughter, C. Ida Maddox, who died on the steamer Virginia one year ago, the 25th September.

One year of silent sorrow, One year of grief and pain, We miss you when the morning dawns, We miss you when the night returns.

We saw you suffer, heard you sigh, With throbbing heart and streaming eyes, But now calmly sleep at last, All pain, all grief and sorrow past.

We often go to see your grave, And keep the verdure green, And place some potted flowers Upon the peaceful scene.

We never can forget you, Ida, While in this world we stay, And our heart has never been the same, Since you were called away.

By Her Loving Mother, Husband, Children and Brothers. 254

COURT WAS ADJOURNED ON TUESDAY

September Term Circuit Court
For Wicomico Ended Late In Afternoon.

MANY CRIMINAL AND CIVIL CASES TRIED

Court Metes Out Sentences Of 18 Months In House Of Correction To Several Convicted On Criminal Charges—Suit For $30,000 Against
B. C. & A. Taken From Jury.

The September Term of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county was adjourned Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Court had been in session since Monday of last week and before adjournment quite a number of criminal and civil cases were disposed of.

Crisp Bates, indicted for larceny, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction.
Ralph McAllister, who was indicted for receiving stolen goods, was found guilty and sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction. McAllister entered an appeal to the Maryland Court of Appeals and was released under $1,000 bond pending the appeal.

For carrying concealed weapons
Charles Birkhead, colored, was sent to the House of Reformation until he reaches the age of 21 years. Sidney Wright, colored, who was indicted for assault with intent to murder, was sentenced to serve one year in the Maryland Penitentiary.

Burley Jones, colored, was given 18 months in the House of Correction for breaking into a store house; Edward Maddox, indicted for larceny, was given 18 months in the House of Correction.

$30,000 Suit Is Lost.

Edward Cornish and Richard Long, both colored, accused of breaking into shop and receiving stolen goods, were sentenced to 18 months and 6 months, respectively, in the House of Correction. Albert Jones, colored, indicted for breaking into dwelling house with intent to commit larceny, was found guilty, but sentence was suspended and he was paroled in the custody of J. Frank Parker for four years. Earl McGlotten, colored, was found guilty of carrying concealed weapons and fined $150, which was paid.

The trial case which was expected to prove the most bitterly contested of this term of court—the Murrill vs.
Cruver case—was removed to Somerset county.

A verdict for the defendant was rendered in the $30,000 suit of the State of Maryland use of Turner Bros.
Co., for benefit of Manufacturers Liability Insurance Co., and for benefit of Mrs. Verda Parker, widow, and Irene Elizabeth and Marian Wesley Parker, infant children of J. Clarence Parker, vs. the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company. The court took the case from the jury and granted all the prayers of the defendant.

The case of the Camden Sewer Company vs. Mayor and City Council, of Salisbury, was removed to Worcester county.

A verdict for plaintiff for $500 was rendered in the case of S. P. Woodcock and S. Franklyn Woodcock, trading as S. P. Woodcock & Co., vs.
Carter Denson. This case was removed from Frederick county.

The Grand Jury, upon completing its work last week, rendered the following report:

To the Honorable, the Judges of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county,
State of Maryland, September Term, 1921.

We wish to advise that this Grand Jury opened each morning with prayer and was conducted in the most gentle and orderly manner.

We have examined thirty-nine witnesses and find eleven true bills, as follows: Two receiving stolen goods;
four larceny; one breaking into shop, etc.; one wife desertion; one breaking into dwelling; one carrying concealed weapons.

We wish to express our thanks to the State's Attorney for the thorough and efficient manner in which the cases were presented and had been investigated, and his able assistance to us; also to the Sheriff and the other officers of the law for the promptness with which all the witnesses called by the Jury were brought before it.

Committees were appointed to investigate the condition of the Court House, jail and the Alms House, and their reports were unanimously adopted and are herewith attached.

Respectfully submitted,

RALPH H. GRIER, Foreman.

To the Honorable, the Grand Jury
for the September Term, 1921, of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county,
State of Maryland:

We wish to advise that we have visited and inspected the County Jail and Court House, and our report is as follows:

We found the Jail clean and kept in as good condition as it is possible to keep a building of this character. We found thirteen prisoners, all colored.

We wish to take this opportunity of congratulating Sheriff Larmore and Mrs. Larmore on their efforts to keep the jail in as sanitary condition as possible, and we found no complaint on the part of the prisoners against any of the conditions that prevailed.

We would recommend that some repairs be made. We found the walls somewhat defaced and holes from one cell to another where the bricks have become loose. We also found that the plastering between the bricks in some of the cells had come out, leaving holes which we believe would lead to unsanitary conditions, and would recommend that these walls be repaired; also that the walls in the cells be painted a dark color, probably gray, from the height of the window sill to the floor, which we believe would add to the appearance and be much easier to be kept clean. We found that the floor in one of the cells as well as the floor in the down stairs hall, needs repairing. We found that two of the toilets leaked and discolored the walls in the rooms below. We also found that the cellar steps are getting weak and need attention. We would recommend that these repairs be attended to as promptly as possible.

We found the conditions in the Court House exceptionally good, and we wish to compliment Mr. James White, the custodian, on his efforts.

We would recommend that a fire proof, steel filing cabinet, of adequate size, be placed in the Register of Wills office to relieve the congested condition of his vault.

We also wish to take this opportunity of congratulating all the County Officials occupying rooms in the Court House for the very neat and efficient manner in which they are keeping and conducting their respective offices.

Respectfully submitted,

THE CHIEF PROBLEM TO BE SETTLED NEXT NOVEMBER

J. M. INSLEY,
RALPH H. GRIER,

Committee.
Dated this fourteenth day of September, 1921.

To the Honorable the Grand Jury
for the September Term, 1921, of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county,
State of Maryland.

We, the undersigned committee appointed to visit the County Alms House, submit the following report:

On our visit to the Alms House Farm, Sept. 14th, 1921, we found the following: Four white inmates, three males, one female; five colored inmates, three males, two females; sixteen shoats in pen to kill, valued at $200.00; 3 brood cows, valued at $100.00; one mule, valued at $25.00; six mules valued at $1,000.00; four cows valued at $125.00; estimated about 450 chickens; about 26 acres of corn; estimated to gather about 1-500 bushels; 200 bushels of wheat, and the following list of farming implements and machinery: one-fourth interest in binder; 1 mowder; 1 one-horse corn harvester; 1 Disc pulverizer; 2 horse walking plows; 1 riding plow;
3 hand cultivators; 1 iron drag; 1 farm wagon; 1 horse cart; 1 dayton; 1 two horse corn planter; 1 one horse plow.
All the inmates seem to be well cared for. The rooms were in fine condition. The corn crop has been well cultivated and is looking fine.

The general appearance around the premises is good. We would recommend in accordance with the suggestion made by Mr. Mills, the keeper, that the present cow shed be moved nearer the large barn and a shed built in between the cow shed and barn.

In conclusion we wish to congratulate both Mr. and Mrs. Mills on the way they are conducting the farm and in their efforts to make the inmates there as comfortable as possible.

107th Anniversary Of National Anthem

"Star Spangled Banner" Was Written Sept. 14, 1814 During Bombardment Of Fort Mchenry.

Last Wednesday was the 107th anniversary of the birth of "The Star Spangled Banner."

During the British bombardment of Fort Mchenry near Baltimore, in the War of 1812, Francis Scott Key was sent in a boat to carry a message to the British commander. When he reached the flagship he was imprisoned on it.

At dawn on September 14, 1814, Key, looking through a port-hole, saw the Stars and Stripes still waving in the glare of the rockets. This sight gave to America its national anthem.

Key set his words to an old tune —"Anacreon in Heaven", and his song won instant popularity.

The poet was thirty-four years old when he wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner." Born in Frederick County, Maryland, in 1780, Key was brought up near Baltimore and was graduated from St. John's College at Annapolis.
He achieved prominence as a lawyer no less than as a writer of verse, and at one time was District Attorney of Washington, D. C. He died in 1843, at the age of sixty-three.

TWO PERFORMANCES AT "Y" ON SATURDAY NIGHT

First Movie Show Will Start At 7 P.
M. and Next At 8 P. M.—Will Show "Buntly Pulls the String."

An excellent seven-reel comedy picture has been secured by "Y" officials for the regular weekly "movie" show which will be given in the association's auditorium Saturday night. "Buntly Pulls the String" is the title of the picture, which is said to be one that makes an instant appeal to both the kiddies and the grown-ups.

Owing to the fact that the crowds have been increasing each week at the "Y's" picture shows, Mr. Hammer-slough has decided to give two performances this Saturday evening.
The first show will start at 7 P. M., and the second performance will be staged at 8.30 P. M. In this way it is believed that everyone will get a chance to see the picture.

Mr. Wm. Boggs, physical director of the "Y," started Tuesday on his work of directing the athletic activities at the Jackson & Gutman Company plant. Next week he will perform similar service at the plant of the E. S. Adkins & Company.

The noon-day shop meetings which are held twice weekly are proving to be very successful affairs. Dr. Joseph T. Herson was the speaker at the Adkins Company plant Tuesday and also will speak at the Jackson & Gutman plant on Friday. Next week, the speaker for the meetings will be Rev.
Robert A. Boyle.

Mr. Hammerslough reports that the "gym" classes at the "Y" are being largely attended.

studies usually taught in the public schools of the county to children of these ages; provided, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to children whose mental and physical condition is such as to render the instruction above described inexpedient or impracticable. - "Mental Incapacity" shall be interpreted to mean feeble-mindedness or such nervous disorders as make it either impossible for such a child to profit by the instruction given in the school, or impracticable for the teacher properly to instruct the normal pupils of the school; and the attendance officer may require of the parent a certificate to this effect, signed by a reputable physician.
7. Violent Storms.
- "Violent Storms" shall be interpreted to mean only conditions of the weather as would endanger the health or safety of the child when in transit to and from school.

GOVERNMENT TO MAKE BANK NOTES SMALLER

Radical Change Planned in Size of Paper Money Now Manufactured
By Uncle Sam.

The Government will soon radically change the form of its paper money, which has remained unaltered almost since the foundation of the Republic. Bills will be made smaller.

Several reasons dictate the change. First, is that of economy. The paper which is now used, because of a secret process, is only obtainable at a high cost.

The process, perfected under the direction of the late Senator W. Murray Crane, is said to weave silk threads in the paper in such a manner as to defy successful imitation.

Another reason for the change as explained by a Treasury official is wholly practical. He said:

"The bills now are really adapted only to persons of large hands and long fingers. A shorter and smaller note will be more easily counted by tellers, cashiers and all who have to handle large sums of money."

Additional safeguards against counterfeiting constitute another reason for the decision to issue new notes. The suggestion is being considered that bills of different denominations be issued in varying sizes.

Such a scheme, it is pointed out, will make it impossible to raise a two-dollar note to a twenty.

Other changes contemplated are the use of distinctive backs for the same denomination of all issues and the placing of the legends required by law on the face of the notes and not on the back as at present.

ALL-RUBBER STORAGE BATTERY IS INVENTED

All Jars Are Eliminated and Threaded Rubber Used Between Plates Instead of Wooden Separators.

An all-rubber storage battery—this is the latest achievement in the development of the electrical system on the modern motorcar, according to an announcement of T. A. Willard, inventor and founder of the battery manufacturing company which bears his name.

"Everything is of rubber excepting the plates or grids," said Mr. Willard. "The wooden battery box is done away with and replaced by a hard-rubber case. This change has made possible another important one, for with the wooden box there passes the separate rubber jar heretofore required for each battery cell.

"The new case being of rubber, it has been found practicable to mold it with seamless partitions, which eliminate the necessity for jars. The term 'Monoblock,' which has been applied, describes the one-piece construction satisfactorily. Between the plates threaded rubber instead of wooden separators are used. This use of rubber, however, is not entirely new, having been started six years ago under Willard patents. It is in the development of the new case and the bringing together of rubber container and rubber separators that the latest important advance has been made.

"The molded rubber case, besides eliminating the separate battery jar, resists decay and corrosion in much greater degree than the wooden container, being unaffected by the acid solution or by water. Also, since rubber is a non-conductor, it markedly reduces electrical leakage, which is especially likely to be present with wooden cases in damp weather. It has a tensile strength of 3,600 pounds to the square inch and must stand 18,000 volt electrical test. In making this test two wireless transformers capable of sending 1,000 miles were used."

School Of Commerce Started At U. Of Md.

Day and Evening Courses in Accountancy and Business Administration Will Be Offered.

In response to an increasing demand, the University of Maryland has organized a School of Commerce to give educational preparation to young men and women in business. The general aim of the courses will be to develop executives rather than subordinates.

The School of Commerce will open on September 26 and the final exams will be held from May 15 to 20. Both day and night sessions will be held. There will be a day course in Accountancy and Business Management and evening courses on the same subjects.

New sections in the regular courses will be organized at the opening of the second term and during the season as the need arises. These will do the same work as those which open in September and will continue for 32 weeks.

Discards Title To Be American.

Chicago—A job as baron is likely to go begging because Dr. F. M. Trethbar-Drosten, Aurora, Ill., would rather be an American citizen than have a title.

His father, Baron Trethbar-Drosten, owner of a trans-Pacific fleet and a resident of Switzerland, died, leaving the Aurora physician his title and possessions, amounting to 3,000,000 francs. "They can keep the title," the physician said. "I am an American citizen, and I like it." He has sent an attorney to collect the money.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

This is No. 46 of the fourth series of articles issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th St., New York, City. They are appearing weekly in these columns.

AN AMERICAN PRODUCT.

By Mary E. Ely.

The only child, that over-protected and unprotected little soul, whose parents are so un-intelligent in their desire to be intelligent, so inconsistent in the consistency!

He is an appealing child, even in his most trying moments, and a word in his defense may soothe and encourage those who at times misjudge and find him almost unbearable:

"I believe all children's good, If they're only understood, Even bed ones, 'pears to me, 'Sjes' as good, as they kin be!"

The only child is surely sinned against rather than sinning. He has much with which to contend, this lone-some child having no legitimate vent for his social life with those of his own kind, in years and stage of development, no one who can think his thoughts, play his games and see his little viewpoint.

"At evening when the lamp is lit Around the fire my parents sit, They sit at home and talk and sing And do not play at anything."

sang an only child, our whimsical Robert Louis Stevenson. It is companionship a child craves, and an opportunity to establish relations on his own plane with other children.

Of course a little child dearly loves the undivided attention of his elders, to be singled out as an object of attention, the satellite round which those loving him revolve. He is at the mercy of those persons who at times overwhelm him with attention and affection as the mood seizes them, then, when the child least expects it, thrust him aside without a word.

He is constantly being experimented with, and by inexperienced parents, who to follow any other profession but parenthood, the greatest one in the world, would fit themselves for it by years of study and research.

A nurse can keep a child physically fit, she is trained for it. Parents should go into training, curb their selfish pleasures, and become sane, balanced, earnest, lovable, prayerful in their conduct toward this only child. Then he can build right standards of behavior and control, thus producing the mental, moral and spiritual qualities essential to good citizenship.

A worth-while slogan provocative of thought, was released at a Child Welfare Club—"The chief business of society, to evolve parents fit for children to live with," to which we might add Froebel's illuminating words, "Come let us live with our children."

taunting boast yesterday at the capital that led me to telegraph Cousin Basil and Upon Van Brit about your trip to Strathcona. He knew that you were going to the gold camp, and he declared to me that you'd never come back alive.

"But tonight," the boss persisted. "What did he want tonight?" "He wanted to—use me. He said that he had 'put something across' for his uncle, that he had gotten into trouble for it, and that—to use his own phrase again, you were the man who would try to 'get his goat.'"

"And his object is telling you this?" "Was entirely worthy of the man. He asked me, or rather I should say, commanded me, to 'choke you off.' And, of course, he added the insult. He said I was the one who could do it."

"Without intending to, you have tied my hands," the boss said gravely. "I wasn't meaning to spare Collingwood if there were any way in which I could use him as a club to knock Hatch out of the game."

"I haven't asked you to spare him." "No, I know you haven't. But the fact remains that he is your husband."

The interruption was the opening and closing of the front door and the heavy tread of the major in the hall. In a flash Mrs. Sheila was up and getting ready to vanish through the door that led to the dining room. With her hand on the door-knob she shot a quick question at the boss.

"How much will you tell Cousin Basil?"

"Nothing of what you have told me."

"Thank you," she whispered back; "you are as big in your friendship as you are in other ways." And with that she was gone.

It was right along in the same half-minute, while the boss was standing with his back to the fire and the major was going in to talk to him, that I lost Maisie Ann. I don't know where she went, or how. She had let go of my wrist, and when I groped for her she was gone. Since I didn't see any good reason why I should stay and my upon the boss and the major, I slipped out to the hall and curled up on the big settee beyond the coat rack; curled up, and after listening a while to the drone of voices in the farther room, went to sleep.

It was away deep in the night when the boss took hold of me and shook me awake. The long talk was just getting itself finished, and the major had come to the door with his guest.

"We must manage to pull Collingwood out of it in some way," the major was saying. "I don't love the d—n scoundrel any better than you do, Graham; but that's a reason—a family reason, as you might say." Then he switched off quickly. "You haven't asked me yet why I ran away from home this evening when I was expecting you?"

"No," said the boss. "Sheila told me that you had a telephone call to the Bullard."

The old Kentuckian chuckled. "Yes, suh; and you'd never guess in a thousand years who sent the call, or what was wanted. It was our friend Hatch, and no other. And he had the face to offer me ten thousand dollars a year to act as consulting counsel for him against the railroad company!"

"Of course you accepted," said the boss, meaning just the opposite.

The major chuckled again. "I talked with him long enough to find out about where he stood. He thinks he's got you by the neck, but, like most men of his breed, he's a paltry coward, suh, at heart."

The boss laughed. "What is he afraid of?"

"He is afraid of his life. He told me, with his eyes buggin' out, that that was one man heath in Pictal City who would kill him to get possession of certain papers that were locked up in the cash vault of the Security National."

The boss was pulling on his gloves. "I didn't give him any reason to think that I was anxious to murder him," he said.

"Oh, no, my dear boy; it isn't you, at all. It's Howie Collingwood. That's where we land after all is said and done. Your hands are tied, and we've got this beah young maniac to deal with. If Collingwood gets about three fingers of red likkeh under his belt, why, that's one murder in prospect. And if Hatch has any reason to think that you can still get the underfoot on him, why, that's another. I'm glad you've seen fit to take Ripley's advice at last, and got you a bodyguard."

"What's that?" queried the boss. But the query was answered a minute later when we hit the sidewalk for the tramp back to town and Tarbell fell in to walk three steps behind us all the way to the door of the railroad club.

It sure did look as if things were just about as bad as they could ever be, now. Hatch once more on top, the whole bottom knocked out of the railroad experiment, our good name for political honesty gone glimmering and, worst of all, perhaps, the boss big heart broken right in two over those four little words that nothing could ever rub out—"he is my husband." I didn't wonder that the boss said never a word in all that long walk down-town, or that he forgot to tell me good-night when he locked himself up in his room at the club.

CHAPTER XV

The Diplomats

In a day when bunched money, however arrogant it may be, has been taught to go soft, the Hatch people were careful not to make any public announcement of the things they were doing or going to do. But had news has wings of its own. Mr. Norcross was still in the midst of his mail dictation to me the morning after the bottom—all the different bottoms—fell out, when Mr. Hornack came bluing in.

"What's all this fire-alarm that's been sprung about a new elevator trust?" he demanded, chewing on his cigar as if it were something he were trying to eat. "It's all over town that C. S. & W. has been secretly reorganized, with the Hatch crowd in control. I'm having a perfect cyclone of telephone calls asking what, and how, and why."

The boss' reply ignored the details. "We're in for it again," he announced briefly. "The local companies couldn't hold on to a good thing when they had it. The stock has been swept up, first into little heaps, and then into big ones, and now the Hatch people have forced a practical consolidation."

"Is that the fact?—or only the way you are doping it out?" queried the traffic manager.

"It is the fact. Hatch came here last night to tell me about it; also, to tell me where we were to get off."

Hornack bit off a piece of the chewed cigar and took a fresh hold on it.

"Does he think for one holy half minute that we're going to sit down quietly and let him undo all the good work that's been done?" he rasped.

"He does—just that. He's putting us in the nine-hole, Hornack, and up to the present moment I haven't found the way to climb out of it."

"But the ground leases?" Hornack began. "Why can't we pull them on him?"

"We might, if we hadn't been shot dead in our tracks by the very men who ought to be backing us to win," said the boss soberly. And then he went on to tell about the new grip Hatch had on us.

Of course, Hornack blew up at that, and what he said wasn't for publication. For a minute or so the air of the office was blue. When he got down to common, ordinary English again he was saying, between cusses: "But you can't let it stand at that. Norcross; you simply can't!"

"I don't intend to," was the even-toned rejoinder. "But anything we can do will always lack the element of finality, Hornack, while Wall Street owns us. I've said it a hundred times and I'll say it again: the only hope for the public service corporation today lies in a distribution of its securities among the people it actually serves."

Hornack's teeth met in the middle of the chewed cigar.

"That's excellent logic—bully good logic, if anybody should ask you! But we're fighting a condition, not a theory. Nobody wants P. S. L. Common even at thirty-two. You wouldn't advise your worst enemy to buy it at that figure."

"I don't know," said the boss, kind of musingly. "You're forgetting the water that's been put into it from time to time by the speculators and reorganizers; there has been a good deal of that, first and last. Nevertheless, (Continued on Page 15.)"

Hit or Miss Gasoline Makes a Motor Hit or Miss

THE problem of obtaining uniform quality is one of the difficulties that the successful gasoline producer has had to solve. The matter of varying quality is one of the greatest annoyances to the gasoline user.

It was easy to get a standard product when practically all the gasoline came from one or two types of crude petroleum. Comparatively little gasoline was used then. Today, the demand is so great that all parts of the globe have been explored for petroleum, which accounts for the great range of "crudes" on the market.

Gasoline must be uniform not only in one or two or three respects, but in every way that affects motor operation. Almost every property of the gasoline you use influences in some way the performance of your motor.

The Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) has never been content to have "Standard" Motor Gasoline exceptionally good in any one respect to the detriment of other properties.

The ideal would be to have every drop of gasoline as uniform in all its qualities as the chemicals and drugs which your pharmacist uses in a prescription. As a result of the co-operation of our Development and Manufacturing Departments, "Standard" Motor Gasoline is positively the best balanced and the highest in quality that you can buy. It is the same whether you get it in one corner of the state or another.

Announcement-

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, makes the following announcement:

"We are making another reduction in the prices of Ford cars and the Ford truck, effective today. The new prices average $10.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit, are now as follows:

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On Sept. 22, 1920, the price of the Ford touring car was reduced from $575 to $440; June 7th to $415, and now to $355, making total reductions in this type of $220, or 38 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford sedan was $975; today it lists at $860 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of every known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one big thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices, and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,096. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total for the four months being 463,074, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June, this year, with an output of 117,247 was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for salemen. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a very good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson Tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices! See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without one any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

So Well Suited to Youth

THE flapper and her younger sister never look better than in the days of summertime, when simple dotted swiss, printed voiles and sprightly organdies clothe them in the fine sheer cottons so well suited to youth. Everybody, from the little lady of three to her grandmother, is wearing these materials, and they are universally becoming; but youth is at its prettiest in them. They are very simply made for the younger girls, and this simplicity accounts for a great part of their charm, but sheer fabrics are lovely color mediums, and all the flowerlike tints and tones we love appear in this year's cottons.

At the left of the picture above, the little girl of eight or so appears in a light blue dotted swiss. It has a baby waist with square neck opening finished with a frill of blue organdie, and three-quarter sleeves finished with a double frill of it. There is a panel of organdie set in the front of the bodice with a wide hemstitched tuck across it. The girle is also made of organdie and there are small bows of organdie at each side of it. The skirt hem is hemstitched.

Printed voile is shown in so many beautiful color combinations that every young girl may find the tint that pleases her most; printed dots or squares on a white ground are popular and make up well with either white or colored organdie. The dress pictured is in lavender and white, with wide sash of white organdie. The vestee of organdie has insertions of narrow val lace set in stripes, and the elbow sleeves are finished with a band of it. But the special glory and dignity of this frock is revealed in the wide shawl collar of organdie which makes the difference between the dress of a young girl and that of her small sister.

SOMETHING GOOD TO EAT.

A PUDDING that you may give the children is:

Crumb Pudding.

Roll one quart of bread crumbs and put into the oven to brown. Place in a pudding dish and pour over the following custard: Beat the yolks of three eggs, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, three tablespoonsful of flour, a tablespoonful of butter and a grating of nutmeg. Cook over hot water until the custard is set. Cover with a meringue and brown in the oven.

Orange and Lemonade.

Prepare two cupfuls of sugar syrup rather heavy, add the juice of half a dozen lemons and two oranges, scald, then bottle and when cool place in the ice chest. A few spoonfuls of this fruit nectar added to cold water will prove welcome on a hot day.

Noodles and Ham.

Butter a baking dish and put into it a layer of cooked noodles, cover with a layer of ketchup or any clopped meat, then add another layer of noodles, add enough thin white sauce or broth to moisten cover and bake until well heated through.

Mutton Stew With Peas.

Stew a piece of mutton until nearly tender, then add a pint of shelled peas, more or less according to the size of the family. When the peas are tender, thicken the broth with a very little flour and serve the peas around the meat. New potatoes may be added to the kettle and served with the peas.

Frozen Pudding.

Beat the yolks of six eggs until light, add a stiff meringue of two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of water boiled for five minutes. Beat one moment, take from the fire and beat until smooth, add one quart of cream, a tablespoonful of vanilla and freeze until mushy; then add a pint of fruit that has been crushed and put through a sieve. Peaches are especially good or any fruit fresh, mashed. Freeze and let stand to ripen.

How It Started

CODES OF LAW.

THE earliest attempt at codifying laws was the famous code of Hammurabi, about 2000 B. C. This antedated even the Commandments given by Moses. It was very complete, covering nearly every contingency. The Greeks and Romans had codified laws, the most famous being the Julian and Augustan codes. The Napoleonic code, famous in its time, still survives at the present day.

Justifiable Vigor.

"Is tilting a profane man?"
 "I wouldn't go so far as to say that."
 "No?"

"But when a woman driving in a car ahead of him puts out her left hand and then keeps going straight ahead he's capable of using language appropriate to the occasion."

How Much Money Are You Throwing Away Each Year?

Do your farm implements wear out in hard work or do you let them simply rust? Machinery left out in all kinds of weather goes to rust three times faster than that which is properly protected. Does this happen on your farm?

Out of every four dollars you invest in machinery, three of them buy nothing but rust unless the implements are housed and taken care of the right way. Now, you would not go to a store and three dollars worth of rust and one dollar's worth of machinery deliberately, yet that is what you do when you purchase implements without giving a thought as to why you will house them in bad weather.

The cost of an implement that will be large enough to take care of all your machinery and give you a place in which to work in bad weather is much less than you think. If such a shed cost three times as much as it actually does, it would be a far better gain than "three dollars worth of rust to one dollar's worth of machinery."

Winter will soon be here. When the snows and rains of winter are over, will it be over with your farm implements too? It will pay you several ways to investigate today the cost of building implement shed this fall. Come in and let us talk it over with you.

COUNTRY IS HEADED TOWARD PROSPERITY

So Says Wm. Boyce Thompson, Who Represented U. S. At Peruvian Centennial Celebration.

(From Wall St. Journal.)
William Boyce Thompson returned recently from Peru where he represented the United States as Minister Extraordinary at the Peruvian Centennial Celebration.

Mr. Thompson stated that in his opinion our depression has run its course, that this country is headed for a return to prosperity, and that securities of merit are selling far below their respective intrinsic values. "Readjustments," said Mr. Thompson, "have been going on and we are beginning to realize what has been accomplished in this direction over the last year. We have made great strides of a constructive character, and pessimism, which had become almost chronic, is rapidly giving way to optimism."

"The United States now holds approximately $3,375,000,000 of gold (a new record), which is approximately one-third of the world's monetary gold supply. In 1914 we held only a little over $1,000,000,000 gold. The terrific business which brought about this great accumulation of gold has naturally given us 'growing pains.'"

"Our national prosperity is due to the fact that we are the greatest producer of raw material in the world—cotton, iron, copper, oil, coal, corn, wheat, etc. The result of this has been to build us up to the point of being the greatest manufacturing nation in the world. During the past ten years we have changed from a debtor to a creditor nation, with more gold today in our vaults than any nation ever dreamed of having. This surely should not give one a pessimistic view. From a war basis of regulated buying and selling, we have come back to the old law of supply and demand. A short time ago we thought we had an overproduction of cotton. The old law of supply and demand was unconsciously applied to the situation, resulting in a decreased planting of cotton. A like condition is rapidly developing in every line; surpluses are rapidly decreasing."

"As to the security market, the capitalizations of many concerns are today selling below net current assets over current liabilities. The shares of many corporations are selling at one-third of their respective book values. Security prices like these are too attractive to exist for any great length of time. Already we hear that the textile, shoe, and many other industries are rapidly getting back to normal."

Exports For August Made Gain Over July

August Figures Show Gain of 15% Over Preceding Month—Imports Also Took 6% Jump.

August exports gained $55,000,000 over July, reaching a total of $375,000,000, a gain of 15%. They were the highest in value since March, 1921. Imports similarly rose to $194,000,000 in August from $178,636,711 in July, 1921, an increase of 8%. They were higher than in July or June. Both exports and imports were under the monthly average since January.

Imports, however, declined to 51% of exports as against 55% in July, and 56% average for the past eight months. Both responded, however, to a more hopeful tone in foreign trade circles after June. They also reflect firmer prices in general, attended by advances in a number of commodity prices, on the export side, notably in wheat and cotton.

Trade volume declined from $9,469,000,000 for the first eight months of 1920 to $4,926,000,000 for the past eight months.

Export or credit balance on the lesser and later volume of trade amounts to $1,540,049,962, and is something like $60,000,000 higher than on that of 1920. At the same time, however, import balances on the current year movement of gold and silver at September 1, 1921, stood at $500,000,000, against a combined export balance of $109,000,000 a year ago.

On the aggregate movement of Merchandise, gold and silver the net export balance for eight months of 1921 stands at $1,040,000,000 compared with $1,590,000,000 a year ago.

Burned Out! But Thankful.

Good Beet Sugar Crop In The West

Conditions In Utah and Idaho Are Said To Be Favorable For Large Yield This Year.

Latest reports from sugar beet sections of Utah and Idaho indicate unusually favorable conditions for the new crop. While in many instances the yield will run from 20 to as high as 30 tons to the acre, the average through most favored sections is expected to be from 12 to 14 tons an acre. Sucrose content is expected to average about same as last season. One Idaho district reports 7,000 acres of sugar beets this year where it had but 2,500 acres in 1920. Beet topping commenced September 10, starting season's run.

It is officially reported that Idaho will raise approximately 514,373 tons of beets this year. It has 50,500 acres which are expected to average 10.18 tons per acre. Last year the yield was 404,078 tons.

Considerable sugar has been held over by Intermountain companies, but the hope of a heavy world demand put heart into sugar officials. The new season's accumulation indicates possibly the largest stocks on hand in the history of western beet sugar manufacturing.

Sugar is now retailing at Salt Lake at $7.62 a hundred. Late reports from Lehi, 30 miles south of Salt Lake, says: "Beet sugar is looking exceptionally good, and a great tonnage is expected to be handled this season."

SPECULATION RUNS HIGH IN GERMANY

Berlin Bourse Has Been Obligated To Close On Several Occasions Owing To Business Pressure.

"Not every American has dollars, but every German has." This is a remark of a German statesman at signing of peace with United States recently in Berlin, according to a leading international banker who has just returned from an extensive trip abroad. It signifies the extent to which Germans—even to peasant classes—have been speculating in American exchange.

"Speculation in exchange and securities continues unabated throughout the former empire," the banker continued. "Its extent is beyond comprehension to one who has not seen it. For a long period the Berlin Bourse closed every other day, to permit clerical forces of brokerage houses to catch up with work."

"Brokers refused to accept orders after 10 o'clock for execution that day, having been so rushed that they have been compelled to turn away volumes of business. Certain brokers do not accept orders for less than 3,000 marks, while with others the minimum is 5,000 marks. In many cases banks have been obliged to make payments, other than the regular brokerage commissions, for prompt execution of orders."

"Even branch offices of brokerage houses encounter difficulty in placing orders with their home offices. For illustration, a branch office out of town receives orders to purchase stock only to learn that their main offices are too busy to handle the business. They are then obliged to place the orders with any firm that can execute them. Many sales of securities are made outside of the exchange."

"As fast as many Germans make money they turn it into foreign exchange or securities. This is usually done with either of two intentions, first to prevent losses from further depreciation of marks and, secondly, the mad desire to make money on an upward movement in the stock market. There has been a continued upward movement in stocks for a year and a half."

Miss Harriet Knight,
Shopper, Says Her Work Is Interesting

For instance, last spring she sent hard candy and chocolates to China to some little American boys and girls—the family of an American Steamship Company agent.

She selects clothing, shoes and undergarments for an American Army Captain's family now stationed in the Philippines. And when she makes her selections for the Philippines, she has to remember that any other sort than canvas shoes will mould—on account of the climate. The clothing must be of cotton, too, for the same reason, as well as because it is cool to wear.

Then there are the Maryland friends of Hochschild, Kohn & Co., who have moved to other sections of the country. Miss Knight says she receives shopping requests from Portland, Oregon, from Seattle, Washington, from army posts in New Mexico and Texas, and from winter resorts in Florida and California.

Miss Knight cordially invites you to make use of her personal shopping service—she will shop with you or for you, as you wish.

GIRL SHOWS ABILITY
WITH HER DAIRY HERD

High School Girl Started By Purchasing One Cow and Has Made Big Success At The Work.

Elizabeth Farley is a 17-year-old club girl, a senior next fall in the High School at Anherst, Mass. About four years ago, after experimenting with the 4-H garden and poultry clubs of the United States Department of Agriculture for several years she decided to purchase a cow. Her father attempted to discourage her, saying that she had no knowledge of milking and no place to house an animal. Her father went away for a week-end trip, however, and when he returned he found that Elizabeth was the owner of a registered Jersey cow which she had learned to milk, and for which she had rented a stall in a neighbor's barn. Profits from previous poultry work supplied the funds for this venture.

Elizabeth remained in club work and because of the demand for milk purchased other registered cows and calves. For two years the cattle had to be staked out every day in the pasture 10 minutes walk from the house, and as the pasture brook dried up she had also to carry water to them. One cow nearly died of sickness. Until a year ago Elizabeth did all of her own work, including delivering the milk. Her next live-stock venture was a bred registered Chester White sow. This sow had a litter of 13 pigs, 10 of which lived, although the sow became sick and died later. Then Elizabeth purchased 200 day-old chicks. As they grew she sold the cockerels and some of the pullets, reserving the others for winter laying. A year ago she found that she needed pasture and hay land so she bought 12 acres of land, for which the cows are paying.

At the present time this High School girl has 9 purebred Jersey cows and 4 calves valued by specialists in the Agricultural College at $5,000. She hires two boys to help care for the herd and milk the cows. She delivers 80 quarts of milk daily in an old milk wagon which she bought this summer for $5 and repaired herself. She grows her own feed on her own land.

In addition to her dairy herd she has a large flock of chickens, a number of purebred pigs, and a horse. Her entire indebtedness is one note for $300. Elizabeth is planning to go to the Massachusetts Agricultural College as soon as she has finished High School.

COVER CROPS WILL IMPROVE THE SOIL

They Accumulate Nitrogen, Add Humus And Prevent Erosion And Loss Of Plant Food.

Planting cover or green manure crops is a matter which requires attention in September in most parts of the United States, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Clover, vetch, and other legumes serve the triple purpose of adding humus to the soil, accumulating nitrogen, and preventing soil erosion. With some tender berry and fruit crops they also serve to protect the roots from severe winter weather. Outside of the nitrogen-forming plants, rye is largely used as a cover crop sown in the fall and plowed under in the spring to add organic matter to the soil. The cover-crop problem varies largely with the locality, but for over winter purposes there is one rule which is universal, and that is to get the crop in the ground in time to secure good growth before freezing weather.

The use of clover or some other legume to enrich the soil is generally considered a cardinal agricultural practice in the humid sections of the United States. It antedates by three-fourths of a century, the monumental discovery that legumes store up nitrogen from the air. The belief that clover was a valuable improver rested first on experience and later experience was substantiated by the discovery of the relation between the legumes and the nodule bacteria.

Other legumes, as the cowpea, the Japan clover and bur clover in the South, and crimson clover on the Atlantic coast, have come into use in the territory not well adapted to red clover. The various vetches are held in widespread favor, different varieties being employed according to climate and crop conditions.

Cover crops are of especial value to small gardeners and truckers, who often find it both difficult and expensive to obtain stable manure. They add the humus which is so necessary to maintain a good physical condition of the soil. Wherever there is a vacant place in the garden a few seeds of rye, vetch, clover, etc., may be sown and raked in. If a suitable rotation of crops is followed all parts of the garden may be covered with a green manure crop once every two or three years.

New Poultry Breed
Developed By Expert

Government Official Originates Breed With Long, Deep Bodies And Larger Than Leghorns.

Lamona is the name given to a new breed of poultry that has been developed at the Experimental Farm of the United States Department of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. It has been named by Secretary Wallace after the originator, Harry M. Lamon, senior poultryman of the Bureau of Animal Industry. It is a white fowl with red ear lobes that lays a white-shelled egg. White Plymouth Rock, Silver Gray Dorking, and White Leghorn were the breeds used as foundation stock.

The fowls are larger than Leghorns, with long, deep bodies, well feathered, and comb and wattles of medium size. The new breed is not ready for introduction and neither eggs or fowls can be secured. When a sufficient stock of birds has been raised specimens will be sent to State agricultural colleges and experiment stations to test their adaptability to different sections and conditions.

PRICES ON EARLY CABBAGE HAVE BEARING ON LATE CROP

When the early cabbage crop was moving at the rate of 1,000 cars weekly in mid-April, jobbing prices at the 10 leading markets averaged $2 to $3 per 100 pounds, as compared to $2 to $2.50 a year ago, according to figures reported by the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE. All Druggists & Co. Circulars free. P. J. Chesny & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

The August crop report estimates the acreage of intermediate cabbage at 18,100 acres and the indicated production at 12,966 carloads, as compared with 17,211 acres and a yield of 10,080 carloads in 1920.

Acreage of late cabbage is estimated at 62,956 acres and the condition as 63, which may be compared with 73,834 acres and a condition of 80 that resulted in yield of 10.9 tons per acre, or 64,384 acres, in 1920. Wisconsin shows a decrease of 4,792 acres; New York, 2,872; Ohio, 782; Colorado, 395; Illinois, 365; and Indiana, 200 less than a year ago in late cabbage.

value for value, you know, and I know that the property is worth more than thirty-two, including the bonds. What I mean is that if anybody would buy the control at that figure—the control, mind you, and not merely a minority—and handle the road purely as a dividend-paying business proposition, he wouldn't lose money; he'd make money—a lot of it."

"All of which doesn't get us anywhere in the present pinch," returned the traffic manager. "I suppose we'll have to wait until Hatch makes his first move, and I've still got fight enough left in me to hope that he'll make it suddenly. Punch the button for me if anything new develops. I'm going back to swing on to my telephone."

Following this talk with Hornack there was a try-out with Billingsby and Juneman, but as this three-cornered conference was held in the private room of the suite, I don't know what was said. A little farther along, when the boss was once more whittling at the dictation, Mr. Van Britt strolled in. Mr. Norcross told me to take my bunch of notes to May and then he gave Mr. Van Britt his lining, starting off with: "Well, how is the general superintendent this fine morning?"

Mr. Van Britt wrinkled his nose. "The general superintendent is wondering, one more time, why under the stars heavens he is out here in this country that God has forgotten, scrapping for a living on this one-horse railroad of yours when he might be in good little old New York, living easy and clipping coupons in the safety-deposit room of a Broad Street bank."

The boss laughed at that, and I'm telling you right now that I was glad to know that he was still able to laugh. "You've never seen the day when you wanted to renege, Upton, and you know it," he hit back. "Think of the perfectly good technical education you were wasting when I took hold of you and jerked you out here."

"Huh!" said our millionaire; "I've just had two engineers on the carpet for running over a ranchman's pet cow. They said they couldn't help it; but I told them that under the 'public-be-pleased' policy, they'd got to help it."

The boss chuckled. "I believe you'd joke at your own funeral, Upton. You didn't come here to tell me about the ranchman's pet cow."

"Not exactly. I came to tell you that Citizens Storage & Warehouse is due to have a strike on its hands. The management—which seems to have got itself consolidated in some way—shot out a lot of new bosses all along the line on the through train last night, and this morning the entire works, elevators, packhouses, coal yards, lumber mills, and everything, are posted with notices of a blanket cut in wages; twenty percent, flat, for everybody. The news has been trickling in over the wires all morning; and the last word is that a general strike of all C. S. & W. employees will go on at noon tomorrow."

"A General Strike of All C. S. & W. Employees Will Go On at Noon Tomorrow."

"That is move number one," said the boss. And then: "You have heard that the Hatch people have reached out and taken in the C. S. & W.?"

"Hornack was telling me something about it, you."

"It is true; and the fight is on. You see what Hatch is doing. At one stroke he gets rid of all the local employees of C. S. & W., who have been drawing good pay and who might make trouble for him a little later on, and fills their places with strike-breakers who have no local sympathizers."

"But there will be another result which he may not have counted upon," Mr. Van Britt put in. "The blanket cut serves notice upon everybody that once more the old strong-arm monopoly is in the saddle. The newspapers will tell us about it tomorrow morning. Also, a good many of them will be asking us what we are going to do about it; whether we are going to fight the new monopoly as we did the old, or stand in with the graft, as our predecessors did."

"We needn't go over that ground again—you and I, Upton," said Mr. Norcross. "You know where I stand. But the conditions have changed. We have been knifed in the back. And with that he gave the stocky little operating chief a crisp outline of the new situation precipitated by the Dunton-Collingwood political bribery. Mr. Van Britt took it quietly, as he did most things, sitting with his hands in his pockets and smiling blandly, where Hornack had exploded in wrathful profanity. At the wind-up he said:

"Old Uncle Breckenridge is one too many for you, Graham. You can't stand the graft—this new graft of Hatch's; and neither can you go before the people as the accuser of your president—and hope to hold your job. The one thing for you to do is to lock up your office and walk out."

"Upton, if I thought you meant that—but I never know when to take you seriously."

"The two engineers who ran over the ranchman's pet cow had no such difficulty, I assure you. And isn't it good advice? You know, as well as I do, that Chadwick is holding you here by main strength; that you can never accomplish anything permanent while Dunton and his cronies are at the steering-wheel. It might be different if you had the local backing of your constituency—the people served by the Short Line. But you haven't that; up to date, the people are merely interested spectators."

"Go on," said the boss, frowning again.

"They have a stake in the game—the biggest of the stakes, as a matter of fact—but it isn't sufficiently apparent to make them climb in and fight for you. They are saying, with a good bit of reason, that, after all is said and done, Big Money—Wall Street—still has the call, and any twenty-four hours may see the whole thing slump back into graft and crooked politics."

"It is so true that you might be reading it out of a book," was the boss' comment. And then: "What's the answer?"

Mr. Van Britt shook his head. "I don't know. If you had money enough to buy the voting control in P. S. L., you might get somewhere; but as it is, you're like a cat in Hades without claws."

"Tell me," said Mr. Norcross, after a little pause: "You're a native New Yorker; do you know this man Collingwood?"

"Only by hearsay. He is what our English friends call a 'blooming bouncer'—fast yachts, fast motor-cars, the fast set generally. It's a pretty bad case of money-spill, I fancy. They say he wasn't always a total loss."

"Did you ever hear that he was married?"

"Oh, yes; he married a Kentucky girl some years ago; I don't remember her name. They say she stood him for about six months and then dropped out. I suppose he needs killing for that."

At this the boss went a step farther, saying: "He does, indeed, Upton. I happen to know the young woman."

That was when Mr. Van Britt fired his own little bomb-shell. "So do I," he answered quietly.

"But you said you had forgotten her name?"

"So I have—her married name. And what's more, I mean to keep on forgetting it."

"There was no mistake about the boss' frown this time."

"That won't do, Upton," he said, kind of warningly.

"It will do well enough for the present. I'd marry her tomorrow, Graham, if she were free, and there were no other obstacles. Unhappily, there are two—besides the small legal difficulty; she doesn't care for my money—having a little of her own; and she happens to be in love with the other fellow."

I guess the boss was remembering what Mrs. Sheila had told him in that confidence before the back-parlor fire, about its being all off between her and Collingwood, for he said: "I think you are mistaken as to that last."

"No, I'm not mistaken. But that's neither here nor there. Neither you nor I can send Collingwood to the penitentiary—that's a cinch. Wherefore, I'm advising you to quit, walk out, jump the job."

At that the boss took a fresh brace, righting his swing chair with a snap. "You know very little about me, Upton. If you think I'm going to throw up my hands now, when the real pinch has come, I have a scheme—if it could only be worked. But it can't be worked on a rising market. By some trick or other, the Dunton people are hoisting the stock again. It went up three points yesterday."

Mr. Van Britt grinned. "They're discounting the effect of this little political deal—which will at least rope your reform scheme down, if it doesn't."

do anything else. What you need is a good, old-fashioned, cat-in-the-hat of some sort; something that would fairly knock the tar out of P. S. L. securities and send them skittering down the toboggan slide in spite of anything. Uncle Breckenridge could do to stop them; down to where they could be safely and profitably picked up by the dear public. Unfortunately, those things don't happen outside of the story books. If they did, if the earthquake should happen along our way just now, I don't know but I'd be loyal enough to get out and help it shake things up a bit."

After Mr. Van Britt had gone, the boss put in the remainder of the day like a workman, skipping the noon luncheon as he sometimes did when the work drive was extra heavy. Meanwhile, as you'd suppose, rumor was plentifully busy, on the railroad, and also in town.

By noon it was well understood that there had been a radical change in the management of C. S. & W., and that there was going to be a general strike in answer to the slashing cut in wages. I slipped up-town to get a bite, and I heard some of the talk. It was pretty straight, most of it—which shows how useless it is to try to keep any business secrets, now-days.

For example: the three men at my table in the Bullard grill-room—they didn't know me or who I was—knew that a council of war had been called in the railroad headquarters, and that Ripley had been pulled in by wire from Lesterburg, and that we were rushing along hurriedly to provide storage room for the wheat shippers in case of a tie-up, and that we were arranging to distribute railroad company coal in case the tie-up should bring on a fuel famine—knew all these things and talked about them.

They were facts, as far as they went—these things. The boss hadn't been idle during the forenoon, and he kept up the drive straight through to quitting time. Word was brought in during the afternoon by Tarbell that the Hatch people were wiring the Kansas City and Omaha employment agencies and placing hurried orders for strike-breakers. The boss' answer to this was a peremptory wire to our passenger agents at both points to make no rate concessions whatever, of any kind, for the transportation of laborers under contract. It was a shrewd little knock. Labor of that kind is mighty hard to move unless it can get free transportation or a low rate of fare, and I could see that Mr. Norcross was hoping to keep the strike-breakers away.

When six o'clock came, the boss asked May to stay and keep the office open while I could go down-stairs and get my dinner in the station restaurant, and he went off up-town—to the club, I suppose. After I'd had my bite, I let May go. Everything was moving all right, so far as anybody could see. We had five extra fuel trains loading at the company's chutes at Coalville, and the dispatcher was instructed to work them out on the line during the night, distributing them to the towns that had reported shortages. They were not to be turned over to the regular coal yards; they were to be sidetracked and held for emergencies.

COMMENT OF COUNTY AGENT COBB ON AGRICULTURAL HAPPENINGS

By GEORGE R. COBB.

Has that sample of soil been taken yet? Remember that we want the co-operation of every farmer and land owner in the county so that we may get samples from every farmer in the county. Samples of soil may be left at your nearest school house as the teachers are willing to keep these samples until we call for them. Be sure to get us a sample of soil and after the test we will notify you as to the amount of lime needed.

This soil testing campaign is not confined to the farms for we will be glad to have samples from gardens, lawns, etc., as well as from farm lands.

If Jack Pusey grows corn much taller than that we say he will need an airplane to cut the tops. Corn like his will sure make a lot of feed if put into a silo or shredded.

Speaking of corn we were very much interested this past week in noticing the increasing number of farmers that are cutting and shocking instead of topping and stripping. We have never been convinced that topping and stripping was practical in all cases although it might be in some instances. The following points have been gathered up from different sources in comparing the two methods.

Ernest Dennis says that he only tops enough for feed for his horses and mules. He also told us that cutting, shocking and shredding gave better yields of corn, more feed and made it easier to get the corn as well as making a mighty fine feed for cows.

S. P. Woodcock, cutting and shocking makes one of the best feeds for cows when accompanied by some grain, also less work than topping and stripping.

Theodore Hearn believes that corn ripens up much better, especially on forward land, when topped and stripped.

Mrs. E. D. Merritt finds that corn that has been topped and stripped is easier to grind and makes much finer meal.

J. Raymond Parker figures that unless a farmer owns his own shredder that the method of cutting and shredding is too expensive to be practical. The labor problem also enters into consideration.

Chas. Peters shreds the stalks for the purpose of placing in the pound to absorb the liquids that might otherwise be lost. He also spreads shredded stalks on the fields and claims that it lightens up heavy soils considerably.

Experiments have shown that the yield of corn is decreased 15 per cent by topping and stripping.

We have had a chance to see three corn fields this past week where vetch was grown just before the corn and in every case the corn was much better than where no vetch had been grown. Another definite illustration of the value of legumes.

Raymond Sheppard has some real honest to goodness laying White Leghorns. He is trap nesting his birds and has gotten 138 eggs from one of them in six months—in fact the lowest that he has had from any of those he is trap nesting is 126 eggs in six months. We are certainly pleased to get this data for it is one more proof that Wicomico poultrymen are coming to the front rapidly and that we will soon have a reputation for poultry as well as truck crops.

Miss Mullen, the Home Demonstration Agent, has been asked to contribute some notes to these columns and we are fairly certain that she will accept our invitation.

J. M. Insley is a convert to peas as a producer of corn. We have been trying to see this corn but haven't been able to get there yet, but we understand from Mr. Insley and his neighbors that this is sure "some corn."

Still on the subject of corn we expect that John Holloway will get over the "usual hundred" baskets this year—in fact we are guessing that it will run 123 baskets to the acre.

Many of us, in fact most of us, did enjoy the concerts on the chimes as rendered by Mr. M. H. Mattee, of Baltimore. Perhaps the best part was in realizing that these were only the first of many such concerts that all of us can attend and enjoy.

Thomas White has not forgotten one of the three R's that he learned at school. For example, he has figured out that in order to buy a $10.00 fall hat a farmer must ship 32 carloads of butter beans at present prices. He did not tell us whether he will do this or not but by reading between the lines we believe that Tom will follow Postmaster General Hays example.

As announced in our notes last week Dr. Besley, State Forester, was with us last Saturday to answer our questions and advise us on woodlot problems. We plan to start some demonstrations along this line about November and we will be glad to hear from anyone who is interested in their pine thickets or other woodlot problems. Results obtained from the demonstration on the Chas. Williams farm indicate what can be done.

Miss Adice Jones, girls' club leader for the State, and Mr. E. G. Jenkins, boys' club leader, spent a short time with us last week. They are both very well pleased with the way the boys and girls in the county are taking hold of the work. We expect to have Dr. F. B. Bomberger, Assistant Director, with us this week and from here he will go to Somerset county to speak at the farmers' picnic.

Back of all these good corn stories we find legumes, lime and phosphates. These are the three points that we have preached since we landed here in 1918—and the results justify our preachings.

The premium lists for the Community Fair can be obtained from any member of the Grange, Home Demonstration Agent or County Agent. No fruit, probably, to exhibit this year, but we never had any better corn to select from. We need only a few rains to give us some good white potatoes and we are sure that we can all find at least one hamper of sweet potatoes. How about soy beans and cowpeas hay, carrots, nuts, etc? Plenty of material for exhibits if we only so and remember that the list calls for about $1,200 in premiums.

When inspecting the shade trees at Delmar last week we found that practically all the trees on the Maryland side were in good condition. Credit for this must be given to Mr. L. H. Hearn and the other members of the City Council. As soon as the lice, or aphids, became noticeable Mr. Hearn got in touch with us and we gave him what advice we could. In less than three days the trees had been sprayed and now the leaves are a clean, healthy green color. This is only one illustration to show how things can be accomplished by the proper co-operation and we are sure proud of this achievement.

Reports coming from Ohio show that chickens have been poisoned by eating cockle which was in wheat screenings. The cockle affects the nervous system and causes paralysis of the legs.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has carried on feeding experiments which show that apple pomace soaked in water is as valuable as corn silage. Pomace should not be fed dry but should be soaked in water at least one hour before using.

Planted for Keeps

These fine heavy-bearing trees were planted in 1897, every tree being set in a hole blasted with

DYNAMITE

The results are not only indicated by the thrifty appearance of the trees themselves but are shown every year by their heavy yield of fruit.

Tree planting with dynamite is successful because it—thoroughly loosens and shatters the sub-soil—makes root penetration easy—puts great stores of plant food in easy reach—destroys fungus and nematode—causes early maturity—cuts down tree losses—and pays a heavy return on the investment through increased yields.

Ask our dealer for Du Pont Dynamite and Blasting Accessories. He will be glad to get them for you.

Feel how smooth this paint is

NO wonder Certain-teed paint is so smooth—it is made of the finest grade materials ground exceedingly fine and mixed thoroughly and evenly by machines which make no mistakes. And how it does spread! No ordinary paint equals it. The brush glides over the surface, leaving a velvety coating of paint that completely hides the surface and keeps it hidden.

You'd expect such high grade paint as Certain-teed to cost more, but it actually costs less. The Certain-teed people certainly know how to make paint, and they know how to price it. Each color stands on its own price, based on cost. You pay less for those colors which cost less to make. That's fair. Everybody pays only for what he gets and nothing more. We have the right Certain-teed Paint or Varnish for everything inside or outside your house. Come in and see us before you buy any paint.

M'COMBE-CLASE EVANGELISTIC PARTY NOTED

Conducted Successful Revivals At Asbury Tabernacle, Crisfield, Last Year.

TO HOLD REVIVALS IN ARMORY, OCT. 9-NOV. 6

Five-week Revival Meetings Will be Under Auspices of Asbury M. E.
Church, Salisbury—All Members of McCombe-Clase Party Have Won Renown in Their Field of Work

The McCombe-Clase Evangelistic party which will hold a five-week series of revival meetings in the First Regiment Armory here, from October 9 to November 6, under the auspices of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, is not unknown to the Eastern Shore. Last Autumn its members held a series of revival meetings in the tabernacle of Asbury Church, Crisfield, with wonderful results, hundreds of persons professing conversion and much good resulting from the visit of the evangelists.

Rev. J. H. McCombe, D. D., who heads the evangelistic party that will come to Salisbury, is a regularly ordained Presbyterian minister, a member of the St. Lawrence Presbytery. He was a successful and acceptable pastor and he comes to the evangelistic work with the pastor's touch for the church. Under his leadership some of our largest cities, both in Canada and the United States, have held very helpful meetings which left a permanent and wholesome aftermath.

Excellent Musical Leader

Prof Harold C. Clase is a Methodist and a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University. He was one of our soldier boys, being among the first to go overseas. The best of Mr. Clase is his deep Christian experience, his keen sense concerning the Christian fundamentals and his Christian manhood. Everyone enjoys his leadership in music, admires his personal work, and is helped by his clear presentation of Christian truths whenever he gives instructions.

Mr. Arthur L. Roberts, who acts as pianist and also secretary to Dr. McCombe, is a Welshman, who played throughout the great Welsh Revival. He is well known at the great conventions held over the country and was pianist at the International Epworth League Convention held in Buffalo, N. Y. His interpretation of Gospel Hymns and his improvisations of well known airs is worth hearing. Mr. Roberts also is an organist and has occupied the position of organist and choir-director in some of the largest churches in Canada.

Mrs. Arthur L. Roberts is the Women's Work Specialist and will have charge of the prayer meeting work as well as the Women's Department. Mrs. Roberts is an effective speaker and has no difficulty in filling a auditorium at her meetings for women only. Her solo work is a feature of the meetings. She has studied with some of the best masters in New York and has occupied the position of soprano soloist in some of the largest churches in New York State.

Hebron Young Girls Organize A Club

Will Be Known As "Hebron Junior Home Makers" and Interesting Program Has Been Arranged.

On Monday, September 19, the girls of Hebron, ranging from eight to 14 years of age, organized a Girls' Club. This club will be known as the "Hebron Junior Home Makers," and an interesting program for the coming year has been planned.

The officers elected are: Miss Nellie Phillips, president; Virginia Hughes, vice president; Miss Evelyn Baker, secretary; Miss Rebecca Nelson, treasurer.

The club is planning to meet Miss Mullen, the Home Demonstration Agent, on the first and third Monday of each month. The first meeting will be a lesson in sewing, the cutting and making of the "Tam," which is being worn this year. The second meeting will be a lesson in breadmaking.

The club hopes to send a bread team to the State Fair next year and compete with the other counties of the State, also to bring home some of the prizes.

EMINENT SPEAKER TO ADDRESS "Y" MEETING

Wm. K. Cooper, of Washington, Will Talk At Y.M.C.A. Men's Meeting
On Sunday Afternoon.

The first of the Sunday afternoon meetings for men only, which will be conducted throughout the winter months by the Young Men's Christian Association, will be held at 3.30 P. M. Sunday, October 2, in the "Y" auditorium. The meetings will be continued every first and third Sunday of each month.

For next Sunday's meeting, the "Y" officials have secured as the speaker for the occasion Mr. William Knowles Cooper, of Washington, D. C., who will take for his subject "Salisbury's Greatest Need." An attractive musical program also has been arranged. Miss Mildred Matthews will be the soloist and the Y.M.C.A. Male Quartet also will render selections.

On Sunday, October 16, Lt. Col. John T. Axton, chief of chaplains of the United States Army, will be the speaker at the afternoon meeting, and, if efforts now being made to secure the services of Bishop Gaylor are successfully consummated, a special afternoon meeting will be held on October 23, which will be addressed by the Bishop.

Mr. Cooper, who will speak Sunday, is a man with a message for men that will grip and hold you. He is a fluent speaker and has just returned from the Canal Zone where he made a number of addresses in the Government Club Houses.

MAY FORM BALL LEAGUE ON THE EASTERN SHORE

Representatives From Several Shore Towns Meet Here and Favor Project.

FINAL DECISION TO
BE MADE OCTOBER 7

Another Meeting Will Be Held Here
At That Time And It Is Believed Favorable Action Will Be Taken—
J. Vincent Jamison, Blue Ridge League Head, Addresses Meeting.

One of the most largely attended and enthusiastic baseball meetings ever held on the Eastern Shore was held in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms here last Friday night, at which time Mr. J. Vincent Jamison, president of the Blue Ridge League, met with the local and other baseball representatives on the Shore and explained in detail the workings of organized baseball.

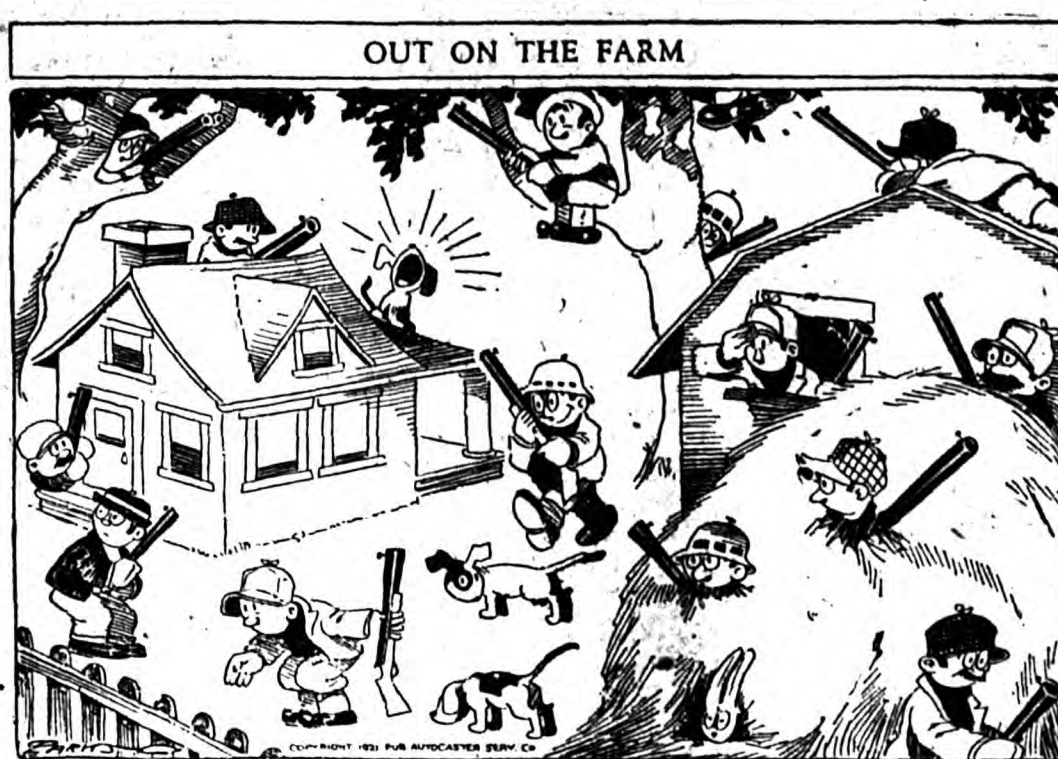

Mr. Henry W. Ruark presided at the meeting and after Mr. Jamison had told his listeners some of the inside facts about organized ball, and had set forth for them the advantages of playing organized baseball over the independent kind, a general discussion was entered into by the representatives from the various towns as to the advisability of forming a Class D League on the Shore for next summer.

Was "Get-Together" Affair.

Owing to the fact that the meeting was a sort of "get together" session to sound out opinion as a whole on the subject, plans for starting the proposed league were left in abeyance until another meeting which will be held here Friday evening, October 7, at which time it is expected that each of the towns represented here last Friday will have representatives in Salisbury ready to launch the league project.

In the general discussion that ensued last Friday night the sentiment was unanimously in favor of playing organized baseball, and it is believed that a Class D League will surely be formed here. After Mr. Jamison had concluded explaining some of the advantages incidental to playing organized baseball, he gave to the representatives of each town a set of the rules and regulations, and other data, governing a league, which the representatives took home with them for further perusal.

Several representatives from each of the following towns were present at the meeting: Crisfield, Princess Anne, Pocomoke, Snow Hill, Cambridge, Laurel, Milford and Dover. Salisbury was represented by a record turn-out of prominent baseball "fans."

OUT ON THE FARM

MR. METZEROTT WILL BE HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Mr. Oliver S. Metzgerott, Republican nominee for the State Comptrollership, will arrive in Salisbury late this afternoon (Thursday). While here he will stay at the Peninsula Hotel and desires to meet all county Republicans and others who may be interested in his candidacy.

Mr. Metzgerott is making a tour of the Eastern Shore in the interest of his candidacy and Wicomico is the first stopping place on his Shore itinerary.

FINE FREIGHTER WAS LAUNCHED ON WEDNESDAY

Boat Of 90 Tons Capacity Was Built Here For Mr. John Hudson, of Salisbury.

NAMED "W. B. MILLER"
BY MISS VIDA WIMBROW

Craft Was Built On The Property of Reese Wimbrow Mfg. Co., In Less Than Three Months Time—Will Be Used In Carrying Freight—200
Persons Witnessed Launching.

In the presence of more than two hundred interested onlookers, the handsome, new freight boat "W. B. Miller," built for Mr. John Hudson, of Salisbury, on the property of the Reese Wimbrow Manufacturing Company, was launched at 11 o'clock yesterday (Wednesday) morning and will be put in commission within two weeks' time.

Miss Vida Wimbrow, four-year-old daughter of Mr. Reese Wimbrow, christened the new vessel, and after she had broken a bottle of water over the boat's prow, the workmen unleashed the craft and it slid slowly into the waters of the Wicomico.

It was one of the few sideways launchings that have ever been held here, but there was not a hitch in the entire proceedings, and the new freighter took to the water as gracefully as a duck swims. On her deck were assembled many of the friends of the owner and the builders, and with flags flying gaily and the gleaming white hull standing out prominently 'neath the rays of a friendly sun, the whole scene presented was an interesting one.

Keel was Laid July 5

The keel of the "W. B. Miller" was laid on July 5, and the builders made excellent time in bringing the boat to completion, less than three months time being consumed in the construction work. The freighter was built by Mr. William Smith, with the assistance of Messrs J. W. Smith and Adolphus Whitelock, and is the first boat to be built on the property of the Reese Wimbrow Mfg. Company.

Mr. Hudson, the owner, stated yesterday that he will install a Kahlenberg Oil Engine of 36 H. P. into the craft, and that this work will be completed some time this week. When commissioned, he will use the boat in carrying freight of all kinds and description, as there is ample room in the capacious holds to accommodate freight of all varieties and bulk.

When asked whether he would use the boat merely in carrying freight in the nearby vicinity, Mr. Hudson replied that it would be used in carrying it anywhere as the vessel is staunch enough to face all sorts of weather conditions.

The new boat is of 90 tons capacity, 65 feet in length, overall, 19 feet 5 inches in width, and, when loaded, will draw about 5 and one-half feet of water. She is fitted with three large holds, the depth of the holds being 5 feet 6 inches from the keel to the deck.

Dr. B. G. Parker, of Mardela Springs, visited Salisbury Tuesday and attended the convention held in the local Baptist Church.

HISTORY OF MARDELA SPRINGS NEXT WEEK

Dr. B. G. Parker, of Mardela Springs, has written an exceptionally interesting article about his town which will appear in The News next week. This article is one that undoubtedly will be well received by our readers, because Dr. Parker has treated his subject admirably and there is much of historical interest contained therein about this thriving, hustling little Wicomico town that will be found highly entertaining.

Remains Brought Here For Burial
From Newport News, Va.—Funeral Services Held Wednesday.

The many relatives and friends of Mrs. Edna Clements, wife of Mr. C. R. Clements, of Newport News, Va., were shocked to learn of her sudden death, September 18, after an illness of 15 minutes.

The remains were brought to Salisbury, Tuesday, September 20, to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Harvey, on Naylor street. Mrs. Harvey is a sister of Mrs. Clements. Funeral services were held Wednesday, September 21, and were in charge of Rev. H. S. Dulany, a former pastor, assisted by Dr. J. T. Herson and Rev. W. P. Taylor. Besides her husband she leaves a child four years old to mourn her loss.

The Asbury M. E. Church choir was in charge of the music and sang sweetly the following selections: "Jesus Lover of My Soul," "Rock of Ages," and "Abide With Me." The entire community sympathizes with Mr. Clements and his little boy in their sad bereavement.

EDUCATIONAL PARLEY AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Executive Committee of Eastern District Baptist Educational Assembly Met Here Tuesday.

The Eastern District Baptist Educational Assembly met in executive session on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, in the Division Street Baptist Church, of this city. The executive committee is comprised of pastors and two laymen of each Baptist Church on the Shore. The purpose of the meeting was to plan for a big Educational Assembly at Ocean City next summer.

Committees on Program, Entertainment, Recreation, Finance, Time and Place, and Enrollment and Publicity were appointed. Mr. Parkinson was named chairman of the program committee.

During the winter, three sectional conferences will be held. One in Cambridge during October; one in Princess Anne during January, after the completion of the new Baptist Church there. The third will possibly be held in Cordova during April.

Addresses were made by Rev. Rorex the new pastor of the Marion Baptist Church and Rev. H. L. Parkinson. The meeting was presided over by Rev. George Gorrell, of Mardela, the president of the Conference.

Delegates were present from the following Baptist Churches: Athol Branch Hill, Cambridge, Cordova, Greensboro, Hebron, Mardela, Marion, Princess Anne and Salisbury.

SPARKS CIRCUS TO SHOW HERE FRIDAY, OCT. 7

Two Performances Will Be Given,
One In Afternoon And
One At Night.

BIG STREET PARADE
CARDED FOR MORNING

Is a 3-Ring Circus Consisting of High-Class Acts, in Which Animal Acts Will Predominate—Sparks' Circus Boasts of Having Largest Living Elephant in the World.

The circus is coming!

That sentence is sufficient to make the youngster bubble over with joy and to cause the oldsters who feign non-interest in circuses to begin preparing their excuses as to why they are going to attend—for most of 'em always are marked "present" when the main show starts; presumably for the sake of the kiddies.

Sparks' Big 3-Ring Circus will appear in Salisbury on Friday, October 7 and two performances will be given on that day, one starting at 2 P. M. and the other getting under way at 8 P. M. At 10:30 A. M., the street parade—that part of a circus which always attracts and holds the tense interest of the circus crowds—will be held, and this feature of the Sparks' Shows is said to be one of the best of any circus of its size on the road.

The Sparks' Circus is by no means a stranger in this neighborhood. Old timers will remember this circus when it was being transported to this section by wagons, way back in 1886, and they will also remember how the circus has grown steadily since that time until it now requires two long railway trains of double length cars for its transportation.

Many Animal Acts

The entire train equipment, wagons, tents, paraphernalia, costumes and wardrobes are said to be entirely new this year, while the horses and wild animals of all species and kinds have undergone the most rigid inspection, and only those in the very best of physical condition have been retained.

This year many new ideas have been adopted for the entertainment and comfort of the Sparks patrons. Comfortable rest rooms (tents) will be provided for the ladies and children and an experienced maid will be in attendance at all times.

Animal acts and animal actors almost dominate the Sparks' Circus performances. "Zulu," which is said to be the largest living elephant, being 3 inches taller than the famous "Jumbo" and weighing over 5 tons, is one of the features of the animal aggregation. A big group of forest bred animals, trained sea lions and superb horses are some of the other animal features.

High class acrobatic acts, novelty acts and a big troupe of clowns will help to enliven the occasion.

ASSOCIATION DEMANDS 100 P. C. LOYALTY

Members Wicomico Farmers Ass'n. Must Live Up To Organization Regulations.

DIRECTORS PLACE BAN ON OUTSIDE SELLING

In Future, Members Must Sell Products Thru Association Or Forfeit Privileges—Ruling Was Made, It Is Said, In Order To Secure The Unswerving Loyalty Of Members.

In order to have only those members within its fold who are 100 per cent loyal to the Association and its principles, the Wicomico Farmers Association has decided to strictly enforce the constitution and by-laws of the Association, particularly the sections relating to the unswerving loyalty of its members.

At a meeting of the directors, of the Association, held here last Saturday, it was deemed advisable to start rigidly enforcing the loyalty regulations immediately, and those members who have been vacillating in respect to their loyalty to the Association will find that they cannot remain in the Association unless they strictly adhere to its tenets.

It was stated by an official of the Association that many privileges have been extended to the members since they joined the co-operative organization, and that the growers have profited very much by obtaining better prices for their products. However, it is felt that much more can be accomplished by the Association by having a few members who are loyal in every sense of the word than by having a larger membership which includes some who are divided as to their loyalty.

One Member Under Ban.

Therefore, any member of the Association who sells his crop or produce to outside buyers will, under the rules of the Association, be a violator of its regulations and thereby automatically forfeit his or her shipping privileges this year.

That the Association will apply this new ruling without fear or favor, and at once, is attested by the fact that one member of the Association was notified Tuesday that since he had been "beating around the bush" when it came to disposing of his product, the Association will refuse to handle any of his goods any more this year. This is the first application of the new ruling since it went into effect.

It also was stated that the new ruling probably will affect few of the Association members, because most of them are believed to be standing fast and true in their loyalty. What it will accomplish, however, is to weed out those who are or who have shown a tendency to in any way be disloyal to the Association.

The Association now is said to be getting along finely, and as an evidence of how much it is appreciated by many of the growers, one prominent Wicomico farmer came into the Association's offices Tuesday and increased his number of shares in the Association's stock from 5 to 20.

603,373 WORKERS IN STATE IN 1920

Seventy-Six Per Cent Were Male Manufacturing Industries Led With 34.3 Per Cent.

According to the returns of the fourteenth census, there were 603,373 persons 10 years old and over in Maryland engaged in gainful occupations in 1920, constituting 41.6 per cent of the total population of the State (1,449,661) and 52.1 per cent of the population 10 years and over.

In 1910 the 541,164 gainful workers were 41.9 per cent of the total population of the State and 52.9 per cent of the population 10 years and over.

Of the gainful workers of Maryland in 1920, 466,208, or 77.3 per cent, were males and 137,165, or 22.7 per cent, were females.

Of the gainful workers of Maryland in 1920, 95,930 or 15.9 per cent, were engaged in agriculture, forestry and animal husbandry; 9,670 or 1.1 per cent, in extraction of minerals; 270,264, or 34.3 per cent, in manufacturing and mechanical industries; 55,970, or 9.3 per cent, in transportation; 66,161, or 11 per cent, in public service; 30,404, or 5 per cent, in professional service; 66,524 or 11 per cent, in domestic and personal service, and 52,646, or 8.7 per cent in clerical occupations.

New York, Sept. 26.—"In France and England the wounds of war are the titles of glory, but in America, well, it's different," declares Private Guy Envin, blind French soldier who has come to America to enter Harvard University. Detained at Ellis Island last week because of his affliction, the polio was admitted to the United States only after a special board of inquiry had been convened to hear his story.

Envin carries eight citations for bravery on the field of battle. He was wounded in thirty places and blinded by a shell under Joffre at the first battle of the Marne. As a pupil of the Committee for Men Blinded in Battle he was awarded the Harvard scholarship and will study law.

The sightless veteran was in Paris when the American Legion delegation arrived there to begin a tour of the old battle fronts. The reception accorded the Americans, he said, was similar to that given the French soldiers when they returned victorious after the armistice.

Charging that bodies of returned soldier dead at the army piers at Hoboken are handled with less respect than are boxes of merchandise, the American Legion department of New Jersey has urged the governor and adjutant general of the state to place officers permanently on duty at the base to demand proper treatment of the bodies. Removal of the dead has become a fatigue duty for soldiers, in practice if not by order, investigation has disclosed. Unkempt men jostle the flag covered caskets into disreputable looking trucks and drivers bounce their precious loads over rough streets at a high rate of speed, it is charged, with no military guards accompanying the remains.

Evidence of the ridiculous and malicious arguments which radicals and disloyalists in New York are presenting to jobless ex-service men to alienate them from the government has been presented by William F. Deegan, American Legion member of Mayor Hylan's committee on unemployment, coping with the situation. To a crowd in Union Square recently, Mr. Deegan reported, a radical orator shouted that "Even the shoe trust is conspiring against you. They are keeping you out of a job so you'll have to wear out shoe leather walking the streets. Then they'll get you for another pair of shoes!"

A state-wide suspension of business and a funeral oration by the governor of the state, marked the funeral at Carson City, Nevada, of a farmer boy who went to war and made the supreme sacrifice. The honored hero was Lawrence Peter Foged. One of his daily tasks before he went to war was to deliver milk at the executive mansion. The funeral was conducted by the American Legion and J. G. Scruggs, national vice-commander of that organization attended.

While watching a fireworks production, "Seige of the Dardanelles," at the Indiana state fair, Ben Watkins, world war veteran, collapsed from shell shock and for five hours underwent treatment at a nearby field hospital. He is a federal aplary inspector.

Washington, Sept. 26.—More than 30,000 Americans will rest forever in the soil of France, near the battlefields where they fell, Secretary of War Weeks has informed the American Legion's legislative committee here in response to an inquiry. Bodies of A. E. F. dead to be returned to the United States total 43,670, the secretary added, with more than 40,000 of them now in this country.

The 30,162 members of American forces who were killed in action or who died in France will be buried in six French cemeteries and one in England, according to the war secretary. The cemeteries over which the Stars and Stripes will forever fly are the Meuse-Argonne at Romagne, the Alpine-Marne at Belleau, the Somme at Bony; the Oise-Aisne at Seringes-et-Nesles; the St. Mihiel at Thiaucourt and the Surmes near Paris. The permanent American cemetery in England will be the Brookwood, near London.

Washington, Sept. 26.—"How they want to get back down on the farm after they've seen Paris" is the paraphrased rendition of the popular war song now, according to statements of Secretary Albert B. Fall, Department of the Interior, to the American Legion here.

For every government farm available today there are one hundred service men standing in line, Secretary Fall says in a letter to the Legion's national legislative committee. At least 40,000 young world war veterans have attempted to get the 469 farms opened to settlement on government irrigation projects since February 14, 1920, according to Mr. Fall, with 187,136 inquiries at hand from service men with reference to opportunities to settle on government tracts.

The interior department is unable in any degree to satisfy the "back to the farm" craving of the service men without additional legislation, Secretary Fall's letter infers. One of the options of the adjusted compensation (bonus) bill which it has presented to congress, the Legion committee points out, is a land settlement and home aid provision whereby service men would take the amount of a cash bonus, plus 40 per cent, applied to payment on lands.

"I asked her to marry me by talking with my hands like I'd seen the French do. She said yes in German; I understood that much." The war romance between a former doughboy of the Rainbow Division and the daughter of a German farmer with whom he was billeted in the Army of Occupation ended in New York last week with the marriage of Everett C. Haughn, Columbus, O., and Fraulein Elsie Bauer, Unkelbach on the Rhine, Germany. Two of the bridegroom's buddies of the American Legion of Columbus attended him at the wedding, one acting as best man. The couple will live in Columbus.

Correspondence by airplane has been instituted between the mayor of Kansas City, Mo., and the mayor of Omaha, Neb., by the American Legion of the former city. Legion officials flew to Omaha last week with the Kansas City mayor's request to the mayor of Omaha that he board the plane for a flight to the Legion convention at Kansas City, October 31. The mayor of Kansas City will fly back with the other mayor to attend the first aero congress in Omaha.

Membership in the American Legion proved its worth to Arnold Hawkinson, Glencoe, Minn., after his automobile was stolen in Minneapolis recently. Shortly after the theft police scrutinized an automobile in which two women had driven to the jail for a visit with a prisoner. Under the seat they found a copy of the American Legion Weekly addressed to Hawkinson. The women were arrested and the automobile returned to its owner.

With handkerchiefs covering their faces as smoke masks, members of Hoboken, N. J., post of the American Legion aided in removing the bodies of 4,700 American soldiers when fire of unknown origin destroyed two of the army base's piers recently.

In the hope that the bodies of Lieut. Charles G. Little, Newburyport, Mass., and Mechanic Lloyd E. Crowell, Charles, S. C., American Legion men killed when the giant dirigible ZR-2 exploded, will be recovered from the wreckage, the Legion post at London, England, is planning an impressive ceremony in their honor. If the bodies are returned to America, similar rites will be observed at the port of New York by the Legion of the city and state.

Arrested and facing detention in jail for trial for violating a traffic ordinance, James Anderson, Nashville, Tenn., was passing unhappy moments when his policeman escort noticed his American Legion button. "Here, I'll go your bond, buddy," he said. "I wear the same button." It developed that the men belonged to the same Legion post.

With the recent receipt of their state bonus checks, members of the Sturgis, South Dakota, post of the American Legion have pledged $11,000 of their money for the erection of a $25,000 community building which is to have a gymnasium, shower bath, bowling alley, rest room and a dance hall for the entire town.

In an address formally opening the new quarters of the Holyoke, Mass., post of the American Legion, General John J. Pershing, complimented the Legion for not participating in politics.

Policies favoring navy men of the American Legion will be discussed at the first conference of the newly appointed committee on Naval Affairs of the Legion. Edward E. Spafford, New York, chairman of the committee has called the conference in Chicago, September 28.

The third annual reunion of the Thirty-fifth Division, composed of Missouri and National Guard units, will be held at Kansas City on the same days as the national convention of the American Legion—Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 and 2.

Brig. Gen. Charles Dawes, Secretary of the Navy, Gov. Miller and John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, will address the third annual convention of the New York department of the American Legion at Jamestown, N. Y., Sept. 23 and 24.

Favoring the name of a private soldier who gave his life for his country during the world war to that of "some illustrious general," an American Legion post of Minneapolis, Minn., has petitioned the city board of education to name a large new high school there for Cecil Kyle, who was working his way through college by selling newspapers and tending cows when he enlisted.

Gold Imports Show Gain.

New York—Gold to the value of $443,313,000 has been brought to the United States from foreign countries since the beginning of the present year, while exports of the metal for the same period have amounted to but $10,120,000 according to figures made public by the federal reserve board.

Garlic "Hardened Artery" Cure.

Paris—Garlic-munching may become a habit of elderly people who are threatened with hardening of the arteries, if there is any virtue in a discovery just made by three famous French physicians. A report by the doctors to the Biological Society declares that garlic supplies a valuable remedy for arterial tension. Many experiments have shown that a week's treatment reduces the blood pressure practically to normal.

Bergdoll Now in Switzerland.

Geneva—Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader, says the Thergovie Zeitung, arrived in Constance from Munich and is stopping at a hotel at St. Gall.

Bergdoll came from Germany to avoid extradition to the United States, the newspaper asserts. He has an American passport, it adds, and now is perfectly safe from extradition.

EDITORS HOLD FALL MEETING IN EASTON, MD.

Joint Sessions Del-Mar-Via And Md. Press Assns. Took Place Monday and Tuesday.

GOVERNOR RITCHIE WAS IN ATTENDANCE

Entertainment Provided Visiting Newspapermen by Eastonians was Elaborate and Thoroughly Enjoyed—Big Banquet at Hotel Norris Monday Evening a Feature.

The joint meeting of the Maryland and Delmarvia Press Associations, held in Easton on Monday and Tuesday of this week, was a very enjoyable occasion and one that attracted editors from all over the Peninsula. Governor Albert C. Ritchie was on hand for the big event and delivered an address at the banquet which was held at the Hotel Norris Monday evening.

The visiting newspapermen began to arrive in Easton early Monday morning and were received at the office of the Easton Star-Democrat by Mr. S. E. Shannahan and his staff. They were assured that the key to the town had been given into their keeping and the excellent program of entertainment was in keeping with the promise.

A fine luncheon was tendered the visitors at the Hotel Norris Monday, after which the scribes were welcomed to Easton by the Rotary Club, the Easton Publishing Company and Mayor Francis E. Wrightson. In the evening, an elaborate banquet was tendered the visitors at The Norris, which was attended by approximately 200 persons. In addition to the newspaper men, members of the Rotary Club and professional men of Easton were guests of the Associations.

Places of Interest Visited

T. Hughlett Henry acted as toastmaster at the banquet, and responses to toasts were made by Rt. Rev. Geo. William Davenport, John E. Rains, president of the Maryland Press Association, George Carter, vice-president of the Del-Mar-Via Press Association, Joseph Finan, of Cumberland; Everett C. Johnson, former Secretary of State of Delaware; William F. Metten, secretary-treasurer of the Del-Mar-Via Press Association; Walter H. Savoy, sales manager of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., of New York, and Governor Ritchie.

Places of interest, including trips to Wye House and the old Friends Meeting House, were taken in by the visitors and thoroughly enjoyed. On Tuesday morning, the visitors enjoyed a cruise on the State Steamer Governor McLean, and were shown some of the beauties of Maryland's waters and the surrounding territory.

One of the features of the entertainment that made a big hit with the newspaper men was the trip to Bellevue, where an oyster roast and crab feast was served at the packing plant of William H. Valliant.

Calvert L. Estill, managing editor of The News, represented the Wicomico News at the two-day session.

W. C. T. U. ENCOURAGED OVER "DRY" VICTORY

Local Organization Believes People Realize Necessity Of Sending "Dry" Men To Legislature.

(Contributed by the W.C.T.U.) It must be very encouraging to the friends of temperance in this county to know that in the recent primary, the dry forces for the legislature led a complete victory over the wet forces. To say this was an accident would be far from the truth.

We believe that our people are awakened and realize that our legislative halls must be filled with men who believe in supporting the Eighteenth Amendment. Every method of attack is being used in the arguments of the wets to nullify this amendment and much of the best talent is employed by them; but to say that Prohibition is a failure because it does not stop bootlegging is only a flimsy argument. You might as well ask why all crimes do not cease, because there are laws forbidding them, and heavy penalties for the violation of same.

Prohibition is prohibiting, and will continue to do so, but as some great speaker has said, "You cannot sober a nation that has always been wet, overnight." The truth of the matter is that the exaggerated cases are the ones mostly reported for the purpose of arousing sentiment against a law which cannot enforce itself.

Undoubtedly there are many people upon whom this has effect and who are inclined to look with disfavor upon a law which does not seem to be effective. But the law is effective, though not completely so, as we all know, but our forces are lining up for greater battle, and when our Atlantic coast has been thoroughly patrolled and our Federal officers have ferreted out the gang of wealthy men in N. Y. who are partially supporting the boot-leggers, perhaps at least they will admit that our country means business, and that violating the law is not such a pleasant pastime as once supposed.

During the past year our country was visited by Mr. Herbert Hoare, of Queensland, Australia, who traveled in eleven different states, and thence went to Scotland, and he claims that he saw more drunkenness in forty-eight hours in Glasgow, than he saw in three months travel in the United States. Such a statement you would scarcely expect to find in a wet paper, but it surely is encouraging to notice that foreign countries are beginning to see the change in our raiment.

The fight is not all won. That fact must be borne in mind, but let us give our loyal support to the men and women who are chosen to represent us, whether in the Anti-Saloon League forces, the Legislative halls or in building up and supporting the Women's Christian Temperance Union, whose forces are increasing and who are doing an effective work throughout the country.

TWO LARGE FUNERALS HELD AT QUANTICO

Funeral of Stephen Bailey on Sunday and That of Samuel H. Bailey, Monday, Largely Attended.

One of the largest, if not the largest, funerals ever held at Quantico, took place Sunday afternoon, September 26, when Stephen Bailey, the popular young business man of Mardela was laid to rest.

The services were held in the Methodist Episcopal Church in charge of the pastor, Rev. Mr. VanBlunk, assisted by Rev. Mr. Donaldson, formerly pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church of Mardela.

The large gathering of relatives and friends by no means could find accommodations within the church buildings, and many remained outside at the windows and on the lawn. The services were very impressive.

On Monday afternoon, September 26, in the same church, another gathering that overflowed the building was present to pay their last respects to Samuel Herbert Bailey, who was killed in action in France.

Services at the church in charge of the pastor, Rev. Mr. VanBlunk, assisted by Rev. Mr. Mason, pastor of the Methodist Protestant church. The combined Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal choirs rendered the musical selections.

The body was escorted by a large detachment to the American Legion which took charge of the services at the grave. Captain Claude Bailey and Acting Chaplain Dr. Elderidge.

The large gathering and the excellent manner in which the services were conducted at the grave made a deep impression on everyone. The sympathy of the entire community goes out to the families of both men, Stephen Bailey having also been in service over seas.

STEEL TRADE BELIEVES CORNER HAS BEEN TURNED

W. S. Tower, chief of the Iron and Steel Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, in a report of iron and steel conditions, says that sentiment is more cheerful and that there is a growing belief that the worst is past both in domestic and foreign markets. He refers to the recent revival in buying and says that if it is sustained as expected, "July will prove to have been the turning point of the most severe depression in the recent history of the steel industry in the United States."

THURSDAY, : : : SEPTEMBER 29, 1921

REGISTRATION DAYS.

Announcement has been made by the Board of Election Supervisors for Wicomico County of the registration days that will be held here this Fall, and every person in the county who is entitled to vote, and who has not yet registered, should see that his or her name is placed upon the registration books.

The first registration day will be next Tuesday, October 4, and another day that has been set aside for registering is the following Tuesday, or October 11. However, unless some unforeseen circumstances should intervene, every qualified voter who intends registering and who has not done it, should not wait until the last minute but should register on the very first available day.

The Registrars will sit from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. on the registration days set forth above, and this will give everyone qualified an opportunity of having his name placed upon the books if it already is not there. Those whose names already are on the books do not have to register again in order to vote.

The purpose of the approaching registration days is to give those who have reached voting age since the last election or who will have reached it before the November election, an opportunity to vote. It also will afford those who are entitled to vote but whose names are not now on the books an opportunity to have their names registered.

It not only is the personal duty of everyone entitled to vote to have his or her name registered but it also is a public duty. The right to vote, the right to participate in the voice of the government, is a great privilege and is one that should not be lightly considered. By registering and by voting at the coming November election, you will be fulfilling one of the main functions of American citizenship.

At the November election, the voters of Wicomico county will choose officials for various of the county offices, will express their choice for State Comptroller, and also will select the delegates to represent them at the 1922 General Assembly. When the election occurs, every citizen entitled to vote should see to it that his or her voice in the matter has been duly heard. There is only one way that this can be consummated, and that is by having your name on the registration books. If you have not yet registered, and are entitled to the privilege, do so at the first opportunity.

SOME BASEBALL FIGURES.

The statement of the local baseball officials covering the receipts and disbursements for the nine weeks of baseball enjoyed by local fans here this summer is very illuminating. It shows conclusively how really expensive is the playing of independent baseball of the variety indulged in on the Shore this year and also stands out in sharp contrast to the comparatively low cost of conducting organized league baseball.

Salisbury, according to the figures presented and printed elsewhere in today's issue of The News, paid $10,939.96 for nine weeks of baseball—considerably more than One Thousand Dollars a week. Of this amount, nearly $700 per week was paid out in salaries and board for the local team. The average weekly payroll, as a matter of fact, was slightly in excess of $675 for each of the nine weeks.

With a Class "D" League in operation on the Shore, these figures under the heading "Expenses" would be cut down to a minimum—reduced to figures within reason. The Blue Ridge League has a monthly salary limit of $2,000, or only a little more than $460 weekly, and yet the brand of baseball played by all of its teams this year was of high order.

Those local "fans" who were fortunate enough to see the Frederick team play Princess Anne here, undoubtedly must be convinced that despite their much lower pay-roll, the Frederick countians had managed to band together a team that was a great credit to the city and the league it represented. And, not only was Frederick, with its comparatively low payroll, a special case of the efficacy of organized ball, but every other team in the Blue Ridge League also played excellent baseball—at a minimum of up-keep.

Baseball is a grand, glorious game, but we are sure that the "fans" on the Shore are desirous of having the best possible grade of baseball at the minimum of cost. Since organized baseball brings baseball to us of a higher class and at cheaper price, there seems to be only one course open to the "fans" in this section, and that is to organize a league.

At last Friday night's meeting of the baseball moguls from several of the Peninsula towns, President J. Vincent Jamison, of the Blue Ridge League, kindly consented to come to Salisbury and discuss the details regarding the proposed formation of a League on the Shore. His talk was very interesting and enlightening as to the many advantages that a Class "D" League offers over independent baseball, and it is to be hoped that when the moguls again gather in conclave here next week some tangible step will be taken looking toward the formation of an Eastern Shore League.

Mr. Jamison has had years of experience in both independent and organized baseball realms, and when he states that if we decide to organize a league here under the rules of organized baseball, we will never want to return to the independent brand again, he gives us the benefit of his years of experience on both sides of the fence.

INCREASED REPRESENTATION FLAYED.

In its issue of September 24, the American Issue, under the caption "No Increased Representation?" has the following to say, in part, regarding Baltimore City's claim to increased representation at Annapolis:

"Baltimore City has had under discussion for years the question of increased representation. True, when the Annexation Bill was before the Legislature there was promised on every hand that if the bill passed there would not be demand made for increased representation for the city. Since annexation was accomplished, and no one that we know of is now objecting to it, a number of individuals have taken up the old fight which means more votes to be placed at the disposal of the corrupt politicians of the city of Baltimore.

"During all this discussion, those responsible for it knew that it was a matter upon which the Legislature should pass. Certainly they should have been concerned with the kind of members of that body but so far as we have been able to observe this has scarcely been considered. One prominently connected with the movement for increased representation made the statement some time ago that it was none of the business of the people of the State if Baltimore City sent a bunch of billy goats to the Legislature. From the interest taken in selecting the members from this city, we wonder if a good many people were not thinking the same way.

"We do not mean to say that all of them are not representative candidates, but a very small minority of the candidates proposed will represent the best interests of the city and State. If, with increased representation being the paramount issue in the minds of a large number of people, no effort was made to have the entire delegation made up of men who would be an honor to the city, what can we expect if the number is increased?

"We go back to our original proposition of some months ago that it takes a large amount of nerve on the part of Baltimore City to ask the State of Maryland to give us more of the kind they have been sending to Annapolis."

"THE OLD HOME PAPER"

How fondly I dream of the old county weekly, that came every Thursday when boyhood was mine; my Dad read aloud, and we all listened meekly, and stayed up till midnight, to hear every line.

But now how I choke on the big city daily,—I've mental dyspepsia, and ringworm and gout,—the slush in its mazes bewilders me really, till I am submerged in a quagmire of doubt. . . .

And so, I hark back to the old County Weekly, the gem of my boyhood, the charm of my youth; I gaze at the rift-raft, and shake my head meekly, and long for the Weekly that peddled the truth,—the old County Weekly, the honest old Weekly, the bald-headed Weekly that peddled the truth.

"Y" Officials Have Small Appropriation for Ex-service Men Desiring Educational Assistance

During the period from November 1, 1919, to June 30, 1921, the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Association of the United States, appropriated the sum of $6,100,000 for carrying out the plans of the National Educational Service Committee, which had four features (1) lecture service (2) vocational guidance (3) Americanization and Scholarship assistance to ex-service men.

Mr. R. W. Mammerslough stated yesterday that of this sum there still remains $375,000 available for the various Associations, and that the Salisbury Association has been allotted a small appropriation which he is anxious to see properly distributed.

In this connection, Mr. Mammerslough stated that he wanted to find two former service men who would be interested in receiving assistance from the Educational Service Committee, and that he would be glad to talk to them about the proposition.

On Saturday night at 7:30 P. M., there will be one showing of moving pictures. PROCEEDINGS OF THE CITY COUNCIL

Salisbury Will Have Representative On Committee That Will Endeavor To Secure More Road Funds.

Mr. Fred P. The Council, desiring the city to be represented in the movement, instructed the clerk to write Col. John D. Building permits granted by the Council were as follows:

Annie E. Waller, to erect a garage on the East side of Camden avenue adjoining the property of Wood Richardson.

Samuel Hawkins, to erect a dwelling on the West side of Vine street adjoining the property of Mrs. Selby Ward.

The Council instructed the clerk to write Mrs. Adah M. Phillips to repair the pavement on 803 West Main street at once.

On motion, the Council instructed the Solicitor to prepare an ordinance for construction of a sidewalk and curb on both sides of South Division street from the New York Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad to the Snow Hill Road. The Council also decided to visit Bush street in a body to investigate the condition of the traffic there.

The Clerk was instructed by the Council to inform Mr. Daniel B. Cannon by letter that he did not locate the house he moved at the proper location, and unless he moved it back on High street he will be compelled to tear it down or move it away.

News From Our County Correspondents

MARDELA SPRINGS

We beg our friends, who with us are anxious to make these news items each week fresh and interesting, to get them to us early, so as to give us ample time in which to write them before the train goes out on Monday morning. Otherwise they will have to lay over for another week.

That is an anomalous position of some who preach loyalty to our country and obedience to her laws and yet instead of helping the country in her great endeavor, in this aftermath of a World War seem to be spending much of their time in criticizing the Government, in what they call failure in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment. What are they doing towards enforcing this Amendment? They pretend to know where the law is violated and who violate it, but not a hand is raised to help the Government toward crushing out lawlessness.

Mr. E. T. Jackson, of Jestersville, spent the week-end with friends in town.

On Sunday last Mr. and Mrs. Larmore and daughter, Madeira, entertained Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Heath and daughter, Alice, and Miss Thelma Horseman, of Jestersville; Miss Edith Larmore and little brother, Edwin, of Salisbury; Mrs. Hilary Heath and daughters, Ada and Catherine, and the Misses Pauline and Anna Jackson, of our town.

Miss Mina Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bradley, came home last Saturday from the Harlem Hospital, New York, where she has been employed.

Mr. Charles E. Brown has bought the small house on the lane leading into the trucking land of Mr. James E. Bacon and immediately at the rear of the Baptist parsonage. Charlie is a nice fellow and we are glad that he has secured this fine little home.

Captain Herman Marvel and family are visiting here and in Sharptown. Captain Guy Marvel is visiting his father, L. C. Marvel, of Mardela. He resides in Philadelphia and this is his first visit home in nine years.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hurlock and little son, Dallas, of Baltimore, were guests of Mr. Benj. Graham and family a few days last week and on night Mr. John Bradley and little daughter, Mary, of Vienna, spent two days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Buck Walker.

The editor in the last issue of this paper has spoken in no uncertain way, as to the guilt of our state in continuing the race track gambling. We had desire to know how our people feel about it and this is what we find. The good Christian people of every name are positively opposed to gambling of every kind and especially to this race track gambling, which they regard as a moral blot upon the fair name of our Maryland. But they ask, "What can be done?" The question is easily answered. And that is, do not send any man to the Legislature who will vote for the continuance of this great moral wrong.

I am a Marylander and rejoice in the fact, but it does sting me to the very quick which I go out of the State and hear men say: "That Maryland is one of the three States known as a liquor State."

Messrs. Wilkinson and Hensen have just received another car load of laying mesh. It is surprising how much of this kind of food for fowls is used in our community. But it certainly does make the hens cackle.

We have refrained, up to this time, from saying anything about the shameful auto accident the other Saturday night, near our Springs. The inside facts were hard to get at, but we have heard it hinted that John Barclay had something to do with it. If the facts are true, as alleged, then it is high time that something be done to save our boys from the terrible slavery of strong drink.

Rev. E. E. Krause and wife were visitors here on Thursday night. Just as we have often remarked, when a person has once spent some time as a resident here, they are desirous of returning. Some of our people do not realize what a nice place Mardela is next to Paradise. Whew!

Rev. Irvin Owens, of Powellville, was in town on Thursday, so you see, that he too, knows a good thing when he sees it. That's right. Come again, Brother Owens, we are always glad to see you. His daughter, Sarah, is still here.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hatton and daughter, Miss Lillie, spent the week-end in Cordova as the guests of Rev. and Mrs. E. E. Krause.

Mr. Stephen T. Bailey, of the firm of Waller & Bailey, died at the home of Mr. James T. Waller at midnight on the 23rd instant. Mr. Bailey was only 29 years of age and in the full flush of his manhood. He was born in Quantico and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Bailey. Mrs. Ira Disharoon is a sister; Roland, of near Quantico, and Waller, of Columbia, S. C., are brothers. He was a nephew of Judge Bailey of our court.

During the World War Mr. Bailey was a lieutenant in the American Army and went across the sea. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and also of the Elks. The funeral services were held in the Quantico M. E. Church. Rev. G. R. Donaldson, of the Sharptown M. P. Church, and Rev. J. M. S. Van Blunk had charge of the services. The remains were interred in the Episcopal burial grounds. It was thought to have been the largest attended funeral ever seen in this section. The young man was well thought and widely.

On Sunday the reopening services of the Vienna Baptist Church were held. Dr. B. G. Parker, of Mardela Springs, preached the opening sermon in the morning and Dr. Wm. H. Baylor, of Baltimore, preached the sermon in the afternoon. The whole amount of the cost of improvements was raised during the day. The Church is taking on new life.

ROTARIANS THINK TIDE HAS TURNED

Say That Improvement in Business On Sound Basis of Recovery Is Noticeable.

OPTIMISM THE KEYNOTE OF RECENT CONFERENCE

Baltimore Meeting of Rotary Club Executives Representing Clubs in Fifth District Was Notable Event—Many Salisbury and Eastern Rotarians Attended the Sessions.

A notable improvement in business upon a sound basis of recovery, with commercial and professional men in a better frame of mind than they have been since the outbreak of the World War was the keynote expressed by the officers and committee chairmen of the Rotary Clubs of the Fifth District who met last week in Baltimore in executive conference.

The Rotary conference represented the clubs of Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, the District of Columbia and Maryland, numbering 50, who conferred with officers of the International Association recently elected at the convention held in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Ed. L. Stock, of Washington, D. C., governor of the Fifth District, presided. Among the international officers who attended were Cecil Harris, of Chicago, secretary of Rotary extension; Hugh E. Van de Walker, Ypsilanti, Mich., chairman, Boys' Work committee; Guy Gundaker, Philadelphia, chairman, Business Methods committee; Lewis W. Perrin, Spartansburg, S. C., of the Educational committee; William Gettlinger, New York, publicity committee, and George Harris, Washington, D. C., international sergeant at arms.

"Good Citizen" The Test.

The conference was the first of its kind in the history of the international association, therefore its deliberations were watched with interest by Rotary Clubs throughout the world as the basis for future undertakings.

A note of optimism as to the improvement in the social and economic affairs throughout the world was sounded by Crawford McCullough, of Toronto, Canada, president of International Rotary, in a message to the conference in which he said:

"To be a true Rotarian is to be a good citizen and the good citizen is above all a patriot. A true patriot is loyal to the country of his choice and to the laws which govern its people, but does not consider his place in the life of the community as either secure or complete unless in some measure he unselfishly devotes his talents to the well-being, comfort and progress of his fellows.

"An object of the International Association of Rotary Clubs is to aid in the advancement of international peace and good will through a fellowship of business and professional men of all nations united in the Rotary idea of service. Let us cultivate an appreciation of all that is good and fine in the people of other countries, tolerance for opposite opinion and even of the national faults of other peoples, sympathy for distress, willingness to compromise where essential principles are not imperiled and display a broad vision of the essential duty of the human race. Let us do nothing by word or deed to irritate the national pride of another people, great or small. Thus will Rotary through the lives of men continue a force for the prevention of war and the promotion of good will among nations."

New Impetus To Work.

Cecil Harris, of Chicago, based his views concerning the improvement in business upon a recent tour of the United States and Canada. He pointed particularly to the revival in the automobile industry in Michigan, the recovery of the Southern farmer due to the advance in the price of cotton and to the increased enrollment by the colleges and other institutions this fall over a year ago. He reported 447 new Rotary clubs in process of organization, compared with 211 new clubs a year ago.

A new impetus was given to the welfare activities of the Rotary Clubs, including assistance to the youth of the world through the Boys' Work committee and the encouragement of lofty ideals in business as a result of the discussion of these and other subjects by the delegates.

A dinner was given the delegates by the Baltimore Rotarians, supplemented by a luncheon both days of the convention. Rev. Charles Noyes Tyndell, of Williamsport, Pa., delivered an inspirational address to his fellow Rotarians at Thursday's luncheon.

Two hundred Rotarians attended the conference, including quite a number from Salisbury and Eastern.

SECOND ANNUAL FIELD MEETING A BIG EVENT

Farmers Enjoy Fine Outing on Farm Of Dr. E. E. Tull—About 800 People In Attendance.

The second annual Field Meeting of the Somerset County Agricultural Association was held last Thursday on the Dr. E. E. Tull farm, north of Princess Anne, and Somerset county farmers, their wives and children enjoyed a big outing, about 800 people being present. The meeting was arranged under the supervision of County Agent C. Z. Keller, and Mr. Charles C. Gelder acted as chairman of the occasion. Music was furnished during the day by the Tall Cedar Band, of Delmar.

The day's entertainment opened with a base ball game between farmer-boys' teams from Westover and Green Hill, which resulted in a victory for the Green Hill team by a score of 13 to 11.

Tractor demonstrations were next on the program, and interesting exhibitions of work were given by representatives handling the Indiana, Fordson, Wallis and Samson tractors, also a Fordson with a new mowing attachment, which created considerable interest.

A poultry culling demonstration in charge of H. W. Ricey, poultry expert of the Extension Service, University of Maryland, was a source of great interest to poultry raisers.

The morning's entertainment closed with a farm woodlot inspection trip in charge of Assistant State Forester S. Corbin, who took the visitors to a section of Dr. Tull's woods and explained the method of making seed trees.

Following a picnic luncheon, Mr. E. B. Reid, representing the American Farm Bureau Federation, made an address in which he explained farm legislation in Congress, and also the organization of the Agricultural bloc in the Senate.

Mr. Reid was followed by Mr. D. G. Harry, President State Dairymen's Association and President of the Maryland Agricultural Society.

The last address of the day was delivered by Dr. F. B. Bomberger, Assistant Director of the Extension Service, University of Maryland, who made a timely discussion of the need of farm organizations.

FIRE PREVENTION IS CONSERVATION

Stopping Fires Before They Start Means Big Economic Saving To All Citizens.

By Henry M. Warfield.

The Fire Prevention Campaign, organized for Baltimore and the State of Maryland, and which starts October 1, should be viewed by the citizens as one of the most important conservation measures ever presented for their consideration and co-operation. Few, I believe, fully comprehend what the reduction of the fire waste really means. Property destroyed by fire, while in most instances paid for by the insurance companies, is nevertheless, wiped out of existence and thereby constitutes a lessening of our resources by necessitating its replacement from our constantly diminishing sources of supply.

So many fires are due to carelessness or lack of attention to small details in one's home or place of business that it appears almost criminal that those responsible should not realize the importance of exercising the necessary care and supervision over the premises under their control that would prevent a large percentage of the fires.

The Association of Fire Underwriters of Baltimore City and other similar associations throughout the state and country employ expert inspectors who are constantly employed in making inspections, pointing out to property owners the defects in their equipment and fire prevention arrangements, the improvement of which is reflected by reduction in insurance rates. These inspectors are at the service of any property owner desiring their advice and the compliance with this advice has saved the assured many thousands of dollars in premiums besides reducing the fire waste in which every man and woman should be interested.

These associations are supported by the stock fire insurance companies at no small cost, and any fair-minded citizen cannot but appreciate the great good their work has been to any community through the improved building laws, fire prevention devices and fire-fighting devices suggested by experts in the various lines. Reduction of the fire waste must result in reduction in the cost of insurance, for no class of business is under stricter supervision than insurance by the insurance commissioners of all the states. Should the reduction in fire waste be such as to show increased profits to the insurance companies, rates are just as certain to come down proportionately as night is to follow day.

We have in Baltimore an excellent example of the assistance the stock insurance companies are in bringing about better fire prevention in the area swept by the great fire of 1904. This area has been rebuilt to a great extent under the direction of the experts employed by the insurance companies with the result that, after paying out about $35,000,000 in losses to property owners, these property owners are now enjoying lower insurance rates than before the conflagration and the City of Baltimore can feel quite sure that a repetition of the conflagration will not occur in this area.

Shock To His Many Friends Here.

Mr. Robert P. Graham, Secretary of State during Governor Goldsborough's administration, State Comptroller during the Lowndes Administration and a former State Tax Collector, died suddenly early last Wednesday night at his residence, 107 Ridgewood Road, Roland Park, Baltimore, from an attack of heart trouble.

Mr. Graham, who was a native of Salisbury, apparently was in excellent health up to the time of his death, and his sudden demise came as a great shock to his host of friends in this city and county. Last Tuesday, September 20, he appeared in court here and argued a case as attorney for the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company, and at that time he seemed to be in excellent spirits.

On Wednesday, Mr. Graham, accompanied by his brother, Dr. Samuel A. Graham and family, motored to Baltimore. At 7 o'clock Wednesday night he suddenly became ill and died about an hour later.

Mr. Graham was born in Salisbury in 1867 and had been prominent in Republican politics of the State for a number of years. He was a graduate of the law Department of the University of Maryland and for a number of years was engaged in the practice of his profession in this city. He was elected Comptroller of the State in 1895 and served as Tax Commissioner under the late Governor Lowndes and as Secretary of State under Governor Goldsborough.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Caroline Dorsey, of Baltimore, three daughters—Misses Margaret, Eleanor and Alice Graham—one son, Robert P. Graham, Jr. Three brothers—Levin A., of Minneapolis, Dr. Samuel A. and Donald Graham, of Salisbury—and one sister, Miss Irma Graham, of Salisbury, also survive him.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from his late residence in Roland Park.

Our friend, Mr. W. S. Miles, of Miona, Va., holds the record as a watermelon raiser for the lower peninsula. At least we have not heard of any who have outcalled him. The record is the raising of a Mammoth King Melon which tipped the scales at the full 70 pound mark. His neighbors went over to help him make way with it and it fed 11 persons and like the loaves and fishes there was enough and to spare, two large slices being left over. If any of our readers can beat this we would like to hear from them. Remember, this is no fairy tale, it is the real stuff.—Worcester Democrat.

NEWS REPORTER GATHERS DATA REGARDING HISTORIC QUANTICO

Is One Of The Ancient Land-Marks Of This Section—Quantico Creek, Upon Which The Town Is Located, Drains Most Fertile Rural Section Of County—Birthplace Of Robert Emory Pattison, Gov. Of Pa. In 1882.

(Note—The first installment of this story appeared in last week's issue of The News.)

The moral standard has always been high and from this high standard have come men and women who have honored town, county and State.

Robert Emory Pattison first saw the light of day in one of Quantico's honored homes in the year 1850. The building in which he was born still stands, though changed and improved, now owned and occupied by Ashby Woolford and family. Pattison was the son of a Methodist minister, Rev. Robert Pattison and early after the birth of young Pattison his parents were sent to Philadelphia by the appointing powers of the annual conference as the Wilmington Conference had not yet been organized. Pattison was educated in Philadelphia and was admitted to the bar at the age of 22 and soon became a lawyer of some eminence. He at once entered the political field and in 1877 he was elected comptroller and was reelected in spite of tremendous opposition, well organized. In 1882 he was elected governor of the State of Pennsylvania, the first Democratic governor the State had elected in more than 30 years. He made a fine record and was again elected in 1890 and at the close of his term he had won distinction in State and nation, being classed with the nation's best and cleanest statesmen. He died in 1904.

It is said that in the early history of the town there were as many as five doctors residing in the town at one time. Whether the number is correct or not some eminent physicians have resided here. It was here that Dr. Albert B. Slemons began the practice of medicine and from here he went to Kentucky and won distinction there as a practitioner, returning in later life to the scenes of his youth, he settled at Delmar, when this town was yet in its infancy. His son, S. Ker Slemons, is the popular cashier of the First National Bank, Delmar, and a local minister of the Baptist church, a scholarly gentleman and among the best local preachers on the Shore. Dr. William H. H. Dashiell for many years a resident physician of the town with an extensive practice. Dr. Samuel J. Kerr was a prominent figure in Quantico in the sixties, had a large practice and was a very popular Baptist minister. His youngest son, H. Claud Kerr has achieved distinction as a minister in the Old School Baptist denomination and for several years has been pastor of the leading Baptist church in Middletown, N. Y. He also travels extensively visiting the churches of that faith. He has recently accepted a call to become pastor of the Baptist church at Delmar. Dr. Lyle L. Gordy a recent production of the town is now located at Sharptown and is classed with the leading physicians of the Eastern Shore.

Isaac S. Dulany, father of Rev. Henry S. Dulany of Sharptown and a prominent minister in the Wilmington Conference and of John Dulany, one of Fruitland's leading citizens, also W. P. Dulany, Merchantville, N. J., John B. Dulany, New York, and A. J. Dulany, of Fruitland.

When a young man Dulany left Quantico and later became a prominent merchant located at Tony Tank near Salisbury. This was then the largest lumber market in upper Somerset county. Later he went to Fruitland and through his business enterprise he built up that town. For more than seventy years there was an unbroken record of mercantile activities carried on by this man Dulany and his sons. The late George A. Bounds, one of the pioneer fruit and vegetable packers of the county, was very prominent in the social, political and industrial life of Quantico some years ago and later started the wheels of industry at Hebron and helped to make that town grow and prosper and he in turn is succeeded by his son George C. Bounds, now the leading industrial influence of the town and community.

One of the ancient landmarks of the religious life of the town is the Protestant Episcopal church, surrounded by the "City of the Dead," where rests the remains of many generations.

"The Earth is old with the centuries, But not for this she bows her head; Close to her heart the sorrow lies— She holds so many dead."

The Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Protestant Church are also strong in religion and morals. There are three resident ministers and each has rural churches to look after, but all give their special attention to home churches and as a consequence the religious part of the community includes about all of the people.

Quantico has furnished more officers of the county than any town or place excepting Salisbury and all have proven efficient and some have attained eminence. William Howard whose home was just north of Quantico had the distinction of being the first sheriff of the county after its formation in 1867. Andrew J. Crawford whose home was about the same distance south of that town was honored by being elected the first State senator of the county. V. Frank Collier, Willie Gillis, William C. Brady, and James M. Jones, have been sheriffs of the county. Albert L. Jones was a member of the school board and a member of the Maryland Legislature. Levin J. Gale was Register of Wills and also member of the school board. Willie Gillis, one of the leading men of that community is now a popular member of the present board of county commissioners and his son Rollie D. Gillis is the popular cashier of Fruitland Bank. Albert L. Jones, Jr., captain of the 78th Division of the U. S. A. is now in Texas making a fine record as an electrical engineer. Joseph L. Bailey our Circuit Court Judge, son of the late Levin C. Bailey was born near Quantico and is one of her many honored sons. Step by step, effort by effort he has climbed the ladder of success and today he is classed among the leading jurists of the State and today one of the most popular men with all classes in the county. Following as a close second is Levin C. Bailey, "Claud," son of John C. Bailey of Quantico, one of the county's rising young lawyers, a man of ability and recognized promise as a practitioner and in the front ranks of the products of that distinctive town. Richard H. Hodgson comes in for a share with the Quantico boys and while he is not a lawyer in name he is in ability and one of the most affable as well as one of the most successful young men coming from that honored town where so many prominent men have been born.

Quantico stands alone as being the birthplace of a political institution of such peculiar features that it has never been instituted in any other section of this or any other country and we refer to the Turtle Dinners. These turtle dinners were annual feasts for more than forty years having been discontinued in the early part of the twentieth century having been put out of business by the direct primary system so much in evidence in the recent political tug-of-war. Under the turtle dinner system no such an open fight could occur, because it was at these dinners that the tentative ticket was made out by the political leaders of the county. There are no such leaders today. That method has given place to the direct primaries in which every voter has a child's part.

The turtle dinner was a spring festival with the political leaders and served during the month of June. Turtle was served in various forms and in abundance; turtle eggs were served by the thousand, some men eating as many as two hundred. Fried chicken was always on the menu card as were fish, oysters and every other available article that the appetite could wish. Coffee, tea and

Under the turtle dinner system no such an open fight could occur, because it was at these dinners that the tentative ticket was made out by the political leaders of the county. There are no such leaders today. That method has given place to the direct primaries in which every voter has a child's part.

The turtle dinner was a spring festival with the political leaders and served during the month of June. Turtle was served in various forms and in abundance; turtle eggs were served by the thousand, some men eating as many as two hundred. Fried chicken was always on the menu card as were fish, oysters and every other available article that the appetite could wish. Coffee, tea and the various condiments were served and every known liquid or powder at hand to stimulate the appetite and aid digestion. No ill effects ever followed. Neither were any dissensions. The interests of every candidate was considered and also the interests and turn of every district. There were often several candidates for the same office but these were all satisfied, if not given a place their names were carried forward and were given preference at the next annual sitting.

Not only were candidates named and delegates suggested to work in harmony with the plan but many a new jaw was born at these annual gatherings and confirmed at the next session of the legislature. This was not an institution for the favored few but every man in every district was given notice to be present at the turtle dinner, instituted at the Hotel de Gordy, on Quantico's Main street and abandoned in 1906 at the same place at the Hotel de Bailey. Many of the older men of the county still cherish these annual feasts and recall their political function with much pleasure as they were cheerful, cordial and a free-for-all treat to those present and every one had a chance sooner or later and all happily accepted the result of the deliberations and worked for their consummation.

CECIL COUNTY CLUB BOYS WIN HIGH HONORS

Awarded First Team Prizes in Dairy Cattle Contest, Also Other Prizes, At Timonium.

Not only did the first team prize in the State-wide dairy cattle judging contest for agricultural club boys at the Timonium Fair go to Cecil County, but three of the four pure bred bull calves offered as sweepstakes prizes and two individual prizes of $25 each went to boys in the same county. In team standing, Harford County scored second place and Baltimore county, third.

The winners of the sweepstakes prizes, offered for the best work in judging all four of the dairy breeds, were Kent Price, Centerville, first; Warren Rice, Sylmar, second; George Worloun, North East, third, and Joe Glackin, Rising Sun, fourth. Herbert Nell, of Taneytown, took first place in judging the Guernseys; Richard Wills, of Fallston, led in the Holstein class; Warren Rice, of Sylmar, won first honors in the Jersey class, and Joe Blackin, of Rising Sun, captured first place in the Ayrshire class.

Fifteen counties of the State were represented by teams in the contest, and, owing to the ruling that prevented more than one money prize from going to the same boy, the prize money was well distributed about the State. Louis McLane Merryman, president of the Timonium Fair Association, and G. O. Smith and Dr. DeVoe Meade, of the University of Maryland, who acted as judges, have been busy since last Friday reviewing the numerous papers and the results of the contest were just made known by G. E. Wolcott, superintendent of the contest.

In addition to the three team prizes, consisting of a silver cup for first place, a bronze plaque for second place, and a bronze medal for third place, awarded to the teams making the best showing in judging all four breeds, each boy had a chance to win one of the five individual prizes offered for judging each breed, one of the four sweepstakes offered for the best work in all four breeds, and a chance to make the team which will represent the State of Maryland in the junior judging contest at the National Dairy Show at St. Paul, Minn., in October.

POPULAR SCIENCE FOR OUR READERS

They used to say that "money makes the mare go!" No longer true. Science makes the mare go. And money itself also works for science now.

It is amazing how rapidly science has become the rule of the world in the first two decades of the 20th century. To cap the climax, science, far more than human hands, fought the greatest war in history.

Science governs our lives nowadays from the cradle to the grave. The most successful food raising is governed largely by science. We raise our babies more scientifically. Our schools are now scientifically run. Our homes are full of scientific inventions, our tools of industry are scientifically manufactured and our amusements are marvels of science.

This prelude is to introduce our readers to a new enterprise which this newspaper is about to present to its readers as a regular feature of our news columns. Through our representative, the Autocaster service, we have made special arrangements with the POPULAR SCIENCE MONTHLY, one of the country's leading informative magazines, to print simultaneously with that journal, illustrated features of the latest and most interesting facts in current science.

POPULAR SCIENCE is a careful and accurate collector of scientific news of the highest interest, and it pays thousands of dollars a month for the features that this newspaper has arranged to print simultaneously with it. Our readers will now share with POPULAR SCIENCE readers in these interesting, entertaining and educational features.

SCIENCE NOW TESTS BABE RUTH'S HOME RUNS

Why and how does Babe Ruth, the great ball player, make so many home runs? With electrical and other special apparatus, the scientists of Popular Science Monthly have been trying to find out. This copyrighted picture, which we print by special arrangement with Popular Science, shows the Babe swinging with the bat while the device is measuring the force and speed. The cross on his knee shows the height at which he hits the ball best. The test showed that Ruth's physical hitting efficiency is 90 per cent compared with the "average man's 60." His eyes are 12 per cent faster than the average. His ears function 10 per cent faster. His bat swings at the rate of 110 feet a second. The scientists decided that the Babe would hit the ball even further, if he didn't "hold his breath" quite so long—a fraction of a second shorter.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

This is No. 50 of the fourth series of articles issued by the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th St., New York, City. They are appearing weekly in these columns.

THE EDUCATIVE VALUE OF MOTHER GOOSE.

By Anna Mae Brady.

Every child should have access to a well illustrated copy of Mother Goose, not only because these little jingles represent the heart beats of the race but because they have within them great educative value. The tiny babe is lulled by their rhythm, to which all the primitive in him responds and his eye is caught by the pictures long before he is able to interpret them. Grown-ups never outlive them. Poor indeed is the child who is denied this foundation of the classics.

Mother Goose represents the first attempt of the race to give us a literature. Away back in the beginning of time, long before the days of books, these verses developed. The race no doubt was in that rhythmic stage where people loved to swing and sway their bodies to music, queer music it was too, for we hear that it was often made by beating stones or sticks together, but always the rhythm was the appealing thing. So too, the sounds of rhyming words tickled their ears and when they first developed these jingles they were so pleased with them that they repeated them over and over, handing them down from generation to generation, each generation refining yet leaving the plot unchanged.

These rhymes while but a sentence or two in length are well-nigh perfect in construction. They will pass any test to which we subject adult literature. There is a plot, introduction, climax and conclusion. The characters dance on and off again, yet so clearly are they represented that as long as life lasts we have a clear picture of them. With only a few words to describe them, Little Bo Peep, Jack and Jill, and Little Miss Muffet, have as well defined places in our minds as Othello, Hamlet or Lady MacBeth.

Our children of the pre-school and Kindergarten age are in this same stage of development. They too are susceptible to rhythm, they love to swing and sway and hop to music, and their ear is also caught by the sound of rhyming words. They need material like Mother Goose, for it is to them what Shakespeare is to the adult. Because these rhymes are the product of many minds they are richer than anything one person can give them.

Many of us used to think that Mother Goose made up these rhymes in Boston Town long ago, and we liked to think of them as distinctly American but such is not the case. These jingles came down to us from the primitive races and Mother Goose was only a very clever teller of these tales—a woman who made so many children happy that in her honor we call them Mother Goose rhymes.

The child who is brought up on Mother Goose learns to read naturally. He memorizes the jingle from hearing mother say them and locates them by the pictures. Finally he sees them as word units and is able to recognize the same words in different rhymes. This equips him with a working vocabulary which is of inestimable value when he enters school. Best of all it has not been work but only play.

SIMPLE INVENTION FOR YOUR BOY

Here's how your boy can make his own Jack-o'-Lantern for Halloween, providing he has one of those inexpensive flashlights that many boys have. He takes a common cardboard box, or a handkerchief box and cuts the eyes, nose and teeth in the cover. In the bottom of the box he cuts a circular hole into which he fits the flashlight. That's all, except to turn on the juice! Copyrighted feature from Popular Science Monthly by special arrangements.

Some men are young at eighty—others are old at forty.

It's about the same way with batteries.

Their usefulness depends on the care they have had, the amount of work they have had to do, how they have been used, and most important of all—on the original quality of the battery.

There are many good reasons back of the decisions of the manufacturers of 173 cars and trucks to use Willard Threaded Rubber Batteries.

The Wreckers

By FRANCIS LYND

Copyright by Chas. Scribner's Sons

Mr. Norcross came back about eight o'clock, and I gave him my report of how things were going on the line. A little later Mr. Cantrell dropped in, and there was a quiet talk about the situation, and what it was likely to develop. The Mountaineer editor was given all the facts, except the one big one about Hatch's death-grip on us, and in turn Mr. Cantrell promised the help of his paper in the last ditch—though, of course, he had no idea of how deep that last ditch was going to be. I had a lot of time and indexing they were talking, wondering all the time if the boss would venture to tell the editor about the depth of that "last ditch." He didn't. I guess he thought he wouldn't until he had to.

It was pretty nearly nine o'clock when the editor went away, and Mr. Norcross was just saying to me that he guessed we'd better knock off for the night, when we both heard a step in May's room. A second later the door was pushed open and a man came in, making for the nearest chair and flinging himself into it as if he'd reached the limit. It was Collingwood. He was chewing on a dead cigar and his face was like the face of a corpse. But he was sober.

Naturally, I supposed he had come to make trouble with the boss on Mrs. Shella's account, and I quietly edged open the drawer of my desk where I kept Fred May's automatic, so as to be ready. He didn't waste much time.

"I saw you as I was coming away from Kendrick's last night," he began, with a bickering rasp in his voice. "Did you go up against the gun I had loaded for you?"

Mr. Norcross cut straight through to the bottom of that little complication at a single stroke.

"What Mrs. Collingwood said to me, or what I said to her, can have no possible bearing upon anything that you may have to say to me, or that I can consent to listen to, Mr. Collingwood."

The derelict sat up in his chair. "But you've got to keep hands off just the same; at Kendrick's, and in this other business, too. If you don't, there is going to be blood on the moon! Get me?"

The boss never batted an eye. "I'm taking it for granted that you are sober, Mr. Collingwood," he said. "If you are, you must surely know that threats are about the poorest possible weapons you can use just now."

"It's a plant, from start to finish!" grunted the man in the chair. "I haven't done a thing but to cash a few checks for—four expenses, and turn the money over to Bullock. Now Hatch tells me that I was working with a spotter—his spotter—and that he can send me up for bribery. It's a lie. I don't know what Bullock did with the money, and I don't want to know."

"But you had orders to give it to him when he required it, didn't you?" Mr. Norcross cut in.

"That's none of your business. I want you to choke this man Hatch off of me!"

The boss had picked up his paper-knife. "I don't know why you should come to me for help," he said. "You have been hand-in-glove with these conspirators ever since you came out here. Two days ago you knew that they had set a trap for my special train on the Strathcona branch—a trap that was meant to kill me."

It was a random shot, and I knew that Mr. Norcross was just guessing at where it might land when he fired it. But it went home; oh, you bet it went home!

"D—n you!" gurgled the bounder, half starting to his feet. "Why shouldn't

"Why Shouldn't I Want to See You Killed?"

I want to see you killed? Haven't you done enough to me?"

"No," the word was slammed at him like a bullet. And then: "As I told you in the beginning, we won't go into any phase of it that involves Mrs. Collingwood. Get back into your own boat. Are you trying to tell me now that Hatch is threatening you?"

"He played me for a come-on. He says he's got the whole business down in black and white, with affidavits, and all that. He had the nerve to tell me less than an hour ago that he'd burn me alive if I didn't toe the mark."

"What does he want you to do?" "He wants me to stick around here so that he can use me against you. He knows how you're mixed up with Shella and that you can't turn a wheel without making it look as if you were going after me on your own personal account."

There was silence for a little time. It was an awful muddle, with bloody murder sticking out of it on every side.

"If you have come here with the idea that I can force Hatch's hand, you are very much misled," said the boss at the close of the electric pause. And then: "Has he made it appear to you that he was merely trying to help you avenge your own fancied wrongs?"

"He said I ought to get you; that any man who would make love to a married woman ought to be got."

My chief was looking past the derelict and out through the darkened window.

"You don't know me, Mr. Collingwood, but you do know your wife; and you know that she is as far above suspicion as the angels in heaven. Let that part of it go. Hatch was merely using you for his own ends. If he could persuade you to kill me off out of the way, it would be merely that much gained in the business fight. You haven't done it thus far, and now he is using your check-cashing excursion as a club with which he proposes to brain the entire railroad management, your uncle included, if we interfere with his plans."

Collingwood scowled up at the ceiling, shifting the dead cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other.

"So that's the way of it, is it?" he commented. "He was working for his own pocket all the time, and Uncle Breck stands pat and slips him the ace he was needing to make his hand a winner. Between you and me, Norcross, I believe this d—d piker needs killing a few times, himself."

The boss sat back in his swivel chair and I could just imagine that he was trying to get some sort of proper angle on this young fellow who, in addition to his other scoundrelisms, big and little, had wrecked the life of Shella Macrae. I knew what he was thinking. He had a theory that no man that was ever born was either all angel or all devil, and he was hunting for the redeeming streak in this one.

When you looked right hard at the haggard face you could see something sort of half-appealing in it; something to make you think that perhaps, away back yonder before the spoiling began, there used to be a man; never a strong man, I guess, but one that might have been generous and free-hearted, maybe. I got a fleeting little glimpse of that back-number man when he turned suddenly and said:

"One night a few weeks ago when I was full up, Hatch got hold of me and told me you were out at the Kendrick place with Shella. He made me believe that I ought to go out there and kill you, and I started to do it. Do you know why I didn't do it?"

"Well, I'll tell you. One night last spring up at the Bullard you slammed me one in the face and dragged me off to my room to keep me from making a bigger ass of myself than I'd already made. I haven't forgotten that. In all these crooked years, nobody else has even taken the trouble to chuck me decently out of sight and give me a chance to brace. Drunk as I was, I remembered it that night when I was climbing up to a window in the major's house and trying to get a shot at you."

Mr. Norcross shook his head, more than half sympathetically, I thought. "Let that part of it go and tell me about this other trouble," he said. "How badly are you tangled up in this political business?"

"I've given it to you straight on the

The NEW EDISON

"Where did you hear Muzio?" the New York dowager asked her out-of-town niece.

KNOWLEDGE of good music is one of the marks of true culture. You and your children can absorb all that is worth knowing in music, by having a New Edison.

This was proved once again when Bamboschek, principal conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, recently heard Muzio, the Metropolitan's great dramatic soprano, compare her voice with its RE-CREATION by the New Edison. He said: "The quality of Miss Muzio's voice and the quality of her RE-CREATED voice are identical."

But the New Edison brings not only the beauties in music. Its perfect realism releases, at last, all the power in music,—and makes possible this newest, greatest step forward in music:

MOOD MUSIC—WHAT IS IT?

Send the coupon for this new book which shows you how to use music for what it will do for you.

Some music has a miraculous power. It soothes you when you're nervous, refreshes you when tired, cheers you when blue. Mr. Edison determined to discover just which selections have this power. Two years ago, he organized a research, and placed it under the direction of Dr. W. V. Bingham, Director of the Department of Applied Psychology, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

The research showed that certain Edison RE-CREATIONS had this remarkable power to affect people's moods and feelings. The psychologists called these RE-CREATIONS "Mood Music".

TOURING CAR

IT SAVES WHEN YOU BUY;
IT SAVES WHEN YOU RIDE!

Yet there is no sign of economy in its looks!

The baked enamel finish of the touring car looks new longer than any car near its price.

The all steel touring car body is a feature of no other car within hundreds of dollars.

Even the storm curtains open with the doors as in the highest priced touring cars.

Its gasoline average is above 25 miles per gallon—many individual records exceed 30—its test record is the highest any car ever achieved.

Triplex springs give the long swinging comfort of a 130 inch spring base plus the convenience and economy of 100 inch wheel base.

Axles are chrome nickel steel. Rear hubs and steering knuckles drop forged steel.

Speedometer, dashlight, electric starter and lights—all are designed as part of the car.

Long life with the upkeep so small you never notice it—with gasoline mileage so high you can always boast about it—that is what makes Overland the popular American car.

It is a good investment for business or pleasure.

Announcement-

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, makes the following announcement:

"We are making another reduction in the prices of Ford cars and the Ford truck, effective today. The new prices average $70.00 under former prices, and are the lowest at which Ford cars and trucks have ever been sold. List prices, F. O. B. Detroit, are now as follows:

"This is the third price cut during the past twelve months. On Sept. 22, 1920, the price of the Ford touring car was reduced from $575 to $440; June 7th to $415, and now to $385, making total reductions in this type of $220, or 38 per cent. The same proportionate reductions have been made in all other types. One year ago the price of the Ford sedan was $975; today it lists at $660 with the same equipment.

"We are taking advantage of every known economy in the manufacture of our products in order that we may give them to the public at the lowest possible price, and by doing that, we feel that we are doing the one thing that will help this country into more prosperous times. People are interested in prices, and are buying when prices are right.

"The production of Ford cars and trucks for August again broke all previous high records with the total reaching 117,696. This is the fourth consecutive month in which our output has gone over the hundred thousand mark, the total for the four months being 463,974, which has gone a long way in making possible the present reductions. June, this year, with an output of 117,247 was the previous record month.

"One noteworthy feature of our sales is the increased demand for Ford trucks and cars for sale. This class of commercial business has been gradually increasing the past sixty days and we interpret it as a very good sign of improvement in general business.

"No reduction has been made in the price of the Fordson Tractor, and none is contemplated."

Go over these new prices! See how little it costs to become the owner of a Ford car or a Ford truck. Can you really afford to do without any longer?

Let us tell you more about it, and advise you regarding the delivery of the particular type of car in which you are interested.

Hand-Craft Beads and Trinkets

AMONG women there are those gifted with amazingly ingenious minds, and they are always exercising this gift on the most commonplace materials—turning them into things of beauty for themselves, their homes, and their friends. Within the last year or so some one of them discovered that colored sealing wax might be substituted for paints, and a little alcohol flame for a brush, and all sorts of pretty furnishings and trinkets made by such simple means. Fadeless bouquets of flowers, fashioned of paper tape and coated with the wax in different colors, bloom in vases, also painted in beautifully blended colors—wax providing the color and a flame providing the brush.

Very handsome beads and ornaments are made of the colored wax. Several colors are used together for making them. The wax is softened over a flame and molded round a knitting needle. Drops of melted wax in other colors worked into the beads give them most beautifully blended color effects. These beads are made in any shape and size desired and strung on small silk cords in the color prevailing in the beads. They can be made to match or harmonize with costumes according to individual taste, and each strand may differ from every other strand. The necklace shown at the middle of the three pictured is made in this way, with lavender beads showing flecks of rose and gold strung on a lavender silk cord. Knots in the cord keep the beads from slipping, and the strand is finished with an ornament.

The necklaces at each side are made of colored paper and glass beads. Colored advertising pages cut from magazines provide the paper, which is cut into long, slender triangles. The length of the bead is governed by the width of the base of the triangle. Placing the base of the triangle on a knitting needle, the paper is wound tightly and evenly around the needle, the pointed end fastened down with a bit of maulage. The bead is then dipped in clear shellac, strung on a string, and allowed to dry. When a sufficient number of beads have been made they are strung with very small glass beads.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE FAMILY.

FOR those who enjoy hot cakes and genus for breakfast, the following recipe will be one to try:

Popovers.

Mix and sift one cupful of flour, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, seven-eighths of a cupful of milk, one-half teaspoonful of butter, and two eggs.
Beat the batter with a Dover egg beater until light. Pour into deep hissing-hot iron gem pans well greased and bake in a hot oven for thirty minutes. If baked in buttered earthen cups the popovers will have a glazed appearance.

Apple Fritters.

Sift one cupful of flour with one teaspoonful of powdered sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Add two-thirds of a cupful of water, beating constantly. Add one-half tablespoonful of olive oil and the white of one egg beaten stiff. Core and pare tart apples, sprinkle with lemon juice, dredge with sugar and let stand half an hour. Dip in fritter batter and fry in deep fat. Serve with lemon sauce.

Fritter Batter.

Break one egg into a bowl, add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and one and one-half table-spoonfuls of powdered sugar. Add flour, stirring until the mixture will take no more.
Turn on to a floured board, divide into three parts and roll as thin as possible. Cut into narrow strips or squares and fry in deep hot fat.
Sprinkle with powdered sugar mixed with cinnamon.

Mix and sift together one cupful of flour and one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt. Add two-thirds of a cupful of milk gradually, and two eggs beaten thick, one table-spoonful of olive oil and the whites of the eggs folded in after being beaten stiff.
Bacon cut in quarters, sprinkled with lemon and sugar, let stand half an hour, then dipped in the batter and cooked as the apple fritters, are delicious. In fact any fruit may be used for fritters.

THE GIRL ON THE JOB

How to Succeed—How to Get Ahead—How to Make Good

By JESSIE ROBERTS

FARM OPPORTUNITIES

I AM constantly in receipt of letters from women tired of office work who ask what chance they would have in investing their savings in a small farm. They want a home, they want to be their own masters, they long for the country after years of confining labor at a desk.

Success in farming requires training and experience as well as a wish for that type of work. A good business training and initiative are excellent as stock in trade, but there should be more than that. Farming is no easy job.

Two young women tell me that they are making money with a small sheep farm. There is plenty of demand both for the wool and the meat. But these two women also run an apary, marketing their honey, in a distinctive package. It is the finest honey, and they charge a high price for it. They have worked up a trade with a list of private purchasers, and sell through the mail.

The thing is to have only the very highest class of produce, to charge high for it, to put it into attractive and striking packages that are an advertisement in themselves, and to sell direct to the consumer. With the perfect post this is possible. We find it better to specialize in several things rather than in one. Establish a market for one of your items and you establish it for all.

This sounds like good talk, and I recommend it to my readers who may be thinking of turning to the farm as a source of income.

Most Economical Most Durable Most Beautiful

WHEN YOU PLAN TO BUILD, REMEMBER THIS:

You can have beautiful, shining, dustless, easily cleaned OAK FLOORS for less than the cost of ordinary floors plus carpets and staining. Figures prove it.

OAK FLOORS will give to your home more cozy attractiveness and style than any amount of costly furnishing could do, and will add greatly to the selling or renting value of the house—Any real estate dealer will tell you that.

The unwieldy, unsanitary, unsightly tacked carpet is out of place in the modern home. It should be relegated to the dust heap where it belongs, and the newer, cleaner, handsomer hard wood flooring with small attractive rugs should take its place. Plan your home with this in mind, because you can have a more beautiful, economical, and satisfactory floor for less money.

For remodeling we have a special grade of light (3/8 inch)
OAK FLOORING which can be laid right over the old floor at small cost and with little trouble.
Investigate this hardwood floor before you start to remodel.

Prices for OAK FLOORING are ridiculously low, in fact an Oak floor will cost little more than a high grade of pine. When you realize this, can you really afford to ignore such a wonderful opportunity to have a genuine hard wood floor in your home?

Come in today and talk it over with us, or send for one of our free booklets that will tell you how to enhance the value and beauty of the home at comparatively small cost.

LIBERTY BOND TAX EXEMPTIONS OPPOSED

Proposed Amendment To Make All Liberties Free From Taxation Is Termed Class Legislation.

(From Wall Street Journal).

Dispatch from Washington stating that Senate Committee on Finance had adopted an amendment making all Liberty bonds free from taxation does not please New York bankers, whatever may be the view in the Liberty bond market.

There is no doubt that the bill will meet the most determined opposition and bond dealers express the opinion that it cannot become law. They admit that the strong Liberty bond market last week, in which the active issues advanced 18 cents in the case of the 3½s and as much as $1.18 for the Second 4½s, per $100, was partly in anticipation of this bill.

A Wall Street banker, discussing the bill, said: "Tax-exempt securities of any kind are wrong in principle. We as a nation, are committed to the principle of graduated tax—that is, the wealthier a person is the greater must be his share of taxation. This bill would enable rich men to escape their share of the burden altogether."

"Of course, it would improve the market for Government issues, but it would put an added burden on railroads and industries. It would force productive enterprise to pay a higher rate for money, and that in turn would force the average man to pay twice as much in increased prices for necessities as he could possibly save through a slightly lower rate, for future issues by the Treasury."

"This bill has the same defect in principle that the Soldier's Bonus Bill has; it is class legislation. It would benefit a few and injure the many."

"If this bill should pass the proponents of the Bonus Bill could point to it, with reason, and say Congress does not hesitate to pass a bill to benefit the rich banker but will do nothing for the poor soldier."

A bond dealer who specializes in Government securities said: "I do not believe the bill will ever pass. I am sure it ought not to pass. It has too many possibilities of trouble in it. I am surprised that the Senate committee has approved it, because according to my information, the Treasury Department is against it."

"One harmful effect would be to depress the market for municipal bonds. And no one single Congressman would care to do anything that would make it certain that the next time his home town wanted a million dollars it would be necessary to pay more for the money."

"Small investors who have been forced by economic developments to sell their Liberties would be incensed over the passage of the bill. Distress selling now coming into the market is extremely small. Present holders are largely people in comfortable circumstances who do not need any special favors from the Government. Besides, the gradual easing of money rates will slowly force quotations for these issues upward to par without any legislation."

CEMENT PRODUCTION RECORD ESTABLISHED

August, 1921, Output Exceeded Average For That Month in 1917-1921 By Approximately 15 Per Cent.

Geological Survey reports that production and shipments of Portland cement in the U. S. continued to increase during August 1921. August production exceeded the average for August, 1917-1921, by about 15%. Production for the first eight months of 1921 was about 59% of the quantity produced during the corresponding period of 1920 and exceeded the average for the first eight months of 1917 to 1921 by about 8.5%.

As is usual in Summer, the August shipments exceeded production and the total for the eight months just ended was equivalent to more than 99% of the record quantity shipped in the first eight months of 1920. The average for the same period during the five years 1917-1921 was exceeded by about 9.5%.

Stocks of finished cement mills at the end of August were approximately 8,280,000 barrels, compared with 8,941,000 barrels on January 1, 1921 and with the average of about 9,000,000 barrels for August during the last five years.

The production of clinker (uground cement) also established a record for August, the output being the excess of 9,300 barrels. Clinker production for the eight months amounted to slightly less than 63,000,000 barrels.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, reports that imports of hydraulic cement in July amounted to 3,454 barrels, valued at $6,862, the total for the first seven months of 1921 was 49,264 barrels, valued at $184,577. The exports of hydraulic cement in July were 81,091 barrels, valued at $294,000; the total exports for the seven months period were 741,433 barrels, valued at $2,958,280.

Employment Figures For August Revealed

Textile, Steel and Shoe Industries Show Increases While Motor and Coal Companies Decreases.

During the month of August, 1921, nine of the fourteen principal manufacturing industries showed an increase in the number of persons on the payroll as compared with July, 1921, and five showed a decrease, according to a report issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor. The largest increases, 5.5, 5.3, 4.9 and 4.8%, are shown in hosiery and underwear, men's ready-made clothing, iron and steel, and boots and shoes, respectively. A decrease of 5.9% appears in automobiles and 3.1% in bituminous coal mining.

Comparing the figures of August, 1921, with those of identical establishments for August, 1920, it appears that in six industries there were decreases. The largest increase, 114%, is shown in the woolen industry. The great increase reported for the woolen industry for August, 1921, over August, 1920, is due to the recovery from a period of idleness. The most important decreases are 43.1% in iron and steel, 36.1% in car building and repairing, 35.8% in automobiles and 33.8% in paper.

NEAR EAST COMMITTEE APPEALS FOR MD. GRAIN

This State's Quota Not Yet Filled—14,000 Bushels Needed For The Famine Stricken.

Maryland faces the challenge—will she supply her quota of food for the starving women and children in the Near East or will she fail to do her share among the states of the Union? It's up to the farmers of the state to say.

Maryland has never failed yet to hear the cry of starving humanity, and this appeal for grain from the Russian Caucasus, Armenia and the Bible Lands should have a special significance in this state. Maryland is largely a state of farmers and her farmers should not let a single neighbor farmer starve, for after all, the Near East farmers are neighbors of Western Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado forty years ago. A train load of food can be sent from Baltimore to Armenia quicker today than it could have been sent to Denver a half century ago.

Plans have been perfected whereby all the corn and wheat donated by American farmers will be converted into foodstuffs, assembled and shipped to the Near East without the deduction of one cent from the original contribution of grain, and thus save the starving women and children of that section of the world.

Maryland Headquarters, Near East Relief asks only that the farmers of the state give 14,000 bushels each of corn and wheat, but a small fraction of the harvest. County committees, millers, county agents and grain buyers are all co-operating in this work of mercy—it is up to the farmers to give the grain and they have until the end of the harvest period is the announcement from Maryland Headquarters, 14 W. Franklin St., Baltimore, Md.

California Vegetable Freight Rate Reduced

More Than Half of Increase Made On Aug. 26, 1920, Has Been Removed By Interstate Commission.

Following a conference between representatives of transcontinental carriers, western vegetable shippers and the Interstate Commerce Commission the commission announced that it had decided to make reductions desired by shippers in the rates on vegetables from California and other Pacific coast territory points to the territory east of the Rocky Mountains as far as Chicago and the Mississippi River.

The commission announced that the basis to be employed in making the reductions is to substitute for the increase of 33½% made on Aug. 26, 1920, an increase of 15% over the rates in effect Aug. 26, 1920, thus removing more than half of the increase made at that time.

A large volume of movement takes place annually under the rate to be reduced and it is hoped that the reductions will materially assist growers and shippers of western vegetables.

PRESS COMMENT

Survey by Prof. Secrist, of Northwestern University of 569 retail clothing stores in 36 states, representing $80,000,000 annual total net sales, shows number of suits sold per store in 1919 was 1,271; 1918, 923, and 1914, 724. Average price of suits sold was $37.17 in 1919, $27.55 in 1918, and $20.22 in 1914. Wages and salaries per $100 net sales were $11.93 in 1919, $13.14 in 1918 and $12.92 in 1914.

Eugene Arnett, representative of Co-operative Live Stock Association of cotton belt, says New York State will be drawn upon for dairy cattle by South, in an attempt to establish dairy farming on a large scale. Associations prepared to pay from 50 to 300% more for pure bred dairy stock than it would bring in beef market. Purchases of cattle will probably not go through for year, as program calls for raising of feed crops before the cattle is acquired.

TOLEDO STREET CAR FARES RAISED FOR SECOND TIME

Community Traction Co. of Toledo has received permission to advance fares for the second time within six weeks. New rate is six tickets for 40 cents against eight tickets for 50 cents, in effect early in August. Cash fare of 7 cents and 1 cent charge for transfers remains the same.

The traction company is operating the property of the old Toledo Railways & Light Co., a Cities Service property, under a service at cost plan whereby fares can be adjusted every ten days by a committee composed of municipal and organization officials.

EXPERIMENTS THROW NEW LIGHT ON POTATO GROWTH CONDITIONS

Questions Often Asked Concerning Growth Of "Spuds" Are Answered By U. S. Department Of Agriculture Officials. Series of Experiments Recently Conducted.

How do potatoes grow? Why do some vines produce many tubers and others only a few? Do big seed pieces produce better potatoes than small pieces? When does the tuber begin to form? When does moisture have the most effect on the production of potatoes? What is the relation of soil to potato production?

These are a few among many questions which have been asked about the growth and yield of one of America's largest and most distinctive crops, and which former observers have been able to answer only incompletely.

The Bureau of Plant Industry, United States Department of Agriculture, has conducted a series of experiments in potato growth, the results of which are published in Department Bulletin 958, Development of Tubers in the Potato, which has just been issued. The information contained is of interest not only to the plant physiologist but also to the practical grower, as a knowledge of the relation of the setting and subsequent development of tubers of the potato may, to a certain extent, be put to practical use.

Tuber formation, it was found, begins in general at about the end of the period of flower bud development, although this is not in all cases an exact criterion. Experiments showed that the number, as well as the size, of potatoes in a hill increased for several weeks after the first potatoes were large enough to dig. A small increase in the weight of tubers was found to occur even after the vines had been killed by frost. The maximum rate of growth of the tubers was found to occur about the last of August or first of September, which was approximately 80 days after planting.

An interesting development of the experiments was that the number and weight of tubers per hill were found to be influenced by the size and kind of seed planted. Whole potatoes used as seed yielded heavier than half potatoes, and these more than quarters, and the larger the seed piece the greater the yield per hill. A whole potato used as seed yielded more than a half or quarter potato of equal weight.

The experiments showed that apparently light soils are better for potatoes than heavy soils. The lowest production of tubers, with respect to both number and weight per hill, was on the heaviest soil; the highest numbers and yields were produced on the lightest soil. The department thinks it possible, however, that these results might be modified somewhat under different climatic conditions.

Two-year tests with irrigation indicate that the early application of water before tuber formation had started resulted in an increase in the number of tubers, as well as in the weight per hill. Late irrigation actually increased the height but made little difference in the number of tubers per hill. The irrigation experiments were not carried to a final conclusion, but indicate that each application of water at almost any period in the growth of the plant, provided excessive quantities are not used, may be expected to produce an increase in the weight of the crop, but that little or no increase in the number of tubers is likely to result from irrigation after tuber formation is well started.

The bulletin contains an interesting description of the tuber-bearing parts of potatoes and their method of growth. It may be obtained free on request to the Division of Publications, United States Department of Agriculture.

WATER NO BARRIER TO SPREAD OF CORN PEST

Entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture combating the European corn borer have found on various occasions that water is not a complete barrier to the spread of the pest. A number of specimens were recently found on Middle Bass Island, in the western part of Lake Erie, several miles from either shore. They are uncertain on cornstalks from an infested portion of Ontario or whether the flight was made by the grown insects.

Last year living corn worms were found on an island several miles off the coast of Massachusetts.

Improved Methods Of Storing Shelled Corn

Farmer Who Stored Shelled Corn In Sacks Obtains Added Profit For His Product.

Improvement of the methods of gathering and storing and in the time of marketing corn, where there is a surplus, has been one of the problems handled lately by a county agent in Alabama. He reports that in 1920 three men in a community near Gantt unconsciously proved the very point he was anxious to make. Each had about 200 bushels of corn for sale. One sold his from the field at $1.20 per bushel. The second farmer stored his in the old way and sold it for $1.76, although it was gnawed by rats and eaten by weevils.

The third man brought his 200 bushels in, shelled, in good even weight sacks, with no weevils, and received $2.25. He had shucked, shelled and sacked his corn at spare times during the fall. He had learned from the county agent how to kill the weevils. The only expense he went to, although his corn brought so much better price, was for sacks and the weevil exterminator. He said the shucks were worth all that for roughage for his cows. This gave him $100 more for 200 bushels of corn than his neighbor who sold the same day.

TESTING ASSOCIATION COW IS ABOVE AVERAGE

The average dairy cow in this country produces annually about 4,000 pounds of milk and 160 pounds of butter fat. According to 40,000 yearly individual cow records just tabulated by the United States Department of Agriculture, the average cow testing association cow produces 5,980 pounds of milk and 246 pounds of butter fat a year. The world's records are 37,381.4 pounds of milk and 1,252 pounds of butter fat. The average dairy cow has plenty of room for climbing, and such commendable livestock improvement campaigns as the "Better Sires—Better Stock" drive will be effective in increasing the efficiency and production of American dairy stock.

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous-

Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried everything I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life.

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too. At all druggists. E 85 blinking proposition. Uncle Brock used me as a money carrier because—well, maybe it was because he couldn't trust Bullock. I didn't know definitely what Bullock was doing with the checks I cashed for him, though I supposed, of course, it was something that wouldn't stand daylight. It was only a side issue with me. I was coming out here anyway. I knew Sheila had made up her mind—God knows she's had cause enough; but I had a crazy notion that I'd like to be on the same side of the earth with her again for just a little while. Then this— he trailed off in a babble of maledictions poured out upon the man who had trapped him and used him.

The boss straightened himself in his chair, but he still was speaking gently when he said:

"You are not asking my advice, and I don't owe you anything, personally, Mr. Collingwood. But I'll say to you what I might say to a better man in like circumstances. You have done all the harm you can, but as I see it, there doesn't seem to be any need of your staying here to suffer the consequences. Why don't you go back to New York, taking your wife with you, if she will go?"

Collingwood's smile was a mere teeth-baring grimace.

"Sheila made her wedding journey with me once, when she was just eighteen. The next time she rides with me it will be at my funeral. Oh, I've earned it, and I'm not kicking. And about this other thing: I can't duck. You know what Hatch is holding me for. He told me just a little while ago that if I stepped aboard of a train, I'd be arrested before the train could pull out."

It was a handsome little precaution on the part of the chief of the grafters. If a fight should be precipitated—if the boss should try to checkmate the C. S. & W. gobble—the arrest and indictment of President Danton's nephew would serve bully good and well as a dramatic bit of side play to keep the newspapers from printing too much about the other thing.

"If you really want to go, I think it can be arranged in some way, in spite of Hatch and his bluffing. Mr. Norcross put in quietly. "So far as our railroad troubles are concerned it will neither help nor hinder for you to stay on here, now."

As if the helpful suggestion had been a lighted match to a hidden mine of rage, Collingwood sprang to his feet with his dull eyes ablaze.

"No, by God!" he swore. "I'm going to make him come across with these affidavit papers first! You wait right here, Norcross. You think I'm all cur, but I'll show you. There isn't much left of me but hound dog, but even a hound dog will bite if you kick him hard enough. Send me a gun, if you've got one and I'll—"

"Hold on—none of that!" the boss broke in sternly, jumping out of his chair to enforce the command. But before he could make the grabbing move the corridor door slammed noisily and the madman was gone.

CHAPTER XVI

The Disaster

Mr. Norcross chased out and tried to overtake Collingwood, going as far as the foot of the stairs. I went, too, but got only far enough to meet the boss coming up again. There was nothing doing. The station policeman had seen the crazy rouser jump into a taxi and go spinning off up-town.

There was another job waiting for us when we got back to the office. While we were both out, Mr. Van Britt had blown in from his room at the foot of the hall and we found him lounging comfortably in the chair that Collingwood had just vacated.

"I thought maybe you'd turn up again pretty soon, since you'd left the doors all open," was the way he started out. Then: "Sit down, Graham; I want to talk a few lines."

Mr. Norcross took his own chair and twirled it to face the general superintendent. "Say it," he commanded briefly.

Mr. Van Britt hooked his thumbs in his armpits.

"I've just been figuring a bit on the general outlook; you have a decently efficient operating outfit here, what with Perkins and Bram and Conway handling the three divisions as self-contained units. You don't need a general superintendent any more than a monkey needs two tails."

"What are you driving at?" was the curt demand.

"Well, suppose we say retrenchment, for one thing. As I size it up, you might just as well be saving my salary. It would buy a good many new cross-ties in the course of a year."

"That's all bunk, and you know it," snapped the boss. "The organization as it stands hasn't a single stick of dead wood in it. You know very well that a railroad the size of the Short Line can't run without an individual head of the operating department."

Mr. Van Britt laughed a little at that.

"If you should get some one of these new efficiency experts out here he would probably tell you that you could cut your staff right in two in the middle."

I could see that the boss was getting mighty nearly impatient.

"You are merely tugging handspikes around the edges of the thing you have come to say, Upton," he barked out. "Come to the point, can't you? What have you got up your sleeve?"

"Nothing that I could make you understand in a month of Sundays. I'm sore on my job, and I want—"

"Yes, I do. I'm tired of wearing the brass collar of a soulless corporation. What's the use, anyway? I found a bunch of dividend checks from my bank at home in the mail to-day, and what good does the money do me? I can't spend it out here; can't even tip the servants at the hotel without everlastingly demoralizing them. I'm like the little boy who wanted to go out in the garden and eat worms."

The boss was frowning thoughtfully.

"You're not giving me a show, Upton," he protested. "Can't you blow the froth off and let me see what's in the bottom of the stein?"

"Pledge you my word, it's all froth, Graham. I want to climb up on the mesa behind the shops and take a good deep breath of free air and shake my fist at your blamed old cow-track of a railroad and tell it to go to the devil. You shouldn't deny me a little pleasure like that."

It was getting under the boss' skin at last. "I can't believe that you really want to resign," he broke out, sort of hopelessly. "It's simply preposterous!"

"Pull it down out of the future and put it in the present, and you've got it," said Mr. Van Britt. "I have resigned. I wrote it out on a piece of paper and dropped it into your mail box as I came through the outer office. It's signed, sealed, and delivered. You'll give me a testimonial, or something of that sort, 'To Whom It May Concern,' won't you? I've been obedient and faithful and honest and efficient, and all that, haven't I?"

"I'd like to know where you got your liquor, Upton. That is the most charitable construction I can put upon all this. Why, man alive! you're quitting me in the thick of the toughest fight the grafters have put up!"

"Yes, I know; but a man's got only one life to live, and I've always had a sneaking sympathy for the high private in the front rank who didn't want to stand up and get himself shot full of holes. I'm running, and if you should ask me why, I'd tell you what the retreating soldier told Stonewall Jackson; he said he was running only because he couldn't fly." Once more the boss grew silently thoughtful. Out of the digging mental inquiry he brought this:

"Has this sudden notion of yours anything to do with Sheila Macrae, Upton?"

"Pledge you my word again. I met Sheila on the street today and promised her that I wouldn't so much as tip my hat to her while Collingwood is on this side of the Missouri river."

"But if you quit, you'll go east yourself, won't you?"

"Maybe, after a while. For the time being, I'd like to loaf on you for a week or so and watch the wheels go around without my having to prod them. It's running in my mind that this newest phase of the C. S. & W. business is going to stir up a mighty pretty shindy, and I had a foolish notion that I'd like to stick around and look on—as an innocent bystander."

"The innocent bystander usually gets shot in the leg," the boss ripped out, with the brittlest kind of humor. And then: "I suppose I shall have to let you do what you want to—and let you pick your own time for giving me the real reason. But you're crippling me most savagely, Upton—and at a time when I am least able to stand it."

Mr. Van Britt got up and edged his way toward the door.

"It's a good reason, Graham; and some time—say when we are walking through the pearly gates of the New Jerusalem together—maybe I'll tell you about it. If I were really a good scrapper, I'd stay and help you fight it out with Hatch; but you know the old saying—capital is always cowardly; and my present credit at the Postal City National is pretty well up to a quarter of a million, thanks to the dividends I deposited today. Good-night. I'll see you in the morning—if by that time you haven't decided to cut me cold."

I kept right busy over the indexes after Mr. Van Britt went away. Just to give the boss a little chance to catch up with himself. He sure was catching it hot and heavy on all sides. All we needed now was for President Danton to come smashing in with one more good jolt and it would be all over but the obsequies, the monument and the epitaph. At least, that is the way it looked to me.

It was along about ten o'clock when the boss closed his desk with a bang and said we'd better swap it off for the night. I walked up-town with him and as we were passing the Hullard he turned in to ask the night clerk if Collingwood was in his room. The answer was yes, that the young New Yorker hadn't been seen since dinner. On the way out we saw Mr. Van Britt at the telegraph alcove. He was handling in a thick bunch of telegrams for transmission, and he rather pointedly turned the sheet face down upon the marble slab when we came along, as much as to say "It's none of your business what I'm doing."

It struck me as sort of curious that he should have so much wire correspondence when he claimed to be taking a rest, and why he was so careful not to let us get a glimpse of what it was all about. But the whole thing was now so horribly muddled that a little mystery more or less on anybody's part couldn't make much difference; and that was the thought I took to bed with me a little later after we reached our rooms in the railroad club.

Test this Gasoline for Yourself, on the Road

HOWEVER sincere one motorist's statement may be, his experiences with his car cannot be applied exactly to your operation of your car. Most drivers know that individual cars have peculiarities.

We do not ask you to use the improved "Standard" Motor Gasoline simply because you have heard that it is the best on the market. We want you to try it for yourself, according to your own requirements. On a basis of results, alone, we would gladly have you decide whether or not you should use it regularly.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is a light, volatile fuel which enables your car to start easier and run more smoothly. It has extra pulling power. The recent improvements in the product, made possible by the work of our Development Department, have made "Standard" Motor Gasoline the best obtainable.

But remember that the final test of gasoline quality is how it performs in your motor. Try "Standard" Motor Gasoline for yourself under varying road and weather conditions. It will pay you to begin at once.

A great combination is "Standard" Motor Gasoline for power and Polarine for lubrication.

COMMENT OF COUNTY AGENT COBB ON AGRICULTURAL HAPPENINGS

By GEORGE R. COBB.

The Directors of the Wicomico Farmers Association met in the association offices last Saturday. It was decided that the time was ripe to enforce the constitution and by-laws, especially that regulation which calls for the 100 per cent loyalty of the members.

The members have been given many privileges since joining the association and have reaped a benefit in better prices for their crops.

From this time any member selling his crop or produce to outside buyers will, under the rules, be a violator and forfeit his or her membership.

The directors feel that more can be accomplished with a few loyal members than a larger number of members who are not loyal.

Where is that soil sample? We are going to give you a little more lee way so that you will have no good excuse for not having one or more sample of the different soils in our extend the rest of this week but we shall have to ask you to get your sample in to us at the Court House, Tilghman Co. or Farmers and Planters as we have about finished our road work. We appreciate very much the way many of you have co-operated with us in sending samples and we know that the rest are going to do so.

There are five glass tubes in our office, each three feet long and 1½ inches in diameter. In each tube is a sample of the different soils in our county. These three foot deep samples were gathered by Snyder and Gillett, the soil men, so that each farmer might see what his soil looked like. We feel that these samples are valuable and want the farmers to use them.

Everett Taylor is some sweet potato grower, averaging 300 hampers per acre of No. 1's—a few in each hill for the canning house and very few strings that are not marketable. These potatoes had no New York manure this year but did have an application of commercial fertilizer and 500 pounds of hydrated shell lime per acre.

Harris Cortley, like most of us, has been handicapped in his good intentions by the extremely dry weather. He seeded clover and alfalfa in corn but the long dry spell has almost killed it out. We are sure glad to see these instances where our farmers are using legumes because it is what most of land needs, but we are sorry that so much clover, vetch, etc., has been ruined by the weather.

John Morris, on the Mt. Hermon road, told us the other day that he has never had any success in following cowpeas with corn. The corn never does well and John figures that on a sandy soil the cowpea-corn combina-

Plans are under way for a Poultry Show in connection with the Community Fair to be held in the Armory on November 16, 17 and 18. Nothing definite has been decided as yet but we expect to have the details in shape to be published next week. Keep this show in mind and begin at once to select the birds for exhibition.

Another reason for "topping and stripping" corn instead of cutting the whole stalk: "It is too cold work shucking corn out in the field when you cut down the stalk and shock it up." That doesn't sound very convincing to us because we haven't seen the farmer yet who wouldn't stand a little discomfort to do things on the farm. This is a good subject for debate and argument and we are willing to be convinced either way, but it takes good, sound arguments to convince us.

Fall spinach has been seeded and fall lettuce is making good growth. It will soon be time to plant lettuce and spinach for wintering over to cut next spring. Dr. Massey has our strongest support and backing in his effort to get the farmers of this county to use more cold frames and hot beds. These beds can be constructed cheaply and will pay for themselves many times.

We attended the Somerset County agricultural meeting held at the farm of Dr. Tull on last Thursday. It was an ideal day for such a meeting, a fine place to hold such a meeting, the attendance was good, speakers and demonstrations were good, in fact, it was a good time all round. Our good friend, J. F. Shields, went down there with us and both of us enjoyed the meeting very much and we both believe that we learned something worth while.

It looks like we would all pay. Have you given much study to the tariff on fertilizers? If this bill passes it looks like we would all pay more for our fertilizers. Find out about this tariff and let's all get together and protest if that is the proper thing to do. Talk the matter over with Will Ward, Oscar Morris or your own fertilizer dealer if you buy somewhere else—do it now as there isn't any time to waste.

Dr. H. A. Jones, College Park, will be with us this week, as we are going to dig the sweets in our two acre demonstration field. You will remember that we are trying out different amounts and mixtures of fertilizers as well as manure and lime. The weather will handicap the work somewhat but we hope to get a few facts that will help us.

man, is with us this week and we hope that he will decide to stay with us. We are so sure that Wicomico county is a real poultry section that we want to corral any good poultryman we can find. Mr. Rickey knows the poultry game from years of experience and is able and willing to render any assistance he can.

OVERFEEDING OF COWS SHOULD ALWAYS BE AVOIDED

Constant vigilance is the price of healthy calves. As soon as trouble is detected the feed of the calf should be reduced at least half. Administer a dose of castor oil in warm milk by means of a small drenching bottle.

This will tend to remove all irritating substances from the bowels.

Feed should then be gradually restored to the normal amount and formaldehyde solution should be added to the milk at the rate of one part of formalin (40 per cent solution of formaldehyde) to thirty-one parts of water. If prompt improvement does not follow this treatment, repeat the dose of oil, and accompany it with another reduction in the feed.

Calves are always greedy, and for this reason overfeeding should be avoided. This is true particularly when alfalfa is being fed, as it is exceedingly palatable, and the animal is apt to gorge itself."

A Pronounced Success.

The uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the relief and cure of bowel complaints, both for children and adults, has brought it into almost universal use, so that it is practically without a rival and as everyone who has used it knows, it is without an equal.—Advertisement.
