HEAVY FIRE LOSS

Caused By Afternoon Blaze At Salisbury Ice Plant No. 2—$27,000 Damage.

Fire, raging for hours at times, beyond the control of the local fire department, threatening the whole eastern section of this city and destroying over $27,000 worth of property was viewed by thousands of the residents of this city and the nearby towns late Thursday afternoon.

The fire department responded promptly, but all they could do was to fight to save the section by playing water on the nearby mills and residences. The flames soon spread to the lumber yards of the E. S. Adkins Company, where about 50,000 feet of cypress lumber was destroyed, and to the houses occupied by mill hands, one of which was burned and several others scared somewhat.

At one time several of the residences on Elizabeth Street were afire and the large basket and crate mills of John Tomlinson and Co., were burning, but by heroic work by the fire fighters, which included a bunch of Salisbury's citizens, these were saved. The loss incurred will be as follows: Salisbury Ice Company, $24,000; about $37,000 insurance. E. S. Adkins and Co., $1,600; no insurance. John Tomlinson and Co., $300; insured. Residences $600, partly insured.

The large storage plant of the ice company adjoining the main building was filled with ice, stored for the summer trade, and this will no doubt cause a shortage of the ice here this summer.

The area burned over, which was about a block, is located at the junction of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk and the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railroads, and is the ground which the Pennsylvania Railroad has been trying to purchase for over a year for the purpose of erecting a union station.

It is probable that steps will be taken at once by the directors of the Ice Company to construct another plant of even larger capacity than the one destroyed.

The fire started in the ice house in the fire room of No. 2 plant of the Salisbury Ice Company, presumably from a spark from the firebox, which ignited sawdust used for steaming purposes.

On June 30th, Marlow Kenney, of Philadelphia, National Councilor of the Daughters of Liberty, paid a visit to Betsy Ross Council No. 17, of this city. This is the first time a National Councilor has ever visited a subordinate Council outside of Baltimore City. Betsy Ross Council owns its hall and is handsomely fitted up. The members are all well known ladies of East Salisbury and the Council is in a flourishing condition.

The Assurance of Universal Peace, will be the subject of Rev. Mr. Beale's sermon at the Wicomico Presbyterian Church tomorrow morning, July 2nd. One of the interesting features of the Sabbath evening services during July will be the specially selected Hymns. The Hymns tomorrow evening being chosen by Dr. Reigart and Mr. Beale as among their favorites. Mr. Beale will speak tomorrow evening upon "The Kind of Young Men America Needs."

Surveyor P. S. Shockley has been at work for some time making a survey of the woodland on the Kennerly farm owned by Mrs. Watt. The woodland lies on the south side of the road and is considered very valuable. Surveyor Shockley says there are 825 acres of this woodland. It was originally thought that there was only about 825 acres but the new lines run out show 825 acres. Mrs. Watt will place this land on the market.

Mrs. Robert McCandlish and two children, Anne and Henry, arrived in town on Friday to join Mr. McCandlish, and will make their home on Camden Avenue. Mrs. McCandlish was before her marriage Miss Anne Landstreet, of Fairfax County, Virginia, a sister of Mr. Fairfax Landstreet, who owns the beautiful estate "Mayfair" in the Green Spring Valley, which adjoins General Felix Agnew's country home, and where she spend a great part of her time. Mr. McCandlish is cashier of the Peninsula Trust Co., and has a wide circle of friends both in Virginia and Maryland.

Among the Wicomico County teachers taking special summer courses are the following: At Columbia University, New York—Suprs. W. J. Holloway, Miss Ida M. Taylor, Miss Mary Colley, Miss Hazel Jones and Phineas E. Gordy, colored. Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore—Misses Addie E. Bennett, Edna Morris, Amy Robertson, Maude Taylor, Alice Morris, Mattie Parker, Kate Darby, Viola Pollitt, Phoebe Wilson, Gertrude Killiam, Eva Allen Smith, University of Virginia—Miss Maude Graham. The School Board is lending every encouragement possible to teachers desiring to avail themselves of special instruction during the summer.

A GLORIOUS BIG FOURTH IN SALISBURY

One Of The Largest Ever Attempted On The Peninsula All Arranged. Base Ball, Racing, Fire Works. Other Amusements.

The Wicomico Fair Association has made arrangements this year for a first class entertainment, for all visitors to their grounds on the Fourth of July.

Believing that the people in this section wanted a place where they could meet to have a good time on this, our Great National Holiday, the Wicomico Fair Association decided last year to arrange an attractive program for this day. That they were right in their belief, was proven by the thousands that attended the races and other attractions in Salisbury on the Fourth last year. Encouraged by this success, they have gone to more trouble and expense this year, in order to put before the public, amusements that ought to please the vast crowd expected on the Salisbury Fair Grounds on the Fourth.

Base Ball.

In addition to the four races which will be given in the afternoon, arrangements have been made for at least one game of Base Ball, in order that lovers of this, our Great National Game, may see and enjoy on our Great Holiday. The teams that will play are Powellville and Hebron. Each team claims to be the champion team of the county, and on this day they will decide for themselves, as well as the public, which is the better team. These teams are reported to be in fine shape, and doubtless will give an exhibit that will be pleasing and gratifying to all lovers of this great sport.

The races this year bid fair to excel the general interest of those given last year, and it is confidently predicted by the management, that sport well worth seeing will result from the hotly contested races. The Races are as follows: 2.30 Class Trot, 2.30 Class Pace, The Farmer's Race and The Special Race. The Farmers' Race on September 15th, of last year, was one of the greatest attractions that the people of Wicomico County ever witnessed, and the one for next Tuesday bids fair to be a greater event than last year, as there are more entries, and horses that are more evenly matched.

Match Race Between Four Horses.

The Special Race, is a match race between four horses, owned by the following parties: S. H. Richardson, Carl Goslee, Willis G. Wimbrow and Charlie Duffy. Each of the above named parties claim to have the better horse, and have arranged to decide the matter next Tuesday, which is expected to be a great race between four horses.

Brilliant Display of Fireworks.

During the evening one of the largest and most attractive displays of fireworks ever seen in this section will be given. Last year, owing to the rain, this feature of the day's amusement had to be dropped. Fireworks and the Fourth of July have always been associated together in the minds of Americans especially in that of young Americans, and the display to be given on the Fair Grounds on the Fourth will be one that all will enjoy seeing, and one that those who can possibly make it a point to be present, cannot afford to miss.

Other Amusements.

Motor Cycle races will be presented.

Other amusements and attractions will be found upon the Grounds. This Association, in making its announcement of the Fourth of July program, states that their only object in getting up a program for the Fourth, is to give the people a much needed place to go and enjoy themselves, and that they will be perfectly satisfied if expenses are made on that occasion.

DULANY FOR GOVERNOR

Prohibitionists Of State Adopt Ticket And Platform—Condemn 'Inter-State Jugg.'

Mr. John H. Dulany, of Fruitland, Wicomico county, was chosen Thursday by the Prohibition party of Maryland to head the State ticket in the coming election, being nominated for Governor at the State convention, which met in the auditorium of the Baltimore Business College. Mr. Samuel E. Pentz, of Baltimore, was nominated for Attorney General, and Mr. J. E. Wetherald, of La Plata, Charles county for Comptroller. It had been whispered at a preliminary meeting held the evening before that Mr. Finley C. Hendrickson, of Cumberland, would be the party nominee for Governor, but when Mr. Dulany was named he was received with enthusiasm by the delegates, about 100 in number, who had assembled from all over the State.

First Political Concern

"We declare," the platform says, "the protection of the people of our State from the evils of the drink traffic a matter of first political concern." Protesting against "the privileges given liquor dealers in the District of Columbia to defeat the will of the people of this great Commonwealth," the platform maintains that "to invest an inter State liquor jug with a Governmental power and sacredness superior to reserved powers in the States is distasteful to the common sense of mankind."

"The will of the Lord be done," exclaimed Mr. Dulany in his speech of acceptance. "I will make the best campaign I can."

Mr. Dulany, who is 51 years old, is a fruit packer of Wicomico and was formerly Prohibition nominee for Comptroller. Bloom Camp meeting will begin August 4th and continue for ten days. The grounds will be enlarged and many of the old tents will be replaced by new and more up to date ones. The grounds will also be enclosed with a good substantial wire fence. An admission of five cents will be charged at the gate. A ten day ticket will be issued to all tent holders and others at reduced rates. J. W. Hardesty, Pastor.

Morris—Crew Wedding

Thursday.

A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Crew, High Street, Thursday evening, when their only child, Miss Mary Rebecca, became the bride of Mr. Upshur Morris, of this city.

The house was very attractively decorated with a color scheme of green, white and yellow. During the ceremony, the bride party stood under an arch of evergreens and daisies. The bride wore a handsome gown of white satin and carried a shower bouquet of daisies and fern. Miss Elsie Smith, the maid of honor, wore a lingerie gown over yellow, with yellow ribbons. Little Misses Dorothy and Catharine Purdue were flower girls and Miss Helen Purdue was ring bearer. They all wore lingerie dresses with yellow ribbons and carried daisies. Miss Amy Allen, of Allen, played the wedding march.

After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Morris drove to Delmar and took the train for Atlantic City. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents.

Mr. Morris is a prominent young business man of Salisbury, being connected with the Morris Bros., Lumber Co.

Report of Mail

Postmaster M. A. Humphreys made report of the mail business of the local office during the month of May that it was counted, under an order issued by the postoffice Department showing that there were 101,224 outgoing pieces of all kinds and 132,619 received making a total of 233,843 pieces handled. This is an average of 7,548 pieces handled daily, which is much greater than any other postoffice on the Eastern Shore of Maryland and demonstrates the supremacy of Salisbury as a business center.

During the month the City carriers delivered 51,340 pieces of mail matter and collected 18,076 pieces. The Rural carriers delivered during the same period 2,779 pieces and collected 4,769 pieces. This is the largest postoffice business on Peninsula. It goes to show that Salisbury is the real business centre of the Shore and that the business here is on the increase all the time. The postoffice business is a good gauge to the growth of a community. Salisbury has stood at the head of the list of postoffices on the Shore for many years and from the figures named above it is likely to outdistance them all for many years to come.

CHAMP CLARK WRITES

Of The Democratic Progress At Washington Party Making Good.

Speaker Champ Clark has written a letter to the democratic press throughout the country thanking it for the support given him in Washington. While not an avowed candidate for the next Presidential nomination yet he, would accept same.

Mr. Clark has made many warm friends by his masterly course since his election as Speaker and many believe him to be the strongest man the democrats could name. The following letter was received by the ADVERTISER:

June 24th, 1911.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I want to thank you for the kindly things you have said about me in connection with the Presidential nomination, and otherwise. While I am not a candidate for President and may never be, I consider it a great compliment to be thought of or mentioned in that high connection by my fellow citizens.

The victory of last November was won on the fight that was made by the House Democrats against Cannonism, the Rules and the Payne Tariff Bill. That was a great victory; we not only elected a Democratic House, but carried into office with us half a dozen Democratic Governors of Northern States. As a result of it the party placed me in the most responsible position it had to give. My duty is here, helping the House to make good, and I am going to stay here as long as there is anything for me to do. In other words, I am not going to neglect the work here in order to run around the country after another office. I regard the record we are making in our Democratic House as superb. We are busy carrying out our promises to the people and we will continue on that line.

I thank you for the kind things that you say about me and am glad to observe that you are blessed with the way the Democrats are demonstrating their capacity to run the House. They can run all branches of the government just as successfully if given the opportunity, and I believe the work of this House will result in our controlling them all after the next election. Sincerely yours,

Champ Clark.

State Auto License Net $75,000.

The State of Maryland has already netted the handsome sum of $75,000 for the first year that the new automobile license system has been in operation so Motor Vehicle Commissioner John E. George announced. Besides this amount all the expenses of the operation of the office have been paid out of the receipts.

The $75,000 net represents the six month licenses that were issued last year, the law not having gone into effect until July 1st, and the annual licenses issued this year to date, which, of course cover the greater part of the income that the State will receive, as most of the licenses have now been taken out.

In a few years it is expected that the net annual sum that the State will receive from this source will amount to not less than $100,000. All of this money is to go to the maintenance of the new State roads, and it is the estimate of Governor Crothers that it will be sufficient for the purpose.

Building Boom In South Salisbury.

Mr. L. Lee Laws has just completed three new dwellings, one on Upton Street and two on the George T. Houston tract of land on South Division Street recently purchased by Messrs. Elmer O. Williams and Benjamin P. Bailey. Messrs. Williams and Bailey are also erecting two buildings on the same land.

This tract was purchased about two months ago by these gentlemen and divided into twenty building lots. Within this length of time nineteen of the twenty have been sold and within thirty days four houses will be completed.

Wicomico Boy Wins Honors

Mr. L. Claud Bailey, of Quantico, carried off the first honors of his class at St. John's College, Annapolis, where he graduated last week with the Bachelor of Arts degree. In addition to this Mr. Bailey was awarded the gold medal for senior oratory. Mr. John L. Morris, of Salisbury, another graduate with Bachelor of Arts degree, won second honors.

—Rev. B. G. Parker has arranged for a Grove Meeting at Branch Hill, beginning with Sunday afternoon and night. They will be continued every night next week. They will be held in a Grove near the church. Dr. A. J. Frieson, the prices of platform speakers will do the most of the preaching. The object is the quickening of Christians and the conversion of sinners.

MELSON'S.

Children's Day services were observed in our church last Sunday, June 28th. In the afternoon our pastor, Rev. E. H. Collins, preached an appropriate sermon to the children—subject, "Six Cities of Refuge." In the evening the program "Birds and Blossoms" was rendered with more than usual interest. Special care had been taken to drill the children by diligent teachers and the good superintendent, J. M. Maddox—also ably assisted by B. S. Figgis, the assistant superintendent, and the excellent rendition of the program rewarded them for their labors. The musical program was effectively rendered under the direction of Prof. Wm. E. Workman with the following instrumental accompaniment, cornets, Messrs. Zeno Tingle and Charlie Moore; violins, Messrs. R. W. White and Arthur Tingle. Mrs. Ethel Truitt presided at the organ. It did us good to note how eager and anxious the little ones were to do their part, and do it well. Their earnest enthusiasm was inspiring and "drawing" as was evident by the large attendance at the evening service. Though the weather was threatening and rain came before the program commenced, yet let me say it was welcomed with glad hearts. We heard no one complaining about having to go home in the rain. Our pastor's remarks never fail to interest the children, as well as the older people, and they were especially interesting and instructive at this Children's Day service. A number of practical illustrations were not lost on our boys and girls and we feel have left a lasting impression. The class offerings were as follows:

Class No. 1 H. W. Long	$ 10.50
Class No. 2 G. V. Smith	3.00
Class No. 3 Ethel Truitt	4.00
Class No. 4 Vertie Locaster	3.00
Class No. 5 Nellie Moore	3.50
Class No. 6 L. J. Moore	12.00
Class No. 7 S. O. Downs	5.00
Class No. 8 Pearl Tingle	2.00
Class No. 9 Livvie Smith	5.00
Total	$46.00

Our Sunday School picnic held on Melson's Camp Ground on Saturday last was a great success. One of the largest crowds were in attendance. The privileges of the camp to be held this year from August 18th—28th were sold to the following parties: The hotel to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith—who will do their best to make your stay on the camp ground home-like indeed. They have great experience in running a camp hotel. Let all tent holders and visiting friends not fail to see Mr. and Mrs. Smith early and engage your board. The camp store was purchased by Messrs. Arthur Tingle and R. W. White, two of our excellent young men, who will do their best to please. Mr. Robert Downs will have charge of the horse pond, which will be placed on the south side of the road, giving the camp the excellent hitching room of the old location which will be a great improvement. Mr. Downs will do his best, aided by his two assistants, to please the public. Mr. Thomas Morris will run the camp back. Those who know this young man, well know that this means excellent service. Mr. Howard Maddox will have charge of the barber shop, and if you want good service wait until you reach camp before you get shaved. Mr. W. T. Watson, of Salisbury, will have the photographer's tent. This means excellent pictures. If you are thinking of having your pictures taken, wait and give Mr. Watson the opportunity. We are planning for a great camp. There are vacant places for five or six tents—no ground rent. Why not build a tent with us. Hall and Mack's new song book "The Gospel Message No. 1" will be used. We are also expecting these great Gospel singers to be with us during the camp. Also Mr. Luther Messick and family that gave us such great service last year. Say, friends, don't forget the date, August 18th to 28th. First service on Friday night, August 18th.

Monday's Proceedings of The City Council.

Monday night the Council chamber was crowded with people transacting public business. A committee in favor of the retention of officer Brittingham as policeman for the East end was present and presented a petition through the Mayor containing 224 names of citizens from all sections of the city in favor of retaining the officer.

On the request of several citizens the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway Company was ordered to place a crossing at the foot of Bush Street on Mill Street.

The grade was ordered made for Cherry Street so that property owners could put down their cement sidewalks.

The ordinance to prohibit the sale of fireworks in Salisbury was passed and approved by the Mayor but it does not take effect until July 5th. There has been much discussion on the matter of having a parade Fourth of July and the previous Council ordered an ordinance passed to take effect at once, but for some reason the matter was delayed and the real reason for passing the ordinance—to have a parade Fourth of July—was nullified by having the ordinance take effect July 5th. This is to be regretted very much as there seemed to be a demand for the original request. The danger from fire and to the life and limb of children is a matter to be considered first.

—Money to lend on first mortgages, amounts to suit. P. Grant Goulet, Attorney.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear If The Advice Of This Salisbury Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis kidney's fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. John L. Baker, 318 Baker St., Salisbury, Md., says: "I readily confirm the public statement I gave two years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy has never failed to relieve me when I have had backache. I was troubled greatly by lameness in my back and a heavy, bearing down sensation through my hips. I was also bothered by stiffness across my back, especially when I got up in the morning and despite all my efforts for relief, these troubles clung to me until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at White & Leonard's Drug Store. This remedy did such good work that I was convinced of its curative powers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 60 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Escaped With This Life.

"Twenty one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Fort Harrelson, S. C., "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could bear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure. It positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free at all druggists."

To You from Us

YOU SAVE FROM $10 TO $50
on the purchase of Horses and Mules at KING'S PRIVATE SALE DEPARTMENT. 8 A. M. to 5 P. M. every day in the week, but no, during and after our big public sale. NOW YOU WANT TO KNOW how and why this saving is especially made for you only at KING'S.
We are by far the largest shippers of horses, mares and mules in our own State of Maryland, which must make us the largest buyers, hence early at lowest wholesale prices—which means a profit out of which YOU SAVE.
We own all of the buildings and ground we occupy; therefore we don't have any extra costs to pay—which is another expense out of which YOU SAVE.
We are close to you, and expensive transportation is another item—again YOU SAVE.
This is only one branch of this immense establishment, and we don't have to depend entirely on it, for we have in connection the largest combined Hauling and Livery Department, Carriage Department, Wagon and Harness Manufacturing Department in the world. So there is a SAVING the small dealer cannot afford.
We appreciate your patronage and always have on hand in Baltimore—close to your home—about 600 HORSES—A-D-TYPES, $50 to $100—$100 to $150—$150 up and $50 down. PUBLIC AUCTION SALES MONDAYS, WEDNESDAYS AND FRIDAYS, commencing at 10:30 A. M. We sell 50 per cent of the Horses, Carriages, Wagons and Harness belonging to private parties in Maryland and surrounding counties. Maybe we sold yours. If we did, you got your money in 30 seconds—that's the quick way we settle, and we don't charge for office or your horse if not sold. All cars pass or transfer to KING'S, and if any conductor or put you off at the right place; they all know it. OUR REFERENCE—THE PEOPLE.

TRANSFER MR. BRITTINGHAM.

An attempt has been made to make it appear that the removal of Police Officer Brittingham from his present post would be looked upon as a concession to a certain lawless element and would be so regarded by them.

No good decent citizen would for a moment, think of giving law-breakers, enemies of good order and decency the slightest encouragement, and it is hard to see how such a construction could possibly be placed upon the transfer of Mr. Brittingham, who from all appearances is "persona non grata" to a large number of the good law-abiding citizens of his beat.

A number of these have signed a petition to the Mayor and City Council asking for his transfer. A glance at this petition will at once dissipate the idea that his removal is in the interests of lawlessness and disorder, as it is signed by men of known probity, good substantial men who have as high a regard for law, decency and order as can be found in any part of this community. These men have their homes and their families in this section, their money is invested there, and they are largely interested in its welfare and advancement. It is ridiculous to suppose that these men would countenance any move that tended to lawlessness and disorder. It is never a good policy to force a man upon a community which does not want him. No matter how good the man nor how well qualified, he will be greatly handicapped in his work and where the feeling is very pronounced such a course will more likely result in trouble and disorder. This question can be solved in a manner acceptable to all and in such a way as to run no chance of doing an injustice to any, and it is hard to understand why the agitation should not be quieted by the transfer of Mr. Brittingham to some other part of the city.

This transfer, of itself, is no reflection upon either his character or efficiency, and will satisfy those to whom he is personally objectionable. Whatever the cause, there can be no doubt that what a large number of the respectable law-abiding citizens in and around his beat, are bitterly opposed to his retention on his present beat and it is only fair to these people that their protest be received and their wishes respected. The people of this section are much more familiar with its needs and requirements than we can possibly be.

Children's Day At The Baptist Church.

The annual Children's Day exercises will be rendered at the Division Street Baptist Church on Sunday night at eight o'clock. The children have prepared faithfully and will undoubtedly do themselves credit.

Doctor K. B. Hatcher, of Baltimore will preach in the morning. Dr. Hatcher is Superintendent of Baptist Ministers in Maryland and is an able speaker.

Wicomico Realty Co. Will Have Big Sale Of City Lots At Night.

The Wicomico Realty Company, Mr. S. P. Woodcock, manager, will have a big sale of city lots, Friday evening, July 7th, commencing at 8 o'clock. The property to be sold is the T. H. Williams lot in South Salisbury formerly used as a baseball ground. Valuable prizes will be given at the sale.

To make this a unique proposition the Realty Company will have the entire property lighted by electricity and will have the famous Richardson Bros. Band to furnish music. Penny Brothers and Thomas Bros., twin auctioneers accompanied by Richardson Bros. Band will conduct the sale.

ROCKAWALKING

Come out and enjoy the Fourth. The people of Rockawalking are going to have a regular old-fashioned picnic on the shady lawn of the "Old Tavern Farm." Everyone take their basket of eatables and enjoy a dinner in the open air. Everything free save some candy and peanuts which will be sold at cost. Foot races will be held at 11 A. M. No prizes will be given. A game of ball between the married and single men will be the feature of the afternoon. Vocal and instrumental music will be given at intervals.

—Buy a linen duster, linen suit, linen pants and keep cool. You can get the good kind at Kennedy & Mitchell's—Kennedy & Mitchell.

PARSONSBURG.

The First Quarterly Conference of Parsonsbury Charge was held in Jerusalem Methodist Episcopal Church on Friday afternoon, June 23rd, at two o'clock. Rev. G. P. Jones, District Superintendent, in the chair. The churches were all represented and the reports were excellent. The auditors report of Parsonsbury Charge was as follows: Jerusalem Church—Total receipts, $1287.50; disbursements, $1272.84; balance on hand, $14.66; Zion Church—Total receipts, $1234.75; disbursements, $1218.38; balance on hand $16.37; bills not paid $364.60. Zion Church—Total receipts, $650.00; disbursements, $637.70; balance on hand $12.30. Total receipts from all the churches $3172.25; total disbursements $3118.98; balance on hand, $53.27; bills not paid, $364.60.

Our pastor will be at St. George's, Del., next Sunday, assisting Rev. Harry Taylor in the reopening of St. George's Methodist Episcopal Church. Brother Collins was pastor of this church in 1898—99.

Rev. Thos. Lavery will preach in Jerusalem Church Sunday morning at 10.30. This is a rare treat for the Parsonsbury people. Brother Lavery is a strong preacher. Let no one fail to hear him.

At Zion Church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, Rev. R. W. Long will preach.

At Parsonsbury Sunday night, the Epworth League will hold a patriotic service, lasting just one hour—a real hot weather service. A welcome awaits you at all the services.

Report of J. W. Traut, Clarence Gordy and E. J. Parsons, commission on tax ditch in Pittsburg District, petitioned for by J. T. West and others, was filed and ratified.

The Commissioners authorized Engineer Clark to give the stone road leading from Salisbury to Quantico a new top dressing of fine stone and re-roll the surface. This road is the original stone road in this county and was built several years ago by the Commissioners under the provisions of the Schumaker Act. It was one of the best in Wicomico, but the large amount of travel over it since it was built has worn it very considerably especially in certain places.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

New Era Cow Peas. New Eras are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-will.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Clays are more productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum Seed, Kaffir with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.

REMEMBER—Bolgiano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolgiano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

FREE. Send us 5 cents in stamps to pay postage and mention this paper, and we will send you free a 50c package of "My Maryland" Tomato Seed, also our 1911 Catalogue of Seeds and our 1911 Poultry Supply Catalogue.

A SAVAGE WITCH.

King of the Quiah Tribe Saved the Man's Life by Chopping Off His Ear.

The author of "Heroes of Modern Crusades," the Rev. Edward Gilliat, M. A., at one time master of Harrow school, says in his book that he had years ago the privilege of meeting the king of the Quiah country, Tetti Agmasong, at Harrow. The Quiah king had been educated at St. Augustine's college, Canterbury, and was able to lecture to the Harrovians in good English. In his lecture he told a quaint story which brings one nearer to the wild lives of the Quiahs, a small agricultural and trading tribe of inoffensive characters on the west coast of Africa.

"In my country," said the king, "we have no prisons; therefore if a culprit is brought to me I must chop off something—an ear or two, a hand or a foot—and he goes home a sadder and a wiser man. Just before I left for England a chief came to my hut, bringing a prisoner.

"What has he done, friend?" I asked.

"He is a dangerous witch, O king. He can turn himself into an alligator."

"Pooh! Nonsense! I don't believe that old fashioned stuff."

"Oh, but we saw him do it down by the big river."

"Indeed! Well, chief, tell me all about it. You saw him yourself?"

"I did. We were hunting by the banks of the river with our rifles when all at once we saw a big alligator lying on a rock in the river. The witch man was lying asleep in a hammock some fifty yards away. Oh, the dangerous creature he is!"

"Well, king, do not laugh with your eyes like that for I am speaking the truth. I put up my rifle to shoot the alligator; but, to our great fear, as soon as I fired this fellow rolled out of his hammock and fell on the ground and rubbed his back and swore he was hurt."

"Now, O king, if this witch had not been inside the alligator how could he have been hurt when I fired?"

"Gentlemen," concluded the king, "I see you are laughing with your eyes, but it is very difficult to rule over a people so naughty and given over to superstition."

"What did I do? Why, if I had left him free they would have killed him as soon as I had gone on my ship, so I saved his life by chopping off his left ear."

MODERN CHESS.

The Game Vastly Different From That of the Ninth Century.

Chess is but a game, a pastime, a relaxation, but it has at times absorbed the faculties of the intellect in every class. Perhaps the greatest eulogy on the game was the remark of Sir Walter Raleigh, "I do not wish to live longer than I can play chess."

It is certain that those who do not play the game are quite unable to form any conception of the high intellectual delights experienced by the chess enthusiast.

The origin of chess has been sought in vain. The fact is the game has so changed, developed and improved down the course of centuries that in its present form it would not be recognized by its inventor, if there ever was one. The oldest chess problem on record is thought to be that contained in an ancient Persian manuscript attributed to Caliph Kalif Ben Mutasim Billah, who reigned in Bagdad A. D. 833 to 842. But the reader would have to learn the old rules before it was intelligible. For example, the queen could make a move of only one square at a time and that on a diagonal, but a queen promoted from a pawn was allowed to make a move of two squares diagonally. The bishop had no power over any square except the third from which it stood on its own diagonal line, but it was allowed to vault over any piece that happened to be between. In short, it was a totally different game. Chess in the precise form in which we know it and play it today is a comparatively modern game. —London Strand Magazine.

Amending a Proverb.

There are a lot of silly proverbs knocking about. Take, for instance, "If pigs had wings they would fly." Now, this is absurd if you like. Do you know what sized wings a pig weighing eighty pounds would require in order to fly? They would measure about thirty yards from tip to tip. A nice state of things to keep pigs in an aviary with wings of that size! The proverb would run much better:

If pigs could fly, Pork would be high.

The Right Way.

Little Willie liked ice cream, but he objected to turning the freezer. One day his mother was agreeably surprised to find him working at the crank as if his life depended on it.

"How did you get Willie to turn the ice cream freezer?" she said to her husband. "I offered him 2 cents to do it, and he wouldn't."

"You didn't go about it the right way, my dear," replied her husband. "I bet him a cent he couldn't turn it for half an hour!"

Pretty Ancient.

"I dunno, but I guess some of the musical comedy jokes must reach back pretty nearly that far."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Adam's Kick.

Eve—What makes you look so cross? Adam—I wish you wouldn't be so loud in your dresses. It isn't necessary for you to pick the most highly colored patterns.

Killed More Than Wild Beasts.

The number of people killed yearly by wild beasts don't approach the vast number killed by disease germs. No life is safe from their attacks. They're in air, water, food, even food. But grand protection is afforded by Electric Bitters, which destroy and expel these deadly disease germs from the system. That's why chills, fever and ague, all malarial and many blood diseases yield promptly to this wonderful blood purifier. Try them, and enjoy the glorious health and new strength they'll give you. Money back, if not satisfied. Only 50c a bottle.

Often The Kidneys Are

Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a trial will convince you of its great merit.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

Rouse the Congregation.

A certain Scotch minister, a newcomer in the parish, finding it impossible to arrest the attention of his congregation, became desperate. No sooner did he appear in the pulpit than they promptly composed themselves to sleep.

One evening, after taking up his position, he rapped sharply on the ledge in front of him and addressed his somnolent flock in tones of severe reproof.

"Now, brethren," he said, "it's not fair to go to sleep as ye always have done directly I begin my sermon. Ye might wait a wee till I get along, and then if I'm no worth hearing sleep away wi' ye, and I'll no care. But dinna go before I've commenced. Gie me this one chance."

Finding they were all fairly awake by that time, he went on:

"I shall take for my text the two words 'know thyself,' but I will say before I begin the discourse that I would not advise this congregation to make many such profitless acquaintances."

FEEDING POTATOES TO STOCK

They Tend to Increase the Milk Flow
When Fed to Cows With Alfalfa.

Potatoes may be fed to cows and hogs when the market price is comparatively low. It is not considered wise to use them for either of these animals if a reasonable price can be obtained for them in the market. It is better to sell them and purchase something else. Twenty pounds of raw potatoes per day per cow is considered quite enough; if more than this the butter has a tallowy appearance—that is, it makes it extremely hard and somewhat brittle.

For pigs it is better to cook the potatoes and mix them with corn chop, middlings, etc. At the Wisconsin experiment station potatoes were cooked in an open kettle, using as little water as possible, and cornmeal added to form a thick mush, which was eaten by the pigs with great relish. Cornmeal wet with water was fed to the second lot for comparison. Results were as follows: Four hundred and forty pounds of cornmeal fed alone produced 100 pounds of gain; 282 pounds of cornmeal with 786 pounds of potatoes weighed before cooking produced 100 pounds of gain. From this we learn that 786 pounds of potatoes when fed to pigs after being cooked effected a saving of 178 pounds of cornmeal, 442 pounds of potatoes taking the place of 100 pounds of cornmeal. The results of this experiment were confirmed by several other stations and by scientists in Europe.

Potatoes have a tendency to increase the flow of milk when fed with alfalfa.
They are of a succulent nature, a very desirable form of feed for the dairy cow.

BOG SPAVIN.

It is Usually the Result of Sprains and Bruises and Needs Careful Attention.

Bog spavin is a round, smooth tumor at the front and on the inside of the hock. It is the result of sprains, bruises or other injuries. When these injuries occur too much joint oil is secreted, causing a bulging of the ligament.
Lameness seldom accompanies a bog spavin. If lameness be present other structures are certain to be affected, and some pain and heat will be noticed, together with a stiffness of the joint.

Treatment consists of applications of cold water to the affected parts

Bog Spavin.

and a lotion made of two tablespoonfuls of acetate of lead in a quart of water. A blister made of one tenspoonful of biniodide of mercury and four tablespoonfuls of lard, rubbed in a little with the fingers and repeated in ten days or two weeks and continued for some months will correct the trouble. Wash the part having received the blister twenty-four hours after application. It is also advisable to tie the horse's head while the blister is on, so that he cannot bite the part.

Heaping Manure Wasteful.
Applying manure in heaps is objectionable for several reasons. The labor of handling is increased; there is danger from loss of decomposition and leaching; the manure is not uniformly distributed, the spots beneath the heap being more thoroughly manured on account of leaching.

Storing manure in very small heaps is less objectionable, providing the heap is carefully covered with earth and not allowed to lie too long.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Sheep should be turned out on every nice day. Lambs should not be allowed to get chilled. Their frail bodies cannot withstand severely cold weather.

When the hogs are watered with patent water, both the drinking part and the barrel should be kept clean and sweet. A lump of quicklime dropped into the barrel occasionally will keep it pure.

Little pigs may be kept from danger of crushing by the mother when she lies down by having a fender made of a scuffling, rail or pole, securely fastened, say, eight inches from the wall and the same distance from the floor.

A healthy man is a kind in his own right; an unhealthy man is a kind happy slave. Burdock Blood Bitters builds up sound health—keeps you well.

ment of itching piles. Nothing became of it until I used Doan's Ointment.
It cured me permanently."—Hon.

False Teeth Made of Wood By Japs.

A package containing a specimen of Japanese skill and of great interest to dentists has been received at San Francisco the customs postoffice bureau in the parcels post mail from Japan.

It consists of a full set of false teeth made entirely of wood. The carving of the teeth shows marvelous skill and the art is carried to the point of imitating the peculiar bluish color characteristic of the Malay race. The teeth are made for use and are pronounced by dentists to be perfect in conformity with the human jaw. It is their theory that the teeth have been made after the pattern of a cast and are designed to fit a particular person.

In every detail they resemble the ordinary set except that in place of the back teeth or grinders, nails similar to the ordinary hobnail have been substituted.

The teeth are set and cemented in
the plates by some unknown process.
The wood could not be identified, but it is believed to be a native Japanese wood of extraordinary hardness. The only defect that could be found by dentists is that they might prove in-sanitary by absorbing the juices of the mouth. They are consigned to a Japanese in the East.

Beware Of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange
the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh
Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney
& Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J.
Cheney & Co. Testimonial free. Sold by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle.

OAKLAND.

Mrs. Marion Brown is on the sick list this week. We hope she will soon recover.

Mr. Charlie Wimbrow, of Wango, passed through this vicinity last week collecting money for crates and baskets which he delivered last spring. We like his make of baskets very well but sorry to say we have most of them left on our hands for lack of berries to fill them.

Mrs. George Farlow and Mrs. Millie Carey called on Mrs. Jane Matthews one afternoon not long ago.

Miss Mamie Morris, of Mt. Herman, visited her aunt, Mrs. Jas. Livingston, last Friday.

Miss Marguerite Morris, of Mt. Herman, is visiting her brother, Master Percell Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hales, of Long Ridge, spent Sunday with his brother, Mr. Norman Hales.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Farlow, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stebbins and two daughters, Louise and Florence, visited Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelley last Sunday.

Miss May Reddish spent Saturday and Sunday with Miss Clara Roark.

Mrs. Monroe Matthews and little daughter, Mildred, and Miss Annie Matthews, all of Mt. Herman, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelley.

Misses Emma, Virgie and Maude Tilghman, Mollie Miller, Alice Hastings and Bury Dennis visited Miss Edna Reddish at the Maples Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Thomas Malone and Mrs. Alonzo Dykes spent Sunday with their brother, Mr. A. W. Reddish at the old homestead.

Mrs. Mollie Pollitt and daughter, Stella, and Mr. Fred Brown and family spent Sunday at Mr. Marion Brown's.

Sunday was indeed a visiting day in our vicinity. Although it was quite warm, all seemed to enjoy themselves. Things are moving so fast it puzzles the writer to keep an account.

Some of our folks have begun to pick whortleberries, but think they will find the crop as short in proportion as the strawberry crop was.

Mrs. Edward Kelley killed a snake in her pump-house Thursday morning which measured two feet. The ditches are dry, and we suppose he was in search of a cool drink.

—Dr. Elmer U. Hoenshal, a noted lecturer and president of the Shenandoah Collegiate Institute at Dayton, Va., will deliver his famous lecture on "The Passion Play" at Asbury M. E. Church, South, at Allen, on Wednesday evening, July 6th. A small admission fee will be charged. This will be a splendid opportunity to hear about this wonderful play, since Dr. Hoenshal has twice witnessed it.

J. T. Taylor, Jr. LARGEST CARRIAGE, WAGON AND RUNABOUT DEALER In the State of Maryland

I have 20 carloads of Buggies, Wagons, Runabouts, Surreys and Speed Cars. Come see for yourself. We have new styles other manufacturers cannot copy under a year.

We have over 2,000 Wrenn Buggies in use over six years that did not cost the users over $65 when new. I can save anyone needing a Buggy, Surrey or Runabout, $20. Come look them over.

Testimonial from H. Fillmore Lankford, Attorney-at-Law: "I have a Wrenn Buggy which has been in use twenty years, and it is a good one today. I had the tires out after using nineteen years."

Wrenn's make of Buggy is a guarantee that you get your money's worth. Why pay $20 more for an imitation when you can buy a Wrenn from $55 up?

Wagons, I have them—not the common ones, but the cheap ones. Cost $10 more, last twice as long.

Mr. Bounds came in last week and said: "Mr. Taylor, I want a Runabout. I bought a Wrenn Buggy from you ten years ago, and I am still using it." He bought another Wrenn. Best by test, cheapest on earth for the money.

I show more vehicles set up than you can find in any city or town in several States.

A Bit of Detective Work

By an American Girl Who Was Engaged to an Englishman

By BEATRICE TUCKER

Among the marriages of American girls to titled Englishmen was that some years ago of Miss Emily Kitson to the young Earl of Hartmore. The earl came over to claim his bride, bringing with him his cousin, who was best man.

Harcourt Berke, the earl, and this cousin, Stanwood Berke, had been brought up together from childhood. Harcourt was an only child, and Stanwood stood next in line as heir to the title. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents in New York, all the arrangements that pertained to the groom being performed by his best man. After the ceremony Stanwood conducted the clergyman to the library, pointed to a desk on which there were pen and ink, and there the marriage certificate was written. Stanwood received it from the clergyman and took it to the bride.

The earl and his lady sailed immediately for England and after a tour in Scotland settled down on the family estate.

A son, Lord William Berke, was born to the pair, who grew up to be a fine fellow. He was extremely fond of his mother and said that when he married he would choose an American wife, claiming that he owed much to his mother's broad American views, so different from those of Englishwomen of birth, who lived very narrow lives. Fate brought him and Dorothy Sands of Chicago together on the eve of his majority. She was a merry little elf, at times appearing very stupid, at other times showing great shrewdness. They met in Naples and became engaged in Rome. From Italy he went to England to inform his mother of his engagement to one of her own countrymen. He found her suffering under a blow that had fallen during his absence.

On Lady Hartmore's arrival in England after her marriage in New York she had collected a number of papers and such other articles that must be kept, but were not likely to be needed, and put them in the vault kept for the storage of valuables. Having occasion to use an old document, she had gone to the vault to look for it. There she saw her marriage certificate. Opening it, she was filled with astonishment. There were only the printed letters, none in writing.

Having informed her husband of the circumstance, a thorough search was made through the family papers in the hope of finding a certificate that had been filled out and signed by the officiating clergyman. Lady Hartmore remembered Stanwood Berke, best man at the wedding, handing her a marriage certificate and remembered looking at it and seeing that it had been duly executed. She also remembered placing it on her arrival in England in the treasure vault. Nevertheless here was a form for a marriage certificate that had apparently never been executed, and there was no other at hand.

Lady Hartmore wrote to a brother in New York asking him to discover if the marriage had been recorded and received a negative reply.

The painful fact that no evidence of the marriage between Lord and Lady Hartmore existed stared the couple in the face. And how explain the mystery? Stanwood Berke was appealed to and said he could remember nothing about the matter except giving Lady Hartmore an executed certificate. He had since been married and had several children, his oldest son being a few years younger than Lord William. The position was this: At the death of Lord Hartmore, since there was no evidence of his marriage with his wife, Stanwood Berke could claim the title and the property as next of legitimate kin.

Lord William on his arrival at home went at once to find his mother to announce his engagement. He found her sunken in gloom. "To have to tell her son that so far as his inheritance was concerned he was illegitimate was a painful task. Naturally the blow fell upon him with equal severity. He had proposed to Miss Sands as the rightful heir to final title and estate and if Stanwood Berke or after him his son chose to claim both they could substantiate their right to inherit and he would be a beggar."

Miss Sands was to be in London within a month, and it was decided between Lord William and his mother to await her arrival before mentioning the change that had come over the family fortunes. To write her love letters without showing that there was trouble at hand Lord William found impossible. At any rate, the young lady, suspecting something had gone wrong and having been educated on the American method to take care of her own affairs, persuaded her mother to go with her at once to England.

Lady Hartmore and Lord William met Miss Dorothy in London and gave her the situation.

"Well," she said after hearing it, with a bit of that which the English people call American nerve and with a businesslike air, "the first thing to be considered is, what are we going to live on if you're turned out? Fortunately father is wealthy, and I have something in my own right from grandma. So that's settled. Next, I've always had a fancy for detective work, and I would like to interest myself in getting at the bottom of this mystery."

There was something refreshing in this Yankee heartiness, and Lady Hartmore, who recognized the typical American girl, smiled for the first time in months. As for the young lord, he folded his hands in his arms. Miss Dorothy spent several hours one morning with Lady Hartmore, notebook and pencil in hand, asking innumerable questions and noting the replies. Then she asked to be introduced to Stanwood Berke. He was invited to dinner. Dorothy when the function was over said she didn't like him.

The Hartmores went to their home in the country, and Dorothy remained in London. What she did there she kept to herself. After awhile she wrote Lady Hartmore that she and her mother were going to follow out their itinerary in a trip to Scotland. The Hartmores and relatives in Edinburgh, and Dorothy asked for a letter of introduction to them. The letter was sent, and Dorothy went to Scotland. There she chatted glibly with the branch of the Hartmore family to whom she had been introduced and when she departed was spoken of as "that inquisitive American."

Lord William was to meet Dorothy in London, and Dorothy wrote him to bring the blank certificate of his mother's marriage with him. When he arrived he asked her what she intended to do with it. She put her head on one side and, looking at him slyly, said: "Don't you wish you knew?" "But surely you will tell me, your fiancée."

"Do real detectives go about telling people of their clues?" "I won't tell any one."

"Clearly not, because you won't know. They say a woman can't keep a secret, but a woman detective must."

He got no satisfaction and was obliged to content himself with the part of a lover, leaving whatever was serious to his "American girl," as he called her.

One morning Mr. Stanwood Berke received a letter from Miss Dorothy that sent him to London posthaste, and he was closeted with the young lady for an hour. What transpired between him and her she kept to herself with all the rest of the moves she was making. When Mr. Berke returned and again met his cousin, the Hartmores, he was very much changed. He had aged ten years. He was silent, distrustful and had lost all that was genial in him. He got away from them as soon as possible.

Dorothy's last move had been made, and she was ready to report results. She wrote that if convenient for Lady Hartmore she would spend a few days with them, when she would have something of importance to communicate. Lady Hartmore responded favorably, and one morning the detective appeared. Gathering the earl, his wife and their son in a room and locking the door, she said to them: "I've worked it all out."

"What have you worked out?" asked the countess.

"How did you do it?" asked Lord William.

"Come, tell us," said the earl impatiently.

"Well, you know, I got a lot of information before I started in from you, Lady Hartmore. I consulted lawyers and found out all about the marriage laws in your country. Something I learned put me in mind of your visit to Scotland soon after your marriage, so, as you know, I went there. I met a lot of people who remembered your visit and asked many questions. They called me the inquisitive American. Wasn't it funny? At last I found an old friend of yours, Lord Hartmore, to whom you introduced Lady Hartmore as your wife. That, according to the Scotch laws, made her your legal wife."

"Upon my word, you are right!" exclaimed the earl, delighted. "Who was the man?"

"John Murchison, a classmate of yours at Oxford."

"John Murchison! Will he swear it?" "Here is his affidavit."

While the earl read the paper there was a triangular embrace among the others; then Dorothy continued: "You know, I didn't like Mr. Berke and got an idea that he had tampered with the marriage certificate. I stated the case to chemists, and one of them told me that a certain—here it is," drawing a slip of paper—"solution of iodide of starch when used for writing appears much the same as ordinary ink, but completely disappears in the course of a few weeks, and nothing will restore it. Having learned from you that Mr. Berke had taken the clergyman after the wedding to a desk of his own choosing on which to fill out the certificate, I concluded that he had filled the inkstand with this iodide of starch. I asked the chemist if it would leave any trace, and he said it would. I took your certificate to him. He tested it and found traces of what I expected."

Dorothy was interrupted here by exclamations of surprise and indignation and on the part of the earl one of unguessed path and sorrow.

"I sent for Mr. Berke," continued Dorothy, "and showed him what I had done. On my promise to tell him to no one but you three and to pledge you not to prosecute him he signed this confession."

Berke had yielded to the temptation, thinking that in case his cousin died before him he could claim the title and the property.

Dorothy Sands became Lady William and in time Lady Hartmore. The family swear by American women.

CHAPTER XVI THE EVE OF BATTLE.

ON the following morning Blount found a telegram on his desk. It bore the vice president's name, and the line was to a remote portion of the state beyond the Lost River mountains to ex-trude and take his car back to the capital," he told the man. "When you do you may give him my compliments and tell him that I preferred to run my own special train."

The conductor grinned and made no reply, and he was still grinning when he sauntered into the railroad telegraph office and spoke to the operator. "I dunno what's up," he said, "but whatever it was, the string's broke. Old Dave Sagebrush's son has borrowed him an automobile and gone back to town on his own hook. Guess you'd better call up the division dispatcher and tell him the broken wire gag didn't work. Get a move on. We ain't got nothing to stay here for now."

The traffic manager had left his office for the day, but Blount found him at the railway club.

"Just a word, Dick," he began when he had overtaken Kittredge's accomplice in the grill room corridor. "Kittredge put up a job on me, and I think you helped him. I had to borrow an automobile to come back in from Lewiston."

"Confound you!" said Gantry heartily. "But that was all that he had a chance to say, since Blount had turned abruptly and was already leaving the club to go on to the hotel."

Since the election was now no more than three days distant the Inter-Mountain lobby was filled with groups of caucusing politicians. Notwithstanding the position he had taken and the open eyed fearlessness with which he had discussed the political situation publicly in every considerable town in the state, Evan Blount was still a puzzle to those whose ways were, by need and the force of circumstance, the reverse of straightforward.

Blount was halted half a dozen times before he could make his way to the elevator, and the pumping process to which he was subjected at each fresh halting space amused him. It was plainly evident that in spite of all he had said and done a considerable majority of the politicians were still regarding him as in some sense his father's lieutenant. Somewhat to his disappointment he found that Patricia had come out with his father and his father's wife to dinner; hence he was forced to sit at a table in the cafe with three of the caucusing politicians and was obliged to find his moderate pleasure in trying to make their very evident perplexity lose nothing of its acuteness during the table hour.

When he reached his office on Saturday morning, after an early and solitary breakfast at the hotel, the young reformer awoke, or thought he had scored, his first small victory. Among the envelopes on his desk was one bearing the imprint of the traffic office. It inclosed a carbon copy of the notice required by law of a proposed change in freight rates.

Hastily comparing the figures with the memorandum in his pocketbook, Blount felt the tension relaxing for the first time in weeks. At the long last Gantry or his superiors had surrendered. The rates on lumber, electrical supplies and other commodities which had been given illegal preferential treatment were to be reduced to the figures given to the favored corporations.

Blount passed a busy Saturday, putting in most of his time at his desk. Calling up the hotel in the afternoon, he found that his father had taken Patricia and Honoria for a drive in the roadster, and at dinner time the automobile party had not yet returned. Blount went back to his office after a hasty dinner and worked late into the night. The eve of battle had arrived, and he was striving to clinch the nail of argument as well as he could by writing many letters to the political friends he had made in going up and down the state.

The Sunday proved to be a very quiet day, though the lobby of the Inter-Mountain was still the assembling place for the gathering clans of politicians. Blount went to church in the morning because Patricia insisted upon it, and his appearance in the pew as a member of the Honorable David's family would have caused fresh comment if there had been any churchgoers among the visiting politicians.

After luncheon he borrowed the roadster and took Patricia for a drive. The day was perfect, and the road was in good condition. When he had put distance between them and the Sunday quiet of the city streets he told Patricia of his experience with Kittredge's special train.

"Do you think it was intended?" she asked when he had finished his story. "I haven't the slightest doubt of it now. More than that, I think the telegram bearing Mr. McVickar's name was a bold forgery. But I am bringing them to time," he went on, exulting over his one small victory.

"There is to be an evening up of freight rates, and one more room of the railroad house will be clean. I believe Mr. McVickar has meant to be fair all along, but the overzealous subordinate has always the hardest man to handle."

"I am glad," she said. And in the sunshine of her approval the young man spent a very happy afternoon.

At breakfast Monday morning Evan Blount again made the senator's party of three a party of four and at table found a puzzling surprise lying in wait for him.

The critical day of days in the campaign had arrived, and it was impossible on every hypothesis that the commander of an army would choose any other day rather than this to be absent from his post. But at the breakfast table he heard his father announce calmly that he was going to drive out to Wartrace, for no better stated reason than a purely routine purpose of having a talk with his ranch manager about the shipment of a trainload of beef cattle.

A while Blount sat in open eyed astonishment the day was planned for there and then. The arrangement made was one that left Patricia free to keep an engagement at the Weatherford's while the senator drove to Wartrace in the roadster. The little car, which Patricia had been told to call her own, was to be left at the garage, and she was to drive out in the afternoon, bringing Evan with her if he cared to come.

It was Mrs. Honoria who made this arrangement, and in the midst of his astonishment Blount acknowledged a warm kindling of gratitude. If the little lady whom he was trying so consistently to dislike had seemed to do her best to keep him and Patricia apart during the early part of the girl's visit she now appeared to be doing what she could to atone. Blount ventured one question and one only, as it was addressed to his father.

"Do you happen to remember that this is the final day before election?" he asked.

"So it is; so it is, son," was the even toned reply.

"I thought maybe you had forgotten it," said Evan quietly.

"I have in a measure," smiled the boss, "and if you'll take my advice you'll forget it too. The political applier who hasn't said his say and done his do before sunrise this morning needn't expect that he's going to be able to dig the tree up by its roots between now and tomorrow morning."

It was not until the younger man was leaving the table, excusing himself on the plea of business, that the senator's wife clinched the arrangement for the afternoon.

"You'll come out with Patricia, won't you?" she said, putting it fairly up to him to consent or refuse.

"Of course," he stammered. "I shall be delighted."

"You don't say it quite as if you meant it," laughed the one who was to drive him out to Wartrace. "But I'll be charitable and give you the benefit of the doubt. Where can I pick you up, say, between 1 and 2 o'clock? Mrs. Weatherford's luncheon is to be really a French déjeuner, and I shall be able to get away early."

"If it wouldn't be too much trouble for you to stop for me at the Temple court," Blount began, and when she nodded her acquiescence he went away, still wondering at his father's calm indifference on the very hour striking eve of the great battle.

JUDGE TOADVIN

Elected First Vice President Of Maryland Bar Association.

The Maryland State Bar Association met last week at Cape May and the meeting was one of the most enjoyable in the history of the Association. Judge E. Stanley Toadvin, accompanied by Mrs. Toadvin and Miss Katherine Toadvin attended the session. Mr. Jay Williams, also attended and was accompanied by Mrs. Williams, his son, Everett and Mrs. R. L. Leatherbury. The party went over in Mr. Williams automobile. They left Cape May Sunday for Atlantic City.

Judge E. Stanley Toadvin was elected First Vice President of the Association, which puts him in line for the presidency next year. This is considered a great honor by the lawyers of the State to be named as one of the officers of the Association. Chief Judge James Alfred Pearce was elected President of the Association. Mr. Jay Williams was nominated as one of the vice presidents to be elected next year.

There were many topics discussed during the meeting several of which both Judge Toadvin and Mr. Williams took part. One of the finest addresses delivered during the session was by Mr. Edward Keasey, of Newark, N. J., who was a class mate of Judge Toadvin at Princeton University.

James E. Betts.

Mr. James E. Betts, one of the best known farmers of Parsons district, died Tuesday afternoon after a long illness of cancer, aged 73 years. He is survived by a widow and two children, Miss Mollie E. Betts, a teacher in one of the Salisbury schools and Mr. J. Walter Betts, general manager of the Salisbury Hardware Company. Deceased moved to this county from Northumberland Co., Va., about 30 years ago and purchased from Thomas Perry a farm on the Parsonsburg road, about a mile from Salisbury, which he improved and made one of the prettiest farms in that section erecting thereon a beautiful home. About two years ago he sold off all the farm except the residence and five acres of land, which he owned at the time of his death. Mr. Betts was a proper farmer and leaves a comfortable estate. He was a consistent member of the M. E. Church. Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 8 o'clock, conducted by Rev. T. E. Marshall, interment being made in Parsons Cemetery.

Mrs. E. Martin Hearn.

Mrs. E. Martin Hearn, of near Laurel, died at the Peninsula General Hospital following an operation for appendicitis. She was 39 years of age and leaves a husband and three children. Funeral services were held at her late home Thursday afternoon and interment was in Melson's burying ground.

PRIMARY AUGUST 29

Chairman Vandiver And Hanna Agree On Date—Lee Law To Govern Contest.

The State primary will be held Tuesday August 29. This date was selected Wednesday by Chairman Murray Vandiver and John B. Hanna, of the Democratic and Republican State Central Committees, respectively, who were empowered by their committees to agree on the time. All nominations, both for State and local offices, will be made in this primary by both parties and the same legal safeguards which are thrown around general elections will govern the conduct.

It will be the first time in the history of the State that direct nominations have been made for Governor, Comptroller and Attorney General and it will be the first time that local nominations have been made under the Crawford county system of voting in a number of counties. The primary will be conducted under the Lee law, which was passed by the last Legislature. It was the third time that the two chairmen had conferred on the date. At the other times they differed, but when they met Wednesday afternoon at the Hotel Remont both readily agreed to accept August 29.

Now that the date is fixed it is thought that the political pot will shortly begin to boil. For the last several months the politicians have urged their friends not to begin any serious work until the primary was fixed and the candidates have hesitated beginning their campaigns until they ascertained exactly how long they would have to present their claims to the voter.

Samuel J. Huston.

Mr. Samuel J. Huston, one of Salisbury's oldest residents, died Saturday morning at his home on East Locust Street, aged 77 years. He had been in failing health for a long time. Deceased is survived by a widow and several children among them being Mrs. Wheatley Brittingham of Salisbury, Mrs. Alfred Dykes, of Portsmouth, Va., and Mrs. Robert W. Foster, of White Haven. He is also survived by a brother, Mr. Wm. C. Huston, of Salisbury. Funeral services were held Monday morning at his late home conducted by Rev. J. Franklin Carey. Interment was in Parsons Cemetery.

Graham—Miller.

Miss Nancy B. Miller, of Thomasville, Pa., and Mr. Walter M. Graham, assistant manager of the Round Bay Beach Company, of Baltimore, were quietly married Monday by the father of the groom, Rev. Dr. W. R. Graham, of Salisbury Md., at St. John's Methodist Protestant Church, Twenty-seventh and St. Paul Streets, Baltimore. After a trip to New York and Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. Graham will reside in Baltimore.

PRAYER AND HEALTH.

I believe in prayer in reference to the sick. But if a sick man will not send for the doctor, if he will not take the medicine which the doctor gives him, if he will not use the simplest means to preserve his health, which he knows to be nature's law, then that man in God's sight is not fit to live and will surely die. The biggest nonsense in this world is to suppose that God will cure sickness when we do not use the means at hand for getting well. Paul spoke about Luke as the good physician. "God never helps a man in reference to preservation of his physical body unless that man is willing to try and use the simplest means to preserve his health. God sent the raven to carry the bread and the flesh. But God made Elijah and the brook of Cherith and there abide.—Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage.

WOMEN ARE WISE.

Women are wiser than they know. Heaven help man when woman realizes her wisdom. You see, it is something like the horse. The horse doesn't know how strong he is. Man is magnified in the sight of the horse in order to control him and prevent him from demolishing man. Just at present woman is like the horse. Man seems much stronger and bigger to her than he really is. When once she realizes that they are of a size, woe be to man! Woman will control everything.—J. Massey Rhind.

NOT READY FOR WAR.

Japan could seize Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, the Bremerton government navy yard, five great transcontinental railways, forty mountain passes and have an empire upon which to live before the United States could get 75,000 troops to the Pacific coast. The war department will tell you that in case of contest we would need for transport 250 vessels. We have not in both oceans combined twenty vessels fit for this purpose. We are more helpless today than was Russia at the beginning of war with Japan. Japan has 600 merchant vessels on the Pacific fit for transportation. The United States has six. Japan can transport 500,000 trained troops at one time, the United States not more than 10,000.—Congressman W. E. Humphrey.

COMPETITION.

In the opinion of the people generally organized wealth takes more than its proper share. To remedy this railroad regulation and the dissolution or at least the strict regulation of trusts are required. The effort which must be made is for the re-establishment of competition as an effective force in industrial life. I venture the prophecy that in the end we will have either competition in full vigor, which means an unending struggle in prices and for profits, or we will have full co-operation in which all the people will participate. If competition is to permanently give way it must be to altruistic co-operation.—Senator Cummins.

Isaac Hastings Killed.

Isaac Hastings was killed at Fruitland Wednesday morning. Mr. Hastings was a trapeze man on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad and was engaged in work at Fruitland in connection with his train when he fell and was killed under the wheels. His body was badly mangled. He was a well known citizen of Delmar, where he leaves a family and was very popular with the train crews on the railroad. His body was taken to Delmar after the accident.

RULES OF FARMERS

Automobile Society Throughout The Country, As Sent To Us.

The following is the new code read upon by the Farmers' Anti-Auto Protective Society, which has held its annual convention in the Western States in the Union.

1. On discovering an approaching automobile, the automobilist must stop off and cover his machine with a tarpaulin painted to correspond with the scenery.

2. The speed limit on country roads this year will be secret, and the penalty for violation will be $10 for every mile an offender is caught going in excess of it.

3. In case an automobile makes a run away, the penalty will be $10 for the first mile, $100 for the second mile, $200 for the third mile, and the team runs, in addition the usual damages.

4. On approaching a corner where a car cannot command a view of the road ahead, the automobilist must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, not his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, halloo, and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

5. Automobiles must again be seasonably painted, that is, so they will merge with pastoral ensemble, and not be startling. They must be green, in spring, golden in summer, red in autumn and white in winter.

6. Automobiles running on the country roads at night must send up a rocket every mile, and wait ten minutes for the road to clear. They may then proceed carefully, blowing the horn and shooting Roman candles.

7. All members of the Society will give up Sunday to chasing automobiles shooting and shooting at them, making arrests and otherwise discouraging country touring on that day.

8. In case a horse will not pass an automobile, notwithstanding the season tarpaulin, the automobilist will take the machine apart as rapidly as possible and conceal the parts in the grass.

9. In case an automobile approaches a farmer's house when the roads are dusty, it will slow down to one mile an hour and the chauffeur will lay the dust in front of the house with a hand sprinkler worked over the dashboard.

Progress of Western Maryland College.

Western Maryland College reappears in our columns this week soliciting the patronage of our people. This College has established a reputation in the 44 years of its existence as a safe, thorough and earnest school. It has just had a very notable celebration—a home coming Commencement in honor of the completion of the twenty fifth year of its president, Doctor Thomas H. Lewis. And the large gathering of old students was speaking testimonial to the high regard in which this College is held. Its young people are doing it credit and its work has been felt all over the state. From its recent catalogue it appears to have 343 students and 51 teachers. It has graduated 900. The courses of study cover the usual subjects in the best Colleges and we have no reason to think they are not well covered. We are interested especially in the course in Pedagogy which is offered to graduates, by which they are prepared to teach in the Public Schools and are given a certificate to teach by the State Board of Education without examination. We have heard nothing but good reports of this institution and we commend it to our readers.

NEWS OF SCHOOL BOARD

Free Scholarships Awarded To Colleges. Delmar School Consolidation Question Other Matters.

Free Scholarships were awarded as follows, State Normal School—Mamie Adkins, Laura B. Insley, Florence M. Messick and Nellie G. Langrall. Charlotte Hall—Clinton Brotemarkle. Western Maryland College—Louise Gullett. St. John's College—Walter Nelson, of Hebron. There were four applicants for Western Maryland and six for St. John's and the two scholarships were awarded after competitive examinations and to those receiving the highest marks.

The subject of consolidation of the public schools of Delmar, Md., and Delmar, Del., has been agitated for some time, and recently a largely attended meeting of the patrons of the two schools was held in Delmar, with the result that a unanimous approval of the proposition was given. The matter of details, such as the work of supervision, change in text books, the pay of teachers, etc., was left to be worked out by Superintendent Hardesty, of Sussex, and Superintendent Holloway, of Wicomico.

Thursday evening last these two officials made a report to the two school boards, at a meeting held in Salisbury. Those present from the Delaware side were Elder A. B. Francis, J. L. Ellis, F. G. Elliott, F. E. Lynch, Robert Ellegood, James W. Hearn, J. F. Fleetwood, Irving Calver and W. S. Melson. The Wicomico Board was represented by Messrs. Brewington and Price.

It was shown by the two superintendents that the efficiency of the schools could be greatly increased by consolidation, and that the work could be handled by twelve teachers at no greater expense than the two schools are now costing.

The proposition laid before the meeting Thursday evening was to use the Maryland school building for the High School grades, and the Delaware building for the primary grades. By this arrangement sufficient pupils can be secured to maintain a high-grade high school, equal in every respect to the Salisbury High School, and Delmar's growing population is entitled to better school facilities than it now possesses.

After a thorough discussion Thursday night, the two committees decided to submit the question to the people of both sides of Delmar at once, and ascertain public sentiment. The Delaware side will vote on the question at a special election to be held within ten days. Petitions will be circulated on the Maryland side for signatures for and against the proposition, and the result will be submitted to a joint meeting of the school boards within the next three weeks. If public sentiment favors consolidation, it will be put into effect next fall.

A large delegation of the patrons of Leonard's School appeared before the School Board, Friday, to protest against the moving of the school building from its present location to some point on the Salisbury-Delmar road, as contemplated by the School Board. For some time the Board has been considering the proposition of moving Gordy's school from its present location to a point on the Parker road, near the lands of O. C. Parker, and then moving the Leonard School to the point indicated above. It is believed such a plan will benefit a large number of school children by making these schools more centrally located. The Board decided at Friday's meeting, that in view of the fact that no money is available this year for school buildings and improvements, the matter will be deferred until next year.

A colored delegation from White's Chapel, Jersey, was before the Board with an offer to sell to the Board the old chapel lot on Lake St. The old building has been used for school purposes for a year or two, but is much too small for the purpose.

AUTOMOBILE LINE

Proposed For Salisbury—Mr. Baysinger Asks City Council For Franchise.

Mr. Frank Baysinger was before the City Council Monday night to ask for a franchise to establish an automobile bus line in Salisbury. Mr. Baysinger proposes to put on a twelve or fifteen passenger machine and to district the town so as to have a perfect route and to have his bus at certain points on regular schedule each day. He has had the manufacturer of the machine in Salisbury looking over the territory and these gentlemen say a line of buses like the one talked of would pay all right. It is proposed to start with one machine and to add to them as trade grows. The route of the car would be so arranged as to take in all sections of the city and provide some quick means of transportation from the far ends of the city.

—There will be a picnic at Mr. Hermon, afternoon and evening, July 13th, in the grove for Mt. Hermon Church benefit.

JUDGE HOLLAND'S ESTATE

A Valuable One—Leaves Property That Totals About $70,000.

Messrs. S. R. Douglass, G. W. Boly, and R. H. Phillips, appraisers appointed to appraise the estate of the late Judge Charles F. Holland, filed their inventory with the Register of Wills, John A. Dashiell, Monday afternoon. The estate shows a valuation by the appraisers of about $50,000.00 for real estate and $39,000.00 worth of mortgages held by Judge Holland. The appraisers value of the stocks and bonds are on about the usual valuation placed on estates, but if the stocks and bonds were sold at public auction they would probably bring at least one third more than the valuation at which they are appraised, as they are all very valuable.

The real estate consists of brick building at the corner of Division and Water streets, Salisbury, valued by the appraisers at $300,000.00; house and lot in Camden, $800.00 and house and lot of ground in Tyngsboro district, $850.00. This property will probably sell for at least $5,000.

In the list are many of the stocks of the most flourishing financial institutions in Salisbury, Snow Hill, Pocomoke City and other towns on the Peninsula. The estate is one of the most valuable left in this community for a long time. The Judge was very careful in his investments and they are all gilt edged.

The estate will have to pay to the State of Maryland a very substantial collateral inheritance tax on account of the judge not leaving children. The following is a list as filed by the appraisers:

One gasoline yacht, "O. F. Holland,"	$1,300.00
Thirty second interest Schooler, "Salisbury"	600.00
27 Shares Salisbury National Bank	9,350.00
9 Shares First National Bank Elizabeth City, N. C.	1,605.00
29 Shares Salisbury B. & L. Bankers Association	5,120.00
20 Shares Equitable B. & L. Association, Snow Hill	2,000.00
20 Shares Wicomico B. & L. Association	2,200.00
—Shares First National, Snow Hill	4,800.00
10 Shares Sussex National Bank, Seaford, Del.	1,460.00
10 Shares Savings Bank of Nantuxco	1,900.00
5 Shares Salisbury Ice Company	625.00
5 Shares Exchange Bank of Berlin	550.00
3 Bonds Garrett & Co. N. C. 6 per cent	10,000.00
20 Shares American Smelter Co.	1,600.00
1 Bond Seaboard Air Line R. R. 5's	790.00
1 Shares U. S. Steel Preferred	1,800.00
1 Bond Maryland Electric Railways, 5 per cent	987.50
1 Bond Montgomery Light & Power Company 5's	900.00
1 Bond Camp Manufacturing Company, Va., 5's	950.00
1 Bond Gottleib Brewing Co., 5's	422.50
1 Bond Mount Vernon Cotton Duck 5's	700.00
10 Shares Salisbury Marine Construction Company	500.00

Making a total of $57,972.00, or a total of $39,850.00 for all his personal estate including his bonds, etc. It is estimated that his estate will clear up in the neighborhood of $75,000.00. Mr. S. R. Douglass has been appointed executor of the estate and will settle same.

H. Gibbs.

Mr. H. Gibbs, of Union City, Tenn., is a comparative new owner among the professional trap shooters of the county.

One of Mr. Gibbs' best performances was at the Arkansas State Shoot Little Rock, Ark., June 8th—10th, 1908. Mr. Gibbs won the High Gun.

Overall Average with the excellent score of 215—50 targets. He is one of the steadiest and most consistent shooters facing the trap today. He will be here at the Second Annual Shoot on July 14th.

HATS GOING HIGHER

And Much Narrower—Cornucopia Shape To Be Right Style.

Having had a second taste of the Colonial, and having rung the changes on all the ancient and modern variations in headgear in history, women of the fashionable world will now turn to the hats of fable, of folk lore, of the nursery rhyme.

From Paris and from Indianapolis and from way stations up and down the line in between the word has come that the Mother Goose Hat, the straw pipe chapeau of the Mardi Gras, cornucopia and anything else that goes up high and maintains a small bill will be all the go next winter. Things will be all the go even for those who wish to plunge in them at once.

Here is the way a millinery expert conveyed the idea to a layman seeing enlightenment: Take the color section of a Sunday newspaper, turn it end to a point, tie it firmly, open the other end wide enough, the line was slip over a tight collar, and there you are ready for the show as some state beauty put on some draperies, a splash of color, a little plumage, possibly some bows. The important thing is not to allow any of these to adornment, however brilliant, be bulky enough to mar the architectural effect of the tower superstructure.

Came From Indianapolis.

This is the latest word, or more correctly, the latest word, for there may be a few amendments later. Strangely enough, the same idea struck Paris and Indianapolis at the same time, although this Western way station has never set the pace in styles before except for lengthy Vice-Presidents.

Indianapolis is in the center of the millinery universe just now because the Millinery Traveling Men's Association is meeting there. A dispatch came out from there that women hate this fall will be small.

Reports from Paris, from expert and critical observers there, all pointed out that the coming season would see the smallest hats ever worn by women. The woman with a level head, who can balance a tower will have the lead.

One of the conservative milliners firm said that upon the strength of the latest Parisian styles seen at the races and the aviation gatherings, the hat had been set as the present attitude limit. But when ten inches has been set, he said, there are sure to be some milliners who will not stop at that. If it is a contest of height there is no telling where the stop will be made this side of the stars.

He explained that he knows something about women, and that after reflecting the craze for wide hats a few years ago he is glad the trend is now upward. The restrictions in altitude it is thought, will not be so numerous as those put upon width by the average street car entrance and the door to most of the modern homes. The real place to display such high hats will be outdoors, while it was outdoors that the wide hats, the merry widows of a few past years, were against the greatest congestion.

Poke Bonnet Popular.

Along with the Mother Goose hat there will be other styles taken from the past. The poke bonnet is now all ready on the list of styles for this and next season.

Here is another item of warm weather interest for the feminine mart: Women in Paris are wearing white velvet these hot summer days at the races. White felt for outing is getting more popular than straw.

NEW TURBANS.

They Are Particularly Conspicuous on Account of the Lavish Display of Feathers.

Of course the little "top" hat, as a few milliners call the closely fitted turban of fur and velours, has had its day, and it is not surprising that the price having reached the attainable, makers are exploiting new and more expensive models.

Wings are the most general trimming, such lovely wings that one's patcher and tell him the dress didn't work. Get a move on, didn't get nothing to stay in now.

The traffic manager had left for the day, but Blount found the railway club. "Just a word, Dick," he began, he had overtaken Kittredge's place in the grill room corridor, treading put up a job on me, and you helped him. I had to borrow automobile to come back in Lewiston."

"Confound you!" said Gantry. But that was all that he chance to say, since Blount had abruptly and was already the club to go on to the hotel. Since the election was now a than three days distant the Mountain lobby was filled with of caucusing politicians. Not standing the position he had and the open eyed ferociousness which he had discussed the situation publicly in every conceivable town in the state, Blount was still a puzzle to those who were, by need and the force of circumstance, the reverse of straggled.

Blount was halted half a times before he could make it to the elevator, and the process to which he was subjected each fresh halting space amused him. It was plainly evident that in all he had said and done a cable majority of the political still regarding him as in some his father's lieutenant. Some his disappointment he found tricola had come out with him and his father's wife to dine he was forced to sit at a table with three of the caucusing politicians and was obliged to make the excuse in trying to their very evident perplexity in of its acuteness during the hour.

When he reached his office, Monday morning, after an early solitary breakfast at the young reformer scored, or the had scored, his first small Among the envelopes on his office bearing the imprint of the notice required by law of a posed change in freight rates. Hastily comparing the figure the memorandum in his pocket Blount felt the tension relax the first time in weeks. At last Gantry or his superiors rendered. The rates on lumber supplies and other commodities which had been given illegal pials were to be reduced to the given to the favored corporation. Blount needed a busy Saturday in most of his time at the Calling up the hotel in the afternoon he found that his father had Patricia and Honora for a dinner, the roadster, and at dinner the automobile party had not yet ed. Blount went back to his after a hasty dinner and work to the night. The eve of his arrived, and he was striving the mail of argument as we could by writing many letters political friends he had made up and down the state.

The Sunday proved to be quiet day, though the lobby of the Mountain was still the place for the gathering clans, ticians. Blount went to church morning because Patricia in upon it, and his appearance in as a member of the Honorable family would have caused fresh most if there had been any cagers among the visiting politicians.

After luncheon he borrowed roadster and took Patricia for a The day was perfect, and they were in good condition. When had put distance between them the Sunday quiet of the city at he told Patricia of his experience Kittredge's special train.

"Do you think it was intended asked when he had finished his "I haven't the slightest doubt now. More than that, I think telegram bearing Mr. McVid name was a bold forgery. But bringing them to time," he was exulting over his one small victory.

A pretty and serviceable skirt for wear with tub waists could be made from dark blue serge in one of the new weaves. It would be quite attractive developed in broadcloth, cashmere or cheviot.

To develop this skirt four and one-eighth yards of thirty-six inch material or three and one-quarter yards of forty-four inch fabric will be needed.

Household Glue. To make a liquid glue that will keep for years break some pieces of glue and put them into a bottle, adding to them a little whiskey. Cork the bottle tightly and set it aside for a few days, when the glue will be ready for use without the application of heat, except in very cold weather. In this case the bottle should be placed in hot water for a few minutes before the glue is used.

The Rest Acknowledged. "My life," sighed the insurance agent, "is full of wormwood and gall." "Is that so?" asked the victim. "Funnily I overlooked the wormwood!"—Chevalier Leader.

An Appeal to Reason. "You seem to have got your boys interested in mythology nicely." "Yes; I explained to them that Hercules held a championship!"—Washington Herald.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear If The Advice Of This Salisbury Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis kidney's fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. John L. Baker, 313 Baker St., Salisbury, Md., says: "I gladly confirm the public statement I gave two years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy has never failed to relieve me when I have had backache. I was troubled greatly by lameness in my back and a heavy, bearing down sensation through my hips. I was also bothered by stiffness across my back, especially when I got up in the morning and despite all my efforts for relief, these troubles clung to me until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at White & Leonard's Drug Store. This remedy did snob work that I was convinced of its curative powers."

For sale by all druggists. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMullen Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Port Harrellson, S. O., "Doctors said I had consumption and the dreadful cough I had looked like it sure enough. I tried everything; I could hear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. O., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure. Its positively guaranteed for coughs, colds and all bronchial affections. 50c and $1 Trial bottle free at all druggists.

Washing Vails. Tulle vails that have become limp may be renovated by pressing them with a warm iron, having first placed a handkerchief between the iron and the tulle. Lace vails and scarfs should be soaked in a strong lather of white soap and soft water and allowed to simmer gently in a saucepan over a fire for about twenty minutes.

The vails should be lifted out and squeezed lightly, but not rubbed, then rinsed out in cold water. The second lot of water should be faintly tinged with blue and have in it a small quantity of hot starch. Clear the vails of any particles of the starch by clapping well between the hands, then pin on a clean white cloth and allow to dry. In this manner they will look as fresh and clean as when new, and they may be washed any number of times. Vails should always be ironed with a handkerchief or piece of fine linen between, as they are much better and wear longer if they do not come in direct contact with the iron.

The Stem Stitch. Stem stitching may be embroidered on the machine as well as by hand. Here is the method followed: Sew with rather a short stitch along the stamped lines. Be sure to follow pattern directly. Then thread a needle with embroidery silk and pass the needle and thread, eye first, under each stitch. Keep on the upper side of the material. It is thin fabric put paper underneath before working.

This method results in a well raised cord that is obtained in much quicker time than by hand embroidery and is, besides, quite as effective.

NEW SKIRT MODEL.

Simple and Chic, It is Just the Right Thing For Shopping.

Separate skirts are a necessity no matter how many gowns are contained in a wardrobe, and women who want a new model that is smart and will be becoming should consider the design pictured here.

The skirt is economical to make, as it requires only four and five-eighths yards of goods thirty-six inches wide or three and seven-eighths yards of material forty-four inches in width.

There are many women who are successful in making waists but who hesitate to attempt skirts, thinking the latter difficult, but it is even an inexperienced person understands how to follow a design there is no reason why she should fear that the result will not be satisfactory.

Take, for example, the model pictured, which is simple in spite of the fact that it is chic.

After the various pieces are cut and all perforations, etc., accurately marked the gores are basted according to the notches, full directions for which are given on the pattern label.

The garment is then tried on, and if the material appears to draw or is too full over the hips it must be taken up or let out, as required, at the side seams. When the fit is satisfactory the seams are stitched and the platts at either side of the lower part of the center, front and back gores basted in position.

At this stage the skirt is turned wrong side out and both the platts and gores are given a thorough pressing, after which the skirt is tried on and the belt portion of the front gores adjusted. The edges are then basted in place and stitched as pictured; the closing is effected invisibly at the side back.

After the hooks and eyes are sewed to the waist and placket so the skirt will be kept in right position when put on the bottom edge must be turned up the desired length and when even all around the hem is stitched and the whole garment given a thorough pressing.

Fresh Things.

Some of the signs by which to tell good fruit and vegetables are here indicated. Oranges are sound and juicy when heavy, but not too hard. Radishes and turnips when spongy are not fit to eat. Pineapples are best when the edges of the top are smooth; inferior qualities the tops are of the saw edged variety. Celery is good when it breaks without much bending. Asparagus should be quite stiff. Nuts cannot be judged very correctly until they are opened, but they should be of good weight and not too hard to crack.

When men and women find themselves tired when night comes a little moderate exercise will be found restful. If tired mentally exercise the body. If tired physically exercise the mind.

Physicians tell us that a clear, genuine complexion depends upon every organ of the body and the health of every organ depends upon exercise, with its regular accompaniment—fresh air, nutritious food and pure water.

The protective feature of airy clothing depends upon its air holding capacity or porosity. A calm layer of air is the best nonconductor of heat; hence the air held within the meshes of a porous garment will prevent the rapid loss of heat caused by plain, smooth fabrics.

At night, when all the organs of the body are in a state of comparative rest and the process of repair is going on through the absorption and assimilation of the particles of nutrition, the human electricity which has been stored away during the day should not only be retained, but added to during the hours of mental and bodily rest.

Person's Poem A Gem.

From Rev. H. Strubenvill, Allison, Pa., in praise of Dr. King's New Life Pills.

"There's such a health necessity, In every home these pills should be, If other kinds you've tried in vain, USE DR. KING'S Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurt.

THE CHILDREN'S HYMN.

Land of our birth, we pledge to thee Our love and toil in years to be. When we are grown and take our place As men and women with our race.

Father in heaven, who lovest all, Oh, help Thy children when they call, That they may build from age to age An undivided heritage.

—Rudyard Kipling.

PRAYER AND HEALTH.

I believe in prayer in reference to the sick. But if a sick man will not send for the doctor, if he will not use the simplest means to preserve his health, which he knows to be nature's law, then that man in God's sight is not fit to live and will surely die.

The biggest nonsense in this world is to suppose that God will cure sickness when we do not use the means at hand for getting well. Paul spoke about Luke as the good physician. "God never helps a man in reference to preservation of his physical body unless that man is willing to try and help himself. God sent the rain to carry the bread and the flesh. But God made Elijah hide the brook of Cherith and there abide.—Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage.

WOMEN ARE WISE.

Women are wiser than they know. Heaven help man when woman realizes her wisdom. You see, it is something like the horse. The horse doesn't know how strong he is. Man is magnified in the sight of the horse in order to control him and prevent him from demolishing man.

Just at present woman is like the horse. Man seems much stronger and bigger to her than he really is. When once she realizes that they are of a size, woe be to man! Woman will control everything.—J. Massey Rhind.

NOT READY FOR WAR.

Japan could seize Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, the Bremerton government navy yard, five great transcontinental railways, forty mountain passes and have an empire upon which to live before the United States could get 75,000 troops to the Pacific ocean. The war department will tell you that in case of contest we would need for transports 250 vessels. We have not in both oceans combined twenty vessels fit for this purpose.

We are more helpless today than was Russia at the beginning of war with Japan. Japan has 600 merchant vessels on the Pacific for transportation. The United States has six. Japan can transport 500,000 trained troops at one time, the United States not more than 10,000.

—Congressman W. E. Humphrey.

COMPETITION.

In the opinion of the people generally organized wealth takes more than its proper share. To remedy this railroad regulation and the dissolution of trusts are required. The effort which must be made is for the re-establishment of competition as an effective force in industrial life.

I venture the prophecy that in the end we will have either competition in full vigor, which means an unending struggle in prices and for profits, or we will have full co-operation in which all the people will participate. If competition is to permanently give way it must be to altruistic co-operation.—Senator Cummins.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

He that dies pays all debts.

We are such stuff As dreams are made of, and our little life Is rounded with a sleep.

Oh, what a world of vile, ill favored faults Looks handsome in £300 a year!

Our doubts are traitors And make us lose the good we oft might win By fearing to attempt.

Oh, it is excellent To have a dream's strength, but it is tyrannous To use it like a giant.

They may best men be molded out of faults And for the most, become much more the better For being a little bad.

—Shakespeare.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

WISDOM FROM WOMEN.

Gossip is a sort of smoke that comes from the dirty tobacco pipes of those who diffuse it. It proves nothing but the bad taste of the smoker.—George Eliot.

The loyalty of man to woman pales before the loyalty of man to man.—Lucas Cleve.

No evil dooms us hopelessly except the evil we love and desire to keep in and make no effort to escape from.—George Eliot.

Sweetest the strain when in the song The singer has been lost.

—Adelaide Procter.

PUBLIC BUSINESS.

Business and politics are very closely related, because politics is not something separated from our life. It has to do with the vital matter of our business, and because our business is public our politics must be public. That is the reason why the people of the United States are so eager to listen even to extreme views, provided they believe the person who is uttering them has disengaged his private interests from the public things he is talking about. If a man can convince the public that he has done that it will run after him, even though he does not know what he is talking about, and the most difficult thing in the world is for him to know what he is talking about, and that is because everybody is trying to keep under cover.—Woodrow Wilson.

PLUCKING FLOWERS.

'Tis and ever was my wish and way To let all flowers live freely and all die Where'er their genius bids their souls depart Among their kindred in their native place.

I never pluck the rose: this violet's head Hath shaken with my breath upon its bank And not reproached me. The ever sacred cup Of the pure lily hath between my hands Felt safe, unscathed, nor lost one gleam of gold.

—W. S. Lander.

CONSERVATION OF MEN.

More persons die from preventable tuberculosis in a year than all who died in the civil war. It is time for action. If every man in our army and navy should be wiped out by disease in one year it would attract some attention, would it not? At no time in the history of the world has the life of the people been so imperiled. That our race is materially deteriorating is proved by the difficulty of obtaining recruits for the army, the navy and the military schools, both here and abroad, that are up to the physical standard.—Dr. L. L. Seaman.

DANGERS OF ARMAMENT.

It will be well for the advocates of armed peace to consider that the operation of this crowd passion or mob spirit in causing war is wonderfully favored and facilitated by the existence of large armies and navies. The possession of irresponsible power is always a temptation to its irresponsible use. Individual citizens are not permitted in times of peace to go armed among their fellow men because of the temptation to use arms for slight causes in such moments of passion and excitement as every man is liable to in the course of his daily experience. It is with nations as with individuals. There is always the possibility that if nations know themselves to be dangerously armed and fully equipped they will be more apt to declare war on slight provocation than they otherwise would be.—James A. Tawney.

IMPORTANCE OF WORK.

Work is one of the necessities essential to human life. Therefore the Lord has provided the capacity for it in man's heart, mind and body, and he has surrounded man with things to be done. As the sculptor develops artistic skill by manipulating clay, so we acquire spiritual character by working in the things of the earth, putting the heart's affections and mind's thoughts into concrete form in the natural world. The divine purpose is not so much that the physical results may be accomplished as that we may be developed spiritually in sincerity and faithfulness by the doing of work.—Rev. Paul Sperry.

A SERIOUS CONDITION.

The prolonged drought that this section is now undergoing, has reached a point where it means more than a mere setback or slight loss. From present indications and reports there will be almost a total failure in all crops unless Providence sends along a good sized rain to help out. Already the loss to our farmers and truckers will run into thousands of dollars and even corn, our chief dependency the county over, is now feeling the effects of the dry weather. Those who have followed trucking and farming say that already this is the worst blow received in the many years they have been following the plow.

STATE POLITICS.

It has been too hot to talk or write about politics and the weather conditions may have had some influence with our state politics, as there seems to be very little doing, if one is to judge by surface appearances.

After the big flare up just before and immediately after the meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee in Baltimore, it looked as though things were going to get exceedingly warm at once. Senator Blair Lee, however, is apparently the only one of the candidates whose name has been mentioned, who is on the job.

He has poured out thousands of letters announcing his candidacy and is still working on others. Ex-Gov. Brown keeps saying that he is making ready to get actively in the fray. Senator Gorman is keeping quiet, though his friends surmise that he is doing a lot of work on the "quiet." A good many prophesies that evidence of this will soon be seen when he considers the time ripe to make his formal announcement. Governor O'Connell is puzzling the State leaders according to the Baltimore City papers. No one seems to know just what he intends to do.

That a great many of his friends are urging him to get in the "melee" is generally recognized. While quiet on the surface the whole situation is fairly charged and may go off in any direction at any time.

Time for sober thought and reflection is being taken by those who have to a great extent the destiny of the Democratic party in their hands, and doubtless they will be able to get together on a man strong enough to win the support of the people.

It must not be lost sight of in the midst of a primary fight that the man nominated must be elected. Our present state leaders are too efficient and faithful to get behind any man who will make a hard one to pull through in November.

The day is forever past when an unpopular candidate can, with safety, be forced upon the ticket and the men who would attempt a move of this kind show as once that they are unfit to lead a great party. Good men and men who will give strength should be found regardless of personal friendship or feeling.

GROWING DELMAR

Property Valued Near The Million Mark By Late Assessors.

J. W. Freney, W. B. Stephens and E. B. Ker, designated by the Town Council of the Maryland side of Delmar to make the assessment for town tax, completed their work on Monday. The total value of the property on that side of the town is placed at $449,880 and the assessors could have easily placed the valuation at least one fourth higher without doing any body an injustice. As the law gives the Maryland Town Council the right to levy up to 25 cents on the $100, the new taxable basis can provide an income of $1,125.00 a year with which to maintain and improve the conditions on the Maryland side.

The assessment levied for 1910 on the Delaware side shows a taxable basis of $487,000 or $13,360 less than the Maryland side. The tax rate on the Delaware side is 22 cents per $100 this year. This makes the property value in Delmar nearly $900,000.00 and within two years the million dollar mark will undoubtedly have been passed.

—Anthony M. E. Church; Rev. Dr. L. H. White, Editor of the Methodist published in Salisbury will preach in the morning and make the address at the evening service; Sunday School 10 a. m. Dr. Martindale is to make the address at the corner stone laying of the new St. Paul's Church, in Wilmington, Del.

Albert T. Willey Drowned.

Albert T. Willey, a resident of Nantuxee District was drowned in Quantico Creek Tuesday. Mr. Willey was towing a scow with his gasoline boat when the boat ran aground. He pulled off his clothes and jumped ashore to push the boat off, when his trousers fell into the water. As there was considerable money in the trousers pockets, Mr. Willey jumped overboard to regain them, when he was caught in the rapid current and carried down. His body was recovered. He was 38 years old and leaves a wife and two children. He was a cousin of H. James Messick.

To Rebuild Ice Plant.

The directors of the Salisbury Ice Company held a meeting at the office of Hon. W. H. Jackson Wednesday afternoon and decided to rebuild the plant destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. The plant destroyed had a capacity of 25 tons per day and the directors decided to replace it with a plant having a capacity of 50 tons. General Manager, J. D. Price was instructed to proceed to get his plans for a new plant at once.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the season is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will are generally preferred in the Central and Southern States. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

New Era Cow Peas. New Era are a little earlier and make more vine than the Whip-poor-wills.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Clays are more productive. They are bush form, early maturing and especially desirable for Peas.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than Clays; they make a good growth of vine, are exceptionally good for medium or poor land and will stand almost any amount of wet weather without injury.

We can also supply Shiny Peas, Red Rippers, Blackeye Peas and Soja Beans.

REMEMBER—Bolignano's Cow Peas are unquestionably the best. If your Local Merchant will not supply Bolignano's Cow Peas, write us direct and we will tell you where you can get them.

FREE. Send us 5 cents in stamps to pay postage and mention this paper, and we will send you free a 2c package of "My Maryland" Tomato Seed, also our 1911 Catalogue of Seeds and our 1911 Poultry Supply Catalogue.

OTTER CAME HOME AGAIN.

Pet Returned to Owner After Brief

Hour of Freedom.

A curious instance of animal instinct and attachment in an otter is related by a Cork correspondent of the London Field. A few months ago in that city a man caught a live otter. Bringing the animal home, after some time, he succeeded in taming it, and trained it to fish.

One day he took it to the river for a swim, and while there it killed some fish, but succeeded in getting off the strap to which it was attached. After waiting some hours in a vain endeavor to induce the animal to leave the water the owner gave up in despair and returned home.

Late that night, while in bed, this man heard a scratching at the front door of his cottage, and to his great surprise, when he opened the door, in walked the otter, which he then secure. The most remarkable feature of this story is the fact that this man lived about a mile from the river and that his cottage was one in a row.

Odd Place for Bird's Nest.

A thrush has built her nest at the back of the neck of the sculptured angel on the memorial to William Thimos Kine, the author, in St. Margaret's churchyard, Keddington, near Louth.

The memorial is protected by a wire cage, through which the bird managed to find its way. The cage also protects the birds, for no boys can possibly get at the nest, which now shelters the mother bird and five little thrushes.—London Evening Standard.

False Teeth Made of Wood By Japs.

A package containing a specimen of Japanese skill and of great interest to dentists has been received at San Francisco the customs postoffice bureau in the parcels post mail from Japan.

It consists of a full set of false teeth made entirely of wood. The carving
of the teeth shows marvelous skill
and the art is carried to the point of imitating the peculiar bluish color characteristic of the Malay race. The teeth are made for use and are pronounced by dentists to be perfect in conformity with the human jaw. It
is their theory that the teeth have been made after the pattern of a cast
and are designed to fit a particular person.

In every detail they resemble the ordinary set except that in place of the back teeth or grinders, nails similar to the ordinary bonnet have been substituted.

The teeth are set and cemented in
the plates by some unknown process.
The wood could not be identified, but it is believed to be a native Japanese wood of extraordinary hardness. The only defect that could be found by dentists is that they might prove in-sanitary by absorbing the juices of
the mouth. They are consigned to a Japanese in the East.

Beware Of Ointments For Catarrh That Contain Mercury.

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely debase
the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except
on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly
Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney
& Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally
and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J.
Cheney & Co. Testimonial free. Sold
by Druggists. Price 75c per bottle.

BALTIMORE COUPLE ROBBED.

bed. But Mr. and Mrs. Simonton Recover Jewels And Money.

A man and a woman who registered under the name of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Brown, of New York, at the Idlewild, Ocean City, Md., were brought to New Hill Tuesday night and lodged in jail charged with the theft of $800 worth of diamonds. Mrs. Brown was released later because of a lack of sufficient evidence.

The diamonds and $80 in money were stolen from Mr. and Mrs. Simonton, of Baltimore. Brown's bathroom was near that of the Simontons and while they were all in bathing Brown, it is said, came out, dressed hurriedly and went to the postoffice and mailed a package addressed to A. J. Brown, Snow Hill, Md.

In the meantime the diamonds and money had been missed by the Simontons and suspicion pointed to Brown, because of his hurried trip to the postoffice. Constable Johnson had Brown sign an order that all incoming and outgoing mail addressed to him should be delivered to Johnson.

Brown, thinking the mail had gone, readily signed the order. The mail was late, however, and the package addressed to him was opened by Johnson and found to contain $800 worth of the stolen diamonds.

Mrs. Brown urged Brown to confess. The remaining diamonds and money were found under a board in the bathroom.

DROUTH KILLING CROPS

No Rain in Sight—Trucks Almost Gone.

The prolonged drouth is proving a fearful thing to our farmers and truckers. There has been but little rain in this section since the first of April. The first crop to feel the effects were the strawberries, which proved a total failure in many sections. Cantaloupes and cucumbers are now drying up and unless rain reaches here in a few days these crops will prove a total failure, and as it is so badly damaged. Corn which has stood the drouth remarkably well is now feeling the effects, and will prove a big loss if relief does not come soon.

Added to the dryness has been a succession of extremely hot days accompanied with moderately drying winds. The thermometer in town this week reached 104 in the shade several days, while no one had the courage to test it in the hot sun.

HOW I GOT MY START

Story of a Man Who Made a Little Fortune in One Night

By REGINALD D. HAVEN

I was working for small wages for a safe and lock company. My work was mending locks that had got out of order and doing other odd jobs that required some knowledge of the business. I was anxious to get my affairs in shape to marry my present wife, but didn't see much prospect. The concern I was with kept me tinkering all the while, and when it wanted a man to start a branch office or something like that it would choose one of the clerks in the office.

I had gone home one evening and had my supper when there was a ring at the doorbell and a boy handed me a note. It was written on a letter head of a big manufacturing firm and said that Mr. Partington, treasurer of the company I worked for, had recommended me for a special job and asked that I come around to the office as soon as convenient.

Catching up my tool bag, which I had brought home with me, I went with the boy to the office of the manufacturing company, pleased with the prospect of making a tenner, and found there a tall, handsomely dressed man, with gray hair and motion chop whiskers, and two or three clerks sitting on stools working over ponderous books.

"Can you open that safe?" asked the man with the gray whiskers. "We've got a lot of work to do here this evening, and our cashier, who knows the combination, went out of town this afternoon."

I looked at the name of the maker in gold letters on the safe, made my observations and told the gentleman that I didn't know any way to pick the lock without drilling a hole where I could get at the tumblers and that would involve considerable expense to put his safe in order again.

"Never mind the expense," he said impatiently. "I've got to put in a bid tomorrow on a hundred thousand rifles for the army, on which I'll make half a million. The specifications are all in there. I must get them out and go over them to see that they are right. The slightest slip in any detail will throw out my bid. Come; get to work!"

I plunged my hand into my bag, got out my brace and bits, adjusted them and was soon at work.

Now, as I worked it occurred to me that here was the opportunity of my life. If this gentleman was dependent for his half million on me to get him into the safe, why shouldn't I have something more than a beggarly ten dollar bill? I saw that he was impatient and thought I might get an offer to do the work within a given limit of time.

"I'm afraid," I said, "this is going to be an all night job."

"See here, young man," said the gentleman, "if there's anything you want especially that costs a lot more money than you've got?"

"Yes, there is," I replied. "I want a girl."

"Oh, I can't give you a girl!"

"I could get the girl quick enough if I had anything to marry on."

"Him?" said the gentleman, biting at my hook. "I see. How soon can you guarantee to open the safe if it's made worth your while to hurry?"

"Three-quarters of an hour."

"Very well. If you'll do it in that time I'll give you $3,000. If you do it in thirty minutes I'll make it $5,000."

"Give me a bit of writing for that, if you please. And without waiting for him to do so I began to drill furiously, my racket making a terrible sound."

"Mr. Perkins," said the gentleman to one of the clerks, "take the typewriter and write to my dictation."

One of the clerks sat down at a typewriting machine and wrote out a contract to cover the agreement made with me. When it was finished the gentleman signed it and gave it to me. I wasn't going to be fooled, so I stopped drilling and read it.

"Write at the bottom of it," I said. "The money to be paid before the said Thomas Jakesway leaves this office."

He took the paper to his mahogany desk and wrote what I required, while I went on drilling.

"Do you have to make all that noise?" he snapped. "Can't you put some oil or something on your drill? They'll think outside there's a burglar going on in here. If they come in to investigate I'd have to explain, and there'd be a lot of delay."

"The faster I work," I said, "the more noise."

"Mr. Perkins, you go on typewriting. Never mind what you write. Make enough clatter to drown this boring."

"All right, sir." And the young man began to pound the keys so hard that I thought he would break something.

I was working like a beaver when the gentleman came and stood over me, watching me. Suddenly my brace slipped, and as I was pressing hard against it in a stooping position I lost my balance and fell against him. Something dropped at my feet. I picked it up and felt the soft smoothness of wax. The gentleman snatched it from me, and without looking up at him I readjusted my brace and went to work again.

It is singular how quick the reasoning process will develop results in one's brain, in less time than it takes to tell it I had made a deduction. This "gentleman" was a fake. He was made up to personate the head of the concern. He was wearing a wax nose. I had joggled him, and it had fallen off his face. Had I looked up I would have seen him with his own natural nose, but this would have betrayed the fact that I had got on to his scheme. He had purchased the letter head on which he had written me, and his two clerks were confederates.

I pretended to work all the faster after this incident, but in reality accomplished very little. I didn't dare lessen the pressure of my bit on the steel, for the diminution of noise would have betrayed me, but I bored to make the hole larger instead of deeper. I couldn't see my man's face, but he was evidently at least partly reassured. At any rate, he said nothing.

And while I worked I thought. Here was I unwittingly participating in a burglary. All other considerations were lost in my horror of having to share the punishment that these men were likely to get in the end. My whole mind was at once bent on outwitting them. The moment they suspected that I had got on to their scheme I would be forced to continue my work at the muzzle of a revolver. What should I do? Anything I should do to attract attention without would fall upon me as well as on the burglars.

I saw but one possible way of defeating their purpose. That was to finish the drilling, get at the tumblers and put them so out of gear that to get them in order again would require taking out the whole apparatus. On this course I resolved.

Having come to a decision, I was anxious to get through as soon as possible, fearing as much as they that we might be caught in the act. I therefore worked with all my vigor, the typewriter pounding the while. My employer, seeing that I was doing my best, seemed to regain any confidence he might have lost by his mishap.

"You're all right, young man. You're sure to win. Ten minutes yet to make your $5,000. I'll do better. I'll make it $10,000."

He didn't need to make it $10,000 to induce me to hurry. If any one should interrupt the proceedings I didn't see how I would escape the penitentiary. So I worked as hard as I could, but in order to inspire confidence I purposely lost the $10,000 by two minutes.

"That's all right," said the chief in response to my look of disappointment. "Two minutes don't make any difference to a man who will make as much out of your work as I will. I'll give you the whole amount. Now open the door."

"The most important work yet remains," I replied. "These tumblers are complicated affairs. If I get them out of gear I'll lose this fortune and my girl too."

"Well, be careful," he said anxiously.

Meanwhile my brain had been as busy as my hands. I saw that more depended on my convincing them of my throwing the lock out of gear. I could persuade them to give up their job without my throwing the lock out of gear it might help me in the story I would tell after all was over. I worked on for awhile, then let a piece of steel in the lock drop in its place with a click. With an exclamation and an assumed look of horror I turned toward the men.

"What is it?" cried the chief.

"I've done it."

"What?"

"I couldn't open it now if you'd give me a million. I've lost! I've lost!"

"I believe you're fooling," said the man.

He called the two "clerks" together for a consultation. I knew very well that they were discussing the feasibility of forcing me at the point of a pistol to go on. I also saw from their expressions that two of them believed my story and the third was doubtful.

Finally the two convinced the third, and the chief, approaching me, said:

"You've done the best you could, and I'm sorry you've lost your prize. If you'll come around in the morning I'll make you a handsome present. I can't do it now because all the money is in the safe. You can go now. Goodbye."

I thanked him, picked up my bag and was about to leave when the man who had doubted by sincerity approached the chief excitedly and said:

"You don't mean to say you're going to let him go out first and send cops in here after us?"

From this point they threw off all ideas of deceiving me. The leader said to me: "You stay here for ten minutes. Ten minutes—do you hear? One of us will be waiting outside, and if you come before ten minutes you're a dead man. See?"

I felt to be very much astonished, and frightened and told them I would stay as long as they wished. Then they turned out the lights and went away. I knew their ten minutes for me to stay didn't mean anything, and after I was satisfied they were off I went out myself, and in a drug store looked up the residence of the president of the company. Then I went to his house and told him the whole story, handing him my written promise of $5,000 if I opened the safe within a given time. The next day he gave me a check for the $10,000 I had been promised verbally. There was $200.00 in the safe.

It is needless to say that I got married, furnished a house plainly and had plenty left to set up in business in the hardware line, making locks, electric bells, etc., a specialty. I am now well off and the father of six children.

Short Crop of Cow Peas Prices Are Going Up!

The enormous demand for Cow Peas last year carried the price very high, and as the crop is very short and the acreage is rapidly extending, there are many indications which point to much higher prices as the sowing season approaches.

Whip-poor-will Cow Peas. The Whip-poor-will is a little earlier and makes more vine than the Whip-poor-will.

Wonderfuls, Clays and Mixed Cow Peas. For Hay, the Wonderfuls or the Clays are the best. They are the most productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum, or Kaffir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged or coming in contact with the ground.

Black Cow Peas. Black Cow Peas are a little earlier in maturing than the Clays; they are the most productive. They are the most productive. They should be planted with an occasional grain of Corn, Sorghum, or Kaffir Corn, etc., which will prevent the vines from getting damaged or coming in contact with the ground.

WISDOM FROM SAGES.

Lofly designs must close in like effects.—Browning.

Before man made us citizens great nature made us men.—Lowell.

The best of prophets of the future is the past.—Byron.

On the approach of spring I withdraw without reluctance from the noisy and extensive scene of crowds without company and dissipation without pleasure.—Edward Gibbon.

That endless book, the newspaper, is our national glory.—Henry Ward Beecher.

The necessities of things are sterner stuff than the hopes of men.—Dissell.

No nation can be destroyed while it possesses a good home life.—J. G. Holland.

GOOD THOUGHTS.

Let us have that to our praise Good God not only reckons The moments when we tread his ways.

But when the spirit beckons, That some slight good is also wrought.

Beyond self satisfaction, When we are simply good in thought, How'er we fall in action.—Lowell.

PLEA FOR WEALTH.

Another misconception is that the great fortunes of the country are the result of high finance. With very rare exceptions rich men and rich corporations have become so by the same means as the farmers of the west have become rich. They have grown rich through the development of the resources of the country. The men who are rich now are the optimists who borrowed money and had the courage and foresight to hold these resources until their value had been developed. Carnegie was the greatest of industrial optimists. When others were timid and hesitating he borrowed all he could to build mills and railroads. When the country entered on the floodtide of prosperity Carnegie was the master of the iron and steel industry.—Paul D. Cravath.

EDITED BY THE PUBLIC.

But it is the reader who really edits the newspaper. Every time he lays down a coin he is shaping the direction of journalism. Just as when he opens the faucet he is accelerating the steam pump at the reservoir. The sum which the individual pays for any commodity, whether a newspaper or a linen collar, is really a vote on the style of that article which he desires to have produced. In the selection of this newspaper the everyday reader is directing journalism in its sense of proportion, its approach to the news of the world, whether by direct or differential route, in its variety and crispness, and, above all else, in its honesty.—Robert Lincoln O'Brien.

ATHLETIC GIRLS.

The mental and physical superiority of the American woman, which seems to be conceded by generally, is due in a great measure to her training in athletics. Athletic training is just as important to girls as to boys. But experience has proved that the same sort of games are not beneficial to the two sexes. Outdoor training in the country is, of course, best of all. But thousands of poor children in the cities never get to the country, so we have to bring outdoors to them. Folk dancing is ideal exercise for girls. It gives them the right carriage, develops their chests and prevents tuberculosis. It has been proved that improved physical health means increased mental efficiency. The girl who wants to be a brilliant woman should first become a healthy woman.—Mrs. James Speyer.

FOR CHEAPER DIVORCE.

Granted that the law recognizes certain causes as permitting absolute divorce, then the process of obtaining such a divorce should be made as simple as possible. It should, in effect, be automatic. The intervention of lawyers, the prolonged suits, the noxious publicity, should all be avoided. The only thing necessary should be that the innocent party produce proof of the other's guilt before a civil officer, presumably a judge; then, without the expenditure of a cent, the divorce should be declared.—Rev. John S. Allen.

LEGEND OF THE EASTER LILY

No flower has been more honored in song or story than the imperial lily. Its purity and its stately bearing have caused it to be chosen as the symbol of divinity and the badge of kings.

Although in this country we understand by the word lily the lily of the valley, the stately calyx or the wonderful heraldic or Easter lily, these are only three varieties of a very great family, members of which are found in all quarters of the earth. Everywhere the lily has been honored and held a sacred flower, whether by the banks of the storied Nile or Ganges, where, as the lotus, it received honors little short of those accorded to deity, or in heathen Greece, where it was consecrated to Juno, the spotless yet imperious queen of Olympus or later in Christian countries, where the flower was dedicated to the Virgin Mary. No great artist when he painted the Holy Mother ever forgot to place near her the flower that was the symbol of her heavenly rank. It is also in art the symbol of saints, martyrs and angels.

The Easter lily is a native of the east. Those now cultivated in Bermuda and popularly known as the Bermuda lily were originally imported there from Japan for commercial purposes. The lily played an important part in Chinese history 1,000 years ago. It happened that the Flowery Kingdom was ruled by the Emperor Chow, a man whose universal fears and hatred No one could depend on his favor, and at last his best friend, the prime minister, Li Chung, began to tremble for his life.

Knowing well the bloodthirsty nature of the emperor, Li Chung devised a clever scheme to escape from his power.

One day when he fancied that the emperor was in a favorable mood he broached the plan. It was that 100 of the strongest young men and 100 of the most beautiful maidens should be sent with him on board ship to an island in the sea which he said had been revealed to him in a dream by the gods. There, for the welfare of China (and its conditions could not have been much worse), these people were to be sacrificed to the deities for the benefit of their native country. There was a sanguinary touch about the plan that particularly recommended it to the bloodthirsty mind of wicked old Chow, and he immediately gave cheerful assent to the project. Even showed his interest by throwing in a royal prince and princess.

The ship in which Li Chung and the hundred young men and maidens sailed was the very finest that China afforded. The larder was filled with delicacies, and every provision was made that the victims should be kept in first class condition until the time for the sacrifice. The best tomtom musicians in the kingdom were loaned for the voyage to charm the ears of the passengers with sweet sounds. But in vain the artists tried their most pleasing compositions; nobody would sing or dance, while the prevalence of red eyes indicated that a good deal of weeping was going on.

When they were far from China, however, Li Chung took the passengers into his confidence. He had not intended to kill them at all; instead they were going to the most beautiful island in the world, where they would settle and where they would live happily ever "forward, far from the power of the wicked Chow.

This island was Japan, and here they did settle. But they had brought with them great quantities of lily bulbs as food. Nobody had been able to eat much on shipboard, and quantities of these bulbs were left over. They were planted, and in the balmy climate of the Flowery Kingdom they attained a beauty unknown in China.

Years later some Europeans, discovering the beauty of this flower, imported it into their own countries and called it the Lillium longiflorum. But as an American named Harris was practically the first to discover the flower and make it popular in two continents, it is now called the Lillium harrisii.

Where the Lilies Grow.

The Bermuda, where the beautiful Easter flowers grow, are a group of islands about 700 miles from New York and about 500 miles almost due east of Cape Hatteras, on the Carolina coast. The group is almost fifteen miles long, averaging two and one-half miles in width, and comprises in all about 365 islands, some of them being very small and insignificant and most of them being of coral formation. Only five of the islands are inhabited.

What Knew Her From It.

"Yes, frequently."
"What has kept you from doing so?"
"The managers, the mean things!"
—Chicago Record-Herald.

Most disgusting skin eruptions, acne, pimples, etc., are due to impure blood. Bardant Blood Bitters is a cleansing blood tonic. Makes you clear-eyed, clear-brained, clear-skinned.

COST OF ARMED PEACE.

We suffer from war and its horrors, but almost more from the cost of armed peace. Napoleon in the height of his power spent $8,000,000 a year on war. France today in peace spends $12,000,000. Happily there is a protest not only from the churches as never before, but from the labor unions and Socialists, spurred on by self interest. This may lead to the practical abolition of war.—President Schurman of Cornell.

JAPANESE WAR SCARE.

This is a curious word. This world is full of paradox and irony. Singular and mysterious currents move it. Some of you may have heard occasional whispers of the awful war which the United States and Japan are about to fight, or, rather, frenzied shrieks that such a war is imminent. It is absurd, nonsensical and silly, of course, but it is also interesting, as a puzzle and a mystery always are. You have in New York, I believe, a Society for Psychical Research which investigates uncanny things. It would do the world a great service if it would unravel the mystery of this irrational yet persistent war talk, dispel this nightmare, exorcise this hobgoblin, lay this tiresome spook.—Baron Uchida.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

That the earth goes round the sun is nothing against its supremacy of central status. The fire exists for the meat, though the spit revolves and not the fire.

It is doubtful whether satisfaction can come as the sequel of any but an involuntary belief. Oh, what a tangled web we weave When first we practice to deceive!

Plants have movement without will; animals have the will to live; human beings have the will to live divinely.

Even the popular evolution theory is but a juggling with time. You do not get rid of creation by snuffing the beginning back to a billion years last Tuesday.—Israel Zangwill.

LAW FOR NATIONS.

When we see a United States senator, a supreme court judge, a distinguished college professor all declaring that morality is the law for individuals, but force must be the law for nations, it is obvious that in these high places whence public opinion derives its inspiration we need a new ethical ideal that will make morality the law for nations no less than for individuals. It does no good to set up an international judicial tribunal when its constituent members fail to see that aggression cannot be recognized as having a place in the conception of justice.—Alfred W. Martin.

THE MOTHERLAND.

Since God our folks of six or seven Gave strength with which no king may strive,
Since half the sweetness under heaven
He gave to people under five,

We little knew what we were giving,
Methinks, when we gave play for strife
And for the land where we are living,
The country where we played at life.

O'er wooden trees and toy church steeple
Burns faintly each man's morning star,
O motherland whose laughing people
The dearest of all people are!

To Death some fragment of thy stories
The beggar brings, and to thy song
Behind the dying emperor's glories
He old tin soldiers tramp along.
—Henry de Vere Stackpoole.

ALL PROSPEROUS.

Permanently the welfare of one community will depend upon the welfare of other communities, and so it is among the groups of states. When you make one community prosperous you benefit the communities with which it does business. It is exactly the same among individuals. So it is among nations. It is a help to the United States to have every other country in the western hemisphere a prosperous country.—Theodore Roosevelt.

FREEDOM.

Freedom can never be given. It must be purchased.—Booker T. Washington.

A Word of Holiday Caution.
Little Grace—I don't think my new doll is quite as nice as your new doll.
Little Ethel—Well, I don't think you ought to say much about it, 'cause it might hurt Santa Claus' feelings.
—Brooklyn Life.

ALWAYS WITH US.

A king, a pope and a kaiser
And a queen—most fair was she—Went sailing, sailing, sailing,
Over a sunny sea.
And amid them sat a beggar,
A churl of low degree,
And they all went sailing, sailing,
Over the sunny sea.

And the king said to the kaiser
And his comrade fair and free,
"Let us turn adrift this beggar,
This churl of low degree,
For he taints the balmy odors
That blow to you and me
As we travel, sailing, sailing,
Over the sunny sea."

"The ship is mine," said the beggar.
That churl of low degree;
"And we are all of us sailing,
sailing,
To the grave, o'er the sunny sea."
And you may not, and you cannot,
Get rid of mine or me;
No, not for your crowns and scepters—
My name is Death!" quoth he.
—C. Mackay.

VALUES SHOULD GROW.

One of the troubles in connection with this whole conservation movement is that it is difficult to state the problem in phrases which shall not seem to be platitudes. Our rivers, forests, the soil of our farms, should be of more value to the next generation because we have got the use out of them for our generation. To do that we have to have co-operation between the government and the individual business man.—Theodore Roosevelt.

WISDOM OF WOMEN.

It seems to me that beauty is part of the finished language by which goodness speaks.—George Eliot.

The real tragedy of life begins when the honeymoon is over, because the exploration of the soul is the work of a lifetime.—Violet Treadwell.

What to one man is the virtue which he has sunk below the possibility of aspiring to is to another the backsliding by which he forfeits his spiritual crown.—George Eliot.

A true friendship may turn into passion, but a passion rarely turns into friendship.—Lucas Cleve.

WAR PREPARATIONS.

I am hostile to the swollen expenditures for remote and improbable war. No doctrine has had or will have from me more steadfast hostility than that which would impose upon our industrial democracy the burdens of premature and war-provoking preparations for war. The United States ought to be at the very forefront in moral appeal to world powers to strike from their shoulders the burdens and dangers of excessive military and naval expenditure.—Edward M. Shepard.

DEFENDING THE GUILTY.

Instead of there being anything discreditable in undertaking the defense of a guilty man it is a high public duty that such a man should be defended. The general impression to the contrary rests on a misconception of our system of criminal jurisprudence. Our criminal procedure is inherited from England. It is litigious in character. In other words, a criminal trial with us is a contest between the state and the United States on the one hand and the defendant on the other. Thus it is primarily a controversy rather than an investigation.—George Gordon Battle.

APHORISMS.

Pride breakfasted with Plenty, dined with Poverty and supped with Infamy.

If you will not hear Reason she will rap your knuckles.

No power, how great soever, can force men to change their opinions.

Experience keeps a dear school, but fools will learn in no other.

In the affairs of this world men are saved not by faith, but by the want of it.

A life of leisure and of laziness are two things.—Maeterlinck.

An Afterthought.
Nervous and inexperienced. Host rising hurriedly at the conclusion of a song—Ladies and gentlemen, before he started to sing Mr. Haw-nal asked me to apologize for his—er—voice, but I—er I omitted to do so—er—so I—er apologize now.—London M. A. P.

Teeth Chatter.
The Gold Tooth—Say, you'll be pulled if you keep on disturbing the peace.

The Troublesome Mole—Hooray! I'm just aching to get out of here, you know.—Puck.

BLESSING OF WORK.

We cannot hail Utopia on by force;
But better, almost, be at work in it.
Than in a brute inaction browne and sleep.
No man is born into the world whose work is not born with him; there is always work
And tools to work withal, for those who will;
And blessed are the horny hands of toil;
The busy world aboves angrily aside
The man who stands with arms akimbo set Until occasion tells him what to do.
And he who waits to have his task marked out Shall die and leave his errand unfulfilled.
—Lowell.

OUR EXPECTATIONS.

We take a great deal for granted in this world and expect that everything, as a matter of course, ought to fit into our humors, wishes and wants. It is often only when danger threatens that we awake to the discovery that the guiding reins are held by One whom we had well nigh forgotten in our careless ease.—Mrs. Gatty.

SELF SACRIFICE.

Let us remember that there can be little or no charity without some self sacrifice. Self love is the enemy of benevolence. If there were more self denial there would be more love. Seneca says: "Take two words from the lexicon and there will be perfect concord among men and no more war. These words are mine and thine." Kindness and generosity to others generally involve some self restraint on our part. You have to put yourself to some inconvenience to direct an inquirer to the street he is looking for or to accommodate him to a seat beside you in the car or in the church. But life is made up of these amenities and acts of courtesy and kindness.—Cardinal Gibbons.

ANCIENT WISDOM.

No bad man is ever happy. Few tyrants die a bloodless death.

Let what you basely dare be ever brief.

The loss of money is deplored with genuine tears.

No one ever reached the climax of vice at one step.

Had men but foresight, thou, Fortune, wouldst have no divinity.

The character of bad men is for the most part feeble and variable.—Juvenal.

CHURCH AND LABOR.

Instead of ridiculing the church for sending 25,000 missionaries and expending $25,000,000 for the mental and moral education of humanity, it seems to me that labor should bid it godspeed. And when labor, by causing safety appliances to be installed in industrial works by legislation, saves the lives of thousands, then I say, instead of fault being found with labor, we as churchmen should bid labor godspeed. Moreover, we should not become interested in the children of Africa merely, but also in the children of the whole world. The commercial world, the industrial world, the political world, all these are subject to redemption. Some people regard this old world as a sinking ship, from which only a few must be rescued, while the truth is that all must be rescued—humanity in its entirety.—Rev. Charles Stelala.

FLOWERS.

Have you seen but a bright lily grow
Before rude hands have touched it?
Have you marked but the fall of the snow
Before the soil hath smother'd it?
—Ben Jonson.

So fair, so sweet, withal so sensitive,
Would that the little flowers
Might be born to live Conscious of half the pleasure which they give.
—William Wordsworth.

A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May.
Although it fall and die that night;
It was the plant and flower of light.
In small proportions we just beauties see.
And, in short measure, life may perfect be.
—Ben Jonson.

This Unromantic Age.
"It shoddy do look," said Miss Miami Brown sadly, "like dar war no no romance dese days."
"What's de trouble?" asked Erasmus Pinkley.

"I takes notice dat when you takes a woman to a Christmas dinner de 'dear' 'play' no interest in whether dey's wine is be mistletoe in de parlor, but keeps hither 'round' to de 'how 'bout de turkey an' fixin' de de dinner table.'"

The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith.

CHAPTER XVII.
THE ROBBACK.

IT was on this same Monday morning, day of preparations for political battles, that Mr. Richard Gantry, answering a telephone call on the long distance line, hastily closed his desk and left his office to make his way by quiet side streets to the Railway Club garage. Kittredge's car was in its place over one of the pits, and the chauffeur was polishing the brass.

"Get her in commission in about three shakes of a dead lamb's tail," Habersht, said the traffic manager briefly. "I've got to go somewhere in a hurry. Do you want an order from your boss?"

The chauffeur shook his head. "No; I guess it's all right, if you say so, Mr. Gantry," he replied. And a little later he had taken on his supply of gasoline and the motor was whirling merrily under the hood.

"Where to?" he asked when Gantry climbed to the mechanician's seat beside him.

"Out of town to the north by the quietest streets you can find. Then take the Quarry road."

We are due at Cliffcrest Inn just about fifteen minutes sooner than we can get there."

No more than a quarter of an hour was consumed before the car had wound its way to the summit of the mesa and was wheeling to a halt before the entrance of a small summer resort hotel perched among the pines at the edge of the canyon cliff. There were no guests on the hotel veranda, and Gantry knew that the Inn's season had closed two weeks earlier. Yet he sprang from the car and went in as if he expected to find the place open and occupied.

It was open, and in the cozy guest's writing room at one of the tables drawn up before a cheerful wood fire sat the vice president of the Transcontinental seemingly in solitary state. But in the room beyond a battery of telegraph instruments clicked busily, and a close observer would have remarked that the small table before the fire was fitted with a row of electric call buttons.

Cliffcrest Inn, deserted of guests, had been transformed into the hidden headquarters in the field of the commander in chief.

"Well!" said the great man, looking up quickly when Gantry entered. "You took your time about getting here. Whose car is that?"

"It is Kittredge's," said the traffic man.

"Better tell him to get one that will make time," was the impatient comment. Then: "Sit down and bring the situation up to date, and talk fast. Time is precious today."

Gantry drew up a chair and gave a hasty resume of the political situation. Everything had been done that could be done, and so far as the traffic manager knew the railroad forces were ready to meet the issue at the polls. At one point, and only one, the defenses were weak. "It's that Gentry deal," he explained. "It has been rather awkwardly handled, and if Bryan Blount should happen to stumble upon it any time during the day I shouldn't like to answer for the consequences."

"You ought to have made sure by getting him safely out of the way," was the rasping comment of the great man. "You are just common bunglers—you and Kittredge—both of you."

Gantry's gesture was of humorous despair.

There's a limit, Mr. McVickar. We couldn't very well garrote him and carry him off to a dungeon. We have tried every way we could to muzzle him. So far as I know, he hasn't been doing anything incendiary since you were here last week, but I had to put one across on him about the equalizing of the freight rates."

"What did you do?" snapped the vice president.

"I mailed him what purported to be a carbon copy of the legal notice of a reduction. He doesn't know yet that he has the only copy—that the notice hasn't been posted in our stations, as the law directs. I'm hoping that he won't find it out until after tomorrow, when it won't make any special difference."

Mr. McVickar frowned again.

"Your expedients have all been pretty crude, Gantry. You seem to persistently forget that you are dealing with a mighty sharp, shrewd young lawyer; that the chances are ten to one that young Blount discovered your pious fraud at once. Go back to the city and think up some scheme that will keep him busy today, too busy to smell out the facts in the Gentry matter."

Gantry got up and stood with his back to the fire.

"I'm all in, Mr. McVickar, and that's the humiliating fact. There isn't another idea left in me," he confessed despairingly. "Can't you help us out a little, Mr. McVickar?"

Being thus put face to face with the inventive test, the vice president did not hesitate a moment.

"Of course," he grated, "if I have to do your thinking for you. Go back and get into communication with Gentry. Tell him the time has come to play the same game on young Blount that he played four years ago on Ketheredge, the speaker of the house. He'll understand."

But now Gantry was shaking his head dubiously. "I'll do what you say and do it quickly. But—"

Mr. McVickar, I'm afraid of Gentry. If Blount should happen to go at him just right there might be consequences of another sort. Gentry is pretty sore as it is."

"Never mind about the consequences. Go and do as I tell you to. Then go around to the telephone exchange and tell the manager that I want a special operator—a man if he's got one—put on this long distance wire; that you want the connection broken between the capital and David Blount's country house and that my wire is to be kept open to you and to Kittredge all day. Has Kittredge got his line men out guarding the telegraph wires up here?"

"Yes; all the way out from the cut-in at Grand canyon."

"All right. That's all. Now make that boy of yours burn the road getting back."

It was only a little after 9 o'clock when this conference was held in the guest deserted mountain resort house at the head of Shonoho canyon. At 11 o'clock Blount, who was dictating to three stenographers in succession in his offices in the Temple court, had a caller.

"It's that fellow Gentry," said Collins, who had gone to answer the ante-room bell. "He says he's got to see you whether you want to see him or not."

"Send him in," said Blount briefly. And a moment later the ex-bad man of the mining camps entered and carefully closed the door behind him.

"Well, what is it?" queried Blount snappishly when Gentry drew up a chair and sat down.

"I'll tell you first what it ain't," said the word boss suddenly. "I ain't here to beg for no rakesoff. I've been given the double cross, and I'm sore."

Blount's smile was contemptuous. "You doubtless got what was coming to you," he said coolly. "But go on and tell it out and don't waste time. This is another of my busy days."

"I want to get hold of a newspaper man," said Gentry; "that's what I want. If they're going to throw me down I'll squeal. It ain't too late yet. Money talks with me every time. Your boss, McVickar, thought he had me cooped up in a barrel, but the other side saw his bid and raised it."

"What other side?" queried Blount.

"There ain't but one other side in this state when your daddy gets into the ring and pulls off his coat," said the bribe taker, with an evil leer. "You ain't been fighting round here a couple of months without finding that out?"

"Go on," was the terse command.

"As I was a-saying, money talks, and right now, when everything is ready to pull off, Sheehan turns up and says the barrel's run dry. There ain't nothing left in it for me. By cripes, I'll show him!"

Blount went into a reflective trance with half closed eyes. Sheehan was the machine organizer for the capital—the "pay boss," some called him. David Blount's son saw the door to a chamber of hidden facts slowly opening before him. For some reason Gentry, the twice bought and sold, had been dropped, and his actuating motive now was plain revenge.

"Tell it out and tell it straight, Gentry," he resumed at the end of the hesitant pause.

"It's in the registration lists in four wards of this town. They've been cooked up two to one. I've got the lists of the crooked names right here in my pocket. Sheehan knows, the committee of six knows, and the senator knows. But I'm the man that can swing in them extra votes, and more than that, by gabs, I'm the only man: When I told Sheehan that a little while ago he invited me to go to h—l, I'll show him."

Blount's brain was in a whirl, and his heart was pounding like that of a man who finds himself looking over the verge of a bottomless chasm.

"What is it that you want to do, Gentry?" he asked when he could control his voice sufficiently.

"I want to give Sheehan and his machine crowd what's coming to 'em."

"Will you make affidavits to the fact of the false registration?"

"I'll do anything to get square with that crowd of throw-backs!"

"Your affidavit isn't much better than your unsupported word," said Blount coldly. "Can you get any one else to swear to the facts with you?"

"Sure I can. I can get a half dozen of the boys in my own gang that'll do it."

It was up to Blount fairly and squarely to say the word which would precipitate the greatest election scandal that had ever disturbed the peace of the Sagebrush State, and the central figure around which the story of corruption and bribery would center would be his father! For five long minutes he sat in grim silence, frowning at the miserable traitor, who was shifting uneasily in his chair under the cold glare of the hereditary Blount eyes. But when all was over the traitor had gained his point.

"Go to it," said Blount sharply. "Swear out your own affidavits and get as many more as you can to back it up. Bring the papers here to me between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon. That's all! Now go before I am tempted to throw you out neck and heels. If somebody doesn't kill you for this piece of treachery you will be playing in big luck."

When Gentry was gone Blount put on his hat and went straight to the editorial room of the Daily Gentry.

Blount, the thin faced, long haired editor, was humped in his chair over his desk busy penciling copy like a man running a race against time.

"In just a minute," he said when Blount stood beside him. And then, sticking the copy on the hook. "Now I'm with you."

Blount had marked the unusual daytime activities in the newspaper office, and had instantly put two and two together.

"You're at work pretty early for a morning paper force, aren't you, Blenkinsop?" he asked.

"You bet we are!" was the quick reply.

"What is the matter?" queried Blount.

"Haven't you heard?" said the editor. "Somebody—heaven only knows who—has been gathering up a lot of false registration evidence involving half a dozen of the principal towns in the state. The stuff came to us by a sort of underground route, but it's reliable all right. It's a corker. There'll be 10,000 repeaters challenged in this state at the polls tomorrow, and no man living can tell what the outcome will be."

Blount saw a great light, which suddenly grew to clarifying brightness. "Whom does the scandal involve, Blenkinsop?" he asked quietly.

At this the long haired editor grew curiously embarrassed. "You're with me, Blount, that I know. But you are also your father's son. There are only one machine and one boss in the Sagebrush State."

Blount nodded dumbly. Then, "When will you go to press with the first edition of the paper?"

"At 3 a. m. sharp," was the reply.

Blount turned to go. "I may have another half column or so for you before that time," he said, "but you needn't hold the forms open for me. I'll call you over the phone if I have anything to say."

Once in the street, Blount went straight to the bank where he had rented the safety box. Five minutes in the privacy of the vault anteroom, with the unlocked box before him, confirmed his suspicions. The packet which he had carefully secured, was made up of blank papers folded to appear like the originals, and it became convincingly evident that his office safe had not been dynamited for nothing.

The matter which would appear under faring scare heads the next morning would be the evidence which he himself had collected, carefully edited out all that might incriminate anybody but the machine and the machine's boss—his father.

With a muttered threat of vengeance directed at his traitorous office force, Blount went slowly back to the Temple court and sat down to wait for Gentry's return, giving Collins orders to deny him to everybody else.

Once again in the history of the race it had become the duty of a son to betray a father. Blount saw his way lying clearly defined before him. He must take the affidavits which Gentry would bring and lay them before Judge Hemingway, the one man in the capital, if not in the entire state, who would have the courage of his convictions and the high sense of duty to act, and act promptly.

Blount saw the dreadful consequences marauding themselves in readiness. His father would be implicated beyond any possibility of hope of exculpation, and the people of the state—stirred as they would be by the widespread story of fraud which he himself had gathered—would show little mercy to the chief instigator of the fraud.

During the last half hour of waiting Blount could no longer sit still, and he was pacing the floor of the private office, ten steps and a turn, monotonously, when Gentry was ushered in.

"I've got 'em, a full dozen of 'em!" growled the bribe taker, throwing a thick packet of papers on Blount's desk. "Now, then, what do I get out of it?"

Blount stopped short and whirled as if the demand had been a blow.

"You'll get just what any other criminal gets when he turns state's evidence," he rasped. "You won't be prosecuted and sent to the penitentiary, as you deserve to. Now get out of here, and don't let me have to tell you twice!"

Gentry made a move as if he would repossess himself of the packet of affidavits, but Blount came between with the danger signals flashing in his eyes.

"No, you don't!" he said sharply. "I told you to go—do it!" And, as once before, the bribe taker went out muttering curses.

When the corridor door had closed behind the traitor Blount put the affidavits in his pocket and passed out quickly through the anteroom.

"I don't know when I shall be back," he said to Collins, with a hand on the door of egress. "Has any one called since noon?"

"No. Some lady sent a boy up to ask for you, but I sent word that you were not in, as you told me to."

Even realized that he had unthinkingly barred Patricia out with all the others. And now she would drive to Watrache Hall without him, and the terrible thing that must be done must be done before he should see her face again.

DR. GEORGE TRUITT.

Former Salisbury Expires After Long Illness At Sykesville.

Dr. George W. Truitt, for many years a resident of this city, died Tuesday at Sykesville. Dr. Truitt died of paralysis after two years of suffering.

Deceased was a son of the late Rufus E. Truitt and for several years was at the head of the business here of R. K. Truitt and Sons. He afterwards went to Baltimore and opened a drug store at Roland Park. Dr. Truitt was prominent in politics in Baltimore County and represented that county in the House of Delegates in 1900. He was a member of the House of Delegates from Wicomico County for one term. He was for many years Deputy Insurance Commissioner with headquarters in Baltimore, serving under the late J. Freeman Basin. Congressman Talbot and Lloyd Wilkins.

Dr. Truitt is survived by a widow, who was Miss Dorsey, of Howard County. He is also survived by two brothers, Mr. James T. Truitt, former Clerk of the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Dr. O. R. Truitt, Health Officer, and two sisters, Mrs. A. B. Collins and Miss Laura Truitt. Dr. Truitt was extremely popular both here and in Baltimore County as well as Baltimore City. He was a genial, pleasant man who made friends by the score and who was successful in politics as well as business. His many friends heard of his death with deep regret. Mr. James T. Truitt went to Baltimore on Wednesday morning.

Improvements At Salisbury National Bank.

The improvements which have been going on at the Salisbury National Bank, this city for some weeks are now about finished. The interior of the bank has been much beautified by the improvements made. The working space has been enlarged the desks rearranged and the whole interior changed for the better.

In the front part of the lobby on the left as you enter, the front doors have been enclosed by continuing the cabinet work in a graceful curve which makes a private office for assistant cashier, W. S. Gordy, Jr., and a consulting room for patrons of the bank who wish to talk privately with the assistant cashier. The cabinet network and leaded glass partition are very handsome. Mr. Gordy's office is finished and furnished in mahogany.

Cashier John H. White still has his desk and headquarters in the directors room in the rear of the building. The main working room has been improved in several ways and the vault is being furnished with up to date steel filing cabinets. The heavy iron doors in front have been replaced with a pair of light weight ornamental iron doors and the entire appearance of the bank has been much improved.

RURAL CARRIERS

To Receive More Pay—$4,000,000 To Be Distributed Among Them.

The 40,000 rural free delivery carriers in the United States are to receive salary increases as a result of a decision reached by Postmaster General Hitchcock. The order will provide for the disbursement during the current fiscal year of $4,000,000, which will mean an increase of $100 over the present salary of $900 for all carriers on standard routes, with proportionate increases on the shorter routes.

Congress provided last session for the expenditure of this extra $4,000,000, but left it to the discretion of the Postmaster General as to how much of it should be expended. Mr. Hitchcock decided to authorize the expenditure of the full amount. His desire to compensate the carriers for any additional burden which may be placed on them if the parcel post system has been recommended for rural routes is approved by Congress, was the important consideration, Mr. Hitchcock declared, which led him to make the authorization.

"Now that the men are to receive such generous increase in pay," he said, "I feel that Congress should lose no time in authorizing the carrying of parcels on rural routes. A parcel post system on rural routes can be conducted without any extra expense to the government other than the $4,000,000 salary increase, which, in my judgment, would be more than offset by the parcel post revenue."

During the current year the rural service will cost the government $40,000,000, the estimated loss being about $35,000,000. The Postmaster General expressed the belief that the parcel post system, under proper management, would insure the maintenance and proper extension of the rural free delivery service as a self-supporting branch of the postal service.

The rural delivery system was started fifteen years ago with eighty three carriers, who were paid only $200 a year. On July the last there were 41,562 carriers, their aggregate salaries being $35,798,000.

$1,000,000 MORE FOR

Roads—Legislature May Convene To Legalize Donations Of Gen. Du Pont.

Governor Pennell announced Tuesday afternoon that if Gen. T. Coleman du Pont shall decide to build two spurs in Sussex county to the boulevard and present them to the State he will call an extra session of the Legislature. This will be necessary in order to amend further the general incorporation law so that a second boulevard can be built. Under the present law the donor can build but one road through Sussex county. As the residents in both the eastern and western parts of the county want the road, General du Pont has decided to construct the spurs.

This change will increase the cost from $2,000,000 to $3,000,000. It is believed that the special session will be held next month or early in September.

A USEFUL MEETING

Of Pomona Grange At Fair Grounds Thursday—Hours Well Spent.

The Wicomico County Pomona Grange met in open session at the Wicomico Fair Grounds, Thursday July 13th. An elaborate dinner was prepared by the ladies and served in the boarding tent at the Fair Grounds and was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Delegates from the five subordinate Granges were present and a very helpful and instructive meeting was held. The meeting was called to order at 1.40 P. M. by the master, Mr. Theodore S. Hearn. Mr. Hearn, E. T. Hearn, of Salisbury Grange, was elected Secretary, that office being vacant.

Dr. Stabler, of Montgomery County, and lecturer of the State Grange gave an instructive talk on three topics: 1st, Extension Agricultural Education in our School; 2nd, Stamping out the Immorality and Gambling in our midst; 3rd, What can be Done for the Public Health. The last subject is deserving of special mention and if every one could become thoroughly familiar with the subject as Dr. Stabler presented it, it is possible that great good would be accomplished.

The Germ Theory and Spreading the Diseases.

Dr. Stabler said in substance: "Typhoid fever is one of the great plagues of our State. This disease is caused by a minute plant, a germ, that enters the system either through food or drink. The germ propagates itself very rapidly where heat and moisture are found, though the germ cannot stand excessive heat. If heated to 160 degrees F. it perishes. It can stand any amount of cold, even the effects of liquid air at a temperature of perhaps 350 degrees below zero. The typhoid germ when taken into the stomach, does not reproduce itself on account of the acid in the stomach but down in the intestines it finds fertile soil and reproduces very rapidly and gives off a poison into the system that sickens. This is typhoid fever. These germs permeate every part of the body, and the excrement both solid and liquid are teeming with myriads of germs. These germs are scattered by wind and carried by running water. If the excrement passes through sewers into rivers or ponds for miles and miles. Or if left on the open ground the germs are carried by flies into kitchen, pantry, dining room and every other accessible place to the food and in milk and thence into the stomach of the other victims.

Care Of The Case.

The excrement, both liquid and solid, from an affected individual should be disinfected by spraying with a solution of a teaspoonful of formaldehyde in a pint of water. It should then be put into a hole dug in the ground two or three feet deep and covered immediately with air slacked lime which destroys the germ. The patient, of course, should be isolated from others and none but attendants allowed in the room.

How Flies Breed.

Flies breed in fresh manure and other refuse. The period of incubation is from eight to ten days. If air slacked lime is placed on manure of decaying matter every day, as it accumulates, flies cannot breed. If stable and garbage heaps are cleaned up once or twice a week and carried to the open field, flies do not have a chance to breed for they have not been allowed the full period of incubation. Where it is impractical to remove garbage and manure once a week it should be thoroughly covered with air slacked lime. From the flies we already have and will continue to have in spite of every precaution screens can protect us but inadequately. They are bound to find a way through the best of screens. A dish of formaldehyde, one spoonful of formaldehyde to a pint of water placed in a room attracts the flies and they drink and die.

After Dr. Stabler's speech of which the above extracts bear little resemblance to the original, Mr. Locates, of Delmar, and others, spoke briefly and the meeting adjourned to meet at Hebbron on the fourth Thursday in October. Then the ladies again invited the guests to the feast board.

We hope that every one present carried some useful thoughts and a refreshed mind away with him.

$100,000,000. FOR

Bad Roads Mean Loss Annually of $250,000,000 in Money, Besides Other Things.

Declaring that good roads would save the American people $250,000,000 annually while bad roads impose such a "mud tax" every year upon the people who haul their products to market over poor country highways, Senator Claude A. Swanson, of Virginia, delivered a strong speech in the Senate in advocacy of his bill for federal appropriations for the improvement of public roads.

The Swanson bill provides that the Government appropriate $30,000,000 annually for the next five years for improving the post roads and rural free delivery routes used by the Government. The appropriation is limited to post roads and rural free delivery routes to remove all constitutional objections that might possibly be urged.

This was Senator Swanson's maiden speech in the Senate and he was accorded close attention by his colleagues on both sides, who were anxious to hear him despite the sweltering heat.

Most Important He Says.

"There is no question before the American people today," declared Senator Swanson, "more important than the improvement of the public roads and highways."

We have the poorest public roads and highways of any civilized nation. Of the 3,155,000 miles of public roads in the United States, less than 200,000 miles are macadamized and improved with hard surfacing. More than nine-tenths of the public highways of the United States during rainy seasons are almost impassable. No other enlightened people are cursed with such a wretched condition."

Senator Swanson said neglect in this respect had been one of the greatest misfortunes that had afflicted Americans as a people. The remedy should be applied as quickly as possible. The internal commerce of the United States, he said, exceeded the international commerce of the entire world, and it was estimated that 90 per cent. of the internal commerce must be handled over the public roads. The average haul was 9.4 miles, the average cost of hauling these products 23 cents per ton mile.

Gives Comparisons in Cost.

"The cost of hauling per mile over the splendid roads of France," continued Mr. Swanson, "is on an average of 7 cents per ton mile. The average cost in England and Germany is about 11 cents per ton mile. If the more important and main lines of our public roads system were as improved as those of France, Germany and England our products could be hauled over our entire system of roads at a cost of 12 cents per ton mile. This would result in an annual saving in this item of hauling alone to the people of the United States of more than $250,000,000."

"This," said Senator Swanson, is the annual "mud tax" paid each year by the people of the United States in hauling their products over poor country roads. This loss, if wisely and properly expended, would in 30 years macadamize and furnish hard surfacing to all the public roads in the United States."

Senator Swanson's bill provides that the States or local authorities shall furnish an amount equal to that supplied by the Federal Government. It was the system which had been productive of best results abroad.

The Swanson bill provides that this $30,000,000 be divided among the States according to population, excluding in the estimate cities which have a population in excess of 150,000. He has endeavored in his bill to provide efficient Federal aid without interfering with the authority of the States in the control of their highways.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Proceedings Of The Board At Last Tuesday's Session.

Commissioner Ward and Engineer Clark were authorized to look after certain road work in Dennis District during the illness of Commissioner Truitt.

John E. Freesty was granted a pension of $2 per month, dating from July 1st.

The following tax ditch reports were ratified: One in Willards District, petitioned for by W. H. Jackson and others; one in Trappe District, petitioned for by Nelson Smith and others.

Reports on roads were ratified as follows: J. M. Jones, B. M. Clark and A. W. Gordy, providing for a short piece to connect the Hebron Upper Ferry road with the re-located Quantico road; R. G. Robertson, J. H. Twilley and Rufus E. Mills, extending road from Hornetown Mills to Delaware line.

DEATH OF COMMISSIONER

Wesley D. Truitt Of Typhoid Fever At Willards—Good Public Official.

The many friends of County Commissioner Wesley D. Truitt, of Willards, Md., were shocked to learn of his death which occurred at two o'clock Friday morning, of this week.

Mr. Truitt had been ill with typhoid fever for about three weeks, and while it was known that he was dangerously ill, his many friends hoped he would be able to get through all right.

Mr. Truitt was the son of the late Wesley Truitt, a prosperous farmer, of near Willards. He was 35 years of age and leaves a widow and three children, fifteen, five and two years old. His widow was Miss Ada Ennis and is the daughter of Mr. James M. W. Ennis, of Willards.

Mr. Truitt, four years ago, was elected a member of the Board of County Commissioners, a position he held at the time of his death.

In the death of Mr. Truitt, this County loses one of its most efficient and respected officials. By his good judgment, progressive spirit and faithful attention to his duties as Commissioner, Mr. Truitt had won the friendship, respect and confidence of all who had come in contact with him, and the general regret expressed everywhere when the news of his death was sent out, showed the general esteem with which he was regarded.

Mr. Truitt's death is a loss not only to his family, and his community but to the County at large which can ill afford to spare men of his type.

The funeral services will be held at Willards from his late home, where he conducted a general store and brokerage business at two o'clock Sunday afternoon. His remains will be interred at the burying ground at the same place.

BALTIMORE IS CHOSEN

For Next Year's Meet Of General Conference Of M. P. Church—Union of Methodism.

Baltimore has been selected as the meeting place of the General Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church to be held in 1912. After a deliberation of several days the executive committee, which met in Atlantic City last week, selected Baltimore city, although several other cities were after the meeting.

The conference will begin in May and it is thought will be held in St. John's Church St. Paul and Twenty-seventh Streets. This church is thought to be the appropriate meeting place, as it was in St. John's Church, on North Liberty Street, in 1893 that the first conference of the denomination was held. When the congregation sold the old church, purchased a new site on St. Paul and Twenty-seventh Streets and at an expenditure of $60,000 erected the present church.

At the annual conference to be held in April delegate for the General Conference will be elected. It is thought that the Maryland Conference will send thirteen or fourteen delegates.

The most important question to be discussed at the conference will be the union of Methodism. A committee of nine from the Methodist Episcopal, Methodist, Episcopal South and Methodist Protestant churches, comprising 27 men has adopted a paper on this subject which will be read at the conference. The Methodist Episcopal Church will hold its General Conference about May but the Methodist Episcopal South will not meet in general conference for three years. No matter what decision is reached by the other two denominations, the question is not likely to be finally settled until the conference of the Southern church.

Modern Apartments On Main Street.

Dr. E. Rial White, the recent purchaser of the large brick building corner of Main and St. Peter's Streets originally built by Joseph Bergen, is having plans drawn for modern apartments on the second and third floors. These apartments will be arranged to accommodate small families and will have steam heat, gas, electric lights, gas ranges, hot and cold water. Indeed all the modern conveniences will be supplied to meet the demands of desirable tenants. This house is admirably adapted to such a purpose. We understand the plans contemplate four separate apartments, which should be easily rented. Salisbury is in need of just such apartments and a large number would find ready rental.

Horses Die From Heat.

Moore and Kent lost three valuable horses this week, presumably owing to being overheated. These horses were out on long drives during the extreme heat of this week, and it is supposed by their owners that the heat was too much. The loss will be considerable as they were strong, able horses.

GOOD BASE BALL HERE

Fever Strikes Salisbury. Outlook For Clean Sport And A Strong Local Team.

The game of Baseball has long held the foremost place in the hearts of the American people and has properly been styled our great national pastime. It is seldom indeed that anyone is found that does not love to see a good game of ball. Everybody participates in the pleasure from the boy of an age tender that it is with great effort he tosses the ball in air, to the man of maturer years, who sits on the bench and cheers the men who are fighting the battle out in the diamond. With different actors the scenes are largely the same as those in which he participated in the happy days of his youth and early manhood.

Salisbury has always had baseball, but has not always kept up a regular team conditioned to meet all comers. The enthusiasm in the years gone by when a regular equipped team was supported in this city left little room for local baseball is discussed. This year again Salisbury has a team in the field and the many lovers of the grand old game are promised baseball that will fill their hearts to overflowing and let loose again the enthusiasm that has made so many famous players heroic in the eyes of an admiring and adoring public. There is but little question that baseball is one of the cleanest sports in the world and one that in its many features appeals to a larger per cent of the people than does any other game.

Salisbury should welcome the revival of the game here and the management should receive the active support of our people. Men, women and children will find amusement and recreation in witnessing the contest out on the diamond and the whole community feel closer drawn together through their common interest in the success of their own representatives. With the proper support a team will be kept in the field that is prepared and able to meet all comers—a team that we can look to with pride and satisfaction. The more solid the support and the more hearty the co-operation the better will be the team placed in the field. The response for funds and assistance has already been generous and it looks now as though the baseball season here will prove a decided success.

In order to help out, the management of the Green's Moving Pictures has offered to give a benefit every Monday night for the baseball club. This offer has been accepted and commencing with next Monday one half the receipts will be turned over to the Treasurer of the Baseball Club. The management also announces that it will present each Monday night ten tickets to the baseball grounds to the first ten ladies whose names on the attendance at the benefit performance is closest to the actual number present.

A VERY SUDDEN DEATH

Well Known Business Man Expires Saturday Night.

Mr. W. S. Parker, a member of the firm of W. E. Sheppard and Company, died suddenly at his home on North Division Street Saturday night about eight o'clock. Mr. Parker had an attack of his heart Saturday afternoon at the office of his firm. He consulted Dr. Dick and was given relief. He was taken home and about seven o'clock had another attack. Dr. Dick was called in again and after giving him medical attention Mr. Parker seemed to revive and was resting quietly at eight o'clock when his wife noticed that he was having a sinking spell. He died in a few minutes.

Deceased was 46 years old. He leaves a widow and six children, five girls and one boy, also three brothers and one sister. Mr. Parker was born in Dorchester county and came to Salisbury several years ago and engaged in the grocery business at the B. C. and A. Depot. He afterwards connected himself with the firm of D. H. Oannon and Company, and later the firm of H. S. Todd and Company, and when the firm of W. E. Sheppard and Company was formed he took stock in the company and was made vice president. He was an extremely popular man with his trade and was a valuable member of the firm.

The death of Mr. Parker is extremely sad as he was a high class citizen and numbered his friends by the hundreds. He was connected with one of the big firms of this city and was a progressive citizen and had been permitted to live would have been a very prominent business man in this community. He leaves a large family who are fairly well provided for.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, Dr. Graham officiating. Interment was in Farnon Cemetery.

—The judges of the Orphan Court, Tuesday filled the vacant scholarship in Washington College, Okeetown, by the appointment of W. Gorman Mann, son of Walter O. Mann, of Sharpsburg. There were five other applicants.

T. M. Dinsmore & Co., Baltimore, Md.*Y. M. C. ASSOCIATION*Of Much Help To Young Men In Small Communities.

The Young Men's Christian Association is addressing itself to the helping of young men and boys in communities too small for the city type of organization in a very aggressive and systematic way. The Interstate Committee of Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia is promoting this kind of activity, which is known as the County Young Men's Christian Association. The communities of a county, exclusive of the cities of sufficient size and financial strength to maintain a city association with expensive building equipment and employed officers, constitute the unit of the County Association, employing a high grade experienced County Secretary to direct, supervise and promote association work along lines commensurate with a community's available equipment and leadership among its young men. The modern good roads, telephones and methods of travel make it possible for the County Secretary to efficiently handle the work, of the entire county, as has been demonstrated in the fifty or more counties now organized with a total membership of upwards of twenty thousand men and boys, all of which has developed within the last ten years. The methods are intensely practical; instead of trying to force the country young men and boys into a city mold, it conducts a program of mental, physical, social and spiritual activities which are appropriate to country conditions.

But the County Association does other activities than those within the confines of its county;—it follows the individual leaving his home in the country to the city and elsewhere, whether for school, business or whatever, through its corresponding membership system which secures in each country community, as far as practicable, a Christian business or professional man as a corresponding member of the Interstate Committee who advises that office of the department of the young men of their respective communities, the place where they are going, and what would probably interest the young man or boy. The office of the Interstate Committee in turn, places this information with the Association in the city to which he goes; and if there is no Association, in the hands of some Christian man who will find pleasure in being whatever help possible to the young man. It requires no active imagination to realize in part, at least, what it means to such a young man to have some cheerful fellow call on him, eager and willing to make friendships, and lend a helping hand, assisting him in locating in a respectable boarding house within his means, and placing him in touch with other "fellows of life," fellows of the right kind, and bringing him to a well lighted association building with cheerful reading social rooms, gymnasium, study clubs and a dozen other things, introducing him to the employed secretary who will help him in his needs perchance it may be the securing of the job for which he has so longed. This is the kind of work which instead of helping boys to "Break Home Ties," helps them to preserve them.

The Interstate Committee is composed of the following well known business and professional men:—Clarence L. Harding, Francis A. White, Charles W. Bush, Henry B. F. MacFarland, William H. Morris, H. S. Dulany, Joshua Levering, J. Harry Tyler, Tasker G. Lowndes, Willet M. Hays, J. H. Apple, O. E. Olive, Richard Dodson, William Knowles Cooper, Stanton J. Peale, John E. Sleman, Jr.

The personnel of the Committee is a guarantee that only high grade and efficient work will be done in carrying out their program, which will eventually cover practically all the counties of Maryland and Delaware, as rapidly as consistent with effective organization and the money available will permit. Not only the men comprising the Committee are giving time and money to project the work but hundreds of interested men and women all over the Interstate territory are contributing. The Committee employs an Interstate Secretary, F. S. Morrison, who is related to all the association activities of the territory, and F. E. Shapleigh, who devotes his entire time to county associations. Talbot County is now nearly ready for a secretary and it will not be long before the Committee will undertake the development of the second county. Much attention is being given these days to the conservation of our national resources; it is wise and timely to give serious consideration to the conservation of our nation's greatest resources; its young men.

The happy couple will be at home at 235 Passaic Street, Backensack, N. J., after July 15th. Miss Moore is well known here where she has made her home for a number of years. Mr. David is a well known young lawyer of New York City, where for several years he was connected with the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

THE GOLDEN RULE.

Do as you would be done by.—Perran.

Do not that to a neighbor which you would take ill from him.—Grecian.

What you would not wish done to yourself do not unto others.—Chinese.

One should seek for others the happiness one desires for oneself.—Buddhist.

He sought for others the good he desired for himself. Let him pass on.—Egyptian.

All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do ye even so to them.

Let none of you treat his brother in a way he himself would dislike to be treated.—Mohammedan.

CIVILIZATION.

Is a city civilized in which there is more than an Egyptian worship of Anubis, pampering dogs with silly infatuation, while utterly indifferent to the helplessness and sufferings of tens of thousands of children? I cannot call New York a civilized city, with its rage of crimes and worship of Mammon, its God defying extravagance, oppression and extortion, its deceit and fraud, which the law cannot restrain. I deny that those who live and spend for themselves alone—soulless men and thoughtless, selfish women—are worthy of either the name civilized or Christian.—Rev. Madison O. Peters.

PRAISE AND CENSURE.

We should not be too hasty in bestowing either our praise or censure on mankind since we shall often find such a mixture of good and evil in the same character that it may require a very accurate judgment and a very elaborate inquiry to determine on which side the balance turns.—Fielding.

THE HONEST MAN.

Who is the honest man? He that doth still and strongly good pursue. To God, his neighbor and himself most true; Whom neither force nor fawning can Unpin or wrench from giving all their due;

Whose honesty is not So loose or easy that a ruffling wind Can blow away or glittering look it blind; Who rides his sure and even trot, While the world how rides by, now lags behind.—George Herbert.

TRADE COMPETITIONS.

It would not be the part of wisdom to lose sight of the fact that both the United States and Japan must continue to grow in national strength and to expand in enterprise and that means while, owing to improved communications, the world is becoming smaller. As a result the two nations must inevitably be thrown in future into closer contact and often find themselves competing side by side in the markets of the world. It is unwise for a nation not to recognize that changing conditions may call for difference in form and manner of expression without change in principle or spirit, that the friendship of the child is not the friendship of the man and that the keenest competitors in business may yet be the firmest friends. Surely there is ample room on the broad Pacific and abundant opportunities in the regions that border its shores for the peaceful enterprise of all the nations for all time to come.—Secretary Knox.

The despisers of mankind are of two sorts—they who believe their merit unappreciated and they who receive flattery knowing their own worthlessness. Be sure that the coldest hearted misanthropes are ever of this last order.—"Barnaby Rudge."

The Aches And Pains Will Disappear If The Advice Of This Salisbury Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains.

Most times 'tis kidney's fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it.

Mrs. John L. Baker, 313 Baker St., Salisbury, Md., says: "I gladly confirm the public statement I gave two years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy has never failed to relieve me when I have had backache. I was troubled greatly by lameness in my back and a heavy, bearing down sensation through my hips. I was also bothered by stiffness across my back, especially when I got up in the morning and despite all my efforts for relief, these troubles clung to me until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at White & Leonard's Drug Store. This remedy did such good work that I was convinced of its curative powers."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Escaped With His Life.

"Twenty one years ago I faced an awful death," writes H. B. Martin, Fort Harrison, S. C., "Doctors said I had consumption and the dread of death I had looked like it, sure enough. I tried everything I could hear of for my cough, and was under the treatment of the best doctor in Georgetown, S. C., for a year, but could get no relief. A friend advised me to try Dr. King's New Discovery. I did so, and was completely cured. I feel that I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure. ## FEEDING POTATOES TO STOCK

They Tend to Increase the Milk Flow When Fed to Cows With Alfalfa.

Potatoes may be fed to cows and hogs when the market price is comparatively low. It is not considered wise to use them for either of these animals if a reasonable price can be obtained for them in the market. It is better to sell them and purchase something else. Twenty pounds of raw potatoes per day per cow is considered quite enough; if more than this the butter has a tallowy appearance—that is, it makes it extremely hard and somewhat brittle.

For pigs it is better to cook the potatoes and mix them with corn chop, middlings, etc. At the Wisconsin experiment station potatoes were cooked in an open kettle, using as little water as possible, and cornmeal added to form a thick mush, which was eaten by the pigs with great relish. Cornmeal wet with water was fed to the second lot for comparison. Results were as follows: Four hundred and forty pounds of cornmeal fed alone produced 100 pounds of gain; 200 pounds of cornmeal with 150 pounds of potatoes weighed before cooking produced 100 pounds of gain. From this we learn that 750 pounds of potatoes when fed to pigs after being cooked effected a saving of 178 pounds of cornmeal, 442 pounds of potatoes taking the place of 100 pounds of cornmeal. The results of this experiment were confirmed by several other stations and by scientists in Europe.

Potatoes have a tendency to increase the flow of milk when fed with alfalfa. They are of a succulent nature, a very desirable form of feed for the dairy cow.

BOG SPAVIN.

It is Usually the Result of Sprains and Bruises and Needs Careful Attention.

Bog spavin is a round, smooth tumor at the front and on the inside of the hock. It is the result of sprains, bruises or other injuries. When these injuries occur too much joint oil is secreted, causing a bulging of the ligament. Lameness seldom accompanies a bog spavin. If lameness be present other structures are certain to be affected, and some pain and heat will be noticed, together with a stiffness of the joint.

Treatment consists of applications of cold water to the affected parts and a lotion made of two tablespoonfuls of acetate of lead in a quart of water. A blister made of one teaspoonful of bisulphide of mercury and four tablespoonfuls of lard, rubbed in a little with the fingers and repeated in ten days or two weeks and continued for some months, will correct the trouble. Wash the part having received the blister twenty-four hours after application. It is also advisable to tie the horse's head while the blister is on, so that he cannot bite the part.

Heaping Manure Wasteful. Applying manure in heaps is objectionable for several reasons. The labor of handling is increased; there is danger from loss of decomposition and leaching; the manure is not uniformly distributed, the spots beneath the heap being more thoroughly manured on account of leaching. Storing manure in very small heaps is less objectionable, providing the heap is carefully covered with earth and not allowed to lie too long.

LIVESTOCK NOTES

Sheep should be turned out on every nice day. Lambs should not be allowed to get chilled. Their frail bodies cannot withstand severely cold weather.

When the hogs are watered with patent waterers both the drinking part and the barrel should be kept clean and sweet. A lump of quicklime dropped into the barrel occasionally will keep it pure.

Little pigs may be kept from danger of crowding by the mother when she lies down by having a tender made of a scolding, rail or pole, securely fastened, say, eight inches from the wall and the same distance from the floor.

Parson's Poem A Gem.

From Rev. H. Stubbenvoll, Allison, Pa., in praise of Dr. King's New Life Pills: "They're such a health necessity. In every home these pills should be. If other kinds you've tried in vain, USE DR. KING'S. And be well again. Only 25c at all druggists."

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurt.

DOING GOOD.

'Tis greatly wise to talk with our past hours. And ask them what report they bore to heaven.

—Edward Young.
So many gods, so many creeds, No man paths that wind and wind. While just the art of being kind Is all the sad world needs.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.
Somebody did a golden deed; Somebody proved a friend in need; Somebody sang a beautiful song; Somebody served the whole day long. Was that "somebody" you?

TO PURIFY POLITICS.

In all the prosecutions waged against unlawful corporations there is a desire to reach the men "higher up." When the disbarment agent who contracts for a delivery of votes at a certain time and for a certain price is put behind prison bars, then a new light is held that under which will tend to improve instead of debauch politics.—C. E. Broughton.

TOOTHACHE.

For there were never yet philosopher that could endure the toothache patiently.—Shakespeare.

CHRISTIANITY.

Christianity certainly enjoins love for brother man. The great apostle whose fiery soul set the ancient Roman empire aglow with a new light held that under the new dispensation distinctions inherent in blood or tongue were consumed and fused into a new and consecrated unity. Certainly Christ never could lend His sanction to such outrages as are perpetrated upon human beings in the name and by the authority of men professing to believe in the redemption from bondage to sin brought about in His glorious resurrection. Christianity, true Christianity, is on trial, not the Jew.—Rabbi E. G. Hirsch.

CURE FOR EVIL.

Statutes are only theoretical cures for evil, and the real cure lies in a determined, sincere, constant effort to correct conditions by removing the causes, by steady repression and discouragement and by trying to create a higher concept of life and conduct.—Brand Whitlock.

EVENED UP.

Build a little fence of trust around today. Fill the space with loving deeds and therein stay. Look not through the sheltering bars upon tomorrow. God will help thee bear what comes of joy or sorrow.

—Mary Francis Butts.
No change of Fortune's calms Can quiet my comforts down; When Fortune smiles, I smile to think How quickly she will frown.

—Southwell.

WOMAN.

Not she with trait'rous kiss her Saviour stung. Not she denied him with unholy tongue; She, while apostles shrank, could danger brave. Last at his cross and earliest at his grave.

—Eaton S. Barrett.

PEACE IS COMING.

Within the last twenty-five years conditions have been brought about by the rapid progress of civilization that will within the next twenty-five years result in the dismemberment of all the powerful nations of the earth. These conditions have already made war between great civilized powers, such as the United States, England, Germany and France, impossible. Germany owes England billions of money, and a war between England and Germany, though it should result in a complete conquest of Germany, would break every man in England. The United States owes England such vast sums that a war between England and the United States would bring about the same result. So it would be between any two of the great powers, whichever was the conqueror. The result would be the same. Though there might be some cause, the cost of victory would be so great that the conquering nation would be the sufferer.—Rev. J. W. Lee.

A Peek Into His Pocket.

would show the box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve that E. S. Loper, a carpenter, of Marilla, N. Y., always carries. "I have never had a cut, wound, bruise, or sore it would not soon heal," he writes. "Greatest healer for burns, boils, scalds, chapped hands and lips, fever sores, skin eruptions, corns, and piles. 25c at all druggists."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

RING OUT THE OLD.

Ring out old shapes of foul desire. Ring out the thousand wars of old. Ring in the thousand years of peace! Ring in the valiant man and free, The eager heart, the kindlier hand; Ring out the darkness of the land; Ring in the Christ that is to be! —Alfred Tennyson.

PUBLICITY.

Anything that will promote the confidence of the investing public is a good thing for business institutions. I know of no other one thing which would tend more in this direction than for the corporations to deal frankly and fairly with their stockholders by revealing their actual financial and physical conditions. Shareholders have an unquestioned right to know how the company in which their money is invested is being conducted and how the business stands. There was a time, not long ago, when officers and directors of corporations treated such organizations almost as their personal property. That day has passed.—Secretary MacVeagh.

OBEEDIENCE.

Obedience is the grandest thing in the world to begin with. I do not think the time will ever come when we shall not have something to do, because we are told to do it, without knowing why. —The essential of chivalry was obedience.—George MacDonald.

COURAGE.

The soul, secured in its existence, smiles at the drawn dagger and defies its point.—Addison.

Cowards die many times before their death; The valiant never taste of death but once.

—Shakespeare.

Courage in danger is half the battle.—Plautus.

Write on your doors the saying, wise and old,

"Be bold, be bold!" and everywhere "Be bold;

Be not too bold!" Yet better the excess

Than the defect; better the more than less;

Better like Hector in the field to die

Than like a perfumed Paris turn and fly.

—H. W. Longfellow.

DANGEROUS LIES.

That a lie which is half a truth is ever the blackest of lies; That a lie which is all a lie may be met and fought with outright.

But a lie which is part a truth is a harder matter to fight.

—Alfred Tennyson.

BUSINESS.

A big business country must have big business, and ours is the biggest business country in the world. Business depends upon the ease and quickness with which people can mingle and trade together. To stop the growth of business organizations is to stop the growth of the country. Service is the test of theories. Shall we go backward or forward? The price of the raw materials that go into wagons and agricultural implements has increased, while the price of wagons and agricultural implements has gone down, and at the same time those wagons and agricultural implements today are guaranteed. Politicians denounce big business, but ask the farmer if he is willing to go back to the blacksmith shop for his plows, harrows, wagons and reapers.—Albert J. Beveridge.

FRIENDSHIP.

True friendship's laws are by this rule expert—Welcome the coming, speed the parting guest.

—Alexander Pope.

TIME FLIES.

We pass this way but once. We cannot retrace our steps to any preceding milestone. Every time the clock strikes it is both the announcement of the hour which we are entering and the knell of the one which is gone.—Chauncey M. Depew.

Nothing Piles Provoke Profanity.

RELIEF IN MANY SECTIONS.

This week has brought welcome showers in many sections of this county and to a great extent the disastrous drouth has been broken. The rain, however, has not fallen upon all alike and there are still many places where rain has practically been a stranger since the middle of April.

The present drouth will go down in the history of this County as one of the most disastrous occurrences.

Strawberries, blackberries, buck-berries, cucumbers, cantaloupes, watermelons, tomatoes and potatoes of all kinds have been injured and the usual plentiful table of our farmers' products are bare of most of the good things that usually load them down at this season of the year.

The loss in money is tremendous and hard to estimate as in many cases the crop will not begin to pay the fertilizer bill. The corn crop will be main dependence and this, with a favorable season from now on, will probably be close to an average yield, though this is badly hurt in some places.

SANTARY CONDITIONS.

The oppressive heat of the summer has been with us for some time and as is usually the case has brought with it suffering and disease. This so far has been probably one of the hottest and driest summers this section has ever known, at least it will take high rank with all past weather conditions.

It is highly important that all should take extra precautions in order to avoid an epidemic of typhoid and other contagious diseases. It is a duty that every man owes himself, his family and the community at large to see that his premises are kept clean. No filth or decaying matter should be allowed on the premises as such are breeders of germs that spread disease. Our health department should be on its guard and see that all possible measures are taken to keep things in a good, clean and sanitary condition.

It will be well for all to read the articles now going through the press upon the danger of the common house fly, and the best means to get clear of this dangerous pest.

At the Grange meeting on the Fair Grounds Thursday of this week, Dr.
Stabler gave an interesting and instructive talk upon the danger of allowing the house fly to live and breed upon the premises. Although it looks like a useless task to get rid of the fly, yet it is being done in other places and can be accomplished here if the proper effort is put forth.

Our health should receive our first care, as upon it depends our success and happiness, and no effort should be spared by our public officials that will tend to protect our citizens from the ravages of dread disease.

The extension of a garbage system to all sections of the city would be a move in the right direction, and one that would probably pay for itself many times over in the protection it would give from unsafe and dangerous sanitary conditions.

It is to be hoped as well that the time will soon come when every home is properly connected with our sewerage system, without waiting for the City officials to do all the cleaning up. It is important that every household look carefully into the conditions on their own premises and see that same are remedied if found to be in a filthy and unhealthy condition. It should have already made its appearance in various sections of the city and this matter should not be allowed to stand without proper attention. Do not put it off, but clean up today, and then keep it clean.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unparelleled relief to sufferers from Catarrh. None of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The stark, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm cures all the healing, and is never false to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c, including freight. Write or mail to Ely Bros.
Salisbury, Md. New York.

—There will be a festival held at Powellville Saturday afternoon and evening, July 15th, for the benefit of the M. P. Church.

—Miss Mary Hoeler who has been residing on Camden Ave., for the past year has returned her home in Denton, Md.

—Misses Edna Parsons and Edna Dryden who have been visiting friends and relatives in Wilmington, Del., returned home this week.

—Mrs. John A. Lill, of Baltimore is spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Layfield, and sister, Mrs. John W. Keene, of Salisbury.

—Misses Nellie and Maude Graham left Quantico on June sixteenth for University of Maryland, the former as assistant teacher in the domestic art course; the latter to study.

—Harley Walker, a dray clerk in the store of Gasaway & Townsend, Sharptown, is suffering from an attack of appendicitis and was operated on Tuesday.

—Services, Sunday, July 10th; St. Philip's, Quantico. Holy Communion, 10.30 a. m. Spring Hill, Evening Prayer, 8 p. m. Mardela Evening Prayer, 8 p. m.

—Miss Rosella Schelshors, of New York City, is visiting her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Schelshors, out in the country and also Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. Keene on Camden Avenue.

—The Presbyterian Sunday School excursion will be held on July 20th, trains leaving Salisbury, 9.34 and 1.40, returning leave Ocean City at 5.05 and 10.30.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Wheaton, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Watson left this week for Chincoteague Island, where they will occupy their handsome home for the summer.

—The annual excursion of the Division Street Baptist Sunday School and congregation to Ocean City will take place Tuesday, July 18th. Trains will leave B. O. & A. Station at 9.24 a. m. and 1.40 p. m. Return at 4.55 or 10.30 p. m. The fare will be 90 cents the round trip, 45 cents for children.

—Mr. and Mrs. David Howard and the vested choir of St. Peter's P. E. Church spent this week at "The Linmar," Ocean City, Md.

—Miss Mary Tighman delightfully entertained at an interesting "Porch and lawn fete" Tuesday evening in honor of her guests Miss Montgomery and Miss Morris.

—Mr. William Holmes and family of New York have moved into the Sembrase home on Division Street for the summer. Mr. Holmes is erecting a handsome home on Camden Avenue.

—At Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church there will be short services and sermons on Sunday, 11 a. m. and 8 p. m., Sabbath School, 9.30 a. m., Christian Endeavor service, 7.15 p. m. Mid week service Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

—Mr. John L. Showell was ordained by Bishop Adams and appointed clergy on Thursday at St. Paul's P. E. Church Berlin. Mr. Showell has just completed his theological studies at the Virginia Seminary. He will be Rector of the Churches of East New Market, Vienna, Harlock and Preston.

—A picnic will be held in the grove at Parker School near Phillips Sid- ing, Wednesday, July 19th. Recitations and dialogues by the pupils in the evening. Vocal and instrumental music. If the weather is unfavorable Wednesday evening the program will be rendered Thursday evening. Proceeds for benefit of school.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Marcellus Dashiell have moved from Camden Ave., to the property on High St., recently vacated by Mr. Harry Dennis. This property was recently purchased by Mr. Dashiell from S. Q. Johnson. Mr. Dashiell had previously owned the property for several years, disposing of it to T. E. Adkins. It later became the property of S. Q. Johnson.

—Isaac J. Bailey died at Sharptown Tuesday, aged 68, leaving a widow, two sons, Elmer and Winfield, of Wilmington, and one daughter, Mrs. Noah W. Owens, of Sharptown. He was one of the oldest Odd Fellows in town, and the remains will be interred on Thursday with the honors of the order.

—A mule belonging to Levin N. Dickerson, of Sharptown, backed overboard off the ferry scow at Sharptown, Tuesday, but was caught and made to swim ashore alongside the scow. In falling the mule broke the single tree of the runabout to which he was hitched and got loose. The runabout sank to the bottom about midway of the river. It was later fished up.

—The Salisbury Orchestra gave a Concert Thursday evening at the Home for the Aged, to the delight of all present. The selections consisted of Overtures, Patriotic Airs and Hymns we all cherish. The Orchestra will give another Concert Thursday evening, July 27th, and continue at intervals of every two weeks as long as the Ladies Home desires. The members of the Orchestra are as follows: J. Thos. Hopkins, violin; W. S. Dougherty, flute; Geo. E. Sirman, cornet; Elmer Steele, trombone; Miss Frances Pearl Hopkins, piano.

—Memorial services for Judge Charles F. Holland were held in the Circuit Court here Thursday, Judge Toadwin sitting. In spite of the extremely warm weather almost the full bar attended the services and many others besides. Hon. James E. Ellegood, who came to the bar in 1895 at the time Judge Holland began his practice, spoke feelingly of the deceased, as did George W. Bell and Jay Williams. Leonard Wallis, Grant Goslee and George W. Lilly. Judge Patterson was unable to be present, owing to a disability.

—It is stated on good authority that the DuPont road will be built to Delmar. Last week Mr. DuPont purchased a large farm in Sussex county, composed almost entirely of gravel, to furnish material for building the road. Uol DuPont has received from the manufacturers a large camping automobile, the plans for which he drew himself. He will use the car in supervising the work done on his State boulevard. The car is very large and complete affair, being a house on wheels. It has a seating capacity of ten, will admit of being used as a draughtsman's office during the day and may be changed into a sleeping apartment at night.

—The question of granting a permit to W. W. Larmore, of White Haven, to erect a storehouse on Main Street, extended, which has been before the Council for several months, was settled by the Council granting him a permit to build. Mr. Larmore will at once proceed.

—An ordinance was passed to prevent loading on street corners and bridges in the city. The penalty provided for violation of this ordinance is $1 and costs.

—An ordinance was also passed regulating the erection of buildings, the Council repealing the old building ordinance. The penalty for building without a permit is $25, and $5 for each day from commencement of building.

—The Clerk was directed to notify B. F. Sweeten and Sons that the Council would advertise for bids for repairing brick pavements, they failing to do the work in compliance with previous notices.

We Believe Kuppenheimer Clothes

Are The Best Clothes Made In America Today.

While we buy clothes from other manufacturers of national reputations, we believe KUPPENHEIMER Clothes are the best clothes made in the country today.

That's Why We Sell Them.

We'll give you a stronger guarantee on Kuppenheimer Clothes than any other store gives—a guarantee that means something. We'll guarantee that every Kuppenheimer Suit will stand up and keep its shape and style until it is worn out, that the fabrics are all wool, fast color and cold-water shrunk. We'll guarantee long wear, satisfaction to the last inch and stitch. You ought to be the ONLY judge. If not come back for new goods or your money, any time. There won't be any sour looks about giving you new goods or your money either. We want to do it. We can't afford to have a man, no matter where he lives, keep anything from our store that's unsatisfactory.

We want you men and young men to come here and see the greatest assortment of good clothes that ever came to Salisbury.

Prices from $10 to $25.

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases
The cause of rheumatism is excess of uric acid in the blood. To cure the rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with oils and liniments may ease the pain, but they will do no more cure rheumatism than pain will change a fever of rotten wood.

Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured
Science has discovered a perfect, a complete cure called Rheumicide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumatism, removed the cause, gets at the joints from inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. VULGARITY.
The vulgarity of inanimate things requires time to get accustomed to, but living, breathing, bustling, plotting, planning human vulgarity is a species of moral leprosy enough to destroy any comfort—Carlyle.

INDEPENDENCE.
As American politics is conducted party organization seems absolutely necessary for the continuous carrying out of a defined policy from year to year and even to the consistent execution of any set of measures by the administration and legislature within the limit of a single year.
We may not like this fact, but we cannot afford to ignore it.
I believe it is both possible and wise to take a middle ground between the theories of the extreme partisan on the one hand and those of the extreme independent on the other and that he who takes this middle ground stands the best chance of combining the requisite amount of influence and independence to make his work a power for good in the country's history.—Arthur T. Hadley.

TRUE ALMS.
That is no true alms which the hand can hold.
He gives only worthless gold
Who gives from a sense of duty,
But he who gives but a slender mite,
And gives to that which is out of sight.
That thread of the all sustaining beauty
Which runs through all and doth all unite—
The hand cannot clasp the whole of his alms.
—Lowell.

HABITS.
Rogues do their work at night.
Honest men work by day. It's all a matter of habit, and good habits in America make any man rich. Wealth is a result of habit.—John Jacob Astor.

A healthy man is a king in his own right; an unhealthy man is an unhappy slave. Burdock Blood Bitters builds up sound health—keeps you
well.

"I suffered day and night the torment of itching piles. Nothing helped me until I used Doan's Ointment.
It cured me permanently."—Hon.

J. T. Taylor, Jr. LARGEST CARRIAGE, WAGON AND RUNABOUT DEALER In the State of Maryland

I have 20 carloads of Buggies, Wagons, Runabouts, Surreys and Speed Cars. Come see for yourself. We have new styles other manufacturers cannot copy under a year.

We have over 2,000 Wrenn Buggies in use over six years that did not cost the users over $65 when new. I can save anyone needing a Buggy, Surrey or Runabout, $20. Come look them over.

Testimonial from H. Fillmore Lankford, Attorney-at-Law: "I have a Wrenn Surrey which has been in use twenty years, and it is a good one today. I had the tires cut after using nineteen years."

Wrenn's make of Buggy is a guarantee that you get your money's worth. Why pay $20 more for an imitation when you can buy a Wrenn from $65 up?

Wagons, I have them—not the common ones, but the cheap ones. Cost $10 more, last twice as long.

Mr. Bounds came in last week and said: "Mr. Taylor, I want a Runabout. I bought a Wrenn Buggy from you ten years ago, and I am still using it." He bought another Wrenn. Best by test, cheapest on earth for the money.

I show more vehicles set up than you can find in any city or town in several States.

HARNESS FROM $4.50 UP

TWO PIECE DRESS.

It is Specially Suited For School Wear and Will Last For a Long Time.

School frocks for early spring wear are developed in either lightweight woolen weaves, such as cashmere and challis, or in heavy linens, percales or galatea. And a charming and practical model in which any of these fabrics may be satisfactorily made at home is shown here. This dress is suitable for girls between the ages of four and twelve years.

To copy the design for a girl eight years of age three and five-eighths yards of goods twenty-seven inches wide, or two and three-quarter yards thirty-six inches wide, will be required.

As gumples dresses are as popular this season as they were a year ago this pattern is sure to be welcome, because it includes a gumpule pattern that may be used in a dozen or more different ways.

The gumpule is a simple design with a plain body portion and bishop sleeves, but it may be made handsome enough for wear with any frock if elaborated with tucks, hand work or inserts of lace.

The sleeves and body portions of the dress are cut in one, and the shaped trimming bands give a pleasing finish. The seam that joins the skirt and waist is concealed by belt of either the dress or trimming material. A lovely little tub dress that can be worn until warm weather may be made from plain blue and white striped galatea.

With either of these two white fabrics white pique should be used for the yoke and sleeve trimmings, and if a cord piping of linen or a narrow wash braid of a shade or two darker than the dress are used to outline the bands the effect will be pleasing.

The pique may be further elaborated with a little embroidery or braiding. A gumpule for wear with a dress such as described should be of white lawn. The material from which it is made should be tucked or lace trimmed.

A gumpule of alternate groups of small tucks and val or fine cluny lace is effective and if carefully laundered will wear for months.

Rouse the Congregation.

A certain Scotch minister, a newcomer in the parish, finding it impossible to arrest the attention of his congregation, became desperate. No sooner did he appear in the pulpit than they promptly composed themselves to sleep.

One evening, after taking up his position, he rapped sharply on the ledge in front of him and addressed his somnolent flock in tones of severe remonstrance.

"Now, brethren," he said, "it's not fair to go to sleep as ye always ha' done directly I begin my sermon. Ye might wait a wee till I get along, and then if I'm no worth hearing sleep awa' wi' ye, and I'll no care. But dinna go before I commenced. Gie me this one chance."

Finding they were all fairly awake by that time, he went on:

"I shall take for my text the two words 'know thyself,' but I will say before I begin the discourse that I would not advise this congregation to make many such profitless acquaintances."

There was not a single sleeper in the kirk that evening.—Tit-Bits.

Through the Tonsorial Ages.

(In old Belshazzar's day.) Barber (the morning after)—Kind of swell time down at the palace last night, I hear. Ed, the second head waiter, you know, was just in here, and he says there was a lot of wine opened. (Pause.) I understand nobody's been able to figure out what that writing on the wall says. Of course it's probably some practical joke that somebody—Belshazzar (brutally)—Are you shaving me with a razor or a lath?—Pack.

Summed Up.

D.—So you and the handsome Bramble girl are one?

T.—That's what I thought when the parson married us, but I have since concluded that we are ten.

D.—What do you mean?

T.—She is one, and I am ten, my dear fellow.—New York Journal.

SIMPLE TRICK WITH CARDS.

Will Mystify Ordinary Spectators, and Is Not Easy to Detect.

One of the simplest tricks to perform, but one not easily detected, can be executed by using a tapered deck of cards as shown in the figure. A cheap deck of cards is evenly squared, fastened in a vise and planed along the edge in such a manner that all the pack will be tapered about one-eighth of an inch. This taper is exaggerated in the illustration, which shows one card that has been turned end for end.

It is evident that any card reversed in this way can be easily separated from the other cards in the pack, which makes it possible to perform the following trick: The performer spreads the cards out, fan like, and asks an observer to withdraw a card, which is then replaced in any part of the pack. After thoroughly shuffling the cards the performer then holds the deck in both hands behind his back and pronouncing a few magic words produces the card selected in one hand and the rest of the pack in the other. This is accomplished by simply turning the deck end for end while the observer is looking at his card, thus bringing the wide end of the selected card at the narrow end of the pack when it is replaced. The hands are placed behind the back for a double purpose, as the feat then seems more marvelous and the observers are not allowed to see how it is done.

FOR THE BARBER SHOP.

Inverted Clock a Boon to the "Man in the Chair."

Every barber shop has a clock which is invariably placed on the wall opposite the big mirror which faces the customer in the chair. The clock face is reversed as seen in the mirror, and it is a severe strain on the eyes to figure out the correct time. A jeweler in Glendine, Mont., has now invented a same clock for barber shops. The figures on the dial are reversed, and the hands move just opposite to those of ordinary clocks. The result is the reflection in the glass is so "you can understand it." To demonstrate, hold this page in front of a mirror and read the time of the clock in the illustration.

IN LOBSTERVILLE.

The rooster danced upon his perch And said, "This is me home." And then he played a sacred hymn Upon his toothless comb.

The elephant unpacked his trunk And blinked his wooden eye. Then with his tail he wrote his name Upon the spoozy sky.

The fat man sat upon a prune And held his cloven breath. Because he didn't want to choke The cunning prune to death.

Wimpus wimped athwart the walk, Upon a sponge between his teeth. He walked upon the top because He couldn't walk beneath.

The woodchuck hit the comet with A piece of angel cake. The quack, "33 goodness, Agnes, what Nice toothpicks you would make!"

A flea on a telegram strummed, And loudly he did hum. For he was full of railroad spikes And hip-po-pot-a-mus.

The bumblebee danced with a clam. The pickle with a tripe. The dinosaur gave the ant An awful backhand swipe.

The doodlebug gasclipped his wire. The digdig saw the deed. Oh, not again before I snooze On lobster will I feed!

CHAPTER XVIII.

FATHER AND SON.

HAVING the sacrificial thing to do, Evan Blount was not of those who make a painful task more painful by needlessly postponing it. Judge Hemingway was sitting in chambers. This Blount had learned when he was returning from his call upon Blenkinsop. With the way open before him there was nothing to do but to walk in it.

The courthouse was only two squares east and one south from his offices in the Temple court building, and on one of the intervening corners stood the towerlike building of the Daily Capital.

It was on the Capital corner that Blount halted, asking himself how far he would be justified in withholding Gryson's statement from the editor until after the scandal had been public property through its appearance on the court records. Open publicity had been his watchword from the beginning, and was he to hesitate now because the ties of kinsman were holding him back?

While he was hesitating before the door of the newspaper office a small red touring car dropped out of the stream of vehicles in the street and stopped at the curb. A moment later he became conscious that the single occupant of the car was calling to him. It was Patricia, and her mood was reproachful.

"I like the way you treat your friends," she said when he had crossed quickly to her. "What have I done that you should send word to me that you couldn't or wouldn't see me?"

"You have the nothing-noting at all," he made haste to say. "I have been overruled all day with callers—people who had much to ask and nothing to give in return. I had no idea that you would come so early when I told Collins to deny me to everybody. And there was another thing. If you could know—"

"I am very willing to know," she interrupted.

The newspaper corner was one of the busiest in the city, and its curb was no place for confidences. Blount stepped quickly around the front end of the red car and swung himself into the seat beside its driver. "Drive into one of the quieter streets," he said, "and I'll share the miserable burden with you, as I have shared all the others."

And when the little car was creeping on the low gear out one of the broad residence avenues he told her all, exaggerating nothing and palliating nothing.

"I can't reason against the facts, Evan. You know what you are saying and why you are warranted in saying it," she began. "But I still believe absolutely in your father. What are you going to do?"

"The only thing there is to do," he returned, with a note of harshness in his voice which was only a measure of his suffering. "When you picked me up on the Capital corner I was on my way to Judge Hemingway's chambers with the affidavits. I have taken a solemn oath, Patricia, and the law which I have sworn to uphold is greater than—"

He was going to say "is greater than any man's immunity," but she finished the sentence otherwise for him.

"Is greater than your love for your father. I suppose I ought to be able to understand that, but I am not. Evan, you must not do it. Every drop of that father's blood in your veins ought to cry out against it!"

"Ah," he said, with a quick indrawing of his breath, "you don't know what it is costing me!"

"Truly, I don't. Evan, your father is a great and good man. If he had a daughter instead of a son she would know it. I wish I were his daughter. I should try to show him that blood is thicker than water."

"You wish you were his daughter? Do you realize what you are saying?" Then, brokenly: "Don't, Patricia! Don't make me do evil that good may come. Can't you understand how I am driven to do this thing, how every fiber of me is rebelling against the savage necessity? God knows I'd give my life and all my hopes of happiness if the necessity could be wiped out!"

Instantly she changed her attack.

"If I can't bribe you I must and will convince you," she persisted. "You are a brave man, Evan. I know, because I have seen you tried. You mustn't turn cowardly now."

"Nor shall I," he countered quickly. "But I don't understand."

"Don't you? Isn't it cowardly to strike this cruel blow in the dark? You know your father isn't here to defend himself. You can't do such a thing without at least giving him the warning that you would give your bitterest enemy."

"His absence is merely an added twist of the thumb-screws," he said in fresh wretchedness. "He is not here, and the time is too short to get him here. What is done must be done to-day—this afternoon. Otherwise it will be too late to stop this last and most shameful attack upon the liberties of every honest voter in this commonwealth. Don't make it harder for me, Patricia. Surely you can see how hard it is as it stands."

"I can see that you are about to do something for which in all the years to come you will never be able to get your own forgiveness, Evan," she said. "Then, with a sudden skillful flick of the speed lever, she sent the little car ahead with a lurch—leaving it in the harpest of swerves into the nearest cross street affording an outlet to the northern road.

"Stop, Patricia!" he cried. "What are you doing? I must go back to the courthouse!"

"I'll take you back to the courthouse," she promised, deftly slipping in the third speed, "and you shall be there before Judge Hemingway goes home. But, in common justice, you must and shall first tell your father what you are going to do! Don't try to stop me! If you do I'll run into something and smash the car."

With the switch plug on the dash within easy reach, it would have been a simple matter for him to stop the car. But her single hurried devotion was not to be so easily thwarted. It had not occurred to him that he might drive to Wartrace Hall and return in time to set the legal machinery in motion to stop the frauds. So when he leaned forward it was not to throw the electric switch, as she feared; it was merely to adjust the wind shield so that the blast of the speed rush would not blow them both breathless.

For fifteen miles north of the Capital the Quivertown road is a straightaway race track, and Miss Anners proved herself a fearless driver. Almost before Blount realized it the red car was among the hills and climbing to the mesa levels. At Shonoho canyon they passed a horseman coming down the canyon road. The man's horse shied at sight of the car and threatened to bolt, but Patricia was looking straight ahead and made no movement to slacken speed. In the passing glimpse Blount thought he recognized the rider. It was the man Barto or his double.

By the time the little car was dying up the cottonwood sentinelled avenue at Wartrace Hall Patricia had broken a record. The thirty miles from the Capital had been covered in forty-two minutes.

When she brought the car to a stand at the carriage entrance the young woman spoke for the first time since she had given David Blount's son her ultimatum.

"Find your father quickly and say what it is right to say. When you are ready to go back I'll keep my promise and drive you."

It was old Barnabas who admitted the bearer of evil tidings. "Yes, sah; Mariah Majah's in de libra'y," was the answer to Blount's question. And, throwing up and but aside, the bearer of burdens not his own walked quickly across the hall and let himself into the room of trial.

"Well, son, you made out to get here, didn't you?" said the father quietly, pushing a book aside. "Draw up a chair. Where is the little girl?"

Blount saw instantly that he must be brief and pitiless.

"Miss Anners is at the carriage entrance in the car, waiting to take me back to town," he said, constraining himself to speak calmly. "I have an appointment with Judge Hemingway which must be kept, and he leaves his chambers at 4 o'clock. Do you know why I have made that appointment?"

The senator shook his head slowly. "How should I know, son?"

"It's not a pleasant thing to have to tell you," the younger man went on, ignoring the chair to which the long stemmed pipe was pointing. "But Patricia says I must. A little over an hour ago—legal evidence—of corruption and false registration in four of the city wards was put into my hands. You know what I've got to do with it, father."

The older man nodded. "Yes, I know what you think you've got to do with it. But I wouldn't do it if I were you, son. Haven't you learned that one of the first rules in the book of politics is not to hang the dirty clothes out where everybody can see them?"

Evan's heart sank within him. It was evident that his father was still unsuspecting, still unconscious of the impending blow. Only utter frankness could avail now.

"I can't discuss expediency with you," he said hastily. "This evidence I speak of involves you personally. There is trouble ahead, serious trouble, and you don't seem to realize it. The city papers will be out in the morning publishing evidence of other crooked political work—evidence which I have been gathering here and there all over the state and which was stolen when my safe was blown up last week. I did not intend to publish it if I could help it. I was holding it over my own people as a club to make them decent and to keep them decent. But I have reason to believe that it has been edited so that it will accuse only you and the machine, and by tomorrow morning the entire state will know. I don't have to tell you what the effect of this added exposure of wholesale corruption in the capital is going to be."

The senator had laid the pipe aside and was staring soberly at the fire. "You're a man among a thousand, son," he said quietly. "When it comes to a pure question of right and wrong you don't hesitate a minute, do you? You haven't said it in so many words, but I'll say it for you. You've got me right where you can send me to the penitentiary? That's about what you're trying to tell me, isn't it?"

"Don't put it that way, father," protested the son. "I gave you fair warning. I've got to fight for the right as I see it. If I don't I shall be less than a man—less than your son. Can't you see that it is breaking my heart?"

A silence electrically surcharged with possibilities settled down over the quiet room for a little while. At the end of the pause the senator rose and put his hand on his son's shoulder.

"I haven't a word to say," he said slowly. "As you told me that first day out here, son, it's your job to go to the line and let the chips fall where they may. Go ahead and do what seems right and law abiding to you. I'd rather go to jail twice over than have you do anything else. Is that what you wanted me to say?"

Blount dropped into a chair as if the hand on his shoulder had crushed him and covered his face with his hands. It was hard—harder than even his own prefigurations had forecast it.

It was a long minute before he staggered to his feet and groped his way to the door, leaving his father standing before the fire, still with the hand outstretched which had been laid in fatherly affection upon his shoulder. When old Barnabas had helped him into his coat and had given him his hat he sought Patricia.

"Must you go back?" she queried when he had descended the steps to climb stiffly into the seat beside her. He nodded.

"Your duty is clear?"

He nodded again. "And the consequences?" she asked. "I don't know," he muttered. "Ruin and disgrace for all of us, I suppose. Of course I shall resign from the railroad service and stand with my father when—when the thing is done."

"Don't do it, Evan; don't do it! I have no more than a woman's reason to give you, but I am sure you are opening the door to a lifelong sorrow for yourself and—for me."

It was the last two words that steeled him to his purpose. Not even for her dear sake would he turn aside from the plain path of the oath bound obligation. It struck him like a blow that the burning aside would make him forever unworthy of her love.

"Take me back to the city as quickly as you can, Patricia," he said, "or, better still, stay here and let me have the car. That is my last word."

For answer she threw the speed lever into the high gear and snapped home the clutch. Like a projectile hurled from a catapult the little touring car shot away down the cottonwood avenue, and the second race against time was begun.

For the first few miles Patricia Anners' single passenger had all he could do to keep his seat. More than once Blount found himself mechanically reaching for the steering wheel, but as often he caught himself in time. As on the outward race, Patricia was looking straight ahead and giving the little car every throb of speed there was in it. None the less, he could see that she had it under perfect control.

What happened came with the suddenness of the thunderclap following the bolt—that strikes near at hand.

"DON'T DO IT, EVAN; DON'T DO IT!"

The approach to the mouth of Shonoho canyon was down a long incline with a gentle curve near the bottom to hide the canyon entrance until they were within a hundred yards of it. Blount had a momentary glimpse of some barrier—a tree, he took it to be—lying across the main road. Seeing it, he realized in the same instant that Patricia was neither releasing the clutch nor applying the brakes. After that there was barely time to snap the switch and to throw the heavy glass wind shield down before the devastating crash came.

DROUTH CUTS HAY CROP

Short. Forage Crops Advised. Prompt Planting Recommended.

The Secretary of the Agricultural Department in view of the widespread drouth and its effect on all crops, especially that of hay, has issued a circular advising prompt planting of crops to take the place of the regular ones which have been hurt by the drouth. We give a part of this list with time required for maturity and a prompt use of it by farmers in this section might aid here where the drouth has been felt as badly as in any section.

Millot matures for hay in from fifty to eighty days from the date of sowing and for seed ten to fifteen days later. Use one half to three quarters bushels per acre. Millot hay is of most value for cattle.

Cowpeas And Soy Beans.

Both crops are equal for superior to clover in feeding value and are reliable by every class of stock on the farm. Cowpeas will give from one to three tons of hay per acre. New Era is one of the earliest varieties, maturing seed in sixty to eighty days after sowing. Other early varieties are Early Blackeye and Michigan Favorite. Whippoorwill, while a little later, is a more vigorous grower and a general favorite for hay or pasture. Cowpeas sown in standing corn at the last cultivation will furnish a large amount of pasture, and this method of handling the crop is recommended.

Soy Beans.

This crop is somewhat more productive of seed than cowpeas and is equally as rich in feeding value as that crop. The hay is valuable for dairy cows, brood sows, and young stock. Seed in rows, 24 to 32 inches apart, at the rate of one-half to three-fourths bushels per acre on well prepared ground and cultivate the crop. Ogemaw is one of the earliest varieties, maturing seed in seventy to ninety days. Extra Early Dwarf and Early Yellow mature in about the same time. Ito San is a medium early variety and a good seed yielder.

Rye.

This is strictly a succulent pasture crop of especial value for hogs, growing lambs, and fattening sheep. It may be sown in corn at the last cultivation, using about three pounds of seed per acre and lightly harrowing it in. Much better results will be obtained by seeding the crop alone on fertile clay loam or black soil, sowing either in drills thirty inches apart and at the rate of two pounds per acre, or broadcasting at the rate of three pounds per acre, covering about half an inch deep. The crop will be ready for pasturage within fifty to sixty days from seeding, and on good soils will furnish twenty to thirty tons of green forage. An acre of rye on good land will furnish pasture two or three months for about twenty hogs or as many lambs fed light grain rations in addition. Dwarf Essex rye is the variety to grow. Cattle and sheep should be gradually accustomed to rye, and well filled up on other feed before turning in to graze, otherwise they may bloat.

Barley.

This is a quick-growing crop, maturing seed in about seventy to ninety days from the time of seeding. It is chiefly valuable as a grain crop for poultry and hogs, though the ground middlings make rich protein feed for dairy cows. For horses the ground grain may constitute about one third of the grain ration and when so used is considered equal in feeding value to oats. As forage it may be used as a soiling crop for dairy cows, having considerable value for this purpose.

Rye.

This crop can be sown in the standing corn at the last cultivation in July and will afford considerable pasturage for all stock. It is often this season either alone or mixed with rye for lambs or sheep, being fattened for market. If seeded on especially prepared ground the crop will come in much earlier and give considerably more fall feed. Seed at the rate of one and one half bushels per acre. In pasturing cows on rye the change from other feeds to rye should be gradual to avoid possible taint of milk. Winter varieties of wheat if sown as once will also afford a large amount of fall pasture.

Corn.

Every farmer knows the value of corn as a supplement to a pasture crop late in summer, for which purpose it may be used for cattle as soon as it is tasseled out and for hogs as soon as the ears have reached the roasting stage. Not so many realize that an acre of corn sown—the crop left standing after the ears have been taken—is as valuable for feeding to cattle and horses as an acre of timothy hay. Ten for ten, corn sown has nearly the same feeding value as timothy. With a short hay crop, therefore, every effort should be made to carefully handle the corn crop. The feeding value in the stalk and leaves of the corn plant increases up to maturity, but if the stalks are allowed to stand in the field after ripening and shaking the corn.

JUDGE TOADVIN

Addresses The Voters—Makes Strong Argument—Will Receive No Extension Of Term Or Pension.

To the voters of the First Judicial Circuit of Maryland: Tradition and custom precludes a Judge, in Maryland, from an active participation in political affairs, even when he may be a candidate for the suffrage of the voters in his Circuit. Under the circumstances surrounding the primary and general election for my successor and the reasons and arguments that have been produced against my election I trust the public will pardon a digression to some extent from the time honored custom in a brief way through the newspapers.

On April 27th, 1910, the Governor of Maryland, on the recommendation of the late Judge Holland, who had been retired, and members of the Bar in the Circuit, flattered me by the appointment of Associate Judge of the First Judicial Circuit, when, at the same time, there were aspirants of the highest character and legal learning for the Judicial honor. At that time I was a little over sixty years of age, having been born December 3rd, 1848. My services on the bench since then for a period of fifteen months and the manner they have been performed is a fair subject for criticism and comment by the people of the Circuit and is left to their own consideration and conclusion; in view of being a candidate to succeed myself. I therefore trust for a favorable verdict, knowing the determination is in the hands of the voters.

In conclusion I desire to say to the voters and people of the Circuit, that if nominated and elected, I will endeavor to perform the honorable and arduous duties of a Circuit Judge to the best of my ability with zeal and impartiality until arriving at seventy years of age, the time for retirement as prescribed by the Constitution of this State, a period of over seven years from this time; and when the date arrives no extension of time by the Legislature will be applied for and under no circumstances will an extension be accepted.

In this connection, I desire further to state that under the Law granting pensions to Judges, Chapter 286, Acts of 1904, I will be precluded from receiving a pension, by not being able to serve for ten preceding, consecutive years before attaining the age of seventy years, and I desire to state most emphatically that no provision of the Legislature extending my term or giving me a pension will be either applied for or accepted by me under any condition.

The statements herein made are considered due to the public and the voters in the Circuit in view of the efforts which have been made to begot and misrepresent the facts a true statement of which they are entitled to. The verdict is left with the voters and will be accepted with the resignation that lawyers in long practice are accustomed. If the verdict is adverse my thanks will be extended to those who gave me favorable support and I will endeavor to gather together the threads of a lost and dissipated legal practice. I have, however, great confidence in the fairness and justice of the people of the First Judicial Circuit to give my candidacy fair treatment and thoughtful consideration.

I beg leave to remain, Respectfully,
E. Stanley Toadvin.

—Mrs. George R. Collier entertained a large number of guests Tuesday evening at her home on N. Division St. in honor of Miss Alice Young, of Easton, Pa., who is a guest of Mrs. Dr. E. W. Smith.

There is considerable loss. This loss at the Iowa Experiment Station two months after ripening amounted to more than one half of the value of the stalk.

Investigations show that of the feeding value of corn sown about twenty seven per cent is in the stalk and leaves above the ear, twenty six per cent in the husks, and forty seven per cent in the stalk and blades below the ear. When left standing in the field many of the lower leaves dry up and are blown away or beaten down by rains into the ground and lost. Farmers are urged to cut corn for grain as soon as the ears are well dent and a few dry blades appear. Thus handled the maximum feeding value of the crop with reference both to grain and stover will be secured. Put the corn in good-sized shocks and after husking out the ears put a number of shocks together. Large shocks lose less food constituents by weather and fermentation than small shocks. If the stover is put into the barn it must be thoroughly dry to prevent moulding. Except for convenience of handling it is not necessary to shred corn stover, as apparently its feeding value is little if any increased thereby. By cutting and shocking the feed value of stover is increased one third over what it would be if left standing in the field. With a short hay crop this loss should be obviated by gathering and shocking the corn.

THE LAST WORD

How Deeds Of Daring Are Accomplished. Airship Coming To Salisbury.

The following editorial appeared in the Denver News, June 26th, 1911.

One of the most daring feats of all time was performed Tuesday at Niagara Falls. Lincoln Beachy, a California aviator, was out with his biplane. He circled twice above the falls and the gorge at a considerable height, and then, dipping downward till his motor was wet with the spray of the rapids above the falls, he drove his plane through the arch of the upper steel bridge; and swept off down the gorge for a goodly distance before rising, turning toward the Canadian side, landing there.

Is there anything that human recklessness will not dare? Think of this feat for a moment. Just to fly, to trust one's self to a frail thing of canvas and steel takes pretty good nerves in itself. But this man drove his machine over a course which is probably one of the most dangerous in the world. Beachy raced, apparently for sheer pleasure, over a course where death lay in wait in every form; a course where everything conspired to take control of the machine from the dare devil on the seat, and where an instant's loss of control would be fatal. Surely, battle has no terrors for a man who can do things like this for sport.

The age of romance? It is just dawning. The age of human daring? It has begun. All the ewashbuckling bullies of olden song and story are eclipsed by a feat like this. The Umbri, who coasted down the Alps on their shields; the Vikings, who said that "a brave man should attack two, stand to meet three, give ground a little to four, and only retreat before five," would have shrunk from a feat like this. The nearest approach to it which we can recall is the Roman entry at Pompeii, standing guard against Vesuvius itself. And even so, he did for discipline what Beachy did for fun.

The Curtiss Exhibition Company will be on the Wicomico Fair Grounds at Salisbury, August 15, 16, 17 and 18th, and will make three Aeroplane flights daily.

Improvements to Melson's M. E. Church.

The Melson's Methodist Episcopal Church which has been undergoing extensive repairs consisting of steel metal sides walls, beautifully decorated, a new carpet, the interior wood work all varnished the outside of the church painted and cement steps are being placed at both doors. When completed it will make the church one of the most beautiful country churches on the district. Sunday, July 30th has been arranged for the reopening day. Services as follows: Sunday morning services—9:30 a. m., Love Feast, conducted by Rev. R. W. Long; 10:30 a. m., sermon by Rev. W. F. Dawson, of Camden, Del., pastor of Melson's Church in 1897. Afternoon services—2:00 p. m., Sunday School, session in charge of Monroe Maddox, Superintendent; 3:00 p. m., sermon by Rev. George O. Williams, of Laurel, Del. Evening services—7:30 p. m., song services in charge of Wm. Workman; 8 p. m., sermon by Rev. W. F. Dawson. Special music for the day will be furnished by the choir. The new song book that will be used at the campmeeting, August 18th to 24th will be used at all the services. All members and friends of the church are especially invited to come and worship with us on this occasion. Why not come prepared and remain all day. Bring your dinner and with you. The camp grounds will afford a cool shady place to rest between the services.

The Jacksons' New Camp.

Mr. William P. Jackson and family are now in their new camp at Loon Lake, N. Y. They left Friday and are now fixing up the interior furnishings. This is a very handsome camp and one of the most comfortable in the region. The house with its furnishings cost about $10,000 and will be occupied as a summer home by the Jacksons. It is beautifully located and commands a view of the lake. Every modern convenience has been added to the camp special care being taken to have the big living room cozy and comfortable. Mr. Jackson will send one of his automobiles up for the summer and the family will remain until sometime in September.

Quantico 4; Hebron 3.

Quantico defeated Hebron in a closely contested game last Saturday on home ground as follows: Quantico, 3 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—11—6 Hebron, 1 0 1 0 0 1 0 0—5—3 Batteries, Jones and Phillips, Harding and Sewell; Camp, Bailey and Ellis.

NOW OVER $12,000,000

Wicomico's Assessable Basis Largely Increased—The Corrected Figures.

The County Treasurer has just completed lists of the new assessments and checked up the books which show some increases over the first estimates made. This was due in part to new building done after the schedules had been made out, and in part to corrections and additions made. The real and personal property now amounts to $9,886,806. This property is subject to both State and County tax, which combined will be $1 on the hundred. The list of stocks of Maryland Corporations which has been revised by the State Tax Commissioner now amounts to $2,196,214.85. The Treasurer collects on this property $78 on the hundred dollars the county tax alone. The total assessable basis upon which the county will collect taxes now is $12,083,020.85. These figures meet the full expectation of those who had charge of the work. It was expected from the beginning of the work that our basis would reach $12,000,000. These figures have been exceeded by thirty three thousand dollars. The corrected figures do not materially change the figures of the stocks and bonds of foreign corporations which aggregate $1,057,000. Upon this sum a tax of $30 on the hundred dollars is collected for county purposes, amounting to $308,670.

The Treasurer will publish in the local papers shortly the annual statements of receipts and disbursements for the year ending May the 31st. All statements of the County assets and liabilities and the levy lists—that is the estimates for the year beginning June the 1st, as soon as all the information can be prepared and properly tabulated. By the way of departure from the usual custom the Treasurer will publish in pamphlet form a statement of the county's transactions. This will contain the usual statement and in addition a detailed statement of the Road Engineer showing amount expended in each district, and on what account. It will also contain the annual statement of the School Board.

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS—Work Disposed Of By The Council Last Monday Evening.

The City Council had a long session Monday night and transacted considerable business. President Dennis being absent, Mr. I. E. Jones acted as president. The following business was transacted:

Building permits were granted as follows: F. Lloyd Hammond, dwelling on S. Division Street; James Price, addition to store on Pearl St.; Peter Linnet, store and dwelling on E. William Street.

The Council ordered four new street lights erected on Washington Street in South Salisbury. To be placed under the direction of the Mayor.

The City Solicitor was ordered to prepare an ordinance for laying sidewalks of five-foot cement on Barclay Street from E. Church Street to Brown Street. Also on E. Railroad Avenue, same width and material, on East side of said Avenue from Isabella Street to Elizabeth Street. Ordinance was also prepared for guttering and curbing E. William Street from Division Street to E. Church Street and the street supervisor was authorized to cut the trees on William Street in front of the property of Mr. Elmer H. Walton.

Mayor Bonds and Mr. Bradley were appointed a committee to take up the question of purchasing a bicycle and securing the services of a good man to act as a mounted police to run down and arrest fast drivers of automobiles. The property owners on E. Locust Street are to be notified to put down cement sidewalks within thirty days. Mayor Bonds, Mr. Jones and Mr. Bradley were appointed a committee to meet on Oak Hill Avenue with a view to widening same and report at next meeting.

Mayor Bonds and Mr. Bradley were appointed a committee to take up the question of buying or leasing a piece of land from the Salisbury Realty Company in the rear of the jail on which the city will establish a bathing pond for the accommodation of the country people and if same can be secured an ordinance will be passed prohibiting the hitching of teams on Main Street of the city.

Bids For Bridge Opened.

The State road Commission opened the bids for the Sharptown Bridge on Monday. Senator J. D. Price was present at the opening of the bids. The lowest bidders were the Roanoke Bridge Company, their bid being between $54,000 and $55,000. The bids were all above the estimate and the Commission will meet Thursday to give out the contract. Senator Price expressed upon the Commission the need of starting work on the bridge at once, as the State road is now nearly finished to Sharptown.

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY

By Mr. H. L. D. Stanford—Seeks Nomination For Judgeship in The First Judicial Circuit.

In an open letter to the voters of the First Judicial Circuit, comprising the counties of Worcester, Somerset, Worcester and Dorchester, Mr. Henry L. D. Stanford makes the following appeal for support:

Princess Anne, July 12, 1911. To the Voters of the First Judicial Circuit of Maryland.

Because of many tenders of support by influential and good citizens throughout the First Judicial Circuit and also because of strong endorsement by reputable newspapers and my associates of the Bar, in Worcester, Dorchester and Somerset Counties, I have determined to announce my candidacy for the nomination by the Democratic Party for the Associate Judgeship in the First Judicial Circuit of Maryland.

It will be remembered that about two years ago, when urged to become a candidate in opposition to Judge Jones, I took occasion in an open letter to the public to bespeak the support of myself and friends to Judge Jones, and to add that I would not be a candidate for nomination to the Associate Judgeship until the expiration of Judge Holland's term, and not then, UNLESS I SHOULD FIND A SUBSTANTIAL SUPPORT OF MY CANDIDACY AMONG THE PEOPLE. I also then stated that I would prefer that such nomination be submitted to a direct vote of the people, which I am glad to say, under the Act of 1910, as construed by the Attorney General of the State, will be the case. Indeed I am now, and have consistently been in the past, an advocate of the direct vote system and, whilst I am fully possessed, as in nearly every other lawyer, of the laudable ambition to serve on the bench, I am sincere, when I say that I do not want it unless the people shall, by their votes, express their approval. In this connection, however, I shall make no appeal to any citizen of Somerset County to vote for me merely because it happens that my place of residence is in the same county. On this point, it may be significant to note that the duties of the office are, and will be, co-extensive with the four counties comprising the Circuit and the people shall, and doubtless will—exercise their privilege to choose a candidate, with a view to his discharge of such duties in all, and not alone in one, of the counties of the Circuit. Moreover, in view of the endorsements referred to, and of the fact that since arriving at manhood, I have actively participated in many contests for the success of Democratic candidates, I would respectfully submit that I know of no good reason why I may not be an acceptable candidate to my numerous party friends in the Circuit, including Worcester County, where I was born fifty-four years ago, and where, as in other counties of the Circuit, I have practiced, since my admission to the Bar in 1890. I mention Worcester County specifically, because at the present writing, it appears probable that my only opponent in the Primaries, will be the incumbent, who resides in that County, and in whose behalf is apparent a zealous effort by him and his friends, to unify the voters of that county in support of his candidacy. I am sure it will be believed when I state that I hold none save agreeable memories of Worcester County, the place of my birth and of many years' sojourn; and friendly feeling for her good people, including the members of her excellent local Bar. Indeed, when the vacancy occurred last year, I thought it proper to authorize and direct my friends to suggest, and they did suggest, to Governor Crothers that his appointment of Hon. James E. Ellegood, a lawyer of the highest integrity and of recognized fitness, and eminent qualifications for the Bench, would be regarded by me as only a just tribute to this worthy leader of the Worcester Bar, especially as by reason of his near approach to the age limit, all who might become candidates at the subsequent Primaries would know that his services on the Bench and the prestige of the position, if appointed thereto, could not, and would not be used to advance a coveted nomination, as might be the case with one not so advanced in years. Notwithstanding this suggestion on my part, the Governor ignored Mr. Ellegood's endorsements, as well as my own, and in the exercise of his prerogative, as Executive, chose to appoint Judge Tondy, and it happens that the latter's supporters have urged, and are still urging, as an argument for his retention, the prestige, and his performance of the duties, of the position so obtained; and furthermore have illogically insisted that such appointment by the Executive, who is not a resident of, and has not practiced in the Circuit, creates a necessity for the incumbent's candidacy, even to the elimination of another of the same county, whose claims to recognition, might be considered by the people of equal or greater measure and merit, and who, in withdrawing from the contest, stated that such construction was beyond his understanding; doubtless because, in its last analysis it would work the effect of forcing upon the incumbent—for whom I hold only friendly regard—a candidacy, perhaps against his own judgment and interest.

In another recent case, it has been persistently said "that the mere fact that the incumbent is an appointee of the Governor and will have served upon the Bench for only a short time, shall the next general election, should have no material influence, with the voters in the selection of their candidate to be voted for, and any claim of argument that may be made, that simply because the incumbent has been so appointed by the Governor, he should now be considered as the choice of the people, is lacking in weight and force. Such a construction of the constitutional right of the voter would be to limit their power merely to the confirmation, at the polls, of the Governor's choice, depriving them of the right to select another, if the appointee of the Governor be not their choice."

I have endeavored during my professional dealings with a multitude of individual as well as some corporate clients, to rightfully demean myself to them and to their legitimate interest, with due regard to the rights of others and without taint to my honor, or blemish to my good name. He this as it may, the record of my standing as a lawyer and as a man, I respectfully leave to a considerate people among whom my business and social life has been spent and in whose midst my closing days, probably, shall be numbered. To the generous citizens and newspapers, and especially to my associates of the Bar, some of whom are of opposite political faith, who have seen fit to approve of my candidacy, I desire publicly to express profound appreciation and sincere thanks for this evidence of their confidence and esteem, with the assurance that I shall submit my candidacy to the Democratic voters, and if elected to this high and honorable position, so attractive to every lawyer, who possesses a proper sense of its dignity and importance, I shall serve the whole people, with all the force and capabilities at my command; but, on the other hand if it shall be their will to choose another by their votes, then in that event, I shall be content to remain in private life, and to strive in the future, as in the past, to maintain my livelihood in the station of life it shall please God to place me. Respectfully submitted, Henry L. D. Stanford.

Ordinance No H 6.

AN ORDINANCE to regulate the erection or repairing of buildings in the City of Salisbury, Maryland, and the granting of permits therefor.

Whereas the Mayor and Council of Salisbury desires to preserve the health, peace and safety and well-being of the inhabitants of Salisbury; Section 1: Be it enacted and ordained by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland; That no person, persons, firm or corporation shall erect, or repair any building within the corporate limits of Salisbury, without first making application and receiving a permit to do so from the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, and each application shall be accompanied by a fee of one dollar, which shall be the fee for every permit so granted, and said application shall be in writing, stating the proposed location, the size of the proposed building, and the materials to be used, and the purpose for which it is to be used, and any person or persons who shall violate the provisions of this ordinance, shall upon conviction thereof before the Police Justice of Salisbury, be fined the sum of Five dollars and the further sum of Five dollars for each and every day from the date building is commenced, and upon failure to pay said fine or fines, and costs, shall be committed to the county jail until said fine or fines and costs are paid.

Section II: Be it further enacted and ordained by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland; That this ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage. The above ordinance was passed by the Council of Salisbury at its meeting July 10th, 1911.

President of the Council of Salisbury, Approved by the Mayor of Salisbury this 10th day of July, 1911. WILLIAM F. L. BOUNDS, Mayor of Salisbury, Maryland.

UP TO THE VOTERS.

Whether or not future nominations in this county will be made by the direct vote of the people will be decided at this year's primary by the voters themselves. If they desire to select their own ticket as they did in the last primary and as they will do this year all they have to do is to mark their ticket in the primaries to be held August the 22nd in favor of the Lee primary law.

It is being urged against the direct plan that it necessitates a campaign by the prospective candidates throughout the entire county, and in view of the fact that a great number of the offices to be filled are of so little advantage to the holders it costs more in work and money to obtain the office than it is worth. It will be readily admitted by all that in case of some of the offices this is true and the successful candidate is but poorly paid for his time and trouble. Yet so far there does not seem to be any scarcity of men competent to serve the people who are willing to make the sacrifice.

Again there is a strong feeling in some of the smaller districts that owing to the overwhelming numerical strength in a few of the more populous districts they have but little show when the nominations are made by a majority vote. Under the convention system these argue that those who act as the guiding hands of the party would see that the nominees were evenly balanced from a geographical standpoint and the offices would be so distributed that all would have a share.

The history, however, of direct primaries in other places does not seem to bear out this seemingly well taken point, but men of merit have often won even when their opponents hailed from a more populous section.

It must be admitted with everything else being equal, the larger districts would have a decided advantage. Again it is argued that the direct plan gives a man entirely unfit for an office an opportunity to go out and by diligent work and smooth talking to create a sentiment in favor of his nomination. This criticism is based entirely upon the idea that the people as a body do not fully recognize the responsibility which rests upon their shoulders under the direct system of voting, and are ready to fall behind any man regardless of his merit who asks them for their support.

To admit the correctness of this criticism is to accuse the American people of a lack of judgement, sincerity and honesty to such a degree that it unfit them for self government. Given time to think over and analyze a situation the majority of our citizens will finally be found on the right side of any proposition. To lose our faith in the American people is to repudiate our whole theory of government.

The ADVERTISER has for several years consistently supported the plan of making our nominations by the direct method, and while freely admitting that it will not bring about an ideal condition in our politics, we believe it to be a safer plan for the country at large, to adopt than to revert back again to the convention system. The present primary law is not ideal by any means. It has many features that could be improved upon and further seems unnecessarily loaded down with so many complications that it is hard for the average man to grasp its true meaning.

Outside of its long string of needless red tape, the envelope system of voting is the most vulnerable point, as this does away with the secrecy as necessary in all kinds of voting if the true sentiment of the voter is to be registered. Our coming legislature can and should correct these evils and give to the state a law simple and effective. The voters of this county should carefully consider this question and register as the coming primaries their own real conviction. Whatever the decision of the majority may be will be considered final, and accepted as the method to be hereafter pursued in making out the ticket.

As the decision as to whether the county should be under present conditions or under a new system will be decided at this year's primary by the voters themselves, it is up to the voters to decide.

or body of men trying to control the party for their own selfish purposes and ends. If the people decide that a convention is preferable to direct voting and then leave the personnel of our future tickets to be decided upon by our party leaders, they would undoubtedly do their best to get good, capable, honest men for candidates. But the present is not the future and nominations by the convention plan will make it much easier for the party to be controlled by a man with selfish motives as a guide, instead of public good, should the future produce a leader of this type.

THE SHARPTOWN CAMP

To Be Held August 11th-21st. Preparations Being Made For Large Camp.

The Camp-meeting at Nelson's Woods, adjoining Sharptown will begin Friday, August 11th, and close Monday, the 21st. The encampment is one of the most attractive in this part of our Conference territory, and efforts will be made to increase the comfort and convenience of those who attend. The grove will be thoroughly cleaned, all undergrowth removed that it may be open and airy and furnish accommodations for carriages and autos. It is the purpose of the management to light the circle of the encampment and the roads of entrance with electricity, if not found too expensive; but the fire stands will be preserved to awaken memories of the glorious past.

B. P. Gravenor, Esq., of Sharptown, will have charge of the singing during the preaching services and will organize a chorus of fifty voices with the accompaniment of such musical instruments as will render the service of praise the most inspiring. Those who expect to occupy tents have been requested to move into their tents on August 7th and 8th, that they may have ample time to be in readiness for the opening service on the evening of the 11th.

The Rev. R. H. Adams will have charge of the Camp, and will be assisted by some of the most able and efficient ministers of the Wilmington Conference, as well as several prominent ministers of the Maryland Protestant Church.

To avoid delaying the services and hindering the preaching of the Gospel by frequent collections, a contribution of five cents will be received at the entrance of the encampment from all persons of eight years of age and over to defray expenses. Care will be exercised in placing the privileges under the direction of such persons as will faithfully serve the interests of the camp without any resort to unworthy means or Sabbath desecration. The Boarding Tent will be under the management of capable persons to insure satisfactory accommodation to all visitors. Special effort will be made to provide comfort for visiting ministers.

The keynote of the Camp will be the establishment of believers and the conversion of sinners; and many of the Christian people of Sharptown are, by prayer and meditation, preparing themselves for this spiritual work. There is a desire that there shall go out from this gathering of Christian people an influence that will produce revivals in all the surrounding churches.

—Mr. Wm. B. Tilghman, Jr. and two sisters, Misses Louise and Mary, will leave in a few days for Atlantic City in his Chalmers touring car. They will be joined there by Mrs. Tilghman and youngest daughter, who have been visiting in the West for several weeks, and spend several days.

—Thursday evening Miss Mary O. Brewington entertained about fifty young ladies and gentlemen in honor of her guests, Miss Sterling of Jersey City and Miss Margaret Bonds, of Quantico. The large lawn was brilliantly lighted with Japanese lanterns, presenting a pretty scene.

—While walking under an umbrella with her sweetheart, at Benton Harbor, Mich., Miss Millicent Turney was struck by lightning and probably fatally injured. The girl's clothes were torn to shreds and she was severely scorched from head to foot on one side. Her companion suffered only a slight shock.

—Rev. Mr. Beale, pastor of the Wisconsin Presbyterian Church will speak to his congregation tomorrow morning upon "Concerning the Conscience." An interesting Reason Why I Believe in the Ultimate Union of All Christians will be the subject of Mr. Beale's short evening address. The hymns of the evening are the favorite hymns of the choir.

—Miss Nellie Smith, who resides on Walnut Street, met with a painful accident Sunday evening while visiting the home of Mr. W. J. Johnson on E. Isabella Street. Bidding the family good night, Miss Smith started down the porch steps, and in some manner tripped and fell to the sidewalk fracturing her limb just below the knee.

—Edward Fitzgerald was certainly smart when he worded this estimate; "My bid is $10 lower than the lowest. His bid was accepted at $900, which is $10 less than the lowest of the estimates from contractors to erect a new school building at West Bowmanstown, East Penn Township, Pa. The other competitors are very indignant that such a bid should be accepted."

—O. A. Nicodemus of Walkersville was pinned underneath his automobile as it was overturned Wednesday night when the steering gear refused to work and was badly injured. Frank Brown of Roanoke, Va., and Miss Emma Brown of Frederick, who were with him at the time were thrown out, but sustained only minor injuries. It was necessary to summon a passing automobile to lift the fallen vehicle before Mr. Nicodemus could be extricated from his position.

—Rev. Mr. Wright the assistant pastor of Trinity M. E. Church South, Salisbury, who has just entered upon his work is a son of former Presiding Elder Wright who resided in Salisbury several years ago and is well remembered by many of our people. Mr. Wright will remain in Salisbury the entire summer and fall, to relieve the pastor, Rev. J. F. Carey, of some of the work in his two churches while he is making preparations to entertain the Virginia Conference.

—Mrs. Lizzie Robertson died yesterday afternoon after a long illness and will be buried this Saturday, afternoon in Suffolk, Va. Mrs. Robertson was before her marriage, Miss Lizzie Taylor, of Worcester county. She married Mr. George B. Robertson and moved to Whaleyville, Va., several years ago where Mr. Robertson, who was one of the firm and manager for the Jackson Bros., Lumber Co., has resided for a long while. She leaves her husband, one son and one daughter.

—Four women were killed and a chauffeur seriously injured in an automobile accident at Reesville, N. J., seven miles north of Granville, Wednesday, July 25th. The automobile was struck on a grade crossing by a Delaware and Hudson passenger train as the automobile was returning from Williamsport, Mass. Outrigger, the chauffeur, saw the train approaching and shifted his gear from low to high in an effort to get across. In shifting the gear, however, he lost the spark and the big touring car stopped in the middle of the track.

—Will Build Election House, The County Commissioners will be forced to build a new election house for Salisbury District. For several years the old mill on the property of "Mill Creek" has been used as an election house but this has been demolished and the Commissioners will be forced to erect a new house. The Salisbury Realty Company offered a site near the old one and the Commissioners will order a house erected like that built for Camden district in time for the primaries and registration.

We Believe Kuppenheimer Clothes Are The Best Clothes Made In America Today.

While we buy clothes from other manufacturers of national reputations, we believe KUPPENHEIMER Clothes are the best clothes made in the country today.

That's Why We Sell Them.

We'll give you a stronger guarantee on Kuppenheimer Clothes than any other store gives—a guarantee that means something. We'll guarantee that every Kuppenheimer Suit will stand up and keep its shape and style until it is worn out, that the fabrics are all wool, fast color and cold-water shrunk. We'll guarantee long wear, satisfaction to the last inch and stitch. You ought to be the ONLY judge. If not come back for new goods or your money, any time. There won't be any sour looks about giving you new goods or your money either. We want to do it. We can't afford to have a man, no matter where he lives, keep anything from our store that's unsatisfactory.

We want you men and young men to come here and see the greatest assortment of good clothes that ever came to Salisbury.

WAR AND PEACE.

There was a time when an insult by one man to another in the same social class could only be wiped out by the blood of the other in a mortal duel, and in those days it took more moral courage to avoid a duel than to fight one. We have made great progress almost within our own memory in such ideals. If that be true of men, why may it not be true in the near future of nations? Why will it not show more patriotism and more love of country to refuse to go to war for an insult and to submit it to the arbitration of a peaceful tribunal than to subject a whole people to the misery and cruelty and suffering and burden of heavy cost of a national war, however glossed over by the excitement and ambitions and glory of a successful conquest?—
President Taft.

VALUE OF FAITH.

A bending staff I would not break.
A feeble faith I would not shake,
Nor even rashly pluck away
The error which some truth may stay.
Whose loss might leave the soul without A shield against the shafts of doubt.

—Whittier.

THE CONSTITUTION.

Our constitution is antiquated, obsolete and really a hindrance to any reasonable growth in our public life, and therefore it should be changed. Our present constitution was framed at a time when this nation was born and when the country had about three million inhabitants. At that time the people were in the main hunters and farmers in arms, with a small merchant class in New York, Philadelphia and Boston and cotton planters in the south. There were no railroads, no telegraphs and no telephones. Since that time tremendous changes have taken place. And yet with all these wonderful changes which the framers of the constitution could not have foreseen we are still living under a constitution made for our ancestors.—Victor Berger.

I have 20 carloads of Buggies, Wagons, Runabouts, Surreys and Speed Carts. Come see for yourself. We have new styles other manufacturers cannot copy under a year.

We have over 2,000 Wrenn Buggies in use over six years that did not cost the users over $65 when new. I can save anyone needing a Buggy, Surrey or Runabout, $20. Come look them over.

Testimonial from H. Fillmore Lankford, Attorney-at-Law: "I have a Wrenn Surrey which has been in use twenty years, and it is a good one to-day. I had the tire cut after using nineteen years."

Wrenn's make of Buggy is a guarantee that you get your money's worth. Why pay $20 more for an imitation when you can buy a Wrenn from $55 up?

Wagons, I have them—not the common ones, but the cheap ones. Cost $10 more, last twice as long.

Mr. Boudrie came in last week and said: "Mr. Taylor, I want a Runabout. I bought a Wrenn Buggy from you ten years ago, and I am still using it." He bought another Wrenn. Best by test, cheapest on earth for the money.

I show more vehicles set up than you can find in any city or town in several States.

MEANING OF LOVE.

Perhaps of all words in human speech none is more elastic than love. It means as many different things as there are minds. It is the one word which when a man speaks it means no more or less than his personality. It is the gist, substance and quintessence of what he is; more of what he longs to be, for—

"The thing we long for, that we are

For one transcendent moment."

When you say, therefore, that you love a man, a woman, a child or God we can have not much idea of what you mean until we know you. Pious folk express their most exalted ideal—the feeling of their union with God—and even describe the nature of deity itself by this word, while vicious and perverted creatures use precisely the same word to express their lowest form of selfishness. — Rev. Frank Crane.

FROM SHAKESPEARE.

There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.
—Julius Caesar.

My honor is my life; both grow in one.
Take honor from me and my life is done.
—King Richard III.

They are but beggars that can count their worth;
But my true love is grown to such success
I cannot sum up half my sum of wealth.
—Romeo and Juliet.

A friend should bear his friend's infirmities. —Julius Caesar.

DREAM OF PEACE.

That the fear of revolutions at home, of the growth of the anti-militarist spirit in Europe, has much to do with this decline of war is, of course, true, yet the fact remains that war today is less than 1 per cent as destructive as during the middle ages. From the things already accomplished we may gather the cheering promise of still better things yet to come. Instead of ridiculing the peace congress as an idle dream of visionaries let us not forget that in all ages of history the Josephs, the dreamers, brought ultimately blessings to mankind. Life would not be worth living were it not for the dreams and hopes of idealists for the coming of days which will be better than ours. —Rev. Emanuel Schreier.

MAXIMS.

Never spare the parson's wine nor the baker's pudding.
He's a fool that makes his doctor his heir.
Never take a wife till thou hast a house (and a fire) to put her in.
Beware of meat twice boiled and an old foe reconciled.
He that is rich need not live sparingly, and he that can live sparingly need not be rich. —Benjamin Franklin.

THE TRUE GENTLEMAN.

'Tis he whose every thought and deed
By act of virtue moves,
Whose generous tongue disdains to speak
The thing his heart disproves.

Who never did a slander forge
His neighbor's fame to wound.
Nor hearken to a false report
By malice whispered round.

Who, vice, in all its pomp and power,
Can treat with just neglect,
And piety, though clothed in rags,
Religiously respect.

Who to his plighted word and trust
Has ever firmly stood,
And though he promised to his loss
He makes his promise good.

Whose soul in usury disdains
His treasure to employ,
Whom no reward can ever bribe
The guiltless to destroy.
—Gouverneur Morris.

VICE AND VIRTUE.

The affection of virtue which characterizes this century would be very ludicrous if it were not very tireless. —T. Gautier.

When our vices leave us we flatter ourselves that we are leaving them. —La Rochefoucauld.

Heaven made virtue, man the appearance. —Voltaire.

Virtue as understood by the world is a constant struggle against the laws of nature. —From the French.

COST OF SHIPPING.

At the present time $300,000,000 is drawn from this country annually to pay other countries for carrying our products. While this drain continues there will continue to be bank panics and financial troubles. We must reclaim our own. Our lack of vessels is largely responsible for the increase in the price of beef. Our commerce on the Pacific has been throttled by the rule that American vessels must make their rates known one month before the delivery of goods for shipment. The vessels of other nations thus easily underbid us. I do not think the remedy is in a subsidy. We must make laws for the government of our own merchant vessels and not regard to the laws of other nations. —Louis Nizer.

THE MOTHERS OF MEN.

The bravest battle that ever was fought.
Shall I tell you where and when?
On the map of the world you'll find it not;
'Twas fought by the mothers of men.

Nay, not with cannon or battle shot,
With sword or nobler pen;
Nay, not with words of eloquence fraught
From the mouths of wonderful men.

But deep in the walled up mother's heart,
A mother that will not yield,
But patiently, quietly bears her part—
To them in this battlefield.

No marshaled troops nor bivouac song,
No banners that gleam or wave,
But, oh, those battles they last so long,
From babyhood to the grave.
—Joachim Miller.

JAPAN'S FRIENDSHIP.

There were always reasons why Japan could not attack America successfully. There have for many years been sentimental reasons why she would not if she could. It was America who came knocking at our doors when we were a close corporation, a stay at home provincial people. America led us into the kindergarten of western civilization and showed us how to walk. She made us known to all the world. Her sympathy has been with us in every great crisis. In the kindergartens of Japan today the little children are taught patriotism, which becomes a fierce fire in every breast. The little ones are taught the story of how the United States was the first and best friend we had in the congress of world powers. —Rev. Minozuke Yamaquiehl.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Apply the result of your reading to your everyday life. —David Pryde.

'Tis only noble to be good;
Kind hearts are more than coronets,
And simple faith than Norman blood.
—Tennyson.

Keep steadily before you the fact that all true success depends at least upon yourself. —Theodore Munger.

It is the work of a philosopher to be every day subduing his passions and laying aside his prejudices. —Addison.

It is very good for strength
To know that some one needs you to be strong.
—Elizabeth Barrett Browning.

IDLENESS OF TEARS.

When I consider life and its few years—
A wisp of fog betwixt us and the sun,
A call to battle and the battle done
Ere the last echo dies within our ears,
A rose choked in the grass, an hour of fear,
The gusts that part a darkening shore do beat,
The burst of music down an unlistening street—
I wonder at the idleness of tears.
Ye old, old dead, and yet of yesterday,
Chieftains and bards and keepers of the sheep,
By every cup of sorrow that you had,
Loose me from tears and make me see aright.
How each hath back what once he stayed to weep—
Homer his sight, David his little ind, —Lizette Woodworth Rees.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE ROUNDUP.

IT was only the car that was disabled. Beyond a severe shaking up neither Patricia nor Blount was seriously hurt. Recovering from the shock and being assured of Patricia's wholeness and his own, Blount sprang out to see what the collision had done to the car. The inspection was brief. With the front axle bent, the radiator crushed and one cylinder of the engine broken, the little car was safely out of commission. "We're done for," he said shortly, helping his companion down from the driving seat. Patricia was still trembling and pale, and he thought that the accident was accountable. "Do you mean—that we can't go on to the city?" she quavered. "Not unless we walk, and it is exactly fifteen miles. I happened to notice the speedometer record on the roadster when we turned around here last Sunday."

"What shall we do?" she asked when the improbability of any timely rescue made itself apparent. Blount looked at his watch. It was already a few minutes past 3 o'clock. "We'll sit down and wait for somebody to come along and rescue us," he said, striving to say it lightly. "I'm sure we ought to be glad and thankful that it is no worse. We stood a good chance of being killed, both of us."

She shuddered and said: "I might have stopped sooner. There—there was time, don't you think?" Evan had thought so, and he was regarding her curiously. There had been many motoring experiences in their acquaintance of a year and not a few hazards, and he had not once rejoiced in her cool presence of mind in the face of sudden danger. "I wondered a little that you didn't," he ventured to say. "I never saw you hesitate before."

"The look that she gave him was patently pleading. "I stopped—just one little instant to think of your father—and—those terrible papers in your pocket and what was going to happen if you should reach Judge Hemmingsway in time. Even," she confessed brokenly, "Can you ever forgive me?"

It was a moment for the brushing aside of obstacles once and for all, and he took her in his arms—would have done it if the lonely Quaker road had been the busiest street in the capital.

"You are my brave, loyal darling," he said. And because she let him say it and hid the face, from which the cold pallor had suddenly fled, on his shoulder the political struggle and everything pertaining to it became as things of naught and the lonely road the way to paradise. The silence of the immensities held them for a moment—a golden silence for the lover, but a moment of keen self reproachings for the maiden sobbing on his shoulder.

"Oh, I don't know how I could have done it—but I did!" she wept. "I—I was actually glad when I saw the tree. I didn't have the courage to—upset the car in the ditch."

Again he comforted her, and the political venalities withdrew into a still remoter region. "It was to be," he said. "That is what the tree was put here for—to stop us."

She looked up at that. "Why, that is so, isn't it? There are no trees growing around here—none at all. Who did it, Evan?"

Blount shook his head sadly. "There is only one person in the world who could have any strong reason for stopping us," he asserted. "I can't imagine how my father managed it in the short time at his disposal. That tree has been dragged down out of the little canyon since we passed going north. You can see the trail of it in the road."

"Please, Evan," she pleaded, "don't ask me to believe that your father planned it! Why, we might have been killed outright, both of us!"

"I know," he returned gloomily, "but—hello, here comes our rescuer!"

It was rather a figure of speech than an assurance. Around a turn in the canyon road came three horsemen pointing for the main highway and ambulating gently. They were hardly within hailing distance before Blount recognized his three waylayers of the night of mysteries in the Lost River mountains, with Barto in the lead.

"Howdy!" said the timber looker, riding up to hang with one knee over the saddle while he grinned at the two castaways. "Lost out again, Mr. Blount? Couldn't make out to run your chug wagon over that there pine tree, eh?"

"Did you put the tree in the road?" snapped Blount, with rising anger. "I reckon we did," was the cool reply, "and it was one job too. Had to drag it f'm down a mile down the gulch with the horse rope."

"There was material for an explosion, but Blount controlled himself. "By whose orders did you do it?" he demanded.

"The boss."

"Mr. Hawthaway?"

"Not on your life. It was the big boss this time."

lady can make out to ride one of the broncs," he began. "There's a right comfortable little shack of a hotel at the head of the gulch, and—"

"But we are on our way to the city," Blount interposed, still trying to master his impatience.

"The timber looker shrugged. "All right. I reckon there ain't no law 'g'inst your walkin' or settin' down to wait till somebody come along. But it might be a good while."

Blount turned to Patricia. "Shall we wait?" he asked, and she nodded quickly, with a look in her eyes that he could not interpret.

"I don't believe we care to go and look for your shack hotel," he said to the road blocker.

Barto swung straight in his saddle and fell into the attitude of one listening. Then the grin became a menace, and he stepped sharply.

"Gimme them papers you got in your pocket and do it sudden!" he commanded. "Then you can stay here till the cows come home if you want to. Quick, I say!"

"No," Blount said crisply. Instantly Barto's pistol was out. "Give 'em up!" he shouted. "Shell 'em out or—"

The diversion came stormily. Around the curve from the north—the curve that had so lately been Patricia's undoing—came a huge touring car, with a big man at the wheel, a veiled woman in the mechanical seat and the tonneau crammed with armed men.

Barto snapped his pistol at the oncoming car, and when the weapon missed he wheeled his horse to the canyon road, up which his two companions were already urging their mounts. Two seconds later the big car had stopped at the tree barrier, and six men with Winchester were popping the halt signal at the dying highwaymen. It was speedily effective, and when the game was bagged the senator swung down from the driving seat of the big Italian car and gave his orders briefly.

"Take these fellows up yonder to the hotel at the canyon head and see that they're kept out of mischief till tomorrow night, Granger," he said, singling out the leader of his tonneau squad. "Then let the gentlemen you'll find bounding things up there that the fig is up and he may as well come to the city. It'll find me at the Inter-Mountain when he wants to talk it over."

A little engineering feat, made possible by the big car's towrope, soon cleared the way, and when the great car, with the two women in the tonneau and Evan in the seat beside his father, was devouring the miles in the straightaway race to the city the young man said what was due.

"I was bawling you for the tree and for Barto's attempt to get those affidavits away from me," was what he broke the humming silence to say, and the senator nodded.

"I guess it was pretty lucky we had our ears in the cut-in on McVickar's private wire up yonder at Wartace," he said, but that was all that he said.

The courteous clock was just striking 4 when the huge touring car, with its radiator sizzling hot, came to a stand before the entrance to Judge Hemmingsway's chambers.

"You're still in time, son," said the senator quietly.

But Evan Blount made no move to get out of the car. "Was I jumping at conclusions, dad?" he asked him at last.

"A little that way—just a little that way," was the gentle reply. "You see, Gryson did sure enough turn traitor this morning when he gave you those affidavits. He'd had a quarrel with Mr. McVickar. Every one of those crooked names means a vote for your railroad, son. That was why I told you you'd better not holler out about it. It was against your own side."

Evan Blount's hesitation might have been measured by a clock tick. "Then that is the more the reason why?" he began, but his father was once more putting the clutch in.

"No," he interrupted, still in the same gentle tone; "don't let's jump at any more conclusions, Evan. Wait just a little while. There's more to come—and I shouldn't be surprised if it came before dinner time."

"It did come before dinner time—came when a dust covered car driven at reckless speed tore in over the northward road and was pulled up with a jerk at the Inter-Mountain entrance to let Mr. Hawthick McVickar debark and hurry to the clerk's desk."

"Senator Blount? Yes, he's in his room," he said you were to come right up," said the clerk, and without stopping to strip off his dust coat, the vice president hastened to an elevator.

What took place behind the closed door of the sitting room in the Blount suit is not a matter of record, and Evan Blount, sitting beside Patricia in Mrs. Blount's private sitting room, and concluding a lasting peace with his father's wife, was too happy to care very much. But after a time the summons for which he had been waiting came, and he went—almost reluctantly—to join his father in the room of conference.

"Has Mr. McVickar gone?" he asked, finding his father sitting alone.

"Yes; he's gone—gone to order out his car and go back to Chicago," was the slow spoken reply. Then, with the quizzical smile wrinkling at the eye corners, "How does the political wrestling strike you by this time, son?"

"It strikes me that I haven't been in it—not even in the outer edges of it, dad. Isn't that about the size of it?"

"Oh, no; you've been doing good work—mighty good work, for your company," McVickar recognizes it. "You've helped out in the only way that help could come in this campaign. You've worked up a good, healthy public sentiment in favor of a square deal for everybody."

McVickar was going to lose it. Looking the registration lists and voting votes and making deals right and left, the same as usual. But it's all off now, and he's gone, and we're going to have one Clean, straight up and down business, son. The 'machine' says so."

"The machine?" queried the younger man.

"Yes; you didn't know that a machine organization could be put to any really righteous use, did you, boy? But this is one time when it has gone in to knock out the crookedness, big and little. Listen, son. When you wired me that you were coming out here I lay awake nights thinking how I'd put you in training and then when the time came I'd help you up into the saddle and make you the boss of the roundup, as I'd been. Want to hear the rest of it?"

Blount nodded.

"Then it came over me all of a sudden that I'd been as crooked as a dog's hind leg; that we'd all been crooked. Not that I'd ever taken a dollar for my personal pocket, for I haven't, but I've bought and sold and dickered and schemed with the best of 'em and the worst of 'em, just as McVickar's been doing for the past two months. Then I asked myself if I'd like to see you wallowing in the same mudhole, and—well, Evan, you may have a son of your own some day, and then you'll know. I thought I'd try you a little at first, and I did—that first day out at Wartace. When you ripped out at me that day I made up my mind right then and there that I'd put the whole power of the 'machine,' as you call it, into one campaign for a clean election and a square deal."

"I've been fighting you and your organization at every turn!"

"No, you haven't," was the quick rejoinder. "You've been fighting graft and that was what you thought you were hired to do. McVickar wasn't playing just fair with you. He gave you your job in the first place to take you away from me, but you've been in the hands of your friends right from the start, Evan. It was the organization that gave you all those chances to preach the new gospel of the square deal. It was the organization that pushed Hawthaway up against you, so that you'd know that the railroad people were running around in the same old circles, hollering for justice and doing everything they could to defeat the ends of justice—muddying the spring because, they say, they don't know what else to do."

"Lastly, it's the organization that's going to see to it that your word to the people of this state is made good, son. Maybe we'll never be able to do it again, but this one time we shall do it. Gordon is going in by the biggest majority ever given to a governor of old Sagebrush, and the legislature will be five to one in favor of the square deal."

The younger man left his chair and walked to one of the windows to stand, looking down upon the lights of the busy street. When he turned again it was to say, "I don't see where I am to break in, dad."

"You have already broken in. While the legislature is going to be anti-corruption, it is also going to be fair when it finds out that all the railroad deals have been called off and canceled. You're the man to show the lawmakers that this has actually been done. McVickar made a hard and fast point of that when he consented to wipe the slate clean and go away and let us run our politics to suit ourselves. He made me promise to put it up to you fair and square, with a handsome increase in salary and an iron-clad agreement to back up every claim you should make when you assert that the railroad company will fire the first man that is caught evading the laws. That's what I've been fighting for in this campaign, Evan, and it's what you must fight for."

The son took the two steps necessary to reach the father's chair and held out his hand.

"I'm with you, dad," he said heartily. "I'll stay, and I'll make Mr. McVickar respect me and my principles before I'm through with it. But I'm still a little bit afraid that you and your kind are a menace to civilization and a free government. You won't mind my saying that, will you?"

"Lawsee gracious, no! Say anything you like, son, or, rather, let me say something else first. How about this 'career' business of Patricia's? Have you fixed that up yet?"

Evan shook his head despondently. "She's going home with her father in October," he said, then: "Do you know what she did today, dad? She ran the little red car into that tree intentionally so I couldn't get back here in time to use those affidavits which she and I both supposed would incriminate you."

"God bless her loyal little soul!" said the senator. "I hadn't told her what I was trying to do; but, Lord love you, she knew you trust a woman for knowing, every time, son. And now one more thing. Have you come to know Honoria any better in these last few days?"

"Yes, much better within the last hour, dad."

"Good. That does my old heart a heap of good, son. Let's go and get those two good women and take 'em down to dinner; then we'll drive back to Wartace and get ready to touch off the fireworks when the returns come in. I tell you, son, tomorrow's election is going to be a regular old fashioned, heave 'em up and keep 'em a-going holiday!"

Evan Blount was turning to go back to the inner sitting room, where Patricia was—when he suddenly remembered little Blenkinsop.

"Don't let that worry you for a minute, son," said the man who seemed to be at the heart of everything that was happening. "Half an hour after you left Blenkinsop this morning that stuff that they had stolen from your estate was all handed in. When I told Blenkinsop over the phone that there wouldn't be any crooked lists used tomorrow—that he was merely fixing to put himself on record as the biggest liar on two continents—he came down."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Proceedings Of The Board At Last Tuesday's Session.

The County Commissioners held a busy session Tuesday. Before proceeding with business the following resolutions were passed on the death of the late County Commissioner W. D. Traitt:

Whereas, It has pleased God in His all-wise Providence to take from our midst our associate, Wesley D. Traitt, whose death occurred at his home near Williams, July 14th, be it

Resolved, That the County Commissioners, a conscientious and able official, who was untiring in his efforts to perform his duties as a servant of the people who elected him to the responsible position of County Commissioner.

Resolved, That his associates in the Board feel that they have sustained a serious loss in the death of one whose life and services grew more valuable as they knew him more intimately as a high-minded, conscientious and able public official.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the County Commissioners and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

Mr. John T. Hammond asked the Board to provide the right of way promised when the new Mt. Hermon Road was laid out, to extend from the old road through the relocated road. Engineer Clark was directed to lay out the necessary right of way asked for.

Messrs. S. A. Wimbrow, W. L. Laws and others, filed a petition asking for a tax ditch in Dennis District. G. E. Jackson, B. S. Morris and S. P. Parsons were appointed examiners. Engineer Clark was directed to have the road from the Green Hill Road to the old Green Hill Church repaired.

Reports of J. G. Traitt, Claude Gordy and E. J. Parsons, Commissioners on tax ditch in Pittsburg District, petitioned for by J. T. West, and others, was finally ratified.

Messrs. Perry and Ward were appointed a committee to confer with the B. O. and A. R. B. attorney relative to taxing the company's rolling stock.

"Murdered," Found Alive; To Free His "Slayers."

Charles G. Weymouth, for whose supposed murder three years ago two men and a woman were recently arrested at Biddeford, Maine, was found at Quebec. He was traced there, where he had been working for a grocery firm nearly a year, was identified by D. S. Hamilton, of Saco, Maine, and went willingly with him and Attorney L. Emery, of Biddeford to cause the release of the suspects.

The arrests at Biddeford were made on information given to the police by the nine and six year old daughters of the woman prisoner.

Monday, August 14th., family prayer and benediction.

The U. S. Government in its "Pure Food Law," does not "indorse" or guarantee any preparation as some manufacturers in their advertisements would make it appear. In the case of medicines the law provides that certain drugs shall be mentioned on the labels. If they are ingredients of the preparations. Ely's Cream Balm, the well known family remedy for cold in the head, hay fever and nasal catarrh, doesn't contain a single injurious drug, so the makers have simply to print the fact that it complies fully with all the requirements of the law.

ment. Handsome Front Placed. Example Of Town's Progress.

Arrangements have been made and the contract placed by the firm of Kennerly & Mitchell, for an up to date front to be put in their large double store on Main Street. This front will be in reality a large double front, one to each of the stores.

Each of these fronts will be set back ten feet and placed upon a handsome white marble base. The wood work will be of highly polished hardwood of natural oak, the display deck being of tiled oak. Handsome mirrors will be placed upon all sides and back of the windows, while the night lighting will be through the most up to date electric fixtures. The floor which at present is somewhat above the level of the street will be set down until even with the pavement. The entrance will be covered with handsome check tiling.

The firm of Kennerly & Mitchell is but a pointer as to the growth and progress of this town. This firm started business in a humble way in 1896. In one of the stores now occupied by them. In five years time, keeping along with the advancement of the town they increased their floor space by leasing the adjoining store room.

In 1908 Messrs. Kennerly & Mitchell with Mr. J. Ernest Shookley formed a corporation to take over the business of Shookley & Shookley under the name of the Kennerly-Shookley Co. Mr. Kennerly, the senior member of the firm gave the new business his attention, while Mr. G. E. Mitchell assumed the management of the old firm. Mr. O. W. Bennett, who had been an employee was admitted to a partnership interest in the firm of Kennerly & Mitchell.

In 1908 the firm purchased the building which they had been leasing, and immediately commenced to renovate same, the placing of the handsome front is the last step in the improvements.

The progress and success of this firm is but the story of many of the many business firms of this city, and but shows the progress and prosperity of our hustling community.

Death Of A. C. Brewington.

Mr. Allen C. Brewington for many years a resident of Salisbury, and a son of the late Henry J. Brewington, died at a Brooklyn, N. Y., Hospital Sunday morning about two o'clock, following an operation for appendicitis.

Deceased spent his early life in Salisbury and was engaged in the printing business on the Salisbury ADVERTISER together with his two brothers for some time. He afterwards went to New York in the railroad business with the late John E. Brewington. For the past fifteen years Mr. Brewington has been engaged in the commission business, connected with the well-known firm of Smith, Holden and Co., on Washington Street.

Mr. Brewington was married and leaves a wife only. He was a member of a large family being the sixth son of the late Henry J. Brewington and one of twelve children, all of whom are now dead except Mr. H. L. Brewington, editor of The Wisconsin News, and Senator M. V. Brewington of this city. His remains were brought to Salisbury Tuesday afternoon and after services in the Trinity M. E. Church, South, were interred in the Brewington lot in Parsons Cemetery. The deceased had a large circle of friends in Salisbury, where as a young man, he was extremely popular. Mr. Brewington was 47 years of age.

Fewer Persons Killed On The Rails This Year.

A considerable falling off of casualties on interstate railways during the quarter ended March 31st last, is shown in the Accident Bulletin for that period just issued by the Interstate Commerce Commission. There were 2124 persons killed and 16,480 injured during the quarter, including 706 employees killed and 10,974 injured. This is a decrease of 289 in the number killed and of 9908 in the injured as compared with the corresponding quarter of last year.

Accidents reported by the electric lines on which interstate traffic is carried show that 61 persons were killed and 606 injured during the quarter; a decrease of 58 in the number killed and 288 in the number injured, as compared with the corresponding quarter of last year.

COUNTY PRIMARIES CALL.

The State Central Committee Acts. Direct Plan Adopted. August 29th The Date.

While it was tentatively agreed at a meeting held here some time back that the primaries in the County this year were to be held under the so-called Crawford County plan, no official call to that effect was issued until this week owing to the fact that it was desired to make the date for the County conform with that set for the State. As this date was fixed at that day of the 29th of August the State Central Committee issued the call this week for the same date. The polls will be open from eight A. M. to six P. M. in order to give every one who wishes a chance to vote.

The committee decided that the same election officials selected to hold the state primaries should have charge of the local primaries. These officials will be the regular election officials appointed by the Board of Supervisors of Elections. There will be two ballot boxes, one in which to deposit the Democratic ballots and one in which to deposit the Republican ballots, as both parties will vote on the same day.

It was decided that all candidates for local offices must file their declarations with Chairman James T. Traitt and put up their assessments on or before fifteen days prior to the primaries. This will give them until the fourteenth day of August in which to file their intention of being candidates and deposit their money with the chairman. All candidates for local offices must file with the chairman of the State Central Committee. The assessments are as follows:

For State Senator, $25; State's Attorney, $25; members of the legislature, $25; County Treasurer, $25; Sheriff, $25; County Commissioners, $10; Judges of the Court, $10. The candidates for Delegates to the State Convention and for members of the State Central Committee, both of which have to be elected, must file with the Board of Supervisors and put up their assessment which will be $10 each, on the same day.

Prior to the primaries, or immediately after the candidates have all filed their intentions, the State Central Committee by authority of the Democratic meeting held in Salisbury some time ago, will select three men to serve as delegates to the county convention to be held in Salisbury on Tuesday, September 5th, at noon, to formally nominate the local ticket as selected by the voters in the primaries. The work of the delegates will only be formal as they will be in honor bound to vote for the candidates selected by the people as the primaries.

There will be two ballots used on the day of the primaries by the Democrats. One will contain the names of the candidates for the local offices and one the names of the candidates for state offices, candidates for the State Convention and candidates for the State Central Committee. All the tickets will be printed on white paper which are used by the Democrats and a voter will be compelled to mark a cross opposite the name of each man he wishes to vote for. Two years ago at the primaries the system of voting was to run a pencil through the names the voter did not want to vote for and leave on the ballot the names he wanted to vote for. This system will be changed this year. The voter will vote as he votes in the general election by making a cross opposite the name of each candidate he wishes to vote for.

At the primaries, no ballots except the ones which the State Central Committee has had prepared will be legal in voting for local candidates, and every ballot has to be enclosed in a white envelope by the judge before being deposited in the ballot box. Every candidate has the right to make application to State Central Committee for as many ballots as he wishes to pay for and he has the right to mark the ballots for the voters so he does the set outside the 100 foot limit of the polls. The only official part of the program is the sealing of the ballots in the white envelope. It is purely and simply a vest-pocket ballot. When the ballots are counted the intention of the voter can be taken into consideration and nothing will invalidate a ballot except a distinguishable mark of some kind upon it, or if marked with a blue, green or red pencil it will not be counted.

The voters entitled to vote in the primaries are the people who are registered in the several districts of the county. No man who is not registered can vote in the primaries except it be a young man just coming of age and who will be entitled to vote this year. If a man is registered in one district and has moved into another district he must go and vote at the primaries in the district in which he is registered. The places where the primary election will be held are the same places where the regular election was held last November.

GOVERNORSHIP RACE ON.

Gorman, Crothers, Lee. Hot Fight May Result. One Month For Campaign.

It looks, with the entrance of Hon. Arthur P. Gorman, of Howard County, in the race for Governorship as though the lists of candidates for this office is about complete now. Senator Blair Lee, of Montgomery County, made his announcement several weeks ago and has been hustling ever since. Governor Crothers got in the game last week and is out making a "campaign." Gorman's entrance on Wednesday, although delayed, was generally expected.

It is understood that the delay was due to a desire upon his part for peace and harmony in the party as he made it clear that he was willing to step aside in favor of some good compromise candidate if the leaders in the party could agree upon some one. After several futile efforts to get behind a man, like Judge Burke, of Baltimore County, it became apparent that a step of this kind was impossible and then after being earnestly pressed by his host of friends in all parts of the State Senator Gorman announced his candidacy. Mr. Gorman will have behind him in the fight the organization of Baltimore City under the leadership of J. J. Mahon and the regular organization of the State of which United States Senator John Walter Smith is the acknowledged leader. Senator Jesse D. Price, of this County, is one of the closest personal and political friends that Mr. Gorman has in this State and will actively espouse his cause in this County. It is still hoped by many that the three cornered fight which is now promised can be avoided and that one or more of the men now in the field will withdraw in the interest of harmony and party success.

Yet the close observers have but little faith in an adjustment but look for the campaign as a present arrangement to be fought out by all candidates to the finish. Senator Lee and Governor Crothers have named the issues of the campaign and Senator Gorman will name his in a few days. Governor Crothers makes a very lengthy platform. Some of the more prominent issues pertinent to the counties, mentioned by him follow:

Home rule.
Popular election of United States Senators.
Natural gas for Maryland and Baltimore.
A new State roads loan.
Convict labor on State roads.
Economy in the repair of roads.
Reduction in legislative expenses, with economy of administration.
Abolition of needless offices.
Employers' Liability act.
Pure seed law and provision for eradication of live stock diseases.
Agricultural training in schools.
Tax rate revision with central State assessment supervision.
Reform of magistracy system.
Increase in public school teachers salaries.
Stricter laws regulating automobile speeding and higher qualification of the chauffeurs.
Oyster legislation looking to state aid in developing the industry.
State aid for Southern Maryland Railroad.

Amendment of Corrupt Practices Act.
Perfection of State auditing system.
Greater representation in the Legislature of Baltimore.

A greater Maryland.
Senator Lee has issued to the voters throughout the State pamphlets showing his record on public questions and outlining his future policy. A copy of these has been received by practically every voter in this County. It is generally believed that Governor Crothers and Senator Lee will work in harmony during the campaign, both trying to prevent the pledging enough delegates to nominate Mr. Gorman on the first ballot, believing that if this can be done the stronger of the two will then be nominated—under the second and third choice provision of the Primary law.

The Peninsula Horticultural Society has accepted the invitation to hold a summer meeting at the home of J. G. Harrison Sons, Berlin, Maryland, on August 24. Mr. Harrison will make an address of welcome to which President Frank E. Matthews, of Pocomoke, Maryland, will respond. Mr. Harrison will serve a lunch at noon after which the nurseries will be inspected. All the members of the Society are cordially invited to be present and many of them will want to take advantage of this opportunity to spend the night at Ocean City.

—Mrs. Mary Allen, for several years of Centerville, Md., but for the past few months a resident of the Home for the Aged here died Friday morning early, aged about 71 years. She was a woman of strong Christian character. Funeral services were held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Home and her remains were taken to Centerville for interment.

FLIGHTS EACH DAY

By The Curtiss Company During Salisbury's Fair. Greatest Of Modern Air Spectacles.

Glenn H. Curtiss announces that he has arranged through the generosity of Gimbel Brothers, the first American cross country aeroplane race.

This race will be from New York to Philadelphia on Saturday, August 5th, and the aviators competing will be Lincoln Beachey, the Californian who startled the world a few weeks ago by his daring flight in a Curtiss aeroplane over Niagara Falls, through the gorge and under the great steel bridge; Eugene Ely, who won fame by his flights to and from the U. S. "Birmingham" and "Pennyvania," and Hugh A. Robinson, an expert and experienced cross-country flier. Gimbel Brothers, of New York and Philadelphia have offered to the winner of the race the sum of $5000.

This race between New York and Philadelphia covering a distance of approximately one hundred miles, will furnish a severe test of the practicability of the aeroplane. All three will be equipped alike.

Each contestant will use a new model Curtiss biplane driven by a 60 H. P. Curtiss motor, and the race will be made under the fairest conditions possible.

The Curtiss Fair Association believing that the people in this section wanted to see this great wonder of the present time, has contracted with the Curtiss Company to give the flights each day during the Fair, August 15, 16, 17 and 18th.

The Association is to be congratulated upon getting an aeroplane contract with a company that can deliver the goods. People need not fear a fake or failure, but can rest assured that the flights will take place as advertised.

Why Could Not Ocean City Be Made A Great Resort.

It is estimated that the season of New Jersey brings to the State more money than all of its enormous manufacturing industries and more than the farms. All the way from Sandy Hook to Cape May the coast is a succession of sand dunes and bare sandy shingles, here and there divided from the mainland by expanses of marsh. These marshes have given to New Jersey unrivaled eminence in the production of mosquitoes. And yet this forbidding region has been converted into a summer resort which attracts visitors from every quarter of the land and brings a vast wealth to the State. The New Jersey coast has the advantage of proximity to the great centers of population, but that advantage would not have profited if the railroad companies had not provided speedy and comfortable transportation.

Maryland has a season of less extent than that of New Jersey, but with far greater natural attractions. It is equally cool in summer and warmer in winter. Instead of the mosquito breeding marshes that flank the Jersey coast the Maryland coast has behind the sandy beach a beautiful bay, tempering the climate and affording a place for amusement in placid and landlocked waters.

The great disadvantage under which the Maryland season has labored has been the lack of convenient access. A part of the trip to Ocean City is on a steamer, and that part is a great attraction. But the remainder of the way is over a road which presents few inducements to travel—in fact, every inducement not to travel. It is almost inconceivable that a railroad that has so splendid an attraction in its line as Ocean City should manifest so little interest in its upbuilding. If the road from Clarksburg were changed into a trolley road, with well-ventilated cars in summer, it would make that part of the trip as attractive as that by the steamer. Or if the rail route were shortened by making Cambridge, the starting point and building a cut-off to Vienna, there is no reason why Ocean City should not become a large and prosperous seaside resort.—Editorial Baltimore Sun.

—Among those registered at the Mardela Springs Hotel are Mrs. Laura O'Connell and son, Master Harry Hughes, and Miss Clara Hughes, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Mr. Ira Finley, of Baltimore, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Mott Fisher, of Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Best Brown, Mrs. Robbins and son, of Cambridge, Md.

—Mr. A. J. O'Casey accompanied his daughter, Miss Alice, to her home in Upperville, Va., last Monday and spent a few days with his sister, Mrs. William H. Vincent. He reports the onion crop there the best for years, as dry weather is favorable to perfection in cotton.

—Miss Mary Colley, of Salisbury, is attending the Summer School of the University of Pennsylvania. She will complete a six week's course on August 15th.

PARTY "REGULARITY."

I would rather be right than be "regular." The man who boasts of his unshakable regularity is boasting of his unshakable inefficiency. He is proud that he does not count. The men who will not follow the leaders when they go wrong are the men who keep the leaders right. The men who will not follow the party when it goes wrong are the men who keep the party right. As a nation we are passing out of the political leading strings of the special interests into the full development of political maturity. The sign of our advance from childhood into manhood is the progressive movement—Gifford Pinchot.

COST OF DRINK.

What does drink cost in human misery? It costs millions of money, myriads of criminals, thousands of paupers, thousands of ruined women, hundreds of thousands of people who are blind, deaf, dumb, or who are afflicted with some other physical or mental defect, who are the result of the drinking habit. It is the cause of the most terrible suffering and misery that can befall a human being. It is the cause of the most terrible suffering and misery that can befall a human being. It is the cause of the most terrible suffering and misery that can befall a human being.

AS TO POSTERITY.

America is at present taking great interest in her ancestry. We have all sorts of patriotic societies, and none among us is more proud than those who trace their ancestry back to the Mayflower, Plymouth rock, or who can proudly claim to be sons and daughters of the Revolution. But is the ancestry the only important family pride? How about the posterity? Is the strain running out because of unworthy ideas of heredity, because of a lack of the courage of sacrifice or a growing fondness for the despotism of Egypt? To be true to our ancestry means, in high souled dignity, to provide for our posterity. Oh, young American men and women, proud of your family, of your blood, of your ancestry, remember that to honor thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee, means this—to bury, through a noble conception of the dignity of parenthood, your ancestry in your progeny and by a lordly conception of the meaning of life to aspire, if God shall grant you this grace, to be worthy disciples of its majestic dignities and faithful stewards of its disciplining, engaging and joyful occupations. — Rev. Nehemiah Boynton.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Aches and Pains Will Disappear If The Advice of This Salisbury Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis kidney's fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. John L. Baker, 318 Baker St., Salisbury, Md., says: "I gladly confirm the public statement I gave two years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. This remedy has never failed to relieve me when I have had backache. I was troubled greatly by lameness in my back and a heavy, bearing down sensation through my hips. I was also bothered by stiffness across my back, especially when I got up in the morning and despite all my efforts for relief, these troubles clung to me until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at White & Leonard's Drug Store. This remedy did such good work that I was convinced of its curative powers." For sale by all dealers. Price 60 cents. Foster-McClellan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. ## The Delightful Sense of Security

YOU would not hide your money in an old stocking or in an old tin box, because the eternal precaution of secrecy, the constant anxiety lest it be found and stolen, and that uncomfortable and disagreeable suspicion of your fellow-men would make life unbearable. But very often the average business man is too careless in selecting a safe depository for his working capital; too often he is satisfied to hand his money to the bank teller and trust that it is safely guarded against fire and burglars.

THE PENINSULA TRUST COMPANY has recognized this demand for the highest kind of protection, and keenly feels its obligation to its depositors to guard absolutely against liability of such loss. Its eight-ton Model-Corpus steel safe is the latest model of a type that has defied the ingenuity of the most clever cracksmen—it has never been burglarized, and fire makes absolutely no impression upon it. We take pleasure in showing this financial fortress to visitors; it is the only one on the Eastern Shore.

WOMEN AND WAGES.

The first and most important work of every woman is successful motherhood. That is the work for which nature has fitted woman. It is a fact. You cannot get away from it. Everything proves it. In all nature the male forages and the female is the home builder. Now, industrial pursuits do not tend to fit women for their duties as wives and mothers, although work for wages has a superficial air of rendering woman more independent, more free to choose when and whom she will marry. Women who have spent several years in wage earning occupations do not bring up their daughters with the idea that they, too, are to become wage earners. On the contrary, personal experience in shop or factory makes them very certain that they do not want their daughters to do the same thing. — Mrs. Cornelia B. Robinson.

CONSUMPTION CURED

By Novel Method. Patients Of Both Sexes Set To Work At Outdoor Tasks.

An experiment in tubercular treatment known as the "work cure," is being tried with success at the sanatorium at Primley, England, which is connected with the Brompton Hospital for Consumption.

The treatment is based on the curative effect of graduated labor. It is found, the director of the institution says, that patients undergoing the open-air treatment make better progress when they have to do a certain amount of work each day than when they are allowed to lead aimless lives. Practical use has been made of this observation, and a systematic table of work suitable for different stages of the disease has been drawn up.

The work is divided into six grades. It varies from the lightest labor given to those who are unfit for active exercise—sowing, making mats, etc.—to the really heavy work of trenching, mixing concrete and filling trees. Short walks are considered to be light labor for those who can get about and are followed as progress is made by such easy garden employment as picking up wood, carrying baskets of mould and watering plants.

Light To Heavy Work.

From these occupations the patients are gradually led on to the heavier tasks of using a small shovel, grass shears or a light hoe, eventually progressing to the still more strenuous work of digging broken ground and mowing lawns. When, after the most careful regulation of his work, a patient attains the ambitious post of a chopper of trees, the completion of his "cure" is well within sight.

Those who have successfully passed through the lighter grades of work at Primley carry out the later stages of hard physical labor without shirking and with the greatest benefit to their health. Since the institution of the "graduated labor" system, 1900 tons of mould, sand and gravel have been carried an average distance of 200 yards, while more than 180 trees have been felled and cut up. The patients, moreover, have been engaged in the construction of a large reservoir, in connection with which 1000 tons of concrete have been mixed and used and 5000 tons of sand have been moved a considerable distance. In addition to this they have cleared and brought into cultivation over three acres of land and have painted the buildings and kept the grounds in proper condition.

The women, too, do all manner of outdoor work, but their tasks and tools are smaller than those of the men. As a rule, the patients work about four and one-half hours a day, and before they are considered fit to be discharged they are put to work at their customary trade or occupation for six hours a day for three weeks.

Forty-Five Per Cent Apparently Cured.

The net results of the graduated labor system at Primley are as follows: Out of 419 consumptive patients in the last year 192 have shown a complete arrest of the disease and 186 have presented very considerable improvement. Thus 80 per cent have derived great benefit from the treatment and 45 per cent have apparently been cured. Sixty-eight patients, advanced in the disease, showed only moderate improvement.

Generally speaking, the cases under treatment at this sanatorium are selected, and those who are about to enter the final stages, or who are in a feverish, exhausted condition, are excluded from the application of the outdoor system.

It is believed that this system, if undertaken in the United States would solve the vast problem of tuberculosis here, which is greater in proportion than in any other country on the globe.

FLOWERS PALATABLE

Flowers. Violets, Nasturtiums, Chrysanthemums, Dahlias And Roses Are Eaten, 'Tis Said.

The violet is recognized as an edible tidbit almost wherever it grows. It was the basis of a sweetmeat in the days of old, and is still in favor.

In the East a sherbert is made of the extract of violets, and Mohammed is said to have paid tribute to it. In many parts of Europe it is the custom to make use of violets, roses and lime blossoms for flavoring. Rose leaf preserves is made in Turkey, and carnations, lavender and syringa are crystallized for confections.

A delicious orange flower candy preserves is made of tiny bitter embryo orange, picked from the blossom's center. Besides the soothing portion distilled from orange blossoms and known as orange flower water, a syrup is made by boiling the flowers with sugar. A little of this syrup stirred in food water makes a refreshing summer drink, while orange flower syrup poured over batter cakes is delicious.

The delicious flavor of many meat dishes and croquettes is due to the fact that the laid in which they have been fried has first been saturated with spicy herbs and blossoms, such as sweet basil flowers, lemon verbena, dill, mint, tarragon and sweet bay leaves.

In this country floral sandwiches are generally made of nasturtiums, probably the most useful edible flower that grows here. Its young leaves, seed pods and stems, with or without the flowers, form appetizing salads, and add to the piquancy of sauces, gravies, meat dishes, salads made of potatoes or herbs and pickles.

In England the housewife often serves sandwiches made of finely chopped spearheads spread between thin slices of buttered bread with salad or cheese. She also makes wine by mixing cowslip pipe with sweetbri-

Ordinance No. H 6.

AN ORDINANCE to regulate the erection or repairing of buildings in the City of Salisbury, Maryland, and the granting of permits therefor.

Whereas the Mayor and Council of Salisbury desire to preserve the health, peace and safety and well-being of the inhabitants of Salisbury;

Section 1: Be it enacted and ordained by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland: That no person, person, firm or corporation shall erect, or repair any building within the corporate limits of Salisbury, without first making application and receiving a permit to do so from the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, and each application shall be accompanied by a fee of one dollar, which shall be the fee for every permit so granted, and said application shall be in writing, stating the proposed location, the size of the proposed building, and the materials to be used, and the purpose for which it is to be used, and any person or persons who shall violate the provisions of this ordinance, shall upon conviction thereof before the Police Justice of Salisbury, be fined the sum of Twenty five dollars and the further sum of Five dollars for each and every day from the date the building is commenced, and upon failure to pay said fine or fines, and costs, shall be committed to the county jail until said fine or fines and costs are paid.

Section 2: Be it further enacted, and ordained by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Maryland: That this ordinance shall take effect from the date of its passage.

The above ordinance was passed by the Council of Salisbury at its meeting July 10th, 1911.

HARRY DENNIS, President of the Council of Salisbury, Approved by the Mayor of Salisbury this 10th day of July, 1911.

WILLIAM F. L. GORDON, Mayor of Salisbury, Maryland

Accidents will happen, but the best regulated families keep Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for such emergencies. It subdues the pain and heals the hurts or, strawberry leaves, dill, a few tips of thyme, honey and water, and boiling and fermenting this with yeast. Another food flower is the capuli flower, which Dr. Johnson is said to have called the finest flower in the garden. This is truly a flower that is eaten, for the snowy vegetables served at the table are the expanded flowers of a variety of cabbage.

The tuber of the dahlia is an excellent article of food, albeit somewhat acid, which is liked by the Mexicans and is also eaten by the French. It was introduced into Europe for the purely commercial purpose of supplanting or supplementing the potato. It did not catch on as food, but the gardeners perceived the possibilities of the flower and proceeded to produce the double dahlia and other novelties. The dandelion makes a wine, while the leaves form the finest kind of greens when boiled. Elderberry blossoms make a white wine, the berry makes a blue wine, while elderflower was well known to our grand mothers.

The chrysanthemum, Japan's queen of flowers, fills the useful as well as highly ornamental place in the life of that country. Chopped very fine and served with a sauce made of cream, it forms a salad much relished by the Japanese. — Baltimore News.

GOOD POLICY.

Time will show that the democratic have played good politics in the passage of the "Reciprocity bill," although many in the party seem to doubt it now and some are bitterly opposed. While not everything that it ought to be it is an opening wedge in the tariff wall and makes a breach in that hitherto impregnable barrier which our high financiers have built around this country.

It is true enough that the loss, if any there be, will fall upon the class of people least able to stand it since the majority of articles affected are grown by our farmers. Owing to the widespread drought and its effect on our crops it is probable that most of our people will welcome the admission of articles of this character to this country free of any tax whatever. If the theory of protection to our industries by a tariff placed upon all importation is correct, then the reciprocity bill is all wrong for our farmers need protection far more than do our bloated corporations. But if the Democratic idea that the country will be more prosperous if we have upon the State books a law whose only purpose is to equalize the difference in the cost of labor, and the producing of an income large and ample enough to meet the necessary expenses of the government then it is hard to see how any fault can be found with the reciprocity bill except that it does not go far enough in the way of tariff reduction.

The Democrats are certainly showing the way in which they are handling the many knotty questions brought up before them that they are able to govern this country and to meet the wishes of the people. The way they are pulling together and doing things is doubtless a bitter disappointment to the Republicans who evidently expected a split that would make the party ludicrous and show to the people its unfitness for the high responsibility of office.

It has now got a good working organization and despite a few disgruntled and disappointed Democrats bids fair to stick together. All it has to do to win in the next Presidential election is to keep up the pace started and then the party will have a walk-over.

On the other hand the Republicans show that they are no longer together on any proposition, be it the sewing or unsewing of a Lorimer or a principle of tariff reform. Each day is emphasizing the decided split in the party more and more, and although Republicans have shown an ability to get together in the past when the obstacles seemed almost unsurmountable, it will not be the case this time. Everything now points to such a serious breach in their ranks as to lead most observers to look forward to an open bolt at the next Republican convention. That the regular and standard party will ever set down in peace with the radicals and progressiveness and agree upon candidate and platform is almost unbelievable. The difference of opinion and viewpoint is too marked for that. With the Democrats united and the Republicans split it looks as though the next President will belong to the Democrats. The Republican party has been in power so long that it needs a good whipping at the polls and we prophesy that it will never get together until it gets it.

FIXES LEGAL VISIT

For Mother-in-Law. Squire McGuire Comes To Relief Of An Over-Visited Married Man.

That married son-in-law who looks up to his mother-in-law with the fear and trembling of a South Sea islander before the feet of his idol is to regain that freedom that was the birthright of his care-dwelling ancestor.

A champion of the down-trodden and oppressed has come forth in the person of Magistrate McGuire of the District Court in New York, who—this man—has thrown down the gauntlet to the Charities of American households and raised himself to a pedestal that holds the eyes of all men-in-law.

Magistrate McGuire has set a time for the trial of mother-in-law to a grand jury, and the daughter

McGuire has decided that "ten days is long enough for any mother-in-law to hold possession; ten days should be the limit for all mothers-in-law."

Just what the result will be can only be found by waiting for the crash. That the equal suffragists will give battle to the McGuire forces is contended by the kill-joys and the mothers-in-law themselves, and their forces, formidable in number and in battling ability, will make foes worthy of the steel of once oppressed man and all the single friends that he can muster to his standard.

Justice McGuire neglected but one thing in rendering his opinion. He didn't—for reasons of his own, perhaps—the eager son-in-law the method of procedure to be used in the event the lady overstates the time limit.

But the Poets' Union, the Wage-Earners' Legion and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Sons-in-law have been appealed to and the following instructions have been signed, sealed and delivered to over-visited sons-in-law to compel the observance of the ten-day limit:

1. If a 300-pound mother-in-law, visiting the wife of a 110-pound husband, disregards the time limit, he son-in-law is advised to restrain from physical violence and to call out the police reserves on a riot call.
2. If an ejected mother-in-law threatens to tell the family secrets unless reinstated, the victim is advised to forget his new-found independence.
3. Mothers-in-law who expect to leave their daughters $1,000,000 are exempt from the ten-day limit unless the son-in-law is too rich to care what happens.
4. All rules are off in Utah and other Mormon communities.
5. Insist upon mother-in-law buying a ten-day ticket when she makes her visit; if you don't she'll manage to stick out the thirty days if she has to sleep in the yard.

Degree of B.S. is given in the following courses:

HORTICULTURE

BIOLOGY

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

CIVIL ENGINEERING

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

GENERAL COURSE (Colleges)

Students taking Agriculture and allied branches have the benefit of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in Washington, and of the Government Experiment Farms, at Arlington and Beltsville.

Students pursuing the Engineering courses supplement their practical knowledge by visits to the Mt. Clear shops, Sparrows Point, and other similar places where great mechanical and engineering work is in progress.

The Agricultural College is Maryland's School of Technology, and is meeting the demand of the age for trained men in the great fields of Agriculture, Science and Engineering. Positions are assured to all graduates.

Particular attention is called to the Two Year Course in Agriculture and Horticulture.

Each department of the College is supplied with the most modern and approved apparatus. The dormitories are equipped with steam heat, electric light and hot and cold shower baths.

The location of the college is unsurpassed for health. There is a sanitarium with a trained nurse, under the charge of a resident physician. Any possible contagious disease can be completely isolated.

Food, fuel, heat, light, laundry, books, medical attention, etc., are all included in the charge of $200 per year, payable 20 quarterly in advance.

Send for Catalogue and Book of Views.

It will be of advantage to those who expect to enter the College to send in their application as soon as possible.

OLD GLORY.
When Freedom from her mountain height
Unfurled her standard to the air
She tore the azure robe of night
And set the stars of glory there.
She mingled with its gorgeous dyes
The milky baldric of the skies
And striped its pure, celestial white
With streakings of the morning light.
—Joseph Rodman Drake.

NOBISHNESS.
Men seek universities for four objects. These are the desire for friendship, knowledge, breadth and power. While they are all laudable motives, the preparation for service should dominate them. Unless considered as by-products of service the valuable time spent in the quest for them has been practically wasted. Thus the desire for knowledge as an end leads nowhere, and the man who studies only for marks and strives to become a mere encyclopedia is rightly condemned by his fellow students. There are many political corruptionists today who hold college diplomas. The only way of insuring that education will result in power for good is to keep in mind constantly the ideal of service. A false sense of proportion acquired during college days often sticks to a man through life and has caused many a man to leave the path of usefulness for a life of vice and laziness. College snobbishness is one of the things which are ascribable to a false sense of proportion.—Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.
Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.
Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys must, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.
If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit.
The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.
Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free. Send for a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Do not make a mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

BIG FAMILIES.
An excessive number of children in a family is a crime from every point of view. It is a crime against the mother, the father, the older children and society in general. There is no honor in numbers merely, and in the countries where the birth rate is highest we find the lowest moral and physical types. No laboring man or moderately well-to-do business man should have more than two children. This would in ten years at the outside so change conditions in the slums of our great cities that the visitor of today would not recognize them then. Theologians may object to my statements, but when theology comes in at the door reason goes out of the window.—W. J. Robinson, President American Society of Medical Sociology.

LIVING ALONE.
Why should we faint and fear to live alone.
Since all alone, so heaven has willed, we do,
Nor even the tenderest heart, and next our own,
Knows half the reasons why we smile and sigh.
—John Keble.

PERSONAL LIBERTY.
Personal liberty is lost sometimes in a larger social liberty. The only personal liberty that belongs inalienably and eternally to a man is the liberty to do right. Only the devil and darkness will deny him that right, and he must walk through death and darkness to obtain it. Every law written upon the statute books, every candidate that appeals for office, every safeguard for the bettering of social conditions is an acknowledgment that no man lives to himself and no man dies unto himself. To claim a personal liberty which may become a menace and a tragedy to the lives of others is to claim the right to anarchy and lawlessness. There can be no personal liberty to do wrong. When one man would pull another down that he might rise, or silence another's voice that his might be heard, or destroy another's honor that his might not be disputed, there is a liberty that is lawless and devilish. Christianity calls on men to give up their rights for the good of others.—Rev. Hugh T. Kerr of Chicago.

LIFE'S JOURNEY.
Ever, by day and night, under the sun and under the stars, climbing the dusty hills and tolling along the weary plains, journeying by land and journeying by sea, coming and going so strangely, to meet and to act and react on one another, move all we restless travelers through the pilgrimage of life.—Charles Dickens.

THE PUBLIC'S DUE.
Decent treatment is due the public. There will survive and there still control large numbers of the "divine" and "voiced" right managers who have learned nothing and will learn nothing until the great public asserts its rights more forcibly than in the past. These managers are not the masters but the servants of the public, that their master is not going to destroy them so long as they remain servants and that their rights as servants are going to be scrupulously respected, as their assumption of mastership will be relentlessly suppressed.—William G. McAdoo.

DIVINE AND HUMAN.
An surgeon keeps their instruments and knives always at hand for cases requiring life and death treatment, and though they themselves ready to understand things divine and human, remembering in thy every act, even the smallest, how close is the bond that unites the two.—Marcus Aurelius Antoninus.

FEAR OF WAR GONE.
Today we have no fear of war, famine, disease or falling resources. The advance in knowledge has guarded men against these evils, but it is none the less true that civilization must be extended to other regions and races or it will go down as it did at Rome. Prosperity checks the birth rate and promotes race suicide to such a degree that if new races cannot be raised to take the place of those dying out there will be decline in civilization to the level existing before the rise of Christianity.—Simon N. Patten.

F. GRANT GOSLEE, Solicitor.
Ella A. Critchett vs Charles H. Critchett.
No. 1921 Chancery, in the Circuit Court for Wicomico County.

The object of this suit is that Ella A. Critchett may procure a divorce from Charles H. Critchett, on the ground of adultery. The bill states that the complainant is a resident of Wicomico County, Maryland, and has continuously resided in said County for more than eight years last passed; that on January 1st, 1896, she was married to respondent; that from said marriage were born two daughters, Annie L. and May E., aged respectively fourteen years and ten years; that though the conduct of complainant toward the respondent has always been kind, affectionate, and above reproach, the respondent, without any just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted complainant, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer; that said separation and abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years; that complainant, and beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation.
It is thereupon the 19th day of June, in the year 1911, by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Maryland, on Equity motion, that the complainant, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper, published in said Wicomico County, once in each of four consecutive weeks before the 15th day of July, 1911 give notice to the absent respondent of the object and substance of this bill, warning him to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor on or before the 15th day of August next, to show cause if any he has why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases
The cause of rheumatism is excess of uric acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rheumacide is a perfect medicine that may ease the pain, but they will not cure rheumatism than pain will change the fiber of rotten wood.
Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured.
Science has discovered a perfect and complete cure called Rheumacide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poison out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. Announcements.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the position of State's Attorney, at the primaries to be held this fall. I thank the many friends who have proffered me their support, and ask them, and all others who deem me worthy, to help me in securing said nomination.

GEORGE W. BELL

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I beg leave to announce my candidacy for the position of Sheriff of Worcester County, subject to the Democratic Primaries. I shall appreciate any help from the Democrats of Worcester. I shall abide by the decision of the Democratic Primaries, whatever the results may be.

ROY E. SMITH,
Salisbury, Md.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for the position of County Commissioner, subject to the Democratic Primaries.
I solicit the support of the Democrats in all the Districts of Worcester County, and pledge myself to abide by the decision of the Democratic Primaries.

SAMUEL J. PHILLIPS,
Barren Creek District,
Mardella Springs.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I have been decided that the candidates for the different offices to be voted for this fall would be nominated by the Democrats.
I publicly announce myself a candidate for the office of County Treasurer for Worcester County, and I ask the support of my friends in the coming primaries.
Trusting in their aid, I shall give the position for Treasurer.

R. G. ROBERTSON.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the position of County Treasurer of Worcester County, subject to the decision of the Democratic Primaries to be held later. I hereby agree to abide by the decision of the primaries, and if nominated and elected, I pledge myself to give my personal attention to the duties of the office, and to give the position in the several districts of the county.

R. FRANK WILLIAMS,
Camden District,
Salisbury, Md.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the position of Treasurer of Worcester County, subject to the Democratic Primaries to be held at a later date. I will appreciate the support of the Democrats of the county in the primaries, and hereby pledge myself to abide by the decision of said primaries. If nominated and elected, I shall give the position my personal attention.

R. KING WHITE,
Salisbury, Md.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Having decided to become a candidate for Sheriff of Worcester County, I desire to ask the support of all Democrats in the coming county primaries. If elected, the office will be filled according to my best ability.

WILLIAM C. BRADY.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

Having decided to become a candidate for County Commissioner, subject to the Democratic Primaries, I desire to ask the support of Democrats in all sections of the county for this office.

JACOB L. BOUNDE.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I desire to announce to the Democratic voters of Worcester County that I am a candidate for Judge of the Orphans Court, subject to the decision of the Democratic Primaries to be held this year, and will appreciate all my friends do for me.

JOHN L. POWELL.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

I take this method of announcing my candidacy for County Commissioner, subject to the

Tutt's Pills

After eating, persons of a bilious habit will derive great benefit by taking one of these pills. If you have been DRINKING TOO MUCH,
they will promptly relieve the nausea,
SICK HEADACHE, and nervousness which follows, restore the appetite and remove gloomy feelings. Elegantly sugar coated.
Take No Substitute.

THE CAMPFIRE.

Did you ever watch the campfire
When the wood has fallen low,
And the ashes 'gin to whiten Round the embers' crimson glow.
With the night sounds all about you Making silence doubly sweet,
And a full moon high above you
That the spell may be complete?
Did you ever sit there thinking
Mid your pipe's gray, pungent breath,
While the fire's last feeble flicker
Met a magic glow-worm death?
Tell me, were you ever nearer
To the land of heart's desire Than when you sat there smoking
With your feet up to the fire?
—Hector Donald.

WORK AND DUTY.

Faithful work has in it the greatest dignity, and no duty which is of service to society is too trivial or too mean to be worthy of the best efforts of him who undertakes it. In heaven useful work holds chief place in the interest and pleasure of the angels, because through it they glorify God, help their fellows and feel the fruition of their own lives. With them work is love in act, and each one's work is perfectly suited to his affection and his ability. So in this world one's work should be loved for its usefulness and be faithfully done for its benefit to others. The love of idleness is of and from the devil: the love of useful work is of and from the Lord himself.—Rev.
Paul Sperry.

FINANCIERS AND WAR.

The men who make the war loans control all the civilized nations. Emperors and kings and parliaments may not declare war to satisfy a whim, defend their honor or even to right a wrong until they have the permission of their creditors. There is no danger of war, but there is grave danger that the war debt will be doubled. Europe's war debt is $26,000,000,000. One-third of it is the money in the world is due on the war debt of Europe alone.
The Rothschilds and other money lending families absolutely control the situation. Nine-tenths of the war loans in Europe and elsewhere are made by crafty statesmen to divert the attention of the people from reforms they are demanding.—David Starr Jordan.

NOTICE

To The Property Owners On East William Street from Poplar Hill Avenue to East Church Street Of The Proposed passage of an Ordinance for the Grading, Curbing and Draining of said street with concrete and cement.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 188 F. of the Public Local Laws, title, "Wicomico County", sub-title "Salisbury," by order of the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, notice is hereby given to all persons interested therein, that an Ordinance has been prepared and is on file at the office of the Mayor and Council of Salisbury, Md., entitled: "An Ordinance to provide for grading, curbing and draining of East William Street from Poplar Hill Avenue to East Church Street."

The said ordinance provides that the cost of the work on said street as aforesaid, is to be paid for by assessing one half of the expenses on the abutting property in proportion to the frontage of said property on said Street, and the other half of the cost, together with the total cost of street intersections to be paid by the Mayor and Council of Salisbury.

The above mentioned ordinance is proposed to be passed by the Council of Salisbury on Monday the 7th day of August, 1911, at a special meeting called for that purpose at the City Hall, Salisbury, Md. on said date, convening at 8 o'clock p. m.

All persons in any way interested in the subject matter of said ordinance are hereby notified that the Council of Salisbury will meet as above stated, at the time above stated, for the purpose of considering said Ordinance, and giving a hearing to all those who may appear before them relative thereto.

By order of the Mayor and Council of Salisbury.

JEHU T. PARSONS, Clerk.

Corrosion and other causes are making holes in the big bronze Statue of Liberty on Liberty Island, and it has become known that experts employed by the War Department are endeavoring to work out a plan to repair the damage and to prevent further harm to the handsome creation of Bartholdi that was presented to the United States by the Government of France. The statue weighs 450,000 pounds and the bronze alone weighs 200,000 pounds. Already between 50 and 75 holes of all sizes, from pin points to bullet holes, may be seen by those who go inside the statue and climb the spiral stairway to the head.

J. T. Taylor, Jr. LARGEST CARRIAGE, WAGON AND RUNABOUT DEALER In the State of Maryland

I have 20 carloads of Buggies, Wagons, Runabouts, Surreys and Speed Carts. Come see for yourself. We have new styles other manufacturers cannot copy under a year.

We have over 2,000 Wrenn Buggies in use over six years that did not cost the users over $65 when new. I can save anyone needing a Buggy, Surrey or Runabout, $20. Come look them over.

Testimonial from H. Fillmore Lankford, Attorney-at-Law: "I have a Wrenn Surrey which has been in use twenty years, and it is a good one today. I had the three cut after using nineteen years."

Wrenn's make of Buggy is a guarantee that you get your money's worth. Why pay $20 more for an imitation when you can buy a Wrenn from $65 up?

Wagons, I have them—not the common ones, but the cheap ones. Cost $10 more, last twice as long.

Mr. Boudie came in last week and said: "Mr. Taylor, I want a Runabout. I bought a Wrenn Buggy from you ten years ago, and I am still using it." He bought another Wrenn. Best by test, cheapest on earth for the money.

I show more vehicles set up than you can find in any city or town in several States.

CONTENTMENT.
There is a jewel which no Indian mine can buy.
No chemist art can counterfeit.
It makes men rich in greatest poverty.
Makes water wine, turns wooden cup to gold.
The homely whistle to sweet music's strain;
Seldom it comes—to few from heaven sent—
That much in little—all in nought—content.
—Wilbye.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.
Clubs make women broader minded. They interest them in civic affairs. They acquaint them with what the wider world is doing and thinking. They make women count collectively as a civic and national force in a way that was impossible before clubs existed. Our grandmothers counted as charming or useful individuals, but as a sex, as a power for good, they had no organization, consequently little influence. The woman who has her club work to interest her keeps herself in a much happier and healthier frame of mind. She looks upon her home as a place of rest and comradeship just as her husband does. In that way clubs prevent divorce.
—Mrs. William Grant Brown.

SONGS OF BIRDS.
Who knows the hymn of the song sparrow, the sweet jargon of the blackbird, the fairy ditting of the oriole. . . . the twittering of the swallows as they go careening in with curves through the summer air, billing earth and heaven with tones of pure gladness? From infancy I have lived among them, have watched them with profound reverence and love, respected their rights, adored their beauty and their song, and I could no more injure a bird than I could hurt a child.—Celia Thaxter.

AMERICAN WOMEN.
The American women are the mental amazons of the world today. The amazons of old donned armor and fought for their country on the fields of battle. The women of America are fighting in the fields of labor, of mind and of business, and now are undertaking the most difficult battles of all, that of politics. They have won more than one battle already and made the men yield, and continually they are growing stronger and stronger. If the women of this country do not know how to fight, and if they devoted as much time to studying the art of loving a husband and a home they would have made just as great a success in that as they have in business. The American woman is now and always has been far too fond of her independence to submit to what she has termed the slavery of love.—Prince Inayat Khan.

WORK WILL WIN.
Diligence is the mother of luck.—Franklin.

The victory of success is half won when one gains the habit of work.—Sarah K. Bolton.

The everyday cares and duties which men call drudgery are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time, giving its pendulum true vibration and its hands a regular motion.—Longfellow.

Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose and you know not how much you may accomplish. Gather up the fragments of your time that nothing be lost.—William M. Taylor.

BE PATIENT.
God's plans, like lilacs pure and white, unfold.
We must not tear the close shut leaves apart;
Time will reveal the calyxes of gold.
—May R. Smith.

Patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.—J. J. Rousseau.
Patience, my lord! Why, 'tis the soul of peace;
Of all the virtues 'tis the nearest kin to heaven.
It makes men look like gods.
—Thomas Decker.

Genius is eternal patience.—Michelangelo.
Let us be patient. These severe afflictions
Not from the ground arise,
But oftentimes celestial benedictions Assume this dark disguise.
—H. W. Longfellow.

TRUE HONESTY.
An honest man is the noblest work of God.—Pope.
Immediately relinquish any advantage that has been gained without equity.—From the Hindu.
What is becoming is honest, and whatever is honest must always be becoming.—Cicero.
The more honesty a man has the less he affects the air of a saint.—Lavater.
An honest death is better than a dishonest life.—Socrates.

KEEP FIGHTING.
Tomorrow's fresh shall rise from out the night
And new baptize the indomitable soul
With courage for its never ending fight.
No one, I say, is conquered till he yields.
And yield he need not while, like mist from glass,
God wipes the stain from life's old battlefields.
From every morning that he brings to pass.
New day, new hope, new courage! Let this be,
O soul, thy cheerful creed! What's yesterday
With all its shards, and wrack, and grief, to thee?
Forget it then—here lies the victor's way.
—James R. Lowell.

TOO MUCH CHARITY.
There is infinitely more of so called charity today than ought to be useful in a self determining democracy. Too much of charity is a vain attempt to repair the ravages wrought by injustice. No charity reports can annul the fact that charity at best but makes good the inadequacy which has been brought about by insufficiency of income. Charity does not and cannot, save in the rarest instances, do more than temporarily restore the social equilibrium that has been disturbed.—Rabbi Wise.

THE TRUE FRIEND.
For he that wrongs his friend
Wrongs himself more, and ever bears about
A silent court of justice in his breast.
Himself the judge and jury, and himself
The prisoner at the bar, ever condemned.
—Tennyson.

COMPULSORY VOTING.
Some have urged against compulsory voting that it is an unwarrantable interference with the liberty of the individual, as if the individual had any rights save those which comport with the general welfare. Precisely the same objection was offered to compulsory education, and nobody now doubts the wisdom which brushed it aside. It is said that only when the vote is freely cast is its privilege of any value. Yet compulsion taught the value of selfhood to unappreciative millions and has done a like service for other millions who needed its stimulus to transmute their industrial duties into performances.—Edmund Noble.

BITS OF PHILOSOPHY.
Life is a rich strain of music, suggesting a realm too fair to be.—George William Curtis.
Gravestones tell truth scarce forty years. Generations pass while families last not three oaks.—Sir Thomas Browne.
One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning.—Lowell.
Mirth is God's medicine.—Becher.

FACTS ESSENTIAL.
It is easy to speak of the standard of the public welfare, it is easy to say that every one should work for the common interest, but first of all you have got to establish the common interest, and the common interest cannot be established upon theories. It cannot be established upon views. It can be established only upon facts. Until you know how the various elements of our economic life and of our social life are related to each other you cannot find the common term. Now, when half of them are in ambush, when half of them are basing their whole effort upon private rights, then there is no means of coming at the common term at all.—Woodrow Wilson.

DOING ONE'S DUTY.

There is only one stimulant that never fails and yet never intoxicates--duty. Duty puts a blue sky over every man--up in his heart it may be--into which the skylark Happiness always goes singing.--G. D. Prentice.

The sense of duty is the greatest gift of God.--William B. Channing.

The sole meaning of life is to serve humanity.--Tolstoy.

Keep close to duty. Never mind the future if only you have peace of mind. Be what you ought to be. The rest is God's affair.--Amiel.

TRUTH WILL WIN.

Though all the winds of doctrine were let loose to play upon the earth, so Truth be in the field, we do ingloriously, by licensing and prohibiting, to mislead her strength. Let her and falsehood grapple. Who ever knew Truth put to the worse in a free and open encounter? --John Milton.

COMMON THINGS.

A commonplace life, we say and we sigh.
But why should we sigh as we say?
The commonplace sun in the commonplace sky
Makes up the commonplace day.
The moon and the stars are commonplace things,
The flower that blooms and the bird that sings,
But and were the world and dark our lot.
If the flowers faded and the sun shone not,
And God, who sees each separate soul,
Out of commonplace lives makes his beautiful whole.
--Susan Coolidge.

WORK AND THOUGHT.

We want one man to be always thinking and another to be always working, and we call the one a gentleman and the other an operative, whereas the workman ought often to be thinking and the thinker often to be working, and both should be gentlemen in the best sense.
--Ruskin.

NEW DEFINITIONS.

Now, what is radicalism? By "radical" I understand one who goes too far, by "conservative" one who does not go far enough and by "reactionary" one who won't go at all. Now, it appears that these terms do not cover new conditions, and so we have invented a new term--"progressive." I suppose I must be a progressive, which I take to be one who insists on recognizing new facts, adjusting policies to facts and circumstances as they arise. Progress cannot be made if your thoughts stop at the present. You can't make progress unless you know where you ultimately wish to be. And to be progressive means that you must plan in a large way and have your heart in big plans. There is no satisfactory statesmanship in merely patching things that have gone wrong. --Woodrow Wilson.

ACTS ARE ANGELS.

Man is his own star, and the soul that can Render an honest and a perfect man Commands all light, all influence, all fate.
Nothing to him falls early or too late.
Our acts are angels are, or good or ill,
Our fatal shadows that walk by us still.
--John Fletcher.

ART AND PASSION.

All the best thoughts in the world, into however frosty a form they may since have become chilled, were molded from metal that was once molten. Geology surprises that the world began hot. So every thought that has had a history began as a passion. We can manufacture in cold weather, but all creating is done under a high temperature. What is true of thought is just as true of art. Art is enthusiasm taken shape. The grand cathedrals are old pulse beats. The master paintings, and they are all religious, are holy medieval passion thrown upon canvas. Art is imitative now rather than creative because the thermometer is down. We can make waxwork with the thermometer at zero, but we cannot grow flowers there.--Charles H. Parkhurst.

A Word of Holiday Caution.

Little Grace--I don't think my new doll is quite as nice as your new doll.
Little Ethel--Well, I don't think you ought to say much about it, 'cause it might hurt Santa Claus' feelings.

A SAVAGE WITCH.

King of the Quilch, Tribe Savagely Man's Life by Chopping Off
His Ear.

The author of "Heroes of Modern Crusades," the Rev. Edward Gilliat, M. A., at one time master of Harrow school, says in his book that he had years ago the privilege of meeting the king of the Quilch country, Teti Agamang, at Harrow. The Quilch king had been educated at St. Augustine's college, Canterbury, and was able to lecture to the Harrowians in good English. In his lecture he told a quaint story which brings one nearer to the weird lives of the Quilch, a small agricultural and trading tribe of inoffensive characters on the west coast of Africa.

"In my country," said the king, "we have no prisons; therefore if a culprit is brought to me I must chop off something—an ear or two, a hand or a foot—and he goes home a sadder and a wiser man. Just before I left for England a chief came to my hut, bringing a prisoner."

"What has he done, friend?" I asked.

"He is a dangerous witch, O king. He can turn himself into an alligator." "Pooh! Nonsense! I don't believe that old fashioned stuff."

"Oh, but we saw him do it down by the big river."

"Indeed! Well, chief, tell me all about it. You saw him yourself?"

"I did. We were hunting by the banks of the river with our rifles when all at once we saw a big alligator lying on rocks in the river. The witch man was lying asleep in a hammock some fifty yards away. Oh, the dangerous creature he is!"

"Well, king, do not laugh with your eyes like that, for I am speaking the truth. I put up my rifle to shoot the alligator; but, to our great fear, as soon as I fired the fellow rolled out of his hammock and fell on the ground and rubbed his back and swore he was hurt."

"Now, O king, if this witch had not been killed the alligator how could he have been hurt when I fired?"

"Gentlemen," concluded the king, "I see you are laughing with your eyes, but it is very difficult to rule over a people untaught and given over to superstition."

"What did I do? Why, if I had left him free they would have killed him as soon as I had gone on my ship, as I saw his life by chopping off his left ear."

MODERN CHESS.

The Game Vastly Different From That of the Ninth Century.

Chess is but a game, a pastime, a relaxation, but it has at times absorbed the faculties of the intellectual in every clime. Perhaps the greatest eulogy on the game was the remark of Sir Walter Raleigh, "I do not wish to live longer than I can play chess." It is certain that chess is a game that forms any conception of the high intellectual delights experienced by the chess enthusiast.

The origin of chess has been sought in vain. The fact is the game has so changed, developed and improved down the course of centuries that in its present form it would not be recognized by its inventor. If there ever was one. The oldest chess problem on record is thought to be that contained in an ancient Persian manuscript attributed to Caliph Kalifen Mutash Billah, who reigned in Bagdad A. D. 883 to 885. But the reader would have to learn the old rules before it was intelligible. For example, the queen could make a move of only one square at a time and that on a diagonal, but a queen promoted from a pawn was allowed to make a move of two squares diagonally. The bishop had no power over any square except the third from which it stood on its own diagonal line, but it was allowed to vault over any piece that happened to be between. In short, it was a totally different game. Chess in the precise form in which we know it and play it today is a comparatively modern game.

The Odoriferous Rodent.

"Why is Edgerdy talking so excitedly to the Blingie girls?"

"Has rejected him when he was poor, you know, and I think he must be heaping coals of fire on his head."

"That's it. I was sure I smelt a rat."

—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE VALUE OF MOLES.

They Are Great Insect Eaters and May Be Tolerated Everywhere Except in the Garden.

The popular belief that the principal food of the mole consists of potatoes and the roots of farm plants has been proved to be erroneous by the experimental station of the Kansas State Agricultural college. In fact, the opposite has been proved to be true, for out of the hundred moles that were examined there were only forty-three whose stomachs contained any trace of plant fiber or rootlets, and in these only small amounts were found. Their food consists almost exclusively of insects and worms found in the soil.

Probably the most remarkable thing revealed by the examination of the stomach contents was the large number of centipedes found. Of the hundred examined twenty-five contained centipedes, and in these twenty-five forty-two centipedes were found. One contained four and several two and three apiece.

The damage to farm crops charged to moles usually is due to the activities of rats or other animals that gnaw, such as field mice, shrews, etc. These follow in the runways of the moles and do the damage for which the mole is blamed.

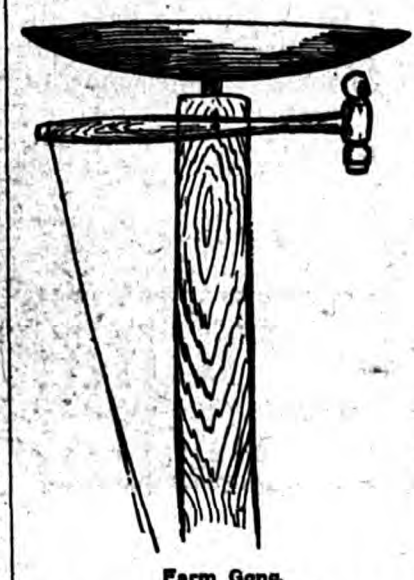

There is one place, however, where the mole cannot be tolerated. This is in parks or lawns. Here the mounds or runways spoil the appearance of the surface. A good way to keep moles out of these places is by frequent leveling with a heavy roller. This also prevents injury to the plant roots.

Moles are not usually hibernating animals, as many persons believe, but they are more or less active in all seasons. But it is in wet weather that they are most active in making new runways and repairing the old ones. Some of these runways are 500 feet long.

GOOD FARM GONG.

Will Save Much Time and Trouble
When Farm Help Is to Be Called.

Get a disk from an old disk plow and drive a bolt through it into the top of a post as shown in the sketch. Then bore a small hole through the handle of a hammer and fasten it with a twenty penny nail to the post about six inches from the top. A twelve foot post set eighteen inches into the ground is about right. This gives you a first class serviceable farm gong.

"So the world is getting better?"

"So most people think."

"Or are we just getting used to it?"

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

POWDER PUFFS.

It seems to be almost an inherent quality of man's nature to like fluffy dressed women with all the additions of rouge, powder, pins and curls. I have heard lots of men censure the modern vanities of women's dress and then straightway marry an almost exact copy of the woman he decried. I don't believe a powder puff ever drove a natural man to leave his wife and home. When a woman falls to keep up her appealing attractiveness to man by the little feminine accessories of dress and first aids to beauty, such as the powder puff, he is more apt to lose his interest in her than by the use of these things.—Mrs. Clarence Burns.

ENJOYING LIFE.

If you are but content you have enough to live upon with comfort.—Plautus.

I am happy because I think myself happy.—Le Sage.

That life is long that answers life's great end.—Edward Young.

Content's a kingdom, and I win a crown.—Kingwood.

The greatest riches is to live content with little.—Lactetius.

LEADER IS NEEDED.

The twentieth century will witness the renaissance of the people—their rebirth and regeneration. What they need is a leader, a man of indefinable honesty, of highly developed sympathy and understanding, capable of interpreting their hopes and translating their aspirations into some big achievement for the cause of humanity itself.

The question of emancipation may come again, as it did in 1850, but if it does it will be for emancipation from the slavery of economic and social conditions resulting from the failure to control or even effectively to regulate the giant monopolies.—William G. McAldoo.

A WORD OF HOPE.

A nameless man, amid a crowd that thronged the daily mart, Let fall a word of hope and love, unstudied, from the heart;

A whisper on the tumult thrown, a transitory breath—It raised a brother from the dust; it saved a soul from death.

O germ, O fount, O word of love, O thought at random cast, Ye were but little at the first, but mighty at the last!

—Charles Mackay.

EDUCATION.

But the physical life, necessary as it is, is only a foundation for the intellect. The right government, the right education, the right training that not only protects but develops our life, not only safeguards its quantity, but its quality; not only sees to it that we feed our bodies with bread, but that we feed our minds with knowledge. There can be no gaudy display of this, for the proudest boast of every American citizen is the splendid efficiency and universality of our American public schools. The plainest man recognizes that as the shop unwatched is best guarded by a light so the republic needs but little vigilance that is sentinelled by intelligence. We have a right to brains as well as bread.—Rabbi Leon Harrison.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

To live is not to breathe; it is to act.—Rousseau.

Every sin journeys forward fully equipped with instruments for its own punishment.—Hills.

The holy supper is kept indeed in what we share with another's need.—Lowell.

A life of true faith is a life of power.—Spencer.

LOVE OF COUNTRY.

Whatever strengthens our local attachments is favorable both to individual and national character. Our home, our birthplace, our native land—think for awhile what the virtues are which arise out of the feelings connected with these words, and if you have any intellectual eyes you will then perceive the connection between patriotism and patriotism. Show me a man who cares no more for one place than another, and I will show you in that same person one who loves nothing but himself.—Robert.

Members of congress do not consider the question of appropriations from a national standpoint. They are more interested in the sum of money they can secure from the federal government for expenditure in their districts than they are in the aggregate of the annual disbursements that must be made by the national legislature. They are more concerned about being returned to the house than about being citizens of a sane and solvent republic. They have their ears to the ground, but they mistake the chirping of crickets for the voice of the people.—James A. Tawney.

THE FARMER.

The glory of the farmer is that in the division of labor it is his part to create. All trade rests at last upon his primitive activity. He stands close to nature. He obtains from the earth the bread and the meat. The food which was not he causes to be. The first farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of land. Men do not like hard work, but every man has an exceptional respect for tillage and a feeling that this is the original calling of his race; that he himself is excused from it only by some circumstances which made him delegate it for a time to others. If he have not some skill which recommends him to the farmer, some product for which the farmer will give him corn, he must himself return into his due place among the planters. And the profession has in all eyes its ancient charm, as standing nearest to God, the first cause.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

BE INDEPENDENT.

Stand close to all, but lean on none.

And if the crowd desert you Stand just as fearlessly alone

As if a throng begit you, And learn what long the wise have known—

Self fight alone can hurt you.

—William S. Burleson.

PRACTICAL REFORM.

Be wise in your criticism of men in public life. Be sure and understand both sides of what you criticize. If you find that you can't work with your fellow men it may be because you're too virtuous, but probably because you're too foolish. I don't care to be associated in politics with any one but an ardent reformer, but he must have his feet on the ground as well as his eyes on the stars. You must be practical and idealistic; if not you will be of harm and no good in politics. Be good men, but not offensively conscious of the fact. Politics is not play or amusement. I work only for what I think right, and I have thoroughly enjoyed it. I like to watch the game and see my interests win much in the same way as we sit at a big football game and think that our team has the moral right to score.—Theodore Roosevelt.

THE COST OF WAR.

War cannot be abolished, but a great deal of good can be accomplished if wars can be limited, say, one to every fifth century. War never settles anything. It is an endless screw and does more harm than good. It is a detriment and drawback to humanity. If international peace is obtained, then the treasury of the people will not be drained. At present $1,000,000,000 is spent annually on armaments, and soon the amount will reach $2,000,000,000.—Count Apponyi.

PROFANITY.

Every man belongs to one of two classes—either he is a blasphemer, and therefore, on account of his profanity comes directly under the condemnation of God, or else he belongs to that large class whose ears are polluted by his profane utterances in which class are some who listen with indifference or contempt, while others shudder with horror as they hear the blasphemous mention of the name of their Master and King. No street car or factory or shop or camp is entirely free from this shocking plague. In our streets and public resorts there is daily and hourly evidence of the prevalence of this pernicious habit. Not only does the husband and father swear, but his example is sometimes followed by his wife and his son and even his little children. It is about time that Christian pulpits should utter their protests against the universal evil of sacrilegious imprecation.—Frank De Witt Talmage.

APPROPRIATIONS.

Members of congress do not consider the question of appropriations from a national standpoint. They are more interested in the sum of money they can secure from the federal government for expenditure in their districts than they are in the aggregate of the annual disbursements that must be made by the national legislature. They are more concerned about being returned to the house than about being citizens of a sane and solvent republic. They have their ears to the ground, but they mistake the chirping of crickets for the voice of the people.—James A. Tawney.

PROCLAMATION

Publication of Proposed Constitutional Amendments.

Whereas, At the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Ten, three Acts were passed, one proposing an Amendment to Article 1 of the Constitution, by adding thereto a Section to be known as Section 8; one proposing an Amendment to Section 2 of Article 3 of said Constitution, and one proposing an Amendment to Section 4 of Article 3 of said Constitution, said Acts being respectively Chapters 288, 308 and 318 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1910, and which are in the words following, to wit:

CHAPTER 288.

An Act to propose an Amendment to Article 1 of the Constitution of this State by adding thereto a new Section, to be known as Section 8, to follow Section 7 and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland (three-fifths of all members of each of the two Houses concurring), that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an Amendment to Article 1 of the Constitution of this State, which said section, if adopted by the qualified voters of this State, shall stand as an additional section to said Article 1, to be known as Section 8, to follow Section 7, of said Article.

Section 8. All State and municipal elections shall be conducted by the system commonly known as the Australian Ballot System, and it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to provide by law for a form of ballot, uniform throughout the State, for use at all State elections in this State, and provide that on said ballot after the name of each candidate thereon who may have been duly nominated as the candidates of any political party or organization, shall be printed the name of the legal name of said party or organization; equal representation of the minority party among the judges and clerks of election registers or other officers performing similar functions shall be abolished by the General Assembly unless by a vote of four-fifths of all the members of each house.

The right to be registered as a qualified voter and the right to vote at any State or municipal election in this State shall be limited to the following persons:

First: Every male white citizen not disqualified by the Second or Third Sections of this Article, possessing the qualifications as to age and residence mentioned in Section 1 of this Article.

Second: Every other male citizen not disqualified by the Second or Third Sections of this Article possessing the qualifications as to age and residence mentioned in Section 1 of this Article, who at the time of his application for registration is the bona fide owner of real personal property, or both, in an amount of not less than five hundred dollars, as assessed thereon or the tax books of the City of Baltimore or one of the Counties of this State, has been assessed and so assessed for two years next preceding his application for registration, shall have paid and shall produce receipts for the taxes on said property for said two years, and shall at the time of his application make affidavit before the officers of said election that he is the bona fide owner of the property so assessed to him and that he has been such owner for two years next preceding his application.

If any person other than those herein mentioned shall be or become legally entitled to be registered as voters at State Elections in this State, then this section shall be null and void and the General Assembly shall possess the same powers as if this section had never been adopted, and the laws of this State, including the local laws applicable to certain counties thereof, relating to the form of ballot to be used at elections, in force on the first day of July in the year nineteen hundred and ten, shall survive or continue in force until altered by the General Assembly notwithstanding any Acts to the contrary which may have been passed while the terms of this section shall have been in force or while the General Assembly shall have been or assumed the provisions of this section to be valid.

Section 2. And be it further enacted, by the authority aforesaid, that the aforesaid section hereby proposed as an Amendment to the Constitution shall be at the next General Election held in this State, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 16 of the Constitution of this State, and at said General Election the vote on the said proposed Amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot shall be printed the words, "For Constitutional Amendment" and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election date return shall be made to the Governor of the State for and against said proposed Amendment, as directed by the said Article 16 of the said Constitution.

Approved April 7, 1910.

AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, Governor.

A. P. GORMAN, Jr., President of the Senate.

ADAM PEEPLER, Speaker of the House of Delegates.

CHAPTER 308.

An Act to amend Section 2 of Article 3, title "Legislative Department," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, three-fifths of all members of each of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an Amendment to Section 2 of Article 3 of the Constitution of this State, which said section, if adopted by the qualified voters of this State, shall stand as an Amendment to Section 2 of Article 3 of the Constitution of this State.

2. The City of Baltimore shall be divided into four Legislative Districts as near as may be of equal population and of contiguous territory, and each of said Legislative Districts of Baltimore City, as they may from time to time be laid out, in accordance with the provisions hereof, and Approved April 7, 1910.

AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, Governor.

A. P. GORMAN, Jr., President of the Senate.

ADAM PEEPLER, Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Now, Therefore, I, Austin L. Crothers, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of each of said Acts proposed as Amendments to the Constitution of this State, and of the provisions of the laws of the State, in which they are contained, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State, where so many may be published, in any county where not more than one newspaper may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the election of 1911, at which said election said proposed amendments shall be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, Done at the City of Annapolis, this first day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, Governor of Maryland.

By the Governor, N. WINBLOW WILLIAMS, Secretary of State.

Approved April 7, 1910.

AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, Governor.

A. P. GORMAN, Jr., President of the Senate.

ADAM PEEPLER, Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Now, Therefore, I, Austin L. Crothers, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of each of said Acts proposed as Amendments to the Constitution of this State, and of the provisions of the laws of the State, in which they are contained, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State, where so many may be published, in any county where not more than one newspaper may be published, then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the election of 1911, at which said election said proposed amendments shall be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, Done at the City of Annapolis, this first day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eleven.

AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, Governor of Maryland.

Senator Sagebrush

CHAPTER XX.

THE LANDSLIDE.

CONTRARY to all expectation, the election proved to be one of the quietest ever known in the Sagebrush State. A few editors there were, like Blankinsop of the Daily Capital, who later on maintained that it was merely another triumph for the machine, but there was no gainsaying the result. The reform ticket, with or without the help of the machine, was elected by sweeping majorities everywhere, and Gantry, sitting in his office and reading the wire returns as they came in, gasped for breath and swore despairingly over each fresh batch of messages.

At Wartance Hall the Hon. David turned to his son.

"Well, Egan, are the tangles all straightened out for you now?" he asked gently.

"Just about all of them," laughed Blount. He had spent a very happy evening, chiefly because Patricia had been occurring; the other half of the small dinner he had dragged out to face the fire. "But I'm still unalterably opposed to the machine in politics," he added.

The senator laughed silently. "Call it 'organization' instead of 'machine,' son, and you've got the power that moves the civilized world today. You've heard me called the 'boss' from the time Gantry had his first talk with you back yonder in Massachusetts. Call me a man with friends enough to make me a sort of leader in the old home state and you've got it about right. I don't say that I've always used the power justly. The Lord knows I'm no more infallible than other people. But, as I said to you yesterday, son, no matter what you've heard or what I've said, I've never used the power to fatten my own pocket-book. I've bought and trafficked and bargained—I don't deny it—but only when it seemed as though the end justified the means."

"But the end never justifies evil means, dad," was the son's steadfast rejoinder. Then he looked up at his father from his place beside Patricia. "Is that the secret of all the invitations I've been getting?"

The humorous crow's feet were wrinkling at the corners of David Blount's eyes.

"I reckon so, son," he admitted. "You have been in the hands of your friends—and they're my friends—right from the start. Mighty near everything you have done has been scheduled for you."

It was just here that the professor accused himself and stamped off to bed. Mrs. Blount signaled to her husband and vanished in her turn. A few minutes after she had gone the senator rose and threw a fresh stick on the fire. Then he came to stand before the two on the little divan.

"Son," he said gravely, "you've got your work cut out for you, and it's a good sized job. When the legislature meets you've got to go in single handed and alone and get a handful of reasonable laws passed for your railroad. You're going to have a hard fight, and there'll be times when you'll long with all your soul for some good, clean hearted little woman to go to for comfort and counsel. Of course I know that Patricia here has got another job, but—"

The senator had been out of sight and hearing for five full minutes when the young man reached over and took the hand that was lying nearest him.

"Yesterday afternoon, Patricia, when I had right and reason and logic on my side, your woman's intuition found the truer path. I know I am only one and your poor people are many, but I am still selfish enough to—"

She looked up quickly, and the beautiful eyes were shining.

"We can't learn everything all at once, Evan," she said, breaking in upon his pleading. "There was one moment yesterday when I learned the greatest thing of all. It was the moment when I saw the tree lying across the road. I knew then that I—that I—"

"I know," he said gently; "you knew that we must live or die for each other. You have heard what my father has said. I can't walk in the way he has marked out for me without you, Patricia."

With a swift little love impulse she lifted his hand and pressed it to her cheek.

"You needn't, Evan, dear," she said simply.

THE END.

LIFE AND BEAUTY.

We must live amid beautiful surroundings if we wish to have beautiful souls and happiness. Most homes and big buildings in our cities are made with no other end in view than utility. For a change of beautiful to come. City authorities are planning the city beautiful in many cities.—Dean J. J. Walsh.

RIGHT TO RICHES.
Most millionaires' wives are not happy. They have too many luxuries and have no mental resources to fall back upon. Some of my partners have been unjustly criticised for what was not their fault, but the fault of their wives. I would rather be born poor than a millionaire, and I have had experience in both directions. I have made forty-two or forty-three millionaires in my time, but I want to say that the only right a man has to wealth lies in his acquiring it by some useful labor. The great trouble with the wealth of today is that the sons of millionaires do not realize this very necessity of being useful to the community. Work that one is not glad to do never amounts to much. Smile all the time.—Andrew Carnegie.

LOVE OF NATURE.

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods;
There is a rapture on the lonely shore;
There is a society where none intrudes,
By the deep sea and music in its roar;
I love not man the less, but nature more.
—Lord Byron

SWEAR NOT AT ALL.

Swearing is useless. You cannot obtain in the long run by an oath more than the contempt of the one that is the object of your blasphemy. The devout Christian should resent this miserable and altogether contemptible habit. You should resent it first because it is an affront placed upon your religion, an insult offered to Almighty God, and silence where insult is offered looks as if you were willing to participate in the crime. But it is not only an insult to your religion; there is another reason—it is an insult to yourself. You have many friends and relatives. If one were to use the name of your father or mother, who perhaps is dead, in a contemptuous or slighting manner you would resent the insult offered yourself, and you would say that such an insult should not go unrebuked. And if you guard the names of those whom you honor, your parents and relatives, and help them in such honor, how can you permit an insult to your best friend, your Father who is in heaven, the Almighty being who is the author of all that is, and allow his name to be handled around in irreverence and blasphemy? Surely that name that is above all names should be mentioned only with the reverence that is its due and should be reserved for prayer and praise, not degraded to the offensive associations of the blasphemer.—Archbishop Glennon.

MOUTH AND HEART.

We should not trust the heart too much. The heart speaks to us very gladly, as our mouth expresses itself. If the mouth were as much inclined to speak the feelings of the heart, it would have been the fashion long ago to put a padlock on the mouth.—Lessing.

ANCIENT WISDOM.

There are many things which men in threadbare coats dare not say.

All of us are quick at learning to imitate base and depraved examples.

What mortal man is there whom you ever saw contented with a single crime?

Do we not look with just suspicions on the desire that covets the sin, but lacks the power?

The examples of vice we witness at home more surely and quickly corrupt us in that they insinuate themselves into our minds under the sanction of those we reverence.—Juvenal.

LONGING.

The thing we long for, that we are for one transcendent moment, before the present, poor and bare. Can make its sneering comment. Longing is God's fresh heaven ward will.

With our poor earthward straining.

We quench it that it may be still.

Content with merely living; But would we learn that heart's full scope.

Which we are hourly wounding. Our lives must climb from hope to hope.

And realize the longing.

—James Russell Lowell.

LOVELY WOMAN.

We censure the inconsistency of women when we are victims; we find it charming when we are the objects.—L. Denoyers.

The man who enters his wife's dressing room is either a philosopher or a fool.—Balzac.

Women prefer to say a little evil of their rather than say nothing of them at all.—A. R. Ford.
