

" The prime characteristic of the future manager will be knowledge, won by study, and applied by that natural ability which study quickens. "

- Oliver Sheldon. The Philosophy of Management.
1923.