THE MILLER AND CAUSEY REUNION

Members Of The Two Families Met At Perryhawkin Last Thursday

The eighth annual reunion of the Miller and Causey families was held in the grove adjoining Perryhawkin Church on last Thursday. The attendance was not as large as it had been on other occasions, but the time was spent very pleasantly. After lunch a large number of members of the two families visited the old Miller homestead, about 1 1/2 miles away. After their return, the president, Mr. S. A. Evans, called the reunion to order and the exercises were opened by singing, "Blest be the Ties That Bind."

The reunion was then reorganized and officers were elected as follows: President, S. A. Evans; Vice-Presidents, B. T. Dykes and Mrs. Eva Chatham; Secretary, W. P. Evans; Treasurer, E. F. Evans; Executive Committee, Edward H. Bounds, M. A. Culver, Miss Mattie Slemmons, O. H. Miller, Rev. W. F. Atkinson and B. T. Dykes. It was decided to erect a monument to the grave of the late Levin Miller and the committee appointed to attend to this was as follows: Rev. W. F. Atkinson, O. H. Miller, Mrs. Mamie Russell, B. T. Dykes, Levin J. Atkinson and E. H. Bounds.

"The Indian Lily" And Its Author

"The Indian Lily" is a story written recently by Mrs. E. Louis Lowe, of Baltimore city. The story was published in the Baltimore Sun of Sunday, September 26th. Its author is a lady of 92 years, who until three years ago, had never attempted to write a story. "The Indian Lily" was written for the short story contest of The Sun and shortly failed to win a prize.

Mrs. Lowe, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. E. Austin Jenkins, before her marriage was Miss Esther Winder Polk, of Princess Anne, Md. She was married in 1844 to Enoch Louis Lowe, who afterward became Governor of Maryland. Her home, whilst residing in Princess Anne, was upon Main street where the residence and store of W. O. Lankford are now located.

Mrs. Lowe does not claim to be a professional story writer, but on the contrary she writes merely for the amusement of herself and her friends. She is exceedingly active and no one would believe that she had reached the age of 92. An account of her life and her photograph appeared in the Sunday Sun of last week.

Death Of Mrs. Laura Kennedy

Mrs. Laura Kennedy, of 514 Cathedral street, Baltimore, died suddenly on Wednesday morning at the home of Mr. Archibald Todd, at Manokin, this county, aged 75 years. She had been spending the summer there. Mrs. Kennedy and her companion, Miss Lulu Maddox, had expected to remain at Manokin until October, when they expected to return to Baltimore for the winter. She had been an invalid for several years, but during her stay in Somerset her health had rapidly improved. She leaves two children—a son (Mr. Hall Kennedy, of Baltimore), and a daughter, (Mrs. Laura Pitts, of Montclair, N. J.). Her remains were taken to Baltimore and thence to Charlottesville, W. Va., on Thursday for interment.

A Somerset Boy Honored

Mr. Honies A. Tall, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tall, of Marion, who is taking his second year course at the Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, has been elected Academy Senator of that institution, which is one of the highest honors that come from the Academy. The Academy Senate is composed of ten students and five instructors. Captain members are elected by the students and the others are appointed by the faculty. The Senate decides questions concerning the wearing of insignia, school colors, etc., etc. It has a strong voice in the customs of the Academy, and in matters of discipline it is a help to the Head Master. The student section of the Senate is generally made up of the leaders of the school.

September Weather

The following is the weather report for the month of September as compiled by Mr. James R. Stewart, co-operative observer of Princess Anne:

Maximum temperature, 61 degrees, on the 9th, 11th, 13th, 14th and 17th; minimum temperature, 38 degrees, on the 29th; total precipitation, 1.41 inches. Clear days, 11; partly cloudy, 13; cloudy, 6. Killing frost on the 29th. Thunderstorms on the 6th, 18th and 19th. Very bright meteor on the 10th. The prevailing wind was southwest.

DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN IN STATE

First Meeting In Cambridge On 7th—In Princess Anne On 15th

Cambridge, the home of the head of their ticket, has been selected by the Democrats for the opening gun of the general campaign. This meeting will be held in Dorchester county on the night of October 7, three days after the notification ceremonies. The latter took place yesterday (Monday) at noon at the Rennert Hotel, Baltimore.

On the afternoon following the Cambridge meeting the State candidates will address the voters of Centerville, and on October 9 a rally will be held at Mount Carmel, in Baltimore county. The campaign now open, shows that it will be kept moving practically without let-up. Chairman Murray Vandiver and Secretary Albert J. Almoney, of the Democratic State Central Committee, have announced the following additional meetings that have been arranged in the interest of the Harrington-Ritchie-McMullen ticket:

October 11, La Plata, in the afternoon; October 12, Marlboro, at noon; October 13, Prince Frederick, in the afternoon; October 14, Leonardtown, in the afternoon; October 15, Princess Anne, in the afternoon, and Crisfield at night; Saturday, October 16, at the Whitehall Park, in Baltimore county. The State candidates, Comptroller Harrington, for Governor; Albert C. Ritchie, for Attorney-General, and Hugh A. McMullen, for State Comptroller, will speak at all of these meetings.

John W. Wilson Dead

Mr. John William Wilson, a prominent farmer, died at his home at Quinton, Somerset county, at an early hour Sunday, the 26th ulto, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Wilson was the son of William H. and Mary B. (Lankford) Wilson, and was born on the Wilson farm at Maddox's Corner 72 years ago. With the exception of some time spent in Kansas in his early manhood, Mr. Wilson's life had been spent in Somerset county, of which he was game warden. He married Miss Laura Scott, daughter of Capt. William Scott, of Somerset county, who survives him. He is also survived by the following children: Mrs. Laura Nichols, of Baltimore, whose husband, Rev. J. M. Nichols, joined her for the funeral; Miss Nan Wilson, of Sudlersville, Md.; Messrs. J. W. Wilson, of Gilmerton, Va.; Scott Wilson, a lawyer of Chicago, and Glenn Wilson, of Somerset county.

Funeral services were conducted at his late home on Monday afternoon of last week by his pastor, Rev. N. O. Gibson, and were largely attended. Interment was in the Presbyterian cemetery at Pocomoke City.

Southern Convocation Meeting

The fall meeting of the Southern Convocation of the Diocese of Eastern will be held in Spring Hill Parish, Wicomico county, to-day (Tuesday) and to-morrow (Wednesday). On Wednesday the program will be as follows:

St. Paul's Church, Spring Hill—8.30 a. m., reading of essay, 10.30 o'clock, morning prayer and celebration of the Holy Eucharist, sermon by Rev. George M. Galkanean, Rector All Hallows' Church, Snow Hill.

Three o'clock, St. Philip's Church, Quantico—Evening prayer and sermon, by Rev. H. R. Bryan, Dean of Trinity Cathedral, Easton.

Four p. m., Business session and discussion. Subject: "Should the Church, at the expense of True Worship, follow the denominations in an effort to make the services attractive and entertaining?" led by Rev. Louis L. Williams.

Five Series Of Entertainments

The Antrim Entertainment Bureau of Philadelphia, with arrangements with the Citizens League Committee of Princess Anne, will give a series of five entertainments for the benefit of the Volunteer Fire Company of this town.

The first will be given by the "Boston Lyrics" on Friday, October 29th. Followed by Dr. T. Alexander Cairns on Friday, November 19th. On Wednesday, January 19th, The Chicago Lyceum Players, followed by the Morrow Bros. Quartette on Monday, February 22nd, and the series to be concluded on Friday, March 21st, by the Fisher Ship Concert Company. The price for a season ticket is only $2.00.

Bishop Adams' Visitation

The Rt. Rev. William Forbes Adams, Bishop of Easton, will visit Grace Church, Mount Vernon, and St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Princess Anne, on Sunday, November 7th. He will confirm a class at Mount Vernon in the morning and another class in Princess Anne at the evening service.

PROBABLY FATAL SHOOTING

Charles Smith Wounds Lemuel Justice For Slapping A Girl

Lemuel Justice, a well-known colored man of Princess Anne, was shot about 10 o'clock last Saturday night by Charles Smith, a colored man whose home is in Virginia. Justice was hurried to the office of Dr. H. M. Lankford and was subsequently taken to the Peninsula General Hospital at Salisbury. An examination showed that Justice had been seriously wounded and little hope was held out for his recovery. The pistol ball had entered the patient's bowels and had pierced them a number of times.

The shooting was the outcome of a slight difficulty over a girl, who is Justice's cousin, and occurred on the porch of Lazarus Maddox's home on Church street. Justice had slapped the girl when Smith who was sitting by at once shot him and then fled. Smith has not yet been arrested and it is supposed that he went to his former home in Virginia.

A message was sent to State's Attorney Tull by Dr. J. McF. Dick, of the hospital, that as Justice was probably fatally wounded it would be best to have his declaration taken. Mr. Tull went to Salisbury on Sunday morning and in the presence of witnesses took Justice's statement, which is in effect as above.

Information from the hospital yesterday was that Justice was still living, but was likely to die from his injury. Smith, who did the shooting, had been working for Mr. L. B. Handley, at King's Creek, and was said to be an excellent laborer. Justice is the oldest son of John Justice, who is well known in Princess Anne.

Voice Is Heard 4,600 Miles

That wireless telephone communication from the Atlantic seaboard and Hawaii, a distance of 4,600 miles, is now an accomplished fact, was announced last Thursday at the offices of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, in New York. Exceeding even in success the transmission of the human voice from Arlington to Mare Island, Cal., a distance of 2,500 miles, accomplished Wednesday night, it was stated that subsequent experiments had resulted in successful telephone communication between Arlington and the naval radio station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

The distance over which this wireless communication was held is greater than the distance from New York to London, Paris, Berlin or Rome. The voice had to travel over the whole of the United States, a distance of 2,500 miles, before it encountered the more simple wireless conditions which exist over large bodies of water. For the purpose of this test it was stated that the receiving was done on small wireless antennae erected by engineers of the telephone company by permission of the naval authorities in the Pearl Harbor station.

The experiments, it was explained, at the offices of the company, are the successful culmination of a series of tests begun last spring with an experimental tower erected at Montauk Point and another at Wilmington, Del., 250 miles apart.

Married In Prison Chapel

That the cold gray prison walls have no terrors for the little God of Love was demonstrated several days ago, when, in the chapel of the Maryland Penitentiary, William T. Lunt, serving a five-year sentence for stealing an automobile, and his sweetheart were married by Rev. Dr. Beall. This was the first wedding to take place in the Penitentiary. The girl, accompanied by her parents and the clergyman, went to the prison. Lunt, who was at work, was called to the chapel. For five minutes he was allowed to talk with his sweetheart and then the marriage ceremony was performed. He was then sent back to his work in the shop.

Lunt was sentenced by Judge Heuser last November to serve a five-year term for stealing the automobile of Dr. Albert T. Chambers, of 1012 West Lafayette avenue, Baltimore. He was arrested in Virginia and brought back by Detective Lieutenant Fisher to that city.

Mrs. J. R. Gray Improving

Mrs. J. Howard Gray, wife of the pastor of the Silverbrook Methodist Episcopal Church, of Wilmington, Del., who has been very ill for several weeks, is improving and is on the road toward recovery, although the progress is slow. She has been a patient sufferer and many friends have been concerned about her condition. She is able to sit up for short periods and is gradually gaining strength.—Wilmington Evening News.

The man who pays as he goes may be lucky he doesn't have to pay coming and going.

COURT ADJOURNED UNTIL OCT. 25

Grand Jury Found 15 Indictments And Were Discharged Tuesday

The Circuit Court for Somerset County was in session last week with Judges Pattison, Jones and Stanford on the bench until Friday afternoon, when Court adjourned until October 25th, when it will take up the 41 oyster lot condemnation cases.

The grand jury found 15 indictments, completed its business late Tuesday evening and were discharged, after being in session two days. The committee appointed by the grand jury to inspect the Court House, almshouse and jail reported that they found the same in good condition. Among the cases disposed of were the following:

State vs. Carlton Dize—Assault, intent to kill Charles Byrd; carried forward.

State vs. Carlton Dize—Assault, intent to kill George Trefill; carried forward.

State vs. Harry McCready—Larceny of $23; guilty and 3 years in the penitentiary.

State vs. Bernard Thomas—Larceny of crabs from Eddie Scott. Not guilty.

State vs. Geo. B. Grossett—Practicing medicine without being registered or having a license. Plead guilty; $10 fine.

State vs. Albert Mears—Larceny of whiskey from Charles Dix. Not guilty.

State vs. Buck Brown—Selling liquor in Crisfield. Carried forward.

State vs. John William Nelson—Selling liquor in Crisfield. Carried forward.

State vs. Marion Cottman—Carrying concealed weapons. Carried forward.

State vs. Mammie Wicks—Assault on Louis Hayward. Not guilty.

State vs. Alton Gale—Burglary of Disharoon & Loreman's store. Four years in penitentiary.

State vs. Vernon Tawes—Burglary of Disharoon & Loreman's store. Two years in penitentiary.

State vs. Hubbard Daugherty—Selling goods on Sunday. Carried forward.

State vs. Granville P. Webster—Packing oysters without license. Carried forward.

Charles Watson vs. Somerset county—Suit for damages for personal injuries sustained on county road. Verdict for county.

Ira E. Stevenson vs. Mary Lizzie Stevenson—Executor of Thomas Stevenson. Verdict for defendant.

State vs. Robert Goldsborough—Wife beating. Carried forward.

Falling In Line For Harrington

Democratic clubs of Baltimore whose members, as a rule, supported Blair Lee for nomination for governor are falling into line for Emerson C. Harrington and his colleagues on the state and city tickets.

Indorsements of the whole ticket were given last week by the following clubs: Concord Club of the Nineteenth ward, of which Daniel J. Loden is president.

Twenty-first Ward Club, of which Thomas Brown is president.

The Eleventh Ward Club, of which Eugene H. Beer is president and of which Mayor Preston, Albert C. Ritchie, W. M. Maloy, and W. L. Marbury are among the prominent members indorsed the ticket at its weekly meeting Thursday night.

In his speech at the Concord Club last Wednesday night Mr. Loden, who has been re-elected chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee for Baltimore city, said the committee will inaugurate an active campaign after the formal notification of the candidates.

Mr. Loden was asked after the meeting if the managers of the city campaign for the nomination of Mr. Harrington and his colleagues in the recent primary will participate in the general campaign.

"They will be welcome, more than welcome," said Mr. Loden. "It is our ambition to roll up a large majority in Baltimore for Mr. Harrington and the more aid we have the more certain the majority."

Wicomico "Drys" Nominate Ticket

The Prohibitionists of Wicomico county held their convention at Fruitland last Tuesday and nominated the following ticket:

State Senator—John H. Dulany. Members of House of Delegates—John R. Robertson, C. W. Campbell and A. P. Toadvine. Clerk of the Court—William S. Davis. Register of Wills—Walter B. Stevens.

Sheriff—J. W. Mesick. County Commissioners—Allan W. Mesick, J. E. Denson and U. C. Phillips. Judges of the Orphans' Court—L. P. Mesick, J. T. Price and Z. W. Richardson.

The convention declared for a straight "middle of the road" policy. The Prohibitionists of Wicomico are arranging meetings for the State candidates to be held in the near future.

SOMERSET GRANGERS MEET

Pomona And Costen Members Have Enthusiastic Time.

Somerset county Pomona Grange met with Costen Grange on Saturday, September 25th. The following report of the meeting is furnished us by the secretary, Mrs. E. F. Wilson:

The meeting was conducted by County Master Dr. J. F. Somers.

The committee on resolutions—Brothers E. F. Wilson, F. M. Heminger, F. M. Widdowson, and Sisters Overholt and Somers—submitted the following resolutions, which were adopted:

Resolved, That we urge the women of Somerset County Pomona Grange to take some immediate action to get the benefit offered in the Smith-Lever Law.

Resolved, That we think it is the duty of our County Demonstrator to be present at Pomona Grange meetings, as the Grange took the initiative in having him appointed.

Resolved, That the farmers should be more fully represented in our State Legislature.

Resolved, That we extend to Costen Grange our hearty thanks for their generous hospitality and kindly expression at this Grange meeting.

Mrs. J. F. Somers kindly read the Smith-Lever Law, and all farm women would do well to avail themselves of the opportunities offered in said bill.

A committee was appointed on Horticulture as follows: J. L. Cowger, F. M. Widdowson and L. S. Lawson. Mrs. J. F. Somers, Mrs. F. M. Widdowson, Mrs. E. F. Wilson, Miss Priscilla Sterling and E. F. Stading and L. S. Lawson were also appointed to take charge of the exhibit at the expense of the Pomona Grange.

During recess over one hundred grangers and friends partook of a bountiful dinner.

Lecturer's program, by Brother S. R. Chaffey, was very instructive.

State Grange Lecturer Reuben Brigham spoke on the "Best Farm Crop"—the boys and girls.

Rev. N. O. Gibson gave a very well written paper on the subject, "Man and Dust."

Recitation, "The Last Hymn," by Mrs. Riggin.

Recitation, "We as Women," by Mrs. Somers.

Solo, "The Hen," by Miss Ida Belle Wilson.

Recitation, "A Woman's Question and Man's Reply," by S. R. Chaffey.

The next meeting will be with Crisfield Grange on Wednesday, December 23rd, 1915.

La Tena's Circus Of Much Interest

La Tena's Circus will exhibit in Princess Anne next Thursday, October 7th. The Register, published in Torrington, Conn., makes the following comments of La Tena's Circus which recently visited that city:

La Tena's Circus arrived here this morning and gave this afternoon an unusually good performance at Treat lot. The circus consists of three rings and several side shows. The exhibition of wild animals was of special merit. In fact, the circus features its wild animals. The performance of the animals was inside a large steel cage. Another feature of great interest was Captain Wesley's troupe of trained seals, which appeared for a year at the London Hippodrome. The most exciting act was that of Mile Eugene's troupe of seven performing lions.

Other features were Walter Allen and the famous herd of Downie elephants. Herman Griggs and Olga Reid, equestrians; the Powell family of five wire artists; Captain Wilson and his riding tiger, Nemo. There were 23 acts in all. The circus has three bands and a caliope and eight tents. For a circus of its size it is of high quality and thoroughly enjoyable for old and young. The verdict of those who attended this afternoon's performance was that it was superior in a great many respects to Wheeler Brothers' Circus, which was here last Saturday. This afternoon's performance began at 2 o'clock.

The performance this evening will begin at 8 o'clock, and it is expected that the large attendance of this afternoon will be equalled if not exceeded. All who attend will find that the circus is as advertised in every respect, and being somewhat out of the ordinary on account of the large number of wild animals exhibited, it will provide many interesting and original features.

Prohibition Meetings

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Prohibition party held last Thursday evening at headquarters on Guilford avenue, Baltimore, George R. Gorsuch, candidate for governor, announced his itinerary during the campaign. Mr. Gorsuch intends to tour the state in the interest of the ticket. He began at Cumberland, where he spoke on Friday evening and Saturday he was at Frostburg. The tentative schedule is as follows:

October 5, Sparrows Point; 6, Belair; 7, Ellicott City; 8, 9 and 10, meetings on the Eastern Shore; 12, ratification meeting in Baltimore; 15, 16 and 17, Mt. Airy and adjacent points; 19, Havre de Grace; 20, Elkton; 21, Parkton; 22, 23 and 24, Southern Eastern Shore; and the last week of the campaign will be devoted to local work.

SENATOR LEE WILL SUPPORT TICKET

He Declares Harrington Must Give Progressive Administration

That State Comptroller Harrington as Governor can "kill our movement" only by "giving a progressive Democratic administration," and that he is "entirely welcome to beat us that way if he can," are statements contained in an interview given out recently by United States Senator Blair Lee, the defeated candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

He calls attention to the fact that 117,000 votes were polled in the primary contests, which was 5,000 in excess of the Democratic vote polled in any general election. The vote cast for Senator Lee was 83,000, about 14,000 in excess of the vote he polled in 1911, when he was a candidate for the gubernatorial nomination. The Senator's statement, in part, is as follows:

"The result of this primary election is exactly the reverse of what has been stated in some of the papers. It has not established an undisputed State leadership in the Democratic party. Our party is not a dormant one, which an undisputed State leadership would mean. The popular movement is too vigorous and too significant to bear out any such thought. The people must be appealed to settle all questions now, and in such an appeal as has just been made by this primary election they are taking more interest than in former general elections."

"The total Democratic vote for Governor Crothers was about 102,000; for Senator Gorman for Governor in 1911 it was about 108,000; for President Wilson in 1912 it was about 112,000; for me for United States Senator in 1913 it was the same."

"The total Democratic vote in the last primary election, however, reached the unusual proportion of more than 117,000 votes, or 5,000 greater than the total party vote in the last and largest general election. The vigor of the contest is shown by the size of the popular vote, though, of course, under the county unit system the popular vote was not the main object of the contestants, as our people made no fight in the counties considered sure for Mr. Harrington, such as Worcester, Dorchester, Baltimore and Allegany, where Mr. Harrington got a majority of 11,968. But this large vote is significant, especially if compared with the total party vote throughout the State in the general election, and shows an extraordinary vitality and activity within the party."

"The more the people understand the arguments and methods of the two sides, as shown in this great primary campaign, the greater will be the appreciation of the good that comes from the open fight that must be made under the primary law. Whatever of bad has been revealed by this campaign has long existed, and was infinitely more dangerous to the public good when concealed, but being now known it may be corrected and the power of public opinion to do this is undisputed."

"Take Mr. Kelley, of Baltimore, as an illustration. For years the leading Democratic journal of our State has boomed him as the most intelligent city leader in Baltimore, and a number of our party leaders have close relations with Mr. Kelley. Now both this paper and these leaders are denouncing Mr. Kelley and his methods as revealed by the light of the great primary fight. "It is becoming perfectly apparent that the success of Mayor Preston's administration and the future of Baltimore city were, and are, based upon efficiency and honesty, which necessarily alienated the city leadership that was of a different kind."

"The great beauty of the primary election law is that we can make the fight for a better State and a better Baltimore within the party. I want all the good Democrats who have honored me with their support to understand this fact and keep within the party and support its nominees, for in this way the rule of the majority will win and the majority of our Maryland people are for good government. This is only the second thorough plowing of the Democratic field. No farmer can clean up a neglected farm in two plowings. The political soil of Maryland shows great vitality."

"I am going to vote for Mr. Harrington because I am loyal to the will of the majority and because he cannot kill our movement unless he gives us a progressive Democratic administration, and for the good of our State he is entirely welcome to beat us that way if he can. The future of the State depends now upon the conduct of all the parties to this great primary fight within the party."

"I salute the 53,000 men who supported me in this campaign. It has been my honor to meet many of them and take them by the hand, and it is my belief that the political purposes and principles for which they stand constitute the real and true leadership of the State, and whatever may be the fate of the individual leaders among them, that the opinion and purposes of these 53,000 Democrats will, in the near future, guide the destinies of Maryland."

W. C. T. U. Elect Officers

The fortieth annual convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland adjourned Thursday evening after having been in session in the Methodist Church at Rockville, Md., for two days. The following officers, all of Baltimore, were re-elected:

President, Mrs. Mary R. Haslup; Vice-President, Mrs. Pauline W. Holme; Recording Secretary, Mrs. A. W. Rudell; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Annie D. Starr; Treasurer, Mrs. William J. Jones.

Ira Bump's Treasure

He Lost It, but Found Another.

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Ira Bump was head bookkeeper in a downtown wholesale house. He was a little, round, roly poly man with brown eyes and hair and a rosy complexion. He had money in the bank, he was always well dressed, he was unmarried, and he had boarded at Mrs. Hecker's for thirteen years.

Now, Ira Bump did not occupy the most expensive suit at Mrs. Hecker's thoroughly respectable and unhome-like abode. On the contrary, he lived in the third floor back bedroom. It was a large room and quite comfortable, for Ira had added many luxuries from time to time, and it was $3 less per week than the best suit, and that $3 Ira placidly planted in the bank with his other savings. Some day when he had to make way for a younger man at the office he intended to retire to the country and raise chickens.

Among his fellow boarders Ira was looked upon as a "back number." Dapper young store clerks winked at each other when Ira came in, and they were not above making jokes at his expense, all of which flew harmlessly over his smooth brown head.

The younger girls, stenographers and clerks, smiled kindly at him, and the older girls beamed upon him, for he was a possible escape from old maidenhood.

One day Ira read a story in a popular magazine, a story that stirred his sluggish blood. It was about some pearl fishers in the south Pacific who fought to the death over a magnificent pearl found in an oyster shell by one of the divers.

After that Ira ordered raw oysters in addition to his usual lunch. He never ate the oysters, because he was afraid of bacilli, but he searched the shells carefully, hoping that some day he, too, might find a pearly treasure in one of the succulent bivalves.

And, lo, one day his fork struck a round object in the bottom of the plate of oysters! Carefully he picked it out and furtively slipped it into his vest pocket. He was so excited that he could not finish his coffee, and, grabbing his hat, he dashed back to the office.

There, alone at his desk, he pored over the milky, lustrous pearl that rolled around in his palm.

"It must be worth $5,000!" he gloated as he wrapped it in tissue paper and hid it away. "I shall—I shall buy an automobile, I think."

That night when Ira Bump came into dinner he radiated with an air of prosperity. He wore a brand new suit of evening clothes, and from the crown of his head to his patent leather shoes feet he was unusually immaculate.

Evening clothes were a distinct novelty at Mrs. Hecker's table, and Annie, the waitress, nearly dimmed Ira's sartorial glory by spilling soup upon him, but happily the blaque of tomato was diverted to the thick gray woolen coat sleeve of his next door neighbor, Denton, the hardware clerk.

Ira lent first aid to the wrathful Denton, for he felt in a measure responsible for the mishap. He knew and every one else knew, for they had seen Annie's start of surprise, that it was the sight of Mr. Bump's new clothes which had caused the accident.

Like an invisible mantle, an air of elegance descended upon the table. People were unusually courteous to one another.

Everybody talked except Freda Lindsay. Perhaps it was the long day spent in the schoolroom that was responsible for her unusual pallor, for the shadows under her sweet gray eyes and the sad droop to her mouth.

At any rate, Ira Bump was startled by her appearance and made a mental note that he must do something for Miss Lindsay. How delightful it was to be rich—richer than his friends and acquaintances—and hold the happiness of giving pleasure to others!

After dinner Ira paused to speak to Freda Lindsay. He felt very gay and excitable in his new clothes. He felt actually reckless.

"You are looking ill, Miss Lindsay," he said solicitously. "You need a breath of fresh air after the day's close confinement. Wouldn't you like to take a little ride—er—er—a motor ride in the park and then go to the theater afterward? It would give me much pleasure."

"Oh, Mr. Bump," she gasped, "I should be delighted! But," glancing at his attire, "I haven't anything very splendid to wear."

"Pooh!" laughed Ira Bump gayly. "What's the matter with that pink gown you used to wear last summer?" Freda blushed to think that he had remembered her rose pink voile of last summer. "I will put it on," she said hurriedly and went up to her little room.

man, but they help a lot, believe me." In the meantime Ira Bump and Freda Lindsay were becoming better acquainted. The change from the dull routine of their daily lives seemed to work miracles. In the sun of prosperity they expanded like stunted buds, and a flower of romance bloomed when they entered the theater.

The play was a romance, an old fashioned love story that set their hearts to beating to a new tune.

And when the motor sped them homeward Ira Bump opened his heart to Freda Lindsay. He told her about the pearl he had found and how a Maiden Lane jeweler had offered him $3,000 for it.

"I wanted to keep it overnight. I'm going to take it to him in the morning and collect the money," said Ira, laughing like a boy.

Freda thought it was all wonderful, just like a story book.

"I suppose you'll be leaving Mrs. Hecker's," she said wistfully.

"Not yet," said Ira.

"I am glad," said Freda simply.

"How glad are you?" he whispered boldly.

"Very glad," admitted Freda.

"I am thinking of buying a chicken farm. Do you like the country?" asked Ira.

"I'm a country girl. I'm a misfit in the city," sighed Freda.

At that moment it entered Ira Bump's head that a chicken farm would be very lonesome and dull indeed if Freda Lindsay was not there with her sweet, sympathetic smile and her quick appreciation of everything he said and did. It would be very pleasant to have a little wife to adore one—to buy pretty frocks for her, to have her waiting for him at the door.

Immediately Ira Bump proposed to Freda Lindsay. He discovered that he loved her. Was not his remembering the pink voile proof?

Freda confessed that she loved the quiet bookkeeper, and so it happened that they re-entered Mrs. Hecker's front door engaged.

"I must buy you a ring," whispered Ira as they parted on the landing.

"What shall it be?"

"A pearl," said Freda softly.

When he was alone in his own room Ira sat down on the edge of the bed and reviewed the events of the past twelve hours.

He had seen the jeweler, and after learning the value of his find he had gone to the bank and drawn some money. He had bought the evening clothes—he had always wanted a suit—he had dared to ask Miss Lindsay to go with him, and now they were engaged, and all on account of the pearl.

He thrust his fingers in the pocket where he had put it wrapped in tissue paper.

It was not there—the pocket was empty!

Even then he did not guess the truth. He believed he had mistaken the pocket. But one after another proved to be empty. His pulses leaped with fear as he frantically searched his clothes.

He searched the floor and the stairs and even the lower hall. His clothes were covered with lint and dust when at last he faced his disheveled reflection in his mirror, and the horrible truth was forced upon him that he had lost the pearl!

EAST INDIAN IDOLS.

Some That Are Guarded and Saluted by British Troops.

In India a British garrison of honor presents arms to a stone tiger every day. The tiger is regarded by the natives as a god who drives away all danger and calamity, and once some soldiers, in a spirit of mischief, overthrew the image from its resting place and sent it rolling into the valley below.

So shocked and scandalized were the natives that a revolt seemed imminent, and Lord Combermere quelled the outraged natives by restoring the image to its pedestal and ordering the regiment to salute it in full view of all. Since that time a British troop has kept watch over the tiger idol day by day.

Another Indian idol which is watched over by the British is the god whose name is Klak Klak, equivalent to "Lord of Lords," which is supposed to be asleep for 6,000 years and whose awakening will be the end of all things.

Hence the natives of the city of Pegu, in Burma, are terribly afraid that some one will arouse the god, so the British government, to avert trouble, stationed a sentry there to prevent this catastrophe.

Once a year a strange custom is observed in Cairo. A piece of carpet on which, according to tradition, Mahomet once sat and which is the most famous sacred relic of Islam, is carried through the streets, and the khedive and his troops all receive it in review order and salute it as they pass.

The relic is guarded most carefully at ordinary times, and the officer in charge of it each morning must salute it with his sword raised, while the bugler blows three blasts before it.

SENTRIES FOR CHURCHES.

A Custom Forced by Native Feuds in the Melanesian Islands.

In the Melanesian islands the natives carry on feuds with a more relentless hatred even than the vendettas of Corsica. In these islands Christianity has been made, at least in outward aspect, the religion of the people.

That it really does mean something to the Melanesian is evidenced by the reply I received from an intelligent old chief when I asked him why he did not become a Christian.

"I'm to be," he said, "when I kill the devil who kill my boy five years ago." So relentlessly are these feuds carried on that it is the custom for a native of wealth with a grievance against another, but who finds it impossible or inexpedient to kill his enemy and secure his head himself, to hire a professional murderer and pay him upon the delivery of the head.

Often in the years that are just gone indiscriminate killing went on with such savage persistence that even during church service "pot shots" were taken at marked worshippers through the doors and windows.

The situation became so acute in one village that the government was petitioned, and the response was the loan to the missionary of a rifle.

The missionary took the hint and armed one of his natives who stood guard outside the church during services.

And so it became the fashion on many of the islands to add a sentry to the church rolls—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

OLD TIME BATTLES.

They Were Mere Skirmishes When Compared With Modern War.

In the light of modern warfare the old time battles shrink to the proportions of ordinary street brawls. The opposing armies were usually arrayed in lines within hearing of one another. Frequently the actual combat was preceded by an exchange of opprobrious profanity in order to get up the proper sentiment of "holy wrath," which was considered an indispensable element in a soldier's efficiency.

Alexander the Great conquered the orient with only 35,000 men. On a still smaller scale the great battles of Israel appear to have been conducted, as told in the Bible accounts. For instance, in the fight against Gideon the Israelites are said to have suffered severe losses—to wit, thirty men.

The Egyptian army which invaded Palestine and subjugated the whole country counted barely 5,000 soldiers. Saul confronted his Palestine adversaries with an "army" of 600, which in the course of time was increased to 1,000 after the "militarists" of those days had persuaded the authorities to provide a reserve force, a sort of "land-sturm," of 400 warriors brave and bold.

King David's military establishment did not exceed his predecessor's in numbers. According to the first book of Kings, however, King Ahab must have been pretty much of a war lord, judging by the standard of olden times. In his army were 7,000 soldiers and a constabulary force of 230 men—Argonaut.

A Rival to the "Marseillaise." Writing in Musical Opinion, Gerald Cumberland says: "The records of history contain but few examples of great works of musical art created during a time of war. The 'Marseillaise' is one such example, and Sir Edward Elgar's 'Chantons, Belges, Chantons,' is another. Greatly as I admire the former undying melody, I do not believe it is in any respect greater than the latter."

WHEAT SMUT INJURES QUALITY OF YIELD.

Should Be Controlled By Treating Seed With Formalin.

NICHOLAS SCHMITZ,
Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station.

Stinking Smut in wheat has proven itself to be a serious disease in many sections of the State, often causing as much as 25 or 30 per cent. damage, and a decrease in price of the wheat of from 10 to 15 cents per bushel is not uncommon. This smut spreads by the threshing machine and by otherwise handling the grain.

The treatment for Stinking Smut is simple. Before commencing the treatment remove all unbroken "smut balls," and since these balls are much lighter than the sound grain, thorough fanning will usually do this. But if not, then the grain should be poured into a barrel of cold water and thoroughly stirred so that all the balls will come to the surface, where they can be skimmed off.

To treat the seed for this smut, buy from a druggist guaranteed formalin (40% solution of formaldehyde), and pour one pint of it into 40 or 50 gallons of water and mix thoroughly. This amount of solution should be enough for treating 40 or 50 bushels of wheat.

Spread the seed out thinly over a floor and apply the solution with a sprinkling can or with a spray pump throwing a fine spray. While the solution is being applied the grain should be stirred constantly with a hoe, shovel or garden rake, until every grain is thoroughly wet. About 3

SPRINKLING WITH FORMALIN.

quarts of the solution is required for 1 bushel of seed. After the grain is thoroughly wet, it may be put in a pile and allowed to remain for about 12 hours or more. A good plan is to treat the seed in the evening and let it lie in the covered pile until morning.

Treated seed may be sown the following day after it has been spread out to dry, or it may be thoroughly dried and kept indefinitely. If sown soon after treatment the drill should be set to sow from one-fourth to one third more than for a normal seedling of thoroughly dry seed.

It must be remembered that a lot of smutted wheat will always leave some of the smut spores wherever it is placed, whether this be in bins or sacks. Therefore, treated seed should never be put back in bins or sacks which previously contained smutted seed. If it is necessary to place the seed back into infected sacks they should first be dipped into the formalin solution. Before sowing it is also advisable to thoroughly disinfect the drill by spraying with the solution.
Seed treated with formalin is not poisonous to stock, but it is never advisable to feed it.

HAVE YOUR PULLETS IN SHAPE FOR WINTER LAYING.

ROY H. WAITE,
Station.

It soon will be too late to get your pullets in shape for winter laying. A pullet started off in good shape just before cold weather sets in is pretty apt to keep on laying all winter if she gets at least reasonable treatment.

If, however, on the other hand cold weather strikes them before they are in shape to lay, they will have two things to do aside from laying, viz.: growing and maturing and also keeping warm. It is also well to keep in mind the fact that at this time natural feed is beginning to get scarce and that this is just the time the pullets require animal matter with which to finish out their bodies and start up the egg machinery. Bugs, worms and insects are not so plentiful, therefore, it is well to offer some animal feed as a substitute. If you cannot get anything else, commercial beef scrap can always be purchased. The following simple mash kept before them in hoppers or shallow troughs will help wonderfully to round the farm flock into shape:

Bran	.....200	lbs.
Middlings	.....100	lbs.
Corn Meal	.....100	lbs.
Beef Scrap	.....100	lbs.
Salt	.....2 1/4	lbs.

Much interest centers in the Maryland Week Club Exhibit Contest. Any organization in the State, such as farmers' clubs, subordinate granges and local farmers' associations are invited to make a representative exhibit of all products for which premiums are offered in the Club Exhibit Class.

The prizes are: First, $150; second,
$100; third, $75, and fourth, $50.
Several organizations have already requested of the Secretary, T. B.
Symons, College Park, reserved space, and it is believed that this class of exhibits will excite more interest than ever before.

Every community should plan to be represented in this State-wide exhibition. Every farmer and home-maker should plan to attend the show and

The Too Good Man

His Kindness Is Always Repelled.

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

I've figured it up with slate and pencil, and I've chalked it down and added it up and subtracted it and multiplied it on the barn door, but it always comes out the same—the too good man has no place in this world. He is a sort of cross between a burdock and a sunflower—not ornamental enough for wear nor good enough eating for cows.

Coming up from Red Bank the other day, I followed an old man into the passenger coach. I had noticed him on the platform, and I recognized him as belonging to the species I have named.

The train had scarcely begun to move when my too good man, who had a rear seat, rose up and announced:
"Don't nobody be skeered, now. This hain't no collision. It's just like they allus move off. I've rid on 'em more'n a dozen times, and I'll tell you when to jump off."

Everybody looked at him, while some deluded him with smiles meant to be encouraging. He stowed away his satchel and removed an old slouch hat he had been wearing.

There was a woman sitting alone a few seats down the aisle. She had an umbrella, a bundle secured with a shawl strap and two or three parcels on the seat, and as Uncle Jerry passed down the aisle he stopped before her and cheerfully observed:

"Face kinder familiar to me, but I can't remember your name. Never been much of a hand at remembering names, anyhow. Husband flew around and helped ye to git ready, I suppose?
Leave the children all right? Been lots o' measles around this year. Don't leave the outside cellar door open, did ye?"

"I don't know ye," she said as she looked up.

"What! Hain't ye Hanner Jones of Jones' Crossroads?"

"No, sir."

"Waal, I s'pose I'd bet a two-year-old steer agin a cider bar'l that ye was."

The next one he accosted was a man fully as old as himself whose crown was bald and who wore spectacles. He was reading a letter, which he had taken from a corn colored envelope, when Uncle Jerry gave him a playful poke in the ribs and called out:

"Lands, you look just like my brother Bill across the back and head. Goin' somewhar, I s'pose."

"Who did that?" testily exclaimed the old man as he looked up.

"I kinder poked ye, but it hain't nuthin' to git mad at," replied Uncle Jerry. "Folks all well at home, I hope.
How'd yer taters keep last winter?
Hear any demand for turnips lately?"

"I want you to stop, I say!" yelled the old man as he waved his arms around.

"Then I will. If ye are so techy as all that I don't want nuthin' to do with ye. Lucky that ye hain't goin' to run for supervisor in my town. You wouldn't git a blamed vote. Howdy do, naybur?"

This last remark was addressed to a rather savage looking man with a weed on his hat who was reading a magazine.

"I warn you to go on," said the man.

"I'm wicked! I'm tuff! I'll hurt ye!"

"By squash, but what a feller ye be!

Haul right off and plunk me 'cause I want to be friendly, eh?"

He seemed to be a bit discouraged for a moment, but presently his eye caught the figures of two females at the far end of the car, and he edged along down to see if anything was wanted in his line. The two were mother and daughter, and the latter didn't look well.

"Did she fall down the cellar stairs or pitch off the haymow?" kindly inquired Uncle Jerry as he sat down on the rail of the seat.

"Are ye speakin' of me darter?" demanded the mother.

"Zactly. Doesn't look just right for this time of the year. If I'd only thought I'd brung along a bunch o' mayweed and told ye how to make tea of it. Beats all creation how mayweed takes the kinks out of the system. She ain't in luv, is she?"

"Sir!"

"Naybur o' mine had a gal about her age who began to ravel out and fade away. They put horseradish drafts to her feet, mustard plasters to her neck and dosed her with catnip, mayweed and sage tea, but she continued to flake off and fade in the wash and finally died. When too late they discovered she had all along bin in luv with Bill Hawes, my hired man, who was so gaul durned bashful that he darsn't say a word about it. Better begin to hunt around the grass and see if somethin' of that sort ain't troublin' her."

"You old critter, go away from here with yer blarney or I'll be the death of ye!" shouted the mother, and as he jumped back she pulled the girl out into the aisle beside her and waved her umbrella in a threatening manner.
"W-what's the rumpus now?" gasped
Uncle Jerry in great astonishment.

"If ye don't go I'll call the police!"

"Waal, by gum, if I was to tell this to Lucy when I git home she'd say I fell asleep and had the nightmare.
Don't none o' ye seem to want to be sympathized with. I'll go. I'll git right away, and if I had a hull sack of dried catnip and two dozen red peppers here I'd let the whole caboodle of ye suffer. Waal, I just won't say another word. I'm dished if I dew."

THOROUGH ORGANIZATION NECESSARY

The Democratic Central Committee of Somerset county has published in another column a notice urging all Democrats to form clubs in their several districts looking to the election of the State and local tickets. This notice should carry weight with every Democratic voter.

It is just as important that Somerset should elect its local Democratic ticket as it is that the Democratic State ticket should also be elected. The white voters of Somerset county greatly preponderate and the large majority of them are Democrats. The white voters who constitute part of the Somerset Republican party would be hopelessly in the minority were it not for the colored vote. It has always been our opinion that the control of the county belongs to the white people, and the Democrats should not be slow to secure every white man's vote possible to secure such control.

The Republicans of Somerset county are laying as much stress upon Democratic differences as possible, just as the State Republicans are thus hoping to elect their Republican candidates.
The more reason, therefore, why all hesitation about getting together should be swept aside by every true and faithful Democrat.

The way to do this is to thoroughly organize. Organize to accomplish a complete Democratic victory in November. No man, however distasteful the result of the primaries might have been, should lose his correct sense of principle or permit himself to vote the Republican ticket or any part of it.
Let us be true to our faith. Organization will be the correct step, and it is to be hoped that that step will be taken promptly. We have won in the past and there is no reason why we should not win in the election of 1915.

The Bulgarians insist that their mobilization is not a belligerent act, but only precautionary. In August, 1914, however, Germany told Russia that her mobilization was a belligerent act, and she must demobilize in 12 hours or take the consequences. The German construction of the action may be justified in the case of Bulgaria, which seems more and more disposed to enter the war by menacing Serbia and Greece.
Mr. Venizelos, however, thinks it worth while to appeal to Bulgaria to demobilize.—Philadelphia Record.

The Acid Test of Sincerity

Skeptics may attempt to deride the strong and definite pledges of the Democratic platform by saying that words and promises mean little to politicians, but they face an unanswerable argument in that commission to formulate a program of reform in the State government.

The appointment of such a commission was the acid test of the sincerity of the party. If there be any who hope to sidestep the pledges made, they will have a hopeless task in trying to evade the findings of such a body of men as those who will make a survey of the State government.

It is inconceivable that any party not bent on suicide should, after the appointment of such a commission, fail to carry out in substance, if not in every detail, the recommendations that it will make, and the party leaders certainly understood that.

President Goodnow of Johns Hopkins University is, as everyone knows, one of the most distinguished students of government in America. His books on the subject are famous and he is not only a student but a practical man of affairs. It is doubtful whether an abler head for such a commission could have been found in America.

While President Goodnow will not be back for some days from China, where he is the confidential adviser of President Yuan, and has not consented to serve on the commission, those who know him best feel quite certain that he will be glad to contribute his great talents to the service of the State.
It is well known that he wants the Hopkins to be of as much service to the public as may be possible and is anxious that the public shall call upon the university whenever such service is needed or desired.

The high character and ability of such men as Judge James Alfred Pearce, Philip D. Laird and Joseph D. Baker are so well known to Marylanders that any comment from us would be superfluous.
The same might be said of Messrs. Maloy, Griswold and Parke, but it may be pointed out that these latter are not only men of high intelligence and experience, but will contribute the vigor and enthusiasm of younger men to the work of the commission.

It is not a factional commission. It is well balanced in every respect, and,
as we have said, it seems to us to be ideal. It guarantees great improvements in State affairs.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Disgusting Styles

Pictures in the popular daily papers show the new fashions for women, which,
by the way, are more or less disgusting.

One of the novelties (?) is pantaloons which are to view some ten to twelve inches below the abbreviated skirt. Enpassant, we may say the skirt of the average woman has been clipped off a few more inches to display the hosiery unless the pantaloons are worn.

They are not of sombre hue. Oh, no!
this would be too sedate and modest,
but they must be of green, salmon, bright red, pink, or some such "attractive shade or tint."

Good Lord deliver us from women's fashions. They are disgusting, immodest, indecent and are the cause of nine-tenths of the immorality of the present age.

It would be a good thing for the Woman's Civic League to take some action toward reform in women's disgusting fashions, or, at least, endeavor to persuade our own women not to adopt them.

The Capital awaits with interest the first Annapolis girl or woman to wear pantaloons.—Annapolis Capital.

The Green Bag

Mayor Preston has sent in his "green bag" and the citizens of Baltimore have an opportunity to view with approbation or otherwise his appointments. It is clear that Mr. Preston has in the main been guided first of all by his long employed policy of making appointments according to fitness and in the selection of men who will work with him toward the common end of the upbuilding and betterment of the city.

The fact that a number of the heads of departments and others who have seasoned capacity in their several spheres of service and who have placed the city under a debt of obligation for the manner in which the affairs of Baltimore have been handled have been reappointed is proof of the desire of Mr.
Preston to have the full confidence of the people. The citizens and taxpayers of Baltimore desire one thing only—and that is good government with economy and the expenditure of the city's funds by men of competence and of character.—Baltimore American.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness,
and that is by constitutional remedies.
Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever;
nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by cattarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Rats! Rodentian Eugenics!

The scientific value of the demonstration that white rats, in-bred through twenty-three hurried generations, produced an ultimate super-rat, in physical formation at least, if not in mental calibre, cannot be challenged successfully by a layman, but it still will be the privilege of society to maintain its order on the basis of knowledge acquired through long years of experimentation with men and women, rather than by a limited observation of rats.

The perfect strain has not as yet been discovered in the human, and even if it shall be the difficulties of maintaining its perfection and protecting it against invasion would be well nigh unconquerable. If there were needed any argument against the obvious undesirability of isolating and perpetuating a single strain, it would be in the fact that most of us have some defects, gross or minor, in our make-up which need to be offset, counterbalanced, and ultimately corrected by some other influence grafted into our lives.

Perhaps it is only a tradition, and a false theory, that prohibits the intermarriage of a single stock, but the rule has worked pretty well, and disregard of the rule—plus the disregard of a great many other rules of society and health, to be sure—has worked badly and produced a deteriorated race in numerous communities, and the verdict of human experience still stands against the performance of the white rats.—
Philadelphia Bulletin.

The Colds Of Mankind Cured By Pines!

Have you ever gone through a typical pine forest when you had a cold? What a vigorous impulse it sent! How you opened wide your lungs to take in those invigorating and mysterious qualities.
Yes, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey possesses those stimulating qualities and overcomes hacking coughs. The inner lining of the throat is strengthened in its attacks against cold germs. Every cold needs a bottle constantly at hand. 25c. 2

TO ALL SOMERSET COUNTY DEMOCRATS!

All Somerset county Democrats are earnestly requested to form clubs in their several districts, looking to the election of the regularly nominated
State and local ticket.

These clubs should be organized and officers elected at the earliest practicable date, and not later than Saturday, October 16th. In the meantime, it is requested of those organizing the clubs that the names of the officers should be furnished the Secretary of this committee, Mr. Harding P. Tull. All clubs are respectfully requested to take proper action looking to the securing of a full attendance of Democrats from the several districts at the county mass-meetings, which are to be addressed by the State candidates, and held at Princess Anne on Friday night, October 15th, and at Crisfield Friday night, October 15th.

Mr. McKnight Hudson, of Greenbackville, Va., was a visitor to Princess Anne last Wednesday.

Misses Blanche Tull and Catherine Tull, of Marion, were visitors to the county seat last Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter E. Spicer, of Worcester, Mass., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. O. T. Beauchamp, on Prince William street.

Mrs. Raymond G. Coghlan (nee Nixdorf), of Newark, N. J., who has been a guest at the home of Judge H. L. D. Stanford, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Hodson and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence P. Lankford, of Crisfield, spent last week at "Beckford," the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Fillmore Lankford.

Mr. L. N. Whitcraft, former Roads Engineer of Somerset county, but now of Pittsburg, Pa., spent several days last week in Princess Anne attending court.

The Civic Club will hold its first meeting for the year to-day (Tuesday), October 5th, in the petit jury room at the Court House, at 3.30 o'clock. A full meeting is requested.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua W. Miles, who have been spending several weeks at Atlantic City and in Baltimore, returned to Princess Anne last Thursday. Mr. Miles' condition is generally improved.

Comptroller Emerson C. Harrington on Friday last made the quarterly distribution of the State School and Free Book funds. The amount for Somerset county is $9,279.94 for the former and $809.86 for the latter.

The Democrats of Somerset county will hold a big mass-meeting in the Auditorium, Princess Anne, on Friday afternoon, October 15th, and at Crisfield at night. These meetings will be addressed by the candidates for State offices and other speakers. All Democrats are urged to bear this date in mind and turn out and make this a big Democratic rally day and night.

The following circular letter has been sent out by the Public Service Commission: The present indications are that there will be an unusually heavy movement of carload freight, such as grain, coal, cement, fertilizer, etc., during the fall months, and the railroads will probably find it difficult to furnish a full car supply. The interest of shippers and consignees as well as the interest of the railroads can best be served by the prompt loading, unloading and handling of cars in order that the maximum service can be gotten out of the equipment. The Commission earnestly requests the co-operation of all concerned in order that the best results may be obtained and the industrial situation benefited or relieved.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hendrie left on Sunday evening last for New York city.

Mrs. A. Lula Horsey, of Baltimore, and Miss L. M. Stevenson, of Marion, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Oscar F. Jones last week.

The Princess Anne Public Library will be opened during the winter from 3 to 5 o'clock on Saturday afternoons, instead of 4 to 6 as at present.

The Rev. Henry E. Spears leaves to-day (Tuesday), for Quantico, Md., where the Southern Convocation of the Diocese is in session this week.

Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Bounds, of Princess Anne, spent Sunday of last week at the home of Mrs. Bounds' sister, Mrs. J. Wesley Butler, near Westover.

Prof. E. Clifford Ryall, of Fairmount Academy, and Miss Leona Lankford, of Salisbury, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hendrie, on Main street, last Sunday.

The Ladies Card Club of Princess Anne was entertained most agreeably last Thursday evening by Mrs. H. M. Lankford, at "Beckford." This meeting was the first one held since last summer.

Mr. J. B. Hendrie has leased the store formerly used by the Peninsula Produce Exchange in the Cohn building, on Main street, and is now in New York city purchasing goods to stock the same.

The unusual storm of last Friday occasioned a one-session school day at the High School in Princess Anne. The meeting of the Parent Teachers' Association also had to be postponed. It will be held next Friday afternoon.

After his millinery opening Mr. S. F. Dashiell was compelled to restock his millinery department with more new hats for the fall and winter trade, which shows that the ladies of this vicinity know where to get the latest creations in up-to-date headgear.

Do not fail to see Charlie Chaplin at the Auditorium next Friday night in two reels of motion pictures—"The Masquerader" and the "New Janitor." The 13th chapter of the "Diamond from the Sky," in two reels, will keep you guessing who has got the diamond.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Spiva left last Sunday morning for Washington, D. C. They were accompanied as far as Baltimore by Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Dashiell. They are making the trip by automobile. Mr. Spiva is cashier of the Bank of Somerset and is taking his annual vacation.

Miss E. Marie Pusey, daughter of Laurence L. Pusey, left Princess Anne last week for Philadelphia where she will take up the study of Piano and Voice at Combs Conservatory of Music. In her studies Miss Pusey will have the advantage of the personal supervision of Gilbert R. Combs, founder and director of the Conservatory, and will probably make several concert appearances during the course of the season. Friends who have watched her work predict a successful career in the Quaker City.

Fraud Paint
The worst mistake one is likely to make in painting is wrong paint; it is easy to make.

We all say "Ours is the best," but there are 1000 of us. One is best; but a dozen are so near on a level that no one knows, for sure, that his is the one. The worst paints are worst liars; they know what they are, put on a bold face, and brazen it out.

Their one true argument is low price; but low-price paint is always, must be, a fraud; it is made to cheat cheatable people.

"Within The Law"

Bayard Veiller's play, "Within the Law," proved to be a huge success. It caught the fancy of the people from the very start, held them in intense interest throughout, won a fusillade of laughter by its comedy and finely swept along to sure victory. So deftly has Mr. Veiller handled his characters that one does sympathize with Mary Turner, and one does rejoice in the success of her wiles. It is a weakness of the American public to admire cleverness, even in a criminal, and it is Mary's adroitness and the fact that the author has contrived to keep her chaste. If otherwise morally soiled, Mr. Veiller's ingenuity has not stopped there. A MAXIM SILENCER plays an important part in a murder which is accomplished noiselessly. And the searchlight from a neighboring skyscraper is cleverly introduced to reveal a dead body at a moment of great suspense. Mr. Veiller does not hesitate to go the entire distance of sentimentality and show Mary Turner at the final curtain in the arms of her loving husband.

A BLAZE IN JAPAN

Yelling Mobs Throng the Streets
When a Fire Starts.

IN A FRENZY OF EXCITEMENT.

Every Native in Town Makes a Mad Dash For the Scene of the Conflagration and Chaos Reigns Supreme. Even a Small Fire is a Big Event.

A fire is a great event in Japan. One would think that, inasmuch as the flimsy construction of the Japanese houses and their packing together make fires of almost daily occurrence in the cities, at any rate—fires would have lost a portion of their novelty during the ten or fifteen centuries Japan has regularly been burning down. They have not, though. When the fire bell begins to toll the whole population goes to the fire.

I was in a Jirikisha in Yokohama on my way to the railroad station when I heard the clangor of a bell, and the coolie who was drawing me shouted: "Kwaji! Kwaji!"—or what sounded like that—and displayed strong evidences of breaking into a gallop.

"Sore wa nanigusa?" I inquired politely, remembering from my phrase book, "What is that?"

"Kwaji!" he shouted. "Kwaji!" And so it fell out that we went to the fire—the coolie, the Jirikisha and myself—for I had no words to stop him except a very uncertain "Tomaru!" And he did not choose to tarry.

The coolie galloped down one street and up another, and in ten minutes I was in the midst of 20,000 people clad in every style of Japanese dress, and all running backward and forward. Not a man walked. All ran. They were so interested and excited that I thought they must be shareholders in the shanties which were burning.

A man dashed wildly to one end of the street elbowing people out of his way, stepping on them, pushing against them, and then he stopped, emitted a wild scream and dashed back again. I say one man did that. In reality a thousand did it on each of the four sides of the block in which the fire was, unconcerned and in a casual and unhampered manner, demolishing some small houses.

Other thousands—many of them—ran this way a few steps and that way a few steps, all by-ah-ing. Not a man stood still except myself, and I soon got away, for the Japanese, frenzied with excitement, were bumping into me from all sides.

Presently the firemen came. They dashed in from all quarters of the city, dragging little hose carts painted red and flying white and red flags. The hydrants in Yokohama are in manholes below the surface of the street. The firemen joined in the milling throng. They ran back and forth, too, and the spectators ran back and forth after them. There was much shouting and gesticulation. Every fireman, whether regular or volunteer, seemed to be a chief. They all gave orders that nobody obeyed, like a volunteer fire outfit in a country village at home.

There were ten or fifteen minutes of this running back and forth and shouting by the firemen; then some tiny streams of water began to sprinkle on the fire. Also, a few big engines began to squirt. Meantime the firemen were paying no attention to the houses on fire, but were trying to keep other houses from burning. A few of them tore slates from adjacent roofs and cast them indiscriminately into the crowd. Women with bundles of household belongings struggled out of the houses that might catch fire. More thousands came. For four blocks each way the streets were packed from wall to wall with excited people, all running back and forth and all shouting.

I had to elude my coolie with my cane to make him start with me to the station, and he looked backward over his shoulder all the way. I was depriving him of a real pleasure—taking something out of his life by not allowing him to stay and help put out that fire. It seems almost superfluous to say I missed my train or that the Jirikisha man, bowing and smiling, remarked, "I am sorry for you!" However, that made me later in getting back that night, and as I went up dark and deserted Water street in Yokohama I heard music ahead of me—a kind of music and tune that sounded familiar.

Presently I overtook the musician. He was a Japanese youth, stumping along on his wooden clogs, wearing a derby hat and clad in a kimono, and he was playing on a mouth organ. "Shall We Gather at the River?" Wherein was illustrated and exemplified the old and new Japan.—Samuel G. Blythe in Saturday Evening Post.

Three Greatest Lawyers.
It would be rather difficult to pick out the "three greatest criminal lawyers" in the history of our country. Plunkett, O'Connor, Ingersoll, Prentiss, Choate and many others were very great criminal lawyers. Probably the three greatest criminal lawyers in our country's history were Burr, Frazier and Brady.—New York American.

Der's Bank.
"I saw you keep a mile box—all the pennies and small coins for the help and improvident, I suppose?"
"Exactly. My husband must have some place to which he can turn for car fares and luncheon money."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A WORD FOR MOTHERS

It is a grave mistake for mothers to neglect their aches and pains and suffer in silence—this only leads to chronic sickness and often shortens life.

If your work is tiring; if your nerves are excited; if you feel languid, weary or depressed, you should know that Scott's Emulsion overcomes just such conditions.

It possesses in concentrated form the very elements to invigorate the blood, strengthen the tissues, nourish the nerves and build strength.

DIVORCE IN SCANDINAVIA.

It Is Very Easy to Obtain, and It Does Not Cost Anything.

In Scandinavia divorce by mutual consent is the recognized way. And husband and wife may reach this agreement when neither has violated any marital obligation. The law, you see, does not require them to wait until one has wronged the other. But when they have reached the point where they two know that their real union is ended they may secure a divorce for the asking. It doesn't cost anything. There is not even a lawyer needed. The process is simple. You notify a magistrate that you are separating. You are not required to go into details. You don't have to spread your marital troubles on court records and newspaper pages. One reason is as sufficient here as when you entered into matrimony. You simply state that you no longer wish to continue the marriage. Then one party to the contract goes away for a year—in Finland it is for only three months. At the end of the period the magistrate hands you the papers that dissolve the marriage as quietly as it was made.

If, as rarely happens, mutual consent through the refusal of one of the contracting parties cannot be secured the process is a little longer, the probationary period of one year being extended to two. But there is always a way out. Sweden has no less than twelve grounds for divorce. It is accomplished in as dignified a way as any other partnership might be dissolved.—Mabel Potter Daggett in Pictorial Review.

Baths in Finland.

One of the greatest trials a visitor in Finland has to endure is a Finnish bath. The method of procedure is unique. Divested of outer clothing and attired in a light and airy cotton garment, you are slung in a sort of hammock composed of cord above a large receptacle like the boilers in public laundries. This is almost filled with cold water, into which at the right moment is dinged a large red-hot brick or piece of iron, which, of course, causes an overwhelming rush of steam to ascend and almost choke you. Then when that process has gone on sufficiently long you are shaken out of your hammock, immersed in cold water, and after very drastic treatment you resume your raiment, sadder and wiser than before your novel experience.

How a Coal Fire Protects Itself.

A curious way in which a fire in the heart of a coal pile keeps itself from being put out is noted in a mining journal. Such fires often start in the interior of large piles of coal owing to heat developed by slow oxidation, which is prevented by the size of the pile from escaping into the air. Such fires are difficult to put out owing to the fact that the burning mass turns the coal around it into coke, which is nearly impervious to water. The pile may thus be thoroughly drenched without putting out the fire, which it never really reaches. The only way to deal with the situation is to drive into the pile a sharpened iron pipe long enough to reach the burning coal and then to couple a hose to the upper end and turn on the water.

A Dreadful Mistake.

Glympe (in railway carriage)—This is a splendid book, a masterpiece. I recommend you to buy it. Glympe—I wonder how it is selling. Glympe—It is selling in thousands. Can't publish it fast enough. I'm the publisher, so I ought to know. Glympe—I'm so glad to hear you say that, because I am the author. Glympe (suddenly collapses)—Well, er—er—that is, it may sell fast. But there are very serious risks. (Swoons away.)—London Mail.

Recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

COINS FOR OTHER LANDS.

South American Money Is Made in Our Mints at Cost Price.

"Made in the United States" might in all truth be stamped on the coins of nearly a dozen of the countries of Latin America in which a shopper would try in vain to buy merchandise bearing that slogan, for, though the United States does not ship great amounts of goods to the countries between the Rio Grande river and Cape Horn, it does supply them with a large part of their money, says the Washington Star, and this, in spite of the Spanish phrases and foreign emblems that it bears, is the product of Uncle Sam's own mints.

Since the authorization to coin money for foreign countries was given to the mints by congress in January, 1874, more than 100,000,000 pieces of gold, silver and base metals have been minted for countries in North, South and Central America and the West Indies and for Hawaii before its annexation.

All foreign minting by the United States is done at a price that just covers the cost. There are two reasons for the government engaging in the business. It puts this country in a position to keep our coinage equipment and force of operatives busy during periods when it would otherwise be necessary to suspend operations. The decreasing need for mints with our vast accumulations of coins, the growth of banking and the use of paper money is shown by the fact that of the seven mints that have been in existence in the history of the country only three are now equipped for turning out coins, the others having been either abandoned or turned into assay offices.

When Turtles Were Big.

Of the turtles it may be said that they represent the most ancient type of all vertebrates, resembling closely as they do the reptiles of their kind which existed so far back as the mesozoic era. There were sea turtles during that epoch which measured twenty feet in spread of flippers, while some tertiary turtles were not less big in body, measuring twelve feet from head to tail.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Princess Anne Citizen's Advice

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a good remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has acted effectively in many cases in Princess Anne. Follow the advice of a Princess Anne citizen.

Mrs. Oscar Long, Princess Anne, Md., says: "It is true that Doan's Kidney Pills have been used very successfully in my home and I hold them in high esteem. I seldom let a day go by without telling someone of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I don't know of any other medicine so certain to do good as Doan's Kidney Pills. It gives me pleasure to publicly endorse them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Long had. Foster-Milburn Co., Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

"The Best Possible Newspaper!"

What sort of a paper is it? In the first place, it must be a Home Paper—the Woman's Friend and a part of her daily life. And it must be a necessity to the Business Man. It must not only tell what is happening in the world, but it must go further and tell why it is happening and what it means. The Best Possible Newspaper has a staff of correspondents covering the world field of the Associated and United Press, securing the earth for vital human facts. It has fashions and art, books and music, literature and politics at its right hand. It has the markets for the farmer, the merchant, the broker.

The world has never seen an age of greater constructive significance in politics, in science, in society. Every move in the field of action is a topic for discussion in cities, villages, hamlets, at crossroads. And the Best Possible Newspaper must equip its readers for intelligent understanding of all these things.

That is precisely why it is the simple truth that for your purpose, and for the purposes of the whole South, THE BEST POSSIBLE NEWSPAPER is

The Baltimore Star

The Leading Evening Paper of the South

The Baltimore Star, established August 17, 1906, by the publishers of The Baltimore American, has won its place as the representative evening paper of the South. It gives more news and more reading matter than any other newspaper in Maryland. It is especially rich in departments—financial, sporting, society, children, women, and to these departments the best writers of America are regular contributors. The Star is the greatest home paper, with something for every member of the family. It is a cheerful newspaper, with plenty of entertaining news. Those who try it keep on taking it.

The Star is elaborately illustrated. It has the photographs of important events. Its portraits of leading men and women are unequalled. The Star has two great newsmen, with wires direct to its offices from all parts of the world. The Star has a wireless equipment. It uses every modern invention and the best enterprise to get all the news.

The Star is different from other Southern papers. It has a quality of its own.

Bolgiano's Red or Purple Top White Globe Turnip

Red or Purple Top White Globe Turnip.
The Handsomest and Most Profitable Turnip for Home or Market. It is a large, rapid growing sort with globular-shaped roots. Flesh pure white. The skin is white and purple. On account of its shape it will outyield any other sort.

Bolgiano's New Improved Very Early Long-Standing Kale
Beautifully curled and crimped sort; strong, vigorous habit, perfectly hearty; bright green color; very attractive in appearance; superior to all late sorts. Will stand longer without shodding to seed than any other variety.

Bolgiano's California Mammoth Rooting Solid and juicy as an apple; pure white flesh and delicious flavor—a very choice variety. We never sent out a Winter Radish that gained so much popularity as this one. Sown in time after July 1st to the 1st of September, it will keep all winter in prime condition; mild in flavor, brittle. Never gets woody as do most Winter varieties. Market gardeners have found it to be a splendid seller and have always made money with it.

Other Delicious Vegetables
Bolgiano's "May Queen" Beans. Enormous Bush Beans. Early and late. Deep Red Blood Beauty Beet, new "Square-Headed Cabbage," "Sunbeam" Cabbage, "New Century" Cauliflower, "Early Fortune" Cucumber, "Long-Loss" Lettuce, "Wonder Worker" Peas, "Plucky" Potatoes, "New Improved" Long-Standing Spinach, American Purple-Top Rutabaga.

Bolgiano's Field Seeds for Summer
Crimson Clover, Cow Peas, Dwarf Essex Rape, Red Clover, Hairy Vetch, Alfalfa, Sweet Clover, Sudan Grass, German Millet, all varieties domestic and imported Grasses.

Mr. Dashiell and family, who have spent the summer at Ocean City, have returned to their home.

Mrs. A. C. Moore and daughter, Mildred, are visiting relatives in Cambridge.

Mr. Alvin Mason, of Philadelphia, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. B. Mason.

Miss Revelle, of Fairmount, visited her brother, Rev. Wm. H. Revelle, at the M. E. Parsonage.

Mrs. Leah Cullen, of Venton, and Miss Maggie Cullen, of Philadelphia, have been visiting Mrs. G. R. Marsh, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. William Corbett, of Wenona, have returned home from a visit to Mr. Corbett's brother, Mr. Charles Corbett.

Prof. E. J. Hardesty, superintendent of Sussex county (Del.) schools, and sister, Mrs. William Hall, of Seaford, Del., motored here and stopped at the home of Mr. Thomas W. Simpkins on Sunday last.

Mrs. Elizabeth Whitney, formerly of this place, died at her home in Salisbury on Monday last, aged about 73 years. Her remains were brought here and interred in the cemetery adjoining John Wesley Methodist Episcopal Church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. H. Revelle conducting the funeral services. The deceased is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Jack Booth, of Salisbury.

Ortolo

Oct. 2—Mr. Paul Smith left Friday night for Baltimore.

Mr. Raymond Wilson made a trip to Baltimore Friday night.

The Junior Aid met at the home of Miss Agnes Bozman last Saturday evening.

Mrs. Theodore White, after spending a few days at this place, has returned to her home at Wenona.

Miss Virginia Brimer, after spending some time at the home of Rev. Daniel White, has returned to Smith's Island.

Mr. Ned Crosswell, after staying some time in St. Joseph's Hospital, Baltimore, has returned home very much improved.

The Philadelphia Sunday Record

We know a man who bought four or five lots of cantaloupes early in the season, found them flat and tasteless, and banished cantaloupes from his table on the ground that farmers don't grow the kind of fruit nowadays that they did when he was a boy.

There are men who won't read anything but the news in the Sunday newspaper because they have come to the conclusion, after experience with other newspapers than the Sunday edition of "The Philadelphia Record," that all Sunday newspapers are insipid and unprofitable. But because a man has eaten cantaloupes that were grown in close proximity to a cucumber patch, and cross fertilized with the cucumbers by industrious insects, thus partaking of the qualities of both plants, there is no reason why he should eschew Rocky Fords; and because he has been imposed upon with the common run of Sunday newspaper trash there is no reason why he should not acquaint himself with the contents of "The Sunday Record"—and become a constant reader.

There is nothing flat in the flavoring of "The Sunday Record." Its news pages set the standard for its feature pages. You've heard of the lovable, naive, "Pollyanna?" She's a "Sunday Record" regular. You know the ordinary kind of colored "comics?" Well, "The Sunday Record" comics are different—and better. And there is "Willie Green," whose amusing antics on the farm have made a lasting hit; and a full page of fashions every week; and a page of embroideries; and a separately bound magazine section, with colored cover, handsomely illustrated, to which the best short-story writers in the country contribute.

But we have just touched the high spots in skipping over "Sunday Record" features. There are so many of them, and their appeal is so skillfully directed to the different members of the family, that the chief problem of the publishers must be how to make up the paper so that one copy may equitably divided among several persons. If you have been taking a Sunday newspaper that gives you that tired feeling, try the Sunday issue of "The Philadelphia Record" and get over it. The highest praise we can give it is to say that it is the daily issue of Philadelphia's best newspaper on a bigger scale.

Coughs That Are Stopped!

Careful people see that they are stopped. Dr. King's New Discovery is a remedy of tried merit. It has held its own on the market for 46 years. Youth and old age testify to its soothing and healing qualities. Pneumonia and lung trouble are often caused by delay of treatment. Dr. King's New Discovery stops those hacking coughs and relieves the gripple tendencies. Money back if it fails. 50c. and $1.00.

Trouble For Wicomico Democrats

The Board of Election Supervisors for Wicomico county, composed of S. S. Smyth, George Bounds, Democrats, and William Phoebe, Republican, met Monday of last week to dispose of the mix-up of the court clerkship nomination.

On September 14, E. A. Toadvine, who died the day preceding the primary election, was returned nominated by 196 votes over J. Clayton Kelley, the other only contestant for the place.

The Board passed a resolution declaring that Mr. Toadvine received the majority vote for the clerkship over J. Clayton Kelley, and Mr. Toadvine being dead, was ineligible for that place, and the nomination is vacant. This puts the matter of filling the Democratic nomination for the clerkship up to the new Democratic State Central Committee, composed of William M. Cooper, J. Cleveland White and Ira D. Turner.

The committee will immediately proceed to select the man, while Mr. Kelley has retained legal title and will make a fight for the place, basing his contention on the ground that he had no opponent in the primary election, Mr. Toadvine being dead, it being to the same effect that he was a candidate without opposition.

The matter is likely to cause considerable trouble in the local Democratic ranks if it is not handled with great care by the local leaders.

When Baby Has The Croup

When mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to a sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere. (Advertisement)

In Touch With the Market

Because markets are uncertain and changeable, the big problem is to sell the right produce at the right time in the right market.

The answer is the telephone. Before you make a sale you can get current market prices by telephone, and do away with all uncertainty as to what price to accept.

Ask our local manager for full information concerning telephone services.

DEMOCRATIC MASS-MEETINGS

Messrs. Harrington, Ritchie and McMullen To Speak

The Democrats of Somerset county will hold mass-meetings in Princess Anne and Crisfield next Friday, October 15th. The meeting in Princess Anne will be at 2.30 in the afternoon at the Auditorium, and the one at Crisfield at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Lyric Theatre. The speakers for the occasion will be the State candidates.

HON. EMERSON C. HARRINGTON
HON. ALBERT C. RITCHIE
HON. HUGH A. MCMULLEN

and others. Every Democrat in the county is invited to be present and hear the issues of the campaign discussed.

A Worthy Charity

Mrs. C. M. V. Follett, representative of the National Florence Crittenton Mission, is in Princess Anne. She is authorized to present the work, organize circles, and receive subscriptions.

The National Florence Crittenton Mission is a great un denominational missionary society for the uplifting of fallen girls, making a way of escape through the open doors of Florence Crittenton Homes in America and foreign countries.

It also conducts homes for working girls, and maintains preventive departments where young, unprotected girls are sheltered, and from which they are placed in positions.

It includes homes for children, where children who come under our charge, especially young girls of 12 to 14 years, are cared for, educated and sheltered until they arrive at the age of discretion.

On Sunday morning Mrs. Follett delivered an address to the Methodist congregation at the Court House; on Monday evening she addressed the Civic League at the Washington Hotel; this afternoon (Tuesday) at 4 o'clock she will address the women of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in the Guild room; and to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon, at 4 o'clock, she will address the Guild at the Episcopal rectory.

Birthday Surprise Party

A most delightful surprise party was given to Miss Sophie Groscup, on Saturday, October 2nd, at her home in Mt. Vernon, the occasion being in honor of her birthday. The guests arrived at a late hour, making the surprise a more complete as well as a more enjoyable one to all present.

Among those present were: Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Earle McIntyre, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pusey, Mrs. Helen White, Mrs. Addie E. Bond, Mrs. Susie Groscup, Misses Annette Price, Elsie Price, May Cannon and Florence Renshaw; Messrs. Clifford Price, W. B. Renshaw and Frank Barbon. Miss Groscup was the recipient of many pretty gifts, for which she expressed her surprise and appreciation. Refreshments were served at a late hour, after which the guests wended their way home reporting a very enjoyable evening.

Examination For Postmaster

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that on Saturday, October 23rd, 1915, an examination will be held at Princess Anne, as a result of which it is expected to make certification to fill a contemplated vacancy in the position of fourth-class postmaster at Deal's Island, Maryland, and other vacancies as they may occur at that office, unless it shall be decided in the interest of the service to fill the vacancy by reinstatement. The compensation of the postmaster at this office was $441 or the last fiscal year.

Application forms and full information concerning the requirements of the examination can be secured from Katie Bradshaw, acting postmaster at Deal's Island or from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington, D. C.

Parent-Teachers' Association

On last Friday the Parent-Teachers' association of the Washington High school held its first meeting of the year. The business of the meeting was the election of officers and the following were elected for the coming year:

President, T. D. Nicholls; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Hattie Scott, Mrs. C. W. Fitzgerald and Mr. Howard T. Ruhl; Secretary and Treasurer, John R. Gentry.

The report of the treasurer showed a balance on hand of $18.24. The meeting then adjourned until the first Friday in November at 8.00 o'clock p. m.

Miss Ellen D. McMaster, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis at Dr. Kelley's Hospital, in Baltimore, is reported to be improving rapidly. She expects to return home in about two weeks.

PRIMARY CAMPAIGN EXPENSES

Lee Spent $31,993.13 And Harrington $37,615

The report of Edgar N. Ash, treasurer of the Lee Campaign Committee, of Baltimore, filed in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court, shows receipts and disbursements of $18,764.15. Reports were filed by Clarence K. Bowie, political agent for Senator Lee, which, with the Ash report, showed the total expenditures of the Lee campaigners to have been $31,993.13. Most of this money was spent in the counties for legitimate expenses.

Statements filed by Hazelton A. Joyce, treasurer for Emerson C. Harrington in the latter's campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Maryland, and Charles T. Crane, treasurer of the Harrington-Ritchie-McMullen campaign committee for Baltimore city, shows that the two treasurers expended a total of $37,615.21 for expenses in connection with the recent primaries. The subscriptions to Mr. Harrington's personal campaign amounted to $17,364.85, the treasurer, Mr. Joyce, having a balance of $508.09 on hand after the primaries. The principal contributions to this fund came from Mr. Harrington himself, who gave $1,500; his brother, B. E. Harrington, $3,350; Senator John Walter Smith, $3,000; F. E. Waters, $1,750; J. H. Wheelwright, $1,250; Charles T. Crane, treasurer, $1,200, and D. F. McMullen, Sr., $1,000.

State Sunday School Convention

The Maryland State Sunday-school convention will meet in First Methodist Episcopal Church, Baltimore, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 19, 20 and 21. Prominent Sunday-school leaders will be present and assist State and city workers. The program has been so arranged that practically every phase of work will be discussed. All departments will be taken care of in conference periods where problems may be presented and helpful advice received.

The Baltimore City Association will hold a business session Tuesday afternoon, October 19, before the convention, and interested workers from local schools are urged to attend. At this meeting definite plans for fall and winter work will be presented.

Tuesday evening will be devoted to adult work, and all Bible classes are requested to attend in a body, bringing with them their flags and banners—making it a real mass-meeting. There will be addresses by Dr. Franklin McElfresh, of Chicago; W. G. Landess, of Pennsylvania, and William E. Hearn, of Cambridge. Departmental conferences will be held Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

There will be no session of the convention Wednesday evening, but all pastors are requested to set aside this date as "Sunday-school Night," presenting some phases of the work or having the local delegates report the sessions of the convention attended up to that period.

Exhibits of Sunday-school literature and work accomplished by local schools will be a feature of the convention.

The closing session will be held Thursday evening, with addresses by Mrs. Mary Foster Bryner, elementary superintendent of the International Sunday-school Association, and Dr. Franklin McElfresh, of Chicago.

President Wilson Will Wed Again

President Wilson's engagement to the beautiful Mrs. Norman Galt, of Washington, was announced at the White House last Wednesday night in this statement:

"The announcement was made to-day of the engagement of Mrs. Norman Galt, of this city, and President Woodrow Wilson."

The announcement that the President is to re-marry was a sensational surprise in all Washington circles. The engagement had been kept a strict secret within the White House family circle, and few, even of the President's most trusted advisers, believed that the marriage would take place for many months.

It is understood that the President has been affianced to Mrs. Galt for only a short time, possibly a week or ten days. The wedding will take place probably in December.

Mrs. Galt, who will be the next first lady of the land, is the widow of a business man of Washington, Norman Galt, a partner in a prominent jewelry firm, who died eight years ago. She has resided there since her marriage. Mrs. Galt was Miss Edith Bolling and was born in Wytheville, Virginia. Her father was the Hon. William H. Bolling, a well-known lawyer of that section of Virginia. Mrs. Galt is about 40 years old, and is related to many of the best families of the Old Dominion.

GET YOUR CHAUTAUQUA TICKETS

Guarantors Are Urged To Secure Their Season Tickets At Once

The sale of the allotment of season tickets to the Chautauqua Lyceum Festival which will be held at the Auditorium on the afternoon and evening of October 23rd, and continuing Monday and Tuesday, October 25th and 26th, is progressing slowly. Many persons fully appreciating the desirability of the Chautauqua feature in Princess Anne and having every intention of taking advantage of the high class entertainment furnished at a very reduced cost, should not be backward in buying their tickets at once. Some are under the impression that if they attend any of the performances they are helping the thing along, while others are waiting till the last moment before deciding whether or not they can save a cent or so by buying or not buying a season ticket. Do not let a few cents one way or the other bother you. If you can attend two or three performances only, get a season ticket anyhow and get it now.

All persons who pledged for Chautauqua tickets are requested to release their pledges not later than October 16th. After that date Mr. George Colborn, Jr., chairman of the ticket committee (at Omar A. Jones' store), will offer the tickets for sale to first comers. The price of tickets is $1.25 for three days' entertainment. On our second page this week we found some interesting reading about the Chautauqua.

Presbytery Of New Castle

The ninth session of the New Castle Presbytery met on Monday and Tuesday of last week at the Greenhill Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, Delaware. At the opening of the session, William Clews and Mr. Massey, of Conneville, Md., were elected as clerks.

The following committees were appointed: Bills and overtures, Rev. Charles Candee, Rev. Julius Herold, and Rev. J. Reynolds; leave of absence, R. L. Johnson, and Rev. J. L. Bunstein, Elder James M. Smyth; committee on minutes, the commissioners to the last General Assembly; finance and assessment, Elder L. W. Gunby, Rev. J. M. Eckerd and Elder Massey.

The report of the committee on education was read by Rev. William J. Rowan, D. D., of Newark. It was pointed out by Dr. Rowan that the board makes use of three methods to secure a sufficiency of trained men for the ministry—scholarship and through loans to worthy students, evangelistic and vocational meetings in colleges and the introduction of vocational day in all the churches and Sunday-schools. The committee presented the following recommendations for consideration:

1. That all the churches and Sunday-schools in our Presbytery be urged to observe vocation day.

2. That every minister and elder of the Presbytery will consider themselves obligated to direct talented, consecrated young men in their churches to think seriously of entering the gospel ministry.

3. That every church in the Presbytery make a special effort to increase its offering to the Board of Education. The members of the education committee are William J. Rowan, chairman; H. L. Bunstein and John C. Lane.

The sermon at night was preached by the vice moderator, Elder L. W. Gunby, of Salisbury, Md.

The discussion relative to the adoption of the Presbyterian Union of Wilmington by the New Castle County Presbytery continued the greater part of the afternoon of the second day and finally resulted in the endorsement of the memorandum concerning the Presbyterian Union which has been set forth in a preamble and eight articles.

The Rev. L. P. Bowen's request for dismissal from the Presbyterian Church, of Norfolk, was accepted. Dr. Bowen is 82 years of age.

There was no invitation for the next stated meeting. Announcement was made of the coming session of synod to be held in Washington, D. C., October 26 to 28. A rising vote of thanks was extended to the pastor and congregation of Greenhill Church for their hospitality. Rev. W. F. Freund and Mr. W. O. Lankford, of Princess Anne, were present as representatives from Manokin Presbyterian Church.

Speaker Champ Clark, who was defeated by Woodrow Wilson for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1912, predicts that Wilson, whom he terms the "pilot of the ship of State," will be renominated and re-elected. Thus the real man forgets his personal wrongs and stands up behind the President, while the Hon. Bill Bryan runs about the country lecturing on "The Caneless War" for a price.—Dover (Del.) ## DEMOCRATIC CLUB ORGANIZED

One Hundred and Four Members Enrolled—Meets Every Monday.

A young men's Democratic Club for East and West Princess Anne districts was organized on Monday evening of last week at the Auditorium. The enrollment was 104, and many more are expected to join.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. George H. Myers, and the following officers were nominated and elected: President, Henry J. Waters; vice-president, Robert S. Jones; secretary, Stewart Fitzgerald, and treasurer, Morris H. Adams.

The following committees were appointed: Membership, Columbus C. Lankford, Zadoc W. Townsend and S. Upshur Long; speakers, Henry J. Waters, Alfred P. Dennis, George H. Myers, John W. Morris and C. C. Waller; entertainment, W. H. Dashiell, George W. Kemp, I. T. J. Brown, William J. Phillips and T. D. Nichols.

Mr. Waters, on taking the chair, thanked those present for the compliment and assured them that it would give him pleasure to do everything possible to aid in electing the Democratic ticket.

It was directed that the club as a whole should act as a committee upon registration. It was also ordered that meetings be held every Monday night until further notice.

The following members were enrolled:

DEMOCRATIC NOTIFICATION MEETING

The Speeches Of Acceptance From State Candidates

The Democratic State candidates—Comptroller Emerson C. Harrington, for Governor; Hugh A. McMullen, for Comptroller, and Albert C. Ritchie, for Attorney-General—were formally notified Monday of last week at the Rennett, Baltimore, of their nominations in the presence of about 600 enthusiastic party leaders and workers, representing every section of the State and every element of the party.

The respective candidates were notified by John Hubner, of Baltimore county, former President of the State Senate and chairman of the recent Democratic State Convention; Thomas W. Simmons, of Dorchester county, and State Senator William J. Ogden. Replying, the candidates made unusually vigorous speeches, that of Mr. Harrington being a square and definite personal pledge to redeem the promises of the party platform plus strong amplification of certain of them.

A number of the best-known Democrats in the State sat near the candidates and speakers on the stage or were in the audience, among them being Frank A. Furst, who received an ovation from the crowd when he entered the room; Senator John Walter Smith, Congressman Talbott, Linthicum and Coady and former Governor Frank Brown. Neither Mayor Preston nor Senator Lee was present, but the Mayor was represented by his secretary, Robert E. Lee, and Senator Lee by United States Subtreasurer Robert G. Hilton and other close friends.

Gen. Murray Vandiver, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, presided over the ceremonies and afterward entertained those present at one of the luncheons which have contributed to his fame and popularity. Following the notification General Vandiver called a meeting of the recently elected State Central Committee, at which he was named treasurer for two years, and the names of the officers of the county committees were announced.

The officers appointed for Somerset county are William E. Daugherty, chairman, and George W. Brown, treasurer.

The following extracts are from the speeches of the State candidates. From Mr. Harrington's speech:

The road laws of this state belong absolutely to the Democratic party and are a strong tribute to the force and far-sightedness of the late Governor Crothers. Every dollar that was expended on the good roads of this State under Democratic administration was honestly spent and there never has been any question of our integrity and fidelity to duty in the building of these public roads.

By denying to Governor Goldsborough a renomination it would indicate that the Republican party of Maryland was not in sympathy with the Governor's administration.

The statewide direct primary is now on trial. The cry has been heard: "Give the people the right to nominate their own candidates, and they will abide the result." They now have the right, and we feel confident the result will justify the law.

The Democratic party has adopted its platform. In my opinion there has never been a clearer, plainer and more specific declaration of party principles enunciated in any platform in the whole history of the politics of our State.

While it is true that the last legislature of Maryland appropriated very much more money than the condition of the state's treasury justified, all these expenses and appropriations, except the expenses of the legislature itself, could not have become effective without the sanction of a Republican governor, and all of them received the executive's approval.

I am in favor of doing away with the envelope system in the primaries in the counties, and regardless of what practices may have been in the past, I believe it is to the best interest of our party and our state that there should be a uniform ballot system in both primary and election.

The powers of the comptroller should be enlarged and he should have greater authority to disapprove demands on the treasury.

I think the time has now come when our State should do more for the agricultural industry of the State than it has heretofore done, and perhaps the farmers themselves have been somewhat to blame for this, for only recently have they seen the importance of a complete organization of their interests.

The system of good roads in Maryland surpasses that of any State in the Union. This project owes its conception and foundation to a Democratic governor, and the Democratic party of Maryland is entitled practically to the full credit.

The Democratic party is pledged to such legislation as will give to Baltimore city complete control of her harbor—such control that will best promote the commercial and industrial welfare of the city. I place no narrow construction upon this paragraph.

I know of nothing that I can add to this plank (annexation) except to state that I shall stand upon it both in the letter and the spirit; that I have made no promises or agreements or assurances of any kind in reference thereto.

Serving a Summons

By RYLAND BELL

Ned and Frank Whittlesey, brothers, inherited an estate jointly. Ned, a young army officer, was a spendthrift and soon got the estate tangled up.

After a consultation with their attorney a plan was proposed by which Ned should assume certain liabilities which would force the creditors to get service on him in order to commence a suit. As soon as the papers were executed Ned went into hiding in order that such service could not be obtained, the object being to delay judgment and execution while efforts were being made to turn certain portions of the estate into money with which to save the rest.

It was not long before the creditors' attorneys got on to the game, and a number of detectives were employed to hunt up the young officer. He had hunted Indians so long and had learned from them so many stratagems that he was far better equipped for the work in hand than one would suppose. The trouble was that it was impossible for him to keep himself shut up. For one who had roamed on the western plains to remain within four walls was out of the question. However, since the saving of a fortune depended on taking great care to keep away from the bailiffs, he consented to abide in a house in the country secured for the purpose.

For a few days the young cavalryman busied himself in a library there was at hand; but, tiring of this, he asked for a horse that he might occasionally ride in the open. The attorneys sent him the swiftest animal they could find. Just before the first ride he took he sent a man out to scan the surroundings for process servers. None appearing, Ned mounted his horse and started. A man suddenly appeared in the road before him, throwing up his arms to stop the horse. But Ned gave the animal the spurs and had the man not jumped aside would have run him down. As it was, he escaped before the man could read a word of the summons. But Ned did not think it prudent to return till after midnight.

A few days later while Ned was sitting at a desk before a window on the ground floor writing a letter a head bobbed up on the other side of the window, and a man began to read a summons. Ned kept a small revolver in his pocket for emergency use and, drawing it, began to put a shower of bullets in a circle about the fellow's head. The process server ducked and beat a retreat.

It occurred to Lieutenant Whittlesey that he had laid himself liable to arrest and had better change his location. He sent his orderly, whom he had with him, to his brother with a suggestion that he provide another hiding place for him and, leaving his present quarters, bivouacked that night in a wood. The next day his orderly returned to him with instructions as to a new abode, which was easily obtained, for the Whittlesey estate consisted of a number of houses, several of which were vacant. The one now provided for him was furnished. He was comfortable there, and all might have gone well could he have been satisfied to remain for a short time a prisoner. But he insisted on riding out every day, and the bailiffs got on to him.

One morning Whittlesey was standing by a window shaving when he heard a series of shrieks in the yard beneath him. Throwing up the window and looking out, he saw a young woman struggling with several men. The window was not over ten feet from the ground, and Whittlesey, in shirt and trousers, one half his face lathered, the other clean shaved, jumped down among the trio. He knocked one man down. The other pulled a summons from his coat pocket, but before he could begin to read it Whittlesey dropped him. The woman broke into a laugh, and Ned beat a hasty retreat.

The lawyers sent him word that if he could avoid the bailiffs three days longer they would have carried through a sale which would relieve the situation. Ned solemnly resolved that he would keep within doors and risk nothing.

On the third day he was sitting in a room on the second floor—he would not go any lower for fear of being surprised—when he heard something drop. Without an open window stood a tree, a limb of which grew to within a few feet of the opening. Turning his head, Ned saw that a woman had sprung from this limb into the room. Ned sat for a moment, so astonished that the intruder got ahead of him. Like a flash she passed to the door, locked it and threw the key out through the window.

Ned saw that the game was up. The girl—for such she was, and comely, too—began to read a summons to him and, being too gallant toward her sex to stop her by violent means, he was compelled to listen.

However, he called for assistance and had the girl shut up in a room by herself till the next day, when his brother appeared and announced that the sale had been completed and the property was saved.

When Whittlesey returned to his command he narrated his experience to his brother officers, ending with these words:

"Talk about Indian stratagems! If I ever command the army I'll supply every regiment out here with one or more process servers."

Our Town Is to Be Treated to Music And Mirth by the Soiree Singers

LUCILE PRICE

HARRY LONGSTREET

RALPH THOMAS

FREDA LA VIÑESS

THIS year the Chautauqua management chose the Soiree Singers to open the week's program. The selection was made because of the long continued success of this group of entertainers. The Lyceum Festival towns are to be congratulated this year on having such a splendid company to open the "Three Joyous Days" of inspiration, instruction and entertainment. This is a mixed quartet, and it is doubtful if a better could be found anywhere. Their program is remarkable for its versatility, including comedy sketches in costumes, character songs, readings and impersonations. They will treat the audience to solos, duets and quartets. One of the novelties of this company's entertainment that has won universal commendation is Harry Longstreet's impersonation of Harry Lauder, the famous Scotch comedian and singer. He would make the appearance of this company notable even were there not three co-stars accompanying him. He impersonates the Scotch comedian and singer with striking accuracy and brings to the character all of the quick humor of which he is so abundantly possessed. Of the three remaining members of the Soiree Singers it may be said that Mrs. La Viness is a most capable and charming soprano. Mr. Thomas is very pleasing as a tenor in fact, every member will add to the delightfulness of the program at their every appearance. They will give two entertainments, one in the afternoon, the other in the evening. Having heard the first, the last will not be missed.

The Regimental Quartet For All Lovers of Male Quartet Music

THE third day's program will continue the entertainment with features that are even more attractive, if possible, than those of the preceding days. The musical entertainment of the day will be presented both afternoon and evening by the Regimental Quartet. This male quartet is one that presents original programs in a most delightful manner. The picture shows them in their great feature, the soldier sketch, from which the quartet takes its name. In this sketch they give a number of bugle calls and sing some of the old war songs that cheered the hearts of the blue and gray in days gone by.

But their vocal work is only a part of the program they present. They are proficient as a brass quartet and soloists, as they are as singers. It is a fact that a male quartet is one of the most popular musical organizations that managers can present to the public, and the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association has chosen the Regimental Quartet because they are artists capable of maintaining the high standard it insists upon and because their program is unique in many ways in addition to being high class.

IMPRISONMENT FOR DEBT.

This Old Time Punishment Was Costly to the Community.

Imprisonment for debt was abolished by congress in the United States in 1833, though this measure was not fully enforced until 1839.

In nearly every country until comparatively recent times debtors have been subject to imprisonment. After the panic of 1825 101,000 writs for debt were issued in England. In 1830 7,000 persons were sent to London prisons for debt, and on Jan. 1, 1840, 1,700 persons were held for debt in England and Wales, 1,000 in Ireland and less than 100 in Scotland. From time to time modifications in the laws governing the imprisonment of debtors have been made, so that fewer debtors are imprisoned for this crime each year.

In 1829 there were 3,000 debtors in prison in Massachusetts, 10,000 in New York, 7,000 in Pennsylvania, 3,000 in Maryland and a like proportion in other states. Many of these persons were jailed for debts of $1.

The law providing for the imprisonment of men who could not pay their debts was shown to be impracticable by statistics taken from Philadelphia, where in 1823 there were 1,085 debtors imprisoned for debts amounting to $25,000. The expenses of keeping these persons in confinement was $302,000, which was paid by the city, and the amount recovered by this method was $295.—Philadelphia Press.

The Battle of Chalons.

There have been so many bloody battles it is perhaps impossible to say with absolute certainty which of them all was the bloodiest, but the balance of the evidence seems to be in favor of the battle of Chalons. France fought A. D. 451 between the Huns, under Attila, and the Romans, Goths and Franks, under the command of Aetius, the most renowned captain of his day. At the head of his 500,000 men Aetius was having everything his own way, and it looked as if Aryan civilization was destined to fall before the Tartar despotism, when suddenly, like a bolt out of the blue, Aetius fell upon the barbaric hordes and Europe was saved. It is estimated that 400,000 of the barbarians were left dead on the field.

Too Tired.

Frank lives in Eastern avenue. A few days ago his companion George caught his clothing on a picket fence. He was held fast, his feet a foot or two from the ground. He pleaded with Frank to release him or run for help, but Frank refused.

"Why don't you go and help George?" his mother inquired from the front porch.

"I'm just too tired," said Frank. "Yesterday I wanted him to 'shoo' my dog out of his yard and he wouldn't do it 'cause he said he was tired. I'm just as tired as he was."—Indianapolis News.

DIDN'T QUITE DODGE.

When the Elder Booth Tried to Escape
a Man Who Bored Him.

Thomas R. Gould admired the elder Booth almost to adoration. The most minute and instructive account that exists of Booth's acting was written by him—a book called "The Tragedian"— and Gould's marble bust of Booth, a noble work of art (made before the comedian Flynn broke Booth's nose with a pewter pot), is the best likeness of that great actor. But Gould's assiduous personal attentions to Booth became wearisome to that eccentric man and vexed him. Peculiar discretion is sometimes requisite to those who would praise and please eminent persons.
Booth, when acting in Boston, customarily lodged at an old hotel called the Albion, situated in Tremont street, at the northwest corner of Court street.
"One day," said Edwin, "my father dashed into the bedroom where I was sitting and, almost breathless with haste, exclaimed: 'Gould! Coming up!
Say I'm out.' and literally dived underneath the bed. I received Mr. Gould, who seemed surprised not to find my father (I think he had seen him rushing upstairs), and he talked with me for several minutes. Then there was a moment of silence, and my father, becoming impatient, thrust his head out from under the bed, inquiring as he did so:

"Is that infernal bore gone yet?
Imagine the effect!"—Collier's Weekly.

It was in the reign of Henry VIII.

WHISTLER AT WEST POINT.

He Loved Truth and Took Punishment
Rather Than Lie.

At West Point was old Joe, the negro cadet hair cutter. He was never known to smile or to deviate from "regulations." Once a month cadets were obliged to have their hair cut by him. This was a great worry to Whistler, who disliked to part with his pretly locks, so he would try by cajolery and flattery to have Joe let up a little on the length of his hair. But in this he was never successful. Joe would stop his shears in the midst of a remonstrance and say, "Mr. Whistler, do you want me to cut your hair according to regulations or not?" Of course this put an end to the argument, and Whistler would come back to our rooms, look in the glass and swear about Joe.

He loved frankness, truth and honor.
Cards were forbidden in cadet bar-acks, but we had a pack, and one night long after "taps" (10 o'clock) we had been playing, and the cards lay carelessly aside, when we were surprised by the entrance of the inspecting officer, who spied the cards. We knew that the offense was a serious one against discipline and considered whether we could properly ask that the report should read "Cards in possession," a lesser offense. Instead of "Playing cards," as we were not playing when the inspector saw us. Whistler said, "No, we had been playing," so we faced the music and as punishment lost our cadet furloughs for a summer.—H. M. Lazelle in Century.

Questioning Grandma.

"Grandma," inquired her little grandson the day of her arrival, "did you sleep on your face last night?"

"Of course not, dear! Why do you ask that?"

"Cause it's all wrinkled."—Exchange.

Lost Both Ways.

"Did you get in without your wife hearing you last night?"

"No, and I didn't get in without hearing her, either."—Houston Post.

4,900 MILES BY WIRELESS TELEPHONE

Speech Flashed From Virginia to Honolulu, on the Pacific Ocean.

American Telephone and Telegraph
Co. Engineers, Working With Representatives Of United States Navy Accomplish Wonderful Feat.

Following close on the heels of the news of a 2,500-mile talk by wireless telephone, on September 29, came an announcement a few hours later which has set the public to thinking and the scientific world to rejoicing. The announcement contained the news that the human voice had been flashed by wireless telephone from Washington, D. C., to Honolulu, in the Pacific Ocean, 4,900 miles away.

The human voice was transmitted by wireless telephone, on September 29 from Arlington, Va., to the Mare Island Navy Yard, near San Francisco, California, a distance of about 2,500 miles, creating a new world's record in wireless telephony.

This remarkable feat was brought about by the engineers of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company working in conjunction with the officials of the United States Navy.
The first message was sent by Theodore N. Vail, President of the Company, by wire to Arlington and from Arlington to Mare Island by wireless.
This makes the demonstration still more wonderful. The message jumped from wire to wireless without a break.

Seated in his office at 15 Dey street,
New York, Mr. Vail lifted the receiver of his telephone and spoke in an even tone of voice to John J. Carty, Chief Engineer of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, who was at Mare Island.

"Hello, Carty. This is Mr. Vail."
Almost instantly came back Mr.
Carty's voice over the line.

"This is fine. This is wonderful."
Owing to the fact that the equipment at Mare Island at present consists of a receiving station only, Mr.
Carty's reply came across the continent by way of the trans-continental telephone line.

Listeners at the naval stations at San Diego, California, and Panama also caught Mr. Vail's words and their corroboration of the success of the experiment was wired later. Following Mr. Vail came Union N. Bethell, senior vice-president of the Company,
John I. Waterbury, one of the directors, Bancroft Gherardi, engineer of plant, and each of them talked across the 2,500 miles of space—unbridged, save by the wireless flashes—and each of them was plainly heard on the other side of the continent. Ex-Senator Murray Crane was present at the time of the trial.

For several months the engineers of
The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, The Western Electric Company and the United States Navy have been quietly working on this new and startling wire-and-wireless idea and they were out in force to see it given a public try-out.

On the evening of the same day, Mr.
Carty, to whom most of the credit belongs, in the offices of the telephone company at San Francisco granted a trans-continental telephone interview to several newspaper men in New York.

"It is hard to say precisely," said Mr. Carty over the long line, "what will be the commercial value of the development. The wireless telephone will never be relied upon to do the work of the wire. It will be chiefly useful in extending telephone communication to out-of-the-way places—deserts, great heights and on the sea."

Mr. Carty was asked over the wire by one of the reporters in New York if it would be possible to talk over a wire, then a gap of wireless, and then a wire at the other end.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "I might as well have sat here in the San Francisco offices today and received the message by wire from Mare Island.
You will, for instance, be able to call London from your New York office and be connected with your London correspondent, who will sit in his office at his regular wire there."

The same evening, Mr. Vail sent the following telegram to Secretary of the Navy Daniels:

"Personally, and as President of
The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, I wish to express to you my thanks for the courtesy of the Navy Department in extending to us the privilege of connecting special wireless telephone apparatus to the Navy Department wireless telegraph towers. By means of this special apparatus we have today successfully carried on wireless telephone communication from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast."

Secretary Daniels gave out a statement in which he stated that he was pleased to announce the successful outcome of the experiments and that the feat was successfully accomplished in the presence of officials and engineers of the telephone company and the electric company, a representative of the Signal Corps of the Army, and representatives of the Navy. He further stated that every official taking part was enthusiastic about the results.

The wireless call to Honolulu on the night of September 29 was made by John Mills, an electrical engineer, from the United States radio tower at Arlington, Va.

Far away, out in the Pacific Ocean,
at Pearl Island, near Honolulu, Hawaii, 4,900 miles in a straight line, was Lloyd Espenschied, an engineer of
The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, waiting with receivers at his ears for the message.

A cablegram from Honolulu arrived at the company's offices in New York the next day announcing that Espenschied had heard Mills counting: "One, two, three, four!" and then from one to seven, and from one to nine. These were the exact figures Mills had spoken.

When Mr. Vail and other officials of the Company received the glad tidings they pointed out that in the near future wireless telephone conversation will be carried on between cities, but owing to the unsettled conditions on the other side on account of the war, experiments will not be tried at present in Europe.

Farm and Garden

VALUE OF THE SILO.

Adds to Worth of Farm More Than Its Cost to Build.

More and more farmers of the central west are thinking in terms of interest on investment, says the Iowa Homestead. Where there is a shortage of horsepower it is an easy matter to determine the value of a good team, compute the interest on the money required to buy the team and then in turn figure the earning capacity of this extra pair of horses. The same principle applies in the building of a corncrib or a granary. As a rule, small grain hits rock bottom prices just about the time thrashing begins, and the man who has to haul grain directly to the elevator invariably holds the

BUILDING A SILO.

short end of the horn. One can build a combination corncrib and granary that will hold 2,000 bushels of corn and as much small grain for $300. This investment, reckoned at 6 per cent, amounts to $18 a year, and yet every man knows that this amount may often be made up on three or four loads of grain.

Just as good an illustration of the principle is obtained when reference is made to the silo. Money invested in a silo that is well constructed is just as valuable an asset to the farm as a good corncrib. It will pay much bigger dividends, all things considered. On a pinch one can pile ear corn upon the ground and yet market it later on in fairly good condition. This is not the case with the material that is ordinarily put into the silo. Cornstalks worth $1 an acre in the field, when put in the silo, grain and all, are worth anywhere from $4 to $7 per ton for feeding to the right kind of live stock. By saving practically the full feeding value of the crop it is often possible to more than pay for the silo in one year, whereas it is well known that even a wood silo will last fifteen or even twenty years if it is given good care.
The hollow brick silo, if well built, is permanent, so that in figuring its cost in terms of interest on investment one would be safe in spreading it over a period of fifty years.

Those who have silos are to be congratulated this year. There will be some late corn, and this will be largely wasted when it is not converted into ensilage. Corn that reaches the glazed condition will make good food if put in the silo, and yet every man knows that to husk out such a crop means, in most cases, the piling up of a lot of useless feed. It will mold if put in the crib, and the good ears invariably are rendered worthless by contamination with the soft ears. Corn of the same degree of maturity, put in the silo, will feed out well and can be used to great advantage for dairy cows, stock cattle or fattening steers.

One thing is certain—namely, that a $300 silo built on a farm will always add to the value of the farm more than the cost of the silo. Its erection will invariably start the farmer on a better program of stock feeding, resulting in building up the land, and in this way its effect on production will virtually mean that it will pay for the original cost every year.

The White Grub Pest.

Farmers who have suffered losses from attacks of white grubs in their fields this year should plan their crops for next year so as to avoid a repetition of the loss. Although the actual numbers of white grubs in the fields next year will probably be less than this year, those remaining will be larger and more voracious and do a great amount of injury, says William Moore of the Minnesota experiment station.

All fields infested with white grubs should be fall plowed as early as possible, not later than Oct. 1. Badly infested fields should be planted with grain or some crop not in hills, as such crops are least affected by white grubs.
Only fields slightly, or not at all, infested should be planted with corn, potatoes, strawberries, or other plants grown in hills. Fields which have been in sod in 1914 and 1915 should be considered as infested fields and, if to be used next year for susceptible crops, should be plowed this fall.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER

The question has been asked as to how the independent voters of Maryland will vote at the coming election. The Baltimore News seems to think that Mr. Weller's record, as compared with that of Mr. Harrington, will cause them to stop and think. Mr. Weller is the Republican nominee. Mr. Weller has had no official experience except upon the State Roads Commission. How he would do as the Governor of Maryland is quite another proposition. That he would be superior in any sense to Mr. Harrington is still another proposition. The latter has been comptroller of the State for four years. He is a Democrat of most excellent business ability and his knowledge of State conditions would be of great value to him.

The independent voters, in our opinion, would make a great blunder in attempting to sacrifice a Democratic nominee for a Republican. Mr. Harrington has been approved by the Democrats of Maryland and has won. It was unfortunate that the recent primary election evinced so much venom between the supporters of two Democrats. The question was only as to whether Mr. Lee or Mr. Harrington should win. The Republicans also had their own bitter campaign in which Mr. Weller won. Mr. Weller is as much a machine man as is Mr. Harrington. If opposition on the part of independents is to a machine man, then the independents should have affiliated and taken part for either Mr. Lee or Mr. Wharburton, both of whom were fighting the respective organizations.

As to the matter of a responsible business Executive, we believe that Mr. Harrington, with his state-wide experience will make a better Governor than Mr. Weller, whose experience is much more limited. In any event, we can not see what advantage would come to the State by having another Republican Governor—a thing which can not happen if democratically-inclined independents vote for Democratic principles as adopted by a Democratic convention and heartily approved by a Democratic candidate.

For ourselves, although having started with Senator Lee and lost, we are prepared to continue our Democratic proclivities. We believe that Mr. Harington will win, and we are going to do our best to help him win. Maryland is a Democratic State and we prefer it to remain so. Our independent friends are invited to join us in our fight for a most capable Democratic administration.

How Is Mr. Weller Going To Do It?

Mr. Weller, the Republican candidate for Governor, in his speech of acceptance yesterday declared that the promises made by the Democrats in their platform were for campaign purposes only. He also says this:

"I wish to be at Annapolis solely to endeavor to do something for the State and for my party. If I should be unable to accomplish something in a big constructive way, then to me my administration would be a failure."

Now, in view of the fact that the Republicans have controlled both two Legislatures in Maryland since the Civil War—1896 and 1898—and inasmuch as it has already been publicly conceded by Republican organs supporting Mr. Weller and privately by Republican leaders, that the coming Legislature is practically certain to be Democratic, it is hard to see just how Mr. Weller, if elected Governor, could accomplish these constructive things of which he speaks. These things can only be brought about through legislation. The Governor of the State has no legislative powers or functions of any sort. They are lodged entirely with the Legislature. With the Legislature in the hands of the Democrats—and the chances are overwhelming that it will be—how is the legislation necessary to make his administration constructive, to keep it from being a failure and to redeem the promises made to the public, to be obtained? Does Mr. Weller think he could so arouse public sentiment as to compel the Democrats to abandon their own program and adopt his? According to his speech, he does not even believe the Democrats are sincere or in earnest in their own platform pledges.

If the Democrats in the next Legislature are not honest and sincere in the redemption of their pledges, how is Mr. Weller, if elected Governor, going to accomplish anything for the State? He cannot do it alone. The Republican minority in the Legislature cannot do it for him. It was the Democratic majorities in the Legislatures of 1912 and 1914 that were responsible for the redemption of the pledges and the good legislation enacted in the last four years, and not the Republican Governor who sat in the executive chair and made the appointments. Mr. Weller's intentions are good and we think he means what he says. The trouble is that if elected he will not be able to make good, and the State would have to look to the Democratic majorities in the House and Senate, and not to Mr. Weller, for the legislation essential to the progress of the State. Mr. Weller, of course, is not in a position to admit publicly that his party has no chance of controlling the Legislature. That is too much to expect of him, but the fact remains that little short of a landslide will alter the complexion of the General Assembly, and every Republican leader in Maryland knows it. The Democrats now have, for instance, eight hold-over State Senators, and it will be necessary for them to elect but six of the 14 Senatorial candidates in the field in order to have control of the Senate. Their chances of controlling the House of Delegates are equally good. There are no indications of a landslide in this fight, and under the circumstances it does seem illogical to expect much in the way of accomplishment from a Governor of one party who has to deal with a Legislature controlled by the other, which he has condemned as insincere and not to be trusted to enact the legislation needed.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Fate Of A Famous Ship

The old steam auxiliary frigate Franklin, receiving ship at Norfolk Navy Yard, probably will be sold at auction soon as she is no longer fit for use by the navy. The ship has been a source of expense for repairs for years, and it is understood her sale as junk has been recommended to Secretary Daniels.

The Franklin was completed soon after the close of the Civil War, and was one of the finest unprotected craft of her day. Ironclads had displaced wooden ships as a result of the battle between the Monitor and the Merrimack, however, and the Franklin made only one foreign voyage. She was a sailing vessel fitted with auxiliary engines of small power, for use in ill winds or over soundings. Her two-bladed propeller could be hoisted out of water, giving the ship free action under canvas.

The President To Wed

There has never been an administration at Washington in which Cupid has been more busy in the White House than he has been there since the advent of Woodrow Wilson. One of the President's daughters became the bride of his Secretary of the Treasury; another wedded a private citizen, and now comes the interesting and pleasurable announcement that the President himself is soon to become a bridegroom.

Two Presidents of the United States have been married while they were in office—John Tyler, as a widower, like the present Chief Magistrate, and Grover Cleveland, who was a bachelor. In each case there was a notable surprise to the country, although in neither instance was the preliminary announcement so well kept as a secret as in Mr. Wilson's engagement. The President's countrymen will wish him an abundance of felicity, and they will do so all the more heartily because in his personal or domestic affairs he has invariably been free of ostentation and has drawn the line wisely and properly as a republican ruler between his private and his official life.

Off Year For Elections

This is decidedly an off year for elections. Maryland, Massachusetts, Kentucky, Mississippi, Michigan and the State of Washington elect governors in November. Several other state elections are scheduled to pass upon constitutional amendments, to elect judges or other officials or to settle questions of purely local concern.

Minneapolis passed upon the prohibition question and "went wet" with a sweep that left only four wards to the drys. All over Connecticut "small town" elections were held with a general average gain in the Republican vote.

It will not be possible to obtain any pointers of value regarding the trend of popular sentiment in national politics until the November elections. Massachusetts, Michigan and the State of Washington all now have Democratic governors. A large amount of interest attaches to the elections in the states just mentioned as also to the gubernatorial elections in Maryland and Kentucky. Kentucky, like Maryland, is regarded as being normally Democratic; but the Blue Grass State, like this Chesapeake State, is liable to turn the government over to the Republican party.

State-wide elections will be held in November in both New Jersey and New York, and though a governor is not to be chosen in either state, great general interest attaches to both elections.

Maryland Farmer Wins Medal

The most successful grower of corn in Maryland is Leroy Nichols, of Highland, who has been awarded the medal of merit by the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, according to a letter from Charles F. Mills, secretary of the National Topsoil Farmers' Club, to Governor Goldsborough.

Mr. Nichols succeeded in raising 150 bushels of corn on one acre. The medal will be sent to Governor Goldsborough for presentation, and it is suggested that the presentation be made on some occasion which brings together a large number of farmers.

"The man who makes a new record for corn growing for your state," Mr. Mills' letter says, "is certainly worthy of special recognition, and the prominence given to the presentation of the medal will certainly have a marked effect in the encouragement of thousands of farmers to obtain like creditable yields."

President Wilson For Suffrage

President Woodrow Wilson last Wednesday declared his intention of voting for woman suffrage in New Jersey on October 19th. The President authorized the following statement:

"I intend to vote for woman suffrage in New Jersey because I believe that the time has come to extend that privilege and responsibility to the women of the States, but I shall vote, not as the leader of my party in the nation, but only upon my private conviction as a citizen of New Jersey called upon by the Legislature of the State to express his convictions at the polls.

"I think that New Jersey will be greatly benefited by the change. My position with regard to the way in which this great question should be handled is well known. I believe that it should be settled by the States and not by the national government and that in no circumstances should it be made a party question, and my view has grown stronger at every turn of the agitation."

A Pine Whooping Cough Remedy

Mothers, Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is just the remedy for your children's cold ailments. The fact is that pine is a quick enemy of cold conditions. Its qualities loosen the mucus in the throat, soothe the lungs and open up the air passages. The combination of honey, soothing and pleasant, with the loosening pine quality makes this an ideal cough remedy for children. Each passing year brings for it, new friends. A family of growing children cannot afford to be without it. 25c. a bottle.

Treasurer's Sale

FOR—

1913 TAXES

By virtue of the power and authority vested in me as County Treasurer for Somerset County by the provisions of Chapter 10 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1910, I hereby give notice that on at the hour of 1.30 o'clock p. m., at the Court House door in Princess Anne, Maryland, I will sell at public auction for CASH, all the lots or parcels of land hereinafter severally mentioned and described, to pay and satisfy the state and county taxes levied against the said delinquent described lots or parcels of land for the year 1913, or charged to and due from the said several persons to whom the same are assessed, which said taxes are now due and in arrears for said year, together with the interest and costs thereon and costs of sale.

No. 1—All that lot of land in Westover district, Somerset county, Maryland, containing 14 acres, more or less, with the improvements thereon, part of land called "Normandy," adjoining the lands of Charles Curtis, Thomas Beauchamp and Dennett Morris, conveyed to John H. Fontaine, colored, by Annie E. Landon, by deed recorded in Liber S. F. D., No. 48, folio 266, etc., and assessed to said John H. Fontaine for said year.

No. 2—All that lot of land in Westover district, said county and state, containing 2 1/2 acres, more or less, with the improvements thereon, situated on the Park Road, adjoining or near the lands of S. M. Milbourne, Mary Milbourne and Sarah Joyner and assessed to Gattie Hall for said year.

Dr. C. W. Purnell, optometrist, will be at Omar A. Jones' drug store, Monday afternoon, October 18th.

The Shoreland Club held its first meeting for the winter at the home of Mrs. H. L. Brittingham last Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Bock, who have been summering at the White Mountains, returned to Princess Anne last Friday evening.

Mrs. Ida Creamer, of Venton, lost her pocket-book containing quite a sum of money on Saturday of last week. It was found and returned to her.

The La Tena's circus found a pouring rain to greet its arrival in Princess Anne last Thursday. In spite of the rain the parade took place and was quite creditable. The attendance at the circus was also larger than weather conditions seemed to justify.

Mr. Calvin B. Taylor, of Berlin, was in Princess Anne last Tuesday looking after a sale of property. He was accompanied by Mrs. C. B. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Holloway, also of Berlin, Mr. D. J. Ward and Captain John Hagan, of Salisbury.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hayman died last Tuesday morning at the home of its grandfather, Mr. Charles H. Hayman. The funeral services took place last Wednesday afternoon, Rev. W. F. Freund officiating. Interment was in the cemetery of Manokin Presbyterian Church.

Mr. John W. Morris left last Wednesday for San Francisco, Cal., to visit his son, Mr. Charles B. Morris, at that place. Mr. Morris will also stop in Montana on his way back to see Mr. E. A. Morris, his brother, who has resided in the West for the past 30 years. Mr. Morris expects to be gone about two months.

The Somerset County Medical Association was to have met at the Washington Hotel in Princess Anne last Tuesday. The heavy rain, however, was a deterrent and a quorum was not present. Dr. Norris, of Crisfield, was the only member present from the county outside of Princess Anne, except Dr. Stephens, of the State Board of Health. The meeting will be held later, possibly in November.

Miss Amanda Lankford is visiting friends in Crisfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore A. Walker spent last Saturday and Sunday in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Lankford spent several days in Wilmington and Philadelphia last week.

Miss Elizabeth Showell, of Ocean City, Md., is visiting Miss Aline Wallop, at the Washington Hotel.

Mrs. Henry C. Hitchens, of Harrington, Del., spent the week-end at the home of Rev. and Mrs. D. J. Givan.

Not Paid

The worst mistake in painting is not putting-off. That costs about 10 percent; you keep your money a year and pay 10 percent for it.

Paint would have to come-down 25 percent to make 10 percent on the job, for wages do not go down.

The worst mistake is "cheap" paint. It costs from 50 percent to 100, first cost, and another in wear.

What a liar "cheap" is! "Put-off" is bad-enough; "cheap" is ten times worse. Adv

Wicomico's Clerkship Muddle

Mr. James T. Dennis, a former resident of Somerset county, but now of Baltimore, sends us the following communication, giving his views of the clerkship muddle in Wicomico county, caused by the death of Mr. Toadvine:

The clerkship muddle in Wicomico county can easily be decided by a little thought. Mr. Kelly's contention that he had no opponent will hardly stand. It is true he had no living visible opponent at the time, but that is a side issue. Mr. Toadvine was representing certain party interests, Mr. Kelly represented certain party interests, and the election was a contest of party interests and not of any personal ones. Now, however deplorable it may be, the brand of democracy now recognized in this country is partisan, and personal qualifications cut only a small figure in the majority of votes cast. This being so, the party principles advocated by that branch of the local Wicomico democracy which Mr. Toadvine represented were the real "opponents" of those Mr. Kelly advocated, and it was the former which seemed to have carried the day with the voters. Mr. Kelly, representing certain principles, was defeated by certain other principles whose opponent was "X," the unrepresented quality. Therefore the local committee is quite right in declaring the office vacant, ("X" having been elected and unable to serve), and they have full power to nominate anyone who is a representative of the principles for which "X" (Mr. Toadvine) stood.

Chronic Constipation

"About two years ago when I began using Chamberlain's Tablets I had been suffering for some time with stomach trouble and chronic constipation. My condition improved rapidly through the use of these tablets. Since taking four or five bottles of them my health has been fine," writes Mrs. John Newton, Irving, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere. ## LIKE A SUBMARINE

The Fur Seal In Many Ways Resembles an Undersea Boat.

ITS HABITS IN THE WATER.

Although It Can Swim Only When Submerged and Must Rise to the Surface Every Few Minutes, It Is a Marvel of Speed.

We have come to regard the soaring albatross or the condor as the prototype of the aeroplane. When we look for a natural model for the submarine we find it well made in the body of the fur seal and fully suggested by its method of progression in the sea, for it travels there only when wholly submerged.

Unlike, however, the "undersea boat," the fur seal is not fitted for swimming on the surface; it only rises there to survey, to breathe and to sleep. It never attempts to swim with head above water on any course, no matter how short. It rises when undisturbed or not alarmed, looks about with head and neck well stretched up above the surface of the sea, fills its lungs with air (literally compressed), turns its head down and with its powerful anterior flippers drives itself below the surface to the depth of five or ten feet, then ahead on that level. Thus submerged the body of the seal glides through the water as swiftly as a swallow in the air—it is a vanishing streak to our eyes.

How long it remains thus submerged when traveling no one has any definite knowledge, but the best consensus of opinion gives it a rise at intervals of every three or four minutes to breathe—that is, a pause of less than two or three seconds, with barely more than its nose and eyes above the surface, for exhalation and renewed inhalation—when down goes the trim body to speed ahead again.

When our submarines were first brought out a trip of more than 300 miles from base was the utmost limit of their cruising. Today they have been so perfected that they can cruise safely more than 3,000 miles from that base. Therefore in this connection it is interesting to know that the fur seal makes a submarine journey in the north Pacific ocean of more than 5,000 miles from its base, on the Pribilof islands, in Bering sea, and then returns.

An animal which can not only make such an extended journey, but can steer its course over an uncharted waste from point to point, month by month, with positive regularity and in perfect time, must be a fine type of swimming machine, and it is.

There is to be observed a close resemblance between the cigar shaped submarine boat and the body form of the fur seal. As we view them laterally, this resemblance is complete. They are both driven ahead by feathering screws, and they are both kept on the level of their submerged course at a given distance below the surface by rudders.

Then we observe that the periscope, to which the submarine craft owes all of its efficiency, is duplicated exactly by the seal's nose and eyes and which are all that it ever lifts above the surface when started and in flight of passage.

Again we note that the fur seal as a submarine has a great advantage over the human boat—it has eyes that can look ahead and around under water—how far we do not know, but it is reasonable to assume that the seal's eye can see as far under water as the eye of a camera can, which we have the evidence of in good records. Then, too, it also has an acute sense of hearing under sea, for we know that the whirling of a propeller's screw will drive all the seals away for miles around a steamer. We know that because some of the early pelagic sealing vessels were fitted with small auxiliary screws, and these, when put into use, had to be removed.

With reference to the powers of destruction, of course our fur seal boat has no torpedo tubes, but it can and does "shoot its mouth off" at fish with a deadly certainty.

In this connection it is interesting to note that seals do not catch fish by pursuit of them—not at all. They shoot down from above upon the backs or up from below to strike at the bellies of their finny prey.

How fast these piscine submarines can speed up under the stimulus of excitement or fear no one knows. But it is well known when a vessel is coming down before a gale of wind from the islands, logging fourteen to sixteen knots, that a bevy of fur seals will often follow the ship for hours and repeatedly swim by it, swim around it and then renew the chase and circling of it—Henry W. Elliott in New York Times.

Why He Missed Her.
"So you're little Willie Woodbury?" said the new minister after Sunday school. "I called to see your mother yesterday, but, unfortunately, she was not at home."

"Oh, yes, she was," replied the boy, "but I guess she took you for the installment man. You look somethin' like him."—Philadelphia Press.

A Possible Solution.
"How can a man be as stupid as that fellow and live?"

"Some of the men at the club have a theory that he was raised on a vacuum bottle."—Judge.

A man without patience is a lamp without oil.—De Maset.

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

UNDER AN AVALANCHE.

A Remarkable Experience and Rescue in the Italian Alps.

Human beings occasionally live through incredibly long imprisonments after their dwellings have been overwhelmed by avalanches. On March 19, 1755, avalanches buried the village of Bergamotto, in the Italian Alps, and on April 25 three women were dug out alive from a stable in which they had been immured for thirty-seven days in the dark beneath the mass of snow which lay forty-two feet higher than the roof. With them had been buried a little boy, six goats, a donkey and some hens.

The child, the donkey and the fowls soon died, but the goats helped the women to survive, their milk supplementing the thirty or forty cakes and the pocketful of chestnuts upon which they depended for food. Hope of finding the women alive had been abandoned when far in April the brother of one had a dream in which she appealed to him for rescue.

The weather then at last made excavation possible, and the women were restored to the world and presently to health.—Chicago News.

Culture.

Culture is a slow process. It comes from long and close contacts. It is the fruit of reflection, of travail of soul and of mind. Grappling with something until the very essence of it has been extracted is a first step. Thus the tastes of essences is learned, and once learned lesser distillations do not satisfy. Then follows a growing power to discriminate, to distinguish nice values, to judge of quality, to answer to beauty, to feel the need, that what you have, though it may be little, may still be the real thing. This is culture. It is not baggage, like diplomas and degrees. It is not things seen and heard, miles traveled or books read. These are the materials for culture. They contribute to it only when they are absorbed by the mind and as really lost in it as water and lime, phosphates and ammonia must be lost in the soil if they are to enrich it and enable it to increase its yield.—Ida M. Tarbell in Woman's Home Companion.

A Personal Application.

A well known business man in Lawrence, Mass., once had a customer who contracted a debt that ran unpaid for a year or more, and even several letters failed to bring about a settlement. One day, while glancing over the religious notices in a local paper, the business man saw something that gave him a new idea. He went to his desk and wrote the following note to the debtor:

My Dear Sir—I see in the local press that you are to deliver an address on Friday evening before the Y. M. C. A. on "The Sinner's Balanced Account." I enclose yours, as yet unbalanced, and trust that I may have the pleasure of attending your lecture.

A check came by the next mail.—Youth's Companion.

New Ways of Saying It.

"Strain at a gnat and swallow a camel" came from the lips of an old friend as "Gag at a straw and swallow a whole load of hay." Of a certain girl she said, "She smiles like a frog at the girls and grins like a rag carpet at the boys." I have never seen a rag carpet since but it resolves itself into rows of grinning teeth, and as for the drooping smile of the frog, it certainly speaks for itself, as it were.—Woman's Home Companion.

Dan Emmet.

"Dirge," one of the most famous American songs, was written in 1850 by Daniel Emmet, an American song writer and minstrel, who was born in Ohio in 1815. He appeared in many cities of this country and England and at one time was associated with Dan Bryant.

He Knew.

"I had a seventy mile drive yesterday," she said enthusiastically. "There ain't no such thing," retorted the golf player grimly.—Detroit Free Press.

Something Like It.

"I hear your husband is crazy about his new auto." "I should say so! He's a perfect automaton!"—Baltimore American.

Fortune cannot take away what she did not give.—Rena.

Recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

IDENTIFYING CRIMINALS.

The System Devised by Bertillon and the Way It is Worked.

Any malefactor who gets into the clutches of the law nowadays is a marked man for life if he runs up against the Bertillon system, which is a scientific method devised by M. Alphonse Bertillon for the identification of criminals. Bertillon was born in Paris in 1853. Certain measurements are taken from every convicted person, and these physical records of prisoners are kept on cards, any one of which can readily be found by an elaborate system of classification.

The measurements are taken on the left side of the subject, as they are less liable to alterations than are those on the right side. The determination of the convict's height is taken always at the same hours, because the stature may be as much as half an inch greater after a night's sleep than it is in the evening. The color of the iris of the eye and the characteristic lines made by the print of the finger are also recorded.

The following measurements are made: The length and width of head; the length of the left foot and of the middle and little fingers of the left hand; the stature of the whole body, as well as the length of its upper and lower portions; the span of the outstretched arms; the length and breadth of the left ear and the length of the left arm.

The system has been used in Paris since 1880 and is now employed by all important police departments in this country.—Exchange.

Only a Beginning.

"She can't be as progressive as you say if she's taken up embroidering handkerchiefs."

"Why not?" "Because that very seldom gets beyond the initial stage."—Baltimore American.

Chinese Thieves.

In China thieves who are caught stealing are compelled to make a tour of the neighboring villages with a board bearing an account of their offense clamped around their necks.

DON'T EXPERIMENT

You Will Make No Mistake If You Follow This Princess Anne Citizen's Advice

Never neglect your kidneys. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness, it's time to act and no time to experiment. These are frequently symptoms of kidney trouble, and a remedy which is recommended for the kidneys should be taken in time.

Doan's Kidney Pills is a good remedy to use. No need to experiment. It has been effectively in many cases in Princess Anne. Follow the advice of a Princess Anne citizen.

Mrs. Oscar Long, Princess Anne, Md., says: "It is true that Doan's Kidney Pills have been used very successfully in my home and I hold them in high esteem. I seldom let a day go by without telling someone of the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I don't know of any other medicine so certain to do good as Doan's Kidney Pills. It gives me pleasure to publicly endorse them."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Long had. Foster-Milburn Co., Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

"The Best Possible Newspaper!"

What sort of a paper is it? In the first place, it must be a Home Paper—the Woman's Friend and a part of her daily life. And it must be a necessity to the Business Man. It must not only tell what is happening in the world, but it must go farther and tell why it is happening and what it means. The Best Possible Newspaper has a staff of correspondents covering the world of the Associated Press, securing the news for vital human facts. It has fashions and art, books and music, literature and politics at its right hand. It has the markets for the farmer, the merchant, the broker.

The world has never seen an age of greater constructive significance in politics, in science, in society. Every move in the field of action is a topic for discussion in cities, villages, hamlets, at crossroads. And the Best Possible Newspaper must equip its readers for intelligent understanding of all these changes.

That is precisely why it is the simple truth that for your purpose, and for the purposes of the whole South, the BEST POSSIBLE NEWSPAPER is

The Leading Evening Paper of the South

The Baltimore Star, established August 17, 1909, by the publishers of The Baltimore American, has won its place as the representative evening paper of the South. It gives more news and more reading matter than any other afternoon paper in Maryland. It is especially rich in departments—financial, sporting, society, children, women, and to these departments the best writers of America are regular contributors. The Star is the great news paper, with something for every member of the family. It is a cheerful newspaper, with plenty of entertainment. Those who try it keep on taking it.

The Star is elaborately illustrated. It has the first photographs of important events. Its portraits of leading men and women are unequalled. The Star has two great new services, with wires direct to its offices from all parts of the world. The Star has the latest equipment—uses every modern invention and the best enterprise to get all the news.

The Star is different from other Southern papers. It has a quality of its own.

SOMERSET COUNTY HAPPENINGS

News Items Gathered By Our Correspondents During The Week

Perryhawkin

Oct. 9—Mrs. Ernest Brittingham was taken to Baltimore this week for treatment at the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Mr. Elwood Culver, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Culver, left Monday for Salisbury, where he is a student at the business college.

Mrs. Woodland Culver and children have returned home after the visiting mother, Mrs. John Howard, at Pitts Creek, Worcester county.

Mr. and Mrs. Ponder Culver and Mr. Clayton Marriner motored to Westover Sunday, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Butler.

The Ladies' Aid of Perryhawkin Church met at the home of Mrs. Ponder Culver Friday evening. Quite a number of members and friends were present. Refreshments were served at 10 o'clock.

Mr. George Riggins, who about seven months ago was operated upon at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, for some trouble with his head, returned to that institution this week for another operation.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Dennis gave a birthday party Saturday evening, October 2nd, in honor of the eighteenth birthday of their daughter, Mabel. A large number of guests were present. Miss Dennis was the recipient of many presents.

Mr. Emerson Dykes, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Dykes, and Miss Lorena Noel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Noel, all of this neighborhood, were married Tuesday evening immediately after a six o'clock supper given at the home of the bride's parents, at which only members of the immediate families of the contracting parties and their attendants, Miss Nellie Marriner and Mr. Clayton Marriner, were present. After the supper the party went to Perryhawkin Christian Church, where a large crowd had assembled. Miss Viola West played the wedding march, during which the bride and groom entered with their attendants. Rev. W. H. Leake, the pastor, performed the ceremony, after which they left for the home of the groom's parents, where a reception was given.

Landonville

Oct. 8—Miss Viola Landon is visiting relatives in Baltimore.

Mr. Tubman Walston has returned home from Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Beauchamp are visiting in Baltimore.

Mrs. Lottie Walston was a recent visitor to Princess Anne.

Mrs. Noah Holland and son, Melvin, left Monday for Baltimore.

Misses Georgia and Louise Ford are visiting their sister at Crisfield.

Mrs. Sadie Norwood, of Baltimore, is visiting relatives at this place.

Mrs. Melissa Meredith, of Rumbley, spent the past week with friends here.

Mrs. Gertrude Williams, of Philadelphia, Pa., is the guest of relatives at this place.

Mrs. John Wagner of Manokin was the guest of her father, Mr. Tubman Walston, on Sunday.

Mrs. Anna Meredith, who has been visiting in Baltimore and Washington, D. C., has returned home.

Miss May Richards, who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Alice Layfield, at Crisfield, has returned home.

Mrs. Evelyn Landon has returned home after a pleasant visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Walker, at Fruitland.

Mrs. Edna Walston and little children, Thelma and Harry, have returned to their home in Baltimore after a visit to the former's sister, Mrs. Lottie Walston.

Misses May Richards, Emma Walston, Emma Holland and Mr. Method Holland, were the guests of Miss Elsie Hopkins, at her home in Inverness, Sunday.

Deadly Fleas And Rats

An event of interest in New York City is the exhibit prepared by the health department of the American Museum of Natural History, illustrating the sources of infection and the extent of the ravages of bubonic plague. The plague is usually disseminated by the rat flea, spreading from rat to rat, and from rat to man, and in its time, it is said, has proved more deadly than war.

There have been three great pandemics of bubonic plague. The first started in Egypt in 542 A. D., and spread practically over all the known world. The second, the Black Death of the Middle Ages, began in Mesopotamia in 1050 A. D., and swept over the whole of Asia, Europe and Northern Africa. In the Fourteenth Century twenty-five million people, or one-quarter of the population of Europe, perished. The third pandemic originated in Southern China in 1871, killed six million in India, between 1896-1907, and gained a foothold, not only from Glasgow to Cape Town and from Lisbon to New Caledonia, but from Buenos Aires and Brazil to Porto Rico and California in the Western Hemisphere.

With such a deadly enemy ready to seek its victims at every favorable opportunity, it is well for the world that means of combating its ravages have been found. It reveals in filth and vermin, and our health authorities have been so successful in exterminating dangerous vermin that the deadly pest does not threaten us. Nor will it do so as long as these efforts are maintained. —Wilmington Every Evening.

Colds Do Not Leave Willingly

Because a cold is stubborn is no reason why you should be. Instead of "wearing" it out, get sure relief by taking Dr. King's New Discovery. ## Democratic Nomination Meeting to except such as are herein contained and contained in the Democratic platform.

I am in favor of the full measure of home rule for Baltimore city and in favor of Baltimore city's settling its own controversy with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Police Board and Liquor License Board of Baltimore city will be under the domination and control of no man, I care not who he is.

In my opinion the important issues of this campaign are the establishment of a budget system for our State government, the abolishment of all useless offices and commissions, the exercise of the strictest economy in the administration of all departments or offices of the State government consistent with efficiency in the public service and the radical reduction by the legislature of its own running expenses.

Let us stand by Woodrow Wilson and pave the way to his re-election as President next year.

From Mr. Ritchie's speech:

The splendid platform pledges of the Democratic party are promises which will be kept. Their reality becomes all the more apparent when it is remembered that a Democratic majority in the legislature is conceded.

Especially shall it be my hope to aid in drafting legislation which may contribute something to the settlement of the problems which confront the city of Baltimore and her neighboring counties upon the subject of a reasonable extension of the city's limits.

I feel that the rights of both, the counties and the city, in matters which pertain to both, should be recognized as independent, and made to harmonize upon some common basis fair and just to each, to the end that our purposes and hopes may be one in public questions.

From Mr. McMullen's speech:

I wish to call your attention to the result of 40 years of Democratic administration in Maryland. In no place in all this land of ours is life and property more safely guarded than here.

During the four years of Governor Goldsborough's administration the same Democratic party, mindful of its duties to the people, was broad enough and big enough to overlook many advantages that might accrue to the Republican party by voting $6,000,000 for improvement of public roads.

Whoever aspires to public office should have the capacity to render high and valuable service to the State.

This election in Maryland has a national significance. One more year and we will enter the presidential contest, and it is now certain that a decisive Democratic majority in Maryland in 1916 means a great impetus to a national victory in 1916.

St. Peter's

Oct. 9—Mr. Lydia Hall is spending several days in Salisbury.

Mr. Raymond Wilson is on a business trip to Baltimore.

Mr. William L. Muir, of Baltimore, is visiting relatives in this vicinity.

Miss Vera Beauchamp, of Champ, visited the Misses Lawson Wednesday last.

Capt. E. J. Muir, who has been in Baltimore the past two weeks, is now home.

Miss Virginia Lawson left for East New Market last Tuesday where she is nursing a typhoid fever case.

Miss Hattie Lawson left for Baltimore Friday, where she will spend the winter with her aunt, Mrs. James Somers.

Mrs. Thomas Shores and daughter, Miss Lily, left for Philadelphia Tuesday last to attend the funeral of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Shores.

Mrs. Page Smith and son, Master Clinton, who have been spending the past three months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Bozman, returned to Baltimore a few days ago accompanied by Miss Eva Bozman.

Who Would Be Governor?

If Governor Goldsborough should resign or die between now and January 1, when his successor will be inaugurated, there would be no one to take his place as the chief executive of the state. This unusual condition came about yesterday when James McC. Trippe, appointed Monday as a member of the Appeal Tax Court, sent his resignation to the Governor as the speaker of the House of Delegates.

In the event of the Governor's death it is provided in the constitution of the state that the president of the Senate shall take his seat and act until the convening of the next session of the General Assembly and, in the event of the latter's death or resignation, the speaker of the House of Delegates shall have the honor of the post.

Jesse D. Price resigned to be a candidate for the House of Representatives and, with the resignation of Mr. Trippe, both of the "vice governors" have left the service of the state. Should the chief executive die, there would be no one even to call the legislature together to appoint a successor to the Governor, as the Governor is the only one who can call the legislature into special session. This peculiar circumstance may result in some steps being taken at the next session of the General Assembly to further provide for an official to assume the duties of the Governor in the event of the executive's resignation or death under such circumstances as now exist.

Mr. Trippe qualified before the Mayor yesterday and immediately took up the duties of his new office. —Baltimore American.

200,000,000 Red Cross Xmas Seals

Two hundred million Red Cross Christmas seals are now being printed and distributed by the American Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, according to a statement issued by the latter organization. The proceeds from the sale of these seals will go for the fight against tuberculosis in the communities where the seals are sold. The organization of the Red Cross Seal sale this year will take in every state and territory of the United States, including Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Canal Zone. By December 1st, over 500,000 workers, men, women and children, will be engaged in the campaign.

The sale in 1914 broke all previous records, totaling over 55,000,000 seals, an increase of 22 per cent. over 1913. After deducting all expenses, this left nearly $500,000 for tuberculosis work in this country. The money has been and is being expended by over 2,000 different agencies who benefited from the sale in amounts ranging from $100 or less to over $25,000. The American Red Cross announces that it will continue its previous successful policy of charging only 10 per cent. of the gross proceeds to state anti-tuberculosis associations, thereby encouraging local work.

The Maryland Association for Prevention and Relief of Tuberculosis is agent for the sale of Maryland. Robert C. Powell, the Executive Secretary of the Association, who acts as state manager of the Christmas Seal sale, says that every effort will be made to dispose of a million seals in the state this season. Last year over 713,000 were sold, which was the highest sale yet recorded for Maryland, being an increase over 1913 of 46.13% and an 18.04% increase over 1911, the next highest sale. In 1914, four cities, New York, Rochester, Buffalo and Pittsburgh, sold over 1,000,000 seals each. Baltimore alone, which has almost half the population of the state, is larger than any one of the cities mentioned with the exception of New York, so that the chances for the Tuberculosis Association to carry out its slogan, "Million for Maryland" this season, should be bright.

Gun Did The Work

The editor of a newspaper in a Western town borrowed a gun from a friend the other day to go hunting. When he appeared with it on the street he noticed a peculiar agitation among the citizens of his town. People rushed from store to store and little crowds gathered in the doorway and windows to watch him pass along. The editor was thinking about the vacation ahead of him, but his face, from habit, was set and stern. Suddenly a man, braver than the rest, rushed up with a dollar bill in his outstretched hand. "Bill," he said, "old boy, I've been intending to hand you this dollar for six months. It's for the subscription I owe you." The editor gasped, almost fainted, caught himself and manfully accepted the proffered dollar with a look which said, "Go on! Damthetorpedoes!" The man rushed away, and several others braved the editor's gun and paid up back bills. Altogether, when the editor arrived at the office he had a nice roll, enough to pay for his vacation and some left over. But a surprise awaited him at the office. He found six bushels of potatoes, ten dozen eggs, a load of hay, two fine hogs, a firkin of butter, two bushels of corn and a gallon of hard cider. In the center of his desk was a large placard, and somebody had written on it: "Dear Bill: All the boys have paid in full. Put up your gun and be friends again."

When Baby Has The Croup

When mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to a sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere. [Advertisement]

Somerset Banks Make Good Showing

The fourth annual roll of honor of the State banks and trust companies of Maryland, sent out by Bank Commissioner J. Duke Downes last week, shows 44 banking institutions with surplus and undivided profits in excess of capital.

The Bank of Somerset stands 14th on the list, with a capital of $50,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $106,111.03, and the Farmers' Bank of Somerset County at Marion Station, the 35th on the list, with a capital of $15,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $17,722.05.

The Bank of Crisfield is the 7th on the list with a capital of $50,000 and surplus and undivided profits of $2,563.74. A good showing for the banks of Somerset county.

The roll of honor of the State Banks and Trust Companies of Maryland is a valuable prepared by the Bank Commissioner from the reports of condition made to the State Banking Department.

To secure a place on the roll of honor a banking institution must show surplus and undivided profits in excess of its capital stock—that is, assuming the capital to be one hundred per cent. The surplus and profits must exceed that percentage. In other words, to be entitled to a place on the roll of honor, an institution must have, in the form of plus and profits combined, an amount greater than its capital, and its numerical order on the roll of honor is based on the percentage of this amount to capital.

Electrical Display

Ir. E. C. Cannon, who conducts the electric lighting system of Princess Anne, with Mr. Robnet, of the Westhouse Company, of Baltimore, gave an interesting display of electrical appliances last Wednesday evening. Cannon has been most successful in the Electric Light plant, and at time there are about 83 residences establishments lighted with electricity. It was his idea to show to his sons and friends how electricity can be turned to still further advantage.

The display included electric heaters, cookers of all varieties. Toasting, coffee percolators, broilers, irons, other utensils were deftly exhibited, shown how they can be used with aid of electricity. Coffee and toast in this way were served to those present. Quite a number of persons were present, all of whom enjoyed the display.

Experts who have visited Maryland in the last few months have stated that the Maryland road system is equal to that of any State in the Union and far superior to most of them.

Many a fellow makes a good impression without making good.

THE BOSTON LYRICS COMING

At The Auditorium, Princess Anne, Friday, October 29th

The talented trio present a program that will please everyone. Throughout it will be most interesting, delightfully varied, and gemmed with novel and unique features.

Miss Bertha Wells in her monologs, musical and pastel readings is a master artist.

Mr. Flavel Jordan as a cartoonist is one of the best we have seen; also he is an instrumentalist of exceptional ability. These combined with a harmonious baritone voice makes him a general favorite.

We promise those that go to see and hear these entertainers two hours of real enjoyment. Remember this is for the benefit of the Volunteer Fire Company and season tickets are now on sale at $2.00 each.

Why Is It?

For the Lyceum Festival to be held here, starting on October 23rd, there are forty-three guarantors. The idea in having this number of guarantors is to divide the work that is necessary to make the Festival a success; but it does not seem that our people think so. All of the work up to the present time is put on a half dozen people and causes, sometimes, a hardship, whereas all guarantors could help out and make it a small job for all concerned.

Now the idea is this: Why don't the people who have pledged themselves for tickets go to the places where the season tickets are sold and take them up? By doing so it will make the work much easier for the ticket sellers.

Washington Hotel, of Leary & Walker, S. F. Dashiell, F. D. Layfield, T. J. Smith & Co., W. O. Lankford, B. H. Dougherty, and at Omar A. Jones' drug store. Get your ticket to-day. Price, $1.25 for adults; 90 cents for children. Below is the list of guarantors: Are you one of them? If so, are you doing your share to make this Festival a success?

The list of guarantors is as follows: Rev. D. J. Givan, L. L. Pusey, A. E. Krause, Mark L. Costen, L. B. McDowell, Oscar F. Jones, B. H. Dougherty, C. C. Waller, Columbus Lankford, Roy A. Buhrman, E. H. Ross, J. Earl Morris, Ernest Hayman, Vernon E. White, F. D. Layfield, W. H. Dashiell, E. I. Brown, O. J. Crosswell, H. L. Brittingham, W. O. Lankford, E. H. Cohn, E. O. Watson, H. A. McAllen, Mrs. J. T. Taylor, Miss Susie Collins, Mrs. Henry F. Barnes, Geo. W. Powell, Ross B. Lano, Mrs. E. P. Fitzgerald, Mrs. S. F. Dashiell, Mrs. Addie E. Bond, Mrs. L. A. Oates, Howard T. Ruhl, C. H. Hayman, J. Douglass Wallop, J. Arthur Powell, H. Killmore Lankford, Charles W. Wainwright, R. F. Maddox, John B. Roberts, O. C. Heath, Harry Twining, Geo. W. Colborn, Jr.

Mrs. Sarah J. Adams Dead

Mrs. Sarah J. Adams, wife of Mr. James H. Adams, died at her home on Irving avenue at an early hour last Tuesday morning. Mrs. Adams was 69 years old and had been an invalid for the past two years. She is survived by her husband and four daughters—Mrs. Elijah Powell, of Revell's Neck; Mrs. Ira Wharton, of Cheriton, Va.; Mrs. John Sexton and Miss Lulu Adams, of Princess Anne.

Funeral services were held at her late home last Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Henry E. Spears, rector of Somerset Parish, and interment was in the cemetery of Manokin Presbyterian Church. The pallbearers were Messrs. George W. Brown, J. S. P. White, Sidney Hayman, William J. Brown, William T. Waller and Columbus Lankford.

A Tea At "Elmwood"

Mr. and Mrs. John Page invited a number of their friends to a tea, from 3 to 6, last Thursday afternoon, at their home at "Elmwood," on the Manokin river.

The entertainment was given in honor of Mr. Page's cousin, Mrs. Bowen, who is visiting "Elmwood." The ladies officiating in the dining room were: Mrs. John B. Roberts, Mrs. A. P. Dennis, Misses Harriet Fitzgerald, Olive Dashiell, Mildred Beauchamp, Frances Wainwright and Nancy Page. The ladies and gentlemen present reported a most agreeable occasion.

LARGE CROWD WELCOME STATE CANDIDATES AT PRINCESS ANNE

Harrington, Ritchie and McMullen Address The Democrats Of Somerset County—Support Of State And County Tickets Urged

The Democrats of Somerset county met in a large mass-meeting at the Auditorium in Princess Anne last Friday afternoon to hear addresses from the State candidates. The meeting included Democrats from all sections of the county. Mr. Geo. H. Myers called the meeting to order and Mr. Robert H. Jones, of Fairmount, was called upon to preside, and Mr. Wm. T. G. Polk, of Princess Anne, was named as secretary.

Mr. Jones, on taking the chair, alluded to the possibilities of the Democratic vote in Somerset, and called upon every faithful Democrat to cast his vote for the State candidates and the local candidates of this county. Mr. Jones then invited Mr. Albert C. Ritchie, candidate for Attorney General, to address the meeting.

Mr. Ritchie showed himself to be an excellent and convincing speaker. He contrasted the Republican and Democratic platforms, referred to the former as a bad imitation of the latter, and asked all Democrats to tie to their own enunciation of principles because it gives the greatest promise of good faith. He justified this latter statement by saying that every piece of progressive legislation now on the statute books was the product of a Democratic Legislature and had been enacted in compliance with platform pledges.

"We have been going too rapidly within the last few years," continued Mr. Ritchie, "to keep pace with all the needs of the State. However, the time has now come when we must have a thorough survey of the State's financial system in order that the greatest amount of efficiency and economy may be introduced into the administration of the State's affairs. Our platform recognizes this need and our State Convention has appointed a committee that leaves no doubt of the party's sincerity. We couldn't without admitting political suicide, avoid adopting any reforms such as a commission on the State's affairs."

Mr. Ritchie was followed by Senator W. J. O'Brien, of Baltimore city, who made a most agreeable address. Mr. W. Mason Shehan, of Easton, was also present, but did not speak.

The candidates all arrived in Princess Anne at 12:35 p. m. They were met at the station by the committee on entertainment, I. T. J. Brown, G. W. Kemp, W. J. Phillips, T. D. Nicholls and W. H. Dashiell, who escorted them to the Washington Hotel for dinner. The candidates left by automobile for Crisfield, where a similar meeting was held at the Lyric Theatre at 8 p. m.

The Crisfield Band was in attendance at the Princess Anne meeting and played a number of their charming selections, both on the Court House green and in the Auditorium.

Mr. McMullen's address was brief as ing but pity for the man who could be so misled by unscrupulous politicians that he would attach his name to such an article. I have always been opposed to trick ballots; besides, I was not at home at the time this trick ballot referred to was gotten up, as I was attending court in another county."

Mr. Harrington was followed by Senator W. J. O'Brien, of Baltimore city, who made a most agreeable address. Mr. W. Mason Shehan, of Easton, was also present, but did not speak.

STATE AID FOR TOWN'S TREES

Easton Secures First Assistance Of State Forester In Planting Trees

The town of Easton has been the first to take advantage of the State-wide offer recently made by the Maryland Board of Forestry to extend practical help and expert assistance to local towns in improving, protecting and planting public shade trees.

The gratifying results already secured through State co-operation in certain cases, point to the feasibility of such a plan, the work performed showing plainly the degree of civic improvement which may be brought about under competent direction and at slight expense. In short, town and country work under the Roadside Tree Law is no longer an experiment, but an assured and very successful fact, so that the proper amount of interest and support on the part of residents will help to make town tree work of wider application, and of much actual benefit to all towns which regard the attractiveness of their roads and streets as a very desirable asset.

The initial step in putting this plan in operation is a town census of the trees, this showing the number classed as street trees, their kind and condition, and the amount of planting which may be necessary to properly fill the places where there are no trees. It gives their location by streets and blocks, with such additional data as may be necessary for a thorough working knowledge of them. The preparation of a plan follows the preliminary examination and the taking of the census, this plan covering in some detail just what is required in the way of removing all dead and diseased portions of existing trees, and their general shaping up, so that the individual tree is put in a better and a healthier condition, and the whole made to appear uniform and in good proportion to each other. The results of careful trimming and planting previously done are, so far as possible, corrected, and the trees treated with an eye to their own requirements and local conditions.

PLANS TO PROTECT CHESAPEAKE BAY

Congress Will Be Asked For Big Fort At Cape Henry

It developed last Tuesday that one of the first steps Congress will be asked to take in strengthening the country's defenses will be to make an appropriation with which to start immediate work upon the mammoth fortress to be erected at Cape Henry, Va., for the protection of the Chesapeake Bay, Washington and Baltimore from a hostile fleet.

Representative Swager Sherley, of Kentucky, chairman of the House subcommittee on fortification appropriations, spent a half hour with President Wilson on Tuesday discussing appropriations for national defense. Mr. Sherley afterward stated that he would join the President in advocating enlargement and improvement of fortifications and would urge the passage of an appropriation with which to begin work at once on the Cape Henry fort.

The Force of Habit

By WILLIAM CHANDLER

Thompson was a very commonplace man, and it was difficult for his wife's friends to understand why she loved him so dearly. But an analysis of the heart is not like an analysis of the stomach—that is to say, love is very illusive. We constantly see persons devoted to other persons who are to us unattractive.

However this may be, Molly Thompson was devoted to Bill Thompson—there was not even a grain of romance in his name—and he was the apple of her eye. He was not a successful man, and his wife by various devices supported the family. Every man has some pride at the bottom of his nature, and Bill Thompson did not fancy his position of being taken care of instead of taking care of those naturally dependent upon him. Not that his wife upbraided him. Far from it; she excused him not only to others, but to himself.

One day Bill Thompson went out to look for a position, he said, and when the dinner hour arrived he did not arrive with it. Whatever were Bill's faults, he was never late for a meal. Consequently his wife took fright at once. Within an hour she notified the police that her husband was missing, and a general alarm was sent out.

The alarm did not bring Bill Thompson. A month passed, and he had failed to turn up. His wife was in a terrible state of mind about him, and her friends began to think that it would be better if her suspense were ended by hearing that he was dead. One day a cousin of hers, seeing an unrecognizable corpse in a morgue about the size of Bill Thompson, conceived the idea of palming it off on Mrs. Thompson as her late husband. The ruse was successful—indeed, more so than might have been expected—the good woman surprising those in the secret by identifying a patch she had put in the seat of the trousers worn by the corpse.

It was hoped by the widow's relatives that Bill, being dead, would be buried and Mrs. Thompson's mind relieved. They were somewhat disappointed when she insisted on having her dear William cremated in order that she might have the remains of what had been her husband constantly with her. The cremation cost all the money the poor woman possessed, and she had not the wherewithal to purchase an urn for the ashes. She determined to find a temporary receptacle till she might save enough for a better one. Unfortunately, the receptacle she chose was a cracked soup tureen, which, though it would not retain soup, would do very well for ashes.

The remains of the late head of the house—or supposed head—were placed on a mantel in Mrs. Thompson's bedroom, and every night she wept herself to sleep, with her eyes fixed on their abiding place, lighted dimly by a night lamp. Since the support of the family was solely in her hands and she needed every cent she could earn to feed and clothe her children funds for the marble urn she intended buying were not forthcoming. Consequently the cracked soup tureen remained in use.

The widow, desirous of having flowers wave over her husband's ashes, put the tureen in a low box containing earth and introduced the plants. They flourished, and the good woman had the satisfaction of seeing them bloom. She said it was almost as satisfactory as if they moved over a grave.

In time Mrs. Thompson saved the money to purchase an urn, and the ashes were emptied from the tureen into it. It was of marble and of very attractive shape. For three years she devoted more care to it than to her house. Not a speck of dust was allowed to remain on it, and the plant amid which it rested were in perpetual bloom.

Then one fine morning this beautiful constancy of grief received a rude shock. Bill Thompson walked into the house in the flesh and with a prosperous look on him. His wife stood between him and the urn containing his ashes with a puzzled look on her face. She had for so long accustomed herself to think of him as in the urn that she could not realize he was there in the flesh. Bill in the urn was her romance; Bill in the flesh, unseen for three years, appeared to her, as he appeared to others, a very commonplace person. Duty finally triumphed, and turning her back on the romance, she embraced the reality.

Thompson had gone away resolved never to return unless in a condition to support his family. He had accumulated quite a property. He desired his wife to remove the ashes she had been weeping over. But to do so was too severe a break in the habit she had acquired. She consented to the removal of the urn from their bedroom the first night Bill slept at home after his return, but her tears were so used to flowing at the retiring hour that they could not be stopped. Bill, hearing a sob, got out of bed, went to a closet where the urn had been placed and put it back on the mantel.

The next day it was removed again, but in the evening, the tears beginning to flow, it was replaced on its accustomed stand. Bill tried to cure his wife by affecting jealousy; but, fearing that if she were forced to choose between him and the ashes of his rival she would choose the latter, he desisted. The urn remains on the mantel.

"Watch Your Step," a Study of Community Wastes, by Dr. A. E. Turner

IN the evening of the second day of the Lyceum Festival Dr. A. E. Turner, who was such a marked and popular success on the Lyceum platform last year with his lecture, entitled "Rebuilding Your Town," will present an entirely new lecture which is a sequel to the above. The title will be "Watch Your Step," a study of community wastes.

Until he became associate director of the Swarthmore Chautauqua Association, Dr. Turner was president of Hastings college, Nebraska. He left that educational work to take up this broader educational movement. His work with the Chautauqua Association has been greatly marked and increasingly gratifying.

As a lecturer Dr. Turner is entertaining and inspiring. He is a witty, incisive orator and in the presentation of perhaps the most important lecture ever delivered in any community will hold the attention of his audience to the last word. Don't get the idea that just because it is a lecture it is a dry, spiritless discussion of uninteresting things. Not a bit of it. Dr. Turner is a live wire and flashes witticisms, while his audiences alternately roar with laughter and applaud most enthusiastically their approval of the points he drives home. He is an eloquent speaker of wide experience in platform work, and he will send you away in the best humor, but with some worth while thoughts in your mind. His genial personality, his eloquence and his experience as a lecturer make him one of the most popular men on the platform.

Because of the nature of his lecture it will be one of the most important themes that can be presented to a community. Being presented by Dr. A. E. Turner, it will be worth all the effort that the Lyceum Festival costs.

The College Club

THE College Club is composed of Miss Elizabeth Roberts, Miss Dorothea Fitch, Miss Marguerite Milne and Mrs. Nettie Harry Turner. They present a most attractive program. They will open with a group of songs in college cap and gown, introducing student songs, with banjo and guitar accompaniment. They will also introduce folk songs in costume and action. They will give recitations, monologues and a playlet. Their work will embody impersonations of sprightliness, life, motion and color, presented with costume and music. There will be American songs as well as folk songs.

LISTEN!

The program of the Lyceum Festival which is to be held in our town is under the auspices of the Chautauqua Association of Pennsylvania. This association was organized four years ago and has been holding Chautauqua and Lyceum Festivals in more than 300 towns during the past year. The Lyceum Festival is sometimes called a Three Day Chautauqua and is customarily held in smaller towns than are the full Chautauqua programs of seven days. The talent, however, that is provided is up to the same high grade as that provided on the larger program and wherever held has given most excellent satisfaction. The season tickets are sold at a surprisingly low rate, and one feature upon the program is well worth the season ticket price.

Don't be backward about extending a friendly hand to the talent who appear on the Lyceum Festival program. These people have homes somewhere in this great and busy world, and they love these homes just as dearly as we love these homes of ours. Don't forget that they are among strangers many weeks at a time, and they get very lonesome. Show them that you are human and recognize that they are also.

The management of the Lyceum Festival is asking for your support of the enterprise because it is giving you big value for every penny, but the man who is making all of this possible also ask you to help by talking about it to your friends. The success of the festival really depends upon you.

COALING WARSHIPS AT SEA.

Sixty Tons of Fuel an Hour Whirled From Vessel to Vessel.

How the British vessels of war are coaled while sailing through heavy seas at a rate of twelve miles an hour without hindering their activities in any way is told in the Manchester Guardian:

A collier packed to the hatches with coal gets into touch by wireless with a battleship whose bunkers need to be replenished. On sighting the vessel the supply ship maneuvers until it is within 400 feet of the battleship. The collier then dispatches a small boat that carries two cables. One end of each is attached to the masthead of the supply vessel. The lines pay out as the boat advances, and when it reaches the warship the sailors fasten the cables to the stern of the ship on the port and starboard sides.

The two ships, therefore, travel in a straight line fastened together, while from the mast of the collier to the deck of the warship stretches a transport cable for carrying coal bags. Sacks of coal that weigh a ton are hoisted from the foot of the collier's mast to a platform at its head, below which there is a net to protect deck hands from falling pieces of coal. By means of wheels that run on the cable automatic winches force the load along the sloping transport line at a rate of 3,000 feet a minute. On reaching the deck of the battleship the load is automatically released, and the transporter starts on its return journey.

By means of this apparatus sixty tons of coal can be carried every hour across the gap of water that separates the supply ship from the battleship. The great advantage is that both vessels can move at the rate of twelve knots an hour while the coaling goes on.

The Voracious Cormorant.

How a cormorant dives for sea trout and gets them is told by a writer: "I had the cormorant under observation only for the space of four or five minutes, and during that short period it had captured four sea trout, all of considerable size. After being under water for a few seconds the bird would reappear with a sea trout wriggling in its bill. But in spite of the victim's desperate efforts to escape it was deftly swallowed, and after a few gulps the cormorant would resume its fishing operations. One of the sea trout gave it considerable trouble, however, for the fish struggled violently for some moments, but was deftly placed so that its head pointed down its captor's throat, and thus its own struggles assisted the bird to swallow it."

Early History of Rubber.

Rubber is first known to history as a plaything. It was during Columbus' second voyage that Herrera observed game with balls "made of the gum of a tree." Even as early as the beginning of the seventeenth century, however, the Spaniards used rubber to waterproof their cloaks, but the fact attracted no attention in the old world, and it was not until the eighteenth century that the rubber industry began. Early writers mention an oil extracted from rubber which was taken medicinally with cocoa.

Golf in Scotland.

In ancient times, when Scotland always had work for her soldiers to do, all young men were required to perfect themselves in archery. They preferred to play golf, and so serious a rival did the game become that it was for a time suppressed and made a capital offense. That curious law never has been repealed and may still be found on the statute book. There seems to be no record, however, of the law ever having been enforced.

RAYS FROM THE SUN.

They Become Light to Us Only Upon Striking Our Atmosphere.

The rays of light that reach us from the sun are not light in themselves. For instance, to show what is meant, suppose you were placed out in empty space, facing so that you would look sidewise at the light rays passing from the sun to the earth. You would not see them at all. You could only see them if you looked directly at the sun, so that the rays would enter your eyes and, striking upon the retina, produce there the impression of light.

The rays passing by and not entering your eyes would be invisible because in open space there is no medium like the atmosphere to scatter the rays in all directions and thus produce an illumination all around.

The sky at night is full of passing sunbeams and star beams, a vast and inextricable web of radiations, but they lie beyond the limits of the atmosphere, and only those are transformed into light which by reflection from a planet in the case of sunbeams or by coming straight into the eye from a star directly affect the nerves of vision.—Garrett P. Serviss in New York Journal.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD

People who are taking little farms with a view to getting a living income, together with the advantages of a rural home, naturally give a great deal of thought to the earning capacity of an acre, and there is much discussion of this subject.

I have visited ten and twenty acre farms, both north and south, where the vegetable crops were paying $300 to $400 an acre above the cost of the labor. I have known celery, onions, cauliflower, lettuce, tomatoes and several other vegetables to give a net return of $500 to $800 an acre. Cabbage and beans will sometimes do this also, but less frequently than the others. Potatoes may be made to average $100 to $300. Asparagus, rhubarb, cucumbers and horseradish rank high as money-crops, but still are a little behind some of the others.

Numerous instances can be cited of small fruits returning $400, and apples, peaches, cherries, pears, quinces and plums $300 an acre or more. By adding a canning or preserving business the family on a little farm may add largely to these profits. It is hardly

WHERE VEGETABLE CROPS WERE PAYING.

It takes both skill and industry on the part of a family to run a little farm on this intensive plan. Some will do the work indifferently and will fall short of the figures given. Others may prefer to devote their time to poultry, cattle and hogs, and there is no reason why they should not get a good living income from a twenty acre tract where dairying, hog raising and poultry management are the main features. Everything depends on the owner and his family. The average production in America of an acre of corn is under thirty bushels an acre, though more than eight times this amount have been grown. The average potato crop is less than 100 bushels per acre, though more than twelve times this number of bushels have been produced. When the intensive method is used the productive value of an acre of land would seem to the average farmer as fabulous.

There are three crops with which a beginner may specialize, as they fit well into a rotative scheme and are always in good demand. These are early cabbage, early potatoes and late celery. In making a garden raise two or more crops in one season these products should be considered. Of potatoes the farmer may try Irish Cobbler. They are about as early as any, are of uniform size and the quality is good. The seed tubers are selected in the fall, kept in a cool cellar till about the middle of March and then are put in shallow slatted boxes. If placed in a light and moderately warm room by the time it is safe to plant them they will have thrown out strong sprouts possibly an inch long. Do not break these sprouts. Keep them uppermost in planting. Each piece of tuber should have at least two eyes. A potato crop so handled will be quite early and pay accordingly. There are a number of late growing crops which can then be put in the ground and brought to maturity by September or October.

To have cabbages headed early in July it is necessary to have them set out before the middle of April. The plants may be bought from dealers or the seed started in cold frames. In buying call for early varieties. The cabbages are set two feet apart each way and on a fair piece of ground will grow a crop worth $400 at an average of 5 cents a head. The late celery can follow on this ground or the potato land, and it is also feasible to grow radishes, beets, carrots, turnips, lettuce and many other things.

Celery may be treated as a highly profitable crop. It deserves the most intelligent care. As moisture is needed regularly it will pay to have a cheap irrigation outfit. Without water celery is not crisp or tender. A light sprinkling of nitrate of soda along the rows helps this crop.

STORING SEED CORN.

Storing seed corn is always important. It is unusually important this year because any seed corn picked this fall is likely to contain a very high percentage of moisture when it is selected. It is very important that this moisture be greatly reduced before freezing weather.

The day seed corn is picked it should be hung up on corn hangers by the double or single string method or in some rack that will allow no two ears to touch and will provide good ventilation between the ears. This should be put in some dry building provided with good ventilation. A woodshed or attic with facilities for letting the air circulate through is a good place for curing seed corn.—Minnesota Station.

TEST FOR SOIL ACIDITY.

Wisconsin Experiment Station Describes a New Method.

The Wisconsin experiment station has recently issued a bulletin describing a new method of testing the acidity of soil. In this bulletin, written by Professor E. Troug, several tests used for determining the acidity of the soil are described as well as the new test. It is claimed by the author that the new test for soil acidity is more reliable, measuring, to a certain extent, the degree of acidity and indicating in a general way the amount of lime needed per acre to make the soil sweet.

The principle of the test as described in the bulletin is as follows: When zinc sulphide, a white, flourlike substance, comes in contact with an acid gas is formed which can be detected by the use of lead acetate paper. In a similar manner the acid in soils causes a formation of this gas which is similarly detected.

The apparatus for making soil tests by this method is simple and looks as though it would be a very effective way for the farmer to determine whether the soil needs lime and the approximate amount of lime. The use of lime to correct the acidity of the soil is coming more generally into use as year succeeds year. It has been proved beyond doubt that alfalfa and clover—in fact, all kinds of legumes—will not do well upon an acid soil.

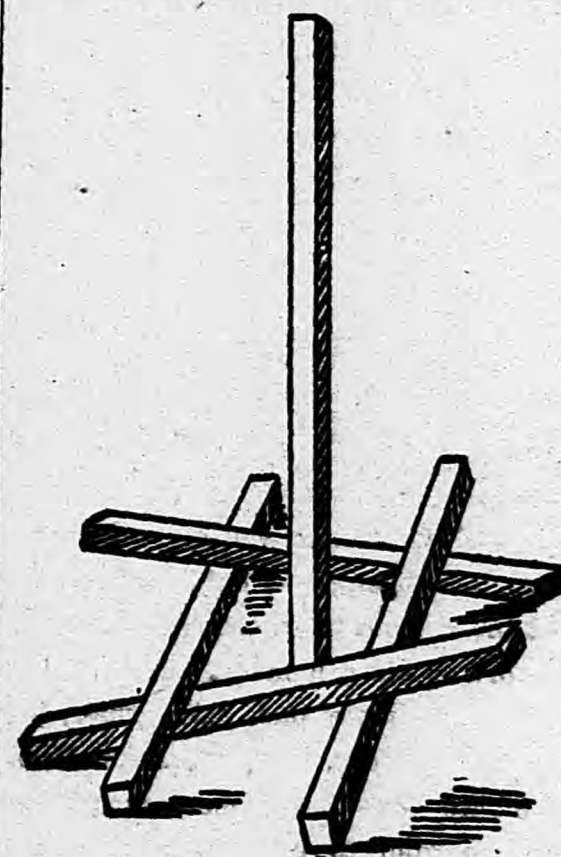

Various methods have been used to determine whether the soil is acid or not in the laboratory, but to get some practical, reliable test that the farmer can use without requiring too much time has taken some years. Blue litmus paper has been used and, on the whole, is quite a satisfactory test, but when inserted into the soil it may turn red from other causes than from the acid in the soil. There is more or less carbonic acid in all soils, and when this comes in contact with blue litmus paper it turns red, yet the soil is not acid in the sense the term is used and may have an abundance of lime. The perspiration on a person's finger very often reddens the paper, and unless care is taken in testing soils with litmus paper results are apt to be misleading.

The muriatic acid test determines not so much whether the soil is acid, but whether it contains any carbonate of lime. This has proved a very satisfactory test, but is not as reliable as could be desired.

The new acid test for determining the acidity of soils recently conducted by the Wisconsin experiment station seems to overcome all the difficulty of the other tests and indicates positively whether the soil is acid and also about how much lime will be required to sweeten the soil. Farmers can well afford to give this subject their attention and determine whether their soil is acid or not.

A Useful Rack.

The rack shown here is used in the peanut regions for curing nuts on the vines and in curing peas and soy bean hay. It is very valuable for curing late cut legumes like cowpeas and soy beans. A hole is made in the ground with a crowbar and in this a sharpened ed stake is set. This stake is from eight to ten feet high. Four sticks from two to four inches square and two to three feet long are placed around the central stake. This forms a foundation, keeping the hay from the soil dampness and the central stake keeps the hay from blowing over.—Farm Progress.

Potting Bulbs or Plants.

When potting bulbs or plants, always see that there is plenty of drainage in the bottom of the pot. Poor drainage means sour soil and sickly plants.

IF A REPUBLICAN—THEN WHAT?

It is amusing to see how carefully the leaders of the Republican party are utilizing every effort to turn to their advantage any discrepancies of opinion as to the merits of Harrington and Lee in the recent Democratic primaries. We have said over and over again that varieties of sentiment that have occurred in the Democratic family should cut no figure when it comes to a fight between Democrats and Republicans either in this county or the State of Maryland. Mr. Harrington, having been selected after the struggle as the better nominee for the State, appeals to every man who took part in the primaries, and more than that, to every man who is a Democrat in spirit and believes in the prevalence of Democratic principles. The Republicans of Maryland have also selected Mr. Weller as their standard bearer. They claim great things for Mr. Weller because, as chairman of the State Roads Commission, he has been faithful to that trust. Every officer should be equally sincere and honest. The fact, however, that Mr. Weller showed himself to be a fairly good business man by no means indicates that he would make a good Chief Executive for the State. Except for his work upon the Maryland roads, he is more or less unknown. How it would turn out if elected Governor, no one can tell.

But, as a matter of concession, we will suppose that the independent voters had faith enough in Mr. Weller to turn the scales for him, what then would occur? Possibly the result of a second Republican Governor's election has not been duly considered. Are the Democrats willing that the hundreds of public officers of the State shall again be subsidiary to a Republican Governor, or his supporters—and this in spite of the fact that Maryland is notably a Democratic State? The past four years have given an exhibition of such changes. Do the Democrats of the State take to such a set of changes a second time in a kindly manner?

It is very natural for Mr. Weller and his supporters to make the most of what they think of Democratic differences. Mr. Weller would be led into all sorts of changes in public officers to suit the wishes of those who are now supporting his candidacy. The motive is a very simple one. Mr. Duer, of Somerset county, now the Republican candidate for Comptroller, would be only too glad to be the chief in his county in suggesting what he deemed to be suitable changes to a Republican Governor.

The same thing would occur in Baltimore and in every county of the State. There is every reason, therefore, why Democrats should get together and resist the election of a Republican Governor. More than this, his election might also mean the election of other State officers and a Republican Board of Public Works might result. Mr.

Duer would, no doubt, be glad to have this happen.

It is time for the Democrats of Somerset and other parts of the State to recollect what folly might be committed by dubious votes. It is no time for hesitation. It is time to be what we profess. If we are to be Republicans let us come out boldly and be such; if we are Democrats, let us be staunch and true to our belief.

What Could A Republican Governor Do With A Democratic Legislature?

Very naturally Mr. Weller refuses to admit that the next Legislature will be Democratic—politicians concede nothing until after the election and sometimes not even then. Perhaps Mr. Weller is really indulging in the pleasures of hope. If so, his more practical friends might undeceive him.

Some of his supporters are building no such air castles. Their labored argument that there is more harmony with a Democratic Legislature and a Republican Governor than when both were Democratic, and that the last Legislature was one of the most successful in the State's history "largely because the Governor was a Republican" is a marvel of sophistry, or merely humorous, according to the way one looks at it.

It is quite true that the last Legislature made a creditable record for progressive and constructive legislation—although the Republicans are trying to prove it the sum of all abominations for exceeding the speed-limit in the matter of appropriations.

But what part did a Republican Governor take in its work beyond signing the bills? Does anybody claim that Governor Goldsborough yielded any influence, good or bad, with the Democrats in the Legislature, or that he had any appreciable part in any of its progressive enactments?

There was "harmony" because Governor Goldsborough simply "went along"—very wisely too—with the majority party. His hands were tied and he did not attempt to block anything of importance.

Is that to be Mr. Weller's role, if elected? If so, he will at least do no harm. But if he attempts to coerce the Democrats by appeals to the people as he has threatened to do, "harmony" is very likely to disappear instantly.

Happily for the State, there was a distinct lack of harmony when Crothers was Governor. He advocated reforms and fought for them valiantly and successfully. He brought his party to his way of thinking, and he was effective because he was the leader of the dominant party.

But suppose the Legislature had been Republican, what could Governor Crothers have accomplished? Or suppose Governor Crothers himself had been a Republican and the Legislature Democratic what would all of his plans have amounted to? Answer: nothing whatever.

President Wilson has accomplished great reforms through legislation. What could he have done had Congress been opposed to him politically.

Do the people of Maryland want a Governor who can lead and work with a Legislature of the same political faith in accomplishing the great reforms needed, or will they be satisfied with a Governor who will be merely a negative factor, if indeed he does not actually hamper the work that ought to be done?—Baltimore Sun.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. The President Makes An Issue

The President's address to the Daughters of the American Revolution was a fine specimen of Wilsonian oratory, of the especially pleasing literary quality of his lucid and flowing style, and of his method of elaborating and developing the central thought which he desires to impress.

But his address was something more than an address to the Daughters of the American Revolution, and far more than a conventional oration on patriotism and the purpose and mission of the American republic. It was, in effect, an address to the whole country, to all who call themselves Americans, and was a friendly but emphatic admonition to those who have forgotten themselves to abandon their un-American attitude.

No one has ever paid a higher tribute to the stimulus which American institutions and American character have received from the foreign elements that have been added to them from generation to generation. No one appreciates more highly the debt which we owe to such reinforcements of eager idealists and practical workers. They have helped to strengthen our national standards and to renew the early fires of patriotism. And the vast majority of them are today true Americans in the highest sense—men and women who answer to the definition better than some to the manner born. There is an offensive and pernicious minority, however, which has brought its loyal fellow-countrymen into disrepute, and to this latter and splendid body of real Americans the President appeals. He is so confident that they stand with their country and against the turbulent and disaffected few that he will welcome the opportunity to have "a census of foreign-born citizens taken" on the subject.

In other words, the President issues a challenge to those who have been putting other countries first and the United States second. He makes a great issue for 1916 in this address—the issue of supreme Americanism—and on that he calls upon everybody to stand up and be counted.

The President is not waiting for his critics to formulate a plan of campaign against him. He is carrying the war into the enemy's country. And he carries the flag of the United States in his hand. Those who do not rally around and follow him on this issue will "ostracize" themselves politically and cut themselves off temporarily from the spirit of American brotherhood and American patriotism.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Advertised Letters

The following is a list of letters, remaining in the Princess Anne postoffice unclaimed for:

Miss Belle Ange, Miss Mildred Byrd, Mrs. J. Carruthers, Sidney C. Cottman, Mr. M. A. Davis, Mrs. Ada K. Davis, L. Davis, Alonzo G. Jones, Mr. Saul Jones, Zedek R. Long, Mr. Ras Matthews, Wm. G. Payne, Mrs. Cheatha Pottier.

Persons calling for the above letters will please state they are advertised.

H. L. BRITTINGHAM, P. M.

Miss Emily I. Dashiell, who teaches in the Dover (Del.) High School, spent the week-end at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dashiell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Long, of Westover, have returned from a three months' trip to the West. Mr. Long thinks Maryland is the best State after all.

Mr. Peter Goble, who resides about three miles from Princess Anne, on the Manokin river, was paralyzed Monday of last week. For several days he was very prostrate, his left side and his throat being affected. At this writing his condition is still unimproved. Mr. Goble is an excellent citizen and his illness has occasioned great regret among his friends.

Our good friend Bob Jones, the road man of Somerset county, has the thanks of all the persons who travel the county road from the Pocomoke river bridge to the Westover road, for his good work done to that thoroughfare. He has worked on it until he has it in apple pie shape, and persons can now travel it with comfort and pleasure. Bob is a first-class road man and the good people of old Somerset are fortunate that their county road system has been placed under his supervision. He knows how to do the work and the best of all is that he does it.—Worcester Democrat.

Rally Day Exercises

The Antioch Methodist Episcopal Sunday School observed in the Court House, last Sunday morning, a Rally Day service. An attractive program, "Under His Banner," was nicely rendered by the school. Short addresses were delivered by A. N. Gibbons, the Superintendent of the school; Royal Seaman, of Harrington, Del., and the pastor, Rev. D. J. Givan. The service was a great success, 208 scholars being present. The collection amounted to $27.75.

Much credit is due Mrs. Ashton Mills, Mrs. E. O. Watson, Miss Inez Lano, Miss Eloise McAllister and Miss Josephine Potee, who trained the children for the service; also the choir that led the music.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine"

One of the great scenes in Eugene Walter's dramatization of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," is laid in Judd Tolliver's cabin. Young Dave, June's own cousin, who is in love with her, is a fugitive accused of shooting Berkeley, Jack's chum and partner. June hides him in her bedroom. Her father carries in her lover's wounded comrade, while Jack, who follows him, demands from June the surrender of the fugitive. June refuses, and Mr. Walter has devised a heart gripping scene between the primitive mountain girl and the educated man, wherein love and duty battle. It comes to the Auditorium, Princess Anne, to-morrow (Wednesday) night, with clever Eily O'Connor in the role of June Tolliver.

Great Growth Of Prohibition

Fifty-two million Americans, or more than half the people of the United States, are now living under prohibition laws.

By area, more than 71 per cent. of the United States is prohibition territory. This will be increased 20 per cent. when prohibition goes into effect in five States that recently adopted it.

Of the people living in license territory, one-half are in four States—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

These figures were given out at a State temperance convention in New Jersey last week. Whether they are strictly correct or not, it is certain that the distillers and liquor dealers are greatly alarmed, for fear national prohibition is coming soon.

Know Paint

There's a paint-education in this advertisement.

Buy by the job, not gallon. Buy by the paint put-on; that's the job.

The price of paint is so much a gallon; that can't be helped, but amounts to nothing.

The price of painting is so much a day; that can't be helped, but amounts to nothing.

Put them together. How can you do it? You've got to or lose perhaps half of your money.

Devoe, 10 gallons enough for the average job; an average paint, 15. Now reckon your costs. Count labor a day for a gallon. Devoe 10 days; the other 15.

Devoe about $50; the average paint about $70 or $80; the dearer the labor the bigger the difference, always that way.

But that's for the job. How long is it going to last? One twice as long as the other.

Adv. C. H. Hayman sells it. DEVOE

GORDON TULL, Solicitor.

609 Typhoid Cases In State

During the month of September 609 cases of typhoid fever occurred in Maryland, according to reports made to the State Department of Health. Of these, 186 cases were reported in Baltimore, the remainder being distributed throughout the counties. Baltimore county leads the list, 68 cases having been reported from there.

Worcester and Anne Arundel counties each had 23 cases. Allegany county was second on the list, with 39 cases reported, and Prince George's is third, with 37 cases, Frederick county had 22, Montgomery had 21, Dorchester had 20, Calvert had 6 and St. Mary's only 2, the smallest number reported. The other county reports ranged from 10 to 20.

Of the towns outside of Baltimore, Cumberland had the largest number of cases, 13 being reported from there. There were 6 cases in Annapolis.

Marriage Licenses

White—Milton G. Hurley, 21, of Lawtonia, and Emma F. Matthews, 17, of Crisfield. Walter R. Anklam, 22, and Hattie Christy, 22, both of Crisfield.

Colored—Jesse Miles, 22, and Cora A. Miles, 19, both of Westover. Stephen Jackson, 23, and Mildred Burrell, 19, both of Hopewell. Adolphus Killman, 21, and Pinkie E. Shores, both of Accomac county, Va.

Chronic Constipation

A TRAGIC RETREAT

When the Afghans Lured the British Into the Jaws of Death.

THE EVACUATION OF KABUL.

Of 16,000 Persons Who Left the City Under Pledge of Safety Only One Man, Except a Few Prisoners Taken, Escaped Massacre.

In this wondrous day of wire and wireless we learn, half across the world, the events of the day almost instantaneously, and the very elements carry abroad the news. It is more than romance; it is miracle, but a miracle that may banish forever from the pages of the future historian and romancer one of the most dramatic figures of the past—the messenger bringing first news from the battlefield.

Long even before Phelippides of Marathon ran to Athens from the immortal battlefield, cried "Victory!" and fell dead the messenger held a place in myth and chronicle that he has maintained for centuries. Sometimes he is merely the swiftest rider or runner, sometimes a hero of the fight, chosen as an honor to bear glad tidings; sometimes a hard pressed refugee, sometimes even a lone survivor.

Lady Elizabeth Thompson Butler, the distinguished woman painter of wartime scenes, of which "The Roll Call" is most famous, once illustrated in a less known painting one of the most tragic episodes in the history of modern England—the arrival of Dr. William Brydon at Jalalabad, Jan. 13, 1842. Her terrible little picture shows the young Scotch surgeon, dazed, desperate, exhausted, clinging half-conscious to his weary horse as the walls of the city loom in sight.

He had come from Kabul, through the mountains, in midwinter, one of a retreating army of British and native troops, accompanied by swarms of attendants and camp followers. With them at first were also nine Englishwomen, wives of officers, including Florence, Lady Sale, wife of Sir Robert Sale, the commander at Jalalabad, and his daughter. There were also fourteen children. A long, intricate and hideous series of blunders, treacheries and murders had brought the tremendously outnumbered British in Kabul to the point where evacuation of the city and acceptance of a promised safe conduct to Jalalabad seemed to their leaders the best that could be hoped for, and the retreat began.

But the Afghans did not keep their word, and soon there were no leaders. Before the march was half over many were slain and conditions were so hopeless that the others yielded to a proposal to surrender the commanding general himself, General Elphinstone, together with the women and children, into the care of the Afghan chief, Akbar Khan, as hostages, but not until the Kurd Kabul was passed.

The gorge of the Kurd Kabul is a five mile ravine between high mountains, so narrow, lofty and grim that in winter the sun scarcely reaches its depths. That January it was deep in snow, the rocks were glazed with ice, and upon every mountain slope, in every crevasse, behind every bowlder, lurked the fanatic Afghan tribesmen, with their long guns and long knives. Weary, crowded, half crippled by frost, the confused and forlorn masses struggling through the gloomy canyon soon lost all semblance of an army, as the slaughter soon lost all semblance of a battle. It became simply the massacre of a rabble, and the snow grew red.

"Three thousand men," says the historian Sir J. W. Kaye, "fell under the fire of the enemy or dropped down paralyzed and exhausted to be slaughtered by Afghan knives. And amid these fearful scenes of carnage, through a shower of matchlock balls, rode English ladies on horseback or in camel panniers, sometimes vainly endeavoring to keep their children between their eyes and then losing them in the confusion and bewilderment of the desolating march."

After the general became a captive with the women the rout and slaughter increased in horror. The jagged peaks succeeded the Kurd Kabul; a dark, steep, winding track ascending high among frowning crags, and barricaded at its narrowest point. It was a trap. The fugitives were caught beyond escape. A mere handful emerged alive.

Within sixteen miles of Jalalabad only six of these remained. Before those sixteen miles were covered five of the six had been killed by straggling marauders.

Dr. Brydon alone, one man out of 16,000, reached the goal and bore the awful news.

Later, when England awoke and avenged the women and children and a few prisoners were rescued, Dr. Brydon himself lived to share and survive the famous siege of Lucknow, another terrible episode in his country's history, but one as honorable and inspiring as the retreat from Kabul was humiliating and disastrous.—Youth's Companion.

Concentrated Sun Rays.

Archimedes once arranged a number of mirrors so as to bring the rays of the sun to a point called a focus, which means a hearth. The heat thus gathered together from the sunshine is said to have been sufficient to set fire to the Roman ships, which were besieging the harbor of Syracuse.

He who feasts every day, feasts on day.—C. Simmons.

NOT ENOUGH CHILDREN

ever receive the proper balance of food to sufficiently nourish both body and brain during the growing period when nature's demands are greater than in mature life. This is shown in so many pale faces, lean bodies, frequent colds, and lack of ambition.

For all such children we say with unmistakable earnestness: They need Scott's Emulsion, and need it now. It possesses in concentrated form the very food elements to enrich their blood. It changes weakness to strength; it makes them sturdy and strong. No alcohol.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J.

CURIOUS PENALTIES.

Some That Were Inflicted in the Early Days in New York.

When New York, or as it was then called, New Amsterdam, was under Dutch rule, some peculiar penalties were enacted. In 1642 a defendant in an action for slander was sentenced "to throw something in the box for the poor." In 1644 Thomas Cornel, a soldier, was tried for desertion and sentenced "to be conveyed to the place of execution, and there fastened to a stake and a ball fired over his head, as an example to other evildoers."

In 1647 Jonas Jonassen, a soldier, for robbing hen flocks and killing a pig was ordered "to ride a wooden horse three days, from 2 p. m. to the conclusion of the parade, with a fifty pound weight tied to each foot."

In 1648 an Englishman found guilty of a grave offense was pardoned on condition that he saw firewood for one year for the West India company.

In the time of the commonwealth, in England, drunkards at Newcastle-on-Tyne were sentenced to carry about a tub, with holes in the sides for the arms to pass through. In 1754, in Scotland, David Leyes, for striking his father, was compelled to appear before the congregation at church, "hairbreadth and baldrick" with a paper above his head inscribed with large letters, "Behold the unnatural son, punished for putting hand on his father, and dishonoring God in him."—Exchange.

Backing Him Out.

Sir Herbert Tree's wit is well known among his friends, and they tell some very good stories about his funny remarks at rehearsals.

Once during the rehearsal of a certain play Sir Herbert asked a very young and by no means brilliant actor who fancied himself greatly to "step back a little." The actor did so, and Tree went on rehearsing. A little later the famous manager repeated his request, and the youth obeyed again.

Shortly afterward Tree once more asked him to "step a little farther back."

"But if I do," complained the youthful one ruefully, "I shall be completely off the stage."

"Yes," answered Tree quietly, "that's right!"—London Globe.

Couldn't Leave.

They were late at the special sale and found a crowd clear out to the doors.

"Isn't it dreadful?" asked No. 1. "Perfectly awful," replied No. 2. "Think of cultivated, intelligent women in such a jam as that?"

"How can they endure it?"

"No woman of dignity would be caught in such a mob, and I am going right back home."

"So am I."

"Then come on. Hold on a minute, though. What's that woman saying?"

"Why, that she got three cakes of regular ten cent soap for 15 cents. Oh, Susan, how can we go home?"

"We can't. Take hold of my hand, turn your shoulder to the crowd, and we will push our way in there or die in the attempt."—Washington Herald.

Temperature of the Earth.

It has been generally believed that the temperature increased at almost a constant rate from the earth's surface toward its center, but this supposition appears to be incorrect in the light of recent experiments. In one mine the average rate of increase in temperature, carried down to 8,000 feet, was one degree for each 250 feet of descent. Various results have been obtained from measurements in other places. No temperature variations were shown between depths of 1,400 feet and 2,300 feet in the Kalgoorlie mines in Australia. These and other observations are considered as indicating that the increase of temperatures with depth in the earth is not governed by any general law.

No Royalties Called "Baby."

One noteworthy feature about royalties is that none has been called "baby." From their earliest years the royal children are always called by their names or possibly by some pet name, but an English prince or princess is never called "baby" either by relatives or by his or her nurses. From the age of five a prince is styled "sir" by his attendants and a princess "madam."—London Standard.

Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

HIS HARD TASK.

He Wielded Him, and Yet We All Face the Same Problems.

A friend once asked an aged man what caused him to complain so often at evidence of pain and weariness. "Alas," replied he, "I have every day so much to do. I have two falcons to tame, two hares to keep from running away, two hawks to manage, a serpent to confine, a lion to chain and a sick man to tend and wait upon."

"Well, well," commented his friend, "you are busy indeed! But I didn't know that you had anything to do with a menagerie. How, then, do you make that out?"

"Why," continued the old man, "listen. Two falcons are my eyes, which I must guard diligently; the two hares are my feet, which I must keep from walking in the ways of sin; the two hawks are my hands, which I must train to work that I may provide for myself and those dependent on me as well as for a needy friend occasionally; the serpent is my tongue, which I must keep ever bridled lest it speak unseemly; the lion is my heart, with which I have a continual fight lest evil things come out of it, and the sick man is my whole body, which is always needing my watchfulness and care. All this daily wears out my strength."

CAPTURING A GIRAFFE.

The Animal Is Too Fragile to Snare in Traps or Pits.

Perhaps you have often wondered about the scarcity of giraffes in public zoos. The reason that only a very few menageries can boast of this exhibit is on account of the difficulty in capturing and transporting them.

The long legged and long necked animal, keen of eye and nose and ear, can see, smell and hear a hunter miles away. Hunters cannot employ traps and pitfalls against him. His fragile legs would be crushed in a trap, and both his legs and neck would be broken in a pitfall.

There is only one way to capture a giraffe alive. He must be surrounded and chased until from sheer weariness he staggers helplessly into a bamboo inclosure.

Peril lies in shipping the giraffe for his voyage on the sea. The giraffe's legs break very easily. If he slips the fragile underpinnings double under him and snap. In transferring the animal from shore to ship his long, helpless neck may become tangled in the tackle or strike a spar, mast or shroud, in which event it's all over with Mr. Giraffe.—Chicago Herald.

A Rival to the "Marsellaise."

Writing in Musical Opinion, Gerald Cumberland says: "The records of history contain but few examples of great works of musical art created during a time of war. The 'Marsellaise' is one such example, and Sir Edward Elgar's 'Chantons, Belges, Chantons,' is another. Greatly as I admire the former undying melody, I do not believe it is in any respect greater than the latter."

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Which Is Better—Try an Experiment Or Profit By A Princess Anne Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as represented. The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is. Now supposing you had a bad back, a lame, weak, or aching one.

Would you experiment on it? You will read of many so-called cures. Endorsed by strangers from far-away.

It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony. Read this Princess Anne case:

Thomas H. Heath, Beckford avenue, Princess Anne, Md., says: "I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and was restless. In the morning I felt tired and worn out. I also had dizzy spells which were so severe I could hardly stand. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me in every way and I was soon cured of kidney complaint."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Heath had. Foster-Milburn Co., Proprietors, Buffalo, N. Y.

"PEG O' MY HEART."

The Great American Comedy of Charm. Given at the Lyceum Festival.

On the first day of the Lyceum Festival Miss Mary Agnes Doyle will present "Peg o' My Heart." Miss Doyle has had great success upon the stage and in the portrayals of character. She has always been heartily welcomed. Her voice is pleasing and Irish brogue delightful. Her facial expression is especially suited to this character, as she possesses an unusually attractive smile. Miss Doyle's talent for her work is shown particularly in the changing of her expression, voice and manner when she turns from the cold, exacting, supercilious Englishwoman; the weak, "big headed," mercenary young Englishman; the indifferent cynical daughter, Ethel; the true gentleman, Jerry, and then back to Peg, the dear little Irish girl.

The play "Peg o' My Heart" is well known. The author, J. Hartley Manners, knew well the desire of an American audience. The play is undoubtedly the triumph of the decade. It is sweetness and cleanliness that have enhanced its wonderful popularity. It is a comedy of charm. The story deals with Peg, the daughter of an improvident but lovable Irishman, and an aristocratic Englishwoman, on whom her relatives turned their backs when she set out for America with the husband of her choice. By the will of one of Peg's uncles, who repented on his deathbed his unkindness toward his sister, the little Irish maiden is brought to England to be properly reared at the expense of his estate. Peg is received into the family of an aunt, not from love, but for the sake of the money that her care and instruction would bring. Her treatment is hardly that of a favorite relative. She finds little to make life pleasant. They dislike her, but Peg holds her own with jaunty pride, and in the end, by her generosity and big heartedness, she wins her fortune and, what's more, a very gallant lover. Her experience as portrayed sets forth vividly the contrast between her rather uncomely manner and the stilted and conventional ways of the English household.

Seldom does one have an opportunity of hearing so fascinating an impersonation of such a delightful play. The great appreciation for the play is shown by the fact that it has the phenomenal record of having been given 604 consecutive times in New York.

After 14 Months of War

Germany occupies a little over 8,000 square miles, or about 4 per cent. of French territory. The French hold about 300 square miles of German territory, in Alsace-Lorraine. Germany holds all of Belgium except about 300 square miles at the western corner. Germany has captured Russian territory, including Poland, to the extent of over 50,000 square miles, or more than the area of New York State.

Russia holds now no German territory, but has a small tract of Austrian land at the east end of Galicia. Italy has captured and holds small portions of Austrian Tyrol. The Allies are occupying a part of the Gallipoli peninsula, in European Turkey.

The entire "western front" is estimated by the Paris "Matin" at 591 miles of which 543 were held by the French, 31 by the British and 17 by what is left of the Belgians.

To Keep Your Dog Well. Linseed oil once a week is a great help to keeping a dog in good condition. For a grown dog use one teaspoonful; for a puppy one-half.

A Wonderful Antiseptic

Germs and infection aggravate ailments and retard healing. Stop that infection at once. Kill the germs and get rid of the poisons. For this purpose a single application of Sloan's Liniment not only kills the pain but destroys the germs. This neutralizes infection and gives nature assistance by overcoming congestion and gives a chance for the free and normal flow of the blood. Sloan's Liniment is an emergency doctor and should be kept constantly on hand. 25c., 50c. The $1.00 size contains six times as much as the 25c.

That sluggish liver with its sluggish flow of bile is what makes the world look so dark at times. Dr. King's New Life Pills go straight to the root of the difficulty by waking up the action of the liver and increasing the bile. Dr. King's New Life Pills cause the bowels to act more freely and drive away those "moody days." 25c. a bottle.

Difficult Dentistry. Pulling a lion's tooth is not easy. Ordinarily the beast is tied to the floor of his cage. Then a board is removed from directly under his head. Through this the doctor reaches up with huge forceps and performs the operation.—New York Telegram.

Wheat Crop Over Billion Bushels. American harvests this year will be the most valuable ever produced. With the wheat crop exceeding a billion bushels, the largest ever produced in one season by any nation, and a corn crop which also may prove to be the largest ever grown, the government's October crop report, announced preliminary estimates which indicate record harvests of oats, barley, rye, sweet potatoes, rice, tobacco and hay.

Corn is still king of crops, with indications of 3,026,153,000 bushels. While this is 98,000,000 bushels below the record of 1912, the final production, when the harvest is finished and all statistics compiled, may more than make up the difference. The higher prices this year assure the most valuable corn crop ever grown. At prices to farmers October 1, the corn crop is worth $2,138,000,000.

The Red Squirrel. When the red squirrel begins tapping maple trees for the sap the animal makes an incision in the bark and waits until the sap has trickled a short distance down the trunk of the tree. He then begins at the bottom of the stream and licks up until he has reached the source of the flow, when he again waits and repeats the performance until satisfied.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF PRINCESS ANNE AND SOMERSET COUNTY

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT WESTOVER

Handy Collier and Harrison Miles Wounded By George Maddox

After twelve o'clock last Friday night an altercation took place among some colored people who boarded with Jane Wilson at Westover, Somerset county, and in the melee that followed Handy Collier and Harrison Miles were shot by George Maddox, who got a revolver from his chum, Ralph Gordy.

Collier and Miles were in the employ of Mr. Foster Matthews, who was notified of the shooting and went to the Wilson house and brought the wounded men in his automobile to Princess Anne early Saturday morning, where they received medical attention from Dr. Chas. T. Fisher. It was found that Collier was shot through the body, the ball entering above the collar bone and coming out near the shoulder. Miles received a flesh wound in the neck. Neither of the wounds was pronounced serious, although complications may arise in Collier's case from blood poisoning.

It was supposed that Maddox and Gordy had taken the early morning train north and telegrams were sent out describing the two men. They were identified on the train that leaves Princess Anne at 7.02 in the morning at Laurel, Del., and held there and the authorities at this place notified.

Deputy Sheriff Pusey and Robert S. Jones left about 9 o'clock for Laurel and returned with the prisoners Saturday afternoon to Princess Anne where they were lodged in jail. Witnesses were summoned from Westover and a hearing was held yesterday (Monday) before Justice Charles R. Porter, when Maddox and Gordy were held for the action of the grand jury.

Fire Destroys Colonial Mansion

After we had gone to press Monday of last week word was received that "Hollyhurst," the old colonial house, which has been occupied by Colonel E. Staunton Field for the past ten years, was destroyed by fire. The fire originated in the attic above the kitchen, and when discovered the flames were breaking through the roof. The loss, which was covered by insurance, amounts to $2,500. The property is situated on the Manokin river, about six miles from Princess Anne, and is now owned by the brothers of Colonel Field, Messrs. George W. and Frank T. Field, of Philadelphia.

The dwelling was a brick and frame structure, the main portions of brick, having been built 140 years ago. In Colonial days this property was owned by Henry A. White, who married a daughter of Bishop Stone, of the Maryland diocese. After the death of Mr. White the estate was occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Samuel S. Sudler, who now resides on Beckford avenue, Princess Anne. During the period before and immediately following the Civil War "Hollyhurst" was the scene of many social events. Later the place was known as Helena Park, and for a number of years the annual outings of the churches and fraternal orders in this section were held there. It also was the scene of many social functions, such as dances and boating parties.

Democrats Gain By Registration

A complete tabulation of the figures in the recent registration in Somerset county shows that there were 968 new names added during the two days of registration, of which 735 were white and 233 were colored, and that 227 names were erased, of which 181 were white and 46 were colored.

Of this total of 968 names added the affiliation shows that 470 were Democrats and 418 were Republicans. Of the 227 erased 115 were Democrats and 108 were Republicans. Eighty-two new voters declined to affiliate and there were 4 declined voters erased. On the face of this the registration shows a net gain of 47 for the Democrats in the recent registration.

Deal's Island district, No. 14, showed the largest Democratic gain. In that district there were 46 Democrats, 18 Republicans and 2 declined voters added.

First New Corn 56 Cents a Bushel

The first lot of new Southern corn of this year's growth was shown on the floor of the Chamber of Commerce, Baltimore, last Wednesday by Frame, Knight & Co. Its arrival is considered rather early for new corn. While the sample had a well-developed berry, the corn was in a damp condition. It was bought by T. M. Dinamore & Co. at 56 cents a bushel on the wharf. The corn came from Talbot county.

Last year the first new Southern corn reached the Baltimore market on October 25. This shipment was in excellent dry condition and sold at 78 cents a bushel.

GRANO MUST GO TO THE GALLIES

He Murdered Mr. and Mrs. Levin Robinson and Alonzo Redden

Only 45 minutes were consumed in the trial, conviction and sentencing of the Italian, Carmine Stumpo, alias Frank Grano, for the murder of Mr. and Mrs. Levin Robinson and Alonzo Redden, September 6th, near Snow Hill. Grano was tried under the indictment for the killing of Redden before Judges Stanford and Jones in the Circuit Court for Worcester county on Monday of last week. He was brought from Baltimore jail on Sunday. There was no disturbance.

Leroy Smith was appointed to defend Grano, but the Italian objected to the appointment and told the court he needed no lawyer. Mr. Smith was instructed to examine the witnesses. The State's case consumed but 20 minutes, four witnesses being examined.

William Johnson, an aged man, whom the Robinsons had befriended and given a home, was the first to go on the stand. He was an eye witness to the killing of Mrs. Robinson, and tried to warn Redden of the intention of Grano. He told a coherent story of the shooting. During the examination of Johnson the Italian did not understand the proceedings, and asked an explanation of Jailer Richardson.

Charles Holland, a negro lad, who was at work in the field with Redden, told how Grano approached his victim and the conversation between the two. Otho Wilson told of the capture of the murderer, and Dr. Paul Jones described the wounds that caused the death of Redden.

Grano, placed upon the stand, was asked to tell of the killing. He protested that he did not call Mr. Johnson a vile name and that he believed he was justified in doing the deed he had done and said he was ready to die. After his testimony Grano was declared guilty of murder in the first degree by the court and the death sentence was read to him. The only sign of emotion he showed during the trial was the nervous twisting of his handkerchief.

Death of Mrs. Arthur G. Woolford

Mrs. Nannie Polk Woolford, widow of the late Arthur G. Woolford, of this county, died after a very short illness at her home in Ridley Park, Pa., on last Thursday morning at 10.30 o'clock. Her son and daughter, Arthur Woolford and Mrs. Albert E. Goodrich, were the only children able to reach her before the final parting.

Mrs. Woolford was the last living member of the family of the late Joseph G. Woolford and Imogene G. Polk, and was 67 years of age. For the past twenty years she has been associated with Miss Alice Haines in conducting, first an orphanage for girls in Baltimore, and then a boarding school for girls at Ridley Park, where she died.

Those who knew her, knew her as a Christian woman of great fortitude and patience; a woman filled with love for mankind and bearing her share of the sorrows and misfortunes of this world always with a smile on her face and a trust in her God which was never shaken. Her remains were accompanied to Princess Anne by her friend, Miss Alice Haines, her minister, the Rev. S. T. Linton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Woolford, Mr. and Mrs. Levin Woolford, Mr. Samuel Woolford, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Goodrich, Mrs. Mary W. Polk and Mrs. Mamie W. Prickett, where they were joined by other members of the family.

The interment was on Friday at 2 o'clock p. m. in the cemetery of the Manokin Presbyterian Church, between the graves of her husband and a son, Joseph, who died in early childhood. The Rev. S. T. Linton conducted the service in the absence of Mr. Freund. The pallbearers were Messrs. H. F. Lankford, W. O. Lankford, E. O. Smith, R. F. Maddox, R. W. Adams and Dr. C. W. Wainwright.

She is survived by four children, Mr. Arthur Woolford, cashier of the Bank of Suffolk, Va.; Levin Woolford, of Sunbury, North Carolina; Mrs. Albert E. Goodrich, of Crisfield, this county, and Samuel Woolford, of Lenox, Va.

Bankers To Meet in Salisbury

The Associated Banks of Wicomico, Somerset and Worcester counties will hold the Fall meeting in Salisbury tomorrow (Wednesday), October 27th. Arrangements have been made to have an especially interesting program for the occasion. Some noted financiers will be present to make addresses before the meetings. A banquet will be served at the Peninsula Hotel in the evening, at which some interesting after-dinner speeches will be made by the various members and visiting guests. These meetings are of great value to the various banks that are members of the Association.

UNITED STATES HAS BEEN BLESSED

The President Designates November 25th As Thanksgiving Day

President Wilson last Thursday in a proclamation designating Thursday, November 25th as Thanksgiving Day, called attention to the fact that the United States has been at peace while most of Europe has been at war. His proclamation follows:

"It has long been the honored custom of our people to turn in the fruitful autumn of the year in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for its many blessings and mercies to us as a nation. The year that is now drawing to a close since we last observed our day of national thanksgiving has been, while a year of discipline because of the mighty forces of war and of changes which have disturbed the world, also a year of special blessing for us.

"Another year of peace has been vouchsafed us; another year in which not only to take thought of our duty to ourselves and to mankind, but also to adjust ourselves to the many responsibilities thrust upon us by a war which has involved almost the whole of Europe. We have been able to assert our rights and the rights of mankind without breach of friendship with the great nations with whom we have had to deal, and while we have asserted rights, we have also been able to perform duties and exercise privileges of succor and helpfulness which should serve to demonstrate our desire to make the offices of friendship the means of truly distinguished and unselfish service.

"Our ability to serve all who could avail themselves of our services in the midst of crises has been increased, by a gracious Providence, by more and more abundant crops; our ample financial resources have enabled us to study the markets of the world and facilitate necessary movements of commerce which the war might otherwise have rendered impossible, and our people have come more and more to a sober realization of the part they have been called upon to play in a time when all the world is shaken by unparalleled distresses and disasters. The extraordinary circumstances of such a time has done much to quicken our national consciousness and deepen and conform our confidence in the principles of peace and freedom by which we have always sought to be guided.

"Out of darkness and perplexity have come firmer counsels of politics and clearer perception of the essential welfare of the nation. We have prospered while other peoples were at war, but our prosperity has been vouchsafed us, we believe, only that we might the better perform the functions which war rendered it impossible for them to perform."

Weller Names Commission

Roads Chairman O. E. Weller, Republican candidate for Governor, last Tuesday night announced as the members of the commission he had promised to appoint to prepare a plan for running the machinery of the State government on a basis of efficiency and economy. They are: Edwin G. Baetjer, of Baltimore, lawyer; Jacob Epstein, of Baltimore, merchant; and Benjamin A. Richmond, of Cumberland, a lawyer.

Two members of the commission appointed by the Democratic convention in the event that he is elected Governor. In naming the commission Mr. Weller said:

"I have selected, at present, three members of a commission to pass on the subject of useless offices and extravagances in the State and to propose measures for remedying these conditions and promoting economy and efficiency in government. Those selected are: Edwin G. Baetjer, of Baltimore city; Jacob Epstein, of Baltimore city; and Benjamin A. Richmond, of Cumberland. In addition to the three gentlemen now selected I propose, if I am elected Governor, to select two of the most prominent members of the commission appointed by the Democratic convention. A commission thus constituted will be free to prosecute business reforms, unhampered by politics, will commend itself to the individual members of the Legislature, irrespective of party, and especially to the constituents of these members, and will enable the Governor of the State to urge upon the Legislature in an irresistible manner the measures proposed."

The Bull Tractor Demonstration

On Saturday, October 30th, The Bull Tractor Company, of Minneapolis, Minn., will give a demonstration of their Big Bull Tractor, plowing with a tilling machine fifteen feet deep, on the farm of Mr. H. N. Schofield, situated about five miles from Princess Anne, on the Mount Vernon road. By advertisement on our fourth page this week the Company requests all farmers to attend this demonstration and be convinced of what can be saved by using a tractor instead of horses on the farm.

H. J. Bradshaw Sentenced

Mr. Harold J. Bradshaw, former postmaster at Deals Island, Somerset county, who pleaded guilty to the misuse of postal funds before Judge Rose in the Federal Court, in Baltimore, last Tuesday, was sentenced to one year in jail. According to the indictment on which the former postal official was arraigned, he made out a number of false money orders payable to himself without depositing funds to cover them in the postoffice.

IRL L. HICKS' WEATHER FORECASTS

The Predictions For November Are For Storms, Sleet And Rain

The regular storm period, central on October 30th, will be in progress as we enter November. Falling barometer, growing cloudiness and storms of wind and rain will be passing the central valleys about the 1st to 3rd. The high temperature, with general rain, and possibly electrical storms, will reach a culmination on and next to the 3rd, the date of the Moon's passage over the celestial equator. Meantime, change to rising barometer, cold westerly gales, and autumnal snow squalls will be sweeping eastward from the northwest. Whatever turn the Mars influence may give to storm and weather conditions, will be unmistakably manifest by this time, as the center of the Mars period falls on the 12th.

The first reactionary storm period is central on and touching the 4th and 5th. Under the strain of the Mars influence so near its center, and the conjunction of the Moon with the Earth and Sun on the 7th, there need be no little surprise if stormy and disagreeable weather continues over the period of the new Moon, into the storm period immediately following. In that event, low barometer, warm weather, with November rains, will fill the interim between the reactionary and regular storm periods.

The first regular storm period is central on the 10th, including the 8th to the 13th. The Moon is in perigee on the 8th, near its conjunction with the Earth and Sun, and its greatest declination south on the 9th. The planet Mars is at quadrature with Sun and Earth on the 9th, and the Moon is at first quarter on the 13th. Combining all these disturbing factors, within the compass of this regular storm period, it is perfectly reasonable to anticipate some dangerous atmospheric perturbations.

The second reactionary storm period is central on the 15th, 16th and 17th. The Moon reaches the celestial equator on the 15th, coming northward from its south declination. A sudden and very marked change to warmer, with falling barometer, cloudiness, rain, wind and thunder storms will center about the 16th—before that date in western, and after that date in eastern sections. Another change to rising barometer and much cooler weather will bring up the rear of these storms from the west and north, spreading progressively eastward and southward over most parts of the country by the 19th to 20th.

The second regular storm period is central on the 22nd, involving the 19th to 26th. The Moon will be in opposition to Earth and Sun on the 21st, at extreme north declination and in apogee on the 23rd. The Mars disturbance is at maximum, and a Mercury disturbance blends with the regular Vulcan period. By the 20th to 21st, well defined storm conditions will develop in western sections.

The third reactionary storm period is central on the 27th, 28th and 29th. This period is at the culmination of the Mercury disturbance, the Moon is at last quarter on the 29th, and on the celestial equator on the 30th. The Mercury influence will continue into the opening days of December, and cloudy, threatening weather will, as a natural consequence, be prolonged. On and touching the 30th, the temperature will probably make a sudden and decided rise, as the Moon passes over the equator on that day. Rains will turn to heavy sleet in many localities as we pass into December.

Tabernacle For Billy Sunday

Under a suspension of the rules both branches of the City Council of Baltimore passed an ordinance Monday night of last week providing for the erection of a Billy Sunday tabernacle on the site of the old Oriole Park, on the York Road.

The authority to erect the tabernacle is given to the Baltimore Evangelistic Association, Inc. It is to be a frame structure, having a width east and west of 215 feet and length north and south of 302 feet and a height to the main roof of 28 feet. A cupola 8 feet high will be erected on the roof. The measure also provides for the erection of a frame annex not more than 50 feet wide, 100 feet long and 20 feet high. The buildings are to be removed within 60 days after the termination of the services.

Bishop Adams Coming

The Rt. Rev. William Forbes Adams will visit Grace Church, Mt. Vernon, and St. Andrew's, Princess Anne, Sunday, November 7th. He will be at Grace Church at 10.30 a. m. and at St. Andrew's at 7.30 in the evening. Classes for confirmation are being prepared in both parishes.

Some people aim so high they never hit anything.

MARYLAND AS A GOOD ROADS STATE

Expert Calculation Shows That Concrete Roads Cost Less

That the State of Maryland is to be congratulated on the excellent administration of the highway department is shown by the official records. For example, no state can boast of a better system of maintenance than the one now in vogue in Maryland. It has not only resulted in better roads, but roads maintained at minimum cost. While the construction of macadam roads is no longer an economic proposition, it was necessary to build many miles of this type of highway, and the taxpayer has the satisfaction of knowing that every dollar was honestly spent. It is questionable whether any other state can show lower figures on maintenance for all types of roads.

Concerning the matter of maintenance, it may be said that no act of the highway department is of more importance than the adoption of concrete roads as a part of the system of state highways. Maryland has approximately 180 miles of these indestructible highways. They have been built in the counties of Garrett, Allegany, Washington, Carroll, Prince George, Anne Arundel, Charles, St. Mary, Baltimore, Cecil, Kent, Queen Anne, Talbot, Caroline, Dorchester, Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset. The first of these roads was constructed in Cecil county in 1912. The total outlay for maintenance on the entire 180 miles has been approximately $15,000. The department says that this $15,000 expended for maintenance covers the entire period since the construction of the roads began and that it represents an average outlay of only $100 per mile per year. Furthermore, the amount paid for maintenance included not only the care of the road surface proper, but shoulders, ditches and embankments.

That the original or construction cost of concrete roads is reasonable is shown by a comparison with the cost of macadam roads. The average cost of the concrete roads was $14,000 per mile and the department states that this is only $1,500 in excess of the cost of macadam roads. But there is a marked difference in the matter of maintenance. While average maintenance, as stated, has been only $100 per mile per year for concrete, it has involved an outlay of $450 per mile per year for macadam.

Taking the actual figures of the Department as to macadam roads, they have cost a little over $12,000 per mile to construct and $450 per mile per year to maintain. The latter figure represents interest at 5 per cent. on $9,000, and adding to this the original or construction cost of the macadam roads we have an investment of $21,000 per mile for this type.

Applying exactly the same test to concrete there is the original cost of investment of $14,000 per mile. The $100 for annual maintenance per mile per year represents interest at 5 per cent. on $2,000, and adding this to the construction cost of the concrete road the latter represents a total investment of $16,000.

This difference of $5,000 in favor of concrete roads from the investment standpoint is tremendously important. It becomes doubly significant when it is stated that concrete roads are so durable as to make maintenance an almost negligible factor, while in the case of macadam the rapid deterioration of the roads is accompanied by a corresponding increase for maintenance.

The statement that macadam has cost $1,500 per mile in excess of concrete represents average figures, and it is therefore interesting to note that in some cases the Department has received lower bids for concrete than for macadam, while this year the bids have been running about even.

Stores Robbed; Thief In Jail

Thieves broke into the stores of F. D. Layfield, Henry Flurer and Leary & Walker, in Princess Anne, last Friday night. Mr. Layfield says he has missed nothing from his store. Quite a number of articles were taken from the other two establishments, including small sums of money, cigars, two revolvers and some shells. This is the second series of robberies that has occurred lately.

Mingo Miles, a young colored man, about 25 years old, was suspected of having taken part in the robberies. Upon investigation some of the stolen goods were found in his possession. He was arrested on Saturday and after a hearing before Justice Porter, he was held for the action of the grand jury.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Effie Dopping Adamson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Adamson, of Virginia, to Dr. John Thomas Ruby, of Oriole, Md., which was solemnized on last Wednesday, October 20th.

CIRCUIT COURT AGAIN IN SESSION

Forty-One Oyster Lot Condemnation Cases To Be Tried

The Circuit Court for Somerset County reconvened yesterday (Monday) morning with Judge Henry L. D. Stanford on the bench, to settle the trouble with the oystermen and the owners of the leased oyster beds, in which thousands of dollars are involved. The following are the petit jurors who have been summoned to attend:

Harry E. Froelick, Samuel E. Pope, Johnson S. Evans, Robert H. Harris, Finley S. Sudler, George P. Lewis, John H. Horner, Clarence V. Landon, Samuel F. Shores, T. Paul Conlbourne, John T. Somers, H. Jackson Huffington, Jas. H. Adams, Wesley Austin, Joseph William Barkley, Joseph L. Brown, Fred N. Holland, Wm. T. Cullen, M. B. Thawley, S. Mack Paxton, Zachariah Windsor, Daniel J. Ballard, John F. Adams, J. Morris Tawes.

Some weeks ago State's Attorney Gordon Tull decided to call upon Attorney General Poe for some assistance in handling the 41 oyster lot condemnation cases now on trial. Mr. Tull claims that as judgments for many thousands of dollars may go up against the State of Maryland to pay for the leases and the oysters upon the leased areas, and with the good faith and credit of the State at stake when the next Legislature meets to make appropriations for the indebtedness of the State thus incurred, he did not feel like taking the entire responsibility of the trial of the cases.

Attorney-General Poe, in replying to State's Attorney Tull's several inquiries, advised him as follows:

It is obligatory upon the State's Attorney, under Section 96-C of Article 72 of the Code, 3 volume, Bagby's Edition, to institute and conduct on behalf of the State of Maryland, the condemnation proceedings referred to in said section.

It does not seem to me that there should be any difficulty in securing witnesses. All those who have knowledge of the facts involved should be summoned in the ordinary way, and they would be bound to respect and obey the summons. Should it be necessary for you to secure expert testimony, I am satisfied that you will have no difficulty in arranging with the experts to agree to look to the next Legislature for their compensation. The pay of the jurors should be met in the first instance by the county. The county might apply to the next Legislature for reimbursement.

The legal measure of damages is free from difficulty. The lessees of the areas condemned are entitled to the fair market value of the leases, including the value of the oysters upon the leased areas at the time of the condemnation. This measure of damages will probably prove very difficult of ascertainment, but that, of course, cannot be helped. We must meet the situation as we find it. In justice to the lessees, they should certainly receive complete reimbursement for all their expenditures and outlays, including interest. These expenditures and outlays embrace, of course, the cost of planting oysters and the various fees paid to the State.

It seems to me that it should be possible to settle with the various lessees upon some such basis, and if the various parties show any inclination to accept such awards, I would advise that you confer with the Board of Public Works, and if the Board approves, have inquiries entered up accordingly.

The lessees should remember that they secured their various leases on the theory that the areas taken up by them were barren bottoms. It is hardly fair for them now to ask for compensation based upon a claim that the areas were not in fact barren bottoms at that time, but were natural bars. Such a contention would amount in reality to a fraud upon the law, for you will recall that section 83 of chapter 711 of the Acts of 1906, under which oyster culture began, expressly provided that: "All natural beds and bars shall be excluded from the operation of this sub-title, and no person shall be permitted to plant or cultivate oysters thereupon, or in any way appropriate the same to his own use."

Republican Meeting At Crisfield

One of the largest meetings of the voters of Crisfield greeted O. E. Weller, Republican candidate for Governor; Robert F. Duer, candidate for State Comptroller, and Col. Edward C. Carrington last Wednesday night at the Lyric Theatre. Mr. Weller made one of the best addresses heard from him since the beginning of the campaign; Mr. Duer fired hot shot at the opposing candidates, while Colonel Carrington confined himself to explaining the necessity of a business administration.

Arriving early in the afternoon, Messrs. Weller and Duer met many of the leading lights in the Republican party. Many Democrats and Independents appeared at the meeting. Wade H. Ford presided. On the stage with the speakers were ex-Senator L. E. P. Dennis, Clerk of the Court W. Jerome Starling, H. H. Matthews, J. Edward Pruitt, candidate for Sheriff, and L. C. Nelson, candidate for the House of Delegates.

BIG CONVENTION OF STATE LAYMEN

All Churches Interested in National Missionary Movement.

Great interest is being manifested in the Laymen's Missionary convention to be held in Baltimore November 4 to 7. Eighty similar conventions will be held in leading cities of the United States between October 7, 1915, and April 26, 1916. All Maryland laymen are invited to register as delegates. This movement is interdenominational.

No more favorable opportunity could be offered the church men of Maryland to hear speakers of national reputation discuss topics of vital interest in connection with the great campaign for the evangelization of the world.

Every churchman should register as a delegate. In order to secure the largest possible registration, committees are being formed in all the protestant churches of the state whose duty it will be to enroll the men of their congregations. There is no limit upon the representation of any church. The registration fee is only $1.00 and every man who has an interest in the spread of the Gospel should enlist now. Mr. Carl M. Distler, 1312 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, is chairman of the registration committee. In those churches where registration committees have not been named, there is an opportunity for the laymen to get busy on their own initiative, enroll all the men possible and send in the names with the fees. Registration fees will be used to defray convention expenses and for follow-up work after the convention.

During the Baltimore convention the speakers will be practical men who will discuss practical subjects in a practical way. "What Must America Do Under the New World Conditions?" "Recent War Experiences in Turkey," "The Adequacy of the Gospel to Meet Modern Industrial and Social Conditions," "The War and Missions," "Where to Begin in Making the Church More Aggressive and Productive," "Religion in Business and Business in Religion" and "The Sort of Christianity Needed to Conquer the World," are some of the very practical topics which will be discussed.

It is estimated that fifty per cent. of American church members are inactive, either in definite forms of service or as regular contributors to current expenses and benevolences. Of the remaining fifty per cent., many probably need fresh inspiration and a widened vision. In order that all may be enlisted, every active churchman is urged to participate in this interdenominational movement and invite other men to do likewise.

Similar missionary conventions will be held in all parts of the United States during the season of 1915-1916. The campaign is being organized by the Laymen's Missionary Movement with the co-operation of the missionary agencies of the different communions. The culminating feature will be a National Missionary Congress in Washington, D. C., April 26th to 30th, 1916.

WORLD WIDE THEMES

American's Duty Under the Present Day Conditions to be Considered. Topics of world wide importance; subjects which concern every Christian American citizen; practical themes, every one of them, will be discussed by men of national reputation during the Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, in Baltimore, November 4 to 7. Some of the following subjects will be discussed:

What Must America Do Under the New World Conditions?

The Sort of Christianity Needed to Conquer the World.

The Call of God to the Church of Today.

The Disintegration of Mohammedanism.

The Two Americas.

The Adequacy of the Gospel to Meet Modern Industrial and Social Conditions.

The War and Missions.

Where to Begin in Making the Church More Aggressive and Productive.

Religion in Business and Business in Religion.

Essential Conditions of Evangelizing the World.

How to Reach the Unchurched in This Territory.

Saving America for the Sake of Humanity.

What Would It mean if Laymen Generally Were "Good Soldiers of Jesus Christ?"

Every Protestant church in Maryland is invited to send as many accredited delegates as possible. An attendance of least 3000 laymen is hoped for. There should be 6000 present.

REQUEST FOR PRAYER

Intercession for Baltimore Laymen's Missionary Movement Convention.

The following request has been issued by the committee on prayer for the coming Laymen's Missionary convention to be held in Baltimore, November 4 to 7.

"We would be reminded that the Maryland convention of the National Missionary Movement, to be held in Baltimore November 4, 5, 6, 7, will be an occasion of quickening and power only as Christ shall be felt in its fellowship and conduct. Let us acknowledge his Lordship in our preparations and confidently look for the manifestation of it in all sessions of the convention.

"To this end let us covenant to bear the convention in mind in our daily devotions and make it a prominent object of intercession in our mid-week and Sabbath services."

These subjects for prayer have been suggested:

For the Whole Undertaking.

For the Convention Cities.

For the Delegates.

For the Speakers.

For the Churches.

For the Spread of the Spirit of Prayer.

Those who are at the head of this great interdenominational movement feel that the opportunities and also the difficulties of so great an undertaking constitute an unusual challenge to faith and prayer. More important than all other means of preparation is the enlistment of a large number of intercessors, who with unclouded vision of Christ, unshakable faith in God and unwearied persistence, will unite in prayer that the campaign may help to inspire America to fulfill her mission of service to mankind.

3000 DELEGATES EXPECTED

Prompt Registration for Laymen's Missionary Convention.

The Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held in Baltimore, November 4 to 7.

The meetings will be for men. Every Protestant church in Maryland is invited to send representatives. Church officials, Sunday school superintendents, men's Bible classes, young men's societies, men's missionary committees and kindred organizations should be represented.

To meet convention expenses there will be a registration fee of one dollar required from each delegate. These fees will meet the expenses of the convention without great expense to a few men or the churches. It is hoped there will be an enrollment of 3000 delegates.

If the enrollment fees more than meet the convention expenses, the surplus will be used in the conservation and extension of the interest created by the convention.

Prompt Registration Urged

Ministers and laymen are urged by the convention committee to fill out their application blanks at once and send them in through a member of the enrollment committee in their church, or mail them properly filled out, with registration fee accompanying, to Mr. Carl M. Distler, chairman of registration committee, Room 1312 Fidelity building, Baltimore.

On receipt of applicant's application with proper fee, credentials will be mailed from headquarters (or delivered by a member of enrollment committee).

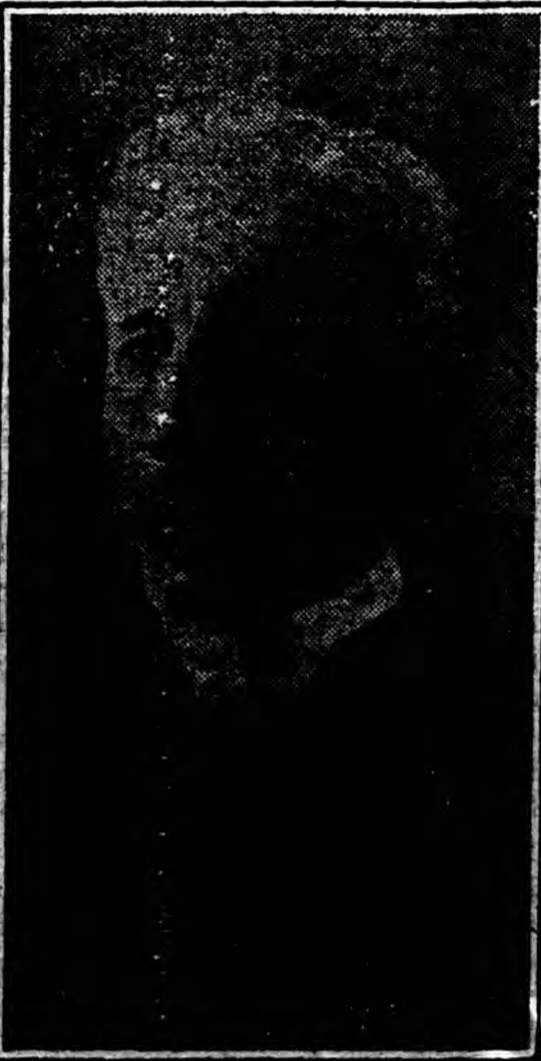

Only registered delegates will be admitted to the convention, and as such they will be extended the privileges of the convention.

WORLDWIDEWORK FOR MISSIONS

Birth and Growth of Laymen's Movement.

The Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held at the Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church, Baltimore, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 4, 5, 6 and 7, 1915. Every layman in Maryland is invited as a delegate, irrespective of denomination.

This movement was organized in New York city November 15, 1906. Resolutions were adopted providing for a committee of laymen to consult with the secretaries of the various foreign missionary boards concerning a campaign among laymen to interest them in missions; to devise a plan for the evangelization of the world in this generation; to send a commission of laymen to the mission fields and report their findings to the church at home. These proposals were endorsed by the conference of foreign mission boards of the United States and Canada.

REV. JAMES McNAUGHTON

Convention Campaign

The plan of the movement is to co-operate in the enlargement of the missionary work carried on by the various churches through their regular agencies.

In 1908-09 a national missionary campaign was conducted in Canada. In 1909, a Canadian missionary congress, attended by over 4000 commissioners, representing all Protestant churches, was held in Toronto.

This congress adopted a national missionary policy, the first of its kind adopted by the representatives of all the churches of a nation. It has been ratified by all church courts in Canada.

A similar national missionary campaign was conducted in the United States in 1909-10, including conventions in seventy-five cities. These conventions were attended by 75,000 delegates. The culminating feature was a national missionary congress at Chicago, May 3 to 6, 1910, attended by over 4000 delegates.

TO ENTERTAIN DELEGATES

Provision for Those Attending Laymen's Convention in Baltimore.

Provision will be made for the entertainment of delegates attending the Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Baltimore November 4 to 7.

Every church is entitled to as many registered delegates as possible. The church that enrolls the largest number will receive the largest blessing. The more men who become awakened through the challenge the convention shall issue, the more men there should be in Maryland to undertake a world task.

Out-of-town delegates desiring entertainment in private homes must be regular accredited delegates from their churches and should notify the entertainment committee regarding entertainment not later than October 30, if they wish entertainment provided.

The entertainment committee will endeavor to find either free entertainment for out-of-town delegates or accommodations at hotels or boarding houses at reasonable rates.

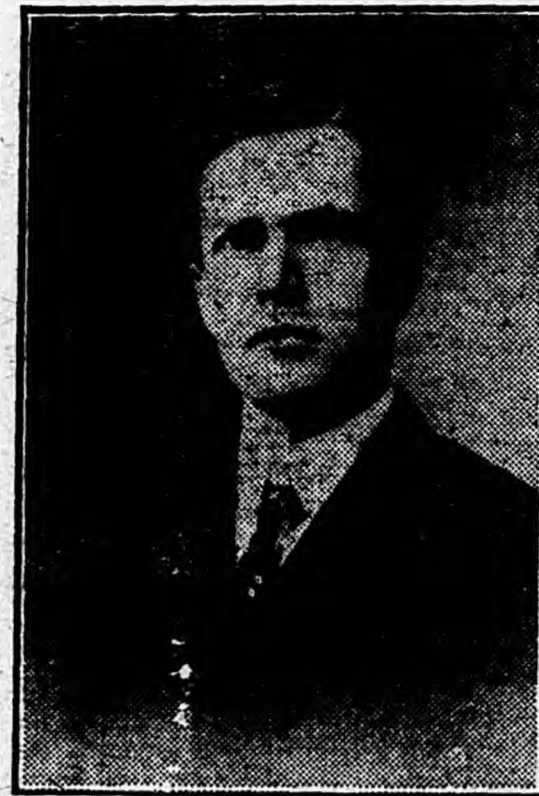

Entertainment Committee

The entertainment committee will not be responsible for providing entertainment without ample notice before October 31.

DAVID H. BROWN.

JOHN R. MOTT

John R. Mott, who addressed enormous crowds in many heathen lands, and is one of the most eloquent of missionary leaders, has just informed the committee in charge of the Laymen's missionary Movement convention that he will speak here on November 7. This is the last day of the convention, which extends from November 4 to 7. The convention will be held at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church, owing to the limited capacity of the hall admission to hear Mr. Mott will be limited to delegates who register in order of registrations received.

Men of national reputation will discuss world wide topics of great importance during the Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement which will be held at the Mt. Vernon Place M. E. church, Baltimore, November 4 to 7. Here are some of the convention speakers already announced:

She Will Recover

So her doctor said. Her friends and neighbors felt sure of it too. They have used Peruna themselves and know of its merits. That old cough that had worried her for years and years, for which she had taken all sorts of cough medicines, has disappeared. Peruna is doing the work. She will recover. Indeed, she has recovered.

Her name is Mrs. William Hohmann, 2764 Lincoln Ave., Chicago, Ills. She had suffered with catarrh of the bronchial tubes and had a terrible cough ever since a child. As she got older she grew worse. She coughed both winter and summer. Had to sit up at night. Could not sleep. "But all that has left me now. Peruna has cured me."

There are others, and there is a reason.

THE TONKA BEAN.

From It We Get the Perfume Known as New Mown Hay.

Grass, freshly cut or otherwise, has had nothing to do with the production of the perfume labeled "New Mown Hay." The source of the essence is really the tonka bean, found in the tropical countries of South America, chiefly in the valleys of the Orinoco, Cauca and Cuchivero rivers in Venezuela and certain sections of Colombia and Brazil.

The tonka bean tree in some cases reaches a height of sixty feet. It has pinnate leaves and large panicles of flowers, which are succeeded by a pod containing a single seed. The odor, which is remarkably strong, resembles that of sweet clover new mown hay and is due to the presence of cumarin, a crystallizable, volatile, neutral substance which is soluble in alcohol or ether and somewhat so in boiling water, from which it crystallizes on cooling. The beans are often frosted with crystals of this substance, giving them the appearance of being sugar coated. The collectors in Venezuela and Colombia usually set out for the forests in February, when the fruit begins to ripen. They go up the rivers in canoes or skiffs by the hundreds, stopping wherever the trees are plentiful, and when the fruit begins to fall the pods are gathered and taken to some open space where sunshine is plentiful and there carefully crushed and the beans extracted and then spread out to dry. When thoroughly dried they are loaded into the boats and transported to Ciudad Bolivar or some other convenient port, where they are sold to the exporting merchants. Here they go through the process of crystallization by being steeped in strong rum or alcohol for about twenty-four hours, and then again dried.

They lend their fragrance to high grade tobacco, fine toilet soaps, to "brilliantine" and other hair dressings and dyes, to cosmetics, to flavoring extracts used in confections and to many other things that gratify the sense of smell.—Argonaut.

Fortifications of New York Harbor.
The narrow approaches to the harbor of New York have made the fortification of it a simpler matter than usual. On Sandy Hook is Fort Hancock, with an artillery garrison; on the Narrows, Fort Wadsworth, artillery garrison; on the Staten Island side, Fort Tompkins; across the Narrows, Fort Hamilton. The older Fort Lafayette, between Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth, is now used as a storehouse. On Governors Island are Fort Jay, infantry, important barracks and the New York arsenal of the ordnance department. Castle Williams is now a military prison. Fort Totten, artillery post, is on Willet's Point, and directly across from this battery is Fort Schuyler. On Sandy Hook is the proving ground of the ordnance department. A signal corps is stationed at Fort Wood, Bedloe's Island.—New York Times.

Unusual Case.

FINE PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION

High Class Speakers at Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Program Will Be of the Very Highest Quality and Power, Giving Convention Character of a National Meeting, Which Men Would Cross a Continent to Attend.

DR. E. M. POTEAT

The program of the Laymen's Missionary Movement convention to be held in Baltimore November 4 to 7, 1915, will be of the very highest quality and power, giving the convention the character of a national meeting which men would cross a continent to attend; now by this fine co-operation in team work brought to the very doors of the men of the city and vicinity.

The personnel of the speakers is such as to guarantee the highest excellence. These are men not only eloquent in speech and full of magnetism but each with a personality and practical experience that make his utterance of the greatest possible value. The following are some of the speakers who will be present:

The Rt. Rev. Lucien L. Kingsolving, D.D., University of Pennsylvania, is one of the ten missionary bishops abroad, of the Protestant Episcopal church. He is their only missionary bishop in South America. His diocese is South Brazil. Under him are nineteen clergy, nine churches, thirty-five stations and 1258 communions. He will bring a timely message from Latin-America contrasting religious conditions in the two Americas.

Halford to Address Convention
Colonel Elijah W. Halford, secretary to President Harrison from 1889-1893, knows missions from a close personal observation in the Philippines where he resided as paymaster of the United States army from 1901-1903. He has been prominently identified with the development of the International Laymen's Missionary Movement in this country. He is now its vice chairman.

Mr. Charles G. Trumbull is editor of the Sunday School Times, one of the most widely circulated religious papers of the day. The recital of his recent wonderful experience in the Christian life has profoundly impressed and helped a multitude of people. He has been on the Northfield program. He will speak of "The Victorious Christian Life."

Mr. W. G. A. Miller, the purchasing agent of the American Bridge company, Pittsburgh, will give his Sunday to the campaign. He tells a most arresting story of how a purchasing agent can handle gospel goods successfully.

Rev. James McNaughton, of Turkey, will give some thrilling tales of recent events in the Near-East. He speaks out of a life-long experience in the Turkish empire.

Mr. Fred B. Smith, of the H. W. Johns-Manville company, was for more than twenty years at the head of the International Religious Work department of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is the most powerful speaker to men of the present day. He will bring an impressive message from his recent tour around the world on a religious mission.

Mr. J. Campbell White, one of the two general secretaries of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, was for ten years secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Calcutta, India. Since the origin of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in 1906 he has led the most remarkable missionary development of modern times. He will preside at the Baltimore convention and ten others in the national campaign. Mr. White has recently become president of the University of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. Fred B. Fisher, general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, will be associated with Mr. White in the leadership of the Baltimore convention team.

PURPOSES OF A GREAT MOVEMENT

Laymen's Missionary Campaign Has World Wide End.

To consider new world conditions and America's enlarged responsibility.

To study the missionary progress of recent years.

To project plans looking toward the accomplishment of our whole missionary duty.

To increase the spiritual power and efficiency of the local church.

These are the objects of the great interdenominational campaign being conducted under the auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The Maryland convention will be held at the Mt. Vernon Place M. E. church, Baltimore, November 4 to 7, 1915.

Many denominations in the United States and Canada have organized committees to promote the spirit and methods of the general movement in their own communions. Twenty secretaries are employed to give their whole time to supervision and extension work.

RT. REV. L. L. KINGSOLVING

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has no membership and no organization, apart from committees. There is a general committee of 100 laymen, which meets annually, giving general direction; an executive committee of twenty-five members, which meets monthly in New York city, and eight division committees are being developed in the United States. In each city, community or county where work is undertaken a co-operating committee is organized.

The Last Five Years

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has been hewing along the lines of the national missionary policy adopted at the Chicago congress in 1910. In 1913 the movement took in all the missionary forces, both home and foreign and promoted during the last two years under the name of the United Missionary campaign over 925 conferences and conventions in as many places in an effort to reach with the message and the method of the movement every center of over 5000 people in the United States and Canada.

The foreign mission offerings of the Protestant churches of this country which, in 1906, the year of the organization of this movement, totalled about $8,000,000, last year totalled $17,250,000. About double that increase has been turned into the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home and a larger proportion goes to the work of local churches. This is due largely to the adoption of the methods of church finance, introduced by the movement, and to the increasing interest of men in the church's great world work.

World Wide

The movement has reached Great Britain, Australia and several countries of Europe till now its spirit has attained a world-wide reach.

The present world situation, in which great Protestant Christian powers are engaged in strife, places an unprecedented burden upon the Christian forces of this country to promote the world missionary enterprise.

Mr. Weller's offer of a commission of a non-partisan character reminds us of the old Tilden-Hayes commission of 8 to 7, years ago—which was remarkable for the fact that all decisions went in Hayes' favor. That was non-partisan with a vengeance!

The Wilmington Every Evening, in an editorial upon "The Republicans' Hope in Maryland," thinks there is no doubt of Mr. Harrington's election. It goes on to state that if he is not, it will be attributable to treachery on the part of the Lee people. We can not agree with the Wilmington paper. The Lee people are not the class to be untrue to any one. They have gracefully espoused Mr. Harrington's candidacy, and they are ready to stand by him. If any persons fail Mr. Harrington they will be independent voters who took no part in the primaries, but who feel at liberty to vote as they please. It is our opinion that Mr. Harrington deserves every Democratic vote in the State. There will certainly be no difficulty with the Democrats of Somerset county. We agreed to disagree, and disagreed to agree; now we are ready to stand by the primary and its result.

OUR LOCAL TICKET

Our references in former editorials have been in the main directed to the candidates for State offices. So far as they are concerned, we feel that we have done our duty to them and we wish them complete election success.

Our present purpose is to call attention to our county local ticket. This ticket is also the result of the September primary. As we agreed to abide by the result of that primary, we trust that every Democrat in Somerset county will feel a moral obligation to vote for every man on the local ticket, just as we wish success to the State one.

This is no time for changing our tactics or voting for any man but the one regularly nominated. The Republicans are smooth talkers and it will take a man's best nerve to prevent his being talked into voting for some of their candidates. The gentlemen named on the Democratic ticket of Somerset county are all excellent men and they will compare most favorably with those named upon the Republican side.

We have, of course, men from our own town who will ask for Democratic votes for friendship's sake. Election times are no times for friendship talk. There are plenty of men upon the Republican ticket who are good men and we have no word to say against them, except for the company they keep. We are not Republicans in this office and we do not propose to permit friendship to sway us from our line of duty. We urge our Democratic friends to be equally particular. We may be good friends but we can not allow ourselves, as Democrats, to vote for others than Democrats for our State and county offices.

Appeal is therefore to our Democratic friends to be true to their colors. If you wish to be Republicans, well and good; but if you are Democrats, abide by your principles and don't permit any oily talk of Republicans to mislead you. Vote for the Democratic nominees and vote for no others.

Rattling The Old Skeletons

The Republicans in this campaign apparently find it impossible to stick to the issues either in their own or the Democratic platform. Their attitude is a significant confession of the weakness of their cause and the lack of an argument upon which they can ask independent support for the candidates.

Their efforts now are directed almost entirely to delving into the past to unearth sins of omission and commission on the part of the Democrats in former years. No one denies that the Democratic party in Maryland has in the past been guilty of offenses of both sorts. It would, indeed, be marvelous, considering its long tenure of power, had it not failed at times to measure up to public expectation. If the dominant party in any state or any community always has maintained a perfect and unimpeachable record of accomplishment, we have failed to hear of it. The answer to this rattling of dry bones by the Republicans is this—in the present campaign the Democratic promises in the Democratic platform and as put forth by the Democratic candidate are not only more definite and more satisfactory than those in the Republican platform and as put forth by the Republican candidate, but the security offered by the Democrats of a complete redemption thereof is very much stronger and better than that offered by the Republicans. And if this answer is not sufficient, it might be added that the Republicans themselves concede that they will not control the next Legislature and therefore will not be called upon to make good on their promises. The Democrats, however, will have the power to redeem their pledges, and hence they mean something.

In reference to the Republican contention that in the last two Legislatures the Democrats did not completely carry out every detail of their platform, it can be said that they undoubtedly would have given a more satisfactory performance had there been in the Governor's chair a Democrat committed to the same things in the same way as the Legislature, who could have lent his powerful aid in the shape of leadership and gubernatorial influence toward the keeping of every party promise. Instead, the Democratic Legislatures of 1912 and 1914 found in the Executive office a Republican who was indifferent to the Democratic platform and who could not be counted on for aid.

In view of these facts, it is entirely clear that the next Democratic Legislature will find it much easier to carry out the letter as well as the spirit of its present splendid platform, if Mr. Harrington, in complete political sympathy and accord with them, is Governor, than if Mr. Weller, who views the Democrats as adherents of a party not to be trusted and who is in no way in harmony with them, should occupy that office.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Supporting The Choice Of Primaries

Senator Lee's statement of the philosophy underlying the direct primary and the duty laid upon participants in the late primary to support the candidates nominated by it will have great weight. Coming from the defeated candidate it will have more influence than if proposed by some one merely as a matter of academic discussion.

We have heretofore called attention to the disappearance of the organized independent movement in Maryland. When that movement existed it was possible for independent voters to exercise great influence by voting against their party candidates when they felt that circumstances justified it. In that way certain important reforms were obtained in this State.

Such a time may come again. But at the present time any reforms that come about must be the result of party action. The direct primary gives every voter now an opportunity to exert an influence equal to that of any other voter in party affairs. He is not obliged to go out of the party to secure reforms, and if he does go out of the party he diminishes his chances of being useful for good within the party.

This being the case, it is the natural thing for every voter who participated in the primary to support the candidates nominated therein. And in view of the splendid platform adopted by his party and the great opportunity now open to it to serve the people in an extraordinary way, every Democratic voter ought to be not only willing but eager to do this.—Baltimore Sun.

Returning To The Farm

Twenty years ago many young men and women were leaving the farms and hunting their fortunes in the cities and towns. Farming was considered a hired man's job and was looked upon as being more or less discreditable. Today a radical change has taken place. Many modern inventions of farming implements have made agriculture a gentleman's pursuit. The great demand for farm products with fair prices for same has made the art profitable and interesting. And now the pendulum has swung the other way. Young men and women are returning to the farm; they are finding it much better and more profitable on the farm with plenty of work than reading the "ad" column daily for positions. This movement to the farm will add to the production of the world and may reduce the cost of living.

Birth and Growth of Laymen's Movement.

The Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held at the Mt. Vernon Place M. E. Church, Baltimore, Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 4, 5, 6 and 7, 1915. Every layman in Maryland is invited as a delegate, irrespective of denomination.

This movement was organized in New York City November 15, 1906. Resolutions were adopted providing for a committee of laymen to consult with the secretaries of the various foreign missionary boards concerning a campaign among laymen to interest them in missions; to devise a plan for the evangelization of the world in the Mohammedan world; to send a committee of laymen to the mission fields and report their findings to the church at home.

A gifted speaker who will give thrilling tales of recent events in the Mohammedan world before the Baltimore convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

These proposals were endorsed by the conference of foreign mission boards of the United States and Canada.

Convention Campaign.
The plan of the movement is to co-operate in the enlargement of the missionary work carried on by the various churches through their regular agencies.

In 1908-9, a national missionary campaign was conducted in Canada. In 1909 a Canadian missionary congress, attended by over 4000 communicants, representing all Protestant churches, was held in Toronto.

This congress adopted a national missionary policy, the first of its kind adopted by the representatives of all the churches of a nation. It has been ratified by all church courts in Canada.

TO ENTERTAIN DELEGATES

Provision for these attending Laymen's Convention in Baltimore. Provision will be made for the entertainment of delegates attending the Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in Baltimore November 4 to 7.

Every church is entitled to as many registered delegates as possible. The church that enrolls the largest number will receive the largest blessing. The more men who become awakened through the challenge the convention shall issue, the more men there should be in Maryland to undertake a world task.

Out-of-town delegates desiring entertainment in private homes must be registered accredited delegates from their churches and should notify the entertainment committee regarding entertainment not later than October 30. If they wish entertainment provided.

The entertainment committee will endeavor to find either free entertainment for out-of-town delegates or accommodations at hotels or boarding houses at reasonable rates.

Entertainment Committee.
The entertainment committee will not be responsible for providing entertainment without ample notice before October 31.

DAVID B. BROWN, Executive Secretary.

High Class Speakers at Laymen's Missionary Movement.

Program Will Be of the Very Highest Quality and Power, Giving Convention Character of a National Meeting, Which Men Would Cross a Continent to Attend.

DR. E. M. POYEAT
President of Furman University, is one of the most gifted speakers of the southern Baptist church. He will speak in Baltimore.

The program of the Laymen's Missionary Movement convention to be held in Baltimore November 4 to 7, 1915, will be of the very highest quality and power, giving the convention the character of a national meeting which men would cross a continent to attend; now by this fine co-operation in team work brought to the very doors of the men of the city and vicinity.

The personnel of the speakers is such as to guarantee the highest excellence. These are men not only eloquent in speech and full of enthusiasm but each with a personality and practical experience that make his utterance of the greatest possible value. The following are some of the speakers who will be present:

Rev. Lucien L. Kingsolving, D.D., University of Pennsylvania, is one of the ten missionary bishops abroad of the Protestant Episcopal church. He is their only missionary bishop in South America. Under his direction, nine churches, thirty-five stations and 1258 communications. He will bring a timely message from Latin America contrasting religious conditions in the two Americas.

Halford to Address Convention
Colonel E. H. Halford, secretary to President Harrison from 1889-1893, knows missions from a close personal observation in the Philippines where he resided as paymaster of the United States army from 1901-1903. He has been prominently identified with the development of the International Laymen's Missionary Movement in this country. He is now its vice chairman.

Mr. Charles G. Trumbull is editor of the Sunday School Times, one of the most widely circulated religious papers of the day. The racial of his recent wonderful experience in the Christian life has profoundly impressed and helped a multitude of people. He has been in the North field program. He will speak of "The Victorious Christian Life."

Mr. W. G. A. Miller, the purchasing agent of the American Bridge company, Pittsburgh, will give his Sunday to the campaign. He tells a most arresting story of how a purchasing agent can handle gospel goods successfully.

Rev. James McNaughton, of Turkey, will give some thrilling tales of recent events in the Near-East. He speaks out of a life-long experience in the Turkish empire.

Mr. Fred B. Smith, of the H. W. Johnsonville company, was for more than twenty years at the head of the International Religious Workers' department of the Young Men's Christian Association. He is the most powerful speaker to men of the present day. He will bring an impressive message from his recent tour around the world on a religious mission.

Mr. J. Campbell White, one of the two general secretaries of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, was for ten years secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Calcutta, India. Since the origin of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in 1906 he has led the most remarkable missionary development of modern times. He will preside at the Baltimore convention and ten others in the national campaign. Mr. White has recently become president of the University of Wooster, Wooster, Ohio.

Dr. Fred B. Fisher, general secretary of the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North, will be associated with Mr. White in the leadership of the Baltimore convention team.

WORLD WIDE THEMES

American's Duty Under the Present Day Conditions to be Considered. Topics of world wide importance; subjects which concern every Christian American citizen; practical themes, every one of them, will be discussed by men of national reputation during the Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, in Baltimore, November 4 to 7. Some of the following subjects will be discussed:

What Must America Do Under the New World Conditions?
The Sort of Christianity Needed to Conquer the World.

The Call of God to the Church of Today.
Is a Victorious Christian Life Possible and Obligatory?

The Disintegration of Mohammedanism.

The Two Americas.
The Adequacy of the Gospel to Meet Modern Industrial and Social Conditions.

The War and Missions.
Where to Begin in Making the Church More Aggressive and Productive.

Religion in Business and Business in Religion.
Essential Conditions of Evangelism in the World.

How to Reach the Unchurched in This Territory.
Saving America for the Sake of Humanity.

Every Protestant church in Maryland is invited to send as many as credited delegates as possible. An attendance of at least 3000 laymen is hoped for. There should be 6000 present.

REQUEST FOR PRAYER

Intercession for Baltimore Laymen's Missionary Movement Convention.
The following request has been issued by the committee on prayer for the coming Laymen's Missionary convention to be held in Baltimore, November 4 to 7.

"We would be reminded that the Maryland convention of the National Laymen's Missionary Movement, to be held in Baltimore November 4, 5, 6, 7, will be an occasion of awakening and power, as only a Christian can be felt in its fellowship and conduct. Let us acknowledge his Lordship in our prayers and co-operation."

The convention, held in this and let us covenant to have a convention in mind in our daily devotions and make it a prominent object of intercession in our mid-week and Sabbath services."

These subjects for prayer have been suggested:
For the Whole Undertaking.
For the Mission Boards.
For the Convention Officers.
For the Delegates.
For the Speakers.
For the Churches.
For the Spread of the Spirit of Prayer.

Those who are at the head of this great interdenominational movement feel that the opportunities and also the difficulties of so great an undertaking constitute an unusual challenge to faith and prayer. More important than any other means of preparation is the enlistment of a large number of intercessors, who with unclouded vision of Christ, unshakable faith in God and unwearied persistence, will unite in prayer that the campaign may help to inspire America to fulfill her mission of service to mankind.

3000 DELEGATES EXPECTED

Prompt Registration for Laymen's Missionary Convention.
The Maryland convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement will be held in Baltimore, November 4 to 7.

The meetings will be for men, every Protestant church in Maryland is invited to send representatives. Church officials, Sunday school superintendents, men's Bible classes, young men's societies, men's mission societies and kindred organizations should be represented.

To meet convention expenses there will be a registration fee of one dollar required from each delegate. These fees will meet the expenses of the convention without great expense to a few men of the churches. It is hoped there will be an enrollment of 3000 delegates.

If the enrollment fees more than meet the convention expenses, the surplus will be used in the conservative and extension of the interest created by the convention.

Prompt Registration Urged.
Ministers and laymen are urged by the convention committee to fill out their application blanks at once and send them in through a member of the enrollment committee in their church, or mail them properly filled out, with registration fee accompanying, to Mr. Carl M. Dwyer, chairman of registration committee, Room 3115 Fidelity building, Baltimore.

On receipt of applicant's application with proper fee, credentials will be mailed from headquarters for delivery by a member of enrollment committee.

Only registered delegates will be admitted to the convention, and such they will be extended the privileges of the convention.

KNOW THY COUNTRY

I—Introductory

"Know America" is a slogan that should ring out from every school room, office, farm and shop in this nation. No man can aspire to a higher honor than to become a capable citizen, and no one can merit so distinguished a title until he is well informed of the resources, possibilities and achievements of our country.

This is a commercial age and civilization is bearing its most golden fruit in America. We are noted for our industrial achievements as Egypt was noted for her pyramids; Jerusalem for her religion; Greece for her art; Phoenicia for her seafaring; Chaldea for her astronomy and Rome for her laws. Likewise we have men who will go down in the world's history as powerful products of their age. For, standing at the source of every gigantic movement that sways civilization is a great man. The greatest minds travel in the greatest direction and the commercial geniuses of this age would have been the sculptors, poets, philosophers, architects, and artists of earlier civilizations.

As Michael Angelo took a rock and with a chisel hewed it into the image of an angel that ever beckons mankind upward and onward, Hill took the desert of the Northwest and with his hands of steel made it blossom like a rose, dotted the valleys with happy homes and built cities in waste places.

As Gutenberg took blocks of wood and whittled them into an alphabet and made a printing press that flashed education across the continent like a ray of light upon a new born world, McCormick took a bar of iron and bent it into a reaper and with one sweep of his magic mind broke the shackles that enslaved labor of generations yet unborn, and gave mankind freedom from drudgery, and lifted the human race into a higher zone of life.

As Nelson organized the English navy and made England mistress of the sea, enabling the British Isles to plant her flag upon every continent washed by the ocean's waves, and to make footstools of the islands of every water, Morgan organized a banking system that has made America master of the world's finances, brought kings to our cashiers' windows, the nations of the earth to our discount desks and placed under the industries of this nation a financial system as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar.

There is no study quite so interesting as progress; no sound so magic as the roar of industry and no sight so inspiring as civilization in action. A full realization of America's part in the great events of the world past, present and future will thrill every human heart with pride, ambition and faith in Republican institutions.

Through the courtesy of the Agricultural and Commercial Press Service, the readers of this paper will be permitted to study America; her agricultural, manufacturing and mineral development, mercantile, banking and transportation systems which are the wonder of the world. The first article of the series will deal with transportation and will appear at an early date.

KNOW THY COUNTRY

II—Railroads

In discussing the commercial achievements of this great age, we shall approach the subject as the historian chronicles events. This series will endeavor to record in writing the supremacy of American men and industries in the world's affairs and perpetuate an appreciation of our marvelous industrial achievements by presenting simple and convincing and comprehensible that are lowering in their convictions.

The accepted distance from the earth to the moon. We had in 1911, the last year in which figures for all countries are available, on the earth's surface, 223,981 miles of railway divided as follows: United States 141,195, Europe 307,438 and other countries 181,350. The United States has 28 percent of the world's mileage, seven percent of the estimated population and about five percent of the area. The railways 300,000.

On account of her supremacy in transportation facilities, the railway mileage of the age are engaged in the problems of transportation, and the greatest men in the history of the world's commerce are at the head of the transportation systems of the United States.

In the discussion of transportation, let us consider separately our Railways, Telegraph and Telephone, Press, Public Highways, Steamships, Street Railways, Interurban and other forms of transportation, and this article will deal with railways.

The United States has the largest mileage, the best service, the cheapest rates, pays labor the highest wages and we have the most efficient management of the railways of the world. They stand as a monument to the native genius of our marvelous builders, and most of the railroads in foreign countries have been built under American orders.

The railroads represent a larger investment of capital than any other branch of human activity. The mileage in the United States exceeds and other countries $1,159,000,000. Reduced to a mileage basis the capitalization is as follows: The world $78,000, United States $54,000, Europe $124,000 and other countries $53,000.

A comparison of rates is equally as interesting and the United States takes the lead in economy and service. The average rate per ton per hundred miles haul is as follows: United States 10c, Great Britain 22c, France 14c, Germany 14c, Russia 22c, Austria-Hungary 13c, Italy 22c and Switzerland 22c.

The average yearly pay of all railroad employees in the principal countries is as follows: United States $757, Germany $352, Italy $345, Austria $328, Great Britain $275, France $360 and Russia $294.

About 30 percent, or 128,000 miles, of the railways of the world are government owned. About half the railway mileage of Europe is government owned.

A comparison of the economy, in time and money and the convenience of travel, will be made in a later article.

KNOW THY COUNTRY

III—Telegraph and Telephone

Our transportation facilities are the most perfect product of this great commercial age and the telegraph and telephone systems of this nation crown the industrial achievements of the whole world. These twin messengers of modern civilization, born in the skies, stand today the most faithful and efficient public servants that ever tolled for the human race.

They are of American nativity and while warm from the mind of the inventive genius have, under American supervision, spun a network of wires across the earth and under the seas. Telegraphy, in its early youth, mastered the known world and the telephone has already conquered the earth's surface, and now stands at the seashore ready to leap across the ocean.

No industry in the history of the world has ever made such rapid strides in development and usefulness, and none has ever exerted a more powerful influence upon the civilization of its day than the Telegraph and Telephone. Their achievement demonstrates the supremacy of two distinct types of American genius—invention and organization.

The industry was peculiarly fortunate in having powerful inventive intellect at its source and tremendous growth. It is the most perfect fruit of the tree of American industry and when compared with its European contemporaries, it thrills every patriotic American with pride.

spring company than the fellowship of the giant intellects that constructed this marvelous industry and a journey along the pathway of its development, illuminated at every mile-post of its progress by the lightning flashes of brilliant ideas, will be taken at a very early date.

A brief statistical review of the industry brings out the growth and magnitude in a most convincing and unforgettable manner.

The telephone service of the United States is the most popular and efficient and its rates are the cheapest of the telephone systems of the world.

We are the greatest talkers on earth. We send 40 per cent of our communications over the telephone. The world has about 15,000,000 telephones and of this number the United States has approximately 9,540,000, Europe 4,020,000 and other countries 1,300,000. According to the latest world telephone census, the total telephone investment is $1,208,000,000 and of this amount $1,095,000,000 was credited to the United States, $838,000,000 in Europe and $175,000,000 in other countries. The annual telephone conversations total 24,600,000,000 divided as follows: United States 15,000,000,000; Europe 6,600,000,000, and other countries 2,900,000,000. The total world wire telephone mileage is 33,283,000 miles divided as follows: United States 20,245,000, Europe 10,835,000, and other countries 2,193,000. About six per cent of the world's population and sixty-one per cent of the telephone wire mileage is in the United States.

PURPOSES OF A GREAT MOVEMENT

Laymen's Missionary Campaign Has World Wide End.

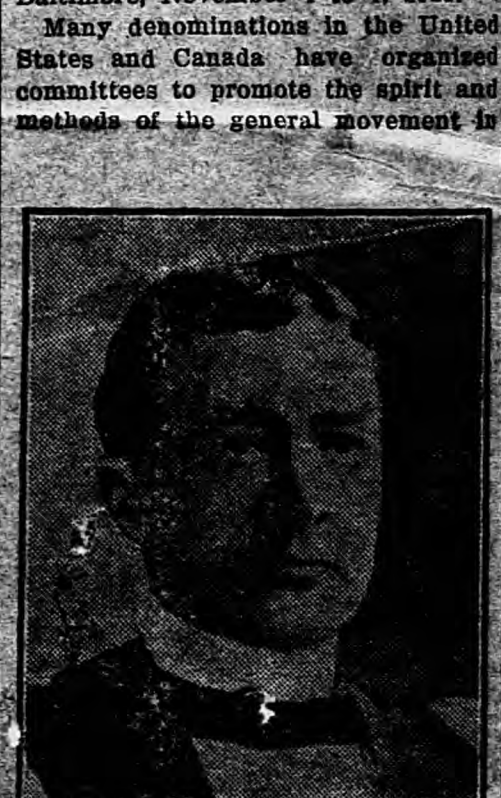

To consider new world conditions and America's enlarged responsibility.
To study the missionary progress of recent years.
To project plans looking toward the accomplishment of our whole missionary duty.

To emphasize the adequacy of the Gospel to meet modern social conditions.
To increase the spiritual power and efficiency of the local church.

To secure the general use of the best methods of missionary education and finance.
To inspire laymen to take their part in the extension of the kingdom of Christ.

These are the objects of the great interdenominational campaign being conducted under the auspices of the Laymen's Missionary Movement. The Maryland convention will be held at the Mt. Vernon Place M. E. church, Baltimore, November 4 to 7, 1915.

Many denominations in the United States and Canada have organized committees to promote the spirit and methods of the general movement in their churches.

BIG CONVENTION OF STATE LAYMEN

All Churches Interested in National Missionary Movement.

Great interest is being manifested in the Laymen's Missionary convention to be held in Baltimore November 4 to 7. Eighty similar conventions will be held in leading cities of the United States between October 7, 1915, and April 26, 1916. All Maryland laymen are invited to register as delegates. This movement is interdenominational.

No more favorable opportunity could be offered the church men of Maryland to hear speakers of national reputation discuss topics of vital interest in connection with the great campaign for the evangelization of the world.

The men of Maryland are the kind who do things. They do not dream

the largest possible best meeting are being formed. Protestant churches of whose duty it will be to enroll men of their congregations. There is no limit upon the representation of any church. The registration fee is only $1.00 and every man who has an interest in the spread of the Gospel should enroll now. Mr. Carl M. Dwyer, 1212 Fidelity Building, Baltimore, is chairman of the registration committee. In those churches where registration committees have not been named, there is an opportunity for the laymen to get busy on their own initiative, enroll all the men possible and send in the names with the fees. Registration fees will be used to defray convention expenses and for follow-up work after the convention.

AT REV. L. L. KINGSOLVING
Noted missionary bishop from South America, who will address the convention.

Their own communions. Twenty secretaries are employed to give their whole time to supervision and extension work.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has no membership and no organization, apart from committees. There is a general committee of 100 laymen, which meets annually, gives general direction; an executive committee of twenty-five members, which meets monthly in New York city, and eight division committees are being developed in the United States. In each city, community or county where work is undertaken a co-operating committee is organized.

The Last Five Years

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has been brewing along the lines of the national missionary policy adopted at the Chicago congress in 1910. In 1913 the movement took in all the missionary forces, both home and foreign and promoted during the last two years under the name of the United Missionary campaign over 620 conferences and conventions in as many places in an effort to reach with the message and the method of the movement every center of over 5000 people in the United States and Canada.

The foreign mission offerings of the Protestant churches of this country, which, in 1906, the year of the organization of this movement, totaled about $5,000,000, last year totaled $17,500,000. About double that in gross has been turned into the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home and a larger proportion goes to the work of local churches. This is due largely to the adoption of the methods of church finance, introduced by the movement, and to the increasing interest of men in the church's great world work.

World Wide

The movement has reached Great Britain, Australia and several countries of Europe till now its spirit has attained a world-wide reach.

The present world situation, in which great Protestant Christian powers are engaged in strife, places an unprecedented burden upon the Christian forces of this country to promote the world missionary enterprise.

Hon. L. Irving Handy, of Delaware, addressed Democratic meetings in Snow Hill and Pocomoke City last Friday afternoon and evening, and in Berlin, Salisbury and Easton on Saturday afternoon and evening. Mr. Handy spent Friday night in Princess Anne.

Our Christmas Money

Christmas looms up ahead of us, and the problem must soon be faced of what to spend and where to spend it. There should be but one answer to this question.

Prosperity is ahead of us again; therefore, let us make this a joyful Christmas to one and all.

Let us make it a prosperous Christmas to this town by buying from our local stores, by keeping our money at home. A liberal spirit of giving this Christmas will restore confidence and enhance our optimistic feeling for the future.

The patronizing of our home merchants will enable us to increase the prosperity of our town and will give each and every one of us a feeling of just pride in the fact that we are "good citizens all around."

Let's make it a "home Christmas," and let's begin now to keep that money in circulation at home.

The Chautauqua

The indoor Chautauqua began last Saturday afternoon at the Auditorium in Princess Anne, Dr. I. A. Downey superintending the same. The season tickets were all sold at the time of beginning and quite a number of disappointments occurred because others could not be obtained. The guarantors are now released from further obligation.

The exercises began on Saturday with a lecture by Dr. Downey upon "Your Boys and Girls: Culture Epochs Theory—What?" This was followed by a charming concert by the Soiree Singers. In the evening the same company gave a concert, which was followed by "Peg of My Heart," by Miss Mary Agnes Doyle. This was succeeded by motion pictures. On Sunday afternoon a free concert was given by the Soiree Singers, and Dr. Downey gave an entertaining talk upon "Man vs. the Animal."

The Chautauqua continued yesterday (Monday) afternoon and evening, and will conclude with performances this afternoon and evening.

Contrasting Pictures

Look on this picture, then on that: Europe: Between fifteen and twenty million men in arms to slaughter one another and pull down opposing governments; two or three million killed or maimed; millions of households in mourning; the skies blackened and the earth shaken by the continual roar of artillery; the vast army of destitute constantly increasing; national resources strained almost to the snapping point to maintain the gigantic competition in destruction; horror and anxiety on the threshold of each morning and as the gloomy watchers through each night, great areas torn and devastated and nature halted and paralyzed in her normal work of construction; the hearts of untold multitudes failing them for fear of what is still to come.

The United States: Between fifteen and twenty million men working together to upbuild their country and to promote the reign of law; no clouds in our heavens but the smoke of industry; no conflict but civic battles for ideals and no contests but peaceful contests for the improvement of government and of the conditions of life; no problem but the problem of increasing happiness and prosperity; no wasted fields and desolated homes, but a fruitful partnership between man and nature which has produced this year and last year such crops as grow only in the peaceful gardens of the Lord; and hope and strength and justice giving beauty to our days and confidence and calm to our nights.

The formal day of Thanksgiving is still weeks away. But every day should be a Thanksgiving Day in a nation so blessed as ours. Surely the powers above seem to have singled us out as the special beneficiaries of their great bounty and loving kindness.

Ought to Paint

I ought to have painted last year, but I had to pay $2 a gallon. I've got to paint this year; it'll take a little more paint; I suppose I gallon in 10; and a little more work, I suppose 1 day in 10. My job would have cost last year about $50; it is going to cost this year $55. $5 is gone. I suppose it'll be the same again, if I wait. What if paint goes down to $1.75 a gallon? $2.50 on the job! I shan't wait; what a fool I was! Adv. DEVOE

Our Volunteer Fire Company

The Volunteer Fire Company of Princess Anne has celebrated its first year of existence, and in taking stock of the different ways and means, the outlook to have a splendid volunteer fire company is promising.

The secretary and treasurer tells us that last year they received from different sources about $180, of which $122 has been spent for rubber boots and coats. Now there is a crying need for money in this organization and it is up to you, Mr. Citizen, to get behind the wheel and push.

What does it mean to you, Mr. Reader, to have a fire company? Do you realize that in having a competent fire fighting unit that the insurance rates of the town are lowered anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent? Do you realize that when you have a fire company there are about fifty chances to five that your property will be saved from a total loss? Do you know that it depends directly on you to help make this company a success?

So why don't you make up your mind today to help in every way and by "so doing you will benefit yourself as well as others."

Why not give some of the money you are paying to high rate insurance companies to a home insurance company that can and will save your property?

These young men in this organization need you and you need them and we think that they have shown their integrity and willingness in the last year to merit your consideration.

Now they are working to get a better place in which to hold their meetings and to keep their apparatus, which they need badly. The Citizens' Lyceum Company have directed their efforts toward the good of this cause and we earnestly ask that the public help them.

In gathering the attitude of the public toward this company we find that some of our people have come to conclusions that are erroneous.

We speak of the report that the fire hose was being used for other than fire fighting purposes. Let us explain. The hose that is used for fighting fire, is never taken off the reels only in case of practice or a fire. The hose that has been seen on the streets in construction work is some that is condemned and unfit for fighting fire, because it is rotten and will not stand pressure.

Now let's not knock but boost; help them and they will help you. Also remember that what is being done by these men is entirely voluntary and no organization can live without some encouragement. Again, what does a fire company in Princess Anne mean to you? Think it over.

Rev. Dr. O. H. Murphy, who for several years has been rector of a parish at Millville, N. J., has resigned on account of impaired health. He and his family will reside in Princess Anne.

Marriage Licenses

The following is a list of the marriage licenses issued by the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset county last week: White—Edgar Clement Willey, 29, of Cambridge, and Neva Florence Ward, 19, of Crisfield. Otho Kilman, 21, and Alicia Annis, 18, both of Accomac county. Va. Lewis Hummel, 21, and Rita Ames, 19, both of Cape Charles, Va. Peter Remson Mason, 47, and Gertrude Birch, 37, both of Crisfield.

Colored—George Beckett, 25, and Ora Teagle, 27, both of Chance.

When Baby Has The Croup

When mother is awakened from sound sleep to find her child who has gone to bed apparently in the best of health struggling for breath, she is naturally alarmed. Yet if she can keep her presence of mind and give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy every ten minutes until vomiting is produced, quick relief will follow and the child will drop to a sleep to awaken in the morning as well as ever. This remedy has been in use for many years with uniform success. Obtainable everywhere.

ANIMAL INTELLIGENCE.

Cats, Dogs and Monkeys Seem to Be in a Class by Themselves.

Horses are generally given credit for a great deal more intelligence than they actually possess. Scientific tests show that in wisdom such as human beings display horses are hopelessly outclassed by dogs, monkeys and even cats.

The horse can be taught to do certain things just because he is too stupid to have any ideas of his own. Like many human prize pupils, he can learn, but cannot think.

So far as intelligence goes, psychological experiments show that it is practically a dead heat between cats, dogs and monkeys.

The dog has human morals; therefore people are apt to assume that he has human logic. But the cat, say certain persons. In sheer brains stands next to man. He has the adaptive intelligence that makes him equally at home in parlor and wild woods and gets him a living anywhere. A cat, it is argued, can think faster and take care of himself under more different conditions than any other living thing except man.

Monkeys undoubtedly seem more intelligent than they really are because they resemble human beings in actions and outward appearance so much more closely than other animals.

Some scientists maintain that, although the monkey may be really no more intelligent than the cat or dog, his intelligence is certainly more like the human type.

Although he may not think better, his methods of thought are more like those of a man than are those of the other animals.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BLACK OPALS.

These Gems Fairly Blaze With Myriad Shades of Color.

Those exquisite gems, black opals, which were practically unknown up till comparatively recently, cost more, carat for carat, than do diamonds even, while experts declare that they are infinitely more beautiful.

And in this connection it may be pointed out that the term "black opal" is distinctly misleading. It was coined to distinguish it from the familiar light opal. As a matter of fact, the black opal is alive with myriad shades of flaming splendor, from brightest tints of green glowing fire to meteoric gold or lavender that in an instant quivers to crimson or slips into molten ruby or sapphire as the angle of light alters.

Black opals are dear, not only because they are so beautiful, but because they are so rare. They are found only at one spot, a comparatively small tract of ground in New South Wales, adjoining the Queensland border.

The field is called Lightning ridge. It is a wild and desolate spot. The nearest towns to it are Walgett and Collaredabri, and it is about 500 miles from Sydney as the crow flies.

Black opal mining is about the biggest gamble extant. There is really nothing to guide the miner in selecting a likely spot. The work is hard. The shafts average forty feet in depth, and all rock has to be "backed" to the top. Water is scarce, food almost unobtainable. On the other hand, the prospector who is lucky enough to stumble upon a pocket of fair sized, flawless stones reaps a fortune forthwith.—Pearson's Weekly.

How We Read.

Oliver Wendell Holmes owned up to his preference for reading in books to reading through them. "When I set out to read through a book," the autocrat wrote, "I always felt that I had a task before me, but when I read in a book it was the page or the paragraph that I wanted, which left the impression and became a part of my intellectual furniture." If we were only franker most of us would confess to being like Holmes in this matter of our reading.—New York Telegram.

Ancient Trades.

Bygone trades have a way of proving on investigation to be only modern industries under another name. A miller, for instance, was only a miller, after all, and a parchmenter was nothing more strange than a tailor, though not even the experts are certain why he was so called. A ruffian, however, is more interesting. Baff (an ally of the present word rafter) was foreign dialect, and a ruffian was one who dealt in it.—London Chronicle.

Book Consumption.

In the United States but one person in 7,800 buys a book in the course of a year, while in Great Britain it is one in 3,800; in France it is about the same; in Germany and Japan it is rather better, and in Switzerland it is one in 872. Cheaper books, in paper covers, account for some of this difference. But whatever the cause, it remains true that the Europeans buy twice as many books per capita as we do.—Atlantic Monthly.

A Boat Rescued.

"I always try to attend to my own business," said the self approving man. "That's just what folks are talking about," replied Farmer Cornet. "Tending to your own business ain't what we elected you to the legislature for."—Washington Star.

Protested.

"Villain, I defy you," said the heroine, drawing herself to her full height. "Do your worst." "Don't ask him to do that, miss," pleaded a voice from the gallery. "His acting is bad enough as it is."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HAVE YOU BEEN SICK?

Then you realize the utter weakness that robs ambition, destroys appetite, and makes work a burden.

To restore that strength and stamina that is so essential, nothing has ever equaled or compared with Scott's Emulsion, because its strength-sustaining nourishment invigorates the blood to distribute energy throughout the body while its tonic value sharpens the appetite and restores health in a natural, permanent way.

● If you are run down, tired, nervous, overworked or lack strength, get Scott's Emulsion to-day. It is free from alcohol. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. ●

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP.

Origin of the Name of the Famous Beacon Off Sandy Hook.

Scotland lightship is so called because it marks the site of the wreck of the ship Scotland. According to an entry in the records of the United States coast guard at Washington, she was a British steamship of Liverpool, bound from Liverpool to New York. With a cargo of merchandise, she stranded near Sandy Hook on Dec. 2, 1866, and was a total loss. The acting commissioner of the bureau of light-houses supplies this excerpt from the records of the bureau:

"Under authority of the joint resolution of congress approved March 2, 1868, a light vessel was moored on April 15, 1868, to mark temporarily the obstruction to navigation caused by the wreck of the steamship Scotland. The work of removing this wreck was completed in 1870, and the lighthouse board decided that it had no authority for retaining the light vessel at that point any longer without further congressional authority. This authority was given by an act of congress approved June 23, 1874, and light vessel No. 23 was accordingly placed on the station on Sept. 10, 1874, being relieved by light vessel No. 20 on Dec. 1, 1875. Light vessel No. 20 was continued on the station until 1880, when light vessel No. 7 took her place. Light vessel No. 7 was relieved on Dec. 2, 1902, by light vessel No. 11, which is still the regular station ship at this location.

"While the wreck of the steamship Scotland was an obstruction to navigation, the light vessel maintained to mark her position was known as the Wreck of Scotland light vessel. After the wreck had disappeared and another light vessel was placed there by an act of congress, not to mark the obstruction, but as an aid to navigators desiring to enter the port of New York, the light vessel was known as the Scotland light vessel, which name is still retained."—New York Sun.

BAGGING A BEAR.

Doing It, Too, in a Care Free, Nonchalant Sort of a Way.

An interesting story was told to me by a trapper to whom I had given shelter at my campfire on Kootenay lake. He said that he had just been up in the Selkirk guiding a man named Roosevelt, who wanted to get a cinnamon or silver tip grizzly—I have forgotten which—that they had got one and that he had just said goodbye to his employer, then police commissioner in New York. He said:

"That man Roosevelt is the bravest man I ever saw. He is very nearsighted and has a pocketful of different kinds of glasses. We were going up a narrow trail in the grizzly country when I saw around the turn, not very far ahead, a big bear shambling down. I dropped back and motioned to Roosevelt to look around the corner. He stepped slightly forward and saw the bear not over a couple of hundred feet away.

"The trail was narrow, on one side a cliff, on the other a ravine. Instead of putting up his gun immediately and shooting, Roosevelt groped around in his pocket until he found the pair of glasses that he wanted, unburied, removed the pair he wore, rubbed, put on and adjusted the others and when the bear got within fifty feet of him took deliberate aim and killed him."

In picturesque language the old guide said that any son of a gun who would take the time to change his glasses when a grizzly was loping down the trail within a few yards of him was the bravest man he had ever seen.—Albert B. Ledoux in Mining and Scientific Press.

Why a Chinaman Laughed.

In the European quarter of Shanghai they were putting in a macadam road. The street was torn up and barricaded in the usual way. A sign above one foot high by two feet long bore this inscription: "Look Out For the Steam Roller." My Chinese companion, a leading merchant, burst into a loud laugh when he saw the notice and, pointing to it with one hand and the noisy, puffing, rattling steam roller with the other, said: "If a man can't see that volcanic mountain of excited steam roller how in the world can he see a little sign?" And then he added retrospectively, "You foreigners have such peculiar ways!"—W. E. Anglin-bauch in Leslie's.

Recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"Last winter I used a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a bronchial cough. I felt its beneficial effect immediately and before I had finished the bottle I was cured. I never tire of recommending this remedy to my friends," writes Mrs. William Bright, Ft. Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

FINANCIAL SENSE.

Take Care of What You Earn and Then Invest It Wisely.

The greatest financial genius I ever knew and the richest man I ever knew personally once said to me:

"There is no greater financial genius possible than taking care of what you earn, and there is no better or surer way of taking care of your surplus than to invest it in sound securities paying 5 or 6 per cent. And such securities are easy to find any day of any year. So any man may be a financial genius if he will exercise the simplest common sense."

I protested that it would be said of such a man that he was narrow and selfish.

"Nonsense," the financial genius replied. "I have money invested in railroads, in packing houses and in manufacturing enterprises. Could money be invested more usefully? Yet it is as safe as government bonds and pays a better rate of interest. I invest my own money, but a man without financial experience may secure safe investments without difficulty. If a man has a bank account his banker will find safe investments for him. Bankers are men of financial experience, and 90 per cent of them are intelligent and honorable. There is no excuse for a busy man losing his savings. Many women, when they come into possession of money, lose it because they invest it in schemes bankers would not trust, or else the women loan their money to men who could not borrow money at a bank. Everything in life is simple and easy if we would only accept experience and be careful of big and sentimental notions. Financial sense is knowing that certain men will promise to do certain things and fall. Therefore when you invest your savings get security. And it is no more trouble to get good security than it is to get bad if you are guided by common sense and experience."—American Magazine.

Fat Crystals.

If small quantities of butter, lard and beef fat be separately boiled and slowly cooled for, say, twenty-four hours, the resulting crystals will show very marked differences under the microscope. The normal butter crystal is large and globular. It polarizes brilliantly and shows a well marked St. Andrew's cross. That of lard shows a stellate form, while that of beef fat has a foliated appearance. In course of time, as the butter loses its freshness, the globular crystal degenerates and gradually merges into peculiar rosette-like forms.

Instinct of the Muddish.

The remarkable instinct which causes the muddish to roll himself in a ball of mud when the dry season approaches is a wonderful provision of nature, intended solely, it would seem, to prevent the extinction of the species. The most interesting fact about this fish is that it breathes by means of its gills when in its native element and by means of lungs during its voluntary imprisonment in the mud cocoon.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Which Is Better—Try an Experiment Or Profit By A Princess Anne Citizen's Experience

Something new is an experiment. Must be proved to be as represented. The statement of a manufacturer is not convincing proof of merit.

But the endorsement of friends is. Now supposing you had a bad back, A lame, weak, or aching one. Would you experiment on it? You would read of many so-called cures. Endorsed by strangers from far-away. It's different when the endorsement comes from home.

Easy to prove local testimony.

Read this Princess Anne case: Thomas H. Heath, Beckford avenue, Princess Anne, Md., says: "I suffered from severe pains in the small of my back and was restless. In the morning I felt tired and worn out. I also had dizzy spells which were so severe I could hardly stand. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me in every way and I was soon cured of kidney complaint."

Westover

Oct. 23—Miss Elizabeth Miller has gone to Baltimore as a delegate to the State Sunday School Convention.

Remember the hallowe'en social and oyster supper at Mt. Olive Church, Revell's Neck, on next Thursday night, the 28th. All are invited and a good time is expected.

The extra meetings will begin at St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church on or about November 21st. Mr. R. G. Humphreys, of Wilmington, Del., will assist the pastor, Rev. W. F. Atkinson, for two weeks and participate in the services.

Arrangements for the annual Maryland Week Exhibition, under the auspices of the Maryland State Horticultural Society, the Maryland Crop Association, the Maryland State Dairymen's Association and Maryland State Bookkeepers' Association, in the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, November 16-20, have been completed. From all signs this exhibition will eclipse even those of former years. This affair has become a feature looked forward to by residents of the city and the State, as it affords an opportunity to display and become acquainted with the agricultural resources of the State, and has also become a meeting place for the residents of the State and city.

For Indigestion

Never take peppin and preparations containing peppin or other digestive ferments for indigestion, as the more you take the more you will have to take. What is needed is a tonic like Chamberlain's Tablets that will enable the stomach to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere. (Advertisement.)

The Republican party pledges itself to an economic and business-like administration of the affairs of the State and county, and to the abolishment of all useless offices. An extract from the Republican State Platform: "We pledge our party to conserve and continue to protect for public use the natural oyster beds and bars of the State, upon which the oystermen have always enjoyed the right to earn their livelihood without fear of molestation. And we further pledge our party to the passage of such laws as will afford the greatest means of protection to the crab industry of the State."

At the last session of the Legislature the Republican delegation from Somerset county introduced, and secured the passage through the lower House, a bill abolishing the office of Roads Engineer, with its salary of $1500 and $200 expense account, and creating instead, a General Road Supervisor of the county, to be appointed at a salary not to exceed $1000 a year. Under the bill the Roads Supervisor was required to spend all his time on the roads, and all the clerical work was to be performed by the County Treasurer. This bill was defeated in the Senate, Senator Milbourne representing Somerset county. The Republican party is pledged, in the event of success, to the passage of this bill.

Two years ago, two miles of road, west of Princess Anne, were constructed under the Shoemaker Law. Under this Act, the people fronting on the proposed road are supposed to pay 10 per cent. of the cost of construction and are required to furnish bond that they will so pay. These two miles of road cost $37,131.37, and 10 per cent. of this would be $3,713.13, the amount supposed to be paid by the residents fronting on the road. As a matter of fact the residents raised only $2,640.40 of the $3,713.13 required to be raised by them, making them short $1,172.73 of the amount required by law to be raised and for which they had given bond. The whole matter has since been settled and closed by the County Commissioners releasing the bond and the county paying the $1,172.73, in addition to the $14,852.55 which it had already paid. Is this fair treatment to all the other residents of this county who do not front on this road?
