WILLIAM LEE MUST DIE.

Negro Adjudged Guilty Of Criminal Assault In Trial Held Before Criminal Court Of Baltimore On Thursday.

William Lee, alias George Scott, the negro assailant of Mrs. Lily R. Barnes and Miss Frances Powell, of Somerset county, was convicted in the Criminal Court of Baltimore City Thursday morning, after a trial lasting about three hours.

Chief Justice Harlan and Associate Judges Wright and Dobler sat in the case without a jury. The State was represented by States Attorney Owens and Deputy State's Attorney Eugene O'Dunne, both of Baltimore, and State's Attorney Henry J. Waters, of Somerset county, while the prisoner was defended by Attorney Charles O. Melvin, of Pocomoke City.

Immediately after the State closed its case Mr. Melvin announced that the defense had no testimony to offer, and after a hurried conference between the judges, the Chief Justice announced the verdict of "guilty as charged" in both cases. Lee was then called to the bar, where he stood with his head hanging down on his breast.

"Have you anything to say?" asked Judge Harlan.

The negro murmured something unintelligible.

"Did I understand you to say 'No'?"

Lee nodded his head, and the Judge then passed the death sentence without commenting on the case at all. Lee will be held in the City Jail subject to the order of the Sheriff of Somerset county. When the Governor appoints a date for the execution, the negro is to be turned over to the custody of the Somerset county official, and is to be hanged in Somerset county.

Negro Weeps Bitterly.

It was not until Lee found himself again locked in jail that he fully realized his hopeless position, and his nerve gave away completely. Throwing himself upon a bench, he burst into tears.

The proceedings leading up to the trial began about nine o'clock, when Lee was taken to the Court House in the jail van. He was well guarded by a large squad of policemen, under Sergeant Forrest, of the Central district.

Promptly at 10 o'clock Chief Judge Harlan and Judges Dobler and Wright ascended the bench, and Lee was brought into the courtroom by the Jail officials. His appearance occasioned no disorder—there was not even a murmur from the courtroom when he took his seat in the prisoners' dock between Deputies Nootman and Steinberger. He seemed somewhat bewildered by his position, but betrayed no emotion. He was dressed in the jeans "jumper" and dirty gray trousers he wore when arrested. The first witness then sworn. He was Dr. Frank N. Eccles, of Somerset county. He described the scene of the crime, which he said was a very lonely spot, and showed a rough plot he had drawn of it. He had attended both Miss Powell and Mrs. Barnes after the crime. Both had been victims of criminal violence, he said.

Mrs. Barnes was next called, but before she was sworn the judges left the bench and took seats in chairs near the witness bar, and Mrs. Barnes sat in front of them with her back turned to the spectators. She positively identified Lee as her assailant, and so did Miss Powell, who followed her on the stand. During her testimony, Mrs. Barnes several times broke down and wept, but Miss Powell showed a bit more composure. Both told the same story of the way the negro had compelled them to go into the woods with him drawing a knife and threatening to kill the baby they were wheeling in a baby carriage. He also threatened them with the knife and threatened to shoot them, but neither saw any pistol in his possession.

A number of other witnesses were then called, including Mr. Robert H. Barnes, husband of Mrs. Barnes, the Sheriff, and Deputy Sheriff of Somerset, and Deputy Sheriff G. M. Lankford, of Northampton county, Va. Sheriff Brown, of Somerset, who was also present when Lee made his confession, corroborated the testimony of Deputy Sheriff Setton.

In the jail at Norfolk, Sheriff Brown said, Lee asked him if he couldn't get him off with a lifetime sentence.

"And I said 'Yes, I guess I can, but it'll be a d-d short one,'" said Mr. Brown.

An Unusual Procedure.

There was no disorder of any kind during the trial, and a new rule was established in relation to the admission of persons to the courtroom. No one who did not hold a pass signed by the State's Attorney of Baltimore was permitted to enter under any circumstances, and even officers of the Court, among them several lawyers, were refused admission in the absence of the necessary pass. The authorities are entitled to considerable credit for the manner in which the case was conducted, but it is regretted by a large number of people that passes were deemed necessary, as a dangerous precedent has been established, since all court proceedings heretofore in this State have been open to the public.

There can be no doubt that the residents of Somerset county present in the courtroom and in the city were gratified at the result, and one man from Somerset immediately after the trial said:

"If that negro had not been sentenced to

POLICE COURT BUSY.

Magistrate Trader Meets Out Justice To Many Offenders—Clark Chatham In Trouble—Worcester Musician In The Tolls.

Police Justice William A. Trader had a strenuous day Thursday, and from early in the morning until late in the afternoon dispensed justice with an even hand. It was the usual aftermath of the fourth, the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway contributing its full quota to the day's proceedings, owing to the drunken crowd at Ocean City. When the evening train arrived in Salisbury the night before, special officer William H. White had quite a number in "tow," and he soon had them safely landed in jail. The night behind the bars rather sobered the crowd, and for several hours the next morning things were lively in the vicinity of Justice Trader's office, and fines averaging $2.50 were imposed upon the following: Charles West, John Hamblen, Barney Dashiell, Charles Stuart and Sam Hudson. Horace Foskey was fined $1.00 and costs for unlawful riding on trains.

Chatham Held For Grand Jury.

Clark Chatham was before Justice Trader Thursday afternoon on the charge of assaulting Herman Dennis about noon of that day. The occurrence took place on Main street, near Dock, and from the testimony in the case the assault by Chatham upon Dennis was apparently entirely unprovoked and was probably the result of a difference between the two men at Ocean City the day before.

For some reason Chatham rushed up behind him, struck him with his fist and then throwing his arms around him, continued striking him. Dennis made several unsuccessful efforts to get him to stop, and finally got his hand in his pocket, and drawing his pen knife, cut Chatham severely across the arm. Immediately after receiving the wound Chatham drew a revolver and fired at him, and even later after, Dennis was gotten away by his friends, Chatham followed him down Dock street and fired at him again. Fortunately, however, the shots went wild and no damage resulted. Chatham was carried to the hospital where his wound was dressed, and a little later was placed under arrest and carried before Justice Trader, who fined him $5.00 and costs, amounting to $9.32, for the assault, and held him in $500 bail for the action of the Grand Jury on the charge of attempting to kill.

Isaiah Plays In Jail.

Isaiah Reed, a Worcester county colored crank, ran "amuck" Thursday morning, and got a taste of Wicomico justice. Isaiah has been a common figure on our streets and a general nuisance with his fiddle and banjo recently, but the glorious Fourth and an overdose of common whiskey was the combination which brought about his "undoing." He was brought before Justice Trader Thursday afternoon on a charge of disorderly conduct, and using profane language on the public streets, and while he talked "eloquently" of other things, the occurrences on the fourth were decidedly "hazy." It did not take Senator Brewington, the prosecuting witness, many seconds to tell all about it, and now Isaiah is playing his fiddle and banjo in the county jail.

John H. Smith Arrested.

John H. Smith, formerly living with his wife on Fooks street in South Salisbury, was arrested last Sunday evening for disorderly conduct that afternoon. Seven or eight weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Smith separated, but Sunday, after imbibing rather too freely, Smith returned to his wife's home, and created quite a disturbance. Mrs. Smith was compelled to leave the house and sent for Policeman Woodland Disharoon and Deputy Sheriff Waller, who arrested Smith about seven o'clock that evening. He was brought before Justice Trader Thursday afternoon at three o'clock, with three charges against him, drunkenness and disorderly conduct, carrying concealed weapons, and malicious destruction of property. He was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $3.75, upon the first charge, the second one was dismissed, and upon the third he was held upon his own recognizance for the action of the Grand Jury.

July Term Of Court.

The July term of the Circuit Court for Wicomico county convened Monday morning at 10 o'clock, Judge Holland presiding. The only matter of interest which came up was the criminal case against the N. Y. P. & N. R. R. Co. The last Grand Jury returned an indictment against the company for obstructing the highway at the East Church street crossing. It is understood that the prosecution was the result of the fatal accident at that crossing when Alonzo Ray Boston was killed Wednesday, March 7th last.

This is the first time a corporation has ever been indicted in the history of Wicomico county, and more or less interest was aroused on account of that fact. The company, through its attorneys, Messrs. Miles and Stanford, entered a plea of guilty, and the Court imposed a fine of $10.00 and costs.

Mr. John H. Handy, of Snow Hill, was in town Monday and Tuesday, and while here argued the demurrer in the chancery case of Jonathan Huntington vs. William J. Twilley before Judge Charles F. Holland.

The matter was held by the Court sub curia. No other business of importance was transacted. The call of the docket showed the following: Appearances, 15; appeals, orders and petitions, 5; trials, 30; criminal continuances, 18; and criminal continuances, 5.

YACHTING PARTIES.

Many Hosts And Hostesses Of Salisbury Give Outing On The Wicomico—Swimming, Dancing And Luncheons.

One of the features of the Fourth was a most delightful launch party in one of the popular launches of the city. The party, which consisted of nine or ten prominent ladies of town and five or six of the opposite sex, left the wharf about four o'clock, and proceeded rapidly down the river until Cherry Hill was reached, when notwithstanding the large number of men in the party, the "sparkling" ceased, and the boat refused longer to continue the journey under such discouraging circumstances. However, a delightful breeze was blowing and the boat at once developed a peculiar aptitude for rapid drifting. The return trip was peculiarly enjoyable, it being given out that a race had occurred between the launch and another well known boat of the same class. The difficulty in the matter seemed to be, however, that the other boat retained a uniform lead all the way to town, owing to a trivial connection between the two, consisting of a "towing line," and the utter refusal of the "sparkling" launch to make any effort to lessen the distance between the two boats.

It is understood that serious efforts have since been made by the ladies to obtain better material for "sparkling" with a view to preventing a similar occurrence in the future.

These Take A Swim.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dick gave a launch party Wednesday on the "Three Friends." The boat left Salisbury at 11 o'clock in the morning and, after traversing the winding Wicomico to a point below the Great Shoal lighthouse, returned home at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. At the lighthouse all hands jumped overboard and indulged in a delicious swim. Luncheon was served during the trip homeward. The invited guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dick were:

Mrs. Grace Chase, of Los Angeles, Cal.; Misses Catharine Dimpfel, of Easton; Lucile Trussell, Mary Cooper Smith, Gladys Moore, Minnie Mills, Messrs. Barbour Dangerfield and Alexander Brooks of Alexandria, Va.; Robert Mayre and Turner Mayre, of Baltimore; Vickers White, J. Cleveland White, William Phillips, Stephen Toudvine, Marcus Cooper and Percy Trussell.

The Trip On The Helen.

Mr. Walter B. Miller gave a launch party on the Fourth in honor of Misses Edna and Julia Jones, of Newark, on his swift launch "Helen." The party left at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and by 8 o'clock had covered the distance to and from the Great Shoal lighthouse. Luncheon was served. The guests of Mr. Miller were:

Misses Edna and Julia Jones, Alice, Louise and Ruth Gumbly, Messrs. Levin Dirickson, of Berlin, Huston and Harry Kuark, Virgil Ward, Harry C. Fooks, C. Edgar Laws and Dr. Levin D. Collier.

In Honor Of Miss Kerchner.

A delightful yachting party was given on the "Chas. F. Holland" Wednesday evening by Judge Charles F. Holland in honor of Miss Helen Foreman Kerchner, who is the guest of the Messes Humphreys. The party left the wharf about 6:30 o'clock and stopped at White Haven, where an informal dance was held. Afterwards ice cream was served, and the party returned about midnight. Among those present were:

Dance On Quantico Wharf.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Uman gave a launch party Thursday evening on the "Lysabeth" in honor of Miss Sadie White, of Philadelphia, and Miss Lillie Hawkins, of Washington. The party left Salisbury about 7 o'clock and proceeded to Quantico wharf, where the evening was spent in glancing and games. Refreshments were served and then the launch began the return trip, arriving home about 11 o'clock. Those present were:

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Uman, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Uman, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Uman, Misses Sadie White, Lillie Hawkins, Sadie Uman, Helen Uman, Jennie Taylor, Sadie Malone, Maude Bounds, Lula Bacon, Lucy Pope, Messrs. Herbert Parsons, of Parsonsburg, Samuel Hinch, Leon Uman, Pitt Turner, Ernest McBrierty, John Humphreys, Frank Uman and Winnifred Cockran.

To Preach In Washington.

Mr. Levin Insley, of Bivalve, left Monday for Washington, D. C., where he will supply the pulpit of the Protestant Episcopal Epiphany Chapel, Twelfth and C streets, Southwest. This is one of the largest churches in the city and has a full vested choir. Mr. Insley graduated at the Salisbury High School in 1900. Then he took a course in the Western Maryland College, graduating with honor from that institution in 1904. He is now a student at the Virginia Theological Seminary, New Alexandria, Va., and has two more years of study before completing his course there. No one that knows of Mr. Insley's abilities doubts that he will be received with favor by the intellectual people of Washington.

Regatta At Ocean City.

There is a movement under way to hold an invitation regatta in which the clubs of Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and New York will be invited to compete in Sinepuxent Bay, Ocean City, Maryland's popular seaside resort, on September 7th and 8th.

The chief events will be in the rowing and sailing classes. Singles, doubles, fours, eights, etc., will be features of the program. Banners and medals will be awarded to the winners by the citizens' association of the town, under whose auspices the regatta will be held. For several days preceding the rowing events there will be held sailing races and other events of similar character. President W. S. McKean, of the Citizens' Association, who is managing the affair, says he already has promises for entries from the local clubs, the Arleis and Arundels, and that several out-of-town clubs have signified their willingness to compete.

Rogers Wins The Grand American Handicap.

Two hundred and sixty-eight of the best shots in the country took part in the Grand American Handicap Tournament held in Indianapolis, Ind., June 19-22. This event was attended by shooters from all over the country. The great event of the week was the Grand American Handicap, which was won by Mr. F. E. Rogers, of St. Louis, who broke 94 out of 100 targets from the 17-yard mark in a gale of wind, shooting Winchester Factory Loaded Shells. In each of the other three events on the program, Winchester Factory Loaded Shells or Winchester Repeating Shotguns landed in first place, making a clean sweep for these justly popular and reliable goods.

Game Plentiful.

Reports indicate that game this year will be more plentiful than has been the case for some years past. The birds seem to be losing their timidity the more plentiful they become and the same may also be said of the rabbits. They are frequently seen to run across the road in front of a team at very short distances whereas before the gunners of this community decided to give them half a chance it was difficult to find half a dozen cotton tails in an afternoon's drive.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many A Sufferer in Salisbury.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills. You will get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Cambridge woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. W. Bassett, wife of J. W. Bassett, retired farmer, residing at 213 Muir St., Cambridge, Md., says: "I have always enjoyed very good health until recent years when I suffered more or less trouble with my kidneys. It was manifested in severe headaches and rheumatism. The trouble was always worse if I caught cold or overexerted myself. I had terrible dizzy spells at times. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills I asked my husband to get me a box. I took them as directed, and when I had finished the one box I felt so much better that I have since recommended them to a great many people. I know that they have done me a world of good and feel that they are a great thing for kidney complaint."

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1906.

The Nation's Anniversary.

One hundred and thirty years ago last Wednesday, in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, the founders of this country adopted the immortal Declaration of Independence, and a new and different kind of nation took its place among the nations of the world. The peculiar success and remarkable growth of the United States during the period of her national history can be attributed largely to her rigid adherence to the underlying conceptions of our forefathers who so wisely planned and gloriously laid the foundations of our national life. It is, of course, true that in certain instances we have departed from the policies then laid down, but as a general rule we have, through the changing administrations of nearly a century and a half, held firmly to the traditional views of the statesmen of the revolutionary period. It is rather a remarkable thing that those men, surrounded by governments on every hand which had taught their people to believe in the fundamental maxim, "The King can do no wrong," and the more dangerous and sweeping doctrine of the divine right of the sovereign to rule, should have conceived that the people were sovereign, and that the government should be but the mouthpiece and temporary instrument in their hands for the carrying forward of the policies ordained by them. All the great powers of the world were at that time either absolute or constitutional monarchies, and when it is remembered that our forefathers had but few and unimportant—and even unsuccessful—examples to guide them, it becomes more and more remarkable that a political structure should have been erected which could withstand the strain and turmoil to which it has been subjected during the period of its history. And yet today the United States is stronger than it ever has been, and has now taken its place among the great powers as one of the world's factors.

The change of attitude toward this country by the other nations was recently significantly shown during the progress of the Japanese-Russian War when the President brought about a conference between the representatives of the contending powers which resulted in peace. The attempt on the part of a President of the United States to interfere in a mighty struggle between these two great nations would have been ridiculed but a comparatively few years ago, and could have resulted in naught but dismal failure. And yet, only recently when this very attempt was made, the effort was not only not met with ridicule, but the final successful determination of the plan brought forth reluctant words of praise from the crowned heads of Europe that the "Giant Republic of the West" had accomplished that which the old and longest established governments had failed to bring about.

Another milestone has been reached in our national life, and we have started with renewed hope and courage upon the duties of the coming year. That many difficult and peculiarly perplexing problems are now confronting our leaders is only too apparent to all who have given the matter any thought, and yet the same force, the same resolute courage, the same indomitable national spirit and pride which have been the crowning characteristics of this nation for more than a century and a quarter, will continue to make this country more gloriously successful in the future than it has been in the past. Her matchless destiny is now already assured! We may carp and cavil and the evils of our land may be held up in all their worst forms and most despised shapes, and yet we are prone to believe that the country is constantly improving along every line of human endeavor, and not only "that this nation," as the mighty Lincoln said, "shall not perish from the earth," but that it will continue in the lead of the nations toward a higher and nobler civilization, a more permanent and enduring prosperity and be found constantly working for the establishment of a universal peace.

The Jackson-Smith Contest.

It is exceptionally difficult to understand how the Committee on Elections, No. 2, of the House of Representatives, which had charge of this contest, arrived at the conclusion to postpone final action until the next session of Congress. The decision is unjust to Mr. Jackson, unfair to Mr. Smith and unsatisfactory to the public in general. A final disposition should have been reached months ago, and the continuation of the matter and the consequent expense and trouble of taking further testimony which is contemplated in the resolution adopted, is an act of unwarranted injustice to all concerned. It is immaterial for the purposes of the argument whether Mr. Jackson is entitled to the seat or not. There is an old legal maxim that delayed justice frequently amounts to a denial of justice, and it is very apparent in this case. If it is eventually shown that Mr. Jackson is entitled to the seat and a resolution to that effect is adopted, it is a self-evident proposition that to deprive him for nearly two years of that which justly belonged to him is an injustice of the greatest kind. On the other hand, if Mr. Smith is entitled to it, there should have been a clear unequivocal statement of that kind long ago, the contest dismissed and the cloud removed from the title to the seat which he has held in the present congress. He must now continue till practically the end of the term with the constant thought before him that after all he may be declared to be a usurper and the partaker of benefits and emoluments which belonged to another.

There is nothing which breeds more contempt for courts and quasi judicial bodies than lax administration and seeming indifference to the rights of those who have interests in their keeping. It makes no difference what the merits of Mr. Jackson's case may be, he was entitled to a fair hearing, and a full consideration and prompt disposition of the case, and the absurdity of continuing the matter until another election should intervene before the contest in relation to the former one had been finally disposed of, is too plain for argument.

So far as Mr. Jackson is concerned, the contest was made in good faith, with a firm belief that a careful canvass of the votes and a full exposition of the methods which were employed in certain precincts of some of the counties would show beyond a question that he was entitled to the seat now held by Mr. Smith. If it had been shown that he was not entitled to it, no one would have bowed more gracefully to a decision against him than he, as the contest was only made after the situation had been gone over carefully, and there seemed to be every reason to believe he had been elected. That the Committee believes there is considerable merit in his case is evident from the fact that it has held it open until December—otherwise an adverse decision would have been rendered promptly.

However, as long as the Committee has reported as it has, it is hoped for the sake of all concerned that a final decision will be made immediately after the opening of the next session.

The "Advertiser's" Greeting.

The attitude of the local press in relation to the change of management of "The Courier" is indeed gratifying. The kind words of "The Wicomico News," to which we replied last week, were followed by the friendly greeting of "The Salisbury Advertiser," and we thoroughly appreciate the kindly comments and best wishes of our neighboring friends.

"The Advertiser" is one of the "old established" papers which "filled the long-felt want" in this community for years with undisputed sway and with a clear field, but it bowed gracefully to the inevitable journalistic increase in a growing community like this one, and the greeting of last week is, we believe, sincere and earnest.

Some of our friends seem to think that every time a Republican paper mentions a Democratic one, or vice versa, it should be done with a "hiss," an "extended fang," with "snapping eyes" and "coiled alertness," and that the editorial should be printed in red ink and have plenty of "blood and thunder." This is, however, fortunately not always the case, though we cannot promise the "Advertiser" that the "fur" will not "fly" later, and if it has to fly, we will strive to uphold with tenacious perseverance our end of the struggle, and not until the last vestige has been wrenched from its position and joined its fellows in the "fur-bedimmed" air around us, will "The Courier" leave the fray. In the meantime, however, it is delightful that we can at least give expression to our real thoughts and leave the future to take care of itself.

We fully appreciate the "Advertiser's" kind words and friendly interest, and wish to assure our esteemed contemporary that we shall always highly esteem its friendship, and trust it will increase and intensify, rather than diminish, as the years go by.

Uniform Rates for Saving Banks.

A movement has been inaugurated by some of the banks on the Eastern Shore looking to a uniform rate of interest to be paid depositors in savings institutions.

The three banks in Chestertown have been paying 4 per cent. for a number of years on savings accounts and their deposits have increased, to the loss of Queen Anne banks and other institutions. The Centreville banks two months ago advertised to pay 4 per cent. the Talbot Savings Bank did it for years up to last year and the Eastern banks generally were preparing to do the same thing now.

The fight between the banks for the business was seen to be too strenuous for safe banking and a meeting of representatives of all the banks of Kent, Queen Anne, Caroline and Dorchester counties was held in Eastern last Monday, and a lower and uniform rate was decided upon. The Wicomico banks were not invited and were not present at the meeting, since they had not participated in the competition.

The conference was largely attended and it was the sense of the meeting, unanimously endorsed by the representatives of all the banks, that 3 per cent per annum should be the rate of interest which all of these institutions should pay, and that there should be but two dividends a year.

The plan thus drafted will be sent by the secretary of the meeting, Albert G. Towers, of Denton, to every banking institution in the above counties for their ratification, after which the rate of interest and accredited dates for paying same will become operative.

It was also decided that no interest would be paid on deposits remaining in the banks for less than four calendar months.

THE Salisbury Building & Loan and Banking ASSOCIATION

This Association has two separate and distinct departments: "The Building & Loan Department" and "The Banking Department."

The Building & Loan Department, with its paid-up capital stock of $14,500.00, makes loans secured by mortgages, to be paid back in weekly installments of 30c, 40c, 50c, $1.00 or $2.00 per week, to suit borrower; and has been doing a popular and successful business since 1897.

The Banking Department was added in 1902 under authority granted by the General Assembly of Maryland of that year, to set apart $25,000.00 of the Association's capital stock for banking purposes. It receives money on deposits, makes loans on commercial paper, enters into such business transactions as conservative banks ordinarily do, and earnestly solicits the patronage of its friends and the general public. Salisbury Wins At Baseball.

Salisbury defeated Berlin Wednesday 7 to 1 in a well played game of ball, the fielding of Schuler and the pitching of Jones being the features. G. Austin also did good work with the stick. The Salisbury boys are playing good ball and deserve the patronage of the public.

The team depends entirely upon the gate receipts for its support and it is therefore necessary for the public to turn out. Salisbury will play Princess Anne Tuesday. The tabulated score of Wednesday's game follows:

Salisbury was again successful yesterday afternoon, defeating Delmar by a score of 9 to 3 on the latter's grounds. Duncan, who pitched for Delmar, was effective until the ninth inning, when Salisbury dispelled Delmar's ray outlook for victory, and fairly trounced the Delawarean and piled up seven runs, assuring the game to the Salisbury club. Jones, who pitched for Salisbury, put up a splendid game, and was particularly effective at critical times. In the sixth inning, with two men on bases and none out, he retired the home team, and again in the seventh, with three men on bases, he did the same thing. There was a large crowd present, quite a number of ladies being among the spectators, and the game was interesting throughout. The following is the score by innings:

Salisbury.....	1	0	0	0	1	0	0	7	9
Delmar.....	0	0	1	0	0	1	0	0	3

Errors—Salisbury, 4; Delmar, 4.
Umpires—Messrs. Robertson, of Delmar, and A. M. Jackson, of Salisbury.

—The tennis tournament that was to have taken place here Tuesday and Wednesday came near being a fiasco Tuesday Dr. Royster and Mr. C. F. Watson, representing Princess Anne, played and lost to Messrs. J. Roscoe White and William Phillips, of this town, the scores being 6 to 0, 7 to 5 and 6 to 1. Dr. Royster and Mr. Phillips played singles, the latter winning 6 to 2, 6 to 0 and 6 to 1.

—A male quartette has been organized in the Broad-Street Methodist Protestant Church of this city and will render selections at the Sunday evening services during the months of July and August. The pastor, Rev. W. S. Phillips, announces a series of what he terms brief lectures on "Some Men and Women of the Bible" to be delivered at the Sunday evenings of these two months. The services will be of less than an hour's duration, beginning at 8 o'clock.

JACKSON AND DOWNING RESIGN

Resignation Of Majority Of Recently Appointed Street Commission Sent To Mayor Harper Last Evening.

Messrs. William P. Jackson and William J. Downing, constituting a majority of the recently created Street Commission, last evening sent their resignations to Mayor Harper to take effect at once. Their action will, no doubt, come as a great surprise to the public, as only yesterday, Civil Engineer T. C. Hutton, of Wilmington, and Surveyor P. S. Shockey, of this city, who had charge of the recent work in connection with the preliminary survey of the streets, were in conference for a long while with members of the Commission.

It is definitely understood the resignations were brought about by reason of the limited power which had been conferred upon the Commission. It has now been about six weeks since the appointments were made, and notwithstanding the fact that they were anxious to go ahead with the work, they found that no powers had been delegated to them and that they were unable to close any contracts or proceed in any way. The matter has been before the Council a number of times, and only Thursday evening was brought before the board again, but nothing was done to relieve the situation. The gentlemen who have resigned felt that, in justice to themselves and the public, they could no longer continue on the Commission under the circumstances.

Mr. Hutton was before the Council Thursday evening and it was hoped that matters could be so adjusted that the Commission would be ready to advertise for bids for the work of paving within the next week or two, but nothing definite was accomplished. Mr. Thomas Perry, who was president of the Commission, is now the only member left, and it is not known what he contemplates doing.

Valuable Real Estate Sold.

The William W. Gordy property, at "Five Points," was sold Saturday last by George W. Bell and Henry B. Freney, trustees, to Mr. W. C. Gullett. The consideration was $8,760. The property was first offered in three separate parcels, No. 1, being the store house on the corner, which was bid off by Mr. George W. Phillips, who was bidding for Duddy Bros., at $1,925.00. Parcel No. 2, the dwelling now occupied by Mr. Henry B. Freney, was struck off to S. P. Woodcock for $2,550.00. The vacant lot, No. 3, situated on E. Church Street, was sold to L. Atwood Bennett, for $980.00, making a total of $5,455.00 for the entire property.

According to the provision of the sale, the property was then offered as a whole, and was bid off by Mr. W. C. Gullett, who will move the dwelling from this lot up Church street, adjoining the house occupied by Mr. Bates, and will also remove the store house from the corner, early next year. He intends to use the entire lot on which to erect a handsome, modern residence for his own occupancy.

Mr. Joseph L. Bailey, attorney named in the mortgage, sold at public auction at the Court House, Saturday, a tract of land in Trappe district, on which Dr. J. I. T. Long held a mortgage, containing 100 acres of land, for the sum of two thousand dollars. The property was purchased by Dr. J. I. T. Long.

Messrs. W. P. and J. B. Duhany, of Philadelphia, and New York, respectively, have sold the I. H. A. Duhany farm near Fruitland for $8,000.

DIPLOMACY EXCHANGE.

Clearing House Principle to Be Tried in London.

Bits of Information Gathered by American Representatives at European Capitals to Be Assembled and Classified at British Capital—Secretary Root's Scheme to Save Time and Cable Tolls.

"Shirt sleeves diplomacy" is about to spring another open and above board combination on the diplomatic chess board; an example of the application of business principles to a calling which in bygone years was characterized by dark lantern methods, duplicity and intrigue, says the New York Post's Washington correspondent. It is nothing less than an American diplomatic clearing house in London, under the supervision of the American ambassador to Great Britain. There it is proposed to assemble the important bits of information gathered by all the diplomatic and consular officials maintained in Europe by the United States. This knowledge will be classified and filed away, to be kept secret, unless and until some specified disposition of it is authorized by the secretary of state. It will be a duplication of so much of the department's records as relates to Europe, and the purpose of having it assembled at the most important American diplomatic post abroad is to facilitate diplomatic action and save the expense of cable tolls on diffusing information sent to Washington from European courts and which the department wishes to place in the hands of its representatives at the other great capitals abroad.

This important departure in state department usage is to be made effective by a paragraph in the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, which is now before the senate for action, as follows:

Clerks at the Embassy at London—For two clerks at the Embassy at Great Britain, one at the rate of $1,800 per annum and one at the rate of $1,200 per annum.

Adoption of such a plan will have the effect of making Ambassador Reid a sort of vice secretary of state. Even now his post is the most important of all the positions in the service. Other ambassadors hold the same rank, but with Mr. Reid the supervising head of an official bureau which will assimilate and dispense to all other ambassadors secret information which they will individually furnish to him his position will assume an added measure of responsibility.

Advocacy of a clearing house plan is but a development of Mr. Root's painstaking and gradual mastery of every detail of state department work. Many officials who enter the government service are satisfied to fall directly into line with the usage of the department and follow as closely as may be in the footsteps of their predecessors. Upon such basis is "red tape" founded—the desire to do what has always been done and to do nothing else for fear of setting a precedent. Mr. Root is not afflicted with any such fear. If he sees something which may be improved or simplified he doesn't hesitate to authorize the change. His cold, businesslike manner is rather liked by legislators at the capital, who are sick and tired of the importunities of subordinate officials. They do not withhold admiration from a man who knows what he wants and goes after it as if he intended to get it, so the veterans have a large measure of confidence in Mr. Root's recommendations, and it is altogether likely they will think as he does about the clearing house plan and keep it in the bill.

Segro's Cotton Press Invention.

Jim Washington, an old negro who was born and raised on a plantation near Hallettsville, Mo., has invented and obtained a patent on an improved cotton baling press, says a Kennett (Mo.) correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. It is claimed by those who have examined the invention that it will revolutionize the present method of handling cotton. Instead of having to treat cotton to the two processes of ginning and compressing, as now, the ginning and baling will be done at one time. Cotton men are much interested in the invention.

Apple Roses.

One of the curiosities shown in Salina, Kan., is an apple tree bearing roses in full bloom, says the Topeka Capital. Buds from a white rosebush were grafted on the tree some time ago, and this year the roses made their appearance. They are white with a light brown streak running through them, and the flower is perfect in form. The leaves on the boughs in bloom resemble to some extent the leaves of the apple tree and also those of the rosebush, but there is not a leaf which is a perfect form of either.

Not Fatal.

No Matter What Doctors Say—We Know That Heart Trouble in Many Cases Can Be Cured.

There are seven main features of heart disease, viz.: (1) Weakness or Debility; (2) Rheumatism or Neuralgia; (3) Valvular Disorder; (4) Dilation; (5) Enlargement; (6) Fatty Degeneration; (7) Dropsy.

Documentary evidence will prove thousands of so-called "incurables" have been absolutely cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure.

Patients often have no idea their disease is heart trouble, but ascribe it to indigestion, liver complaint, etc.

Here are some of the symptoms: Shortness of breath after exercise. Smothering Spells. Pain in Chest, left Shoulder and arm. Discomfort in Lying on one side. Fainting Spells. Nervous Cough. Swelling of Feet and Ankles. Paleness of Face and Lips. Palpitation. Nightmare. Irregular Pulse.

"I have great faith in Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, and speak of its merits whenever opportunity presents. I can now go up and down stairs with ease, where three weeks ago I could hardly walk one block." Strawberries are high Three crates of berries will buy from us a Fine Suit of Clothes—as fine as a millionaire wears. To be a millionaire therefore (in clothes) buy your new suit with your strawberry money from Nock Brothers.

We have a new store—that is, a new store to you since last strawberry time. It is located where the Farmers & Merchants Bank used to keep. We have a new stock, strictly up-to-date, of everything a man wears—and some things women wear.

The burglars who blew open the B. C. & A. Ry. Co.'s safe a few weeks ago passed our store by. Why? Because our profits are so small we haven't got a safe—don't need one. We're selling cheap this year because we want your trade. In fact we give some things away. Come in and see what we have. Doesn't cost anything to look.

Next year we will want the real value of our goods—ask more for them. But the fellow who buys from us this year won't want a new suit next year. His this-year's-suit will be as good as new. They're not iron-clad, but they're the best wearing clothes in town, and we guarantee a less price.

Other things in our stock are according. There's no use quoting prices—we don't want our creditors to know what we're selling at. They might close us up.

But for $15—fifteen little dollars—~~we will give you a Suit of Clothes~~ that will make you the best-dressed man in your neighborhood.

Come and see us. If you find one thing overdrawn or untrue in the above we will make you a present of a New Stetson Hat, or better still, a Nock's Special.

We are after the strawberry money you are going to spend, and we are bound to have it if values will bring it.

WILMINGTON CONFERENCE ACADEMY.

The entire indebtedness of the institution was recently wiped out and was the occasion of the bond burning, at which Dr. Martindale delivered the address printed below.

ADDRESS OF REV.

T. E. MARTINDALE, D. D.

Delivered At The Wilmington Conference Academy, 61 Dover, On The Occasion Of The Bond Burning In June.

My friends:

To the casual observer this beautiful campus on which we are assembled, seems to be only a level stretch of green sward, but to many of us it is to-day a sacred Mount of Vision. We stand on a commanding eminence and view an unusual prospect.

There was one journey which the ancient Jews were wont to make, in pursuit of their higher aspirations. It led them from far distant places, through Valleys of Baca, shadowed and fearful, up slopes of rugged endeavor, sometimes singing and sometimes silent, until at last, they climbed to the Mt. of Olives, and lo! Jerusalem, the long hoped for, burst on their sight! The friends of the Wilmington Conference Academy have been journeying long and far! We have passed many a valley of discouragement, and many a steep of difficulty, until at last, we have come to our Mt. of Olives, and lo! to-day, the dream of thirty-two long years is realized! Our feet stand within the gates of our educational Jerusalem. The heavy clouds have lifted from the dome of the old Academy, and God drops down upon her the radiant chaplet of His smile. And now, from this goodly summit, we look out, and thought grows strangely busy.

It is a day of reminiscence and review. It was inevitable that this Peninsula should have a seat of Methodist learning at sometime, because Francis Asbury had planted the seed-corn of it during his faithful ministry in these parts. He was the patron and advocate of Christian education. He deeply believed in the intimacy of religion and culture. He prayed, as he threaded these Peninsula forests, that the establishment of church schools might come to pass. And God began to answer that petition in 1870. It was the spirit of Asbury that spoke out in the memorable Methodist Convention of that year, held in Smyrna. From the records of that gathering and others immediately following, it is evident that a mighty conviction, not to say a profound alarm had taken possession of the leading minds of our church. They felt that Methodism needed to be "instructed, inspired and consolidated," and that nothing would more surely conserve that object, than the founding of a school for the training of her children. Notable pleas were made in that behalf. It was urged that the church was recreant to her duty, and indifferent to her future, when she did nothing for the intellectual culture of her young people. They were being sent away to institutions that stole their hearts from the religion and worship of Jesus Christ. The fathers said that "a first-class Academy, founded upon a broadly Catholic basis, but under our own management, was an indispensable necessity, if we would retain our Providential place on this classic soil." They also felt the responsibility of lifting the standards of ministerial efficiency, and of giving our own splendid home talent, a chance to develop under friendly auspices. In a word, they were under conviction that Peninsula Methodism must have a deeper life, a clearer brain and an abler ministry. That conviction burned within them "like a fire shut up in their bones." And with that urgency upon them they set out to plan and to build. The foundations of the Academy, let it not be forgotten, were firmly laid in prayer. The records show it. They consecrated the work at every step, and looked to the enlightening spirit of the Almighty for the accomplishment of their design. Thus reverently, and under such inspiring motives they addressed themselves to their heroic task.

But who can fittingly tell the story of those long and eventful years that have passed since that earnest beginning—the lights and shadows of Academy history, the rising walls, the gathering students, the untimely fire, the perplexing problems, the hopes and fears, the patience that never wore out; and the courage that would not yield in the face of threatened disaster. Turn to the Conference Minutes and the worn Record Book of the Trustees and read the thrilling romance. As I look back upon it all, I cannot think of the Conference Academy as a mere institution; a mass of bricks and mortar, a pile of architectural shapeliness; a thing of lines and angles and rooms and halls. The Academy is to me a living creature, a vital organism, with a throbbing heart and a teeming brain. She moves! She speaks! She informs! She inspires! She is loved and honored! She is Alma Mater! Bountiful mother! And she is such a living personality, because of the great hearts back there, that poured themselves into the currents of her being, the true, strong, self-denying men who put their very souls under her weakness, and solemnly determined that she should live and grow. A mother, because she has imparted her life to so many characters and poured out the stimulating and refining baptism of her influence on a whole generation of her sons and daughters.

I tenderly recall the men who figured in that formative period of the Academy's life. They were strong, representative men, who had achieved success in their chosen professions and vocations, and who brought unusual wisdom and rare executive ability to the development of this enterprise. Among the many, there were three who stood out pre-eminent in those early efforts. Governor Gove Salisbury, John B. Quigg and C. H. B. Day. Salisbury, tall, positive in opinion, tremendously in earnest about the school. Day, precise, prompt, diligent and devoted to the Academy. Quigg, resourceful, aggressive and tireless. What loads they carried. What leadership they evinced. In the darkest days they stood like Joshua and said: "We are able to do it," and never sounded a retreat. I wish the time would permit to name the scores of later toilers who wrought so nobly and well. They are all enshrined in my heart and memory. I must not, however, omit the mention of Thomas Mallieu, who in the name of Maryland, made the first general subscription of $500 to the Academy. I think to-day of the principals, who have managed the school—the practical Williams, the busy, faithful Skinner, the philosophic Gooding, the literary Conwell, the methodical Collins, and the self-sacrificing, irrepressible, enthusiastic Cross, who this day deserves a crown. To these I would add the name of one member of the faculty who for years has been as devoted to the institution, as was Ruth to Naomi.

—Miss Emma Potter. "But the time would fall me to tell of Gideon and Barak, and of Jephthah, and of others, who through faith, subdued Kingdoms and wrought righteousness—"their record is on high."

During these years, the one portent in the sky of the Academy has been its debt. O, the debt. That ghost that would not down. "O, the endless plans and pleas! the desperate expedients, the frenzied finance, the agencies, the never ending resolutions, all to conquer the stubborn debt." There were meetings of the Board when we sat with blanched cheeks, and from which we went out on tip-toe, as if these might be a death. Then the wall of the Conference came in upon the hearts of the troubled Trustees. It is said, "the hands of the Academy are tied." Her power for good is paralyzed. Because she is a mendicant. Her very existence depends on cancellation of the debt. When shall this cry for interest cease? Later, it said "we contemplate with shame and humiliation, any proposition to abandon the project." Think of it. Disaster stared us in the face. Bidders stood ready to buy our birthright. Then the church, our grand old Peninsula Methodism awoke! The shame of it; the dishonor of it, blistered her cheek and stung her to action. No matter if $42,000 was to be raised, it should be done. The call was made. The order rang out, and the column advanced. O, it was glorious, the charge they made. One stronghold after another of the old debt-enemy was captured. And to-day—this day of grace and glory—this 13th day of June, 1906, the last grim fortress of the foe has fallen. The debt is paid! The Academy is free and owes no man anything but love.

It is a day for honors and congratulations. I would make it a Memorial Day. They, who laid the foundations did not live to see the consummation. I would call the roll of the Academy's students and send them forth to lay on the graves of our faithful dead, the flowers of memory and gratitude. They must never be forgotten. Then I would have them return and deck the brows of these living champions of the Academy. Let this be a day of honors for heroes! For there have been heroes among the preachers, among the Alumni, faculty, and in the churches. What great sacrifices they have made to reach this day's result. And yet, it has been a blessed severity for us all. It has made us all better and nobler for the very obstacles we have overcome. An eminent educator has recently said, that "it is infinitely good for each of us to care for some great object, outside of our little circle of personal interests." With this effort to free the Academy some of us have, no doubt, been freed from the narrowness of our old lives, and set in a larger relation to all things. So then, today I congratulate the Methodism of this Peninsula, the Wilmington Conference and loyal old town of Dover, that has never faded us in the hour of need. I congratulate my fellow Trustees, the faculty, the students, the alumni. I congratulate the last special committee who stormed the final redoubt. Most gratefully, I congratulate the members of other denominations who have stood side by side with us in this great achievement for the sake of the general cause of education. Looking forward, I see a new era for the dear old school, and a future of increasing prestige.

And now, my brothers, kindle up the emancipating fires. Let them burn off our bonds. She has worn them already too long. "Loose her and let her go." Give free play to her sinewy strength, and may she live long to build men and women into shapeliness for God and His Kingdom.

WILLIAM LEE MUST DIE.

death, there would have been serious trouble of the worst kind right in that courtroom. There are men here today in his city who have sworn that Lee should die for his crime, and there is no telling what they would have done."

Sheriff Brown seems very undecided as to what to do with his prisoner, now that he is convicted, and stated, after the trial, he would take no step until after a consultation with Governor Warfield.

Mr. Barnes' Statement After Trial.

Mr. Robert G. Barnes, husband of the older victim, who says he was twice asked to lead 400 men in Princess Anne to the home of Judge Page and demand the negro, declared immediately after the trial that Lee would never be hanged.

"They'll burn him, that's what they'll do," said Mr. Barnes.

"The men down there are going to put an end to the negroes who do things like this," he went on. "On the Wednesday they indicted this fellow 400 men came after me. They said: 'You lead us to Judge Page's house. We want you to say: "Judge, I know this thing is serious, but we want to know where this negro is and want him brought here as fast as he can be."'"

"That's all I was to say. The men who told me to say this said they would tell the Judge the rest. They meant, they said, that they would get the 'nigger' or lead out the Judge instead. That's what they told me."

"No, sir; they'll never hang him. They can send all the soldiers they want. There were 150 of them at Eastville. If they hadn't got the 'nigger' away the day they did, there would have been a lynching, and twice as many there could not have saved him. We'll burn him; that's what we'll do. Fifteen hundred soldiers don't make any difference. When they bring him back there'll be shooting, sure, if they don't get him in on a boat and to the Court House in the night before the crowd gets on to it."

"I'm glad they sentenced him to be hanged. That's what we wanted. I don't believe the crowd down home will ever let the authorities carry out the sentence. Hanging's too good. We just want to get him back to Somerset; that's all."

In spite of all the threats and opinions that lynch law will get the negro after all, it seems to be the general opinion that the law will be carried out, if the arrangements for the hanging are made quietly. If a mob gathers there will be trouble.

Governor Warfield must fix the date for the execution of Lee. The law provides that he shall not be hanged within less than 20 days after sentence is pronounced, and also that he must be executed in the county where the crime was committed. The Governor will not delay the execution. He will probably give Lee just 20 days to live, or perhaps a day or so more, if the custom of having all hangings occur on Friday is followed. Then Lee would be hanged on July 27.

The Coming C. E. Convention.

Plans for the convention to be held in Salisbury by the Christian Endeavorers throughout Maryland are rapidly maturing. The State Committee and the Salisbury Committee are both hard at work. The full committees at the Salisbury end have been appointed as follows:

Executive Committee—Rev. W. S. Phillips, chairman; Mr. W. C. Humphreys, vice-chairman; Mr. James T. Malone, secretary; Mr. William E. Sheppard, treasurer. Reception and Entertainment Committee—Mr. W. C. Humphreys, chairman; Misses Katie Todd, Elizabeth Wailes, Marian Veasey, Edna Adkins, Sadie Malone, Mrs. James Lank.

Registration Committee—Miss Alice Wailes, chairman; Miss Sadie Veasey, Mr. Wm. A. Sheppard.

Press and Publicity Committee—Rev. W. S. Phillips, chairman; Mr. F. Leonard Wailes, Mr. William A. Sheppard. Music Committee—Mrs. J. D. Wallop, chairman; Mrs. Gardiner Spring, Mr. V. S. Gordy, Mr. Chas. Wilkins, Miss Edna Adkins, Mrs. Jas. Lank.

Printing Committee—Mr. J. Ryland Taylor, chairman; Mr. James T. Malone, Mr. Charles W. Bennett, Miss Minnie Wimbrow, Miss Sarah Veasey.

Ushers Committee—Mr. Walter S. Sheppard, chairman; Mr. George Hill, Mr. Charles Wilkins.

Juniors Committee—Miss Edna Adkins, chairman; Miss Alice Wailes, Miss Marian Veasey, Mrs. Jas. Lank.

Decorations Committee—Mr. Jas. T. Malone, chairman; Mr. E. W. Windsor.

The dates for the convention have been definitely arranged and are Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 16, 17 and 18.

The original plan was for a two day's convention, but as the object is to make this the best ever held in the State, another day has been added. Generous reduction in rates of fare have been secured by Mr. W. C. Parkins, of Baltimore, who has charge of transportation arrangements. The B. & A. Railway has named an excursion rate of $2.50 for the round trip from Baltimore, and all the railroads will grant a round-trip ticket to Salisbury from all points on the Eastern Shore. The convention will help to spread the fame of Salisbury and will bring to our citizens a splendid inspiration in things moral and religious.

—Miss Mary I. Sudler, of Fairmount, and Mr. Charles L. Whittington, of Marlton, were married in Baltimore last Tuesday by the Rev. D. W. Anstine.

The bride is a daughter of the late Joseph Sudler, of Fairmount district, and has been teaching school in Revell's Neck. The groom is a member of the House of Delegates. Mr. and Mrs. Whittington returned home Wednesday and will reside near Marlton. Mrs. Whittington is a cousin of Mrs. J. McF. Dick and Mrs. Harvey Morris, of Salisbury.

A very interesting entertainment was given by our Sunday School on the 4th. A reading of the Declaration of Independence, by James Bennett, was followed by patriotic songs, recitations, tableaux, flag drills, etc., by the school. The stand was beautifully decorated with evergreens, flags and bunting, in keeping with the general order of the occasion. Refreshments were served, and all seemed to enjoy themselves.

The Riverton Canning Company have begun work on their building.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, who has been sick, is improving.

Mrs. W. L. Wright left for Baltimore Tuesday on a visit to friends.

Cooler weather is now on hand, which all seem to enjoy.

Famous Singing Teacher Dead.

Manuel Garcia, the veteran teacher of singing and inventor of the laryngo scope, died Sunday at his house in London, aged 102 years. He was born at Madrid March 17, 1805. His education began early, and at 15 he received instruction in harmony from the noted Belgian teacher and critic, Francois J. Fetis, and in singing from his father, the famous tenor, Manuel Garcia, who was also father of the great soprano, Malibran. In 1825 young Manuel accompanied his father on a visit to the United States. Jenny Lind was one of his pupils.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

Democrats Of First District Open Campaign By Renominating Smith For Congress—Anti-Bribery Plank.

The Democratic Convention of the First Congressional District of Maryland convened in the parlors of the Atlantic Hotel, Ocean City, Thursday at noon, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the Sixtieth Congress of the United States, and renominated Congressman Thomas A. Smith, of Caroline county. The convention was called to order by State Senator John P. Moore, chairman of the State Central Committee of Worcester county, and in doing so he made a short speech. J. Frank Harper, Esq., of Centerville, was then chosen as temporary chairman, and C. Guy Le Comte was chosen secretary.

A committee on permanent organization was named by having a roll of counties called, each county naming a member on that committee. The members were: Thomas L. Day, of Caroline county; C. C. Squiers, of Cecil county; B. J. Linthicum, of Dorchester county; A. W. Nichols, of Queen Anne's county; Tilghman Shaffer, of Kent county; George S. McCready, of Somerset county; W. B. Jump, of Talbot county; Charles R. Disharoon, of Wicomico county; and J. C. Crockett, of Worcester county. The committee reported the credentials of the members correct and recommended that the temporary officers be made permanent, which report was adopted. The committee on resolutions was then named as follows:

Caroline, Henry R. Lewis; Cecil, James H. Smith; Dorchester, William F. Applegarth; Kent, John A. Hearn; Queen Anne's, J. Kirk Brown; Somerset, Ernest P. Kelley; Talbot, C. W. Rowe; Wicomico, J. E. Ellegood; Worcester, E. W. McMaster. The committee retired and a few minutes later reported resolutions reaffirming their allegiance to the fundamental principles of the party as enunciated by its founders. They charged that the plan of the Republican party as regards trusts and large corporations was but copying old Democratic principles and affirmed that a radical reduction of tariff duties would never come, except through Democratic rule. In furtherance and support of the public sentiment that corruption in politics should cease, they declared that the law and Constitution against bribery should be faithfully enforced, and a call on all good citizens to aid in the accomplishment of this end was made. The "upright and wise business administration" of Governor Warfield and the other State officials was recommended to the fullest extent. Regarding Mr. Smith, the resolutions continued:

"We heartily indorse the course in the Congress of the United States of our Representative, Hon. Thomas A. Smith. His firm stand with his party on all matters of moment to the country, his fidelity to his public duties of every character, and his earnest labors for those measures of concern to this district make the renomination this day to be accorded him the just reward of a faithful public servant, and we confidently commend his candidacy to the thoughtful and unpurchasable voters of all parties."

Congressman Smith was then placed in nomination by Dr. Stephen L. Stone, of Caroline, and after several seconding speeches, he was named by acclamation. Mr. Smith was then notified of his nomination and he made a short speech of acceptance, after which the convention adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.

Notes Of The Convention.

The Congressman is not much of a speaker, and after he had been notified of his nomination and escorted to the hall, he began his speech of acceptance in an "off-hand" manner, but in a few seconds he found himself at sea, gave a few helpless glances around and then produced a manuscript and held rigidly to it thereafter.

Mr. Harper proved himself a good presiding officer. He was quiet, dignified and determined, and carried the convention along in an easy and satisfactory manner.

Governor John Walter Smith seated himself fairly and squarely in the saddle again and the proceedings bore evidences of his handiwork on every hand. In fact he thoroughly dominated the situation.

Mr. Law, delegate from Talbot, when the roll of counties was being called for nominations, stirred the convention by vigorously declaring the resolutions did not go far enough but should have endorsed that "matchless leader,"—Wm. J. Bryan—and this brought forth about the only decent round of applause during the Convention.

Mr. Ellegood carried his "anti-bribery plank" to Ocean City with him under his arm, and for a while there threatened to be "something doing," but he managed to slip it in the platform edgewise with the rough edges knocked off and the sides somewhat splintered. It didn't exactly fit, but he got it in all the same.

The usual convention nuisance was present in the person of the irrepressible Thomas Hughlett, of Dorchester, who had about all aboard he could well stand. When Mr. Ellegood tried to expel matters by dispensing with the further roll call after Mr. Smith had been formally placed in nomination, Hughlett very strenuously objected and told him he had had enough differences with him already, which was only natural in view

WICOMICO THE PLACE.

Plenty Of Pleasant And Profitable Work For All Here—Salisbury Shirt Factory Needs Help.

That Salisbury and Wicomico county is the place for the man that wants to settle down in peace in some locality where he can be assured that he can procure plenty of profitable work for himself and family is doubted by no one conversant with the facts. Every year hundreds of dollars are lost by the farmers because they cannot secure sufficient help to till the land and harvest the crops. Many acres of valuable land in the county are lying idle because of this, when they might be producing money for their owners and the laborers.

The same condition holds forth in many manufacturing establishments in the city. For instance, the Jackson-Weisbach Company, manufacturers of shirts, are and have been for some time advertising for more help. Women mostly are needed here, but if the company had 50 to 60 more women operators, this would enable them to do a larger business and more men would be needed. The Jackson-Weisbach Company is financed and operated by substantial and experienced men, and is incorporated under the laws of Delaware. It is a home concern also, and is working for the interest of Salisbury. Mr. William P. Jackson who is connected with many of the large enterprises of the town, is the president and treasurer. Mr. George H. Weisbach, who has an experience in the shirt manufacturing business dating back 21 years, is the vice-president, secretary and general manager.

The shirt factory here was established about ten years ago and since that time has been an important factor in the commercial welfare of the town. For a while the plant was operated at a loss, but seven years ago Mr. Weisbach was made manager by the owners, Well-Haskell Company.

Mr. Weisbach gained his experience in shirt making, which embraces every step from the cloth till the complete shirt is boxed and shipped to the buyer, in New York state. Everything went nicely and the weekly pay-roll meant big things to the merchants of Salisbury, till two years ago, when labor troubles broke out, finally resulting in the closing down of the establishment. This was a blow both to many innocent employees and to the business interests of the city, but now the new Company has taken charge, the labor difficulties are no more, and every indication is pointing toward progress. The company now has the second largest pay roll in the city and expects in the course of a few months to be in the lead in this respect. Naturally, the condition of such a concern vitally affects the business health of a community the size of Salisbury. In speaking of the matter this week Mr. Weisbach said:

"We are now employing 100 to 125 persons and would be glad to swell this number to 200. We have more work than we can do. We make nothing but the finest class of shirts and employ competent salesmen to dispose of our product. Our pay roll now is about $500 to $600 per week, and it is not our fault that it is not larger. We are trying to secure enough help to make the figures $1,000 or $1,200 per week. In fact, we would like to fill the entire plant with men and women, and then we could weekly turn out 1000 dozen best shirts and would have a weekly pay-roll of $1,500 to $2,000."

"There seems to be some false idea of propriety or sentiment that prevents young ladies from taking a respectable position in front of a sewing machine with others. The work is not arduous, though constant, for the machines are run by power, and all that is required is to guide the garment correctly. The operators get paid by the piece, and some of them become so expert as to make splendid wages. All can earn good money if they are attentive and desirous."

"The tone of this factory is above reproach, and parents need have no fear regarding their daughters during the working hours. If it is thought for a moment that the discipline is harsh, anyone's mind may be corrected on that point by consulting with the operators, or by paying a visit to the factory and inspecting it for himself or herself."

Monorail Road Assured.

Baltimore and Ocean City Railway Company, chartered by the last legislature, expects shortly to begin active operations on its monorail line across the Eastern Shore to the sea coast. Mr. F. H. Solan has completed drawings of the route, which comes very near to being an air line, and will enable trains to make the distance between Baltimore and Ocean City—113 miles—in a little less than two hours. With the use of the monorail system the trains can with safety maintain a speed of 100 miles an hour, and if it were not for the necessity of ferrying across the Bay from Turkey Point to Talbot county the distance to the seacoast would be covered in a little more than an hour. From 40 to 50 minutes will be required by the ferry boats of the line to cross the bay. The new road will have no grade crossings, provision having been made by Mr. Solan to either tunnel or bridge over highway encountered on the route. Senator Joseph B. Seth, of Eastern, is president of the company, and Mr. William S. Gorty of this city is a member of the board of directors.

IMPORTANT COUNCIL MEETING.

Resignations Accepted—Plans For Street Improvement Received—City Collector Byrd's Report.

The City Council Monday night received and accepted the resignations of Messrs. William P. Jackson and William J. Downing as members of the Street Commission. As told in last week's Courier, these gentlemen mailed their letter of resignation to Mayor Harper and the Council Friday night, since they did not feel that proper power to make contracts for and carry on the work of street improvement had been given them. Their letter follows:

Salisbury, Md.,
July 6, 1906.

Gentlemen:—We hereby present our resignations as members of the Street Commission, as we cannot, in justice to ourselves, continue to serve as members of a Commission that has never been created or to whom no authority has been delegated.

Regretting that circumstances are such that we feel compelled to take this step, we remain,

Yours respectfully,
WILLIAM J. DOWNING,
WILLIAM P. JACKSON.

Civil Engineer T. C. Hutton, of Wilmington, Del., placed the plans and specifications for the proposed street improvements in the hands of the Council. Since the Council had already decided upon vitrified brick and had made some contracts, it is understood, Mr. Hutton's report deals principally with this method of improvement.

In his plans Mr. Hutton has provided for the improvement of several more streets than were contemplated by the City Council, and estimates the cost at $111,566.45. Of this amount he puts the city's part at $63,904.89, and that of the property owners at $47,661.56. The estimates of Mr. Hutton provide for vitrified brick with granite curbing as follows:

Main Street, from Division St. to river.....	$10,537.72
Dock Street, from Main St. to bridge.....	3,147.70
St. Peter's Street.....	2,422.21
Camden Avenue, from bridge to Winder Street.....	20,027.92
Camden Street, from Division Street to Dock Street.....	5,331.18
Division Street, from Camden Ave. to Church Street.....	6,131.97
Division Street, from Church Street to B. C. & A. depot.....	23,468.67
West Church Street, from Division St. to St. Peter's Street.....	3,212.94
East Church Street from Division St. to depot.....	19,940.87
Broad Street from Division Street to East Church Street.....	10,948.01

The Council determined to proceed immediately to make all contracts for the paving with brick, of Dock, Main and Division streets, to the intersection of Church street. An ordinance was formulated to cover the work contemplated, and the Council will at once have the proper drafts, bidding sheets, etc., gotten out for the work. The Council also passed the proper ordinance empowering them to issue the bonds necessary for this work. The act of the General Assembly fixed the amount of the bonds to be issued at $50,000, but the Council will issue only that portion of the bonds necessary to complete the work on the three streets named.

The resignation of Mr. L. W. Dorman as a member of the Council was presented to the body, but as it was hoped that Mr. Dorman might be induced to withdraw the letter the Council did not act on this matter. Mr. Dorman's reason for resigning was his lack of time to give the business of the Council his proper attention.

City Collector Henry J. Byrd laid his report before the Council. During the year Mr. Byrd collected over $13,000 in taxes, and there is only remaining on the tax books for 1905 the sum of about $6.00. This is considered an excellent showing and demonstrates Mr. Byrd's capacity as a City Collector. He was reappointed for another term of office by the Council at Mayor Harper's recommendation.

"Tommy" Kelly's Outing.

Thomas Kelly, the popular "matinee idol" for the Eastern Shore College scholarship, to be given by the Palm Garden, fell from Grace Wednesday, and the ladies had to have a heart to heart talk with him. It seems "Tommy" struck some rather bad company from Eastern down at Ocean City on the Fourth, and if he had been compelled to carry, a telegram down a chalk line he would have proven a dismal failure. However, the ladies have again restored him to favor, and the ball box is now being nightly stuffed in the interest of their favorite.

Girls Fight With Knife.

Nina Tuttle, ten years of age, was arrested last evening for cutting Bessie Truitt, who is only 12 years old. The two girls were found in a field just north of Parsons Cemetery by a man from Delmar who separated the girls and brought them to Salisbury. Dr. F. M. Siemens dressed the wounds of the Tuttle girl and found six different cuts on various parts of the arms and body. While none of the wounds are serious, there is one on her wrist that is ugly and quite painful. The Tuttle girl was carried before Justice of the Peace William A. Truider, and after a hearing committed temporarily to jail. Definite action will be taken later.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS.

Democrats Of First District Open Campaign By Renominating Smith For Congress—Anti-Bribery Plank.

of his shaky condition and Mr. Ellegood's well known views on the subject, and then he shouted this clincher: "If Mr. Smith wants any money, I'll give it to him."

County Convention.

The Wicomico County Democratic Convention met Tuesday at noon in the Court House and elected delegates to the First Congressional Convention, which met at Ocean City Thursday, and passed a few resolutions. No friction developed, and everything ticked away like clockwork. The delegates were called to order by Mr. James T. Truitt, of the State Central Committee. Mr. George W. Bell was made temporary chairman and Messrs. J. Osburn Adams and B. Frank Kennerly were named secretaries.

The resolutions deplored the loss to the State and party of the late Senator Arthur P. Gorman and extended sympathy to the bereaved family. The main feature of the resolutions was the reference to the anti-bribery plank. The excellent results accomplished by the combined plan last year of the Republicans and the Democrats was spoken of and request was made that the Republican Convention and organization and all other good citizens pledge themselves to aid in the accomplishment of a better condition in the politics of this county. The "faithful and diligent attention which Hon. Thomas A. Smith has given to his duties as Representative from this district in Congress" was applauded and his renomination by the Ocean City Convention recommended.

Six delegates at large and one from each district to the Congressional Convention were elected. Those at large were: Messrs. James E. Ellegood, Charles R. Disharoon, A. W. Robinson, J. Cleveland White, H. James Messick and S. Ker Simons. The district delegates named were: Wm. H. Bailey, G. C. Bounds, W. W. Larmore, G. Ernest Hearn, Clayton C. Parker, E. M. Bethards, John W. Dashiell, George W. Fooks, Jerome T. Hayman, C. J. Gravenor, Charles E. Williams, George D. Insley, A. M. Jackson and E. G. Davis.

After the Convention adjourned, the delegates repaired to the Peninsula Hotel, where the wants of the inner man were attended to by mine host Harry Phillips.

Notes of County Convention.

The Democratic managers should have a side talk with the genial Sheriff of Wicomico county, whose frankness, if refreshing, is slightly at variance with the traditional methods of running conventions. When the time came for the resolutions to be offered some one wanted to make the usual motion for the appointment of a committee on resolutions. "What's the use of that," shouted the Sheriff, "they're all written and I move they be adopted by the convention." "No, no," said Mr. William C. Mitchell, an unsophisticated member from Salisbury district, we must have the committee on resolutions, as these are quite important, and it will take some time to properly prepare them." And so it happened that the committee was duly appointed and Mr. Mitchell rewarded with its chairmanship, and in about two minutes he gravely reported the resolutions which had been prepared before the convention had met, without so much of a change as the dotting of an "i" or the crossing of a "t"; and the convention rattled on.

Mr. James E. Ellegood was given a high seat in the "synagogue," with his "Anti-Bribery" plank, and Senator Brewington, who was not a member of the convention and publicly stated he was but an "on-looker," worked "the wires" and pulled "the strings."

Bewey's Long Voyage Ended.

The drydock Dewey, which was two years in building and which is a product of the Maryland Steel Company, reached Olongapo, Philippine Islands, her destination, Tuesday in safety after a voyage of 193 days.

The Dewey left Solomon's Island December 28 last on her famous journey half around the world. She was conveyed by the colliers Brutus, Caesar, Glacier and the navy tug Potomac. The difficulties in the way of this undertaking were deplored as impracticable by many naval officers, and it is said more than one dodged the job of taking this Baltimore-built piece of naval machinery across two oceans and through the Suez canal.

The journey across the Atlantic was marked by severe tests on the construction of the big dock, which had its first test off Solomon's Island by lifting the Colorado. An idea of this task can be gotten by those who have seen the Maryland, which is of the same type.

The towing feat was the greatest ever attempted in transoceanic navigation. The towing by colliers was sharply criticised by many authorities, several contending that two battleships should have been sent.

God's Pay-Day.

The following anecdote is commended to those who, "because sentence against an evil work is not executed speedily," preserve in wickedness:

"Look at my grain," said a seething farmer to a clerical neighbor. "I ploughed on Sunday; I planted on Sunday; I harrowed on Sunday; I harvested on Sunday, and I never had a better crop. What do you say to that?"

"I only say," said his companion, "that God doesn't settle all his accounts on the first of October."

Fort At Cape Henry.

An artificial island midway between Capes Henry and Charles for the defense of Chesapeake Bay, Hampton Roads and all the rivers which empty into them has been planned and will be modeled after the island fort Japan has constructed for the defense of Tokio, in case the Japanese government will permit Brigadier General John P. Story, U. S. A., former chief of artillery, to inspect the fortifications in Tokio harbor.

Brigadier General Story is now in Japan on leave and while in the Orient will make a special study of fortifications looking to the framing of plans for extensive fortifications in this country in accordance with the action of the joint Army and Navy Board of Fortifications.

The general scheme as outlined by the board for the defense of the Virginia Capes contemplates the installation of 14-inch guns on the proposed island between the two capes, as well as big guns on both Cape Henry and Cape Charles. The only gun the artillery has used in this country which is larger than the 12-inch guns is the great 16-inch piece installed at Sandy Hook. That is a curiosity and is regarded as a freak rather than an effective weapon.

It is likely that the proposed island with its immense guns will be located much nearer to Cape Henry than to Cape Charles, as the water is shall near Cape Charles. Between the capes the channel which can be navigated by large ships is only about five miles wide. The other water is so shoal that no defense of it is necessary. Consequently the island will doubtless be located near the middle of the deep channel.

The defenses of Tokio are regarded as of exceptional merit, and the island constructed for the defense of the harbor of that city closely meets the requirements of the entrance to the Virginia Capes.

What Happens In New York.

Someone has started on the rounds of the papers the following estimates which help us to realize the amazing rush of modern civilization in a great city:

Every forty seconds an emigrant arrives.
Every three minutes someone is arrested.
Every six minutes a child is born.
Every seven minutes there is a funeral.
Every thirteen minutes a pair gets married.
Every forty-two minutes a new business firm starts up.

Every forty-eight minutes a building catches fire.

Every forty-eight minutes a ship leaves the harbor.

Every fifty-one minutes a new building is erected.

Every fifty-two seconds a passenger train arrives from some point outside the city limits.

Every one and three-quarter hours some one is killed by accident.

Every seven hours someone fails in business.

Every eight hours an attempt to kill some one is made.

Every eight and one-half hours some pair is divorced.

Every ten hours someone commits suicide.

Too Much For Husband

A lady walked into a telephone office recently, called the operator, and told him that her husband had gone to the city to buy a pennant for his Sunday School class. "But," she said, "He has forgotten to find the size of the required pennant, or to find the inscription which should appear on it. I want to send a telegram." The telegrapher handed her paper and pencil, with the request that she write the message. She wrote "This day a child was born unto me, eight feet long and two feet wide." Her husband must have received the message for he has not yet returned to his home.

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1906.

The Street Commission.

The decision of the City Council Monday evening to abolish the Street Commission was a step in the right direction, and it is hoped that the Mayor and Council will now proceed as rapidly as possible with the actual work of paving the streets. The people long ago endorsed the street-paving idea, and the last legislature conferred ample power and authority upon the Mayor and City Council to proceed with the work, and yet the summer is rapidly slipping away and no actual results have yet been accomplished. The terse and sharp contents of the letter to the Mayor from Messrs. William P. Jackson and William J. Downing, resigning from the Commission, which we publish in full elsewhere in this issue, have opened the eyes of the people to the conditions as they now exist and doubtless brought the Council to the full realization of their responsibility in the matter.

If the Mayor and Council had really intended to create a body which should have full power and authority to take charge of the work, they should have passed an ordinance defining definitely their duties, the scope of their power and the measure of their responsibility, and then the public would have known to whom to look for a performance of this important work. Had they accomplished the task successfully, they would have been entitled to full credit, and on the other hand if constant delays had occurred in the prosecution of the work, if mistakes and failures were apparent, and if eventually a totally unsatisfactory ending should have been the result of the long struggle to better the condition of our streets, then the Commission, and the Commission alone, would have been compelled to bear the burden of the blame.

If, however, the Mayor and Council, was unable from a legal standpoint, as claimed by City Solicitor L. Atwood Bennett and certain other lawyers, to delegate full power to a commission of this character, then the Commission should have been abolished as soon as that fact was apparent, and the Mayor and Council should not have asked a set of men to act upon a commission clothed with no powers and to whom no assigned duties could be officially given. The language of Messrs. Jackson and Downing was therefore peculiarly apt and expressive when they said: "We cannot, in justice to ourselves, continue to serve as members of a commission which has never been created, or to whom no authority has been delegated."

Now that these preliminary matters are out of the way and the estimates are in the hands of the city officials, we believe the Mayor and Council, who are clothed with full power in the matter and must assume the entire responsibility for the performance or non-performance of the work, will proceed vigorously and promptly, as the people of the city are vitally interested in seeing the work actually commenced and carried to a successful termination.

The Democratic Conventions.

In the news columns of this issue of THE COURIER will be found a complete account of the proceedings of the Democratic Conventions held in this city on Tuesday and at Ocean City on Thursday, and it will be our purpose to adhere as fully as possible to this policy of giving fully the news of the community,—no matter from what source it emanates.

We have never believed in the peculiar kind of newspaper ethics by which a Democratic paper, in giving an account of the death of a prominent Republican, tosses in some out of the way place this statement: "John Doe, a well known Republican, died at his home in this city Saturday. He was fifty years old and a 'dyed-in-the-wool' Republican. He was buried Sunday;" or the kind by which a Republican paper, in giving an account of a Democratic Convention, can only find time and space to throw in the following "squib": "The Democrats held their County Convention Tuesday. It was the usual cut and dried affair, and was totally lacking in enthusiasm and interest." Probably it was lacking in "interest"—to the opposition,—but to the "household of faith," it was "bristling" with interest, even though unusually tame. And it may be that it was in fact "cut and dried," and if such should be the case, we will not hesitate to state it. But to characterize all conventions of the other party in the same off-hand and listless manner is not our idea of reporting the news. It has been the special province of certain newspapers to attempt to influence public sentiment by suppressing news, emanating from the opposition, or giving it in a garbled, incomplete and ridiculous manner, while news items in relation to doings within the sacred precincts of their own political circle are heralded with "double heads," heavily "leaded" columns, and written in a gloriously enthusiastic manner,—frequently out of all proportion to the facts in the case.

The news columns of this paper will be intended to convey the news to the public, while to the editorial columns will be reserved the policy of the paper, which will in no wise be uncertain.

The Ocean City Convention.

It is refreshing to note the admission by the Ocean City Convention that the Republican Party is actually doing something, even though it be according to a "program formulated at the White House" and "constructed on principles advocated by the Democratic Party."

Wonderful! Wonderful! Democracy is at last waking up! If our friends will glance at the glorious pages of American history for the past fifty years, they will find the Republican Party has ever been "up and doing" and the record of the United States for the past half century is largely the magnificent record of achievements and progress of the Republican Party. True! our Democratic friends are claiming the "trust-regulating" ideas, but then that party always was prolific in claiming, and so long as they admit the Republicans are actually doing something, we can afford, without admitting their claims, to let them get what little glory they can out of their delightfully coined phrases. And then, too, there seems to be little in store, anyway for the Democratic Party nationally, and it would be an everlasting shame to take from them the pleasure of having their harmless little flings at the opposition, for the Republican Party intrenched in power, magnificent in leadership, glorious in the record of the past and confident in the brilliant future before her, will continue her matchless record of events as the years go by.

Salisbury Still Winning.

Salisbury defeated Princess Anne in an interesting game of base ball Wednesday, the score being 8 to 0. The game was played in the remarkable time of 65 minutes, due principally to the strike-out pitching of Schuler, Salisbury's pitcher. Salisbury outbatted Princess Anne, having three singles, one two-bagger and one three-bagger to her credit, while the visiting team was held down to two singles. The score:

Blind Man Speaks In The Interest of The Blind.

—Mr. George W. Conner, who was recently appointed by Gov. Warfield on a commission for improving the condition of the adult blind of the State, spent a few days in Salisbury this week. Sunday morning he addressed the Sunday School of Trinity Church, and in the evening the congregation of the Division Street Baptist Church. Mr. Conner is himself an enterprising, self-supporting blind man, and is now in the field. He also represents the Maryland School for the Blind of Baltimore; the Maryland School for the Deaf at Frederick City, and the Maryland School for Colored Blind and Deaf. He has found already in Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico counties over 40 adult blind, and 15 young blind, and deaf children. In an address delivered at the Division Street Baptist Church of this city last Sunday evening on the self-reliant blind, Mr. Conner said that the idea that the blind must forever beg, or live in idleness is false, but that a good all-around education will lift them up to a level of usefulness among men. If the readers of this paper know of a blind man, woman or child, Mr. Conner, whose address for the summer will be Marion, Md., should be notified.

Music For The Christian Endeavor Convention.

—The committee on music of the coming Christian Endeavor State Convention to be held in Salisbury three days in October, is arranging to make music the most important feature of the meeting. Mrs. J. D. Wallop is chairman of this committee, and a chorus of 75 voices has been asked to help. The first rehearsal was held Thursday evening in the rooms of the Eastern Shore College. Mr. W. T. Dashiell, of this city, will take charge of and direct the chorus at the rehearsal and at the convention. Mr. Richard A. Harris, probably the best known chorus conductor in the State, who also had charge of the music in Baltimore two years ago when the International Convention met there, will be present and lead the congregational singing. The daily sessions of the convention will be held in the Presbyterian and Protestant Churches, while the night sessions, at which the big chorus will sing, will be in Ulman's Opera House.

—If you know of an item or a piece of news, tell us about it. That's what we want. But a newspaper man sometimes experiences more difficulty in gathering news than one would imagine. This was the case when a reporter in a neighboring town, who a few days ago was sent to write up a fire in a residence. Going to the door, he inquired for the lady of the house. The maid said she was out. "Are any of the family at home?" inquired the scribe. "No, they are all out," was the reply. "Well, wasn't there a fire here last evening?" "Yes," said the hired girl, "but that is out too."

—The members of the Salisbury Base Ball Club held a business meeting Thursday evening and elected the following officers: Mark Cooper, manager; Ray Truitt, captain; Carl Schuler, secretary and treasurer; William Perry, assistant secretary and treasurer. The clerk was instructed to write Engineer Crosby as to the relative cost of shells and limestone as per above figures. Garrison Lewis was appointed constable for Willard district, No. 14. Commissioner Larmore appointed Thursday, July 19, as the day to have the surveyor resurvey and lay out a road in Nanticoke district from Josterville to Nanticoke point. Commissioner Wright reported that he had contracted with Atlas Bradley to repair the Weatherly mill bridge and dam for $125.00.

—The Salisbury Water Company has about completed the laying of the different mains under the streets of the city, as recommended by the City Council. Superintendent Rhodes finished the work on High street Tuesday last. Every section of the city will now be protected in case of fire except California. The citizens of that section of the city, it is stated, will petition the City Council to have the water mains extended to that part of Salisbury. While the new mains were being laid many new fire hydrants were put in. Several of them have a six inch connection with the mains, which will give a strong pressure in cases of fire. All the small one and two inch pipe which was laid in the city has been taken up and six inch pipe laid in its place. The cost of the new improvements have aggregated $10,000.

—If Hon. William H. Jackson should be nominated by the Republicans of the First district and elected in the fall, he bids fair to rival Hon. "Syd." Mudd as the Congressional humorist from Maryland. His declaration when asked about his political intentions—"I never sing until the hymn is announced"—is a delicious bit of cynicism worthy of "Maise Sydney" himself. "Uncle Bill" seems to be sawing wood at his home at Salisbury, and is keeping his weather eye open. Of course, he has with him his trusty cane, with which he raps the shins of his friends merely to show them that he likes them, and if they are in special favor with him, he gives them a punch besides for good measure. Mr. Jackson's brother, the ex-Governor, who flocks in the Democratic camp, is also keeping quiet on his own political plans. He will spend a part of the summer, as is his annual custom, at Bedford Springs, Pa., with his old friend, Ex-Senator Henry G. Davis of West Virginia. His contemplated trip to Europe has been abandoned. —Baltimore News.

Montana Man's Startling Discovery in an Old Well.

Herman Hermesmyer of Sheridan, Mont., a son of the fatherland, says he has stumbled upon an easy way of gathering gold.

He has an old fashioned chain pump in his well, and a short time ago he discovered glistening particles of gold dust clinging to its links, says a Sheridan special dispatch to the Cincinnati Tribune.

Investigation brought out the fact that the whole length of the chain, something like a hundred feet, had been eaten full of small holes by the action of alkali. These holes, says Hermesmyer, were full of pure gold. He dug out the contents of several holes with a penknife, and a test proved that the gold was genuine.

He now proposes to melt the chain and clean up several hundred dollars. Hermesmyer says the water in the well must contain gold in minute particles, which through precipitation have become lodged in the holes eaten by the alkali. If his clean up pans out as he hoped he proposes to lease all the wells in Sheridan and put in chain pumps.

A Good Dog.

It is related by Professor Bell that when a friend of his was travelling abroad he one morning took out his purse to see if it contained sufficient change for a day's jaunt he intended making. He departed from his lodgings, leaving a trusted dog behind.

When he dined he took out his purse to pay and found he had lost a gold coin from it. On returning home in the evening his servant informed him that the dog seemed very ill, as they could not induce him to eat anything. He went at once to his favorite, and as soon as he entered the room the faithful creature ran to him, deposited the gold coin at his feet and then devoured the food placed for him with great eagerness. The truth was that the gentleman had dropped the coin in the morning. The dog had picked it up and kept it in his mouth, fearing even to eat lest he should lose his master's property before an opportunity was afforded him to restore it.—Chambers' Journal.

Origin of Crescent Bread.

The origin of the Viennese bread shaped like a crescent, which is found in most places on the continent, dates back to the time when the Austrian capital was being besieged by the Turks under the terrible Grand Vizier Kara Mustapha, and as they failed to take the city by assault they decided to dig a passage under the walls and so penetrate into the town. In the daytime the noise of the siege made the sound of the tunnelling inaudible, and at night the defenders of the place were asleep, all but the sentries and the bakers. It was the bakers who, as they baked the bread for the garrison, heard the pickaxes of the miners coming nearer and nearer and gave the alarm. In the fighting the bakers' association took their share with the utmost bravery, and as a reward for their services the emperor gave them permission to make a special cake shaped like the Turkish crescent.—London Sketch.

Figures That Stagger.

It used to be that astronomy, with its stupendous magnitudes, incredible velocities and inconceivable distances, seemed to make the greatest demand on man's belief, says the London Telegraph. Today it is physics. We read, for instance, that Hertz's oscillations give rise to 500,000,000,000 oscillations per second. Where is the man who can conceive of anything happening in the five-hundred-millionth part of a second? But this is quite a long period compared to some of those now accepted as inevitable optics. According to Maxwell's great theory, a light wave is a series of alternating electric currents flowing in air or interplanetary space and changing their direction 1,000,000,000,000,000 times per second. And this is supposed to be true of every form of light coming from the sun, the electric lamp or a lucifer match. Who can think of anything happening in the thousand-million-millionth part of a second?

Landseer's Valet.

Sir Edwin Landseer, the famous animal painter, had an old servant—his butler, valet and faithful slave—named William, who was particularly assiduous in guarding the outer portal. No one could by any possibility gain direct access to Sir Edwin. The answer would invariably be, "Sir Edwin is not at home." The prince consort himself once received this answer when he called, amplified on that occasion by the assurance that "he had gone to a wedding," an entire fiction on William's part, as the prince found out, for on walking boldly in and round the garden he noticed Sir Edwin looking out of his studio window. This was the faithful attendant who one day, when a lion had died at the "zoo" and his corpse came up in a four wheeled cart to be painted from, startled his master with the question, "Please, Sir Edwin, did you horder a lion?"

Suffering

Will Not Help Your Disease, but Will Weaken Your Nerves.

Folks who think it is better to bear pain than soothe it—are wrong. Old-fashioned doctors used to say it was better, because they had nothing with which to ease pain but dangerous, heart-paralyzing drugs.

But now, that a safe remedy has been found, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, it is wrong to suffer, for nothing can be gained but weakened nerves.

A safe rule to remember is: When in pain, take an Anti-Pain Pill.

This will soothe your quivering nerves. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills relieve pain by restoring the natural secretions, in which they differ from opium and similar narcotic drugs, which relieve pain by checking the action of the glands.

They are sure and harmless, and are the latest medical treatment for the cure of Headache, Neuralgia, Backache, Rheumatism, Dizziness, Toothache, Stomachache, Menstrual (Monthly) Pains. Also nerve irritations like Sea-Sickness, Car-Sickness, Sleeplessness, Indigestion, etc.

Pleasant to take, quick in results.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick, nervous headache, and have received the best results. I heartily recommend their curative properties, for they are successful."—REV. RAY A. GOOD ROADS.

Splendid Driveway Will Be Built To Jamestown Exposition Grounds From Norfolk, Va.

One of the show features of the Jamestown Exposition will be beyond its gates. The entire country is taking more interest every year in the subject of good roads, and the six mile stretch from the Exposition Grounds to the city of Norfolk will contain an object lesson in improved road construction.

Vehicles by the thousand will travel between Norfolk and the Exposition Grounds every day from May until December, 1907. More than one hundred thousand troops will pass over this roadway. It will be subjected to all kinds of usage, and if it stands the strain of the hard wear which it must necessarily endure, the solving of that weighty problem—the best road for general purposes will be well advanced to its finality. If all the vehicles were rubber-tired, a well macadam road would last indefinitely, but narrow steel tires, not entirely confined to pleasure carriages, but often attached to the heavier vehicles for merchandise transportation, wear the ordinary road into strings.

Experts from the Good Roads Division of the Department of Agriculture will probably supervise the construction of this Boulevard, which will be built by Norfolk county. From the city limits to the heart of Norfolk the Boulevard will be asphalted, and the whole length will be not less than one hundred and twenty-five feet wide at any point.

It is anticipated that this Exposition Boulevard will give a great momentum to the good roads movement in the South. The initial cost of a first-class road is greater than that of an ordinary roadway, but the cost of maintenance is far less and repairs are much more infrequent. The South has not paid as much attention to avenues of communication between country settlements and villages as have other sections of the country, and good roads enthusiasts figure that millions have been lost by this neglect of opportunities.

Every element which enters into the cost of the Exposition Boulevard will be recorded, and visitors to the Ter. Centennial who will use this highway from Norfolk to the Exposition in 1907 can learn at any time exactly what the road cost to build and what is being spent on its maintenance.

Southern's New Office.

The Southern Railway management has moved their uptown office from No. 1185 Broadway to No. 1200 Broadway, corner of Twenty-ninth street (Gilsey House corner). This new office is now being handsomely fitted up and will, when completed, be the most prominent passenger and ticket office in New York City. Elaborate sign work is being prepared and otherwise the prominence of the office will demonstrate the importance of the Southern Railway as the great highway into and through the south.

The prominence that the Southern Railway is gaining in the East is only partially demonstrated by this advance step in the arrangement of its new uptown office in New York City, and goes still further to show the advancement and progress of the South, such a great portion of which is served with excellent transportation facilities by the Southern.

In addition to its new uptown office at No. 1200 Broadway, the Southern Railway continues to maintain its downtown office at 271 Broadway, corner of Chambers street.—Leonard's Railway News, New York, June 9, 1906.

In Horticulture there will be lectures on insects of the orchard, how and when to spray, diseases of plants, grafting and care of truck crops. For women there will be lectures on poultry, butter-making, care of milk, sanitary care of the home, diseases and care of children, and house plants and cooking. It is said that the Conference will be one of pleasure and profit at a very slight expense to those attending it.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many A Sufferer in Salisbury.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills. You will get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Cambridge woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. W. Bassett, wife of J. W. Bassett, retired farmer, residing at 213 Muir St., Cambridge, Md., says: "I have always enjoyed very good health until recent years when I suffered more or less trouble with my kidneys. It was manifested in severe headaches and rheumatism. The trouble was always worse if I caught cold or overexerted myself. I had terrible dizzy spells at times. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills I asked my husband to get me a box. I took them as directed, and when I had finished the one box I felt so much better that I have since recommended them to a great many people. I know that they have done me a world of good and feel that they are a great thing for kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

SUBMARINE BELL TEST

Warnings In Fog and Storm Sent From Ocean Depths.

Through the Telephone's Receiver the Throb of an Ocean Steamship's Screw Could Be Detected—Device That Enables Liners to Locate Lightships at a Distance.

To put the receiver of a telephone to your ear and hear the sonorous note of a warning bell come out of the sea; by the same means to hear the throb of a steamship's screw when the steamship cannot be seen and by these sounds to drive a vessel through fog or darkness, avoiding collisions and reefs, acknowledging signals and making port as a skipper would in broad daylight, sayors of the opening chapter of a novel by Jules Verne. Nevertheless these things can now be done, and they are made possible by the submarine telephone.

The signal is the invention of Professor Elisha Gray of Chicago and Arthur J. Mundy. It is controlled by the Submarine Signal company. Through the courtesy of the latter a representative of the New York Times witnessed a demonstration of submarine signaling on a recent afternoon at Sandy Hook.

A specially chartered tug took the party that had been invited to see the demonstration from Pier 6 to the Sandy Hook lightship, which was riding easily on an oily swell and the crew were idling on deck playing cards and checkers. The only sound that broke the stillness of the ocean was the melancholy tolling of a bell. One tried to trace the sound in vain. The big bell on deck was motionless. One of the men was asked where the sound came from. He pointed down into the sea.

"Submarine," said he.

"Tong! Tong!" was the sound that came from the depths of the ocean.

The captain of the lightship explained that this was the bell from which steamships fitted with the submarine telephone took their bearings. It was hung from the keel of the lightship, he said, and ships miles away, be the weather thick or clear, could hear it by telephone and know just where they were.

The telephone was shown later, but the bell was the first thing to be explained. Deep down in the sea it is operated by compressed air. A wheel turning in the engine room of the lightship marked off five seconds of silence, then a notch released enough compressed air to drive the tongue of the submarine bell. The ghostly note came out of the sea twice with an interval of a second and a half, then there was a lapse of five seconds. Again the double note sounded. Then there was a lapse of three seconds. The continued repetition of the bell notes with the alternate lapses of five and three seconds constituted a signal which to mariners spelled in the submarine signal code "Sandy Hook Light."

Although many ships are fitted with the telephone which receives the warning note of the submarine bell, the vessel used in the demonstration was a tug, in the wheelhouse of which there hung what looked like an ordinary telephone. The party returned to the tug to see the second and most important part of the invention. On the way from the lightship to the tug the carrying power of water was demonstrated by the fact that while the air did not carry the sound of the deep sea bell the melancholy notes came through the oars and the woodwork of the row-boat.

On board the tug full speed was ordered. The little craft traveled over a mile to the west of the lightship. When at last it came to a full stop absolute silence prevailed except for the voices of the passengers. The bell notes were lost, and the lightship itself was a little thing in the distance. Acting upon the suggestion of an official representing the signal company, the members of the party took turns at putting the telephone receiver to their ears. As clearly, though not so loudly as before, the sonorous bell pealed out of the sea. The throb of the steamship Francesca's screw was also heard long before the vessel came in sight of the tug.

The submarine telephone is exactly like any other telephone so far as its general theory is concerned. It begins in the wheel house and ends in the bilges. Here, closely pressed against the shell of the vessel, is a transmitter case full of water, and into it is inserted a microphone. This microphone is a metal drum. The plates of the vessel form the diaphragm. The water transmits the sound to this. The importance of being able to trace a sound in darkness or fog has always been appreciated by mariners. Many a good ship has gone to pieces through the inability of the master to do it. The submarine signal settles this difficulty.

One each side of a vessel having the telephone aboard there is a receiver. A switch closes the port microphone and leaves the starboard open, as a man might listen with one ear shut and the other on the alert. Both receivers are opened and shut in turn until it is made clear from which side the sound comes the loudest. This part of the invention, the company hopes, will be much improved as time goes on, so that mariners will be able to find a sound with perfect accuracy. As it is, a vessel with the submarine signal apparatus need not approach within a mile of a lightship, a reef or land where the bell gives out its warning without being aware of it.

Miss Mattie Dashiell Entertains.

One of the most pleasant fetes of the season was that given by Miss Mattie Dashiell at her home at White Haven Monday evening in honor of her niece, Miss Etha Jones. The parlor was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms and cut roses, while the reception hall was a fairland of ferns and Sweet Williams festooned with ribbon, the color scheme being pink.

Miss Etha Jones and Miss Pearl Young received the guests, while Miss Dashiell entertained in the parlor. Miss Jones was attired in a charming costume of white point de sprae over Nile green taffeta, while Miss Young wore a handsome gown of Persian foulard. Miss Dashiell was becomingly attired in a red sunburst voile over taffeta. One of the features of the evening was an old time peanut hunt, which was enjoyed by every one. The best prize was awarded Mr. Grover Layfield, while Mr. Clyde Neece can boast of getting the booby.

At eleven-thirty all repaired to the dining room, where a sumptuous repast awaited them, consisting of ices, fruits, bon-bons and fancy cakes. Mrs. J. E. Leatherbury presiding at the punch bowl.

Miss Jones was the recipient of many handsome and useful presents. Those present were:

Misses Nellie Conway, of Baltimore, Mattie Layfield, of Green Hill; Pearl Young, Lottie Robertson, Iris Messick, Anna Renshaw, of Nanticoke; Clara Culver, Minnie Robertson, Elson Windsor, Jetta and Daisy Robertson, Edythe Rose, of White Haven; Mesdames Elsie Anderson and Katharine Leatherbury, Messrs. Pratt Phillips, of Quantico; Clyde Neece, Carl Messick, Clarence Renshaw, Levin Walter, of Nanticoke; Rollie and Randolph White, William Larimore, Jr., Harry Robertson, Herman and Glen Messick, Grover Layfield, Hyland and Levin Dashiell, Howard Waller, Harry and Edward Kenney, Oscar Ryall, Wood Anderson, J. E. Leatherbury and A. T. Dashiell, of White Haven.

To Keep Hanging Secret.

Governor Warfield has not intimated when he will sign the death warrant and designate the day for the execution of William Lee, the negro convicted of assault on two white women in Somerset county. It has leaked out that the Governor has no intention of designating the day for Lee's execution at present. It is understood that he realizes the temperance of the people of Somerset county and appreciates the fact that there is an element in the lower part of the Eastern Shore that will not be satisfied unless the negro is lynched, and they propose to do it at all hazards.

There is nothing in the law, however, requiring the Governor to sign the death warrant earlier than the day of the execution. By following this method it would be next to impossible for the people of Somerset county to be made aware of the date, and would prevent the assembling of a large concourse of people.

It is said that the Governor hopes by deferring the signing of the death warrant to enable Sheriff Brown to get his prisoner to Princess Anne without attracting the attention of the people of that county. The death warrant, of course, will be forwarded to the Sheriff, and the date of the execution can be kept a secret between the Governor and the Sheriff in order to prevent a lynching. It has been suggested that Lee be taken within the jurisdiction of the county in which the crime was committed on a state steamer and hanged on a gallows erected on the boat.

Many prominent people have expressed themselves as believing it unwise to keep the date of the execution from the people. General Joseph B. Seth, president of the State Senate, believes this action will only increase the fury of the people and lead to even greater violence by the mob when the negro is taken to Somerset county to be hung.

THE SHAD POINT ROAD.

Citizens Want County Commissioners to Keep Promise Regarding Old Steamboat Road.

Citizens of Shad Point and vicinity have this week again agitated the matter of the completion of the road from Salisbury to Shad Point by way of the old Steamboat Road.

Several years ago the citizens of the county who were interested in the building of the proposed road were before the County Commissioners a number of times, and finally, the Commissioners, it is said, promised the citizens interested that the county would build the road from the city limits of Salisbury to the grove of Mr. J. F. Britton, provided those interested would build the remainder of the road to Shad Point, except the necessary bridge across Tony Tank Creek, which was also to be built by the county.

Several parties who are interested in the matter, in discussing the situation with a representative of The Courier during the past week, stated that immediately after this offer was made by the Commissioners, the matter was taken up by citizens and contracts for their part of the road made, and that their part had been completed a year ago, and the road had been inspected by the Commissioners, and no objection made to it in any way. They were unable, they stated, to understand why, notwithstanding the lapse of a year since the performance of this part of the work, no effort had yet been made by the Commissioners to complete their part of the contract. It was further stated that considerable money had now been expended by private individuals in the movement, and unless action was taken by the county, the money so expended would be absolutely thrown away. The Commissioners, they said, had been waited upon a number of times regarding the matter, but as yet no action had been taken by them. Even if they should not now repair the old Steamboat Road, it was suggested, the building of the bridge across the creek would at least render the entire road from Salisbury to Shad Point passable, but until that was done, the labor and money so far expended would amount to nothing.

The people seem to be very much interested in the consummation of the project, and it is hoped that favorable action will be taken shortly by the Commissioners.

The Captain's First Experience.

One of the popular young men of this town recently purchased a new gasoline boat, and as a result has been having some highly interesting experiences while coaxing the engine out of its stubborn disposition. When the day for the trial trip came, all was expectation, and a number of friends were at the wharf to cheer the embryo Captain on his way. Casting loose the line and shoving off into midstream, the redoubtable Captain gave the signal for full speed ahead.

"Aye! Aye, sir!" answered the engineer promptly, but the engine grunted "not yet." The engineer squinted his eye over the different mechanisms and then tried the crank again. Slowly the boat forged ahead, but when the engineer let go the crank, there was a decided decrease in the speed of the craft. The oil can, the monkey wrench, the file, and every other appliance about the engine was brought into play between the intermittent coaxing on the crank, but to no avail.

The boat had drifted some distance down the river and the resolve was quickly forming in the mind of the young man to ship the whole "arnal" thing back, when some bright mind happened to remember that no gasoline had been placed in the tank. A gallon or two of the precious fluid was soon secured, and then the smart little engine chirped on its way and the eyes of the captain sparkled with pride.

Scholarships Awarded.

The School Board of Wicomico county has awarded the following scholarships:

State Normal School, Baltimore—Miss Alice Dykes, Salisbury; Miss Denika Phillips, Hebron; Miss Eva Taylor, Salisbury.

Western Maryland College, Westminster—Mr. James M. Bennett, Riverport; subject to confirmation of the State Senator.

There is a desirable scholarship in the Maryland Agricultural College due this county, and the secretary was authorized to advertise same.

There are seven applicants for the vacant scholarship in St. John's College, Annapolis, as follows: Messrs. Clarence Corley, Loran Langsdale, Wilson I. Nicholson, Hillary W. Long, W. Bailey, Clarence E. Tilghman and G. M. Austin. A competitive examination was held Thursday to fill this scholarship.

The schedule providing for monthly payment of teachers' salaries, prepared by County Superintendent Bounds, was adopted by the Board.

Street Paving Contracts.

Mayor Charles E. Harper, in an interview during the past week with a representative of The Courier, stated that he believed the contracts for paving the streets would be given out by about the middle of August, and that the work should be completed in about eight or nine weeks from that time. This will mean the completion of the paving of the streets to be improved during the first week of October, and will be welcome news for the people of Salisbury. The city officials seem now to be anxious that nothing shall interfere with the proposed plans.

SALISBURY LOSES TWICE.

The Local Baseball Team Have Streak of Ill Luck And Make Break in Excellent Record.

Salisbury lost her second game this week and also this baseball season in a strong contest yesterday afternoon with the Seaford, Del., team, on the grounds of the latter. But for costly errors in the third inning, the Salisbury boys would have brought the game home. Schuler pitched a good game, Truitt played well and made one particular fine stop on the third and G. Austin was in his usual batting trim. The score by innings:

Batteries: Salisbury, Schuler and R. Austin; Seaford, Buckman and Klum.

Salisbury was defeated by Seaford in an exciting game Monday, score 4 to 3. It was a hard game for Salisbury to lose, as they had a lead of two runs until the eighth inning, when three costly errors let in four runs for Seaford. Salisbury again scored in the eighth, but Seaford's lead could not be overcome. Jones pitched a fine game until the eighth inning, when Buckman, of Seaford, got a two-bagger, scoring two runs.

The features of the game were a running catch by George Austin in the sixth inning, the batting of Rodney Austin and the pitching of Jones in all but the eighth inning. Jones and R. Austin both got two hits: Truitt, one; and Perry, one. Seaford, hits: Tasso, Dawson, Buckman, 2; Dawson, Fowler and Russell. Struck out by Jones, 10; by Benson, 12. Score by innings:

Salisbury . . . 1 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—3

Batteries—Salisbury, Jones and R. Austin; Seaford, Benson and Buckman.

The game scheduled for Thursday afternoon was prevented by the storm which came up just about the time the game would have commenced, and brought a loss to the Salisbury team of $26.40. Unless greater interest is manifested in the games and more enthusiasm shown by the people of the city, it is feared it will be impossible to continue the games during the season.

The management announces a number of interesting games for next week and hope to have large attendances, so that this deficiency may be made up and also enough realized to meet the necessary running expenses.

On Monday the Club will play Seaford at the Salisbury grounds at 3.30, and Dover on Wednesday at the same place and time. On Friday the local team will go to Dover for the return game, and it is also expected that a game will be arranged with Easton. All these teams are among the strongest on the Shore, and great games may be expected. Let everybody turn out and whoop it up for Salisbury!

Commissioner Serman On The Street Question.

Speaking in a jocular vein yesterday, Street Commissioner Serman said that he was having a hard job at present to keep busy. He also requested that if any person knew of any mud hole or grease spot on any of the streets of the town, the person would kindly notify him, as he was tired setting around doing nothing.

Then the Commissioner said that he was doing all he could to keep the streets in good order without spending too much money. His idea is to devote most of his time to the streets that are not to be paved, and to do just enough work on the main thoroughfares as to keep them passable until the paving is done. His idea is to do his best to get all the streets in first class order, except the ones to be paved.

Two large wells were placed this week in front of the Holland property, on Camden avenue, to drain the surface water from the street. The water now flows into the Camden sewer. The Commissioner has also put in a new drain for the water on Camden street, in front of the marble yard.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Important Meeting—Dispose of Many Ferries—To Study Worcester's New Stone Roads.

The County Commissioners had an important session Tuesday, as practically all the ferries of the county for 1907 were disposed of. Commissioner Wright reported the sale of the Sharptown ferry for $545.00 to Mr. E. J. Jones and the Vienna ferry to Mr. Eugene Moore for $300.00, one-half of which is to be paid by Dorchester county. Commissioner Larnore reported the sale of the Wetpquin ferry to Mr. D. W. Denson for $78.00 and the White Haven ferry to Mr. William L. Wilson for $400.00, one half of which is to be paid by Somerset county. Commissioner Johnson reported the sale of the Wicomico Creek ferry to Mr. John Wright for $125.00, one half of which is to be paid by Somerset county, and the Wicomico River ferry to Mr. Nicholas Moore for $135.00. The bonds of all these parties were laid before the Commissioners and duly approved.

Matilda Peters, who on last Saturday morning attempted to hang herself in the county jail, was committed by the action of the board to the Maryland Hospital for the Insane.

Mr. Franklin P. Anderson was appointed road supervisor for Nanticoke district.

Messrs. Harry L. Brewington, one of the School Commissioners, and H. Crawford Bounds, Superintendent of the Public Schools were before the board in the number of matters relating to the school affairs in the county.

Commissioner Brittingham was authorized and requested to visit Worcester, for the purpose of looking into the matter of the stone roads which have recently been built in that county.

B. L. Gillis & Son Discontinue Retail Trade.

The wholesale trade of the firm having grown to such proportions as to demand their entire attention, Messrs. B. L. Gillis & Son, well-known wholesale and retail merchants of Salisbury for nearly half a century, have decided, beginning with August 1, to discontinue their retail trade, and will, beginning at that date, devote their entire energy to the further building up of the more important branch of the business—the wholesale trade. This step is taken only after a careful consideration of the result of such a movement.

For 40 years this firm has occupied the position as one of the leading wholesale and retail grocery houses in Salisbury. During that time they have seen the splendid growth of the Salisbury village to the Salisbury city, and at the same time have not themselves been lagging in the march of progress. Starting in a small store house on Main street near the pivot bridge they found a few years later that their business had grown to such an extent that larger quarters were needed.

In 1891 the company moved on Dock street, and erected a large two-story brick building. In addition a large warehouse was built on Mill street, convenient to the freight depots. Gradually enlarging their territory, the operations of the firm now cover almost the entire Eastern Shore of Maryland, and the name of B. L. Gillis & Son has a wide reputation for fair dealing and honesty. Doubtless the same liberal policy of treatment and fair-mindedness toward their new and old customers will be continued as the firm reaches out for a still larger share of the business of their territory.

The jobbing houses of the Eastern Shore are fully capable of taking care of this "Garden of Eden," and should see to it that they get their "pickings" and the houses of the larger cities the "leavings."

"Tommy" Kelley's Triumph.

The proudest boy in town last night was "Tommy" Kelley, the favorite Western Union messenger. "Tommy" had outdistanced all his rivals in the race for the Eastern Shore College scholarship to be awarded by the Palm Garden, and finished with an overwhelming victory, he could afford to take a rosy view of life.

Out of a total of 3,000 ballots, "Tommy" received 1431, more than 700 over his nearest competitor, which was a remarkable "run." From the start, he was the ladies' favorite, and under such peculiarly auspicious circumstances, his victory was only a question of time. As yet, he has not decided what course he will pursue at the College next year.

Tomato Crop In Danger.

Tomato growers and pickers are viewing with apprehension the weather prediction, for the success of the new pack from now on is largely at the mercy of the storms. The recent rains, while not of sufficient quantity to do much damage, were nevertheless of such frequency as to cause alarm, and if they continue the crop will be washed to such an extent as to cause considerable rotting and will materially lessen the quantity.

The immediate market effect has been to strengthen the position of the syndicate which is endeavoring to dispose of the holdings which lately figured in a so-called corner. The prospects of the new pack were so bright that buyers have been slow in buying anything beyond their immediate needs. At the end of last week a break in the prices established by the syndicate was threatened, but the rains of this week will aid materially in postponing the day. The new pack is not as forward as promised, and the result is that those who desire tomatoes must purchase them from the syndicate at the syndicate's price.

As the situation now stands, it is said that the syndicate will hardly be able to dispose of all of its holdings before the arrival of the new pack. But should wet weather continue for any length of time, it would have no difficulty in disposing of every case.

Bowser Hears Some Noises

Makes an Experiment to Determine
When to Expect Seeds to Germinate.

HAS A SUDDEN ENDING

Uninvited Mother-in-law Swoops Down on the Philosopher and Tells Him What Is What.

(Copyright, 1906, by Eugene Parcells.)

MR. BOWSER had carried an important air all through dinner—a sort of demeanor as if he had discovered the north pole and intended to make the most of it. Mrs. Bowser couldn't fathom it, but she knew that if left alone long enough he would tell her whether he had improved on a patent fire escape or discovered that the butter from a bottled cow was lacking in richness.
After leaving the dinner table he took a walk through the kitchen to the back yard, where he had begun gardening some days previous. When he finally re-entered the house he said:

"Mrs. Bowser, do you know what alls the farmer of today?"

"He is getting rich too fast, according to the papers," she replied.

"On the contrary, he is just where he was twenty years ago financially,

STRETCHED OUT WITH HIS EAR TO THE GROUND.

and he will be no better off twenty years hence unless some one can drive more intelligence into his head."

"But I have read that the science of agriculture had improved 20 per cent in the last ten years even."

Says Farmers Don't Know.

"Yes, and you have read about fifty cent stockings for 25 cents a pair. I'll bet that there isn't a farmer in this state who can tell how long it takes a cucumber seed to germinate."

"You mean germinate," she corrected.

He meant germinate, of course; but, having made the mistake, he was bound to stick to it. He therefore drew himself up to his full height and said:

"Mrs. Bowser, I said germinate, and I think I know what I am talking about."

"I thought seeds germinated."

"What a woman thinks amounts to mighty little. Do you wish this matter to close right here?"

"No, I'd like to hear what you have to say."

"Then listen and don't try to give me any more pointers on agriculture. The average farmer goes at it and dumps seed in the ground. He doesn't know whether it will germinate in five days or five weeks. He has no assurance that the seed will ever grow at all."

"On the 26th of April I planted some cucumber seeds out there, didn't I?
Here is the record of it in my book. It is now almost the middle of May.
How long a time should it take these seeds to germinate?"

"Two or three weeks. It depends upon the warmth and richness of the soil."

"That would be the answer of the average farmer, and that is what I complain of. He ought to know within a day, an hour. It should make a difference to him whether it takes five or twenty days. As he hasn't yet figured the question out for himself, I'm going to do it. Do you know what quarter the moon is in tonight?"

"I—I don't keep any track of the moon."

"Of course not. There isn't one woman in ten thousand who knows there is such a thing in the heavens. Some day when I get time I will tell you what the moon is. Sufficient for the present to say that at 9 o'clock this evening the moon will be in the right quarter for my experiment."

"Mrs. Phillips wanted us to come over to her house tonight," sighed
Mrs. Bowser.

"Then she'll have to take it out in wanting. I wouldn't put off this experiment for a thousand dollars. Before midnight tonight the world will know to an hour how long it takes cucumber seeds to germinate. I have figured on exactly eighteen days and five hours. I may be an hour or two out in my calculations, but I shall cut it very close."

Mrs. Bowser had nothing further to say on the subject to him, but went down to the kitchen and informed the cook that Mr. Bowser would make an experiment with cucumber seeds and that there was no danger of an explosion.

Cook Is Fearful.

"If there is, ma'am," replied the cook,
"don't keep it from me. You know I'm the sole support of an old father. If I should be histed about twenty feet and come down on my head there might be fatal consequences."

She was reassured, and Mr. Bowser walked around the house until 10 o'clock and then took a piece of carpet and spread it beside his cucumber bed and stretched out on it with his ear to the ground. Mrs. Bowser wanted an explanation, and he gave it by saying:

"I want you to go into the house and keep as quiet as you can. Take the blamed old yaller cat in with you. I want to listen to the seeds generating."

"Will they germinate after they generate?" she asked as she prepared to obey.

He sat up and glared at her and worked up a red color in his face, and she picked up the cat and tiptoed in.
When the door had closed after her
Mr. Bowser lay down again. He couldn't see to write in his notebook, but he mentally recorded things as follows:

"I have my ear to the ground listening for sounds. If I am right in my figuring the cucumber seeds ought to burst open before midnight."

"Hear the sounds of cats."

"Hear a cricket singing."

"Hear Mrs. Bowser singing."

"Hear a fishworm boring his way along the ground."

"Hear"—

Throw Can at Him.

Mr. Bowser scrambled up. The alley gate was open, and some belated boy passing along had thrown an old peach can at him. He shook his fist at the speeding boy and made threats and lay down to resume.

"I hear a tick, tick, tick!"

"Durn those cats!"

"I am quite certain that the seeds are now popping open."

"That crash cannot be the seeds generating!"

It wasn't. It may have been a tramp looking for lodgings in some shed who passed up the alley and heaved an old potato at the recumbent
close by, and Mr. Bowser sat up and thirsted for gore. It was five minutes before he had his ear to the ground again and was saying:

"I am sure I have struck it."

"There are sounds like miniature explosions in the cucumber hills."

"I am certain that I shall be within half an hour of my original calculations."

"If I can show the farmers of America that cucumber vines may be looked for above ground in eighteen days and five hours after the seeds have been planted—By thunder, what sort of a noise is that?"

"Samuel Bowser, I am here!"

It took Mr. Bowser about three seconds to get upon his feet. He looked toward the alley for a boy with a tomato can, but he saw none.

"I am here, Samuel, and I want you in the house."

He turned and saw a female form in the kitchen door. He didn't need half an hour to identify it. It was a female form he had been seeing at intervals for the last thirty years.

"You—you here?" he finally stammered.

"Yes, Samuel, your mother-in-law has arrived. It seems I have come just in time to prevent your making a fool of yourself. The idea of your being stretched out there on your stomach, with your nose in the dirt! Were you rooting for potatoes?"

"I didn't invite you to come down,"
he snukily replied.

"No, Samuel, you didn't. I have a little way of inviting myself. You will now come into the house and leave those cucumber seeds to the mercy of the cold world, and you may then put both ears to the carpet on the floor and hear what I have to say to you. Come right along, Samuel. You never can get away from me until you grow wings."

Mr. Bowser cast one long, lingering look at his cucumber bed, listened for a moment to see if he could hear any more ticks and then humbly followed the woman of destiny into the house to take his medicine.

SATURDAY, JULY 21, 1906.

Salisbury—Its Baseball Club And Streets.

And now comes the ringing Macedonian cry for help from the Salisbury Base ball club! The inopportune downpour of rain just as the Easton and Salisbury Clubs were about to cross bats Thursday put a stop to the game, and dampened most emphatically the ardor of the baseball fans,—and something a little more tangible as well. But then unfortunately, that was not the worst feature of the affair, and as the Easton players could not live on glory, nor could they ride on passes, it happened that by the time they left town, the Salisbury Club found its accounts on the wrong side of the ledger by nearly $30.00.

The Salisbury Club this year has been exceptionally successful and is composed almost exclusively of young men of the town. Conducted as it now is, there is no reason why the club should not receive the hearty support of the people of the city.

From the receipts of its Post Office and the volume of its commercial business to the swing of a base ball bat, Salisbury can keep in the glorious lead of its Delmarvian competitors, except—oh horrible exception,—when it comes to its streets, and then it cheerfully and meekly resigns in favor of Fruitland,—or even Shad Point. But then, we have the blessed assurance of the Mayor that about the first of October, the teams of Salisbury will be rattling over newly paved streets,—not of gold,—but of vitrified brick,—and this "muddy" nightmare will be but a horrible dream of bygone days.

In the meantime, let us devoutly hope for such a glorious consummation and PLAY BASE-BALL!

The William Lee Case And Governor Warfield.

The authorities who have been connected in various ways with the prosecution of William Lee, now under sentence of death for criminal assault upon Mrs. Lily R. Barnes and Miss Frances Powell, of Somerset County, deserve considerable credit for the manner in which the case has been handled. At the same time it is sincerely to be regretted that a number of things have transpired in connection with the matter which have been decidedly at variance with the established forms of legal procedure in this State, and it is feared that dangerous precedents have been established in several instances.

In the first place, after the indictment had been returned by the Grand Jury of Somerset County, it was supposed that Lee would have to be taken back to the Circuit Court of that county for arraignment, but the Court finally decided that the provision requiring a prisoner to be arraigned in the county in which the indictment originated was a provision in favor of the accused, and as such could be waived by him. While this may be true, still it seems to have been the first time in the history of the State that a prisoner has not been compelled to answer the indictment in the county in which the offense was committed.

But still more dangerous was the precedent established in the trial of the case in Baltimore, when the general public was excluded and only those holding passes signed by the State's Attorney of Baltimore City were admitted to the court room. Members of the Baltimore City bar, and therefore sworn officers of the court, were prevented from entering, not only the enclosure ordinarily reserved for lawyers, but the court room itself, because they did not hold the all-powerful pass of the State's Attorney. From the accounts in the newspapers it even appeared that citizens of Somerset County—men who are vitally interested in the proceedings and who, by all the rules of propriety and long established usage had a right to be present—were compelled to stand aside while the favored friends of Baltimore City's State's Attorney were bowed through the lines of police officers to the court room within. However numerous may be the defects of Maryland's criminal law and the procedure in her criminal courts she has always prided herself upon the fact that from the highest official of the commonwealth to the humblest citizen of the state all were equal before the law, and all entitled to the same privileges and benefits vouchsafed to the people under the constitution of the state and our long established form of government; and this tendency which is too frequently manifesting itself to do away with old and well established forms in our governmental system is to be profoundly regretted.

And now comes the announcement that Governor Warfield, in an interview, has intimated that the public will be kept in total ignorance of the time and place of execution until the death sentence has been carried out. The people have rights which no official powers dare set aside and the people interested in the hanging, and especially the friends and families of the victims of the condemned man, have a right to know that the time for execution has been fixed according to law, in order that they may be assured for themselves that the law has been carried out to the letter. Can it be possible that the Governor with the full power of the state at his command, is afraid openly to fix the time and place of execution and admit his impotence to uphold the dignity and majesty of the law? We believe that the Governor is taking what he deems to be the wisest course to prevent a lynching, but at the same time it is a dangerous doctrine which sets at naught the established precedents of years and sweeps aside the traditions of more than a century. We will admit that nothing could be more deplorable than to add to the unspeakable offense itself the further crime of murder, and if this doubtful expedient alone can avert it, then it may be well to maintain that peculiar secrecy to the end which is now threatened. But we cannot conceive that the entire civil and military power and authority of this state is unable, if properly applied, as it should be, to protect a worthless felon from a lawless mob, and prevent the state itself from carrying out the most solemn decree it can pronounce,—the forfeiture in a legal way of the life of a human being.

One of Maryland's crowning glories has ever been her rigid adherence to established precedents and time honored customs, and it is sincerely to be hoped that these will not give away to doubtful experiments and questionable innovations.

Election Of United States Senators By The People.

The recent agitation of the selection of United States Senators by direct vote of the people of the various states has brought forth a wide divergence of views in relation to this important subject. The consensus of opinion seems to be, however, that the change would be a wise one, not only from the standpoint of the senators themselves, but more especially with relation to the people as well, and in this view we fully concur. There is now entirely too wide a chasm between the senators and the people in general, and the length of their tenure in office and the mode of their selection are largely responsible for these conditions. With the change in the method of election, one great difficulty will be overcome, and they will feel themselves more amenable to the people to whose direct votes they owe their influential position.

If we glance for a few moments at the fundamental doctrines relating to the selection of senators, we will see that the founders of our country, while laying great stress upon the sovereignty of the people, linked with that great doctrine the equally important one of the sovereignty of the individual state. Hence it was that senators were chosen by the legislatures to represent the states, while the representatives were chosen by the voters themselves to represent the people. This doctrine is also responsible for the fact that every state is represented in the Senate by two senators, while in the House of Representatives, the number ranges from a single representative from the States of Delaware, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming, to thirty-seven representatives from the single State of New York, according to the population of the respective states. The Great Empire State, with its more than seven million inhabitants, is, therefore, on an equal footing in the Senate with these six states we have named, so far as mere numerical representation is concerned and yet not one of them has 300,000 population, and one less than 50,000.

The constant effort then to bring about the selection of United States Senators by the people is but the natural endeavor to extend the underlying doctrine of the sovereignty of the people to every possible phase of our national life, and is not, therefore, as some of our friends seem to think, a radical change in our system, but the continuation and consummation of the original ideas of our forefathers, freed to a certain extent from the state sovereignty idea.

Not only will this be eventually accomplished, but the Presidents themselves will also be selected in the same manner. On three different occasions since 1820 a defeated candidate for the Presidency has received a popular plurality over the successful nominee. That an occurrence of this kind under our form of government is wrong, can hardly be denied, and while we believe in "State's Rights" within certain limitations, we believe more fully and absolutely in the right of the people to choose their own rulers unhampered by electoral colleges and uncontrolled by state legislatures.

The desirability of bringing about this change is becoming more and more apparent all the time, and it is to be hoped that both the great parties will take the question up seriously with the avowed determination to accomplish this great reformation.

THE Salisbury Building & Loan and Banking ASSOCIATION

This Association has two separate and distinct departments: The Building & Loan Department and The Banking Department.

The Building & Loan Department, with its paid-up capital stock of $14,500.00, makes loans, secured by mortgages, to be paid back in weekly installments of 30c, 40c, 50c, $1.00 or $2.00 per week, to suit borrower, and has been doing a popular and successful business since 1897.

The Banking Department was added in 1902 under authority granted by the General Assembly of Maryland of that year, to set apart $25,000.00 of the Association's capital stock for banking purposes. It receives money on deposits, makes loans on commercial paper, enters into such business transactions as conservative banks ordinarily do, and earnestly solicits the patronage of its friends and the general public. —During a severe rain, wind and electrical storm in Salisbury Tuesday afternoon the steeple of the Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church was struck by a bolt of lightning, scaling off the slate from a number of places, breaking the boards beneath, as with an ax and carrying some of the debris 50 feet away. A meeting of the official board of the church was held Wednesday morning and the following committee was appointed to see that the repairs are at once made: Messrs. Jay Williams, James E. Ellegood and William J. Downing. Lightning did considerable damage to the dwelling owned by Grant Sexton recently erected on the Fairfield Farm. Hi, there, Bill! Unto the spa, jump up, Jimmy; hop in, Dan; Mother, hand that basket here; Kate, yo' set there in the rear. All right, Bill; get on the seat; Grab them lines an' brace yer feet; Take the whip an' let 'em go— Gee! Where's Eddie? Comin'. Whoa!

Jump in boy, now, right away; Cued us all this here delay. Let 'em go; we've got the bunch— Hi, there, Ed, yer on the lunch! Take that seat 'longside uv Lil. Mind, boys, walk up ev'ry hill. Don't git cranky; stop that, Joe! All right, Bill. Now make 'em go.

Whoa, there, Billy; here's the ground. Pile out, folks; don't monkey round. Wait now, ma; ye'r pretty stout; Hurry, Joe, an' he'll be out. Git them bottles an' that cake; Don't leave them, fer goodness' sake! Take the harness off the team. Then come over by the stream.

Here, now, folks, it's time to eat; Git that cloth beneath the seat; Spread it out here on the ground; All yo' children set around. Baby's bottle! Fetch it, Dan; Stop his howlin' if you can. Lil, please hand that pie about. Pitch in, folks, an' clean it out.

Where's them pickles? Here, now, Nell.

Keep yer fingers out that jell! Pass around that cider jug. Mother, Joe's done at a bug. Well, 'twon't hurt him, never fear. Bill, quit kickin'. Dan, yo' hear? All through eatin'? Well, I swan! Ought to be, though; grub's all gone.

Hop in, folks, jest anyhow; Fun's all over; homeward now. Quit yer scappin', stop yer noise; Never saw such girls an' boys. Bill, strike up a lively gait; Get us home by half past eight. Here we are. Whoa—whoa, I said. Good night, folks; it's time fer bed. —Denver Post.

Natural Curiosity.

Daddy—Bobby, wouldn't you like to see your little sister the stork brought last night?

Bobby—I'd sooner see the stork, daddy—Tatler.

A Receipt For His Brain.

An Ohio politician enjoys telling of a political discussion he once overheard in a country grocery store.

In some way the argument, quite a heated one, degenerated into a dispute in which one side took the position that the others were crazy to entertain such political tenets as theirs.

At this point a solemn looking individual who up to this time had held his peace suddenly interjected:

"Gents, I want to say that I'm the only sane man here that has the papers to prove it."

The crowd gazed upon him in astonishment.

"It is true, gents," continued the solemn looking individual as he drew forth a document from the recesses of his coat. "Here's my discharge from the state insane asylum!"—Harper's Weekly.

Great Saying.

"Science tells us," said the son who had been to college, "that man expels a great deal of carbon when he breathes. In other words, he expels over six tons of coal in a lifetime."

"Well, I'll be blowed!" replied the practical father in astonishment. "Hereafter I am going to breathe in a cold scuffle. Why, six tons of coal is enough to last me through a whole winter!"—Chicago News.

George Was Observant.

"George, dear, I hope you'll grow up to be a good man just like your father."

"No, mamma, I don't want to do that."

"Why not, dear?"

"'Cause then I'd have to marry some woman and do everything she told me to do!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Social Limits.

You may tell a man that his necktie cannot be reckoned among his successes, you may point out his errors in regard to investments, you may reproach him for omitting to take advantage of the opportunities he has had for advancement, and he will accept all your criticisms with a reasonable calm, but take gentle exception to the way in which he pronounces a word and the chances are that his next remark is of a heated nature.—London Queen.

Took All the Responsibility.

"I'm going to give up that new special I've been trying."

"What's the reason?"

"Why, he's always telling me that I must try to help myself."

"What did the other man tell you?"

"He always told me he was helping me."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. A writ of injunction has been filed in the clerk's office, at Centerville, signed by Chief Judge J. A. Pearce, restraining the assessors in the several districts of Queen Anne county from continuing their work of assessments of real and personal property. The petition states that a new general valuation and assessment of real and personal property at this time is illegal, and that it can only be made at a great expense to the taxpayers of the county, which will unnecessarily and unlawfully impose upon them an increased burden of taxation, especially in view of the fact that an entirely new general assessment of personal property must be made in the year 1908, under chapter 320 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed at the session of 1906.

Portuguese Money.
Portuguese money is based on a unit which is worth about the thousandth part of a cent. So if you buy a single postage stamp it costs you about 10,000 milreis. We were shocked at the price of the objects the vendors in Ponto Delgada desired to sell us. When presented with a bill some of us got heart disease and some of us apoplexy. Only after long explanations in mingled Spanish, Portuguese, French and English did we learn that a photograph offered at several thousand milreis was worth about 15 cents. In short, it was brought forcibly to our attention how extremely artificial a medium is money, how difficult it is to get, how difficult it is to keep, but also how difficult it is to exchange this inconvertible medium in foreign countries—when you have any. Probably it is even more difficult when you have not—Argonaut.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many A Sufferer in Salisbury.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, sideache, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills. You will get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Cambridge woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. W. Bassett, wife of J. W. Bassett, retired farmer, residing at 213 Muir St., Cambridge, Md., says: "I have always enjoyed very good health until recent years when I suffered more or less trouble with my kidneys. It was manifested in severe headaches and rheumatism. The trouble was always worse if I caught cold or overexerted myself. I had terrible dizzy spells at times. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills I asked my husband to get me a box. I took them as directed, and when I had finished the one box I felt so much better that I have since recommended them to a great many people. I know that they have done me a world of good and feel that they are a great thing for kidney complaint."

HANGED ON LONELY ISLAND.

Wm. Lee Surreptitiously Taken From Baltimore On Steamer McLane And Executed Early Thursday Morning—Mob Outwitted.

William Lee, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Lily Barnes and Miss Frances Powell near Kingston, Somerset county, June 10, was hanged at 8:25 o'clock Thursday morning on the barren marshes of Smith's Island, with a confession of crime on his lips. The hanging was orderly, and the mob that had threatened burning at the stake was outwitted completely.

Upon order of the Governor, the steamer McLane put into Baltimore harbor Wednesday day. A closed carriage, driving like many others with bay passengers, traversed the principal streets of the city to the water front. Within sat officers of the law and the negro, to assure whose death at the hands of the State they might before the sun dawned again have to risk their lives. No one on the street suspected as the tumbrel jogged past; nor did even the negro within know he was driving to his death, for the warrant for his execution had not then been read to him.

Just before twilight the prison gates had opened quietly and the negro had been given into the hands of Sheriff Brown, of Somerset, who, with a deputy, spirited him into a carriage and the drive began. Just as quickly was the party transferred to the police steamer, which was docked at Spalden's wharf. Shortly after 7 p. m., the McLane steamed away from Baltimore. The scaffold that had been used for the Wagon hanging in Baltimore county was on board. It had been carted to the ship and its pieces stored in various parts of the ship. Plans for the execution were kept as secret as possible, but the main idea was to hang Lee as humanely as possible and without publicity, according to law. Because of the incessant talk about lynching and burning, Governor Warfield determined to prevent such a thing. A scaffold had been erected at the almshouse on the road from Mt. Vernon to Princess Anne, but this was probably done with a view to leading the mob astray.

Aboard the McLane, which secretly brought the hanged man to Somerset, was Robert Barnes, husband of one of the victims of assault. Sheriff Brown had sworn him in as a deputy, and he was told that he could help pull the trap. When the time to disembark came, Barnes remained aboard ship, stating that he was satisfied to see the death at a quarter-mile range.

Governor Warfield signed the death warrant for Lee some days ago, but it was not until after the McLane's news were going that the warrant was turned over to Commander Howard by the Governor. And not until the ship was in the middle of the bay was the Sheriff told the day of the hanging. Absolute secrecy was therefore assured, for no one was allowed to land except for the purpose of hanging Lee.

Off Seven-Foot Knoll the Sheriff was handed the death warrant by Commander Howard. Then far from land Lee learned of his impending death. With the silent shadows of the ship darting in and out among the waves in her wake, Lee listened while the Sheriff read the parchment with the signature of the Governor of Maryland and the great seal of the State to guarantee its genuineness. Above all was the peace and unending beauty of night.

Shortly before the McLane came to anchor Lee requested that Mr. Barnes come to the cabin where he was confined. When the husband entered, Lee said: "I want forgiveness."

"I cannot forgive it," said Barnes. "God forgive," said Lee. "Can't you?" Then Barnes started out of the room.

The McLane anchored off Solomon's Light, in Kedges straits, shortly after 4 a. m. At 1:02 o'clock two skiffs put out one carrying the dismembered scaffold and the other carrying deputies who were to erect it.

The scene of the execution was a meadow of rust and marsh grass. There were no houses near by. There was no tree nor even a stake that could have been used by a mob. Across Kedges straits was Tanager sound, with its fleet of crabbing vessels. The half hundred fishermen displayed no hostility. There were a number of boys among them.

The carpenters soon had the scaffold erected and then preparations were immediately begun to test the structure. A bag was filled with sand from the beach and let through the drop. While this was going on the skiffs were making a return trip.

In the leading boat was Commander Howard at the wheel, with deputies. In the skiff in low was the prisoner, securely handcuffed and surrounded by officers. The bag crew a little as he viewed the scaffold. After landing, the negro was seated 100 feet from the gallows, and by his side was his minister.

There were no steps to the gallows, a ship's iron ladder taking their place. The ladder did not quite reach the platform, and when Lee was ascending to his death, deputies on the gibbet lifted him by his handcuffed wrists, while those below raised his limbs.

Lee's limbs were then pinioned and the cap and shroud adjusted. Then the negro preacher began a fervent prayer. Before this, Lee had again confessed his guilt.

At 8:25 Sheriff Brown pulled the drop. Eighteen minutes later two physicians folded their stethoscopes and pronounced him dead. The body was then released from the rope

JOHN HENRY EXECUTED.

Colored Ravisher Of Mrs. Fred Selby, Of Berlin, Hanged Yesterday Near Snow Hill, Still Protesting His Innocence.

John Henry, colored, who on November 21st, last, feloniously assaulted Mrs. Fred Selby, of Berlin, on the streets of that town while she was on her way from a grocery store, a short distance from her home, was hung yesterday morning about 10 o'clock by Sheriff Henry J. Anderson in Worcester county three miles from Snow Hill.

The scaffold used was the same one used in the execution of Summerfield Dennis and Asbury Dixon, and was erected in the county almshouse woods, about 50 yards from the county road, leading from Snow Hill to Berlin. It was erected within a few feet of the place where Asbury Dixon was hanged, three years ago, to pay the penalty for the murder of his paramour. The place of execution is plainly marked, as Byard, a weak minded inmate of the almshouse, planted four cedar trees in the holes left when the posts which supported the scaffold on which Dixon was hanged, were removed. The trees have grown very fast. Henry was taken from the jail and carried in a closed carriage, under guard, to the place of execution.

Mrs. Selby was on her way home, just a short distance from Berlin, between 7 and 8 o'clock on the evening of Tuesday, November 21, after having made several purchases at one of the stores in Berlin, and as she was passing a dark corner near the edge of the town, she was seized by the shoulders and thrown to the ground and then dragged across the street and choked, all the time making a desperate struggle and screaming loudly. Some children heard the cries and gave the alarm. Thomas Jarvis responded, but by that time Mrs. Selby's assailant had been frightened away. Henry was arrested upon Mrs. Selby's description and was identified by her.

At Henry's preliminary hearing before the magistrate, Mrs. Selby identified the negro, and at his trial, at the May term of the Worcester County Circuit Court, the state's case was strengthened by overwhelming circumstantial evidence, and Judge Page, in his summary, carefully analyzed the case and said it was proven beyond a doubt that Henry was guilty of the crime for which he was indicted.

Notwithstanding the evidence against him, Henry protested his innocence to the last. He seemed resigned to his fate and showed no signs of any nervous breakdown.

Wants Engineer Hatton's Street Report Printed.

A prominent citizen of the town in talking with the representative of The Courier during the past week stated that in view of the fact that the citizens of the town were to pay one-half of the paving contracts in the matter of expenditures to be made by the Mayor and City Council, it was suggested that the report of Mr. Hatton, the Civil Engineer, which was recently submitted to the Mayor and Council should be printed in the local papers, so that the citizens who are interested in the paving would be able to inform themselves with reference to the contents of the reports.

In this way, it was pointed out, each party affected would have a chance to appear before the Council and make the specific objections to portions in which they are interested. For instance, it was said that the report as submitted by the Civil Engineer called for a change in the street line of Division street from the corner of Mr. S. Q. Johnson's property opposite the Methodist Episcopal Church, making a direct line to the property of Mr. Thomas Seabrook. It was understood that the point where the line crosses in front of the property of Mr. James L. Powell, the pavement would be six feet inside his front yard and would destroy the entire line of trees along the front of the Parsons property just beyond the Methodist Episcopal Parsonage lot, and also the large maple in front of the Dr. L. D. Collier property. In a number of other instances, he continued, the recommendations were as absurd as this one, and while he did not believe for a moment that the report would be adopted as a whole, still it was suggested by him that if these various recommendations could be printed, the people would have an opportunity to fully inform themselves, and at the proper time, intelligently discuss the situation with the Council before final action should be taken.

Hurt By Train.

While attempting to jump a north bound freight train Wednesday afternoon about 6 o'clock at the junction of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad and the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railway, Mr. James H. Payne, of Bridgeville, Del., who had just arrived in Salisbury after spending the day in Ocean City and was on his way home, missed his footing and fell, the wheels of the cars passing over his left leg near the knee. He was taken to the Peninsula General Hospital, where the limb was amputated by Dr. L. W. Morris.

and placed in a crude wood coffin. The body and the trappings of death were placed again in the skiffs and taken back to the McLane. The steamer waited until the scaffold was torn down and again stood on her deck. When she set sail for Mount Vernon wharf, where the body was driven four miles to the poorhouse.

SCHOOL BOARD BUSY.

Vertical Penmanship in Public Schools Abolished And Slanting System Substituted—Appointments Confirmed And Scholarships Awarded.

The School Board was in session on Friday and transacted considerable business. The vertical system of penmanship which has been taught in the county for several years was condemned by the board and the slanting system adopted, and the Superintendent, Mr. H. Crawford Bounds was instructed to adopt the copy books, accordingly.

Charles E. Tilghman was appointed to a scholarship at St. John's College.

Miss Rebecca Shockley, of Pittsville, was given a scholarship at the Frostburg Normal School.

Wilson I. Nicholson was given a scholarship to the Maryland Agricultural College.

Miss Gussie Webster, of Deals Island, was given a scholarship to the Maryland Institute of Art and Design. There was no applicant from this county and the board made the selection from Somerset.

Miss Margaret Whigham, of Morris, who has taught in the county for twenty-five years and who holds a life certificate from the State Board of Education, requested the board to leave him without an appointment for at least a year.

Miss Mollie Betts assistant at Bivalve, tendered her resignation as, did the assistant at Tyaskin also.

The free book fund amounting to $3700 was received.

The following appointments were confirmed by the board, having been made by the trustees: Miss Emma Brewington at Porter's Mill; Miss Alice Pollitt at Nelson's School; Miss Jessie Taylor at Cherry Walk; Miss Margaret Whigham at Morris; Miss A. Edna Windsor at Smith's; Miss Olive Mitchell at Shad Point; Miss Ida Morris, principal at Powellville; Miss Minnie Morris at Parker's and Miss Addie Bennett at Mt. Holly.

Commissioner H. L. Brewington was authorized to have a chimney fixed at the primary school building in town.

Rev. J. S. Blake, a colored minister in town, was before the board representing the colored people of a suburban section, asking for special school facilities for that locality, showing that there were 140 pupils in that section and but few of them attending the colored school in town, by reason of the crowded condition. He offered to furnish building and fuel and asked the board to furnish teachers. The board favored the plan, but would limit the work to the lower grades, or perhaps to the first grade only.

New Drug Store And Bowling Alley.

The large three-story building on the west side of Main street, occupied since its erection about six years by the well known drug house of R. K. Truitt and Sons, has been rebuilt and is about ready for occupancy.

The building was completely gutted on the seventh of April last in one of the heaviest fires with which Salisbury has had to contend for many years.

The first floor will be exclusively occupied by the bowling alleys of Messrs. R. K. Truitt and Son, and will be in charge of Mr. Marvin A. Holloway, who yesterday resigned his position at the Palm Garden to accept this new place.

There will be four complete alleys, which will be fitted up for "Box Ball," now the popular game of the cities. The alleys will be opened on Wednesday, the eighth of August, and will be a new feature of the town.

The second and third floors will be occupied by the Ideal Drug Company, under the management of Dr. Charles R. Truitt. For some time this company, which deals in various drug specialties and novelties, has been engaged in the retail as well as the wholesale business. Owing to the extension of their trade, however, the retail trade is to be discontinued, and in the future, an exclusive wholesale and manufacturing business will be engaged in. This is expected to be in operation in about three weeks.

The large double stairs formerly at the rear of the first floor has been entirely removed, and replaced by a freight elevator for use of the company. Mr. Daniel E. Parker, of this place, has had charge of the rebuilding of the structure.

W. S. McCombs, editor of the Havre de Grace Republican, headed a party of tourists who left Havre de Grace yesterday for a week's outing at Old Point Comfort, Norfolk and other Southern resorts.

St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oxford, closed for several months for extensive repairs, was reopened and rededicated Sunday. Many memorial windows have been placed in the edifice, which practically has been rebuilt.

James Bergis of Perryville, employed on the P., B. & W. railroad as a fireman, was severely scalded at Havre de Grace by the bursting of a steam hose on the engine he was employed on. He was sent to a Baltimore hospital for treatment.

James W. Beecher, an aged oysterman, of Winchester, blew off a portion of his skull and scattered his brains over the yard of his home with a shotgun Tuesday morning. His health is said to have been the cause for the act.

Dr. Henry N. Richards, a practicing physician of Ridgely, Caroline county, is under arrest at Denver, Col., on the charge of murder. Dr. Richards is also wanted at Sioux City, Ia., on the charge of giving a bogus draft for a carload of horses. The charge against Dr. Richards was preferred by Mr. James L. Nichols, a farmer living near Ridgely, who alleges that on or about May 23 last Dr. Richards performed a criminal operation on his daughter, Mrs. George A. Adams, and she died a few days later. Dr. Richards is 45 years old, and is said to have a wife and children, and to have enjoyed a large practice in and about Ridgely.

Cancer—Can It Be Cured?

With its usual promptness in printing the first authentic and reliable accounts of all important discoveries in the field of medicine, McClure's offers its readers in its August number an extremely interesting article "Cancer—Can It Be Cured?" by C. W. Saleeby, M. D., F. R. S. (Edin) which gives an account of experiments made by Dr. John Beard in the treatment of that disease by Trypsin; experiments that seemed to prove that the active agent of the pancreas will destroy the malignant cancer cells and bring about an absolute cure. The theories of embryology developed by Dr. Beard, which led to the discovery of the curative agent, are given in full by the author and form an exceedingly interesting part of the article. Briefly, according to Dr. Beard's theory, a cancer develops from cells remaining in the body from an asexual stage of the embryo; cells which should have been degenerated and absorbed or digested by the fluids of the pancreas, an organ which develops just after the asexual stage. These are really germ-cells that might have developed into another organism, and therefore death by cancer is fratricide—one germ-cell killing the organism that has developed from its brother. The article gives an account of the experiments upon mice by which this theory was established, and reports upon the trial treatments that were made by several physicians on human beings.

Progress Of Esperanto.

The London Chamber of Commerce has put Esperanto among the subject for examination in its educational department. This international language, successor of the unlamented Volapuk, was introduced to the world by Dr. Zamenhof, a doctor in Warsaw, Poland, in 1887. His pamphlet, "An International Language by Dr. Esperanto," published in that year, lay dormant for some ten years. It is said that 80,000 persons can now read or write Esperanto; and there are some forty journals and magazines and some two hundred societies or "centers" for propagating it. About half of the roots in Esperanto are of Latin origin, twenty-five per cent. of English, and twenty-five per cent. of German. There is no English "q," "w," or "y" in the language. There are no silent letters. The accent is always of the syllable next to the last. At present, Esperanto consists of about 1,000 roots and from 2,000 to 3,000 words. Dr. Zamenhof holds that by the use of some thirty prefixes and suffixes, 900 root words are enough. Its grammar ought to be learned in an hour by anybody who knows one of the Latin languages. There are no irregular verbs (blessed be Esperanto.) The plural ends in "j"; nouns in "o"; adjectives in "a." "Ino" is the feminine ending. For example, "patro," father; "patrino," mother. Will Esperanto go to the way of Volapuk or will it prosper?—"With the Procession," Everybody's Magazine for August.

South Far In Lead.

That more money is being taken to the South for investment in factories than to the New England States is shown in the startling comparison just made by the Department of Commerce and Labor, which states that four times as much capital was invested in the Southern States since 1900 than in New England.

In North Carolina, where 68,000,000 was invested in 1900, there is now engaged in manufacturing industries over the State the sum of $181,000,000, showing an increase of 166 per cent. The total amount of wages paid out was increased by $7,000,000, and where the cost of materials used in 1900 was $44,000,000, last year it amounted to $60,000,000.

The same figures are given of Connecticut, and show that her increase in capital invested is only 24 per cent. New Hampshire shows only an 18 per cent. increase. Alabama, on the other hand, shows her capital to have increased in the five years by 75 per cent. Virginia is below her sister Southern States with an increase of only 60 per cent. South Carolina shows an increase of 80 per cent.

These figures are significant in showing that the trend of capital is working its way to the South and at a rate which indicates that in a few years the Southern States will rank with New England in manufactures. Factories for cotton goods rank first in the South, with tobacco second; lumber and timber products, third, with flour and grist-mill products, fourth.

Another fact shown in the report is that while the number of establishments has decreased, those remaining have been built up extensively by the new capital entering the States.

Greatest Lumber State Is Oregon.

The forest of the upper Mississippi Valley, of the Great Lakes region and of the Southern States have furnished lumber for generations to the treeless prairies of the West and the denuded lands of the East. But the saw is cutting deep into the last of the tall timber of the North and more and more sunlight is being let in upon the Southland. Prices for northern white pine and southern yellow pine have risen in the last few years by leaps and bounds. The lumber dealer of the East has turned his eyes to a new source of supply. As a result, Portland, Oregon, in the center of the Great American Forest, has become the greatest lumber city in the Union, far outstripping Minneapolis; and Portland is but at the threshold of its great industry. Oregon is the greatest lumber state in the Union. During the next generation, and so far as one may judge, for all time, Portland is to hold its supremacy as the greatest sawmill city. The national hunger for lumber grows year by year, and Portland commands the gate to the forest.—Donald MacDonald in Sunset Magazine for June-July.

TO AILING WOMEN.

A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many A Sufferer in Salisbury.

No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Poisons that pass off in the urine when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder get inflamed and swollen, crowding the delicate female organs nearby and sometimes displacing them. This is the true cause of many bearing-down pains, lameness, backache, stiffness, etc. Uric poisoning also causes headaches, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.

When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills. You will get better, and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Cambridge woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. J. W. Bassett, wife of J. W. Bassett, retired farmer, residing at 213 Muir St., Cambridge, Md., says: "I have always enjoyed very good health until recent years when I suffered more or less trouble with my kidneys. It was manifested in severe headaches and rheumatism. The trouble was always worse if I caught cold or overexerted myself. I had terrible dizzy spells at times. Reading of Doan's Kidney Pills I asked my husband to get me a box. I took them as directed, and when I had finished the one box I felt so much better that I have since recommended them to a great many people. I know that they have done me a world of good and feel that they are a great thing for kidney complaint."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Hospitality.

While the reportorial representative of a great news bureau was in San Antonio, Tex., whence he had posted in such haste as to have little luggage, he met with a charming bit of southern hospitality. He had no cuffs, and a local reporter promptly drew off his own and said to the guest within the city gates: "Here, take mine. I've more at home." Later it was learned that the donor of the cuffs worked for the San Antonio Daily Express, and the superintendent of the news bureau upon hearing of the incident immediately wrote to Frank Grice, owner of the Express, in appreciation of an act peculiarly southern in its frank good fellowship. Here is Mr. Grice's reply: "If you can send me the name of the member of the Express staff who offered his cuffs to your man he will be discharged for not offering his shirt as well."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Sharp, but Not Clever.

A London scientist says that life in a metropolis makes young children sharp, but not clever; that it often destroys their chance of ever being clever, for it hastens the development of the brain unnaturally. It makes them superficial, alert, but not observant; excitable, but without one spark of enthusiasm. They are apt to grow blasé, fickle, discontented. They see more things than the country bred child, but not such interesting things, and they do not properly see anything, for they have neither the time nor capacity to get at the root of all the bewildering objects that crowd themselves into their little lives.

Boy Was a Good Listener.

The Smiths were not overcautious in discussing neighbors' faults in the presence of their little son. A van one day backed up to the curb, and, much to Mrs. Smith's disgust, her boy Tommy assisted an objectionable neighbor to move. The little fellow worked hard and made himself very useful. When the last wagonload had been hauled away and the doors of the vacant house locked Tommy returned home, tired and disgusted. His mother could not reconcile the boy's early enthusiasm with his present dejection, and she asked him what was the matter. "I worked and watched around the house all day," whined the tired little fellow, "but I didn't see them take any skeletons out of the closets."—New York Times.

Feminine Study of Man.

Man is when all is said a vastly lovable being and even his faults—indeed, chiefly his faults—have a most unholly attraction for us. But man the conqueror is a very different creature from man the conqueror. The first is always ready and longing to afford us everything in the world we desire—ready to sell his immortal soul for our pleasures. The second grudges us a kind word.—A Splinter in M. A. P.

Conkling's Invective.

Roscoe Conkling, like John J. Ingalls, was a master at invective. Conkling, it is said, once upon a time in summing up to a jury thus attempted to belittle the testimony of a rummy faced, knobby nosed witness for the opposition: "Methinks, gentlemen, I can see that witness now, his mouth stretching across the wide desolation of his face, a sepulcher of rum and a fountain of falsehood!"

The Death of Russell Sage.

It did not require the death of Russell Sage to bring to light the unenviable and unattractive traits of character so long marked characteristics of the man. Indeed from his earliest boyhood his name has been associated so constantly with close dealing and narrow methods that his name long since became a synonym for penuriousness of the most pronounced type. The character study of such a man is intensely interesting, and not altogether unprofitable, for while we find little to commend, the many traits which seemed to be so utterly at variance with the innate impulses of mankind prove to be but danger signals warning us from the pitfalls which brought his life into the lime light of a publicity at all times adverse and hostile. The very fact that his mode of life has always brought forth constant exclamations of wonderment, is proof that the public could never quite reconcile his immense wealth with his peculiarly close habits, and each succeeding generation during his long career has been taught to look upon him as some great blur upon our social and financial system. The very fact that this is true, shows conclusively that there is, fortunately, an innate generosity in humanity, and a disposition to share our substance with those around us less fortunate. Were this not true, the life and death of Russell Sage would never have made any impress of any moment upon the thought and feeling of the general public, and he would have been known solely because of his wealth, and out side of the immediate circle of his acquaintances, not even a ripple would have been created. It is only when his life stands silhouetted against the back ground of the higher and nobler standards of our civilization that the drawn character of his inmost soul stands out in bold and sharp relief. Neither ridicule nor scorn ever seemed to reach a vital spot, and amid epithets that would have crushed a sensitive man, he pursued the even tenor of his way with an utter disregard for the opinions of his fellow man. For one to stand for a righteous principle in the face of a hostile public and be true to his conviction, when the wave of public sentiment is running strong against him, is a species of heroism unfortunately too rare. But in the case of Mr. Sage, no one ever yet accused him of having any conscientious convictions on the subject, except the supremely selfish instinct that dominated his entire life. Indeed, were it not for the fact that the thousand and one striking tales told of this multi-millionaire are so well authenticated and so absolutely in harmony with the entire spirit of the man throughout his long life, the public would stand aghast at the utter selfishness of the man exhibited at every turn of his career.

When it comes to specific incidents, only one or two of which we can mention, perhaps none strike the average person as more ludicrous and ridiculous than the broken pane of glass which has adorned the front of his handsome Fifth Avenue residence in New York for the past twenty years. For nearly a quarter of a century this crack has been pointed out by the cabmen of that great city to the curious as one of the curiosities of New York, and has remained for that length of time because the price originally fixed by the glazier was $12.00, and as Mr. Sage felt the limit of his exchequer for that particular expenditure was $10.00, the deadlock continued and the crack remained. When it came to the church matters, the same instincts exhibited themselves even to a more marked degree. Although having an income of $15,000.00 a day he was content to give $5.00 each week, and his "extras" never amounted to more than a few dollars a year, except, years ago, when in one gigantic outburst of generosity, he gave $50.00 to missions. So unutterable surprised was one of his friends at this "remarkable" gift, that he bet $500.00 that such was not the case, and when he was finally solemnly assured by the pastor that the gift had actually been made, he offered to bet another $500.00 that the bill was counterfeit. When we consider that a man having an income of $1200.00 a year would be required, on this basis to pay less than six mills a week to the church, or the inconceivably small sum of five cents a year, we can understand something of Mr. Sage's idea of the necessity of christian giving. It is exceptionally fortunate for the church and for the people in general that few people are constituted along the line of Russell Sage.

But perhaps the most striking incident of his career was the spirit that prompted him to continuously fight in the courts of New York the claim of the individual whom Mr. Sage very conveniently used as a shield from a dynamite bomb. The man was very severely injured and was incapacitated from work for a long time and yet, notwithstanding his repeated calls upon Mr. Sage for relief and help, he turned a deaf ear to every instinct of gratitude, every idea of right, and every principle of justice, and worried, exhausted and penniless, the man was compelled to drop his case without having secured a final judgment.

But Russell Sage is dead! Virtues and faults alike have been buried,—but the record of his life remains unenviable and unalterable. The hand, whose grip of steel held the accumulated fortunes of years with relentless grasp, has relaxed, and his millions have fallen into other hands,—while Russell Sage himself was compelled to leave this world as penniless as he entered it.

The Doom Of The Mosquito!

And now comes the refreshing news from far off Hawaii that the doom of the mosquito is sealed! No longer will this kingly insect sit enthroned in regal state upon a pedestal all his own, and rule with despotic sway the countless millions of his subjects.

True, the details of this great emancipation are rather meagre, but after all the old doctrine that anticipation is sweeter than realization will stand us in good stead, and by faith we can fancy a "mosquitoless" night. Amid over hanging vines and moonlit traceries, imagine a peaceful quiet, without the unwelcome companionship of this unwelcome guest! Imagine a night gloriously free from that indescribable hum which has sent the cold shiver down the spinal columns of hapless thousands, and amid agonizing suspense, compelled its luckless victims to wait for the fatal thrust! Imagine a night freed from tempestuous fighting against an ever present and overshadowing "something" whose thirst is absolutely and utterly insatiable! Imagine—oh, fondly imagine,—the time, when there shall be no longer that wild and fitful clutching at unprotected ankles—the peculiarly vulnerable spot of "mosquito-cursed" humanity! Truly and verily the millennium approacheth!

To Republicans.

We are anxious to have every Republican in touch, and working in harmony with the Republican National Congressional Committee in favor of the election of a Republican Congress.

The Congressional campaign must be based on the administrative and legislative record of the party, and, that being so, Theodore Roosevelt's personality must be a central figure and his achievements a central thought in the campaign.

We desire to maintain the work of this Campaign with popular subscriptions of One Dollar each from Republicans. To each subscriber we will send the Republican National campaign Text Book and all documents issued by the Committee.

Help us achieve a great victory.

Large Salisbury Business To Change Hands.

Beginning with August 1 the wholesale grocery firm of H. S. Todd & Co. will be dissolved and will be succeeded by the firm of W. E. Sheppard & Co., which will be incorporated with a capitalization of $30,000. Those holding the largest share of stock in the new concern will be Messrs. William E. Sheppard, Walter S. Sheppard and William S. Parker. The other stockholders have not as yet been determined upon. This matter will probably be settled at a stockholders meeting held today, after which the incorporation papers will be filed. Mr. H. S. Todd, of the old firm, will retire from active business for the present on account of the ill health, but later may enter the wholesale tobacco business. He retires with a splendid business record.

The firm of H. S. Todd & Co. was the successor to F. C. & H. S. Todd, which was organized before the big Salisbury fire of 1886 by Mr. H. S. Todd and his uncle, Mr. F. C. Todd. The trade now held embraces a large part of the Eastern Shore of Maryland and of Virginia and Delaware. Progressiveness and honorableness have made the firm well and favorably known to nearly every store-keeper on the Peninsula.

The quarters at present occupied by H. S. Todd & Co. will be taken by W. E. Sheppard & Co. These embrace the large two-story brick warehouse on Main street, near the pivot bridge, and the large frame warehouse in the rear.

—Watch for "The Palm Leaf" next week. It will tell the story of the Palm Garden.

THE
Salisbury Building & Loan and Banking ASSOCIATION

This Association has two separate and distinct departments: "The Building & Loan Department" and "The Banking Department."

The Building & Loan Department, with its paid-up capital stock of $14,500.00, makes loans secured by mortgages, to be paid back in weekly installments of 30c, 40c, 50c, $1.00 or $2.00 per week, to suit borrower; and has been doing a popular and successful business since 1887.

The Banking Department was added in 1902 under authority granted by the General Assembly of Maryland of that year, to set apart $25,000.00 of the Association's capital stock for banking purposes. It receives money on deposits, makes loans on commercial paper, enters into such business transactions as conservative banks ordinarily do, and earnestly solicits the patronage of its friends and the general public. —The South Salisbury Athletic Association played a game of baseball Thursday afternoon on the South Salisbury grounds against the colored team of Salisbury, the pale-faces winning 5 to 3. The features of the game were the catch of Herman Hastings in deep center and the laugh of Ernest Robbins, the "coon shouter." Umpire, McCallister.

—An interesting question arose in the July term of the Circuit Court for Charles county Monday in the case of Jane Sherman against the Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore Railroad Company, a suit for damages against the railroad company for an alleged attempt to put the plaintiff in a jimcrow car, she being a white woman. The case was non prossed at a former term of court and a petition was filed by Bernard Carter, counsel for the railroad company in the new case, asking that the plaintiff should not be allowed to proceed further until the costs in the case that had been non prossed had been paid. A motion was made by Adrian Posey, her counsel, to dismiss the petition upon the ground of there being no law or rule of court permitting such a proceeding. The court held the matter sub curia.

There are front and rear stairways, the former open and leading from the reception hall. Upstairs are four big bedrooms, with unusually generous closets, a bathroom and a large closet for soiled linen. Two or three more bedrooms may be finished off in the attic if desired. This house as built in Morris, Minn., cost $5,600.

What the Boy Said
To His Dying Grandpa

A WESTERN congressman was talking about Quonah Parker, chief of the Comanches, who has been lying ill in the Wichita mountains.

"Quonah Parker," the congressman said, "is a rich man and a polished man. Despite his eight wives, a woman's conversation would convince you of the intelligence, culture and wit of the chieftain."

"I once heard an ignorant commissioner make in Quonah Parker's presence a remark derogatory to the Indian race."

"The chief bit his lip, smiled and said: 'Your remark shocks me greatly. It shocks me as an old man in New York was once shocked.'"

"Quonah Parker then went on to explain that the shock came to the old man as he lay dying. He was stretched out on his deathbed. His pale, wasted hands poked at the coverlet. His family wept at the bedside. Finally his grandson, a boy of nine or ten, was brought in."

"Your grandpa is extremely ill," murmured the boy's mother. 'Say something to him.'"

"The child thought a little and then said in a loud, clear treble: 'Grandpa, would you like to have soldiers at your funeral?'—American Spectator.

Still Serves Its Purpose.

"Say," complained the stranger, stepping inside the drug store, "this weighing machine in front of your place is out of order."

"I've got nothing to do with that machine," said the sleepy-looking young man behind the counter.

"Well, somebody ought to have."

"What's the matter with it, anyway?"

"It won't work. I dropped a penny into it just now, and the indicator didn't fly around. I shook the machine and jumped up and down on the platform, and still it didn't move. It's a swindle."

"It took the penny all right, didn't it?"

"Certainly."

"Well, that's what it's for. There's nothing the matter with the machine, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

My Breath.

Firmness of Breath

One of the Commonest Signs of Heart Disease.

Notwithstanding what many physicians say, heart disease can be cured.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure has permanently restored to health many thousands who had found no relief in the medicines (allopathic or homoeopathic) of regular practicing physicians.

It has proved itself unique in the history of medicine, by being so uniformly successful in curing those diseases.

Nearly always, one of the first signs of trouble is shortness of breath. Whether it comes as a result of walking or running up stairs, or of other exercises, if the heart is unable to meet this extra demand upon its pumping powers—there is something wrong with it.

The very best thing you can do, is to take Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure. It will go to the foundation of the trouble, and make a permanent cure by strengthening and renewing the nerves.

"I know that Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is a great remedy. For a number of years I suffered from shortness of breath, smothering spells, and pains in my left side. For months at a time I would be unable to lie on my left side, and if I lay flat on my back would nearly smother. A friend advised using Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, which I did with good results. I began to improve at once, and after taking several bottles of the Heart Cure the pains in my side and other symptoms vanished. I am now entirely well. All those dreadful smothering spells are a thing of the past."—F. P. DEARIE, Middletown, O.

If the first bottle does not help you, the druggist will refund your money.

A Fire in Rome.

A lawyer who visited Rome tells how the fire department grappled with a blaze in the Eternal City. He says: "The fire was in what we would call a grocery store. It seemed a long time before the fire department responded, but after a while I saw a hose wagon dash around the corner, with a number of firemen standing on the running boards on each side. The wagon stopped at a hydrant, and each fireman jumped from the wagon with a little roll of hose. The first man coupled his to the hydrant, and then each man coupled his section to the preceding section. Finally they had water on the fire, and after another long period a man with a plumed hat drove up in a victoria. He was the chief. The captain of the company and the chief saluted with much ceremony, then shook hands and then held a long and dignified conversation. Finally, I suppose, the captain told the chief the grocery was on fire, and the chief acknowledged it was and complimented him on his perspicuity. Oh, yes, they finally put the fire out, and Rome still stands."

The Guide's Measure.

"Things have come to a pretty pass," remarked the guide as he led Algernon and Percy into the Yosemite valley.—Lampoon.

Political Speeches.

Some people think, for instance, that political speeches do not matter. Political speeches matter far more than the acts of parliament which they introduce. Men care less even about what is being done than about why it is being done. The spirit in which a thing is effected is of far more practical importance even than the thing itself. This can be tested by the simple experiment in social life of removing a gentleman's hat for him, first in one spirit, then in the other. If you get rid of all the talk about practical politics (talked by tired men with £10,000 a year) and really look impartially at the history of human society you will see that collisions have arisen far more from insults than from injuries. Some of my imperialist friends, for instance, tell me that because I think South Africa a nuisance to England therefore I should permit Germany to pluck it from us in war. This is like saying that because I think a top hat ugly and uncomfortable I should let another man knock it off in Piccadilly. No doubt it is uncomfortable. But why should he knock it off? Who is he? I wonder.—G. K. Chesterton in London News.

"Banter" is a word whose origin no scholar can trace.

The Little Schemer.

"What are you making, my pretty maid?"
"I'm making a bathing suit, sir," she said.
"And what when it's finished, my pretty maid?"
"I'm going to be seashore, sir," she said.
"And then what will happen, my pretty maid?"
"I'll capture a husband, sir," she said.
—Somerville Journal.

Not in the Running.

Everybody's running.
In this eventful day:
Running some big business
So's to make it pay;
Running for an office
Or running from the law;
It's the fastest running
That this old world ever saw.

I want to stop a minute
So's to kind o' catch my breath.
We go so fast around the curves
It scares me most to death.
I want some time for friendships
And an hour or so for talk;
I'm tired of all this running.
So I'll jee git out an' walk.

Doings at the Limekiln Club

Brother Gardner Tells How Great Men Have Their Troubles as Well as Others.

(Copyright, 1906, by R. Douglas.)
WHEN the routine business of the Limekiln club had been transacted at its last regular Saturday night meeting Brother Gardner arose and said:

"It has come to my ears dat a number of de members of dis club am longin' to be great and dat dey reckon if dey can achieve greatness dat dey will go gildin' frew life like a streak of 'lasses creepin' across de noon. I don't care how hard any of you work to become great or how quick you git dar, but don't make any mistake about greatness. Dar am sarfin things dat you can't shake off, no matter whether you am as big as a haystack or small 'nuff to crawl into a bar'l.

HOLDING A JUG OF 'LASSES TO YOUR MOUTH.

"Julius Caesar was a great man. He walked around all puffed out and his coat tails wavin', and de man who didn't gib him all de road was hung within sixteen minuits. A good shere of de world took off dere hats to him, and it nebber cost him a red cent to go into a circus or to carry home de biggest watermillyon in de bunch. Lordy, but it would make your har' curl to know jist how great dat Julius was and de swath he cut!

"What happened to Mr. Caesar arter he had become great? Did he go slidin' downhill widout any stumps in de way? Did he escape all de botheration dat comes to common folks? Don't you bet dat he did. He had chilblains. He had hiles. He had colic. He went to bed wid headaches and got up wid backaches. Fellers borrowed money of him and didn't pay it back. De buttons ripped off his clothes, and his cat got chased by dawgs. He heard death ticks in de wall, he had de nightmare, somebody stole his hens, and when dat great man come to die he was glad of it.

"Alexander de Great was a great man. I was readin' about him de other night and felt chill creep up my back. If he smiled at a man, dat man was worth a millyon dollars widin a week; if he scowled at any one, dat man was dead widin an hour. If he sneezed, milliyons of people hid in de woods; if he roared, all de babies for ten miles around dropped dead. You can judge how great a man he was when I say dat de tailor who cleaned his clothes didn't send in a bill for fifteen years.

"And did Alexander escape de troubles dat come to you and me and other common folks? Let history answer. Read it, and we find dat his mother-in-law come to lib wid him and run de house; dat he fell off de shed roof and broke a rib; dat ebbery chimney in de house smoked; dat water got into his cellar and floated de 'taters about; dat his hired gal packed her duds and quit at an hour's notice; dat his cow had de holler horn and somebody plizened his dog. Alexander was great, but he had to pay for it, and when he finally got de measles and caught cold and was brung to his dyin' bed he seemed powerful glad to go.

"Take somebody nigher home. Take George Washington, for instance. Ebbery picture you see of him looks as complacent and smilin' as if he had won a prize in a lottery. You read of him in history swellin' around and doin' mighty little for his wages, and it has got so dat more'n a millyon boys in dis kentry am sighin' to be Washingtons.

"Turn de picture ober and gaze on de other side. Do you imagine dat de frost didn't kill his cowcumber vines? Dat de hawgs didn't bust deir way into his garden? Dat de ager didn't shake his bones and make his teeth chatter? Dat de crows didn't scratch up his co'n and de cull'd populashun walk off wid his watermillyons? He found buttons off his shirts; he found lumps in his bed; he found de hired gal usin' his toothbrush; he found dat somebody had stolen de hoe and broken de ax; he got kicked by de cow when he milked and got bit by de old hoss when he cleaned him off. Don't let nobody fool you about George Washington. Of co'se he was a big man and saved de kentry, but he had to pay for it jist de same.

"Most of you have a volume or two of Shakespeare, bought on de installment plan, in de house. When you get sot down in de rockin' cheer, pipe in mouth, and de wind's howlin' around outside, dat poetry reads so sleek and slick dat you can't imagine any troubles comin' to de man who made it. It's jist like holdin' a jug of 'lasses up to your mouth as you sit on a log in de sunshine and lettin' de sweet stuff slide down your throat. You can't possibly think of Shakespeare and back rent in de same minuit.

"And yet, my frens, how did de great man lib? De constable was arter him from Monday mawnin' to Saturday night. He was in debt where'er dey would trust him. He nebber met a man unless he struck him for a quarter. If dere was a cold snap he was out of wood. If dere was a hot wave he had no white pants to wear, because de washwoman wouldn't come to de house until she was paid what was comin' to her. He nebber had a dawg dat would stay wid him for a week. He nebber driv out into de kentry to commuine wid nature dat a bumblebee didn't sting him or a bull toss him ober de pastur' fence. If he got $10 ahead of de game and was gwine to have chicken potpie for Sunday dinner, a whole wagonload of his relations would drive up and eat him out of house and home and go away mad because he hadn't a lot of Rocky Ford cantaloupes to finish off wid.

"Doomin' de last seven years of his life he owned and run seben theaters, but dere was so many deadheads dat he couldn't make a cent. Only a week befo' his death, and while he had two doctors feelin' of his pulse and lookin' wise, somebody broke into his smoke-house and stole three sides of bacon. "Let us come down to my own case. You see me walkin' along de street wid my plug hat on and my snuff brown suit and gold headed cane. My stomach is puffed out. I am lookin' straight ahead of me wid de utmost dignity. I look to ebberybody like a great man on his way down to de bank to get a check cashed. Teams stop to let me cross de street, and de small boy shrinks away abashed. You stand dere and hold your breath and wish you was Brudder Gardner.

"And yet, my frens, gaze on de other side of de picture. I's got a sore throat. I's got two more co'ns. De cold got into my cellar and frostbit my taters. My brudder down in Virginy wants to borrow $10 of me. My cat has jee died and my dawg run away. I has got two lawsuits on hand, and my old mawl is standin' in de shed so sick dat I expect to find him a corpse when I get home. You see greatness befo' you, but you don't see de troubles dat I have to pass frew.

"It am all right to sigh for greatness, but greatness has got to pay de butcher and grocer same as other folks. Greatness in itself am all right, but don't imagine it's all gwine to de circus and pickin' up diamonds.

"Wid all a great man's greatness—wid de cheers of de multitude ringin' in his ears—wid hatless men and smilin' women follerin' him about, he may go home to find his old woman standin' in de hall wid a club in her hand and waitin' to say to him dat de flour bar'l am empty, de bacon gone, and de chillen wantin' new shoes, and dat if he don't get a hustle on him she'll mighty soon know de reason why.

"My advice to you am to be great up to a sarfin pint—up to dat pint whar your credit am good for a pound of coffee all to once, and den stop. Anythin' beyond dat may bring you down wid a crash and leave you a wreck."

M. QUAD.

Very Sarcastic.

"Mr. Bliggins contends that in this world nothing is so trifling as to be unworthy of consideration."

"That theory," answered Miss Cayenne, "will possibly account for the importance he attaches to his own opinions."—Washington Star.

Unfeeling.

"I'm tired of reading about the smart girl graduate," said the crusty old bachelor.

"You're not half as tired as the fellows will be who have to listen to her essay," growled the other man.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Tanned and Scrawny.

"Do you object to the present style of short sleeves, Mr. Creamer?"

"I don't object to the sleeves, but some of the arms in them are atrocious."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ponderous Verbosity.

"Mr. Jugglefraize is a great thinker, isn't he?"

"He must be if he tries to understand some of the things he says."—Detroit Free Press.

His Remark.

"I won't do any more work for that man Hopkins."

"Why?"

"Well, he passed some remark I did not like."

"Did he? What was it?"

"He said, 'Brown, you won't be wanted after this week.'"

Constant Advice.

"A woman should always depend on her husband for advice," said the devoted wife.

"Yes," answered the visitor, "but it does grow monotonous not to get any advice except to economize."—Washington Star.

Boys, no objections can reasonably be offered for killing worthless dogs and cats, but please bury the remains, or notify the bailiff, as those carcasses near the street last week were very offensive.

The base ball fever runs high here and there are at least three captains, viz: C. R. Vickers, A. E. Brody and Ernest Ellis, and as many teams. A team from Delmar and one from Laurel were defeated here Saturday.

The town bailiff has been very vigilant recently, and his investigation have exposed some conditions that are a menace to the health of the town. A renovation has been ordered and it is to be hoped his orders will be obeyed without the use of strenuous means.

White Haven.

Quite a number of our people are attending the camp at Bivalve this week.

Mr. R. W. Staton and Capt. John F. Bloodworth are on the sick list.

Miss Margaret Culver is visiting her sister Mrs. G. M. White, at Washington, D. C.

Mr. W. W. Culver and Capt. F. A. Moore spent several days in the Monumental city this week.

Bivalve and White Haven plays ball at White Haven today. We expect a large crowd, of course. This means another game for White Haven.

Miss Minnie Taylor, of Mt. Vernon, returned home after a few days visit at the Misses Wingate's this week and was accompanied by Miss Aramiah and Florence Wingate.

Politics seems to be on the quiet in this district. There is usually quite a little political gossip going at the camp-meeting, but this year but few seem interested to give such matters any attention.

The White Haven Baseball Club this year has been exceptionally successful, and is composed of young men exclusively and there is no reason why the club should not receive the hearty support of our town.

Camp-meetings and base ball seems to be all the go just now. We understand that a camp will be held at Dolly's Woods, just at the end of the shell road leading from our town, and we see no reason why it will not be largely attended, as our convenience for attending is grand by water, also our roads are fine for driving.

On Wednesday of last week Nanticoke team played White Haven on our grounds. Quite a lot of ladies and gentlemen came on the Wicomico only to see their boys defeated by a score of 12-1. An error by Lankford saved the team only from being shut out. On Tuesday another game was played on Bivalve grounds by the Bivalve and White Haven teams, which resulted in a victory for our boys, the score being 1 to 6. The one run was scored by reason of an error of Bounds, on second base. We have a series of games arranged for the season, and whilst several games are all ready engaged a head, we stand open for any challenge. On Thursday of this week Nanticoke played White Haven on Bivalve ground. The game was very interesting, two to three hundred people being present. The score was 3 to 4, another victory for White Haven. Two errors were made by Austin.

It is interesting to note the changed expression on the faces of all who enter the Palm Garden with an uncomfortable feeling either from the heat or provoked mind. They always come out with a "smile that won't come off."

Salisbury Loses To Dover.

Salisbury was defeated by Dover Wednesday afternoon before a large crowd of enthusiastic rooters. Costly errors by the home boys and a timely two bagger clinched the game for the visitors in the seventh inning. Yerkes, the Dover pitcher, put up a fine game, allowing our boys only two hits, while Jones was hit safely six times. Wright, the Dover out fielder, robbed Salisbury of three good hits, by making sensational catches in right field.

Taylor, Dover's third baseman, connected with one of Jones' benders in the sixth inning, knocking a home run over the left field fence, and Allee's two bagger in the seventh scored two men.

Perry and Truitt made Salisbury's two hits, George Austin scoring from second base on Truitt's single in the fifth inning. Score by innings:

Dover.....0 0 0 0 1 2 1 0 4-6-3

Salisbury 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1-2-4

Salisbury won from Seaford Monday on the home ground in an exciting game with a score of 2 to 1. The contest was replete with spectacular plays, Perry's throw from center field being the main feature. Jones pitched a good game for Salisbury, and Benson did the same thing for the visitors. The score by innings follows:
