

There are some peculiarities of the Ohio contest which are not perceptible to the casual observer. In both parties there are circles within circles, and divided powers and purposes.

There are leaders in the Republican party who want Judge West and the State ticket elected, and do not care to carry the Legislature. They want the popular control of the State, and are not anxious for the support of the Hayes administration by a Republican Senator. There are others, embracing not only the rival candidates for Senator, but many of their friends also, who would gladly surrender the State ticket for a Republican Legislature. They want the seat in the Senate and the patronage of the President. On the Democratic side the same divisions exist. Some of their leaders would give the Legislature for the control of the State offices and the prestige of party success on the popular vote, and others would let the State ticket slide to save the Legislature. These are not mere idle wishes, but both sides have discussed them and planned about them in accordance with their interests or preferences. Of course,

Judge West and Mr. Bishop are not of those who are ready to surrender

the State ticket for the Legislature.

One might guess the first guess that Stanley Matthews and General

Garfield on the one side, and General

Ewing and George H. Pendleton on the other, are not among the men who think that the Legislature should be sacrificed to elect a Governor.

In other recent Ohio contests both parties have usually been sanguine of success. In 1875 there were daily bulletins by scores from candidates and leaders predicting certain triumph, and in 1876 like confidence was displayed by the opposing managers; but now there is an entire absence of confidence in both Republican and Democratic circles of well informed minds. But today, even the theoretic observer is almost faint as to the result on Tuesday next. There will be a great deal of talk about the various localities, but on which side

the lightning will strike most fatally, is what defies all calculation. The Greenback men are in the field with a spirit following, and, if they may cost the Democracy five or ten thousand votes more than it abstracts

from the other side, and if they cost them nothing beyond what it balances

by Republican defection in its interest. If the Greenback vote does not deeply into the ranks of the Democrats, they will undoubtedly elect their State ticket. They have indicated their rank and file with the convictions of the Greenback party under the lead of Allen, and now their tickets may read where Greenback men abide. The Labor movement is also an unknown and most uncertain quantity of the fight.

It is the Republican peril for it is likely to draw more largely from the Republicans than the Democrats. If it shall happen to draw nearly equal from the ranks of the old parties, and the Greenback ticket ends into the Democratic two to one, the Republicans will elect their ticket, unless the

Allen-Hayes non-voting Republican element is large. The probabilities are that the Greenback movement will cost the Democrats most and that the Labor division will be most expensive to the Republicans, and they may balance accounts. In such case, the election of the Democratic ticket will be the result of 1877.

The anti-Hayes division makes the sign beyond Mr. Bishop's election be allowed to repose unmolested. Besides the disturbance, in other respects, many services are rendered from their homes, and have to be met in their return, much to the annoyance of the families in which they are employed.

We do not see any good reason why colored people cannot begin and close their meetings at a reasonable hour as well as other people. Ten o'clock is late enough to keep up a religious meeting of any other kind. We need not an old preacher say, who had seen much experience, that meetings kept up later than ten o'clock were not profitable of any good as a general thing, and it was his opinion that they should close at that hour. He said in a very few instances some good may have been done at a late hour, but these instances were rare, and most demoralizing distances occur in the later hours of worship, people become fatigued, and to some extent demoralized. His advice was so clear as to 10. Now we hope our loved friends will take this gentle hint.

The Second Agricultural Fair

Now that the time for holding the Second Annual Fair of the Agricultural and Mechanical Association of Wisconsin County is so near at hand, we feel that we cannot help but strongly urge upon our people the vast importance of making the exhibition a grand success in every particular, and this of course cannot be accomplished, except by the hearty co-operation of the farmers, mechanics and trades of the county, with the zealous board of directors of the association. Let there be but on exhibition the finest and best specimens that each and every person can obtain from their premises. No farther, mechanics, or other persons, feeling a just pride in the affairs of their county and their honor, should remain in the back ground, but should come forward and contribute their part to the valuable work the association is carrying on. That in a short time it may be said of Wisconsin's Agricultural and Mechanical Association, as it is now said of her social and political status, viz: she is second to none in the State.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For Wicomico County.
ELECTION NOV. 6th, 1877.

For Comptroller of the Treasury:
HON. THOS. J. KEATING,
 Of Queen Anne's Co.

FOR HOUSE OF DELEGATES:
THOMAS J. TURPIN,
SAMUEL H. FOKS.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONERS:
ADAM P. BETHARDS,
CLAYTON C. PARKER,
WM. W. DISHARON,
HENRY W. ANDERSON,
JAMES H. ELLIOTT.

FOR SHERIFF:
JOSHUA H. TRADER.

FOR SURVEYOR:
HORATIO N. CRAWFORD.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

It is now almost reduced to a certainty that the American people are not disposed to submit to the fraudulent dealing in of Mr. Hayes as President. While some are disposed to confess that the passage of the Commission Bill by both Houses of Congress, and the placing of the signature of the Executive to the name, of itself was enough to bind the people by the act of their representatives to submit to whatever was afterward done. Yet with all this force, and seeming demand upon the people to submit to what was done by their representatives, there is still a maxim underlying all this seeming demand upon the patience of the people—a maxim not only of law, but of justice and common sense, and that is, if any part of a compact is fraudulent, it vitiate the whole agreement. Now it is quite evident that the contracting parties to this agreement (for it was simply an agreement or compact, a trade without warrant in law, either organic or statute, and not sustained by the subsequent acts of the contracting parties) did not carry out in good faith the letter and spirit of the Commission Bill. Therefore we hold that it is null and void, and that it is the duty of Congress to repeal the Commission Bill and all that was done by that body toward electing a President by any mode not sustained by the Constitution or provided for therein, and to take up and adopt the resolution which was passed by the House of Representatives just before they adjourned, declaring J. J. Tilden and T. A. Hendricks duly elected President and Vice President of the United States. Or, if they desire to do a little more particular they can recount the vote of Florida, Louisiana and South Carolina. This would settle the matter at once. "But," say some of the people, "this would not do. It would disturb the commerce of the country. Mr. Hayes has been inaugurated President, and has adopted a policy towards the South which has brought peace and quiet to the country, and it would be impossible to disturb the peace of the country, not even to do a just act." Now this idea is not consistent with the principles of American liberty. If we have done wrong it is our duty to right that wrong at as early a day as possible. That day has not come before because the people's representatives have not been called together. Since this gigantic fraud has been perpetrated, and because Mr. Hayes has done just what Mr. Tilden would have done is no reason why his fraud should be condoned. If a man steals another's goods, who is not in want, and goes and divides a part of them with other starving creatures, this does not acquit him of the crime—he is still guilty, and must be punished, for he has no right to presume that the owner of the goods did not intend to make a proper use of them.

They were his, and he had a right to make such disposition of them as he chose, provided he did not use them to oppress the people or deprive them of their rights or their franchises. Now if Mr. Tilden was lawfully elected according to the provisions of the constitution, it is the duty of the Congress of the United States, and the judiciary thereof, to see that he is so proclaimed and duly installed. It is not the business of the people, or of Congress, to inquire as to whether Mr. Tilden will make a better President than Mr. Hayes, nor, whether he would call about him better advisors, or safer confidants. The first great principle is this: Is he the rightful President? When this fact is ascertained, all others fall into insignificance. It is not that a few fat Republicans may be turned out of office, or that some hungry Democrats may be put in. The question is, Who is the man? This settled, the right is vindicated. It is not for us of this generation. The question is: Shall our form of Government be thus abused and destroyed that we may have temporary peace? Not so. We must have a peace founded upon the great principles of justice and equity. When these ends are secured, then we have something worth maintaining. Take these from us, and we are a mere mob. Our boasted freedom is a farce, and a mockery, our system is but chaos.

Our Ticket.

The Democratic ticket nominated for Wicomico County is before the people, and they have expressed their opinions in words as to its merits and demerits. The next thing is to express in a more substantial way our approval or disapproval. We are glad to know that nearly all Democrats are satisfied with the ticket. There may be a few exceptions where men are dissatisfied on account of being left off the ticket themselves, or had some pet friend whom they were desirous of having put on it. With these few isolated exceptions, the ticket meets with universal endorsement, and is considered a good, strong, acceptable ticket, inasmuch as there is not one objectionable man on it, nor would those who might cavil at the ticket have been satisfied with it if they had made it out themselves, unless they could have had their own names put thereon. Even then they would have been dissatisfied with some of their colleagues. So and vote the ticket, every one of you, as upon the Democratic vote of the districts will the Central Committee fix the representation of the districts for the next County Convention.

The Ohio election has resulted in a complete triumph for the Democracy. Bishop is elected Governor by at least 25,000 majority, with a large majority in both branches of the Legislature, which secures another Democratic United States Senator. The newspapers of the country attribute the result to various causes, prominent among which, is the labor movement, the financial question, &c. But our opinion is, that the people are determined to rebuke Returning Board frauds, and every effort to usurp their rights by the central government.

Elections on Tuesday.

Ohio has gone Democratic by 25,000 majority, electing Mr. Bishop Governor, and a majority in both branches of the Legislature.

Iowa, the strongest Republican State in the Union, has barely escaped defeat, a change of nearly 20,000 votes since last year.

In Newark, New Jersey, the Republican Mayor was re-elected by a greatly reduced majority, showing that the days of the Republican party are well nigh numbered.

Hayes Title Not Good.

George William Curtis, editor of Harper's Weekly, and big gun of the Hayes Republicans of New York, offered a resolution at the late Republican State Convention of New York as follows: "That the lawful title of R. B. Hayes to the Presidency is as clear and perfect as that of George Washington." That resolution was rejected by a vote of 295 yeas to 109 nays. Now title to the Presidency can only be good or bad. George Washington's title was good. According to a large majority of the New York Republican Convention, Mr. Hayes' title is bad. This is what everybody knows and believes, and Senator Conkling proved himself honest in not allowing the Convention to affirm a falsehood as true. Hayes' title is not by popular election according to the constitution, but on 14th of July, obtained through the Electoral Commission that refused to go behind the false returns from Florida and Louisiana.

The Ohio Election.

The most fitfulworthy reports thus far received indicate that Ohio has gone Democratic by a majority of at least twenty thousand; that nearly the whole State ticket has been elected, and that in the next Legislature they will have a majority of twenty-five on joint ballot. This result assures the choice of a Democratic Senator to succeed Stanley Matthews, who was appointed to the United States Senate to fill, until the 4th of March next, the seat made vacant by the elevation of Senator Sherman to the Secretaryship of the Treasury. Up to the day of election the victory was declared by both parties to be in doubt. There were so many elements mixed up in the canvass that no one could tell which of the two great parties would suffer most. The defection of the German Republicans in Cincinnati, who joined the workingmen's party and thereby gave Hamilton county to the Democrats, was not less serious than the falling off of the Republican vote in the Western Reserve. President Hayes is perhaps right in saying that although the Republicans were defeated in Ohio, it cannot be said in a general sense the people of the State have rebuked his Southern policy, for nearly all the Democrats and a large body of Republicans gave their approval. The recession in unequal numbers from both parties of some twenty thousand workingmen, and of the more pronounced greenbackers and silver inflationists, and the apathetic indifference of the anti-Hayes Republicans were all factors that tended in a greater or less degree to give the State to the Democrats. There is no doubt, moreover, that the Republicans were damaged by the labor and silver inflation planks of their platform, and by the communistic speech of their candidate, Mr. West, in accepting the nomination for Governor. In his subsequent efforts to explain away much that he originally had failed to win back the confidence of the more solid men of his party, whilst he alienated the inflationists and workingmen, to gain whose votes he had taken up the position from which he afterwards retreated. On the financial question there was quite as much divergence of opinion among the Democrats as there was among the Republicans, but in the final struggle for victory the Democrats, as usual, held more closely together.—Balto. Sun.

Comments of the Press on the Ohio Election.

The Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, a pronounced radical journal, says of the recent election in Ohio: "As this is precisely what we have expected ever since the adjournment of the Cleveland convention, it would be absurd to pretend to a feeling of disappointment. In point of fact we are rather inclined to regard the result, for while harm may come to the republican party at large through the disaster, the republican leaders of Ohio richly deserved defeat for their cowardice, stupidity and dishonesty. Various reasons are presented in the different newspapers in attempted explanation of the defeat: but we do not find any of these to be satisfactory. It did not come because the republicans wished to express their disapprobation of the President's policy; it was not to any large extent the result of the presence in the field of the greenback and labor factions. Discontent produced by the hard times may have carried some workingmen out of the republican ranks, but the chances are that the democratic losses from this cause were quite as great. We lost because the Cleveland convention was afraid to construct an honest platform and was foolish enough to nominate an unfit man for the Governorship. That is the whole story."

The Philadelphia Telegram, independent republican, says: "The Ohio republicans gave away their chance for a victory, and it looks very much as if their fellows of Pennsylvania were following their example."

The direct bearing of this election upon national politics is very slight. National issues having been avoided in the contest by both sides. But indirectly it may have an excellent effect upon the Western republicans. Two years ago they met their adversaries in Ohio on the high ground of national honesty, and after a hard fight they best them gloriously. This year they have fallen back from the noble position which they then conquered, and they are rebuked. Another year they will perhaps understand that honesty is the best policy."

The New York Times says: "As both the main parties were equally evasive on all live questions of the day, the result in Ohio can only be said to be significant of the way in which the President's 'Southern policy' is regarded. It is evident that it has displeased a good many republicans, and the number of democratic won by it does not appear to be large."

Good Use for a Dime.

We advise all our readers to forward their address and 10 cents to Orange Judd Co., 245 Broadway, New York who make a special offer to send for this sum (half price and postage) the number for October 1st, of the American Agriculturist. This splendid number, besides over 50 engravings, contains a great amount of useful, practical, reliable, seasonable information, not only for the Farm and Garden, but for the Household, Children included. Most will get from it hints and suggestions worth ten or twenty times its cost. Better still, to send $1.00 and receive the paper, post-paid, from now to the end of 1878—that is, all of volume 37, with the rest of this year free. (Two copies for $1.50 each.) Nowhere else can one get so much really valuable, paying information for so little money—not 3 cents a week, a sum easily saved or produced extra, which the paper will be sure to help one to do. This Journal is prepared by practical men and women, who know what they talk and write about from actual experience and large observation; and they can and do greatly aid others to profitable planning and working. Many single hints and suggestions each abundantly repay a year's cost. The fearless exposure of quackery and humbugs in every number, are invaluable, and have saved its readers and the country millions of dollars. The departments for the Household and Children are pleasing and instructive. Every number of the paper is beautifully illustrated. In short, the American Agriculturist is full of good things, for every man, woman, and child, in city, village, and country. Take our advice and send $1.00 for 14 months, or at least send a Dime for the half-price specimen now offered, and see it for yourself.

Cats, however mischievous, cannot be killed with impunity by those who are not their owners, and a case heard at the Broomfield County Court in England is instructive on this point. A professor of music in that place was sued by a neighbor for the sum of $2, the alleged value of a cat shot by the defendant. The plaintiff said "he bred the cat, which was of a tortoiseshell nature, and was a gray and white Tom." He had been told that it was worth £5, but he valued it at £2 only. The defendant admitted that he had shot the cat because it had that morning taken chickens and a pheasant out of his garden, although the garden was walled in and fenced with wire netting. The judge observed that it was not the duty of the defendant to be so vigilant in killing the cat, but he was of opinion that a cat that was given to destroy neighbors' property was not valuable, but rather a burden to its owner, and that the damage therefore, was reduced to nothing. He was bound to give a verdict for the plaintiff, but would assess the damage at sixpence only.

Delays are Dangerous.

If this axiom is true respecting the ordinary affairs of life, still more obviously so as regards the exigencies of approaching disease. Unquestionably. Yet how many neglect to practically recognize this plain truth when health is in the balance. Of the many premonitory symptoms of disease, a hacking cough is the most prophetic of none. Arrest it at the outset with Dr. Wistar's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, and so avoid Consumption, Bronchitis, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, and, indeed, all Affections of the Respiratory Organs are entirely cured by this sovereign remedy, which also eradicates Dyspepsia, Gravel, Piles, Nervous Debility, Torpidity of the Liver, Urinary Difficulties, Constipation, Palpitation of the Heart, Serofulous Affections, and the infirmities peculiar to the gentler sex. This Cordial derives its virtues from the vegetable kingdom, and is infinitely to be preferred, both on account of its superior efficacy and freedom from nauseous and injurious properties to the official drugs so often administered with no other effect than to offend the palate and disorder the stomach. The Pine Tree Tar Cordial can always be relied on to do what is claimed for it. Sold by all druggists. Principal Depot No. 910 Filbert St., Philadelphia Pa.

The clergy of Philadelphia are still assailing the managers of the Permanent Exhibition for opening the show on Sunday. Sermon follows sermon on the subject, and religious bodies pass such resolutions as that "this desecration of the Sabbath by the Exhibition Association makes it the duty of Christians to withdraw their exhibits, and the duty of all who respect the law of God and of the State in relation to the Sabbath to refuse to give their countenance or support in any manner or measure to the exhibition." Another association tells the managers that they should "consider whether in the late troubles that have afflicted our State and country, the calamities that have fallen on corporations, the downfall of individuals who have been conspicuous in connection with Sabbath desecration, they should not hear the voice of God speaking in His displeasure and saying to them, 'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.'" The attendance at the Exhibition is every Sunday equal to the aggregate for the rest of the week, and the managers show no signs of changing their minds.

"Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open," this was substantially the method of the treatment of disease by one of the world's greatest physicians, Boerhaave, whose reputation was unparalleled. He was gradually pursued nature's methods. Keller's Vegetable Life Drops are compounded on this principle; by their purgative and alterative properties they cleanse the System, purify the blood, and equalize the circulation, subdue Nervousness and prevent the suppression and retention of nature's waste.

Oct. 1st, 1877.

The case of Turpin and Turpin vs. Acworth, which occupied the Court several days last week was concluded on Friday evening after we had gone to press, with a verdict for the defendant. This was a case of trespass for damages done to growing crops, cutting down and carrying off timber, &c. Mr. Turpin may have had a good case, but he has been in Court so much that there is a prejudice against him, and the current of feeling ran in that direction.

M. C. Jones & Co., have opened a first class family grocery and notion store, next door to Uman's, on Dock St. Call and see him.

We again call attention to the advertisement in another column of the Great Troost Remedy, prepared by Dr. John W. Fletcher. This remedy is one of the best for Rheumatism and a great variety of other ailments. The following certificate from Rev. Dr. Wm. Urie, of Smyrna, Delaware, speaks for itself:

SHYMA, DEL., Sept. 14, 1877.

I hereby certify that I have used for several years in my family the Liniment made and sold by Dr. J. W. Fletcher, and have found it an excellent remedy for the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Bruises of the Flesh, Sprains, the Lumbago, and all such. It may be considered an almost certain cure. If it be rubbed on several times during the day and in the evening, Get a bottle.

[We have also used the Liniment with wonderful effect.—Ed.]

Our Agricultural and Mechanical Fair this week has been to some extent a success. The Ladies' Department was an entire success. Persons who have visited the other Fairs which have been held on the Peninsula say that the Ladies' Department here surpassed any of them, while the farmers have fallen behind all of them in the amount, variety and quality of their exhibits.—We regret that our farmers have not done even as well as they did last year. The annual address by Hon. Thomas J. Keating was an excellent production, chaste and delivered with that degree of ease and elegance for which Mr. Keating is so pre-eminently notable. The attendance was large and appreciative. A full report will be given next week.

Our lady readers who find it inconvenient to visit the city every time they need the better grades of dry goods, will be pleased to learn that one Philadelphia dry goods house, at least, has a thoroughly organized mail order department, by means of which customers at a distance enjoy almost the same advantages they would if dealing personally at the counters.—During the past summer one of this enterprising firm visited Europe and personally selected an immense assortment of the choicest novelties in foreign dress fabrics which are now on exhibition at their store. We refer to the well known firm of Strawbridge & Clothier, generally acknowledged to be the leading dry goods house in Philadelphia. We advise everybody needing dry goods to give their mail order department a trial.

Dobbins Electric Soap.

Having obtained the agency for this Celebrated Soap for Salisbury and vicinity, we append the opinion of some of our people as to its merits: Martha Brewington says: "With Dobbins Soap I have to boil and rub my clothes and it takes me until 12 o'clock to get out my wash.—But with Dobbins Electric Soap made by I. L. Crain & Co., Philadelphia Pa., I avoid boiling the clothes, and it requires but little labor in rubbing and have my wash done by 10 o'clock. Charlotte Leatherbury and Caroline Williams both say: 'We generally have to get 2 cakes of Dobbins Soap for our Monday's wash and now we do it with one cake of Dobbins and do it with a great deal less labor and we get our wash out at least 8 hours sooner, and also avoid the use of the washboard and the Soda and need not boil the clothes.' Both Molly Purnell and Hester Somers speak highly in favor of Dobbins Electric Soap. For further information we respectfully refer to the following ladies:

Mrs. John Tracy, Mrs. K. T. Williams, Mrs. R. H. Adkins and Mrs. A. E. Williams.

We desire all our friends and customers to give this Soap one trial so that they may know just how good the best Soap in the U. S. is.

before the work was finished.

When at last, it was completed, darkness had begun settling over the prairie.

The trail, or rather the route—for there was no regular trail—which led to New Mexico, and which it was supposed the thieves would take, followed a direction nearly due south from the cabin.

An examination, however, revealed the rather curious fact that the deserters had gone to the north.

That has been done to throw us off the track," said Kit Carson. "They have changed their course after going a short distance, and I think we can head them off."

Instead of following the trail, therefore, the pursuers headed to the southeast, calculating that they would intercept the thieves near a pass leading through the Cheyenne Hills.

The ridge ran nearly due east and west, and being very rugged and precipitous, was generally crossed by means of these natural openings, which were separated by distances varying from twenty to a hundred miles.

The pursuers urged their horses to the utmost, for they were exceedingly anxious to come up with the scamps who had played this trick upon them, while they, on their part, were as desirous of keeping beyond their reach.

The penalty of death is the one most generally prescribed on the frontier for such exploits as this; and Kit Carson and his friend were prepared to shoot the two runaways the instant they could bring them within the range of their rifles.

There was a bright moon, and the sky was clear, so that there was no difficulty in keeping up the pursuit. Near midnight they reached the vicinity of the pass, and were not a little elated to catch the glimmer of a camp-fire.

"I think they are there," said Carson, in a low tone to his friend, "and if so, we shall make them pay dear for their whistle."

They rode quietly forward, until within a few hundred yards, when they dismounted, tied their horses in a glen, and made the rest of the journey on foot. Advancing with the caution characteristic of men at such times, they soon were near enough to the camp-fire to gain a fair view of those around it.

No white men were there; but in their places were a dozen Navajo Indians quietly encamped, and no unsuspecting of danger that nothing of any sentiment could be seen.

Having fully satisfied themselves upon this point, the pursuers stealthily withdrew to where they had left their horses.

"We have made a mistake," said Carson. "We shall have to wait until morning before trying to do anything more."

Withdrawn to a safe point, they lay down, and slept soundly during the remainder of the night, for they needed rest no less than did their horses.

When they were fairly awake on the morning, they consulted together as to what was best to do. So long as there was any prospect of recovering the stolen property, neither of them felt inclined to give up the pursuit.

"I am afraid they have given us the slip," remarked Carson's companion. "It does look a little that way. It may be, however, that we are still ahead of them."

"If that is so there is still a chance of coming across the thieves," the leader replied in the affirmative, and after scanning every portion of the sky, added:

"But if we just missed them—that is, if they were ahead of us in reach the pass—we may as well give up the chase and go back to camp."

With this conviction they rode quietly along, until the greater portion of the forenoon was passed, but not a sign of the runaways did they discover.

Gradually the conviction forced itself upon them that they were engaged upon a fruitless errand, and that the prudent course was now for them to return to camp. The pursuit had led them into the most dangerous portion of the Navajo country, where the greatest care was necessary to escape collision with their implacable enemies.

When the sun reached meridian, without any signs of the deserters, the chase was given up entirely.

"They've got ahead of us, that's certain," said Kit, as they turned their horses' heads homeward.

"There isn't any use in pursuing them further."

"No, the time is all lost. When we get back to Tucson we may meet them, and we will then settle this account."

With this consolation they continued on their journey toward camp. In the afternoon they crossed a small stream, where, to their surprise, they detected the trail of the deserters. The footprints showed that their animals were at full speed, and a more extended scrutiny of the soft earth along the stream revealed the fact that the party had undoubtedly been hotly pursued by Indians at the time.

The trail led toward a wood about half a mile to the left; and, under the conviction that a fight might have taken place at this point, the two hunters rode at a gallop, toward it. They were not mistaken in their supposition, for less than a hundred yards from the edge of the wood, all three of the horses were found stretched up the ground, perfectly riddled with bullets.

"But where are they?" asked the hunter of Carson, after they had surveyed the sickening sight a few minutes.

"Let us look about us," was the reply, as the moved on with their horses.

Thinking that the bodies of the trappers must be somewhere near at hand, they searched a while for them, but discovered not the least trace. They even went through the entire wood, with no better success. The conviction of both Carson and his companion was that they had been captured by the Navajos, carried away, and put to a terrible death. In this they were undoubtedly correct, as not one of the men was ever heard of afterward.

The trapper now took the most direct route homeward, riding along at an easy gallop, and saving the strength of his horses as much as possible. As they were in constant danger of an encounter with Indians, this was no more than prudent. Every now and then they came across signs of savages, but by great care they avoided them until they had passed over the greater part of the distance. They were riding along in a careless manner, chatting and laughing with each other, when there suddenly appeared four Indians ahead of them. They were all well mounted, painted and decked out in their gaudy manner with feathers, showing unmistakably that they were on the war-path.

Kit Carson now did something which, to an inexperienced person, would look like the height of rashness, but which demonstrates his extraordinary quickness of comprehension as to what to do in a sudden crisis like the present. The very instant he caught sight of the Indians, he exclaimed, in a suppressed undertone, "Charge!"

The command had scarcely escaped his mouth when both had struck their spurs deep into their horses' sides, and were thundering forward at a tremendous rate. The Indians instantly wheeled, and rode away at the same furious rate, while the trappers, shouting and yelling at the top of their lungs, dashed after them. About fifty rods were passed in this manner, when fully sixty warriors suddenly came in view from beneath the hill, where they had been waiting in ambush.

Carson's companion looked inquiringly at him, and he nodded his head to signify that the phase must be kept up. Retreat was now out of the question, while to advance was almost as bad. But the two trappers dashed straight forward, their horses going at the highest rate of speed. It was the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava on a small scale.

When the Indians saw that the whites intended no retreat, they separated into two divisions, at about the distance of a hundred yards, and, holding their rifles ready, awaited the moment to empty two saddles.

Bending down their heads, they pressed their spurs into the flanks of their horses, and the latter strained every nerve. Each of the trappers held his loaded gun in his hand, but he did not fire, for, in a running fight, the great fear of the hunter is that he may find himself dismounted, with an empty gun in his hand.

It was a fearful ride. In one place they were within twenty yards of the Navajos, who sent the bullets whistling about their ears. Their clothes were pierced, and several slight wounds made; but, by a wonderful providence, neither was seriously injured, nor was their horses more than scratched.

They continued their flight at the same head-long rate. The Indians continued the pursuit for a short distance, but finally withdrew, and the trappers reached camp without further disturbance.

The cleverest of comedians, Florence, made his debut in the humble capacity of a watch-dog. He had to bark from behind the scenes. At rehearsal he put so much realistic art in his impersonation that he got into a difficulty with the prompter's bull-terrier. But the manager was doubtful of the propriety of mind of the novice when he came to face the ordeal of an evening performance.

"Won't you be afraid?" he demanded.

"Mebbe," said Billy.

"Suppose you get so scared that you can't bark, what will you do?"

There was a moment's pause, and then William said, very meekly:

"I'll wag my tail."

AN AUTUMN SONG.

Now gently falls the fading light,
The autumn's sunset with While dusky grows the waning night,
Of whip-poor-will and quail,
The grain is bound, the nuts are brown
On every wooded hill,
The light is softened, and the dawn,
And silv'ered on the mill.
The partridge drums, the plovers' call Salutes the sportsman's ear,
And just above the water-fall
The fisher sets his weir.
The redbird leaves his withered wing
To sweep lightly to the soil,
And autumn makes the landscape stir
With rustling, muffled, low, and high.

The City of London.

ITS CHARTERS, GOVERNMENT, AND CUSTOMS.

London, Oct. 1.—The city of London, I mean that inner and limited part of the great metropolis, which is the seat of the government, and the city, and which constitutes less than 1-110 of the area, and less than 1-40 of the population of entire London—has a government, no less singular and remarkable than the city itself. Resting upon charters whose language is often archaic, and whose meaning is as vague as the utterances of the ancient Delphic oracle, the corporate government, nevertheless, claims and exercises powers and privileges which stamp it as one of the most gigantic of monopolies. Not one of its many charters has the form of a statutory enactment, and hence their provisions have never had definite explanation; yet they are held to have the force of an act of Parliament, for, in the reign of William and Mary, a case of quo warranto came before Parliament, and the rights, charters, and privileges of the city of London were re-granted. What those rights and privileges were the act did not attempt to specify or define. To simply reaffirm was less trouble than to explain.

The first charter was granted by William the Conqueror, in these words: "William the King greets William the Bishop, and Godfrey the Portreeve (Mayor), and all the burghers within London, Eirene and English, friendly; and I make known to you that I will that you be law-worthy as you were in the days of King Edward. And I will that each child be his father's heir after his father's days. And I will not suffer that any man command you any wrong. God keep you." Subsequent charters were mostly granted by needy sovereigns, who had received substantial favors from the wealthy city, and the privileges so granted were often grossly unjust to the citizens of the rest of the kingdom. In the latter part of the seventeenth century, the city was granted the right to levy a duty of fourpence per cwt. on all coal imported, for ever. That duty is still faithfully collected, and yields a very snug sum. A grain duty of three-sixteenths of a penny per cwt. is also levied on all grain brought into the port of London. It seems strange that such monopolies should be allowed to continue; but the English are very conservative, and it takes a force somewhat like that of an earthquake or a revolution to make them perceive the error of their ways.

The various city charters, comprising some 120 documents, are a very close monopoly. The Lord Mayor is selected from among the Aldermen, and serves one year. Immediate re-elections are rare, though they do sometimes occur. The celebrated Whittington was Mayor four times—pot successive ones, however. The freedom of the city—that is, the members of the various city livery companies—nominate the Aldermen for the office of Lord Mayor, and the Aldermen then make choice between those two. The candidates may vote for themselves if they please. The Aldermen are 26 in number, and are elected for life. A Common Council of 232 members is also elected, and constitutes a court inferior to that of the Aldermen. Other city officers are appointed by the Aldermen and Common Council, and hold office during the pleasure of the appointing power. The corporate Government seems to be responsible to no one in particular, except itself. That ought to be a very happy condition of life. There is no awkward public at their back to checkmate their little games, or refuse them supplies. It is a sort of officeholders' paradise, and our public-ridden American officials may be pained to hear of it.

A very interesting contest has been in progress for some time past for a vacant place in the Court of Aldermen. When the vacancy occurred an election was ordered, and Sir John Bennett was elected by a handsome majority. The Court of Aldermen, for some occult reason that no one else seems able to understand, refused to admit him, and another election was ordered. Sir John was elected again by a vote of 217 to 99, and the Court of Aldermen again rejected him, and ordered a third election.

This morning, placards were posted up, in which Sir John again placed himself before the election of the Ward of Cheap for election to the post of Alderman. He will, no doubt, be again chosen; and it is difficult to see how the matter is to terminate. The Daily News speaks of the "Unreformed Corporation of London," and thus speaks of its action in the present case: "Do they not see the danger of raising a dispute within the walls, which may result in letting in the reform which has long waited outside the city? We hope they do not for they may thus hasten an inevitable change."

The Lord Mayor, in addition to his salary, has a staff of officers residing at his station, a furnished residence, free of rent, and the use of gold and silver plate to the value of $200,000. The running expenses of the establishment usually exceed his salary. During his year of office he enjoys a nominal power in his little domain scarcely less absolute than that of a monarch. However, there is now very little need of exercising these prerogatives, and any attempt to exercise some of them might be somewhat hazardous.

The Lord Mayor has $50,000 a year; his Chief Clerk, $4,000; Town Clerk, $10,000; Common Serjeant, $12,750; Judge of City of London Court, $12,000; Assistant Judge of Mayor's Court, $8,000; Commissioner of Police, $8,000; Remembrancer, $10,000; Solicitor, $10,000; Coroner, $4,425; Architect and Surveyor, $10,000; Head Master of City of London school (not a free public school, let me add), $5,000; Registrar of Small Debts Court, $5,000; Clerk and Registrar of Coal Market, $7,000; Chamberlain, $10,000; Principal Clerk to Chamberlain, $5,000; Collector of Wine Dues, $2,500. In addition to their salaries most of these officers are in receipt of various fees, which largely augment their incomes, and they are also entitled to attend all the civic banquets.

In these gastronomic displays the city shines with peculiar lustre. The corporate Government is possessed of real property, which is variously estimated, but it cannot be less than $10,000,000, and its income, aside from taxes, is immense. Banquets consume no small part of it. The entertainment of the Sultan of Turkey and the King of Belgium in 1872 is put down at more than $150,000; that of the Shah of Persia, $75,000; and that of the Czar, in 1874, at $69,000. The last reception of the Prince of Wales by the city cost more than $137,000, and the items of the bill furnish some interesting figures: The amount of wine consumed, $1,000; champagne, $1,000; beer, $1,000; cigars, $1,000; coffee, $1,000; tea, $1,000; fruit, $1,000; flowers, $1,000; music, $1,000; fireworks, $1,000; and various other items, $1,000.

The city debt is over $27,000,000, and the city government is in a very close monopoly. The Lord Mayor is selected from among the Aldermen, and serves one year. Immediate re-elections are rare, though they do sometimes occur. The celebrated Whittington was Mayor four times—pot successive ones, however. An unusually large quantity of oysters have been disposed of at our warehouse this week, selling from 20 to 30 cents per bushel. Excellent oysters, too.

We regret to learn that our worthy friend, Mr. William Taylor, has had a paralytic stroke upon the left side, which may prevent him from duty in the future. He has been an efficient fellow.

Meas. Lewis & Forde have our thanks for a supply of their A. No. 1 Borghum Syrup. It is a first-class article, and sells at 50 cents per gallon. Persons in want may apply to Messrs. Lewis & Forde, Parsonsburg, Wisconsin county, Md.

If you want a barrel of good flour go to B. L. Gillis & Son. They have a large and well selected stock, and guarantee satisfaction.

The Democratic meeting at Barren Creek Springs yesterday was well attended considering the weather was threatening. Speeches were made by Messrs. Fooks, Warren, Ellegood, Crawford, Parsons and others. As we went to press before the meeting closed, we are unable to give a full report of it. Suffice it to say, the people seemed well pleased with the Democratic ticket, and will vote it solid.

MASSIE TRAIL.—The Steamer Thos. Collier left on Monday with a number of excursionists, bound for the Pimlico races. She also took out a number on Thursday.

The schooner Rock left for Baltimore, the F. C. Todd and Somerset, for Baltimore.

Business is beginning to assume some activity at this time, and it is to be hoped that things will begin to clear up soon.

Best New York Buckwheat for sale by B. L. Gillis & Son.

We have passed through the western portion of our county this week, and were surprised at the large acreage of wheat sown this fall. We believe that more than twice as much land is now in wheat as ever was before in our territory, and if the season should be as good as last season, a large crop may be expected in Wisconsin County. Another good sign is apparent, ditches and corn post heaps are seen. This is a healthy symptom, and we hope our farmers are about to make a new departure.

We learn from the passengers on board the Steamer Thos. Collier, that the boat performed first rate last Monday. She left Salisbury late in the morning, and faced a hard north wester, and arrived in Baltimore only a few minutes behind time, while many other boats were unable to go up on that day. We are glad to learn that the steamer is giving entire satisfaction to our traveling community. She is a safe boat, and our people need not hesitate to travel upon her. Her officers are polite and attentive, and will do all in their power to make their passengers comfortable. This is a nice trip, affording an opportunity to see the whole route in the day time.

James Cannon & Son would call the attention of the people to their immense stock of Boots, which they are selling at prices that can not be equalled.

The Salisbury Lyceum debated on Monday night the subject, "Resolved, That Governments derive all their just powers from the consent of the governed." The question was debated with great spirit by Messrs. Holland and Graham for the affirmative, Malone and Fulton for the negative. It was decided in the affirmative.

The question for debate on next Monday night is: "Resolved, That the use of force is sometimes justified by courtesy." Affirmative, Messrs. Toadvin and Cannon. Negative, Messrs. Ellegood and Parsons.

The question for Monday night week is: "Resolved, That local legislation is inexpedient." Affirmative, Messrs. Graham and Cooper. Negative, Messrs. Perry and Fulton. These debates are all public, and the community are respectfully invited to attend.

Boys' Clothing in all sizes and varieties at the CLOTHING EMPORIUM, 47 Main Street.

The Democratic meeting at Wattersville on Thursday was a success. There was a good turn out, and good order prevailed generally. After an oratorical contest, E. S. D. called the meeting to order by nominating E. S. D. himself as chairman, who stated the object of the meeting, and then introduced J. Anglin Parsons, who made a stirring speech. He was followed by S. H. Fooks, Esq., candidate for the House of Delegates, in a well-timed and entertaining speech. L. Malone was then introduced and made some remarks. Thos. J. Turpin, Esq., candidate for the House of Delegates, was the next speaker, after which W. W. Dikarhorn, Esq., candidate for Commissioner, entertained the people about fifteen minutes in an easy and graceful style. He was followed by J. E. Ellegood, Esq., State's Attorney, and he in turn by H. N. Crawford, Esq., Surveyor, and candidate for re-election, both of whom made telling speeches. So ended the first meeting of the campaign, and everybody seemed well pleased with the Democratic ticket for Wisconsin County.

Another nice stock of those Hand Stuffed Gaiters has just been received at James Cannon & Son's, No. 24 Main St.

Rev. Geo. W. Covington will preach at Parsonsburg to-morrow morning. There will be an all-day meeting there, preaching three times.

The meeting is still increasing. Thirty-five have professed and thirty joined church. They are expecting more preachers next week.

ADDITIONAL REPORT OF PREMIUMS AWARDED AT THE SECOND ANNUAL FAIR.—The following list of premiums awarded at the Second Annual Fair of the Agricultural and Mechanical Association of Wisconsin county was left out of our very lengthy report in our last issue, simply because the judges of "Fancy Needle and Zephyr Work" did not make their report in time to be included with the rest. It will be seen, though, that a few of the premiums are republished.

having been reported in the wrong column in our last issue:

Mrs. A. E. Williams has opened a first-class family grocery at 57 1/2 Main street, nearly opposite her millinery store. Her husband, S. T. Williams, is chief clerk, and will, we think, do a thriving business.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.—The meeting was organized in the Court House on Tuesday last by calling Thomas W. English, Esq., of Sharpsburg, to the chair, and electing A. W. Goalee, Esq., of Quantico, Secretary. The Districts were called by the Secretary, and the following delegates, viz:

Barron Creek—Thos. W. Wilson and I. W. Wilson.

Quantico—A. W. Goalee and Geo. C. Dikarhorn.

Tyaskin—Jas. W. Moore and John A. Dashiell.

Pittsburg—Jas. J. Hayman and Sam'l M. Riley.

Parsons—Jas. H. Bedell and Dr. L. D. Collier.

Dennis—Wm. J. Wimbrow.

Trappe—Simon Malone.

Nutters—Wm. W. Hayman and J. Johnson, of D.

Salisbury—Sam'l E. Foskey and S. A. Graham.

Sharpsburg—Thos. W. English and Jas. W. Bradley.

There being present a large number of delegates all were invited to participate in the discussion and deliberations. After a spirited discussion the following motion was passed unanimously:

"That a committee of three be appointed by the President to issue a call inviting all citizens of Wisconsin county, irrespective of party, opposed to the nominated Democratic ticket, to meet in the Court House on Tuesday, 30th inst., at 1 o'clock, P. M., to nominate an independent ticket for the various county offices to be filled at the coming election."

The President announced Sam'l M. Riley, S. E. Foskey and A. W. Goalee, as said committee.

On motion the Convention adjourned.

It will be seen by reference to the proceedings of the Republican Convention, that they have called a mass convention to meet in the Court House on Tuesday, 30th inst., to nominate a ticket irrespective of party. This is liberal, but not the way to keep the party together.

An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure. A dose of Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup will assist your baby in teething, and prevent it from being attacked by Cholera Infantum, Colic, or other diseases babies suffer with. 25 cents.

Our neighbors over in Somerset County are a little bilious. They have some pretty good Democrats there, but they have some that are inclined who have been drinking at unhealthy fountains. They have been tempted by those who pretend to be Democrats, who desire the defeat of that old party.

We regret to see that this is the case, especially as they have so much at stake. There are few counties in the United States at this time honored with a resident United States Senator, one too, who is worthy to be continued, and ought to be. Still, our friends over there are about to be foolish enough, if we may be allowed so plain an expression, as to forfeit by their bickering with great party. If their county goes against the Democracy, their chance for the next United States Senator will be doubtful, and in the face of all this, we see and hear men calling themselves Democrats, contributing to the defeat of the only man who can secure to them a continuation of this great blessing and honor which a great party has aided them in securing in the past. We regret it the more, because we see men conniving at it with whom we have taken sweet counsel and marched to the same political banqueting house in company.

In Dorchester, too, there is some trouble. All cannot go to the Legislature, nor be Sheriffs, and the more is the pity. Happy would our country be, if officers were not quite so desirable. We believe we shall have to make our offices like the British Parliament, where members serve without pay. We have no doubt this would effect the patriotism of many of our people.

In Worcester, too, the family is not quite happy. Those who are not of Israel, are essaying to rebuild the walls of Jerusalem, while the sons of Levi stand aloof and refuse to furnish the music free. We hope it will all end well, as there is not much to be made by refusing to sing with strangers, although they profess the same faith and prophecy by the same God. This is the old year, recollect.

Life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are vouchsafed to all in this free land of ours; yet these blessings, with wealth and culture attendant, are unenjoyable without perfect health. This condition of health depends upon scrupulous care of the body, good appetite, easy digestion, and prompt removal of waste matter. Personal regard to the rules of living, and the judicious use of that superior Tonic, Alterative and gentle Purgative, Koller's Vegetable Elix Drops, will insure the inestimable blessing—Health.

You need not neglect your business when troubled with a cough or cold, if you only use a reliable remedy at once. Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is the best remedy we know of. Price only 25 cents.

SHIRTS!—A new invoice of Shirts at Graham Bros', 47 Main street.

TO THE FARMERS AND MECHANICS.—A meeting of the Agricultural and Mechanical Association of Wisconsin County is called for, Saturday, the 3rd of November next, when the officers of the Association will be ready to give all required information regarding its affairs. Subject of discussion: "The Local Laws of the County." What changes, if any, are desirable? A full attendance of members is earnestly requested. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 9 o'clock, P. M., in the Court Room.

CHAS. F. HOLLAND, President.

THE CONFEDERATE SOLDIER'S RETURN, OR THE LOST CAUSE.—A magnificent picture, beautiful in design and artistic in execution. It represents a Confederate soldier after the war returning to his home, which he finds ruined by shot and shell, looking lonely and desolate. In front of the ruined cottage, telling a sad tale of the miseries of war, are two graves with rude crosses, on one of which some friendly hand has hung a garland. The grave is overhung by a weeping willow, in the shadow of which stands the returned soldier with bowed head, as if thinking of the past. To the right the calm river and rising moon indicate peace and rest. The stars seen through the trees represent the Southern Cross, draped over the graves, an emblem of the Confederate flag as well as a harbinger of brighter days to come. The flood of glorious moonlight streaming through the trees and reflecting on the peaceful river adds to the sentiment and beauty of the scene and its surroundings. No description of this gem of art will do it justice. It must be seen. It is a picture that will touch every southern heart and should hang in every southern home. It is 14 x 18 inches in size, on heavy plate paper. One copy will be sent by mail, in a post-board roller, to any address, post paid, on receipt of 25 cents; three copies for 80 cents, or six for $1, in currency or postage stamps. Agents wanted everywhere, to sell this and a variety of other popular cheap pictures. No money required until they are sold. No trouble to sell them. Send stamp for our catalogue and terms. Address: A. CREGAR & CO., Publishers, 188 Market St., Chattanooga, Tenn. Oct 10—2.

WONDER UPON WONDER.

Give away a strong, systematic and most extraordinary book, entitled "THE BOOK OF WONDER." Containing the mysteries of the

REASONABLE HINTS.
Savory Corn. It is bad policy to put off shucking corn until the cold blasts of winter come on. Fortunately good weather for such work now prevails, and farmers should be making good use of it to get their corn crop shucked and stored, instead of waiting for bonny-bonny weather. In shucking it is much the best to bind the fodder in bundles, to be set up in large shocks in the field, with the tops of the shocks firmly bound round with bands of straw prepared for the purpose. Fodder should never be stacked unless intended for spring feeding, for when once the top of the stack is broken in winter, the rain penetrates and spoils much of it. And if a freeze should follow, a rain the job of separating the fodder from the stack in the morning is anything but agreeable. But if fodder is well stacked it will keep as well as in stack, and can be hauled and fed out in winter as needed.

MEADOWS AND OTHER GRASS LANDS.
These can now be top dressed to advantage, especially if new or recently set, as the soil is not being so well protected as old turf—the young grass is liable to be thrown out by the frostings and shavings of winter. For purposes of protection, as well as enriching the surface, long, coarse manure is better than short, although the kind used should be used with perfect care so that it will pay. Old sod can be left till spring.

SHUTTERING STOCK.—The humane farmer will see that warm shelters are provided for all his stock. Economy as well as humanity demand it for a saving of animal heat is a saving of food. Every crack and crevice in the stables for the work horses and milch cows particularly should be closed up before cold, freezing weather comes on, and especially should the flooring be made perfectly tight, that the cold, damp air from below may be effectually excluded.

FATHERING HOGS.—In a few days the pen-bogs should be put up and their fattening be pushed with the utmost vigor during the remainder of this and the coming month, as pork sold earliest generally commands the best price, while the expansion to this, as a rule, are few and far between. The pens should be kept clean, their sleeping apartments well littered, and the eating propensities of the animals administered to in every possible way. There is a point, however, beyond which longer feeding will not pay, and when this is reached it is better to kill and sell at once. Remember that the next month are the best for fattening. Are any of your hogs in the field where last year's corn stubble draws up in little array in sight of the house? If so, see to it at once that they are gathered up and placed under convenient shelter. A few weeks exposure to the rains and snows of winter will do more to weaken the body and rust the ironwork of an implement than a whole season's constant plowing would. To have good implements on a farm is half the battle, and no one who realizes this fact will suffer his farm tools to be thus subject to injury.

FARM BURNINGS.—In making preparations for winter all repairs needed on buildings should be attended to at once. Leaky roofs, not only create discomfort, but are expensive in the damage they often occasion crops stored away therein. As well as in the decay of the buildings themselves. A few shingles or planks, or both, at this season of the year may save many times their cost during the winter. The winter's firewood, and what should have been prepared months ago, is not already cut, should be secured at once. If of seasoned, dry wood will throw out nearly double the heat, and take less fuel to furnish the necessary amount than double the quantity of green, which is driven off in smoke and steam. And then the annoyance of handling and cooking with green wood is enough to try the patience of Job, much more a woman of spirit. To preserve peace in the family this winter's fuel had better be prepared in time and stacked up in the woodhouse or shed where it will keep dry until used.

Recipe for Killing Your Town.
Read the following recipe for killing your town, it is an admirable one, and cannot fail to do its work. We have seen it going the rounds of the press, and highly recommended.

1. Put up no more buildings than you can occupy yourselves.
2. If you should have an empty building to rent demand three times its value.
3. Look sorrowful at every newcomer, give the cold shoulder to every mechanic who desires to come among you.
4. Do not send for your goods and wares. By no means purchase from your own merchants and manufacturers even at the same price or less.
5. Don't contribute one cent to the cause of religion or education.
6. Finally, put a thorough slash to your work by killing your local paper, refusing to subscribe or advertise in it, so that persons at a distance will not know that any business is being done in your town, or they may want to come and settle among you, or buy something from you, and that would put you to extra trouble.
