The Baby.

Too little attention has been given to baby and his medicinal needs by the manufacturing chemists of today. It has usually seemed sufficient to manufacture a remedy for the disease of adults and direct that this same remedy be administered to children "according to age."

Realizing, as we do, the urgent need of a line of remedies of unquestionable merit for the treatment of such ailments, we have obtained the exclusive sale of

Mother Kroh's Remedies.

Soothing Syrup,
Diarrhea Remedy,
Worm Syrup,
Croup Remedy,
Laxative Syrup,
Essence of Castor,
Cough Syrup,
Teething Mixture,
Neutralizing Cordial.

Each remedy is exclusively for the treatment of diseases of infants and contains no harmful drug or narcotic.

CANNOT LET GO

Governor's Friends Say he will be Forced to Run Again.

Though Governor Outhers will not discuss the proposition, friends say they hope to persuade him, if the situation remains as it is now, to be a candidate for renomination. They feel that he will practically be compelled to run again for the reason that by the time he finishes out this present term the improvements which he has outlined will have been only half finished. Aside from this many proposed improvements and reforms, which he has advocated, will necessitate legislation by the General Assembly in 1912. By quitting at the end of his term, his friends say, he will be taking his hand off the plough before he has finished the job.

A leading politician and lawyer Tuesday summed up the situation as follows: "The people are beginning to see what a determined Governor, even against all odds, can give them. They realize that the records for some of our Governors have been nil. Nothing has resulted but talk and threats. Governor Outhers put through the Primary Election law and again the last time he forced the party to amend it and make it better. He put through the Public Service Commission act. These are political measures affecting the people, not material improvements like good roads or State care of the insane.

WARNING TO SAVE

State Roads—Commission Notifies Owners of Traction Engines of Operation.

Notices have been posted in many of the counties of Maryland by the State Roads Commission warning the owners of the traction engines that they must so operate their machines over the new State highways that no damage will result to the surface. The last Legislature enacted a law giving the Commission control over the highways improved by the State so as to prevent damage by traction engines. The commission has power to enforce its orders by the imposition of fines.

With the opening of the wheat harvesting season the traction engine, which is used to haul and operate threshing machines, makes much use of the public roads in going from farm to farm to thresh out the grain. These machines are not only heavy, but the wheels have on the under surface large iron projections that serve as teeth to give them a hold on the surface of the road in climbing hills.

On the old stone pikes they can do little damage, but to the macadamized surface of the new State roads they are very destructive. An order of the State Roads Commission directs that they shall be operated with a smooth tire and this is considered practicable in that there are no heavy grades on the new State roads.

Thus far the Commission has received no complaint that its order has been ignored by the owners of traction engines or other farm machines.

TO PREACH SUFFRAGE

on Eastern Shore—Will Speak at Easton.

Miss M. L. Manning, field secretary of the Just Government League, shook the dust of Hagerstown from her skirts this morning and is now on her way to convert the Eastern Shore woman suffrage.

Her chief center of activity will be Easton where the suffrage drive has been kept burning by Miss Mary Bartlett Dixon and her sister, Miss Julia Dixon of Easton and this city.

Miss Manning will start at once on her work of organization and expects to arrange several large open air meetings. One of the most important will be that which takes place in the Eastern Courthouse at noon Saturday before the State Grange Association. Read Lewis, who departs for Easton on Friday, will also speak at this meeting.

Tomorrow Mrs. Hooker, Mrs. Calvin N. Gabriel, Dr. Hooker and Read Lewis will go to Hagerstown in the touring car of the Hookers. There will be speeches not only in Hagerstown, but all along the route, including one in Frederick. At Hagerstown there will be two large meetings, one at 5 o'clock and another in the evening. Mrs. Gabriel who used to live in Hagerstown, has arranged that a large crowd shall be present to greet the suffragists on their arrival. Tuesday's Baltimore News.

TENNIS IN SALISBURY

A Perfect Day Permitted Some Pretty Work Friday—Easton Loses.

One of the most delightful tennis meets in the Salisbury—Easton tourneys was held here last Friday, when a handsome array of Talbot's racket wielders stormed the skill and prowess of Wicomico's best players.

While the results in events were not very gratifying to the visitors, Salisbury winning seven out of eight, yet some of the contests were very close and it required the last stroke to tell the deciding victor.

Especially was this true in both events of the ladies doubles where it was nip and tuck throughout. It will be very interesting to anticipate the next meet as the Salisbury girls have been showing such marked improvement and the Easton boys are fast getting into the game, the sureness of victory will be more in doubt and picking the winners may be a thing of the past. Salisbury should keep up her pace and improve if possible as Easton will probably be ready to do things next time.

A most enjoyable feature of the day was the midday repast charmingly served by the ladies at the Court grounds.

The Scores.
Men's Singles—G. Wm. Phillips vs Royce Spring, Salisbury winner 6-1, 6-3.

Men's Singles—G. Wm. Phillips vs Channoy Crawford, Salisbury winner, 6-1, 6-4.

Men's doubles—R. K. Traitt, and John M. Toulson vs Royce Spring and James Stewart, Salisbury winner, 6-2, 6-3.

Men's doubles—John M. Toulson and R. K. Traitt vs Royce Spring and Channoy Crawford, Salisbury winner, 6-7, 6-3, 7-5.

Mixed doubles—Mrs. E. C. Fulton and J. R. White vs Miss Julia Dixon and Channoy Crawford, Salisbury winner, 6-3, 6-2.

Ladies Singles—Mrs. John M. Toulson vs Miss Julia Goldsborough, Easton winner, 6-3, 6-0.

Ladies doubles—Mrs. E. C. Fulton and Miss Elizabeth Collier vs Miss Julia Dixon and Miss Kate Dixon, Salisbury winner, 6-4, 6-3.

Ladies doubles—Mrs. John M. Toulson and Miss Elizabeth Collier vs Miss Rosemond Starr and Miss Cecil Hathaway, Salisbury winner, 6-3, 7-5.

TO PROBE FOR OIL

Local Company Organized to Operate at Once.

About twenty years ago Gas was discovered in and around Parsonsburg. This caused a great deal of excitement all through this section, especially when it was found that the gas accidentally discovered in driving a well for drinking purposes, was in sufficient quantity to be used for lighting and cooking purposes. As a matter of fact several of the residents of towns piped the gas into their homes and used it for sometime for cooking. At various times it has been proposed to organize a company with sufficient capital to make a thorough probe of the matter, but for one reason or another the matter has either been abandoned without a test as at best, but making a very superficial one. After looking into the matter a number of gentlemen have now organized and propose to make a thorough test and it is confidently expected by those interested that not only will gas be found in sufficient quantities to make a good paying proposition, but that oil will be discovered, as has been the case in other lands where natural gas was found. The company has been incorporated under the name of The Maryland Oil and Gas Co., and it is capitalized at $30,000 divided into 1800 shares par value of $5 per share. The officers are as follows: Levin W. Dorman, President; R. Frank Williams, Vice President; S. A. Graham, Secretary and Treasurer. These with John W. Wimbrow and Lien Thos. Lavery constitute the Board of Directors.

It is the intention of this company to commence active work at once on the five or six thousand acres which they have leased in and around Parsonsburg. Negotiations are now under way with a firm of experienced well drivers and a number of wells will be driven in the grounds.

ROBBED DURING FUNERAL

A Gang of Thieves Operated While Funeral Was in Progress at Shad Point.

While the funeral of Captain O. O. Fooks was in progress in the church at Shad Point on Sunday before last, thieves entered the Fooks home and robbed the place. They secured some money belonging to a lady visitor, some jewelry, and a due bill belonging to Mrs. Fooks given by Dulany at Fruitland for nearly a hundred dollars. The house was ransacked from top to bottom. The thieves evidently were hunting for money that was believed to be in the house, Captain Fooks having had several hundred dollars paid him shortly before his death for some land sold. It happened, however, that the money was in one of the Banks. And the thieves were fooled.

Some time ago thieves entered the home of Mr. Jenkins in the same neighborhood and secured over two hundred dollars in cash, money that Mr. Jenkins kept in his house. The officers are on the trail of the thieves and think they will uncover a gang which has been working in the neighborhood for some time.

SALVATION ARMY FAKIRS?

Genuine Representatives Should Possess Authoritative Credentials.

Press reports from other sections would seem to indicate that some unscrupulous beggars, seeing the "easy" with which members of the Salvation Army raised funds, have borrowed uniforms and impersonated one of the many organizations. It is not desired to throw any doubt on the methods of this army of men and women who are doing such good work throughout the lands, but the men who are authorized to collect funds should be supplied with proper credentials.

Salisbury has been overrun for some time with agents, all of whom may be bona fide representatives for what we know, but the number and frequency of these is leaves grounds for suspicion. One of these, in speaking to the writer, used an argument why funds should be given, that he was not acting for himself, as were the ones who preceded him around the town. When they themselves make statements of this kind, it is time for the public to be on the lookout to see that the money they give, thinking it will go to help out the great work being done by the Salvation Army, is not going into the pocket of some enterprising and unscrupulous beggar.

DAY WAIST TO MATCH GOWN

Or May Be Made a Splendid House Affair, if Such a Garment is More Desired.

This day waist is in a dim shade of plum crepe de chine, and it gives the horizontal disposal of the trimming. The garment fastens in the back under a narrow stitched plait, no part of the trimming other than tucks showing there. At the front there is a lavish treatment with insets of net-lace, tucks, embroidery and small silk buttons. The small mutton-leg sleeves display the amount of fullness now ad.

mitted the long arm covering, and the stock is in the form of a straight band of the embroidery between two of the lace.

Such a waist could be developed very prettily in any thin velveting that would match the gown color, or else be made quite a splendid house affair, if made in all-white. Where time must be economized, the embroidery could be left off, as the box plaits upon which this appears are in themselves decorative.

With the trimming further simplified, this model would be excellent for a practical waist in any wash material.

LENGTHWISE LINE IS LIKED

Promises to Be Much in Evidence on All the Summer Blouses—Graded Tucks.

The girl who has begun to make her own blouses for summer will find that lengthwise lines are much in favor. A pretty model has a series of grouped and graduated tucks that give an elaborate effect without much work.

The center of the blouse has a strip of swiss embroidered insertion with two rows of material in fine thread tucks run crosswise from a band on either side. These are edged with another row of insertion on the opposite side.

Beyond the trimming is a quarter-inch tuck run from neck to bottom of blouse, then three thread tucks, another quarter-inch one, three more thread tucks, then two quarter-inch tucks on outside for fullness. This is repeated on other side.

The back is finished with insertion on each side of opening, then narrow band of cross tucks, another row of insertion, and two quarter-inch tucks with group of three thread ones between.

The sleeves have three-quarter inch tucks with two groups of thread ones between. It is cut to be slightly full just below elbow, and the cuff is made by a square of insertion mitered at top corners with a band of cross tuck material on the inside. The bottom of cuff is finished with a narrow embroidered edging which also finishes the top of insertion collar.

The New Sleeve.

It is now definitely fixed that the sleeve with the long shoulder, the full middle piece and the elbow cuff tight to the arm is to be in favor. It is seen on all the best models, and it evidently will prevail.

The upper sleeve, or cap, is a bit loose on the arm, but has no tendency to be square. It is cut in one with the bodice and drops over arm, and is usually attached to the second division, which is made of thin fabric, gathered top and bottom. This just turns the elbow, and is somewhat fuller under the arm than on top of it. It is there gathered into the third division, which is in the shape of a long tight cuff, wrinkled or plain.

No matter what the modifications are, this seems to be the sleeve of the day.

Prints.

We are approaching a season of prints, and while it is needless to include the much-in-evidence foulard, we see in it the keynote.

Its figures have been copied on dimity, organdie, barred muslin, crepe, net and on cotton foulard.

Every variation of the floral pattern is shown on these washable stuffs, and many of them have the added richness of the satin or mercerized stripe.

Pongees, too, are printed, and the whole tale has not been told without mention of the stamped and figured chiffons, which show forth a perfection not found in any other fabric.

Difficult Scriptures On Hell.

A little book selling at only ten cents, postpaid, is having a very wide circulation—running up a list of sales. It contains some very startling information respecting the meaning of the word Hell. It claims to demonstrate, both from the Hebrew and the Greek of our Bible, that Hell is NOT a place of eternal torment, but merely another name for the "Tomb," the Grave, the State of Death. It affects to show that man was not redeemed from a far-off place of eternal torture, but was redeemed from the Grave at the cost of the Redeemer's life, and that the Scriptural hope, both for the Church and the World, is a resurrection hope based upon the death and resurrection of Jesus. The book is certainly worth the reading. The information it furnishes is certainly valuable, far beyond its trifling cost. Order is at once from the Bible and Trust Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHARITY IN SALISBURY.

It is reported that in and around the city of Salisbury there is a great need for an effective organization to look after those whose misfortunes have placed them in a position where the actual necessities of life are lacking.

Salisbury has now grown to a city where it always has in its midst a number of these unfortunate ones, and while our citizens are generous yet the haphazard way of individual charity only covers in spots and often leaves the most deserving cases unattended to.

It would be much better to have an effective organization to look into each case, and let all contribute to them direct. In this way we might get clear of some of the professional beggar class which has been living off of the town, and which each week seems to be growing larger. In fact, professional begging here is fast becoming a nuisance, and there are dozens in Salisbury much more deserving than the majority of our street and home to home beggars, suffering for the lack of sufficient food and clothing.

GEN. SETH ON TRANSPORTATION.

General Seth gave an interview this week on the question of transportation facilities between the various portions of the Eastern Shore and Baltimore City. This is one of the latest and most sensible articles we have yet seen on this much discussed question.

As pointed out several times in this paper, most of the time seems to have been taken up in trying to find a way for quicker service from points that already have better facilities for reaching Baltimore than they have any other city, while the real heart of the peninsula was neglected. If any section is in need of quicker and better facilities for reaching Baltimore City it is embraced in Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset Counties. As stated by General Seth, Salisbury is the geographical as well as the real business center of the shore, and any solution of the question which does not bring in the section mentioned above will not prove a satisfactory one, if Baltimore is to get her part of the Eastern Shore trade.

The question of bridging over the Chesapeake Bay is one that, while all would like to see it accomplished, has always looked too much like a "pipe-dream." The Bay is between us and we imagine it will be some time before capital can be found to bridge it over. In the meantime the best thing to do would seem to be to find the right point to cross so as to shorten as much as possible the time to Baltimore. This settled, the Railroads should be compelled to so adjust their roads and schedules that all sections of the Peninsula would have a way to reach this point.

We do not see much in Mr. Strause's solution, as we do not believe the State should go into the carrying business until all other means of obtaining the desired result have failed. Nor do we see how his plan would touch the true trouble, as most of the points mentioned have already got fairly good steamboat facilities, and if not now effective, could be made so by the Public Utility Commission's efforts.

700-Acre Farm Sold.

"One half of 'Hollywood Plantation,' located in Wicomico county, containing 700 acres and improved by a very fine dwelling with all modern improvements, a large barn with modern equipments, was sold last Saturday by the owner, Mrs. A. F. Watt, through Frank Lano, real estate agent, Princess Anne, to Mr. George P. Smith, of South Dakota, for $22,000. The sale is to be one of the finest farms in the State, especially on account of the dwelling and the character of equipments for taking care of stock. Mrs. Watt retained 700 acres of woodland."

Married While On A Visit.

While on a visit with friends at Delmar, Del., James Milton Byrd, a telegraph operator at Onley, Va., and Miss Ethel Gladding, of Atlantic, Va., were married at the Methodist Episcopal parsonage by Rev. B. N. Phillips. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gladding, of near Atlantic. The couple left within a few hours after the ceremony for their home.

THE WAY OF HEBRON

Was A Little Too Strong For The Boys,
Wednesday.

A very exciting time was the outcome of the game of baseball played by the erstwhile baseball sports of this city versus the Hebron local players Wednesday at Hebron of which Mr. "Boss" Bounds is manager.

A news reporter of this paper in writing of the game, says the stars of some time ago of this town thought it would be a very easy matter to go to Hebron and rout the local team off the ground as they did in days of yore, but as was said of Jeffries in the Jeffries-Johnson fight, our boys failed to "Come Back," with the exception of one or two.

Buzz said to Dr. Toulson, "Dr. it lies not in our Stars (?) dear Brutus." And it is said that Marvin is a dear lover as he was in the arms of Morpheus the whole game, only being able to break out of the embrace of that person when it was too late to get the little spheroid as it flew by him.

Some where the sun is shining,
Some where the song birds call,
Some where bands are playing
Some where boys play ball,
Some where hearts are glad,
But in Salisbury there is gloom
And all there are truly sad,
For at Hebron they met their doom.

"Doc" Toulson is out with a gun looking for a new team all together; it is said that he has blood in his eyes and seeks vengeance on the Hebron team.

Some one said that "Boss" Bounds has a smile on his face that won't come off, and he has a right to smile. When you think of the fact that Hebron really and truly has beaten our noble team into shreds by a score of 13 to 4, and also when you consider the fact that we had our men at their right places—Wagner at short, Jordan at first, Doolin at second, Old and Young "Cy" Young in the box, Murphy, Catoh, and mighty Casey at the bat. It is a known fact that our erstwhile star, Mr. Truitt, has not lost any of his art at the bat, he making 4 hits and getting one base on balls.

The management of the team has made a contribution for the purpose of buying a chest protector for "Buzz" Perry, since he will persist in lying supinely on his back and catching the ball on his chest.

Also the local rooters would like for the friends of the team not to mention, outside of Salisbury that "Buzz" is prone to do such astounding and artistic feats in the field, as it would be the downfall of our now glorious baseball team.

Mitchell, it is reported, would have played just as good a game as did "Buzz", but for the fact that he had only half of the chances.

Our noble baseman made a phenomenal stop at second, or rather if I should say the earth made the stop and he made the attempt since he turned a double summersault in the attempt.

Following was the line up:

SALISBURY.
Willis Taylor, catch; Dr. Toulson 1st.; Carl Schuler 2nd and pitch; Ray Truitt pitch and 2nd.; Marvin Evans s. s.; Walter Disharoon 3rd.; Thurman Mitchell, l. f.; Clarence Perry, O. F.; Sam Atkins, R. F.

HEBRON.
Cordrey, catch; Gordy 1st.; Kelley, 2nd.; Hoffmeister, s. s.; Fitchett, 3rd.; "Grouser," L. F. and pitch; W. Phillips, C. F.; Phillips, R. F.; Hawkins, pitch and L. F.

—Major George M. Thomas, president of Charlotte Hall Military Academy was a welcome visitor to this office this week. Major Thomas is looking over the Eastern Shore territory for more young men to attend his school, since as he says "Wicomico has never been left in the lurch by her representatives to this institution." He stated that he has become lively aware to the importance of working the Eastern Shore. Major is a very amiable and affable man, always very courteous to his friends and patrons. Parents who are desirous of sending their boys away to school, where they can be sure of the best possible, being nurtured and drawn out of the boys and for as little expense as possible would do well to communicate with Major Thomas, at Charlotte Hall, Maryland. In another column an advertisement of this school will be found. It is a school noted for its thoroughness and discipline—not that superficial gloss that is seen in some College graduates conferring degrees. We hope to see Major with us again soon.

—Attorney General Straus has been requested by Mr. James J. Lindsey, counsel to Baltimore County Commissioners, to decide whether assessors of property in the counties under the new law are required to take the constitutional oath in addition to the special oath provided in the assessment act, and if so, how they should take the constitutional oath. The Attorney General decided that under the provisions of the assessment law it is necessary for assessors and clerks, as well as county commissioners, sitting on boards of control and review, to take both of the oaths. The Attorney General also held that the constitutional oath had to be taken before a Clerk of the Circuit Court in each County.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Ernest F. Hastings who departed this life one year ago, August 5, 1909.

He has crossed the shining river,
And has gained the radiant shore,
Where no heart with grief can quiver,
And all parting scenes are o'er.

We will soon pass on to meet him,
And make whole the broken band,
Meet him just a cross the river,
In that happy spirit land.

He has gone to Heaven before us,
But he turns and waves his hand,
Pointing to the glories o'er us,
In that bright and happy land.

—By His Wife.
Now dear papa fare you well
With you on earth we cease to dwell,
Our stay here was short but sweet
We hope in Heaven we soon shall meet.

By his Sons, Morris and Ernest.

Something New in Art

Not so new either. For KARNAK BRASS found its inception in the Temple of Karnak, built by Seti Ist on the banks of the Nile, some fifteen centuries ago.

This old temple inspired one of the designers of the Benedict Studios to reproduce in articles of modern utility the ideal features of Egyptian ornamental art.

Each piece of KARNAK BRASS is Egyptian in form and decoration, the decorative motifs being the Lotus Flower, Isis, the Sphinx, the Papyrus, Scarabeus.

This class of goods has true artistic merit and is of a substantial make that insures its lasting lifetime.

The list includes:—
Vases, Candle Sticks, Smokers' Sets, Tobaccos Jars, Candelabra, Clocks, Jardinieres, Fern Dishes, Jewel Boxes, Book Ends, Etc.

PEOPLE'S PULPIT...

Sermon by CHARLES T.
RUSSELL,
Pastor Brooklyn
Tabernacle.

The Desire of All Nations.

"I will shake all nations, and the desire of all nations shall come" (Haggai ii, 7).

July 31.—Celoron, N. Y.—Today at this place Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle addressed the International Bible Students Association—about 4,000 He said:—

"The great Messiah, 'King of Glory,' has long been waited for by the civilized nations. For thirty-five centuries the Jews have waited for him as the great Prophet foreshadowed by Moses and foretold by him (Acts iii, 22); and as the Great King foreshadowed by their Kings David and Solomon; and as their glorious Priest typified by Aaron, but specially in the former's majesty as king and priest foreshown by Melchisedek—a priest upon his Throne (Psalm cx, 4).

Free masons have waited twenty-five hundred years for the same glorious personage, as Hiram Abiff, the great Master Mason whose death, glorification and future appearing are continually set before them by the letters upon their keystones. He died a violent death, they claim, because of his loyalty to the Divine secrets typed in Solomon's Temple. He must reappear, they claim, in order that the great antitypical Temple may be completed and its grand service for Israel and for all peoples may be accomplished. They claim that his presence is to be expected speedily.

Christians of every shade, in proportion as they are conversant with the Bible (Old Testament and New) believe, also, in a great Temple builder who died because of his faithfulness to the Divine plans, re the spiritual Temple, the elect Church (1 Peter ii, 4, 5). Him they expect to come a second time "in power and great glory" to complete the Temple which is his Body, and in and through that spiritual and glorious Temple to bless Israel and all the families of the earth. His second presence in glory and power, but invisible to men, is believed to be imminent.

The Mohammedans, also, worshiping the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and David and Solomon, are also expecting a great Heavenly Messenger to bless them and all peoples by the establishment of a heavenly Kingdom. They have awaited his coming for centuries. They believe his Kingdom to be near at hand.

Who is this King of Glory? The same glorious personage will fulfill all these desires—these hopes. Is it not time that all of these peoples, fearing God and hoping in his promises, should come together in one hope, in one expectation? It must be so, for do we not read prophetically, "The desire of all nations shall come!"

We are well aware that great barriers lie between these multitudes; but we hold that they are chiefly barriers of superstition and ignorance. In the past they have pulled apart, and have slandered and persecuted one another. If now they will sympathetically draw near to each other, surely they will find much to appreciate in each other's hopes and aims.

The Basis of Sympathy. The fact that the Jews and Mohammedans, Catholics and Protestants and Free Masons, all base their faith on the Old Testament of the Holy Scriptures, is ground for the better understanding, pleaded for.

All Christians must accept the authority of the Hebrew Scriptures because the founder of Christianity, Jesus, and his special mouthpieces, the Apostles, taught nothing contrary to the Law and the Prophets. Indeed, they quoted from the Old Testament in proof of every doctrine advanced. They claimed that they neither destroyed nor ignored the Old Testament, but merely noted its fulfillment.

The error in the past has been the general disposition to appeal to superstition and prejudice and bigotry, rather than to facts and Scripture. We must reverse the lever in order to attain the good results—in order to see eye to eye.

What All Can Agree To. All agree that the world needs the Divine blessing! All agree that we have been laboring under a mistake in supposing that education and civilization are alone necessary to secure human happiness. We perceive that the greater the civilization the greater is the unrest, and the broader the education the greater are the suggestions and opportunities for taking selfish advantage of others.

All are agreed that only the later inventions, telephones, etc., and our modern and costly police precautions make it possible to live in civilized lands and that, despite all these, murders are a hundred-fold what they were fifty years ago. In these days a murder would be detailed and discussed for a year. Now we give little heed to several reported in each day's newspapers. Thousands are executed, other thousands are imprisoned for life and we pay little heed—so gradually have we become accustomed to these horrors of our civilization and education.

We oppose these with Church and mission influences, with Sunday Schools, Y. M. C. A.'s, with courts, Juvenile and Superior, and yet they increase. We penalize the carrying of weapons and bombs and wisely prohibit inflammatory speeches; and the better informed know that Christendom is like a powder-magazine which some unlucky friction between the classes may any day explode.

All Hopes Really One.

Admitting that all mankind are imperfect, "born in sin and shapen in iniquity," we nevertheless cannot assent to the doctrine of Total Depravity—that there is nothing good in any man or in all men. Each one who prays "forgive us our trespasses as we forgive others" should concede that others, as well as himself, would prefer righteousness to sin, if the environment were different—if his appetite were not so perverted, if his will power were not so inadequate. So, then, whether Jew, Mohammedan, Catholic, Free Mason or Protestant, do we not all really desire the one thing? And do we not admit, after centuries of endeavor along different lines, that God alone can send us the aid which the whole world so greatly needs? We do!

Let us now formulate this "desire of all nations" from those Holy Scriptures which we all acknowledge. Let us see that it is exactly what we all have been looking and praying for under different names: It is the Kingdom of God!—the Kingdom of Allah! Its rule is to be "under the whole heavens" however heavenly or spiritual the great ruler will be (Daniel vii, 27). Under his benediction and uplifting influence the glorious result will be that God's will shall be done on earth as completely as it is now done in heaven. This is exactly what the Scriptures declare—that sin and ignorance will be done away; that the knowledge of the glory of God's character will fill the whole earth. It means a strong government exercised for the restraint of sin and for the freeing of mankind from slavery to sin—the slavery of inherited weaknesses entailed by Adam's disobedience. The great Heavenly King, the Son of David, who does these things, according to the Law and the Prophets, will have many titles indicating various features of his greatness. He shall be called, Wonderful, Counselor, the mighty Elmhut, the Prince of Peace, and the Father (life-giver) of eternal life (Isaiah ix, 6).

He is called the Savior by the Prophet Isaiah (xlv, 15), for he shall "save from their sins" and from the penalty of sin all who shall become "his people." And all who will wickedly refuse his rule of righteousness and his assistance out of sin and death conditions will be esteemed "wicked" in the proper sense of that word; and of these we read: "All the wicked will be destroyed."

Love Righteousness—Hate Iniquity.

We have had too much of hatred and persecution because of the differences in our degrees of knowledge as expressed in our differences of belief. Let this cease. Let us unite in our love for righteousness and in our hatred of unrighteousness—in equity. Let us cultivate such a sympathy for the coming reign of righteousness to be established by Messiah (by whatever name he and his Kingdom may be handed down to us that our characters shall be more and more influenced and transformed by the prophetic view.

We are all agreed that Messiah's Kingdom is nigh, even knocking at the door of the world. In the wonderful inventions of our day we have the very foregleams of that Kingdom as outlined in prophecy. The necessities of the case also corroborate this: The tension between Capital and Labor will soon be to its limit and break; the grasp of monopoly will soon be so strong that the masses will be ground between the upper and the nether millstones; our high-tension living is calculated soon to have our race in the mud-house; specialists say, within one century. Let us believe the Word of God delivered by the prophets of old. Let us prepare our hearts for the Great King whose Kingdom shall have the chief blessing:

"He Must Reign—Until!"

According to the Bible the reign of the promised Great King shall not be an eternal reign. Eventually the dominion of earth originally given to Adam and lost by disobedience and consequent incapacity, is to be restored to such of Adam's race as shall attain earthly perfection and Jehovah's approval. Messiah's Empire will be a Mediatorial one and, according to the Scriptures, will continue only one thousand years. But we are assured that the period will be quite sufficient for the great work to be accomplished. Father Adam, after being sentenced for sin—"Dying thou shalt die," experienced the dying processes for 930 years. Contrariwise the world will, under the Messiah's rule as King and Priest (Melchisedek, Psalm cx, 4), gradually rise up, up, out of sin and death conditions during a very similar period of time.

Paradise restored will no longer be a garden merely, but the whole earth, as God's footstool, shall be made glorious (Isaiah xl, 13). The promises of God to the children of Isaac and Jacob are not heavenly or spiritual, but earthly. From Genesis to Malachi there is not a suggestion of a heavenly or spiritual calling. If Christians have a heavenly calling it is no cause for offense to Mohammedans and Jews—none of whom have conflicting hopes. There is no need for conflict—every reason for harmony.

"Times of Restoration." Not only do the ancient prophecies foretell coming blessings of the Lord upon Jew and Gentile, bond and free, but the Law typified the same. Every fifth year with the Jew was to be a Jubilee year—a time of release from debt and from all bondage. The lesson is that Messiah's reign will be the great time of jubilation to men, to all who will accept and obey his rule. The cancellation of debts represents that God (through Messiah) will thus cancel the debt of Original Sin and set free Adam and his race. All will then be given a fresh start for life eternal. The setting free from bondage in the Jubilee Year typed man's release from the weaknesses inherited through Adam's fall. It will include the resurrection from the dead, the great prison-house mentioned by the Prophet (Isaiah xl, 1).

If we see this great fact about to be accomplished need we quarrel about how it is to be done? Since it offers blessings to all who love God's righteousness, why dispute over details? Shall we contend with God and his plans and promises except to our injury? Let us rejoice with the Jew, God has decreed for the natural seed of Abraham a glorious share in the great work of blessing the world—to the Jew, first, this means a blessing; to the others later! The Scriptures clearly teach that Messiah will establish the New Covenant with Jacob—natural Israel. Let all who reverence the Lord acquiesce in his arrangements. And if the Jews shall some day see that the Oath-Bound Promise to Abraham meant two seeds, let them be glad and rejoice in their portion. If the great Messiah soon to be revealed in power and great glory be composed of "many members" on the spirit plane, what matters it to Jacob, all of whose promises are on the earth plane? Moreover there is no room for jealousy any way. Paul, quoted this very passage in his epistle to the Hebrews (xii, 20-29). He pointed out that the literal shaking of Mt. Sinai and the terrible signs associated at the time of the inauguration of Israel's Law Covenant was but a feeble picture of the awful commotion which will prevail in its antitype—when Israel's New (Law) Covenant will be instituted at Mt. Zion in the end of this Age at the hands of the antitypical Moses—Messiah.

The prophet intimates that it will be a short, sharp, decisive shaking, quickly accomplished. And the Apostle explains that it will be so thorough-going that everything that can be shaken will be shaken and will be removed. In other words, everything that is in the nature of a temporary make-shift for righteousness, truth, equity, will be shaken out of the way—not to be allowed to remain, because the Lord will make a thorough work. St. Paul intimates that the Kingdom which the Church is to receive will be the only institution which will stand the shaking time and that only because the "Church of the First-born, whose names are written in heaven," will have the Divine approval: they will "be changed in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye"—established enduringly on the heavenly plane at the Right Hand of God, principalities and powers being subject.

"The Prince of Peace." Notwithstanding the fact that Messiah's Kingdom will be introduced by a period of universal trouble, anarchy, etc., which will overthrow civilization and uproot every sinful and imperfect human organization, nevertheless this will eventually lead to the most profound and most enduring peace. In that one great lesson humanity will learn the futility of its own endeavors and will cry unto the Lord for help and for the desired peace—"the desire of all nations shall come."

Referring to this time of trouble the Prophet David declares of the Lord's work at that time, "He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth. He breaketh the bow, and cutteth the spear asunder" (Psalm xlv, 9). Then wonderfully he announces the climax of it all, "Be still and know that I am God. I will be exalted in the earth." The only true basis of peace is righteousness; and on this firm foundation Jehovah through his Anointed One will shortly establish it (Psalm xlv, 10).

Do You Get Up With a Lame Back? Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidney, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to employ it as a big income. Our business is established twenty-five years. We are not in the picture and frame trust. We want honest, trustworthy representatives only. You need no capital to work for us. ## WANTS HER LETTER PUBLISHED

For Benefit of Women who Suffer from Female Ills

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. My pains all left me, I grew stronger, and within three months I was a perfectly well woman."

"I want this letter made public to show the benefit women may derive from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JOHN G. MOLDEN, 2115 Second St., North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made exclusively from roots and herbs. Women who suffer from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She will treat your letters as strictly confidential. For 20 years she has been helping sick women in this way, free of charge. Don't hesitate—write at once.

Spiritism Said To Be Demonism.

A most interesting little brochure has recently come off the press, setting forth with Bible proofs that the communications received by and through Spiritist Mediums is of Demon origin. The writer traces his subject through the Scriptures from the time when certain of the holy angels became disobedient. He proves from the Scriptures that these fallen spirits deal in personating the human dead, with whose past history, spirits, though invisible, are thoroughly acquainted. He shows that they also frequently personate the Creator and the Redeemer, commanding their deceived ones to pray, do penance, etc. This, however, is merely to lead them on and to bring them more thoroughly under demoniacal control. Sometimes by breaking down the natural barrier, the human will, they obsess their victim and rule him more or less to his ruin—frequently sending such to the mad-house. Numerous illustrations, Scriptural and otherwise, are given. The price of the little book is but ten cents; it should be in the hands of all interested in Spiritism or who have friends interested therein. Enclose five two-cent stamps to the Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

LASTING LOVE.

They strolled down the old lane. "And do you really love me, George?" she asked for the tenth time. "I love you," he echoed, heroically. "I love you and always shall love you, my pet." "You really mean that?" "Yes, I shall love you until the sky falls." "Oh, George!" "Yes, until the sun falls." "Gracious, George!" "Even until the price of beefsteak falls." Bidding him to say no more, she placed her slender hand within his own and they strolled away to the nearest paragonage.

A Point for Willie.

A Capital hill woman went out in the garage back of her home the other afternoon and found her ten-year-old son playing cards for pennies with a neighbor boy. "Why, Willie," she said, "what are you doing—gambling?" "We're just playin' cards with that new deck you won over at Mrs. Mason's playin' bridge last week," replied the boy.

The woman picked up the cards and went back into the house. She had nothing to say.

rantalizing.

The suburbanite was struggling through snowdrifts up to his neck. "Maria," he sputtered, when he could regain his breath, "why don't you come out here and take these bundles? I suppose if you saw me floundering out here all day you would merely stand there and call me a lobster."

"No, indeed, John," laughed his wife from the door of the bungalow. "If I saw you floundering all day I would call you a flounder."

THERE YOU ARE.

Mr. Smith—I'm surprised! Why did you insure yourself in the Doem Guide Life Insurance Company? Why, it's no good.

Mrs. Smith—I know, but, dearest, they give away the sweetest little calendars you ever saw.

We Wonder.

Will early blossoms dot the lea
And birds sing.
Or will the season merely be
An almost-spring?

An Infallible Sign.

"Yes," mused the thoughtful thinker. "It's a sure sign."

"What's a sure sign?" we asked.

"That when a young man begins to know that he doesn't know as much as he thinks he knows, then he begins to know something," explained the t. t.

The Quickest Way.

"What do you think is the best way for the schools to fit boys to enter the business world by teaching them to develop?"

"I don't know, unless you put the class in charge of a practical photographer."

Stands to Reason.

"I fear there are no people left on Mars."

"What makes you think that?"

"If there were, they would have found some way of showing their contempt for our canal."

A New Vocation.

"I hear Slim Whiffetree has sold out. I thought he was very successful with his poultry and his crops."

"He was. So much so that he has gone to the city and opened offices as a consulting farmer."

Not a Bad Break.

"I understand that you have broken your pledge not to eat meat?"

"I didn't break it; I just straitened it a little."

"Explain."

"I ate a railroad sandwich."

A Fond Lover.

"Would you go through fire and water for me?"

"I'd do more than that, Star-Eyes. I'd go through a five-cent store for you on a busy afternoon."

Why He Didn't.

Two gentlemen, shooting in Scotland, sat down to lunch. On taking a bottle of whisky out, one of them noticed that the cork had been tampered with, and, knowing the character of his guests, at once accused him of having been at the luncheon.

"I feel that you have been drinking the whisky, Sandy."

"No, sir, I have not, for the cork wouldn't come out!"

REACHING THE SPOT.

It Can Be Done, So Scores Of Salisbury Citizens Say.

To cure an aching back. The pains of rheumatism. The tired out feelings. You must reach the spot—get at the cause.

In most cases 'tis the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Mrs. Sarah E. Dennis, 703 Poplar Hill Ave., Salisbury, Md. "I was subject to attacks of kidney trouble for years and last fall my kidneys became more badly disordered. My back was weak and the kidney secretions were too frequent in passage. I also had symptoms of dropsy and my feet and hands often became swollen. I at last secured Doan's Kidney Pills at White and Leonard's Drug Store and the contents of one box made a wonderful improvement. At the present time my back does not pain me and my kidneys cause me no trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

The Best Hour Of Life.

Is when you do some great deed or discover some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had. I then proved to my great satisfaction, that a wonderful Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay fever and throat or Lung Trouble. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by All Druggists.

Stagers Skeptics.

That a clean nice fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn out soiled, wound or pimple, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove its a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, as also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c at all druggists.

"Tabernacle Shadows Of The Better Sacrifices."

This little book is not for the ordinary readers, but most decidedly it is what every advanced Bible student and earnest Christian should possess and study thoroughly. It costs but ten cents, is illustrated and draws its lessons on the higher life from the types and shadows of Israel's typical Atonement Day and other sacrifices. Surely every earnest Christian should have this little book and find in it a mine of spiritual wealth, health and refreshment. Order it now from the Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Struck A Rich Mine.

S. W. Benda, of Coal City, Ala., says he struck a perfect mine of health in Dr. King's New Life Pills for they cured him of Liver and Kidney Trouble after 13 years of suffering. They are the best pills on earth for constipation, Malaria, Headaches, Dyspepsia, Debility. 25c at all druggists.

Mothers!

Don't fail to procure Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for your Children while cutting teeth. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

A Storekeeper Says

"A lady came into my store lately and said: 'I have been using a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove all winter in my apartment. I want one now for my summer home. I think these oil stoves are wonderful. If only women knew what comfort they are, they would all have one. I spoke about my stove to a lot of my friends, and they were astonished. They thought that there was small and smoke from an oil stove, and that it heated a room just like any other stove. I told them of my experience, and one after another they got one, and now, not one of them would give here up for five times its cost.'"

The lady who said this had thought an oil stove was all right for quickly heating milk for a baby, or boiling a kettle of water, or to make coffee quickly in the morning, but she never dreamed of using it for difficult or heavy cooking.

Now—she knows. Do you really appreciate what a New Perfection Oil Cook-Stove means to you? No more coal to carry, no more coming to the dinner table so tired that you can't eat. Just light a Perfection Stove and immediately the heat from an intense blue flame shoots up to the bottom of pot, kettle or oven. But the room isn't heated. There is no smoke, no smell, no outside heat, no drudgery in the kitchen where one of these stoves is used.

Cautionary Note: Be sure you get this stove—see that the name-plate reads 'New Perfection.'

New Perfection Oil Cook-stove

It has a Cabinet Top with a shelf for keeping plates and food hot. The nickel finish, with the bright blue of the chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

HER WAY OF ECONOMIZING

It was their first open quarrel. Fate had been leading them gently toward it ever since he gave her his last present of all, a plain gold ring. He was not mean by nature, but he had soon realized that a dollar in the counting room was worth two in the home.

"We must economize in small things," he had said when she smilingly showed him the house account for the first month with the balance on the wrong side.

So she cut out ice cream sodas on her daily marketing expeditions and he waited until he got home to see the evening paper.

"We must economize in small things," he had repeated when tearfully she showed him the second month's accounts and some unpaid bills. So she cut out going downtown and ordered everything over the wire. Not having even the manly vice of smoking he could attain no further virtues of economy.

Then there had come a bright spot in their lives followed by a cloud. He noticed that she was making a habit of glancing through the morning paper before he carried it off to read on his way downtown. "She is developing," he had told his mother the next day.

He heartily approved of women who took an interest in public affairs. But, alas, every time he made some remark on current topics she said: "Yes, dear," when she ought to have said: "No, dear," and vice versa. "What on earth is the good of reading the paper if you don't get more out of it than that?" he grumbled. It was the first unkind word she was too hurt to explain. After that, the paper was still unvisited when he carried it off after breakfast. And meantime the accounts were slowly getting better, though there was another deficit at the end of the third month.

"We must economize in small things," he reiterated. "It's the little things that make the big things in life. We mustn't spend one penny unnecessarily."

Then came the cloudburst; one evening when he came home he noticed a copy of the morning's paper lying on the table. He said nothing about it, but when it happened two, three, four days in succession he not too kindly made inquiries.

"Where do you get this extra paper every day?" he asked.

"The man brings two now," she replied. "Do you mean to say we are paying an extra subscription for a paper that might as well be printed in Chinese for all the good you get out of it? No wonder you can't keep the house expenses down if that's the way you go about it."

"Why shouldn't I have a paper as well as you?" she answered.

His reply was "so unlike him" that she went back to the kitchen with tears in her eyes and promptly spoiled the dinner. This was too much unhappiness for one day. She threw herself into an easy chair and hid her face in her hands.

"It isn't the news," she sobbed when he came to her with such sympathy for the vanquished. "It isn't the news, it's the advertisements. I was ashamed to let you see me reading it when you found I couldn't talk about the things you read about. But I do get some good out of it. I saved a dime on those chops you enjoyed so much last night and a whole dollar on that shirtwaist you said was pretty last week. And—and don't you see it's the bargain advertisements they put in every day—and you haven't noticed what better food we get now—and the dinner's spiced and—"

"Well, I'm a—," he murmured. "Watch your face and put on that pretty shirtwaist and we'll have dinner downtown."

They are now economizing in big things.

The Oldest Date.

The age of primitive barbarism, or of primitive man, seems to recede ever further and further back, and what is called the dawn of civilization grows more and more remote. Hitherto it has been supposed that the most ancient civilization on earth of which real records had been found could be traced back to B. C. 3500. This refers to ancient Peru, and the culture of its earliest known inhabitants. But the Homiletic Review points out that the professor of ancient history at the University of Berlin, Dr. Eduard Meyer, has been studying afresh the Egyptian calendars on the monument in the Berlin museum. He has discovered that the date B. C. 4141 is frequently cited as that in which the early Egyptian astronomers first calculated their solar year from the rising of the star Sirius. This is by far the oldest reliable date in the history of the human race.

A Horse on Sandy.

Mrs. McTavish (to her husband, who is off to the fair to purchase a horse)—How much are ye going to give for him, Donal?

Mr. McTavish—Oh; about thirty shillins, Why?

Mrs. McTavish—Weel, here's another twa shillins. You might as weel get a guid ool—London Opinion.

Confidence in Himself.

A country bridegroom, when the bride hesitated to pronounce the word "obey," remarked to the officiating clergyman: "So on, mister; if it don't matter, I can make her."

FIRST DAYS OF OIL

DISCOVERER WAS LAUGHED AT AS CRAZY.

Had Hard Work to Make People See the Value of the New Illuminant Only About Fifty Years Ago.

Fifty years ago Col. Edwin L. Drake discovered oil on the banks of Oil creek at Titusville, Pa. To-day a host of people, many of them enriched beyond the dreams of Croesus by his find, have gathered at Titusville and a celebration of the event will be crowned by a banquet, at which many of the famous men of the world, whose names will be represented, the New York Mail says.

The story of the finding of coal oil, which marked a new era in human affairs and made possible recent marvels in automobile and aeroplane propulsion, reads like a tale of Aladdin. Lumbermen of northwestern Pennsylvania had long known of the heavy, black, oily substance sweeping from the rocks in many localities. The "springs" were sought by Indians as cures ages before the coming of the white man, and the trappers and lumber jacks found it had wonderful healing qualities when bound on a wound. Millmen scooped it up to lubricate their machinery, also.

Col. Drake was a poorly paid employee of the New Haven road at headquarters. A sample of oil reached him through Prof. Silliman of Yale, who suggested that Drake inspect the place whence the new substance came. He went to Oil creek, backed by several men, and after walking about the hills studying the rocks and the oil which slowly percolated into shallow pits he conceived a plan to drill and find deposits of oil.

Drake could not hire well drillers. He could not find machinery. He had to invent it, and thus devised the only method ever used successfully, the familiar rocker beam and pipe casing in which the sucker rods work.

"Crazy Drake" was the laughing stock of the region. But persistence brought reward when oil was found and Drake knew it could be pumped in paying quantities.

It came too fast, in fact, for there were no tanks. Tight coöperation being necessary, Mrs. Drake traveled all over buying whisky barrels. Then an iron tank was built, but there was no market for the oil. No one wanted it. Of this, period Mrs. Drake, who is still living in Philadelphia, says:

"At last Col. Drake persuaded the owner of a store in Titusville to place a row of lamps filled with the oil on his counter. The first night they were lighted the whole town came on the run, thinking the store was on fire, so bright a light did they give. You know in those days the sperm oil burned in lamps and wax and tallow candles gave a very poor light. And this discovery of a new lighting material was as much a step forward as electricity was. We lighted our house with a few lamps and again the people thought the house was on fire. After some months a slight sale began. Each household wanted at least one lamp. Petroleum sold then for one dollar a gallon."

The news spread and the world knows the rest. In a short time refining experiments brought in a salable product, "coal oil" it was called, or kerosene.

'Oms, Sweet 'Oms.

The new arrival at the London hotel owed allegiance to Europe's imperial surprise packet, the Kaiser. "From Potsdam I vos come," he announced.

"A fine place, sir," remarked the manager, politely.

"Dere vos a petter."

"Yes, Berlin."

"Neh! Oms."

"Oms? Ja—er—Germany, of course."

"Dounerwetter, nein; in dis country, in England."

"Oms," repeated the manager, reflectively.

"Ya. I vos come from Potsdam to see Oms. I vos at der concert in Potsdam, and I hear der great English soprano sing dat 'Dere is no place like Oms,' and all der English people in der concert ery like der leetle babies. Dot must be der vunderful place, Oms, to make der English cry. I tink to myself, I vill go and see dis place Oms vut der vos no place like. Now, vich is der vay to Oms?"—The Bits.

Shoemaker's Candies.

I well remember some seventy years since seeing flat candles in use. To produce what was known as the flat candle, which was also sometimes called "shoemaker's candle," two new "tips" were pressed close to each other while soft and then again lowered into the hot fat, thus holding them together as one candle with two wicks. The idea could then be increased if desired.

This flat candle was most generally used by shoemakers and tailors, but was made use of in some households whenever an extra bright light for working or reading was required.—Correspondence the Dickensian.

In Boston.

"Say you four-eyed kid," exclaimed the alley urchin.

"Well?"

"My dad is going to learn me how to box, and then I'll put it all over you."

"After your paternal ancestor has learned you how to box," responded White Sox, "he might probably expect some little effort in teaching you how to talk."

MAUD MULLER'S HEY-DAY.

Maud Muller, in the far away. Was busy raking meadow hay. She had no time for social din. Because the hay had to go in. Her father had no boys to call. So Maudie had to do it all. She raked it early, raked it late. And had no time to make a date. The village boys came now and then. And saw the rake, and left again. Alas! For Maud, she saved the hay, But lost a husband every day.

Maud Muller's not the same to-day. She doesn't go out raking hay. She sits upon the porch so cool. When she has left the boarding school. And waits the judge, when he is spied. To take her for an auto ride. Her father has no hay to rake. They're living on ice cream and cake. They do not have to rake, they say, Because an auto eats no hay.

THE SIZE OF IT.

Tom—How big is your flat?
Ethel—Well, it's so small we have to use condensed milk.

The Fillet.

I asked if there was a vacant spot in her heart, and I do declare she blasted my hopes right on the dot. When she gave me a vacant stare.

Got Some Advice.

"Sir, I have grown gray in your service," began the old bookkeeper, preliminary to asking for a raise.

"I was intending to speak to you about that," responded the head of the firm. "Get a bottle of hair dye. Otherwise the junior partner will be wanting to replace you with a younger man."

Natural Environment.

"I can't see how you can live out here in so much mud," grumbled the city friend as he steadied himself on the slippery sidewalk. "Just then I came near turning turtle."
"Oh, cheer up!" laughed the optimistic suburbanite. "If you turn turtle you won't mind the mud."

Very Fastidious.

"You have a wife-beater in jail here?"

"Yes."

"Here are some roses for him."

"Sorry, madam, but he doesn't accept any flowers less expensive than orchids."

What He Dreaded.

The Thespian—I suppose your profession is different from ours. Now in our profession we often get a hand. The Tramp—Different from us, boss. In our line we are lucky if we don't get a foot.

HOW TO FIGURE TIME.

Mrs. Johnson—How long has your cook been with you?

Mrs. Thompson—Not long. She came about two gasoline stoves ago.

Conservation.

"Woodman, spare that tree!"
"Touch not a single knot."
"Though Pinchot's far away
There are others on the job."

Of Course.

"Some sounder stole an egg laid by the $12,000 hen."

"Do you believe that the hen is worth that much?"

"If they can prove to my satisfaction that she laid an egg I will."

Pining for a Scrap.

"Penson is quite friendly with his wife's relatives and what is his reward?"

"They sneer at him for not having any backbone."

Half and Half.

"I don't understand you, Linda. One day you're bright and jolly and the next depressed and sad."

"Well, I'm in half-mourning, that's why."—Eligendo Blatter.

Shopping.

"Do you like dogs?"

"No, these sad-looking ones for a neighbor."

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have suffered with indigestion, have been cured by it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and unwholesome fluid, bloated sensation, gasping pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dizziness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it. Ordinary dyspepsia, "dyspepsia tablets," "physic," etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Kodol is only at all druggists.

a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all. Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle. Then after you have used the contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good. And after applying to the large bottle only and to the small bottle as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

Jenny began to pay her compliments to her hated rival.

"She makes me tired with her airs, and she isn't strong for you, Mr. Jackson," she added viciously. "When I met her I saw that she didn't care for me, and she doesn't know anything about me. You do, though I never told you."

"I have guessed a little, Jenny. I respect you all the more for your grit in returning here."

"Do you? I am glad of that. Well, this Miss Margaret ain't so much of a

"I admire you, Jenny, for your pluck and your honesty."

much herself. It was her brother that put me on the downslope."

"Her brother?"

"Yes, the brother of the girl Philip is going to marry—this stuck-up nurse! I've a good mind to tell Philip."

"Her brother is not her fault."

"No, I suppose he's mine. But I am going to tell him."

"Do you think that would be fair?"

"All's fair in love."

Haggleton looked at the firmly closed mouth and doubted his ability to persuade her.

"You know I like you very much," he asked.

"She isn't ill."

"And I admire you, Jenny, for your pluck and your honesty. You are a good woman notwithstanding what is behind you—a fine woman. Are you going to do a mean thing and disappoint me?"

"Is it meant?" she asked.

"You know it is. You will lower yourself in your own eyes and in the eyes of all of us. It would be unworthy of you."

Jenny sat silent.

"I won't tell," she finally said. "I will play fair. I do it only for your sake."

"You do it because you are the fine woman I knew you were."

He bent forward and kissed her lightly on the cheek. She furtively wiped her eyes.

"But I am going to fight for my other Philip to the end," she declared defiantly, "just as you are going to fight for yours."

"That's understood. Now, Jenny, something else. When this bakeshop scheme comes off you'll get eight a week. We're going to brighten up your life and your father's."

"There is only one thing that can brighten up my life, and father—well, he has no hope for the future."

"Ah, yes, he failed in business?"

"He had an oil business in Iowa. But the trust couldn't let us go by John J.'s wagons undersold us at our own door. Now father is a helper in a cellar bakeshop."

"That is the law of business, Jenny—the survival of the fittest."

"Yes, I suppose so. But it's hard to prove that to those who don't fit."

CHAPTER X.

THE BATTLE OF THE

GENTLE knocked and entered.

"Ah, how is Mr. Gentle," said Haggleton, putting down his hat again, "and what brings him here?"

"I'll come right to the point, Mr. Mr. Jackson. Gentle glanced around him cautiously. "I want to have it out with you before Philip comes in."

"I expect him later on to report on our bakeshop organization."

"Ah! And you ask what the trouble is? There you have it! We have nothing but bakeshop here, nothing but schemes for making money. I wanted you to study the problems of poverty with Philip."

"Pardon me. That was not our arrangement. Understand, I am a poor man hustling for a living."

"A poor man! It's a wonder no one has recognized you yet!"

"The newspapers say I am away on my yacht. Nobody knows that I'm down here; nobody is looking for me."

"But Philip knows."

"Philip will be silent."

"That's the trouble, Mr. Haggleton. He's too much interested."

"The use of it is that it will help me to win my son. And he is worth winning. Besides, it has another use—as an object lesson to all your kickers. Look at this room and think what it was."

Haggleton looked significantly around at the evidence of his driving power. He was stopped at the two windows facing the East river, with their view of Brooklyn bridge.

"By the way," he asked, "what's the matter with joining these two little windows into one large observation window? We shall have the finest view in the city."

"What about the landlord?" asked Gentle.

"The landlord never objects to improvements in the property. If the tenant pays for them. We'll pay for that window."

"Philip is demoralized," grumbled Gentle.

"Mr. Gentle, you are just getting acquainted with him. He's my son."

"He is fascinated by the idea that John J. Haggleton is doing this extraordinary thing."

"Just so, Mr. Gentle. And he will be more fascinated when he knows why John J. Haggleton undertook to do it."

"It was a clever move."

"No. It has turned out to be a clever move. I am gaining ground with the boy every day, but that's not why I am doing it. I am sixty years old, Mr. Gentle, and used to my comforts. Do you think I'd stand all this because it was a clever move? No, sir! I stayed down here on account of a few little words that my son fired at me. He looked me straight in the eyes and said, 'You've got to do your own loving yourself.' Heavens! That hit me hard. I'm not getting sentimental. I'm going to fight you for all I'm worth, Mr. Gentle, but when you've played your last card and told my boy the worst you can tell about me, then, anyhow, he's got to know that his father came down here and lived in a tenement."

He stopped a moment.

"Because his father wanted to do his own loving himself."

"Yet you would influence him to be hard and selfish."

"I want him to be a fine business man."

"And I," rejoined Gentle slowly, "want him to be a fine man."

"H'm! I don't expect my son to be a business man and nothing else. I'm glad to have him study these problems of poverty. All I ask is that you and he be reasonable. Suppose we draw up a plan that will satisfy all of us. I'll put up one million, two millions, five millions, if we can work out some sound scheme of public betterment."

"Five millions?" gasped Gentle.

"Yes, five millions. And I should want the work of carrying out such a scheme, the executive work, to be in your hands."

Gentle reflected. It was a great chance for him, and what touched him far more—a great chance for the poor. What could he not do with so much money? A sudden thought struck Gentle. Oh, he, here was the nigger in the wood pile. John J. was John J. still.

"Then Philip would know his father?"

"Of course."

"And his mother? What about her?"

Haggleton was ready for him. He never made a proposition without having prepared it in all details, foreseen all objections. So now he answered readily:

"We will tell Philip that there was trouble years ago between his mother and me. I'll admit that I was much in the wrong—absorbed in business; too keen about money. That ought to fix it."

"Oh, no, not with Philip. It is too vague. He must know exactly what the trouble was."

"Out with it!" exclaimed Haggleton, "You mean that Philip must see this statement."

"I mean that justice must be done to a noble woman."

But Haggleton presented his arguments with restrained vehemence.

"You talk about my wife and the wrong I did. I can't atone to her, can I? For she is dead! If I atone to anybody I've got to pay to the living. Have I not? After all, that was what his mother wanted—to have Philip do good with my money. Now he'll do more good than she ever dreamed of. I'll put aside what did I say? Five millions? I'll put aside ten millions for a great battle against poverty."

"Ten millions?"

"Ten millions, but not one dollar unless I get my son."

"There still remains your wife's statement," said Gentle.

"You have by your promise to see her wish carried out, are you not?" argued Haggleton. "Now, if it is accomplished without the statement—"

"See! You think that I ought to destroy it?"

"Don't you?"

Haggleton followed up the advantage already won.

"You have considered yourself and my dead wife in the matter," he pointed out. "But what about Philip? Suppose he preferred not to see this statement—suppose he hesitated? You would advise against it, would you not?"

"In the circumstances I—I think I would."

Haggleton bent, held out his hand. "Then we'll leave it to him," he concluded, "but not until I say the word."

Gentle nodded assent. The practical man of affairs had shown him how to carry out the dead woman's wishes without unnecessary harm to the living.

Philip entered.

"Well, did you succeed?" asked Haggleton, watching Gentle out of the corner of his eye.

"Indeed I did," exulted the young man. "I got the kneading machine on credit with a hundred dollars paid down."

"And how about the flour?"

"The Wisconsin mills will furnish it to the combination at 15 per cent off the jobbers' price."

"They will accept thirty day notes from the different bakers?"

"Exactly. No trouble about it at all."

Haggleton turned to Gentle.

"You see," he pointed out, "we shall save on wages and material. We'll do a bigger business because we'll sell better bread—and cheaper bread."

Then he turned to Philip again.

"How many bakers have come into the combination?" he asked.

"Six so far, but we can get more."

"Get more?" echoed the millionaire.

"Why, within ten days all the little bakers on the east side will be tumbling over themselves to get in."

"They've got to come in," began Philip grimly, "or—"

[See us continue.]

The Greys and the Snakes.
"Strolling in Surma one day," as the writer in the London Field, "came to a ditch bridge, and about ten yards there was a mass of black snakes caused by buffaloes rolling over the bridge was a small brown snake and two feet in length. This snake is an ordinary jungle inhabitant and is very venomous. Surrounding him were a mob of some dozen crows. When the snake attempted to escape the nearest bird would jump in and peck at the tail. The crows gathered kept just out of the snake's reach, on three separate occasions the bird were struck."

"Immediately on being bitten a few drops of the wet mud and a few drops of the four mouthfuls out a pause. It then perched on a tree and took no further part in the fight. The incident ended in the snake escaping between the planks of the bridge. What interests me is why the stricken birds at the mud? Was it taken as a kind of antidote or what was the reason?"

The Rainbow.

When a ray of sunlight falls on a raindrop it is refracted; then part of the light is reflected from the internal surface and again refracted on leaving the drop. The white sunlight is not only refracted when it enters and leaves the drop, but dispersion also takes place. The eye sees bright circles of light for each kind of light, and since sunlight is made up of different kinds of homogeneous light we get a series of circular arcs showing the spectrum colors, the red being outside and the other colors following in the order of descending wave length. The whole constitutes a primary rainbow. A secondary bow is sometimes seen outside the first. This is formed by the light being twice reflected inside the raindrops. The less refrangible rays are on the inner side. Rainbows due to still more internal reflections are too feeble to be observed. It is possible to get a white rainbow if the sun is clouded or if there is a mixture of raindrops of very different sizes.

Male Fashions in 1850.

Male fashions of 1850 had other discomforts besides long hair. Trousers were tight and buttoned under the foot with broad straps. Every man who aspired to be well dressed wore his coat so high in the collar that the back of the hat rested on it. This fashion was so prevalent that, according to Sir Algernon West, "every hat had a crescent of cloth on the back of the brim to prevent the rubbing of the beaver or imitation beaver of which the hat was made, for silk hats were not then invented." And from the same authority we learn that "opera hats were unknown, and in the evening a folding chapeau bras was always carried under the arm. Nobody but an apothecary or a solicitor would have dreamed of leaving his hat in the hall of the house where he was calling or dining."—London Chronicle.

Dr. Yates' Trousers.

St. Catharine's was the first Cambridge college to produce a don who dared to stagger humanity by wearing trousers. He was Dr. Lowther Yates, "a large, square man from Cumberland," suspected of radical opinions, who was master of "Cats" during the closing years of the eighteenth century. As Yates, when vice chancellor, walked in procession to the university church, wearing trousers instead of the orthodox knee breeches, somebody shouted from a window: "Gadsdons, gadsdons. Lowther Yates in pantaloons! The profane impromptu poet was captured and proved to be Yates' own nephew. "Gadsdons!" was a Cumberland expiatory with which Yates was wont to express intense astonishment.—Westminster Gazette.

Genesis of the Horsehoe.

It is known that the hoofs of horses were protected by boots of leather at a very early period in the world's history—a time which at least antedates Pliny and Aristotle, both of whom make mention of the fact. These leather boots were sometimes studded with metal nails, but more usually worn without extra trimming, the cheapness of that commodity making it possible for the owner of the steed to "reboot" him at any time.

A Strong Cup.

"Guest (in cheap restaurant)—Look here, waiter, I thought I told you to bring me a strong cup of coffee? Waiter—Well, what's the matter with that cup? You couldn't break it with an ax."

Feminine Tactics.

"Why are you talking about a trip to Europe? It would cost your husband $1,000 or more."

"Quite so. I expect to compromise on a sixty dollar hat."—Exchange.

"Is your wife a lover of outdoor sports?"

"I should say so. She's bargain or house hunting all the time."—Detroit Free Press.

"How shall I break my husband of playing poker?"

"Just break him and keep him that way."—Cleveland Leader.

Siberian Camels.

The native camels of Siberia are a source of constant wonder to travelers. On the Mongolian plateau, for instance, the thermometer often registers a temperature of 40 degrees below zero, but the camels do not mind it at all, walking about as blithely as if the weather were as balmy as spring. On the other hand, the temperature on the cold desert in summer is sometimes 140 degrees above zero, and the beasts build that heat just as little as they do the extreme cold.

The Glory of the Nazarene

By Rev. Wm. E. Throe, D. D.

And we beheld his glory.—John 1:14.
That a citizen of the earth, some nineteen centuries ago, a certain Syrian Jew, one Jesus of Nazareth, lived a life that was a life of glory, is the thing that is here said. Other things are said, but our matter of fact is this. It is not a theological vision, but a plain record. "The word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, and we beheld his glory."

Not that to the son of Zebedee theological vision was wanting. To him the historic Jesus of his generation was an eternal, ineffable something known as the Word of God. "In the beginning was the word and the word was with God, and the word was God," and "The word was made flesh and dwelt among us." As speech is a revealing, a message, from the soul invisible, so the Christ was a word from God. Further, this Christ was with John the potent universal Creator. "All things were made by him and without him was not any thing made that was made." This same Creator and word has also life and light. "In him was life, and the life was the light of men." There may be existence without light, but existence without life there is not, and that new thrilling thing, the key of being, the light of the world, and the secret of destiny, is in the Christ. Surely the invisible and everlasting Jesus shone zenith high in the eyes of John, and there was theological vision in play. But it was this vision became flesh and dwelling among us that was the immediate concern. One too poor for where to lay his head; barren of social prestige, without culture of the schools, writing no books, showing scant regard for organism or institutions, setting the sword into its sheath, begging himself deliberately of every arm of power in honor with the ages, and so mighty as to bend and rock the earth with his tread, making men suspect him nothing less than God, was a spectacle unspeakable for a Galilean fisherman. Fifty years and more he remembers what his eyes have seen, and only the greatest words under the sun and stars are able to tell his tale. "And we beheld his glory."

The glory of the Christ life may be seen earliest, possibly, in that it is the only one of its kind. It was a unique life. Jesus Christ was one, "only begotten." In all the ages he has no fellow. When Napoleon said: "Not one is like him," he had this vision. It is of the genius of greatness to carve a niche for itself, to fly in its own orbit, to evermore walk lonely. Moses, Aristotle, Caesar, Shakespeare, are memories of the forgotten, and live among the dead. So there was never another like the Son of Mary. Reverence is born of respect, and worship of the Christ may well begin by finding him among the solitary few. History can neither be written nor read without mention of His name. Jesus of Nazareth is even now Jesus of the planet.

But the glory of Christ is unique, especially, in being such a glory to the mind of God. Jesus is the only begotten "of the Father." A complement of benediction gathers its music and fragrance from its source. The great of earth must read their glory, always, in a revised version. The noontide light of one generation fades in another to a smoking taper. "Call no man happy until he is dead," is an ancient epigram. Only the judgments of the immortals stand. That the life of the Christ is a glory with the Eternal, is at once a patent of worth and a call to prayer. That worship of the historic Jesus is not rank idolatry finds its one reason here; he is in time a veritable manifestation of the eternal God. Forevermore the Almighty Father exists in some fashion as a revealer, and in this fashion never repeats himself. "In the beginning was the word and the word was with God." Like the shock of earthquake or the rising of the sun this divine word breaks into human history as Jesus of Nazareth and passes on, and very rightly men tarry in reverence at his feet. That human soul which sees in Christ a unique, solitary, unsharable revealing of God alone may worship him. He may admire, respect, follow, but to bend the knee and say prayers he must see God. That there is none other name under heaven or given among men; that there is but one Lord, one faith, one baptism, we adore the Christ, "And we beheld his glory."

This leads me naturally to say that the glory of the Christ life is seen also in its transcendence. It is a biography evermore parting from men carried out of their vision. "The darkness comprehended it not." The world knew him not. "His own received him not." Men face the Christ not only with mortal opposition, but with mental collapse. They reject him as surely that they are little as they are wicked. Their logic falls in a heap. They walk by faith or stagger to the dust. Unless they believe on his name, receive him, are given right and power to be sons of God, are veritably born again, they never catch the glory of the Christ. A simply human Christ, a Christ who is not transcendent, turns every Christian church into a heathen temple, baptism to an empty, wicked farce, the bread and wine to symbols of a gigantic lie, and Christian people everywhere into the most miserable of men.

Peckem, who had loved and won, Once let this sentence fall: "It's better to have loved and lost, Than never to have loved at all."

Rubbing It In.

Baptist—Yess, several years ago I fell in love with a girl, but she rejected me, doncher know—made a regular fool of me.

Miss Knox—Now, that what I call a meanly shame. I've often wondered how it happened.

LINKING THE BRITISH EMPIRE

Marconi Has Plan to Connect Important Points by Means of Wireless.

William Marconi is trying to get the British government interested in a scheme by which he would link the British empire around the globe, a London dispatch to the New York Times says. He would first establish communication between England and Australia by covering a distance of about 13,000 miles by 11 wireless stations. These sections he sets out as follows:

England, Malta, Cairo, Aden, Bombay, Colombo, Singapore, Perth, Adelaide, Sidney and Wellington, in New Zealand.

"Branching from this chain at Singapore," explained Mr. Marconi, "would be the link to China—a 1,600-mile service between Singapore and Hongkong."

Mr. Marconi has mapped out two routes to South Africa, one leading from Aden to Mombasa, Durban and Cape Town, and the other from England to Bathurst, Sierra Leone, St. Helena and Cape Town. Thus an alternate route to India could be secured, with Cape Town as a great central station.

He points out that the wireless communication with the western hemisphere is already made by stations at Clifton, Ireland and Glace Bay, Cape Breton, a distance of 2,500 miles.

"Also in my imperial chain," he added, "is a station at Montreal to communicate with Jamaica, 1,900 miles away, and also with British Guiana, 1,300 miles from Jamaica. And the British Guiana station would also offer a direct link with Bathurst (western Africa), 2,700 miles away."

The Hardest Working River.

The hardest working river, the one most thoroughly harnessed to the mill wheels of labor in the United States, probably in the world, is the Blackstone. It is not a large river, either. Its drainage area is only about 453 square miles and in its power-producing section it is only 43 miles long; a very Tom Thumb of a river as rivers go in America. Yet the doughty little stream produces 23,000-horse power, 50 for every square mile of its drainage area. If you will figure out this amount of horse power in terms of coal you will find that the busy little stream represents a capitalization of about $25,000,000. This is twice the developed horse power of any other important river. Almost a hundred mills, catching with their whirling turbines its water almost from the very source in the city of Worcester, Mass., line its banks and grow in size and importance till in Woonsocket and Pawtucket, R. I., you have some of the largest of their kind in the country.—Technical World Magazine.

The Fascination of Corn Cutting.

Corn cutting always has a fascination for me, writes E. P. Powell in the Outlook Magazine. I like to see the farmer grip the tall stalks with a stout hand and, deftly holding them, clip them with a quick stroke of a knife. Around the bundle when it is gathered he twists a slimmer stalk, and tucks the ends tightly under. It is a tidy art, for a twist may lack just the inch that holds the bundle.

The farmer's work develops quick judgment as well as deftness of hands, and so it is a good school, for it makes the brain and the hands work together. The boy who follows with a fork should be able to lift the bundle and build a stack that will resist the wind. When the huskers come, every ear should have been kept well up from the ground, and the stalks so well ventilated that there is no smell of mildew.

Queer Wedding Customs.

There is a curious custom still prevalent in the Bolary district of India in connection with the wedding ceremonies among certain Brahmin families.

Just prior to the close of the feasting, a hideous effigy of a male figure, fantastically robed in rags, supposed to represent the bridegroom's father, is carried along the streets in procession, under the shade of a sleeve adorned with tassels of onions and marigold leaves.

Every few yards during the procession the feet of the effigy have to be reverently washed and its forehead decorated with a caste mark by its living spouse, the bridegroom's mother. The bridegroom's other female relatives have several mock attentions paid to them by the women of the bride's party.

Napoleon's Name.

A Greek scholar has called attention to a very curious coincidence about the name of Napoleon. If you take away the first letter of his name, you have "apoleon;" take away the first letter of that word, and you have "poleon;" do this successively down to the last syllable, and you have "leon," "eon" and "on." Put these several words together in this order, Napoleon onoleon onoleon onoleon onoleon, and you have a Greek phrase the literal translation of which is "Napoleon the lion of peoples, went about destroying cities."—Unidentified.

Was a Fool Question.

Mother—You were a long time in the conservatory with Mr. William last night, my child. What was going on?

Daughter—Did you ever sit in the conservatory with papa before you married him?

Mother—I suppose I did.

Daughter—Well, mamma, it's the same old world.

Doubt.

Doubt is the vestibule which all must pass before they can enter into the temple of wisdom; therefore, when we are in doubt and puzzle out the truth by our own exertions, we have gained something that will stay by us, and which will serve us again. But if, to avoid the trouble of the search, we avail ourselves of the superior information of a friend, such knowledge will not remain with us; we have not brought it home to us.

IN THE REAR APARTMENT

Only in New York are such accommodations possible. We are very near neighbors. Our two apartment houses approach each other as closely as the law permits, and our windows are exactly on a line. We had been enjoying the privacy of having a vacant flat before our windows were suddenly broken in upon. The windows so near our own were thrown open one day. Our neighbors had arrived. We decided at once that they were bride and bridegroom and that the colored servant had been in her family for a generation. They were very quiet neighbors, not in the least obtrusive or noisy, and without ever speaking to them, after the New York fashion, we came to regard them with quite a neighborly spirit. The daily routine of the bride's apartment soon became very familiar. We knew the hours of their meals, their plans for calls and callers. If the bridegroom were late in coming home or the couple went away for a day we knew it, and their doings supplied much of our small gossip.

One summer's night when the windows were thrown open by a sudden commotion. An elderly gentleman, obviously a doctor, hurried in and saw a group gathered anxiously about the bed. What is left to flat dwellers of the spirit of neighborliness was aroused. The little bride was very ill. The lights burned in her room throughout the night; nor did the doctor leave till daybreak. Out of pure sympathy we slept little that night. Then followed a long illness, which we watched with anxious attention. When the doctor's visits changed from three visits a day to a single call it was a source of relief for us all, and one bright morning, weeks after, the little bride appeared in her chair before the window. Silently we all rejoiced in her improvement. She looked very pretty and very fresh in her gayly colored dressing gown, with its profusion of pink ribbons. And each day the great bouquet of flowers before her was renewed.

A week passed and then one day we noticed the little bride from the window. She had gone back to bed and again the doctor came regularly at first, daily, but soon, to our consternation, twice each day. Later, however, the calls became fewer and once again the little bride took up her place by the window. But it was a greatly changed little figure, which bent straight to our hearts. The gay dressing gown was gone, and we were the pink ribbons, and the face looked drawn and pale. Then the effort proved beyond her strength and we saw her no more.

But one night our attention was attracted to the window again and we watched fearfully with anxious hearts. Two doctors and a nurse were obviously working with desperate haste. One, two, three hours passed and then the lights were turned down and the curtain, which had been forgotten, was drawn. We knew all, and throughout that night the loss seemed to be our own. The next morning we saw the undertakers enter the room with their hideous tools.

And the pathetic little family has not yet gone out of our life. The husband and the old colored maid still live in the apartment. At first we were amazed that he should stay on alone among so many memories, but we have decided that these memories are all that he has left. He sits by the windows alone in the early evening with the room darkened. We feel that we know his heart and that he is bound to us by the bonds of sympathy. But we have never so much as learned his name.

The Lady of the Telephone.
She is more than five feet tall, she is neat, she is quick, she is never dull, she is invisible when most effective—she is the girl who must be consulted before you can get the telephone you want, says the Baltimore Sun. "The government experts find that she can answer 225 calls a minute without shedding a hairpin, but do not mention that she can give you the same wrong number three times in five minutes and cause attacks of apoplexy and indignation at both ends of the wire. She must be either very patient or very indifferent, this operator in the concrete, as well as the scalloped shallow as heavy scalloped. Even when the heavier linen is chosen it must be fine, not stiff, the sort of a bib that is a real protection. Every bib should have a quilted lining underneath it. This is made of two thicknesses of linen either the same grade as outside or coarser. Cut it in the shape of the bib, but a little smaller.

RUGS AND WALLS IN HARMONY

To Have the Floor the Darkest Tone Is Always a Safe Decorative Rule to Follow.

A floor should be the lowest or darkest tone in the room, then the walls and the ceiling the lightest or highest. This is the natural way and the safest to follow as a general rule. It gives a feeling of firmness and solidity to the floor, whereas, if the order is reversed and the floor is lighter than the ceiling, one feels that the ceiling is coming down on one's head and that dodging is the only way to escape a blow. The floor should support the walls in color as well as in fact, but care must be taken not to make the mistake of thinking that strength of color is obtrusiveness of color. Strength of color in the right place will make the scheme of decoration a successful and satisfying one, but obtrusiveness of color will make a hopeless failure of it, declares a writer in the Woman's Home Companion.

The chief color of the rug should be the chief color of the walls—not necessarily the same tone, but harmonizing tones of the same shade. If the walls are a soft yellow, a rug with different shades of brown, and to give the needed note of contrast, dull soft red and blues would look well in the room. This kind of rug would also go well with green or blue walls. The proportion of the different colors in a rug may make or mar it for one's special use. In choosing a rug it is best to have a feeling of one predominant color, with the other colors adding the snap that contrast gives and forming a harmonious and delightful whole.

Before finally deciding on a rug, ask to have it sent to the house to try in the spot for which it is intended, because what looks quite wonderful in the shop may prove quite unsatisfactory in the house. Be sure to try it with the light against the nap and then with it; one will be astonished to see what a difference in the appearance of the rug it makes.

FOULARD WAIST

Blouse of pale blue dotted fouldard ornamented with motifs of guipure. The yoke and sleeve caps are cut in one piece and are of the silk, shirred and trimmed with guipure. The undersleeves, also of the material, are finished with deep cuffs of the guipure. The sash is of plain silk.

Interchangeable Scarf.

The possibilities of the chiffon and the mousseline scarves have never been greater, for, as they appear with almost every costume, madame may obtain an indefinite number of effects by the exercise of merely ordinary ingenuity.

A single scarf may be made to do duty at once for veil and hat trimming while driving, walking or motoring, and the same scarf may appear as a shawl in the afternoon as a swathing sash, or even as one of the new Henry III. mantles. In the evening the scarf may again form part of the costume, either as a shoulder throw or as a mantle.

Veil scarfs of soft silk chiffon may be procured in shades of taupe, natural, blue, rose, ecru, khaki and green, besides all the usual pastel shades and black and white. Many, too, may be found with edges hand-painted or embroidered, while others are printed in soft and lovely Persian shades. The woman with the scarf may be far more entrancing and beautiful than even the woman with the fan.

When Making Baby's Bib.

It is a mistake to make a baby's bib of too sheer material. A fine soft linen of opaque quality makes a serviceable as well as a dainty bib. Keep the scalloped shallow as heavy scalloped. Even the daintiness of the embroidery. Run when the heavier linen is chosen it must be fine, not stiff, the sort of a bib that is a real protection. Every bib should have a quilted lining underneath it. This is made of two thicknesses of linen either the same grade as outside or coarser. Cut it in the shape of the bib, but a little smaller.

Gloves with Circles.

The smart gloves that many fashionable women are wearing has the back heavily embroidered with circles in colored silk. This is in the color, if not tone, as the kid of the gloves.

To Tell Right Side of Goods.

In making up dresses of wool serge it is a time saver to learn that the serge weave's twill always runs to the right on the right side of the goods.

For the Housewife.

Stuffed potatoes are made by mixing cheese and bread crumbs in with the contents.
When boiling fresh potatoes try putting a sprig of mint in the water to give a delicious flavor to the vegetables.
Pistachio figures in hard or alabaster finish are easily cleaned by dipping a stiff toothbrush in gasoline and scrubbing into all the crevices.

A LITTLE ABOUT EVERYTHING

Some Labor Savers for the Housewife—Wooden Bowl the Best for Washing Glass.

Have a wooden bowl for washing glass if possible, and keep it specially for the purpose, for it is impossible to polish glass if there be any trace of grease in the water used for washing it. Some people like hot water and some use cold for washing glass. Good effects may be obtained with either if the polishing be done carefully with nice dry soft towels.

Window glass, lamps and lamp glasses, marble and stone vases or mantels, granite sills, etc., if rubbed with salt are quickly cleaned.

Always keep the inside of your coffee pot bright and insure good coffee. Boil it out occasionally with soap, water and wood ashes and scour thoroughly.

When eggs are scarce and they are needed for puddings, a dessertspoonful of cornstarch may be substituted for one egg.

Bread dressing may be served with a pot roast as well as one put in the oven. The bread should be baked separately in a cake tin.

When vells are washed at home they usually come out quite limber and shiny. To give them stiffness add a pinch of sugar to the rinse water.

If when ironing anything white you find a soiled spot, dampen a piece of white cloth and put a little cream of tartar on, then rub the soiled spot; you will be surprised to see it disappear.

When using stale bread for puddings always soak it in a cold liquid. Bread that has been soaked in cold milk or water is light and crumbly, whereas that soaked in hot liquids is heavy.

The Home.

Cracks in the woodwork around sinks may be filled with melted paraffin or bits of wax candle that are too small to use as lights.

Sandbars will get stale much sooner if they are put in a stone jar. They should go in airtight tin. Ginger snaps, on the other hand, are improved by keeping in a stone jar. The mother who does her own sewing saves her own time and the children's tempers by keeping a memorandum of their different measurements, instead of taking them for each garment to be made.

Before muffs are put away for the season they should be held by the cord and twirled so the hairs come straight. They should then be put in their boxes and a piece of paper pasted over the crack between the lid and the box.

If tissue paper is wrapped around silver before it is slipped into the cotton fannel bags it will need much less cleaning.
Silver polishing is made less laborious if badly tarnished articles are boiled in soda water before whitening is used.

Eggs a la L'Espagnol.

Tomatoes, green pepper and cream are other ingredients for this delicious and filling dish. Drain a can of whole tomatoes of superfluous liquid, put them in a baking dish and add two green peppers, denuded of seeds and pith, a gill of pure cream, a little butter, cayenne, salt and a shaving of garlic if this taste is liked. Let the dish bake slowly three-quarters of an hour, adding cream or good milk if it gets too dry. Then, a few minutes before serving, carefully break six eggs, side by side, on top and let the dish bake further until these have poached. Serve on crisp buttered toast made of white bread.
