A good first class hotel, adequate to the wants of our town and in keeping with the business places, private homes and the general spirit of progress and improvement pervading the community, has become a pressing necessity and one that must be provided for at an early day, by some means or other, if Salisbury expects to draw patronage outside of its own corporate limits. People who come to see, or to deal have a right to expect proper hotel accommodations, and they will not be slow to criticize the lack of them. It is getting to be a little monotonous to hear wailers ask "where is your best hotel?" They pass along our business streets, see handsome and commodious stores, with ample stock of goods and merchandise, with the signs of business energy on every hand; passing on to the east or west end of the town, they see a few small, old-fashioned houses, and they do not wonder at the lack of them. Have they not reason to ask, what of your accommodations for strangers? How fares the traveler in your midst?

Are you mindful of the comfort of the wayfarer as of your own ease and luxury?
We are not a people retired from business and living on goodly incomes and independent of our labor. We count business from abroad, we invite people from a distance to come and see us, we assume to offer special inducements in the line of trade. We owe it to them and to our own best interests to make them adequate and attractive accommodations. We mean no reflection upon the hotels we have, nor do we bear any complaint of them. They are well kept, but the fault is that they do not meet the demands of the town and were never expected to do so.

The next question is what class of hotel do we require? We do not advocate an extravagant and high priced affair such as we have heard and talked about, something "upish and tony." It should be a building with modern improvements and appointments, with ample and goodly accommodations, not especially attractive for expensive ornamentation, nor yet repulsive for plainness. In fact it should be a hotel in harmony with the buildings and business of the place, to cost from $150,000 to $200,000 at the outside.

But where's the money to come from? Aye, there's the rub. A good deal has been said about our merchants taking stock. But say they, we have built extensively and stocked largely our stores and there is a bottom to our purse. It is true that our business men's capital consists very largely in business, and that, energy and general good-will, and that while they are not merchants, they are not men of means, yet we venture to suggest that there is no class of our citizens whose interest is so deeply involved in this subject as our merchants, and not the large ones only, but the small ones as well. If big trade comes to the town, the small dealer will get a due proportion and thereby thrive according to his business, but if the trade becomes small the large dealer will have to contract his borders and husband his resources, but the small dealer having but limited resources must fail, or go out of business.

The indirect profit to the merchant from his stock in the hotel, would be greater because of the increase of trade, than the direct profit from dividends. But let us not expect too much from the merchant. Remember that what will help the town helps every citizen thereof. We are pleased to learn that the Board of Trade are taking an active interest in the enterprise and they are men of deeds and not words.
Now that the Advertiser has built the hotel, what'll it pay for it.

A Ship of Logs.

Various efforts have been made from time to time to convey large rafts of timber from one point to another by sea, but hitherto without encouragement to persevere. In late years it has been not an uncommon feat to tow timber rafts from Norfolk to Baltimore by the Chesapeake bay, though even on this land-locked body of water such a performance is very difficult, and it is at times hard to keep the logs together. Last spring an attempt was made to transport a raft of 40,000 logs from Nova Scotia to New York, but the raft was wrecked, the timber was scattered over the sea, and thirty thousand dollars were lost by the venture. On this occasion the chief feature of interest in the undertaking was the boldness of the enterprise which entrusted so much material in bulk to be towed by steam over the rough sea. The failure of the enterprise however, has not deterred the projector from making another effort, to accomplish the object for the very desirable commercial benefits it will insure. In the new attempt a raft has been made by binding and bolting together thirty thousand logs in the form of a ship's hull 200 feet long, 30 feet wide and 35 feet deep, and using sails to aid the powerful tug which will be employed in towing the huge craft in favorable weather, and enabling the log ship to take care of itself in rough weather. The ship of logs has been completed at Kingsport, Nova Scotia, on the Bay of Fundy. The craft is described as a monstrous and unwieldy affair, but so strongly put together that there is reasonable ground for anticipating its success. The logs composing the raft are bound together by thirty-five tons of wire rope, besides being firmly bolted. All the inside logs are in the rough, but the whole is covered by a sheathing of thick planks on an outside, coming to a sharp point at the bow, with a heavy cut-water. The bows are full, and running aft to the waist the breadth widens to 65 feet, and thence aft the lines follow those of a clipper ship. Six spars seventy feet high are built into the structure to serve as masts, and five of the masts will be rigged with square sails, and it is designed that they shall carry an immense spread of canvas. A description of the building of this novel structure says: "The logs had in them lapping over one another, the whole resting in an enormous cradle built of spiles. A massive chain runs through the centre of the logs for its entire length. This chain is made of welded iron, the links being 14 inches thick. At a distance of ten feet, are cross chains, with links four inches long and three inches wide. These run in all directions, and are clamped on the outside by cross-arms of wood. The towing line will be attached to the main chain, and the transverse chains are so arranged that the draught on the main chain binds the whole mass together in a grip that will make next to impossible for it to go to pieces. The greater strain on the main chain the tighter the raft will be held together. Still further precautions are taken by the use of thick white rope, which will be bound about the logs midway between each cross chain. The raft will thus be bound together by chains and steel wire at every five feet. The masts will be almost as solid as the trunk of a tree. Its weight is estimated at 20,000 tons." It is calculated that the ship will draw 22 feet of water. If the towing steamer from any cause drops the ship, the sails will be used to keep her steady. It is claimed that the sails will be sufficient to sail the ship unaided by towing, but this is doubted. A comfortable deck-house has been built aft for the shelter of the crew, which will number fifteen persons. The course laid down for the ship of logs in straight from the Bay of Fundy through Long Island sound to Erie basin in New York city, where the raft will be dismantled and pulled to pieces and the timber sold. It is said that the timber in this great pile would fill a hundred schooners. The cost of the logs in Nova Scotia is said to have been $13,000, and that their sale in New York would realize $50,000. The cost of building and towing deducted would leave a tempting margin of profit, and the result is looked to with interest not only by people in the lumber trade but by vessel-owners in the carrying business.

RAIN STORMS.

Damaged by Rising Rivers—Heavy Wash-outs on the Railroads.
PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 9.—Two destructive storms have visited this section during the past two days. Rain, with thunder, lightning and hail and violent winds, swept a territory within a radius of 35 miles, doing a large amount of damage. Bridges were swept away, buildings unroofed, trees and fences blown down, and crops are in a deplorable condition. Two fatalities are reported: John Thompson, a farmer, was instantly killed by lightning. Howard James attempted to ford a swollen stream at the accustomed place and was washed down with the torrent. Last night the second storm added to the destruction. Trees were blown down, cellars flooded, foundations undermined and a large amount of damage done. Several inches of rain fell, rushing through the streets like a mill race. Roads were washed out and telegraph lines prostrated.

KANSAS CITY, July 9.—The most disastrous storm that has visited Kansas for years raged from 9 o'clock last night until 2. During the height of the storm Eighteenth street for seven blocks became a turbulent river, which flooded all the houses to a depth of two feet, and at Twenty-third and Vine the fifteen-foot culvert was inadequate to the immense volume of water which backed up, carrying away two houses, the inmates of which were only rescued with the greatest difficulty. Those who saw the storm say that it was undoubtedly a cyclone. Reports of death and destruction are numerous, but at this hour no fatalities have been verified. It is reported that a family of four, named Williams, was washed away and drowned, but so far no bodies have been recovered.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 9.—Advises from Montpelier, Ind., state that a terrific wind and hail storm, followed by rain, passed near there Saturday evening, leveling fences, trees and small buildings. Hail fell in great quantities and the corn crop is damaged to the extent of thousands of dollars. The farm-house of John Mosburg was struck by lightning and demolished. The occupants—the farmer, with his wife and daughter—escaped injury. The country in the track of the storm is flooded with water.

PITTSBURG, July 9.—A Uniontown special says: Redstone creek has broken its bounds and submerged all the low lands of the town. Men are carrying women out of their houses to higher places. The farm-house of John Mosburg was struck by lightning and demolished. The occupants—the farmer, with his wife and daughter—escaped injury. The country in the track of the storm is flooded with water.

At Brownfield the yard tracks were washed out, and twenty feet of water is standing in a cut of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Two railroad bridges from above town have been carried away and lodged against a trestle in Uniontown. The Uniontown express is still lying here, being unable to proceed further south on account of washouts. The rain is still pouring down, but it is thought the worst is passed. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge at Triadelphia was carried off by the high waters during the storm.

The continuous rainfall of the past twenty-four hours has resulted in numerous washouts on the railroads leading to this city, and trains were badly delayed tonight, but as far as known there were no serious accidents. Many of the small streams at the headwaters of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Youghiogheny rivers, have overflowed their banks, causing considerable damage to property. The rivers are rising rapidly tonight, but it is not anticipated that they will reach flood height.

A Royal Quarrel.

BELMONT, July 9.—King Milan has for many months been the subject of the most bitter and malicious attacks of the press of the United States. He has been accused of having a wife, who is now supposed to be in Weissenhof, to surrender to him the Crown Prince.

The Princess Masura, the aunt of Queen Natalie, has departed for Frankfurt with the intention of placing the Queen and her son under the protection of the Russian consular there.

Gen. Fluke on the Campaign.

DETROIT, Mich., July 9.—General Clinton D. Fluke is in the city on his outgoing tour, connected with the Swain election, of which he is one of the executives. In the course of an interview today he said he should make no speeches until September.

"Where do you expect to make your largest gains," was asked.
"We will gain largely in New York, probably increase the vote fifty per cent, drawing chiefly from the republicans. We will gain largely in New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee and Missouri, also in the New England States. Our gain in the North will come largely from the republican party; in the South from the democratic party. Our strength will be in the North, in all classes, white and black, except the uneducated negroes. The latter class seem to think that one of the boons conferred on them by Abraham Lincoln was the liberty to drink like their old masters."

Blood Will Tell.

There is no question about it—blood will tell—especially if it be an impure blood. Blotches, eruptions, pimples and boils, and all the symptoms of an impure blood, due to the impure action of the liver. When this important organ fails to properly perform its function of purifying and cleansing the blood, impurities are carried to all parts of the system, and the symptoms above referred to are merely evidences of the struggle of Nature to throw off the poisonous germs. Unless her warning be heeded in time, serious results are certain to follow, culminating in liver or kidney disorders, or even in consumption. Dr. Fier's Golden Medical Discovery will prevent and cure these diseases, by restoring the liver to a healthy condition.

Some two months ago at Shenandoah, Pa., Mrs. Margaret R. R. murdered her husband by splitting his skull with a hatchet. When the case was called for trial today it was discovered that the woman was a raving maniac. She will be sent to an insane asylum.

CONSUMERS' FLOOD ADULTERATION.

If consumers prefer to buy an adulterated article of food because it can be had at a lower price, they undoubtedly have the right to do so, provided the adulteration is not of a character injurious to health. If such articles are not sold as pure, and the customer is not deceived as to their real character, the transaction is not illegitimate.

But the greater danger in the traffic in adulterated food arises from the deception that is practiced by manufacturers usually claiming such goods as pure. This is almost invariably done when the adulteration is one that is injurious to health. For instance, manufacturers of alum baking powders not only fail to inform the public of the real character of their goods, but carefully conceal the fact that are made from these poisonous articles. Most of these manufacturers also claim that their articles are pure and wholesome, while some go still further and proclaim boldly that they are cream of tartar goods, or even the genuine Royal Baking Powder itself.

No consumer will buy alum baking powders knowingly, for it is well understood that they are detrimental to health. The sale of alum baking powders as pure and wholesome articles is, therefore, criminal, and it is satisfactory to notice that several persons engaged in such sale have already been brought to justice in the courts.

The official analysis have recently been active in the pursuit of these dishonest articles. The baking powders of several States have been carefully and critically examined. The officials are surprised at the large amount of lime and alum found in them. It is a suggestive fact that no baking powder except the Royal has been found without either lime or alum, and many contain both. Dr. Price's baking powder has been found to contain nearly 12 per cent. of lime, Cleveland's 11 per cent. of impurities, the phosphate powders over 12 per cent. of lime.

The chief service of lime is to add weight. It is true that lime, when subjected to heat, gives off a certain amount of carbonic acid gas, but a quicklime is left—a caustic of most powerful nature. A small quantity of dry lime upon the tongue, or in the eye, produces painful effects; how much more serious must these effects be on the delicate membranes of the stomach, intestine and kidneys, more particularly of infants and children, and especially when the lime is taken into the system day after day, and with almost every meal. This is said by physicians to be one of the causes of indigestion, dyspepsia, and those painful diseases of the kidneys now so prevalent.

Adulteration with lime is quite as much to be dreaded as with alum, which has heretofore received the most emphatic condemnation from food analysts, physicians and chemists, for the reason that while alum may be partially dissolved by the heat of baking it is impossible to destroy or change the nature of the lime so that the entire amount in the baking powder remains with all its injurious properties, into the stomach.

The large profits from the manufacture of lime and alum baking powders has placed many of them in the market. They are to be found in the stock of almost every retail dealer, and are urged upon customers calling for baking powders under all occasions. Because of their well-known detrimental character it is desirable that prompt means be taken to suppress their manufacture.

These baking powders are one of the chief aids to the cook in preparing bread and wholesome food. While those are to be obtained of well-established reputation, like the Royal, of whose purity there has never been a question, it is proper to avoid all others.
