REEDVILLE

We approached receiving from Mr. and Mrs. John C. Jett, of North Fulton avenue, Baltimore, an announcement of the marriage on the 24th of June of their daughter Sara Alice, and Mr. Arthur Franklin Holston. We have spent many happy hours in the hospitable home on Fulton avenue. Just a few years ago it was the bride of today was only a little girl, sweet and gracious in manner, beautiful in face and disposition. We could ask no better gift for her than a future as carefree and happy as her past has been.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fisher and their little son were in Baltimore last week, to see physicians about the little boy's ear. We do not know the result as yet, but John Jr. was looking fine, doing splendidly, we are glad to say after his former trip to the hospital.

Rev. R. U. Brooking of Fleeton, had his car "turn turtle" with him some days ago on the way to Christ Church Lancaster. Several ladies were with him, but fortunately no one was hurt. The car is doing just the same, minus the top.

Miss Margaret Davis, at Fleeton, Miss Mildred Towles and several other ladies here at Reedville, are taking subscriptions for "The Wicomico News" of Salisbury, Md. this week. Several prominent names have been enrolled.

While superintending threshing of his wheat crop one day last week, Mr. R. C. Blackwell, of Sunnybank, was taken sick and had to be carried to the house. Dr. Cockrell was summoned at once and has been attending him since. We are glad to know that he is improving and his many friends are hoping to see him out again soon.

Mr. T. H. Jett, after a few busy days at his home here, and at the Seaboard Office just over the creek, has returned to Chincoteague, going over the Potomac, Thursday afternoon. He reports not many fish being caught on the beach yet.

Capt. J. C. Fisher and Mrs. Fisher of "The Gables", Reedville, were in Baltimore last week.

Mr. G. N. Reed was out of town last week.

Extremely hot days with frequent thunder storms and plenty of rain, we have been having for two or three weeks. Our nights have been fine, still we have not experienced that actual "cold weather suffering" reported from Bristol, or in the Shady Valley, of the Holston Mountains, week when a heavy mantle of covered the ground several days.

Jack Crowther, of Savannah, is the only son of the late Dr. John A. Crowther, who sleeps in the quaint old room of his people here, and is welcome. Mr. Crowther is located in Boston but spends much of his time here.

Miss J. C. Steelman and her mother, Mrs. Freda Steelman, were in Reedville Saturday morning for their home at Ocean City, N. J., after spending some time with Capt. and Mrs. J. C. Fisher, at "The Gables."

Miss Hilda Haynie returned to Richmond Saturday taking with her a box of pretty little Ford tops. Miss Janie Marsh and Luther Marsh to visit their sister Mrs. Horace Echols. Hilda will return to her training at Grace Hospital, Richmond.

Mrs. T. H. Jett is at home here after spending a month with her sons and their families at Norfolk and Mt. Airy, Md.

Mr. T. H. Jett is here for a few days from the factory at Chincoteague to the pleasure of his family and friends. He leaves again Thursday on the "Potomac" for the beach.

Mr. Graham Evans, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Evans, of this place, a student of Randolph Macon College after one week at the Seaboard, left Sunday night for the Seaboard place, Chincoteague to fill a position for the summer.

Mr. Ralph Day has been at Reedville the past week visiting his mother and family. He is looking fine and being warmly welcomed.

The Willing Circle was delightfully entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Crowther, Friday night.

Miss Virginia Crowther is home from Blackstone bringing a friend, Miss Vise, from "Sunny Tennessee."

Capt. T. H. Haynie of the "East-hampton" had "shore leave" at home last week, being sick. He is better, we are glad to know.

Miss Anne Haggett Haynie of Reedville has been at Maryland University Hospital Baltimore, for a few weeks. She has entered upon a course of training and is greatly in love with the work. Friends are wishing her success in the splendid profession which she has chosen for her life's future.

Mrs. T. W. Haynie and her daughter, Miss Leah, are spending some time in Baltimore. The former is having her eyes looked after while away.

Quite a number of our traveling folk are learning the nearness and convenience of the Eastern Shore route and are crossing Chesapeake via the steamer Potomac to her nearest point, Crisfield, enroute to Salisbury and other places. Mrs. Arthur Booth and children of this place and Mrs. T. M. Carey and little boys of Lilliam were on board Thursday, on the way to Chincoteague to meet their husbands and put in a summer listening to what the "sand seavaves" are saying.

Mrs. Booth will be with the Seaboard Colony again. Mrs. Carey will be at some other factory for which her husband fishes.

Wallace Haynie and Sewell Marsh are with the Chesapeake Fisheries near Cape Charles, this summer.

Mr. Chas. Loffand, who was at Sandy Island helping the Chesapeake Fisheries in the fitting up process is now at home and has been sick the past week. We hope he will soon be up again. As machinist, he is ever in demand.

Misses Esther and Rosa Brooking from their work of teaching and studying in Washington, are now with their parents Rev. and Mrs. R. U. Brooking, at the Episcopal Rectory, Fleeton for the summer. They are very attractive and welcome visitors here.

Miss Todd Motley and Miss Lona Spilman, former teachers at the High School here, have recently been visiting friends in town. The former with Mrs. E. R. Perkins the latter at Mrs. John A. Haynie's. Miss Spilman now does government work in Washington.

Miss Motley taught last year at John Marshall High School, Richmond, but will now seek an accountant's position in Baltimore or cities farther north.

A card from Miss Mary Rice, last week states she is wonderfully pleased with the University of Virginia, and finds her course of study splendid. We are missing her here at Reedville.

Miss Flora Elizabeth Jett, of "Chestrut Point," accompanied the delegation from Bethany to Middlesex last week for the Missionary Conference. They came home Friday evening on the Plankatawke reporting a most interesting meeting, a royal entertainment and a delightful trip.

Miss Virginia Cockrell, of Reedville accompanied Miss Freda Steelman to her home at Ocean City, N. J., last week. Later she will be a guest of the Steelman family at their summer home in the New England Lake region. She writes she is having a delightful trip.

Many friends of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Perkins are very glad to know that Mr. Perkins has decided to remain in Northumberland and look after our roads instead of accepting the very good offer made him recently by King George Co., to superintend a piece of State road near the Court House. Mr. Perkins has built many miles of beautiful roads since he has been in this section and has made changes which seem almost magical in many places.

It gives one a real "Alice in Wonderland" feeling to ride through "Blackberry," entering at Crowder's Store and coming out on the Bridge Neck road near the old "John Brown Store." Always before just an impassable path through the woods with standing water and deep mud holes, it is now a wide, firm and beautiful road running through a colored settlement past thirty little farms, and to many cases pretty much the same.

The "Blackberry" has not have every reason to be so good of their country and also the convenience to their own.

A great deal of work has been done on the new road since it was first started, miles in, coming to

In Union Is Strength

is true in every undertaking in life. It is a great principle when applied to securities and investments. It is almost a truism that a security, widely held by a very large number of people is intrinsically a good security. Consider then the fifty thousand people who hold DOLLINGS securities.

Fifty thousand united in their high opinion of our securities, heartily cooperating in all our plans make a Union that is indeed STRENGTH.

As Four Horsemen Ride In

The four horsemen are stalking in the coal fields of the United States, despite the seeming uncertainty of the nation for an early settlement of the strike. Conquest, War, Poverty—and Death—these are the silent riders which mine families are facing hourly in the struggle between operators and miners. Even while President Lewis of the United Mine Workers was in Washington, conferring with Secretary of Labor Davis—(below), and later with President Harding, riot was ruling at Herrin, Ill., where forty were killed and many wounded before order was restored. Above is shown all that was left of the power house at a strip mine in Herrin, Ill., after dynamite and the torch had been applied. President Lewis refused to agree to plans proposed by President Harding and Secretary Davis to end the strike.

"Membership Day"

July 1 has been designated by National Commander Hanford MacNider of the American Legion as "Membership Day." To carry on the Legion's comprehensive program for the relief of service-men during the summer, Commander MacNider has urged a united front and an all-inclusive membership. By midnight of July 1, the Legion chief has requested, each post shall have increased its membership by at least 250.

WOMAN COULD NOT WORK

Made Strong and Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a tired, worn-out feeling and nervous prostration. I used to get up with a pain in my head and pains in my lower parts and back. Often I was not able to do my work. I read in your little book about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it. I feel so well and strong and can do every bit of my work and not a pain in my back now. I recommend your medicine and you can use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. PHIL. Just another case where a woman found relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few times these tired, worn-out feelings and pains about the body are from troubles only women have. The Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for just this condition. The good results are noted by the disagreeable symptoms passing away—one after another.

MY MOTHER.
I think the filial and parental attitudes are, as it were, interchangeable, and that as one grows up one begins to be naturally little the parent of one's parent. If I may put it that way, my mother became, as she grew up—or down—a charming child to her children.
We invented, when we were still in our teens, preposterous pet names for her which even here seem too foolish and too intimate to be set down. We were ravished to be able to protect her, probably even more ravished at rare intervals to be able to make her obey us as—at rare intervals—we had sometimes obeyed her.
As children grow older should not the parents grow younger? Should they not fairly soon become the same age and go on to the end, however, that end may come, as companions, playmates?
I hope I seem to no one to speak of senile decay, for my mother, at least, never grew, except in certain bodily infirmities, old. It was not that she wanted to "dress young" or to "behave young." There was never so far as I could see, any abatement of a firm, though quite unimpaired, dignity which naturally increased with her years. But she was young and gay and interested in those who were young and gay, and interested till the very end.

She would say So-and-so was not an old lady; she was only 70. When she herself was 70 she thought possibly were might be old people at 80. When she was 75, the aged had come to be those of 85. She herself did not look young, her hair grew a soft and lovely white, and her face wrinkled with the wisdom of long years.

But there was always a patch on her cheek of the same color which had stained those of the good little Adelaide at school. And within, her heart was blithe, as hearts are not always, be it said, even when the breasts that inclose them are young.

SCREENS POPULAR.

In 15 Southern States 14,990 houses were screened against flies and mosquitoes last year as a result of the efforts of home demonstration agents, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. Similar demonstrations and other measures for fly and mosquito control will be used again this year in parts of the country where flies and mosquitoes abound and screening of houses is not a common practice.

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer urinary disorders? Don't Despair—profit by Salisbury experiences. Salisbury people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Here's a Salisbury resident's statement.

Mrs. Alice Virginia Lohner, 318 William St., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of a very severe case of rheumatic pains. I suffered for three years and although I doctored and used different remedies I failed to get any relief. I was almost an invalid and every joint in my body ached and pained. My knees and limbs were swollen awfully and I could scarcely bend. I had dizzy, nervous spells and would be blinded at times. The least work tired me all out. My kidneys were also disordered and caused annoyance. I was very nervous, and couldn't sleep nights. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and I tried them. I used in all fourteen boxes and was cured of the trouble."

TRY NOTES

H. W. RICKEY

Let us today consider the care of the growing chickens, which for the past 12 or 14 weeks have been gaining rapidly in size and weight, and if this is to continue in anything like the same ratio larger and better ventilated quarters must be provided. Where the range is limited to a small area it should, if possible, be increased.

The old coops and brooders in most cases are overcrowded and something must be done to relieve this condition. Small and oftentimes poorly ventilated coops with the usual floor area of about 8 1/2 sq. ft. are not of sufficient size to properly house from 15 to 20 chicks weighing from one to two pounds or more each. In fact, the coop used on the average farm is not large enough to accommodate 15 one-half pound chicks comfortably, with the mother hen. By the time hot weather comes on the young stock should be weaned, grown and disposed sufficiently to be moved to the so-called "colony house," which should not be out on range. The ideal location for such a house is in an orchard adjoining grain, hay and pasture fields, with a stream of running water within easy reach of the chicks.

There are several satisfactory types of "colony houses" now in general use, the most common being the plain portable shed-roofed type, built on runners with front opening or partially opened, with one or two glass windows hinged so that they may be opened or closed to suit weather conditions. The average dimensions of these houses are: Height of front, 6 to 7 feet; width 6 feet; length, 6 to 8 feet, with a floor area of from 36 to 48 sq. feet. Many of these houses have almost the entire front open and covered with wire, the opening extending from the top plate down to within about 18 inches from the floor. There are also openings or windows placed in the side walls for greater circulation of air.

As can be seen, these houses with their high roofs are built with the convenience of the caretaker in mind, as a much less expensive and equally as satisfactory house can be used if we consider only the comfort of the chickens. It has a floor area of about 21 sq. ft., is 3 1/2 ft. wide and 6 ft. long, the front and back walls are 3 1/2 ft. high, supporting an ordinary peaked or A-shaped roof, the highest point of which "at the peak" is not more than four feet from the floor. The entire front and one side of the house is practically open, with strips of wood three inches wide, nailed upright to the frame, about two inches apart, with a door in the center. The front as it is thus constructed constitutes the only objection to this house as it stands, because of the labor and the difficult position one has to assume in cleaning it. This, however, may be easily overcome by using light material and nailing the strips to a frame made to fit the front and which can be quickly removed when the cleaning and spraying or the handling of the birds make it necessary to work in the house. The slatted front can be improved upon to some degree by using wire on the frames in place of the strips of wood, provided the front is protected somewhat from the rain and sun by rather low-hanging eaves. A colony house of this type may be easily moved from place to place on a small wagon or sled with one horse and set on posts, pieces of rocks or blocks of wood at least ten inches off the ground. In this, as in the larger house, there is a wood floor.

There is still another and cheaper house that I should like to recommend; its value has been demonstrated on a number of poultry farms, including that of the Rhode Island experiment station. Like the open house above described, it can only be used as a summer residence, while the shed-roofed house may be built for fall and winter use.

This low-priced house consists only of a frame skeleton supporting a roof, which is all the protection required by well feathered growing chickens in hot weather. No floor other than the earth is needed, but litter should be used and changed from time to time.

In all colony houses it is advisable to use roosts or perches. Dropping boards are needed only in the shed-roofed house, though we can do without them there. They can be used in the last house described if so desired, though they are not required. However, when dropping boards are not used the floor should be cleaned at least once a week. Reasonable cleanliness is imperative if we are to get the best results from our work. No other class of live stock seems to respond more readily to good sanitary conditions than does the poultry.

When the growing chickens are first moved from the coops or brooders to the larger quarters they will not roost in the perches, and with the heavier breeds, such as the Wyandottes and Plymouth Rocks, more or less training has to be done, and for several nights it is necessary to place some of the chicks on the roosts, and gradually the others will follow. Adjustable perches set rather close to the floor will encourage the chicks to roost.

At first they crowd on the floors in the corners of the houses, and as a result of this crowding many chicks are overheated and suffocated. Those that do not die outright grow weaker, their growth is checked and they develop colds and similar ailments. This may be almost entirely prevented by covering the floor of the house with uncut straw and banking it in quantities in the corners, and the chicks coming in at dusk, feeling the contact and warmth of the straw up around their bodies, settle down contentedly for the night. This plan may be used with like results when the heat of the brood stove is being taken away.

By this time the early hatched chickens should be removed to the colony house, and while this is being done the cockerels should be separated from the pullets and placed in a field or lot to themselves. This is often much easier said than done. To find separate runs where the chicks can all have good range is not always an easy thing to do, but if it can be done it ought to be done, if we are to get the most rapid growth and best development, especially in the pullets. As we are dependent upon them for our winter layers. Nothing should be left undone that will keep them growing. If two separate ranges are not available it would be well to cull out the cockerels and dispose of them as rapidly as possible, or as soon as they are ready for market, unless they can be caponized; in such condition they may run with the pullets, thus doing away with the necessity for separation. The cockerels when they are culled for market should be especially fed or fattened to produce marketable chicks with flesh of high quality, but this phase of the work will be discussed in another article.

The pullets upon which we depend for our future layers and the cockerels to be kept for breeding purposes should be fed for vigor, strength and quick growth. Give them, if possible, unlimited range with shade, feed a well proportioned ration, containing all the materials and in sufficient quantities for full development of all parts of the body. The amount of feed required may vary with the season and with the quality and variety of food substances found on the range.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her."

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since. I am sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

FRESH START MADE BY THE WHITE CLOUDS

Baseball Club Reorganized After Release Of Manager
Hoffman.

DIRECTORS GRANT THE DEPOSED MAN HEARING

After Stormy Session Board Unanimously Supports President Ruark's Action Which Public Sentiment Demanded—Team Is Reconstructed and Affairs Forgotten.

Baseball circles in this city were stirred to the innermost radius during the week commencing with Monday before the Fourth of July when President Harry Ruark, of the local club, gave Manager Hoffman his unconditional release and ending Saturday night when directors and stockholders of the club met and unanimously approved the action taken by their president.

For some time a storm has been brewing in the local baseball camp, and raucous had been the gossip on the street corners and other favorite stands over the failure of the White Clouds to make an appreciable showing in the new shore league. Public opinion was concerted in the judgment that the team's leader, Harry Hoffman of Wilmington and a player of long experience in higher baseball realms, was to blame. Sentiment seemed to be practically unanimous that the veteran was no longer in shape to take an active part in the game and that therefore his services as playing manager had considerably decreased in value.

Over two score recruits had been watched perform on the diamond and approximately the same number released. The first three weeks of playing under organized had witnessed a different lineup for Salisbury each day and yet no progress was made in reaching the top rung of the ladder.
The team was becoming disgusted and the new was beginning to feel the effects of lost patronage and financial support.

The issue came to a head on Wednesday following the 4th when Manager Hoffman received his release from the president of the club. But complete settlement had not been effected, the deposed manager claiming to be the victim of street corner gossip, malicious attacks from designing individuals and disloyalty on the part of a number of players on the team. He accordingly asked for a hearing before the board of directors in order that he might be given a chance to present his side of the matter.

Such a meeting was not effected until Saturday night when about a dozen of the club and some of the heaviest stockholders gathered together in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.
President Ruark, Manager Hoffman and representatives of the press were also present.

Mr. Ruark in stating the position of the club said that he entertained no hard feeling whatever against Manager Hoffman but that things didn't go right from the very start of the season and that after consistent losing streaks had been encountered by the White Clouds, Manager Hoffman came to be regarded as an unsuitable playing manager and that back-ers of the club were insistent upon a change and therefore he, as president of the Salisbury Baseball Club was forced to act.

Mr. Hoffman then took the floor and began to set forth his side of the affair. Acknowledging that age and recent sickness had partially incapacitated him for playing, he went on to say however that had all forces been equal he would have turned out a winning team for this city. But he was handicapped from the outset by having a number of players signed up

CUCUMBER MARKET HAS EXPERIENCED A SLUMP

Prices Drop Materially As Heavy Shipments of Carelessly Graded Products Are Made.

Most markets in local agricultural circles during the past week was the distinct slump in the cucumber market. With the coming of the first part of the week, prices on this vegetable dropped alarmingly and reached levels of only 40c and 50c per hamper.

Because of its widespread methods of distribution the Wicomico Farmer's Association through the selling forces of the American Fruit Growers Inc. managed to maintain a steady market than competitors.

However the slump experienced in the cucumber market was experienced by all and officials of the above organization stated that it was due to careless and indifferent grading and packing. The warm weather coupled with the recent rains produced an enormous growth which the farmers hastened to pack and ship, and consequently the quality of the products was interfered with to a large extent.

Cantaloupes are expected in about July 25th and a large yield is looked for by all parties. The Farmer's Association is preparing to handle a large output as the demand for the Maryland "lopie" is fast increasing.

THURSDAY A GALA DAY FOR THE TALL CEDARS

Lodge's Members And Guests Will Witness Double Header at Gordy Park. Ceremony in Evening.

Tall Cedars of Salisbury and neighboring country will occupy the time light on Thursday of this week which has been designated as "Tall Cedar Day" and will be observed in the afternoon at Gordy Park with a double header between the White Clouds and Parsley. Originally a parade had been planned with the Tall Cedars Band leading the march but on account of the early game at the ball park this idea had to be left out.

Many out of town people are expected to be present and the Virginia delegation will not get in until the 1.55 train from the south. A huge crowd is expected to fill the stands at Gordy Park to overflowing and witness the two games between the local club and the league leaders. A special section of the grandstand will be reserved for the lodgemen and their friends and the Tall Cedar band will play during the course of the afternoon's sport.

In the evening beginning at 8 P.M.
the ceremonies will be held in the Armory. These are always attended by all the visiting fraternity brothers who submit the names of their applicants for the initiation exercises. It is estimated that the number of entitled this year will be between 30 and 40. A business meeting will take place before the fun-provoking activities.

YOUNG CHILD OF MR. A. M. JACKSON DIES

Three Year Old Daughter Succumbs to Colitis at Ocean City Sunday
After Five Weeks' Sickness.

Following in succession upon a lot of sickness in the family this past winter, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Jackson lost their young daughter, Ann B., two and a half years old, last Sunday morning. The little girl had been suffering from an intestinal trouble, called colitis, for over five weeks and for the past three weeks has been kept at Ocean City under the care of a trained nurse together with this mother.

During the first part of the stay at Ocean City a change for the better seemed to take place in the child's condition but last week the effects of the illness became more and more acute. She died early Sunday morning at the hotel where Mrs. Jackson was stopping. Funeral services were held at the home on the Ocean City road, Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Boyle of the Presbyterian Church and interment was made in Parson's Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are the recipients of many condolences and much sympathy from their many friends inasmuch as they lost a young boy named after his father, only three years ago when the youngster fell down the back stairs and was killed. Recently Mrs. Jackson's sister, Mary L. Cooks, died from an attack of diphtheria which then assailed the members of the household but without further effect.

CITIZENS GAS COMPANY TO PUT IN BIG BOILER

Pursues Policy of Expansion in Order To Supply Demands of Increasing Patronage.

The Citizens Gas Co. has placed an order for an additional 150 h. p. boiler for its plant in this city, for delivery about the first of August.
This boiler is of the improved type, having a steel casing and a working pressure of 150 lbs. When this unit is placed in operation, which will be some time about the first of September, the company will have an up-to-date battery of boilers.

This new equipment will be placed in a new building to be erected, and will make quite an addition to the present buildings. This is only one of the many additions that have been made under the present management.
The company will have an up-
to-date battery of boilers.

Local Firemen Loyal To Main Organization

Do Not Favor Withdrawal From State Organization To Join Shore
Group Proposed By Easton.

Recently in Easton there has been started a movement by the fire department of that town to organize an Eastern Shore Volunteer Firemen's Association which would likely result in a withdrawal from the accepting membership from the state organization.

In that event, it is the opinion of William Collier who is president of the local body, the changing forces would not have the support of this city's firemen who are extremely loyal to the larger affiliation.
The consensus of views taken seems to indicate a favoring of the formation of either a tri-county or Eastern Shore association providing it does not involve a withdrawal from the State Congress.

SALISBURY MAKES BID FOR STATE LABORATORY

City Offers Convenient Site for Branch Bacteriological Station of Health Department.

Salisbury is making a bid for the proposed bacteriological laboratory which the State Department of Health is planning to establish on the Eastern Shore. As soon as Secretary Freeman of the Chamber of Commerce heard of the venture, he despatched a letter to the city authorities, setting forth the natural advantages of this city as a distributing center and also receiving station in this work.

The health authorities are aware of the fact that too much delay is suffered in getting the cultures of communicable disease cases for examination and therefore are planning a branch of the Baltimore laboratory on the Shore. Dr. R. C. Salter, chief of the Bureau of Bacteriology, and Walter N. Kirkman will be in this territory this week looking over sites.

Under present conditions, officials say, specimens obtained in tuberculosis, diphtheria and typhoid cases are not returned to physicians on the lower Eastern Shore in less than three days. Results of such delays are serious and therefore a site will be sought affording quick transportation from all Eastern Shore counties.
Hagerstown and Cumberland have such stations.

FALL DEADLY FROM RAIL OF HOTEL PORCH

Charles Gibson Western Union
Workman Fractures Skull
In 20 Ft. Plunge.

AUTHORITIES UNABLE

Victim Left No Trace of Previous Associations—Wires Sent To Utica
And Syracuse, New York State—Supposedly Single Man About 35 Years Old.

Joking and chatting with friends on the second-story porch of the Salisbury Hotel Monday night, Charles L.
Gibson, a Western Union workman, made an effort to jump up on the porch rail to a sitting position but fell backwards and struck the pavement below, fracturing his skull. He died at the Peninsula Hospital the next morning at 8 o'clock without regaining consciousness.

Apparently in the best of spirits,
Gibson, who appeared to be about 30 years of age, had gone up to the porch after supper with a number of other men and the accident happened about 8:30 o'clock. The injured man toppled over backwards and dashed his head with a sickening thud against the concrete pavement 20 feet below. Bystanders rushed him inside to the hotel lobby where icebags were prepared to place against the wounded scalp and a physician called. However it was soon determined that a fatal shock had been probably sustained and a passing machine was commandeered which rushed the patient to the hospital.

The dead man had come from Hurlock Saturday afternoon with a number of others who compose the repair forces of the Western Union Company which are now working in Onley, Va.
He had come from Philadelphia on July 6th to work in this field so Mr.
Mahoney, the superintendent of the force, stated.
All efforts to ascertain Gibson's home address or that of any relative have failed in spite of the fact that his trunk and personal effects have been thoroughly searched for some clue. The fact seems established however that he is either from Utica or Syracuse, New York State. Wires have been put to the authorities of both cities and the only answer of any possible bearing on the case came from the latter place which stated that Charles Gibson was sending weekly sums of money to his wife and two children there. This statement has been discounted however in view of the fact that the dead man was supposedly single and had been receiving letters from his girl up north.

Further attempts to link up the two stories have failed. Today a letter was received from a party in North Dakota addressed to the dead man with a return address on it.
Telegrams have been sent there in an attempt to get some word as to the man's associations. Last night a representative from the local Western Union office went to Philadelphia to seek traces of Gibson's movements in that city previous to his coming down on the Eastern Shore.

MRS. MARTHA JACKSON.

Mrs. Martha Ann Johnson, wife of Mr. Purnell Johnson, 225 Pine street, died very suddenly last Sunday afternoon at her home. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. William Twilley and was 72 years old. She is survived by her husband, a son, Edgar Johnson, and by a number of sisters.
Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev.
Dr. Herson. The body was laid to rest in Parsons Cemetery.

NEW INDUSTRY CORPORATION IS ORGANIZED

Local Financiers Form Body To Encourage Industrial Development.

SECURES PLACE FOR NEW SHIRT FACTORY

Committee of Prominent Business Men Perfecting Plans of Organization of "The Salisbury New Industry Corporation—Financial Assistance
To Rombro Plant Example of Work.

Searching around in this section of the Eastern Shore for a suitable location for a central plant, Rombro Bros. of Baltimore, considered the advantages of this city most favorably but were handicapped in carrying out their scheme of expansion by the fact that no building was available for the installation of their machinery and office.

The company manufactures work-shirts and has factories scattered around in many of the neighboring towns, branches being situated at Parsonsburg, Mardela, Pittsville, Berlin and several other places. But the main offices and assembling rooms have been in Baltimore and the owners found that the expense, in transferring goods from the Monumental City to the plants here on the Shore, to be made up into shirts and then shipped back, was too great. Accordingly it was decided to make an endeavor to locate in a central part of the Peninsula.

When some of the prominent business men in this city learned of the enterprise and its intent to settle in this territory, a meeting was effected among a small group of them and out of this conference there was evolved
"The Salisbury New Industry Corporation," the purpose of which will be to render financial assistance and other forms of inducement to new and worthy industries which are planning to locate in this section.

The new corporation, capitalized at $100,000 immediately got in touch with the Rombro Bros. with the result that it is going to put up a 50
ft. x 250 ft. one story building on Vine Street in South Salisbury that will be furnished to the shirt manufacturing company on a rental basis and will be used by the latter organization as its headquarters here on the Shore.
All the piece goods will be received at this station to be later distributed by trucks to the nearby factories and the products will be then returned to the local plant for ironing, pressing and bundling.

The step that has just been taken by the group of local financiers is a most progressive one and will undoubtedly bring a wealth of new industries to this city. All worthy projects and business ventures will be given support and assistance rendered as in the instance of the shirt manufacturing company. So far the committee is drawing up all the agreements and organization plans. Mr. I. L. Benjamin is chairman of this group and Mr.
Graham Gunby and Mr. David Ward associates. Stock will be sold and a board of directors formed in the near future.

FREE MOVIE MATINEE FOR KIDS AT ARCADE

Special Show Saturday Morning For Those Having "News" Coupons.
Excellent Pictures Coming Here.

Special Matinee Saturday morning at 10:30 for all children having coupons clipped from "The News" has been arranged by Manager Lee Insey of the Arcade Theatre. The show will consist of a thrilling serial together with a funny comedy and as an added attraction, the pictures that were taken of Salisbury several days ago and which have been shown on the screen during several of the night performances.

Announcing the policy of the theatre during the summer months, the local director states that the vaudeville has been discontinued during the torrid days of July and August and feature plays of the highest order will be shown instead. This, together with the reduced prices in effect makes the movies most attractive as a form of amusement and entertainment and certainly assures the local management of increased and steady patronage.

One only has to glance at the pictures bill for the coming week to see that Mr. Insey is securing high

LARGE TROOP OF BOYS ASSEMBLES AT "Y" CAMP

Director Boggs With 7 Leaders And 40 "Buck Private" Reach Chesapeake Bay Site in Good Shape.

Camp Fairlee, Y.M.C.A. headquarters on the Chesapeake, echoed and re-echoed the shout and yell of the two score youngsters that eagerly scrambled out of the cars there last Monday afternoon and set up the standards of Wicomico county. These lusty-lunged Salisbury youths just set the atmosphere alive with their enthusiasm and pep and the restrain-ing influence of the leaders were taxed to the very limit.

For 15 days, the boys will sleep under canvas and in the long hours of the day enjoy ideal camping life. The site, near Tolchester, is an excellent one affording good water and wholesome living conditions. Swimming, boating, fishing and sports of all kinds will occupy the hours of Director Boggs' wards for the period of stay there. Unlike many camps that cramp into a day's activities, too many exercises that are thought to be both mentally and physically developing, this outing, on the other hand, will be one of relaxation and rest with plenty of recreational advantages offered.

An innovation that promises to eliminate materially any dangers arising in the bathing about the camp has been the adoption of certain colored rubber caps to be worn by the three classes of bathers, namely: those who can not swim at all; those who swim fairly well; and those who are regarded as expert aquatic performers. Responsible leaders have been selected to aid Director Boggs in his administration of the camp. They are: Jack Adkins, Edward Davis, William Morgan, Dave Dallas, Lester Byrd, Craig Bowman and Lee Benson.
Forty boys made the trip, leaving early Monday morning in ten machines furnished by Rotarians and other interested parties. 15 of these boys were at guests of the Rotary Club which advanced funds to Secretary Hammerlough that would pay the expenses of that number of deserving lads who otherwise would have been unable to go with their peers. The list of boys in camp is as follows:

Charles Davis, Robert Dallas, Leroy Dishmon, Milton White, Harold Landon, George Booth, Max Kurad, Warner Watkins, Richard Insey, Wade Insey, Ford Brevington, Marion Parker, Robert Johnson, William Bourdas, Ben Quillen, Oscar Lee Morris, Samuel Morris, Harry Beard, Jay Ward, Wilfred Coopers, George Tig-man, Carroll Ellison, Fulton Harrington, Charles Jackson, Milton Pope, Julian Pope, Franklin Fields, Lee Hurley, William Dill, William Hastings, John Foxwell, Preston Young, James Betts, Lloyd Morris, Randall Ward, Harlan Elliott, Wilbur Hastings, Elton Smith, Ernest Hillman, and Paul Jones.

insula Group To Be in Berlin
Friday on Tour.

Horticultural Society Accompanied by representatives of the Peninsula Society will be in Berlin Friday on their tour of the principal orchards in this section and the meeting at the Harrison's Nurseries.

Quite a large crowd is expected and lunch will be served the visitors at the Berlin nurseries. Easton was the first stopping place on the Shore and many are expecting to spend the week-end at Ocean City.

FARMER HAS HUGE BERRIES.

Mr. Gabriel Banks, a well-known farmer in the Sileom District, brought into the News office last week, a quart of blackberries that were of his last picking. The berries were huge in size, averaging about an inch or more in length and possessing a lucious flavor. Mr. Banks' crop this year totaled 7,000 qts. and brought for him an average price of $5.85 a crate.

FORMER STATE SENATOR RUNS FOR CONGRESS

W. I. Norris Of Baltimore Makes Bid For Democratic Primary Choice.

VISITS THIS CITY ON MONDAY ON CAMPAIGN

Former Leader Of Annapolis Body
Declares Reaction Must Come Against Complex Bureaucratic Government That Jeopardizes States Rights. Favors Volstead Act Repeal.

Announcing his candidacy for the choice of the Democratic party for Congress, Senator W. I. Norris is making a tour of the Eastern Shore to meet the people and to further his campaign in preparation for the primaries in September. Senator Norris was in this city Monday as a guest of Mr. Lee Johnson on Camden Ave.
For ten years, this representative from the 1st District of Baltimore City, has been a member of the State Legislature and for the past two terms has been president of the senate body. Mr. Norris is 42 years old and an old son of Harford county where he claims many friends and supporters. He follows the provision of law and has his own offices on Lexington street in Baltimore.

Senator Norris asserts that he will sweep Baltimore City and is therefore anxious to extend his influence to the various counties especially those on the Eastern Shore whose interests he has always upheld. As evidence of this he points to the strong backing he gave to the establishment of the proposed State Normal School at Salisbury, to the Kent County appropriations for Washington College, and to the appropriations for Ocean City, Md. He has also been an ardent supporter for the good roads system.

Opposed to the Volstead Act in its entirety, Senator Norris is in favor however of some law that will uphold the 18th amendment to the constitution. He does not believe "in a lawless enforcement of the law."
When questioned as to his attitude on the bonus question, he stated that he had voted for the state bill but had not taken part in the national issue yet.

The Senate president declared that there were other questions which he regarded far more vital to the country's health than the bonus question.
He has also been an ardent supporter of the Volstead Act. "This country is governed by a form of departmental government that is too bureaucratic and complex, wherein the various bureaus and boards created have too much authority to interpret the acts of Congress and consequently states' rights are being placed in jeopardy," he added.

It was brought out during the course of his interview that the private life of the citizens of this country is being infringed upon too much and that in the instance of the income tax the mode of assessment should be simplified. Mr. Norris is against the Tariff Bill, one of his main objections being "that it seeks to raise a tariff wall and to keep certain goods out of this country when at the same time subsidies are being granted to ships that carry our products to countries whose impoverished people are prohibited from sending their exports to us."

SWIMMING POOL LIKELY FOR "Y" IF SUPPORTED

Representative of National Bureau Invited Down to Inspect—Famous Players Bill.

That the Young Men's Christian Association will have a swimming pool in the near future seems to be an accepted fact. At the regular monthly meeting last night the favorable report of the committee on that one phase was read. The general sentiment of the officials seems to be strongly for such a pool provided the proposition is a practical one and the people support the move.

Accordingly an invitation has been sent to the building bureau of the International Y. M. C. A. to send one of their expert representatives down to look the matter over from the standpoint of the architect.
Following reports made by the secretary and the treasurer, the chairman of the educational committee announced that instead of having the usual Yecum course this fall and winter that special productions would be secured and that the first one of importance was to be held in the early fall probably at the Armory.
The famous Elizabethan Players will present in their classical style, "The Merchant of Venice" and "The Taming of the Shrew."

FRUITLAND CHURCH SUPPER.

Ladies Aid of Fruitland M. E.
Church will hold a picnic and a spread supper Thursday, July 13, on railroad platform at Fruitland. If the weather is inclement will be held the following day.

DIAMOND DUST

Without a doubt, the Shore League contains more realists of material in the shortstop than in any other position. They are furnishing the fielding sensations in the daily games and in each town the player cavoring around the shortstop is regarded as the main cog of the inner works. Pocomoke's offense and defense both are built around that flashy little Jap star, who is assigned to the clean-up position in the batting order, besides furnishing the brains for the infield combination. Dittmar has been a strong asset to the Crisfield Club, while down in Virginia, Manager Pote Whalen is pleased with the work of his diminutive example of the famous "Rabbit" Maranville. Hewell is probably one of the fastest men in the circuit and is reckoned as a most dangerous lead-off man. Flowers, who covers the shortstop near the banks of the Choptank, is showing remarkable improvement in his work at that position and together with Manager Armstrong forms a smooth running pair around the keystone station. Nye of Laurel and Warren of Salisbury are also above par and possess all the earmarks of coming stars.

Ole Jupo Pluvo pulled the strings on his water bags just at the right time last Saturday for Pocomoke who was leading the White Clouds by comfortable margin until the fifth inning when the lead was cut down to three runs. Mays who had relieved Haynes earlier in the fray had settled down to business after a succession of bingles had been secured from his delivery. The local players were beginning to find Bussey and it was predicted that they would have overhauled Pat Ryan and his crew had the game gone the limit. Torrents fell on the field just after Mays had whiffed Roche for the third out in the beginning of the sixth.

Should the White Clouds succeed in trouncing the league leaders two games on Tall Cedar Day at Gordy Park Thursday, their stock would leap in unlimited bounds. Parkley is entering the game with no display of overconfidence and it is a ten to one bet that Manager Whalen has primed his players for this double tilt and has saved his pitching aces for the afternoon bargain bill that will have an important effect on the standing of both clubs. The Virginians have to be halted very shortly or their bid for the 1922 pennant will go undisputed. On the other hand the local club has to begin soon in its climb out of the cellar or it will be a hopeless tail-end fixture. No better start could be had than a twin killing over the fast Parkley aggregation and Manager Adams is preparing to twirl the initial fracas of the entertainment himself.

Friday's game at Pocomoke which the White Clouds won after a twelve inning struggle was a thriller to watch. Both teams put up an excellent article of ball and when the sixth frame was reached the charges of acting manager George Eichner were leading by the narrow margin of two runs. Gordy, the first Salamander to face Hearne bounced one off the left field fence for a sweet triple. Bussey watched three strikes go by him but Skeet Wilson sent a screamer over second that scored Gordy and allowed him to reach the hot corner when the ball rolled through Brown's legs. Pat Ryan then showed that he was the man of the hour by laying a beautiful safety down on the very next ball pitched, his third baseman racing in with the tying run. This play took place after Barnes had replaced Hearne on the turtle-back. Both sides then settled down and played a tight ball until a series of bingles won the contest for Salisbury in the 12th.

Note that the fore of discussion and trouble has tried this on the same let's forget the past and let our machinery in motion for a good, clean and wholesome product of baseball in the coming future. We should be tired of the "canned variety" and eager for the other kind of sport untainted. The team has been reconstructed and rejuvenated and looks mighty strong in every department. The fans have been anxious for their idol Babe Adams to take the helm and he has consented to play the part. It's up to the Salisbury baseball public to start anew and support the team representing it to the very last ditch.

Over in Easton on Monday night, representatives from St. Michaels, Centerville, Chestertown and Easton met and discussed plans for a baseball schedule to be drawn up that would further the playing of match games between the home teams. These towns are experiencing a certain lull in their diamond activities and many of the fans are waking up and seeking to put on the field nines composed of "home boys."

Rivalry between St. Michaels and Easton is intense and already several games have been played, the last one being staged on the grounds of the Talbot Community Club on the afternoon of the fourth and ending in a wrangle during which the visiting team walked off the field and refused to play any further.

LAUREL WINS GAME WITH ONLY THREE HITS

Errors Help Blue Hens Who Check Local Rallies by Flashy Plays—Barton's Shoots Baffling.
 Errors on the part of third baseman Wolfe and first sacker Thompson were an important factor in Laurel's 2-0 victory over the White Clouds at Gordy Park on Tuesday afternoon. The former let Hart's peg to catch Pocomoke napping at third get by him in the eighth inning which was responsible for the visitor's initial tally which in itself was sufficient to subdue the home team. In the seventh frame, Manager Adams' lanky guard-lan at the first station reached out with his gloved hand to gather in Wolfe's quick throw on Hitchcock but the pellet eluded his grasp and the runner was safe. A safety by Grassick advanced him to third from whence he counted on Early's long sacrifice to Reds Wright in right field.

Fresh Start Made By White Clouds

by club officials, who were not of the class desired and therefore others had to be secured. Rain interfered materially, he said, in the initial workouts and the low salary limit also prohibited the reaching of any well-known star in semi-professional or collegiate ranks.

He alleged that one or two players on the team blacklisted him to the directors and people while he was given no chance to defend himself against these attacks, being busy in the interests of the club. And when the complaints were drawn to a focus, Mr. Hoffman criticized his superiors for not approaching him on the subject rather than effecting his release along unethical lines. He stated that in all his baseball experience, he had never finished below third place with his club and that he had never been handed a "blue ticket."

The purpose of the meeting was to give Mr. Hoffman a chance to present his version of the situation and so after he had told his story, the only action taken was the motion by Mr. Graham Gunby that the decision of the President of the Salisbury Baseball Club to release the manager be supported by the Board of Directors. The motion was seconded and passed and adjournment was in order.

With the passing of Mr. Hoffman, a complete reorganization took place in the personnel of the White Clouds. Mark Adams, the only other player to remain from the start of the season, being named as the new successor. Club officials and fans were united in their determination to start anew on a foundation of rock and sand. Realizing that the public demands good clean ball, it is the general sentiment that hereafter such will be the kind prevalent in local circles.

U. S. AVIATION SLUMPS.

Eddie Rickenbacker, America's premier flying-man, states on aerial tour of the United States to visit every State and report to the government on the condition and availability of landing fields, and other things vitally related to aviation. His machine, presumably the best available, falls four times in four days, and he abandons the trip and takes to a train.

A local flyer takes up a bride and a bridegroom for the thrill of an air trip, and crashes, killing both passengers. Hasty investigation indicates that the tragedy was due to carelessness or lack of competence somewhere in the organization. These are sad contingencies, observes the Chicago "Tribune", upon the state of American aviation. In an editorial which is attracting much attention in aviation circles "The Tribune" editor thus uses the incidents as the foundation for an appeal for a government subsidy of aviation. Death and accident are expected incidents in the development of such a science, but accident and death which can be attributed even indirectly to carelessness in the construction, inspection, preparation or operation of an airplane are a blow to its commercial development. The plan to provide for stricter regulation of flyers and flying machines used commercially in this State is therefore good. In so far as it is able to reduce accidents, it will increase confidence and use of airplanes.

The use and development of airplanes should be encouraged. Any provisions for the safety of passengers will tend to that end. But more than that is needed. A government subsidy of aviation is an essential as a subsidy of ships. It can be maintained easily through the extension of the aerial postal service. That will keep flyers in training, and help to bring about establishment of more landing-fields and service stations. The army and navy can help with research and development work, if Congress will provide. We need their experiments and the development of experts which such experiments would bring about.

It is clear that at present we are disgracefully behind the other great nations of the world in the science and practice of aviation. Europe is dotted with landing-fields and lined with air-ports. European nations are stimulating commercial aviation with subsidies. They are developing better flyers and better flying-machines constantly. Japan is doing the same thing by huge appropriations for army and navy aviation development.

The United States lags. Laws to stimulate commercial aviation are feeble and insufficient. Regulations to assure the safety of passengers in so far as practical are already deficient. If as a nation we desire to maintain our place in commercial life and development, and in military and naval influence, this subject is worthy of the best thought of Congress and of the entire populace which elects Congress and legislatures. Aviation clubs have done much, but they can do enough without popular support. The public must assist with a demand for correction of our deficiencies.

TWO IN FAMILY REPORT BIG GAIN

Mother and Daughter Gain Twenty Pounds Each and Father Also Restored To Fine Health.

"Not since my wonderful experience with Tanlac, three years ago, have we ever been without it in the house. Not only myself, but my husband and my son and daughter all take it when we begin to feel run-down and it never fails to give us the desired results. My daughter, for instance, gained twenty pounds by the use of Tanlac." The above statement was made, recently, by Mrs. Samuel Pearce, residing at 419 North Pulaski Street, Baltimore. "As for what Tanlac has done for me," said Mrs. Pearce, "I had suffered constantly for years and had been confined to my bed for months, hardly able to move a muscle. Such bad pains in my shoulders, neuritis that I could scarcely use my arms and I also suffered agony from backache."

"I had no appetite and suffered terribly from what little I did eat. In fact, food gave me misery instead of pleasure, and I got so nervous I did not know what to do. I finally got better of the neuritis, but otherwise I never improved a bit until after I began taking Tanlac. After my first two or three bottles of Tanlac I picked up so fast it surprised me."

"Well, it only took Tanlac a few weeks to restore my health and build me up twenty pounds, and since that time I have felt like a new woman altogether. I eat ravenously, digest everything, my nerves are calm, I sleep one and never have a pain about me. We would not think of getting out of Tanlac, for, as I said, it never disappoints us."

Tanlac is sold in Salisbury by all good druggists.—Adv. 205.

WANGO PICNIC.

The annual picnic will be held at Wango M. E. church, Saturday evening, July 15.

Wrong Word—Joseph H. Choate was a most dangerous speaker to his associates who spoke before him. I had many times enjoyed being the sufferer by his wit and humor. On one occasion Choate won the honors of the evening by an unexpected attack. There is a village in western New York which is named after me. The enterprising inhabitants, hearing for what might be under the surface of their ground, discovered natural gas. They immediately organized a company and issued a prospectus. The prospectus fell into the hands of Mr. Choate. With great glee he read it and then, with emphasis, the name of the company, "The Depew Natural Gas Company, Limited"; and waving the prospectus at me shouted, "Why Limited?"—Chauncey Depew in Scribner's Magazine.

A PROBLEM OF IMPORTANCE.

At the time of the last municipal election, the Wicomico Woman's Club brought before the public the malaria problem. Each candidate for city office was asked, by means of a questionnaire, what steps he would take to suppress the malaria mosquito. Those who answered the question were, for the most part, more or less indefinite as to ways and means but felt that something should be done.

It was during the campaign that the successful candidate stated everything was in readiness for a great drive against the mosquito. Supplies were at hand, the danger spots had been carefully mapped out, the exact procedure for the fight was prescribed. All that the local authorities were waiting for was word from the State Department of Health who were to advise the right time to start the war.

It was explained that while a complete survey of the malaria situation here was made last year, the report of that survey was received too late in the fall to be acted upon. The proper thing to do was to wait until the next summer and then begin an early warfare of extermination. The report showed the places where the malaria mosquitoes breed and described in detail the best method of getting rid of them. The report also showed that there was more malaria in Salisbury last year than there should have been. The precise situation had not been made public for a good many reasons, but it is sufficiently serious to warrant immediate attention.

If everything was in readiness for the fight early this spring, why hasn't the work been started? Malaria is again becoming prevalent. The doctors have their hands full as it is and should be spared the necessity of giving time and attention to patients whose illness might have been prevented. The axiom that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure has never been so true as it is today, and never before have enlightened communities worked harder along that principle.

It is the duty of the municipal administration to protect the health of the community just as much as it is a duty to protect the property rights of tax payers. The citizens of any community have a right to demand this protection when necessary and when it is not forthcoming.

We were told that the war against the mosquito would start when the State Department of Health gave the word, yet it is within the realm of possibility that the Health Department, busied with the affairs of the entire State, have forgotten us. If we are still waiting word, why not jog somebody's memory.

EASY MARKS.

With German marks being peddled around at three for a cent perhaps there was an excuse for the New York wag who in trying to sell a bill of such goods a week or so ago remarked in passing that "this is the day of easy marks," and then proceeded to unload on the unwary. It may be well to remember there are many "astute" money changers in the big cities who are loaded up with the German coinage and who are casting right and left to find a market for their unpopular treasure.

There is always a temptation to buy a hundred thousand dollars "worth" of money for a five dollar bill or whatnot. Those who are inclined to yield to such Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford temptation, however, should remember the Confederate bills that are stacked up in the garrets of little homes from the Atlantic to the Pacific, so that when the great city propaganda begins, aimed as it will be first at "stabilizing the German monetary system," they will see the part of wisdom is to seal up their pocket books.

That Germany will come back there can be no doubt, because the Germans are an industrious people. They are likely to regain power while the world sleeps, but no matter how rapidly they get to their feet it is generally agreed that before they run very far the whole of their monetary system will have to be changed, and in the new issue of the national stock the existing financial tokens will be tremendously reduced in value if not entirely wiped out. Beware the Greeks bearing gifts may still with wisdom be kept in the public mind.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922

Here was young Jim Jones just went into his back garden to see how his grape vines were coming along, and every one of them was dead—not a leaf in sight. He was sure he had doped the whole thing out so he would have a wonderful grape juice crop this year. He got the finest vines, planted them with the greatest care, and then gave them a dose of manure he was sure would make them come up great. In the winter months he dug around them, and gave them more manure to keep them going through the cold spell. "Burned up," remarked old Jake when he saw them. "Ain't nothin' better'n manure, but too much kills. Plants are like humans. Grapes most of all—grow best when they have to fight, and don't get rich food too easy."

WICOMICALITIES.

The capital of the United States is not Washington, as some have supposed, but lies in Wall Street.

"Graft is Charged" screams a newspaper headline. Who'll pay the bill?

The United States Shipping Board has decided not to give up the ship.

The Illinois mine massacre gives us a fellow feeling for the peaceable citizens of Russia.

Perhaps the traffic idea here is that if the streets are sufficiently crowded with automobiles, none will be able to exceed the speed limit on account of friction.

The movies of Salisbury presented here last week gave one characteristic scene: Main and Division street corner with the pedestrian on the hump.

The local mosquito problem will be efficiently solved—when cold weather comes again.

One reason honesty is the best policy is because there is so little competition.

Lloyd George is doing his best to take the "ire" out of Ireland.

SEASONABLE STUFF.

The season for vacations is upon us once again. . . . The business, shot to pieces, has produced an extra strain. . . . A feller's got to get away to rest awhile, you know, so the most important question is, where's he goin' to go? With Europe shot to pieces, an' her scenery gone to smash—besides, the rumpus didn't leave an overplus of cash. . . . There ain't the old inducements for to breast the ocean's foam, an' it really ain't desirable to go so fur from home. . . . The question grows perplexin' as they often will, you know,—the hour keeps drawin' nigher, but—where are you goin' to go?

Well—there's the Rocky Mountains, fairy-ladders to the skies—or, the Northern Lakes is callin' from a perfect Paradise. . . . You can rest in Eden's Garden on our whole Atlantic coast—or journey to the Sunny South, the land I love the most. . . . Go where the Old Pacific cools the California Belle—or, drift around the Yallerstone, where heaven flirts with hell. . . . Yosemite, the fairyland, or Florida, the Queen . . . or up among the Catskills to a place you never seen. . . . You can tackle Arizona where the Canyon splits the earth,—and none of 'em will cost ye more'n a tenth of what it's worth! Huh,—talk about vacations—it drives me to despair, when I think about the idiots that's allers askin' "Where?"

*Yours truly,
Uncle John*

DIDN'T CARE TO SEE.

"Buy a pencil, please." This was the monotonous sing-song plaint of a ragged blind man on a prominent downtown corner. A Detroit millionaire heard it. It gripped at his heart-strings. He decided to help cure the poor victim.

A specialist of international repute was summoned. He said he could restore the pencil's peddler's sight by a delicate and expensive operation. The millionaire told him to "go ahead." Then the blind man amazed the philanthropist and the physician by refusing to be cured.

"I want to be blind," he said. "If I got my sight back I'd have to go back to hard work. Please don't give me back my sight. I'm happy this way. I make a lot of money through my blindness. It's easy work. I'm happy and I want to stay this way."

The millionaire then had a watch set on the happy victim. He found that every evening at the end of the peddler's day's work a handsomely gowned, pretty young woman drove up to his corner in an expensive motor car, bundled the peddler into the car and whisked him off to one of those jazz places of song and dance. The blind man was having a high old time of it every night.

When he tried later to have his license renewed, the millionaire prevented it.

PLANTING FOR BEAUTY.

Planting can ennoble a beautiful house; it can transform a plain one. Planting can emphasize the dignity of a great mansion and can enhance the charm of a cottage, and there is almost no limitation to the plant material available for this use. The planting must, however, be adapted to the material of the house and must mold itself to its window groups and wall spaces. That is what some people do not seem to realize—that planting at the house walls does not exist for its own sake, but must be subordinated to the house. That is why one house is spoiled altogether by too much planting around it, its windows blinded by tall shrubs and its body cramped by a too heavy boundary, and why another house may seem just right with but a vine or two to make a delicate tracery over it.

Evergreen planting is often a happy choice against stucco and brick and stone houses, but one must use discretion and restraint, says a writer in House Beautiful. Uniformity of foliage textures aid foliage color and a harmony of forms are of great importance.

Evergreen planting can sometimes become too formal and too monotonous by reason of its ever continued green. It often needs the relief of deciduous planting; for instance, the brilliancy of Japanese quince blossoms, the glow of cotoneaster berries, the flash of dogwoods or the flush of hothornes, even the luxuriance of "Yucca" flowers. These plants are especially attractive, because their foliage has a quality that is in keeping with evergreens.

THAT OPERATION ON ADAM.

The time-honored story of the operation to which Father Adam submitted when the Heavenly Father decided to give him a wife has never been scientifically investigated. Apparently, no one has ever thought of inquiring why the Creator, who certainly ought not to have been embarrassed by such a trifling matter, did not employ some other method of presenting the fair Eve on the world's stage where, by the way, her conduct has left something to be desired.

Recent studies, submitted to the Society of Surgeons, would appear to present a solution of this prehistoric problem. It would appear from the said investigations that, if Adam was really deprived of one of his ribs, this was because the rib was supplementary.

It is not unusual, it is declared, to find a man with one rib too many. This must have been Adam's trouble. The Creator wished to correct the mistake and profited by it in turning the superfluous bone into a woman. A haribolled scientist suggested that the rib might just as well have been left where it was.

One-Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.—Adv.

Wise And Otherwise

Dark Evidence.—Mother—"Sop, I don't believe you washed your face at all."
Small Son—"If you don't believe me, look at the towel."

A Husband's Privilege.—"The cook is leaving us to get married."
"Good. She'll soon know from somebody who won't be afraid to tell her how punk her cooking really is."

Danger!—He—"I had a good joke to tell you this evening, but I see you are not in a condition to receive it."
She—"Why?"
He—"Because if your face lights up, the powder will go off."

Quite Another Matter.—Irate Papa—"No sir. My daughter can never be yours."

Bright Suitor.—"Quite right, sir. She can not possibly be my daughter. I only wanted her to be my wife."

A Point in Doubt.—"Leonidas," said Mrs. Meekton, "I must give you credit for one thing. In all our married life you have never spoken an unkind word to me."
"No Henrietta."

"And what I'm wondering is whether to give you credit for a lovely disposition or mere lack of courage."

Enough Is Enough.—"Do you think posterity will put up statues to your memory?"

"I hope," replied Senator Sorghum, "that nobody will encourage such an idea. After a public man has gotten through with the caricaturists the modern sculptors ought to be made to let him alone."

Not in a Hurry.—An old Scotchman, David Gordon, was seriously ill, with scant hope for recovery. He had been wheeled into making a will by relatives, and these were now gathered about his bedside watching him laboriously sign it. He got as far as D-A-V-I—then fell back exhausted.

"D, Uncle David, D," exhorted a nephew.

"Dee!" ejaculated the old Scot feebly, but with indignation. "I'll dee when I'm ready, ye avaricious wretch!"

Impossible Impasse.—"What happens when an irresistible woman meets an immovable man?"
"She never does."

Where He'd Been.—First Flea—"Been on a vacation?"
Second Flea—"Nope; been on a tramp."

Could Move an Audience.—"Do you know what it is to go before an audience?"

"No. I spoke before an audience once, but most of it went before I did."

The Best Policy.—Lawyer—"Now be perfectly frank with me. Are you innocent or guilty?"
Client—"I am guilty."

Lawyer—"Ah, an honest man! I shall be able to acquit you."

Both Handicapped.—First Lady—(in village shop, speaking to another patron)—"Would you mind if I made my small purchase first? We have a horse outside and he won't keep quiet."

Second Lady—"Certainly; but you won't be very long, will you? I have a husband outside and he's rather restive, too."

Neutrality.—It was during the impaneling of a jury; the following colloquy occurred: "You are a property holder?"

"Yes, your honor."

"Married or single?"

"I have been married for five years, your honor."

"Have you formed or express any opinion?"

"Not for five years, your honor."

Slight Favor Requested.—An Eastern college graduate applied for work in a Michigan lumber camp and was assigned to one end of a cross-saw the other end being in charge of an old and experienced lumberman. At the end of an hour the veteran stooped sawing and regarded his weary partner with pitying eyes.

"Sonny," he said, "I don't mind your riding on this saw, but if it's just the same to you, I wish you'd quit scraping your feet on the ground."

How We All Feel.—Private Ulysses Roosevelt Jones was always longing for Alabama, but the case goods on the Broad dock after the Armistice continued to pile up and Ulysses's life was plumb miserable.

"Boss," he said to his big black sergeant, "Boss, Ah's mighty sick of dis yere lifin' and unliftin'. It's wuss dan de wah. It's re wah all over ag'in and Ah only listed fo' de duration."

"Lissen, boy," said the sergeant, giving one white-eyed glare at Ulysses. "Heads wah Ah introduce yo' peanut brain to knowledge. De wah am over, sho' 'nough, but de duration yo' is in fo' now ain't sc'acely commenced."—The American Legion Weekly.

No Expert.—Judge—"What had the defendant been drinking when you arrested him?"

Cop—"Whiskey, I think, Your Honor."

Judge—"You think? You think? Aren't you a judge?"

Cop—"No, Your Honor, only a patrolman."—The American Legion Weekly.

Brave by Proxy.—"Yes," said the dentist, "to insure painless extraction, you'll have to take gas, and that's fifty cents extra."

"Oh!" said Casey, "I guess the old way'll be best; never mind the gas."

"You're a brave man," said the dentist.

"Oh!" said Casey, "it ain't me that's got the tooth; it's my wife."—New York Central Lines Magazine.

sleeplessness, you ought to take something solid before going to bed."
The Patient—"Why, Doctor, that's The Doctor—"Ah, that was two years ago. Science has made enormous strides since then."—Punch (London).

COUPLE ARE WEDDED

Beautiful Ceremony When Miss Hattie M. Twilley Becomes Bride Of Mr. Roy Wright.

One of the prettiest wedding ceremonies ever performed in Sharptown was that of Roy A. Wright, of Philadelphia and Miss Hattie M. Twilley, of Sharptown, recently in the beautifully decorated room at the home of Chas. E. Twilley by Rev. Henry S. Dulany, assisted by Rev. George R. Donaldson. The long ceremony of the M. E. church was used with the ring feature.

The bride was handsomely attired in a sand colored suit with hat and gloves to match and carried pink roses in her hand. The groom wore a dark suit of blue. Miss Minnie Robinson, of Laurel, Del., played the wedding march. After the ceremony the happy couple motored to Salisbury, leaving amid showers of rice, and there boarded a north-bound train for Atlantic City. After their stay there they will then visit the bride's brother Mr. Vernon J. Twilley of Camden, N. J. They will reside in Camden.

Mr. Wright is a member of the well known firm of Alexander Watt & Co., certified public accountants of Philadelphia. The bride was for several years a teacher in this county. They are both very popular in their home town where they have a host of friends. Mr. Wright is the son of the late Isaac K. Wright and Mrs. Julia Wright of Sharptown and the bride is the only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John R. Twilley. There was a large number of guests; those out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon J. Twilley and son Morris, of Camden, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Robinson, Mrs. Paul Robinson and Miss Minnie Robinson of Laurel, and Mrs. Eugene Maddox of Pocomoke City. The bride and groom were the recipients of a number of presents.

AN INSURANCE

But American Legion is Endeavoring To Aid Men in Securing Reinstatement of Policies.

Over $400,000 in War Risk Insurance has been allowed to lapse by Maryland soldiers and sailors since the close of the late war. These figures were included in a letter from Mr. Chas. F. Sargent, manager of the Fourth District of the Veterans Bureau written to the American Legion with the request that that organization place the facts before its members.

The War Risk Insurance Bureau is making an effort to have a part of this insurance reinstated. It is surely not a money maker for the government but is a privilege open to ex-service men only and the Bureau is anxious to see as many as will take steps to reinstate. The effort.

Although the Great Salisbury Fair bears the reputation of being the largest and most interesting exhibition on the Peninsula south of Wilmington this season those in charge of the arrangements are planning things on a more extensive scale than ever before.

Mr. David J. Ward, president and general manager of the fair association, is enthusiastic over the prospects and is devoting all of his energies in the preparation for what is expected to be the largest number of exhibits ever assembled, and the free attractions are going to be the best obtainable.

Catalogs have been printed and will soon be mailed out. Horse-racing and motorcycles contests are counted upon to elicit much interest from their respective enthusiasts. Beginning with Division A and ending with Division J there are ten such departments that are given over to the following subjects: Cattle, horses, swine, poultry, machinery and implements, agricultural, household, needlework, floral and public school.

Attractive premiums will be awarded in each class of the above and every person in Wicomico county is urged by the management to make some sort of contribution whether it be only a bunch of beets or a jar of preserves. Entry books will be open at the Secretary's office, on Tuesday, Aug. 1. The prizes are larger this year than previously.

Work has been started upon the addition to the Poultry Exhibition Building of 500 additional entries over last year's number are looked for. The Swine Building is also being enlarged. The Raven Rock Farms of South Carolina have sent in their lists covering the show of 40 Hampshire hogs and there is also an entry of 66 hogs from Cheswold, Del., they being of the Poland-China strain.

In order to encourage the boys and girls of the country in agricultural activities, the association has announced that it will give prizes aggregating $400 to the boys and girls; $200 will be given to the boys for the best selection of farm produce which is to include grain, vegetables, and fruit, and which is to have at least a display of 12 different products. The girls are to receive their awards for the best display of canned goods, preserves, jellies, pickles, etc. The young folk are not limited to their own products but may make a collection which must however be secured in the county. $100 is to be given for the best collection; $50 for the second; $30 for the third and $20 for the fourth best. This distribution should attract many competitors.

Only attractions of the higher class have been arranged for by the officials for the free shows. The feature event will be the Indian girl and her famous diving horse "Katawah" which will make a 40 foot plunge with rider on back into a small tank of water.

FAMOUS OLD REHOBETH CHURCH BUILDS MANSE

Maryland Presbyterian House of Worship Founded in 1683 Holds Exercises on Wednesday.

Rehobeth Presbyterian Church of Maryland broke ground for a manse on Wednesday afternoon, the 12th, at Rehobeth. This old church which is still vigorous in its 239th year is known as the mother house of Presbyterianism in America.

Dr. L. P. Bowen, a noted historian on Presbyterianism and in his 90th year, lifted the first spadeful of earth out of the proposed site and delivered a short address.

Then at the old church which was founded in 1683, addresses were delivered by Rev. Dr. J. Russell Verbycke, of Berlin, and by Mr. Joshua Miles, of Princess Anne. Rev. R. A. Boyle, of Salisbury and Rev. J. W. Lacy, of Pocomoke, also took part in the exercises.

Rides Bicycle Into Truck To Avoid Car

Mr. E. J. C. Parsons of Berlin Milling Company Suffers Internal Bruises
From Monday Collision.

Mr. E. J. C. Parsons was severely shaken up on Monday afternoon when he crashed into a big truck at Main and Dock streets in order to escape hitting an automobile which had just turned the dangerous corner at that place. The injured man had to be taken home and a physician called who pronounced the case as being one of internal bruises with no serious complications to be expected.

At late on Tuesday evening relatives reported Mr. Parsons' condition as favorable although difficulty was being experienced in his resting easily. He has been employed by the Berlin Milling Company for about five years and now holds the position of shipping clerk. Representatives from the firm called at his home on Poplar Hill Avenue to ascertain the extent of injuries and to offer any assistance that might be needed.

MEETING OF LIVESTOCK GROWERS AND SHIPPERS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace Will Hear Charges of Representatives in Baltimore July 18.

A hearing that will involve all charges now in effect by Baltimore livestock commission merchants, composing the Baltimore Livestock Exchange, for services rendered in the sale of livestock, has been ordered by Secretary of Agriculture Henry C. Wallace under the packers and stockyard act, according to information received here by Dr. Thomas B. Symons, secretary of the Maryland Agricultural Society.

The hearing has been set for 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, July 18, and will be held in the Federal court rooms in Baltimore. The action of Secretary Wallace is based on a recent ruling of the Baltimore Livestock Exchange which provides for an additional charge of 50 cents for each pro-rata sheet after the first two made in connection with cooperative shipments of livestock. Complaints against this tariff, it is understood, have been filed with the secretary on the grounds that it tends to discriminate against cooperative shipments of livestock by making selling charges higher in cases where more than two shippers combine to load a car.

While the hearing on July 18 is intended primarily to deal with this recent ruling of the Baltimore Livestock Exchange, notice has been given that the entire question of charges now in effect on the Baltimore Market will be opened up in an effort to establish their reasonableness. Present charges for selling livestock in Baltimore are given in the order issued by Secretary Wallace as being 2 per cent. of the gross sales of hogs, sheep and calves, $1.25 per head for cattle except stock cattle in which case the charge is $25 per carload.

The Maryland Agricultural Society has been asked to have a representative at the hearing in the interests of the livestock producers and shippers of Maryland. Consequently Dr. Symons has issued a call to livestock growers and shippers throughout the State to meet at the Hotel Rennett, Baltimore, at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, July 17, to select representatives and to assemble such information as is available from producers and shippers relative to the sale of Maryland livestock on the Baltimore Market.

The day was spent at Ocean City and a glorious time was enjoyed by the guests of the popular management. About 20 bushels of fried chicken, ham, sandwiches and cake were taken along and despite the wet day provided by the elements, the throng made a most merry gathering at the seashore.

FRUIT GROWERS HELD CONFERENCE TUESDAY

Marketing Officials and Farmers from Five States Gather For Discussion at Washington.

An important conference of fruit growers from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Virginia and West Virginia was held in the Center Market auditorium, Washington, last Tuesday.

The conference was attended by marketing officials and fruit growers from the various states embraced in the conference and by railroad officials whose lines intersect the leading fruit belts. The chief purpose of the conference was to obtain a fairly reliable estimate of the fruit prospects in the different sections so that transportation officials will be able to cooperate with the growers in supplying adequate transportation facilities when the crops are marketed.

Because of the damage by frost during the late spring, crop conditions are said to vary widely this year and the need for definite information following the so-called June drop is imperative, it is said, if the crop movement is to be facilitated. Official reports of crop conditions in the different States, supported by reports from growers in different parts of the territory, were the feature of the morning session of the conference. In the afternoon, the railroad representatives were asked to explain plans for transporting the fruit crops this season.

MARYLAND BOYS BEST IN ENGLISH CONTEST

Cecil County Youths Abroad Capture
Gold Cup in Judging Live Stock at Royal Show.

The three Maryland agricultural club boys, Warren Rice, George Warlow and Joseph Glacken, all of Cecil county, who represented the United States in a boys' livestock judging contest at the English Royal Live Stock Show, Cambridge, Eng., Wednesday, against a team of English boys, won the contest. Word to this effect was brought in a cablegram just received from C. L. Chambers, of the Department of Agriculture, who, with E. G. Jenkins, State Boys' Club Agent, University of Maryland and W. C. Snarr, of the Maryland Agricultural Extension Service, accompanied the boys on their trip abroad.

The live stock judging contest between the American and English teams was arranged as a feature of the English Royal Stock Show and the English boys who competed were selected from an organization similar to the Agricultural Boys' Clubs, which are conducted in this country by the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural colleges. F. E. Bussey, of the London Daily Mail is particularly active in promoting club work in England and offered the gold cup for which the English and American teams competed and which the Maryland boys won.

All three of the boys received their initial training in preparation for the State live stock judging contest at the Timonium Fair last fall. With the English cup to their credit, they have completed an impressive string of victories, starting with their triumph over other country teams in the

Commenting on the victory of the Maryland boys, Dr. Thomas B. LAURELS ADDED TO WOMAN WORLD OF ATTAINMENTS BY EXPERT AUTO DRIVING

Even Salisbury's Feminine Motorists Find Male Champions Who Declare That They Are More Careful Than Male Operators And In Fewer Accidents.

Down through the ages of history man has always envied the accomplishments and rise of his opposite, the female, and consequently has ever sought to minimize and depreciate her efforts along any line. Adam was the instigator of this attitude when he belittled the worth of Eve in the Garden of Eden.

Helen of Troy, the beautiful heroine of the Iliad, was condemned by her people as a traitress. Joan of Arc, the French idol and martyr, was vilified as a witch and sorceress. Lady Pankhurst has been called all sorts of names. And so the struggle of the so-called weaker sex to emerge from the ranks of obscurity has been one fraught with opposition and rebellion on the part of the male brethren.

Perhaps because radical leaders of any feminist movement have adopted the slogan of "Women is man's equal any day, and most days she is his superior." At this stage, brothers, fathers and husbands link arms and protest. The 20th century still finds the issue an unsettled one, and a question of dispute in practically every household. The right of superiority is claimed by the women folks in all activities and quite naturally the men "disagree."

When Haynes, some 20 odd years ago set a gasoline engine on a four wheel vehicle and contrived a steering gear to turn corners with, he laid a foundation for another controversy between the two sexes that was destined to shake many an American household in throes of argument. For "father" does not believe that "mother" should go out in the car because she doesn't know how to drive, while "mother" haughtily declares that she can run that car just as well and even better than any man on the "pike."

When women joined men in politics, the acquirement of tobacco hearts and other forms of indoor sports, the men, would say, with pleasant egotism, "Well, after all they can't beat us driving cars, for as a chauffeur, a woman's a darned good cook." Whereupon they would break out into raucous laughter.

But now that fond conceit of the alleged stronger sex has been knocked higher than the wireless towers at Arlington. The long cherished illusion of the male has been thrown into the discard. That is at least here in Salisbury and surrounding districts. For to the defense of the weaker sex have come four knights of the round table who agree, that in proportion, women have fewer accidents than men, and these gallant champions are in a position to know.

It's just a case of another lock of Samson's hair shorn, just one more laurel lifted from the crest of the masculine brow. And though the wrath of the gods may be called upon to provide ill omens for such a turn of events, women having once assumed that all-mighty role of "chauffeurs de luxe" can be counted upon not to relinquish it. Complete usurpation is an inherent quality so characteristic of their kind.

These experts who have been interviewed discredit all the talk about "I can tell a women driver a mile away" on the ground that such thoughts are mental habits with men and are therefore difficult to overcome. Many men, they say, commit all the blunders which have been attributed to women as a matter of course. Speeding is an infrequent item in the category of the sins of the female motorists and this is given by some as the reason for the scarcity of accidents.

Here is a list of the authorities who were interviewed on the subject and who valiantly scrubbed the blot of careless and reckless driving from the scutcheon of the lady folks.

Lieutenant Peppersack, of the Maryland State Police force whose duties consist of vigorous investigation and prosecution of all offenders of State automobile laws.

Officer B. J. Topper, on duty at the Salisbury State police sub-station since last January.

Magistrate T. R. Jones, who is father confessor to the unlucky drivers that get entangled in the meshes of the law in his city.

Mr. P. Burroughs, engineer of the State Road's Commission who is supervisor over the Salisbury District. Colonel Baughman's able lieutenant stated that members of his force were not troubled much with violations of the law by the women drivers and that accidents were comparatively unknown in their realms of motordom. He added that "they are more careful than the men and do not speed so much. One of the reasons perhaps being that they are afraid of trouble with the car and tires and in making a journey do not want to place themselves in any intricate position or dilemma."

Officer Topper corroborated the remarks of his superior and said that very little difficulty was experienced by him in getting the "chauffettes" to obey the laws of the road. The guardian of the highways so refuted the accusation made by vicious males that a great many of the women get away with infractions of the rules by speaking very sweetly to the traffic or motorcycle policeman cajoling him into settling the case through the use of arts and wiles made famous by Cleopatra. "That's just the time when I pull 'em in" he asserted, "when they get fresh and cute with me."

Magistrate Jones couldn't recollect a single instance wherein he had been forced to look into a big pair of eyes that were singularly devoid of feminine features and pronounced a sentence of "Guilty" with an accompanying alternative of a $50 fine or a night in jail.

State Roads Engineer Burroughs, though admitting that women motorists have fewer accidents than men, evinced a certain wariness of the female of the species when she is at the wheel. Acknowledging the fact that there are very few "Barney Oldfields" among the tribe, nevertheless, Mr. Burroughs averred, "a good many complications are avoided because the minute a man sees a woman coming in a machine he becomes cautious and gives her more than the customary right of way."

Reclassified—A customer at the drug store paused before the combination news-and-cigar stand, deposited the conventional dime thereon, and said to the young lady attendant: "Literary Digest, please."

"Will you excuse me, sir, if I ask you to point it out?" she asked. "I'm a new girl here, and haven't yet had time to learn the names of half the cigars."—Incident Reported by a Reader.

Europe Grets Former Pres. Taft

Former President Taft made no flamboyant announcement of his trip to Europe this summer, still he is being received with enthusiasm and interest at every center visited. In London he was honored at state affairs and dinners in a way befitting his ability. The fact that he is now chief justice of the United States impresses Europe. The tour is a developing into triumphal trip not unlike that rendered other presidents on visits there. Pictures show Mr. and Mrs. Taft arriving in France. It also shows how the former president has lost in weight.

FERRY ROUTE AT ROCK HALL MAY BE DREDGED

Big Saving in Time Would Result in Travel Between City and Shore; Excellent Service Now.

Great interest is being taken in the proposed plan of dredging the Swan Point bar just off of Rock Hall in order to shorten the time of the Bay Shore-Rock Hall ferry.

Nearly an hour would be saved if the cut is made and there is no doubt but that people everywhere on the Shore would welcome the accomplishment of the project.

Salisbury motorists especially are eager for the dredging as it would put this city into closer communication with Baltimore, many of the automobilists now preferring to drive around by way of Elkton than going via the Claiborne-Annapolis ferry which is to a degree inconvenient and rather expensive.

New ferries with easy loading conditions are running on every two hour schedule between Rock Hall and Bay Shore and the lessening of their two hours trip across by an hour would mean a great saving in time.

Officials of the above company are cooperating with the public in every respect to make this mode of travel between Baltimore and the Eastern Shore as attractive as possible. In many instances their steamers have returned to the wharves after well out in the water in order to accommodate and pick up automobile parties who were a few minutes late. There can be nothing but increased patronage resulting from such service.

Perhaps you have heard this: "Gasoline is gasoline—they're all alike." One might as well say that shoes are shoes, soap is soap or tires are tires.

Just what drives that motor in your car?

A MIXTURE of from 12 to 15 parts of air and 1 part of gasoline vapor does it. Motor gasoline has to be volatile, so that it will vaporize readily, but that is not all. The composition of that one part of gasoline vapor largely determines how well the motor performs.

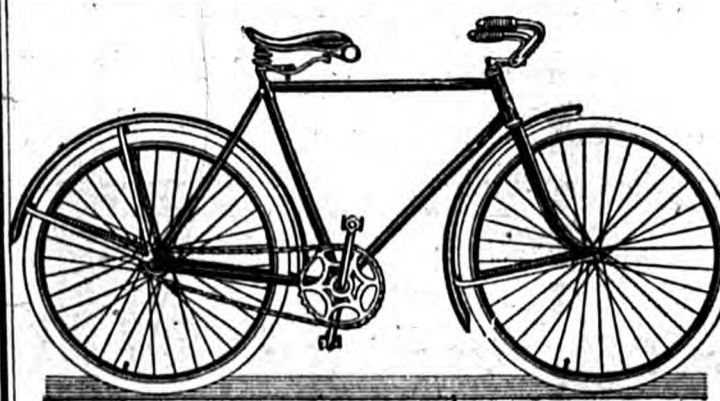

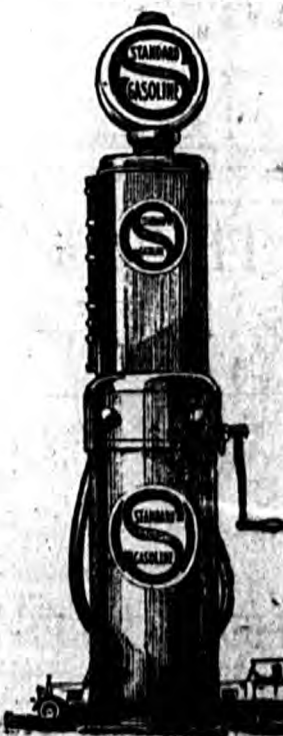

Motor gasoline must be more than just volatile; it should be properly balanced. It must contain the right proportion of light, intermediate and heavy constituents to afford instant ignition, abundant power and full mileage.

"Standard" is a carefully balanced gasoline, which accounts for the consistently good results it is giving in tens of thousands of motors today.

It pays to discriminate in buying gasoline, and oil too. Polarine oils are just as dependable as "Standard" Motor Gasoline. Don't take oil without knowing its name.

REEDVILLE

The Northampton Chamber of Commerce has undertaken its first work in the way of town improvement, and as a result the Board of Supervisors will have the corner removed from the church road, on Main Street at the sharp turn to the left near Crowder's Store. It has always been a dangerous place, and accidents have happened there before the auto became so familiar a feature and several times since. A slice will be required from Mr. C. S. Towles' field, and Mr. Perkins with his road force will do the required broadening, which will be a very great improvement, as well as a measure of safety.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Davis, motoring to Warsaw for the Fourth, last week, then Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cockrell, Larn and Agnes Burgess of this town. They reported a large crowd but a rainy ride.

Mrs. Virginia Douglas has been very sick recently at her home near Fleeton. Many friends are glad to know that she is improving at this time.

Capt. and Mrs. T. J. Crowell, near Reedville, enjoyed a short visit from their sons Grady and Clarence of Baltimore, last week.

Mrs. Paul Williams is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Robertson, near Sunnybank after a most pleasant term of teaching in the Virginia Mountains near Alta Vista.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Vondelohr, of Richmond, were at "Locksley Hall" near Lillian for a brief stay last week with Mrs. Vondelohr's people. Mr. and Mrs. David Truitt and family. They were looking fine and being warmly welcomed.

We, and other friends in Reedville have been enjoying this week through the courtesy of Mrs. W. T. Bailey, of Fleeton, peaches as perfect and beautiful as ever were seen. They have a fine peach orchard on the little Bally farmette, with constantly ripening varieties, which are always in demand by lovers of good and perfect fruit. They are delicious, and were highly enjoyed and appreciated.

Miss Jennie Marsh has returned from a visit to her sister in Richmond, reporting a fine trip. While away she went to St. Luke's Hospital to see Miss Florence Gates who is still a patient there. We are so glad to hear that she is remarkably bright and seems to be doing right well. Many hearts are sympathizing with her in her suffering.

Dr. Chan, Chinese medical student, spent last Monday at the parsonage here with Rev. W. R. Evans, leaving on the Planters' that night. A good congregation heard Dr. Chan at Bethany Sunday night and were wonderfully pleased with his description of life in his native land.

Mrs. Fannie Golden, formerly of Harrisonburg, Va., now of Baltimore, her daughter Mrs. Ether McKim and little granddaughter, Gertrude McKim are spending sometime in Reedville, with Mrs. Mary B. Tallaferro, who is here for the summer. They are having their meals at present with Mrs. McFarland at "Muir House" and some of the party have sleeping quarters across the street with Mrs. T. J. Owens, and Miss Effie Owens.

Mr. J. T. Shackelford of "Reedville House" made a recent trip to Portmouth to see his sister, Mrs. Rounne, who has been quite sick but is better.

The little Shackelford boys, Hinton and William, went also and were forwarded on to Suffolk to visit another aunt, Mrs. M. L. White and family. They report a delightful time.

Miss Ellen Haynie is at her home here for a happy vacation after a winter in Baltimore.

The Fourth passed off very quietly here. The sky "with lowering clouds overcast," and the rain which fell with careless indifference, ease all day, was not very favorable for outdoor sports, though a good crowd gathered on the play grounds at Bethany and enjoyed the Field Day events there, as well as the picnic dinner. Many flags were waving from the homes in honor of the nation's natal day. At the Reedville Hall, Mr. Haynie had put on a special picture, and many had planned ending the day at the movies, but a torrential rain interfered there also.

Mrs. Harwood, of Richmond, and Mrs. Warren, of Baltimore, are spending some time with Capt. I. M. Bussells and Mrs. Bussells on the Fleeton water front.

Mrs. E. Warren Edwards, of Fleeton, is entertaining her friend, Miss Louise Rice, of Baltimore, this week. Mr. and Mrs. Irvine, of Baltimore, are visiting Mrs. W. A. Edwards, at Fleeton.

Motoring to Gordonsville, Va., this week, Rev. R. U. Brooking will upon his return, bring his daughter, Mrs. Sampson, back to the rectory at Fleeton for probably the month of July, with the mother and family gathered there.

The Guild of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Fleeton, met with Mrs. W. T. Bailey, last week. They have recently had the rectory painted. Mr. Mosby Saunders, of the town, doing the work in most pleasing and improving manner.

Randolph, of Richmond, and little son George spent last week at the home of Mr. G. N. Reed here, motoring over on the Fourth. Mr. Reed is having an additional porch put on the southern side of his house, and having changes and improving touches added within, also.

Mrs. Jack Haynie and little daughter Verna of this place are in Baltimore for a visit to Mr. Otho Haynie and family. Later they will go to Chincoteague to join the Seaboard Colony for the summer.

Haynie, of Tibitha, Mrs. Chas. H. Hill, of this place, and, probably, Mr. Hilson made a flying trip to Baltimore with Dr. Guyer in his car, remaining a few hours and home again on the Planters'.

"During his brief absence the Hilson dog, well-known and ancient little 'Dotsie,' passed away, after a period of dog indisposition. Dotsie was quite famous as a rat catcher and pursued his profession vigorously over the wood piles, out-houses and rubbish heaps around Reedville.

Children Like Bread.

Children will often eat more bread if different kinds are served, especially for the basket lunch at school or the hot school lunch, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Sometimes so simple a change as baking the bread in a new form—a twist, for example, instead of a loaf—or cutting bread and butter in a fancy shape with a cookie cutter will increase a child's relish for it. So too, will a change of flavor, obtained by adding a few raisins, dried currants, or nut meats.

The Distribution of Capital

Most men are in the habit of thinking of capital as some vague money power that makes or breaks the fortunes of men.

When they stop to analyze the matter we realize that capital is the surplus wealth of the nation that all thrifty people own jointly. No one man or group of men can control the capital of America.

The principle on which this Company operates is that of wide distribution of ownership of capital. The capital itself is in large combinations of profitable industries. American Legion

BRILLIANT REGALIA.

Scarlet jackets, grenadier cross belts and all the multi-colored military trappings of Colonial and Civil War times will be mingled with the olive drab of 1917 at the fourth annual national convention of the American Legion in New Orleans, Oct. 16 to 21.

Invitations have been issued to 22 famous military organizations to attend the Legion gathering and to march in the parade in full uniform. The list includes the Light Infantry Blues of Richmond, Va. and the famous Cleveland says. Perhaps the oldest organization expected to attend is the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston whose history dates back to the Massachusetts Bay Colony of 1638. Its picturesque uniform consists of a dark blue dress coat, scarlet collar, and trousers of a lighter shade.

Military units invited are from New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Washington, Richmond, Hartford, New Haven and from a number of smaller cities.

Many Officers Wounded.

Nearly 20 times as many volunteer officers were disabled in the World War as regular army officers, it was brought out in the first public hearing on the Bursum bill, which would provide retirement with two-thirds pay for disabled national guard and emergency officers upon the same basis as now accorded regular army officers. There are 895 volunteer officers who were more than 30 per cent disabled through battle wounds received in the war, according to John Thomas Taylor, vice-chairman of the national legislative committee of the American Legion, who opened the hearing before the military affairs committee of the House.

Of the 855 officers of the regular army retired for disability since the war, only 54 suffered wounds in battle, and this latter number included provisional officers from civil life, Mr. Taylor pointed out. He explained that the bill had been passed by the Senate and only awaited similar action by the House to become a law. Disabled temporary officers of the Marine Corps and the Navy have received the benefits of retirement and to deny this to temporary army officers discriminated against them, he said.

D. John Markey, chairman of the Legion's military affairs committee, told of the widespread resentment among former soldiers, regardless of rank, because of the discrimination in favor of regular army officers in the matter of retirement. A continuance of such action will certainly injure the military policy of the country, he said.

Holds "Knockers Night."

A "Knockers' Night" meeting held by the Douglas County post of the American Legion at Omaha, Neb., proved a howling success. Every member was invited to air his grievances and make suggestions. The post chaplain recommended the formation of a Saturday night "Americanism Army" that with life, drum and orator would preach the gospel of Americanism on the street corners, especially in the foreign quarters of the city.

Relief Fund For Vets.

Following the example of New York State, Rhode Island has set aside a fund for the relief of unemployed World War veterans. The administration of the fund has been placed with the American Legion which will investigate all cases of distress and need among former service men.

Louisiana Makes Ready.

A bill to appropriate $25,000 to help defray the expenses of the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October has passed the Louisiana House of Representatives. The bill is expected to give $10,000 toward the entertainment of the Legion visitors.

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."—Mrs. T. L. LANDRY, 615 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

To Play Cricket.

Members of the Paris, France post of the American Legion are putting in their spare minutes studying the technique of cricket, in preparation for a mixed international athletic contest with members of the British Legion. The ex-Tommies have challenged the former doughboys to a game of baseball on condition that the Americans met them on the cricket field.

Chases Ex-Marine.

For several months the government has been chasing George T. Johnson, an ex-marine, around the country, trying to present him with a roll of citations and other official papers due him for his war services. The former "leatherneck" has at last been found by the Los Angeles, Calif., post of the American Legion.

A BUSINESS COUPE FOR BUSINESS MEN

This car represents a new and important achievement in commercial transportation.

For the first time in motor car history, business men are enabled to buy a closed car, the body of which is built throughout of steel.

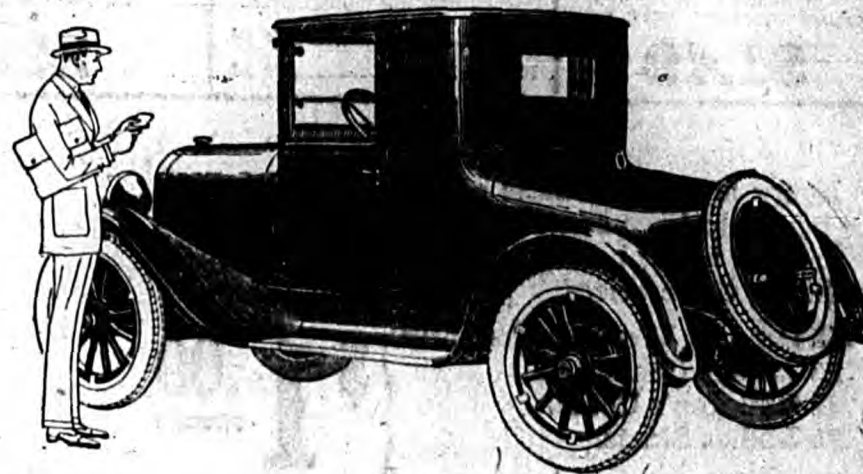

The advantages of this all-steel construction—reserved until now to open cars—are particularly marked in a coupe built to weather the wear and tear of hard commercial usage.

Immediately you will be impressed with the beauty and lightness of this coupe. Time will convince you of its unusual stamina. The doors snap neatly shut. Body squeaks are eliminated. Dodge Brothers enamel is baked on the surface of the steel—a permanent lustrous finish, impervious to wear.

The interior is roomy and thoughtfully equipped with every appointment necessary to the owner's comfort and all-weather protection.

Business houses that equip their salesmen with motor cars have been quick to recognize in this coupe a very unusual investment.

H. W. RICKEY

In last week's article the separation of growing pullets and cockerels was recommended. It was suggested that in cases where the range was limited the pullets be given their liberty and that the cockerels be confined and fed for normal growth only, because, as has been stated, forced feeding must, of necessity, be limited to more than three or four weeks, depending upon whether the birds are confined to pens or crates.

But if the very finest table fowls are desired forced feeding must be resorted to. Provide for the purpose a slatted crate, one made of laths on a one by two inch wood frame. For some use make the crate six feet long and two feet wide; on the front, back and sides the laths should be nailed upright and spaced about two inches apart, while the bottom of the crate should be made of laths set one and a half inches apart, and underneath of this it is well to place a shallow pan into which fall the droppings; the pan, however, is not a necessity. The crate should then be divided into three compartments of equal size. Plan for a given number of fattened chickens to be eaten or sold each week.

About three weeks before the chickens are ready to be eaten select from the flock the largest cockerels, as many as will be required for a week's use, provided the number is not more than seven or eight at the most, which is about all that one compartment will accommodate; put these chickens in the first compartment; at the beginning of the second week fill the second compartment and do the same for the third week. At this time the first lot will be ready for use. One week later those in the second compartment must be used, and as fast as one compartment is emptied it should be refilled with fresh stock. By this method each cockerel is fattened for between two and three weeks, which is the limit of forced feeding of crate-fed chickens.

The greatest gain is made when the birds that are being fattened are kept out of sight of other chickens. Their food consists for the most part of a mash composed of ground grain products mixed with feeds of animal origin such as milk or meat scrap. One of the commonly used mixtures consists of yellow corn meal, ten pounds, oat flour, ten pounds; wheat middlings, ten pounds; sweet skim milk, sweet or sour, or buttermilk to the consistency of porridge. Many poultrymen prefer to use the buttermilk, as it is said to make a better finished chicken; this material, however, cannot always be had in the liquid form, but there has been put on the market, during the past few years, in both large and small packages, a commercial condensed buttermilk which is now being successfully used as a substitute for the liquid by some of our larger packers.

The wet mash is fed three times a day in troughs which are attached to the front and run the full length of the crate, and only as much food is given at each feeding as will be consumed within ten or fifteen minutes. No moist food should be allowed to stand in the troughs for any length of time. The professional packers never feed whole or cracked grains of any kind, nor is bran ever mixed with the mash, but a little hard grain fed occasionally at noon in place of the regular mash will help to stimulate the appetite, and a small amount of bran with the ground grains, should increase the digestibility of the other feeds. While I have no experimental data to show the value of bran in the fattening mash, good results have followed its use, as have also followed the feeding of hard grain as suggested above. It is also a good plan to sprinkle grit in the troughs two or three times a week, especially if the hard grains are fed. A little green food, given to the chickens also aids digestion, but if the mash is well mixed with milk no drinking water is required.

For the owner of the small flock the preparation for marketing and the actual marketing of surplus cockerels is a very simple problem. While the dry plucked chicken is the most attractive in appearance and demands the highest price in the open market, it is not as a rule necessary for the small producer with only a few birds to dispose of to prepare his chickens in this way, as a market can usually be found among his neighbors, that will pay well for nicely fattened chickens and not be too critical of their appearance. In such cases the birds may be scalded and then plucked.

All poultrymen, of course, are familiar with this method, which is much easier than dry plucking. When scalding the fowls never dip them in boiling water. Have the water heated just below the boiling point, and with the feet in one hand and the head in the other lower the body into water, hold it there several seconds, moving it back and forth so that the hot water may be evenly distributed through the feathers, then lift it out with the legs up, so that the feathers may fall back and expose the skin to the air. Repeat this operation three times. After scalding, pluck as soon as possible. The picker should be seated, with the scalded bird on his lap. The main wing and tail feathers should be plucked first, after this is done the feathers from the other sections of the body may be removed as the picker may see fit. If the chicken is properly scalded, and reasonable care exercised in the removal of the feathers there is little danger of seriously tearing the skin, though it is almost impossible to prevent slight abrasions. Detailed information as to the killing of fowls and dry plucking may be found in previous articles.

After the chickens are plucked they should be thrown into cold water for about an hour, and then kept in a cool place until used. The flesh of the dressed bird is not at its best until the body is still warm the muscles and tendons are soft and pliable, but as it cools they begin to harden, and the flesh is found to be tough, later it becomes tender.

Among almost every flock of pullets there are some that are plainly superior to the bulk of the flock, while others are distinctly inferior. The old saying that a "pullet is a pullet" should have no weight with us, as all inferior stock should be discarded. It is not easy to select the future high layers from among our pullets, but we can build up our flock by culling out all chickens showing signs of weakness. This culling should begin as soon as the chickens are hatched and continued indefinitely. There are certain indications of weakness such as the long, slender break, the flat head, small legs, long toes and drooping wings, which should be carefully noted.

As the heaviest layers usually begin to lay early in the fall, or early as compared with the other pullets, they should be soon as discovered be marked and saved. The weaker pullets, as rapidly as they are found, should be eaten or otherwise disposed of. It seldom pays to attempt to fatten them as they improve very slowly if at all in confinement and cannot stand forced feeding. Neither is it advisable to put the cull pullets in the pens with the cockerels.

From now on the pullets that are to be kept for future layers should be allowed as much range as possible and fed as directed in last week's article, until they are ready for the laying houses. If any are roosting outside it would be well to train them to roost under shelter, though it may be necessary to cut the wings to prevent their flying in the trees in which they may have been roosting.

LAW'S FAMILY ANCESTRY NOTED COLONIAL GROUP

Prominent Wicomico Citizens Among First to Settle on Shore—Hon. W. L. Laws Oldest Descendant.

There are a few very old people on the Eastern Shore and in Wicomico County and we in Wicomico live near the health center of the United States. The oldest man we have been able to locate in Wicomico County is the Hon. William Levi Laws, who resides on Camden Street, Salisbury, and is apparently in good health. He was born about eleven miles from Salisbury toward Snow Hill, Jan. 2, 1829, making him 93 years old Jan. 2, last.

Mr. Laws seems unable to give the secret of his long life, much of which was spent in the open and at hard work until he was 60 years old. At the age of 60 he began to slow down and take life easy, but not idly, for up until recently he has looked after his business interests and moved about and enjoyed an activity rather remarkable for a man at his age. His past life is still an open book and he can recall almost the entire record of his long life.

At the age of ninety he could read without the aid of glasses, but both his sight and hearing are now slightly impaired, though they still serve him well. He has had but little sickness during his life and has been temperate in his habits and very helpful toward the poor. Most of his time has been spent, managing his own affairs and attending to his own business, that of farming and milling.

He was twice married, his first wife was a Miss Pooks to whom he was married Nov. 1, 1854. From this union are four sons, W. R., Jas. H., Thos. E. and Levi L. Laws and two girls who died. His first wife died in December, 1862. His second wife was a Miss Dickerson to whom he was married Oct. 15, 1867. From this union there are only living two children, Victor H. Laws and Mrs. Elmer Williams, four having died. Mrs. Laws died March 12, 1911. Mr. Laws is now quietly and happily waiting in the shadows of the evening of life for the transition. While not holding membership in any church, his faith is in the principles and doctrines of the Old School Baptist.

Mr. Laws taught school in his early life. He was always a democrat and for many years took an active part in political affairs of the county. He served as a member of the school board of this county for ten years. He was a member of the Legislature 1891-92. He took a very active part in the early struggles of the county and was usually strong in the councils of the party.

William Levi Laws was the son of William and Gertrude Duncan Laws. William was the grandson of Elijah Laws who, so far as we can learn, was the first of the family to settle on the Eastern Shore. When the Emancipation Proclamation was issued Levi's father, William Laws, owned 50 slaves valued at $50,000.

The name Laws with the variations of Lawes and Law has been finally stamped down in America as Laws. It has been said that the Laws can read their title clear back to the fourteenth century. William Laws, known as the "good man" of England, was born in 1686 at Northampton, Eng. It is said of him "in order to begin each day by an act of charity, he gave away the milk of four cows to the poor and it was sent out each day, at his own expense."

The history of the Laws family in the United States is full of important transactions and will no doubt be of interest to the many readers of the News. Indeed it has been said of his family that there are but few things in American life which they have not in some way touched.

In the South, William Laws, spoken of as "upright, accomplished and courtly" had a large grant of land in Georgia and the records show that he had a grant in Maryland of one thousand acres. This however was in Colonial days. "Woodyville" in Georgia was the summer home of Col. Joseph Laws and it is said still owned by his descendants. It is on an island called "Colonel's Island" because four colonels of the Revolutionary War made their homes there. Colonel Audley Maxwell was one of them and he and Colonel William Laws married sisters, Elizabeth and Mary Stevens, who was a member of Georgia Assembly. Thomas Laws, "a gentleman of considerable future," married Eliza, daughter of John Parke Custis, stepson of Washington. "Americans of Royal Descent," the Custis line goes back to Edward I, of England.

Richard Laws, king's attorney, came from England to Connecticut in 1635. He was representative and commissioner of the New Haven colony. Jonathan Laws, son of Richard, was born in Wethersfield, 1636. He married Sarah, daughter of George Clark of Milford, on June 1, 1664, and no doubt then as now, June was a popular month for brides. Jonathan was a member of the Connecticut Legislature. His son was a colonial governor of Connecticut and married Anne Elliott, granddaughter of John Elliott, the Apostle to the Indians.

Governor Laws' second bride was Abigail Arnold, his third, Abigail Andrews; his fourth Sarah Burr and his fifth Eunice Hall. The Governor's tomb may be seen at Milford, Conn. His eulogy was delivered at his funeral in Latin by President Styles of Yale. It was through his efforts that silk worms were introduced into this country. His son, Richard Laws, was a delegate to the Continental Congress and was Mayor of New London. His grandson, John, was a western pioneer.

William Henry Laws, son of William Laws of New Haven married a sister of Bishop Lee, of Delaware, and became a New Hampshire pioneer. Mark Laws, of Pennsylvania, who was born in Ireland in 1762 was the father of Benjamin Laws who was said to be the founder of the Laws of Kentucky and Ohio. Many representatives of the Laws are found in the Colonial wars and in the Revolution. William Laws of Maryland was an officer in the Revolutionary War. George of Georgia was a member of the Continental Army and John of Massachusetts was in the Revolution as a boy.

From the best evidence available the family of Laws living in Wicomico County is a lineal descendant of the various branches of the family to which we have referred as living in the various sections of the United States. All no doubt sprang from one line or family and all are worthy of the brief mention made and to those who are related, this sketch will serve as a reference to their noble ancestry and to those who love genealogy.

Federalburg Grower Claims Championship

Expert at Setting Out Various Plants W. C. Kliber Issues Challenge To All Hands.

William C. Kliber, a citizen of Federalburg, Md., claims to be the champion at setting out strawberry, tomato or sweet potato plants, either by hand or trowel, and has issued a challenge "to any and all persons" to defeat him at this kind of work. He now is 46 years of age and has been setting out these kinds of plants since he was a boy. He estimates he has set out millions of plants.

Some of his records are: Setting out 200,000 strawberry plants in 3 weeks; 1,000 in eight hours, 30 minutes; 20,000 in 10 hours; 16,000 in 4 1-2 hours.

He has set out 2,500 strawberry plants in an hour and his best record is 46 plants in 31 seconds. He has set out 15,000 sweet potato plants in 6 hours and 20,000 tomato plants in the same length of time. He also has set out six acres of the latter in 3 hours, and on more than one occasion has beaten a transplanter with horses attached.

DAVID J. LEWIS, Candidate For U. S. Senate

CONGRESSMAN TALBOTT: I have been in these halls for thirty-six years. In all that time I have not known a man to go as fast or go so far as David. If I were to talk a week, I could hardly say more of one of the most remarkable men Maryland has ever produced.

HON. JOHN WALTER SMITH: He is as sincere as sunshine. Call him dreamer or what you will, his dreams come true. (he) conquers monstrous difficulties. (1914)

SENATOR UNDERWOOD: Mr. Lewis came to Congress especially equipped on postal and transportation subjects and was ready when the occasion called. I suggested to Mr. Lewis that he prepare a parcel post section. Mr. Lewis then prepared the provision and it was adopted by the House.

BRYAN, W. J.: If you want to find out where the people will be tomorrow, see where Lewis is today. He is a leader who thinks with the people.

CONGRESSMAN MCCOY (now Chief Justice Supreme Court, D. C.): When Lewis begins to speak, members belonging to both parties come flocking in from the smoking rooms and lobbies. There is no mistaking what this means. They want to hear Mr. Lewis. Why? Because they know he has ability of a high order; that his conscientious industry takes him to the bottom of every question which he investigates. In short, the members of the House have absolute confidence in him. I believe it can be said without fair contradiction that had it not been for Mr. Lewis the parcel post system would not have been adopted when it was. His achievement was due to the qualities of which I have spoken.

BALTIMORE SUN: The Sixth district has become famous through his (Lewis') constructive work and it has shared in the glory of his achievements. Mr. Lewis is a Democrat, but he is something more—he is an American who conferred a great practical benefit on other Americans. The parcel post carries Lewis' name to millions of homes throughout the United States. This Congressman has something to show the people as the result of his being sent to Washington. He does not come back with empty hands simply stained with politics—as so many Congressmen do.

NOTABLES WILL ATTEND STATE CONVENTION OF LEGIONNAIRES

General Pershing, Secretary Weeks And Governor Ritchie Invited To Ocean City.

PRESENCE OF MEMBERS OF AUXILIARY SOUGHT

Reunion At Seashore August 25-27 Promises To Be Auspicious Event With Many Wounded "Buddies" Coming—Fight Expected In Election Of Officers.

The gathering of notables will mark the annual State Convention of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, at Ocean City from Aug. 25 to 27, for officials at State headquarters have invited Secretary of War John W. Weeks, General John J. Pershing and Governor Albert C. Ritchie to be the guests of honor and the speakers to the veterans at their yearly reunion.

Another feature that will be no less a drawing card will be the presence in large numbers of the members of the Auxiliary, for every veteran who attends the Convention is being urged to bring along his wife, mother or sweetheart or all three if possible. Special exercises and entertainments for the women of the Legion will be arranged and an effort will be put forth to make this gathering one that will stand out conspicuously in the history of the State Department.

Each post in the State has been urged to request to bring along as many wounded buddies as possible and these men will be the real guests of honor of the Convention. The State Commander in a letter to each post has stated that in case some veteran wants to attend the reunion but is unable to do so for lack of funds, he will send his personal check to cover the expenses. Commander Woodcock feels that this is an excellent chance for the wounded to have an enjoyable outing and he will do all in his power to have them attend in great numbers.

Legionnaires are especially urged to bring along their song books, for mass singing will be one of the many attractive features of the meeting. At every gathering of the official body, there will be a certain period devoted to singing the old songs, all in an effort to make this a convention of memories.

While the vast majority of the delegates and their friends will stay at the hotels, plans are being perfected for the erection of a small tent city where the veteran campaigners can once more feel the thrill (or chill) of sleeping beneath the leaky canvas Camp fires, with all that the gathering about such a fire means, will be kept going and the members are joyously anticipating that twilight hour around the fire when comrades gather together in closer relationship.

Serious things will claim the attention of the legionnaires for at least part of the time. Perhaps the most important action to be taken is the election of officers. Rumor is rife as to who will be the next State Commander and the posts in various sections of the State are getting their ducks in a row to put the right man across.

It seems needless to say that the real fight will come between the Baltimore City delegates and those from the counties. The past year under an Eastern Shoreman has been one of unqualified success in the Legion and it is quite probable that a strong effort will be made to select a man from the counties to lead the Legion to even greater things next year. As yet the definite shaping of forces back of the several possible candidates is vague but will assume vivid shape before the members start on their Ocean City jaunt.

The local post of the Legion will have charge of the decorating of the convention hall at Ocean City and of obtaining rates at the hotels there and making other necessary arrangements for the comfort and convenience of the visitors. While no one post will be the host on this occasion, those located nearest to the scene will naturally be looked to to do their part toward making the convention a great success.

Members of La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux will hold their Grand Promenade at the time of the convention and many amusing stunts have been arranged for the visiting delegates.

HEBRON CAMP TO OPEN.

Hebron Camp will open on Saturday, August 5th, and close Sunday, August 20th. It will be in charge of Rev. Wm. Lyndon Hess, pastor of Nelsons M. E. church. COMPANY "I" ALL READY FOR EDGEWOOD'S CAMP

National Guardsmen Leave Saturday Under Command of Captain Russell—Not Too Late to Enlist

Captain James Russell will lead his Company I national guardsmen to the summer training camp this coming Saturday. Early that morning the detachment will board the train going north and it is scheduled to arrive at the destination point, Edgewood Arsenal, about noon.

With Capt. Russell will be First Lieutenant Ralph Dolan and Second Lieutenant Dewey Morris, who will command a company of 67 "ready for duty" sons of Wicomico. At the drill Monday night, several new enlistments were recorded, the boys seeming to regard this as an excellent opportunity to get the rudiments of modern army maneuvers and warfare and at the same time enjoy two weeks of vacation sport.

The period of training will extend over 15 days encampment and the Edgewood Arsenal will be the scene of drilling of many of the militia units. Discipline of the strict variety will be meted out and yet the commanding officer plans to keep up an excellent standard of morale by inculcation of recreational advantages into the day's program.

Accordingly the afternoons will be given over to sport contests of every description and swimming will be a feature on the card of events. All of the boys are patiently awaiting the first bugle call and each has a grim determination to get the best out of it that he can.

It has been announced that on this Thursday evening a special drill will be held in order to give a last chance to those individuals who would like to join the ranks of Company I and avail themselves of this fine vacation and training jaunt of two weeks.

APPOINTMENT BY TAX COMMISSION APPROVED

Citizens Favor Choice of Greenleaf J. Hearn as Successor of W. S. Lowe, Supervisor.

The appointment of Greenleaf J. Hearn as Supervisor of Assessments for Wicomico County in place of W. S. Lowe, for many years the incumbent of the office, has met with the full approval of a vast majority of the business interests and property owners of the County.

When Mr. Lowe's resignation was called for, the Board of County Commissioners was instructed to send to the State Tax Commission a list of five men one of whom was to be selected as the Supervisor's successor. Each of the County Commissioners placed one name on the list. Those named were Messrs. Wm. S. Moore, Jr., Watson D. Mitchell, Thomas Walston, Greenleaf J. Hearn, and Elijah Tighman. The appointment of only two of the five was urged, that of Mr. Tighman and that of Mr. Hearn.

Last week a delegation composed of Messrs. Jesse D. Price, L. Atwood Bennett, Harry Dennis, Theodore Hearn, and Ira Turner appeared before the State Tax Commission with the request that Mr. Tighman be appointed. The request was denied by Chairman Beck who stated that Mr. Hearn would be appointed.

It is understood that Mr. Hearn had the hearty endorsement of by far the majority of business interests in the city and County and that his appointment by the State Tax Commission in deciding favorably on his appointment. Careful inquiry by a News reporter failed to discover any dissatisfaction with the appointment except among those who so ardently supported Mr. Tighman. The News predicts for the new Supervisor of Assessments a successful tenure of office.

SALISBURY BALL CLUB TO BE ROTARY'S GUEST

Invited To Dinner Next Thursday—Aug. 3 Designated As Rotary Day at Gordy Park.

Thursday, the 27th, is the day set for the Rotary Club's dinner to the Salisbury Baseball Club. That evening the players together with their manager and club officials will be the guests of the Rotarians at an informal banquet. President Miller of the Eastern Shore League will also be invited.

The following Thursday, Aug. 3rd will be Rotary Day at Gordy Park and each member of this body of men will find for himself a youngster to be his pal at the afternoon's offering of sport. Just recently the Rotary Club had its boy's Sunday when special services were held in all the churches and over two hundred boys responded. This coming affair is but a continuation of the club's "help the boy" policy.

On that day the White Clouds will lock horns with the fast Pocomoke team managed by the veteran Pat Ryan and a battle royal is sure to be the outcome. Members of the Pocomoke and Dover Rotary Clubs will also attend the affair. Crisfield, too, may be expected to send a large number of representatives.

Quite a delegation of local Rotarians will meet with groups from other cities in Easton on next Wednesday. The Eastern Club has sent out invitations to clubs on the Shore and also to Wilmington and Baltimore and an enthusiastic gathering is predicted.

RED CROSS NURSE IS BACK FROM VACATION

Miss Kell Attended Biennial Convention At Seattle Of Three National Nursing Associations.

Miss Kell, Red Cross nurse in Wicomico County, has returned from her month's vacation, during which time she attended the biennial convention of three National Nursing Associations held in Seattle, Wash., June 26 to July 1, marking the twenty-third annual convention of the American Nurses' Association, the 28th year of existence of the National League of Nursing Education and the 10th of the National Organization for Public Health Nursing.

New officers were elected and Detroit chosen as the place for the next biennial 1924. Many prominent doctors addressed the congress and much constructive knowledge was gained by the 3,000 delegates registered. Miss Kell was the only nurse from the Eastern Shore to attend and there were several others from Baltimore. No doubt Wicomico's public health nurse comes back with a greater inspiration for her noble work and better qualified to meet the many problems arising in her daily routine.

A visit to Yellowstone Park was made by the local nurse as a part of her vacation which also carried her across the continent via the picturesque Canadian Rockies.

EAST SALISBURY FIRE.

There was a small fire on Sunday afternoon in East Salisbury when the roof of Mr. Jim Truitt's house caught fire. Although the Fire Department responded in its usual quick time to a blaze, the flames had been practically put out by two men who crawled up on the top of the house and used fire extinguishers effectively.

BIVALVE EXCURSION.

The steamer Virginia of the B. C. & A. will leave Salisbury on Sunday, July 23, at 9 o'clock in the morning for an in-day excursion to the Bivalve Camp.

SENATOR'S SUPPORTERS APOLOGETIC

Leaders Who Have Come Out For France Seem Driven By Necessity.

FRIENDS ON DEFENSIVE AND LACK CONFIDENCE

Sentiment Throughout The State Opposed To Re-nomination Of Senator Joseph I. France. Russian Tendencies Are Regarded As Unwise. Has Not Reflected Voters' Sentiments.

The entry of John W. Garrett of Baltimore City into the fight for the Republican nomination for the Senate against Senator Joseph I. France presages a bitter fight throughout the State but one that will probably affect the Eastern Shore far less than has been rumored.

Party leaders in all sections of Maryland have declared frankly that they will support Mr. Garrett by every possible means while on the other hand those few leaders who have announced irrevocably that they will stand by Senator France have been apologetic for their stand and have already assumed the defensive.

Senator O. E. Weller is touring the Orient and probably will not be an important factor in the fight for the nomination. Former Senator William P. Jackson, National Committeeman and one of the leaders on the Eastern Shore, has so far declared that he will take a neutral course and it is not expected that he will change his attitude. True it is that the supporters of Senator France have tried to read into Senator Jackson's recent letter a meaning of unqualified support, but only partisan blindness could have led them to see more than a non-committal attitude, to say the least.

In Western Maryland, Harry Haller, Vice Chairman of the State Central Committee, has made public his sentiments with regard to France and has said that he will fight for Mr. Garrett to the full extent of his powers. Mr. Haller further states that he has carefully investigated and analyzed Republican sentiment in all parts of the State and that he finds such sentiment overwhelmingly against Senator France. Even leaders who are half-heartedly espousing the France cause have no confidence in the Senator's ability to win the race and the majority of them do not hesitate to say so.

Objections against Dr. France are wide-spread and deep-seated. It is felt that he is not truly reflecting the sentiment of the majority of the voters of the State, that he has not represented any party, people of faction, and that his ideas with regard to Bolshevistic Russia are, to put it mildly, unsafe. The Republicans have an added objection to him for his public statements that he hoped the Republican party would be defeated this fall. His attitude with regard to the Disarmament Conference was not at all in accord with the sentiment of the State and the voters, regardless of party, will not soon forget it.

Perhaps one of the most damaging factors against Senator France is the attitude of his friends toward his campaign. Mr. Haller states that "others say, as has Senator Jackson said, that they feel Senator France is entitled to the Republican nomination if he wants it but they do not see why he wants to run when defeat in November is sure to follow his nomination."

Another thing that is going to have more or less influence in defeating Senator France is his stand with regard to the following evening.

LOCAL FIREMEN GO TO DELAWARE CONVENTION

Twelve Members of Department Take Part in Huge Parade—Milford Company Takes Honors.

Twelve members of the local fire department attended the Second Annual Convention of the Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association at Dover on Wednesday afternoon. Their "buddies" across the line were appreciative of the interest manifested by the Salisbury Department and it is planned by the Delaware organization to make an honorary award of some nature to the local group.

Hundreds of visitors from nearby towns, as well as practically all the firemen who were able to leave their homes and reach one of the streets upon which the procession passed, witnessed the parade and were lavish in their commendation of the fine appearance made by the marching firemen with their glittering apparatus.

The parade formed at the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot and marched on the principal streets of the town. There were seven bands in the line and more than six hundred marching firemen.

The Carlisle Fire Company, of Milford, won the Governor William D. Denney Cup at the Second Annual Convention of the Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association at Dover.

Last year, at the first annual gathering of the State Firemen, the Carlisle Fire Company won the cup. The donor of the trophy, Gov. Denney, stipulated that it must be won two successive years to become the permanent property of any company. Having won it again this year, the Milford boys now own it.

"BABE" ADAMS, MANAGER

Mark Adams, of Williams-town, Pa., has been officially appointed manager of the Salisbury Baseball Club. Tender Of Sharptown Bridge Hurt By Auto

Mr. John Wright Severely Bruised When Hit By Ford Car on Main Street Saturday Night.

John B. Wright who keeps the bridge at Sharptown was run over on Main street of that town about 11 o'clock on Saturday night by John Eskridge, driving a Ford car. Mr. Wright was crossing the street in front of a parked car and did not observe the car coming down the street. As soon as Eskridge saw Wright emerge from in front of the parked car he put on his brakes and turned the wheel of his car. Despite this effort he hit Wright and sent him against the parked car.

The victim was badly hurt about the head and back, but no bones were broken. He was at once taken up by Eskridge and carried to the office of Dr. J. A. Wright where he was given such assistance as needed and then taken home. He is now able to be up and can walk. Captain Elijah R. Bennett is attending to the bridge for Mr. Wright.

TALL CEDARS HAVE BIG DAY AT BASEBALL PARK

Watch Rejuvenated White Clouds Down Parkley—Picnic Details Announced at Ceremonials.

Tall Cedars of this section and of the Salisbury Lodge had their inning on last Thursday. The day was one of assembly for all members with ceremonials at the armory in the evening after a trip to Gordy Park in the afternoon.

Parties began to arrive for the day's activities early in the morning and large delegations came in from Virginia and Delaware towns and when the umpire called "Play Ball" at the league park with Parkley and Salisbury opponents in a double-header, a huge crowd was taxing the stands to capacity.

The Tall Cedars band from Delmar was on hand in attractive uniforms and made a big hit. The musicians played throughout both games and their snappy marches were stirring and added zest to the play on the field. Approximately 1,400 people witnessed the White Clouds send the league leaders down in defeat in the initial encounter by the score of 5-2.

No better exhibition of the national pastime could have been wished for, players of both teams displaying a high caliber of play and many scintillating plays resulted. Both teams fought bitterly to the end and Salisbury's victory was well-earned.

In the nighttime, poor umpiring checked a local rally in the opening frame that would have probably assured them a twin killing. After that the game proved to be very lusterless, with only an occasional noteworthy performance. Parkley tallied in the 6th and 7th a total of four runs with Babe Adams and his teammates making a desperate effort in their final half to tie the count. Although the bases were loaded with no one out, two batters were easily disposed of and after Reds Wright's double, the next man up grounded out to the pitcher thus ending the afternoon's hostilities with both clubs sharing equally in the spoils.

In the evening ceremonies a big time was had by all the Tall Cedars, especially at the initiations when several new candidates were admitted "in due form." At the business meeting it was decided to hold the annual picnic at Ocean City on Aug. 31st. It is very likely that the Tall Cedars will just take by storm the popular resort on that particular day for parties will convene from all parts of the Eastern Shore for the occasion.

TAX ASSESSORS FILE OATH WITH COUNCIL

Oaths of George Waller Phillips, Charles L. Dickerson and William J. Ennis, as tax assessors in the city, were received and placed on file at the Monday night meeting of the city council.

The Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Co. was notified to change the light on West Main Street to the corner of Penn and Water Streets. The power company was also instructed to put in a 60 watt light on the corner of West Main Street and Quantico Road and to move the light from West Main Street to Byrd Switch.

Prominent Stockholders And Club Directors Take Action At Meeting.

ATTENDANCE FIGURES SHOW MONEY IS MADE

Proposition Now Considered Self-Supporting But Cost Of Grandstand $4,500 Over Estimate Yet Big Asset—Local Financiers Deem It Best To Purchase Park Outright.

Stockholders who are heavily interested in the Salisbury Baseball Club met Tuesday night in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce and listened to the unfavorable report of President Harry Ruark on the finances of the club. That is, a statement was rendered by Mr. Ruark upon the cost of equipping the ball park in its present form, for which a larger sum of money was required than was estimated in the outset.

The cost of erecting the grandstand was expected to be in the neighborhood of $3,500 whereas present figures show it to be worth exactly $8,033.42. The increase is therefore about $4,500 and inasmuch as all of the subscribers to the stock in the club have not fulfilled their obligations, there are many outstanding bills that have not been paid and it was for the purpose of adjusting the affairs that President Ruark called the meeting.

Those present were: Stockholders, Franklin Woodcock, F. P. Addins, E. Dale Adkins, W. E. Miller, Fred Webb, L. W. Gunby, Graham Gunby, Oscar Morris, Wm. P. Tighman, Dr. Carpenter, Clarence Wheaton, Charles M. Freeman, Fred Grier, E. Riall White, Walter Powell and President Ruark.

When it was announced that the club was making money and was a paying proposition, the body was greatly satisfied. For it was understood that the call for funds was only being made in order to stand the unexpected jump in the cost of the grandstand which was acknowledged by all to be a worthy asset and a wonderful advertisement for the city, it being taken as a criterion of Salisbury's progressive steps in recent years along all lines.

The average paid admissions for the 13 games played on the home grounds up to July 15th was read off as 850 with a number of 616 in the grandstand. Which shows that Salisbury was amply supporting her team which for some time was a losing one. Crisfield is supposed to be the next best paying town in the league. Of course due to inexperience in organized ball this city's club was forced to expend an enormous outlay of money at the start of the season. The signing of 28 players during the training season and the total transportation to and from the grounds up to date, each run into figures approximating $600.

There exists then but little doubt in the minds of those who have subscribed heavily to the project that it can be made to be a paying one. And the first suggestion of the evening was that an effort should be made to finance the whole proposition through a community appeal and support. This would entail the purchasing of the entire grounds instead of leasing them and the selecting of a board of directors and proper officers. This was the thought of Mr. L. W. Gunby and was heartily endorsed by Mr. Miller and the other members present. To accomplish this $9,000 has to be raised.

POPULAR SALISBURY GIRL BECOMES BRIDE

Miss Mary Belle Higgins Married to Mr. Marvel Wright Early Tuesday Morning at Parents Home.

On July 18, 1922, at 7 A. M. Miss Mary Belle Higgins became the bride of Mr. Marvel Wright, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Higgins, on Poplar Hill Avenue.

The bride was attired in a dark blue tulle gown, with hat to match, and wore a corsage of orchids and snapdragons. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert A. Boyle, and was witnessed only by the immediate family and a few friends.

Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple motored to the groom's home at Bethel, Del., where dinner was served. They left on the afternoon train for Wilmington, Philadelphia, New York and Atlantic City.

Local Chamber Of Commerce Is Playing An Active Role In Developing Section

Review Of Organization's Recent Work Shows That Many Progressive Projects Have Had Their Inception Within Its Doors—Steamer Line Reduces Rates From Crisfield To Virginia Shores.

Reviewing the work of the Chamber of Commerce for the past week or two, one finds that the local organization has been exceedingly active and has accomplished much that will be of benefit to this community.

In line with what the Chamber has been seeking since the beginning of the boat service between the Eastern Shore and the Northern Neck of Virginia, comes the announcement of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railroad Company that the fares have been reduced. Dodgers have been issued setting forth that the one way passenger fare from Crisfield to points on the Rappahannock and Potomac rivers, as well as Reedville has been reduced to $3.00, while the round trip, good for 30 days, is $5.00.

Automobiles will be carried by the steamer company as follows: Single seat machines accommodating two or three passengers, $5.00; machines accommodating four or five persons, $7.50 and those of over five person capacity, $10.00.

Another item included on the Chamber's list of projects was that concerning the drainage question in the Nanticoke section. Upon the request of Secretary Freeman the Government sent Mr. Fred F. Shafer, a drainage expert, to Salisbury, who was accompanied by several members of the Chamber on a trip through the areas. These were investigated and it was decided to put in some drainage ditches in order to drain a lot of valuable land and to provide relief from water standing on the county roads.

The following day the engineer was taken around to the Pittsville section. It is believed by the officers of the local Chamber of Commerce that efforts should be made to secure the drainage of the Pocomoke River at the earliest date possible.

Eighteen months after the first map was given to the Standard Oil Company, one of their fine large oil tankers made its first trip up the Wicomico River and discharged 100,000 gallons in a little over five hours. The size of the boat together with the amount of load clearly proves the feasibility of making use of both the river and the harbor in Salisbury. The Government is soon expected to start work on the dredging of the river.

That the Chamber of Commerce is instrumental in assisting new industries to take hold here is evinced by the part it played in the concluding of plans by the Rumbro Brothers of Baltimore to establish a branch of their industry here.

The Rumbro Brothers of Baltimore have many sewing factories on the Shore. They came to Salisbury last week and asked that they be furnished with a lot on which a building 230 x 40 feet be erected. They propose to cut all their garments in this factory and distribute from here to their sewing factories. In turn they will bring the completed garments to Salisbury for pressing and shipments will go direct from here to their customers. A satisfactory lot has been secured and a financing corporation has been organized. Every one will be given an opportunity to buy stock which will pay 6 per cent. and by this method we will secure a pay-roll of not less than $500 per week.

The Hearn Oil Company, of Wilmington has completed arrangements for the unloading of its gases and oils into large tanks on the property, bought from the Salisbury Realty Company, adjoining the property of the Standard Oil Company. This means two or three new families coming to Salisbury.

LOOSE LIFE IN WATER AT SANDY HILL BEACH

Chief Engineer Jewell of Steamer Joppe Drowns in Swift Current. Valiant Attempt at Rescue.

W. E. Jewell, chief engineer of the steamer Joppe, of the B. C. & A. Railway Company, Nantuxcooke river route, was drowned while bathing at Sandy Hill on Saturday afternoon about five o'clock. The steamer after making her regular trip from Baltimore to Sanford on Saturday took the Methodist Protestant Sunday School from Sanford to Sandy Hill, one of the largest excursions ever run on the river, there being nearly 500 on the steamer.

Just before the leaving hour from Sandy Hill the chief engineer walked from the steamer to the shore on the pier, and began wading out from the shore, with his shoes, pants and shirt on, but no coat. He kept moving with the current until over his head and then he began to swim struggling for the shore. Finding that he was unable to come back against the current he called for help and J. K. Bradley, assistant purser leaped from the steamer and swam to him and brought him to the surface three times, but both were exhausted.

Jewell said to Bradley in the struggle, "Save yourself, I can't make it." In the mean time a boat was lowered from the steamer and several small boats were rushed from the shore, but Jewell had gone down the last time before any of them reached him. Bradley caught hold of a pole exhausted and came very near losing his own life. In 22 minutes the body was taken from the water and more than one hour spent in an effort to resuscitate him with the aid of a physician, but to no avail.

The body was then taken on the steamer and the steamer left for Sanford. At Sharptown, the body was given over to Gravenor Brothers, undertakers and prepared for burial. Justice of the Peace Walter C. Mann was notified and he ordered Constable Henry McWilliams to summon a jury of inquest to meet on Sunday morning, examine the body and take testimony. The jury met on Sunday morning at the office of W. D. Gravenor & Brother and examined the body and found a slight scar on the arm and one on the nose. The assistant purser, J. K. Bradley was examined as witness as was also Captain John W. Hurr and quartermaster, J. R.

Davidson. After hearing the evidence the jury rendered the following verdict: "That W. E. Jewell came to his death by accidental drowning at Sandy Hill on Saturday afternoon, July 15th." The remains were taken to Baltimore on the steamer Joppe on Sunday, arriving there early Monday morning. He was fifty years old and leaves a widow but no children. He also leaves one brother and two sisters. His early life was spent as a seaman, but for several years he has been in the steamboat service. He was considered a competent machinist and a good engineer. His home was in Baltimore, though he was a native of Kent County.

The following is a list of jurors: Levin T. Cooper, foreman, J. P. Cooper, O. W. Owens, T. L. Windsor, O. N. Bennett, H. D. Spear, L. B. Bradley, Algy Gravenor, C. J. Mooney, T. J. Covington, S. P. Twiford, C. R. Twiford.

COAL SHORTAGE THIS WINTER IS IMMINENT

Individual Consumers in This City Likely to Suffer—Industries Dependent Upon Electric Power.

Salisbury will probably have to face a serious exigency next fall and winter in the form of a coal shortage. The coal strike, starting with the beginning of spring, has not yet fully impressed its meaning upon the public mind. In summer the populace is disposed to take things easy and not to worry over the distant winter and its customary trials and tribulations.

For nearly three months and a half the coal mines of this country have been wholly or partially tied up by a war between the operators and the unions. President Harding's recent effort to effect a conciliation has been met with disfavor by the operators and a settlement that will prove satisfactory certainly is not immediate.

To this deadly dislocation of a vital industry has been added within the last few weeks another war between labor and capital in the railroad shopman's strike, which involves several hundred thousand workers, and which has already curtailed railroad service with perilous possibilities to national welfare and to individual and community safety.

An inquiry into the coal situation in this city brought forth the alarming news that practically none of the coal dealers have any supply on hand and have no definite assurance of filling their bins in the near future. R. G. Evans & Sons, large coal dealers, reported that their yards are absolutely empty and so it is with the smaller companies.

Essential industries of the city are dependent upon the gas and electric companies for power to run their machinery with and fortunately both of the local distributing houses are in no danger of running short of fuel for some time. The Citizens' Gas Co. recently purchased two carloads at a tremendously high figure in order to be able to take care of their patronage.

The large lumber plant of the Adkins Company depends upon the current furnished by the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Company and officials of the latter firm state that they are not seriously handicapped at present and probably will not be in the future as they have their own mines in West Virginia. Adkins & Co. supplies the City Laundry with saw dust for its boilers so this place in indirectly responsible to the electric company also. The Berlin Milling Company also uses this power and therefore is not threatened with any impending shut-down.

However the prospects of winter heating by the individual consumer are not very bright and many of the community's citizens are very pessimistic over the present outlook and are straining every point in order to lay in a supply of coal for the cold days of winter.

CAMBRIDGE HELD IN CHECK BY SOUTHPAW

Choctankers Register Only Four Hits Against Babe Adams—Bats of Kunosh and Hart Effective.

Salisbury with Manager Adams in the box vanquished Cambridge on Monday 31. Only four hits were secured by the Choctank fongers off of the big southpaw, two of them being responsible for the lone run chalked up by the visiting aggregation in the last session.

Good, consistent clouting earned the triple counting of the White Clouds while excellent fielding behind their moundman, stifled every threatening rally on the part of their opponents to score. The locals emerged with a clean sheet from a tight hole in the 8th when Adams caused the opposing backstop to pop up to Warren with the bases loaded and then proceeded to make pinch-hitter Schroll fan the ozone three times unsuccessfully.

Salisbury's initial marker was hung up on the scoreboard in left field as a result of a brace of singles by Kunosh and Brown and Wolfe's sacrifice, the former denting the rubber. In the sixth inning with two hands out, Kunosh again safely wielded the stick for a two base ply and a second later scored when catcher Hart tickled the hearts of his many admirers with a sharp smack over the keystone back that neither Flowers or Armstrong could reach.

The final tally was made by the locals in their half of the 8th. Thompson, the first batter to face Craig who had replaced Clayton, was given a life when Flowers misused his easy roller. Kunosh helped him on to second with a beautiful draw shot down the baseline. A wild pitch advanced the runner to third and Hart duplicated his "man of the hour" stunt of the 6th by dumping a little Texas leaguer over third base.

garg to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act, both of which he would repeal. In an oratorical essay given this week to the Baltimore papers, the Senator declares that the rights of our great American system must be preserved. He will find the sentiment for preservation nationwide, but not all will agree with him that the preservative should be alcohol.

Mr. Garrett will have the hearty support of the majority of influential Republican leaders in the State and there is little doubt of his success at the primaries.

WILLIAM B. BRATTAN

William B. Brattan, one of the oldest men in the county, died at his home near Willards last week, of general debility and the infirmities of old age. Mr. Brattan was a nonagenarian having reached the ripe old age of 94. He had been living practically his whole life at the old Brattan homestead.

At one time Mr. Brattan was a large land owner and controlled a tract of more than 1200 acres. He had been in feeble health for some time. His funeral services were held on Thursday. He is survived by his widow, well over 80 years of age, by four sons, Messrs. Hilary W. Brattan, ex-Sheriff of this county, and now connected with the Enforcement office of Maryland, John, Alvin and Bayard Brattan; two daughters: Kate and May, the latter one living home while the former is a resident of the west.

IT NEVER FAILS STATES BAILEY

Has Recommended Tanlac To Hundreds of Customers Always With Fine Results.

Although it has been two years now since Benjamin W. Bailey, well known grocery merchant at West Lafayette and Dukeland Avenues, Baltimore, recovered his health he is still feeling fine and, like thousands of others, he takes advantage of every opportunity to express his gratitude to Tanlac.

"If I had words strong enough," said Mr. Bailey, in an interview, a few days ago, "I would have every run-down suffering person in Baltimore taking Tanlac. It built me up to health and strength two years ago and I have not needed a drop of medicine to this good day."

"Before I ran across the medicine I had been going down hill, and suffering from about every trouble that comes from indigestion, for several months. Finally I just broke completely down and was on the flat of my back for three solid months. I was bothered with constipation, nervousness, gas and pains in the stomach, nausea, heart palpitation and smothering spells. I could not sleep and was as weak as a baby."

"My first bottle of Tanlac did not seem to help much, but I stuck to it for a fair trial and on the second bottle I commenced to pick up as if by magic. I soon regained my lost health and I have felt fine ever since. In fact, Tanlac made a new man of me, that's the story in a nut shell. My son-in-law also took Tanlac with astonishing results and while I have recommended it to hundreds of my friends and customers I have never known it to fail. Nobody can go wrong by taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Salisbury by all good druggists.—Adv. 263.

Comment of County Agent Cobb On Agricultural Happenings

A recent report sent out by the government states that the tomato acreage this year will be about 205,000 acres. In 1921 there were only 87,900 acres of canning tomatoes while in 1920 the total acreage was 230,000 acres. Of this acreage New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland will have about 64,400 acres; California 30,000 acres; Indiana 47,500 acres; Missouri 10,800 acres; New York 9,000 acres; Ohio 7,700 acres; Utah 5,100 and Virginia 8,300 acres. Of the total, five States, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, California and Indiana will have 141,900 acres or about 68 per cent.

We have been talking to quite a few canners lately and find that they are all agreed that 20c. per basket is all that the market will handle. But they feel sure that they will be able to handle all that is grown this year and hope that the market will stiffen up so that they can pay more for the raw product. Reports from various sources seem to agree that the shelves are somewhat bare of this commodity but also agree that the public will not stand for any more 23 to 25c. tomatoes in the cans. Tomatoes have always been used as a side dish in almost every hotel and restaurant until the last year or so and during this time it is seldom that they are served with meals. Perhaps this "buyers strike" may run its course before long and the market for tomatoes strengthen.

There seem to be a great many late tomato patches in the county this year and of course there are a great many fine looking fields. We find that many of the growers changed their mind about not planting and this may explain why so small plants are to be seen. We saw William Coopers' vigorous looking plants. If these plants need top dressing it looks as if there were a great many more patches that would be benefited by some sort of a top or side dressing. Speaking about tomatoes we were down in the Nanticoke section the other day and saw some real tomato fields. Henry Roberts has a fine looking field, in fact he has the best looking field of tomatoes that we have seen in the county. Fine vigorous plants with the deep rich color that denotes health and Mr. Roberts said that he expected to pick four or five tons to the acre with expectations of getting a larger yield. There are many more good looking fields of tomatoes in that section as well as between Salisbury and White Haven but there are also some patches that are just the reverse.

Sam White had quite an extensive asparagus patch and he was still cutting and getting good returns. But several other patches had been "laid by" apparently very early and as a result they were yielding none at this time. The owners of these other fields probably had a good reason for stopping cutting when they did but if not they are losing some good money that they could have obtained. Mr. White also knows how to grow raspberries or some one who is associated with him because his raspberry patches showed that no novice was handling them. Don't know when we have seen any finer looking raspberry plants and they tasted as good as they looked. There were many other fine patches but we are not able to mention their names but we give them credit at least.

Stephen Dolbey sure has some nice looking corn and in spite of what our "inland farmers" say we are sure that its good looks is not all due to the salt air. Looks like good land, good preparation of the land, right kind of plant food and the proper care rather than salt air. Henry Roberts also has some real corn and we were interested to know that he had just cultivated his corn with a disc harrow throwing up sort of ridges which seemed to give fine results especially in that section.

One nice looking place took our eye because the buildings, grounds and crops all looked so well. We found out that this was the home of John S. Nutter, a colored man who is spoken of as a good farmer by the men we met. Many other colored farmers in the same section had fine looking places and deserve a whole lot of praise and recommendation for their efforts.

We saw one stand of timber, or thicket, that looked like those in Germany and France where they practice systematic thinning and planting like any other crop. We have not seen a great many such thickets in this section and it sure looked good.

There won't be room in these columns to mention all the good things that we saw while in the Nanticoke Bivalve, Clara and White Haven section but the good things were there both in crops and men. We were sorry not to have a chance to meet some of the gentler sex but it is just as well perhaps considering the associates that we had with us on that trip.

We were told the first year that we were in this county that "timothy" could not be grown. Sounded somewhat funny to us and yet we find men today who say it can't be done. If these men and others who really believe this will take a ride with us some day we will be glad to show them some timothy that is as pretty as they can find anywhere. Or if they will come up to our office we will show them some pictures of some real timothy grown in Wicomico County. Just lately we have seen mighty fine looking timothy on the Williams Farm, on W. S. Nocks farm and while down in the eastern section of the county we saw several but the field belonging to Thomas Jones was perhaps the best of all those we had a chance to see.

Something wrong with the wheat this year but so far we have not been able to find out just what caused the small yield. We have asked a large number of farmers and several threshermen and they have no definite answer but they all seem to think that the winter had something to do with the small yield. Estimates place the yield at only 50 per cent, while the eye is apparently running above the average yield. Plenty of wheat straw but few grains and the grains that do thresh out are small and inferior.

We have noticed a great many apple trees afflicted with fire or twig blight. This disease is bad in New York State and other States that we visited this summer. No remedy for it but the diseased twigs should be cut off as far down as necessary to get to new wood. Use some disinfectant when pruning so as not to spread the disease. This pruning may be done any time but should be done by all means before the sap begins to flow next spring.

Boys and Girls Prizes.
The Fair Association has very generously voted $400 to be given as prizes to boys and girls at the County Fair to be held in August. This sum will be divided equally so that will allow $200 for the girls and a like sum for the boys. The Fair Committee has been very lenient this year in their rules regarding this prize money and if the boys and girls do not respond with a large number of exhibits we shall be very sorry. There will be four prizes offered divided as follows. First $100; second $50; third $30; fourth $20.

Each boy must exhibit at least 12 (twelve) products grown on the farm not including nuts but will include vegetables, hay, corn, etc. This year the boy may collect some of these from farms other than his own but he must do his own selecting and arranging. Next year the rules will make each boy grow the products himself. Any boy entering must be under 18 years of age.
Similar rules will apply for the girl's exhibits but they will be required to exhibit at least 12 articles made at home. No sewing or mats, etc., will be allowed but the exhibit may include canned products, pickles, preserves, dried products, jams, jellies, cakes, bread, etc.

There should be a large number of exhibits because it shows a fine spirit on the part of the Fair Committee and a large exhibit will make them feel that they are well repaid. Again the prizes are large enough to compensate each winner for any effort that may be expended in getting the exhibit together. Details of this exhibit may be obtained from Mr. David Ward and we will try to keep up with developments so that we may be able to give out information along this line.

DAIRY PRICES HIGH.
Prices of dairy and poultry products suffered the least in the rapid deflation of prices of farm products which began in 1920 and continued through 1921, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sentimental Melodies

THERE are times when your mood craves music of sentiment and romance—the lilting ballads of love, the songs of exquisite tenderness—for which Oscar Seagle's rich baritone is so wonderfully adapted.

Two of his best—"Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charming," and "When You and I Were Young, Maggie"—are placed on sale today.

In them the full-throated, sustained quality of tone; the delicate gradations of expression; the singer's interpretation of emotion—all are reproduced with a realism which leaves the listener with caught breath and moistened eyes.

These two records are typical of Columbia quality and superiority. You will appreciate their difference, their velvet-smoothness, and the absence of annoying, disconcerting surface sounds which permits you to enjoy every note of the music.

In their unmarred accuracy of reproduction is caught the very movement of the singer's lips; the sweep of the bow across muted strings; the shades of harmony which—from solo to symphony—blend into pictures of musical tone and color.

Tear out this month's list of new Columbia Records. Take it to any Columbia dealer. He will be glad to play all the selections you wish to hear.

Columbia Symphony Records—Artists with superb voices have sung them. Great orchestras have played them. Virtuosos of the violin, cello, harp, pianoforte have given of their genius. Columbia recording has caught all their majesty. Columbia methods of record making give you perfect rendition.

ELIMINATING MUNICIPAL WASTE.

For the past several years there has been a growing tendency to take municipal government out of politics and place it on an efficient business basis. Experiments carried on in scores of cities and towns have proved the wisdom of the movement and in some cases have been the cause of rapid development undreamed of theretofore. Some of our cities have leaped into national prominence because of the rapid strides they made after substituting city managements for the former type of government.

At best, the average city is but a vast business association working for certain well defined collective and common interests while at the same time allowing each individual to make toward his own goal with greater ease and facility. It is the duty of the city government to do those things which will most rapidly advance the common cause, improve living and educational conditions, alleviate the burdens of the poor, provide police and fire protection, and in other ways take care of the collective interests of the citizenry.

City governments try to do these things, but because of their complex character, because of politics, because of inexperience and lack of training in municipal work, they either fail fully to accomplish what they should accomplish or else arrive at their goal only after unnecessary and often excessive waste of time and money. A man working for a mutual business association numbering ten thousand co-partners could never so assimilate the details of management in two years as to qualify him to take complete charge of the institution. Yet we elect a mayor and city council every two years and expect them to take hold at once and carry on the municipal work smoothly, effectively, and economically.

Even in those cases in which the city government is carried over from term to term, the same objections prevail in greater or less degree. When the administration changes, there is likely to be a complete change in the personnel of the city government except for those who are serving the "long terms." This means that the incoming officers are deprived of competent advice and must learn through costly experience what their duties are and how those duties should be carried out. The inevitable result is waste of both time and money.

Progressive communities have found the solution to these problems in city managements. The administration of the modern city is complicated business and demands the guiding hand of an expert trained for that very work. There are men available who have made a life-long study of municipal government, who know urban problems and are trained to solve them, who are fitted by education and experience to take charge of the departments of a city, big or little, and place them on a business basis.

It is the duty of the city manager to study the problems of the city and recommend to the council the measures for their solution, to supervise every department, to appoint and discharge the city employees, to act as expert advisor to the council, to coordinate work and purchases in such a way as to decrease expense, to handle the thousand and one minor things that come up in the routine of the day's work. His duties, of course, are subject to the limitations of the law by which he is appointed but his powers should be broad and his authority unquestioned.

Removed from the perils of political pressure, the city manager is able to do those things which will result in the greatest good to the greatest number. Free from the handicap of having to do what some "boss" wants done for selfish interests, he can direct the affairs of the city on a high, clean, efficient plane that makes for a bigger and better city. A recent campaign cry was "more business in government and less Government in business." The elimination of the Government from business seems to be a more or less hopeless task, but such a draw-back as this could be to some extent overcome by putting more business in government.

This is the age of progress and progress demands efficiency and business-like organization and operation. No greater progressive stride could be taken than giving the mayor and city council the permanent aid and advice of a man trained in municipal work.

NEEDED: PINCH HITTERS.

The Salisbury Base Ball Club needs pinch hitters, quite a number of them in fact. Those who volunteer will not have a chance to step up to the plate in Gordy Park and do a Babe Ruth, thereby covering themselves with glory, but they will have a golden (note the word) opportunity of making it possible for the players on the Salisbury team to continue stepping up, swatting the ball, and circling the bases.

Ever since the re-organization of the Club, stock in the local team has been on the rise. It seems that we have struck a winning streak and the fans are hopeful that it will last throughout the season. While the team has been going strong, however, other matters vital to organized ball in Salisbury have been somewhat neglected.

We refer to the financing of the grand stand at Gordy Park. Criticisms from those who know make plain the fact that there is not a finer ball plant in the country than ours. Others are larger, more elaborate, better known, but none is more up-to-date, convenient, well kept, or comfortable. The ball park did not arise overnight by the rubbing of Aladdin's wonderful lamp, but was the product of earnest, persistent effort on the part of a few men who had faith in the Eastern Shore League.

Those men are now calling for help. The grand stand has been built and partly paid for. A good many hundreds of dollars are still necessary to wipe out the balance due. At a meeting of the fans on Tuesday night, this fact was made plain by President Ruark who asked those present to show their faith in the Salisbury Club by buying additional stock, stock which holds no promise of dividends except in the fostering of organized ball for this city.

This appeal to buy stock is made public, for it is the public who must support the team just as it is the public who will enjoy the games. When these men, with the interests of the Salisbury team at heart, approach you with a subscription blank, give until it hurts. Your dividends will be paid in happiness and pride at least, if not in actual dollars and cents.

Salisbury needs pinch hitters. Will you volunteer?

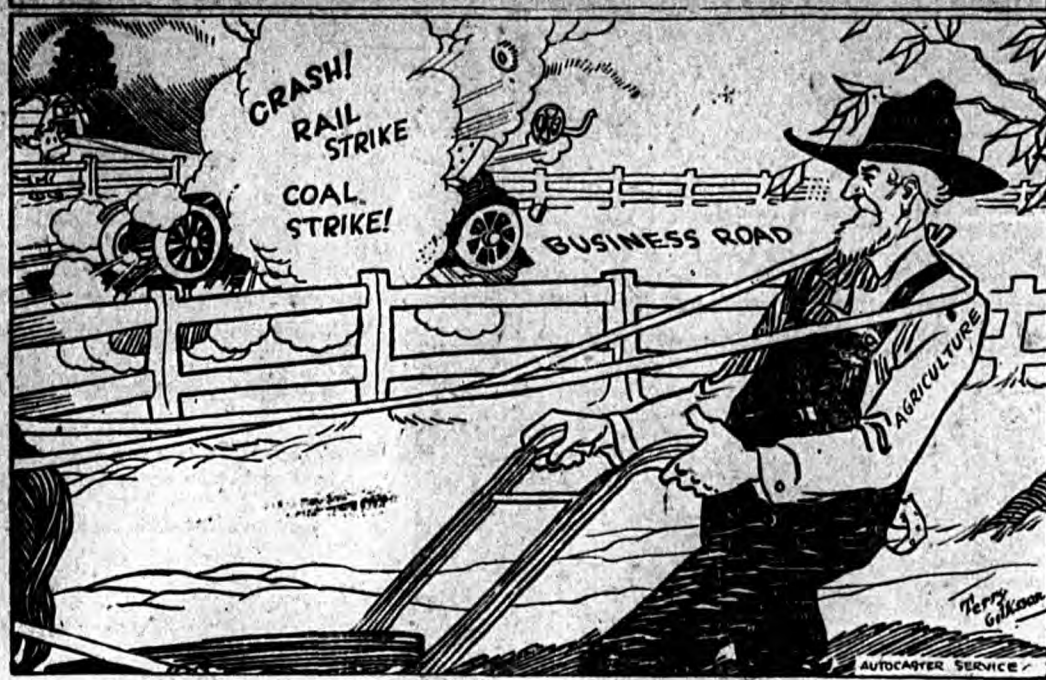

WICOMICALITIES.

HONEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1922.

Six thousand nine hundred divorces granted in one court in Chicago in one year and the city newspapers record as the important result that the Judge has collapsed from the strain. The collapse of a thousand judges isn't comparable to the collapse of six thousand nine hundred homes and the lowering of the moral fibre of thirteen thousand eight hundred men and women, not to say a word about the children. Talk about happiness being the keystone of human development may be all right, but we don't get gold we can use till the ore is crushed and washed and the metal shot through the refining furnace. If ninety-five per cent. of these trial love birds were made to see that a marriage license is not a scrap of paper we might produce a healthier and more self-reliant race.

RULES IN CASE OF FIRE.

Crawl on the floor. The clearest air is the lowest in the room. Cover head with woolen wrap, wet if possible. Cut holes for the eyes. Don't get excited. Familiarize yourself with the location of hall windows and natural escapes. Learn the location of exits to roofs of adjoining buildings. Learn the position of stairways, particularly the top landing and scuttle to the roof. Should you hear cry of "fire" and columns of smoke fill the rooms, above all, keep cool. Keep the doors of rooms shut. Open windows from the top. Wet a towel, and tie it about nose, so not to inhale smoke. Stand at a window and get benefit of outside air. If room fills with smoke keep close to floor and crawl along by the wall to the window.

WICOMICO'S FIRE LOSS WAS LESSENED IN 1921

This County Ranks 12th in Maryland List According to Report of State Insurance Department.

Wicomico's fire losses for the year ending Dec. 31, 1921, were comparatively small according to statistics just released by the Fire Investigation Bureau of the State Insurance Department of Maryland, issued on June 1. This county ranks 12th in the list of the 23 counties of Maryland whose fire losses have been ascertained and computed by the above bureau.

The annual report contains much interesting information, and gives many pointers on how the public can prevent fire waste and what to do in case of fire. After covering these at length, the report gives statistics of the fires for the past year, showing the causes of the blazes and the character of the property destroyed.

An interesting part of the work is the report by counties, which shows the number of fires in each county in the State and the amount of insurance paid. Out of the 23 counties of Maryland, Somerset had the fourth highest insurance loss for the year. The figures for the first four counties were: Baltimore county, first, $185,644.90; Montgomery county, second, $151,014.60; Carroll, third, $112,749.27; and Somerset, fourth, with $94,241.24. The other 19 counties follow, with Calvert the lowest, with $992.50. Wicomico ranks 12th with losses of $50,428.64, and Worcester is 17th, with losses of $35,436.94. Carroll county had the most fires, their total being 184, while Calvert is again the lowest with a total of 8.

hind is scorching you. Do not even then if the firemen with scaling ladders are coming up the building or are near. Never go to the roof, unless as a last resort and you know there is escape from it to adjoining buildings. In big buildings fire always goes to the top. Do not jump through flame within a building without first covering head with a blanket or heavy clothing and gauging the recall the means of exit, and if any firemen are in sight don't jump. If the doors of each apartment, especially in the lower part of the house, were closed every night before the occupants retired, there would not be such a rapid spread of flames. WELL-KNOWN OFFICIAL INSPECTS CROPS HERE

President Crutchfield of A. F. G. Inc., Pleads for Standardization of Products from This Rich Section.

President Crutchfield of the American Fruit Growers, Inc., came to Salisbury from Pittsburgh last week in order to look over the crop situation here and also to hold conference with his representatives Mr. McCaughran and Mr. Stuart, of the Wicomico Farmers' Association.

Mr. Crutchfield, himself, conceived the idea of forming a fruit selling organization several years ago and he soon became the head of the new force. During the war he acted as food administrator for Pennsylvania and was considered as one of Director Hoover's strongest assistants.

When interviewed by a reporter of The News Mr. Crutchfield was planning a tour of all the large farms and shipping centres in this territory. When asked for a statement he replied that the main point which needed to be emphasized at this time to all growers and shippers was the standardization of products. This entails a concentration of crops that are found to give the most yield, and being of the best quality will command the greatest return to the farmer. In other words Mr. Crutchfield suggested that the farmers put forth their time and efforts on worthwhile crops rather than cultivating a diversified number.

The head of this countrywide organization then declared that the American Fruit Growers, Inc., must be certain that the packages which it sells to its customers are all of a certain standard as many of the apples are consumed by wire, or over the telephone, and the purchaser does not see the goods till they are delivered to him.

In grading and shipping, it was pointed out to the reporter, the utmost care must be taken and if the farmer follows the prescribed methods he will find that in the long run he will be a heavy winner. Fruits and vegetables are like the milk that is delivered on the doorsteps of the city homes, in that their freshness adds to their attractiveness and selling qualities.

Mr. Crutchfield spoke very complimentary of this section and its products and stated that his company is interested in this field and would like to continue its policy of constructive marketing in hopes that the growers and shippers would utilize their resources in lucrative trade with nearby centres.

VICTIM OF FALL FROM HOTEL BURIED FRIDAY

Authorities and Western Union Officials Unable to Locate Home or Relatives of Charles Gibson.

Charles Gibson, Western Union lineman whose fall last week from a hotel porch was fatal, was buried Friday at Parsons Cemetery. All efforts to reach relatives of the dead man were in vain and he rests in the local burying ground as an unknown corpse and somewhere there is possibly a father, mother, sister or brother anxiously awaiting word from the one they haven't heard from for some time.

Wires were dispatched by the authorities and the Western Union officials to every possible place where the unfortunate victim was thought to have connections of some kind but they failed to establish any light on his former associations and home. A special messenger was sent to Philadelphia to look up some clues there inasmuch as Gibson had come from Philadelphia several weeks ago to join the local forces. But his whereabouts in that city while there were completely hidden.

Several letters among his effects gave hint of former living in both Syracuse and Utica, New York, but the police of these cities were unable to get the desired information. He was supposed to be a single man and companions stated that he was eagerly awaiting a letter from his sweetheart addressed to him at Onley, Va. It is thought that if this letter puts in its appearance, matters will be cleared up.

POPULARITY CONTEST DRAWS 25,000 VOTES

Miss Lillian Parker Takes Lead Monday But is Passed by Miss Tyndall in Next Voting.

Over 25,000 votes have been cast by moving picture goers at the Arcade Theatre for their favorites in the popularity contest. No little interest has been aroused over Manager Insley's novel proposition for the selection of Salisbury's most popular girl and the establishing of her in a special production to be staged here in this city with a local cast and certain attractive spots, as the background for the film.

Conspicuous has been the rise of Miss Lillian Parker among the list of aspirants for the laurels and her displacement on Monday of Miss Irma Tyndall as leading candidate. Miss Parker is probably one of the youngest girls in the contest and yet she has many friends who are striving hard to put her in the front.

Most consistent has been the voting for Miss Irma Tyndall who since the very outset has been either in first place or second. Miss Louisa Graham and Miss Lena Dishell are also contestants who have been supported by a strong following all along.

The contest closes on Aug. 12 and it is a safe bet that the voting will run up to the century mark in thousands. Manager Insley is booking photoplays of the highest type now that the vaudeville has been discontinued during the summer months and movie fans in this city should show their appreciation of his efforts by increased patronage. It is a well known fact that bookings of famous stars in worthwhile screen picturizations demand full houses whenever presented in order that a display will not result in a tremendous loss for the exhibitor.

Following is the standing of the first 20 contestants in the field of 43:

Irma Tyndall 3049
Jean Dishell 2980
Lillian Parker 2830
Louisa Graham 2750
Marguerite Grier 1480
Algea Smith 1350

DIAMOND DUST

One of the most pleasing facts to be noted in the play of the White Clouds during the past week has been the marked development of Wolfe's style of action at third. Some time ago a hasty glance at the working of the infield combination would have suggested a weak link on the extreme left side of the diamond. However Wolfe has apparently recognized some of his weaknesses and by perseverance and hard play has succeeded in eliminating the main troubles. He judges the batters more accurately and is learning to go to the left side after balls labeled for hits. There are but few players in the league who possess a better throwing arm and he has started quite a few double plays here of late.

Everybody is pleased with the work of Hart, the new backstop. The big fellow is a veteran in the game and knows all the arts and wiles that are employed to put the other fellow to a disadvantage. "Bill" studies his pitchers in the pinches and few thefts are perpetrated by the opposing baserunners after the reach the initial hazzack. But Hart's main asset is his consistent clouting and fans have come to rely upon him for a score when he picks up the dirt in front of the plate and rubs it on the old trust-worthy bludgeon.

Kunosh and Warren are a fine team around the midway station and the phrase, "Warren to Kunosh to Thompson" is becoming as familiar to the Salisbury crowds as the one made famous by Connie Mack's trio, "Harry to Collins to McInnis." Kunosh is a graceful handler of grounders that come his way while Warren has been in the habit of going to the deep short field, making a clean pickup and getting his throw off in time to beat the runners after they reach their initial elongated form stands him in good stead and his far-reaching mitt has won the applause of the fans more than once.

Poke Whalen and his charges down in Parkley seem to be getting an unusual number of bumps recently and quite naturally followers of the sport are seeking a cause for the setbacks to this one time invincible club. Certainly it still possesses the same number of demon sluggers that overwhelmed the various twirlers in the league with an unmistakable dread when they were called upon to face the array of hitters in a critical moment. And the team does not look weak in the field. It probably plays more inside ball than any of the other nines in the circuit. And so by the processes of elimination and deduction we conclude that a cog has slipped somewhere on the inside and that the fighting spirit has thereby been materially lessened. It is an accepted theory that when dissension and petty troubles creep into the ranks of an outfit that it as a whole is going to suffer. And they say that everything is not going so smoothly down in the Virginia camp. A few critics have assailed certain methods of Manager Whalen and wounded pride and hurt feelings have handicapped the ability of several of his stars. The evening after the doubleheader with Parkley on the local diamond, Shepke the visitor's pitching ace and Fitzburger, the heavy hitting right fielder, were on Main Street in front of the Arcade discussing with outsiders rather unfavorably the affairs of their club. It is very likely then that the league leaders will continue to slump until a higher morale is effected among the players.

Much criticism has been directed against the work of several of the umpires in the league games and especially loud have been the complaints emanating from Cambridge where spectators have attributed the loss of several games to incorrect decisions. While a major portion of the questioning of the arbiter's judgment on the part of the onlookers and players comes as a result of prejudiced viewpoints, as we have already pointed out, investigation should be made for in some instances some of the umpire's work has been woefully weak. President Miller should endeavor to get the best umpires possible under the salary conditions so that a game is decided by the individual prowess of a team and not by a wrong decision on the part of the diamond chief. Without a doubt, Salisbury's chances for winning the second encounter on Tall Cedar day were killed in the very first inning by poor decisions at third and home. On the whole, however, it is the opinion of the writer that the umpiring has been above par.

Hummer Fails To Get Revenge On Salisbury

Former White Cloud Allows Three Runs While Teammates Fall To Score at Crisfield Saturday.

No mercy was granted by the White Clouds to the offerings of their former teammate, Hummer, when they faced him Saturday afternoon at Crisfield. They hit the ball on the nose every time, although errors played a conspicuous part in the downfall of the pitcher who twirled a fairly creditable game.

Manager Davis pulled the sensa-

IN MEMORIAM.

IN MEMORY OF OUR MADALINE.

Our daughter how we did deplore
The day you were taken from our door.
Our home will miss your kindly face,
And there'll be none to take your place.

Stay with us we dare not pray,
Though brief our earth was thy stay;
The Lord knew best to call thee home
And some day he'll call us to come.

We'll meet together in that bright home,
Where tears and sorrow never come;
The veil of mystery will be rend,
Then O, then we'll comprehend.

God bless thy little one so dear,
And keep them tenderly in thy care.
Watch over them 'till life is past.
Take them to be with her at last.

By mother,
FRANCES BRADLEY.

MARYLAND HAS MOTOR VEHICLE FOR EVERY 9.75 PERSONS LIVING WITHIN ITS LIMITS

Based On Figures Of 1922 Registration And Last Census. Commonwealth Stands High In Nation-wide Comparison For 1921 With Golden Gate State In Lead.

Maryland is very definitely on the automobile map of the United States. With the 1922 registration of 148,307 motor vehicles to a population of 1,499,661, according to the census of 1920, there is one such vehicle to every 9.75 persons in the State. This computation has been made by the Baltimore Sun in a recent article.

However, in making comparisons with other States it is not fair to use the 1922 registration figures, because it is impossible to obtain them for the other States. The only registration figures that cover the country are those for 1921, which are supplied by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. These give 1921 registration figures for all the States, and on the basis of the 1921 registration of 138,247 motor vehicles in Maryland this State would have an automobile for every 10.23 persons.

At that Maryland makes a better showing for the ownership of motor vehicles than do any of the States along the Atlantic seaboard, which have large cities within their borders; better than New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts or New Jersey.

New York has an automobile for each 13.13 persons; Pennsylvania has one for every 12.23 persons; New Jersey one for every 11.12 persons, and Massachusetts is very close to Maryland with one for every 10.23 persons.

It is necessary to work out the percentage of automobiles to population down to three decimal points to show that Maryland actually has more automobiles than Massachusetts. The only States East of the Rockies which contain large cities and which make a better showing than Maryland are Illinois, which has Chicago, and Missouri, which has St. Louis. Illinois has an automobile for each 9.34 persons, while Missouri is very slightly behind her with an automobile for each 9.45 persons.

The State which has the greatest number of automobiles in proportion to its population is California, with a machine for a little more than every five persons in the State. Iowa, in the Corn Belt, comes next with a machine for each 5.15 persons; South Dakota is third with one for each 5.13 persons and Nebraska is fourth with one for every 5.12 persons.

A comparison of the automobile registration of the various States with the population of those States shows that it is not the big, prosperous States that have the greater number of motorcars in proportion to population, but the sparsely settled States of the Far West. Aside from the States already mentioned as leading, Kansas, Colorado, Oregon and North Dakota have an automobile for fewer than every seven persons in those States; Nevada, Wyoming, Washington, Indiana, Minnesota, Michigan, West Virginia and Ohio have one for fewer than every eight persons in those States; Idaho and Utah have one for fewer than every nine persons, and Oklahoma, Montana, Texas, Vermont, Florida, Maine, Illinois and Missouri have one for fewer than every ten persons in those States.

Mississippi has the fewest machines in proportion to its population.

There is only one machine there for each 27.12 persons. Arkansas comes next with one for each 26 persons; Louisiana third with one for each 23 persons, and Tennessee is fourth with a machine for each 20 persons.

Maryland's figure is close to the average of the country. The registration shows a total of 10,412,688 machines in the country as of 1921, with a population of 105,710,650. This gives a machine for each 10.162 persons while Maryland's exact figures for 1921 is one machine for every 10.840 persons.

In view of the fact that Maryland now has a tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline for the purpose of wiping out the deficit of $1,279,000 in the State's roads maintenance fund, and will have a 2 cent tax after Jan. 1, 1924, in lieu of the present automobile license fee. The yield to the States which have such a tax is interesting.

A gasoline tax is imposed in 18 States. In 1921 it yielded in Arizona $87,928; in Arkansas $170,000; Colorado $559,479; Delaware $176,489; Florida (6 1-3 months), $283,867; Georgia (4 1-3 months), $302,157; Louisiana $411,938; Nebraska (eight months) $228,799; North Carolina (10 months), $506,018; Oregon $935,125; Pennsylvania (four months), $836,325; and Washington $471,847.

BERLIN IS MECCA FOR HORTICULTURAL SOCIETIES IN THEIR SUMMER MEETING

Harrison's Nurseries Plays Host To Over Five Hundred Guests From Maryland's Two Shores—Tour Of Orchards Follows Big Dinner And Short Addresses.

Fully five hundred people attended the meeting of the Maryland State Horticultural Society in conjunction with the Maryland Agricultural Society and the Peninsula Horticultural Group at the Harrison Nurseries, Berlin, on last Friday. This number included many visitors from this section of the Shore and also those members of the above societies who came over by way of Claiborne and stopped for entertainment at Easton the previous day.

A real old-time country dinner was served by the management of the Harrison Nurseries and it is said that over two thousand sandwiches and 100 gallons of cream had been provided in addition to the rest of the luncheon.

After-dinner speeches were started by President J. Andrews of the State Horticultural Society who jumped up on the long wooden tables and after leading a cheer for the host acted as toastmaster and called upon the many "celebrities" present to give three minute talks.

The first one to respond was Mr. D. G. Harry, president of the Agricultural Society, who expressed the appreciation of all present for the generous display of hospitality extended to all the visitors. President Wood, of the University of Maryland, commented upon the wide renown that Senator Harrison was winning for his nursery products and that Maryland was fast forging to the front in this particular field. He also added that the Eastern Shore farms were in high standards of cultivation.

Senator Disharoon, of Salisbury, was the next speaker and he began his talk with the statement that he was the owner of the largest orchard in the world, that bore no fruit. But he wanted to learn more about the industry and therefore felt highly honored in being able to assemble with all of these growers and agriculturists. Salisbury was then pointed out by him as being the real city metropolis of the Eastern Shore.

Senator Roberts, of New Jersey, and president of that state's Horticultural Society complimented this Peninsula upon the excellence of its foodstuffs and said that New Jersey was glad to have such a worthy competitor in the Philadelphia and New York markets. Mr. Beatty, of the Federal Department of Agriculture, told his hearers that the future of all orchards depended upon these nurseries. He also expressed a wish that all horticulturists would recognize the valuable work being carried on at the University of Maryland in their behalf.

Mr. E. P. Cohill, of Hancock, was called upon to tell something about the organization of the State Horticultural Society of which he was one of the founders. Mr. Cohill later in his speech denounced the brokers and commission buyers as being the farmer's worst enemies. He was followed by two State Senators, Norris, of Baltimore, and the gentleman from Carroll county.

Although a slight rain was falling, the spirit of the horticulturists was not in the least bit dampened and the assembly was marked by its social atmosphere, everywhere groups getting together and discussing "old times" and future crops. Mr. Allen, Salisbury's large fruit grower was present with his party and there were several other guests from this city.

After these addresses the party visited the Pomona Orchard located on the Berlin-Snow Hill road. The principal item of interest in this orchard was the large crop of Belle of Georgia and the extraordinary size of the Carmen peaches. Forty-five peaches to a 5-8 basket gives some idea of the size that these beauties have attained. In this orchard demonstration of the method of preparing the peach trees and applying Paradichloro-benzene for the control of peach tree borers was arranged under the auspices of the County Agent Mr. E. I. Oswald and State Entomologist Prof. E. B. Cory. From there the party returned to Ironshore and viewed the large blocks of peach and apple trees and other nursery stock, aggregating ten million trees. From there the tourists went to the Squire Farm, where the principle item of interest was the wonderfully fine crop of William's early red apples. The Black Twig orchard on this farm bore approximately one barrel of apples to the tree at six years of age and has been bearing a full crop each year since that time. This is remarkable for this variety, as the Paragon is notably a late bearer.

Visit was next made to the farm where Admiral Commodore Stephen Decatur was born, which is now an eleven thousand tree orchard in full bearing. In this orchard there was an early variety of peach ripening and the visitors regaled themselves to their heart's content.

The party then proceeded to the Home Orchard and paid particular attention there to the excellent equipment for preparing spray materials and for handling the spraying problem. In this orchard as in all of the others, elevated platforms with from two to three cookers and running water are used in preparing both the dormant spray material and summer sprays.

One of the most important factors in the success of these orchards is the thorough way in which they are sprayed from the time the buds begin to swell to the time the peaches are off the trees. A complete coating of self-boiling lime and sulphur is maintained throughout the season. Another remarkable sight at the Home Farm was the 18 year old Elberta peach orchard, which has a crop this year and has borne a crop for the last 13 years. This is probably the best producing orchard to be found in the United States. There are 2,000 trees in this orchard and they have borne as high as 30 carloads of first class fruit in a season. This orchard, although a great age for a peach orchard, showing no signs of failing and of the original planting of 2,000 trees, practically all of them are still standing.

The facilities for packing and loading the cars at the packing shed attracted a great deal of attention on account of the amount of fruit going out from this station each year. To date 50 cars of Yellow Transparent apples and ten cars of peaches have moved from this point. There will be about 300 cars of peaches and 150 cars of apples handled by this organization. The fruit is packed in the shed right along side of a switch capable of holding 40 cars and carriers are shunted into ice cars on gravity roller carriers, and shipped as far west as Indianapolis and north into Canada, and into the leading Southern cities.

After the tour a great many of the visitors went to Ocean City for the week-end to enjoy the surf bathing.

SPEAKS IN BEHALF OF THE AMERICAN FARMER

Senator France Discusses Problems of Country's Agricultural Interests in Senate Speech.

In a recent speech in the United States Senate, on "The Present and Future Welfare of the American Farmer," Senator Joseph I. France discussed the farm schedule of the tariff bill and the influence which have caused the serious agricultural depression, and summarized some of the measures which have been or should be adopted, looking toward the rehabilitation of American agriculture. Senator France presented in his speech complete statistics showing the agricultural wealth and production of the United States and the amount of production of various agricultural products in the different countries of the world, showing the relation of foreign production of agricultural products to the normal and present value of currency in certain foreign countries.

WARREN'S COMING HOME

President Harding took a summer vacation trip home to Marion, Ohio, this month and here is what happened the day he arrived. Dr. G. T. Harding, father of the president, went out behind the chicken house, performing that well-known execution (as shown here), which meant his boy was to have chicken for dinner—a big "yellow leg" that went fine with mashed potatoes, cream gravy and hot butter.

American farmers must now have an adequate protective tariff on the products of their farms or be brought to the brink of ruin during the coming years by a flood of imports with which they are threatened because of conditions growing out of the war. In some countries there is an over-production and superabundance of food. In other countries there is under-production of food and actual famine. Conditions of the exchange market and the currencies of the various countries are such that the food is not moving through the arteries of world commerce from the countries where it exists over-production and accumulation of food to the countries where there is under-production of food and actual famine.

INTEREST IS KEEN FOR LEGION-ESSAY CONTEST

Time Limit Is Extended to October Upon Request of State and County Superintendents.

The national essay contest of the American Legion which will award $1,500 in cash prizes to boys and girls has been extended until Oct. 6 upon the urgent request of State and county superintendents and commissioners of education throughout the United States.

The new date will allow all children of the United States and its possessions to participate after the schools open in September, giving the teachers an opportunity to present the subject, "How the American Legion Can Best Serve the Nation."

Meanwhile, scores of letters have been received by Mr. Garland W. Powell, assistant national director, at national headquarters of the American Legion in Indianapolis, from State school officials telling of unanimous cooperation in nearly every State, educational officials are urging that boys and girls be interested in writing this essay as vacation activity.

A circular to county superintendents issued by Mrs. Josephine Corlies Preston, superintendent of public instruction, Olympia, Wash., emphasizing the vacation advantage of the contest, is one of many.

Porto Rico and the Canal Zone particularly felt the need of extending the time for the essay, letters having been received from Commissioner of Education Juan B. Huys, of Porto Rico, and Superintendent of Schools A. A. Lang, of the Canal Zone.

The cash prizes, divided into $750 for the first, $500 for the second, and $250 for the third, are to be used toward scholarships in colleges designated by the winners. In each State there will be a first prize silver medal, for the best essay in that State, and a bronze medal for the second best. Other prizes to be announced later will be awarded.

All girls and boys between the ages of 12 and 18 inclusive are eligible to enter the contest, regardless of whether they are school attendants. The essay must not be more than 500 words in length. Age of writer will be given due consideration.

The essay must be received at a place designated by the county superintendent of schools not later than midnight of Oct. 6, 1922. The winning essays of the county will be forwarded to the State Department of Americanism Chairman of the American Legion, not later than Oct. 20. The winners of the State group then are to be forwarded to the National Americanism Director of the American Legion at Indianapolis where the first, second and third national winners will be chosen.

WHAT A WORKER CAN DO

The wonderful dexterity acquired by American women in industry is illustrated by the following account in The World Almanac, taken from the records of an investigator for the United States Department of Labor.

A telephone operator's average daily hours are eight and one-half, but what would you say if you saw "working through" loss of relief or "excess loading," these are often exceeded. Two hundred and twenty-five calls per hour, or three and one-half per minute, seems an example of real "speed," and yet the "peak load" often exceeds this.

In the needle trades a girl tends a sewing machine carrying twelve needles making 4,000 stitches a minute, or 2,400,000 in ten hours, often working in a bright light and with unshaded eyes, and amidst a deafening roar.

In the pea-canning industry a girl inspects two cans of peas and sends 72,000 per day. The coppers place the caps on the cans at the rate of sixty to eighty per minute.

In the shoe industry a workman revolves the shoe in such manner as to trim off the crimped surplus leather from the "upper." His task is 5,200 shoes a day.

In the eyeletting department of the shoe industry an expert worker can finish 2,000 pairs of women's shoes in one day. Each of these shoes has as many as twelve holes. Irregularly spaced, making 48,000 eyelets per day.

REPORT ON DISTRICT TRADE IS FAVORABLE

Better Business Is Looked Forward to in Cities While Country Crops
Progress Under Good Conditions

According to facts disclosed by the latest report for the Baltimore District by Bradstreet, the general trade and collections continue fair with some improvement noted in business with nearby sections. Wholesalers and jobbers look forward to much better business for the last half of the year and are preparing for it. Retailers stocks are not large and therefore buying is on a more liberal scale.

Sales are larger and more numerous in dry goods, notions and kindred lines. Shoe sales have not improved to any material extent. Home consumption of merchandise is large and notwithstanding the hot weather business at retail is more active than for some time. Eight new industries and ten expansions of existing plants representing an investment of $1,203,000 were reported for the month of June. Car loading has greatly increased but there is very little coal moving.

So far the shopmen's strike has not seriously interfered with transportation as not all of the men responded to the strike call. Gasoline is selling at twenty-eight cents wholesale. Turpentine has dropped from $1.46 1-2 per gallon to $1.21 in less than 30 days. All lubricating oils are in steady demand at firm prices. Viscous oils are fairly firm but non-viscous stocks have no market.

Receipts of new water-borne wheat in this market so far this season amount to 118,221 bus. against 311,194 bus. arrived up to the same time last year. There is no life to the demand for flour on domestic account with offerings more plentiful than buyers. Demand for new wheat is equal to the offerings from day to day. Corn prices are off and the demand less urgent. Export demand for corn is fairly constant. Little interest is manifested in oats or rye.

Strictly fresh eggs are in fair demand and there is no trouble in disposing of daily receipts of high grade table butter. New potatoes, green fruits and vegetables are in better demand with prices firmer. Fish in good condition has ready sale, while hard and soft crabs are in fair demand. There is no snap to the demand from dealers for wool and present receipts are sample. Green, salted, green and dry hides are in good demand at full quotations. The cattle market is quiet with prices unchanged.

Weather has caused slight damage to wheat in shock and there are reports of sprouting. The weather has been good for the growth of all crops especially corn, potatoes, gardens and truck. Many fields are said to be as green as in the spring of the year. Corn has made rapid growth and is exceptionally large for this time. The crop is in good condition generally and some is in tassel. On the Eastern Shore oats are being cut while in other sections the crop is ripening rapidly and harvest is beginning. Early potatoes digging continues in southern counties. Early tomatoes continue to ripen. Late planted tomatoes are in bloom or fruiting.

John D. Rockefeller attended church at Tarrytown, N. Y., on Sunday following his 83d birthday, July 8. He made it the occasion to do his bit for humanity, even though it caused him to break a rule of long standing of not posing for pictures. He bargained with newspaper men, agreeing to pose for this special picture if they would attend church with him. It is health, not wealth, that now interests the retired oil king.

One-Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.—Adv.

Cookie Contest.

Wanted: The best recipe in America for making cookies. Any woman who has a cooking recipe which is by way of being a family heirloom; if her cookies have a flavor such as no other cookies ever had; if her cookies will banish all earthly woe, relieve sorrow and pain—she is asked to send her recipe to the national headquarters of the American Legion Auxiliary, Indianapolis, Ind.

These cookie recipes are wanted for use in thousands of cities and towns where the Auxiliary women are going to start baking cookies for the 27,000 service men now in hospitals. Mrs. W. H. Cudworth, chairman of the Legion Auxiliary national welfare and hospital committee, has called on all members of the organization to aid in the establishment of "cookie jars" in hospitals. A jury of sick and disabled soldiers in the nation's hospitals will decide which cookies are best.

Planes Carry Pups.

Two nervous and highly sensitive coyote pups from Miles City, Mont., will travel by airplane to the American Legion national convention in New Orleans next October, convention committee headquarters has been advised.

Captured by the adjutant of Custer Post of the Legion in Miles City the young coyotes will make the convention trip as an advertisement of the productiveness of Montana. Their capture was effected when the Legion official, crawling into a coyote hole with a flashlight, took the pups from their mother, who blinded by the light, offered no resistance. The pups are now about a month old and are eager to sharpen their milk teeth on unprotected hands.

Traveling through the air with wild animals seems to be a habit of Montana Legionnaires. An airplane brought a fiery bobcat from Montana, while the feet of Marshal Poch on the Legion convention platform at Kansas City last year. When the French leader toured the country afterwards under the auspices of the Legion, all the diplomacy of his staff had to be called into play to handle the Montana animal. It is now one of the problems of Paris zoo attendants.

Not Asleep.

On the corner of a block in a downtown section is a restaurant with the flaming sign, "Never Closed." On the other corner a drug store displays its motto: "Open All Night."

Between the two, Wu Ting Lung has his modest laundry. Not to be outdone by the Yankees, he has flung out an electric sign that can be read for a block or more. It reads: "Me Wakee Too."

Aids Big Auto Race.

State officers of the Missouri and Kansas departments of the American Legion have contracted for one of the most notable undertakings yet attempted by the Legion in the 300-mile sweepstakes automobile race to be held in Kansas City, Sept. 16. The race will open the new half million dollar speedway, and the two departments are in a fair way of making a handsome sum which will be used for the care of disabled and otherwise needy veterans.

"It provides us with a chance of doing something really worth while," J. E. Noonan, adjutant of the Missouri department said. "We can participate in one of the greatest sporting events and at the same time provide for the relief of thousands of war veterans."

It is estimated by Mr. Noonan, Frank Samuels, adjutant of the Kansas department, and E. E. Peake, secretary and general manager of the Speedway Association, that 75,000 persons will attend the races.

Part of the Legion's program is to have in attendance Generals Pershing, Harbord and Crowder, Admiral Coots, cabinet officials and the governors of Kansas and Missouri. Members of the Legion are urged to take the form of a spin around the mile and one-quarter bowl by Commander Hanford MacNider with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker in a racing car.

Speaks on Labor.

A decided step toward the promotion of the most amiable relations between the forces of organized labor and World War service men was taken when the delegates to the national convention of the American Federation of Labor applauded the address of Hanford MacNider, national commander of the Legion, who spoke by invitation before the convention on "The Legion and Labor."

Commander MacNider expressed the hope that the American Legion, composed of the defenders of American ideals and American democracy, would never get into politics. He said, however, that the Legion and the American Federation of Labor should stand together, pledging themselves to the task of keeping America as the members of both organizations worked and fought that it should be—American.

"Both of us have as common enemies those who would destroy the lawful integrity of the nation," the commander declared.

That organized labor, which furnished the government almost 700,000 men and women during the World War, has every reason to be interested in the welfare and activities of the service men's organization—the American Legion, was pointed out by George L. Berry, vice-commander of the Legion and president of the International Pressmen's Union.

"We propose that the Legion and the Federation join hands in a great campaign for 'Americanism,'" Mr. Berry said. "The bringing of Mr. MacNider here today, I believe, will cement the relationship between the two organizations so firmly together that misunderstandings, many of which have occurred in the past, will be eliminated in the future and we shall all work henceforth for greater union which will result in better things for all America."

Would Honor Daisy.

A bill to make the American daisy the national flower has been introduced in the House by Representative John Kissell of New York. Mr. Kissell has announced that he will wage a "vigorous campaign" to give the daisy the right of way over the magnolia, the goldenrod and the sunflower. Attention to the daisy was first brought before the public when the American Legion adopted it as its flower at its last national convention held at Kansas City, Mo.

The French poppy was voted down by the World War veterans who wanted a flower which would be typically American.

In his speech before the house Mr. Kissell asked that his bill be given early consideration by the committee. Although opposition from the "dandelion bloc" is expected sponsors of having the Legion flower made the flower of nation are confident that the bill will be passed.

Americanism Frenched.

Each Sunday one of the churches in Arco, Idaho, extends an invitation to the local post of the American Legion to use its sermon hour for a lecture on "Americanism."

Oldest Legion Member.

The oldest member of the American Legion is believed to be Col. F. A. Bouctelle of Seattle, Wash., who recently retired from the regular army after 60 years service. He is more than 80 years old.

MAGNESIUM LIGHTEST METAL.

The lightest metal known that remains comparatively unaltered under ordinary atmospheric conditions, says The World Almanac, is magnesium, which is only two-thirds as heavy as aluminum. Magnesium is a beautiful silvery-white metal that has been made in the United States only since 1915 and is now made at but three plants. It is known to comparatively few people and to most of those few chiefly as a silvery powder used for making flashlights in photography. It was imported from Germany for this use for many years. During the World War large quantities of powdered magnesium were made in the United States for use in star shells designed to illuminate battlefields at night, as well as in special shells designed to show in the daytime exactly where the shells containing it exploded. The white cloud by day and the brilliant white pillar of fire by night—both striking features of the battlefields of the World War—were produced by the combustion of magnesium.

Magnesium in massive form, as sticks or rods, is used to deoxidize other metals in foundries and is a constituent of alloys. More magnesium is now used as a deoxidizer or scavenger in metallurgy than for any other purpose, but its employment in alloys is increasing and may eventually become the largest one. An alloy of magnesium and aluminum is used in making castings for aircraft engines and parts of airplanes. The skeleton of the British airship R-34, the first driftable to cross the Atlantic, is an alloy of aluminum and magnesium, and the yacht Resolute, the defender of the America's Cup in the races in July, 1920, as well as the alternative defender, the Vanitie, carried gaffs made of this alloy.

REEDVILLE

Mrs. Anna Lee Morrison, driving her father's jitney, carried Miss Florence Biddlecomb, of Fairport, and Mr. S. Frank Atwill, of this place to Heathsville last Wednesday. Miss Biddlecomb remained in the old town taking orders for an encyclopedia. Mr. Atwill was attending to business pertaining to school work. They all had dinner at the "Old Tavern," (Rice's Hotel) where "two hundred years ago" according to tradition, the "young bloods of the country" met when hungry, thirsty and travel-stained, for entertainment.

Uncle Steptoe Bennis, highly respected son of an old and well-known colored family, died at his home near Sunnybank, last week after a short illness. He was stricken while threshing wheat at Capt. Jas. E. Marsh's and was brought immediately to this place for medical aid. Dr. Cockrell went home with him, but death came swiftly on, to the regret of many friends, both white and colored. In ante bellum days "Aunt Mary Bennis," long since "Shouting all over God's Heaven," was one of the kitchen women at Marse Henry Sutton home, "Bay View". Uncle Steptoe was one of the little black brood growing up happily and care-free in the "quarters." Fine play-mates they made for the little white folk; and friendship with the good, old-time darkey of the South, of that day, was a beautiful thing, to be valued by both white and black.

Mr. T. J. Marsh returned to Washington last Tuesday, after spending several weeks with Mrs. J. Clarence Jett, of Fleeton and the newest member of the family, pretty little Miss Mabel Flora Jett. They are missing her greatly. Mrs. J. H. Crowther, of "Nater View," Tibitha, accompanied Mrs. Marsh to Washington for a visit. She will spend sometime in Baltimore before coming home. Contractors from Kilmarnock are building Mr. Mitchell's new home in the upper part of Reedville. They also are contracting for other houses to be put up soon, it is said.

The Dooleys, householders of Lillie and Beverlyville, have been working for sometime at Mr. G. N. Reed's where they have put up an additional south porch and added improvements on the inside.

Capt. and Mrs. James C. Fisher, of this place, spent last Friday in Frederickburg. Capt. Fisher going on business for his handsome Oldsmobile. They took with them Mrs. Bettie Harding, of "Holly Dell," Wicomico, who with Mrs. Fisher, enjoyed the historic features of the quaint and attractive old town, and visited some of the nearby battle fields. They were just too late by one night, for the launching of the "Kenmore Association Drive," to secure friends for preserving "Kenmore."

Mrs. H. P. McNeal and her daughter, Miss Velma, were in Baltimore last week for a few days. Miss Velma remained over for ten days or more with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cox, of Park View, Portsmouth.

Mrs. M. E. Haynie, of Fairport, has had Mrs. Elmer Wheeler and her son William, of Baltimore, as guests the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton French, and Clifton, Jr., of Baltimore, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob French, of Fairport, recently.

Mrs. Florence Parker, Misses Powell and Justice, of Onancock, are spending some time with Mrs. A. W. McNeal, and Mrs. G. W. McNeal, of Fairport.

Motoring up from Newport News in their Ford Sedan, Mr. and Mrs.

Gordon Pullen, and Miss Edith Haynes have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Jones, at Fairport.

Mr. Alexander, of Portsmouth, head machinist at Morris-Fisher, has moved his wife and son here, and are making their home at Fairport.

Mr. G. N. Reed and Mr. L. B. Rice, of this place, Mr. T. A. Jett, Jr., of Tibitha, and Rev. W. R. Evans, all of Bethany M. E. Church, South, motored over to Middlesex last week for the District Conference. The trip was made in Mr. Reed's new Cadillac.

Rev. Mr. Apple, Mrs. Apple and several little Apples, of Baltimore, who are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Cockrell, near Tibitha, also were guests of Rev. Mr. Whiteneck's family, of the Church of God, near Tibitha, several days last week.

Capt. and Mrs. James C. Fisher, of "The Gables," are leaving Reedville today for their long anticipated trip across the country, California the objective point. They will make the entire trip in the new car with Mr. Will Lunsford, of this place, at the wheel. A week will be spent in Washington, D. C., enroute and stops will be made at many important and interesting places along the way. Yellowstone National Park will, of course, be visited. They do not expect to be home until some time in October. We are wishing them a successful, happy summer, and a safe return.

Mr. John Tarrant, after spending a few weeks with his parents at Reedville, has gone to North Carolina, where he will be engaged in some literary work during the remaining days of vacation.

Miss Mildred Towles, entertained a number of girl friends at her home here Tuesday afternoon last. They had a delightful time with games, refreshments, and other features.

Mrs. Jos. Clarence Jett, of Norfolk, and little daughter, Esther Elizabeth, have been very welcome visitors for the past week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Jett, Reedville. Baby Esther is a dear little lady of thirteen months, and has a host of relatives here, including grand-parents, and a great grand mother (Mrs. T. W. Jett) to welcome her home-coming.

Four of the Reedville High School girls are studying under Mrs. John A. Palmer, Jr., of Fleeton, this summer in order to shorten their course at school. Those taking this extra course are Misses Louise Palmer, Flora Spriggs and Elsie Haynie, of Fleeton vicinity, and Miss Flora Jett, of "Chestnut Point". They meet for exams, with Mrs. Palmer three times a week. The girls show a fine spirit in spending the fleeting hours of vacation this way. Indeed we are finding more and more each year a splendid lot of girls and boys at the old High School.

She has a large number of students in this and Dorchester counties.

Arrangements have about been completed for the Golden Wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Phillips to take place at their home here on Saturday of this week. POULTRY NOTES

H. W. RICKEY

CARING FOR THE HOME FLOCK.

By H. W. Rickey, Poultry Specialist, Maryland State College.

I have been requested by the editor to write a reasonable article dealing with the immediate and local problems of the city and suburban poultry keepers. It is true that few such poultry men or women have the opportunity to follow all the suggestions as to the care and management of the growing chicks and published in The News monthly. As an illustration, it is not possible in most cases to have the pullets and cockerels separated and kept on range, but there were many principles enunciated in my weekly articles which are applicable to all poultrymen and to all poultry whether in large or small flocks, whether kept for home use or for commercial purposes, with limited or unlimited facilities. The standard of the flock can be maintained and often improved under more or less unfavorable conditions and environment provided the right principles of poultry culture are understood and followed as closely as possible.

At this season the young stock should have reached the point where for the best results, the cockerels should be separated from the pullets, as the males annoy the females to the extent that their growth is retarded somewhat, which delays egg production accordingly. If the flock has the run of the yard, lawn or adjoining lot it would be good practice to confine the cockerels to a small pen and give the females their liberty. If one or two cockerels are to be kept over as breeders, little or no harm would be done by allowing them to go with the pullets. In fact, that is just what should be done. Only vigorous stock should be used for breeding purposes and for egg production, young chicks of low vitality will not develop into good layers or vigorous breeders, and confinement is opposed to strong, vigorous growth.

Chickens, if kept confined to small pens, if well fed, increase in weight and size, but lose in vigor and vitality, as shown by the falling off in weight of chickens fed in pens for marketing after a few weeks of heavy feeding. The problems of the man who raises more than possibly 20 or 40 chickens, who uses the cockerels and culls pullets in his home and keeps over for the following season 15 or 20 pullets, are very simple.

The pullets may be allowed to run free if there is any range at all, while the cockerels are shut in a pen and given a good growing ration, yet a little wider than that given the pullets—that is, one containing somewhat more fattening substance than that furnished the pullets, or about the same ratio that the pullets would get if they had a wide range containing a variety of natural foodstuffs. The readers of this column will recall that I have previously pointed out that where the bugs and worms were plentiful less food with high protein content or muscle and tendon making substance, in the form of meat meal or beef scrap, should be supplied.

For well grown chickens with restricted range, I would suggest the following feed mixtures: Equal parts by weight of cracked corn and wheat with one-half part of oats; but owing to high prices sometimes charged for grains sold in small lots and the inconvenience experienced with the mixing of feeds at home, it is often found both desirable and economical to purchase one of the standard commercial, so-called "growing" feeds, made up of a variety of wholesome grains. In addition to this a "mash" composed of ground grain and meat and milk products should be fed.

The hard grain should be fed twice a day, morning and night, and as near the same time each day as possible, a pint at each feeding for every 16 or 17 well grown five-month-old pullets. While the mash should be fed once a day at noon in troughs, as much as the birds will eat up clean within 15 or 20 minutes, a little experience will soon make it possible to feed the mash without any waste.

Fresh drinking water, one of the most important of feeds, but too often overlooked, should always be at hand. Medium-sized chick grit should also be kept constantly before the chickens in an open box or self-feeding hopper, unless they have the run of open land, a garden or plowed field where an assortment of grit may easily be picked up. In the same way bone meal, a bone builder and crushed oyster shell may be fed. For the cockerels confined to the pen feed the same as directed for the pullets, but double the quantity of cracked corn in the hard grain mixture, or if preferred the same mixture may be used, except that, whole or cracked corn may be fed at night two or three times each week in place of it or as a substitute. Add to the mash five pounds of corn meal and feed daily a plentiful supply of succulent green food, but do not over feed—that is to say, do not throw into the pen more green food than the cockerels will eat within a reasonable time.

Lawn clippings can usually be had without much trouble or expense and may be fed to advantage. In many houses the waste from the table supplies considerable succulent food, such as cantaloupe and watermelon rind, lettuce and cabbage leaves, potatoes and fruit parings, with cantaloupe and watermelon seeds also furnish nutritious feed. Chickens grow and hens lay when these seeds constitute a part of the daily diet. While we have no experimental data to show the value of such materials as poultry feed, I would say in answer to several inquiries that have lately come to me that I have fed both the cantaloupe and watermelon seeds in quantities along with other feed apparently with excellent results.

AGRICULTURE.

Improves Soil.

Green manuring—plowing under green crops—as a means of soil improvement, although it has been emphasized in recent years, can hardly be called a new discovery, says the United States Department of Agriculture. It is really one of the oldest methods. Crops for this purpose were used by the ancients, the Romans using lupines, which were sown in September and turned under in May for the benefit of the following crop.

In Germany the use of lupines began in the middle of the nineteenth century and has proved an important factor in reclaiming the sandy lands of parts of Prussia. In England legumes and other plants are commonly used; in India and Japan the farmers gather green plants of many kinds, sometimes even cutting twigs from the trees and carrying them to the rice fields.

In the United States the use of special green-manure crops is much more general in the South than in the north. Under irrigation they play an important part in orchard culture in the West, but not under dry-farming conditions.

Apples Are Used Up.

The thoroughness with which the apple is now worked over and utilized by some manufacturers makes it comparable with the packing-house pig that leaves only a futile squeal. The apple is not transformed into such a variety of products as the pig, but all are useful, and when the last of the series has been made hardly a smell is left.

In many of the apple-using facories the apples are first pressed to produce cider, which may be sold as such or may be manufactured into vinegar. After thorough pressing the pomace is treated with hot water to remove the pectin, which after purification, is sold in either liquid or solid form to manufacturers of jellies and similar products and to housewives. The much-wasted and squeezed residue is dried, ground, and sold as cattle feed.

Plans System of Roads.

A system of highways that will serve the whole country and will be far superior to any other in the world is being mapped out by Federal and State engineers. It is estimated that the system will comprise 180,000 miles of road. The Federal highway act recently enacted specifically requires that all Federal aid be spent on a connected system of highways consisting of not more than 7 per cent of the road mileage in each State, and that this system shall consist of interstate or primary roads and intercountry or secondary roads.

Proposed systems have been received by the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture from all but eight States. They are mapped on a large map of the United States and carefully examined—as to coordination—with the roads of adjacent States and service to all sections of the country. Where coordination is not satisfactory conferences are held with all interested State highway officials and routes adjusted.

Many States have already adjusted difficult problems with their neighbors. As an example the system sent in by Nebraska showed a big gap in an important road along the northern boundary. It was learned, however, that South Dakota would follow with a system that would fit like pictures on top blocks. Since the Federal highway act of last November became a law, only roads certain to be on the system have been approved for construction.

To Protect Sheep.

Although 48 States have dog laws designed to protect sheep, many of them are so poorly planned or so poorly enforced that dogs still do much damage to flocks, especially in the farming states where flocks are small and dogs are plentiful.

A Masterpiece.—Customer: "Is it really a Tudor table? Shouldn't have thought so; don't see any wormholes." Dealer: "Ah, sir, even the insects didn't have the heart to deface its beauty."—Punch (London).

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theodore's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Theodore's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theodore's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theodore's.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed.
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed. If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.

DODGE BROTHERS COUPE

You will realize, the moment you see this coupe, how perfectly it fulfills a very real need.

It was designed and built by Dodge Brothers in response to that need—long-standing and often expressed by people in all parts of the world.

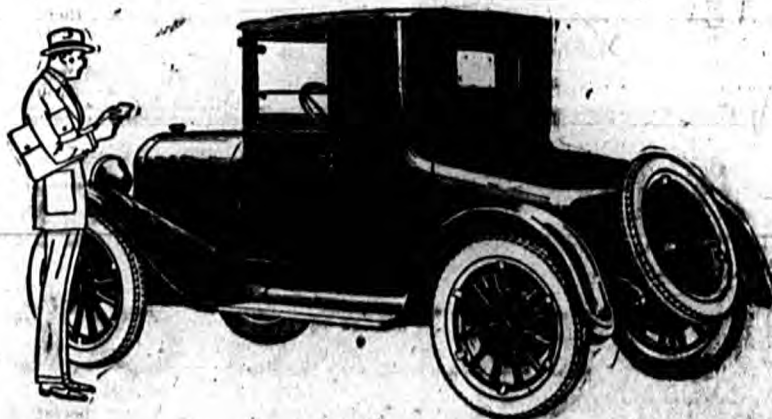

With Dodge Brothers chassis as a starting point, it only remained to create a coupe body which would unite the usual coupe refinements with greater lightness, hardihood and economy.

The world now knows how this was accomplished. An entirely new precedent in closed car construction was established. The body is built of steel.

Moreover, the deep comfortable seat is upholstered in genuine leather. The doors are exceptionally wide. The rear compartment will hold a small steamer trunk and other luggage. The enamel, baked on the steel at high temperature is readily restored, after hard usage, to its original lustre.

In every detail the car reflects the purpose of the builders—to make it a practical car of universal appeal.

SPEECHLESS MAN CARRIED TO HOSPITAL

Policeman Finds Aphasia Victim Lying in Street Late Friday Night.

UNKNOWN YOUTH MAY BE WOUNDED VETERAN

Authorities Unable to Solve Interesting and Puzzling Case—Engineer Holt of Pumping Station Takes Stranger Home About Midnight—
Was Looking for Place to Bunk.

While making his rounds late Friday night on Main Street after the big clock in the courthouse tower had tolled twelve, Officer Furniss of the local police force stumbled over the body of a man stretched out on the pavement, practically inert but showing signs of life. The policeman picked up the individual who was speechless and seemed to be suffering from sort of an attack and after making sure that he was in a restful position sent in a call for Dr. Potter.

When the physician shortly afterwards arrived he discovered that the unfortunate patient was probably a victim of an attack of aphasia with its accompanying hysterical conditions. Accordingly the man was taken to the Peninsula General Hospital and placed in one of the wards there.

Since then, his case has aroused no little interest among the authorities of the hospital and the attending doctors. Able to talk at certain periods he is a willing conversationalist and yet his stories as to past associations are conflicting and varying and he does not seem to be able to remember definitely anything regarding the past. He is not certain about his name nor where he came from and his questions and answers are puzzling.

Certain parties in this city have become interested in the case because he is supposed to be a World War veteran and exhibits a large scalp wound which he says he received in the fighting overseas. If that is found out to be an assured fact it is probable that the local post of the American Legion will endeavor to straighten matters out.

The "unknown" has given his name on several occasions as being "Phoenix Williamson" and has told his hearers that he was on his way from Philadelphia to Chestertown where he had friends. He appears to be about 25 years old and weighs about 120 lbs. He is dark complexioned with black hair and has very regular and pretty teeth. When found he was dressed in good style and his condition showed no signs of alcoholism or other dissipation.

Elmer Holt, night engineer at the water works on Mill Street was the first person to see the stranger Friday night. While firing the boilers just before going off duty at midnight he was startled by a voice saying "Can I stay here all night?" Upon turning around he faced the man who is now being cared for at the hospital. Holt offered him a chair and together they sat down and talked for a while and the engineer was impressed by the unusual story of the stranger, who seemed to be far above the usual type of night tramp and whose conversation and manners stamped him as having once enjoyed refined influences.

The mid-night visitor told his genial host that he had come from Detroit to Philadelphia and from there had bought a ticket to the junction point of the N. Y. P. & N. with the road going to Chestertown where he had friends to visit. But that he had been sidetracked by this point and at Dover the conductor had started to put him off the train when a fellow passenger offered to pay his fare to Salisbury and so he had landed here with only 16 cents in his pocket and some cheese and crackers for food.

At the local Union Station in response to his inquiry some youth had driven him over to the hospital but it was closed and after that, he told Holt, his actions were more or less a blank to him. Feeling sorry for the young stranger, Holt instead of letting him sleep at the pumping station took him home and fixed him up on a couch downstairs. It was here that the name "Phoenix Williamson" was given to Mrs. Holt who

Burglars Make Crude Entry Into Building

Break Open Cash Register of Salisbury Motor Co. But Get Only Five Dollars—Safe Undisturbed.

Last week the main building of the Salisbury Motor company on East Main Street was broken into and a cash register robbed of its contents, which amounted to only $5.00. The burglars made their entry through one of the side windows and tools from the workshop in the rear of the plant were used in breaking open the cash register.

The piece of work was very crude and it was evident at a first glance to the authorities that the job was one of an inexperienced party and that the perpetrators were probably local boys. A safe in the office was not bothered. Blood was found on some of the tools and also the register indicating that somebody had severely cut themselves in the entry.

PERMIT FOR PORTABLE SCHOOLS IS CONCEDED

City Council Will Allow New Structures To Be Near Main Building
In Interest of Children.

Permission of the City Council was asked Monday night by Superintendent Bennett of the county schools to give the school board the right to place the portable buildings to be used next fall as near as possible to the main High School building on Upton street.

This request, Mr. Bennett stated, was necessitated by the concern of the authorities for the welfare of the pupils who under the departmental system are compelled to move from one classroom to another and in the instances of the portable houses they would be required to traverse a certain distance exposed to the weather and elements. It was therefore his intention to install this distance as much as possible.

The City Council was therefore asked for the permit which would allow the four portable buildings, two of which are double-sections, to be moved very close to the main building on the east side. After a brief discussion the members of the council granted the privilege inasmuch as the health of the school children was at stake.

WILSON BACK OF LEWIS IN SENATE RACE

Ex-President Deems Allegany Man Worthy Senatorial Candidate.

SUPPORTERS BELIEVE
LEWIS IS A FAVORITE

Aspirant For Primaries' Choice Is Deep Thinker And Student Of Affairs—Favors A Flexible Tariff
And Modification Of The Volstead Act.

Indorsement of the candidacy of David J. Lewis by ex-President Woodrow Wilson has done much to swing Democratic favor behind the "little Giant of Allegany," who is seeking the nomination for the United States Senate in the Democratic primaries in opposition to State Senator William I. Norris.

Mr. Wilson, in a letter to Mrs. Robert R. Henderson, of Cumberland, who had written asking his advice, stated he "was often glad to be guided by his (Mr. Lewis's) knowledge and judgment in dealing with legislative matters and should deem the State of Maryland fortunate in having such a representative in the United States Senate."

Making public his platform, Mr. Lewis says that he favors the League of Nations just as he favors the establishment of law and order in communities and that the idea will, sooner or later, meet with general approval. With regard to the labor classes, the candidate has little to say save that he believes the changes in our industrial system require careful attention to the rights of workers in framing legislation to meet the changes.

While he does not altogether advocate the prohibition question, he is not entirely dry for he favors a distinction between beverages that stimulate and those that inebriate. Holding that Congress has a right to state at what point a drink passes the point of stimulation and becomes intoxicating, Mr. Lewis says that he thinks the national legislature should acknowledge the recognized scientists of this country to determine the point and then pass legislation making that determination effective.

He thinks that the Volstead act is subject to reasonable and scientific modification, that the evils of drunkenness should be abolished, and that bootlegging constitutes a public nuisance which should be abated. To solve the prohibition question, he proposes that local option is not excluded by our constitutional policy and that therefore the whole matter of light-wines and beer below the intoxicating point, should be settled by local units.

On the tariff question, Mr. Lewis states that he is in favor of treating all countries equally and also believes in a flexible tariff. His relation to the tariff commission precludes his discussing the controversial features of the pending bill.

It is evident from his statement that Mr. Lewis has given a great deal of thought to national issues. He is a deep thinker, close student of affairs, and has the ability to throw aside the chaff of a question and get to the kernel with a waste of time. His supporters express the belief that he is gaining in strength on the Eastern Shore as well as in other sections of the State and that as he comes more and more before the voters, his strength will continue to grow.

MARKETS FOR CANTALOUPE SUFFER SLUMP

Farmers Association Declines to Handle And Protests Against Unripe Fruit.

SHIPMENTS OF GREEN
STOCK LOWER DEMAND

Farmers Evidently Fearful Of Effect Of Recent Weather Conditions Upon Crops Are Picking Too Early.
Are Urged To Let 'Lopes Mature
For Better Prices.

Shipments of cantaloupes from this section have been seriously hampered by the heavy rains of last week, coupled with the intensive heat of the sun over the week-end. Prospects for a most successful 'lope season were bright weeks back, but the unforeseen weather conditions have put a crimp into the hopes of the growers.

However on Monday and Tuesday large quantities of the fruit were brought into the city by the growers for shipments north. Fair prices were only prevailed as the market undoubtedly suffered a slump. Tuesday morning the price fell as low as 60 cents per carrier although some of the fruit managed to reach the mark of $1.25.

One of the outstanding developments of the week was the decision of the Wicomico Farmers' Association not to handle any stock unless it had reached a state of maturity. Consequently, but a couple of cars were loaded by this agency. One of the officials when questioned regarding the situation replied that, "The association realized that the continued shipping of green cantaloupes would inevitably demoralize the market and therefore it was forced to decline handling any of the unripe fruit."

It was stated that approximately 90 per cent of the cantaloupes shipped so far were so immature as to render them unfit for consumption which fact is already making itself known by the slumping markets and the decreased demand. However first class stock is bringing good prices everywhere and it is the intention of the Association officials to put their pins on the line only on fruit that will win the approval of the trade.

It is obvious that such action on the part of the Association is causing them quite a serious financial loss inasmuch as they are compelled to still maintain overhead expenses. However the question resolves itself into determined support of a definite policy which in the long run is counted upon to react to the deep benefit of the grower and shipper while at the same time the consumer gets what he wants.

It is the opinion of one of the Association officials that it is too late for the growers to rectify their mistake of following out what seems to be the easiest avenue of saving their crops. Should they now begin to pick only the stock that is fit for consumption, it is his belief then, that satisfactory returns can be gotten for their shipments because the markets that are already flooded with green stuff will welcome an opportunity to buy again such cantaloupes such as Maryland growers can produce if they use the proper judgment in picking and grading their crop.

Local Engineer Has Charge of Big Work

F. H. Dryden Is Asking Bids for Roadway Construction on Crisfield Memorial Hospital Bridge.

Engineer F. H. Dryden, of Salisbury, who is in charge of the construction of a $10,000 triple arch concrete bridge leading up to the new Memorial Hospital in Crisfield, has opened bids on the lavine down of three quarters of a mile roadway which is contiguous to the proposed building.

Contracts for the beautiful bridge to be erected have been awarded to the Luten Bridge Co. of York, Pa. The proposed hospital is the gift of Mrs. Edward W. McCready in the form of a memorial to the people of Crisfield. Approached by the costly span of concrete and the fine piece of roadway for which Engineer Dryden is asking bids, the hospital promises to be one of the show places in the Somerset town.

HOSPITAL'S NEW ANNEX WILL FACILITATE WORK

Great Service Rendered Community
By Local Institution To Be Enhanced by Costly Addition.

Officials of the Peninsula General Hospital expect to open up their new wing next month and immediately will begin to take care of patients in new quarters. The addition to the local hospital has been eagerly awaited and will mean that the institution will be able to render a bigger service than ever before to the community and this section of the state.

Costing well over $100,000 the up-to-date annex is modern in every respect and will greatly facilitate the work of the hospital authorities. Maternity and children's wards and the like will be opened up and a greater number of private rooms provided.

Residents of this city and county hardly can appreciate the importance of the Peninsula General Hospital as a community institution. Many do not realize the large number of charity cases that are treated within its halls each month and for which service a probable deficit will have to be faced. The state appropriation is only $10,000 per annum and the hospital has to earn at the rate of $1.76 per day for each charity patient admitted. Whereas the actual cost of each case of that kind is $3.00.

However the finances have never gone in the hole as yet, due possibly to the numerous gifts and bequests of philanthropic parties. And then, too, the number of private cases help to stand the running expenses. Many of these cases come from nearby counties and from the Virginia part of the Peninsula.

One incident that comes to light as an example of how willing some of the people are, to aid the work of the hospital was reported the other day. A local negro walked into the office the other day and offered to pay his wife's bill. She had been admitted as a charity patient but the old darkey thought that he should pay some of the expense attached to her treatment.

There is a popular movement on foot for certain individuals, churches, organizations, lodges and corporations to step to the front and furnish the new rooms and wards in the form of a memorial. This is considered a worthy cause and in view of the great service rendered by the institution, this plan is expected to arouse no little response. The cost of each approach the following figures: Maternity Department: Colored Nursery $125; colored ward $350; white ward $350; white nursery $125; private rooms $250; delivery room $425; semi-private ward $250.

MUCH CREDIT DUE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Is Responsible For Latest Development And Other Progressive Steps.

HOTEL SURVEY FOLLOWS
SHIRT FACTORY ADVENT

Many Interesting Facts Disclosed At Meeting Of Civic Body On Tuesday Night—Capable And Experienced Representative Of Hotel Finance Company Studying Conditions Here.

Establishment of a new shirt factory in Salisbury is the latest accomplishment of the Chamber of Commerce. This plant will, at the beginning, give employment to about 25 men and women and the pay roll will average $500 a week or more. It is thought that if all goes well, the capacity of the factory will be greatly increased after a short time thereby creating work for many more people and materially increasing the wealth of the community.

Rombro Bros. of Baltimore will take possession of the plant here as soon as the building is erected, and the New Industries Corporation of the Chamber of Commerce will buy the land and put up the building in the near future. Rombro Bros. at present are receiving cloth and their Baltimore plant, cutting it and then sending it to various sewing factories on the Eastern Shore. The location of a cutting plant in Salisbury will do away with a great deal of unnecessary shipping and it is believed that future plans contemplate the installation of the sewing factories at this point.

Messrs. William P. Ward, Graham Gunby, Hooper S. Miles, and I. L. Benjamin were appointed recently a committee of three from the Chamber to investigate the possibility of getting the Rombro plant here and their solution was the forming of the New Industries Corporation to buy the land, erect the building and lease it to the shirt makers. The lease is for five years and at its expiration the Robro Bros. have the privilege of buying both land and buildings. There seems to be little doubt that this will actually come to pass.

The success of the New Industries Corporation in its first venture points the way to greater things for Salisbury. In bringing to this city a factory that can take care of 25 or more employees, the Chamber of Commerce problem will be virtually solved. More than that, this project shows that

STATE LEGION COMMANDER IS FULLY UPHELD

Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock Receives Vote of Confidence
From Executive Council.

HIS ADMINISTRATION
REGARDED A SUCCESS

Recent Attacks Through Baltimore Press Attributed To Disgruntled Former Official And Certain Factions Who Opposed Both Commander And Adjutant From The Shore.

Contradicting the malicious stories that circulated in the Baltimore press recently, the executive committee of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, at its last regular meeting passed resolutions declaring that the work accomplished by State Headquarters during the present administration has been most effective and constructive. The resolution follows: "Be it Resolved; That the executive committee, Department of Maryland, American Legion, go on record as endorsing the administration of our present State commander and desire to state that in our opinion the hospitalization, employment, financial and legislative record of the present State Administration has been most effective and constructive."

This vote of confidence in Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock and his able assistant, Adjutant Alfred T. Truitt, both Eastern Shoremen, will be particularly agreeable to the posts on the Eastern Shore who were so largely responsible for the election of the present administration in spite of the opposition of certain elements in Baltimore.

The wounded have had the greatest share of time and attention this year and much effort has been expended on adjusting claims for those entitled to compensation. Legionnaires have visited Fort McHenry every Sunday to distribute cigarettes and other comforts and the patients there have had able and sympathetic aid in securing compensation and vocational training.

Two thousand former service men have found positions through the employment bureau of the Legion and during the period when unemployment was at its worst and many veterans knew not where to turn for the next meal, the Legion served more than 4,000 lunches.

Financially, the State Department has raised off $700 of the $2,500 debt hanging against the organization at the beginning of the current year and there is enough cash on hand to liquidate the remaining local debt and pay the expenses of the Department for the rest of the year.

Adjutant Truitt has been an indefatigable worker and has applied to his duties and tasks an ingenuity and intelligence that were bound to accomplish results. His path has not been a smooth one. From the very beginning he has met more or less formidable opposition from those factions in the Legion who believed that since the State Commander was an Eastern Shoreman, the Adjutant should have been a Baltimore City man.

Nor has the State Commander been free from heckling and embarrassment. Only a few weeks ago there appeared in the Baltimore daily press certain stories to the effect that his administration had been a failure, that he had neglected his duties, that his tenure of office was marked by inefficiency and indifference. To be acquainted with Legion affairs believe that the cause of the matter was a disgruntled former official of the State Department who failed of re-appointment and through personal prejudice he done what he could to embarrass the work of the State Department this year.

That he has not succeeded in exceedingly gratifying and members of the Legion the whole State over will be pleased to hear that their leader has received from the Legion executive committee an unqualified vote of confidence.

Heavy Fines Imposed Upon Auto Violators

TALL CEDARS AWAIT OCEAN CITY FROLIC

Local Committee Busy on Arrangements—Special Invitations Issued To City Lodges.

Invitations are being sent out to the scribes of the various Tall Cedar Chapters in this section of the country by Mr. MacGruder of the local forest who is chairman of the committee on the coming frolic and picnic at Ocean City on Aug. 31.

The Salisbury Lodge is putting on this big event and is therefore anxious to see that it goes across big. Accordingly special invitations are being mailed out to Philadelphia, Norfolk and other cities where the Tall Cedars are strong organizations and it is hoped that many of these will send strong delegations to the frolic. Mr. MacGruder assures all of his fraternity brothers that the Mayor of Ocean City is anxious to bid welcome to a large assembly and that the city will be thrown wide open to all the visitors and that the Chief of Police says that he won't bother them as long as they conduct themselves as Masons.

Accommodations at the many hotels will be plentiful so that the visiting delegates need have no concern on that score. Special forms of entertainment have been provided for by the committee and the organization's own band will be on hand with lots of music.

SALISBURY A VICTOR OVER SALAMANDERS

Pocomoke Loses Tuesday's Scheduled Game, Captures Abbreviated Contest.

LOCAL NINE REGISTERS
8 WINS IN 12 BATTLES

Manager Adams and His Teammates
Have Been Displaying Excellent
Brand Of Ball Which Lifts Them Out Of Cellar Position And Brings Joy To Hearts Of Fans.

Manager Pat Ryan led his diamond warriors up from the banks of the Pocomoke Tuesday afternoon with an air of confidence that seemed to indicate that the veteran boss considered Salisbury's recent winning streak a mere flash in the pan and that his aggregation was going to crawl closer to the league's flying leaders at the expense of the Clouds.

But Ryan's emulation of Caesar's prowess was weak and he was forced to repeat in a whisper, "I came, I saw, and I was conquered." For Adams has imbued his charges with a fighting spirit that is not to be denied and they entered the fracas with a vengeance. With the result that two markers with the sign of 3 on them were hung up on the left field scoreboard at the battle he had reached the middle stage and Pocomoke's rally in the seventh session, that netted 4 runs, fell two short of tying the score, which finally read: Salisbury 7, Visitors 5.

After this game had been decided, the two teams were ordered to finish one that had been started on July 8 by the visitors. The umpire's decision in this affair was not sustained by the president of the league and the game had to be played over, beginning at the last half of the sixth, with Salisbury at the bat, a man on first, two out, and three balls and no strikes on the batter.

However, the locals were unable to better their total of two runs while in the seventh, Pocomoke added a pair to theirs. Heame, who covered himself with glory in the opening game, essayed to turn back his opponents also in the second inning, but showed signs of weakening at the very start, and Mays was called in as relief.

The winning of the first contest from Pocomoke yesterday sent the total of victories of Salisbury up to 8 out of the last twelve starts. The fans are rejoicing over this brilliant upset and are predicting a displacement of the Pocomoke team for second place within a week and then the slogan will be, "Get Parkley!"

Many Go On Sunday School Excursion

Annual Outing of Young People From Mardela and Sharptown Took Place Last Friday.

All arrangements had been completed for the annual Sunday School Excursion from Sharptown and Mardela Springs on Thursday of last week but the rain prevented taking the trip. A new date was set for Friday, but it not being an excursion day special arrangements had to be made by way of insuring the excursionists to make the trip or make a forfeiture. All terms were met and a combination was formed of the two Sunday Schools at Sharptown and Mardela Springs and Columbia.

The day was fine and the excursion large, said to be the largest ever pulled out from Mardela, there being over five hundred from that station and more than 60 from Hebron. The excursion was a great success and with the usual rebate the actual cost to each Sunday School will be small.

DISORDER IN DELMAR LATE MONDAY NIGHT

Strikers Force Railroad Guards
En Route To This City To Stop.

AROUSED BY ARREST
MOB THREATENS MEN

When Company's Captain Of Police
On Duty As Escort Arrests Striker Delaware Authorities Retaliate By Taking Into Custody The Two Pickets For Carrying Weapons.

No little excitement prevailed in the town of Delmar on Monday night when conditions provoked by the railroad strike reached an acute stage. For some time there has been considerable unrest in that railroad center due to the opposing factions of strikers and strikebreakers.

Sentiment in the community itself is undoubtedly behind the striking forces. However it has not expressed itself in any extreme violent spirit, being limited to a general boycott of all outsiders who have been enlisted in the aid of the Pennsylvania system. Such help has been forced to make all purchases in other districts as absolutely no supplies are being sold the employees by the merchants and other stores in town. The strike-breakers have not even been able to cash their checks there.

Occasionally small stoning parties were encountered by the incoming workmen it is reported, and there have been some attempts to hinder the work in the shops and yards, where upon the railroad officials have secured the assistance of several outside individuals to go guard duty in addition to their regular force of police. This was planned in order to prevent property destruction.

Antagonism against these newcomers was instantly created and the affair Monday night was but a culmination of a series of outbursts. Two of the guards, who were from Salisbury, after completing their day's duty Monday evening started for this city about eight o'clock in a car and upon getting outside of town were surprised to find a number of men grouped together ahead at a fork of the road. Having been previously threatened and also warned of impending trouble the guards turned around in their machine and went back to the company's headquarters and reported the disturbance.

Here they were assured of a further escort and accordingly the captain of police joined them and several other men followed in a car close behind. However the bodies of the two guards had been scarcely reached when they were confronted on all sides by a large crowd and one striker stepped out and demanded that they stop. When the Pennsylvania captain of police arrested this man, it was a signal for a general rush and in the melee that followed the two guards themselves were arrested by Delaware state police and town authorities and carried to a magistrate and there charged with having in their possession deadly and concealed weapons.

They were then required to put up $500 bond each to appear at the next term of court. This bond the railroad company provided and the two guards under heavy escort finally reached this city late after midnight. It is their contention, which view is held by other responsible persons, that their arrest on Maryland soil by Delaware authorities was an undesirable act and that the charge of carrying concealed weapons was without foundation inasmuch as they were paid railroad guards and also that their lives had been threatened on the state highways.

It is indeed fortunate that no serious lesionation of the encounter in Delmar resulted on Monday night as the situation there, already regrettable, might have reached alarming proportions. Luckily the mob spirit which was much in evidence did not entirely prevail and unhappy complications consequently were avoided. On Tuesday morning when the defendants appeared before Magistrate Jones the cases had to be continued because no representative of the company was present, probably due to the fact that they had not been notified.

New School Official In Worcester County

Mr. Arthur C. Humphreys, Well-Known In Local Circles, Appointed

Mr. Arthur C. Humphreys was last week appointed Superintendent of the Public Schools of Worcester County to succeed Mr. Edwin C. McMaster, who resigned after a period of supervision over the schools of the county for 21 years at 14 being the principal of the Snow Hill High School. Mr. Humphreys was fitted for his teaching career by courses at the University of Virginia and at Columbia.

COAL DECLINES TO USE TROOPS IN MINES

Maryland's Executive Not in Accord With President's Proposal to Send Miners to Coal Regions

Governor Ritchie was one of the few State executives to reply in a negative tone to President Harding's proposal for the use of coal mining in the quieting of all hostile forces in the mining regions so that coal operations might be opened up and the situation clarified. Maryland's Governor wired his answer in as follows:

"Governor Ritchie, Maryland:—Representatives of the operators of these districts have told me that they desire a few days to consider whether your invitation to them to resume work is a proper and practicable one from their point of view, but at the same time they have told me that mining coal at present is impossible unless the railroad strike is immediately settled and sufficient cars provided to move the coal regularly and normally from the mines and to the ordinary points of distribution.

"While the operators are thus considering your proposal, I feel it my duty to do the same, with the object of deciding for my State whether what you outline is, from the point of view of Maryland, the action which in the final analysis will be the best for the people of Maryland.

"It is now 30 years since our militia has been used for a purpose of this kind, and I do not feel, even in the face of Federal failure, that I should immediately agree with your assumption that this failure is so complete that when the Federal troops turned back to each State I should without further and more mature consideration give assurances which might lead to filling the fine regions of Maryland with armed troops.

REPRESENTATION OF LEGION POST FIXED

State Adjutant Sends Communication To Local Post Stating Details Requirements.

Legion headquarters in this city received a communication from the State Adjutant calling the secretary's attention to the requirements for representation at the coming legion convention at Ocean City.

The constitution of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, states that representation at Department Conventions shall be based upon the paid up membership of the Posts 30 days before the opening of the convention. This means that representation for the Fourth Annual Convention at Ocean City, Aug. 25-27, will be based upon the paid up membership of your post on July 26, midnight. To be paid up the cards and dues must be in this office. Cards and dues mailed and postmarked prior to July 26 midnight will be credited even though they may not actually reach this office before midnight.

Some Posts have quite a number of members whose cards and dues have not been sent to this office. Give your adjutant and treasurer a ring and advise them to get all memberships in this office and thus increase your representation and voting strength at the convention.

There was a slight error in the letter mailed from this office on Saturday which dealt with the apportionment of representation. The constitution states that "Each Post shall be entitled to two delegates and two alternates, and to one additional delegate and alternate for each unit of 50 memberships and should there be a major fraction of 50 members remaining the Post shall be entitled to one additional delegate and alternate."

CENTRAL BANK BRINGS IN NEW DEPOSIT BOXES

Cashier Ruark of the Central Bank has announced the installation in the institution's vault of a new nest of 50 deposit boxes. This makes a total of 150 such boxes provided by the bank for its patrons.

The new lot will probably be taken within the next two months. The best is absolutely fireproof and is similar to those used in the large city banks. The boxes are protected by the bank's burglar-proof vault.

EXPERT MECHANIC NOW WITH SALISBURY MOTOR

Mr. J. Howard Johnson has accepted a position as service manager of the Salisbury Motor Co. Mr. Johnson is an expert mechanic and until recently conducted a garage of his own in the old Catholic Church on W. Church Street. However his whole business was wiped out by fire several weeks ago.

The machinery set up by the Chamber for taking care of new industries is effective and should, as time goes on, be the means of adding materially to the growth and development of this section in which every man, woman and child of Wicomico County will prosper.

Right in line with this movement comes word that another large concern may obtain a location here. Certain interests in the city have offered this firm a free factory site adjacent to the railroad in a splendid section of Salisbury and the Chamber of Commerce is co-operating to bring the plant here.

As further evidence of the development germ that is doing such wonders for this territory, Mr. Phillip L.

McGuire, of the Hotel Finance Co., states that he is making a complete survey of this community and its environments to determine the need of a hotel here and decide on the character of such a hotel should the survey show conclusively that one would be a paying proposition.

Mr. McGuire told the members of the Chamber something of the work of Mr. Harvey J. Hill, who has also been at work studying conditions here with regard to a hotel. Mr. Hill was selected by Henry P. Davidson during the World War as executive secretary of the National War Work Council and had charge of the organization for the great financial drives staged during the later periods of the war. His quota was one hundred millions, to be divided among the Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, Salvation Army, and other organizations.

One hundred and fifty-five millions was the amount raised in this drive and a large part of the credit for the success of the undertaking rests with Mr. Hill who has also managed money-raising campaigns for several religious organizations, campaigns for the National War Work Council, and in an aggregate of more than a hundred and fifty millions. Taking the total subscriptions of all the campaigns in which Mr. Hill has been one of the directors, or of which he has been in complete charge, the total passes the billion.

Mr. Hill now has requests for seven-teen surveys in Maryland, Virginia, and Delaware, but he is anxious to build a hotel here that will be a credit to the city before he goes into the other fields. There seems to be little doubt of the success of the project in case it is decided that the need here for a hotel is sufficiently great. The results of the survey being conducted at the present time will be made public when the Hotel Finance Co. has had time to digest and analyze the reports made by the field workers.

Mr. Freeman, secretary of the Chamber, reported that any members of the organization stopping at one of the Knott hotels in New York City would be given a material reduction on all list prices upon presenting a card showing their good standing in the Chamber. These membership cards are being mailed to the members.

Before adjournment, President F. P. Adkins strongly urged that the people of this section support the post line to the Western Shore. Various methods of throwing more business to the line were discussed, among them excursions, and Messrs. I. L. Benjamin and E. Homer White were appointed a committee to confer with the railroad officials and endeavor to bring these excursions about.

Speechless Man Carried To The Hospital

Their guest was leaving by the front door and when asked for his reason, he shook his head and wrote down on a piece of paper, "I appreciate what you have done for me, but I have lost my speech and am going to the hospital." He was allowed to go on and it was soon after this that the city officer found him lying on the street apparently in a stupor of some kind.

At the Peninsula Hospital the patient is receiving the best of care and all efforts are being made to establish his identity. He talks very rationally and yet his stories are disconnected to the degree that no absolute decision can be reached as to who he is or where he came from. He spends his nights very restlessly and has been having several severe convulsions. The diagnosis of his condition is perplexing.

Miss Wise, Superintendent of Nurses, seems to think that it is a case of extreme hysteria with a likelihood of the patient suffering from some sort of aphasia. He told her that he came to this country when three years old from Dublin and that his parents were dead. When she asked him that he didn't talk like an Irishman he wittily replied "One wouldn't dare speak Gaelic in Killarney." He also told her that his home was "the sod."

The young man's neat appearance, his cultured manners and tone of address seem to indicate that he is above the ordinary type and for that reason unusual interest has been aroused in his case which is considered a most peculiar one. The fact that he is probably a disabled World War veteran is gaining much sympathy for him and no stone is being left unturned to give him the best of medical care and to establish if possible some connection with former associations.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Baltimore Woman Wants To Tell Everybody How Wonderfully
Tanlac Has Restored Her.

"I never felt better in my life than I have since taking Tanlac, and I am so grateful that if I could do so I would like to go from house to house and tell every run-down, suffering person what this wonderful medicine did for me," said Mrs. Florence Clickner, a highly esteemed resident of 2915 Frederick Avenue, Baltimore, Md.

"Tanlac is a household word with us now and we will never be without it. My case was one of very stubborn stomach trouble and indigestion and I was in a general run down condition. I just couldn't keep my food down, my appetite was next to nothing and I scarcely ate enough to keep soul and body together. When I did force myself to eat a little bit I would suffer dreadfully for hours afterwards, for gas would form on my stomach and cause me no end of misery. There was a terrible burning sensation in my stomach and the gas pressed up until I thought I would smother from the shortness of breath. I actually became so weak and run down that my housework was a burden to me and it was just all I could do to drag about. I tired out so easily. Many a time I had such sick, splitting headaches and such fearful dizzy spells that I thought I would surely topple over before I could sit down or lie down. My nerves got into such a wretched condition it seemed I just couldn't sleep nights, and often I would lie awake for hours at a time, and maybe get just an hour or two of dozing off in the early morning.

"I spent considerable money trying different medicines but never got a particle of help, and had almost come to the conclusion that I could not get any relief when I decided to take Tanlac after reading in the papers how it had helped so many other people that suffered like I was.

"Well, honestly, I now feel like an entirely different person. My stomach trouble has completely disappeared and my appetite is just so perfect I eat three good hearty meals a day and often eat between meals. I am never troubled with the gas, dizziness or headaches, and have gained 10 pounds. I am now so strong and full of energy that my housework is more like play to me.

"My husband began taking Tanlac for troubles that were just about like mine, and now he has been so improved that he is grateful to Tanlac. Only today he said for me to be sure and not forget to buy him another bottle. I can tell you we will always pass along the good word for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good drug-gists.—Adv. 317.

RED CROSS NURSES DOING PUBLIC HEALTH WORK LAUDED BY ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

In Chief Address At Seattle Convention, Miss Clara Noyes Emphasizes The High Standards of Nursing Profession And Supports Affiliation With American Red Cross.

The chief address at the joint opening session of the biennial convention of the three national nursing associations at Seattle, Wash., was made by Miss Clara D. Noyes, National Director of the American Red Cross Nursing Service, as President of the American Nurses' Association. Summarizing the achievements of the two years that had elapsed since the Atlanta convention, Miss Noyes asked: "Has there been progress? If so, is it of a constructive and lasting character?"

"Is the criticism that our organization has developed a spirit of commercialism a deserved one? Has the 'titleless publicity' directed toward the nursing profession, classing it as the most autocratic closed shop in the world, been entirely without foundation?"

"This and many other issues will be discussed during the deliberations of the next few days. Organization, however, is essential to growth and development of our profession. The purpose of organization is to promote professional and educational advancement, to elevate the standards of nursing education and ultimately to improve the character of nursing care of the sick, whether it be in the field, through Public Health Nurses, the home, through private nurses, or the institution, through the student and graduate nurses. Every profession has felt the necessity of organization, not only for the purpose indicated above, but for protection as well."

After touching upon the subject of military rank for army nurses, favorably reported at the last biennial and now an accomplished fact, declaring that it is as yet too early to state whether or not it has been as successful as its advocates had hoped, Miss Noyes reviewed the progress of the student nurse recruiting movement, launched under the auspices of the three national nursing associations and the American Red Cross, the last named financing the work. "While student nurse recruiting was one of the objects," she pointed out, "the educational work in connection therewith was of far greater importance. Hundreds of committees have been formed and many unique plans developed for arousing interest, both in nursing as a profession and in the educational aspect of the work."

The establishment of a national office for the American Nurses' Association at 370 Seventh avenue, New York, adjoining that of the National Organization for Public Health Nurses and for the present conducted in conjunction with the National League of Nursing Education, marked another milestone in the progress reported by Miss Noyes in the past two years. On this point she said: "The headquarters office is in a building with many other national health and social organizations, a position we should continue to hold. Representing, as the American Nurses' Association probably does, the largest organization of professional women in the world, with our relief funds, our magazines, our publications, our scholarship funds, we can no longer afford to occupy a less conspicuous position than that which we now hold."

Miss Noyes' definition of the changed attitude of the nursing profession toward publicity is significant. She said:

"Nurses have become accustomed to hiding their light under a bushel. It has been part and parcel of our training—an inheritance from the centuries. While we should regret to see the qualities of sacrifice and service, so essential to the success of nursing, lost or subordinated, yet we cannot afford, as an organization or as individuals to take a lesser part in the affairs of the world than the care of the sick in the home and the child—in the home and in the school; it is concerned not only with the care of the sick in the home and the child—in the home and in the school, but is concerned with the great questions of cessation and prevention of disease, and therefore, touches the work of other groups—the physician, the nutritional worker, the teacher or social worker. Its interests are interwoven in the very fabric of civilization. For this reason we cannot go back, neither can we stand still. We must, therefore, press on."

Speaking of the affiliation between the American Nurses' Association and the American Red Cross, Miss Noyes reminded her hearers of the fact that members of the former organization, under the banner of the Red Cross, may be found in all parts of the world, "organizing schools of nursing in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Turkey, Haiti; in Child Welfare and general public health nursing in nearly every country in Europe; while in Porto Rico, the Virgin Islands and the Philippines we find the Red Cross Public Health Nurse. Hundreds of Red Cross Chapters in this country are also utilizing our members in rural nursing work or as instructors in the Red Cross Course in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick."

"For this reason and for many others, we cannot afford to decrease our efforts to maintain good schools of nursing and satisfactory postgraduate courses for special training. We must give these 'Missionaries of Health' the best possible equipment. Their work is too valuable, their responsibilities too grave, their privileges too

LAST MAN'S CLUB HAS FOUR VETS SURVIVING

Civil War Infantrymen's Organization Originally Comprised 34 Members—Meets Annually.

Last week at the historic old Sawyer House in Stillwater, Minn., four of the surviving five members of the "Last Man's Club" held their annual banquet. The Club was organized in 1884 and originally was comprised of 34 members of the First Minnesota Infantry's Company B, famous in Civil War days, the members agreeing to meet annually for a banquet and reunion on the anniversary of the Battle of Bull Run.

In 1886 a bottle of wine was presented to the club by one of its members and it was agreed that this bottle should grace the banquet table each year until only one member survived, and this "last man" should drink it as a toast to the departed members.

The bottle of wine is kept in a vault in a bank, and today it was taken to and from the banquet room under a heavy escort. It reclines in a cherry wood case and it held the honor position in the center of the table.

In accordance with the custom, covers were laid today for the original 34 members, and on the plates of those who have died nosegays were placed similar to those worn by the surviving members.

Those who attended today's banquet were: Adams Marty, St. Paul; John S. Goff, Minneapolis; Charles Lockwood, Chamberlain, S. D.; Peter Hall, Astwater, Minn. Emil Graff, of St. Cloud, Fla., 88 years old, could not make the long journey to Stillwater.

CHIROPRACTIC WILL HELP YOU

The Drugless Health Science of Chiropractic will help you. This may seem too strong a statement to apply in a general way, but it is based alone on the evidence of what Chiropractic is doing where consistently tried out.

Chronic cases are the Chiropractor's stock in trade, not because he is specially desirous of having such cases to the exclusion of the acute, but because people usually try everyone and everything else before consulting a Chiropractor.

However, the recovery of a chronic case at the hands of the Chiropractor is the best proof that Chiropractic is right. Such recoveries are being witnessed in many quarters over a wide range of territory every day. Chiropractic will help you when everything else fails, but it is to your interest to not wait for further experiment with methods that are known to be failures. Any so-called mode of healing that does not deal with the cause of disease is a failure. Chiropractic locates the cause and adjusts it. The result is Health. Consultation and Spinal Analysis Free.

Goodrich announces new tire prices —lowest cost mileage ever known

Effective July 20th, Goodrich establishes a revised price list that is a base line of tire value. It gives the motorist the buying advantage of knowing that whatever size tire he selects is of the same quality—the Goodrich one-quality standard. It gives him the longest mileage, the most satisfactory service and the highest quality his money can buy. Results will prove that it is impossible to buy tire mileage at lower cost.

VINDICATION.

Eastern Shore veterans will be peculiarly gratified at the action of the Executive Committee of the American Legion, Department of Maryland, in completely vindicating the State Commander, passing resolutions that his administration has been most effective in accomplishing real things, and giving him a vote of confidence.

It is gratifying because the State Commander is an Eastern Shoreman and was elected by the Posts of the Eastern Shore in spite of heavy obstacles. He faced a number of unpleasant tasks when he entered office, some of which seemed hopeless of completion. The State Department was burdened with a heavy debt carried over from previous administrations; unemployment was at a critical stage; and the needs of the wounded soldiers in the State were manifold.

With excellent judgment, the State Commander selected to help him another Eastern Shoreman who has made good in every sense of the word, who has done more to bring the Legion to the favorable attention of the public of Maryland than did any of his predecessors, who has worked out problem after problem that required both thought and effort, and who, by his ingenuity and grit, put across one of the biggest schemes for obtaining employment for the jobless veterans in the State that has ever been carried out by any similar organization.

The legionnaires of Maryland will soon assemble in annual convention at Ocean City. One of the most important duties of the delegates will be to select officers to lead the organization during the ensuing year. It is not probable that the present State Commander will consent to serve another term, but the Legion will be greatly benefited if it can induce him to do so. His work is just getting under good headway. With another twelve months, he can place the Maryland Department where it belongs: in the van guard of the States.

MACHINERY FOR DEVELOPMENT.

Through forming the New Industries Corporation, the Salisbury Chamber of Commerce has provided adequate machinery for giving aid to deserving industries that are desirous of locating in this city. The Corporation is not in any manner intended to help those who are unable to help themselves on account of being under-financed, poorly managed, or in precarious condition.

On the contrary, the Corporation will extend necessary aid only to those firms, corporations, or industries who can prove conclusively that they are able to stand on their own feet and produce goods under the proper circumstances. Every industry applying for its aid will be rigidly investigated and action will be taken only after the Chamber of Commerce has agreed, in full session assembled, on what that action should be.

In a nut shell, the purpose of the organization is this: to foster the growth and development of the proper kinds of industry that will make for the building up of this city, that will provide employment for the home people, and that will cause the community to grow healthily. For example, if an industry believes that it should have a factory in this city but does not feel, for sufficient reasons, that a heavy investment in real estate and buildings would at the time be justified, the Corporation could, if it saw fit, buy the land, erect the buildings and lease them to the industry.

When that industry later found that it had made the proper selection of a location, it could buy the property from the Corporation. This is only one possible phase of what such an organization can do and is one that has already been tried out with the result that we shall probably have a new factory in the city inside of six months, a factory that will give employment to at least twenty-five persons at the beginning and may later grow to take care of many times that number.

No organization that exists for the public good is worth its salt unless it accomplishes something. Had the Chamber of Commerce done nothing than bring this one new factory to the city, it would have been well worth while. But the Chamber has done, and is doing more, and the leading business men of the city are playing their full part in the growth and development of the metropolis of the Eastern Shore.

Double the number of members now enrolled in the Chamber of Commerce could do more than double the amount of work that is being done. Within the past few weeks new members have been added and today the membership totals 170. These few men have accomplished much; with the hearty, whole-souled effort of the rest of their fellow citizens, there is probably nothing within reason they could not accomplish. Join the Chamber today and help in the good work.

Fame is a wonderful thing. Think of the bird that first conceived the notion of starting a fire to keep warm before there was any fire. You know his name, of course. Then there was the boy who really owns all the gold in the world, the fellow who looked at a mountain, saw there was some stone in it, dug up the stone, saw there was metal in the stone and figured out how to get the metal out of the stone. You remember who he was, too. And the other boy, what's his name—the chap that fixed out words that carried meaning, and spoke them at the rest of the gang so they could all converse? Everybody knows who he was. There's no use talkin'. It's very important to get your name in the paper and get a reputation.

WICOMICALITIES.

Some men make more money doing people than in doing things.

The hen doesn't stop scratching when bugs are scarce, Mr. Advertiser—on the contrary!

Cheap work is always the most expensive.

Live up to your job and you will always have a job to live up to.

Good luck is nothing more nor less than that art of seizing our opportunities.

Whose Summer Picnic Is This?

Uncle John's Poem

"THE UNEMPLOYED."

Each day abounds in mystery to tax the thoughtful mind, and adds its bit of history in lore of human kind. . . . Each problem up for solving demands a potent skill, and keeps the wheels revolving in life's perpetual mill. . . .

To me, the unsolved question is ever as before; dumbfound with its ingestion—bewilders, more and more. . . . I grope amid its fastness, and tremble at its frown. . . . I marvel at its vastness—no soul can put it down!

The question I refer to, is of the "unemployed." . . . The ones a job is dear to—but seldom is enjoyed. . . . They cry aloud to Vulcan, and Agricola's King—they crave to strike a well-kin which never seems to ring!

My soul is wrapped in wonder.—It is, so help me Mike! I have to work like thunder.—I ain't got time to strike! The ardent prayer for leisure is ever on my mind. . . . I'd pour out all my treasure, for a job I couldn't find!

OIL MONOPOLY CHARGED BY TRADE COMMISSION

If Congress Acts Favorably Upon Federal Body's Report County Motorists May Get Cheaper Gas

Wicomico county automobilists eventually may enjoy cheaper gasoline, if action is taken by Congress upon the recommendations of the Federal Trade Commission. Asserting that a "monopolistic situation" prevails throughout the entire country, due to the fact that an interlocking stock ownership in the several Standard Oil Companies has "perpetuated the very monopolistic control which the courts sought to terminate," the Federal Trade Commission has recommended that Congress enact legislation prohibiting "common stock ownership in corporations which have been members of a combination dissolved by the Sherman law." Dealing specifically in the report with conditions in the gasoline trade in Montana and adjacent States, where the commission declared, the crude petroleum producer and the gasoline consumer are "both at the mercy of the Standard" through a "monopolistic position" perfected in 1920 and 1921 by acquisitions of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Commission repeated the conclusion that "conditions in other sections of the country are not radically different."

THE days of the old one and two-cylinder cars with primitive ignition and carburetion devices are gone. With them has passed out ordinary gasoline.

"Standard" Motor Gasoline is refined with definite, high specifications in view, to run modern motors as they are designed to run—you want power, mileage, starting, pick-up, clean combustion, no contamination of the crank-case oil, economy. "Standard" Motor Gasoline is built to supply these needs.

Improved motors demand an improved fuel. "Standard," the balanced gasoline, is answering this demand in hundreds of thousands of motor cars and trucks today.

ASBURY M. E. CHURCH IS BEING RENOVATED

Approximately $1,800 Being Spent on Painting of Auditorium, Remodeling Vestibule.

Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church is undergoing an extensive program of repair work. The interior of the large auditorium is being renovated and new doors have been added to the vestibule. They are majestic in size and plain in style and add greatly to the appearance of the church as one enters. New tiling has also been installed here.

Inside, fresh coats of paint are being put on the woodwork which makes the inner room very attractive. The pastor is planning to put up on one of the walls a large picture of the boys who went overseas to fight in the war world democracy.

In addition to the above improvements, the heaters of the plant have been overhauled and put into first-class condition. Copper gutters have been laid on the slate roof which will facilitate greatly the drainage. Altogether the cost will amount to about $1,800 and the church officials are being commended for the step taken. Dr. Hersons, the pastor, is supervising the remodeling of his house of worship, and probably will not consider taking a vacation at this time on account of this work.

FIANCE OF MISS CLARA MULLEN IS BADLY HURT

Accident to Mr. Larkowski Near Cambridge Causes Wedding Postponement.

Friends of Miss Clara S. Mullen, former Home Demonstration Agent in this county, will be interested in the following excerpt taken from a Baltimore paper of recent date which was sent in from Cambridge, Md. Desire for a honeymoon spent under primitive conditions caused the postponement of the wedding of Arthur Larkowski, of Neck district, and Miss Mullen, of the Neck district, almost led to his death.

Mr. Larkowski was to be married on Tuesday to Miss Mullen, a pretty trained nurse of the Neck district. They decided to spend their honeymoon in a tent near the shores of the Choptank. Monday the groom-to-be shouldered his ax and went into the woods to cut and trim pegs to hold down the tent.

While he was trimming a peg the ax slipped and inflicted a dangerous cut on his wrist. Larkowski attempted to get home, but after going some distance lost consciousness. When he did not return searching parties were organized, but while they found the ax with its bloodstained blade, no trace of him could be discovered. The rain that came early in the evening found him, however, and brought him back to consciousness.

With much difficulty he made his way home, and his family hurried him to Cambridge Hospital. His speedy recovery is expected.

ROTARIAN SAYS FRUIT SPRAYED IS TASTEFUL

Grower Allen, Then Supports Statement With Luscious Peaches Given to Each Member of Club.

Denying the fact that sprayed fruit is unpalatable, Mr. William F. Allen at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening produced two large baskets of the prettiest peaches seen in this section this year, gave two to each member present, and stated that this fruit had been sprayed several times during the season. The peaches were huge, luscious, mellow and of a wonderful color and spoke volumes for the efficiency of the orchardist who has sprayed them.

Unusually good mass singing marked the meeting. Miss Jane Truitt was at the piano and from this meeting henceforth singing will be a distinct and pleasurable feature of every program. New song books have been procured with all the old time favorites and the newest jazz pieces and the Rotarians are busy learning them.

At the next meeting, members of the Salisbury Base Ball Club will be entertained by the Rotarians and several interesting talks will be made during the evening. President Grier has announced the following subjects but has not yet designated the speaker: "The advantages of organized base ball to the city commercially," "The kind of base ball that should be played," and "The future of base ball in Salisbury." On the Thursday following, members of the Rotary Club will hold "Rotary Day" at Gordy Park on which occasion visitors from neighboring Rotary Clubs are expected.

People Rush Out Of City On Hot Sunday

Ocean City and Other Resorts Popular While Crowds Take Steamer Excursion To Bivalve Camp.

Sunday was a clear day and a terrific one and many Salisburyans went out of the city to escape the heat. Those who were fortunate enough to have machines at their disposal drove down to Ocean City and to Rehoboth Beach. Others sought the excellent smooth water bathing at Sandy Beach and that at Nanticoke and other places along the Wicomico.

The railroad excursions to Ocean City were crowded and that resort was taxed to capacity. The surf bathing although rough was enjoyed by the vast majority of visitors and great throngs covered the various parts of the beach. The steamer "Virginia" was popular with many of the people in this section who took this means of getting down to the camp at Bivalve. The boat returned that night about 9 o'clock.

POPULARITY CONTEST'S FREQUENT UPSETS ADD ZEST TO SPIRITED RACE FOR HONORS

Leadership Balances Between Miss Irma Tyndall And Miss Jean Dashiell With Other Favorites Making Strong Bids—Helen May Jones Polls Heavy Vote.

Upsets continue frequent in the popularity contest being run off by the management of the Arcade Theatre. Especially spirited is the fight for the leadership and last week found two contestants, Miss Irma Tyndall and Miss Jean Dashiell, displacing each other on several occasions for top honors. Miss Dashiell held the post on Thursday and Friday only to relinquish it to her rival on Saturday. However when Tuesday night's poll was made known she had again moved to the front. The four leading candidates are closely grouped and to judge the outcome would be sheer folly. Remarkable has been the rise of Miss Helen May Jones who is polling more votes these days than the favorites. Miss Lulu Naples is also turning this trick.

Miss Margaret Dick has moved up to 8th position showing that her popularity is substantial and not to be flitted with. Miss Anne Johnson is also proving to be one of the consistent ground-gainers and it would not be at all surprising to see her name well up to the front when the last lap is reached preparatory to the final date, August 12th.

Mr. Vincent, who is conducting the contest, announced last night that it would be his purpose to direct such a production as would prove a proper vehicle for the winning girl. In other words if she happened to be best qualified for a heavy role then a drama would be staged rather than a comedy. There can be no doubt but that the excellent class of plays the Arcade is now presenting has much to do with the heavy voting. The auditorium was packed Tuesday night when Gloria Swanson was on the screen.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH W. PHILLIPS.

Held Grand Celebration Of Golden Wedding Anniversary In Sharptown Saturday.

SHARPTOWN HONORS A GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Many Guests Present at Functions Celebrating 50th Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Phillips celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, at their home at Sharptown on Saturday afternoon and evening. The social life of the town was greatly aroused and the event will long be remembered as the most elaborate affair of its kind ever held in the town, in fact but few such occasions have ever occurred in the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married in the Methodist Protestant parsonage at Mardela Springs, then Barren Creek, by the Rev. A. D. Melvin 50 years ago, the witnesses being the brother of the bride, S. J. Cooper, of Sharptown, then of Columbia, Del., and the groom's brother, Isaac J. Phillips, both of whom are living and were guests at the golden wedding. Twenty years of their married life was spent at Columbia, but for 30 years they have resided here except a short period they resided in Salisbury.

The product of this union consists of J. Wilber Phillips, who has two children, J. Edwin Phillips and five children, of Sharptown; Blanche Phillips and three children and Mrs. I. W. Wright and four children of Salisbury; Mrs. E. J. Owens, four children and one grandchild at Columbia, Del. Mr. Phillips has two brothers living, Frederick P. and Isaac J. Phillips of Columbia and one sister, Mrs. J. J. Horsey, of Dover, Del. Mrs. Phillips has two brothers living, Samuel J. Cooper, of Sharptown and John S. Cooper, of Columbia and two sisters, Mrs. Margaret Bradley and Mrs. S. J. Beach, of Columbia.

At three o'clock the guests who had been invited for the afternoon were invited into the dining room where a sumptuous feast was in waiting. The dinner was prepared by an experienced cook, James H. Haffington, colored, for many years a boarding tent cook at camp meetings. The first and leading part of the menu was an old time pot-poe and the proverbial corn pone bread. To this was added good old country ham, beef, cabbage, butterbeans and the usual condiments and side dishes. The dinner was not only elaborate in its parts but well prepared and highly enjoyed by all present. Few tables

Most of these guests remained until the arrival of the guests invited for the evening entertainment and these numbered more than one hundred, in fact it was estimated that at least 200 guests were present at both occasions. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips have always enjoyed the highest regard of the people in the communities where they have lived and are very popular with all classes, loved and honored by all. They were the recipients of many useful and ornamental presents representing much value. To these was added about $70 in gold and $25 in paper money. The whole affair passed off smoothly and every one present was delighted with every feature of the occasion. The guests left with many good wishes to the couple for many more anniversaries.

Local Man Dies In Cambridge Hospital

Body of Mr. John S. Hastings Brought to Home on Anderson Road and Funeral Services Held Tuesday.

Local undertakers brought to Salisbury early Sunday morning the body of John S. Hastings who had died Saturday from epilepsy at the Eastern Shore State Hospital in Cambridge. His remains were taken to his home on the Anderson Road past the Fair Grounds and funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Hastings moved to this section about five years ago from the Mt. Hermon district. A couple of years later he suffered an attack and was taken to the Cambridge institution where he stayed for two years and after a slight recovery was brought back home for a period of about a year. This last time at the hospital was of about five months duration.

Mr. Hastings, age 67, had been twice married, his first wife being Miss Eleanor Leonard, now dead. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Annie Fooks, and three children, Mr. Carl Hastings, who is married and lives near Parsonsburg; Walter, 23 years, who lives at home and a daughter, Mattie, 18 years. The first named child was the son by the first wife.

A New Tread—a Lower Price Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire—a big, sturdy, long-wearing tire—that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value. It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord—a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern—and it sells for from 20 to 25% less. It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversized dimensions. When you buy the 4 1/2-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches. Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more. In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation. Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name, that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

Traveling to France.

The S. S. "President Pierce" will carry 200 members of the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary to France, sailing from New York, Aug. 5. The party of former service men, their wives, sisters and mothers will tour France, England and Belgium, returning Sept. 8, via Montreal. A few receptions and public affairs have been arranged in the chief cities to be visited but these will not in any way interfere with the personal business or pleasure of any member of the party. Detailed information concerning the trip may be obtained from "Second Annual European Pilgrimage," in care of The American Legion Weekly, 627 W. 43rd Street, New York City.

Not Applying For Aid.

Only 2,500 of the 5,000 World War veterans believed to be eligible for aid have applied for it under the recently passed New York State law which sets aside $1,000,000 for disabled and unemployed veterans. The State authorities have asked the American Legion to bring the act to the attention of its members in order that as many needy men as possible may benefit.

Tries to Burn Records.

Declaring his claim for disability was disregarded by the United States Veterans Bureau, Garland E. Carr, colored World War veteran at Washington, D. C., bored a hole through a wall of the building in which the Washington bureau is housed, stuffed paper into the room and then touched a match to it. He wanted to destroy the bureau's records, he said. He is being held for mental examination.

German Flag Displayed.

For the first time since the United States declared war, the flag of the German Republic was displayed from the German Embassy at Washington, July 4.

Refuse Battle Names.

Disabled World War veterans who have taken up homesteads on a 3,500 acre tract of land in Minnesota have refused to accept the Government's suggestion that the various plots be named for the great battles of the World War. "Our wounds and ailments are sufficient to remind us of our experiences," they say.

Homes In Wyoming.

Any information concerning government homesteads in Wyoming will be furnished to members of the American Legion free of charge by J. W. Dilliance, Box 205, Gillette, Wyo., an ex-soldier who has taken a claim himself. Relinquishments may be had from $150 to $400 and time spent in service counts.

Big Delegation From Iowa.

Several thousand Iowa Legionnaires will come to the national American Legion convention next October in five special trains, according to a representative of the Iowa department, who visited New Orleans to make arrangements for parking 67 Pullman cars in which the Iowans will live while in the Southern city.

Suffers Wounds.

The cause of stripes and wounds on the back of Vernice Pierce, a shell-shocked World War veteran of Evansville, Ind., is being investigated by the American Legion to determine whether these were inflicted while Pierce was a patient in a hospital for the insane.

Disabled Vet Wins.

More evidence that World War veterans have the "never-say-die" spirit was shown when Leonard T. Pauli of Grinnell College, Ia., with a leg badly maimed by shrapnel wounds broke the 100 and 220 yard dash records in an intercollegiate track meet held in Chicago. Many days of strenuous training with his comrades of the American Legion put Pauli in trim for the event. His stride with his left leg is four inches longer than with his right.

Benefits For Veterans.

Under a modification of the New York Veterans' Relief Act, dependents of disabled ex-service men in hospitals are eligible to $15 a month benefit if the veteran is being maintained in the hospital by the Government.

Investigate Charges.

Both Democratic and Republican Representatives in Congress from New York have joined in the investigation of charges made by the Staten Island American Legion that eleven World War veterans were buried "practically in a public dump" in Whitelock, Staten Island.

"Shone Up" City.

Remembering how they shined up camps during army days with brushes and buckets of whitewash, the American Legionnaires at Osgood, Indiana, whitewashed all the shade trees and hitching posts in the little city, thereby starting a movement which resulted in making Osgood one of the cleanest and most sanitary towns in the country.

Her Mistake.

Magistrate: "So, madam, you broke an umbrella over your husband's head?"

Defendant: "It was purely an accident, sir."

Magistrate: "How in the world could that have been an accident?"

Defendant: "Why, your honor, I hadn't the slightest intention of breaking the umbrella."—American Legion Weekly.

Postmasters Are Soldiers.

Of the 7,088 postmasters appointed by President Harding, since March, 1921, 900 served in some branch of the military service during the war, according to an announcement of the American Legion.

Proof Wanted.

A colored sergeant on his way up to the front, met a dusky private coming away from the same place with much speed and eclat.

"Wh' yo' mean, boy, runnin' away like dat fo'?" demanded the non-com.

"Runnin' away? Who say runnin' away?" demanded the buck, halting.

"Ah ain't runnin' away. Nossuh. But Ah done heard dem Germans was shootin' dum-dum bullets an' Ah was chasin' one fo' evidence."—American Legion Weekly.

Florida To Exhibit.

To demonstrate to the thousands of visitors expected at the American Legion national convention the products of Florida, the American Legion department of that State will stage a $12,000 exhibit at the Legion gathering in New Orleans, Oct. 16 to 21.

Jerome Wideman, Florida Legion commander, has written to the convention committee stating that a complete exhibit of all agricultural, mineral and other natural resources will be prepared.

When the doughboy stops before the Florida exhibition booth he may take his choice of souvenirs from each county and city. Peanuts and pecans will be on the free list. There will be a rush for the counter where fresh citrus fruits are on display, since it is the plan of the Florida Legionnaires to station the most beautiful women of the State as attendants in preparing fruit for the hungry veterans.

The Florida delegation will be accompanied by a band and a saxophone corps of 28 pieces.

Become Artists.

Only a few of the hundreds of thousands of people who have seen the cover designs on two of the recent issues of the American Legion Weekly, official publication of the American Legion, knew that one of these designs was painted by a man totally deaf and the other by a veteran whose left arm hangs limp at his side as a result of world war experiences.

These two men are members of the Society of Illustrators' School for Disabled Veterans. E. J. Behar, though a school teacher before the war and stricken deaf while with the artillery in France, won the first prize in a cover design contest conducted by the weekly. The second prize was won by a farmer, V. R. Pyles, whose left arm is paralyzed as a result of a wound by a machine gun bullet. Behar's cover appeared on the Weekly issue of June 30th and Pyles' came out on the July 7th issue. The judges in the magazine cover contest were three of the country's most famous illustrators, Charles Dana Gibson, Orson Lowell and Edward Penfield.

Legion Auxiliary Popular.

When the A. E. F. put on the battle of Paris in 1918 they were a w.o.l. as far as their wives, mothers, daughters and sisters were concerned. The women folk from home weren't there. But when the battle of the Paris of America, is staged Oct. 16 to 20 in New Orleans, the veterans won't be able to leave the women behind.

It was estimated here today that one thousand women will be in official attendance at the annual convention of the American Legion Auxiliary, which is to run concurrently with the American Legion convention. There will, in addition, be thousands of women guests, members of the auxiliary, but not accredited as delegates, alternates or officers of the organization. The women will live in an Adames Eden in the Hotel Bienville, and will hold their sessions in the K. of C. hall. The big event for them will be their States' dinner, in which each State will entertain its own delegates and visitors at its table, and vie with the others for brilliance in decorations. They will face a barrage of French fetes, yacht reviews, teas, luncheons and automobile tours, and they will be partners for the Legionnaires in dances which are to be a replica of those in the streets of towns in France in 1918.

Newsboys To Be Scouts.

In order that newsboys as well as the more fortunate sons of the well-to-do may enjoy the advantages of membership in the Boy Scout organization, a movement has been started by the Detroit American Legion to make it possible for lads who earn their livelihood on the street to become full-fledged Scouts.

The plan as set forth by Dr. Frank B. Broderick, the Legion's State welfare officer, provides that posts of the service men's organization in each city and town organize the newsboys into Scout troops, buying their uniforms and furnishing them with all necessary equipment. The movement will not be limited to take in only newsboys but will include all boys who are anxious to become Boy Scouts but because of a lack of money can not join the organization.

"We believe that this is a real Americanization movement," said Dr. Broderick, who is fostering the idea in Michigan. "Many newsboys and other lads who are employed in street occupations are the sons of aliens and they offer a very fertile field for the teaching of American ideals."

"It is proposed that the members of the Legion in each locality take the boys into their confidence, meet with them and discuss business affecting the organization. We expect, of course, Legionnaires to act as Scout Masters."

World Peace Convention.

A new chapter in the history of efforts to establish world peace will be written when representatives of World War fighters from eight principal Allied Powers meet in New Orleans, Oct. 11-13 for the annual convention of the Inter-Allied Veterans' Federation.

The convention, which will be held a few days before the fourth annual national convention of the American Legion, will be attended by five accredited delegates from service men's organizations in each of the Allied countries. The New Orleans gathering will be known as the Convention of Peace because the chief aim will be to promote those things that will make for world peace.

There is a definite understanding that the convention of service men will not be influenced in its deliberations by present-day politics or by misunderstandings or disagreements that have arisen in international conferences. Among the questions to be considered at the conference are:

1. The possibility of having laws passed which will allow a disabled veteran living in an Allied country reductions in railroad fares.
2. The eventual hospitalization of disabled or impotent veterans living in Allied countries on the same basis as his comrades who served in the armed forces of the country in which the foreigner lives.
3. Unemployment in the Allied countries: Arrangements to be made by which an Allied government having need of foreign labor will give preference to unemployed veterans of other Allied countries.

Delegates to the New Orleans meeting will hold deliberations in French. The general public will be invited to attend the sessions.

Tough One.

"Do you call that a beef-steak?" It makes me laugh!"

"I'm glad to hear it, sir. Most people swear."—Kasper (Stockholm).

The Priceless Ingredient

In the city of Bagdad lived Hakeem, the Wise One, and many people went to him for counsel, which he gave freely to all, asking nothing in return.

There came to him a young man who had spent much, but got little, and said: "Tell me, Wise One, what shall I do to receive the most for that which I spend?"

Hakeem answered, "A thing that is bought or sold has no value unless it contain that which cannot be bought or sold. Look for the Priceless Ingredient."

"But what is this Priceless Ingredient?" asked the young man. Spoke then the Wise One, "My son, the Priceless Ingredient of every product in the market place is the Honor and Integrity of him who makes it. Consider his name before you buy."

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That in order to provide for the selling of the certificates of indebtedness aforesaid, to be issued under the provisions of this Act, the Governor, Comptroller of the Treasury and the Treasurer of the State, or a majority of them, are hereby directed to advertise twice a week for four succeeds of the sale of bonds to be dated June 15, 1922, to each of the counties, respectively for lateral road purposes. It shall thereupon be the duty of the proper authorities of each county to provide, by assessing a tax upon the taxable basis of said county or by borrowing upon the faith and credit of said county or by special assessments and benefits assessed upon the property especially benefited by said road, or by levying a tax upon the property within a special assessment district created for the purpose, or by a combination of two or more of these methods, or by any manner which in their discretion is lawful and equitable for the raising, during said year, of a sum of money equal to the proportionate amount appropriated to said county as aforesaid. The duty of raising the said amount to be furnished by each of said counties is hereby made mandatory upon the proper authorities of the respective counties and subject to enforcement by mandamus at the instance of the State Roads Commission. Full power and authority is hereby granted to the County Commissioners or other lawfully constituted authorities of each and every county to raise said money in any of the ways hereinafter set out, and in case they decide to raise the same by borrowing upon the credit and faith of the county, they are authorized to issue the bonds or certificates of indebtedness of said county to the extent of the amount so needed, upon such terms and conditions and with such rate of interest, and with such date of maturity as to them may seem best. The Lateral road money raised by each and every county as hereinbefore provided shall be paid to the State Roads Commission at such times and in such amounts, and under such guarantees as the State Roads Commission shall from time to time determine. If the County Commissioners of any county shall have fixed the county tax levy for such county for the year 1922 prior to May 1, 1922, and said Board of Commissioners shall desire to raise the whole or any part of such county's share of said lateral road money for the year 1922 by assessing a tax upon the taxable basis of said county, the said Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow such amount as shall be required for said purpose for the year 1922, and issue their scrip as evidence of the obligation, and to include in the next succeeding tax levy the amount necessary to repay such loan or loans.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the State Roads Commission shall, on or before January 15, 1923, after first setting apart therefrom the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars, to be used as hereinafter provided, ascertain, on the same basis as hereinbefore set forth, the amount to which each county will be entitled in the balance of the proceeds to be derived from the sale of bonds to be dated June 15, 1923, and shall immediately and not later than January 15, 1923, send notice thereof to the County Commissioners of the respective counties, and it shall thereupon become the duty of the proper authorities in each county, during the year 1923, to provide, by any of the methods hereinbefore set forth, an equal amount to represent the said county's share of said lateral road fund for 1923, and the same powers and duties shall rest upon the Boards of County Commissioners of the several counties and the State Roads Commission with reference to said funds to be raised and used during 1923 as those hereinbefore conferred for 1922. The sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars to be set apart from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds to be dated June 15, 1923, as hereinbefore provided, shall be used in the construction of such bridges in the various counties of the State as may be selected by the State Roads Commission, and the same rights and powers are hereby conferred upon the said State Roads Commission in connection with the building of such bridges as are herein conferred upon said Commission in connection with the building of the roads herein authorized.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That the actual cash proceeds of the sale of the certificates of indebtedness to be issued under this Act shall be used exclusively for the following purposes, to wit: The Comptroller shall, immediately upon the sale of and payment for said bonds or certificates of indebtedness, first return to and credit the Treasurer with whatever advances or payments may have been made as provided for by Section 5 of this Act. The remainder of the proceeds of said loan shall thereupon be turned over to the State Roads Commission and used by it from time to time, as and when the same shall become necessary, for the following purposes: Said proceeds shall be used and expended by the State Roads Commission, first, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($150,000) as hereinafter directed, for the construction of such bridges in the several counties of the State as may be selected by the State Roads Commission; second, one-half of the residue of the net proceeds received from the sale of said bonds or certificates of indebtedness, with the aid of Federal funds appropriated for such purpose by any Act or Acts of Congress, for the construction, in the several counties of the State, of such rural post roads as may be selected by the State Roads Commission; and third, the remaining one-half of the net proceeds derived from the sale of such bonds or certificates of indebtedness shall be used, with an equal sum to be raised by the several counties of the State, for the purpose of building such lateral roads, in the several counties of the State, as may be selected by the State Roads Commission. The money expended for such post and lateral roads in each of said counties to be determined according to the respective road mileage of said counties.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the State Roads Commission shall, immediately after the going into effect of this Act, and not later than May 1, 1923, by using the same ratio which the public road mileage of the respective counties bears to the entire public road mileage in the counties of the State, ascertain each county's proportionate part of the proceeds to be derived from the sale of the bonds or certificates of indebtedness to be dated June 15, 1922, and herein appropriated for the construction of lateral roads, and shall immediately and not later than May 1, 1922, notify the County Commissioners of the several counties of the amount, thus ascertained, which has been appropriated from the proceeds of the sale of bonds to be dated June 15, 1922, to each of the counties, respectively for lateral road purposes. It shall thereupon be the duty of the proper authorities of each county to provide, by assessing a tax upon the taxable basis of said county or by borrowing upon the faith and credit of said county or by special assessments and benefits assessed upon the property especially benefited by said road, or by levying a tax upon the property within a special assessment district created for the purpose, or by a combination of two or more of these methods, or by any manner which in their discretion is lawful and equitable for the raising, during said year, of a sum of money equal to the proportionate amount appropriated to said county as aforesaid. The duty of raising the said amount to be furnished by each of said counties is hereby made mandatory upon the proper authorities of the respective counties and subject to enforcement by mandamus at the instance of the State Roads Commission. Full power and authority is hereby granted to the County Commissioners or other lawfully constituted authorities of each and every county to raise said money in any of the ways hereinafter set out, and in case they decide to raise the same by borrowing upon the credit and faith of the county, they are authorized to issue the bonds or certificates of indebtedness of said county to the extent of the amount so needed, upon such terms and conditions and with such rate of interest, and with such date of maturity as to them may seem best. The Lateral road money raised by each and every county as hereinbefore provided shall be paid to the State Roads Commission at such times and in such amounts, and under such guarantees as the State Roads Commission shall from time to time determine. If the County Commissioners of any county shall have fixed the county tax levy for such county for the year 1922 prior to May 1, 1922, and said Board of Commissioners shall desire to raise the whole or any part of such county's share of said lateral road money for the year 1922 by assessing a tax upon the taxable basis of said county, the said Board of County Commissioners are hereby authorized and empowered to borrow such amount as shall be required for said purpose for the year 1922, and issue their scrip as evidence of the obligation, and to include in the next succeeding tax levy the amount necessary to repay such loan or loans.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the State Roads Commission shall, on or before January 15, 1923, after first setting apart therefrom the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars, to be used as hereinafter provided, ascertain, on the same basis as hereinbefore set forth, the amount to which each county will be entitled in the balance of the proceeds to be derived from the sale of bonds to be dated June 15, 1923, and shall immediately and not later than January 15, 1923, send notice thereof to the County Commissioners of the respective counties, and it shall thereupon become the duty of the proper authorities in each county, during the year 1923, to provide, by any of the methods hereinbefore set forth, an equal amount to represent the said county's share of said lateral road fund for 1923, and the same powers and duties shall rest upon the Boards of County Commissioners of the several counties and the State Roads Commission with reference to said funds to be raised and used during 1923 as those hereinbefore conferred for 1922. The sum of one hundred and fifty thousand ($150,000) dollars to be set apart from the proceeds of the sale of the bonds to be dated June 15, 1923, as hereinbefore provided, shall be used in the construction of such bridges in the various counties of the State as may be selected by the State Roads Commission, and the same rights and powers are hereby conferred upon the said State Roads Commission in connection with the building of such bridges as are herein conferred upon said Commission in connection with the building of the roads herein authorized.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That one-half of the cost of construction of all lateral roads which shall be built in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, shall be paid by the State out of the proceeds from the sale of bonds set apart in the manner hereinbefore provided, to the Counties in which such roads are respectively located, and the remaining one-half with the funds to be provided by said Counties, respectively, as herein directed.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That those portions of the proceeds from the sale of the bonds or certificates of indebtedness herein authorized, which are herein appropriated to meet obligations imposed upon the State by its assent to any Act or Acts of Congress appropriating Federal aid to the several States in the construction of rural post roads, shall be used by the State Roads Commission, subject to the conditions and provisions contained in said Act or Acts of Congress, in the construction of rural post roads throughout the State, provided, however, that said funds shall be expended in the several Counties of the State in the same ratio as the County road mileage of each County bears to the entire County road mileage of the State.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That if the Congress of the United States shall fail on or before December 15, 1922, or December 15, 1923, respectively, to pass legislation appropriating from the Federal Treasury

One-Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.—Adv.

All moneys paid to the board shall be deposited by the treasurer in some safe banking institution, and all moneys paid out shall be approved by said board and be made by check signed by both the president and the treasurer. The treasurer shall be required to give such bond as the board may exact, and the said board shall make an annual report of its proceedings to the Governor, which report shall contain an account of all moneys received and disbursed by them pursuant to this sub-title.

All moneys received in excess of said compensation and mileage as before provided for shall be held by the treasury as a special fund for meeting expenses of said board and carrying out the provisions of this sub-title.

Section 257. No person shall hereafter practice optometry, or use the title optometrist in the State of Maryland unless he shall first have obtained a certificate of registration or one of examination, and filed the same for record or a certified copy thereof with the clerk of the county or city of his residence, as herein provided in Section 263. It shall be construed as practicing optometry for any person to prescribe, give directions or advise as to the fitness or adaptation of a pair of spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses for another person to wear for the correction or relief of any condition for which a pair of spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses are used, or to use or permit or allow the use of instruments, test cards, test types, test lenses, spectacles or eyeglasses or anything containing lenses, or any device for the purpose of aiding any person to select any spectacles, eyeglasses or lenses to be used or worn by such last mentioned person or by any other person.

Section 259. Every person, not exempt by Section 7, Chapter 652 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of the Session of 1914, as codified in the Annotated Code of Maryland (Volume 3), Article 43, Section 255, desiring to begin the practice of optometry in this State shall pass an examination before said Board of Examiners, in such subjects and under such rules and regulations as shall from time to time be adopted by said board. Such examination may in the discretion of said board, embrace all subjects relative to optics and optometry contained in text-books or that are now or may hereafter be taught in high-grade educational institutions teaching optics and optometry and kindred subjects, and shall include the anatomy, physiology and pathology of the eye, the use of all instruments used in making examination of the eye, and such other subjects as said board may deem advisable. Any applicant for examination must not be under twenty-one years of age, and must be of good moral character, and must give evidence which shall be satisfactory to the Board of Examiners of having had preliminary scholastic and professional education equal to such standard as may be adopted by said board. Such scholastic and professional standards may, in the discretion of said board, be changed from time to time to meet the demands of the profession. Information as to the scholastic and professional standard adopted by said board shall be furnished to any person upon his written request and shall include any change made in such standard prior to the receipt of such request. Any person applying for examination shall be required to furnish satisfactory proof to said board of scholastic and professional education equal to the standard in force at the time of such application for examination, and, upon furnishing such proof, shall be examined before said board at such time and place as said board may designate. Each person shall pay at the time of filing his application the sum of twenty dollars to the secretary of the board for the use of said board, and if he shall pass said examination he shall pay to the secretary, for the use of said board, a further sum of five dollars on the issuance to him of a numbered certificate of examination which shall constitute a license to practice optometry; provided, however, that any applicant for a certificate of licensure who has been examined by the State board of another State which, through reciprocity, similarly accredits the holder of a certificate issued by the board of this State to the full privileges of practice within such State may, with the approval and consent of said board, on the payment of a fee of twenty-five dollars to the said board and on filing in the office of the board a true and attested copy of the said license, certified by the president or secretary of the State board issuing the same and showing also that the standard of requirements adopted and enforced by said board is equal to that provided for by this Act, may, without further examination, receive a certificate of licensure, provided that such applicant has not previously failed at an examination held by the board of this State. All persons passing such examinations shall be registered in the board register, which shall be kept by the secretary and shall also receive a numbered certificate of such registration, signed by at least three members of the board making such examination of said applicant, which shall be recorded in the clerk's office of the Superior Court of Baltimore City, or the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of any county in the State. If any applicant be rejected he shall be entitled to another examination not earlier than six months thereafter for the first fee paid, but for subsequent examinations he shall pay a fee of fifteen dollars. Said examinations are not to occur within six months of the preceding one.

Section 264. The board may revoke any certificate of registration or examination granted by it under this sub-title because of wilful misrepresentation, illegal practice, conviction of crime, whether in this State or elsewhere, habitual drunkenness for six months preceding the charge, gross incompetency to practice optometry, the employment of other persons as solicitors of business, obtaining any fee by fraud or misrepresentation, employing directly or indirectly any person other than the holder of a certificate of registration or examination, granted in accordance with the provisions of this sub-title, to perform any act for which such certificate is required, making use of or authorizing any advertisement containing untruthful or misleading statements, or any other unprofessional conduct; and the board may refuse to grant a certificate to any person guilty of fraud in passing the examination or guilty at any time of felony or gross immorality or addicted to the liquor or drug habit to such a degree as to render him unfit to practice the profession of optometry; but no certificate shall be revoked nor refused unless written charges have been filed against the accused in person, and at least ten days' written notice of the time and place of the hearing thereon, which shall be public, served upon the accused, and he be given an opportunity to confront the witness against him, offer testimony in his own behalf and be heard in person or by counsel. Witnesses at such hearing shall testify under oath and the board may enforce the attendance of witnesses. Any certificate which shall have been revoked may in the discretion of said board be reissued after six months from the date of its revocation, provided the cause for which such certificate shall have been revoked shall no longer exist, and provided further that the person whose certificate shall have been revoked shall show to said board, upon examination, that he is fully qualified to practice optometry, and shall pay a fee of fifteen dollars for such reissuance. Any optometrist convicted a second time for violation of the provisions of this sub-title or whose certificate of registration or examination has been revoked shall not be permitted to practice optometry in this State. An appeal may be taken from the action of the board refusing to grant or revoking a certificate for such causes to three disinterested optometrists, one of whom shall be appointed by said board, another of whom shall be appointed by the applicant, and the two so appointed to select the third, and the decision of any two thereof shall be final and binding. Thirty dollars shall be deposited with said board by said applicant prior to the selection of the three persons aforesaid for the purpose of defraying the expenses of said appeal. If the decision of the board be not affirmed the said thirty dollars is to be returned to said applicant and the expenses of the appeal is to be borne by the board.

Section 266. Any person who shall violate any of the preceding provisions of this sub-title shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than twenty-five dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, or imprisoned not more than thirty days, or both fined and imprisoned, and his license may be revoked in the discretion of the court.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That this Act is hereby declared to be an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public safety, and being passed upon a yeas and nays supported by three-fifths of all the members elected to each of the two Houses of the General Assembly, the same shall take effect from the date of its passage.

Approved April 13, 1922.

CHAPTER NO. 303.

An Act to repeal and re-enact with amendments Sections 35 and 58 and Sub-Section 3 of Section 63 of Article 101 (C 1) of the Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Workmen's Compensation," so as to make certain changes in the manner of administering and the extent of the application of Workmen's Compensation.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That Section 35 of Article 101 (C 1) of the Annotated Code of Maryland (Bagby's Edition), title "Workmen's Compensation," be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted, with amendments, so as to read as follows:

Section 35. Whenever the State, county, city or any municipality shall engage in any extra hazardous work, within the meaning of this Act, whether for pecuniary gain or otherwise, in which workmen are employed for wages, this Act shall be applicable thereto. Whenever and so long as by State law, City Charter or Municipal Ordinance, provision equal or better than that given under the terms of this Act is made for municipal employees injured in the course of employment, such employees shall not be entitled to the benefits of this Act.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That Section 58 of Article 101 (C 1) of the Annotated Code as the same was amended by Chapter 456 of the Acts of the General Assembly of 1920, be and the same is hereby repealed and re-enacted, with amendments, so as to read as follows:

Section 58. Where injury or death for which compensation is payable under this Act, was caused under circumstances creating a legal liability in some person other than the employer or to pay damages in respect thereof, the employee, or in the case of death, his personal representatives or dependents as hereinbefore defined, may proceed either by law against that other person to recover damages or against the employer for compensation under this Act, or in case of joint tortfeasors against both; and if compensation is claimed and awarded or paid under this Act any employer, if he is self-insured, insurance company, association or the State Accident Fund, may enforce for their benefit, as the case may be, the liability of such other person; provided, however, if damages are recovered in excess of the compensation already paid or awarded to be paid under this Act, and also any payments made for medical or surgical services, funeral expenses or for any of the other purposes enumerated in Section 37 of this Act, then any such excess shall be paid to the injured employee, or in case of death to his dependents less the expenses and costs of action incurred by the employer, insurance company, association or State Accident Fund as the case may be. If any such employer, insurance company, association or State Accident Fund shall not, within two months from the passage of the award of this Commission, start proceedings to enforce the liability of such other person, the injured employee, or in case of death, his dependents, may enforce the liability of such other person provided, however, that if damages are recovered the injured employee or in case of death his dependents may first retain therefrom the expenses and costs of action for which the employer, insurance company, association or the State Accident Fund, as the case may be, shall be reimbursed for the compensation already paid or awarded, and any amount or amounts paid for medical or surgical services, funeral expenses or for any of the other purposes enumerated in Section 37 of this Act, and the balance in excess of these items shall accrue to the injured employee, or in case of death, to his dependents, and the amount thus received by the injured employee or in case of death by his dependents shall be in lieu of any award that might otherwise have been made thereafter in the same case under the provisions of this Act and said case shall thereupon be deemed to have been finally settled and closed.

POULTRY NOTES

H. W. RICKEY

While the processes involved in the preparation of dressed poultry for the market or table are neither difficult nor intricate, reasonable care must be exercised if the carcass is to reach the consumer in the most attractive condition.

The first step in the preparation of the fowl is the killing and bleeding, which on the average farm is quickly and easily accomplished by wringing the neck or chopping off the head, but a better plan and one practiced in the packing houses and on the more up-to-date poultry plants is to sever the main arteries leading directly to the brain through the base of the skull. The method usually employed is to insert a sharp knife blade in and up in to the mouth until the blade reaches the point where the blood vessels enter the skull. Then with a slight twisting, cutting motion the arteries are cut, permitting a free flow of blood which is so necessary to insure the best keeping properties and appearance of the dressed fowl. The flesh of a poorly bled chicken is inferior both in flavor and condition; it is less firm and much more perishable than the meat of well bled fowls. The surface is marred by red spots where the feathers have been removed, and by the prominence of the veins of the breast, wings and neck.

Other methods of bleeding are sometimes recommended, but are seldom used on chickens destined for the market. For home consumption the dislocation of the vertebra of the neck answers every purpose. It is a bloodless operation, that is, no blood escapes to soil the clothes or hands, yet the body is well drained of blood. The bird is held, by the legs, head down with the left hand. With the right hand the thumb of the right hand back of the chicken's head and the first and second fingers under the beak the head is bent back and pulled downward until the neck is broken. A little practice soon enables one to learn just how hard to pull, and when the operation is completed the fowl bleeds at the point of the break and the blood collects in the pouch thus formed. The clotted blood discolors the neck, but if prepared for the table within a short time, the flesh of the neck is in no way harmed, and the skin is cut somewhat close to the body and the bone scraped clean of the clotted blood.

While this method of killing and bleeding is clean, easy and effective, it is doubtful as to whether it is as complete as that obtained by cutting the blood vessels through the mouth and thus permitting an uninterrupted flow of the blood outside the body.

Another method commonly practiced some years ago, but now discarded, consisted of running a pointed knife blade through the head from one side to the other at the base of the brain, cutting the arteries and puncturing the brain at the same time. The bleeding was complete, but an ugly scar was left on both sides of the head, which injured the appearance of the dressed carcass.

The next step in the process of "dressing" is the picking or "plucking" of the feathers. The fowls may be first scalded and then picked, or they may be picked dry. There is no objection to the scalding process if the dressed fowls are not to be sent to market, but are destined for home use. The feathers are easily plucked, even by an amateur. The skin, however, is as easily scarred; the cuticle covering the skin is destroyed and the skin's protection against bacteria is gone, so the more quickly the fowl is used, after being scalded, the less danger there is from effects of putrefactive organisms.

With the feet of the fowl in one hand and the head in the other, dip the body several times. Hold it under the water each time for four or five seconds, while keeping it in constant motion. Then when lifting the body out of the water see that the legs are up, allowing the feathers to fall back and open, exposing the skin to the air.

When ready, the picking is usually done with the bird on a table or on the knees of the picker; a waterproof apron should be provided. If properly used the removal of the feathers may be accomplished with minimum effort and with little danger of tearing the skin.

Successful dry picking, however, requires more care and experience, with some skill. The beginner should practice on the matured fowl, as the skin is tougher and does not tear so easily, but the ense with which the skin of the young bird is torn and scarred makes the greatest care and experience a necessity. It all appears very simple when we are informed that all we have to do is to grasp handfuls of feathers and with one pull pluck them all. My advice, however, is to begin with a few and move cautiously. The feathers do, however, fall when an expert is doing the work, provided the fowl has been killed with that end in view. When killing a fowl for dry picking it must not only be bled, but must be "stuck"—that is, the brain must be punctured—which operation paralyzes the control muscles of the feathers and loosens them for a short time, and if this circumstance is to be taken advantage of the picking must begin immediately after the brain is pierced and the arteries cut. If this is not done the muscles soon begin to set, making it almost impossible to pull the feathers without seriously injuring the skin and possibly preventing the sale of the fowl.

The sticking and bleeding consists practically of one operation, one following the other in rapid succession; the sticking may be done either before or after bleeding. I personally favor to first stick the brain, as the hand with the knife can be gotten away before the flow of blood begins.

When "sticking" the back of the fowl's head is held in the palm of one hand with the forefinger between the upper and lower mandible, in order to keep the mouth open. The blade of the knife is then inserted and the point pushed through the roof of the mouth until it touches the top of the skull; it is then given a twist and withdrawn. Immediately afterward and without taking the knife from the mouth, it is pushed farther back, a cut is made across the base of the skull and the operation is completed with the withdrawal of the blade. Care, however, should be taken in making the stick to avoid running the knife blade through the top of the head into the hand holding it.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING.

In Minnesota, 78,314 farms, or 43.9 per cent. of all farms in the State, reported co-operative marketing of farm products in 1919. Both co-operative elevators and co-operative creameries are numerous in this State.

Sales through farmers' marketing organizations in the United States in 1919 amounted to $21,983,639, or an average of $1,412 for each farm reporting. The most important products marketed in this way were grain, milk and cream, fruits and truck crops, according to The World Almanac's census summary.

The number of farms in the United States reporting co-operative purchasing of farm supplies through farmers' organizations in 1919 was 329,449, or 5.1 per cent. of all farms. In six States, co-operative purchasing of farm supplies was reported by over 20,000 farms, as follows: Iowa, 32,530; Kansas, 32,321; Minnesota, 29,611; Nebraska, 27,235; Wisconsin, 21,792 and Ohio 21,250.

Important items purchased co-operatively were fertilizer, feed, binder twine, spraying materials, coal, crates boxes, etc.

Ready to Work.

Two pilgrims of the dusty road were discussing the alleged corrupt practices of modern politicians. "Bill," said one, "you don't hanker after a government job, do you?" "I don't mind sayin' I'd take one if I could get it," retorted the other, "but I ain't after no job that's all fat. I'm willin' to earn my wages." "What sort of a job would be your idea?" "Well, I'd like to fill fountain pens for some assistant secretary of the treasury."

A Tonic For Women

"I was hardly able to drag, I was so weakened," writes Mrs. W. F. Ray, of Esley, S. C. "The doctor treated me for about two months, still I didn't get any better. I had a large family and felt I surely must do something to enable me to take care of my little ones. I had heard of

CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

"I decided to try it," continues Mrs. Ray. "I took eight bottles in all. I regained my strength and have had no more trouble with womanly weakness. I have ten children and am able to do all my housework and a lot of other things. I can sure recommend Cardui."

Take Cardui today. It may be just what you need. At all druggists.

What is HOME without a FIREPLACE?

THIS mantel will be beautiful in your home today, and fifty years hence it will still be as charming. Visitors will chat about it; your friends will enjoy it; your children and grandchildren will love it; and you will wonder how you ever did without it. Home wouldn't be home to you without a fireplace.

Thus it is that one becomes attached to a fireplace. So great a part does the hearth play in our lives that it is worthy of a beautiful and fitting mantel about it—something like mantel C-615 shown above with well-proportioned pilasters and delicately molded shelf. This mantel teaches an unspoken lesson of taste and refinement.

This is but one design from our Curtis Catalog, which shows many other mantels equally attractive, of Colonial, English, Western and Southern types. Come in and see them. They are all standard designs and sizes, which means they cost less and are ready for immediate delivery.

WILL ANSWER ANY WOMAN WHO WRITES

Woman Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Makes This Offer

Cumberland, Md.—"My mother gave me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was between thirteen and fourteen years old and was going to school, because I suffered with pains and could not rest. I did not have any more trouble after that until I was married, then I always was troubled in my back while carrying a child and could not do my work until I took the Vegetable Compound. I am strong, do all my washing and ironing and work for seven children and feel fine. I always have an easy time at childbirth and what it did for me it will do for other women. I am willing to answer any woman if she will write asking what it did for me."
—Mrs. JOHN HEIER, 63 Dilley St., Cumberland, Md.
During girlhood and later during motherhood Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought relief to Mrs. Heier. Her case is but one of many we constantly publish recommending our Vegetable Compound. She is willing to answer your letter. Write to her.

County News

REEDVILLE

Quite a number of passengers left here on the Potomac for Crisfield, Thursday afternoon enroute to various places. Mrs. Florence Parker was returning to her home in Onancock, after visiting her sisters at Fairport. Her niece, Miss Aletha McNeal, was with her, going over for a visit. Miss Martha Rice and Miss Lenora McGill, of this place, were on board, the latter to spend sometime with Mrs. J. T. Westcott, of Onancock, while the former visited her aunt, Miss Macla March, at Onley. Later Martha will meet her uncle, Mr. J. E. Marsh, Jr., in Norfolk, and go with him to Charlottesville, meeting Miss Mary Rice. The three will then visit Leary, see the wonderful caverns, and other interesting things in that section, before coming home.

Mr. Harry Haynie, who has been working at the Chesapeake Fisheries, near Cape Charles, has been home this week and has quite a number of admirers. He is a gentleman of attraction and interest. Harry it seems, has invented some labor-saving device and has secured his rights, formed a company, and will endeavor soon to place his patent on the market. Harry is a popular boy, and has many friends, and well-wishers, who wish him success and a realization of his hopes.

Mrs. Thomas Jones, of Urbanna, who has been at Reedville visiting her son-in-law, Mr. Wm. Blundon, recently is now at Sharps, spending some time with her daughter, Mrs. Motley.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Davis motoring over from this place spent the past week-end at Urbanna.

Many friends are delighted to know that Miss Florence Gates has been able to leave St. Luke's Hospital and is now at the home of her sister, Mrs. Smith, in Richmond. She is much better, we are told.

Mrs. Wm. H. Edwards, and her son, Mr. Henry Edwards arrived Friday morning on the Potomac from Salisbury and are now guests of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Cockrell, of this place. This is their first visit here since the death of Dr. Edwards, of beloved memory. There are many friends here who share with them their grief.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Ruth Page has gotten over her operation at Mercy Hospital, Baltimore, and is coming home in a day or two. She had the ever-present bad tonsils and adenoid trouble, it is said.

Mrs. J. W. McAloney has not been well the past week but is improving. Prof. and Mrs. W. W. Barnhart, from their school work in North Carolina, are expected here soon for a most welcome stay in the McAloney home.

Mr. Eppes, of Richmond, selling supplies for road building, was in town last week, spending the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Perkins.

The Mizpah Bible Class, of Bethany, assisted by other friendly talent, is rehearsing a musical play which they expect to have at Reedville Hall on the evening of Aug. 2. The music is good and the entertainment will doubtless be fine and for a good cause. See a later notice.

Mr. O. W. Douglas of Fleeton, and daughters Misses Virginia and Sedonia were in Baltimore port of last week.

Thomas L. Cockrell and John Cockrell.

Division Street Baptist Church, Rev. V. L. Edmunds, Pastor.

rell, of the Doctor's family, have taken positions recently. Thomas at the Southern Hotel, Baltimore and John with the Reedville Co., Inc., down the street. Reedville has a fine lot of boys, of whom we should be proud. Very few care to loaf, and nearly all work for at least a part of their vacation period.

Mr. Charlie Miersch, who once lived here, has been in town the past week. On a sturdy little motor boat, the Ruth, and in company with a friend, he has been cruising down the Potomac and around the Rappahannock, in vacation hours.

The "Pinta" large power boat go badly damaged by running aground near Fleeton last spring, was in the harbor this week. Spice and span she is now, and like a new boat. There were ladies on board. This is a popular place for yachting parties, and many beautiful motor boats are seen as they run up in the cove on either side of our little town, for a safe and sure anchorage, during the summer season. Many who work in crowded cities, take their vacations in boating, it seems.

Mrs. Green Powell has returned to her little home in Fairport, after spending the winter at Nachapogue, with her married daughter. During the summer she works at her trade of wall papering here and is ready and glad to work at any time, as she finds her hands quite full to provide for her several small children, who are fatherless. Mrs. Powell is a good paper hanger, quick, willing and obliging. Fairport seems to corner the market on paper hangers, and they are all very good and are kept busy.

Capt. Henry Haynie, of the Swan, fishing for the Taylor Reed Co., here has been home for a week or more, suffering from an injured foot. He is able to walk, but with a perceptible limp, which his friends are hoping will soon pass away.

Capt. T. H. Haynie, of the Easthampton, Davis Packing Co., who has been at home for a week or two, is now much improved, and has gone out with the boat this week, we gladly state.

So many of the people here are among those who go down to the sea in boats, that every heart is interested in the fate of these boats and the men who go out with them. When on Friday last, a wire came saying that the Amagansett had been lost off Hog Island, the night before, every heart was heavy with fear until the welcome news that the crew was safe, followed. Mr. Leslie Haynie, of this place, was captain of the Amagansett and had only been fishing the past two weeks. The Luce Bros. is the only steamer left the Chesapeake Fisheries, Inc., since the Amagansett has found a watery grave. The McCrever under Capt. Frank Haynie, is putting out her catch there now. Particulars are unknown as yet, it is hoped that the nets and small boats may have been saved. There is some insurance and the losers have a world of sympathy.

Mr. S. Clyde Haynie, of the Reedville Motor Service Co., has rented the apartment which was fitted up at the Pythian Hall, Reedville, and has moved there with his little daughter, Lillian Lee, and his sister, Miss Flora Haynie. This is much more convenient to his work, and also to the school than is the old home near Tibitha, where they have been staying.

An air ship glistening like snow in bright sunshine, circled round and around over our heads Monday afternoon last, bearing a huge and striking advertisement for a well-known patent medicine. A landing was finally made in the creek.

Mr. T. H. Jett and his son, Mr. Jos. Clarence Jett, left Wednesday for Coan, taking the steamer Potomac at that point for Crisfield; enroute, the former for Chincoteague, the latter for Cape Charles, and across to his Norfolk office. Clarence is looking splendid and is kept very busy in his work.

The heavy and continued rains of the past weeks, reaching a culminating point Wednesday night, have damaged the roads in Northumberland probably thousands of dollars, it is thought. Mill dams are washed away, bridges undermined, and the road in a dreadful condition.

BIVALE

Mr. Lloyd Willing, of New York City, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Willing.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton N. Covington and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Jones, of Elkhart, Md., visited friends here Sunday and Monday.

Misses Mildred Inley and Ttha Jackson who are taking courses at the Johns Hopkins University, and Maryland State Normal School, respectively, spent Saturday and Sunday with their parents here.

Mr. Columbus Jones, of Tilghman Island is visiting relatives here.

Mr. Clarence Shockley while cranking an engine on the Oyster Police Boat had the misfortune to receive a fractured wrist when the engine back-fired.

Mr. John T. Harrington, of Delmar, visited relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Clark Inley and family of Baltimore are visiting his parents, Capt. and Mrs. John H. Inley.

Bivale Camp was attended by a large crowd last Sunday. Rev. Dr. Straphin, president of the Maryland Annual Conference, will preach at the Camp Thursday, July 27th, at 8 P. M.

Mr. and Mrs. Lance Inley and children of Salisbury, spent Saturday and Sunday with her brother, Mr. George B. Horsman, Jr.

Mrs. Ernest Lucas, 317 Elizabeth St., says: "I was troubled for years with weak kidneys and was confined to my bed for two weeks at a time. I also went to the hospital but got no better. My hands, feet and limbs swelled and puffy sacs hung beneath my eyes. I was certainly in bad shape, and wasn't expected to get over the trouble. Comment of County Agent Cobb On Agricultural Happenings

Soma of our growers are already planning for next year and one of the questions they ask is this: "Can I treat my melon and cucumber seed with some solution that will keep away wilt, blight and other diseases?"

Our answer is that this idea has been advanced frequently but without any proof. Very few of the diseases winter or carry over in the seed and for that reason treating the seed has practically little value.

Another popular question is that of the life of seed. Tables are available showing the life of each kind of seed and they vary a great deal as might be expected. One table shows that the life of a cucumber seed is 9 years while another lists it as 4 years. We have tested tomato seed, cucumber seed and melon seed that were three and four years old and they showed good vitality although they were slower germinating than new seed.

We are getting data every day which tends to prove more clearly the good results obtained from top-dressing strawberries with a high grade fertilizer. The formula most of our growers used was 7-5-5 and it has more than paid for itself in every instance. This top-dressing not only increased the yield but it also produced better and larger berries and in most cases they carried better than those where no top dressing was used. In a few instances where too much nitrogen was used the berries seemed to be somewhat soft and did not ship as well.

"Syd" Smith gets results from top dressing tomatoes. He uses a good potato fertilizer plus poultry manure and the results are very clearly marked. He also has mighty good ideas on the matter of cultivation but like every other farmer he does not always have the time to do things just as he wants them done. Ripe tomatoes of good size and shape are already on the vines and he will be able to pick right smart of tomatoes shortly.

Raymond Ruark has almost broken the record for an early laying pullet. He did not ask us to mention this fact but if this early laying ability is due to his manner of raising and caring for his flocks we think that he ought to get credit for it. We are not going to tell how old his pullet was but want to wait to see who is going to beat his record. A man who can produce pullets that will lay at an early age and lay good sized eggs is going to reap a benefit that will be repaid in dollars and cents. But we don't want any of our poultry men to force their birds so much when young that they will go into a moult and stop laying just when eggs are high. A poultryman must mix brains with his feeds and care or he gets nowhere.

This year should see the best and largest exhibit of poultry that has ever been on the Fair Grounds. There are a lot of fine birds in this county both as show birds and as egg producers but their owners hide their light under a bushel basket. Let's all get together this year and make friend Will Mitchell worry as to where he is going to put all the birds that come out to the Fair. Many sales were made last year from the exhibit and we have had a large number of inquiries as to the location of the man who won first on Pekins, White Leghorns, etc. The poultry business was over one and a half million dollars in this county in 1920 and it has not decreased any since that time. One of our biggest industries and one of our best bets so let's get it on a firm footing.

There are a large number of trees in the city that need attention. Some of them have rotten cavities that should be cleaned out and treated with a good antiseptic in order that this rot may be stopped. Trees are worth too much to allow them to decay when it can be prevented to a great extent. Too many dead limbs on many of the trees which are not only no good to the tree but are dangerous to passers by especially in a storm. We have been talking a City Forester for some time but apparently there is no need for such a person here in Salisbury or we have not been forcible enough in our remarks. We can have a person who will act as City Forester without pay and all that it will require will be an ordinance creating the position. In our opinion this official would do as much for our city as he has done for other cities like Baltimore, New York and Buffalo.

Cantaloupe prospects seem to be bright. Of course we do not know what the yield will be but right now it looks as if the growers who are not careful about grading their stuff will have to take it back home and feed it to the hogs. Sat in the block for a while one morning and saw nine loads of cucumbers that were not bid on. No, there was no buyers strike, the buyers were not holding off so as to buy them cheaper but they would not bid on stuff that was not graded. It makes no difference what the grower may say or think the fact remains that if he wants to sell his products he has got to please the buyer and the consumer. The buyers know what they want because they know what the consumer wants and they also know that they will lose money if they bid on stuff that can't be turned over into cash in the cities or where their market may be. It seems almost time for our growers as a whole to realize that they can not always "get by" with firsts, seconds, thirds and culls all in the same package and the sooner they realize that the better it will be for

of the county. . . . We are trying to get the news of the boys and girls prizes to be given at the County Fair spread over the county. As we stated before there should be a great deal of interest in this and the building should be filled with exhibits. A little help in spreading this matter will surely be appreciated and any one reading these notes will do us a favor by telling every boy and girl they see of club age. There will be $400 in prizes divided equally between the boys and girls. The prizes are as follows: First 100; second $50; third $30; fourth $20. At least 12 different articles in each class—they need not be grown on the exhibitors farm this year but may be collected by the boy from other farms. Similar rules apply to the girls' exhibit. themselves and the farming industry

William I. Norris Democrat X For United States Senate Public Comments On His Record

Letter from Governor Ritchie.

Albert C. Ritchie
Governor

Philip B. Perlman
Secretary of State

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT

Annapolis, Md.

April 5th, 1922.

Hon. William I. Norris,
8 E. Lexington St.,
Baltimore, Md.
Dear Senator:

I tried to tell you yesterday what I thought of your work at Annapolis during the session of the Legislature just closed, but perhaps you may not mind if I "journalize" today.

Certainly everyone knows that the session was as nearly 100 per cent. as any session could be, not alone in the constructive character of its legislation, but also, from a party point of view, in its perfect record in the redemption of Democratic platform pledges.

I only wish that everyone could know, too, in what great measure the credit for all this belongs to you. It would not have been possible without your skill and ability, your patience, your courtesy and your personality. Not only the Democratic party, but the people of the whole State owe you a debt of genuine gratitude. It will always give me pleasure to say this, and to serve you, whenever I may be fortunate enough to have the opportunity.

Faithfully yours,
(Signed) ALBERT C. RITCHIE,
Governor.

EDITORIAL (Morning Sun, April 12th, 1920.)

The man who added most to his reputation at Annapolis was President William I. Norris, of the Senate. When his name was proposed for that high office The Sun thought and said that his selection would be a mistake. The Sun takes pleasure in admitting that it was mistaken. President Norris came as near being an ideal presiding officer as this State has seen in a long time. When Senator Metzger declared on the closing night that Norris had been "the best presiding officer in the history of the State" he was not talking conventionally. He had said the same thing in private, and he is not only a very partisan Republican, not given to praising Democrats, but a man who has a way of saying what he means, whoever it helps or hurts. It was all the more a high tribute because Mr. Metzger had seen Speaker Laird preside in the session of 1916, and had and has a very high opinion of his ability. President Norris added to his fairness and unflinching patience and courtesy the capacity of quick decision and expediting the work.

(The Morning Sun, January 12th, 1922.)

Every registered lobbyist is entitled to his place in the lobby, but he is not entitled to a place on the floor of either branch of the Legislature. And President Norris of the Senate deserves public commendation for serving notice on them all they must keep off the Legislative grass.

CAPABLE AND UNSELFISH (The Morning Sun, January 22nd, 1922.)

Governor Ritchie, in announcing his candidacy for re-election, said: "It is not, of course, that there could be any doubt of the ability of another to complete that task. President Norris of the State Senate, who would succeed me in the event of my election as Senator, was wholeheartedly in favor of the reorganization plan, and I am glad to say to the whole State, in this public way, that had it not been for his generous, unselfish and capable support the last legislative session could hardly have made the record it did, and wherever else the credit ought to go, a full share must be his."

ABLE AND AGGRESSIVE (Sunday News, Oct. 30th, 1921.)

The President of that august body at present—William I. Norris—is considered one of the most able and most aggressive of the younger men in the party.

ELECTION MADE UNANIMOUS (Baltimore American, Thursday, January 5th, 1922.)

Senate's Presiding Officer Is Tendered Unusual Compliment.

With their work mapped out for them by the caucus, the Democrats in the Senate simply ratified what had been done, going through its usual routine in a perfunctory sort of way. The organization was perfected as planned, and not a discordant note was sounded when the slate was put through. On the contrary, Republicans vied with the Democrats in showering compliments on the presiding officer, and after honoring one of their number with the nomination for president, they themselves proposed to make the election of Senator Norris unanimous. It was a most unusual proceeding, indicating, as it did, a desire to eliminate party lines for the time being to express their confidence in the man who had treated them fairly at the previous session.

Not unmindful of the compliment paid him, President Norris, in the brief address he made upon assuming the chair, again promised to give to the minority every consideration, at the same time calling upon them, as he did upon Democrats, to discard partisanship in enacting legislation and to work together as one harmonious whole for the people of the State. He impressed upon all the importance of hewing close to the line so as to keep down tax rate to a minimum.

AFFABLE AND PLAIN-SPOKEN (Baltimore American, January 25th, 1922.)

Mr. Norris combines with distinction the dual functions of lawyer and legislator. When not making law in Annapolis he is practicing law in Baltimore. He is again the President of the Senate, his services in that capacity in 1920 having rendered his title dear to the presidency of another term. Mr. Norris is one of the younger pillars of Democracy on whom the older leaders are beginning much to lean. Elegant in appearance, affable in manner, helpful in kindness, Mr. Norris yet knows how to "speak right out in meeting." When the occasion demands he does not mince matters, but hits from the shoulder. His special province is the First Legislative District of Baltimore City.

John W. Garrett

Announces His Candidacy

for the United States Senate

In compliance with the urgent request of leading Republicans of Maryland, as expressed in a State-wide convention, I have entered the primary for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

In asking the support of the registered Republican voters in the primary, I would say that I propose to uphold the Republican administration and Republican principles and policies. If nominated and elected, I will conduct my public acts in accordance with the welfare and desires of my constituency and the dictates of my conscience.

JOHN W. GARRETT.

The following opinion has been published by the Guarantee Trust Company of Kansas City, Mo., which gives its reasons for recommending public utility securities for investment to its customers as follows:

1. Light and power companies furnish community necessities.
2. They have enjoyed remarkable stability of earnings for many years.
3. They are recognized in law and practice as publicly regulated monopolies.
4. During periods of changing prices for basic commodities, they are free from inventory adjustment problems.
5. They enjoy greater immunity from labor troubles than almost any other large enterprise.
6. Their business is very nearly on a cash basis.
7. They hold a record almost equal to national banks for minimum risk of failure.
8. For prompt payment of principal and interest and for marketability, their bonds are unsurpassed.
9. Through new development in the science of electricity, greater economies of operation are secured and new uses for electricity are found, increasing opportunity for added revenues.
