or didn't seem to. From the first hour of the first day he was up to his neck pushing things for the new company formed for the purpose of putting Red Tower out of business, and he wouldn't take a minute's time for anything else.

Of course, it says itself that Hatch never made any more proposals about selling the Red Tower plants to the Citizens' Storage & Warehouse people, after the boss got back. That move went into the discard in a hurry, and the Consolidation outfit was busy getting into its fighting clothes, and trying to check the wheels of the C. S. & W. with all sorts of legal obstacles.

Franchise contracts with the railroad were flashed up, and injunctions were prayed for. Ripley waded in, and what little sleep he got for a week or two was in Pullman cars, snatched while he was rushing around and trying to keep his new clients, the C. S. & W. folks, out of jail for contempt of court. He did it. Little and quiet and smooth-spoken, he could put the legal leather into the biggest bullies the other side could hire. Luckily, we were an interstate corporation, and when the local courts proved crooked, Ripley would find some way to jerk the case out of them and put it up to some Federal judge.

Around home in Port City things were just simmering. Between two days, as you might say, and right soon after Mr. Norcross got back, we acquired a new chum on the headquarters force. He was a young fellow named Tarbell, who looked and talked and acted like a cow-punch just in from riding line. He was carried on Mr. Van Brit's payroll as an "extra" or "relief" telegraph operator; though we never heard of his being sent out to relieve anybody.

I sized this new young man up, right away, for a "special" of some sort, and the proof that I was right came one afternoon when Ripley dropped in and fell into a chair to fan himself with his straw hat like a man who had just put down a load that he had been carrying about a mile and a half farther than he had bargained to.

"Thank the Lord, the last of those injunction suits is off the docket," he said, drawing a long breath and wagging his neat little head at the boss. "I'll say one thing for the Hatch people, Norcross; they're stubborn fighters."

"We'll beat 'em," predicted the boss. "They've got to let go. How about our C. S. & W. friends? Are they still game?"

"Fine!" asserted the lawyer. "The stock is over-subscribed everywhere, now, and C. S. & W. is a going concern. The building boom is on. I venture to say there are over two thousand mechanics at work at the different centers, rushing up the buildings for the new plants, at this moment. You ought to have a monument, Norcross. It's the most original scheme for breaking a monopoly that was ever devised."

The boss was looking out of the window sort of absently, chewing on his cigar, which had gone out.

"Ripley, I wonder what you'd say if I should tell you that the idea is not mine?" he said, after a little pause.

"Not yours?"

"No; it, or at least the germ of it, was given to me by a woman; a woman who knows no more about business details than you do about driving white elephants."

"I'd like to be made acquainted with the lady," said Ripley, with a tired little smile. "Such gems are too valuable to be wasted on mere lumber yards and fruit packeries and grain elevators and the like."

"You'll meet her some day," laughed the boss, with a sort of happy blit in his voice that fairly made me sick—knowing what I did; and knowing that he didn't know it. Then he switched the subject abruptly: "About the other matter, Ripley: I know you've been pretty busy, but you've had Tarbell nearly a week. What have you found out?"

Ripley briefed the general situation as it stood on the night of the engine theft in a few terse sentences. Aside from the fight on Red Tower Consolidated, the new railroad policies were threatening to upset all the time-honored political traditions of the machine-governed state. An election was approaching, and the railroad vote and influence must be whipped into line. As the grafters viewed it, the threatened revolution was a one-man government, and if that man could be removed the danger would vanish.

The execution details had been turned over to Clananhan, the political boss of Port City.

The plot itself was simple. At a certain hour of a given night an anonymous letter was to be sent to Mr. Norcross, telling him that a gang of noted train robbers was stealing an engine from the Port City yard for the purpose of running down the line and wrecking the East Mail, which often carried a billion express cars. If the boss should fall for it—as he did when the time came—and go in person to stop the raid, he was to be overpowered and spirited away, a forged letter purporting to be a notice of his resignation was to be left for Mr. Van Brit, and a fake telegram, making the same announcement, was to be sent to President Dunton in New York. Nothing was left indefinite but the choosing of the night.

"I suppose Hatch was to give the word," said the boss, who had been listening soberly while the lawyer talked.

"That is the inference. Hatch probably gave the word after his talk with you, but the time was made even more propitious by the arrival of the two telegrams; the one from Mr. Chadwick, and the one from Mr. Dunton, both of which they doubtless intercepted by means of the tapped wires."

Mr. Norcross looked up quickly. "Ripley, did Dunton know what was going to be done to me?"

"Oh, I think not. It wasn't at all necessary that he should be taken in on it. He has been opposing your policies all along, and had just sent you a pretty savage rail-down. He didn't want you in the first place, and he has been anxious to get rid of you ever since. The plotters knew very well what he would do if he should get a wire which purported to be your resignation. He would appoint another man, quick, and all they would have to do would be to make sure that you were well off stage, and would stay off until the other man could take hold."

"It worked out like a charm," admitted the boss, with a very smile. "I haven't been talking much about the details, partly because I wanted to find out if this young fellow, Tarbell, was as good as the major's recommendation of him, and partly because I'm honestly ashamed, Ripley. Any man of my age and experience who would swallow bait, hook, and line as I did that night deserves to get all that is coming to him."

"You can tell me now, can't you?" queried the attorney.

"Oh, yes; you have it all—or practically all. I fell for the anonymous letter about the Mail hold-up, and while I don't 'rattle' very easily, ordinarily, that was one time when I lost my head, just for the moment. The obvious thing to do—if any attention whatever was to be paid to the anonymous warning—was to telephone the police and the round-house. I did neither because I thought it might be too slow."

"So you made a straight shoot for the scene of action?"

"I did; down the back streets and across the lower end of the plaza. As it appeared—or rather as it was made to appear—I was barely in time. There were men at the engine, and when I sprinted across the yard they were ready to move it out to the main line. I yelled at them and ran in. Three of them tackled me the moment I came within reach. I got one of the three on the point of the jaw, and they had to leave him behind; but there were enough more of them. Before I fairly realized what was happening, they had me trussed up like a Christmas turkey, and landed into the cab of the engine. From that on, it was all plain sailing."

"They Had Me Trussed Up Like a Christmas Turkey."

"Then they took you to the old lumber camp?"

"As fast as the engine could be made to turn her wheels. Arroyo has no night operator, and when we sneaked through the Santa yard and past the station, the operator there was asleep. I saw him, with his head in the crook of his arm, at the telegraph table in the bay window as we passed."

"We ran out to the Timber Mountain 'Y' and from that on up the old saw-mill line. The rail connections were all in place, and I knew from this that preparations had been made beforehand. They wouldn't tell me anything except that I was to be locked up for a few days."

"You knew what that meant?"

"Perfectly. My drop-out would be made to look as if I had jumped the job, and Dunton would appoint a new man. After that, I could come back, if I wanted to. Whatever I might do or try to do would cost no figure, and no explanation I could make would be believed. I had most obligingly dug my own official grave, and there could be no resurrection."

"What then?" pressed Ripley, keenly interested, as anybody could see.

"When they took the clothes-line from my arms there was another wriggle. It didn't do any good. They got the door shut on me and got it locked. After that, for four solid days, Ripley, I was made to realize how little it takes to land in jail. I had my pocket-knife, but I couldn't whistle my way out. The door pushers were spiked down, and I couldn't dig out. They had taken all my matches, and I couldn't burn the time. I tried the stick-rubbing, and all those things you read about; they're false; I couldn't get even the smell of smoke."

"The chimney?"

"There wasn't any. They had heated the place, when it was a commissary, with a stove, and the pipe hole through the ceiling had a piece of sheet iron nailed over it. And I couldn't get to the roof at all. They had me."

Ripley nodded and said, snappily: "Well, we've got them now—any time you give the word. Tarbell has a pinch on one of the Clananhan men and he will turn state's evidence. We can railroad every one of those fellows who carried you off."

"And the men higher up?" queried the boss.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Salisbury Woman Is Of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains. Oftimes 'tis the kidneys' fault. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Salisbury women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. E. P. Shockley, 507 Tilghman St., Salisbury, says: "I had backache so badly I was almost helpless. There was a constant dull ache through my back and sides. I had such a soreness across my kidneys that every move I made caused dreadful pains. I had headaches and nervous, dizzy spells. My feet and ankles swelled at times, too. I used Doan's Kidney Pills which I got at White & Leonard's Drug Store. They soon relieved the back-ache and headaches and the swelling left. I felt better in every way. I got it at all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv."

ALADDIN SECURITY OIL
STANDARD OIL COMPANY

A different heat for every burner, if need be

YOU don't have to "rush the fire" to bake—two burners of the New Perfection Oil Cook Stove will give you all the heat you need. And you boil a vegetable and make coffee on the other two burners if you wish. Plenty of heat, just where you want it and in the right amount—none wasted. You can regulate it.

The white-tipped flame of the New Perfection gives an intense heat and keeps the bottoms of your utensils clean—doesn't soot them up. Hence it lightens labor. And the chimney of the oil you use has a chance to burn up completely and produce its full share of heat. This is a big item of fuel saving for those who use the New Perfection exclusively.

Kitchens equipped with New Per-fections—over 3,000,000 of them—are invariably cooler and more comfortable to work in. It's a great relief to be rid of coal, ashes, dust and wood in the kitchen. And there are fewer corners to collect dirt.

The New Perfection is made in one, two, three, four and five-burner sizes—warming cabinet or not, as you prefer. Of course, you will want a New Perfection Oven, too.

Aladdin Security Oil gives uniform, satisfactory results. You should use it regularly. It is economical because it's pure—all heat.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most department, furniture and hardware stores.

DIGEST OF THE WORLD'S NEWS

Yale To Re-Open Commons.

New Haven.—The Yale University dining hall, known as commons, will be reopened next fall, it has been announced. It was closed several months ago because of lack of student patronage and failure to meet expenses.

Bandits Steal Safe With $16,000.

Granite City, Ill.—Five men held up the driver of an American Railway Express Company's wagon here and escaped with a safe reported to contain $16,000.

Dawes To Be Controller of Budget.

Washington.—Charles G. Dawes, Chicago banker, has been selected by President Harding for Controller of the Budget under the Budget Law recently enacted by Congress.

Big Plant To Close For Month.

York, Pa.—Operations at the American Chain plant, where 2000 men and women have been employed, will cease June 30 for one month because of lack of orders.

Italy Removes Ration Restrictions.

Rome.—All restrictions on the trade in prime necessities of life have been removed by a decree issued by the Ministry of Food. The rationing of rice, bread and other food products has been abolished.

Town Pump Again Working.

REEDSVILLE, Pa.—After being "dry" since the advent of no license in Mifflin county by decree of the courts a decade ago the town pump or fountain as it is known, went again into operation last week with appropriate ceremonies.

Pa. Has Pure Seed Law.

Harrisburg.—The new "pure seed" law passed by the Legislature this year became effective last week and firms dealing in seeds for farmers are getting ready for it by having their products analyzed to see that they comply with the act.

Take Open Pin From Baby's Stomach.

Arkansas City, Ark.—An open safety pin, swallowed several days ago by the 8-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Jacques, of Uncas, Okla., was removed from the baby's stomach by physicians. The pin was closed by the use of instruments and lifted out through the child's mouth.

Steal $3,000 While Police Parade.

St. Louis.—Three armed men entered the offices of the Merchant's Ice and Coal Company and escaped with nearly $3,000, after compelling employees to open a safe. At the time 1,100 policemen—two-thirds of the local force—were parading in another part of the city before delegates to the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs.

Beauvais Wants To Face Stillman.

Yonkers, N. Y.—Fred Beauvais' repeated demands that he be permitted to face his accuser, James A. Stillman, will be allowed at the next hearing, it was reported here. Charles H. Wallace, associate attorney with John P. Brennan, for Mrs. Stillman, left today for Montreal to confer with Beauvais and bring him south for the next hearing, it was said.

Takes Him Long Time To See N. Y.

Washington.—When Private Joseph Gerard Ellis, A. E. F., was mustered out he decided to "see New York first" a bit before going home to Texas. That was in April, 1919, and so far as his mother in Crockett, Tex., knows he's "still looking 'em over" in New York. She wrote Representative Briggs of Texas asking that the Government help locate Joseph, who ought to see even New York in two years.

Sacred Cow Gives Birth To Half-Breed

Ponca City, Okla.—The sacred or Brahma cows on the 101 Ranch here, because of the death of the male head of the herd, have been compelled to go beyond their sacredness in order to prolong their breed in this section of America, at least, and as a result they are being crossed with the Jersey. The livestock stork visited the sacred herd, the last month and left a pretty interesting little animal, a half-breed Jersey-Brahma, that is one of the particular shows at the ranch at the present time.

Took 10 Dogs To Kill Cat.

Minneapolis.—The famous beer-drinking cat named Cloves, known along saloon row of past note, and to hundreds of theatrical personages throughout the country, is dead. Cloves ventured into an alley near a theatre where ten greyhounds comprised a part of the show. She fought them all, but only had nine lives to stack against the ten dogs.

Public Buys Home For Him.

London.—Bemersyde, near Melrose, Scotland, the ancestral home of the earl of Bemsyde, formerly Field Marshal Haig, and from which he takes his title, has been purchased by public subscription and formally handed over to him. The earl in his letter of thanks, said: "An old dream of mine, rather than a hope, has been realized in this gift."

Remembering Dream, His Life Saved.

Berkeley.—Only the thin fabric of a dream saved Larry Parks from death. Parks dreamed that a mass of lumber fell on him and crushed him to death. The next morning he came abreast of a high board fence behind which had been piled several tons of sand. With the dream in his mind, Parks quickened his steps. Before he had cleared the end of the fence there came a sudden cracking of timbers. Parks jumped. The next instant the fence collapsed onto the sidewalk behind him.

U. S. Citizens Exempted By Greece.

Washington.—Naturalized American citizens in Greece will have an opportunity to establish their citizenship before conscription in the Greek army, the Legation at Athens today advised the State Department. The ruling followed energetic protests to the Greek officials against the manner in which Greeks, who had become American citizens, were being drafted for military service on their return to Greece.

Negroes Run For Council In Florida.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Six negroes were candidates for the city council in last week's municipal election here, the first time a member of that race has sought public office in Jacksonville in many years. A municipal election here usually is regarded only as a ratification of the white Democratic primary, and a very light vote is cast. Last week, however, automobiles by the score were busy transporting voters in an effort by white candidates to offset the vote for the negro office seekers. Two hundred special deputies were on duty.

200-lb. Wife Thrashes Hubby.

Baltimore, Md.—Arrested on a charge of beating her husband on the sidewalk in front of the Emerson Hotel, Mrs. Marie Mason, 25, weighing about 200 pounds, was fined $1 and costs by Magistrate Johansen in central police court. Towering over her 125-pound husband, she was heard to say: "You should be ashamed of yourself to stand there and admit that I gave you a beating." The man, Lawrence W. Mason, made no reply, only appealing to the magistrate to make her keep away from him.

Believed Slain; Tries to Kill Wife.

Pontiac.—Believed to have been shot and killed recently by officers at Monroe, Leo Williams returned to Pontiac, broke into his wife's home where she lay ill in bed, and slashed her with a knife. He fled, but was captured later in a wood. His wife will recover. Williams told his captors that he was only wounded in the fight with Monroe officers in which he was reported to have been slain. He was wanted on a complaint made by his wife.

Lemonade Popular Since "Dry" Era.

New York.—Prohibition has caused a huge increase in lemonade drinkers and lemon pie eaters. So declared fruit dealers last week as they scrambled to buy 35,000 cases of lemons auctioned at Pier 7, Brooklyn. The dealers declared that prohibition, coupled with high freight rates has caused citrus fruits to come into their own again. Lemonade is used for want of something stronger. Lemon pies are made in quantities because sugar is cheap. Nearly 17,500,000 lemons were auctioned in one day.

Wakes To Find Wildcat In Bed.

San Francisco, Cal.—Awakened by a movement in the bed he was sleeping in at the hunting lodge near Thornhill, Cal., George Dugan, Berkeley painter, felt behind him. "Is that you, Mary?" he called, forgetting for the instant that he was not at home. He was answered by a low growl in place of a wifely salutation. Dugan turned over and struck a match. To his surprise, he came face to face with a bob cat that had taken advantage of the warm bed to make itself comfortable. Dugan jumped one way. The bob cat jumped the other. Dugan spent the rest of the night sitting up with a shotgun over his lap, but the cat did not return.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—Advertisement.

Are You Neglecting an Essential in Life?

There are three essentials in life. They are food, clothing and shelter. The one of these which you are most apt to neglect is shelter. Consider this matter fairly. Are you assured of shelter? What guarantee have you for a home when your present lease expires? Are you sure that you will be able to satisfy your requirements?

This is a time for wise expenditures. The money which you pay out for rentals will never guarantee you a home. The same amount of money expended in the purchase or erection of a home would permit you to own your own home within a very few years. Nothing will add more to your contentment than the knowledge that you have a home that is your very own.

"There's No Place Like Home" is as true today as it has ever been. We will help you accomplish this end. We furnish everything needed for building and we give you courteous service which added to the quality of our products is sure to make a satisfied customer.

THE MAN-ABOUT-TOWN.
Scraps He Picks Up Here, There And Everywhere.

Pontiac, Mich., July 5.—A stranger coming into this section of Michigan does not reside here long before he hears rehearsed many stories of the prowess of the Indians and the part they played in the early settlement of this State.

Indian legends abound in great numbers and old forts and mounds are to be seen in any section one travels, all furnishing evidence in great abundance that a powerful tribe of Indians once inhabited this part of the State.

Pontiac, now the county seat of Oakland county, was named for Pontiac, a powerful Indian chief, who drew around him a powerful tribe which took a leading part in the "Conspiracy of Pontiac" in 1763-64. This great chief was born between 1712 and 1720 on the Maumee River. His father was a great chief of the Ottawa tribe.

The hundreds of high hills surrounding the many beautiful lakes in Oakland county furnish many Indian implements used by the tribes which inhabited the country. I found several specimens of hatchets, arrows and stone cooking utensils used by the Ottawa tribe.

... Last Sunday I enjoyed an automobile trip to Ann Arbor, one of the prettiest cities of Michigan. The trip carried me through a beautiful rolling country, around the winding shores of magnificent lakes, and through vast estates owned by millionaires of Detroit, Flint and other cities where the automobile industry has, during the past few years, made millionaires by the hundreds. Next Sunday I will cover some other section of the State. It is a pleasure to drive over the fine boulevards and suburban roads of this State, where the great automobile industries have no doubt stimulated the building of hundreds of miles of excellent roads.

The records of the State of Michigan show that there are more than 400,000 pleasure cars licensed this year, to say nothing of the thousands of trucks, delivery wagons, etc. This means that on Sundays especially hundreds of thousands of gallons of gasoline are burned by pleasure parties who drive in every direction.

I thought I had seen a great many automobiles on the Ocean City road on a beautiful Sunday afternoon, but I saw more cars passing on the boulevard from Pontiac to Detroit (a distance of 24 miles) last Sunday than I will pass over the Ocean City road this entire season. This is truly a pretty country and I am enjoying my visit immensely.

I cannot, however, keep my thoughts from reverting back to the old Eastern Shore—God's country—which, in many respects, does not suffer by comparison with this country which is my temporary abiding place.

son, general manager of the B. C. & A. Ry. Company. The name was well received and from that time on the town began to grow and perhaps no man did more to build up the town, make it a good place to live in and a safe place to work. Houses were erected, a crate and basket factory put up and then it became a busy place. Its growth was evident from the start. New stores were opened and it soon became apparent that a church was needed in the new town. As a result of the combined efforts of the people about twenty-one years ago a new Methodist Episcopal Church was built, and today it is a strong growing church, the strength of the moral forces of the town and the standard of social life.

Surrounded By Fine Farms.

From this small beginning this railroad town has grown until there are more than three hundred people living in this busy, bustling town, two berry crate and basket factories, giving employment to a large number of people, a four room school building teaching up to and including the eighth grade. The town is in the center of a thrifty farming community that contributes to its prosperity, and from which territory come the products of farm, field and orchard to be shipped and from which a vast sum of money is returned annually.

The busy hands of toil are ever sending something to the town to aid in its expansion and growth, and receive in return the best the town has to give. Honest dealing, industrious habits, good morals, strong stalwart men, handsome, true and devoted women, have made the town one of real worth and given it a place in the business and industrial world that is the pride and admiration of every man, woman and child living in the place.

Its homes are well kept, the social life is pure and the business integrity of the town strong. A feeling of unity prevails and every body is a friend to every body else. Mr. Rayne represents a splendid town and his family relatives include a large number of Democrats. Hence he moves out into the field of politics with a strong force behind him.

Willards is a new town on the railroad between Salisbury and Ocean City, but it has grown quite rapidly and is still a very progressive town. Twenty-seven years ago Noah T. Rayne, candidate for the House of Delegates, slept in the store building moved to the place by the late E. G. Davis. This was the first house there except the railroad station. Mr. Davis moved his store from what was then called New Hope, about one-half a mile distant.

When the house was put in place, with many of the goods yet on the shelves, windows cut and the shades of night falling so fast that it was impossible to secure the goods, Mr. Rayne agreed to remain in the store alone all night and keep vigil in that lonely spot. Without fear of danger, Mr. Rayne guarded the new town until the break of day, when Mr. Davis and his workmen arrived to fit up the store for business at the railroad station.

The next move was to open the postoffice here instead of New Hope and this move turned the current toward what was soon called Willards. Mr. Rayne grew up with the town and has been one of its most substantial citizens. Today he is one of the leading merchants of that place and a candidate for the House of Delegates, subject to the Democratic primary. He has canvassed much of the county and become somewhat acquainted with the people, not only bringing himself before the people and giving them an idea of what he stands for, but the town in which he lives has been brought into the lime light and the people now know more about Willards than they did before Mr. Rayne began his canvass.

Is Progressive Town.

He is an able representative of the place that he has helped to make and in which he has spent the best years of his life and grown strong and popular in the town. But this is not to boom his candidacy; the object of the article being solely to give the readers of The News an idea of Willards, as it has done other county towns. It is the policy of The News to be a representative of all the county, all the towns and all the people. Willards is an important place in Wicomico county and it is the object of our reporter to give an honest view of the town.

One of the first duties of the new residents of the place was to give it a name and several offered suggestions. It was finally agreed to call it Willards in honor of Capt. Willard Thompson.

Runaway Auto Glides Into Church.

Chicago.—Ladies of the First Congregational Church of Evanston started to hold a meeting in the basement of the church one afternoon last week but it didn't last long.

Just as one member arose with the announcement, "Let us pray," a driver, apparently repenting its crime, dashed through the basement door and into the midst of the assemblage with the driver frantically trying to halt it. Fortunately, the machine struck a concrete post and was halted, before any one was injured. The meeting was abandoned.

FORD The Universal Car ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the price of all types of Ford Cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices of a Ford car, are now as follows:

TOURING CAR	$415.00
RUNABOUT	$370.00
COUPE	$695.00
SEDAN	$760.00
CHASSIS	$345.00
TRUCK-CHASSIS	$495.00
TRACTOR	$625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the last three months, is making maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May, 1921, was greater by 55,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920. In fact, the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone, the highest month in the history of our company, and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 4,000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Ford tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce on account of the recent big price reduction, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor.

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Ford tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

ENTHUSIASM IN SUNDAY SCHOOL IS REAL SECRET OF LONG LIFE

By Robert D. Towne.
(From Phila. North American)

If you want to live long, go in for Sunday School work. If you want to withstand "the heartache and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to" and remain in the thick of the fight into the eighties and nineties; and if you want to be still buoyant, resilient and aglow with youthful enthusiasms a half-century after your competitors in the race have quit or gone out of the world, you want to be a life-long Sunday School worker.

So much at least may be argued from the remarkable fact that the oldest active men and women in Philadelphia today have made the Sunday School either their life work or their chief side line.

There is Miss Anna Frailey, of the Fletcher Memorial, who has been teaching forty-eight years. There is Adam Pfomm, who has been teaching fifty-six years. But these are mere youngsters. Glance at this extraordinary roster:

Russell H. Conwell, about sixty years.

John Wanamaker, about sixty-five years.

Edwin Wilbur Rice, about seventy years.

Christopher Rubey Blackall, more than eighty years.

Are Active Leaders.

All of these men are known all around the world. All of them have been national and international leaders in Sunday School work. All of them are still active. This article will deal with the oldest in the list.

Doctor Blackall has been in Sunday School work a little more than eighty years. He has devoted all his time to it for more than sixty years. And now, in his ninety-first year, he is engaged on three books which he plans to publish soon, and spends his day on a regular schedule of employment like any other active business or professional man in the prime of life.

In all those sixty years he has been in the forefront of Sunday School activities of the Baptist publications, officially connected with all the leading Sunday School boards and one of the chief pioneering geniuses of Sunday School development throughout the world.

Doctor Blackall has written more than 100 Sunday School hymns. He has written sixty stories for young people. He has composed cantatas. He has supplied "lesson helps," manuals and teachers' aids. He has written histories, denominational, biblical and patriotic. And now he is whipping into final shape three bulky manuscripts, every word written by his own hand, and all nearly ready for the printer.

One of these he has been working on for thirty years, and it is a strikingly modern and virile venture in biblical interpretation. It is an attempt to retell the salient stories of the old covenant. (Doctor Blackall does not like the word testament, he says the Bible is a promise and not a will) for young people. Not for children. He resents much of the pietistic moralizing stories which pretend to teach the Bible to children and only prejudice their minds against it in later years. The story of Jonah and the whale, of Samson pulling down a temple, of Job complaining of the boils. Doctor Blackall thinks all these stories have been spoiled by making them over into mere children's tales of magic.

In this book which he has been slowly writing through thirty years, Doctor Blackall will try to tell the Bible stories as the Bible tells them.

And, too, the doctor is just finishing a book of fiction, a rare enough story, the "Beautiful Magdalene." He says the world and the church have fixed the stigma of disgrace on the Magdalene by totally misreading her life and character. He would show that she was one of the great, pure women of the Bible.

As a companion volume to the Magdalene story, Doctor Blackall has prepared an historical work of equal length comprising the source material accumulated during his researches in the Magdalene history.

Was With Grant's Army.

And then there is a book of the civil war. Doctor Blackall was a surgeon with Grant's army at Memphis and Vicksburg. He went through that terrible of '62-'64. He conveyed 100 wagons out of Jackson in July '63, back to Vicksburg and buried sixteen of his "boys" on the way in nameless graves. He had taken them out of the Confederate Hospital.

During the awful conflict he wrote regularly to his family at home and now he has gathered those letters together for this notable civil war book.

It is interesting to know the prevailing bent of the Sunday School mind. In Doctor Blackall's case the record is conclusive, and the bearing of the facts on the relationship of the Sunday School and citizenship has revealing significance for our times.

How short it makes the century seem to read in old newspapers of 1847 that Charles R. Blackall, of At-

ARMOUR DAUGHTER BLUSHING BRIDE

The poor little rich girl, Lolita Armour, only daughter of the famous Chicago packer, J. Ogden Armour, whom they said years ago would never walk, is today a beautiful, healthy, blushing June bride. She was married this week to John J. Mitchell, Jr., of Chicago, a childhood playmate. Born a cripple, she was healed a few years ago when her father brought the most famous European specialist from Vienna to Chicago. When the operation proved successful, the surgeon was given a fee of $100,000.

bany, delivered an address on temperance in Washington Hall.

Seventy-four years ago, and the speaker is still with us and writing books.

But read a little further into that temperance speech of 1847. "Moral suasion is now the chief resource of the Washingtonian temperance movement," the boy orator is saying, "but moral suasion is not enough. We must have the legal prohibition of the liquor traffic."

Predicted Suffrage in 1849.

Here is another story of record. Young Blackall, as a prominent temperance orator, officer of a Rechabite lodge and stirring reformer, is giving the graduating address at a young ladies' seminary. The year is 1849. After the address the president of the seminary said: "Blackall, you made a bad break in that speech to the young ladies. You told them they must begin to prepare themselves for the suffrage, that the time will come when every American woman will vote, because it is her right. You know the women will never vote."

Seventy-two years ago! That was the reforming spirit that soon made young Blackall right worthy grand recorder of the Rechabites, with headquarters in New York. That spirit made him a patriot and a volunteer in 1862-64. And that same spirit later made him the superintendent for eight years of a Sunday School in Chicago, which he built up to a membership of 2000—a great Sunday School for the Chicago of before the fire.

And that was the spirit which moved him to abandon his profession of surgery and take up the national leadership in Sunday School work upon the urgent prompting of such leaders in popular education and evangelism as Bishop Vincent, R. F. Jacobs, D. L. Moody, Ira D. Sankey and Edward Eggleston.

Doctor Blackall will be 91 years old September 18. He is in vigorous health, with the sight and hearing of a man of 50. He goes to his office at Seventeenth and Chestnut streets nearly every day, and in his workroom at home he keeps at work regularly with almost the happy eagerness of youth. With an extraordinary record of work done, this hale and valiant old soldier of the cross is entitled to rank as exhibit A in testimony and proof that Sunday School work is good for body and mind, and that the Sunday School is part and parcel of the substance of our good old patriotic Americanism.

MOTOR CAR REPLACES LOCOMOTIVE AND COACH

W. H. Wright, Superintendent of the Savannah Division of the Central Railroad of Georgia, inspects the property on his division with more comfort, thoroughness and speed, and at a lower cost than most divisional superintendents in America. In former days he covered his division with a special train consisting of a locomotive and coach, which required the services of an engineer, fireman and conductor.

To attain greater flexibility in his regular inspections he had a Dodge Brothers Motor Car equipped with standard gauge steel flanged wheels. This unique car is driven by Mr. Wright himself and in addition to the occupants it carries the varied accessories necessary to the superintendent in his work. At times the car is dispatched down the road only a few minutes ahead of important passenger trains, so confident are the officials of the motor's power and reliability.

WHAT HARVEY SAID IN LONDON AND WHAT HUGHES SAID AT BROWN

On May 19 Ambassador Harvey speaking to a London audience said:

"Prevalent until recently was the impression that we went to war to rescue humanity from all kinds of menacing perils. Not a few remain convinced that we sent our young soldiers across to save this Kingdom, France and Italy. That is not the fact. We sent them solely to save the United States of America and most reluctantly and laggardly at that. We were not too proud to fight, whatever that may mean. We were afraid not to fight."

Recently Secretary of State Hughes, speaking at Brown University, said:

"Our men did not go forth to fight for this Nation as one of cunning purpose or to protect a land where avarice might find its reward. They offered their lives * * * because we loved the institutions of liberty and intended to maintain them * * * because we found our fate linked with that of the free peoples who were struggling for the preservation of the essentials of freedom. * * * As from one end of the country to the other rang appeals in the name of civilization itself, the whole Nation responded. You cannot obtain such a unity of effort in this country * * * unless that effort is inspired by lofty ideals. It was America, the exemplar of free institutions, aiding humanity in their preservation that called forth the supreme endeavor. This sentiment is still with us."

DUCK MAKES RECORD AS AN EGG PRODUCER

Mr. Raymond Denston, who resides on the farm of his father-in-law, Mr. P. T. East, Jr., in Somerset county, has a puddle duck that has made a great record this season as an egg producer. She began laying about the middle of February and never quit the "stunt" until she had laid 110 eggs. Not only did she lay each and every day but as many as three times three eggs in two days were marked up to her credit. She is evidently a very valuable bird, and we are sure would take the prize at any duck show in this or any other section. So far as we have been able to ascertain she certainly has the belt for the peninsula, and ducks of her kind would find a ready sale in the markets of the Shore.—Worcester Democrat.

Messrs. George White, O. L. Morris, Charles Wilkins, Charles Parker, S. W. Haysinger and George Eichner were in the party that visited the Seabrook Farm and other irrigation properties in New Jersey on Tuesday.

These Hot, Sweltering Days

Would hardly be endurable were it not for PURE ICE, whether at home or at the office. One feels a desire every few minutes to run for the cooler or seek something cool and refreshing that will relieve that hot, tired feeling.

What a disappointment it would be to run to the Cooler and find no ice, what a desperate feeling it would be in weather like this. PURE ICE, if always kept on hand will give you a cooling drink or refreshment that will invariably relieve one's suffering from the heat and add to the pleasures of the day.

GOLDEN TIDAL WAVE STILL SWEEPING IN

Stock of Gold in United States Has Gained By More Than $300,000,000 Since January 1.

(Barron's Weekly).

The golden tidal wave continues to sweep into the United States, some two millions a day so far this year, and also last month. For the first 10 days of June gold imports were $20,570,388 and exports only $74,122, a net gain of $20,500,000. The gold stock of the United States was reported at $3,175,037,198 on June 1, 1921, the highest figure on record.

Some view these heavy imports of gold with alarm, feeling that they may result in starting a new period of inflation and may arrest the process of deflation and readjustment which has been going on. Prices have reacted more in the United States than in the rest of the world. The shipments of gold are natural, however, as they represent in a small measure the effort of the rest of the world to pay debts to us. It is not in receipt of gold itself that the danger lies, but in the use made of it. Practically all of the gold which has arrived in the United States this year has found its way into the vaults of the Federal Reserve Banks, but there has been no interruption in the liquidation of loans at the reserve banks, and the reserve ratio has been steadily rising.

Shipments of gold have been pouring into the United States in a flood. In the month of May the stock increased $85,257,416, or nearly $3,000,000 a day. Since the first of the year the stock has gained $390,202,771.

Of the world's gold monetary stock, estimated at roughly $8,500,000,000, the United States now holds about 37%, and its holdings are on the increase. Per capita gold holdings of the United States was $29.41 on June 1. Per capita gold holdings of the world, estimating population at 1,700,000,000, is $5.

Increase in gold holdings of the United States is summarized in the following table, which shows figures from 1873, when the basis for estimating gold in the United States was established:

	Population	Gold Stock
June 30, 1873.....	41,677,000	$ 135,000,000
June 30, 1879.....	48,866,000	245,741,837
June 30, 1900.....	76,891,000	1,034,439,264
May 1, 1917.....	103,869,000	3,121,887,443
May 1, 1920.....	106,987,000	2,646,615,759
June 1, 1921.....	107,947,000	3,175,037,198

In 1879, when the government resumed specie payments, our gold holdings were but $5.02 per capita. The billion mark was first crossed in 1900. From that time until the war the gain in gold was consistent but gradual.

Next Sugar Crop May Be Small One

Believed That Present Low Prices of Commodity May Provide Their Own Corrective.

(From "Barron's.")

The best-posted sugar people believe the time is rapidly approaching—if it is not now at hand—when the possible effect of present low prices on the size of the next sugar crops must be taken into account. At the present level few, if any, sugar producing countries in the world can profitably continue to make sugar. Beet cultivation in this country is now well advanced, and rather than lose the initial outlay involved in the planting of the fields, producers may harvest these crops despite the fact that the price to be expected for the product will in many cases be insufficient to cover cost of production.

Field work during the dead season in Cuba necessarily involves a large outlay of money, and without financial assistance this cannot be accomplished. It has been the custom in the past for both the Estates and Cuban banks to make generous advances to the colonos for this purpose, but such assistance on anything approaching the scale of past years will not be forthcoming.

With the decreased output that may be expected to result, it would appear that the sugar to be carried over into next year, large as it may be from present indications, would appear to be none too great for the sugar needs of the world.

SEA ISLAND COTTON IS HIGHLY VALUABLE

Success of the Department of Agriculture in establishing sea island cotton there, may make the Virgin Islands a much maligned investment in Alaska. Sea Island is the most valuable cotton in the world. Its silky fiber, sometimes more than two inches long, surpasses all others in length, strength and fineness. Manufacturers of fine goods, threads and automobile tires consume it, but the supply is small and thought to have been doomed. Over 117,000 bales were produced in the South in 1916 before the boll weevil invaded its territory. But they cut the crop last year to 17,266 bales. Apparently, the Virgin Islands offer it a new home, that is weevil proof.

COMPANY HAS MANY COMMON STOCKHOLDERS

General Motors Common Stock Is Owned By Multitude of Small Shareholders.

The extent to which the small investor is represented in the General Motors Corporation is indicated in the fact that as of April 15, last, more than 34% of the individuals holding common stock, after elimination of foreign, institutional and corporation holdings, were holders of from one to ten shares. More than 22% of the individual holders had between 21 and 50 shares, nearly 15% held between 51 and 100 shares, and 13% held between 101 and 500 shares. In fact, 88% of the individuals holding General Motors common stock other than that in the hands of foreigners, institutions and corporations, were holders of between 1 and 100 shares.

On April 15, the date of record for stockholders who received May dividends, there were 37,787 individual common stockholders, compared with 16,681 on October 5, 1920. The increase over those six months is significant and the tendency towards the absorption of the stock in small amounts continues.

There are 121 individuals who own between 5,000 and 10,000 shares of General Motors common and they represent only 32% of the individual holders. Slightly more than 1 1/2% or 600 of the individual common stockholders own between 1,000 and 5,000 shares and the holders of between 50 and 1,000 shares are in about the same ratio.

It is worthy of comment that one out of every five General Motors common stockholders is a woman. On April 15, 1921, there were 8,110 women common shareholders compared with 3,459 on October 5, 1920, an increase of 4,651. Women owned 1,467,368 shares of common April 15, an average holding of 180 shares each, compared with 1,201,334 or an average of 347 shares October 5, 1920; an increase of 266,034 shares in the aggregate but a decrease of 167 shares in the average.

Germany Is Buying Heavily From U. S.

Teutons Are Third Largest Buyers of American Goods—Purchases More Than $300,000,000.

From a $55 total two years ago to third position among our European customers, with purchases aggregating more than $300,000,000, Germany has hit her trade stride much more rapidly than generally appreciated. This big gain occurred in 10 months period to May 1, 1921, when exports from the United States direct to Germany amounted to $230,498,601.

Were the bulk of $225,660,782 shipments to Holland included, and they are generally regarded as being chiefly for German consumption, the importance of Middle European buying in this country would run ahead of that of France, and be second only to the billion-dollar total credited to the United Kingdom.

It was not entirely a one-sided trade between the United States and its still nominal enemy, Germany, as there was imported through Atlantic ports $77,341,825 of German merchandise in ten months, whereas, in the same period of last year the total from that source was but $41,606,052, while two years ago, witnessing the resumption of trade relations, there was only $587,655 of goods bearing the "made in Germany" mark.

THE FARMERS' FORUM

A column devoted to the interests of the Farmers who read The News and to the interests of their Families.
Communications Will be Welcomed.

FARMER SHOULD KNOW COST OF EACH CROP

Owing to Conditions Obtaining, It Is Important That Accurate Cost Records Be Kept By Growers.

It is unnecessary to elaborate on the business conditions that have followed so inevitably and relentlessly the high prices and eager demands of the world war period. Prices have dropped, the wheels of industry have been slowed down or stopped, labor is out of employment or being retained at reduced wages, and the average consumer is finding himself with less money at his disposal.

Farmers, as a class, were among the first to experience the serious effects of the depression and some time ago it became imperative for them, as it later became imperative for all business, to retrench wherever possible.

Business in general—and agriculture is included—is confronted by what is known as the buyers' market. Instead of the demand being greater than the supply as was true during the war and for a short period afterward, the supply of most products is now greater than the demand. The result is that the market is now in the buyer's favor and he can purchase practically at his own price, whereas, during the period of inflation, the seller was able to demand pretty much what he wanted.

This speedy reversal from one extreme to another has naturally been responsible for the re-adjustment period, about which so much has been written and through which the country is now passing. The one thing about it of primary concern to the farmer is his ability to re-adjust his own business to the new level of economic conditions.

The very biggest help he could have in this connection would be an accurate and reliable record of expenses and receipts. No business man, worthy of the name, attempts to conduct his business without some form of bookkeeping and farmers are coming more and more to realize the importance of similar methods in operating a farm. A farmer should not be satisfied to estimate his profit or loss at the end of the year any more than the merchant or manufacturer. He should know the exact profit he is making and how he is making it, or if the reverse situation is true, he should inform himself of his exact loss and discover what conditions brought it about.

A farmer is naturally in very close touch with his business—closer, perhaps, than either the average merchant or manufacturer. Nevertheless, a record of farm operation for the year is the only reliable information on which to base an analysis of the year's results. If he is to re-adjust his farm operations in a businesslike way, he must know exact costs and compare them with exact receipts. If he is to supplant one crop, which he finds is not bringing him adequate returns, with another, he ought to know definitely how much the new crop will cost him to grow.

So long as business is running well and the price range is wide enough to guarantee a satisfactory profit, production costs do not seem so important. Now, however, there should be every inducement for the farmer to know the exact cost of growing each crop and to study the figures with a view to the most economical operation.

It will, of necessity, be an individual proposition. No one else can do it for him because of the varying conditions on different farms. Nor can someone else lay down a general principle that will apply to all agricultural conditions at the present time. The best that the farmer can do will be to pattern after the merchant who has a separate cash register for each line of goods and thus keeps track of daily sales and compares results with original costs and necessary overhead expenses. The farmer will not need a cash register. But he can accomplish the same end by keeping a separate account for each crop and at the end of the year checking up his actual profit or loss.

A system of farm accounting need not be completed or even difficult to keep. The University of Maryland Extension Service at College Park will be glad to supply on request a blank farm account book which will adequately serve the purpose on the average farm or can be made the basis of a more comprehensive farm accounting system is desired.

Good Roads Help Reduce Expenses

Farmers By Hauling Products Over Improved Highways Able To Cut Hauling Overhead One-Half.

The farmer interested in hauling his produce to market in the most economical fashion can not afford to overlook the benefits derived from good roads. Investigation before and after the improvement of certain highways shows that the cost per ton mile was practically cut in half by reason of the betterment of the road. In other words, good roads mean a big reduction in that part of overhead which covers hauling and hauling of some sort is being done practically every year round.

The cheaper the hog the dearer the pork. Recently the wholesalers advanced sharply the price of some pork products in the face of a decided drop in the price of live hogs. This is how the "big five" packers' beautiful "supply and demand" theory has worked out in numerous instances. To advertise goods at the wrong time is to throw away money. To offer them for sale at the most favorable time and at proper prices means getting the largest returns for labor and investment.

One of the most practical steps the shipper can take to better his condition is to familiarize himself with business practices and to secure a better knowledge of the way his produce is handled on the market.

CURED SWEET POTATOES BRING BETTER PRICES

Give Good Satisfaction And Are Sold At A Price Higher Than Paid When First Dug.

Curing of sweet potatoes to prevent spoilage is giving good results in Hempstead County, Ark., under the instruction of the county agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State Agricultural College, who reports a price of $1.50 per bushel on the first car of sweet potatoes shipped from the new curing plant of the Farmers' Potato Curing Co., which was built last fall. At digging time the farmers could have sold these potatoes on the local market for 50 or 60 cents per bushel. In loading the car it was found that the potatoes were keeping in good shape. Less than 2 per cent of them were found to be damaged. In Jefferson County, Ga., the county agent says 500 bushels of sweet potatoes were shipped from the curing house at $1.37 1/2 per crate, f. o. b. Louisville, and less than 1 per cent were damaged. The Lenoir County, N. C., agent reports visits to two potato storage houses. One contained 800 bushels and the other was a 500 bushel house. Both storage men said they had less than 1 per cent of bad potatoes. In Louisiana, St. Landry Parish, 1,100 barrels of kiln-dried potatoes sold at $4.50 per barrel. Another man in the same district was unable to sell his potatoes, which were not kiln dried, for $3. The first man remarked after he had made the sale, "No more cotton for me." In Allegheny County, S. C., the county agent stated that cured potatoes were furnished to a large hotel all through the fall and gave entire satisfaction.

FATTENING DUCKS FOR MARKET

Ducklings to be marketed should be fattened for two weeks before killing on a ration made of three parts by weight, or corn meal, two parts of middlings, one part of bran, one-half part of beef scrap, with 2 per cent grit and 10 per cent green feed. Add to this mash, or a mash of three parts corn meal, one part low grade wheat flour, one part bran, 1/2 part beef scrap with the green feed and grit, and 3 per cent oyster shell added. Feed this mash three times daily, giving all the ducklings will clean up in half hour. The green feed is sometimes left out of the ration during the last seven days of fattening, as it is not so palatable as the meat and may produce a slightly flabby rather than firm flesh; however, it is easier to keep the ducklings in good feeding condition on a mash containing green feed.

Teaching Agriculture In Elementary Schools

Maryland Is Among States That Have Adopted Courses Prepared By Department Agriculture.

Agricultural courses for elementary schools, prepared by the United States Dept. of Agriculture, have been adopted in Wisconsin, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia and Arkansas. These courses are suitable for use not only for elementary schools but for consolidated rural school and secondary schools. They have been prepared at the request of the State authorities, and the department specialists have cooperated with the State boards of education and the State agricultural colleges in their preparation.

In addition to preparing complete courses in agriculture, the Federal specialists in agricultural education have series of lessons on different phases of agriculture, which are being used extensively in a number of States. Topics relating to growing crops, selecting and growing corn, potatoes, poultry, etc., have been worked out, the department publications on the subjects being used as a basis for the information in these studies.

Leaflets on how teachers may use certain farmers' bulletins have been prepared. These leaflets have been widely distributed, and they have been in great demand among teachers of agriculture.

TARIFF ON FERTILIZERS

The new tariff bill just introduced in Congress provides for the following duty on Fertilizer materials:

$12.00 per ton on Sulphate of Ammonia
25.00 per ton on Muriate of Potash
22.00 per ton on Sulphate of Potash
7.50 per ton on Kainit

and other grades of Potash in the same proportion. These rates on Potash are for two years, and provisions are made for reduction in the rate during the third, fourth and fifth years, with Potash again on the free list after five years.

If the above tariff rates go into effect it will make a 5% Potash Fertilizer cost about $3.00 per ton more than it would with no tariff on Potash.

With the present need of Potash in our depleted soils, and the existing low prices of farm produce the above proposed tariff would be a hardship on the farmers of this section. All who do not wish to pay this duty should write at once to Hon. T. A. Gilchrist, House of Representatives, and Hon. O. E. Weller, Senate, Washington, D. C., and ask them to vote and work against any tariff being placed on Fertilizer Materials.

C. H. CORDREY NEW PRINCIPAL WICOMICO HIGH

Board Education Appoints Delmar Teacher To Fill Vacancy At W. H. S.

PROF. R. LEE CLARKE'S RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

His Successor Is Graduate Of Local High School And Also Alumnus Of St. John's College—Board Selects Mr. O. Perry Simmons As Principal Of Sharptown High.

At a meeting of the Board of Education for Wicomico county held Monday afternoon, the resignation of Prof. R. Lee Clarke as principal of Wicomico High School was tendered and accepted by the board. Prof. Clarke will now accept the principalship of the Allegany County High School, Cumberland, and will report there for duty in the Fall. He succeeds Prof. E. Clarke Fontaine, who resigned in order to accept the position of State Supervisor of Schools for the Eastern Shore.

The question of a successor to Prof. Clarke was brought before the board at Monday's meeting, and Mr. Clarence M. Cordrey, who has been principal of the Delmar High School for the past three years, was selected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Cordrey, it is said, will accept the new position and will be on the job at Wicomico High at the beginning of the school year.

Mr. Cordrey is a native of Wicomico county and also is a graduate of the high school of which he now will be the principal. He was born near Spring Hill and after graduating from the Salisbury high school attended St. John's College, from which institution he was graduated in 1908. He has taught for ten years, during eight of which he has acted in the capacity of a high school principal.

Has Had Wide Experience.

In addition to his work as a teacher, Mr. Cordrey has spent three years at the sessions of the University of Virginia Summer School, and also, including the present term, has spent two years at the Johns Hopkins University Summer School. He now is in attendance at the latter school.

Superintendent of Schools James H. Bennett stated yesterday that Mr. Cordrey is a good all-round man, and one well qualified both by training and experience to hold down the position at Wicomico High School. When asked what subjects the new principal would teach during his incumbency of the principalship, Mr. Bennett stated that Mr. Cordrey was well qualified to teach science, mathematics, manual training or any of the other subjects, but that he probably would devote only two or three periods teaching the remainder of his time devoted to administrative duties.

Who will succeed Mr. Cordrey as principal of the Delmar High School was not made known. However, the Board of Education has the applications of several teachers under consideration, and the name of the successful applicant will be divulged after the board's next meeting.

In coming to Wicomico High School, Mr. Cordrey will be paid the same salary that Prof. Clarke received—$2,000 per year.

Another appointment made by the Board on Monday was that of Mr. O. Perry Simmons, who was selected as principal of the Sharptown High School to succeed Mr. Fred H. Dewey. Mr. Simmons has been principal of the high school at Hurlock for the past several years, and is said to be an excellent teacher.

ROTARY CLUB DONATES $200 TO CAMP FUND

Gift Of Local Rotarians Will Enable 15 Boys To Attend Camp Fairlee.

"Y" RECEIVES BIG NUMBER APPLICATIONS

So Many Have Been Received That It Was Found Necessary To Close Application List—"Y" Directors Decide To Convert Upper-floor "Gym" Into Dormitory.

The action of the Salisbury Rotary Club in voting $200 to help defray the expenses of the boys' camp that will be conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association at Camp Fairlee, in August, is a splendid example of civic generosity. Because of their gift, they have made it possible for 15 boys to go to camp who otherwise might have been unable to attend, and the "Y" officials are delighted at the Rotarians' action.

It was stated yesterday that no more applications to attend Camp Fairlee will be considered, as there have been received such a big number that it will be impossible to accommodate all who wish to go to camp. Mr. Hammerslough said that about 50 boys, in all, will be taken on the big outing.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Y.M.C.A., held last Friday evening, many matters of importance were taken up. One of the principal subjects under consideration by the board was the suggested conversion of the "little gymnasium" on the second floor, right back of the billiard room, into a dormitory.

To Enlarge Sleeping Quarters.

It was decided to proceed with the work of transforming the "little gym" into one large dormitory that will accommodate 10 men. Enlargement of the "Y" sleeping quarters was deemed necessary owing to the fact that many persons seeking housing accommodations at the "Y" building have been unable to get them. Mr. Hammerslough stated that since he has been on the job here, he has turned down from one to ten applications for rooms each day.

The Board of Directors also is considering the installation of shower baths and locker rooms under the main gymnasium on the first floor.

Before the Board meeting adjourned, Mr. Ralph Grier, treasurer of the Association, made his report, and Mr. R. W. Hammerslough, general secretary, also made his report covering "Y" activities for the month of June. Mr. Hammerslough's report will be found elsewhere in this issue.

COMPANY 'I' TO LEAVE FOR CAMP SUNDAY

Nearly 100 Members Local Company Will Attend First Regiment Encampment.

SALISBURY UNIT IS COMPLETELY EQUIPPED

Is In Fine Shape To Take To Field Immediately—Ten New Recruits Added To Company's Roster Monday Night—Many Others Expected To Join Before Camp.

Ten recruits were added to the roster of Company "I" on Monday night, bringing the total of the local organization up to 88 enlisted men and three officers. With the addition of the new applicants, Captain Russell will probably take to camp more than his minimum quota. The men who signed up are Frank L. Smith, Cyrus K. Hoover, Dawson Jenkins, William Bratton, Paul Mason, Oliver L. Banks, Hilbert Wilkerson, Harris M. Messick, Elwood Phillips, and James M. Mills. It is confidently predicted at the Armory that several more men will enroll before the company leaves for camp.

Information received from the Regimental Commander indicates that the company will entrain for Camp Albert C. Ritchie some time Sunday morning. The exact hour of departure has not yet been set. Although no formal plans have been made for giving the men of Company "I" a big send-off, it is certain that a big crowd will be at the station to see the troops depart.

The last regular drill night at the Armory was consumed with the issuing and marking of equipment. The big floor of the drill hall was covered with guardmen learning to "roll their own." The company is completely equipped and could take the field at short notice.

The encampment at which the local guard unit will spend the two weeks commencing Sunday, July 17, is located at Saunders Range, only a short distance from Baltimore. Company "I" has the distinction of being part of the only completely federally recognized regiment in the State and one that will go to camp with about 1,000 men and 55 officers.

Athletics Important Feature.

Instruction at the encampment will be varied and interesting. It will, for the most part, consist of physical and military training, bayonet and rifle practice, tactical problems, hikes and night maneuvers, the latter embracing some spectacular raids patterned after those carried out by the American forces in the World War.

The Regimental Band of 32 pieces will give concerts daily and attend guard mount and parades. Athletics will have a prominent place in the schedule and one of the features of the camp will be the base ball contests for the Regimental Championship, staged between the Eastern and Western Shores. There are seven organizations on the former and nine on the latter. Swimming will have a place all its own and there is a fine beach for the sport right near the camp.

One day of the camp will be set aside as Honorary Membership Day. On this occasion, Governor Ritchie, Mayors of all the cities, and honorary members of the various units are expected to be present.

The purpose of the encampment, which is authorized by Congress, is to provide an opportunity for service in the field in order that the National Guard may be developed to a high standard of military efficiency. Captain Russell, commanding Company "I", anticipates that this will be one of the most instructive and interesting camps ever held in Maryland. Although he already has a large company, he states that there is still room for a few more recruits.

Any men wanting to enlist can do so at the next meeting at the Armory on Friday night.

EARLY MORNING FIRE.

Fire of unknown origin broke out in the home of Dora Hudson on East Church street about 2:15 Tuesday morning. A sideboard had caught fire and was burning furiously. When the fire engine arrived on the scene the sideboard had been taken outside before it could do any damage to the house. The sideboard and its contents were totally destroyed.

You will find his article very interesting, and we commend it to your attention. It is printed on Page 11 of this issue.

R. N. JACKSON ARRESTED AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Is Later Released Pending Inquiry Into Death Of Woman Killed In Baltimore By His Car.

Mr. Richard N. Jackson, formerly of Salisbury, and son of the late Governor E. E. Jackson, was arrested in Baltimore Sunday by the Northern district police after the death at St. Joseph's Hospital of Mrs. Mary Knowlton, 76 years old, 4003 Roland avenue, who was struck by his automobile Saturday night. Mr. Jackson was later released in care of Magistrate R. Bayly Chapman, of the Northwestern district, pending an investigation.

Magistrate Chapman, the Baltimore police say, was in the machine at the time of the accident and Mr. Jackson was driving. They were going south on Roland avenue, between Forty-first and Fortieth streets, when the accident occurred. Mrs. Knowlton, it is said, was crossing the street in the middle of the block. The woman was taken to St. Joseph's immediately after the accident but succumbed to her injuries at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Jackson is a member of the E. E. Jackson Lumber Company and recently purchased Bally Dugan, the Green Spring Valley estate of the late Edward T. Burke, which is one of the show places near Baltimore.

Auto Collides With Wagon During Rain

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Grant Injured When Their Wagon Hit By Car Owned By Mrs. J. E. Nock.

During the heavy rain of Tuesday night a bad accident happened about 8:30 on East Church street near the Salisbury Home for the Aged. A Dodge car belonging to Mrs. J. E. Nock ran into a wagon in which there were Wilson Grant, Marie Grant and their son "Sammy" Grant.

The car, which is alleged to have been running on the left hand side of the road, ran into the rear of the wagon and threw the occupants out. Mrs. Grant was cut about the face, back and abdomen by flying glass. Mr. Grant also was cut by the glass but not as seriously as his wife. Mrs. Grant was taken to the Peninsula General Hospital.

The wagon was demolished and the mule which was drawing the wagon was cut and broke a bone in its hip. The car was damaged to the extent of a broken windshield, bent fenders, broken headlights and a bent radiator.

LAWN PARTY AT "Y" SATURDAY EVENING

Starting at 7 o'clock Saturday evening the Y. M. C. A. lawn will be the scene of a well arranged lawn party. Ice cream, home made cake, candy, pop corn, orangeade and other summer delicacies will be on sale. Many people will take advantage of this oasis if the night is warm, and every indication points toward a very warm evening. The public is invited to stop there and refresh themselves and at the same time benefit the Sunday School of Division Street Baptist Church which has arranged this affair.

THIEVES' LOOT FOUND BY BOY IN MILL-POND

Quantity Of Goods Stolen From Dorman & Smyth Last April Found Monday.

YOUTH WAS WADING WHEN LOOT DISCOVERED

Notifies State Police And Search Results In $600 Worth Of Stolen Goods Being Recovered—Some Of Articles Found In 10 Feet Water. On Trail Of Robbers.

While wading in the shallow water on the west side of the millpond dam next to the electric light plant on Monday afternoon, Raymond Gannon, a 15-year old boy, discovered three spoons and a pocket knife on the bottom of the dam, and, upon notifying the State Police of his discovery, a later search of the spot where the original articles were found led to the recovery of a big quantity of the goods that were stolen from the Dorman & Smyth Hardware Company during the looting of that place last April.

Loot In All Parts Of Dam.

A careful search made by members of the State Police force revealed that the thieves who ransacked Dorman & Smyth's place of business had tossed a goodly part of their loot into all parts of the dam, goods valued at approximately $600 being taken from the water. While some of the articles were found in the shallow water, a quantity of the stolen goods was recovered in places in the dam where the water is from 10 to 12 feet in depth.

Approximately 2 dozen razors, five rifles, two shot-guns, about 150 pieces of silverware, a number of pocket knives and other articles were "fished" from the water. Despite the fact that they had been in the water since the middle of April, many of the articles, especially the pieces of silverware, were in excellent condition. All of the articles were easily identified by Mr. Dorman as part of the goods stolen from his place of business.

State Police After 'Em.

It is understood that the State Police have been quietly at work on this case ever since the robbery was perpetrated, and that already a strong chain of evidence has been linked around two suspects who now are at large but who, it is said, will be taken into custody within a short time on a charge of having committed the robbery.

The looting of the Dorman & Smyth Hardware Company on Thursday night, April 14, was one of the boldest robberies committed here in many years, the thieves turning nearly everything in the place topsy-turvy and emptying bags of seed on the floor in order to use the bags in carrying away the stolen goods. Owing to the prominence of the store's location, it being situated right in the heart of the city, and right under the glare of the arc light at Dock and Main Streets, the very boldness of the thieves showed an utter contempt for the law.

However, with the State Police hot on the robber's trails, it is believed that the guilty parties will soon be apprehended and made to feel the iron hand of the law in all its power.

R. R. Gives 46 Cars Cinders For Roads

City and County Use Them in Helping To Build Up The Roads In This Section.

During the past three months the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad has given to the city of Salisbury and Wicomico county forty-six car loads of cinders for the purpose of building up the roads of the city and county.

Twenty-six of these cars of cinders were given to the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury, and the other twenty were given to Mr. Alan Benjamin at Fruitland in order to help fix up the roads in lower Wicomico and Somerset counties.

It has been estimated that if the roads which were repaired by the cinders had been repaired by shells or macadamized, the cost would have been considerable to the city and county officials. Consequently the railroad's generosity is very much appreciated by our citizens.

SALISBURY AND NEWARK PLAY 16-INNING TIE

The local ball team journeyed to Newark last Monday afternoon and pitted its strength against the much-heard nine of that town. After 16 innings of battling, the game was called with the score knotted at 4 to 4. Salisbury made 16 hits off the delivery of Newark's twirler, while Hayes, who occupied the mound for the locals, was touched up for 9 bingles. The score:

SALISBURY NINE HITS ITS STRIDE

After Several Defeats, Team Comes Back Strong And Beats Pocomoke, 6-3.

PLAYS 16-INNING TIE WITH NEWARK

Game Is Called On Account Of Darkness And Tie-Off Will Be Played here Thursday—Busy Schedule Has Been Arranged For Home Team During Remaining Days Of July.

After participating in three games that were prolonged into extra-inning affairs, two of which were lost and one ending in a tie, the Salisbury baseball team struck its stride Tuesday afternoon and laid low the diamond warriors from Pocomoke, 6 to 3. The local boys got going good in the game against the Worcester county team, and, with "Lady Luck", again back on the job, the Salisbury nine now is confident of finishing out the schedule at top-notch speed.

The following games have been played since our last issue:

Cambridge, 5; Salisbury, 3.
East New Market, 7; Salisbury, 6 (10 innings).
Delmar, 12; Salisbury, 11.
Princess Anne, 4; Salisbury, 1 (11 innings).

FARMERS ASSN. PREPARING FOR 'LOUPE SEASON'

Picking, Grading And Packing Is Of Prime Importance, Says Mr. Culver.

ASSOCIATION HAS HAD SPLENDID GROWTH

Total Membership Now Approaching The 1,000-Mark, And Growers Are Well Satisfied With The Co-operation Extended. Efforts Being Made For Banner 'Loupe Year.

Having had a really remarkable growth since its inception, its roster now containing the names of nearly 1,000 growers of farm products, the future of the Wicomico Farmers' Association looks bright and rosy. Each succeeding day has found the organization more solidified, but there is nothing mysterious about its fine growth—the Association has simply "delivered the goods" for its farmer members and they are keen to appreciate its intrinsic worth. As a valuable co-operative marketing organization, it has performed its functions with exceptional merit, and we bespeak for the Association and its member growers a wonderful future.

Irving Culver, sales manager of the Wicomico Farmer's Association, speaks a final word to the growers of 'loupes in which he asks for their whole-hearted assistance in making this a real, big 'loupe year.

Mr. Culver's letter follows:

Growers Are Pleased.

"Now that the berry season is past and every one satisfied with results obtained by The Association, and the cucumber deal just starting in at very satisfactory prices—the growers all well pleased with our arrangements of selling and inspecting—facing us the ALL IMPORT question of picking, grading, packing cantaloupes—the hard all the crops to handle because many farmers misjudge the age, ripeness of their cantaloupes.

"This is one out of many years when we should leave out our poor undersized melons, thereby saving freight charges and keeping off the market that class of goods which does more to depress the markets than the good melons do even though they do sell much cheaper. Why do the California melons bring twice and often three times as much as Georgia's? The only answer is the quality. Last Tuesday there were 80 cars in New York City alone, and on Wednesday 58 cars; again, on Thursday there were 50 cars with an advance of 25 cents a carrier each day.

"The consumers after eating good melons for six weeks would be hard to convince that a green, hard melon from Maryland and Delaware would take their place. California has shipped up to this date 1500 cars more than it did last year and at very good prices.

Ship Them "Just Right."

"The next section that will come closest to compete with us is Turlock, California, and they have only 4,800 acres compared with 6,500 acres a year ago. Rocky Ford, Colorado, will not be on 'till late in August. As I see it, with plenty sunshine and favorable weather conditions in general, it looks as if we might have three or four weeks to market our crop.

"I believe, if all will try as they never have tried before to ship them just right, we will net satisfactory prices to the growers. If the commission men and the brokers will use good judgment, and not leave it all up to the farmer to decide, I feel sure it will be a satisfactory and profitable deal.

"Let's for once try to handle the 'loupe deal as it should be handled. This Association is sincerely interested in the welfare of the growers. No one, or no Association, makes a success of endeavoring to sell green hard, unfit for human consumption 'loupes. Our 'loupes have an unsavory reputation. Let's all pull together, pull 'loupes at the right time and put the 'loupe industry of this section where it belongs—at the top not at the bottom. Much has been said and written on the subject. In the final analysis it's up to the growers. This Association trusts that the growers will realize it's interests are after, and that all will pull together to make a name and reputation for our 'loupes.

"Yours for success in this most important matter to all of us."

The TEST of Dependability

Today's Oakland Six is a day out with a minimum of maintenance. It is economical. It is sturdy built. It has unusual comfort. It has dignified and distinctive appearance. It is the lowest priced six cylinder car in the world.

Yet the quality that is probably most prized by Oakland owners is the car's simple, thorough, constant dependability.

Among doctors, salesmen and other men and women whose cars are a part of their professional equipment, Oakland is a favorite because it stays on the job day in and day out with a minimum of maintenance.

There is a powerful testimonial to dependability in the fact that today nearly a quarter of a million Oaklands are on the highways of the world.

Six Features of Dependability

- 6 1/2 inch frame
- Over capacity tires
- Low center of gravity
- 1 H.P. per 55 pounds of car weight
- Six cylinder overhead valve motor
- 18 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline

The car itself is always ready to prove the things we say of it. Call or phone for a demonstration today.

MARDELA SPRINGS

These biographical sketches at the headings of our letters have become more popular than we had expected and the readers are asking for more of the same kind. We take the liberty in this one case of presenting the names of two aged sisters who are twins and because of their faithful, motherly lives, deserve a kindly notice. Their names are Mrs. Josephine Elliott and Mrs. Martine Robinson. They were children of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Venable and were born in what was then called Barron Creek Springs in the year 1846. They are now 78 years old and comparatively well and sprightly. They bemoan the degeneracy of this fast age and wonder why the people do not think more about the eternal world. They feel that the people of today are not as religious as they were in the years gone by. The churches are even becoming more worldly. Mrs. Elliott is the widow of Allison Elliott and to them were born two children, Charles L. and Mrs. Lake Seabreeze. Mrs. Robinson is the widow of Ferdinand Robinson and to them were born seven children, all now living.

The Fourth passed off here without a single casualty. Great crowds assembled and our band discoursed fine music. The small boy was in evidence and made his customary amount of racket and the small girl was just as noisy. Young life is always happy and we are glad of it, even though it does try our nerves just a bit. We saw no evidence of intoxication anywhere. Some men are opposed to the Volstead law, because, as they say, it does not work, but it worked here on the Fourth. One man said he was "agin the law" and when asked why, he replied, "Just because I am agin it." I guess that he gave his only reason for his position. There are hundreds of men who never did a single thing in favor of bringing prohibition and claim that they are opposed to the Volstead act just because it cannot be enforced. Why don't they get behind the law and help to enforce it? They see by the lessening of crime and disorder everywhere that it is a good thing.

I. H. Rider and George Rider, Jr., and L. T. Cooper spent much of last week in Baltimore.

Several new buildings in town are in course of construction.

The destruction of the transmission house here by fire several weeks ago has not yet been rebuilt and while the town and residences have light the shirt factories are without power.

Topkis Brothers put in a gasoline engine for temporary service.

The Sharptown Shirt Company took its rush orders to Hebron and had contracts filled from there.

LOCALS

Mr. John E. Morris has returned to his home on S. Division street, after spending a week in Chester and Philadelphia and Camden, N. J., among friends.

Misses Katharine Brewington, Stella and Minnie McGrath are visiting in Baltimore. Before returning home they will spend some time in Charleston and Fayetteville, W. Va.

Messrs. Fulton Brewington, John Adkins, Geo. Johnson, of this city, and Mr. Louis Burgner, of Pocomoke City, have accepted positions with the Hotel Frish at Ocean City.

Bishop Thomas B. Neely, of Philadelphia, was a visitor with Dr. J. T. Herson for a short time Monday. Although advanced in years, Bishop Neely is one of the outstanding figures in Methodism.

Miss Mary Ledbetter, who has been spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Howard S. Tyndall, left Monday for Fayetteville, N. C., for an extended visit before returning to her home in Florida.

The annual excursion of Bethesda M. P. Sunday School will be made to Ocean City on Thursday, July 21. A special train will leave Salisbury at 10 A. M. and returning leave Ocean City at 5 P. M.

A picnic will be held at Walston's on Thursday, July 21, afternoon and evening. This picnic, which is for the benefit of Bethel M. P. Church, will be held on the church grounds near the Ocean City road. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. John H. White, of New York, spent a very happy Fourth in having all her children with her, which were Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Brittingham, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Brittingham, of Philadelphia; Mr. S. M. Brittingham and son, of Norristown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Gordy F. Brittingham and children; Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Brittingham and children and Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Maddox, of Salisbury.

Gravener Brothers, undertakers, interred the remains of Benjamin T. Gravener at the home place near Spring Grove on Friday afternoon after funeral services by Rev. D. J. Ford. The deceased was 83 years old and leaves several grown children. He was the oldest man in the community. Much of his land was deeply bedded with iron ore for which he was offered a fancy price a few years ago, but refused to sell. He well remembered that much ore was shipped from a swamp near his home to Norfolk, Va., in sail vessels when he was a boy and he had a high estimate on the ore lands in his community, of which there are perhaps a hundred acres that could be conveniently mined.

W. T. Selby, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Moore attended the burial of Mrs. Travis Moore at Crisfield on Thursday. She was a sister of Mr. Selby and of Mrs. Moore and the daughter of James Selby, of this town. She was fifty years old and leaves besides her husband, brothers and sisters, one daughter, Miss Anna. Mrs. Moore died at her home in Camden on July 4, after a lingering illness of several months. Her funeral was preached at Crisfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sommers by Rev. Mr. Eldridge of the Methodist Protestant Church. The Sunday School at Camden sent large oral tributes as did the Sunday School in Wilmington, Del., of which she was a member for several years.

Mrs. Selby has been in her early life spent in this community where she has many friends.

Miss Lettie Lowe spent the week-end with Mrs. Pratt Phillips, Quantico.

Miss Louise Thomas, of near Berlin, is the guest of Miss Julia Owens.

Miss Emma Caulk entertained on Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ruby Bennett, of Baltimore.

Mrs. Nelda Rumsey and son, Herman, of Baltimore, are spending the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kennerly.

Miss Mary Bailey, after an absence of several months, sojourning at Tarboro, N. C., is spending the summer vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. T. Bailey.

Miss Ruby Bennett, of Baltimore, is spending a few weeks with her aunts, the Misses Lavinia and Cora Bennett.

Mrs. William Riggan, after an absence of several months, is home from Norfolk, Va., for the balance of the summer.

The steamer Avalon ran an excursion from Seaford to Sandy Hill on Saturday afternoon, the excursionists being the Methodist Protestant Sunday School and friends of Seaford. Mrs. J. W. Hurr and son, Wesley, joined the company here.

Wildy D. Gravener, national treasurer of the American Legion, was in Harrisburg, Pa., much of last week. He was accompanied as far as Baltimore by Mrs. Gravener and daughter, Miss Irene. They returned Sunday.

Hiram A. Windsor had as his guest last week a brother, Robert Windsor, of Denton, who was born here and left here the age of thirteen years, and not having seen the place for nearly 70 years. While here he was also the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harper. Mrs. Harper being a relative. When Mr. Windsor left here he was taken across the Nanticoke in a very primitive ferry scow, but he entered the town this week by crossing in a steel and concrete bridge. He recalled the "Red House," an ancient landmark of the town, and a few other sites; the houses, however, had undergone changes and improvements. When he left the place was an open field on one side and woods on the other. He is a veteran of the Civil War and called to see S. J. Cooper, also a veteran, and while they were in different companies each knew the other volunteered.

The Marvel Package Company last week made a reduction in the products that brings them near the pre-war prices. The introduction of new modern machinery has greatly facilitated work and enables less laborers to turn out more work.

One of our progressive merchants led the Shore last week in the price of sugar, selling it for four and three-quarter cents per pound, but he limited the sale to four pounds for each person.

PARSONSBURG

Mr. Wallace Parker is spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. Bertie Parker.

Quite a number of our young people attended the picnic at Mt. Hermon Thursday last. All reported a good time.

Mrs. Arthur Perdue spent the week-end with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Q. Driscoll and Mr. and Mrs. Herman White spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Garland Tingle, near Salisbury.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Humphreys spent Sunday with relatives at Hebron.

While going to work early Friday morning, Mr. H. T. Farlow met with a painful accident when his mule became frightened.

Mr. J. H. Wilkins was on the sick list a few days last week.

WALSTONS

Mr. C. M. White and family spent Monday with his wife's parents in Pittsville.

Mr. P. M. Carey, of Salisbury, and S. W. Shockley made a business trip to Powellville this week.

We are glad to report Mr. K. W. Workman better at this writing. He has been suffering from an attack of rheumatism.

The Bethel M. E. Sunday School at Walston's will hold their annual picnic Thursday, July 21. All are invited. Proceeds for benefit of church.

Miss Bertha Hobbs, of Philadelphia, is spending a few days here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Hobbs.

Mr. John Bennett, of Ocean City, is quite a frequent visitor here.

Mrs. Asarah Brittingham is visiting her son, John Brittingham, near Pittsville this week.

PITTSVILLE

THE SOLDIER BONUS BILL.

The action of Secretary Mellon in opposing passage of the adjusted compensation bill at this session of Congress, will, unquestionably, meet with the full approval of the men who bore arms in the World War as well as with the voters of the country as a whole. The veterans believe that they are entitled to at least as much consideration at the hands of the federal Government as were the men who stayed at home to keep the essential industries going, but they do not desire to have their compensation adjusted at a time when such adjustment would be vastly more detrimental than beneficial to the country at large, and to the ex-service men in particular.

Although many organizations composed principally of former soldiers have been active in trying to secure passage of the bill, it is highly probable that the former service men did not as individuals fully realize just what the added burden of taxation would mean to the nation until Mr. Mellon's last letter was made public a few days ago. The cost of carrying out the provisions of the so-called bonus bill is estimated at from one and a half to five and a quarter billions of dollars. The latter amount would add about $100 to the war burden of every family in the United States. The expenses of administration of so vast a fund would, alone, be enormous, and the red tape engendered by new bureaus, commissions, and the inevitable Congressional investigating committees, would be formidable. The veteran himself, the man for whom the bill was drawn up, would, during the next 20 years, pay a large portion of the expense.

The passage of the bill under the present economic conditions would probably drive prices again skyward, and it would certainly knock the bottom still further out of the Liberty bond market. Moreover, payments under the proposed bill would be delayed for more than a year. This means that the soldiers would receive no immediate benefit, and that the country would be saddled with a huge debt for the next generation. It is fairly safe to assume that if the ex-service men have been able to weather the storms of financial hardship during the past two and a half years, and to get through the months between now and the time proposed for first payments of the adjusted compensation, they can continue to take care of themselves without help from a paternal government.

No one can fairly deny that the men who served under arms deserved pay commensurate with services rendered, political uncombed that adjusted pay would be "capitalizing patriotism" to be contrary notwithstanding; but at the same time, even the ex-soldier who urgently needs financial aid will admit that for the government to grant such help at this time would be little short of sinuous. The American people truly appreciate the services of our khaki clad defenders and within reason will grant any request they may make—but at this time adjusted compensation is not a reason, and for the best interests of the veteran, the other and the future of the country, the bill should be shelved.

OPPORTUNE TIME FOR A LEAGUE.

Baseball enthusiasm is at high pitch among the sport-loving of the three lower counties of the Eastern Shore, and no matter where one travels in Wicomico, Worcester or Dorchester one is bound to hear the subject discussed if one lingers any length of time. Nearly every town in these counties has its ball team and the spirit of good-natured rivalry between the towns for diamond supremacy is waxing warmer each succeeding day.

In view of all this enthusiasm, what more opportune time than the present for organizing a baseball league on the Shore? There is plenty of evidence all around us, to the north, east, south and west of us, that such a league would have the hearty support of the fans, and by forming a league this year we would be laying the foundation for putting baseball on a solid, permanent basis for the years to come.

We believe that it would be a comparatively easy matter to organize a six-club league in the three lower counties to be known as the Tri-County League, or, if some of our neighbors farther north on the Shore desired to join hands in the formation of an Eastern Shore League, the number of clubs composing such a league could be increased.

We have learned that sentiment in the various nearby towns is strongly in favor of a baseball league, that much favorable discussion has been given the proposal, and that if the baseball powers that be in each of the towns would get together on the question a league would surely be quickly organized. Therefore, we hope to see one of the baseball moguls taking the initiative looking toward holding a meeting for the purpose of banding together a league. We are confident that such action would meet with a ready response and that the meeting would be productive of the desired results.

Baseball is a splendid sport, and the formation of a league in this section undoubtedly would prove an added stimulus to the present great interest in the game. By playing through a schedule of games such as would be arranged in the event of a league's coming into existence, interest in the sport would be increased a hundredfold, and at the end of the season there could be no question as to the relative merits of the teams of this section.

Countless arguments could be advanced in favor of a baseball league, but the dyed-in-the-wool fan is thoroughly cognizant of each and every one of them. What we need now is someone to start the ball rolling. Who'll tackle the job?

CO-OPERATION IS ESSENTIAL.

A very interesting editorial regarding the teacher-situation in Maryland schools, and the apparent lack of attention paid by county commissioners to the demands of the teachers, with the result that many teachers are leaving for other fields, appeared in Tuesday afternoon's issue of The Baltimore News. It follows, in part:

"... For years the lack of co-operation between the county commissioners who appropriate the money and the school boards who spend it has piled up trouble. Promises to the teachers in many counties have not been kept and in some instances money meant for their salaries has been used for operating expenses."

"We are not going to take time or space in telling our readers the commissioners and the boards that all this is wrong and that it ought to be corrected. What we wish to do is to point out very definitely that these commissioners and boards are driving away teachers out of Maryland. One of the signs of the last half dozen years is the growing independence of the capable school teacher. It is no longer a matter of taking what the local solons will give, but of selecting from a constantly widening choice. In fact, all America is now seeking this capable school teacher."

"For instance, we have before us the July 8 issue of a leading Canadian newspaper, the Toronto Globe. It contains seven columns of small advertisements under "Teachers Wanted", and the salaries are in excess of $900, with most of them over $1,000. What Canada is doing is being done with larger bait in some of the Western States, while most of the Eastern States are also bidding. The capable school teacher is not bothered with any unemployment problem. His anxiety is merely in the matter of finding the best terms.

"We suggest that the authorities of the counties who have to do with schools pay better attention to their school teachers before they get away. Others are after them."

Uncle John's Poem

THE STAYER

I've studied mankind from sun to sun, an' ravelled 'em all to bits, and I find, the man wuth dependin' on, is the feller that never quits. . . . Most any chap in the common herd can bring a few things to pass, but he's apt to prove an unlucky bird, unless he can show some class. . . . I've watched the boys as they sallied forth, to garner a share of fame, and I've seen 'em collapse, an' come to earth, when trifles would queer their game. There's no reward for the shifty guy that straddles in forty ways, with allers some bran new scheme to try, that promises better days. But the feller that marks his life-course well, an' studies his lessons by heart, will ring as clear as a weddin' bell, and win, from the very start. There ain't much room for the soft-nose boy, that juggles with artless wits. . . . But we bust right out into songs of joy for the feller that never quits.

Yr. serving John.

East New Market Beats Locals, 7 to 6

Salisbury Nine Defeated in Extra-Inning Game On Dorchester County Diamond.

Salisbury and East New Market baseball teams staged a close and exciting game on the latter's diamond last Thursday, the fray being prolonged to the tenth inning. The Dorchester countians, however, put the game on ice in their half of the tenth, registering two tallies, which brought them a 7 to 6 victory. Salisbury tied the score in the ninth, made another run in the tenth, and for a short time it looked as though a scalp would be brought back to Wicomico. With two men out in its half of the tenth, Meyer tripled for East New Market, Melvin walked, and Moore then delivered the mighty wallop that sewed up the game.

Princess Anne Wins In Eleventh Inning

Somerset Ball Tossers Make Three Runs In Extra-Inning Frame and Beat Locals, 4 to 1.

One of the best played games staged at Gentry Park this season was played last Saturday afternoon between the nines of Princess Anne and Salisbury, the contest being extended to eleven innings before Princess Anne finally was adjudged the winner, 4 to 1. Although Salisbury out hit the Somerset countians, the latter boys managed to bang out their hits more opportunely.

Salisbury Loses To Cambridge, 5-3

Dorchester County Nine Overcomes Three-Run Lead and Gallops Home To Victory.

The first diamond encounter of the season between Cambridge and Salisbury took place last Wednesday afternoon, July 6, and the Dorchester ball tossers journeyed homeward wearing "the smile that won't come off."

Score, Cambridge, 5; Salisbury, 3. Salisbury got off to a flying start in the first inning, when three runs were chalked up to its credit, but thereafter the going was rather rough for the home team. The local boys gathered only three hits off the Cambridge twirlers, while Cambridge amassed a total of eleven safeties.

FORD CARS REDUCED

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the price of all types of Ford Cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices, E. B. Detroit, are now as follows:

TOURING CAR	$415.00
RUNABOUT	$370.00
COUPE	$695.00
SEDAN	$760.00
CHASSIS	$345.00
TRUCK-CHASSIS	$495.00
TRACTOR	$625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact, together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the increased demand for Ford Cars, particularly during the past three months, permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford houses for April and May, 1921, was greater than for the same months in 1920, in fact, the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders, but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May, we produced 104,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone, the largest month in the history of our company and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 1,000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Ford tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Ford tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

TO TAKE VOTE ON WAGE CUT

Heads Of Five Railroad Brotherhoods Refuse To Make Decision.

VOTE TO BE CAST
BY SEPTEMBER 1

Railroad Chiefs "Pass the Buck" To Membership of Their Organization Whether They Will Accept or Reject 12 Per Cent Wage Reduction Effective on Railroads July 1.

The membership of 16 railroad labor organizations, including the "big four" brotherhoods, will decide by a referendum vote by September 1, whether to accept or reject the 12 per cent wage reduction that went into effect on railroads throughout the country July 1, it was decided last week by the chief executives and 1,500 general chairmen of the organizations.

The general chairmen decided they could not assume responsibility for the wage reduction that was ordered by the Railroad Labor Board.

The chairmen adopted resolutions declaring that not later than September 1, the matter should be referred to the membership through the various general committees for acceptance or rejection. They also authorized their chief executives to make arrangements, if possible, to meet a committee of railway executives to be selected to meet a sub-committee of the five organizations, "to consider and if possible adjust all matters in controversy."

The chief executives and committees handling these matters were directed in the resolution "to clearly place the representatives of the railway corporations on record as to whether or not they will request further decreases in rates or compensation, the abolition of schedule rules or regulations, or the elimination of time and one-half time."

The resolution stated that the ballot when submitted to the men shall contain an impartial and unbiased recital of all that is involved and the wishes of the men as expressed by ballot shall determine the matter, in accordance with the laws of the organizations.

Announcement was made that the resolution will be considered by the properly constituted authorities of the other standard recognized railroad labor organizations and that it was expected they would announce their positions soon.

The resolution said that the general chairmen were "required not only to consider a wage reduction, but in many instances railroad officers have served notice of their intention to abolish time and one-half for overtime in freight and yard services and in addition thereto to revise schedules for the benefit of the railroads by abolishing many rules and conditions which in the aggregate mean the loss of much money and the creation of less favorable conditions for the various classes of employees."

Approximately 1,500 delegates from system organizations of the big four brotherhoods, the shop crafts, the maintenance of way men, clerks and switchmen, met in Chicago last week to canvass the situation that resulted from the 12 per cent wage reduction ordered by the Railroad Labor Board.

It is understood the resolution adopted contained the recommendations of the committee of five appointed to find a solution of the matter and to report back to the delegates.

U. S. ARMY WILL GRANT DISCHARGES TO MANY MEN

As a result of the cut in army appropriations, made by Congress, the War Department has sent an order to Major Harry A. Strak, stationed at Wilmington, under which all enlisted men in Delaware can obtain an honorable discharge from service.

Under the decrease in appropriation, the strength of the army has to be reduced to 150,000 men. This means that from 50,000 to 60,000 men will have to be given honorable discharges within the next few months.

Applications will be received at the State Army, Twelfth and Orange streets, Wilmington, until further notice from Washington. A large number of Delawareans are serving from one to three-year enlistments. No service man who is under guard or charged with a military offense can secure a discharge. No applications for re-enlistment will be received.

ACTIVITIES IN NEW FIRE DEPT.

Committee Named To Reorganize Company Will Form A Joint Company in Delmar.

The committee recently selected to take up the matter of the reorganization of the Delmar Fire Department is actively at work and sometime during the coming week a meeting will be held at which time general plans will be laid for the formation of a new company. The idea is to form one fire fighting company for the whole town which will be composed of an equal number of members from the Maryland-Delaware sides of the town.

An interesting complication already has arisen in this connection. Maryland has a Firemen's Association of many years' standing and Delaware's new Firemen's Association held its first annual meeting in Laurel on July 13. Both associations are seeking the affiliation of the new Delmar company, and this matter may cause some interesting developments. Those inclined to peace and harmony have suggested that the Delmar company, when formed, affiliate with both of the associations and attend both meetings each year.

That the town authorities on both sides of the town are lending their enthusiastic support to the organization of the new fire company here is attested by the fact that they recently purchased 500 feet of hose on each side of the town, making a total of 1,000 feet of hose to be added to the supply now on hand.

Plans also are being discussed for the purchase of new equipment by the two councils and they have promised to do everything in their power to give Delmar a real fire fighting organization if the proper interest is manifested in the organization plans.

GOV. DENNEY NAMES DUPONT U. S. SENATOR

Puts Republican In The Seat Vacated By Wolcott, Democrat.

CALLED BIGGEST "DEAL" IN HISTORY

The Appointment of General DuPont Is the Culmination of One of the Biggest Coups in Party History in Delaware, According To Many—DuPont Wires His Acceptance.

General T. Coleman DuPont has been appointed United States Senator from Delaware by Governor Denney, to complete the unexpired term of Josiah O. Wolcott, who recently resigned to become chancellor of the Delaware courts. General DuPont, who is in Colorado Springs, has wired his acceptance.

The appointment of General DuPont, who is a Republican, to the United States Senate, is the culmination of what his enemies say is the boldest political coup in the history of the State. The resignation of Wolcott from the Senate is said to have widened the breach in the Democratic party in Delaware. When the judicial appointment was first offered to Wolcott he refused it because of the storm of popular sentiment against the trade.

When finally Wolcott resigned from the Senate to become chancellor Governor Denney flatly denied the post of Senator was being made available for any one in particular, although he intimated the man appointed to the Senate would in all probability be a Republican, as the administration in the State is of that party.

When Wolcott's name was presented for confirmation as chancellor foes of the deal staged a last bitter fight in the Delaware Senate, freely making charges of bribery and corruption. The vote stood 10 for confirmation and 7 against it.

The completion of the coup by the appointment of General DuPont to the Senate makes him the dictator of the Republican party of Delaware at the time that the Democratic party is disintegrated. It is regarded as one of the boldest political moves in party history.

General DuPont was born in Louisville, Ky., December 11, 1863. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, to which institution he has given millions. He married Miss Alice DuPont, Wilmington, in 1889. They have four children.

For many years he was manager of the Johnstown Steel Company, Johnstown, Pa., and president of the Johnstown Passenger Railway Company. He built traction lines in several states. In 1902 he was elected president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co. and organized the concern into a corporation. He owns a controlling interest in the Equitable Life Assurance Society, New York, having erected the Equitable Life Building. He also owns many hotels throughout the country. He is a director of the Empire Trust Company, N. Y., and the National Surety Company.

DEL. DIV. TEAM PLAYS TWO GAMES

Loses One To Hebron 9 to 5, But Takes Over Salisbury's New Offering, 12 To 11.

While Delmar may be lacking in a "regular" baseball team, it is getting much sport from the activities of the Delaware Division team, which has taken the field and is preparing for the "big" games in connection with the approaching championship contests of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

On Wednesday, the boys crossed bats with the Hebron team and met defeat to the tune of 9 to 5. The contest started off like a whirlwind, and before the smoke had cleared away the visitors had gathered together and counted up six great big runs to their credit. After that one fatal inning, however, the skidding was a little harder and they only secured three more tallies during the balance of the out-door performance. Hastening, pitching for the homesters, twirling a good game, but errors in the first inning lost for him what otherwise might have been a close and interesting entertainment.

On Friday our old-time rivals from the Metropolis arrived, no doubt, in the hope that they would be able to "put one over" on the railroaders, but after a batting, slashing, hitting contest, in which one side as well as the other participated to their hearts' content, the scorekeeper, with the assistance of an adding machine, discovered that Salisbury Pride had been whalloped to the tune of 12 to 11. Some game! The batting and fielding of O'Neill and Northrup were the features of the fray. Two slabmen—West and Hummel—represented Delmar. Try again, Salisbury.

HAIL STORM HITS FARMS NEAR HERE

Much Damage Done In Small Area By Freak Storm Staged on July 4.

A furious hail storm, leaving damage and destruction in its wake, struck near Delmar on Monday, July 4, about 5.30 in the afternoon, and while the amount of territory hit by the storm only covered a radius of about two miles, centering around the old Union Church, and covering from Williams Pond to the line road, the damage done to cantaloupes, cucumbers, corn and sweet potatoes was great and in many instances the crop was completely cut to pieces. Not only were the growing cantaloupes, watermelons and cucumbers cut up, but the vines were completely destroyed, is a total loss.

Those who were in the path of the hail and who suffered the greatest damage were E. M. Holloway, W. H. Hastings, J. P. Parker, J. S. Robertson, J. H. Bunting and G. W. Nichols. Others were hit to a minor degree.

The hail storm was accompanied by a three inch rain and a furious wind storm, and growing corn was cut to pieces and blown down in its path. A notable feature of this storm was the fact that while some farms were hit and crops ruined, others only a short distance away knew nothing of the storm and of the damage their neighbors were suffering until afterwards. The storm did not hit Delmar.

IMPRISONMENT FOR FRAUDULENT VOTING.

Section 10. Any person who shall wilfully vote or attempt to vote illegally at such special election, or any person acting as election officer who shall wilfully refuse or consent to receiving an illegal vote, or who shall in any way act in a fraudulent or illegal manner at any such special election, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined a sum not exceeding Fifty Dollars ($50.00), or be imprisoned for the term of thirty days or suffer both fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. Should a voter be challenged on the ground of non-payment of tax, the presiding officer of the election or officer receiving the votes shall cause the person so challenged to swear that he or she has paid all town tax assessed against him or her for the year next preceding the date of such special election; otherwise, his or her vote shall not be received. Should such person wilfully and falsely so swear he or she shall be deemed guilty of false swearing and liable to the penalties provided by law for such offense.

Faith and Credit of Town Pledged.

Section 11. That the faith and credit of the said town of Delmar are hereby pledged for the payment of the bonds authorized to be issued under the provisions of this Act and all interest thereon.

OFFICERS RAID SPEAKEASY ON SATURDAY

Ben Rothe Arrested And Held Under $1,000 Bail For Action Of Court.

GET 10 GAL. MASH
AND 6 GAL. WINE

Town, County and State Officers Stage First Raiding Party Near Delmar And Make Successful Finale To Their Good Detective Work—Effort To Be Continued.

For the first time since the passage of the Volstead Act, Prohibition officers raided an alleged speakeasy, located near Delmar, on Saturday afternoon and secured 10 gallons of mash and six gallons of "meal" wine as a reward for their efforts.

The scene of the raid was laid out the "Shelley" Elliott farm, situated about two miles from Delmar, and the affair was the culmination of eleven detective work on the part of the town, county and State officials.

Ben Rothe, tenant of the farm, was placed under arrest and brought to Delmar Saturday afternoon where he was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace P. H. Hearn, who held him under $1,000 bail to await action of the Sussex county court.

The raid took place about 5 P. M. and came as a complete surprise to Rothe, who is believed to have been preparing for his usual Saturday trade. Four officers participated in the raid. They were Internal Revenue Officer Ira Melvin, of Wilmington; M. B. Hearn, of Laurel; Constable Hearn and Town Officer G. E. Hearn, of Delmar.

When the officers arrived they found that Rothe had prepared about a half barrel of mash. This was found in a barrel which was sawed into by the raiding place was found which was said to be "kick," and on hand.

Several weeks ago the officers discovered several streets of Delmar of some drink, and then he discovered jug of "meal" wine and held him further investigation.

Later from many from observation of Rothe, and catch him in the act. Evidence could be by observation, it was by the officers that the right track, and of their man, plans were laid which took place of the raid.

Getting everything in armed with a search officers gathered near the made their finale when they destroyed, but the wine evidence.

It is said that Rothe, held under bail by Justice Hearn that he was through with "ness for life," and whatever he would never again engage in.

Current rumor has it that a of Rothe, who was present trial, stated that he "knew there were thirty stills in operation. When questioned by the officers where they were, he answered they would not "tell that."

Being the first raid that has taken place in this locality since the Eighteenth Amendment was made a part of the law of the land, the successful termination of the efforts of the officers was the general topic of conversation on the streets of Delmar on Saturday evening.

Quite frequently of late it has been apparent that the illegal traffic was being engaged in around Delmar, and the officers think that in the arrest of Saturday they have broken up the base of supply and have also warned others who may be or are contemplating engaging in this business that they are "on the job" and intend to keep a watchful eye on what's going on.

Doda Hearn and family, William Marvill, Jr., and family, D. J. Parker and family, W. W. Whayland and family, W. A. Venables and family, motored to Cedar Grove on Sunday and spent the day there.

Harriet Knight Is Your "Housekeeping Aide"

Housekeeping cares will be joys if you are acquainted with a new "labor-saving" appliances for almost every branch of housekeeping.

Our Basement Store is a veritable "storehouse" of interesting household equipment, ranging from dustless mops and dusters, oddly shaped brushes for the inaccessible corners, cream "whippers", dish "driers" (that you need use times a day), rubber aprons in which you can be soiled at all times, metal egg crates, waterproof mailing boxes for soiled linen (a boon to the girl or boy at school), vacuum sweepers and cleaners.

And the Fifth Floor is a most picturesque place, with its age and beautiful assortment of hangings and rugs, its vivid cretonnes that add such brightness and cheer, pillows for every corner of home, slip-covers for furniture and beds, mattresses and bedding. Miss Knight will select any of these articles for you; you can trust her judgment.

DELMAR LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tappert returned last week from a short visit in Pennsylvania.

Misses Ida and Lulu Guthrie, of Washington, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie, in Delmar.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hickey, of Harrisburg, Pa., are spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Hickey.

Miss Mattie Mitchell and Mr. Linwood Baker, both of Delmar, were quietly married on July 1, and surprised their many friends in Delmar.

Mr. Charles Veney, of Delmar, underwent a successful operation at the Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury Saturday morning and is now getting along splendidly.

The new auction block of the Wicomico Farmers Association in Delmar was opened for business operations on Tuesday, July 5, and cucumbers are being sold there daily. On Saturday the average price was $1.75 per hamper.

The framing of the immense sweet potato house being built in North Seaford by a syndicate of Seaford capitalists, is completed. It will be the largest potato house on the Peninsula and will have a storage capacity of 70,000 bushels.

Three names mentioned in connection with the office of Deputy Attorney General for Sussex county, which became vacant this week by the resignation of Charles S. Richards, are Robert G. Houston, editor of the Sussex Republican, former Judge Henry C. Conrad, and former Deputy Attorney General Richard J. Cooke.

STATE INCOME TAX HITS BOTH RICH AND POOR

It must be remembered that the income tax reports which will be sent out after the new State Revenue Collector of Income Taxes, is appointed, will have to be sent back to that official by every man or woman over twenty-two years old, whether they have an income tax to pay or not. They will have to pay what is called a "filing" tax, which in itself is the sending in of the report, of three dollars each and every year. That is the actual school tax of everybody, rich or poor, in Delaware, and it can not be used for any other purpose than support of the public schools. This is our understanding of the new revenue law for support of the public schools.

PROMINENT FARMER DIED ON WEDNESDAY

Mr. Willard S. Oliphant, aged 70 years, a prominent truck farmer living near Delmar, died on Wednesday morning at 8:25 in the home in which he has lived for the past forty years. Mr. Oliphant is survived by his widow and one son, Zephia, of Delmar. Funeral services were held at his late home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. E. H. Jones, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church, officiated. Interment was in the Methodist Protestant cemetery.

LOCAL TALL CEDARS ACTIVE

Many local members of the Eastern Shore Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, attended the ceremonial held in Onancock, Va., last Friday evening. The Tall Cedar Band of Delmar were there in all of their usual glory, and made their presence known by their usual enlivening selections.

Plans are being made by many of the members to attend the ceremonial and picnic which will be held in Ocean City on July 28.

ALBERT L. ELLIOTT, LAUREL, BUILDER, DIED LAST WEEK

Albert L. Elliott, aged 52 years, one of the best known builders and contractors in the State, died at his home in Laurel last week from an attack of asthma. He built the People's National Bank, finished this summer, the finest building of the kind between Philadelphia and Norfolk; also Centenary Methodist Church, and was finishing the Pierre S. DuPont Negro High School in Laurel at the time of his death. Three generations—Mr. Elliott, his father and son—worked side by side daily.

ELLIOTT IS INDORSED FOR DRY OFFICER

The Sussex county members of the Republican State Central Committee met at Georgetown last week relative to the selection of a Prohibition Director for Delaware. Roy R. Bennett, of Milford, who was previously the choice of the Sussex county members, withdrew his name rather than place United States Senator L. Heisler Ball and Representative Caleb R. Layton, in Congress, in an embarrassing position. The committee then indorsed Robert D. Elliott, of Seaford, for the office. Bennett was strongly opposed in his fight for the office by the W. C. T. U. of Sussex county, and other temperance people.

WHEAT NOT ESSENTIAL FOR POULTRY FEEDING

Experiments Conducted By Dept. Agriculture Show Good Results Without Wheat As Ration.

Poultry-feeding experiments conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture, last fiscal year, show that practically as good results can be obtained without wheat as with it in a ration. The Rhode Island Reds, in the wheatless pen, averaged 140 eggs, while those in the pen receiving wheat averaged 134 eggs.
Good results were obtained with the use of garbage until the warm weather began, when there was considerable mortality, due apparently to the garbage spoiling. This work is being repeated this year with much more satisfactory results, the garbage being fed in a trough on a large wooden feeding board, which prevents it from getting on the ground and decaying.
In the use of vegetable proteins the relative order of production is the same as it was last year. No success has followed an attempt to substitute completely vegetable protein for animal protein. The ration used last year, a mash containing only 15 per cent meat scrap as compared with 20 to 25 per cent in the ordinary mashes, gave very satisfactory results with the heavier breeds, especially the Plymouth Rocks, in keeping the birds in good physical condition and fertility, though the egg yield was not quite so good as when the higher per cent of meat scrap was used.

New experiments were begun during the year with green feeds, comparing alfalfa meal with sprouted oats and comparing these rations with one in which vegetables were supplied.
While none of these green feeds have shown marked increased production over any other, the results have emphasized the importance and value of that form of food when given in a variety.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse.
I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs.
Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—Advertisement.

When we say every suit, we mean just that—every suit in our immense stock of good Men's Clothing—every Boys' Suit, including the famous and all of the Children's Wash Suits that have just lately arrived.

Some of the Men's Suits are of the heavier weights that will be worn later in the year, which if bought during this sale will save you dollars on your winter suit.
Some of the Boys' Suits too are just the thing for the school days that are not very far off. The very thing for those school days is the Wear Pledge Suit that is insured—the first time that these suits have been offered at a reduction in Salisbury and vicinity.

NOTHING RESERVED—ALL REDUCED and the reductions are from this season's lower prices—not marked up for the sale, but twenty-five per cent sliced off the regular price—and we stand back of this statement.

FORD The Universal Car ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the price of all types of Ford Cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The following prices are now in effect:

TOURING CAR $415.00
RUNABOUT $370.00
COUPE $695.00
SEDAN $760.00
CHASSIS $345.00
TRUCK-CHASSIS $495.00
TRACTOR $625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in order to meet the increased manufacturing efficiency and the increased demand for Ford Cars, particularly during the past three months in which the production of Ford cars has been increased by 50 per cent. The new prices and trucks than for the same two months in 1917. The new prices are even greater than the supply, so that the demand for Ford cars is still undiminished, but by manufacturing in this country, we are able to meet the demand.

"During May we produced 100,000 Ford cars and trucks in the United States alone, the largest month in the history of the Ford Motor Company, and our factories and assembly plants are now working at their full capacity, and our schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at a low price, and we are producing on account of the recent low price of the tractor. There is no reason why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Fordson tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

MODEL SUNDAY SCHOOL PATTERNS ITS WORK ON BUSINESS LINES

By ROBERT D. TOWNE.
(From Phila. North American.)

The Sunday School of the Bethany Temple Presbyterian Church, Fifty-third and Spruce streets, one of the largest in the city, has specialized on organization. The comment is often heard that it is organization the Sunday School most needs in these days. So I went out to the Bethany Temple school recently to see what organization looks like as developed by this aggressive and progressive school.

The pastor, Dr. Asa J. Ferry, was out of the city, but I found Mrs. E. H. Eyre there, and she turned out to be item No. 1 in the information I was looking for. That is to say, this church and Sunday School organization has a secretary just like any business downtown. Mrs. Eyre has a staff of helpers, too, for item No. 2 in my findings is that it is a regular office over which Mrs. Eyre presides. The secretary went to the inner office just exactly as the secretary would do in a big bank, and then I was introduced to item No. 3, that is to say, to the director of education, Mr. Hugh Cork. Mr. Cork is on tap during business hours like any other business executive. So here is a church and Sunday School which employs a competent director of education—that looks very much like organization.

Blueprint Shows Everything.

Mr. Cork took me in hand and first showed me around. I suppose a big plant exactly adapted to the work it is to do may be set down to organization. This plant is a block long and half as wide. A beautiful church auditorium occupies the corner structure. In the middle of the block are the offices; next comes Sunday School auditorium that will seat 1,500. Underneath of this is an assembly hall with a large kitchen. Adjoining is a gymnasium, then a place for games and play, and presently there will be bowling alleys. Upstairs are large rooms for the juniors and kindergartners, and the cozy parlors and small kitchenette would make any women's aid society's mouth water.

Four tennis courts back on the vacant half of the block complete the physical equipment.

The roomy, comfortable, business-like suite of offices was still in my mind, and so I asked Mr. Cork to take me back there and from that point describe to me the "works" of this organization. The first thing he showed me was a wall map, which he called the workshop blueprint. The map is a detail street drawing of a section of the city fourteen squares one way by seventeen squares the other. The plant is exactly in the center of this section. "That's our field," said Mr. Cork. "Our job is to know our field first—and there is what we know. It's on our workshop blueprint."

Its System Thorough.

The wall map is dotted all over with little round blue and red stickers. The red stickers stand for the houses where one or more members of the church live. The blue stickers stand for members of the Sunday School or other organization who are not church members. There are 1,633 church members, 1,703 Sunday School members and 20 subsidiary organizations at work in this plant, and these they all are visibly represented in red and blue on the workshop blueprint.

In each little sticker is a number—and that number carries straight over to an up-to-date card index system, which tells everything that needs to be known about the constituency that radiates from this central plant through nearly 200 blocks of south-west Philadelphia.

All this, of course, looks like organization—the kind of organization a business house goes in for when it really sets out to win.

The blueprint is cut up into eighteen squares, like the wards of a city and I asked Mr. Cork what they were for. "They are our supervisors' districts," he replied. We divide our territory into eighteen sections, and over each section we have an elder and a deacon, and soon we are to have a representative from the Sunday School for each district. These are the supervisors, district foremen, you might call them. Each district is organized and the supervisors have a schedule which runs through the year. Visitations must be made at least twice a year throughout the membership of each district. These are not formal calls. The aim is to make them a genuine social intermingling of all our people.

Corps of 138 Teachers.

"When there is a special job of work on," continued Mr. Cork, "these district organizers become very valuable. For example, we had a six weeks' institute some time ago. We had thirty leaders to take charge of thirty neighborhood meetings in their private homes throughout the six weeks. Needless to say, such an organized effort gets results.

"Next fall we will inaugurate a district messenger service. That is to say, within two hours after our Sunday School session district messengers, organized out of the boy classes, will carry a little note from the school to every member who was absent. The Sunday School will show that it is interested in every one of its members and misses him if he is not there."

John Greenwell is the superintendent of the Bethany Temple Sunday School and he has a corps of 138 teachers. Mr. Hugh Clark, who was superintendent of the Bethany Sunday School some year ago, and has since been engaged in the Moody Bible Institute in Chicago, returned to Philadelphia some months ago to accept the position of director of education in the school.

After looking over this big, religious plant and hearing about the "business organization" from Mr. Cork, I concluded that organization means no more than this: That there is a way to do everything, and when you find that way, then you are organized to do that thing. As applied to the Sunday School, I suppose it means that if the Sunday School has a real job, the organized way is the only way to go about it.

THRIFT

The lesson all the mercantile business houses and trades are trying to teach in SALISBURY this week is one of THRIFT.

In other words, that the way to thrift is in the saving of that which is already yours—maybe by an added investment to offset natural depreciation.

Now our CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP and FIX-UP story is short. That one word THRIFT tells it.

"TAKE CARE OF THAT WHICH IS YOURS"—and that applies likewise to your earnings—to your income—however it may come.

MYSTERY OF BANK STATEMENTS REVEALED FOR PUZZLED LAYMAN

Local Banker Explains Minutely The Meaning Of Various Items Comprising Statements Of Banks—Things Which Appear Intricate To The Lay Mind Are Explained Clearly And Concisely.

By CARL M. PAYNTER.

Cashier People's National Bank.

On another page of The Wicomico News this week will be found a number of statements as to the condition of the various county banks as of June 30.

It is a peculiarity of the banking business that it may have a complete report of its condition at the end of each day. A bank statement is made for the purpose of showing the condition of the bank at a given time. National banks are required by law to report to the Comptroller of the Currency at least five times a year, not at any fixed time but at the pleasure of the Comptroller.

To the layman the bank statement means nothing but a compilation of figures in which the resources equal the liabilities. A man once became afraid of the safety of his bank because the resources equalled the liabilities. He reasoned that the bank owed everything and had nothing over its debts.

Let us consider the resources in the present statements: Loans and discounts consist of promissory notes, and bills of exchange against which the banks have made advances to borrowers and include time and demand loans secured by collateral and in-dorsement.

Overdrafts: These appear in nearly all bank statements and until made good is an unpaid debt among the bank's resources.

U. S. Bonds to secure circulation: This item represents bonds owned by the bank but deposited at Washington as security for circulating notes.

Bonds, Securities: These represent investments made by the bank in gilt edge stocks and bonds.

Banking house furniture and fixtures: These show the book value of the bank's home and furniture.

Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank: Members of the Federal Reserve System are required to keep 7% of their demand deposits and 3% of their time deposits on deposit with the Federal Reserve Bank in their district.

Cash in vault and due from National Banks represent currency and coin and money due from National Banks where a reserve is maintained. The same is true of the item "due from state banks, bankers and trust companies."

Exchanges for clearing house: These represent checks of other banks which are presented each day for settlement. In Salisbury these items are "cleared" at 10:30 A. M.

Five per cent redemption fund: Every nation bank is required to keep on deposit with the United States treasury a fund equal to five per cent of its outstanding circulation.

Under the liabilities we have two kinds: To creditors and to stock holders. Capital stock, surplus, undivided profits and dividends unpaid, represent the bank's liabilities to stock holders. The item "surplus fund" is created either by cash paid in at the organization of the bank in addition to the capital paid, for which no stock is issued, or it represents profits which have accumulated and which have not been paid out in dividends. A liberal surplus enhances the credit of the bank.

"National Bank Notes outstanding" shows the actual amount of currency in circulation.

Certificates of deposit are a specialized form of deposit not subject to check and usually bear interest if left undisturbed for a certain length of time.

Certified checks: When a bank certifies a check the amount is taken from the depositor's account and placed in the certified check account and become a direct obligation of the bank.

"Cashier's checks" are checks drawn by the cashier upon his own bank in payment of expenses or other matters.

Under deposits we have two kinds—demand and time. These accounts are the bank's barometer.

"Due to national and state banks" represent money owed on account of collections against the bank.

Banks, like individuals, borrow money in periods of stringency. Money borrowed secured by note is found in bills payable. A bank also borrows money by rediscounting notes held by it; i. e., it sells its paper to another bank. These are found under Rediscounts.

In addition to the part of the statement which the public sees is another part which goes into more detail. A combined statement of all the statements of the banks in the country is compiled by the Comptroller to show the condition of the banking system of the country.

MANY WAR RISK

POLICIES IN FORCE

To date, the Bureau of War Risk Insurance has in force 295,593 policies which have been converted to United States Government life insurance, representing a commuted value of $990,052,000. It is foreseen that these figures will rapidly increase now that there is in force the new ruling of the Treasury Department that term insurance which has lapsed or has been cancelled may, regardless of how long the applicant has been out of service, be reinstated or reinstated and converted to United States Government life insurance at any time prior to January 1, 1922.

U. S. TREASURY BILLS MATURE JULY 15

Certificates Amounting to $132,886,500 Due Tomorrow—$2,468,788,000 Outstanding.

United States Treasury Certificates amounting to $132,886,500 will mature July 15. These bills are known as loan certificates, and bear interest at 5 1/2%. The New York Federal Reserve district took $49,451,500 of this issue.

At present the Government has a total of $2,468,788,000 certificates of indebtedness outstanding, of this amount $1,059,946,000 were sold in the New York district.

In addition to this short-dated debt, the Government has sold one issue of three-year notes, amounting to $311,191,600. New York's participation in that issue was $157,225,200. These three-year notes mature June 15, 1924, and may be used at that time in payment of taxes.

Of the total of $2,468,788,000 Treasury certificates now outstanding, $1,539,539,000 are tax certificates of indebtedness, and $929,249,000 so-called loan certificates.

In addition to the issue falling due July 15, there will also mature on August 15 an issue of 6% loan certificates amounting to $157,654,500, of which $57,704,500 were taken in New York.

On September 15, the date on which the third installment on account of 1920 taxes is due, there will mature $535,296,500 tax certificates, of which $267,092,000 were allotted in this district. This total represents two issues, one bearing 5 1/2%, amounting to $193,302,000, and the other 6%, amounting to $341,994,500.

The figures set forth are the totals allotted for the various issues, and they may vary in a slight degree with any Treasury compilation, as the Government from time to time, retires some of these bills. The figures, however, present a fairly accurate picture of the volume of these outstanding short-term Government bills.

Bankers regard it more than likely that the Secretary of the Treasury before long will announce another issue of certificates of indebtedness. It is expected they will be sold around July 15, when an outstanding block of bills mature.

Another issue of three-year notes is not anticipated immediately by bankers.—Wall Street Journal.

WAR ISSUES REDUCED.

Amount of Victory Loan notes outstanding June 30 was $3,913,933,350, a reduction during June of $108,183,205; Liberty bonds outstanding June 30, $15,235,403,100, a reduction during June of $36,264,208.

PUBLIC DEBT INCREASE.

Gross public debt June 30, $23,977,450,552, an increase during June of $24,708,960; net debt June 30, $23,427,772,446.

Funding Railroads Government Debt

Rumored That President Harding Favors Plan To Fund Portion of the Big Indebtedness.

(From "Barron's")

Washington advices are that President Harding and the Administration favor plan to fund a certain portion of the railroads' indebtedness of $750,000,000 to United States for government expenditures on the roads during period of federal control. The President is empowered to do this, at his discretion, under the Transportation Act.

If the government should fund in 10-year, 6% bond, say $450,000,000 of the railroads' indebtedness without offsets, it would stimulate railroad credit. Very large amounts which are now carried in railroad balance sheets as contingent assets, balanced by debt to the government as deferred liabilities, would be moved up into current assets.

The railroads would automatically be supplied with desperately needed working capital. They would be enabled to make necessary expenditures for equipment and maintenance.

PRESS COMMENT

Times says Germany may make application to float loan in this country, with idea of pledging assets of its citizens now held by Alien Property Custodian, estimated at $800,000,000. German Government said to have made canvass of its nationals, now in Germany, who own property seized by United States, and in many cases consent has already been given that this property, when released, be used as basis for loan.

U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce reports aggregate wool stocks in Great Britain of approximately 1,500,000 bales, correcting erroneous reports that British Government stocks were 1,750,000 bales in addition to 400,000 held by shippers and 1,500,000 held by other interests.

British Treasury to offer 5 1/2% Treasury bonds of indefinite amount. Proceeds to be used to pay off $300,000,000 obligations maturing this year and early in 1922 of which $282,000,000 are held by United States and Canada.

Copyright Times states Mexican Government has raised export tax on gold and silver to offset loss on revenues on oil due to stoppage of shipments at Tampico.

Copyright Herald dispatch states France is preparing to place in Germany order for 500 locomotives of latest type and 25,000 railroad cars.

French crop report as of June 1 shows average condition 11% below 1920. Acreage 137,000,000 or increase of 6%.

New gun, eight inches long and capable of driving lead bullets through 3/4-inch steel plate, demonstrated by Miller Reese Hutchinson before group of engineers. Gun has muzzle velocity of one to five miles a second, and it is claimed, can be developed to send five-ton projectile 200 to 300 miles. It is both noiseless and smokeless and can also be employed for steel riveting on land and under water.

Men in the textile trade are predicting lower prices for cotton on the theory that the Texas crop is soon to be marketed in the face of small demand on both sides of the Atlantic.

A Very Easy System

NE OF OUR PATRONS has tried several plans for keeping a record of all of his income and expense during the year—but he has found all of them a lot of trouble to keep them up-to-date.

But he has a fine system now.

The bank is keeping this record for him. He deposits all his earnings in the bank and then he writes checks for all the money he spends. Even for his pocket money he writes a check once in a while and marks it "Misc. Exp."

When he wants to know the amount of his income he looks at his Bank-book.

When he wants to find out what he is spending, he looks over his Canceled Checks. By sorting these old checks into several piles he find what he is spending for food, clothing, fuel, etc.

That plan is easy. It is safe and business-like, too.

THE FARMERS' FORUM

A column devoted to the interests of the Farmers who read The News and to the interests of their families. Communications Will be Welcomed.

LARGE ROOTS RESULT FROM PROPER THINNING

Seeds Should Be Sown Thickly and Plants Later Thinned—This Insures Greater Success.

Heat, water, sunlight and plant food in the soil are essentials that even the rawest recruit of the backyard hoe and rake squad recognizes, but it takes real courage ruthlessly to root up hardy flourishing plants and sacrifice the many for the few.

Because many of the seeds of beets, radishes, turnips, parsnips, carrots, rutabagas, onions, etc., will not germinate they should be sown very thickly, but when the plants are from 2 to 4 inches high, thin until only the fittest are left to survive every 2 or 3 inches in the row.

Proper thinning enables the plants to grow large roots, it gives the sunlight a chance to get to the base of the plants and allows for the free circulation of air necessary in warding off certain stem diseases. Thinned plants should not be thrown away, for if planted in another part of the garden will grow and give good results.

There is no more popular crop for the home garden than cabbage and it is not difficult to grow, but the cabbage maggot, who is no respecter of gardens and has a healthy appetite is likely to be camping out waiting for that tender cabbage plant which should be set out at this time if it has been properly "hardened off." Tar paper disks to fit around each plant have been recommended for use in the home garden, but for larger plantings tarred sand is more economical and fully as satisfactory. Stir together one quart of water, gas tar and a bushel of sand and distribute around the plant in such a way that the mixture will not touch the stem.

Of course you planted radishes as soon as the first warm rain soaked your soil. But have you noticed that as they appeared on the dinner table last night, they were not as young and tender as at first? Overcome this difficulty by planting only a quarter row at a time and repeating these plantings every 6 days.

Community Canning Started In The West

Live-Wire Workers Establish One In Yakima County, Wash.—4 Tons Spinach Canned In 2 Days.

There is a live farm bureau and some live-wire project leaders in Yakima County, Wash. With the help of the home demonstration agent, co-operatively employed by the State agricultural college and the United States Department of Agriculture, Mrs. Helen Wells, who is community leader of the food preservation project at Wapato, established a community canning school in her own town. The use of one of the Indian Service bunk houses was obtained and four vats were installed. A 50-gallon oil tank was converted into a canning tank by the addition of two racks, a cover, and a pressure gauge. Some old tanks were repaired and equipped with drains for washing spinach and other vegetables preparatory to canning. Bleaching equipment was also installed in the form of two small vats into which steam could be forced, and 403 cans and a sealer were purchased. With this equipment 4 tons of spinach were canned in 2 days.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Milk may be white but it helps put roses in the children's cheeks.

Good food, sunshine and fresh air are mighty fighters against disease.

The refrigerator door habitually left open makes the ice man smile satisfaction. There's a reason.

The bread box needs frequent scaldings and airings during the summer if you want to keep the bread from molding.

Have a bank account, carry life insurance, and make a will, are three good admonitions for the head of the family.

Along the middle of the summer, the white straw hats begin to look dingy. Try rubbing them with cornmeal dampened with peroxide.

With so many ways to use them and preserve them, there's no excuse for letting any of the tomatoes from the home garden go to waste.

The summer is the time, naturally, when most housewives begin to wish they had a fireless cooker. Some do not realize they can make a very good one at home. The state college will tell you how.—Maryland Farmer.

CHECK FORGER PAYS A VISIT TO SALISBURY

Suave "Gentleman" Cashes Several "Fake" Certified Checks Here.

LOCAL MERCHANTS ARE VICTIMIZED

Several Business Houses Gave "Slick" Stranger Merchandise and Cash In Return For Apparently Good Certified Slips of Paper—All Checks Later Returned As Spurious.

In the future, the unknown, untraced, "stranger within our gates" who tries to make our acquaintance through the medium of the certified-check route, especially with a check drawn on a foreign bank, undoubtedly will be given the "once over," the "third degree," the "acid test" and all the other methods well known to the gentlemen who used to proclaim "We're from Missouri; show us."

And there's a reason—a mighty good one, too.

A smooth-tongued, middle-aged "gentleman" of aristocratic bearing and crooked tendencies breezed into Salisbury several days ago, wormed his way into the confidence of several local merchants to the extent of making purchases through the means of certified checks, accepting half of the amounts in merchandise and the rest in cash, and then politely took his departure.

Today, the local merchants who were visited by the polished stranger are hot on his trail, for the checks handed out here, although apparently genuine and officially certified, have been returned, marked "fake" and "forgery." Most of the checks passed here were in small amounts ranging from $20 to $30, but their aggregate amount exceeded the $100 mark.

Sticks To Same Story.

According to one Salisbury merchant, the low-voiced stranger told the same story in each place of business visited here. He stated that he wanted to make purchases for his daughter and tendered the certified checks as payment—making sure, however, that the purchases were only about half the amount of the checks. This merchant is of the opinion that the "sleek" stranger may be working a similar game in other Eastern Shore towns, and if he is apprehended Salisbury will be a good place for him to steer clear of.

The checks were all made out in the name of the Newspaper Feature Syndicate, Albany, N. Y., signed Alfred Black, treasurer, and were made payable to J. T. Rebnan, the name the forger endorsed on the back of the checks. They were drawn on the First National Bank, Albany, N. Y., and the first intimation of the spurious character was had when the bank checked the sad news here that they were forgeries.

The alleged Mr. Rebnan is described as being about 5 feet 7 inches in height, grayish hair, about 45 years of age, appeared to weigh about 145 pounds, and at the time of his visit to Salisbury he was wearing gold-rimmed glasses. Moreover, the merchants here aver that for politeness and suavity he had the Chesterfieldian style "skun" a mile—a veritable "gentleman" with "taking" ways.

BASEBALL "FEVER" GRIPS "Y" YOUNGSTERS

Every boy who is a member of the "Y" seems gripped with the baseball fever. About 75 were at the game Monday, and the Y. M. C. A. management now feels that its work in organizing a baseball league is not in vain.

Standing of the teams:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Trinity	2	0	1.000
M. P.	1	1	.666
Asbury	2	1	.333
Presbyterian	0	2	.000

The "Y" wishes to express the appreciation due to Mr. Fulton Waller in permitting the "Y" league to use the ball park.

MIN. UNION ELECTS OFFICERS.

At a meeting of Ministerial Union held in the Young Men's Christian Association building last Wednesday, officers to serve for the ensuing six months were elected. They are: Rev. Robert A. Boyle, president; Rev. William P. Taylor, vice president, and Rev. Richard L. Shipley, secretary.

Lumber Dealers To Gather At Seashore

Joint Meeting of Two Lumber Associations Will Be Held Today At Ocean City.

There will be a joint meeting of the Basket Manufacturers and the Lumber and Box Shooks Associations at Ocean City today (Thursday). These associations will give a banquet at the Pilmhimmon Hotel and about one hundred members from Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, North Carolina and New Jersey are expected to be in attendance.

A number of Salisbury men will attend. Among those who are expected to go from here are the following: Mr. F. P. Adkins, vice president of the Lumber and Box Shooks Association; Mr. D. J. Elliott, vice president of the Basket Manufacturers Association; and Mr. Alan Benjamin, secretary of the Basket Makers Association.

BOY KILLED WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

14-Year-Old Lad Loses Life In Collision At Mardela R. R. Crossing.

ACCIDENT OCCURRED SATURDAY EVENING

All Other Occupants of the Car Escaped With Slight Bruises—Train Struck Front Part of Auto, Hurling Boy Out and Cutting Deep Gash in His Head—Dies Later in Hospital.

While attempting to cross the railroad tracks at the Mardela Springs crossing early Saturday evening, the Buick car being driven by Miss Lillian Phillips, of this city, was struck by an Ocean City train and one of the occupants, Master Thomas S. Phillips, 14 years old, of Baltimore, was thrown from the machine and received injuries from which he later died at the Peninsula General Hospital, to which institution he had been carried immediately after the fatal collision. The other occupants of the car escaped with a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

The boy had been spending two weeks in Salisbury as the guest of his uncle, Mr. John R. Phillips, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hanson S. Phillips, Jr., came here Saturday from Baltimore to take him back home. It was while on an auto trip to the grave of the boy's grandfather, Judge Hanson S. Phillips, of Mardela, that the unfortunate accident occurred. The occupants of the car besides his parents and his aunt, Miss Phillips, were his grandmother, Mrs. Cornelia Phillips, a young brother, and little Miss Margaret Wheatley.

Did Not See Train.

The automobile, it was stated, was running down grade toward the railroad crossing at the rate of about 10 miles per hour, and had just reached the crossing when the train crashed into the front of the car. The occupants of the front seat were hurled out of the car, and it is believed that the boy was thrown against a part of the engine, as he was found lying on his stomach with a deep gash in his head.

Dr. Mann, of Mardela Springs, was rushed to the scene of the accident and rendered first aid, but owing to the seriousness of the lad's wounds he was immediately hurried to the local hospital. Dr. Dick was summoned, but it was found that the boy's life could not be saved. He died about 10:30 P. M.

Miss Lillian Phillips, who was driving the car, stated that she did not see the train nor did she have any warning of its approach. When the train was seen, it was then too late to avoid the accident.

The remains of the boy were prepared for burial here and shipped to Baltimore Monday morning. Funeral services were held from his late residence in that city at 2 P. M. Tuesday and interment was made in Baltimore cemetery.

ACTS DISORDERLY; FINED.

A negro known as Sam Pete was brought before Judge Jones Monday morning on a charge of disorderly conduct in the kitchen of Mead's Cafe. Upon payment of a fine "Sam" was released.

FAINT HEART NEVER WON FAIR LADY

BOARD OF EDUCATION ACCEPTS RESIGNATIONS

Mr. Simmons To Take Snow Hill Offer Instead of Sharptown Job—Miss Veasey Leaves W. H. S.

The Board of Education for Wicomico county met here Tuesday morning and accepted the resignation of Mr. O. Perry Simmons, who was recently appointed principal of the Sharptown High School, and who resigned in order to accept the principalship of the Snow Hill High School. Mr. Simmons was formerly principal of the High School at Hurlock, and the position to which he now will go is said to carry with it an annual salary of $2,250.

The board also accepted the resignation of Miss Isabelle Veasey, who has been teaching science at Wicomico High School for the past year. It is understood that Miss Veasey has accepted a position as teacher in the Pocomoke City High School.

No action was taken by the board in appointing a principal to take the place of Mr. Simmons at Sharptown, and the principalship of Delmar High School also is yet to be filled. The board, however, is considering the names of several applicants for these jobs, and it was stated that the vacancies probably would be filled at its next meeting.

Mrs. James Taylor Claimed By Death

Passed Away Wednesday Morning, July 13—Funeral Services Conducted At Allen.

The sad death of Mrs. James Taylor, aged 33 years, occurred last Wednesday morning, July 13. Mrs. Taylor before her marriage was Miss Aurelia Carey, of Allen, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Washington Carey. She is survived by her father, Mr. Washington Carey, of Allen; four sisters, Misses Cora, Mary and Rona Carey and Mrs. Jesse Cantwell; her husband, Mr. James W. Taylor, and two children.

Funeral services were held at the Allen M. B. Church South on Friday afternoon at 3 P. M. and were conducted by Rev. Thos. R. Reeves of this city; Rev. Holland, of Allen, and the Rev. Twilley, of Allen. The pallbearers were Messrs. Roscoe Jones, of Allen; William Messick, of Salisbury; Harry Messick, of Allen; William F. Allen, of Laurel; Straughn Lloyd, of Salisbury, and Alan Benjamin, of Salisbury. The remains were interred in the Allen cemetery.

"DROWNED" BOYS WERE ENJOYING THEMSELVES

A report was circulated through town Tuesday that two small boys were drowned while swimming at the South Division street bridge. The two youngsters were in swimming and suddenly disappeared. It was thought that they were drowned, but after a search they were discovered farther up the river enjoying a quiet swim.

H. W. OWENS MAY BE NEXT POSTMASTER

Rumored That He Will Be Appointed At Once To Succeed S. King White.

MANY REPUBLICANS ARE "UP IN ARMS"

Claim That They Will Never Consent To The Appointment—Allege That It Was To Be Held Up Until Senator Jackson's Return—Infer That Something Has Been "Put Over."

It is currently reported on the streets today, Wednesday, that the successor to Postmaster S. King White is to be appointed at once and the rumor is that Assistant Postmaster H. Winter Owens is to have the appointment. It is furthermore stated that Miss Ola M. Day is to be made Mr. Owens' assistant.

The majority of the Republicans are up in arms over the appointment and it will likely result in disorganization of the party to a very large extent. Prominent members of the party who have been aspiring to this office when the proper time came, have declared they will never give their consent or approval of the appointment.

Mr. Owens has been a very acceptable and efficient Assistant Postmaster, and while belonging to a Republican family, has never been at all active in party affairs. In fact, some Republicans would prefer the appointment of Miss Day to that of Mr. Owens, owing to the activity of her father, W. M. Day, in party affairs.

When Senator William P. Jackson went abroad two weeks ago, it is said that it was clearly and positively understood that this appointment was to be held up until his return in September. He left his proxy, as National Committeeman and Chairman of the State Central Committee, of Wicomico county with Col. M. A. Humphreys. What has taken place since Senator Jackson's departure, Republicans are guessing at. Many explanations are offered. Some consider a few are wondering if Colonel Humphreys has not "put one over." At any rate, many Republicans are said to be very incensed over the whole situation.

W. J. DOWNING, JR., WEPS MISS KATHERYN H. DODD

News was received here last week of the wedding of Mr. W. J. Downing, Jr., to Miss Kathryn H. Dodd, of Millboro, Del., which took place in Philadelphia on Thursday, July 14. Mr. Downing is the son of Mr. W. J. Downing, president of the Citizens Gas Co., and both the bride and groom are graduates of the Wesley College Institute, Dover, Del.

From Philadelphia the happy couple went to Atlantic City, N. J., to spend their honeymoon.

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC NEXT TUESDAY

Trinity Methodist Church, South, will give its annual picnic to the Sunday School at Cedar Grove on the Choptank river near Cambridge on Tuesday, July 6. Conveyance will be by automobile and will start from the church at nine o'clock.

Autos Collide But Damage Is Slight

Cars of H. E. Cannon and H. S. Gordy, of Chester, Pa., in Collision Saturday Night.

The automobiles of Mr. H. E. Cannon, Division street, and Mr. H. S. Gordy, of Chester, Pa., collided at the corner of Jackson and Newton streets Saturday night, slightly damaging both cars.

According to eye-witnesses, Mr. Gordy blew his horn and swerved to the right in making the turn, but it was said that Mr. Cannon turned hard to the left directly in front of the former's car. Judge Jones imposed a fine of $5 and costs on Mr. Cannon for driving on the wrong side of the street.

NEW $30,000 HOME WILL BE BUILT BY ELKS

Committee Appointed Wednesday Night To Select Site For Building.

MEMBERS OF ORDER TO FINANCE PROJECT

Will Buy Vacant Lot and Erect Broad New Structure—Bowling Alleys, Large Banquet and Dining Room, Swimming Pool and Gymnasium Are Some of Features of Plans.

Plans now are under way for the construction of an Elks Home in Salisbury that will cost approximately $30,000, and when the new edifice is completed it will be one of the finest and most up-to-date fraternal order buildings in the State. The location for the new home has not yet been definitely settled upon, but it is stated that the site will be one right in the heart of the city, within a few blocks of the Court House.

At a big "get-together" meeting and banquet held by the local chapter of Elks in the First Regiment Armory last Wednesday night, which was attended by about 100 members of the order, plans for putting through the proposed building project were fully gone into, and the question considered from every angle.

The committee that had been previously appointed to look up sites and to make a report at Wednesday night's meeting, reported that several sites had been given consideration, but none of those reported on was found to meet with the exact requirements.

A motion was made and carried that the Salisbury Lodge purchase a vacant lot and erect thereon a home that would cost $30,000. The committee was appointed for the purpose of securing the most available site possible, and a report of its findings will be rendered at the next meeting of the order early in August.

Will Be Modern Home.

The committee appointed Wednesday night is composed of the following: Messrs. Samuel S. Feldman (chairman), L. Claude Bailey, Samuel N. Culver, H. Winter Owens and Marvin C. Evans.

In raising funds with which to erect the new home, the Elks will issue non-interest bearing second mortgage bonds of small denominations which will be subscribed for exclusively by members of the order. Provision has been made for redemption of the bonds, as funds permit, by drawing by lot. In this way, it is believed that the financing can be easily taken care of and the new home paid for within reasonable time.

The Elks have been occupying their present home on Main street for about 20 years, but membership in the order has grown to such proportions that a new home is deemed an absolute necessity, as well as a much longed-for convenience.

Although definite building arrangements have not been completed, it is said that tentative plans include a large banquet and dining room, with a steward on the premises at all times to serve meals. A dormitory section also is a possibility. Bowling alleys in the basement, a gymnasium, swimming pool, and outdoor tennis courts also are included in the tentative plans.

With a building erected of the kind that is contemplated, the new Elks Home will be, as a matter of fact, patterned along the lines of some of the larger Elks Homes in the big cities, and will be one of the show places of the City of Salisbury.

TALL CEDARS TO HOLD BIG CEREMONIAL

More Than 500 Members Will Attend Event At Federalburg Friday.

PARADE AND BALL GAME ON PROGRAM

Recently Organized Tall Cedars Team, Composed of Shore Stars, Will Play Cambridge Nine—Big Banquet At 6 P. M.—Will Be Half-Holiday in Federalburg—Ceremonial at Night.

Tall Cedars small and Tall Cedars tall from all over the Delmarvia Peninsula will gather tomorrow (Friday) at Federalburg to take part in the big ceremonial that will be conducted there during the evening hours by the Easternho Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon. More than 500 Tall Cedars are expected to be on hand for the occasion, which will be one of the biggest and greatest ceremonials that has been held this year by Easternho Forest No. 53.

To make the day a notable one in its history Federalburg has planned to make the day a half-holiday and everything will be done to make the visitors feel right at home from the very moment they arrive at her doors until the last one has departed.

The day's festivities will start at 3:30 P. M., with a baseball game between the Tall Cedars team and the Cambridge nine. The players composing the recently organized Tall Cedars diamond aggregation are all stars, playing on the various Shore teams, and every member is a Tall Cedar. By banding together such a galaxy of Tall Cedars baseball stars, the Easternho Forest team is expected to present an array of baseball talent against the Dorchester county team Friday afternoon that will make 'em open their eyes.

Big Parade a Feature.

In addition to the baseball battle, there will be a big parade to help arouse matters, and anyone who has ever seen one of the big Tall Cedars parades knows that they are "put across" with a snap and bang that strikes the spectators "just right." Many novelty features will be introduced into the Federalburg parade by those in charge of the event, and it is expected to be one of the finest affairs of its kind ever participated in by the Cedars.

At 6 P. M. there will be a splendid outdoor banquet, and all of the delectable foodstuffs for which the Eastern Shore is famous will be spread before the banqueters. Seafood fresh from the Bay, chicken a la Eastern Shore and, oh, boy! deliciously made Maryland biscuits, will help to put the "ole" appetite into "high." Everything, in fact, to appeal to the innerman, will be served.

The ceremonial will be held in the New Masonic Temple in the evening, and the place where it will be held is well adapted for the purpose. Electric fans in plenty have been installed, and no one need have any fear of suffering from the heat. The ceremonial will last until 10:30 P. M.

As one Tall Cedar said yesterday, "It is going to be a event that will long be remembered by every one attending it, for we intend making it the biggest affair held this year."

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS RECEIVE FERRY BIDS

At the meeting of the County Commissioners Tuesday, July 18, the following bids were offered for the keeping of the ferries:

Upper Ferry—Lemuel P. Taylor, $240.
White Haven Ferry—B. H. W. S. White, $695.

FATHER AND TWO SONS ARRESTED FOR FIGHTING

Officers Sullivan and Dennis of the local police force, arrested Atwood Redworth and two sons, George and William, Tuesday evening on a charge of disturbing the peace. When halted before Judge Jones, the evidence showed that the three men had been engaging in a fist fight in which the father and one son are alleged to have been exerting their physical prowess against the other son. Each of the participants was fined $5 and cost.

PROCEEDINGS OF
THE CITY COUNCIL

Committee Appointed To Report On Advisability of Buying Truck
For Street Work.

The regular meeting of the City Council took place Monday night, July 18. Those present were Mayor Kennerly, President White, Councilmen Bounds, Hitch, Serman and Melson.

Mr. Charles Williams appeared before the Council to ask for a grading to be placed on East Isabella Street for a distance of about 240 feet from Division Street to Poplar Hill Avenue. A committee composed of Messrs. Dryden, White and Mayor Kennerly was appointed to investigate and see if it was deemed advisable to contract for this work.

Mr. D. J. Elliott was notified to hold up on the building permit until further notice; a committee was appointed to investigate.

Building permits were granted as follows:

G. T. Kelly, to erect a chicken shed on the west side of South Division Street adjoining the property of John W. Serman.

Wilmer Cantwell, to erect a front porch on the north side of Broad Street on his own property.

P. G. Miccotti, to erect a garage on the east side of South Division Street, adjoining the property of J. W. Guthrie.

L. T. Cannon, to erect a front porch on the south side of Camden Avenue, adjoining the property of Dr. Potts.

The Mayor suggested the appointment of F. A. Grier, Jr., W. F. L. Bounds and John C. Melson to report on the advisability of purchasing a truck for street work. The committee was appointed according to the suggestion.

The Council paid W. F. L. Bounds $500 for the Baltimore Avenue sewer.

Legionnaires To Hold Big Barbecue

Members Local Post Invited To Attend Celebration To Be Held In Easton August 20.

Plans have been arranged by Talbot Post No. 70, American Legion, of Easton, for holding a barbecue picnic and street dance in Easton on August 20 for benefit of the post funds, and many members of the local post, Wicomico Post No. 64, as well as members from other Eastern Shore posts, are expected to attend and help make the affair a big, rousing success.

According to Mr. E. G. Kastenhuber, Jr., post adjutant of the Easton Chapter, it is the desire of the Talbot Legionnaires to make this a big day for American Legion men all over the Shore. The funds raised in this manner will be applied toward establishing a good building for a Post home.

MARDELA LAWN PARTY.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church will hold a lawn party on the church lawn Saturday evening, July 23. The Marдела Concert Band will furnish some music of the latest variety. Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be for sale.

Come to the church at the hour of eight. On July 23, remember the date; There'll be an evening of music and song. That will cheer your heart the whole year long.

Final July Clearance of Fancy Voiles

Now we come to the final clearance of these desirable summer fabrics. We have sold thousands of yards of these materials this summer and now we are going to clear away the remainder at unusually low prices.

Many good patterns are in the assortment, which has been divided into two lots at only two prices. No matter what their former prices were, $1.50, $1.00, 85c, 75c they go into the first lot; while the second group consists of voiles that sold at 40c, 50c, 65c, 70c.

These voiles go on sale as this paper appears, today. No strings are attached to the sale—Phone, Mail or C. O. D. orders will be filled with the utmost care—samples will be gladly sent upon request, but in making a choice from samples, three selections should be made, first, second and third choice as the importance of this sale will be great and patterns are sure to be closed out while samples are in transit.

At Forty Seven Cents the Yard 47c

WE WILL SELL ALL THE VOILES IN THE FIRST GROUP, CONSISTING OF VOILES THAT SOLD AT 75c, 85c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.35, $1.50.

SHARPTOWN

The body of Capt. Roy Bennett, who died while writing a letter on his barge while at sea, and which was taken to New Haven, Conn., on Thursday of last week, was brought here Saturday night and funeral services were held in the M. E. Church by Rev. H. S. Dulany, assisted by Rev. George R. Donaldson, of this town, and Dr. B. G. Parker, of Maryland. After the funeral services the remains were taken to Maryland Springs for interment. He leaves a widow and one boy, eleven years old. He also leaves two brothers, Crawford Bennett and Levator Bennett, of Maryland. He was thirty-eight years old.

Captain William Riggan, of Bethel, Del., father of Captain William Riggan, of this town, died on Friday night of last week at the age of 74. He was very afflicted, having been confined to his home 14 years and to his bed seven of these. Fifteen years ago he came to this town and engaged L. T. Cooper to preach his funeral and on Saturday the family notified Mr. Cooper of Captain Riggan's death and many years ago he gave notice to his family that Mr. Cooper had agreed to comply with his request and to notify him when he died. On Sunday afternoon in Bethel Church, Mr. Cooper preached the funeral to a large number of friends. The deceased was a member of the I. O. O. F. and the I. O. R. M., both of which took part in the burial service. Captain Riggan was converted at sea when a young man and was very religious. He frequently preached on the streets in towns and cities. He was a sailor from youth up until forced by declining health to retire. He leaves a widow, three sons, William, Leonard and Warren, and one daughter, Miss Laury; also two brothers, Robert and Thomas.

Mrs. Eliza Cordrey, of Camden, N. J., returned home Monday after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. Kate Mooney.

Mrs. Julia Leberwitz, of Baltimore, is spending some time with her brothers, James and Charles Mooney. This is the second time she has been here since she moved away 33 years ago.

Mrs. Julia Wright, who has been visiting her son, Roy, in Philadelphia, returned home a few days ago.

The Messes Jackson of Maryland, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Willing.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar W. Robinson and family are spending the summer with her father at Palmira, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Loftland, of High Point, N. C., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Hastings.

Victor C. Hitchen, of Hitchen & Phillips, who resides in Laurel, Del., the firm doing business here and at Laurel, is here aiding Mr. W. E. Hastings, who conducts the business here, in a ten days' clearance sale.

A COMMENDABLE CAMPAIGN.

The big volume of advertising being done just at present by the National City Bank of New York, one of the strongest financial institutions in the United States, in order to thoroughly acquaint the layman with the facts regarding banking and banking methods and to show him just what service a bank renders to the whole community it serves, is another example of the progressive-ness of an institution whose capital, surplus and undivided profits exceed $100,000,000.

Many other financial institutions throughout the country have been quick to realize the value of such advertising and have followed the example of their larger brother by reproducing the "ads" in toto, and in this manner bring them to the attention of a great part of their own particular public that might not otherwise get an opportunity to see them.

The Farmers and Merchants Bank, of Salisbury, has been performing such a service right in our midst by bringing these hyper-excellent "ads" to the attention of the people of this community, and those who are interested in learning just what functions a bank performs, how they are the founts which keep the wheels of progress freshened and moving, will do well to carefully peruse them.

It has not been so many years ago when almost everything pertaining to a bank and its methods of doing business were considered in almost the same light that the unscientific mind views the passage of the earth through the tail of a comet. It was considered something mysterious; how it functioned and the exact nature of the public service that it rendered were merely integral parts of the mystery as a whole. The average layman knows that if he has money deposited in a bank, he can step up to the paying teller's window, hand in a slip of paper bearing his signature and receive therefor a certain sum of money equivalent to the amount written on his check. But how many persons have taken the trouble of finding out everything they possibly can about banking and in clearing up in their own minds, at least, about any supposedly mysterious functions that they imagine to be attendant.

Bankers all over the country are more than anxious that the public should know more than it actually does about the service the country's financial institutions render, and it reflects great credit upon the officials of those banks who have taken the initiative to acquaint them with every detail in the most comprehensive manner possible—in a way that will leave no room for seeming mystery. The campaign of enlightenment should be productive of much good, and should result in bringing the banks and the public into even closer and more harmonious relations than ever before.

MR. FORD MAKES AN OFFER.

So much has been heard during the past few months about the supposedly dire failure of the government's nitrate plant venture at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, that Henry Ford's recent offer to lease the plant from the government, upon seemingly reasonable terms, has sort of opened the eyes of the people to the fact that this Muscle Shoals proposition may not be such a fiasco after all.

Mr. Ford has made a proposal to the United States Government that he be given a lease for 100 years on the dams built for improvement of navigation on the Tennessee River, and of the electric installation when completed, for which he will pay an annual rental of $1,500,000. For the plant and equipment, he makes an offer of $5,000,000. In addition, Mr. Ford binds himself to supply the Government with nitrates for explosives and will give guarantees to that effect.

What is most interesting to every farmer is the fact that Mr. Ford, in the event of the Government accepting his offer, will utilize the plant in making nitrates for fertilizers, as well as selling electric power to the Southern cities, and that he has agreed to limit the return on his investment to an annual dividend of 8 per cent. He has, in fact, declared that if given the right to operate the Muscle Shoals plant, he will be able to help the farmer greatly by lowering the cost of fertilizers. With a plant operated on the scale that he contemplates operating, this country would be entirely independent of Chile as a nitrate source.

In view of the fact that Secretary Weeks announced three months ago that if any industrial organization would guarantee the Government a fair return upon its investment at Muscle Shoals he would recommend that the necessary appropriation would be made to complete the plant, it will be interesting to see just how Mr. Ford's offer will be received by the Government.

The Government already has expended a sum that is said to total $70,000,000 on the Muscle Shoals plant and in February, this year, the House refused by a close vote to accept the Senate appropriation of $10,000,000 for additional work at the plant. At the time of this refusal of the House to pass the necessary appropriation to carry forward the work, the charge was openly made that selfish interests were lobbying to prevent the Government continuing work at Muscle Shoals. Since Mr. Ford's offer has been tendered, there has been another aspect put to the situation.

The American people at least know that much of the apparent buncombe spread broadcast as to the impracticability of the Muscle Shoals project undoubtedly should be taken with a grain of salt. No business man and manufacturer of Mr. Ford's wide experience would make such an offer unless the proposition had all the earmarks of success. If selfish interests really have been and are at work to belittle the project in their efforts to "grab it off," it looks like Mr. Ford by making his offer has thrown a monkey wrench into their machinery.

MR. EDWARD T. TUBBS.

In the death of Mr. Edward T. Tubbs, which occurred suddenly in Baltimore last Thursday, the Eastern Shore has lost one of its most conspicuous figures—a man who loved the Shore with every fibre of his being and one who was always eager to sound its praises at all times and upon all occasions. Although living in Baltimore at the time of his death, Mr. Tubbs, at heart, ever remained loyal to the place of his birth, his beloved Eastern Shore.

He knew its people from Cecil to Somerset with a sympathetic understanding that few men possessed. He lived and breathed the very spirit that radiates the Shore, and we feel that the section of Maryland on the East side of the Chesapeake has indeed lost a valuable, true friend and brother.

Mr. Tubbs entered the journalistic field thirty-five years ago, on the Denton Journal, and during the past eight years he was State Editor of The Baltimore News. Owing to his remarkable memory, his wide acquaintanceship throughout the whole of Maryland, and his wonderful grasp of all matters of historical or political interest as relating to his native State, he was a veritable fund of information. In fact, we have time and time again seen young reporters close their encyclopedias in disgust because they failed to find the desired information, and then, upon putting the matter up to Mr. Tubbs, he promptly given the exact data wanted.

He always was the "court of last resort" when the reporters wanted to clear up some details regarding happenings in Maryland's history, and the vast fund of facts which he kept tucked away in his memory's storehouse helped to make him a most valuable member of the Maryland Historical Society. Mr. Tubbs knew more about the politics of the counties than many of the State political leaders, and in each county of the State he had friends by the score. These friends will miss his memory and always feel proud that they were fortunate enough to have known him and to have possessed his friendship.

Uncle John's Poem

HERE'S TO SUCCESS.

We carry a smile for the winner, and rush for the shake of his hand, no matter if saint or a sinner, he captures the fruits of the land. . . . We pay our respects to the Baron, who stands on the peak of renown, but we give our regards mighty sparin' to the lone-hearted feller that's down. . . .

We flock whar the diamonds are gleamin' and worship the spirit of gold. . . . Let fools waste their effort in dreamin' of them that's left out in the cold. . . . Let's bask in the magnate's approval, and shun the cheap trash of the town, whose presence suggests their removal,—away with the rabble that's down!

I never could quite understand it, but I'm just as guilty as you. . . . The High-n'ckers hardly demand it—to smear it as thick as we do. . . . Sometimes, when we bask in their sunshine, they could freeze us to death with a frown,—but we wouldn't be courtin' no danger, to smile with the brother that's down.

Yours truly,
Uncle John.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION BIG EVENT

Four Salisbury Ladies Attend Meeting in New York—W. J. Bryan One of the Speakers.

The News invites letters on any and all subjects of general interest which will be published if possible in this column. All communications must be signed, though a signature will not be published unless the writer so desires. Anonymous queries will not be considered. Manuscripts will be returned if practicable. While judging all correspondence on its merits from the viewpoint of good ethics of journalism, the News declines responsibility for any statement made herein incompatible with its policies and good judgment.

To the Editor:—

I noticed an editorial (The Soldiers' Bonus Bill) in your issue of July 14. In this editorial you seem to favor a just compensation some time. If some time, why not now? Can the compensation ever be adjusted without saddling the country with a large debt? If given the same amount of compensation will this debt not be as large twenty years from today as it would today? If the ex-servicemen want an education, does he want to struggle along for the next twenty years or does he want it to help him make a living, during that period? If he wants a home, does he want it now or wait until he is dead when he won't need it? If the ex-servicemen want that obligation now, should he not have interest on the obligation while he is waiting the same as he will have to pay interest if he borrows the money with which to build a home or secure an education? Won't the Government be able to borrow the money at a lower rate of interest than the ex-servicemen? If the Government should pay the amount now due and add on the interest which he will have to pay while he waits, won't it cost more to wait than to do it now? If the Government does not pay this debt, it will be building far with the veterans?

Sherman said "The only way to resume is to resume." Is there any way to pay this obligation but to pay it? WHY NOT NOW?

Yours truly, JOHN T. MORRIS.

Married 57 Years, Seeking Divorce.

Portland, Ind. After living with her husband 57 years, Mrs. Edith May, of this city, filed suit for divorce from Charles E. May. The complaint, how, although entered October 26, 1863, and lived together until May 1921. Mrs. May charges that her husband has not provided for her for some time, although able to do so, and that he has been with her such that she cannot live with him. She asks for an absolute divorce.

The sessions were held at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory from Wednesday, July 6, until Monday, July 11, with overflow meetings in the Marble Collegiate, Brick Presbyterian, Madison Avenue Baptist, First Moravian, and many other churches.

In the course of the sessions, sixty evangelistic teams, recruited from the young delegates, held noon meetings in wide and varied sections of the city. The largest of these, upon the Sub-Treasury steps in Wall Street, with the music led by Homer Rodchaver and his trombone, with John M. Neil and John Pollock speaking, drew thousands.

On Saturday afternoon the Endeavorers paraded up historic Fifth Avenue, twelve thousand in line, practically every marcher in costume, with a series of more than a dozen floats picturing the principles of Christian Endeavor. Federal Commissioner of Immigration, Frederick A. Wallis, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, led the parade. William Jennings Bryan and Doctor and Mrs. Francis E. Clark rode at the head of the procession in an automobile. All the United Society officers and local Committee Chairmen were in line. The New York Tribune admitted the parade to be the most picturesque and orderly parade ever known in a city famous for its parades.

A motion picture camera man in a police tower ran out of him and expressed his disgust profanely. "Would a ever thought I'd be good?"

Pacantry and the edicts of many lands marked practically every session. A report of the Junior World's Convention enabled more than six hundred registrants in addition to the fourteen thousand registered delegates to the main convention. The kiddies conducted their own sessions, then presented a dramatic pageant at the Armory.

The Missionary Committee filled the Armory Theatre with an exhibition in which twenty-five denominational boards co-operated. A Missionary pageant on Sunday afternoon brought the messages of the foreign countries, of which not one in the world today is without Christian Endeavor. On Thursday evening a Missionary Tea was held in Chinatown and more than a thousand Endeavorers were the guests of New York City Chinese Endeavor societies.

An Alumni Banquet was held at the Hotel Majestic with fourteen hundred at table. Two State Conventions were held in Fifth Avenue churches, each with a thousand Endeavorers in attendance. Three simultaneous Quiet Hour Sessions started each morning's session, led by such outstanding figures as Dr. David J. Burrell, Dr. William Hiram Foulkes, and Dr. E. L. Reiner.

In the second period of each morning more than twenty leadership training courses were conducted on various departments of Endeavor and church work. On one morning these conferences were upon the work of the various denominations, of which thirty-five were represented.

The convention speakers included William Jennings Bryan, Frederick A. Wallis, Fred R. Smith, A. E. Cory, Floyd W. Tompkins, S. D. Gordon, Robert E. Speer, Roger Babson, Ira Landrith, Francis E. Clark and scores of others. At the Sunday evening decision service one hundred and five Endeavorers made definite declaration of intention to enter full time Christian service.

Miss Minnie Wimbrow, Mrs. James Lank, Mrs. Alice Adkins and Miss Carrie Adkins, of Salisbury, were the only representatives from the Eastern Shore at the big convention. In all, Maryland had 145 delegates.

LYRICAL LINES FROM THE "LI-NO-TYPER"

I've read somewhere that power of will will make you well or make you ill. And that it is your frame of mind determines what in life you find.

And all that stuff about the smile, That smooths life's ruts as with a file,

No doubt is true, but you'll agree It takes a lot of energy To make you think you're feeling fine When, as a fact, you can't define Just how you're staying on this sphere When your derails seems almost here.

When dawn and you with rosy hue Arise and take an interest new In all the things that make up life, Then can't you cut as with a knife, The tangled skeins you daily meet, Obstacles & rumble 'neath your feet.

When feeling good there's joy in work No task you meet you wish to shirk, 'Tis sad to tell how oft you feel That you are bound unto a wheel That slowly turns and turning finds Your weak spots as it slowly grinds.

Yea! blest, indeed the cheerful guy, Who laughing makes his troubles fly, The optimist, a fitting name, How good 'twould be were we the same.

To The Skeptical Motorist:

DO you think for a moment that the Baltimore Agents for the well-known cars and trucks listed below would be using exclusively and recommending the use of AMOCO-GAS unless they were positive that AMOCO-GAS was better than any other fuel?

THEY have tested it under all sorts and varieties of conditions and they have been convinced that AMOCO-GAS not only actually prevents wear and tear on the motor but gives greater power, extra mileage, etc., as well.

DON'T you think it is worth a trial?

FAST GAME SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

Strong Crisfield Nine Will Play At Gordy Park This Afternoon (Thursday).

FIRST MEETING OF TEAMS THIS SEASON

Somerset Countians Have Banded Together Crack Team This Year—Murphy, Their Pitching Ace, Will Probably Toe The Mound—Salisbury Team Ready For The Fray.

The game scheduled for this afternoon (Thursday) at Gordy Park between Salisbury and the nine sporting the Crisfield colors should be one of the best games of ball played so far this season. Crisfield has one of the best teams this year that has represented the lower Somerset county town for many years and it is safe to say that the one game on their schedule that they are anxious to dangle at their victory-belt is that on the program for today.

In Murphy, who will probably start in the box for Crisfield against Salisbury, the Crisfieldians have a twirler who has been doing some fine mound-work this year. In nearly every game in which he has participated, he has displayed excellent prowess, his average strike-outs for each game running into the teens. Dittmar, who plays shortstop for the Crisfield team, too, is said to be one of the best short fielders in the state, and it will be interesting to see whether Murphy's prowess in the box will keep our batters from shootin' 'em past Dittmar at a fast clip or whether Murphy will be able to hold them in check as easily as he has done with some of the other strong Shore teams.

Crisfield Has Fast Team.

Aside from Murphy and Dittmar, Crisfield is said to have an excellently balanced team and one that is capable of working at high speed. Its shut-out victory of the crack Parkley aggregation recently was a noteworthy achievement, while its 4 to 0 victory over Preston, a team that took our boys in camp Monday, and its 7 to 2 victory Tuesday over the fast Newark aggregation are games that speak for themselves. Rothrock, the Delaware College twirler, who joined the local team on Monday and who pitched his first game for Salisbury Tuesday against East New Market, will probably start in the box for Salisbury against Crisfield. Hayes is suffering from a sore arm and Jones, too, is said to be still suffering from the effects of the injury he received in the 16-inning game against Newark. However, despite these setbacks, Salisbury will present a strong line-up against the Somerset countians today, and the fray should result in a sparkling contest.

OBITUARY

Charles H. Taylor died on Tuesday at his home, 208 First street, of heart trouble, aged 58 years. He is survived by his widow and two children, Charles E. Taylor and Mrs. Robert B. Rayll, and a sister, Mrs. Nora E. Insley. He was a member of the Independent Order of Mechanics and Owis. Funeral services were held at Fruitland on Wednesday.

Mr. Robert Porter, of Tyaskin, passed away after a lingering illness of several years. He was a devoted husband, a loving father and bore his afflictions with patience and fortitude.

Mrs. Sallis A. Hearne, aged 72 years, of Locust street, died Friday, July 15. The funeral services were held at the Baptist Church on Sunday and the remains were interred in Parsons cemetery.

LOCAL CIGAR PLANT TO RESUME OPERATIONS

That better times have already come is evidenced by the fact that plants which have been closed for weeks and months are being reopened with full working forces. Tangible proof of the return to improved business conditions is not lacking in Salisbury. The American Cigar Factory on West Lake street, which has been shut down for some time, has begun preparations for starting work again. Some time will be necessary for getting in equipment, stock, etc., but the plant will probably be running full blast within the next two months.

SALISBURY DEFEATS NEWARK TEAM, 3 TO 0

Biggest Crowd of Season Attended Thursday's Game—Both Pitchers Twirl Splendidly.

Salisbury won its third consecutive game last Thursday afternoon at Gordy Park when the local team laid low the diamond artists from Newark, 3 to 0. The game was played in the presence of the biggest crowd of the season, the appetite of the fans for that particular game having been whetted considerably by the 16-inning tie game previously played by the two aggregations. It also was one of the fastest played games ever reeled off in this section, it requiring only one hour and twenty minutes of actual playing time to determine the winner.

The locals started right off in the first inning by amassing a couple of tallies. With the top of Newark's batting list going out in one-two-three order in the opening frame, Salisbury started its half auspiciously. Wright was presented a free trip to first. Underwood struck out and McNiff whaled the ball against the center field fence for a double. Carroll, Newark's left fielder, in attempting to cut off Wright at third, uncorked a wild throw that permitted Wright to register the first run and also allowed McNiff to perch safely on third, from which position he easily scored when Wolfe poled out a long sacrifice fly to right field. The third out was made by Collins, who made a beautiful one-hand catch of Voelcker's hard smash to the left garden.

Salisbury's third and final marker was made in the sixth when Underwood reached first through Mason's error. McNiff hit a roller toward Mason who elected to toss out Underwood at second. McNiff stole second and Wolfe responded by knocking the ball over the short left field wall for a double, scoring McNiff.

Hayes and Bradford both pitched corking good games, each pitcher permitting only three hits. The score:

Tie Game Played With Princess Anne

Salisbury and Somerset County Team Battle 12 Innings, Game Ending With Score 5-5.

The fourth extra-inning game played by the Salisbury baseball team within a week's time was staged last Friday afternoon when the local ball tossers journeyed to Princess Anne and engaged in a 12-inning affair with the Somerset county nine, the fray being brought to a close on account of darkness with the score standing 5 to 5.

Friday's battle was a see-saw contest during the early part of the game. After Salisbury had made the count 5-all in its half of the seventh session, the opposing pitchers held the batters safely in check. August, who pitched the first six innings for the local team, was hit pretty freely by the Princess Anne batters, but Jones, who toed the mound when the Somerset countians stepped up for their half of the seventh frame, put a crimp in their batting aspirations.

In the eighth and ninth innings, out of the eight men who faced Jones, six were strike-out victims while the other two got to first via the "free pass" and hit-by-pitched-ball routes. During the five innings that he twirled, Jones made nine Princess Anne batters fan the ozone. Hummer, for Princess Anne, also pitched nice ball, having twelve strike outs to his credit.

A fine running catch by Bounds, who played left field for Princess Anne, a one-handed catch by Loomis and the spearing of a hot line drive just off the ground by McNiff were some of the features of the game.

BRIDGEVILLE LOSES TO SALISBURY, 15 TO 0

The Salisbury team had a walk-away in its game with the Bridgeville, Del., nine last Saturday, the locals administering a 15 to 0 shut-out to the Delawareans. Salisbury got off to a good start in the very first inning by piling up a comfortable lead, and thereafter it was merely a question of how large the score would be.

East Newmarket Again Beats Locals

Dorchester County Nine Trims Salisbury 3 to 1—Clayton Permits Only A Couple of Hits.

East Newmarket won its second victory of the season over the local team when it annexed Tuesday afternoon's encounter, 3 to 1, in a game that was replete with good baseball from start to finish. Clayton, the East Newmarket hurler, uncorked a brand of box-goods that was a little too much for the local boys, Wolfe and Ward being the only two locals to connect safely against Clayton's slants. Rothrock, who made his debut in the box for Salisbury Tuesday, twirled good ball, permitting his opponents only six hits.

ARE PIRATES AGAIN PLYING THEIR TRADE?

Disappearance Of Several Ships Without A Trace Is Regarded As Significant.

"CARROLL DEERING" CASE DEEPENS THE MYSTERY

State Department, However, Strongly Suspects That Crew of Abandoned Schooner Met With Foul Play—Other Ships Have Sailed From Port Recently and Vanished.

The names of three other vessels which have disappeared off the Atlantic coast of the United States in mysterious circumstances have been added by the Department of Commerce to the list of those whose failure to appear is attributed by the Government to circumstances more or less related to the supposed kidnapping of the crew of the American schooner Carroll A. Deering off Diamond Shoals, North Carolina, last January. It is not asserted that all the missing vessels were the victims of pirates or possibly Bolshevik sympathizers intending to dispose of ships and cargoes to the Government of Soviet Russia, but the fact that all three vessels disappeared at about the same time and that none of them left a trace is considered significant.

Four of the missing ships disappeared off the Southern Atlantic Coast in February. Three of them sailed from Norfolk about the same time. Ordinarily ships that disappear leave some trace either in the way of boats, wreckage or dead bodies, but it is said that none of the ships added to the list left any trace whatever. They were sunk "spurio venetico," as the Germans expressed the effort of their submarines to leave no tell-tale vestige of merchant vessels they sent to the bottom.

More Ships Vanish.

Two of the vessels whose disappearance has made the Government authorities suspicious since they learned recently of the kidnapping of the Deering's crew off Diamond Shoals in January are the Spanish steamer Yute and the Russian bark Albyan. The Yute sailed from Baltimore for Dunkirk on November 14, 1920. On November 17 she was heard calling for help and gave her position as about 240 miles off the New Jersey coast. Government vessels and other ships put out to her assistance, but were never able to get any trace of her.

The Albyan sailed from Norfolk for Gothenburg on Oct. 1. She has never been heard from, and not the slightest trace of any wreckage from her has been found.

These were the ships that disappeared in February:

The Italian steamer Monte San Michele, from New York, February 2, for Gibraltar.

The Brazilian steamer Cabedello, from Norfolk, Feb. 4, for Oran.

The British steamer Esperanza de Larrinaga from Norfolk, Feb. 3, for Reggio.

The British tank steamer Ottawa, stopped at Norfolk and sailed thence from Port Lobos for Manchester; Feb. 2; was in wireless communication on Feb. 6, with the steamer Dorlington Court and since then has never been heard from.

In making known the circumstances of the disappearance of the crew of the Deering, Government officials said that the American steamer Hewitt had disappeared in mysterious circumstances in January, and that two other vessels had also disappeared in a way to excite suspicion.

Further details concerning the Howitt have been obtained. She sailed from Sabine Pass, Texas, on Jan. 20 and soon after was sighted and spoken about 250 miles north of Jupiter Inlet, Fla. That was the last heard of her. For some reason the Department of Commerce officials were unable to identify the two other vessels whose disappearance excited suspicion. It is probable that they are included in the list recently obtained and given in this dispatch.

Supposed Deering Message.

The State Department has issued a statement concerning the information it had regarding the disappearance of the Deering. The statement failed to say that the department had instructed consular officials of the United States at port in various parts of the world to keep a look out for the Deering's missing crew and a mysterious vessel on which they were supposed to have been made prisoner. Officials admitted, however, that such instructions had been sent.

The department's official statement gives the correct text of the message supposed to have been put in a bottle and thrown overboard by the mate of the Deering. The supposed text of the message is not the same as that furnished to the State Department.

The department's official statement says in this connection:

"On April 11, 1921, the following message was picked up in a bottle near Cape Hatteras:

"Deering captured by oil-burning boat something like chaser, taking off everything, handcuffing crew. Crew hiding all over ship. No chance to make escape. Fender please notify headquarters of Deering."

The department's statement threw suspicion on the conduct of a steamer which passed the Cape Lookout Lightship soon after the Deering did so and refused to pay any attention to signals from the lightship which desired it to take a message for forwarding. The name of the steamer was not ascertained.

Suspicion of Foul Play.

The text of the State Department's statement, with the exception of that part relating to the message found in the bottle, reads:

"The Department of State is in possession of the following information concerning the disappearance of the crew of the American schooner Carroll A. Deering:

"On Jan. 29, 1921, the American schooner Carroll A. Deering, sailing at the rate of about five miles per hour, passed Cape Lookout lightship, North Carolina, and on Jan. 31, 1921, it was found a few miles north of that point in such condition that there is every suspicion of foul play having occurred. The vessel cleared for Norfolk, Va., from Rio de Janeiro and put into Barbados for orders, but receiving no different orders, proceeded on its voyage to Norfolk. After passing Cape Lookout lightship, the vessel was not again seen until it was found as a wreck, and nothing has been heard from the members of the crew.

ONLY A NOISY NUISANCE

FARM ITEMS AS VIEWED THRU THE TELESCOPE OF COUNTY AGENT COBB

By George R. Cobb.

We are receiving many inquiries regarding the "wool-to-blanket" movement that was started last year. The grower or sheep raiser, by having the wool made into bed blankets or auto robes, can get 55 cents per pound for the wool after the blankets are sold. These blankets are of very high quality and can be sold for $11.25 for a double bed blanket and $8.75 for the auto or carriage robe. This movement was started last year and is being continued. Further information is ready for any person who asks for it. So any persons having wool for sale or any one wishing to buy these blankets should get further details.

It looks to us as though many of our farmers are losing some money by neglecting to preserve some eggs, while they are low in price so that they may be able to sell more when the price is high. We have put eggs down in water glass in July and have used the last one the next July with all of them keeping in good condition. Our "better-half" rather prefers preserved eggs for some of her baking stunts as she says the whites whip up better.

Water glass is a sirupy fluid known very widely as a great egg preserver; this can be bought at almost any drug store. Simply add one part of water glass to nine parts of water that has been boiled and allowed to cool. Place solution in an earthen or wooden vessel and put in eggs as you get them. Always keep the solution one inch above the eggs and keep in cool place.

The following notes were taken from tests carried on in Missouri but are just as adaptable to Wicomico county as to Missouri:

To Make Hogs Gain Faster.

Fattening hogs gained as follows in Missouri tests:

23% faster on a ration of corn and middlings than on corn.

32% faster on a ration of corn and linseed oil meal than on corn alone.

32.6% faster on a ration of corn and tankage than on corn alone.

38.5% faster on a ration of corn and soybeans than on corn alone.

17.6% faster on a ration of corn and oilmeal than on corn alone.

7.4% faster when self fed than when hand fed the same ration.

Self fed hogs require no more feed to produce a given amount of grain than when hand fed. When each feed is placed in a separate "self-feeder" the hogs will choose the different feeds, so that the gain will be both rapid and economical. The saving of grain resulting from the use of pasture crops is from twenty to fifty per cent.

The kind of forage crops best adapted for hog pastures is illustrated as follows:

Blue grass produced 321.6 pounds of pork per acre.

Clover produced 567.7 pounds of pork per acre.

Rape and oat forage produced 354.1 pounds of pork per acre.

Rape, oats and clover forage produced 414.6 pounds of pork per acre.

Sorgum forage produced 275 pounds of pork per acre.

Cowpea forage produced 212.7 pounds of pork per acre.

Soybean forage produced 117.6 pounds of pork per acre. Rye grain forage produced 211.7 pounds of pork per acre.

The Maryland Experiment Station have issued two Bulletins that should interest us all. Bulletin No. 242 is on the Comparative Value of Different Forms of Lime and Bulletin No. 237 is on "Variety Tests of Corn, Wheat and Soy Beans." Any person in the county can secure a copy of these by writing direct to the Station at College Park or by letting us know.

Soybeans were first grown at the Maryland Station in 1888. To date the leading varieties are Virginia, Wilson, Pekin, Haberlandt and Patuxent.

M. S. Pryor has received some "pure bred" sweet potato plants from the Department of Agriculture and if they turn out well he intends to build up a pure bred strain of sweets. Tests, experiments and intentions like this are what we need and we want more of them.

They tell us that "at least two-thirds of the farm land in Maryland must have an application of lime before maximum crops can be produced. If your soil has not been tested for lime recently just send us a sample, about half a pint, and we will test it. No charge attached to this as it is part of the service that any one in Wicomico County is entitled to.

In the lime tests at college they found that at College Park shell marl lime gave better yields of wheat and hay than did burned lime, burned oyster shell and pulverized shell. At Branchville Field pulverized raw oyster shell returned $78.43; burned oyster shell $73.85; pulverized raw limestone $77.80; and burned limestone $77.05.

Some of our trials with mixtures to kill worms, etc., are working out fine. James Parker told us recently that the spraying he did sure did the work. Spraying with the proper material is good crop insurance.

Thought we would call Ralph Grier's "bluff," so went out to see the 5-acre irrigation plant that he is installing. Got out to the farm and saw 60 gallons of water falling on the ground every minute. Enough water for one inch of rainfall every 6 hours.

Don't jump into this irrigation scheme but study and think it over carefully. If you think it will help get in touch with Mr. Grier, tell him what you want and let him help you out. No; we are not getting any "rake off" on his business, but as he is the only man doing this work that we know of, we naturally refer all inquiries to him.

Inspected some fields of potatoes, soybeans, etc., down in Worcester county with County Agent Oswald. We believe that we learn things in trips to adjoining counties. We got a great deal of information from strawberry experiments that Paul Gunby, of Marion, is carrying on at his farm. It might be a good idea for the Wicomico farmers to have an annual trip to the neighboring counties.

"WETS" ARE PLAYED FOR THEIR PARADES

W.C.T.U. Leaders Declare Fourth Of July "Wet" Demonstrations Desecrations Of Day.

(Contributed by the W.C.T.U.)

It seems almost a desecration of our Independence Day that the wet interests of New York City and Baltimore should attempt to demonstrate to the world their idea of freedom by parading the streets of those large cities in defiance of Prohibition and against the Constitution of the United States.

'Tis true there are legions opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, but that makes it no less a law, and whether they like it or not, it is treason to attempt to violate it by trying to arouse sympathy among the class of people who are least capable of judging as to what constitutes law and order.

Such a thing has been attempted, as we know that almost the entire class of immigrants who are pouring in our country believe in non-prohibition. It is this class of people who were in the majority in the wet parade which marched the streets of our largest city. Shame on those of our countrymen who thus take advantage of the ignorance of those who come amongst us, and who should be taught respect for our laws and allegiance to our flag! What will become of our country when people like these are encouraged to defy law and order?

Where do they expect it to end? If we do not respect the laws, are we not treading the same paths of those countries that have recently gone to their downfall? I have never yet seen a convincing argument advanced by the foes of Prohibition. The old "Personal Liberty" phrase is frayed and worn, and all I have ever been able to see in it as an argument, is the right of a man to spend his substance for his own selfish indulgence, and his wife and family to be deprived many a time of living necessities.

Ask the sane, intelligent wives and mothers of our land and they will give you a definition of "Personal Liberty" far different from the howl of those who are eternally crying, "Give us booze," no matter who suffers.

Intemperance is slavery and should we not rejoice to have the bondage removed? We must get busy and keep John Barleycorn "moudering in the grave, as we go marchin' on." It is expected of the women of the country to stand as a unit in this great battle and shall we not come up to what is expected of us?

As long as political candidates loom up who are hostile to the cause so long is there danger of our law being attacked.

So, let us test out the candidates who are to be chosen, that is our privilege under the franchise, and we must see that our law makers shall not become law-breakers.

DIVORCE GRANTED.

E. T. TUBBS, VETERAN JOURNALIST, DEAD

Active Many Years in Newspaper Work on Shore—Former Secretary To Hon. Thomas A. Smith.

Edward Thomas Tubbs, for eight years State editor of the Baltimore News, and whose newspaper work covered a period of 35 years, died last Thursday in University Hospital, Baltimore.

Mr. Tubbs was 53 years old and was the son of David Hall Tubbs and the late Mrs. Lavinia Kenny Tubbs, of Denton. He resided for many years in Caroline county and was at one time a member of the staff of the Denton Journal, being associated there with Howard Melvin, the editor.

Congressman Thomas A. Smith, representing the Eastern Shore, appointed him private secretary, and while serving in Washington in this capacity Mr. Tubbs wrote many speeches and drafted bills for Maryland Representatives.

The veteran newspaper man was a member of the Eastern Shore Society and the Maryland Historical Society, and his death came as a great shock to members of those organizations as well as to his newspaper associates and friends.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from Christ Protestant Episcopal Church of Denton, with Rev. Harris B. Thomas, rector, officiating. Burial was in Denton cemetery.

Mr. Tubbs is survived by his father, David Hall Tubbs; his widow, Mrs. Alice Lee Melvin Tubbs; three daughters, Mrs. William Richard Trippie and Misses Alice L. Melvin Tubbs and Clara Fisher Tubbs, and one brother, Harry K. Tubbs, of the Denton Journal staff.

G. R. CROPPER APPOINTED OCEAN CITY POSTMASTER

Mr. Granville R. Cropper, for a number of years chief of police at Ocean City, has been appointed Postmaster of that town, succeeding John Showell, Democrat. Mr. Cropper is a straight-out Republican. He took charge of the office on Thursday of last week. Former Mayor Edward Scott was also a candidate for the office. It is said some of Cropper's friends made charges that Scott gobbled up everything and he would have to relinquish some of his jobs if he would be Postmaster of Ocean City. However this may be, Granville is now P. M. and Mr. Scott still holds down his jobs with the same degree of faithfulness that has characterized his services whenever required.—Snow Hill Messenger.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. Folger McKinsey announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Archer McKinsey, to Orlando Ridout, of St. Margaret's. No date for the wedding has been set. Mr. McKinsey is well known throughout the State as the "Bentztown Bard."—Annapolis Advertiser.

The annual Pony Penning will take place at Assateague and Chincoteague, Va., on Tuesday and Wednesday, July 26 and 27, at which time a large number of fine animals will be corralled and offered for sale. As in previous years many from Wicomico county are expected to attend.

MOTORING IN DEL-MAR-VIA PENINSULA

American Automobile Club Official Highly Praises Maryland's Fine State Roads.

SAYS VIRGINIA SHOULD BUILD SIMILAR SYSTEM

In Making Trip in This Section, Mr. Wells Was Wonderfully Impressed With Evidences of Progressiveness That Seemed To Abound in Maryland.

(By O. W. Wells, Chief Roadman, The) With a realization of the interest that automobile owners have in trying out new territories on their trips, wherever opportunities offer, the Automobile Club of America, Bureau of Tours, recently made an inspection of this district and its possibilities for motoring. The information embodied in the following is based on the data secured.

Maryland is well to the front among the states in highway construction and maintenance. It is justly proud of its hundreds of miles of highways, constantly patrolled to keep the surface in good condition. The entire width, to the edge of the highway line, is kept free from bushes, and the grass is cut at regular intervals, overhanging branches are trimmed from the trees, telegraph poles and trees are whitewashed to a height of four feet, affording splendid guidance especially for night driving. In fact, the highways of Maryland are like private roads on large estates. In some sections, the hard surfaced roads appear rather narrow, but the three feet of gravel on each side of the concrete or asphalted centre is kept in good condition and there is no danger when passing other vehicles.

Roads Deep With Dust.

From the Maryland line to Cape Charles there is a stretch of seventy miles of poor dirt roadway, all in Virginia. It is never necessary to erect a sign to inform motorists when they cross the Virginia line. Those who are familiar with road conditions throughout this state can tell immediately, night or day, when the state line is crossed, for no other Commonwealth in the East pays so little attention to public roads.

The result of this neglect is plainly seen in the contrast between the Virginia end of the peninsula and the Maryland-Delaware section. From both Wilmington and Elkton south, through Delaware and Maryland, all the way to Pocomoke City, the countryside is a blanket of beautiful green, the villages are bright with pretty homes and well kept lawns, the farmlands are in a good state of cultivation and evidences of a progressive and thrifty population are apparent on every side.

Virginia has a splendid geographical location; her endowment in scenic and historic points of interest is perhaps richer than that of any other state in the Union. But this wealth of attraction is, in large measure, hidden away because she has not modernized her roads.

"I Can't Go Away This Summer But I'm Taking a Vacation From Hard Work"

Why don't you do that?

Why don't you cut down working hours and make your summer a holiday from sweeping and cleaning and dusting?

The Electric Cleaner assumes the burden—runs lightly through the rooms and over the rugs, draws out dust and picks up lint, leaving everything spick and span.

You owe yourself a vacation! You can have it NOW and all year round with an Apex Electric Cleaner.

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,962 IN JUNE

DEMAND EXCEEDS OUTPUT AS FORD BREAKS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

During the month of June, the Ford Motor Company, through its Detroit factories and 22 Assembly Plants throughout the country, reached the production of 108,962 Ford cars and trucks, setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921, viz., April, May and June, shows an output of 301,796 Ford cars and trucks against 229,878 for the same three months of last year, or a net increase of 71,918.

Despite the fact, however, that the Ford Plants have been running at maximum capacity, the demand for Ford cars and trucks is not being met, and at the present time, many thousand unfilled orders have been piled up ahead so that Ford cars are being limited by manufacturing facilities rather than marketing possibilities. Particularly is this true with respect to enclosed cars, for which the demand has been unusually heavy.

One reason cited by Ford Officials for the unprecedented demand for Ford cars is the present tendency toward economy. Many of those whose names have been added to the long list of buyers might well have afforded larger and more costly cars than the Ford, but it is the belief that most prospective motor car buyers are now studying all of the costs incident to motoring much more carefully than at any period during the past five years.

The estimated output of the Ford factories for July, falls far short of the output of a production of 130,000 a day for 31 days. Since the output of cars is being handled during an eight hour day only, the output will be six cars a minute. In other words, the Ford car or truck leaves the assembly line every 62 seconds.

TEXT OF SECRETARY MELLON'S LETTER OPPOSING BONUS BILL

The text of Secretary Mellon's letter to Senator Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, in which he puts the Administration squarely against the Soldier's Bonus bill, follows:

"The most conservative estimates show that the bill would cost from about $1,500,000,000 (if the bulk of the payments were on account of adjusted service pay, the greater part of which would fall in the near future) to about $3,250,000,000 (if most veterans elected to take adjusted service certificates, the payments on which would be distributed over a period of 20 years).

"If, as seems probable, at least one-half should elect the cash payment, plan and about one-half the certificate plan, with one-third of the latter borrowing on their certificates, the ultimate cost of the bill, it is estimated, would be over $3,250,000,000. These estimates take no account of expenses of administration or possible cost of affording vocational training aid, farm or home aid, or land settlement aid to veterans who elect such benefits. These will involve substantial additional expense. Under Title V of the bill, for example, any veteran who elects farm or home aid may obtain in one payment or in installments an amount equal to his adjusted service pay increased by 40 per cent, for the purpose of enabling him on or after January 1, 1922, to purchase or make improvements on a city or suburban home or farm. If any considerable proportion of the veterans should choose this form of aid, the effect would be to throw a heavier expense into the first two or three years and perhaps greatly increase the aggregate cost of the plan.

Sees Serious Situation.

"These estimates, incomplete as they are, show the heavy obligations to which the pending bill would commit the country. To impose these vast additional liabilities upon the Treasury, particularly under present conditions in industry and commerce, would, in my judgment, create a serious situation.

"Not the least disturbing feature of the bill is the plan to postpone actual distribution of the principal benefits conferred by the bill to the fiscal year 1923. This means that, without conferring immediate benefits on former service men, the country would be committing itself to a stupendous indeterminate liability which, once assumed, it would have to carry through no matter how embarrassing it might prove to the finances of the Government, and the business of the country when the time comes for fulfillment. Incidentally, this feature of the bill tends to mislead the people into the belief that in some way the proposed program can be accomplished without imposing a serious burden on the Treasury or the country. The result is to secure for the bill more favorable consideration than it could receive were the situation presented in its true light.

"As a matter of fact, a plan to disburse over a period of year up to $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000 as adjusted compensation must inevitably increase the war burden which the American people have to bear. It would greatly swell the cost of Government and virtually defeat the Administration's program of economy and retrenchment. It could be financed only by adding to the burden of debt and taxes under which the country is now staggering. However, financed, no such sum could be taken out of the public Treasury without throwing a corresponding load upon the whole people in the form of increased interest charges, increased taxes and an increased cost of living. This burden, moreover, would be added on to that already imposed by most of the States, which have provided bonuses in varying degrees of liberality to veterans of the late war.

Would Upset Refunding.

"Nor could the vast payments required by the bill be financed without introducing grave complications into the refunding operations which will be necessary within the next few years. The Government has to face early maturities of public debt amounting to about $7,000,000,000, of which about $1,000,000,000 falls due this same fiscal year in which it is proposed to begin cash payments under the bill.

"The greater part of this maturing debt would have to be refunded, and if a refunding bill must also be financed, the cost of that refunding will be very increased and the refunding operations gravely complicated. Seriously embarrassed, the market for outstanding Government securities would be adversely affected, and the patriotic holders of Liberty bonds, instead of looking forward to improved market conditions, would have to face the threat of further depression. I know of no one thing, for example, that would so greatly strengthen the market for Liberty bonds as the assurance that Congress had once and for all given up consideration of a soldiers' bonus.

Yearly Deficit Looms.

"I have already submitted to Congress, in my letter of April 30 to the chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means, a detailed statement of the condition of the Treasury, the latest estimates of the receipts and expenditures of the Government for the fiscal years 1921 and 1922 and an outline of the Treasury's program for dealing with the short-dated debt. The figures given in that letter show that even without any expenditures on account of adjusted compensation under the proposed bill, there is grave danger that the necessary expenditures of the Government in the near future will exceed its current receipts, thus leaving deficits to be met by new taxes or further borrowing.

"In these circumstances, I believe that the best interests of the country demand that action be deferred upon the soldiers' bonus or the bill to provide so-called adjusted compensation. This is not a time to impose several billion dollars of new liabilities on an already overburdened Treasury. It seems particularly inappropriate to give present consideration to the measure when we still have before us the pressing problem of revising the internal tax laws and finding sufficient revenues to meet the existing requirements of the Government.

"This problem must be dealt with in the midst of extreme and widespread industrial depression. These conditions affect not only every industry in our own country, but are world wide, and our past experience furnishes no sure guide as to their duration. The revision of the tax laws therefore, so as to adjust them to present conditions and at the same time produce sufficient revenues to meet the existing requirements of the Government is a matter of great difficulty, and even without the burden which would be imposed by the bonus, industrial and commercial earnings in the current year have so decreased that it is a matter of grave concern to the Treasury as to the amount of revenue that will be received in 1922.

BOY SCOUTS RECEIVE FIRST AID SERVICE

Nash Truck, Equipped For Emergencies, Accompanied Youngsters on Auto Trip To Yellowstone Park.

Accompanying 190 boy scouts en route by automobile from Clinton, Ia., to Yellowstone National Park was a Nash two-ton truck thoroughly equipped for "first aid" service. Whenever trouble was encountered Nash service was rendered. Edward Beguhn, secretary of the executive committee in charge of the long tour, is in command of the service truck.

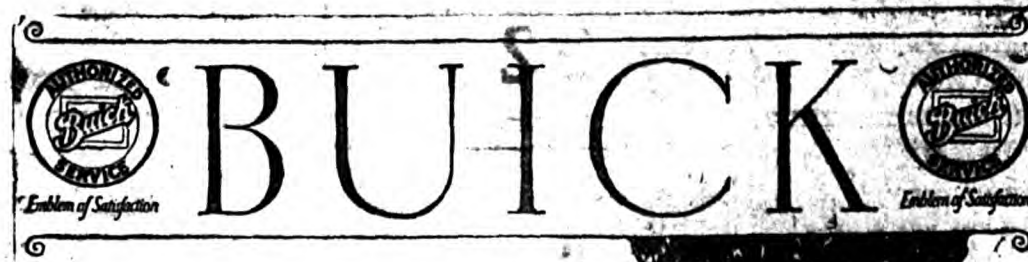

More than fifty automobiles are in the cavalcade, which since June 20 has been winding its way across the country with its cargo of joyous passengers. It was stipulated by the Clinton Council of the Boy Scouts of America that each scout who wished to participate in the one month's outing would first have to earn the prescribed fee of $25 by his own individual effort.

That served only to give added zest to the occasion and for weeks prior to the closing of reservations many old jobs in and about Clinton were performed by willing hands and savings accounts in the Clinton banks began to grow. The day the boys departed on their long trip, business practically suspended and the whole city of Clinton was on hand to cheer and wave good-bye.

The tourists reached Yellowstone Park July 1 and until July 15 they will remain there as guests of the United States government. On their way to the park they passed through the Black Hills of South Dakota where Indian dances and other forms of entertainment were arranged. The return is to be made over the southern route, through Wyoming, Northern Colorado and Nebraska and the trip, according to schedule, will end July 20.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save him several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.—Advertisement.*

DIGEST OF WORLD'S NEWS

Finds Man Who Voted For Him.
Medina, N. Y.—"I think I ought to shake hands with you; I voted for you three times," ventured John Waldner, a local Democratic leader, as he approached W. J. Bryan here.

"So you're the fellow, are you?" smiled Bryan. "I knew someone did, but I never found out who it was."

Negro Named Asst. U. S. Attorney.
New York—James C. Thomas, Jr., a negro, has been appointed an assistant United States district attorney on the staff of Colonel William Haywood here. This is the first time in the history of the state that a negro has held a position on the United States district attorney's staff.

Wakes After Sleeping Three Years.
Fort Smith, Ark.—Doctors won't let James Eschinger know what he missed during three years of sleep. Eschinger, "Rip Van Winkle of the Ozarks," awakened the other day after his long snooze in a local hospital, and did not even ask the usual question, "Where am I?"

Four Congressional Bachelors Wed.
Washington—The marital month of June made a big dent in the ranks of congressional bachelors. Four have been married recently. They are Representatives Timberlake, Colorado; Hull, Iowa; Crowther, New York, and Gould, New York.

Robbers Careless With Dynamite.
Wilmington, Del.—Burglars laden with dynamite with which to "blow" a safe in the Charles L. Storey & Co.'s office, dropped a portion of the explosive in the yard of the home of Mrs. William Carpenter, and the explosion threw Mrs. Carpenter from bed and broke window panes a block away. When the police arrived after the explosion Mrs. Carpenter said that she had seen two men running away from her yard.

Children Find Man Hanging To Trap.
Mount Carmel, Pa.—Children picking huckleberries on the mountain side, north of this city, found the body of Michael Heblia, aged 31 years, Atlas hanging to a branch of a tree. Despondency caused by the man being out of employment is thought to have caused him to take his own life.

Sells 50 Hides; Buys Pair Shoes.
Oakdale—Frank Reed, Valley Home irrigation director, is also a hide and cattle buyer. He was in town the other day attending a meeting of the directors. The meeting adjourned and he started down the street. "I'll have to buy me a pair of shoes before I go home," he remarked. "I have just sold fifty hides, and if I'm lucky I ought to have enough to pay for the shoes."

Pebble In Throat Kills Angler.
Schenebady—Frank Davis went fishing on the Battenkill creek and fell overboard and was believed to have drowned. An autopsy last night revealed the fact that a pebble from the creek bed had lodged in his throat, completely choking the windpipe, producing strangulation.

Heat Drives Snakes Out of Hills.
Reading, Pa.—Hot weather is driving snakes from the hills to the more moist lowlands all over the county. Berry pickers say they have encountered more reptiles this season than for years. Aaron Mast, a farmer near Morgantown, killed three copperhead snakes near his home, and Isaac Smith, of Cedar Knoll, a section foreman on the Wilmington & Northern Railway, killed a copperhead forty-one inches long. Frank Yundt, of Glenside, killed a black snake measuring sixty-two inches in Robeson township.

Finds His Stolen Car Improved.
San Jose, Cal.—W. Bryans, whose auto was stolen in January, has recovered the machine, but finds it is in a far better condition than when it was stolen. The machine was found in the possession of a Chinese at Watsonville, who said he had purchased it from a Mexican. The Chinese had a new top put on, bought new tires and other equipment and had the car repainted.

Killed By Pitched Ball.
Toronto, Ont.—Edward Marquis, right fielder of the Moose baseball team of this city, died in a hospital as the result of being hit by a pitched ball. He was dazed a few minutes after the accident, but continued in the game and batted twice more, fanning both times. The ball struck him at the base of the skull.

Steal Auto To Carry Off Safe.
Waterbury, Conn.—Burglars broke into the branch office and garage of Charles A. Templeton Hardware Company and carried the safe away in an automobile which they stole. The car was found but the safe, containing $300, was missing. The plant is owned by Lieut. Gov. Templeton.

Horse Bites Off Man's Nose.
Honesdale, Pa.—While passing in front of a row of horses in a stable here J. W. Houser stopped and patted one of the animals on the nose. The horse, by way of reprisal, snapped at the man and bit off his nose.

Dives In Lake; Breaks Neck.
Duluth, Minn.—Myron Crandall, 23, died of a broken neck when he dived into Superior bay. Crandall, said by companions to be an expert swimmer, dove into less than four feet of water. Companions recovered the body.

Md. Pair Wedded 50 Years.
Cumberland, Md.—Mr. and Mrs. Meshach Richards, 58 Frederick street, recently celebrated the golden anniversary of their marriage.

Austrian Bakers De'y Government.
Vienna—The Bakers' Association, defying the government, has announced it will resume this week the sale of the old-time Vienna rolls, made with privately bought American white flour. The authorities have refused to permit the making of these rolls, while cornmeal is still being used in the rationed bread for the people.

May Work Out Their Taxes.
New Britain, Conn.—A plan under which property owners, who by reason of unemployment are unable to pay their taxes, may meet their debt to the city by working for the municipality is under consideration by Mayor Curtis. This has been done in the case of owners of wagons and trucks, and it is now proposed that the plan be broadened so as to include those who have nothing to give but their own manual labor. The Mayor also is considering the advisability of having delinquent rent payers work for the city and have their wages turned over to their landlords.

Advertised For Husband; Gets One.
Ottawa—Mrs. Mabery, of Venice, Cal., said to be a second cousin of Rear Admiral Sims, advertised in a Kingston, Canada, paper for a husband, and as a result was married on Friday by Rev. J. A. Waddell to David J. Toggart, of Murvale, near Kingston. Although they had never met, and the courtship was conducted by mail, they were greatly pleased with each other. This is Mr. Toggart's first venture.

U. S. Soldiers on Rhine Celebrate.
Paris—Beneath the Stars and Stripes floating over the old German fortress of Ehrenbreitstein, the doughboys of the American Army of Occupation on the Rhine, held an old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration. There was an athletic tournament which lasted all day. The feature was a baseball game for the championship of the American Army of Occupation, which was watched by many Germans.

Fly-Swallers Kill 256,000.
Pana, Ill.—Facing depletion of its treasury through popularity of a war-bird campaign, the Pana Women's Club announced the body could no longer pay a bounty of 10 cents per bird killed. The campaign was started May 21, and to date 256,000 flies have been turned in. "It's too expensive," club members said, in announcing that the bounties had been discontinued.

The Federal Reserve System—Our Financial Safety Valve

BANKS in the United States operate in a manner quite different from those of most other important countries. We have more than 30,000 banks in this country, most of which are moderate-sized institutions owned by people of their immediate neighborhood and which confine their operations to a single city or town. In most of the European countries and in Canada, the banking business is carried on by a few large banks having many branches scattered throughout the country.

The American system of individual banks, each serving its own field, has much to recommend it, because it assures a close contact between the bank and its clients and because it enables the officers of banks to be in close touch with the affairs of the business men and other depositors whom the bank serves. However, until the Federal Reserve System was put into operation in 1914, this system of separate banks suffered from a very serious difficulty in times of stress or when the demands for banking accommodations exceeded the capacity of the banks.

A bank, of course, does not keep on hand all the money that has been deposited with it. Modern industry and the carrying on of business require the use of the credit which is based on the deposits in the banks, which simply means that the banker is able to lend out most of the funds left in his care to borrowers in whose solvency and ability to repay he has confidence.

Under the old regime, each bank had to stand

This is Number Three of a series of special articles published by The National City Bank of New York, coincident with the opening of its up-town branches. Number Four will shortly appear in this paper.

alone in times of money stringency and there was no strong central reservoir of credit which could be tapped to supply unusual requirements for credit. The money panic of 1907 illustrates the difficulties with which the banks had to contend; there was plenty of wealth and plenty of consumable goods in the country, but the machinery was lacking by which these goods could be made the basis for sound credit and issuance of sound currency.

Fortunately the Federal Reserve System came into existence before the outbreak of the European war and provided the means by which all of the banks of the country are able to pool their strength, so that, in effect, the united strength of the banks in the country is back of the system. The system provides machinery by which the individual banks may shift their limited assets and liabilities to a strong Reserve Bank which, in addition to its other functions, has the power to issue lawful money.

Restrictions on Note-Issuing Power

This power of the banks to issue reserve notes is carefully restricted by law, and such currency cannot be put into circulation unless it is amply secured by a gold reserve and by prime commercial paper arising from actual transactions. That is, it protects the United States from any fiat money scheme, which means the attempted manufacture of money by means of a printing press. The stability of America's banking system today as compared with most of the European countries is due to the fact that an adequate reserve of gold and prime commercial paper stands behind every dollar of currency in circulation, while in Europe recent devices for providing governments with money have only resulted in such serious depreciation of their currencies that the ends attempted have been defeated.

But the Federal Reserve Banks were never intended to make easy a great expansion of credit, such as we had in this country during the recent war period. The primary purpose of the System is to make possible the substitution in an easy and sound manner of one kind of credit by replacing it with another just as sound. It does this by replacing the sound credit obligations of small, local banks with the note obligation of a strong Reserve bank having the backing of the national government. In fact, the reserve notes which are issued by the Federal Reserve Banks are actually obligations of the United States Government.

During the war, the heavy borrowing requirements of the Government made it necessary that the machinery of the Reserve Banks should be largely used in providing loans against governmental war issues, and this helped to produce the period of inflation from which we are now emerging.

The real purpose of the country's entire banking system is to make every dollar do its share of work. The liquid capital of the United States is represented by the actual money or paper representatives of money in the hands of its people, and the genuine function of the banks is to keep this money on the move in handling the business of the nation. The banks can only operate on a sound basis when they restrict their operations to loans on tangible, moving, realizable values which have been created by labor. They violate their natural reason for existence whenever they attempt to manufacture, by any means whatsoever, a supply of credit over and above that which the actual goods in hand allow. That is why a jealous watch must be kept to safeguard our Federal Reserve System, which if untampered with, will see the country through the present period of readjustment along sound and economic lines.

Federal Reserve's Value Already Proved

The Federal Reserve Banks have justified every hope up to date. Without them the heavy financing of the war would have been extremely difficult. They give the people of the United States the assistance of a strong Reserve banking system with the entire strength of the nation behind it, while at the same time the intimate personal touch of local banks and their customers is in no sense hindered, but on the contrary, the ability of the small banks to aid their depositors and borrowers is tremendously enhanced.

Banking in the United States today rests on a far sounder and more thoroughly economic foundation than at any previous time in the country's history; the part which the American people will assuredly play in the important financial operations of the world henceforth will find the country's banking system thoroughly able to adequately do its share.

KEEPING DOWN THE COST OF YOUR HOME

A big bugbear that confronts most of us when we build is that of cost. We often encounter a real problem in fitting our ideals to our pocketbooks. However if we are judicious in our planning and designing we won't have to sacrifice any of the really important elements. In fact, the necessity for economizing may result in our getting a much handsomer home than we would otherwise have built, for it happens that good design and economy in the use of materials are very closely related.

MONEY HAS BEEN WASTED IN THE PAST CENTURY

in appalling amounts. We once built pretentious houses with grills and all sorts of fancy contraptions, even to sunbursts stuck on them. Then we got tired of these and we turned to huge parts on our porches, cornices, exterior moldings and such things until it looked as though we were trying to use up our available supply of wood just as soon as possible. Forestry statistics show that we have made a pretty good job of it, for there is less than half of the lumber in this country today than there was a century ago and our country has a long time to live!

We can be economical in the building of a home if we will observe a few simple points in deciding upon its plan, its design and its construction. The economy of good planning will be explained in next week's advertisement.

BIG FIGHT IS BREWING FOR STATE LEADER

Democrats Seek National Committeeman Plum Now Vacant.

WOLCOTT RESIGNATION
LEAVES BERTH OPEN

Echoes From the Recent Fight in the State Senate Over Wolcott Confirmation Can Be Heard in Coming Battle Royal—Murphy, Lone Democrat Against Confirmation, Active.

Democrats and party leaders all over Delaware are planning to force an early meeting of the Democratic State Committee to fill the vacancy on the Democratic National Committee, resulting from the elevation of former United States Senator Wolcott to the bench. It is expected that a conference of certain party leaders will be held soon and will draft a call for a meeting which will be presented to State Chairman Henry R. Isaacs.

The State Chairman, Josiah Marvel, who inherits the baton of leadership cast aside by Wolcott when he went on the bench; former State Senator Thomas F. Gormley and other leaders who were allied with the Wolcott interests in the party, are opposing an early meeting of the State Committee.
The meeting of the State committee is not wanted at this time by the Wolcott faction for fear that the power which has rested with them since the last State convention, when Senator Wolcott's friends won a sweeping victory, may be swept aside. There is a growing feeling that many of the State Committee, responding to outspoken resentment among the rank and file against the former Senator giving up his seat at Washington, will clean house at the meeting and crush the factionists allied with Wolcott.

With Senator Wolcott on the bench, it is conceded that he will make no attempt to interfere in the deliberations of the committee. His retirement from active participation in politics, which has been welcomed by his opponents within his party, will at least lessen his influence in party councils.
Former Senator Willard Saulsbury has left the State for a vacation in New England. In the event of a meeting of the State Committee the former Senator's friends will be free to act without hindrance. It is their present plan to force the selection of a national committeeman who is free from alliances with either faction and who can attend to the business of the national committee during the next eighteen months.

Despite opposition from certain quarters the boom for State Senator Charles D. Murphy, of Harrington, for chairman, continues to be talked of in party circles. Senator Murphy made a big impression on the Democrats of Delaware by his unflinching fight against the confirmation of Sen-

TRUCKS CUT FREIGHT ON DELAWARE RAILROAD

Many Lines Hauling Perishable Fruit and Vegetables To Market In Less Time Than Railroad.

Trucks are cutting seriously into the freight of the Delaware Railroad from the lower part of Delaware, by hauling perishable fruit and vegetables to market in far less time than it is possible to get it delivered by the railroad. This applies to much freight which is not perishable, but for which delivery is urgent. In a ride down the State recently twenty trucks, loaded with vegetables, poultry, fruit and other freight were met—all bound for the city markets. Each truck carried two or more tons, possibly an average of four tons to each truck load. The same trucks returned the next day loaded with freight for points along the entire length of the new concrete highways, bringing profit to the truck owners and increasing net profits to the growers, with quick delivery at their homes of the products of their farms. It seems that the railroads are not awake to their dwindling business, or are unable to meet the competition. This is not a single day's experience, but these trucks are passing every night carrying loads of farm produce and returning with freight for the business people. In addition to this, there are regular and stated trips made from the large provision dealers in Wilmington and Philadelphia, several times each week, making delivery of meats, supplies and other freights
the entire length of Delaware.

MISS LAURA ROBERTSON WEDS RAYMOND BOUNDS

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Robertson, near Delmar, on Thursday evening last, when their daughter, Laura, was united in marriage to Mr. Raymond Bounds, of Eden. The ceremony was performed by the bride's pastor, Rev.
E. H. Jones, of Delmar. Miss Robertson was a teacher in the public schools of Wicomico county. They will reside on a farm near Siloam.

ator Wolcott for Chancellor. He was the only Democrat in the Senate who opposed the confirmation.

There are other candidates mentioned for the chairmanship. Andrew C.
Grey, of Wilmington, ex-Attorney General of Delaware, has a small-sized boom in motion, and Henry R.
Isaacs, State Chairman, also is mentioned in many circles for the coveted place. However, the fight will, no doubt narrow down between Senator Murphy, representing the Saulsbury faction, and Josiah Marvel, State Chairman, representing the Wolcott branch of the party.

The members of the Democratic State Central Committee, from the Third Senatorial District, of which Delmar is a part, who will participate in the selection of the new National committeeman, are Willard F. Deputy, of Laurel, and Mr. H. M. Waller, of Delmar.

NEW UNITED STATES SENATOR IS "BIG" MAN OF DELAWARE

General Coleman du Pont, the new United States Senator from Delaware, weighs 215 pounds and is six feet two in his stockings. He is a formidable man to meet, yet he looks at you out of clear, sparkling, blue eyes which beam action and energy.

One always should remember that Coleman du Pont has carved his own way to fortune. He was one of the "poor" du Ponts, so to speak. His father, Biedermann du Pont, and his uncle, Alfred Victor, left the family circle and settled in Kentucky many, many years ago, to take up the more prosperous and safer business of paper making.

"There wasn't room in the powder business at the time for all the family," is the explanation given for his father's leaving-leave-taking.
So it came to pass that Thomas Coleman du Pont was born in Louisville, Ky., December 11, 1863. Unlike most other members of this remarkable family he was not born wealthy.
He was prepared for and entered the University of Urbana, Urbana, O., and then the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, from which he was graduated as a civil and mining engineer.
Since his graduation, General Du Pont never has forgotten his alma mater. When asked recently how much he had contributed to the "Boston Polytech," as the institution commonly is called, he replied, "Why something around a million, but why mention it?"

In truth, General Du Pont has given several millions to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, but won't say so. After leaving "Tech" the General took up mining in Kentucky, not being the least afraid to get his hands dirty. He worked in the mining business for ten years.

But the story goes that he found that a mining engineer in Kentucky could only make $4,000 a year, and therefore, he moved. At any rate Gen.
Du Pont went to Johnstown, Pa., where he obtained the post of superintendent of the Johnstown steel plant.
That was in 1894.

While in Johnstown, the General met Tom L. Johnson, later mayor of Cleveland, Ohio, and of "three-cent fare" fame. With the backing of Johnson, the General built a number of trolley lines.

At that time such a thing as a long-distance trolley line was viewed much in the same light as a railroad was in 1831. Both Johnson and Du Pont were called "crazy" and "Quixotic" in their ideas.

From 1894 to 1902 General Du Pont was busy as a traction car man. But in 1902 he was called, at the death of Eugene du Pont to take control of the Du Pont Powder Company. Although only 36, he consented to take hold.
Immediately he discovered a number of loose ends in the manufacture of explosives in this country.

These loose ends he proceeded to draw together into one big whole which resulted in the Du Pont company of today.

His Work in Delaware.
When General T. Coleman du Pont came to Delaware he began to inspect the real needs of his ancestral

DU PONT DONS SENATE TOGA

State. Then he began to invest. Today he, with the possible exception of his cousin, former United States Senator Henry A. Du Pont, owns more fine farm land than any other man in the State.

"The Moors," at Cooks Point, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, is an estate where usually in summer the General resides. There isn't a telephone on the place, and there isn't much likelihood of a telephone being placed there. When General Du Pont wants a rest he takes it; well knowing its physical as well as mental value.
He cuts himself literally loose from the world, enjoys himself and trusts that those outside his domain do likewise.

That Bi-Secting Highway.

After General Du Pont had been in Delaware and had built up the powder company to the topmost position in its line in the world, he cast about for something in the civic to occupy both his time and money.

That now famous Du Pont Highway was the result. It bisects Delaware from Claymont to Seelyville, cutting the State lengthwise.

Howls, kicks and objections arose at the original proposal of General Du Pont to build this highway. He was accused of being an instrument of the Standard Oil, seeking a pipe line; of being an agent for greedy traction interests; of a railroad—almost of a special privilege for an airplane service.

Yet today, the road is very nearly completed. General Du Pont has put up something like $4,000,000 to assure its accomplishment, and he still is smiling in the face of his adversaries.

That Boulevard may be cited as one of the outstanding features of General
Du Pont's career, in Delaware at least.
For benefit of skeptics the story of the widow's plot may be cited. While up to his six-foot two in the work of laying out the boulevard, the General found that the roadway would run directly into and through the eight-acre farm of a poor widow, taking some six acres of her land.

Ruthlessly to despoil the woman of her only means of sustenance never crossed his mind. But there was a way out.

A neighboring farmer who wanted to see the road built, and who owned a large acreage, "consented" to swap eight acres of his land for eight of the widow's and gave the land for the roadway. The verb "consented" may be taken at its worth; but if one asks the General about the transaction he will only smile, knowing all the time he paid the bill. Incidentally, no finer commentary upon the breadth and outlook of General Du Pont's mind could better be had than through the perspective of the Delaware boulevard.

Where only four years ago residents along its line were condemning the General to perdition, they are today bestowing their blessing for his work in giving them free outlet to Wilmington, the largest city in the State.

Energy Almost Limitless.
As a business man General Du Pont is well nigh tireless. Powerful in frame, alert in mind, he accomplishes work which would put the average man under the sod.

Shortly after he had acquired control of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, with its billion and more of holdings, General Du Pont planned the new Equitable office building while lying in his sick bed. The structure is the largest office building in the world and is rated as worth $30,000,- 000.

Not only will General Du Pont, as Senator from Delaware, be present at the sessions of the Senate, but he is apt to be "very much on the job," as they say in the National capital. It will not be least surprising if he is very promptly put on some of the leading committees.

That Vice President Bee.
Five years ago General Du Pont was frequently mentioned as a candidate for the vice-presidency. He was frequently pictured in the magazines and was filmed for the "movies." Whenever he was asked about the "boom" for vice president, he merely smiled and let it go at that.

Last Spring a year ago, the general was again boomed for vice president, and it is probable, could have had the nomination had he so wished. Instead, he was found among the ranks of the Coolidge boomers, supporting Harding and Hays with all his might by seeing to it that there was a real
"vote-getter" on the tail of the ticket.

Although it isn't often that General Du Pont is heard upon the public rostrum, he is, nevertheless, a rattling good speaker. He goes direct to his point in few words, without waste of unnecessary time and verbiage. Brevity in action and speech; but, by the same token, it should not be thought that he is abrupt or tactless. He is one of the most congenial of men.

DELAWARE FIREMEN HOLD BIG MEETING

Fire Laddies From All Over State Gather At Laurel In Convention—Big Parade.

The first annual convention of the Delaware State Volunteer Firemen's Association was held at Laurel last Wednesday. Volunteer firemen from all over the State were there. In honor of the event the day had been made a holiday in Laurel and hundreds of visitors were given a cordial welcome by the residents of the town.
The morning and afternoon sessions were devoted to business. Sports were also a feature of the afternoon.

The most interesting feature was the firemen's parade which was held in the evening and in which delegations of firemen from many towns of the State participated. The Cambridge and Salisbury, Md., firemen were in line, and were cordially received by the crowds that thronged the sidewalks along the line of march.

Following the parade there were addresses by Josiah Marvel, of Wilmington, and others. Secretary of State Alden R. Benson, awarded a silver loving cup to the fire company having the largest number of members in line. Other cash prizes were also distributed.

Laurel never had such a crowd before and the first meeting of the firemen of Delaware was indeed a big success from every view point.

DELIGHTFUL BIRTHDAY PARTY GIVEN SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Hastings gave a delightful birthday party on Saturday, July 9, in honor of their daughter, Helen Mae's, twelfth birthday. Those present were: Misses Evelyn Hastings, Margaret Figgis, Bertha Rogers, Mary Tingle, Mary-bell Mitchell, Beulah Simon, Theodora Rogers, Ottole Tingle, Myrtle
Oliphant, Elizabeth Tingle, Viola
Rogers, Mattie Hearn, Margie Hastings, Blanche Elliott, Wilma Rogers, Nellie Elliott, Alvin Hastings, Clifford Hastings, Vernon Oliphant, James Hastings, Samuel Krawatch,
Chester Oliphant, Lloyd Simon,
Archie Krawatch, Margie Hearn, Mrs.
Zilla Rogers, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown,
Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hastings, Helen and Lloyd Hastings. The afternoon was pleasantly spent in various games after which refreshments were served, and they all departed for their homes, having reported a very pleasant time and wishing their hostess many more happy birthdays.

HUCKLEBERRIES SHIPPED FROM SUSSEX STATIONS

The first huckleberries of the season were shipped from Sussex county stations last week, bringing $8 a 32-quart crate at the station. The crop will be very short. Its failure will mean a great financial loss to many people who make a business of picking berries. They grow wild and the pickers make a big season's work when the crop is full, averaging from ten cents to fifteen cents a quart.

ECHO FROM RECENT RAID IN DELMAR

Marylander Thinks Credit Should Be Given Maryland Officers Too.

"SIX" BECOMES "100"
IN WILMINGTON PAPERS

Delaware's Leading City Dailies Make Raid Appear As A Very Important Event—Say 100 Gallons of Whisky
Was Buried on Farm and Officers Dug It Up Everywhere.

As an echo from the raiding party which last week raided the farm of Ben Rothe, and secured about six gallons of "meal" wine and about ten gallons of mash of some sort, arresting Rothe and placing him under $1,000 bail for court, an account of which appeared in The News last week, the editor of The Delmar Section has received the following communication, which explains itself:

Delmar, July 16, 1921.
I read an article in your paper last week of the Delaware officers making a raid on a speak-easy on Saturday of last week near Delmar. You also say several weeks ago Officer Hearn discovered several boys on the streets of Delmar under the influence of drink, and when he questioned them, he discovered they had a jug of "meal" wine, which was confiscated and held by Officer Hearn for further investigation. Please correct this to read Officer White, of the Maryland side of the town.

The facts of the matter are that this place has been running on the Delaware side in one and a quarter miles of the town limits and complaint after complaint has been made of the unlawful doings and no action taken until the Maryland officers discovered a few weeks ago two Maryland boys with a jug and took up the jug and contents and delivered it to Justice Mills, who ordered the boys to be brought before him for investigation. He then found that it was purchased on the Delaware side, and at once notified the Delaware officials of the evidence he had, and offered to co-operate with them in breaking up the nuisance. We claim that this is how the raid came about, and think that proper credit should be given to the Maryland officers for their parts in securing the evidence and bringing about the raid.

A Citizen of Maryland.
The reporter of The News wrote the story from information he secured from reliable sources in Delmar, and is glad to make any correction that will give credit where credit is due.

Participating in this raid was Revenue Officer Howard, of Wilmington, and we were surprised to read in Tuesday's Wilmington papers a story, coming from Wilmington sources, and not from their Delmar correspondent, in which it was said that over 100 gallons of whisky was found in the

P. R. R. EXCURSION TO ATLANTIC CITY

Popular Low Price Excursion Will Be Run on Tuesday, July 26—Fare
From Delmar Is $3.50.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is advertising a new departure in the line of excursions, in the one from the Crisfield Branch and points north to Atlantic City, which will be run on Tuesday, July 26. A special train will leave Crisfield on Monday night, July 25, at 11 o'clock; Princess Anne, 11:56;
Salisbury, 12:30; Delmar, 12:48, arriving in Atlantic City at 6:15 A. M.
Tuesday. Returning the special train will leave Atlantic City at 4:26
P. M., thus giving the excursionists over eight hours on the beach. The train will arrive in Delmar on the return trip about 10 P. M. and Crisfield about 12 P. M. The fare for the return trip from Crisfield is $4.00; Salisbury, $3.75; Delmar, $3.50, war tax additional. Children five years of age and under 12, half fare. Tickets good only on special train.

The excursion will be run via the Delaware River Bridge route, without change of cars.

AN ABANDONED STILL FOUND IN SUSSEX CO.

Harry W. Bertridge, tenant on a farm three miles west of Seaford, discovered Thursday an abandoned still hidden in a dense woods. The important parts of the still had been removed and a large barrel was buried in the ground, evidently having been used for storage purposes. It is supposed that the operator of the still had been driven away several days ago when a forest fire came close to the secret place.

Miss Mary Hood, of Tapsham, Vt., died July 9, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Hosman, of Mel-sons. The remains were taken to Vermont for burial Tuesday, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Edith Hood.

The Great Kent And Sussex Fair

To Be Held At Harrington This Year
On July 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30.

Much interest is being manifested in Delmar and other lower Delaware towns in the coming Kent and Sussex Fair, which will be held in Harrington this year, starting on Tuesday, July 26 and continuing for five days.

One of the features of the meet this year is the twelve high class purse races for harness horses, and there are many entries in these events. The Association is also featuring the Bright Light Shows, and their entire Midway attractions, consisting of 12 big shows, 3 riding devices, 30 concessions, 3 free acts and a 14 piece band.

Every night during the fair there will be fireworks of different kinds.
Forty of the most spectacular discharges that could be obtained will be shown each night.

The new State Exhibition Hall, recently erected by the State for agriculture exhibits, domestic arts, etc., will be opened and will be filled with exhibits. Automobile Show and races are also among the event of the week and a large crowd of Kent and Sussex county people will, no doubt, again use this opportunity to meet their friends at the annual event.

MELON CROP SOLD TO NEW YORK FIRM

I. H. Rider, a farmer of Sharptown section, sold this week to a New York commission house forty acres of watermelons to be delivered at the railroad station at Marla Springs at nineteen cents a melon, nothing below twenty pounds, and none to be delivered after August 28. The present prospects on the Rider farm indicate that there will be a average of 1,000 melons to the acre. The early ripe ones will be ready about August 1.

WILMINGTON AFTER PENINSULA TRADE

Extensive Campaign To Be Launched By Wholesalers In Efforts To Reach Peninsula Merchants.

The wholesale section of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce have decided to launch immediately an extensive advertising campaign throughout the State of Delaware and the Eastern Shore. This will be one feature of the drive to draw Peninsula merchants into closer relationship with the big wholesale centers of that city.

The success of the campaign seems foreshadowed by the unusual response to the request for funds to finance it.
Several thousand dollars have been collected and the finance committee has reported an additional list of subscriptions amounting to $1,000.

There are over 8,000 storekeepers on the Maryland-Delaware Peninsula.
Practically all are within easy reach of the Wilmington markets. It is planned to interest them in what Wilmington has to offer, through the medium of carefully prepared literature which will be sent out shortly.

MYSTERY LIGHTS APPEAR OFF BAY COAST

Mysterious lights seen by fishermen along the coast are claimed to be followed by a visit of swift motor boats which return late at night, landing in some secluded spot of the coast, where a supply of foreign liquors is left for summer visitors. At many points along the ocean side it is claimed that trips to sea are made about twice weekly by fast motor boats that bring back the "real stuff." From Bethany Beach north few cargoes have been landed and by doing away with the coast patrol, under orders of economy, it is predicted that the Delaware coast will now be made a favorite landing point.

FORD CARS REDUCED

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the price of all types of Ford Cars and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices, f. o. b. Detroit, are now as follows:

TOURING CAR	$415.00
RUNABOUT	$370.00
COUPE	$695.00
SEDAN	$760.00
CHASSIS	$345.00
TRUCK-CHASSIS	$495.00
TRACTOR	$625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford Cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May, 1921, was greater by 36,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920. In fact, the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders, but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone, the biggest month in the history of our company and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 1,000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck, or Fordson tractor.

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

SUSSEX CO. TAX BILLS SENT OUT

Tax Rate of Eighty-Five Cents Covers
Total To Be Collected By County
This Year For All Purposes.

Many Delmarians have received their tax bills for Sussex county taxes from the Tax Receivers Office at Georgetown, which give the amount of the assessment, and the rate of taxation, with the poll taxes assessed against men.

These statements have called forth comment, which clearly indicates that the general public is not clear in mind as to what the tax rate of eighty-five cents covers and many think that the tax levied for schools is to be a separate tax, a statement of which will be sent them later. This last idea is not a fact. The tax rate is made up of all the taxes which the county is to collect from the taxables of Sussex county this year.

The money to pay salaries, to pay for road work, for interest, for bridges and for support of the public schools is included in the tax rate levied by the Levy Court, and sent out on the bills from the Receiver of Taxes Office. When the money is received and paid over to the County Treasury, twenty-five cents of the eighty-five cents collected on every one hundred dollars of the total assessed, are against every individual, firm or corporation, will be set over to the account of the public schools and will not be available for any other purpose. The amount decided upon by the Levy Court as necessary for roads and bridges will be set over to that account, and so on until each account has its money, provided for by the budget and levied in the form of taxes.

It must always be held in mind that there is no way to get money into the treasury of the county other than by a system of taxation. The new laws have done away with any school taxes other than the twenty-five cents on real and personal property, so far as the county is concerned. The only other method whereby a school tax could be levied is for the special district levying to raise more money for their schools to hold a special election and vote for the levying of such tax, and then proceed to collect it according to the new laws. Otherwise there is not any school tax paid by any person but the twenty-five cents fixed by the legislature for school purposes. Real estate has indeed been relieved of much tax for the public schools.

GEORGETOWN FINDS THE SOURCE OF TYPHOID

A close investigation to ascertain the cause of several cases of typhoid fever in Georgetown has brought to light the fact that for several years some families of the town have been running water and refuse direct from toilet rooms into an open ditch that runs through the center of the town.
Instead of cess pools the refuse is carried directly into the ditches. Town officials were astonished when confronted with the facts and cannot understand how the existing conditions were so little known when the Board of Health has been so persistent in trying to keep the sanitary conditions of the town in good shape. It is probable that a sweeping order will be issued compelling all people who have toilets to install cess pools and an effort will be made to do away with the main open ditches.

HUNGRY THIEVES

MAKE A BIG HAUL

During a storm on Wednesday night thieves visited the farm of Man-do Ralph, about five miles east of Seaford. They forced an entrance into his meat and provision house and stole everything in sight. Mr. Ralph was away from home, his wife and children being home at the time. Mrs.
Ralph heard the thieves at work, but was afraid to venture out. Efforts were made to trail the thieves, but the soaking rain had covered their tracks. It is thought they used a team or automobile to carry off their plunder.

SOUR STOMACH INDIGESTION

Theodor's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficacy of Theodor's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver."

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Theodor's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theodor's.

"Ye'd shirring me as if I was a boy!" he scoffed. "Tis your own game fr'm first to last. D'ye think I'm not knowing that? Tis bread and butter and th' big rake-off for you, and little ye care how th' election goes. Suppose we'd crouk this man in th' hot parry av th' p'litical fight; what happens? Half th' noospayers in th' state 'd play him up fr a martyr to th' cause av good government, and we'd all go to hell in a handbasket!"

I was crumpled and sore and one of my legs had gone to sleep, but I couldn't have moved if I had wanted to. My heart was skipping beats right along while I waited for Hatch's answer. When it came, the drumming in my ears pretty nearly made me lose it.

"Clannahan," he began, as cold as an icicle. "I didn't get you down here to argue with you. You've bungled this thing once, and for that reason you've got it to do over again. We haven't asked you to 'crouk' anybody, as you put it, and we are not asking it now."

"Tis d-a little you back av asking it," retorted the divorcee.

"Listen," said Hatch, leaning forward with his hands on his knees. "Besides keeping cases on Norcross here, we've been digging back into his record a few lines. Every man has his sore spot. If you can only find it, Clannahan—just as you have yours. What if I should tell you that Norcross is wanted in another state—for a crime? Before he came here he was chief of construction on the Oregon Midland. There was a right-of-way fight back in the mountains—fifty miles from the nearest sheriff—with the P. & S. E. Norcross armed his track-layers, and in the bluffing there was a man killed."

Though it was a warm night, as I have said, the cold chills began to chase themselves up and down my back. What Hatch said was perfectly true. In the right-of-way scrap he was talking about, there had been a few wild shots fired, and one of them had found a P. & S. E. grade laborer. I don't believe anybody had ever really blamed the boss for it. But there had been a man killed.

While I was shivering, Clannahan said: "Well, what av it?"

"Norcross was responsible for that man's death. If he was having trouble over his right-of-way, his recourse was to the law, and he took the law into his own hands. Nothing was ever done about it, because nobody took the trouble to prosecute. A week ago we sent a man to Oregon to look up the facts. He succeeded in finding a brother of the dead man, and a warrant has now been sworn out for Norcross' arrest."

"Well?" said Clannahan again. "Ye have the shirring in yer own hand; why don't ye pull it?"

"That's where you come in," was the answer. "The Oregon Justice issued the warrant because it was demanded, but he refused to incur, for his county, the expense of sending a deputy sheriff to another state, or to take the necessary steps to have Norcross extradited. If Norcross could be produced in court, he would try him and either discharge him or bind him over, as the facts might warrant. He took his stand upon the ground that Norcross was only technically responsible, and told the brother that in all probability nothing would come of an attempt to prosecute."

"Thin ye've got nothing on him, after all," the Irishman grunted.

"Yes," Hatch came back; "we have the warrant, and in addition to that, we have you, Pete. A word from you to the Portland City police headquarters, and our man finds himself arrested and locked up to wait for a requisition from the governor of Oregon."

"But you said th' requisition wouldn't come," Clannahan put in.

Hatch was sitting back now and stroking his ugly jaw.

"It might come, Pete, if it had to; there's no knowing. In the meantime we get delay. There'll be higher corrupt proceedings, of course, to get him out of jail, but there's where you'll come in again; you've got your own man for city attorney. And, after all, the delay is all we need. With Norcross in trouble, and in jail on a charge of murder, the railroad ship'll go on the rocks in short order. The Norcross management is having plenty of trouble—wrecks and the like. With Norcross locked up, New York will be heard from, and Disnake will step in and clean house. That will wind up the reform spasm."

"Tis a small chance," growled the chief of the ward heeler. "I'll talk it over with the big fellow."

Again Hatch leaned forward and put his hands on his knees.

"You'll do nothing of the sort, Pete. You'll act, and act on your own responsibility. If you don't, somebody may wire the sheriff of Silver Bow county, Montana, that the man he knew in Butte as Michael Clancy is."

The divorcee put up both hands as if to ward off a blow.

"Tis enough," he mumbled, speaking as if he had a bunch of dry cotton in his mouth. "Sig me th' warrant."

Hatch went to a small safe and worked the combination. When the door was opened he passed a folded paper to Clannahan. Through all this talk, Henckel had said nothing, and I suspected that Hatch had him there solely for safety's sake, and to provide a witness. With the paper in his pocket, Clannahan got up to go. It was time for me to make a move.

It's curious how an idea will sometimes lay hold of you and knock out reason and common sense and everything else. Clannahan had in his pocket a piece of paper that simply meant ruin to Mr. Norcross, and the blowing up of all the plans that had been made and all the work that had been done. If he should be allowed to get up town with that warrant, the end of every thing would be in sight. But how was I to prevent it?

The three men were on their feet, and Hatch was reaching for the wall switch which controlled the single incandescent lamp hanging from the ceiling of the scale-house. If I could only think of some way to blow the place up and snatch the paper in the confusion.

Up to that minute I had never thought once of the pistol I had taken from Fred May's drawer, though it was still sagging in my left hip pocket. When I did think of it I dragged it out with some silly notion of trying to hold the three men up at the door of the shack as they came out. Hatch's stop to light a cigar and to hand out a couple to the other two gave me time to chuck that notion and grab another. With the muzzle of the automatic resting in the crack of the open window, I took dead aim at the incandescent lamp in the ceiling and turned her loose for the whole magazineful.

Since the first bullet got the lamp and left the place black dark, I couldn't see what was happening in the close little room. I could hear them gasping and yelling and knocking one another down as they fought to get the door open. Sticking the empty pistol back into my pocket I jumped to get action, hurrying my sore hand like the mischief in doing it.

Hatch was the first man out, but the big German was so close a second that he knocked his smaller partner down and fell over him. Clannahan kept his feet. He had a gun in his hand that looked to me, in the darkness, as big as a cannon. I was fastened against the side of the scale shack, and when the divorcee tried to slide-step around the two fallen men who were blocking the way, I snatched the folded paper from his pocket; snatched it and ran as if the dickens was after me.

That was a bad move—the runaway. If I had kept still there might have been a chance for me to make a sneak. But when I ran, and fell over a pile of loose coal, and got up and ran again, they were all three after me. Clannahan taking blind shots in the dark with his cannon as he came.

Naturally, I made straight for the wagon gate, and forgot, until I was right there, that it, and the wicket through one of the leaves, were both locked. As I shook the wicket, a bullet from Clannahan's gun spat into the woodwork and stuck a splinter into my hand, and I turned and sprinted again, this time for the gates where the coal cars were pushed in from the railroad yard. These, too, were shut and locked, and when I ducked under the nearest gondola I realized that I was trapped. Before I could climb the high fence anywhere, they'd get me. They came up, all three of them, puffing and blowing, while I was hiding under the gondola.

"It's probably that cow-boy spotter of Norcross," but he can't get away. Hatch was gritting—meaning Tarbell, probably. "The gates are locked and we can plug him if he tries to climb the fence. There's a gun in the scale-house. You run look under these cars while I go and get it."

It was up to me to move again. Henckel was striking matches and holding them so that Clannahan could look under the cars, and I could feel, in anticipation, the shock of a bullet from the big gun in the divorcee's fat fist as I crawled cautiously out on the far side. Creeping along behind the string of coal cars I came presently to the great gantry crane used for unloading the fuel. It was a huge traveling machine, straddling the tracks and a good part of the yard, and the clam-shell grab-bucket was down, resting on its two lips on the ground.

At first I thought of climbing to the frame-work of the crane and trying to hide on the big bridge beam. Then I saw that the two halves of the clamshell bucket were slightly open, just wide enough to let me squeeze in. If they were looking for a full-sized man—Tarbell, for instance, who was as husky as a farm-hand—they'd never think of that crack in the bucket; and in another second I had wriggled through the V-shaped opening and was sitting humped up in one of the halves of the clam-shell.

That was a mighty good guess. When Hatch came back with his gun, they combed that coal yard with a fine-tooth comb, using a lantern that Hatch had gotten from somewhere and missing no hole or corner where a man might hide, save and excepting only the one I had pre-empted.

As it happened, the search wound up finally under the crane, with the three standing so near that I could have reached out of the crack between the bucket halves and touched them. "Der tuffel has gone mit himself offer der fence, yes?" puffed Henckel. And then: "Vot for las he shoot off dem pistols, ennahow?"

Clannahan confessed, I suppose because he knew he would have, sooner or later.

"It was a hold-up," he growled. "Th' warrant's gone out av my pocket."

Hatch's comment on this was fairly blood-curdling in its profanity.

"Then it's up to you to get him some other way, you blundering son of a thief!" he raged. "I don't care what you do, but if you don't make this country too hot to hold him, it's going to get too hot to hold you!" And what more he was going to say, I don't know, for at that moment a belated police patrol began pounding at the gates on the town side and wanting to know what all the shooting was about.

It was after they had all gone away, leaving the big coal yard in silence and darkness, that I got mine, good and hard. Sitting all hunched up in the grab-bucket and waiting for my chance to climb out and make a getaway, the common sense reaction came and saw what I had done. With the best intentions in the world, in trying to kill off the chance offered to the enemy by the Oregon warrant and the trumped-up charge of murder, I had merely saved the boss an arrest and a possible legal tangle and had put him in peril of his life.

CHAPTER X

The Man at the Window

Of course, the first thing I did, the morning after that adventure in the coal yard, was to tell the boss all about it, and I was just foxy enough to do it when Mr. Hopley was present. Mr. Norcross didn't say much; and, for that matter, neither did the lawyer, though he did ask the boss a question or two about the real facts in the Midland right-of-way squabble.

But I noticed, after that, that our man Tarbell was continually turning up at all sorts of times, and in all sorts of odd places, so I took it that Hopley had given him his tip, and that he was sort of body-guarding Mr. Norcross on the quiet, though I am sure the boss didn't know anything about that part of it—he was such a square fighter himself that he probably wouldn't have stood for it if he had.

Meanwhile, things grew warmer and warmer in the tussle we were making to pull the old Short Line out of the mud; warmer in a number of ways, because, in addition to the fight for the public confidence, we began just then to have a perfect epidemic of wrecks.

The boss turned the material trouble over to Mr. Van Brit and devoted himself pretty strictly to the public side of things. Everywhere, and on every occasion—at dinners at the different chambers of commerce, and public banquets given to this, that, or the other visiting bigwig—he was always ready to get on his feet and tell the people that the true prosperity of the country carried with it the prosperity of the railroads; that the two things were one and inseparable; and that, when it came right down to basic facts, the railroads were really a part of the progress machinery of the country at large and should be regarded, not as alien tax collectors, but as contributors to the general prosperity and welfare.

By this time, also, Red Tower Consolidated was beginning to find out what it meant to have active competition. The C. S. & W. people were hammering their new plants into working shape, and they were getting the patronage, both of the producers and consumers, hand over fist. Track facilities and yard service were granted freely; and while no discrimination was permitted as against the Red Tower people, the friendly attitude of the road counted for something, as it was bound to.

During those few pre-election weeks the New York end of us seemed to have petered out completely. We heard nothing more from President Duntton, worse than an occasional wire complaint about the number of wrecks we were having, though the stock was still going down, point by point, and so far as a high up a tree could see, we were making no attempt to show net earnings—were turning all our money into betterments as fast as it came in. I knew that could not go on without a flurry of some sort. The New Yorkers would never be able to break even, to say nothing of a profit, and I looked every day for a hint that would tear things straight up the back.

There's pleasure in cooking in a cool kitchen

WHEN your cooking is done with a New Perfection Oil Cook Stove the kitchen isn't made uncomfortably hot. All the heat you need is ready, just when and where you want it—there is none lost. You regulate it by simply turning the wick up or down a trifle.

That's why it's so easy with ordinary cooking experience to make light fluffy cakes, crisply crusted pies and toothsome cookies. The New Perfection Oven is up where you can reach it conveniently and look into it easily.

It's a pleasure, too, to be relieved of coal and wood carrying, of sweeping around and under the hood and wood basket or box. A small dust-rag takes the place of the stove blacking brush.

Always be sure to adjust the wick so that the flame has long white tips. These give you the most heat. Another feature of the New Perfection is its long blue chimney. This drives all the heat up to the cooking utensils and doesn't soot up the bottoms of them. Insures complete burning of every drop of oil; none is wasted.

New Perfections are made in five, four, three, two and one-burner sizes. Most buyers select them equipped with the warming cabinet.

Use Aladdin Security Oil for best results; it's always clean and dependable.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most department, furniture and hardware stores.

The TEST of ECONOMY

Apply the test of economy to Today's Oakland Six by relentless comparison with other cars.

Guide your comparison by the basic standards of first cost, gasoline mileage, tire mileage, cost of maintenance and resale value.

Compare it with any other car of similar size. Oakland is more economical.

Compare it with any other car of similar horsepower. Oakland is more economical.

Compare it with any other car of similar price. Oakland is more economical.

Go even further and compare the economy of Today's Oakland with that of smaller, less comfortable, less powerful cars that are priced lower than Oakland.

Your findings must convince you that on the sound basis of net cost for miles of travel delivered, the Oakland is not exceeded in economy by any other car.

The car itself is always ready to prove the things we say of it. Call or phone for a demonstration today.

A TIP TO OUR FOLKS

It is hard work to get folks in most communities to pass the news along to the editor of the home paper. S. A. Mellen, of the Plymouth, Wis., Reporter, tried an unusual slant the other day to stimulate "contribs." Here it is:

HAS ANY ONE
Died ----- Had a fire
Eloped ----- Had a baby Divorced ----- Had a party Left town ----- Sold a farm
Embezzled ----- Been arrested
Come to town
Had twins or colic
Sold a cow or lost an auto
Stolen a dog—or his friend's wife Committed suicide—or murder Fallen from an airplane Fallen into a well
Fallen into a legacy?

Well, then,
THAT'S NEWS
So phone or mail it to
"THE REPORTER"

We make your troubles known.

The newspaper is the best community asset there is. It is the thing that makes for the solidarity of its population; it advertises the town and its interests elsewhere; it boasts the town in a variety of ways and never stops. And then it provides news interest and entertainment for great numbers of the people of the community.

If you have news, as outlined above by Brother Mellen, give it to us!

County News

MARDELA SPRINGS

Mr. Hicks Bennett and granddaughter, Virginia Jones, spent the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Owens. A Missionary and Aid Society was organized among the Baptists on last Wednesday night at the home of Pastor Gorrell. A large crowd was present.

Mr. Robert Robertson has received another car of coal. This is the second car received and it is probably the last for this season. Wood is likely to be scarce, for those having woodland have not been cutting any.

On Saturday afternoon the Spring Hill Guild of the Episcopal Church, entertained the Quilts and Mardele. The Guilds at a picnic near the church building. A good time was had.

Benjamin T. Gravenor died on July 6 and was buried on Friday afternoon in the private graveyard at his home. Rev. J. D. Ford officiating. He had reached the ripe old age of 83. He leaves behind the following named children: Mrs. Samuel F. and Ida. His wife died in 1915. A gentleman told the writer that during Mr. Gravenor's life time he had never been 50 miles from home. He had been to Ocean City and to Easton, but had never been to Baltimore.

The preaching in our churches on Sunday was especially good. Bishop Davenport, of the Episcopal Church, took for his text, John 6:9 and delivered a very practical and helpful sermon. Rev. C. N. Alexander took for his text, Phil. 4:10, and he held the attention of the audience to the very end. Rev. G. W. Gorrell took for his text, 1 Chron. 29:5. The preacher asked at the close of his sermon, "How many are willing now to consecrate their services unto the Lord?" Quite a number of hands went up in response to his question. Dr. Collins, district superintendent, spoke at night in the M. E. Church. He gave a practical illustration of what a sermon in warm sweltering weather should be. He was very happy in his imagery and captivated the audience at once.

Mrs. Gorrell, of Baltimore, mother of Pastor Gorrell, and Mrs. Reese and her son, are spending a few days in the Baptist parsonage.

Our baseball team played here on Saturday with the Preston team and we won by a score of fourteen to seven, so we are informed.

MT. HERMON

Mrs. Ella Ruark spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ruark last week.

Quite a number of people spent the Fourth of July at Parker's. The men cleaning up on the outside and the women on the inside. Ice cream and cake were served.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ruark and family spent Sunday with Mr. Walter Dukes and mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ruark and Lottie M. Dukes spent last Sunday in Sharptown.

Mrs. Levin Niddett and children spent a few days visiting relatives in Mardele last week.

A picnic was held at Mt. Hermon church last Thursday and a large crowd assembled.

Mrs. George Layfield is ill at this writing and we hope she will soon improve.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ruark, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pryor and family, also Mrs. Carrie Pryor and Mrs. Ella Ruark spent the Fourth of July at Sandy Hill and had a splendid time.

Mr. Michael Collins died last Tuesday morning after being an invalid for quite a while. His funeral was preached at Parker's Chapel at 10 A. M. and he was buried at the home burying ground.

Mr. Preston Smith spent last Saturday and Sunday in Ocean City.

PRINCESS ANNE

About midnight last Thursday a fire broke out in Reddell Bros. garage at Marion station and destroyed eight buildings and threatened for a time other portions of the town. The places of business which were burned were: Briddell Bros. garage, Claude W. Messick's blacksmith shop, the old S. T. Miles storehouse, occupied by J. C. Horsey, Jr., the old A. J. P. Tull storehouse, occupied by John Stephens, store of G. W. Howard, shoe repairing place of John Benson, tenement house owned by Mrs. W. E. Whittington, who is right shop of R.

P. Howard, E. W. Tull's store and L. E. Adams' store adjoining the flames on two sides, were in danger for a considerable time, but were saved. The Crisfield Fire Department rendered assistance.

Mr. Earle Morris and Mr. Herbert Holland, of Princess Anne, accompanied by their wives, motored to Ocean City, where they spent the day. The Saint Andrews Episcopal Church will hold its annual Sunday School picnic at Public Landing this Wednesday.

Misses Eloise and Eleanor MacAllen motored to Ocean City last Sunday, where they, with other friends, spent the day.

Miss L. Larline Gibbons left last Friday for New London, Conn., where she will visit Mrs. Phillips Warren.

Miss Sallie E. Dashiell, of Princess Anne, spent the Fourth visiting her parents.

Miss Lenore Brown is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Leslie Carrow, at Norfolk. Hon. Joshua W. Miles spent the week-end in Princess Anne.

Miss Addie Brown is visiting her brother, Mr. Elmer Brown, of Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Prokaski and daughter, Peggy, spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Powell, of Princess Anne.

BERLIN

Dr. and Mrs. William Hammond and two children, of Easton, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. A. R. Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Pitts and little daughter, of Carney's Point, N. J., arrived only a few days ago to spend the remainder of the summer with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pitts and Mr. and Mrs. John Selby Purnell, Sr. Mr. Pitts is just out of the hospital, where he was operated upon for appendicitis.

Mrs. Henry Onley entertained a party of friends and relatives from Girdletree on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Powell motored from their home at Overbrook on Wednesday and are spending the week with his mother, Mrs. J. Anne Powell. A part of the time they will stay at Ocean City at the Powell cottage.

Mr. Carlton E. Boston arrived here Saturday evening to spend his vacation with his wife and little son, who have been here for several weeks, and other relatives.

Miss Annie Powell, who has been for several months at Clifton Forge and Norfolk with relatives, is now with her sister, Mrs. Chester M. Gunby and will remain here until fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Holland returned on Sunday to their home at Norwood, Pa., after spending the previous week with their parents here.

Mrs. John Williams and daughter, Elizabeth, returned on Friday evening from a very pleasant visit with relatives in Baltimore and Wilmington.

Mrs. John Burbage, Sr., is improving at the Peninsula General Hospital where she was operated upon on Saturday last.

Mrs. Levin Porter returned on Saturday from a visit of several weeks with her children in Philadelphia. A little grandson returned with her for a visit.

Mr. David L. Johnson was operated upon for appendicitis on Tuesday last and is improving wonderfully.

The picnics held on Wednesday and Thursday at Henry's Grove by the Episcopal and Methodist Sunday Schools were very largely attended and enjoyed by all.

22 PERSONS FINED FOR FAILURE TO TITLE CARS

As a result of the activity of members of the Title Department, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Department, in prosecuting cases in and around Salisbury for failure to title cars before September 1, 1920, Judge Jones was called upon Monday, July 11, to handle 22 local cases involving this particular breach of the law. In each instance Judge Jones imposed a fine of $5.75.

CANNING DEMONSTRATION

AT PITTSVILLE JULY 29

On Friday, July 29, at the school house in Pittsville, will be held a meeting of the ladies of that town. The meeting is being called by Miss

Mae Hamblin with the object of demonstrating the advisability of canning the culls from their poultry flocks and also the young cockerels instead of selling, or feeding them until ready to use.

One can can poultry of all ages and when the unexpected company arrives there is the chicken on the pantry shelf ready to use. Miss Clara S. Mullen, Home Demonstration Agent, will give the demonstration and all the ladies interested are cordially invited to attend.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made life miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I do not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—Advertisement.

Newly Reduced Prices Increased Value

The plain statement of a price reduction tells less than the full Nash story.

For the Nash manufacturing efficiency and economy that made possible new prices also added quality to Nash cars.

The big Nash plants at Kenosha and Milwaukee are the finest works that could be devised.

Ample finances provided the most modern machinery. Long experience developed the most effective shop practice. And Nash production ability is constantly finding ways to build more economically while building more finely.

The new lower first cost means a lower final cost because of the many betterments continually being embodied in Nash cars.

That is exactly what Nash value stands for—paying less and getting more in able performance, in durability, and in solid comfort.

The worth of every Nash car is further safeguarded by our Nash service that is territory-wide and unfailingly prompt.

Come see the Nash models at their new prices.

MOTOR CAR PRICES APPEAR READJUSTED

Mid-Year Price Changes Are Said To Have Stabilized Industry and Improved the Business.

(From Wall Street Journal).
Readjustment of motor car prices appear to be practically completed, according to a survey by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. In the opinion of students of the automotive industry, the mid-year price changes have stabilized the industry to a degree that is bringing increased sales to most companies. New prices in many instances go back to the figures of a few years ago, although many models are bigger and better.

Carload shipments from factories, during April and May, were 67% of production for the corresponding months of last year, and June figures are expected to show approximately the same rate.

Compared with the feverish rush of motor car buying in the Spring of 1920, a two-thirds demand appears to represent a big falling off, but, compared with normal years, it shows that the automobile industry as a whole is faring better than many other lines of business.

The chamber reports that there has been a steady demand for used cars, prices of which have also been substantially reduced, although reductions have been offset somewhat by smaller allowances on used cars when offered for a trade-in by retail buyers.

In other words, many who waited for the reductions of the past few months saved comparatively little, owing to the lower valuation on their old cars. While the next week or two may bring a few more price changes in cars that have not been reduced this year, it is generally agreed that the mid-year reductions have stabilized conditions in the industry with little possibility of further changes during the balance of this year.

"The success of the automobile industry has been based mainly on big production and the resulting low prices which insure a broad market. For that reason every effort has been made to produce better cars at lower prices. Moreover, in the readjustments of the past few weeks motor car manufacturers generally have taken into consideration the need for increased car and truck sales by the 35,000 dealers throughout the country.

Truck business continues on a par with general business, but with an improved future just as soon as general construction and road building programs get under way and railroads perfect their plans for the use of motor trucks for short-haul traffic and in connection with store-door delivery.

Western Farmers Seek Cheaper Rates

Existing Freight Rates, They Contend, Are Great Economic Handicap To Farm Interests.

In response to numerous requests from farmers of Utah and Idaho, bankers of the two States met at Salt Lake City and authorized filing of requests to Interstate Commerce Commission for readjustments of present freight rates which it is declared form a great economic handicap to the agricultural interest of the intermountain country. Reductions that "will give western farmers a fair chance for their existence" are requested.

It is charged that present rates on grains, fruits, vegetables, wool and livestock in the two states are "discriminatory and unjust." It is pointed out, for instance, that in 1914 freight on yield of one acre of wheat shipped from Idaho to Chicago was about 50% of gross profits of farmer; today this charge takes from the producer all but 88 cents of his gross profits. Last year it cost the Idaho farmer $12.74 to produce an acre of wheat yielding 20 bushels, it is asserted. His gross return was $23.40, leaving gross profits of $10.66. Cost of moving said acre yield to Chicago, $9.78, leaving 88 cents profit an acre. It is declared that the 1914 Chicago freight rate was $5.48, under which circumstances the Idaho farmer made approximately $5.18 an acre.

It is said that the bankers and farmers will have the backing of all the commercial interests in the two states to help win the fight.

AMERICAN BEET SUGAR.

BALDWIN RESUMES WORK.

Baldwin Locomotive Works, which shut down at close of June, has resumed operations, and will run three days a week as before suspension over July 4 holiday. About 7,000 men are now employed. New business has been taken at rate of $3,000,000 a month, chiefly foreign.

Shipment Of Hard Coal Show Increase

Anthracite Shipped Last Month Amounted To 238,012 Tons More Than During May.

The shipments of anthracite for June as reported to the Anthracite Bureau of Information at Philadelphia, amounted to 6,011,217 tons, compared with 5,773,205 tons in May, an increase of 238,012 tons. Cumulative shipments for the first three months of the present year, beginning April 1, have amounted to 17,794,297 gross tons compared with 17,290,046 tons for the corresponding period in 1920, an increase of little over 500,000 tons.

The average monthly shipments for the present coal year have been 5,931,000 tons against 5,780,500 tons for the coal year 1920-21 and have exceeded the averages for any preceding years with the exception of two years 1917 and 1918 when westerly coal recovered from the calm had furnished a temporary excess supply.—Wall Street Journal.

PROSPECT FOR OIL BY AIR.

Baltimore special to Times quotes G. Harrison Smith, president International Petroleum and vice president Imperial Oil of Canada, as saying two metal airplanes, carrying eight passengers and freight sent from Edmonton, safely completed 1400-mile oil prospecting trip to Arctic Circle, farthest trip north yet made by air. Planes carried drillers and equipment. Oil found there does not freeze at 92 degrees below zero and problem is to get it out, there being no road. Says International Petroleum has made new for find of oil in Colombia.

1920 COPPER OUTPUT.

In an advance statement on the production of copper in the United States, in the calendar year 1920, the Geological Survey gives the production of primary copper at 1,290,000,000 pounds, or a decrease of 6% over 1919. The total value of the output in 1920 is stated at $222,167,000, against $239,234,000 for 1919.

The apparent consumption of refined new copper in the United States in 1920 was 1,054,000,000 pounds. In 1919 it was 911,000,000 pounds.

Man Bitten Twice By Copperhead.

Bathers Warned Against Sunburn

Physicians Claim It Appears To Be Unusually Perilous This Year—Numerous Deaths Recorded.

Special warning has been issued by Chicago physicians against sunbath this year, as it appears to be unusually perilous. There have been numerous deaths from this cause, and the number of patients confined to their beds from one to three weeks is said to be unprecedented.

Physicians say sunburn results in severe strain on the heart. Excluding old people and children, it is estimated that if the total body is burned death will ensue in 7 hours; half the body, in 13½ hours; third of the body, 29 hours; fourth, 43 hours; fifth, 61 hours; and one-sixth of the body, badly sunburned, will cause death in 90 hours.

To prevent sunburn bathers are advised to grease their skins with lard, cold cream, white vaseline, lanolin or olive oil before venturing on the beaches. To relieve the agony of sunburn vinegar is very good. Grain alcohol, with talcum powder dusting, is beneficial; also any grease. Cottonseed oil is often used.

TEST SHOWS VALUE OF "CUKE" GRADING

Government Experiment Clearly Indicates Advantages of Careful Grading and Standardization.

A substantial increase in net return to the growers and a stimulated demand for the product were the outstanding features of a test by the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture, for its tentative grades for cucumbers held at Wauchula, Fla., recently in order to determine their value under actual marketing conditions. The test, it is said, clearly indicated the advantages of careful grading and standardization.

The growers' association had built a central packing shed, in which grading machines were installed to handle the product of its members. Of the 48 cars loaded by the association all were well within the grade requirements. Most of these cars contained both No. 1 and No. 2. The average price received for a hamper of No. 1 packed by the association was $2.42; for No. 2, $1.85; for No. 3, 92 cents. "Farm" pack cucumbers were graded only No. 1 and No. 2 and sold for $1.75 and 92 cents, respectively.

The yield per acre of cucumbers ranged from 200 to 350 hampers, with an average of 260. The estimated return per acre was $471.55 for stock packed under the United States grades; No. 1, of which there were relatively the smallest number, selling for a total of $157.30, No. 2 bringing $268.25, and No. 3, $46. The return for "farm" pack, figuring on the same basis, was $268.68 per acre. The No. 1 brought $173 and the No. 2 $95.68. The United States No. 3 were packed in the No. 2 grade by these growers. The association members using the grades got more per acre for the No. 2 than was obtained for the No. 1 "farm" pack. The cost of producing and placing the hamper on the car was between 85 and 96 cents.

SUGAR WILL KEEP BORDEAUX FROM SPOILING

That granulated sugar will keep bordeaux spray mixture from deteriorating is the discovery of one of our Agricultural Experiment Stations. It is well known by farmers that bordeaux becomes almost worthless unless used shortly after being mixed. This trouble can be overcome by adding one-eighth ounce of granulated sugar dissolved in water for each pound of copper sulphate (blue vitriol or blue-stone) used. When sugar is used in the proportion mentioned, the spray mixture will not spoil on account of a break down or delay on account of rain.

For a 200-gallon tank of 6-6-50 bordeaux, which will require 24 lbs. of bluestone, dissolve three ounces (seven heaping teaspoons) of sugar in a little water and add slowly to the tank of spray, agitating until thoroughly mixed. Too much sugar must not be used. For small amounts of spray, dissolve one well rounded, but not heaping, teaspoon of sugar in one quart of water, then use at the rate of one-half pint of this solution for each pound of bluestone going into the amount of bordeaux required.

Larger yields of corn were obtained from native seed. In the wheat tests, Blue, Turkish Amber, Bearded Purple Mammoth Red, China, Currier's Pro-Stra, Dietz Longberry and Fulcrater are leading varieties.

Home Demonstration Work Helped Woman

Wife Of N. Y. Farmer Takes Up Work And Finds Usefulness To Her Family More Than Doubled.

The home demonstration agent touches the life of those she meets and helps far more deeply than appears in typewritten reports about the number present in various classes, the quantities of vegetables canned, hats made, or similar evidences of her activities. In New York State one woman thanks the home demonstration agent of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agricultural college, because her entire outlook on life has altered, her usefulness to her family has more than doubled, and her service to the community at large has a recognizable value.

This college trained woman had large ideas of making her life count for something, at the time of her marriage to a farmer. Through misfortunes of one kind and another things went from bad to worse on the farm, till they reached a somewhat hopeless situation. The woman wanted to help out financially, but could find very little she was capable of doing. Because she wanted to become a part of her community she became identified with club work. The home demonstration agent found her and asked her to prepare the local reports. These were so cleverly done that they attracted attention. She became a local leader. Then she was given a page to prepare in the Farm and Home Bureau Monthly, and did it so helpfully that she had soon earned over $100 and made a permanent place for herself. She gives all the credit to the home demonstration agent who helped her to find herself.

FIRST ASPARAGUS CLUB IN U. S. IS ORGANIZED

An asparagus club has been organized among the boys of Monmouth county, N. J., under the leadership of the county club agent. This is the first of its kind to be started in New Jersey and, as far as the United States Department of Agriculture is informed, in the United States. The enterprise is the outgrowth of cooperation between the market gardening specialist and the county club agent. The object is to demonstrate in the Hazlet community the growing of a large type rust-resistant variety of asparagus.

Some time will have to elapse before the boys realize any profit from their asparagus. In order to sustain this interest and give them some money return for their labor, intercropping will be practiced until such time as the main crop yields returns. This year carrots will be grown.

WHAT IS A BUSHEL?

"Thirty-two quarts make one bushel," recites Young America glibly and positively. But the housewife who has purchased family supplies for years is not at all sure but that this is one of the many rules that have their exceptions. Specialists of the Bureau of Markets, United States Department of Agriculture, say that the heaped bushel varies with the price of the product and the weight bushel varies widely in different states. A bushel of sweet potatoes is 46 pounds in the Dakotas and 60 pounds in Maryland. A bushel of tomatoes is 45 pounds in Oklahoma and 60 pounds in Virginia. A bushel of unshelled green peas is 28 pounds in Massachusetts and 56 pounds in Pennsylvania. The Bureau of Markets recommends the adoption of the "struck" bushel—the Winchester bushel of 2,150.42 cubic inches—as the unit for package standards.

POINTERS FOR POULTRYMEN.

As soon as the breeding season is over and no more hatchling eggs are desired, sell, kill, or separate all male birds so as to have infertile eggs. Hens without a male will lay just as many eggs.

Market all but breeding cockrels as soon as they reach suitable size, usually all broilers. Continue to cull and market all undersized and unthrifty chickens of both sexes.

Be sure that the growing stock is not crowded; there should be room on the roosts for all. Provide plenty of ventilation in the chicken houses.

Save all early hatched, well grown pullets. They make the best fall and winter layers.

Give the growing stock plenty of skim milk or buttermilk to drink.

The standard tire likes nothing better than to prove its service

PEOPLE used to be so secretly envious of the young fellow who came tearing up the street and stopped his car with a jerk.

Now they are inclined to criticize such abuse of tires. A mark of the growing consciousness about tires—their service, their work, their value.

This same respect for a good tire is the reason why the four-square tire dealer has passed up odds and ends, "job lots", "seconds", "cut prices"—and come out squarely with the standard quality service of U. S. Tires.

He is getting a bigger, and also better, tire business than he ever had before.

He is dealing now with his own kind of people. The substantial citizen. The man who knows that you can't get something for nothing. The steady customer—not the bargain hunter.

To the man who has not yet learned the standard tire service he is entitled to we say—

WICOMICO NEWS STORY LEADS TO ARREST OF ALLEGED CHECK FORGER

Man Jailed In W. Va. Is Suspected Of Passing Bad Checks In Salisbury.

NEWS SUBSCRIBER ORDERS HIS ARREST

Mr. L. A. Roberts, Of Martinsburg, Read Article In News Friday A.M., And Stranger Who Asks Him To Cash Certified Check In Afternoon Is Held. Description Talled.

The arrest in Martinsburg, West Virginia, last Friday of the man who is believed to be the same "gentleman" who departed from Salisbury after leaving merchants here in possession of several spurious certified checks reads more like a thrilling movie scenario than it does of a chapter from real life.

Mr. L. A. Roberts, formerly of Salisbury, but who now is conducting a jewelry business in Martinsburg, received his copy of last week's issue of The Wicomico News and was intensely interested in the certified check story that appeared therein. He studied the description given in The News of the stranger who had duped Salisbury merchants by means of bogus certified checks, and laid his paper away.

On Friday afternoon, a stranger entered his place of business and asked him to cash two small certified checks, drawn on a Philadelphia bank, and, as the description given in The News of the man wanted in Salisbury tallied almost identically with the stranger in his store, he immediately brought the matter to the attention of the police authorities of his city and the man was locked up.

Other Bad Checks Cashed.

When the party arrested learned that the authorities were going to telegraph to Philadelphia to learn of the validity of the checks tendered to Mr. Roberts, he is alleged to have admitted that they were forgeries. It also was stated that the party arrested had left bad checks in Elkton and Frederick, Md.

A telegram was dispatched from Salisbury Monday asking for a description of the party arrested, and the following reply was received:

"Five foot seven and a half; 48 to 50 years; 140 pounds; watery eyes; grayish hair; well educated; talks well; light gray suit; straw sailor hat; eye glasses in pocket; left bad checks at Elkton and Frederick, Md.; still in jail here."

Following receipt of this wire, State's Attorney Curtis W. Long sent the following wire to the Martinsburg authorities:

"Believing man described by you to Salisbury National Bank for bad check crime is wanted here, please have police hold him for further orders."

To make sure that the man arrested in Martinsburg is the same one wanted here, a later telegram was sent requesting the authorities to send a photograph of the man for identification. The Salisbury merchants who were "stung" by certified checks say that they can easily identify their man.

Owing to the fact that the photograph of the "suspect" had not been received at the time of going to press, it is impossible to state whether the forger who cut such a swath here is the same party held in W. Virginia. However, from the details given, it is believed that it is the same "gentlemanly" stranger with such nice, "taking" ways.

W. Va. Bank Sounds Alarm.

First news of the arrest was received here when a letter came to the Salisbury National Bank from the Citizens National Bank of Martinsburg. A copy of this letter also was sent to the Southwark National Bank, Philadelphia, the bank on which the alleged spurious checks were drawn, and to the Burns and Pinkerton Detective Agencies. The letter follows: "Man in town attempted to have local jeweler cash two small checks certified by Southwark National Bank, Phila. Checks are as follows: No. 15128, dated 18 inst., drawn by Joseph H. Van Dorn & Co., by Joseph H. Van Dorn, president, payable to H. C. Raynor, $17.90 and check No. 15177 dated 18 inst., drawn by Joseph H. Van Dorn, president, payable to H. C. Raynor, $14.50.

"Strange to say the local jeweler was a former resident of Salisbury, Md., and had just received a Salisbury paper issued yesterday which contained an account of a crooked certified check transaction in his former home city. When the man entered his place of business in the afternoon he became suspicious at once on account of the description carried in the press."

SEVERAL LOCAL STORES TO CLOSE EARLY IN AUG.

Several of the leading merchants of the city have decided to close their stores at five o'clock every afternoon except Saturday during the entire month of August. The stores participating in this movement are Benjamin's, R. E. Powell & Company, J. E. Shockley & Company, Ulman's Sons, M. T. Heckroth and Leeds & Twilley.

Salisbury Red Cross Contributes Clothing

250 Articles Sent By Wicomico Chapter For European Relief—Miss Kell Doing Good Work.

The committee on Nursing Activities of the American Red Cross, of which Mrs. C. R. Cobb is chairman, has sent about 250 articles of clothing for European relief. A majority of these articles consisted of children's clothing but there were also many pieces of warm underwear for suffering mothers. The shipment was valued at about $200.

During June Miss Kell, the public health nurse, employed by the Chapter, made 113 visits. She is now conducting a Home Hygiene Class in Rockwalkin, which has about 20 members.

TWO LOCAL STORES ARE BURGLARIZED

Salisbury Outlet Store And Joe Cornish's Place Broken Into By Thieves.

EAST CHURCH STREET SCENE OF BOTH CRIMES

Burley Jones, Colored, Arrested And Accused Of Breaking Into The Cornish Store—Four Suits Of Clothes And Several Pairs Of Pants Taken From Clothing Store.

Two robberies were committed here this week, one being perpetrated Sunday night and the other early Tuesday morning. Burley Jones, colored, formerly of Deals Island, was arrested for alleged participation in the Tuesday morning crime while the suspected party whom the police believe "pulled off" the other job is expected to be placed in the lock-up within a few hours time.

The store of Joe Cornish, colored, 336 East Church Street, is the place Burley Jones is accused of having robbed, the stolen articles consisting of a razor and a batch of cigars. According to the police, Jones was discovered entering Cornish's place about 3:10 A. M. Tuesday by a colored boy who was attracted to the scene when he heard the noise caused by breaking glass. Jones is alleged to have gained entrance into the store by using an iron bar to break the glass near the window late.

Colored "Suspect" Arrested. "It also was stated that the accused man had an accomplice who stood watch outside and whistled for him to come out. The colored boy told the police that he had a good view of the perpetrator of the crime and that Jones was the man who robbed the store.

Officers Cahall, Dennis and Sullivan went to the place on West Main street where Jones was staying and placed him under arrest. It was later stated that Cornish had identified the razor alleged to have been found among Jones' effects as his property.

The Sunday night robbery occurred at the Salisbury Outlet Store, East Church street, owned by Harry Siskind and Max Rosenzweig, and four suits of clothes and four pairs of pants were stolen. The robber gained entrance to this store by removing the pane of glass from a rear window and crawling inside.

One suit of clothes was recovered Tuesday when it was left by a colored youth in a local colored cleaning and pressing emporium. The proprietor of the place, it was stated, was unaware that the suit had been stolen and took it to the place from which it was originally pilfered to have it exchanged.

TALL CEDARS PICNIC AT OCEAN CITY TODAY

Big Doings on Tap For Annual Event—1,500 Members Are Expected To Gather At Seashore.

Live pig races right on the surf, potato races and other sports in the water will be features of the Eastern-sho' Forest Tall Cedars of Lebanon annual picnic at Ocean City Thursday afternoon and evening. Three bands are expected to enliven the occasion and fire works at night from the pier will brighten the lives of big and little Saplings, their friends and families.

The evening program embraces dancing in the open air pavilion at the south end of the boardwalk. The sports in the surf will begin about five o'clock and will include all sorts of funny stunts devised by the committee on entertainment. Among other things will be a mock initiation into the Tall Cedars.

Arrangements have been made to handle a vast crowd. It is expected that fully 1,500 guests will attend the picnic and the B. C. & A. has put on a special train leaving Hurlock at 1:30 P. M. and stopping at Vienna, Maryland, Hebron and Rhodesdale. This train will leave Salisbury at 2:30 and all Tall Cedars are urged to take the B. C. & A. route rather than go in cars.

Trinity Still Leads Sunday School League

Its Team So Far Has Not Lost a Game—All-Star Nine Will Try To End The Winning Streak.

It seems as if the Trinity baseball team has walked away with the cup offered by the "Y" to the winning team of the Sunday School League. The Presbyterians are determined to come out of the cellar and therefore their stock has risen. The M. P. has a good team and as they have two more games to play they should put a stumbling block in the way of Asbury and the Presbyterians.

One thing is certain, all the boys are determined to put a crimp in "Kiwi" Fields' winning streak, and have organized an All-Star team to play Trinity on Friday, July 29.

MISS PARSONS INJURED WHEN THROWN FROM WAGON

While driving a horse and wagon through the city streets early Tuesday morning, Miss Beatrice Parsons, 17 years old, who lives near Salisbury, was thrown from the wagon and received severe bodily bruises when the horse trampled upon her.

The accident occurred on North Division street near the home of Dr. J. McFadden Dick. Upon hearing the young lady's screams, Dr. Dick rushed out of the house to her assistance and carried her to the Peninsula General hospital. It was found that she had received bad bruises on the back, legs and arms. The sudden stopping of the horse, which caused her to be thrown over the front of the wagon, is said to have been the cause of the accident.

GOOD MOVIE BILL AT "Y" FRIDAY NIGHT

There will be a big attraction at the "Y" this week. Of the nine reels to be shown Friday night, four are the picture, "Between Savage and Tiger." A three reel picture called "The Story of Oil" starts with the drilling for oil and ends with the finished products. "The Lure of the Eric," a short two reel picture, also will be shown. This picture is renowned for its scenery.

FAIR DATES FOR THE DELMARVIA PENINSULA

Peninsula Fairs will be held this year as follows: Harrington, July 26, 27, 28, 29 and possibly 30; Cambridge, August 2, 3, 4 and 5; Tasley, Va., August 9, 10, 11 and 12; Pocomoke, August 16, 17, 18 and 19; Salisbury, August 23, 24, 25 and 26; Wilmington, September 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10.

BOYS READY FOR TRIP TO CAMP FAIRLEE

62 Youngsters Impatiently Awaiting Moment When They Will Board Victor Lynn.

WILL LEAVE HERE NEXT MONDAY MORNING

All Of The Boys Who Are Going Along Are Requested To Meet At "Y" Building Tonight (Thursday) And Receive Their Tent Assignments—Good Cook Engaged.

Everything has been put in readiness for making the Camp Fairlee outing of the Salisbury Young Men's Christian Association a grand and glorious affair, and sixty-two boys are now impatiently awaiting the moment when they will hop aboard the good ship Victor Lynn on Monday morning for the trip up the Chesapeake to the camping ground.

The much-heralded camping trip has attracted no little attention beyond our own confines. Two lads from Baltimore and two others from Chestertown were so eager to take the trip with our local youngsters that the "Y" officials have consented to their going along.

All of the local boys who are going to take the outing are requested to meet at the "Y" building tonight (Thursday) and receive their tent assignments. Each tent will be in charge of a leader, selected from the older contingent, who will be responsible for the conduct of the boys in his particular tent. The boys who assemble at the "Y" tonight also will be given their Camp Letter—a large "Y" which is to be sewn on the shirt.

Good Cook Engaged. Mr. Wm. L. Boggs, physical director of the Young Men's Christian Association, stated this morning that an experienced cook already had been engaged for the big occasion and that

POCOMOKE TAKES LOCALS INTO CAMP

Worcester Counts Trim Salisbury, 13 To 9, In Game That Was a "Comedy of Errors."

A splendid nine-reel comedy was presented at Gordy Park Tuesday afternoon, with the Salisbury team playing the stellar role in the "Comedy of Errors" and with Pocomoke taking advantage of every misdeed of the local performers by jumping on 'em every time they had a lapse of energy. Salisbury made a run during each of the nine reels—and each reel had the fans reel in—while Pocomoke collected 13 tallies and carried home the bacon.

The game was a swat-fest from start to finish, with the Pocomoke artillery being just a trifle heavier, the Pocomokians collecting 13 safe bingles and Salisbury 9. Salisbury's half dozen errors and Pocomoke's five show that the fracas was anything but one of the air-tight variety. "Dead men tell no tales," but a box score is not so silent. The evidence:

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT

Street Repairing and Paving Ordinance Passes First Reading—Permits For Building Granted.

At the regular weekly meeting of the City Council, held Monday night, an ordinance passed its first reading relating to the paving, repairing and grading of both sides of Light street from the south side of Newton street to the north side of Maryland avenue in the city of Salisbury.

On motion of the Council, Mr. Bounds was appointed to investigate the situation on Ellen street. A committee composed of Messrs. Bounds and Melson was appointed to investigate the street beds on London avenue.

A delegation of citizens of Salisbury appeared before the Council complaining of a vicious dog owned by Mrs. E. R. Griffith, and the clerk was instructed to notify Mrs. Griffith to muzzle said dog in accordance with the city ordinance.

Building permits were granted as follows: T. E. Lowe, to erect a bathroom and cellar on the south side of Windsor street adjoining his property.

J. Corrier Mellott, to erect a garage on the south side of Wicomico street adjoining the property of W. P. Jackson.

Civil Service Exams Here On August 20

Open Competitive Examination For Clerk-Carrier in Local Postoffice Scheduled That Date.

An open competitive examination under the rules of the Civil Service Commission for the position of Clerk-Carrier in the Salisbury postoffice will be held on August 20, commencing at 9 A. M.

Applications for this examination must be made on the prescribed form, which, with necessary instructions, may be obtained from the Commission's local secretary at the Salisbury postoffice, or from the secretary Civil Service Board, Washington, D. C.

All persons wishing to take this examination should secure blanks and file their applications at once in order to allow time for any necessary corrections and to arrange for the examination.

DR. C. F. SMITH MOVES OFFICES TO THE NEW NEWS BUILDING

Dr. Charles F. Smith has moved his dental offices from the Humphreys Building at the corner of Main and Division streets to the New News Building at 114½ main Street, where he will be found after Thursday. Dr. Smith will have in addition to the two operating rooms he has had before, a third one completely equipped with the best and latest dental devices on the market. The other two operating rooms also are equipped in an excellent manner, making the suite one of the most up-to-date on the peninsula.

MRS. WM. W. HEARN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Mrs. Sallis A. Hearn, wife of Wm. W. Hearn, died Friday morning, July 15, at the home of her daughter on W. Locust street. Although a great sufferer for many months, she never complained, and always looked on the brighter side of life, with a pleasant smile for everyone. Mrs. Hearn was known and loved by all for her sunny disposition.

The deceased was 73 years old and for many years a member of the O. S. Baptist Church. She leaves behind her husband, Wm. W. Hearn, two children, Mrs. A. J. Elliott, of Salisbury, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. Chas. Hastings, of Wilmington; seven grandchildren and five great grandchildren. Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon by Elder Mellott at the Baptist Church. Interment was in Parsons cemetery.

LUMBER SCOW SINKS NEAR MAIN ST. BRIDGE

Early Saturday morning a scow owned by Wood Anderson, of White Haven, and loaded with lumber belonging to C. R. Disharoon Co., sank just above the Main street bridge. The lumber was seen floating around the river, and later in the morning another scow was towed up and the loose lumber loaded on it.

A great many Salisburyans motored to Sandy Hill Sunday to enjoy the fine bathing there.

SEVERAL LOADS OF GREEN 'LOUPES' TURNED DOWN BY LOCAL BUYERS

M. P. BUILDING COMMITTEE NOW READY FOR BIDS

Approved plans and specifications for the new Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church have been received, and the building committee now is in position to consider bids on the construction work. The new edifice will be erected on the recently purchased lot at the corner of North Division and William streets, and, when completed, will be one of the finest churches in Maryland.

Salisbury Wins Gratifying Honors

Mrs. William Feldman, Taking Vocal Culture At Chautauqua, Given Oratorio Solo Part.

Mrs. William Feldman was distinctly honored Friday evening when, from a group of three hundred singers, she was chosen to take the solo parts in the oratorio "Elijah" at Chautauqua, New York. Accompanied by the New York Symphony Orchestra, her performance was unusually fine and she was complimented enthusiastically upon her wonderful vocal ability.

Mrs. Feldman has been taking a course in vocal culture at Chautauqua this season and has won popularity with her directors and audiences on account of her rare talent and pleasing personality.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR SUPPORT OF BASEBALL

Gate Receipts Insufficient To Defray All Expenses Of A Winning Team.

PUBLIC CONTRIBUTIONS ARE BEING SOLICITED

"Tag Day" Last Saturday brought in $132.50, But Committee Figures That Sum Of $2,000 Will Be Needed—Other Shore Teams Strengthening For Race Down Home-Stretch.

Last Saturday was "Tag Day" for the baseball fund, and that the fans contributed generously to the cause is attested by the sum of $132.50, which was realized from the sale of the small pieces of card board. Pretty girls in abundance helped the cause along by assisting in disposing of the tags, and it surely was a hardened heart that even slightly balked at "coming across" with the good coin of the realm when broached by one of the dainty salesladies.

The money realized from "Tag Day," however, is merely a drop in the bucket to what is needed to keep a good ball team here in Salisbury, as the expense of keeping a first class team going is by no means a small one. While the fans have been turning out in goodly numbers for the local games, even the gate receipts will not take care of the entire expenses. To put the matter plainly, to continue to have a first class team here means that public contributions must find their way to the baseball management's treasury.

Trying To Raise $2,000.

At a meeting held last Thursday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to consider ways and means of further financing baseball here, several contributions were pledged to help support the team and a committee was appointed to solicit funds. The committee hopes to be able to raise $2,000 so that the baseball season will be carried through successfully until September 1, but it is now up to the public that wants to see good baseball in Salisbury to step forward and give generously to the team's support.

One baseball fan stated yesterday: "Many of the people have been demanding a team here that will clean up the other Shore teams, and yet some of those who have been doing the most talking have not yet shown any signs of financial support in the way of a contribution."

As an illustration of what it costs to keep a good team in Salisbury, the following should serve as food for thought. The biggest gate receipts (Continued on Page 2.)

No Offers Made On Unripe Stuff Brought Here Last Week And On Monday.

DEMAND IS GOOD FOR RIPE MELONS

U. S. Department Agriculture Expert Says That This Section Should Be Biggest 'Loupe Center In United States—Mr. Beattie Gives Many Pointers On When To Pick Melon.

In line with the efforts being made to place the reputation of Wicomico cantaloupes upon the highest pinnacle, several growers of 'loupes who brought green melons to this market both last week and on Monday of this week were considerably jolted when local buyers refused to bid on the unripe products.

Several wagon loads of 'green 'loupes were turned down last week and several more were given the same treatment on Monday. The concerted action of all the buyers in refusing to bid on the early-plucked commodity shows that they are determined to see that conditions existing in past years be eliminated, thereby adding greatly to the prestige of the local product.

In speaking of the wonderful opportunity that growers of cantaloupes have for making this one of the biggest 'loupe section in the United States, Mr. W. R. Beattie, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who is now here on a visit of several days looking over the situation, said that the opportunity here is far better than in California for growing melons on a big scale and for making this the premier market if the growers will only give the people what they want—ripe, sweet cantaloupes.

Conditions Favorable Here. "This section of the Eastern Shore," said Mr. Beattie, "is in position to grow far better cantaloupes than California. Soil and climatic conditions are much better here, and the melons grown in Wicomico are better looking, better tasting and of better quality. However, to make this a real, big market, the growers must not pick their melons too green, as has been the case in many instances in the past."

As an example of how carefully the California product is scrutinized before being put on the market, Mr. Beattie cited the instance where the California State Marketing Bureau turned down 45,000 crates of cantaloupes in one week because they had been picked too green and would not allow them to be shipped.

"California shipped 9,000 car loads of cantaloupes in four weeks this year," continued Mr. Beattie, "but this section should be able to easily out-rival the Western state owing to the fact that it is within 24 hours of the best Eastern markets, while it takes from 8 to 12 days to bring a car load of 'loupes from the Coast."

"I have seen some mighty fine melons since I have been here. They are of excellent flavor and some of them are as pretty as I ever put my eyes upon. Still, much can be done by impressing the growers with the importance of picking melons that are not too green."

When To Pick 'Loupes.

"Cochran Bros., of Hurlock, have made a business for years of shipping 'loupes at the right stage of ripeness, and, as a result of their precaution in this regard, they were getting $4 per crate for their goods when others were receiving about $2.50. This was two years ago, but this firm stands high in the esteem of the buyers because they sell only high grade stuff, well graded and properly packed."

Mr. Beattie has offered the following suggestions to growers of cantaloupes as to time of picking: "Pick them when the stem will break free from the melon by the pushing of thumb or finger. Pick often; at least every other day, at first, then every day, and finally two or three times a day. 'Loupes should always be picked greener toward the end of the season than at the beginning of the season. Watch your cantaloupes closely so they don't get over-ripe over Sunday, and pick them on Sunday if necessary."

Accompanying Mr. Beattie to Salisbury was Mr. S. B. Shaw, of the Maryland Extension Service, College Park, and both Mr. Beattie and Mr. Shaw said they are willing and anxious to do everything within their power to help local growers of 'loupes.

DANGER LURKS WHEN CHECKS ARE HELD FOR UNDUE LENGTH OF TIME

Salisbury Banker Avers That It Always Is A Safe Policy To Start Checks On Their Way Home On Same Day Received.
Delay May Mean Loss Of Money To Holders.

By HARRY W. RUARK,

Secretary Salisbury B. L. & B. Assn.

Little thought is given to the possible loss or danger caused by holding a check for days and sometimes weeks before depositing it or having it cashed, and it is the writer's desire to emphasize the importance of using checks as soon as possible after they are received so that they may be presented for payment to the bank upon which they are drawn.

A check is nothing more than an order upon a bank to pay out of the funds on deposit of the maker or makers, as the case may be, of the amount stated in the check, and the transaction is not completed until the check is presented to the bank upon which it is drawn and payment received.

A bank pays checks in the order in which they are presented and not in the order in which they are drawn, and while a check might be good at the time it is drawn and for a reasonable time afterwards, if it is held a check or checks issued at a later date may be presented and paid reducing the account to an amount less than the check thereby causing a loss or inconvenience.

Banks cannot possibly have knowledge of the number and amount of checks outstanding against the accounts of their various customers. Therefore, a holder of a check cannot recover from a bank the amount of the check or checks, and the only hope or recourse is to the maker if the check is not good at the time it is presented for payment.

While it might be inconvenient at times to start a check on its way home the day it is received, yet it will pay in the long run to take the time necessary to do it.

PICTURES WORLD'S BUSINESS AS MENDING

Thomas F. Ryan, Before Sailing For Europe, Expresses Confidence Regarding Trade Outlook.

Thomas F. Ryan sailed on the White Star liner Olympic for a trip of several weeks to London, Paris and Brussels. Mr. Ryan said that his trip was entirely for pleasure. Regarding domestic conditions he said:

"I feel confident that business conditions all over the world, with very few exceptions, are slowly improving. In this country, orderly but persistent liquidation has been going on for many months. Our merchants are buying only what they can sell quickly for cash. The consumers have had to listen to so much pessimistic talk that they buy what is absolutely necessary for their daily wants, because they have been expecting a still further reduction in prices. People everywhere have been frightened, but they are getting over that. Our people are the greatest consumers of food and manufactured products in the world in normal times, and normal times are slowly coming back."

"While the labor question is a difficult one, there are many signs which show that union as well as non-union laborers are willing and honestly trying to do their part in the readjustment of prices which is going on. I hope the standard of living and pay of the working man will never reach the low pre-war levels. To force that would be a very bad thing for everybody. The evils created in seven years, largely by a disastrous war, cannot be corrected in a few days, but a spirit of determination and cooperation on the part of all will help to bring prosperity much sooner than most people think. I also feel hopeful because President Harding has put on his great power and influence in the readjustment of prices as well as in the settlement of foreign and domestic questions which so evidently affect the economic situation and the prosperity of all our people."

CANADIAN RAILROAD CUT AFFECTS 10 P. C. EMPLOYEES

Temporary agreement of the rail ways with the shop craft employees, which has been made without prejudice to future negotiations, affect about 30,000 men, or 10% of the total of railway employees in Canada. They are taken as reflecting the attitude of the employees in general.

These reductions average about 12%. Some of the principal reductions in rates follow: Track foreman, 10 cent an hour; telegraphers, 6 cents; freight engineers and firemen, 8 cents; passenger conductors and brakemen, 7 1/2 cents.

GENERAL REDUCTION IN COAL RATES NOT EXPECTED

R. J. Rowe, coal traffic manager of the Illinois Central, says no general reduction in coal rates is considered, but if it were, reduction would require many weeks for checking up. It took the railroads six months to get their rate schedules in shape for last year's increases.

PRESS COMMENT

Advices to Department of Commerce indicate petroleum production in Russia for 1920 was in excess of 25,000,000 barrels, compared with 63,072,000 barrels, 1917; 27,168,000 barrels, 1918; 31,752,000 barrels, 1919. Stocks of petroleum products on October 1, 1920, amounted to 36,270,000 barrels.

Detroit Free Press says Henry Ford is considering purchase of Toledo & Port Wayne division of Wabash Railroad, with eye to buying entire system. Complete ownership would give Ford direct connections from Detroit to St. Louis and from latter city to Muscle Shoals. Ford and Wabash officials inspected Toledo branch last week to ascertain necessary improvements.

Chicago dispatch says reports of wheat acreage from 17 countries, including United States, Canada and India, state 151,000,000 acres are planted against 155,000,000 last year. Canadian wheat condition is 102 against 98 last year. Drought has changed prospects for bumper crop in most countries to medium crop of fair quality. United States will not have over 225,000,000 bushels for export, or 130,000,000 less than last year.

The meals this cook would turn out would be of the kind to make the boys smack their lips with pleasure.

The "Y" officials also desire to express their appreciation of the kindness of Mr. Erner, of the Army & Navy Store, who has loaned the campers 10 extra cots, which enables them to take care of all the boys satisfactorily.

That the boys are highly excited over the trip, and are thinking and dreaming of Camp Fairlee is attested by the following conversation that took place when two boys met on Main street yesterday:

"Hello, Bill," said one of the boys, "I got everything."

"Huh," said the other, "got the mumps?"

"Now, you idiot, I got everything ready for camp."

The following boys will attend Camp Fairlee:

of the season were received Saturday when Dover was played at Gordy Park, the gross receipts amounting to $313.00. After deducting $38.00 war tax, $70 paid to visiting team, $1 each to three policemen, $5.50 to ticket seller and collector, $12 for 6 new balls and $10 for advertising and circulars, the management had $181.20 left to help pay the players salaries.

Contributions Needed. The team plays at least three games each week away from home, and the guarantees received are just sufficient to enable it to break even. Therefore, with a weekly expense of approximately $600, it can be easily seen just where the management "gets off" unless public contributions are received.

The management is doing everything within its power to put a winning team on the field here, and the loyal support of the fans should be forthcoming in every way possible. "Pat" Krebs, coach of the St. John's College nine, has been engaged for the rest of the season, and his influence has been seen right from the start. Aside from the disastrous affair with Pocomoke Tuesday, the team has been putting up gilt-edged, winning baseball.

Crisfield has greatly strengthened its team since it lost the brace of games with Salisbury and other Shore teams, too, are getting all primed for the onward procession down the home stretch. Therefore, let's be equally as alert and show 'em that when the head of the stretch is reached Salisbury will still have its nose out in front.

account he had just read. He brought the matter to the attention of the police authorities, who, on the suggestion of several bank men were about to wire to the certifying bank in Philadelphia, but when the detained man heard of this move he admitted that the checks were crooked, and tonight is held in the city lock-up.

"Will the Southwark National Bank please notify the Van Dorn firm, which, from the printed check appear to be carrying an audit and collection business. Also, will the Salisbury bank notify interested parties in its city?"

THRIFT

The lesson all the mercantile business houses and trades are trying to teach in SALISBURY this week is one of THRIFT.

In other words, that the way to thrift is in the saving of that which is already yours—maybe by an added investment to offset natural depreciation.

Now our CLEAN-UP, PAINT-UP and FIX-UP story is short. That one word THRIFT tells it.

"TAKE CARE OF THAT WHICH IS YOURS"—and that applies likewise to your earnings—to your income—however it may come.

TIMELY AGRICULTURAL ITEMS CULLED BY COUNTY AGENT COBB

By GEORGE R. COBB.

Figures from 461 potato farms in the United States show that "labor, both man and horse, fertilizers and seed" constitute about 80 per cent of the total cost of potato production in average practice. A farmer knowing these facts can very easily figure out the cost of growing his potato crop. The remaining 20 per cent includes taxes, overhead expenses, etc., and charge for use of land. Maine growers say that it costs $2.56 to grow a barrel of potatoes.

Walter Disharoon was telling us of a mighty good scheme they use in New Jersey for grading tomatoes. This grading was done on endless belts and each farmer paid so much for the grading and handling of his crop. Looks like a central packing house is what we need for cantaloupes especially.

We saw some real cucumbers last week out at Chris Hastings' farm. Any man who has averaged $1.59 per hamper so far this season must have real cukes and we know that he has them because we saw the vines and the cukes on the vines. Everyone at the B. C. & A. yards say that Chris has been bringing in excellent cukes and they also say "he is getting excellent prices." Of course he should get excellent prices for excellent goods. We saw, among other good things, some mighty fine looking Leghorn pullets that Chris thinks a lot of, also real gates that open and shut without straining and grunting. We expect to go out again soon to follow up some experiments that he is carrying on.

Straughn Lloyd told us that the grading the farmers did last year with their cucumbers made a real impression on the buyers at the other end. In fact many commission men wanted only Salisbury cukes. That sounds good to us.

It doesn't pay to grow sweet potatoes in the same land year after year if diseases show up much. We saw several cases this past week where "black rot" and "stem rot" had carried over winter in the soil and many plants are affected.

Cantaloupes will grow without New York manure and they will also grow with manure so it is largely a question of dollars and cents. Gabriel Banks has a mighty pretty patch of loupes on land that has had no manure for three years. When we were there last week the vines were dark green and vigorous with a nice setting of fruit. But these loupes have been fertilized and cared for properly.

Blight has started among loupes and cukes and hot, showery days will spread this disease very fast. We have several trials going on now to see if we can control this disease by dusting. When vines get large it is not practical to spray so we are trying to find something that can be used when the vines are small.

Noticed several houses and barns lately that were equipped with lightning rods not properly put up. Rods put on a building improperly are worse than none at all. Look yours over.

There are several patches of "Hubam," the new annual sweet clover, in the county this year. We are watching these very closely and hope that it lives up to its reputation. If this crop proves out it may be just the legume we need to fit in our short rotation.

We have the following varieties of soy beans on trial here this year and we expect to make a public report on these this fall: Wilson, Tarheel, Bilexi, Ostootan, Hahto, Black Eyebrow, Virginia, Manch, Haberlandt, Peking, etc. If these trials work out right we ought to learn something about the different varieties of soy beans as adapted to our own county.

Have you read the record that Mrs. Walter Farlow, Pittsville, made with only 65 White Wyandottes? Better read it over carefully and then decide to keep records and do as well as she did. Mrs. Farlow does not claim to have more brains than the average woman nor does she claim to have any "secrets," so "go thou and do likewise."

Graham Gunby told us the other morning that he was surprised that one irrigated patch of five acres could cause so much "rain" all over the county. Perhaps if this system had been installed earlier we would have had no prolonged dry spell, but we knew it wouldn't rain when we saw John Wilcox carrying a raincoat and umbrella—sure way to keep off rain.

Theodore Hearn was very much pleased with his crop of Vetch and Crimson Clover for hay and he will plant more of the same mixture this year.

Maurice Truitt, Pittsville, will conduct a poultry demonstration this year, following plans and advice of Mr. Rickey from the University of Maryland. His poultry house, 100x18 feet, will be built according to plans of Mr. Rickey and will be partitioned off so as to secure 100 bird units. The method and kind of feed suggested by Mr. Rickey will be followed by Mr. Truitt and they fully expect to get results worth working for. Several such demonstrators scattered throughout the county would soon show what can be done with poultry if handled properly.

That long dry spell cut the acreage of soybeans about in half. From careful estimates we figure that we would have had twice as many acres of this valuable crop than we now have if the season had been normal.

Many complaints are being heard that cukes and loupes are not setting heavily. Plenty of vine and blossoms but little fruit. Some of the cases we have looked into seem to be too much ammonia in fertilizer plus manure. We all know that ammonia will continue plant growth and retard the ripening of practically every fruit and vegetable except "leaf" crops.

We forgot to mention the field of corn that George Nichols has. We saw this field during the dry spell and it sure was pretty. Shows that there must have been humus in the soil to hold moisture and we know that he kept a dust mulch by constant cultivation.

Did you attend the Grange picnic at Mardela last Thursday? You sure missed a good time if you were not there. We ought to have at least one big county picnic each year. Nothing better than these big "get-together" meetings.

ODD FELLOWS WILL HOLD BIG REUNION

Thousands of Members Will Gather For Annual Event At Mt. Lake Park, Md., August 4.

Odd Fellows of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia and District of Columbia are planning to hold one of the greatest fraternal gatherings ever held in the state of Maryland, when thousands of members will gather at Mt. Lake Park, Md., and Thursday, August 4, for the annual reunion celebration of the five states.

Grand Master Saul Praeger, of Cumberland, head of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, together with officials of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania and Virginia, will be present and participate in the ceremonies.

Every branch of the order, including the Rebekahs and the Encampments, will be represented, and from present indications the event promises to surpass anything of its kind ever attempted by the Odd Fellows. A special attraction will be the appearance of members of Jahaza and Mithras Sanctorums, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection (the playground of the order), from Baltimore and Washington, who will lend an oriental flavor to the assemblage, and help in the fun-making.

The committee of which A. T. White, of Mt. Lake Park is chairman, has arranged an elaborate program for the entertainment and pleasure of the vast throng that will crowd the mountain top. There will be addresses and music of a high order, as well as other features.

Arrangements have been made with the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for special trains, with a low rate of fare for the round trip. This, with the improved state highway, leading direct to the park, from many points not reached by excursion trains, will permit many to come by automobile over the historical National pike to Keyser Ridge, and then to this popular summer resort.

Many local Odd Fellows are expected to make the trip.

WOMEN GIVE OUT.

Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Salisbury woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to heed this Salisbury woman's experience.

Mrs. Gordon Hurley, 414 E. Isabella St., says: "My kidneys were weak and if I overworked or took cold it would settle on them, causing such severe backaches I could hardly keep going. Mornings, especially, I felt dull and languid. When I stooped or went up or down stairs I would have blinding dizzy spells and would almost topple over. The action of my kidneys was irregular and my sight was affected. Doan's Kidney Pills from White & Leonard's Drug Store soon rid me of all this trouble." 50c at all dealers. THE BUDNITZ APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of Edmund Budnitz, Baltimore lawyer and close friend of John J. Mahon, Democratic boss of Baltimore, as Prohibition Director for the State of Maryland, is an appointment that has caused no little amount of uneasiness to spread among the ranks of the "drys" in the State of Maryland.

Mr. Budnitz is generally considered as having "wet" leanings, but whether he in reality is a "wet" or a "dry," the mere fact that he was sponsored by a man of Senator Weller's pronounced "wet" views, and the hammer-and-tong methods the Maryland senator used in putting across the appointment, surely gives the "drys" plenty of room to be apprehensive.

News articles in the city press, say that Mr. Budnitz is a Mahon candidate, that the Democratic chieftain is jubilant over the appointment, and that the "wets" also are joyful because they believe they have at last got a "wet" man at the throttle of the prohibition enforcement machinery in this State. And during all the rumpus, Mr. Budnitz, except for one formal statement given to the press, remains discreetly silent.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Budnitz will now tackle the job with all the vigor at his command and allay the fears of the "drys" by seeing that the Volstead Law is strictly enforced. With the consolidation of the offices formerly headed by Mr. Dodson and Mr. Stone into one office—the bringing of the permit and enforcement ends under the same head—he has plenty of work ahead of him. With the limited forces at his command, both Mr. Dodson and Mr. Stone did excellent work while they had charge of their respective offices—they labored long and diligently to see that the law was strictly enforced, and much credit is due them.

Mr. Budnitz has an equal opportunity to do much good for prohibition enforcement in this State, and we earnestly hope that he makes the best of his opportunity.

PRESERVING OUR PRESERVERS.

Preserve your teeth in your youth and in your old age they will preserve you. This, in effect, is what Dr. Charles F. Smith told the members of the Rotary Club at their meeting last Thursday night. After describing some of the consequences of neglected teeth, Dr. Smith related what he had discovered at a free dental clinic which he, with the aid of the Public Health Nurse, conducted in the city last year.

Out of half a hundred children examined by the dentist, only two were acquainted with the tooth brush. These two exceptions used a brush once a week under compulsion. Reaching mature age, hardly one of these children will cease to regret the habits of negligence formed in childhood. Will the diseases incident to bad teeth in the years to come be their fault or the fault of those who should have taught them the importance of oral hygiene? If teeth be all important factors of good health, are we doing what we should to safeguard the future interests of the nation so long as we permit conditions exposed by this clinic to exist?

One of the outstanding features of our public school system is the prominent position that athletics occupies. Long ago it was discovered that the proper dwelling place of a sound mind is in a sound body, and the public schools today are administered with this idea as a fundamental one. Athletic exercise everywhere is encouraged, not only because it builds up the body, but also because it stimulates the growth of manliness and womanliness. In many schools a course in gymnasium work is a requisite to graduation, and the physical benefits of military schools are apparent.

Yet of what benefit is it to build up a strong body and leave it absolutely at the mercy of bad teeth; for, we are told, one diseased tooth will undermine the strongest constitution. All the nourishment we use for building up the bodily tissues must pass the teeth. It rests with us as to whether the condition of that nourishment be clean and wholesome after it leaves the mouth, or fraught with danger. Our teeth are jewels when they are well cared for; neglected, they become more perilous than the insidious poisons of a Medici.

What is the solution of a problem so laden with future trouble? Education of the child either at home or through the agency of the public school. Manufacturers of tooth brushes and dentifrices have done much to educate the public, and we are all familiar with the slogan of the yellow box—"A clean tooth never decays." That slogan might go further and state that a clean tooth also does much to prevent decay in other parts of the body.

In a number of progressive schools, according to Dr. Smith, good teeth are a requisite to promotion, and he predicts that we shall see the day when our public schools will adopt this plan. When that day comes, we can rest assured that many bodily ills which now vex us will pass into oblivion, and the future citizenry of the nation will be greatly improved. While waiting for this to happen, however, let us follow the path of wisdom: Brush your teeth regularly and you will brush away many troubles.

THE CALL TO DISARM.

The proposal made by President Harding for a conference of the Great Powers on the subject of disarmament has met with enthusiastic approval both here and abroad. It is characterized as an act of far-seeing statesmanship and a bright augury for world-wide peace, offering to a distracted world new hope and promise of relief. The peoples of America, of Canada, of Japan, of Australia, of France and of England have expressed their sincere approval of the proposal, and seem determined that good shall come of it if good is humanly possible.

Burdened as they are with debts from the recent holocaust, they will not tolerate quibbling on the part of their representatives when those representatives meet. It is within the realms of human possibility to accomplish something definite at this coming conference, the people of the world will see that that something is accomplished. They have set their minds and hearts on one thing: lifting the stupendous load of taxation necessary for unlimited armament. They know of but one way to attain this desire: by disarming.

The estimated expenditures for navies alone for 1920-1921 amounts almost to a million and a half dollars for the five Great Powers, and of this amount the United States' share is half a million. Every cent of the sum must be raised by taxation. Consider what it would mean to the world if this gigantic sum were made available for commercial purposes rather than for creating vast engines of destruction. If the limitation of armament would mean so much to the United States, the wealthiest country in the world and the one that has suffered least from the World War, it would mean infinitely more to those war-ridden European countries which at present are unable to meet even the interest on their loans from America.

The world is tired of bloodshed and destruction. This generation holds its sword, the next generation its nose, to the grindstone. One act compels the other. The men and women of the nations alone bear the awful curse of war; they alone bear the burden of war debts; and they alone should decide if there shall be war. It is really the people who have forced the calling of this disarmament conference. If the representatives at the first meeting should fail to reach agreement, the people who sent them there will send others until the frightful apprehension of a world plunged in conflict shall become but a spectre of the past.

The conference will face many difficulties, not the least of which will be the solution of the far-Eastern question. All that could be done, however, to make for clear sailing, has been done. The invitation was issued by one of the two countries most vitally interested in the Far-Eastern problem and was accepted by the other after some demur. If this one question can be settled satisfactorily, disarmament will follow almost automatically. Other problems there are in plenty. Germany is still a menace, and Russia is a potential source of trouble. But if the representatives have the will, a way will be found; if they have not, the people will find that way.

Body Of Soldier Hero Laid To Rest

Impressive Services Mark Burial of Remains of G. Stanley Malone, Killed in France.

Followed by the largest concourse of friends that has ever gathered at Allen to pay homage to the departed dead, the remains of Corporal G. Stanley Malone were laid to rest in the cemetery adjoining Allen Church last Sunday afternoon. He fell in action on the Western front on October 8, and three days later yielded up his young life on the altar of his country.

His father, the late George T. Malone, was buried on June 24, just one month previous to the funeral of his son. His mother was Miss Sadie Willey, of Baltimore, and, together with one daughter, is left to mourn a double loss.

The deceased was given a military funeral by the American Legion and his old comrades of Company "I" bore his casket to its last resting place. Chaplains Covington and Eldecie had charge of the services at the grave.

Rev. F. R. Holland, pastor of the Allen church and W. J. Twilley, a retired minister of Allen, Md., conducted a very impressive and beautiful service in the church and together with Mr. Roscoe Jones paid eloquent tribute to the memory of departed.

SALISBURY DEFEATS CRISFIELD NINE, 4-3

Local Team Plays Well Both in Field and at Bat—Wolfe Makes Sensational Play.

The Salisbury and Crisfield baseball teams clashed in Gordy Park last Thursday afternoon for the first time this season, and at the end of the milling the local team had chalked up one more tally than made by the Crisfieldians; score, 4 to 3. It was a contest that was hard fought from beginning to end and many plays of exceptional brilliance were reeled off during the afternoon's encounter.

CRISFIELD TEAM BLANKED BY LOCALS IN SECOND GAME

The return game with Crisfield was played on the latter's grounds Friday, and Salisbury managed to register a 4 to 0 victory over the Somerset county nine. Schuler, the Crisfield pitcher, got off to a good start by striking out the first three men that faced him in the initial frame. In the second session, however, three doubles in rapid fire order proved to be his undoing. August, the Salisbury hurler, was in excellent form and held the Crisfield batters in check all the way.

POCOMOKE BEATS LOCAL TEAM, 3 TO 0

Pocomoke took the measure of the Salisbury team on the former's grounds, last Wednesday afternoon, administering a 3 to 0 defeat. Jones, for Salisbury, hurled good ball, but Pocomoke's twirler held the local boys to a couple of hits, which tells the story. Since this game was played, however, the Salisbury boys have recovered their batting eyes and now whaling the ball in good fashion.

SNOW HILL DEFEATED BY SALISBURY TEAM

Worcester County Nine on Short End Of 11-4 Score—Three Home Runs Feature of Game.

The game with Snow Hill last Monday afternoon, which was played on the diamond of the Worcester countians, produced the heaviest hitting which the Salisbury team has shown so far this year, 15 hits being garnered off the delivery of the Snow Hill twirlers. Salisbury won, 11 to 4.

DOVER IS GIVEN A TRIMMIN', 8-3

Salisbury Batters Get Busy In Eighth Session and the Heavy Barrage Produces Six Runs.

Dover tackled the Salisbury team last Saturday afternoon at Gordy Park and at the end of the fray the official scorer had credited Salisbury with 8 runs and Dover 3. The game drew the biggest crowd of the season and the contest was a thriller from start to finish.

Vacation Bible School Closes

Sessions Brought To Close Today (Thursday) After Having Had Record Enrollment.

The Daily Vacation Bible School conducted by Rev. H. Lloyd Parkinson in the Division Street Baptist Church was brought to a close this morning (Thursday). Closing exercises were held and each child received the work that he or she had done during the term and a treat was provided.

The school had been in session four weeks, meeting each morning at 9.30 until 11.30 with the exception of Saturday's and Sunday's. Classes were held in kindergarten, woodwork, basket making, hammock making and embroidery.

The enrollment this year was greater than last. Altogether there were 60 children enrolled. Of this number, 36 were Baptists, 5 Methodist Protestants, 14 Methodists (N. and S.) 1 Episcopalian, 1 Reformed and 1 Jewish.

The faculty consisted of Miss Margaret Dove, Miss Elizabeth Disharoon and Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Parkinson. The school wishes to acknowledge the kindness of E. S. Adkins & Company in providing lumber for the boys.

News From Our County Correspondents

MARDELA SPRINGS

Captain Webb Phillips came home on Monday night to attend his brother-in-law's funeral, but got here too late. He left his vessel at Readville, Va. Cap. Phillips is one of our prominent Masons. He has a nice home here in Marдела Springs and his many friends are always glad to see him home again.

A thoughtless custom—Some people there are who borrow the auto license of their neighbor's car. Of course they do not properly realize that this is breaking the law themselves and causing their neighbor to break the law also. There is so little respect for law at present, the world over, that it is incumbent upon all good citizens everywhere to stand up for law and order. To violate one law, to that extent is helping to break down all laws. Some violate the Volstead law by the manufacture of some vile drink and furnish it to mere boys and thus help to break down the moral life of these sons of good parents. And there are good people who know of these violators and through fear will not inform upon them. By this refusal, in the eyes of the law, become participants criminals. We are all under obligation to give any fact at our command that would lead to the apprehension and prosecution of these violators of law. It is not a question as to whether we may want to or not, but it is an imperative duty upon our part.

Our boys on Tuesday played a nice, clean game with the Laurel team and beat them, 7 to 2.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Mack Bradley was removed to the Peninsula Hospital suffering with typhoid fever. This makes the third case of that dread disease which has broken out in the community of late. This is a time to make a thorough cleanup of our premises, or there may be an epidemic of typhoid. There are unfortunately some premises which are simply breeding places for fevers. Clean up and take away everything that would make an offensive odor. Use plenty of slacked lime. It seems strange that our dealers do not keep lime on hand. Be sure that the toilets are in perfect condition, do not neglect this for a single day. If your pump water is impure, do not drink it. Another good way is to burn sulphur and let the smoke go through the house. To neglect these things, you do it to your hurt.

On July 20, at the M. P. parsonage, Mr. Joseph Garden, of Hebron, and Miss Bernice Gillis, of Hebron, were united in matrimony by Rev. C. N. Alexander.

The Pomona Grange had a very enjoyable picnic Thursday on the school grounds of Marдела Springs. From the large number present, the Marдела Springs people to play a game of ball and the Marдела folks were successful. The game was a close one, but the Marдела folks won by a score of 10 to 9. A significant fact was the large number of politicians present shaking hands with the prospective voters. The merits of the candidates were quietly discussed by the women voters. The only opinion that we heard expressed was that no wet candidate need apply and that the people at large will not be fooled by any mere promises now, as they have been in the past. The candidate this fall, who says he is in favor of the "dry" law and who has to chew cloves while he is telling it, is not apt to be believed, at least by the women voters.

Mr. James E. Bacon has been on the sick list for several days. He is one of Marдела's most respected citizens.

Miss Lois Elliott has gone to Baltimore on an extended visit.

Mrs. George L. Bennett, of the Athol district, has gone to Ocean City, New Jersey for a week.

Mr. Albert Bernards and Samuel Wilson are on a big job of carpentering in Elkridge, Md. They will be gone for some time.

On Sunday, as we could not be in four places at once and having a desire to report what our pastor preached about, we asked a young lady, what the pastor preached about and we soon learned that she did not go for the sermon, but for the hymns—"Hums." And the young man went to give the girls something to occupy their attention, while the old folks were taking in the sermon. But whether the young people heard or not, here is what our pastors discoursed on last Sunday morning: Rev. C. N. Alexander, Job 11:18; Rev. J. Ford, "The Lord's Prayer"; Rev. G. W. Gorrell, "The Wise and Foolish Virgins"; Rev. Mr. Blunt, "Charity." Miss Alice Harrington, of Salisbury, and Miss Lela Bailey, of Hebron, spent the week-end with Miss Julia Brown.

Mr. Vaughn Wilkinson and wife Mr. Nordie Wilkinson, of Pocomoke, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wilkinson.

Helen Marvel is now visiting her aunt in Salisbury.

Miss Rebecca Wilson is spending some time in Walbrook, Baltimore.

Our boys played a game with the East New Market team on Saturday and beat them by a score of 10 to 9.

HER RECORD PROVES THAT POULTRY PAYS

Mrs. Walter Farlow, of Pittsville, Has Made An Average Profit of $5.25 Per Hen.

Mrs. Walter Farlow, of Pittsville, knows that poultry will pay if handled correctly, for she has proved that fact without any doubt. Mrs. Farlow does not claim any record but we believe that what she has done should be known so that she may get the credit due her and others may be encouraged to "do likewise." Mrs. Farlow started with 70 White Wyandottes on January 1, 1921, and up to June 30 had used eight for the table which gives an average of 65 hens for the six months.

The egg record is as follows:

January	745
February	1,265
March	1,319
April	1,076
May	920
June	881
Total	6,206

Average per hen . . . 95 eggs
Expenses, including feed, supplies, marketing, etc.

January	$30.65
February	12.55
March	6.70
April	15.88
May	27.50
June	19.40
Total	$112.68

These figures are for feed bought and she has a 30-day supply on hand at present.

Receipts (gross) were as follows:

January	$16.32
February	30.82
March	$75.98
April	64.87
May	18.16
June	97.80
25 cockerels and 100 pullets	150.00
Total gross receipts	$453.95

Net profit of $341.27 from 65 hens in six months or an average per hen of $5.25. With one hundred hens in a flock at the same average Mrs. Farlow would have made over five hundred dollars for the six months or nearly $1,000 per year.

As we said before, Mrs. Farlow is not claiming any record nor did she ask to have this published, but we believe that it deserves a place in the news for it is something worth while.

EARLY POTATOES NEED PLENTY OF NITROGEN

Comparisons Show That Rich Fertilizers on Early "Spuds" Resulted in Increased Yields.

The following results were secured by the Maryland Experiment Station and are well worth considering:

"Early potatoes require an abundance of available nitrogen. If the land has been well manured for previous crops or cover crops have been turned down it may not be so necessary to use a fertilizer rich in nitrogen. But if this has not been done the fertilizer should contain six or eight per cent of nitrogen.

Comparing the plots receiving fertilizer containing five to seven per cent of potash from muriate with those that the fertilizer did not contain this ingredient, there was an average increase in favor of the muriate of potash of 23 bushels per acre. The fertilizers on early potatoes always gave profitable increase in yield.

When the fertilizers are applied in a quantity that exceeds 400 pounds per acre, the excess should always be mixed with the soil as it is likely to injure the seed pieces so that the stand will be poor.

By using the Maine style ridge method in cultivating potatoes the yield was reduced on the average by 18 bushels per acre. Treating the cut seed pieces with flowers of sulphur, or slaked lime or raw phosphate rock all helped to secure a better stand. Dry Bordeaux mixture was especially useful for this purpose. The acid phosphate and wet germicides were injurious.

When hen egg size White McCormick potatoes are planted whole, the increase in yield is sufficient to not only pay for the extra amount of seed used but also to give a large profit over the same sized tubers cut into smaller pieces.

If late dug Irish cobbler potatoes that are to be used for seed in the spring are placed in a warm room or basement for a month or so before planting, the eyes will get started, so that the plants will come up and mature as soon as the Maine grown seed. Seed potatoes secured for early use, by planting Irish Cobbler in August, will yield just as well as the Virginia second crop and possibly better than Maine grown seed. It is a question, however, whether it is profitable to do this, because the Irish cobbler does not yield only about one-third as well as the White McCormick. For this reason it may be wise to grow the White McCormick and buy Irish Cobbler seed for early planting.

On account of the tubers being smaller, the Virginia second crop, or the home grown August planted seed, can be cut so as to plant more ground than the Maine grown seed, but it does not seem to be good practice as the crop would not be as large from the smaller pieces as it would from the larger pieces.

Selecting different types of White McCormick potatoes for three years did not result in any increase of the types desired?

CHURCH CALENDAR

Notices of changes in the Church Calendar must be at the News office not later than Tuesday morning, otherwise the calendar of the previous week will be repeated.

Evening Service in all the Churches of the city will begin at 8:00 o'clock for the Summer.

St. Peter's Church, Rev. Herbert D. Cone, Rector.

At St. Peter's Church on next Sunday the rector will preach at 11 A. M. on "Feeding in the Ways" and at 8 P. M. on "Feasts of Devotion."

Presbyterian Church, Robert Alexander Boyle, Minister.

THE OHIO C. BARBER LIME COMPANY

FACTS CONCERNING LIME

Where lime has been brought to the attention of the farmer, he is fully aware of the great results and benefits to his crops. The real value of lime in agriculture is appreciated, in the states where lime has been used, for the results are unquestioned.

The important element for the farmer to study is the quantity and quality of the lime about to be purchased. This is where the Ohio C. Barber Lime Company plays its part. From its immense lime deposits in the mountains of Virginia, which nature herself has created, we are in position to place upon the market a product that has no equal. THE LIME DUG FROM OUR ACREAGE IS RATED AT 92% TO 98% PURE CALCIUM CARBONATE, and IS GUARANTEED 100% SOLUBLE. In other words, every unit of "Falling Springs Precipitated" Lime is plant food, and every unit does its work. Therefore, we claim that it will take from one to ten tons more of our competitors' lime to equal the result of one ton of the Precipitated "Falling Springs" wonderful nature's product.

"Falling Springs Precipitated" Lime is an unburnt, non-caustic, mineral, nothing is added to it, and nothing is taken out of the pure product. Barber, Virginia, is the center of this great lime mountain, which we claim produces the best natural lime in the world.

We Lost Your Good Will

If our service station burned down we'd get the insurance.

If burglars stole our cash, we could borrow some.

But if we lost that part of our business called GOOD WILL, we could get it back again only through months, or possibly years, of the hardest kind of work.

That's why we say GOOD WILL is the most valuable thing known.

Our promptness and thoroughness will show you, if you come in, how much we value your GOOD WILL.

Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he can not be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save him several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars.—Advertisement.

DELMAR TO BE REPRESENTED IN BASEBALL

Epidemic Which Is Sweeping Eastern Shore Has At Last Reached This Town.

CRACK TEAM WILL BE ORGANIZED AT ONCE

Fans Think That As Other Towns
Have Failed To Stop Old Time Rivals in Diamond Battles, It Is Up To Them To Throw Monkey Wrench In Salisbury Machine.

The baseball bug has at last reached Delmar. On Monday evening a large and enthusiastic meeting was held of the baseball fans here and it was decided to have a team in the field for the balance of the season.

With all other Eastern Shore towns going wild this season over this popular sport, both in Delaware and Maryland, the wonder has been that Delmar, long famous for their baseball fans, and the fine class of baseball played here, could have stayed out of the fray as long as they did.

However, last week it was evident that the epidemic would soon be raging here as well as at other points nearby, and lists were placed in many of the principal stores of the town in an effort to secure subscriptions.
This effort met with a ready response, and Delmar will soon place in the field a team that will question the claims of the towns hereabouts to the championship.

At the meeting Monday night, Mr.
Ray German was elected manager of the new Delmar team; Charles H.
Truitt, was elected business manager, and Mr. P. K. Ellis, booking agent.
The response of the Delmar citizens was liberal and those boosting the team are highly pleased with the contributions received, which they feel will be ample to put a winning team in action.

The fans say that Salisbury is going a little too fast these days and it has become necessary to drop a monkey wrench in their cogs or they may not be able to wear their hats.
Consequently, as Dover, Newark, Crisfield, Pocomoke, Princess Anne and other Eastern Shore and Delaware teams have been unable to stop them, it seems to be up to Delmar to turn the trick.

So Delmar is to start and Salisbury better get ready for some exciting times when these old rivals clash.

It is the intention of the backers of the new team to put a real team in the field for the balance of the season, one that will be a real contender for honors in the Eastern Shore battle royal that is now raging. They will play six games a week, three at home and three abroad and from now until the end of the season some interesting games of ball are in waiting for the loyal bunch of Delmar

MANY RAILROAD MEN NOTICE PAY REDUCTION

The railroad men of Delmar received their first pay since the recently ordered reduction in pay, effective July 1, on Friday, and noted the reduction as it affected them. In some instances their checks showed a reduction of over $20 from former pay for two weeks work. The reduction ranged from 8 to 10 cents an hour for the trainmen. The railroad workers state, that now that the railroads have made the reduction in pay, it would seem that it was about time some reduction was made in freight and passenger rates, as these were increased to give them the increase of last year, and as the increase has now been wiped out, the freight and passenger rates should also be lowered.

fans.
All Delmar baseball lovers are urged to get back of the team and give it encouragement and support, and if the past is anything to judge by, they will do this with a vim that will be unmistakable.

From all indications August promises to be the busiest month in baseball circles on the Eastern Shore that has ever been in this section, long famous for its activities in this line of sport.

With the entrance of Delmar into the fray, practically every town on the Eastern Shore and in Delaware is represented with a baseball team—and good ones at that.

Rumor has it that the Delmar team will have in its lineup many players of note in this section, and that after they get proper practice together, they will make the other Eastern Shore and Delaware teams sit up and take notice.

AT ODDS OVER NAMING 'DRY' LAW DIRECTOR

Senator Ball Recommends Elliott,
While Dr. Layton Urges Bennett.

SEN. DUPONT MAY DECIDE APPOINTMENT

Bennett Backed By Republican State Committee in Sussex County. While Elliott Has Support of Prohibition Forces of the State—Senator Du-Pont May Name The Man.

Senator L. Heisler Ball and Congressman Caleb R. Layton are at odds over the appointment of a Federal Prohibition Director for Delaware to succeed W. Truxton Boyce, Democrat, the present incumbent. Senator Ball has recommended Robert B. Elliott, of Seaford, for that office, while Congressman Layton has recommended
G. Roy Bennett, of Milford, Sussex county.

Bennett is said to be backed by a majority of members of the Republican State Committee in Sussex county, while Elliott is reported to have the support of the prohibition forces of the state and also by many influential Republicans of Sussex.

Senator Ball admits he has recommended Mr. Bennett for the office and states that Congressman Layton does not join him in the recommendation, but has recommended Mr. Bennett.

Congressman Layton states that he is for Mr. Bennett and will not accept anyone else as a compromise.

The situation may develop into a test of influence of Senator Ball and Congressman Layton. It has been reported that Elliott will be appointed, which would be a recognition of Senator Ball as dispenser of patronage.
Another report was that the appointment would be held up until Senator T. Coleman DuPont could express his preference for prohibition director.

Senator DuPont's friends express the belief that in the event of a conflict of authority between Senator Ball and Senator DuPont on the apportionment of Federal patronage in Delaware the latter will take the commanding position. In other words they think Senator DuPont will control the patronage situation, and that after his arrival in Washington, the Congressman and Senator Ball will be given their allotment as laid out and adjudged by the new senator.

While each one of the Delaware representatives in the Federal Congress has a faction behind him in the State —a distinct Republican faction—it is contended that Senator Ball will not care to antagonize either of the opposing factions unnecessarily in view of the fact that he will likely want to compose all party differences in his state to the end that the Republicans may retain their dominance and that they may be no organized opposition to him in 1924 when he comes up for re-election to the Senate.

Congressman Layton, representing the whole State of Delaware in the House of Representatives, feels that he is of sufficient importance to be a factor in matters concerning his State in Washington, and he aspires to have a prominent part in the apportionment of the Federal patronage to his constituents.

Just at present, in the prohibition director fight, the Congressman says that if he is to be ignored in connection with Federal patronage, it is just as well that he know it, and that he is for Bennett and will continue to be until the appointment is made.

So it may be that among the first duties of Senator DuPont when he arrives in Washington, will be to step in between Congressman Layton and Senator Ball and name the new prohibition director for Delaware, who will, in any event, be a Sussex county man.

PAID FOR LIQUOR WITH BAD CHECKS

According to reports the "topers" of lower Delaware have devised a scheme to obtain high price booze for nothing, and which scheme is alleged to have rid the place of many who have been bringing liquor here. It is said that they bought large quantities from "runners" and paid for it with checks which were worthless, having withdrawn their funds from the bank. The runners are afraid to prosecute for in so doing they would expose themselves.

FEW CANNERIES TO OPERATE THIS YEAR

Scarcity of Tomatoes in Sussex County Reason—Farmers Refused To Plant At Prices Prevailing.

According to information received here, it is not likely that there will be more than one or two canning factories in Sussex county to operate on tomatoes this fall. This is due to the fact that tomatoes are not to be had in large quantities in the county, the farmers refusing to plant them at the prices prevailing at planting time.
A member of the Lloyd-Moore Canning Company, of Blades, has announced that it may operate its cannery for a brief time, but no tomatoes of any consequence will be put up.

The Delmar Canning Company is the only Delmar cannery that will operate this year, the Blue Hen Canning Company and J. T. Wilson & Company having announced that they will not operate their factories this season.

The canners are feeling a bit better these days because the canned goods market is looking up somewhat, and one of the well known lower Delaware packers said that he believed it would continue to rise until the canned goods of the Peninsula could be shipped at a profit to the packers. He believes the lay-off in the pack of tomatoes this year will be best for both canners and growers, giving the packers a chance to clean out a lot of canned goods they have on hand and make a fresh start with abetter market for next year's business.

While it may be a benefit for the canner and grower, the lack of canning houses running in the county will work a great hardship on the laboring class, which looks to the canning house each year for its return in a financial way. Many a man in the county takes his whole family into the canning houses in the fall, and their weekly returns are sometimes $100 or more.

There is one cannery alone that employs about 600 persons when operating on tomatoes. They are paid big money by the packers and when they get it they spend it. On a Saturday night in towns like Delmar, when the canneries are in operation every store is crowded with shoppers and extra clerks have to be put on.

Consequently the stopping of the canneries this year will be a hard blow to the merchants who always stock up well in the canning time.
One big cannery alone in a town will pay out thousands of dollars weekly to the farmers who grow the tomatoes and the labor which put them in the cans.

Contract For More State Highways

Seven Mile Stretch From Laurel To Asbury Church To Be Built At a Cost of $157,000.

At a meeting of the State Highway Commissioners last week, with all members present except Senator T.
Coleman DuPont, a contract was awarded for the strip of road from Laurel to Asbury Church, a distance of seven miles, to Delaware Construction Company for $157,000, if they bond within five days; otherwise the bid will go to the next lowest bidder, Field, Parker Company.

Award was also made on a strip of road east and west through Georgetown for $33,000. Award for construction of a truck storage shed at Dover was made to W. M. Newton for $1,795.

The Government has given to the State Highway Department a concrete mixer for work on road maintenance in the State. With other road machinery the Government has given the Highway Department has sufficient to take care of the work for the next ten years.

DU PONTS NOT AFTER WAR NITRATE PLANT

Denial was made at the offices of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Company of an article sent out from Washington that the DuPont and other interests are negotiating for the purchase of the Government's war time nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and probably will compete strongly with Henry Ford, who already has transmitted to Secretary of War Weeks his proposal to buy the plant.

SUSSEX WET AND DRY IN SPOTS.

While the center of Sussex county is having too much rain and land is under water, the farms along the bay shore and near the Atlantic ocean are drying up for the need of water.

RUM-RUNNERS' TRAIL LEADS TO DEL. COAST

Motor Boats, Yachts, etc., Along Coast Line Are Exceptionally Busy At Sea.

THREE LARGE CARGOES SAID TO HAVE LANDED

Runners Bring Thousands of Cases
From Bahamas Islands—Stay Out of Three Mile Limit, Where They Are Visited By Many Small Craft and Stock Removed At $45 A Case.

When the trail of the mysterious schooner, alleged to be loaded with liquor for Atlantic City and other Atlantic Coast resorts, which according to reports has been endeavoring to land its cargo at points along the Atlantic Coast line, led to the Delaware Atlantic Coast last week, it revived the stories that this traffic has been going on for sometime past at Ocean
City, Md., Bethany Beach and Lewis,
Del., and other Atlantic Coast points.

All along the Delaware coast motor boats have been reported to have had errands out in the bay and ocean at many different times, and have been declared by life savers to have been exceptionally active of late, and as a result a watch has been kept by Delaware temperance advocates, but they have been unable to discover anything unusual.

The reports being circulated throughout the state are that schooners are making regular trips from the Bahamas Islands, loaded with rare English whiskies and wines, and that they are lying outside of the three-mile limit, and are eagerly visited by many fast motor boats from the coast points, where the cargo is soon disposed of,
and the schooner returns to the islands for another cargo.

"Real Stuff" In Demand.

The fast motor boats land the whisky in coves and other secluded points along the Atlantic Coast, where it is loaded in automobiles and carried to large cities and watering points for a ready sale at fancy prices, which the "real stuff" now commands.

With their searchlights flashing over the strange doings of the mysterious schooner, revenue cutters are combining the coast line every night, where the whiskey running ships have defied the vigilance of the seagoing prohibition agents and emptied at least three cargoes into waiting yachts and smaller craft.

More than $3,000,000 worth of choice
Scotch rye, Bourbon and other liquors have passed over the side of the mysterious craft, said to be flying the British flag, to small boats filled with American "bootleggers," eager to get the "real stuff" at the alluring prices of $45 to $60 a case.

Hidden along shore and searching for a schooner, anchored off the three mile limit and surrounded by smaller craft are the land forces of revenue agents.

Yet while sought for by land and sea, the lumbering old schooner three times within a month has made the trip from the Bahamas with a full cargo of whisky and dropped anchor off the Delaware coast, unloading their supply of irrigation for dry America.
Residents on the coast tell of the story, and express both amusement and indignation over the existence of what is apparently a rum-running syndicate, operating like a band of Spanish smugglers.

On Way To Get Another Load.

On Sunday night, after unloading her third cargo while revenue cutters and the agents on shore were keeping up their day and night search, the little British schooner weighed anchor and sailed away to the Bahamas to bring back 10,000 cases more.

The last trip of the vessel was made Friday night. Folk said she lay outside the three-mile limit until Sunday night. The vigilance of the government forces may relax a bit now, for the schooner left with the understanding she would not return again until August. The fourth cargo is under contract to be delivered to a New York syndicate of bootleggers.

While the mysterious schooner has been tied up off the east coast the small craft have shuttled between the vessel and the shore, running without lights and finding their way unerringly into coves and the mouths of streams where the liquor is usually loaded on motor trucks bound for New York, and other cities.

Residents on the east shore are

PENNSY. GRANTS MILITARY LEAVE

Employees Desiring To Attend Citizens'
Camp Can Do So On One-Half Pay For Full Period.

Announcement is made by the Pennsylvania Railroad that a four weeks' leave of absence will be granted to officers and employees who desire to attend one of the citizen's military training camps to be opened shortly in the various U. S. Army Corps areas throughout the country.
The following resolution has been adopted by the Pennsylvania Board of Directors:

"Resolved that a four weeks' leave of absence is hereby granted to officers and employees of this company desiring to attend one of the citizen's military training camps.

"Provided that the usual vacation, in the case of such officers and employees as receive a vacation, be included therein, and provided further that it be convenient to the heads of the departments under whom they are employed to spare them for such period.

These officers and employees entitled to a vacation with pay to receive full pay for the vacation period and one-half pay, for the remainder of the four weeks' period, and those employees who do not ordinarily receive a vacation with pay, to receive one-half pay for the entire four weeks' period."

Game Plentiful In Lower Delaware

Sportsmen Report All Indications Point To Excellent Sport This Fall—Many Visitors Expected.

Partridges and rabbits have not been so plentiful in many years as now according to reports of sportsmen of lower Delaware who have made a survey of the game situation. Every indication points to excellent sport this fall. Heavy rains during August and September may result in killing off some of the late hatches of birds, but even if most of the young birds are killed then there is every indication that the supply will be plentiful.

During the summer much game is killed by dogs owned by farmers being permitted to roam the woods at night. Sportsmen are back of a move to have the Delaware Legislature pass a law prohibiting dogs running at large during certain times of the year.

Many Delaware sportsmen come to Sussex county annually for a week's outing with their friends.

WHITE POTATOES TAKE JUMP.

White potatoes jumped to $4 a barrel last week and growers are rushing them into market. Extra trains have been put on the railroads in an effort to handle the extra shipments promptly. Several extra crews were called the latter part of the week to handle the shipments from the Eastern Shore of Virginia, Maryland and Delaware.

EVERY DELMAR TALL CEDAR THERE BUT—

Forty Strong Delmar Participated In Big Ceremonial At Fedsburg Friday.

DELMAR TALL CEDAR BAND OF 14 PIECES

They Divide Honors With Tall Cedar Baseball Team In Making Things Lively—Next Big Event Will Be Big Picnic At Ocean City on Thursday—Special Train To Shore.

Delmar Tall Cedars, forty strong, led by the Delmar Tall Cedar Band of fourteen pieces, swarmed to Fed-ersburg on Friday last and took an active part in the big do's in that famous Eastern Shore town, which for the day, had been flung wide open for the reception of the Tall Cedar clan from all points of the Eastern Shore.

The Delmar Tall Cedar Band received its usual enthusiastic reception and divided honors with the new Tall Cedars baseball team in keeping the large crowd of merry makers lively and in good spirits by its many concerts and general musical programs during the day, and at the baseball game in the afternoon.

The Tall Cedars baseball team came out at the wrong end of the score in the game with Cambridge, but that was just an incident, and did not for a minute mar the pleasure of the jolly bunch.

Delmar was represented by a big delegation and besides the fourteen members of the band, every one a Tall Cedar, the following were in the delegation from Delmar:

Frank Lynch, Al Waller, Ike Henry,
Rev. J. B. McCabe, Frasier Elliott,
Dr. Robert Ellegood, James—but what's the use. Every Tall Cedar in Delmar was there but Walter Whayland, and he's sorry now he didn't go.

The next event of note on the Tall Cedar calendar is the big picnic which will take place at Ocean City today (Thursday) when it is expected that the largest gathering of the year will take place at this famous Maryland resort. A special train will be run to the seashore, leaving Salisbury at 1:30 P. M. and returning at 10:30 P.
M. Special sports will be on the big program being arranged, and at night there will be a grand display of fireworks. Of course the Delmar Tall Cedar Band will be there to make things lively.

THRESHING MACHINES SCARCE.

Hundreds of Sussex county farmers are facing a loss of their wheat crop because of the scarcity of threshing machines. Wheat is stacked and has been waiting for three weeks on many farms.

FORD CARS REDUCED

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement:

"Another reduction has been made in the price of all types of Ford cars,
and the Ford truck to take effect immediately. The list prices, f. o. b. Detroit,
are now as follows:

TOURING CAR	$415.00
RUNABOUT	$370.00
COUPE	$695.00
SEDAN	$760.00
CHASSIS	$345.00
TRUCK-CHASSIS	$495.00
TRACTOR	$625.00

"The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low material costs, which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford Cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made another price reduction possible immediately.

"Ford business for April and May, 1921, was greater by $6,633 cars and trucks than for the same two months in 1920; in fact, the demand has been even greater than the supply, so that our output has been limited, not by unfilled orders, but by manufacturing facilities.

"During May we produced 101,424 Ford cars and trucks for sale in the United States alone, the biggest month in the history of our company and our factories and assembly plants are now working on a 4,000 car daily schedule for June.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further cut in the price of the tractor."

Can you afford to go without a car any longer when Fords are selling at these new low prices? There is no reason now why you should delay purchasing a Ford car, Ford truck,
or Fordson tractor.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE AT MORANE'S RESTAURANT

Mr. Harry Morane has purchased the building on Railroad Avenue. He has occupied for some time past, and this week started extensive improvements to the property. Many interior improvements are being made, a new glass front is to be installed, and a metal front to the building will be placed on soon. He purchased the property from the Edgview Realty Company.

LETTER IN TRANSIT OVER THREE YEARS ARRIVES

Mr. Royce D. Hancock, after two years in Texas, is back in Delmar. Mr. Hancock has received a letter recently, which has been forwarded to him. The letter had been sent to France, and had been forwarded to many points there and various places in the United States before it finally reached him. The letter started its long trip in January, 1918, and finally reached him in July, 1921. Mr. Hancock was with the Aviation Corps, A. P. F. in France.

BABY GIRL DROWNS IN PUDDLE.

Grace, two-year-old daughter of Ira West, a local farmer, met death in an unusual manner last week. The child being missed, a search was started and the body was found laying face downward in a pool of water that had formed from the overflow from a pump.

Rum-Runners
Trail Leads To Dela. Coast

amused by the futile efforts of the revenue men to halt the operations of the whisky ship. But they are in turn indignant over the reports that they themselves are smugglers.

But They Look in Vain.

Cruising back and forth along the coast shore, the greyhounds of the sea have swept the waves with their searchlights at night and with spy-glasses by day. Yet, in the early hours of the morning, upon a set signal, the small boats would put off from shore and case after case of rare whiskies, and oftentimes champagne and wines, would be lifted over the schooner's side. Trip after trip would be made by the smaller boats. And it was said that cash was handed aboard before a drop of liquor was lifted off.

The coast folk say the prices ranged upward to $60 a case. In some instances cases of liquor were sent ashore by simply tying them together and throwing them overboard. They were either towed ashore or washed there by the tide. But the greater part was taken ashore in the yachts and dories.

These adventures bring to the mind of our older readers that during the Civil War the sleepy little town of Nassau on the island of New Providence, largest of the Bahama Islands, suddenly swelled in importance and wealth by the blockade industry.

An entirely new sort of vessel was devised for the purpose. It was long, broad, swift and had a low free-board. It loaded at Nassau with things desired by the Confederacy, waited below the horizon until dusk and then made a swift run for North Carolina or other ports, discharged its cargo and made a getaway—if it could. So great were the profits that, although officers received heavy bonuses, two voyages were all sufficient to the owners, even if the vessel was lost on the third trip.

And now the rum-runners have succeeded the blockade-runners and appear to have much the same sort of experiences. When a cargo is successfully landed in this country there is a profit of several hundred percent. Probably there are failures, but as a rule they are wise enough in these modern times to lay outside the three mile limit, allowing their customers to come to them, and they taking all the risk of landing the stock safely.

On the whole the business thrives largely through the risk involved. The sporting element, excitement and potential profits lead many to attempt landing prohibited goods on our shores. No one knows the details, but it is evident to most observers that there are a few persons in this country who continue to irrigate themselves with liquor "not legally acquired." All of which seems to be a joy to the people of Bahamas, who look for one more era of prosperity.

MANY SHORE PEOPLE
ENJOY EXCURSION

The excursion on the Pennsylvania Railroad from Crisfield and points north was crowded with people taking the trip to Atlantic City. The price was made very low and from every station large crowds were packed in the cars. When the train left Delmar it appeared to be one of the largest excursions of the season, and many Delmar people joined the happy throng of excursionists at this point. About eight hours were spent on the beach, and were enjoyed by all.

TOMATOES AND LIMA BEANS
NOW REPORTED FAILURE

The latest crops to become failures in Delaware are those of tomatoes and lima beans. Heavy rains have washed all the blossoms from the vines. There will be few lima beans or tomatoes according to members of the Farm Bureau who have been investigating. The loss, however, will not amount to much as none of the farmers was expecting to pack either tomatoes or lima beans. What was raised would have had to be eaten at home.

USE DYNAMITE TO RECOVER BODY

After being in the mill race at Old Furnace Pond, for twenty hours, the body of Herman Waples Johnson, who was drowned recently, was recovered by Robert Savage after several discharges of dynamite had been set off in the steam in an effort to bring the body to the surface. The body of Johnson was carried to Georgetown, where funeral services were held.

RESOLUTIONS—L. T. COOPER, deceased. Whereas, The Great and Supreme Ruler of the Universe has in his infinite wisdom removed from among us one of our worthy brothers, Levin T. Cooper, and whereas the long and intimate relations held with him in the faithful discharge of his duties in this order makes it eminently befitting that we record our appreciation of him, therefore,
Resolved, That the wisdom and ability which he exercised in the aid of our order by service, contributions and council, he be held in grateful remembrance.
Resolved, That the removal of such a life from our midst leaves a vacancy and a shadow that will be deeply realized by all the members and friends of this order, and will prove a serious loss to the community and public.
Resolved, That with deep sympathy with the bereaved relatives of the deceased we express our hope that even so great a loss to us all may be overruled by Him who doeth all things well.
Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of Columbia Council, Order of American Men, a copy printed in the local papers and a copy forwarded to the bereaved family.

And NOW the TEST of POWER

In Today's Oakland Six you will find an abundance of power even for extraordinary conditions—power that flows smoothly and responds instantly to your demands at any speed from two miles an hour to a mile a minute.

Yet this power is delivered with utmost economy. Oakland owners report from 18 to 25 miles per gallon of gasoline.

There are very definite reasons for the high efficiency and unusual economy of Oakland's overhead valve engine. For example, the cylinders are now "honed" to a glassy smoothness providing a perfect working surface for the new light weight aluminum alloy pistons.

Not only are these new pistons very light and tough but by a special process they are made self-adjustable to the cylinder walls, insuring a mechanically perfect piston fit.

Engineering refinements such as these mean to the buyer that in all ranges of power, under all traffic and road conditions, Today's Oakland Six can be relied upon for continuous, economical, trustworthy service.

The car itself is always ready to prove the things we say of it. Call or phone for a demonstration today.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

THE QUESTIONER.

WHEN Shakespeare wanted to express the tragedy involved in the snuffing out of the life of his most intellectual character, he did it by these words, "The rest is silence."

He might have put it in another way, by saying that Hamlet would ask no more questions. For that was his most disconcerting habit.

Keeping silence before a puzzling world, and a puzzling universe, is something that man has never done.

The human being who just asked the reason for the first nightfall and the first appearance of the stars stood on the threshold of all modern scientific investigation.

So, if it were necessary to find a definition of man which would differentiate him from all the rest of creatures, it would be sufficient to say of him: "He is the animal that asks questions."

Rudyard Kipling in a striking line talked of "the law of the jungle."

The writers of fables have not pulled the long bow in attributing to the beasts the sense of justice, even if they were making fun of society in doing so. So the lion stands for the maker of rules, and the monkey for him who evades them.

So law is not peculiar to the children of Adam.

The animals know political economy. "Go to the ant thou sluggard," said King Solomon.

This little creature shows what can be done through the organized efforts of thousands of insects, whose operations could be stopped in a moment by the foot of a passing giant in the shape of a mischievous boy.

So business organization is not exclusively human.

It is impossible to look at the comb of a beehive without realizing that the creatures who made it know geometry and architecture.

The coils are so constructed as to give the maximum of strength with the minimum of expenditure in the way of material.

So the Brooklyn bridge, or the dome of St. Peter's, is not a proof of human superiority.

There is a solitary eagle to be seen every day, soaring over a lake in western Ontario. Once he had a mate. But she disappeared one winter. Since then the widower has never married. The natives say that it is the habit of these birds to be perpetually true to their first and only love.

So constancy is not the exclusive virtue of our race.

When Christ wanted to express his affection for Jerusalem, he could think of nothing better to say than that he would have gathered her children about him, as a hen gathers her chickens under her wings. This child bird will face any peril if she thinks that her young are in danger.

In the same way the hen of the North woods, which will fly before man under ordinary circumstances, will fight to the death if she thinks her cubs are threatened.

So family affection and devotion do not set mankind apart from the rest of the animal kingdom.

Only the other day a raccoon at the Bronx Zoological gardens in New York, was in danger of starving to death because the gatekeeper who had tamed and petted him had been sent to the hospital. The animal would not take food from a stranger.

So fidelity and gratitude are not confined to the lords of creation.

But there is no reason to believe that the beasts of the jungle that have their hunting laws, or the ants that lay up their stores for winter, or the bees that know practical geometry, or the eagle that mourns his dead wife forever, or the hen that protects her chickens, or the bear that is fearless of rifles, or the raccoon that is faithful to his master, ever asked any questions about the why and wherefore of things.

On the other hand, from the dawn of history, we find man worrying over the riddle of the universe. This too in spite of the fact that, even in the beginning of things he felt that he would never be able to solve it.

So he invented language to convey his questions to his neighbors and alphabets to write them down for his children. He invented mathematics in order to compute the motions of the stars.

By all his questioning he has succeeded in pushing back the curtain that hangs around his universe. Yet he knows perfectly well that in spite of all that his Newtons, Darwins, Einsteins and Curries may do, what Herbert Spencer called "the unknowable" will always elude him.

But as long as he follows the gleam he will be true, as God made him, (Copyright.)

Mother's Cook Book

The wisest pilgrim is the one who goes along the highway, hour by hour content.

To take the rain or shine the skies have sent.

Who counts his riches in each budding rose.

Each song the thrush through vernal branches throws.

Each marvel of the sunrise, each dusk gleam.

Of mystery and fragrant sacrament; Each star that in the heaven burns and glows.

PALATABLE DISHES.

A HANDFUL of green onions, a cupful of cooked rice, a cupful of thick white sauce, a cold hard-boiled egg and a little cheese may make a very palatable luncheon dish. Cook the tender young onions until well done; drain. Rubber a small baking dish and put in the rice, cover with the drained onions and a sprinkling of grated cheese the white sauce and bake until bubbling hot. Serve from the dish. The rice should be well seasoned with butter, or with a chicken broth while it is cooking.

Banana Cream.

Slice three ripe bananas, press through a sieve, add a small box of crushed strawberries, reserving part of the juice; beat together lightly and set on ice to cool. Serve in glass cups with whipped cream to which has been added the reserved strawberry juice. Serve very cold.

During the hot weather the simple and less expensive desserts appeal to the housewife. Frozen dishes, when prepared at home, are always acceptable and cost very little.

Lemon Sherbet.

Take three lemons, two cupfuls of sugar and a quart of rich milk. Mix the sugar and lemon juice, add a grated rind if desired, then stir in the milk. The mixture will curdle but when frozen will be smooth and very palatable. Serve in sherbet glasses.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

By C. N. LURIE

Common Errors in English and How to Avoid Them

"TO ENJOY POOR HEALTH."

THIS is one of the incorrect phrases which have somehow crept into common usage in the English language, although a moment's thought will show the speaker or writer that it is absurd to say that a person "enjoys" poor health. "To enjoy" means "to experience joy or pleasure in; receive pleasure from the possession or use of or participation in; delight in" (Standard Dictionary). Why, then, should a person say, "I have enjoyed poor health during the past year?" You can enjoy only that which brings you pleasure or profit; and surely ill health brings neither.

Of course, it is quite proper to say, "I have enjoyed good health," since good health, being the greatest of human blessings, is to be appreciated and enjoyed.

A similar error it to be "agreeably" disappointed. If you are disappointed, the experience cannot be agreeable.

THE CHEERFUL CHERUB

My heart is like a phonograph—
No sooner is my last love gone
Than just to break the awful pause on my gramophone.

How It Started

THE WORD "RUBBER."

THE material which we now know as "rubber" was formerly called elastic gum. One of the earliest uses of this gum had been to erase marks on paper, and the chemist, Priestly, in about 1770, suggested that the material which erased or "rubbed" so effectively should be called "India rubber." His suggestion was adopted, and the name soon became universal.

BIRD'S-EYE VIEWS OF FRUITLAND, SHAD POINT AND WHITE HALL FARM

Three Places Of Exceptional Interest In Wicomico County—Fruitland, Originally Forktown, Renamed 50 Years Ago.
Shad Point Is Splendid Site For Homes. "White Hall" Farm Owned By Same Family Since 1627.

Fruitland was renamed about a half century ago, its original name being Forktown, which did not just meet the idea of the postmaster, the late Isaac H. Dulany, and a new name was chosen. Two names however were presented, one being Phoenix and the other Fruitland and the majority decided on Fruitland and from that time on the place assumed a different form in the hearts of the people and started to grow. About six years before this the railroad was built through here to Crisfield and following this the diversity of the farm crops showed the wisdom of the new name as it was applicable to the conditions.

The first steam circular saw mill in this part of the Eastern Shore was erected here and for many years was the only real industry outside of farming and trucking. Today, however, the town has two canneries, one shirt factory and a crate and basket factory. This is the chief industry of the town and is thoroughly equipped with modern machinery and gives employment to a large number of persons the whole year. The packing houses are among the best equipped in the county and their goods are of a high character.

Large Church Membership.

The prevailing church is the Methodist Episcopal, and it has a large membership. The Christian church is well attended and both of these institutions are the strength and security of the community. The school is of high character and the work quite thorough. The town also has a bank which has proven to be a great aid to the town. It is safe, strong and growing. There are now about six hundred people residing in Fruitland, but the town is not incorporated. The morals are good and everybody regards law and order as the bulwark of safety to the whole community.

This town is about three miles from the Metropolis of the county and between these two places are to be seen some homes as are usually built in any community. One thing, however, that mars this splendid roadway adorned with beautiful trees, luxuriant hedges, large orchards and trucking fields, is the bridge than spans Tony Tank creek. This bridge is too narrow for travel, unsafe for teams, autos, trucks and even pedestrians. It is the most dangerous, the most ominous place to be found on any public line of travel on the Shore. There is dereliction by some one. If it is private property and the owners will not repair it, then it should be condemned and the county or State take it in charge. If the county commissioners or State Roads Commission are responsible for this unsafe and perilous bridge there should be some power to move them to action, before life or property or both are sacrificed and then heavy damages to be borne by the taxpayers of this county.

Shad Point Restful Spot.

Unable to get a line on the name of Shad Point we accepted the history without the origin of the name. This place, like Green Hill, on the same river but nearer the mouth, was laid out for a city, but with all of the efforts of its people it has not yet reached the magnitude of a town. It is, however, a very pretty village and especially beautified and given prominence by being the summer residence of Mr. L. W. Gunby, of Salisbury. This home is of rather ancient structure, but since Mr. Gunby has owned it, he beautified the home and its surroundings. The only industry is a marine railway, which is always active. It does some work in a very quiet way all the year round. The original purpose of the settlers was to build a town and perhaps a city, but the people kept on until Salisbury was reached and here stands the magnificent and resplendent city. Shad Point will soon be a close suburb of Salisbury. Along the river on the road from Salisbury to Shad Point, are beautiful sites for residences and the conditions look as if this might be a healthful locality in which to locate. And while nothing is offered, especially in nature, to the hands of industry in this section, the home life in such a place would be quiet and restful. After a day in Salisbury in office, in store or at the mechanic's daily push and worry a quiet home retreat here would be ideal and yet near enough to Salisbury to get the benefits of city influences. Judging from present indications many people think as the writer does and we are only writing in prospect what will be enjoyed in real life in the near future. Salisbury must expand and that section adjacent thereto that holds out the strongest invitation by nature or by commercial advantage, will attract the home seeker.

Good Roads and Bridges.

In this section is located the Pine Bluff Sanitarium that has done and is still doing so much to relieve the unfortunate and prolong life under congenial conditions and at a price within the reach of all. It is a great institution and growing in favor and patronage. The crossing of the stream that flows on into the Wicomico river near this point is spanned by a perfectly safe bridge that is ideal in construction and in safety showing both skill and enterprise. The roadway has been improved and up-to-date and adds much not only to the travel but to the appearance and indicates interest upon the part of property owners. Good roads, good substantial bridges are valuable assets to any community and the future growth and expansion of Salisbury in this direction has been anticipated by those who were interested and they have paid the way for future sales and property improvement.

Our next point was the "White Hall" farm, the home of Captain and Mrs. Thomas W. H. White. Here is a tract of land on one hundred and eight acres that has been held in unbroken possession by his lineal antecedents for nearly three hundred years or since 1627 and we doubt if there is another tract of land in the State whose ownership has been confined to the same blood kin for so many years. The accession by Capt. White to this tract now reaches the five hundred acre mark in one area. While the buildings have somewhat changed and improved they are ancient landmarks of one of the most distinguished families on the Eastern Shore. Between the buildings and the river is a large meadow, used exclusively for pasture and above and below the wharves accessible for teams and on which thousands of cords of wood were stored and shipped to Baltimore.

Fine Artesian Well.

The cord wood industry flourished just after the close of the Civil War in this section. A large number of sail vessels were active on the Wicomico for many years following the war, but a change of conditions marked the passing away of this cutting, hauling and shipping of cord wood. Men have gone out on other lines and their skill and energy have been to foster and develop other resources. By reason of this change the people work less; and the work they do is not so laborious, not so strenuous upon the human system as the work of other years. The exposure is now comparatively less than then and life is more diversified. It is worth far more to live in the present age than at any period of the world's history.

One very convenient feature here is an artesian well near the residence. The word artesian as applied to the well had its origin from its early use in Artois, France. Artesian wells are now common in America and in Europe. They exist in the western portion of the Union and vary much in depth. One in St. Louis is thirty-eight hundred feet, one in Cincinnati, twenty-four hundred feet. There are a number of these wells on the Shore and quite a number in Wicomico county. This one at Captain White's is said to be the second in amount and force of flow on the Shore. The one at Sinepuxent Bay is said to be the strongest and has the largest flow. The well at Captain White's has been flowing constantly for more than twenty years and never weakens or grows less in stream. It is ninety-one feet deep and it is not affected by rainfall, heat or cold, but has a perennial flow of pure, sweet, healthful water as clear as crystal. There has been much discussion as to the source of the subterranean spring from which this water flows, but the generally accepted theory is that these underground springs flowing through permeable beds or strata may travel under ground for many miles and the pipe drilled through the impermeable strata forms an artificial channel through which the water rises by the force above this point, gushes forth as a deep-seated spring where the surface is at a lower level than the surface region where the permeable beds receive their supply of water and that this supply has its source in the Alleghany mountains or the Blue Ridge, flowing below the bed of the Chesapeake Bay to the Atlantic Ocean, where it is lost in the great depth of that body of water. And this may account for the great force of the artesian well at Sinepuxent bay drilled

Balancing the Accounts of the World

THE COFFEE served at your breakfast table this morning probably was a part of a small purchase for cash at the corner grocery. That was the simplest of all commercial transactions, but back of it lies the wonderful system of trade and commerce by means of which the products of one part of the world are made available in another and by means of which people everywhere are able to profitably exchange their products for the consumable goods of other peoples in other parts of the world.

Foreign trade is a familiar term these days, and every newspaper from time to time contains news of its expansion or depression, as the case may be, but few accounts are explicit enough to give any true idea of what really happens when trade becomes foreign.

We know that domestic business simply consists of exchanging the money in our pockets for goods, as in the case of the coffee. But when the importer bought that same coffee in South America a very different and much more complicated transaction took place, a transaction that would not have been possible without the service of the financial machinery that has been built up to facilitate trading between nations and continents.

Foreign trade is more complicated than domestic trade because of the varying monetary units which enter into settlements arising out of the exchange of goods produced in one country for goods from other countries. Each nation must in the end sell to other nations a quantity of goods approximately equalling the amount of its purchases, and the final settlements for the goods sold to any one nation may come from many different nations. This balancing of sales with purchases must go on if business is to go on.

THE PART A BANK PLAYS

The vital part that banks play in the interchange of goods among nations is intensely interesting. Using our coffee for further illustration, let us see what actually happened in the financing of it from the tree to the breakfast table. The grower in Brazil sold it to an exporter, probably in Santos, the world's greatest coffee port. The exporter probably sold it to a coffee importer in New York. But if the New York importer had simply forwarded his check for the amount of the bill, the exporter in Santos would have had difficulty in cashing it. Instead of doing that, this was the probable procedure:

The importer in New York went to his bank and arranged to open what is called a confirmed letter of credit. By this means, the bank issuing the credit lends its name to its customer and promises to pay the amount named in the credit against drafts covering the requisite amount of coffee.

The exporter in Brazil, after arranging for the shipment of the coffee, drew a draft against the bank issuing the letter of credit for the value of the coffee. He then took his letter of credit with the draft, to which was attached the bill of lading, insurance policies and other documents, to a bank in Santos, probably to the branch of an American bank located in that city.

The branch bank manager then made an offer for the draft, based on the guaranty of the bank in America issuing the credit; that is, he told the coffee exporter how much he was willing to pay in Brazilian money for a draft which would later be collected in American money in New York. Assuming that a favorable offer was made, the exporter sold the draft to the branch bank and received his money in the local currency used in Brazil.

How did the bank manager know how much he could afford to pay in Brazilian money for a draft that would be collected weeks later in New York? He determined this question by referring to the buying rate for the day the deal was made, and an explanation of that buying rate entails, in a nutshell, the whole financial fabric of international trade.

The buying rate is determined in a triangular way, because most of the world's business is really a three-sided transaction. Brazil sells to the United States much more than the United States sells to Brazil, so that trade would eventually be choked off if no remedy were at hand. But Brazil buys more from other countries than it sells, and it so happens that these are the countries which buy more from the United States than they sell to us. Thus we have a situation with three angles, which can be, and is eventually adjusted just as if the entire matter were simply a debt between Jones, Smith and Brown.

CREATING CREDITS IN NEW YORK

The manager of the branch in Santos knows that when he buys a draft which will be paid in dollars in New York, he is creating a credit for himself in dollars. He knows that other customers will want to buy some of those dollars for the purchase of American goods to be shipped back to Santos, but that all of his credits cannot be used that way. But he also knows that Brazil has bought more goods in Europe than it has money to pay for, unless it can use the dollars it has in New York for that purpose.

These same European countries need funds with which to pay the United States for the excess of their purchases here over the amount they have sold us. A trade is thereby arranged by means of which the three, through the medium of drafts, by matching one credit or one debt against the other two, equalize matters and wipe the slate clean.

They are not, however, exactly equal, and it is in determining the precise differences between the three that the world's banking system operates. At the present time we constantly hear it said that the exchanges are disarranged, by means of which we mean that some countries are producing more than they are consuming while others are consuming more than they are producing.

In normal times, these factors would be practically in balance and any balances still outstanding after the three-cornered matching of debits and credits would be settled by the shipping of gold. But at the present time gold has almost disappeared from the commercial world and the United States is the only country where it is obtainable on demand.

Thus we see that theoretically the world settles its accounts by the shipment of goods. The actual machinery of payment, however, is the transferring of funds by the banks as trade rises and falls and as the crop seasons direct the flow of trade. The wheat which we send to England, for example, creates credits for us which we may use to offset the debt we owe Brazil for coffee, while Brazil uses the credit thus created to pay for machinery it has bought in England.

The procedure here outlined is followed, in its principal parts, in financing all international trade. It is apparent that the functions of banks bring them into touch with every phase of foreign trading and that a nation whose business interests have at their service an adequate and efficiently operated system of branch banks throughout the world is in a position to advance the interests of its manufacturers, importers, exporters and traders far more than a nation which has to depend upon such facilities owned by others.

The cost of the food we eat, the clothes we wear and everything with which we are concerned in our daily lives touches the question of foreign trade at some point, slight as may at first seem the connection.

This is Number Four of a series of special articles published by The National City Bank of New York, coincident with the opening of its uptown branches.

The Wreckers

By FRANCIS LYND

Copyright by Chas. Scribner's Sons

While all these threads were weaving along, I'm sorry to say that I hadn't yet drummed up the courage to tell the boss the truth about Mrs. Shella. He kept on going to the major's every chance he had, and Maizie Ann was making life miserable for me because I hadn't told him—calling me a coward—and everything under the sun. I told her to tell him herself, and she retorted that I knew she couldn't; that it was my job and nobody else's. We fussed over it a lot; and because I most always contrived some excuse to chase out to the Kendrick house at the boss' heels—merely to help Tarbell keep cases on him—there were plenty of chances for the fussing.

It was on one of these chasing trips to "Kenwood" that the roof fell in. The major had gone out somewhere—to the theater, I guess—taking his wife and Maizie Ann, and the boss and Mrs. Shella were sitting together in the major's den, with a little coal blaze in the basket grate because the nights were beginning to get a bit chilly.

I had butted in with a telegram—which might just as well have stood over until the next morning. If you want to know, after I had delivered it, Mrs. Shella gave me that funny little laugh of hers and told me to go hunt in the pantry and see if I could find a piece of pie, and the boss added that if I'd wait, he'd go back to town with me pretty soon.

I found the pie, and ate it in the dining-room, making noise enough about it so that they could know I was there if they wanted to. But they went right on talking, and paid no attention to me.

"Do you know, Shella," they had long since got just the "Mr." and "Mrs."—you've been the greatest possible help to me in this rough-house, all the way along," the boss was saying. "You have held me up to the rack, time and again, when I have been ready to throw it all up and let go. Why have you done it?"

I heard the little laugh again, and she said: "It is worth something to have a friend. Odd as it may seem, Graham, I have been singularly poverty-stricken in that respect. And I have wanted to see you succeed. Though you are still calling it merely a 'business deal,' it is really a mission, you know, crammed full of good things to a struggling world. If you do succeed—and I am sure you are going to—you will leave this community, and hundreds of others, vastly the better for what you are doing and demonstrating."

"But that is a man's point of view," the boss persisted. "How do you get it? You are all woman, you know; and your mixing and mingling at least, since I have known you—has all been purely social. How do you get the big overlook?"

"I don't know. I was foolish and frivolous once, like most young girls, I suppose. But we all grow older; and we ought to grow wiser. Besides, the woman has the advantage of the man in one respect; she has time to think and plan and reason things out as a busy man can't have. Your problem has seemed very simple to me, from the very beginning. It asked for a strong man and an honest one. You were to take charge of a piece of property that had been abused and knocked about and used as a means of extortion and oppression, and you were to make it good."

"Again, that is a man's point of view."

"Oh, no," she protested quickly. "There is no sex in ethics. Women are the natural house-cleaners, perhaps, but that isn't saying that a man can't be one, too, if he wants to be."

At this, the boss got up and began to tramp up and down the room; I could hear him. I knew she'd been having the biggest kind of a job to keep him shut up in this sort of abstract corral, when all the time he was loving her fit to kill, but apparently she had been doing it successfully. There wasn't the faintest breath of sentiment in the air; not the slightest whiff. When she began again, I could somehow feel that she was just in time to prevent his breaking out into all sorts of love-making.

"The time has come, now, when you must take another leaf out of my book," she said, with just the proper little cooling tang in her voice. "Up to the present you have been hammering your way to the end like a strong man, and that was right. But you have been more or less reckless—and that isn't right or fair or just to a lot of other people."

"The tramping stopped and I heard him say: 'I don't know what you mean.'"

"I mean that matters have come to such a pass now that you can't afford to take any risks—personal risks. If the plan, the enemy is trying doesn't work, it will try another and a more desperate one."

"You've been talking to Ripley," he laughed. "Ripley wants me to become a gun-toter and provide myself with a body-guard. I'd look well, wouldn't I? But what do you mean by 'the plan the enemy is now trying'?"

"She hesitated a little, and then said: 'I shall make no charges, because I have no proof. But I read the newspapers, and Mr. Van Britz tells me something, now and then. You are having a terrible lot of wrecks.'"

"That is merely bad luck," he rejoined easily.

"Rashness is no part of true courage," she interpolated, calmly. "As a private individual you might say that your life is your own, and that you have a perfect right to risk it as you please. But as the general manager of the railroad, with a lot of your friends holding office under you, you can't say that. Besides, you are fighting for a cause, and that cause will stand or fall with you."

"You ought to be a member of this new reform legislature that some of our good friends think is coming up the pike," he chuckled; but she ignored the good-natured gibe and made him listen.

"I was visiting a day or two at the capital last week, and there are influences at work that you don't know about. If the opposition can't make your administration a failure, it won't hesitate to get rid of you in the easiest way that offers."

There was silence in the major's den for a minute or so, and then the boss said:

"As usual, you know more than you are willing to tell me."

"Perhaps not," was the prompt answer. "Perhaps I am only the on-looker—who can usually see things rather better than the persons actually involved. Hitherto I have urged you to be bold, and then again to be bold. Now I am begging you to be prudent."

"In what way?"

"Careful for yourself. For example: you walked out here this evening; don't do that any more. Come in a taxi—and don't come alone."

I couldn't see his frown of disagreement, but I knew well enough it was there.

"There spoke the woman in you," he said. "If I should show the white feather that way, they'd have some excuse for potting me."

There was a silence again, and I got up quietly and crossed the dining-room to the big recessed window where I stood looking out into the darkness of the tree-shaded lawn. It was pretty evident that Mrs. Shella knew a heap more than she was telling the boss. Just as he had said, and I couldn't help wondering how she came to know it. What she said about the increased number of wrecks looked like a pointer. Was she in touch with the enemy in some way?

Then my mind went back in a flash to what Maizie Ann had told me. Was the husband who ought to be dead, and wasn't, mixed up in it in any way? Could it be possible that he was one of those who were in the fight on the other side, and that she was still keeping in touch with him?

Pretty soon I heard the murmur of their voices again, but now I was so far away from the bamboo-screened door that I couldn't hear what they were saying. I wished they would break it off so the boss could go. It was getting late, and there had been enough said to make me wish we were both safely back in the hotel. It's that way sometimes, you know, in spite of all you can do. You hear a talk, and you can't help reading between the lines. I knew, as well as I knew that I was alive, that Mrs. Shella meant more than she had said; perhaps more than she had dared to say.

It was while I was standing there in the big window that I saw the man on the lawn. At first I thought it was Tarbell, who was never very far out of reach when the boss was running loose. But the next minute I saw I was mistaken. The man under the trees had on a long traveling coat that came nearly to his heels, and his cap was the kind that has two visors, one in front and the other behind.

Realizing that it wasn't Tarbell, I stood perfectly still. The house was lighted with gas, and the dining-room chandelier had been turned down, so there was a chance that the skulker under the trees wouldn't see me standing in the corner of the box window. To make it sure, I edged away until the curtain hid me. I was just in time. The man had crept out of his hiding place and was coming up to the window on the outside. As he passed through the dim beam of light thrown by the turned-down chandelier, I saw that he had a pistol in his hand, or a weapon of some kind; anyway, I caught the glint of the gas-light on dull steel.

That stirred me up good and plenty.

I still had the gun I had taken out of Fred May's drawer; I had carried it ever since the night when it had mightily nearly got me killed off in the Red Tower coal yard. I fished it out and made ready, thinking, of course, that the skulker must certainly be one of Clannahan's gunmen. I still had that idea when I felt, rather than saw, that the man was pulling himself up to the window so that he could take a look into the dining room.

The look satisfied him, apparently, for the next second I heard him drop among the bushes; and when I stood up and looked out again I could just make him out going around toward the back of the house. I knew the house like a book, and without making any noise about it I slipped through the butler's pantry and got a look out of a rear window. My man was there, and he was working his way sort of blindly around to the den side of the place.

I knew there was only one window in the major's den room, and that was nearly opposite the screened doorway.

So I ducked back into the dining room and took a stand where I could see the one window through the door-curtain network of bamboo beads. I was so excited that I caught

I Saw That He Had a Pistol in His Hand.

only snatches of what Mrs. Shella was saying to the boss, but the bits that I heard were a good deal to the point. "No, I mean it, Graham. . . . It is as I told you at first. . . . there is no standing room for either of us on that ground. . . . and you must not come here again when you know that I am alone. . . . No, Jimmie isn't enough!"

I wrunched the half-working ear-sense aside and jammed it into my eyes, concentrating hard on the window at which I expected every second to see a man's face. If the man was a murderer, I thought I could beat him to it.

The suspense didn't last very long. A hand came up first to push the window vines aside. It was a white hand, long and slender, more like a woman's than a man's. Then against the glass I saw the face, and it gave me such a turn that I thought I must be going lolly.

Instead of the ugly mug of one of Clannahan's gunmen, the haggard face framed in the window sash was a face that I had seen once—and only once—before; on a certain Sunday night in the Bullard when the loose-lipped mouth belonging to it had been babbling drunken curses at the night clerk. The man at the window was the dissipated young rouser who had been pointed out as the nephew of President Dunton.

CHAPTER XI

The Name on the Register

So long as I was holding on to the notion that the man outside was one of Clannahan's thugs, hanging around to do the boss a mischief, I thought I knew pretty well what I should do when it came to the pinch. Would I really have hauled off and shot a man, in cold blood? That's a tough question, but I guess maybe I could have screwed myself up to the sticking point, as the fellow says, with a sure-enough gunman on the other side of that window—and the boss' life at stake. But when I saw that it was young Collingwood, that was a horse of another color.

What on earth was the president's nephew doing, prowling around Major Kendrick's house after eleven o'clock at night, lugging a pistol and peeking into windows? I could see him quite plainly now. He had both hands on the sill and was trying to pull himself up so that he could see into the end of the room where the fireplace was.

Just for the moment, there wasn't any danger of a blow-up. Unless he should break the glass in the window, he couldn't get a line on either the boss or Mrs. Shella—if that was what he was aiming to do. All the same, I kept him covered with the automatic, standing it against the door-jamb.

While the strain was at its worst, with the man outside flattening his cheek against the window-pane to get the sideways slant, I heard the boss get out of his chair and say: "Is keeping you out of bed, as usual; look at that clock! I'll go and wake Jimmie, and we'll vanish."

Here's why CAMELS are the quality cigarette

BECAUSE we put the utmost quality into this one brand. Camels are as good as it's possible for skill, money and lifelong knowledge of fine tobaccos to make a cigarette.

Nothing is too good for Camels. And bear this in mind! Everything is done to make Camels the best cigarette it's possible to buy. Nothing is done simply for show.

Take the Camel package for instance. It's the most perfect packing science can devise to protect cigarettes and keep them fresh. Heavy paper—secure foil wrapping—revenue stamp to seal the fold and make the package air-tight. But there's nothing flashy about it. You'll find no extra wrappers. No frills or furbelows.

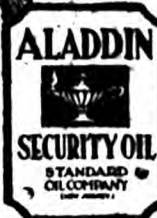

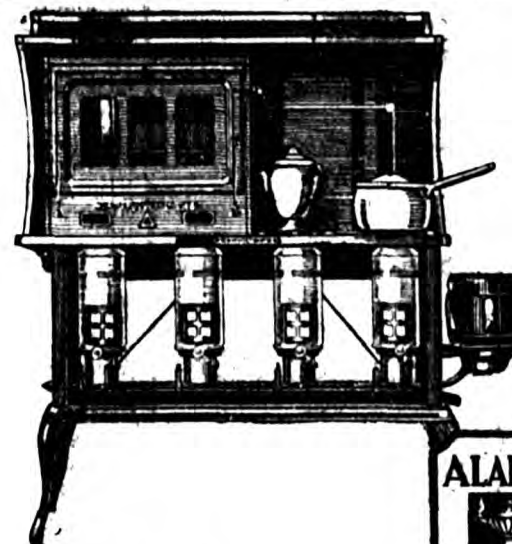

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And remember—you must pay their extra cost or get lowered quality.

If you want the smoothest, mellowest, mildest cigarette you can imagine—and one entirely free from cigarettey aftertaste,

It's Camels for you.

Popular with over 3,000,000 housekeepers

AND the number is increasing every day. The many conveniences and decided economy of New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are the explanation of their wide-spread popularity.

The New Perfection makes perfect cooking easy. Delicious pastry of all kinds, nicely done roasts and tender-crusted pies—no mystery about them, the accurate control of your heat assures perfect results, always. A separate burner for each cooking utensil makes possible a great saving of fuel and a cool, comfortable kitchen, even on warm days.

Do away with coal and wood carrying and the litter, ashes and dust that go with them. New Perfection kitchens are clean and invariably tidy. The white-tipped flame of this modern cook stove provides intense, controllable heat without sooting your pans.

The New Perfection is strongly built and can be kept attractive with a dust-cloth, no blacking necessary. Most buyers select the four-burner size with warming cabinet and a New Perfection Oven. However, five, three, two and one-burner sizes are obtainable by those who prefer them.

Aladdin Security Oil is noted for its uniform quality and cleanliness. Always dependable, use it regularly.

New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves are sold at most hardware, furniture and department stores.

For the Wedding Cortège

THE quest for bridesmaids' hats this year is an easy and delightful one. The bride can hardly go wrong in her choice and her maids are sure to be pleased; for this is a season of picturesque and colorful millinery. Given these two advantages and the inspiration of a wedding cortège, designers turn loose a poetic and unhampered fancy and produce hats fit for the heads of angels. The wedding procession is the magnificent hour for millinery and this year's hats meet it magnificently.

It takes a real artist—an educated judgment—to think out the best in millinery, and not only brides but milliners themselves do well to rely upon authoritative designers in this matter of bridesmaids' millinery. It is better to copy a masterpiece than make an indifferent attempt at original designing.

At the top of the group a small hat of narrow ribbon and braided preserves in its up-to-date lines a flavor of the quaint poke bonnet. The narrow ribbon with plect edge, which alternates with rows of braid in the shape, falls from the back of the hat in many loops. Little forget-me-nots peep and stray over the edge of the brim as if to get a look at the fair face of the maid. A rose with foliage and small berries is at home in the front of this fine model. With these flowers in their natural colors one can imagine the hat in any light tint the bride may choose.

Just at the right a hair braid hat with round crown and medium brim, accepts two of the style decrees of Paris for this season. First its long, curling plume, that curves over the crown, proceeds across the brim and spirals down to the shoulder. It is sponsored by the French and its brim edge takes advantage of the vogue for pear heads. This hat is displayed in white or light colors. The very wide-brimmed hat of hair braid at the left of the group invites color and is encircled with a wreath of fine grasses with flowers and fruit among them. Its rush of velvet ribbon slips through the brim, falling from the underbrim in loops and long ends. A glorious hat of white hair braid with an ostrich wreath, straying across the front and over the brim, presents the charms of all-white and finishes the group fittingly.

CORNER STONE LAYING IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY

Appropriate Services Marked The Laying Corner Stone of First Baptist Church At Crisfield.

With appropriate services, the corner stone of the new First Baptist Church of Crisfield, was laid on Monday afternoon, July 4, beginning at 2 o'clock.

The new edifice, which graces the corner of Main street and Somerset avenue, Crisfield, is being built under the pastorate of Dr. Bob Killgore, and when completed will be one of the finest church buildings on the Eastern Shore.

Dr. Boyce Tupper, a noted Chautauqua lecturer, of Philadelphia, Pa., made the address of the occasion, and Dr. W. H. Baylor, a prominent Baptist minister, of Baltimore, also was present and made a short address.

After the corner stone laying exercises, the ministers of the different churches and denominations of Crisfield, and their wives, were the guests of Dr. Killgore at dinner which was served at the Baptist Park by the ladies of the church and to which the public was invited.

to a depth of fifteen hundred feet, and is said to be the greatest flow of water from a subterranean spring on the Shore. Capt. White holds to this theory and the man who drilled the well twenty years ago agreed with him in the theory.

Shore's "Grand Old Man."

Captain White, who has reached his four score years may well be classed as the grand old man of the Eastern Shore. He is grand in the magnanimity of his character. His whole life has been filled with deeds of charity and benevolence and while these are crowning virtues they have been accompanied with helpfulness to young men. He has always been ready and willing to give a struggling man a lift and then watch him go. He is a natural born financier and has risen step by step, year by year until he has gathered about him valuable and far-reaching possessions that modestly forbids estimating. His mind is still firm and active and he can at a moment's notice recall and relate experiences and incidents of any period of his life with perfect accuracy. His memory serves him at his bidding and travels back to the scenes and activities of other years with perfect accuracy. His mind has always been of a literary tendency and as a writer, both prose and poetry he has had few superiors in the county. His language is classical and in conversation he often uses phrases of beauty and eloquence. He has so lived and moved in the community that in retrospect his life must appeal to him as having been the best he could give. In prospect no man is more positive of a conscience void of offence to God and man and he now stands at the threshold of the unknown with a faith as strong as the rocks of Gibraltar.

A visit to his hospitable home is a benediction; he is still interested in the affairs of home, of county, of state and nation. He has been very considerate for the aged and unfortunate and this has given him a place in the hearts of the people that his life has touched that will tell for good in generations yet unborn. He has always been a strong believer in the plan of God in setting the earth in families and in replenishing the earth. Sixteen children have been born in his home and ten are still living. At home he has always presided with a deep interest for his own household and in the activities of his children, kind and indulgent and yet he has counseled and governed in a way that won the love and admiration of his whole family and today he is honored and revered and has a place of honor and distinction that few men enjoy at his age.

Leans Out of Boat; Comes To Grief.

New York. Miss Frances Reginald, twenty-four of No. 671 Eighth avenue, fell part ways into the Harlem river from a motor boat in which she and a man and another woman were riding. As she reached into the water for a handkerchief, her right foot was caught by the flywheel of the boat and thrown.

Biliousness and Constipation.

"For years I was troubled with biliousness and constipation, which made me miserable for me. My appetite failed me. I lost my usual force and vitality. Pepsin preparations and cathartics only made matters worse. I did not know where I should have been today had I not tried Chamberlain's Tablets. The tablets relieve the ill feeling at once, strengthen the digestive functions, helping the system to do its work naturally," writes Mrs. Rosa Potts, Birmingham, Ala.—Advertisement.

The Economy of Good Planning

The First Requisite of Good Planning

in home-building is that you select a house of the right size, that is, one which adequately fits your needs. If it is too large, the cost of heating, lighting, and furnishing will cause dissatisfaction. If it is too small, the inconvenience of cramped quarters will be even more unsatisfactory, and additions are never as satisfactory as are homes which are planned right from the start. In either case, your home would not be what you want it to be.

A Second Requisite of Good Planning is that the interior should be arranged in the most convenient manner. That means easy access between rooms; elimination of waste spaces and consequently of wasted steps and energy; it means the elimination also of anything freakish, because little oddities, no matter how strongly they may appeal to the builder, are usually an obstacle to later sales and rentals.

A Third Requisite of Good Planning is that the materials that go into the making of your house should be of the best. There is a wood for every purpose—select that wood. There is a style of interior trim that will exactly suit your needs—select that style. There is a way to save money in your building. Ask us to show you that way. In promptness, in quality, in service, in experience, in price, we are fully qualified to take care of your building material needs in such a way that your careful planning will count for the most.

FORD PLANT BUILDS 108,962 IN JUNE

DEMAND EXCEEDS OUTPUT AS FORD BREAKS ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

During the month of June, the Ford Motor Company, through its Detroit factories and 22 Assembly Plants throughout the country reached the production of 108,962 Ford cars and trucks, setting up a new high record for one month.

Production of Ford cars and trucks has been steadily increasing since early spring, and shows substantial gains over the same period last year. The second quarter of 1921, viz., April, May and June, shows an output of 301,796 Ford cars and trucks against 229,955 for the same three months of last year, or a net increase of 89,245.

Despite the fact, however, that the Ford Plants have been running at maximum capacity, the demand for Ford cars and trucks is not being met, and at the present time, many thousands of unfilled orders have been piled up ahead so that Ford sales are still limited by manufacturing facilities rather than marketing possibilities. Particularly is this true with respect to enclosed cars, for which the demand has been unusually heavy.

One reason cited by Ford officials for the unprecedented demand for Ford cars is the present tendency toward economy. Many of those whose names have been added to the long list of buyers tonight, well have afforded larger and more costly cars than the Ford, but it is the belief that most prospective motor car buyers are investigating all of the costs incident to motoring much more carefully than at any period during the past five years.

The estimated output of the Ford factories for July, calls for 109,000 cars and trucks, or a production of 3100 a day for 23 days. Since the assembling of cars is being handled during an eight hour day only, the hourly output will be 615 cars. In other words, one Ford car or truck leaves the assembly line every 6 1/2 seconds.
