Meeting of Packers

Mr. C. M. Dashiell, secretary of the Tri-State Packers' Association, has sent out notices that Mr. F. E. Gorrell, Secretary of the National Packers' Association, has set apart the first week in April to visit the Peninsula for the purpose of explaining to the packers of this section the sanitary requirements, both State and National, which will have to be complied with in packing canned goods during the coming season.

Meetings will be held at the following towns on the dates and at the places and hours stated: Easton, April 1st, 10.30 a. m., at Hotel Norris; Denton, April 1st, 2.30 p. m., at Court House; Salisbury, April 2d, 10.30 a. m., at Court House; Harrington, April 2d, 3 p. m., at Reese's Hall; Cambridge, April 3d, 12.30 p. m., at Court House. Meetings will be called promptly at the hours stated.

These are not meetings of members of the Tri-State Packers' Association only, but they are intended for all packers whether members or not—the meetings being merely held under the auspices of said Association.

Mutual Fire Insurance Company Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Somerset and Worcester Counties was held at the office of the company, in Princess Anne, last Wednesday. The meeting was presided over by Albert Sudler and the proceedings were recorded by Robt. F. Maddox. Henry J. Waters, secretary and treasurer, presented the annual report which was read and accepted. The financial condition of the company was shown to be excellent and the general condition of the organization stronger than ever before.

The following directors were elected for the ensuing year: John Sterling of E. Albert Sudler, F. M. Wilson, H. F. Lankford, C. M. Dashiell, Wm. T. G. Polk, R. F. Maddox, F. S. Lockerman, Alan B. Armstrong, A. B. Turpin, Victor Webster, A. B. Fitzgerald.

The directors met and elected Thos. H. Bock, president, and Henry J. Waters, secretary and treasurer.

Gasoline Vessel Cut in Two

The large gasoline steamer T. D. Purnell, of Fairmount, Capt. Arthur Holland, was wrecked at the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic dock in Crisfield Monday night of last week, when the steamer Maryland made her landing. In turning the corner of the dock the steamer struck the gasoline vessel, splitting it half in two. The injured craft immediately sank. The captain and crew had a spectacular rescue by watermen standing on the dock waiting for the Maryland to make her landing. The loss amounts to several thousand dollars, as the vessel is so badly damaged that it is beyond repair.

STANLEY MILES INJURED

While Riding a Motorcycle and Taken to the Hospital

Last Wednesday afternoon Mr. Stanley Miles, of Marion, met with a very serious accident whilst riding through that town on a motorcycle. He was riding rapidly and in attempting to make a turn was thrown against a telegraph pole in front of Adams' feed store, striking his head and fracturing the skull.

He was brought to Princess Anne on the 7.10 train from Crisfield and was then taken on a special to the Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury, where an operation was performed. Although at the time little hope was given of his recovery, since then he has appeared to improve and last accounts were much more encouraging.

Mr. Miles is 22 years old. He is a son of Mrs. Wm. E. Miles, of Marion, and a nephew of Hon. Joshua W. Miles and Mrs. John E. Holland, of Princess Anne. He had been engaged all winter in the sea food business in Baltimore with his brother, Mr. W. E. Miles, and had come home for recreation.

Cannon Firing Causes Havoc

Crisfield awoke Monday morning of last week to the roar of guns and the firing of cannon, when the big Atlantic fleet began its target practice in lower Chesapeake Bay off Tangier light. The heavy firing continued throughout the day, and it is understood that the practice will last for several weeks. The concussion from the big guns wrought havoc through the county. Windows were smashed, chimneys knocked down and buildings trembled on their foundations. Large show windows in the principal stores of Crisfield were wrecked, the Crisfield Hardware Company and the drug firm of Hall, Atkinson & Co., being among the principal losers.

Crisfield fishermen claim that the fish industry is being greatly damaged, because the shock will kill all fish within a radius of many miles, and many watermen are afraid to pursue their daily occupation for fear they will get within the range of the guns.

Farmers from all sections of the county poured into Crisfield, with the claim that the chicken industry had been demoralized, it being stated that the concussion from the guns had killed the spring setting of eggs.

According to reported damages from all sections of the town and county, Crisfield and lower Somerset suffered almost as much as if a real war were in progress. The old battleship Texas is being used as the target.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels found in his mail Tuesday morning a dozen letters from indignant residents of Crisfield protesting against the annoyance caused by the roar of the big guns in the target practice. One letter written to him by a lady who keeps chickens was particularly indignant. She wrote the Secretary that her hens had been so badly frightened by the noise of the cannon that the little chicks in their eggs had been killed, having been frightened to death before they were born.

Secretary Daniels wrote a fatherly letter expressing his sympathy with the lady and with the hens. But the practice of the fleet will go on just the same.

Takes Guns, Then Preaches

Anticipating disorder, Rev. Jay Yoe, pastor of the Pleasant Valley United Brethren Church, near Sabillasville, Maryland, locked the door of his church after the congregation had assembled and ordered a county constable to search the male worshippers. Seven revolvers were taken from young men and turned over to the preacher. The latter placed the weapons on the altar within convenient reach of himself and went on with the sermon.

The church is situated in a section of South Mountain, near the Frederick and Washington county line, where disorder has frequently taken place at religious meetings. For some time the minister has been annoyed by indiscriminate revolver firing after service. On one occasion while on his way home he found himself in the midst of heavy firing. No one was injured, but for a while bullets whistled in every direction.

In addition to the revolvers, knives were found, but these were not taken. Some asked to have their firearms returned before going home, but the minister decided that it was best to hold on to the weapons for the present. No action was taken against the pistol toppers and an effort was made to keep the matter quiet.

LOSS OF LIFE AND GREAT

More than 3000 Persons Perish in the Deluge of the Ohio River Valley

Damage to Property in Indiana and Ohio Over $100,000,000

More than 3200 persons may have perished in the deluge which swept the northern half of the Ohio River Valley Tuesday and Wednesday. Probably half a million persons were made homeless by the flood in Indiana and Ohio and property damaged in both States will be at least $100,000,000. These figures were compiled from reports received from various points in the stricken district. Further reports may increase the number of dead and it is unlikely that any decrease in financial loss will be made.

An additional horror was reported early Wednesday evening from Dayton. Fire there, which seemed widespread and probably uncontrollable, in view of the paralysis of the water plant, probably brought a horrible death to many who sought to escape drowning by climbing to upper floors of buildings.

The floods in Ohio and Indiana were due solely to the excessive rainfall since last Sunday night. Over 15,000,000 acres of water fell into the Ohio valley from Sunday until Wednesday morning. This is more than would fall ordinarily in a month of almost continuous rain.

Fire at Dayton added to the financial loss caused by the flood. Early estimates placing the damage in Ohio and Indiana at $50,000,000 were revised to show double that amount. Railroad officials were authority for the statement that lines converging into Indianapolis would have to stand a loss of $25,000,000 in that city and vicinity alone.

The towns in Ohio and Indiana that suffered severe losses are as follows: Ohio—Dayton, Piqua, Columbus, Mt. Vernon, Delaware, Middletown, Tiffin, Sidney, Hamilton, Tippencanoe, Stratford, Zanesville, East Liverpool, Akron, Indiana—Peru, New Castle, Lafayette, Indianapolis, Noblesville.

The total number of lives lost amounted to at least 3,000.

Following the floods a heavy snowstorm, swept northern Ohio since shortly after Wednesday midnight, prostrated telephone and telegraph wires, and seriously interfered with railroad traffic. As Thursday advanced the storm became worse. Interurban car service throughout the northern part of Ohio was at a standstill. Railroads moved trains with difficulty.

Secretary Garrison and his assistants are doing everything in their power to alleviate pain and render assistance. Three of the flood-swept cities have been visited by Secretary Garrison and the army men Sunday, and in each there was great work for them to do. They did it, and then hurried on to where succor was more necessary.

While the list of dead has grown no larger during the last 24 hours, the loss of life is large enough, and upon the Government has fallen the task of caring for the sick and injured, of aiding the near-helpless, and seeing that the dead are quickly and properly disposed of.

Trains loaded with clothing and provisions, etc., have been started from all eastern cities and will proceed to the flooded district as fast as possible to help the destitute.

With the recession of the waters the leading spirits of the stricken cities are already planning to rebuild and to care for their destitute after the first temporary relief from outside shall have been exhausted.

New Anti-Elopement Law

The new marriage act for Delaware, known as the Anti-elopement Law, became operative last Tuesday. It requires nonresidents to remain within the State 96 hours before the marriage ceremony is performed. Heretofore Delaware has been a Gretna Green for eloping couples from Philadelphia and New York, Baltimore, Washington and other cities, the restrictions surrounding the marriage ceremony being less obnoxious to those desiring to marry in haste than in any other section of the East.

Wilson Fears Smallpox

Everybody at the White House, including President Wilson, members of his family, aides, clerks, servants and domestics, about 150 in all, were vaccinated as a precaution against smallpox. White House physicians began the work Tuesday, vaccinating Mrs. Wilson and the three daughters. Though there have been a few cases of smallpox discovered, it did not become known until Tuesday that the parents of a domestic employed at the White House had become afflicted.

DAMAGE BY BIG STORMS

Tornado Strikes Omaha—200 Lives Lost and 500 Injured

For the first time since the disastrous tornado of Easter Sunday the people of Omaha last Tuesday began to count the lives and dollars. When a resume was made it was apparently more appalling than those who had studied the result were willing to admit.

Not less than 200 lives were snuffed out within the vicinity of the Omaha proper, and not less than 50 persons in surrounding towns lost their lives. Nearly 500 were injured, and eight of these died in local hospitals during the day.

The destruction was augmented Tuesday when nearly three inches of snow fell, making uninhabitable the houses of many who had prepared to remain temporary homes in partly destroyed structures.

The first and main storm struck Omaha, three miles west of South Omaha, and moved in a northeasterly direction through the city of Omaha.

The only point at which the force of the storm struck the business section was Twenty-fourth and Lake streets. Here the Diamond theater, a moving picture concern, well filled, was wrecked. According to the best available figures at least thirty of the patrons were killed. Between forty and fifty more were killed in the wreck of a pool hall nearby, which was patronized by negroes.

The well defined path of the storm ended at Carter lake, near the Mississippi river, north of the city. Fire broke out in the ruins and wrecked buildings. The fires burned themselves out except in instances where flames were brought under control of volunteer "bucket brigades."

The second storm swept across the Missouri river, doing considerable damage in Council Bluffs.

Mr. Marbury to Tour Wicomico County

The Wicomico News of last Thursday makes the following statement: William L. Marbury proposes to make a tour of Wicomico county and press his claims for the support of the people here for the long-term Senatorship.

Mr. L. W. Barroll, of Baltimore, son of Mr. Hope Barroll, of Chestertown, was in Salisbury last week feeling out public sentiment for Mr. Marbury. He says he was astonished to find so many Democrats who might be considered Organization and Smith men in favor of Mr. Marbury, and it was at once decided that Mr. Marbury should come to Wicomico county and make a stay of several days so that he could get acquainted with our people and campaign among them.

Mr. Marbury will arrive here on the evening of Wednesday, April 2, and will establish his headquarters at the Peninsula Hotel. On Thursday, April 3rd, he will speak at Mardela Springs, at 10.30 a. m., Hebron at 2.00 p. m., and Delmar at 7.30 p. m. Friday, April 4, Pittsville, 10.30 a. m., Willard, 1.00 p. m., and Sharptown, 7.30 p. m. Saturday he will spend in Salisbury and will address a meeting in the Ulman Opera House at 2.00 p. m., which will wind up his first tour of Wicomico. He expects to return to the county at a later date and cover the portions he could not cover on his first trip. It is more than probable that on his second visit here Hon. Joshua W. Miles will accompany him and make several speeches in the tide-water districts.

Arbor Day on April 11th

Friday, April 11th, has been designated as Arbor Day in a proclamation issued by Governor Goldsborough Thursday. The Governor is authorized by the laws of Maryland to designate annually a day in April for the planting of trees, to be known as Arbor and Highway Day. In his proclamation the Governor recommends that the day be observed as such and that the people of the state devote the same to the planting of trees. The teachers of the public schools of the state are urged to encourage the children under their charge and influence to plant on this day at least one forest shade tree by the side of a public road.

Tornado in Delaware

A tornado swept near Laurel, Del., at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, overturning barns, carriage houses, poultry houses, fodder in the field and yard trees. At Columbia schoolhouse, a woodhouse in which the children were playing was blown down and several children badly hurt. The schoolhouse was blown off its pillar and badly damaged. It was the worst storm ever seen in that section.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

Forty-Fifth Annual Session Convened at Crisfield

Nearly 200 members and probationers answered the roll call at the opening of the 45th session of the Wilmington Annual Conference, which convened last Tuesday morning in Immanuel Methodist Episcopal Church, Crisfield. Bishop Joseph F. Berry, of Philadelphia, presided. Organization was effected after the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, which was administered by the bishop, assisted by the district superintendents.

The conference is composed of 180 ministers and has nearly 50,000 church members, being the largest religious body on the Eastern Shore.

The district superintendents nominated the ministerial members of the board of stewards, as follows:

Dover district, W. G. Koons; Easton, G. W. Townsend; Salisbury, W. L. S. Murray, and Wilmington, S. M. Morgan, and they were elected.

On the motion of district superintendents H. S. Thompson and D. H. Willis were changed from effective to retired and of Rev. Raymond Lewis changed from effective to supernumerary.

Rev. E. L. Hoffecker presented a resolution commending the Delaware Legislature for its action in passing a bill prohibiting the shipping of liquor into dry territory.

Bishop Berry announced that the Wilmington Conference apportionment this year for the support of bishops is $3,139, nearly double what it was a year ago.

The following was the program for the week:

Tuesday—7.30 p. m., anniversary of the Board of Foreign Missions; Rev. George Heber Jones, D. D., speaker; music by Immanuel M. E. Choir.

Wednesday—8.30, opening session of the conference; 7.30 p. m., anniversary of the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension; speaker, Rev. Robert Forbes, D. D.

Thursday—8.30 a. m., business session of the conference; 3 p. m., anniversary of the Woman's Home Missionary Society; 7.30 p. m., anniversary of the Freedman's Aid Society and Board of Education; speaker, Rev. J. C. Nicholson, D. D.

Thursday evening—7.30, in Mt. Pleasant Church the anniversary of the Conference Epworth League.

Friday—8.30, business session of the conference; 3 p. m., the anniversary of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society; speaker Mrs. W. F. Oldham; 7.30 p. m., anniversary of the Anti-Saloon League and Church Temperance Society; speakers, Rev. T. M. Hare, Rev. Clarence Wilson, D. D., and Hon. W. H. Anderson.

Saturday—8.30 a. m., business session of the conference; Saturday evening, March 29, evangelistic services.

Sunday—8 a. m., love feast led by Rev. T. E. Martindale, D. D.; 10 a. m., ordination of deacons by Bishop J. F. Berry, D. D.; 10.30 a. m., preaching by Bishop J. F. Berry, D. D.; 3 p. m., ordination of elders by Bishop J. F. Berry, D. D.; 7.30 p. m., anniversary of the Board of Sunday Schools, Rev. Edgar Blake, speaker.

Rev. George P. Jones, district superintendent of Salisbury district, read the report of his work on Thursday and was loudly applauded when he declared that the Wilmington Conference can not pay for hospitality in his district. Rev. Mr. Jones' report also included an invitation for the Conference to meet next year at Berlin, Md., and the invitation carried with it a guarantee of free entertainment.

Wilson Received 1,623 Visitors

Sixteen hundred and twenty-three people, most of them visiting school teachers and students here for the Easter holiday, were received by President Wilson in the East Room of the White House Tuesday afternoon. He shook hands with them in 35 minutes. The biggest contingent consisted of 400 members of the Toronto Teachers' Association. Others were 30 teachers from places in Maine, 30 members of the graduating class of the Auburn (Maine) High School, 60 members of the senior class of the Warren (Pa.) High School, some teachers from Toledo, Ohio; 120 high school pupils from Keene, N. H.; 106 high school pupils from Bradford, Pa.; 15 students from Rochester, 20 from Westport, N. Y.; 20 from Mechanicsville, N. Y.; 15 from Syracuse University and 50 from Fall River, Mass.

Allen Outlaws Die in Chair

Floyd and Claude Allen, found guilty of murder in the shooting up of Judge Massie's courtroom at Hillsville, Virginia, March 14th, 1912, were electrocuted last Friday afternoon at Richmond, Va. Floyd, the father, went to the chair at 1.26 o'clock; Claude at 1.30.

MOOSER'S CONVENTION

A Full Ticket Planned for Next State Election

The Progressive party's State convention, held last Wednesday at the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore, adopted a party constitution after a day of turbulence in which the ultra-third-party element gave repeated evidence of dominance. A declaration of principles, based upon the Chicago platform, was incorporated in the constitution.

Charles J. Bonaparte was elected temporary chairman without opposition and former Congressman George A. Pearre, of Cumberland, permanent chairman, upon the recommendation of the committee on permanent organization. A strong fight was made for Charles R. Schirm for this honor, but the committee's recommendation prevailed. Dr. R. Lee Hall, of Pocomoke City, and Edgar H. McBride, of Frederick, were made secretaries.

The effort to have the convention elect Col. Joseph R. Baldwin chairman of the State Central Committee was sidetracked by the ultra third-parties, led by Mr. Bonaparte. Col. Edward C. Carrington will remain chairman for the present. Colonel Baldwin had the votes to elect him when the delegates gathered. His opponents made so strong a fight, however, that many of the Baldwin delegates were anxious for a way to avoid voting for him. That way was presented them when the suggestion was made that the convention had no power to accept the resignation as State chairman of Colonel Carrington and therefore had no power to elect his successor.

At the night session a resolution was offered by Mr. Schirm for the appointment by the Chair of a committee to be composed of one member from each county and two members from each legislative district, which should prepare a platform for submission to the next State convention. This motion was carried.

Prof. Samuel McC. Lindsay, of Columbia University, addressed the convention at night. He talked mainly upon the necessity of organizing a bureau to gather information upon issues in which the Bull Moose party is interested, mentioning particularly such questions as workmen's compensation, minimum wage scales, etc.

The Convention adopted a constitution which makes provisions for putting a full ticket in the field at the at the next State election.

Success of the Misses Sutro

The Baltimore American last Friday contained the following in reference to the success of the Misses Sutro in the midific field of Europe:

"Reports have come from Europe of the brilliant success which is attending the concerts given in the various important musical centers by Misses Rose and Ottilie Sutro, daughters of the late Otto Sutro. The musical critics of Berlin, Leipzig, Dresden, Frankfurt, Hamburg, London and other cities are unsparing in their praises of the work of these talented Baltimore girls.

"As the form of composition which they play is much more difficult than that of writing solos, comparatively few have attempted it with success, especially as these composers could find few interpreters to produce their works. Now the Misses Sutro have revived interest in this form of composition and they are being fairly overwhelmed with offers from composers and publishers to produce their works, and all want to write for them, with flattering offers of engagements for next season."

The Misses Sutro are granddaughters of the late Judge Alexander Handy, of Mississippi, a native of Somerset county, Md., and cousins of Mrs. Wm. H. Gale, of Princess Anne.

From Frisco to London Direct

Direct communication between San Francisco and London, England, by cable and telegraph was established last week in a test which is said to have been successful. It was made possible by means of a cable sounder which permits the use of the Morse code for cable messages.

The trans-continental line of the Postal Telegraph Company was "hooked up" to the trans-Atlantic cable for a few minutes and messages were exchanged without difficulty.

The cable is routed by way of Boston and Halifax and the operator in London and the man in San Francisco "talked" to each other without the assistance of relay offices.

OCEAN SPECTERS.

Phantom Craft That Are Said to Haunt the High Seas.

A CURIOUS ENGLISH RECORD.

The Log of the Warship Bacchante Under Date of July 11, 1881, Bears the Entry, "Flying Dutchman Crossed Our Bows"—The Goblin Ship.

There are numerous legends and stories of ghostly vessels that roam the briny deep, and many hard headed mariners, free from the common superstition of the ordinary seaman, stoutly maintain that they have at least once in their maritime career encountered what was undoubtedly a phantom ship.

Best known of those mysterious craft that haunt the high seas is, of course, the famous Flying Dutchman, or phantom ship of Vanderdecken. How the story originated is doubtful, but it has been ascertained that there was a seaman of repute who many years ago sailed from Holland to the east via the Cape of Good Hope, but was never again heard of.

Some authorities say that, meeting with contrary winds off the cape, he swore a terrible oath, in consequence of which the divine wrath decreed that he should be occupied till the crack of doom in endeavoring to weather the headland. Others state that this punishment was meted out to him in retribution for a terrible murder he committed before commencing his fateful voyage.

Whatever the cause of this ancient gentleman's monotonous wandering may be, it is probably in connection with him that the most authentic and cold blooded record of any phantom exists either afloat or ashore, for it is stated that in the log of H. M. S. Bacchante while on a voyage round the world with the little prince in 1881 there appears on July 11 the entry, "Flying Dutchman crossed our bows." The log book of one of the then largest of her majesty's warships is certainly the very last place to expect to find that which is generally associated with the hysterical of either sex.

During January, 1647, a vessel left New Haven, Conn., on her maiden voyage, but was never again heard of. In the following June, just before the hour of sunset and after a severe thunderstorm, the missing ship was seen sailing up the river. The inhabitants, taking their evening stroll, were overjoyed at her return, but the most observant of them noticed that there was something uncanny about her, especially in that she appeared to be sailing up against the wind.

Then, to the consternation of all, she gradually faded away before their eyes and entirely disappeared. We may be assured that there were not wanting those who maintained that the vessel in spirit had paid a last visit to her port before resting for good on the ocean bed.

In the "Chronicles of the St. Lawrence," by Le Maine, it is recorded that on a certain day in the year a phantom ship is seen off Cap d'Espoir, in Gaspé bay. Lights are seen aboard her, and her decks are crowded with men. By the foot of the bowsprit a man is conspicuously standing and facing toward the shore, with a lady clinging to his arm. Gradually the lights go out and the vessel sinks. It is said to be the ghost of the flagship of a fleet which was sent out to reduce the French forts, the vessel being lost with all hands.

To come to British waters, there are numerous instances related in local history of the visitations of ghostly vessels, the west of England, as might be expected, being most prolific. In these records, says a writer in the London Globe, indeed, Cornwall boasts of a goblin ship probably unique the world over, as she not only sails the water, but proceeds most unconcerned a good distance inland.

This is the specter ship of Porthcurno, and in Robert Hunt's book on "Romances of the West of England" are related the experiences of a local inhabitant who witnessed one of her escapades. She is described as a black square rigged single masted vessel, sometimes towing a small boat. No crew are ever seen; presumably they are down below. The personal narrative goes on to say:

"On came the craft. It passed steadily through the breakers, glided up over the sands, steadily pursued its course on the dry land as if it had been water. On it went to Bodelan, where St. Leven formerly dwelt. It then steered its course to Chrygiden and there vanished like smoke."

An Awful Blow.

"Yes," said Suthers, "Mickley was my dearest friend, and I shall never cease to mourn his death. It was a terrible blow, from which I shall never recover."

"Why—I thought you married his widow?" said Jimpson.

"Why—er—ahem!—why, yes, I did, but—"

Here Suthers subsided into a deep and uncomfortable silence.—Harper's Weekly.

Poor Comedy.

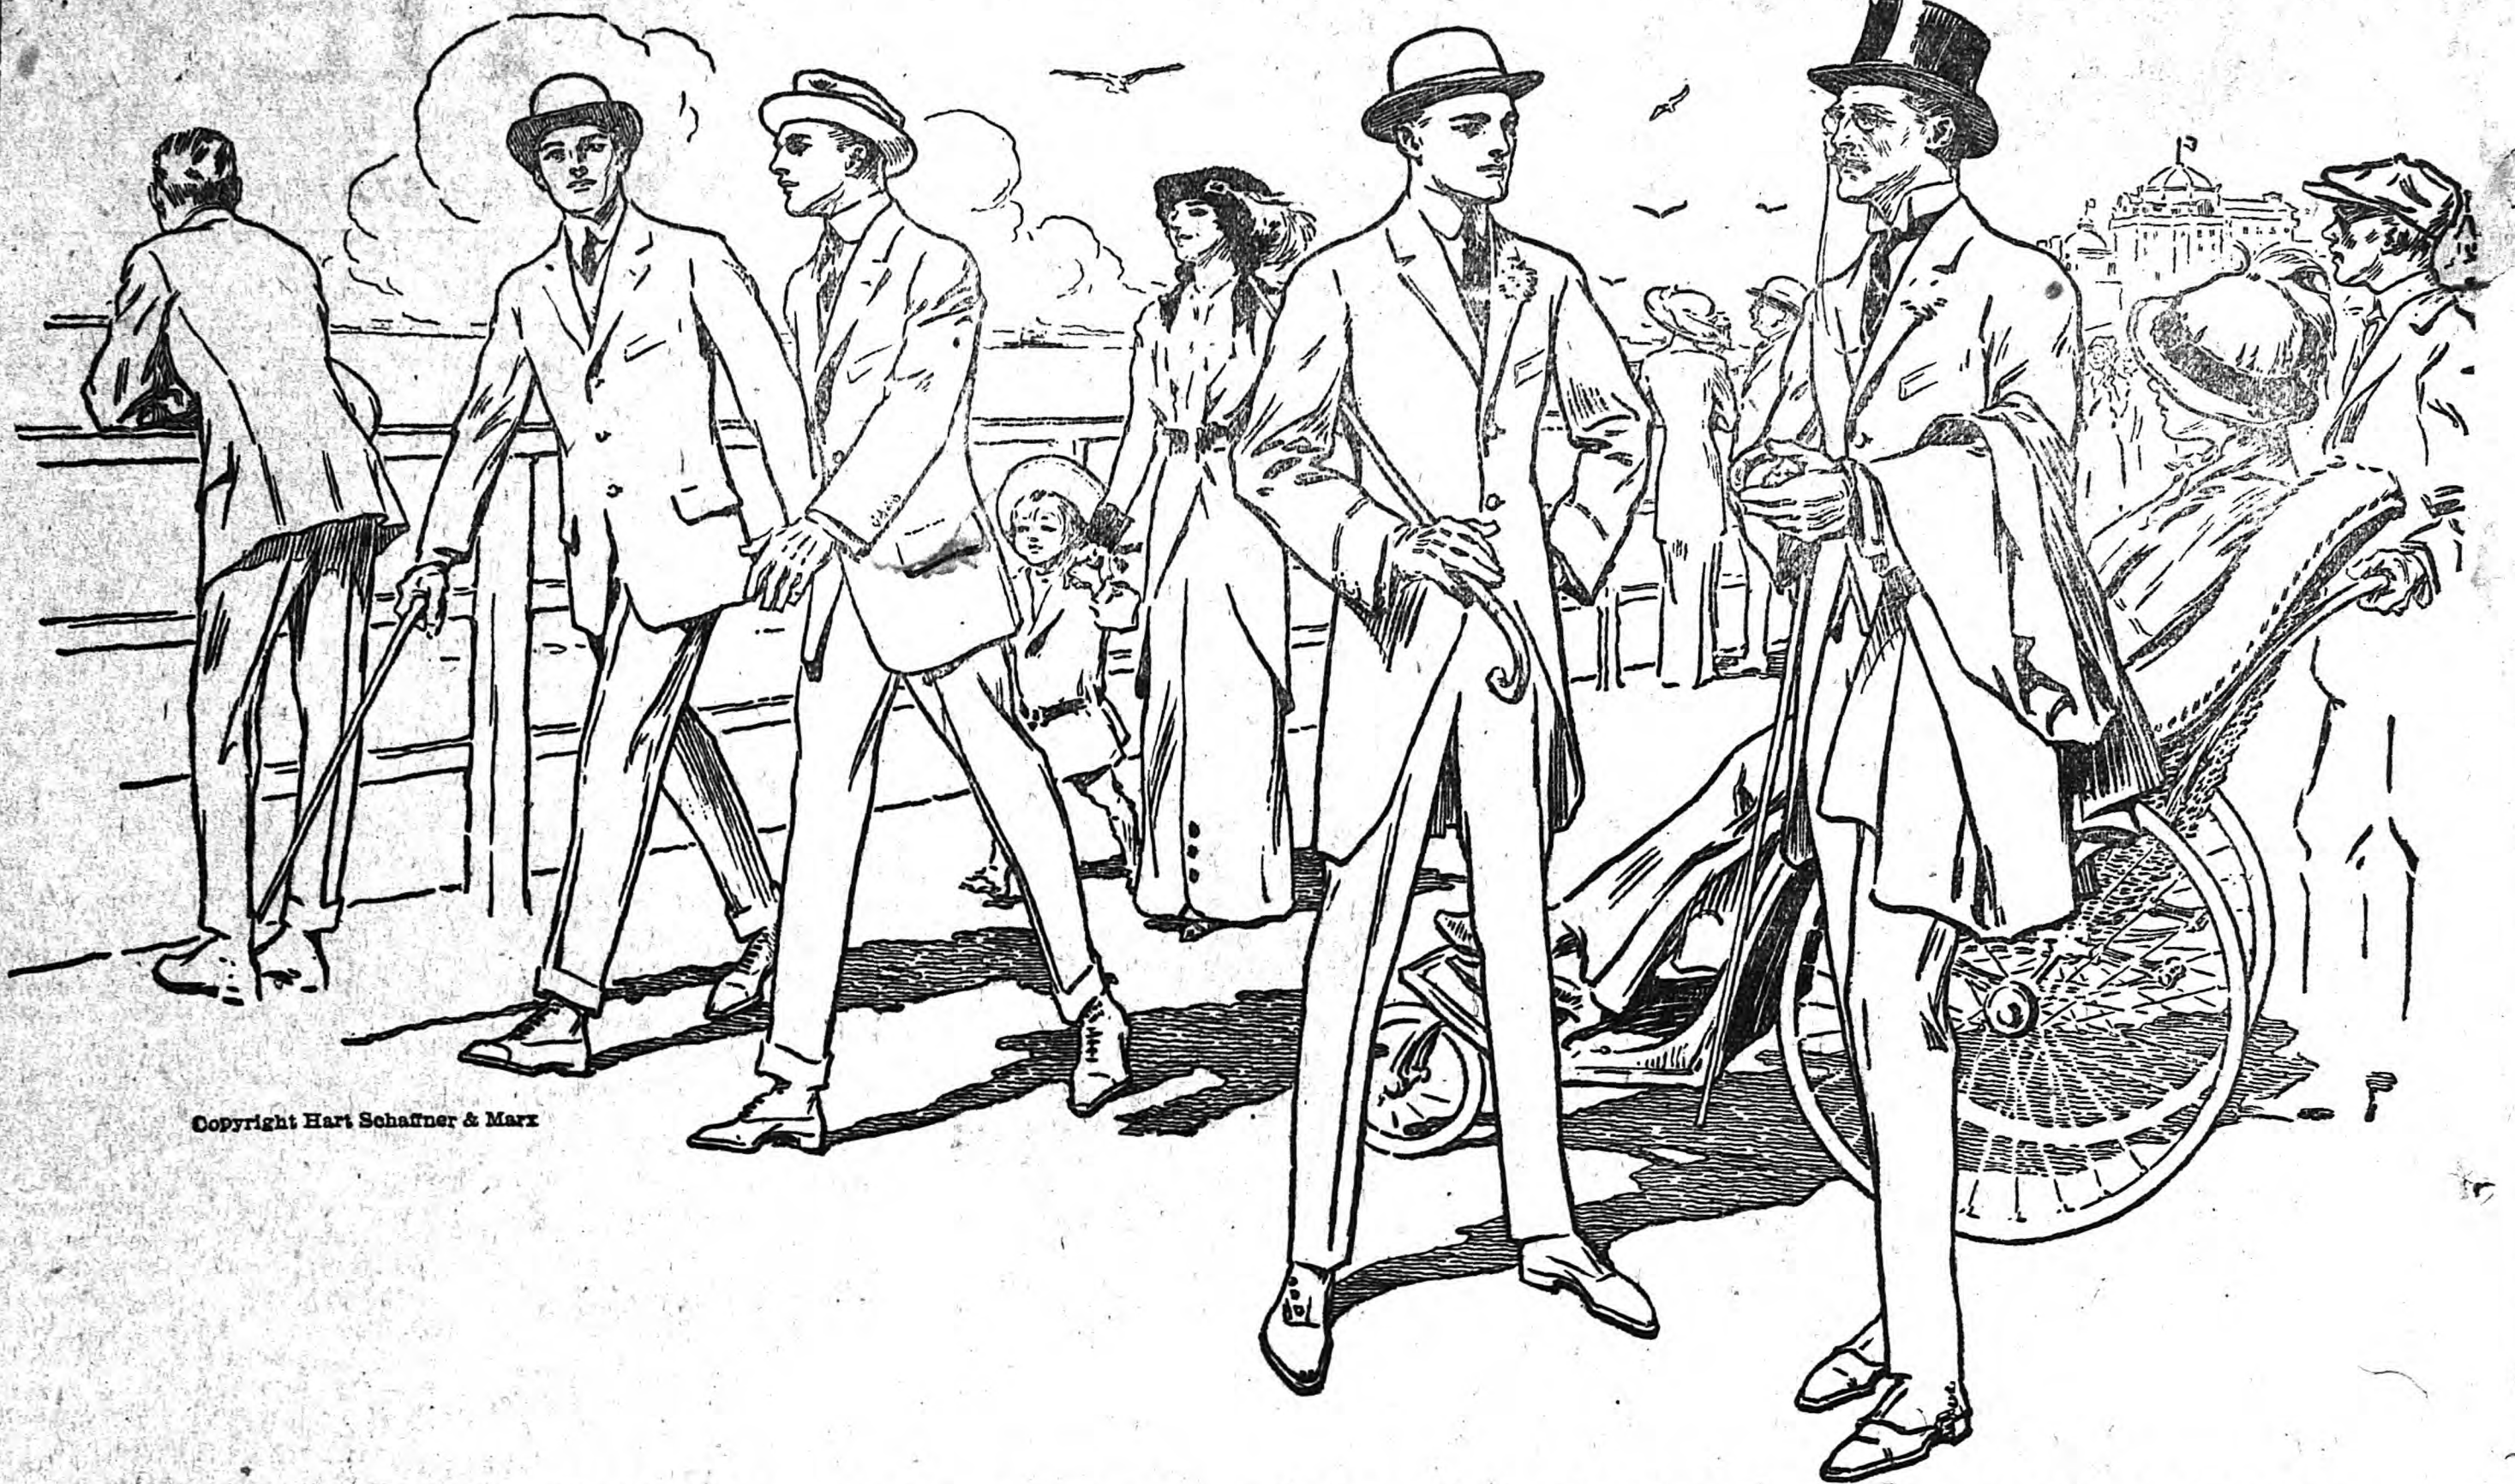

"Why did she cut you?"

"She doesn't like my comedy."

"How's that?"

"She made the statement at a party last night that she was twenty years of age, and I said, 'Yes, I knew that fifteen years ago.'—Houston Post.

Lion For Dinner.

On Christmas, 1874, a curious dinner took place in Paris. Some score of contributors and draftsmen of the Chasse Illustrée dined at Magny's restaurant under the presidency of M. Firmin Didot, the publisher, to taste the ham and heart of the last lion killed in Algeria by Constance Cheret. The flesh was found to be particularly firm and close grained, like that of a horse, but nevertheless quite palatable. The ham was preferred to the heart, which, although skillfully prepared with truffles, was pronounced somewhat tough and difficult of digestion.

Makes The Whole World Kin

The awful loss of life and property by tornadoes, floods and fire in the middle west last week has riveted the attention and sympathy of the entire country. The accounts are simply appalling. It is hard to realize in our sheltered security what the people of Omaha, Dayton and other places in the vicinity have suffered.

Calamities of this kind completely overshadow the smaller troubles of life. To appreciate fully the woes of others is not always easy; especially in this case when long distances prevent us from witnessing scenes of desolation. We imagine we appreciate and say we do, but in reality we fail to do more than comment and express our amazement and sorrow. Troubles to be real have to be brought near us.

Be all this as it may, suffering makes the whole world kin. Wholesale desolation like that in the west appeals to the nobler feelings of every one. This lesson, if no other, may be learned, that many of our own troubles are trifling and imaginary and many real ones pale into insignificance when compared with those of our sister states.

The Progressive Convention

The assembling of the Progressive convention in Baltimore last week emphasizes the fact that the third party has come to stay. All efforts to effect a reconciliation between the Progressives and the Republicans have failed. Overtures from each have cut no figure with the other. Whatever amalgamation is effected, it is evident, can not come through the organizations but must proceed from individual conversations and alliances.

The Progressive party is basing its hopes of success upon patience and perseverance. It professes the greatest willingness to wait, in the belief that its principles in the long run will be victorious. Col. Roosevelt has addressed a letter to the Maryland Progressives commending their zeal and professing his willingness to come into the State to do campaign work even in the face of desperate odds.

Credit must be given the Progressive party for its pluck and perseverance. Whether it will ever amount to a party of much power is a matter that the future must determine. It is interesting, however, to note its present attitude, its adherence to its doctrines and its implicit faith in itself as a survival of the fittest.

Impetuous Office Seeking

Washington is besieged by seekers after office under the new administration, and the mails are crowded with applications from those who cannot afford to go to headquarters to press their claims. The President and the heads of departments are fairly overwhelmed with the rush.

If hungry office seekers were only wise they would restrain their ardor. They would realize that those who importunately press their claims at the outset upon the administration are simply irritating the new managers of our government, who have enough to do just now to familiarize themselves with the duties of their places and keep things going as smoothly as possible, in order that good service may not suffer from the change ordered by the people at the last election.

There is no need of hurry. Under the dispensation that has prevailed ever since Grover Cleveland became President, in 1885, appointments will be made only when terms expire, and will be for four years. Even though an aspirant be required to wait until things get settled into regular grooves at Washington, he will have a four-years' tenure in the office he finally secures. Have patience and all will be well. —Wilmington Every Evening.

A Bridge Across Hudson River

A bridge across the Hudson river, at New York city, was long thought to be impossible. But the States of New York and New Jersey have had a commission studying the problem. This commission is now ready to report. It has found a site off West Fifty-Seventh street, where, the commissioners say, "no insurmountable engineering problem can arise." The bridge to be built is expected to be the longest suspension bridge in the world.

A Tempest in a Teapot

Excitement over President Wilson's statement of policy concerning the Chinese loan is overdone. Huntington Wilson appears to have taken too seriously his temporary authority to use the rubber stamp of the Secretary of State. Mr. Bryan is not a thousand miles from Washington and, and the conveniences of telephone and telegraph, has not been obliged to abdicate his position as advisor to the President, and there can be no question that the State Department, so far at least as it is represented by Mr. Bryan, is in perfect harmony with President Wilson on the Chinese policy, whether or not the actual draft of the announcement was approved by the Secretary.

As for the act of abandoning the loan, everybody has expected it. There has been no secret in the attitude of the Wilson Administration to "dollar diplomacy," and particularly to this extreme application of the policy. The financial interests concerned in the negotiations are said to have asked for a prompt and definite statement of the purpose of the Administration. Their request was granted. President Wilson may have unwittingly disregarded some of the conventionalities of diplomatic practice in the method of making known his position, although it will hardly be regarded by popular opinion as an unpardonable sin that he should have given the public in the United States his confidence without waiting for it to filter through some foreign capital. Undoubtedly he will learn of diplomatic usage with experience and may be able another time to serve its essential as well as his conception of his duty to the people.

In the meantime, there is no occasion to worry or borrow trouble. There is no reason to believe that any of the five nations of Europe will be seriously offended or will claim damages from Uncle Sam for breach of contract. And one Wilson, more or less, in this administration of Wilsons, is not of vital consequence. —Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Officials Under Civil Service

Democratic senators were amazed last week when they learned that the important office of chief forester, as well as every other well-paid appointment in the Department of Agriculture, is in the classified service. The resignation of Prof. Willis L. Moore, the chief of the Weather Bureau, brought out the fact that that office alone in the Department of Agriculture is now a presidential appointment. Secretary Houston, the new secretary of agriculture, has indicated to Democratic senators that he is not disposed to make any changes among the high officials in his department. He has stated that there is no present intention of supplanting Henry S. Graves, the present chief of the Forest Service, because that office is in the classified service.

Democratic senators are not disposed to submit to Secretary Houston's present decision not to appoint Democrats to the excellent offices in the Department of Agriculture now filled by Republicans. It is believed that the office of the forester will be made a test case. Senators Simmons, Overman, Hoke Smith, Mark Smith and other senators whose states are interested in national forests, are pressing the merits of Dan W. Adams, of North Carolina, a staunch Democrat, for the office.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

For People And Not For Trusts

President Wilson, through his unofficial declaration last week that he would insist on the people and not the politicians having the final say in revising the tariff, has won a sweeping victory.

It developed that the Congressional leaders have agreed to subordinate their opinions to the executive.

The Wilson wishes will be the "final word" in the bill, or bills, to be passed at the coming extraordinary session. And the leaders in both the Senate and the House agreed that tariff reduction will be expedited so that such other legislation as the President desires may be considered in the special session.

At the Executive offices President Wilson characterized his conference with Leader Underwood as "eminently satisfactory." He said that whether the revision shall take the form of a single blanket bill or a series of measures remains undecided. But as a general thing, the President said, the suggested revision is all the party has pledged itself to carry out.

The President finally told Leader Underwood that he was elected pledged to reduce the high cost of living. This pledge, he said, must be kept in its entirety. The Wilson plan is to take the tariff off foodstuffs in nearly every instance.

Crier Forgot His "Lines"

The dignified formality with which the Supreme Court daily goes into session was converted into a comedy Monday of last week when the crier of the court forgot the "lines" he has repeated for nearly 10 years without an error. As the justices take their places on the bench the crier admonishes all persons to draw near and give their attention, and concludes with imploring the blessing of God upon the "United States and this honorable court."

The crier became confused, admonished all to "give attention to business" and when he came to the concluding part could not think upon whom the blessings was to rest. After two or three attempts the laughter of every member of the court and of the spectators and lawyers drowned his words.

SHERIFF'S License Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO all persons and corporations doing business in Somerset county and requiring a State License, to obtain same or renew same on or before the under penalty prescribed by said law for the infraction thereof. Those applying for Trader's License must, under oath, take out Licenses covering stock at the principal season of the year.

Persons may sell salt to cure Fish in March, April and May without license. Females vending Millinery and other small articles, whose stock is not over $500, pay a license of only $5.00; but if over that amount they are required to pay the same License as other persons. The owner or keeper of every Stallion or Jack shall, before being permitted to stand or station such animal, pay to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of some one of the counties in Maryland the highest sum he intends to ask for the season for one mare; provided that in no case shall the sum directed to be paid for such license be less than $10.

HARDING P. TULL,
Sheriff of Somerset County.

Order Nisi.

In the matter of the tax sale of real estate in Fairmount Election District, No. Six, of Somerset county, assessed to John E. Stevenson, made and reported by Robert F. Maddox, county treasurer and collector of State and County taxes for Somerset county for the year 1911. James McD. White, purchaser, ex parte.

No. 2809, Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County.

The annexed and the above report of the proceedings of Robert F. Maddox, treasurer of Somerset county and collector of State and County taxes for the year 1911, relating to the sale on the 19th day of March, 1913, of certain lands in Fairmount district, in Somerset county, Maryland, on the west side of a private road, known as the George Davy private road, and containing nine acres of land, more or less, which said land was conveyed to John E. Stevenson by Elias Howeth by deed dated November 19th, 1903, and recorded among the land records of said county in Liber O. T. B., No. 37, folio 435, assessed to John E. Stevenson for State and County taxes for 1911, to James McD. White at and for the sum of five dollars and sixty-eight cents, now fully paid, having been presented to the Court, and the proceedings therein having been carefully considered and examined by the Court, and said proceedings appearing to be regular, and it appearing that the provisions of law in relation thereto having been complied with.

It is therefore ordered this 27th day of March, 1913, by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that notice be given in the "MARYLANDER AND HERALD," a newspaper published in Somerset county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 29th day of April, 1913, warning all persons interested in said property so sold to be and appear in this Court by the 15th day of May, 1913, to show cause, if any they have, why said sale should not be ratified and confirmed.

The report states the amount of sales to be $6.68.

Oystermen are Requested to Take Advantage of the Leasing Law

The Board of Shell Fish Commissioners desires to see as many as possible of the practical oystermen of the State take advantage of the leasing law. At the present time leases written or applications filed cover 27,000 acres of the land open to lease. It will probably not be long till, in many localities, all the most desirable bottoms open to lease will be taken. This notice is inserted in order that the practical oystermen may have every opportunity to secure good territory.

Full information can be secured by writing to the Board of Shell Fish Commissioners, National Marine Bank Building, Baltimore City, or whenever a number of oystermen in one locality are interested, arrangements can be made for a visit to that locality by an officer of the Commission.

A VILLAGE STORE THAT IS A WINNER

On account of old age I have had placed in my hands for quick sale one of the best propositions in a store in this section.

The owner of this property has made a fortune using this store as the foundation.

$22,000.00 is the yearly business being done now. This is no mushroom proposition, but a real store, the kind that puts dollars into the owner's pockets, and of a class that is seldom placed in a real estate agent's hands.

Everybody Can Afford To Pay for The Clean Flour

MOST people think all flour is clean because it looks clean. When wheat comes to the mill the crease in the wheat kernel is full of dirt. Unless every kernel is washed, and scoured, and the flour thoroughly purified by the most modern machinery, the dirt is ground up with the wheat, remains in the flour, and goes into the bread. You then pay for the dirt in the flour, so much per pound, and of course the dirt has no food value. Bread made from cheap flour which is not clean contains less nourishment—it gets stale quicker and costs the family more in the end than bread made from higher priced flour.

The Guaranteed Flour OCCIDENT

is made from such high quality wheat and goes through so many washing, scouring and purifying processes that we are able to put a Money-Back Guarantee in every sack. We guarantee OCCIDENT Flour to make whiter, lighter, better tasting bread, biscuit, cake and pastry than any other flour, and more of it per sack. If it fails to please you for all baking, your money will be refunded without argument.

Costs More —Worth It
OCCIDENT bread, because of its extra cleanliness, stays fresh and sweet longer than other bread. You can bake a double batch. This saves the work and fuel expense of many baking days. Every housewife should test the extra great advantages of OCCIDENT Flour.

—Mr. Samuel P. Woodcock, Real Estate Broker, of Salisbury, who recently bought the beautiful Peters farm, on the bay, in Worcester County, sold the farm last week to Messrs. Warner Ames, of Onancock, and Floyd Nock, of Accomac Court House. These two well-known Virginians are among the largest land owners in the Old Dominion. They propose to make a modern truck and fruit farm of this place, putting in 200 acres of early potatoes this season. The price paid for the property was $25,000.00 cash. It is said the timber on the farm can be sold for at least $15,000.00.

—A short time before adjournment of the Southern Methodist Conference at Staunton, Va., last Thursday Bishop Kilgo announced that action at the session of the General Conference in 1910 required that during the year 1913 the presiding bishop should ask the following question: "Shall the name of the church be changed from Methodist Episcopal Church South to Methodist Episcopal Church in America?" The question was put and the secretary was requested to call the roll. The result was 157 against change and 17 for change. The matter will be brought before the General Conference, which meets in 1914 in Oklahoma.

YOU LOST MONEY</

BREAKING THE BANK.

A Fast That Is No Longer Possible at Monte Carlo.

Among the classic system players who gained great sums at Monte Carlo, Charles Wells, adventurer and inventor, who went to Monte Carlo with the money of other people, to "win or lose it all" in testing his great idea. He played, also on the simple chances, a modification of the famous method of D'Alembert, the great mathematician. Wells began with a stake of ten units, decreasing to nine if he won, but increasing to eleven if he lost. His game was a kind of swinging of the pendulum, going up one way to twenty units and the other down to one.

For a time he contrived to prosper so sensationally that the tables at which he played had occasionally to stop for a few minutes until more money was brought. This was "breaking the bank" and gained Wells the honor of becoming the hero of a popular music hall song.

Nowadays, however, no successful player can have the thrilling joy of breaking the bank. As soon as it is seen that one gambler or more may reduce the funds of a table to a low ebb more money is unostentatiously brought by one of the footmen, and play never stops for an instant.

Charles Wells figured in the criminal courts of Paris, where he boasted he had won $400,000 from the casino—C. M. Williamson in McClure's Magazine.

HELD COURT IN A RIVER.

The Attorney Was In a Hurry, and the Judge Was Accommodating.

To act in a legal capacity while enjoying a morning swim—surely a unique record in the annals of law—once fell to the lot of Vice Chancellor Shadwell.

The then Duke of Newcastle had commenced to cut down the timber at Clumber in such a rapid and wholesale manner as to raise the anger of his eldest son, Lord Lincoln, who, finding expostulation useless, turned to the law and sought an injunction to restrain his father, although it was long vacation, he ordered his solicitor to press matters forward, for the magnificent trees were falling at an alarming rate.

So up to town posted the attorney and had the affidavits drawn up the same night. The following morning he repaired to the vice chancellor's house on the banks of the Thames, to find on his arrival that the chancellor had gone for his morning's swim.

With exemplary presence of mind he chartered a boat and after a stiff pull came up with the judge and at once stated his case. Meanwhile the vice chancellor trod water and, on the injunction being formally applied for, granted it forthwith and resumed his swim.—Tit-Bits.

Almanacs in Peppery Time.

The almanacs of Mr. Peppery's time were overwhelmingly of the prognostication order, and he enjoyed them much as we enjoy "Old Moore's" now. Thus, on June 14, 1867, "we read and laughed at Lily's prophecies this month in his 'Almanac' this year." The prophet certainly seems to have made a record had shot. For, as the Lord Braybrooke notes, he observed: "The several lunations of this month do rather portend sea fights, wars, etc., than give hopes of peace, particularly the several configurations do very much threaten Holland with a most strange and unusual loss at sea, if they shall dare to fight his majesty's forces." Strange news out of Holland as it all were in an uproar. We believe they are now in a sad and fearful condition." And June, 1867, saw the Dutch in the Medway.—London Express.

Ruskin on Doctors' Fees.

The problem of the doctor and his fee was admirably stated by Ruskin in his "Crown of Wild Olive." Writing of doctors, he said: "They like fees, no doubt—ought to like them—yet if they are brave and well educated the entire object of their lives is not fees. They, on the whole, desire to cure the sick and—if they are good doctors and the choice were fairly put to them—would rather cure their patient and lose their fee than kill him and get it. And so with all other brave and rightly trained men their work is first, their fee second—very important always, but still second."—London Standard.

Getting It Right.

It was on a street car in the city of Washington. Two colored women in cheaply gorgeous splendor were talking and one chanced to mention a Mr. Jinks in her conversation.

"Excuse me," said the other woman, "but his name is not Jinks. It is Mr. Jenks."

"Oh, I see," said the other woman complacently. "I see that, you put de access on de pronoun."

Literally Speaking.

Little Elsie was reproved by her mother for saying "What?" She was told that she must never use that expression, but say, "I beg your pardon." The lesson evidently went home, for a little later she turned to her mother and inquired, "Mamma, I beg your pardon time is it?"—Boston Transcript.

DENVER'S MASSIVE MINT.

It Would Take a Burglar Fifty Years to Break Into It.

If a man twenty-five years old started to rob the Denver mint he would be seventy-five before he finished his task of tunneling and drilling, if he ever reached the vault. When he did reach the massive cage he could never get at the money without detection.

He would have to bring his diving suit along, as there is water several feet deep under the foundation of the mint. He would first have to go through a wall four and a half feet thick of brick and portland cement. The boilers and coal bins are far underground. They are on the Evans street side and more strongly protected than a man-of-war. They are at least twenty feet below the surface and surrounded on the top, side and floor with a concrete wall four feet thick.

Supposing our young boring friend got through that wall, when he emerged he would find another just as thick and just as strong. The lower portions of the mint building are divided into compartments. They are separated, each compartment with its own defense.

The thief or thieves would find a real problem to get into the storage vault. He would first have to break through a steel door weighing seven tons. He would then face what is known as the outer vault. The safe in this is 60 by 20 feet and is ten feet high. There are millions of dollars in it. This safe is girt on every side with a lining of chrome steel. In the corridor within the great vault there are four doors leading into the subvaults. The cells where are located these vaults are barred and netted with steel. There are no less than sixty doors in the storage vault. Each of the eleven minor storage vaults is in a steel girt cage, which has two massive steel gates. One is above, the other below.

The Diebold safe is secured by time locks. On the inner side of an eight inch thick door is a clock, which can be set at night to be opened at any selected time. Until that time arrives not even government employees can get in the ponderous door. Two officials with keys must aid when the clock is ready to let them in.

The guards will visit the storage vaults every few minutes and turn on a flood of lights. Inspectors go about day and night and visit all of the treasure rooms of the building, upstairs and down. Special attention is given to the vaults, but no portion of the building is neglected. Every thirty minutes "All's well" is heard over the private telephone.

All over the building are hidden high power magazine rifles. They are oiled and inspected regularly. It is said that there are at least a hundred of these guns always ready for use. Three years ago $5,000,000 was spent in the construction of massive gates leading to the rooms where the money and bullion are stored.

The alarm system is connected with police headquarters. It is said that the Denver mint is the best protected in the world, and no big building has anything better in the way of defense, with the exception perhaps of the National City bank of New York. This bank has an elaborate system of steam pipes around its vaults for use against raids. If these valves were released it would roast every one in the basement of the bank alive.—Denver Post.

A Business Tip.

INTRODUCING KUDZU.

Government Thinks It's a Valuable Addition to Our Stock of Plants.

The following description of kudzu, the valuable new forage plant, is given by the United States department of agriculture:

"Kudzu is a large leaved, very rapid growing woody, leguminous vine, a native of Japan. It succeeds well in every part of the United States where it has been tried, and where the summers are warm it grows with great luxuriance. It is a most excellent vine for arbors to produce a tropical effect by growing over low trees. In Japan it is grown on rough, rocky land or steep hillsides that cannot be cultivated."

Photograph by United States department of agriculture.

KUDZU VINE.

ed. In this country it should also be tested on lands too poor to be cultivated with profit. Kudzu, being a legume, will add nitrogen to the soil in addition to the forage it produces. Kudzu may be used either for pasturage or as green food, though hay can be made of it. It will probably be best used as pasture, and it is desirable to have two such pastures, to be browsed alternately.

A gentleman who has been growing it in Florida several years gives his experience with it as follows: "After several years' experience with the kudzu vine I consider it the best forage plant to tide the farmer and stock raiser over the long, hot, dry summer as well as the rainy season."

FARMER—BUSINESS MAN.

Every farmer should have some place that he calls his office. It may be a secretary in the corner of the sitting room, it may be a small room in the granary or perhaps a part of the milk house. But, whatever it is, there he should have his accounts, farm records and valuable papers. More system is needed on most farms.—Farm and Fireside.

Give Yourself a Weigh.

Scales are as essential on the modern farm as the mow, binder or manure spreader. To the farmer who desires to know if his business is paying him the profits it should the weighing machine must be used much more often than the mow, binder or manure spreader. The farm scale is especially valuable when products are sold from the farm, says W. M. Jardine, head of the agronomy department at the Kansas Agricultural college.

Keep Only the Paying Kind.

Sell two of the boarder cows and put in one that pays a profit. Sell the old gelding and put on a mare that will raise a colt worth one-half to one-third of her purchase price at weaning time.

FARMING HINTS.

It does not pay to devote high priced land for long periods to pasture and the production of hay.

Low, wide tired steel wheels will give any farmer better equipment for his work. Under all conditions of the field and nearly all conditions of the road it is estimated that broad tired steel wheels pull lighter than the narrow tires.

More money can be made feeding horses for market than with any other class of stock feeding. There is a constant demand for good draft horses, and the average farmer should keep draft mares and have a few young horses to sell each year.—Farm and Fireside.

The location of a garden is more important than the soil. Sunlight we must have, but the soil we can make. We can make it by bringing in new loam, sand and fertility, combining them to meet the ideal, but sunlight is determined by the buildings and trees.—Country Gentleman.

HIS FIRST TASTE OF WAR.

The Time When Schley Was Almost Scared to Death.

"The late Admiral Schley admitted in conversation with me one afternoon, sitting on the veranda of an Atlantic City hotel, that the first time he was under fire he was frightened almost to death," remarked Victor Murdock of Kansas.

"When Admiral Farragut at Mobile bay boarded my ship I was a young officer," said Admiral Schley, "and in the height of the battle the captain of my vessel was killed. I suddenly found myself face to face with a situation which for the moment seemed to take away all of my nerve."

"I was in a moment elevated to the command of a battleship in actual engagement. If I had been unnerved by the shock which had before, I was almost terrified at that instant. In the midst of my predicament—for that is what it amounted to—Admiral Farragut boarded the ship. I do not know what thought came to him when he saw me, for my face must have betrayed my fear."

"Just at that moment a shell whizzed across the deck, cutting a line as cleanly as if it had been done by a chisel. Farragut turned around to me and said: 'Lieutenant, let's take our stand on this line. They say that lightning never strikes twice in the same place.'"

"I was mighty glad to follow," said Admiral Schley. "Farragut stood there with the shells bursting all around, and I shall never forget how big and grand he appeared."—Washington Post.

MARIE ANTOINETTE'S TOMB.

It is Located in "the Saddest Spot in Paris."

A contributor to the Manchester Guardian has been visiting the Chapelle Expiatoire, in the Rue des Mathurins, which he describes as "the saddest spot in Paris." He had got it into his head that the remains of Louis Seize and Marie Antoinette had entirely disappeared, but he was undeceived: "This little chapel was built, after the restoration, on the site of the old burial ground of the Madeleine as an act of expiation for the horrors of the revolution and especially for the murder of the king and queen. In that graveyard it was that they were hastily buried in open coffins and hands watched and marked the spot, and the day came when the poor remains were brought to light. Even quietude is not all powerful, and there remained the skulls, a bone or two and pathetic detail—the classic metal garters which the unhappy 'Autrichienne' was wearing when Sanson's tireless ax fell upon her beautiful neck."

"Nor was that all. The time had formed a hard crust upon the open coffins and around the bodies, and there embedded by all the rest."

The visitor descended a flight of steps to a subterranean chapel, dim and chilly, and he continues:

"There before me, in a tiny circular space just beneath a little stained window, stood a white marble altar. Enshrined in that altar, minus the relics at St. Denis, lie all that cruelty and hatred, time and nature, have left of Louis Seize and Marie Antoinette. All was silent. The stray visitors above had gone. The traffic penetrated not to this barren and almost secret cell. I was alone with the injured dead, with the irresolute king who was his own worst enemy, with the frivolous, fascinating, suffering, martyred queen, in whose behalf the 10,000 swords for which Burke cried out in his agony never leaped from their scabbards—alone with the poor remnants of perhaps the most historic woman in history."

This spot is seldom visited. "You wonder," says the writer, "how much the people on the boulevard a few yards away know or care about it all." Turn About.

"The doctor made me show him my tongue, and it cost me $2, but I got even."

"How?"

"In a poker game last night I made him show me his hands, and it cost him $5."—New York Times.

SAVED A DOUGLAS.

Sir William Ramsay's Quir' Wit at the Battle of Poitiers.

In the battle of Poitiers (1356) a number of Scottish soldiers fought on the side of the French, and several of them were taken prisoners by the English. Among them was Sir Archibald Douglas, being dressed in a suit of splendid armor, the victors thought they had captured—as indeed they had—some great nobleman. Several of the English were about to strip off his armor when Sir William Ramsay of Colluthie, who was also a prisoner, happening to catch Sir Archibald's eye, gave him a meaning look.

Pretending to be very angry, he cried out: "You rascal, how is it that you are wearing your master's armor? Come here and pull off my boots!" Douglas, seemingly thoroughly cowed, went humbly forward and drew off a boot, with which Sir William began to beat him. The English onlookers at once interfered on Douglas's behalf, saying that he was a person of great rank and a lord.

"What?" shouted Ramsay. "He a lord? Why, he is a base knave and, I suppose, has slain his master. Go, you villain, and search the field for the body of my cousin, your master, and when you have found it let me know, that I may give it decent burial."

All this was acted so naturally that the English allowed Ramsay to ransom the pretended servant for 40 shillings. The money having been paid, Sir William gave Douglas another thrashing and then bade him begone. Sir Archibald lost no time in effecting his escape, which he owed solely to the ingenuity of his friend.

BULLS IN PARLIAMENT.

The Welcome Sound That Cheered Lord Balfour of Burleigh.

It would be hard to say which of England's two houses of legislature "takes the cake" for committing howlers, and still more difficult to pick out the member who has taken pride of place in this respect during recent years. But perhaps for simple effectiveness Lord Balfour of Burleigh would be hard to beat when he said, "The noble lord shakes his head, and I am glad to hear it!"

Another noble lord during a debate on Indian affairs exclaimed: "Talk of this as a loan to India! It is a flea bite in the ocean!" Nevertheless it stands to reason that the lower house is more prolific in quantity, if not in quality, in its stock of howlers than the upper, seeing that it has so many more opportunities.

Captain Craig, the fiery Ulsterman, cooked the following oratorical stew: "The naked sword is drawn for the fight, and never again will the black smoke of the Nationalists' tar barrels drift on the home rule wind to darken the hearts of Englishmen." If anything could kill home rule one would think that would.

Sir W. Hart Dyke was criticising the standing order forbidding peers from speaking during general elections. Some one had quoted Lord Halsbury as doing so, and Sir William solemnly said, "I must admit that the honorable gentleman has gone to the top of the tree and caught a very large fish."—London Tit-Bits.

Easy.

"Henry," she said, "I wish I could organize a society of some kind. It seems to be the only way to secure social recognition in this town."

"Well, why don't you go ahead and organize one?"

"I can't think of anything that I'm an authority on. If I should organize a drama club some other woman who knew more about the drama than I would butt in and get herself elected president. It would be the same way with suffrage, ethical culture and child study and music. I'm unfortunately not an authority on any of these things, and if I got up a society I should, of course, want to be the head of it."

"Well, why not organize a Browning club? You can pretend to know all about Browning, and the other women who pretend to know all about him won't know whether you're fooling them or not."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Five Varieties of Salmon.

Kamchatka has five varieties of salmon—chavitcha (king salmon), krasnala (red salmon), keta (dog salmon), gorbusha (humpback salmon) and kishutch (sockeye salmon). The run of chavitcha begins about May 10 to 20 (old style) during the period of spring rains and the overflow of muddy water. They run in large schools, and the run continues for several days. The fish, which weigh twenty to twenty-five pounds, is purely a Kamchatka fish and is not found in the Okhotsk and other districts.—Consular and Trade Reports.

He Didn't Hush.

"Mamma," queried little Willie, "what is 'bush'?"

"Why do you ask, dear?" said his mother.

"Because," explained the observing urchin, "when I asked sister what made her hair all mussed after her beau was here this afternoon she said, 'Hush, dear.'"

Deadlier and Safer.

"Let's send the czar a bomb concealed in a plum pudding."

"Why not merely send him a plum pudding?" suggested the other callous plotter. "If he eats it our work is done and we run no risks."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

EARLY BIRD.

That couple in Los Angeles who were married after a pre-nuptial contract that was a little unconventional are plumbing themselves over half a year of happiness beyond what the facts warrant. To begin with, they are actually bound to each other by law, so that their relations to each other are not different from those of other people. In the second place, plenty of couples who do not make any such pre-nuptial contracts as these people did live happily together for six months, six years, and even much longer periods. The husband says: "Since we have agreed not to hold each other by the formal law we try to hold each other by love." Well, that's what the great majority of ordinarily married people not only try to do, but succeed in.—Philadelphia Record.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omer A. Jones druggist.

New Stamps a Failure

The new parcel post stamps are to be called in and smaller ones used hereafter. The saving of paper and printing will be $50,000 a year, but that is not the reason for the change. The old stamps were too much alike; it was not easy to distinguish between the different values. The new stamps will bear a large numeral, 2, 3, 10, etc., which will save the eyes and time of the postal clerks. This change has been approved by Postmaster General Burleson.

For Burns, Bruises and Sores

The quickest and surest cure for burns, bruises, boils, sores, inflammation and all skin diseases is Bucklen's Arnica Salve. In four days it cured L. H. Hafin, of Iredell, Tex., of a sore on his ankle which pained him so he could hardly walk. Should be in every house. Only 25 cents. Recommended by Omer A. Jones druggist. (Advertisement)

A Hard Working Triumvirate

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McMaster, of Worcester county, and Mr. W. H. Dashiell, of Somerset, were entertained last Thursday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Holloway, on Camden avenue extended, Salisbury. The visit to Salisbury was designed to afford a second opportunity for the school superintendents of the three counties to confer upon the Tri-County Institute to be held at Ocean City next August. Mr. Holloway, however, proved himself such a gracious host that his guests spent the greater part of the afternoon in his automobile viewing the beauties of Wicomico county and incidentally one of its up-to-date rural schools between Salisbury and Delmar.

Touring with the ladies was a most pleasing occupation and time flew so rapidly that the suggestion of the real nature of the conference and its unaccomplished duties was hard to be taken seriously. The gentlemen did, however, hold a conference at the School Board office—lasting perhaps 15 minutes or less—looking over some work already performed by Supt. Holloway, with the result that whetted appetites knew no appeasing save by a return to Camden avenue where Mrs. Holloway did the honors at the head of her bountiful table and where the aforesaid gentlemen made indignant rejoinders to the ladies' witty remarks upon the toil on a warm evening at the School Board office.

The company broke up in time to catch the train for Princess Anne and Pocomoke. It is well to say in conclusion that the triumvirate in final conclave agreed that three is a lucky number and that a third meeting of the working trio would be absolutely essential to a successful Tri-County Institute. The date for this wind-up affair will be set later and it would not be a bad guess that a cozy home on the banks of the Pocomoke will be the scene of some more touching diligence.

Death of Mr. Thornton Hall

Mr. E. Thornton Hall, a former resident of Princess Anne and a native of Upper Fairmount, died suddenly last Thursday night at St. Luke's Hospital, Baltimore. Mr. Hall was indisposed the early part of the week and on Tuesday pneumonia developed which caused his death. Mr. Hall was a son of the late Littleton and Julia Hall, of this county, and was 44 years of age. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. B. P. Miles, of Norfolk, Va. When he resided in Princess Anne Mr. Hall was engaged in the drug business. For a number of years past he has lived in Baltimore. Services and interment were at Norfolk, Va., Saturday afternoon.

After July 1st Delaware will enforce the "Jim Crow Law" passed in the Legislature which provides that all railroads operating in Delaware shall provide separate cars or coaches for the transportation of colored passengers. The law places a fine of from $500 to $1000 upon any railroad ignoring this law.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Proceeding of the Annual Session Held in Crisfield

The Somerset Medical Society met in the parlors of the Colonial Hotel, Crisfield, in annual session last Tuesday. The Society was called to order by the President, Dr. C. E. Collins, who made a short address of welcome.

Owing to the fact that the regular secretary and treasurer, Dr. Hoyt, had left the county, Dr. Wainwright moved that Dr. Henry M. Lankford be elected secretary and treasurer for one year, motion was carried and Dr. Lankford was declared elected.

The first paper on the program was Eclampsia, its etiology and treatment by Dr. W. F. Hall, of Crisfield. This was a very interesting and instructive paper and showed that Dr. Hall had had a large experience in treating this dreaded complication of pregnancy. The paper was discussed by Drs. Fisher, Wainwright, Atkinson, Simonson and Hall.

Dr. M. W. Goldsborough read a very interesting paper on the Diagnostic Value of the X-Ray and exhibited several very interesting plates.

Drs. Hall, Collins and Lankford made a few remarks on the results they had obtained in the use of Gonorrheal Bacterins.

Dr. George C. Coulbourn, of Marion, and Dr. Robert E. Caldwell, of Oriole, were elected to membership.

The insurance examination question was brought up and it was reported that some of the companies still refused to pay the regulation fee of five dollars. The Society unanimously reaffirmed its determination to adhere strictly to the resolution adopted several years ago and make no line insurance examination requiring a urine analysis for a less fee than five dollars. The secretary was instructed to have copies of said resolutions printed for distribution among the members and sent by them to the insurance companies.

It was moved, seconded and carried that no member of this Society administer a general anaesthetic for less than five dollars except in charity cases where no charge is made. Secretary was instructed to notify the dentists of the county of this action on the part of the society.

Dr. C. W. Wainwright was elected as delegate to the meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, in Baltimore, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. G. T. Simonson.
Vice-President—M. W. Goldsborough.
Secretary and Treasurer—Dr. Henry M. Lankford.

Those present were: Drs. C. E. Collins, C. C. Ward, J. F. Somers, W. F. Hall, G. T. Atkinson, G. T. Simonson, of Crisfield; C. T. Fisher, M. W. Goldsborough, C. W. Wainwright and H. M. Lankford, of Princess Anne.

The Town Water

The question of the purity of the drinking water of Princess Anne has been discussed and comments have been made upon its gaseous appearance. This appearance, the commissioners say, is due to the greater pressure and fall of the water from the new service tank. That the water is pure and healthful, is shown by the analysis of specimens taken from several points remote from each other. The specimens were taken at the pumping station, the drug store of T. J. Smith & Co., and the bakery of L. F. Lecates. The tests were made by W. B. D. Penniman, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the State Department of Health. The report states the water is bacteriologically free from pollution. The sample taken from the pumping station shows the following constituents: Color, none; odor, none; reaction, neutral; total residue at 230 degrees F., 130; chlorine, 23.8; nitrogen as free ammonia, trace; as albumenoid ammonia, none; as nitrates, 4.10; as nitrites, none. The tests of the other samples show equally good qualities.

Miss Warfield To Wed In May

The wedding of Miss Louise Warfield, daughter of former Governor and Mrs. Edwin Warfield, to Count Vladimir Ledochowski, of Poland, will take place the latter part of May. The ceremony will be performed by the Cardinal at the home of the bride's parents, 1223 Linden avenue, Baltimore. Count Ledochowski, who has not yet been in America, will arrive early this month.

Walter H. Page Accepts

Walter H. Page, of Garden City, L. I., editor of World's Work and member of Doubleday, Page & Co., publishers, has accepted President Wilson's offer to be Ambassador to Great Britain. Mr. Page will start for London within 10 days.

J. Pierpont Morgan Dead

J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York banker, and generally recognized as the greatest financier this country has ever known, died in Rome Monday of last week, after a long illness.

Mr. Morgan came from an old Puritan New England family which dates back in this country to 1636. He was born in wealth. His father, Junius Spencer Morgan, left him $10,000,000 and inherited important banking connections. J. Pierpont Morgan was born April 17th, 1837, in a modest, red brick cottage in Hartford, Conn. He started his business career half a century ago, on the board of directors of a large maritime insurance company. He secured the position through the influence of his wealthy father. For a year young Morgan attended the directors' meeting but never opened his mouth, except to vote. The president of the company told the elder Morgan that nothing could be done with his son, who seemed to take little interest in business. John Pierpont, however, all the time was laying his plans for his first railroad consideration, which, when accomplished, established his standing in Wall Street as the only man who ever got the better of Jay Gould.

The sobriquet of "Spinx of Wall Street" was the appellation applied to him after this notable achievement. Morgan's control over men and money was the dominant keynote of his life. Others, perhaps, were wealthier than Morgan but he commanded his wealth and that of others. At the height of his power he is said to have controlled $9,000,000,000. As a philanthropist, Mr. Morgan gave unostentatiously many millions of dollars.

Funeral of King of Greece

An imposing ceremonial marked the burial last Wednesday of King George of Greece.

The procession was of great length, including a striking mingling of many Eastern and Western nationalities. The men uncovered and the women wept hysterically.

The royal princes of Greece and the missions representing the courts of Europe and the States of the American Hemisphere, joined with deputations from European Turkey, from the islands of the Aegean Sea and from Asia Minor, each in distinctive national dress.

Dashiell—Cooke Wedding

At the residence of A. M. Jackson, Hazel avenue, Salisbury, last Wednesday the sister of Mrs. Jackson, Miss Sarah Lagnley Cooke, was married to Harry L. Dashiell, a merchant of that city. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sallie B. Cooke, and until recently was assistant treasurer of the Peninsula Trust Company, of Salisbury. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dashiell took the New York express for a tour of the Northern cities. Upon their return they will reside on Camden avenue Salisbury.

Schooner Sinks in the Pocomoke

The schooner Bdnadice Williams, en route from Snow Hill, to Marsh Market, Va., with a cargo of bricks, struck a sunken tug opposite the shipyard in Pocomoke River at Pocomoke City, Monday evening of last week, and sunk. The crew escaped from drowning by taking to a lifeboat. Traffic on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railway was delayed one hour, as the mast of the sunken vessel interfered with the operation of the drawbridge, and it became necessary to saw a portion of the mast from the vessel. The vessel's cargo will be a total loss.

OYSTER RENTALS LOWER

Options of 30,000 Acres—When Seed Oysters May be Taken

The schedule of rents for oyster "bottoms" or areas leased for private planting, was cut last Thursday to little more than a third for the first 16 years, as it was in the old schedule. The readjustment was made by the Maryland Shellfish Commission and the new schedule fixes the charges per acre per year as follows:

First 10 years, $1.
Eleventh and twelfth years, $2.
Thirteenth and fourteenth years, $3.
Fifteenth and sixteenth years, $4.
Seventeenth and succeeding years, $5.

Under the old schedule, the charge was $1 a year for the first two years, to which $1 was added each succeeding year until $5 was reached in the sixth year, this price being permanent thereafter. Thus the total per acre for a 16-year term was $66; now it will be $28.

Experience has proved that little could be done for the oyster culture under the old scale, which was coupled with certain restrictions made by the law prior to its amendment last year.

The Legislature removed the ban upon scraping leased bottoms, and with scraping allowed and the practical assurance that the rental would be materially reduced there has been a great demand for leases.

Prior to the action taken last week options upon a total of approximately 30,000 acres were filed with the commission. Under the old law only about 4,000 acres were leased, and as the rate of rental advanced there was a rapid falling off until only 30 leases, covering about 2,900 acres, were in force a year ago.

While the closing of the recent leases was made conditional upon a satisfactory schedule, Chairman Benjamin K. Green, of the Shellfish Commission, said that he was confident the new rates would be generally satisfactory. The commission now has surveyed and subject to lease about 300,000 acres.

The Board of Shell Fish Commissioners is authorized by Section 111, of the Act of 1912, to set apart natural oyster beds or bars in the tonging district from which oysters may be taken to be sold as seed oysters between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of May.

Acting under this authority, the Commissioners have set apart the area in Chesapeake Bay lying above a line drawn from Lower Island Point, passing south of Spry Island, to Mitchell's Bluff Triangulation Station just north of Tolchester Beach, Kent county; and also the area in Broad Creek, Talbot county, lying above a line drawn from the southerly end of Royston Island to the southerly end of Nelson Island.

In addition to this area, the Potomac River, above a straight line drawn from the north point at the mouth of Upper Machodoc Creek, King George's county, Virginia, to Lower Cedar Point, Charles county, Maryland, is open for the taking of seed oysters from January 1st to May 1st under recent concurrent legislation of Maryland and Virginia.

Marbury in Wicomico County

Hon. W. L. Marbury, of Baltimore, who is a candidate for the long term for United States Senator, reached Wicomico county on Thursday last week to make speeches and see the voters. He was met at Mardela by Hon. E. Stanley Toadvin, George W. D. Waller and Mr. Langsdale. The first speech made in the county was made at that point. He in main touched upon the same issues he has discussed in other sections of the State, being an attack upon Senator Smith's record and affiliations. In the afternoon an address was delivered at Hebron. During the evening the party held a meeting in the town of Delmar. Friday the party left for Pittsville and Willard, taking in the east side of the county. Returning in the afternoon they left for the west side making Sharptown in the evening. Saturday a meeting was held in the Ulman Opera House, Salisbury, in the afternoon. This wound up the present tour of that county. The various points were made by automobiles, Mr. Marbury being attended by his local managers in the trips made.

Mrs. Pankhurst Goes to Prison

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, president of the "Woman's Social and Political Union" and leader of the militant suffragettes, last Thursday afternoon, was found guilty by a jury, at the Old Bailey, in London England, of inciting other women to blow up the home of Chancellor David Lloyd-George at Walton Heath with bombs.

She was sentenced to three years' penal servitude. The maximum penalty for the offense is 14 years.

In passing sentence Justice Lush scored Mrs. Pankhurst and the militant suffragettes in general for their violence which, he said, showed only contempt for law and order.

When Mrs. Pankhurst realized that she had been sent to prison for three years of hard labor, her face blanched, those nearest to her thought, but she made no comment.

Rally of Mechanics

Over 400 members of United American Mechanic from the 14 lodges of the Eastern Shore gathered in Salisbury last Wednesday to hold a big rally. A street parade was formed at 3 o'clock and marched through the principal streets, accompanied by the Salisbury Band. After the parade they all went to the armory, where there were addressed by the state councillor, C. H. Stein, of Baltimore; National Councillor, C. W. Burrow, of Providence, and National Secretary W. H. Holstein, of Scranton, Pa.

SENATORIAL SUCCESSION

Direct Election of Senators Imminent—A Lawyer's Opinion

The matter of successors to our present United States Senators is being much discussed at this time. One of the best constitutional lawyers in the Senate has given to a Baltimore Sun correspondent his opinion that successors of John Walter Smith and William P. Jackson in the United States Senate from Maryland must be elected by a direct vote of the people if the direct-election amendment to the Federal Constitution is ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union before the next Maryland Legislature is elected. He goes on to say:

"If the direct-election amendment is ratified by the required number of State Legislatures, it nullifies the power of the Legislature to elect United States Senators. In your State if this amendment is ratified before your Legislature is elected the successors to Senators Smith and Jackson must be elected by the people.

"I would say also that the State Legislature must provide the necessary election machinery to make the direct election of Senators operative. I do not think such an election can be held until the means for the election is provided. If the Legislature of any State fails to provide the election machinery then Congress can step in and provide it."

A special session of the Legislature may have to be called to meet this summer, or a bill may be passed by Congress providing a special election law for this State.

If the special session is not called, then it is probable, according to good authority that the Legislature of 1914 will have to provide for a special election in the early part of 1914 to elect a successor to the late Senator Rayner.

Whether the extra session is called or not the election to select a successor to Senator John Walter Smith may not take place until November, 1914.

The present situation is due to the fact that the proclamation of the Sixteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote is expected to come in a comparatively short time.

As soon as this proclamation is made the Maryland Senatorial law is void, according to the best judgment of constitutional lawyers. It will be void, they say, for the reason that it is based on the plan that the Legislature is finally to elect the Senator.

For that reason a proclamation issued at any time before the Legislature meets in January would leave Maryland without a law with which to elect a Senator. The campaign would have to be canceled until a proper law could be passed.

Twenty-two States have officially notified the Secretary of State at Washington of their ratification of the amendment. It is not believed the other States will be long in coming in with their official ratification certificates. The amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of Senators has been passed by 35 States. For its adoption the vote of but one more State is needed.

Whether Governor Goldsborough will or will not order the special session is uncertain. While he admits that his ordinary inclination is against it, he has given no decided answer, because he prefers to study the problem.

Mrs. Pankhurst Goes to Prison—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, president of the "Woman's Social and Political Union" and leader of the militant suffragettes, last Thursday afternoon, was found guilty by a jury, at the Old Bailey, in London England, of inciting other women to blow up the home of Chancellor David Lloyd-George at Walton Heath with bombs.

A New Story About the Great Caliph

By RUTH GRAHAM

In the city of Bagdad many years ago, when the good old Caliph Haroun-al-Raschid was going about in disguise to see how his subjects were getting on, that he might supply their deficiencies, right their wrongs and be of general service to them, he one evening passed by the shop of a money changer who was looking very lugubrious.

"What troubles you?" asked the caliph, who was dressed in the garb of a vender of dates and had on his arm a basket containing the fruit.

"What need to tell you, a poor date seller?" replied the other. "You have an honest and sympathetic countenance, but you cannot help me."

"Not with money surely," replied the caliph, "but with advice."

"Ah," said the money changer, "there is a great deal more advice in the world than of money. Any one can give advice. I am overrun with it, especially about my children. There's not one of my neighbors who cannot tell me just how to train them, though. I confess, those who are most explicit in their instructions have never had any children of their own."

The caliph was much impressed with this information, which was new to him, for no one would dare give him advice as to the training of his children. "Tell me your trouble," he said to the money changer, "and if I do not help you I will give you all the dates I have in my basket." So he told the caliph what grieved him.

"I change money. I lend money," he said, "and I receive money to keep for others which I loan again at interest. This morning three men came in, each with a hundred pieces of gold they wished me to keep for them. I took the money and signed a receipt for it which they had drawn up, and by its terms I was obliged to pay the gold to them all together and not to any one of them separately."

"Soon after they had gone away one of them returned saying that he wished to count the money, for he feared there were not the 300 pieces I had receipted for, because, after leaving, one of his party had said: 'That man is a fool. I gave him for my share only eighty pieces of gold, and he will have to pay me a hundred pieces.'"

"I took the gold from my strong box and laid it on the table before this honest man, and while we were counting it there came a knock at the door. There stood the two other depositors, who said to me: 'If our third man comes to you and asks you to let him count the money we left you do not permit him. He is a rogue.' I told them I would be very careful and tried to get away from them to go back to the man with the gold, but they insisted on telling me why they suspected their colleague. And by the time they had finished and I got back to the room where I had left him he had gone with the money, having stepped out through a window into the street."

"He had not been gone long before the other two men came back and said they had an opportunity to use their funds and demanded that I should return them their deposit. I have not so much on hand; besides I must eventually lose 800 pieces of gold. They have cited me to appear before the judge tomorrow, and since I cannot return their deposit I shall be sent to jail."

When the caliph had heard this story he frowned that there should be such rascals in Bagdad. But the matter was one of law, and the good man never interfered with legal processes except in wise judgments like Solomon of old. "I will not give you any advice," he said to the money changer, "and since I must keep my contract I will leave my dates with you. But you will see me at the court tomorrow, and I think I know a way to help you."

The money changer did not wish to keep the dates, but the caliph would not take them away with him.

The next day, when the money changer went to court, whom should he see on the judge's bench but the date vender to whom he had confided his story. The two men who had demanded their money entered, and the judge told them to make known to him their complaint against the money changer. They told the same story as the latter, whereupon the judge called for the receipt which had been given for the gold. Having read it, he asked of the complainants:

"Where is the third man to whom the money is to be paid?"

"We do not know. He has made off with it, but that is not our fault. It is the fault of the money changer, of whom we demand the return of our dues."

"This receipt," said the judge, "compels the money changer to return the funds left with him to all the depositors and not to any one or two of them separately. Bring the other man and he will repay you."

The two men hung their heads and made no reply.

"I believe," continued the caliph, "that you are as dishonest as he, but I cannot prove it or I would send you to prison." Then, turning to the money changer, he said, "If these men trouble you again appeal the case to the caliph Haroun-al-Raschid."

The judge stepped down from the bench, and as he went out to the street a number of slaves who were waiting for him bowed down their heads before him. The money changer asked who he was and was told that he was the caliph himself.

Moral Influence of Clothes

Let not the flippant speak lightly of the suggestion that the way to reform women in prisons is to give them corsets and pretty clothes. The feminine philosopher who propounded this road to redemption was entirely sound in saying that there is no reform without self-respect, and the relation between self-respect and being well dressed is intimate. It was another feminine philosopher, one from Boston, who said that the consciousness of being well dressed imparted a peace of mind which not even the consolations of religion could give.

The warden who thinks a woman is no worse when a corset is taken off her and no better when one is put on, perhaps forgets that in his own prison the convicts do not wear striped clothes, and the wardens of some other penal institutions are putting on the convicts plain clothes under which it is possible for a sense of self-respect to grow. The cropping of the hair and the lockstep have been abolished from several prisons to avert the psychological effect of a personal appearance that is incompatible with self-respect.

There is more in this idea of giving women prisoners corsets and pretty clothes than some of the penologists, social reformers and physicians interviewed thereon recognize. —Philadelphia Record.

Last Balkan Chapter

With the reported fall of Adrianople, whose taking has been the work of months, the last chapter in the Balkan war has been reached. The tremendous artillery attack that carried the fortifications before the Bulgars' onward movement to the city proper was one of the most terrific in war annals. The details of the siege are more or less familiar. The fact of success is the thing of future moment.

The last chapter in the Balkan situation will be the adjustment of conditions of peace by the allies in co-operation with the powers. As the former demand an indemnity and a boundary that have been stamped by the powers as preposterous, the situation is yet one of acute difficulty. But with Adrianople to the credit of the allies the ability of the powers to keep the Balkan States from recouping themselves at the expense of the vanquished foe will be unavailing. The powers would be glad to have the little states crippled for years to come, so as to prevent them from being formidable, but they will not submit to this and their demands will undoubtedly in all important particulars be conceded. —Baltimore American.

How to Get A Husband

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

"Marthy, my dear," said Mrs. Griggs, "you'd ought to get married. Your father is liable to be taken from you at any time, and he ain't got a red cent to leave you."

"It's very easy to say 'get married,'" Aunt Jane, "but how's a girl to get married unless some one axes her?"

"Management, my dear; management. I had to manage to get my husband, but I done it."

"How?"

"Well, I'll tell you, secin' it's you, though I never told any one before in my life. I wanted a husband, and I wanted John. I couldn't tell him I wanted him, so I told him the next best thing. He wasn't thinkin' o' gettin' married, so far as I know. He was a hardworkin' young man, attendin' to his duties and tryin' to git his farm in good payin' condition."

"One spring mornin' I went by where he was plowin'. 'Mornin', Mr. Griggs,' says I. 'Mornin', Miss Haskell,' says he. 'Beginnin' the season's work?' says I. 'Yes,' says he, 'I'm startin'.' 'I don't see,' says I, 'how you git on with your housekeepin' when you're at work on your farm. What d'ye do when you go in after a hard day's work and don't find no supper ready?' 'I get the supper myself,' says he."

"I see, Aunt Jane. Then you told him he needed a wife, and he asked you to marry him."

"Laws-a-massy, child, you don't suppose I blunder like that? I didn't do nothin' of the kind. I just looked at him as though my heart was breakin' for sympathy for him. Then he said he'd been thinkin' that if he had a wife to do the inside work and the milkin' and the rest of the dairy work it would be easier on him. I told him I reckoned he'd have to go into the next county for one, since, so far as I knew, all the girls 'round havin' near by was spoken for. He looked kind o' sorrowful at that. He was leavin' on his plow handle and lookin' off over the field and didn't say nothin'."

"There's a widdier woman over to Berksville that might suit you," I said. "She's a little older 'n you and has a couple o' children, but maybe you wouldn't want a widdier. He didn't say nothin' to this, only just looked on over the fields. The mornin' was kind o' springlike, and the country was lookin' fresh, but I knowed he wasn't takin' it in. He was thinkin' about the wife I'd put into his head."

"If you wouldn't want a widdier, I reckon the children might bother you; they're always kickin' up a racket in a house—I know a young woman that might suit you over to Ellipton crossroads. She's a n't purty, havin' red hair and freckles, besides her kind o' loose jointed, but she's mighty strong and kin do a heap o' work."

"Reckon," he said, kind o' mournful, "I'll have to take what I kin git."

"Oh, no, you won't," says I. "There's nice girls that would be glad to git you; only you'd have to go somewheres else for 'em, secin' those about here are taken up."

"I ain't heerd o' your takin' up with no young man, Miss Haskell," says he.

"Oh, I! I don't count. None o' the young men would want me."

"Is that so?" he says, lookin' kind o' surprised.

"No," says I, "I'm not the kind of a girl most young men would fancy. I've noticed that men nat'ally take to a different kind of a girl from me. Besides, I'm needed at home. Dad couldn't get on without me."

"Seem' he's a widdier he might get a wife to supply your place."

"Oh, dad, he couldn't get on with no one else except me. I've tuk care of his house ever since maw died and a long time before that, and any one else comin' in to do the work would just set him crazy. You see, dad can't bear a spot on a pillowcase or a sheet or a cobweb anywhere or dust accumulat' under the furniture. And he's awful particular what he eats, bein' inclined to indigestion. I know just how to make the kind o' bread he likes and mufins and griddlecakes, and, as to cookin' his meat, I never dry it up like some persons, but always leave the juice in it. Then when it comes to apple or huckleberry pies, dad says I'm the only one can make 'em to suit him. Suit him, mind you. I don't say I could suit anybody else."

"Well, I could see that his mouth was waterin' for some o' them things I'd told him about, so I asks him how he'd like to come over for dinner the next Sunday and try some o' 'em. He said he'd like to mighty well."

"That's as far as I wanted to go right then. So I passed on with a 'Mornin', Mr. Griggs. We eat dinner half an hour after church is out Sunday. Goodby."

"There's no use tellin' you the rest o' this story. I made a beginnin' that would work shore, 'cause I attacked him through his stomach. Some girls would 'a' talked soft; some would 'a' cried. Cryin' is the best way to bring a man down next to feedin' him well. I'd rather rely on the stomach than on sympathy myself, but each girl must decide for herself. Now you go and experiment on Ben Bath away. I know you want him, and if no other girl has got ahead of you you can get him—if you work it right."

Marthy experimented on Mr. Bath away with success. She didn't follow the advice exactly as it was given, but near enough to produce the desired result. At any rate, she got him.

Put the Load Where It Belongs

If you are to make the most of your time and opportunities, you must have efficient tools to work with. You have enough hard, tiresome work without wasting your time and energy at wood-sawing, water-pumping, grindstone-turning and the like. Use an IHC engine to furnish power for such work. In less time, and with far less effort, the wood is sawed, the stock watered, the tools sharpened, all at one-tenth the expense of hand work. Put the load where it belongs. Buy and use an

IHC Oil and Gas Engine

It is the cheapest engine you can buy because it costs less per year of service than others. It is so powerful that it will carry a load ten per cent or more above its rated horse power. Perfect combustion makes it economical.

IHC oil and gas engines operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, distillate, alcohol. Sizes are 1 to 50-horse power. They are built in every approved style; vertical, horizontal, portable, stationary, skidded, air-cooled, and water-cooled. Sawing, pumping, spraying, out-fits, etc., IHC oil tractors for plowing, threshing, etc., 12 to 60-horse power.

See this engine at the IHC local dealer's place of business and learn what it will do for you. Or write for catalogues.

Piano And Violin Good As a Hair Tonic

"If you are bald, learn the violin," is the moral to be drawn from a startling statement made by Henry de Parville, of Paris, France. According to this authority, music exercises a manifest action upon the nervous system, which itself also affects the nutrition of the bodily tissues; therefore, it seems reasonable to conclude that, in a general way, music has an influence upon the physiological individuality.

Musicians, it appears, are bald in the proportion of 11 per cent., but among instrumentalists the influence of musical vibrations makes itself felt in two opposite directions, according to the class of instrument.

Thus, while string instruments prevent and arrest the falling off of the hair, the brass instruments exercise the most deadly influence upon the scalp. The piano and the violin, especially the former, have an undeniably preservative effect. The trombone, however, is the most deleterious of all, for in five or six years the player has lost at least 60 per cent. of his hair.

This disagreeable result is known as "fanfare baldness," because the evil particularly punishes regimental musicians.

A Good Excuse.
"Now, then," demanded Luschmann's wife the next morning, "what's your excuse for coming home in that condition last night?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, m' dear," he replied, "none of the hotels would take me in."

A Big Difference.

Cheerfulness For Railroad Men

A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. Learn how to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your life and troubles. Learn to hide your pains and aches under pleasant smiles. Meet everyone with a smile; a good-humored man or woman always is welcome. Above all, give pleasure.

This excellent advice, issued by the management of a big Western railroad to its employees, will mean a decided change to the traveling public if it is followed. No people need it more than Americans, caught in the swing and rush that is characteristic of them.

And it may be added that no class of people need it more than railroad men. The average conductor or brakeman is not, as a rule, cheerful. His loquacity is usually confined to such formal expressions as "Ticket, please," and "Change at Smithtown." Only a bold passenger, under present conditions, will venture a jest with the powerful and often gloomy individual who can put him off at the next station.

In these days of change it is pleasant to know that even the despotic frigidity of the man with the ticket punch is not immutable. What a worthwhile world this will be when the noise of the rattling wheels and coughing engine of a passing train will be drowned by the roars of laughter from passengers diverted by the conductor's latest version of "Why does a chicken cross the road?" A delighted chuckle in the distance will mean the approach of the New York express and a faded chorus of ha-has will mark its departure.

If the new rule is generally followed, the timid passenger need no longer fear to work off his best bon-mots on the man who comes around to see if he has sneaked on board without a ticket. He will know that the victim cannot avoid listening without violating the orders of the railroad.

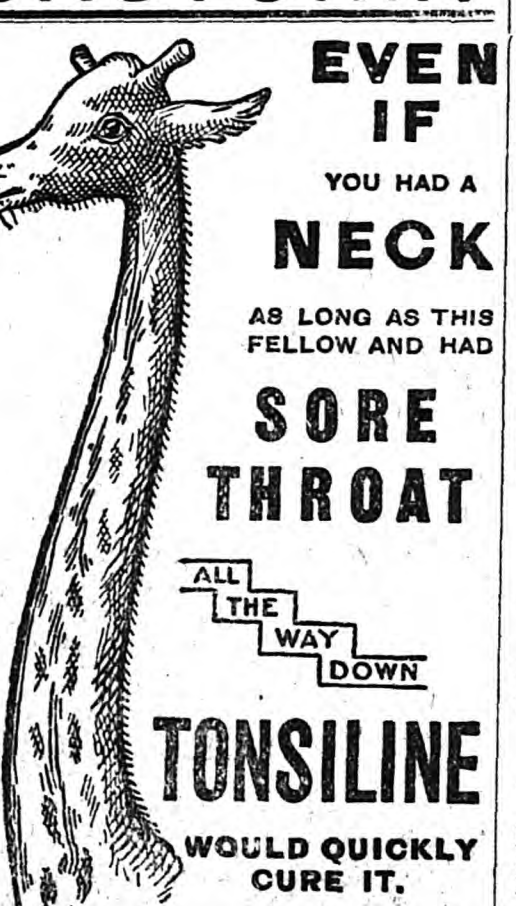

Just think of the joy of having a railroad man at your mercy.—Baltimore News.

Absentminded La Fontaine.

La Fontaine, whose fables are the delight of adult Frenchmen and their children's earliest task, was very absentminded. He went to the court of Louis XVI. to present a copy of his fables to the king. And he forgot the book. Fortunately, the king knew La Fontaine, his fables and his foibles, and gave him a thousand pistoles (about $250). Unfortunately, though, La Fontaine left the money in his hired carriage on his way back to Paris.

BEGINNING AT HOME.

Pertinent Question a Bright Boy Put to a Governor.

The late Governor Larrabee, the "grand old man" of Iowa, was extremely fond of children. One day while looking over his mill at Turkey River he found an urchin, dirty and ragged, sound asleep near the water-wheel. The boy was Mickey Burke, son of a poor family in the neighborhood.

The governor asked the boy why he was so dirty and ragged. The boy explained his mother had a large family and had to work hard and could get him no better clothes.

"But you can keep clean," exhorted Larrabee. "You could wash your face and hands if you wanted to. That costs nothing."

Mickey said he would try. "Well," said the governor, "now is the time to begin."

He procured a washbasin, some soap and a towel and watched Mickey scrub himself until he shone. Then the governor got Mickey some clothes and dressed him neatly. Mickey looked fine.

"Now," said Larrabee, "we'll see about getting you a job."

He took Mickey to the store of an old German of whom the governor was very fond. Mr. Schneider had no place for Mickey.

"But you must have," expostulated Larrabee. "Just look at him and see what a nice boy he is. He is clean and neat. He is a good talker and would make a good clerk. There is no finer boy, Mr. Schneider, than Mickey here."

Schneider was obdurate. He had no place.

The governor and Mickey walked out of the store, much disappointed. As they reached the sidewalk Mickey turned to his benefactor and asked, "Mr. Larrabee, if I am such a darned fine boy as you say why don't you give me a job yourself?"—Saturday Evening Post.

CURIOUS ACACIA TREE.

It Gets Peevish and Ugly and Odorous When Disturbed.

In Idaho there exists a species of the acacia tree which is entitled to be classed as one of the wonders of plant life. When full grown it closes its leaves together in coils each day at sunset and curls its twigs to the shape of pigtails.

When the tree has thus settled itself for the night's sleep it is said that if touched it will flutter as if agitated or impatient at the disturbance. The oftener, it is averred, the foliage is molested the more violent will become the shaking of the branches. Finally, it is further alleged, if the shaking is continued the tree will at length emit a nauseating odor quite sufficient to induce a headache in the case of the person disturbing the tree.

In Idaho it is called the "angry tree," and it is said that it was discovered by men who on making camp for the night placed one end of a canvas covering over one of the sensitive bushes, using it for a support. Immediately the tree began to jerk its branches sharply. The motion continued with increasing "nervousness" until at last came a sickening odor that drove the tired campers to a more friendly location.—Harper's Weekly.

Queer English.
Tokyo contains some queer specimens of English. One would scarcely be familiar with the name "How-jindu Maru" painted on the bow of a Japanese junk, and yet "How-jindu" is not a bad reproduction of "How do you do?" probably the only English phrase that the owner of the boat had ever heard. Having the courage of his ignorance, he treated it as a single word, combined it with a Japanese suffix applied to sailing vessels and gave it with pride to his honorable junk.

Another Japanese refers to himself as the "cheerful barber," a laundryman gives notice that he is a "high washman," and a sartorial artist describes himself as "the sublime tailor." A shop signboard bears the words "Nourishing Drugs."

An Apt Pupil.

A little boy was advised by his father to use illustrations in his conversation whenever they should occur to him.

"For," continued the parent, "there is no more forcible way of conveying or impressing your meaning."

Shortly after the boy was being lectured on generosity.

"It's better to give than to receive, Johnny—far better."

Misses Rose Gibbons, Mary Merrill and Cecil McCready spent Thursday night with May and Grace Cowger.

Rev. Mr. Truitt has been returned to Cokesbury charge for another year much to the satisfaction of the Cokesbury congregation.

Mr. N. J. Gibbons left Monday for Baltimore to re-enter the hospital for another surgical operation. It is hoped by his many friends that he will soon be himself again.

Rev. Mr. Sexsmith preached at Quinton Sunday, which closed the present year. He reported everything paid in full there being over $2500 raised for all purposes at this church and Pocomoke City. Rev. Sexsmith while only on this work seven months has given entire satisfaction and it is hoped the Conference which is in session now at Lynchburg, Va., will see fit to return him to this place.

The dedication of the Church of the Brethren's new Edifice took place last Sunday at Green Hill. Rev. W. M. Wine, of Woodside, Delaware, preached in the morning. His text was Gen. 28 chapter, 16 and 17 verses. His subject was handled in a scholarly way and was listened to by a very attentive audience. After the sermon Rev. G. S. Rainight, of Denton, Md., took charge and with his pleasing and winning ways soon had the amount of $298.45 subscribed toward liquidating the indebtedness. The edifice cost about $1500; of this amount only $400 remained to be raised and with the amount raised there will only remain a little over $100 on the indebtedness. Rev. Mr. Rainight preached in the afternoon. The other visiting brethren were Rev. Christian Krabill, Bridgeville, Del., and Rev. S. Longenecker, Denton, Md. Rev. N. J. Miller, pastor of the church, had charge of the services.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. Jones, druggist.

A Hard Working Triumvirate

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McMaster, of Worcester county, and Mr. W. H. Dashiell, of Somerset, were entertained last Thursday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Holloway, on Camden avenue extended, Salisbury. The visit to Salisbury was designed to afford a second opportunity for the school superintendents of the three counties to confer upon the Tri-County Institute to be held at Ocean City next August. Mr. Holloway, however, proved himself such a gracious host that his guests spent the greater part of the afternoon in his automobile viewing the beauties of Wicomico county and incidentally one of its up-to-date rural schools between Salisbury and Delmar.

Touring with the ladies was a most pleasing occupation and time flew so rapidly that the suggestion of the real nature of the conference and its unaccomplished duties was hard to be taken seriously. The gentlemen did, however, hold a conference at the School Board office—lasting perhaps 15 minutes or less—looking over some work already performed by Supt. Holloway, with the result that whetted appetites knew no appeasing save by a return to Camden avenue where Mrs. Holloway did the honors at the head of her bountiful tea table and where the aforesaid gentlemen made indignant rejoinders to the ladies' witty remarks upon the toil on a warm evening at the School Board office.

Death of Mr. Thornton Hall

Mr. E. Thornton Hall, a former resident of Princess Anne and a native of Upper Fairmount, died suddenly last Thursday night at St. Luke's Hospital, Baltimore. Mr. Hall was indisposed the early part of the week and on Tuesday pneumonia developed which caused his death. Mr. Hall was a son of the late Littleton and Julia Hall, of this county, and was 44 years of age. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. B. P. Miles, of Norfolk, Va. When he resided in Princess Anne Mr. Hall was engaged in the drug business. For a number of years past he has lived in Baltimore. Services and interment were at Norfolk, Va., Saturday afternoon.

After July 1st Delaware will enforce the "Jim Crow Law" passed in the Legislature which provides that all railroads operating in Delaware shall provide separate cars or coaches for the transportation of colored passengers. The law places a fine of from $500 to $1000 upon any railroad ignoring this law.

MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETS

Proceeding of the Annual Session Held in Crisfield

The Somerset Medical Society met in the parlors of the Colonial Hotel, Crisfield, in annual session last Tuesday. The Society was called to order by the President, Dr. C. E. Collins, who made a short address of welcome.

Owing to the fact that the regular secretary and treasurer, Dr. Hoyt, had left the county, Dr. Wainwright moved that Dr. Henry M. Lankford be elected secretary and treasurer for one year, motion was carried and Dr. Lankford was declared elected.

The first paper on the program was Eclampsia, its etiology and treatment by Dr. W. F. Hall, of Crisfield. This was a very interesting and instructive paper and showed that Dr. Hall had had a large experience in treating this dreaded complication of pregnancy. The paper was discussed by Drs. Fisher, Wainwright, Atkinson, Simonson and Hall.

Dr. M. W. Goldsborough read a very interesting paper on the Diagnostic Value of the X-Ray and exhibited several very interesting plates.

Drs. Hall, Collins and Lankford made a few remarks on the results they had obtained in the use of Gonorrheal Bacterina.

Dr. George C. Coulbourn, of Marion, and Dr. Robert E. Caldwell, of Oriole, were elected to membership.

The insurance examination question was brought up and it was reported that some of the companies still refused to pay the regulation fee of five dollars. The Society unanimously reaffirmed its determination to adhere strictly to the resolution adopted several years ago and make no old line insurance examination requiring a urine analysis for a less fee than five dollars. The secretary was instructed to have copies of said resolutions printed for distribution among the members and sent by them to the insurance companies.

It was moved, seconded and carried that no member of this Society administer a general anesthetic for less than five dollars except in charity cases where no charge is made. Secretary was instructed to notify the dentists of the county of this action on the part of the society.

Dr. C. W. Wainwright was elected as delegate to the meeting of the Medical and Chirurgical Faculty of Maryland, in Baltimore, and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Dr. G. T. Simonson.
Vice-President—M. W. Goldsborough.
Secretary and Treasurer—Dr. Henry M. Lankford.

Those present were; Drs. C. E. Collins, C. C. Ward, J. F. Somers, W. F. Hall, G. T. Atkinson, G. T. Simonson, of Crisfield; C. T. Fisher, M. W. Goldsborough, C. W. Wainwright and H. M. Lankford, of Princess Anne.

The Town Water

The question of the purity of the drinking water of Princess Anne has been discussed and comments have been made upon its gaseous appearance. This appearance, the commissioners say, is due to the greater pressure and fall of the water from the new service tank. That the water is pure and healthful, is shown by the analysis of specimens taken from several points remote from each other. The specimens were taken at the pumping station, the drug store of T. J. Smith & Co., and the bakery of L. F. Lecates. The tests were made by W. B. D. Penniman, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry of the State Department of Health. The report states the water is bacteriologically free from pollution. The sample taken from the pumping station shows the following constituents: Color, none; odor, none; reaction, neutral; total residue at 230 degrees F., 130; chlorine, 23.8; nitrogen as free ammonia, trace; as albuminoid ammonia, none; as nitrites, 4.10; as nitrates, none. The tests of the other samples show equally good qualities.

Miss Warfield To Wed In May

J. Pierpont Morgan Dead

J. Pierpont Morgan, the New York banker, and generally recognized as the greatest financier this country has ever known, died in Rome Monday of last week, after a long illness.

Mr. Morgan came from an old Puritan-New England family which dates back in this country to 1688. He was born in wealth. His father, Junius Spencer Morgan, left him $10,000,000 and inherited important banking connections. J. Pierpont Morgan was born April 17th, 1837, in a modest, red brick cottage in Hartford, Conn. He started his business career half a century ago, on the board of directors of a large maritime insurance company. He secured the position through the influence of his wealthy father. For a year young Morgan attended the directors' meeting but never opened his mouth, except to vote. The president of the company told the elder Morgan that nothing could be done with his son, who seemed to take little interest in business. John Pierpont, however, all the time was laying his plans for his first railroad consideration, which, when accomplished, established his standing in Wall Street as the only man who ever got the better of Jay Gould. The sobriquet of "Spinx of Wall Street" was the appellation applied to him after this notable achievement. Morgan's control over men and money was the dominant keynote of his life. Others, perhaps, were wealthier than Morgan but he commanded his wealth and that of others. At the height of his power he is said to have controlled $9,000,000,000. As a philanthropist, Mr. Morgan gave unostentatiously many millions of dollars.

Funeral of King of Greece

An imposing ceremonial marked the burial last Wednesday of King George of Greece.

The procession was of great length, including a striking mingling of many Eastern and Western nationalities. The men uncovered and the women wept hysterically.

The royal princes of Greece and the missions representing the courts of Europe and the States of the American Hemisphere, joined with deputations from European Turkey, from the islands of the Aegean Sea and from Asia Minor, each in distinctive national dress.

Dashiell—Cooke Wedding

At the residence of A. M. Jackson, Hazel avenue, Salisbury, last Wednesday the sister of Mrs. Jackson, Miss Sarah Lagnley Cooke, was married to Harry L. Dashiell, a merchant of that city. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Sallie B. Cooke, and until recently was assistant treasurer of the Peninsula Trust Company, of Salisbury. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dashiell took the New York express for a tour of the Northern cities. Upon their return they will reside on Camden avenue Salisbury.

OYSTER RENTALS LOWER

Options of 30,000 Acres—When Seed Oysters May be Taken

The schedule of rents for oyster "bottoms" or areas leased for private planting, was cut last Thursday to little more than a third for the first 16 years, as it was in the old schedule. The readjustment was made by the Maryland Shellfish Commission and the new schedule fixes the charges per acre per year as follows:

First 10 years, $1.
Eleventh and twelfth years, $2.
Thirteenth and fourteenth years, $3.
Fifteenth and sixteenth years, $4.
Seventeenth and succeeding years, $5.

Under the old schedule, the charge was $1 a year for the first two years, to which $1 was added each succeeding year until $5 was reached in the sixth year, this price being permanent thereafter. Thus the total per acre for a 10-year term was $66; now it will be $28. Experience has proved that little could be done for the oyster culture under the old scale, which was coupled with certain restrictions made by the law prior to its amendment last year. The Legislature removed the ban upon scraping leased bottoms, and with scraping allowed and the practical assurance that the rental would be materially reduced there has been a great demand for leases.

Prior to the action taken last week options upon a total of approximately 30,000 acres were filed with the commission. Under the old law only about 4,000 acres were leased, and as the rate of rental advanced there was a rapid falling off until only 30 leases, covering about 2,900 acres, were in force a year ago.

While the closing of the recent leases was made conditional upon a satisfactory schedule, Chairman Benjamin K. Green, of the Shellfish Commission, said that he was confident the new rates would be generally satisfactory. The commission now has surveyed and subject to lease about 300,000 acres.

The Board of Shell Fish Commissioners is authorized by Section 111, of the Act of 1912, to set apart natural oyster beds or bars in the tonging district from which oysters may be taken to be sold as seed oysters between the 15th day of April and the 15th day of May.

Acting under this authority, the Commissioners have set apart the area in Chesapeake Bay lying above a line drawn from Lower Island Point, passing south of Spry Island, to Mitchell's Bluff Triangulation Station just north of Tolchester Beach, Kent county; and also the area in Broad Creek, Talbot county, lying above a line drawn from the southerly end of Royston Island to the southerly end of Nelson Island.

In addition to this area, the Potomac River, above a straight line drawn from the north point at the mouth of Upper Machodoc Creek, King George's county, Virginia, to Lower Cedar Point, Charles county, Maryland, is open for the taking of seed oysters from January 1st to May 1st under recent concurrent legislation of Maryland and Virginia.

Marbury in Wicomico County

Hon. W. L. Marbury, of Baltimore, who is a candidate for the long term for United States Senator, reached Wicomico county on Thursday of last week to make speeches and see the voters. He was met at Maryland by Hon. E. Stanley Toadvin, George W. D. Waller and Mr. Langsdale. The first speech made in the county was made at that point. He in main touched upon the same issues he has discussed in other sections of the State, being an attack upon Senator Smith's record and affiliations. In the afternoon an address was delivered at Hebron. During the evening the party held a meeting in the town of Delmar. Friday the party left for Pittsville and Willard, taking in the east side of the county. Returning in the afternoon they left for the west side making Sharptown in the evening. Saturday a meeting was held in the Ulman Opera House, Salisbury, in the afternoon. This wound up the present tour of that county. The various points were made by automobiles. Mr. Marbury being attended by his local managers in the trips made.

Schooner Sinks in the Pocomoke

The schooner Edna Williams, en route from Snow Hill, to Marsh Market, Va., with a cargo of bricks, struck a sunken tug opposite the shipyard in Pocomoke River at Pocomoke City, Monday evening of last week, and sunk. The crew escaped from drowning by taking to a lifeboat. Traffic on the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railway was delayed one hour, as the mast of the sunken vessel interfered with the operation of the drawbridge, and it became necessary to saw a portion of the mast from the vessel. The vessel's cargo will be a total loss.

SENATORIAL SUCCESSION

Direct Election of Senators Imminent—A Lawyer's Opinion

The matter of successors to our present United States Senators is being much discussed at this time. One of the best constitutional lawyers in the Senate has given to a Baltimore Sun correspondent his opinion that successors of John Walter Smith and William P. Jackson in the United States Senate from Maryland must be elected by a direct vote of the people if the direct-election amendment to the Federal Constitution is ratified by three-fourths of the States of the Union before the next Maryland Legislature is elected. He goes on to say:

"If the direct-election amendment is ratified by the required number of State Legislatures, it nullifies the power of the Legislature to elect United States Senators. In your State if this amendment is ratified before your Legislature is elected the successors to Senators Smith and Jackson must be elected by the people. "I would say also that the State Legislature must provide the necessary election machinery to make the direct election of Senators operative. I do not think such an election can be held until the means for the election is provided. If the Legislature of any State fails to provide the election machinery then Congress can step in and provide it."

A special session of the Legislature may have to be called to meet this summer, or a bill may be passed by Congress providing a special election law for this State.

If the special session is not called, then it is probable, according to good authority that the Legislature of 1914 will have to provide for a special election in the early part of 1914 to elect a successor to the late Senator Rayner. Whether the extra session is called or not the election to select a successor to Senator John Walter Smith may not take place until November, 1914.

The present situation is due to the fact that the proclamation of the Sixteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the election of United States Senators by a direct vote is expected to come in a comparatively short time.

As soon as this proclamation is made the Maryland Senatorial law is void, according to the best judgment of constitutional lawyers. It will be void, they say, for the reason that it is based on the plan that the Legislature is finally to elect the Senator.

For that reason a proclamation issued at any time before the Legislature meets in January would leave Maryland without a law with which to elect a Senator. The campaign would have to be canceled until a proper law could be passed.

Twenty-two States have officially notified the Secretary of State at Washington of their ratification of the amendment. It is not believed the other States will be long in coming in with their official ratification certificates. The amendment to the Federal Constitution providing for the direct election of Senators has been passed by 35 States. For its adoption the vote of but one more State is needed. Whether Governor Goldsborough will or will not order the special session is uncertain. While he admits that his ordinary inclination is against it, he has given no decided answer, because he prefers to study the problem.

Mrs. Pankhurst Goes to Prison

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, president of the "Woman's Social and Political Union"—and leader of the militant suffragettes, last Thursday afternoon, was found guilty by a jury, at the Old Bailey, in London England, of inciting other women to blow up the home of Chancellor David Lloyd-George at Walton Heath with bombs.

She was sentenced to three years penal servitude. The maximum penalty for the offense is 14 years.

In passing sentence Justice Lush scored Mrs. Pankhurst and the militant suffragettes in general for their violence which, he said, showed only contempt for law and order.

When Mrs. Pankhurst realized that she had been sent to prison for three years of hard labor, her face blanched, those nearest to her thought, but she made no comment.

Rally of Mechanics

Over 400 members of United American Mechanic from the 14 lodges of the Eastern Shore gathered in Salisbury last Wednesday to hold a big rally. A street parade was formed at 3 o'clock and marched through the principal streets, accompanied by the Salisbury Band. After the parade they all went to the armory, where there were addressed by the state councillor, C. H. Stein, of Baltimore; National Councillor, C. W. Burrow, of Providence, and National Secretary W. H. Holstein, of Scranton, Pa.

A New Story About the Great Caliph

By RUTH GRAHAM

In the city of Bagdad many years ago, when the good old Caliph Haroun-al-Raschid was going about in disguise to see how his subjects were getting on, that he might supply their deficiencies, right their wrongs and be of general service to them, he one evening passed by the shop of a money changer who was looking very inglorious.

"What troubles you?" asked the caliph, who was dressed in the garb of a vender of dates and had on his arm a basket containing the fruit.

"What need to tell you, a poor date seller?" replied the other. "You have an honest and sympathetic countenance, but you cannot help me."

"Not with money surely," replied the caliph, "but with advice."

"Ah," said the money changer, "there is a great deal more advice in the world than of money. Any one can give advice. I am overrun with it, especially about my children. There's not one of my neighbors who cannot tell me just how to train them, though I confess those who are most explicit in their instructions have never had any children of their own."

The caliph was much impressed with this information, which was new to him, for no one would dare give him advice as to the training of his children. "Tell me your trouble," he said to the money changer, "and if I do not help you I will give you all the dates I have in my basket." So he told the caliph what grieved him.

"I change money. I lend money," he said, "and I receive money to keep for others which I loan again at interest. This morning three men came in, each with a hundred pieces of gold they wished me to keep for them. I took the money and signed a receipt for it which they had drawn up, and by its terms I was obliged to pay the gold to them all together and not to any one of them separately."

"Soon after they had gone away one of them returned saying that he wished to count the money, for he feared there were not the 300 pieces I had receipted for, because, after leaving, one of his party had said: 'That man is a fool. I gave him for my share only eighty pieces of gold, and he will have to pay me a hundred pieces.'"

"I took the gold from my strong box and laid it on the table before this honest man, and while we were counting it there came a knock at the door. There stood the two other depositors, who said to me: 'If our third man comes to you and asks you to let him count the money we left you do not permit him. He is a rogue.' I told them I would be very careful and tried to get away from them to go back to the man with the gold, but they insisted on telling me why they suspected their colleague. And by the time they had finished and I got back to the room where I had left him he had gone with the money, having stepped out through a window into the street."

"He had not been gone long before the other two men came back and said they had an opportunity to use their funds and demanded that I should return them their deposit. I have not so much on hand; besides I must eventually lose 300 pieces of gold. They have cited me to appear before the judge tomorrow, and since I cannot return their deposit I shall be sent to jail."

When the caliph had heard this story he frowned that there should be such rascals in Bagdad. But the matter was one of law, and the good man never interfered with legal processes except in wise judgments like Solomon of old. "I will not give you any advice," he said to the money changer, "and since I must keep my contract I will leave my dates with you. But you will see me at the court tomorrow, and I think I know a way to help you."

The money changer did not wish to keep the dates, but the caliph would not take them away from him.

The next day when the money changer went to court, whom should he see on the judge's bench but the date vender to whom he had confided his story. The two men who had demanded their money entered, and the judge told them to make known to him their complaint against the money changer. They told the same story as the latter, whereupon the judge called for the receipt which had been given for the gold. Having read it, he asked of the complainants:

"Where is the third man to whom the money is to be paid?"

"We do not know. He has made off with it, but that is not our fault. It is the fault of the money changer, of whom we demand the return of our dues."

"This receipt," said the judge, "compels the money changer to return the funds left with him to all the depositors and not to any one or two of them separately. Bring the other man and he will repay you."

The two men hung their heads and made no reply.

"I believe," continued the caliph, "that you are as dishonest as he, but I cannot prove it or I would send you to prison." Then, turning to the money changer, he said, "If these men trouble you again appeal the case to the caliph Haroun-al-Raschid."

The judge stepped down from the bench, and as he went out to the street a number of slaves who were waiting for him bowed down their heads before him. The money changer asked who he was and was told that he was the caliph himself.

Moral Influence of Clothes

Let not the flippant speak lightly of the suggestion that the way to reform women in prisons is to give them corsets and pretty clothes. The feminine philosopher who propounded this road to redemption was entirely sound in saying that there is no reform without self-respect, and the relation between self-respect and being well dressed is intimate. It was another feminine philosopher, one from Boston, who said that the consciousness of being well dressed imparted a peace of mind which not even the consolations of religion could give.

The warden who thinks a woman is no worse when a corset is taken off her and no better when one is put on, perhaps forgets that in his own prison the convicts do not wear striped clothes, and the wardens of some other penal institutions are putting on the convicts plain clothes under which it is possible for a sense of self-respect to grow. The cropping of the hair and the lockstep have been abolished from several prisons to avert the psychological effect of a personal appearance that is incompatible with self-respect. There is more in this idea of giving women prisoners corsets and pretty clothes than some of the penologists, social reformers and physicians interviewed thereon recognize. —Philadelphia Record.

Last Balkan Chapter

With the reported fall of Adrianople, whose taking has been the work of months, the last chapter in the Balkan war has been reached. The tremendous artillery attack that carried the fortifications before the Bulgars' onward movement to the city proper was one of the most terrific in war annals. The details of the siege are more or less familiar. The fact of success is the thing of future moment.

The last chapter in the Balkan situation will be the adjustment of conditions of peace by the allies in co-operation with the powers. As the former demand an indemnity and a boundary that have been stamped by the powers as preposterous, the situation is yet one of acute difficulty. But with Adrianople to the credit of the allies the ability of the powers to keep the Balkan States from recouping themselves at the expense of the vanquished foe will be unavailing. The powers would be glad to have the little states crippled for years to come, so as to prevent them from being formidable, but they will not submit to this and their demands will undoubtedly in all important particulars be conceded. —Baltimore American.

The Board of Shell Fish Commissioners desires to see as many as possible of the practical oystermen of the State take advantage of the leasing law. At the present time leases written or applications filed cover 27,000 acres of the land open to lease. It will probably not be long till, in many localities, all the most desirable bottoms open to lease will be taken. This notice is inserted in order that the practical oystermen may have every opportunity to secure good territory.

Full information can be secured by writing to the Board of Shell Fish Commissioners, National Marine Bank Building, Baltimore City, or whenever a number of oystermen in one locality are interested, arrangements can be made for a visit to that locality by an officer of the Commission.

Farm Failures

The government is maintaining a Department of Agriculture at an expense of several millions a year, and is distributing a vast amount of seeds and printed information. Most of the states are paying liberally for agricultural instruction, and are maintaining experiment stations, and several railroad companies are spending money to disseminate agricultural information, with a view to increasing the freight business. And yet a canvass by the Department of Agriculture through 13 states showed that 40 per cent. of the farmers showed 'took no stock in farmers' institutes, demonstration agents, farm papers or Department of Agriculture publications as aids in helping to make the soil more productive.' It is no wonder that the average production of farms falls so very far short of demonstrated possibilities. —Philadelphia Record.

Goucher College Will Remain In Baltimore

Exactly at 10:21 o'clock Friday night the fund of $1,000,000 required to insure the retention of the institution was completed. This announcement was made in one of the large rooms on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Emerson. Gathered here were men and women who for months have labored day and night securing subscriptions to the fund. Midnight, April 4th, was the time set when the campaign must end. If the money were not subscribed the trustees said the college would have to go to some other city. Earlier in the evening the amount needed had been reduced from $32,000 to $5,000 and this was provided for at the last moment.

NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING

Design Accepted and Will Cost $520,000

The designs prepared by the firm of Parker, Thomas & Rice, of Baltimore, have been accepted by the State Commission as most suitable for the new State Normal School to be erected on the York road near Towson and for which $600,000 was appropriated at the last session of the Legislature.

The designs were chosen from a total of seven submitted in competition. An effort was made by the successful firm to keep the buildings simple and dignified in outline and planned in such a way as to lead to economy in construction. The building will cost $520,000, and will be in American scholastic style of architecture to meet the condition of the ideal unilateral lighting. The lighting of the school rooms is in excess of requirements.

The dormitories have been formed into a quadrangle. The requirements of the two dormitories, which the program states will be built at once, have been joined under one roof, but separated by a firewall and a fireproof staircase, with fireproof doors. The arrangements give adequate egress in case of fire and ease to the supervision service and administration, and moreover will give an attractive and finished facade on York road until expansion of plans. The cubage given is as follows: Administration building, 1,573,476; the two dormitories, 671,736; kitchen, 58,090; power house, 980,900. The cost of the ground on which the school will stand cost $90,000.

The commission which selected the plans is as follows: Governor Goldsborough, J. C. Linthicum, John S. Bidson, Peter J. Campbell, W. Mitchell Diggs, Carlville D. Benson, Dr. M. Bates Stephens, Miss Sarah E. Richmond, Murray Vandiver, A. J. Cummings and Albert M. Sproesser.

For rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Try it and see how quickly it gives relief. For sale by all Dealers. (Advertisement)

Rodgers, Carroll Fields, A. F. Dryden and John Heath. After lodge work all present were served with ice cream and cake and then enjoyed a "smoke" until time for the visitors to return to Salisbury.

Farm Failures
The government is maintaining a Department of Agriculture at an expense of several millions a year, and is distributing a vast amount of seeds and printed information. Most of the states are paying liberally for agricultural instruction, and are maintaining experimental stations, and several railroad companies are spending money to disseminate agricultural information, with a view to increasing the freight business. And yet a canvass by the Department of Agriculture through 13 states showed that 40 per cent. of the farmers visited "took no stock in farmers' institutes, demonstration agents, farm papers or Department of Agriculture publications as aids in helping to make the soil more productive." It is no wonder that the average production of farms falls so very far short of demonstrated possibilities. —Philadelphia Record.

Goucher College Will Remain In Baltimore

Exactly at 10:21 o'clock Friday night the fund of $1,000,000 required to insure the retention of the institution was completed. This announcement was made in one of the large rooms on the mezzanine floor of the Hotel Emerson. Gathered here were men and women who for months have labored day and night securing subscriptions to the fund. Midnight, April 4th, was the time set when the campaign must end. If the money were not subscribed the trustees said the college would have to go to some other city. Earlier in the evening the amount needed had been reduced from $32,000 to $8,000 and this was provided for at the last moment.

Falls From Wagon; Breaks Neck

Alexander C. Carpenter, a farmer, 40 years old, fell from a wagon at Chertiton, Va., Monday of last week breaking his neck. He was engaged in hauling crates from the railroad station when one of them fell from the wagon and landed upon the back of a mule which he was driving, causing the animal to runaway. In trying to check the animal's speed he was thrown beneath the wagon.

NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING

Design Accepted and Will Cost $520,000

The designs prepared by the firm of Parker, Thomas & Rice, of Baltimore, have been accepted by the State Commission as most suitable for the new State Normal School to be erected on the York road near Towson and for which $600,000 was appropriated at the last session of the Legislature.

The designs were chosen from a total of seven submitted in competition. An effort was made by the successful firm to keep the buildings simple and dignified in outline and planned in such a way as to lead to economy in construction. The building will cost $520,000, and will be in American scholastic style of architecture to meet the condition of the ideal unilateral lighting. The lighting of the school rooms is in excess of requirements.

The arrangements give adequate egress in case of fire and ease to the supervision service and administration, and moreover will give an attractive and finished facade on York road until expansion of plans. The plans are finished in brick. The cubage given is as follows: Administration building, 1,573,476; the two dormitories, 671,796; kitchen, 58,080; power house, 980,900. The cost of the ground on which the school will stand cost $80,000.

SAVED HIS CABLE TOLLS.

A Clever Ruse at Home Gave Him the Information He Wanted.

A wealthy merchant in Paris who does an extensive business with Japan was informed that a prominent firm in Yokohama had failed, but the name of the firm he could not learn. He could have learned the truth by cabling; but, to save expense, instead he went to a well known banker who had received the news and requested him to reveal the name of the firm.

"That's a very delicate thing to do," replied the banker, "for the news is not official, and if I gave you the name I might incur some responsibility."

The merchant argued, but in vain, and finally he made this proposition: "I will give you," he said, "a list of ten firms in Yokohama, and I will ask you to look through it and then tell me without mentioning any name, whether or not the name of the firm which has failed appears in it. Surely you will do that for me."

"Yes," said the banker, "for if I do not mention any name I cannot be held responsible in any way."

The list was made. The banker looked through it and as he handed it back to the merchant said, "The name of the merchant who has failed is there."

"Then I've lost heavily," replied the merchant, "for that is the firm with which I did business," showing him a name on the list.

"But how do you know that is the firm which has failed?" asked the banker in surprise.

"Very easily," replied the merchant. "Of the ten names on the list only one is genuine, that of the firm with which I did business. All the others are fictitious."

THE CHAFING DISH.

Antiquity of This Now Popular Cooking Utensil.

The chafing dish is not a utensil of modern invention. Looking backward over history's pages, many allusions are made to its use. Among the ruins of Pompeii have been found bronze chafing dishes of unique designs, and Mommsen, in his "Römische Geschichte," asserts that in those days a well wrought cooking machine came to cost more than an estate. Louis XV. took much delight in cooking and, according to Goussier, often amused himself by making "quintessential stews in silver pans." The palate of Louis XIV. was often tickled by "piping hot dishes brought in on a chafing dish."

Napoleon Bonaparte, when laying down the affairs of war and enjoying home life for a short period, cooked in a silver chafing dish an omelet for the enjoyment of the empress and himself. Mme. de Staël, the beautiful and intellectual society leader, used the chafing dish while Mme. de Stael, the greatest woman in literary history, when exiled from her beloved France took with her the chafing dish.

We of today are doing much to keep alive the true spirit of hospitality by bringing the chafing dish into popular use.—Woman's Home Companion.

PETRIFIED BODIES.

Their Organic Materials Are Replaced by Mineral Particles.

In answer to the query, "Do biologists or chemists know the process of petrification or the reason why a human body or a plant in some cases takes the course of petrification instead of decaying?" we would say:

The process is at first one of decay slowly and replacement particle by particle of the organic material by inorganic or mineral. Water holding siliceous minerals in saturated solution is necessary. The flesh or plant disorganizes, the carbon, oxygen, nitrogen, hydrogen compounds disintegrate and escape, and the minute portion is replaced by the mineral particle, the shape or form of the decaying body remaining intact.

Now, the carbon in the bodies does not change to siliceous minerals. It disappears in its combination with the other elements. No element changes into another; this would be mutation. Replacement is the word used here. Thus analyze a petrified man or plant—no organic matter can be found—only inorganic, and this weighs far more than did the animated body. The entire process of petrification is a mysterious work of nature.—New York American.

Practical Piety.

The goodly minister saw one of his parishioners running rapidly down the road, trying to keep in sight of a retreating form ahead.

"Ah," called the minister, "whither away, my brother?"

Seeing the race was lost anyway, the chaser stopped and pantingly replied: "That confounded thief stole my coat!"

"Ah, and you were following the Scriptural admonition to give him your cloak also, were you?"

"No," said the parishioner frankly, "but I intended, if I caught him, to give him a belt!"—Judge.

Pains in the Stomach

If you continually complain of pains in the stomach, your liver or your kidneys are out of order. Neglect may lead to dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes or Bright's disease. Thousands recommend Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. H. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. C., who suffered with pain in the stomach and back, writes: "My kidneys were deranged and my liver did not work right. I suffered much, but Electric Bitters was recommended and I improved from the first dose. I now feel like a new man." It will improve you, too. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. SELECTING A JURY.

Methods of the Prosecution in a Great Criminal Case.

In his book "Courts, Criminals and the Camorra" Arthur Train, once an assistant district attorney in New York, tells how juries are drawn for a great criminal trial. For a month before a trial, says Mr. Train, every member of the jury panel has been subjected to an unseen inquisitorial process. The district attorney knows a good deal about every prospective juror and perchance has difficulty in restraining a smile when he meets with deliberate equivocation in answer to an important question as to personal history:

"Are you acquainted with the accused or his family?" mildly inquires the assistant prosecutor.

"No, not at all," the talesman may blandly reply.

The answer perhaps is literally true, and yet the prosecutor may be pardoned for murmuring "Liar!" to himself as he sees that his memorandum concerning the juror's qualifications states that he belongs to the same "lodges" with the prisoner's uncle by marriage and carries an open account on his books with the defendant's father.

"I think we will excuse Mr. Ananias," politely remarks the prosecutor. Then in an undertone he turns to his chief and mutters: "The old rascal! He would have knifed us into a thousand pieces if we'd given him the chance!" And all this time the disgruntled Mr. Ananias is wondering why, if he didn't "know the defendant or his family," he was not accepted as a juror.

Many a Princess Anne Reader Will Be Interested

When people read about the cures made by a medicine endorsed from far away, it is surprising that they wonder if the statements are true? But when they read of cases right here at home, positive proof is within their reach, for close investigation is an easy matter. Read Princess Anne endorsement of Doan's Kidney Pills.

John B. Fleming, Main street, Princess Anne, Md., says: "You are at liberty to continue the use of the testimonial I gave in 1907, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills for the cure I received at that time has been permanent. I often tell my friends about this remedy. For a long time I was troubled by pain and weakness in my back, brought on by disordered kidneys. The kidney secretions were also in bad shape. I had often read about Doan's Kidney Pills and finally procured a box at Omar A. Jones' drug store. The results of their use were very satisfactory."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

It is necessary in politics that the workers should receive recognition in the form of office. The worker in politics performs a real public service. There are countless thousands of men who need prodding to take the walk to the polls to cast their ballot, and without active electioneering the number of stay-at-homes would be infinitely larger.

It is a healthy sign that there should be so many office-seekers, but there is no good reason for overturning the whole government service for their benefit. Where there is a choice between two men, both well equipped for office, it is proper to give the job to the man who works for his party.

The government, however, is expected to serve all the people, and inasmuch as the nonoffice-seekers are so greatly in the majority, their needs must be considered first. President Wilson has made it clear that he believes in giving an efficient administration of the government. He doesn't intend to turn out good public servants to oblige the politicians. If the office-seekers can serve the public intelligently, and can be placed without impairing the efficiency of the government service, they will get their chance. But the welfare of all the people, including the millions who are not seeking office, must receive first consideration.—Washington Post.

Why He Was Late

"What made you so late?"

"I met Smithson."

"Well, that is no reason why you should be an hour late getting home to supper."

"I know, but I asked him how he was feeling, and he insisted on telling me about his stomach trouble."

"Did you tell him to take Chamberlain's Tablets?"

"Sure, that is what he needs." Sold by all dealers.

BURNED BY COLD.

Liquid Air Will Produce a Worse Wound Than Intense Heat.

Whoever has applied a moistened finger to a piece of frosty metal in winter well remembers the painful experience thereby gained of the fact that cold as well as heat can blister the skin.

During some experiments in the production of excessively low temperatures Piclet, the French investigator, burned himself with cold several times, and the effects were so remarkable that he deemed them worthy of description to a body of scientific men.

It appears that there are two kinds or degrees of cold burn. In the case of the less severe "burns" the skin at first turns red, but becomes blue the next day. The inflamed spot swells, and a period varying from a month to six weeks elapses before the wound heals.

When the contact with the cold substance is longer and more complete a burn of the second degree is produced. A malignant and stubborn wound is formed, and the process of healing is very slow.

A drop of liquid air falling on Piclet's hand produced a cold burn which did not completely heal in six months, while a scorch from heat accidentally inflicted on the same hand and nearly at the same time was healed in ten or twelve days.—Harper's Weekly.

A DAINTY TABLE FEAT.

Victor Hugo's Wonderful Orange and Sugar Combination.

In "My Autobiography" Mme. Judith, the great French actress, tells a story of Victor Hugo.

At a dinner which Judith attended with Alexandre Dumas somebody quoted Alfred de Musset, and Hugo was led to express his opinion on his illustrious fellow author.

"Yes," he said, "he has immense talents. He even boasts that there are some who consider him as good a poet as I am."

Dumas jogged Judith's elbow, and it was all she could do to keep from laughing. "At the end of the meal," she relates, "Hugo treated us to a very strange exhibition. He put a whole orange, rind and all, into his mouth and then managed to thrust in many pieces of sugar as possible into his cheeks. This achieved, he began to crunch it all up with his lips tightly closed. In the midst of this operation he swallowed two liqueur glasses of kirsch and a few minutes later opened his mouth wide. It was empty! No one made any attempt to imitate him, possibly because no one else had teeth good enough for such a feat."

One Way to Cook a Snipe.

"American cooking," said a foreign chef who visited this country, "pleases me very much. Your southern dishes I particularly like. The French chef, whom we find in the large hotel all over the world, would do well to adopt some of your dishes. He would do well, for example, to substitute 'chicken Maryland style' for such a dish as poached ortolan brains."

"Poached ortolan brains—no exaggeration," he said, "are of the sort of dishes a certain type of French chef loves to serve. Such a chef—the gourmet's chef—cooks fish that are not cleaned and birds so rare they seem not to be cooked at all. Indeed, these fellows have an axiom that the way to cook a snipe is:

"Let it fly once through a hot kitchen."

English Literary Consuls.

If America is famous for its ambassadors who have been men of letters, England can boast of her literary consuls. G. P. R. James, probably the most prolific English novelist (except, perhaps, Miss Braddon), wrote three novels a year for about forty years and died in 1890 as consul general at Venice. Sir Richard Burton likewise wrote most of his travel books and translations of eastern works when consul in various parts of the world. At his last consulate at Trieste, which he held from 1872 to 1890, he succeeded Charles Lever, the Irish novelist, who had occupied the post for fifteen years, and it is a famous English literary consul in the present time. Exchange.

"I don't know, Mr. Interlocutor, would you call it?"

Its Machinery Develops With the Intellect That Directs It.

A human being is a kind of factory.

The engine and the works and all the various machines are kept in the basement, and he sends down orders to them from time to time, and they do the work which has been conceived of in headquarters. He expects the works down below to keep on doing these things without his taking any particular notice of them, while he occupies his mind, as the competent head of a factory should, with the things that are new and different and special and that his mind alone can do: the things which, at least in their present initial formative or creative stage, no machines as yet have been developed to do and which can only be worked out by the man up in the headquarters himself, personally, by the handwork of his own thought.

The more a human being develops the more delicate, sensitive, strong and efficient, the more spirit informed, once for all, the machines in the basement are. As he grows the various subconscious arrangements for discriminating, assimilating, classifying material, for pumping up power, light and heat to headquarters, all of which can be turned on at will, grow more masterful every year. They are found at slaying away for him, dimly, down in the dark while he sleeps. They hand him up in his very dreams new and strange powers to live and to know with.—Gerald Stanley Lee in Atlantic Magazine.

The Baltimore Star.

The Leading Evening Paper of the South.

The Baltimore Star, established August 17 1905, by the publisher of The Baltimore American, has won its place as the representative evening paper of the South. It gives more news and more reading matter than any other afternoon paper in Maryland. It is especially rich in departments—financial, sporting, society, children, women, and to these departments the best writers of America are regular contributors. The Star is the great home paper, with something for every member of the family. It is a cheerful newspaper, with plenty of entertainment, those who try it keep on taking it.

The Star is elaborately illustrated. It has the first photographs of important events. Its portraits of leading men and women are unequalled.

The Star has two great news services, with wires direct to its offices from all parts of the world. It uses every modern invention and the best enterprises to get all the news.

The Star is different from other Southern papers. It has a quality of its own. ONE CENT A COPY. One month, 25 cents; three months, 75 cents, one year, $8.

How to Get A Husband

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

"Marthy, my dear," said Mrs. Griggs, "you'd ought to get married. Your father is liable to be taken from you at any time, and he ain't got a red cent to leave you."

"It's very easy to say 'git married,'" Aunt Jane, "but how's a girl to git married unless some one axes her?"

"Management, my dear; management," said Mrs. Griggs, "I had to manage to git my husband, but I done it."

"How?"

"Well, I'll tell you, seein' it's you, though I never told any one before in my life. I wanted a husband, and I wanted John. I couldn't tell him I wanted him, so I told him the next best thing. He wasn't thinkin' o' gittin' married, so far as I knew. He was a hardworkin' young man, attendin' to his duties and tryin' to git his farm in good payin' condition."

"One spring mornin' I went by where he was plowin'." Mornin', Mr. Griggs, says I. "Mornin', Miss Haskell, says he. 'Beginnin' the season's work?' says I. 'Yes,' says he, 'I'm startin'.' I don't see," says I, "how you git on with your housekeepin' when you're at work on your farm. What d'ye do when you go in after a hard day's work and don't feel no supper ready?" I get the supper myself, says he."

"I see, Aunt Jane. Then you told him he needed a wife, and he asked you to marry him?"

"Laws-a-massy, child, you don't suppose I blunder like that? I didn't do nothin' of the kind. I just looked at him as though my heart was breakin' for sympathy for him. Then he said he'd been thinkin' that if he had a wife to do the inside work and the milkin' and the rest of the dairy work it would be easier on him. I told him I reckoned he'd have to go into the next county for one, since, so far as I knew, all the girls 'round 'avin' near by was spoken for. He looked kind o' sorrowful at that. He was leanin' on his plow handle and lookin' off over the field and didn't say nothin'."

"There's a widdler woman over to Berksville that might suit you," I said. "She's a little older 'n you and has a couple o' children, but mebbe you wouldn't want a widdler. He didn't say nothin' to this, only just looked on over the fields. The mornin' was kind o' springlike, and the country was lookin' fresh, but I knowed he wasn't takin' it in. He was thinkin' about the wife I'd put into his head."

"If you wouldn't want a widdler—and I reckon the children might bother you; they're always kickin' up a racket in a house—I know a young woman that might suit you over to Hilton roads. She ain't purty, havin' red 'n' freckles, besides bein' kind o' loose jointed, but she's mighty strong and kin do a heap o' work."

"Reckon," he said, kind o' mournful, "I'll have to take what I kin git."

"Oh, no, you won't," says I. "There's a nice girl that would be glad to git you; only you'd have to go somewhere else for 'em, seein' those about here are taken up."

"I ain't heerd o' your takin' up with no young man, Miss Haskell," says he.

"Oh, I, I don't count. None o' the young men would want me."

"Is that so?" he says, lookin' kind o' surprised.

"No," says I, "I'm not the kind of a girl most young men would fancy. I've noticed that men nat'ly take to a different kind of a girl from me. Besides, I'm needed at home. Dad couldn't get on without me."

"Seem," he says, "a widdler he might get a wife to supply your place."

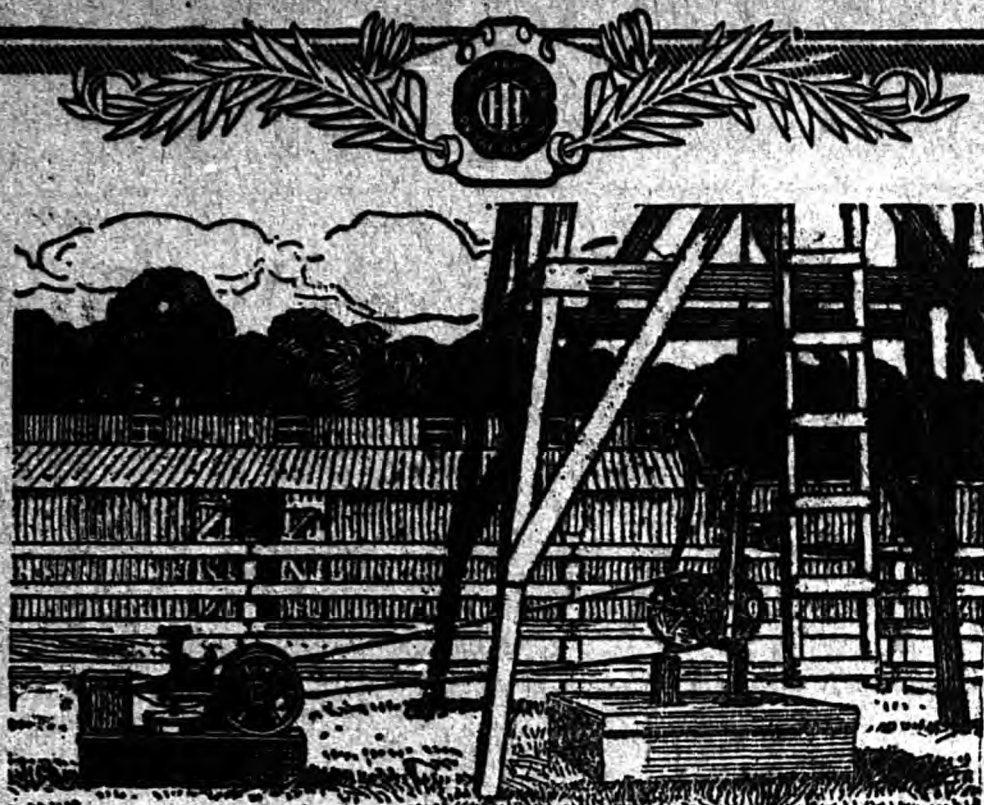

"Oh, dad, he couldn't get on with no one else except me. I've tuk care of his house ever since maw died and a long time before that, and any one else couln' in to do the work would jes' get him crazy. You see, dad can't bear a spot on a pillowcase or a sheet or a cabwow anywhere or dust accumulat' under the furniture. And he's awf'ly particular what he eats, bein' inclined to indigestion. I know jes' how to make the kind o' bread he likes and muffins and griddlecakes, and, as to cookin' his meat, I never dry it up like some persons, but always leave the juice in it. Then when it comes to apple or huckleberry pie, dad says I'm the only one can make 'em to suit him. Suit him, mind you. I don't say I could suit anybody else."

"Well, I could see that his mouth was waterin' for some o' them things I'd told him about, so I asks him how he'd like to come over for dinner the next Sunday and try some o' 'em. He said he'd like to mighty well."

"That's as far as I wanted to go right then. So I passed on with a 'Mornin', Mr. Griggs. We eat dinner half an hour after church is out Sunday. Goodby."

"There's no use tellin' you the rest o' this story, I made a beginnin' that would work shore, 'cause I attacked him through his stomach. Some girls would 'a' talked soft; some would 'a' cried. Cryin' is the best way to bring a down next to feedin' him well. I'd rather rely on the stomach than on sympathy myself, but each girl must decide for herself. Now you go and experiment on Ben Hathaway. I know you want him, and if no other girl has got ahead of you you can get him—if you work it right."

Marthy experimented on Mr. Hathaway with success. She didn't follow the advice exactly as it was given her, but near enough to produce the desired result. At any rate, she got him.

Put the Load Where It Belongs

If you are to make the most of your time and opportunities, you must have efficient tools to work with. You have enough hard, tiresome work without wasting your time and energy at wood-sawing, water-pumping, grindstone-turning and the like. Use an IHC engine to furnish power for such work. In less time, and with far less effort, the wood is sawed, the stock watered, the tools sharpened, all at one-tenth the expense of hand work. Put the load where it belongs. Buy and use an

IHC Oil and Gas Engine

It is the cheapest engine you can buy because it costs less per year of service than others. It is so powerful that it will carry a load ten per cent or more above its rated horse power. Perfect combustion makes it economical.

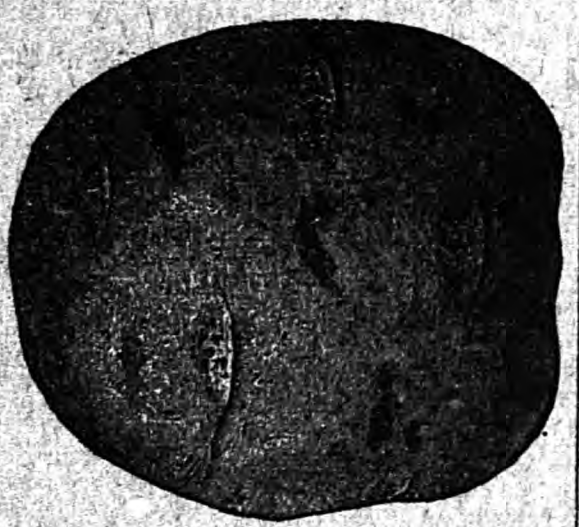

IHC oil and gas engines operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, kerosene, distillate, alcohol. Sizes are 1 to 50-horse power. They are built in every approved style; vertical, horizontal, portable, stationary, skidded, air-cooled, and water-cooled. Sawing, pumping, spraying outfits, etc. IHC oil tractors for plowing, threshing, etc., 12 to 60-horse power.

See this engine at the IHC local dealer's place of business and learn what it will do for you. Or write for catalogues.

Piano And Violin Good As a Hair Tonic

"If you are bald, learn the violin," is the moral to be drawn from a startling statement made by Henry de Parville, of Paris, France. According to this authority, music exercises a manifest action upon the nervous system, which itself also affects the nutrition of the bodily tissues; therefore, it seems reasonable to conclude that, in a general way, music has an influence upon the physiological individuality.

Musicians, it appears, are bald in the proportion of 11 per cent., but among instrumentalists the influence of musical vibrations makes itself felt in two opposite directions, according to the class of instrument.

Thus, while string instruments prevent and arrest the falling off of the hair, the brass instruments exercise the most deadly influence upon the scalp. The piano and the violin, especially the former, have an undeniably preservative effect. The trombone, however, is the most deleterious of all, for in five or six years the player has lost at least 60 per cent. of his hair.

This disagreeable result is known as "fanfare baldness," because the evil particularly punishes regimental musicians.

A Good Excuse.

"Now, then," demanded Lusehman's wife the next morning, "what's your excuse for coming home in that condition last night?"

"Well, to tell you the truth, m' dear," he replied, "none of the hotels would take me in." Philadelphia Press

Cheerfulness For Railroad Men

A good laugh is better than medicine. Learn how to tell a story. Learn how to keep your troubles to yourself. The world is too busy to care for your life and troubles. Learn to hide your pains and aches under pleasant smiles. Meet everyone with a smile; a good-humored man or woman always is welcome. Above all, give pleasure.

This excellent advice, issued by the management of a big Western railroad to its employees, will mean a decided change to the traveling public if it is followed. No people need it more than Americans, caught in the swing and rush that is characteristic of them.

And it may be added that no class of people need it more than railroad men. The average conductor or brakeman is not, as a rule, cheerful. His loquacity is usually confined to such formal expressions as "Ticket, please," and "Change at Smithtown." Only a bold passenger, under present conditions, will venture a jest with the powerful and often gloomy individual who can put him off at the next station.

In these days of change it is pleasant to know that even the despotic frigidity of the man with the ticket punch is not immutable. What a worthwhile world this will be when the noise of the rattling wheels and coughing engine of a passing train will be drowned by the roars of laughter from passengers diverted by the conductor's latest version of "Why does a chicken cross the road?" A delighted chuckle in the distance will mean the approach of the New York express and a fading chorus of hahas will mark its departure.

If the new rule is generally followed, the timid passenger need no longer fear to work off his best bon-mots on the man who comes around to see if he has sneaked on board without a ticket. He will know that the victim cannot avoid listening without violating the orders of the railroad.

Just think of the joy of having a railroad man at your mercy.—Baltimore News.

Absentminded La Fontaine.
La Fontaine, whose fables are the delight of adult Frenchmen and the children's earliest task, was very absentminded. He went to the court of Louis XVI. to present a copy of his fables to the king. And he forgot the book. Fortunately, the king knew La Fontaine, his fables and his follies and gave him a thousand pistoles (about $250). Unfortunately, though, La Fontaine left the money in his baggage carriage on his way back to Paris.

BEGINNING AT HOME.

Pertinent Question a Bright Boy Put to a Governor.

The late Governor Larrabee, the "grand old man" of Iowa, was extremely fond of children. One day while looking over his mill at Turkey River he found an urchin, dirty and ragged, sound asleep near the water-wheel. The boy was Mickey Burke, son of a poor family in the neighborhood.

The governor asked the boy why he was so dirty and ragged. The boy explained his mother had a large family and had to work hard and could get him no better clothes.

"But you can keep clean," exhorted Larrabee. "You could wash your face and hands if you wanted to. That costs nothing."

Mickey said he would try.

"Well," said the governor, "now is the time to begin."

He procured a washbasin, some soap and a towel and watched Mickey scrub himself until he shone. Then the governor got Mickey some clothes and dressed him neatly. Mickey looked fine.

"Now," said Larrabee, "we'll see about getting you a job."

He took Mickey to the store of an old German of whom the governor was very fond. Mr. Schneider had no place for Mickey.

"But you must have," expostulated Larrabee. "Just look at him and see what a nice boy he is. He is clean and neat. He is a good talker and would make a good clerk. There is no finer boy, Mr. Schneider, than Mickey here."

Schneider was obdurate. He had no place.

The governor and Mickey walked out of the store, much disappointed. As they reached the sidewalk Mickey turned to his benefactor and asked, "Mr. Larrabee, if I am such a darned fine boy as you say why don't you give me a job yourself?"—Saturday Evening Post.

CURIOUS ACACIA TREE.

It Gets Peevish and Ugly and Odorous When Disturbed.

In Idaho there exists a species of the acacia tree which is entitled to be classed as one of the wonders of plant life. When full grown it closes its leaves together in coils each day at sunset and curls its twigs to the shape of pigtails.

When the tree has thus settled itself for the night's sleep it is said that if touched it will flutter as if agitated or impatient at the disturbance. The oftener, it is averred, the foliage is molested the more violent will become the shaking of the branches. Finally, it is further alleged, if the shaking is continued the tree will at length emit a nauseating odor quite sufficient to induce a headache in the case of the person disturbing the tree.

In Idaho it is called the "angry tree," and it is said that it was discovered by men who on making camp for the night placed one end of a canvas covering over one of the sensitive bushes, using it for a support. Immediately the tree began to jerk its branches sharply. The motion continued with increasing "nervousness" until at last came a sickening odor that drove the tired campers to a more friendly location.—Harper's Weekly.

Quaker English.
Tokyo contains some queer specimens of English. One would scarcely be familiar with the name "Howjindu Maru" painted on the bow of a Japanese junk, and yet "Howjindu" is not a bad reproduction of "How do you do?" probably the only English phrase that the owner of the boat had ever heard. Having the courage of his ignorance, he treated it as a single word, combined it with a Japanese suffix applied to sailing vessels and gave it with pride to his honorable junk.

Another Japanese refers to himself as the "cheerful barber," a laundryman gives notice that he is a "high wash-man," and a sartorial artist describes himself as "the sublime tailor." A shop signboard bears the words "Nourishing Drugs."

An Apt Pupil.
A little boy was advised by his father to use illustrations in his conversation whenever they should occur to him.

"For," continued the parent, "there is no more forcible way of conveying or impressing your meaning."

Shortly after the boy was being lectured on generosity.

"It's better to give than to receive, Johnny—far better."

"Illustrate it, papa. I think I shall understand it better."—New York Journal.

Entertaining Him.

Shelter of Safety.

"I prefer this harness shop," said her husband. "You won't see so many things you want."—Pittsburgh Post.

Rev. Mr. Truitt has been returned to Cokesbury charge for another year much to the satisfaction of the Cokesbury congregation.

Mr. N. J. Gibbons left Monday for Baltimore to re-enter the hospital for another surgical operation. It is hoped by his many friends that he will soon be himself again.

Rev. Mr. Sexsmith preached at Quinton Sunday, which closed the present year. He reported everything paid in full there being over $2500 raised for all purposes at this church and Pocomoke City. Rev. Sexsmith while only on this work seven months has given entire satisfaction and it is hoped the Conference which is in session now at Lynchburg, Va., will see fit to return him to this place.

The dedication of the Church of the Brethren's new Edifice took place last Sunday at Green Hill. Rev. W. M. Wane, of Woodside, Delaware, preached in the morning. His text was Gen. 28 chapter, 16 and 17 verses. His subject was handled in a scholarly way and was listened to by a very attentive audience. After the sermon Rev. G. S. Rairigh, of Denton, Md., took charge and with his pleasing and winning ways soon had the amount of $208.45 subscribed toward liquidating the indebtedness. The edifice cost about $1500; of this amount only $400 remained to be raised and with the amount raised there will only remain a little over $100 on the indebtedness. Rev. Mr. Rairigh preached in the afternoon. The other visiting brethren were Rev. Christian Krabill, Bridgeville, Del., and Rev. S. Longenecker, Denton, Md. Rev. N. J. Miller, moderator of the church, had charge of the services.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. Jones druggist.

Death of Dr. Gunby

After an illness of only two days, Dr. Hiram H. Gunby died at his home on upper Main street, Crisfield, at 9 o'clock last Tuesday evening of pneumonia. The deceased was 81 years of age, and had apparently enjoyed the best of health until Sunday.

Gunby was a well known resident of Somerset county and had been prominently identified with the interests of the county for many years. He retired from active practice as a physician several years ago and since that time had made his residence at his home in Crisfield.

The deceased is survived by a widow and three sons: Edward Gunby and D. Kirk Gunby, of Tampa, Fla., and Albert B. Gunby, of Boston, Mass. Funeral services were held at his late home Thursday evening and interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Vernon Ashworth, of Crisfield, assisted by Rev. Martin of Rehoboth.

Public School Notes

The Spring Term of the public schools closes today. The school year will close on May 30th.

The first celebration of Peace Day by the teachers and pupils of the public schools will occur on Friday, May 6th. The latter part of the afternoon will be devoted to the program, outlines of which are mapped out in the Teachers' Year Book.

The disused school house and lot in Crisfield, known as the Broadway school, was sold last week to W. E. Gibson, of that town. This school property was vacated after the new high school building was erected.

Oyster Survey Has Begun

The first of the vast acreage of depleted oyster bottoms for which applications have been received by the Maryland and Shellfish Commission will be surveyed upon the arrival in Pocomoke Sound of the launch investigator. H. J. Collins, of Crisfield, appointed assistant to Swenson Earle, hydrographic engineer of the commission, left Baltimore Thursday aboard the launch for native town to begin a program of surveying and staking out oyster lots that will keep him and Mr. Earle busy until well into next fall.

Uncle Sam's Cash Balance

The Treasury Department began the month of April with $80,050,448 as a balance of the federal government. The surplus of receipts over disbursements for the current fiscal year, exclusive of Panama Canal and public debt transactions, has reached $2,621,140, as compared with a deficit of $9,931,951 on April 1, last year. The 7,455 national banks, with aggregate capital of $1,057,771,175, had $2,059,332 of bank notes in circulation.

THE AMENDMENT RATIFIED

Unless Governor Calls Extra Session Senatorial Campaign Must Stop Until 1914

Last Tuesday Connecticut ratified the Constitution amendment for direct election of United States Senators. This makes that reform effective. Thirty-six States, the necessary three-fourths have so ratified the plan, as follows: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Missouri, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

It will be several weeks before the adoption of the amendment is officially proclaimed through the State Department.

The passage of the amendment by Connecticut means that just as soon as the 36 States notify Secretary of State Bryan that they have ratified the measure Maryland will be without a Senatorial primary law.

Secretary Bryan expects to proclaim the passage of the amendment as soon as possible. This will probably be in the latter part of the summer.

Speaks To Dinners 427 Miles Away

Three hundred and fifty men, employees of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, sat with receivers to their ears in the banquet hall of the Odd Fellows' Temple, Saratoga and Cathedral streets, Baltimore, Wednesday night and heard Gov. Henry D. Hatfield, of West Virginia, speak to 427 miles. His voice was as distinct as though he were speaking in the same room. With the same clearness and distinctness Gov. William Hodges Mann, of Virginia, spoke from Richmond, a distance of 153 miles; and Governor Goldsborough spoke from the Lyric, Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, another of the prominent speakers, spoke from his home in Washington and wished the banquet success and prosperity.

The banquet was the annual one of the Telephone Society. Under each plate was a receiver and immediately after the last course had been served Dr. Bell, who was the first speaker, was introduced by J. R. Bohawn, president of the society and cashier of the telephone company. After the introduction of Dr. Bell the men applauded as though he were in their midst, and by means of a microphone, which is a delicate but sensitive instrument for transmitting sound, the applause was carried back over the wires and was heard by Dr. Bell and the other speakers.

$20,000 Damages Awarded

The Mayor and City Council, of Salisbury, adopted Tuesday night a resolution wherein they agreed to accept the verdict of a jury of condemnation recently made in the case of the Mayor and City Council vs. Levin A. Parsons for the purpose of opening Main street.

The jury in the case assessed the damages at $20,000 to Mr. Parsons. This is a record price for land on the peninsula, the jury estimating the land at about $300 a front foot. The report of the commissioners appointed by the Mayor to open the street allowed Mr. Parsons $16,000 damages, from which he appealed. The improvements contemplated by the City Council, it is understood, will give a fine site for the new Postoffice Building, beautify and increase the County Public Buildings and will greatly relieve the present congested business centre of the city.

Manager Davis Is Honored

At a meeting of the Maryland Hotel Men's Association, held last week at the Hotel Rennett, Baltimore, Edward Davis was elected president to succeed Robert S. Downs, formerly of the Stafford, who has gone to Washington to manage the Shoreham. Mr. Davis is the manager of the Hotel Rennett and is known to nearly every traveling man who goes to Baltimore. Mr. Davis has risen to his present position from the bottom of the ladder by hard and indefatigable work. For several seasons he successfully managed the Buena Vista Springs Hotel, in Pennsylvania, and at the same time was connected with the Rennett. When Manager O'Connor left the Rennett, several years ago, Mr. Davis succeeded him and has held the position of manager ever since.

Life is a game in which mighty few of us cash in our hopes.

M. P. Appointments Made

The fifty-fifth annual session of the Maryland Conference, Methodist Protestant Church, which had been in session at First Church, at Lynchburg, Va., adjourned early Tuesday afternoon to meet next year at Milford, Delaware. E. H. Jones, conference steward, made his financial report to the conference, as follows:

Knights To Travel In Style

Looking far ahead into the summer, Beauseant Commandery, Knights Templars, has already made plans for its special train to Denver, Col., to attend the thirty-second triennial convocation of the Grand Encampment August 12th. It will leave Baltimore August 8th. Nearly 200 persons will be provided for on this train, which is expected to be one of the best-equipped of its kind that ever went over the tracks of the Pennsylvania railroad.

THE NEW TARIFF BILL

Many Articles of Clothing And Food on Free List

The Sixty-third Congress met in extraordinary session last Tuesday in response to the call issued by President Wilson, and the Democratic party assumed full control of the government for the first time in nearly two decades. With the preliminaries out of the way the tariff revision bill was presented by Mr. Underwood, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

The bill removes the duty from many articles of food and clothing, makes sharp reductions in the rates on all necessities of life; an increase on many luxuries, and an income tax provision that would touch the pocket of every American citizen whose net income exceeds $4000.

Sugar would be free of duty in 1916, the bill proposing 25 per cent reduction now and the removal of the remaining duty three years hence.

Raw wool would be made free at once, with corresponding reductions on all-woolen goods.

The free list, one of the longest ever proposed to congress, follows: Meats, flour, bread, boots and shoes, lumber, coal, harness, saddlery, iron ore, milk and cream, potatoes, salt, twine, corn, cornmeal, cotton bagging, agricultural implements, leather, wood pulp, Bibles, printing paper not worth more than 2 1/2 cents per pound, typewriters, sewing machines, typesetting machines, cash registers, steel rails, fence wire, cotton ties, nails, hoop and band iron, fish, sulphur, soda, tanning materials, acetic and sulphuric acids, borax, lumber products, including broom handles, clappboards, hubs for wheels, posts, laths, pickets, staves, shingles.

The principal items taken from the present free list and taxed are: Diamonds and precious stones, furs, coal tar products, 10 per cent; volatile oils, 20 per cent; spices, from 1 cent to 2 cents per pound.

While wheat flour is put on the free list, a duty of 10 per cent is imposed against countries which levy a duty on American flour. This will exclude flour from Canada and many other countries.

Big Lumber Plant Burns

A loss of a quarter of a million dollars was caused Monday afternoon of last week when the plant of the Surrey Lumber Company, of Norfolk, Va., with about a million feet of lumber, was destroyed by fire. Two hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment. Fifty million feet of lumber on the yards and the plant of Greenleaf Johnson Lumber Company was also threatened, but the fire was checked in time. The wind was blowing at a high rate and burning shavings and sparks spread the fire within a radius of half a mile. Seven box cars, all laden with box shooks, were destroyed. Three dwelling houses in South Norfolk, half a mile away, caught from the sparks and were destroyed. Several acres of Johnson's woods were burned over.

Gen. Frances E. Waters, of Baltimore, and Senator John Walter Smith are heavily interested in the Surrey Lumber Company. Mr. Richard T. Waters, General Waters' son, has been in charge of the mill in Norfolk for several years. The Surrey Lumber Company has offices in the Union Trust Building, Baltimore.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Most Remarkable Scenes In Capitol Since Days Of The Civil War

President Woodrow Wilson invaded, addressed and captured the joint session of Congress shortly after 1 o'clock last Tuesday afternoon.

The oral delivery of the President's message constituted the most remarkable scene in the Capitol since Civil War days. He came, he spoke, he conquered, and those who had advised against such a proceeding were free to admit that such advice was blundering. The following is his message in full: To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have called the Congress together in extraordinary session because a duty was laid upon the party now in power at the recent elections which it ought to perform promptly in order that the burden carried by the people under existing law may be lightened as soon as possible and in order, also, that the business interests of the country may not be kept too long in suspense as to what the fiscal changes are to be to which they will be required to adjust themselves.

It is clear that the whole country expects the tariff duties to be altered. They must be changed to meet the radical alterations in the conditions of our economic life which the country has witnessed within the last generation.

While the whole face and method of our industrial and commercial life were being changed beyond recognition the tariff schedules have remained what they were before the change began, or have moved in the direction they were given when no large circumstance of our industrial development was what it is today. Our task is to square them with the actual facts. The sooner that is done the sooner we shall escape from suffering from the facts and the sooner our men of business will be free to thrive by the law of nature (the nature of free business) instead of by the law of legislation and artificial arrangement.

We have seen tariff legislation wander very far afield in our day—very far indeed from the field in which our prosperity might have had a normal growth and stimulation. No one who looks the facts squarely in the face or knows anything that lies beneath the surface of action can fail to perceive the principles upon which recent tariff legislation has been based. We long ago passed beyond the modest notion of "protecting" the industries of the country and moved boldly forward to the idea that they were entitled to the direct patronage of the Government.

For a long time—a time so long that the men now active in public policy hardly remember the conditions that preceded it—we have sought in our tariff schedules to give each group of manufacturers or producers what they themselves thought that they needed in order to maintain a practically exclusive market as against the rest of the world. Consciously or unconsciously, we have built up a set of privileges and exemptions from competition behind which it was easy by any, even the crudest, forms of combination to organize monopoly; until at last nothing is normal, nothing is obliged to stand the tests of efficiency and economy, in our world of big business, but everything thrives by concerted arrangement.

Only new principles of action will save us from a final hard crystallization of monopoly and a complete loss of the influences that quicken enterprise and keep independent energy alive.

It is plain what those principles must be. We must abolish everything that bears even the semblance of privilege or of any kind of artificial advantage, and put our business men and producers under the stimulation of a constant necessity to be efficient, economical and enterprising, masters of competitive supremacy, better workers and merchants than any in the world.

Aside from the duties laid upon articles which we do not, and probably cannot, produce, therefore, and the duties laid upon luxuries and merely for the sake of the revenues they yield, the object of the tariff duties henceforth laid must be effective competition, the whetting of American wits by contest with the wits of the rest of the world.

It would be unwise to move toward this end headlong, with reckless haste or with strokes that cut at the very roots of what has grown up amongst us by long process and at our own invitation. It does not alter a thing to upset it and break it and deprive it of a chance to change. It destroys it.

We must make changes in our fiscal laws, in our fiscal system, whose object is development, a more free and wholesome development, not revolution or upset or confusion. We must build up trade, especially foreign trade.

We need the outlet and the enlarged field of energy more than we ever did before. We must build up industry as well, and must adopt freedom in the place of artificial stimulation only so far as it will build, not pull down.

In dealing with the tariff the method by which this may be done will be a matter of judgment, exercised item by item. To some not accustomed to the excitement and responsibilities of greater freedom our methods may in some respects and at some points seem heroic, but remedies may be heroic and yet be remedies. It is our business to make sure that they are genuine remedies. Our object is clear. If our motive is above just challenge and only an occasional error of judgment is rank and file.

SAVING FRUIT FROM FROST

Coldest April Nights in Recent Years Catches Fruit Well Advanced

The Delaware State News, of Dover, last Thursday published the following: Everybody is "in the air" over the big peninsula fruit crop for 1913. So are the frosts, almost nightly, through the worst April cold snap experienced for years.

The general belief is that, where no orchard fires or "smudges" could be burned, particularly Sunday and Monday midnights, peaches are ruined—the early varieties at least.

Apples seem to have fared better than all other tree fruits and nearly all agree that they are but slightly hurt.

The half million baskets of peaches that were expected this year from the peninsula, to bring in $500,000, are very probably gone up in frost.

Dr. W. S. Maxwell of Still Pond, Md., says the fruit prospects are still fine in Kent County, Maryland.

A carload of oil for the 2,200 orchard stoves used on the Chandler farm, a short distance from Milton, has arrived, and is used, the weather having become cold enough to damage the peach orchard, which is said to be the most extensive in Sussex county.

There was great apprehension thru the early part of this week over the fate of peaches and other tree fruit, but particularly the former thruout the Peninsula. The fruit had become well advanced when the bitter cold of Sunday and Monday swept thru the orchards. Sunday night's temperature got down just about to the freezing point and it is now believed that many peaches, a very large part of the crop, will drop off as a result.

Monday night was particularly threatening to apples, and while it injured that crop somewhat, it is believed the apple crop generally, tho too well advanced to start many freezes, weathered the storm and is safe.

The effect on other tree fruits and smaller fruit cannot yet be estimated, but it is thought to be slight.

President Gilbert J. Meredith of the Produce Exchange is very hopeful that the damage all around was not serious, but other fruit growers do not share in his optimism, and some declare much fruit will drop off.

Pythians End Convention

Following the appointment of several new officers and the ceremonies attending the installation of the newly elected officers, the forty-fifth annual convention of the Grand Lodge of the State Knights of Pythias was brought to a close at noon Thursday after a two-days session. The newly appointed officers in Baltimore were Dr. George W. Loewe, grand master of arms; John F. Pearce, grand inner guard; John F. Brown, grand outer guard; George R. Johnson, grand instructor, and grand tribunals, Richard Lewis Lee and Benjamin H. McKinness. Before closing, the following nominations were made:

Grand chancellor, Charles P. Rich, Centerville; grand vice-chancellor, Geo. A. Deaver, Baltimore; grand prelates, Harry W. Nice and J. S. Webster; grand keeper of records and seals, James M. Hendrix, and grand master of exchequer, Louis Rice.

It was decided to hold the next annual convention in Baltimore city next April.

To Hold Convention in Baltimore

There was great applause at the annual banquet of the Canned Goods Exchange Tuesday night in the Hotel Rennett, Baltimore, when former Gov. Bert M. Fernald, of Maine, president of the National Canners' Association, announced that the next annual meeting of the organization would be held in Baltimore. The convention will take place in February, 1914, and will be held at the Fifth Regiment Armory. The convention will draw to that city about 5,000 representative business men from all parts of the country.

chargeable against us, we shall be fortunate.

We are called upon to render the country a great service in more matters than one. Our responsibility should be met and our methods should be thorough, as thorough as moderate and well considered, based upon the facts as they are, and not worked out as if we were beginners. We are to deal with the facts of our own day, with the facts of no other, and to make laws which square with those facts. It is best, indeed it is necessary, to begin with the tariff.

I will urge nothing upon you now at the opening of your session which can obscure that first object or divert our energies from that clearly defined duty. At a later time I may take the liberty of calling your attention to reforms which should press close upon the heels of the tariff changes, if not accompany them, of which the chief is the reform of our banking and currency laws; but just now I refrain.

For the present I put these matters on one side and think only of this one thing—the changes in our fiscal system which may best serve to open once more the free channels of prosperity to a great people whom we would serve to the utmost and throughout both rank and file.

The Dead Hand

We reprobate entail in real estate, and we limit the period during which a man may control his property after death. But within those limits we permit a man to fetter the uses to be made of his property after it ceases to be his in almost any way his whims or his animosities may suggest, and if there is a streak of vice or of insanity in a man it generally crops out in his will. He may be reluctant to show what sort of a man he is while he is among men, but he is apt to leave documentary evidence of it behind him.

It is a common thing for a man to leave his fortune to his wife with the stipulation that she shall forfeit it if she marry again. Why should a man seek to keep his widow a widow permanently? She might mourn his death more sincerely if she married again. A man who has only two or three thousand dollars to bequeath, and was approaching three-score and ten, got a young lawyer to draw his will. He stipulated that the property should be his widow's only while she remained unmarried. The lawyer suggested that that was not a kind thing to do, and as the wife was then over 60 there seemed to be no occasion for it. The testator fixed his eye meaningly upon the young barrister and replied: "There's no telling what you young fellows will do for money."

In Massachusetts a millionaire left his property in trust, the income to be paid to his daughter until she married and had children. Then all the estate would pass to her; failing children, it would on her death be divided among charitable institutions. Why should he not make his own division between his daughter and the charitable institutions and leave the girl free from all pecuniary temptations to marry, or not, as her inclinations may prompt her?

There is a man in Brooklyn now trying to convince the Probate Court that he has been married, and therefore is the heir of his father's estate, which was not to pass to him while he was a bachelor. According to his own story he married a woman 75 years old who died a few months later. And that is all the father secured by his testamentary stipulation. —Philadelphia Record.

The Exports of 1912

The general totals of our exports last year were published soon after December 31, but the details have only recently become available, and they are of the most interesting character. The expansion of our foreign trade is a continual astonishment and the increasing ratio which manufactured goods bear to the total is the most gratifying evidence of the success of our manufacturers.

The total exports show an increase of more than half a billion dollars in two years, and very nearly half of the total consisted of more or less manufactured goods, about two-thirds ready to pass into consumption and the rest to be subjected to further processes of manufacture. Our exports of textiles are relatively small. We are still learning the manufacture of silk. The manufacture of wood is impeded by the cost of the raw material due to the heavy duty imposed upon it. But the export of cotton cloth exceeded $30,000,000, an increase of 50 per cent, in two years. Nearly all of this went to countries on this continent and to Asia. Yet we sent more than half a million dollars' worth to the United Kingdom. Boots and shoe exports exceeded $17,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 in two years, and of the total about $4,500,000 went to Europe. Of printed matter, not including print paper, we exported $10,000,000 worth, and more than $1,600,000 worth of this went to the United Kingdom. Of furniture we exported nearly $7,000,000 worth, and more than $1,000,000 worth of it went to Europe.

Our exports of coal and many other articles are rapidly increasing, but it is in machinery and in products of iron and steel that our exports are most imposing. The total exports of iron and steel almost touched $290,000,000, an increase of $95,000,000 in two years. Of machinery alone the exports were $120,000,000, an increase of nearly 50 per cent in two years. The locomotives sent abroad were 503. The steel rails exported were worth $13,000,000, an increase of nearly one-third in two years. A new line of exports is automobiles, of which we sent abroad last year nearly $24,000,000 worth, an increase in two years of well over 100 per cent. Half a million dollars' worth went to France, the home of the auto mobile, and $3,500,000 to the United Kingdom.

Exports of agricultural implements and machinery have been rising fast for many years. The total last year was more than $41,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 in two years. Half of this increase is due to exports to European Russia. France and Germany took over $5,000,000 worth, and the United Kingdom took one and a third millions' worth.

In eight years our exports to Europe have increased from a billion to almost a billion and a half dollars; to North America from less than a quarter of a billion to a good deal more than half a billion; to South America from $53,000,000 to $138,000,000; and there are large increases to Asia, Oceania and Africa. —Philadelphia Record.

Valuable Animal Cargo

"Noah's Ark second" arrived in New York last Wednesday, with practically every known variety of animal, fish, fowl and reptile. The ark sailed from Hamburg under the name of President Grant.

The President Grant's cargo was collected from Europe, Asia and Africa and consigned there for distribution among various zoos and circuses of the country.

The most prized of all the animals was a schobbejka, a sacred cat from Java, which was guarded by two men. The cat is reputed to be worth a fabulous sum and is the first ever sent to America. It was consigned to Atlanta, Ga. Its guardians would allow no one to approach within ten feet of the cage when it was unloaded.

There were also two curi cats, consigned to Dr. Friederich Franz Friedmann, the Berlin physician, now demonstrating his turtle serum treatment for tuberculosis. No one knew what Dr. Friedmann wants the cats for.

A Mother's Devotion

Mother's love is a love that passes understanding and it exhibits itself in all animate creation. The mother hen would fight an elephant in defense of her young, and a mother always exhibits wonderful consideration for her offspring. That is why a mother is thoughtful for the health of her child and the Mother is the one who sees to it that a bottle of Gowans, King of Externals is always in the home, because Gowans scatters inflammation. Croup is inflammation, Gowans, just rubbed on; scatters colds and croups, and often prevents pneumonia. All druggists sell Gowans and guarantee it. No dangerous drugs. It absorbs and is the thing for the infant. Buy today. adv.

First Timber Sale in Eastern National Forests

The United States has made its first timber sale on the newly purchased Appalachian Forests, and the voucher that established the fact has been an object of interest in the hands of the officials of the Department of Agriculture who have had occasion to handle it.

The voucher itself does not show what the character of the sale was, but inquiry has drawn forth the information that the material disposed of was $7 worth of logs, bought by a Georgia farmer to use in building a barn. This apparently insignificant transaction is regarded as a foretaste of the future when the Government will be taking in a tidy revenue from the forest lands which it is now buying in the East.

These lands are being bought primarily to protect navigation. Congress held, in providing for their purchase, that the Constitution prohibits the Government from buying lands for these eastern forests except at the headwaters of navigable rivers, and for the purpose of regulating streamflow and preventing the silting up of the channels of commerce. Yet the production of time will also be made one of the objects of applied forestry as the Government will practice it on these areas. The latest purchase, made last February, was of 75,000 acres in North and South Carolina and Georgia, on the headwaters of the Savannah River, and brought up the total which has been bought to 400,000 acres. Of this 320,000 acres are in the Southern Appalachians, and 80,000 in the White Mountains.

Not all of the land is well timbered now, for the Government in many cases can not afford to pay the value of land and heavy timber together. Consequently most of the land acquired has been culled or cut over or else is sold to the Government with the reservation by the owner of the right to cut and remove the timber under methods prescribed by the Forest Service. Nevertheless, sales of material will doubtless be made from time to time, and will increase in number and value as improved forests grow on these areas, under the stimulus of proper forest management and protection from fire.

A Wrong Decision

By ARTHUR W. BREWSTER

My uncle, Nathan Travers, was a rich man without children of his own, and I was to be his heir. He was a man who never forgave an injury. If any one tried to get an unwarranted advantage of him he would beat him, if possible, and in any event would never forgive him. He lived in a suburban town alone except for the servants, received no company and never went out socially. I went to see him at least once a week, often remaining all night.

One morning, after having dined with him the evening before and remained all night, intending to take an early train to the city, I went into his room to bid him goodby and was shocked to find him dead in his bed. He had been stabbed to the heart. I was about to call the servants when it occurred to me that, being my uncle's heir, I was in a position to be suspected of his murder.

Would it be better for me to be before the world the discoverer of my uncle's having been killed or to leave the house, pretending not to know anything about it? I had been asked the night before by a maid if I would have breakfast prepared for me and had said that I would breakfast in the city.

If I went out, as was to be expected, the servants would discover and announce the murder. I gave but a few seconds to deliberate whether I should leave the house thus or announce the murder, then decided on the former course.

On my way to the city I was much agitated and fearful that I had decided wrong. It turned out that I had. A maid had arisen and was descending from the story above when I was leaving my uncle's room. She saw me and later, when she went to awaken her master and found him dead, remembered having seen me leaving his chamber. The result was that when I was told of the tragedy and looked surprised and shocked I was at once arrested and brought to trial.

The explanation I have given here was without any effect on the jury. My attorney only relied on it so far as it could be corroborated by other evidence. He introduced the statements of those who knew my uncle and who swore that he was a man having many enemies. During his long life several persons had said to him, "You shall pay for this," or "I'll have your heart's blood," or "Just you wait." My defender took the ground that some one of these persons had done the deed. But my unwise action on discovering my uncle's dead body had fixed his death irrevocably on me unless the real murderer could be discovered.

I was convicted. My lawyer resorted to the usual methods to secure delay, and my execution was put off from time to time. Finally, all these subtleties having failed, a day was set for my death.

Books and newspapers were allowed me, but I could read only the latter. One day I was trying to keep my mind off my horror by reading a morning journal when I saw that a burglar had been committed and the robber had been arrested with the plunder on him.

His portrait was in the rogues' gallery and identified him as Peter Ritterhof, with several aliases. He had but recently left state prison, having been sent there for a robbery committed five years before.

Ritterhof! Where had I heard that name? Some Ritterhof had crossed my path at some time, but I could not remember when, the circumstances or the person. The memory does not always act instantly. There are cases wherein it requires time. Presently I recalled that the name was connected with a scene in court. Then the fact came to me that my uncle had once sent a workman to the penitentiary who had been engaged in his house and whom he accused of purloining certain valuables. Lastly, Ritterhof and this workman became identical in my mind.

I sent for my attorney at once and told him what I have given here. Not wishing to excite in me a hope that might be dashed, he went away, simply saying that he would make a thorough investigation. In time he returned, saying that he had examined the records and found that this Peter Ritterhof had been "sent up" exactly ten years and ten days before the date of the murder for stealing articles from my uncle's house.

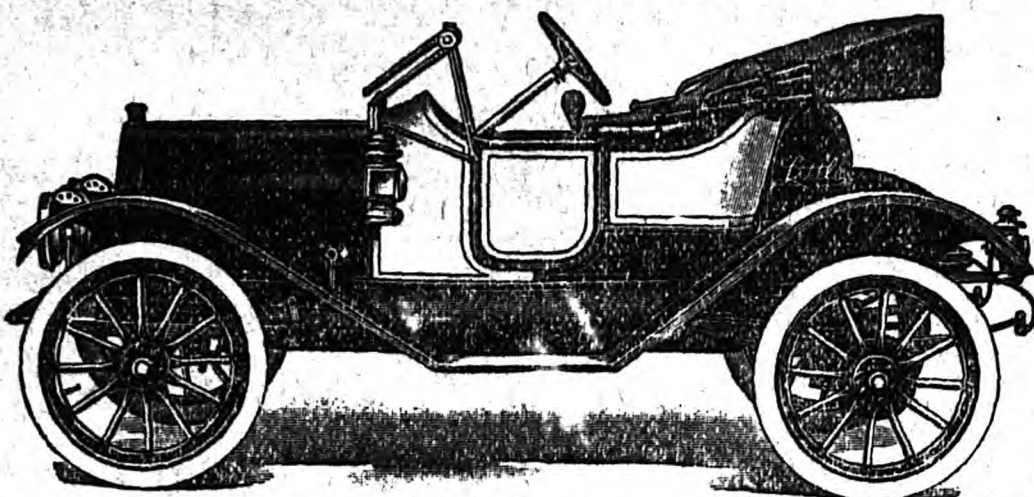

So affected was I by the announcement, which I considered tantamount to a reprieve, that I toppled over. When I came to myself again my attorney impressed upon me the importance of fixing the murder upon this man and told me he proposed to do it by the process called third degree.

I had another temporary breakdown when he came to my cell the next day and announced that he had secured the desired confession. He acquired it by assuring Ritterhof that he had three witnesses ready to swear that he had said he would kill the man who caused his imprisonment and had evidence of his having been seen leaving my uncle's house during the night of the murder.

Within a few days I walked out of jail into a fortune. But I never entirely recovered from the narrow escape I had had and never hear of the conviction of any one for a first crime without thinking he may be innocent.

CHARGED THE ENEMY.

It Wasn't Because He Was Brave and Defied Death, Though.

General Basil Duke of Louisville, commander of Morgan's cavalry following the death of his brother-in-law, General John Morgan, told this story at a reunion of the survivors of the battle of Shiloh.

He said that during one of the Tennessee campaigns Morgan's men surprised and drove back a regiment of Federal troopers. In the midst of the retreat one of the enemy, who was mounted upon a big bay horse, suddenly turned and charged the victorious Confederates full tilt, waving his arm and shrieking like mad as he bore down upon them alone. Respecting such marvelous courage, the Confederates forbore shooting the approaching foe, but when he was right upon them they saw there was a different reason for his foolhardiness.

He was a green recruit. His horse had run away with him. The bit had broken, and, white as a sheet and scared stiff, the luckless youth was being propelled straight at the whooping Kentuckians, begging for mercy as he came.

Jeff Sterritt, a noted wit of the command, stopped the horse and made a willing prisoner of the rider. Sterritt, who had not washed or shaved for days and was a ferocious looking person, pulled out a big pistol. "I don't know whether to kill you right now," he said, "or wait until the fight is over."

"Mister," begged the quivering captive, "don't do it at all. I'm a dissipated character, and I ain't prepared to die."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

REAL ROOF GARDENS.

The Kind They Plant on Log Cabins in Rural Norway.

The log cabins of rural Norway are built of heavy pine logs hewed square and of equal size from end to end. They are usually stained or oiled, and their rich yellowish or brownish color is in harmony with almost any surroundings. Their roofs are sodded, a circumstance that adds picturesqueness to the general effect.

"I have come across roofs that were a riot of wild pansies," says a writer in the Craftsman, "and I have seen wonderful roofs where wild roses hung over the eaves or a daisy roof, the effect of whose white, starlike flowers, topping the dark brown structure, was exquisitely picturesque."

"Some roofs produce only pasture grass, and the story runs in Norwegian folklore that a lazy man led his cow on the roof—the cabin was built against a hill—instead of taking her to the pasture. I have no doubt that the story is true, for I have often seen a couple of white kidlets gamboling on the soft green bonnets while the mother goat, grave and ruminative, was tethered to the cliff."

"Sod roofs are just as water tight as others if they are laid correctly. A board roof is first laid upon a house, and this is covered with a layer of birch bark. On top of this comes a layer of sod with the grass turned down to the roof, then a rather thick layer of earth and finally another layer of sod, this time with the grass up. The result is a most exquisite and poetical covering for the house."

Work of the Doctor.

Dr. Stephen Paget has some interesting observations on the doctor and his rewards in his "Confessio Medici." "If medicine is a trade why should the doctor so often work for nothing?" he asks. "If it is an art what works of art does he produce? None, says Claude Bernard. 'Le medecin artiste ne cree rien.' But surely he is wrong. The doctor, so far from creating nothing, creates life, for he saves or prolongs life, creates more life. If Miss X is seventy, and the doctor by an operation enables her to live till she is seventy-five he has not prolonged the seventy years, for they were ended before he came, but he has created five brand new years. If he had not been there they would not be here. That is creation."—London Chronicle.

Velocity of Light.

The velocity of light as determined by Simon Newcomb is 299,860 kilometers, or 186,327 miles, per second reduced to a vacuum or space specific speed. Time required for light to come here from moon, 1.3 seconds; from sun, 8 minutes 19 seconds; from near star, 4.35 years; from Sirius, 5 years; from Arcturus, not less than 40 years, and from others vastly more remote, from 1,000 to 5,000 years.

Schoolroom Humor.

The following schoolboy "bowlers" come from New Zealand: "Gross darkness is 144 times darker than ordinary darkness." "Marconi is the stuff you use to make delicious puddings." "Charon was a man who fried soles over the sticks."

THE PRESIDENT'S MAIL.

How the Great Mass of Correspondence is Handled Daily.

The president's mail is of such proportions that he cannot, like the business man, read all his letters as a part of the morning's routine. By a carefully developed system, however, the contents of the White House mail are in substance laid before him each day.

The work of doing this falls upon a corps of confidential clerks, who open the letters and give them a first reading. Then they are carefully sorted. Many of them, of course, need not go to the president at all, since they are simply recommendations for office. These, after courteous acknowledgment, are referred to the proper departments and placed on file until they may be taken up for consideration.

Many of the president's letters are purely formal or contain requests for something which cannot be granted. These the clerks answer and the president's secretary signs. The requests for charity are so many that a special "form" has been drawn up for answering them.

Such communications as the president ought to see are carefully briefed—that is, a slip is pinned at the top of each letter, and on this is a typewritten synopsis of its contents, telling the writer is and what he has to present. Frequently the president is sufficiently interested by the brief to cause him to read the whole letter. Sometimes the communication is referred to a cabinet officer, in which case the slip is retained at the White House and filed.

When a large number of persons write on the same subject the letters are bunched and the brief at the top gives the names of those who present one argument and in another list the persons who offer a different view.—New York Press.

VARIETY OF THE BIBLE.

Vivid Descriptions, History and Stories of Adventure.

One of the striking things about the Bible as a single piece of literature is the variety of its literary forms, sufficient, indeed, to appeal to the most widely different tastes. There are excellent examples of the short story all through the historical books, such as the absorbingly interesting account of Joseph sold into slavery and afterward elevated to a position next to Pharaoh himself and the intensely realistic story of Paul's shipwreck, which, were it not too well written, might be an extract from some book of adventure.

The books of which many of these short stories form a part constitute a body of most intimate and fascinating tribal and national history. Wedged in between two of the historical books we find the story of Ruth, a "prose idyll," as delightful as any of which profane literature can boast. The Book of Esther, though not in form a drama, has a plot of dramatic power, in which Haman, who is raised to triumphant satisfaction at the thought of hanging Mordecai upon the gallows, becomes himself the victim of his own vengeance.

At the end stands that wonderful Apocalypse, which is at once an inspiration and a mystery, full of beauty and rich cadences. Interspersed among all the narratives are delightfully suggestive descriptions, sometimes presenting to us the simple life of the shepherd, again the luxurious surroundings of Alasurus' court. It is not strange, therefore, that the Bible makes a strong intellectual appeal to lovers of literature and to men of untrained tastes.—Edgar F. Shannon in Sewanee Review.

Lameness

Sloan's Liniment is a quick and reliable remedy for lameness in horses and other farm animals.

"Sloan's Liniment surpasses anything on earth for lameness in horses and other horse ailments. I would not sleep without it in my stable."—MARTIN DOYLE, 432 West 19th St., New York City.

Good for Swelling and Abscess. Mr. H. M. Gibbs, of Lawrence, Kan., R. F. D. No. 3, writes: "I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one 50c. bottle of Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it all the time for galls and small swellings and for everything about the stock."

is a quick and safe remedy for hog cholera.

Governor of Georgia uses Sloan's Liniment for Hog Cholera. "I heard Gov. Brown (who is quite a farmer) say that he had never lost a hog from cholera and that his remedy always was a tablespoonful of Sloan's Liniment in a gallon of slops, decreasing the dose as the animal improved. Last month Gov. Brown and myself were at the Agricultural College building and in the discussion of the ravages of the disease, Gov. Brown gave the remedy named as 'unfailing.'"—OBSERVER.

Stimulation vs. Hypnotism

President Wilson is proving himself to be a man of resource and an effective worker. He realizes why he was sent to Washington and he is buckling down to the task assigned him in the most straightforward way. It is true that he has been criticised for overriding precedents but to him this is of but little consequence. His plan is to be democratic and to avoid as far as possible anything that will prevent him from being in close touch with his co-workers or that will tend to delay the accomplishment of his party's wishes. He believes in going straight to the point and to do so he believes in laying aside formality as far as possible.

In his message to Congress, which he delivered in person, he boiled down to a comparatively few words what he had to say and he is now following it up with diligent work to see that the people of the United States shall have the relief for which they have asked. It is true that it is just as unusual for a President to go to the capital and hold conferences with senators as it is for that official to say in person what for a hundred years has been delivered in writing. President Wilson is simply President Wilson and that is all there is of it. He has his own way of doing things and he is going to do them, precedent to the contrary notwithstanding.

What is on the President's mind at this time is that the tariff shall be revised downward and in the interest of the many and not of the few; and this is going to be done or he expects to know the reason why. Hence his activity. The people expect it and so far as the President is concerned it will be accomplished. The Baltimore American suggests hypnotism as a part of President Wilson's make-up and thinks that he will need to exercise it before his task is completed. Call it hypnotism or what not, the suggestion is a plain admission of the wonderful personality of the President. It is but another way of saying that what he thinks ought to be done and what it is his duty to do, he is going to do.

The same newspaper also contains a long editorial upon the prospective income tax and arguments to show its impropriety. The American is a Republican newspaper and it is no wonder that it is shocked. If an income tax is required to offset the losses to Federal revenues by a lowered tariff, the blame should be placed, where it belongs, upon the Republican party which so long catered to private business interests and built up such heavy governmental expenses. A Democratic Congress will hardly need hypnotic influence to keep straight upon this any more than upon the tariff itself. Stimulation is better than hypnotism.

It is rather refreshing than otherwise to have a President who finds pleasure in accomplishing his official duties by dealing as a plain man with plain men as representatives of a plain republic, and who is none the less blind to his responsibility by reason of the plain methods used in discharging it.

"Don'ts For Girls"

Recently there was issued under the apparent authority of women connected with Young Women's Christian Associations and other philanthropic societies a list of "Don'ts for Girls" away from home, and especially when traveling, which cautioned unscrupulous girls against so many apparently harmless acts, some of which seemed demanded by charity, that they excited some ridicule and a good deal of serious criticism. In reply to these women who are planning the systematic protection of young women who may attend the Panama Canal Exposition have made certain explanations and justifications.

The reason for holding this committee meeting and planning the safeguarding of women in connection with the next great exposition is said to be that 700 young women disappeared from the world, so far as all knowledge of their friends goes, during the Chicago World's Fair. Women who are deeply concerned over the welfare of the younger members of their sex are determined that no such record as that shall blot the history of the next exposition.

In regard to the criticised list of "Don'ts for Girls" it is explained that it is not an American list. It was not formally adopted and given out by the committee of women who are planning the safety of girls at all times, but with special reference to San Francisco. This list was prepared by several societies in London. In some parts of this country similar warnings, but briefer, simpler, and without some of the cautions in the English list which have aroused criticism, have been circulated for the information of girls traveling alone or obliged to live away from home.

Possibly these warnings go further than is necessary, but the danger is great and insidious. Wherever girls and young women are unattended, especially when traveling and when going into strange places in search of employment, there are men, and often women—and occasionally religious garb has been assumed as a disguise—who are seeking their ruin. If possible they get into conversation with them; they give them the addresses of what are supposed to be respectable boarding houses, but which are very different; they offer them drugged candy; they are diabolically ingenious in arts of deceiving the girls and compromising them.

Possibly some cautions are excessive, but no girl, no young woman, can be too much on her guard against these emissaries of evil, these recruiting sergeants for the underworld. In all our stations the Travelers' Protective Association keeps agents for the help of young women traveling alone or coming to this city without acquaintances. But the evil trade is plied occasionally on the cars, and while sometimes a cab man has recognized an address given him as a place to which his fare ought not to be taken and has driven her instead to the Young Woman's Christian Association, it has happened more than once that a cab driver has taken a woman passenger to a disreputable house instead of to the address given him. The arts of getting hold of girls in places of amusement and going to and from their work are so multifarious and so ingenious that young women cannot be too careful among strangers.—Philadelphia Record.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle.

STATE OF MARYLAND

Office of the State Insurance Department

Baltimore, February 5, 1913.

I hereby certify, that the above is a true abstract taken from the Annual Statement of the Hartford Fire Insurance Company, of Hartford, Conn., for the year ending December 31, 1912, now on file in this Department.

Oystermen are Requested to Take Advantage of the

Leasing Law

The Board of Shell Fish Commissioners desires to see as many as possible of the practical oystermen of the State take advantage of the leasing law. At the present time leases written or applications filed cover 27,000 acres of the land open to lease. It will probably not be long till, in many localities, all the most desirable bottoms open to lease will be taken. This notice is inserted in order that the practical oystermen may have every opportunity to secure good territory.

Full information can be secured by writing to the Board of Shell Fish Commissioners, National Marine Bank Building, Baltimore City, or whenever a number of oystermen in one locality are interested, arrangements can be made for a visit to that locality by an officer of the Commission.

Published by the order of the

BOARD OF SHELL FISH COMMISSIONERS OF MARYLAND.

SHERIFF'S

License Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO all persons and corporations doing business in Somerset county and requiring a State License, to obtain same or renew same on or before the

FIRST DAY OF MAY, 1913,

under penalty prescribed by said law for the infraction thereof. Those applying for Trader's License must, under oath, take out Licenses covering stock at the principal season of the year.

Persons may sell salt to cure Fish in March, April and May without license. Females vending Millinery and small articles, whose stock is not over $500, pay a license of only $6.00; but if over that amount they are required to pay the same License as other persons.

The owner or keeper of every Stallion or Jack shall, before being permitted to stand or station, each animal, pay to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of some one of the counties in Maryland the highest sum he intends to ask for the season for one mare; provided that in no case shall the sum directed to be paid for such license be less than $10.

HARDING P. TULL, Sheriff of Somerset County.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.—This is to give notice that the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court for Somerset county letters of administration on the estate of

EDGAR B. PLEW, late of Somerset county, deceased. All persons having claims against said deceased, are hereby warned to exhibit the same, with vouchers thereof, to the subscriber on or before the Fifteenth day of October, 1913, or they may otherwise by law be excluded from all benefit of said estate. All persons indebted to said estate are requested to make immediate payment.

Given under my hand this 8th day of April, 1913.

ADELBERT W. PLEW, Administrator of Edgar B. Plew, dec'd.

—During this week the attractions at the Auditorium will be as follows: Tonight (Tuesday) Polk Miller and his old Southern Quartette; Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday nights motion pictures.

—Miss Edith Jones, gave a house party last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernia Jones, of Mt. Vernon district, in honor of her guests, Misses Erma Webster, Mattie Dashiell, Louise Jones and Laura Dashiell.

—Mr. Guy I. Lawton, through the request of Mrs. F. B. Allen, formerly of Princess Anne, but now of Zanesville, Ohio, solicited contributions for the flood sufferers of that city last week and, in a few days, raised $72.50 for that purpose. Yesterday (Monday) Mr. Lawton sent a certified check to Governor Cox, of Ohio, for that amount.

—We have received letters and newspapers from Mr. F. B. Allen, formerly of Princess Anne, but now residing at Zanesville, Ohio, containing graphic accounts of the great floods in his vicinity. Mr. Allen states that no one who has not been there can realize the enormity of the disaster or the immense amount of work and money necessary to restore the property damaged. Mr. Allen and his family were among those who cared for and helped to rescue marooned people.

—The only sure things in life are those that have already happened.

—No man is so fast that trouble won't sooner or later overtake him.

—Mrs. Mark Cooper, of Salisbury, is a visitor at the home of Judge H. L. D. Stanford, on Prince William street.

—After residing in Princess Anne for some years, Mrs. Wm. Uphur Dixon and children left last Friday for Philadelphia where Mr. Dixon is employed, and will make their future home, in that city. They were accompanied by Miss Ruth Carey.

—Mr. Laban T. Quillen, of Berlin, Md., Deputy Fish Commissioner, on Monday of last week deposited in the Manokin river at Princess Anne over half a million young perch which had been brought from the St. Martins' hatchery in Worcester county.

—Mr. F. E. Konetzka has formed a partnership with Mr. D. E. Peters in the real estate business at Berlin, under the name of The Peters Farm Bureau. They have purchased the James Henry farm, adjoining Berlin, where they are making their headquarters. The members of the firm were several years ago residents of this county, near Princess Anne.

—Corporations and individuals doing business in Somerset county, which requires a license, should remember that such license must be obtained on or before May 1st from the Clerk of the Circuit Court. The Clerk has no right to extend a license beyond the time prescribed by law, and is required to report to the grand jury any failures to take out new licenses.

—The body of Charles E. Bradshaw, of Crisfield, who was washed overboard from the oyster punga, Flora Temple, on Thursday, March 6th, was found upon the shore at Tolchester beach Monday of last week and was brought to his home by his father, Capt. Thomas Bradshaw, for burial Tuesday night. Funeral services were held in Immanuel Methodist Episcopal Church, conducted by Rev. E. H. Dashiell, pastor of Asbury Church, on Wednesday morning.

—Last Tuesday evening Miss Euphemia Jopling Adamson, Miss Irma Paradise Humphreys, Miss Florence Trevilian and Miss Louise Schofield finished up their four years' course in the Peninsula General Hospital, at Salisbury, and are now graduate nurses. Judge H. L. D. Stanford delivered the address to the graduates on presenting the diplomas and said some very happy things to the young ladies. About 200 guests were present and refreshments were served after the exercises.

—On Saturday, April 26th, Messrs. Kennerly & Mitchell, clothiers, of Salisbury, will throw their newly-enlarged and remodeled store open to the public by giving a reception in the afternoon and evening. The store will be beautifully decorated with cut-flowers and plants and music will be furnished by Prof. Sheideker's orchestra. No formal invitations have been issued and the general public will be cordially received by the firm. A souvenir will be given to each caller. The enlarging of the store gives them a room 70x45 feet, with a floor space of 3,150 square feet. The improvements will cost $4,000.

—Among the cases tried in the Circuit Court for Wicomico County last week was that of Sidney Williams vs. Charles G. Dale, sheriff, and Gordon C. Bowen, deputy sheriff of Worcester county, the case having been removed to Salisbury for trial. There were 30 witnesses in this case. Williams, it is alleged, had repeatedly violated the local option laws of Worcester county by selling liquor at Ocean City, and, it is alleged, had threatened to shoot any officer who attempted to arrest him. When Dale and Bowen went to make the arrest, Williams was not at his usual haunt but the officers, as they testified at the trial, found several guns and pistols and an abundance of ammunition in Williams' house. Both officers, heavily armed, finally found Williams in the shoulder. Williams brought suit for damages and the verdict of the jury was in his favor for $1000 and costs. An appeal will be taken.

—Thursday night Wa Wa Tribe. No. 121, Improved Order Red Men, of Princess Anne, will copy the adoption degree on fourteen palefaces. All chiefs braves or warriors from nearby towns are invited to be present and participate in the "taking of scalps." All members of Wa Wa Tribe are requested to be present at the kindling of the council fire.

—Twenty-two persons were adopted in Nassawango Tribe of Red Men in their Wigwam, in Snow Hill, last Thursday evening. Many of the old chiefs were present who seemed to enjoy watching the scalps slip from the heads of those taking the adoption degree. Many succeeded in climbing the "greasy pole" but a few, after many vigorous efforts, fell back almost if not entirely exhausted. After the fun was all over and the candidates were well rested, refreshments consisting of ice cream and cake were served. All claimed to have had a good time, even a few of those who had their "scalps" removed. Most of the degree team of White Eagle Tribe, of Berlin, was present and did noble work. It is said that nearly one hundred Red Men were present. —Snow Hill Messenger.

Arbor Day

Arbor Day was celebrated by the public schools of the county last Friday. At the Washington High School, Princess Anne, the exercises were held in the afternoon and were given by the combined grammar and high school departments with the following program: Essay, "Arbor Day," Miss Ellen H. Dashiell; recitation, "The Lesson of the Tree," Miss Elizabeth Jones; reading, "Value of Trees," Homer Kemp; song, "Arbor Day," by the school; reading of the bi-weekly paper, edited by pupils of the High School. One tree was planted and was named for the second assistant in the High School, Miss Elsie Cox.

Presbyterian Women Meet

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Home Missionary Society of the New Castle Presbytery was held at Lewes, Del., last Wednesday. The presbytery embraces the entire peninsula. The president, Mrs. Emerson W. Polk, of Pocomoke City, Md., called the session to order. There were 100 delegates present.

These officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. S. Hopper, Chesapeake City, Md.; first vice-president, Mrs. W. K. Crosby, Wilmington; second vice-president, Miss Bertha Harlan, Wilmington; third vice-president, Miss Eva B. Taylor, Wilmington; corresponding secretary, Miss Clara Whaler, Wilmington; recording secretary, Miss Elizabeth G. Black, New Castle, Del.; treasurer, Miss Louisa B. Johnson, Wilmington.

Receivership For Telephone Co.

J. Shiles Crockett, of Pocomoke City, on application of bondholders and mortgage creditors, has been appointed receiver of the Pocomoke Telephone Company, of Pocomoke City, with power to operate the plant pending a sale. Mr. Crockett is also named by the Court as trustee to make public sale of the property at the close of the receivership. The sale is stayed until January 1, 1916, the Court reserving the right to order an immediate sale in the meantime should the interests of the creditors seem to demand it. The bond of the receiver is fixed at $50,000, if corporate surety is given, and $100,000 if personal.

BRAVE MOTHER STORK.

Her Nest Ablaze, She Will Stay by and Perish With Her Young.

So strong is the mother love developed in the stork and the lark that it amounts to a heroic passion. The stork, which spends the winter in Egypt and the summer in northern and western Europe, likes to build its nest on the top of some steep gable roof. Such a nest is often a real nuisance to man. It is from three to five yards in diameter. It swarms with lizards, frogs, toads and other disagreeable creatures. It becomes in course of time so heavy that it will break the roof if not artificially propped up.

Nevertheless for various superstitious reasons the stork is not only welcome but even courted by the European peasants, and it cannot be denied that the respect with which the bird is regarded is to some extent deserved. If the house takes fire and the young storks happen to be of an age at which they cannot be saved by being taken away from the nest the stork mother does not abandon them. Standing erect in the nest, flapping her wings to waft away the smoke and the flames and crying out now and then, she remains with her young, perishing with them.

The skylark, which builds its nest in the meadows, runs away from it when frightened. She proceeds for four or five yards under the clover and rises perpendicularly in the air, pouring forth her song in its wildest strains in order to divert the intruder's attention. But the peasant boy knows that so long as she remains hanging at the same point in the air he is still four or five yards from the nest, and he uses the direction of her movements and the ring of her song to ascertain the exact spot.

If it chanced that the young larks are just about to break through the shell of the eggs, at which time the mother instinct is at its height, it is said that at the very moment when the nest is touched the little bird will actually attack the intruder.—Harper's Weekly.

AN EMPEROR'S TASTE.

It Was the Origin of a Once Common Saying in Austria.

An anecdote which was current of Ferdinand I. of Austria at one time greatly delighted his subjects and gave rise to a common saying. One summer day he was hunting in the Syrian mountains and was overtaken by a violent thunderstorm. He sought refuge in a farmhouse whose occupants were just then at dinner, and his fancy was caught by some smoking dumplings made of coarse flour. He tasted them, liked them and asked for more, and when he got to Vienna, to the horror of the royal cooks, he ordered the same dumplings to be served up daily. The courtiers were scandalized that such a coarse dish should figure on the menu, and even his physicians remonstrated against the use of such food.

The emperor had always been the most pliant of men, but he now showed that he had a will of his own and persisted in gratifying his new fancy. Finally the physicians pretended that it was dangerous to his health to be living on dumplings and insisted on his giving them up. The hitherto docile sovereign stamped his foot and declared that he would never sign another official document if his diet were denied him.

"Emperor I am," he shouted, "and dumplings I will have!"

To prevent a stoppage of the government machinery opposition was withdrawn, and his majesty clung tenaciously to his dumplings. Then the imperial phrase became proverbial, and thereafter when any one insisted on gratifying a silly whim some one was sure to say:

"Emperor I am, and dumplings I will have!"

Profanity and Thought.

Just as soon as a man starts to swearing he stops thinking. "Didn't you ever notice it? Well, just notice and see. We don't endeavor to explain it, but it is so. There must be some psychological explanation for it—as, for instance, just at that moment the devil gets into the brain and scrambles it up so it cannot think. It is just like him to do it, for his greatest hold in this world is murky and disheveled thinking.—Ohio State Journal.

Where a Trunk Is a Box.

Don't look for the ticket agent at an English railway station, so that you can buy a ticket to your destination. Look for the "booking agent" and "book" to the point, and, keeping in mind that what you really want is the baggage car, hunt up the "luggage van," and, having found it, remember that if your trunk is in it it is in a "box," not as a trunk.—New York Post.

His Excuse.

"You seem like a spiritless creature. I don't believe you've got enough ambition to open your door when Opportunity knocks."

"Don't be too hard on me, ma'am. I ain't never had a door."

Pains in the Stomach

If you continually complain of pains in the stomach, your liver or your kidneys are out of order. Neglect may lead to dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes or Bright's disease. Thousands recommend Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. H. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. C., who suffered with pain in the stomach and back, writes: "My kidneys were deranged and my liver did not work right. I suffered much, but Electric Bitters was recommended and I improved from the first dose. I now feel like a new man." It will improve you, too. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. Jones druggist.

RIDING THE SURF.

Riotous Sport in the Breakers That Lash the Coast of Hawaii.

"One of the novel pleasures in which most travelers indulge while in Honolulu is surf riding at Waikiki, near Diamond head," writes John Burroughs in the Century. "The sea, with a floor of lava and coral, is here shallow for a long distance out, and the surf comes in at intervals like a line of steeds cantering over a plain. We went out in our bathing suits in a long, heavy dugout, with a native oarsman in each end.

"When several hundred yards from shore we saw on looking seaward the long, shining billows coming, where upon our oarsmen headed the canoe toward shore and plied their paddles with the utmost vigor, uttering simultaneously a curious, excited cry. In a moment the breaker caught us and, in some way holding us on its crest, shot us toward the shore like an arrow.

"The sensation is novel and thrilling. The foam flies; the waters leap about you. You are coasting on the sea, and you shout with delight and pray for the sensation to continue. But it is quickly over. The hurrying breaker slips from under you and leaves you in the trough, while it goes foaming on the shore. Then you turn about and row out from shore again and wait for another chance to be shot toward the land on the foaming crest of a great Pacific wave."

Turn to the Earth.

You to whom the universe has become a blast furnace, a coke oven, a cinder strewn freight yard, to whom the history of all ages is a tragedy with the climax now to whom our democracy and our flag are but playthings of the hypocrite, turn to the soil, turn to the earth, your mother, and she will comfort you. Rest, be it ever so little, from your back broodings. Think with the farmer once more, as your fathers did. Reverse with the farmer our centuries old rural civilization, however little it meets the city's trouble. Reverse the rural customs that have their roots in the immemorial benefits of nature. There is perpetual balm in Gilead, and many city workmen shall turn to it and be healed. This by faith and a study of the signs, we proclaim.—Nicholas Vachel Lindsay in Farm and Fireside.

ECHOES FROM WESTOVER

Westover Happenings Always Interest Our Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises: "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?" The generous statement of this Westover resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.

Irving O. Dryden, R. F. D. mail carrier, Westover, Md., says: "My kidneys acted irregularly and my back was weak and painful. I could not stoop for any length of time and was unable to remain in one position long without having dull pains across my back. As soon as I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I found relief and I continued until I was cured. I have so much confidence in this remedy that I advise all kidney sufferers to give it a trial."

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

A Choice Between Two Roads

By F. A. MITCHEL

Having occasion to journey through a portion of Tennessee, the region of the Cumberland plateau, I was obliged on one occasion to travel by wagon. A countryman with some supplies was going over the route I proposed to take, and when I offered him good pay to take me with him he accepted the proposition.

We hadn't got far on our route when we came to a house standing beside the road, and a girl carrying a carpet-bag—it was an old timer, really made of carpet—came out of the house, evidently to meet the wagon. She was "dressed up"—that is, she had on her best clothes instead of the calico dress and sunbonnet of the typical southern country girl.

"Josh," she said, "I reckon I'll go with you."

"All right, Sairy. Climb up yere." There was room for three on the seat, but since my driver—Saunders was his name—and the girl seemed inclined to be spoony I removed myself to a soft bale of some kind of goods in the wagon behind them, saying that I would have a smoke.

Josh and Sairy, as they called each other, were evidently enjoying the trip together. Neither gave me any information as to their relationship or how the girl knew that he would pass the house where she joined us at that day and hour.

Having nothing to do, I amused myself trying to work out the relationship between them. While they said nothing directly to indicate it, they said a great deal indirectly. At one time the girl would chat about a certain farm, mentioning all sorts of devices for making the house on it attractive. She would put up some curtains, she had that would fit very well, and paper several of the rooms herself—she had done papering before—and line the porch with flowers, and make a lot of improvements besides. Josh assented to all this every time she stopped long enough to give him an opportunity saying: "Just so. That would look mighty fine—beautiful." But it seemed to me that he was listening to a story rather than facts. If she were picturing a future home in which he was to participate he gave me the idea that he considered the girl to be a rainbow chaser.

Striking a crossroad, we found a man sitting on a fence whittling a stick. He took no notice of us till we came opposite; then he said:

"Howdy, Josh? Howdy, Sairy?"

"Howdy, Mart?" said Josh, pulling up.

"What yo' goin' to?" asked Mart.

"We're goin' to Jasper."

"What yo' goin' to do thar—get married?"

Josh looked at the girl, but since she did not seem inclined to make a reply he did so himself. "We allowed we might get married if we can find a p'ason to marry us."

"I reckoned so. That's the reason I jest thought I'd wait for yo' yere."

I changed my position so that I could see the girl's face. All the light-heartedness had gone out of her. I inferred that the man sitting on the fence was a claimant for her herself, but he was a red headed, freckled, loose jointed, disagreeable looking fellow, and I didn't see how he could have any chance with Josh, who was quite good looking and otherwise attractive. Neither Josh nor Sairy made any comment on Mart's last statement, and presently he drawled:

"See here, Sairy, this has been goin' on long enough. Yo' see the signboards pointin' the way? The road yo're on leads to Jasper. Either one to Chattanooga. Air yo' goin' to Jasper with Josh or air yo' goin' to Chattanooga with me?"

There being no immediate reply to this, there was a dead silence. It was evident that the two women were waiting for the man to decide between them. Presently Mart added:

"This ends the foolin'. Yo' go to Jasper or to Chattanooga, and w'ever way yo' go yo' stay, and there's no go back."

Half a minute elapsed before a decision came and then Mart said: "Josh must have seen it in my face, for I saw him jump down from the seat, take out his pocketbook and hand it to her. At the same time Mart approached and bent down on to the road. Then Josh, on looking back, I saw Mart and Sairy trudging along on the road to Chattanooga."

Taking the seat I had vacated in favor of the girl, I handed Josh a cigar.

"Smoke?"

"Reckon I will."

"What does all this mean?" I asked when he had lighted up.

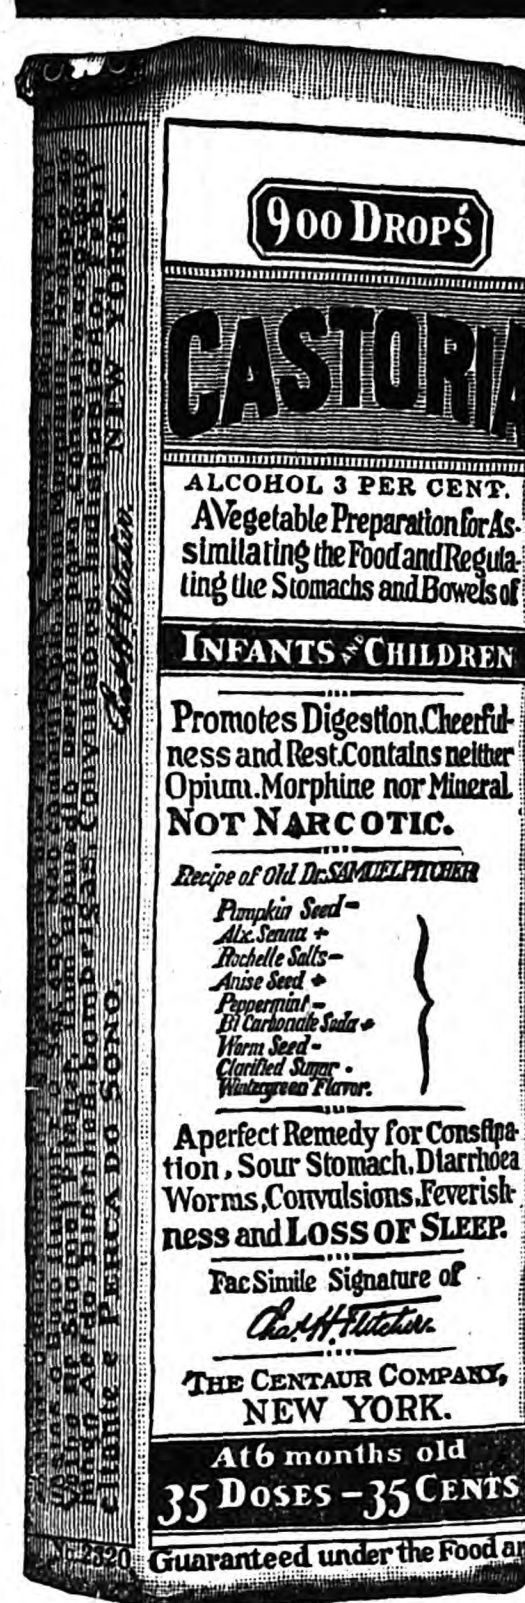

"Waal, there's some wimmen here a powerful influence over some men and some men over some wimmen. That gal has been wantin' to marry me for a long spell, but that feller wouldn't let her. Did yo' hear her talkin' arter we was married? I'd heard all that afore. I knowed it didn't mean nothin'. I knowed Mart was a watchin' her and had his spies out on her and she wouldn't get far afore he'd stop her."

"Does she fear him?"

"No. If he'd 'a' tried to force her I'd put a bullet inter him."

I asked Josh if Mart noticed the girl, explained to him what hypnotizing meant, but all he had to say to this was:

"I dunno."

GOT DRUNK ON A BEEFSTEAK

And Also on Overstrong Tea and Even on Cold Water.

According to a house surgeon in a London hospital, it is not necessary to take strong drink at all in order to be drunk. Cases have been known in which patients have got drunk on a beefsteak after having been for many weeks on a very light diet. The intoxication in these cases showed itself in a slight dizziness and drowsiness and indistinctness of speech.

Similar cases have been known in which the only intoxicant has been strong tea. In fact, there are instances in medical books of exceptional people in whom the constant use of overstrong, overdrawn tea has brought about distinct symptoms of delirium tremens.

Perhaps the most curious sort of intoxication on record is that in which the only intoxicant is cold water dripping from a water tap into the ear. In Germany a few years ago quite a number of morbid people had a "quaving" for this curious way of inducing drunkenness, but it seems to have been stamped out.

The drip of the water is said to cause a painful boiling sensation at first and then to cause a pleasant drowsiness, ending in deep sleep. When the victim is roused he is dull and stupid in manner, like a heavy drinker. This craze makes its victim a nervous wreck in a very short time.—Pearson's

T. MURDOCH, I. E. JONES,

AN AESTHETIC WIDOW

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.

Mrs. Abigail Longbody was a woman living in the town of Farmdale. She was a widow. She was almost six feet tall and weighed nearly 200 pounds. The Widow Longbody had a female friend over at Clover Hill, who had become a widow. She saw beauty in the despoiled sunflower. She patted when she saw catnip growing. She raised her eyes to heaven over burdock and pigweed. At the first sight of the widow laughing about it, but when seriously informed that it was the thing to do she adopted it.

Deacon Tracy, widower, had been courting the widow and had almost decided to pop the question. He had dropped in and was just clearing his throat to say something that the world has forever lost when she stopped him with:

"Deacon, you look like a fright with those whiskers, and I hope you will have them hood off before you call again."

"Hoe off these whiskers?" he exclaimed in amazement. "By gum, but do you know what you're talking about?"

"Then for mercy's sake get them dyed! The color grates on me!"

"I'd like to see myself dyed to them whiskers! Anything else on your mind?"

"You drag your legs when you walk!"

"I do, eh? I remind you of an old knee sprung horse, do I? Well, I kin drag them legs right outter your house and take my whiskers with 'em!"

Mr. Johnson, who bought butter and eggs and shipped them away to the city, had also an eye on the widow Longbody. She always entertained him very pleasantly when he called, and he had begun to feel the rose of love blooming in his heart. On what proved to be his last call the widow queried of him:

"Mr. Johnson, why don't you wear a wig?"

"A wig?"

"Yes, a wig. You always sit with your legs poked out like a pair of posts. A man with such shanks as yours ought to hide 'em!"

"I have been insulted, woman! I'll leave your house!"

"And have your eyebrows thinned out!" was the widow's parting shot.

In front of the widow Longbody's home ran a stream they were pleased to call Plug river. A bridge across it had long been needed and talked of, and the county finally voted it.

Every bridge in the country districts has always been painted red, it painted at all. It was red for this bridge. The widow was away for three days, and when she returned the bridge was half painted.

"Stop, stop! It cannot be! It shall not be!" cried the aesthetic.

"What's the kick?" asked the man who had the work in charge.

"It screams! It howls! It shrieks! It murders harmony and kills the landscape! I could not live here a day with that red thing staring me in the face. Ugh!"

She was told that she would have to endure it or move. Aestheticism was all right when applied to sunflowers and bull thistles, but when it came down to red bridges that was a matter of business.

"Oh, it is, eh?" was answered. "Well, there's another thing that is a matter of business."

Along the western side of the town the widow owned a strip of land which had a hill on it—a hill and a spring. With her free consent the water was piped down from the spring to supply many families and used to sprinkle the streets. When they refused to change the color of the bridge the water refused to flow downhill. The people howled, but they were helpless. After a week it was agreed that the aesthetic might name the color. She decided on a pearl gray. After a third of the bridge had been covered she changed it to vivid green. Then she wanted white with green trimmings.

"No more fooling!" was the decision of the taxpayers when they realized that the widow Longbody might finally demand that the bridge be covered with gold leaf.

"Very well," replied the woman as she prepared her second surprise.

Her husband had opened a street for his own convenience and had never decided it to the town. People had bought sites and erected houses. They suddenly found themselves fenced in. When they went to the lawyers the legal talent hunted the matter up and replied:

"If you touch the fence she can have you arrested for trespass."

The town hated to be beaten by a woman and was talking about a big lawsuit when along came a lightning rod man. He was a Jim dandy of a man. He was a wooer from Woodville. He talked and he wooed and he won. In a fortnight he had won the widow's heart and hand. When this fact was rumored the bridge committee called on her to ask:

"Well, what about the bridge?"

"Paint it any old color you want to!"

"And that fence across Kirby street?"

"Tell 'em to tear it down!"

"And you—you are no longer aesthetic!"

"Not by a darned sight! Jim and I have already settled on corned beef and cabbage for our bridal dinner. Sorry I've had trouble with the town, but you see I was living on water crackers all the time and trying to be the next thing to an angel."

WELCOMED A KICKING.

Odd Incident That Proved the Popularity of Dumas.

In "My Autobiography" Mme. Judith, the great French actress, writes of Alexander Dumas the elder:

"This giant of a mulatto, with his big, black, mocking eyes, his wide nostrils, thick lips, heavy chin, his crisply curling hair and his forehead with its strange bumps, like that of some unruly child who is always fighting with his comrades, was truly a representative personage, a type reflecting all the passion of the romanticists. There would have been something wanting to his time if this grandson of a negress had not been striding along the Parisian boulevards, if his laugh had not been heard on the terraces of the cafes or if he had not appeared playing his part with naive self satisfaction in official ceremonies and at the Tuileries ball, or walking about behind the scenes at the theater with his arm around the waist of some actress, or eating and drinking enough for four in the merry suppers at which authors and artists used to meet.

"His popularity was simply unequalled. There was a story current in my time of a singular wager made by Mery of Marseilles. Walking one day in some public garden with a friend, he suddenly said to him: 'Do you see that big, ridiculous looking fellow? I bet you 100 sous that if I kick him, no matter where, instead of flying into a rage he will make me a polite bow.'

"The bet was taken, and Mery, creeping stealthily up behind M. Prudhomme, gave him a tremendous kick in the small of his back. The man turned red with indignation, but Mery cried: 'Oh, I beg your pardon, sir; I took you for Alexander Dumas, with whom I have an account to settle.'

"His victim, only too proud to be taken for such a great man, at once relented and, taking off his hat in the most amiable manner, he said, with a bow, 'There is no harm done, monsieur. The hundred sous were won.'

ANSON SCORED LAST.

The Old Chicago Captain Made Two Plays to Dahlen's One.

Tim Hurst, the veteran umpire, told this one on Bill Dahlen when Bill was a youth toiling under Cap Anson in Chicago. Said he:

"Anson called Dahlen good and hard in a game I was umpiring in Chicago. Dahlen took it without saying a word, but a few minutes later Bill remarked to me, 'Watch me bark that old fellow's shins.' 'Ans' was not as agile then as he was in his younger days, and he stooped with much effort. All through that game Bill made great stops, only to throw the ball a few feet in front of the bag, and it was up to Anson to stop it with his shins.

"However, that was not the end of it. A few days later the White Stockings had to make a trip to St. Louis, and Anson told Dahlen he would not be taken on the trip. Bill had been told that several times and he thought 'Ans' was fooling. The train left Chicago about midnight and Dahlen was with the rest of the team.

"When the train was about twenty-five miles out of Chicago the conductor told Anson there were sixteen men in the party and he had received only fifteen tickets. Anson said there were only fifteen men and named the berths they occupied.

"The man in berth No. 17 says he is a member of the Chicago team," said the conductor, who was referring to Dahlen. "He's stringing you," replied Anson. Poor Bill was asked to cough up and couldn't. The train was stopped, and Dahlen was put off the train about thirty miles from Chicago. How he got back to Chicago only Bill himself knows, but he would not talk to anybody for a week."

Nothing to Worry Over.

"I heard something the other day that greatly surprised me, and I have been worried about it ever since."

"What was it?"

"I don't know whether I ought to mention it to you or not, but I was told that your daughter's husband was a free thinker. She's such a lovely girl! I hope it isn't true."

"Of course it isn't, or if it is it won't make any difference. Laura takes after me, and my husband was a free thinker, too, when I married him. Now he never thinks."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Inspiration and Sitting Tight.

George Eliot believed that her novels were the product of inspiration or genius. Anthony Trollope thought his was the result of "cobblers' wax, madam," or the faculty of sitting tight in his chair and turning out 250 words every fifteen minutes for two or three hours before breakfast. The method succeeded so far as to bring him a return of $350,000 and the reading public a set of novels which are being more appreciated every day.—Fall Mail Gazette.

THE ZERO MARK.

Origin of the Mathematical Symbol That Stands For Nothing.

It is the peculiar triumph of the mathematicians who constructed the Hindu Arabic numerals that they were led to invent a symbol for "nothing." The invention arose out of the difficulty which was encountered when calculations were transferred from the ancient abacus board and became a written operation.

On the abacus board, which may perhaps be seen still in infants' schools, the rows of beads or counters represented the numerals 1 to 9, but each counter or bead in the row above represented ten times as great a value as in the row below. Thus 591 could be transferred from abacus board to paper without difficulty, but 5 (0) 1 taken from the abacus might be 51, since the vacant place was no longer indicated.

Accordingly mathematicians were led to invent a character for the vacant place. The invention of this symbol for "nothing" with the crowning, transcendent achievement in the perfection of the decimal system and lay at the base of all subsequent arithmetical progress. Among the Hindus the symbol was at first a dot, but it was soon superseded by a circle, O. Its symbol, says Professor E. R. Turner in a magazine article on the numerals, has varied greatly, and its name has a pedigree of its own. The Hindus called it sunya—void. In Arabic this became sifr.

In 1202 Leonardo Fibonacci translated it zephirum. In 1330 Maximus Planudes called it tziphra. During the fourteenth century Italian writers shortened it to zenero and cenro, which became zero, now in general use. Meanwhile it has passed more nearly into Arabic form into French as chiffre and into English as cipher, taking on new significations.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

$2,000 For Poe First Edition

Long used to prop a bureau that in days now distant had lost a castor, a book brought $2,000 to two aged women and joy to the heart of a collector of old volumes, who announced that another "first edition" of Edgar Allan Poe's second work, "Al Aarrf," had been found.

The women, a mother and daughter, had called John T. Loomis, a second-hand book dealer, to their rooms in Washington, D. C., to look over a small library they possessed. The offering did not attract the man, and he was leaving when he saw a cardboard-bound volume under the edge of a bureau.

"What is this?" he asked, stooping. "That's nothing," said the daughter. It's by Mr. Poe. He used to call on Adeline and Alvina Wolfe, two ladies who lived in Baltimore, and he gave it to them. It fell very flat when it was published."

Loomis could have had it virtually for nothing. Instead, he gave the women $2,000. A first-edition copy of the work recently brought $2,700.

STAGE ILLUSIONS.

Not the Least of These Are the Banquets on the Boards.

Nothing is so deceptive as the stage meal, although the art of the property man makes such repasts appear deliciously appetizing.

A favorite stage substitute for meat is sponge cake, which cut into the shape of cutlets or steaks and judiciously browned with sauce, presents a most genuine appearance. The advantage of such material is that it is easy for the actors to consume and does not present any difficulties to the carver.

Cutlets composed of soft toast are also popular in stage culinary circles, and when decorated with dainty paper frills and parsley look quite the real thing.

Do not let your mouth water at the sight of those dainty slices of ham reposing on lettuce leaves on the baron's festive board. Ham is invariably represented on the stage by strips of linoleum, the reddish under side of which makes a convincing substitute for the real article. As to the surrounding lettuce, that is generally represented by white leaves from the humble cabbage.

The larger and more impressive the stage edible, the greater the fake. Huge pies which when cut produce a cloud of realistic steam are absolutely uneatable. The crust is merely colored paper mache, which incloses a dish of hot water and sometimes a few boiled potatoes, which supply the necessary steam. The big sirloin of beef, which apparently weighs pounds, has about six ounces of eatable meat about it. The joint is a wooden affair, over which a few thin slices of genuine beef are placed, giving the impression of a really fine piece of meat.

Were you to obtain a peep behind the scenes just before a banquet scene was to be staged you would find a number of stage hands busily slicing up tomatoes and bananas. You would see those slices being laid out on plates surrounded with parsley or white cabbage leaves. Under the glare of the limelight this dish assumes an astonishing resemblance to lobster salad, and in similar fashion sliced banana is a general substitute for fish, entrees and hors d'oeuvres.

One of the most astonishing illusions with regard to stage food, however, is where soup is concerned. This is invariably sawdust, which when ladled out of a tureen has all the appearance of a thick liquid.

No banquet would be complete without a turkey. A loaf of bread delicately browned and decorated with pegs covered with browned dough, saves the management the expense of running up a poultry bill. Moreover, the comedians can with comparative safety sling this asset to the feast about the stage without damage to life or property.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Government Printer.

When it comes to printing your Uncle Samuel takes first rank among the nations. He has a $15,000,000 printing office that is the best equipped in the world. Although certain private publishing houses in this country exceed the 1,000,000 copies of printed matter sent out weekly from the United States government printing office, no plant approaches the multitude of different publications that it prints and mails. Over a thousand publications are issued from the presses in the course of a year, appearing daily, weekly, monthly, annually or at irregular intervals. For the purpose of mailing them more than a thousand different mailing lists must be kept in the file room.—New York Sun.

Who Would 'a' Benn 'Er!

Some hundred years ago a small boy, one of four brothers, heard a visitor say to his mother, "What a pity one of your boys had not been a girl." Dropping his game, so the story runs in "Woman's Work in America," he called out: "Well, I'd like to know who'd 'a' benn 'er! I wouldn't 'a' benn 'er; Ed wouldn't 'a' benn 'er; Joe wouldn't 'a' benn 'er; Jim wouldn't 'a' benn 'er, and I'd like to know who would 'a' benn 'er."

The Largest Tunnel

The Canadian Pacific Railway has announced that it would begin construction shortly of the longest tunnel in America.

The tunnel will be built through Kicking Horse Pass, in the Rocky Mountains and will be 16 miles long, costing $14,000,000. It will take seven years, it is estimated, to build it. The great hole through the mountain will be four miles longer than the famous Simplon tunnel through the Alps. Railroad officials assure that the construction of this tunnel will eliminate many miles of dangerous snow sheds.

"Wets" Mad, "Drys" Pleased

The signing of the Hazel bill by Governor Miller was the most-talked-of event in lower Delaware last week. The "wets" of course are bitterly opposed to it and the "drys" are inclined to be hilarious. Some packages of liquor consigned to Seaford parties are being held by local agents until they can learn just "where they are at."

The thirty ones of Seaford have already laid plans for quenching their thirst, when the Webb law becomes operative and now that the State Anti-Shipping law has gone into effect. Orders will be sent to Baltimore and the liquid refreshments will be shipped to a point down the Nanticoke river just across the State line into Maryland. As the wharf is not over seven miles from Seaford and teams are plentiful it is thought that enough can be secured in that to prevent any one dying for lack of liquors.

England in Wintry Grip

Winter has returned to terrify April, and last Friday a large part of England was swept by a blizzard, which in some districts lasted over ten hours and brought down several inches of snow. In London during the afternoon snow fell for some time, but, fortunately, it melted as soon as it touched the ground.

Elsewhere conditions were far worse. In the Derbyshire Peak district a snowstorm raged over ten hours, growing heavier hour by hour. Several inches fell in dales and on hills. The fall was very heavy around Doncaster and in West Riding. Snow fell all day in Scotland, and especially along the western seaboard the fall was very severe. Starting at 7 o'clock in the morning, snow fell without intermission all day Friday.

Dashiell, collector of State and County taxes for the Second Collection District of Somerset county for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, George H. Larrimore, purchaser, ex parte.

In the Circuit Court for Somerset county.

Whereas a certain James E. Dashiell, collector of State and County taxes for the Second Collection District of Somerset county, in the State of Maryland, for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, has reported to the Circuit Court for Somerset county, a sale made by him to George H. Larrimore, of all that lot or parcel of land lying and being in Mt. Vernon Election District of said county, Maryland, containing one acre of land, more or less, with the improvements thereon, bounded on the north by the land of Daniel White, on the south by the land of L. C. Wilson, on the west by the land of George Elzey, conveyed to Nathan Elzey by deed from Sallie Green and another, made the 6th day of February, 1903, and recorded in Liber O. T. B. No. 34, folio 326, etc., and assessed to Nathan Elzey and another on the assessment books of said Election district for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, and sold for the payment of taxes due and in arrears, together with all the proceedings had in relation thereto; and whereas upon examination it appears to the said Court, that the said proceedings are regular, and that the provisions of the law in relation thereto have been complied with.

Now it is therefore ordered, by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, this 3rd day of April, in the year 1913, that notice be given by the publication of this order once a week for three successive weeks in the MARYLANDER AND HERALD, a weekly newspaper published in Somerset county, before the 30th day of April next, warning all persons interested in the said real estate to be and appear in this Court on or before the 6th day of May next, to show cause, if any they have, why said sale should not be ratified and confirmed.

LITTLE TALKS ON BANKING

The Money Your Money Earns

On its face, 3% interest may seem a small amount. On a single dollar for a single year it is insignificant. There are other viewpoints, however, that are well worth considering.

Your ability to save $100 in a year marks your ability for bigger undertakings and larger responsibilities. The 3% interest comes as good measure for endeavor. Both that which you save and the interest it earns are yours. Both will earn still more interest.

To save a hundred dollars means but twenty-eight cents put aside each day of the year—a small sum if spent thoughtlessly and therefore the easier to save. Still, they soon make $100 and this represents the actual interest return on $200 investment at 5% interest. The possibilities of your earning and saving ability are open when you open your account and make your first savings deposit.

COURT STILL IN SESSION

Grand Jury Discharged Wednesday—Twenty Bills Found—Cases Disposed Of

The Circuit Court for Somerset county, continued its sessions during the week, Judges H. L. D. Stanford and Robley D. Jones, on the bench. The Court settled down to business at once and after the dockets had been called, appeal cases were taken up and business rushed. The attendance at this term of Court has been exceptionally large and on several days, due partly to the unpleasant weather conditions, seats were at a premium. This term bids fair to be a long one and may last even beyond the present week.

The grand jury completed its work and was discharged on Wednesday morning. Twenty bills were found. The committee, consisting of G. W. Lloyd, J. W. Nock and George W. Gardner, to inspect the public buildings of the county, reported that they had performed that duty and had found all the buildings in good condition.

The committee, consisting of Wm. F. Milbourne, J. H. McLane and C. W. Bozman, to inspect the Alms House reported that they had found 10 inmates, all properly cared for and in the insane department the same number, all colored, also well looked after. The buildings were found to be clean and sanitary, though somewhat in need of repairs. The farm has nine acres of wheat and eleven of grass. The farming implements were found to be satisfactorily kept and in good condition. The committee reported 8 stacks of fodder, 13 tons of timothy hay and about 150 bushels of corn, 1 pair of mules, 1 cow, 1 sow, 7 shoats, about 125 old fowl, 100 young chickens and 15 ducks.

The following cases were disposed of: Roberts and Todd vs. Elijah P. Holland. Action for debt. Verdict for appellee with costs.

J. F. Sterling & Co., and J. W. Evans & Co. vs. Isaac W. Furniss. Claim of Furniss for claims sold but not paid for. Verdict for appellant with costs.

Field Jones vs. Henry J. Nelson. Claim for rent. Field Jones claimed he had bought house and Court so decided. Nos. 3, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12—Thos. S. Hodson against owners of crab houses on Jenkins Creek. Claim for rent. Verdict for owners of said houses in each case.

These cases opened up the question of riparian ownership and rights thereunder. Mr. Hodson claimed that his patent rights extended to the crab houses built by various parties out in the stream and claimed rent for the same. The Court decided that such rights included only permanent improvements such as tended to increase the land along the shore by filling in or by permanent structures such as wharves or the like connected with the shore.

No. 14—Appeals—W. R. Whittington & Co. vs. William J. Coulbourne. Claim for balance due for tomatoes. Verdict for Thomas with costs.

No. 15—Appeals—W. R. Whittington & Co. vs. William J. Coulbourne. Claim for balance for tomatoes. Verdict for Coulbourne with costs.

No. 19—Appeals—Herman Potee vs. Veasey and Young. Eviction of tenant. Verdict for Veasey and Young with costs.

Annie McCready, Walter Yerby and Philip Byrd were discharged by proclamation, no bills being found.

No. 20—Appeals—Sarah Stevens, Annie R. Keister and Augustus Ward vs. Mayor and City Council of Crisfield. This was an appeal involving the question of damages to certain property owners in widening Maryland avenue in the town of Crisfield. The case was tried before a jury. Verdict for the Mayor and City Council of Crisfield.

No. 16—Appeals—H. W. Carty, local manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company vs. State of Maryland. Unlawfully placing glass on State road. Verdict for the Telephone Company.

State vs. Walter Floyd. Assault. Jury was drawn but party plead guilty and was fined by the Court $25 and costs and to stand committed until fine and costs are paid.

State vs. Harry K. Smith. Charge kidnapping board bill. Before Court. Witness for State proving nothing of a criminal character, the Court pronounced Smith not guilty without further hearing.

State vs. Jas. Tyler—Selling whiskey before jury. Verdict not guilty.

State vs. Mervin Cox—Dredging in Manokin river—Before jury. Verdict not guilty.

Court re-convened yesterday (Monday) morning and is likely to continue all week.

Crisfield High School Pupils Visit Princess Anne

The annual pilgrimage to the county seat by the graduating class of the Crisfield High School was made last Wednesday.

The object of this yearly visit is to present to the pupils who are about to enter the arena of life a concrete example of what they have gleaned from their studies in civics.

Able chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Collins, and accompanied by the following teachers: Misses Sallie Sterling and M. Louise Windsor and Mr. Oscar B. Landon, the party arrived on the 1.08 p. m. train and were met at the depot by a large delegation of pupils of Washington Academy who escorted them to their school and refreshed them with delightful delicacies. They then visited the Court House where every courtesy was shown them in the various departments of county government.

After a walk around the town supper was highly enjoyed at the Washington Hotel and the guests departed on the 7.49 p. m. train feeling well paid for their visit.

The members of the party were: Misses Addie Pruitt, Marie Davis, Ida Saltz, Lillian Dougherty, Beulah Burke, Neva Ward, Pauline Ashmead, Audrey Goldsborough, Helen Daugherty, Gussie Dize and Messrs. Benson Riggan, Olin Sterling and Julian Daugherty.

—Phillip Engers, a sign painter for the Morton Advertising Company, of Baltimore, fell from a scaffold while at work at Pocomoke on Tuesday and was badly injured about the head. He was removed in an unconscious condition to the hospital at Salisbury. His condition though serious, is slightly improved.

WASHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

"Our Minister's Honeymoon" Presented at the Auditorium By the Students of the School Friday Night

The pupils of Washington High School, Princess Anne, gave a pleasing entertainment at the Auditorium last Friday evening, which netted thirty-six dollars and ten cents for the benefit of the school. The play, or cantata, entitled "Our Minister's Honeymoon," was rendered remarkably well. Mrs. George W. Colborn, who has established a fine reputation both as a performer and a teacher of music, was the piano accompanist. The little drama was full of humor and the young actors received abundant applause. The cast of characters was as follows:

Rev. Alexander Brown—Our new Minister. Oliver Beauchamp
Daisy Lovejoy Brown—His Bride. Mary M. Dashiell
Teddie Spangles—Best Man—College Chum. Douglass Wallop
Seth Perkins—Librarian of the Sunday-School. Lauren. a Stanford
Mrs. Nebuchadnezzar Jones—Pres. of Mite Society. Mart. a Stanford
Evangeline—Maid of Honor. Aldie Brown
Annabelle—One of Minister's Sunday-School Class. Jane Weaver
John Wesley Simpkins—Station agent, telegraph operator, postmaster and Mayor. Robert Maddox
Miranda Austin—A good cook, learned it from a correspondence school. Eloise McAllen
Sally Ann Who Suspect Something. Lurline Gibbons
Sarah Jane. Marie Pusey
Uncle Alec—The Old Sexton. Milton Marriner
Bridesmaids. Elva Armstrong. Elsie Carrow
Martha Stanford. Lettie Long
Elizabeth Beauchamp. Bessie Cahill
Marguerite Hayman. Edna Hickman
Anna Fitzgerald. Eleanor McAllen
Jane Weaver. Minnie Layfield
Emma Ent. Helen Hickman
Henrietta Fitzgerald. Hilda Carrow
James Taylor. Robert Waller
Norman Holland. Walter Young

Arbor Day at Marion

The schools at Marion Station observed Arbor Day in a befitting manner and the following program was carried out:

Under the direction of the teachers in the primary and intermediate departments a program consisting of recitations, quotations, readings and music was carried out in each of the rooms. In the high school a novel method of making the planting of trees more a matter of conscience and pride was adopted. Three of the older girls planted the trees much after the manner in which ground is broken for a new building. As the roots were being covered each in turn named her tree as follows: The Tree of Knowledge, Miss Grace Stevenson; The Tree of Happiness, Miss Mary Hall; The Tree of Friendship, Miss Charlotte Shockley. Excellent papers by each were read while the trees were being planted. Honis Tull, the only boy in the 10th grade, then dedicated the trees to Marion High School.

Immediately thereafter the boys and girls all assembled on the school ground and for more than an hour worked with zeal in cleaning up the grounds. When their work was completed the improvement in the looks of the place was sufficient to endorse the observance of the day to the uttermost. The dedication address was as follows:

In commemoration of the day, known throughout all the land as Arbor Day we have planted here three trees—tender saplings—children of the mighty forest, offspring of those great, green-clothed people of the woods.

That they may have significance before all the people of the community and may stand throughout all the adverse years as monuments of our sincerity, we have given each a name, the first, "The Tree of Knowledge," upon whose branches shall grow the golden fruit, success; the second, "The Tree of Friendship," whose fruit shall be universal concord; the third, "The Tree of Happiness," the harvest whereof shall be eternal love.

Time and the elements shall be their enemies, Nature their guardian. Eventually they shall become great, powerful land-marks of strength and steadfastness, to proclaim to all the ages our sincerity.

With all the pomp and ceremony befitting such an occasion we now dedicate them to the High School of Marion. To thee, oh bounteous nature, we now confide these tender sapplings. Nurture them in thy kindness, Lap them in thy warm embrace Upon them bestow the kisses of thy sunshine; The life-giving water of thy dew bestow upon them, The magic wand of thine affection wave above them.

Guard them in adversity, Temper Time's stormy winds And bring them at last to be the mighty ornaments of power and pride whereof thy children boast.

The teachers of the school are: Burt B. Lewis, principal; Misses Ruth M. Tull, Gussie E. Haynes and Mrs. Carrie Whittington, assistants.

In the thirteenth Massachusetts Congressional district, usually heavily Republican, the Democrats won a decisive victory Tuesday, the Democratic nominee defeating the Republican and the Progressive party nominees by heavy pluralities. The contest was decided on the tariff question, and the Democratic position was strongly sustained.

Hellen—Coughlin Wedding

The wedding of Miss Lillian Marie Coughlin, daughter of Mrs. H. H. Hitch, of Salisbury, to Mr. S. Archer Hellen, took place on Tuesday at high noon, at the bride's home in that city, the ceremony being performed by Dr. T. E. Martindale.

The house was artistically decorated with spring flowers, the color scheme being green and white. A wedding breakfast was served to 35 guests, including relatives and a few friends of the bride. The bride was attired in a brown tailored suit and a Milan hat, with brown plumes to match, and wore a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley. After the wedding the bride and groom left for a trip on the Hudson and other northern points, and upon their return will reside in Baltimore. The groom is a son of Attorney Wm. H. Hellen, of Calvert county, and is of a prominent family. He is employed by the B. & O. R. R. Co., at their office in Baltimore.

The out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were: Mrs. Louisa Webster, grand-mother of the bride; Misses Myra Thomas, Esther Webster, Louise Clayville, Mrs. Ray Pusey and Mrs. W. H. Handy, cousins of the bride, all of Somerset county; Mrs. J. C. Webster and Miss Catherine Webster, aunt and cousin of the bride, of Calvert county, and Miss Lydia Hellen, sister of the groom, of Calvert county.

Serious Accident

Mr. Mace Smith, a young man 23 years of age, a son of Mr. E. W. Smith, of Habnab, met with a serious accident on last Thursday morning, which has deprived him of one eye and seriously threatens the other.

Mr. Smith was loading hay and was about to climb aboard the load, when the cart tilted and threw him out upon the prongs of a pitchfork which he held in his hand and which he was about to thrust into the hay. He was alone at the time and when found it was discovered that the prongs had pierced his right eye and inflicted a wound above the left. Dr. Ruby, of Oriole, was summoned and rendered immediate service. Dr. Ruby thought, however, it was best for the injured man to be sent to Baltimore for special treatment and nursing. He accordingly was brought to Princess Anne where he took the express at 1.10 p. m. enroute for the Maryland University Hospital.

The latest reports from Mr. Smith was that he was getting along nicely and that hopes were entertained of saving the sight of both eyes, which is welcome news to his many friends.

Senator Jackson's Successor

Former Attorney General Straus gave an opinion Friday that even if the Governor does not call a special session of the legislature, an election can be held this fall for a senator for the short term. Mr. Straus holds that the laws governing the primary and general elections can be made to apply to this case, all the necessary machinery being provided. He has not changed his views as to the time when Senator Jackson's term will expire. This, according to his contention, will not end before the beginning of the end of the next session of the legislature. As to the long term, this Mr. Straus holds it is the spirit of the federal amendment that an election should not be held until 1914.

Attorney General Poe has also given an opinion in harmony with that of Mr. Straus.

THE GREAT FLOOD IN OHIO

Five Hundred Dead And 400,000 Homeless Is the Official Report

The Ohio floods cost nearly 500 lives, caused incalculable property loss and rendered approximately 100,000 homeless. From reports of field agents who have been making surveys in the various stricken communities of the state, the officials of the American Red Cross on duty at Columbus have prepared a summary of the havoc of the floods in this state, showing the number rendered homeless and destitute in the cities and towns hit by the waters. Junior Order Convention

Two hundred and fifty delegates were in attendance from all parts of Maryland at the forty-fourth annual convention of the Maryland State Council of the Junior Order United American Mechanics which began in the Masonic Temple, Hagerstown, last Tuesday. Delegates from Baltimore and the Eastern Shore arrived on a special train.

National Representative Frank L. Bennett, of Hagerstown, called the meeting to order and introduced Mayor McPherson Scott, who delivered the address of welcome. State Councilor Geo. E. Garrett, of Baltimore, responded.

Past State Councilor Thaddeus A. Wastler, of Pen-Mar, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the councils of Washington county. Dr. D. F. Pennington, of Baltimore, responded.

Officers were elected Wednesday as follows: State Councilor, E. M. Thomas, Baltimore; State Vice-Councilor, W. E. Mailin, of the Eastern Shore; State Secretary, Charles S. Davis, of Baltimore; State Treasurer, W. L. James, of Baltimore; State Chaplain, R. R. Etchison, of Jefferson; Assistant State Secretary, M. A. Wherley, of Baltimore; State Conductor, T. W. Davis, Pittsville; State Warden, W. J. Bittner, Frostburg; State Inside Sentinel, T. B. Jones, Dunkirk; State Outside Sentinel, Roscoe Knox, Hillsdale; Representatives to National Council, Frank L. Bennett, J. W. Carver, H. L. Mennerick, H. B. Weaver and D. C. Wilson. Baltimore was chosen as the next convention city.

The order has a membership in Maryland of 30,000. Washington county alone has 14 councils, with a membership of about 2,000. The statistics show gains during the year.

Number Parcel Post Stamps Sold

More than five million parcel post stamps, the face value of which exceeds $25,000,000, have been supplied to post offices of the country since the establishment of the system.

Parcel post business is increasing so rapidly that it has been found necessary to double the daily output of stamps. The largest single order filled this month was $360,000 worth for New York city.

SCHOOL BOARD CHANGE

C. W. Fontaine Resigns and C. W. Long Appointed

Mr. C. Wesley Fontaine, president of the Board of County School Commissioners of Somerset County, has resigned his position as a member of that Board, his resignation to take effect on May 1st, and Mr. Charles W. Long has been appointed by the Governor to succeed him.

Mr. Fontaine was appointed to the School Board to fill out the term of the late John S. Sudler which expired in 1912, since which time he has held over, the Senate having failed to confirm the Governor's appointment made during the last legislature. His resignation comes as a great surprise although it was understood that the duties of the office were not entirely congenial to him. Mr. Fontaine has made an excellent school official and his services have been much appreciated by the public.

Mr. Long is very well known in the county, having been a member of the Board of County Commissioners and for a number of years clerk and treasurer to the same Board. His official experience will stand him in good stead in assuming a place in the School Board office.

In an interview Mr. Long states that the appointment came to him unsought and in accepting it he fully appreciates the honor as well as the responsible class of work that he will assume on May 1st. The other members of the School Board are Mr. A. E. Goodrich, of Crisfield, and Mr. L. A. Chamberlin, of Kingston.

Maryland Presbyterians

The Presbytery of New Castle, which includes all the Presbyterian churches in Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, convened last Tuesday in the Presbyterian Church at Elkton. Rev. James H. Crawford, the retiring moderator, presided, and Rev. J. R. Milligan, of St. Georges, Del., was stated clerk and treasurer.

About 75 clergymen and elders were in attendance. Officers, trustees, standing committees and committees on examinations and revision for the Presbytery for 1913 were appointed.

The trustees are: Rev. John McElmoyle, president; George A. Blake, secretary and treasurer; Rev. Joseph B. Turner, Rev. J. A. Harold, Rev. F. H. Moore; elders, Euse Tunnell, D. W. Corbet and L. P. Bush.

On Wednesday Rev. H. J. Bunstein, of Milford, Del., was elected moderator for the ensuing term. The various committees made their reports. Rev. Dr. J. L. Gilfillan, Presbyterian evangelist, presented a lengthy report on home missions.

Charles S. Pyle, of Rising Sun, Md., treasurer of home missions, reported $3530.19 contributed during the year. Rev. John McElmoyle, of Elkton, of the Board of Foreign Missions, reported an increase of $810.90 and a total of $6452.95 in the treasury. Rev. Thomas de Pamphiliis was recommended to the Upper Missouri Presbytery. The Sunday School report given by Rev. B. J. Brinkama shows an increase of 398 pupils with a total enrollment of 7385. At the Wednesday night session commissioners were elected to attend the general assembly at Atlanta, Ga., in May. Dr. S. H. Hall Young, of the Presbytery of Yukon, Alaska, delivered an address.

Rev. T. S. Armentrout, chairman of church narratives, reported 47 churches in the Presbytery, with a membership of 7,170. There have been 191 baptisms, 396 members were received on examination and the net gain is 196. Nearly one-half of the churches report no admissions on confession of faith, all have women's societies; 23 have Young People's Societies with a membership of 1,357. The ministers and elders attending from this section were: Manokin (Princess Anne)—Wm. C. Fontaine, W. O. Lankford; Pocomoke City—Rev. W. J. McCullough, R. M. Stevenson; Rehoboth—Rev. W. F. Martin, E. G. Polk; Wicomico (Salisbury)—Rev. W. T. M. Beale, L. W. Gunby.

Asks $10,000,000 For Roads

Senator William P. Jackson last Thursday reintroduced his bill providing for an appropriation of $10,000,000 to start a system of public roads to be built throughout the country by the Federal Government and the States jointly.

The Marylander presented this measure during the last Congress, but it failed to come up. He asked again that it be referred to the Committee on Post-offices and Postroads for action. He is a member of that committee.

According to Senator Jackson's plan the States and the Government are each to pay half the cost of road construction. No more than $7,500 may be expended on any single mile of road.

WAYS OF GYPSIES

These Queer People Are the Same
All Over the World.

A RACE WITHOUT A NATION.

Originally From India, Now Outcasts
In Every Land in Which They Live.
They Are Natural Rogues, Without Laws, Literature or Religion.

The gypsies are the most unchanging race in the world. Wherever they are found—and they are found everywhere, from Persia to Mexico, from central Africa to Siberia—they are the same, a race of outcasts, despised by the people among whom they dwell, yet keeping their own ideal unchanged, true to their barbaric law, jealous of strangers, clever enough to make a living from the weaknesses and foolishnesses of the people who despise them. Climate seems to make no difference to them.

In all environments they remain unchanged, the same sharp faces, the same black, keen, inscrutable eyes; the same bronzed skin; change in food or conditions of living make no mark on them, and they only take on the customs or beliefs or costumes of other races in order the better to cheat and fleece them—a race without nationality, without laws, without a literature, without a religion, for it is said that in their tongue there is no word for God, none for the soul, none for immortality.

Where did they come from? From Bohemia, say the French, but they are not really Bohemians nor more numerous there than elsewhere; from Egypt, they sometimes say themselves, to get a better price for their soothsaying. But there is nothing genuinely Egyptian about them. In reality they came from India. Their strange language shows that. Jealously guarded from the knowledge of strangers, it has yet been learned little by little, and comparison shows it is full of Hindu words, words that you may hear even now all over India.

Surprising, perhaps, at first blush, that there should be millions of low caste or outcast Hindus scattered all over Europe and even wandering through the byways of America, but only strange because we do not think about it. In reality Europe is full of Asiatic peoples. For long centuries they came pouring in, especially through the gate between the Ural mountains and the Caspian sea. The bitter proverb, "Scratch the Russian and you find the Tartar," may remind us that the great Tartar invasion, under the grandsons of Ghengis Khan, conquered all eastern Europe and settled the Tartar tribesmen all down the vast Volga valley, across the steppes and along the shore of the Black sea. The Huns and the Turks are also Asiatics, as are older peoples, like the Finns. So all eastern Europe is soaked with Asiatic blood, and if so many peoples came from northern Asia why should it be incredible that one race should come from southern Asia?

It seems probable that the gypsies drifted into Europe in the wake of Bati Khan's invasion, when he came down on Russia with his vast locust swarms of Tartar horsemen, 500,000 in number. The gypsies came from central Asia, whither they had been driven from India by the implacable and destructive invasion of Mahmud of Ghazni, about 900 years ago. It was about 1235 that Bati Khan and his locust swarm began to devastate Europe. And a century later roving bands of gypsies were scattered through eastern Europe—Wallachia, Moldavia, Bulgaria. By 1417 a horde of gypsies made their appearance in northwestern Germany, claiming to be Christian pilgrims from "Little Egypt," but their Christianity was about as genuine as their Egyptian origin. Their thievish, vagabond character was already manifest then, and they were driven from northern Germany to begin their perpetual wanderings through every European country and in due time to cross over to America in the wake of the white races.

But the great bulk of them still remain in the Danube valley, where they first appeared some six centuries ago. In Roumania there are between a quarter and a half a million of them. In Transylvania there are a hundred thousand more, while Serbia and Bulgaria and Macedonia have from thirty to a hundred thousand each. The condition of the gypsies in the valley of the Danube is in some respects peculiar, with considerable differences in the different countries. In Serbia the leveling power of Turkish rule, exerted century after century, had the effect of bringing the gypsies closer to the condition of the mass of the peasantry. In Serbia, therefore, though they are still an inferior caste and are not allowed to exercise the rights and powers of citizenship, the gypsies are perhaps less widely separated from the peasantry than in any other country in Europe. In Roumania the gypsies were terribly oppressed. They were captured and held as slaves and were treated with savage brutality. They lived in utter squalor and wretchedness and misery, nakedness, and filth, lower than many of the lowest savages. Happily, however, King Charles completely removed the last vestiges of this reproach from his country, and the Roumanian gypsies are now completely emancipated.—Harper's.

Grand Re-Opening After Enlarging and Remodeling Our Large Double Stores

A Cordial Invitation is extended to the public to visit our large and remodeled store on Saturday, April 26th, 1913, when our grand opening will take place.

For several months the work of making changes in our storeroom has been going on, and now we have the pleasure of showing the public the Largest Exclusive Men's and Boys' Store South of Wilmington

The growth of KENNERLY & MITCHELL'S business has been phenomenal. Starting in 1896, in a small storeroom on Main Street, we have expanded until now we occupy a room 45x70 feet, affording 3,150 square feet of space, in which we have displayed the LARGEST AND MOST ATTRACTIVE LINE OF MEN'S AND BOYS' WEARING APPAREL to be found outside the large cities. We are justly proud of our enlarged quarters and we want the general public to see what Salisbury's Leading Clothiers and Gent's Furnishers have in store for them.

Our Opening on Saturday, April 26th, is to be an event worth seeing, and the general public is cordially invited

Zones of Silence.
Zones of silence such as that discovered in the Alps have been known to scientists for a long time. Some years ago a committee conducted a series of experiments in the English channel with the loudest and most ear piercing sirens, whistles and hooters they could procure. It was found that sometimes on the clearest and quietest day a sound was unaccountably inaudible at a short distance. This demonstrated conclusively the existence of soundless zones and incidentally suggested an explanation of certain ocean disasters.

Old Treasures Found in India.
Images of Hindu gods and Buddha have been discovered at Dhalagaon near Rampal, India, formerly the capital of King Ballal Sen. Two months back, an astrologer of Panchashar, Munshiganj, is said to have predicted that there lay hidden treasures in a pucca building underneath a tank. With the permission of the owner and the government, the tank is being bailed out by him. As a result, the images were recovered and traces of buildings found.

Good Sleeper.
Their political dispute, according to the account in the Kansas City Star, had not been confined to words, and at last one of the antagonists, with great dignity, said to the other: "Sir, you have called me a crook and a fool, you have broken my spectacles, you have punched me twice. I hope you will not rouse the sleeping lion in my breast, for if you should, I cannot tell what may be the consequences."

Choir Invisible Has a Recruit.
A Kansas man who has lately been abroad reports that this inscription actually appears on an old tombstone in a cemetery at Saragossa, Spain: "Here lies John Cabeza, precursor of my lord the king. When he is admitted to the choir of angels, whose society he will embellish, and where he will distinguish himself by his powers of song, God shall say to his angels, 'Cease, ye calves!' and let me hear John Cabeza, a precursor to the king of Spain!"

First Idea of Sewing Machine.
The earliest attempt at sewing machinery of which there is any authentic record was in 1755, in which year a machine was patented in England by Charles F. Weisenthal. In this machine the stitch was formed by a needle, having two points with an eye at mid-length, which passed completely through the goods in imitation of hand sewing.

Small Print Bad for Children.
Small print leads the young scholar to look too closely at his books. He is not yet familiar with the forms of the words, and his eyesight has not yet reached its full acuteness. For easy vision he must have retinal images larger than those which satisfy the trained reader. To obtain these larger images he brings the book too near to his eyes, or his eyes too near the book, and this is apt to be injurious.

Paris "One Hundred" Club.
The newly formed "One Hundred club" in Paris accepts only persons who, in addition to having traveled at least 100 miles by motor car, are well-known gourmets. One of the conditions of membership is that every initiate, in order to pay homage to the noble art of cooking, is pledged to reveal to his fellow members the name of the most humble tavern in which he has received an enjoyable repast.

Alfalfa Reduces Temperature.
It has been learned by actual experience that alfalfa planted on the south and southwest of the homes of those western farmers will reduce the temperature from six to fifteen degrees on one of those hot, sultry days. There is a cool breath from the alfalfa field all the time. The difference in temperature from the south to the north side of a large field of alfalfa is shown by actual tests.

Much Sense in Question.
Small Susie had asked so many questions that her mother became impatient and told her that little girls should not be so curious. "But, mother," presently remarked Susie, without a trace of impertinence or "smartness," "what am I to do if I don't ask questions. Ain't I gotta learn?"

Underrating Influenza Germ.
One orange a week is to be given to each child in the Lambeth Guardians' schools at Norwood, England, as a preventive against influenza. All we can say is that, if the influenza germ is to be intimidated by one orange a week, it has sadly lost its pluck since we last met it.

Cough Medicine for Children
Too much care cannot be used in selecting a cough medicine for children. It should be pleasant to take, contain no harmful substance and be most effective. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets these requirements and is a favorite with the mothers of young children everywhere. For sale by all dealers. [Advertisement]

Coffins Many Centuries Old.
Two tiny coffins have recently been found in the monastic burial ground of Peterborough, Northampton, England, and have been placed in Peterborough cathedral. They are said to be the coffins of the twin children of King Canute, who were drowned in Whittlesey Mere as they were crossing to be educated at Peterborough abbey.

Her One Great Desire.

In the matter of the tax sale of real estate in St. Peter's Election District, No. Two, of Somerset county, assessed to John A. Lawson, made and reported by Robert F. Maddox, county treasurer and collector of State and County taxes for Somerset county for the year 1910. Hershell V. Maddox, purchaser, ex parte.

No. 2811, Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County.

The annexed and the above report of the proceedings of Robert F. Maddox, treasurer of Somerset county and collector of State and County taxes for the year 1910, relating to the sale, on the 27th day of February, 1912, of certain lands in St. Peter's district, in Somerset county, Maryland, containing six and one-half acres of land, more or less, with the improvements thereon, situate on the county road leading from Monte post-office to St. Stephen's Church, near "Wyatt's Corner," assessed to John A. Lawson, for State and County taxes for 1910, to Hershell V. Maddox at and for the sum of fifteen dollars ($15.00), now fully paid, having been presented to the Court and the proceedings therein having been carefully considered and examined by the Court, and said proceedings appearing to be regular, and it appearing that the provisions of law in relation thereto having been complied with.

It is therefore ordered this 24 day of April, 1913, by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that notice be given in the "MARTLANDER AND HARRALL," a newspaper published in Somerset county, once a week for three successive weeks before the 27th day of April, 1913, warning all persons interested in said property so sold to be and appear in this Court by the first day of May, 1913, to show cause, if any they have, why said sale shall not be ratified and confirmed.

The report states the amount of sales to be $15.00.

A Modest Girl With Long Hair

By SADIE OLCOTT

"I heered you was goin' to be married, Jake. What kind of a gal you goin' to git?"

"As purty as a peach, Tom, and as modest and gentle as a dove. That's what drew me, her modesty. Can't anybody look at her without her blushin' all over?"

"Humph!" granted Tom.

"Reckon you don't count much on a woman's bein' so modest as that, do you?"

"Jake, I'm goin' to answer your question by tellin' you a story. Oncet I had to go down to Denver to get some assayin' done. I had struck some dirt that I thought might pan out purty good. So I took some chunks with me and started on my own horse. When I got within ten miles or so of the city it was gettin' dark, and I put up at a tavern. My room was in an L to the buildin', and I could look right across to another L and into a window, where there was a gal standin' before a lookin' glass combin' her hair. And, her room bein' lower than mine, I could see just how long it was. It reached to the floor and was thick as a sheaf o' wheat.

"If there's a feature about a woman to please your humble servant it's a fine head of hair. And this gal's was glossy and wavy as the surface of a lake, and it shined under the light o' them kerosene lamps to beat the band. I fell in love with her at onct—or, rather, I fell in love with her hair—and I vowed I wouldn't leave the place till I'd made her acquaintance.

"The next mornin' I saw her go out and walk up the road. I jist went after her, and when I caught up with her I says, says I:

"It's a fine mornin', miss."

"She looked down at the ground and didn't say nothin', so I said some more:

"No offense, miss. I'm a miner from up around Georgetown, purty rough, but honest. I saw you combin' that wonderful head o' hair o' yourn, and—"

"Did you?" she said, kind o' frightened-like.

"Yes. You don't mind a man seelin' you with it unloosened, do you?"

"Ladies don't usually appear before gentlemen that way," she said, so modest-like that I wanted to put red-hot poker in my eyes for lookin' at it. And I told her that her hair was so splendid that she'd ought to wear it down her back all the time. I axed her if I couldn't walk a ways with her, and she said she wasn't used to walkin' with gentlemen as she hadn't been introduced to, but I looked so good and kind and nice that she would not mind my walkin' a little ways.

"Well, I got to tellin' her about what brought me to Denver, and she looked kind o' interested when I told her I thought I'd struck payin' dirt. She said for my sake she hoped I wouldn't be disappointed. We was talkin' when we come to a puddle, and she waited while I went ahead, for she said to lift her skirt a couple of inches, and she was so modest that she wouldn't let me see her foot. So, you see, I had two things to love, her hair and her modesty, and there was even more of the last than the first.

"We walked some time together, and I was gettin' more and more in love all the time. But bimby she came to a house and went in, so I had to leave her at the door. I kep' watch to see her combin' her hair ag'in, and toward evenin' she went into her room and took the hair down, and just as I was beginnin' to feast my eyes on it she closed the blinds.

"Now, if that wasn't modesty I don't know what you'd call it.

"The next mornin' I saw her go out ag'in and joined her ag'in, tellin' her that I was goin' into town to get my samples assayed. She said she hoped they'd turn out well and I must let her know. I took the samples into Denver and left 'em there, to call for 'em in two days. While I was a-waitin' I saw a lot o' the gal with the long hair and did some courtin'—that is, I deuced 'a done it if she hadn't been so deuced modest. I accidentally touched her hand onct, and I thought she was goin' to have a fit.

"When I went into Denver to get the assayer's report on my samples he told me there was not enough gold in a ton to buy a plug o' tobacco. I went back disappointed, but by this time I was so dead in love that I didn't mind my setback in the other matter. I confided what the assayer said to the gal, and that was the last I saw of her in those parts. Where she went I didn't know, but it was plain she didn't have any use for a miner without a mine.

"I had a friend in Denver, so I went in there to borrow enough money to get back to camp. While I was walkin' up the main street where all the shops is I saw a crowd before a window. I went to see what was goin' on, and standin' there in the window with her hair hangin' down to her heels was the gal I'd fallen in love with, principally for her modesty, while a feller stood before the shop pointin' her out as havin' growed her hair by usin' Dr. Thingamagig's hair restorer.

"I don't want to discourage you, Jake, but when them gals is too deuced modest just you look out for 'em."

"Is that a true story, Tom?" asked Jake.

"True as gospel."

"What do you s'pose made her put on all that?"

"I dunno. Reckon you'll find out what they do it for, seel'n you're goin' to get one of 'em."

The Geologist's Clock.
Each fossiliferous rock bed contains characteristic forms or groups of forms that determine the period in which it was laid or sand. Former Director Powell of the United States geological survey once tersely explained to a congressional committee the value of paleontology by saying that it is "the geologist's clock," by which he tells the time when rock beds were formed. The economic importance of paleontology has been repeatedly shown in this country. In the earliest exploitation of anthracite coal thousands of dollars were fruitlessly expended in New York in search of coal beds until the New York geologists showed that the beds in that state could contain no coal. The fossils in the rocks exploited are Devonian, whereas the fossils of the Pennsylvania anthracite coal beds belong to the carboniferous, a much later period. This discovery at once stopped a useless expenditure of money—Argonaut.

A Fatal Sleep.
Hugh Miller, the Scottish geologist and writer, was one of the most illustrious of sleepwalkers. Miller, who had been addicted to somnambulism in his youth, found his restlessness return while he was engaged upon his "Testimony of the Rocks." He used to "wake in the morning feeling, as he said, as if he had been abroad in the night wind, dragged by some invisible power and ridden by witches." On the night of his death he slept alone. In the morning they found him stretched dead on the floor with a bullet through his breast. He had written a note to his wife: "My brain burns. I must have walked, and a fearful dream rises upon me. I cannot bear the horrible thought. My brain burns as the recollection grows." So intense had been the poor fellow's anguish that to make certain his end he had torn back shirt and vest and placed the muzzle of the pistol to his naked flesh.—St. James' Gazette.

Turks Picnic at Home.
"Simple life" picnicking in the house is thoroughly understood by the Turk. The real old fashioned Turk indeed, as Sir Charles Elliot shows, reveals his inherited nomadic instincts by treating a house merely as a place to camp in. Rooms are not assigned to special purposes. "You sit in a room and write on your hand. When you are hungry you call. A little table is brought in, and you eat. When you want to go to bed a pile of rugs is laid in a corner, and you go to sleep on it." Then a scene at Yildiz—secretaries working in a red plush room furnished in European style. "Some were sitting curled up in armchairs, with their inkpots poised perilously on the arms, the idea of having a writing table never having come into their heads. Some were squatting on the floor, eating with their fingers off bread dishes placed on a low table. One was taking a siesta in the corner."—St. James' Gazette.

Disabused His Mind.
At a London theater the other night, when a well known actress was weeping bitterly on the stage, a sensitive countryman burst into tears and wept audibly.

"What are you making that row for?" asked a neighbor.

"I'm thinking o' that poor creature's distress," was the reply.

"What? Don't you know she's paid £20 a week to do that?"

"Oh? Twenty pounds a week! Do you mean to say her crying's no real?"

"Of course not."

"Then all I've got to say is she's a deceitful busy." And up he got and went out. "Twenty pounds a week," he was muttering as he moved into the street, "and to kick up all that row too."—London Globe.

Diseases They Have in Scotland.
Has Scotland still its own word for measles? Dean Ramsay relates that in 1775 Mrs. Betty Muirhead, who kept a boarding school for young ladies in the Tron-gate of Glasgow, asked a new pupil whether she had had smallpox. "Yes, mem," replied the girl. "I've had the sma'pox, the nirls, the blabs, the scay, the kinkhost and the fever, the branks and the worm." "Sma'pox" and even the vague "fever" might not worry an English reader, but it needs a glossary to interpret the others in order as measles, nettlerash, itch, whooping cough, mumps and tooth-ache.—London Tabler.

Counterthrust.
"A very good retort!" said a senator in an argument. "A very good retort indeed!" It reminds me of Weeks.

"Weeks and his wife were quarreling."

"The night you proposed," said Mrs. Weeks, with a hard, scornful laugh, "you acted like a fish out of water."

"Weeks sighed."

"But a very cleverly landed fish," he said, in a musing voice.—Washington Star.

The Explanation.
"Why is it that some young men get on so much faster in the world than others? It must be pure luck."
"No, I rather think it is because while some are always ready to accept positions, others go out and look up jobs."—Exchange.

Homer Indeed.

"You talk as if your friend was a greater poet than Homer."

"Homer! Well, say, if Percy had tackled that Homer stuff he'd have made it time!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Long Courts and Short Courts

There appears to be a law of compensation in the matter of courts as there seems to be in that of the weather. Protracted drouths are apt to be followed by long rainy spells. The short terms of court that have been rather the rule in this county for some time past are meeting their compensation in one that bids fair to be prolonged. The grand jury, it is true, completed its work in less than three days, but the court docket shows a long array of appeals and continuances as well as regular trial and criminal cases. The process of cleaning up the files had a good beginning last week and the work will continue during the present one.

Tax-payers have good reason to be pleased when a short term of court lowers the public expenses; now that the opposite is the case, they will have to be content and comfort themselves with the thought that nothing is so important as the settling of disputes, the dispensing of justice and the punishment of violators of the law. The belief that many cases could be settled amicably outside of court may have good foundation, but human beings will be human beings and human nature will assert itself. After all the adjustment of conflicting claims by legal authority plays a useful part in a community and animosities are not likely to be so long-lived after such adjustment.

So far as the criminal part of the court's work is concerned, it is a matter of consequence that those who violate the law shall receive punishment and the merits of each case have to be patiently investigated. It is a mistake to believe every one guilty who is charged with an offense, even though the alleged offender may be lodged in jail to await trial. The whole matter involves the question of justice, of which everyone is entitled to his full share. So that a long court may be a benefit rather than otherwise and the adjustment of matters that go to make a more peaceful community tends to outweigh the mere matter of the expense of making it so.

Sore Necks In Protest

Lower tariff and less protection on collars and cuffs mean real competition in the production of these articles and less shoddy in the linen, the advocates of the Underwood bill say, but even Champ Clark can see no help in the tariff bill for the common cause of the male sex against the laundryman. Not long ago the laundrymen of the country were appealing to Congress for the establishment of standard lines, declaring that they were being held responsible for the defects in collars, cuffs, handkerchiefs and the like which were covered by the finish and not apparent until the goods struck the wash.

According to their story, good lines would stand present-day methods of machine washing and ironing just as well as they stood the old-time hand scrubbing. But, contrary to their argument, good and bad lines all go the same way when they go to the laundry. All kinds of collars look alike the second time they return from the wash, although it is to be said, in confirmation of the laundryman's argument, that they look just as bad when they come back from John Chinaman's hand process as when they emerge from the modern machine.

The sore-necks of the country are unanimous in support of Champ Clark. Saw-tooth collars and cuffs are an injustice and a wrong, a factor in the increased cost of living as well as a cause of discomfort and misery to mankind. The Democratic tariff bill will fall short of its promise if it cannot include some measure of relief for this galling and vexatious joke on the popular neck.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Maryland State Militia to Meet
The bridge officers of the Maryland National Guard have selected Belair, Md., as the place for the next encampment of the State militia. The large Fulford farm, on the outskirts of the town, will be used, and the commissioners of Belair have pledged themselves to raise the necessary amount of money to pay for the use of the tract. The encampment will begin July 8, and continue until July 11. Every militia company in the State will go to the camp, and regular army officers will be in attendance.

Church Unity

Recently a correspondent of Every Evening, in reporting the closing service held in Salem M. E. Church, at Pocomoke City, Md., by Rev. Dr. W. L. S. Murray, referred to a subject which deserves more than a passing notice—the union of all the churches and their pastors in the farewell services.

In city and country towns there often develops a seclusiveness and jealousy between churches which materially hinders the progress of church work, but it is evident that no such condition as this exists in this pretty old town along the Pocomoke. The union service referred to is a striking illustration of the growth of Church Federation. The Federal Council of the Churches of America has not insisted upon organic union of church, but has strongly emphasized unity of spirit. There was a time when such a service as the one mentioned above could not have been held, for competition, injurious, and sometimes destructive, ruled. In the present day co-operation forces its way to the front more and more, in church work as well as in business. Many have feared that the influence of the Federal Council would result in organic union of churches, notwithstanding repeated assurances to the contrary. The world is impressed most helpfully by the churches standing together against wrong and co-operating in the extension of the religious spirit. There is much that might be accomplished by all the churches combined standing together where the most earnest efforts of a single church would be powerless.—Wilmington Every Evening.

Musters Out Military Company

Orders have been issued by Governor Goldsborough for the mustering out of Company B, First Regiment, stationed at Hagerstown, one of the oldest and best known military organizations in the State. This action was necessary on account of the failure of the company to maintain the minimum strength.

Company B was known as the Hagerstown Light Infantry and also as the Douglas Guards, the latter name being given as a compliment to General Henry Kyd Douglas. The later history of Company B was identified with Captain George L. Fisher, a veteran of the Civil War. The company was under his command during the Spanish-American War, and for some years afterward maintained a standard which placed it among the finest national guard companies in the United States. After Captain Fisher's retirement some years ago the company gradually deteriorated in numbers and efficiency. The muster out of the company took place last Friday.

Postmasters To Serve Out Terms

Postmaster General Burleson announced last Tuesday that it was the Administration's policy to continue all Republican postmasters now in office to the end of their terms, provided no charges were sustained against their efficiency. The policy applies to all classes of postmasters.

"My department will be run on business lines and not by politics," said Mr. Burleson in explaining the new policy. He declared that there might be some removals, but he believed that the majority of the postmasters were efficient and would not be disturbed. "There will have to be specific charges of inefficiency, however," he added, "before anyone will be removed."

Mr. Burleson said the decision had been reached after conference with President Wilson, who favors the merit system.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

The mild winter was an excellent thing for wheat. In the previous winter, which was of unusual severity, the loss between December and April was between 4 and 5 per cent. The average loss for ten years has been 3.6 per cent.; during the past winter it was only 1.6 per cent. The present condition of 91.6 per cent. is far better than last year, two years ago, or an average of ten years. Thus we begin another crop season with an extraordinary favorable report from the earliest of our crops, and the reports collected by the New York Commercial from the South indicate unusually favorable prospects for cotton. From now on for six months the commercial world will keep one eye all the time, and generally both eyes, on the farmer.—Philadelphia Record.

Port and Starboard Abolished

Two bits of sea talk dear to the hearts of all old salts were consigned last Tuesday to Davy Jones' locker in an order issued by Secretary Daniels abolishing the designations "port" and "starboard" and replacing them with "right" and "left" in the every day parlance of land lubbers.

The change was indorsed by the naval general board, which said: "It is thought if a search is made for terms that will indicate exactly what is to be done and that are familiar from childhood to all that may become steersmen, more appropriate terms than 'right' or 'left' cannot be selected."

Made a Mason at Sight

Governor Goldsborough's absence from the banquet given to Mr. Phipps, at the Belvedere, was explained when it became known that he had ridden the Masonic goat earlier in the evening. Gen. Thomas J. Shryock, grand master of Maryland, made the Governor a Mason at sight.

It is said the Governor has the honor of being one of less than a dozen in the United States who has been made a Mason at sight. It is a privilege of the grand master to summon Masons together for what is termed an occasional lodge. This was done Wednesday, and the Governor received the honor. The late Governor Lowndes, President Taft and Vice President Fairbanks were made Masons in the same manner.

Wednesday's ceremonies lasted from 4 until 7 o'clock. The Governor was given a banquet at the close of the ceremonies.

Straight At It

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well out with it first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do it. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it with the warmest of praise. It is for sale by all dealers. [Advertisement]

Local and Miscellaneous

—Mrs. Frank T. Smith spent last week in Baltimore.

—A man is also known by the company he keeps away from.

—Some people come to grief and some wait for it to overtake them.

—Talk is cheap, but the less a man says, the less he has to take back.

—Miss Isabella Sharpe, of Bryn Mar, Penna., is a guest of Mrs. L. A. Oates, North Main street.

—Mrs. Wm. C. Hart, of Baltimore, is visiting her sister, Miss Emily R. Waters, at "Beechwood."

—Order your strawberry checks of the MARYLANDER AND HERALD office. 1,000 checks for $1.00—good card board. Heavy board at $1.25 per 1,000.

—The State Roads Commission has arranged to have every foot of State road in Maryland oiled within the next few weeks at a cost of about $100,000.

—Note the change of advertisement of the Peninsula Produce Exchange in this issue. They are ready to supply your wants when in the market for seeds.

—The Pomona Grange will meet at the home of Mr. Western Starr, near Westover, on Saturday, April 26th. Prof. T. B. Symons, of College Park, Md., will make an address. Other addresses will be made on subjects of interest interspersed with recitations, instrumental and vocal music. Let all grangers attend.

—Mr. and Mrs. Rufus D. Bowland have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marie Bowland, to Ensign Jefferson Davis Smith, U. S. Navy. Ensign Smith is from Louisiana and graduated from the Naval Academy with the class of 1910, since when he has been assigned to the U. S. S. Idaho, whose home port is League Island Navy Yard. The wedding will take place in the early fall.—Cecil Democrat, Elkton, Md.

—Captain Tony Miller, brother of the world renowned Polk Miller, Col. Tom Booker, and Polk Miller's famous quartette of southern darkies appeared at the Auditorium last Tuesday night to a large and appreciative audience. Old time melodies and plantation songs were presented, showing that, after all, the old songs are the best—at any rate they are just as entertaining and much better than many of the up-to-date rag time ditties. The life of antebellum days was cleverly portrayed by imitable stories and characteristic songs to the accompaniment of the banjo. The quartette of genuine southern negroes was unusually fine. Their voices were good and the harmony seemed perfect.

—Don't apologize for having been born. It wasn't your fault.

—Take care of the pennies and the dollars will take care of your heirs.

—Keep your advice to yourself and your friends will live to thank you for it.

—No man suffers so from insomnia that he isn't occasionally caught napping.

—The man who has a diploma from the School of Experience is pretty well fixed.

—Miss Doris Maslin, of Winston-Salem, N. C., is visiting Mrs. Frank T. Smith, on Main street.

—Miss Maggie Clarke, of Pocomoke City, is a visitor at the home of Mrs. Wm. F. Lankford, on Main street.

—A large shad was caught in the Nanticoke river last week by Edwin Willin, of West Seaford, Del. It weighed 128 pounds.

—Misses Blanche Adams, Mollie Bounds and Daisy Adams, of Princess Anne, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wilson, of Kingstown the past week.

—Wa Wa Tribe, Imp. O. R. M., sent $10.00 last week to James C. Littleton, Great Chief of Records, of Baltimore, who has been receiving contributions from Tribes of Red Men for the flood sufferers of Ohio.

—The Chestertown Transcript of Saturday says: "Rev. Dr. H. B. Martin returned from Florida this week. He reports his brother, whom he visited, as very much better, and that he will be removed to the Church Home in Baltimore in about ten days."

—The Irish potato crop on the Eastern Shore was badly damaged by the late cold snap, and is estimated that one-fourth of the seed have rotted in the ground. In Northampton, where the crop is further advanced than in Accomac it was not so severely damaged.

—Stanley Miles, so seriously injured by a motorcycle crashing into a telegraph pole at Marion, is in the best of spirits. He has excellent quarters in the hospital at Salisbury, where he is attended by his sister, Miss Gertrude Miles. He is now sitting up and hopes soon to return home.

—The County Commissioners of Allegany County have signed the levy which calls for $321,464.50, of which $125,738.80 is set apart for schools, an increase of $10,000, and $1,000 is levied for tuberculosis purposes. The rate is 30 cents on the $100, a decrease of 10 cents. The State rate is increased 72 cents. The decrease will be 3 cents.

—Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Wilson, of Kingstown, entertained at their home last Saturday evening the following ladies and gentlemen: Misses Blanche Adams, Mollie Bounds, and Daisy Adams, of Princess Anne; Addie Matthews, of Pocomoke City; Elsie Adams, of Westover; Julia and Mabel Derby, of Westover; Blanche and Margaret Ward and Esther Wilson and Messrs. Floyd Austin, Harvey Derby, Earl Harris, Henry Wilson, Granville and Carroll Wald and William Wilson. Refreshments were served at 10.30 o'clock.

—"The Courier," which has been run as a Republican organ in Salisbury for the past fourteen years, was sold Saturday, April 12th, at the Court House door under mortgagee's sale, by Messrs. Jay Williams and Elmer Walton. Only three bids were placed on the property, and it was finally sold to R. D. Grier, who it was learned later was bidding for a combination of lawyers of Salisbury, who have decided to enter the newspaper business for the purpose, it is supposed, of controlling the legal advertising of the county. The lawyers connected with the paper are Samuel R. Douglass, F. Leonard Wailes, Alexander M. Jackson, George W. D. Waller and Elmer H. Walton.

—The special committee of ministers and laymen appointed by the Wilmington Methodist Episcopal Conference on endowment fund for conference claimants—several laymen having offered to contribute large sums to start such a fund—held a meeting at Dover, Del., on Tuesday at the Hotel Richardson, after taking dinner at the hotel. Dr. George Edward Reed, of Wilmington; William L. White, Dover; Robert Watt, district superintendent of Eastern district; E. L. Hoffecker, superintendent of Wilmington district; R. K. Stephenson, superintendent of Dover district; George P. Jones, superintendent of Salisbury district; Henry P. Cannon, of Bridgeville; Walter O. Hoffecker, of Smyrna, were in attendance. Plans for presenting the important proposition to the entire Methodist membership of the peninsula were gone over.

Letter From Governor of Ohio

Under date of April 15th Governor James M. Cox, of the State of Ohio, sent the following letter to Mr. Guy I. Lawton, Princess Anne:

"For the stricken people of Ohio I want to thank you for your offering. We are touched not more by these substantial generosity than by the largeness of the hearts of those from whom they flow.

"The elements have wrought us a staggering havoc. But this is a great State. She will recover. The lights of love and hope will point the way."

Eat Blossoms And Die

Miss Amy Burhight, aged 35, is dead, and Albert Denny, 35, a fireman for the Lackawanna Railroad, is expected to die as a result of eating what they took to be "arbutus" while walking along the banks of the Susquehanna River, in Lanesboro, near Susquehanna, Pa., last week. The couple went picking arbutus and ate some of the flowers, it is claimed. Then they started to walk toward the Lanesboro station, when Miss Burhight complained of being ill, and was seized with convulsions, dying later.

Higher Rates for Crushed Stone

The State Roads Commission has been advised by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company that it will advance, on June 1, to the extent of 45 cents the rate per ton on crushed stone to points on the company's lines on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The effect of the advance will be to increase the cost of road construction in the territory affected by $1,000 to $1,800 per mile. The company gave a special law on crushed stone rate when the work of road construction was first undertaken to encourage the enterprise. It is now prepared to establish the regular rates.

Fire at Cambridge

Five dwellings, two stores and a moving-picture theatre were destroyed by a stubborn fire, which, fanned by a heavy breeze, threatened Cambridge Sunday morning. Telegraph poles burning down and left the city cut off from all but telephone communication with the outside.

The fire was of mysterious origin and was confined to the colored section, but the entire town was aroused and fought the blaze, fearing that it would make its way to the business and residential section of the white people. It took over six hours to subdue the blaze, so stubborn were the flames. Time and again sparks, carried many blocks by the high wind, fell on the roofs of business buildings and dwellings, and it required the work of a corps of volunteer firemen to keep the flames from spreading.

H. J. Patterson Now President

H. J. Patterson was elected president of the Maryland Agricultural College to succeed Capt. R. W. Silvester, who resigned in December last. Mr. Patterson was named on the second ballot taken by the board of trustees behind closed doors at the Renner, Baltimore, Thursday afternoon.

He has been connected with the college for about 15 years and recently has been director of the Experiment Station connected with the institution. He is known by practically every farmer in the State and is said to possess administrative and educational abilities that amply qualify him for his new post.

He assumes charge of the college at a time when it is undergoing a reorganization that its supporters hope will place it at the forefront of agricultural colleges of the country. New buildings have been contracted for to replace the structures destroyed by fire several months ago.

Dr. Mervin J. Eckels Resigns

Attending his first service since before last Thanksgiving Day, the Rev. Dr. Mervin J. Eckels, of the Arch Street Presbyterian Church, 18th and Arch streets, Philadelphia, recently gave notification of his resignation from the pastorate, to take effect May 31st. Dr. Eckels has been pastor of the church since November, 1893. He was born in Carlisle, Pa., and is a member of a widely known family in that section. A congregational meeting has been called for April 30th, when the members of the church will be asked to join in Dr. Eckels's request to the Presbytery to be relieved of the heavy charges devolving upon his position.

For several years Dr. Eckels has not been in health. Last fall, after a nervous breakdown, he went to the Presbyterian Hospital, where he remained eight weeks after undergoing an operation. Later he went to Atlantic City. His resignation has been handed in upon the advice of his physicians. During his illness the affairs of his church have been looked after by his assistant, the Rev. J. S. Roddy.

Found a Cure for Rheumatism

"I suffered with rheumatism for two years and could not get my right hand to my mouth for that length of time," writes Lee L. Chapman, Mapletown, Iowa. "I suffered terrible pain so I could not sleep or lie still at night. Five years ago I began using Chamberlain's Liniment and in two months I was well and have not suffered with the rheumatism since." For sale by all dealers.

Shield of Honor Meets

The thirty-ninth annual session of the Grand Lodge Shield of Honor of Maryland and the District of Columbia convened Tuesday afternoon in Typographical Temple, Washington, D. C. Grand Master James E. Dunn presided. Fifty-one lodges were represented.

The opening session was taken up in conferring the past master's degree on new members and reading the reports of the grand master, grand secretary and grand treasurer and reports of the standing committees.

The standing of the order was given in detail as follows: The total membership in the jurisdiction December 31, 1912, 4,506; initiated during the year, 124; reinstated, 14. Amount paid out in the jurisdiction for the year for death benefits, $108,000 and for sick benefits, $20,460; amount in hands of subordinate lodges, $78,615.93. Total amount received by subordinate lodges during the year from all sources, $110,641.25.

Look to Your Plumbing

You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get quick relief. For sale by all dealers.

Moor and Morocco. Moor and Morocco are words unknown to the people of that troubled land. These people know themselves as Arabs and descendants of those valiant upholders of the prophet's green standard who swept like a flood across north Africa at the time of the hebra. The Morocco of the present day they found possessed by a sturdy race who claimed descent from the people who were cast out of Canaan by Joshua, the son of Nun. Their country, so far as its plains were concerned, was taken from them by the Arabs, and their fighting strength was made to serve the Arab cause in the conquest of Spain. They themselves gradually took to the mountains, to the great Atlas. Here they have remained ever since, speaking their own language, maintaining their own customs and racial attributes and obstinately refusing to be absorbed by the Arab dwellers on the plains. These people are the Berbers. Their tongue is called Shillah. Literature they have none, in the ordinary sense of the word, but they have a rich store of oral tradition, myth, legend and folklore.

Fees of the Lecture Platform.
"The palmy days of the lecture platform"—when were they? Most folks would guess before the war, when Ralph Waldo Emerson demanded $5 a night and a tip of four quarters of oats for his horse, or a little later, when Eli Perkins used to say all he asked for was F. A. M. E. (fifty and my expenses). Wiser ones will point to the time between 1872, when Henry Ward Beecher got his first $1,000 fee, and 1890, when Major Bond paid Henry M. Stanley $100,000 for 100 lectures. They will cite Mark Twain, John B. Gough, P. T. Barnum and a long list of old timers that got from $500 to $1,000 a night in that period, and they will tell you that those times have gone. Maybe they have, but the lecture platform hasn't. Individual fees are not so high, but the business never offered better chances to the would-be entertainer than right now.—Detroit Free Press.

Of Course Not.
Mrs. Roby, the distinguished lady traveler and explorer, told some interesting stories of her experiences in central Africa.

In one of the villages through which Mrs. Roby passed, a leopard which had killed several children was captured and appropriated by the chief, who kept it in his bed for several days. Mrs. Roby visited the chief and was shown the dead body of the leopard.

"Why do you keep it?" she asked.

"Because it is a king leopard," was the reply.

"What will you do with it?" was Mrs. Roby's next question.

To which the chief replied tersely, "Eat it."

"But it smells most horribly," Mrs. Roby objected.

"I shall not eat the smell," the chief assured her.

Pronouncing London Names.
It is by his pronunciation of the place names of London that a stranger may be detected. If he says Holborn instead of "Hoborn," Marylebone with the full pronunciation of each syllable or South-west instead of "Suthark," we know at once that he is not of the town. And there is a pronunciation that is peculiar to cabmen and bus conductors, such as West-min-ster for Westminster. High park for Hyde park and most peculiar of all, which the taxi driver has inherited from the old hansom cabman, the custom of calling the well known piazzas in Covent Garden the "pees'ches." And this reminds us that the garden, as salesmen and actors call it, is invariably styled by the market porters "Common Garden."—London Standard.

A Perilous Business.
Taking young geese on the island of Rona, in the outermost Hebrides, is a most perilous business, though large captures are occasionally made. A crew recently returned with a bag of 2,200 birds, which found ready sale at Ness. The men were lowered over the face of the cliffs, which are 400 to 600 feet sheer to the sea. They then lassoed the birds out of their nests by means of a fishing rod with a noosed string at the end.

A Real Surprise Ahead.
"What are you doing, Polly?" asked her mother.

"I'm knitting, mumsle, dear," replied the young woman. "I heard George say the other day he was afraid he'd have to buy a new muffler for his car, and I thought I'd knit him one as a sort of surprise."—Harper's Weekly.

Jefferson's Admirer Was Mixed, but He Rose to the Occasion.

Jefferson was the most delightful story teller I have ever met, writes Mary Shaw in the Century, describing "The Human Side of Joseph Jefferson." His varied life and experiences were wonderfully interesting. Once we were in Terre Haute, Ind., and the theater was near a hotel. We got out of the cab and were strolling through the hotel corridor when a very pompous man came up to Mr. Jefferson, as persons frequently did, and extending his hand, said:

"Mr. Jefferson, you do not know me, but I know you very well, and, sir, I am very glad to see you in our city. You are a great actor. I have seen you ever since I was a little boy"—he looked fully as old as Mr. Jefferson—"and I have always looked forward to your visit to this place."

He went on praising Mr. Jefferson, who presently said:

"I thank you very much. You are very kind."

Upon which the old gentleman went on:

"I tell you everywhere in this town people are glad to see old Josh Whitcomb."

There was a moment of silence, and then Mr. Jefferson said:

"I think you are mistaken. I play Rip Van Winkle. You must mean Mr. Thompson. He plays Josh Whitcomb."

The effusive gentleman paused long enough to collect his wits and then said cheerfully:

"Oh, yes! So you are the old fellow who played Rip Van Winkle? Well, you're good too."

ECHOES FROM WESTOVER

Westover Happenings Always Interest Our Readers.

After reading of so many people in our town who have been cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, the question naturally arises: "Is this medicine equally successful in our neighboring towns?" The generous statement of this Westover resident leaves no room for doubt on this point.

Irving O. Dryden, R. F. D. mail carrier, Westover, Md., says: "My kidneys acted irregularly and my back was weak and painful. I could not stoop for any length of time and was unable to remain in one position long without having dull pains across my back. As soon as I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I found relief and I continued until I was cured. I have so much confidence in this remedy that I advise all kidney sufferers to give it a trial."

LEGENDS OF THE SWORD.

Curious Beliefs That Hovered Round the Ancient Weapon.

Countless legends and superstitions have attached to the sword since the days when fighting was the principal occupation of life. So highly was the sword esteemed that Mohammed in the Koran declared it to be "the key to heaven and hell."

The warrior or knight gave a name to his sword. He vowed at the altar never to draw it in a false cause. It was his companion and friend and descended from father to son for many generations. One sword named "Brother of the Lightning" had a golden hilt inscribed with magic words. In times of peace these were said to be illegible, but before a battle "they glowed red as blood."

It was believed, moreover, that a sword after long use acquired a life of its own. Many famous swords were said to utter cries before battle, and after a weapon had killed five scores it became blood hungry and leaped from its scabbard at the approach of a foe. Certain swords were said to refuse to give a wound in a bad cause. Among these was the brand Excalibur, which was given to King Arthur by a fairy and which Richard Coeur de Lion professed to own.

In the east superstitious reverence is still paid to the sword. The Daimio of Japan, when they voluntarily surrendered their rank, kept as a rule the wonderful blades which had been handed down from generation to generation, in some cases for more than a thousand years, and which had absorbed, as they believed, some of the character and life of the men that had owned them.—Harper's Weekly.

SARDINIAN BAGPIPES.

So Exhausting That Nearly All Who Played Them Died Young.

Bagpipes are the Bulgarian national instrument. Until lately the servants who waited on the Turkish grand vizier in Constantinople were mutes, though not, as in former times, persons specially mutilated, but children born deaf and dumb. They used a language of signs, with a special gesture to describe the representative of each nation. To indicate the Bulgarian agent they imitated a man playing on the bagpipes. It was not the Bulgarians who invented the pipes, however. They are among the oldest of musical instruments. An ancient gem shows Apollo with them, and two instruments in the book of Daniel are believed to have been bagpipes.

The bagpipes range not only in time from Apollo and the Bible to the present day, but geographically from China to Spain and Great Britain. England is said to have given them to Scotland. One country, however, finally lost a peculiarly severe form of the instrument. This was the Sardinian "lannedda," which had three pipes, all placed in the player's mouth, and was played by rubbing strips of wax up and down over the holes.

The work was so exhausting that nearly all the pipers died young. In 1845 George Burdett came across one who had survived to the age of eighty. But he was the last of the lannedda players, and when he died the instrument was played no more.—Chicago News.

A Champion Bore.

"I need to know a man," says Abner Peters, "who was the worst bore I ever met. He used to stop me whenever he met me and start with a line of talk, generally about himself, and stay with me for an hour or more. He was an absentminded man and had a habit of catching hold of a button of my coat and holding on to that while he talked. He would hang on to that button and just ramble on and on till I was nearly ready for the bughouse. One day a happy thought struck me. I got out my knife quietly and cut the button off and slipped away. He kept right on talking. An hour later a friend of mine came along and found the bore still standing there, with the button between his fingers and talking about the year of the big snow in Michigan. He hadn't noticed that I was gone."—Topeka Capital.

Fantastic House Names.

Switzerland can show some house names quite as fantastic as those in Holland. There is a villa near Bale christened in a way worthy of Urtat Heep—"Klein aber Mein." It would be hard, however, to parallel Gustave Dore's attempt in this direction. He expressed the name of his house at St. Cloud in a stave of music with the notes O E B A O D (do mi si la do re), which, being interpreted, means Domitille a Dore.—London Standard.

In the matter of the tax sale of real estate in Mt. Vernon Election District of Somerset county, assessed to Nathan Elzey and another, made and reported by James E. Dashiell, collector of State and County taxes for the Second Collection District of Somerset county for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909. George H. Larrimore, purchaser, ex parte.

In the Circuit Court for Somerset county, No. 2812, Chancery.

Whereas a certain James E. Dashiell, collector of State and County taxes for the Second Collection District of Somerset county, in the State of Maryland, for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, has reported to the Circuit Court for Somerset county, a sale made by him to George H. Larrimore, of all that lot or parcel of land lying and being in Mt. Vernon Election District of said county, Maryland, containing one acre of land, more or less, with the improvements thereon, bounded on the north by the land of Daniel White, on the south by the land of L. C. Wilson, on the west by the land of George Elzey, son of Nathan Elzey, and on the east by the land of George H. Larrimore, made the 6th day of February, 1908, and recorded in Liber O. T. B. No. 84, folio 526, etc., and assessed to Nathan Elzey and another on the assessed ment books of said Election district for the years 1907, 1908 and 1909, and sold for the payment of taxes due and in arrears, together with all the proceedings had in relation thereto; and whereas upon examination it appears to the said Court, that the said proceedings are regular, and that the provisions of the law in relation thereto have been complied with.

Now it is therefore ordered, by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, this 3rd day of April, in the year 1913, that notice be given by the publication of this order once a week for three successive weeks in the MARYLANDER AND HERALD, a weekly newspaper published in Somerset county, before the 30th day of April next, warning all persons interested in the said real estate to be and appear in this Court on or before the 5th day of May next, to show cause, if any they have, why said sale should not be ratified and confirmed.

The report states the amount of sales to be $9.45.

The Baltimore Star

The Leading Evening Paper of the South.

The Baltimore Star, established August 17, 1908, by the publisher of The Baltimore American, has won its place as the representative evening paper of the South. It gives more news and more reading matter than any other afternoon paper in Maryland. It is especially rich in departments—financial, sporting, society, children, women, and to these departments the best writers of America are regular contributors. The Star is the great home paper, with something for every member of the family. It is a cheerful newspaper, with plenty of entertainment, those who try it keep on taking it.

The Star is elaborately illustrated. It has the first photographs of important events. Its portraits of leading men and women are unequalled.

The Star has two great news services, with wires direct to its offices from all parts of the world. It uses every modern invention and the best enterprise to get all the news.

The Star is different from other Southern papers. It has a quality of its own.

TWO PESKY INSECT FOES.

Curculio and Codling Moth Are Responsible For Much Damage.

Spraying is the chief method of control of curculio and codling moth in apple orchards, but there are a number of other natural or artificial checks. Banding of the trees to capture the descending worms of codling moth as they search for a place for pupation will sometimes capture as high as 40 per cent of the worms upon the tree, but it cannot be considered a practical operation when such far better results can be accomplished by spraying. When bands are used they must be looked after every ten days and the worms destroyed to prevent the moth from maturing and making its escape. If this is not done they will only offer easier hiding places and do more harm than good. They are sometimes useful in trapping the first emerging worms in the summer in order to forecast the date of appearance of second generation worms.

Scraping the rough bark from trees in the spring destroys many hibernating codling moth larvae, and the screening of cellar windows and doors where wormy fruit or fruit packages are kept, for the capture and destruction of the emerging moths, is sometimes practiced. The destruction of fallen fruit for the purpose of ridding the orchard of codling moth is not a very effective measure from the fact that the majority of the worms leave the fruit before it falls to the ground. In Ohio it was shown by experiment that

APPLES DAMAGED BY PLUM CURCULIO.

72 per cent of codling moth larvae leave the apples either before the apples have fallen or within twenty-four hours after. On the other hand, the destruction of windfall apples either by picking up the fruit by hand or pasturing with hogs is advised.

Cultivation of orchards is one of the best procedures for curculio destruction. It keeps the orchard free from many of the desirable hibernation places for the adults, and it unquestionably destroys a high per cent of the insects in the ground. Shallow cultivations through the months of July and August will crush many larvae and pupae of this insect, which are present in greatest numbers just beneath the surface of the earth at this time. It is possible that cultivation succeeds in destroying some codling moth larvae.

The thinning of overloaded trees in the summer is often an opportunity for removing apples bearing these insects, and the destruction of such apples and worms at least may prevent their further damage and leave a higher per cent of perfect fruit upon the tree.

There are many useful natural insect parasites and other enemies of both curculio and codling moth.—Missouri Bulletin.

By running your plow deep enough into the ground you may keep your farming from running into the ground.—Country Gentleman.

Farm Machinery, Its Use and Abuse.

Consider the binder, an expensive machine which is needed but a few days of the year. "There is no manufacturing business that has its machinery standing idle so much of the time as has farming," said Dean Price of the Ohio College of Agriculture. "The average life of farm machinery is ten years. Counting depreciation and interest, it costs each year about 16 per cent of the original investment to keep it on the farm. The way some machinery is cared for it will cost more than this."

Mulch For Potatoes.

Irish potatoes grown under a mulch produced about 45 per cent more than the same acreage given ordinary culture at the Nebraska station. The mulch was four to five inches of straw of any kind or hay or leaves. Of course no cultivation whatever was given. The mulching of these potatoes cost less than would the cultivation, yet the mulching heavily increased the yield.

Faded Ink

By RUTH GRAHAM

Every one in the little fishing village of W. knew Jane Baxter and her history. When she was a girl of eighteen a young man named Corwith came from the city for the purpose of enjoying what was to the men of the town work, but to him sport. Jane Baxter was a pretty girl with a rosy cheek and a laughing eye. Corwith found less pleasure in fishing than in her company.

Before he left W. Corwith had married Jane Baxter. He took her away with him, but in a few months she returned a changed girl. The bloom had gone out of her cheek, the sparkle from her eyes, the smile from her lips. She said that her husband had quarreled with her and told her that their marriage was no marriage at all and if she didn't believe him to look at her marriage certificate. She did so and found all those parts that should have been filled in with ink were wanting.

She was not only astonished, but appalled. She had been banded the certificate after the ceremony by the clergyman who had married her, had glanced at it and seen that it had been filled in. Could it be that her husband had stolen the original and left a substitute? It made no difference to her what he had done since he now repudiated her. Without a word she went back to the home she had left, resumed her maiden name and lived as a woman whose life had been blighted. By doing this she gave up any chances that might have existed of proving that she had been legally married. This was doubly unfortunate, for after her return she gave birth to a son, whose interests in the matter were identical with hers. He grew up under the name of Baxter and with a stain resting upon him that the boy realized at an early age.

From his birth his grandfather, the fisherman, John Baxter, for whom he was named, took the little chap into his heart and resolved to do all in his power to give him an education. So the old man worked hard and saved much of what he earned and the lad was sent to school. He developed a taste for the sciences, and it was determined to send him to the scientific department of a university.

When he came home after being graduated, while talking with his mother about his and her future, she thought it best to tell him the story of her marriage, which was on her part real, though she believed it to be illegal. Shortly after this dialogue he asked his mother if she still retained the blank certificate she had received. Going to a closet, she brought out a tin box in which she kept receipts, took from it the certificate and handed it to John. He looked at it carefully and was about to hand it back to her when he changed his mind and put it in his pocket, saying that he would return it later.

The young man went back to the university to fit himself for an assistant professorship in analytical chemistry. He had with him the blank certificate his mother had given him and examined it with a microscope. The paper showed evidence of a slight warping in those parts where there should have been writing, though without the aid of the lens it seemed perfectly smooth. The idea at once occurred to the young scientist that the blanks and been filled in with an ink that was manufactured purposely to fade. He began an investigation as to what substances could be made to look like ink and later leave no trace.

His studies had taught him that iodine gave promise of furnishing a base for such a writing fluid. Possibly this was suggested to him from its violet hue, the color of some inks. At any rate, he entered upon a series of experiments which led to an important discovery. He found that iodine combined with starch (iodine of starch) would produce an ink that would in a few weeks fade away, leaving no trace whatever.

The question now arose, Could such an ink be restored? Upon inquiry the young man learned that no agent had ever been found to bring back its color. He made many experiments with this end in view, but they all failed.

Then he had recourse to the microscope. He tried various powers, and at last hit upon one, neither too high nor too low, which brought out the indentation on the paper made by writing of letters making up a certificate between Nathaniel Corwith and Jane Baxter by Edward Wynkoop. Giving his results to an attorney, he was advised to find Edward Wynkoop. The clergyman had died, but John Corwith found his name on the records of the theological seminary where he had been educated and various churches of which he had been pastor. The fact of his having used an ink that would fade could only be explained by the theory that it had been foisted on him surreptitiously by the man he had married.

John Corwith found that his father who had recently died, had not taken another wife and had left a snug fortune, which was about to pass to the children of the dead man's brother as heirs at law, there being no will. By means of the certificate of marriage he established his mother's claim to the property, but she would never accept a penny of it except for her son. But John required nothing to make him comfortable, for he became eminent in his profession and found it profitable.

After any Sickness

nothing so rapidly restores health and vigor as SCOTT'S EMULSION. It is the essence of natural body-nourishment, so medically perfect that nature immediately appropriates and distributes it to every organ, every tissue—feeding, nourishing and restoring them to normal activity.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is not a patent medicine, but is nature's body-nourishment with curative, upbuilding properties and without a drop of drug or alcohol. It contains superior cod liver oil, the hypophosphites of lime and soda with glycerine, and is so delicately emulsified that it enters the system without digestive effort—builds, tones and sustains.

After croup, whooping cough, measles and other child ailments it is nature's ally in restoring health.

After grippe or pneumonia it imparts strength and health, and for colds, coughs, sore, tight chests and throat troubles SCOTT'S EMULSION gives the greatest relief known.

Our Vanishing Beef

The United States for years has been living and exporting from its capital of beef cattle instead of from the annual interest or increase. That fact illuminates the reason for the increased cost of beef as well as other meats, for the experience of the cattle and beef trade is practically duplicated with other food animals. The situation is made clear in a trade report of the proper bureau of the Department of Commerce and Labor. It shows that the number of cattle on the farms on January 1, 1907, was 72,534,000, and that by January 1, 1913, the number had decreased to 56,527,000. Cattle are following the bison and if the present pace should be maintained they will be only zoological exhibits within a measurable period and people may be going out to the Carnegie Museum to view stuffed specimens and the diplodocus.

We have ceased to be an exporting nation in the matter of beef and beef cattle and have already become importers.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

Sunflowers and Temperature.

Sunflowers reduce temperature, and are known to arrest the malaria that prevails in some localities. Hundreds of homes in Missouri and Arkansas, as well as in Texas, are provided with a southern or southwestern patch of sunflowers near the home. It is said to work wonders in that respect.

Sore Throat Wisdom

If every mother could realize the danger that lurks behind every case of sore throat, she wouldn't rest until she had effected a cure every time a child has it.

Your family physician will verify the statement that it is a positive fact that every child with sore throat is in immediate danger of contracting Croup, Quinsy, Tonsillitis or Diphtheria, and is not removed from that danger until the throat is cured. Think of it! Liniments or outward application of medicines do not and cannot cure the ailment, though they may offer temporary relief. Neither can you cure sore throat with a cough syrup or a cold cure.

To cure, you must get at the seat of the disease, removing the cause. Nothing does that so quickly, safely and surely as TONSILINE. A single dose of TONSILINE taken upon the first appearance of sore throat may save long weeks of sickness, great expense, worry, even death. TONSILINE is the sticna in time.

Use a little sore throat wisdom and buy a bottle of TONSILINE today. You may need it tomorrow.

TONSILINE is the standard sore throat remedy—best known and most effective and most used. Look for the long necked fellow on the bottle when you go to the drug store to get it. 25 cents and 50 cents. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

COFFINS FOR DEAD PETS.

Funerals, Too, and Private Cemeteries and Crematoriums.

British society women are getting more and more eccentric in the attention that they bestow upon their dead pets. One titled lady keeps in a prominent position two dead dog pets embalmed in glass coffins in her drawing room.

Certain London undertakers reap a considerable part of their income by making coffins for pets. These are often satin lined, the animal's head rests on a satin cushion, and maybe its "face" is covered with a lace handkerchief. Wreaths and flowers are used, and where burial takes place in a cemetery a hearse is sometimes engaged, with mourning carriages following. The monumental masons also benefit.

Many people prefer cremation for their pets, and there are any number of veterinary surgeons who have a crematorium fitted up. In some cases the ashes, canine or feline, as the case may be, are inclosed in a beautiful jeweled urn. A favorite bird is sometimes buried in a bed of cotton wool.

The well known pet cemetery in Hyde Park is now full, but there are plenty of similar cemeteries throughout the country. There is one, for instance, at Huntingdon, and another at Haverhill, in Suffolk. In addition to this, there are hundreds of gardens in London where headstones marking the last resting place of some departed pet can be seen.—Brooklyn Eagle.

FEATS IN DIVING.

Combination Somersaults of the Expert Swedish Swimmers.

The Swedes delight in "combination diving," and two men will perform many clever feats together. One of the most grotesque of these is when one man stands upright on a springboard and tightly grasps another man's body around the waist, holding him head downward and putting his own head through the man's legs. When the upright man springs from the board he throws his legs into the air so that the two men, clasping each other tightly round the waist, turn a somersault, and when they reach the water the man who started upside down arrives feet foremost.

The hand spring dive is a very effective specialty of Swedish swimmers. The performer takes off from the diving board with hands instead of feet, turning his body in order to descend feet foremost or somersaulting to arrive head downward.

Very graceful also is the back dive, in which the spring is made backward, the body turning toward the springboard.

Double somersault dives are made from platforms thirty to fifty feet high. The diver making two turns in the air and entering the water feet foremost.—London Saturday Review.

A Heavy Collar.

The heaviest burden which the French president has to bear during his tenure of office is the collar which he wears as grand master of the Legion of Honor, an office which is always filled by the ruler of France. The collar consists of medals, each the size of a franc, engraved with the arms of the principal French towns and joined together by a massive chain, the links of which are fashioned to represent bundles of victors' rods. Attached to the chain is a cross close on two feet in length. As the decoration is made throughout of solid gold, its weight is enormous, and diminutive presidents, such as MM. Thiers and Loubet, found it almost unbearable. Fortunately the president is not often called upon to cumber himself with it. The only occasion when M. Loubet wore his grand master's collar appears to have been the day he was invested.—London Chronicle.

Dog Heroes.

At a recent dog show in London one department had a row of kennels in which was exhibited a line of "dog heroes," dogs that had served humanity in a noble way. These canine nobles proved to be the great feature of the show. Among these, all authenticated cases of noble conduct were a Scotch collie that had saved a child from being run over in the street; an Irish terrier that had guarded the body of an old woman who had died from exposure; a collie that had saved a child from drowning and an Alredale that had saved his master from being stabbed by a Norwegian sailor.

"Why, he asked for a kiss, and I told him I wore one of those knotted veils that take so long to loosen."

"And what did he do?"

"Why, the goose took time to untie the knot."—Mack's Monthly.

Young Lady—Really? What business are you in?

Very Young Man—I'm a son-in-law.—London Tit-Bits.

"Why?"

The Best Bargain You Ever Made

OW do you measure the value of a bargain? Suppose you bought an engine that did practically all of your hardest work for you, sawing, pumping, grinding, etc., and that saved so much money that it soon paid for itself. Would you call that a good bargain?

An IHC engine will do all that, and more. Having paid for itself, it works steadily year after year until, like our Clay County friend who has used an IHC engine for six years, you will say, "My IHC engine is the best bargain I ever made."

IHC Oil and Gas Engines

are thoroughly dependable, and unusually durable. The fine-grained, grey iron cylinders and pistons are worked together to a perfect fit. Ground piston rings insure maximum power from the explosion. The fuel mixer is the most effective known. Bearings are large and carefully fitted. No part is too heavy to be efficient, yet every part is simply strong.

IHC engines are made in all styles—vertical and horizontal; portable and stationary; air and water-cooled; in sizes from 1 to 50-horse power, to operate on gas, gasoline, naphtha, distillate, kerosene or alcohol. Oil tractors, 12 to 60-horse power, for plowing, threshing, etc.; grinding, sawing, pumping and spraying outfits, complete the line.

The IHC local dealer will show you all the good points of the IHC engine. Get catalogue from him, or write

Webb's Talking Pictures

The improved talking pictures, the invention of George R. Webb, of Baltimore, have been taken over by Klaw & Erlanger and will be exploited by legitimate managers, under the general direction of Pat Casey, along with their recently announced feature film enterprises.

The Klaw & Erlanger-A. H. Woods-Pat Casey Protective Amusement Company, of New York, organized for the advancement of the moving-picture industry, is making rapid strides in the development of its stupendous undertaking. It is declared they have secured thus far 103 theaters in the United States, which they will supply with feature films, showing moving pictures of standard plays, these houses to give two shows nightly.

On the large tract of land they purchased at Fort Lee Heights, N. Y., they have contracted with Henry C. Smith for the erection of the largest film studio in the world, from plans drawn by Architect Andrew Hayek. The building is under a bond to have the edifice finished by July 1. It will cost $50,000, and the plans call for a one-story structure, excepting the actual studio portion, which is to be 80 feet high. The entire building will be 200 by 250 feet, of brick, steel and concrete construction, and absolutely fire-proof.

Preventive for Codling Moth and Plum Curculio

The School of Horticulture of the Maryland Agricultural College and Experiment Station has just completed the spraying and pruning demonstration inaugurated in February. There has been a great demand for these demonstrations in all parts of the State they have been largely attended.

Growers are recognizing more and more the importance of starting the trees right by pruning them properly.

The time will soon be at hand when apple orchards should be sprayed with the concentrated lime-sulfur solution 1-40, and 2 pounds arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water, applied just as the blossoms fall, to prevent injury from Codling Moth, Curculio and various diseases.

Peach orchards should be sprayed just as the shucks are falling from the young peaches with the self-boiled lime-sulfur, 8 pounds lime, 8 pounds sulphur and 2 pounds arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water.

The School of Horticulture desires to also conduct as many spraying demonstrations for these pests as possible, to show the growers of any community how orchards can be made to yield fine quality fruit with such treatment.

Anyone desiring bulletins on treating orchards for these pests or desiring demonstrations in their community should communicate at once with the School of Horticulture, Maryland Agricultural College and Experiment Station.

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscatine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. Jones druggist. (Advertisement)

Gold Medal For Best Composition

A gold medal to the school boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 15 who writes the best composition, not to exceed 800 words, on the repair and maintenance of earth roads, is to be awarded by Logan Waller Page, Director, Office of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. All compositions must be submitted to Mr. Page before May 15, 1913, and the medal will be awarded as soon thereafter as the compositions can be graded. The composition may be based on knowledge gained from books or other sources, but no quotations should be made.

After many years' experience in dealing with the public road situation of the country, it is Mr. Page's belief that ignorance on the subject of repair and maintenance of roads is as much the cause of their bad condition as any other one factor. It is expected that the competition will bring about a better understanding of the subject of repair and maintenance in the rural districts.

Many children living in the rural districts have experienced the disadvantages of roads made impassable through a lack of proper maintenance and it is expected that their interest in the competition will stimulate greater interest among the parents. Bad roads have prevented many children from obtaining a proper education and have prevented doctors from reaching the side of rural patients in time to save their lives.

Any child between the ages mentioned, attending a country school, may compete. Only one side of the paper must be written on; each page should be numbered; the name, age and address of the writer, and the name and location of the school which he or she is attending must be plainly written at the top of the first page. The announcement of the competition has been sent to the superintendents of schools in the rural districts. No further information can be obtained from the Office of Public Roads. This announcement should be plain to everyone, and all children will thus start on a basis of equality.

Bankers Meet at Delmar

The Tri-County Bankers' Association, comprising representatives of all the banks in Wicomico, Worcester and Somerset counties, met in Delmar Wednesday afternoon, as guests of the two Delmar banks. The meeting of the Association was held in the Masonic Temple and there were representatives present from 25 banks. After the business meeting was over, the visitors were given a splendid banquet at the Stone House, served by Caterer T. A. Vasey. S. K. Slemmons acted as toastmaster and after dinner speeches were made by C. S. Caldwell, L. E. P. Dennis, Orlando Harrison, L. W. Gunby, F. A. Grier, Dr. S. A. Graham, William S. Gordy, J. L. Wynne and Irving Culver.

The meeting was presided over by William B. Spiya, cashier of the Bank of Somerset, of Princess Anne, president of the association. Addresses of welcome were made by Mayor Culver and J. G. W. Perdue. J. L. Wynne, of Crisfield, read a paper on "Examinations." W. S. Gordy, of Salisbury, gave an address on "Exchange." S. K. Slemmons, of Delmar, spoke on the subject of "Overdrafts." Charles S. Caldwell, president of the Corn Exchange National Bank, Philadelphia, delivered an address relative to the co-operation of the banks and the farmer.

An invitation was extended the association to hold its next meeting at Snow Hill, and was unanimously accepted. Previous to the meeting, the visitors were taken over the town in automobiles.

WEDDING AT REHOBETH

Miss Matthews Married to Mr. DeMar Last Wednesday

A wedding of much interest in Somerset and Worcester counties was solemnized last Wednesday at noon, in Rehobeth Presbyterian Church, when Miss Elizabeth Frances Matthews became the bride of Mr. Edmond H. DeMar. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. G. Martin, pastor of the church. The church was attractively decorated with potted plants, cut flowers and evergreens. During the ceremony the bride and groom stood under an arch and bell of foliage and white flowers.

The bride wore a travelling suit of champagne, chiffon broadcloth, with hat to match and carried white sweet peas and maiden hair fern. She entered the church with her maid of honor, Miss Sarah Lankford, who was gowned in King blue, brocade charmeuse, with black picture hat and carried arm bouquet of pink carnations and ferns. The groom, with his best man, Mr. Charles Matthews, brother of the bride, approached the altar from the right aisle, and there awaited the bride, who came in by the left aisle. The ushers were Messrs. Charles S. Powell, Arthur Lankford, George Powell and Clayton Davis. The groom, best man and ushers wore boutonnieres of sweet peas and ferns. Miss Louise Matthews, the younger sister of the bride, played the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner, as the bridal party entered the church; "O Promise Me" was rendered during the ceremony, and "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" as the party left the altar.

The bride, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Matthews, has been quite popular in the social circles of Somerset and adjoining counties. The groom is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. DeMar, now of Snow Hill, but formerly of Boston, Mass.

At ten o'clock breakfast was served at the bride's home, to the bridal party and relatives. The centerpiece was carnations and ferns attractively arranged. Other cut flowers decorated the dining room and parlor.

After the ceremony the young couple were driven in an automobile to Pocomoke City and they took the 12.47 express for Atlantic City and other northern cities and upon their return from their bridal tour, Mr. and Mrs. DeMar will reside at Riverside, Pocomoke.

Hicks' Forecasts For May

With a regular storm period central on the 4th, and extending from the 2nd to the 7th, expect all the results due under such astronomic conditions. The Moon is on the celestial equator on the 2nd, and in conjunction with Earth and Sun on the 6th. It will grow suddenly very warm on and about the 2nd, the barometer will fall to low readings, and a series of threatening thunder storms will set in, passing from west to east over the country. The 4th, 5th and 6th will be the dates of greatest storm culminations, although the 2nd calls for active lightning and thunder. Change to clearing and cooler weather will follow in the immediate wake of the storms.

A reactionary storm period is central on the 9th, 10th and 11th. The Mercury equinoctial period begins in this reactionary period, and its added influence will be noticeable in thick, prolonged cloudiness, with tendency to drizzle and rain. Very cool nights with probable frosts northward, will come with the high barometric area behind these storms.

A regular storm period, and the Mercury period both have their centers on the 16th. While the effects of the Mercury disturbance will be apparent from about the 9th to the 20th, it will be felt in greatest power during the storm periods within the mercury brace. This will be especially true on and about the 15th, 16th, 17th and 18th. The Moon being in perigee and on the celestial equator on the 15th, electrical and wind storms of great energy are apt to appear on and touching that date.

A reactionary storm period involves the 21st, 22d and 23rd. On and touching these days all the meteorological elements will undergo a periodic change—temperature will rise, barometer will fall, cloudiness will ensue, and renewed storms of more or less rain, wind and thunder will make their transit eastwardly across the country. The center of another seismic period falls on the 20th. Very cool nights forso late in the season will result from the high barometer, and other anti-storm conditions, about the 23d to 26th.

A regular storm period covers the last week in May; being central on the 27th. The Moon is at last quarter on the 27th, in apogee on the 28th, and on the celestial equator on the 29th.

Strawberry Buds Nipped

Mr. Nelson H. Fooks, of Preston, Caroline county, while in Baltimore last Wednesday said:

"There was an extensive frost on the Eastern Shore on Tuesday morning. I made an investigation of several patches of strawberries and am convinced that the crop has been injured at least 25 per cent. This means that the crop will be short by 25 per cent. The damage will be a serious blow to our truckers. The pea crop has also been injured, not by frosts, but by sand. We have had severe windstorms which have carried sand into the pea blossoms. I am also afraid that the peach crop has been injured by the frosts. Eastern Shore truckers have prepared to go extensively into growing vegetables and fruits this year and it will be a hard blow to them if the unfavorable weather destroys their profits. Even growing wheat may be hurt by the frosts."

According to reports of Anne Arundel county the crop of berries, as well as other early fruits, have been badly injured as a result of the cool weather following the heavy rains. There was frosts both Saturday and Sunday nights and in some sections of the county ice is reported to have formed. But the strawberry crop was harder hit than any other crop. Several farmers state that at least three-fourths of their crop will be a failure.

115 Dead in Mine Explosion

The lives of 100 miners, possibly 120, were snuffed out shortly after noon last Wednesday when a disastrous explosion occurred in the Cincinnati mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, at Finleyville, about 27 miles southeast of Pittsburgh, Penna.

Over three score of workmen in the mine made thrilling escapes to the surface, crawling most of the time on their hands and knees through deadly gas fumes and over debris. A number sustained burns. The force of the explosion was terrific. Mine cars were splintered and a 15-ton motor was turned over. Many feet of mine track were twisted.

It was announced by officials of the Pittsburgh Coal Company that 190 men entered the mine in the morning and that 75 men are known to have made their escape after the explosion.

—Most of us get what we deserve, but only the successful will admit it.

ROADS COMMISSION BUSY

Plans to Have 500 Miles Completed When Cold Weather Sets In

If the calculations of the State Roads Commission do not prove wrong the end of the present year will see not less than 500 miles of the State roads system completed, which will be about one-half of the mileage in the original plan to connect the various county seats and principal towns in the counties.

Just now the contractors are getting to work for the season, some on work that was partly completed last fall and many others on contracts let this year.

On March 1 just past the records of the Commission showed that 314.31 miles had been completed and paid for. There are now under contract many sections of road in the various counties, with an aggregate mileage of 106.59, while there are many contracts yet to be let.

It is the calculation of the Commission that with the early start already made there will be built this year 204.50 miles road, and this will bring the total mileage above 500. If as much as 200 miles can be completed this year the board will make a high record for such work, as it has taken four years to complete the 314 miles now accepted.

If the work that is planned for this year is completed there will not be much money left to carry on work next year, and the coming legislature will be asked to provide means to carry on the work for two more years. With the necessary funds at hand, the system as originally outlined can then be pretty well completed, and it should be possible to go from one end of the State to the other, visiting every county seat, without having to use any bad roads. The total expenditure of the State Roads Commission up to March 1 last was $5,169,673.33.

A good start has been made this year and most of the contractors have their machinery on the ground and ready to begin work. Some have gone to work. In a couple of weeks things should be in full swing all over the State. Contracts have been let this spring for 68.41 miles at a total cost of $672,169, besides this there are two bridges let in separate contracts which will bring the total up to $676,696.33.

Contracts let this year, the prices and the contractors are as follows:

Baltimore county—City limits to and through Towson, 4.45 miles, Elder Paving Company, $89,435.47.
Carroll county—Fountain Valley-Frizzelburg, 1.37 miles, T. C. Moller, $17,634.25; Cranberry-Mexico, 1.08 miles, T. C. Forsythe, $16,027.40; Taneytown-Frizzelburg, 2 miles, Hassam Paving Company, $16,853.29.

Cecil county—Elkton-Chesapeake City, 4.60 miles, Allen Engineering and Construction Company, $47,506.95; Elkton-Northeast, 2.46 miles, E. Ward Brown, $20,100; Elkton toward Northeast, 2.25 miles, Chesapeake Construction Company, $22,500.

Frederick county—Frederick-Middleton, six miles, William H. Claggett, $25,010.

Garrett county—McHenry-Hoyes, 4.39 miles, J. E. Francis, $59,126.50.

Harford county—McCann's Corner-Conowingo, .90 miles, Little & Spencer, $7,921.35; Harford road, 2.40 miles, Luck Construction Company, $12,500.

Howard county—Ellicott City west, 2 miles, T. C. Forsythe, $9000.

Kent county—Locust Grove to Galena, 2 miles, Juniata Paving Company, $19,839.

Montgomery county—Cedar Grove to Damascus, 2.12 miles, T. C. Moller, $25,732.51; Frederick line toward Damascus, 2 miles, Hassam Paving Company, $26,852.12.

St. Mary's county—Mechanicville to Oaks, 5 miles, Hassam Paving Company, $53,136.25.

Somerset county—Crisfield to Marion, 3.09 miles, Hassam Paving Company, $30,425.56.

Talbot county—Easton to Wye Mills, 2 miles, Hassam Paving Company, $19,536.54.

Washington county—Hancock to Allegany line, 2 miles, T. G. Robinson, $23,140.60; Hagerstown to Clearspring, 8 miles, H. H. Kaylor, superintendent, $36,000.

Prince George's county—District of Columbia line to Marlboro, 4.71 miles, McGuire Construction Company, $46,636.38; T. B. to Charles county line, 3.59 miles, McGuire Construction Company, $43,188.91.

Four Injured In Auto Crash

Turning sharply to the right to avoid the on-coming machine of W. Harry Maguire, last Tuesday evening, the five-passenger touring car of William Travers, of Taylor's Island, jumped a ditch in Church Creek road, five miles from Cambridge, struck a tree, rebounded 15 feet and threw some of its occupants 50 feet. The machine was going about 30 miles an hour and was nearly demolished by the impact. In the rebound the steering wheel struck Travers in the stomach and serious consequences are feared. Others in the party were Miss Eudora Travers, who sustained a sprained ankle; Carroll Dail, injured back; Miss Margaret Brewwood, injured collarbone, and Leon Travers.

SEES RELIEF IN REVISION

Underwood Predicts Benefits To Nation Through Pending Tariff Bill

Beginning the debate in the House Wednesday on the Democratic Tariff Revision Bill, Representative Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, the majority leader, predicted great relief for the nation through the passage of the pending bill.

Mr. Underwood, in outlining the bill, severely criticised the protective tariff theory based on the cost-of-production differences at home and abroad and praised the competitive tariff theory, declaring it would strengthen American industry and send American productions into the world's markets. He denounced the raising of taxes by the protective tariff as unjust, because, he said, it taxed equally the working men and the multi-millionaire.

He pointed out that the rates in the pending bill were substantial reductions from the rates in the existing law and declared that the lower rates would result in a reduction in the cost of living to the consuming public.

Mr. Underwood did not discuss the income tax feature of the bill, leaving that to Representative Hull, of Tennessee, who will speak later.

"The enactment of this bill into law will mark the end of an era in the fiscal administration of this country and the beginning of a new one," Mr. Underwood began, while the Democrats applauded. He discussed the origin of the present "high tariff system," declaring that it was instituted as an emergency measure during the Civil War.

"These unjust war taxes," he said, "have been maintained ever since, and those who had amassed fortunes under them have controlled the Government, except for one brief interval."

Referring to the increase in the cost of living, Mr. Underwood said:

"A great proportion of this increase was caused by the abnormally high protection given the great manufacturing interests of this country under the Republican tariff. 'But I believe,' he added, 'that within a reasonable time, after the merchants have disposed of the goods bought under high protective tariff, the people of this country will find the cost of living decreased.'"

New Hospital For Cambridge

Governor Goldsborough last Tuesday told of a fine new hospital for Cambridge, the gift of a new York millionaire whose name, he said, he is not in position to reveal at this time.

"Recently I was approached by a rich man in New York, whose life is full of good deeds," said the Governor, and was requested by him to suggest a philanthropy to which he was willing to make a contribution. He expressed a willingness to give $35,000. I consulted my brother, Dr. Brice W. Goldsborough, and other physicians and friends in Cambridge, who suggested that the fund be accepted and that it be used in the erection of a hospital in Cambridge, to be devoted to maternity purposes. I laid the proposition before the gentleman who made the offer and he accepted it.

"The sum is sufficient for the erection and equipment of the building. We shall rely upon state aid and private subscriptions for maintenance. The building will be erected on the grounds of the Cambridge Hospital, which are ample for the purpose. This hospital is one of the finest in the state. It was erected at a cost of $70,000, of which sum the late John E. Hurst, of Baltimore, who was a native of Dorchester county, contributed $30,000. Accommodations will be provided in the new building for 26 women to whose use it will be exclusively devoted, not only as a maternity hospital, but for a rest place for women. It is our hope that we shall be able to provide accommodations for children of working women, a place where children can remain during the day while their mothers are at work. With this object in view we shall put forth our best efforts to erect a pier into the Choptank River, which will be an additional playground for children as well as a place of recreation for convalescing and weary women, for whose comfort, happiness and pleasure we cannot do too much."

The new hospital to be given to Cambridge is the second charity on the Eastern Shore for which rich Northerners are responsible. The other is the Aged Women's Home at Salisbury to whose construction an maintenance John Benjamin Parsons, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Traction Company of Philadelphia, contributed liberally. The home was originally founded by Mrs. Louisa Collier, of Salisbury. Mr. Parsons generously aided her in her first small efforts by purchasing a dwelling in Salisbury which was the first home. When this became inadequate a larger home in the suburbs was purchased. On this property was a mortgage of $5,000. Mr. Parsons, during a recent visit to Salisbury, which is his native town, paid off this mortgage.

PROTECT MARYLAND GAME

State Game and Fish Protective Association Will Introduce Law for that Purpose

The Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association is promulgating a State Act to be passed at the next session of the Legislature looking to the better protection of game and fish within the State borders.

Synopsis of proposed law for Maryland which will be introduced by the Maryland State Game and Fish Protective Association in the Legislature of 1914, and which will provide at least $30,000 for game protection and propagation: Makes it unlawful for any person to hunt, kill or pursue game in Maryland without a license, to be obtained from the clerks of the Circuit Courts of the counties and the clerk of the Superior Court of Baltimore city. A resident of Maryland pays $1 and a non-resident $10, including clerk's fees. Following the form adopted in twenty-four states owners of farm land, their children or tenants, are exempt while gunning on their own or leased lands; provision is also made for a non-resident tax payer to assessed value of $500 to be classed as a resident. The license is not transferable and expires June 1st.

Provides the manner in which licenses shall be issued, by mail if desired; safeguards the handling of the funds so that no portion of the money shall be used except for protection and propagation. Provides a penalty of not less than $10 nor more than $25 for violation, exempts the Susquehanna Flats and any county which already has a Resident Hunting License.

Money to be expended in the counties in proportion to number of licenses issued in said county. This means division of the money paid by residents of Baltimore city, calculated as over half of what will be received, among the counties according to the number of licenses said county issues. For example if a county issues 5000 licenses it gets five times as much money as a county issuing 1000; if any county exempts itself from the bill, it gets nothing.

The bill follows the form which has been found most successful. Maryland has one paid game official to look after the Game and Fish Laws, which cost the State $3,800 per annum, and does not propagate any game whatever, nor does the State own any game preserves.

New York has eighty paid game officials and spends $200,000 per annum on game protection and propagation, and has a number of State game preserves. The tax-payers pay the bill in Maryland, while in New York the sportsmen and those who profit from the game pay under a dollar Resident Hunting License, which is now the law in 39 States.

Found Unburied After 50 Years

Mute testimony to one of the many tragedies of the Battle of Gettysburg was discovered in the wild mountain region eight miles west of Gettysburg, Pa., when the remains of a Confederate soldier, with much of his equipment, were discovered under almost a foot of leaf mold, the accumulation of a half century. The body was found by Clarence A. Wills while surveying a tract of land seldom traversed save by hunters. He was attracted to it when he stepped on the end of the barrel of an old musket. Digging away the leaves he found the hammer and lock and the trade-marks showing the English-made gun which was much used in the Confederate Army. A belt buckle, part of a canteen, several dozen Confederate minie balls and other equipment were found upon further search, and finally a shoe was discovered. All were close together between two huge rocks, and possibly never have been discovered had not the surveyor's line chanced to run over the spot.

A flattened bullet bore testimony to the manner in which he met his death. The two large rocks are on an eminence which commands a view for 20 miles or more and overlooks the route of his retreat after the battle. A large rear guard followed the Confederate Army and is known to have been scattered over the territory where the body was found. Kilpatrick's Union Cavalry pursued over the same ground, and the theory held by local historians is that the Confederate skirmisher was standing on one of the rocks when struck by a Union bullet. He fell between the two and either died immediately or was in such a weakened condition that he was unable to climb out.

Big Suffrage Victory

The suffragettes won a great victory in the Pennsylvania legislature last Thursday when the Senate passed, with barely the necessary number of votes, the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution giving women the right to vote. The vote was 26 to 22.

The resolution had previously passed the House and it must be adopted by the legislature of 1915, after which it goes to the people for ratification.

Farm and Garden

FOR FUTURE PORK.

How to Handle the Squealers and Their Dams to Get Best Results.

In raising hogs cheaply it is necessary to begin with the sows. They must be fed well in order to produce a good litter of strong, vigorous pigs. Oats are a splendid feed. They are a well balanced food. Corn is not suitable. It is too fattening. Also provide plenty of pure water. Exercise is necessary. This can be provided by feeding the oats on a feeding floor, scattering them thinly. It is not necessary to grind the oats. The sows should be handled so one can go up to them at any time. A good time to have them farrow is about April 1. A good place is a stall in the horse or cow barn. The time of farrowing can be determined quite exactly. The milk comes into the teats four to six hours before farrowing. Don't feed the sow for twenty-four hours after farrowing, but give her slightly warmed water. Then feed some feed like oats and some shorts. When the little pigs are five or six weeks old begin feeding them some grain feed like ground oats. A good way is to fence off their trough so the sow can't get to it. Wean the pigs when about twelve weeks old.

A good pasture should be provided. For early spring a rye pasture is fine. This can be followed by a mixed pasture, as follows: Peas, two bushels per acre; barley, one bushel, and rape, three to four pounds. Some grain should be fed, as the pasture alone will not be sufficient. Then plant a patch of squaw corn. The pigs can be turned into this the middle of August. The sows that are to be used for breeding should not be turned into the corn, but keep them on the pasture and feed some grain, as oats or shorts. This requires the minimum of labor and makes cheap pork.

An expensive hog house is not necessary. A straw shed will answer very well. Set up some posts in a circle, with an alley leading to the east. Put woven wire fence on the posts and some poles on top. Throw the straw over it when thrashing. The A shaped houses are fine for the sows after they have farrowed.—W. R. Lanson, Superintendent Hettlinger Substation, N. D.

DAIRY FARMS LAST.

The greatest advantage in dairy farming is its relation to the fertility of the soil. No other system of farming excels it in this respect, and but few equal it. A farm used for dairy purposes does not lose in fertility, but gains, and may be used for this purpose almost indefinitely.

Drilling Oats is Best.

Oats which are drilled usually yield just a little better than when broadcasted. Because of the uniform covering less seed is required and the ripening is more even.

Quick Work With Alfalfa.

Alfalfa land should be disked as early in the spring as the ground is in condition, as alfalfa starts rather promptly and will be injured if it is already under way.

"GOING TO LAW."

According to a recent decision of the United States supreme court, the states have no power to annul contracts between railroads and shippers limiting the liability for loss of interstate shipments.

Where a tenant from year to year remains in possession after the expiration of the year with the acquiescence of the landlord and without a new agreement a tenancy for a new year on the date is created.—Griswold Versus Brantford, Conn. 68 Atl. Rep. 937.

The Wonderful ALADDIN Lamp

Wonderful because it produces a luxurious, soft, white light, excelled only by sunlight. Burns ordinary kerosene or coal oil, the cheapest of all illuminating fuels. Burns Less Oil than Any Other Lamp of Equal Candle Power. Aladdin Lamps are most durable in construction—easiest to take care of—simplest in operation. The light is brighter and easier on the eyes than gas or electricity. Occultists declare the Aladdin Lamp the Best and Most Light Known. Users declare it is not only the best light, but the best lamp known. There is No Equal. The Aladdin is superior by test and best by comparison. It appeals to those who want superlative excellence for its own sake—appeals to those who consider economy a first essential. Odorless, noiseless, simple, safe and clean—The Ideal Lamp for the multitude. Don't be bamboozled by an imitation. There is only one Aladdin. Insist on having it. The name is on every burner.

A DIPLOMATIC EPISODE

It Occurred In Connection With the War Between the States

By HUDSON E. EASTON

Everybody who knows anything of the diplomatic history attending our internal war knows that Napoleon III. endeavored to induce England to join him in intervening and putting an end to the struggle by a division of the states. It is equally well known that the czar of Russia, not content with neutrality, said to the ambassador of France, "Tell your master that if he interferes in the American civil war I will strike him." At the same time he showed his readiness to stand by the federal government by sending a fleet to New York.

This is history, or rather a synopsis of the diplomatic history of that time. But in diplomacy, while the results come out, the moves on the chess board that go to make a game usually remain secret. True, now and again some one of these moves leaks out, but it never bears the official stamp of truth. The following episode is a case in point:

One day the American minister in St. Petersburg called an official of the embassy into his private office and said to him:

"I have just come from an audience with the czar. He has told me that he has sent word to the emperor of France that he will not permit the dismemberment of the American republic by European interference. But the czar fears that Napoleon will induce England to join him in intervening before the latter learns of the czar's position. England once committed cannot well withdraw, and England and France together will be too strong for Russia, especially as the matter would be fought out on the water. It is of vital importance that the British government be at once advised of the czar's position, and I wish you to carry an official communication to that effect. I warn you that that fox, Napoleon, has the best spy system in the world, and it exists right here in St. Petersburg as it does in Paris. The French ambassador will endeavor to keep the English government in ignorance of the czar's stand as long as possible, so that her master may make an English alliance for the purpose of intervention before the czar's intention is known in Downing street."

"We are watched by French spies. Our mail in going through the Russian post is watched by Russian officials in the pay of the French ambassador. There is no avenue that is not spied upon. Your going will be known, and only the most unceasing vigilance will enable you to get to London with your message. If possible do not sleep on the way unless you are guarded. Remember the union of the states depends upon your success."

"That same evening the official, whom we shall call Roger Coleman, entered a railway station in St. Petersburg and was making his way to a westbound train when a railway official, with a "This way, sir," led him to a coach, opened a door and put him in. There was but one vacant seat, and as soon as Coleman had filled it the official shut the door and locked it.

At the first stop most of those who were in the compartment with Coleman got out, and at the second station the seats were all left vacant except one occupied by a young girl. Several persons, seeing that there were only two persons in the compartment, started to enter it, but they were told by an official standing by the door to go to another coach. Some time before the train moved on he shut the door and locked it.

The light in the coach being poor, Coleman folded his arms, closed his eyes and leaned his head back on the cushion. He had no intention of going to sleep. He was simply thinking of the journey before him and wondering how he would be interfered with if at all. For some time he sat perfectly motionless. Then between his eyelids he saw the girl, who sat on the other side of the coach and opposite him, begin to look at him. Suspecting her, he began to breathe like a sleeper and finally to snore. Then she reached for his traveling bag, which he had placed on the seat beside him. Coleman snored lustily. The girl opened the bag, and her face lighted up with pleasure at seeing a passport lying on the very top of some toilet articles. Withdrawing it, she thrust it in her bosom, shut the bag and, leaning back in her seat, pretended to sleep.

Instead of endeavoring to prevent the theft, Coleman snored on. And this is what he said to himself: "That being one of several passports I have with me, I shall not be delayed by its loss. I was guided to this compartment by a railroad official or a man disguised as a railroad official in the pay of the French ambassador, the compartment having been previously packed by the same person with those who held tickets for the first and second stations on the route. This girl was to be left alone with me to steal my passport."

At the next station the girl left the coach, and Coleman, being alone in the compartment and learning from the guard that the train did not stop again for an hour, got a little sleep. After the next stop there was none till the train reached Vilna, and since no one got in with Coleman he slept till reaching that city. The first important stop he reached after having crossed the border was Konigsberg in Germany, and from there, after skirting the Baltic, he passed through Hamburg and Bremen and reached Holland without adventure. Indeed, he did not look for his enemies in Germany, believing that Holland, being much nearer Paris, would be a far better ground for their operations. He purposed to cross the North sea from Rotterdam.

Besides his hand bag, Coleman carried with him a leather portmanteau, but his official letter from the American minister at St. Petersburg to the prime minister of England he carried on his person. On entering Holland in order to outwit his enemies he kept his portmanteau on the floor of the car between his heels. A lady entered the compartment who seemed to be ill, leaning her head back on the cushion and closing her eyes. At the first stop after her entrance she said, evidently with effort, to Coleman:

"Would monsieur be so good as to go into the station and bring me a glass of water? I am suffering with a burning thirst."

"Certainly," replied Coleman, and he went for the water. When he returned the sick lady and his suit case were both gone. Those in the coach told him that the lady, fearing he would be left and parted from his baggage, had got out, taking the portmanteau with her. He did not think it worth while to look for her, so, handing the glass of water to a waiter he had brought with him from the station, not forgetting a tip, he entered the coach, and the train sped on. He regretted the loss of his clothes, but once more he had foiled his enemies and at the same time had learned their tactics.

Unfortunately this gave him a present false security. A passenger, taking out a cigarette case, asked the only two other passengers besides Coleman for permission to smoke. It was granted, and Coleman also assented. All were becoming drowsy when they were startled by a crash of a window pane. Coleman, having suddenly become suspicious that the fumes of the cigarette the man was smoking was drugging, feeling himself coming under its influence, had swung his hand bag against the glass. A current of air at once restored those affected, but no one seemed to understand why Coleman was in such a hurry for air as to smash a window. A few minutes later the train stopped at a station, and the smoker got out.

On approaching Rotterdam Coleman nerved himself for the crowning attack of his journey. Undoubtedly some one person had planted these traps in his way and had been informed of their failure. He would therefore instruct his hirelings to prevent at all hazards the passage of the traveler across the channel. The main danger would be in going from the railway station to the boat. On alighting at the former Coleman, carrying his bag in one hand and a cane he had brought from St. Petersburg in the other, entered the street. It was growing dark, and he fancied he might skulk through some of the narrow streets without being observed.

He was passing through one of the narrowest, dimmest streets of Rotterdam when he saw a man ahead of him emerge from a passageway and look about him. Realizing that he would probably be taken in front and rear at the same time, Coleman glanced back and saw another man coming toward him. Hurrying forward, when he reached the man in front the fellow stood directly in his way and asked him in French the time. Coleman held his bag and his cane in his left hand. Seizing the handle of his cane with his right, he pulled it from the other part, revealing a blade nearly two feet long and held it point down over the head of the man who blocked his way. The fellow ducked and ran like a deer behind him. Coleman took advantage of his absence to dodge into the passageway from which his adversary had emerged and ran for an open street. Seeing an empty cab standing by the curb, he stepped in, told the coachman to drive him to the boat and was rolled away.

He was now near the water and only to pass from land to sea. When he alighted from the cab he saw a man standing with a paper in his hand beside the gangway. On reaching the shore end of the gangway the man stepped in his way and began to read something to him. Coleman, understanding this to be a process of law to delay him and noticing that the man was standing very near the edge of the dock, pretending to believe he was in danger of being left, rushed toward the gangway and over it, knocking the process server into the water. A policeman stood ready to follow the reading with an arrest, but the attention of every one was diverted to the man spluttering in the water. Coleman, taking advantage of the distraction, ran aboard the boat and, going down into the hold instead of up into the cabin, found a convenient cranny in which to hide.

The boat did not leave for two hours, but either the hunters for the message bearer gave up the chase or could not find their man. As soon as the boat had left the dock Coleman went into a stateroom, locked the door and, throwing himself on a berth, went to sleep.

He did not awaken till the boat touched the English coast. Then, rousing himself, he went ashore, took a train and in a few hours was in London.

Here the narrative which was written by Coleman to his wife in 1863 and from which this story has been taken ends. There is no mention of the presentation of the information he bore to the English government, but the fact remains that Napoleon III. failed signally to induce England to intervene in American affairs.

Teaching Good Manners

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young announces that hereafter the teaching of good manners will have a place in the curriculum of the Chicago public schools. No one should object to having the children learn their "manners" and the school ma'ams ought to help the parents, or where parental instruction and example is lacking ought to instill the germ of gentility and politeness into the minds of the youngsters, but why put it into the curriculum which already in the average public school is crowded to such an extent that it over-reaches the time limit with home study and cuts down the essentials of instruction to an undesirable minimum?

To be sure, some graduates of the old-fashioned public schools have been known to feed themselves with their table-knives, have shown a lack of familiarity with finger-bowls and otherwise have betrayed ignorance of all the requirements of the code of polite society, but in the majority of cases they have accounted their school-time quite as well spent as if they had devoted a stated number of hours a week to conning the pages of a book of etiquette. In most communities there is a generally accepted belief that men and women who qualify as school teachers are by nature or breeding possessed of such manners as instinctively, by example or personal precept, to suggest the gentle art of society and only the occasional incorrigible among their pupils evidences a need for a "course" in manners. But Chicago may be different. Mrs. Young ought to know, and if the boys have been putting their feet on the desks and the girls have been chewing gum in public and cleaning their teeth with hair-pins and hat-pins, they surely should be corrected, even if their spelling-blanks, continue to look like a page from the report of the commission on the simplified code.—Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

One-Cent Letter Postage

Action on the part of Postmaster-General Albert S. Burleson, involving the appointment of a commission to investigate the "actual financial, physical and working conditions of the postal service" is regarded by business men all over the country as the initial step towards one-cent letter postage. Postmaster-General Burleson indicates that there have been so many conflicting reports as to the general conditions of the department that he has decided to have a full and complete investigation made with a view to determining the exact status of affairs. The commission is composed of Daniel C. Roper, Joseph Stewart, A. M. Dockery and James I. Blacklee, first, second, third and fourth assistant Postmaster-Generals, respectively, and Mr. T. O. Chance, chief clerk of the department. These are the new officials just appointed under the Wilson administration to conduct the affairs of the Postoffice Department.

Now that the parcels post is in actual operation and bids fair to be extended during the next few years, it is claimed by business men generally that their demand for one-cent letter rate should be heeded. They point to the fact that the Postoffice Department is now realizing an enormous surplus, something like $65,000,000 per year, from the letter mail. Although letter mail constitutes but 14 per cent of the revenue of the department it pays about seventy-five per cent of the revenue received from all classes, and it is evident that this is a decided discrimination against users of first-class or letter mail.

It is to investigate the entire problem with a view to making recommendations for a suitable readjustment that the commission will deal. Sentiment in favor of a one-cent letter rate is now strong throughout the country, according to officers of the National One-Cent Letter Postage Association, which has its headquarters in Cleveland, and which is conducting a vigorous campaign for the lower rate.—Wilmington Evening Star.

President Wilson Going to Jersey

President Wilson will go to New Jersey to campaign for the passage of the Jury Reform Bill on Thursday, May 1st. The President will be accompanied by Secretary Tumulty, Senator Hughes and a number of New Jersey congressmen.

Paterson, N. J., will be the first stop. The President will speak there on the evening of May 1, and at Jersey City on the evening of May 2. These will be the only two official utterances of the former governor of New Jersey, but he will confer with a number of New Jersey men on May 2, in an effort to push the bill through the special session of the state legislature.

The Rising Sun of Love Begins to Shine on Woman's Tears

A "morals court," intended to deal mercifully and helpfully with girls gone wrong, has just been started in Chicago. The first offender is spared the shame of public exposure and placed under sympathetic parole. The victim of disease is provided with hospital care under women physicians. To all erring sisters wishing escape from the life of vice, aid is given—not charity, but the free-hand aid of the State, so far it is yet available. It is upon the men who entrap and then prey upon these women, that the rigors of the law are henceforth to fall.

Does this mean that society is getting ready at last to do justice to a pariah class?

For all the years since Christ tenderly lifted the sobbing Magdalene and bade her sin no more, the attitude of society, notwithstanding its profession of Christian ideals, has been, not pitiful, not merciful, not eager to lift up and inspire with the vision of a better way, but scornful, contemptuous, severe.

It has stoned the victim while letting the victimizer go free.

It has bowed its head in homage to wealth wrung from woman's exploitation in industry and from woman's martyrdom in vice.

It has cultivated a vulture civilization because unwilling to apply the Golden Rule.

It is a cheering sign that this cruel and futile old way of dealing with the social evil is beginning to lose popularity at last.

It is heartening to find growth of desire to do something for the fallen woman other than to kick her deeper in the mire.

It is refreshing to see signs of support for policies that tend to check the power of greed to abuse the daughters of the free.

It is fine to watch the rainbow of promise form as the rays of the rising sun of love begin to shine on woman's tears.—Wilkes-Barre (Penna.) Times-Leader.

Gettysburg Anniversary

Preparations for celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg are now being energetically pushed. The query has been going the rounds as to how the town of Gettysburg will manage to care for the thousands who will visit the site of the famous battle next July. The answer is that Gettysburg is not bothering and will not have to bother over the entertainment.

An army of laborers, under charge of United States engineers, is now laying out an area of 238 acres for an encampment of 40,000 veterans of the Union and Confederate armies. Here a tented city with streets and avenues will soon be created. There are to be 5,000 tents, each with accommodations for eight men. The Blue and the Gray will lie down in peace together, though the veterans of the two armies will occupy different sections of the tented city.

The problem of entertaining visitors who are not veterans will be worked out in the same way that rural towns handle the fair week crowds. Visitors from afar will probably take the precaution of engaging sleeping quarters in Baltimore. There will doubtless be dining tents in abundance in proximity to the railroad terminals. Special wells are being driven to assure an abundant water supply. The railroads are also making special preparations to handle the crowds.—Baltimore American.

World's Largest Candle

The largest wax candle ever modeled will be burned on feast days in the Vatican at Rome to the memory of J. Pierpont Morgan, if the hopes of Father E. T. Monteleone and his parishioners of Our Lady of Mount Carmela's Roman Catholic Church in Jersey City are realized. The candle is now being molded at the expense of Father Monteleone's church, whose members share their pastor's admiration of Mr. Morgan's life. It will cost $1,500 to make the candle and send it to Rome.

The candle will be 16 feet high, with a base 18 inches in diameter, tapering to six inches. If the candle was lighted one day each year it is estimated that it would last for 300 years, and if burned steadily it would not be consumed in less than nine months. If a place can be found for the candle in the Vatican it is also hoped to place with it at its base an oil portrait of Mr. Morgan.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is tenfold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price 75 cents per bottle. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation. (Advertisement)

A Good Prescription, if You Can Take It

There is the warrant of Scripture as well as philosophy for Dr. Osler's advice to "take no thought for the future" and "make the limit of your life the twenty-four hours of a day." This is another way of putting the familiar advice, "Don't worry." It sounds well to say, "touch a button that will shut off the past and another that will shut off the future." Such buttons are not put in every brain, and it is not easy to make them to order. The advice is something like that which a doctor gives to a poor patient—"take a European trip and rest a year." Worrying is a question of temperament to a considerable extent, and the born worrier has a harder fight to shut off the troubles of the past and the fears of the future than the optimist whose skies are full of rainbows. There are some people, indeed, who thrive on melancholy and are happiest when they are miserable. To them Dr. Osler's prescription would carry darkness and not light.—Baltimore Sun.

Gotham's New Courthouse

Plans for New York county's new courthouse which became public last week made it appear that the metropolis is to have its first great round building. Pictures of the proposed structure suggest the coliseum with a replica of the Pantheon in Rome about the central court or main lobby, which rises to the height of three stories.

To the relief of the square-cut skyscrapers of downtown New York this immense circular, 500 feet in diameter, will be erected over a site covering four city blocks, which center at Worth and Center streets, within a stone's throw of the new municipal building and city hall square. The building will contain 51 courtrooms and will cost approximately $10,000,000. It is said that Guy Lowell, the architect who won in the competition of play drawing over 22 other architects, will receive a commission of about 6 per cent of the total cost of the building, or the remarkable fee of $600,000.

Straight At It

There is no use of our "beating around the bush." We might as well out with it first as last. We want you to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy the next time you have a cough or cold. There is no reason so far as we can see why you should not do it. This preparation by its remarkable cures has gained a world wide reputation, and people everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. It is for sale by all dealers. (Advertisement)

At the time of her death Mrs. Todd was nearing her 66th year. She was born in Salisbury and has one brother living, Mr. Edward Irving, of Baltimore. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. L. E. Williams and Miss Kate Todd, and one granddaughter, Miss Francis Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Williams. Mrs. Todd was a cousin of the late Judge Levin T. H. Irving, of Princess Anne.

—Deputy Collectors Safe

Deputy Collectors of Customs now second in command at all ports of the United States probably will retain their positions under the Democratic administration and have direct charge of the customs offices when the customs reorganization plan becomes effective July 1st.

Deputy collectors are now in the classified civil service and, as the new plan continues the civil service protection, it is said to be the intention of the Treasury Department to leave them unchanged except for increases in the salaries of a few whose duties will be increased by the reorganization. The collectors of customs who will supervise, under the new plan, the work of the deputies in direct charge of the ports in their respective customs districts are not protected by the civil service.

Capt. Wharton's Home Burned

Fire destroyed the residence of Capt. Charles Wharton, on West Chesapeake avenue, Crisfield, at an early hour last Thursday morning. The fire was discovered by a pedestrian shortly after 3 o'clock, and although an immediate alarm was turned in, the building was burned to the ground. Captain Wharton's family were visiting relatives in Dorchester county, and he had not been home for several days. The absence from the home of all members of the family would seem to indicate that the fire was the work of an incendiary. The loss is only partially covered by insurance.

Value of Good Roads

Summarizing in paragraph some of the advantages of good roads, a set of resolutions adopted by an Illinois Good Roads Association says: "Improved roads mean better schools and larger attendance, better health and quicker transportation, better farms and more cultivated land, better crops and cheaper transportation, better economic conditions and more producers, better social conditions and less isolation, better church attendance and better citizens, better postal service and closer friends, better business and more consumers, better industries and more employment, a better state and better nation." These are all things quite worth while. Good roads cost money but the returns compensate for the expenditure.

—Mr. Wilkinson to Tour State

Lloyd Wilkinson will carry his warfare against William H. Anderson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, into the counties. He is contemplating a tour of the entire state.

As far as his plans have been completed Mr. Wilkinson will first visit the Eastern Shore. He has engaged halls at Easton and at Denton, in which he will make speeches similar to that which he recently delivered in the Lyceum Theater in Baltimore and in which he did not mince words in his references to Mr. Anderson and to his methods. He had been attacked by Mr. Anderson, who did not accept Mr. Wilkinson's challenge, under the latter's conditions, to meet him in joint debate on the local option bill. While on his state crusade against Mr. Anderson, Mr. Wilkinson will incidentally look after his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for clerk of the Court of Appeals. He has abandoned his original intention to seek a Democratic nomination for the House of Delegates in the second legislative district of Baltimore, in which he was defeated two years ago.

—Religious Advertising

A religious advertising campaign that is causing a tremendous amount of thought and discussion in Baltimore and also attracting nation wide comment, is being conducted in the Saturday issues of The Baltimore News. The mere thought of advertising the church caused some people to hold their hands in horror, but in nine cases out of ten, it is simply because they have never before thought of what advertising can do for Christianity, and how much Christianity at the present time is in need of modern publicity methods.

This religious advertising campaign in The News was inaugurated January 4th. It started off with a dignified and, at the same time, most effective appeal for the Church. It gave reasons why the men and women of Baltimore should go to church.

Although Baltimore was the first city to inaugurate a religious advertising campaign, on the other hand, the idea is not new. For some time past ministers and laymen throughout the land have been considering the advisability of modern advertising methods applied to the Church. Only recently the Publicity Committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement thoroughly investigated the possibilities of advertising.

Since this advertising began in Baltimore, three other cities have followed, namely: Philadelphia, Chattanooga, Tenn., and South Bend, Ind., and in scores of other communities effort is being made to inaugurate similar campaigns.

It is understood that in Baltimore the advertising is being paid for by a group of Baltimore business men who believe modern advertising methods can accomplish much for the Church.

By special arrangement with The Baltimore News announcement is made that subscriptions to the Saturday News containing the two-page religious section and this much talked of half-page religious advertisement, will be sent by mail to any resident of the State for fifty cents a year.

—To Explore Darkest Africa

The American author, Stewart Edward White, is fitting out an expedition at Santa Barbara, Cal., to go to Africa and journey through the still unexplored wilds of that continent. The territory to be visited lies southeast of the Nyanzas lakes. The region, it is said, has never been seen by white men.

—Found a Cure for Rheumatism

"I suffered with rheumatism for two years and could not get my right hand to my mouth for that length of time," writes Lee L. Chapman, Mapletown, Iowa. "I suffered terrible pain so I could not sleep or lie still at night. Five years ago I began using Chamberlain's Liniment and in two months I was well and have not suffered with the rheumatism since." For sale by all dealers. [Advertisement]

TRUTH TELLS

And the TRUTH Is Told—
In Our Advertisements

By HOLLAND.

MERCHANTS have learned that the Truth Tells when the Truth is Told. Hence they are scrupulous that their advertisements are accurate. Back of every advertisement, back of every statement made to attract custom, is the reputation of the merchant, his hope of continued success.

Deception may be profitable for a time, but deception cannot be permanent, and the profit based on deception is necessarily brief. Truth is the more effective as it is of longer duration. Falsehood loses its effectiveness as soon as it is discovered.

The merchants who advertise in this paper are honorable men, and this would make them truthful. But above all they are good business men, and they know that TO BE SUCCESSFUL THEY MUST BE TRUTHFUL.

Read the advertisements and profit by them. You can rely absolutely on the statements made in the advertising columns.

Origin of the Christmas Stocking.
From Italy comes the legend from which we are supposed to get the time honored custom of hanging up the Christmas stocking. Good old St. Nicholas of Padua used to throw long knitted purses tied at both ends into the open windows of the very poor people, and these purses were of yarn and not unlike a footless stocking. Finally it became the custom of the people to hang these empty receptacles out of their windows on the night before Christmas so that St. Nicholas would put a gift into them as he passed by. By and by, when the coin of the realm became scarce, toys were put in for the children and useful presents for grown people. In the north country, where it was rather chilly at Christmas time, the purses were hung on the mantelpiece, and it was believed that the good old saint would come down the chimney and fill them. When these purses went out of fashion stockings were substituted and have been used ever since.

Feeling a Presence.
Reading a book recently, the writer was arrested by one sentence: "If I went into a room without knowing you to be there I should at once feel your presence." It is the imaginative address of a man to a woman. Most of us possibly have that curious instinct—the obverse of that of the horse that will not rest in a stable that has housed a bear—the instinct that knows the presence of the affinity. There are people—being to the general view excellent citizens—whom you cannot abide. There are people whose presence you detest and resent, and though you could give no particular reason for the antipathy you would rather die suddenly than live in the same street with them. Those are usually, I think, relatives of some sort who have the traditional claim to make themselves a nuisance. But haven't you felt the presence of the person you like?—London Chronicle.

Encouraging.
Recently an employee in a business house who had held a clerkship for several years went to the boss with a plea for an increase in salary.
"I asked you for a little more salary a year ago," said the clerk, "but you told me that you were not able to give it to me at that time. Now a little baby has come to our home, which will add to the expense, and I would be very glad if you could favorably consider my request."
"I see, I see," thoughtfully replied the boss. "Let me think it over a minute. Boy, I suppose?"
"Yes, sir," happily answered the clerk, greatly encouraged by his employer's attitude.
"I think I can fix it," responded the employer. "I won't be able to give you any more money, but just as soon as the boy gets big enough we will find a position for him in the office here."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Next to Them.
Said the guest he had unexpectedly brought home to dinner that evening, "that I have put you out."
"Not at all," she replied sweetly: "not at all. We gave you just what we were going to have ourselves—just our ordinary dinner, you know."
"I wish I could believe that, but I still feel that I have put you to a great deal of trouble and annoyance. If so I am sorry that I allowed your husband to persuade me to come."
"I don't want you to feel that way at all. We were delighted to have you with us. We love to have our friends drop in and take pot luck with us."
And when he got outside he looked back at the house and muttered: "Liar! I smelled corned beef and cabbage when I entered that home, and what I got was English mutton chops and green peas."—Detroit Free Press.

Supporting a Husband in Wales.
The quaint Pembrokeshire village of Langwm and the Gower village of Penclawdd have something in common besides their Welsh connection. In both the woman takes a leading place. At Langwm when a forthcoming marriage is announced one often hears the exclamation, "Peggy, can she keep a man?" At Penclawdd when a young woman gets married the very first thing some of the stoutest old maids ask is: "Dear me! Ffordd mae hona'n myn'd i gadw gwr?" ("Dear me! How is that one going to support a husband?")—Western Mail, Cardiff.

Sea Gypsies.
In the archipelago of Mergui, off the coast of lower Burma, live the "sea gypsies." Instead of carts they own covered boats, in which, with their families, dogs, cats, chickens and pigs, they float about on the sea and wander from island to island. By day they fish or harpoon turtles or dive for pearls, and at night they seek the shelter of the land. Only in very bad weather do they seek employment on shore. They seem to have solved the housing problem in a manner perfectly satisfactory to themselves and pay no rent or rates to any man.

Pains in the Stomach.
If you continually complain of pains in the stomach, your liver or your kidneys are out of order. Neglect may lead to dropsy, kidney trouble, diabetes or Bright's disease. Thousands recommend Electric Bitters as the very best stomach and kidney medicine made. E. T. Alston, of Raleigh, N. C., who suffered with pain in the stomach and back, writes: "My kidneys were deranged and my liver did not work right. I suffered much, but Electric Bitters was recommended and I improved from the first dose. I now feel like a new man." It will improve you, too. Only 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. History of the Horse.
The horse has been employed in the service of mankind, both in peace and war, since earliest times. Indeed, his origin is traditional, antedating history many years. They were kept in Syria, for in Genesis it speaks of Joseph giving his brethren bread in exchange for horses. They were also very plentiful in ancient Egypt, as there were "horsemen" and "chariots" in Pharaoh's army when he chased the children of Israel into the Red sea. In Kings we read of "Solomon, who had 40,000 stalls of horses," so Palestine was well supplied. As to color, horses were of various colors in ancient times, the same as now, for in Zechariah i. 8, and vi. 2, we find "white horses, black horses, red horses, bay horses and speckled horses" are mentioned. In James iii. 3, is this: "Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths that they may obey us." The native habitation of the horse is supposed to have been Tartary, and from whose herds have spread the horses of the world.—Gleaner.

Breaking In.
Mother—Dear me, the baby has swallowed a piece of worsted. Father—That's nothing to the yarns she'll have to swallow if she lives to grow up.

Encourage Kindness in Children.
Kindness is one of the habits that is latent in every normal child. It must be encouraged, and you may be sure that the child that is kind to animals and birds will be considerate in his treatment of persons. There is always something interesting in children. Children love anything with life, and if taught to care for birds, or even animals there will be a certain growth of responsibility that makes for good character.

The Builders.
Talk about the imagination of a poet or painter, why the man with the real imagination is the man who builds great railroads through the deserts and in the wilderness. He sees more than the mere day's work. Civic progress is the result of imagination.—Jarvis Hunt.

SERVANTS IN ITALY.

An Interesting Experience With Their Perquisites and Wages.

A New England family spent last year in Italy, keeping house that the daughters, who were studying art, might have the comfort of a real home. They were much pleased with Italian servants, whom they found full of a delightful friendliness, equally removed from servility and impertinence; but, alas, these charming servants were not strictly honest. They had mysterious arrangements with the tradesmen, commissions, perquisites, pickings, treats to innumerable cousins. The mistress was troubled, yet she knew her Marietta to be a treasure whom it would be folly to dismiss.

Instead she summoned her and suggested, with careful delicacy, a curtailment of these self assumed privileges, offering increased wages in return. Marietta agreed, but at the end of a week withdrew her assent.

"I cannot—no!" she declared vehemently. "At first I thought but of the money. Now I have time to think of other things, and I find myself insulted. Twenty times I put out my hand to take what I must not and what I have always taken. Then I feel like a thief—I, who am an honest woman. If I am to serve the signora longer she will pay me as before and trust me. I have judgment and discretion. I do not forget her interests. A trifle here, a trifle there, what does it matter? If it is more one week it is less the next and always such a little. I cannot be tied to my wages as one ties a greedy boy to the leg of the table that he may not reach the jam. Surely the signora understands?"

Marietta remained, and continued to be judiciously and discreetly honest in her own fashion.—Youth's Companion.

MANILA'S GRASS HOUSES.

Source of a Sort of Continuous Performance Conflagration.

Fires are much in fashion in the city of Manila. Conservatively estimated, 1,000 houses are destroyed annually. Perhaps two or three times that number of people are made homeless each year. The conflagrations are not due, as might be supposed, to lack of adequate protection in fire fighting equipment—at least, not since the United States took charge.

The fault lies in the style of building or, rather, in the materials used. All the business houses in old and new Manila are built of concrete, stone or hard woods, sometimes of all three. The wealthier natives and most foreigners have houses of stone or fine hard woods, but the districts occupied by the working class are invariably built up of nipa (a dried grass) and bamboo.

Both of these materials, especially nipa, are extremely inflammable. And, as frequent destruction of these shacks or huts means increased business for the nipa dealers, incendiarism is rampant during the dull season. Naturally the dull season is in dry summer, when the leaves cure and when fires flourish.

Tondo, an endless tenement quarter, is composed almost solely of nipa huts, a single square block containing anywhere from 100 to 400 houses, according to size. The houses in most instances are so solidly built as to afford room only for pedestrians to pass between them. The Paco and San Nicholas districts are much the same.—Engineering.

Liquids We Consume.

According to a recent statistician who has been computing the amount of liquids consumed in the United States in one year, we drink enough tea, coffee, wine and other popular forms of liquid refreshment in a year to cover an area of land ten miles square and ten feet deep, which is a large enough lake to float a navy. And the amount of alcoholic beverages alone which seemed to be necessary to satisfy the national thirst would fill a canal 100 miles long, 100 feet wide and 10 feet deep.—Chicago Tribune.

Prince Consorts.

The last century was more fertile in female sovereigns than the present. In the forties three young queens occupied the thrones of England, Spain and Portugal—Victoria, Isabella and Maria da Gloria. Their respective consorts were Prince Albert of Saxe-Coburg, the Infant Francisco d'Assise and Prince Ferdinand, another Saxe-Coburg. The last two were granted the nominal title of king, to which Prince Albert never aspired.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Man of High Principles.

Scotsman up to London for the week end, who has been asked by his friend to go to a music hall—Na, na, mon! D'ye no ken I never visit a music hall on th' Saturday, for fear I should laugh in th' kirk on th' Sabbath?—London Opinion.

Those Bills.

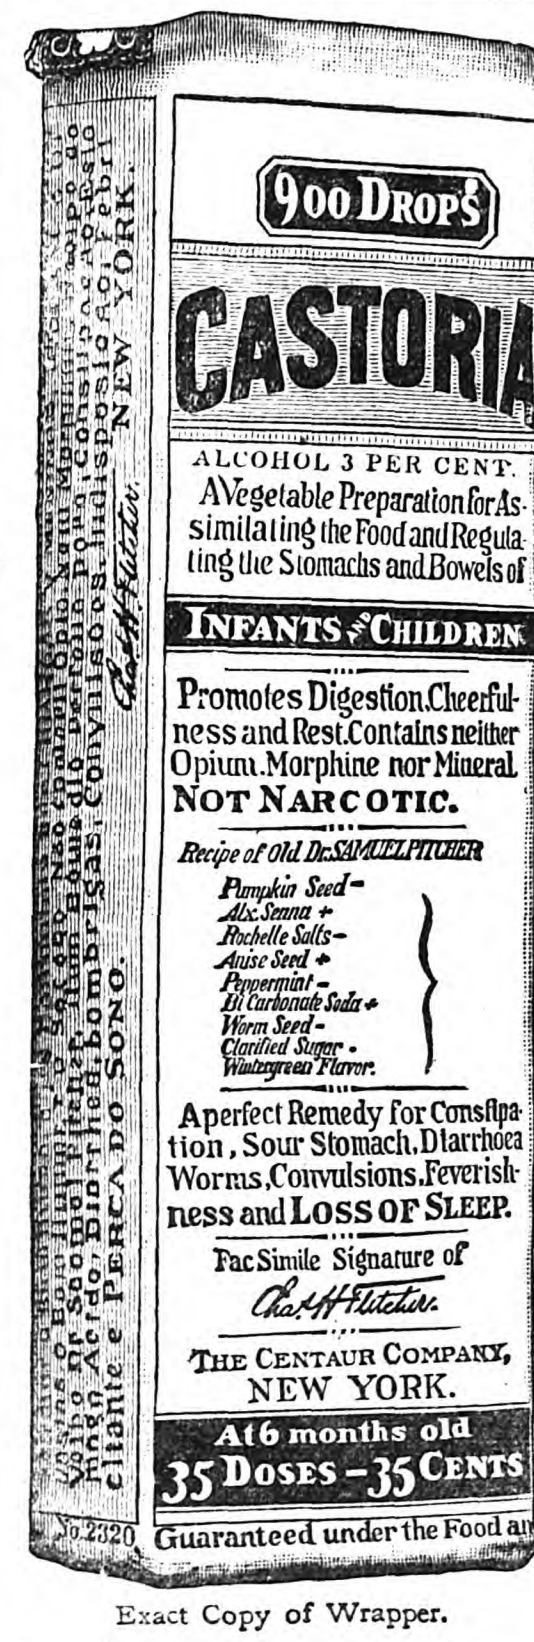

"Yes, indeed, it's really astonishing how many people call to see me when I am not at home," remarked Mrs. Tride.

"It's always that way on the first of the month," replied the lady from next door.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Well Fixed.

Clarence—Why don't you keep something for a rainy day? Clara—Don't be silly, dear. Haven't I the prettiest raincoat and umbrella you ever saw?—Judge.

To want something, to look forward to the day when you may perhaps possess it, is not necessarily to be discontented.—K. Burrill.

The Baltimore Star

The Leading Evening Paper of the South.

The Baltimore Star, established August 17 1908, by the publisher of The Baltimore American, has won its place as the representative evening paper of the South. It gives more news and more reading matter than any other afternoon paper in Maryland. It is especially rich in departments—financial, sporting, society, children, women, and to these departments the best writers of America are regular contributors. The Star is the great home paper, with something for every member of the family. It is a cheerful newspaper, with plenty of entertainment, those who try it keep on taking it.

The Star is elaborately illustrated. It has the first photographs of important events. Its portraits of leading men and women are unequalled.

The Star has two great news services, with wires direct to its offices from all parts of the world. It uses every modern invention and the best enterprise to get all the news.

The Star is different from other Southern papers. It has a quality of its own.

Thrilling Railroad Experience on Horseshoe Curve.

SAVED BY A WEIRD WARNING.

The Remarkable Signal Light That Summarily Stopped Two Trains That Were Rushing on to Certain Destruction in a Head-on Collision.

Once upon a time if any man had asked me if two locomotives rushing toward one another head-on and with no human agency between could avoid a collision I would have replied, "Not by any earthly power." Since I have had my fling at railroading as a Grand Trunk brakeman in Canada, however, I do not feel so cocksure about impossibilities. I venture to say that any man who passed through that affair at Sandy curve, in western Ontario, finding himself as suddenly rescued as he was suddenly in peril, would not be too glib in future regarding what can and what cannot happen.

On one section of my run lay what was probably one of the most dangerous curves on any railroad route in America outside the Rocky mountains. They called it by many names—Sandy curve, the Horseshoe, the Devil's elbow, and the Switchback—but of all descriptions none fitted it so well as the Horseshoe, for the track formed exactly that shape. In order to save the cost of a tunnel the construction engineers had taken the road around the head of a mountainous cliff that jutted out into the lake and then back 100 yards to the mainland. Between the points of the curve loomed an ugly wall of granite 300 feet in height, a barrier absolutely impenetrable to light and sound. The curved roadbeds forming the two sides of this curious piece of pioneer construction had their point of contact, of course, at the toe of the shoe, beneath which lay the glistening waters of the lake. The Horseshoe curve was notorious for a long series of nasty accidents.

It was the 7th of November and miserably dark and foggy. Five miles from the curve I was passing across an open platform between two coaches when I heard our whistle shrieking. In the forest of spruces and those ugly galleries of granite the sound echoed and throbbed until it fell to a murmur. At that moment it seemed to me that I caught the glare of another whistle, a trifle louder than our last echo. A shudder ran down my spine, and I leaned far out on the steps, but nothing could be seen, and the sound was not repeated. I mentioned the incident to the conductor, but he only laughed at me. That did not make me forget the blast I had heard sifting out of the spruce trees, and I knew in my heart that it did not come from our locomotive.

To keep my mind off my fears I went forward to the baggage car and chatted with the "newsy." Then I fell asleep on a bench.

"Crunch, click!" and then a final series of crunches.

I knew that meant the air brakes, and jumped on to the limit. In an instant I was up and, grapple in my lantern, tumbled through the door after the news agent. The long train was swinging far out on the Horseshoe curve. The lurching and grinding of the brakes were like the torture of a nightmare. With a last painful grating of the buffers the train came to a standstill. Passengers, conductor and train crew were coming forward in great alarm, but before we could reach the locomotive the engineer loomed out of the darkness, his face glowing with a fearful excitement. "Did you see?" he cried violently, and I never saw a railroad man more overcome. "Look yonder!"

We all stared where he pointed. Above the dismal lake, about a hundred yards from shore, there hung suspended a ball of brilliant, snow white fire, as if the moon had lost her bearings and had tumbled toward the earth. We were deathly silent at the sight. No one volunteered an explanation.

"Don't you understand?" yelled the engineer. "Don't you people understand? There is a train on the opposite side of the Horseshoe, and it was coming up to meet us at twenty miles an hour. We missed each other by an act of God!"

Then I saw what he meant. That strange ball of light suspended over there in the darkness was the focus of the two headlights, and both engineers had seen it in the nick of time.

We stood there like statues. I know my heart was beating like a hammer, and my comrades were pale faced and open mouthed with wonder.

When we had in some measure recovered ourselves we all marched forward to shake hands with the fellows on the other train. An inquiry? Of course there was, and our conductor was "fired" for disobeying instructions. The fact is we should never have approached the curve until the other train had passed us on a switch several miles this side of it—Wide World Magazine.

A Hint Taken.

"These opera glasses were given to me a year ago," she said sweetly. "Aren't they beautiful?" he replied. "Yes," she answered, "but I discovered this afternoon that they're beginning to rust from lack of use." Whereupon he tumbled to himself and invited her to go to the theater. Detroit Free Press.

Great Gains in Equal Suffrage

STATES—Oregon, Arizona and Kansas

CONVENTIONS which have endorsed equal suffrage—National, Progressive, Prohibition and Socialist Parties.

New York - all parties
Pennsylvania - " "
Massachusetts - " " Connecticut - Democratic
New Jersey - Republican
Iowa - Republican
Nebraska - Republican
Nevada - Democratic

GOVERNORS who have recommended equal suffrage:

New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Iowa, Montana, Michigan, Nevada, Indiana and West Virginia.

LEGISLATURES that have passed constitutional amendments providing for the enfranchisement of women:

Michigan, Montana, South Dakota, Nevada, North Dakota, Amendments passed by one session awaiting action by second, New York, New Jersey and Iowa.

THE CASE FOR WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE IS BASED ON CHANGED CONDITIONS

100 YEARS AGO

Government was principally concerned with war and the protection of property; comparatively few women were wage earners; married women had no property rights; education was denied to girls.

TODAY

Government concerns itself with the special interests and environment of home and children, and with all the social and industrial problems of life. 96,000 Maryland women are wage earners, the law recognizes women as property owners, the average woman is as well educated as the average man.

Women need the Vote because Votes alone decide all questions connected with government.

VOTERS OF MARYLAND!

It is un-American and un-democratic to refuse what a majority of the People demand and it is un-American and un-democratic to withhold from the People the opportunity to make such a decision therefore;

We want the Democratic and Republican parties to endorse, at their conventions, the submission of a constitutional amendment providing for the enfranchisement of women.

SUFFRAGISTS OF MARYLAND—We Need Your Help

1. Volunteer to secure 100 voters' signatures to our petition asking for the submission of equal suffrage to the voters for decision. Send your name to the Just Government League, 817 N. Charles St., Baltimore, and we will send you petition blanks.
2. Come to Baltimore and march in the Suffrage Parade starting from Washington Monument, 5 P. M., Rain or Shine, Saturday afternoon, May 31st, 1913.

Rheumatism Neuralgia Sprains

Opportunities.
"There is a tide in the affairs of men," admits a wise writer, "but there is no gulf stream setting forever in one direction." The man who grows careless and self-confident because of success will soon find that no current of prosperity will take the place of thought and effort, and no one need think "luck" is so persistently against him that he is destined to failure whatever he does. There are opportunities and there are misfortunes, but there is no gulf stream of luck, good or bad.

Glory of Life.
I look on these sentiments which make the glory of the human being, love, humility, faith, as being also the intricacy of divinity in the atoms; and that as soon as the man is right, assurances and provisions emanate from the interior of his body and his mind; as, when flowers reach their ripeness, incense flows from them, and as a beautiful atmosphere is generated from the planet by the averaged emanations from all its rocks and soils.—Emerson.

HUMOR OF A SCULPTOR.

Carpeaux In His Merry Mood With Napoleon III.

Although he was a man of great earnestness and seriousness of purpose, Carpeaux, one of the most famous French sculptors of the last century, had a droll tongue and a capricious humor that he vented on lackey and emperor alike. Lecture Pour Tous relates some amusing anecdotes of him.

At a reception at the Tuilleries Napoleon III. engaged in a few minutes' private conversation with Carpeaux. At its conclusion the young sculptor was besieged by a crowd of courtiers and envious rivals, who wanted to know what the emperor had talked about.

"Promise to tell me one!" whispered Carpeaux as he drew the eager listeners to one side of the ballroom. "Well, then, the emperor was trying to borrow 5 francs from me."

Some years later, when Carpeaux had received the commission to do the decorations for the Pavilion de Flore of the Tuilleries, Napoleon often came to watch him at work on the scaffold that had been built against the face of the building. Occasionally the emperor mounted aloft to this improvised studio, hung between earth and sky.

One day Carpeaux, in a particularly merry mood, told him that when he wished to rest from his labors he would make tiny pellets of clay and drop them on the heads of passersby.

"It's very amusing," he explained. "People stop and look about them. They can't imagine where the missiles come from."

"Here," he continued, holding out some of the little clay bullets: "try it yourself."

"I wouldn't dare," laughingly said Napoleon, amused at the idea of the emperor of the French, mounted on a scaffold, throwing pellets of clay at his subjects.

"Bah!" he muttered Carpeaux. "What's the use of being an emperor?" Napoleon did not forget this remark. A few months later, when the sculptor sought a title, the emperor, unable or unwilling to grant the request, exclaimed:

"Bah! What's the use of being Carpeaux? Isn't that better than baron?"

MENACE OF THE CURTAIN.

Window Draperies and the Campaign Against the White Plague.

If the worldwide campaign against tuberculosis is going to be a success it cannot be too strongly impressed that, like charity, preventive measures must begin at home. Fresh air must be obtained by each occupant of every room in the house. This can never be accomplished until housewives realize that the body is of more value than raiment and an abundant supply of pure air is of more importance to life than the fanciful of a pair of window curtains.

The fear of soiling white curtains and also of admitting dust and dirt into the rooms where it can settle on furniture and ornaments is quite as much responsible for the closed window habit as is the dislike of drafts. It is hard to overcome prejudice and harder still to root out an old established custom, but nevertheless these elementary facts of hygiene should be taught plainly and simply to elder girls in school so that wiser habits of house management may be inculcated.

To abolish curtains altogether from the windows of private dwellings would be, perhaps, too much to expect of the present generation, but if this ideal cannot yet be attained they might be made of some less expensive or more readily renewable material. For the sake of appearances human lives must not be allowed to suffer.—London Medical Press and Circular.

True Love's Trials.

"I'm afraid it will be some time before Tom and Belle make up again."

"Oh, they are always quarrelling and forgiving each other."

"I know, but the last time they had a spat Belle said, 'Leave me forever.' Tom was dumb enough to stay away two whole days, and that made her mad sure enough."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mr. Shaw and a Post.

Mr. Bernard Shaw was to speak at the dinner of the Society of Authors, and a place had been set apart for him next to Mrs. Tweedle. But Shaw, being a vegetarian, did not put in an appearance until the meat course was over. Meanwhile his place was taken by another author. A grumbling lady who sat opposite poured out praise upon this gentleman all through the meal, telling him how greatly she admired his writings. Finally she begged for his autograph and asked him to write under his name, "Man and Superman." "Don't you love it the best?" she asked. "Never read it in my life." "What! You do not mean to say that you are not Bernard Shaw?" "No," was the disconsolate admission. "I'm only Lewis Morris, the poet." The lady was disposed to be generously forgiving. "Never mind," she said: "you had better sign your autograph all the same."—From Mrs. Alec Tweedle's "Book of Reminiscences."

Canine Habits.

Dogs when watching things keep one of their fore paws doubled up because in their wild state they were used to approaching their prey step by step and kept one paw doubled up to be ready to advance it with all possible caution at the next opportune moment. This habit of crawling toward their prey, advancing cautiously while preparing to rush or spring, may be observed in the meeting of two dogs, strangers to each other, any day, particularly in the country. The dog who sees the other first, after giving him a cautious look, invariably lowers his head and tries to conceal himself by crouching, a maneuver necessary in the wild state. It's continued nowadays either in play or as a matter of expedient. Either the dog is preparing for an attack or by lying down gives notice to the other dog that he is friendly and doesn't care to fight.—Boston Herald.

Walking and Muscular Work.

The muscular work performed in the simple act of walking is much greater than most of us have any idea of. Walking at the moderate rate of three miles an hour is equivalent to lifting the body perpendicularly through one-twentieth of the distance walked. If the person walk one mile at the rate mentioned the amount of work done would be equivalent to lifting the body perpendicularly through a distance of 264 feet. Supposing a person weighing 150 pounds walks five miles, he is doing work which equals the lifting of nearly eighty-eight tons one foot high. In the case of a healthy person, performed quite subconsciously, so that all the muscles employed in the act are actually exercising and developing themselves.

Sore Throat or Mouth.

When the mouth or throat is irritated or diseased you have the common ailment of Sore Mouth or Sore Throat. If not quickly cured, you are in danger of contracting more serious or even fatal maladies such as Croup, Quinsy, Tonsillitis or Diphtheria. No other remedy will cure Sore Throat or Sore Mouth so quickly, so surely as TONSILINE because TONSILINE is the one remedy especially made for that purpose. You'll need TONSILINE one of these days, or some night when the drug store is closed—better have a bottle ready at home when you need it most. 25c. and 50c. Hospital Size $1.00. All Druggists.

YOUR RHEUMATISM

It is especially valuable to aged people.

Aim To Protect Migratory Birds
Treaties between the United States and more than a dozen foreign governments will be necessary, if a plan for the international protection of migratory birds which is embodied in Senate resolution 27 is to be fully carried out. This resolution was introduced recently by Senator George P. McLean, of Massachusetts, and was favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. There is every reason to believe that it will soon be passed by the Senate.

John B. Burnham, president of the American Game Protective Propagation has returned to New York from Washington, where he had favorable interviews with President Wilson and Secretary of State Bryan in regard to this matter. Should the resolution be passed by Congress and receive the endorsement of the President, the principal countries with which it will be necessary to open negotiations are: Great Britain, with Canada to the north and insular possessions to the south of us, which harbor many of our migrants at different seasons; France, on account of her colonies in the West Indies and in Guiana; Japan, with whom we have had trouble in the past because of the activities of her feather hunters in the Hawaiian Islands; Mexico, Brazil, Argentina, Colombia and Ecuador. There are other countries with less important possessions to the south or near our colonies in the Pacific. These include Holland and Denmark, the other independent countries in the West Indies and other republics in South America.

Now that we have given federal protection to our migratory birds through the Weeks-McLean Law, the next step should logically extend this protection in a way that will prevent a few market gunners and feather hunters from destroying the birds that will forever benefit all countries in which they visit, if shooting is properly regulated.

Inadequate Registration of Tuberculosis Cases

Registration and reporting of living cases of tuberculosis, in a manner similar to the reporting of other infectious diseases, is now required by state law or regulation of boards of health in 33 states and territories out of 53. Five years ago only 14 states had legislation on this subject. This increase is looked upon as a sign of marked progress in the anti-tuberculosis movement by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, which issues a bulletin on this subject. Based on figures obtained from cases of tuberculosis reported in Cleveland, New York and other cities where thorough registration is employed, it is estimated that for every death from consumption in the United States, of which there are on an average 200,000 annually, there are constantly more than five living cases, making at least 1,000,000 in all. Of this million cases, it is estimated that the health authorities have records of not more than 100,000 to 150,000, or one in every eight or ten, and that, for the great majority of cases recorded, no hospital, home or dispensary care is provided. Practically nothing can be done to control the spread of tuberculosis in the unreported cases.

Of the 33 states where reporting of cases is required, adequate or reasonably complete records are kept in not more than eight. Twenty states and territories have no laws or regulations requiring the reporting of tuberculosis and in most of these states consumption is not classified officially by the health authorities as a communicable, infectious disease. These states are: Arizona, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Philippine Islands, South Dakota, and Wyoming. Special laws requiring reporting and registration of tuberculosis have been passed in Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island and Vermont. In twenty other states tuberculosis is included in the lists of infectious diseases that must be reported by physicians. In concluding its bulletin, The National Association says: "Reporting of living cases of tuberculosis to the local and state health authorities is the first requisite in any adequate campaign to control the disease. No efforts to prevent the spread of consumption can be successful until the actual living cases are both known and properly cared for."

Coughs and Consumption

Coughs and colds, when neglected, always lead to serious trouble of the lungs. The wisest thing to do when you have a cold that troubles you is to get a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery. You will get relief from the first dose, and finally the cough will disappear. O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., writes: "My wife was down in bed with an obstinate cough, and I honestly believe had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, she would not be living to-day." Known for forty-three years as the best remedy for coughs and colds. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Recommended by Omar A. Jones druggist. (Advertisement)

Kills Freak Jim Crow Law

The segregation ordinance, framed to prevent negroes from moving into city blocks of Baltimore already occupied by whites, was declared invalid by Judge Elliott, in Criminal Court last Thursday. He said it was unenforceable. "The way the law stands," the Court continued, "it is prohibited either for a white or a colored person to move into a mixed block or to remain in such a block." Enforcement of the law, he said, would depopulate every block in the city in which the black and white families are now residing.

Do You Go To Church?

Or, even if you do not go as often as you should, are you at least interested in Progress and Better Things?

Do you want help make this world better?

Would you like to help make your own community a better place in which to live both for you and for your children?

Do you not believe that the same Christianity that has blazed the way for civilization offers the most effective way of coping with the big, vital problems of the day?

Are not such problems as Capital and Labor, Child Slavery, Prison Reform, Vice and Liquor all soluble in the crucible of Christianity?

If you believe these things—and if you are truly interested—would you be willing to spend fifty cents for a copy of The Baltimore News each Saturday for a year, which contains a two-page church section, including a big half-page Religious advertisement, in which the Church and its relation to these problems are brought forth in a most interesting, instructive and logical way each week?

This Religious Advertising Campaign in The Baltimore News has attracted world-wide attention. The same plan has been adopted in three other cities. Scores of other communities have plans for similar campaigns.

In Baltimore this Religious Advertising Campaign is the talk of the city.

Something To Ponder Over

The early habit of SAVING, instead of foolish spending, will remain a life-long habit that will pay cash dividends every week of every year.

If your child is taught the uses of money and the true values of a SAVINGS ACCOUNT through actual experience until reaching the age of sixteen, you have given him the equivalent of any college education.

To the boy who can save money, a college education is within reach through his own efforts and initiative.

He is the boy who will foresee the greater possibilities and the broader opportunities of a higher education.

His acquired knowledge of the earning power of a dollar and its buying power, will make sacrifices insignificant. Habits of thrift bring sound judgment.

He will blaze his own trail for advancement, making the best of every opportunity at hand, creating other, because of his self-reliance and the knowledge that his own efforts bring sure reward.

A SAVINGS ACCOUNT is the surest route to business success. It offers greater opportunities than a college course.

Not all of us can give our boys and girls university training. But none of us need deny our children home training and influence in thrift—and encouragement for future advancement.

In urging parents to see that their children are taught the advantages of a SAVINGS ACCOUNT, the BANK OF SOMERSET is pointing the path to future comfort and independence for the young people of Somerset county.

We welcome the savings accounts of all, young and old, and pay three per cent. interest on each dollar saved and banked. One Dollar is sufficient for the first deposit.
