Death Of James C. Tawes

Mr. James C. Tawes, one of Crisfield's leading citizens, died at his home in that place last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Tawes had been in bad health for some time. He was prominent in business and political circles. He had been engaged in the seafood business a number of years and was an extensive oyster planter. He was a director of the North American Oyster Growers' Association, also director of the Bank of Crisfield and the Fox Island Rod and Gun Club.

While he never ran for political office, Mr. Tawes was prominent as a Republican. He was appointed postmaster of Crisfield by President Harrison and served as Shell Fish Commissioner under Governor Lowndes. He was a Mason, Knight Templar, Shriner and a trustee of the Immanuel Methodist Episcopal Church. He is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas C. Hill.

Club Winners On Trip

The Boys' and Girls' Club winners in this county left yesterday (Monday) for a week's trip to the University of Maryland, where they will attend demonstrations and take courses in agriculture and canning. A visit to Washington will also be included in the trip.

The members of the clubs who will take the trip free of expense as an award for winning their contests in club work last year are the following: Francis Cluff, winner corn contest; Malcolm Matthews, winner potato contest; William Rue, winner fat pig contest; Caroline Pollitt, winner poultry contest; Hazel Ford, winner canning club contest.

A number of other boys and girls will take the trip at their own expense. Among the Boys' Club members are James Rue, Marion Hickman and Benjamin Gunby. The Girl's Club will be represented by Mary Hayman, Florence Miles, Elizabeth Taylor and Sarah Bennett.

Old Home Prize Increased Endowments

The endowments of ten of the Old Home Prizes in Somerset and Worcester counties, Maryland, and Accomac and Northampton counties, Virginia, have lately been increased to $200 each in Liberty Bonds, the income from which is used to buy the beautiful, standard gold medal awarded each year to the winners of these prizes. The chief purpose of the prize is to instill a proper public spirit in our young people, thus causing them to become more interested in and loyal to their old home sections, and also to teach them the benefits of endowments—useful as above and in so many other ways. This prize, founded on our Eastern Shore in 1908, is now about to be used in other states.

Registration Days

The dates for registration of new voters and of transferred voters in the several counties of Maryland will be: Tuesday, September 28th; Tuesday, October 5th, and Tuesday, October 12th (for revision only).

If the Tennessee Legislature, in special session on August 9th, ratifies the woman's suffrage amendment, this action by Tennessee would be in ample time to permit the enrollment of women qualified to vote. The question has been raised whether Governor Ritchie would have to call the General Assembly in special session to amend the Maryland registration laws in order to qualify women to register and vote.

The churches are full of people who would feel much sorer of heaven if they could only die on Sunday.

$5,410,284.874.00 PAID IN TAXES

Maryland District Revenue Taxes Amount To $120,752,457

The nation's greatest tax bill—$5,410,284,874—was collected during the fiscal year ending June 30th.

Official figures last week showed that the tax paid in the last twelve months had exceeded all estimates, congressional and official, by approximately $300,000,000 and was nearly 75 per cent. larger than the total of taxes paid in either of the war years of 1918 or 1919. The 1918 tax levy yielded $3,694,619,638 and the taxes in 1919 aggregated $3,889,950,612.

Collection of this record-breaking assessment cost the government $29,750,000, or about 55 cents for each $100.

Revenues derived from income and excess profits taxes alone were $3,944,555,737 for the twelve months, which is nearly $1,250,000,000 larger than collections from the same sources in either of the last two years. An increase for this year also was shown in the receipts from miscellaneous taxes, which brought in $1,465,729,138. These taxes totaled $1,243,941,909 and $855,591,700 for 1919 and 1918, respectively.

The district of Maryland, which includes Delaware and the District of Columbia, reported a total of $120,752,457.32, of which $77,382,741.06 was from income and profits tax, while the remainder—$43,369,716.26—was from miscellaneous taxes.

Death Of Mrs. Edith Gorsuch

After an illness of several months with Bright's disease, Mrs. Edith Milbourne Gorsuch died at her home at Kington about 1 o'clock last Thursday morning.

While in Baltimore about five months ago, Mrs. Gorsuch consulted a specialist, who began treating her for Bright's disease, and his treatment continued until about one month ago, when she returned home. Since that time she had been under the care of a local physician who could give the family no hope for her recovery.

Mrs. Gorsuch was the daughter of the late Robert H. and Mary Smith Milbourne, and was born July 5, 1862. Her childhood days were spent in Princess Anne, where she attended the Princess Anne Academy. She completed her education in Baltimore and there met Mr. John E. Gorsuch, of Glencoe, to whom she was married on February 7th, 1888.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and the following children: Miss Eleanor Gorsuch and Messrs. Edward, Larkin and Talbot Gorsuch. She is also survived by a brother, ex-Senator Lewis M. Milbourne, and one sister, Mrs. L. A. Chamberlin.

Funeral services were held in St. Andrew's P. E. Church, Princess Anne, Friday, conducted by Rev. O. H. Murphy, assisted by Rev. G. D. Pierce, rector of Coventry Parish. Interment was made in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. L. A. Chamberlin, Lewis M. Milbourne, T. D. Hallberg, Thomas T. Turpin, Aden Davis and J. C. Robertson.

An Old Oil-Burning Lamp

The first kerosene lamp that was ever used in lower Delaware is said to be in possession of Mrs. Margaret R. Jones, widow of William Paynten Jones, who lives on a farm between Georgetown and Lewis. The lamp was brought to that county about 60 years ago by Mr. Jones from the west, where he spent about three years. A display of the lamp was made upon his return and attracted widespread attention from people in different parts of the county. Prior to the time of the introduction of the oil-burning lamp in lower Delaware people used tallow candles which were made in their homes. According to Mrs. Jones, who has reached a ripe old age, the old lamp she has in her possession created as much sensation as the first automobile or airship did in many sections of the country.

Col. Woolford Dies In Suffolk

Col. James L. Woolford, a prominent man of Norfolk, Va., and a native of Cambridge, Maryland, died last Tuesday morning at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. A. K. Roe, in Suffolk, Va., in the seventy-seventh year of his age, after a long illness. Colonel Woolford was a member of some of the leading families of Maryland and was a Confederate soldier, being five times wounded and held prisoner at Fort McHenry.

During the war between the states he served with the First Maryland Regiment, and was afterward colonel in a Maryland regiment. He is survived by his widow (Mrs. Leah Woolford), two daughters (Mrs. A. K. Roe, of Suffolk, Va., and Mrs. W. C. Phillips, of Norfolk, Va.), Ralph Roe, a grandson, and a great-grandchild also survive him.

CANNING LAW TO BE ENFORCED

Packers Must Not Use Adulterants Or Fill Cans With Water

When the housewife buys a can of tomatoes she must get what she pays for, not a container with a few tomatoes filled up with water or some other adulterant. The last Maryland legislature passed an act to this effect and now A. L. Sullivan, new state food and drug commissioner, announces that this law is to be strictly enforced.

Most of the packers are honest and eager to comply with the law, Mr. Sullivan believes, and for evidence he points to the voluntary system of inspection which has been adopted by a considerable proportion of the industry and the passage of the tomato law before mentioned. Among some, however, there has been illegal addition of water, pulp and juices, which he says must stop.

Since this state packs over 40 per cent. of the tomatoes grown in the United States, Mr. Sullivan considers full compliance with the law of the utmost importance. He asks the co-operation of packers of tomatoes and tomato products in making this season's pack "one of which the entire state may be proud."

In a letter to packers, Mr. Sullivan says, in part: "The last Maryland legislature enacted a law which prohibits the use of any liquid substance in canned tomatoes or tomatoes with puree except juice arising from the tomatoes themselves after they have been peeled, trimmed, cored and prepared for canning. Under this act the addition of water, cyclone juice, concentrated or un-concentrated pulp from skins and cores and so called seepage obtained by pressing skins and cores is illegal."

"The food and drug commissioner desires the earnest co-operation of canners in living up to the law. It is believed that a determined effort should be made to do away with slack filling and other objectionable practices. Full compliance with the state laws result in a better pack of tomatoes and less difficulties with the federal authorities, with the consequent financial loss and loss of food products through condemnation."

Ocean To Ocean Air Mail

Air mail service from New York to San Francisco is expected to be inaugurated the first week in September, Assistant Postmaster-General Praeger announced last Tuesday.

The exact date for starting of the first transcontinental air mail service, however, will be contingent, said Mr. Praeger, on completion of landing fields and hangars at Cheyenne, Wyo.; Salt Lake City and Reno, Nev. These cities already have obtained the fields and let contracts for construction of the hangars. Both fields and hangars, Mr. Praeger said, are expected to be ready in time.

The first leg of the New York and San Francisco route, terminating at Omaha, will be covered by all-metal or aluminum planes. The Omaha-San Francisco leg is to be equipped with De Havilland planes, Postoffice Department officials said.

Leaving New York last Thursday, J. M. Larson piloted an air mail reconnaissance party of three planes from New York to San Francisco for the purpose of photographing the route and mapping all possible landing fields.

Wheat Surplus Larger Than 1919

Wheat from last year's crop carried over into 1920 totaled 109,318,000 bushels on July 1, as compared with 48,561,000 bushels of the 1918 crop on hand the corresponding day last year, said an announcement last Wednesday by the Department of Agriculture.

Stocks on farms, in country mills and elevators and in points of large accumulation all showed an increase over 1919 totals.

This year farmers held 47,756,000 bushels, against 19,261,000 bushels in 1919, the figure perhaps reflecting disturbed transportation conditions during the last year. At the larger central storage points this year the Department found 24,574,000 bushels against 9,532,000 in the same places on July 1, 1919. In country mills and elevators this year there are 36,988,000 bushels, while in 1919 there were 19,768,000.

Death Of Mrs. Mary C. Long

Mrs. Mary C. Long, widow of James W. Long, died suddenly at her home, near Green Hill, last Friday morning. She was 84 years old. Her husband died about three years ago.

Mrs. Long is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Mary Beauchamp, Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlin, Mrs. Hattie R. Flurer and Miss Ida Long, and two sons, James M. Long and Robert B. Long, all of whom reside in Somerset county.

Funeral services were held at her home last Sunday, conducted by Rev. Mr. Martin, of Pocomoke City, and interment was in the M. E. Cemetery, at Pocomoke City.

PACKERS IN NEED OF TIN CANS

Food Crops May Go To Waste Unless Situation Is Relieved

Lack of tin cans is the only thing which stands in the way of a successful season for the canners of Maryland. If the cans cannot be delivered to the packers in sufficient quantities in the immediate future a large proportion of Maryland food crops will go to waste.

Farmers as a class will not suffer so much, as the canners have made contracts with the farmers for the purchase of their tomatoes, corn, green peas and other products. The packers and others who contracted for the crops will be the losers. At present plenty sugar can be had at a price, labor can be obtained if wages are sufficiently high, the acreage is planted and the crops are reported as very good. The canners are all ready for the canning season—except for the cans.

Transportation priority for the canning industry will help greatly, the Baltimore canners said last week, but it should be granted immediately. Strikes delayed the can manufacturers, who were unable to get material for their factories. All the reserve supplies of cans with which the manufacturers usually face the canning season have been exhausted, it was stated, and the only way the situation can be met is for the can manufacturers to turn out cans at the fastest possible speed and get them to the packers with the least possible delay.

Benjamin Hamburger, of Baltimore, former president of the Canned Goods Exchange, said that the canning situation in the country depended on the can manufacturers, and that the chief cause of the delay in the manufacture of cans was delay in transportation. Maryland packers will suffer from the shortage, but not so much as other sections of the country. He said that he understood the can manufacturers were 3,000,000 boxes of cans behind their delivery schedule.

For tomatoes alone, Mr. Hamburger said that the Maryland crop averaged 7,000,000 cases, worth at the present market price about $25,000,000. This is but one item, though the biggest, in the Maryland canning industry. The canning season for tomatoes and corn begins about August 10th and none of the packers yet knows where or how he is going to get his cans in time.

Call For Campaign Cash

The Democratic party's campaign war chest is open to contributions of any amount, George White, chairman of the National Committee, announced at Washington, D. C., last Thursday. Party leaders, White said, "will examine the source, rather than the amounts, of all contributions."

"Peace, progress, prosperity," will be the three-word slogan of the Democratic campaigners, White said, adding that with this slogan the party should be "Coxsured" of victory.

The new national chairman referred to Illinois, Indiana and Ohio as "the battleground" of the campaign, but he indicated that as the campaign plans developed, Governor Cox would carry the fight direct to the people and would visit a majority of the States.

Discussing campaign contributions, White said the restrictions which had been proposed as to the size of the gifts were so easily circumvented as to make them useless, and that the National Committee therefore would content itself with a scrutiny of all contributions in order that no obligations on the candidate would be entailed by the acceptance of campaign funds.

Democratic leaders, White said, are seeking to have the Senate committee investigating campaign expenses continue its operations. He added that it was particularly desired to bring to light the contributions to Republican State committees, but that thus far a way to accomplish this had not been found.

American Yacht The Winner

The America's cup stays in America. This was decided shortly before sundown last Tuesday when the American defender, Resolute, captured the 1920 regatta, three to two, by defeating Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV in the final race.

The defender outsailed the green sloop decisively, boat for boat, in the last contest of a tempestuous series—the closest and most hard fought in the history of the precious trophy—crossing the line at 7.52.15 unofficial time, only about 25 minutes before the expiration of the six-hour time limit. The Shamrock finished at 8.05.20.

Despite the failure of his fourth attempt to lift the cup, Sir Thomas Lipton has announced his intention of challenging with a new Shamrock in 1922 unless in the meantime another challenge is handed the New York Yacht Club, which retains custody of the cup.

GREAT THRONG GREET'S COOLIDGE

Rescue from the reaction of war was described as the transcendent need of the nation in the address which Governor Coolidge delivered last Tuesday at Northampton, Mass., in accepting formally the Republican nomination for Vice-President.

The scene of the notification was Allen Field, the recreation grounds of Smith College, a natural amphitheatre. A platform large enough to accommodate only the speakers and a few distinguished guests was erected at one end of the field and on the grassy slopes before it the great assemblage stood throughout the exercises.

Former United States Senator W. Murray Crane motored over from Dalton, and was greeted by General T. Coleman duPont, of Delaware, who had reached there a short time before.

Among other early morning arrivals was Harry M. Daugherty, of Ohio, Senator Harding's convention manager and his personal representative at the exercises. Announcement was made that the national chairman, Will H. Hays, would be unable to attend.

Discussing economic relations, Governor Coolidge declared the extravagant standards of Government expenditure of recent years must be eliminated and a revision of taxation be accompanied by a reduction of private extravagance.

He urged a different public attitude toward industry, a larger comprehension of the interdependence of capital, management and labor, and better facilities for the prompt and reasonable adjustment of industrial disputes. The need of the farmers, he said, is an enlarged power of organization whereby the original producer may profit to a larger degree by the high prices paid for his produce by the ultimate consumer and at the same time decrease the cost of food.

"The chief task that lies before us," he said, "is to repossess the people of their Government and their property." Governor Coolidge found another source of gravest public concern to be "the reactionary tendency to substitute private will for the public will." He said there had been a disposition on the part of some individuals and of groups to inquire whether they liked the law, and if not, to disregard it and prevent its execution by the method of direct action.

"The observance of the law," he said, "is the greatest solvent of public ills." He deplored attempts to create class distinctions.

Hull Of Pilgrim Fathers' Ship Found

Discovery of the hull of the Mayflower, the ship in which the Pilgrim Fathers sailed to America, is claimed by Dr. Rendel Harris, chairman of the English speaking union, according to the Daily Mail, of London, England. He will reveal details of the secret at a conference to be held at Plymouth in September.

Meantime, the paper learns old timbers, including oaken beams supporting the roof, found in a barn adjoining an inn called Old Jordan's Hotel, at Chalfont street, Giles, Buckinghamshire, are considered by Dr. Harris to have originally formed part of the hull and deck of the Mayflower. Some of the beams, which are worn and wormeaten, bear marks indicating they might formerly have held ship's rivets and tackle.

There is a local theory, the paper continues, that a Quaker formerly lived in the neighborhood who was a professional shipbreaker, selling ship timbers to farmers of the surrounding country. It has been suggested that he broke up the Mayflower and sold the timbers to the owner of Old Jordan's Hotel. No proof beyond this vague tradition is offered by The Mail.

Experts who examined the timbers pronounced them at least 300 years old and said they had evidently belonged to a ship of the size of the Mayflower. The letters "erha" were found cut with a knife at the end of one of the timbers. As the Mayflower sailed from Harwich, it is presumed one of the passengers may have cut the name of the ship and her hailing port, but that the balance of the words "Mayflower, Harwich," had been cut away when the timbers were sawed up.

In the old "Jordan farm" district, where William Penn is buried, there is a big Quaker colony. Old records show the vessel was converted into a whaling ship about 1654, and was used in the whaling trade off the coast of Greenland.

The Boy Scouts, of Princess Anne will hold a festival on the lawn of Mr. G. W. Kemp, Main street, Thursday evening, August 5th. Ice cream, cake etc., will be on sale. Proceeds will be used for camping expenses.

WHY HAVE HOG CHOLERA?

The Disease Can Be Prevented By Quarantine And Inoculation.

The season is approaching when the farmers usually suffer a loss from hog cholera, a disease which can be prevented by the co-operation of the farmers. A few suggestions at this time if carried out by the farmers will be of considerable value in preventing an outbreak of cholera.

Should cholera or any other sickness which might be a suspected case of cholera make its appearance in your neighborhood or among your hogs, keep this in mind:

1—Quarantine your farm, allowing no visitors to see your sick hogs. Treat this disease as any other contagious disease and use all means to prevent your neighbors obtaining cholera from your farm, or if it is in the neighborhood use all means to prevent this disease from reaching your hogs.

2—Have your hogs inoculated at once at the first sign of sickness in your community or in your hogs. Do not delay, many hogs can be saved if treated in time. There are men in each community who will inoculate hogs.

3—Hogs dying from cholera or any other disease must be burned or buried. It is against the law not to properly dispose of the bodies of hogs that have died. Hog pens, yards and runs having cholera hogs should be thoroughly disinfected.

4—The County Agent should be advised at once of any cases of sick hogs so that the farmers in the community can be warned and proper measures be taken to prevent the spread of this disease. The services of a government veterinarian can be obtained to assist in making a diagnosis and post mortem examination of hogs having cholera.

Farmers by co-operating and keeping in mind these words—quarantine, sanitation, and inoculation—will assist in preventing an outbreak of hog cholera, which is a preventable disease.

At the present time there has been reported only one case of cholera and the farmers in the community, by having their hogs inoculated promptly and following the above suggestions, confined this disease to the farm where it first appeared.

A large number of hogs were lost last year by the farmer delaying to inoculate his hogs when cholera was in their community. Farmers have the services of a government veterinarian who will be glad to teach them, through community demonstrations, the proper method of inoculating hogs.

Anti-hog cholera serum can be ordered by writing or phoning County Agent Keller who has a clerk in the office and a phone at his home and office in order to prevent any delay to the farmer in ordering serum.

Liberty Bonds

In justice to the 21,000,000 individual subscribers, and the banking and fiduciary institutions which hold its obligations at a loss, the Federal Government is morally bound to employ the most effective means to restore and maintain the price of the various issues of Liberty Bonds and Victory notes at par. It is a leading question in this connection, whether the Treasury is pursuing a wise course in handling sinking fund operations and in the manner in which it is making market purchases of Liberty Bonds. There are those who contend that the Treasury is making its purchases through brokers who actually assist in depressing their market value.

Treasury officials have recently rejected suggestions that sinking fund operations should be carried on publicly instead of secretly as at present and that the government advertise for tenders of public issues at frequent intervals. The objection is made that such a change of procedure would leave the market unprotected during the intervening periods of such redemption; that publicity would introduce the psychology of selling rather than holding bonds and that it would tend to create bank expansion.—The Nation's Business.

Teachers Cannot Affiliates With Labor

In sustaining the school board of Lancaster, Penna., in refusing to renew contracts with teachers that had joined the American Federation of Teachers, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, last Wednesday issued a ruling that teachers may not form an alliance of any character with any interest in the community which will prevent them from serving impartially the best interests of all the people and the state. Public school teachers, he declared, are "servants of the entire state as well as of the locality in which the school is maintained."

Mr. William Martin Renshaw, of Princess Anne, and Miss Susanna Lloyd, of Mt. Vernon, were married last Thursday at the M. E. Parsonage, Princess Anne, by Rev. W. F. Dawson.

WHEN HEDGES SPROUT

By VICTOR REDELIFFE

My troubles, this makes me feel saddest," sighed Dale Wilton, and then the soul of a true man spoke. He held in his hand a letter in neat handwriting, the text of which showed thought, intelligence and character. It was signed Adele Mercer, of whom he had never heard before.

"Whoever the young lady is, she writes like a true woman," commented Mercer. "Poor Brill! He must have gone through dark days, indeed, with a family of six motherless children, illness and poverty."

The closest friend of his youth, Morton Brill, had married, and had gone west fifteen years before the present time. They had corresponded, and then the business cares of each had intervened. At the end of ten years Wilton received a letter from Brill telling of business struggle, the death of his wife and his own half blindness and poverty with six little ones to care for. He asked Wilton to loan him a few hundred dollars. It was readily sent. From that time Wilton had not heard a word from him until the letter signed Adele Mercer arrived.

It came at a time when by a strange coincidence dark days of fate Wilton had been forced to face. Within a few short months he went through the experience of losing half his capital through the embezzlement of a trusted partner. Creditors forced liquidation. When the storm was over Dale Wilton found himself free of debt, but with less than three hundred dollars to begin life all over again. When the letter came it added to his already acute depression and discouragement. The deepest chords of his being were stirred with infinite pity, but he was helpless to proffer the aid which he felt was incumbent upon him as a married man.

Miss Adele Mercer wrote briefly, clearly, sensibly. She did not explain how it was that she had become practically the guardian of the children of Morton Brill, but such seemed to be the fact.

"I write to you," her letter ran, "because upon his dying bed Mr. Brill asked me to do so. I am striving to keep his little group together until I have your counsel as to what is best to do. He has left nothing and the future of his little ones is a distressing problem."

Somewhat the situation of the six little Brill children interested Wilton because he pitied them and felt a certain responsibility he could not evade. When a few days later he reached Appleton it was to find Miss Mercer and the little ones occupying a poor, cheap cottage, sparsely furnished but neatly kept.

At once Adele Mercer attracted him. She was a young woman of about twenty-two, mature and sedate in her ways, but presenting a certain beauty of face that was prepossessing. When Wilton learned her history he fully understood how the life of an orphan and later a sense of duty in behalf of the children had bent her mind to serious, practical phase of life. She came to Appleton from a little town with no business experience, been unable to find a position and quite at the verge of destitution when she learned that four of the little Brill children were down with the measles and the father was looking for a nurse.

She came to stay, and when the dark, struggling days of illness and poverty came for the family remained loyally to share their troubles. The bright, happy children, with no true realization of their forlorn condition, at once took to Wilton as to a second father.

"The city is no place for them," he told Miss Mercer, "nor for me, either. I have been thinking of a single resource I have. It will take me a day or two to explore its value or otherwise," and he tendered her some money for family expenses until his return.

"Oh, I am able to provide for my necessities," said Adele. "You see, I devote the evenings to some garment work for a store near here," and Wilton understood why this peerless self-sacrificing woman looked thin and pale and wearied most of the time.

The resource he had alluded to was the one piece of property Wilton had ever owned. It was the spot where he was born. The old home had long since gone to decay, but a barn in a fair state of preservation had been made habitable by a man and his wife who had leased it and a two-acre plot of ground, raising strawberries. Each year they had paid a nominal rent until the past one.

It was located two miles from a bustling town where the strawberry raiser had found a ready market for his crop, but he had been unable to sell pickers and had given up the business.

And what with the two of us, Miss Mercer and me, to work and manage six little pickers ready at hand, and a cheap horse and wagon," soliloquized Wilton, "why can we not make comfortable living and gradually acquire the dignity of a modest little place?"

"Why not, indeed?" Adele Mercer repeated later. Just as the hedges began to sprout their look of possession of their own initiation. Through May the sun shined and the money came and the money came and the money came.

ALL HIS OWN

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

They were a musical family and the father, Irving Druse, an adept in classical interpretations of the great masters and the daughter, Amina, a finished player of the piano. While unassuming in their pretensions, they were very sure that they had selected a competent teacher for Amina, aged twelve, and Milly, fourteen, when they employed Volney Hayden.

He had come to the sumptuous home with little ardor for his task, for his predilections were all for association with fellow violinists of the advanced type. He had professionally risked all on an orchestral concert experiment, however, and had to take up teaching to recoup his broken fortunes.

Music had been his regnant goddess until then. After that vital moment when Amina came upon him in the music room where he was seated waiting for his young pupils, love was born instantaneously and rapturously within his impassioned heart. There was something ethereal in the frail, but graceful form, in the depths of her eyes the soulfulness of a highly sensitive and poetic nature. It was not until one day he had heard her play upon her favorite instrument that he recognized a touch, a conception of true expression, a refined, lofty sense of the harmonies that evidenced distinctive genius.

After that there was scarcely a lesson of the children that at some stage of its progress Amina did not make some excuse to enter the music room. The dazzled Hayden at times fancied that he detected in her eyes a pleading longing of some kind that he could not analyze, but yet seemed directed mutely to himself. Little by little the thin veil of conventional reserve between the two was dissipated. She discussed the progress and prospects of the pupils, and she more than once begged Hayden when he was about to leave to play some favorite piece upon his violin.

Raptly wrought up by the beautiful harmony of a master in his art she sat swayed by the music to a tenderness of emotion that at times was almost painful. She would sit with glowing eyes and folded hands like one in some celestial trance, and when the music ended would breathe a sigh of regret that expressed the highest tribute to his skill. Volney Hayden had ever received.

He had reached the lower step of the porch bent on departure one fair summer afternoon, when Amina appeared from a shaded nook among a bower of roses and approached him.

"Mr. Hayden," she said, and her tones were tremulous, "will you please give me your address?"

"With pleasure," he acceded, handing her a card. "It is my studio address, and I am there only from 10 to 1."

She thanked him graciously and he went his way wondering at the unexpected request, and then deciding that in the natural kindness of her heart Miss Druse was intent on helping him along by recommending him to some prospective pupils. What was his astonishment the ensuing morning when he answered a faltering knock at his studio door, to come face to face with the constant angel of his dreams.

"You will think it strange, my unannounced visit here, but I need your advice, more than that, your co-operation," she said. "My father has never encouraged me in an inspiration I have that I might give to the world one or two little songs that might make it the happier for hearing them. All his ideas of music are with the few great musicians, I would never dream of invading their select field, but I have composed a simple, pretty melody that, with appropriate words, might win some commendation, which would be a great pleasure to me. I see you have a piano. May I ask you to listen to my poor little first effort?"

His soul bounded at a conception of the vast pleasure her confidence in him and his powers inspired. He thrilled as from a pendulous score his visitor softly played the strains the beauty and originality of which fairly amazed him.

"Miss Druse, will you leave to me the fulfillment of the great promise of your lovely themes?" and she assented, eager and delighted.

Volney Hayden could not have been the great exponent of music he was had he not been also a true poet. For several nights he toiled until dawn, adapting to the mellow strains of Miss Druse's composition a love theme that was in fact the outpouring of all the secret emotions that she had long past evoked. A friend of his was manager of a select music hall. It was not difficult for Hayden to arrange that one of his most prominent singers should undertake the rendition of "The Cry of a Soul" upon a certain afternoon. He told Miss Druse of the event and together they went to the hall.

He felt her tremble as the first golden notes of her own beautiful creation stole forth tenderly, feelingly upon the stillness of the room. There was a great burst of applause, a recall. As the adapted words told their story and she realized that the soul in appeal was beside her, she swayed toward him, her hand rested in his own and their eyes met. The barriers of reserve, of wealth, of position seemed swept away in that supreme moment, and Volney Hayden knew that Amina Druse was all his own.

A Tonic For Women

"I was hardly able to drag, I was so weakened," writes Mrs. W. F. Ray, of Easley, S. C. "The doctor treated me for about two months, still I didn't get any better. I had a large family and felt I surely must do something to enable me to take care of my little ones. I had heard of

CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

"I decided to try it," continues Mrs. Ray. "I took eight bottles in all. I regained my strength and have had no more trouble with womanly weakness. I have ten children and am able to do all my housework and a lot of outdoors. I can sure recommend Cardui."

GARDEN CITIES HELP TRAFFIC

Transference of Part of Population Relieves Congestion on Cars in London.

Dense morning fogs have combined with the now chronic congestion of passenger traffic to make Londoners realize too vividly the inconveniences of an over centralized population, remarks the London Times. London is undoubtedly too large for health, for happiness and for economical living and production; and, although the amenities of life in this and other great cities have in some ways been increased by providing dormitories at a distance from the work room, the problem of daily transit has been proportionately intensified.

Much is to be said for the garden suburb, but even more for the garden city. The two are often confused or falsely identified, but from the point of view of transport the difference between is fundamental. Garden suburbs represent an extension of the daily traffic of a great town to a more distant circumference; garden cities, a permanent transference of a section of the population to a less crowded center.

Every inhabitant of a garden suburb who works in the city contributes twice a day his or her share to the ever increasing problem of traffic congestion. The colonist of a garden city, on the other hand, definitely relieves the overcrowded centers of the duty of transporting him to and from his work and catering for him and his. Dwellers in garden suburbs are excursionists; the garden citizen is an emigrant. It is of the nature of the community to which he belongs that he shall not only sleep, breakfast and occasionally play lawn tennis and grow beans or roses there, but shall work there as well; and for his reward as a pioneer he escapes the strains and stretches of the straphanger.

CANNING ENCOURAGED BY SHOW

Canning is one of the essential home industries nowadays. It is one of the most bitter enemies of Mr. Hi Cost of Living. Fruits and vegetables must not be allowed to go to waste in the summer. That is why such emphasis is being given the canning exhibit at the coming Tinicum Fair, Baltimore County, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, inclusive.

PUMPKINS LIKE THIS ARE RARE

She's sitting on the product of an entire summer's toil. A good cook could get enough out of this mammoth pumpkin to make a dozen pies. It is work of this kind which improves farming. The smiling owner is planning to exhibit the pumpkin for a prize at the Tinicum Fair, Baltimore County, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, inclusive.

GIDDAP, HORSEY, I'M ALL READY!

Armed with a Kewpie doll and a whip, and astride a fiery horse on the merry-go-round, this girl is actually having the time of her life. It is the kind of time of which every boy and girl dreams when the annual fair rolls around. It is the kind of a time every boy and girl will have this year if a visit is paid by them to the big Tinicum Fair, Baltimore County, Aug. 31 to Sept. 4, inclusive.

THE MORE THE MERRIER.

"Maybe," mused Senator Sorghum, "it would be a good thing to have hundreds of thousands more government employees."

"What for?" "So that statesmen who specialize on cutting down small salaries could make a more impressive showing as to the amount saved in the aggregate."

Serious Blunder.

"Did you ever hear such an abject apology in your life?" "The salesman realizes that he was at fault."

"How so?" "He tried to sell a bricklayer the kind of shirts clerks, bookkeepers, editors and college professors wear."

A Selfish Thought.

"Henry," said Mrs. Dubwaite, "I saw a perfect love of a hat in a milliner's window this morning."

"I hope you will not disillusion yourself," said Mr. Dubwaite.

"What do you mean?" "You know very well that hat will cease to be a perfect love when you buy it."

UNDERSEA WIT.

"Who has old Shark been fleecing now?" "Why the poor suckers, of course!"

Spoiled It.

To flattery susceptible, a lady once we knew. Being told she had a pretty chin started acquiring two.

A Warning.

"If yo'-all fools around mih gal anyadder time, sah, I'll—" "Ca'm yo'self, sah, ca'm yo'self! Fust thing yo' knows yo'll be making threats ag'in me, and I won't pay no 'tention to 'em. And then dess loogy at de 'barrassment yo'll feel!"

The Logic of the Case.

The Young One—The old man said he wanted to get her off his hands and yet he wouldn't listen to me when I spoke of marrying her.

The Wise One—Probably that's the reason he wouldn't listen to you.

Their Practice.

"They used their club debate methods in their home."

"How so?"

"Whenever he would propose a resolution for a good dinner, she would table it."

The Main Attraction.

"I was astonished when I heard Maude had gained the position of lecturer. Do you think it was because she was such a good psychologist?"

"I think it was because she was a blonde."

His Excuse.

"Has your husband bought you a car yet?"

"No, he always has some excuse. He says the gasoline machines are in bad odor and the electric ones are simply shocking."

How Talebearers Were Treated. She—Miss Gaussip claims that her ancestors were in the swim from the start.

He—Probably, I shouldn't wonder if some of them first got into the swim on a ducking stool.

LITERALLY.

Monk: Look at old kangaroo, he's just hopping mad.

On Strike.

We all keep learning more or less beneath experience's rule. Just now some take too much recess. And don't mind being late for school.

The Varieties.

"What are the fruits of practical politics?" "So far, I have come across only two varieties—lemons and plums."

The Difference.

"Last year old Slick was paying court to Miss Smarty." "And this year he is paying her alimony."

A Painful Operation.

"Did you hear our friend Jones had been superseded?" "You don't say so! Did they give him an anesthetic?"

True.

"You take life too seriously." "I like to be careful." "Well, a man can be careful without being full of care."

All Off.

"I thought Belle's marriage was coming off this month." "It was, but her engagement came off last month."

It is impossible to supply the demand for automobiles, but an abundant supply of wheelbarrows is reported.

Some men who say advertising isn't read will always drop into the barber's shop frequently so as to get a chance at the paper.

Corkcraw makers have had a dull year, but some demand for locks for cellar doors should have helped them keep busy.

The old-timers can't understand why the modern boy wants to be out evenings when he should be reading history under the parlor lamp.

With paper so short, it is not absolutely necessary for the metropolitan Sunday papers to print more than 50 pages of stuff that no one reads.

The song that says it is always fair weather, when good fellows get together, might seem to suggest that there has been a very protracted drought.

If some folks would spend half an hour a day cultivating a garden, instead of an hour a day cursing the profiteers, they would accomplish more to reduce the H. C. of L.

Some of our philosophers who are so ardently desirous of uplifting the publishing newspapers, have decided to wait until news print paper gets down to three cents a pound again.

HOT WEATHER

The American people live in a land most parts of which are subject to marked extremes of heat and cold. As soon as they get adjusted to cold they are asked to stand heat and vice versa. Hence interminable growling about the weather and all kinds of efforts and expense to avoid the extremes of it.

Bright business men exploit hot weather. They worked up the soda fountain and ice cream business to a great industry, sold cooling fans, bought land in cool spots for pasture prices and sold it as city real estate and transported all the luxuries of life into the wilderness, at a tremendous cost to the hotel guests whom they served. The American people pay a big bill for their sensitiveness to heat. The man who can make them cool is sure of a fortune.

Hot weather is a drag on production. Many old-time factories were very inefficient to the summer comfort of their workpeople and, paid for their carelessness in a decreased output. The old sweat shop was true to its name; an inferno of stuffy rooms and sweaty bodies. The modern workshop is apt to provide plenty of light and air, for it pays.

Philosophical people get through the hot weather with less friction than others. They are content to let up on hustle, keep on the shady side, wear as few clothes as modern society permits and forget it. The more you talk and groan about heat, the more you suffer. The people who are not used to outdoor exercise get the worst of it. The lady in her hammock is miserable while the farm hand in the corn field takes the beating rays of the sun cheerfully enough.

DISTRIBUTING PRINT PAPER

One of the recommendations of the senatorial committee that investigated the print paper shortage was that a government board be appointed to supervise manufacture and distribution of paper, in case government efforts to maintain a reasonable price should fail.

Unfortunately when the government interferes with such matters, complications have arisen in a number of cases during and since the war. Only government interference has straightened out an intolerable situation.

Unfair that many newspapers forced out of existence while metropolitan sheets run enormous profits which could be reduced if they held down advertising by increasing the price for the same and if they eliminated unnecessary features. It is a question where only the strong government can step in to protect the weak to all interests.

THE PICNIC SEASON

Multitudes of men who have cheerfully toted heavy lunch baskets into the inaccessible spots favored by their poetic wives have views about picnics. Still picnics are one of the great national American sports and should not be referred to lightly. To a great many people a meal tastes 200 per cent. better in some spot of outdoor beauty. A very dry sandwich becomes exhilarating nectar if eaten in surroundings of scenic romance attained only after much perspiration and puffing.

Romantic nature lovers invented picnics. They get them up frequently and at short notice. After a neighborhood flurry of 30 minutes spent in buttering sandwiches and cutting ham they are off to some secluded dell regardless of the terrors of ants and snakes.

The kid element condescends to attend the Sunday school picnic if the grown-ups fill him to the brim with ice cream and do all the work. Many other kinds of picnics could be mentioned. On the whole the American picnic is a great occasion, filling the lungs with quantities of fresh air and taking people out of the monotony of town life.

TURNOVER OF CAPITAL

The percentage of profit that a business man or corporation makes upon his capital does not always tell the story whether he is rightly to be called a profiteer or not.

If a business makes 20 per cent. on its capital, probably the majority of people would say it had been profiteering. But if it made that profit by turning its capital over ten times, so that it only made 2 per cent. on sales, you could hardly call it profiteering. The business would seem to have been done about as close as possible.

A small and sluggish business, which turned its capital over once and made only 5 per cent. on that turnover, would never be charged with profiteering. But it would not be so advantageous to the community as the concern that operated with a high degree of efficiency and made a lot more money.

The concern that turns capital over slowly will not be able to keep in the game. If it takes a year to make sales equalling its capital, while other concerns accomplish the same thing in three months, its overhead charges will be four times too large.

The best ways to turn over capital quickly are these:

1—Advertising, so that the public will know what the concern is selling and take the stock up quickly without its having to lie around in stores and warehouses.

2—Cash basis so far as possible, otherwise prompt collections. A smaller capital will do a bigger business on a cash basis.

The community should patronize the concern operated on this basis, even if they often seem to be making a lot of money. For all that they are the cheapest places for buying.

Cured Of Stomach Trouble And Constipation

Rachel Cribley, of Beaver Dam, Ohio, was sick for two years with stomach trouble and constipation, taking one medicine after another with only temporary relief. "My neighbor spoke so enthusiastically of Chamberlain's Tablets," she says, "that I procured a bottle of them at our drug store to try. A few days treatment convinced me that they were just what I needed. I continued their use for several weeks and they cured me."

Sheriff of Somerset County, Maryland

Wealth Of The Country

Financial experts connected with the United States Treasury Department have been giving out periodical estimates of the basic wealth of the United States since as early as 1850. According to the 1850 estimate, which was based upon the census valuations of that year, the national wealth was then $7,135,780,000. Thirty years later, or, in 1880, it had increased to $42,642,000,000, in 1900 to $88,517,306,776, and in 1912 to $187,739,071,000, and though the property valuations of the 1920 census are not yet available, some of the financial experts are foretelling that the national wealth basis for 1920 will be around $300,000,000,000.

The average individual is prepared to take on faith whatever high-score computation of the national wealth may be given out. Estimating the wealth of an individual, if he has a good deal of it, is attended with uncertainties which make anything like exactness impossible. The calculation is far more uncertain when the wealth of the whole country is being estimated. Even real estate, which probably comes nearest to representing stabilized value, is not at all stable as to value. As for bonded securities, they vary from quotations at par down to quotations at nothing.

As to national wealth the combination of psychic circumstances and conditions not generally computed as wealth constitute the real source of value. A factory plant costing $5,000,000 is worth $5,000,000 only because of the organized and co-operating human intelligence and energy that uses the machinery. Where the experts estimate the basic wealth of the United States at $300,000,000,000 they are just guessing. Putting a valuation on the land, the improvement, the livestock and the other tangible assets does not include the full value. The human quantity is to be reckoned with in every wealth-fixing equation.—Baltimore American.

McAdoo To Make Campaign Speeches

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, and a candidate at San Francisco for the Democratic nomination for President, announced last Thursday that he had consented to deliver some speeches in behalf of Governor Cox, the party's nominee, during what he said would be a vigorous and aggressive campaign.

In a statement issued after a conference with George White, chairman of the Democratic National Committee and Governor Cox's secretary held at Mr. McAdoo's home in Huntington Wednesday night Mr. McAdoo warned that the people would not stand for a "purchased Presidency" and urged that the spotlight of pitiless publicity be turned on campaign expenses during the forthcoming campaign.

Mr. McAdoo stated that at the conference "the formidable campaign fund under control of the Republican National Committee and its serious menace in the forthcoming campaign" had been discussed.

Chamberlain's Colic And Diarrhoea Remedy

This is unquestionably one of the most successful medicines in use for bowel complaints. A few doses of it will cure an ordinary attack of diarrhoea. It has been used in nine epidemics of dysentery with perfect success. It can always be depended upon to give prompt relief in cases of colic and cholera morbus. When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take. Every family should keep this remedy at hand.

No. 3417 Chancery, in the Circuit Court for Somerset County.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of certain real estate in Somerset County, Maryland, of which Henry Page, late of Somerset County, deceased, died seized. The bill states that the said Henry Page died in the month of January, 1913, leaving a last will and testament duly admitted to probate in the Orphans' Court for Somerset County, in which he devised and bequeathed all his estate, real, personal and mixed to his wife, Virginia Upshur Page, for and during her natural life and at her death to all their children who may then survive, provided that if any of said children should die before that period leaving any child or children then such child or children should take such share or shares as would have passed to their respective father or mother, had such father or mother survived. The said Virginia Upshur Page, the said Henry Page left surviving him the following named children who are still living, namely, the defendants, Henry Page, Jr., Louise Jane Royster, Ethelinde Page Wickes and Anne Page Metzler, and the plaintiff, John D. Page; that there have been born to the said Henry Page, the following named children, Virginia Page Royster, Hubert Ashley Royster and Henry Page Royster; that there have been born to the said Anne Page Metzler one child, Claudius Green Metzler; that the said children and grand-children of the said Henry Page are the only persons in being who could have any interest in said real estate at the death of the said Virginia Upshur Page; that the real estate of which the said Henry Page died seized consists of two parcels of land, one of which lies on the east side of Main street, or Somerset Avenue, in the town of Princess Anne, conveyed to him by Price I. Patton and wife by deed dated the 22nd day of March, 1877, recorded among the land records of said county in Liber L. W. No. 17, folio 16, etc., improved by an office building, and the other of which said parcels of land lies in West Princess Anne district, contains thirty-one and one-half acres, more or less, and was conveyed to him by Rudolph S. Cohn and wife by deed dated the 5th day of February, 1888, recorded among said records in Liber H. P. L. No. 3, folio 81, etc.; that it would be advantageous to all persons concerned or interested in said real estate that the same be sold and the proceeds of sale invested so as to ensure in manner as by the said devise to the use of the same persons therein mentioned and described, who may be entitled to said income in said real estate; that the said Henry Page, Jr., Henry Page, 3d, Charles Greenleaf Page, John D. Page, Louise Jane Royster, Virginia Page Royster, Hubert Ashley Royster, Henry Page Royster, Anne Page Metzler, Claudius Green Metzler and Ethelinde Page Wickes, Jr., are infants under the age of twenty-one years.

It is thereupon this 10th day of July, 1920, ordered by the subscriber, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset County, in Equity, that the plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Somerset County once in each of four successive weeks before the 9th day of August, 1920, give notice to the said absent and non-resident defendants of the object and substance of the bill, warning them and each of them to appear in this court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 25th day of August, 1920, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

CONDITIONS NOW AND IN 1865

According to General Sherman's Memoirs, History Seems to Be Merely Repeating Itself.

A single page in the story of the Civil war, the Memoirs of General Sherman, carries observations by two Ohio men prominent in that war, General Sherman himself and Secretary of War Stanton, that have a strangely familiar sound now amid the distressing conditions that have followed the World war here.

"General Sherman has arrived with his story at the opening of the year 1865, and he is dealing with the closing events of the Civil war. He is at Savannah and the secretary of war is there, partly on an official visit and partly for recreation. The policy of enlisting slaves is under discussion and the order giving the freed slaves the right to occupy seized lands is agreed on.

"He professed to have come from Washington for rest and recreation," writes General Sherman, "and he spoke unreservedly of the bickerings and jealousies at the national capital, of the interminable quarrels of the state governors about their quotas and more particularly of the very existence of the government itself.

"He said that the price of everything had so risen in comparison with the depreciated money that there was danger of national bankruptcy, and he appealed to me, as a soldier and patriot, to hurry up matters so as to bring the war to a close.

"I was quite impatient to get off, myself, for city life had become dull and tame, and we were all anxious to get into the pine woods again, free from the importunities of Southern women asking for protection, and of civilians from the North who were coming to Savannah for cotton and all sorts of profit."

High prices, weariness of the war conditions, eagerness on all sides for the return of peace, swarms of people at Washington—official and private citizens, with axes to grind, and speculators from the North pushing right down to the hostile lines in promoting their profiteering enterprises. But we came through it—Columbus Dispatch.

Cured by Gold Injections.

The very latest post-war discovery is the curing of certain ailments by means of injections of diluted gold. This very expensive method of restoring lost health was discovered by a French doctor, who has completely cured a wealthy Parisian of a complaint similar to shell-shock. Although gold is very scarce at present, a limited supply is available for medicinal purposes. The price for one injection of good quality gold sometimes reaches the fifty-pound mark, while in one or two exceptional cases gold injections have cost over a hundred pounds each. Consequently, only very rich persons can at present undergo this gold treatment, which has been successful in rescuing several cases of complete nervous breakdown. It should be remembered, however, that the gold itself is of no great value, as a tonic. The idea in making the injections is to liven up the patient and prevent him or her from brooding too seriously. This done, doctors believe that half the battle is won. Strange to say, the injections are not made through the usual type of syringe, but generally through a conical-shaped tube of pure platinum costing over twelve hundred dollars.

Money.

After having studied the careers of many of our richest men, and after having obtained from many of them an outpouring of their inmost thoughts, my conclusion about money is this, says a writer in Forbes Magazine:

"Money is a very desirable thing, even a lot of it. Its possession enables one to do a great many things which are impossible if one lacks it. There is no such potent material instrument for enabling one to do worthy deeds in large numbers and on a large scale. Money, indeed, is so desirable, so useful, so rich in possibilities for worthy accomplishment, that one should exercise every honorable effort to acquire every dollar of it that one can earn, but there is not enough money in the world to compensate one for turning even one sharp corner, for never have I known an instance of ill-gotten money to have yielded true happiness to possessor and his offspring."

Bird Protection Important.

Preserving birds as game is only one part of the duty of the government. They are even more valuable as enemies of noxious weeds and insects. They are the farmer's best friends, though he is too often oblivious of the fact, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. Those who care nothing for their beauty of plumage and song must recognize the circumstance. Yet the birds have been too long the prey of their human hunters. Some species have been wellnigh exterminated in consequence. To protect them in the United States and Canada will accomplish much, though to make the protection of many of the migrants complete Mexico and Central American countries should join in the work.

Seal Herds Increasing.

The protective measure adopted by the government for the benefit of the seals in our waters has been entirely successful, as indicated by the great number of animals seen to be migrating to the Arctic sea. The migration was three weeks earlier than usual, and an unusually large amount of animals were noted on their way to the north.

Equip Your Small Car With Goodyear Tires

Goodyear Tires in the 30x3-, 30x3½- and 31x4-inch sizes are manufactured with characteristic Goodyear care to build high relative value into every carcass and tread.

Last year more cars taking these sizes, were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

In order to make these tires widely available to users of such cars, we are operating the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car requiring one of these sizes, go now to the nearest Goodyear Service Station Dealer for Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

30 x 3½ Goodyear Double-Cure $23.50
Fabric, All-Weather Tread

30 x 3½ Goodyear Single-Cure $21.50
Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? $4.50

HAVE ANIMALS SIXTH SENSE?

Hard Otherwise to Explain How Wild Beasts Knew That the Great War Was Over.

Frightened by the noises of battle the wild beasts of East, Central and West Central Africa went scurrying north and south, traveling sometimes hundreds of miles in their fright and taking refuge in localities entirely new to them.

But just as the ruins of northern France have drawn human beings back to them—men and women who dwell there before the German occupation, home has claimed the wild animals and most of them are now back in their native haunts.

How did the wild beast know that the war was over?

The elephant, gorilla, giraffe, antelope, buffalo, rhinoceros, lion, leopard and porcupine are certainly all perfectly aware of the fact!

Human beings have their various avenues of sending news, chief among these the newspapers, the post and the telegraph.

Whatever the method of communication, the wild animals certainly got the news quickly.

Peace was no sooner accomplished than the African natives began to see the homeward migration of whole companies of wild beasts through their territories, animals never familiar in these particular communities and obviously passing through.

Four years previously they had come crashing through the underbrush, bound in an opposite direction. They were in great haste then and possessed of fear; and pachyderms and carnivora traveled together, the age-old war of the jungle forgotten in a common plight.

Birds may become accustomed to the sound of firing, but wild animals loathe it. Fear of strange noises is instinctive with them. Animals born in captivity invariably show this instinctive dread. And it is a well-known fact in zoological parks that apes can be controlled instantly by the display of a musket, even when as far as is known they have never seen one split fire.

Women's Rights in China.

A paternal government in the province of Hupeh, China, is endeavoring by official action to bring the women to order and reason, in the matter of clothes. "Women and girls are not permitted to wear extraordinary clothes," runs the official order which the police have been instructed to enforce. "The women's dresses, which were generally adopted by the Chinese gentle sex previous to the first revolution in 1911, are better suited to young women because they are not too short or too narrow, and they should be used again." The official order gives further particulars of the abuses which it alleges have taken place by which, in the matter of clothes, it is not possible to distinguish the Chinese women of "respectable and good families from those who are not." But the significance of this solicitude on the part of the military governor of Hupeh is found in the part of the order which states that the importance of bearing and clothes is to be recognized, "in view of the fact that women are playing an important part in modern politics in western countries, and there is sufficient reason to believe that this awakening of the gentle sex will soon be extended to the far East."

Gruesome Find.

An extraordinary story comes from Shanghai (China) of a find by some railway men at Harbin. A box car addressed to Colonel Bulloff, who is the Russian representative at Harbin, was opened and found to contain apparently bags of flour and firewood. Underneath these were found eight caskets, each one duly labeled, six bearing the names of grand dukes and duchesses and the other two the name of a priest and a valet of one of the grand dukes. To make sure there was no ruse, one casket was opened and a body revealed. In addition to the names of the dead there was also written who had killed them and where. The question is being asked who had forwarded these bodies and for what reason, and where they were ultimately destined to be sent. In these days when railwaymen expect to find hidden away gold, jewels and other precious metals, to be confronted with caskets containing murdered persons is indeed a gruesome and unwelcome find.

If She Doesn't Talk Too Much.

The worst woman I know is my husband's brother. He is a bachelor M. D. and although busy with his patients, never forgets himself. He seems to dislike women through jealousy of them. As he is only forty-three, we intend starting a campaign at once to convert him. I have invited him to dinner Friday evening. I have also invited an amiable and beautiful young woman, who is a practitioner at the bar of justice. She has my cue to hold the floor for and in favor of women everywhere. She may win him over. If this interests you I will send you the next chapter.—Exchange.

Dub Golfer but Star Casuist.

The latest yarn from the links concerns a golfer who took a 10 in making the third hole, and said to his opponent, who had a 6: "I'll take 8 here; 10 is too many. I don't like double figures."

"Why not say 9, instead of 8?" suggested the other.

"Well, you see, 9 is a bad number," was the reply. "You can cheat with 9; turn it upside down and its 6, but 8 is 8, no matter how you look at it."—Boston Transcript

Then and Now.
Women in the home used to be ashamed to sit down; there seemed to be a virtue in wearing themselves out! The housekeeper who saved herself, who did not dust every few moments, scrub on her hands and knees and do such tasks, was called lazy. The belief now is that the most intelligent housekeeper, the one who studies every new invention and saves every step and motion, is the most conscientious and sensible one. Sit down to vegetable paring and all tasks where it is practicable.

Worth Trying, Anyway.
If you want to insure yourself good luck, wear your new dress for the first time to church, so sayeth old Doctor Lore, Doctor Folk Lore, to be more exact. Maybe the old gentleman was laughing up his sleeve the way he said this, believing in his heart that the good luck would follow attending church; but then it's just as well not to go to analyzing the whys and the wherefores of these old superstitions, because after all they are "just for fun."

Dreaming of Letters.
To dream of writing letters to your friends is a sign of coming good news; to dream of receiving letters from friends indicates some little misfortune to be followed by great happiness. To study belles-lettres means some pleasurable enjoyment in store. To see a letter carrier denotes news from some absent one; if his uniform is complete the news will be good; if incomplete, it will be disappointing. —Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Mount McKinley Sinking.
Mount McKinley, the Oregon mountain, is sinking with the weight of ages. Within the last several years, when the peak shrugged its rocky shoulders in earthquakes, the loftiest mountain in North America has subsided at least 500 feet from its original altitude of 20,400 feet. Such was the assertion of Herschel C. Parker, geologist and mining engineer, who first scaled Mount McKinley in 1912.

Philosophy of a Cipher.
Consider the cipher. It amounts to nothing in itself, but when put at work with others behind a good strong figure it adds wonderfully to the value of the group. But if a cipher puts on airs and gets out in front of the procession, it becomes valueless again. Men might take a lesson and learn that their value lasts only as long as they stay on the job.

Piercing the Void.
"O! was in a minin' camp wanst," said the old Irish prospector, "when wan o' these here mintal science fellers blew in, an' he claimed he cud tell how much money ye had in yer pocket by lookin' in yer eye. He tried it on me, but, be jabers, O! had the deadwood on him, fer O! had nothin' in me pocket." —New York Post.

Qualities That Count.
The highway of life may be rough and full of obstruction; one may be weary of the heat and the dust; but the courage that comes of an honest heart and a clear conscience will find for the wayfarer green arbors of rest and cooling springs whereat to quench his thirst. —Georgia May Cunningham.

Mother Love.
A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age; and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall, with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings, of the best friend that God ever gives us. —Bovee.

Not Gentle Enough.
One day while entering a street car I met a boy friend of mine, also getting on. Thinking he would be polite enough to pay my fare, I walked in and took a seat. A few moments later the conductor tapped me on the shoulder and said: "Miss, you are no exception." —Exchange.

It Is Time.
"Hatpins to match the color of the eyes are to be very fashionable this year," according to a trade journal. This should be good news to those street car travelers who object to having green hatpins stuck in their blue eyes. —Punch London.

Brother William's Sentiments.

When Sleep Will Not Come.
Don't hate the world and kick all night just because you don't happen to go to sleep. It damages your own nervous system, and any tender regard in which your roommate may have held you. Anger eats up energy and is responsible for next morning's very unpleasant day-after feeling. The lack of sleep mattered not at all. If instead of thrashing about viciously you had curled up cozily and day-dreamed, your night might have been salvaged, all might have been well.—Exchange.

The Earth's Crust.
Interesting facts concerning the earth's crust were disclosed by Col. Sir Sidney Burrard recently. "Isostasy" is the particular science which deals with the structure of the earth, and Sir Sidney told how all mountains and heights standing above the sea level are compensated by deficiencies of matter underlying them below sea level, and that all oceans and surface hollows dipping below sea level are compensated by excesses of matter underlying them in the crust.

Preserving Spider Webs.
Naturalists employ an ingenious method in order to preserve the web of the spider. The webs are first sprayed with a thin solution of artists' shellac and then, if of the ordinary geometric form, they are pressed carefully against a glass plate, the supporting threads of the web being severed. After the shellac solution has dried the plates carrying the webs are stored in a cabinet for later use in scientific work.

The Continents.
Modern usage recognizes four continents—Eurasia, Africa, North America and South America—and is divided as regards Australia, which is variously styled a continent and a continental island. The title, Antarctic continent, is sometimes given to a great body of land supposed to occupy the south polar region. Formerly Europe and Asia were accounted as two continents.

Something Like Cold!
A commercial traveler gives a terrible account of the intense cold in Sweden: "In Haparanda, the day before I left, I attended a performance at the theater. It was a tragedy. Everybody wept; but it was so cold that the tears of the spectators in the gallery fell like hailstones among the occupants of the stalls."

Precursor of the Piano.
The harpsichord, comparatively modern, represented an attempt to construct a horizontal harp that was played upon by means of oblong wooden keys called "jacks." Our piano is a modified and improved harpsichord, invented in 1711 by Bartolomeo Cristofalo of Padua.

Ancient Musical Instrument.
It seems not unlikely that the earliest form of the harp was the instrument we call a lyre. The latter was possibly the first of all stringed instruments. One finds it represented on the monuments of ancient Egypt and, though so long obsolete, it often appears in modern architecture as a decoration.

"The Three Kings of Cologne."
This refers to the three wise men of the East who followed the star to the birthplace of Jesus Christ. Their names are usually given as Melchior, Gaspar and Melchior. Their bones are supposed to be preserved in the cathedral of Cologne.

Admiration Goes Out to Him.
We may say a fellow shows bad taste in devoting his life to painting or sculpturing, but at the same time most of us have a sneaking admiration for the one who can naturally do things we can't.

Don't Be Too Curious.
A person who is too nice an observer of the business of the crowd, like one who is too curious in observing the labor of the bees, will often be stung for his curiosity.—Pope.

Leading Question.
"My wife is practicing with dumbbells," proudly exclaimed a would-be athlete. "Do you find them any softer than the flatirons?" queried a wag who overheard the remark.

Where Women Equal Men.
In Italy women teachers, school inspectors and employees in the administration of antiquities and fine arts receive the same pay as their male colleagues.

Home Town Helps

COUNTRY'S NEED OF HOMES
Apartment House Can Never Really Take the Place of the Individual Abode.

In helping solve the housing problem of the cities the apartment house meets a very real demand. There is need for such houses with sufficient rooms to care for families. There is a place for others with smaller quarters where bachelor apartments may be maintained. It is well for cities to have apartment houses in such numbers as to help meet the demand for quarters from those who prefer to live in rooms without the advantage of yard and garden.

But it is far better for a city to have a hundred new separate homes erected than to have a hundred-family apartment houses constructed. The proper and natural way of living is for one family to have a house, with the little grass plot in the yard, a bit of garden in the back part of the lot, with the freedom and conveniences and privacy that separate homes provide. Columbus has a housing demand now that calls for some more apartment houses, those with proper conveniences and a rental not too great. But it has a greater need for more separate homes. There are hundreds of vacant lots, the cost of the building being suited to the neighborhood. There is a great need for the homes that will care for small families, homes within the purchasing power of the man of limited means, who has saved some money, is well employed and wants to pay out for his home during the coming years. Every man is a better citizen when he becomes a home owner. —Ohio State Journal.

HAS THREE GOOD PURPOSES
New Public Park Fixture Would Seem to Be About the Last Word in Drinking Fountains.

Three purposes are served by an artistic new public park fixture, which comprises sanitary drinking fountains, watering troughs for dogs, and a lamp post. The latter is a fluted iron column, set on a four-sided concrete base, and surmounted by a frosted-glass globe. For canine use, there are two metal basins, located near the bottom of the base, opposite each other, while for humans there are four porcelain-enameled fountains, one on each side of the base at such a height as to be convenient for both adults and children. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Work of "City Beautiful."
The Cleveland Betterment council has undertaken the work of trying to make Cleveland not only a healthful city and a clean city, but a beautiful city as well. Everyone who keeps his yard and his place in immaculate order will receive a letter of commendation thanking him for his interest in the furthering of the "City Beautiful" movement.

It is proposed that a vigorous campaign be started to clean up the city, also that everyone should plant up his yard, and if he has no yard, to have window boxes or porch boxes surrounding his home.

Two Groups of Rice Plants.
Rice is the chief sustenance of one-third of the world's population. It has been cultivated from time immemorial in tropical and semitropical countries and more than 1,000 different varieties have been recognized. The rice plant is similar in appearance to wheat, but instead of having a compact "ear" it bears a head composed of fine stalks, each of which contains one grain. The grains are covered with a brown husk; when separated from the rest of the plant they are known as "paddy." Rice plants may be broadly divided into two main groups, namely, "upland" or "hill" rice and "lowland" or "wet" rice. Upland rice can be cultivated as any ordinary crop, whereas "wet" rice is sown under conditions necessitating the flooding of the fields for a considerable time during the growing period.

Governor Increases Salaries
Governor Ritchie has advanced the salary of John N. Mackall to $5,000 a year. Mr. Zouck, his predecessor, received $3,000 a year. He has also added $1,000 to the annual salary of Harrison W. Vickers, Jr., chairman of the Conservation Commission, making his total annual income from the State $4,000. The Governor says he made this increase in order that Mr. Vickers might devote all of his time to his duties.

Why Prices Are High
Why are prices of food products still so high when the supply is abundant? There are several reasons. The cost of production is greater than ever before. This is especially noticeable in live stock because of the high cost of feed and of labor. Transportation is more expensive and most inadequate. The demand, both domestic and foreign, is still very large. Then there is the general spirit of the times which asks prices because it can get them. A lessened demand, which will come with a slowing up in general business activity, will be the prelude to lower prices in food.

TIME IS THE TEST
The Testimony Of Princess Anne People Stand The Test
The test of time is what tells the tale. The public soon finds out when misrepresentations are made, and merit alone will stand the test of time.
Princess Anne people appreciate merit, and many months ago local citizens publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills; they do so still. Would a citizen make the statement which follows unless convinced that the article was just as represented? Below is testimony such as the sufferer from kidney ills is looking for.
Mrs. Carroll Hastings, Stone Road, Princess Anne, says: "For nearly seven years I had disordered kidneys and I was miserable and weak. I had a dragging-down pain in my back and my heart palpitated. Then again, I had sick headaches and dreadful pains in the small of my back. I was getting worse every day and I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Jones & Colborn's drug store. The first box cured me of backache and the other symptoms were greatly relieved."
KEEPS DOAN'S ON HAND
Over nine years later, Mrs. Hastings said: "I always keep Doan's Kidney Pills on hand in case I should need them. I recommend them whenever I have an opportunity."
Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mrs. Hastings had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hanged for Not Drinking.
An old English story tells of "the sadder of Bawtry" who was hanged for leaving his ale. It arises from the story that on the way to the gibbet where Bawtry malefactors expiated their crimes it was the custom to halt the procession at one spot, and give the criminal a farewell drink of beer. A sadder, marked for death, contemptuously refused the proffered draught and was promptly hanged. By just as many minutes later as he had declined to dally a breathless horseman arrived with a reprieve!

Fans in History.
In India the fan is most common and there are servants that do nothing else but follow their masters about with a punkah, a kind of large screen, with which they attempt to cool the atmosphere. In the early ages there were ecclesiastical fans, used to keep the flies from the sacred bread and wine and when the pope of Rome goes forth in state large feather fans are carried, but are not used in the mass as they were in the Middle Ages.

Post-Holiday Reflection.
A holiday is a day when most people feel less hollow than usual.

PROCLAMATION
Proposing Amendments To the Constitution of the State, 1920

Whereas, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year 1920, two Acts were passed, to-wit: Chapter 319 proposing an amendment to Section 15 of Article III of the Constitution of the State, title "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of Members of both Houses of the General Assembly; and Chapter 365 proposing an amendment to Section 37 of Article 4 of the Constitution of the State, title "Judiciary Department," regulating the pay of Justices of the Court, and which said Chapters 319 and 365 are in the words and figures following:
CHAPTER 319.
AN ACT to propose an amendment to Section 15 of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, to-wit: "Legislative Department," regulating the compensation of the members of both Houses of the General Assembly of Maryland, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of the State of Maryland for adoption or rejection.
SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 15 of Article III, of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, title "Legislative Department," the same if adopted by the legally qualified voters of the State, as herein provided, to become Section 15 of Article III, of the Constitution of the State of Maryland.
15. The General Assembly may continue its session so long as in its judgment the public interest may require for a period not longer than thirty days; and each member thereof shall receive a compensation of three hundred dollars per annum and five dollars per diem for every day he shall attend the session, but not for such days as he may be absent, unless absent on account of sickness or by leave of the House of which he is a member; and he shall also receive such mileage as may be allowed by law, not exceeding twenty cents per mile; and the presiding officer of each House shall receive an additional compensation of five dollars per diem. When the General Assembly shall be convened by proclamation of the Governor, the session shall not continue longer than thirty days, and in such case the compensation shall be the same as herein prescribed.
SECTION 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That said foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the State of Maryland shall, at the next general election for Members of Congress held in this State, be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection. In pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, and at the said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment," and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said Fourteenth Article of the Constitution and further proceedings had in accordance with said Article Fourteen. Approved April 9, 1920.

CHAPTER 365.
AN ACT to amend Section 37 of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.
SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, (three-fifths of all members of each of the two Houses concurring), That the following section be, and the same is, hereby proposed as an amendment to Section 37, of Article 4, title "Judiciary Department," of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, said section shall supersede and stand in the place and in stead of Section 37 of said Article 4 of the Constitution of Maryland.
SEC. 37. There shall be a Clerk of each of the said Courts of Baltimore City, except the Supreme Bench, who shall be elected by the legal and qualified voters of said city at the election to be held in said city on the Tuesday next after the first Monday of November, in the years nineteen hundred and sixteen, and shall hold his office for six years from the time of his election, and until his successor is elected and qualified, and be eligible thereto, subject to be removed for willful neglect of duty or other misdemeanor in office, on conviction in a Court of Law. The salary of the said Clerk shall be forty-five hundred dollars a year, payable only out of the fees and receipts collected by the Clerk of said city, and they shall be entitled to no other perquisites or compensation in case of a vacancy in the office of Clerk of any of said Courts, the Judges of said Supreme Bench of Baltimore City shall have power to fill such vacancy until the general election of Delegates to the General Assembly to be held next thereafter, when a Clerk of said Court shall be elected to serve six years thereafter; and the provisions of this Article in relation to the appointment of Deputies by the Clerks of the Circuit Courts in this State shall apply to the Clerks of the Courts in Baltimore City.
SEC. 2. And be it further enacted by the Authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall, at the next election for members of Congress to be held on the Tuesday next after the first Monday in the month of November, nineteen hundred and twenty (1920), be submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article 14 of the Constitution of this State; and at the said election the vote on said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be written or printed the words "For Constitutional Amendment," and "Against Constitutional Amendment," as now provided by law, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said Article 14 of the said Constitution.
Approved April 9, 1920.
Now, therefore, I, Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of the State of Maryland, in pursuance of the direction contained in Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of Maryland do hereby order and direct that this Proclamation containing a full, true and correct copy of the text of said Chapters 319 and 365 of the Acts of the General Assembly of Maryland of 1920, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State, where so many may be published and where not more than one may be published then in that newspaper, and in three newspapers published in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months next preceding the general election to be held in the State of Maryland on Tuesday, the 2nd day of November, 1920, at which election the said proposed amendments to the Constitution shall be submitted in form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State for their adoption or rejection.
Given under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, Done at the City of Annapolis, this 23rd day of July, nineteen hundred and twenty.
ALBERT C. RITCHIE, Governor.
By the Governor: PHILIP B. PERLMAN, Secretary of State.

Carlsbad Always in Danger.
Carlsbad, the famous health resort, is built on a crust, underneath which is a subterranean lake of boiling water, and all the hot sulphur springs have to be ceaselessly watched and the pressure kept down lest the town be destroyed.

When Swallows Fly Low.
It is a sign of rain when swallows fly low. When the atmosphere gets surcharged with moisture all insects make for shelter and come to earth. As the swallow hawks for insects on the wing it naturally flies low in search of its prey.

High-Sounding Titles.
Chinese emperors are never mentioned by name from the moment of their accession, and are generally alluded to by some such title as "Lord of a Myriad Years," or "The Son of Heaven."

The flu never attacks airmen, because of the purity of the air at high altitudes. But the average citizen would rather chance the flu than have to be up in the air all the time.

Citizens of this country have learned not to take the instructions of presidential conventions delegates too seriously. Instructed delegates have been known to forget everything they knew.

Has Never Seen Their Equal
"I have used Chamberlain's Tablets for stomach trouble, biliousness and constipation off and on for the past ten years. I have never seen their equal yet. They strengthened my digestion, relieved me of headaches and had a mild pleasant action on my bowels. I take pleasure in recommending them" writes H. D. F. Farmer, Cridersville, Ohio. Have a Look!
Here it is—the farm paper you've been looking for. It's a great national institution, big enough to cover the whole hundred billion dollar farm business—big enough, too, not to neglect any important local interest.
The COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is all that you want your farm paper to be—always thoroughly practical, but always interesting; always original, but always pure-fact stuff.
I'd like to show you my copy for this week—honestly, I never saw a better farm publication in my life. It's written by men who KNOW farming, hot by quill-driving theorists, and it brings to you the best practice of successful farmers and breeders the country over. That's the NATIONAL SERVICE that you hear about whenever THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN is mentioned. Ask your Farm Bureau Officials, your County Agent, your Livestock Shipping Association and your Banker what they think of this service. They'll be glad to tell you. Then I know I can expect your dollar for the fifty-two big weekly budgets of farm helpfulness.

A Favorite Indoor Sport
is "waiting for something to turn up." About all the exercise it gives is a greater ability to wait some more.
The man who knows he needs a bank account but who "waits" until the time seems more opportune; who "waits" till this or that takes place, handicaps himself mightily in the battle of life.
Any time soon is a good time to open an account with this bank—to-day is especially good.
