MR. GORMAN'S "TRUST."

The House of representatives last Monday withdrew the Wilson bill and accepted, in toto, the senate measure, which was known as the Gorman-Brice Sugar Trust bill. So Mr. Gorman of this state must stand before the country as the champion of the bill and endure the just odium heaped upon him by an outraged people.

So much has been said of Mr. Gorman's conduct in connection with this sugar trust bill that he will in all probability carry with him to the shades of private life an epithet as odious as did "Spongy Ben Butler."

There is however the strongest ground for belief that Senator Gorman never was at any time interested in sugar legislation, or ever directly received from it any benefits, either from speculating in the stocks or otherwise.

Mr. Gorman's interests in coal, his own, his brother's, his cousin's and his aunt's. The family have invested in coal their millions, and there never has been a time, since 1887, when Mr. Cleveland issued his famous tariff message that Mr. Gorman would not have preferred a republican in principle and name, to a democrat for president, especially a tariff reformer. In 1888 Mr. Gorman went to the National convention and did every thing in his power to prevent the convention from adopting a platform embodying tariff reform. In this he was defeated. He returned home and immediately retired from the head of the National Committee and was succeeded by his man Friday, now Senator Brice, who by the way, is also interested in coal. These two men headed Cleveland's campaign in 1888—Brice on the stage, Gorman behind the curtain. We all know the result. Mr. Cleveland is believed near the case. In 1892 when he came before the country again he insisted on having his friends manage the campaign. Before the election took place according to his own statement, corroborated by the statements of the Louisiana Senators, Mr. Gorman began to prepare for the battle which has been raging for the past ten months, with such disastrous results to all commercial interests of the country.

Mr. Gorman could calculate with safety upon but three democratic votes interested in coal, Senator Brice's and his two. This was not enough to insure the defeat of a tariff bill antagonistic to his coal interests. He saw that the sugar interest was easier concentrated than any other—one man, Mr. Havemeyer, having full power to contract on the part of the Trust.

By pooling his coal interests with the Trust he could secure votes enough to "hold up" all legislation that affected these interests. This is what he did. For it, he must answer to the country and to his Maryland constituents.

These half-dozen, in secret, were to stand by each other and as freebooters have conducted their campaign of plunder. No amount of popular criticism has broken the bond of allegiance to each other.

The selection of Charles H. Gibson by Mr. Gorman as his coadjutor, thereby securing an additional vote for any and all purposes, was a part of this foul plot.

THE GORMAN-BRICE COMPROMISE.

The New York Herald editorially has this to say of the Sugar Bill.
Under compulsion of the darkest and foulest conspiracy in the annals of any nation the House of Representatives has passed the Senate Tariff Bill. The Catline of the Senate, unabashed by his betrayal of his fair-named State and party, unmoved by the sufferings and distresses he has brought upon his country, promptly received from Republican all due congratulations and plaudits for his victory over the American people.

"But this victory, like Lee's brilliant success in the second day's fight at Gettysburg—which fatally emboldened him to continue his battle on the third day—will surely and swiftly bring on the irretrievable overthrow of "protection." Temporarily the sun of democracy is eclipsed, its administration is put in the pillory of universal contempt, and what is far worse, the honor and all the material interest of the whole nation are sacrificed and slaughtered at the dictation of its long recognized masters, "protected" manufacturing barons and moneyed kings. The question, however, will now assert itself with volcanic force, are the people willing to remain slaves of the tariff-robbars? The great war for freedom has just begun in earnest and must go on.

That the Angus stable of McKinley, then were emptied and cleaned in the single year by the party elected for this very sole purpose cannot be a matter of sole complaint. In its first spasm of indignation, as being betrayed the country might be disposed to sweep out of power the party which has proven itself to be a power to fulfill its pledges of "a tariff for revenue only." But on sober second thought the people will see that if the dominant party has failed thus far to accomplish its Herculean task there is no hope of relief from the republican party, which has ever demonstrated its ability to placate the trusts. And hence the storm of popular wrath will be concentrated not upon the party, but upon the individual demagogue who have proven themselves false to the flag under which they have professed to fight.

In passing the Senate bill the House of Representatives has only yielded to the direct necessity, the alternative of which was the continuance of the famous and far more ruinous McKinley law. But this alternative was forced upon the House by the Gorman-Smith-Brice-Murphy ring, backed by all the power of the "protected" trusts and combines which the people have been pampering and nursing in their boom as vipers to sting them for the last thirty years. Still, this ring might have been broken had any leading demagogue of the Senate opposed and attacked its members as public enemies instead of apologizing for them. Neither the leaders of the Senate Finance Committee nor the Treasury officials have sounded out to the people the inequities and enormities of the Gorman bill. On the contrary they have quietly countenanced or condoned them. Whatever good feature remains in the bill is in no sense or degree due to Gorman or to the Senate, but it only survives as a relic of some good thing in Mr. Wilson's bill which escaped the ruinous touch of the ring and its apologists in the Finance Committee. The eight or ten democratic obstructionists in the Senate will be made to rue their course in delaying tariff action six months and then forcing on the country a tariff which, as the Herald has repeatedly shown, will take out of the pockets of the people at least $1,250,000,000 per annum, not as revenue for the government, but solely to enrich the "protected" manufacturers and trusts.

The only way in which the Senate can at all redeem itself from universal contempt will be to take up and speedily pass the bills for free sugar, free coal, free iron and barbed wire passed yesterday by the House. These bills will remove $175,000,000 of the vast burden of the Senate's "protective" taxation, the bulk of which, under the Gorman scheme, will simply go as plunder to the iron and coal kings and the sugar Trust. Senators Hill, Voorhees, Vest, Jones, Mills and others have all along protested that they were not in sympathy with the Gorman-Smith ring. They now have it in their power to give the country some proof of their sincerity by an earnest and instant advocacy of the new tariff bills. The country will hold the House responsible to stand out for its legislative bill if it has to remain in session till December. Every day of delay will give opportunity to show the country the true inwardness and malign workings of "protection," and the discussion which will ensue will hasten the dawn of our national deliverance from the slavery of Gormanism.

Meantime the friends of tariff reform have cause for good cheer. Mr. McKinley is already dead and his vile offspring is already doomed. Only let the people, whose cause has been so ably and nobly led by the men who stood true to the Wilson bill, now take up the battle and "protectionism" will meet its Gettysburg in November.

From the Baltimore Sun of Tuesday: If the result of yesterday's caucus, in any sense, can be regarded as a victory for the trust, it is such a victory as Pyrrhus had in mind when he exclaimed "one more such victory and we are undone." Still less can it be regarded as a personal triumph of the senatorial conspirators, upon whom the action of the House democrats placed an ineffable brand as traitors to their party, and as men with whom it was impossible to trust. It was like playing with gamblers who use loaded dice or carry cards in their sleeves.

According to the general tenor of the dispatches from Washington, it was the discovery by the house conferees, of a crowning piece of treachery and bad faith on the part of Mr. Gorman and his associates that caused the interruption of the sitting of the conference last week gave occasion to Senator Hill to introduce his resolution of inquiry as to the causes of the failure of the conference to agree and well-nigh provoked a furious explosion on the part of Senators Harris and Vest in the Senate. After, as Senator Harris explained, a substantial agreement had been reached upon every subject of disagreement, they remained only the sugar schedule and the subject of coal and iron ore in dispute. At this stage, it is commonly understood, the "conservative" Senators proposed as a basis of agreement, free sugar and either free coal or free iron ore. Before falling into the trap thus set for them, the House conferees deemed it prudent to ascertain how the adoption of free sugar would affect the vote in the Senate. They discovered what, of course, the "conservative" knew perfectly well when they made the treacherous and crafty proposal, that with free sugar the bill could not pass. This was presumably Gorman's purpose, to defeat the bill and with it all prospects of tariff legislation at this session, to leave the McKinley tariff in full force, and to throw the odium of such a result if possible upon other shoulders than his own, those of the Louisiana Populist Senators. A frank talk with Senator Caffery is said to have fully opened the eyes of the House conferees, to Senator Gorman's designs, and convinced them of the futility of negotiating further with men in whom no confidence could be placed.

A TARIFF BILL.

There is every reason to hope for better prices on corn and wheat. The corn crop according to government reports is very short in the west, especially in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, where in some sections there has been no rain for three months till within the last few days. The wheat crop to be sure is abundant but much of it will be applied to new uses, the fattening of pork and beef, for which it is sold to contain relatively much more nutriment than corn at the present prices of the two cereals.

The farmers of this country will be blessed with a bountiful crop of corn and have already harvested a good wheat crop. The surplus corn crop will probably reach a hundred thousand bushels, quite a large item when it goes to the credit instead of the debit side of the ledger. Added to this will be the savings of thousands of dollars that have, for the past three or four years, gone for purchasing hay. Altogether our farmers feel more hopeful.

The tariff bill it is true, is not what it should have been, but in the main it is settled; for this in nothing else, the country feels thankful.

From the Somerset Herald: "Because Somerset county happens to stand in need of a new Clerk's office and Register of Wills office, there is no reason why the county could build a new Court House to supply such a necessity, especially when it has a good Court House, even if it is antiquated in appearance. A Clerk's and Register's office, with free proof vaults, with several additional rooms for other offices, could probably be built for $7,000, while to erect a Court House would involve the county to the tune of about $20,000. Quite a difference you will perceive. The already heavily burdened tax payers are positively opposed to a new Court House at this time, and they are right."

Our neighbors in Somerset may be in need of a new court house or may not. We don't know. One thing, however, is certain, that if he free first tenor bonds will not sell for more than seventy-five cents on the dollar, as is stated in a Herald correspondence, signed R. O. Our neighbors had better rest awhile on the report. In the mean time any 12 year old school child of the county might suggest, to the corresponding $20,000 is eighty per cent of $25,000, and not seventy-five per cent.

Home and Abroad.
It is the duty of everyone, whether at home or traveling or traveling for pleasure or business, to equip himself with remedies which will keep up strength and prevent illness, and cure such ills as liable to come upon all in everyday life. For instance, Hood's Sarsaparilla as a general tonic, and to keep the blood pure and the system in a healthy condition of disease, will be well nigh invaluable. Change of drinking water often causes serious trouble, especially if one has been used to spring water in the country. From few drops to a teaspoonful of Hood's Sarsaparilla in a tumbler would have the same effect. Hood's Vegetable Pills, as a cathartic, causes no discomfort, no disturbance, no loss of sleep, but assists the digestive organs, so that satisfactory results are effected in a perfectly natural and regular manner.

Summer School.
For those wishing employment, the most desirable of the whole year is to enter Palm's Business College, 1708-10 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, as they will graduate in the Fall when business is at its best and situations the most plentiful. Palm's College gives a complete business education at the minimum of cost and time, and assists its graduates in securing situations. Handsome circulars can be had for the asking.

MR. GORMAN'S SUGAR TRUST BILL IS ADOPTED.

The Gorman-Brice Tariff bill, with its sugar trust schedule, was passed by the House of Representatives Monday evening, as was agreed to by the Senate, and as had been exclusively announced in the Herald.

This was done in accordance with the decision reached in the caucus of democrats held in the morning, in which Chairman Wilson, Speaker Crisp and other leaders of the majority confessed that it was impossible to win the fight against the handful of Senators who had refused to accept any reduction of the protection afforded to their interests by the Senate bill. It was, these leaders said, a case of the Senate tariff measure or no tariff at all.

Earnest protests against surrender were made in the caucus and in the House, but the opposition was in a hopeless minority. Only twenty-five votes were cast against the surrender in the caucus, and the House adjourned.

The tariff bill now goes to the President. It needs only to receive his signature or to be held by him without action for ten days to become the law of the land.

One day during this long tariff agitation the expected has happened. The House caucus agreed upon the Senate bill, the bill was passed six hours later, and the separate bills were rushed through before adjournment putting sugar, iron ore, coal and barbed wire on the free list, just as the Herald exclusively announced would be done.

This was not accomplished without a display of managerial vigor, parliamentary skill and partisan courage, and a vigorous fight was waged by those who participated in the proceedings.

The House wing of the Capitol was a scene of excitement from early morning, when the democratic caucus met, to late hour, until the last "pop gun" hour, amid the yells of the democratic multitudes placed on the floor.

The galleries were packed with eager spectators all day, and when the hour of adjournment was reached at twenty-five minutes after ten o'clock few vacant seats were visible in the vast auditorium. All that is claimed for the bill is that it is a great deal of good. I have a better opinion and do not feel that I can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla as an excellent medicine to keep the blood in order. Myself and my daughters have taken over six bottles, and it has done us much good. We do not now have to call upon a doctor, as we used to do, and I can say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is all that is claimed for it. I most heartily recommend it, and shall always keep it in my house." ALBERT KISSER, Auburn, Pa.

ADOPTED THE ORDER.
To Mr. Turner, of Georgia, called for the task of explanation and defence, and to Mr. Reed, of Maine, the leaders of the assault upon the resolution. It was adopted by a vote of 192 to 97. Then followed the debate an hour on each side, that followed the reading of the house from its stand on the Senate amendments to the house bill.

The speech of Chairman Wilson was brief, but exhaustive. His strong points were enthusiastically applauded by his party, and when he sat down his country was brought face to face with the question as to whether it was a country of slavery or a slave to trusts he was drowned in an uproar of prolonged cheers and intermittent yells.

The republicans were ably led by Mr. Reed. He was brimming over with sarcasm and biting humor, and excited applause from his own partisans and frequent laughter on both sides. His comparison of the house to a "country of slaves" in the woods, led there by their big uncle in the White House, fairly convulsed the house and democrats followed in the tumult of mirth that followed. Mr. Reed learned this time to Mr. Cockran and Mr. Tammey, democrats, who attacked the bill as amended.

THE BARRED WIRE QUESTION had some interesting personalities injected into it. The impression being somewhat general that the bill had been secured by the "barred wire" men, Mr. Springer, of Illinois, Mr. Springer's early career was marked by his advocacy for barred wire in the bill. Not a few of his colleagues were glad to record their vote in "barred wire" and the result was a verdict of 187 to 84 on free barred wire. The republicans vainly tried to smother this question and it into a flame.

The bill for free sugar had been reserved as a sort of a lightning bolt to the tariff debate. Its passage was to be an easy thing anyhow, and beyond the possibility of a doubt. The scattering of the bill enabled the members to get in some sharp digs at the Senate.

When the issue came the vote stood 276 to 11, nearly all of the republicans voting for the bill. They were not to be caught in their own net. As soon as the vote had been fairly announced it was saluted with a cheer that came from all sides, and the House adjourned.

There is a smart exodus of Senators and members to-night. A large number will leave to-night. There is no expectation of the passage of any of these "popgun" bills in the Senate this session. Congress will remain in perfunctory session, however, until the President signs the Tariff bill.

Members of the House majority generally are much pleased at the turn of affairs. They believe they have made a people that they would have made had they secured the concessions asked for from the Senate. Nevertheless, the Tariff bill will become the law, and the "popgun" bills will remain, for the time at least, mere explosions of compressed air.

CONVENTIONS IN SALISBURY

Republicans and People's Party Conventions Met in Salisbury. Jury Last Tuesday.

Last Tuesday was a day of conventions in Salisbury. The republican convention had been called to meet at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The People's Party convention had also been arranged for an early afternoon hour.

When the republicans gathered at the court house they found the populists already in possession of the auditorium and the republicans withdrew to the grand jury room where they proceeded in regular order.

The convention was called to order at 2 o'clock by Capt. L. A. Parsons, chairman of the State central committee. Samuel J. Conway of Tyaskin district, was elected Chairman, and W. O. Bennett of Starke district, secretary.

A. H. Huntington, Joseph G. White and M. H. Bennett were appointed committee on credentials; J. H. Hayman, R. A. Parker and Samuel Leatherbury committee on resolutions. The committee on credentials reported nine districts represented, Dennis District having no delegates.

While the committees were out Mr. Robt. P. Graham, who was a delegate from Salisbury district, arose and in a well modulated voice began an address to the convention. He said that a republican convention on the day following Gorman's great triumph for protection should be regarded in the line of the "finest of things" and recommended that the convention adopt resolutions thanking Mr. Gorman for his masterly and powerful defence of the great principle of protection which the republican party had always consistently stood for and maintained. Mr. Gorman had done more, Mr. Graham thought, than any avowed republican had attempted to do to maintain protection.

Mr. Graham had the closest attention of his audience who evidently were pleased with the reminder that Mr. Gorman deserved thanks, but no resolution of thanks was introduced.

On the call for the nomination of delegates to represent the county in the Ocean City convention, which meets August 29, R. P. Graham put the following in nomination: Dr. L. W. Wilson, S. W. Mesick, W. P. Parsons and A. J. Benjamin. Joseph H. Hayman nominated the following: W. O. Bennett, A. H. Huntington, Ware C. Walter, George T. Hudson. A vote was taken by districts and resulted in the last named receiving 10 votes and the first four 8 votes. The chair announced W. O. Bennett, A. H. Huntington, Ware C. Walter and George T. Hudson duly elected delegates to Ocean City. The alternates are L. A. Parsons, J. P. Parsons, W. W. Disharoon, Alex. King.

The following resolutions were adopted: "Resolved, That we heartily endorse the republican principles of protection as administered by Benjamin Harrison and pledge our fealty thereto."

"Resolved, That the delegates to Ocean City use every honorable means to secure the nomination of E. S. S. Turner for Congress."

Mr. Turner is one of the most active and popular republicans in this congressional district, and loves politics dearly.

While the resolutions were in session in the grand jury room the People's Party convention was in progress in the court room below.

At 1 o'clock Dr. Elzey, president of the Farmers Alliance, was in session in the grand jury room of the People's Party convention was in progress in the court room below.

The annual convention of the State Farmers Alliance convened in the Court House Tuesday evening. Delegates were present from Dorchester, Caroline, Wicomico and Worcester counties.

These gentlemen who are among the young and prosperous business men of the peninsula were in Salisbury to acquaint themselves with the plans and methods of our building and loan associations, with a view to establishing one in Cambridge. They visited the two associations here and seemed favorably impressed with their workings.

The executive committee of the Prohibition party for the First Congressional District, which was recently appointed at Salisbury, met in Pococomo City last week, and determined upon an aggressive campaign. Plans were formed for the organization of a volunteer Lecture Bureau in this district, which would enable the chairman to arrange meetings in every school district at the least expense. Other important work was outlined.

Mr. C. D. Langrall, son of Samuel A. Langrall, Esq., of Tyaskin district has tendered his resignation to a scholarship at Washington college. He received the appointment a year ago from the Orphans Court of this county. The vacancy will be filled by the court at the next meeting, August 28th. Notice of the vacancy is published in this week's issue of the Advertiser.

The ladies of Spring Hill held a festival at the Church last Wednesday, the proceeds of which were for the benefit of the church. The attendance on the afternoon was rather small. Quite a number of Salisbury people were out.

The usual routine work came up for consideration before the court.

Resignation of Mr. C. D. Langrall, who was appointed last year to the Washington College scholarship, was returned and accepted.

Mills shut Down.

What effect is the China-Japan war having on the business of Salisbury?

The average individual would experience great difficulty in answering this question, if he did not dismiss it altogether with a contemptuous, "none at all."

Nevertheless when the Messrs. Jackson paid off their hands last Tuesday evening "none at all" was not the answer.

They need not report again for duty till further advised. Thus a whole company of men was laid off and a payroll of several hundred dollars each week, stopped. These several hundred dollars will not go to the grocer nor to the merchant, nor into circulation at all, for you see, the laborer will not get it so long as he is without work.

The cause of the shut down is understood to be the refusal of the insurance companies to place risks on the Standard Oil Co. (The people with whom Messrs. Jackson have a contract) product in transportation during the continuance of the war. Therefore the suspension of foreign shipments, and this is the way Salisbury enterprise is affected.

Every shaft and valve once responded, and the motion smooth and satisfactory. The mill is known as No. 3. It is the largest enterprise of its kind in the south. When run at its full capacity from 150 to 200 men will be required. The mill has attracted laboring men from all parts of the peninsula and from some of the cities. Every week the Messrs. Jackson have applications from men seeking employment.

The lumber that will be required to supply the mill will come chiefly from the Messrs. Jackson's saw mills in the south and it will be delivered at the yard by the N. Y. P. & N. railroad.
