NOTICE.

To Property Owners on Park Street from North side of West Chestnut Street to South side of Isabella Street in Salisbury, Md., of the proposed passage of an ordinance for curbing and recurring where necessary and drainage of same.

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 158 of the Public Local Laws, Title "Wicomico County," subtitle "Salisbury," Chapter 310 Acts of 1908, by order of Mayor and City Council of Salisbury, Maryland, notice is hereby given to all persons interested therein, that an ordinance has been prepared and is on file at the office of the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury, which said ordinance provides for the curbing and recurring where necessary and drainage of same.

The said ordinance provides that the cost of the work on said street is to be paid for by assessing one-half of the expense on the abutting property in proportion to the frontage of said property on said street, and the other half of the cost, together with the total cost for street intersection, to be paid by the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury, Md.

The above mentioned ordinance is proposed to be passed by the City Council of Salisbury on the 29th day of September 1909 at a special joint meeting at the City Hall, Salisbury, Maryland, on said date, convening at 8 o'clock p. m.

All persons in any way interested in the subject matter of said ordinance are hereby notified that the City Council of Salisbury will meet as above stated for the purpose of considering said ordinance and giving hearing to all those who may appear before them relative thereto.

By order of the Mayor and City Council of Salisbury Maryland,
J. H. T. ELLISON,
Sept. 8, 1909. Clerk to City Council.

LIVED IN SALISBURY.

Layfield, Suspected Murderer, Formerly Here, Bore Bad Reputation.

Samuel Layfield, the negro who is under arrest in Philadelphia, the confessed assassin of Mrs. Wm. M. Mortland, of near Marlton, N. J., formerly lived in Salisbury and bears an unfavorable record. It was through information furnished by Deputy Sheriff Waller, of this county, that his arrest was so quickly accomplished. As soon as Layfield was missing after the crime on the Mortland farm, Detective Parker, Burlington county, N. J., wired here for information of the negro and Waller telegraphed his record and also gave information of the location in Philadelphia of some of his relatives. This tip led to his capture.

Beside his own bad record here, Layfield has several relatives serving terms in prison. He was accused of breaking and entering a dwelling here a few months ago and Deputy Sheriff Waller started to arrest him. Layfield took to the Wicomico River, with the Sheriff in hot pursuit. Both swam the stream, but the negro reached the bank first and made his escape. Since that time he has shaken the dust of this section from his feet and had not been heard of until arrested for the terrible crime in New Jersey.

Layfield Arraigned.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—When Samuel Layfield, the negro who confessed Tuesday night that he had brutally beaten Mrs. Wm. H. Mortland, in her home near Marlton, N. J., last Monday morning, was arraigned before Magistrate Scott, at the Central Station, yesterday, he was carefully guarded by detectives, for the husband of the unfortunate woman had made a desperate effort to reach the man in the cell room prior to the hearing. Mortland was so incensed that he could scarcely speak, and he had to be restrained by the officers. At the hearing he was kept as far from the prisoner as possible. After Mortland had formally identified him Layfield was remanded without bail to await requisition from New Jersey.

PROHIBITION TICKET

Named, Wicomico Countians Choose Legislative Candidates.

The Wicomico County Prohibition convention assembled in the courthouse Thursday. The convention was called to order by the county chairman, John H. Dulany, who was elected chairman of the convention and Chester S. Sheppard, secretary. The following ticket was nominated: Clerk of the Circuit Court, Rev. Henry S. Dulany.

Register of Wills, Uriah C. Phillips. House of Delegates, John H. Melson, Clayton G. Jackson and Luther F. Messtorf. County Commissioners, James R. Freney, Harvey P. Elsey and James W. Williams.

Sheriff, Josiah V. McGrath. Mr. John H. Dulany was elected county chairman, Chester S. Sheppard county secretary, and Uriah C. Phillips, county treasurer.

A resolution was adopted that the county chairman, county secretary and county treasurer be made a committee to fill any vacancies that might occur.

The county executive committee is John H. Dulany, Chester S. Sheppard, Uriah C. Phillips, Sampson P. Downing and Marion E. Pryor.

WEEKLY PROCEEDINGS

Of The Wicomico County Commissioners On Tuesday.

Commissioners Truitt and Johnson were appointed to inspect the route for a new road from Powellville across Givans Mill branch to Parsons Hill and report to the Board.

The Board requested Undertaker Hill to furnish clerk with the names and dates of the deaths of all non-residents who die in the Peninsula General Hospital, so that the clerk can notify officials of the counties from whence they come of the cost of burial, so that Wicomico County can be reimbursed.

Engineer Clark was instructed to examine Dr. Coway's property in Hebron relative to putting down tilling to drain the road, and report same to Commissioner Wright.

Engineer Clark reported that the work done on the public roads under the Shoemaker Law had been paid for by the county and that bills had been sent to the State Roads Commission for the part due from the State.

The Board passed an order that hereafter county would pay undertakers $8 each for burial of adult paupers and $5 for children.

Engineer Clark was authorized to advertise for bids for building the Middle Neck and Meadow Bridge roads under the Shoemaker Road Law. Bids to be in by noon, Tuesday, September 28th.

REWARD.—For return of a light grey overcoat lost Wednesday night on Isabella Street or County road leading by the Byard Perdue farm. Suitable reward if returned to Advertiser office or the Salisbury National Bank.

MARYLAND BOOMING

As A Farming State. Outsiders Invested One Million Dollars in Land This Year. Eastern Shore Most in Demand.

In a report which the State Bureau of Immigration is preparing for submission to Governor Crothers, it will be shown that more than $1,000,000 was brought to Maryland by people of other countries and by residents of other States for the purchase of land through the efforts of the Bureau for the present fiscal year.

This does not include the purchases of land made through the efforts of the Bureau by residents of Maryland, many of whom desired either to take up farming in new localities or to engage in farming as a new method of earning a livelihood.

Eastern Shore farms proved most in demand. Large sales were made in this locality and the prices ranged all the way from $20 to $70 an acre. Next in order was Southern Maryland.

Western Land High.

Many inquiries were made concerning land in the western part of the State, but the prospective settlers abandoned this field because of the prices asked for farms.

All of Maryland's new settlers are not poor men. Some of them made investments amounting to $40,000, paying cash. Many came from Western States. They wished to escape the rigors of the winters in the Northwest. Maryland was declared by many of them to be ideal as far as climatic conditions were concerned. Several came from Germany.

As a result of the constant inquiry for farms in Maryland prices have taken a boom.

Farming Profitable.

The location of one settler in any neighborhood, paying for his property a good price, has made the old settlers feel that there may be something in farming after all. They feel, too, that the former friends, relatives and neighbors of the new settler will soon be looking him up. This will mean new settlers and a greater demand for farms. Hence they are disposed to ask good prices for their properties.

It is the experience of the Bureau that the purchase of one farm in any community means the purchase of several in short order. Those making homes here send back word to their friends, and a colony is soon established.

Death Of John Huffington, Civil War Veteran.

The funeral services over the remains of Mr. John Huffington, who died at his home in Allen Sunday afternoon at six o'clock after an illness of several months, were held at Asbury M. E. Church, South, Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. Rev. S. E. Lucas and John C. Rosser, officiating. One of the largest concourses of people which has ever assembled in this place gathered to pay a last tribute to friend, neighbor and citizen. Mr. Huffington was born on a farm near Martinsburg in June, 1838, and was therefore in his 72 year. The son of a slave-holding parent at the outbreak of the Civil War he espoused the cause of the South and running the blockade to Virginia, enlisted in Company F, Second Maryland Regiment and served with great gallantry until the close of the war. He participated in every pitched battle fought by the army of Northern Virginia after the Seven Days Battle around Richmond. Was twice wounded, slightly at Gettysburg, where his regiment in a desperate charge on Oulp's Hill lost over half its members; and again the trenches around Petersburg he was severely, and for a time it was thought fatally wounded on the 2nd day of April, 1865. On the evacuation, he though painfully suffering, took up the line of march with his comrades and was shortly afterwards lodged in a hospital at Farmville on the line of Lee's Retreat, where two days afterwards he was made a prisoner by Sheridan's command. Coming home on a furlough in August he visited both here and at Quantico and was sequestered in Taintor's barn when the Yankee soldiers rode by to guard the election polls at Quantico in the State election of the same year. No love for home could keep him back from the cause he had espoused and surmounting all difficulties he made his way back South and followed the falling fortunes of the Stars and Bars until they were forever furled.

Mr. Huffington was married in 1876 to Miss Carrie Hayman, who with three children survive him—Prof. J. Walter Huffington, formerly principal of Wicomico High School, and now principal of the High School at Front Royal, Va., and Misses Carrie and Martha Huffington, of this place.

In politics Mr. Huffington was always a consistent Democrat and allowed no circumstances to interfere with his devotion to his party's interests.

A friend, a neighbor, a gentleman of the old school has gone and we shall miss him, but "beyond the night" we shall meet again.

R. Allen.

TENNIS HERE WEDNESDAY

Easton And Cambridge Both Participate in A Delightful Tourney.

Among tennis circles Wednesday was a field day on the Mill Grove Court, where Salisbury had the pleasure of meeting winners of the racket from Easton and Cambridge in an all day tourney.

The visitors came in on the 9.24 train and play started at 10. From then until after five in the afternoon, excepting an hour's intermission at noon, six events were played, five with Easton and one with Cambridge. It was expected to have another even with Cambridge one in mixed doubles, but the lateness of the hour caused by some exceedingly close games and dense fogs prevented this, the Dorset players feeling compelled to catch the 6.06 express home.

In the five events with Easton, Salisbury, won, taking three;

Ladies Singles—Miss Julia Dixon won from Mrs. E. O. Fulton, 6-1; 6-4.

Men's Singles—G. William Phillips, Salisbury, won from Mr. Crawford, Easton, 6-2; 6-2.

Ladies Doubles—Mrs. John Toulson and Mrs. Bernard Utman, Salisbury, won from Miss Reesie Bateman and Miss Hathaway, Easton, 6-1, 1-6, 6-1.

Men's Doubles—Dr. John M. Toulson and R. K. Truitt, Salisbury, won from M. Bateman and Mr. Crawford, Easton, 6-3, 6-0.

Mixed Doubles—Miss Julia Dixon and Mr. Throppe beat Miss Louise Gunby and J. R. White, Salisbury, 9-7, 8-10, 9-7.

Ladies Doubles—Miss Mary Henry and Miss Smallwood, Cambridge, beat Mrs. John M. Toulson and Mrs. Bernard Utman, Salisbury, 6-4, 6-4.

Luncheon was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Toulson, all the visitors being entertained there during the day. The tennis season on the Shore will probably be closed by another tourney in each of the three towns, Cambridge, Easton and Salisbury in order named.

These bouts have become one of the most enjoyable social features between these towns and are looked forward to with great pleasure by the tennis element.

CENSUS EMPLOYEES

Must Quit Politics. Letters Sent To Supervisors Announcing Ultimatum.

Every measure is being taken by Census Director Durand in carrying out President Taft's determination to prevent political activity on the part of census supervisors and enumerators during their term of office as emphatically outlined by the President in a letter to Secretary Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Director Durand has sent a letter, which has been approved both by the President and Secretary Nagel, to all supervisors calling their attention to the President's letter, pointing out that it prohibits a man from holding office or membership in any political committee during the term of his office as supervisor or taking any active part in politics by public address, solicitation of votes or otherwise.

The Director declares this order will be strictly enforced and requests that each supervisor inform him immediately whether he holds office or membership in any political committee and, if so, what position, and whether the supervisor is willing to resign such position and refrain from political activity during his term of office. If the answer is in the affirmative, the Director expects the supervisor to send a copy of his resignation from any such position with a statement that the resignation has been accepted.

CUPID IN SPOOL OF SILK.

Pottstown Girl's Dainty Note Draws Woof From Far-Away Nevada.

A note bearing her name and address that she wrapped around a spool of silk some time ago is going to bring a husband to Miss Rosa Robert, a pretty, buxom maiden, living at 213 North Evans Street, Pottstown, Pa. In a spirit of mischief Miss Robert, who is employed at the Champion silk manufacturing plant, put the little piece of paper in the spool about six months ago, and it fell into the hands of Edwin M. Baker, an official of the Esmeralda Mining Company, at Columbia, Nev. He began a correspondence with her, photographs were exchanged, and now she is wearing a handsome engagement ring set with a ruby, surrounded by diamonds. She expects her fiancé on soon, when the wedding will take place.

Miss Robert is a daughter of William C. Robert, a well-known citizen, and is a sister of Prof. Charles M. Robert, a Princeton University graduate, now a member of the faculty at Blairville, N. J. Academy.

Since the other girls at the Champion Silk Works have heard of Miss Robert's good luck they, too, have been sending out notes in the same way in the hope of winning husbands.

MARYLAND STARTS

Franchise Fight. Senator Rayner Pleads For Constitutional Amendment. Shuts Out Negroes.

The campaign on the question of the adoption of an amendment to the State Constitution, which is designed to disfranchise a large number of negro voters, was formally opened Thursday night at a Democratic mass meeting at the Lyric, Baltimore.

National interest has been aroused because of the denunciation of the proposed amendment by President Taft, who has characterized it as a "violation of the spirit of the fifteenth amendment," and because of the declaration by Republican leaders in the State that the Supreme Court of the United States will be asked to pass upon its validity, should it be adopted at the election next November. The Supreme Court has never passed upon the so called "grandfather clause" which is embodied in the amendment, and which has had the effect of disfranchising negroes in several of the Southern States.

United States Senator Isadore Rayner was the principal speaker. Mayor Mahool presided and Governor Crothers and Comptroller Herring were others who made speeches.

Senator Rayner made a vigorous plea for the amendment. He declared the chief issue was whether the welfare of Maryland should be handed over practically to the dominating influence at the polls of an illiterate vote that, as a rule, has not the slightest interest in the State's institutions and what forms the great bulwark of strength of the Republican party upon which it absolutely depends for political success.

"The justice of the cause is with us," he declared, "because the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments, conferring the right of suffrage, were unlawfully adopted by the most infamous system of tyranny and corruption that was ever inflicted upon a free people. We are not evading the Constitution of the United States. I say 'unlawful,' because the question of the legality of the adoption of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments will be opened the Supreme Court of the United States and I have the strongest hopes that this tribunal will strike down this iniquitous interference with the rights of the States. We are asserting the greatest doctrine of State's rights that is yet left to us under the remnant and residue of rights that we have saved from the wreck of the legislation by the Republican party."

RESTLESS WOMEN

Are Incompetent; So St. Louis Court Decides in Favor of Mrs. Nellie T. Brockbridge.

At St. Louis the Probate Court has decided that a woman is incompetent to manage her business affairs when she is restless. The decision was in the case of Mrs. Nellie T. Brockbridge, daughter of the late A. A. Talma, who was general manager of the Wabash Railroad, and daughter-in-law of the late Judge C. B. Brockbridge.

Probate Judge Holtzman denied her petition for the removal of her son George as guardian of her estate after Dr. J. E. Mader, the Brockbridge family physician, testified that she had a "mania for motion," wanting to be on the go all the time and making frequent trips to St. Louis in lively rigs. Dr. B. E. Mallenau of Huntsville, Mo., where she resides, testified that this is sane.

In Memoriam.

In sad but loving remembrance of Lola Pearl Dykes, beloved daughter of Ernest and Carrie Dykes, who died September 11th, 1909, aged 14 years, 10 months and 18 days.

Through the pearly gates of Heaven Passed the one we love so dear, God thought it best to take her from us Though the left our home so dear.

Oh, how hard we tried to save her, Prayers and tears were all in vain. Happy Angela came and bore her From this world of toil and pain.

Now she's waiting by the river Just across the silver stream Where sweet flowers are ever blooming And the banks are ever green.

Where no chill cold blast of winter Turn the roses blooming fair, And where all is love and sunshine Lola's waiting for us there.

—By Father and Mother.

Thos. R. Layfield.

News was received here this week of the death of Mr. Thos. R. Layfield, at his home in Parkley, Va. The body was brought to Salisbury on Wednesday, and funeral services held in the M. P. Church on Thursday. The remains were interred in Parkley Cemetery. The deceased was a former resident of this county, having been a son of an African American man, who was a relative living here. He was a well-known citizen and was a member of the local church. Mrs. Layfield, of Salisbury, is a widow and has children living here. The Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, D. D., of London, has an article in "The Westminster," under the heading: "What Has the Nation to Say With Regard to the Liquor Traffic?"

Dr. Morgan of course refers to Great Britain, for the writing is manifestly a portion of a sermon delivered to his people in Westminster Chapel.

Dr. Morgan illustrates the fact that the average Englishman is behind the average American on the subject of Temperance Reform. "Restriction of this traffic" is his idea. The impossibility of successful "restriction" does not seem to occupy Dr. Morgan's mind. We trust that his great intellect will soon be brought to bear on the larger view of the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes.

"Restriction" has been well tried on this side of the Atlantic, and unsuccessfully. The license system itself was originally an effort to restrain. Since that time such conspicuous attempts as the "Disappearing System" in our Southland and the "Gothenburg System" in Europe have been tried, not only without satisfaction, but with great disappointment.

The only cure for the saloon, as has been frequently observed, is no saloon.

Dr. Morgan's appeal, however, to the Church is excellent. He holds that the Church must do her part and that her members cannot be caught but culpable if failure along this line may be charged against them. Dr. Morgan in this connection says:

"It is for statesmen to consider the vexed and subtle questions of how; but the Church should, with unwavering loyalty to the ideals of Christ, demand the restriction of the traffic that does nothing other than blight and blast and damn humanity. There can be no two opinions about that point. We may have differences as to the length of time limits, as to the method of dealing with licensing law, but if at this crisis the Church of God does not speak, then she is guilty silent, and the issue will be her own condemnation and undoing in the days that lie ahead. We must remember when Christ challenged evil, evil challenged Christ. We must remember that the plea of the devil as he faced Christ was this: Let us alone; what have we to do with Thee? What was Christ's answer? He rebuked the unclean spirit and demanded that he should come out, and, in coming out, the spirit cast the man to the ground and rent him.

"Before this demon comes out there will be much rending, but we are false to Christ if at this time we do not speak on the side of that righteousness and love which demand restriction of this traffic, which gives no material or moral strength, but rather hurts and harms and destroys wherever it exists."

Dr. Morgan also makes the following statement:

"I know the difficulty of this problem. The difficulty of it is that we are not willing, we Christian men and women, to submit this whole question to the simple arbitration of the Christian ideal."

Abstinence in Industry.

No more striking item in our "net" progress appears than in the pronounced abstinence movement in industry. Within the memory of some men now living liquor was generally regarded as an essential part of a worker's diet. "Mechanics and laboring men," says Dr. Fehlandt, "were provided with a daily ration of spirits, to which the town bell summoned them at four and at eleven, as regularly as meals were provided at other hours. The farmer, during harvest and haying time, kept his help in the field constantly supplied with a bottle of whiskey or New England rum. The man who could not drink was not supposed to be of much account when it came to hard work."

To-day it is quite unnecessary to point out, this attitude openly championed by any business man would be treated with general contempt and ridicule. But the business world has gone much farther than that.

Noble Archbishop Temple.

The late Archbishop Temple never spoke more nobly than when he expressed himself as follows: "I have been for years a teetotaler, because I have long ago learned the difference in dealing with my fellowmen between 'Come along' and 'Go along.' I have long ago learned that if you want to lead men you must put yourself at their head, and that it is no use to point out the path and say: 'I am going a road that is good for me, but you go the road that is good for you.' If you really desire to lead them, you must lead them in person and not simply in precept."

The Traffic is Treasonable.

I impeach the liquor traffic of high crimes and misdemeanors. It is more mockery to ask us to put down drunkenness by moral and religious means alone. —Cardinal Manning.

Go With A Rush.

The demand for that wonderful Stomach, Liver and Kidney cure, Dr. King's New Life Pills—is astounding. Never were the like. Its because they never fail to cure Sour Stomach, Constipation, Indigestion, Bilelessness, Jaundice, Sick Headache, Chills and Malaria. Only 50c. All Drugists.

Do You Get UpWith a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable. Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble.

When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. J. C. Kilmer, Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

FRENCH CAVE DWELLERS

Two Million Modern Troglodytes.

Mostly Peasants, in the Republic.

"There are no fewer than 2,000,000 cave dwellers in France," writes a traveler. "Whether you travel north, south, east or west, you will find these curious imitations of the homes of primitive man. They stretch for fully seventy miles along the valley of the Loire, from Blois to Saumur, and as the train proceeds you can catch a glimpse from time to time, of their picturesque entrances, surrounded by flowers and verdure. As likely as not you will see the inhabitants standing or sitting in front of their mysterious looking caverns, and unless you have learned the contrary, you will be inclined to imagine that they possess some of the characteristics of the troglodytes of old, and that their homes are mere dens. Not so, as you will find on visiting them.

"They are nearly all well-to-do peasants, owners perhaps of some of the vineyards that deck the slopes on all sides, and their habitations are, as a rule, both healthy and comfortably furnished. These singular houses are remarkably cool in summer, without being in the least damp, while in winter they can be warmed much more easily and better than ordinary apartments. The health of the modern troglodyte is, as a rule, excellent, and it is not uncommon to find centenarians among them. This, however, is by no means surprising when we consider that their homes are not only beautiful to live in, but are also comfortably furnished and fitted up.

"In the majority of cases these rock houses were not excavated for the special purpose of being inhabited, but with the object of obtaining stone for the building of houses. At Rochecorbon there is a rock dwelling carved out of a single block of stone, and the ingenious owner, in addition to making a two-story villa therefrom, has provided himself with a roof garden, from which a fine view of the valley can be obtained. A similar house exists at Bourges. In which locality the disused quarries are said to date from the days of the Romans."

WHERE WOMEN FIRST VOTED.

Equal Suffrage Had Its Origin in New Jersey in 1776.

The renewed agitation for equal suffrage recalls the almost forgotten fact that in New Jersey was first extended to women the right of suffrage on the same terms as to men.

On the second day of July, 1776 (two days before the signing of the Declaration of Independence), says the Detroit Free Press, the first constitution convention of New Jersey, in session at Burlington for the purpose of revising the old Colonial charter, struck out of the suffrage clause the words "male freeholders" and inserted the words "all inhabitants." It then read "All inhabitants worth $50."

On this property qualification women voted "in increasing numbers" until 1807. Only those few women could vote who owned $250 worth of property, and these were almost all federalists. That party continued to control the State until 1807, when for the first time the Democratic party obtained a majority in the Legislature. The Democrats at once proceeded to disfranchise the white women and free negroes by an act which, it is said, was clearly unconstitutional, but which never was contested. In 1844 a new constitution removed any question on the subject by using the words "white male citizen."

INDOOR WALKING.

Surprising Figures Disclosed by a Hotel Keeper's Pedometer.

How far do you walk in a day? Not in the street, not even outdoors, but in your house or place of business? It is a safe bet that few busy persons could measure within a mile of telling.

The manager of one of the largest hotels in New York decided some time ago to find out exactly how much indoor walking he did, so he bought a pedometer and carried it with him on his daily rounds. He seldom walks up or down a stairway, using the elevators for perpendicular travel, but he does visit every part of his building at least once a day.

The pedometer experiment convinced him after a week's trial that his walking about the hotel alone amounted to from eight to eleven miles a day.

Now let some active housekeeper who does part of her own work apply the same test. How many miles a day would her little clock register?

Ocean's Toll in Soil.

One of the most startling facts coming to the American public from the latest report of the Secretary of Agriculture is that the rivers of the United States are annually pouring into the ocean not less than one billion tons of sediment, and that this immense volume of waste consists of the most valuable elements of the soil, the very richest material, as the Secretary calls it, "the cream of the soil." At a moderate appraisal the annual loss exceeds all the land taxes of the whole country, and this loss is steadily increasing instead of decreasing. This does not take into account the coarse detritus which is pushed along the sides of the larger streams. Then we have to take into account, besides the soil impoverishment, that the sediment pollutes the waters that carry it, endangering the lives of those who are compelled to use them, and reducing their value for manufacturing and other domestic purposes.—The Independent.

An Ill Wind

The big yellow car had just escaped taking off the wheel of a very smartly rigged Stanhope, and the pretty woman in it had sent a look of resentment and disgust deep into poor Billy's susceptible eyes; he spoke irritably as they sped past.

"I wish to heaven, Julia, you would be more careful. That's the seventh time this afternoon we've escaped a mix-up. Let me run her now, that's a good girl."

His cousin snubbed him firmly. "If you are going to develop nerves, Billy, you can get out, you know. I may be a greenhorn, but I'm game for any amount of this business. Do we turn just ahead? I don't seem to remember this road."

"Yes, we turn—on one wheel, probably," retorted the perturbed Billy, savagely. "No stunts now. Shut her down, I say! There's the house of a mill, Julia."

Soon afterward he sat up in the dusty grass of the roadside and gazed vaguely about him. Presently he became conscious of a peculiar object on which his hand rested. He looked down. A roasted chicken, plump, browned to a turn, met his astonished gaze. A bottle of champagne, broken, alas! lay near, its golden nectar wasted on insensate grass. Dazed and aggrieved he got to his feet, and then he sat down again suddenly. A big red car stood in the otherwise deserted road. Red! Poor Billy pressed his hands over his traitor eyes. Red! The Meteor was yellow—he could swear to it. Yellow was Julia's color, Julia? When—where—

He got up quickly, anxiously. That reckless girl! Ah, there she was!

A young woman in a torn coat of pongee sat calmly on the wall behind him, arranging her sunny hair in the indescribable fashion peculiar to all pretty women. She met his scared eyes calmly.

"Come around, haven't you?" she said with a nod of her charming head. "I thought you would. You began to groan when I poured the champagne over you, but really there wasn't anything else I could do for you. On the whole I think we've come off rather luckily, don't you?"

Billy's head whirled. Who was this no-nonsense young person who said "we" so calmly to an utter stranger, and who seemed oblivious to the existence of Julia?

"Would you mind telling me what has become of Julia?" he faltered, holding his aching head. "Something has happened I think. Is she—badly hurt?"

It was the young woman's turn to start, and she did so, thoroughly.

"Julia? What do you mean? I don't remember a thing after I screamed, when I saw that big yellow streak bearing down upon us, until I found myself in these bushes and you unconscious on the grass. Who is Julia?"

Mr. Billy Brooks staggered to a seat on the wall. The girl was frowning at the rents in her long coat.

"Look at 'em," she murmured. "Even if our car isn't past patching up, I'm a wreck. I can't possibly face Mrs. Elliott and the rest in this state. You see, I lit right in those blackberry bushes. It was awfully good of you to offer to get me there quickly, but, really, the train would have been less hard on my gown."

Mr. Brooks murmured an apology absently, staring straight before him. Mrs. Elliott! An addition to his circle of acquaintances. Perhaps Julia—

"Your eyes aren't gray, and your hair isn't curly—why I don't know you, I don't," she said pitifully. "I never saw you in my life before. What—what has happened to us? You talk of Julia and—"

"Why, cousin Julia and I were driving half an hour ago in a yellow car—the Meteor. Julia and the car seem to have been translated and you're Mr. Stewart! I am here, and you are here, and a red car is here, and—the remains of a good lunch—not mine. My name is William Brooks. Can you throw any light on this Chinese puzzle?"

"I don't quite understand. I thought you were Mr. Stewart or I—Why, this is Mr. Stewart's car! He was taking me over to Mrs. Elliott's garden party. And that big yellow car came roaring at us!"

"When—when I crawled out of the bushes and tried to pour the champagne down your throat, I thought what pigs these people were to keep right on and never stop to see if we were killed! And you are not—Mr. Stewart—at all! If your name is Brooks, where is Mr. Stewart?"

"Where is Julia?" replied Mr. Brooks unhappily, still anchored to the wall.

"I really do not know," retorted the lady in the car, with some asperity. "It might appear to a sensible person that she is with Godfrey Stewart in a yellow car. Anything is possible after this."

Mr. Brooks slid from the wall with incredible speed.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight, an Act was passed providing for the election of the members of the General Assembly, and the Constitution of the State, which said Act is in the following words, to-wit:

CHAPTER 2.

AN ACT to amend Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, three-fifths of all the members of the two Houses concurring, that the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in the place and stead of Section one of said Article one.

Sec. 1. All elections shall be by ballot, and every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years or upward, who has been a resident of the State for two years and of the Legislative District of Baltimore City or of the county in which he may offer to vote, for one year next preceding the election, and who, moreover, is duly registered as a qualified voter as provided in this Article, shall be entitled to vote, in the ward or election district in which he resides, at all elections hereafter to be held in this State, and in case any county or city shall be so divided as to form portions of different electoral districts for the election of Representatives in Congress, Senators, Delegates or other officers, then a person who has been a resident of the county or city which shall form a part of the electoral district in which he offers to vote for one year next preceding the election; but a person who shall have acquired a residence in such county or city, entitling him to vote at any such election, shall be entitled to vote in the election district from which he removed, until he shall have acquired a residence in the part of the county or city to which he has removed.

Every male citizen of the United States having the above prescribed qualifications of age and residence shall be entitled to be registered so as to become a qualified voter if he be, first: a person who, on the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, was a citizen of the State of Maryland, or of any other State of the United States, wherein he then resided; or second: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or third: a foreign born citizen of the United States naturalized between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article; or fourth: a male descendant of such last mentioned person; or fifth: a person who, in the presence of the officers of registration, shall, in his own handwriting, with pen and ink, without any aid, suggestion or memorandum whatsoever, and without any question or direction addressed to him by any of the officers of registration, make application for registration, stating in such application his name, age, date and place of birth, residence and occupation at the time and for the two years next preceding his application, and if so, the State, county or city and district or precinct in which he voted last, and also the name in full of the President of the United States, and of the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States, of the Governor of Maryland, of one of the Judges of the Court of Appeals, and of the Mayor of Baltimore City, if the applicant resides in Baltimore City, or of one of the County Commissioners of the county in which he resides, and if he is a person who is unable to comply with the foregoing requirements as to making application for registration in his own handwriting, solely because he is physically disabled from so doing; or sixth: a person, or the husband of a person, who at the time of his application for registration, is a bona fide owner of real or personal property in an amount of not less than five hundred dollars, as assessed therefor or on the books of the City of Baltimore or of one of the counties of this State, has been such owner and so assessed for two years next preceding his application, and shall at the time of his application make affidavit before the officers of registration that he is, or that he is the husband of the person who is the bona fide owner of such property, and that he or she has been such owner for two years next preceding his application.

No person who is entitled to be registered as a qualified voter under one of the above clauses shall be entitled to be registered as a qualified voter or be entitled to vote. Every written application to be registered as a qualified voter of the officers of registration by any person applying to be registered under the above fifth clause, shall be carefully prepared and shall be produced in any Court, if required, as hereinafter provided.

The affidavit of any applicant for registration, duly made to the officers of registration or in Court, that he, the applicant, is a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, as aforesaid, or that he has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, shall be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein, and shall be a bar to the production of any evidence to the contrary.

A willfully false statement upon the part of any applicant for registration in violation of the provisions of this Article shall be perjury, and punishable as perjury is punished by the laws of this State.

Any person who feels aggrieved by the action of any board of officers of registration in refusing to register him as a qualified voter, or in registering any disqualified person, may at any time, either before or after the last session of the board of registration, but not later than the Tuesday next preceding the election, file a petition, verified by affidavit, in the Circuit Court for the county in which the cause of complaint arises, in which he shall set forth the grounds of his application and asking the court to annul the action of the board of officers of registration. The court shall forthwith set aside the action of the board of officers of registration complained against, and shall order the board of officers of registration to be reconstituted, and shall order the applicant to be registered, and shall award costs to the applicant.

In determining whether any person who applied to be registered under the above fifth clause of this section was or was not entitled to be registered under said fifth clause, the court shall require the board of officers of registration complained of to produce the evidence upon which they acted, and shall be bound by the evidence so produced.

Now, THEREFORE, I, AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1 of Article 24 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of said Act proposing an amendment to Section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of said State, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of the State and in three newspapers in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the next General Election, which election will be held on November 2nd, 1908, at which election the said proposed amendment shall be submitted in the form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

GIVEN under my hand and the Great Seal of the State of Maryland, at Annapolis, this 1st day of July, one thousand nine hundred and eight.

SCHOOL OPENS.

This week marks the beginning of another school year, and our school houses all over the county were filled with fresh, bright and youthful faces eager to commence their year's work. The greatest optimists in the world are our children, and as usual they commence this year full of confidence as they have commenced every year since they started to school; confident and determined to master the work before them and pass the next spring's final examinations. This is the spirit with which most of the children start in at the beginning of the school year, but how long with many does it last, and what takes the eagerness, the enthusiasm and the determination, out of the youthful hearts? This is the question that the teachers and the parents have to answer, and the success of the child at school will largely depend on the way in which it is answered. Before many weeks the enthusiasm will wear off and the school whose opening days were looked forward to so eagerly, will grow into a place of dislike, the work and lessons change from pleasure to an irksome duty, and this feeling will increase as the year drags along until the close of the year's work will be more eagerly looked forward to than was the opening. While the daily routine of the school work and the desire for a change, will make this feeling more or less general with all pupils, yet to those unfortunate ones who have been unable to keep up with their studies and have met with discouragement on all sides early in the year, falls the heaviest burden of school life.

The trouble in a great many cases with those who thus early fall behind in their school work lies to the parents' door. There are of course some teachers who, to put it mildly, have missed their calling; for the most part our teachers are conscientious and hard working and do everything in their power to help the pupils in their studies.

It is also true that the crowded conditions of our schools make the work on the teachers much harder and in some cases, seriously interferes with the efficiency of the schools. It is generally admitted that to the very young scholars, individual attention is needed, and this is impossible where the enrollment reaches the high figures it has reached in several of our schools, and as a result of this lack of attention on the part of the teachers, made impossible by the large number under their charge, many of the children lose interest in their work and lag behind.

But the parent should not leave the training of the mind of his child to the teacher alone, but should see to it that the child is making the progress in his studies he should make. A parent's duty is not completed when the child is started off to school by any means, but they should spare enough time away from business cares and social affairs or household duties to see that the child is properly doing the work mapped out by the teacher day by day.

Notice.

Any young lady, or widow, between the age of 18 and 25, of the right stamp of Salisbury, Wicomico County, Worcester County, who would like to have a good home in their own right; a kind and loving companion one that would love her, and with a good disposition, sober and industrious, in good circumstances. Please write to JAMES H. FURBUSH, Salisbury, P. O., Md. None need with accepting those announced.

LETTER WRITING AT LAST

Made Easy. Parisian Dealers Sell Postal Cards With Messages Prepared.

The benign possibilities of the post card as a labor-saving device are only half realized, although for several years it has been on the way to supersede all other forms of friendly correspondence. There has now appeared on sale in Paris a carte postale, which, although lacking pictorial adornment, fills all the requirements of a letter, while it can be prepared and dispatched in a few seconds.

This ingenious device looks like a miniature Australian ballot except that in the spaces devoted to the names of candidates appear sentiments of varied import, such as: "Arrived safely," "Had a good voyage," "Had an unpleasant voyage," "I am well," "I am ill," "I am very tired," "Hope you are well," "Nice weather," "Horrible weather," "Cold," "Warm," "Rainy," "Staying here some days," "Going on tomorrow," "Going on this evening," "Received your letter," "Why don't you write," "Have you received my letters," "Regards to all," "Kiss the children for me," "Come home soon," "Don't forget to write."

By means of a cross opposite the appropriate sentiment and statements a busy man or woman can say all he or she has to say with a few strokes of the pencil. Thus does the world progress.

A Few Reasons Why Acadia Butter Is Best

BECAUSE it is an absolutely pure Butter.

BECAUSE it is made from the pure, sweet milk of the best herds of dairy cattle in the State.

BECAUSE it is worked dry and contains not over four per cent moisture. (Most Butter will show from 15 to 20 per cent moisture.)

BECAUSE it is sold only in hermetically sealed packages, thus retaining the natural flavor.

BECAUSE in all the years it has been on the market we have never had a single complaint regarding its quality.

BECAUSE of a dozen other reasons which every person who knows good butter is sure to appreciate.

Sold by all first-class grocers.

Thoroughgood Is Making His Good Clothing Store Better.

You've got to bring up a store as you bring up a human being: watch for weaknesses—develop its good points. Lacy Thoroughgood is building this business that way—holding fast to the idea that his success is in your satisfaction. No department is strong enough if he can make it stronger; no value good enough if he can make it better. Nowadays any good business is really a partnership proposition, a place where values are shared between buyer and seller—and profits divided up. That's Lacy Thoroughgood's idea of good store-keeping. Let this be your home store. You like to buy in a cheery, good-natured home place—where you feel welcome, where there's genuine courtesy. This is that kind of store, and there's no "PUT-ON-NESS" about it. Lacy Thoroughgood likes the business he is in, and shows it. His salesmen, too, like it. Everybody in the store likes the business. We are all enthusiastic over our new Fall and Winter Clothes and Hats. It's just such a display of clothes as you'd expect to find at Thoroughgood's New Store. You see in the illustration a clean-cut style and one of Thoroughgood's best sellers. Just come look—I want you to come.

Eat What You want of the food you need Kodol will digest it.

You need a sufficient amount of good wholesome food and more than this you need to fully digest it. If you can't gain strength, nor can you strengthen your stomach if it is weak.

You must eat in order to live and maintain strength.

You must not diet, because the body requires that you eat a sufficient amount of food regularly.

But this food must be digested, and it must be digested thoroughly. When the stomach can't do it, you must take something that will help the stomach.

The proper way to do is to eat what you want, and let Kodol digest the food.

Nothing else can do this. When the stomach is weak it needs help; you must help it by giving it rest, and Kodol will do that.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today, and purchase a dollar bottle, and if you can honestly say, that you did not receive any benefits from it, after using the entire bottle, the druggist will refund your money to you without question or delay.

We will pay the druggist the price of the bottle purchased by you. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family.

We could not afford to make such an offer, unless we positively knew what Kodol will do for you. It would bankrupt us. The dollar bottle contains 2 1/2 times as much as the fifty cent bottle.

Kodol is made at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

CHAPTER V.

THE ENGLISH INVADE.

THE granddaughter of Jack Wyckholme, attended by two maids, her husband and his valet, a clerk from the chambers of Bowditch, Newman & Grape, a red cocker, seventeen trunks and a cartload of late novels, which she had been too busy to read at home, was the first of the bewildered legions to set foot upon the island of Japan.

She was very pretty, very smart and delightfully arrogant after a manner of her own. Mr. Saunders was the polite but excessively middle class clerk who went out to keep the legal strings untangled for them. He was soon to discover that his duties were even more comprehensive.

It was he who saw to it that the luggage was transferred to the lighter which came out to the steamer when she dropped anchor off the town of Ararat; it was he who counted the pieces and haggled with the boatmen; it was he who carried off the hand luggage when the native dock boys refused to engage in the work; it was he who unfortunately dropped a suit case upon the hallowed tail of the red cocker, an accident which ever afterward gave him a tenacity of grip that no man could understand.

If Lady Deppingham expected a royal welcome from the inhabitants of Japan she was soon to discover her error. Not only was the pictured scene of welcome missing on the afternoon of her arrival, but an overpowering air of antipathy smote her in the face as she stepped from the lighter, conquest in her smile of conciliation. She glanced from right to left down the lines of swarthy islanders and saw nothing in their faces but surly, bitter unfriendliness. They stood stolidly, stony at a distance, white robed like the silent personified.

Not a hand was lifted in assistance to the bewildered visitors; not a word, not a smile of encouragement escaped the lips of the silent throng.

"Is there no British agent here?" she demanded imperatively, perhaps a little more sharply than usual. No one designed to answer. Glances of indifference, even scorn, passed among the silent lookers-on, but that was all.

"Does no one here understand the English language?" she demanded. "I don't mean you, Mr. Saunders," she added sharply as the little clerk set the suit case down abruptly and stepped forward, again fumbling his much fumbled straw hat. This was the moment when the red cocker's tail came to grief. The dog arose with an astonished yelp and fled to his mistress. He had never been so outrageously set upon before in all his pampered life. Seizing the opportunity to vent his feelings upon one who could understand, even as she poured scoldings upon the imputed Pong, whom she clasped in her arms, Lady Agnes transformed the unlucky Saunders into a target for a most ably directed volley of wrath.

Lady Deppingham, a slow and cumbersome young man, stood by nervously fingering his eyeglass. For the first time he felt that the clerk was better than a confounded dog after all. "My dear," he said, waving Saunders into the background, "I think it was an accident. The dog had no business going to sleep." He paused and inserted his monocle for the purpose of looking up the precise spot where the accident had occurred.

"Oh, rubbish!" exclaimed her ladyship. "I suppose you expect the poor darling to apologize?" "All this has nothing to do with the case. We're more interested in learning where we are and where we are to go. Permit me to have a look about."

His wife stared after him in amazement as he walked over to the canvas awning in front of the low dock building, actually elbowing his way through a group of natives. Presently he came back, twisting his left mustache.

"The fellow in there says that the English agent is employed in the bank. It's straight up this street. By Jove! He called it a street, don't you know," he exclaimed, distinctly eying the narrow, dusty passage ahead.

"There's the British flag, my lord, just ahead. See the building to the right, sir," said Mr. Saunders, more respectfully than ever and with real gratitude in his heart. "So it is! That's where he is. I wonder why he isn't down here to meet us?"

"Very likely he didn't know we were coming," said his wife icily. "Well, we'll look him up. Come along, everybody. Oh, I say, we can't leave this luggage unguarded. They say these fellows are the worst robbers east of London."

It was finally decided, after a rather subdued discussion, that Mr. Saunders should proceed to the bank and rout out the dilatory representative of the British government. Saunders looked down the sullen line of faces and blanched to his toes.

"Tell him we'll wait for him," pursued his lordship. "But remind him—him, that it's inexpressibly hot down here in the sun."

They stood and watched the miserable Saunders tread gingerly up the filthy street, his knees crooking outward from time to time, very much as if he were contemplating an instantaneous sprint in any direction but the one he was taking. Even the stupid Deppingham was somewhat disturbed by the significant glances that followed their emissary as he passed.

by each separate knot of natives. "I do hope Mr. Saunders will come back alive," murmured Bromley, her ladyship's maid. The others started, for she had voiced the general thought. "He won't come back at all, Bromley, unless he comes back alive," said his lordship, with a smile. It was a well known fact that he never smiled except when his mind was troubled. "Goodness, Deppy," said his wife, recognizing the symptom, "do you really think there is danger?"

"My dear Aggy, who said there was any danger?" he exclaimed and quickly looked out to sea. "I rather think we'll enjoy it here," he added after a moment's pause, in which he saw that the steamer was getting under way. The Jap company's tug was returning to the pier. Lord Deppingham sighed and then drew forth his cigarette case. "There," he went on, peering intently up the street. "Saunders is gone."

"Gone?" half shrieked her ladyship. "Into the bank," he added, scratching a match. "Deppy," she said after a moment, "I hope I was not too hard on the poor fellow."

"Perhaps you won't be so nervous if you sit down and look at the sea," he said gently, and she immediately knew that he suggested it because he expected a tragedy in the opposite direction.

They expected every minute to hear the shouts of confusion and the screams of the brave Mr. Saunders. Their apprehensions were sensibly increased by the mysterious actions of the half naked loiterers. They made off in various directions, more than one of them handling his ugly crease in an ominous manner. Bromley was not slow to acquaint his lordship with these movements. Deppingham felt a cold chill shoot up his spine, but he refused to encourage the maid's fears by turning around.

"Your lordship," said Mr. Saunders three minutes later, "this is Mr. Bowles, his majesty's agent here. He is come with me to—"

It was then and until then that his lordship turned his stare from the sea to the clerk and his companion. "Aw," he interrupted, "glad to see you, I'm sure. Would you be good enough to tell us how we are to reach the—er—chateau and why the devil we can't get anybody to move our luggage?"

Mr. Bowles, who had lived in Japan for sixteen years, was a tortuously slow Englishman, with the curse of the cline still growing upon him. He was half asleep upon a good bit of the time and wholly asleep during the remainder.

"Everything is transferred by hand, my lord, and the chateau is two miles farther up the side of the mountain. It's quite a walk, sir."

"Do you mean to say we are to walk?"

"Yes, my lord, if you expect to go there."

"Of course we expect to go there. Are there no horses on the beautiful island?"

"Hundreds, my lord, but they belong to the people, and no one but their owners ride them. The servants at the chateau turned Mr. Skaggs' horses out to pasture before they left."

"The servants, my lord." Lady Deppingham's eyes grew wide with understanding. "You don't mean to say that the servants have left the place?" she cried.

"Yes, my lady. They were natives, you know."

"What's that got to do with it?" demanded Deppingham. "I'm afraid you don't understand the situation," said Mr. Bowles patiently. "You see, it's really a triangular controversy, if I may be so bold as to say so. Lady Deppingham is one of the angles; Mr. Bowles, the American gentleman, is another; the native population is the last. Each wants to be the hypotenuse. While the interests of all three are merged in the real issue, there is nevertheless a decided disposition all around to make it an entirely one sided affair."

"I don't believe I grasp," muttered Deppingham blankly. "I see perfectly," exclaimed his wife. "The natives are allied against us, just as we're in a way, against them and Mr. Bowles. Really, it seems quite natural, doesn't it, dear?" turning to her husband.

"Very likely, but very unfortunate. It leaves us to broil our brains out down here on this pier. I say, Mr.—er—old chap, can't you possibly engage some sort of transportation for us? Really, you know, we can't stand here all day."

"I've no doubt I can arrange it, my lord. If you will just wait here until I run back to the bank I can say 'I'll be right back.' Perhaps you'd prefer standing under the awning until I return."

It was fully half an hour before he was seen coming down the street, followed by a score or more of natives, their dirty white robes dripping about their knees. At first they could not believe it was Bowles. Lord Deppingham had a sharp thrill of joy, but it was short-lived. Bowles had changed at least a portion of his uniform. His now wore the tight red jacket of the British trooper, while an ancient army cap was strapped jauntily over his ear.

"It's all right, my lord," he said, saluting as he came up. "They will do anything I tell 'em to do when I represent the British army. This is the only uniform on the island, but they've been taught that there are more where this one came from. These fellows will carry your boxes up to the chateau, step by step, to the man, if you please, and I've sent for two carts to draw your party up the slope. They'll be here in a jiffy, my lady."

Then, turning majestically to the bewildered natives, he waved his slender stick and said: "Lively now! No loafing! Lively!"

Whereupon the entire collection of boxes, bags and bundles figuratively picked itself up and walked off in the direction of the chateau.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Willimantic, Conn.—"For five years I suffered untold agony from female troubles, causing backache, irregularity, dizziness and nervous prostration. It was impossible for me to walk upstairs without stopping on the way. I tried three different doctors and each told me something different. I received no benefit from any of them, but seemed to suffer more. The last doctor said nothing would restore my health. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see what it would do, and I am restored to my natural health."—MRS. BETTA DOROVAN, Box 260, Willimantic, Conn.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacement, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial. Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

A Heating System that Pays Dividends

You can keep every nook and corner of your house warm and comfortable every hour of every day and night and yet save a third to a half the coal you now use in that hot-air furnace or inferior boiler. No rattling, poking or fussing, no dust, no cool rooms or "cold side" to your house. Simply install the wonderful

MODEL Heating System

Adapted to steam or hot water. Uses less coal because it gets all the heat out of it. Leaves only the fine white ashes. Needs coal only once in ten hours, even on the coldest days.

THE LEDOM RANGE

Solves the problems of kitchen economy just as perfectly as the Model System solves the heating problem. Its plan of draught and circulation of heat makes it easy and quick to control. Its grate is much like the grate under the Model Boiler, and keeps a clear working fire.

BULLETIN

HUDSON-FULTON CELEBRATION NEW YORK CITY

Three hundred years ago, Henry Hudson, an Englishman in command of a Dutch expedition, with eighteen men, explored the Hudson River from Sandy Hook to Troy in his small craft, the "Half Moon."

One hundred and ninety eight years later, Robert Fulton established, with his steamboat, the "Clermont," a regular water service between New York and the towns along the Hudson river to the North.

This year, New York City, with sister cities and towns along the Hudson, will celebrate these two achievements by a series of imposing observances, religious, historical, military, naval, musical and literary, extending from September 25 to October 9.

Replicas of the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" have been built and will play a large part in the celebration. They will be the center of attraction in the great naval pageant on Saturday, September 25. The United States Government will have fifty two war ships anchored in the Hudson, and Great Britain, France, the Netherlands, Italy, Germany, Argentine, Guatemala, Mexico, and Cuba will be represented by war vessels.

Two great parades of water craft will escort the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" in triumphal procession past the war leviathans, first in the morning and again in the evening, when all the vessels will be illuminated.

On September 28 there will be a grand historical pageant, and on September 30 a big military parade in New York City.

On October 1, the "Half Moon" and the "Clermont" will proceed up the Hudson to Troy escorted by hundreds of river craft, including torpedo boats.

A magnificent carnival parade will be held in New York on Saturday evening, October 2, which promises to eclipse all previous attempts.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, the direct line to New York, with its unsurpassed service of fast express trains, will sell excursion tickets to New York for this period at reduced rates of fare.

Full details concerning specific fares, dates of sale, return limits, and train service may be obtained of Ticket Agents.

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to uric acid in the blood. But the duty of the kidney is to remove all uric acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive.

Don't dally with "uric acid solvents."

You might go on till dooms day with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove uric acid, but cures the kidneys and then all danger from uric acid is ended. Here is Salisbury's testimony to prove it.

Mrs. William E. Wells, 410 Martin Street, Salisbury, Md., says: "For almost six months I was in poor health and my house work was a burden. Rheumatic pains between my shoulders, caused me much suffering and my head ached nearly all the time. I was also subject to dizzy spells and I felt all out of sorts. Before I had finished one box of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at White Leonard's drug store, I was entirely relieved, and I have been in good health since."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

HOME-MADE BEERS IN STATE OF MAINE

Nearly Every Family Brews a Prohibition Tiptle of Mysterious Ingredients

ONE FAVORITE WITH LOVERS

Are They Intoxicating? The Beer? Well, now What a Question!—No, Sir! They Are Family Remedies, It Is Asserted—Can Cure Anything.

Bangor, Me.—Ten thousand liquor constables might close the saloons of Maine, but they could never make the State completely dry, for even though all the breweries and distilleries of America should go out of business, the Downeaters would still have their home-made beer. Nearly every family in Eastern Maine makes beer of some kind, and as a result there are more distinct varieties of beer brewed and drunk in Maine than are listed on any recognized price list of fermented liquors on earth.

A leader is "spring bitters" beer, which has a basic flavoring of spruce boughs. Checkerberry, sarsaparilla, root and poplar bark are added, partly to "take off the curse," but chiefly from some fancied medicinal quality, the exact nature of which nobody is able to explain.

For a pronounced or hacking cough, and any other troubles of the respiratory organs, or for anything that can be distorted into a resemblance of an ailment of the lungs, the beer is modified by omitting the flavor of wintergreen and substituting lungwort and cherry bark and rosemary leaves. In this way the suspicion of intemperance is sidetracked. Chronic cases of heart disease of long standing are very slow in yielding to the Maine beer treatment. Where the sufferer has been pronounced incurable, it happens often that even genuine cork beer, which holds 20 per cent. of alcohol, cannot subdue the agonies without the addition of "a little gin" or "a dash of old Medford."

There is a Maine beer holding a wisp of dry smartweed which will prevent the hair from falling out or turning gray, and there is a beer, rich in thoroughwort, which can soften an indurated liver in six months, and scrape off the "hob nobs" if taken continuously for a year.

There is also a beer, infused with the root juices of dandelion and rhubarb, which is popular among women who claim to be much younger than they are, because it irons out the wrinkles at the corners of the eyes and plumps the cheeks and adds a peachlike bloom to youth to the features. When used unadvisedly it is said to have caused married women to slope with the husbands of their neighbors and led to open scandals which have been adjusted in the courts. Beer containing goldthread roots, cures cancer, scrofula and skin eruptions. If Mayweed is put into the beer compound, he or she who drinks thereof will be married within the year.

Lobelia beer serves to diminish embonpoint, and leads to slim waists and slim appetites; beer made from the heads of red clover in full bloom will eliminate cancerous humors from the system; a beer of hardtack and willow bark will wean one from the tobacco, tea and coffee habits, and a beer from the Dutch or white clover heads will insure pleasant dreams to all who drink thereof.

No one known to fame has discovered a beer that is sure to cure corns or toothache, though it is possible that there are persons who are investigating along those lines.

ONLY A LEAK.

Culver, Ind., Citizens Thought They Had a Mineral Spring in Main Street.

Culver, Ind.—For several days Culver citizens and cottagers at Lake Maxinkuckee were puzzled by the fact that a gusty wind from the middle of the main street. It was said to be rich in medicinal properties.

Two citizens made plans to organize a company to bottle the water, but the town council stepped in and insisted that the well belonged to the city, as it was in the street. It told the promoters to keep their hands off, and a contract for a fine drinking fountain was entered into with a Chicago concern.

Next day it was discovered that the "flowing well" was a leak from an old water main that runs from the Vandalla railroad tank to the site of a hotel that burned several years ago.

College President Scores Japanese.

Hamilton, Ohio.—At the centennial celebration of Miami University, at Oxford, President Guy Potter Benton, in his baccalaureate sermon, called the people of the Pacific States who are striving to keep the Japanese out of the public schools "patriots," and referred to the people of Japan as "the most immoral on earth."

A Hurry Up Call.

Quick! Mr. Drozzlet—Quick!—A box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve—Here's a quarter—For the love of Moses, hurry! Baby's burned himself, terribly—Johanne cut his foot with the ax—Mamie's scalded—Pa can't walk from piles—Billie has boils—and my corns ache. She got it and soon cured the family. It's the greatest healer on earth. Sold by all druggists.

For Kiss At Party In The Old Dominion State.

Richmond, Va.—Because he won and received a kiss from Miss Laura May Eubank during kissing games at a party, A. Douglas Kidd, who was the girl's escort, is near death from a fractured skull. Charles Price, Ernest Bohannon and Coleman Chapel have been arrested charged with assault on Kidd.

It is said Price threatened to kill either Miss Eubank or Kidd if she paid the forfeit. Neither of the young people paid any attention to him. Kidd insisted that the girl give him the reward, and nothing loth, she complied.

The young man had taken the girl home and proceeded less than a block when he was struck from behind with a cobblerstone with sufficient force to fracture his skull. Physicians have operated in an effort to save his life, but there is scarcely a chance for his recovery.

GOOD WORK OF GRANGE.

Has Taken An Active And Aggressive Stand. Next Meeting Held October 2d.

Odd Fellows' Hall.

The Salisbury Grange met last Saturday evening in The Odd Fellows' Hall at 7:30 p. m., and a large number of members were present.

The Lecture Hour was more than taken up in discussing live topics of interest to the farmers and in some good recitations and readings.

Members of the Grange throughout the country should realize the fact that the Grange today is a very different organization from the Grange of forty two years ago, when established. At its birth it was an untried experiment, but after forty two years existence it is stronger and more influential than ever and has done things that count for American agriculture.

The Grange secured the elevation of the Department of Agriculture to a cabinet position.

The Grange secured the enactment of the law establishing the Inter-state Commerce Commission.

The Grange secured the establishment of rural mail delivery.

The Grange secured the enactment of the present oleomargarine law.

The Grange secured the enactment of the present law removing the tax from denatured alcohol.

The Grange has obtained other important legislation and in view of the very important work performed by the Grange in legislative matters, as well as its work in other directions as equally important, it is well to appreciate the standing of the organization in the country today.

It is not a denotement organization but a strong, vigorous organization that has had an important part in the affairs of the country and aided in its development. It is an organization that should take its place with other agencies of national importance, for it has done work that entitles it to this position, and is today, in the front rank of American agencies for promoting the affairs of the country and should be kept there by its leaders.

The members of the Salisbury Grange should feel glad that they are permitted to be a part of so worthy an organization and try and meet together the first and third Saturday evenings in each month at 7:30 p. m., at The Odd Fellows' Hall.

At our next meeting Saturday, October 2d, the subject for the Lecture Hour will be improving poor worn out land, and how to go about it.

W. P. Ward.

Needs 3,000 Clerks.

The Bureau of the Census has announced that approximately 3,000 temporary clerks will be appointed in connection with the work of taking the thirteenth decennial census. The first examination will be held throughout the United States on October 25 next. Very few appointments from this examination will be made before January next, and not many will be made until April, 1910. The maximum force will be drawn about August next year.

Dr. Stemons was nominated for Clerk of the Circuit Court by the Democrats in 1888, after the memorable fight in the convention between the late Stephen P. Toadvine and Dr. H. Laird Todd. He was not a candidate, but was offered nomination, which he accepted. He filled the office acceptably for six years and was succeeded by Mr. James T. Trafft. He was at the time of his death President of the Salisbury Building Loan & Banking Association, which organization he helped to form in company with the late Wm. B. Tilghman and Ebenezer L. Wallis. Dr. Stemons was a ruling elder in the Wicomico Presbyterian Church.

The body was brought to Salisbury Friday morning and funeral services were conducted the same afternoon in the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Stemons is survived by a widow and two sons, Dr. Morris Stemons and John A. Stemons, a former Baltimore newspaper writer, now connected with a Philadelphia paper as New York representative.

The body lay in state in the Presbyterian Sabbath School room from two until four, yesterday. The services were held by Rev. Mr. Beale, assisted by Rev. Dr. Reizart, pastor emeritus, and Rev. Dr. Eckels, a former pastor, now of Arch Street Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia. Interment was made in the Wicomico Presbyterian churchyard.

The pall bearers were Thos. H. Williams, L. W. Gunby, John T. Ellis, John H. White, L. McKim Porter, Jas. E. Ellegood.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Quizzes Candidates. Asked To State Views Regarding Local Option.

All Legislative candidates are in receipt of a letter from William H. Anderson, president of the Anti-Saloon League of Maryland. This letter marks the beginning of the direct legislative fight for local option and prohibition at the coming election. The letter closes with three questions to the aspirants for seats in the Legislature, and they are preceded by an explanation of the new local option law which the League will endeavor to have passed at the next session of the Legislature. The questions are as follows:

1. Do you believe that the people of Maryland in the various counties or other subdivisions have a right to decide by majority vote whether their existing saloons shall or shall not be closed?

2. Will you support by vote and influence the proposed State-wide local option bill of the Anti-Saloon League as the concrete expression of the present demand for that right?

3. Will you use your vote and influence for such organization of the Legislature and such parliamentary procedure as will insure speedy and favorable consideration of said bill?

Each letter is accompanied by a map of Maryland showing the "wet" and "dry" territories. There is also a stamped envelope for a reply, which is requested by return mail.

Death Of Dr. Stemons.

The many friends of Dr. F. Marion Stemons in this county were shocked to learn of his death on Wednesday of this week, at the home of his son, Dr. Morris Stemons, in Baltimore, Md.

Dr. Stemons was for a great many years one of the most prominent citizens of this county and up to within a few weeks previous to his death was engaged in the active practice of medicine. By his fine qualities of heart and his affable manner, Dr. Stemons endeared himself to a large part of Wicomico County. There was probably no better known man in our midst nor one who enjoyed as large a circle of friends and well wishers.

Dr. Stemons was born along the Wicomico river, about four miles from Salisbury, in 1839. He studied medicine and graduated from Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. Afterwards he practiced medicine at Friesland for a number of years, and then moved to Salisbury and formed a partnership with the late Dr. Stephen P. Dennis. After the last big fire, Dr. Stemons and Louis W. Morris formed a partnership and practiced on Main Street.

In the early summer he was stricken with paralysis and on June 1st, he with his wife, who had already been paralyzed was taken to Baltimore, to the home of his son, Dr. Morris Stemons. He had been gradually getting weaker ever since until the end came Wednesday morning.

Dr. Stemons was nominated for Clerk of the Circuit Court by the Democrats in 1888, after the memorable fight in the convention between the late Stephen P. Toadvine and Dr. H. Laird Todd. He was not a candidate, but was offered nomination, which he accepted. He filled the office acceptably for six years and was succeeded by Mr. James T. Trafft. WILSON BALOT LAW

And A Clear Talk On The Black Lines.

As the request of the Baltimore News Mr. Henry L. D. Stanford, furnished that paper the following as his view of the law and of the legality of the use of black lines on ballots in the Wilson counties:

"Complying with your request for a statement from me of the so-called Wilson ballot law, with special attention to the legality of the use of black lines," as heretofore printed on the ballot in the Wilson Law counties, I would state, (speaking from my knowledge of the use of such lines in Somerset and other similarly conditioned counties of our State, and with necessary brevity within the limited time of your request with some regard for other demands upon me, (that the lawfulness of such use of such lines cannot, in my opinion, be successfully or reasonably questioned or attacked; such use, as I understand the nature of your request, consisting so far as the form and arrangement of the ballot are concerned, in the printing of a "black line" at the top, and another at the bottom of every group of candidates on the ballot thereby separating each group for a particular office the one from the other. On this point I would speak literally after and from the unmistakable and mandatory language of the law itself. Section 57 of the election law, applicable to the Wilson law counties, among other provisions, clearly requires that "all ballots shall be printed upon plain white printing paper of ordinary book weight, in black ink;" and Section 55, of the same law and likewise applicable, with equal clearness, requires that the names of candidates except for electors, shall "be arranged under the designation of the office above the group of names of the candidates for each office," and further requires that a direction to the voter as to the number he may vote for in each group shall be printed "upon a separate line," and also requires that the names of "all candidates for office shall, as far as possible, be placed in one column," but where there "are over 36, then another column shall be added." The quoted portions of the sections referred to should, as appears to me, convey to any intelligent mind the absolute requirement of the law to be and mean that a black line shall be placed at the top of each group of candidates in each column, and necessarily when so placed, at the bottom of the preceding group, in order to form "a separate line" for printing the direction to the voter as to the number of candidates he may vote for in any given group; accordingly an omission to print on the ballot the so-called "black lines," as so required, would be a violation of the law's mandate. Aside from and without regard to the express requirements of the law quoted above, I am sure every practical and experienced printer will agree and admit that the form used in printing the so-called black lines, as stated, merely conforms to a customary and usual method in general printing, and in any event I can show that a precisely similar form of ballot, with heavily loaded "black lines" at top and bottom of groups, as used in this State, has also been used and probably still is used in Massachusetts, (a Republican State) from whose ballot laws our election laws in this State were chiefly drafted; and I make this offer inasmuch as I have in my possession, and have had for nearly five years, a copy of the official ballot printed for use in Massachusetts at the election in 1904, the identical year of the passage of the Wilson law in Maryland.

"Now I am well aware that Republican charge, in each recurring campaign, that Democratic supervisors make an "unfair" use of the black lines in question, required under the law to be so printed on the ballot as I have stated, in that they allege that the names of Democratic candidates are placed in the most advantageous position, next or nearest one or another of these so-called black lines, and I dare say that, when arranging the form of the ballot as required by law, and so finding a place or places of advantage, they naturally give their party candidates the preference where in is found the chief Republican complaint, but I am confident no citizen, until the millennium arrives, would expect otherwise under the same circumstances.

"It must not be forgotten that the Wilson law is applicable to counties where the negro vote numerically dominates the destinies of the Republican party and that by combining with a comparatively small number of white members of that party could under a ballot made easy of marking by illiterate negroes, dominate the political destinies of those counties. Furthermore in its platform of 1908 the successful Democratic party openly and boldly declared its resolute purpose "to eliminate the ignorant and vicious negro from politics so far as possible by law. So, for my part, I say let it be known of all men in Maryland that, in the fear of God but not of man, and with a clear conscience and resolute purpose we propose to use any device, permissible by law, which will aid or tend to aid,

DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES

In Baltimore Will Be For Direct Primaries. Promise To Work For Law.

The Democratic city candidates for the Legislature met Wednesday night at the Eutaw House, in Baltimore, and unanimously adopted a resolution pledging themselves if elected to work to secure for Baltimore city a compulsory Crawford county primary election law applicable to both parties and to also advocate the extension of such a system throughout the State.

This question has been agitated for several years. Governor Crothers has endorsed the move, and he can be relied on to do what he can to further the purposes in view. Opposition to such a law probably would be united on the part of the Republicans, who have avoided the direct vote plan in making nominations.

Republican objections generally arise from the negro vote, which would it is feared, exercise too much influence in the selections.

"Odorless Drunk" Is Latest

For two months the police, of Nashville, Tenn. have been combating the "odorless drunk." Men are carried into the station house every day drunk with something that leaves no odor on the breath.

When these men are questioned as to what they have been drinking they almost invariably say "beetrite," but beetrite is not considered an intoxicant. The "odorless drunks" are usually without bottles in their pockets. There were 41 drunks on the police docket one day.

white manhood in and to the accomplishment of this declared and steadfast purpose. Republicans and others who desire to hold, or assist in holding the negro in politics to equalize or overcome the will and choice of white men in the governmental affairs of the black belt counties, or to convert a minority of the white race, willing to use the negro for that purpose, into a governing party, may charge, if they please, that the Wilson law as it was to protect a suffering white people from the blight of negro rule, is unfair or is used unfairly. I make free to reply that the much abused Wilson law has in my own county, already begun to relieve our people of much of the dire consequences immediately following the passage of the 15th amendment to the organic law of the land, conceded now by the enlightened public opinion of the world to have been conceived in a more wicked spirit and to have wrought terrible "unfairness" upon every community environed as are at least nine of the twenty three counties of Maryland that never ratified and, on the contrary, by the unanimous vote of all of the members of both branches of her General Assembly, rejected this infamous measure, which, however, by methods not only "unfair" but most illegal and diabolical became the law of the land. The consequences of this "unfairness" were suffered for more than thirty years in the black belt of Maryland. Negro domination in the black counties did not follow immediately the adoption of the 15th amendment because white Republicans and Democrats alike in the Legislature of our State voted against its ratification, and the white people at first were able to control their local affairs, but alas, one of the gravest and most blighting effects of the enfranchisement of the negro was soon manifested in the debauchery of the electorate in part by the use of petty local and federal offices, and finally by the unbridled use of money itself. Then followed the worst kind of negro domination—that is to say domination by a party two thirds of whose voters are negroes, and the other third largely made up of office seekers and holders, including renegades from other parties induced to take up the flag of black Republicanism solely because of their greed for patronage and public plunder. I appeal to the enlightened public conscience of the State to say, which is the more "unfair" legislation—that which produced the effects in the black counties of Maryland almost if not quite as bad as in any community of the Southland, or that which is giving to some, at least, of these black counties, clean, honest and progressive local government?

"I have in the past stated, and still state as a matter of invitation, that if anything which has been done or which shall be proposed to be done, in the Wilson law counties in connection with the printing of the ballots be of assumed or supposed illegality it would be proper that those who make the charge of illegality and who seek to impose negro domination in our local affairs upon counties like my own, should seek redress in the courts, and not try their cases in the newspapers during campaigns only, and for campaign purposes. In this county be it known that heretofore resort has been had by Republicans to the courts to no purpose, the learned judge declaring the contested ballot both "fair" and legal, and, in my opinion, the same result will follow should they venture to test in the same tribunal the contested so-called "black lines" on the ballot."

DR. SMITH DECLINES

Nomination For Clerk Of Circuit Court. Mr. E. Dale Adkins Chosen.

As has been expected for some time, in as yet since the nomination was made, Dr. Smith has declined to accept the nomination of Clerk of the Court. Mr. E. Dale Adkins has been nominated for this position by the Republican party. Dr. Smith, one of the most popular men in the county was nominated by the Republicans at their regular convention, and was in no sense a candidate for the honor, and it is said declined on the ground that his business interests would not permit to his giving the time to the canvass it should have.

Mr. Dale Adkins, who takes Dr. Smith's place on the ticket, is one of Salisbury's popular young men. He is the son of Mr. E. S. Adkins, who for a good many years has been one of the strongest and most enthusiastic workers the Republican party has had in this county. Like his father, Mr. Adkins has always been a strong advocate of the Republican party, and has taken an active interest in its success.

WICOMICO'S RUM BRIDGE

Some Century-Old History. Pro-Wicomico County Incident.

Rum Bridge, on the road to Salisbury about six miles south of that town, a plain, everyday bridge received its name just 100 years ago, when a man named Fletcher, from the lower part of Somerset County, went to Tony Tank to transact some business and while there attended an auction sale, purchasing a horsehead of red rum, which he placed in the after-part of his ox cart and started for home.

When the cart struck the bridge the horsehead tumbled out on the bridge and burst the contents running in every direction, all that Fletcher saved being what he caught in his stove pipe hat. Strange to say, the water that flows beneath the bridge is as red as the rum that ran like a mill tail into the ditch 100 years ago. Men of advanced age today say that their fathers told them that before Fletcher's horsehead of rum burst on the bridge the water was as clear as spring water. Whether this be true or not, it is a fact that the water now is of a deep reddish hue, and has been of this color as far back as the oldest resident hereabout can recall.—Worcester Democrat, Worcester, Mass.

Mrs. Amanda Rider.

Word was received here this week of the death of Mrs. Amanda Rider at her home in Philadelphia. The remains were brought to Salisbury on Wednesday. Funeral services were held in the Ashbury M. E. Church and were conducted by the Rev. Dr. T. E. Martindale, after which the body was interred in the Rider lot at Tony Tank by the side of her husband, Dr. Noah Rider who died many years ago.

Mrs. Rider was 80 years of age, and was well known in Salisbury, where she resided many years. She was a daughter of Rev. Mr. Taylor, a well known Methodist minister. Her husband was the late Dr. Noah Rider, who professed medicine as Tony Tank and afterwards at Deal's Island, where he died.

Mrs. Rider is survived by six children—Misses Elizabeth and Maggie Rider; Messrs. John, Noah, Chas. and Perry Rider.

Letter To H. H. Wick.

Salisbury, Md.

Dear Sir:—The maker, who puts 3 or 3 1/2 lbs of whitening barite or clay in a gallon of paint, saves $1.50 or $2.00 for himself and makes you overpay $25 on a $50 job.

It takes 15 gallons of this weak paint—it is weak from that adulteration and probably weak from benzine or water besides it takes 15 gallons of that poor stuff to cover a 10 gallon job. Devoe; it may take 20. Here's a case.

Judge I. D. Fairchild owns two houses, closely alike in LaGrange, Texas. J. M. Torrence painted both houses, one Devoe, 15 1/2 gallons; the other with another paint sold at same price; 30 gallons. That 30-gallon paint is weak and 15 per cent whitening; that's why it took 9 1/2 gallons more.

It costs $2 to $4 a gallon to paint any paint, whether good or not. Add this $2 to the price, and the cost of your job is $5 a gallon; $75 or $100 for trash; Devoe, $50.

Paint that takes more gallons may or may not be adulterated; there are 8 pure paints and 800 adulterated. Devoe is the strongest of all; it takes least gallons, makes the least bill, and wears longest, of all.

You can overpay from 10 to 150 per cent; and the more you pay, the worse your job. In paint, the rule is: least gallons, least cost, longest wear.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.

The Old Field School

By FRANK M. VANCE.

Here, 'mid nature's wild and rugged scenes,
With no inviting prospects to adorn,
The latent spark of genius brightened forth—
The greatest lives in history were born.

Backward, far backward, in the dim vistas of bygone years, there is no dear or more revered spot in memory than that of our early school days. To most of those of advanced years these scenes were enacted amid the primal shades of the "Old Field School House." This pioneer landmark was conveniently situated upon some country thoroughfare within a grove of natural forest trees, and, if possible, in proximity to a spring of water. The district, of which this rural temple of learning was the nucleus, included an irregular area of twenty or thirty square miles in extent, and embraced an isolated population of from forty to sixty children of school age.

The present system of free schools was unknown in those days. All terms of school were organized and conducted upon the subscription plan, that is, the patrons subscribed to an article of agreement with a teacher for a certain number of pupils at a stated rate of tuition per scholar, and paid therefor out of their own pockets at the close of the term. Board for the teacher was generally included, whereby it became necessary for him to "board round," visiting each patron with a frequency proportionate to the number of pupils sent by him to school. These perambulating sojourns were often very onerous to the schoolmaster, as they frequently took him miles away from the seat of his labors, where, in exceedingly cold weather, his early presence was necessary to have the room comfortable. They were also not conducive to preparatory study, nor always rewarded by that quality of diet satisfactory to one engaged in sedentary occupation.

The school building, erected by the volunteer labor of the citizens of the district, was made of logs from the adjacent forest, or hand-made brick, and seldom exceeded in dimension twenty-five or thirty feet square. The furnishings of the room were wholly the handiwork of the amateur mechanics of the neighborhood, and consisted of two or three stout wall-tables some three feet wide and ten feet long, used for writing, and upon which were placed the divers lunch buckets and baskets, and a motley array of sundry wearing apparel not convenient to hang upon the wooden pegs that ornamented all the vacant spaces between the one door and the four little windows of the building.

The seats for the pupils were rough benches of various heights and lengths, made from slabs, and placed parallel to the sides of the room—the lower ones for the smaller pupils on the interior—leaving a central rectangle, at one end of which was the wide-open fireplace and at the other, the ink-bespattered desk of the teacher. There was not a semblance of a blackboard or wall map; and the only decoration, aside from the gauzy network of the geometrical spider in the corners of the ceiling, were the hieroglyphics of "kiss" and "charcoal" on the walls, made by spectacular urchins.

School was called by the loud rattling of the teacher upon the window pane, and the entrance of the mixed throng of knowledge seekers into the room was characterized by an indiscriminate rush for the more desirable seats. It was strictly a case of "first come, first served," and everywhere there might be observed animated series of both faces in promiscuous and hilarious enjoyment. Nothing but the most flagrant violation of decorum was noticed by the instructor, and the rod and ferule were the panacea for all severe offenses. Pupils came into the school at all hours of the day and no questions asked; and seldom did a teacher rebuke the social communication of a silly remark or of the young tyro. But wilful misdeeds, and serious disturbances were common, and the severest chastisements were promptly inflicted. There was no schoolboard to which to appeal for assistance in subduing the unruly, and the tutor was truly a monarch of all he surveyed, and governed and controlled the infant republic or abdicated the realm. The contest for supremacy between the teacher and the combined force of disorderly boys was often spirited and sometimes tragical.

"Licken and larnen" were considered "indisparably" allied in the Old Field School of antebellum days, and corporal punishment was an everyday occurrence. A bunch of strong switches was always kept in store, and it was one of the funniest of tricks of the bad boy to discover these instruments of torture and encircle them with a sharp knife, while unseen, caused them to fly into numerous pieces when applied. Another lesser punishment was to stand upon the floor, which was sometimes intensified by being required to hold out a book until the arm became semi-paralyzed. A very frequent and most reprehensible correction was the cruel application of the ferule or ruler to the inside of the hand.

The three R's—Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic, were the chief studies, of no practical importance, and were pursued only by an occasional student of mature years. Outside of spelling and reading there were no regular classes, owing to the great disparity in attainments and diversity of text books. Nearly every publication extant was represented by the students of reading, from the backless Testament to the last year's almanac. Most every one had a copy of Webster's bluebacked speller, which was also used for a reader in the more elementary grades. Others more advanced read from Bible, the Columbian Speaker, and the lives of Washington and Jackson. Fragmentary editions of the Revised Statutes were also to be seen. The copies of arithmetic most in evidence were those of DeBos, Fitch and Ray. States of elaborate illustrations were extensively used, and many ciphered out the intricate problems in "Tare and Tret," with bits of soapstone for pencils, gathered from the banks of neighboring streams.

As there is supposed to be a time to or for all things, so there was a time in the Old Field School set apart exclusively for writing. The copy book was a home product, made from the blue fool's cap paper, and the pens were fashioned from goose quills, under the skillful hand of the teacher. Copies were set suitable to the various capacities of the pupils, and ranged in character all the way from the initiatory step of "Pot-hooks," to that of "Many men of many minds." The writing class sat before the ponderous table facing the wall, and the only time of the day's session in school in which there was an approximation to quietness in the room was the half hour devoted to writing broken only by the musical squeak of two dozen goose quill pens.

The study of spelling was made very prominent and the recitations were always oral. The classes lined up in a long row, and the words of the lesson were pronounced to each pupil in turn. When a word was misspelled, the pupil below who spelled it correctly took his place above the one who missed it, and the pupil standing at the head of the class at the close of the recitation was given a head start, and took his place next day at the foot of the class. The pupil obtaining the greatest number of head marks during the term of school was given a premium at the close. Then there were spelling matches in the evening—a season of unbridled fun and frolic. Two captains were designated, who "chose up," and the house was divided, as nearly every one spelt, and a battle royal raged for supremacy. The most exciting time came when both sides stood up and "spelled down"—each contestant sitting down on missing a word. This contest was often prolonged, for there were good spellers at that time, and it frequently happened that some diminutive pupil—most generally a little girl—would hold a half-dozen stalwart opponents in check, and oftentimes come off victorious.

A prominent incident, ever connected with a winter term of school, and one which was looked forward to as a red-letter day, was the "Christmas Treat." It was an unwritten law, sanctioned by universal custom, that the teacher must give to the pupils of the school not only a holiday on Christmas, but also a bountiful repast of apples, or cakes and candy. Very often this demand was positively refused, and then came the dangerous sport of "turning the teacher out and making him treat." To accomplish this, the schoolroom, in his temporary absence, was securely barricaded, so as to prevent ingress, while a force of the largest boys remained on the outside to guard against the possibility of entrance or the escape of the teacher from the premises. The penalty of a noncompliance was a ducking in some nearby stream or pond of water, the icy nature of which usually enforced a tardy and sullen compliance.

The recreative sports and amusements of the old country schools were many and varied in character. The boys mostly engaged in what were termed "Town ball," "Mumble peg," and "Roly poly," while the girls played "Puss wants her corner," "Rings and rosy," and other more quiet games. Jumping, foot racing and "blackman" were also favorite pastimes of the boys; and skating, coasting and snow balling were highly enjoyed in midwinter. Attending all these were innumerable little joyous pleasures of youthful associations that have passed with the age of the olden times. "The grape vine swing is ruined," and bright-eyed boys and girls no longer, as of yore, troop the sylvan shades in nattering parties, search for wild strawberries in the meadows, or ramble beside the icy-battered brook in early springtime, bedecked with nature's sweetest floral offerings of "Johnny jump ups," and pendant blue bells. The cherished halcyon scenes come back to us, but only upon the silent, mystic wings of memory.

Proclamation

WHEREAS, at the January Session of the General Assembly of Maryland, held in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight, an Act was passed proposing an amendment to Section 1 of Article 1, of the Constitution of the State, which Act is in the following words, to-wit:

CHAPTER X.
AN ACT to amend Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and to provide for the submission of said Amendment to the qualified voters of this State for adoption or rejection.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, three-fifths of all the members of each of the two Houses concurring thereon, that the following be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to Section one of Article one, title, "Elective Franchise," of the Constitution of this State, and it adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, it shall supersede and stand in lieu of the existing Section one of said Article one.

Sec. 1. All elections shall be by ballot, and every male citizen of the United States of the age of twenty-one years or upwards, who has been a resident of the State for two years and of the Legislative District of Baltimore City or of the county in which he may offer to vote, for one year next preceding the election, and who, moreover, is duly registered as a qualified voter as provided in this Article, shall be entitled to vote, in the ward or election district in which he resides, at all elections hereafter to be held in this State, and in case any county or city shall be so divided as to form portions of different election districts, the election of Representatives in Congress, Section of the county or city which shall form a part of the electoral district in which he resides, shall be the year next preceding the election; but no person who shall have acquired a residence in such county or city, entitling him to vote at any such election, shall be entitled to vote in the election district from which he removed, until he shall have acquired a residence in the part of the county or city to which he has removed.

Every male citizen of the United States having the above prescribed qualifications of age and residence shall be entitled to be registered so as to become a qualified voter if he be, first; a person who, on the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or on the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and seventy, was entitled to vote under the laws of this State, or of any other State of the United States, wherein he then resided; or second; a male descendant of such a mentioned person; or third; a foreign born citizen of the United States naturalized between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article; or fourth; a male descendant of such a last mentioned person; or fifth; a person who, in the presence of the officers of registration, shall, in his own handwriting, with pen and ink, without any aid, suggestion or memorandum whatsoever, and without any question or direction addressed to him by any of the officers of registration, make application to register correctly, stating in such application his name, age, date and place of birth, residence and occupation at the time and date of his registration, and whether he has previously voted, and if so, the State, county or city and district or precinct in which he voted last, and also the name of the County of Baltimore City, if the applicant resides in Baltimore City, or of one of the County Commissioners of the county in which the applicant resides; and any person who is unable to comply with the foregoing requirements, or to making application for registration in his own handwriting, solely because he is physically disabled from so doing; or sixth; a person, or the husband of a person, who at the time of his application for registration, is a bona fide owner of real or personal property in this State of not less than five hundred dollars, is assessed therefor on the tax-books of the City of Baltimore or of one of the counties of this State, has been assessed for the year next preceding his application for registration, shall have paid and shall produce receipts for the taxes on said property for said two years next preceding his application.

No person not qualified under some one of the above clauses shall be entitled to be registered as a qualified voter or be entitled to vote. Every written application to be registered, presented to the officers of registration by any person, or by a husband of a person, who is assessed for the year next preceding his application, shall be carefully preserved by said officers of registration and shall be produced in any court, if required, as hereinafter provided.

The affidavit of any applicant for registration, duly made to the officers of registration or in Court, that he is the applicant, is a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, as aforesaid, or that he has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, as aforesaid, or his affidavit upon information and belief that he is a descendant of a person who was entitled to vote on or before the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine, or that he is a descendant of a person who has become a naturalized citizen of the United States between the first day of January in the year eighteen hundred and sixty-nine and the date of the adoption of this section of this Article, shall be prima facie evidence of any fact so averred to.

A willfully false statement upon the part of any applicant for registration in relation to any of the facts aforesaid, shall be perjury, and punishable as perjury is punished by the laws of this State.

Any person who feels aggrieved by the action of any board of officers of registration in refusing to register him as a qualified voter, or in registering him as a qualified voter, may at any time, either before or after the last session of the board of registration, but not later than Tuesday next preceding the election, file a petition, verified by affidavit, in the Circuit Court for the county in which the cause of complaint arises, or in the Circuit Court for the City of Baltimore City, in any court of common law jurisdiction in said city, setting forth the grounds of his application and asking that he be declared by the board of officers of registration corrected. The court shall forthwith set aside the action of the board of officers of registration complained against in said petition to attend at the hearing of the petition, and shall, where the object of the petition is to strike off the name of any person, summons shall also be issued to the person so named, who shall be served by the sheriff within the time therein designated; and said several courts shall have full jurisdiction and power to review the action of any board of officers of registration and to grant or withhold, as it may deem lawful and proper, the relief prayed for in the petition.

In determining whether any person who applied to be registered under the above fifth clause of the section aforesaid, was not entitled to be registered under said fifth clause, the court shall require the production of officers of registration complained against to produce the written application prepared and submitted by such person at the time he presented himself for registration to said board of officers of registration, and upon said written application the court shall determine whether or not said person, when he presented himself for registration, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause, and if the court shall determine that said written application, so prepared and submitted by said person, complied with the requirements of said fifth clause, and that said person was not disqualified under any other provision of this Article of the Constitution to be registered upon the books of registry in question, then the court shall order that said person shall not be registered upon said books of registry.

The court may enforce any order by attachment for contempt in said cases; neither party shall have any right of removal; exception may be taken to any ruling of the court at the hearing of the cases, and an appeal shall be allowed to the Court of Appeals as in other cases; all such appeals shall be taken within five days from the date of the decision complained of, and shall be heard and decided by the Court of Appeals upon the original papers, or as may be practicable. The General Assembly shall have power to provide more fully by legislation not inconsistent with this section of this Article, for the hearing and determination of all such cases.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State shall be at the next General Election for members of the General Assembly to be held in this State, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in Article XIV of the Constitution of this State, and at said general election the vote on the said proposed amendment shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment" and "Against the Constitutional Amendment," and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said Article XIV of the Constitution.

Approved February 25, 1908.

NOW THEREFORE, I, AUSTIN L. CROTHERS, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF MARYLAND, in pursuance of the provisions of Section 1 of Article 14 of the Constitution of the State of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that a copy of said Act proposing an amendment to Section 1 of Article 1 of the Constitution of said State, be published in at least two newspapers in each of the counties of said State, and in the newspapers in the City of Baltimore, one of which shall be published in the German language, once a week for at least three months preceding the next General Election, which election will be held on November 2nd, 1909, at which election the said proposed amendment shall be submitted, in the form and manner prescribed by the General Assembly, to the legal and qualified voters of the State, for their adoption or rejection.

NO REASON FOR CHANGE.

When a business corporation's affairs are being well and successfully handled, the stockholders of the corporation are satisfied and do not desire a change in the officers of the company. There are of course often stockholders who desire to see a change in the officers of a corporation even when the company is being well managed, due to the desire of these stockholders to get in control and pocket the emoluments of the office now filled by others. Their interest is not the interest of the stockholders as a whole, but is simply a selfish one. Under conditions of this kind a change seldom if ever works out for the best interest of those who hold stock in the company, and stockholders as a rule recognize this fact and are seldom persuaded to make a change in the management of a corporation when that management is producing good results in the way of dividends. As private business is run, so in a similar way, should our public affairs be managed.

We believe that it is generally admitted that the affairs of Wicomico County have been and are being well managed by the representatives of the Democratic party. No one is going to claim that the office holders have made no mistakes in the past or that they will prove infallible in their future management of our public affairs, but that taken as a whole no fair minded man can argue or claim that Wicomico County has not been well governed by the Democratic office holders. Is there any reason for the citizens of our county—the stockholders in our great public corporation—voting for a change in the management of the various offices of the County?

The men nominated on the ticket this fall are certainly as well qualified to fill the offices as have any of the men who have so acceptably filled them in the past. The Republican party is asking the voters to make a change in our public office-holders, asking that a successfully managed corporation, if you will, be given over to their representatives for management. Is not their position similar to the position of certain stockholders in corporations, who desire a change—not that they believe the stockholders will be benefited by a change in management, but because they are desirous of emoluments of office? Will the citizens of Wicomico county vote for a change or will they stand by and support the party which has successfully managed for them their public affairs in the past? We do not believe they are desirous of any change and will register their approval of the actions of their public servants in an emphatic way this November, and thus the majority of the Democratic Ticket will be larger than it has been for years.

F. MAMON SLEMONS.

Salisbury and Wicomico County have suffered a great loss in the death of Dr. F. Marion Slemons. In his large practice Dr. Slemons was brought into close contact with a large portion of our citizens, who learned to love and respect him, as well as those who were brought into close contact with him in business and social relations.

It is perhaps not too much to say that Dr. Slemons was better and more generally known than any citizen of our county. The closing of all places of business in the city in honor of his memory was a well earned mark of respect to one who by his many good qualities had endeared himself to the entire community. It is hard to estimate the value to a community of a man of the sterling qualities of Dr. Slemons and his loss will be felt and mourned by all. His family have the sympathy of the City and County in their great bereavement.

MILLIONS OF POSTALS

Contracted For Next Four Years By Uncle Sam. Great Increase.

The contract for supplying 3,487,000,000 postal cards to the Postoffice Department during the 4 years beginning June 1st, 1910, has been awarded by Postmaster General Hitchcock to the Government Printing Office, which submitted the lowest bid, $984,717.95. There were two other bidders, one being the Oxford Paper Company, of Rumford Falls, Maine, which has furnished postal cards to the government for the past four years. By selecting a stock of lighter, but finer quality, the Postoffice Department expects to provide for the public a better card at less expense to the government. The saving will be effected in the reduced "traveling expenses" of the postal card, because of lighter weight, on the various journeys it takes from the time it leaves the manufacturer until it reaches the "ultimate consumer."

The cards will be furnished in three styles. Of the regular 3 1/2 by 5 1/2 size 3,400,000,000 will be supplied. There will be 77,000,000 of the double, or reply postal, and 10,000,000, cards of a size corresponding to the standard index card. This latter card is expected to prove of great convenience and value to business men. Since postal cards were first introduced in this country in 1878 the number used has increased from 31,000,000 in that year to 950,049,029 in 1909. There has been a great gain this year even over last year, the department requiring 140,632,370 more cards for its use in 1909 than in 1908.

A Successful Housekeeper.

A woman to be a successful housekeeper needs to be devoid of intensive "nerves." She must be neat and systematic, but not too neat, lest she destroy the comfort she endeavors to create.

She must be affectionate, sympathetic and patient, and fully appreciative of the worth and dignity of her sphere. Now, if a woman cannot broil a beef steak, nor boil the coffee when it is necessary, if she cannot mend the linen, nor patch a coat; if she cannot make a bed, nor ventilate the house, nor do anything practical in the way of making a home actually a home, how can she expect to be a successful housekeeper.

She needs to educate herself in the art of domestic virtues, to make a real "Home, Sweet Home." She should have a place for everything and keep everything in its place. Remember and put in practice the motto, "Never put off till to-morrow that which you can do to-day."

Thus the poorest dwelling presided over by a virtuous, thrifty, cheerful and cleanly woman, may be the shade of comfort, virtue and happiness; it may be endeared to man by many delightful associations, furnishing a sweet resting place after labor, a consolation in misfortune, a pride in prosperity and a joy at all times.

A Delicious Icing.

Put on a cup of granulated sugar with half a cup of water, let it boil without stirring until it spins a heavy thread. Beat very stiff the white of one egg and into it pour slowly the hot sugar. Let the syrup cool a little before putting it in the egg or it will cook it. Beat steadily until the icing is cool and creamy.

Just before it is too cold to stir longer add one ounce each of candied cherries, chopped citron, candied pineapple and blanched almonds.

In Thy Truest Heart.

Then wakest morning by morning with the love of God oversteaming thee. Give thyself for the day to His love; to speak words or to leave them unspoken, to do acts or to leave them undone, as thou thinkest in thy truest heart that the God who loves thee wills for thee.—Dr. Pusey.

APIARIST TRICKS BEES.

Makes Them Drunk And Follows Stragglers To Stomach of Sweets.

Thomas Newsome, of Thomaston, Conn., apiarist, has hit on a new way of finding the homes of honey bees in the woods. He feeds them alcohol and sugar until they are drunk.

The honeybees, unlike most humans, seem to know enough to go home when they have a skin full, and their progress is so slow that Newsome is able to keep up with some of the stragglers. In this way last season he found 400 pounds of honey.

His method is to wander about until he finds some bees working on flowers. He carries a small bottle filled with sugar and alcohol and gives the bees a taste of it until he gets a number going so he can follow them to the tree.

Later in the season he cuts down the tree and takes the honey.

—Miss Louise Elizabeth Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Ellis, and Mr. William Walter Hastings were married at the home of the bride's parents on North Second St., Delmar on Wednesday evening, Sept. 22nd, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. N. Pichard of the M. E. Church. The attendants were Miss Amy Ellis, sister of the bride, Miss Ruth Stuart, of New Castle, Messrs. Lewis and Vernon Hastings, brothers of the groom. Little Miss Dorris Bakridge was ring bearer. The bride wore net over white silk. An elaborate wedding supper followed the ceremony. The newly wedded pair left on the night express for a trip to Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

ACADIA BUTTER

The Butter That's Always Good.

Many a good dinner has been spoiled by a poor butter. If you would have a Butter that's ALWAYS GOOD, try Acadia.

Those who have used Acadia Butter know how good it is. They know its delicious flavor; they know how it comes packed in hermetically-sealed cartons to preserve its good qualities; they know it is a PURE butter; they know all these things, and that is why they continue to use it year after year.

This advertisement is not meant for those who know. It is for the benefit of those who have not yet become acquainted with Acadia Butter.

Sold by all first-class grocers. Don't take any other—insist upon Acadia.

We wish to thank our customers for past patronage and hope to see you all again this season. Lena Sampson.

—St. Louis "hello girls" must either give up rats or their jobs. To be in style—and all want to be—they must wear wire aids for their coiffures; but these are so big that the head attachment won't fit as snugly as the rules of the company require. Hence the order that the rats must run along if the girls want to stay. Some operators have quit, but most of them have abandoned their rats.

—Rev. Dr. Graham will take for his subjects on Sunday in Bethesda Methodist Protestant Church the following: 11 A. M., "Why There Is A Heaven And What It Will Be," 7:30 P. —The joint committee composed of members of the City Council and County Commissioners appointed for the purpose of devising plans for the restoration of the bridge over Humphreys Dam, met Tuesday morning of this week and approved the plans submitted by Engineer Olark. These plans call for a bridge constructed of concrete arches, with steel girders, and wooden floor, the space beneath to be kept open, but so arranged that flood gates can be put in at any time it is desired to flood the pond.

—Make a note now to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with catarrh, hay fever or cold in the head. It is purifying and soothing to the sensitive membranes that line the air passages. It is made to overcome the disease, not to fool the patient by a short, deceptive relief. There is no cocaine or mercury in it. Do not be talked into taking a substitute for Ely's Cream Balm. All druggists sell it. Price 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 66 Warren Street, New York.

—Because the conductor on a Kansas City car winked at her in a car crowded with passengers, Ethel Yonkin, brought suit in the Circuit Court against the Metropolitan Street Railway Company for $5000. Not content with humiliating her with his improper attentions, she said in the petition, the conductor signaled the motorman to start the car as she was alighting, causing her to be thrown to the pavement. For injuries she suffered in the fall she asks an additional $5000.

THE man who carries a HOWARD Watch finds himself in good company.

Leaders in American affairs since Lincoln's young manhood have relied on the HOWARD. "Howard Time" has been a determining factor in every phase of the nation's advance.

The first HOWARD was also the first American watch. It was made in 1842 and the finest models cost $500. To-day the price is lower—and the watch is better.

Every HOWARD is made and adjusted as a fine watch. Case and time in its own case at the factory and a printed price ticket attached. Price paid—$35 to $150.

Let us show you this distinctive watch.

GRAND FALL OPENING

WINTER
1910

SURPRISE STORE

SALISBURY, MD.

Opening Days: THURSDAY.....SEPT. 30
FRIDAY.....OCT. 1
SATURDAY.....OCT. 2

This is an event that should receive the welcome greeting of every man, woman and child within reaching distance of Salisbury, Md. We are now to inaugurate the opening of our third successful season on the Peninsula, and like our many other stores, are at the top notch of success. THERE IS NOTHING TOO GOOD IN THE MARKET FOR OUR PATRONS, PROVIDED IT IS RIGHT. The extraordinary success with which our product has met, is a proof of the soundness of this proposition. In our efforts to make the best grade of garments in the market, WE HAVE SPARED NO PAINS NOR MONEY. The public at large, especially our patrons, have appreciated our efforts in that direction. We have sought perfection in every detail, and the total results are satisfactory. It took us years of hard work and careful study to diminish the superfluous expense attached to the production of ladies', misses', men's, boys' and children's wearing apparel, and now the opportunity is open for you to step in and inherit the benefit of our great results. To convince you of the strength of this tremendous combination of stores, we show that wherever we lay a foundation, its rapid growth is as imminent as that of the seed in fertile ground.

During these three Opening Days, store will be open evenings until 10 o'clock.

ONE-HEN MOTIVE POWER

Used by an Industrious Long Island Fowl that Lays Eggs in Owner's Baby Carriage.

Wainscott, Long Island.—This town has a hen which, for industry in laying eggs and trouble-saving in consideration for her owner, surpasses anything in the poultry history of this section. She makes no claim of high-blooded ancestry and none of her ancestors ever won a blue ribbon in Madison Square Garden or at any other poultry show. She is a common, everyday barnyard fowl, with a rusty black coat that has been getting mottled every day since she got the makings of it, five years ago. This year she began laying on February 8. In the first 100 days since then she laid 88 eggs, and the end is not yet.

That in itself would be a record of which any hen might be proud. However, it is only the small part of it. She is too thoughtful of the convenience of her owner to make him walk out to the chicken house for the eggs. Whenever she gets in the laying mood she flies to the window sill and pecks at the glass. Her owner knows the signal and opens the window. The hen flies down into the room, walks sedately out to the hall, flies up in the baby carriage there and then settles herself. She selects the softest spot in baby's downy pillow and deposits the egg.

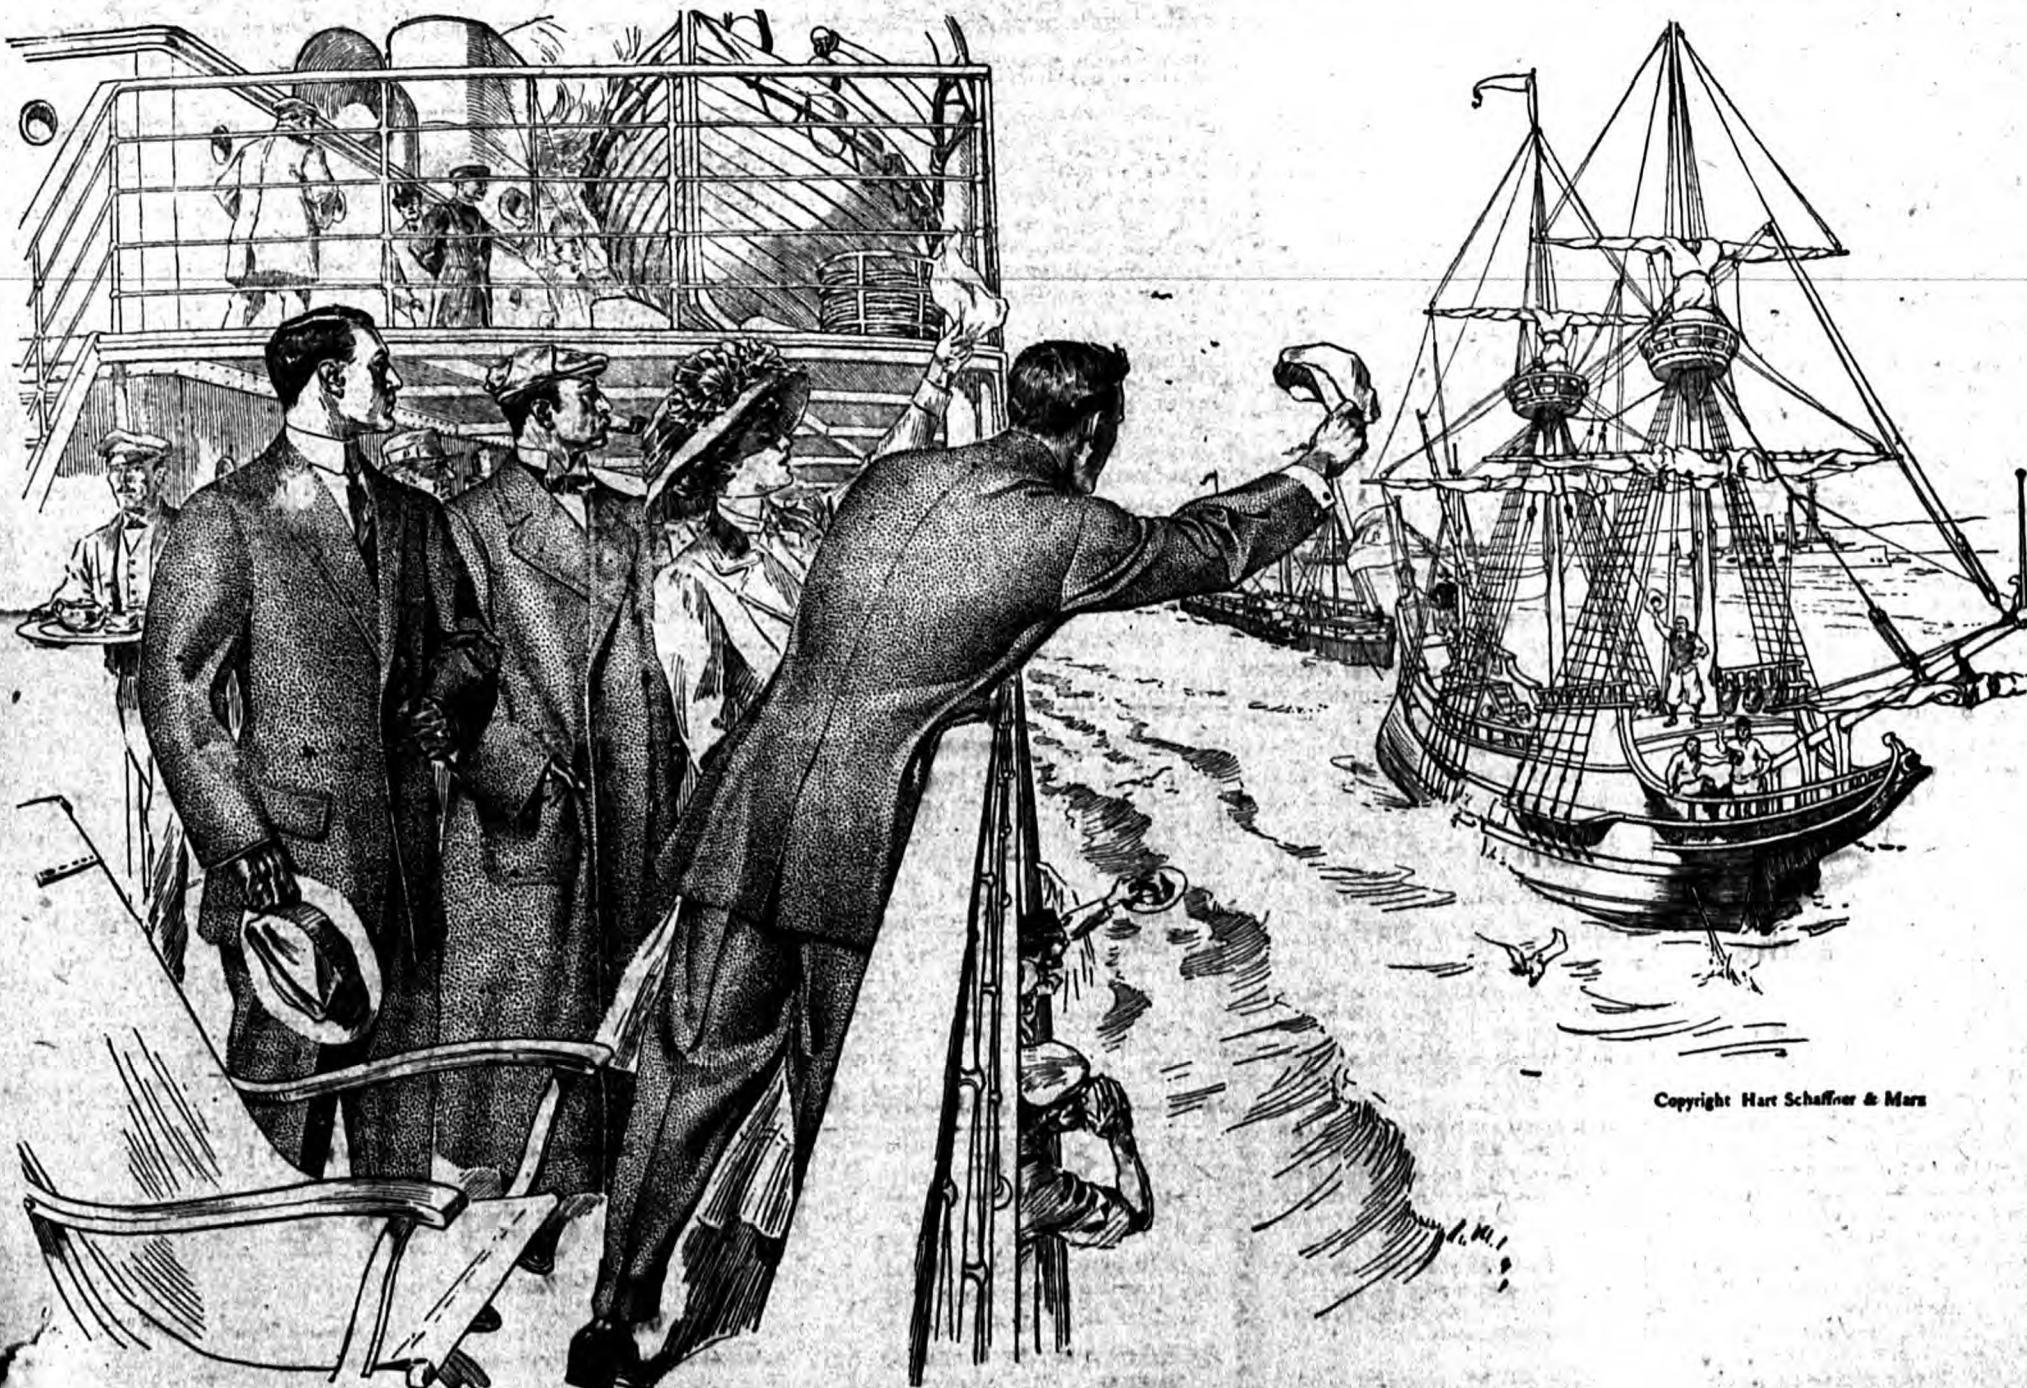

Cackling triumphantly, she flies from the linen-lined nest to the handle of the baby carriage and flaps her wings violently. The pressure of her wings on the air sets the baby carriage moving. The hen does not cease flapping until the carriage has been run out to the kitchen, close to the busy housewife.

The woman picks up the eggs, the hen reverses the movement of her wings and soon propels the carriage back to the hallway again. Content with that, she flies out of the window and resumes her place among the other fowl.

Three broods of chickens have been hatched from the eggs of this hen. Whenever the peeples see the house door open they run in, group themselves about the baby carriage, crane their necks and cry piteously to be taken out for a ride.

True and Best Humanity.

We in our pride are apt to think that to humble ourselves is to be forced to an unwilling surrender, a hard necessity of submission. But with our gracious Father, to humble is not to humiliate. The true and best humanity is that which love wins from us as the sunshine and soft breath of spring woo the flowers from the hedgerow. Of old, when God would humble Israel, He fed them with angel's food, or, as it is rendered in the margin, "Every one did eat the bread of the mighty."—Psalm 78:25.—Mark G. Pearse.

Three hundred years ago, Hendrick Hudson, an adventurous sailor, in a little ship called the "Half Moon," sailed up what is now the harbor of New York, and up the great river which now bears his name.

Two hundred year later, a hundred years ago, Robert Fulton, amid the jeers and ridicule of his fellow townsmen, who said he was a crank and couldn't possibly do it, made a voyage up the same historic river, from New York to Albany, in the "Clermont," the first vessel ever propelled by steam.

And now the country is celebrating these two historic events in a great pageant; the two clumsy little vessels, reproduced in exact size and appearance, are to be saluted by a great fleet of warships, assembled from all the big navies of the world; and civic and military parades and commemorative exercises are to be held in honor of these two historic events in the progress of civilization.

You'll read about it in all the newspapers. Meanwhile, we've discovered something, too. We've found that are the best clothes made; that we can serve our fellowmen to best advantage by supplying these clothes. It's a discovery which a lot of others have also made; more men who dress well wear these clothes today than any other make; and the number is steadily increasing.

You can join in this sort of celebration; you can wear these clothes now; you don't have to engage in any voyages of discovery; nor endure the ridicule of your friends; you can be as well dressed as any man in America, at small expense of time and money, by coming to this store and getting into Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes.

All their fabrics are all-wool. Grays and blues are the leading colors for suits; the variety of patterns is almost endless.

We have overcoats also in many new fabrics and models; and want you to see them. Suits $16.50 to $30. Overcoats $16.50 to $30.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered liver.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of Tutt's Pills. They control and regulate the liver. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

Theme:

OPPORTUNITY AND RESPONSIBILITY

By Rev. William Carter, D. D.

Text: "Now all these things are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come."—I. Corinthians, x, 11.

If greater opportunities bring greater responsibilities, then those that are resting upon us today are certainly tremendous. The progress of the ages has been cumulative and has raised this age until it stands as the highest peak of civilization, the keystone of all the ages, the very crown jewel in the diadem of Time. Therefore, "these things are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come."

Why is it that such warning and admonition is necessary now? Because in this "end of the age," in this twentieth century of privilege and development, there is so much more involved. It means more to lose a jewel than a jackknife. It means more to wreck a transatlantic liner than a fishing smack. It means more, infinitely more, to waste and wreck a life fraught with such tremendous possibilities than to waste and wreck a mere existence. Therefore the admonition which is sounded in upon every soul.

This warning and admonition is also especially necessary now because in this age of opportunity and development we can do so much more than ever was possible before. When God called Moses to lead His people out of Egypt, Moses began to excuse himself because of inefficiency, but God said, "What is in this hand?" And Moses looked, and behold, it was a shepherd's rod. Not a very great weapon of offence or defence, but with that potent rod he wrought all those marvelous signs and wonders and at last delivered Israel from her bondage.

What is in this hand, man of the world, to-day? A business opportunity, a social power, a moral obligation, a leader's ability, a skilled workman's tool—all the possibilities of a trained hand or eye or intellect. Make an inventory of your equipment and then tell me how you are using it. What is in this hand, business man? It is a bank book, one of the mightiest weapons for good or evil that is in the world to-day. How are you using it? What is in this hand, man of the world? Look closely again, for behold, it is a ballot! Remember then—and I say it advisedly and reverently—that next to the Bible the ballot is the most powerful instrument for working righteousness in the whole land to-day.

What is in this hand, ay, what is in this arm, womanhood of to-day? A child's dear form? Ah, then, let me say yours is the greatest power after all. Over that life you reign supreme. To you it will go for guidance; to you it will look for ideals. See to it, motherhood of to-day, that those ideals are pure and true, grand and noble, and then you may be sure of it that the manhood of to-morrow will be better than that of to-day.

We need also to heed the warning and admonitions of the past and of the Word of God, because even the little that we do now will count for so much more than ever before. Every deed that we do now has the weight of all the ages behind it. All the experience, all the developments of the past tell on our efforts now and multiply them a thousandfold. Don't say that you can't do anything. Don't be trying to frighten yourself by asking what is the biggest thing you can do, and then excusing yourself by saying, "I can't do anything big." Ask your "self" rather the question, "What is the least thing I can do?" and starting with that let the big things take care of themselves.

Stand Like a Tower.

Be systematically heroic in little unnecessary points. Every day do something for no other reason than its difficulty, so that, if an hour of need should come, it may find you trained to stand the test. The man who has daily inured himself to habits of concentration, attention, energetic will, and self-denial in unimportant things will stand like a tower when everything rocks around him.—William James.

To Attain Peace.

Since work gives forgetfulness of self, it can be, and is, an antidote to pain of heart. The very routine and drudgery of daily work have often saved a life from despair. Adherence to duty is a way to attain some measure of peace.—Hugh Black.

Sweet Enveloping Thought.

He that finds God a sweet enveloping thought to him never counts his company. When I sit in that presence, who shall dare to come in?—Emerson.

Preach the Truth.

If God had wanted men to prop up truth He would have told them; He only commanded them to preach it.

Kingly Living.

The world will come to the King dom through kingly living in the world.

Rithergum.

Language grows apace with the victory of applied science. Consider for a moment how many words in the ordinary work-day vocabulary were unknown a quarter of a century ago and are the natural product of discovery and invention. With the perfection of wireless transmission of intelligence there obviously came need of a word designating a message conveyed by the new method. "Rithergum" has been suggested and, in fact, is being used in Great Britain. If not, why not?

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive, and so fatal. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy—often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance to the point of chronicity, it will attack the vital organs, causing either of the bladder, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head ache, back ache, lame back, dizziness, sleeplessness, nervousness, or the kidneys the uric break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and better health in that organ is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. Swamp-Root corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest because of its remarkable health restoring properties. A trial will convince anyone.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

About Angelina

The girl who arrived last at the porch party sewing bee began explaining before she had even sat down.

"You needn't try to act as if you weren't here," she said, "for that is the last of the lace gown, or that I have on my hat that I wear when I work in the garden, or that my white shoes need cleaning. I know perfectly well that you can't help but observe these things."

"You do look kind of haphazard and poor-relation," admitted the girl in the green linen. "You've got loads of clothes—have they burned up or have you given them to the heathen or what is it?"

"Not the heathen, but a heathen," mournfully said the young woman in the faded attire. "I may appear calm, but in reality I am seething with indignation. It was all my stupidity. I might have known better! Didn't I go to school three years with Angelina and room with her part of the time and know her like a book? What was I thinking of?"

"Will you kindly explain yourself?" asked the rest of the girls. "Or are you incapable of such a rational action?"

"When I asked Angelina to visit me on her way east I was awfully pleased at the idea of seeing her again," said the girl who had arrived last. "There were lots of things going on and I knew I could give her a good time. She was pretty as a picture when she arrived, and so sweet that all the family fell in love with her at once. Mother said she didn't see why I hadn't asked her before to come to see me and my brother arranged a theatre party on the spot."

"Angelina ran into my room the next morning to ask if I had a negligee she could wear while she unpacked. She said to give her an old one, any old thing, but, of course, I handed over my pink accordion plaited one that's next to my very best. You can't expect company to wear the seventy-five cent flimsy ones you buy at sales. Angelina said it was beautiful and that I had good taste and was a dear."

"Well, she didn't return it, but wore it to breakfast every morning and when she took naps and brushed her hair—and I wish you could see the remnants of it! I thought possibly she had none in spite of her big trunk, for her people didn't have much money when she was at school. Anyway I was willing to contribute the negligee for old times' sake."

"The evening Tom was to take us to the theatre it was so wretchedly hot I got out two white dresses to decide which was the cooler. Angelina came in just then and exclaimed over them. She said they looked delicious and she hadn't anything so appropriate herself—and looked so pouting and forlorn that before I knew it I heard myself telling her that she might wear one if she chose."

"She said, 'Really?' just like a child and seemed so rejoiced that I felt sorry for her, though I did think she might have taken the wisest line of leaving it for me and choosing the child in which was the cooler. Angelina came in just then and exclaimed over them. She said they looked delicious and she hadn't anything so appropriate herself—and looked so pouting and forlorn that before I knew it I heard myself telling her that she might wear one if she chose."
