TO DEMOCRATIC VOTERS

Strong Appeal To The Democrats Of Wi-comico County. Every Man Is Urged To Do His Duty Next Tuesday.

To the Democratic Voters of Wicomico:
We take this opportunity to make a last appeal to the Democratic Voters of Wicomico County, to stand by their guns on Tuesday next, and assist in every way the efforts being made by the Democratic organization in this County to bring victory to the candidates on the Democratic ticket.

We believe the trend of public sentiment is with the Democratic party
in this fight for free government and a white man's country, and that we shall be victorious in the nation, state
and county on the Eighth of November. We therefore appeal to every Democrat to VOTE A STRAIGHT DEMOCRATIC TICKET, and have a part in this glorious victory.

The issues in this campaign are too
vital to be lightly considered, and too important to the welfare of every Democrat to be carelessly dealt with. This is the time when every Democrat
SHOULD VOTE HIS TICKET
STRAIGHT. It is just as important to elect a Democratic Congressman in this district as to give the Presidential candidates a majority, and if all true
Democrats will go to the polls on Tuesday next and cast their votes for PARKER AND DAVIS, and the HON.
THOMAS A. SMITH, Wicomico will give an old time majority, and the party will be in splendid shape for next year's fight.

This is a great opportunity for the Democratic party, and we appeal to every Democrat to seize the occasion to help bury Rooseveltism under such an avalanche of votes that it will be blotted out of existence, and the faith
of our fathers will live forever.

Democratic Executive Committee.

DO YOU WISH CASH FOR YOUR FARM?

I will pay you cash for your farm or get you a purchaser. Write me at once a description of your farm and price. There is some one under the sun will buy your farm and I can find them sure. Yours Truly
DR. J. LEE WOODCOCK,
406 Camden Avenue,
Salisbury, Md.

An Appeal To The Voters Of Tyaskin.

For the last three or four weeks the papers all over the country have been full of politics and our county papers
as well.

Although we have heard means and
ways dictated by all the parties regarding legislation for the many ways
we can keep our country—the greatest on earth.

These are national matters, but there is one of vast more importance to us from moral standpoint. That is temperance. This question has moved the hearts of the voters in every district
in the county to vote this evil out.

This question of such moment is to be decided next Tuesday. It is indeed
one of vital importance to the home-
sides of the voters and especially to the mothers, who look out for the interests
of their sons and their husbands.

The mother's only chance is to make the social life pleasant at home, and the husbands and sons legislate laws to bring about this end. But as a mother I want to make an appeal to all the voters of Tyaskin District to do their duty on this question. In the excitement of electing president and vice president, I sincerely hope the voters will remember the clause regarding temperance and vote this evil
out; an evil which not only makes desolate homes with hungry and half clothed children, who are apt to grow
in ignorance, but it also draws the bad
element of society from other places;
an element which is found only where
the saloon abounds.

When you vote, I beseech you, to cast your vote for the good of your community and for the comfort of your families. One of the Mothers.

Florida And The Sunny South.

Beginning October 15, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell Winter excursion tickets to the resorts
of Florida, the Carolinas, and other States in the South and Southwest, at greatly reduced rates. For specific rates, limits and other conditions of tickets, consult any ticket agent.

Every man who desires to vote the Democratic ticket need only to put his (X) mark in the square opposite the name Parker and Davis and in the square opposite the name of Thomas Alexander Smith. These names are in the right hand column of the ballot—Parker and Davis at the top,
and Smith at the bottom. You need not make any other mark on the ballot.

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS

Held In All Parts Of The County. Enthusiastic Gatherings. County Will Give Majority To Whole Democratic Ticket.

Two of the biggest Democratic meetings ever held in Salisbury were attended by Wicomico's white voters last Saturday. The first meeting was held in the afternoon in Ulman's Opera House and was presided over by Ex-Governor E. E. Jackson. Mr. Thomas
Perry was chairman of the evening
meeting, and the Salisbury Concert Band under the direction of Prof. W. A.
Kennerly furnished excellent Democratic music. The hall was crowded in the afternoon and a number not being able to gain entrance in the main room, had to stand in the hall. Those who were able to enter, and shows
the drift of the political tide in this county. The ladies were invited in the evening and they turned out in big numbers and applauded the speakers with a right good will. At this meeting the attendance was so large that many were unable to gain admittance
and were turned away.

As ex-Governor Jackson took his seat
at the afternoon meeting he was given an ovation which lasted for some time.
His popularity with the Democrats of the First District was referred to a number of times by the speakers and they soon learned if they wanted to gain applause, they had but to refer to the genial ex-Governor. He predicted the success of the entire national and congressional ticket in the First District.

The first speaker at the afternoon meeting was Hon. Thomas A. Smith, who spoke for about half an hour on the tariff, trusts, imperialism, the race question, and other issues. His remarks were well received and evoked frequent and long applause.

Hon. Joshua W. Miles of Somerset, was the next speaker, and for one hour
and twenty minutes held the closest attention of the vast audience. Mr.
Miles was at his best and delivered
what was considered one of the greatest speeches ever heard in Salisbury.
His scathing arraignment of the politics of the Republican party brought forth storms of applause. This speech closed the afternoon meeting.

The speakers of the evening session
were Gen. Joseph B. Seth of Easton, Hon. A. S. Goldsborough of Baltimore, and Senator Austin L. Crothers of Elkton. As each one dwelt upon the vital issues of the campaign there were storms of applause from the audience. Mr. Goldsborough is an especially forcible speaker for a young man and has a pleasing delivery and excellent vocabulary. A large number of prominent Democrats from every section of the county occupied seats

on the stage and added much to the success of the undertaking.

Other Meetings.

The Parson's District Democrats
held a rousing meeting together with an oyster roast on Wednesday evening at Bank's Hall near the N. Y. P. & N. depot. Mr. Leonard Walles was the principal speaker. He handled the issues in a masterly way and was attentively listened to and warmly applauded by the audience that packed
the hall to its immense capacity.
Messrs. J. T. Hayman and Thos. Mc-Coy followed with short speeches. A Democracy as earnest, as enthusiastic and as thoroughly united as that of Parson's district can never be beaten.
Oratory and oysters were in an abundance at the Democratic Mass meeting held at Nutter's voting house Thursday afternoon. The enthusiasm displayed and the interested manifested by the large crowd which was present to hear the issues of the day discussed presage good reports from Nutter on November 8th. The meeting was addressed by Robert G.
Robertson, L. Atwood Bennett, T. F.
J. Rider, J. T. Hayman and Thos. H.
McCoy, Jr., and while the seating accommodation was meagre, yet the audience of two hundred or more stalwart Democrats of Nutter and vicinity gave the speakers marked attention and showed that they were interested in the vital issues which effect our free institutions. We expect a Democratic majority from Nutter of such a character that we can still call her the "Gibraltar of Democracy," of Wicomico county. That her citizens are still loyal to the principles of Thomas Jefferson and believe in the maintenance and perpetuation of a government of the people for the people and by the people.

One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings of the campaign was held by the Camden district Democrats
on Thursday evening at Guthrie's store. The speakers were Messrs.
Jacob Shoufner, of Baltimore, and J. T. Hayman, of this city. A beautiful display of fire works was given as a presage of the glorious victory to be given by Camden District and Wi-comico county next Tuesday.

Sharptown is also doing her part
and she held a rousing big meeting last Thursday evening which was attended by nearly five hundred people.
Mr. C. E. Adams was the chairman of the meeting. Messrs. F. Leonard Walles, A. M. Jackson and George W.
Bell of Salisbury were the speakers of the occasion. Mr. Walles paid tribute as did all the rest to the character of the Democratic Congressional candidate, Thomas A. Smith. Mr. Jackson explained the tariff question and placed
it before the people in its true light and Mr. Bell wound up with a har-rangue on the race question, which put
the audience in excellent humor.
Music was furnished by a phonograph
which kept more noise and made more music than a brass band. The Democrats in this district promised to hold the Republicans down to ten majority.
If she does this, we can count on the remainder of the county to do their part.

Rousing big meetings were held at Mardela Springs yesterday afternoon and at Hebron at night. The speakers at each place were Messrs. Jesse D.
Price, L. Atwood Bennett, G. W. D.
Waller and A. M. Jackson, of Salisbury. Great enthusiasm was manifested at each meeting. A general canvass in these places is being made to get every Smith vote out on next Tuesday.

These speakers who have traveled in all parts of the county during the past week declare that a conservative estimate would place the Democratic majority in this county at 300 for Parker and Davis and 200 for Smith. Mr.
Smith has promised that his home
county, Caroline, will give him more complimentary votes than all the votes
Jackson can influence in Wicomico.

A big meeting was held at Whayland last Monday, at which time
Messrs. J. D. Price, J. T. Hayman, S.
R. Douglass and Senator M. V. Brewington spoke. Mr. Irving Handy, of Delaware, and Mr. Jacob Shoufner, of Baltimore spoke to a large crowd of Delaware citizens on the same evening.

A meeting will be held at Pittsville
this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Messrs.
A. M. Jackson, J. C. White, T. F. J.
Rider and Samuel R. Douglass will be the speakers. At the same time
Messrs. L. Atwood Bennett, George W. Bell and G. W. D. Waller will be speaking in Nanticoke; and Messrs.
J. T. Hayman and F. Leonard Walles will speak before the voters in Pow-ellville.

The Democrats of Salisbury district will hold a meeting on the plaza in front of the store of Hitch Bros., in California, Monday evening next
at 7 o'clock. The Salisbury Concert Band will furnish music. At 8.30 a meeting will be held at the New York Philadelphia Norfolk Depot on the plaza. Several of the best known local speakers will be at both meetings.

INSTRUCTION TO VOTERS

Polls Open 8 A. M. To 6 P. M. Voters
Read Carefully. How To Mark Ticket.

Election day will be Tuesday, November 8th. In the counties the polls will be open at 8 o'clock a. m. and close at 6 o'clock p. m.

In Baltimore City they open at 6 o'clock a. m. and close at 5 o'clock p. m.

It is our hope that every registered Democrat will go to the polls as early as he can and vote.

See that the ballot given you has endorsed upon it the initials of the Judge from whom you received it.

See that the Judge who gives you
the ballot calls out your name and residence in a distinct voice.

Vote the ticket by marking a cross
(X) mark in the space provided therefor to the right of and opposite the names of Parker and Davis; and also in the space to the right of and opposite the name of the Democratic Candidate for Congress.

These two marks will cause your ballot to be counted for the entire Democratic ticket.

Make the cross X mark entirely within the square provided for the purpose; namely, to the right of the names of Parker and Davis and also to the right of the names of the Democratic Candidate for Congress.

The Court of Appeals has decided that the cross mark must be made entirely within the square and not extend beyond it in any way.

Do not make any other mark whatever on the ballot; if you do your ballot will not be counted.

Any mark whatever on the ballot except the cross (X) mark, whether in the square or out of it, will cause
the ballot to be rejected.

Do not make a dot or circle or any other mark but a cross (X) mark in the square.

If you mark any square on your ballot with any kind of a mark other than the cross X mark entirely within the square, your ballot will not be counted.

Be sure not to deface or tear your ballot in any way.

If you make a mistake in marking
it, do not attempt to make a correction; return it to the Judge and get another. You are entitled to a third ballot if the first two have been spoiled
and returned, but you must not consume more than seven minutes in making it.

Mark your ballot with indelible pencil which you will find in the election booth.

Do not use your own pencil; your ballot will not be counted if you do.

After marking your ballot, fold it exactly as it was folded when handed to you by the Judge, and give it to the ballot Judge, without permitting
anyone to see how you have marked it.

See that the Judge tears off the coupon and deposits the ballot in the ballot box before you leave the room.
Murray Vandiver,
Chairman State Central Committee.

Birthday Party.

Miss Irma Tindle entertained about fifty of her little friends last Wednesday evening at her home on Locust street in honor of her twelfth birthday.
The dining room was beautifully decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums. One of the principal features of the evening was a peanut hunt for which prizes were awarded to the victors. The first prize was won by Miss Hattie Turner and the second by Miss Ruth Kennerly. Souvenirs were also presented to each guest.

Refreshments consisting of ices,
cakes and fruits were served, after which the guest departed wishing Miss Irma many more happy birthdays.
Miss Irma was the recipient of many pretty presents.

GENS FROM ALTON B. PARKER'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE OF SEPT. 26, 1904.

To the Honorable Champ Clark and Others, Committee, etc.

GENTLEMEN: In my response to your Committee, at the formal notification proceedings, I referred to some matters not mentioned in this letter. I desire that these be considered as incorporated herein, and regret that lack of space prevents specific reference to them all. I wish here, however, again to refer to my views there expressed as to the gold standard, to declare again my unqualified belief in said standard, and to express my appreciation of the action of the Convention in reply to my communication upon that subject.

Grave public questions are pressing for decision. The Democratic party appeals to the people with confidence that its position on these questions will be accepted and endorsed at the polls. While the issues involved are numerous, some stand forth pre-eminent in the public mind. Among these are: Tariff Reform, Imperialism, Economic Administration and Honesty in the Public Service. I shall briefly consider these and some others within the necessarily prescribed limits of this letter.

IMPERIALISM. While I presented my views at the notification proceedings concerning this vital issue, the overshadowing importance of this question impels me to refer to it again. The issue has been times referred to as Constitutionalism vs. Imperialism.

If we would retain our liberties and constitutional rights unimpaired, we cannot permit or tolerate at any time or for any purpose, the arrogation of unconstitutional powers by the executive branch of our government. We should be ever mindful of the words of Webster, "Liberty is only to be preserved by maintaining Constitutional restraints and just divisions of political powers."

Already the national government has become centralized beyond any point contemplated by its framers. While the growth of the Constitution. How tremendously all this has added to the power of the President! It has developed from year to year until it almost equals that of monarchies. The growth of our country and the magnitude of interstate interests may seem to furnish a plausible reason for this centralization of power, yet these same facts afford the most potent reason why the executive should not be permitted to encroach upon the other departments of the government, and assume legislative, or other powers, not expressly conferred by the Constitution. The magnitude of our country and its diversity of interests and population would enable a determined, ambitious and able executive unimpaired by constitutional limitations and freed with the just power to enforce the usurpation of authority and the aggrandizement of personal power before the situation could be fully appreciated or the people be aroused.

The issue of Imperialism which has been thrust upon the country involves a decision whether the law of the land or the rule of individual caprice shall govern. The principle of Imperialism is a principle of arbitrary rule, of arbitrary results, but the principle of Democracy holds in check the brilliant Executive and subjects him to the sober, conservative control of the people. The people of the United States stand at the parting of the ways. Shall we follow the footsteps of our fathers along the paths of peace, prosperity and contentment, guided by the ever-living spirit of the Constitution which they framed for us, or shall we go along other and untried paths, hitherto shunned by all, following blindly new ideals, which, though appealing with brilliancy to the imagination and ambition, may prove as well as they are leading us into difficulties from which it may be impossible to extricate ourselves without lasting injury to our national character and institutions?

TARIFF REFORM AT ONCE.

The Dingley Tariff is excessive in many of its rates, and as to them at least, unjustly and oppressively burdens the people. It secures to domestic manufacturers, singly or in combination, the privilege of exacting excessive prices at home and prices far above the level of sales made regularly by the abroad with profit, thus giving a bounty to foreign producers at the expense of our own people. Its unjust taxation burdens the people generally, forcing them to pay excessive prices for food, fuel, clothing and other necessities of life. It levies duties on many articles not normally imported in any considerable amount, which are made extensively at home, for which the most extreme protectionist would hardly justify protective taxes, and which in large amounts are exported. Such duties have been and will continue to be a direct incentive to the formation of huge industrial combinations, which, secure from outside competition, are enabled to stifle domestic competition and practically to monopolize the home market.

It contains many duties imposed for the express purpose of opening up new markets for our goods, and is avowed, of furnishing a basis for reduction by means of reciprocal trade treaties which the Republican administration, implicitly at least promised to negotiate. Hence, on this promise, secured the increased duties, the Republican party leaders, spurred on by protected interests, defeated the treaties negotiated by the Executive, and now these same interests, claiming the benefit of these duties which the people never intended they should have, and to which they have no moral right.

HOPE AID FROM SENATE.

The two leading parties have always differed as to the principle of customs taxation. Our party has always advanced the theory that the object is to raise revenue for support of the government whatever other results may incidentally flow therefrom. The Republican party, on the other hand, contends that customs duties should be levied primarily for protection, so-called, with revenue as the secondary purpose, thus using the power of taxation to build up the business and property of the few at the expense of the many.

This difference of principle still subsists, but our party appreciates that the long-continued policy of the country, as manifested in its statutes, makes it necessary that tariff reform should be undertaken, on scientific principles, to the end that there should not be an immediate revolution in existing conditions.

In the words of our platform we demand "a revision and gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of the masses, and for the common weal, and not by the friends of its abuses, its extortions and discriminations."

It is true that the Republicans, who do not admit in their platform that the Dingley Tariff needs the slightest alteration, are likely to retain a ma-

nority on the Federal Senate through-out the next Presidential term, and could, therefore if they chose, block every attempt at legislative relief. But it should be remembered that the Republican party includes many revisionists, and I believe it will shrink from defying the popular will expressed unmistakably and peremptorily at the ballot box.

The people demand reform of existing conditions. Since the last Democratic administration the cost of living has grievously increased. Those having fixed incomes have suffered keenly; those living on wages, if there has been any increase, know that such increase has not kept pace with the advance in the cost of living, including rent and the necessities of life. Many to-day are out of work, unable to secure any wages at all. To alleviate these conditions, in so far as is in our power, should be our earnest endeavor.

COMMON LAW AND TRUSTS.

Whether there is any common law which can be applied and enforced by the Federal courts, cannot be determined by the President, or by a candidate for the Presidency. The determination of this question was left by the people in framing the Constitution, to the Judiciary and not to the Executive. The Supreme Court of the United States has consistently considered this question, and, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph Co. vs. The Call Publishing Co., to be found in the one hundred and eighty-first volume of the United States Supreme Court reports, at page 82, it decided that common law principles could be applied by United States courts in cases involving Interstate Commerce, in the absence of United States statutes specifically covering the case. Such is the law of the land.

GREATER MARKETS NOW NEEDED.

In my address to the Notification Committee I said that tariff reform is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer. With equal truth it can be said that the benefits of reciprocal trade treaties would accrue to both. The consumer would be helped in unquestionable degree. That the manufacturer would receive great benefit by extending his markets abroad hardly needs demonstration. His productive capacity has outgrown the home market. The very term "Home Market," has changed in its significance. Once, from the manufacturer's point of view, it meant expansion; to-day the marvelous growth of our manufacturing industries has far exceeded the consumptive capacity of our domestic markets, and the term "Home Market" implies contraction, rather than expansion. If we would run our mills to their full capacity, thus giving steady employment to our workmen and securing to them and to the manufacturer the profits accruing from increased production, other markets must be found. Reciprocity, when our manufacturers are dependent on raw materials in whole or part imported, it is vital to the extension of their markets abroad that they secure their materials on the most favorable terms.

The persistent refusal of the Republican majority in the Federal Senate to ratify the reciprocity treaties negotiated in pursuance of the policy advocated alike by Mr. McKinley and Mr. McKinley, and expressly sanctioned in the fourth section of the Dingley act, is a discouraging exhibition of bad faith. As already mentioned by me, the export duty imposed on many articles reported article by the Dingley Tariff was avowedly intended by its author not to be permanent, but to serve temporarily as a maximum, from which the Federal Government was empowered to offer a reduction, in return for an equivalent concession on the part of a foreign country. President McKinley undertook honestly to carry out the purpose of this section of the act. A number of reciprocity agreements were negotiated within the prescribed limit of two years, which, if ratified, would have had the two-fold result of cheapening many imported products for American consumers, and opening up and enlarging foreign markets to American producers. Not one of those agreements has met with the approval of the Republican masters of the Senate. Indeed, they did not even permit their consideration. In view of the attitude of the present Executive, no new agreement under the general Treaty power need be expected from him. Nor does the Republican platform contain a favorable reference to one of the suspended treaties. This section of the Dingley act stands forth as a monument of legislative cozenage and political bad faith.

NO TYRANNY OVER OTHER PEOPLES.

If independence, such as the Cubans enjoy, cannot be prudently granted to the Filipinos at the moment, the promise that it shall come the moment they are capable of receiving it will tend to stimulate rather than hinder their development. And this should be done not only in justice to the Filipinos, but to preserve our own rights; for a free people cannot withhold freedom from another people and themselves remain free. The toleration of tyranny over others will soon breed contempt for freedom and self-government, and weaken our power of resistance to insidious usurpation of our constitutional rights.

NATIONAL GOOD FAITH VIOLATED.

The methods by which the Executive acquired the Panama Canal route and rights are a source of regret to many. To them, the statement that thereby a great public work was assured to the profit of our people is not a sufficient answer to the charge of violation of National good faith. They appreciate that the principles and healthy convictions which in their working out have matured into a great, stand firmly against the argument or suggestion that we shall be blind to the nature of the means employed to promote our welfare. They hold that adherence to principle, whether it works for our good or ill, will have a more beneficial influence on our future destiny than all our material upbuilding, and that we should ever remember that the idea of doing a wrong to a smaller, weaker nation that we, or even all mankind, may have a resultant good is repugnant to the principles upon which our government was founded.

SOME MODERN UTOPIANS.

Places Where War, Poverty and Dishonesty Are Unknown.

Denmark claims that there is not a single person in her domain who cannot read and write. On the northeast coast of New Guinea, the Island of Kutaba, surrounded by a wall of coral
three hundred feet high on one side and from fifty to one hundred feet on the other, maintains thirteen villages
of natives, to whom war, crime and poverty have been unknown since the beginning of their traditions. The most peaceful and comfortable community
in Europe is the commune of the Canton Vaud, in Switzerland. Nearly every one is well off and there are no paupers.

Finland is a realm whose inhabitants are remarkable for their invio-late integrity. There are no banks and no safe deposits, for no such security is essential. You may leave your luggage anywhere for any length of time, and be quite sure of finding it untouched on your return, and your purse full of money would be just as secure under similar circumstances.
The Finns place their money and valuables in holes in the ground and cover them with a big leaf. Such treasure is sacredly respected by all who pass it, but, in the rare event of a man wishing to borrow of his neighbor during his absence, he will take only the smallest sum he requires and place a message in the hole telling of his urgent need, promising to repay
the amount on a specified date. And he will invariably keep his word, for the Finn is invincible in his independence.

Agnetia Park, near Delft, in Holland,
is another Utopian example. A tract of ten acres has upon it 150 houses,
each with its little garden and with certain common buildings and common grounds. The houses are occupied by the employees of a great distilling company, who form a corporation which owns the park. Each member owns shares in the corporation,
and pay rent for his house. The surplus, after all expenses have been paid, comes back to him as dividend.
If he wishes to go away, or if he dies,
his shares are bought up by the corporation and sold to the man who takes his place.—Golden Penny.

Sulphur in Liquid Form

Modern Science Triumphs

Chemists Astonished! Doctors Amazed!

Everyone remembers the sulphur and molasses of childhood. You hated the dose, but it did you good. But you had to take a whole lot to get any benefit, because very little of it could get into your blood and system. Now, at last, a chemist has found a way to liquify sulphur—to make it soluble—so that it is instantly absorbed by the skin and blood. This marvelous discovery is called

HANCOCK'S Liquid Sulphur

BALTIMORE, April 7, 1904.

Gentlemen:—I wish to testify to the merits of your LIQUID SULPHUR and LIQUID SULPHUR OINTMENT. I am a police officer stationed at Baltimore and Charles Street and all my friends and many others know that I have long suffered with a bad case of Eczema of the palms of my hands and have had to wear gloves all the time.
I was under treatment by eminent physicians for a long time without success.
Last summer your Liquid Sulphur and Ointment were recommended to me and I began to use. My hands improved from the first application. After about a week's trial I went to the Johns Hopkins Hospital to have my hands treated with X-Rays. At the Hospital I was advised to continue the use of the Liquid Sulphur and Ointment, as it seemed to be doing my hands much good.

Under their advice I continued to use the Liquid Sulphur and Ointment for six weeks or two months, and at the end of that time my hands were cured, and they are as sound as anybody's.

I have used the Sulphur constantly in my family, and it is excellent, also, for the bath, for sore and tender feet and for any chafed or sore places.

I cannot recommend your Liquid Sulphur and Ointment too highly.
Yours very truly,
JOHN T. CARROLL.

THE CONGRESSIONAL ELECTION.

We do not wish to be unfair to the present Congressman of our district, nor in any way seek to belittle him. As a man he has the respect of our community. Many have cause to remember his kindness and generosity. He has been a benefactor to both the city of Salisbury and the county, and in many ways has shown himself a good-hearted, liberal man. But when we go to examine his record as a Congressman, we can come to no other conclusion but that he has proven an entire failure. Examine his record while a Congressman, and see if you can point to a single act with pride, or if a single measure has been introduced by him, or passed by his influence, that redounds to the credit or benefit of his country. See if a single measure has been passed that helps, in any way, his home constituents. See if he has ever raised his voice, in the halls of Congress, to defend, advocate or oppose a single measure that has come up for the consideration of that body. As a business man he has shown exceptional abilities in his line, but as a legislator he has been a miserable failure. Not even his closest friends and most partisan supporters can claim that his abilities are of the character that go to make a useful and valuable public servant. That he did not possess the necessary qualifications was thought by many before he ever took his seat in Congress, and his record while there has proved that they were right, only in a far greater degree than was ever thought. We do not wish to belittle Mr. Jackson, but this district has never been so poorly represented in the National Congress as it has been during his incumbency. His own party, blinded by partisan feeling, and always ready to wreath a crown of glory about the head of any of its members on the slightest pretext, can only plead, in justification of his actions, that he has done no harm. This is not the kind of man that we want to represent us. We want a man that will do, instead of one that sits by and sees others do. We want a man who, by reason of training, environment and natural ability, is able to grasp the important subjects that come before our national law-makers, and deal with them in the broad-minded spirit that the welfare of our country demands.

There is, however, one thing that Mr. Jackson possesses—immense wealth; and if this cannot be put down as one of the qualifications of a Congressman, yet it can be classed as an essential one, apparently, in this day of political degradation, to the election to a public office. It is this possession, more than all others, that has made his party see to him the tact and abilities that go to make up a great and powerful leader. Hence has it brought to him the nomination for Congress at the hands of his party. We acknowledge its strength as a vote-getter, for twice has he, by its seemingly omnipotent power, forced his way into the halls of Congress. At what cost we will not attempt to estimate, but the sacrifice must have been great, for upon both occasions he seemed to be too exhausted to take an active part in the deliberations of that body. Shall this qualification again elect him? We believe not. We do not think that the voters of this district will again allow the weight and influence of money to blind them to the interests of their country.

Voters, you are called upon this year to decide a good many important questions. Weigh them well before you cast your ballot. Shall the policies of our country, as outlined by our wise forefathers, continue, or shall they give way to the imperialistic ideas of Roosevelt? Shall the trusts and monopolies be curbed and restricted, or shall they be allowed to flourish and grow even stronger than at present, until they reduce the free people of this country to a condition of slavery?

VOTERS OF WICOMICO.

On next Tuesday the question of who is to be the next President of the United States will be decided. Voters of Worcester have you fully considered the question? The democratic party stands for the best interest of our country. The Government by the Constitution framed by our wise forefathers, which has been so shamefully over-ridden by Pres. Roosevelt. The liberty of all the people under the American flag as compared with the forcible government inaugurated and continued by the Republican party. The curbing and controlling of the baneful trusts, the most dangerous internal enemy the American people have to combat. The serpent that was born, bred and fattened by the policy of the Republican party. But leaving out national issue the voters of the First Congressional district have a very serious question to solve. Several years ago the Hon. W. H. Jackson sprang suddenly into existence as the leader and dictator of The Republican party in this district, and by the power of his money succeeded twice in being elected to Congress. When first nominated there were few who believed he possesses the abilities that go towards making a fit man to be a member of our National Congress. During his incumbency, his party can not point to a single act with pride or claim for him a single thing that has benefited his district or country. His only claim to re-election is his immense wealth.

The Baltimore Evening Herald is an editorial calls him the Addicks of the Eastern Shore. Voters, you who have often admired the braveness, the manliness, and heroism of the people of Delaware, who have year after year fought Addicks to a stand still, will you permit yourselves to be governed by the power of money? We do not believe it. Go to the polls next Tuesday determined to cast your vote against Mr. Jackson and Jacksonism. Remember that upon vote may rest the result in Worcester county and on Worcester county will rest the verdict in the First Congressional district.

The Republican party have not been idle this campaign, they are working night and day for Mr. Jackson's election. They have dropped the national ticket and are openly instructing their voter to mark the Congressional nominee alone. Meet their energy with redoubled energy. Do not only vote yourself and think your duty to the party is fulfilled, see your neighbor and get him to vote with you. Help in every way you can, raise the enthusiasm of those who seem to be lukewarm. See that they get to the polls and vote.

Every individual voter has a grave responsibility and should see that their work is well done. Again we appeal to the voters to down Jackson and Jacksonism, bury both so deep that never again will they dare appear asking for your suffrage.

An Attempted Suicide.

Martha Betts, age 17 years, made an attempt to commit suicide Thursday morning at her home in Crisfield. She shot herself in the head about 8 o'clock but went into the field until 2 o'clock, when she became delirious. She seemed to be getting worse all the time until her doctor finally decided to bring her to the Peninsula General Hospital, which was done yesterday afternoon. She is the daughter of Mr. Joseph Betts, well known around Crisfield. It is thought that some family trouble caused her to commit the deed. She now lays in the Hospital in a critical condition.

MEMORIAL.

Six months ago the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. William B. C. Trauer and took their infant son, Ernest. He was born April 27th., 1903 and died April 2nd., 1904, aged eleven months and five days.

A precious one from us is gone,
A chattering we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
We loved him, yes we loved him,
But angels loved him more;
So they have sweetly called him
To yonder shining shore.
Fare well, fare well, Ernest, dear,
Our home is sad without you here,
But we hope to meet in Heaven above
Where all is joy, peace and love.
His Mother.

HALLOWE'EN

History of Ancient Customs And Rites. Observed in Many Salisbury Homes. Excellent Disguises.

Hallow Even or Hallowe'en, the name popularly given to the eve or vigil of All Hallows or festival of All Saints, which being the first of November, Hallowe'en is the evening of the 31st of October. Hallowe'en has for many centuries been the occasion of some form of observance in all parts of the civilized world, but the exact nature of that observance varies greatly. Beginning in pagan days, when our forefathers foraged the fields by day and covered in caves by night afraid of the darkness, the occasion has persisted to this day, and even from the times of the Druids we have authentic accounts of its observance.

In Scotland years ago the superstition prevailed that on the midnight preceding Hallowmas, or All Saint's Day, the souls of those who had died during the year previous winged their way from earth to Heaven, and it was even believed that the souls of people who were asleep in their beds left their bodies and traveled long distances to visit friends. In England it was long customary to crack nuts, duck for apples in a tub of water, and perform other harmless fireside revelries. While the same thing can be said of Scotland, the Hallowe'en ceremonies of that country partook more of a superstitious character, taking among rustics the form of a charm to discover who should be his or her partner for life. Of these now most exploded customs, the best summary is that contained in Burns' well known poem "Hallowe'en."

In many ways and signs these departed friends were believed to predict the course of future events. Though sometimes neglected in modern practice the most essential part of Hallowe'en ritual seems to consist in the lighting by each household of a bonfire at nightfall. This points to the very ancient and widely diffused practice of kindling sacred fires at certain seasons of the year.

In these Christian times this beautiful though heathen custom has remained with us, and even now every girl who would know her luck in love never fails to tempt the secrets of the future despite the twentieth century realism. Many and different are the signs and omens now used which are supposed to unlock the sealed portals of the unknown and rend the veil that hides tomorrow.

Hallowe'en was celebrated in Salisbury with more vim than ever before. Numerous bands of young people, and some older people as well, paraded the streets in costumes, blowing their tin horns and acting in a ludicrous manner.

The students of the seventh grade of the Salisbury High School gave a very pleasant and interesting Hallowe'en party in the High School building, which was attended by a large number of the people of the city. Uncle Sam, Sis Hopkins, Yellow Kid, Carrie Nation and a number of other celebrities were present and entertained the audience. The rooms were very prettily decorated with leaves and bushes from the woods.

Prominent among the observances of the evening was the party given by Miss Lola Smith at her home on Bush street. Many games were indulged in until 11 o'clock when refreshments were served in the dining room. The house was appropriately decorated with autumn leaves, berries, vines and jack a lanterns of pumpkins. Among the guests were Misses Edith Weisbach, Maude Pope, Bessie and Winnie Trader, Gladys Sudler, Lucile Trussell, Hazel Macomber, Blanche Moore, Elsie Smith, Messrs. Homer Dickerson, John Bacon, Alexander M. Jackson, Claude Dorman, Leo Macomber, Clarence Robertson, Suel McGlaughlin, Thomas Abbott, Harvey Robertson and Herman Murrell.

Miss Martha Tondyne also entertained that evening at her home on Main street. The spacious parlors were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, berries and jack-o-lanterns, which glared mysteriously from every corner. Ice cakes and other refreshments were served after the Hallowe'en tricks were played. Among the invited guests were: Misses Florence Grier, Margaret Woodcock, Margaret Waller, Sarah Phillips, Belle Smith, Louise Veasey, Margaret Todd, Rebecca Smith, Eva Jones, Hilda Howard, Bessie Williams, Mary Adams, Dora Jones, Nellie Leatherbury, Messrs. Walter Haffington, Gus Waller, Ralph Grier, Oscar Grier, Norman Richardson, Marvin Evans, Preston Beauchamp, Walter Disharoon, George Dorman, Homer Slemmons, William Smith and Frank Adams.

Miss Ruth Price gave a party to a large number of friends the same evening. All were in costumes and played the Hallowe'en games. The house was suitably decorated for the occasion and all had a good time. Refreshments were served after the games.

Not among the least of the observances of the evening was the party Miss Isabelle Springs gave to her young friends. All were masked and played the regulation Hallowe'en games. To make the party more realistic and delightful it was held in a barn, which was decorated in an appropriate manner for the occasion. The young guests enjoyed themselves to a late hour when refreshments were served.

Besides all these there were a number of smaller parties held in a number of the homes of the city, which were enjoyed by both old and young the disguises in many cases being hard to penetrate.

Courage is a Matter of the Blood.

Talmage Sermon

By Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage, D.D.

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Anemia means thinness of blood. It is common in men and young women and all those who work indoors, who do not get enough outdoor air and good oxygen in the lungs. There are too many white blood corpuscles in such cases, and there is often a peculiar sound in the heart, called a murmur, in cases of anemia. This heart murmur is caused by thinness of the blood passing through the heart. The murmur of anemia disappears when the blood regains its natural consistency and richness. It is not heart disease, but caused by the stomach. It is the occasion of much anxiety, alarm and suffering, for which its victim is dependent upon relief from the stomach. In the same way many bad coughs are dependent upon these reflex disturbances from the stomach caused by indigestion. To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles thereby feeding the nerves on rich red blood, doing away with nervous irritability, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which promotes digestion and assimilation of food so that the blood gets its proper supply of nourishment from the stomach. Get as near to nature's way as you can. A medicine made entirely of botanical extracts and which does not contain alcohol is the safest. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery contains no alcohol or narcotics. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best liver pills.

THE DRAUGHT

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of proper digestion ferments and swells the stomach, putting it up against the heart. This interference with the action of the heart, and in the course of time, the delicate but vital organ becomes diseased. Mr. D. Kauble of Nevada, O., says: "I had stomach trouble and was in a bad state as I have been for some time. I took Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for about four months and it cured me."

Kodol Digests What You Eat and relieves the stomach of all nervous strain and the heart of all pressure. Bottles only, $1.00. Size holding 2½ times the trial size, sells for 50c.

Prepared by E. G. DeWitt & Co., CHICAGO.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages there should be treatment. Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large size, 50 cents at drug stores or by mail. Trial size, 10 cents by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 50 Warren Street, New York.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 30.—In this sermon the preacher tells of the beauties and the potentialities of gentleness and human kindness in the home, in business and in our everyday dealings with friends and enemies. The text is II Timothy II, 24, "Be gentle unto all men."

The great moral leaveners of the world have used but little blasting powder. They are not past masters in the "High Order of Babbling Quarrels." Like the laborers, lifting higher and higher the walls of Solomon's temple in Jerusalem, they make but little noise. They tread the pathway of life with feet, for the most part, untroubled in velvet. Their voices are not an angry growl, but a dulcet whisper. Their breath is not cyclonic, but a summer zephyr. Their countenances are not twisted with the demonic passions of a Hogarth's caricature. Their eyes are not flashing with the lightnings of a Mediterranean tempest. They are not red-lipped and laughing-eyed and rosy-cheeked, with the happy smile of a glorious June sunrise. They believe not in the strenuous life, with its swords and spears and battle-axes and clubs and bludgeons and confederations. They believe not in hurling storm clouds against storm clouds until the deluge comes, and the bridges are swept away, and the harvest fields are battered down, and though two mighty armies had turned the valleys into a gigantic battlefield, where the heavens were resounding with the cannonading of the elements. But they believe in the "gentle life." They believe in the golden pulleys of evaporation, gathering up the waters into the reservoirs of the clouds, to be scattered abroad in the blessed refreshment of April showers. They believe in the gentler means, which produce life, and not in the fierce, passionate methods of the lion-hunt, the anarchist and the fire-bard, which destroy life.

Nature has her storms, eruptions and earthquakes, which in her angry moods carry death and destruction to their paths, but the gentle ways are always used by nature to accomplish her greatest good. Standing upon a ship's deck some day, I saw, "Where did you wonder, tall straight mast come from?" "Why," you say, "hundreds of years ago a bird was flying over the Maine hills toward her nest with a little seed in her mouth. The keen eye of a hawk spied her. When the hawk began to soar higher and higher in the heavens that he might make one terrific plunge upon his prey, the little bird saw him. Before she fled to safety she gave one little frightened cry. When she uttered that cry her bill opened and the seed dropped to the ground. A gentle wind blew up the valley and covered over that seed with a little soil. A little shower then came and moistened that soil, and the little seed began to sprout. It took root. It grew into a bush. It grew up into a sapling. It rounded out into a great big tree. One day a Maine lumberman came through that valley. With his ax he marked that tree for the shipyard. The tree was cut down. It was dragged to the river and floated down to the sawmill. It was sawed and fixed for a mast. When this ship was launched that tree was fitted in its present place for man's use. Nature developed that tree, not in the upheavals of a day, but by the gentle ways of maturing years."

The gentle life of the Christian must be manifested toward those with whom we come into closest contact. We first of all should be gentle to our parents, our wives, our husbands and children and brothers and sisters and home associates. We should be gentle when we arise at the breakfast table, and prepare for the day's work. We should be gentle when we are talking to our children, for school as we start for the train, be gentle when we come home at night from the store, be very gentle when we tuck away the little ones into their beds for the night, for it is by the gentle words, the gentle deeds and the gentle influence that we hold our greatest influence over our dear ones and not by the rebukes and the censoriousness of our bitter tongues.

An Old Proverb.

The old proverb teaches, "One warm sunny May day can woo more buds out of the trees and bushes than five months of winter frosts can ever accomplish." One word of gentleness can accomplish more for good in the lives of our dear ones than a thousand angry looks can ever do. You know that your mother's smile, your mother's kiss and your mother's sweet ways were the greatest magnets which made you try to do right. They were not your father's punishments and sharp rebukes. You know that your wife's gentle ways have far more influence for good over the lives of your little children than your sharp corrections, although your wife rarely lifts a hand to strike them a blow. Why, only last week this fact was illustrated to you in an emphatic way. You told your boy not to go to a neighbor's house. He went. When you came home you found him out. You were angry. You said to yourself, "I will make that boy mind me if I have to whip him for his disobedience." You took him to your room and thrashed him. Did that whipping do any good? Not a particle. The same angry look which flashed from your eyes flashed from his. The same set lines which drew down the corners of your mouth drew down his. He did not cry, he did not even whimper. He took his punishment in dogged silence, and then he sullenly went to his room.

There is an old saying that all the natures of the wild and the domestic beasts are caged up in every man's heart. It only depends upon which cage you open which nature will dominate the man. In the heart's menagerie are the jackal, the lion, the tiger, the swine and the lamb, and all other kinds of four-legged beasts. That whipping which you gave your boy only developed the mulish part of his nature. He became obstinate and ugly. The more you beat him the more obstinate and mulish he grew. The rod and the rebuke never made your child bend his will to your will.

But what happened when your wife went to your boy's room? Ah, she reined the snarling tiger and the kicking mule in his heart! She let free the lamb of his better nature. When she first went in his eyes were blazing with rage. His teeth were grinding together. His hands were clenched. He was rapidly walking up and down the room. Up and down he went. When your wife first entered he would not look at her. But up and down he walked, up and down. Then he said: "Mother, I am going to leave home. I am not going to college. I am not going to let father give me another cent. I am too big to be whipped, and he might as well know it now and once for all. Mother, I hate him. I hate father because I know father has no love for me." What did your wife do? Did she begin to scold? Oh, no! She simply went up to her boy and put her arm lovingly around his neck and said: "Harry! Why, Harry! Are you going to leave me? Would you leave your mother? Oh, my boy, you know not what you are saying!" The boy started. The tears began to flow. He never even whimpered under your blows, but with his mother he just sobbed like a little child. Then your wife began to talk to him gently and to him gently. She told him how anxious you were to see him grow up to be good and true and brave. She told him that you had a right to expect obedience from him and that it grieved you to have to punish him. And while she talked his heart melted, and he was as soft as wax in her hand. That night in the quietude of your room your wife said: "Husband, never strike that boy again. You will rue the day that you do. You can get Harry to do anything if you are only gentle with him. But strike him, and some day he will either strike you back or leave home in anger forever."

Gentleness Will Win.
We all know that it is only by gentleness we have our greatest influence over our loved ones. Yet, strange to say, when anything goes wrong at the store or in the home and we lose our tempers we nearly always turn our anger against our own children or our own wives or our own husbands or our own brothers and sisters. If the cook is mean and suddenly leaves us in the lurch or the laundryman ruins our best linen, or you or we become fatigued from the spring or the fall house cleaning or our clerks cheat us at the store, then we are very apt to vent our displeasure upon our helpless children or our wives or husbands, who have done nothing. The domestic squalls and upheavals are often due entirely to outside causes and not to inside dissensions. Now, my friends, let us use and all learn to guard against speaking harsh words against those we love. Let us deal gently with those who are by our side and who are bound to us by the strong ties of domestic affection.

Remember that in the influence of the gentle life in the home we can serve God just as truly in the small things and in the little duties as in the great. "In the effort to appreciate various forms of greatness," wrote Edward Howard Gregg, "we must not underestimate the value of a simple, good life. Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability, that is an ideal as noble as it is difficult." But that is an ideal which God will let us all reach if we daily go to him in prayer. That is an ideal we all should try to reach, for in order to have our loved ones spiritually sweet we must set them an example and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability. We ourselves must learn by practice to be true types of the Christian's gentle life.

Deal gently with father, mother, husband, wife, brother, sister and child. Yes, but the text goes further than this. It bids us deal gently with those who are fighting us and our work because they do not see conditions as we see them. We should deal gently with our enemies as well as our friends, with our defamers and with those who are doing all they can to destroy us. In the great coliseum of the world's struggles we should never do as did the ancient aristocrats, brutalized by the space of the gladiatorial combat. When the victor in one of these fierce fights had beaten his foe to the earth, he looked up to the spectators for a signal to tell him if his prostrate enemy was to be killed or to have mercy shown him. Then even women so far forgot the tenderness of their sex as to turn down their thumbs, which was the signal to finish the wounded man. We should always lift our thumbs up. We should not give the signal "to destroy." We should give the signal "to save," no matter how much the prostrate foe may hate us and our work. If this Pauline commandment bids young Timothy to be gentle with his friends, it also commands him to deal gently with his enemies.

Thousands of men are ready to say they will be kind and gentle to their friends. They are not ready, however, to say they will be kind and forgiving to their enemies. They pride themselves upon the fact that they are good lovers. They also pride themselves upon the fact that they are good haters. If a man does them a kindness they store that fact away in the most secure treasure room of the "temple of memory." They will wait, if need be, ten, twenty, thirty or even forty years to pay back that kindness. I was reading the other day of a noted eastern politician whom William C. Whitney many years ago befriended. This politician, when a young man, stood under the shadow of the penitentiary walls. Whitney came to his rescue. Twenty-five years later Whitney C. Whitney was mightily in need of a certain help. He went to this man and asked it. This famous politician turned and said: "Whitney, I have been waiting for nearly thirty years for the chance to repay you for that kindness you once did me. Now the chance has come. I never forgot a friend." He at once came to Whitney's rescue. But, though some people never forget a friend, on the other hand others never forgive an injury done by an enemy. They may live to abide their time a quarter or even half a century, but when the time comes they are as vindictive as though the past injury was of yesterday. Now, my text emphatically says: "Deal gently with friends. Deal gently with the enemy also." Love those who love you. Yes, but love those who hate you and ill treat you and despise you. That is the commandment of my text also.

Dare you disobey God's orders to deal gently with those who have done you an injury? If you do God will make you rue your defiance in more ways than one. The "sword of hate" is two edged and keener than any Damascus blade. With one stroke it slays a foe, but when the swordman draws forth the "blade of vengeance," whetted with the mortal blood of his dying enemy, this sword springs back with its unused edge and slays the vindictive swordman also. Two lives are generally destroyed, and not one. Some of us have heard the terrible philippic uttered by James G. Blaine, the brilliant son of Maine, when he tried to retaliate on Roscoe Conkling of New York for his gibes and sneers. He acquitted himself with vigor, winning the applause of his friends. With all the force of his eloquent tongue he ridiculed and castigated his political opponent. Ah, that was a terrible denunciation! That was one of the most bitterly crushing attacks ever made in forensic arena. James G. Blaine waited for just the right time when he could strike successfully his foe. But that terrible denunciation against Roscoe Conkling cost James G. Blaine dearly. He paid the price of that vengeance at costly rate. That one speech without a doubt cost him the presidency of the United States. Conkling never forgave him. Had Blaine tried to conciliate Roscoe Conkling instead of trying to destroy him the "plumed knight" of the Maine hills would have landed in the White House, where all his friends as well as himself longed to have him. With a bludgeon you can knock a man down. With a keen, cutting speech you can make him wilt and compel him to curse you under his breath. But the sharp word, the bitter word, the sarcastic word, never yet changed a foe into a friend. Now, my text demands that you shall try to destroy your foes not by crushing them, but by winning them to your ranks. You are to destroy them, even as Napoleon on his escape from Elba made Marshal Ney and his grenadiers fall at his feet, because they felt he loved them. You are to destroy them by dealing gently with them, by forgiving as well as forgetting the evils of the past.

But greater sweep than the establishment of harmonious relationships with our personal enemies has the application of my text. We should try to bring back to Christ those who are at war with their Divine Master on account of their sins. We should try to lead God's wayward children back to their Divine Father's house, even as the prodigal of the far country was led to return to the old homestead. No man can truly love Christ until he has the same time by yearning tender affection, he is willing to go forth to save Christ's loved ones even as he would want to save one of his own children.

Bring Back the Lost Sheep.
To bring the lost sheep back to the Shepherd's fold ought to be the highest wish and desire of every Christian. And that is not to be done by menaces and denunciation. God, as Elijah found, is not in the earthquake nor in the fire, but in "the still small voice." Men may be wooed back to God, but they are seldom driven. And why should we not deal gently with God's wayward children? Do you for one instant think those people who spiritually and morally have gone astray are having a good time? Do you for one moment suppose that the man who, like Jacobson, knows that he and his family are struggling amid the crueling coils of deadly serpents on account of his sins would not gladly be rescued from those enveloping coils if he could only go to him gently in Christ's name and offer to him the peace and the pardon and the hope and the eternal life of the gospel? Ah, yes, my brother, he would, he would!

No man enjoys drinking the bitter dregs of remorse. No man for mere pleasure would allow Satan to keep on playing him alive, as Satan is doing to his victims all around us. Sometimes at first looks are deceiving in reference to the man who has been brought back to the fold. From the open door of the saloon or low haunt of vice we hear the songs and the guffaws of laughter. Then we say, "Oh, what a high carnival is this!" But stop. Is that all!

Do you see that young man who now comes toward us in seedy attire? His step is staggering. He is bleary-eyed and maudlin in drink. He turns down a side street and staggers on to his lodgings in the upper room of a poor tenement, where live his wife and four or five half-naked and half-starved children. That young man only ten years ago was dressed as well as you or I. He had then a finer business than you have now. He was once a man who was happy. Tell me, what man is happy? Is that the man whose wife so proudly stepped to the altar to give herself to him in marriage? Is that the young man her friends congratulated her upon marrying?

The Wages of Sin.
Call that fun? Fun to be kicked out of your home? Fun to have the sheriff sell your store over your head? Fun to have all your old friends turn their backs upon you and look upon you as an outcast? Through the midnight darkness I hear the echoing of the song of ten years ago now singing. The wages of sin is death. Oh, no, my friends, the wages of sin are not death. The wages of sin are misery and despair. The worst taskmaster on earth is the devil. No man so much wants to crush the power of sinful temptation as that man who has been compelled to drink the bitter dregs of despair. Do not despise him; pity him, and with gentle words try to win him back to honor and to Christ. He deserves your commiseration. Therefore, you and I are ready to go to God's outcasts. If we are ready to go to the sinners in Christ's name and say gently, "Brother, Jesus is ready to save you, Jesus wants me to be your friend and help you," there would be no difficulty in most cases about the spiritual rescue. But the trouble with this old hateful and hateful world is, as Josh Billings quaintly put it, "When a man starts downhill it seems as though everything was greased for the occasion." And when a man once strikes the bottom of the hill but very few people are ready to fling him the gospel rope and haul him up out of the mud. O man, can you not hear Christ speaking to you in behalf of the General Jobb about his wayward boy, "Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom."

Oh, how many sinners could be brought to Christ if we would only practice the gospel of a gentle life! It is said that one of the hardest criminals of an eastern penitentiary was converted by the gentleness of a little child. This little girl and her father were being shown through the prison wards. When the party came to a long flight of stairs the prisoner turned to this hardened life prisoner and murderer near by and said, "Jack, carry her upstairs." When the hard featured convict stooped down to pick up the little girl she looked up into his face with a smile and said, "Jack, will you kiss me?" And when he was about to put the little one down she said, "Now, Jack, will you let me kiss you?" No sooner were those last words spoken than the old criminal's heart was melted. God struck the rock of Horeb and it gushed forth with tears of penitence. Kindness did it. The gentleness of a little child accomplished what the blows of the keeper and the iron bars could never do. O man, will you not start forth from this moment to win sinful men and women to Jesus Christ by the omnipotent power of a gospelized life?

The Chief Mission of Man.
To save immortal souls for Christ ought to be the chief mission of man, in view of which fact again I ask the same question I asked before, Why should we not be gentle with the sinners and wrongdoers of other people? Has not God been very gentle in his dealings with our sins? When William E. Gladstone, the "great commoner" of England, was dying his son was reading to him this beautiful verse from Paul's epistle to young Timothy, "This is a faithful saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners," and no sooner did the son come to the word "sinners" than the dying statesman finished the verse, "of whom I am the chief." Yes, like William E. Gladstone, like Peter and Paul, we have all been the "chief of sinners." Therefore, if God deals gently with our sins, cannot we, shall not we, deal gently with the sins of others whom we want to bring to the cross?

We have seen how man in his devotion to man was ready to sacrifice his all for an earthly master. Cannot we, at least in the same ratio, be willing to sacrifice our lives to the service of Jesus Christ, to bring sinners to Christ through the influences of a gentle life. Amid a large gathering in London of literary men William Makepeace Thackeray one night said in reference to Shakespeare, whose name was being discussed, "I should like to have been Shakespeare's shoeblack, just to have lived in his house, just to have worshipped him, just to have run on his errands and have seen that sweet, serene face." If the greatest of all English satirists was ready to give such devotion to the greatest of all English dramatists should not we be willing to do what a living Christ wants us to do? Should we not, shall we not, gladly go forth to bring sinners back to the altar of mercy by kindness and Christian love? Charles Wagner, the Abolitionist, in pleasure loving Paris has rung the changes in the power of "the simple life." Today I preach the gospel of the "gentle life"—the tender gentleness by which God made David great and by which we can, through Christ, make others great, and, through Christ, become great ourselves.

Speak gently; it is a little thing. Dropped in the heart's deep well. The good, the joy, which it may bring. Sincerely, Louis Klopsch.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. D. A. North, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me. I felt that my sun had set, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily, and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use. ## Early Reports Indicated That Jackson Would Contest Smith's Election.

The wide spread report that Congressman Jackson would contest the seat of his successful opponent, Mr. Smith in the First District of Maryland has been a source of considerable speculation to both parties.

On first election returns when it was known that the Republican majority in Congress was so large and understood that Smith led by only a small plurality of less than a hundred—it was emphatically stated by leading republicans here that Jackson would surely contest. These reports came direct from the defeated millionaire himself and close friends, but it was in the heat of early news received by Jackson Tuesday night and morning at the new postoffice here when in company with other prominent republicans he confidently awaited tidings of his election over special Western Union wire. That he would be defeated seems not to have entered his calculations and there is no doubt but what he felt considerable chagrin at the result and even felt a degree of bitterness toward some of his trusted lieutenants whom he had relied on to carry certain districts.

Now that the heat of battle has cooled off Mr. Jackson takes a much more philosophical view of the situation. His private secretary, Elmer H. Walton is busily occupied in a thorough investigation of the vote over the entire District and says if reasonable evidence is procured that sufficiently more Republican than Democratic ballots were thrown out Congress will be asked to look into the matter. Otherwise Mr. Jackson will not contest.

The existence of a largely Republican House, Mr. Walton says will have no more weight than were it as much Democratic. The at present defeated Congressman continues reticent.

The wedding of Miss Annie McGill Parnell and George F. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Parnell, and for a number of years has been a teacher in the Georgetown public school. Mr. Sharpley is the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic railroad trainmaster and dispatcher at Salisbury, Md.

The church was decorated with autumn leaves and palms, and was filled with guests. The bride wore an imported gown of dark blue broadcloth, the jacket having a touch of white broadcloth and green panne velvet, and her hat, a French turban, was the shade of her gown. Miss Brown was gowned in brown voile trimmed with lace, and Miss McGill was attired in blue voile, trimmed with lace. Both carried pink chrysanthemums. Miss Lynch's costume was of brown voile, trimmed with lace, over canary silk. She carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bride received many costly gifts.

On The Eastern Shore.

For every Eastern Shoreman who loves the reputation of his native health there is a joy from Tuesday's election which should transcend any regret he may feel over the general result, however deep and serious his democracy may be.

The defeat of William H. Jackson for Congress is a triumph of decency. It is not so much that Jackson himself is to be censured. He was nominated by the republicans because of his money. He was expected to win with his money. The whole scheme was premeditated and prearranged and Mr. Jackson was simply the instrument of a party plan.

We are not concerned as to the distribution of the guilt. What is important and gratifying now is that corruption on the Eastern Shore has received a staggering blow. It means that no other man for years to come, however rich he may be, will invest $50,000 or $100,000 in the possibility of getting an office whose total salary is only $10,000. It means that the Eastern Shore, for a while at least, will be relieved from the blight of the horrors that follow in the wake of a corrupted ballot.—Baltimore Herald.

To Hon. Thomas A. Smith, the man who beat William H. Jackson, the good people of Maryland, without regard to party should extend their sincerest congratulations. In a contest where the Man beat the Money there should be no politics in the appreciations of right minded people.—Baltimore Herald.

POLITICAL AFTERMATH

Some Election Curios Of Voting Discrepancies Tuesday. Interesting Situations And The Outcome.

With the returns still incomplete, the plurality of Roosevelt will be over 2,000,000, the greatest plurality ever given an American candidate. The nearest approach to this was in 1896, when McKinley received a plurality approximating 850,000, and in 1872, when Grant received 726,991 plurality.

The banner Roosevelt State is Pennsylvania. Forty hours after the polls closed the returns from this State indicated that Roosevelt's plurality would reach 485,000. Next came Illinois, where the President polled approximately 290,000 more votes than, did Judge Parker. Ohio gave Roosevelt 200,000 and New York 174,000. Judge Parker carried Greater New York by only 41,000 votes.

The situation is interesting, because of the fact that the tickets in many of the States were cut. President Roosevelt ran ahead of his ticket in many localities, notably in Massachusetts, where he secured a plurality of 86,000 votes, while the Republican candidate for Governor was defeated by 35,000. In that State the Legislature is Republican, and the entire Republican ticket, with the exception of Governor was elected.

In Missouri, Roosevelt's plurality is 10,000 or more; the Legislature is Republican for the first time in 36 years; the Republicans gained seven Congressmen, electing eight out of 16. They also have every State office except that of Joseph W. Folk (Dem.), the St. Louis Prosecuting Attorney, made a splendid running for Governor and defeated Cyrus P. Walbridge by 36,000 or more plurality. In Colorado, although Roosevelt won the State by 15,000, Alva Adams, (Dem.), has beaten Governor Peabody by 10,000 or more.

There is a curious situation in Minnesota, where Roosevelt secured 125,000 plurality, but where a Democratic Governor and a Republican Lieutenant Governor were elected. The election of a Democratic Governor is the third in the history of the State. It was due to the Swedish vote.

In Nebraska the definite announcement that the Legislature is Republican disposes of the statement that William J. Bryan had aspirations for a United States Senatorship. Governor Mickey, Republican, is re-elected.

Death Of Josiah Johnson At A Good Old Age.

Mr. Josiah Johnson, aged 86 years, one of the oldest citizens of Wicomico county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dyson Humphreys, Wednesday afternoon with kidney complaint.

Mr. Johnson was born and raised near Rockawalking and was a farmer. For the past 70 years he has been a member and an active supporter of the Methodist Episcopal church at Rockawalking.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Louisa Byrd, one brother, Mr. William Johnson, and the following children: Mrs. Josephus Humphreys, Mrs. Dyson Humphreys, Mrs. A. H. Patrick, Mrs. J. L. Nelson, Mrs. Sidney Taylor, Messrs. William J. Albert and Woolford Johnson, all of this county.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock in the Rockawalking Methodist Episcopal church by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Fogle. Interment was made in the church yard. The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. Frank Johnson, J. Sidney Johnson, H. Crawford Bounds, George W. Byrd, W. A. Ennis and John Connolly.

REPUBLICAN VICTORY

One Of The Most Sweeping Of Many Presidential Years. Roosevelt Carries All Doubtful States. Some Remarkable Results.

Later and fuller returns everywhere show that the victory of the republican party is one of the most astonishing in America's political history. The candidacies of Watson and Debs probably contributed to the crushing defeat of democracy, but to what extent is not yet known.

President Roosevelt will probably have 325 votes in the electoral college and Parker 151. Roosevelt has every Northern state.

Parker has secured the lowest electoral vote of any democratic candidate since Greeley's time.

Every doubtful state fell into line in the republican column, and to the surprise of the republicans themselves, some by tremendous pluralities.

Democratic Governors.

Another surprise in the election is the fact that several Northern states, notably Massachusetts and Minnesota, elected democratic governors in the face of astonishing pluralities for Roosevelt.

Minnesota gives Roosevelt 100,000, but seems to have elected Johnson, (Dem.) for Governor by 10,000 plurality. Ring rule in the state disgusted many republicans and caused the upset. In Massachusetts Roosevelt has 75,000 plurality, but William L. Douglas, (Dem.) is elected Governor.

Peabody Defeated.

Colorado is close, but latest returns indicated that Adams, (democrat), has defeated Peabody, whose part in labor troubles evidently caused his defeat. Roosevelt carried the state by about 8000.

The honor of having the largest popular vote ever given to any national candidates has fallen to Roosevelt and Fairbanks. In many states the national ticket has run ahead of the McKinley vote of four years ago, while Parker is behind the Bryan vote.

The tidal wave bowled over a number of congressional and legislative candidates in New York who seemed to be assured of election. State Senator George W. Plunkitt, who has represented the Fifteenth district for years was one of these.

Complete Control of Congress. The House of Representatives will be strongly republican, the majority having been increased from thirty one to more than double that number. The democrats lost seats which were believed to be absolutely safe.

There was little change in the United States Senate as a result of the election.

Roosevelt's plurality in New York state is about 167,000, or 23,000 more than McKinley's huge vote of four years ago. The President's pluralities aggregate in round numbers 208,000 while Parker secured 39,000 in Greater New York outside of Brooklyn. Roosevelt's plurality in Brooklyn is 1229. Parker has 34,618 in New York, 3811 in Queens and 589 in Richmond.

Higgins (rep.), for Governor, is elected by between 75,000 and 80,000 over Herrick (dem.) The latter's election had been confidently predicted, but the Roosevelt wave carried Higgins to victory, though Higgins received 90,000 less votes than the President. Higgins pluralities up state aggregate 137,000. Herrick in Greater New York has about 79,000.

CHAPTER XVIII.
BOOMING roar came down
upon them from the frigate,
which had fired a broadside,
which was followed presently
by the whistling of shot over their heads. Great rents were seen in the canvas, pieces of running gear fell to the deck, there was a crashing, rending sound, and a part of the rail left standing about the mizzen shrouds smashed into splinters and drove inboard under the impact of a heavy shot.

One splinter struck the man at the helm in the side; he fell with a shriek
and lay white and still by the side of the wheel, which, no longer restrained
by his hand, spun round madly. Another splinter hit the sword of Talbot, breaking the blade and sweeping it
from his hand, and the unlucky scrap of paper was blown into the sea. The spanker sheet was cut in two, and the boom swept out to windward, knocking one of the men overboard. There was neither time nor opportunity to pick him up, and he went to his death unheeded.

Seymour dropped his sword, every instinct of a sailor aroused, and sprang to the horse block. The ship, left to itself, fell off rapidly before the wind.
Bentley jumped to seize the helm.

"Flow the head sheets there!" cried
the lieutenant. "Lively! Aft here and haul in the spanker! Brail up the fore-sail! Down, hard down with the helm!"

There was another broadside from the heavy guns of the frigate. Talbot replied with his stern chaser, and a cloud of splinters showed that the shot took effect, whirled the men at the gun cheered and loaded, and then crash went the mizzen topgallant mast above their heads.

"Lively, men!" shouted Seymour,
"we must get on the wind again or
we are lost."

"Breakers on the starboard bow!"
shrieked the lookout on the forecastle
suddenly. "Breakers on the port bow!"
His voice ran aft in a shrill scream
fraught with terror. "Breakers ahead!"

"Down, hard down with the helm, Bentley," said Seymour, himself springing over to assist the old man at the wheel.

Bentley raised his hand and kept the wheel steady. "Too late, sir, for that," he cried. "We are in the pass.
God help us now, sir. Mr. Seymour,
look to the ship, sir; look to the ship!"

The young officer sprang back on the horse block, his soul filled with horror.
So fate had decided for him at last,
and duty, not love, had won the mighty game. A third broadside passed harmlessly over the ship, doing little damage, the rough weather making impossible to tell.

Again the fieldpiece replied. Seymour never turned his head in the direction of the frigate. He could not look upon the catastrophe;
besides, the exigency of the situation
demanded that he give his whole mind
to conning the ship through the narrow pass. Bentley himself, assisted by a young sailor, kept the helm; the old seaman had charge of the braces.

The wreck of the mizzen topgallant mast was allowed to hang for the present.

The white water dashed about the ship in sheets of foam. They were well in the breakers now, and the most important eye could see the danger. One false movement meant disaster for the ship for whose safety Seymour had sacrificed so much. He did not make it. To his disordered fancy Katharine's white face looked up at him from every breaking wave. He steered his heart and gave his orders with as much ease and precision as if it had been a practice cruise. To the day of his death he could not account for his ability to do so. He made a splendid figure standing on the horse block; his hair blowing out in the wind, his face deadly pale, calm, cool, steady, his voice clear and even, but heard in every part of the ship. The heart of the old sailor at the helm yearned toward him and the seamen looked at him as if he had been a demigod. He never once looked back, but from the cries of the men he could follow every motion of the frigate behind him. The frigate, the unsuspicious frigate, had followed the course of the transport exactly and was coming down to the deadly rocks like a hurricane.

Talbot, his quarrel forgotten for the moment, ceased firing and stood, with all of the men who could be spared from their stations, looking aft at the tremendous drama being played.

"The frigate! Look at the frigate!" She's going to strike, sir!" cried one of the seamen excitedly—old Thompson, who had sailed upon her. "See, they see the breakers. Now there go the head yards. It won't do. It's too late.
My God, she strikes, she strikes! I'll have one more shot at her before she goes!" he shrieked, taking hastily aim
over the loaded fieldpiece and touching the priming. "Aye, and hit too.
Hurrah! Hurrah! To Tophet with ye,
where ye belong, ye!"

"Silence aft!" shouted Seymour, in a voice of thunder. "Keep fast that gun, and another cheer like that and I put you in Irons, Thompson!"

blew a heavy gale; no boat, no human being, could live in such a sea. The waters rushed over her at every sweep,
and she was fast breaking up before them. Night had fallen, and darkness
at last enshrouded her as she faded out of view. A drop of snow fell lightly upon the cold cheek of the young sailor, and the men gazed into the night
in silence, appalled by the awful catastrophe. Bentley, understanding it all,
laid his hand lightly on Seymour's arm,
saying softly:

"Better clear the wreck and get the mizzen topsail and the fore and main sail in, sir, and reef the fore and main topsails. The spars are buckling fearfully. She can't stand much more."

"Oh, Bentley," he said with a sob,
and then, mastering himself, he gave the necessary orders to clear away the wreck and take in the other sails and reef the topsails, in order to put the ship in proper trim for the rising storm; after which, the wind now permitting, the ship was headed for Philadelphia.

As Seymour turned to go below he came face to face with Talbot. The two men stood gazing at each other in silence.

"We still have an account to settle,
Mr. Talbot," he said sternly.

"My God," said Talbot hesitatingly,
"wasn't it awful? How small, Seymour, are our quarrels in the face of that," pointing out into the darkness.
"Such a tremendous catastrophe as
that is!"

Seymour looked at him curiously. The man had not yet fathomed the depth of the catastrophe to him evidently.

"As for the quarrel," he continued in a manly, generous way, "I—perhaps I was wrong, Mr. Seymour. I know I was, but I have loved her all my life.
I am sorry I spoke so, and I beg your pardon. But—won't you tell me about the note now?"

A great pity for the young man filled
Seymour's heart in spite of his own sorrow. "I loved her too," he said quietly. "The note was sent to me from Gwynn's Island, where they were confined. I had offered myself to her
the night of the raid—just before it, in fact—and she accepted me. The note was mine. Where is it?"

"Oh," said Talbot softly, lifting his hand to his throat. "And I loved her,
too, and she is yours. Forgive me, Seymour; you won her honorably. I was too confident—a fool. The note is gone into the sea. We cannot quarrel about it now."

"There can be no quarrel between us now, Talbot. She is mine no more than yours. She—she"—He paused, choking. "She!"

"Oh, what is it? Speak, man!" cried Talbot in sudden fear which he could not explain. Philip Wilton had drawn near and was listening eagerly.

"That ship there—the Radnor, you know—is lost, and all on board of her must have perished long since."
"Yes, yes, it's awful! But what of that—what of Katharine?"

"Don't you remember the note? Colonel Wilton and she were on the Radnor!"

The strain of the last hour had undermined the nervous strength of the young soldier. He looked at Seymour, half dazed.

"It can't be," he murmured. "Why did you do it? How could you?" The world turned black before him. He recoiled as if from a blow and would have fallen if Seymour had not caught him. Philip strained his gaze out over the dark water.

"Oh, my father, my father!" he cried.
"Mr. Seymour, is there no hope—no chance?"

"None whatever, my boy; they are gone."

Two severe cases of Ovarian Trouble
and two terrible operations avoided. Mrs.
Emmons and Mrs. Coleman each tell how they were saved by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am so pleased with the results obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it a duty and a privilege to write you about it."

"I suffered for more than five years with ovarian troubles, causing an unpleasant discharge, a great weakness, and at times a faintness would come over me which no amount of medicine, diet, or exercise seemed to correct. Your Vegetable Compound found the weak spot, however, within a few weeks—and saved me from an operation—all my troubles had disappeared, and I found myself once more healthy and well. Words fail to describe the real, true, grateful feeling that is in my heart, and I want to tell every sick and suffering sister. Don't dally with medicines you know nothing about, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and take my word for it, you will be a different woman in a short time."—Mrs. LAURA EMMONS, Walkerville, Ont.

Another Case of Ovarian Trouble Cured Without an Operation.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For several years I was troubled with ovarian trouble and a painful
and inflamed condition, which kept me in bed part of the time. I did so dread a surgical operation that I tried different remedies hoping to get better,
but nothing seemed to bring relief until a friend who had been cured of ovarian trouble, through the use of your compound, induced me to try it. I took it faithfully for three months, and at the end of that time was glad to find that I was a well woman. Health is nature's best gift to woman,
and if you lose it and can have it restored
through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel that all suffering women should know of this."—Mrs. LUCIA BELLE COL-MAN, Commercial Hotel, Nashville, Tenn.

It is well to remember such letters as above when some druggist tries to get you to buy something which he says is "just as good." That is imposham's Vegetable Compound; accept no other and you will be glad.

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything

AND NOW.

In all the surprise that Tuesday's election produced over the States, it is a matter of hearty felicitation to Democrats all over the First district of Maryland that a Congressman from their own ranks has been selected by the people to succeed "Old Man Bill" as it is facetiously said his friends know him best by. Thus ends the second term of Hon. William H. Jackson and the return of the wayfaring Eastern Shore Congressional district to its natural sphere.

In the face of nearly, if not fully, the immense sum of $100,000 in this district, or an average of about $12,000 to the county, spent by the Republican party, it shows there must have been a mighty sentiment in favor of the redemption of the district by the Democratic party, which refused to be bought, and righteously spurned the would-be buyer of manhood and natal rights.

Wicomico has cause for self congratulation in its splendid rebuff of Republican national domination and Republican money bags. Here the fight was hottest and most fiercely contested. The voters said nay and Wicomico stays in the Democratic list.

In order to intelligently review the causes of National defeat and victory in view of such tremendous discrepancies as occurred, notably in Missouri and Massachusetts, it would be necessary to be familiar with many local conditions and methods.

That the county at large has given Roosevelt such an unprecedented majority, must with all other factors fully recognized, be conceded as due to the overwhelming amount of commercialism and ready dollars of the two thousand millionaires and millionaire trusts who wanted and were willing to pay for another Republican administration.

This course should be taken primarily and subsidiary to this may be reckoned a feeling of general contentment or resignation at the present conditions, while in the sum total many a vote can be traced to an ardent admirer of Rooseveltism. Here there are, no doubt who, like the moth, have been caught in the flare and glare of Roosevelt's sensational stage plays to attract the attention and keep in the eyes of the American people. Now that Roosevelt is returned let us trust he will have a higher regard for the exalted office of President of the United States—the greatest nation on the globe, and depart himself no longer as a phenomenal stage actor before a wide-eyed public but deport himself as Shakespeare says, with a more becoming dignity.

The amazing victory of Joseph W. Folk, in Missouri, and Wm. L. Douglas in Massachusetts, furnishes the Democratic party food for sound, wholesome thought. Anti-bribery at home and reciprocity in our foreign relations will form a powerful rallying standard the States through, and if properly placed before the American people in time, will over-ride even the weight and enmity of enormous Trust combinations.

TUESDAY'S ELECTION.

Significant in the present condition of national affairs is the result of Tuesday's election. The unprecedented vote for Roosevelt implies either great personal popularity, general belief in the prosperity of the country and satisfaction with the policies of the government or an avalanche of vote buying with an enormous Republican corruption fund all through the doubtful states. With the desire to be fair to all concerned, while the latter is the most logical and credible cause, no doubt the other possible elements played a secondary part.

There is large room also for the belief that general satisfaction in present living conditions arrayed many of the American people on the imperialistic side.

Democratic victory through the election of Hon. Thos. A. Smith to Congress is a matter for sincere felicitation and hearty congratulations to the party and the people in the First Congressional District, and over the entire State. The odds against his election seemed overwhelming and yet Jackson went down.

Addicks Again Barred From The U. S. Senate, Lacking Five Votes.

Revised estimates of the next General Assembly of Delaware show that J. E. Addicks is no nearer his ambition to the United States Senate than he was at the last session of the Legislature. There will be thirty-one republicans and twenty-one democrats on joint ballot in the Legislature, requiring twenty seven to elect. At the most liberal estimate Addicks cannot get more than twenty two votes.

In New Castle county the republicans have only six representatives and four senators. The republicans are set down as stage opponents of Addicks and that is why they were elected. Addicks would have to get five of them to make up his twenty seven. Thus there is no expectation that he can be elected.

Preston Lea for Governor suffered somewhat at the hands of Chandler's friends, but he will have 2500 plurality in the state. Dr. H. R. Burton is sent to Congress and all the republican ticket is elected by a verified plurality of 4500.

President Roosevelt Not to Run Again.

President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for another term. After the election returns clearly indicated the result he gave out the following:

"I am deeply sensible of the honor done me by the American people in thus expressing their confidence in what I have done and have tried to do. I appreciate to the full the solemn responsibility this confidence imposes upon me, and I shall do all that in my power lies not to forfeit it. On the fourth of March next I shall have served three and a half years, and this three and a half years constitutes my first term. The wise custom which limits the President to two terms regards the substance and not the form. Under no circumstances will I be a candidate for or accept another nomination."

The Ithaca Whistles.

In Ithaca they whistle for it. The whistle on the sewer pumping station blows at 8, 12, 1 and 5 o'clock to announce the municipal rallying day of eight hours. At 11 o'clock the weather report is blown to the four winds by a code of blasts and shrieks and toots, and when there are special reports announcing cold waves or snowstorms these are whistled without delay so that he who listens may learn.

At 12:30 there is a warning blast, at which every one pulls out his watch and gets the standard eastern time fresh from the pipe. And then at 8 o'clock in the evening there is just one long blast, which announces that curfew will not ring tonight, but that every boy and girl under sixteen years must scurry for home and mother or be caught by one of the five regular policemen or perhaps a special who is watching out for the well being of the rising generation.

Furthermore, there is a siren whistle which screams for fire and flood. It gives the number of the box, and if it's a flood that is going to waste with a crowd to watch it eight short blasts follow the announcement of the box number.—Elmhurst Advertiser.

Salvation Army Funds.

There is a disposition in England to worry General Booth about the custody of the Salvation Army funds, for the army now has an annual income of about $5,000,000. The Britishers do not make any reflections upon the general, but they think it would be only businesslike for him to have joined with him at least one other trustee.—Exchange.

Mr. Wright Lorimer and scene from "The Shepherd King," which is to be presented at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, for two weeks, beginning November 14th.

"The Shepherd King."

Wright Lorimer's great production of "The Shepherd King" comes to the Academy of Music, Baltimore, for a two weeks visit, November 14th. In New York and Boston, where it has already enjoyed extended runs, it proved a revelation, and from the first night the demand for seats was so great that many orders had to be returned unfilled.

The size of the production has provided a source of amazement not only to theater goers but to managers as well. It is without doubt the greatest spectacle ever presented on an American stage, being what might be termed a size larger than "Ben Hur," which has heretofore enjoyed that distinction.

The presenting company members over two hundred, while the stage hands and those in charge of the mechanical and other arrangements are an even hundred in number. When compressed as greatly as possible there was not too to be found in Boston or New York a stage large enough to store the settings, and while one act was in progress, express wagons were kept hurrying between theatre and various storehouses, carrying scenery for the acts to follow. The scenes are noted for their artistic value; each is a triumph of harmonious color and magnificent effects, and the costumes rival them in gorgeousness.

The play itself is powerfully appealing in its intensity. The story is that of the young David and involved of course tales of the acrid minded and tempestuous Saul, the sublime prophet Samuel and the hideous witch of Endor.

Wright Lorimer, who is part author of the piece and plays the role of David, is a sincere and skilled actor of artistic ability. He has sprung into great public notice with a bound. At one leap he has gone up many rungs of the glittering ladder of fame. Practically unknown, even in the large eastern cities a year ago, today his reputation is only less than that of the greatest of American stars.

In a company numbering two hundred it is only possible to name those who have leading roles and who have naturally had most opportunity to distinguish themselves. These include Charles Kent who is seen as King Saul; Edward Mackey as Jonathan, his son; Percival Lennon as Phalti; O'Kane Hilles as Jesse, the father of David; Henry Marlowe as Samuel, the prophet; May Buckley and Nellie Reed as Michal and Merab, daughters of Saul; Margaret Hayward as the Witch of Endor, and Benjamin Williams as Goliath the giant of Gath. There are immense choruses of singers, dancers, soldiers, slaves and Nubians, besides the others in the cast.

The drama is given in four acts and five scenes. Act I shows the home of David, the shepherd boy, near Bethlehem; Act II, the camp of Saul in the vale of Elah; Act III, the palace of Saul at Gibeon; and Act IV, the cave of the Witch of Endor and the court adjoining to palace of Gibeon. The action consumes three years.

In a production of this size every essential had to be specially prepared, even down to the wigs and sandals, and the piece is expected to produce a sensation in Baltimore such as no spectacle of its kind has ever produced.

Electric Light Plants in Salisbury.

An electric light plant with a capacity of 900 twenty four candle power lamps is being installed by the Jackson Brothers Company in their No. 3 mill. The plant will consist of two improved dynamos, one for day and one for night current. Power will be obtained from the boilers of the mill, a new improved engine being used to force the dynamos. The day current will be used by the Peninsula General Hospital to operate the elevators and to use for cooking purposes in the dietary kitchens of the Hospital. A line of water pipes to supply the institution with water is also being laid from the big mill.

T. H. Mitchell, proprietor of the Salisbury Wood Working Factory, has just installed an electric plant for lighting his office, mill and warehouses. The dynamo is one of the latest patterns, having a capacity of one hundred sixteen candle incandescent lights and is driven by an independent engine. Lamps are arranged at each of the machines in the factory and work is carried on night as well as day. Mr. Mitchell says the plant is giving perfect satisfaction.

Benjamin Disharoon Also Brought To Hospital Here.

Benjamin Disharoon, who with his brother, Turner Disharoon, who now lies in the Peninsula General Hospital, shot by someone trying to steal some of the Disharoon brother's claims was brought to the hospital this week, suffering much pain.

Benjamin received a flesh wound in the thigh. The bullet was not found, but it was thought that the wound had all right. Instead of doing this, however, an abscess formed and caused Mr. Disharoon severe pain. It was decided to bring him to Salisbury to the Peninsula General Hospital. He was first carried to the Humphreys Therapeutic Institute, where, after placing him under the X-ray, the bullet was located and extracted. He was then taken to the Hospital, where he and his brother are doing nicely.

—Corruption Money in Delaware.

—"Don't bet on the result of the election. Republicans are sure to win. Paying as high as $75 a vote." The above comprised a telegram received by a member of the Young Men's Democratic Club from a prominent Democrat in the lower part of Delaware on the eve of the election.

On investigation it was found that there was a large Republican campaign fund in the State, and it is said that vote buying was rampant, chiefly in the lower counties.

Reports as to the size of the corruption fund vary, but it is said on pretty good authority that $147,000 was sent to Kent and Sussex counties on the Saturday before the election. Of this $20,000 is said to have been contributed through the efforts of men who are understood to have been Regular Republicans heretofore; $50,000 is said to have come from outside sources and the remainder is understood to have been proceeds of a large note which was discounted in Philadelphia on Saturday.

DO YOU GET UP

WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspaper is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but it will find just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

MORE EVIDENCE.

It is Coming in Rapidly in Salisbury.

Evidence on the following subject will prove of interest to every Salisbury reader. So many people go through the same experience daily. This public state end should be proof positive to every wavering doubter. Read it carefully:

J. C. Coulbourn, farmer, living two miles south of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it, but later on had two more similar attacks, and since then there has been no time when I could say that I was wholly free from the distressing pain across my back. I doctored a great deal, and I believe tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me which came to my notice from reading, but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and procured a box at White & Leonard's drug store. Had the first box not brought about some relief, I never could have been induced to get the second nor the third. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me undoubted benefit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Thomas, of Cecilton, sailed from New York Saturday for Brazil, where they will engage in missionary work for the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Is Pleasant To Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after-effects. For sale by All Druggists."

The public school at Mount Washington, Baltimore county, that had been closed on account of the presence of diphtheria in the village, was reopened on Wednesday last.

The Best Liniment.

"Chamberlain's Pain Balm is considered the best liniment on the market," writes Post & Blise, of Georgia, Va. No other liniment will heal a cut or bruise so promptly. No other affords such quick relief from rheumatic pains. No other is so valuable for deep-seated pains like lame back and pains in the chest. Give this liniment a trial and become acquainted with its remarkable qualities and you will never wish to be without it. For sale by All Druggists.

By firing his revolver, R. C. Hopkins, president of the Citizens' National Bank of Havre de Grace, frightened away a burglar who was endeavoring to enter his residence at Port Deposit.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck, and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from Throat and Lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Crager, of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all Throat and Lung diseases by all druggists. ## FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way Of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy that the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and bought a quick relief and cured the baby." It is remedy for sale by All Druggists.

I write this to show how well the remedy is spoken of here." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure was discovered after years of scientific experiments and will positively cure all stomach troubles. ## $100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The healthy old man wears his gray hairs like a silver crown. What if he be three-score and ten if there is still fire in his eye, firmness in his step, command in his voice and wisdom in his counsel? He commands love and reverence. Yet how few wear the mantle of age with dignity. Dime-eyed, querulous of speech, halting in step, childish in mind, "lag superfluous on the stage," dragging out the faded life in a simple existence. The rest of a healthy old age is a healthy middle age. The man who takes care of his stomach, who keeps his body properly nourished, will find that the body does not fail him in old age. The great value of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery lies in the preservation of the working power of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. From this center is distributed the nourishment of the whole body, the salt for the blood, the lime for the bones, phosphates for the brain and nerves. A sound stomach means a sound man. A man who keeps his stomach sound by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" will wear the crown of gray hairs as bristly as a monarch, with dignity and ease.

INDIANS AND THE ARMY.

The Old Time Officers Were the Redskins' Best Friends.

"The best friend the Indian ever had was the old time regular army officer," said T. P. Montgomery, a cattle raiser of Miles City, Mont., the other day, "and incidentally the best friend the young cub officer just out of West Point ever had was the old time Indian. I have lived in Montana, Nebraska and Idaho practically all my life, and I saw and took part in many of the Indian campaigns of twenty and thirty years ago. During the Indian wars I saw hundreds of things to prove to me the bonds of friendship existing between the boy officer and the wily old Indian even when the latter was on the warpath."

"In the summer of 1870, about the time of Custer and the Little Big Horn, I was in Montana. The Cheyenne Sioux were giving the settlers trouble, and two troops of cavalry had been sent after them and were encamped on what is now my own ranch. The old officers at that time had a habit of sending out a lieutenant with three or four men on scouting expeditions."

"The young fellows just out of the Point would gallivant around the country, running down Indians and half the time not succeeding very well. During this Cheyenne outbreak this plan was followed, and a merciful Providence alone knows how near to death some of these young army fellows came."

"One old Indian told me afterward that he and a party of his scouts were in hiding one afternoon when a lieutenant and three privates rode by looking for them and less than twenty yards from where the Indians were hidden. Did the Indians shoot? Of course not. They knew the young lieutenant, had probably swapped tobacco with him, and they allowed him to pass by unharmed."

"You will find in the west today that practically no prejudice exists against the Indian on the part of the old army officer—the officer who fought Indians on the plains in the sixties and seventies, when fighting was real fighting. Many of the officers, strange as it may seem, were adopted into the various Indian tribes, against some of which they were afterward compelled to fight."—Washington Post.

The Informal Danish King.

The people of Copenhagen, writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle, betry no surprise when they see their venerable monarch approaching, and they treat his appearance in the streets as one of the ordinary daily incidents.

King Christian takes his walks abroad quite informally and without ceremony. A year or two ago I was walking in Copenhagen with an Englishman resident in that beautiful and delightful city, and he called my attention to a stately white haired gentleman with a kindly face who came toward us leaning on a stout cane. As we drew level with him he stopped and extended his hand to another pedestrian who had saluted him respectfully and unobtrusively exchanged greetings.

Then he strode on, and but for the lifting of hats and the genial acknowledgment of salutations there was no sign that a sovereign was making a progress in his capital.

Eats With Gold Chopsticks.

So far as personal appearance goes the Chinese empress is a picture of vigor, with piercing black eyes, hair dyed jet black and pretty little hands, whose nails, several inches long, are protected by golden shields like elongated thimbles. Tai An is a very vain of these hands, which, according to Chinese notions, are extremely beautiful, and she is equally proud of her long hair, which she parts in front and brushes over her ears. Mantel of fashion. At the back it is held by a long jade pin, like a paper cutter, tasseled in crimson and decorated with artificial flowers and golden butterflies. At dinner she eats with gold chopsticks, talks much and smokes a little. For her age she is remarkably well preserved, with nothing coarse in her countenance and nothing to indicate the low origin alleged by her enemies. She is fond of music and will appreciate a musical box when she cannot have a band.

Bought on Mark Twain.

Mark Twain tells an interesting story in connection with the late Charles Darwin. He was informed by a friend, who was visiting the eminent scientist, that he had noticed a copy of "The Innocents Abroad" lying on the great man's table. Darwin requested him on no account to disturb the book, as it was his practice to read it night and morning. On the appearance of Darwin's biography, Mark Twain hastened to purchase a copy in order to ascertain what reference to himself it might contain. There was, however, no mention whatever of his name, the only possible allusion to him being the statement that Darwin in his old age suffered from some kind of brain paralysis which prevented him from following his ordinary mental pursuits and compelled him to solace himself with "trashy novels and vacuous humor."

NEW YORK FASHIONS:

Independent Waists: Plain Flannels: Silk and Lace Waists: Furs: Persian Lamb Jackets: Garments: Boats: Evening Cloaks.

Judging from the variety of materials shown for shirt waists, they seem more firmly entrenched than ever; and with reason, as in the plain styles, nothing is so convenient or economical, and in the high class varieties, nothing is so captivating. For morning wear, traveling or golfing, the flannel waist is "just the thing," and in fine quality French flannels, or those of domestic manufacture, the gay plaids or stripes are really charming, made up either straight or on the bias, with gilt or pearl buttons in twos or threes at each side of the front. The Plain Flannels are well represented in both silk or wool, plainly made with small buttons as the sole trimming. Poplins, lousines or taffetas are also appropriate for shirt waists.

Plain White Flannel Waists

embroidered in crimson, blue or brown dots, with small sprays on the centre plait at the front are also very attractive. Velvet, the soft velveteens with chiffon finish, or crushed velvet waists are very effective, and lightened by white lace or embroidery are suitable for evening or theatre wear. All waists of the above mentioned material.

ials are plainly made, a French back, a small blouse front and medium sized sleeves with a cuff, and either tucked yokes or long plaits, preserving the original idea of the shirt waists. Plain white or colored silk waists with lace yokes or of figured or plain mesaline, embroidered or figured crepe de chine, white broadcloth, lace of all descriptions, net chiffon or a combination of two laces, are called "dressy waists."

Furs

as presented by C. C. Shayne, are more attractive than ever, including ermine, Russian and Hudson Bay sable, chinchilla, mink, broadtail Persian lamb, seal and dark Eastern mink. Practical garments for utility wear are made of Persian lamb about twenty-four inches in length, some however being twenty seven inches long, and without a collar, as a neck piece of another fur is considered more stylish. Fancy jackets are made of broadtail, with collar, revers and cuffs of ermine, chinchilla or mink. Some medium length coats of various furs are trimmed with ermine mink, chinchilla, squirrel or mole skin, with sleeves wide, near the large, open cuff, and have an independent neck piece.

Many Persian Lamb Jackets

are in a modified blouse style with contrasting revers, collar and cuffs. Three quarter length coats come in Hudson Bay or Russian sable, mink, chinchilla, ermine, broadtail and seal. Less expensive ones are of squirrel, mole skin or curiel. For round or flat bosom, the furs most generally used are Russian or Hudson Bay sable, mink, ermine, martens, Alaska sable, skunk, lynx, bear, sable dyed or natural squirrel and all the fox furs in addition. Combination neck pieces, made of mole skin and ermine, are particularly pretty, and muffs also show the advantages of two furs. The flat and round muffs are both stylish.

Illustration:

Pale gray ladies cloth is used for this smart street suit, supplied by the Modes Fashion and Pattern Co., of this city. The white broadcloth vest is embroidered with silver and fastened with tiny silver buttons. The skirt is shaped with seven gores, fitted around the waist and hips without darts.

Evening Wraps

are either on the loose, three quarter coat style, or else capes, most of which are overloaded with trimming. The principal materials are broadcloth, satin, covered with chiffon and lace, crushed velvet or plush. A handsome cloak can be made at home, with a correct pattern of white, pale hued lavender or crimson broadcloth, adding a lace collar and border, or an entirely plain cloak with single bias folds around the shoulders, on the sleeves and lower edge is beyond question.

FRANCE—DIRICKSON

Wedding Beautifully Solemnized At The Bride's Home Wednesday Morning. Happy Wishes Attend Them.

The Cedars Wednesday was the scene of a typical Southern wedding to celebrate the marriage of Miss Harriett E. Dirickson, second daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Dirickson to Dr. Alexander Rodman France, of Cockeysville, Md. The old house was prettily decorated with dainty Asparagus fern as a background for chrysanthemums of every hue and variety. The reception room was the scene of the ceremony. A vine draped altar was improvised against a background of tall orange trees in bearing. The Rev. David Howard of Salisbury officiated. A novel feature was added to a pretty wedding by the groups of negro servants peeping through the green garlanded windows. The bride was becomingly attired in a handsome traveling costume, consisting of a gown of brown broadcloth, a blouse of champagne tinted liberty satin and a toque of shaded brown velvet and silk. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Ellen Kent Dirickson, of New York. Mr. Oscar Britton of Baltimore lent dignity and jollity to the occasion in his capacity as best man.

After the ceremony the guests were served a breakfast which proved to be a bright and most informal affair. Toast followed toast and songs and speeches all tended to show the happy couple the high esteem in which their friends held them. The wedding party were then photographed by the Rev. Mr. Howard. A number of the guests accompanied the newly wedded pair to the train and made enthusiastic use of their privilege in wishing God speed to the accompaniment of flying rice. Mr. Williams France, the groom's brother, Mr. Marston and Mr. Britton also left on the same train that conveyed Mr. and Mrs. France to Baltimore, their future home. The bride was the recipient of many gifts which were strikingly beautiful.

Among those present were Mrs. T. F. Houston, of Stockton, T. F. Sharp, of Franklin City, consins of the bride. Messrs. Marston and Britton of Baltimore, friends of Mr. France, Mr. William France of Cockeysville, brother of the groom, Miss Ella Kent Dirickson of New York, and Miss Anna Lippincott of Easton, Md., the Misses Nann and sister, Andasia Parnell of Snow Hill, and Miss Maud Whaley of Bishopville. —Berlin Herald.

WINS BY ADVERTISING

A Genuine Democratic Policy. Wm. L. Douglas Pursues Successful Business Methods in Politics and Wins By Over 100,000.

"Publicity and a real issue," that is William L. Douglas' laconic explanation of his phenomenal victory in being elected the Democratic Governor of Massachusetts yesterday, with Roosevelt carrying the State 80,000.

Such a freak of politics is unparalleled in old Massachusetts. Mr. Douglas was not merely elected—he won by a plurality about five times as large as any Democratic and second in size to the plurality of any Republican candidate for governor in the history of the State. And to emphasize and isolate his victory, he was the only Democrat to win, all the Republicans from Lieut. Gov. Curtis Guild down getting the normal vote.

Already Mr. Douglas is being nominated for President in 1908, and hailed as the newly raised Moses, who is to lead the Democratic hosts in a war on the trusts next time. His victory has given a terrible jar to the Lodge machine, and is being interpreted as an ominous warning to the "Stand-patters."

It was a sign board and newspaper victory. Every sign board in the State and every newspaper made his war cry of "Reciprocity—no protection to the trusts" as familiar as the wood cuts of him in the advertisements. They carried the story of his humble early life as a shoe pegger, a doffer boy, a driver of a prairie schooner, finally a modest shoemaker and at last a millionaire manufacturer to every corner and crossroads. Posters and newspaper saturated the public with Douglas and his idea.

The next governor of Massachusetts is a self made business man, with all the marks of his successful kind. He moves rapidly and speaks decisively. He is medium framed, neither large nor tall, oval faced, gray, bald, his head high in the crown and he wears a stiff, bristly mustache.

The Issue Defined.

"I was elected," said he, "because I made my fight upon a single live, human issue which reached straight into the intimate, everyday affairs of men and women—because of that issue and a generous use of publicity. Advertising had made my business pay, and I used it to the limit in arousing and directing the sentiment which I knew to be widespread on the subject which was our chief issue—reciprocity and tariff relief."

"The central committee ran the campaign—we ran the advertising down at Brockton. From the outset my idea was to keep our fight and our issue right before the people—to keep just a little more in the public view than the Republican candidate."

"To put your picture in the newspapers labelled 'Vote for John Smith' is money wasted. You've got to tell why. We made our advertising pay. We put a poster on every blank wall in the State with my picture in colors in the center and scenes depicting the episodes of my life from the time I started as shoe pegger, at 7, to the present. We had that printed in all the newspapers. Every paper printed the story of my life with the history of our fight."

—All persons are hereby warned not to trespass with dog or gun or with any kind of a vehicle on either of my farms in Parsons District, Wilcox county, under penalty of law. Mrs. Sallie A. Cannon. St.

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Scott's Emulsion.

Good Roads Progress In Maryland Outside Of Wicomico.

So far have the counties of Maryland progressed in the effort to obtain State aid road law, that the return of another autumn will witness a number of new macadam roads in the State, built upon scientific lines. Surveys for seven pieces of road in Allegany county and for two pieces in Harford county have been completed under the supervision of the Highway Division of the Maryland Geological Survey; and the surveying of four miles of road in Washington county, from Clear spring to Conococheague River, which is now in progress, will be followed at the earliest possible date by the surveys of three important roads in Prince George county.

In order to obtain the road surveys, specifications and estimates free of cost, the counties are endeavoring to file their applications before the first of the next year. Wherever this is not done, one half the cost of the surveys, specifications and estimates must be paid by the counties themselves.

Caroline and Dorchester counties now also come to the front in their determination to give the road question a thorough consideration. As the best means of effecting this, large public meetings of the county residents will be held in Cambridge and Denton in the next two weeks, when the County Commissioners will be present and a full discussion upon the matter will be thrown open.

Besides the surveying for State roads there has been some excellent road work accomplished with private means in Harford county, where the construction of the Churchville, Havre de Grace and the Forest Hill roads are progressing steadily under the provisions of the Woolsey good roads fund.

THE SON OF EX- U. S. MINISTER TO ENGLAND

Commends Pe-ru-na to All Catarrh Sufferers.

Hon. Louis E. Johnson is the son of the late Reverend Johnson who was United States Senator from Maryland, 1860 Attorney General under President Johnson, and United States Minister to England, and who was regarded as the greatest constitutional lawyer that ever lived.

In a recent letter from 1006 F St., N. W., Washington, D. C., Mr. Johnson says: "No one should longer suffer from catarrh when Peruna is accessible. To my knowledge it has caused relief to so many of my friends and acquaintances, that it is humanity to commend its use to all persons suffering with this distressing disorder of the human system."—Louis E. Johnson.

Catarrh Poisons.
Catarrh is capable of changing all the life-giving secretions of the body into scalding fluids, which destroy and inflame every part they come in contact with. Applications to the places affected by catarrh can do little good save to soothe or quiet disagreeable symptoms. It is not that catarrh, sprays, atomizers and inhalants only serve as temporary relief.

THE SHEPHERD KING

Attracting Large Crowds At The Academy In Baltimore Where It Is The Deserved Success Of The Season.

The immediate and emphatic success of Mr. Wright Lorimer in "The Shepherd King" at the Academy of Music, Baltimore, has become a matter of comment. Mr. Lorimer has simply duplicated the success which he honestly and deservedly won in New York and Boston. "The Shepherd King" is the most gorgeously mounted play ever seen on the American stage, and every one of its four acts and five scenes won instant recognition from the enormous audiences that have been in attendance at the Academy during the past week.

Mr. Lorimer's individual work was a revelation. That he is a genius and a great actor has already been demonstrated. His performance of David is a masterpiece of characterization, as he fully realizes all the ideal pictures of that great hero of the race from which sprang the Redeemer of mankind.

In the beauty of its scenery and the splendor of its mounting "The Shepherd King" shares with Ben Hur the distinction of being the finest stage production that Baltimore has ever seen. Especially are the settings notable for their artistic value. Each is a triumph of harmonious color, of magnificent effects, and the costumes rival them in gorgeousness.

The first act, showing the home of David, near Bethlehem, surpasses everything that Henry Irving has ever given us, and there is a Belasco skill in manipulating the lights, while realism on the stage is heightened by an excellent exhibition in the fleeting sky, the cloud effects and the change from daylight to darkness. Pretty as this scene is, it is surpassed in the second act, which shows the camp of Saul in the vale of Eliah. A round of applause, which lasted several minutes, greeted this beautiful setting.

The third act is even more gorgeous than the other two. In fact the scenery alone could carry "The Shepherd King" along to success. The story is handled in a manner to call for reverence, and is so artistically done that the preacher can come forward and recommend to his flock that here is a play destined to purify the atmosphere. There will be a special Thanksgiving Matinee.

FOUR NEW MILE ROADS REAL ESTATE CHANGES

Selected With Salisbury As Centre, By County Commissioners Tuesday Under Provision of New State Law. Wise Step For Substantial Progress.

The question of granting new roads in Wicomico county was taken up and settled Tuesday by the County Commissioners. Eight petitions from different parts of the county for one mile each had been filed but from lack of funds but four of these could be granted. The Middle Neck road, the Snow Hill road, the Nanticoke road and the Powellville road, were selected, each mile to begin at the end of the present shell road.

At the recent meeting of the taxpayers of the county held in Salisbury it was decided to accept the conditional appropriation of the State made by the last Legislature. Notice was then given that petitions from the different sections of the county that wanted new roads and were willing to pay ten per cent of the cost of their mile, would be received by the Commissioners until November 15. It was remarked and no one thought at that time that there would be more petitions received than could be granted. But notwithstanding this, $40,000 worth of new road calling for twice as much money as the county has at its disposal this year for the purpose, has been asked for. The other petitions will be taken up next year and be given precedence over others that may come in afterwards.

The citizens of Wicomico county are fully alive to the needs of good roads and are willing to pay any reasonable cost to get them, which fact is very gratifying to the County Commissioners and others substantially interested. The press from other sections are taking notice of her move in the good roads direction and are holding her up as an example to the other counties in the State.

The material for the roads has not as yet been decided upon but each new mile will likely be built of some good macadam and cost about $5,000. The work will be given out by contract to the lowest bidder. The Clerk was ordered to notify the petitioners to file bonds agreeing to pay their ten per cent of the cost of their mile by November 22.

Method of Procedure.

The County Commissioners of a county petition the State Commission for aid to build a certain piece of road. If it is found upon examination by the Commission that the road in question is one of general public convenience and a proper one to construct, an estimate of the cost of the improvement is made, together with plans, specifications, etc., for doing the work. This is undertaken by the County Commissioners either by contract or if the prices for doing it in this manner are considered too high, then in other ways that they may deem best.

Property Owners Rights.

In the event that the County Commissioners fail to petition for state aid under this law it is provided that the owners of two thirds of the lands binding upon any public road or section of road, not less than a mile long, can compel the County Commissioners to petition for the construction of the piece of road provided that the owners petitioning have paid or pledged ten per cent of the work. Those who have paid or have pledged to pay ten per cent of the cost cannot, however, compel any other property holders along the road to bear any of the cost. The work then proceeds as already described except that the County Commissioners cannot be compelled by this payment of ten per cent by property holders to contract for work to an amount greater than one fourth of the road levy of the county.

Any expense due to the payment for land that may be necessary to secure a proper location for the road or any damages that may arise through the construction of the road will not be paid by the state.

State to Pay One Half of the Cost.

After the work is done according to the specifications and the State Commission has so certified to the Comptroller, then one half of the cost of constructing the road will be paid by the state to the county building the road; but in no case is the amount paid by the state to exceed one half of the cost as shown by the estimate of the cost of the work as at first made by the Commission.

Mail Contracts.

Under a recent ruling of the Post-office Department at Washington contractors for carrying the United States mails on star and steamboat routes must be patrons of a postoffice on the route; so as to give their personal supervision to the service.

Another innovation is the free collection and delivery of mail on star routes, making practically rural free delivery service to the most remote sections.

Advertisements for service in the first contract section, including Maryland, have been circulated, and bids will be received at the office of the Second Assistant Postmaster General at Washington until 4.30 p. m., December 1, 1904. Postmasters have been instructed to furnish detailed information to prospective bidders.

J. Workman and E. W. Parsons were appointed a commission to consider the question of the continuation of the Green Branch tax ditch, all commissions heretofore issued to be annulled. The board decided to visit the alma house Thursday, November 17. They will meet in the Court House again November 22.

FURIOUS COAST STORM

Which Isolated Many Eastern Cities Cut Salisbury Off From Wire Communication. Violent Wind And Some Damage Here.

A blizzard struck Salisbury Sunday afternoon and for the remainder of the day and night had things its own way. Rain began to fall early Sunday morning and shortly after 3 o'clock this changed to hail about the size of apple seed. A short time later the hail changed to snow then veered from snow to rain and back again. The heavy wind blew down the two large iron smoke stacks at the plant of the Salisbury Water Company, doing considerable damage to the building. A scow loaded with bricks being towed by the gasoline boat Katherine Toadvine while near the mouth of the river was sunk. The punga Chase, loaded with a cargo of wheat for Phillips Brothers, while lying in the mouth of the Manokin river was in great danger of sinking or going ashore. Water was washing over all parts of her deck and the only thing that saved the boat and her $600 cargo were the extra heavy anchors. The telegraph lines and poles as well were torn down and connection with Philadelphia and other eastern cities by wire was not established till Wednesday. The line between Philadelphia and Baltimore has not been repaired as yet and it may be some time before satisfactory service is established between Salisbury and Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowe Entertain At "The Maples."

Mr. and Mrs. Whitefield S. Lowe entertained at an informal dance Monday evening at their pretty country home, "The Maples" in Spring Hill. The spacious rooms were brightly illuminated and beautifully decorated with potted plants and ferns.

At eleven o'clock the guests were invited to the dining room where a sumptuous repast, consisting of ices, fruits and cakes was served.

At eleven thirty the guests made their departure each assuring the genial host and hostess of a pleasant evening.

The invited guests present were: Misses Lillie Dorman, Louise Perry, Wilkie Lowe, Ruth Gordy, Mae Gayle and Julia Waller; Messrs. Claud Dorman, Arthur Phillips, John Bacon, and Homer Richardson of Salisbury; Misses Sadie and Annabel Lowe of Hebron, Mr. and Mrs. Elijah J. Adkins, Messrs. Herbert Lowe and B. Frank Adkins of Spring Hill.

Came To Wicomico's Clerk For Marriage License.

Mr. C. J. Wicks, of Pungateague, Va., formerly of New York City, and Miss J. Beatrice Powell, of Worcester county near Pocomoke City, came to Salisbury Wednesday afternoon on the two o'clock express and drove to the office of the Clerk of Court, where they made application for a marriage license. After receiving the license, Clerk Toadvine accompanied them to the Asbury Methodist Episcopal parsonage, where they were married by Rev. C. A. Hill, D. D. They registered at the Peninsula Hotel, where they remained until they took the noon train Thursday for their future home in Pungateague.

Mr. Wicks is an oyster dealer and has been divorced from a former wife. The bride is one of the handsomest flowers of Worcester.

Governor Warfield and staff will attend the dedication of the new hospital at Cambridge on November 17.

Caught under a falling telephone pole at Princess Anne, George W. Brunell, a lineman, suffered a broken leg.

OPENING OF GAME LAW

Finds Its Subjects Scattering In Wicomico. Especially The Much Prized Quail And Rabbit. Large 100 Dozen Rabbit Shipment.

The opening of the game law in Wicomico county has not been taken advantage of to the extent of former seasons. Most game is reported scarce and hard to uncover, particularly rabbit and quail.

Local receipts of game in Baltimore have shown a daily increase since Tuesday, says the Baltimore Herald, when the Maryland and Virginia gunning seasons opened. The continued warm weather, however, has been unfavorable to a strong demand, and the shipments from the sections relied upon by that city to furnish its game supply have been ample to meet every requirement.

Not until Thanksgiving when the mornings become frosty and crisp, will the game season be at its height. The partridge crop in some of the Maryland counties besides Wicomico is reported as distressingly short, but in other sections the birds are abundant and well grown.

A Hundred Dozen Rabbits.

The largest shipment of rabbits so far this season in Baltimore was one of a hundred dozen received by J. F. Eversman & Co., of Camden street, Wednesday morning. They came from Virginia, and were sold, wholesale, for $3.00 and $3.50 a dozen. The Southern variety of "cotton tail," as the rabbit is known in the South, is not so large as the Ohio and Western product, but it is more delicate in flavor and finer in texture of its flesh.

"The urban gunner will not be much in evidence until about the Thanksgiving season," said a sportsman the other day. "Then the city business man, with his registered beagle hounds wearing fancy collars and his brand new London twist hammerless will lie him forth to hunt up his rural relatives who spent days and perhaps weeks of last winter 'doing the burnt district.' The 'No trespassing' allowed with dog or gun' sign which glare at and strikes terror to the heart of the poor devil who can't rake or scrape up a country relative during the gunning season is just the thing for the fellows who, like myself, have lots of kinsfolk who own broad and fertile acres, well sprinkled covies of birds, hickory ridges noisy with the chatter of squirrels, and new grounds dotted with rabbits sunning themselves around brush heaps.

"The trespass sign protects the game until the belated city gunner appears upon the scene, and then he gets the cream of the sport. The old time pot gunner has been practically put out of business by stringent laws and the present game warden system.

Miss Chatham Entertains.

Miss Nettie Chatham delightfully entertained a few young friends at her home, "The Maples," Saturday evening in honor of her friends, Miss Hearn and brother of Salisbury. The rooms were a beautiful spectacle with the red lamps casting a lurid and mystic shade as the happy voices echoed through the spacious parlors.

Many games were indulged in until quite a late hour. Among the invited guests were Misses Mary Hearn, Ida Taylor, Mae Causey, Mamie Parsons, Mollie Malone, Florence and Martha Ruark, Messrs. Murray and Thos. Walston, Herbert Chatham, Thos. Hearn, Elisha Johnson, Luther Ruark, Cleveland Carey, Levin Ennis and Robt. Bailey.

TOO MUCH COMMERCIALISM.

Never before in American history was there such interest in political events and great public questions as has followed in the wake of Republican success. Speculation has been rife as to the causes of Democratic defeat, the meaning of the many fold increase in the socialist vote and lastly but not "leastly," wonderment as to what Roosevelt will do in the executive chair with one of the largest majorities in Congress, a president ever had to operate with.

Viewed deliberately and with cool judgement one thing is demonstrated above all else, and evidences the most dangerous phase of present American conditions—the feverish money craze—amounting almost to fanaticism or monetary anarchy. All American Institutions, all forms and branches of constitutional government are threatened to be, for ages to come, controlled, not by the people but by the money kings. Frenzied finance is truly at large and rampant over the country. Is it a public office? Is it an exalted place of honor? Is it a membership in an honorary society? A business situation, or whatnot, money and not merit seems destined to sway, if the present state of affairs is allowed to continue.

That there is demoralization all over the country no one can question but that it is confined to the Democratic party—is absurd. Populists, socialists, Republicans—all are infected and a frenzied finance is responsible. The people are in too great a rush to get rich. Too many standards are formed by the size of the purse. Too little weight is given real worth, such as made our nation great, and gave it a moral, healthy growth.

It has been given to few men to be invested with the power, responsibilities and possibilities that lie before President Roosevelt. How will he acquit himself and discharge his deed of trust, however acquired? Will he rise up against the millionaire corporations and mired kings who helped to make him great and see that they are properly restricted, and kept within legal limitations, or will he allow them to amble on and increase in momentum from year to year until at the expiration of his present term their strength shall have given them the fortifications of a Gibraltar. Who can say? Few there are conversant with the United States of today and sentiment of its inner pulse but what fear for the outcome of the money craze and a national wall street.

Much there is however in the President's past before the dread San Juan, and his accidental dropping into the White House chair, that yet leads the people to hope for the best. Certainly he can yet make his name honored for time immemorial if he will. Never were conditions more ripe for a beneficent and chastening administration. If it doesn't come, conditions will probably soon clear for a man of the Folk or Douglass type to be the choice of destiny in 1908.

THE COTTON PICKERS.

negroes Who Are the Best Workers Are the Best Singers.

"The champion negro cotton picker of Texas, who can pull a bale of cotton from the bolls in two days, must be a good singer," said a man who spent his early life on the farm, "else he could not pick that much cotton in so short a time."

"A report from the Waxahachie district says his best day's work this year was 444 pounds. That's pretty good cotton picking. I dare say he sang a few lines while he was reaching for this record. No negro can pick cotton without singing. Whenever you see a negro pulling his sack up and down cotton rows in silence you can bet he is not doing much picking. He may get out of the field with 175 or maybe 200 pounds, but he will not set the world on fire as a picker of the staple."

"Singing is a part of the game, and when you find a negro who begins to sing and holler as soon as he bends over the row you may know thereby that you have a good hand. The negro, as a rule, works by music. In no other line of activity is the fact so noticeable as in the cotton patch. Here is where the negro must sing if he would meet with any satisfactory measure of success. It is no loud, discordant howling either. It is music the like of which you cannot hear at any other place or under any other circumstances, a low, soft hum, delicately intoned, rhythmic, mellow, soothing, and all the while the negro's body swings to and fro over the cotton row as with his nimble fingers he pulls the long white locks from the boll."

"I have known a great many cotton planters who would not hire a negro cotton picker unless he was satisfied that the negro sang as he worked. It is a curious thing that pickers of this type have more time for the humorous bantering and jawing so common among this class than the men who work in silence. The singing negro does not work as hard, as a matter of fact, as the silent negro. This is because he works more rapidly. The song he sings seems to make the machinery run more smoothly, and so he accomplishes more in the end than the quiet fellow and has some time for the foolish talk of the cotton patch besides."

—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

God's White.

On a recent visit to America Rev. F. B. Meyer related an incident which deeply moved those of the small company which heard it.

One day in his pastoral visitation he called upon a widow woman of his congregation. He found her finishing her day's work, and as the clothes hung upon the line in the little yard they impressed him as unusually clean and white.

"An uncommonly fine wash you are hanging out," he said, and the woman modestly accepted the compliment as just and showed some honest pride in her work.

The minister stepped inside and talked with his parishioner while she brewed a cup of tea. Meantime there came a flurry of snow, which soon passed, but when the minister rose to go the ground was white, although the air was clear.

"Ah," said Dr. Meyer, "the clothes do not look as white as they did!"

"Oh, sir," cried the woman, "the clothes are all right, but what can stand against God Almighty's white?"

Postal Card Drafts.

And so it remained for an Austrian to render postal cards of a most acceptable service. The new order of the minister of posts and telegraphs will commend itself to all Americans and cannot be adopted here too soon. Sums under $2.50 can be transmitted by any part of the Austrian empire. The sender affixes stamps to the card to the required amount, plus the ordinary postage and a trifle for commission. This card can be changed into cash at any postoffice, or, if so instructed, the postman who delivers it will also at the same time hand over its money value.

This idea of using the postal card as a draft is the essence of practicality. I have been wondering how to send 50 cents in cash to the publisher of a little periodical who needs the money. By this device I could stick 50 cents' worth of stamps on the back of a card, with a cent extra for the government's commission, and have the matter ended.—New York Press.

Chemistry in the Pulpit.

The Rev. W. Cunliffe, B. A., of Bradford preached in Farnley parish church on the subject of "Miracles" and illustrated his sermon by chemical experiments.

He analyzed a quantity of common sugar, showing it to be composed only of carbon (or charcoal) and water. Man, he pointed out, could easily separate the constituents, but the wisest could not put them together again. He also burned a ribbon of magnesium, explaining that in combustion it absorbed oxygen and formed magnesium oxide, but the result was, he said, an inexplicable miracle. Mr. Cunliffe holds a government certificate for music as well as certificates in practical and theoretical chemistry. He passed in the honors stage at Owens college in chemical science.—London Telegraph.

Women and Animals.

A policeman is quoted in a New York letter as saying: "In the past five years I have had as many as fifty persons stop me on the street and ask me to take action against some man who was whipping a horse or compelling it to haul too heavy a load. What proportion of these do you suppose were women? Every one of them. Fifty women have taken pity on the dumb brutes and not one man."

Justice Brewer in the Pulpit.

Justice David J. Brewer once preached in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church, New York city. "A lawyer in the pulpit," he said in beginning his discourse, "may seem as out of place as a minister on the bench, but if occasionally we were to hear more gospel on the bench and more law from the pulpit it might be better for us all." Then he went on to talk about the Bible, comparing it to its advantage with the Koran and the writings of Confucius.

MR. LUTHER BURBANK.

A Wizard of Horticulture Who Revolutionized Plant Life.

I have met recently, in a little vine mantled cottage not far from the Pacific, a remarkable man, known to experts throughout the country and beyond, yet one of the least known to the general public. Mr. Luther Burbank has evolved more extraordinary and, indeed, more marvelous plant life than any other man. Without the training of the college or the university, he yet leads in one of the most subtle and elusive, one of the most complex and baffling departments of modern research.

On a wind swept mesa he finds a wild flower of some native beauty, but insignificant in size and, in the main, unbecomely. He takes this flower and gives it a new life, increases its size, doubles its vigor, hastens its spring-time appearing, or, if it suits him, he transforms it utterly, producing a flower unlike anything which has yet blossomed. He finds two trees, neither one, to his mind, filling its true place in the world; he joins them and produces a new tree possessing the best of both. One such tree he has made which is now the most rapidly growing tree known in the temperate zones of the world and one of the most prolific of all nut producing trees.

He takes a small unpalatable fruit, inferior in size and lacking in nutrition, and makes it over into another fruit, large, rich, toothsome, beautiful. A little daisy, small and imperfect, appealed to him one day, and he developed the insignificant flower into one several inches in diameter. He takes a flower with a large, showy bloom, a handsome creature among its more delicate companions, but having an offensive odor, and gives to it a delicate, fragrant scent. He has changed the hue of a yellow poppy into silver or amethyst or ruby. He has driven the pit from the plum and filled its place with substances rich, juicy and sweet. He created a walnut with far thinner shell—so thin, indeed, that the hungry birds could perch upon the branches and drive their bills through it and rob the nut of its meat. This would not do, and he reversed the process and bred back until he had a nut of just the right shell thickness. Incidentally, he drove the tannin from the walnut and has left the meat almost as white as snow.—W. S. Harwood in Scribner's.

The Best Sermon.

Dr. Truman J. Backus, president of Pacific Institute, Brooklyn, recently said in a public address that the best sermon he had ever heard was preached to him by an old colored man, the former body servant of Governor Bull of South Carolina.

Dr. Backus was a visitor to Charleston, and during a drive about the city with the Confederate soldier who fired the first shot at Fort Sumter he met this aged negro. The Confederate asked him how he was getting on.

"Massa," said the old man, "I'm just making the best out of the worst."

A famous English bishop once said that the best sermon on Christianity he had ever heard was contained in a short sentence. Some one asked an old lady what she understood by "the love of God."

"The love of God," she said, "is the art of loving those whom we don't like."

An English writer of an early day, commenting on a declining woman, said: "powerful sermons had helped men to holy living and dying, said epigrammatically: "His death was his last sermon."

Proverbs

"When the butter won't come put a penny in the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take to it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally, to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free. Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, 409 Pearl St., N. Y. 50c and $1.00; all druggists.

WOMEN SPIES.

The Clever Secret Agents Employed by Russia and Japan.

In a part of the world has the art of the woman spy been brought to near perfection as in Europe. In Russia, among beautiful women, of high breeding and title perhaps, have become the most necessary arm of that underground system which appears to grow in the night as well as detect designs. At the present time the secret service of both Russia and Japan is naturally most active, and it must not be forgotten that Japan, too, has made use of women to ferret out the intentions of the Russian government regarding the present war. They are not, as a rule, however, Japanese women, who are singularly unfitted for the delicate task. To meet the Russian spy on his or her own ground the Japanese have, it is said, secured the services of some of the cleverest women in Europe, many of them Frenchwomen, and often their visible means of support is acting. The Japanese police and military system has, of course, its secret service, but it is not nearly so ubiquitous as the so-called third section of the Russian police. Yet during the last few years there has been little of importance transpiring in Europe affecting the situation in the far east of which the Japanese foreign office has long been ignorant.

During the early part of last winter, when the relations between Russia and Japan were becoming more strained with each successive day, St. Petersburg society discovered there were several very beautiful Parisiennes in the city. They were not only very beautiful, but charming, and most of them fell in love with young officers of rank. They had letters of introduction and were warmly welcomed in official circles. One night at a ball given at one of the locations one of the charming Frenchwomen was present. She was very friendly with the colonel of a Russian regiment, and several times she ineffectually attempted to draw him into a conversation the burden of which was the length of time he expected to be detained in St. Petersburg, for a frequent occurrence for a regiment to be sent to the far east. At each attempt she was interrupted by a dashing Russian woman. On discovering the identity of the latter she knew her mission was at an end, for she had been detected by a clever Russian spy.

In Paris the nihilists meet unobtrusively by police, but their every movement is reported to the "third section" in St. Petersburg. A few years ago a certain "Mlle. Sense" was in Washington. She spoke the purest Parisian and readily passed for a Frenchwoman. In Russia she is Mme. Sitki, one of the cleverest of the czar's women spies. In Washington she gave lessons in French to children in several of the embassies and learned much to interest her government—Chicago News.

A Way to Clean Paper Money.

One of the tellers of a prominent savings bank was discussing some peculiarities of his business. "We get money over the counter in every imaginable condition. Most of the time notes are handed to us in a dirty, crumpled state that makes difficult handling, but there is one depositor who always brings bills in an immaculate condition. This is an old German woman. The bank notes she hands in are as crisp as if they had just left the treasury. It used to puzzle me to account for the crispness of the old notes she brought along—notes that by appearance had been in use long enough to make them as limp as rags. So one day I remarked about it and found to my surprise that the old lady carefully ironed all her bank notes. I thought her fad somewhat foolish at first, but later it occurred to me that it would be a good thing if people everywhere ironed their bank notes. It would kill any germs."—Philadelphia Record.

The Indiana Like Her.

When Indians want to show particular honor to a white man or woman they adopt him or her into their tribe. It is a evidence, therefore, of their extremely high regard for Miss Mary Jameson, pastor's assistant of the Third Presbyterian church of Rochester, that the Deer clan of the Seneca tribe of the Iroquois Indians have made her their sister and given to her the beautiful name of Ah-wae-agwa, which means picking flowers out of the water. Miss Jameson has been in the habit of visiting the Indians on the Cattaraugus reservation and conducting services for them while at her summer home at Lotus Point, Lake Erie, and in this way the Indians became so attached to her that they asked if they might not adopt her. All the members of a clan are supposed to be brothers and sisters and constitute a kind of secret fraternity.

SALISBURY'S HOSPITAL

Will Soon Be Ready To Receive Patients. By Xmas Week. Special Program To Accompany Opening Of Institution.

It has been decided by the directors of the Peninsula General Hospital, that the new hospital so generously donated by Congressman W. H. Jackson will be opened for reception of patients not later than Christmas week.

A Training School for Nurses will be established and the committee in charge of this department reports that the school will be ready to open with the hospital.

A special program will be arranged for the opening of the institution, and many prominent physicians and public men will be present.

The building which was given by Congressman Jackson, will cost when completed in the neighborhood of $60,000, and the equipment will be one of the very best in the State. The building is heated by steam and lighted by electricity and will accommodate about 50 persons. President William P. Jackson, of the board has donated the furnishings for the hospital, which will cost about $4,000. Mr. Walter B. Miller has given $500 ambulance to the hospital.

A full and complete steam laundry plant will be erected near the hospital which will be of such proportion as to be able to easily accommodate all the work of the hospital. When the buildings and grounds are completed and the institution is formally opened to the public, Salisbury will have one of the finest hospitals in the State and a gift from one of her sons to be proud of.

Now that the hospital will soon be ready for the reception of patients, it is the hope of the directors that some of our charitable citizens will come forward and give the institution a substantial endowment. Two of the private rooms will be left unfurnished in the hope that some one will wish to equip these rooms as memorials. The public will also be given an opportunity to help in grading the grounds, which will cost a considerable sum.

GOVERNOR ANSWERS CHAIRMAN VANDIVER

Says He Will Not Promulgate Constitutional Amendments Because Not Operative.

The long looked for letter which Governor Warfield and the public have been expecting from Chairman Vandiver, of the Democratic State Central Committee, inquiring the Governor's intentions as to whether he will publish the two constitutional amendments passed by the last Legislature, was handed the Governor just before he left the Executive Chamber for Baltimore Tuesday.

The letter was dated from Havre de Grace and was signed by Mr. Vandiver as a private citizen. Mr. John Baylis, a clerk in Mr. Vandiver's office brought the document over to the Executive Chamber and handed it to the Governor. His Excellency looked at it and with a merry twinkle in his eye said: "Thank you, sir; tell the General I will attend to this matter."

The Governor's Reply.

After reading the letter the Governor made the following reply:

"Executive Office,
Annapolis, Md., Nov. 22, 1904.
Hon. Murray Vandiver, Havre de Grace, Maryland:

"My Dear Sir—In reply to your communication of 22 instant, I respectfully state that, acting upon the advice of the Attorney-General of Maryland, the legal adviser of the Governor, selected by the people, I will not cause to be published the proposed constitutional amendments referred to by you, because they have not been submitted to me for my approval as Governor and, hence, are not operative.

Very respectfully,
Edwin Warfield,
Governor of Maryland."

General Vandiver's Letter.

"Havre de Grace, Md., Nov. 22, 1904.

"His Excellency, Edwin Warfield, Governor of Maryland, Annapolis, Md.
"Dear Sir—Your Excellency is well aware of the fact that by a vote of three fifths of all the members elected to the Senate and House of Delegates, the General Assembly at its last session proposed to the people two amendments to our Constitution, viz., One to Section 1 of Article 1, relating to the elective franchise, and the other to Section 34 of Article 3, relating to State appropriations to public roads.

"Under the belief that proposals to amend the Constitution must emanate from the General Assembly alone and that the approval of the Governor is not necessary to entitle them when duly passed by the prescribed vote in each House, to be submitted to the people for adoption or rejection, and that his veto can not lawfully prevent them from being submitted, these two proposed amendments were not sent to your Excellency for your consideration.

"Your Excellency, however, in an official communication to the General Assembly, took occasion to express the opinion that a bill proposing a constitutional amendment was precisely like any other bill and could not be operative unless approved by the Governor, or passed over his veto by each house.

"And thus the matter stood at the end of the session.

"As a registered voter and on behalf of many other registered voters interested in the question, I respectfully request that you will inform me whether this opinion of yours will lead you to refuse to cause these two proposed constitutional amendments to be published as prescribed by Article 14 of the Constitution, so that the people may have an opportunity to vote upon them at the general election next November.

"In making this request I venture to express the hope that further reflection and a careful examination of the adduced cases upon the subject have led you to the conclusion that a bill proposing to the people an amendment to the Constitution, and which until adopted by them is altogether without legal effect, is a palpably different measure from an ordinary Legislative bill in Maryland, which the Governor must pass upon before it becomes operative, that the General Assembly alone without the concurrence of the Governor has the exclusive constitutional right to propose to the people amendments to the Constitution, and that consequently upon this reconsideration of the subject your Excellency will order the prescribed publication to be made.

"No harm can result from this course, for the reason that if the people shall adopt the proposed amendments all irregularity in the mode of proposing them, supposing that such irregularity may well be claimed to exist, will thereby be effectually cured; while on the other hand, their rejection by the people will be equally conclusive.

"Should you, however, feel that your duty requires you to withhold from the people all opportunity to vote upon these two measures by declining to publish them at least three months before the election next November, I respectfully beg that your Excellency will declare now what your purpose is, so that immediate steps may be taken to bring the question to a final judicial decision without delay.

"Trusting that you will favor me with an early reply, I am very respectfully, your obedient servant, Murray Vandiver."

What Attorney General Says.

Attorney-General Bryan said last night that if a suit for mandamus is brought either in Baltimore or in Annapolis he would enter a general appearance for the Governor. The Governor, he said, has a right to insist upon being sued in Annapolis, his place of legal residence. If, however, it is more convenient to Mr. Vandiver's attorneys to bring suit in Baltimore, the Governor would waive his right to be sued in Annapolis and would appear in the suit here.

A Pleasant Musical Concert At Delmar.

A sacred concert under the auspices of Class Number 11 of the Delmar M. E. Sunday School was given on Thursday evening in the M. E. Church.

The musical was opened with an organ voluntary, played by Miss Edna Adkins, of Salisbury. Prayer was offered by the pastor, Rev. Z. H. Webster. Soprano solos, "I do not ask, O Lord," and "The Ninety and Nine" were exquisitely rendered by Miss Maud Fleming, of Wilmington, to piano accompaniment by Miss Lula Barker. Mrs. F. A. Ross, of Wilmington, sang "The Endless Day," and "Face to Face," as contralto solos with fine effect.

Two vocal duets, "My Faith looks up to Thee" and "Peace, sweet Peace," were sung by Miss Fleming and Mrs. Ross and by Miss Fleming and Charles Truitt respectively.

"Though your Sins" was rendered by Mrs. Ross, Chas. Truitt, Claude Phillips and Samuel N. Culver. The piano solos, "Paritane" and "The Last Hope" were given by Miss Adkins.

The concert was closed with the doxology "Old Hundred" by the congregation. The entertainment was of high order and was greatly appreciated. A banquet to the participants followed at the house of Mr. W. C. Truitt.

TO BEAT WILSON LAW

Republicans of Maryland Planning the How. They Now Propose to Nominate But One Man in Counties Affected.

With the state election nearly a year off the republicans are preparing for the fight and are mapping out a plan by which they hope to defeat the democrats in those counties wherein the Wilson bill is operative.

Under the provisions of that act the names of the candidates for office in certain black belt counties must appear on the ballots without party designations. The act is operative in Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, Frederick, Garrett, Kent, Prince George, St. Mary, Somerset, Talbot and Worcester counties, and in each of these the ballot next year will contain the names of the candidates for state offices, for the Legislature and for the various county offices.

To Nominate Only One Man.

At the last election but two marks were required on the ballot—one after the names of the presidential candidate and one after the congressional candidate—and the illiterate negroes were easily taught to make these two marks. To vote for a full republican ticket at the next election it will be necessary to make from six to twenty marks on the ticket—varying in the different counties according to the number of local officials to be chosen. The constitutional amendment will also be placed on the tickets and will require an additional mark "for" or "against."

To circumvent the apparent effort to confuse the illiterate voter the republicans have been discussing various methods, and a plan has been formulated to nominate only one man on the ticket in the counties heavily populated with negroes, so that they can be taught to vote for that nominee and against the amendment—requiring only two marks, the same number required at the last election.

To Get Nine Senators.

This will probably not be done in Frederick and Garrett counties, which are considered surely republican without the illiterate vote, but the plan will be used in the other Wilson bill counties. Successors are to be chosen for Senators Gray, of Charles; Wilson, of Prince George; Greenwell, of St. Mary; Dixon, of Talbot, and Moore of Worcester.

In each of these counties the method to be used by the republicans will be to name only a candidate for the State Senate, and teach the illiterates to place marks after this name. Three of the retiring senators are democrats and two the republicans, but by this method the republicans hope to return five of their party to the upper house of the Legislature. Garrett county also has to elect a senator, but the county is naturally republican, and there is little doubt of that party returning a republican senator. Four of the hold-over senators are republicans, and with the five from the Wilson bill counties the leaders hope to have nine "sure" members of the body.

Hope to Control Upper House.

Among the hold-over senators only twelve are democrats—two less than a majority of that body. In Allegany, Caroline, Cecil, Dorchester, Harford and Montgomery counties contests are to be waged and the republicans hope to carry enough to control the body in order to hold up legislation and protect their interests, or at least to have a sufficient number to prove obstructionists.

In the counties which do not elect senators some other office will be settled upon, probably a member of the House of Delegates.

In requiring their illiterate voters to place only two marks on the ticket the republicans hope to prevent the adoption of the constitutional amendment. The last campaign demonstrated that the negroes of Southern Maryland and the Eastern Shore can be taught to pick out two places for marks on their tickets, and it is thought that their votes will be sufficient to defeat the democrats.

To Slight The Comptroller.

The nominee for comptroller, who will head the state ticket, will be slighted, the leaders fearing that three marks will confuse the voters. With this decision it is thought that the re-election of Dr. Gordon W. Atkinson, of Somerset, as comptroller of the state is assured unless there is a republican landslide.

Republicans in all parts of the state favor the plan but the democrats laugh at the presumption of the republicans in believing that they will be able to obtain control of the upper house of the General Assembly.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Of Schooner Rundlett In Late Coast Storm. Crew Gave Up For Lost, Only Saved By Hard Fight. 350,000 Shingles Lost.

The three masted schooner, R. T. Rundlett, owned by a number of Salisburyans arrived in Salisbury last Thursday morning after the worst voyage she ever experienced. She encountered the gale of Sunday, November 18th, off Cape Fear on the Atlantic coast. It was about this place on her last trip before this one that the Rundlett ran into the gale which up to that time was her record. The wind although not blowing so hard the second time as in the first storm, did more damage and came dangerously near causing the loss of the lives of the captain, his wife and crew. Cape Fear is about 240 miles south of Cape Hatteras and the two points are separated by Cape Lookout. This section along here is the most dangerous on the entire Atlantic coast and thousands of lives are lost annually at this place. They were about 100 miles from land that Sunday morning, when without a sign of warning, the wind began to blow a gale from the northeast. Sails were quickly reefed and things went fairly well until about midnight, when the wind hauled around to the south west and blew all the recklessness and fury of a West India hurricane.

About 4 o'clock Monday morning the deck load began to shift and in a couple of hours that was all gone. The Rundlett was loaded with shingles for the W. B. Tilghman Co., and the best part of the cargo was on the deck. Three hundred and thirty-five thousand shingles were lost, entailing a loss of about $2,000, $1600 of which was insured.

The full force of the storm did not strike until about break of day Monday morning, when, without any effort to steer by the crew, the huge vessel was running before the gale under her own management. The mountain like billows were washing entirely over the forward part of the ship and the poop was the only part of the deck on which one could live. A small forward hatch was swept away and water rapidly filled the vessel until it measured two feet from the deck. The heroic mate, taking his life in his hands, rushed forward with a wide board and a piece of carpet ripped from the floor of one of the state rooms and nailed a cover on the hatchway. This one brave act was the sole means of saving the vessel and the lives of all on board. Water was standing in forecastle half way up to the ceiling and the stove and other articles were knocked about to the leeward corner, smashing a lot of the woodwork and causing the loss of all the ship's provisions except a few canned goods, which were the only things those on board had to eat till they reached Deals Island. It was by a good mark of fate that these were left. The forecastle door and coal oil barrel were washed away. A crew was kept going at each of the pumps for two days and many times as the ship would fill, Capt. J. W. Fountain said they would never pump her up. Time after time as the bow would plunge under the seething waters it looked as if the boat would never come up again. Everything that was not tied or nailed securely was swept away, although not a single sail was lost. The wind finally moderated and the crew were able to take command of the ship.

As the captain told of his trip and the danger of his wife and crew during the storm, tears would come into his eyes, and trickle down his face, tears that even a sailor not accustomed to the finer sensibilities of the heart was not ashamed of.

Mrs. Fountain, the captain said, stood the ordeal about as well as any of the others except she would not allow him out of her sight. As the genial Captain told of this and other wild adventures on the sea, his tale sounded like that of a second Othello.

WICOMICO TEACHERS

In Session At Their County Institute This Week. A Fair Attendance And Live Interest At Meetings.

The Wicomico County Teachers' Institute was held the first three days of this week and proved to be one of the most practical sessions ever held in this county, although it was held in almost one half of the usual time. There were two sessions each day, the attendance being large and the teachers evincing much interest in the work. The complete program and list of instructors were given in last week's Advertiser. The special topics treated were Pedagogy by Prof. Clarke, of the State Normal School, Chestertown; Number and Construction Work, by Miss Davis of the State Normal School, Baltimore; Primary English, by Miss Miller, of the Eastern High School; and Drawing by Miss Whitney, of the Salisbury High School.

Misses L. Corn Gillis, Ada L. Scott and Beatrice P. Robertson, of the Wicomico corps of teachers took prominent part in the meetings. Instruction in music was one of the features.

The institute closed a little earlier Wednesday afternoon in order to allow several teachers to catch the steamer Virginia for Baltimore, where they spent Thanksgiving.

An informal dance was given in the Assembly Rooms on Tuesday evening, which was attended by the teachers, the instructors, and several ladies and gentlemen of this city. Music was furnished by Prof. Kennerly on the cornet and Mr. Clarence White on the piano.

The Board of Lady Managers of the Peninsula General Hospital are making an effort to interest the school children throughout the county in the work of helping the Hospital financially.

Mrs. Kate H. Tordvin, President of the Board, laid the plans before the Teachers Institute this week and received promise of help from the teachers present. Wednesday morning the Teachers Institute passed a resolution that the teachers would be responsible for the furnishing and maintenance of a private room in the new Hospital. The teachers pledged themselves that each would raise $1.40 out of their school for this purpose. County Superintendent H. Crawford Bonnis was made treasurer of the fund.

There is some talk of the colored school children in the county also furnishing a room to be set apart for colored people.

FOOD FOR BOYS and GIRLS

The more natural diet is more palatable, invigorating and strengthening to body and mind—right to the contrary with unnatural, improperly prepared food, which stunts

No doubt that fifty per cent of the failures in life can be traced to improper diet when young.

CHAPTER XX.
ABOUT half after 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Wednesday,
Dec. 25, being Christmas day and very cold. Four tired horsesmen on jaded steeds rode up to a plain stone farmhouse standing at the junction of two common country roads,
both of which led to the Delaware river,
a mile or so away. In the clearing back of the house a few wretched tents indicated a bivouac. Some silencing horses were picketed under a rude
shelter, formed by interlacing branches
between the trunks of a little grove
of thick growing trees which had been left standing as a windbreak.
Bright fires blazed in front of the tents,
and the men who occupied them were enjoying an unusually hearty meal.

The four uniformed men were tattered and torn. Some of the soldiers were almost barefoot, wearing wretched apologies for shoes, which had been supplemented when practicable by bits of cloth tied about the soles of the feet. The men themselves were gaunt and haggard. Privation, exposure and hard fighting had left
a bitter mark upon them. Hunger and cold and wounds had wrestled with them, and they bore the indelible imprint of the awful conflict upon their faces. It was greatly to their credit that, like their leader, they had not yet despaired. A movement of some sort was evidently in preparation. Arms were being looked to carefully; haversacks and pockets were being filled with the rude fare of which they had been thankful to partake as a Christmas dinner; ammunition was being prepared for transportation. Those who had them were wrapping the remains of tattered
blankets about them, under the straps
of their guns or other equipments, and
the fortunate possessors of the ragged adjuncts to shoes were putting final touches to them, with a futile hope that they would last beyond the first mile or two of the march; others were saddling and rubbing down the horses.

A welcome contribution had been made to their fare in a huge steaming bowl of hot punch, which had been sent from the farmhouse and of which they had eagerly partaken.
"What's up, I wonder?" said
one ragged veteran to another.
"Don't know—don't care—couldn't anything be worse than this," was the reply.
"We've marched and fought and got beaten, and marched and fought and got beaten again, and retreated and retreated until there is nothing left of us. Look at us," he continued, "half naked, half starved, and we're the best of the lot, the select force, the picked men, the headquarters guard!" he went on in bitter sarcasm.
"Yes, that's so," replied the other,
laughing; then said: "Those poor fellows by the river are worse off than we are, though. What wouldn't they give for some of that punch? My soul wasn't it good?" he continued, smacking his lips in recollection.
"Where are we going, sergeant?"
asked another.
"Don't know; the command is 'Three days' rations and light marching order.'"
"Well, we're all of the last, anyway.
Look at me! No stockings, leggings, torn, my shirt, and you'd scarcely call
this thing on my back a coat, would you? What could be lighter? So comfortable, too, in this pleasant summer weather!"
"Oh, shut up, old man! You're better off than I am, anyway. You've got rags to help your shoes out, and just look at mine," said another, sticking out a gaunt leg with a tattered shoe on the foot, every toe of which was plainly visible through the torn and worn openings. "And just look at this," he went on, bringing his foot down hard
on the snow covered, frost-bitten soil,
making an imprint which was edged
with blood from his wounded, bruised,
unprotected feet. "That's my sign manual, and it's not hard to duplicate
in the army yonder either."
"That's true. And to think that the cause of liberty's got down so low that we are its only dependence. And they call us the grand army!"
"Well, as you say," went on another recklessly, "we can't get into anything
worse, so hurrah for the next move,
say I!"
"Three days' rations and light marching order, meaning, I suppose, that we are to leave our heavy overcoats and blankets and foot stoves and such other luxuries behind. That rather indicates that we are going to do something besides retreat. And I should like to get a whack at those mercenary Dutchmen before I freeze or starve,"
was the reply.
"Bully for you!"
"I'm with you, old man."
"I, too."
"And I," came from the group of undaunted men surrounding the speaker.
"And to think," said another, "of us
being Christmas day and all those little children at home! Oh, well," turning away and wiping his eyes, "marching and fighting may make us forget, boys! I wouldn't mind suffering for liberty if we could only do something,
have something to show for it but a bloody trail and a story of defeat.
I'm tired of it," he continued desperately. "I'd fight the whole British army if they would only let me get a chance at them."
"We're all with you there, man, and I guess this time we get a chance," replied one of the speakers and a chorus of approval which showed the spirit of the men.

While the men were talking among themselves thus the four riders on the tired horses had ridden up to the farmhouse. A soldier dressed no better than the rest stood before the door.
"Halt! Who are you?" he cried, presenting his musket.
"Friends. Officers from Philadelphia with messages for his excellency," replied the foremost. "Don't you recognize me, my man?"

"Why, it's Lieutenant Talbot! Pass
in, sir, and these other gentlemen with you," answered the soldier, saluting.
"It's glad the general will be to see you."

Without further preliminaries the young man opened the door and entered, followed by his three companions. A cheerful fire of logs was blazing and crackling in the wide fireplace in the long, low room. On the table before it stood a great bowl of steaming punch, and several officers were sitting or standing about the room in various positions. The uniforms of all save that of one of them were scarcely less worn and faded, if not quite so tattered, than were those of the escort. The same grim enemies had left the same grim marks upon them as upon the soldiers.

The only well dressed person in the room was a bright eyed young man, a mere boy, just nineteen, wearing the brilliant uniform of an officer of the French army. He was tall and thin, red haired, with a long nose and retreating forehead. His bright eyes and animated manner expressed the interest he felt in a conversation carried on in the French language with his nearest neighbor, another young man scarcely a year his senior. The contrast between the new and gay French uniform of the one and the faded Continental dress of the other was not less startling than that suggested by the difference in their size. The American officer was a small, a very small, man,
but in spite of his insignificant stature
the huge impression of the man was striking and even imposing. In contrast to the other his face was very handsome, the head finely shaped, the features clear cut and regular. He had a decisive mouth, bespeaking resolution and firmness, and two piercing eyes out of which looked a will as hard and imperious as ever dwelt in mortal man.

In front of the fire were two older men, each in the uniform of a general officer, one of thirty-five or thirty-six years of age, the other perhaps ten years older. The younger of the two, a full faced, intelligent, active, commanding
sort of man, whose appearance indicated confidence in himself and the light of whose alert blue eyes told of dashing brilliancy in action and prompt decision in perilous moments, which made him one of those who succeed,
would have been more noticed had not
his personality been so overshadowed
by that of the officer who was speaking to him. The latter was possessing of a figure so tall that it dwarfed every other in the room. He was massively molded, but well proportioned, with enormous hands and feet
and long, powerful limbs, which indicated great physical force, and having withal an erect and noble carriage,
easy and graceful in appearance,
which would have immediately attracted attention anywhere, even if his face
had not been more striking than his figure.

And this was the man upon whom was laid the burden of the war of the Revolution, and to whom, under God,
were due the mighty results of that epoch making contest. Seldom if ever do we see men of such rare qualities that when they leave their appointed places no other can be found to fill them, but if such a one ever did live this was he.

The Best Sermon.

Dr. Truman J. Backus, president of Packer Institute, Brooklyn, recently
slept in a public address that the best sermon he had ever heard was preached to him by an old colored man, the former body servant of Governor Bull
of South Carolina.

Dr. Backus was a visitor to Charleston, and during a drive about the city
with the Confederate soldier who fired
the first shot at Fort Sumter he met this aged negro. The Confederate asked him how he was getting on.
"Massa," said the old man, "I'm just making the best out of the worst."

A famous English bishop once said that the best sermon on Christianity
he had ever heard was contained in a short sentence. Some one asked an old lady what she understood by "the love of God."

"The love of God," she said, "is the art of loving those whom we don't like."

An English writer of an early day,
commenting on a dead divine whose powerful sermons had helped men to holiness and dying, said epigram-
matically:

"His death was his last sermon."

Chemistry in the Façade.
The Rev. W. Cunliffe, B. A., of Bradford preached in Farnley parish church
on the subject of "Miracles" and illustrated his sermon by chemical experiments. He analyzed a quantity of common sugar, showing it to be composed only of carbon (for charcoal) and water. Man, he pointed out, could easily separate the constituents, but the wisest could not put them together again. He also burned a ribbon of magnesium, explaining that in combustion it absorbed oxygen and formed magnesium oxide, but the result was,
he said, an insupportable miracle. Mr.
Cunliffe holds a government certificate for music as well as certificates in practical and theoretical chemistry. He passed in the honors stage at Owens
college in chemical science.—London Telegraph.

Women and Animals.
A policeman is quoted in a New York
letter as saying: "In the past five years
I have had as many as fifty persons stop me on the street and ask me to take action against some man who was whipping a horse or compelling it to haul too heavy a load. What proportion of these do you suppose were women? Every one of them. Fifty women have taken pity on the dumb brutes and not one man."

Postal Card Drafts.
And so it remained for an Austrian to render postal cards of a most acceptable service. The new order of the minister of posts and telegraphs
will commend itself to all Americans
and cannot be adopted here too soon.
Sums under $2.50 can be transmitted to any part of the Austrian empire.
The sender affixes stamps to the card
to the required amount, plus the ordinary postage and a fee for commission. This card can be changed into cash at any postoffice, or, if so instructed, the postman who delivers it will also at the same time hand over its money value.

This idea of using the postal card as a draft is the essence of practicality. I have been wondering how to send 50
cents in cash to the publisher of a little periodical who needs the money.
By this device I could stick 50 cents'
worth of stamps on the back of a card,
with a cent extra for the government
commission, and have the matter ended.—New York Press.

Time to Stop.

The residents of Tlalpam, Mexico,
complain that the public clock of that town is useless. Repairs are made every week, but every week the clock gets out of repair and can never be kept in good condition. This is perhaps for the good reason that the Tal-pam clock is probably the oldest public clock on the American continent. It was installed at the cathedral of that city in the year 1657. In 1700 it was donated to the council of San Augustin
de las Cuevas, now Tlalpam, when it was installed there and set in motion.
Since that time it has never undergone repairs until a few weeks ago. This clock therefore has told the time for 247 years, and it is not natural that it is tired and wants to be sent to a museum.

IN PROGRESSIVE MOOD.

At a large meeting in Salisbury last September 27th, called by the Commissioners of Wicomico County, to consider the advisability of the county availing itself of its $10,000 share of the State road fund it was decided that November 15th, be assigned as the date by which all petitions for such aid should be officially filed with the Commissioners. Whether the Commissioners should decide that the county would be justified in appropriating a similar sum, as is necessary under the law, and therefore justify the Commissioners in applying for the State aid, was to be determined by the applications of interested taxpayers of the county. As the result of this arrangement the County Commissioners found when they took up the matter on November 15th, that eight petitions from different parts of the county had been filed, and it is only from lack of the appropriation that but four of these can be taken up by the Commissioners. In spite of the fact that the petitioners must give bonds for ten per cent of the cost of building the roads, not only was the whole appropriation asked for but enough road was petitioned to take up twice the amount of appropriation, and the roads not included this year will be petitioned for next year.

It was decided to begin the work of building good roads in Wicomico County by constructing four miles of road radiating from Salisbury in four directions north, south, east and west. These roads are the Middle Neck or Delmar road, beginning at Parson's cemetery; the Quantico road, beginning where the shell road ends; the Snow Hill road; and the Powellville road, from the end of the shell road at Mr. Bayard Perdue's gate. The Commissioners ordered that the bonds must be filed by the petitioners by Tuesday, November 22nd.

The residents of Wicomico County are fully alive to the needs of good roads and are resolved to have them at any reasonable cost. The material for the roads will most likely be macadam of good quality and each mile will cost about $5,000 the work being let by contract to the lowest bidder.

THANKFULNESS.

In addition to the home coming of members of the charmed family circle, various re-unions of beloved ones at the old fireside, and their continued preservation by a kind Providence, there was much room in millions of homes the country over for genuine special Thanksgiving. Thursday.

Though a large part of the nation is in "a fine frenzy" over the attainment of temporal goods, the accumulation of the so-called "almighty dollar" and all the vain accompaniment bubbles which glitter in its jungle, yet still hovering over the land of the free and the home of the brave, Peace and Fair Plenty bless the land and warm the hearts of the people with joy and contentment. Corn and other cereals, generally, have yielded good crops and paying prices have prevailed.

Political agitation for awhile is less acute and there is cause for devout thanksgiving in that. The people have been stirred profoundly for months past by party harangues, glaring columns of convincing platform arraignment and all sorts and conditions of logic. Even this is still new and the mind is allowed to relax and rest.

Thanksgiving is a splendid custom and it is exceedingly becoming to have an established day annually for a special memorial. If its observances and the reflection of most plentiful sources of gratitude ensue to produce more of the thankful spirit in all our daily routine then indeed have we advanced and prospered.

NAMES POPULAR FOR COUNTRY HOMES.

We are glad to see the pretty and highly commendable custom of naming our homes and especially our country homes, handed down from colonial times, becoming so generally adopted.

There are so many beautiful and appropriate names to be selected that our only regret is to see so many of our residents using the same name. In this way, we fear the charm and beauty will be spoiled, or entirely lost. In our little county of Wicomico, we notice at least four country homes bearing the same name, and the four only a few miles apart. This is somewhat confounding. We will do well to remember that while our forefathers made it a rule to give their homes on their large Southern plantations a distinguishing name, there were seldom, if ever, two to be found alike.

TO IMPROVE STREETS.

City Council Discusses Proposition Monday Evening. Final Selection With Doubtless Meet With General Approval.

The proposition of spending $30,000 to improve the streets of Salisbury either by paving with brick or by macadamizing them was taken up by the City Council Monday evening, but no decision was reached at that meeting. The matter will be further discussed on the first Monday night in December, when the City Council meets again.

Under a recent enabling act passed by the legislature, Salisbury is empowered to bond to the extent of $10,000 for street improvement, providing the property holders along the streets to be improved will contribute the same amount. A large commission was appointed some time ago to consider the feasibility of the plan and to inquire into and, if necessary, to visit other towns of similar size and find what material and manner of work had proven the most satisfactory. After reviewing the situation carefully and calling into consultation State Road Engineer, A. N. Johnson and other practical street men, the commission reported the result of their investigation to the City Council, but was unable to recommend the exact material to be used. Either a paved or a first class macadam street would, they said, meet with their approval.

The paved street plan, however, seemed to gain more favor in the consideration of the members of the City Council, and a commission of three, composed of Dr. F. M. Slemmons, Mr. A. J. Benjamin and Mr. Irving S. Powell, was appointed to call on the property holders of the streets under consideration. Their report Monday night showed about 75 per cent of the number and all of the big property holders were in favor of the movement.

The streets determined upon for paving with vitrified or other bricks are Main Street from the Pivot bridge to Division street; Division street from Main street to Church street; and Dock street from Main street to the Camden bridge. This will make about 2000 running feet of street about 36 feet wide at an approximate cost of $8 per running foot, and would mean a total of $16,000 on these streets. With the remaining $14,000, the Council think that Church street could be macadamized from Division street to the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad station.

The question of paving Church street was seriously considered by the Council when the matter was first broached, but, since this street runs through one of the poorest though valuable sections of the town, it was finally decided impracticable. The Council then turned to the macadam proposition for this street. The cost on this method of improvement would not be near so much and the residents of this section are easily capable of bearing their share of the expense. With this we would have one complete stretch of excellent streets from the most used station to each of the two bridges. The colored people will doubtless be eager for the measure and will do all that can be asked or expected of them. Should they not be willing to do their part, however, of bearing the expense, Church street will be left as it is and the $4,000 will be spent in paving Division street toward the Baltimore, Chesapeake and Atlantic Railroad station, where the property holders are anxious to get the new streets by paying their share. This money would probably pave Division street as far as Williams street, and another act could be passed by the legislature to enable them to finish the street to the station.

Coupled with the contemplated improvement to the roads in the county, Wicomico citizens will have something to be proud of. Nothing so enhances the value of property as good roads and streets. Of course, it raises the amount of the taxes, but that is a small consideration alongside of the increased appreciation which results.

Crystal Wedding Of Mr. And Mrs. Hughlett, In Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hughlett, of Cambridge, on Tuesday evening celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of their wedding by entertaining a large number of their friends.

The parlor, sitting and dining room were thrown open and, with the hall, were filled to overflowing with guests. Probably 150 gifts consisting principally of cut glass bowls, glasses, ornaments, etc., were received.

The out of town guests were, Mr. and Mrs. William Ross, of Seaford; Judge Charles F. Holland, Messrs. James E. Ellegood, Ernest A. Toadvine and E. Stanley Toadvine, of Salisbury; Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo L. Miles, of Baltimore; Joshua W. Miles, of Princess Anne; Miss Helen Naylor, of Trappe; Rev. F. B. Adkins, of Wicomico county; Mr. and Mrs. James Spear, Jr., of Wallingford; Judge J. Hooper Bosley.

Appropriate names to be selected that our only regret is to see so many of our residents using the same name. In this way, we fear the charm and beauty will be spoiled, or entirely lost. In our little county of Wicomico, we notice at least four country homes bearing the same name, and the four only a few miles apart. This is somewhat confounding. We will do well to remember that while our forefathers made it a rule to give their homes on their large Southern plantations a distinguishing name, there were seldom, if ever, two to be found alike.

"Ingomar, the Barbarian" at Ulman's Opera House, December 5th.

The management of Ulman's Opera House beg to say that they have secured Mr. Downing and his capable company of players for one night, Monday, December 5th., on which occasion he will present his latest offering, "Ingomar, the Barbarian." Prices 25, 50 and 75 cents.

"Robert Downing who appears here to-morrow night at the Opera House is too well known to the citizens of Fairmount to need any extended notice on our part, but it might be of interest for them to know that in the character of Ingomar, the part he will play in play to be presented here, he stands without a rival on the American or English stage. It is a part that he lives and one that appeals to all lovers of the classic play—it was in this character that he made his great success with Mary Anderson, and it was at his advice that she made her debut in London in the character of Parthenia. It is a play full of healthful sentiment, delightful love story and strongly dramatic. During the years that Mr. Downing has been before the public as a star, this play has always been one of the best drawing and most satisfactory of his very extensive repertoire. He will be ably assisted by his own company and each character is in competent hands."—Fairmount, West Virginia.

The Thursday Night Dancing Club gave a pleasant dance at the Armory Wednesday evening, the music being furnished by Messrs. Clarence White and Arthur Kennerl and supper by Messrs. B. Bennett & White. Harry Jones and Clyde C. Crawford, Quantico; Misses Mullineaux and Mamie Childs, Baltimore; Miss Elizabeth Houston, Millboro; Del. Mr. Martin Brock, Loretto; Prof. Gordy, Berlin; Miss Susie Hitch, Maryland Springs; and Misses Snyder and Hintz. A subscription dance in charge of Messrs. George S. Ratzo, Harry C. Fooks and Dr. Levin D. Collier, Jr., was given in the Armory Thursday evening. The same orchestra furnished music. Supper was also served. ## IMPROVING "THE OAKS"

Brick Wall of Over 100,000 Bricks To Partially Encircle Property. Water Supply Plant To Be Installed. Other Improvements.

Ex-Governor E. E. Jackson is having a brick wall placed around the entire front of his home, "The Oaks," in this town. The wall is 12 inches thick and runs 17 bricks high. It is about 1200 feet in length and will take more than 100,000 bricks to complete. Pilasters 18 inches high and 18 inches square occur every 12 feet. These are to be capped off with a gray granite slab 22 inches square. Between each of the pilasters two lines of pipe run one above the other the entire length of the wall. The lower of the two pipes will carry water, and brass spigots will be attached to this line every 100 feet, which will facilitate watering the large lawn, the size and beauty of which is to be compared to the magnificence of a public park. What with the lawn tennis court, rustic houses, cozy nooks, oak, hickory and other trees and the large fruit orchard, the grounds present a handsome appearance.

The rear of this private park is marked by a line of dense shrubbery. Entrance is made at two places, one at the corner of Division and Isabelle streets and one at the head of Park Avenue. At each entrance there is one large gateway for teams, and one small one on either side of this for those walking. The large gates swing from 8 feet posts of alternate brick and gray granite, which are covered by granite slabs thirty feet square; and the smaller ones swing from 7 feet posts of the same kind tipped with 24 inch slabs. The cost of the whole work when completed will probably amount to more than $2,000.

The Governor will also install a complete water pumping plant on his grounds. For this purpose he has ordered a five horse power Peas gasolene engine which will pump the water. A steel tank, which will be capable of holding 5,500 gallons of water will be erected. This will connect with the house and the pipe in the wall. The house will also be wired and electricity will be used to light the house. Gas generated on the premises has been used heretofore to furnish the light.

The cost of the improvements when completed will cost nearly $3,500.

Sale of Valuable Real Estate At Upper Ferry.

A portion of the real estate of the late Isaac Anderson, located on the Wicomico River, at the Upper Ferry, was sold at public auction, Saturday afternoon, by S. Q. Johnson, assignee of mortgage. This property was divided into seven parcels, ranging from 10 to 75 acres, and sold as follows:

No. 1—containing 38.22 acres, all cleared, S. Q. Johnson, $455.00.

No. 2—containing 25.78 acres of cleared land and 11.95 acres of woodland, E. A. Toadvine, $300.00.

No. 3—containing 5.90 acres, partly cleared, Mrs. Ella Anderson, $50.00.

No. 4—containing 21.27 acres of cleared land and 12.80 acres of woodland, improved by dwelling, S. Q. Johnson, $350.00.

No. 5—containing 36.24 acres of cleared land, and 17.45 acres of woodland, S. Q. Johnson, $570.00.

Lots 6 and 7 were not sold. No. 7 is the residence, beautifully located on a high bluff overlooking the river, and contains 75 acres of improved land. This piece would undoubtedly have brought a handsome figure, if offered.

The aggregate sales were $1,725.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Edward Brittingham, the infant son of Samuel E. and Margaret A. Brittingham who departed this life July 31st, after a short illness, aged—months and 27 days.

Farewell, dear Edward, we give thee up, 'Tis God's most holy will, Though hard it was to part with thee, Yet may we all be still. Why should we mourn or grieve or pine For what the Lord has done? He took our Edward to Himself, Where all the saints shall join.
