Purpose
The purpose of this assignment is threefold: (1) to demonstrate understanding of a literary text through critical analysis in the form of a creative writing response and a reflective essay, (2) to write a piece of collaborative fiction using different writing techniques, and (3) to demonstrate understanding of the role of creative writing in the development of reading, listening, writing, and conversation skills. It consists of 4 main parts:

Part I – Story Outline and Map of an Unchartered Section of Middle Earth
Part II – Collaborative Blog-Based Story of a Missing Moment from The Hobbit
Part III – Reflective Essay
Part IV – Group Oral Presentation

Part I – Story Outline and Map of Unchartered Section of Middle Earth (Collaborative)
One technique for creative writing concerns the development of an outline and visual materials to help the writer envision the context and path of the story. In collaborative groups, students will develop an outline of major plot points of a collaborative story that consists of a missing moment from The Hobbit and will create a map of an unchartered section of Middle Earth in which this story takes place. These tools and techniques will serve as preparation and supporting material for Part II.

Part II – Collaborative Role-Play Story of a Missing Moment from The Hobbit (Collaborative)
Building on the outline and map generate in Part I, students will write a collaborative story (role-play story) based on a missing moment from The Hobbit. Each student will select one character and contribute to the story from that character’s voice and perspective. This necessitates careful attention to the language style, back-story and personality of the character. Each student will be responsible for generating at least 6 paragraph-length contributions to the collaborative story. The finalized stories will be submitted in two forms: (1) on one of several social media/technology-based options for publishing and sharing, (2) and as a word document to a folder on It’s Learning to facilitate grading. Shannon will provide detailed information on these three technology options as well as examples of collaborative stories in class.

Part III – Reflective Essay (Individual)
In this component students are asked to reflect upon what they have gained through the collaborative creative writing process. Below are questions to help guide the reflection:

1. What did the collaborative role-play writing process require you to pay careful attention to?
2. Describe at least two literary or stylistic features you engaged with in writing your section. Give an example of each of these features.
3. In what way can creative writing like this influence the development of reading, writing, listening and conversation skills in English?

Part IV – Group Oral Presentation (Collaborative)
For the final examination, you will present highlights of your project in a 10 minute oral presentation using Powerpoint or other visual tools. Björn will provide more information on this in class.

Evaluation
Your stories will be read to see how well the different parts mesh together (cohesion) and contribute to the story, whether the language is fluent and grammatical, for use of literary or stylistic features, and creativity of ideas.

Research
At the end of the project, you will have the opportunity to learn more about the research side of this project and to offer additional information on what the process was like and what you learned.
