Think Before You Vote

"I nominate Tom Brown," someone will say, and immediately a chorus of laughter and applause will follow. And usually Tom Brown will return the compliment. Often this type of scene occurs at many of our elections.

Of course, we often think of the honor and privilege connected with holding an office in a school organization, but do we ever consider the responsibilities?

During these last six weeks at State many elections occur, and both voters and candidates should keep in mind their respective responsibilities.

The voters, both when nominating and voting, should study the position with regard to what abilities it demands, and then choose the person best qualified to carry out this office. Often we think we are being nice to our friends by nominating them to a particular office, but this may not be the case, especially if our friend is ill-suited for the demands of the office.

Many, many times, elections are carried on as if they were a joke. Someone is nominated and elected as a joke. However the last joke may be on the voters when their officer does not meet his responsibilities, and they, as a club, suffer.

Often a "Let George do it" attitude prevails at an election. No one wants to be president or secretary, but when next October comes, these may be the ones who complain loudest and wish to advise the officers.

During elections we often fail to inform both candidates and voters as to just what the functions and responsibilities of a particular office will be, and as a result, much confusion may occur later. Another confusion-maker is inattention. You've seen him, the boy who raises his hand high, then turns to his neighbor, and asks, "What are we votin' for?"

What are the responsibilities of an officer? We might glibly answer, "to perform and carry out the responsibilities of his office to the best of his ability." Easier said, than done. As a candidate, one should consider his study program and other activities, and the time they consume, before accepting a position.

Of course, you have met the social officer, the officer who appears at the party or when a picture is being taken, but who absolutely vanishes when there is work to be done.

In short, we as voters and officers, all too often, take this matter of elections far too lightly. We must realize that the leaders of our organizations make a vivid impression both on underclassmen and the community. If this is to be a good impression, we must select our officers carefully and seriously.

Cheating Can Be Stopped

People get used to things, they say, but getting used to something that is wrong is no excuse for doing nothing about it.

We're all rather calloused to cribbing, since we have been exposed to it since we were in grade school, but that is no excuse for not trying to stop it. Should we continue to let our fellow students continue taking the easy course, and then in a few years let them take over the direction of world affairs when they do not know what it means to be honest? No; we must do something to stop cheating here and now. The problem is how to stop it.

To eliminate cheating, just as in solving any other problem, we must get to the bottom of it. This means that we must win the cheater over to our side. The surest way of doing this is to convince the cheater that he is being a poor sport, by showing him that cheating in the classroom is just as poor sportsmanship as cheating in a game. To do this effectively, we must co-operate to make the cheater realize how unfair and juvenile he is acting, and show him that he is the odd one in the group, instead of "one of the gang." He will feel like an outcast, just as a poor sport should feel. We should laugh in his face when he brags about cheating, because cheating is ridiculous, although he doesn't seem to understand that. If we make him feel foolish now, we will be doing him an invaluable favor for the rest of his life.

A New American Epic

Sixteen year old Elizabeth Evans, a junior in high school at Akron, Ohio, recently won the national Voice of Democracy Contest with a very inspiring poem. We feel this poem should be read and remembered by every American, and for this reason, we would like to quote a brief section of it:

"I am an American.
Listen to my words, Fascist, Communist.
Listen well, for my country is a strong country,
And my message is a strong message.
I am an American, and I speak for democracy.
My ancestors have left their blood on the green at Lexington and the snow at Valley Forge, on the walls of Fort Sumter . . .
A million and more of my country men have died for freedom.
My country is their eternal monument.
There is a voice in the soul of every human being that cries out to be free.
America has answered that voice.
America has offered freedom and opportunity such as no land before her has ever known . . .

Two Guesses Given

It happens every year! I was determined I wouldn't let it get the best of me this year. I knew it was here when I woke up one morning blinded by the sun streaming through the window. My roommate said, "Well, here it is again."

We went to class and it became all the more evident that it was here from the colorful array of cotton dresses and skirts worn by the girls. Everyone was restless during class and lost no time in vacating the room as soon as the bell rang. The benches and picnic tables replaced the Day Room and Varsity Shop as student centers, as students just swarmed over them. For the idle, they served as ideal places to acquire a suntan, but for the less fortunate, a sunburn. The industrious students, to which the majority belong, due to the numerous tests, study outdoors, since it's impossible to remain indoors.

One finds signs even in the Library that it's here. The tennis and track teams can be seen practicing for games. Baseball scores manage to constitute an important part of every conversation.

Because it is here, everyone has thoughts of the summer and the pleasant vacations that are just days away. But, for the seniors, graduation is the event most anxiously awaited. For the rest of us, exams pose a problem to be conquered before we begin vacations in earnest.

In case you haven't guessed it the "it" is May, the most beautiful of the Spring months.

I. O. U. College Offers Sane Subjects To Insane

The other day I received a catalogue from I. O. U. (Itchamora Often University) at Reno, Nevada; not to be confused with Iowa U. While perusing the three volume set, I ran across a few interesting items.

Physical Education Department, Course UR4-F, Elements of Advanced Fumbling. As this is required for the third degree, there will be no cuts, mostly bruises.

Music 55, Composed Composers and Some Who Were Not (abbreviation may be used on test paper.) Notice—No requests played! The three hour, one-half credit course will include: the works of J. S. Botch, Felix Middle-some, Rimsky's Corsets Off, and a few etudes of Frederic Show Pants including "Moonlight Sinatra."

Science 306½, a pre-medical course, T. B. or Not T. B., based on the studies of Dr. Shakes Fear.

Art 101—The Lost Art of Cave Man Primitives and Immobile Mobiles, including the best of Grandma Knows This.

History 305—Odds and Ends of History, scrapbook is optional except for final grade.

Psychology 740, 380, and 250 (strictly for the horsey set), Winners Lose.

Music 44—Opera Optional, an elective, which includes the best of Strauss as Der Roasted Cavalier, Wagner as Trips Him and Insults Her, Puccini's Madame Butterfingers, Cammaran's Lucia They Clamor More! Mascagni's The Rusty Cavalier, and Verdi's I Eat a Filet Mignon.

Names Reveal Oddities

So you think you know your name? Well, just suppose—

David were Raw instead of Dunn,
Carolyn were Nut instead of Hull,
Bill were Irish instead of Scott,
Mary Alma were Spring instead of Winters,
Eugene were White instead of Brown,

Mary were Sweets instead of Sowers,

David were Waters instead of Ayers,
Phyl were Steak instead of Hamburg,

Ed were Stubble instead of Shuck,

Come, I will make the continent indissoluble,

I will make the most splendid race the sun ever shone upon,

I will make divine magnetic lands, With the love of comrades,

With the life-long love of comrades. I will plant companionship thick as trees along all the rivers of America, and along the shores of the great lakes, and all over the prairies,

I will make inseparable cities with their arms about each other's necks,

By the love of comrades,
By the manly love of comrades

For you these from me, O Democracy, to serve you ma femme!

For you, for you I am trilling these songs.

Dorm Doodles

By MLM

Well, here we go again on the merry-go-round after a long but much needed vacation.

Of course the merry-go-round is just beginning to spin and it will gain momentum as these last six weeks are always filled with banquets, dances, picnics, and of course, tests and research papers.

Saturday, May 8, was the date of an informal dance at the Legion, sponsored by ATA. All the girls are eagerly anticipating their favorite dance, the Prom which will take place at the Clary Club on May 21.

On my usual tour to find the dorm news for this issue, all I could hear was Florida—Palm Beach—The Everglades. Yes, the Maryland Singers were still talking and not being able to hear anything else, I decided to relay this information to you.

According to the Singers, there is such a thing as Southern hospitality, especially in Beaufort, South Carolina, where the USO held a dance for the group along with the regular Marines. In fact, the Marines, with some help perhaps, persuaded the USO to stay open two hours after the regular closing time. And at the New Patri-cian Hotel in Florida, the Singers didn't sing for their supper—they sang for the swimming pool.

Not wishing to be outshone by all this southern charm, the Singers had their own personal representative, the charming Miss Lee Smith, replete in fine clothes.

One of their younger acquaintances, (about eleven) made on the trip, just couldn't believe this was a group of prospective teachers. I don't know what his idea of an ideal teacher was, but I'll bet it's changed now.

Oh yes, as a result of this trip the Singers are contemplating nominating Dr. Matteson for the "Best Dressed Man of the Year." Not that his suits, shirts or ties are exceptional, but that hat! Why every time they entered a restaurant, every eye was turned to that hat. Some of the boys, wishing to gain this distinction, tried to steal this hat. However, Dr. Matteson guarded it carefully and at last report, although Mrs. Matteson was not consulted, it was still in his possession.

Of course, I couldn't begin to relate in this column all the incidents that occurred on the trip. But any time you have half-a-day free, just ask any member, they will be more than glad to tell you.

Students Look Forward, Backward

Here are student reactions to the question, "What did you think about and look forward to this spring?"

Janice Spessard was glad to see the nice warm weather and she wants to get a good suntan.

Nancy Sitter, Margaret Leader, and Shirley Rhodes are all waiting to get out of school. Diane Wilson said, "Graduation." Phil Hamburg was a little more emphatic; she said, "Graduation, Graduation, GRADUATION."

Gail Snyder was waiting for the benches to be put on the lawn. Don Drury is going to revive the study of campusology.

JoAnn Grindle keeps thinking of fifty pounds she was to lose by spring.

Tiny Mongold just turns to thoughts. Ronnie Chapman can't even think.

Homer Schaidt who is studying music has been looking forward to getting into Peabody Conservatory of Music.

Sports are uppermost in a lot of minds. Jack Green has been waiting for tennis and baseball; so has Tommy Kelly. We have a lot of swimming fans on campus. Pat Carter and Joan Kidwell know that summer and swimming aren't far behind spring.

Davie Ayers and Shirley Kaummauf must think alike; they both said "Tas-tee-Freeze."

Eddie Smith just had an Eddie Smith grin and stated, "No Comment."

Margaret Campbell was waiting for the double wedding of her two sisters. Anne Sweeney hopes that if some people get spring fever, they may change their minds about things.

Joyce Warnick said she was thinking of spring house-cleaning.

Like every other member of the Maryland Singers, Bill Hyde was glad to go on the southern tour.

Lee Pryor wants to go trout fishing. Fred Downs has been thinking about Williamsport.

Erma Rawlings can't wait to start those trips to Cacapon State Park.

Dave Phillips wants to go down to Hagerstown.

Spring Entices; Students Abandon Studies

Oh, wouldn't class ever end? she wondered, as she gazed out the window, dreaming into the blue May sky, only half-listening to the drone of the instructor's voice. It seemed that he would go on forever with this endless lecture. She looked around the room and could see that her friends were just as restless as she was, some half-asleep at their desks, and others sitting on the edges of their seats, waiting for the bell to ring.

At last the shrill ringing ended it all, and they were on their feet in an instant, and were rushing for the door. They burst madly into the hall, raced up the steps, and flew through the bridge. They dived up the dorm steps and tore into their rooms, already half-way out of their clothes. Suddenly all was quiet and peaceful. A few minutes later, they emerged from their rooms, calm, composed, and coolly dressed. They sauntered down the stairs and strolled outside. What was the cause of all the commotion? They would tell you that college has taught them to make use of opportunity when it presents itself, and that they believe in putting this into practice. Take a peek at the benches on the lawn, and you'll know what they mean.

Fishing Calls In May

When the cares of life press, and everything seems wrong, go fishing—go trout fishing. Seek out some stream where the trout are jumping, crazy for the fly. Even if you don't succeed in taking any fish—will that be a catastrophe? The important thing is to get out where the cool breezes blow, where you can cure your restlessness and forget your cares.

The pungent fragrance of the balsam and pines at sunrise, the startled flight of birds, the resounding splash of a hungry trout on a still lake, the quality of the early morning hush—all these are a part of fishing. Fishing goes deep into a fellow's soul and does something. Only the fisherman knows. One can never tell what is going to happen. Lady Luck turns the wheel. There is always something new, some surprise in trying to outwit the finny tribe. If you doubt it, just go out and try.

In the evening, just at sundown, when the shadows are deepening in the woods and the crickets are tuning up their fiddles for their all-night serenade, the big trout quit their hidden lairs beneath the rocks in the deep pools and come forth in search of food, and the smaller ones dart across in play. When you see the water break into a ripple and broaden out in disappearing circles, you may know that one of the smaller fry has risen to the surface, only to dart away frightened. But where you see the quiet surface of the pool suddenly part with a swirl, and you catch a gleam of silver and red in the fast fading light, and hear the heavy splash that follows, you may know that a prince of the realm has seized upon the tribute he extorts from the inhabitants of the insect world. Catamounts Whip State

Harry McFarland and Ed Wimer tangled in a neat pitching battle as Potomac State edged State, 2-0, on the former's field. Both pitchers gave up five hits in last week's baseball tilt.

Buddy Poland paced Frostburg with two hits while Beck and Pew each gathered two hits for Potomac State.

Potomac State's win was the second over the Bobcats this season, they having won the opener, 9-1. State's record is now one and seven.

In The Spotlight

By Bob Hutcheson

One of the outstanding events of the college's athletic program will soon take place. I refer, of course, to the All Sports Banquet which will be held in the College dining hall on May 22.

This will be the second annual affair of this kind and it promises to be very worthwhile.

At this banquet, all the athletic awards will be given to the letter winners in all college sports including baseball, basketball, track, soccer, and tennis. The award jacket, which is given to any player winning his letter in a single sport three times, or if he wins six letters in two years, will also be presented to those varsity men meeting the requirements.

An additional award will be presented to Ed Shuck for being chosen the outstanding senior on the soccer squad this season. He was chosen by the team members, the coach, and several other sources.

The tennis team won only one match in its first outing with Fairmont's Falcons. But this does not indicate that the team did not put up a good contest. Unfortunately, with only two courts, it is very difficult for the team to practice together. Practice is extremely important in such a sport as tennis because of the need for a keen eye and an alert body.

The baseball squad has been finding its schedule a bit rough, winning but one contest and dropping six, as we go to press. A strange thing happened recently when only one pitcher showed up for a ball game. The pitcher, freshman Jerry Loibel, held the Ashland Ohio College batters well in hand until the ninth inning when he weakened and lost control of his pitching. Because he was the only twirler available he had to stay in and as a result the Bobcats lost a tough decision.

In a recent contest with Wilson Teachers College, of Washington, only ten players made the trip and the team taking the field included two pitchers and two catchers. One pitcher was in the outfield, and the extra catcher played first base.

The track squad finished third in a triangular meet held in Fairmont, W. Va. The squad found the circular track quite difficult to adjust to, and perhaps this cost them a first place in the distance runs.

The major league teams are still being plagued with injuries. Joe Page, Bobby Thomson, Ted Williams, Mel Parnell, Dick Kryhoski, Roy Campanella, to name a few, are all sporting broken bones . . . Stan Musial, the man who is always in the middle of the controversy on who is best major leaguer of the day, gained a few more persons and votes as a result of his recent outstanding day against the New York Giants when he hit five home runs to set a new record . . . Sorry to hear that Mal Campbell, general manager and sports announcer of Radio Station WCUM, is leaving the station. Mal has done a great deal to help promote athletics and sporting events in the Tri-State area in recent years . . . The Hermanettes, Cumberland's representative in the Atlantic Coast Girls' Softball League, lost both ends of the double-header in the league opener. They are sponsored by the Cumberland Brewery, which is doing a great deal for area athletics.

Bobcats Unimpressive In Seven Games As 'Fumbleitis' Epidemic Strikes Team

In the main opener which featured Harry McFarland's relief pitching, the Cats dropped a 9-7 decision to Ohio Wesleyan. John Clarke started on the mound for the home team, allowing eight runs and six hits in two innings.

The home team slowly whittled down the leaders, jumping on Carlisle, the winning pitcher, for four runs in the eighth; but Popp came to put out the fire. The game was marred by 13 errors, seven for the winners.

Frostburg 010 010 041—7 8 6
Carlisle, Popp (8), Weisman; Clarke, McFarland (3), Bailey, Barham (6).

After battling to a 2-2 tie for six innings, the Bobcat pitching weakened and the Shepherd Rams scored five times in two innings to ice a 7-2 victory for the home team. Jerry Loibel pitched six innings, giving up nine hits but closing the door on Ram rallies until he weakened, giving way to Jack Cline. Cline, unable to retire the side, was relieved by Clarke who put out the fire. Jerry Loibel batted in two Cat runs with a two-out single in the second. "Bud" Poland and Bill Kirk led the visiting offense with two hits apiece.

Boxscore:
Frostburg 020 000 000—2 9 4

Loibel, Cline (8), Clarke (8), and Barham; Reardon and Pratico.

After blowing a five run lead to be tied at the end of six, 5-5, the Frostburg Bobcats put on their best display of scoring ability and clubbed Mt. Union pitchers, Mcrey and Palthami, for five runs to take their first win of the season, 10-6.

Tommy Kelly starred for the Cats with four singles and two tough catches in the left field arena. Bob Miller and Harry McFarland also contributed two hits apiece. McFarland pitched steady ball, weakening in the fourth behind two walks and four errors. During this nightmare when the Ohioans scored five times to tie, McFarland struck out the side. Jim Laughlin and Bill Wyland led the Mt. Union batting attack.

Boxscore:
Mt. Union 000 500 100—6 8 5
Frostburg 302 000 50x—10 14 6

Spencer, Morey (3), Beltrami (7), and Laughlin; McFarland and Bailey.

Finding themselves behind by nine runs with an inning to go, the Frostburg Bobcats smashed the offerings of Ashland pitching for six runs, but were stopped three short of tying and lost their third game in four tries, 13-10. The Cats used three singles and four walks to put a scare into the visitors, who had built up a gigantic lead off Jerry Loibel and John Clarke. Bob Kirk led the bat swinging with four singles and brother Bill, along with John Clarke, countered with two hits apiece.

Boxscore:
Ashland 450 220 000—13 15 0

The Ashland College baseball team returned to Frostburg to stare at defeat until the ninth. When it looked as if the Cats were to gain their second win of the season the Ohio boys collected four hits and two walks which gathered them five runs and an 8-4 victory. Jerry Loibel was the victim of the hit barrage which made his record 0-3 for the year. The Cats had only three hits, one a gonging triple from the bat of Bob Kirk, Cat first sacker.

Boxscore:
Ashland 020 010 005—8 9 1
Frostburg 020 000 200—4 3 1

Clubbing out 15 hits and taking full advantage of six Frostburg errors, the Pot State nine trounced the home Cats, 9-4, in the first game of the traditional home and home series. The visitors iced the game by scoring twice in the fifth on doubles by Cain and Beck and an error by Bill Kirk, Cat shortstop. Tom Kelly socked out three singles and Joe Wolfe returned to the lineup after being out with an injury to get two raps, one a double.

Boxscore:
Pot. State 002 220 201—9 15 3
Frostburg 011 001 001—4 8 6

Dove and Beck, Mastrein (8); McFarland, Cline (8), and Barham.

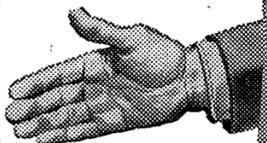

Giving up thee unearned runs with walks and shoddy fielding at crucial moments, the Cats dropped their sixth game of the campaign to Wilson College, 3-2, in seven innings. Not fielding their regular team, the visitors from Maryland could not meet up with the "junk" pitches of Jay Estrain and collected only five spaced hits. Each team collected five hits, all of them being singles. The Cats were out played from the field and lacked the spirit of a winning club. Miller was the only man with two singles and drove in both of the Frostburg runs.

Boxscore:
Frostburg 010 000 1—2 5 3
Wilson 200 100 x—3 5 1
