Concert Pianist Instructs F. S. T. C. Music Students

Administrators, Faculty To Speak At Area Clubs

Dr. Lillian C. Compton has been invited to speak to the faculty wives at the University of Maryland in welcoming the wife of the new president to the campus on Wednesday, October 20. The topic of Dr. Compton's address will be "How Faculty Wives Can Contribute To Student Life."

Dean Ivan C. Diehl will represent F. S. T. C. at an Educational Conference in Hagerstown on Thursday, October 21. All high school students of Washington County will be invited to attend the conference to be held at Hagerstown High School. The purpose of the conference will be to acquaint students with the programs and offerings of some fifty to a hundred colleges within a radius of one hundred to two hundred miles.

Dr. Harold Reese, Mr. Ivan C. Diehl and Mr. Alfred Taylor will attend the Annual Conference, District 264 of Rotary International October 18 and 19, at Bedford Springs Hotel, Bedford, Penna.

Mr. Diehl will be moderator of a Forum on International Service. The Rotary Club of Frostburg is host club of the conference.

"The great end of life is not knowledge, but action."

Mrs. Mary Bollino, a native of Frostburg, has succeeded Mrs. Maurice Matteson as piano instructor at F. S. T. C. Some of her feelings about her work so far are as follows:

"Like the average Frostburger, I little dreamed that the college was the big and important institution that it is. I feel we should do something to get this idea across to the people of the town. I would also like to add that I am delighted with the high caliber of students that I am teaching."

Mrs. Bollino has in the past taught French, Spanish, and English at Allegany High School, Penn Avenue High and Beall High. She received her primary education here in Frostburg at St. Michael's Grammar School and Beall High School. She received her college education at the University of Pittsburgh where her main interests were in music and languages. In her senior year she was elected to the Pitt Hall of Fame. She has attended summer school at New York University, the University of Maryland, and Catholic University in Washington, D. C.

In addition to her job here, Mrs. Bollino also directs the choir at St. Michael's Catholic Church.

She is well known throughout this area as an excellent concert pianist. Both students and townspeople recall the two-piano concert which she and Mrs. Maurice Matteson presented to an enthusiastic audience last spring.

Dean Ivan C. Diehl has announced that the college will be closed October 14 and 15. During this time faculty members will attend various meetings with the Maryland State Teachers' Association in Baltimore.

Schools Recognize Poetry Day, Oct. 15

On Friday, October 15, National Poetry Day will be celebrated by most of the schools in Maryland. The national director of the organization is Etta Josephine Murfey, of Lakeland, Florida.

The purpose of this special celebration is to stimulate interest in poetry through the schools, clubs, churches, libraries, press and radio, in the belief that, through its inspiration, it can lead the way to man's peace of mind and world harmony.

Poetry Day originated in Ohio through the efforts of Tessa Sweazy Webb. The first proclamation was issued by the Governor of Ohio in 1938. Texas was the first state to observe October 15 through the efforts of Lucia Trent, who conceived the idea of designating October 15 as a day in which both poets and poetry were to be honored. One state after another followed the lead of Texas and took up the idea of designating October 15 as Poetry Day in the state calendar by proclamations of their respective Governors. In 1950, thirty states and Alaska celebrated on October 15.

The chairman in Cumberland is Margielea Stonestreet.

Students To Attend M. A. T. A. Convention

Panel Discussions To Be On Program

I. R. C. will hold its next meeting on October 28, the regular fourth Thursday, in the Club Room in Old Main. The club will not meet tomorrow, October 14, because of the M. S. T. A. Convention in Baltimore.

The program will be a panel discussion followed by an open forum. The panel for the announced topic, "E. D. C. or—?" will consist of Joe Kelly, the president of I. R. C., Don Sellin, the club treasurer, and Bill Hyde, who was the keynote speaker at the spring conference at this college. Tom Maherly, the club vice-president, will serve as moderator.

At the end of the meeting, the secretary and treasurer will enroll new members on the I. R. C. roster.

During the business meeting, consideration of tentative plans for the Middle Atlantic Subregional Conference of College International Relations Clubs will take place. This matter particularly concerns I. R. C. here because it was the only Maryland college club represented at the annual American International Relations Club Conference at New York last spring.

Because of this fact, I. R. C. won recognition as an active college club with initiative and ability. It was at this conference that members of I. R. C. realized that a regional organization of college clubs was a need.

The delegates brought back to our own I. R. C. new methods and enthusiasm from these conferences. Among those delegates were Mary Kay Logsdon, former I. R. C. member; Joe Kelly and Bill Scott, present members; Paul Barnett, Charles Sitter; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott (Mrs. Scott is the former Irene Michael), Alumni members.

At 1:45 p. m. October 5, Joe Kelly and Ben Elkins discussed "The U. N. and Its Progress" over WTBO. They were invited to present this discussion by Mrs. Adam Baer and Mrs. Glenn Beall of the Homemakers Association of Frostburg.

I. R. C. successfully carried out its Homecoming publicity program.

The American University Women of the Frostburg-Georges Creek area have invited the members of I. R. C. to attend their next meeting at the college auditorium on the evening of October 20. The program will feature a speaker who will give an interesting talk concerning the Far East.

Dr. Hazel Ramsay and Dr. Howard L. Briggs are the advisors of this club.

Leo Stakem, president of the Benjamin Franklin Chapter of the Future Teachers of America and of the Maryland Association of Future Teachers of America, will preside at the Representative Assembly during the annual fall convention of MAFTA.

This year's convention is being held at the Forest Park High School in Baltimore, on Saturday, October 16, from 1:15-4:30 p. m. Students who are interested in going to the meeting should contact Leo Stakem.

Robert A. Skarfe, Field Secretary, National Commission for the Defense of Democracy, National Educational Association, will be the principal speaker at the convention.

The MAFTA will have an exhibit in the Fifth Regiment Armory as a feature of the convention. Gus Kirby from Notre Dame College is chairman of the exhibition committee.

The Benjamin Franklin Chapter is planning to sponsor a bus to the convention for college representatives and county high school representatives. The bus will leave the college at 7:30 a. m.

The program for the MAFTA convention is as follows:

- 1:30 Luncheon
- 2:15 Speaker, Robert A. Skarfe Field Secretary, National Commission for the Defense of Democracy through Education, National Education Association Presiding: Leo Stakem
- 3:00 Representative Assembly M. A. F. T. A.
- 4:00 Tea and Social Program

Last May 8 the following Frostburg students were appointed to committees by the president: Danny Evans, chairman of State Finance Committee; Ronald Carpenter, Policy and Constitution Committee, and Mary Kay Logsdon, Nominating Committee.

Luncheon To Entertain Nurses On October 22

The group of forty-two nurses from Memorial Hospital now attending F. S. T. C. will be entertained at a luncheon at 1:00 p. m., October 22, in the college dining hall.

A speech of welcome will be made by Dr. Lillian C. Compton to the group.

Mrs. Gladys Brooks, Superintendent of Nurses at Memorial Hospital, and Mrs. Norma Harvey, Education Director, will be guests, as will also the college instructors, Mrs. Howard Tolson, Mr. Lowell Sowers, Mr. Joseph Kohout, and Dr. Lucile N. Clay.

Sorority and Fraternity Plan Dance To Be At Clary Club

"Fall Fantasy" was chosen as the theme for the Phi Omicron Delta Sorority and Delta Kappa Fraternity dance, to be held at the Clary Club on November 12 from 9:00 till 1:00.

This year a prize was offered to that person who would suggest the best theme for the dance. Ruth Shade was the winner in this contest.

All students are invited.

C. Miller To Assist Brother As Missionary In Luxembourg

Miss Catherine Miller, an advanced freshman, will finish the first semester at F. S. T. C. before leaving for Dudelange, Luxembourg, in the early spring. She will go as a missionary of the Conservative Mennonite Church and will assist her brother, an ordained minister, and his wife, who have been living in Luxembourg for three years.

Her term of service will be for five years, followed by a furlough of one year. Miss Miller will teach both classes in Arts and Crafts for children and Sunday School. She is being sent by the Mission Board of her church.

The two languages spoken in Luxembourg are German and French. Miss Miller already speaks German and is at present taking the first course in French and auditing the second year class taught by Miss Irene Kirkeby.

Newman Club To Have Dr. Harney As Advisor

The newest group to be organized on the campus is the Newman Club.

The adoption of a constitution, the election of officers, and the selection of a regular meeting time have been the main items of business at their recent meetings. Father Larkin is the spiritual director of the club and Dr. Laura B. Harney is the faculty advisor.

The constitution was drawn up by Dr. Harney, Maureen Manley, temporary chairman, and Ann Sweene, acting secretary. It was accepted with an amendment as to the regular meeting time. This will be one Monday of every month at 10:00 a. m. The membership dues will be two dollars per year.

The activities of the club include all members attending Mass and Communion in one body, three times per year. These times will be the second Sunday in December, Palm Sunday, and the first Sunday in May.

Membership in the organization is open to all Catholic students. However, non-Catholic students may attend meetings and discussions.

Miss Petry Attends Meeting In New York

Miss Arline Petry, director of student teaching, will leave for New York on Thursday in order to attend a meeting of the Board of Control of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers to be held Friday, October 15, at the Hotel New Yorker.

The Board of Control consists of the officers of the Association, and one faculty delegate and one student delegate from each state covered by the association. Mary Kay Logsdon, a senior, is Maryland's student delegate this year. She will be unable to attend the meeting.

The founding of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers was the outgrowth of a conviction that prospective teachers should understand better the structure of a democratic society and the social processes that flow through such structures.

The purpose of the Association is to improve the services of teacher education institutions. This general aim is to be promoted through the cooperative participation of students and faculty in the formulation of aims, policies, and practices.

If You Are A Time Killer You May Become A Teacher

This is a fairy story, or maybe you'd call it a fly story. In any case it starts like a fairy story.

Once upon a time, not so very long ago, there was in the Kingdom of Frostburg, an academy to train time killers. There seemed to be a great demand for time killers, for there came calls for them from all over the kingdom. It took four years to train a good time killer, for only the best came out of Frostburg. A time killer started his day very early, around about eight (this was only if you hadn't been killing time the night before). Regular classes were held, if you attended them. You always had so much home work you never had time to kill.

Now there was on this campus a place where the students did their practicing. By many of the people in the academy it was called the cracker-box, but the students called it the Shop.

Now the winters in Frostburg get right fierce, in fact, so bad that the academy gets snowed in the first of November and never gets out until the spring thaw, along about May. It got to be October and the winds were beginning to blow, and it wasn't fit out for man nor beast. The flies in the area knew they would have to find shelter, or it would be the end. They first tried the science building, but the smells of Mr. Sowers' chemistry class were worse than a buzz bomb. One of their scouts came back to report that he had found a nice place right near by.

The very next time the students came into the Shop, the place seemed to be darker than usual. No one thought to look at the ceiling. One of the girls ordered two hamburgers, sat down to kill a little time playing (guess what), yep the same. She put her sandwiches at her elbow, she played a card, turned to get a sandwich, and lo and behold, it was gone! Now, she didn't think too much about it, because there were a lot of hungry students about. The young lady began to ask questions; after all, someone had to take that sandwich. No one had seen the whereabouts of the hamburger, when all at once, someone looked overhead and on the ceiling; the flies were having a feast.

A little farther up the room a few of the boys were playing ping-pong. It was a fast and exciting game; after all, Ed had to get that championship again. The ball was given an awful whack and bounced toward the ceiling, never to be seen again. To this day ping-pong isn't played in Frostburg.

In the television corner the set was blasting out the strains of "Dragnet," and Joe Friday's, "I just want the facts, ma'am," was keeping the set warm. Now the flies were "Dragnet" fans too, so they all flew down to watch the program. They covered the whole screen; after all, everyone knows flies are near-sighted.

The students gave up and left; they just couldn't stand the flies.

And that is why, dear children, the academy at Frostburg is a Teachers' College. For how can you be a time killer, when you have no place to kill time? The moral of this story is: Don't learn to be a time killer; you may end up a teacher.

A Schmo, Amas, Amat Rome Rules The World

Did you know Rome was the senator of the world at one time? Perhaps we had better translate Julius Geezer's Commissarys on the War in Gaul.

The first mention in history of a cannibal was when a starving roaming general devoured a peasant woman and became the first Glad He Ate Her.

It was quite a spectacle when Nero sighted the burning of Rome.

Baseball received quite a setback in the Colosseum when there was much activity in the bull pen. Christians pitched to the Tigers. The decline came when the Roman Form had to be filled out in triplicate.

Line of Roman Rulers (Slightly mixed up after eruption of Vesuvius) Julius, Seize Her! (Drooled from 447 B. C. until stabbed.)

Disgusts Us Caesar (Courtied and cavorted with Cleo).

Pompey (very much mixed up after eruption of Vesuvius).

Nero (fiddled away his life).

Thumbnail Sketches

Louise Powers—hails from Hancock, tall and dark, loves roommates? enjoys dramatics, likes Frostburg's churches.

Gail Lutz—food, known for her hilarious antics, wears glasses, says she's from the best city in the state, Hagerstown. Of course, everybody knows this is just another one of her antics, loves sports.

Darlene Myers—hails from Allegany in Cumberland, goes steady, so "hands off," cute and neat, music enthusiast.

Ruby Livingood—tall blonde, hometown is Oldtown, goes all out for international affairs.

Gail Davis—wears bangs, very petite, hails from Baltimore, loves to argue, especially about the Negro problem, likes the friendliness of Frostburg students, loves the mountains and of course the boys.

Rodger Reynolds—tall, engineering student, went to Fort Hill in Cumberland, freshman day student.

Glendon Kline—cute with loads of personality, from Cumberland, likes the girls, especially those named ..... plays the trumpet.

Mary Mertz—tall and quiet, studies hard, junior from Westport, even tempered, neat, flashes a sweet smile often.

Donald Beeman—junior, Frostburger, tall, dark, and handsome, but he's married, girls! also plays basketball.

Roberta Markwood—sophomore, cleans room every day, studies hard, often seen with Shirle.

Russell Robertson—junior, day student, a cute kid, just loves those nurses.

John Conroy—advanced freshman, a long way from home, Birmingham, Michigan, loves biology, no comment on the girl angle, a golf enthusiast, always seen in his black and white saddles, a real hep cat.

War Clouds Gather Over State Battlefield

Another day had almost ended on the campus of Frostburg State. Classes were out, instructors were driving to their homes and the day students had already departed for the night. The campus was almost deserted.

Dark clouds were convening overhead to discuss the nearing event. Birds overhead were screeching warnings to each other and soon they had left their bough-supported nests. Even the college cat had meowed, hunched her back, and made a hissing retreat.

The school children who were romping in the grass, suddenly were sure their mothers were calling them to dinner. The few students who were still comfortably chatting decided they would go indoors to wait for dinner-time. The front lawn was soon deserted for the oncoming battle.

It wasn't the fear of an A-bomb attack that quickly cleared the campus—no, it was just that Fred Downs, Don Drury, Fred Dixon, and some other valiant warriors were preparing for their nightly "War of the Acorns."

Great Don Has Accident; Ancient Brolly Retrieved

It's a widely-preached fact that the goods of this world are only loaned to mortals on a temporary basis. And all English Literature students who have been studying the moral teachings set forth in "Everyman," are especially well-versed in this subject.

One such student was walking out of the cafeteria last week, behind Dr. Briggs, who was speaking to some students as he passed along. This history instructor, having his head turned sideways as he walked by, bumped into a row of coat hangers which were hanging from the cafeteria clothes-rack.

The English Lit. enthusiast, still dwelling on the above-mentioned subject, shouted, "You can't take it with you, Doc!" Both chuckled for a moment, when Dr. Briggs burst into his jolly laugh and exclaimed, "I'd better take it with me!" as he went back to retrieve his umbrella, which, true to the form of the proverbial absent-minded professor, he had left, forgotten on the shelf! (Brolly is British for umbrella.)

Little Frosh

One October afternoon
Two girls were strolling down the walk;

Many things had come about
And so they thought they'd have a talk.

One began to cut across
The green grass growing all around;

Said the other, "That's against the law,
And I'd just die if I were found."

So the good girl took the long way 'round,
And on the way, met Mr. Diehl,

Awe-inspired by his fearful glance,
Said, "Morning, sir, how do you feel?"

The other, marching 'cross the lawn
As Dean of Instruction came her way,

Smiled and greeted him, and drawled,
"Well, how is Pappy Diehl today?"

The other girl watched and gulped
And said,
"I can hardly believe my eyes:
To talk to Mr. Diehl that way
—Do you think it's really wise?"

Her companion look surprised
But then she smiled a knowing smile

And they both sat and talked a bit
And then moved on after a while.

"Let's go to the library," suggested one.
The other agreed, so off they went.

But once amidst the rows of books
Quoth the first, "I wish someone would invent
A way to find the books you want
Without getting lost like me."

The other girl had already found
What she was hunting, easily.

"You look it up in the catalog first,"
She told her friend who was grieving thus,

"And then to the shelf and there it is No need for raising all this fuss!"

After studying hard and long
They decided they'd rest a spell,
So together they passed dear Old Main
And then trudged down the path well worn.

They reached the Varsity shop and entered—
One smiled as a path thru the crowd she weaved,

The other stood aghast and thought
"Oh my, just like a den of thieves!"

Now, no offense is meant, dear friends,
For I'm just writing what I've seen:
The difference between a sophomore
And a little freshman who still is green."

Coeds Looking Forward To Happy Moments During October Holiday

The State Teachers Convention held annually in Baltimore is but a short time away, and Frostburg students are planning many happy moments ahead. When asked what their holidays would be like, these students answered:

Diana Molinari—would like to take a trip to New York or Miami (donations, please!)

Louise Ewald—hopes to spend a long and leisurely vacation.

Marilyn Baldwin—is planning to stay here to check the weather vane and temperature for Mr. Diehl.

Grace Nagle—"dull."

Jeanette Hicks—would enjoy hitchhiking to Korea. We wonder why?

Carolyn Baum—will be sitting on the barbed wire fence feeding chickens in the wee hours of the morning.

Jo Ann Kysler—is looking forward to leaving because there is "no place like Frostburg."

Gail Lutz—hopes to go crabbing on the Eastern Shore.

Ruby Livingood—"full."

Shirley Shaw—wants to get "the whole gang" together and go to the Varsity in Waynesboro.

Mary Yoder—is looking forward to a "snipe hunt" on Haystack Mountain.

Sarah Slick—hopes to be a god-mother.

Janice Spessard—would enjoy visiting Baltimore and would like to spend some time in study.

Bonnie Henson—would be happy to skate and visit Boonsboro.

Mary Eileen Powers—a recovery.

Clara Martz—lonely (all the important boys will be in Hagerstown).

Lulu Bailey—is looking forward to visiting old friends. We wonder who?

Gail Snyder—is going to the Fort Hill football game.

Dolores Fahey—expects a "rip-roaring" weekend at Washington College.

Gail Davis—will be having a "rare" time at the University of Maryland.

Congratulations To All

Hardy thanks and congratulations are in line for all those individuals and organizations who donated their time and effort to make the 1954 Homecoming at FSTC such a huge success.

First of all, we wish to thank Dr. Hazel Ramsay and Dr. Howard Briggs for their fine work as co-chairmen of the publicity committee. With the co-operation of these two members of the faculty and the IRC, the homecoming celebration was carried off most successfully.

The parade as viewed by alumni, students, faculty and residents of Frostburg was the best one thus far in the annual event. For this we congratulate all the organizations who were represented in the parade and the local bands who provided the music for marching. Special thanks go to the marshal of the parade, Mike Smith, for his tireless work as parade chairman.

For his superb performance as MC we thank Mr. Ronald Rowan. Without a good MC the afternoon's activities wouldn't have gone off nearly as smoothly.

But what is any celebration without the beauties of the campus reigning over it all? On this we congratulate Queen Jane and her court of lovely ladies for their outstanding performance.

Then of course we must commend the sophomore class for giving the alumni, students, and faculty of FSTC such a wonderful climax to the day's activities. The dance at the Legion Home was truly a gala affair and we enjoyed it to the utmost.

Leaving the best till last, we wish to thank Dr. Lillian Compton for her whole hearted co-operation in furthering the success of the celebration. We also wish to thank the Alumni Association for the testimonial dinner rendered in honor of our president and for their part in State's annual affair.

All in all, each and every individual of FSTC can be proud of the 1954 homecoming celebration.

Our Four-Fold Responsibility

Education students become professional only when they realize their total responsibilities.

The idea that the teacher's responsibility ends with teaching in the classroom was discarded long ago. It is now recognized that all members of the teaching profession have at least a four-fold responsibility in their service to society: (1) "continuous personal and professional growth toward maximum competency and thus toward maximum service to children; (2) co-operative work with immediate colleagues toward well-rounded educational services throughout the school system; (3) participation in community activities to the end that the teacher may carry his share as a member of the community, as an interpreter of the school to the community, and as a participant in cooperative action and adult education; (4) participation in the work of the organized teaching profession so that the standards of the profession may be raised, the quality of the services of its members increased, and the welfare of all members may be enhanced."

As you think over these four-fold responsibilities of teaching, just realize how much your membership in F. T. A. will help you to achieve professional maturity.

For example, it will give you an understanding of the importance of having all teachers link themselves together for the purpose of working ethically, cooperatively, and powerfully for the elevation of the profession.

It enables you to hold active membership in the united professional organizations — the N. E. A. and the M. A. F. T. A. and your local F. T. A. chapter.

We will find that only when we, the students, begin to participate actively as members of the profession, only when we, too, help set the goals and tackle the problems — only then will we really begin to mature professionally. Only then will we comprehend the purposes, values, and power for good which lie within the united teaching profession.

"Credit Where Credit's Due"

We, the members of the staff of State-to-Date and the students of F. S. T. C., have been wondering why nothing has been done about the proposal to name our new auditorium-gymnasium in honor of Dr. Lillian C. Compton. This was mentioned in our editorial column several times last year and we feel that the matter is of sufficient importance to merit further consideration. It was also proposed by a member of the State Board last spring in an assembly here at the college.

We feel that most of the citizens of this community are agreed that Dr. Compton deserves this token of commemoration.

No one will doubt that Dr. Compton has done more for our college than any other member of the faculty or administration. Besides the material things which she has added to our campus, of which we are all aware, a great deal of her own goodness has enriched the college. We may feel sure that since her coming here she has always had this college and its well-being and promotion as her first consideration.

Is there any reason why we should not make some attempt to show our appreciation for all of her efforts and accomplishments?

Senior Class Studies Racial Problems

The senior class of "Social Studies in the Junior High School," taught by Mr. Stanley Stahl, is now engaged in formulating and collecting material for a unit on an extremely controversial and timely topic, "Segregation in the Public Schools."

The thesis of the unit is concerned with the fact that one of two situations might exist in a seventh grade class: (a) the class will be informed that next year or semester the group will be made up of both white and colored students, or (b) the class has suddenly been integrated, with little advance notice. It is easy to see that in either case, much work needs to be accomplished to establish a democratic classroom situation. Each phase of the unit will contribute toward that goal.

Although not a new idea, the reference material and literature on this phase of the race problem is extremely limited. To make the work even more difficult, each student working on the unit will find it very necessary to adjust his own philosophy and understandings. In reality, this unit has a possible use in teacher-training and in-service growth, in addition to the public school classroom.

Committees have been formulated as follows: (1) Philosophy, Objectives and Overview: Leo Stakem, Marian Coontz, George Habeeb, Benjamin Elkins, Thomas Faherty, and Ronald Carpenter; (2) Assimilative Materials: Anthony Cioni, Beverly Bennett, Holbert Fazenbaker, Lois Neilson, and James Byrnes; (3) Assimilative Activities: Ronald Chapman, Gladys Wensel, Ronald Ruffo, William Kirk, and Russell Yokum; (4) Evaluating and Culminating Activities: Carol Conrad, Earl Shoemaker, Francis Harris, Leo Rowan, and James McGann; and (5) References: Daniel Evans, Daniel Ellifritz, Joseph Kelley, Robert McAlpine, and Carleton Shore.

Elementary Principles Organizes Committees

The class in Principles of Teaching in the Elementary School, taught by Dr. Reese, recently organized in order to give the students experience in several areas. These will include committee work, use of resource people, and the presenting of material to the group.

Esther Miller will serve as the general chairman and Larna Cutter will be the secretary. Members of the Planning Committee are Ethel Houck, chairman; John Clarke, Joan Hesson, Thomas Kelly, Rita McKenzie, Betty McLaughlin, Roma Preman, and Joanne Shertzler.

The Instructional Aids Committee includes the following students: Lorraine Martens, chairman; Jean Holbert, Maureen Manley, Joseph Morgan, Sara Ramsey, and Carol Sweeney.

The Ditto or Duplicating Committee is composed of Lorraine Keiser, chairman; Florence Marshall, Robert Miller, and Jean Ramsy.

The Attendance Committee consists of Annette Delamater, chairman; Vivian Bennett, and Margaret Kershner.

Serving on the Bulletin Board Committee are: Anne Dixon, chairman; Mike Cunningham, Dale Swecker, Dave Phillips, and Joan Snyder.

Working on the Education in the News Committee are: Elinor Sines, chairman; Mary Ramsey, Virginia Shoemaker, Annette Smith, and Edward Smith.

The Publicity Committee consists of Mary Lou Malcomb, chairman, and James Dickey. The Historians are Robertine Boyle, chairman, and Rosemary Lancaster.

Agenda Under Discussion

By Alpha Tau Alpha Fraternity

At the second regular meeting the Alpha Tau Alpha fraternity decided that a new picture composite would be made of the fraternity to be hung in the hall of Old Main.

It was also brought to the attention of the fraternity that the mother of former member Albert Snelson had passed away. They decided to send a spray of flowers to the home.

Plans were also made to represent the fraternity in the annual Homecoming parade.

The pledge committee has started plans for taking new members into the fraternity.

Seven Students Pledge In Frostburg Sorority

The fall rush season of Phi Omicron Delta Sorority began on Monday, October 4, with the following girls accepting pledges: Joyce Warnick, Joan Kidwell and Margaret Leader, sophomores, and Joan Snyder, Annette Delamater, Joanne Shertzler and Elinor Sines, juniors.

Serving as rush captains were Susan Mostoller and Mary Kay Poland.

The various activities include a talent night presented by the pledges, a party for the old sorority members, a trip up street, and an informal initiation. On Sunday, October 10, the group attended church services at Welsh Memorial Baptist Church.

The formal banquet which will conclude all activities will be held next Wednesday, October 20, at the Cumberland Country Club. Mr. Charles Sager and Mrs. Mary Drumm Bolino, both members of the music department, will provide several selections for the group.

Dr. Lucile Clay and Mrs. Howard Tolson are serving as Phi Omicron Delta Sorority advisors.

Alpha Psi Omega Fraternity To Hold Assembly On March 7

Alpha Psi Omega dramatic fraternity held a banquet in the dining hall Tuesday, October 12. The banquet and meeting was in charge of last year's remaining officers. These officers include Bruce Ambrose, president, and Lucy Kreichbaum, secretary.

Any students interested in dramatics and who have had past experience and wish to become members of Alpha Psi Omega are requested to see Miss White, advisor, or Bruce Ambrose.

The fraternity members have also decided to hold an assembly March 7.

Students Enjoy Square Dances

The Do Ci Do Club is now functioning under the direction of two student advisors, Ben Elkins and John Martin.

President of the organization is Norma Grimes. Virginia Shoemaker is secretary, Maureen Manley, treasurer, and Marie Goldsworthy is social director.

Al Schwinabart from Elk Garden, W. Va., is this year's caller.

In order to join Do Ci Do, one does not need to be an expert at square dancing.

Exhibit Stresses Fire Prevention Week

Another new exhibit was recently placed in the library in observance of Fire Prevention Week, October 3-9. Charles Briggs, who was responsible for setting up the display, told that it was centered around the school system. The theme is "school fires," which is particularly appropriate since this institution is a teachers college, the majority of whose students will one day teach school.

The exhibit consists of several books and magazines dealing with fire fighting, prevention of school fires and the building of fire-safe schools. Photographs of two new fire engines for West Side (Cumberland), and Clarysville, plus pictures of the apparatus here in Frostburg and an article about the Frostburg Fire Department shortly after it was organized on March 18, 1878, can be seen in both display cases along with some small fire engines which belong to Charles Briggs.

The scene in the small display case is that of a small town, with the fire engines going out to answer an alarm. Two copies of the magazine, "Fire Engineering" can be seen in one corner. One of the magazines is open to an article entitled, "The School that was Built to Burn," which tells of a rather recent school fire in which a practice teacher distinguished herself by her courage.

The magazines in both cases belong to Charles Briggs, and the books are the property of the college library.

Of particular interest was the magazine from the Baltimore "Sun" for February 7, 1954, which was devoted entirely to pictures and text concerning the Baltimore fire of Sunday, February 7, 1904.

Now, to give credit where credit is due—the buildings in the exhibit belong to Dick Rephann, the cars and fireplugs belong to Earl Shumaker, and the fire engines are the property of Charles Briggs.

Charles told that he has collected fire engines and pictures of fire apparatus since 1945. He has no particular reason for doing so, other than the fact that such things fascinate him.

Dance Highlights Homecoming Events

As one of the main items on their agenda for the year, the Sophomore Class sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance. This event was held at the American Legion Home, October 9, from 9-12 with music provided by the Aristocrats Orchestra.

The arrangements for the event were made at the last class meeting, at which William Hyde presided. The committee appointed to handle orchestra and ticket arrangements included Pat Carter, chairman, James King, Shirley Kammauf, Thomas Rowan, and Roberta Markwood.

The decoration committee was comprised of Mary Jo Clatterbuck, chairman, Mary Catherine Maher, Dolores Fahey, Glenn Ryan, Robert Wilson and Robert Kirk. This committee also arranged for the posters which were placed around the campus.

Other business at the meeting included the nomination of princesses to represent the class on the Queen's float in the Homecoming parade. The results of the election named Pat Carter and Anne Leonard to the Queen's court.

Davison Ayers was elected as the Day Student Representative to the Student Congress.

Miss Irene Kirkeby is class advisor.

Seniors Set Plans; Miss Wenzel Feted

The first Senior Class meeting was held September 22, with Bruce Ambrose presiding.

The Seniors decided to enter a float in the Homecoming Parade. Nancy Tennant and Rosemary Folk were in charge of the float. The class was also represented at the Homecoming by Queen Jane Souders and her two Senior attendants, Rosemary Folk and Fay Rhodes.

Since time passes so quickly, the Seniors have already begun to formulate plans involving graduation. Senior Class pictures will be taken at Ruhl's Studios, measurements will be taken for graduation robes, and a committee has been appointed to prepare the tentative plans for the Senior Assembly. The members of this committee are: Nancy Tennant, Rosemary Folk, Jane Souders, Fay Rhodes, Leah Clise, Margaret Steele, Jan Nickel, Bruce Ambrose, Bill Kirk, Hobbie Fazenbaker.

Miss Gladys Wensel, a member of the senior class, was feted at a surprise bridal shower on September 30 in the college dining room. Hostesses were the Misses Mary Kay Logsdon, Janet Maddrix, Eleanor Whetsel, and Ann Riggelman.

After the bride-elect opened her attractively wrapped gifts, refreshments were served from a table decorated with fall flowers.

Those present included the Misses Marion Coontz, Nancy Tennant, Fay Rhodes, Rosemary Folk, Carol Conrad, Patsy Bohn, Clover Jean Clopper, Jane Souders, Mary Sowers, Beverly Merriman, Margaret Steele, Arra M. Bishop, Norma Nelson, Rosemary Lancaster, Beverly Bennett, Mary Clatterbuck, Elinor Sines, Phyllis Campbell, Ellen Morgan, Eleanor Smith, Barbara Henry, Ruth Collier, Delores Ross and the Mrs. JoAnne Nichol and Mrs. Leatrice Kerrigan.

Gladys will become the bride of William Faherty, a graduate in the class of 1953. Mr. Faherty teaches at Allegany High School.

S. C. A. To Visit Church

The Student Christian Association met Monday, September 27, in the new chapel. During the meeting several committees were appointed to plan a trip to Springs Mennonite Church near Grantsville.

A float representing the S. C. A. made its appearance in the Homecoming Parade on October 9. Also at the Homecoming game S. C. A. sponsored a food stand as one of its projects for the year.

Several freshmen as well as upper classmen were present at this meeting and we wish to extend a welcome to everyone to chapel and our meetings.

'A Cup of Tea' Features An All Freshmen Cast

Little Theatre To Open Year With Miss White Directing

"A Cup of Tea," by Florence Ryerson, will be presented by Little Theatre on Parents' Night, November 4.

The cast of the farce will all be freshmen. Alan Shane will portray Wilford Wendell, a poet, and Shirley Shaw is taking the part of Jane Wendell, his wife.

The plot of this amusing farce revolves around the fact that Wilford has written some sonnets to a young lady, Azalea, acted by Patricia Burrell. Azalea's husband, portrayed by John Jones, discovers the sonnets and comes to shoot Wilford, but Azalea manages to prevent this. Jane, Wilford's wife, serves tea to the angry husband. The results are both happy and funny.

Miss Dorothy Stone White, of the English Department, will direct the play, her first as advisor to Little Theatre of State Teachers College at Frostburg.

Freshmen present at tryouts for the play included: James Alderton, Donna Brown, Patricia Burrell, Richard Crow, Sally Cutter, Gail Davis, William Delaney, Arthur Huggelstone, Jack Jones, Shirley Keating, Ernest Leyh, Diana Molinare, Clara Martz, Martha Murray, Darlene Myers, Alan Shane, Shirley Shaw, and Marina Tuva.

Costumes and properties of Little Theatre were sorted by Gladys Wensel, Gene Brown, Don Drury, Fred Downs, Stew Hurline, Jan Hall, Jim Alderton, Jan Spessard, Gladys Harsh, Myron Watning, Clara Martz and Tom VanPelt.

Assembly-Talent Group Meets To Make Plans For Programs

Members of the Assembly and Talent Committee met recently and formulated plans for the 1954-1955 year. Faculty co-chairmen of the committee are Mr. Charles Sager and Dr. Howard Lewis Briggs. Miss Rosann Langhans is also a faculty representative.

Students who will be serving as co-chairmen are Clover J. Clopper, senior, and Anne Leonard, sophomore. Annette Delamater, a junior, was elected to serve as student treasurer. Other students on the Assembly and Talent Committee are Margaret Ellen Burkey, senior; Eugene Brown, junior; Davison Ayers, sophomore; Angela Pellerzi and Mary Lou Isentrout, both freshmen.

"A tart temper never mellows with age, and a sharp tongue is the only edged tool that grows keener with constant use."

Teachers Make Use Of Summer Vacation

Instructors Tell Ways Of Enjoying Free Time

What do teachers do on their vacations? Rest and relax? If the faculty of Frostburg State is a representative group it would appear to be quite different.

Taking a "postman's holiday" was Dr. Howard Briggs, who spent the majority of his time in research reading in the Baltimore libraries. Another hard worker was Miss Margaret Hamilton. Her new cabin at Deep Creek Lake required her attention and painting efforts. Miss Hamilton stated that all this work was done with an eye to future enjoyment.

Dr. Robert Elderdice kept in contact with last year's graduates by selling them books and encyclopedias. He was very much impressed with the "milk of human kindness" (or was it iced tea?) when he was invited to have refreshments on the sweltering summer days. He also enjoyed eating and visiting with families of graduates. This work was interspersed with trips to his home in Salisbury and Ocean City.

After completing their work at the college, Miss Elizabeth Hitchins, Registrar, and Miss Lillian Wellner took an automobile trip through the mid-western states. High spots of their trip were Springfield, Minnesota; Madison, Wisconsin; and Chicago. On the return trip they visited New York City and saw many of the productions playing at the time.

Social Science Teacher in East

Dr. Hazel Ramsay combined business and pleasure in her stay in New England. She did reading in her teaching field at Harvard University and the Boston libraries. Every Wednesday night she attended the International Seminar at Harvard. In addition Dr. Ramsay visited the Berkshires and attended many music and drama festivals. Featured in one of the festivals was the soprano, Betty Wilson, a former graduate of F. S. T. C.

Seeing "Sunnyside," the home of Washington Irving on the Hudson River, was one of the highlights of Miss Helen Hough's trip in New England. She spent a restful two weeks on the coast of Maine visiting friends and relatives.

Art Instructor Tours Europe

"You can say I spent a very exciting and interesting two months on the continent of Europe and in London, England," stated Miss Rosann Langhans, when asked about her recent trip.

Miss Langhans was a member of the workshop Group in Contemporary Education, sponsored by New York University. This group was composed of 36 members selected from over a hundred applicants and the tour was conducted by a department head at N. Y. U.

One of the first experiences on the voyage across the Atlantic was that of taking French and German lessons in order to facilitate conversation on the continent. Miss Langhans first visited LeHavre, France, and the fascinating city of Paris, while in Paris, she was privileged to attend two sessions of the first international art for Education Council, held in the UNESCO Building. Another breath-taking experience was seeing the beautiful palace at Versailles.

In the old city of Strasburg, she saw a ninth century stone tower used to guard the city from one of their earliest invasions. Next she traveled through the famous Alsace-Lorraine Territory and crossed the border from France to Germany.

One of the most interesting long trips was the journey through the Black Forest of Germany to Heidelberg. Here Miss Langhans had the

Maryland Singers Rehearsing For Parents' Night Performance

The Maryland Singers, composed of eighty students, have been ardently rehearsing twice a week since the opening of college.

The group, under the direction of Mr. Charles I. Sager, is preparing to make its first appearance on Parents' Night, November 4, with several choral selections.

Mr. Sager remarked that the freshman class is contributing some fine talent which will balance the loss of the members graduated last June.

Serving as president of the organization is Bill Hyde; vice president, Margaret Kershner; secretary, Norma Grimes; and treasurer, David Ayers.

All-Tourney Representatives

Representing State on the All-tourney teams were the following men: John Clark (Junior), Don Bell (Junior) and Carl Emerick (Freshman). These boys were commended for their fine play and show of sportsmanship while participating in the games. All of the men were awarded trophies.

Note to the Irish! Sure-fire Len Dawson cut down the Nation's No. 1 football team, Notre Dame, with four touchdown passes, good for a total of 156 yards, to sharpshoot Purdue to a stunning 27-14 upset triumph. Then Victory before 58,256 screaming fans, snapped Notre Dame's undefeated string at 13 and repented history of Purdue's 25-14 decision four years ago that ended the Irish's 39 game unbeaten streak.

Also a heartbreak to many, was the turn out of the 1954 World Series. The tremendous New York Giants humbled the stunned Cleveland Indians in four straight games to become the First National League World Series winners since 1946, by grabbing the loosely played fourth game 7-4 final.

Ever hear of Moose Arnone? He is making quite a name for himself in Minor League. Moose attended Spring Training at Thomasville, Georgia, March 19 through April 7 with Wichita Class A, of the Western League. Moose, after the misfortune of hurting his arm, was sent to Pine Bluff, Arkansas. The Class C Cotton State League finished up the season with a 6-11 record. When the reporter asked Moose how his arm felt, he replied, "Fine." I feel that Moose will have a much better record and will make a name for himself. I know that all of you here at State wish him the same.

I feel that Richard Gilpin will be one of the outstanding trackmen of State this year. Richard holds first place records in city meets in Cumberland, also holds the State record at College Park for the 440 yard dash. Richard will be one of the boys to watch when the season opens.

I'm still knocking water from my ears after being thrown into the pond at "Hazing Week," which proved to be quite a lot of fun for all.

T. Kelly Scores For State; Scrimmage Fatal To Cats

Three of Maryland's State Teachers Colleges collided in a tournament of one-half hour "games" at Towson. The results showed the Bobcats with a third place standing. In the first contest, the Babcockmen were defensively strong, but so were the Towsonites and the battle ended in a 0-0 tie. For the sake of the tournament, every game had to have a winner and the deciding factor was to be corner kicks. The red and white defeated the Westerners 1-0.

Towson took on a fresh Salisbury aggregation and toppled them in a rugged battle 3-0, which gave them a tourney lead which they never relinquished. The host men then took to the side lines to witness the deciding fray—Frostburg vs. Salisbury.

Early in the game Frostburg scored its first and only goal of the day when Tommy Kelly dribbled down the center lane, faked out several of the opposition and booted the ball through the goal posts for a 1-0 lead.

A few moments later "Red" Younger retaliated with a field goal to knot the score at 1-1. Before the period ended, Younger gave a repeat performance as he blasted in his second goal, securing a 2-1 victory for the Maroon and Gold and a tournament win for Towson.

In the post-game ceremony, an all star team was selected on which the Bobcats gained three berths, namely: Don Bell, John Clarke, and Carl Emerick. Other members of the star team were Livingston, Beck, Bryant, and Harmon from Towson; and Muir, Hal, Curtiss, and Younger from Salisbury.

All eleven outstanding players were presented with trophies and Towson received a trophy for winning the tournament. John Livingston was given the Most Valuable Player Award as he was not scored on while attending the Towson goal. Coach Babcock also commended Fatkin, Poland, Bill Kirk, Byrnes, Tom Kelly, and Chapman for their fine performances in Frostburg's "first half-time tournament."

The Bobcats' record remained 0-0. The teams agreed that these series of scrimmages would not count as official games for the team record.

 opportunity of attending Heidelberg University, the second oldest in Germany, for two and a half weeks. She heard the well known Dr. Adorna of Goethe University and other educators.

Germany Proves Exciting

In Bonn, Germany, the group attended H. I. C. O. G. headquarters for a brief session and seminar. The group was at the headquarters at that exciting, tense moment when the news of Dr. John's disappearance arrived.

Taking a steamer down the Rhine River to Coblenz, the group traveled cross country by bus through France, Germany, and Belgium. At Brussels, the famous Guild Center presented an outstanding view.

Perhaps the most unique experience occurred on the Channel Steamer from Ostend to Dover, when her friends proceeded to turn from yellow to many shades of green. In London, Miss Langhans attended London University for three weeks, visited the famous museums of London and toured the B. B. C. While in London, the group was invited to Parliament for luncheon and Miss Langhans was invited to dinner by the House Minister of Education.

Some general impressions of the trip, expressed by Miss Langhans, were: The French were not as friendly to Americans as they have been in the past. Germany and England have done a much better job of rebuilding than has France. Cameras, ceramics and metal goods are now being produced in Germany.

Librarian To Head Group

Dr. Laura Harney, Laboratory School librarian, was chosen as international relations chairman of the Georges Creek Branch of the A. A. U. W. According to Dr. Harney, this study group will center their work on the "Manila Pact," and Thailand (Siam), one of the countries signing the pact, and the United Nations.

During the summer, Dr. Harney was occupied in refurbishing an old house near her home in the Adirondack Mountains, New York. She now feels her house is in good hands since the tenants are schoolteachers.

Vacation Spent In S. America

A two-weeks cruise featured Mrs. Carol Tolson's summer. She and her husband sailed on S. S. St. Appola of the Grace Line. One of the most used facilities of the ship was the swimming pool. The first stop was at the Curacao Islands in the Netherlands West Indies. The next stop was Lagaira, Venezuela, followed by a motor trip to Caracas, the capitol of Venezuela. According to Mrs. Tolson, this is a very beautiful and wealthy city. Two other high spots of the cruise was Porto Caballo and Cartagena, Columbia.

Honor Received By Mrs. Cook

Mrs. John G. Cook of the English Department was recently awarded an Honorary Life Membership by the Woman's Society of Christian Service, an organization of the Methodist Church. She was presented a gold and jeweled pin.

Pen News

There is a group of people on the campus of F. S. T. C. that are unsung and often forgotten. They are, of course, the cheerleaders. They are present at every athletic event that takes place here. At these events these young ladies may be whistled at or even receive catcalls and hisses. After these contests they are often not in the thoughts of the fans, who are too preoccupied with what has happened in the game. They use their voices and lung power to a great extent and they do a goodly amount of gymnastics, too. Despite all of these things, which would be too much for most of us, they manage to keep their charming smiles.

These young ladies meet twice a week for an hour. In these meetings they practice the many cheers that they already know, compose new cheers, and teach the newer members. They work hard and cheerleading takes up a good bit of their time. They begin rehearsals during the second week of the year and they continue until after basketball season. They deserve a lot of credit. Do you want to know their names? Sure, you do. Well, they are June Mowbray, Ruth Schade, Joan Snyder, Sleanor Whetsell, Gloria Wilson, and Mary Kay Poland, all good girls and true. Why not let us all take our hats off to them. They would certainly appreciate this!

After the two "half games" at Towson, State's soccer squad looks to be in pretty good form. The writer is basing this statement on what he has observed at a recent scrimmage of our team with Augie Eichhorn's Bruce High Soccer squad. Babcock's boys looked pretty sharp in their 3-1 victory over the fast Westernport outfit.

Yours truly was quite impressed at our team's defensive strength. The goal scored upon us was a beautiful shot from way out and it was not anticipated by our goalie (not taking any credit from him). State's fullbacks got off some real distant boots and our halfback corps (minus All-American, Jim Byrnes) roved all over the field displaying strong and accurate toes.

The line looked razor sharp with skillful dribbling and pinpoint shooting. If it hadn't been for Bruce High's team spirit and almost impenetrable defense, the writer would be inclined to think that the score would have been much higher.

Coach Babcock's Cats will exhibit a first rate brand of soccer play in their games this Fall. So why not let us all go to their home games and give them our full support? A freshman player to watch is halfback, John Keister, from Grantsville. He seems to have plenty of soccer "know how."

A new part of our physical education program is an introductory instruction in archery. There seem to be quite a few prospective Robin Hoods, William Tells, and Cupids taking their shots at the target. One of them was so good that he was matching the instructor, bull's eye for bull's eye. The writer also noticed that some distaff members are aspiring to be lady Robin Hoods or Cupids (?) in their Phys. Ed. classes.

This writer, if he may, would like to offer a few post mortems on the American cult known as the World Series. He thinks that the result came as a surprise to most of us. He also observed that Stengel supporters are getting their licks in by declaring, "If the Yanks had won the pennant, the Giants would've been beaten right now." Then the instructor of F. S. T. C. tells the students in a quiet voice, "I am so glad it was so short. Now we can get down to work."

"The love of liberty is the love of others; the love of power is the love of ourselves."

"Post-Mortem"

A hot tribe of Indians were sent down the Rhode recently when they were attacked by a band of Giants from the Eastern civilization. Upon receiving this news several tribesmen took drastic steps for survival. Some moved to the Westlake, some took Strickland, some turned to the Pope for help, some moved to a new a-Doby, but there were those who Rosen defiance of the Giants and said that they would stay with Chief Lopez and his son, Bobo Vila. They were soon to learn that no matter what the course taken, nothing would Wertz.

One night, in the Dark, with the tense, loyal group sitting in their teepee, the Giants stormed the wigwam shouting their famous war cry—"Say, Hey." The Giants came well prepared. They brought the "Barber" to help scalp 'em; they had their Indian guide, Gomez; they had a Giant who knew all of the tricks, for he once was a Brave, and they had a brother so mean that he Hoyt all his enemies.

In the closing minutes of the fight, the Tribe had one chance and it was with a little Feller who could really throw those rocks, but Chief Lopez didn't want to take chances; he wanted to be arid to be sure. He picked a Lemon for he wanted a Wynn.

The battle waked for four days, but the Giants were able to lock'em up and, we may be sure, win the day. One fact may be reported also—the Indians got just about the same "kick" out of it as the winner usually gets. So, we must concede the championship to the Giants, but one day while on my vacation at the coast, I saw them battle a group of rugged Pirates who completely annihilated those World Champions. Of course the Giants were at a disadvantage—they were playing on a Littlefield.
