Freshman Program

Class Sponsors Movie, Dance

"A Farewell to Arms" is the title of the movie to be shown on December 22, 1960, at 8:15 p. m. in Compton Hall Auditorium under the direction of the freshman class.

The entire student body is invited to attend the movie. An admission of fifty cents per student or faculty member will be collected to help defray the cost of the rental of the movie, according to Bill Buttrill, president.

Following the movie in Compton, an all-college dance will be held. The place where the dance will be held will be announced at a later date. The admission charge will cover both the movie and the dance.

Maureen Collins is the social chairman in charge of working out the details of the programs to be sponsored by the freshman class. She is being assisted by Bill Buttrill, president and ex-officio member of the committee.

Other programs which have been scheduled for next semester will include a travelogue by Dean Ivan C. Diehl, and a program of Easter Music by Professor and Mrs. James Pierce. The Pierces will be assisted in this musical program by his brother who plays with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

That the purpose of the cultural programs sponsored by the freshman class is "to provide educational programs of high entertainment value for students and faculty and townspeople of Frostburg" was announced by Bill Buttrill.

The movie is one of the activities which the class will sponsor this year. They sponsored the annual Parents' Day Program on Saturday, November 19, which included a talent show as entertainment.

THE BROTHERS FOUR — Fraternity brothers, these young men will entertain with numerous folk songs here on December 1. They are best known for their recording of "Greensleeves."

Is Electoral College Fair?

The recent Presidential election has revitalized a nationwide concern which has existed since the beginning of this century. The obvious discrepancies not only in this election, but also in many others throughout this country's history, point out to an enlightened electorate that a definite change is needed in the voting system, centering around the Electoral College.

The allegation has been made that the Electoral College has challenged the will of the people, notably in the elections of 1876 and 1888, by choosing as President men who had not won the popular contest. In many other cases the electoral vote was in disproportion to the popular vote for one candidate.

Although the Electoral College has been thus criticized, the problem does not concern the college as a separate entity, but rather the larger principle of voting by state representation. Any proposed solution will involve a modification of the individual state's role in the election.

Thus far, four remedies for this problem have been suggested. Any change would, of course, necessitate an amendment to the Constitution.

The first proposal involves the total abolition of the Electoral College as a body, but the maintaining of the system of state representation, which, as we may easily see, would solve nothing.

The second solution would be the abolition of the Electoral College and the state system. Thus the election would depend entirely upon the popular vote.

The third would have the Congress choose the President and Vice-President, as is done in many nations.

The fourth, by far the most practical, is the Lodge-Crosset Amendment. This proposal, which is a modification of the current system, would entail the representation of states, but not each state voting as a unit in the Electoral College. For example, should a candidate receive 80% of the popular vote in a given state, then he would receive 80% of that state's votes in the Electoral College.

The Electoral College is not, as some voters would have us believe, a mere formality. It is an integral part of our nation's election system. State representation, the principle behind the College, has, and will again, contradict the voice of the electorate in choosing its leaders. The electorate demands and will receive a change in the system. It is only a matter of time. M. S. McClelland.

Letter To The Students . . .

Dear Students,

Do you know you're sloppy? Yes, YOU!

No, not around campus with your leotards, knee ticklers, racoon collars, and a wad of gum. But for formal assembly programs such attire is just not suitable! What performer likes to look into his audience and see row after row of black, orange, and blue knees, furry animals, and a herd of cows? Yes, I'm afraid that's what you look like.

I know. Your instructor said you had to come, and you had other plans for the evening. You're tired. You don't want to dress up. You say you'll sit in the balcony?

Not anymore! From now on, the balcony will not be opened until the downstairs has been filled.

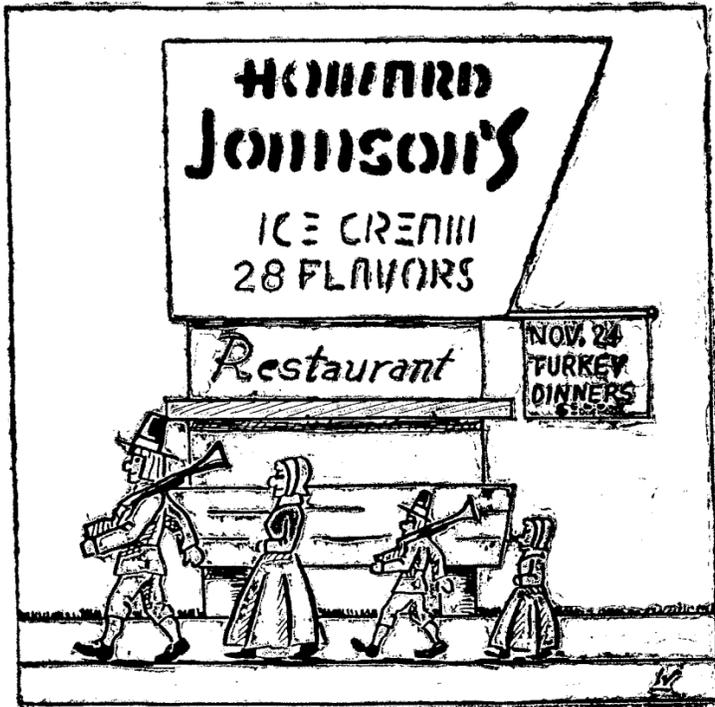

So come on now! Dress up! Look smart! And be proud of your well-dressed classmates!

Your friend

Three Students From Europe Discuss Lyceums, U. S. Schools

BY LAUREL BACHETTI

"It took the flames in which books printed in Poland were burned; it took the threat of death or hard labor to make me realize how precious education is."

Except for several students on our campus who are European born and bred, few of us can appreciate the veracity of this statement made by Kris Belfoure, a sophomore. Two other European students, Betty Swartley, from Great Britain, and John Garon, from France, have consented to contrast their present college experience with the early education they received in their respective countries.

Kris was born in Cracow, Poland, and was educated there in a Humanistic Gymnasium standing in the shadow of Copernicus' Alma Mater. The secondary system consisted of the gymnasium and lyceum. These still form the backbone of the Polish educational system. Acceptance by the school is based upon a successful entrance examination. Those who fail are given vocational training.

After completion of the gymnasium and lyceum the student receives a diploma, "matura," signifying his arrival to maturation and eligibility for one of the state universities.

Only a few students are admitted to the university. This, states Kris, is the principal difference found between the European and American systems.

The European educational system on the whole seeks out the best, and gives the best to them. Those who do not measure up, are not considered. The United States, in her opinion, employs one of the noblest principles of education in giving to everyone the opportunity to achieve something, to cultivate the best that he has.

Betty Swartley, a junior, agrees that British schools do not cater to the slower student. In England there is a far greater emphasis on examinations than here. Again, only the students capable of taking an academic course are in high school; the rest, "weeded out" by tests at the age of eleven, go to a secondary school and take what corresponds to the general or commercial course.

She was born in Gloucestershire, England, and was sent to school at Monmouth School for Girls in Mon-mouthshire. This was a boarding school for about three hundred students. Betty received nurse's training during the war at the Queen Elizabeth hospital, and has instructed nursing classes for four years at Memorial Hospital in Cumberland.

Her family consists of a husband and a thirteen year old son in Allegany High School.

She says that one of the greatest pleasures she has experienced in college is the chance to meet young American people. Betty said, "I have had no problems because of age or nationality, and this I contribute to the niceness of the American College student."

Sharing many of these same views, but from a slightly different angle is sophomore, John Garon. He was sixteen when he arrived in the United States and had the chance to finish high school at Bethesda-Chevy Chase in 1956.

He was born in Asnieres, a suburb of Paris, and attended a Jesuit boarding school until he left for the United States.

Jumping from this all-boys school to a co-ed high school was quite an experience! The first difference he noted was the laxity of discipline. Can you imagine our marching to the cafeteria in ranks?

Other differences included the physical set-up of the school week. There are in France six school days a week, with Thursday and Saturday afternoons off and all day Sunday.

There are two choices in curricula, modern or classical. The modern emphasizes math and science and requires modern languages; the classical emphasizes the letters, philosophy, and requires Greek or Latin in addition to English.

Many similarities are seen in the three countries, for example, the drastic pressure resulting from the "make-you-or-break-you" examinations which are posted publicly. The European ideal is to learn more in less time, whereas the American system lets the student enjoy his youth while receiving a well rounded education.

Collegiate Baptists Convene

The lowlands of eastern shore were recently invaded by nineteen enthusiastic Baptists from the mountain college. Quickly the state convention was made aware of the presence of the Mountaineers.

Registration night was quite an evening for embarrassing moments. Due to the lack of registering names with Miss or Mr. "Billie" Segel was "misplaced" in a home to be a roomie with two very happy sirs; also, Millie Orndorff was shown extensive hospitality when in the confusion she was mistaken by the local pastor as his wife.

Laughter filled the assembly room as the state president of the Baptist Student Union, Miss Laurel Bachetti, told of her experiences as home missionary in Utah. Laurel has had so much experience in taking the census this past summer that she surely will be nominated as Miss Gallup of 1960. (Seriously!)

This energetic lass aroused the Mormon people so much that upon her departure they began to sing "Gone is Bachetti; There is Peace in the Valley Again." (Seriously!) If there could be one word which would remind each member of the 1960 convention it would probably be Laurel's favorite adverb, "seriously."

Due to the distance of Navy's stadium from the convention headquarters near the Naval Academy, many pledges were given by the female members of the group never to place another high heel upon their tender feet. One poor girl must have certainly been in misery, for, as the stadium began to empty a pair of discarded high heels remained without an owner!

Shaw's 'Saint Joan' Captivates Audience

Some students attended the Canadian Players' production of Bernard Shaw's Saint Joan on November 8 out of sheer curiosity. Others were required to see the play for English classes, while still others were wheeled into going by persuasive roommates. But despite the varied motives for attending the performance, everyone seemed to enjoy it thoroughly.

People unfamiliar with the play who were expecting a "spectacular" as far as costuming, staging, and lighting were concerned, were disappointed. Joan did not dash across the state in chain mail and armor. King Charles did not sulk in brilliant robes. The angry crowd did not storm across the stage as Joan, tied to the stake with flames leaping and lashing at her on all sides, tried to catch the last glimpse of the cross before her eyes.

Joan wore slacks and a jersey instead of armor. The men wore identical brown suits, with the exception of the king who wore a sweater and the soldier who wore a military coat. Joan was not burned on the stage. Before long the audience had adjusted to the modern dress.

Another adjustment to be made was to the method of changing scenes in which the curtain was not drawn.

Being an exceptionally long play, Saint Joan, to everyone's pleasure, contained much comic relief. Only in sections did the play drag, but that was due to Shaw's method of presenting his material. It was not the fault of the Canadian Players.

The six scenes of the play telling the story of the Maid of Orleans were climaxed in the epilogue where Shaw conveyed the largest part of his philosophy by means of the souls of both the living and the dead.

Thus, as the play ended, Saint Joan could meaningfully question, "O God that madest this beautiful earth, when will it be ready to receive Thy saints? How long, O Lord, how long?"

Frantically We Ask, 'Who's He Kidding?'

Statements my instructors never should have made:

"Naturally I expect you to have finished the complete works of Shakespeare by tomorrow."

"I believe our next class meeting would be an opportune time to have a little quiz covering pages 53 to 796."

"Anyone who can't understand this simple problem shouldn't be allowed in college."

"I never like to give you too much reading to do each night, however. . ."

"I assume you have been spending at least two hours in preparation for each class period."

"I hate to give you a test right after the holidays but. . ."

Potomac Cagers First Home Foe

Bobcats Card 12 Home Tilts

By Larry Stup

When the 1960-1961 FSTC basketball season opens next Saturday at Coppin State Teachers, the "new-look" Bobcats, under new head coach Dr. Ron Van Ryswyk, will be out for the start of a very promising and successful season.

Coach Van Ryswyk has been drilling the thirteen varsity hopefuls for over a month now and the new offensive and defensive play patterns have been working into very good shape.

When the 'Cats travel to Coppin, they will be playing a team they have never faced before. This team has been noted in the past for good ball handling, accurate shooting, and fast play. Other than that no report is available.

Meet Keyserites

In the second game of the season, the squad travels "down the Creek" to Keyser to face the Catamounts of Potomac State. Last year the Catamounts took both games from State by scores 78-52, and 77-55. This year Coach "Horse" Lough's charges will be led by 6 ft. 5 in. John Allen who scored consistently last year.

In the home opener at Compton Gym on Friday night, December 9, the Cats entertain Towson State Teachers. Towson had a miserable season last year with a 3-16 record and suffered one of the defeats at the hands of State in Towson by a score of 66-58. This year Towson is led by Jerry Mosemore, Bucky Sherman, and Fred Arnold. These men are usually in the double column and lead a balanced attack. They have height, speed, and are good ball handlers.

On the following Monday night, FSTC plays host to Altoona Center Penn State. Last year these two teams split with Frostburg—victorious here 86-70, and Altoona the winner in their court 71-55. Altoona is led by Bill Paul and Ken Knott who were their high scorers from last year. They use a tight defense and break-away fast offense. They are good shooters and excellent rebounders.

To Choose Team

Coach Van Ryswyk will probably choose his starting quintet from the veterans of previous years and a spattering of newcomers.

Those holdovers include George Lauder, Hank Winner, Geoff Whitmore, "Muggs" Sigler, "Butch" Young, Sam Holliday, John McClelland and Lenny Kerns.

Newcomers to the cage wars this year are Jack Patterson, "Corky" Connolly, George Kuhn, and Mickey Scaletta.

Intramural League Begins December 5; Nine Teams To Play

Intramural basketball play will get under way in the Monday League on December 5 and the Thursday League on December 8 in the Men's Intramural Basketball program.

As in the past, the number of teams entered in the league has necessitated the forming of the two separate leagues.

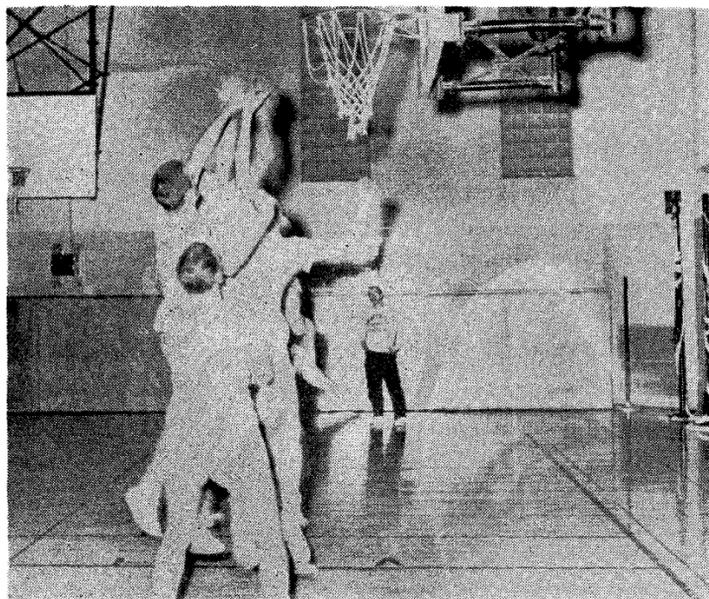

Nine teams have shown interest in joining the intramurals for this year, with four of these being in the Monday League and the remainder in the Thursday League.

Coach Kenneth Babcock, director, has stated that each team in the league will play the other teams twice. A playoff will be staged at the end of the season between the top two teams.

This championship round will consist of a best two-out-of-three series.

The teams and managers represented at the initial meeting were: Monday League, Tom Dubel, Cougars; Ralph Nelson, Eickhart Miners; Tom Swauger, Globetrotters; and Bob Brown, Creek Boys.

Members in the Thursday League are: Larry Stup, Monsters; Terry Rizer, Packers; John Nussear, Rimrammers; Ned Boehm, Brarts; and Coach Babcock, Faculty Five.

CAGE ACTION—Action in varsity basketball is at a very high peak and all members are playing as though their very lives depended on their performance. The above shot is no exception, but the rule as the season's opener draws nearer.

Harold's Herald

By Harold Schriver

Confidence, desire, ambition, enthusiasm, drive, ability—these are the qualities that surround teams that are in competition with one another on the varsity collegiate level.

These six characteristics are needed by each individual involved on a squad and they each in turn must be blended together to form a closely-knit unit known to spectators as a team.

Without individual drive and desire the teamwork is useless, but so are individuals useless unless they are willing to fit together as a team.

Five individual players on the basketball court will never beat a team composed of five players.

When one cog is missing in a chain, it must be placed; likewise, when one team member begins to put self first and team second, he must be replaced.

The organization of a team is indeed no easy matter for any coach—be it football, baseball or basketball.

It is the unenviable job of the coach to take from five to fifteen different individuals and mold them into a unit that thinks and acts as one. The coach must alternately be father, friend, guardian, disciplinarian, and judge of his players. His is the task of putting the ingredients together for a winner.

Twenty-Six Attend Playday; WRA Begins Bowling League

Twenty six girls represented the W. R. A. at a playday held at the University of Maryland November 8. The girls participated in field hockey, golf and tennis. Two officers accompanied the girls to handle business. They were Barbara Tompkins, treasurer, and Deanna Knepper, vice president.

The girls that played golf were Mary Carol Reilly, Billie Siegle, Oralee Hankins, and Judy Wilson. Mary Carol Reiley won the golf tournament by a handicap with a score of 32. Five other colleges were in the competition. The golf was coached by Miss Dorothy Hilliard.

Our tennis team consisted of Ann Madden, Jean Ward, Rita Benson, and Julie Tiemeyer, all of whom played singles. Dorothy Minke and Cathy Froelich played doubles and were in the semifinals. Ann Madden and Julie Tiemeyer both won three out of four of their matches and were also in the semifinals. The tennis was coached by Miss Janet Thomas.

Fifteen girls were on the hockey team. They were Flo Bevans, Ruth Moore, Jane Blake, Nancy Cooper, Lou Gloyd, Virginia Thompson, Sandy Johnson, Jackie Fullerton, Sandy Satterthwaite, Jean Hall, Lou Lawson, Linda Lynch, Shirley Hahn, Carolyn Williams, and Pat Ballentine. Lou Gloyd, right halfback, was chosen as the outstanding player on our team. The hockey team beat Marjorie Webster by a score of two to one, lost to Salisbury, and tied with George Washington. The team was coached by Miss Carol Cleveland.

The second intramural sport, bowling, began on Monday, November 14. There are 115 girls participating in this program; this is the largest turnout we have ever had. There are six teams from the freshman class, eight teams from the sophomore class, four teams from the senior class, and five teams from the junior class.

A budget committee meeting was held under the direction of Barbara Tompkins, treasurer. Money from the W. R. A. was allotted for these various items: social programs, playdays, tennis and golf teams, awards, banquet, cheerleaders, equipment, correspondence, intramural programs, officiation, camping and the State Conference.

Colorful Career Nears End; Young To Graduate In June

One of the most outstanding athletic careers in the history of Frostburg will come to an end this year when Ronald "Butch" Young hands up his spikes with one hand and accepts his sheepskin with the other.

Bobcat Soccerites Cop Last Five Tilts; Net 6-3 Season Log

The warm sunny afternoons are gone. Old Man Winter is about to blow across our campus. With his arrival forecast, the curtain again comes down on a successful soccer season.

State roared through the final five games undefeated. By dropping Grove City 2-1, American University 4-1, Slippery Rock 2-1, Mt. St. Mary's 3-0, and V. M. I. 6-1, the Bobcats were able to finish on the winning side of the ledger. Coach Babcock said that during these last five games this was one of the best teams ever to represent State.

To indicate the caliber of soccer played during this span, the 'Cats socked the nets 17 times, while holding the opponents to only four goals.

This was a direct about face from earlier season games. The Frostburgers fell victim to the Pitt Panthers 3-1 and to Lock Haven 5-1. After creeping by Salisbury 1-0, the 'Cats again tumbled, this time to Howard University 3-0.

Roy "Muggs" Sigler led assists with six goals resulting from his set ups. "Butch" Young and Ed Truly had two assists apiece, while George Lauder and Jim Kelly helped out with one apiece.

Ronald "Butch" Young finished his soccer career at State by breaking two records and tying another. He finished the season with ten goals to tie former Bobcat great, John Horine, in this department.

During the V. M. I. game, "Butch" rattled the nets five times to break Horine's 1958 homecoming mark of four goals. "Butch" again bettered a Horine mark of 19 goals in his four seasons at State. The small lad from Valley with the shotgun foot scored 20 goals in four years to become Frostburg's all time leading scorer.

The All-South honors are announced during the Christmas Holidays and Coach Babcock thinks that a number of Bobcat players will receive this fine Christmas gift.

Jr. Varsity To Face Varied Competition

To gain experience for future varsity roles is the main objective of our Junior varsity squad during its sixteen game schedule this year.

The schedule must be supplemented by games with teams from the Cumberland and Recreational League and our own Intramural League because all of our collegiate opponents do not have junior varsity teams.

Experience will be gained on the collegiate level as the squad will compete against Shepherd, Shippensburg, Salem and Potomac State. However, teams from the Rec League in Cumberland on many occasions last year offered the same kind of competition as would have been encountered in games against collegiate jayvees.

The boys have been training hard and are looking forward to their home opener against Potomac State on December 6.

Dr. Harold Cordts will direct the Junior Varsity for the current campaign. Dr. Cordts will have much experience already represented on the team.

Those boys playing jayvee basketball this year are Carl Shipley, Larry Gorman, Jim Price, John Nussear, Denny Murray, Jerrie Bocutto, Jack Hill, Larry Rucker, Bill Brooks, Donnie Cleve, Gene Wood, Bob Grove, Bill McLuckie, and Mike Parsons.

All home games will be started at 6:00, and will be completed before the varsity contest at 8:00. The student body is encouraged to attend the J. V. games.

"Butch" recently concluded a highly successful soccer season for Coach Ken Babcock's high-flying Bobcats. During a single game with V. M. I., he scored the phenomenal total of five goals. This is a new school record, breaking the great John Horine's total of four in the 1958 Homecoming game against Lynchburg.

Another record fell to "Butch" when he scored twenty goals in his four-year tenure at State. John Horine had tallied nineteen times for the old record before his departure in 1959.

The five goals in the final game of the season gave "Butch" ten for the year and enabled him to match Horine's varsity total of ten goals in 1958.

A standout at Valley High School in soccer, basketball, and baseball "Butch" is a cinch to garner All-Southern honors again and is State's All-American candidate. According to Coach Babcock, "Butch" is one of the most outstanding linemen in the history of the school. He ranks with John Horine, Ray Ralston, and Tom Kelly.

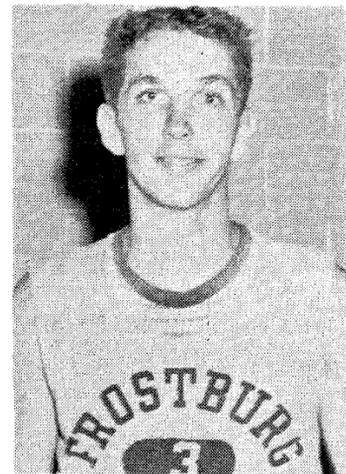

Letting four years in soccer, "Butch" earned his jacket in 1959. He has also earned two letters in basketball and one in baseball.

A glaring exception to the rule of basketball being a game for giants, diminutive "Butch" proves that there will always be a place in the game for the good "little" man. Floor general par excellence, "Butch" assumes command of the team during the game and directs the attack with his brilliant passing, dribbling and shooting.

Team Player

Known as a team player, "Butch" often sets his teammates up for easy shots. Displaying no haughty grandeur, he will pick up an opponent who has shaken his defender and is trying to score.

During his stay at Valley, "Butch" was a kingpin in Valley's W. M. I. performances and led the perennial state "B" champs' assault on College Park opposition.

'Butch' Young

A good baseball player, "Butch" has not devoted much of his efforts in this direction at State. He lettered as a freshman and showed himself to be a solid and dependable infielder.

When next year rolls around and a new horde of freshmen swarm over the college campus, let us hope that somewhere in the teeming mass one boy can be found who will make half the athlete that Ronald "Butch" Young is.

Soccer Team Scorers

The Bobcat soccer team for the year amassed a total of 20 goals in recording a mark of six wins against only three setbacks.

The scoring was shared among members of the forward wall with "Butch" Young leading the way with ten.

The scorers were as follows:

Player	Goals	Assists
Young	9	10
Truly	9	4
Sigler	9	2
Scarpelli	9	2
Garon	9	1
Kelly	9	1
