'Stop the Hate Vigil' to Feature Md. Del. Branch

Del. Talmadge Branch

The fourth annual "Stop the Hate Vigil" will feature Md. Del. Talmadge Branch of Baltimore City as the keynote speaker, along with participants from the campus community.

The vigil will be Thursday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m., at the Black Student Alliance Fountain outside the Lane University Center. The public is invited. In the event of inclement weather, the vigil will take place in the Manicur Assembly Hall.

Branch, twice a victim of racial profiling, will speak on this subject. He has served in the Maryland House of Delegates since 1995 and is currently the Deputy Majority Whip and Chair of the Maryland Legislative Black Caucus. He attended FSU for a year.

A host of campus organizations and university departments are coming together to sponsor the vigil. Members of various student groups will lead responsive readings that reflect the challenge of overcoming discrimination and bigotry. In light of the current global situation, many quotations will be taken from world religions.

There will also be a moment of silence for reflection.

The FSU University Chorale, under the direction of Dr. Karen Soderberg, will perform three songs, including two from South Africa. Dr. Greg Latta will play music before and after the vigil.

Anyone interested in sponsoring or participating in this event or seeking information should call Larry Neumark at x7490.

Music

America, Edwards to Perform at Homecoming

In celebration of Homecoming Weekend, the band America will perform on Saturday, Nov. 3, at 9 p.m. in the Cordts Center Main Arena. Opening for America will be singer-songwriter Jonathan Edwards.

One of the most beloved and influential groups of the 1970s, America helped establish a new genre of popular music that fused free-wheeling rock 'n' roll with elements of folk and country. Now featuring original members Dewey Bunnell and Gerry Beckley, the group's clean vocal harmonies, uncluttered arrangements and evocative lyrics continue to attract fans around the globe. Some of their top hits include "A Horse With No Name," "Ventura Highway," "I Need You," "Tin Man," "Sister Golden Hair," "Muskrat Love" and the 1980s hit, "You Can Do Magic." Their collection, History/America's Greatest Hits, has sold more than four million copies. The title of their most recent release, Human Nature, reflects America's dual themes of the human heart and mind, and the wonder and freedom of the world at large.

Best known for his '70s hit, "Sunshine," Jonathan Edwards uses his soulful voice and acoustic guitar to express his own distinctive mix of folk and country.

Dinner theatre specials are available prior to the performance, which can be purchased through the CES Box Office.

For information and tickets, contact the CES Box Office Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at x3137 or toll-free at 1-(886) TIXX CES. Order requests can also be faxed to x7049 or e-mailed to CES@frostburg.edu. All patrons must have a ticket, and all ticket sales are final.

FSU Center Stage will present The Moonshine Cherrys from Knoxville, Tenn., at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20, in Manicur Assembly Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

With a name that comes from a Tennessee bootlegger whose products included maraschino cherries soaked in moonshine, the band brews up its own blend featuring rock rhythms, mandolins, pop tunes and vocal harmonies.

Moonshine Cherrys is rapidly building a solid reputation among the college crowd with live performances and a self-titled, debut CD on Syren Records.

Theatre

Roundabout Presents 'Charlotte's Web'

The Roundabout Theatre will present the children's classic, "Charlotte's Web," at 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 20 and Sunday, Oct. 21 in the Performing Arts Center's F. Perry Smith Studio Theatre.

This show for children of all ages is based on the childhood favorite by E.B. White. An affectionate, sometimes bashful pig named Wilbur befriends a spider named Charlotte, who lives in the rafters above his pen. Wilbur is devastated when he learns of the destiny that befalls his kind. Aided by Templeton, the rat, Charlotte learns her "A-B-C's" and spins a web that reads "Some Pig," convincing the farmer and surrounding community that Wilbur is no ordinary animal and should be saved.

Michael Abendshein, a student at FSU, will direct the all-student cast.

Speakers

Charney to Speak About Imprisoned Woman

Continuing FSU's celebration of National Hispanic Month, the Latin American Student Organization is proud to announce Dr. Paul J. Charney's presentation, "Lori Berenson: Reformer, Revolutionary, Traitor, Journalist???" Tuesday, Oct. 16, at 7 p.m., in Dunkle Hall 219 (note location change).

Lori Berenson, a twenty-something woman from Connecticut, is now serving a 20-year sentence in a Peruvian dungeon after Peruvian courts convicted her of participating in prohibited political activity on behalf of the Tupac Amaru Revolutionary Movement. She declared her innocence at the time of her arrest in 1995 and has never wavered from that assertion throughout the course of two trials.

At FSU, Charney specializes in Latin American History. He has traveled widely in Latin America and lectures frequently on related topics.

The event is free and open to the public. For more information call Charney at x4215 or Dr. María-Luisa Sánchez at x4104.

Philosophical Forum Offers 'Meaning of Life'

The Philosophical Forum will sponsor a lecture, followed by discussion, on Tuesday, October 23, 7:30-9:00 PM, in the Leake Room.

The lecture, titled "The Meaning of Life as a Philosophical Question," will be presented by H. Skott Brill, who joined the Philosophy Department this fall. Brill comes to FSU with a Ph.D. in philosophy from Michigan State University.

It is sometimes said that the most important philosophical question is: what is the meaning of life? Brill's presentation will emphasize the importance of laying the groundwork necessary for an intelligent and fruitful exploration of this central philosophical question. In his view, laying an appropriate groundwork principally involves becoming clear about the question itself -- that is, generating and critically examining possible interpretations of the question, in an effort to arrive at an interpretation such that the question is "irreducible, answerable, and important to answer." Brill will also connect his view about the importance of laying an appropriate groundwork to an issue central to studies on the meaning of life: whether the existence of God or an afterlife is necessary for life to have meaning. In his view, the answer may well depend in part on how we interpret "life" and "meaning."

For information, call Tom Mappes (Philosophy) at x4262.

Julie Funt, Allen's Daughter, to Speak

Julie Funt, daughter of "Candid Camera" creator Allen Funt, will speak at FSU Wednesday, Oct. 17, at 7 p.m. in the Manicur Assembly Hall in Lane University Center. Her visit is sponsored by the S.A.F.E. Office.

Julie Funt has spent her life observing the hidden truths beneath our social selves and is now empowering college students to increase their self-esteem and value the more important things in life.

Living through much of her youth with an eating disorder and weighing more than 200 pounds by the end of college, Funt has experienced her share of uphill battles, but she has emerged victorious. Luckily, she learned as she got well that changing the outside was only society's answer to her problems. It is changing the inside that can transform one's life.

"Thin was very anti-climatic after a lifetime of chasing it," she said. "At first I reveled in those tiny little pants, but day after day the narcotic effect of my new body wore off. We are trained to chase a lot of false gods in pursuit of contentment - fame, beauty and financial abundance - but often when we reach them, we find they do not fill the holes in our lives."

For more information, contact the S.A.F.E. Office at x4761.

Political Science Roundtable

Pi Sigma Alpha, the political science honorary society, will sponsor "America at Home - The Domestic Implications of America's New War," Wednesday, Oct. 17 at 7:30 in Guild Center 104sd.

You've heard the pundits on television...now its time to hear it from FSU's own experts! Anyone interested in the domestic effects associated with America's "War on Terrorism" are invited to attend this informal and informative discussion brought to you by the Political Science Department. Possible topics include:

- Civil liberties in the United States in response to the attacks;
- Effects on American foreign policy;
- An evaluation of George W. Bush's response to the attacks;
- An evaluation of Congress' response to the attacks;
- An evaluation of the mass media's role in the aftermath of the attacks.

Art

“Europe to America” to be Presented at Roper

“Europe to America,” a collection of works by local artist Hilmar Gottesthal, will be on exhibit through Sunday, Nov. 4, at the Stephanie Ann Roper Gallery in the Fine Arts Building.

This eclectic collection of sculptures, drawings, watercolors and oil paintings reflects Gottesthal's experiences in Europe and the United States.

Born Hilmar Udo Fister in Carinthia, Austria, the artist began to sign his works with “Gottesthal,” the name of his childhood village, while studying at the Vienna Academy of Fine Arts. The word means “God's Valley.” Now an American citizen, he lives in Flintstone, Md.

Gottesthal's interest in Byzantine art and an Austrian-Turkish Cultural Exchange Grant took him to Greece and Turkey, where he spent 30 years painting, sculpting and studying ancient ruins, myths and religious icons of the region. His style often reflects a Byzantine influence, with its use of mosaic-like patterns and complex pointillism often used to express spiritual ideas. Many of his works are inspired by mythology, Christian scriptures, current issues and the surroundings of his Western Maryland home.

For information, call x4797.

Take Note

NCATE Accreditation Team to Visit Campus

The visitation team from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education will be on campus from Saturday, Oct. 20, to Wednesday, Oct. 24. This is an important step for the new state requirement for accreditation of FSU's College of Education.

Any student or faculty member who wishes to speak to the team will have that opportunity on Tuesday, Oct. 23. Students are invited to an open meeting that day at 1 p.m. in Framptom Hall 117. The meeting for faculty members is in the same room at 2 p.m.

The team is made up of five people from around the country appointed by NCATE, as well as four members appointed by the Maryland State Department of Education. The NCATE team will be looking to corroborate what is in FSU's institutional report. The state team will be looking to see to what degree FSU has incorporated the 1995 Maryland Redesign for Teacher Education into its own standards.

The NCATE team visit is the culmination of nearly three years of effort. Individual subject areas first had to meet standards set by national associations designated by NCATE. FSU has been recognized by the national associations for secondary math, early childhood education, reading, master's level administration and supervision, secondary English, secondary social studies, physical education, all four disciplines offered in secondary science – physics, biology, chemistry and earth science – and elementary education. The only approval that is pending is for the health component of the health and physical education program.

FSU will receive a written report approximately 30 days after the visit and will have 30 days to respond to the report. A recommendation will be made to the NCATE Unit Accreditation Board and a final decision is expected in April of 2002.

“As a professional education unit, we are eager to have national and state validation of our program,” said Dr. Dave Fell, co-coordinator of the NCATE accreditation process with Dr. Mary Kay Finan.

For more information, contact the College of Education at x4759.

Take a Test That Gives YOU Answers:

Have you ever awakened next to someone you didn't know and couldn't remember how you got there? Have you watched a friend pass out from drinking and wondered if you should call 911? Have you failed a test or done poorly on a paper because you were hung over? Are you just curious as to how you fit in with other college students and their drinking patterns?

If so, mark Oct. 18 on your calendar. On that day, you can take a self-test for alcohol problems when FSU participates in National Alcohol Screening Day.

You will also have the opportunity to complete an anonymous written questionnaire about alcohol and talk one on one with a trained individual who can answer your questions more specifically and, if appropriate, direct you to support or treatment services on campus.

“Students come to college and experience freedoms they never had before, but they also need information to make informed choices, as well as guidance and understanding when things go wrong,” said

Spencer Deakin, director of counseling at FSU. “This anonymous program is designed to make it easy for anyone on campus to explore their use of and attitudes toward alcohol in a non-threatening, stigma-free environment.

The 18 through 21 age range is the developmental period of heaviest alcohol consumption for most drinkers in the United States. Binge drinking (drinking several drinks in one sitting) is the type of alcohol problem most often engaged in by this age range. In fact, a 2000 study found that 48 percent of FSU students reported binge drinking at least once within two weeks of being surveyed. The local study shows that binge drinkers are involved in more disciplinary problems, have poorer academic performance, experience physical injury and illness and engage in property damage more often.

The project is co-sponsored by the FSU Counseling Center and Psychological Services and the S.A.F.E. Office. Refreshments will be served.

Personal Counseling Groups and Workshops

Counseling and Psychological Services offers a variety of groups for students each semester. Through group sessions, students are able to discuss their thoughts and feelings in response to a number of different issues relating to themselves, the way they relate to others, and how they cope with life in general. The number of students in each group is kept small to allow each member the opportunity to establish comfort, trust, and a sense of community. In building an atmosphere of trust, confidentiality is expected to be maintained by all participants.

If you are enrolled at FSU and feel that a particular group may be of help or interest to you, please come by Counseling and Psychological Services, 101 Sand Spring Hall, or call x4234 to make an appointment to speak with a screening counselor. There is no charge for counseling services.

Collective Bargaining Primer

In order to win an election, a union must obtain the votes of a simple majority of the eligible voters who cast ballots. For example, if there are 400 employees in the bargaining unit and only 200 employees actually vote, the union wins the election if the final tally of ballots were 101-99 in favor of the union, and the union then is certified by the Board as the exclusive bargaining representative of the entire bargaining unit of all 400 employees.

A Message to Smokers

The FSU Smoking Policy prohibits the use of lighted tobacco products in any university academic or administrative buildings, enclosed facilities, automobiles, buses, vans or trucks. In addition, there are no public smoking areas in any residence hall.

For those who step outside to smoke, please be considerate of other employees and students. Walk away from the building entrance to reduce the possibility of second-hand smoke being pulled inside.

Together we strive for a safe and healthy campus to study, work and learn. Call x4897 for more information.

Points of Pride

FSU's three elementary education programs, Early Childhood/Elementary Education, Elementary Education and the FSU Hagerstown Center's Master of Arts in Teaching, have all received national recognition by the Association for Childhood Education International, an important step toward the University's accreditation by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Scholarships Available for Overseas Study

In addition to taking financial aid overseas, students may apply for a variety of scholarships for study abroad programs. Safety Message

A Few Safety Tips

We all know the following safety precautions, but we sometimes fail to act on them ... Here are a few reminders:

- Do not walk down or up a grassy area when it is covered with dew or rain. This is an injury waiting to happen. Use sidewalks, stairs and service roads to prevent slips on wet, grassy surfaces.
- Read the directions as to what can and cannot be placed in a microwave oven. Remove all paper products that are not needed from the product before placing in the microwave. After setting the temperature and time, remain at the unit until the cycle is complete. Remove your item from the oven with a potholder to prevent burning your hand.

- The speed limit in all campus parking lots is 10 m.p.h. Watch for pedestrians starting to cross the street, give them the right of way.
 - Seasonal decorations are a welcome sight around campus at this time of year, but REMEMBER OUR DEDICATION TO FIRE PREVENTION. Hay bales, corn stalks and other highly combustible decorations are prohibited from inside of campus buildings. Do not block marked exit doors, emergency lights, exit lights or fire alarm equipment.
 - The new Employee Safety and Risk Management Manual has been distributed to each employee. Please find the time to review the manual.
- If you have any questions, call x4897.
