VOL. 28, NO. 12

FROSTBURG STATE COLLEGE, FROSTBURG, MARYLAND

FEBRUARY 2, 1977

Programs Reorganized

Frostburg State College has announced a reorganization of its health and physical education programs.

The reorganization, which goes into effect immediately, establishes three major areas of responsibility within the Department of Health and Physical Education, with a director in charge of each area, according to Dr. Nelson P. Guild, president of the college, and Dr. Harold J. Cordts, head of the department.

Previously, Cordts and Dr. Carol Cleveland supervised all department programs as department head and associate department head. Under the new arrangement, Dr. Cordts will continue as department head. Dr. Cleveland will continue as associate department head, and she will also be the Director of Health and Physical Education, one of the three major areas.

Dr. Cleveland, who came to the college in 1960, will supervise the health and physical education majors for men and women, general studies courses in the department, departmental honors, the graduate program electives, and aquatics.

Serving as assistant directors under Dr. Cleveland will be Dr. Robert McFarland, who will coordinate aquatics programs, and Ms. Janet Thomas.

The second area of responsibility will be athletics. The Director of Athletics will be Robert E. Wells, who will supervise all intercollegiate athletic programs, the athletic budget, coaching staff, recruitment, public relations, game management and special events. Wells who joined the FSC faculty in 1964, will continue as baseball coach and will play a major role in recruiting a new football coach for the 1977 season.

Dr. Cordts had previously served as both department head and athletic director.

Wells expects to announce the name of assistants in the near future.

The third area, Recreation and Intramurals, will be directed by Dr. Eugene DeLuca, who joined the college faculty in 1976. DeLuca served three years as chairman of physical education and athletics at the State University of New York at New Paltz and had occupied similar posts at Ithaca College before that. He will supervise the new major in Recreation and all intramural and recreational programs at the College.

In announcing the new organization, Dr. Guild said the department and its programs have grown to the point where the organization followed in the past is no longer adequate. With a department of 18 faculty members, over 300 undergraduate majors, graduate students, 15 intercollegiate teams, a diversified program of community services, and a major new building to operate, the time has come for more specialized organization, Guild said.

"The man who made most of this growth happen during his 19 years here—Dr. Cordts—will continue as department head, of course, but there will be more responsibility placed on the three directors to spread the workload around, and those directors will report to Dr. Cordts," Dr. Guild said. "I am confident that this arrangement will make our operations more efficient and will help us to maintain Frostburg's fine reputation in this field," he added.

Student Guilty in False Alarm

A student at Frostburg State College pleaded guilty in District Court to setting a false fire alarm and was committed to the County Jail pending a pre-sentence report by the Department of Parole and Probation, it was announced recently.

Craig Edward Cook, 18, a resident of Allen Hall, pleaded guilty before Judge Miller Bowen to setting a fire alarm at Cambridge Hall. The pre-sentence report showed that Cook had no previous criminal record. Cook served 14 days in the jail and was released to attend classes and exams.

Two other F.S.C. students, Mark Adam Weber, 19, and John Robert Easton, 18, also residents of Allen Hall, also were charged with setting a false alarm, but the state nolle pressed the charges against them because of insufficient evidence.

A meeting of prospective Public Affairs Institute interns will be held on Monday, February 14 at 4 p.m. in Faculty Hall. Anyone considering obtaining an internship for the summer or fall of 1977 is urged to attend.

THE BUSINESS Club will hold a meeting Monday, February 7, at 7:00 p.m. in Tawes 229. Anyone with an interest in Business Administration, Accounting, or Economic is invited to attend.

Mingle Resigns as City Attorney

by John Rodriguez

James J. Mingle, assistant to the president at Frostburg State College, has resigned his post as city attorney for the city of Frostburg. Mingle had been holding the city post in addition to the college position for the past two years.

In an interview on Monday, January 31, Mingle told State-To-Date that he resigned because the city job was making increased demands on his time which he could not meet without it becoming detrimental to his college duties. He also expressed the wish that he needed more free time for his personal activities.

Mingle denied that his resignation had anything to do with any charges of conflict of interest. While there had been some mention of possible conflict of interest between Mingle's duties between the college and the city, Mingle felt that the high degree of compatibility between the college and the city prevented this from being a factor.

Of his two years as city attorney, Mingle said he greatly enjoyed and benefited from his work. He feels that the city council can be an effective means to solve some student problems, and that the council is interested in helping the F.S.C. students.

Housing was suggested by Mingle as one area in which cooperation between the city and the students would result in substantial benefits for both the city and the college. He suggested that a joint college and city effort to publish a book which would outline the rights and responsibilities of both landlords and tenants under present legal codes. He said it may be possible that the cost of such a book would be shared by the city and college.

National News Summary

FUEL SHORTAGE: BAD PROBLEM IN SEVERAL STATES

The big headline of the week is the fuel shortage in several states. Because of the below zero temperatures, more gas and oil is being used. In Pennsylvania, schools were closed to conserve energy. Parts of Maryland and Virginia that surround the Chesapeake Bay have been declared disaster areas because the Bay is frozen. For this reason, shipments of fuel are impossible to get into these areas. President Carter is now getting aid for these states to alleviate the situation.

DEATH PENALTY BILL

Hearings are being held in the House to raise Maryland's drinking age from 18 to 21. Two reasons have been given for this change: 1) "there are more teenage drinkers than voters." These teenage drinkers are more interested in drinking than the privilege of voting; and 2) Many high schools are having disciplinary problems, traffic deaths and alcoholism problems. A compromise is being considered that would raise the age to 19. This could perhaps alleviate the problems in the high schools.

TV VIOLENCE

The President of NBC Television feels there is too much violence on TV. He is now in the process to change this. NBC is going to get rid of some of the shows that are violent and add more comedy and variety shows. They still plan to retain some shows, such as "Police Story," "Columbo," and "The Rockford Files."

RATE INCREASE

Sacred Heart Hospital received the okay for a rate increase by the Maryland Health Services Cost Review Commission. This increase will mainly affect room rates. The reason for this increase is to compensate for inflation and the rising cost of supplies, etc.

DRINKING HEARINGS

Last week, Mandel proposed a new death penalty bill in the House in Annapolis, Maryland. This bill would set up a two-trial system for first degree murder cases. The first trial determines whether the defendant is innocent or guilty. If a verdict of guilty is found, a second trial is held. Thus, trial decides either life imprisonment or death for cont. on page 4

EDITORIAL

State-To-Date has been lambasted from every possible angle this week for its "outrageous, inaccurate, and unfair" reporting and editorializing on Mitch Krupa's evaluation plan. In defense of our position, we offer the following thoughts.

First and foremost, both the Student Association and the staff of this newspaper are strongly in favor of the concept of students evaluating the performance of faculty members. But the Krupa proposal was opposed because Mr. Krupa has continually refused to be specific as to the details of the format he intends to use, the method of administration to be used, the makeup of his committee, and a number of other points whose disclosure were critical to obtaining the approval of SA and/or the paper.

This situation dates back to the middle of last semester, and the details of his plan must be made clear so that S.A. and the newspaper can be sure that whatever results are to be published can be legally defended as valid and representative. The point of all this is that we want to help Mr. Krupa, but until we are given more information, we can't.

Furthermore, Mr. Krupa was interviewed on the matter, and his thoughts were quoted in full in last week's paper. And although Mr. Lofthus was not present at the Executive Committee meeting, he conferred with many who were, and he was present at the S.A. House meeting. These were the only two meetings at which the plan was discussed.

Finally, we apologize for any inuendo our readers might have sensed in the material we printed relating to this matter. It was never our intention to depict Mr. Krupa as a "militant radical thirsting for power." Any such inference on our part was purely accidental. It was simply our contention that Mr. Krupa had had ample time to develop his case and had failed to do so.

Admittedly, the situation was not presented as fully as it could have been, but our opinion on the matter remains the same: the Krupa proposal cannot be rationally defended until the details are made clear.

Dramatis Personae

Sponsors Class

Yours and Mime Theatre sponsored by Dramatis Personae, is offering a non-credit class in pantomime. The three week class will be an intensive study in balance, illusion, delineation of space, creativity, transformation, and pantomimic improvisational techniques. Yours and Mime's founder and director, Vincent Niemann, an FSC alumnus will teach the two hour sessions three times a week: on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays in the lounge in Cumberland Hall from 4-6 P.M. The first session will begin on February 7, and terminate February 28. Mr. Niemann will form another session at another time if enough people cannot meet at that scheduled time.

troupe a year ago while teaching drama and completing graduate work at West Virginia University. While there he conducted a mime and pantomime workshop and was involved in independent research concerning historical and contemporary styles of the art. Niemann studied with master mime Tony Montanaro at FSC in the winter of 1970 when he absorbed as much theory, philosophy, and technique as possible from the former student and classmate of Marcel Marceau. Mr. Niemann has also studied with the Mask and Mime Theatre, and with David Alberts, a professional mime now teaching at W.V.U.

The fee for the class of 20 hours is $30.00, $40.00 for non-students, payable to Dramatis Personae on or before February 7. All interested persons should sign up and submit their schedules at the theatre bulletin board in the basement of Compton Hall. For additional information, contact Mr. Vincent Niemann at 729-0406 as soon as possible.

the defendant. This bill includes nine classes of first degree murder, such as rape or kidnap. Mandel's proposal was patterned after laws in Georgia and Florida.

Leisure Learning Solution

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Justice compels me to deflect the slings and arrows of outrageous reporters and editors.

If the recent article and editorial lampooning the efforts of the Krupa services are representative of the usual caliber of State-To-Date journalism, may I suggest you consult Mr. Krupa for the facts and Mr. Webster for the meaning of "journalism." Common sense ought to dictate that, if an article is to be written concerning a particular person, that that person be interviewed. Unfortunately, common sense was apparently not operating in Mr. Lofthus when he attempted to report the matter, since Mr. Krupa was never consulted. Further evidence of misreporting lies in the fact that Mr. Lofthus was not even present at the S.A. Executive Committee of which he writes in the article. In view of two such serious journalistic failures, Mr. Lofthus had nothing on which to base his grossly inaccurate portrayal of Mr. Krupa as a militant radical thirsting for power. A desire to serve the students by coordinating a teacher evaluation system supported by the students themselves hardly constitutes a radical thirsting for power. S.A. and State-To-Date would do well to remember that the students of Mr. Krupa's committee had already developed a complete set of objectives and methods as well as a time schedule of operations before S.A. displayed its inhospitality to Mr. Krupa in three unproductive meetings (at none of which Mr. Lofthus was present). It is unfortunate that S.A. and State-To-Date have adopted such an unreceptive attitude toward the efforts of students who were working for the benefit of other students.

Hopefully, the philosophy of your newspaper operation involves some measure of accuracy and fairness. It would be encouraging to see more evidence of these in future State-To-Date issues. Fairly yours, Joanne Erickson Student Evaluation Committee

Guest Editorial

Medicine or Morality?

by Lee Lofthus

Periodically over the past semesters, F.S.C.'s Brady Health Center has displayed advertisements for the "right-to-life" organization Birth-Right in the doctor's office, and miscellaneous material portraying abortions in a sadistic light has filled the waiting room bulletin board. It is clearly evident that in addition to dispensing medicine to the students, the staff at the health center is also vigorously dispensing its own moral beliefs without regard to the rights and moral beliefs of the F.S.C. students.

It is the position of this writer that any institution funded by the state of Maryland, such as the health center, should not be in the business of advertising particular groups or conducting public relations campaigns for groups whose particular ideology happens to coincide with the personal beliefs of the staff. To do so is not only repulsive in a moral sense but constitutes a blatant abuse of the privileges and authority granted the staff of the health center.

The issue here is whether or not a state program should be lobbying for private interest groups to influence the actions of the students on moral and religious issues. There is only one answer to this issue, and that is that the F.S.C. administration should act immediately to halt the current lobbying practices of the health center staff. The continuation of such practices by the health center can only be detrimental to the students going to the center for medical advice.

It seems clear that anyone going to the health center for information on alternatives to an unwanted pregnancy is going to receive biased advice. Even if the doctor or nurse attempts to provide strictly medical advice, it seems improbable that the alternatives would be related in anything but terms of good versus evil.

Can you imagine getting impartial advice on pregnancy alternatives from a doctor with "Right to Life" literature on his wall? I cannot. Along the same lines, can you imagine a Jew getting a fair trial in court from a judge and jury wearing Nazi Swastikas? Impossible. The point is, that in each case, the person in the predicament is dealing with someone who will not consider all points of view fairly.

To further compound the issue, the alternatives which are available to women facing an unwanted pregnancy are divided along sharply religious lines. Therefore, the health center has placed itself in the position of advocating the beliefs of some religions while condemning the doctrines of other religions. This is of course the right of individuals and private groups, but is not the right of an institution funded by the State of Maryland.

While the practice of displaying the Birth-Right advertisement, for example, should not be condoned, this does not mean that the material should not be made available upon the request of a student seeking such information. Similarly, material giving information on abortions should be handled in the same manner.

I do not want to seem an ingrate towards the health center. I appreciate the medical help which is provided to the students. I merely find disgusting the fact that the health center is attempting to influence the moral and religious beliefs of the students.

What is a Joint Rush?

What is a Joint Rush? To understand Rush, you must understand that Joint Rush is made up of three on-campus sororities. These sororities, Alpha Xi Delta, Lambda Phi Delta, and Theta Delta Pi, work together to create Rush. Together they set up rules, plan information night, times and days for Rush parties and work on publicity. A successful rush is evidenced through our Greek harmony.

Rush is one week long. It's Feb. 7-12. It consists of parties held by each sorority. During this week the sisters welcome and greet any girl interested in Rush. The sisters enjoy showing part of their sorority, talking with new faces and entertaining new friends. In order to attend these parties, any girl should obtain three information sheets in LC or the cafeteria at dinner or attend an information Night January 31, at 7:30 p.m. in Lane Center Multi-purpose room. During Information Night, there will be representatives from each sorority to answer any questions. Light refreshments will be served. We hope to see you at Information and during Rush.

Accomplished Pianist to Perform

On Monday evening, February 7 at 8:30 p.m. in Pullen Auditorium, the Music Department in conjunction with the Artist-Lecture series will present in performance, Ms. Teresa Escandon, an accomplished pianist.

Max Harrison of the London Times had this to say about her talent: Miss Escandon was right inside the Govecscas of Granados. The textures are elaborate yet were kept clear though clothed in warm and vibrant sounds, both during the exuberant outbursts and the introspective musings."

Her program will include some piano pieces, Opus 76 by Brahms and some of the Liszt Transcendental Etudes.

Even before coming to New York as a teenager to pursue her piano studies, Teresa Escandon had earned recognition in her native Cuba for a very precocious talent. For a number of years she then divided her time between piano lessons in New York with Isabelle Vengerova and Olga Stroumillo and academic studies in Havana, earning a Bachelor of Letters there. She also performed frequently in Cuba and South America. For the next five years she remained here, with Edward Steuermann as her mentor. After some time in Europe she returned to the United States to do graduate work at Yale. A student there of Ward Davenny, she was awarded both a Master of Music and a Master of Musical Arts and is now a doctoral candidate at Yale. Miss Escandon has been on the faculty of the Hartt College of Music and now centers her musical activities mainly in the eastern and midwestern United States, playing recitals in major American cities, for colleges and universities, and for musical organizations in various communities.
