Summary

NATION'S CAPITAL UNDER SEIGE

Wednesday, March 9-- Black gunmen, Hanafi Muslim raiders, forced their way into three buildings located in Washington D.C.; B'nai B'rith Headquarters, the National Islamic Center, and City Hall. These buildings are located two blocks from the White House.

The gunmen killed one person and held many hostages under death threats at the initial break-in. By mid-evening, police reported that the raiders had killed a black radio reporter and wounded more than a half a dozen other people.

The gunmen's leader, Hamaas Abdul Khaalis, said that his men and he wanted revenge for the 1973 murder of seven Hanafi women and children including 4 of his own children by rival Muslims.

His demands in order to end this siege were: 1). Delivery to him of all those convicted of the murder, 2). Stop showings of the movie "Mohammad, Messenger of God". 3). Delivery to him of the heavy-weight champion, Muhammad Ali. 4). Delivery to him of the murderers of Black Muslim hero Malcolm X.

As evening came, the police reported the situation at each building to be: Washington's City Hall: Two gunmen were holding an unknown number of city officials; one reporter for a local black radio station had been shot dead; Marion Barry, a city council member, had been shot in the chest and seriously wounded; and, Mayor Walter Washington was trapped for some time, but was soon brought out by the police.

At B'nai Brith: There were four gunmen that were originally holding 100 hostages. During the course of the day, small groups had been released and some had escaped. Five persons had been wounded and all of these were hospitalized.

At the National Islamic Center: There was an estimated one or two gunmen that were holding 15 hostages. No injuries had been reported.

Parts of Pennsylvania Avenue, from the White House to the Capital, was blocked to traffic, along with parts of Massachusetts Avenue in the heart of Embassy Row. Protection was doubled for members of Congress, judges, and federal agencies. President Carter had ordered the FBI to investigate the Muslim raid.

Thursday, March 10-- A spokesman said that police strategy was to wait out the gunmen.

The prisoners were being treated well. Food, medicine and cigarettes were being sent to the hostages. The raiders threatened to chop off the heads of the hostages if their demands were not met. There was no deadline set and police were willing to wait it out.

The ambassadors of Iran, Pakistan, and Egypt were trying to negotiate with the gunmen in order to end the siege.

Friday, March 11 --All of the hostages were released after being held for 39 hours. Mayor Washington announced this breakthrough at 1:45 a.m. After this followed a 3 hour negotiating period and Khaalis was set free. Although he had been set free, he was expected to follow certain restrictions; such as, he is not allowed to leave Washington D.C. He is now staying at Headquarters for the Hanafi's, located on 16th Street, which sits between two Jewish Centers. Two guards have been posted outside at all times.

All of the negotiations have not been finalized, but some of his demands were met. They are:

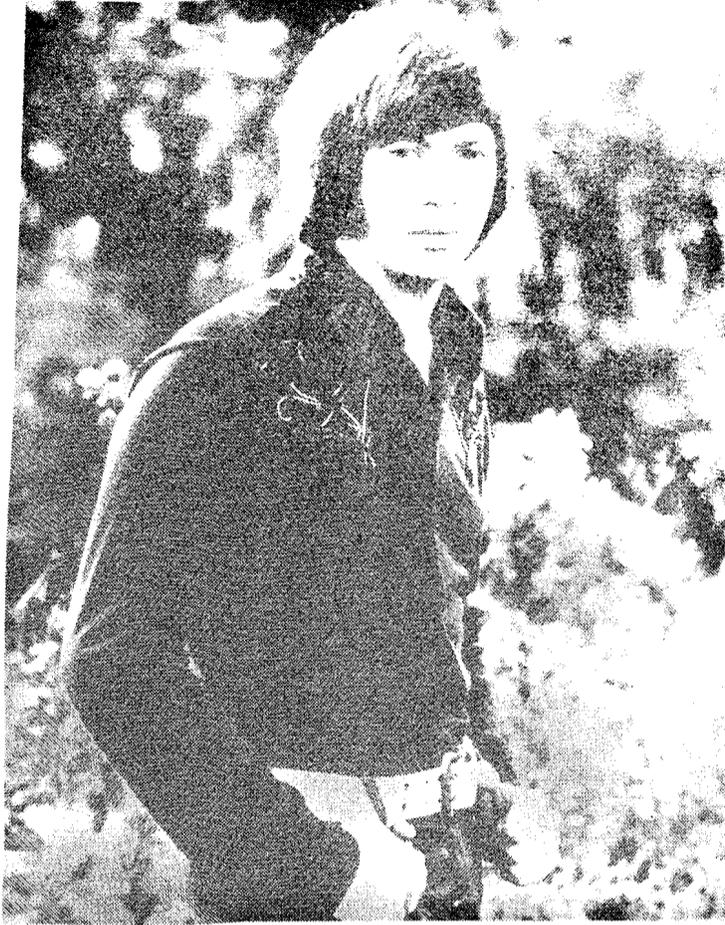

- 1) The showing of the movie has stopped;
- 2) An amount of $750.00 was given back to Khaalis. This was a court fee that he had to pay during an outbreak of the trial for the 1973 murders.

Saturday, March 12 -- Negotiations still continued. Four of the gunmen were set free without bond, and the remaining eight gunmen were still being held on bond. The three suspects that were stationed at the Islamic Center during the outbreak had been set free.

The movie had stopped showing. At two theaters, police had gone in and shut down the movie and asked the people to leave.

Sunday, March 13--The film had reopened in New York and Los Angeles without consultation with officials in Washington. This has caused some fear, and the officials think that this may cause another outbreak of violence.

At the time of this writing, negotiations are still going on in Washington and things seem to be remaining calm.

Bobby Goldsboro will be headlining along with Wayland and Madame in a special benefit concert on April 2.

FSC Student Jailed

by Lee Lofthus

F.S.C. Student George T. Caras was jailed Sunday, March 13, 1977, after an incident occurring Saturday afternoon behind the F.S.C. Fine Arts building.

The incident began as Caras was moving several items from his car into the Fine Arts building. Caras returned to his car to find a campus security officer, Henry Reiner ticketing his vehicle. After a heated verbal exchange, another security officer was called to the scene. Caras was asked to produce his college I.D. and to get out of his car. As he was doing so, Caras allegedly hit the policeman's arm with his car door.

Intercollegiate Press Bulletins

Davidson, N.C. ( I.P. ) Thanks to a workbook developed by Davidson College's office of experiential programs, students beset with the age-old question, "What am I going to do with my life," now have a new way to find the answers. Already Ken Wood, office director, is getting requests for information about the program and for copies of the workbook.

Wood explained, "Students kept asking me, 'What's available?' when I thought they should say, 'Here's my interest--how can I pursue it?' To help

At that point, the officers informed Caras that they intended to bring charges against him. Caras, according to eye witnesses, simply requested the officers to "Let me out of here." The officers refused to let him go, so Caras put his car in reverse, turned around, and drove up over the curb and away from the scene. The security policemen made no attempt to chase the car.

On Sunday, Caras was brought to the county jail and faced the following charges: assaulting a campus policeman, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, destruction of property and fleeing to avoid arrest.

students pin down their interests, Wood has developed Centering-Venturing, a process which helps one center on personal interests and strengths, then venture into planned experience leading to identified goals.

The workbook outlines the basic steps. A student can work through it individually, but Wood says it is more effective in a workshop setting, for the group members support each other, provide feedback and ideas, and help increase confidence.

Rental Housing Ordinance Delayed

by Karl Ritchey & John Preisinger

Consideration of Frostburg's controversial Rental Housing Ordinance was again delayed at the March 7 meeting of the Frostburg City Council. Public opinion expressed at the meeting caused the measure to again be referred to the task force.

Spokesman for local landlords at the meeting pointed out numerous flaws in this most recent version of the proposal. The main thrust of their argument was that adoption of the ordinance in its present form would place undue hardship on tenants in the terms of higher rent, fewer available rental dwellings and the possibility of housing inspectors arriving at rental dwellings to conduct inspections without permission or warrants. The landlords were also concerned that this legislation protects the anonymity of the complaining party.

Additionally, the landlords raised the problem of ample parking being provided for residents. The current proposal provides for parking space to be allotted according to the number of adults residing in a given rental unit, and not according to the number of vehicles registered to the occupants of the dwelling.

Councilman John N. Bambacus replied that he was sure that responsible landlords would absorb the cost of implementing the ordinance and not pass high costs on to senior citizens and other tenants on a fixed income, because they could not afford such an increase. He again pointed out that enough waivers and safeguards are built into this legislation and that no undue hardship would be placed on either tenants or landlords. The councilman also noted that some of these problems have no easy answers, but that this measure will make the present conditions more tolerable. Bambacus went on to make the comment that "We have a moral and practical obligation as elected officials to make sure people can expect this kind of protection."

The task force, whose membership includes landlords and F.S.C. students, is expected to report to the Council by March 21.

Open Letter to Students

WFNR campus radio is presently into something different. We have always thought that our music sounded pretty good, but that's not quite enough for a college radio station. Our attitude these days is that air time should not be restricted solely to our staff of about thirty, with the exclusion of music, there are a variety of methods by which one might express one's self on the radio. Some people seem to like to bitch a lot so bitch to everyone on campus. You don't necessarily need live on campus to do so. The best forum would seem to us to be a two minute editorial which would be recorded and played several times over the air. Subject matter will be unrestricted and unedited.

Besides issue-oriented opinions, you might want to think of something unique, just put your brain to work, we have already thought of astrological forecasts, recipes, poetry, and much more. Of course, we also want to remain open as a service outlet, that is to broadcast rides home, classified ads, etc. Those of you who are F.S.C. lovers and have been here more than one year have hopefully noticed an upward movement in WFNR's (formerly WFSC) sound quality and content, weather forecasts, concert information, public affairs, news, sports, and more divergent programming are now a fact. By contributing a small part, you're helping us improve our station's image, as well as getting your message across.

The best methods to contact us are by writing us at box 41 of the Lane College Center or calling us at x 7029 Mon., Wed., Fri., or Sat between 10:30 and 12 noon. If not, stop by WFNR's studio anytime our door is always open, room 203 in the Lane Center, across from the S.A. and C.C.B. offices and next door to State-To-Date. Thank you for voting "yes" on more funding for us during the election last November. Watch us expand next semester with idea's like cable FM in the offing. Thank you for listening. ## College Bowl Quiz Game Reborn COLLEGE BOWL, the intercollegiate quiz game that helped make eggheads as popular as football heroes, is springing back with renewed vigor on campuses all across the country.

The game, which was a popular national radio and television feature for more than seventeen years, now enjoys the collaboration of The Reader's Digest, which serves as the official authenticator of all COLLEGE BOWL questions. Reader's Digest also is a source for many of the questions, which are drawn from the magazine and from a variety of reference books published by the Digest. COLLEGE BOWL operates in cooperation with the Association of College Unions-International.

Since it left national television in 1970, COLLEGE BOWL has continued to be an important feature of campus life in many colleges, and the game is still being televised in twelve foreign countries. Because of the continued activity and the urging of college students, Don Reid, the creator of the COLLEGE BOWL game, in association with ACU-I, has re-organized competition on both intramural and intercollegiate levels.

COLLEGE BOWL is played between two teams of four players each. The teams score points for correct answers to questions asked by a moderator. The fast-paced game tests students' knowledge in a wide range of subjects, including many that are covered in a liberal arts curriculum, other undergraduate studies and current events. The questions, which are researched by the COLLEGE BOWL and authenticated by the Reader's Digest, are closely guarded and known only to a handful of officially designated people prior to the game.

COLLEGE BOWL can be played on an intramural basis, with teams competing within a given school, or on an intercollegiate level, with teams vying in a "conference" with schools in their own areas or other parts of the country. At the end of the official school year, leading teams play against each other to determine the intercollegiate champion.

Complete information about setting up a COLLEGE BOWL competition on campus is contained in the official COLLEGE BOWL Guidebook, which is available along with registration forms from the College Bowl Company, Dept. RD, Suite 4517, 60 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Seniors planning graduation in May or December, check graduation requirements with the Registrar's Office by calling 4346 for an appointment.

Students planning to attend other institutions for transfer credit to Frostburg, must pick up an approval form in the Registrar's Office after Spring break. Bring the summer course offerings from the other institution.

Cuba, that bastion of militant Communism just 90 miles from the shores of the United States, has gained a considerable amount of attention in the last few months. Cuba has been a source of trouble for the United States ever since Castro first overthrew the Batista regime in 1959. However, there have been signs of some thawing in the diplomatic freeze that has now existed for 18 years between Havana and Washington. Signs that have even lead to the continued hope that at some fairly close future point relations may be normalized between the two nations.

The overtones that have been made toward normalization of relations between the United States and Cuba have been threefold. The first breakthrough was a statement by President Carter shortly after his inauguration that his administration would not even consider normalization until after Cuban troops had been withdrawn from Angola. A few days later, Castro announced that he was seriously considering withdrawing those troops. Within this same speech, a second crucial sign emerged, Castro expressed his admiration and respect for President Carter. Castro also expressed a desire to see American sports teams, particularly professional baseball teams, visit the island. Cuba was once a source for professional baseball players for the major leagues and the hunger for baseball still seems to be there.

Therefore, it seems that the first steps towards normalization of relations have occurred. Historically, this will prove to be a difficult process to justify and proceed with. Castro has been heavily financed and supported by Soviet advisors and rubles. This policy has created severe problems vis-a-vis Cuban-American relations, as this became a serious break in the official U.S. policy of containment of Communism. The history of Cuban-American relations has somewhat resembled a chess game. Castro expropriates the wealthy American holdings in Cuba, America angered over this, tries to overthrow Castro through the Bay of Pigs fiasco. The CIA attempts to assassinate Castro and we have a growing supply of evidence that Castro may have ordered the assassination of John Kennedy. Despite the continual denials issued by the Castro regime, still these reports persist. In more recent times, we can certainly recall the blatant intervention of the Cubans into the Angolan Civil War, an intervention that almost ruined detente between the

The Voice of Reason

United States and the Soviet Union. Castro has also taken a strongly belligerent stand on the future of the island of Puerto Rico, a commonwealth possession of the United States. This tends to lead one to question the seriousness of Castro's desires for normalization of relations.

Looking at the problem from another prospective, we have President Carter's own stated "moral foreign policy concept". This is a concept referred to in this writer's column on Rhodesia and South Africa. If we are opposed to supporting immoral government we are going to be hard pressed to justify giving diplomatic sanction to Fidel Castro's regime. Terrorism, censorship, murder and totalitarianism are the order of the day on the island of Cuba. A report issued by the Organization of American States in 1975 categorized the treatment of political prisoners under Castro as "cruel, degrading and inhumane." Castro has also refused to allow citizens the right to leave the island, and action that the United States has quite often taken the Soviet Union to task for. Even if one looks at the issue from a more pragmatic perspective, they are hard-put to develop a compelling case for recognizing the Castro regime. The only products of any value produced by Cuba are sugar and cigar tobacco. Although the 1970's are a time of shortages, I can never recall a huge shortage of those two items.

At this moment, this writer cannot see an overwhelming need to change the status quo of our foreign policy towards Cuba. The Castro regime is still openly hostile towards this country. Cuban school children are still being taught anti-American songs, to assemble Russian made AK-47's by Castro's desire to spread this base of power is still there witnessed by his designs on Puerto Rico. Castro's puppet status as a Russian stooge can still be seen today in the jungles of Angola. The reason for Cuba's diplomatic isolation was to prevent them from supporting their revolution. It seems that in 1977 this is still the goal of Castro. Until this changes, we need to maintain our present policy.

FSC Percussion Ensemble to Tour

The Frostburg State College Percussion Ensemble will be performing in Baltimore and Harford counties on March 24th and 25th. The 12 member organization, under the direction of David P. Eyler, has presented concerts at Frostburg State College and in the Allegany public schools for the past four years. The Ensemble was formed four years ago and began as only a percussion quintet. Since that time, the group has more than doubled in size.

This will be the first appearance in the Baltimore - Harford County area by the Ensemble. The Ensemble will be giving an evening concert at Harford Community College in Harford County. Besides this concert the Percussion group will be giving concerts at Bel Air Sr. High School on Thursday afternoon and at Perry Hall High School and Catonsville High School in Baltimore County on Friday.

The Percussion Ensemble performs a variety of compositions ranging from Classical literature to modern Jazz-Rock arrangements. Several members of the group have arranged many of the popular hits such as, "Rikki Don't Lose That Number," "MacArthur Park", and "Turn The Beat Around" to be performed by the ensemble this semester. Many members of the Ensemble will be featured in solos throughout the concerts.

Members of the Ensemble are: Joseph Cashwell, Washington D.C.; Martin Crump and Ken Sites, Mt. Savage, Md.; David Eyler and Barbara Johnson, Bel Air, Md.; Tom Kimmel, Cumberland, Md.; Ken Leverance, College Park, Md.; James Roderick, Piedmont, W. ## Eyler To Present Senior Recital

On Sunday, March 20th, David P. Eyler will present his senior recital. David is a percussion major, who will graduate this May with a degree in both Music Education and Applied Music. This is his second solo recital on the F.S.C. campus. He gave a junior recital on February 8, 1976.

Melody by Reinhold Gliere will begin the concert. Originally written to be performed by a flautist, David has adapted the piece for the marimba. Trois Danses Paines by Serge Baudo is a multiple percussion selection in which timpani, drum set, chimes, vibraphone, marimba, and various miscellaneous percussion instruments are played. Toccata in D Minor by J. S. Bach, usually regarded as a great organ work, will be performed on marimba. Scherzo for Timpani and Piano and the Concertino for Marimba by Paul Creston will conclude the program. David performed the first movement of the Concertino in the F.S.C. Band Concert given March 6, 1977.

Accompanying David on four of his selections will be Ms. Susan R. Beehler. She is a member of the faculty of the F.S.C. Music Department. She is the director of the Concert Choir and Collegium.

On the following Thursday and Friday David will be touring with the F.S.C. Percussion Ensemble in Baltimore and Harford counties in the capacity of director and soloist. He has been the director of the ensemble for the past four years. He also participates in the F.S.C. Marching and Concert Bands, Wind Symphony, and Jazz Ensemble. Earlier this spring, David was elected to receive the Senior Award for scholastic achievement in his four years at Frostburg State College. Next year he plans to attend graduate school to continue his study in the performance of percussion.

Zen Trip Planned

For all those students who have signed the petition on my office door (and for those nearly 100 others who have signed similar petitions) requesting the Curriculum Committee to allow "An Introduction to Zen Buddhism" to be taught at this college, and to any other member of the college community who has a genuine interest in Zen, Dr. Paul R. La Chance extends a welcome to join the Allegany Community College's Zen class on a field trip to meet America's first native speaking Zen Master in the long and distinguished history of the Zen tradition. Zen is immediate. And there's no point in waiting around idle for the Curriculum Committee to act. However, the trip will require some sacrifice (probably thirty to forty dollars) and an overall three day excursion: leaving by provided transportation on Thursday, April 29th to Rochester, New York and returning on Saturday, April 31st. For applications call 689-3580; first come, first serve.

News To The Students

SA Reports

On March 8th, we sent a "wire" to Annapolis in support of Bill 691 which would ensure a student on the Maryland State Board of Higher Education. The Bill has a very good chance of passing and becoming effective by July 1, 1977. A student on this board would provide for a better balanced representation.

The next S.A. meeting will be Thursday, March 17th, at 8:00 p.m. in Lane Center room 140-141.

Balfour Ring Company will be on campus on Tuesday March 22nd from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. to take your class ring order. If you would like to order a ring, bring $10.00 with you to cover the deposit. If you cannot be there Tuesday, then you can order your ring from Rick Gehrman in the S.A. Office. Herff Jones rings can be ordered through Tom Keilholtz.

If you are interested in working on a committee in S.A., you are welcome to do so. We need your help. Contact Rick Gehrman at ext. 4304.

College Senate News

by Doug Burkhardt

The College Senate held its second meeting of the year on Wednesday, March 9. Agenda items for the 90-minute session included election of officers, and a discussion of budgetary problems facing the college for the coming fiscal year.

Dr. James Cotton of the Geography Department was elected chairman, Jim Proctor was elected to the position of vice-chairman and Dr. Elinor Burkett of the History Department and Mr. Robert Parker of the Art Department as semester secretaries.

In a brief address to the Senate, President Guild cautioned the Senate concerning the college budget for the next fiscal year.

He noted that funds will be extremely tight due to budget cuts imposed by the state legislature.

In other business, Mr. Paul Trichel, chairman of the Academic Standards Committee, proposed an amendment to the charter of the committee. If adopted, the amendment would increase the membership of the committee by two members: the Coordinator of Special Instructional Programs and the Director of Minority Affairs would be added to the committee as voting members. Considerable debate on this proposal is expected when it is brought to the floor at the next meeting, which is scheduled for April 20 at 4 p.m.

Politics and Education Part 1

"The Early Beginnings"

Gayle Walters

Higher Education in America is light years beyond the "Alma Maters" of our great-grandparents, as far as physical plant size and numbers of faculty and staff. But is it so progressed in regard to the quality of education? Most analysts of the problem, and indeed, much of the public says, "No." This series of articles intends to explore some of the implications of the politics of education.

The American conceptions of education are little derived from the hallowed English institutions they substituted for. When the first colonial colleges, Harvard, William and Mary, and Yale, opened their doors in the mid-1600's, it was to a nation of farmers' and merchants' sons, not the offspring of aristocracy. The rougher-hewn population of the Americas numbered less than 2 million, was far spread geographically, and had far different needs than the Europeans of the day. In fact, the very incorporation of the first American colleges marked a minor "Declaration of Independence" because, in all the Commonwealth, only Oxford and Cambridge were legally allowed to dispense degrees. Hence, even the legal status of the colleges remained in question until the 18th century.

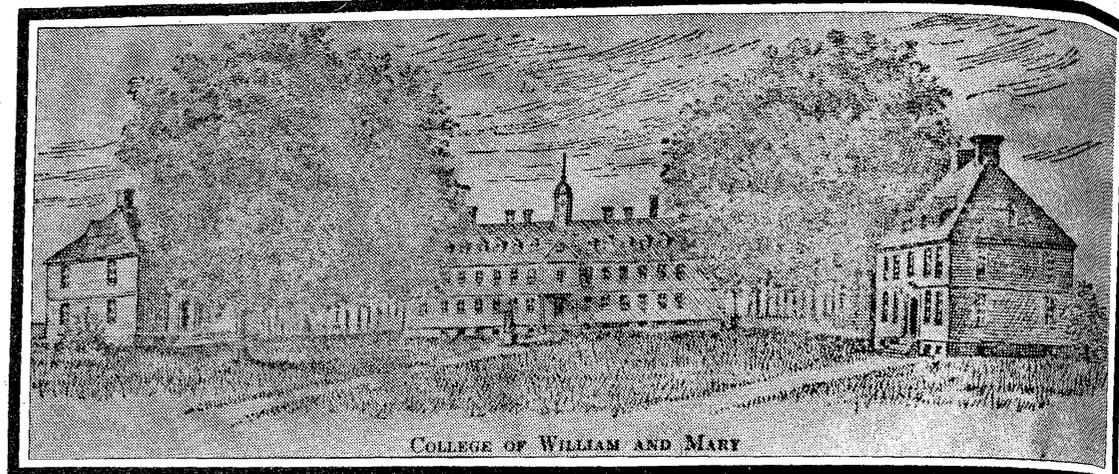

American colleges were begun by as many religious sects, who foresaw the need to train the future clergymen of the new frontier. They were small schools, often with only a handful of "professors" and because of the sectarianism, lost most of the isolated quality of English Universities. Their integration into their communities gave rise to the thoroughly American innovation, the college president, whose job it was to mediate between the populace and the faculty. Their staff members were often very young--the average age of faculty at Harvard was 24 in 1650--and under-trained. From the beginning, American colleges had put more money into impressive buildings than books or endowments, with the result that some almost bankrupted before they got started.

It is no wonder that the radical American system of education was strongly criticized by Europeans used to a rigid discipline of "liberal arts" for the wealthy few. In the colonies, any man with 40 pounds and 4 years could obtain a degree; the "wholesaling" of education to the masses. Not only that, but colonial colleges were actually "owned" by an ecumenical board of trustees. Such public participation in academic matters was unheard of on the Continent. They criticized the fact that in America, diffusion of education was more important than advancement of learning. And such remarks are still being leveled at our system. Competition among the various sects for a college to call their own became fierce, and by the revolution, this had produced an abundance of religiously oriented schools. As the theological emphasis began to lessen, though, there was a positive boom in the construction of colleges and universities. By 1870, there were 563 institutions of higher learning. However, four fifths of those founded before the Civil War are now non-existent.

What caused the rapid increase of colleges and universities in this struggling young country? Basically, the great opportunities of free land and money gave education its biggest boost, not a high-minded concern with the intelligence of its countrymen, as might be thought. Education in America has followed a crazy inverted path; creating colleges before there was even any high schools and building grandiose campuses before there was financial solvency. Yet, with the opening of the West, and the government's realization of its enormity of land and resources, there finally was the advent of public funding for education.

The Morrill Act was first introduced in Congress in 1859. It called for the granting of public lands (owned by the federal government) to each state according to population. With this free land, even the poorer states would have a head start on creating state colleges and universities. However, President Buchanan promptly vetoed the bill, saying that if the federal government were to start granting, the hands of the state governments would always be out. But, in 1862, President Lincoln signed the Morrill Act, and the scramble for funds was on. The colleges that arose from the land-grants were mostly what are now called A & M schools (Agricultural and Mechanical). The democratic ideal of well-educated masses and the Purianalyze oneself in 21 categories, such as interests, skills, personality type, sense of values, and social concerns. This information is ranked in terms of personal importance. "Then we make a life chart that pulls together all the key elements," Wood says.

With the life chart and the information from their field survey, students then set specific life goals and can uncover a wide range of options. "It's a process which puts students in charge of their own lives, rather than leaving them at the mercy of impersonal vocational tests or 'what's available in the job market,'" Wood said.

AOK to Sponsor John Waters Film Festival

The fabulous Miss Divine, internationally-known film starlet, will be soon romping across the silver screens of FSC. "Pink Flamingoes," starring the aforementioned Divine, is the feature attraction in a John Waters Film Festival being held April 15 and 16 in the Fine Arts Gallery.

Waters' films, all of which were produced in Baltimore, have met with international success and are still playing in first-run theatres in Paris, London, and New York. They have been described variously as perverse, brilliant, trashy, and downright hilarious. Rex Reed, film critic for the New York Times, had this to say about the films: "... where do these people come from? Where to they go at night? Isn't there a law or something?"

"Pink Flamingoes" features Divine and Edith Massey in a contest to be the Filthiest Person Alive. The second feature, "Multiple Maniacs," is a science-fiction spoof starring Divine and an overly-amorous 14-foot lobster. A short film, "The Diane Linkletter Story," will also be shown. Admission is only one dollar and a good time is guaranteed for all.

Zones: Experimental Theatre Comes to Cumberland

Zones and Other Anti-Matter, written and directed by A.C.C.'s drama department head, Joseph Valcourt, is a series of poems unified by a narrated journey through time and space. It is a fantasy that provides a bizarre glimpse of reality; the farther the play takes us back into time, the more it comments on the complexity of interactions in modern society. The play brings a new dimension to the 70's fascination with space that is evidenced by our television shows, movies, and music: Star Trek, Lost in Space, 2001: A Space Odyssey, Steve Miller's "Fly Like An Eagle."

Zones leads the audience into the rich world of the inner mind. The best description of intent is given by Joseph Valcourt, "Zones is a place we encounter in our waking hours, in dreams, in the closet, at the bus stop, at the first landing of the Saturnites at the Capital Centre." He defines anti-matter as, "the mirrors in life we don't see."

Zones provides the mirror through six actors who perform a series of skits, improvisations, choral readings and well-choreographed dances. All of the actors are, in effect, stars because the format of Zones forces each actor to work outside of the normal limitations of a role.

The actors use the only props, six man-sized tetrahedrons, to suggest machine age paraphernalia, spanning the distance from washing machines to traffic to homes. The use of the tetrahedrons is a beautifully simple device that succeeds, through the inventiveness of the playwright and improvisation of the actors, in transporting the audience through space and time on a journey propelled by imagination.

Music creates the mood for this fantastic flight and is a device through which the play achieves its wholeness. Henri Verdel set Valcourt's poems to music and performs these compositions with subtle strength. His clear and pleasing voice merges with soft guitar chords to eloquently underscore the play's action.

Zones is a sensual play that provides strong sight and sound images. Its successful combination of the strengths of poetry and drama ensures an enjoyable, enlightening experience. Brilliant satire gently shows the foibles of the society we live in from a futuristic viewpoint.

The actors, Kelly Martin, Bob Stevenson, Carol Bone, Rich Lechliter, Joe Dennison, and Roger Jones, bring to life a play with as much to say about the 70's as Hair had to say about the 60's.

Forensics Team Travels to Seattle

Spring Trip to Guatemala

March 18 is the deadline for signing up for the trip to Guatemala, conducted by members of the departments of art and philosophy. The trip is scheduled for May 17-31, and it will be offered for six credits in art and/or philosophy. Cost, including air flights, ground transportation, hotels, food, tuition and fees is $762.

The major points of interest will be: Guatemala City with its cathedral, Spanish colonial churches, huge markets, museums etc. Tikal, a maya city in the jungle of Northern Guatemala, the former capital of America. Quirigua, a mayan site with outstanding mayan sculpture and the Montagua river. Lake Flores, a huge lake in the middle of the jungle and the town of Flores which is built on an island in the lake. Lake Atitlan in the highlands of Guatemala, surrounded by volcanoes and often called the "most beautiful lake in the world." And contemporary mayan communities with their colorful Indian dress and costume.

Those interested should contact Mr. George Kramer, Dept. of Art, or Dr. Jorn K. Bramann, Dept. of Phil., both of F.S.C., telephone number, 689-4249.

Goldsboro to Headline Concert

Singer-composer Bobby Goldsboro will headline the scholarship benefit concert at Frostburg State College on April 2. Appearing with Goldsboro will be Wayland and Madame.

The concert is being sponsored by the Frostburg State College Foundation and Willetts' Travel Inc. The Foundation's share of proceeds will go for its scholarship program.

Goldsboro, best known for his 1968 smash single recording of "Honey" has played to sell-out crowds in top night spots in Las Vegas, Lake Tahoe, Pittsburgh, Miami, and Puerto Rico. He is a frequent guest on the Mike Douglas, Dinah Shore, Merv Griffin, and Johnny Carson shows.

Although he has little formal musical training, Goldsboro's natural composing and arranging talents and his sensitive approach to lyrics have made his songs popular with other singers. He has equal success recording his own songs and those of other composers.

Wayland Flowers created his famous puppet Madame as well as the puppets featured in "Kumquats, the World's First Erotic Puppet Show." A regular on the Andy Williams Show, he has also appeared on Hollywood Squares.

The talented comic recently became the first performer to win an Emmy Award for talent in the news and documentary category.

There will be two performances, 2:00 p.m. and 8:30 p.m., in the 3,400-seat main arena in the College's new Physical Education Center.

Tickets are $8.50 each, $8.00 if purchased in blocks of ten or more. Tickets are available from Willetts in Cumberland (777-7117) and Frostburg (689-3434).

All we have to do is call them concerning rides Monday thru Thursday between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. They have one phone so be patient if you get a busy signal. They especially need drivers, but don't hesitate to call if you want a ride either.

Schueler Repeats as NAIA

All-American

Carl Schueler, a F.S.C. junior from Silver Spring, again brought national recognition to the college with his third place finish in the two-mile race-walk at the NAIA Indoor Track Championships. The meet was held in Kansas City, Missouri, on February 25 and 26. All-American honors are awarded to the top three finishers in each event. Schueler was runner-up in the 1976 indoor nationals, and his 1977 performance made him one of only a select few F.S.C. athletes to repeat as All-Americans.

college record and erases the mark of 14.49 which he set in the 1976 championship.

In the Kansas City race, Schueler's strategy was to stay with the defending champion, Jim Heiring of the University of Wisconsin-Parkside, for as long as possible. The pace for the first half-mile was below world-record speed and the three leaders quickly opened up a huge lead over the rest of the field. Schueler stayed in contact with Heiring for the first mile and then concentrated on maintaining his position in the top three. His time of 14.28 is a

Basketball Intramurals

Going into the final week of the season, the men's basketball intramural program looks as if many of the league races will go right down to the wire. With play-offs scheduled to start on Monday, March 21, virtually all of this week's games are of extreme importance.

In the American League the Wolf Pack have assured themselves of a play-off spot with a 10-1 record, but the F.H. Townies and Sig Tau I are battling it out for the other play-off spot. Old Spice leads KZX I and Badness in the National League. Over in the Eastern League the two play-off teams appear to be Left Nut and TKE Horseshoes, as they are well out in front. ADX I leads the Northern League with a 11-1 mark, followed by Maximus Super (9-2) and the Mighty Midgets (8-3). In the West it is the Premiums sporting a 13-0 record with the second spot being up for grabs between the Disco Ducks, P&C, and Gallows Pole. The Southern League has So-wers Hall in first place (10-1) followed by Cool & the Gang (8-3). It looks like a fight down to the finish between Troy State and the Trojans for first place in the Border League. Troy

State owns a 9-1 mark followed by the Trojan's 10-2.

If you want to see some good and exciting basketball venture over to the PE Center some night and support your favorite team. Remember the play-offs start on Monday. Bethere.

Lacrosse Team Trounces Randolph-Macon

Frostburg's Lacrosse team trounced Randolph Macon 12-5 in their first game of the season. In a long distance phone call soon after the Monday game, Coach McFarland said, "The defense played great the entire game and several players were outstanding on offense."

The leading scorer for the Bobcats was Kevin Forrester, a transfer student from Anne Arundel Community College, with a very impressive six goals. Ed Wilson, a sophomore, contributed three goals and four assists. Also scoring for Frostburg were Roland Smith with two goals and Mike Gavin with one.

The team will be at home Wednesday (this afternoon) for a scrimmage with Bethany College Lacrosse Club at 3:00 on the practice field across from the maintenance building.

Bobkittens End Season in Tournament

by Sindia Patterson

The women's basketball team wrapped up a 14-11 season at the State Championship Tournament, where they won fourth place. After losing the first tournament game to Salisbury in overtime 71-69, the Bobkittens tackled Morgan 62-52 and Mt. St. Mary's 65-61 to win the consolation finals.

Coach Irwin described the game against Salisbury as "a nightmare we're all going to have to live with until next season." Frostburg's loss to Salisbury eliminated any chance for the championship. Irwin assessed the game by saying, "The game could have gone either way. Unfortunately, it did not go our way." She felt the Bobkittens carried out an outstanding challenge to Salisbury. Sylvia Lee, 5'8", did an "excellent defensive job" as she held their 6'1" center to 9 points. Salisbury's center had previously scored 28 points in a regular season game against Frostburg. Patty Palmer and Debbie Alongi each scored 21 points and Sylvia Lee, completing 7 out of 8 field goal attempts, scored 17 points. The Bobkittens lost 71-69 in overtime.

At this point, the team had to "reassess their goals," according to Coach Irwin. The disappointment of losing the chance for the state championship was replaced by a desire to win in the consolation bracket. The Bobkittens got a good start in their second game, playing against Morgan, and tallied a halftime lead of 16 points. Morgan tied the score with 3 minutes remaining in the game. The Frostburg women went into a scoring spurt to win 62-52. Patty Palmer paced the scoring with 24 points and Mary Ann York had 16.

In the final tournament game, against Mt. St. Mary's, Frostburg held a 26-25 point lead at halftime. Mt. St. Mary's fought back in the second half and gained an 11 point lead. The Bobkittens moved into action succeeding in tying up the score with 90 seconds to spare. The game moved into overtime with both teams prepared for a scoring spree. Frostburg scored the first 11 points and coasted to a 4 point win as Mt. St. Mary's cut down their lead. During the 5 minute overtime, the Bobkittens scored 16 points for a 65-61 win. Frostburg had four high scorers: Patty "Pittsburgh" Palmer had the highest number of points with 19 and Debbie Alongi followed with 16. Mary Ann York earned 15 points and Sylvia Lee scored 13.

Frostburg won in the consolation bracket to place fourth in the state championship. Mary Ann York, guard, expressed the teams' regret that they had "not done better in the tournament." She said that they had "wanted badly" to win against Salisbury, but that "we gave it our best shot."

Coach Irwin feels that the Bobkittens are playing better than last year but that other teams have improved also. She sees many strengths in the team. The asset she most values is "balanced scoring from the starting five." Debbie Alongi, a 5'8" senior forward, averaged the team's highest scoring game with 14.2 points. Both guards, sophomores Patty Palmer and Mary Ann York averaged 11.8 points per game. Sylvia Lee, playing forward, averaged 9.5 and 5'9" center, Adeline Hubbard, scored 9.1 points per game. High scorer for the season with 235 points is Sylvia Lee, closely followed by Adeline Hubbard with 230 points and Debbie Alongi's 226 points.

Another strength of the team was its desire to win. At the end of a six month season, the Bobkittens won ten of their last twelve season games. The team's success in the tournament was due to powerful bursts in scoring during the last ten minutes of the game, a result of being well-conditioned.

Coach Irwin is satisfied with the Bobkittens season and looks toward next year's team. She hopes to form a "strong nucleus from this year's team."
