FROSTBURG STATE COLLEGE, FROSTBURG, MARYLAND

APRIL 20, 1977

Rental Housing Ordinance Passed

by Lee Lofthus

On April 4, 1977, Frostburg's Mayor and Council passed the long sought-after Rental Housing Ordinance. Passing by a unanimous five-to-zero vote, the action culminated several years of controversy over leased residences in Frostburg.

The ordinance, which had been delayed several times earlier this year, was passed after some minor changes were made at the suggestion of the rental housing task force. The main feature of the ordinance as passed is that mandatory licensing of rental properties was not required. Rather, properties will be inspected only if a complaint is made to the city officials by persons occupying the property.

Mayor David Linn commented "the ordinance is a good piece of legislation," going on to add that after one year the Mayor and Council would examine the impact of the ordinance to see if any modifications will be necessary.

Finance Commissioner John N. Bambacus said he was extremely pleased to see the rental code enacted. Bambacus had pushed for such an ordinance for several years, seeing the necessity of protecting renters in Frostburg, both the elderly and college students.

Nine FSC Students Issued Summonses

Nine Frostburg State College students have been issued summonses to appear in District Court on charges of illegally discharging fireworks. The case will be heard on May 2.

Students charges were Lawrence Diamond, Ted Gammel, Sigund Arnesen, Joseph Goodman, Daniel Goodman, Edward O'Meally, Justin McCarty, Steven Wilson and James Barrett, all residents of Diehl Hall. Additionally, Daniel Goodman was charged with possession of the illegal fireworks.

F.S.C. campus police officers confiscated 52 bottle rockets, 30 7/8" firecrackers and 313 1 1/2" firecrackers.

Mr. Robert Merican, Chief of campus police, commented on the gravity of the recent outbreak of similar fireworks-related incidents. "It's only a matter of time before someone gets hurt," he said, relating several stories about students and campus officers narrowly escaping being hit with fireworks in the last several weeks.

Attention Seniors

Seniors are reminded of several items relative to the Commencement program. A mandatory rehearsal for graduation will take place on Saturday, May 14th beginning at 10:00 a.m. in the New Physical Education Center, main arena. As this rehearsal represents the only opportunity to make announcements and clarifications relative to the commencement program, the rehearsal is required of all undergraduate students eligible to participate in the Commencement program.

Invitations to the graduation program and the Senior Luncheon have been mailed out to eligible students to their permanent address. Students who have not up-dated their permanent home address will find that delivery of this material will be at a minimum, delayed. Students interested in making reservations for the luncheon must return the reply card enclosed with the invitation. Current meal tickets do not cover the cost of the luncheon.

The President's Reception on Saturday evening is open to all graduating students, their parents and guests and member of the Faculty and Staff.

In the event of rain, the graduation ceremonies will be held in the New Physical Education Center. With the increased seating capacity of this building no rain tickets are being issued this year.

Cap and gowns for students and faculty will be available in the Bookstore for pick-up during normal working hours through exam week. A schedule of events relating to Commencement are listed as follows.

Saturday, May 14: 10:00 a.m.- Rehearsal- New P.E. Center. 8:00 p.m.- President's Reception (informal dress)- Lane Center.

Sunday, May 15: 11:00-1:30 p.m. - Senior Luncheon (reservations required) - Chesapeake Hall. 2:00 p.m. - Processional Lineup - Compton Gym. 2:30 p.m. - Commencement - Main Quadrangle (or in the event of rain, the New P.E. Building).

Forensic Union Wins Awards

The Forensic Union of Frostburg State College won awards and ratings in Individual Events at the prestigious National Pi Kappa Delta speech competition held in Seattle, Washington on March 18-23. The Individual Events class includes speechmaking which is the product of the students' original thinking such as persuasion, discussion, interpretation of prose or poetry, extemporaneous, informative and entertaining addresses.

Competition was open to those students who have met the honorary's academic qualifications and speech proficiency requirements.

This year's tournament was attended by 137 colleges and universities from across the country and Frostburg State College placed in the upper 23rd percentile.

John Rodriguez, Senior, received a national award of Excellence in the Discussion Event. The competition question was, "What should be the policy of the federal government toward the development of alternative sources of energy?" Mr. Rodriguez was judged on his knowledge of the problem area, ability to use a pattern of reflective thinking, evidence use and effective reasoning, cooperation with others, time management, and clear and effective communication.

Rodriguez also received a merit rating of Good in the Extemporaneous Speaking Event, which was divided into three topical areas: The U.S. and the Communist Bloc, The U.S. and its Allies, and The U.S. and the Third World.

Additionally, he received a merit rating of Good in the Speaking to Entertain event. The event theme was "Tall Tales," wherein the contestants designed their speeches for audience enjoyment and to convey a significant point to the listeners. His speech for the competition was a humorous commentary on the "Buy Centennial." This speech has won several awards at previous tournament competitions this year.

Mr. Lee Lofthus competed in the Informative Event, which is a non-persuasive speech dealing with concepts, processes, ideas, or objects. His speech was on the topic of the "Presidential Pullman Train" in which he incorporated an intricate scale model as supporting material.

Mr. Kevin Fitzgerald, President of the Frostburg State College Beta Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, contributed extensively in administrative duties commensurate with his role as voting delegate for the College. He also competed in the Individual Event of Oral Interpretation in which the contestants presented three different programs employing published literature of quality in poetry, prose, and drama. Fitzgerald chose "The Rising of the Moon," and "The Wearin' of the Green" poetry, a character analysis of Custer for prose, and a cutting from Camelot for the dramatic interpretation.

Miss Ann Williams, Director of Forensics and the coach for the Individual Events, accompanied the students to Seattle and judged sections of students from other schools in the speaking events.

Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Lofthus were paired in the Traditional Debate area on the topic: "Resolved: that the federal government should significantly strengthen the guarantee of consumer product safety required of manufacturers," and received a merit rating of Good for their exemplary speaking skills in 5 Win/3 Loss record.

National News Summary

by Sharon Norris
TALKS BEGIN

On Thursday, April 14, government officials stated that the United States and Vietnam will begin to hold conferences in Paris with the intent of improving the relationship between the two countries.

The United States Representative will most likely be Richard Holbrooke, assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs. The Vietnamese representative has not been announced as of yet.

Officials in Washington had hoped to begin the talks in April but Vietnam had asked for a postponement until May.

The breakthrough indicates that the United States is satisfied the Vietnamese are making every effort to clear up the MIA question. Last month, the remains of 11 MIA's were turned over to a presidential commission.

Vietnam insists that the United States has both a moral and legal commitment to Vietnam. This will be one issue discussed at the conferences.

COORS BEER BOYCOTT

On Thursday, April 14, George Meany, President of the AFL-CIO, declared a nationwide boycott on Coors Beer. This beer is brewed in Colorado and has become very popular over the past decade.

Meany said the boycott will continue until the Coors Co. signs a new Labor agreement with Brewery Workers Local 366 in Golden, Colorado.

Over 1,500 brewery workers have been on strike against Coors since April 5. The company announced earlier this week that they are beginning to hire replacements for the strikers. William Coors, President of the company, feels that the strikers are being used as "sacrificial pawns in an ideological fight" between the AFL-CIO and himself.

Meany said the boycott was approved unanimously by members of the AFL-CIO Executive Council. He said the company has proposed contract language that could erode the worker's existing rights. He also said that the company has allowed their supervisors to order any worker to take a lie detector test and a physical examination. The AFL-CIO has described this as a "gross violation of human dignity."

Part I

Many philosophies of education exist: progressive, liberal, traditional, religious, and democratic. If you are not familiar with any of these, then you should not show grave concern. I do not know what the train of thought in each is either. I leave these "have" issues to philosophers. The issue that does concern me is this: Are most students being instructed the best way possible with the best resources available? Not in all instances. All students should have an "equal" opportunity for an education (not necessarily and equal one). However, not all educational programs are arranged to give the "average" student an equal opportunity.

I proposed in writing that the English Department seriously consider improving its approach to teaching English. On March 23, I sketched a proposal and presented it to the Majors Committee (?). The purpose of the proposal was to emphasize the need to make the first quarter in the semester in the 200- and 300-level courses primarily a recapitulation of writing principles, literary terms and analysis contextually.

In the Committee meeting, after an apparent token analysis of the proposal, three reasons were given for not adopting it: 1) Dr. Trask claimed that the current program is satisfactory; 2) Dr. Alderich pointed out that office hours are available for students who wish to improve their writing skills; and 3) Dr. Adams noted that making outlines with one fully developed paragraph in each may not achieve the desired aim.

As a student who believes that writing is a delicate, demanding, and rewarding activity, requiring much much dedication to produce a good piece of writing, I refute the reasons thusly: 1) No; 2) Yes, but it does not work, as we well know; and 3) At least something is being done.

No conclusion was reached during the meeting, nor was a follow-up meeting scheduled. But Dr. Adams did suggest that we put the issue before the students. The idea suited me greatly because the students, finally, are the ones that would have been subject to the proposal. Again, I sketched a brief, pithy "survey" (and I use the term very loosely); it was passed out on March 31 and on April 1 by those professors who respect student input.

Some who have not passed out the survey may feel student input is gotten through the evaluations. Granted. But what happens after the evaluations are processed? My three years experience forces me to say that very little happens. The evaluations are used for pay purposes, promotion, tenure, and lastly perhaps feedback.

Those students who filled out the survey have a right to know the results. All sophomore, junior, and senior level English courses were to be included. There were 487 surveys given to professors to cover all the students. Students in more than one English course were asked to fill out only one. Seventy surveys were returned: Under the category of Majors there were 5 yes, 15 no, and 3 undecided. Non-majors said 18 yes, 23 no, and 3 undecided. Under the category undecided there was 1 no and 1 undecided. And under the category "other" there was 1 opinionless.

The validity of the survey remains questionable. The results remained in Dr. Adam's office over the Spring break. Four hundred or so surveys remained free-floating in the hands of many professors, and some blank ones were returned. The manner of administering some of the surveys is unknown. I do not know for a fact whether the seventy returned surveys are from students; or whether fewer or more were returned. Nonetheless, I promised to abide by the results. One further assessment needs to be made: the attitude towards the survey and the effectiveness of the English Department.

Clearly, the return-rate of the survey does not reflect an apparently enthusiastic response by some professors. Why? All the students took an early Spring break. Why? Perhaps the fact that only a student made the proposal accounts for the response. Regardless of what professors say, the distinction between a student's idea and a faculty member's will be weighed accordingly. The student's idea may be considered simply as an after-thought, because what the h_ does he know.

Another why? "Professionalism" maybe? Some professors may consider themselves "professional" (whatever they may mean by the term) by virtue of their position. Hence to have passed out the survey would have been equivalent to undermining that professional status and their credentials. I disagree. The true professional should consider input from those he influences.

Those who justify their status by terms should not expect students to believe that by calling oneself a professional one is a professional. Professors may be classified into the strictly, self-conscientiously, and consistently professional group (some of these exist); or they may fit into the hardly, pretentiously, and obscurely professional group (some of these exist also). Markedly, professors must acquire, commit to, display, and practice professionalism. They must be not only knowing and masterful but also skillful and wise in conveying their knowledge to students effectively.

Let it be known that respect does not come with the position. From our past experience (esp. the unravelling of the Water-gate Era) we should know that professionals must deserve, merit, and earn respect and admiration. To the professionals in the English Department I say this: I cannot sincerely believe most of you feel that your program is adequate enough in preparing the majority of students for their goals.

Perhaps this lack of enthusiastic response to the survey is based on the professors' belief that the present program is adequate. Part II will focus on the adequacy of the current program.

Percussion Ensemble to Give Spring Concert

On Thursday, April 21st, the F.S.C. Percussion Ensemble will be giving its spring concert in the Lane Center Multi-use Room. The Ensemble recently toured in the Baltimore-Harford County area. They were received there by standing ovations. Last Thursday, the group performed at the Ridgely Jr. High School in Ridgely, W. Va. and at Washington Jr. High in Cumberland and again the audience reaction was overwhelming.

The Percussion Ensemble performs a variety of compositions ranging from Classical literature to modern Jazz-Rock arrangements. The arrangements to be performed on this concert will be of hits of such groups as Santana, Chuck Mangione, Steely Dan, Starbuck and many others. Members of the Ensemble will be featured in solos throughout the concert.

Members of the 1977 F.S.C. Percussion Ensemble are Joseph Cashwell, Martin Crump, David Eyler, Barbara Johnson, Tom Kimmell, Ken Leverance, James Roderick, Randy Rush, DuWane Sandlin, William Schreiber, Ken Sites, and Janet Tuautvetter.

The concert will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend. There are no admission charges.

Letters to Students

Dear Students,

I would like to take this opportunity to summarize the actions of the State Affairs Office of the Student Association for this past semester. From January 1 to April 15, the General Assembly of Maryland convened for its annual legislative session. As Director of State Affairs, it was my responsibility to represent the students of Frostburg before the Maryland legislators. This past semester we lobbied in favor of: 1) legalization of marijuana. 2) increased budget allocations for F.S.C. 3) legislation to place a student member on the MSBHE. We lobbied against: 1) legislation to set a drinking age limit that would make it illegal for college-aged people to buy beer & wine. 2) unfair state taxing of entertainment and cultural activities held by student organizations on campus.

Of the topics we lobbied for, little success was realized. In particular, F.S.C. is going to again be forced to face severe budgetary cuts. Despite the ability of the college administration to skillfully manage the actual funds received, the quality of education available here is in danger of being lowered. The other legislative matters we lobbied for were delayed and will be brought up again next year.

The State Affairs Office also participated in local government concerns. Repeatedly throughout the semester we urged the Frostburg City Council to enact the proposed rental housing ordinance. This ordinance will set health and safety standards for the protection of renters. As many student renters know, this ordinance has been needed in Frostburg for years. For your interest, the proposed ordinance was unanimously approved by the City Council on April 4, 1977. For those of you who supported this ordinance for the past year, thanks much!!!

During the water crisis, S.A. maintained close communication and cooperation with the Council of Frostburg. Even though the college is responsible for only 15% of daily water consumption, your water conservation efforts were very much appreciated.

On the national level, the State Affairs Office recently initiated contacts with the representatives of Maryland in Congress.

Planned activities include a budget symposium in the fall semester and continued lobbying efforts before the local, state and national governments. If you are interested in involving yourself in S.A.'s efforts to effect the various governmental bodies, call me.

Steven Litwiller

Dear Students,

The Program Committee of the Student Association is now in the process of planning Parent's Weekend for next semester. The date has been set for October 21-23. Many activities are being planned for the weekend and the actual schedule will be announced early in the fall.

The Program Committee would like to remind all students that will be having parents up for the weekend should make their hotel reservations now or as soon as school begins in the fall. If this is put

Intercollegiate Press Bulletins

Malibu, Calif.-(I.P.)- Teacher evaluation forms at Seaver College, Pepperdine University, have been simplified, including only one side of a single sheet of paper. Most of the questions are now subjective in nature, asking students for specific comments in their own words on teachers' performance.

This contrasts to previous forms which included many objective questions on which students were to rate teachers on a scale of one to five. "I've been helped considerably by these comments. I have little confidence in the figures provided by the objective questions," said Dean Norman Hughes. Under the previous objective system, the average instructor here had a rating of 4.6 points. However, the average rating would normally be three out of six. "This is silly," said Hughes.

"We are aiming for universal compliance with everybody participating," he said. "However, we are not making evaluations compulsory. We're not in a position to make that arbitrary stipulation." He also added that teacher evaluations will no longer be automatically screened by divisional chair persons or university administrators, unless the teacher in question is being considered for a promotion or a salary raise.

Tiffin, Ohio - (I.P.)- Heidelberg and six other private liberal arts colleges in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia have jointly developed an innovative program of general studies which enables adults to work for a degree in their homes with only occasional visits to campus.

The program of the East Central College Consortium leads to either a bachelor's degree (120 credits) or associate degree (60 credits) in interdisciplinary studies. The ECCC program complements the non-traditional home-study program which Heidelberg pioneered two years ago while waiting for the ECCC to plan its program.

The adult seeking to further his or her education who is unable to attend classes on campus regularly will now have two clear-cut options at Heidelberg, Vice President and Academic Dean Arthur R. Porter, Jr., said here. One option is the non-traditional program in which the adult with a specific major in mind chooses courses from the regular college catalog.

Dean Porter explained that the student earning 60 credit hours under ECCC could at that point accept an associate degree in interdisciplinary (general) studies or decide to work for the additional 60 hours necessary for a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies.

Or, Dean Porter continued, the student reaching the 60-credit-hour plateau could decide that a degree in a specific area (major) might be more appropriate for career or personal reasons. This student then could switch from the ECCC track into the Heidelberg degree program, and the 60 hours already earned under ECCC would count as electives toward a Heidelberg bachelor's degree.

Students of outstanding ability, with strong motivation, and dedication to the profession of teaching ought to be encouraged, even now, especially now, to enter graduate school and to complete their programs of study. Institutions of higher education, and the academic profession, need them.

Also, to date, Fellows are finding jobs, although their positions are often not so clearly defined nor is advancement as easy as was once the case. This type of teacher is not only needed but is also being employed.

The Graduate Fellowship Program places an emphasis on teaching and scholarship rather than on narrow research. Attention to values, goals, and teaching techniques are considered of great importance and contribute to a balanced approach to the teaching profession.

It is this combined emphasis on teaching and scholarship that is called for if colleges and universities are to help meet the needs of our society and if the people of our society are to respect and support the academic profession.

The crises that beset the nation and the world-economic, environmental, and spiritual-cannot be met successfully except as societal leaders, including the faculty members and administrators of our institutions of higher education, think contextually and link expertise with vision.

Regarding the tendency of the Foundation's fellowship program to concentrate attention on individuals more than on institutions, the conclusion reached is that each of us needs as much help as possible in building up our strengths and in putting our own house in order, if we are to be able to make a contribution of consequence to society at large.

Ohio State Professor to Visit

Dr. William Moore, Jr., professor of educational administration at Ohio State University, will be on the campus of Frostburg State College on Thursday and Friday of this week. Dr. Moore, author of many publications on educational problems and opportunities of minority students, will be serving as a consultant to a variety of groups at the College.

Dr. Moore's visit, sponsored by the office of the President of the College and the office of Minority Affairs, will include a number of working sessions with the administrative staff, the academic standards committee, minority staff and black student organization representatives.

Moore is the author of "Against the Odds" a book which addresses a variety of problems faced by minorities in pursuit of a worthwhile educational experience.

Coin Collection Exhibited

by Lee Lofthus

From now until the end of April, the FSC library will be exhibiting a collection of obsolete United States coins. The coins, mostly colonial and early U.S. Mint pieces, are on loan from the collection of Dr. Charles Sager.

Dr. Sager, a professor of music here at Frostburg State, has assembled his collection through trading and purchasing the coins from various individuals. Dr. Sager also acquires recent proof sets through the United States Mint.

The highlight of the display is the early 19th Century United States coins and the colonials. The exhibit is an excellent opportunity to see denominations of U.S. coinage that most Americans did not know existed.

Two-cent pieces, three-cent pieces, half-cents and silver half-dimes are displayed along with twenty-cent and three-cent silver pieces. All the aforementioned denominations vanished prior to the turn of the century, and are now seen only in numismatic circles.

The two-cent coins are of particular interest considering the recent debate over whether to cease coining one-cent pieces and start coining two-cent pieces again. Most Americans think the two-cent idea is a new one, but in reality, the two cent piece was introduced during the Civil War. The bronze coin was minted to alleviate a shortage of one-cent coins, and was the first U.S. coin to bear the motto "In God We Trust"

Also on display is a "Fugio" cent. The "Fugio" coins were the first coins minted under the authority of the United States. Coined in 1787, these coins were believed to have been made of the copper bands which held together powder kegs sent to us by the French during the revolution.

In addition to Dr. Sager's collection, there is also a display of foreign currency in the library. On loan from Mr. Rolland McGiverin, a variety of paper money from different countries of the world is on display, accompanied by a map of the world indicating the origins of the money.

The money exhibit began this week, National Library Week, and is the first in a series of displays which will become a regular feature in the new library. Upcoming exhibits will feature antique clocks and microscopes.

Pal Joey to be Presented

On April 28, 29, and 30, Frostburg State College will present the award winning musical, Pal Joey, in Compton Auditorium with the curtain at 8:15 p.m. Dr. Jack Vrieze of the Speech and Theatre Department is the director. Two student organizations are acting as co-sponsors for the production: Dramatis Personae, the department's student theatre organization and Phi Mu Alpha, honorary fraternity of the Music Department.

Mr. Steven Pearl, Ridgeley Middle School instructor, is the musical director and conductor of the band which will play the brilliant and witty score by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. Mr. Pearl will be remembered for his superb musical direction of Stop the World a few years ago at the college.

Mrs. Claudia Palumbo, dance instructor in the Physical Education Department at the college and veteran of numerous musicals, especially remembered for The Boy Friend, is choreographer for the production.

Pal Joey first burst on the American musical scene in 1940 for an original run of 374 performances. It was not until audiences had matured enough to accept an anti-hero that Pal Joey became the classic that it is now considered. The production was praised because it differed radically from standard musical comedy fare. Pal Joey, however, was too far ahead of its time. Audiences were not ready to accept a story that contained no hint of romance and dealt with a character of such dubious morality.

A revival in 1952 ran for a total of 542 performances a record that still stands for revivals on Broadway. Written three years before Oklahoma, a musical landmark for integrated book and musical numbers, Pal Joey had songs which were integrated with the plot and which helped develop characterization, while other songs were included as part of the nightclub scenes, becoming part of a show within a show. Bewitched, Bothered and Bewildered is often rated as one of the best Rodgers and Hart songs ever written. I Could Write A Book has always been a popular hit from the show.

The frank lyrics that had shocked audiences and critics in the 1940's have been praised by such authorities as Goddard Lieberson, CBS Records, who nominated Pal Joey as one of the ten best musicals worth preserving because it worked a change from the conventional musical.

Wolcott Gibbs of the New Yorker Magazine has called Pal Joey "that rarity, a song-and-dance production with living, three dimensional figures, talking and behaving like human beings."

Upon its revival, The Critics Circle named Pal Joey as the best musical of the year in spite of the fact that by so doing they violated their own constitution, which specified that prizes should be given only to new productions.

Lehman Engel, the famous conductor and teacher, has lifted Pal Joey among the twelve best musicals of the American theatre in his book, The American Musical Theatre: A consideration.

Richard Rodgers observed, "while Joey himself may have been fairly adolescent in his thinking and his morality, the show bearing his name certainly wore long pants, and in many respects forced the entire musical comedy theatre to wear long pants for the first time."

Dr. Vrieze remarked that he hoped audiences would not confuse the movie playing on several TV stations lately with the musical. The movie was drastically rewritten to serve the talents of Frank Sinatra and Rita Hayworth. Much of the story line was changed, many songs deleted and others added. The two productions have little in common except for several songs and general setting. "We think the stage musical a livelier and more valid piece of work," Dr. Vrieze said.

Ticket price for Frostburg State students is 50¢.

Symphonic Band and Wind Symphony

The Frostburg State College Symphonic Band and Wind Symphony will present its final concert in a series of campus concerts during 1977 on Sunday, May 1, 1977 at 3:15 p.m. in the Multi-purpose room of the Lane College Center.

The concert bands under the direction of Dr. Robert S. Bianco will present a program of varied wind band music that will include traditional classical compositions by Antonin Dvorak and Modeste Moussorgsky. The program will also include a major band symphony written by the contemporary composer, Vincent Persichette.

Featured soloist on this program will be Debra Marie Young, an FSC junior music major. Ms. Young, for Severna Park, Maryland will perform the Mozart French Horn Concerto No. 1 with the FSC Band.

The public is invited to attend the program and there is no admission charge.

Can One Travel Backwards In Time?

by Bob Doyle

Possibly, if one is willing to fall into a black hole. This is one of the speculative ideas tackled in Frostburg State Planetarium's current program, "Voyage to the Edge of the Universe." The program is a science fiction drama centered on the lives of two students, Dana 7Z4 and Miklos LZ9, who are picked to serve on the Centros Project - the exploration of the Milky Way's interior regions.

The story begins in the 30th century when humanity begins to travel to the neighboring stars due to a steadily increasing population. With star travel practical, the scientists pick as their new frontier the least known area of space- the Milky Way's center, shrouded in thick dust clouds. As the Centros ships approach the brilliant heart of our galaxy, great gravity tremors erupt and Dana's ship mysteriously disappears. Analysis of observations later indicate that her ship has been swallowed by a massive black hole. Miklos sorrowfully accompanies the remaining survivors to the nearest human colony surrounding the star Zanchos.

On a planet of Zanchos he hears the strange interference from an object at the edge of the universe- it is Dana, who has been swept to the farthest reaches of space and billions of years back in time.

The rest of the program deals with Miklos' efforts to reach Dana, that will take him into a black hole and to a quasar, the most powerful energy source in the universe. The program script is by Bob Doyle, with Miklos played by Alan Gordon and with Liz Goans as Dana. Supporting characters include John Eckhart as Dr. Dielar, Carol Farrell as Viana, Mark Jesko as Kal and Jane Fitzsimmons as Suark. The program is being presented each Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m. and each Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. through May 10. The Planetarium is in the entrance to Tawes Hall. No reservations or tickets are required but it is best to come 5-10 minutes early for a good seat.

Senior Works Featured

An exhibition of works by Senior Art Students will be featured at the Frostburg State College Art Gallery from April 24, through May 2. The show will include a wide sampling of media as explored by each artist in his field: Clay pieces by Patricia Dowling, extensions in printmaking by Mark Luce, welded sculpture by Jeffrey Maltery, photographic works by Daniel Potter, and drawings by Samuel Shaffer.

The exhibition will open to the public at 2:00 p.m. Sunday, April 24, at which time refreshments will be served. There is no charge for admission. The Gallery is open to the public Monday through Thursday from 1:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m., and Sunday from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Roten Exhibit/Sale Slated

Frostburg State College Fine Arts Gallery will sponsor an exhibit and sale of approximately 600 original prints from the famed Ferdinand Roten Galleries collection on April 21st. The event will be held at the Fine Arts Gallery. Along with prints by such masters as Picasso, Goya, Renoir and Hogarth, works can be seen by many of today's American artists, some famous and some not yet famous.

Area residents are invited to browse through this outstanding collection of original graphics. A knowledgeable Roten representative will be on hand to answer questions about the prints and the artist and to discuss other prints not in this collection but which may be obtained from the gallery in Baltimore.

A world-respected authority on graphics of all types, Roten holds exhibitions and sales at major museums, colleges, art galleries and art centers throughout the United States and Canada.

The exhibit takes place from noon to 7 p.m.

Student Travel Catalog Published

The Council on International Educational Exchange (CIEE), the largest student travel organization in the U.S., is giving The 1977 Student Travel Catalog away for free. Now in its fourth edition, this "how to" travel handbook for the academic community has 67 value-packed pages of bargains, benefits, and its ready just in time for your next trip.

This year's Catalog, bigger than ever before, has everything students and teachers need to know about the ins and outs of low-cost travel all over the world: 160 money-saving charter flights to Paris, London, Amsterdam, Frankfurt, Zurich and Hong Kong from New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco; student flights at half the regular price connecting cities in Europe, Asia, Africa and the Middle East; and the best bargains in scheduled flights to Europe, Asia and Latin America. There's even information on crossing the Atlantic or the Mediterranean by ship at student rates!

The Catalog also explains the advantages of the International Student Identity Card, internationally known recognized proof of full-time student status, which entitles holders to thousands of discounts and benefits world wide. The Catalog includes information on low-cost accommodations in the U.S. and abroad, international travel insurance, tours of Israel and the Soviet Union, and bargains for all students and educators in train and car travel in Europe. There's also a description of an excellent work program that can help students find jobs in Great Britain, Ireland, Germany or France. The Catalog includes applications for everything it describes - including a list of 20 of the best books ever written for student and budget travelers. Each book has been selected for the extra insight and advice it offers - whether you're traveling by train, car, plane or bus in Europe, Asia, Africa or Latin America.

For a copy of the Student Travel Catalog write (or call) CIEE, Dept. PKO, at 777 United Nations Plaza, New York, New York 10017 (tel. 212-661-0310) or 236 North Santa Cruz, #314 Los Gatos, California 95030 (tel. 408-354-5147), enclosing 50¢ to cover first-class postage and handling costs. Or, if you're in the neighborhood, stop in and pick up a copy at either office - they're both open from 9:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Both games were bitter battles, and unfortunately somebody had to lose. That was the way it was on the Wednesday prior to Spring Break, as the Wolf Pack slipped by unbeaten Old Spice by the score of 55-50, and the Left Nut nipped the Premiums 36-33 to capture the unskilled title.

The opening game saw the Left Nut get balanced scoring from their starting players, as Perry led the team with 11 points, followed by 9 points from Gibson, and 7 from Remsburg. The Premiums put up a fight but fell short in the closing seconds. Topping the scoring column for the Premiums was Underdown with 14 points. Hawkins and Chrisafis each added 8 points.

In the skilled championship game, Old Spice led at the half 25-23, but a late rally by the Wolf Pack, along with some excellent free-throw shooting, put the Pack on top in the final minute. After twisting an ankle in the opening minutes of the game, Jim Gleason came back late in the second half to spark the Wolf Pack with extra ball-handling and chipping in with 6 points in the closing minutes to shut the door on Old Spice. Leading the scoring for the Wolf Pack was Steve Maciboba, Larry Richardson, Mark Jennings, and George Strand. For Old Spice, it was Tank Hill and Mike Savoy who led the team.

Weight-Lifting Contest

The Intramural office is sponsoring a weight-lifting contest which will be held on May 3, Tuesday, in the weight room of the PE Center. All are welcome. For further information contact Mike Davis, Jim Fontaine, or Stan Soper in the PE Center.

Intramural Track Meet

Better hurry up and get in shape because in two short weeks smoke will be coming up from the track area, as the Men's Intramural Office is sponsoring the annual Intramural Track and Field meet. The meet is open to all students and staff and will be held on Monday, May 2. Starting time is 3 p.m. for field events, and 3:30 for running events. Fraternities and dorms are urged to organize teams now, as a team score will be kept. In case of bad weather, the following day will be used if needed. For further information contact Stan Soper (4492) in the PE Center or check the intramural activity board in the PE Center.

Letters to Students

off until the week or two before Parent's Weekend, it could be very difficult to find a place for your parents to stay.

One important event will be a carnival that will be held on Saturday, Oct. 22. We are asking organizations, fraternities, sororities, and dorms to participate in this. A letter will be sent to each organization very soon asking for your help.

If you have any questions concerning Parent's Weekend, please do not hesitate to contact either Sharon Norris or Rick Whelan in the S.A. Office or at ext. 4304.

Thank You!
The S.A. Program Committee

Dear Students,
This week the Communication Committee of the Student Association will be distributing "Gripe Boxes" to each of the dorms. It is our hope that students with some gripes or suggestions will take full advantage of this means to communicate with the S.A.

Sincerely,
Kevin Fitzgerald
Chairman
Communication Committee

Dear Students,
I am presently serving time at the Attica Correctional Facility in the state of New York. I am seeking to get together with anyone who wishes to maintain a correspondence relationship with me. If anyone is interested in writing you will find my name and address at the close of this letter, and for those that do write please sign your full name and address at the close of your letter. I thank you for taking your valuable time to read my letter.

Sincerely,

SA Reports

The Student Association would like to invite you to attend the S.A. meeting on April 21st at 8:00 p.m. in Lane Center 201.

The S.A. will be placing Gripe Boxes in all the dorms. If you have a problem or a gripe you want brought to S.A.'s attention, then we encourage you to make use of these boxes.

We are still in need of interested persons to serve on our communications committee.

Picnic

The F.S.C. Current Politics Club is planning a picnic at Rocky Gap State Park on April 24, 1977. All interested students are welcome, but a fee of $1.50 to cover the cost of the food must be paid to Rick Gehrman or any political science instructor by April 22. The picnic is scheduled for 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. and is BYOB.

"Fallingwater"

All interested students may sign up for a trip to view architect Frank Lloyd Wright's creation "Fallingwater." The trip is scheduled for April 29, 1977, and a $2.00 admission will be charged.

"Fallingwater," described as the "perfect union between architecture and nature," is one of Wright's finest buildings.

The bus leaves from the F.S.C. Fine Arts building at 8:00 a.m. and will get back to campus about 2:30. The bus will stop at Penn Alps for lunch on the return trip.

There will be a limit of 30 people put on the trip, so interested persons should sign up early in the Fine Arts Gallery.
