SGA Reports Snack Bar to Be Redecorated

Two meetings have been held since you last read an article about the SGA. You must be wondering what has been happening.

At the first of the two meetings, the previous suggestion that the SGA hold a meeting in an assembly for students to observe was dropped. Another idea, however, was formed — that a committee be appointed to look into some ways of making the SGA known to the students. The committee will soon be at work.

From a report given by Mr. Wheatley of a meeting which the SGA President and he attended in Washington, D. C., grew a motion made by Mr. Bradley that the SGA appropriate sufficient funds for the executive board of any organization to attend functions which meet the approval of the SGA board.

The motion which was passed, was utilized at once by the Christian Association to attend a Student Christian Movement Conference at the University of Delaware. The Christian Association President, Miss Pardew, reported an enjoyable and informative trip.

There seems to be some disagreement among some of the members about the SGA's decision to have dinner "family style." A motion made to recon-

Dr. Devilbiss Named New College President

Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss, Dean of the College of Education of the University of Maryland, has been named the President of Salisbury State Teachers College.

He will succeed Dr. J. D. Blackwell, effective July 1, 1955. Dr. Blackwell, president of the college since 1935, has requested retirement.

Dr. Devilbiss who is 50, was born in Frederick County on January 15, 1904, and was graduated from Frederick High School in 1921. He was graduated from Western Maryland College in 1925 with the degree of Bachelor of Arts. From here he began his professional career in 1925 as a teacher in Mardela High School in Wicomico County. After teaching in Wicomico, he taught in Frederick County schools, and was appointed principal of the Brunswick High School in 1932 and the Frederick High School in 1939. In 1935 he received his Master of Arts degree from the University of Maryland. In 1942 he joined the staff of the State Department as supervisor of high schools. He continued his graduate work at George Washington and received the degree of Doctor of Education in 1946. Later he became supervisor of teaching and higher education.

On January 1, 1952, he was appointed Dean of the College of Education at the University of Maryland. He was married in 1927 to Miss Bernice B. Ryan.

And It Came to Pass

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

2. And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

3. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David).

4. To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child.

5. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

6. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger because there was no room for them in the inn.

7. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night.

8. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

9. And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy,

10. Which shall be to all people.

11. For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

13. And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying

14. Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

Candlelighting Service In Dining Hall

Highlights Season

Ever since STC was founded, the candlelight service has been a part of the college's tradition. This year, before departing for home and the holiday, students will gather in the dining hall for the Christmas ceremony, each student lighting his own taper from the huge center candle which was donated by Miss Ruth Powell, a former faculty member.

Sponsored by the Christmas Association for the past few years, the program is opened by the Glee Club, as it leads the student body in the candle-lighting procession, singing Christmas carols. The student body is seated while the Glee Club proceeds to a platform facing the students, behind the rows of candles.

The scripture is read, relating the birth of Christ, followed by selections from the Glee Club, and lastly, a presentation of gifts is made, to a representative of the Welfare Board. These gifts are purchased by the student body, each dinner table contributing to some needy child or family.

In this way, the effective candlelight service, in other colleges as well as STC, reminds students before they leave for home of two important essentials of Christmas: reverence and generosity.

First Section of the Evergreen Goes to Ink

On December 13, 1954, the first shipment of the Evergreen went to the Myers Yearbook Company in Richmond, Va. Included in the first section sent to press were the individual student pictures and those of the faculty.

A first with the '55 yearbook is a change from the traditional cover to a picture cover of our alma mater.

The summer supplement will contain pictures and information from Seniors' Day in March up to and including Commencement in June. Spring sports, May Day and the June Ball are a few of the memories that will be captured by pictures and added to the '55 Evergreen, which certainly looks most promising.

Men's Dormitory to Sponsor Gala Party

A gala occasion is planned for Wednesday night, December 21, at eight o'clock in the Men's Dormitory here at STC. What is it?!—get hep, kid, it's the annual Christmas party sponsored by all the members of the men's dorm. Come and have yourself a "ball." You will enjoy every minute of this delightful gathering, and besides—it's free.

The program will get under way with an "open house" greeting to everyone. The boys have even promised to have their rooms equally as clean and neat as were

AS THE EDITOR SEES IT

It has been brought to my attention by various individuals that the athletic department is lacking in its program. By this they are referring to the absence of a set pattern for inter-collegiate competition. Yes, I know we play the various teacher's colleges, both of them, but the general consensus of opinion is toward an induction into a conference. The catch here has been a lack of major sports on the agenda; but through the excellent cooperation of the athletic department, student body and SGA (not to separate these, but the three individual groups were involved), this hurdle was leapt by invoking into the calendar of sports events the extra-curricular activity of baseball. Now that we are the proud possessors of three major sport activities it seems a shame to merely sit on the threshold of a sport-filled corridor by not attempting to enter one of the various local conferences; for instance, the Mason-Dixon on the Atlantic Coast. This would enable us to have a standing, a constant schedule, recognition of our prowess among our contemporaries, an incentive to achieve a good position in the aforementioned, and last but not least an enlargement of our student body. There is not a better advertising agent to be obtained than a competent athletic department. As I said before, this has been mentioned several times, on several occasions, by several individuals; and this is not at all on unobtainable goal. It is merely an activity which needs the cooperation of every individual and organization to attain it. Think it over and talk it up.

Letter to the Editor

In recent years most educators have agreed that athletics are an integral part of a well-rounded education. Our athletic programs here are fine as far as they go, but they do not go very far. On the intramural basis, we do give many people the opportunity to participate in the various sports. But is this enough?

This fall STC had a superb soccer team, one of the finest in the state. However, the team was unable to display its athletic prowess, due to the fact that it lacked a schedule. This problem could be very well solved if STC were in some conference, such as the Mason & Dixon or other eastern conference. The advantages of being able to compete in a conference are many. Athletes are given broad recognition for their work. It adds incentive and interest to the college program.

Is our Athletic Department physically and financially able to participate in a conference? We will never have an answer to this until we invite a conference to evaluate our athletic department. In the past years there have been many good reasons for not joining a conference, to enumerate a few: not having three major sports, not enough financial support, and our geographical location. Now we have three major sports; soccer, basketball, and baseball. The financial support we have attained by raising the athletic fee $5. Looking at the problem from a geographical aspect, we notice that Washington College is in no better location than STC. Looking at the record book, we also see that they are in the Mason & Dixon conference.

With our increased enrollment, STC should not have to play the lone wolf any longer. Our increased intramural program has started us on the road labeled PROGRESS... so let's keep building for tomorrow.

It was stated in the first of the letter that many educators agree that athletics play an integral part in a well rounded education. "Education is improvable." So let's improve ours a little more and find out what can be done about getting STC into an eastern conference.

Bob Hall, President, Men's Athletic Association.

Letter to the Editor

Every year Christmas is being more and more commercialized. The real meaning of Christmas is gradually being lost in the shuffle to give more expensive presents than we receive. The dollar sign has slowly erased the image of the Christ child from our minds.

1954 years ago in a manger in Bethlehem, a small child was born. This child was the Christ child; the Messiah, who was eventually to atone for man's many sins. Christmas does not mean Santa Claus and all the trimmings; it means our Christ's birthday and should be commemorated as such. In our commercialized world, the true meaning of Christmas is forgotten. Little children know only Santa Claus and the gifts he supposedly brings. We must take the $ sign out of Christmas and put Christ back in His rightful place.

That doesn't mean that we must stop giving each other presents. But we must remember that it is the thought behind the gift and not the price that matters. And we must give ourselves as a living gift to Christ, for it is His birthday we are celebrating.

A freshman, Ronald Duff

A Christmas Message

Most of us accept the Christmas Season without realizing that some of the early Americans at least were not allowed to observe such a Season. Massachusetts, for example, in 1659, due apparently to the influence of the Puritans, passed a law which read, "Anybody who is found observing by abstinence from labor, feasting or in any way, any such day as Christmas day, shall pay for every such offense five shillings." Fortunately our observance of Christmas is based on the best traditions from many lands. As a result we are privileged to observe the Christmas season according to our own ideals.

Christmas observance at State Teachers College would be very incomplete without a pause by each of us to ask ourselves the question, "Just what will the 1954 Christmas season mean to me, personally?" It has been said that a self-satisfying answer to such a question would include among other characteristics a season of cheer to others coming from the heart in merry greetings, inspiration coming from a renewal of spirit, goodwill expressed to members of our respective families as well as to our individual associates, a love divine for all humanity, a new vision of spiritual values, a peace filled with serenity, and greatest of all a reverence for the old as well as the new spiritual values.

May the sentiment expressed by Alfred Grant Walton in the following poem, "What Christmas Does to Me," express the sentiment of each of you at this Christmas season:

Bring the candles, light the tree,
There's something Christmas does to me,
It weaves a charm, it casts a spell,
It sheds a warmth I cannot tell.
It melts the years with magic art,
It makes me young again in heart;
I long to give where pity pleads,
I think of friends and human needs,
And thrill with joy as from afar
I hear a song and see a star.
Thank God! Whatever else may be—
For all that Christmas does to me.

Opportunities to Study Or Teach in France Open for U. S. Citizens

Opportunities to study or teach in France are available to American graduate students, it was announced today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

The French Government is offering thirty university fellowships through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and forty teaching assistantships through the Ministry of Education. The fellowship awards are for students with definite academic projects or study plans. The assistantships afford language teaching experience and an opportunity to become better acquainted with France.

Nominations of candidates for fellowships and assistantships will be made by a joint committee of French and American educators working in cooperation with the French Cultural Services and the Institute of International Education. Closing date for application is February 1, 1955.

The French Government awards are open to men and women, preferably under 30 years of age. Applicants must be U. S. citizens. Other eligibility requirements are: a bachelor's degree from an American college or university by the time of departure; good academic record; good knowledge of French; correct usage of English; good moral character, personality, and adaptability; and good health.

Recipients of French teaching assistantships will teach conversational English in secondary schools and teacher training institutions in France. These posts are intended for future teachers of French. A few applicants with special training in American literature and some experience in college teaching may be selected for postes de lecteurs, teaching assignments in French universities. Stipends cover maintenance.

Since the number of supplementary travel grants is limited, applicants should be prepared to pay their own travel.

Graduate fellowships are open to students in all fields of study. In the field of medicine, candidates must have the M.D. degree. Fellows study in French universities and other state institutions. These awards provide tuition and a modest maintenance.

Fellowships Open to Eligible Candidates For Study in Ceylon

The University of Ceylon, Peradeniya, offers two fellowships to American graduate students for the 1955-56 academic year, it was announced today by Kenneth Holland, President of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67th Street, New York City.

Awards cover room, board, and tuition. Grantees should have funds to pay their own travel and incidental expenses. Closing date for application is January 15, 1955.

The Ceylon fellowships offer Americans an opportunity to study a variety of subjects: sociology; the economics, geography and history of Ceylon; Pali, the language of the early Buddhist Scriptures, and Buddhist doctrines, history, art and architecture; Indian philosophy and history; and Indo-Aryan linguistics. All lectures, except a few in oriental languages, are given in English. For field work in the villages some knowledge of Sinhalese or Tamil is required.

Male candidates under 35 years of age are preferred. Other eligibility requirements are:

- (1) United States citizenship;
(2) Good academic record;
(3) Good moral character, personality, and adaptability;
(4) Broad knowledge of the culture of the United States; and
(5) Good health.

Hi, it's me again—Merry Christmas to you—yes, it's Christmas time again—time to worry about the high cost of giving. You know it's a shame that Christmas is so crowded. And when I'm crowded, I mean full of people 'cause I don't know what to buy. I want shopping done for me. I was trying to find a present for my girl! I don't know what to give her—she already has everything—me! I was going to buy her something she needs, but I don't know how to wrap a bath.

Last Christmas I got her an X-ray of my chest—just to show her that my heart was in the right place. (Wow!) The year she gave me a present made my eyes pop out—a size 12 collar. (You wear a 15 1/2 and so a 3 1/2 sizes too small; when you ton the collar it squeezes neck; your eyes bulge out and heck, forget it.)

I asked her what she wanted for Christmas; she said she wanted a pearl necklace. So I gave her a bushel of oysters and wished her luck.

Of course my brother gave me a girl something nice for Christmas—a three-piece sweater set—needles and a ball of wool. He gave him a Ronson pocket light but it's a silly present, I know. Who wants to go around lighting pockets?

I saw Santa Claus while I was down town, but I don't like him very much. When I was a kid I asked him for a sailor suit and was 18 before I got it. He said to me if I was going to hang stockings up, but I'm afraid I'll never forget the Christmas that Pop gave Mom a new pressure cooker. Every night for weeks we ate supper off the top of it.

I.L.Y.E. (If you don't understand this, come see me about pull, and neutral.

Side note: Did you know I studied mind reading? I could read a person in the eye and tell what he thought of me. I proved to be very discouraging.

Did you hear about Phil Cum? Last Christmas someone sent him a cuckoo clock. He had the package ticking and away thought it was a bomb. He threw it into a pail of water now he's got the only cuckoo clock that comes out every hour gargles. Have you seen Phil lately? It has three speeds—pull, neutral.

I understand the Boys' Dept. is giving a present to the Girls' Dept.—window shades that won't work. I was going to get Jerry a reading lamp until I found out he can't read. So I got him a light bulb. I went to Jerry's house the other day and what a party! The drinks were like glue.

Congratulations to Reb Rebekah. Inside information has reached the writer which verifies the fact that Reb has been appointed city Editor of the Hobo News. Well I've got to quit now. (Continued on Page 4)

STC Volleyball Team Remains in 2nd Place

Volleyball is a game that requires a great amount of practice and skill. In past years it was considered a girl's sport, but now it has come into its own as a man's game.

As we survey the STC Team's progress, we see that the STC'ers are resting solidly in second place behind the Wicomico Teachers. The team is working together very well and seems to be improving all the time. Also, it should be pointed out that Wicomico Teachers have lost three games, two of which were to STC. There are quite a few more games remaining to be played as the season is just under way. With the spiking power of such players as Shaheen, Comer, and Bradway and the great defensive players like Rebstock and played, as the season is just under way, we realize that when they really get going they will be hard to stop.

The Standings:

Wicomico Teachers: 12, 3, .800
STC: 7, 5, .583
Swanson: 8, 7, .533
VFW: 6, 6, .500
National Guard: 4, 8, .333
The Squad: Shaheen, Mgr. Harris; Rebstock, Capt. Holland; Younger, Denson; Bell, Bradway; Richardson, Bozman; Fallin, Comer.

Volleyball Managers Announce Captains

Four intramural volleyball teams have been named by managers Isabelle Brown and Louise Holbrook. To captain them are Ruth Neilson, Kathy Subers, Sally Dawson, and Helen Layman. Play began on December 7 with both Neilson's and Subers' teams taking one apiece. Other games are scheduled during the week.

Twenty-four Girls Go Out for Basketball

Once again the basketball season has rolled around, and the STC girls got into the swing of things with their first practice on Tuesday, December 7. Miss Whitney, Women's Athletic director, was quite pleased with the turnout. Drills and scrimmage were held during the practice between alternating teams.

The following people turned out: Forwards—Dolores Cooling, Harriett Dickinson, Pat Gardner, Ina Rae Calloway, Frances Johnson, Maria Leiby, Ruth Neilson, Maria Simmons, and Tillie Worthington. Guards were Anne Anderson, Cecile Bradshaw, Dolores Brown, Barbara Butler, Annette Catling, Mary Jane Wright, Pat Morris, Joanne Cathell, Ruth Davis, Sally Dawson, Louise Holbrook, Jean Jacobs, Carolyn Bennett Knicely, Helen Luzetsky, and Anne Maroušek.

All in all, it looks like a very promising season. Let's all get out to the games and back up our girls this year!

The squad is still holding practices although the team has not been chosen yet. Basketball season will begin after Christmas and the opening game will probably be held the first week after the holidays. We again urge all students to turn out and cheer our teams. Whether the team wins or loses, often depends on the spirit of the cheering section. So let's help our teams win.

A co-ed Fencing Club was begun on December 8 with Mr. Burgett as instructor and Miss Whitney, sponsor. The following girls were present: Dolores Cooling, Helen Luzetsky, Peg Ross, Ann Grant, Ann Gorman and Helen Layman who was appointed secretary.

Sport Beat

By Bradley

The flying footballs are failing to fill the air as frequently as before, for the only thing left on the agenda of college football is the annual New Year's bowl games.

Rose Bowl-Ohio
Sugar Bowl-Navy
Orange Bowl-Nebraska
Cotton Bowl-Georgia Tech

The above is a taste of what, in my opinion, is going to occur in the various bowls. I think these teams will come out on top at the end of 60 weary minutes of hard fought football. These are, I might add, the better ones according to statistics, but all statistics are to be cast aside in these classics. . . . Alas and alack, my boys, the Baltimore Bullets, have at last folded. Their franchise was turned in by the owners due to financial difficulties. The players were distributed throughout the league by the drafting method.

The release of franchise, fortunately, was only temporary and will be returned on probation next season. . . . Rumor has it that Gentleman Jim Tatum is not going to return to the University of Maryland next season, but will assume a coaching position in Alabama. Well, as far as I am concerned, he can leave Maryland, the way he "goofed" this past season. I believe that he had a top contending team at the beginning of the season and through the lack of proper maneuvering of his powers the team was restrained to their final standing out of the "top ten" and lost an Orange Bowl bid to Duke. . . . A return to basketball for an intimate glance at our Gulls. To quote Genial Benn to yours truly, "They look pretty good, got a bit of hustle and spirit." This was quite a statement from the Gull tutor, for he is not the optimistic type. . . . Our Baltimore Orioles are really going as it up there. I don't know whether it is the doings of Ponderous Paul or not, but they are shaking up the entire Oriole Club—not that it didn't need it, mind you. But getting rid of all those boys at once is sort of hard to swallow for a fan who develops an intimate feeling for a ball club and its property, regardless of its positions. Dropping Turley, Courtney, Hunter, etc. all at one time as a bunch of old men, for boys who have never played in the shadows of Yankee Stadium is all right if it is done properly. But we shall stand by and see. . . . The College basketball season has gotten off at a booming start. It looks to me as if these will be the top 5 in the nation:

- LaSalle
Iowa
Duquesne
Kentucky
Indiana

Maryland did not make the top 30 according to the AP releases. But they play North Carolina who is number "7" and Duke who is in the top 30, so it should be interesting to see how they come out against these supposedly superior foes. . . . The annual possibility of the native Eastern Shoreman "Homerun" Baker being voted into the hall of fame has again arisen. It seems to me that he should be accepted. He has quite a competent background in comparison to some of his more fortunate contemporaries. It must have been an oversight not to have voted him in before this year. As you probably know, he was born in Trappe, Md. He and the other potential Hall of Famers will be voted upon at the annual Baseball Writers Banquet. . . . Well, until next time. I want to wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Al Lenox and his orchestra will provide an enchanting touch to the gymnasium tonight which has been transformed into a "Winter Wonderland" for the annual Xmas dance.

The senior class invites couples to spend the evening from nine until twelve o'clock in a setting of deep blue sky, snow-laden trees, and snowbanks. The decorating committee promises a full treatment of a winter park scene, complete with an old-fashioned band stand.

Tickets for the occasion may be obtained for the price of $1.00 including refreshments. Dress for the dance will be formal.

The SGA board voted to accept an invitation made by the SGA of Maryland State College at Princess Anne, Md. Our SGA will meet with them to discuss mutual problems with which the two associations are faced. A motion was also passed that our SGA return the invitation, having them meet with us at a later date.

Members of the SGA expressed their desire for some organization of early morning Christmas caroling to be held on the day our vacation begins. The responsibility was turned over to the Women's Dormitory Association.

Judging from a report given at the meeting, the Snack Bar before long will be the scene of redecoration and painting. How does that sound?

There was quite a discussion of STC's present mascot name suggested changes in the present "Gulls." Mr. Denston assured the board that from then on the name would be made familiar to every-

College Chorus Under Dr. Fleming's Guide Has Full Schedule

With the Christmas season well under way, the STC Glee Club is once again engrossed in various activities. Monday, December 6th, the chorus sang first on the courthouse steps in downtown Salisbury and then made their debut on television. The setting for the program was very appropriate, since snow covered the ground and the weather was very sharp. The program at the courthouse was varied, consisting of traditional carols, novelty songs, and special selections sung by soloists. Even though there was not the usual crowd of spectators and downtown shoppers, the chorus sang their best. After the program at the courthouse, the group moved to the WBOC-TV station for their TV debut. Appearing in their new robes, the group sang songs of a more serious nature, with a few novelty numbers mixed in. More programs such as this one on TV are planned for the near future.

Tuesday night, December 7, the Double Octet was invited to dinner by the Kiwanis Club. After dinner the group sang for the club members as they have in past years. Since Dr. Fleming was not in Salisbury at the time, the group sang with Miss Joanne Little as pianist.

The Double Octet will be featured on TV for the second time on December 20.

December 21 will conclude the activities of the chorus for their pre-Christmas season. This time they will participate in the traditional Candlelighting service here at school. As Dr. Fleming told the group, "Now collapse and have a merry Christmas."

The children combined their efforts to bring to the audience many familiar Christmas scenes and songs. The first grade, under the supervision of Mrs. Bernice Brady, presented the much loved Nativity Scene, the story of the First Christmas, with the added touch of songs and choral speakings. Miss Hutton helped the second grade to dramatize in song and story the childhood favorite "The Shoemaker and the Elves." Mrs. Seabrease's third grade added to the Christmas mood by singing the chorus of merry Christmas carols accompanied by the bells. Part of the program gave us a glimpse of the gay carols sung in many different countries of the world during the Christmas season. These were presented to the audience by the fourth, fifth and sixth grades. One of these was the Spanish carol, "Fum, Fum, Fum," accompanied by auto-harps. A few of the children pantomimed some of the more familiar carols.

Xmas Pageant Is Presented by College Demonstration School

The Demonstration School was not to be outdone in contributing to the spirit of Christmas. On Wednesday evening, December 15, at eight o'clock in the college auditorium they presented a Christmas Pageant.

The children in the Demonstration School have not forgotten those less fortunate than themselves. They plan to collect toys and clothing for the Salvation Army and Clothes Trunk of Wicomico County. They have not forgotten in their joy, the spirit of giving.
