National Council Approves Phi Alpha Theta Petition

Dr. William Wroten reports that the National Council of Phi Alpha Theta, National History Fraternity, has approved the charter submitted by the aspiring Salisbury Chapter of the Society. The National Council's approval having been granted, the next and final step is the approval of 90 per cent of the 172 active chapters throughout the country. Several chapters have already approved acceptance of Salisbury's chapter.

Dr. Richard Bauer, Professor of history at the University of Maryland and National Councilman of Phi Alpha Theta, has been contacted and has agreed to appear for a tentative May 26 installation date by which time the poll of chapters will be completed.

The 20 students who are eligible for membership elected officers and submitted a charter early in April. The election results found Pete Cathell president-elect of the chapter; Joan Cowan, vice-president; Mrs. Mary Alice Dyer, secretary-treasurer. Duties for the officers will be determined by the local chapter.

Four STC Students Talk at Kiwanis

Four of Mr. A. L. Fleming's economic students, Robert Schilling, Philip Barker, Thomas Towers, and William Middleton, held a panel discussion on "Russia as compared to the United States" at the last regular meeting of the Salisbury Kiwanis Club at the Wicomico Hotel.

The main topics discussed were comparisons of people and land, people and work, energy and transportation, producers goods, agriculture, cost of living, and housing and consumer goods. Fair comparisons were given in terms of statistics illustrated by charts.

One of the most important comparisons was that 56 per cent of the Russian population lived in rural areas, as compared to 36 per cent for the United States. Six million Russians are employed in the transportation industry as compared to four million in the United

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

As the year closes, we find it necessary to look to STC's future in terms of what STC has experienced in the past. The question of morale is raised yearly; complaints are voiced annually regarding poor sports' spectatorship and little social activity. What, then, can be done to make the college stronger?

Perhaps the answer to the sports problem lies in more publicity. There must be some way that games can be publicized in advance; and certainly the Holly Leaf can give more energetic and on-the-scenes sports coverage.

As far as social activities are concerned, the problem seems to be that everybody wants them, but very few want to arrange them. The Social Committee itself has contributed much to the college this year, to the Coffee Hour Series arranged by the Cultural Affairs Committee as well as to the social activities that fall completely under its own arrangements. The Committee itself is composed of only five members, however; some method of reaching out to the student body for help would make more activity possible.

The Cultural Affairs Committee has already asked the student body for suggestions regarding next year's program. Miss Bailey's letter in this issue voices one student's feelings regarding the recently-introduced Coffee Hour Series. Perhaps next year the Committee will see fit to provide programs in the series that will permit student panels to discuss timely topics. The four students speaking before the Kiwanis Club serve as proof that students are interested in current affairs.

Student participation and suggestion is welcomed in all college activity. It is to be hoped that more students will comply with requests for suggestions made by the Cultural Affairs Committee, the Social Committee, and the Student Government Association.

A Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:
I would like to publicly commend the Cultural Affairs Committee on the splendid job it has done during the past year in providing various cultural activities for the student body. In both the coffee hour series and the assembly hour programs, it has offered timely and informative discussions by competent speakers.

The Coffee Hour Series, which was introduced just this year, presented an opportunity for students to learn more about subjects in which they were interested. The informality of this series gave students a chance to ask questions and to enter the discussions.

It is my opinion that the Cultural Affairs Committee opened many doors for the student body. I hope that next year more students enter these open doors and take advantage of the many opportunities offered by the Cultural Affairs Committee.

Sincerely,
Pat Bailey

Another year is almost over. In many ways it was not much different from other years: there were a few new faces amid the familiar, there was the worry over deadlines, the same problems and gripes and fun, the same Snack-Bar retreats and library dodges. It has been, considering everything, really not bad at all.

In September the "veterans" of STC were astonished at all the new faces that appeared and saddened that old ones were absent. Plus ALL the freshmen we returned to find Miss Margaret Addis, the new Dean of Women, and Mr. Robert Frost, an addition to the science department. Although we welcomed Mrs. Hearne and Mrs. Welsh we felt a certain void when we no longer encountered Miss Jamart and Mrs. Miles in the dormitories.

October was a busy month. John Mason Brown told us of the "Educated Man in Today's World" in the Fall Convocation; the reorganized SGA began their work; Judy Rayne was the Queen of the Harvest; Who's Who candidates were chosen; the high school seniors viewed our campus; we realized Homecoming activities around STC are rather meagre; an attache from the Chinese Embassy spoke of the need for a firm policy in Quemay; we tied Frosburg in soccer with a score of 0-0 and tied Notre Dame in hockey 2-2. Besides all this, MSTA had a convention and we had a vacation.

By the time November rolled around we decided STC has a morale problem and this afforded many lively debates, officially in SGA and enthusiastically in the Snack Bar; the hockey squad won their first two games, the Gulls beat American U., and the Volleyball League opened; the men proved to be hospitable hosts for Open House and the Snack Bar Show brought out the usual large crowd; we went Parisienne for one night when the Wesley Foundation and Social Committee sponsored a Snack Bar dance; and we were thankful for another vacation for Thanksgiving.

Holiday spirits pervaded STC during December. The Chorus presented the annual Christmas concert and SGA presented two silver candle snuffers to the college; "Human Dignity in the Twentieth Century" was viewed by E. Dale Adkins and Shelby our hockey squad was victorious in the Sports Day at the University of Maryland; Dr. Freeman evaluated STC; the high school round of parties and caroling college closed for the holidays.

January is lost in the whirlwind of finishing assignments and exams, but we do remember the women won two basketball games and that the Vienna Club captured the hearts of all who heard them. The semester and STC-ians went home to recuperate after exams and arrival of grades.

February is the traditional month of new resolutions and resolutions, and STC was no exception. This month SGA highlighted the news by taking up the proposal of having the library open Sunday nights; Valentine's was celebrated by many who had a rendezvous at the heart Dance and Ruth Collins selected our Queen of Hearts coffee hour Dr. George Curran stressed the pressures of the major contributor to illness; Dr. Ethel Alpenfels much enthusiasm as she spoke the role of the teacher in a young American culture at the Winer Convocation Assembly women's basketball team was Gallaudet but lost to Trinity the volleyball teams were victorious over Sharptown and even with Fruitland; Gerry stirred up interest in his lecture of a series of commentaries SGA; and last, but far from the students elected their leaders. No Vacation!

March roared in (like the well-known lion) and everyone was well-settled in the routine of another semester (we make no further comments on the resolutions except to say they were good); the winners of the Achievement Keys were announced; SNEA evaluated educational TV; shamrocks and green were in evidence at the Snack Bar Dance; Jack Messick was elected president of the '59-'60 SGA with a platform of raising morale; Dr. Howard M. Amoss presented a talk on the disease of alcoholism at a coffee hour; the gym club was rejuvenated after several years and presented an exhibition; the volleyball team won the League Trophy; WUS was the center of SGA debates; the Christian Association, in conjunction with the College Chorus and Sophomores Players, presented the annual Easter program; and weary students returned home for a five-day vacation.

April was a month of term papers and elections. The Evergreen and Holly Leaf elected '59-'60 editors; the history department petitioned for acceptance in the Phi Alpha Theta; after months of research and work the SGA announced its memorial of a silver service set in honor of Miss Helen Jamart; Edward Weeks presented an American Creed at the Spring Convocation Assembly; Dean Willis was chosen to be a delegate to the World Forum; and Dr. Caruthers and Dr. Francis discussed the current existentialist philosophy.

May was ushered in with cries of despair as STC realized the end was near and there was not much time to complete "all" those assignments. The Chorus took the college on a tour of the world in 46 songs and 100 minutes; May Day was celebrated by the panorama in honor of the May Court, a dorm party, and the GIGIF Mood; the Nobel Prize winning novel, Dr. Zhivago, was discussed by Dr. Emanuel Nodel in the coffee hour; SGA made preparations to close up shop for another year; plans were made for a new and different June Ball; and midnight oil characterized STC as exam week neared.

The year, as stated, is almost over. For some it will be the end of their college career, and the Holly Leaf wishes them luck and a successful future; for others it will be a short vacation to work and bask in the sun. We hope to see you all next year!

Serving on the WAA Board in previous years, this year Carole Kirkwood was President of the WAA and was selected as the Best Woman Athlete for the year 1958-59. Carole has been active in sports throughout her college career with four years of field hockey, volleyball and intramural sports. This year she was captain of the volleyball team.

States. Government workers total seven million in Russia and six million in the United States.

The USSR used only 85% as much coal as the U.S. and only 9% of the hydroelectric power as consumed in our country. They used only seven per cent as much natural gas as we do. Russia produces 56.2 million tons of steel annually as compared to 112.7 million tons in the United States.

Several important statistics were pointed up in the field of military preparedness. The United States has 30.7 million young men eligible for military duty as compared to 38.9 million in Russia. This difference will be increased by 1965. The United States now has 838 combat vessels available as compared to 1752 for Russia, 110 submarines for the United States and 475 for Russia. However, the U. S. has 1500 vessels in the mothball fleet, while Russia has none.

The Salisbury Times, in a recent write-up, stated that "while the subject produced a lot of statistics and detailed charts, it was evident that considerable research and preparation was necessary in order to present the program in such an interesting manner. The four young students did an excellent job, according to a club spokesman."

all college honor societies, but ranks first in the number of active chapters within a fraternity. In 1954, the Fraternity had chapters in at least 41 states, and in Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

The history fraternity is represented by one delegate from each chapter at a national conference held every two years. The last conference was held in 1958.

The University of Maryland has the only other active chapter in the State of Maryland.

Phi Alpha Theta grants charters only to colleges which are accredited, degree-granting institutions, whose library facilities meet required standards, and where the faculty-student ratio is commensurate with the requirements for the best academic pursuits.

Dr. Wroten, advisor to the group and a former president of the chapter at the University of Colorado, and Dr. IdaBelle Thomas are both members of the petitioning group.

Hi-Fi Set and Recordings Assembled for Center

A list of over 230 high-fidelity recordings, covering everything from classical music to the spoken word, has been purchased for the new Student Center, Miss Margaret Addis has compiled the list after much careful thought and deliberation.

Miss Addis consulted Dr. Jessie Fleming and other faculty members on the selection of recordings. Several students were also consulted. Joanne Little offered her sug-bert Schilling offered help in jazz selections; and Dean Powell made suggestions in both jazz and classical music.

Having decided on the musical and spoken-word selections, Miss Addis found it necessary to give close scrutiny to the ratings in Hi-Fi Magazine, and careful attention to comments of critics who are trained in the reproduction of sound in high fidelity. Accordingly, the records which will be filed in the Student Center are not only the best musical compositions recorded by the best musicians, but also are reproduced in the highest quality sound.

The classical recordings include suites, concertos, symphonies, and sonatas from Albeniz to Wieniawski.

Jazz recordings include notable musicians as Les Brown, Stan Kenton, and Louis Armstrong. Film music from such as Oklahoma! and South Pacific are in the collection, as well as music from popular operettas. Recordings of the spoken word include John Ciardi, Burgess Meredith, Nowell Coward, Orson Welles, and Ogden Nash, et. al. In short, the collection is a wide and varied selection, excluding only rock and roll.

Cabinet Completed
Mr. Benn Maggs and Mr. A. L. Fleming have completed assembling the parts of the sound-reproduction system. Mr. Fleming installed both cabinets for the set. Mr. Maggs acted as purchasing agent and also chose the parts for the Hi-Fi set.
