DR. DEVILBISS ANNOUNCES WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES

President Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss released the names of the following seniors, selected by a committee of five, to be included in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities," 1960: Thomas George Alderson, Patricia Anne Bailey, Peter Hillary Cathell, Joan Ester Cowan, Helen Mae Ellis, and Gloria Lorraine Miller.

To be qualified for Who's Who, a student must have an accumulative grade average of 2.5 for at least six semesters. The committee then selected by ballot those persons who had made special contributions to college life in general. Serving on this committee were the Dean of Men, Mr. Eugene Farace; the Dean of Women, Miss Margaret Addis; and the following juniors: Tom Wimbrow, Maryanna Lake, and Bob Fitzgerald. The students asked to serve on the committee were chosen because of their personal proximity to the above qualifications for Who's Who candidates. The committee was chosen in accordance to the 1958 SGA decision concerning such a selection.

Thomas Alderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Alderson of Chesapeake City, Maryland, graduated from Chesapeake City High School in 1951, after which he served two years in the U. S. Army. Mr. Alderson is enrolled in Junior High Education and is Vice President of the Senior Class and Vice President of the Men's Dormitory Association. He has played on the Varsity Soccer Team since his Freshman Year and was a member of the Varsity Baseball Team in his Freshman and Sophomore years. He has also been a member of the Science Club during his enrollment at STC. This year, Mr. Alderson was one of this college's representatives to the Governor's Conference for Children and Youth held in Baltimore.

Patricia Bailey, of Salisbury, Maryland, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie W. Bailey. Miss Bailey graduated from Wicomico High School in 1956 and enrolled in STC the same year in the Junior High Education. Since that time she has taken a part in many of the college activities. She reigned as the 1957 Harvest Queen and the 1959 Homecoming Queen. She has been a member of the SNEA since her Sophomore year and was the Junior Class representative of the Social Committee. This year, Miss Bailey has put new life into that organization as well as helped plan many more weekend activities as Chairman of the Social Committee.

Peter Cathell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillary Cathell, graduated from Chincoteague High School in Virginia in 1953. Prior to his enrollment at STC, he was a member of the Varsity Football Team at Chincoteague High School. (See WHO'S WHO, Pg. 4)

Men's Dorm Open House and Snack Bar Dance Tonight

Another Thanksgiving holiday is upon us, and once more our thoughts are turned from assignments, term papers, and deadlines to thoughts of turkey dinners and social activities. The Men's Dormitory Committee, headed by Jerry Pine, Jay McCrae, Jack Messick, and Tom Daffin, have planned a 'really big' open-house in the Men's Dorm beginning at 7:30 P.M. and ending at 8:30 P.M. This is the chance for the female element of STC to see how the men spend their Thanksgiving. (See MEN'S DORM, Pg. 3)

The models, who were chosen from the dorm students, are as follows: Patricia Bailey, Helen Mae Ellis, Pat Lloyd, Linda Cox, Ruth Cooling, Bonnie Farlow, Jackie Dickerson, and Beth Reed.

These fashion shows were an attempt to provide interesting and recreational Friday evenings. There was a chance to meet the buyers and to see the latest fashions.

A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE

"Stand up, on this Thanksgiving Day, stand upon your feet. Believe in man. Soberly and with clear eyes, believe in your own time and place. There is not, and there never has been a better time, or a better place to live in."—Phillips Brooks.

These words of counsel of Phillips Brooks are as appropriate for America today as they were in the last century. In much of today's editorial comment there is an air of pessimism and a fear that we as a nation are losing the initiative, the frontier spirit that made no obstacle to progress insurmountable.

The ease of materialism is making us soft and self-satisfied in an age that holds unlimited opportunities for not only scientific progress but also for greater accomplishments in the realm of human relations and world understanding.

We also hear that the ultimate victory will not be won in outer space but right here on this good old earth within the minds and hearts of all its people. Let us then be thankful for our great heritage of the American ideal—the sacredness of every individual and his right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Let us also be thankful for the potential within each one of us and accept the responsibility to stand on our feet, believe in man, and in our own time.

Our great heritage and the blessings of the past will be of no avail unless we in this nation have a philosophy, a program, and a passion that dwells within the minds and hearts of all our people. Thanksgiving should bring us this realization if we agree with Cicero that "a thankful heart is not only the greatest virtue, but the parent of all the other virtues." —Earl T. Willis

Grossman Conducts First Symphony Concert Of '56-'60 Series

On Wednesday, November 11, the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Herbert Grossman, opened its winter concert series in the college auditorium. A full house was on hand both in the afternoon and evening to hear the orchestra perform its first in a series of three programs sponsored by the Eastern Shore Symphony Society.

The afternoon program was especially designed for the younger set while the evening performance included the more sophisticated works of Schumann, "Concerto in A Minor", Tchaikovsky, "Symphony No. 5 in E Minor", and the Rossini Overture, "La Gazza Ladra." Again this year, the Salisbury audience was impressed with the graceful, interpretive movements of Mr. Grossman as he conducted an artistic and delightful performance.

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra is scheduled to present another concert in January.

Student Body Will View Water Color Exhibit

From November 28 to December 18 the Cultural Affairs Committee will sponsor a water color exhibit, a "first" at Salisbury Teachers College. The exhibit will feature the creations of European artists during the Nineteenth and Twentieth Centuries, and Oriental masterpieces from various periods.

The water colors will be displayed in the Student Center, Faculty Lounge, and Library, complete with frame and easel. Each picture will have a number which students viewing the exhibit may use to find the name of the painting and its artist in a furnished guide.

A brochure giving biographical notes on the artist will be distributed to one hundred students attending the showing.

The collection, compiled by art critics at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C., is designed to cover a variety of techniques in water colors.

Funds were made available by Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss through accrued student activities fee fund. The Student Government Association Board of 1958-59 went on record as favoring such expenditure. A second exhibit is to be seen at a later date. This second display will consist of photography made by Life magazine, depicting scientific and social implications of atomic energy.

mixed feelings concerning the war. Divided loyalties in these states mirrored strong feeling for both sides. Maryland was more sympathetic toward the South than is realized.

Also brought out in the discussion was that the underlying causes of the war presented more differences that the commonly-overstressed one of the slavery question. Equally important were the battles between the economic systems, cultural background and heritage, and political philosophies.

The South proved victorious in the initial battles of the war because of their superior leadership, greater man power, and greater period of training. The North proved the victor in the end because of the industrial development which provided material, her blockade of the South, and the time factor which enabled the North to strengthen as the South was weakening.

of body contact. Whether clearing a path for a back or stopping a runner, they resemble two howitzer-built brutes literally mowing down all interference.

The one intangible asset of the Rough Riders that has enabled them to be victorious in most of their endeavors is the spirit generated by their scrappy line. These players have continued their relentless play without an ounce of emotional letdown even though they didn't experience the laudatory comments that their celebrated backfield teammates received. Most deserving of notriety in this line for harrassing the flag-totter would be Jim Doyle and Bob Fisher, who actually participated throughout an entire game with a cracked sternum culminating from vicious blocking. The defensive array of Jerry (Wrong-Way) Wil-Wilson, Ed Fears, Jack Rush, and Louis Gautier headed by S. J. Disharoon, a stocky middle-line-backer who is the terror of all centers and quarterbacks, offers so much havoc to the offensive backfield, most teams think of them as the "Chinese Bandits from L.S.U."

One last feeble dissertation on a discrepancy from this columnist before closing . . . "It looks as though those Rootie Toots can be conquered."
