The Night the Men's Dorm Rocked!

Men's Dorm Association Sets Precedent in Campus Spirit

Amid an atmosphere of gracious hospitality, on Tuesday, Nov. 22, the Men's Dormitory Association presented one of the most successful and entertaining features of the year — "Open House." The attending female students and faculty members were literally "swept off their feet" by the display of courtesy and attention to details of comfort as offered by a most congenial and cordial group of hosts.

Guides were available and the guests were given a grand tour spotlighting several rooms where ingenuity and hard work had permeated transforming "living quarters" to "oasis of imagination."

Entertainment was provided in the form of "The Four Pages"; Noel Farmer at the piano; a combo group consisting of Wayne Turner, Jim Little and Shell Clendaniel; Ronnie Willey with an estimable rendition of "Steal Away," and Ronnie Allen who pantomimed two popular songs—"Mack the Knife" and "Silhouettes." Master of Ceremonies, Bill Cotten, projected not only a fine speaking voice but a delightful personality as well.

Door prizes were extended, and later, refreshments were served. From the exterior sign proclaiming "Open House" to the interior cakes and subs, the Men's Dormitory Association succeeded in presenting a program consisting of entertainment combined with hospitality and that undefinable campus spirit.

Invitational Exhibit to Be Presented

Through December 1st to the 15th, S.T.C.'s student center will add to its decor various compositions as offered by the Cultural Affairs sponsored Invitational Art Exhibit.

Mr. Clinton Carroll, a member of the English Department here at the college, will present selected illustrations of his work at the exhibit.

Wi Hi Choir to Sing December 6

On December 6 at 1:45 P.M., the Concert Choir of Wicomico Senior High School will present an entertaining program for us.

Under the direction of Mrs. Orlando Wootten, this group has developed a reputation for musical sophistication and for the highest standard of performance. Mrs. Wootten received her Master's degree from Columbia University. She has studied extensively under Dr. Harry Wilson, one of the best known teachers of choral music in the country. Furthermore, she has served for the past year as an exchange teacher to England. In view of this fact, she has selected for our enjoyment two folk songs from the Hebrides, a chain of islands off the western coast of Scotland. Also included in the program will be the opening religious group, American folk songs, and finally, the Battle Hymn of the Republic. Decker Faw will be the accompanist for the 60-member choir.

The choir, organized six years ago, consistently has had a broad repertoire including folk, classical, and semi-classical music.

It's Your Week-end . . . .

On the weekend of December 9 through 11, STC will be the scene of gala pre-Christmas festivities. The events have been planned, the refreshments have been ordered and all that remains lacking are participants. Participants can't be "planned" or "ordered" but they can be urged — "make this coming weekend at S.T.C. your week-end."

First on the agenda is the Senior - sponsored Christmas Ball to be held Friday night from the hours nine to twelve. Music will be furnished by

Saturday, at two o'clock, the "event of the day" will be a flag-football match — dormitory versus day students. A special invitation is extended to the girls to "choose up sides" and form cheering sections for the opposing teams.

Starting at six, the men are going to trim a gigantic Christmas tree in front of their dorm — decorations being provided by the girls. Spotlights will be situated in appropriate places surrounding the "finished product" adding an extra touch of loveliness to (See WEEKEND, Page 4)

A Few Were Present

The annual Thanksgiving assembly was held on the twenty-second of November for a small group of students. The speaker was the Rev. Perry Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Pocomoke. The College Chorus contributed to the interest of the program with two selections: "We Plough the Fields," and "Jerusalem, My Happy Home."

Reverend Ellis started off with a few minutes of humor, a deviation from the stereotyped idea of a Thanksgiving program. One of the hardest hitting puns concerned the abundance of empty seats. This is possibly the first time such a thing has occurred, but it should have been brought to our attention long ago.

After warming up with humor, Reverend Ellis delivered a most interesting talk, the main point of which was the fact that the college period is an era in life of opportunity. In this era, he said, we must realize one of two attitudes. Either we resent all education and sacrifices for same or we realize the things which are of real value in life. The speech was concluded in comparison of our lives with a bland check which is given by God. The question brought to our attention is whether we would fill in the line with materialism or being the center of God's will.

Many favorable comments were to be heard regarding the whole; it is only too bad that more didn't have time to enjoy it.

DYNAMIC WEEKEND OF FOOTBALL COMING SATURDAY, DECEMBER 10

December 10 holds in store for the students of S.T.C. many extravaganzas, but the most unique and appealing of all is a football game at 2:00 in front of the Men's Dormitory Association.

Drawing from the talent of the Intramural League, the Men's Dormitory Association has established two bitter and rival teams—The Day Hops vs. The Men's Dorm.

Both teams will be fully equipped with shoulder pads, helmets, and uniforms donated by the Red Shield Boy's Club and the Cambridge High Raiders. Without giving away too many surprises, the spectator can expect to see two cheerleading squads, bands, half-time shows, ambulances, a public address system coverage narrated by Luke Fennell, huge crowds, and a true college gridiron decked out in all necessitating splendor. To top this off, the referees will consist of S.T.C.'s own beloved professors — Mr. DiVirgilio, Dr. Wroten, Mr. Farace, Coach Ben Maggs, and Dean Robinson. Many more surprises are planned in which the Press is not free to indulge and reveal.

A Pep Rally will be held at 6:00 on Friday, Dec. 9, to add more glamour. In order to provide adequate publicity, posters are being made, notices are being sent out to student mail boxes, local radio stations and newspapers are being notified, and representatives of the college, Jay McCrea and Noel Farmer, will present the event with "Ron Weber's Telesports" to the WBOC television audience at 6:15 on Thursday, Dec. 8.

As it now stands, popular consensus rules the Dorm students a slight favorite over the Day-Hops, but with the secluded workouts being held by both teams, secret formations of offense and defense could change the complexion of the entire contest. The Dorm array has a heavy 200-pound forward wall spearheaded by Jim Davis, Bill Cotten, Jerry Wilson, Harley Legates, and Wayne Towers, and a swift backfield of Jon Jefferson, Gordon Gladden, Bob Sinagra, Dick Bailey, John Barnes, Jay McCrea, and Martin Davis. The Day-Hops are expected to counter with a slightly heavier line of Jim Hartman, Tom Focht, Noel Farmer, Jack Mitchell, and Bob Brown. Due to the lack of speed merchants, it is probably that they will utilize the dual force (See FOOTBALL, Page 2)

Thinking Out Loud

Hello there, companions:
Hope you all had a good vacation.

Well, hats off to the soccer team for an excellent season. I personally feel that the team played their best game in three years on Homecoming Day when they whipped Glassboro. There were about 30 fans in the stands. Wow! What a turn-out! I'll bet over half of you didn't even know there was a game. There were a lot of alumni in the crowd — about 10 altogether. What's wrong?

Well, Kennedy won the hard way. He had to overcome the hard campaigning done by the two Nixon boys — Jay McCrea and Tom Wimbrow. I understand these two fellows are going to ask for a recount in Wicomico County. The Men's Dorm had a Mock Election before the final vote and Nixon won, so one might conclude that ... so goes the Men's Dorm, so doesn't go the nation. At any rate it was a good, close, and well-fought campaign, and the best man won! (Who's showing favoritism?)

By the way, did the Girls' Dorm have a Mock Election? You don't hear much from that side of the campus anymore.

And how about the Men's Open House? There's a lot of noise on this side of the fence. Over 200 people attended the gay affair, and I hear all had a good time. Jay McCrea and Yates Harris deserve most of the credit, but it could not have been the big success that it was without the wholehearted support of the entire Men's Dorm. Many thanks to Dick Bailey, Harley LeGates, John Hanson, Frank Lum, Martin Davis, and John Drew for providing us with special entertainment in connection with the tours. Also many thanks to some girl in the Girls' Dorm for her article of clothing which was displayed on the third floor.

The whole night proved to us as a student body that fun can be had. It only takes a little effort on everyone's part. Hum! I wonder what the girls will cook up?

Have you all gotten your date for the Christmast Dance? If not, you'd better hurry ... time's a-wastin'.

You know, I can't think of a

Mr. Carroll, a member of the traditionalist school of art, proclaims his chief interests to be oils and his favorite subjects, seascapes and still life. He has experimented in modern art and maintains an academic interest in that field. In addition, he has done some work with sculpturing and enameling.

Included in his repertoire of art works are: NEVER DONE, an oil figure painting portraying a woman with a mop; DREAM BY THE SEA, a figure painting, in oils, of a girl by the sea; DRIFTAGE, a still life in oils of driftwood and bottle; GRANDMOTHER'S COMPOTE, a still life done in pastels; and OYSTER TONGER, a seascape in oils featuring the sea.

Miss Jeannie Howell, a member of the Freshman Class, has offered for display two still life water colors.

A graduate of Milford Mill High School in Baltimore, Maryland, Miss Howell has studied two years at the Maryland Institute of Art and one year at Milford. During her senior year she was Chairman of the Set and Decorations Committee of the 1960 Senior Follies. Miss Susie Dunstan of Baltimore, Maryland, will exhibit one water color and one drip, abstract composition. Miss Dunstan, a Freshman, was graduated from Dundalk Senior High School and was privileged to study three years of art while there.

In the realm of art, she displayed her works last year at the Baltimore County Exhibit held at Parkville Senior High and in her senior year, was Chairman of Decorations for the 1960 Senior Prom.

Mr. Orlando Wootten, a local businessman, will offer selected features from his photography collection. Mr. Wootten received his Bachelor's degree from Harvard and his Master's from Columbia University.

Photography has been a chosen interest of his for 15 years and some of his work has reached national publication. Most of his work is in the subjecture vein and two-thirds of his work to be featured at the exhibit will have a European setting. This is the first presentation of the compositions to be shown.

A Friend of Emerson Speaks

BY JERRY PINE

"Hey, George!"
"What?"
"George, c'mon, put down that book—I wanna ask you some test tomorrow."

"George, why did you ever decide to want to be a teacher?"
"Oh, Sam! Leave me alone! I got more to do than answer stupid questions. I want to teach because I hate kids! Go away do you wanna be a teacher?"

"Aw, George, you don't mean that. C'mon. Honest injun—do you wanna be a teacher?"
"Okay, okay! I want to teach because I like the subject like kids and I think the kids should learn to like the subject."

"But George, that's not enough!"
"Oh? Says who?"
"Why, common sense says so — plain ol' horse-sense. If all you see in it, well, what're you gonna do when you're teaching — when you start advancing?"

"'Advancing' where? I'm here to be a teacher so I can be not so I can be something else. Where would I want to advance? I mean, to where should I wish to advance?"

"George, I mean when you take post grad work and get into administration — get to be a principal or a supervisor. You want a teacher then — you won't have your subject then!"

"Sam, I repeat: I'm here to be a teacher. I want to teach."

"But, George, that's the wrong attitude. They'll think you have any ambition, not wantin' to ever get any place like that. It be an inadequate teacher!"

"Oh, Sam! By what stretch of the imagination could an 'adequate' teacher be one who wants to get out of teaching?"

"But, George, somebody's got to do it. Somebody's got to do policies and things like that. It would have to be somebody who had experience teaching."

"Well, let them find teachers who don't like teaching, then. I can kick somebody else upstairs!"

"George, that's where you've got a bad attitude. Advancing sort of duty you have to feel."

"Duty, schmooty — it's the pay raise people like they feel call for — either that or they didn't want to be teachers in the place. And in both cases they've proved, by default, that their intent don't lie in teaching. It should logically follow that they aren't qualified to decide teaching 'policies'."

"Well then, George, just who would be qualified? It seems to me that you're avoiding a responsibility."

"And it seems to me that you're asking me how the entire system should be run. Only an idiot could expect a critic to work better play every time he pans a bad play. I don't know all the answers, but then, it wasn't me who wrote the questions."

"So it wasn't! But if you see questions and avoid looking for answers, then you're just avoiding another responsibility."

"Sam, I don't want to be a principal, a supervisor, or a crazy hospital all his own so he could administrate?"

"George, that's different!"
"So I'm different! I just don't see eye to eye with you. I want to be left alone ... to teach."

"Baloney. You just want a shell to crawl into, and you've got a classroom for your shell."

"Hooray, I'm a pearl ... now go away and let me study tomorrow!"
"Say, George, I didn't know there were any tests announced tomorrow!"

"It's a pop quiz."
"How'd you know about it?"
"I saw old Dewey standing in the movie line this evening."
"So?"
"So the only time he goes to the movies is when he doesn't want to lecture."

"Say, you're right — for once — I'd better hit the books now. So long, George."
"G'night, Sam."

of the blocking power of Bill Elliott, Paul Murrell, and Ed Shaw coupled with the decoying of Chet Davis and the running of W. Foltz and Neil LeCompte.

If all plans turn out to be even a half-way reality, immediate success will demand this event to be a tradition at STC. Every fact, Salisbury's entire team and complete.

Fitz Spotlights the Sports

This year's hockey season has certainly provided contrast against last year's. During the previous entire season, a total of about three games were played, the remainder not played due to rain. However, this year, STC has not had rain enough to stop them at either encounter, although the mud, at times, seemed to almost overcome them.

Sports day at the University of Maryland was indeed a busy, but tiresome day for the Salisbury hockey women. Two teams played that day bringing home a total of four victories, four ties, and one loss, with Cookie Harbaugh, Mary Ann Monaghan, Susan Waller, Nancy Gibbons, and Bev Foxwell scoring. Monaghan and Harbaugh could not be stopped, as they shared the scoring honors with three apiece.

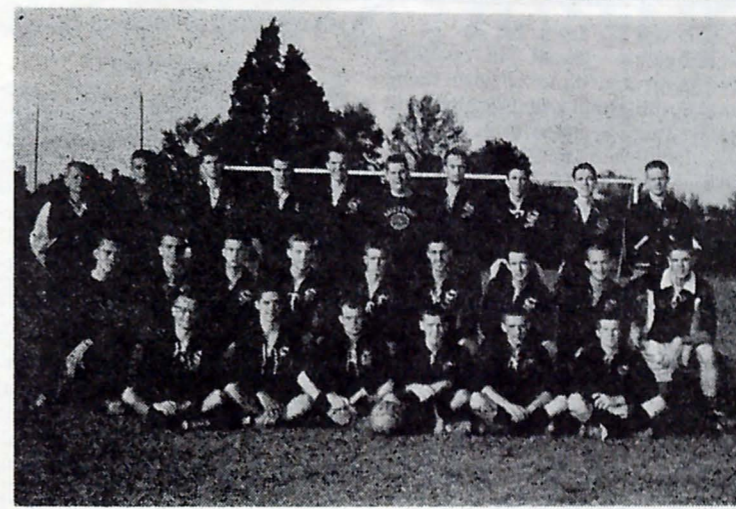

Since that day, Salisbury STC has met quite a few colleges, and although they have returned defeated in a couple of incidents, they were excellent sports and played their hardest. Indeed, anyone who witnessed these games would not have been ashamed to say they were from Salisbury, even though the score may not have, at the moment, been in their favor.

Two games were played on the day Salisbury met Notre Dame. Kathy Larsen, this time had the scoring honors, as STC's lassies brought back a win (1-0) and a loss (1-0).

The only home game this season was played against Philadelphia College of the Bible on a bright sunny November afternoon. It took the combined strength of two teams to stop PCB, and although Salisbury did not win, a 2-2 tie was racked up. It was goalie ( ? ? ? ? ) Jerry Blazek and inner Arletta West, a freshman, who this time knocked the wooden ball over.

A 1-0 victory, scored by half-back Barbara Street, over Galludet of Washington, gave Salisbury its first chance to return home entirely undefeated. Looking pretty scrappy in the first half, STC began pulling together more towards the waning moments. However, the forward line just didn't move fast enough for Barbara Street, who, following the line down the field, knocked the ball over for the first and only goal of the day.

Playing Galludet, a deaf-mute school, was an experience the STC women enjoyed and will long remember. Before the game, all were mystified at the uncanny way they are able to join in and have as much fun as any other person. In fact, Salisbury's entire team and (See FITZ, Page 4)

Four Hockey Players Lauded

University of Maryland field day gave Salisbury a chance to recognize four of its outstanding hockey players. Playing a total of nine games, Salisbury's two teams won four, tied four, and lost one, but many of their players made an impression both in skill and in sportsmanship.

Freshman Kay Ramoser, playing for the Skyrockets, did a splendid job that day, backing up the forward line superbly. Opposing teams seemed incapable of getting the ball anywhere near her, without danger of losing it.

Sophomore Beth Reid, and this issue's Woman Athlete of the Month, was another standout at the end of the day, for her skill with a hockey stick.

The other two players, members of the Torpedo team, were Joan Townsley and Betty Quimby. Townsley, playing halfback, looked very good on defense, and (See HOCKEY, Page 4)

Junior Team Blanked in Two Consecutive Contests

FROSH 6 — JUNIORS 0
SOPHS 6 — JUNIORS 0

In two successive games the Junior Class has had its title of "league leaders" and "unbeaten" mopped off the record books. Instead, the title has been replaced with "league goats". After having their invincibility highly publicized by the HOLLY LEAF, the Juniors have put on two exhibitions that would make any sports writer wish that he had never seen a typewriter. As this paper goes to press the Freshmen are now in first place with 2 wins, 1 loss; while the Juniors and the Sophomores follow with respective loggings of 2 wins, 2 losses and 1 win, 2 losses.

The encounter between the Juniors and the Freshmen knocked the Juniors off their high horse of no defeats in three years. It (See CONTEST, Page 4)

Murrell's Mayhem

MOVING AWAY FROM THE SPORTS LINE ... for just a second, this columnist would like to take time out to give a well deserved pat on the back to Men's Dormitory President Jay McCrea and his "boys" for the great job they did in presenting to this campus such a delightfully entertaining open house. Everyone seemed to be carried away with the humorous room scenes, which were set up in a circus "side-show" fashion. One question: "Did Lum get a new barrel?"

CONGRATULATIONS ... are in order for the Freshman Flag Football team who now find themselves perched atop the Intramural Flag Football League. In their biggest victory against the Juniors the Frosh beat the once unbeaten and possibly too cocky Juniors at their own game, that being good, tough, rock 'em-sock 'em football. The Freshmen definitely won the game on a break, but it must be remembered that their hard charging line made that break by brushing through and blocking a punt. When a team is that determined to win, they deserve to!

GYM TEAM PRACTICE ... sessions are now underway and it appears that Coach Maggs has some fine material, the nucleus of which will probably be Neil LeCompte, Bob Kay, and Les Milbourne.

NEW GYM UNIFORMS ... for the male gym classes will wander far away from the style now used. Admittedly, those presently being worn by our men have a certain "high schoolish" (for want of a better word) appearance. The new ones will be more of the typical big college pattern, probably like the style most of the colleges throughout the east have adopted. Coach Maggs has yet to finish the design completely, so, more later.

GONE IS THE SOCCER SEASON ... and with it goes the last varsity competition for co-captain Tom Alderson, but there is still good news in Maggsville, for Tom is the only man that Coach will lose through graduation. Thus, barring injury or drop-outs, things look pretty good for the 1961 season. This year our Gulls closed out the season on a very happy note — the Homecoming Game we won from Glassboro Teachers 1-0. Our only score was booted in by Tom Alderson with an able assist from Ed Mitchell.

Then our noble Gulls ventured forth to the University of Maryland to meet their Freshman ball club and this one was a real "mudder", but apparently the Maggs- (See MAYHEM, Page 4) also showed that the Freshmen are definitely on a par with any team in the league. Neither aggression produced any offense for both teams waged battle continually on the fifty-yard line. The touchdown resulted from the pressure put on the Juniors, by the Freshmen defensive play of big Tom Focht, Wayne Foltz, Jim Hartman, Richard Wilson, and Harvey Davis. These aggressive linemen forced Neil LeCompte to fumble an attempted punt and to allow Harvey Davis to race 15 yards for a TD. To point out criticisms of the losers in this game, one has to look critically to its stagnant offense; their defense remains one of the best in the league.

This same situation held true for the Junior-Soph game. Statistically, the Juniors outgained the Sophs as they were constantly down to the opposition's 10 yard line, but were unable to muster enough of an attack to push in for a score. The defensive array of Fred Distler, Dick Bailey, Gordon Gladden, and Martin Davis, Davis, saved the Sophs with last minute grabs. The winning touchdown resulted from a Sophomore pass interception by Gordon Gladden, who with the aid of a key block from Freddy Distler, ran 60 yards for the only score of the game.

It is the opinion of many observers that the Junior backfield could have stopped this score, but laziness produced by success prevailed in too large a quantity.

In summary, these two games have shown that the Juniors definitely do not possess the team that existed in the previous years. As long as arguments prevail, organization and team work cannot.

branches already clothed in spirit, bright colors, and ingenuity.

Immediately following the trimming of the tree, the Club Room in the Men's Dormitory will become the site of a reservoir for hot chocolate and the scene for gaiety of a record hop.

On Sunday, after Church, Mrs. Webster has planned a special menu for the buffet-style, pre-Christmas dinner to be served. Later, the chorus will be in charge of leading a Christmas carol sing in the Student Center. Also, in the same evening, the different classes will trim their individual Christmas trees.

This "weekend-to-be" — a combination of careful thought and preparation — promises to be a grand success in every way. It is sponsored by a joint conglomeration of many of the organizations here at college and especially promoted by the interest of the Social Committee and the Men's Dormitory Association.

In 1890 men in business offices outnumbered women by 8 to 1 in clerical jobs; today, women outnumber men by 3 to 1, except in government offices, where men still dominate.

cheerleaders joined in playing ping-pong and dancing with them, making this an event which will not be forgotten too soon.

A long journey to St. Mary's with a mixed team of players, some of whom had not played hockey for well over a year, brought Salisbury another defeat. Mainly because they had never played together before and because they lacked team play and spirit, STC brought back a deficit score of 1-0. Not to be overlooked in this game, however, was the superb playing of Marianna Emanuele; this little Snow Hill gal really saved the day as the ball seemed incapable of being played anywhere around her. Marianna's mastery of the hockey skills looked even better when one stops to think that previously she has always played goalie.

Special notice should also be given to Elizabeth Vessey, a Freshman, who had never before played hockey with the team, and to Flora Johnson, who was playing for the first time in two years. Johnson was unable to move fast for the next week!

Perhaps the moral support, which the team needed so badly, and which was always there, helped more than anything else, despite their season's record. Coach Whitney could always be seen on the sidelines rooting her team along, whether in victory or defeat. She was never alone, however, for right beside her was Mr. Hall, the bus driver for practically all of the away games. Both of them added to the school spirit and helped many games to be victorious, which probably otherwise would not have been.

Around the first weekend in December, another fine night of coed volleyball is promised. Be looking for it.

men took along their mud boots for in two overtime periods of five minutes each, they waged the Maryland club to a 3-3 standstill. In this game our goals were scored by Philip Reed (2), and here's that name again, Tom Alderson (1). Coach Maggs seemed quite pleased with the outcome of this one. For those who may have forgotten, we ended up with the following won and loss record:

Tom Alderson

Senior with quite a sports record here at STC. Truly one of the nicer guys on campus. Here follows a quick sketch of his sports record:

Freshman: Two letter man participating in soccer and baseball.

Sophomore: Two letter man participating in soccer and baseball.

Junior: Soccer

Senior: Soccer

In all of these years Tom participated in all the intramural league games and last year was captain of the winning softball team which, in a post season game, defeated the All-Stars.

As a "man about campus", Tom has the honor of being included in the Who's Who in American Colleges, is a member of the Science Club and Vice-President of the Men's Dormitory Association.

John Barnes

Junior, weighing in at 160 lbs. and 6 feet tall. John came to STC from Princess Anne, Md., where he set a state record for Class C schools in a mile run. John is a member of the Gym Club (3 yrs.), soccer team (3 yrs.), and has participated in all intramural events, which include basketball and softball. John has tremendous rebounding ability, and in football his ability to catch the ball has pulled the Junior Class out of tight situations. Fortunately, John will be around next year to help Coach Ben Maggs with his soccer and gym team troubles.

Wondering what to give that lucky person who has everything and two of some? No one ever had too many U. S. Savings Bonds.

Athlete of the Year, instead of just Woman Athlete of the Month.

The Skyrocket hockey team boasted of having Beth as fullback for two years now, although she did suffer a slight facial injury during that season this year. An excellent hockey player and makes her an expert official, she has been just that at many high school games around Shore.

Intramural and varsity basketball have had Beth Reid as an asset to their teams. She has done much refereeing in this capacity, also, and last year earned her national rating.

The W.A.A. Board has Beth as an efficient officer, too, for she serves as secretary this year of that organization.

Far too numerous are her activities to mention, but sports aren't her only interest. Many recall seeing her in the May Comm last year, and this year she served on the Social Committee.

A well-rounded person, interested in everything that is going on at college and in the world about her, is this month's Woman Athlete, a title Beth Reid well deserves.

Quimby blocked many a would-be goal from scoring.

The four players helped bring to Salisbury STC the recognition it has long deserved. Their selection as outstanding players gave this college a place, sports-wise, among the colleges and universities of this surrounding area.
