STC STUDENTS ENTERTAIN CAMPUS GUESTS

In the neighborhood of 500 high school seniors in three days saw, in round numbers, some 25 STC students in action on the stage, and apparently they liked it. In an auditorium session held after lunch each of the three days of "STC-ON-INSPECTION," visitors were told how we operate on this campus and why, and then were entertained by student talent. Terry Sterling emceed it all.

Brenda Foxwell, Beth Reid, Jack Morris or Lute Fennell, Barbara Crum, Noel Farmer, and Bill Wheatley or Charles Hurley or Joyce Poole laid before the guests the modus operandi of classes, clubs, and sports and did credit to themselves as well as to the college.

Richard Wilson opened the entertainment section with a rendition of "Long, Black Rifle." In his natural, lyrical voice, with his usual sensitive interpretation, he accompanied himself, foot-on-chairstyle, on the guitar as he sang the painful story of the fatal triangle.

A Spanish dance, ballet version, was presented by Mary Anne Pieper, premiere danseuse of the campus. Polished, disciplined, agile Miss Pieper held her audience every step of the way as she bared the soul of a maiden in Spain.

Special claudits go to the quintet who sang "Among My Souvenirs," because theirs is a success story. Carole Anderson, entrepreneur, Carol Arndt, Wanda Craft, Sherry McFadden, Sherry Nicholson, accompanied by Ruby Quillen, were frightened the first day. Shyness, however, brought out their mettle, and the second and third days the lassies gave forth with a closely harmonized arrangement that made us all proud.

The best word to describe the "Pantomime" done by Sharon Brown and Lois Muth is "cute." The two young ladies, Shakespeare notwithstanding, did "mouth" their lines, and did it well. In so doing, they gave the audience pause to consider: what do space people look like? A kiss is still a kiss, however.

The climax of the show was the soloist Jenine Dobos and her swingin' accompanists Joe Carr, Shell Clendaniel, and Dick Ramsay who shared her honors, deservedly. Miss Dobos gave forth with first two, then none, then five songs on the respective days of the show, and did them when she did them, all with complete satisfaction to her audience who loved her controlled throatiness and

Coffee Hour

Four years ago the student wing of the social committee instituted the "Coffee Hour." This informal fellowship affords to the intellectual, inquisitive student an opportunity to discuss current topics of an idealistic, emphatic, thought-provocative nature. Not necessarily for the esoteric, the Coffee Hour strives to elicit from the participants eloquence of speech, power of thought, and, most assuredly, self confidence. Come prepared to air your views on the topic under discussion. All students are challenged to attend.

The program over the last four years has included topics such as mental health, alcoholism, existentialism, beatniks, and disposition of the press. Students sat on the floor, coffee was served, and everyone had a delightful time.

"Freedom Riders or Not" is the topic for discussion at the first meeting on November 1, 1961. Bill Cotton, Senior President, will mediate and the students will carry the main portion of the topic. The Route 40 incident will be brought in for comment. The gist of the selected topic will be confined to the recent aspects.

In the coming months there will be outside speakers. Two authors have been engaged; Senator John Sandford, Worcester County legislator and lawyer, is scheduled to speak on "Social Legislation" (control of support of illegitimate mothers). Many other subjects and many other speakers will be presented throughout the year. Watch your social calendar for the dates.

Record Attendance Expected at Annual Alumni Homecoming

The annual event, November 4, 1961, is growing nearer and nearer. This year's Homecoming promises to be an outstanding feature of the college year. The Alumni Association will be assisted in its efforts by the Student Government Association and the Social Committee to make this gathering a real success.

Homecoming Queen

The Homecoming Queen this year, as in the two years preceding, was nominated during the S.G.A. Assembly which was held at 2:00 P.M. on October 31. Nominess must come from the Senior Class although all classes may take part in the nominating process. Formerly, the Queen was nominated and elected exclusively by the soccer team. Now the student body may vote at the annual Homecoming Dance for one of the candidates selected at the assembly.

Schedule of Events

A most interesting day with much variety has been planned this year for the Alumni beginning with registration at 2:00 P.M. Following these preliminaries there will be an intramural football game between members of the freshman and sophomore classes on one side and juniors and seniors on the other. This activity presents somewhat of a deviation from preceding years, for a soccer game is usually one of the most popular events of the day. This year, however, the soccer team has a game scheduled away.

Later in the afternoon, the Alumni will have their tea in the Social Room. Members of the Social Committee will assist in serving refreshments. Tours of the new buildings will also be included in the afternoon's program to be followed by the yearly business meeting. Election of officers is the main feature of this meeting. Outgoing officers of the Alumni Association include:

- The Rev. G. William Truitt
President - Class of 1953
- Mr. Marshall Moore
Vice President - Class of 1948
- Mr. Herman Truitt
Cor. Secretary - Class of 1957
- Mr. Stewart W. Harrison
Rec. Secretary - Class of 1953
- Mr. Edward Pinto
Treasurer - Class of 1958

There are two faculty advisors to the Alumni Association who are chosen at alternate years for two-year terms. Present advisors are Dr. Leila Stevens and Dr. John B. May. It is interesting to observe that although now all the officers seem to be men, in the early years of college history all presidents were females. Members in the transfer program could not hold office until sometime after World War II.

Dinner Program

Presiding at the dinner program will be Mr. Marshall Moore, current Vice President of the Alumni Association. The responsibility of

Sophanes Players To Perform

On the Monday before the Thanksgiving holiday at 7:00 and 8:30 P.M., the Sophanes Players will present two comedies in the Student Activity Center. One is Anton Chekov's "Marriage Proposal," a nineteenth-century Russian farce. The other is "Abstraction," a Japanese comedy of the fifteenth century.

Mr. Macurdy Burnet, the director, has chosen the plays to suggest, in terms of laughter, that the theater is both international and has existed for a very long time—and that both European and Asian plays present human beings who are just as funny as Americans.

"Marriage Proposal" consists mainly of a series of loud and passionate arguments between a couple about to become engaged. Charles Toth plays a nervous bridegroom-to-be, and Kathleen Jaques a belligerent bride. Paul Hull appears as her ranting father. The play will be presented as a broad farce.

"Abstraction" involves disputes, too, principally between an errant husband, played by Kenneth Kent, and his meddlesome wife, portrayed by Florence Kelly Droll. Ray Jones takes the part of a servant.

The technical staff for both productions includes Jeneane Dobos, Dawn Finley, Jo Ann Flater, and Franklin Mitchell.

Students and faculty are cordially invited. There will be two performances on November 20—7:00 and 8:30 P.M.

WELCOME ALUMNI!

Schedule of Events for Homecoming:

- 2:00 Registration
- 2:15 Football Game
Tea
- 6:15 Dinner for Alumni and Seniors
- 8:00 Homecoming Dance

AN EDITORIAL

Almost everyone on campus, without exception, seems to agree that the night of the Women's Dorm Open House, Snack Bar Show and Dance was a wonderful success. I would like to question the thought as to it's being a complete success, however.

Granted, the Open House and the Snack Bar Show were done in such a manner that no one could help but have a good time. One question remains: "Wasn't the Snack Bar Dance also a part of the W.D.A. big night of events?" If the answer is "yes" then I cannot see where the entire night can be termed as having been a complete success.

Our big problem on campus has been getting the newer students to attend the activities given by the various organizations on campus. The Snack Bar Dance was one such activity. A sad note occurred when, after the first two phases of the night's entertainment were completed, a great many of our students made a mass exodus from the college to a local establishment for one of our regular "functions."

It isn't these "functions", groups, or any individual that I am criticizing. My point is this, we, as STC'ers, had an obligation to stay and attend the dance given here not only because it was sponsored by one of STC's groups, but out of sheer courtesy to the WDA, who had gone to such lengths to give us a good night on campus. Since the type of music, (records in both cases), available dance space (approximately the same), are not too greatly differing, I feel that the type of beverages being served is what was the deciding factor.

Perhaps this is wrong. If the "functions" are wanted and supported, as they certainly have been, couldn't they be held on dates that would not conflict with regularly scheduled programs on campus?

We owe this much consideration to the new students, the various organizations on campus, STC, and mainly to ourselves.

Library Business

One place on campus doing more business than ever before is the library. Have any of you math majors seen that Science of Mathematics exhibit on the second floor? It is both colorful and interesting.

There are many new books to be found on tables in the front and near the reference room, as well as on the two shelves nearest the interior doors — three of these, selected at random, provide a representative section.

Man and Dolphin, by John C. Lilly, M.D., is the story of man's attempt to communicate with the dolphin, and the research that is current to this project.

Nostromo, by Joseph Conrad. If you've read Heart of Darkness or The Secret Sharer, you know Conrad is delightful!

Arms Control, Disarmament, and National Security, edited by Donald G. Brennan, has "rave notices" from Dean Rusk, General Norstad, and Adlai Stevenson.

There are also several paperbacks by foreign authors that should be gems.

Homecoming

Our annual homecoming which is sponsored by the Social Committee is quickly approaching. November 4 has been chosen as the date for this event. The festivities will be started by a football game: Freshmen and Sophomores versus Juniors and Seniors at 2:00 P.M. The main attraction, the Homecoming Dance, is to be held from 8:00 until 11:00 P.M. in the old gymnasium and will be conducted under the theme "Basin Street Blues." In accordance with this theme our Decoration Committee has planned the use of bright colors and wishes to decorate in a typically-New Orleans mode. Mellow tones will be provided by a smooth dance band. The intermission is to be held in the Student Center where coffee and punch will be served. Dress informally—heel and tie.

As homecoming is the reuniting of old friends and the making of new ones, it should prove to be a spicy occasion. The returning of loyal alumni as well as the participation of our spirited student body promises to be a memorable junction.

Hidden Treasures

It seems as though the vaults and locked cases of S.T.C. hold treasures unknown and unseen to the vast majority of the student eye. One such treasure is the school's possession of two very interesting and unique Egyptian art pieces.

The two appliqued designs on canvas were presented to the college soon after it opened by Mrs. Louise Tilghman Lambert, of Salisbury.

Those canvas depictions of Egyptian life were produced in Cairo by a group of school boys and were discovered by Mrs. Lambert while on a trip to the Holy Land.

The canvasses are representations of a highly skilled art work as each piece is cut out and hand-sewed into position. The scenes are symbolic of all phases of Egyptian life and include figurines and symbols of their religion, the family, and their superstitions. Originally, the colors were centered around bright blue, red, and orange, but due to exposure and age have regressed into brown, gray, and dull red hues.

Presently, one is a temporary resident of Miss Purnell's art room and the other, regretfully, a rather permanent resident of the library vault.

The Campus School can boast of two other similar Egyptian art samples. These were donated by the architect of the Campus School, the late Mr. Booth. Smaller, but considerably brighter, the two are well worth noting by any interested student.

Social Committee Chairman Lists Future Plans

Lately, it has been brought to the attention of the Holly Leaf that quite a few of our school citizens have run into conflicts with STC campus activities and off-campus activities. In order to eliminate this problem, the Holly Leaf will attempt, far in advance, to inform STC'ers of the forthcoming events that bear watching and waiting. It is the hope of all involved that this advanced "billing" will be another step towards aiding in keeping STC a good place to stay. If you are the forgetful type why not tack this to your mirror or paste it in your daily notebook for an occasional reminder.

Social Committee Chairman, Noel Farmer, has given the Holly Leaf a little "scoop" information, so look for the following:

On November 11 a Sadie Hawkins Dance will be held with Richard Ramsey and his combo supplying the music.

Perhaps the biggest delight of our entire November programming will be the debut of a new nine-piece orchestra, composed, with one exception, of all STC men. The orchestra will also feature among its many selections a blasting jazz combo. Members of STC comprising the band are: Joe Carr, Bass;

Thinking Out Loud

I'd like to compliment the SNEA here at STC for a wonderful job which they did in connection with High School Senior Days held October 24, 25, and 26. The calibre of the assemblies left STC feeling proud. In our college there are students who are extremely talented and who are willing to offer their talent for our enjoyment. To these people I would like to extend a hand.

What I have just stated is more than I can say for the Men's Intramural Football League. The Men's Athletic Association should investigate the league and reprimand some of the players for unsportsmanlike conduct. It seems there are those individuals who forget the purpose of the league which is to offer athletics to all men of all abilities. If certain individuals persist on ruining that purpose then those individuals ought to stay the heck away from the field.

Just some thoughts on STC's Homecoming: Homecoming to this writer is an important event on any college campus. It is the time of year when the graduates of previous years are gathered together to renew old acquaintances. Usually there is some major athletic event, whether we believe it or not, which makes the Homecoming a success. The old grads are able to cheer for the old alma mater. Homecoming reflects the love of one's college by the present members and by the past graduates. Such is not the case on this campus. Homecoming is so important here that the men's soccer team is playing away; there is little going on around campus the night before homecoming; and students here at STC are planning weeks in advance to attend the Homecoming of the University of Maryland. This does not reflect much coordination between the Alumni Association, and a number of college organizations. The women's hockey team plays a game at 10:00 in the morning. Of course every one will rise and shine to witness a morning athletic event. Let's get with it STC and make Homecoming something that we can all be proud of. I'm not proud of our Homecoming and I don't see how anyone who loves STC can be proud of a school which does very little to make the alumni feel a part of the college.

Good luck to the men's soccer team which plays at Glassboro.

Chotts Chatters the Sports

Guess who had the best turnout at the University of Maryland's sports day on October 28? If you named any college other than Salisbury, you're wrong. S.T.C. with both varsity and junior varsity hockey teams, tennis players, and cheerleaders was, by far, the best represented school attending. Thirty-nine girls, Dr. Whitney, and versatile Sybil McClellan made the trip to the U. of Md.

Weatherwise, the girls couldn't have ordered a better day — the beauty of the day being topped only by the beautiful playing. In my opinion, the prettiest game was played against Maryland during which our varsity girls rarely let the ball slip by them, and teamwork was at its best. The score of that game — 3-0.

At the end of the day, varsity's record was two wins, one tie, and one loss. J.V.'s record of one loss, one win, and two ties also gave the cheerleaders added incentive.

George Washington University, Frostburg, American University, St. Mary's, Marjorie Webster, Villa Jolie, Mt. Vernon, and Towson were among the colleges that our teams played.

Maryland judges named Mary Ann Corbett and Donna Hubbard as Salisbury's two outstanding players. Congratulations are in order, girls. But it must be said that all the players did a tremendous job, and it's always hard to distinguish just who the outstanding players are in such a team sport.

The day was only slightly marred by the injuries to Cynthia Walls and Diane Griffith. Hope this finds you both on the happy road to recovery, gals.

We're proud of our left-handed Katy Holland who won three of her four tennis matches. Bonnie Ewing and Sybil McClellan won a doubles match. Nola Norman and Sharon Dennis won a few of their games but did not win a match. We can be well proud of our showing, proving that school size has little to do with school spirit.

Don't forget the home hockey game against Baltimore Junior College on November 4. Volleyball starts November 1, so let's keep this in mind.

Guess that rounds up the sports news. See you next issue.

"THEY CHEER US ON!"

Cheerleading Squad Is Enlarged

If the cheerleaders seem louder in volume than ever this year, the answer can be found in the fact that the squad has doubled in number. Four peppy freshmen have joined Susie, Margie, Lucy, and Chotts to cheer the Salisbury teams on to victory this season.

Milford Mill High School in Baltimore County has provided us with two little blonde cheerleaders, Sharon Brown and Lois Muth. Sharon was a member of her high school's cheerleading squad in her senior year. Both girls bowl in the S.T.C. League, and Sharon is captain of her team.

Sherry McFadden, another blonde on the squad, hails from Aberdeen. Beside cheerleading, Sherry is active in the Wesley Foundation on campus.

Wi-Hi is not lacking in talent as perky Judy Raille has proven. The fourth member of the squad is a former Wi-Hi cheerleader and is serving as social committee representative of the freshman class this year.

Susie Dunstan, Margie Lomax, Chotts Wilkins, and Lucy Jenkins who, incidentally, still finds time for the squad along with her duties as a housewife, are the four returnees of last year. The girls work very well together and are getting a lot of support from the teams. New cheerleading outfits consisting of white, bulky sweaters and maroon and gold pleated skirts have been purchased.

Quite discouraging, however, is the fact that the girls must take cuts from classes if they accompany the teams on away trips during the week. Absences for cheerleading are not excused. Isn't it rather hard to display the school spirit which seems so necessary here at S.T.C. when so restricted?

The squad still has the spirit and perhaps the picture will be different in the future. In the meantime — "Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar, all for Salisbury stand up and holler!"

Campus Sports

To function at its maximum and peak efficiency, any organization, regardless of its size, should have a constitution. As of now, the Men's Athletic Association does not have such a constitution and no work has been started on one.

If such a constitution were in existence, we would have, in writing, a means by which much confusion might be eliminated. In this we would know who might, and who might not, be candidates for office and what their duties would be. We would have spelled out for us the purpose of the Men's Athletic Association and in what manner it is to function. A point of controversy which has been prevalent for years might be cleared up if this constitution existed. That problem: The established criteria for the Best Male Athlete.

The need for a constitution is apparent. Last spring and early this fall much "lip-service" was given in its favor. The time has come for "lip-service" to pass and action to begin.

HERE AND THERE

Nice job, Freshmen! Congratulations on your upset victory over the Juniors. Shame, shame on the losers.

Those undefeated Sophomores have done it again — Sophomores 14 - Seniors 6. The real thriller of this game was the goal line stand put on by the Sophs. Seems like it was Senior's ball first and ten for a T.D. and then . . . boom! (P. S. Boxing gloves will not be issued at the next game!)

While we are on the subject of football, let's look forward to that Dorm—Day-Hop game. Prediction: Same winner as last year only a bigger score!

More and more basketball players are working out in the gym every day. Why don't you?

Be sure to see the ALL-STAR football game Saturday.

the dinner falls entirely in the hands of the Alumni Association. After the presentation of the new Alumni President, Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss will address the guests on the topic of "The Future of S.T.C." Present members of the Senior Class are invited to this dinner and graciously welcomed by the Alumni Association. Entertainment will be provided by the Barber Shop Quartet.

Alumni Dance

To climax the activity-filled day will be the Homecoming Dance sponsored by the Student Government Association. This year the dance will be held in the old gym, will be informal, and will feature the crowning of the Homecoming Queen.

Aims of the Alumni Assn.

The major aim of the Alumni Association is the existence of a medium through which various services may be provided to the college. At the same time it is important that the Alumni and college may be kept in close contact. Somewhat of an historical sketch of the Alumni Association reveals aims, programs, and trends which in some ways deviate from present day practices.

Historical Sketch

The Alumni Association was organized in the year 1927. On June 4th an initiation was held for all students in the Senior Class eligible for membership in the organization. Highlighting former initiations was an induction ceremony the night before graduation. This was held outside the college and was supposedly a rather solemn and formal ceremony. The pillars and steps represented various levels of growth and achievement in the student's school life. Some of these include loyalty, scholarship, and integrity. This practice continued until about 1954. In these early years also, two meetings of the association were held; one in the fall involving induction of seniors and one in the spring—homecoming and election of new officers. Incorporated each year was the idea of honoring a specific class. During meetings the consideration of projects and gifts was of utmost importance.

Gifts of the Alumni Assn.

In June of 1929 the Commencement Exercises were followed by the unveiling of a portrait of Dr. Wm. J. Holloway, presented by the Senior Class. This was hung in the main corridor. Also in this year State Normal Graduates formed a County Alumni Association in Somerset County.

The Class of 1930 presented the school with the lily pool and sundial on the North campus.

Presentation by the Class of 1931 involved a large statue of Diana, the huntress, which was placed first in the library.

A large bronze tablet was unveiled in the front corridor to Mr. James B. Richardson. This plaque was the gift of the Class of 1938.

Two portraits were gifts of the Alumni in the year 1944. One was of Miss Ruth Powell which was hung in the dining room, the other was of Dr. J. D. Blackwell unveiled in the rose arbor on South campus following the August Commencement. This portrait was accepted by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor and exhibited in the Social Room. Other portraits, including those of Dr. Idabelle W. Thomas and Dr. T. J. Caruthers were unveiled in later years.

In 1950 the annual Homecoming of the Alumni corresponded with the Silver Anniversary of Salisbury College. Thus, the Association offered several silver gifts to the college.

Major Contributions

In March of 1948, a group of six evergreens was planted on the back campus as a memorial to the six men in the Alumni Association who lost their lives in the service of their country in World War II. A permanent marker at the base of one of the firs was dedicated bearing the names of all six men. Dr. John B. May made the dedication speech.

In May of the same year the Alumni Association presented the bronze memorial plaque containing the names of 290 former students and four faculty members who served during World War II. This plaque, placed under the portico to the main building serves as a memorial to the six alumni marked with a gold star who made the supreme sacrifice. The principal speaker was General Amos W. W. Woodcock. A Guard of Honor composed of Veterans in the student body and commanded by Dr. Maurice Fleming stood at attention during the ceremony.

Alumni and The Holly Leaf

Formerly, the Alumni Association was affiliated with the Holly Leaf in that they wrote an Alumni column. Each month certain counties were featured. This practice eventually ceased due to scattering of members and lack of interest on the part of the student body.

A hunting spider, while courting, may offer its intended the gift of a choice insect neatly wrapped in silk.

loved even more her sensitiveness to the words and music.

Lest we be remiss: Joan O'Connor sang Alma Mater at the conclusion of the first part of the program. She sang well technically and with the dignity appropriate to the song. She was accompanied by Dr. Jessie Fleming.

Terry Sterling made his debut as a master of ceremonies. His only flaw is a flaw of his age: the big image of television MC's in the minds of us all. But he swung the mike cord with a delightful casualness and he told his jokes, chosen basically with taste, with just the right touch of the novice which we hope he never loses.

The Sophs gave the bystanders an idea of what was to come on the second series of plays. Ron Brewington intercepted a Senior pass and ran for a 25 yard touchdown.

This lead didn't stand for long as on the next series of plays quarterback Jay McCrea carried the "old men" down the field on a variety of running and passing plays that was culminated by a run-pass play of 25 yards McCrea to Murrell. This was the score at halftime 6-6.

The game was played on even terms for most of the second half with the two clubs giving each other the ball on punt exchanges. However, a fumble recovered by the Sophs set up the winning touchdown on a 10 yard pass from quarterback Ed Burton to Ron Brewington. Big Jim Hartman "rolled" over the two-point conversion and the Seniors bit the dust by a 14-0 score.

mean quite a bit to STC's social life.

Noel informs us that the Men's Open House and all-around general fanfare is cloaked with secrecy.

Following the Thanksgiving holidays, things will again start "swinging." Working hand-in-hand with the W.A.A. the Social Committee will sponsor a Coed-Volleyball night and immediately following this will be a Hi-Fi Hop to be held in the Snack Bar.

The highlight of the pre-Christmas programs will be the second annual clash on the gridiron between the members of Men's Dorm and the Day Hops. This will be held during the day and following the game, there will be a Victory Dance honoring the victorious gladiators. Since this was one of the truly outstanding "bright spots" in our last year's social program, and there is an effort to make this game a continuing annual affair, interested parties under the leadership of Bill Elliott are pulling out all the stops to make this a successful event.

Preceding the football game will be the Christmas Ball presented by the Senior Class. Be sure to look for all these events and plan to attend.
