Campus Improvements Anticipated

A new dormitory for women, scientifically constructed playing areas, and an extension of science facilities are the improvements President Wilbur Devilbiss outlined as his hopes for the next physical improvement for STC at the Alumni Dinner on Saturday, Nov. 4.

Dr. Devilbiss further explained the steps by which capital improvements in state institutions are affected, pointing up patience as an important point of view. He clarified any doubts as to the "dead end" walkways, explaining that such temporary terminations are in the interest of saving money; not until the campus plan is complete will the entire layout of walks and drives be feasible. He stated that the plans for the plant here are long-range and not on a year-to-year basis.

The sports program has never had the well developed playing areas that are desirable, Dr. Devilbiss asserted. Six tennis courts scheduled for completion last fall are the beginning of a series of improvements in that department of college life.

It is hoped in the near future to move residence facilities out of the administration building into a new dormitory for women. Moreover, the small plot of ground facing on Route 13 and not owned by the State is being viewed as a possible extension of science facilities.

Higher Education in Maryland

Apropos the future of higher education in the state, Dr. Devilbiss reminded the alumni that the governor has appointed a Commission on Higher Education which is currently studying needs, facilities, and all other aspects of this important problem. He expressed confidence in the ability of the commission to make a fair and just evaluation of the needs and possibilities and to recommend in that spirit.

Alumni Reiterates Position

Alumni President-Elect William Livingstone reiterated the position taken a year ago by the Alumni Association in support of the State Board of Education plan. He expressed the intent of the Association to do all it can to preserve the identity of the state colleges as a part of higher education in Maryland. He spoke of the appointment of sectional representatives of the Alumni of this college members who will be responsible for alumni activity in each division of the state, and who will be in touch as needed with legislative representatives.

Mr. Livingstone introduced Dr. Devilbiss whose address opened with a tribute to teachers and the teaching profession as an important force in society.

Mrs. Cooper Honored

At the conclusion of the meeting Dr. Tom Williams, Class of '53, was called upon to make a presentation.

Rev. David I. Rees To Be Thanksgiving Speaker

The annual Thanksgiving Assembly sponsored by the Student Christian Association will be held November 22, 1961, at 2:00 P.M. The guest speaker for this joyous occasion is the Rev. David I. Rees, minister of the Catonsville Presbyterian Church, Catonsville, Maryland. A graduate of Wooster College in Ohio, Rev. Rees will speak on the topic "What Thanksgiving Means to College Youth."

Jack Nurlinger, President of the Christian Association, will give the Invocation followed by the Bible reading by Maurice Howard. Introduction of the speaker will be made by Barbara Mosebrook.

Also taking part in the assembly program will be the College Chorus under the direction of Dr. Jesse Fleming. The entire chorus will sing "Jubilate Deo" by Purvis, and "Bless This House" by Brahe. The audience will join the chorus in "Come Ye Thankful People, Come" and "Prayer of Thanksgiving."

Wallops Island To Be Explained At Coffee Hour

The Cultural Affairs Committee, in conjunction with Circle K, will present Mr. William L. Lord, who will offer to the student body both slides and a film on the operations occurring at Wallops Island, November 28, at 7:15 P.M. in the Student Center. Mr. Lord is an aero-space technician at the old Naval Station in Chincoteague, Va., which is now part of the Wallops Island testing area. This event is part of the Coffee Hour programs presented by the Cultural Affairs Committee. For this program the Circle K will act as co-sponsor.

Mr. Lord is a native Salisburian, having graduated from Wicomico High School and spent a year at Salisbury State Teachers College. He has been employed at Wallops Island for the past three to four years.

The films and program which Mr. Lord will present have received excellent recommendations from the Salisbury Kiwanis Club, sponsors of our college's Circle K. The subject of the film, in color, is the development of the "Little Joe Project", shot from Wallops Island. The film incorporates both the firing and recovery of the rockets in this series of tests.

Anyone interested in the science field of the future, rocketry, or who just enjoys a good movie and talk is urged to attend. Remember . . . November 28, at 7:15 P.M., in the Student Center.

The Making of A Play Sophanes Style!

By Carolyn Young

The words, "I've come to ask the hand of your daughter, Natalya Stepanovna, in marriage," float through the air. There is a pause, then the words come again. There is another pause and a reply is given. A man's voice is heard—the words "Left center." A girl's voice—"How do you do, Ivan Vassilevitch." These voices belong to the people working on the Sophanes Players' latest play, "The Proposal."

These Sophanes Players comprise some of the hardest working students on campus. This fact is easily seen when one considers that a major production costs several hundred hours of work. There are six to eight weeks of rehearsals for four nights a week in the beginning of a play, increasing to six nights a week as the production date draws closer. Added to this is, of course, the hours upon hours required for learning the lines. Thus, it is easily seen that a Sophanes Player's role is more than the some few hours before an audience.

But what makes a play given by this group a success? What goes into the making of a good play? Let's suppose for just a moment that you are interested in seeing a rehearsal of a play, and one evening you go into the Faculty Room where the rehearsal of a play is underway. Two people are on the stage. In a chair off the stage is a third person learning lines. These three people are the only ones in the scenes to be rehearsed tonight. The others will come tomorrow. Directly in front of the stage is a stage director. Off to the side is the director, Mr. MacCurdy Burnett, the backbone of the production. You take a seat and watch. An actor forgets his lines. The stage manager supplies them. The actor continues. The scene ends. (See SOPHANES - Pg. 4)

Another Year . . . Another Homecoming

Were YOU proud of S.T.C.'s Homecoming? I know that in the hustle and bustle of events last weekend you may not have taken the time from your busy schedule to debate the question, so let's consider it now. Exactly what went into making this a big weekend for both students and alumni to look back upon with fond memories?

Saturday, the "big day," first began with our undefeated hockey team shutting out B.J.C., 8-0, before a record crowd of 12 students and eight faculty members. We wish we could get the same support and enthusiasm from the students as we can from the faculty.

Another ill-attended game was that in which the combined efforts of the junior and senior boys caused the defeat of the freshman. (See HOMECOMING - Pg. 4)

AN EDITORIAL

In this edition of the Holly Leaf will be several comments concerning what is listed as a rather weak Homecoming on the Salisbury State Teachers College campus. As late as 6:00 P.M. on Saturday, November 4, (Homecoming) I was willing to concur with this, with one possible exception: I would have inserted the word "failure" as a substitute for "weak".

By 12:00 P.M. of the same day my feelings concerning our Homecoming were somewhat brightened and here's why: 1—Hockey Team victorious 8-0; 2—A well-played flag football game (somewhat insignificant to those attending more glamorous activities off-campus, we're sure); 3—A wonderful banquet and dinner in which returning Alumni proved to on-campus citizens that attending and having attended STC is something to cherish regardless of the passing of years; 4—And, finally, an informative talk by our President concerning the future plans and hopes for our school.

For the last three editions of the Holly Leaf, the staff, in working together hand-in-hand with the various organizations on campus, has bent over backwards to get the students to remain here when something "big" is happening. Perhaps this may be the wrong slant on the problem. Let's face it . . . in any college there are "wanderers" (a word used by this writer to denote those who leave school the minute classes are over, and who have little or no interest in what is going on here). Could it be that if the time wasted on these "wanderers" was used in making the college activities more inviting for those remaining on campus that our programs would be greater successes? Granted, we can't offer the wide-open parties of a Maryland, Delaware or other big name college, but we do have one advantage that I sincerely feel would take up some of the slack, that here at STC we are fewer in number and could easily be a more closely knit group.

At the dinner held Saturday for the Alumni there was a warmth and happiness enjoyed by 148 people that I doubt could be excelled on any campus — large or small. Those in attendance, including many seniors, genuinely enjoyed themselves.

President Devilbiss, in the highlight of the evening, listed the future ideas and hopes he has for our campus. I have little doubt that in time these will be obtained, and it won't matter one way or the other if the "wanderers" give of their time, effort, or presence to help obtain them. Dr. Devilbiss made a statement that in moving ahead a man cannot get ulcers over the things he doesn't have, he must make the best of what he has.

Is my thought wrong that we could possibly forget the disinterested students we have on campus and work a little harder both for and with those who do want bigger things for Salisbury State Teachers College? Personally, I honestly feel that those who are continually wandering away from their rightful college "home" (for want of a better word) are not worth the worry!

Shelters and Machineguns

By Ken Roberts

The rush to build bomb shelters is on. Those who are not actually building are discussing the merits of such a project. It is strange that we in America have undertaken this task when the other peoples of the world seem to ignore the potential dangers or resign themselves to the consequences of nuclear war. Strange it is that we, the pillars of freedom, should dig holes instead of building monuments of liberty. Could it be that we are playing the role written for us by Communist script-writers? Are we retreating into

Library Hours To Be Studied

Hearing a plea for increased library hours, the S.G.A. has decided to conduct a poll taking a census of the people who use the library through the week. After compiling this data, the S.G.A. will ask that the library hours be extended during the week days and possibly on weekends if the poll warrants such action. Those desiring longer library hours may soon have their wishes.

New Notice Board Placed in Main Hall

Now residing in the front hall is a notice board featuring removable letters. Luther Fennell sent a letter of recommendation to the S.G.A. Board suggesting that the S.G.A. relieve the burdensome job of changing notices on this board from Miss Addis by putting the device under student care. Should this proposal go into effect, daily changes will be in the offing to keep the student body well informed of all activities on STC's campus.

our shelters instead of standing firm and self assured?

The great tragedy of this situation is the outlook of the American people and the way in which we are going about protecting ourselves. Some are making guns standard equipment in the shelter as well as food, water, and other necessities. Presumably, when the bomb falls, the plan is to shoot your way from the home to the shelter, and then after this running battle, hold the "fort" against those who might try to share safety.

In Idaho, one community is building shelters to house all those who are able to pay $100 per family — the payment will insure the family room inside the community shelter. This plan, which is being subsidized by the federal government, is to make sure, it seems, that America will at least have middle and upper income families surviving after the nuclear war. But, as Malthus has pointed out, some of us have to go in time of calamity. Why not the poor people?

If a hydrogen bomb attack does occur, no one can predict his actions. When the Titanic sank in the North Atlantic, there were heroes and those who committed heinous acts to save their lives. It would be the same in this case. There would be those who would fight for a place in the shelter while some would give their lives for another. We can accept human weakness as a fact in the time of crisis but planning such activity in advance is outrageous. Even some church leaders have given a nod to this armed fight to the shelter. With such an outlook on life and the values of morality, can we in America justify our beliefs and uphold our ideals of human dignity?

Assurance makes a man prosperous, and prosperity breeds assurance.

Thinking Out Loud

S.T.C. is about ready to get into its busy winter season as denoted by the article in the issues of the Holly Leaf. This time of year when many students are called upon to give a hand to many of these activities, so, by chance, you are called upon to those people who are in charge of the "big" hand.

Well, Homecoming is over. S.T.C. will have to wait another year before that big day is around on campus. I would like to see a bigger time next year, a home soccer game on Saturday preceded by a pep rally the week before; and a dance that is with a name band financed by the social committee and Alumni Association. Just a suggestion.

The soccer team deserves a hand even if the team was unable to win a ball game. It takes a deal of time on the player's part to get into shape to play a game of soccer. I think with a few more games the men would have been able to "rack up" a win.

If there's to be a big basketball schedule this year the men should schedule themselves into shape before there is a big difference between the old fortified court. Enough sports!

. . . and enough for "Thinking Out Loud."

M.A.A. Criteria for Best Male Athlete

At the M.A.A. meeting on November 2, President Wayne Brittingham presented before a committee the best male athlete. This award is given annually at the Junior-Senior Banquet. Recently this organization has left the selection to the M.A.A. Prior to this award was voted upon by the tire student body.

The system presented for approval sought to eliminate the fall of a popularity vote and would result if a general election were held. The point system used inadequate, so it was discarded.

The recipient of this award will be classified by the registrar's office as a second semester student or as a Senior. The year he receives the award he must be a Freshman class. These representatives will be elected by class meetings at least three weeks prior to the date the S.G.A. must announce results. The decision as to who will receive the award can be questioned only by the S.G.A. administration.

Chotts Chatters the Sports

Hate to start the news off on an unpleasant note, but . . . I wonder just how many of you know that the Skyrockets, which, incidentally, is our varsity hockey team, is undefeated? Does this news come as a surprise? I thought so, and it's no wonder, considering the meager turnout that came to cheer for the girls at their home game on Saturday, Nov. 4. Both our varsity and jay-vee teams have a lot on the ball, spirit-wise, but how disheartening it must be to be undefeated and for no one to seem to appreciate the fact. All the blame for this spirit sluggishness cannot continually be pushed on others — stop and evaluate yourself. Even the "Holly Leaf" fell down on the job. I say this because, in the last issue, a schedule of events for Homecoming was given and the home hockey game apparently was not important enough to be considered. There is another home game on Nov. 11 when the girls will play St. Mary's. Hope more of us can crawl out of bed to support the teams. If I have stepped on anyone's toes, it was because I meant to, and maybe someone will wake up.

Now to name the hockey casualties of the week. Kay Romoser, halfback, played the stupendous game against Towson on the away game of Oct. 31. She literally played herself out and spent the remainder of the evening in Towson's infirmary. There's a girl who puts everything she has into a game. Ask Janet Cohee if hockey is a rough sport, and I'll bet that she answers in the affirmative and undoubtedly, so will her dentist. Don't be discouraged, gals, after all — the girls at Towson play soccer!

On to varsity volleyball which is managed this year by Pauline Osinski and Barb Krahn. In the neighborhood of 42 girls came out for practice on Nov. 1. Such en-

Tough Game With Glasborough Team

By Jim Hartman

In what was probably the hardest fought, most thrilling game of the season, S.T.C. lost in the final quarter to Glasborough by a 4-3 score. This game was marked by an extreme amount of body contact, and several times injured players were to be found sprawled out on the field.

The first quarter score for STC was made by Shell Clendaniel with that beautiful "cross" of his from his right wing position. Not to be outdone, Glasborough scored in the first quarter as well. The second

"ANOTHER VICTORY UNDER THEIR BELTS!"

AN APOLOGY

To the members of the Women's Hockey Team goes a sincere HOLLY LEAF apology for its failure to include their Saturday morning game in the Homecoming Schedule of Events.

Gals, believe us, it was purely unintentional and an oversight on the Editor. Certainly the hockey victory over Baltimore Junior College was one of the bright lights in what could be labeled as a frustratingly dark Homecoming Day.

Henceforth and hereafter, the HOLLY LEAF will make every effort to see that such errors are eliminated. (P.S. Thanks again for the victory!)

Skyrockets Chalk Up Two More Victories

The end of the first half of the Skyrockets' game against Towson found the score at 1-0 in favor of Salisbury. The one goal was made by left wing, Arletta West. Practically all the playing took place on Towson's side of the field, and only once did the opposing team threaten our goal. Tables turned during the second half, however, and the action ping-ponged between the two goals. All of our girls played the entire game whereas Towson had the advantage of a multitude of substitutes. What an exciting second half as the hoarse throats of Dr. Whitney, team managers, the bus driver, and cheerleaders can attest. Towson also failed to score in the second half, but their fighting spirit must be commended. Our entire team was clicking, and Helen Hansen really shone. Hospitality at Towson was tops, and I think that all the girls thoroughly enjoyed the day. Although their regular driver could not take the girls on this trip, his replacement, Mr. Gregory, was a wonderful sport. Not only could he be heard cheering Salisbury on to victory, but he was also extremely helpful in aiding the girls in their pursuit of a certain car, remember girls? Three cheers for the team and Mr. Gregory.

Homecoming Day Football Game

S - J 18 — S - F 2

The Homecoming football game between the Senior-Junior and the Sophs-Freshmen teams proved to be a sheer delight to the few spectators to witness the occasion. The final score is truly insignificant. A shaky, to say the least, first half by the S-F team proved their undoing, for after this they settled down to really give the S-J club a run for its money.

Sparking the S-J scoring drives was quarterback Martin Davis, who teamed up with Neil LeCompte to pass and run the vectors to three scoring thrusts. The first came early in the first quarter on an intercepted pass and then a 25 yard pass-run play Davis to LeCompte. The second S-J score was a straight pass play M. Davis to Chet Davis. Following this score

A vote of thanks should be given to M.A.A. President, Wayne Brittingham and his Executive Board. Last Thursday they presented to an open meeting of the M.A.A. a criteria for the Best Male Athlete which, in this writer's opinion, by far the best plan yet to be offered. It is hoped this plan will meet with the approval of the S.G.A. As of now we can see no reason why it should not.

It was stated at the meeting that it was necessary to set up this criteria first, in order to incorporate it into the M.A.A. Constitution when this is written.

This is an encouraging note and we hope work on the Constitution will be started as soon as possible. The need for it is evident.

. . . Here and There . . .

How do you explain it? This year's Varsity Soccer Team looked to many of us as one of the most promising in recent years. Results: Not one game was won all season. Why? The answer to this question would probably merit $64,000 on that now non-existent quiz program! No one seems to know! About the only answer which could be given can be summed up in one word—"Luckless." If the line played well the backs were off; if we scored two goals, they scored three. About the only thing that can be said is, "Wait 'till next year!"

Overheard in the Snack Bar was a statement by one of the members of the fairer sex, that in her opinion "Saturday's football game was the best by far." Honey, if you think that was something, wait until the Dorm-Day Hop Game!

Basketball season will be starting soon and rumor has it there will be a better squad with a bigger schedule.

Anyone interested in doing a little wrestling under college rules should get in touch with Yours Truly. There might be sufficient interest for something more than just a few workouts in the gym this year.

As most of you know, the University of Baltimore romped over us in soccer by a score of 8-0. They had two All-Americans on their squad, their center forward and their goalie.

The real thriller was the near ruin of Glasborough's Homecoming. Seem's like they just managed to sneak in the lead by a 4-3 score.

Notice to Students

(1) There are now lockers available for the use of day students in the hallway near the Resident Supervisor's Office.

(2) A suggestion box will soon appear in the Snack Bar. All constructive criticisms and plans are welcomed by the S.G.A.

Mr. Burnet begins to talk to the actor. They discuss the way the actor should walk. The everyday run-of-the-mill walk is not the walk that that particular character would have. He is a nervous, high-strung person. The actor must have a nervous, high-strung personality. His walk must show that personality. The actor understands, agrees, and begins the next scene. The second actor does not understand how to get a particular emotion over to his audience. He talks with Mr. Burnet. They work on it, decide and continue the rehearsal. The rehearsal ends. Tomorrow there will be another rehearsal. There is still the problem of publicity, make-up, ticket sales, and costumes. You leave, somewhat amazed at the difficulties in putting on a play.

But though it requires a great deal of time from those in the play, the results of the productions are well worth it. Consider for a moment the play from the standpoint of the audience. Most of our audience has rarely had the opportunity to see a classic or a foreign play. Our "play-seeing" has been confined to high school productions, somewhat different from the two plays under rehearsals now by the Sophanes Players — "The Proposal" and "Abstraction."

Next, consider the play as viewed by the actors themselves. They state that such a production is a very great experience for them, from the standpoint of meeting other students, of having the personal satisfaction of doing a job well done, of acquiring the techniques in giving a play, of having the opportunity to take part in a college activity, and one stated that it was a pleasure just to watch Mr. Burnet as he acted out the portrayal of a particular character.

Of course, in any organization there are bound to be problems and difficulties. The already mentioned problems of time is by far the biggest problem, but when Mr. Burnet was asked what he considered the biggest problem for a director, he replied in one word: "Men." It seems that there is a difficulty in all campuses for enough men to play the necessary roles. Added to this is the problem of not having a large enough stage on which to work. Though these are difficulties to be worked out in every play, these Players manage quite well and end a performance by leaving the audience richer for having attended; the Players richer for having performed.

The Sophanes Players are currently in the midst of two plays. One is "The Proposal," the story of a nervous suitor, played by Charles Toth; a belligerent daughter, played by Kathleen Jaques; and her overbearing father, played by Paul T. Hull. The daughter is 25 years of age and unmarried. Being unmarried at 25 in the days of the play meant that you were well on your way to being an old maid. The young man feels that the time has come for him to find someone who can wait upon him and decides his neighbor's daughter will do quite well.

The other play is a 15th century Japanese comedy, "Abstraction." An abstraction is a form of personal religious devotion carried on under an "abstraction blanket." The husband, played by Kenneth Kent, is supposed to be under the blanket, but the wife, Flo Droll, discovers that the servant, Ray Jones, is under the blanket instead. Could it be that the husband is with the other woman?

These two plays will be given November 20 at 7:00 and 8:30 P.M. Come to see them. They are thoroughly amusing and the Players have worked very hard to bring them to you. But though the hours that have gone and that will go into these two plays are long, the rewards are great for you, the audience, and for the Sophanes Players, the performers.

sophomore team. There was a good turnout of players, however, considering the poor planning and lack of foresight which took many of our boys away to a soccer game in Delaware.

The alumni were kept fairly busy all day with registration, tours, and renewing old acquaintances. The large number of alumni who attended the dinner were certainly not disappointed by the delicious meal and the fine talk given.

The highlight of our big weekend was the Homecoming Dance. First, I would like to commend all those who took part in making the decorations, which were quite festive and suited the mood of any Homecoming event. It's too bad that the lovely decorations could not instill the Spirit of Homecoming into those who attended. The alumni were well represented, but this cannot be said for the students. Many left early and really could not be blamed, for, I imagine, it was quite a let-down to anyone who had long anticipated the event.

I'm sure our lovely queen, Ruth Cooling, will long remember the night when she walked through the dark, and climbed to her platform, where she was crowned (without a crown) queen of such a glorious event. By the way, what is the logic behind the absence of a court for the queen? I'm sure our queen would have felt much more secure and honored had there not been such a conspicuous absence of attendants for her.

Thus endeth the long-anticipated weekend, and I ask you again... Were YOU proud of S.T.C.'s Homecoming?

quarter again found "Shell" contributing, this time with a beautiful pass to Dick Britton, who in turn shot a hard smash for the Gull's second goal. Before the period was over Glasborough again came back to score. Salisbury's third goal was scored by Richard Wilson early in the third period. Again the boys from New Jersey came back to score. After tying it up again in the third period, they squeaked home their last goal, making it 4-3.

Without a doubt, the most beautiful defensive game was played by Jerry Wilson, moved up from his full-back position to play center-half for the missing John Barnes.

This was the final varsity soccer game for the Gulls for this year.

Five goals were made during the first half as our varsity team faced B.J.C. One of these goals was made by none other than Fitz, and she beamed for the rest of the day. Congrats, gal!

Dr. Whitney put the Jayvee squad in at half time, and the girls did a tremendous job bringing the score around to a startling 8-0 at the game's end. Bev Bryan of the JV team and Cynthia Walls of the varsity team both played exceptionally well. Beth Reid displayed her good sportsmanship qualities in this game as always. Quite spectacular was the fact that Beth played full-back for B.J.C. during the second half when, because of an injury to one of their girls, the opposing team was left without a full-back. Although this game was not as exciting as the one played against Towson, it was a game to be proud of and one that more students should have attended. Thanks to the faculty that came out and supported our girls.

Here's hoping that the results of the two games of this week are as favorable as the preceding games have been. Keep up the good work.

the S-F became a little more stubborn and refused to allow themselves to be pushed around the field as easily.

Just before the half ended, Davis again looked for and found the fleet-footed LeCompte who took the ball in from a distance of about 35 yards.

Something must have happened to the S-F at halftime for the remainder of the game proved to be a little different, the only score being a safety recorded by their ball club. The S-J failed completely to take advantage of a wind in their back situation and bogged down to prevent no type of challenge to the S-F goal line.

Despite the score, things were entirely dark for the S-F club. The punting of Dick Shaner and the pass catching of Don Brewster provided the S-J with plenty of uneasy moments in a game that turned out to be fairly rough.

The best part of the entire game was that all the participants had a good time and the game was entirely free of any misunderstandings. Those few in attendance and spectators, saw a well played game with just enough body contact to make things interesting. All in all it was an enjoyable afternoon.

Requirements for the award are in three groups: the first group, varsity athletics; the second, intramural sports; the third, sportsmanship.

Varsity athletics will receive more emphasis for credit than in Intramural Athletics. It will be divided between participation and ability. In order to be eligible for Best Male Athlete, the candidate must have played on an average of one varsity sport a year for three years. A varsity sport may consist of any interscholastic competition such as soccer or basketball. The gym team shall be considered as a minor varsity sport. Credit will be given for this but not on a par with basketball or soccer.

Intramural-wise, the aspirant recipient must have participated an average of two sports for the year. He must have played at least one of these the year he receives the award.

The third phase of the criteria, sportsmanship, will receive more emphasis. Taken into consideration will be the sportsmanship exhibited in varsity athletics towards the position, in intramural sports towards the sportsmanship exhibited towards his classmates, plus the general attitude displayed towards coach and fellow players.

After much discussion and debate, the members present at the meeting voted an acceptance of this plan by an overwhelming majority.

enthusiasm is something to be about. This group will be cut down to two teams which will play members of the Wicomico County Women's League.

Co-ed volleyball under the management of Brenda Farrow and Ruby Quillen will also be getting underway in conjunction with the Friday night dances sponsored by the Social Committee. Speaking from experience in these Friday night events in the year, I know that they're lots of fun.
