Miss Addis Resigns Position at State College

Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss has announced the resignation of Miss Margaret Addis, Social Director at the College, to be effective August 1. Miss Addis is leaving to take a post in Westport, Connecticut as Supervising Counselor in Harvard University's internship program in counseling. She will be affiliated with the Westport High School.

Miss Addis has been at State College since 1950. She came here as a faculty member to serve as critic teacher in the fourth grade in the Campus School. In 1958 she was named Social Director. During the year 1962-'63 Miss Addis was on leave of absence to complete residence requirements for the Doctorate in Education at Harvard University.

Students and faculty congratulate Miss Addis on her new assignment and at the same time feel much regret at her leaving this campus. She will be long remembered here for the keenness of her interest in student welfare, both academic and extra-class. She will be further missed for many personal attributes — her musicianship, her wit, her repartee.

Miss Addis expects to continue to an early completion her dissertation which is a study of the problems in change in curriculum at the administrative level.

Dr. Devilbiss also announced the appointment of Miss Audrey Stewart as Social Director of the College, to be effective in September. Miss Stewart is the daughter of Mrs. James Nual Stewart and the late Dr. Stewart, minister for many years of the Allen Memorial Baptist Church in Salisbury. A native of Baltimore, Miss Stewart attended the Campus Elementary School of the College, Wicomico High School, and Averett College in Danville, Va., before receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Maryland. She has done her graduate work both at the University and at Salisbury State College.

It was in 1950, while she was teaching English and psychology at Wicomico Senior High School, that she earned the distinction of being Maryland's "Teacher of the Year" as part of a program sponsored jointly by the United States Office of Education and the Council of Chief State School Officers. For two years Miss Stewart was the guidance counselor at Wicomico Senior High School before her 1954 appointment as vice-principal of Wicomico Junior High School. In 1955 she served on the Superintendent's Committee on Curriculum and Supervision as chairman of the literature committee for state curriculum revision in the teaching of English. In 1962, Miss Stewart became the vice-principal of the newly opened James M. Bennett High School.

Miss Stewart's service to the Salisbury community has included her being president of the Wicomico Teachers Association and the American Association of University Women; she is currently superintendent of the intermediate department of the Sunday School at Allen Memorial Baptist Church, secretary to the Board of Trustees for the Nursing Home Project, Inc., and a member of the Home Rule Advisory Committee.

John F. Kennedy

Sterling Acknowledges Support

Terry Sterling, chairman of the John F. Kennedy Library Fund Committee, expressed his appreciation this week to the many students, faculty and administration members who contributed to the fund drive.

"I feel," the chairman commented, "we can take pride in the fact that our school will be represented in the college memorial room of the John F. Kennedy Library when it is built in Boston. The late great President was a friend to all college students and institutions . . . he was the symbol of American youth. His freshness, his idealism, and his interest in education created a bond between members of college institutions and the late President."

"Our appreciation for his efforts will be permanently shown because the forms that students signed will be bound and sent to the Kennedy Library Fund Committee in Boston. There, the bound volumes will be placed with other signatures books from colleges across the nation to await display in the college memorial room when the library is completed."

The John F. Kennedy Library Fund Drive for the college, which was held between April 28 and May 11, collected over $72, which will be sent to the national library headquarters upon completion of an audit.

Mr. Sterling was assisted by Jack Morris, Judy Murphey, William Palmer, Jolene Simms, and Norman Thomas.

Spring Concert Applauded

Students, faculty members, and Salisbury residents applauded the annual Spring Concert by the Colleg Chorus, held in the college auditorium on May 13. The concert was described as an evening of delightful entertainment by those who attended.

The program was different this year than in the past in that several college musical groups augmented the night's entertainment.

A new college ensemble, organized this semester by Dr. Frank M. Carroll of the campus music department, played selections which included Bach quartets, Beethoven Bagatelles, and recent, popular arrangements for woodwind ensembles.

Another ensemble, the Madrigal Singers, presented several selections. The singers are also under the direction of Dr. Carroll. In addition, the Ladies' Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Jessie Fleming of the college music department, sang Sir Edward Elgar's "The Snow," accompanied by Miss Margaret Addis, viola, and Mr. Richard Robinson, violin.

Students Compiling Land Use Data

One of the current courses in progress at Salisbury State College is a field course which includes a land use survey; by compiling information on rural land usage the survey will indicate the location of the most valuable land in all of Wicomico County. Offered as part of the geography department curriculum, this course represents the first comprehensive land use study made of the county as one complete unit. Prior studies have been made by local agencies which dealt only with sections of the county.

The fifteen United States Geological Survey Maps which cover the entire county provide the basis for the study. Students are recording various types of natural vegetation (swamps, forests, etc.), specific farm usage (types of crops and livestock), and the occupied urban areas, using a scale of one inch per two thousand feet. Accompanying the maps will be a description and analysis of the area and the underlying factors governing local land use. The compilation of this material which will be on file in the geography department at the college could provide valuable assistance.

Fellowships Awarded to Two Students and Two Instructors

Dr. Wilbur Devilbiss, president of Salisbury State College, has announced that two members of the faculty and two members of the graduating class have received fellowships for further study.

Charles R. Luttrell, Assistant Professor of mathematics, is the recipient of a National Science Foundation Fellowship made available for college teachers of mathematics. He will spend seven weeks this summer at Tulane University in New Orleans, La., in the first of a three-summer program sponsored by the National Science Foundation. His fellowship includes the opportunity to do advanced course work and carries an annual stipend of $1,000. This Summer

Institute for College Teachers of Mathematics is part of the program offered by Tulane in conjunction with the National Science Foundation. Mr. Luttrell received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Western Maryland College and his Master of Education degree from The Pennsylvania State University. He joined the college faculty in September of 1962.

Ralph D. Forney, Instructor in physical science and mathematics, is also the recipient of a National Science Foundation Fellowship; his summer work will be done at Carleton College in Northfield, Minnesota. The six-weeks program at Carleton is designed specifically

On June 1, 1964 at ten-thirty A.M. in the college auditorium 72 Salisbury State College seniors will become Salisbury State College alumni. Three of this number will receive the Bachelor of Arts degree in the Arts and Sciences. The Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education will be conferred upon 33 of the graduates; and one graduate will receive the Bachelor of Science degree in junior high education. Nine Bachelor of Science and 26 Bachelor of Arts degrees will be conferred in secondary education. The number of Arts and Sciences graduates at Salisbury State has increased from one in 1963 to three in 1964, with a larger increase foreseen in the future.

This increase is in accordance with the work of two educational agencies created in 1963 by the General Assembly for the purpose of converting the State Teachers Colleges into colleges of arts and science, and of establishing a coordinated system of higher education among public colleges and universities. These two agencies are the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges and the Advisory Council for Higher Education.

Commencement Speaker

The 1964 commencement speaker, Mr. William L. Wilson, of Cumberland, was appointed President of the Board of Trustees of the State Colleges in 1963 by Governor Tawes. At the Maryland Conference On Education held on January 30, 1964, Mr. Wilson made some remarks pertaining to the mission of the State Colleges of Maryland. He stated that, "The greatest measure of success in helping students to determine which area vocationally they may best adapt to has been achieved by liberal arts institutions. On the other hand, State Colleges will continue in the future as they have in the past to provide maximum facilities for the vocationally directed. The demand for teachers is great and will become greater and . . . this public need shall be fulfilled more adequately as a result of the expansion of the liberal arts program . . . Furthermore, education should have as its function a development of the whole individual rather than some part of him. In advocating this course, we are well aware that the immediate benefits to the student are less tangible than might be the case were he to do nothing but take courses in auto mechanics . . . The role of education is not to produce morning glories which die each night but to plant a seed which flowers over forty or fifty years."

Baccalaureate Service

On the day preceding commencement, May 31, 1964, at three o'clock P.M., the graduating class and the families of its members will attend the Baccalaureate service. The speaker will be Dr. Theodore H. Palmquist, D.D., of the Foundry Methodist Church in Washington, D. C. Dr. Palmquist spoke at the college Easter assembly on March 24, 1964. As a result of the very enthusiastic student response at this time, Dr. Palmquist was asked to return.

The college chorus will present selections at both Baccalaureate and Commencement. For the Commencement, they will sing "Bless Ye the Lord," by Ivanof with words adapted from Psalm 109 by John Momen and arranged by Peter J. Wilhousky. For the Baccalaureate program, the chorus will present an original composition by Maurice Howard, a member of the graduating class. His work is a musical arrangement of Psalm 141.

For commencement, the processional music will be the "Choral Procession" (Finale from "The Song of Man") by Richard Kountz. The recessional music will be played by Dr. Jessie L. Fleming and Dr. Frank M. Carroll.

Following the commencement exercises on Monday, June 1st, the graduates and their parents will attend a luncheon in their honor in the college dining hall.

Jim Cowan

Cowan Named Man of Year

James Cowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cowan of Snow Hill, was named Circle K Man of the Year by unanimous Circle K Board vote. Mr. Cowan was second vice-president for the 1963-64 college year. He was head of the project committee and was responsible for the concession at the basketball games. He set-up the Circle K car wash project. Mr. Cowan was largely responsible for the Circle K Big Weekend featuring Bingo, a dance, and the movie, "War and Peace."

With Terry Sterling, he is keeping the Circle K scrapbook, which is an historical record of the club's activities.

With Avery Saulsbury, he set up the project of the "Captain Newman, MD." charity for the Circle K Loan Fund. Details of the Loan Fund will be released next year; it won for Salisbury Circle K the Single Service Award.

Circle K Tours Missile Base

On April 22, the Salisbury Circle K Club toured the Wallops Island Installation of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). On this tour the club members saw the launch pads, and visited the computer and data processing centers. They toured several of the Radar and tracking installations on the base and were shown the intricacies of its operation. At the weather station, they found how satellites send back useful weather information.

This was the second trip in as many years for the club and it was made possible by the Salisbury Kiwanians.

New Circle K Officers Elected

On April 22, the Circle K Club of Salisbury elected the officers for the 1964-65 college year. Replacing the incumbent Jack Morris, is Jim Plutschak of Preston, present treasurer of the club. Bill Phillips will be taking the reins as first vice-president and Avery Saulsbury will be filling in as second vice-president. The club secretary is Roger Clark and the treasurer is Allen Gorsuch.

Circle K of Salisbury Shines at District Convention

The weekend of April 9-12 was the golden opportunity for the men of Salisbury Circle K. At this three day convention in Norfolk, Va., Salisbury men were in competition

MAA HAS ANNUAL ICE CREAM BUST

As usual there was a fine turnout for the annual ice cream bust sponsored by the Men's Athletic Association in recognition of letter winners for varsity sports. After his yearly "word of praise", Coach Ben Maggs and Coach Deane Deshon presented awards to the members of the varsity soccer, basketball, and baseball teams. There were several two-letter winners including Stu Palmer, winner of the Best Male Athlete on campus. Bob Osinski had the singular distinction of being the only three-letter winner at Salisbury for this year. Bob was goalie on the soccer team, center on the basketball team and the leading hitter on the baseball team with a .367 average.

Something new was added this year and will probably be continued from now on. There was a trophy awarded the Players' Player for the basketball team. This year the award went to George Cannon who did a fine job in the backcourt for us this past year.

After the awards there was a rush on the ice cream and it is a good thing that no one is supposed to be in line for everyone left with a very stuffed feeling.

The Inquiring Reporter

By Henry Trashmouth

Student apathy, classroom disinterest, desire for better grades, amount of work in college, and hope for more social life were some of the answers received by the reporter in a questionnaire circulated among students on campus. The questionnaire contained questions: "What one thing do you remember most about this year?" and "What one thing do you hope for next year?" The answers of the students are printed for the edification of the Holly readers.

"What one thing do you remember most about this year?"

When asked to relate what I remembered about the past year, the most important thing which comes to mind is the part of some of the massive links in the chain of apathy which so securely hold our school. To me, no greater could have so much significance. As young adults or the leaders of the future, we seem to fail miserably at the task of preparing ourselves for the demands of the future. This is the time when we make our decisions concerning our future directions, and our future simply going from day to day without the slightest desire to know the unknown, to strike out on our own, to find meaning. Are we machines, whose knowledge is that handed us or are we individuals, gaining knowledge for ourselves and not being uninterested adults? We are to be individuals, gaining respect of others by our deeds and without question. By breaking away from the path of apathy and by striking out on our own, then we can say that we really accomplished something, and with this accomplishment we can gain the self-satisfaction that comes with self-pride. After 12 years as an underachiever, I finally got off probation and received my first A. My father struck me most recently.

For the short period in which school was getting rid of the old and bringing in the new spirits. The New Year that was building up just before the Easter holidays was giving the students a desire to like to stay here on weekends but unfortunately it fell flat. As a special student, I was very impressed by the assistance received from the guidance counselor during my recent illness and interest of the instructors. The outstanding, and I might say encouraging aspect of the year has been the friendly atmosphere between faculty members and students.

"The thing that has struck me most this past year is the amount of time I have had to spend studying."

"The opportunity in some courses to gain practical knowledge for everyday living and to understand people and their motives. History, Government, and School in Society have been most helpful. Discussion in class and in the Snack Bar have been most beneficial. Free discussion on any issue give a broader perspective and forces you to be able to back up what you say with proof."

"I have been quite impressed with the number of cultural opportunities given the students both in quantity and quality. The speakers, coffee hours, recitals, etc., offered have been a wonderful opportunity for enlightenment and enrichment."

"What one thing do you hope for next year?"

"Next year, I hope there will be more and better social events and I hope more students will attend."

"Next year, I hope the spirit will be renewed with more students participating."

"My hope for next year would be for more classroom discussion. I realize it is not always possible to get conversations started but it is worthwhile for the teachers to initiate them."

"I hope to better myself in all ways and become a more mature person."

"The one hope for next year is to take a course in meteorology which I will personally enjoy."

"Next year, I hope to do things besides studying all the time as I believe other things are also important. People can't become well-educated just from books."

Job Listings

Miss Margaret Addis reported this week that she often receives listings of jobs from businesses on the Eastern Shore which call for summer and permanent employment. (The Social Director stated that interested students may contact her if they desire summer or permanent jobs.)

Summer jobs, which have been referred to Miss Addis, have been for part-time, duration of the summer vacation period, permanent and occasional jobs.

Miss Addis Scores Upset With WAA Team

Members of the Women's Athletic Association were topped by a "10 special award" score presented at their annual awards banquet on May 20 by Miss Margaret Addis, guest speaker for the event.

The Social Director not only stunned the WAA team with her scoring ability but she also made history by giving one of the shortest speeches in college history.

"In keeping with the current climate of award-giving," Miss Addis stated at the beginning of her triumph over the WAA warriors, "I have prepared a list of ten victory citations — selected completely at random. In making my selections, I have not let myself be limited by such things as time, order, subject or honor."

"The first honor goes to Sandy Weaver and reads as follows: for presenting to an invited speaker the most important criterion, 'about 5 minutes long,' goes the Silence Is Golden award."

"The next award is presented to all the faculty members present and is called the Remarkable Restraint award. It is given in recognition of our seeing so many of you in one place at one time and, under these most tempting circumstances, refraining from passing among you (students) with a questionnaire."

"The highest award for creative thinking, modestly referred to as E Equals MC Squared award, is presented to the unknown person who first thought of the way to end the faculty-student basketball game by engulfing those poor defenseless men in what looked like a completely mad field of yellow buttercups."

"The What's Holding You Back award is still available. It can be exchanged any time for the Good Thinking award by the Burghers IV that what their group really needs is the addition of a viola. (I don't know why Ed Burton doesn't realize that 'Scotch and Soda' could sound marvelous with a viola background; have to change the name, of course, to 'Scotch and Ice Cream Soda'.)

"Perhaps a more serious musical honor is the Wistful 'Wow' award. It is presented to Maurice Howard in only partial recognition of what a satisfaction it must be to create and perform a stunning piece of music."

"The Hateful award is given as a group honor this year and is hurled at the entire Sophanes Players cast of 'The American Dream'. By their superb portrayal of the worst in all of us, they emerge the uncontested victors."

"The Linguistics award will be given as a single or group honor. It will be presented to that person who can use the words bias and argument to enrich an exchange of ideas rather than to create a barrier warding off an intellectual exploration."

"The next award is called Subtle Victory and is related to the electoral activities of this week. Amid all the televised discussion Tuesday night, rancorous or placid, as to who really had won the election in Maryland, I suspect there is a quiet triumph in the fact that the only hour-long program that did not have both the audio and video part interrupted featured a tall, slightly-toed young man who sings a most elegant calypso song. Wouldn't it be an interesting victory if the song 'Matilda' replaced the Alabama war whoop?"

"The ninth honor, called the Gung-Ho award, is presented to the entire athletic department for their creating, amidst course demands, probation lists, meals for visiting teams, and other excused absence lists, groups like you — 'winners' all — regardless of the score board."

"The last award is the Only Seven More Days To Go award and it is presented to all of you by all of us. In your trials and tortures

CONGRATULATIONS!

Congratulations go out to the following members of the SSC campus who, on January 1, made — and kept — these New Year's Resolutions . . .

- Terry Sterling — SGA President. I will not move all the high school girls with short skirts to the front of the room.
- Pearl Hearn — House mother. If a girl comes in at 12:0032, I will forgive her and give her another chance.
- Fred Foltz — chief maintenance engineer. I will see that all sidewalks are shoveled immediately after a snow. I also will see that the Men's dormitory is never without heat in this year of 1964.
- Sam Messick — chief assistant maintenance engineer. I will always have a crease in my overalls and will wear a clean shirt everyday.
- Jonesey — assistant maintenance engineer - Men's dorm division. I will watch only two hours of television a day.
- Ruth Welch — House mother. Oh my, I will have room inspection only on announced days and will never look in other people's closets.
- Dr. Maurice Fleming — chief microscope operator. I will give all my students loving encouragement and guidance in helping to further their college careers.
- Donald Blades — student, scholar, lover. I will get shot down a maximum of ten times this year. Bang-bang.
- Miss Addis — the Elsa Maxwell of SSC. I will always wear PF Hummers at school so as not to bother students in the Student Center.
- Dean Orem Robinson — Dean of Students at SSC. I will sponsor a party for the school at the American Legion in the near future.
- Dr. William Wroten — Professor of History and other assorted weird facts. I will teach a course in GEOGRAPHY under the assistance of Mr. Farace.
- Mr. Farace — Professor of Rocks and Stuff. I will teach a course of HISTORY under the assistance of Dr. Wroten throwing in certain facts about how they couldn't have done all those things if there hadn't been soil, rocks, monadnocks, and stuff.
- Tom Lewis — resident of the campus. I will never, never hide anything in my closet.
- Willkie the W. — the Rock Hudson of SSC. I will shut at least 300 doors, take out the television four times and give 10 summons during 1964.
- Mr. Harrison — Faculty member. I will never again bring up the word "free-love" in any of my Coffee Hours.
- Coach Ben Maggs — I will bring the 1964 Olympic "mumble-de-peg" and "button, button, who's got the button" games to the SSC campus.
- Coach Deshon — assistant operator of the hi-fi in the gymnasium. I will win at least one basketball game this year.
- The students of SSC — We will study with the diligence of Sophocles, abstain from alcohol with the perseverance of Carrie Nation, abstain from sex with the integrity of Margaret Sanger, and never, above all, wear slacks or bermudas in the Snack Bar.

Maryland Has 53,564 Registered Boats; 92.5 Pct. Used for Pleasure

Statistics just released by William B. Matthews Jr., chief of the boating and recreation division of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries, reveals that as of December 31, 1963, there were 53,564 boats registered in Maryland. This is an increase of 8,414 boats since June 30, 1963, but is still 6,853 short of the number of vessels registered as of December 31, 1962.

It was pointed out that for the first time figures were available as to the types of registered vessels and their use. The largest number of boats are runabouts, of this type there are 30,183, or 56.2%; of this type, next in line come cruisers—13,104, or 24.5%; then work boats—3,142, or 5.9%; followed by 1,002 auxiliary sailboats, 1.9%; and 61 sailboats without any auxiliary power, or 0.1%. In addition to this, there were 6,072, 11.4%, boats that could not be classified as to type. As far as use is concerned, 92.5% or 49,519 are used for pleasure, with 3,695, or 6.9%, commercial vessels; and 350, or 0.6%, in other categories such as liveries, dealers, etc.

Of the total vessels registered, 35,965 are outboards, and 16,881 are powered with inboard engines. As far as the size of the boats, 19,938 are less than 16 ft. in length; 23,929 are 16 ft. to less than 26 ft.; 7,980 are 26 ft. to less than 40 ft.; 983 are 40 to 65 ft.; seven over 65 ft.; and on nine the length is unknown.

for the next seven days, there is at least one thought to make your spirits soar: where would we all be without you?"

with 19 other clubs from the Maryland, Delaware, Virginia area for four District offices and six awards.

Of the six awards, Salisbury Circle K won the Single Service Award for the most outstanding new project of the year in Circle K Capital District. They won the Lieutenant Governor's award for the most successful club in Division One. They also won the Man-Miles Award for having traveled with the most men the greatest distance.

Rick Offley returned with the honor of Lt. Governor of Division One. Rick is replacing Bob Greer in the job of Lt. Governor. He is a new club member and does not have a complete record in Circle K, but was elected on the integrity of the club and his record at Salisbury College.

George Cornmesser copped the honor of District treasurer of Circle K. He has a good record in Salisbury Circle K, and has a fine standing in the District due to his able work as secretary of the Salisbury Club. Circle K wishes both of these men much success.

Resusa Ann Visits Salisbury State
April 28, 1964 — Resusa Ann visited Salisbury State College under the chaperonage of Mr. William Stevens of Denton, Maryland. Resusa Ann is a native of Norway and is working in conjunction with Mr. Stevens, who is Job Training and Safety Supervisor of the Choptank REA Cooperative in Denton.

Resusa Ann is an inflatable, life-size dummy used to demonstrate external heart massage and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation techniques. Mr. Stevens and Resusa Ann demonstrated these techniques after an enlightening talk by Mr. Roger Clark of the Salisbury Circle K. Mr. Clark informed guests at the coffee hour of the many, and safe, methods of pulling drowning persons from the water. He also gave the guests many of the "do's and don'ts" when confronted with a water emergency.

The College Chorus presented, as the highlight of its portion of the concert, a choral arrangement of "The Nutcracker Suite" by Tchaikovsky, four love songs by Brahms and an original musical composition by Maurice Howard, class of 1965 — a musical arrangement of Psalm 21.

Another highlight of the evening was the piano duet by Mr. Howard and Dr. Carroll.

Preceding the concert, the chorus held a banquet for members and guests in the college dining hall. During this affair, special recognition was given to those members who have been in the chorus for six semesters. Students who received recognition were Susan Bennett, Beverly Bryan, George Cornmesser, Elizabeth French, Carolyn Gibson, Virginia Houchin, Tom Hughes, Ruth Myers, Sherry Nicholson, Kaye Raymond, Charles Simpson, Mary Lou Travers, and Ellen Eckenrode Wheeler.

Curriculum Additions Announced

A college administrative official announced today that there will soon be an addition to Salisbury State College's curriculum — a major in Snack Bar. Dr. Willis stated that, in accordance with standards set by the Maryland State Board of Education, the requirements will include the following courses: 12 credits in Card Playing, 6 credits in Opening Mail Boxes, 3 credits in Throwing Away Notices, 6 credits in Dieting (Prerequisite: the 3-credit course in Eating In Between Meals), 18 credits in Watching Television, and a 2-credit course in Changing Channels.

The official said that at the end of the semester, all students who have completed the required courses will be given a diploma with the inscription, "Academic Dismissal," and will shortly be looking for employment.

The Student Body extends to the following graduates its wish for success and happiness upon leaving the portals of Salisbury State College.
