Priest to Speak On War In Viet Nam

Father Raymond J. de Jaeger, missionary, author and former advisor to the late President Ngo Dinh-Diem of Vietnam, will be the guest speaker of the Salisbury State College Newman Club on Thursday evening, November 11 at 6:30 p.m. in the student center. The subject of his talk will be "The War in Vietnam."

Father de Jaeger was born in Courtrai, Belgium on September 13, 1905. After studying several years in England, he returned to Belgium where he received his M.A. degree in theology from Louvain University. As a young priest, Father de Jaeger spent several years in China where he was elected District Magistrate of An-Kwo during the Japanese War. He was in a Japanese concentration camp in Shantung, China from 1943-1945, and worked against the Communists in China until 1949. His experiences during this period are eloquently told in his book, The Enemy Within, which has been translated into seven different languages. From 1950-53, he was Regent of the Institute of Far Eastern Studies at Seton Hall University.

The next 10 years were spent in South Vietnam, where he founded two high schools for 4,000 students. He started the Free Pacific Association there, and for many years edited a daily paper and a magazine in Chinese, as well as a magazine in French, and one in English. At the same time he directed a news agency, with 30 employees, which supplied the press with daily information on Communist China.

Father de Jaeger rendered extremely valuable service to the late President Diem from 1954-63. His command of language, his long experience with the Communists in China, plus his knowledge of the people and problems in Vietnam, was so unique that Diem conferred with him for one or two hours daily during his nine years in the presidency. As a result of his position and work in the government of Vietnam, he was denoted as the second most wanted criminal in Communist China.

Currently Father de Jaeger is on a six month speaking tour of the United States, before returning to his regular work and duties.

The faculty, student body and their guests are cordially invited to attend this talk by Father de Jaeger, which will be followed by a question-answer period.

The discussion of abortion remained circular. The position and influence of the Roman Catholic Church in opposing any prohibition to life was injected into the discussion; the posture of the church on the other hand in regard to the sanctity of life and the immorality of the act of taking it was discussed.

Janet Kennedy

Miss Kennedy, a graduate of Wheaton High School, Wheaton, Md., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kennedy. She has received Dean's List recognition for academic excellence. During her college career, she has held membership in the College Chorus, Circulo Quijote (the campus Spanish Club), and the Women's Athletic Association. She has been active in the Women's Dormitory Association. Her service to the Student Government Association includes serving as representative of the Sophomore Class to the SGA Board and as secretary of the SGA Board. Currently, she serves as president of the Student Government Association.

Homecoming Promises Varied Events

SSC prepares to welcome back the alumni for Homecoming on November 6 with a well-planned program of activities.

On Friday, November 5, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., there will be a reception and tour, by invitation, of the new Music Building. The Peninsula String Ensemble will present a concert from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. Two faculty members, Dr. Jessie Fleming and Mr. Sidney Kaplan, and two freshman girls represent the college in the string ensemble. A piano solo will be given by Mrs. William Wroten. There will also be solos on the harp and the flute.

Saturday's events begin with a field hockey game at 1:15 p.m., with our SSC team opposing Philadelphia College of the Bible. At 2:30 p.m., the SSC Gulls will play the alumni in soccer. We expect to see several of our recent graduates out there proving that they "aren't so old after all."

The New Women's Dormitory offer their facilities for a tea for the Alumni from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.

The Alumni will hold a business meeting in the Main Auditorium from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Election of officers is expected to be the main business at the meeting. The Alumni Association, which was organized in 1927, elects its officers for a two-year period. The two faculty advisors to the Alumni Association are also chosen for two-year terms.

The outgoing officers are: President, Lloyd W. Harrington, Class of 1957; Vice President, Russell M. Miles, Class of 1958; Corresponding Secretary, Carol A. Knapp, Class of 1958; Recording Secretary, Lou Pritchard Marshall (Mrs. Richard L.), Class of 1958; and Treasurer, Edward W. Carey, Class of 1958. With one exception these officers live in Salisbury; Mr. Carey lives in Pittsville. The present faculty advisors are Dr. Carolyn C. Clement and Mr. James F. Glenn.

The Alumni Association of SSC, which "exists as an expression of loyalty and respect of the members for their Alma Mater," is currently involved in the organization of county and regional chapters.

There will be a buffet supper for the Alumni and the Seniors in the dining hall on Saturday from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Seniors who plan to attend must make reservations with the Social Committee by November 1. Because of crowded conditions, a problem of an ever-growing college, it has been necessary to require reservations and to modify the traditional banquet into a buffet-style supper.

The main event of the Homecoming weekend, the Homecoming Ball, will be held in the old gymnasium from 9 to 12 p.m. The dance, sponsored by the Social Committee in behalf of the SGA, will feature the Cawley Combo from Oxford, Md. The theme has not been decided. Ruby Quillen, last year's Homecoming Queen, will crown the new queen, Marilyn Taylor, who was selected by the student body of SSC.

Again, because of crowded conditions, it will be necessary to make reservations for the dance by November 1.

The weekend will close on Sunday at 8:00 p.m. with a film, "Advice and Consent," to be shown in the Campus School Auditorium.

Coffee Hour Program of CAC Begun

The first "Speaking Out" session sponsored by the Cultural Affairs Committee was aired on Wednesday night, October 20, in the College Social Room. Kathy Pierce, committee chairman, presided. The topic under discussion of some 25 students and three faculty members was "Death and the Law: Mercy Killings and Legalized Abortion."

The informal discussion led into an exchange of ideas on the definition of life. The Jewish position was described to suggest that life is life when the being emerges, and that of the Sixteenth Century Church was explained to be that which holds that life is life at the moment of conception. A further thought tossed into this exchange was the query, "Is life a heartbeat or the presence of mind?"

Coming Campus Events

By Pat Barnes

Highlighting this week's activities will be the SNEA weekend, October 29-31. For more details, see the article on page of this issue of the Holly Leaf.

The soccer field will be the scene of much activity on October 30, at 2:30 p.m. when S.S.C. meets Rutgers of South Jersey.

Carrying the discussion into the area of morality, the question was raised as to who is to judge when a life is worth living. This question was precipitated by the conjecture that a life without any comfort to the individual, a life of imbecility, to wit, was actually not life worth living. One student suggested the theory that the lives of those sustaining such a life might be enriched, the "cross to bear" concept of moral growth.

"Who is to judge" was a question that was found unanswerable. The physician? Those nearest and dearest? More than once was it argued that only God could indicate the answer to the question "who shall live?" This position was countered by the position of the person who does not accept the orthodox view of religion.

Women's Sports

By Bettie Messick

During the women's field hockey game several days ago, there was some question by the men on the sidelines as to what are "sticks" and "advancing".

The S.S.C. field is five yards less than the usual width of sixty yards, but is the same length of a hundred yards.

The game starts with a bully—two girls facing each other, hitting the ground and sticks three times and then hitting the ball.

That girl in the cage is a goalie, but it is possible that the men know what she does since they have one on their soccer team.

Attention, women of the College! If any of you are interested in managing bowling or softball, speak up; we need your services.

Reminder . . . All W.A.A. meetings are open to attendance by anyone.

P. S. Congratulations, men for your win at Gallaudet. Keep up the good work!

The Poor Man's Socrates

By Don Parks Biography

or A Midsummer Night's Dream

Izadore was purchased in the bargain basement at Macy's Department Store for $2.98. His mother, a very poor working woman whose position as busboy for the department of sanitation didn't provide enough income for a cash purchase, had him put on the lay-away plan.

Early in life, Iz developed a deep interest in the moon. Often he would sit for hours staring at it and wishing he could go there to meet the man in the moon, and eat some of the green cheese.

FACTS AND VIEWPOINTS

" . . . that when any government becomes unjust to these ends [life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness] it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and establish a new government laying its foundations upon such principles . . . "

This is one of the greatest statements, in the history of the world, concerning the right to revolt, but America has become fat and lazy in her old age and is afraid of the word 'revolution'.

She meets all the qualifications of a state, Mao is the legitimate ruler, and China is no more jingoistic than some of the other members. Here we must remember that China, as the Russians were, is a first generation revolutionary and wants to spread her ideas by force.

We cannot wait 17 years, as in the case of Russia, to recognize China; it must be now. The situation in Southeast Asia is too explosive and with China building nuclear weapons the possibility of a third world war, a war that would destroy all the advances man has made, looms bright on the horizon.

Now I am not saying that the recognition of Red China would solve all the problems of the world — not by a long shot — but it would be a giant step forward. If the United States recognized Red China, which would guarantee her acceptance into the United Nations, we could deal with them directly.

After this, Southeast Asia could be made into a neutral zone under the direction of the non-committed members of the United Nations. Also the recognition of Red China would extend mutual understanding and the exchange of ideas between the Chinese and American peoples and thus eliminate one of the greatest causes of war, which is the ignorance of another people's way of life.

bands. When he got 13 zillion of them, he started his great scientific experiment. In his back yard he built a giant slingshot aimed squarely at the moon.

Love blossomed one cloudy day while Iz was visiting his birthplace at Macy's. While browsing around the toy department, he fell madly in love with a walking, talking Barbie doll.

To such an exciting and full life as Izadore's, tragedy surely awaits. The doom and gloom of sorrow fell on our hero's shoulders one day as he sat on a street corner with Ralph eating limberger cheese and drinking after-shave lotion.

ON RELIGION

educated and supposedly cultured people.

Orthodoxy dictates that faith is the only hope of salvation. Modernism (as Tillich defines it) embodies the "new being" idea, so all men are "saved," (using the old terminology). Liberalism states that salvation, as such, is unattainable, since no such salvation exists.

(1) Revelation: Theologians have attempted to show that revelation is dynamic, not static; event, not mere information; existential, not intellectual; God's personal presence, not a piece of writing; holy history and not holy writings.

Orthodoxy, in all its versions, believes that theology can originate only in truth, be the explication of truth, and be controlled by truth. If revelation is not at least truth, then Christian theology is impossible, since no reliable, authentic theology can be built from non-truth materials.

Whenever revelation is defined exclusively as insight, or religious experience, or existential communication or a felt presence, then that view is orthodox. It is not true that the orthodox theology fears the existential, the symbolic, the mythological, the divine as a Mysterious Presence.

This is in direct contrast to modern and liberal views as propounded by Tillich and Brunner. Both feel that revelation is non-logia in essence throughout, and that it is but an expression of self-understanding.

(2) Incarnation: The stance of orthodox Christology in all the various communions concerning incarnation is the unpredicted and unpredictable, sovereign, gracious, and absolute entrance of God into this world and our humanity in the person of Jesus Christ.

(3) Sin: Sin has evolved in its meaning to the concept of the present-day modernistic and liberalistic theologian, that of an expected human foible.

meaning to the concept of the present-day modernistic and liberalistic theologian, that of an expected human foible. It is like making an error in mathematics, burning a cake or belching in public.

No orthodoxist wishes to minimize the destructive effects of evil in personal or social life. No orthodox theologian wants to judge heartlessly the poor victims of environmental influences leading directly to distasteful or unwanted social deviations.

(4) Salvation and Sacrament: Of course, to fundamentalists, salvation consists of the sacrificial death of Christ and his resurrection, and the faith of the believer in this as both an historical and spiritual happening.

In liberalism, it is useless to talk of either. The only "attitude" to be "saved" from is one of complete irreligion which takes on a very uncultured, distasteful colour in the eyes of anyone who claims any dignity whatsoever.

(5) The Church: The church has become, as previously stated, a natural, human, non-supernatural religious community, in which natural ties, common heritages, a common belief in some sort of uniqueness of Christ, and a more-or-less ethic of love, has altered itself into, "Do unto thy neighbor before he doeth unto you!"

The conclusion is that there is a continental divide in contemporary theology. Despite the present confusion, pardon my conservatism, but I rest my case on orthodoxy, the right side of this great continental divide in contemporary theology.

Senator Phoebus To Speak At SNEA Meeting

Senator Harry T. Phoebus, Jr., of Somerset County, was invited by Joe Drewier, president of the local SNEA, to speak at their meeting on October 27, at 7:00 p.m. in the Student Center. The

Men's Sports

By Wayne Powell

Again this issue soccer action is in the top of the news. Four away games and one home contest have highlighted the sports scene at S.S.C. since our last column.

It's said that things are always darkest before the dawn. This was particularly true in our case. The opening day loss to Philadelphia College of the Bible was followed in quick succession by losses to the Navy "B" squad, U. of Maryland "B" squad, Glassboro State and Eastern Baptist College.

No orthodoxist wishes to minimize the destructive effects of evil in personal or social life. No orthodox theologian wants to judge heartlessly the poor victims of environmental influences leading directly to distasteful or unwanted social deviations.

In other soccer action previous to this, the Gulls' dropped the second game of the season to Navy "B" in Annapolis by a score of 3-1.

A fourth quarter goal by Wyatt Wallace averted a shutout in the contest. On October 6th the Gulls travelled to College Park, only to drop a 4-2 decision to the Maryland "B" squad.

Loss number four came in the first home contest on October 9th versus Eastern Baptist. That day, victory just wasn't in the cards for the Gulls. Most of the action was in Eastern Baptist territory but goalie Rozert Milch registered 3 saves to stop the Gulls without a score.

Still remaining on the Gull schedule are away games with Towson and Frostburg and two home contests with Rutgers (South Jersey) and the SSC Alumni. This means the Gulls will have the opportunity to even their season record at 5-5 and we'll all be pulling for them to do just that.

Senator's topic was "Legislative Aid to Maryland Education." After his speech the floor was open for any questions from those present. Refreshments were served at the meeting.

NOTICE

All students are urged to attend Veterans Day Memorial Services, Sunday, Nov. 7, at 2 p.m. in the Wicomico Youth and Civic Center. It will be a memorial to America's war dead as well as a tribute to American fighting men in Vietnam.
