

Record Number Achievement Keys Awarded

On Tuesday, April 11, Salisbury State College saw the largest number of achievement keys awarded in the history of the college. The eligible five per cent of the student body were, in the eyes of the committee making the awards, had merited the honor.

A not common occurrence in the history of the college was the four-year award earned by Miss Margaret Kozich. Her key will bear the coveted diamond, symbol of continuing contribution to the college in service and of academic excellence.

Those receiving the Key and other honors with citations from President Wilbur Devilbiss were as follows:

Miss Kathleen R. Barrett of Colora, Miss Karen Elizabeth Wright of Cambridge, Mrs. Elaine M. Baker of Salisbury, Mrs. Joan McDorman Farrow of Princess Anne, Misses Julia Ann Brittingham and Frances Anne Ritchings of Salisbury, Miss Patricia French Crewell of Baltimore, Mrs. Frances Gibbons Dykes of Princess Anne, Mrs. Jane G. Henry of Cambridge, Miss Barbara Joy LeGates of Milton.

Also, Miss Cheryl Louise Meyers of Reisterstown, Mrs. Joanna S. Donovan and Mrs. Judith Ferrand Handy of Salisbury, James-Milton Felts of Dundalk, Miss Nancy Louise Jackson of Cambridge, Miss Margaret A. Kozich of Federalsburg, Miss Barbara Joan Leahy and Mrs. Effie D. Young Lewis of Onancock, Ira Ted Lewis Jr. of Milford, and Barry William Tull of Pocomoke City.

The title of best male athlete has been won by Michael Garrick of Crisfield. Miss Anita Webster of Chance has merited the honor of being named as the woman who has contributed most to the woman's athletic program.

"Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges": Miss Linda Bennett of Salisbury, Miss Margaret Ellen Kozich of Federalsburg, Martin C. Buskirk of Elkton, Ira Ted Lewis Jr. of Milford, Walter Clayton Scarborough of Snow Hill, Wilson Benson Sturgis and Barry William Tull of Pocomoke.

College Library Gets High Rating

(from the Daily Times)

Baltimore (AP)—A study done by a New York consulting firm says that just about every publicly supported college library in Maryland is below the minimum standards set by the American Library Association.

The study was made by Nelson Associates and was commissioned by the State Advisory Council for Higher Education.

The survey, released Wednesday, said the coordination of libraries and inter-library cooperation, the original object of the study, would not be feasible until basic collections at each institution are brought up to minimum standards.

Institutions covered in the survey covered the University of Maryland in College Park and its Catonsville campus, Coppin, Frostburg, Maryland, Morgan, Salisbury and Towson state colleges.

Only Salisbury State, said the survey, approaches American Library Association standards.

Frostburg State, Morgan State, and Towson State were judged the most inadequate in the survey.

Gail Pippig and Mike Garrick Named Miss and Mr. SSC 1967

Mr. and Miss Salisbury State are elected each year by the student body. These awards are bestowed upon those students exhibiting outstanding qualities of citizenship, character, school spirit, devotion, and leadership. This year the student body has named as recipients of this award Miss Gail Pippig and Mr. Michael Garrick.

Miss Pippig is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pippig of Annapolis, Md. She has been an active participant in campus organizations. A WAA board member she has been a member of the hockey team and serves this year as the chairman of co-ed volleyball. She was elected queen of the Christmas dance in 1966 and was queen of the Alumni Homecoming this year. She presently serves as secretary of the senior class. She has received the honor of having been named to the Dean's List twice. An elementary education major, Miss Pippig plans to teach in Anne Arundel County next year.

Mr. Garrick, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Garrick of Ellicott City, Md., has also been most active in campus life. He has served as treasurer of the SGA, president of the Sophanes Players, president of the MDA, and president of his sophomore class. He has been a member of the Canterbury Club and the Cultural Affairs Committee. He presently serves as president of the Student Government Association. A biology major in Arts and Sciences, Mr. Garrick plans to go into Naval Aviation upon his graduation in June.

College Offers Seminar Under Wye Aegis

Salisbury State College, for the second year, is conducting a seminar program in history for able high school students from the surrounding counties of Caroline, Talbot, Dorchester, Wicomico, Worcester, and Somerset. Approximately 100 students and some high school teachers are participating in the program which began on March 11, 1967, and will close on April 15, 1967.

Made possible by a grant from the Wye Institute, the seminars have been planned by the History Department of Salisbury State College, Dr. William H. Wroten, Jr., Chairman. Dr. Wroten also serves as coordinator-director of the project. The project deals with the general topic: "Cultural Contributions of Major World Areas." The seminars are designed to give able high school students the opportunity to examine, by means of lecture and discussion, important ideas in the academic area of history.

This year's program began with a lecture on Europe by Dr. A. Nayland Page, Associate Professor of History at Salisbury State College. The second lecture, by Dr. Millard G. LesCallette, Professor of History at SSC, dealt with Asia.

Dr. W. Worthington Waters, Dean of Students at Morgan State College, will present a lecture on Africa and will show slides of his recent trip to that area. He will also display artifacts of the culture of the region.

The last two lectures of the series will be given by Dr. Page and Dr. Wroten, and will deal with South America and North America.

Students participating in the program will also tour the campus facilities and will be given the opportunity to get some introduction to the academic community.

SGA Board Gives Progress Report

From the Student Government Association Board:

As head of the organization on campus charged with representing the students and coordinating its activities, I feel a progress report of the Board's actions should be submitted to its members.

As most of you know, after one of the longest series of balloting in contemporary history (exceeded only by one held in Assyria in 1894) a new SGA constitution was adopted. The major changes are in the following areas: first, a change in representation to add members elected at large; and second, a change in the number needed to pass an amendment to the constitution. Previously an amendment required the affirmative vote of 2/3 of the students; it must now have the approval of 2/3 of those students voting. The following deletions have been made: May Queen, Powers and Duties of the Executive Committee, Election of Major and Minor Offices, Election of Campus Leaders, and Voting Regulations. Most of these were placed in a set of by-laws (which will soon be voted upon). The adoption of a new constitution and the preparation of a set of by-laws represent the completed tasks.

There are several other areas where the Board has started committee action. A group has been appointed to study the process of faculty evaluation. There is also a possibility that we may invite other college SGA's to participate in a series of discussions as to the purpose of Student Government Associations.

I have contacted the Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to determine the feasibility of a student discount program in the stores up-town.

We have voiced support on a decision, in the City Council, to check on the possibility of placing signs without the city limits and

SGA Elections Slated for April 28

On April 28th the SGA will hold its annual election for selection of the 1967-1968 officers. In this election the Executive Committee and the Representatives-at-large will be elected.

To become a candidate for an executive office a person must fulfill all requirements stated in the SGA Constitution. The candidate must then submit a letter of nomination to the elections committee between April 1 and April 15.

The SGA Nominations Assembly will be held on Tuesday, April 18 at 2 p.m. in Holloway Hall Auditorium. At the assembly the candidates for Representatives-at-Large will be nominated from the floor. Then, the candidates for all executive officers except President will be introduced. The nominating speech and campaign speech of each presidential candidate will also be made at this assembly. The ten days between the nominations assembly and the election will be used for campaigning.

Each class must nominate its class officers by April 30 and conduct their elections by May 20. All other organizations having corporate membership in the SGA will nominate and elect their officers by May 20.

A candidate executive office may leave his nomination addressed to the elections committee in the college post office.

Attorney Discusses Invasion of Privacy

Should the public be concerned because their privacy is being invaded and they have no means of legal protection? This was a question that Mr. William Adkins asked last Thursday night in the Caruthers Auditorium. Mr. Adkins, who received his Bachelor of Law degree from Harvard Law School in 1952 and who is presently serving as Chairman of the Advisory Commission on Human Rights for Maryland, maintained that there is an increasing concern for preserving one's privacy. With the invention of new techniques for eavesdropping, it seems easier to disregard the individual and his interests in his dignity and privacy. The concept of the home as a refuge from the government and from political prosecution dates back to early history, and the protection of this right has been guaranteed to Americans in the Fourth Amendment of the Constitution. This security, however, has been limited to forbid physical intrusions, and the Supreme Court has made its decisions accordingly. In the case of Goldman versus the United States, 1940, the police used detecto-phones to hear on the other side of a wall. The device doesn't penetrate the owner's premises, so the Court decided that since there had been no physical invasion, there was no violation of the Fourth Amendment. Eleven years later in the case of Silverman versus the United States, a similar issue was involved. In this instance a spike mike, which can convert an air duct or a heating system into a broadcasting system for the installer, was utilized. Because someone's property had been physically invaded, the evidence was illegally obtained and therefore discarded.

In the protection of a free conscience and of human dignity, Mr. Adkins stated that a physical or nonphysical penetration is no valid means for determining if privacy has been invaded. Certainly the people who drew up the Constitu-

MEN'S SPORTS

By Wayne Powell

Baseball season is almost with us again. Practices have been underway for a good while and, according to SSC varsity baseball coach Deane Deshon, prospects for the new season are very bright. Coach Deshon, who is entering his fourth season as the Gull's coach, has piloted the Gulls to an overall record of seven wins and thirty-three losses. Despite this, the Gulls posted a 5-9 record under Deshon and he happily reports that nearly all of his mainstays on the successful '66 squad will be back in uniform for the 1967 edition.

Pitching will probably be one of the Gulls' strong points this year and the workhorses of the mound staff will again be sophomores Phil Briggs and Ray Shingler. Briggs led the pitching staff in ERA, wins, strikeouts and several other categories last year. The right hander had an ERA of 2.70 and struck out 80, while walking only 9 in the 1966 campaign. Ray Shingler is also looking for a good season in 1967. Ray pitched very well last year, but was severely handicapped by the inability of his teammates to score any runs while he was on the hill.

Doug Ashby will be the Gulls' first-string catcher again this year. Playing his fourth season for Coach Deshon's Gulls, Ashby is looking forward to a good year behind the plate — the kind he always has — as well as hiking his batting average.

The infield is almost completely intact. Among the returning players are sophomores Steve Land, Al Planner and Harry Neill, and the Gulls leading hitter in the '66 campaign, junior Bob Jester. Coach Deshon is hoping the other infielders will follow Jester's leadership in hitting and that all four will continue their good defensive play.

Among the Gulls' outfielders for 1967 are junior Woody Ward — who hopes to bring his average back up to the .300 mark after somewhat of a hitting slump that saw it fall below the magic mark last year. Also, there is Denny Marriott, a speedy sophomore who also chipped in with quite a few key hits last year.

So just from this observation, one can readily see the basis for Coach Deshon's optimism. Several other good prospects for the '67 season have been omitted in this brief outlook. But on opening day, they all will be there and will all do their part to make the '67 season the Gulls' first winning one. And so, we can justly be filled with optimism as we await the sound of "Play Ball!"

One final note of congratulations should go to Coach Deshon before we close the books on basketball. He was named the "Coach of the Year" for the Maryland Intercollegiate Conference for piloting the Gulls to a much improved 6-12 record over the past season. To Coach Deshon, from the Holly Leaf Sports Department — CONGRATULATIONS!

Jazz Concert Heard With Mixed Reaction

On Saturday night, April 1st, a concert was given in the Holloway Hall main auditorium by the American Jazz Ensemble. Heading off the program was a Hindemith "Sonata for Flute and Piano." Second on the repertoire went to another "Sonata for Flute and Piano." (mainly because the ensemble had no sousaphone). This sonata was a Bartok creation. Then, with great impatience, the group skipped a suite written by their leader John Eaton to introduce the Solo Syn-kef which turned out to be a poor receiving short wave radio with a keyboard channel tuner. Finally, the ensemble went into improvisation which most certainly better suited their talents as well as their attire. The improvisations made up the remaining section of the concert introducing the audience to, at moments, structural excellence and, at other moments, amateurish chaos.

Hindemith's "Sonata for Flute and Piano" was based on four contrasting sections. The first, a "Serene Movement," utilized the light, gentle, echoing vibrato of the flute to present a twilight-whippoorwill situation. Moving into the solemn "Very Slow" second movement, the ensemble embraced a solemn attitude with dynamic crescendoes. The group then thundered into the "Very Lively" third movement which was, in essence, lively and bright to become rigid and formal in the concluding march. The sonata, while not lending itself to virtuosity, in this case, was effective.

All I can say about the second work on the program, Bartok's "Sonata for Flute and Piano," is that it most certainly was the epitome of dissonance for it definitely lacked that lyrical quality.

Next, with elaborate introduction, Eaton performed on the electronic sound synthesizer, the Syn-kef. How he captured twenty thousand chattering monkeys, a B-52 Bomber, twelve hundred starved canaries, a flock of buckshot-infested geese, one dripping faucet, a countryside full of locusts and frogs, a herd of stampeding elephants, and Budweiser's Clydesdales on their way to the American Legion in one machine is beyond me. This original composition that Eaton performed united these sounds with a form that I could discern at times. Finally, the elephants ate the canaries and the horses trampled the locusts and it was all over.

Next, the Intermission, which was very effective to those music students who had to step out and take aspirin, befell the auditorium. When the lights went down once again, a segment of complete improvisation started.

First, a take-off on "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" was performed by the group. Consisting of mass intermingling expression with occasional references to the original tune, this work was a cool mixture of stalwart patriotism and savory ecstasies.

Their second improvisation was based on the "blues sound." "Lover Man" was a lush, quiet and melodic piece and, in my opinion, the highlight of the performance.

Next, the flute combined love calls with the Syn-kef to "swing" in a weird fashion. In this work, the flute imitated many of the sounds created by the Syn-kef giving a stereo effect. This piece was accentuated by a very well executed bass solo.

Fourth in the ensemble's repertoire of improvisation was the old-time favorite, "My Funny Valentine." To improvise on this Rodgers and Hart tune was, in my opinion, a tragic mistake. The piece was brief, however, and I did hear the melody once or twice.

Concluding the improvisations and the concert, the American Jazz Ensemble ad-libbed around the song, "What Is This Thing Called Love?" One of the biggest pleasures of the evening came with the drummer's solo included in this presentation. Not only surrounding himself with the sounds of his equipment but feeling every movement, placing an accent where it was due and purposely initiating every movement, the drummer made the listener forget that there were no flute, bass or piano playing.

SSC Girls Score Second at Towson

On Saturday, March 11th, at 5:00 a.m., 28 sleepy Salisbury girls, Dr. Whitney, and Miss Morrison departed for the college sports day to be held at Towson State College. After a leisurely breakfast at the English Grill (no one was awake enough to do anything quickly) Salisbury's athletes boarded the bus to sleep for another two hours before they had to perform their particular skills.

They reached Towson at about 8:45 a.m., at which time they registered. Coffee and doughnuts were served until all the schools had arrived. This was the opportune time for our girls to analyze the opposing teams from Towson, Morgan State, Mt. Saint Agnes, and Notre Dame. After they had sufficiently studied them, the different teams separated, with volleyball and badminton going to Towson High School, the bowling team reporting to bowling lanes near the school, and the basketball team remaining on the campus.

Representing our different sports were Lin Thater (manager), Donna Chimielewski, Cindy Hammond, Linda Hemmings, Nancy Kephart, Terry Miller, Lynn Robertson, Merry Spense, Anita Webster and Bonnie Wingrove for basketball; Jo Anne Barton, Nelda Caulk, Sandy DuVall, Judy Fisher, Nancy Gifford, Nancy Jackson, Sharon Meredith and Ann Woerle for volleyball; Helen Scheibelhofer, Pam Pich, Linda Larson and Caroline Bertling for bowling, and Kathy Farrell, Sandy Grimsey, Nancy Ranneberger and Marge Redden for badminton. Each girl put forth her best effort so that Salisbury won the award for second place for the overall sports day.

The points gained for each sport were compiled to make the total score of the day. Morgan State had the highest score, with Salisbury State coming in second, followed by Notre Dame and Mt. Saint Agnes.

Comparing our four Salisbury teams, volleyball won the most games; they were beaten only by Morgan State. Next was the bowling team that managed to defeat Mt. Saint Agnes and Notre Dame but bowed to Towson State and Morgan State. Our basketball team suffered three losses but were proud to have defeated Towson State. The badminton players came in second to Towson.

At 3:00 p.m., all athletic competition ended and the entertainment began. All the representatives from the five schools joined together to do everything from singing folk songs to dancing the "hokey pokey."

At 4:00, 28 tired but happy Salisbury girls, a sleepy Miss Morrison and a wet Dr. Whitney (due to quite a sudden spring shower) once again stepped into the bus, this time to return to Salisbury from a day well spent.

Mayhem Verges On Revival

Yes, Salisbury — there will be a MAYHEM — if you want it! Those rumors you've been hearing are for real. The Inter-Dormitory Council is attempting to revive MAYHEM — the zany, crazy, anything-goes satirical review of a few years ago.

To keep this effort from catching that fatal disease — APATHY — your help is desperately needed. Dorm students and day hops, faculty and staff, here's your chance to become musical comedy stars, gain fame and fortune, win friends and influence people, and while singing and dancing your way into the hearts of SSC, obtain a truly meaningful educational experience at no extra cost.

WOMEN'S SPORTS

By Barbara Lewis

ATTENTION GUYS! — & GIRLS — The next date for Co-Ed volleyball is April 15.

Each year the W.A.A. makes bicycles available to students. The bikes are now out and ready for use. They may be rented for a small fee. Anyone wishing to use the bikes should see JoAnn Barton or Carol Broderick in Manokin Hall or Ann Dietrich and Linda Dennis in Holloway Hall.

Thanks and congratulations to those girls who attended the Towson Sports Day on March 11 as they placed second among the five colleges represented.

The basketball team, after having lost two games to Bridgewater, was victorious in its last outing as the girls defeated Bowdoin by a score of 37-31.

Our volleyball teams have not been too successful of late as the Skyrockets lost two games to Coldwater, and the Torpedoes were defeated in three games by Hebron.

A Co-Ed badminton tournament is being planned for the last weekend in April. Also, a tennis tournament will begin in mid-April.

The W.A.A. is sponsoring its annual high school play day on April 15. Ten schools in Somerset and Wicomico Counties have been invited. A volleyball tournament will be held in the morning. Following lunch and some entertainment, tours of the campus will be available.

Intramural volleyball will begin after Easter. Anyone interested should sign up now. Lists have been posted in the dorms and in the Student Union.

Lin Thater and Nelda Caulk will travel to Wisconsin to attend the national convention of the A.R.F.C.W. (Athletic and Recreation Federation for College Women).

The annual W.A.A. Banquet will be held on May 17.

Girl Cagers Play Bridgewater College

The girls' basketball team left S.S.C. at 10:00 a.m., Friday, February 24, for a J.V. and Varsity game at Bridgewater, Virginia.

Everyone enjoyed a pleasant trip; but the steep and winding mountain roads were quite an experience for some. About 4:30 that evening, the team arrived at Bridgewater College, thanks to the safe driving of Mr. Hall. The team was led to its quarters for the night. The room was not heated and the temperature inside was comparable to the outside temperature of 20 degrees.

At 7:00 that evening, our girls battled the opposing team and found them to be more than they could overcome. The J.V. team thus prepared itself and attempted to overcome some of the humility suffered by the Varsity. They were also defeated by Bridgewater by a score of 42 to 23.

The girls retired for the night hoping to leave Saturday morning for B.J.C. But, unfortunately, the temperature dropped during the night to five degrees below zero and froze the fuel lines in the bus. Much thanks to Mr. Hall who worked until eight that evening trying to repair the lines. The girls spend those 12 hours playing cards, playing hand ball, or just relaxing. A bus finally arrived at 8:30 p.m., to return the girls to S.S.C.

Sophanes Players Prepare Final Play

The Sophanes Players of Salisbury State College have started rehearsals for their final major production of the year, "The Importance of Being Earnest," by Oscar Wilde. The play is a witty, satirical comedy in which two young men seek the hands of two young ladies in spite of social obstacles. The obstacles are the two young men: one has very little family background, having been found in a handbag in Waterloo Station; the other has lived a life of indolence for so long that there is some doubt that he has the energy to fall in love. Both face an additional obstacle — their chosen loves can only cherish a man named Ernest, and neither qualifies. A baptism is planned to overcome one of the difficulties and the others are resolved in a revelation scene in the last act.

Assisting Mrs. Jacqueline Oberfrank who is production manager, is Miss Cheryl Zeitschel. Miss Zeitschel has performed with the

OPUS #17

Who was there the day he cried
Who did mourn him when he died?

Who was there to see that tear
That wandered down that face of fear?

You were there, as was I
And we did mourn him by and by
We were there the day he cried
And so we mourned the day he died.

And who did see when they put him deep,
Amid the things that crawl and creep?

And who did cry when they covered him low
Under the cold and icy snow?

We did see, and we did weep,
That day we knew he'd forever
sleep,
Beneath the ground like a planted
seed,
Plowed under, for some insect's feed.

But now he's gone and forever
dead
And his forgotten name is never said.

So he lies and waits for the Golden Hook,
Lonely fool, betrayed by a lying Book.

Players previously. Her most recent appearance was that of Mrs. Barker in "The American Dream." The cast is as follows: John Worthing, John O'May; Gwendolyn Fairfax, Sharon Leonard; Lady Bracknell, Helen Collins; Miss Prism, Carol Klemm; Maid, Judy Mueller; Lane, Lee Jackson; Reverend Chasuble, Bruce Ruark; and Algernon Moncrieff, Eric Rudert. Mr. O'May and Miss Leonard have most recently appeared in the Players' production of "U. S. A." Miss Klemm's last service for the drama group was her student production of "The American Dream" in which both Miss Collins and Mr. Jackson appeared. Miss Mueller was last seen in the student production of "Hello Out There", and Mr. Troublefield's last performance was in "Summer and Smoke." Mr. Williams is new to Sophanes, but he has had previous experience in Gilbert and Sullivan operettas.

The construction and running crew for this play is composed of Linda Wehr, Sue Schmidt, Mike Garrick, Bill Montgomery, Luck Moore, Eric Rudert, Doug Schenker, Kitty Kestner, Sharon Leonard and John O'May.

Working on stage properties is Sue Dameron, and on costume are Patricia Creswell, Silva Kaysonar and Anne Ritchings.

With this talented cast and able crew this production promises to be a good one.
