Success Calls for Sacrifice.
What sacrifices are you willing to make to attain your ambition—that position or thing you desire above all else? Are you willing to cut out luxuries and pleasures, to dismiss the hundred and one little desires that you have been accustomed to gratify?
Have you the grit and pluck to stand all manner of discouragement to struggle on without losing heart;
to get up again every time you fall?
Upon this will depend your future or success.—Orison Swett Marden in

WARREN G. HARDING AND CALVIN COOLIDGE ELECTED BY A GREAT MAJORITY

Record-breaking Pluralities in Many States Show That the Republicans Have Received the Greatest Popular Vote

G. O. P. RETAINS CONTROL OF BOTH SENATE AND HOUSE BY INCREASED MAJORITIES, WIN-NING NEARLY ALL OF THE STATES IN WHICH REAL CON-TESTS WERE MADE.

New York.—In the largest vote ever polled in a Presidential contest in this country, the Republican party achieved an unprecedented victory.
Warren G. Harding and Calvin
Coolidge, the Republican nominees for President and Vice-President were elected by the largest popular plurality ever recorded. They carried all the Northern States east of the Rocky Mountains and California west of them, with the prospects, favoring further acquisitions that will give the Republican candidates in excess of 250 votes in the electoral college.

California.—The Republican party from the following States: California,
Connecticut, Colorado, Delaware,
Idaho, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont,
Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Because of the participation of women voters, which increased the electorate to probably 28,000,000, the pluralities given all candidates were without precedent in the political annals of America. In the State of New York, for instance, the Harding-Coolidge ticket received a plurality over the Cox-Roosevelt ticket exceeding 1,100,000.

The Republican landslide in the Empire State did not, however, extend to the gubernatorial contest the latest figures available showing that Miller received a plurality totaling 377,575 in districts north of the Bronx, while Smith, his Democratic opponent, carried the city by an increased plurality of 214,000. The Republican Presidential ticket has achieved for the second time in the political history of the State, the feat of carrying every borough in this city. Brooklyn alone giving it between 100,000 and 150,000.

The same story was told in returns from every other State north of the Potomac river. Pennsylvania gave the Harding ticket more than 500,000 votes. California provided an impressive 1,100,000 for the Republican ticket, although the 100,000 Illinois by 500,000, of which Chicago contributed 250,000.

The States from which returns were too meagre to justify actually placing them in either the Harding or Cox columns were: Arizona, 3; Minnesota, 12; Missouri, 13; Montana, 4;
Nevada, 3; New Mexico, 3; Oklahoma, Tennessee and Utah, 4.

The States which were certain for Cox were Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana,
Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia, a total of 127 votes in the Electoral College.
Returns leave little room to doubt that the Republicans elected the ma-

Necessary to a choice, 266.

The Democrats apparently carried Kentucky for both the Presidential and Senatorial candidates. With one-tenth of the vote of Missouri tabulated, Harding had a lead over Cox of 1,500.

The New York State Legislature will be overwhelmingly Republican.
In addition to carrying the city of New York, Harding carried 22 upstate New York cities.

The vote for the Senatorial candidates fell below the estimated number.

HARDING PRAYS FOR STRENGTH.
President-Elect Says He Does Not Regard Victory As Personal.

Marion, O.—Convinced of his election to the Presidency, Warren G.
Harding issued a statement saying that instead of being exultant over the result he was "more given to praying to God to make me capable of playing my part."

Receiving the election returns at his home here, Mr. Harding declined during the early evening to make any comment and issued his statement only after the figures had piled up majorities for him which his advisers declared made his election certain.

At the same time it became known that the Senator and Mrs. Harding had made plans for a vacation trip, to be carried out regardless of the election, taking them for a rest next week in Texas, and after that for an ocean voyage to the Panama Canal Zone.
They will return to Marion during early December.

COOLIDGE SEES NEW PERIOD NEAR.
Says Victory Means Returns To The Constitution.

Boston.—Governor Coolidge received returns from the election with friends at the Hotel Touraine. Early in the evening he issued a statement thanking the voters for their support and expressing assurance of victory. The statement follows:
"It is with a great deal of gratitude that I have seen by the incoming returns the extent of the victory and have realized its source. While I rejoice in its great proportions, I rejoice even more in the nature of the support we have received. It means the end of a period which has seemed to substitute words for things, and the beginning of a period of real patriotism and true national honor. It means a return to the Constitution, and an end of extravagance, and a Government by the people at home."

Berlin School Has Big Enrollment.

Splendid Attendance Record For October.
Reports from Berlin teachers to the county superintendent's office for the month of October show that more children are on roll here than ever before at any one time. The following are the figures:

Elementary.
First Grade, 45.
Second " 37.
Third " 38.
Fourth " 31.
Fifth " 26.
Sixth " 42.
Seventh " 32.
Total, 291

High School.
First Year, 55.
Second " 24.
Third " 29.
Fourth " 15.
Total, 123

Total enrollment, whole school, 414

The increase in enrollment has made it necessary to employ eight teachers for the elementary grades and six, including the principal, for the high school. Another teacher is needed in the high school department, and the Board of Education will take up the matter Tuesday.

At present the fifth grade is housed in Dirickson's Hall, and the Commercial Department is occupying the second story of the Ayres building.

The attendance in the high school department for October was remarkable. Many days the enrollment exceeded 120, and the average for the month was over 110. The principal has offered a banner to the high school class having the best attendance record for the first half of the school year, and all pupils are anxiously watching the daily attendance figures.

The attendance figures for the grades were also very good, the average for the month being 258.

The Kindness of God

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE Extension Department, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—And David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of Saul, that I may show him kindness for Jonathan's sake?—II Sam. 9:1.

A mighty King sits upon a mighty throne. Under him on every hand his enemies are subdued and in loyalty and love the hearts of a nation's millions turn to him.

Twice does he tell us that Mephibosheth was lame; four times that he ate at the king's table; and twice do we hear David say, "Kindness for Jonathan's sake."

The Subject of David's Kindness.

No mention of Mephibosheth prior to this chapter is found save one, and that tells us (II Sam. 4:4) how he became lame. When the tidings of the death of Saul and Jonathan came to the palace, one of the royal nurses thinking that David would now destroy all of Saul's house, picked up her five-year-old ward and fled with him.

And here is the subject of David's quest? Hiding—hiding from the very one who would show him kindness—in Lodebar! And here is another name eloquent of the sinner's state away from God: "No pasture." It is as though we were listening again to the Lord Jesus as he tells of the sinner away from God: "And . . . there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want, and to come to David if he would. 'There is none that seeketh after God,' but 'when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.'"

David's Kindness.

But if Mephibosheth cannot come to David, David can bring him to himself; he "sought and fetched him." He held him there on a "sack" at David's feet! It is the only safe place in all the world for him though as yet he knows it not. He takes a servant's place as though he would win the favor of the king. But there he hears from David's lips the assurance that millions of sinners in all the ages since have heard from the lips of our Savior-God: "Fear not, for I will surely show thee kindness for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul, thy (grand) father; and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually."

What surprise for this poor trembling man of shame! What a change in his condition! From "afar off" to "made nigh"; from hiding to shelter, from "no pasture" to the king's bounty; to riches "as one of the king's sons!" And all without a question or condition of any kind. No word of reproach or upbraid. The poor, shameful man who had no claim upon David is set at once in the place of his son.

Still Lame.

The last word in the chapter that tells this sweet tale is "So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem; for he did eat continually at the king's table, and he was lame on both his feet."

As lame afterwards as he was before, but no longer occupied with his lame feet. Now David's royal provision occupies him.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 1

PRINCIPLES OF CHRISTIAN LIVING.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 6:1-7; 12. GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.—Matt. 6:33.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 9:23-24; Luke 11:24-25. PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Heavenly Father's Care. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaching How to Pray. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Golden Rules for Living. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Concepts for Daily Living.

Having set forth in the previous chapters the standard of righteousness, Christ now exhibits the underlying principles which control the life to the kingdom.

I. As to Giving (6:1-4). Doing alms before men is not condemned, as that would contradict Matthew 6:16, but the doing of them before men to be seen of them. To seek publicity in doing our alms is to miss the reward of our heavenly Father.

II. As to Praying (6:5-13). I. False prayer (vv. 5, 7). This consists (1) in praying to be seen and heard of men (v. 5). (2) Using vain repetitions (v. 7). This does not mean that we should ask but once, for we have examples of Christ and Paul praying three times for the same thing (Matt. 26:39-40; II Cor. 12:7, 8), but the using of meaningless repetitions.

2. True prayer (v. 6). Since prayer is a transaction of the soul with God, we should have a real desire for fellowship with the Father, then go and meet him in secret.

3. The model prayer (v. 9-13). This involves (1) right relationship—"Our Father" (v. 9); (2) right attitude—"Hallowed be thy name" (v. 9, 10); (3) right spirit—"Give us our daily bread" (v. 11); "Forgive us our sins" (v. 12); "Lead us not into temptation" (v. 13).

III. As to Fasting (v. 16-18). The Lord knew the temptation which would befall his children in their pilgrimage here below touching their fasts, and the anxiety to which it would lead; therefore, he sets forth the proper attitude toward them:

1. The nature of earthly riches (v. 19, 21). (1) Uncertain (v. 19, 20). Earthly treasures corrode, or are taken from us. (2) Servile (v. 21). Christ called riches deceitful (Matt. 13:22). It is not wrong to possess earthly treasures, but when earthly treasures possess us they become a snare.

2. The effect of earthly riches (v. 22-23). They blunt the moral and spiritual perceptions (v. 22-23). When the heart is blinded by riches, the soul and will service (v. 23).

IV. As to Faith in the Heavenly Father (v. 25-34). 1. Be not anxious about food and clothing (v. 25-32). Because (1) it shows distrust for God (v. 30). (2) It is useless (v. 31). Anxiety can bring nothing. (3) It is healthful (v. 25). Those who have not learned to know God may worry over temporal affairs, but those who know him as a loving Father should be free from care.

2. Be anxious to seek the Kingdom of God and serve him (v. 33, 34). This does not forbid proper forethought in making a reasonable support for one's self and family.

V. As to Censorious Judgments (7:1-12). 1. The sin and folly of censorious judgments. This does not forbid us to make an estimate of the lives of those about us, for "by their fruits ye shall know them"; neither does it prevent us from administering rebuke to those who deserve it. It rebukes that readiness to blame others and to magnify their weakness and errors.

2. The duty of discrimination in dealing out holy things (v. 6). The gospel should be preached to all, but there should be discrimination, for "dogs and swine" have no comprehension as to holy things.

3. Qualifications for discrimination (v. 7-12). (1) A life of prayer (v. 7-11). A life of prayer is a requisite for rightly dividing the word of truth. (2) A disposition to treat others as one would be treated (v. 12). Confucius set forth this principle negatively, but only the Christ could do it positively. Between the negative and positive sides of this rule is found the difference between heathenism and Christianity. No man can live this rule unless he has been born from above and abides with Christ in the school of prayer, till he becomes like him.

What God Requires. What God requires is an undivided will—a yielding will, desiring only what he desires, rejecting only what he rejects, and both unreservedly. Where such a mind is, everything turns to good, and its very amusements become good works. Happy indeed is such a one.—Fenelon.

When Death Comes. When death, the great reconciler, has come, it is never our tenderness that we repent of, but our severity.—George Elliot.

Is There Anything New? How many such civilizations have arisen and passed to the twilight of the gods? How much of art, literature, science, philosophy, religion, that we have held to be new, was old in the days before Sargon? Who can say?—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sign Formal Pledge Drawn Up by Entente Military Chiefs. Spa, Belgium.—The German representatives in conference here with the Allies yielded to Lloyd George's ultimatum presented recently, demanding acceptance at once of an immediate disarmament plan on penalty of a new invasion of Germany by Allied troops.

Dreams. To dream of a snake denotes treachery; a black snake signifies disease; a green snake is a good omen to farmers, but to others it foretells loss of money by unfortunate investments. A rattlesnake in a dream means that one who pretends to be a friend is secretly endeavoring to ruin your reputation. To fight snakes means you will outwit your enemies and succeed in what you have undertaken.

PRODUCTION OF CATTLE IN WEST

Investigations Conducted in Nebraska Show Wide Variation in Figures.

FEEDING PERILOUS VENTURE

Buying Right and Selling Right Are Controlling Factors—Some Farmers Carried Animals Through With Profit.

According to cost of production investigations conducted by the United States department of agriculture in cooperation with the University of Nebraska in parts of Nebraska during the past two years, the average cost of corn-fed cattle laid out at market was $14.91 per hundredweight for a year and in the winter of 1918-19, $13.83 for 5,041 cattle in a survey study during the winter of 1919-20, and an average of $13.30 for an additional 795 cattle upon which detailed cost figures were secured during the same winter.

The costs upon some farms were found to vary widely from the average figures, with the maximum gain to market the first winter (1918-19) carrying an expense bill of from $15 to $18 a hundredweight, while in 1919-20 the costs of most of the cattle were between $11 and $17. The facts thus far brought out by the investigation would indicate that during the past two years, in the district covered by the survey, cattle feeding was a precarious venture, more likely to be unprofitable than not.

There was an average loss per head of $3.17 on the cattle for which records were obtained in 1918-19, and of $10.60 and $14.57 on two groups for which records were obtained in 1919-20.

These figures are the results of the first two years' work of a five-year study of the basic factors of the cost of fattening cattle, which is being conducted in Nebraska by the office of farm management and farm economy.

A short time before his death Dr. Maclaren said: "He that hath no rule over his own spirit is like a city broken down without walls," into which any raving Bedouin can break and carry away loot, and what his will. If we do not set a guard at the gates, and question the traveler that wants to come in, what his business is, and what is his right to enter, we shall be invaded by a host of very undesirable, guests, and our lives will go all to pieces. Very many men who make failures morally, religiously, or even socially and commercially, do so because they have no command over themselves, and because they have not asked this question of each sly temptation that comes wheeling up to the gate of the soul, with whispering breath and secret suggestion—"What do you want here? What reason have you for wishing to come in?"—Selected.

A Parable Repeated. Leaves of Light gives the experience of a traveler in which he sees the parable of the "ninety and nine" repeated. The following is his experience:— One day we were making our way with ice ax and alpenstock down the Alarash Glacier, when we observed a flock of sheep following their shepherd over the intricate windings between the crevasses, and so passing from the pastures on one side of the glacier to the pastures on the other. The flock had numbered two hundred all told.

But on the way one sheep was lost. One of the shepherds, in his German patois, appealed to us if we had seen it. Fortunately, one of the party had a field glass. With its aid we discovered the sheep up amid a tangle of brushwood on the rocky mountain side.

It was beautiful to see how the shepherd, without a word, left his hundred and ninety-nine sheep out in the glacier waste, knowing they would stand there perfectly still and safe, and went clambering back after the lost sheep until he found it; and he actually put it on his shoulders and returned "rejoicing."

Here was the Lord's parable enacted before our eyes, though the shepherd was all unconscious of it. And it brought our Lord's teaching home to us with a vividness which none can realize but those who saw the incident.

FARM ANIMALS

CLEAN PENS ARE IMPORTANT

Development and Perpetuation of Roundworms Is Fostered by Manure-Covered Lots.

Investigations reported in a recent technical publication of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, disclosed additional evidence of the importance of keeping young pigs in clean pens that have not been contaminated by other swine.

A roundworm of pigs, known as Ascaris suum, is held responsible not only for many deaths among swine, but for a large proportion of the runts among these animals. Development and perpetuation of the roundworms is fostered by badly drained and manure-covered hog lots, which are on this account dangerous to young pigs and not good for pigs of any age.

Eggs of the parasite may remain alive in soil for five years and even longer. Places occupied by pigs harboring the adult worms in their intestines will become badly infested with the eggs. Pigs farrowed and kept in such places are certain to pick up many of these eggs, and even suckling pigs are liable to swallow eggs present in dirt adhering to the teats of the sow.

Investigations by the bureau have proved that after the eggs have been swallowed and have hatched in the intestine the young worms do not immediately settle down, but penetrate the wall of the intestine and travel to the liver and the lungs. From the lungs they crawl up the windpipe and then down the esophagus and return to the intestine. Only after they have passed through the lungs do they establish themselves in the intestine and grow to maturity.

In passing through the lungs the young worms cause more or less damage to these organs. Pneumonia may result and the animal may die about a week or ten days after infection. Symptoms of this pneumonia among pigs are commonly known as "thumps." Not all cases of "thumps" come from this source, but the worms are frequently the cause. Young pigs are more susceptible than older pigs to infection, and are also more likely to suffer severely from migration of the young worms through the lungs.

There is no treatment for the lung stage of the parasite. If the pig survives he may later be treated with worm remedies to remove the worms from the intestine. In such cases, however, it commonly happens that the animal has been so seriously injured through the lungs that even after their expulsion from the intestine the pig is unable to make up for the setback he has received, although he does better than if allowed to go untreated.

HOW DOCTORS TEST QUALITIES OF WOULD-BE AIR PILOTS.

Ability to hold the breath as a test of the efficiency of the heart is applied in England to would-be airmen. The Lancet (London) says the breath-holding test enables the physician to obtain a fair idea as to the capability of the central respiratory nervous apparatus of the examinee.

A stop-watch and a nose-clip are all the apparatus required, while the precise instructions as to carrying out the experiment are equally simple. The time the man can hold his breath before the inevitable and forceful sensation of the need to breathe compels him to give way is noted. The average time in the normal fit pilot is 60 seconds, the minimum being 45 seconds. Nearly all cases with a time record as short as this were selected on medical grounds apart from this test.

Not the least interesting part of the test as applied to airmen is the reply given when the examinee is asked what caused him to give way and how in the normal response being "I had to go up" or "I wanted to breathe." Under conditions that point to unfitness for pilotage the reply may be: "I felt giddy" or "squeamish" or "flushed," responses which indicate that other nerve centers are involved besides the true bilobar respiratory center.

The combination of minimum time record and abnormal verbal response points to the examinee being one likely to suffer from oxygen hunger at high altitudes, and possibly to an inherent inability, by a strong effort of will, to carry on under conditions of stress.

Remember that in the summer months the sun does not rise in the east or set in the west. How, then, would you orientate yourself? It's easy if you know how."

"Lay your watch flat, face upward," said Armstrong. "Point the hour hand at the sun. The south will be at a right angle between the hour hand and the figure 12 as the hands turn in the morning and backward in the afternoon."

If you go after sundown in the summer in the Italy lake or Lake of the Woods region, be certain to take your watch with you.—Port Arthur (Ont.) Dispatch.

How to Measure Tree's Growth.

In the New York Botanical garden a new instrument has been attached to a certain maple tree, attracting the attention of passersby. This is the "dendrograph"—a delicately adjusted machine which will actually register the rate of growth of a tree—slow as that is! A series of blocks of wood are attached firmly to the tree, and above these a metal "collar" which, however, is in contact with the tree at only two points. A needle projects from one of these, the other end of which traces its movements upon a slowly revolving paper "disk." The disk is wound with a paper "ribbon" which is replaced by a fresh sheet and the clockwork wound up; otherwise the machine is self-regulating and needs no attention. The growth or expansion of the tree is shown by the needle.

The instrument was devised by Dr. L. T. McDougall, formerly director of laboratories at the New York Botanical garden, and now director of the botanical research department of the Carnegie Institution of Washington. The dendrograph is one of a number of instruments which are being used this year to measure growth phenomena.—Leslie's Weekly.

How Movies Are Triumphant.

Mexico, we read in current dispatches, has declined to lift the heavy censorship from the movies and to foster the enterprise in every way. There seems to be no stopping the triumphant march of the movie stars. Not long ago we read that Devismire House, the famous rendezvous of the Whigs in London, had fallen before the cinema. The Alhambra and the Empire, famous music halls, are to go, and the Continent appears to be as wild for the screen as we are here. All doors are opening to it. Not long ago the conservative Vatican sanctioned the picture of an important religious function. Great are the movies!—Philadelphia Record.

Stacking Wheat in Oregon.

tralia, New Zealand and South Africa, continuing through January and substantially ending in February. India then begins its harvest in activity through March and April. In April harvesting operations begin in such countries as China, Asia Minor, and Mexico. In May activity is lessened, for then the wheat harvest has been about completed and the harvest season is crossed. The Mediterranean from north to southern Europe, where harvest does not become general until June, in May the harvest of the United States begins. In June, July and August about 75 per cent of the world's crop is harvested. The season progresses steadily northward during these months. By September harvest operations are nearly completed, Scotland, northern Russia and Siberia, the United States and Canada having a little left over from August. Very little harvesting of wheat is done in October and November.

SLIDING DOOR ON CONCRETE

Local Farmer Solves Problem by Using Channel in Groove, Anchored With Rods.

When a sliding door is used at the entrance of a barn or machine shed a groove between the floor and the approach is often used as a guide for the door. But when concrete is used this construction is not satisfactory, as the edges are clipped off by the wheels of wagons and other machinery with steel tires.

An Iowa farmer has solved this problem in a very simple and satisfactory manner. He placed a three-inch, four-pound channel iron in the groove. Holes were drilled through the sides at intervals of six feet and rods placed through them, as anchors.

PROPER ROOST FOR PULLETS

When About Half Matured Provide Platform for Poultry About Eighteen Inches From Floor.

Never prove roosts until the pullets are about half matured. A good plan is to have a platform erected, about eight inches from the floor, upon which they may go at night. After the birds are about half matured, roosts can be placed on this platform, to which they will readily take. Where roosts are compelled to roost on the floor until well grown, they are nervous about taking to roosts when they require it. Besides, unless the droppings are cleaned up daily, roosts on the floor will soon breed a lot of red mites which will torment the flock more than anything else.

MARKET FOR PUREBRED SIRE

One Method to Inaugurate a Campaign for High-Class Bulls in Line of Scrubs.

There are two ways of helping the market for purebred bulls. One method is to run purebred sire campaigns, which will help to put purebred bulls in place of scrub bulls throughout the country, and the other method is to separate the poorer individuals from the better class of bulls in the market. Both methods can be to good advantage by the purebreeder, and both methods will help the stock production of the country.

Chinese Going to Counterfeiters.

It was a man that made counterfeit money in defiance of the grim warning printed on Chinese bank notes. Ming Tynasty, who makes up 90 per cent of this country's head count, the most superficial student of Chinese history knows that the Chinese are not idle. Nowhere, except in the Carrolls' Wonderland, was there more privilege of cutting off heads and sending so freely as at the court of the Emperor.

S. O. S., Signal for Help. S. O. S. is the code signal of distress and other than being the signal agreed upon as a call for help is hardly to be "translated." Some conditions say the letters mean "save my soul." The letters also are sometimes interpreted as standing for "send out succor," but do not, of course, mean either of the phrases. S. O. S. in the international Morse code is three dots, three dashes and three dots.

Foolish Overcautiousness.

A great deal of discomfort arises from overcautiousness about what people may say about you or your actions. Many unhappy persons seem to imagine that they are in an amphitheater, with the assembled world as spectators, whereas they are playing to empty benches all the while.

No Really White Silk.

There is no such thing as pure white silk. There are three colors of so-called white silk, oyster, which is sometimes called pure white, though it has a slight blue tinge; ivory, which has a tinge of pale yellow, and cream, in which the yellow tinge can be plainly seen.

Camel's Foot.

The camel's foot is like a soft cushion, and is well adapted to the heavy work of carrying loads constantly walking. During a single journey through the Sahara, horses have worn out three sets of shoes, while the camel's feet were not even sore.

Citizens of Berlin

Sometime ago, for the convenience of our patrons who had electric irons and sweepers, we concluded to give current on Wednesday afternoons. After interviewing a number, it seemed that this was the best day of the week. While we realized it would be a losing proposition for the town, we also knew we were here to serve the people. After running on Wednesday afternoon for a number of weeks, we began to get complaints about the afternoon selected. It seemed that most any afternoon in the week was preferred to Wednesday.

Finding that it was an impossible task to please everybody and being assured for what we were trying to do, we decided to discontinue the service until we could find out what afternoon would be the best suited for the majority of the users. When our Mr. Palmer calls at your homes to read your meters, please register your vote with him as to what afternoon would be most suited to your convenience, and after tallying these votes and finding what afternoon the majority wants, we will again furnish you current for that afternoon. If you fail to see Mr. Palmer, please nick your wants known at the office of the Mayor.

Wednesday afternoon from 4 to 6 an old-fashioned oyster roast will be given the visitors by the business men of Salisbury, and Thursday afternoon they will be treated to an auto trip to Harrison's Nurseries, the Riddle farm and Ocean City. The closing session will be Thursday evening.

Makemie Park Celebration.

The Presbyterian Pilgrimage on Friday, Oct. 29th, to the grave and handsome monument of their American Founder, Rev. Francis Makemie, was in every way delightful and inspiring, the most satisfactory and cheering since the great Dedication Day with over 2,000 present in 1908. The rain on Thursday cut down the numbers but the attendance was good, and a more genial and enthusiastic crowd never met. They felt that the raised hand of the granite statue in benediction was meant for them.

It is a beautiful spot on the winding Holden's Creek, in sight of the sparkling Chesapeake—retired, picturesque and pensive—a fitting resting place for one of the greatest celebrities of the Eastern Shore. The great Church awoke and duly honored the historic grounds. There is an endowment sufficient to keep the beloved Mecca in attractive condition. There is no more impressive monument in the United States.

After appetizing lunches, spiced with the ozone of the great Bay, the exercises began, protected from the winds by the hedge and the grove.

Rev. Dr. L. P. Bowen, through tireless efforts and enthusiasm the gathering was effected, presided, introducing the various features of the afternoon program. Dr. Bowen interestingly told of the identification of the present site as the unquestioned resting-place of Francis Makemie and the other members of his family.

The speakers, Dr. Verbruycke and the new Pastor at Old Rehoboth, Mr. Bischof, were at their best, the addresses in every way appropriate and revivifying the past. All was interspersed by songs written for the occasion—The Holden's Creek Chorus, and a parody on Carry me back to Old Virginia, and The Dead of Auld Lang Syne. The latter was sung while a little Maryland girl and a little Virginia girl lay a wreath upon the tomb, thus representing the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Churches.

If God's Past you would remember, Hear the sainted fathers speak; Catch the thrill from ancient heroes, Come bare-browed to Holden's Creek. When you would your ardor freshen, Who's new inspiration seek, Come where rests revered Makemie, Prophet of the Chesapeake.

L. P. Bowen.

NATIONAL AND STATE ELECTIONS

Many Women Nominees Feature of Day

ILLINOIS BANNER STATE

Large Number Of Parties In Field Also Feature Of National And State Voting—34 Senators And 34 Governors.

New York.—The national and state elections were held Tuesday were notable for the number of women nominees and the large number of parties who had tickets in the field.

Six parties had national tickets for President and Vice-President, though by no means in all the States. These tickets were Republican, Democratic, Socialist, Prohibition, Farmer-Labor and Single Tax. About 13 other parties had candidates either for State tickets or for representatives in Congress, bringing the total of all parties to nearly a score.

In the Presidential election there were chosen 531 members of the Electoral College, of which 256 was necessary to the election of a candidate as President. In the last election President Wilson had 277.

The present membership of the United States is 96, composed of 47 Democrats, 48 Republicans and 1 Progressive. Thirty-three States elected 34 Senators, the terms of 32 members of that body expiring on March 3, 1921, while the other two were selected to fill unexpired terms up to March 4, 1925. Of the 32 Senators whose terms expire next March, 17 are Democrats and 15 Republicans. The two additional vacancies were caused by the deaths of Senators Bankhead of Alabama and Martin of Virginia, both Democrats. One Senator was chosen in each of the 33 States except in Alabama, which elected two.

The only States which did not elect Senators were Delaware, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia and Wyoming.

Women candidates for the Senate were voted on in six States—by the Prohibitionists in Indiana, New York and Pennsylvania; by Socialists in California, by the Farmer-Labor Party in New York and Connecticut and by Independent in Nevada.

Socialists had candidates for the Senate in 11 States—Alabama (2), California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, New Hampshire, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Washington. The Farmer-Labor party has Senatorial candidates in five States: Connecticut, Illinois, Idaho, Iowa, Missouri, New York and Washington.

At least eight other parties had candidates for Senator in one or more States. These are Progressive, Socialist, Labor, Single Tax, Independent, Industrial Labor, Independent Republican, Labor and Non-Partisan League.

The total membership (435) of the next House of Representatives was elected. Of this number 218 is necessary for a majority. The present membership is: Democrats, 190; Republicans, 232; Independent Republican, 2; Independent, 1; Prohibitionist, 1; vacancies, 9. Women had candidates for Representatives in at least 11 States, including Alabama, California, Idaho, Iowa, Michigan, Nebraska, Massachusetts, New York, Oklahoma, Oregon and Missouri.

Governors were elected in 34 States as follows: Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Constitutional amendments were voted upon in 29 States. There were referenda in 12 and initiatives in 4. Arkansas voted on amendments granting suffrage to women and the powers of the initiative and referendum to the people. California had a referendum on five questions, including the Harris prohibition enforcement act and the sale of poison act. One of the most notable of the initiatives was that in California where the voters were called upon to decide the fate of Japanese farmers by amending the alien land law so as to withdraw the land leasing privileges from aliens who are ineligible to American citizenship. California had an initiative vote also on prohibition of vivisection. Voters also passed upon several constitutional amendments, including the single tax measure and prohibition of compulsory vaccination.

Georgia voted on a constitutional amendment authorizing pensions to Confederate veterans or their widows. In Kansas the voters passed on an amendment to provide State aid in the purchase of farm houses.

Nebraska had a referendum on a law substituting nominating conventions for primaries for all State offices except Governors. New Hampshire voted on questions of levying a State income tax, granting the Governor right to veto items in appropriation bills and reducing the size of the House of Representatives.

New York voters passed on a proposed $45,000,000 bond issue. North Carolina voted on a proposed State income tax, while North Dakota decided whether to grant woman suffrage. Ohio had a referendum on an act providing for the enforcement of prohibition.

No State elections were held in Maine, Maryland, Mississippi, New Jersey or Virginia.

Probably the banner State for the number of candidates for Governor was Illinois, where 10 parties had candidates for that office, including the Democratic, Republican, Socialist, Socialist Labor, Farmer-Labor, Single Tax, Prohibition, Co-operative party of America, Liberal Party and Harding-Coolidge Republican.

OIL CONSUMPTION INCREASED.

New High Record Made in September, With Output Lower.

Washington.—Consumption of petroleum reached the high record figure of 48,870,000 barrels in September, while production decreased slightly, the Geological Survey reported in its monthly statement. The average daily production was placed at 1,281,500 barrels, as compared with 1,270,870 barrels in August.

The deficiency in domestic production, the survey stated, was offset by net imports of 10,914,000 barrels, the largest ever recorded in a single month.

Decrease in production was ascribed by the survey to lessened returns from Central and North Texas and North Louisiana.

California, in September, attained the record daily production of 304,267 barrels, supplanting Oklahoma as first in rank. Montana went ahead of Colorado.

$800,000 FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF.

Will Be Spent in Armenia, Persia And Other Sections.

New York.—Appropriations totaling nearly $800,000 for relief work in the Near East were voted at a meeting here of the executive committee of the Near East Relief.

A gift of $150,000 from Armenians, resident in the United States, was received and the committee appropriated $300,000 for immediate purchase of supplies for Armenia.

A total of $200,000 was appropriated for the Constantinople district, $125,000 for relief in trans-Caucasia, $115,000 for Syria, $55,000 for Northern Persia and about $12,000 for Greek refugees in these countries.

Bayard Dodge of this city, son of Cleveland H. Dodge, was appointed to direct relief activities in Syria with headquarters in Beirut.

CENTRAL AMERICA TO UNITE.

Salvador Receives Favorable Reports Of Plan To Form Union.

San Salvador.—Dispatches from the capitals of Central American nations indicate keen interest in the conferences to be held at San Jose, Costa Rica, early in December for the purpose of establishing a program for uniting the five republics into a Central American Union. The objects of the conference, which were outlined in a note to the Salvadoran Government from the international Central American Bureau on August 15, are believed to have been hastened by the recent negotiations between Gregory Krassine, representing the Bolshevik Government, and Premier Eloy de Guzman looking to the restriction of trade between Great Britain and Mexico. These negotiations recently were broken off, it being stated that Mexico desired to confer further with the Moscow Soviet.

RAILROAD TRAFFIC AT PEAK.

Reported Heavier Than During Troop Movements in 1918.

New York.—Members of the Association of Railway Executives, meeting here reported the heaviest traffic during the last few weeks of any period in the history of the roads, even exceeding the height of the troop movement operations in 1918. Co-operation on the part of shippers, increased efficiency of labor and efforts by railroad officials to get the utmost out of the available facilities were given as the reasons of the improvement.

20 HURT IN ELECTION RIOT.

Rival Brazilian Legislatures Contest For Legal Power.

Rio de Janeiro.—Twenty persons were wounded in election riots at Para, according to reports reaching here.

In the State of Amazonas two State Legislatures are contesting for power. Both claim legal election. The contest has been submitted to the Constitutional Committee of the Chamber of Deputies for settlement.

Early Treatment the Thing.

Untreated cancer means a mortality of exactly 100 per cent. No authentic exception has ever been known, or ever is likely to be known. But in its early stages, cancer is curable and has been cured thousands of times by a thorough operation that removes every particle of diseased tissue. Every case of cancer in a civilized country comes to the doctor some time. Why not come early enough to be saved?—Chicago Journal.

An old way of testing carpets to see if it is a true Persian product is in vogue in Persia. A piece of red-hot charcoal is dropped upon it, which leaves a round singed spot. LIFTS BAN ON TRADE WITH SOVIET RUSSIA.

U. S. Action Follows Exchange of Views With France and Britain. Reds Not Recognized.

Washington.—Restrictions on trade with Soviet Russia were removed by the State Department, except in so far as they pertain to the shipment of materials susceptible of immediate use for war purposes. An individual export license must be obtained for the shipment of such materials, and it was announced that each license would be granted only in exceptional cases. Individual export licenses also will be required for the export to Russia of locomotives, railroad material and rolling stock and motor cars and component parts.

While taken independently of other nations, this action followed extensive exchanges between the United States and Great Britain and France. It is believed to have been hastened by the recent negotiations between Gregory Krassine, representing the Bolshevik Government, and Premier Eloy de Guzman looking to the restriction of trade between Great Britain and Mexico. These negotiations recently were broken off, it being stated that Mexico desired to confer further with the Moscow Soviet.

The statement also was made by the department that indications were that Russia had only a small quantity of raw materials for export, that its purchasing power was very limited, and that consequently there would not be any considerable trade with that country, if any.

Coincident with the State Department's announcement of the removal of most of the restrictions on trade with Russia the War Trade Board issued a series of rulings amending its previous trade regulations. Under these rulings individual export licenses still will be necessary for the shipment to Hungary, Austria, Bulgaria or Turkey of any materials susceptible of immediate use for war purposes. Such materials include locomotives, railroad rolling stock and motor cars.

It also is provided that materials imported into this country may be exported to Russia or any other country.

MISS SOPHRONIA

By SUSAN F. HAYFORD.

(1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Miss Sophronia Higin was forty-one and looked it, and knew that she looked it; but, at this eventful afternoon she sat in the little parlor and looked down the years of her youth she knew that all days she was the happiest.

For the first time the thrill of real adventure was hers. She was to spend a week before she had expected to go on with the same life as the last few years had held till the eventful day that brought her the letter from the owner of Seaside by the will of her uncle, Jared Stone.

It was to go on the same as all the other years that very day. Her arrangements were made, her property arranged, and he was to spend a week before she had expected to go on with the same life as the last few years had held till the eventful day that brought her the letter from the owner of Seaside by the will of her uncle, Jared Stone.

NATION WIDE FUND TO CRUSH LABOR

$5,000,000 Nucleus Raised and Underwritten by Four Railroads, A. F. of L. Assents.

NEW YORK CITY IS CENTER.

See Start of Big Open Shop Fight—Steel Corporation Said to Have Given $200,000; Standard Oil in List of Contributors.

Washington.—A "war chest" of $5,000,000 has been accumulated in New York City by an organization of merchants and business men, to be devoted to "perhaps hundreds of millions" in the country at large with the Standard Oil and steel trust as largest contributors which will be used to break the organized labor movement in the United States, according to officials of the American Federation of Labor.

Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, said that reports he has received from various parts of the country indicate that the enemies of organized labor, who have spent large sums of money in fighting the labor movement, are redoubling their efforts, and that a large fund in supporting propaganda against the "closed shop" throughout the country.

Reports from sources said to be reliable, as told before Secretary Morrison and other officials with whom he has conferred, are to the effect that the $5,000,000 fund has been placed at the disposal of the New York Citizens' Transportation committee and the Merchants' Association. This fund has been contributed, the reports say, by certain big business and financial interests, who have been named, with the purpose that the port strike situation in New York is to be taken as a cover for starting an open shop fight in New York and throughout the country.

The names of four railroad presidents have been mentioned—Smith, of the New York Central; Rea of the Pennsylvania; Loomis of the Lehigh Valley, and Beesler of the New Jersey Central—as having sat with the Citizens' Transportation Committee in New York and having underwritten the five-million-dollar fund, turning over $1,000,000 of it at once for immediate use.

Another report brought to Mr. Morrison's attention is that the Steel Corporation, through Judge Gary, has contributed $500,000 to this fight fund. The Standard Oil and several large New York banks are also said to have made large contributions.

Information has also come to the American Federation of Labor officials that a group of Chicago men, headed by Julius Rosenwald, is interested in the fight.

Union officials regard this as the beginning of a great fight between capital and labor for the establishment of the open shop in all big industries where the closed shop now prevails and for the frustration of the movement to establish the closed shop in industries such as the steel business, where it is not recognized.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is on his way to Washington after attending the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco. Until he has been consulted with the other officers it will not be quoted regarding labor's attitude, although it is quite frankly stated that organized labor can take good care of itself in the coming fight, as it has shown itself able to do in the past.

At the American Federation of Labor headquarters here several communications with reference to efforts being made by chambers of commerce and big business organizations to prevent organization of new labor unions and to break down those already existing.

"The same people are behind the present 'closed shop' that have been fighting organized labor for years," said one of the labor leaders of international prominence, "and they have found it pretty expensive."

Morrison says that the "open shop" really means "closed to union men."

Hacksack, N. J., Shoots Himself When Suspended.

Washington—The Navy Department received an telegram from the naval station at Samoa in which the death of Commander Warren J. Terhune, U. S. N., was announced. The message stated that Commander Terhune had shot and killed himself at noon on Wednesday last. No further details were given.
The Commander had been suffering from ill health for some time, and his heart was affected.

Charges were recently filed against Commander Terhune by Lieut. Commander C. H. Houchey, U. S. N., the charges involving alleged troubles between Commander Terhune and Samoan natives. A Court of Inquiry was named by Secretary Daniels to investigate the charges. Commander Terhune was ordered to be relieved from duty, and Captain Waldo B. Evans appointed to succeed him.

BREAKING A HORSE TO RIDE

Take Plenty of Time and Do Not Frighten Young Animal—Teach Gait Separately.

When a horse is to be used for riding it is well first to break him to drive single and double. This will make him quieter to ride.

Horses usually buck through fear. In breaking one to ride, take plenty of time and do not frighten him. Get on the saddle and lead him around until he becomes accustomed to it. Do not have the girth too tight. The horse may be tied up for a time and later turned into a paddock with the saddle on.

Next accustom the horse to being mounted, getting on and off a number of times. The assistant should have a lead rope tied around the horse's neck and run through the rings of a snaffle bit. If the horse attempts to play up, punish him with a jerk on the bit. Let the assistant lead the horse with rider around until the horse is familiar with the weight on his back, then dismount the assistant. If the horse becomes rebellious, pull his head sharply to one side; do not let him get down. The first few rides should be in a small inclosure.

Mounting a Horse.

The first few rides should be the walk; next teach the trot, and then the canter. Spurs should not be used until the horse is well broken. Most saddle horses can be taught to rack. To teach a horse to rack, he should be shod with light shoes or none at all in front and heavy shoes behind. Sitting back in the saddle, just force the horse out of a walk and he will soon rack. Keep him at it for only a short distance at a time, as it is a new gait to him and tiresome at first. After the gait is learned the duration of the lesson may be gradually lengthened.

Some Thought in Great Minds. Carlyle wrote of "One life—a little gleam of time between two eternalities." Marcus Aurelius had written, "Do not live a thing of consequence, do not look at the yawning void of the future and at that other limitless space, the past." The old Saxon, Bede, likened man in his earthly life to a narrow flying out of the dark night of the lighted banquet hall for a moment only, and then out again into the black and unknown night.

FIRST-CLASS SWINE PASTURE

A pig for root hog pastures, not simply hog yards, is made by Forest Henry of Dover, Minn., a well-known institute leader for the agricultural extension division of the Minnesota college of agriculture. Mr. Henry believes in giving the hog a goodly meadow at least of the treatment and attention accorded other farm animals. He says:

"The most profitable hog pasture is a pasture so large that the hogs do not eat one-half of it. If it be alfalfa or clover what remains uneaten at hay time can be cut and cured into hay. An acre of alfalfa or clover will make as much pork, so far as it can be used, as an acre of corn. The one builds up the farm and requires very little labor; the other reduces farm fertility and requires much high-priced labor.

"Good pastures not only make cheap pork but keep the hogs in much better health and reduce the danger of hog cholera to a minimum. In these days a hog cannot be grown on grain alone and at the same time make money for his owner."

SWINE REQUIRE CLEAN LOTS

Not Enough Attention Paid to Pigs by Many Hog Raisers—Worms Thrive on Dirt.

A great many hog raisers do not pay enough attention to clean lots. Worms are the cause of many unthrifty pigs. Recent investigations indicate that the eggs of both the common round worm and the lung worm are harbored in old straw piles, manure piles, dirty hog lots and hog wallows. One of the best methods of preventing worms is to clean up the lots and thus minimize the number of worms which will be present. During warm weather it is a good plan to move the hogs entirely out of the winter quarters and at the same time clean them up.

Hair Used in Building Churches.

At one time the Japanese made use of human hair in building churches. It was the custom for church-going people to give some of their hair as a free-will offering when a temple was being built. Such a structure at Tokio had the beams and rafters held in place by one of these human hair cables. They cut and on one of these human hair ropes measured 4,378 feet long and seven inches in diameter, no fewer than 250,000 persons contributing before sufficient quantity was obtained.

Ears and Marriage.

Why worry because the shape of your ears does not exactly please you? Their peculiarities probably indicate good points in your character. According to an expert, ears which wiggle indicate versatility of character, and if they lie close to the head show that they can hear the same notes year after year without becoming weary. This makes for happy marriages!

Worry No More.

A missionary just returned from the Belgian Congo thus describes a newly discovered tribe of pygmies: "Although they are completely uncivilized, they will neither lie nor steal, and will marry only one wife." Right here is where we quit worrying about the future of civilization—Arthur H. Fowler, in Leslie's.

Volstead Law On Cider Making.

The provisions of the Volstead act bearing on the manufacture of cider which is at a fermentation stage, its sale and conversion into vinegar, are important at this time. These provisions follow:

All persons desiring to manufacture cider or other intoxicating liquors specified in this article for conversion into vinegar, or to use such cider or intoxicating liquors in the manufacture of vinegar, should file application on Form 1404 prescribed in Article III, setting forth in such application the exact acts for which they desire authorization. After approval a permit will be issued authorizing the acts stipulated. Cider manufactured by persons holding permits as above may be used by them in the manufacture of vinegar, or may be sold or furnished by them in quantities of five wine gallons or more to other persons holding permits to use cider in the manufacture of vinegar upon receipt of permits to purchase (Form 1410) and may not be otherwise disposed of.

Sweet cider containing less than 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be manufactured and sold without the necessity of obtaining permit provided such product is put up and marketed in sterile closed containers or is treated by the addition of benzoate of soda or other substance which will prevent fermentation, in such proportion as to insure the alcoholic content remaining below one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume. The responsibility for keeping the alcoholic content below such percentage rests upon the manufacturer, and in any case where cider is found upon the market containing alcohol in excess of the allowed percentage the manufacturer will be presumed to have manufactured and sold an intoxicating liquor.

Cider containing less than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be sold by the producer to persons holding permits to manufacture vinegar. If such cider, however, contains one-half of 1 per cent or more of alcohol by volume when removed for conversion into vinegar, it will be necessary that the persons producing same hold permits to manufacture same as above provided and furnish same only upon receipt of permits to purchase. In the manufacture of cider, sugar or other fermentable substances should under no circumstances be added to the apple juice for the purpose of increasing the alcoholic content, inasmuch as such practice is held to constitute the production of a mash fit for distillation within the prohibition of Section 3282, Revised Statutes.

"Thank You, Red Cross!" Say 92,000 Families

Over 92,000 families are healthier and happier today, thanks to the Greatest Mother in the World—the Red Cross.

Last year alone 92,000 women learned something even more essential than the cure of disease. They learned how to prevent disease.

The Red Cross, through its nation-wide organization, taught them simple truths for preserving their families' health; taught them what food is best for their families' health; taught them how to care for the sick, saving babies and adults the country across.

There remain hundreds of thousands of families, too poor to learn elsewhere, who remain uneducated. The Red Cross must shoulder the task of teaching them. The work must go on.

But it can't go on without your support. The work is costly, but—saving lives is a greater satisfaction than saving money. Your membership dollar does its part to save a life. Join the Red Cross or renew your membership during the

Perpetual Peace

By REV. JOHN G. PAGE

Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace—John 14:27.

The last verse of the sixteenth chapter of John brings to a close the greatest message ever delivered to mortals...

The purpose of the message was to provide a basis for the perpetual peace of the believer...

Believer's Position and Power.

The next peak in this mountain range of truth may be called the believer's position. It is seen in the parable of the vine and the branches...

The third peak is the believer's power, which is closely associated with the work of the Holy Spirit...

Asking in Christ's Name.

Another peak which attracts our attention is that of the believer's prayer life. In the teaching on prayer, words that challenge and stir can be found...

Treatment of Sprains.

Sprains usually cause a good deal of pain. To relieve this, apply a mixture of a small amount of turpentine, an equal amount of acetate acid and the white of an egg...

Unfortunate Truth.

Men haven't much love for men, women haven't much love for women, and most men and women have less love for each other than they have for themselves—Exchange.

APPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of Fourth Bible Institute (Chicago) (c. 1922, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 14 THE POWER AND AUTHORITY OF JESUS.

LEARN TEXT—Matt. 8:1-4. COLLECT TEXT—And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness, and every disease among the people—Matt. 9:35.

ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 1:29-34; Luke 4:31-37. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving Sins. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Heals a Centurion's Servant. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Response of Jesus to Human Need. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULTS TOPIC—Christianity and Physical Health.

In chapters 8 and 9 are grouped a number of miracles which exhibit what the King can do over the chief foes of mankind—sickness, sin, Satan's power, death, sorrow and storms. It is fitting that they should be grouped here, following the laws to the kingdom, for they show the King's power to administer the affairs of the kingdom, and produce within his subjects the graces of character set forth in these laws.

1. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4). This dreadful disease was the most loathsome and hopeless known. In the Jewish ritual it was regarded as a symbol of sin. It was incurable by man. Only the Divine Physician can cure sin.

2. The leper's faith. His cry was most pitiable, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but was uncertain as to his willingness to heal him.

3. Jesus' power. He put forth his hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease to depart, and instantly the man was clean.

4. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13). The disease—paralysis—in paralysis the victim is helpless and disqualified for service.

5. The centurion's faith. He believed that if Jesus would but speak the word his servant would be healed. He did not need to go to see the centurion's slave and touch him, but only needed to speak the word and it was done.

6. Jesus Calms the Sea (8:23-27). The King asleep in the storm-tossed boat (v. 24). Since the King is the Almighty Creator, he had no reason to fear, and therefore, could well be resting in sleep.

7. Jesus Heals a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22). Her helpless condition (v. 20). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years.

8. Her faith (v. 21). Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure the needed help.

9. Her confession (v. 21; cf. Luke 8:47). Jesus had her make a public confession. It was for her good that she should make this confession, for faith in Christ unconfessed will naturally weaken.

10. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her.

WHY Average Person's Lungs Are Seldom Filled

Among the first things that we learn from a good singing teacher is that we have been using about one-half of our available lung capacity, leaving the balance untouched. The average person does not know anything about the bottom half of his lungs—he might as well not have any bottom half. If you tell him to take a deep breath, he starts, as usual, to fill his lungs from the top, and his deep breath is no deeper than his shallow one; it merely involves a lot of effort for substantially the same result.

A New York singing teacher has invented a little device for recording lung capacity, and it is called the Lungometer. It is a small, portable instrument which is used by placing it in the mouth and breathing into it. It records the amount of air in the lungs at any given time, and shows the difference between the right and the wrong ways of obtaining this capacity.

WHERE SCIENCE STOPS SHORT Why It Will Always Be Impossible to Square the Circle With Perfect Accuracy.

To a correspondent who suggests an experimental method of squaring the circle, the editor of the Scientific American replies that the method seems correct, but adds: "Your results will, however, be no more accurate than your ability to construct squares and circles and to measure lines and angles. This does not go much beyond a tenth of an inch. This may be quite sufficient for the engineer, but it is not for the mathematician. He demands absolute accuracy. In 1882 it was proved by Lindemann that it was impossible to find the side of a square which was equal to a given circle. If this is so, all the other figures which you construct are equally impossible of exact determination. You cannot make a perfect square or a perfect circle with wood or metals. In everything we make we have to say, 'exact within the limits of measurement.'"

Why Fads Are a Good Thing. As Walter Dill Scott suggests, every business youth, on beginning his or her business life, should adopt an avocation, a fad, some outside interest, only less absorbing than his business, and should continuously cultivate it as a foil, a rest, a saving grace to his business. Provided this fad or avocation is not too narrow and one not too difficult and fatiguing, the result is fundamentally an important one for this matter of business hours as well as for personal hygiene in general.—G. V. N. Dearborn, M. D., in the Scientific American.

Why No More "Proof Coins." Formerly the mints furnished, at little more than cost, so-called "proof" coins, which were much desired by collectors. They were far superior in finish to the ordinary pieces, being struck by the lowest token of long wear. That some are credited with being what is called "lucky," and it is said to drive away sadness and evil dreams. There is a legend about the ruby, which declares that Noah had one of marvelous brilliancy, the light which it emitted being sufficient to illuminate his chamber in the ark.

The Ladder of Time.

I count this thing to be grandly true; That a noble deed is a step toward God—Lifting the soul from the common sod To a purer air and a broader view. We rise by things that are under foot; By what we have mastered of good and gain. By the pride deposed and the passion slain. And the vanquished ill that we hourly fight.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown From the weary earth to the asphire walls; But the dreams depart and the vision falls, And the sleeper awakens on his pillow of stone. Heaven is not reached by a single bound; But we build the ladder by which we rise From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies, And we mount to its summit round by round.

—J. G. Holland.

Trusting The Guide.

It was the closing hour at a large gathering of Christian Educators, and the moment of the consecration meeting had come. A delegate from the West was deputed to "call the roll."

After one name was called there was a slight pause, and amid the fervent silence rose the clear, sweet tones of a young girl's voice: "The very dimmest of my night Makes me see— For groping in my misty way I feel His hand, I hear His say, 'My help is sure!'"

The meeting over, the delegate sought out a local educator and asked the reason for the emotion manifested by the name in the response given. The following reply was made: "You may well wonder what touched us all so much, but you will hardly be surprised when I tell you. For my daughter's sight has been failing, and a fortnight ago she became totally blind. This is her first recitation—Rest and Respiration."

A Reliable Remedy. It would surprise a number of people who read Chamberlain's Cough Remedy that it has been used by so many of the best physicians of the world. It is a simple, safe, and effective remedy for all kinds of coughs, colds, and bronchitis. It is a household necessity for every family.

The Harm of Lying. There are those who say: "I will not lie; but I will make every advantage I can, just outside of lying." And they run the line of life so near to deceit that it is equivocal. It is very difficult to be sometimes, which side of the line they are on. They are conscientious in this. They say, "I do not mean to lie. I mean to take care." But they go so near that the least joggle of the wheel, if they run over an unexpected stone, throws them over the line.

Little lies are seeds of great ones. Little treacheries are like small holes in raiment, the beginnings of large ones.—Selected.

Serious Results from Colds. Colds not only cause a tremendous financial loss but also a serious injury to every one who contracts them as they lower the vitality and prepare the system for the more serious diseases. It is not at all unusual for people who have serious lung trouble to say "I had a hard cold last winter." Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can.

Renewed Testimony. No one in Berlin who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Berlin man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Berlin resident can doubt.

S. J. Hastings, Bay St., Berlin, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions when my kidneys have been sluggish and when backache and other kidney trouble has appeared. This medicine has never failed to do me good. Doan's are the first thing we use in our family in cases of kidney trouble."

ALWAYS GETS GOOD RESULTS. Over four years later Mr. Hastings said: "I still take Doan's Kidney Pills occasionally for backache. They certainly do stop it, taking the soreness and pain away quickly."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Hastings had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

What Keith Found Out.

"Keith, don't forget to fill the wood-box," Mrs. Lawson reminded her son the morning after his return from a visit to his aunt and his Uncle Jack.

"What'll you pay me?" Keith was searching for his gloves, and he asked the question without looking up. In a moment he turned and met his mother's astonished gaze. "Aunt Kate, Aunt Harriet and Uncle Jack always paid me in some way when I worked for them," he explained hastily, "and I think you folks could, too."

"Well!" Keith knew by the tone that his mother was displeased. "All right," she added in a moment, but with a hurt look, "I'll give you five cents if you will fill it heaping full."

When the wood-box was filled, Keith's grandmother called: "There is the boy who hunts my gloves! I'm glad he is home again."

"I'll find them if you will pay me, grandmother," was the answer. "Let me see, I haven't any change. How would a bag of candy do?"

Keith decided it would do, and he hunted the glasses. That night he was paid for getting his father's slippers. He wouldn't take his little sister to bed until he was promised a new knife. So things went on day after day. His parents had thought at first, that it was only a notion that would soon be forgotten, but it was not. One day Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and Grandmother Lawson had a talk, but Keith didn't hear the talk.

That very same day he buried home from school, and rushed into the house. "Mother, where are you?" he called. "Won't you see my football? It's ripped."

"What will you pay me?" his mother asked. "Why! Why!" Keith was so surprised that this was all he could say for a minute. "I could give you the big red apple that Carl Horton brought me," he finished. "I will fix it for that," was the reply. When Keith went out again the ball was mended, but the red apple was on the table by his mother's side.

"Won't you help me with my example, father?" he asked after supper that same evening. "I will for ten cents," Mrs. Lawson replied.

Keith shut his teeth tight to keep from saying anything. Father had always been so willing to help. The help was given this time, but the elephant bank was ten cents lighter when the work was finished. For five days Keith paid each member of the family, and did anything for him; he was paid, too, for anything he did for others. The fifth evening he said to baby Lillian: "Won't you hand me my pencil off the table, Lillian?"

"What'll you pay?" she asked. "That was too much for Keith, and when his father looked at him a big tear was rolling down his cheek. "What's the matter?" he inquired. "I haven't hardly a thing left," he sobbed. "I've given away my knife, my big marble, my top, my paints, and lots of my money to have things done for me. I don't like this way. Let's just do things because we like each other."

"All right," father, mother and grandmother agreed, "we don't like this way either."

"I have found out how mean I've been, though," and Keith smiled through his tears. "I'll fill that wood-box up high in the morning, Mother, I'll do what I'm asked to do after this, and I won't ask to be paid for doing it either." Selected.

SHRINKAGE OF GOOD HAY DOES NO INJURY

Loss of Water Does Not Affect Feeding Value.

Properly Cured Product Has Bright, Natural Green Color—Information Soon to Be Given Out by Department of Agriculture.

Shrinkage occurring in good hay is due almost entirely to a loss of water, which has no feeding value, say specialists of the United States bureau of markets. Such shrinkage seldom causes an actual money loss to the farmer, because any loss in weight in baled hay is borne by the shipper, who usually receives the hay as soon as it is baled.

Loss of Water Causes Shrinkage in Weight of Hay, but Does Not Injure Feeding Value.

If the shipper stores baled hay for speculation, there often will be a money loss caused by shrinkage, because he has purchased an excess amount of water.

There is practically no loss of dry-matter in market hay that has been properly cured. Proper curing is indicated by a bright, natural green color. Improperly cured hay may lose dry-matter, but such hay is not in demand in any of the terminal markets.

The water content of hay at different periods of curing and storage, methods of making hay to prevent excessive shrinkage in storage, methods of determining shrinkage on individual farms, and other general shrinkage information of interest to all agencies engaged in the production and marketing of market hay is given in a publication soon to be issued by the Department of Agriculture.

MARKETING SHEEP AND HOGS

Figures Furnished by Department of Agriculture Show Cost of Loading, Feeding, Etc.

Of 54 carloads of sheep, including 11 single-deck and 43 double-deck cars, the cost of loading and bedding cars averaged $0.019 per 100 pounds live weight, according to figures furnished the general trade commission by the United States department of agriculture. Other marketing expenses, including freight, varied from $0.235 to $1.97 per hundredweight. The shrinkage in weight varied from 3.53 to 8.37 per cent, the majority of the shipments averaging approximately 8 per cent.

Similar records on 263 carloads of hogs showed the cost of loading and bedding to average 1.5 cents per 100 pounds live weight; feed at market approximately 8 to 9 cents; commission charges, 2 to 10 cents; miscellaneous expense, 2 to 10 cents, averaging approximately 7 cents; and the total cost of marketing including freight from varying districts approximately from 33 to 60 cents. The shrinkage in weight on 873 carloads of hogs varied from 9.88 to minus 4.59 per cent.

LATE MOLTERS ARE FAVORED

Hens That Undergo Transformation During July and August Are Not Best Layers.

It has been observed that the best layers usually molt during the latter part of September or the months of October, November and December. Hens that molt during July and August are not the profitable hens, as they rest for three or four months while they grow their new feathers, and will not start in laying until the following February or March. These hens are not the kind to use either in the breeding pen or the laying pen. In some cases, the early hatched pullets of the year previous will start molting during June, and a little judgment should be exercised in such cases. A check should be made with other tests.

PROPAGATING RHUBARB ROOT

Plants Which Have Not Done Very Well This Season Should Be Dug — Plant Next Spring.

Rhubarb which has not been giving very good results during the past season, should be dug this fall, and the roots allowed to remain in the open during the winter. In the spring, as soon as the ground can be prepared, the large root or roots to be kept should be divided into from six to eight parts and planted. A root four to five years old becomes root bound and produces small stems.

CLOUDS ARE EARTH'S VEIL

If Seen From the Moon They Would Appear as Mere Film Separating the Earth.

The layer of cloud covering the earth is relatively very thin. If, for example, we could examine the earth from the moon we would doubtless see a veil of cloud covering little more than half the surface. At that distance the clouds would have no texture, the earth would appear swathed in an irregular sheet of formless vapor, through which, from time to time, the land and water areas could be seen.

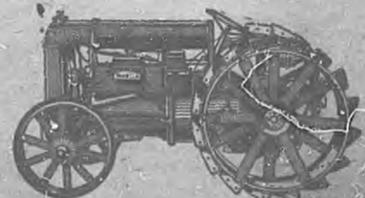

The cloud cover of the earth is most attenuated; it may be compared to a film, for it is supposed to be less than one-eighth-hundredth of the earth's diameter in vertical thickness.

The thinness of the earth's atmosphere may be more clearly comprehended if we realize that the relative thickness of the cloud layer on an eight-inch terrestrial globe would be about one-hundredth of an inch. Yet it is in this thin veil that clouds form, so that it is seen our weather is produced within limited confines.—The Ace.

"Oh for a new generation of day dreamers. They will not ask to live worth living—they will make it so. They will transform the sordid struggle for existence into glorious effort to become that which they have admired and loved."

WORTH WHILE GOOD THINGS.

Apples are fruit of which one never tires and they are usually in season in some form. Spiced Apples.—Wipe, core and pare six large apples and arrange them in a baking dish. Mix sugar, a pinch salt and cinnamon to taste to fill the cavities. Add water and bake until the apples are soft, keeping often with the strap in the dish. Remove to the oven and brown. Chill, serve with sugar and cream. For the meringue use the whites of two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of flavoring extract.

Huntington Soup.—To one cupful of corn add two cupfuls of chicken stock, two cupfuls of tomatoes, one-half onion; bring to the boiling point and simmer for 15 minutes. Melt one cup butter, add one cup flour and pour on gradually, stirring all the while the hot mixture. Season with salt and cayenne.

Beef Steak a la Henrietta.—Wipe a porterhouse steak, cut one and one-half inches in thickness, broil eight minutes, turning frequently. Pour one-half of the sauce on a hot platter, lay in it the steak, cover with the remaining sauce and garnish with parsley and grated horseradish.

Sauce Henrietta.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and divide into three parts. Put one piece in a saucepan with the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and mixed with one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of water. Put the saucepan into a larger one of hot water, place over the fire and stir constantly until the butter is melted. Add a second piece of butter, and when melted the third piece, then add two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree, one of Worcestershire sauce, one-half tablespoonful of parsley, one-half teaspoonful of minced parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. This sauce should be perfectly smooth and of the consistency of a thick custard. To prepare the tomato puree cook a cupful of tomato until thick, reduce to three tablespoonfuls, then put through a sieve.

Getting Desperate. Felix Frankfurter of the Popular Government League was at a banquet in Cambridge. "The authorities, to soothe us—for they see we're getting pretty desperate—the authorities now declare that the high cost of living is going to fall."

Mr. Frankfurter made a gesture of scorn and incredulity. "Well, it has fallen," he said—"on the consumer."

Idea Confused. "How are the women here as conversationalists?" "The light one over there is rather heavy, but the dark girl beside her is very light."

Extreme Meeting. "The electrician who was on the spot was certainly a live wire." "How do you know?" "I could tell by the way he handled the dead one."

Good Points About Failure. Do not be downcast at failures. They are often far better for the student than success. He who goes to school to his mistakes will always have a good schoolmaster, and will not be likely to become idle or conceited.

The Real Test. The measure of civilization in any race or community is its capacity for co-operation—the harmonious and effective getting along together.

Steelman—Tilghman.

Miss Lula A. Tilghman, a well-known nurse who has made her home in Berlin for several years, was quietly married at Chincoteague, Saturday, October 30th, to N. R. Steelman, in the oyster business at Chincoteague. They will reside at Chincoteague.

W. C. T. U.

The W. C. T. U. had a pleasant meeting Wednesday evening with Mrs. Fletcher Porter. Several visitors were present. Mrs. Joyce Bunting, who had been a member of the W. C. T. U. in Delaware, joined this Union and paid dues, and in the absence of the president and vice-presidents consented to preside.

Deviations exercises were held as usual and a few business matters disposed of. $1 was appropriated for state work, as requested by the convention. Sales continued, and the non-alcoholic flavoring extracts, and another box had been ordered. Apples and lugs were served by the hostess.

Charles Hamblin.

Charles Hamblin, a prominent citizen of Salisbury well known in this place, died suddenly early Friday morning of last week, of a second stroke of paralysis. He leaves a widow, who is a sister of the late J. G. Harrison, of Berlin, two sons and two daughters, all residing and living at Selbyville, and one brother, Joshua Hamblin, of Berlin.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon in the M. E. Church, of which he had long been a member, by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Briggs. The interment was in the family lot, in the cemetery near Selbyville. Those who attended from here were, Joshua Hamblin, Senator and Mrs. Orlando Harrison and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Harrison, Mrs. Lizzie Harrison and Mrs. W. B. S. Powell.

Ocean City Methodists Expect Great Day Sunday.

At least many of the Methodists of Ocean City will dedicate their handsome new church on Sunday. Their long wait has meant much to them, however, for instead of the small building originally intended, they have been enabled, through friends all over Maryland, to erect a structure costing $17,000.

Bishop John W. Hamblin, of Washington, will be present all day. He will preach at 11 a. m., dedicate the church at 2 p. m., and preach again at 7:30.

It is expected that great crowds will be present from all sections of the Peninsula.

An Explanation.

An article relative to the exercises at Market Monument appeared in last week's issue of the Advance, over the signature of L. P. Bowen. The article was written, at my request, by Dr. Bowen; excepting the section relative to the part that Dr. Bowen took in the affair, which was written by myself, and inserted by the printer, in the original article at my request.

As there has been some misunderstanding arising from this section, I make this explanation.

LEAGUE DECEASED, HARDING CLAIMS

Tells Marion Celebrators America Will Play Part in "Peace and Justice Association."

NO APOLOGY NOR REGRET.

International Action is Pledged in His First Speech as President Elect. Such Association Must Leave U. S. Free Course as Greatest Republic.

Marion, Ohio.—Making his first speech as President-elect, Warren G. Harding declared at an election celebration of home folks here that the Versailles League of Nations was "now deceased," although the new administration intended to see that the nation played its part in a new international association founded on peace and justice.

Harding also told his friends and neighbors, who gathered around the front porch in a cheering concourse rivaling the greatest crowd of the campaign, that he had come through the fight "without an apology or a regret," and that he would "never not have the Presidency than to win it by speaking ill or uttering a lie."

The celebration, in which many from other Ohio cities joined, was characterized by all the carnival features of an old-time political rally. So great was the gathering that the streets were jammed for a block, and only a small part of those present could hear the speech. In a parade past the Harding residence, there were many special features, one man leading a donkey on whose sides was painted, "Jimmie didn't treat me right," while another group carried a dummy corpse shrouded against a red and black background and labeled "The League of Nations."

"It's a solemn responsibility," he said, "and when I am through I want to be able to come back and be one of you again, the same as I am now. I like to stand before you and tell you I don't come with a single apology or regret. Before I'd become President by speaking ill or uttering a lie, I'd spurn the office."

He added that he always had liked "the Marion spirit of boosting," and that he was "going down to Washington as a booster for the United States of America."

Thousands took part in the evening's parading and serenading. Noise-making devices of many kinds shrieked about the Harding home and the crowd sang and shouted by turns while half a dozen bands played in with patriotic airs, old-time favorites and common jazz.

Except for an engagement made several months ago to speak on December 6 in Bedford, Va., at an Elks' memorial service, Mr. Harding has no appointments for public speeches between now and inauguration. He may make short talks from his train along the way South, however, and may also deliver one or two addresses on particular subjects before March 4.

Planning Factory Operatives Coming Back From Automobile Plants.

Chicago.—S. S. King, of Dayton, Ohio, president of the National Association of Sash, Door and Mill Manufacturers, says planning mills and factories lost half their workers to the automobile industries, but are getting them back.

The east central states have a surplus of labor with increasing efficiency all around, in some cases 50 per cent, continued Mr. King.

"I didn't see as much sorrow in your faces as I had apprehended. It's not that you or I question the desire of America to play its part; it's not that we question the high ideals of those who were responsible for the Versailles covenant. You just didn't want a surrender of the United States of America, you wanted America to go on under American ideals. That's why you didn't care for the League which is now deceased."

"America is playing a great part now. America's healing the heart of the old world tonight as no other nation. But there is more to do, there is a new world relationship, and when the next Administration comes into power we're going to play our part. We're going to ask for nations associated together in justice, but it shall be an association which surrenders nothing of American freedom."

In his short talk the President-elect touched on no other issues of the campaign, but thanked the crowd for its tribute and asked that he go to Washington "with your good wishes, your

MANY OLD TIMERS WILL BE MISSING

Familiar Faces and Picturesque Characters Will Be Missed in Washington.

CHAMP CLARK IS RETIRED.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, About the Only One of the Old Timers to Remain, Will Be a Solitary Figure.

Once familiar faces will return to the halls of Congress and political characters long associated with affairs under the great white dome at Washington will pass from the scene as a result of Tuesday's congressional contests. Champ Clark, who missed being nominated for President of the United States by the narrowest of margins in 1912, will slip back into the ranks of those political ghosts that stalk the chamber of the House. He will join the group of silent figures that attained the heights of the speaker's rostrum but could go no farther, as James K. Polk alone of all wielders of the gavel was able to climb from the speaker's chair into the White House.

Speaker Gillett remains the father of the House, due to his unbroken service now running into fifteen consecutive terms.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon will be a solitary figure. Danville seems inclined to keep him in Congress until he cries "hold, enough," but he has been forced, reluctantly, into the role of patriarch and sage amidst a quorum of comparative youngsters who believe in prohibition. His cronies, General Isaac Sherwood, of Toledo, will be among those failing to descend to the speaker's pit to take the oath of office in the sixty-seventh Congress. The driveaways of the national capital will miss those splendid days General Sherwood drove with such pride and the civil war veterans will lose a valued friend of pensions. Woodrow Wilson tried to beat General Sherwood in 1912. The effort failed then; it succeeded this year.

Senator "Charlie" Thomas, the weather prophet of the senate and one of its best story-tellers, will cease to stroll up and down, hands in hip-pockets, tobacco in his jaw, and dissertate on problems of the day. He refused to run on the Democratic platform endorsing the League of Nations. He ran as a Nationalist, but the solid Republican vote of Colorado won easily over the split forces of the Democrats. The coming and going of "Charlie" Thomas' tongue meant more to Washingtonians interested in the weather than all of the forecasts of the bureau.

Plum's Plan Sponsors Retired. Thorus W. Sims, of Tennessee, who sponsored the Plum plan of railroad control and John H. Esch, of Wisconsin, who fought for it successfully and gave his name to the transportation act, will not be there. Esch and Sims held their party membership on the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Esch may return to Washington as secretary of the movement in the ironing cabinet. The gossip has it that way. Sims became famous in the capital as the only Democratic congressman who believed sincerely in protection. The story was that when attacked by a stic adversary he sought safety in a tree and called for protection.

Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, whose silvery hair and polished manners always prompted women visitors in the galleries to inquire as to the identity of "that senator who looks like such a fine old gentleman," appears to have given way to a Republican and "Jimmy" Phelan, of California, who always knew something about oil and Japanese and California wines, will be among the absentees. It was the dapper Phelan with his trim beard who inspired a woman of national prominence to suggest that his whiskers reminded her of a kitten after finishing a bowl of cream.

WOOLEN MILLS SLOW DOWN.

Four Big Plants at Lawrence to Work Four Days a Week.

Lawrence, Mass.—The four mills of the American Woollen Company of this city closed for the rest of the week, and will go on a four-day-a-week schedule. The mills have been running upon a six-day schedule, but, according to the agents, with only about 60 per cent of their usual personnel. Lack of orders was given as the reason for the curtailment.

ALLIED ORDER TO BAVARIA.

Calls for Immediate Disarmament of Militia Detachments.

Munich.—Demands for the prompt disarmament of militia detachments have been handed the Bavarian government by the Interallied Control Commission here. It is asserted in official circles that the Bavarian government will ask the British administration to refuse surreptitiously to suppress defense organizations, a number of which have been organized throughout the country.

Our Deficient Smelter.

Our sense of smell is far inferior to that of the savage; but even his scent faculty is a poor thing compared with that of lower animals. A cat can get drunk on a smell. Watch pussy with the cat.

TREE WAS ONCE A HANDSPIKE

Old Cottonwood at Norris City, Ill., Has Interesting History—Was "Planted by Boy in 1815."

At Norris City, Ill., there is a tree known as the "vanishing-pole cottonwood" that has an interesting history which is told by the American Forestry Magazine (Washington) as follows: Moses Pierce and a boy comrade returned from the war of 1812 to their homes, near Norris City, in the spring of 1815, and on January 8 of that year they had helped General Jackson whip the British in the Battle of New Orleans.

These boys both attended a log rolling on the old Pierce farm that spring, and as they were returning to the house after their day's work made a wager who could reach the fuelshed, using their cottonwood handspikes as walking poles. They both left their handspikes sticking in the soft earth where they had vanished, and during the spring rains of 1815 they both took root and lived.

One of these trees died about ten years ago, but the other is still living and is 105 years old. This tree is about thirty feet in circumference, 175 feet high, with a very large hollow in the base of the tree which has been used as a housing for setting hens, a kennel for dogs and is always a fine playhouse for children.

Imitating Mahogany.

In the manufacture of furniture and cabinets a great deal of red gum is used as an imitation of mahogany or Occidental walnut, says the American Forestry Magazine. When red gum is properly finished it can be made to look much like either of these woods. There is a very distinct difference, however, between red gum and mahogany or walnut. This difference lies in the size of the pores.

First Whites Through Grand Canyon.

On May 24, 1869, Maj. J. W. Powell and a party of explorers left Green River, Utah, in boats and passed through Marble and Grand canyons, emerging from the latter on August 21. Major Powell was later director of the United States geological survey.

WASHINGTON

Creation of a bureau of supplies for the purchase of government supplies is to be initiated in the next session of Congress. The proposed bureau is to be charged with the purchase of all federal equipment.

For the first time in history a sitting senator will be President elect, as Senator Harding is to retain his seat until Governor Cox of Ohio goes out of office and the new Republican governor can appoint a Republican to succeed him.

Senator West Frank B. Willis, former governor and former member of the house, is to serve out Senator Harding's unexpired term after his resignation.

Cheered and applauded by 200 Washington Democrats who gathered in front of the White House the other night, President Wilson smiled, waved his hand and partly arose from his wheelchair in delight at the enthusiastic tribute. The demonstration continued for five minutes and ended when the President was wheeled back into the Executive Mansion.

A representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, returning to Paris after a visit to departments devastated during the war, declared he was favorably impressed with the fine results obtained in agricultural reconstruction which is going forward rapidly.

The State Department accepted the invitation of the League of Nations Council to appoint a member to the commission which is to decide the future status of the Aland Islands. Officials declared he would be in no sense a representative of this country, serving under the League Council.

The Board of Trustees of Princeton University have announced that Professor Frank B. Rowland, who had resigned last June, will be succeeded by Professor W. Leffingwell, who resigned last June. Dr. Sugarman is an experienced coach as well as an expert player, and it is expected will work a big improvement in the team.

"Mickey" Hummel, the regular left end on the Lafayette College varsity football team, has been suspended from the squad for failure to keep training rules. Coach "Rock" Rutherford stated that Hummel's suspension would be for an indefinite period.

Jack Dempsey, world heavyweight champion, announced in Montreal that he had agreed to a fifteen round bout with Jess Willard, former world champion, to take place March 17. The location of the fight, he said, had not been decided.

Carpenter and Jess Dempsey are to get half a million dollars for their boxing exhibition. Sounds nice, but wait till the income tax men get through with it.

The Army supply of tickets for the Army-Navy football game to be played at the Polo Grounds in New York on Nov. 27 has been exhausted.

The government of Mexico is preparing an ambitious program of government ownership for the development of its merchant marine, according to a dispatch from Trade Commissioner Cunningham at Mexico City. It will include the construction of docks and warehouses.

The German coal miners' unions have quietly served notice on the government that unless the promise of nationalization is carried out by January 1 or far-reaching steps taken in that direction the miners will take forcible possession of the mines.

News of the passage of the anti-Japanese land law in California was received quietly by the holiday crowds in Tokyo. The newspapers made only subdued comment on the law. It is believed that the government looked down the more ballistically.

The American consul at La Paz reports that the Bolivian government has repealed the law requiring exporters to sell foreign drafts equaling 10 per cent of exports to the Banca de Nacion. This law was effective October 1.

Costa Rican congress called to meet in special session November 10 to deal chiefly with reconstruction and financial problems. Creation of a gold reserve and establishment of an international bank will be considered.

On the occasion of the "Victory Celebration" a party of Italian soldiers tried to enter the town hall of Westphalia, held by the Socialists, to assist in the tri-color for the red flag. Shots were exchanged, and a newspaper reporter was wounded. A Socialist was thrown against the wall, and a bomb in his pocket exploded, and he was killed.

Absolute Proof. There is one infallible method by which a man's greatness may be judged. If your friend tells you he is a great man, believe him. If you know him, believe him. If you know him, believe him. If you know him, believe him.

A decrease in the colored population of 2.7 per cent in Delaware was announced by the Bureau of Census. President Wilson issued a proclamation removing restrictions on the importation, manufacture, storage and distribution of sugar, effective November 5. The President's action does away with the remaining war-time restrictions over sugar. The Department of State has decided, because of the unsettled conditions still prevailing in Poland, to maintain rigid restrictions on the issuance of passports for travel in that country.

BREAKING A HORSE TO RIDE

Take Plenty of Time and Do Not Frighten Young Animal—Teach Gait Separately.

When a horse is to be used for riding it is well first to break him to drive single and double. This will make him quieter to ride.

Horses usually back through fear, in breaking one to ride, take plenty of time and do not frighten him. Pat on the saddle and lead him around until he becomes accustomed to it. Do not have the girth too tight. The horse may be tied up for a time and later turned into a paddock with the saddle on.

Next accustom the horse to being mounted, getting on and off a number of times. The assistant should have a lead rope tied around the horse's neck and run through the rings of a snaffle bit. If the horse attempts to play up, punish him with a jerk on the bit. Let the assistant lead the horse with rider around until the horse is familiar with the weight on his back, then dismount the assistant. If the horse becomes rebellious, pull his head sharply to one side; do not let him get it down. The first few rides should be in a small inclosure.

The gait should be taught separately. The first few rides should be the walk; next teach the trot, and then the canter. Spurs should not be used until the horse is well broken. Most saddle horses can be taught to rack. To teach a horse to rack, he should be shod with light shoes or none at all in front and heavy shoes behind. Sitting well back in the saddle, just force the horse out of a walk and he will soon rack. Keep him at it for only a short distance at a time, as it is a new gait to him and tiresome at first. After the gait is learned the duration of the lesson may be gradually lengthened.

Please look at the date on the label of your paper and see if your subscription is overdue. If it is, bring or send us the money today, before you forget it. We have kept the price of the Advance at the same low rate when every other newspaper we know of has gone up with the increased cost of materials for producing it, and you should appreciate our sacrifice enough to give us the small amount required.

Same Thought in Great Minds. Carlyle wrote of "One life—a little gleam of time between two eternities." Marcus Aurelius had written, "Does not life a thing of consequence, for look at the evening void of the future and at that other limitless space, the past." The old Saxon, Bede, likened man in his earthly life to a sparrow flying out of the dark night into the lighted banquet hall for a moment only, and then out again into the black and unknown night.

Why Worry because the shape of your ears does not exactly please you? Their peculiarities probably indicate good points in your character. According to an expert, ears which wiggle indicate versatility of character, and if they lie close to the head show that they can hear the same jokes year after year without becoming weary. This makes for happy marriages!

Worry No More. A missionary just returned from the Belgian Congo thus describes a newly discovered tribe of pygmies: "Although they are completely uncivilized, and will neither lie nor steal, and will marry only one wife." Right here is where we quit worrying about the future of civilization.—Arthur H. Folwell, in Leslie's.

The Qual D'Orsay. The Qual d'Orsay is the name of that portion of the left bank of the Seine in Paris that is opposite the Place de la Concorde. From the fact that the chamber of deputies and other government buildings face it, its name is used to denote the French government, as Downing street is used to denote the British.

Annual Rainfall. The annual rainfall of the world is computed by the United States geological survey at 29,347 cubic miles, of which 6,528 cubic miles drains into the sea. Each cubic mile of the river water weighs about 420,000 tons, and averages about 420,000 tons of foreign matter, that passes to the ocean.

Lesson in Carefulness. School children in Pittsburgh, at a schoolhouse on a street where many automobiles pass, who court danger by carelessness in crossing the streets, are required to sit on a stone wall in front of the schoolhouse whenever school is let out until all the other children get across the street.

Pathetic Appeal. Mary's house had been struck by lightning and pretty badly damaged. The next evening when Mary was praying at mother's knee she asked a blessing on each member of the family and then added: "And, God, please don't be mad at us, any more."—Exchange.

Volstead Law On Cider Making.

The provisions of the Volstead act bearing on the manufacture of cider which is at a fermentation stage, its sale and conversion into vinegar, are important at this time. Those provisions follow:

All persons desiring to manufacture cider or other intoxicating liquors specified in this article for conversion into vinegar, or to use such cider or intoxicating liquors in the manufacture of vinegar, should file application on Form 1404 prescribed in Article III, setting forth in such application the exact acts for which they desire authorization. After approval a permit will be issued authorizing the acts stipulated.

Cider manufactured by persons holding permits as above may be used by them in the manufacture of vinegar, or may be sold or furnished by them in quantities of five wine gallons or more to other persons holding permits to use cider in the manufacture of vinegar upon receipt of permits to purchase (Form 1470) and may not be otherwise disposed of.

Sweet cider containing less than 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be manufactured and sold without the necessity of obtaining permit provided such product is put up and marketed in sterile closed containers or is treated by the addition of benzoate of soda or other substance which will prevent fermentation, in such proportion as to insure the alcoholic content remaining below one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume. The responsibility for keeping the alcoholic content below such percentage rests upon the manufacturer, and in any case where cider is found upon the market containing alcohol in excess of the allowed percentage the manufacturer will be presumed to have manufactured and sold an intoxicating liquor.

Cider containing less than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be sold by the producer to persons holding permits to manufacture vinegar. If such cider, sugar or other fermentable substances should under no circumstances be added to the apple juice for the purpose of increasing the alcoholic content, inasmuch as such practice is held to constitute the production of a mash fit for distillation in the prohibition of Section 2031 of the Revised Statutes.

"Thank You, Red Cross!" Say 92,000 Families

Over 92,000 families are healthier and happier today, thanks to the Greatest Mother in the World—the Red Cross. Last year alone 92,000 women learned something even more essential than the cure of disease. They learned how to prevent disease. The Red Cross, through its nation-wide organization, taught them simple truths for preserving their families' health; taught them what food is best for their families' health; taught them how to care for the sick, saving babies and adults the country across. There remain hundreds of thousands of families, too poor to learn elsewhere, who remain uninstructed. The Red Cross must shoulder the task of teaching them. The work must go on. But it can't go on without your support. The work is costly, but—saving lives is a greater satisfaction than saving money. Your membership dollar does its part to save a life. SHRINKAGE OF GOOD HAY DOES NO INJURY

Loss of Water Does Not Affect Feeding Value.

Properly Cured Product Has Bright, Natural Green Color—Information Soon to Be Given Out by Department of Agriculture.

Shrinkage occurring in good market hay is due almost entirely to a loss of water, which has no feeding value, say specialists of the United States bureau of markets. Such shrinkage seldom mean actual money loss to the farmer, because any loss in weight in hay is borne by the shipper, who only receives the hay as soon as it the shipper stores baled hay for a long time, there often will be a loss caused by shrinkage, because hay purchased an excess of water practically no loss of dry matter in market hay that has been properly cured is indicated. Proper curing is indicated by natural green color, and hay may lose dry matter if it is not in demand in the principal markets.

The water content of hay at different periods of curing and storage, methods of making hay to prevent excessive shrinkage in storage, methods of determining shrinkage on individual farms, and other general shrinkage information of interest to all agencies engaged in the production and marketing of market hay is given in a publication soon to be issued by the department of agriculture.

MARKETING SHEEP AND HOGS

Figures Furnished by Department of Agriculture Show Cost of Loading, Feeding, Etc.

Of 54 carloads of sheep, including 11 single-deck and 43 double-deck cars, the cost of loading and bedding cars average $0.019 per 100 pounds live weight, according to figures furnished the general trade commission by the United States department of agriculture. Other marketing expenses, including freight, varied from $0.239 to $1.07 per hundredweight. The shrinkage in weight varied from 3.33 to 8.57 per cent, the majority of the shipments averaging approximately 8 per cent.

Similar records on 233 carloads of hogs showed the cost of loading and bedding to average 15 cents per 100 pounds live weight; feed at market approximately 8 to 9 cents; commission charges, 4 to 10 cents; miscellaneous expense, 2 to 10 cents, averaging approximately 5 cents; and the total cost of marketing including freight from varying districts approximately from 33 to 50 cents. The shrinkage in weight on 873 carloads of hogs varied from 9.88 to minus 4.59 per cent.

LATE MOLTERS ARE FAVORED

Hens That Undergo Transformation During July and August Are Not Best Layers.

It has been observed that the best layers usually molt during the latter part of September or the months of October, November and December. Hens that molt during July and August are not the profitable hens, as they rest for three or four months while they grow their new feathers and will not start in laying until the following February or March. These hens are not the kind to use either in the breeding pen or the laying pen. In some cases, the early hatched pullets of the year previous will start molting during June, and a little judgment should be exercised in such cases. A check should be made with other tests.

PROPAGATING RHUBARB ROOT

Plants Which Have Not Done Very Well This Season Should Be Dug—Replant Next Spring.

Rhubarb, which has not been giving very good results during the past season, should be dug this fall, and the roots allowed to remain in the open during the winter. In the spring as soon as the ground can be prepared, the large root or mother root should be divided into from six to eight parts and planted. A root four to five years old becomes root bound and produces small stems.

CLOUDS ARE EARTH'S VEIL

If Seen From the Moon They Would Appear as Mere Film Separating the Earth.

The layer of clouds covering the earth is relatively very thin. If, for example, we could examine the earth from the moon we would doubtless see a veil of cloud covering little more than half the surface. At that distance the clouds would have no texture, the earth would appear swathed in an irregular sheet of formless vapor, through which, from time to time, the land and water areas could be seen.

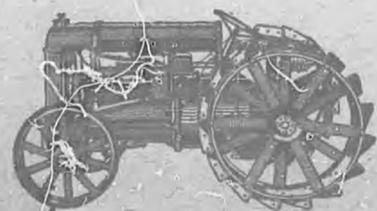

The cloud cover of the earth is most attenuated; it may be compared to a film, for it is supposed to be less than one-eight-hundredth of the earth's diameter in vertical thickness.

The thickness of the earth's atmosphere may be more clearly comprehended if we realize that the relative thickness of the cloud layer on an eight-inch terrestrial globe would be about one-hundredth of an inch. Yet it is in this thin veil that clouds form, so that it is seen our weather is produced within limited confines.—The Acc.

"Oh, for a new generation of day dreamers. They will not ask if life worth living—they will make it so. They will transform the world struggle for existence into glorious effort to become that which they have admired and loved."

WORTH WHILE GOOD THINGS.

Apples are fruit of which one never tires and they are useful in season in some forms.

Spiced Apple.—Wipe, core and pare six large apples and arrange them in a baking dish. Mix sugar, a pinch of salt and cinnamon to taste to fill the cavities. Add water and bake until the apples are soft, heating often with the syrup in the dish. Remove to the oven and brown. Chill, serve with sugar and cream. For the meringue use the whites of two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of flavoring extract.

Huntington Soup.—To one cupful of corn add two cupfuls of chicken stock, two cupfuls of tomatoes, one sliced onion; bring to the boiling point and simmer for twenty minutes. Melt one and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter, add the same amount of flour and pour on gradually, stirring all the while the hot mixture. Season with salt and cayenne.

Beef Steak a la Mortelette.—Wipe a porterhouse steak, cut one and one-half inches in thickness, broil eight minutes, turning frequently. Pour one-half of the sauce on a hot platter, lay in the steak, cover with the remaining sauce and garnish with parsley and grated horseradish.

Sauce Henriette.—Wash one-half cupful of butter and divide into three parts. Put one piece in a saucepan with the yolks of three eggs slightly beaten and mixed with one-half tablespoonful of lemon juice and one tablespoonful of water. Set the saucepan into a larger one of hot water, place over the fire and stir constantly until the butter is melted. Add a second piece of butter, and when melted the third piece, then add two tablespoonfuls of tomato puree, one of Worcester-hire sauce, one-half teaspoonful of parsley, one-half teaspoonful of minced parsley, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of cayenne. This sauce should be perfectly smooth and of the consistency of a boiled mustard. To prepare the tomato puree cook a cupful of tomato until thick, reduce to three tablespoonfuls, then put through a sieve.

Ideas Confused.
"How are the women here as conversationalists?"
"The light one over there is rather heavy, but the dark girl beside her is very light."

Extremes Meeting.
"The electrician who was on the spot was certainly a live wire."
"How do you know?"
"I could tell by the way he handled the dead one."

Good Points About Failure.
Do not be discouraged at failures. They are often far better for the student than success. He who goes to school to his mistakes will always have a good schoolmaster, and will not be likely to become idle or contented.

The Real Test.
The measure of civilization in any race or community is the capacity for co-operation—the harmonious and effective getting along together.

What Really Makes for Success.
There are a few men and women so circumstanced and handicapped that the only possible success for them is their heroic acceptance of what to others would be failure. But with the great majority the element that is lacking is the hearty taking hold of the work before them.—Exchange.

An Explanation.

An article relative to the exercises at Makemie Monument appeared in last week's issue of the Advance, over the signature of L. P. Bowen. The article was written, at my request, by Dr. Bowen; excepting the section relative to the part that Dr. Bowen took in the affair, which was written by myself, and inserted by the printer, in the original article at my request.

As there has been some misunderstanding arising from this section, I make this explanation.

LEAGUE DECEASED, HARDING CLAIMS

Tells Marion Celebrators America Will Play Part in "Peace and Justice Association."

NO APOLOGY NOR REGRET.

International Action is Pledged in His First Speech as President Elect. Such Association Must Leave U. S. Free Course as Greatest Republic.

Marion, Ohio.—Making his first speech as President-elect, Warren G. Harding declared at an election celebration of home folks here that the Versailles League of Nations was "now deceased," although the new administration intended to see that the nation played its part in a new international association founded on peace and justice.

Harding also told his friends and neighbors, who gathered around the front porch in a cheering concourse rivaling the greatest crowd of the campaign, that he had come through the fight "without an apology or a regret," and that he would "never not have the Presidency than to win it "by speaking ill or uttering a lie."

The celebration, in which many from other Ohio cities joined, was characterized by all the carnival features of an old-time political rally. So great was the gathering that the streets were jammed for a block, and only a small part of those present could hear the speech. In a parade past the Harding residence, there were many special features, one man leading a donkey on whose sides was painted, "Jimmie didn't treat me right," while another group carried a dummy corpse inscribed against a redire background and labeled "The League of Nations."

confidence and your prayers." "It's a solemn responsibility," he said, "and when I run through I want to be able to come back and be one of you again, the same as I am now. I like to stand before you and tell you I don't come with a single apology or regret. Before I'd become President by speaking ill or uttering a lie, I'd spurn the office."

He added that he always had liked "the Marion spirit of boosting," and that he was "going down to Washington as a booster for the United States of America."

Thousands took part in the evening's parade and serenading. Noise-making devices of many kinds shrieked about the Harding home and the crowd sang and shouted by turns while half a dozen bands played in with patriotic airs, old-time favorites and common jazz.

Except for an engagement made several months ago to speak on December 5 in Bedford, Va., at an Elks' memorial service, Mr. Harding has no appointments for public speeches between now and inauguration. He may make short talks from his train along the way South, however, and may also deliver one or two addresses on particular subjects before March 4.

SURPLUS LABOR FOR MILLS.

Planning Factory Operatives Coming Back From Automobile Plants. Chicago.—S. S. King, of Dayton, Ohio, president of the National Association of Sash, Door and Mill Manufacturers, says planing mills and factories lost half their workers to the automobile industries, but are getting them back.

The east central states have a surplus of labor with increasing efficiency all around, in some cases 50 per cent, continued Mr. King.

HEAVIEST WOMAN DIES.

Lucy Moore, Who Weighed 608 Pounds, Had Many Proposals. Bristol, England.—Lucy Moore, reputed to be the heaviest woman in the world, has died here. At one time she tipped the scales at the enormous weight of 608 pounds. Miss Moore was born in Kentucky and had been in the show business for many years. She traveled all over the world and was said to have received many offers of marriage from men encountered in her travels.

"I didn't see as much sorrow in your faces as I had apprehended. It's not that you or I question the desire of America to play its part; it's not that we question the high ideals of those who were responsible for the Versailles covenant. You just didn't want a surrender of the United States to go on under American ideals. That's why you didn't care for the League which is now deceased."

"America is playing a great part now. America is healing the heart of the old world tonight as no other nation. But there is more to do, there is a new world relationship, and when the next Administration comes into power we're going to play our part. We're going to ask for nations associated together in justice, but it shall be an association which surrenders nothing of American freedom."

MANY OLD TIMERS WILL BE MISSING

Familiar Faces and Picturesque Characters Will Be Missed in Washington.

CHAMP CLARK IS RETIRED.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, About the Only One of the Old Timers to Remain, Will Be a Solitary Figure.

Once familiar faces will return to the halls of Congress and political characters long associated with affairs under the great white dome at Washington will pass from the scene as a result of Tuesday's congressional convicts.

Champ Clark, who missed being nominated for President of the United States by the narrowest of margins in 1912, will slip back into the ranks of those political ghosts that stalk the chamber of the House. He will join the group of silent figures that attained the heights of the speaker's rostrum but could go no further, as James K. Polk alone of all wielders of the gavel was able to climb from the speaker's chair into the White House.

Speaker Gillett remains the father of the House, due to his unbroken service now running into fifteen consecutive terms.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon will be a solitary figure. Danville seems destined to keep him in Congress until he cries "hold, enough," but he has been forced, reluctantly, into the role of patriarch and sage amidst a quorum of comparative youngsters who believe in prohibition. His crony, General Isaac Sherwood, of Toledo, will be among those falling to descend to the speaker's pit to take the oath of office in the sixty-seventh Congress. The driveways of the national capital will miss those splendid days General Sherwood drove with such pride and the civil war veterans will lose a valued friend of pensions. Woodrow Wilson tried to beat General Sherwood in 1918. The effort failed then; it succeeded this year.

WOOLEN MILLS SLOW DOWN.

Four Big Plants at Lawrence to Work Four Days a Week. Lawrence, Mass.—The four mills of the American Woolen Company of this city closed for the rest of the week, and will go on a four-days-a-week schedule.

ARMED ORDER TO BAVARIA.

Calls for Immediate Disarmament of Militia Detachments. Munich.—Demands for the prompt disarmament of militia detachments have been handed the Bavarian government by the International Central Commission here.

It is asserted in official circles that the Bavarian government will ask the Berlin administration to refuse energetically to suppress defense organizations, a number of which have been organized throughout the country.

Our Deficient Smelter.

Our sense of smell is far inferior to that of the savage; but even his scent faculty is a poor thing compared with that of lower animals. A cat can get drunk on a smell. Watch pussy with the catnip.

more in the starting cabinet. The gossamer have it that way. Sims became famous in the capital as the only Democratic congressman who believed sincerely in protection. The story was that when attacked by a hostile adversary he sought safety in a tree and called for protection.

Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, whose silvery hair and polished manners always prompted women visitors in the galleries to inquire as to the identity of "that senator who looks like such a fine old gentleman," appears to have given way to a Republican and "Jimmy" Phelan, of California, who always knew everything about oil and Japanese and California wines, will be among the absentees. It was the dapper Phelan with his trim beard who inspired a woman of national prominence to suggest that his whiskers reminded her of a kitten after finishing a bowl of cream.

These boys both attended a log rolling on the old Pierce farm that spring, and as they were returning to the house after their day's work made a wager who could vault the furthest, using their cottonwood handspikes as vaulting poles. They both left their handspikes sticking in the soft earth where they had vaulted, and during the spring rains of 1815 they both took root and lived.

TREE WAS ONCE A HANDSPIKE

Old Cottonwood at Norris City, Ill., Has Interesting History—Was "Planted by Boy in 1815." At Norris City, Ill., there is a tree known as the "vaulting-pole cottonwood" that has an interesting history which is told by the American Forestry Magazine (Washington) as follows:

Hoses Pierce and a boy comrade returned from the war of 1812 to their homes near Norris City, in the spring of 1815, and on January 8 of that year they had helped General Jackson whip the British in the Battle of New Orleans.

These boys both attended a log rolling on the old Pierce farm that spring, and as they were returning to the house after their day's work made a wager who could vault the furthest, using their cottonwood handspikes as vaulting poles. They both left their handspikes sticking in the soft earth where they had vaulted, and during the spring rains of 1815 they both took root and lived.

One of these trees died about ten years ago, but the other is still living and is 105 years old. This tree is about thirty feet in circumference, 170 feet high, with a very large hollow in the base of the tree which has been used as a housing for setting hens, a kennel for dogs and is always a fine playhouse for children.

Imitating Mahogany.

In the manufacture of furniture and cabinets a great deal of red gum is used as an imitation of mahogany or Circassian walnut, says the American Forestry Magazine. When red gum is properly finished it can be made to look much like either of these woods. There is a very distinct difference, however, between red gum and mahogany or walnut. This difference lies in the size of the pores.

First Whites Through Grand Canyon. On May 24, 1899, Maj. J. W. Powell and a party of explorers left Green River, Utah, in boats and passed through Marble and Grand canyons, emerging from the latter on August 29. Major Powell was later director of the United States geological survey.

Creation of a bureau of supplies for the purchase of government supplies is to be agitated in the next session of Congress. The proposed bureau is to be charged with the purchase of all federal equipment.

For the first time in history a sitting senator will be President elect, as Senator Harding is to retain his seat until Governor Cox of Ohio goes out of office and the new Republican governor can appoint a Republican to succeed him. Senator Elect Frank B. Willis, former governor and former member of the house, is to serve out Senator Harding's unexpired term after his resignation.

Cheered and applauded by 500 Washington Democrats who gathered in front of the White House the other night, President Wilson, smiling, waved his hand and partly arose from his wheelchair to delight at the enthusiastic tribute. The demonstration continued for five minutes and ended when the President was wheeled back into the Executive Mansion.

A representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, returning to Paris after a visit to departments devastated during the war, declared he was favorably impressed with the fine results obtained in agricultural reconstruction which is going forward rapidly.

The State Department accepted the invitation of the League of Nations Council to appoint a member to the commission which is to decide the future status of the Aland Islands. Officials declared he would be in no sense a representative of this country, serving under the League Council.

The upward trend on butter continues because of continued shortage of strictly fancy table grades, which some buyers think are absolutely necessary to retain their trade.

More cotton goods mills report curtailment and reduction of wages. Meanwhile the market in New York is a little firmer.

The Moorhead Knitting Company, Chambersburg, Pa., manufacturer of knit goods, with mills at Mechanicsburg and Harrisburg, will begin operations soon in its new mill at Chambersburg.

The herring market continues quiet in all parts of this country and ineffectively is reported in England.

Some buyers of cotton yarns report getting certain numbers of stock at discounts. Prices on the whole are admitted by both sellers and buyers to be extremely irregular.

Several more manufacturers this week showed babbigan underwear and promptly met the new low prices of $5.25 to $3.50 for shirts and drawers.

Much more conspicuous than sales of gray goods are reports from New England and the south telling of greater curtailment of production and of wage reductions. In many instances the decreased wages is being suggested by the workers.

Baron Alberto, newly appointed Italian ambassador to the United States, succeeded Baron Averara. Baron Alberto was connected with the Washington Embassy several years ago.

SPORTING

Baseball lost a tidy chance two years ago to hitch its wagon to the former President. He was receptive at that time. The two factions, whose fighting has made baseball a standing joke before the country, were split as wide as ever. The progressive faction, headed by Comiskey of Chicago and Hempstead, then of the New York Giants, sought Mr. Taft as the new chairman of the National Commission to succeed Garry Herrmann.

James T. Burke, manager of the St. Louis Browns, has been released. It is uncertain who will succeed Burke, but there is a general feeling that Leo Fahl, who acted as coach and assistant manager last year, will be the next manager.

CONTRACTOR INDICTED FOR BUILDING GRAFT

Grand Jury Acts on Contradictory Testimony of Disposition of $25,000 Bribe to Raise Strike.

New York.—George S. Beckers, millionaire building contractor of 107 Riverside drive, was indicted by the additional grand jury on charges of perjury growing out of testimony at the second hearing of the Lockwood legislative investigation. In this testimony he first swore that he had paid at the rate of $25,000 bribe money given him by the city to raise the 4th and 5th streets to two feet above the street level.

This first step to bring about the raising of the streets was taken at the time the city was having a contest of bids for the raising of the streets. SAMOAN GOVERNOR COMMITS SUICIDE

Naval Commander Terhune of Hackensack, N. J., Shoots Himself When Suggested.

Honolulu.—Commander Warren J. Terhune, Naval Governor of American Samoa, added his life on November 5, three days before the battleship Kansas was due to arrive with a Naval Board of Inquiry from Washington, D. C., to investigate charges against his administration.

The Governor's body was found in the bathroom of the Executive Mansion at Honolulu, and through the heart.

Commander Terhune had been suffering from ill health for some time, and his heart was affected.

Charges were recently filed against Commander Terhune by Lieut. Commander C. H. Boucher, U. S. N., the charges involving alleged troubles between Commander Terhune and Samoan natives. A Court of Inquiry was named by Secretary Daniels to investigate the charges. Commander Terhune was ordered to be relieved from duty, and Captain Waldo B. Evans appointed to succeed him.

Commander Terhune had been Governor of Samoa since March, 1919. He entered the Naval Academy from New Jersey in 1885 and was graduated four years later. In the Spanish-American War he served on the cruiser Philadelphia, and during the period of the European war was Commandant of a naval training school at Annapolis. He was born in New Jersey fifty-one years ago.

The records of the Navy Department give the address of Mrs. Josephine L. Terhune, the Commander's widow, as 203 Lookout avenue, Hackensack, N. J.

Commander Terhune had asked for a naval commission to investigate the affair and the United States steamer Kansas was due to have arrived there early this month with a commission on board for this purpose.

BREAKING A HORSE TO RIDE

Take Plenty of Time and Do Not Frighten Young Animal—Teach Gait Separately.

When a horse is to be used for riding it is well first to break him to drive single and double. This will make him quieter to ride. Horses usually back through fear. In breaking one to ride, take plenty of time and do not frighten him. Put on the saddle and lead him around until he becomes accustomed to it. Do not have the girth too tight. The horse may be tied up for a time and later turned into a paddock with the saddle on.

Next accustom the horse to being mounted, getting on and off a number of times. The assistant should have a lead rope tied around the horse's neck and run through the rings of a snaffle bit. If the horse attempts to play up, punish him with a jerk on the bit. Let the assistant lead the horse with rider around until the is familiar with the weight on back, then dismount the assistant. If the horse becomes rebellious, pull his sharply to one side; do not let it down. The first few rides should be in a small enclosure.

It should be taught separately. The first few rides should be the trot, and then the canter. Spurs should not be used until the horse is well broken. Most horses can be taught to rack. To teach a horse to rack, he should be ridden with light shoes or none at all. The rider should sit in the saddle, just force the horse into a walk and he will soon rack. Keep him at it for only a short distance at a time. As it is a new gait to him and he does not know it. After the gait is learned the duration of the lesson may be gradually lengthened.

FIRST-CLASS SWINE PASTURE

Grazing Keeps Animals Healthy—Nash and

A plan for raising hogs in a not stumpy hog yard, is used by Forest Henry of Dover, Minn., a well-known institute leader for the agricultural extension division of the Minnesota college of agriculture. Mr. Henry believes in giving the hog a goodly medium at least of the treatment and attention accorded other farm animals. He says:

"The most profitable hog pasture is a pasture so large that the hogs do not eat one-half of it. If it be alfalfa or clover will remain uneaten at haying time can be cut and cured into hay. An acre of alfalfa or clover will make as much pork, so far as it can be used, as an acre of corn. The one builds up the farm and requires very little labor; the other reduces farm fertility and requires much high-priced labor. "Good pastures not only make cheap pork but keep the hogs in much better health and reduce the danger of hog cholera to a minimum. In these days a hog cannot be grown on grain alone and at the same time make money for his owner."

SWINE REQUIRE CLEAN LOTS

Not Enough Attention Paid to Pans by Many Hog Raisers—Worms Thrive on Dirt.

A great many hog raisers do not pay enough attention to clean lots. Worms are the cause of many unhealthy pigs. Recent investigations indicate that the eggs of both the common round worm and the lung worm are harbored in old straw piles, manure piles, dirty hog lots and hog yards. One of the best methods of preventing worms is to clean up the lots and thus eliminate the number of worms which will be present. During warm weather it is a good plan to move the hogs entirely out of the winter quarters and at the same time clean them up.

Hair Used in Building Churches.

At one time the Japanese made use of human hair in building churches. It was the custom for church-going people to give some of their hair as a free-will offering when a temple was being built. Such a structure at Tokio had the beams and rafters held in place by one of these human hair cables. Placed end on end this human hair rope measured 3,523 feet long and seven inches in diameter, no fewer than 850,000 persons contributing before sufficient quantity was obtained.

Ears and Marriages. Why worry because the shape of your ears does not exactly please you? Their peculiarities probably indicate good points in your character. Volstead Law On Cider Making.

The provisions of the Volstead act bearing on the manufacture of cider which is at a fermentation stage, its sale and conversion into vinegar, are important at this time. Those provisions follow:

All persons desiring to manufacture cider or other intoxicating liquors specified in this article for conversion into vinegar, or to use such cider or intoxicating liquors in the manufacture of vinegar, should file application on Form 1404 prescribed in Article III, setting forth in such application the exact acts for which they desire authorization. After approval a permit will be issued authorizing the acts stipulated.

Cider manufactured by persons holding permits as above may be used by them in the manufacture of vinegar, or may be sold or furnished by them in quantities of five wine gallons or more to other persons holding permits to use cider in the manufacture of vinegar upon receipt of permits to purchase (Form 1410) and may not be otherwise disposed of.

Sweet cider containing less than 1 of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be manufactured and sold without the necessity of obtaining permit provided such product is put up and marketed in sterile closed containers or is treated by the addition of benzoate of soda or other substance which will prevent fermentation, in such proportion as to insure the alcoholic content remaining below one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume. The responsibility for keeping the alcoholic content below such percentage rests upon the manufacturer, and in any case where cider is found upon the market containing alcohol in excess of the allowed percentage the manufacturer will be presumed to have manufactured and sold an intoxicating liquor.

Cider containing less than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol by volume may be sold by the producer to persons holding permits to manufacture vinegar. If such cider, however, contains one-half of 1 per cent or more of alcohol by volume when removed for conversion into vinegar, it will be necessary that the persons producing same hold permits to manufacture cider as above provided and furnish same only upon receipt of permits to purchase. Revised Statutes.

In the manufacture of cider, sugar or other fermentable substances should under no circumstances be added to the same for the purpose of increasing its alcoholic content, inasmuch as it is held to constitute a mash fit for sale in the prohibited territory.

"Thank You, Red Cross!" Say 92,000 Families

Over 92,000 families are healthier and happier today, thanks to the Greatest Mother in the World—the Red Cross. Last year alone 92,000 women learned something even more essential than the cure of disease. They learned how to prevent disease. The Red Cross, through its nation-wide organization, taught them simple truths for preserving their families' health; taught them what food is best for their families' health; taught them how to care for the sick, saving babies and adults the country across. There remain hundreds of thousands of families, too poor to learn elsewhere, who remain uneducated. The Red Cross must shoulder the task of teaching them. The work must go on. But it can't go on without your support. The work is costly, but—saving lives is a greater satisfaction than saving money. Your membership dollar does its part to save a life. Perpetual Peace

By REV. JOHN C. PAGE

Teacher of Bible Doctrine, Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TEXT—These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace.—John 16:22.

The last verse of the sixteenth chapter of John brings to a close the greatest message ever delivered to mortal ears. There is nothing in literature comparable to it. Tongue cannot tell, nor can the heart conceive, the abundance of comfort, peace, and joy which this message has imparted and always will impart, to God's believing people.

The purpose of the message was to provide a basis for the perpetual peace of the believer, a peace that the world can neither give nor take away. "These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace." If we search for "these things" that contribute to our peace, we shall find them in this and the two preceding chapters, which together constitute the King's counsel to His people, spoken His own before His crucifixion. Any one of the ninety verses contained in these chapters would be sufficient for a spiritual meditation. Taken together they may be looked at as a mountain range of truth, with several peaks of prominence. The first peak is the believer's future prospect.

Position and Power. In this mountain range the first peak is called the believer's position and power. It is seen in the parables of the Kingdom. Our position and power are determined by the life force within us. We are in Christ, and the truth of the Kingdom is the spiritual principle of the Kingdom. As a result of this position and power, the believer is called to be a witness to the world.

Asking in Christ's Name. Another peak which attracts our attention is that of the believer's prayer. The teaching on prayer, words of challenge and strife can be found in the transcendent message: "What ye shall ask in my name, that will I do unto you." This is the teaching of the Old Testament teaching on prayer. The idea of righteousness is prevalent as a basis for petition. In the synoptic Gospels the emphasis is placed on faith or belief, but here an additional element enters in—"in my name."

Treatment of Sprains. Sprains usually cause a good deal of pain. To relieve this apply a mixture of a small amount of turpentine, an equal amount of acetic acid and the white of an egg. Put the mixture in a bottle and shake it well before applying to the sprain.

Unfortunate Truth. Men haven't much love for men, women haven't much love for women, and most men and women have less love for each other than they have for themselves.—Exchange.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (© 1918, Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 14

THE POWER AND AUTHORITY OF JESUS.

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 8 and 9. GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the Kingdom, and healing every sickness, and every disease among the people. Matt. 9:35. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Mark 1:29; Luke 7:1-10. PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Forgiving Sin. JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Heals a Centurion's Servant. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Response of Jesus to Human Needs. YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christianity and Physical Needs.

In chapters 8 and 9 are grouped a number of miracles which exhibit what the King can do over the chief foes of mankind—sickness, sin, satanic power, death, sorrow and storms. It is fitting that they should be grouped here, following the laws of the Kingdom, for they show the King's power to administer the affairs of the Kingdom, and produce within his subjects the graces of character set forth in these laws. It will make the lesson too long to attempt to consider all these miracles. It will also be satisfactory to confine ourselves to the particular section selected by the lesson committee, so we will select several of the most outstanding ones.

I. Jesus Heals a Leper (8:1-4). 1. This dreadful disease was the most loathsome and hopeless known. In the Jewish ritual it was regarded as a symbol of sin. It was incurable by man. Only the Divine Physician can cure sin. 2. The leper's faith. His cry was most pitiful, but his faith was strong. He fully believed that Jesus was able, but was uncertain as to his willingness to heal him. 3. Jesus' power. He put forth his hand and touched the leper, bidding the disease to depart, and instantly the man was clean.

II. Jesus Heals the Centurion's Servant (8:5-13). 1. The disease—paralysis. In paralysis the victim is helpless and disqualified for service. 2. The centurion's faith. He believed that if Jesus would, but speak the word his servant would be healed. 3. The wonderful power of the King. He did not need to go to see the centurion's slave and touch him, but only needed to speak the word and it was done.

III. Jesus Calms the Sea (8:23-27). 1. The King asleep in the storm-tossed boat (v. 24). Since the King is the Almighty Creator, he had no reason to fear, and therefore, could well be resting in sleep. 2. The terrified disciples (v. 25). They had not known him as the Almighty King, for they would not have been terrified, for they would have known that no boat could go down with the Christ on board. 3. The King's rebuke (v. 26, 27). (1) The disciples rebuked for their lack of faith. Instead of looking at the Lord, they were looking at the circumstances. (2) The sea is made calm. The elements of nature are subject unto him.

IV. Jesus Casts Out Demons (8:28-34). After stilling the tempest Jesus crossed to the other side of the sea into heathen territory. 1. Met by two men possessed by demons (v. 28). By referring to Mark 5:17 and Luke 8:27 we get a conception of the desperate condition of these men. So fierce were they that no one could safely pass that way. 2. What they knew about Christ (v. 29). They knew that he was the Son of God and that he had come to destroy the Devil and his works. 3. The limitation of the Devil's power (v. 31). Although the Devil is mighty, he cannot even enter a hog without God's permission. 4. Christ's power to deliver from the Devil (v. 30, 32). The demons quailed before him not daring to dispute his power, but begged permission to enter the swine.

V. Jesus Healing a Woman With an Issue of Blood (9:20-22). 1. Her helpless condition (v. 20). She had been a great sufferer for twelve long years. 2. Her faith (v. 21). Her faith was so strong that she believed contact with the Master's garment would secure the needed help. 3. Her confession (v. 21; cf. Luke 8:47). Jesus had her make a public confession. It was for her good that he had her make this confession, for faith in Christ unconfessed will naturally weaken. 4. Christ's words of encouragement (v. 22). He told her that it was her faith, not her touch, that saved her.

Proper Amusements. Thousands of people demand amusements. Thousands of dollars are spent in that behalf. But there is absence of plan, concert, and co-operation. The Devil steps in and takes the profit. The people want but little here below nor want that little long. Why may we not have more of the amusement which strengthens and enlightens? One rich man by his own unaided beneficence might provide unaided amusement for a whole city. Why does not beneficence turn in this direction?—Humphrey J. Desmond.

Diamond Mining Old Industry. Diamond mining is an ancient industry, and in India antedates Christ's birth by many centuries. There can be no question that the Roman Manlius was acquainted with the Indian diamond in A. D. 16, and a ring of imperial times, set with a one-carat rough stone, has been preserved. Since then, diamond-mining has furnished employment to tens of thousands, and for well over two hundred years to from seventy-five to one hundred thousand men. It is a world-wide industry, in which the common labor is almost wholly done by negroes.—Exchange.

WHY Average Person's Lungs Are Seldom Filled

Among the first things that we learn from a good singing teacher is that we have been using about one-half or perhaps only one-third of our available lung capacity, leaving the balance untouched. The average person does not know anything about the bottom half of his lungs—he might as well not have any bottom half. If you tell him to take a deep breath, he starts, as usual, to fill his lungs from the top, and his deep breath is no deeper than his shallow one; it merely involves a lot of effort for substantially the same result. The trained singer or athlete, on the other hand, when about to inhale in a deep breath, builds up the mass of air in his lungs more or less like a pyramid. He starts at the bottom and works up; the central and upper regions of his lungs are not inflated until the bottom is blown up to the limit.

A New York singing teacher has invented a little device for recording lung capacity which emphasizes the difference between the right and the wrong ways of inhaling. It consists of a small instrument upon the subject's chest. It turns his attention to the waist, and measures the extent to which a filling of the lungs dilates this. More strictly, of course, this little instrument does not measure lung capacity itself but rather the extent to which the full potential lung capacity is being utilized. Try it out yourself; if you did not know it before, you will be surprised to see how greatly you can extend your lung capacity by drawing in all the air you can hold.

WHERE SCIENCE STOPS SHORT

Why It Will Always Be Impossible to Square the Circle With Perfect Accuracy.

To a correspondent who suggests an experimental method of squaring the circle, the editor of the Scientific American replies that the method seems correct, but adds: "Your results will, however, be no more accurate than your ability to construct squares and circles and to measure lines and angles. This does not go much beyond a ten-thousandth of an inch. This may be quite sufficient for the engineer, but it is not for the mathematician. He demands absolute accuracy. In 1882 it was proved by Lindemann that it was impossible to find the side of a square which was equal to a given circle. If this is so, all the other figures which you construct are equally impossible of exact determination. You cannot make a perfect square or a perfect circle with wood or metals. In everything we make we have to say, 'exact within the limits of measurement.'"

Why Lawyers Swore by Buddha Instead of God and the Holy Apostles was granted license to practice law within the jurisdiction of the State of New York. The student is related, thereupon, to a library and began a profound study of the world's religions, on which he spent several days. He then returned to the court and informed the learned judges he had found that the Buddhist religion was "the most moral and most complete," and asked permission to take oath upon it. The judge consulted musty tomes of Argentine law and decided there was nothing to exclude him from taking such an oath.

Why Fide Are a Good Thing.

As Walter Dill Scott suggests, every business youth, on beginning his or her business life, should adopt a precaution, a fid, some outside interest, only less absorbing than his business, and should continuously cultivate it as a foil, a rest, a saving grace to his business. Provided this fid or unbusinesslike interest be one not too narrow and one not too difficult and fatiguing, the recipe is fundamentally an important one for this matter of business hours as well as for personal hygiene in general.—G. V. N. Dearborn, M. D., in the Scientific American.

Why No More "Proof Coins"

Formerly the mint furnished a little more than cent, so-called "proof" coins, which were much desired by collectors. They were far superior in finish to the ordinary pieces, being struck by hand presses and dies specially cut and burnished. The "blanks" of metal thus stamped were burnished so that the coins were beautifully bright and mirrorlike. Kept in little pockets of buckskin, they would retain their prettiness indefinitely. But the treasury has put a stop to this business and proof pieces are no longer to be obtained.

Why Rubies in Betrothal Rings.

As far as it can be learned, the oldest betrothal rings were set with rubies only, as the love token of long ago. That stone is credited with being what is called "lucky," and is said to drive away sadness and evil dreams. There is a legend about the ruby, which declares that Noah had one of marvelous brilliancy. "He light which it emitted being sufficient to illuminate his chamber in the ark."

Alibi Explained.

Asked if he knew the meaning of an alibi a colored man replied: "Yes, sah; it's one of dem times when you prove you was at de lodge when you want to prove you wasn't at de crap game when you was."—New Haven Register.

Idol Married State.

Nothing much that is wrong can happen to the man who thinks he has married the prettiest girl in the world, so long as he keeps on thinking so.

The Ladder of Time.

I count this thing to be grandly true; That a noble deed is a step toward God— Lifting the soul from the common and To a purer air and a broader view.

We rise by things that are under foot; By what we have mastered of good and gain.

By the pride deposed and the passion slain And the vanquished ill that we hourly meet.

Only dreams is a ladder thrown From the weary earth to the sapphire walls;

But the dreams depart and the vision fails, And the sleeper wakes on his pillow of stone.

Heaven is not reached by a single bound, But we build the ladder by which we rise From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies, And we mount to its summit round by round.

—J. U. Holland.

Trusting The Guide.

It was the closing hour at a large gathering of Christian Endeavorers, and the moment of the conversation meeting had come. A delegate from the West was depicted to "call the roll."

After one name was called there was a slight pause, and amid the perfect silence rose the clear, sweet tones of a young girl's voice:

"The very dimness of my sight Makes me secure, For groping in my misty way I feel His hand, I hear His say, 'My help is sure.'"

The meeting over, the delegate sought out a local Endeavorer and asked the reason for the emotion manifested by the audience in the response given. The following reply was made:

"You may well wonder what touched us all so much, but you will hardly be surprised when I tell you. Months that girl's sight has been failing, and a fortnight ago she became totally blind. This is her first response since."—Rest and Reading.

A Reliable Remedy for Colds and Croup

Would you like to know the number of people who use and recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? Mrs. J. N. Chamberlain, Pa., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has cured my little boy of a cold. I also have a little granddaughter three and a half years of age when she had croup. It broke up the attack at once. I have recommended this remedy to many of my friends and neighbors who have also used it with good results."

The Harmful Deviation.

There are those who say: "I will not lie; but I will take every advantage I can, just outside of lying." And they run their line of life so near to deceit that it is equivocal. It is very difficult to tell, sometimes, which side of the line they are on. They are conscientious in this. They say, "I do not mean to lie. I mean to take care." But they go so near that the least joggle of the wheel, if they run over an unexpected stone, throws them over the line.

Little lies are seeds of great ones. Little cruelties are germs of great ones. Little treacheries are like small holes in cement, the beginnings of large ones.—Selected.

Serious Results from Colds.

Colds not only cause a tremendous financial loss but also a serious injury to every one who contracts them as they lower the vitality and prepare the system for the more serious diseases. It is not at all unusual for people who have serious lung trouble to say "I had a hard cold last winter." Why not take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and cure your cold while you can.

What Keith Found Out.

"Keith, don't forget to fill the wood-box," Mrs. Lawson reminded her son the morning after his return from a visit to his aunts and his Uncle Jack.

"What'll you pay me?" Keith was searching for his gloves, and he asked the question without looking up. In a moment he turned, and met his mother's astonished gaze.

"Aunt Kate, Aunt Harriet and Uncle Jack always paid me in some way when I worked for them," he explained hastily, "and I think you folks could, too."

"Well!" Keith knew by the tone that his mother was displeased. "All right," she added in a moment, but with a hurt look, "I'll give you five cents if you will fill it heaping full."

When the wood-box was filled, Keith's grandmother called. "Where is the boy who hasn't any glasses? I'm glad he is home again." "I'll find them if you will pay me, grandmother," was the answer. "Let me see, I haven't any change. How would a bag of candy do?"

Keith decided it would do, and he ignited the glasses. That night he was paid for getting his father's slippers. He wouldn't take his little sister to bed until he was promised a new knife. So things went on day after day. His parents had thought at first, that it was only a notion that would soon be forgotten, but it was not. One day Mr. and Mrs. Lawson and Grandmother Lawson had a talk, but Keith didn't hear the talk.

That very same day he hurried home from school, and rushed into the house. "Mother, where are you?" he called. "Won't you sew my football? It's ripped." "What will you pay me?" his mother asked.

"Why! Why?" Keith was so surprised that this was all he could say for a minute. "I could give you the big red apple that Carl Horton brought me," he finished. "I will fix it for that," was the reply. When Keith went out again the ball was mended, but the red apple was on the table by his mother's side.

"Won't you help me with my example, Father?" he asked after Keith had finished. "Mr. Lawson replied.

Keith about his teeth ought to keep from saying anything. Father had always been so willing to help. The help was given this time, but the elephant bank was ten cents lighter when the work was finished. For five days Keith paid each member of the family who did anything for him; he was paid, too, for anything he did for others. The fifth evening he said to baby Lillian:

"Won't you hand me my pencil off the table, Lillian?" "What 'oo pay?" she inquired. "That was too much for Keith, and when his father looked at him a big tear was rolling down his cheek. "What's the matter?" he inquired.

"I haven't hardly a thing left," he sobbed. "I've given away my knife, my big marble, my top, my paints, and lots of my money to have things done for me. I don't like this way. Let's just do things because we like each other."

"All right," father, mother and grandmother agreed, "we don't like this way either."

"I have found out how mean I've been, though," and Keith smiled through his tears. "I'll fill that wood-box up high in the morning, Mother, I'll do what I'm asked to do after this, and I won't ask to be paid for doing it either." Selected.

Renewed Testimony.

No one in Berlin who suffers backache, headaches, or distressing urinary ills can afford to ignore this Berlin man's twice-told story. It is confirmed testimony that no Berlin resident can doubt. S. J. Hastings, Bay St., Berlin, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions when my kidneys have been sluggish and when backache and other kidney trouble has appeared. This medicine has never failed to do me good. Doan's are the first thing we use in our family in cases of kidney trouble."

An Explanation.

An article relative to the exercises at Makemie Monument appeared in last week's issue of the Advance, over the signature of L. P. Bowen.

The article was written, at my request, by Dr. Bowen; excepting the section relative to the part that Dr. Bowen took in the affair, which was written by myself, and inserted by the printer, in the original article at my request.

As there has been some misunderstanding arising from this section, I make this explanation.

LEAGUE-DECEASED, HARDING CLAIMS

Tells Marion Celebrators America Will Play Part in "Peace and Justice Association."

APOLOGY NOR REGRET.

International Action is Pledged in His First Speech as President Elect. Such Association Must Leave U. S. Free Course as Greatest Republic.

Marion, Ohio.—Making his first speech as President-elect, Warren G. Harding declared at an election celebration of home folks here that the Versailles League of Nations was "now deceased," although the new administration intended to see that the nation played its part in a new international association founded on peace and justice.

Harding also told his friends and neighbors, who gathered around the front porch in a cheering concourse rivaling the greatest crowd of the campaign, that he had come through the night "without an apology or a regret," and that he would "rather not have the Presidency than to win it by speaking ill or uttering a lie."

The celebration, in which many from other Ohio cities joined, was characterized by all the carnival features of an old-time political rally. So great was the gathering that the streets were jammed for a block, and only a small part of those present could hear the speech. In a parade past the Harding residence, there were many special features, one man leading a donkey on whose sides was painted, "Jimmy didn't treat me right," while another group carried a dummy corpse silhouetted against a red-dye background and labeled "The League of Nations." It was from the latter tableau that the President-elect took the cue for the leading thought of his speech. His reference to it started a laugh, and then he said:

confidence and your prayers." "It's a solemn responsibility," he said, "and when I am through I want to be able to come back and be one of you again, the same as I am now. I like to stand before you and tell you I don't come with a single apology or regret. Before I'd become President by speaking ill or uttering a lie, I'd spin the office."

He added that he always had liked "the Marlon spirit of boasting," and that he was "going down to Washington as a booster for the United States of America."

Thousands took part in the evening's parading and serenading. Noise-making devices of many kinds shrieked about the Harding home and the crowd sang and shouted by turns while half a dozen bands played in with patriotic airs, old-time favorites and common jays.

Except for an engagement made several months ago to speak on December 6 in Bedford, Va., at an Elk's memorial service, Mr. Harding has no appointments for public speeches between now and inauguration. He may make short talks from his train along the way South, however, and may also deliver one or two addresses on particular subjects before March 4.

SURPLUS LABOR FOR MILLS.

Planting Factory Operatives Coming Back From Automobile Plants. Chicago.—S. R. King, of Dayton, Ohio, president of the National Association of Sash, Door and Mill Manufacturers, says planting mills and factories lost half their workers to the automobile industries, but are getting them back.

The east central states have a surplus of labor with increasing efficiency all around, in some cases 50 per cent, continued Mr. King.

HEAVIEST WOMAN DIES.

Lucy Moore, Who Weighed 608 Pounds, Had Many Proposals. Bristol, England.—Lucy Moore, reputed to be the heaviest woman in the world, has died here. At one time she tipped the scales at the enormous weight of 608 pounds.

Miss Moore was born in Kentucky and had been in the show business for many years. She traveled all over the world and was said to have received many offers of marriage from men encountered in her travels.

"I didn't see as much sorrow in your faces as I had apprehended. It's not that you or I question the desire of America to play its part; it's not that we question the high ideals of those who were responsible for the Versailles covenant. You just didn't want a surrender of the United States of America, you wanted America to go on under American ideals. That's why you didn't care for the League which is now deceased."

"America is playing a great part now. America is healing the heart of the old world tonight as no other nation. But there is more to do, there is a new world relationship, and when the next Administration comes into power we're going to play our part. We're going to ask for nations associated together in justice, but it shall be an association which surrenders nothing of American freedom."

MANY OLD TIMERS WILL BE MISSING

Familiar Faces and Picturesque Characters Will Be Missed in Washington.

CHAMP CLARK IS RETIRED.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, About the Only One of the Old Timers to Remain, Will Be a Solitary Figure.

Once familiar faces will return to the halls of Congress and political characters long associated with affairs under the great white dome at Washington will pass from the scene as a result of Tuesday's congressional contests.

Champ Clark, who missed being nominated for President of the United States by the narrowest of margins in 1912, will slip back into the ranks of those political ghosts that stalk the chamber of the House. He will join the group of silent figures that attained the heights of the speaker's rostrum but could go no farther, as James K. Polk alone of all wielders of the gavel was able to climb from the speaker's chair into the White House.

Speaker Gillett remains the father of the House, due to his unbroken service now running into fifteen consecutive terms.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon will be a solitary figure. Danville seems inclined to keep him in Congress until he cries "hold, enough," but he has been forced, reluctantly, into the role of patriarch and sage amidst a quorum of comparative youngsters who believe in prohibition. His crony, General Isaac Sherwood, of Toledo, will be among those falling to descend to the speaker's pit to take the oath of office in the sixty-seventh Congress. The driveways of the national capital will miss those splendid gays General Sherwood drove with such pride and the civil war veterans will lose a valued friend of pensions. Woodrow Wilson tried to beat General Sherwood in 1918. The effort failed then; it succeeded this year.

Senator "Charlie" Thomas, the weather prophet of the senate and one of its best story-tellers, will cease to stroll up and down, hands in hip-pockets, tobacco in his jaw, and dis-sertate on problems of the day. He refused to run on the Democratic platform endorsing the League of Nations. He ran as a Nationalist, but the united Republican vote of Colorado won easily over the split forces of the Democrats. The coming and going of "Charlie" Thomas's name meant more to Washingtonians interested in the weather than all of the forecasts of the bureau.

Plumb Plan Sponsors Retired. Themas W. Sims, of Tennessee, who sponsored the Plumb plan of railroad control and John H. Esch, of Wisconsin, who fought for it successfully and gave his name to the transportation act, will not be there. Each and Sims led their party membership on the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. Each may return to Washington as secretary of club members in the Harding cabinet. The gossip have it that way. Sims became famous in the capital as the only Democratic congressman who believed sincerely in protection. The story was that when attacked by a flaccid adversary he sought safety in a tree and called for protection.

Senator John Walter Smith, of Maryland, whose silvery hair and polished manners always prompted women visitors in the galleries to inquire as to the identity of "that senator who looks like such a fine old gentleman," appears to have given way to a Republican and "Jimmy" Phelan, of California, who always knew everything about oil and Japanese and California wines, will be among the absentees. It was the Gapper Phelan with his trim beard who inspired a woman of national prominence to suggest that his whiskers reminded her of a kitten after finishing a bowl of cream.

WOOLEN MILLS SLOW DOWN.

Four Big Plants at Lawrence to Work Four Days a Week.

Lawrence, Mass.—The four mills of the American Woollen Company of this city closed for the rest of the week, and will go on a four-day-a-week schedule.

The mills have been running upon a six-day schedule, but, according to the agents, with only about 50 per cent of their usual personnel. Lack of orders was given as the reason for the curtailment.

ALLIES ORDER TO SAVARIA.

Calls for Immediate Disarmament of Militia Detachments.

Munich.—Demands for the prompt disarmament of militia detachments have been handed the Bavarian government by the Interallied Control Commission here.

It is asserted in official circles that the Bavarian government will ask the Berlin administration to refuse energetically to suppress defense organizations, a number of which have been organized throughout the country.

Our Deficient Smeller.

Our sense of smell is far inferior to that of the savage; but even his scent faculty is a poor thing compared with that of lower animals. A cat can get drunk on a smell. Watch pussy with the catnip.

TREE WAS ONCE A HANDSPIKE

Old Cottonwood at Norris City, Ill., Has Interesting History—Was "Planted by Boy in 1815."

At Norris City, Ill., there is a tree known as the "vanishing-pole cottonwood" that has an interesting history which is told by the American Forestry Magazine (Washington) as follows:

Hoses Pierce and a boy comrade returned from the war of 1812 to their home, near Norris City, in the spring of 1818, and on January 8 of that year they had helped General Jackson whip the British in the Battle of New Orleans.

These boys both attended a log rolling on the old Pierce farm that spring, and as they were returning to the house after their day's work made a wager who could vault the furthest, using their cottonwood handspikes as vaulting poles. They both left their handspikes sticking in the soft earth where they had vaulted, and during the spring rains of 1818 they both took root and lived.

One of these trees died about ten years ago, but the other is still living and is 105 years old. This tree is about thirty feet in circumference, 175 feet high, with a very large hollow in the base of the tree which has been used as a housing for setting hens, a kennel for dogs and is always a fine playhouse for children.

Imitating Mahogany.

In the manufacture of furniture and cabinets a great deal of red gum is used as an imitation of mahogany or Old Indian walnut, says the American Forestry Magazine. When red gum is properly finished it can be made to look much like either of these woods. There is a very distinct difference, however, between red gum and mahogany or walnut. This difference lies in the size of the pores.

First Whites Through Grand Canyon. On May 24, 1869, Maj. J. W. Powell and a party of explorers left Green River, Utah, in boats and passed through Marble and Grand canyons, emerging from the latter on August 29. Major Powell was later director of the United States geological survey.
