INSANITY IS WEBSTER'S PLEA

Somerlet Man Accused Of Slaying His Bride In A Baltimore Hotel

Carlisle P. Webster, 35 years old, of Deal's Island, went on trial last Thursday in Baltimore for the murder of his bride, Bernice Webster, 21 years old, in their hotel chamber at the Hotel Belvedere on December 28th last. Counsel for the defense elected two attorneys, two jurists, and Judges Heister and Dawkins, of the Criminal Court, presided. W. Trickett Giles and Edward M. Hammond, attorneys for the defense, are endeavoring to show that there is a long line of hereditary insanity in the Webster family; that it is of a peculiar temperament.

Four murder trials in Baltimore have attracted more interest than that of the bride-slayer. A score or more well-dressed women filed into the courtroom an hour before the case was called. A dozen or more of Webster's relatives were there, among whom were his father, mother, sister and several cousins, of Deal's Island. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis M. Chaney, with their daughters, were present, all wearing mourning.

Coulbourn-Carver Wedding

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. T. Paul Coulbourn, near Marion Station, last Wednesday at 10.30 a. m., when his sister, Miss Sallie Caroline Coulbourn, became the bride of Mr. James Lee Carver. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Parker, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, of Marion. The house was beautifully decorated with potted plants and cut flowers. Only the members of the immediate families and a few guests were present.

The bride was attired in a traveling suit of blue and carried bride's roses. Her only attendant was her little niece, Miss Sarah Elizabeth Coulbourn, who acted as flower girl. She was dressed in white and carried a basket of pink sweet peas. The wedding marches, Lohengrin and Mendelssohn, were rendered by Mrs. Harry B. Coulbourn, sister-in-law of the bride.

James Bounds Dead

Mr. James Bounds died at the home of his son, Mr. George A. Bounds, near Snow Hill, Monday night of last week, aged 88 years.

He was a son of the late Mr. Jones Bounds, of Atkinson district, Worcester county, and is survived by one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Lankford, of Princess Anne.

Funeral services were held at Olivet Christian Church last Wednesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Mr. George, pastor of Friendship Methodist Protestant Church. The interment was in the family burying ground on the Bounds homestead in Worcester county. The pallbearers were his six nephews, Messrs. George U. McAllen, E. G. Bounds, William Bounds, O. T. Bounds, Woodland Bounds and J. S. Dennis.

Junior Homemakers' Clubs

There have been 18 Junior Homemakers' Clubs organized, with 322 members, in the public schools of Somerset county. The dates of the meetings of the clubs, which are held in the schools, follows:

First and third weeks in the month at Mt. Vernon, Oriole, Champ, Dames Quarter, Chance, Deal's Island, Revell's Neck and Fairmount.

Second and fourth weeks in the month at Westover, Kingdon, Quinton, Rehoboth, Cokesbury, Perryhawn, Eden, Head of Creek, Jacksonville and Marion.

To Help Taxpayers in Making Returns

Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miles will have a representative from his office to visit Somerset county and assist income taxpayers in making up corporation and other returns. The representative will be in Princess Anne on April 8th to 10th, and in Crisfield on April 11th and 12th. This force is being put into the field especially in the interest of persons who need assistance in filing corporation returns, but will also render assistance to any income taxpayer.

Tomato Growers' Meetings

All farmers and canners are requested to be present at the meetings of tomato growers to be held this week, viz: Weston, April 2nd, in the hall; Eden, April 3d, in Backbone school house; Crisfield, April 4th, in Quinton hall; Marion, April 5th, in the hall. All meetings will be held in the evening at 7.30 o'clock, unless otherwise stated. The next meeting will be held at 9 o'clock in the

TANKS TO BOOST LIBERTY LOAN

German Dress Helmets Will Be Distributed As Trophies

Each of the five States and the District of Columbia, which comprise the Fifth Federal Reserve District, will hold a Victory Liberty Loan Convention early in April.

Twenty tanks have been assigned to the Fifth District. Each State will have an allotment of tanks, which will be accompanied by men from the Tank Corps of the United States Army, and speakers. They will travel in some sections under their own power and in others on flat cars, from which they will dismantle and give demonstrations in the town.

General Pershing has sent to America more than 95,000 captured German helmets. These are not the ordinary trench helmets, but are of unusual varieties which were intended to be worn by German troops when they made their triumphant entry into Paris. Several thousands of these helmets will be allotted to the Fifth district, and the chairman of the Maryland district will be assigned a number to be distributed as trophies among purchasers of Liberty bonds, under some method to be determined by him.

An arcaic circus, including a number of German folkers, will take part in the Liberty Loan campaign, under the direction of the War Department, with the co-operation of the Treasury Department.

Spray Fruit Trees Now

Peaches should be sprayed for control of brown rot, scab and curculio with self-boiled lime sulphur 2-8-50 plus 1 1/2 pounds of dust arsenate of lead, when buds are beginning to show pink. Second application of same spray should be given when petals or shucks begin to slip. Apples should be sprayed when buds are bursting and beginning to show a pinkish white with commercial lime sulphur 1-40, plus 1 1/2 pounds of dust arsenate of lead, plus 1 pint of Black Leaf 40, for control of scab, bitter rot, curculio and aphids. Second application of same spray when about two-thirds of petals have fallen, for control of codling moth. Not necessary to use Black Leaf 40 in second application unless aphids are present.

Present indications show that there will be an abundance of aphids on fruit trees and truck crops, such as cabbage, potatoes and tomatoes.

Information in regard to the control of the insects of the fruit and truck crops can be obtained from the County Agent.

Fire Alarm Startled Citizens

Last Friday night, at 8.30 o'clock, while the wind was blowing a gale from the northwest, the fire alarm was sounded which brought our citizens scurrying from their homes, eager to locate the blaze and render assistance. The alarm was passed to some of our fire-fighters, who were in the Auditorium, and immediately the whole audience made a rush for the stairway. The fire was finally located at Mr. W. P. Todd's feed store, near the railroad station, where, in the second story of which, some of our colored citizens were holding a farmers' meeting. An investigation showed that only the chimney was on fire. It was soon extinguished, no damage being done, and our citizens returned to their homes much relieved.

Casualties Near End

The last of the real American casualty lists in the world war now are being published. Within a few days the lists will contain virtually only the names of those who have died or have been injured since the armistice.

The names of the few given as killed in action are those of men for whom extended investigation had been necessary to establish proof of death.

Daily casualty lists will continue to be issued, however, as long as the Expeditionary Forces remain in Europe. The next of kin will continue to receive the same official notifications from the War Department, but the daily publication of names may from now on run further behind the official telegrams.

Meeting Of Dairy Farmers

A meeting of farmers interested in obtaining high grade dairy cows will be held in the Court House, Princess Anne, Thursday afternoon, April 3rd, at 2 o'clock. It is desired that all farmers who are considering the purchase of dairy cows and are interested in better cows for the farms of this community will attend this meeting.

An Overland touring car belonging to Mr. J. B. Davis, of Princess Anne, caught fire last Sunday while on the road near Weston, totally destroying the upper part of the machine.

Death of Mrs. Murray Watts

The Towanda (Pa.) Daily Review, of March 27th, published the following account of the death of Mrs. Watts, mother of Mrs. John B. Roberts, Princess Anne:

Mrs. T. Murray Watts passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. S. Sickels, Philadelphia, Thursday, March 13th, 1919. The family were at her bedside as follows: Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sickels, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Roberts, of Princess Anne; T. Murray Watts, Berwind, W. Va.; Mary Louise Watts, Canton, and Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Bushong, Gladstone, Mich. Her body was brought to East Canton for burial where it was laid to rest on the afternoon of March 15th by the side of her husband who preceded her Jan. 5th, 1899. Thus a sainted wife, mother and neighbor loved and respected by all who knew her, has answered the final call and her soul has gone to her God whom she trusted with child-like simplicity all through life and who was all sufficient to the last.

Mrs. Watts was always a Christian, always active in Christian work, was a member of the M. E. Church, at East Canton, also a member of the Eastern Star, Canton, and always doing all she could to help those with whom she came in contact. Being of a sunny disposition her passing away will leave an impression on all who knew her, that will not soon, if ever, be forgotten.

Salisbury's Mayor Loses To Williams

Elmer C. Williams has won out in the suit brought against him by Mayor I. E. Jones and members of the city council of Salisbury for libel, claiming damages of $40,000. The Mayor's suit was tried first, he being represented by Ellegood, Freney and Waites and Curtis W. Long, while State's Attorney White, Joshua W. Miles, of Baltimore, and Grant Goslee represented Mr. Williams. Mr. Williams was a member from Wilcomico county of the last General Assembly, and he claimed during the trial that the action against him was the result of his course in the Legislature and charged that the plaintiffs were trying to curb his political ambition. It is understood that Mr. Williams contemplates running either for the Senate from Wilcomico county this year or being a candidate for county treasurer.

Editors Taking a Rest Cure

Editor H. L. Brewington, of the Wilcomico News, and Editor S. E. Shanahan, of the Easton Star Democrat, are at Wernersville, Pa., taking the "rest cure," and yet some folks think running a country newspaper is an easy snap.

Henry Townsend, colored, charged with killing William Hudson, also colored, on the 23d of last July, was tried for manslaughter in the Circuit Court for Worcester County last Wednesday, and the jury rendered a verdict of "not guilty" within ten minutes after they went in their room.

LETTER FROM "OVER THERE"

Private Marby Heath Says The 115th Regiment Did "Some Fighting"

Mrs. Howard P. Waller has just received a letter from her brother, Private Marby L. Heath, 115th Regiment, A. E. F., who is now stationed at Ainsville, France. The letter in part, together with a poem, follows:

While we were on the Verdun front our company went "over the top" on the morning of October 8th, and it was some sight to see those large shells bursting all around us. While I was lying down on the ground a 3-inch shell fell within about three feet from me, and it was a very fortunate thing for me that it did not explode. But that was not the only one that day. On the 14th day of October we went up against the hard fighting. We started to advance across a bald field, but could not make it, so we had to go through a thick piece of woods and flank the Germans. We captured about two hundred of them. I was one of the guards who took them to the rear. That night after we had delivered them and were on our way back five of us slept in a small town that had been blown to pieces by Germans. They bombed the village all night, but we stayed there until morning, then went back to the woods we had taken. It was called the Argonne Forest. I am told that it was the worst battle of the war. I was gassed on the 14th and taken to the hospital. Would like to tell you more, but will tell you all about it when I get home, and I hope that won't be long. We have been over here nine months, but it seems like nine years. It rains here nearly all the time.

You may keep old Fritz's helmet
For your Son, or Kate, or Ann;
You may hold your German rifle
For your little girl to scan,
No one needs old Fritz's capture,
No rifle and no lance;
The only capture that I've made
Is the heart of a child of France.

No victory symbol can I show;
No ribbon, shield or cap,
No memory of days I spent,
Over there, in dead man's gap,
The little moments I have I,
Down moments to enhance;
The only trophy that is mine
Is the heart of a child of France.

Salvation Army To Entertain

Marylanders who may be in Baltimore Saturday, April 5th, and Sunday, April 6th, will have an opportunity to hear the Salvation Army Staff Band, one of the finest bands in the country and which has played before royal personages before the war, and to hear Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, tell of the achievements of her workers during the war.

The band is scheduled for a concert at Albaugh's Theatre, Baltimore, Saturday night, April 5th. Not only is the band an aggregation of excellent musicians who play as one, but it has a number of wonderfully clever instrumental and vocal soloists. Miss Booth will speak twice on Sunday, April 6th, at the Hippodrome Theatre. Her first talk will be at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and her second at 8 o'clock at night. There will be no admission charged and the staff band will furnish the music.

E. Lee LeCompte On Trip To Mexico

State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte left Baltimore last week on a trip which will cover sections of northern Mexico where quail are being trapped for restocking purposes. About four months ago the warden made contracts with a dealer in San Antonio, Texas, for the purchase of 15,000 Mexican quail and later for 5,000 more. Recent advices from Mexico indicated that there would be a shortage in the delivery under these contracts due to unfavorable weather conditions. On this account Mr. LeCompte has gone with a view of obtaining as many birds as possible under his contracts.

On the return trip Mr. LeCompte will stop at Kansas City, Mo., and interview a dealer there with whom he has placed contracts for 500 pheasants and 1,000 cotton-tail rabbits.

Maryland Colored Troops Parade

Returned negro soldiers, many of them wounded, some of them blinded, paraded through Baltimore's streets last Tuesday and drew out to cheer them practically the entire population of the city and in the downtown streets a large part of the white population.

The parade was the first feature of the negro homecoming celebration, which ended Tuesday night with the presentation of certificates from Baltimore at the Fifth Regiment Armory.

There were in the parade, in addition to the negro soldiers, members of the negro Red Cross auxiliaries, members of various negro lodges and troops of negro Boy Scouts, with plenty of bands which knew how to play ragtime tunes.

TOMATO CRISIS RELIEVED

War Department Will Not Dump Surplus On Market

Fear that the War Department will dump its surplus of canned goods upon the market has been allayed by a telegram received from Washington by the Baltimore Quartermaster Department to the effect that this will not be done.

The telegram read: "Information just received; surplus corn, tomatoes, string beans and peas will not be offered for sale, except possibly for export. Trade should be notified." This confirms information given the National Canners' Association.

Packers of tomatoes have been fearing a glut of the market ever since the armistice was signed, for it was known that the Government had millions of cans of tomatoes and of other products which it seemed to be getting rid of very slowly. At present there are 3,000,000 cases of tomatoes alone in the warehouse of the Baltimore Zone Supply Depot of the Quartermaster's Department, and while this would not be considered a formidable surplus in ordinary times, packers have been complaining for months of the lack of demand by the public for tomatoes, due to high prices which retailers who stocked up in the fall are asking.

The only thing now in the way for an agreement between the packers and farmers for the new crop is the price the farmers are asking. At a recent meeting of the Peninsula Tomato Growers' Association, at which delegates were said to be present from Harford, Caroline, Kent, Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties in Maryland and Kent and Sussex counties in Delaware, the price set was $25 a ton. This is $5 a ton less than last year, but $10 a ton more than paid prior to the war.

According to advices from California, the farmers there have agreed to furnish tomatoes to the packers at $15 a ton, and the packers there are trying to get a still lower figure.

William C. Todd, a packer, of Williston, Md., who is also a farmer, is quoted as having said that if the farmers got the price they had asked he would close his packing house and devote his time to growing tomatoes. He has offered his factory rent free and to pay the taxes and insurance and to do his own hauling, if any farmer who will undertake to run the factory, and if the farmer will guarantee him $25 a ton for all the tomatoes he can raise in 1919.

Capt. L. G. Moffett, who is in charge of the canned goods supply in the Baltimore Zone for the War Department, said that the War Department had issued orders for new a rationing system which would include more canned goods, especially tomatoes. This, he thought, soon would reduce the surplus in the hands of the War Department, or at least materially lessen it by the next packing season.

More Sanitary Methods Required

The State Board of Health, John S. Fulton, State Health Officer, at a recent meeting made the following regulations concerning water supply and sewage disposal at hotels and boarding houses which will be of special interest to property owners or renters at Ocean City and other towns that cater to summer visitors and vacationists.

The State Board of Health will, at an early date, have an inspection made of all such properties at Ocean City and similar places to ascertain the existing sanitary conditions. Action will be taken against those that do not meet with the requirements. The new regulation follows:

"From and after May 1st, 1919, all hotels, houses, cottages and other structures intended for human habitation, where board, lodging, entertainment or rental is offered for pay to travellers, excursionists, vacationists or other temporary tenants or guests, shall be provided with drinking water of safe quality and shall have such structure and arrangement for the safe disposal of human excrement as will be satisfactory to the State Department of Health. And any person, firm or corporation, who shall furnish, or offer board, lodging or entertainment at any place where proper arrangements are not made for safe drinking water and sewage disposal, in a manner satisfactory to the State Board of Health, shall be prosecuted according to law and will be subject to the fines and penalties provided by Article 43 of the Code of Public General Laws."

Copies of the above can be secured by addressing Lewis O. Tayntor, Acting Deputy State Health Officer, Room 407, Building & Loan Association Building, Salisbury, Md.

Anarchy Spreads In Europe

A Bolshevik revolution has broken out in Hungary which has produced something like a panic at the Paris Peace Conference. A Polish regiment has also gone over to the "Reds." The spread of Anarchy in Russia, Germany and Hungary is appalling.

WILMINGTON M. E. CONFERENCE

Began Its Sessions At Chestertown Last Wednesday

The Wilmington Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church convened at Chestertown, Md., last Wednesday morning. The regular session opened with a sacrament in charge of Bishop William F. McDowell, followed by a business session. Disston W. Jacobs, of Bridgeville, was elected secretary. J. U. Colons, of Dover, resigned as treasurer owing to ill health, and V. E. Hills, of Pocomoke City, was named as his successor.

Bishop Adams' address to the conference was full of congratulations on the work of the year, the return of peace and prospects for the future. He dwelt upon the centenary program of the general conference and urged this branch to give it hearty support. He announced that the final adjournment would be at noon Monday.

The members of the Conference were entertained Wednesday night by the Epworth League, a radical change from the programs of former years and one which will likely be adopted for the future. The anniversary meeting of the Board of Education was held that night, with Chairman Henry G. Budd as the speaker. E. S. Tipple, Bishop McDowell, District Superintendents Robt. Watt, W. A. Wise, W. R. Mowbray and V. S. Collins were in session that afternoon working on the plan of appointment.

Bishop McDowell opened the conference on Thursday with an address based on the regulations of an army officer. Reports of the presiding elders of the four districts showed great progress along financial, spiritual and physical lines. He announced the receipt of $2,560 from the Methodist Book Concern.

Salaries of nearly all the pastors have been increased 20 per cent. The Rev. J. D. Reese, Louis E. Barrett, W. W. White, J. P. Otis and J. W. Easley were transferred at their own requests from the effective to the retired list.

Elected on the conference relations committee were the Revs. E. W. McDowell, F. F. Faulkner, G. W. Dawson and G. S. Thomas. The Rev. J. W. Fogle, of Seaford, now on the retired list, announced that he will accept an appointment at this session. At the annual meeting of the members of the Wesley Collegiate Institute the following six trustees were elected to serve three years: F. C. MacSorley, Clinton T. Wyatt, Edmund O. Hoffecker, Robt. K. Stephenson, Joseph T. Herson and Walter E. Gunby.

An invitation extended by Dr. W. R. Sunwalt for the conference to meet at Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilmington, next year, was unanimously accepted.

The Rev. C. R. Vandyke was transferred from the Baltimore Conference to the Wilmington Conference. Friday afternoon the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society held a big meeting, presided over by Miss S. A. Hill. Mrs. William H. McDowell, wife of the Bishop, spoke on the great needs of the foreign field, telling her experiences in China, India and Japan.

Fully one-third of the ministers will be changed this year, and as comparatively few changes are expected on either Dover or Salisbury district it means necessarily a great change on both Wilmington and Easton districts.

New Federal Tax On 'Phone Messages

The new federal revenue tax on telephone messages becomes effective today, April 1st, and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company reports that it has completed arrangements for collecting the amounts due the Federal Government, as required by the act approved by President Wilson on February 24th. Under the new law, when the charge for a telephone message is more than 14 cents, and not more than 50 cents, the tax is 5 cents; when the charge is more than 50 cents, the tax is 10 cents. The former law levied a uniform tax of 5 cents on all messages amounting to 15 cents or more.

The telephone company is held responsible for the collection of the tax, which is to be paid in addition to the regular charge for the call, and is directed to see that it is collected from the person paying for the message. The company's monthly toll service statements to its subscribers will show the messages on which the tax is imposed and its amount in addition to the regular charges for toll calls. On calls from public telephones the operator will include the amount of the tax in the total charge quoted to the person making the call.

Owing to lack of patronage the Federal Government has discontinued the auto truck route between Easton and Salisbury.

During the high winds of Saturday the barn on the farm of John Lomez, near Elkton, was blown down, killing three of his horses.

The Service Guest

By IZOLA FORRESTER

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"And I would like to suggest right now, while we are assembled here to honor our brave boys just returned from the front," Mrs. Hampton paused to give full emphasis to her next words, "that we each one take one of more home with us to dinner."

Katherine heard, but made no sign of acquiescence. She had been on the Citizens' league committee of welcome and had worked for two weeks on the program for entertainment, but this was bringing the question of patriotism straight into the privacy of her own home and she objected.

It happened to be a particularly cozy home where she had lived since the death of her father, Doctor Fenway, with Maria Tupper as housekeeper. Nobody in North Waldo ever spoke of Maria as a servant, although her life had been devoted to service in the doctor's family.

The house stood well back from the sidewalk on upper Main street; a large, old-fashioned house, with a cupola on top and a wide piazza surrounding three sides of its lower floor. The garden was withered and brown now, with patches of snow in the deep hollows around flower beds and shrubbery, but in the spring and summer it was a glory to the eye of the passerby.

And to old-time residents Katherine seemed a part of the garden, somehow; so many seasons had found her there, working here and there over the annuals and perennials, and training the myrtle at the base of the old rock pedestal that held the sundial.

Very few suitors had ever passed up the winding path. There was something frosty in the air at the Fenways'; something that nipped romance in the bud. So Rodney Allan expressed it, the first and only time he ever asked Katherine to marry him.

"She thinks there's a Fenway with wings right beside St. Peter. I'd like to see the pride taken out of her, all right."

But Katherine went serenely on through her twenties without apparently regretting her position as the prize maiden lady of the little Maine town. She had plenty of money, an assured position, and all the old doctor left her. Life had run in serene channels until the war flame reached America. Rodney had organized the first volunteer company that went down the coast. She heard he was a captain, and his sisters smiled at her in church in a sort of triumphant way for having missed such a chance.

He was in the hall tonight, decorated and handsome, with one of the Halsey girls beside him. Evelyn, the prettiest one. Katherine heard someone say they were engaged, and suddenly she realized that all of the girls and friends of her own girlhood had some special soldier to welcome and cling to. Her straight, dark brows drew together slightly, and she drew her fur cloak closer around her. It was chilly in the back of the hall. She heard a window close two seats behind her, and glanced back to see who had noticed her discomfort.

He was a stranger to her, a tall, deeply tanned western type of man, with service bars on his sleeve. Later, as the meeting broke up, she noticed he walked with a limp, and appeared to know nobody there. Their eyes met again, hers with a quick questioning of her duty to him, as the other members of the committee speedily gathered up their guest units among the boys and went home.

"I'll send your silk flags home tomorrow, Katherine," Mrs. Hampton called as she went out, but under the words Katherine knew there was the concern. All she had done was to furnish silk flags and money for the decorations. She turned with a sudden impulse to the stranger and invited him to dinner with her.

a strange man, but, after the first half hour, Katherine began to find her self-consciousness leaving her, as he sat at her father's place and told of his experiences at the front. He was just out of the hospital and had come north with the Maine units because he had friends among them.

"There's no one expecting me specially," he added. "My people are all gone, excepting a sister out in Seattle."

And then, how it happened she never knew, but Katherine saw him grow tense and white, and Maria helped her lift him to the couch in the doctor's old room next the study.

Shell shock and overexertion, young Doctor Morton's verdict was. He must rest and be cheered up before he tried to go on farther.

In the days that followed the full lesson of war came home to Katherine as it had never before done. Clad in white, she took her place as his nurse, and fought to bring him back to the normal. He was Bob Lorrimer, she found out, nothing more, but at the end of six weeks, when he was able to have breakfast in the little sun parlor off the dining room, she felt as if he had always been a part of her home.

"I suppose it didn't mean anything to you, Miss Fenway, that night," he was telling her; "you just did your duty by a strange soldier, but to me it was handing me back my faith in human nature. I'd said all the time since we landed, nobody cared excepting those who really belonged to you, don't you know, and I hadn't a soul. I don't see how you'll ever get rid of me now."

She was pouring his coffee, and met his eyes for one swift second as their hands touched in passing cups, but the undercurrent of appeal in his words gent the color to her face delicately. Maria was singing gospel hymns out in the buttery and Cheer Up, the canary overhead, was trying wildly to keep up with her. The sunlight poured through the south windows on rows of flowering plants and the pink and white china.

"It will be very lonely without you," she said, softly. "You've made me feel as if I had been given the opportunity to realize a little of what service meant in having you here."

"And nothing more," he urged. "Would you just as soon have taken in one of the others instead of me? I've liked to think that right from the first time we looked at each other you meant to ask me."

His hands had closed over hers and Katherine felt a relaxing of all the old prejudices as she looked at him laughingly.

"Oh, dear Bob, I've grown accustomed to you here, and I don't know whether I want you to go away or not. It's just like taking the camel in your tent, isn't it? Marie said the first day she saw your pipe on the mantel, you'd stay right along and now I'd miss it terribly."

Bob took out his record card which the doctor had filled out daily. He pointed to one line on it, "Quartered indefinitely," it said.

"Can I stay?" he asked. Maria's singing came nearer along the hall, and Katherine merely laid her finger on her lips and nodded assent.

Triumphs of Youth.

History is full of what youth can do. David was a mere stripling with rosy cheeks when he slew the great giant. Alexander was scarcely more than a boy when he crossed the Hellespont and fought his way to almost universal empire. Newton was only twenty-three when he made discoveries that have revolutionized science. Athanasius was a young man when he became the leading advocate of the Doctrine of the Divinity of Christ at the great council of Nice. Luther was only twenty-four when he led in the great attacks of the German reformation. His years were no barrier to vision, for he saw the need of educational freedom which has resulted in the modern public school. So the list might be enlarged adding an increasing emphasis on the powers of youth.

Early Formal Gardening.

In the sixteenth century, formal gardening was carried to a very high pitch. In England, many fine new country houses were being built on a scale unknown before, and gardens, fit to act as their setting, were being laid out round them. The importance of the place which both domestic architecture and gardening, or rather the designing and laying out of gardens, occupied in men's thoughts is shown by the fact that such a man as Lord Bacon wrote an essay on both subjects. Nor was his essay by any means an isolated instance. A century or so later, John Evelyn devoted much attention to and wrote a great deal on the same subject, and there are a host of lesser writers on gardens, such as Gervase Markham and some of his friends.

History of Skating.

The art of skating was invented by the Dutch, and was popular in Holland centuries before it spread to England and France. The first blade-skates used in England were introduced from Holland about 1660, and are first mentioned in a diary bearing this date, January 20, 1661. Prior to the use of skates by the Dutch, a sort of skate made of the bones of animals was used by the northern peoples, dating back to prehistoric times. Several of these primitive bone-skates have been found in the marshy fields near London, and are preserved in the British museum. The period when skating, as it is known now, originated in Holland, is not known to historians.

No Farm Too Large or Too Small for a Cleveland

CAPABLE of doing a great volume of work; yet so designed and so easily operated that it gets into the corners.

The owner of a small farm can use the Cleveland just as profitably as the owner of a big one. And another advantage is that it works on all kinds of soils. It lays its own track as it goes along and does not pack the soil.

The Cleveland tractor has proven itself able to plow from 8 to 10 acres per day in medium soil, with a two-bottom Oliver plow.

Use it with an Oliver Plow for best results!

Oliver plows were designed especially for tractor service. The rolling coupler and jointer bury all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow. The stop device maintains an even depth of furrow. A trip rope enables the operator to control the plow from his seat on the tractor. The plow points enter and leave the ground first, affording good clean furrows clear to the ends of the field.

Come to our salesroom any time and I will show you many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

MUCH LIKE OLD-WORLD CITY

Capital of State of Washington Has Retained Impression Given It by Its Builders.

Those who had the naming of mountains and cities of the Northwest chose with a lavish hand from the names of gods and goddesses of mythology, and Indian tribes. The Olympic mountains might well have been those from which Jove hurled his thunder. And the sylvan town of Olympia, the capital of the state of Washington, seems more fitting for the temples of Greece than for those of lawmaking of an American state.

With the exception, possibly, of Annapolis, Maryland, no state in the Union has chosen such an old-world-appearing hamlet for its capital, a town almost segregated from the outside world. At the end of a wonderfully beautiful waterway, deep-seated in the hills and forests, Olympia has none of the atmosphere of politics and big business.

The town is a very small one, so small indeed that the average overland train would not even hesitate as it passed through. Its water front until recently, has been adorned with pleasure craft, fishing fleets and canneries. The fjords of Puget sound afford unlimited opportunities for fishing and pleasure excursions.

Here loggers and lawmakers have met in the past to solve the mighty problems of legislation and lumbering. Here canneries boats tied up in winter for overhauling. Here in time long past men tramped in from Tacoma and Seattle with supplies which they could not wrest from nature, on their backs.

The town climbs a short distance into the surrounding hills from the water front, and then stops. The state capital resembles a dignified seat of learning in northern Europe; in fact nearly all Northwest buildings bear the stamp of the home of their builders, the Scandinavians, Scottish and English settlers.

FINE TREES IN PHILIPPINES

Nowhere Are There More Enormous Trunks Than in the Lowlands of the Islands.

Until we fell heir to the Philippine Islands we had no dense virgin tropical forests belonging to the United States. The Hawaiian islands are well within the tropics, but the topography of the islands is not such as to induce the gigantic growth of trees. There are no denser or more enormous tree-groves anywhere in the world, however, than are to be found over great areas of the Philippine lowlands. The soil is of excessive richness, the rainfall is heavy, and the climate combines to induce a riotous tangle of vegetation which is unimaginable to those who have not actually seen it or are familiar only with the orderly and usually comparatively scant growths of the temperate zone. Even the great forests of the far West, which cut more board feet to the acre than any other forest lands in the world, cannot compare for a moment in luxuriance and profligacy of growth with the tropical forest. They impress you, it is true, with having been many centuries in the making, but on the other hand the rank and enormous growths of the lowland tropics make you feel that they have always been there since the world commenced. The northern forests are reposed; the tropical jungles are savage, overwhelming.—Exchange.

Outclassed Joseph's Coat.

If a prize were given at Essex Market police court for variety in costume, it would have been awarded to a man who appeared in court the other day to account for a missing overcoat, writes the New York correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch. He came before the judge a brilliant rainbow. He had tan shoes, pink socks, a gray checked suit and a green bow tie, also red hair. In reviewing the case the court attendants agreed that the east side Beau-Brummel not only carried off the first honors but that he surpassed any multicolored display that had appeared for many moons. The famous coat of Joseph had nothing on the complainant, even without the overcoat. The brief manner in which the case was dismissed made the court attendants believe that such a screeching regalia was warm enough to combat any kind of weather, even without an overcoat.

The First "White Way."

When William Niblo opened his new theater at Broadway and Prince street, back on Independence day, 1828, he celebrated the double occasion by a patriotic display of gas lights which flaunted the name of "Niblo" far and wide and immortalized it in stage as well as gas history. An admiring public gazed from a respectful distance, watching the red, white and blue shadows cast by the rows of gas jets spelling the proprietor's name.

Gas had been used for the first time in New York city five years before, but to the owner of Niblo's garden goes the credit of first using gas for illuminating a theater.—Gas Logie.

Significant.

"Do you know, George," remarked Mrs. Ray, "I should say the Browns' marriage was an ideal one. I couldn't help but notice it tonight. Really, there wasn't one word of disagreement. I believe they both think absolutely alike." "They are a charming couple, my dear, perfectly charming," said her husband, "but as to their thinking alike, Madge, did you notice that she always thought first?"

A COAT OF ARMS

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR.

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

"Thank goodness, that is over!" With lofty disdain Mrs. Drury tilted her small pug nose in the air and settled herself comfortably in the Pullman coach as the Overland express started away from Lone Cliff.

The cause of her perturbation had been the fact that her husband, sturdy, commonplace and loyal to call, was out on the rear platform of the car waving adieu to a cheering, demonstrative group of his fellow citizens. They were representative of a mining town, red-shirted, unshaven men, filled with enthusiasm and firewater and thoroughly sincere in their genuine good-wishes for a man who had stood by them and for them through ten years. They had proved their friendship by electing him mayor of the town only a month previous and a real tear stood in the eye of John Drury as the friends and town faded from view.

His pretty daughter, Mabel, had not been too proud or exclusive to stand beside him, and he was pleased because of her sharing his truly democratic spirit. Many a courteous, though vehement compliment greeted the little lady from the crowd. She had eyes, however, mainly for a young fellow who lingered on its outskirts, Norman Roodie, and the last parting wave of her dainty handkerchief was in his direction.

"Now we're going to catch it!" she laughed, as they entered the coach and joined her mother, prim and censorious.

"A nice spectacle you make of yourself, hobnobbing with that common herd," scolded Mrs. Drury. "I hope you forget them speedily. And dragging Mabel into it!"

"See, here, Nancy—" began John. "That is not my name!" snapped his better half.

"I forgot you've changed it to Anastasia. All right, if it suits you. Only you've changed other things and I'm right downhearted because of it. Tell you, girl, you're tearing me away from all I cherish—the free mountains, the rough-and-ready life, friends who are true as steel. I wish I'd never struck the Golden Chance!"

"You are an ungrateful man," stormed Mrs. Drury. "It isn't every man that a goldmine comes to. You are no longer John Drury, hall fellow well met with a crowd of illiterate prospectors, but the Hon. John Drury, esquire, millionaire. I should think you'd be glad to see me and Mabel with a chance to shine in society and lift up our heads with the best of them."

John Drury did not reply. He uttered a sigh, and Mabel echoed it. She was thinking of the handsome, mainly young mine manager to whom she had been all but engaged, of the glad, free life of the hills, of the home, the best in Lone Cliff, a liberty hall for all the young people in the district.

The lucky strike of John Drury had been the marvel of the year in mining circles. A chance discovery had made him a rich man overnight. He had asked nothing better than to work the opulent claim and share his good luck with old and tried comrades, but the possession of riches had aroused in his wife the loftiest ambitions. Meekly submissive, John made only a feeble protest.

"Maybe she'll come to her senses when she sees the hollowness of her great ideas of society," hoped honest, home-loving John.

The experience of the Drurys, led by the determined spirit of its guiding genius, underwent a truly newly-rich experience. First, they took an expensive suite in the most exclusive of New York hotels; then a lease of a sumptuous boulevard mansion. A professional chaperone pretended to introduce Mrs. Drury among the high circles of fashion. There was a young man who claimed to be an expatriated Italian count. Then Mrs. Drury became envious of the coat of arms exploited by a neighbor. She ordered one for herself. It was blazoned on the family silverware, it glowed on the elegant family automobile. Mabel thought of running away when the illustrious count found favor in the eyes of her mother as a prospective son-in-law.

Then, slowly but surely, Mrs. Drury began to learn that her guests were of the parvenu class. They feasted royally at her expense. They borrowed money of her husband. One day the crisis came. The specialist who had sought out the coat of arms was a conscientious man. He appeared, fustered and penitent, one day.

"Madame," he said, "I have made a fearful mistake. In tracing back the Drury genealogy an assistant mistook Phineas for Philetus. The Phineas branch of the family were humble colliery workers. I will return the money you paid me."

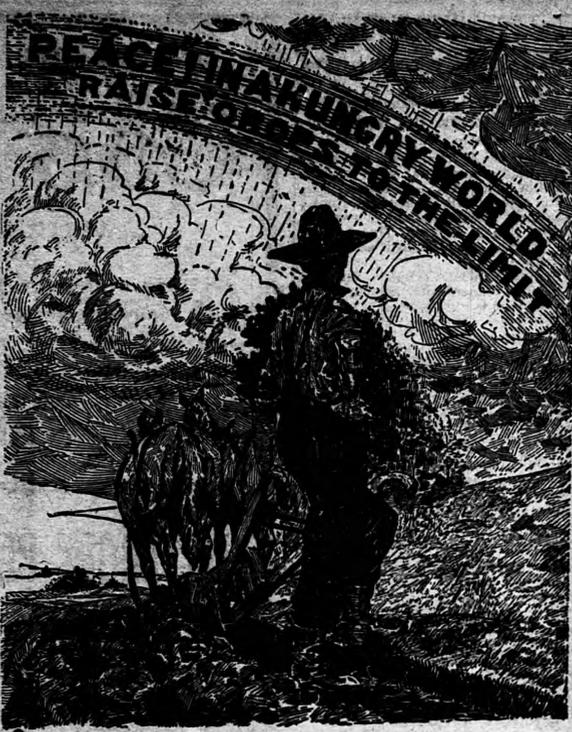

"No, no, go forget it! I am sick of all this show and folly!" moaned the humbled "Anastasia."

The count learned of the episode and declared he could not connect himself with the rabble! A local newspaper wrote up the situation, though using fictitious names. Mrs. Drury came to where her husband and Mabel were seated reading one day and burst into tears.

"Take me back home," she pleaded. "I would rather be mayors in Lone Cliff than a nobody in New York."

And John lifted his head with a smug of delight, as if already smiling upon the pure, bracing air of the mining town.

INSANITY ON INCREASE

Figures Show That Whole World Is Headed For Padded Cell

The world's going crazy!

With July 1 looming large and dry in the immediate prospect; with blue laws, once allowed to fade and almost disappear, in some places becoming bluer than the original tinge given on Plymouth Rock and in others being repealed; with United States Senators talking against a league of nations and with Bolshevism and half a dozen other such "isms" running rife, most folk were convinced of that fact some time ago. But now comes along a bunch of figures to back up the belief—and the old saying is that "figures don't lie," figures thereby differing, in many respects, from certain persons who need not be mentioned.

So the figures can be taken as more or less reliable, if the other indications that the world's getting crazier and crazier every day fail to convince.

Maryland itself is bound for the "bughouse," and the padded cell is daily replacing the downy couch of luxury. The State Lunacy Commission publishes its figures only every two years, and the last report was made in 1917, with the next one not due until next fall. But figures collected since the last report up to the present indicate that the percentage of increase of insanity has been just about the same between 1917 and 1919 as it was between 1915 and 1917, the years covered by the last report.

The figures show that between 1916 and 1917, in all public and private hospitals in the State where a specialty is made of insane patients, there was an increase in the whole number of patients of 863—that is, from 4,833 to 5,196. This is, roughly, a 5 per cent. increase, an increase which has been practically maintained not only in Maryland but in practically other States in the Union, giving that figure to the United States as a whole.

True, all of these patients were not absolutely insane, but how near the whole number were insane can be grasped when the figures are seen, which show that of 1,725 first admissions to all State insane hospitals in 1918 only 159 were classed as not insane, and of the 1,788 first admissions in 1917 the ratio dropped to only 131 declared not insane.

If and when old John Barleycorn goes down and out, it apparently won't make a lot of difference in the figures—unless the sight of snakes, purple frogs and green horses and such things likely to follow a sudden drouth in some quarters, should send more men to the insane asylums. For, of the total number admitted to Maryland hospitals, only a little more than 12 per cent. are classed in the State Lunacy Commission reports as "alcoholics," this percentage showing up as practically the same all over the United States, according to the latest available census reports.

The percentage of general increase, therefore, among those whose minds snapped without the aid of too frequent association with the "cup that cheers," will soon eat up the change that would be made, even if the alcoholics were totally eliminated, and the recipes for private distilling which are being passed about over the shining rails an across the glossy mahogany these days indicate that the alcoholics won't be eliminated entirely, at least.

United States census reports show that, in public and private hospitals and sanatoriums all over the country, an average of more than 70,000 new patients are admitted each year. There are about 10 per cent. of these not insane from drug addiction or alcoholism. The ratio of discharges to number of cases under treatment is now less than 1 to 4.

And so some good mathematician, with nothing else to do, can figure out these percentages of increase, relate them to the percentage of increase in population, get some figures from the Anti-saloon League on how many folks, who are crazy over booze now, will be cured after July 1st, and then find out the exact day and date on which the whole country will be "bughouse." America will be the last country, for insanity percentages are higher elsewhere than here.—Baltimore Sun.

TAKE THREE DAYS TO WED

Armenian Couple Must Be Patient in the Matter of Tying the Marriage Knot.

In Armenia everybody has a good time at a wedding except the bridegroom. First of all, the friends assemble, and an entertainment, with dancing, takes place. The bridegroom is expected to arrive when the entertainment is at its height and it is considered good form for him to appear with his face covered with powder to simulate pallor induced by the solemnity of the occasion. Friends of the bridegroom then shave him publicly and fall upon him and strip him of all his clothes, after which he is supplied with a new set of garments and completely dressed again. While they are performing the offices of valet to the groom the young men present are supposed to hold lighted candles in their right hands.

The day after this opening marriage feast the bride rides to church, and the bridegroom walks. The priest who receives them in the porch reads a short sermon on their duties in the matrimonial state, and then the wedding party proceeds to the altar, where the foreheads of the high contracting parties are bound together with gold chains. The wedding festivities continue for at least three days after this, and the couple are not regarded as married until the ceremonies have been concluded. The social celebration of the wedding is carried through as conscientiously as the religious part.

COULD NOT DISLodge ROCK

When Nature Placed Freak on Berkshire Hills, She Evidently Put It There to Stay.

The famous "balanced rock" near Lanesboro, Mass., in the historic Berkshire Hills, is one of the strange sights of this region of hidden mountain caves, snow-capped hills and folk-lore that rivals fiction. This rock, which weighs several tons, is apparently in a precarious position on the sheer edge of another rocky formation beneath it. One would think that a very slight push indeed would dislodge it from its position.

"Balanced rock" is located on Constitution hill, the eminence named after "Constitution" Smith, who was instrumental in ratifying the American Constitution. An old farmer of Lanesboro thought he could pull "balanced rock" from its position by harnessing up several pairs of oxen, attaching a chain to the rock and having the animals strain on the rock together. The experiment failed. The rock could be rocked back and forth, but could not be dislodged. The ice flow of the glacial period is believed to have been responsible for placing the huge rock in its present position.

Alcohol From Molasses

Several large concerns are making alcohol from cheap molasses brought from the West Indies. This molasses, which is unneatable, is known as "black strap." The internal revenue chemists have been able, however, to ferment it and to obtain not only alcohol but to so use the residue that they get glycerin.

Four lots of "black strap" of 1,000 gallons each subjected to the new process turned out a very excellent quality of glycerin. There are 100 gallons of this clear dynamite glycerin, as it is called, now on exhibition in the treasury department. Samples of it treated with nitric acid by a well-known firm of explosive makers, at the request of the government, produced as good a nitro-glycerin as the market affords.

Nitro-glycerin when incorporated with pulp or other inert substance becomes dynamite. Thus out of the simple sweets of the sugar bowl comes forth the strength which will rend the rock.

Large Market for Rabbit Skins

There is a market for rabbit skins. Before the recent war an enormous trade was carried on abroad. It is said that Great Britain and Ireland alone produced about thirty million skins annually. Most rabbit skins are sold in bales, by weight, the fur from them being used for felt purposes, and the skins for making glue. The war interrupted the importations from Europe and Australia to such an extent that the price has greatly increased. The better skins are sold by the dozen. When dressed they become the "cony" of the fur trade, often sold under fanciful names. American breeders are raising all kinds of rabbits that produce the best "cony" of the fur shops.

Saw Cuts Steel Billets

The largest of a number of power hacksaws in one of the British naval factories is stated to weigh three and one-half tons and is driven by a three-horse power electric motor. It cuts through square billets of steel 26 inches thick. Even a cut like this does not wear out the blade, which is suitable for further work after the cut has been made. This machine is estimated to reduce the expense of sawing to one-sixth of the former cost.

Japan's Leading Industry

Extraordinarily favorable business conditions in Japan and the continued withdrawal of the products of European nations from competition in the markets of Asia and Australia made the year 1917 an extremely profitable one for the spinning industry and firmly fixed it as the leading manufacturing industry of Japan.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 1, 1919

The usual snake stories are coming out now, but future spring seasons look dry for this class of newspaper copy.

These are times of great unrest, particularly among the feminine element who have been looking at the millinery windows.

The man that got off that stuff about how womankind is advancing at great strides, had evidently not seen the new hobble skirts.

The physicians are expecting a pitiable epidemic of stomach trouble, demanding immediate relief, to break out about July 1st.

Many of the ambitious young men of Princess Anne have worked their incomes up to the point where they average about 1 a. m.

Things have reached the point now where everyone has to earn twice as much as he is worth, in order to get half enough to live on.

It's a mighty good idea to erect welcome arches for the returning soldiers, but the arch they want most is the door post to the old job or a better one.

Put your money where it will be safe, where it will work for you, where it will render a patriotic service. Prepare to subscribe when the Victory Liberty Loan is offered.

The care with which the girls cover up their ears nowadays does not, as an unsophisticated person might suppose, mean that they have resolved not to hear anything they hadn't ought to.

The people who laugh at the way their neighbors are fooled by the exaggerated pictures in the seed catalogs, are usually the same ones that buy all vegetables at the stores at high prices.

Automobiles who tear through the streets of Princess Anne with the speed of railroad trains, consider themselves concentrated from all accidents if they blow their horns for every one to jump for their lives.

The lovely spring flowers testifying to the resurrection of all nature and forecasting the glories of the good old summer time, look almost as good to the women folks as the artificials in the milliner's window.

The question is asked what has become of the boy who used to rig up those woolen doughnuts and purses nailed to the sidewalk on April 1st. O, well, he has no use for such kid tricks now, merely spends the day trying to make the teacher think he knows something when he doesn't.

THE LEAGUE PROPOSITION

This is a period when big issues are handled only by big combinations. The biggest problem before the world today is the prevention of war. It cannot be handled by any nation acting alone, and with great difficulty if they act separately. It needs some form of a world organization to settle disputes without war. As the result of the lack of such a force making for peace the United States was plunged in a war costing 100,000 lives. If this government had to fight a power like Germany alone it would cost many more than that. And as it was, it cost $20,000,000,000 in money.

The proposed League Constitution, as it now stands, needs much amendment and clarifying. Four points should be safeguarded and clearly established: The Monroe Doctrine; the right of each nation to control immigration into its own territory; the right of any nation to withdraw from the League after a reasonable trial; the principle that no nation will be expected to engage in a war except of its own consent in each individual case.

With these principles established, and minor points clarified, the United States would seem to be much more secure with such a league than without it.

Objection is felt by some to entering a combination of European powers on the ground that the United States would be outnumbered by European interests. But the same objection existed to taking part in the recent war. If Europe wishes to combine against the United States it will do so anyway.

Europe is in turmoil and chaos. We cannot wash our hands of the whole situation and retire in isolation, without leaving ourselves in the growing peril. It will be cheaper to take hold and give help in straightening up this chaos than to let it increase and involve us in a European war.

THE BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Some reasons have already been stated why there is reason for confidence regarding the business future. There are certain contrary aspects that should be studied. It is never wise to dwell too much on the darker outlooks. But when obstacles to prosperity exist, they should be considered, to see if they can not be modified or removed.

First, the chaos of Europe. This directly affects American business. If the people of Europe can promptly get to work, they will soon be sending over their orders for great quantities of machinery and raw materials. This will help tremendously to tide over any tendency to uncertainty and unemployment. But if the final signing of peace should drag along well into the summer, it must react unfavorably upon the world's business.

The American people are keenly desirous for some form of international agreement or organization that will help prevent future war. But the first thing to be done is to get a treaty of peace signed, get people to work in the recently warring and devastated countries.

Second, the spread of Bolshevism. It does not seem likely that these fantastic notions can get any strong hold in this country. Still there is a great mass of un-Americanized people who are a fertile field for these doctrines. And there are many natives who never seriously study economic questions. Many of these are likely to be swept off their feet by popular waves of feeling.

A strong manifestation of the Bolshevistic spirit in this country would lead business men to check their commitments and call off projected enterprises. They would salt down their money in government and other securities less risky than manufacturing. This would slow down all business and throw a great number of people out of work.

Of course prices are higher now than they were last year, so that an exchange of an equal volume of commodities would make a bigger total in dollars. The latest government price figures are those for last November. They show an increase of prices from February, 1918, to November of only 10 per cent. And since that time there has probably been no advance. So business has advanced about 15 per cent, while the advance in prices has been only 10 per cent. This net gain is accomplished while the munition and war work has been stopped.

Take another sure indication of business, the record of commercial failures. In February there were only 602 failures, the lowest in American history. Last year in the first six months of 1918 the monthly average of failures was 981. In one week in March there were only 137 failures against 247 a year ago.

Figures like these indicate that the United States, in spite of the war, is richer than ever. The people have money, and as long as they have it to spend business has got to be good.

If the United States can harmonize the threatened conflict between labor and capital, if it can persuade both employer and employed that their interests are practically identical, that the bigger the product turned out, the bigger the share of each worker will be, the business outlook is surely bright.

A magician may turn water into wine but it takes an amendment to the Constitution to turn wine into water.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. [Advertisement.]

PUBLIC SALE OF VALUABLE Real Estate Under Mortgage

By virtue of the power contained in a mortgage from Oliver Bell and Beulah Bell to the A. E. Tull Oyster Company dated the 22nd day of August, 1904, and recorded in Liber O. T. B. at or about the hour of 4 o'clock p. m., in front of the Farmers Bank at Mission Station, Maryland, all that lot or parcel of land with the improvements thereon located in Brinkley's District, Somerset county, Maryland, on the east side of the County Road leading from the residence of H. Frank Conner to Kingston, adjoining the lands of Elijah Dixon, Jacob Johnson, John H. Miles, colored, and James Gunby, Jr., and containing more or less, and being a lot of land purchased of Southern F. Miles by Hiram Bell and conveyed unto said Oliver Bell by deed from Henry Bell, et al., heirs at law of said Hiram, made the 18th day of June, 1908, and recorded in Liber O. T. B. No. 38, folio 400, etc., improved by a DWELLING HOUSE and other Outbuildings.

TERMS OF SALE:—Cash. Title papers at purchaser's expense. GORDON TULL, Attorney named in said mortgage.

MAKING USE OF DAYLIGHT SAVING

As people set ahead their clocks for daylight saving, they should reflect that the change was made to secure practical gains.

Daylight saving brings people closer to nature. Primitive man rises with the sun and goes to bed with its setting. When artificial light was discovered, mankind devised artificial pleasures to fill the night time when daylight tasks were suspended.

Daylight saving should encourage people to take up more of the natural occupations that go with sunshine, rather than artificial pleasures developed under white lights.

So let all plan to make good out door use of the added daylight. To many this means planting a garden. To many young men it means that they can go in for base ball and tennis and other sports previously denied them. Any out door occupation is a better use of the time than sporting life at amusement places and social hangouts.

SHERIFF'S License Notice

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN TO ALL PERSONS and corporations doing business in Somerset county and requiring a State License to obtain the same or renew the same on or before

First Day of May, 1919, under penalty prescribed by said law for the infraction thereof. Those applying for Trader's License must, under oath, take out License covering stock at the principle season of the year.

Persons may sell milk to cure fish in March, April and May without license.

Females vending Millinery and other small articles, whose stock is not over $500, pay a license of only $5.00; but if over that amount they are required to pay the same license as other persons.

The owner or keeper of Every Stallion or Jack shall, before being permitted to stand or station such animal, pay to the Clerk of the Circuit Court of some one of the counties in Maryland the highest sum he intends to ask for the season for one mare provided that in no case shall the sum directed to be paid for such license be less than $10.

TONALL PUT HIM BACK TO WORK

He Had Stomach Troubles Of The Worst Kind

Barton Lutz, Intercourse R. D. No. 2, Lancaster county, Pa., whose occupation is butchering, says:

"I had stomach trouble of the worst kind and suffered all that went with it. I dosed in vain. At last I bought Tonall, and after reading about the Roots, Herbs and Barks thought it was just the medicine I needed. This proved true. I have been helped as I never was before."

"I now recommend Tonall as the medicine for all ailments of stomach, which is so common a complaint nowadays to many people. They can't get it too soon if they want health."

Tonall is sold by T. J. Smith & Co., Druggists, Princess Anne, Md. [Adv.]

Our Future Is Up To Us

With the coming of peace you are bound to hear more or less discussion, both idle and serious, on what the future holds in store for us.

On one hand you will hear that we are due for touch of hard times. You will hear much idle talk about swollen prices, inflated currency, top-heavy taxes, jobless soldiers, strikes, turmoil, etc., etc. On the other hand you will hear that we are due for the greatest run of prosperity we have ever experienced.

Of the things you hear many are true and many are false. Just what the future will be depends on how we, as individuals, think and act—on the state of our minds.

If we think hard times and plan for them we may have them. If we think good times, keep up our courage, use common sense and pull together we shall have good times.

Our future is up to us.

BARNES BROTHERS, Princess Anne

Mrs. J. D. Wallop left last Thursday for Philadelphia to visit her daughter, Mrs. F. P. Waller.

Miss Eleanor McAllen, a student at the Maryland College for Women, at Lutherville, is spending a ten-days' vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James A. McAllen.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Salem Methodist Protestant Church, Manokin, will hold their monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. S. H. Robertson tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, April 2nd.

Mrs. Mary Jones, wife of Mr. E. Frank Jones, while coming down the stairway at her home in Princess Anne, had the misfortune to fall and break her left arm above the wrist. She was at the top of the stairway, and having forgotten something, turned to go to a room, when the heel of her shoe caught in a rug, causing her to fall to the foot of the stairway.

The date for the County School Athletic meet in Somerset county is, Princess Anne, Wednesday, April 23rd; Worcester county, Pocomoke City, Thursday, April 24th, and Wicomico county, Salisbury, April 25th. We believe this is the right kind of training for boys and girls and hope the meet in this and adjoining counties will prove a success this year.

Chief Quartermaster Kreis, advance agent from the Navy Recruiting Station, Baltimore, was in Princess Anne last Friday distributing literature and making arrangements for a recruiting party who will visit this town on April 2nd, 9th and 25th to enlist young men to the Navy. The party will have their headquarters in the postoffice, and will be in the town to the wonderful industries of the Navy.

Mr. Robert F. Maddox, of Baltimore, spent the week end with his family in Princess Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hobbittell, of Washington, D. C., were guests of Mrs. Robert F. Maddox last week.

Miss Blanche Tull, of Marion Station, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. C. Hargis, of Pocomoke City.

Miss Thelma C. Butler, of Westover, has returned home after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. C. M. Ennis.

After a short vacation with their parents, Col. and Mrs. Henry J. Waters, Harry and Wilson Waters have resumed their studies at Donaldson College.

Clocks were all moved ahead one hour at 2 o'clock Sunday morning and "cuss-in" began with those who are opposed to the new time arrangement, which is foolish to say the least.

Among Maryland men who arrived on the troop ship Pastores that docked at Newport News last Wednesday was, Corporal Shelley Shields and Walter Inasley, both of Fruitland.

Mr. Robert Oates, a student at Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy, is visiting his mother, Mrs. L. A. Oates. He is accompanied by his friend, Mr. Parker, who is a student at the same institution.

Mrs. J. B. Davis left for Helena, Arkansas, Monday last week to visit her mother, Mrs. Lulu Pounders, who was seriously ill. We are informed that Mrs. Pounders died before her daughter reached that city.

Mr. Walter Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Long, who was in the Medical Supply Company, stationed at Fort Riley, Kansas, having been honorably discharged from service, returned home last week.

Mr. Honias A. Tull, a student at Princeton University, after spending a short vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Tull, near Marion Station, returned to Princeton, New Jersey, to-day.

Mrs. Addie Bond Dashiell, attendance officer, spent several days in Crisfield the first of last week in the interest of school attendance. She found many delinquent children, both white and colored, and several warrants were issued to parents for their children's non-attendance at school.

Owing to the bad weather last week the canvass for garments for the refugees in Europe was not completed. If any one wishing to contribute to this "Relief Work" will notify Mrs. Wm. H. Dashiell or Mrs. Columbus Lankford, it will be greatly appreciated and the packages will be called for during this week.

The Washington High School base ball team will play two interesting games this week. This (Tuesday) afternoon at 4 o'clock they will play the Princess Anne team. On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock they will cross bats with the Crisfield base ball club.

Everett Cannon, manager, and other students of the school are selling tickets for a series of eight games to be played on the Washington High School campus this season.

He had been spending the winter at Palm Beach. Captain White formerly resided near Orhiole, this county, and went to Norfolk many years ago to reside.

IN MEMORIAM

DRYDEN—In sad but loving remembrance of our dear brother, Private Orville G. Dryden, who was killed in France on August 31st, 1918, just seven months ago.

We do not know the pain he bore.
We did not see him die;
We only know he passed away,
And could not say good-bye.

Gone in the best of his days,
Bright in Manhood's bloom;
Gone from the hearts that loved him,
To sleep in the silent tomb.

Somewhere in France they buried him
Within a quiet, lonely grave,
Unknown save by his fighting mates,
Who cheered the cause he died to save.

And for his sacrifice the Stars and Stripes
Still proudly wave somewhere in France,
By his sisters,

WHY ONE MORE LOAN IS NEEDED

It Will Settle Nation's War Debts and Will Care for Sick and Wounded.

Once in a while some one asks: "What's the need of another Liberty Loan now that the war is over?"

Revenue from taxes will not be sufficient to pay all the bills, so the people will be called upon to provide the money by subscribing to government bonds. This money is going to pay of the army of producers at home—the farmers, merchants, manufacturers and others.

America had just begun to fight when the Hun decided it was time to quit. Allied leaders expected the war to last another year and the United States government was turning out ships, arms, ammunition and food to overwhelm Germany in one big drive.

Treasury officials have revealed that in 1919 America would have had a tank at the front for every seventy-five feet of line. We would have had ten tons of mustard gas ready for shipment for every ton Germany would produce. Thousands of batteries of guns would have been in action for every one America had in 1918. Everything else was being produced in proportion.

This gigantic preparation brought an early end to the war and saved thousands of lives. Victory Liberty Bonds will pay for this work which had been contracted for and was being delivered when the armistice was signed.

There are other purposes for which money is need. Part of our army of 2,000,000 men must be kept in Europe until the peace treaty is signed. These soldiers must be fed, clothed and otherwise maintained. Then they must be brought home.

The sick and wounded must be cared for in hospitals. The army must be demobilized. There are thousands of maimed soldiers, heroes of the great war, who must be taught self-supporting trades and given an opportunity to earn their living.

This reconstruction work at home must be carried on. The job must be finished. The American people who furnished the money to win the war must supply it also to bring the nation back to a peace basis.

HOLD ON TO WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

Secretary of Treasury Urges Citizens to Keep Government Securities Until They Shall Have Matured.

Carter Glass, Secretary of the United States Treasury, has issued a warning to patriotic American citizens against unscrupulous persons who advertise that they are willing to purchase War Savings Stamps. Mr. Glass does not wish to have the government securities sold at sums below their actual value.

He points out that people who are actually in need of money may take their War Savings Stamps to a post office and receive cash. Mr. Glass urges holders to keep their stamps until maturity.

He states that War Savings Stamps belong only to the individual who first purchased them and that people who offer to buy stamps at low premium are violating the letter of the law in so doing. Men and women selling stamps are not only losing money which rightfully belongs to them, but are aiding unscrupulous agents to reap profits.

BE PREPARED.

"If you think you are beaten, you are; if you think you are not, you don't; if you like to win, but you think you can't; it's almost certain you won't."

For Your Protection--Read

Wage Earners Are Being Robbed Dishonest men are tempting people to exchange their Liberty Bonds and invest their hard-earned savings in "get-rich-quick" schemes that promise big returns but are worthless.

Hold Fast to Your Liberty Bonds Don't exchange them for anything. Don't sell them unless absolutely necessary. Keep them in a safe place or have them registered (free) in your name.

In Doubt, Consult Nearest Bank or Underwriter Before selling or exchanging your Liberty Bonds. Beware of the Man Who tempts you to part with your Liberty Bonds, they are the safest and best investment in the world.

CARTER GLASS, Secretary, United States Treasury Department, Washington, D. C.

NOT ASHAMED OF THE BILL

BIG APPETITE FOR SAFE INVESTMENTS

Between Twenty and Twenty-Five Million Bond Buyers Take Billions in Short Periods.

Pessimists who shake their heads and join the chorus of "I dunno" boys at the prospect of floating a fifth Liberty Loan in April are administered a knock-out by figures which have recently been compiled by officials of the Treasury Department at Washington.

The figures give an idea of just how big an appetite for safe investment this country has attained in its war-year. Some of the more striking of the figures referred to follow:

A bond market which had less than 200,000 customers two years ago had at the close of 1918 between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000 buyers. The army of buyers absorbed $11,156,568,850 worth of bonds in Liberty Bonds alone in 1918.

In the two years of the war—counting the first and second Liberty Loans which were floated in 1917—these bond buyers digested a total of $16,974,328,850 in Liberty bonds.

This healthy condition of the bond market is explained, perhaps, by the fact that the entire indebtedness of the United States today amounts to slightly less than 7 per cent of the estimated national wealth. The national debt amounts to only about $170 per capita.

Some of the national debts are: Great Britain, 44.3 per cent of national wealth or $390 per capita; France, 41.25 per cent of national wealth or $296.90 per capita; Austria, 24.66 per cent of national wealth or $242.90 per capita; and Germany, 33.7 per cent of national wealth or $505.90 per capita.

These figures on Germany are exclusive of the ninth war loan, accurate returns of which never were had, and in the cases of both Austria and Germany no account is taken of any indemnities which those nations will have to pay.

SOLID SECURITY FOR YOUR BONDS

It is the Wealth of This Great Country Somewhere Near Hundred and Fifty Billions of Dollars.

How many holders of "Liberty" realize fully the security that is back of that property they own? It is the wealth of the richest nation of the earth.

Here's but a glance at what that wealth comprises.

With 6 per cent of the world's population and 7 per cent of the world's land America owns of the world supplies:

- 70 per cent of the copper.
- 52 per cent of the coal.
- 26 per cent of the gold.
- 99 per cent of the oil.
- 46 per cent of the iron and steel.
- 33 per cent of the silver.
- 60 per cent of the cotton.
- 25 per cent of the wheat.
- 60 per cent of the corn.
- 30 per cent of the meat supplies.

Other mineral and agricultural products in proportion.

Today Europe owes us $10,000,000,000; four years ago we owed her nearly half that.

Lastly our annual income, that of all the people and industries, is today something like $70,000,000,000 annually and our national wealth close to $350,000,000,000.

Don't sell your government securities. They will mean more to you by and-by.

Which Road Are You Traveling?

There are two roads in life. One leads to a jangle of nothings. The other leads to success. Both are lined with sign posts to show the weary traveler in which direction he is moving. But many people go along, their eyes on the skies, on the ground, or unseeing in dreamland, never noticing that they are advancing on the wrong highway. Do you know which road you are traveling? Here are the sign posts. The end of one will find you empty-handed. The end of the other will find you with funds for a shiny opportunity—with War Savings Stamps and Liberty Bonds working for you at over 4% interest.

All Smoking Tobaccos are Flavored

"Your Nose Knows"

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco, "... on the Continent and in America certain 'sauces' are employed ... the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves."

Your smoke-enjoyment depends as much upon the Quality and kind of flavoring used as upon the Quality and aging of the tobacco.

Tuxedo tobacco uses the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate! That flavoring, added to the finest of carefully aged and blended burley tobacco, produces Tuxedo—the perfect tobacco—

"Your Nose Knows."

Try This Test: Rub a little Tuxedo briskly in the palm of your hand to bring out its full aroma. Then smell it deep—its delicious, pure fragrance will convince you. Try this test with any other tobacco and we will let Tuxedo stand or fall on your judgment—"Your Nose Knows."

FARM PROFITS WILL AID LOAN

Rural Business Men Are Well Able to Take Up Their Share in the "Victorious" Fifth.

More than ever before the American farmer finds himself in the position of comfort and prosperity which is his just due. Lean years are for him no longer. Last year the average of farm earnings broke all records. Six million farms in 1918 produced crops worth $12,280,000,000.

This year it is estimated that a greater wheat acreage than ever will be sown. Naturally, the farmer is making the most of his opportunities, and with guaranteed wheat prices and high prices for everything he grows, the outlook for him is most encouraging. And Europe will furnish a market for his fat hogs and steers.

It would be interesting, if possible, to assemble comparative statements of the farmers' bank accounts now and five years ago, and the list of mortgages that have been cancelled. And it would be more interesting perhaps to have a statement of the Liberty Bonds now in the hands of these tillers of the soil.

Very soon the farmer will have further opportunity to prove that he is not without loyalty as well developed as any man's. For another loan is almost in sight, a loan that will draw upon us all.

Because of his price guarantee of $2.26 a bushel, Uncle Sam stands to lose from 50 to 75 cents upon every bushel of wheat harvested next season. Having given this guarantee to the farmer, he will make it good. That is Uncle Sam's way. But what is Mr. Farmer going to do for Uncle Sam in the Victory Liberty Loan?

In every Liberty Loan to date the farmer, as a class, has bought less bonds than men in other prosperous classes. He has been able meantime to get more sugar and everything else upon which the government put a restriction, than others have.

The big question now, when he stands to cash in at a 25 per cent premium upon his wheat crop, is what is he going to do next Liberty Loan drive?

Some Liberty Loan officials are suggesting that the farmer should buy a $100 bond for each 100 bushels of wheat he sells to the government. He has made the profit and should have no hesitancy in taking a high-grade security in payment for the difference between what the government gets and what he receives for his wheat.

UNFILLED PLEDGES STILL HOLD GOOD

Earnest Request is Made to All Subscribers to Redeem Promptly Their War Savings Stamp Pledges.

Pledges made to invest in War Savings Stamps have been automatically extended to 1919 by the government, which has made official announcement that persons who, for any reason, did not complete their pledges by December 31, 1918, may and are expected to liquidate these pledges by investing in War Savings Stamps of the new 1919 issue.

The 1919 War Savings Stamps are blue in color and a trifle smaller than those issued last year. They bear a likeness of Benjamin Franklin, the apostle of thrift and economy. The 1919 War Savings Stamps which yield their owners four per cent interest, compounded quarterly, may be obtained from any postoffice, bank, or other authorized agent.

Thrift Stamps and Thrift Cards used last year remain in use during 1919, and filled Thrift Cards, that is, Thrift Cards on which sixteen Thrift Stamps have been affixed, may be exchanged for 1919 War Savings Stamps upon the payment of the few additional cents which represent the difference between the price of War Savings Stamp and $4, the value of the sixteen Thrift Stamps.

Purchasers of 1919 War Savings Stamps should bear in mind that 1919 War Savings Stamps are to be affixed only to 1919 War Savings Certificates. Although one may have a 1918 War Savings Certificate (the parchment on which War Savings Stamps are affixed) which has unfilled space on it, such 1918 certificate should not have 1919 War Savings Stamps pasted on it; nor should 1918 War Stamps be placed on the new 1919 War Savings Certificate. Keep the two years separate.

MUST MEET EVERY DEBT

The war will not be over until the United States Government has honorably met every commitment made in order to win the war.

CARTER GLASS, Secretary of the Treasury.

FACTS OF MOST IMPORTANCE

These Which Tell Best About Past and Future States of Object, Asserts Ruskin.

It ought further to be observed respecting truths in general, that those are always most valuable which are most historical, that is, which tell us most about the past and future states of the object to which they belong. In a tree, for instance, it is more important to give the appearance of energy and elasticity in the limbs which is indicative of growth and life, than any particular character of leaf or texture of bough. It is more important that we should feel that the uppermost sprays are creeping higher and higher into the sky, and be impressed with the current of life and motion which is animating every fibre than that we should know the exact pitch of relief with which those fibres are thrown out against the sky. For the first truths tell us tales about the tree, about what it has been, and will be, while the last are characteristic of it only in its present state, and are in no way talkative about themselves. Talkative facts are always more interesting and more important than silent ones. So, again, the lines in a crag which mark its stratification, and how it has been washed and rounded by water, or twisted and drawn out in fire, are more important, because they tell more than the stains of the lichens, which change year by year, and the accidental fissures of frost or decomposition; not but that both of these are historical, but historical in a less distinct manner, and for shorter periods.—Ruskin.

SAVE TITLE TO RED CROSS

Indianapolis Man Found Pleasure in Putting His Contribution on a Business Basis.

He was a little old man, clad in the garb of a workingman. He stood back from the canteen information booth at the Union station and waited until the Red Cross women had checked the baggage of a group of men just back from overseas. Then he asked up to the desk and thrusting his arm quickly forward, laid a $20 bill in the hand of one of the attendants.

"Take $16.90 out of that," the old man said in a whisper.

"What for?" the canteener asked.

"It's my tithe," he answered. "Take $16.90 out of it. I must be going."

"May I ask you who you are and why you give your money in this way?"

"It doesn't matter who I am. I am just me. The money I'm giving is my tithe to the Red Cross and it makes me happy to give it. It really is $16.98, but you won't want to bother with pennies."

The canteener gave him his change and placed the money in the donation box under the counter. He disappeared in the crowd in the Union station. A few minutes later another canteener arrived. She was told of the incident.

"Yes, he comes regularly each month and leaves his tithe," she said, "but he won't tell who he is. He seems to enjoy giving to the Red Cross in this quiet way and always wears a smile of satisfaction after he has done it. He seems so happy when he turns to walk away."—Indianapolis News.

Enormous Sea-Going Raft.

While log rafts are by no means new, the huge raft recently constructed at Haparanda, Sweden, and used to ship a large number of logs to Copenhagen, Denmark, is worthy of passing mention.

The great raft measures 387 feet long, 55½ feet wide, 10 feet above the waterline and 16½ feet below.

The raft took six months to build and contains as much wood as four big steamers. It is held together by an ingenious system of steel cables and wires, and is capable of carrying a large amount of material. The crew consists of seven men.

Japanese Trade With Panama.

A Japanese consulate has been established in Panama city. This is the outcome of growing commercial relations between Japan and the republic of Panama. Although there are few Japanese residents in Panama, the prospects for trade between the two countries are excellent. Japan is now exporting canned goods, boxes, furniture, skins, willow baskets, figured mats, grass goods, earthen wares, silk and cotton goods and many other things to that country, the total value of which amounted to $13,684,000 in the year 1917, but there were practically no imports.

A New Star.

Martha, the 5-year-old daughter of W. M. Hedrick, court reporter under Judge Louis B. Ewbank, of the Marion Circuit court, listened attentively to her older sister's argument to be taken to see the second installment of "The Sambo's" and also Catherine's emphasizing of the fact that Douglas Fairbanks was an additional attraction. After a slight pause, Martha decided: "And papa, won't you please take me to see Judge Ewbank, too?"—Indianapolis News.

Jerusalem Free From Mosquitoes.

Jerusalem has been freed from the mosquito pest. It is announced by the health organization, through the efforts of an American sanitarian, Louis Sauer, who is a member of the American Mosquito Medical Unit which is now operating in Palestine. The city is now practically rid of these carriers of malaria and other diseases. During the campaign, thousands of mosquitoes were killed.

OLD AGE STARTS WITH YOUR KIDNEYS

Science says that old age begins with weakened kidneys and digestive organs. This being true, it is easy to believe that by keeping the kidneys and digestive organs cleansed and in proper working order old age can be deferred and life prolonged far beyond that enjoyed by the average person.

For over 300 years GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been relieving the weaknesses and disability due to advancing years. It is a standard old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil is enclosed in odorless, tasteless capsules containing about 5 drops each. Take them as you would a pill, with a small swallow of water. The oil stimulates the kidney action and enables the organs to throw off the poisons which cause premature old age. New life and strength increase as you continue the treatment. When completely restored, continue taking a capsule or two each day. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules will keep you in health and vigor and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not wait until old age or disease have settled down for good. Go to your druggist and get a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. Money refunded if they do not help you. Three sizes. But remember to ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, in sealed packages.

Muscle Among Lower Animals.

Believers in Darwin and man's descent from monkeys will hail with interest the theory that monkeys and apes are the originators of concert-giving and most nearly approximate human musicians. In Central Africa these animal tribes have musical centers where they congregate regularly for concerts, and an explorer asserts that if properly trained they would become fine musicians. The little chimpanzees when they gather for a concert seat themselves on the ground in a half circle like a regular orchestra, and then beat the dry leaves about them with their hands, maintaining a rhythm and pauses that make a veritable symphony of the strange sound. The apes, when they gather, attempt singing which is less harmonious to human ears, but it also is done in unison as is the "music" of the monkeys. Next to monkeys cats are the most musical animals, though the ability of horses to recognize tunes and keep time to them is well known to every one.

Make Most of What You Have.

Shakespeare says, "You can't turn the wheel with the water that is past." The modern age says, "You can't excel in fitness when you spend the hours in idleness." Dreams of the glory that is to be are largely dreams still long after the days are past that should have witnessed the crowning. But life is more than dreams. Most folks have learned to their sorrow that it is a rather stern reality. It promises much, but it's always conditional. It teaches men that in the using of what they have they become the heroes of the days that are to be. It's the filling of present hours that brings the full hours of the future. It's folly to mourn the past. It's all made in the present and today passes so swiftly into tomorrow that we scarcely realize how swiftly go the speeding hours.

TIME TO FEED YOUNG CHICKS

Mashes Mixed With Milk Are of Considerable Value in Giving Youngsters Good Start.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Young chicks may be fed any time after they are thirty-six to forty-eight hours old whether they are with a hen or in a brooder. Some good feeds for the first feeding are moistened hard-boiled eggs, Johnnycake, stale bread, oatmeal or rolled oats, which may be fed separately or in combination. Mash mixed with milk are of considerable value in giving the chicks a good start. The mixture should be fed in a crumbly mash and not in a sloppy condition. Johnnycake composed of the following ingredients in the proportion named is a very good feed for young chicks: One dozen infertile eggs or one pound of sifted beef scraps to ten pounds of cornmeal; add enough milk to make a pasty mash and one tablespoonful of baking soda and bake until done. Dry bread crumbs may be mixed with hard-boiled eggs, making about one-fourth of the mixture eggs, or rolled oats may be used in place of bread crumbs.

It is a good plan to give these feeds about five times daily for the first week, then gradually substitute for one or two of these feeds a mixture of finely cracked grains of equal parts by weight of cracked wheat and finely cracked corn and pinhead oatmeal or hulled oats, to which about 5 per cent of cracked peas or broken rice and 2 per cent of charcoal or millet or rape seed may be added. A commercial chick feed may be substituted if desired. This ration may be fed until the chicks are two weeks old, when they should be placed on grain and a dry or wet mash mixture.

Young chickens should be fed from three to five times daily, but if care is given not to overfeed chicks will grow faster when fed five times per day. Young chicks should be fed not more than barely enough to satisfy their appetites and to keep them exercising except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they will eat. There is danger in over-feeding, particularly if the young chicks are confined and do not have access to free range, as too much feed under such conditions is apt to cause leg weakness.

GRIT NECESSARY FOR FOWLS

Hopper Feeding Saves Labor and Furnishes Desirable Supplementary Feed for Hens.

Ground feeds are necessary for most efficient digestion in poultry. Hopper feeding saves labor and furnishes the necessary supplementary feed at all times. There is no danger of poultry overeating on ground feeds fed dry in a hopper. The University of Missouri college of agriculture is recommending the hopper as a labor saver in the poultry yard.

Limestone grit or oyster shell is also necessary for laying hens. A laying hen requires large quantities of shell-making material. Nearly all of this must come from the grit and shell she eats. It is poor economy not to keep a liberal supply accessible. One extra egg a year will pay the bill. It returns the money invested a hundred fold.

Chickens raised on range can be produced much more economically than those kept closely confined around the farm buildings. Not only is less feed required, but the danger from disease is reduced. The edge of the cornfield makes an ideal poultry range. Chickens grow best on plowed ground and the corn furnishes shade, which is essential during the summer. Under such conditions, a pound of chicken can be produced from three to four pounds of grain.

POULTRY NOTES

- Skim milk is good for the chickens.
- Pumpkin is of value in the cold weather poultry ration.
- Wheat, oats and corn are good grains to feed the laying hen.
- Ducks are among the most profitable of all domesticated fowls.
- Parent turkeys should be full grown and mature. If the gobbler is related to the hens get a new one.

LIVE STOCK

SELF-FEEDER SAVES LABOR

Supply of Grain or Other Feed Kept Constantly Available—Device Gaining Favor.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the ingredients of a good ration constantly before them, placed so that they may eat at will, hogs will make gains more rapidly and more economically than when fed by hand. The self-feeder is growing in popularity. It is simply a device by means of which a supply of grain or other feed is kept constantly available to the hogs, in order that they may always satisfy the craving of their appetites with respect to the kind and amount of feed. "The Self-Feeder for Hogs" (Farmers' Bulletin 908) explains the advantages of the self-feeder and gives bill of materials necessary for its construction.

The growing scarcity of farm labor is making it necessary to adopt systems of farming which will eliminate a part of the work required at rush seasons. Such a system is carefully described in "A Corn-Belt Farming System Which Saves Harvest Labor by Hogging Down Crops" (Farmers' Bulletin 614).

FEEDING SHEEP IN WINTER

Oil Meal Should Form Liberal Part of Grain Ration Where Coarse Feed is Given.

Where sheep are fed largely on coarse rough feeds during the winter season, with little or no clover or alfalfa hay, or no silage or roots, oil meal should always form a liberal part of the grain ration. Its laxative and toning qualities will counteract the constipating effect of the dry, coarse feeds, which is the cause of most of the trouble which comes to flock owners in the winter months.

PIGS RELISH LINSEED MEAL

Sometimes Used as Supplement to Corn in Feeding—Is Cheap Carrier of Protein.

Linseed meal is sometimes used as a supplement to corn in hog feeding, and when tankage or skim milk cannot be obtained at a reasonable price this feed may become the cheapest carrier of protein.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Pork hogs is a pretty fair business to follow now, provided you raise your feeds and every attention that we can give to make the best of hogs will pay us well in the future.

Grow into the sheep business—not go into it. Beginners should start on a rather small scale and increase the size of the flocks as experience is gained.

Rye pasture will be a disappointment if you depend upon it as a sole ration but stock should have grain and other roughage.

Beef feeders found long ago that in order to secure profitable and consistent gains all their cattle should be dehorned.

Alfalfa hay is rich in protein, a muscle-forming nutriment which idle horses are not so much in need of.

Cattle that are fed silage do not shrink in transit any more than do those receiving dry roughage alone.

Each calf needs a separate pail, for calves like all other animals differ in their speed of eating.

When breaking the colt, see that all parts of the harness are strong and fit well.

Why some farmers continue to breed to the scrub stallions is a mystery.

Avoid giving spoiled feed to the horses.

Don't Wait For The Fatal Stages Of Kidney Illness. Profit By Princess Anne People's Experience.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are frequent symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but generally return with greater intensity. Don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up their use until the desired results are obtained. Good work in Princess Anne proves the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

W. T. Gibbons, farmer, Route No. 4, Princess Anne, says: "I was troubled with backache and mornings I felt tired out on account of losing a lot of sleep. When I got up after sitting, pains shot through me like a knife-thrust. My kidneys were acting too frequently, making me get up at night. The kidney secretions were highly colored and I was in a bad way in general. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at O. A. Jones' drug store, and after using two boxes, I was rid of kidney trouble."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Gibbons had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

The Great Problem of These Times

All the world admits that the world's greatest problem today is to feed Europe. Men who are hungry are seldom reasonable. All kinds of wild and foolish social theories gain supporters where there is want. There is danger, European statesmen admit, that the whole fabric of modern civilization may decay, and misery stalk through the world, if wants are not quickly relieved. "In the sweat of thy brow shalt thou eat bread" is still the law of nature, for mankind. Civilization cannot last without constant labor. Labor cannot exert itself effectively unless there is good order and confidence.

How Is Your Complexion?

A woman should grow more beautiful as she grows older and she will with due regard to baths, diet and exercise, and by keeping her liver and bowels in good working order. If you are haggard and yellow, your eyes losing their lustre and whites becoming yellowish, your flesh flabby, it may be due to indigestion or to a sluggish liver. Chamberlain's Tablets correct these disorders.

How Diphtheria Is Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

Fashionable Franklin

Ben Franklin is the style. If you think a matter of two hundred years makes him out of date, glance at the figure he cuts. You will see the likeness of "America, 1919."

Miss America goes in for Thrift. She pursues "wise buying," follows this with "sane saving," and devoted herself ardently to "safe investment." She condemns the old-fashioned hoarding. Franklin did the same. He advocated that "the use of money is all the advantage there is in having money."

The "use" however, was left in his time to be solved by the individual. Then, investment was only for the wealthy, and safe investment a matter of doubt. Now-a-days, all saved pennies can be turned profitably into Thrift Stamps. Everybody can invest in absolutely safe government securities.

Hundreds of millions of people are adopting the style of Ben Franklin.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. S. K. DENNIS

Died At Her Home In Princess Anne Last Friday Night

Mrs. Sally Crisfield Dennis, widow of the late Samuel K. Dennis, of "Beverly," Worcester county, died at her home on south Main street last Friday night, about 9 o'clock, after a lingering illness of several months, aged 75 years.

Mrs. Dennis was a daughter of the late John W. Crisfield and Mary Wilson Handy and a half sister of the late Henry Page, Judge of the Court of Appeals, of Princess Anne.

The deceased was a native of Princess Anne and after her marriage to the late State Senator Samuel K. Dennis, of Worcester county, she resided at "Beverly," the old Dennis' homestead on the Pocomoke river. She continued to reside there until about 10 years ago, when she removed to this town.

She is survived by four sons (United States District Attorney Samuel K. Dennis, of Baltimore; Dr. Alfred P. Dennis, Commercial Attache at Rome, Italy; Messrs. Arthur C. Dennis, of Seattle, State of Washington, and Philip C. Dennis, of Pocomoke City) and three daughters (Mrs. John S. McMaster, of Jersey City, N. J.; Mrs. Luther A. Oates, of Princess Anne, and Mrs. Guy R. Balloch, of Toronto, Canada). She is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Messrs. Arthur W. Crisfield, of Washington, D. C.; John W. Crisfield, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Miss Carrie Crisfield, of Portland, Maine, and the Misses Mary and Ellen Crisfield, of "Edge Hill," Princess Anne.

Funeral services were held in Manokin Presbyterian Church last Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. L. Freund, of Princeton, N. J. Interment was in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were her two sons, Messrs. Samuel K. Dennis and Philip C. Dennis; her two grandsons, English John D. McMaster, U. S. Navy, and Mr. Robert L. Oates; her nephews, James U. Dennis, and Col. Henry J. Waters.

The funeral was largely attended. Among those from out-of-town were: Mr. John S. McMaster, Jersey City, N. J.; Mr. William R. Bishop, Wm. Arthur D. Foster, Mrs. Joseph L. Wickes, Mrs. Henry Page, Baltimore; Mr. Arthur Crisfield and daughter, Miss Ethelinde Crisfield, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Purnell, Miss Grace Purnell, Col. George M. Upshur, Mr. and Mrs. Marion T. Hargis, Miss Carolyn Hargis, Snow Hill; Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Harmanson, Mr. and Mrs. William Holloway, Berlin; Mr. and Mrs. George Twilley, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Merrill, Mrs. William H. Merrill, Messrs. Samuel J. Twilley, Francis M. Wilson, Pocomoke City.

Closely Contested Game of Ball

Last Friday the Washington High School base ball team met the Crisfield High School team in a closely contested game which resulted in Crisfield's favor by a score of 4 to 3. The game was played under ideal conditions, the sun being clouded and the weather mild. Some brilliant plays were made on both sides, and a double play skillfully worked between the home second and first basemen. The home boys made fewer errors in the field, but the few that were made happened to be costly. The skillful base running, the sliding to bases and the slow pitching on the part of the visitors, to which our players were not very well accustomed after facing a speedy town pitcher, kept the score down. The work of the home battery—John Coard, pitcher, and Milton Holden, catcher, deserves special mention.

On the whole our boys handled themselves and the ball in a masterly way, and with a little more practice in team work and batting in the manner in which Mr. Bowland, the physical director of the school, is coaching and training the team, should make a showing creditable to Princess Anne.

The Crisfield team brought about 20 with them aside from the nine. The home team will go to Salisbury Friday, April 11th, and play the Crisfield return game in Crisfield on April 18th.

March Weather

The weather report for the month of March as compiled by Mr. James R. Stewart, co-operative observer of Princess Anne, follows:

Maximum temperature, 75 degrees on the 17th; minimum temperature, 27 degrees on the 12th; total precipitation, 5.36 inches. Clear days, 7; partly cloudy, 17; cloudy 7. Killing frosts on the 2nd, 4th, 8th, 12th, 25th, 26th and 31st; hail on the 19th. Frogs heard on the 4th. The prevailing wind was north-west.

Arbor Day was observed in the public schools of the county last Friday with appropriate exercises.

GUILTY OF FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Carlyle P. Webster Held Responsible For Death Of Bride

"The verdict of the court is guilty of murder in the first degree."

In these few words, and without any statement of the facts in the case or their reasons for the verdict, Judge Dawkins announced in Part 2 of the Criminal Court, Baltimore, last Wednesday afternoon, the finding of himself and his colleague, Judge Heuveler, in the case of Carlyle P. Webster, who strangled his bride to death in the Belvedere Hotel, Baltimore, last October.

The verdict means that Webster will either be hanged or sentenced to life imprisonment for his crime. The judges were prepared to announce the penalty, but sentence was suspended under a motion for a new trial made in Webster's behalf. The motion will be heard in the near future, as the Supreme Bench will meet this month to hear motions for new trials in criminal courts.

The verdict was what was asked for by the State. That the Judge omitted the phrase "without capital punishment" was taken by some as an indication that the penalty would be death by hanging. Juries are given the right by law to render a verdict of first degree murder without capital punishment. If the recommendation is omitted, the penalty may be either death or life imprisonment.

The testimony showed that Webster had attempted to choke the woman several times before he killed her. The assaults before the murder were committed in other hotels and in a taxicab.

MEETING OF TOMATO GROWERS

Speakers Will Discuss The Tomato Situation Next Saturday

A meeting of the Somerset County Tomato Growers' Association will be held in the Court House Saturday afternoon, April 12th, at 3 o'clock, new time. The tomato situation will be discussed by Mr. John E. Patten, president of the Peninsula Tomato Growers' Association; Mr. W. E. Wright, of the East New Market Farmers' Association; Mr. T. E. Taylor, of the Hurlock Tomato Growers' Association, and Mr. J. Shields, secretary of the Wicomico Tomato Growers' Association.

This meeting will be one of the most important of the season and it is urged that all members of the county and local associations be present. This will be the last opportunity for those farmers who have not become members to join the Association for this season. The canners of the county are invited to be present and take part in the discussion.

James E. McDorman Dead

Mr. James E. McDorman, son of the late Hanson McDorman, died at the home of his brother, Mr. E. Wright McDorman, in Revell's Neck, last Friday night, after an illness of over a year of Bright's disease, aged 67 years.

Mr. McDorman was never married. He is survived by two brothers, (Messrs. E. W. McDorman, of Revell's Neck; William L. McDorman, of Crisfield,) and one sister (Mrs. J. W. Dixon), of Philadelphia.

Funeral services were held at Olivet Church, Revell's Neck, yesterday (Monday) afternoon, conducted by the Rev. J. W. Wooten, of Fruitland, and the interment was in the church cemetery. The pallbearers were, Messrs. E. W. McDorman, W. L. McDorman, F. R. Nelson, A. C. Bozman, Robert Beauchamp and H. J. Nelson.

He was a member of Wa Wa Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, and a large number of the Tribe attended the funeral from Princess Anne.

Prepare To Plant Victory Gardens

Residents of the towns and farmers of the county should prepare to have a Victory Garden. Last year many had gardens for the first time and obtained fine results. The food obtained from the gardens were of much value in increasing the food supply of the country.

This year the government advises everybody to have a back yard garden if possible, as it is necessary that families obtain part of their own food supply from the garden and relieve the demand for food which will be suitable to ship to the starving people in the European countries.

Fire Company Elects Officers

The Princess Anne Volunteer Fire Company met Monday night of last week and re-organized and elected the following officers: President, Oscar F. Jones; vice-president, Edwin Hayman; secretary and treasurer, B. F. Sterling; chief, Charles Matthews. The company will meet the first and third Friday nights of each month.

The company deserves encouragement from our citizens and should be given all the aid possible, as this town certainly needs better fire protection.

METHODIST PASTORS APPOINTED

Wilmington Conference Adjourned Monday of Last Week

The Wilmington M. E. Conference adjourned at Chestertown Monday afternoon of last week after a memorable session and the reading of appointments. The appointments for Salisbury District follow:

A Stupendous Picture Drama

The management of the Auditorium, Princess Anne, will present the Great Nazimova in "Revelation" next Friday night, April 11th. This is a metro production De Luxe in 7 acts of thrilling romance.

"Revelation" is a stupendous picture drama, a worthy vehicle for the genius of the great Nazimova. It tells the story of Joline, a model living in the Latin quarter of Paris, who finds a soul through the agency of the sacred rose bush. Through Joline a miracle is performed, when a pious monk who sees her standing beside the sacred bush sees shining in her eyes the pure spirit of the Madonna. The bush bursts into bloom. But this miracle is as nothing compared to Revelation by which Joline's whole nature is transformed and purified. Echoes of the Great War are heard in Revelation, and Joline finds her happiness first in service and then in love.

Rev. Vandermuellen Goes To Newark

The Rev. C. A. Vandermuellen, for the past two years pastor of Pocomoke Circuit churches, was assigned to the Newark (Md.) Methodist Episcopal Church by the M. E. Conference which met at Chestertown last week. He will also have charge of the Methodist churches at Ironside and Wesley.

During the two years that Mr. Vandermuellen has been pastor of the Pocomoke Circuit churches he has injected new life into that field. In all of the churches of the charge he has helped to achieve financial and spiritual success; and his ability was recognized by the conference when it assigned him to a much better charge.

The new pastor of the circuit churches will be the Rev. D. B. Prettyman, who last year served the Methodist church on Taylor's island.

Dynamite Demonstrations

County Agent C. Z. Keller has arranged to have a representative of the DuPont Powder Company give a series of demonstrations in various sections of the county in the use of dynamite on the farm. The practical use of dynamite will be shown in clearing new land, blowing stumps and the drainage of low lands, by blowing ditches and also by breaking hardpans and blowing wells for draining the higher land.

Farmers interested in having a demonstration arranged for their farm should communicate at once with the county agent. The time and place for holding the various demonstrations will be given in the next week's issue of this paper.

The Princess Anne Electric Plant has established a 24-hour service, (except Sunday) which began on April 1st.

OYSTER PLANTING LEASES

Conservation Commission Gives Advice On Subject

The Conservation Commission has addressed letters to practical oystermen through the state to lease unoccupied bottoms of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries for oyster culture. The letter follows:

Your business is catching and selling oysters. Anything that will increase your opportunities or lessen your hazards improve your business. You often experience a good market when you can make a good catch.

You cannot alter these conditions imposed by nature, but you can create for yourself a state of preparedness whereby you can accumulate your catch in periods of glut and low price and have it available for good markets.

Everyone is concerned with the particular part "reconstruction" will play with his own line of business, and he is wise who takes advantage of any means available that will enable him to convert his effort in the most cash.

It is self-evident that the oysterman who can secure the best average selling price for his catch throughout the season will enjoy that result.

This can be done by taking up a small area under lease on which to plant the catch of those days in the early fall and late spring when there is no market or an unsatisfactory market.

The possession of such a piece of ground under lease fortifies you against idleness in such a dull period and against the necessity of selling at a low figure when you can certainly obtain a good price for during the winter time when work on the natural rocks is often impossible.

As a purely business proposition it should appeal to every oysterman. The cost of lease for ground includes: Application fee, $5; advertising fee, $5; survey and recording fees, $5, or a total of $15 apportioned over the 20-year period of the lease means cost, to which is to be added the rental of $1 per acre per year. It is a matter of simple calculation to see that this insignificant outlay of money holds promise of big return to the lessee in enabling him to take care of his catch during the aforesaid unfavorable periods.

There are many thousands of acres of good bottoms still open for lease and you can readily ascertain by calling or writing this office what acres can still be obtained in the location desired by you.

Think about this and file your application for the lot early, so that it can be advertised and passed through the 60-day period provided by law, duly surveyed and made available for your use when the oyster season opens in September. As an inducement for prompt action on all applications filed between now and April 30th, 1919, the commission has decided to waive the advertising fee so that only $5 application fee will be required when the application is filed.

1,535,471 Out Of The Army

Figures made public by the War Department show that from the signing of the armistice to March 26th, 1,535,471 of the 3,670,888 officers and men under arms when the war ended, has been discharged from the service.

Since the end of hostilities 573,474 officers and men have sailed from France to March 26th, and of this number 502,830 had arrived in the United States. This left 1,409,789 soldiers overseas. The total under arms in this country on March 25th was 603,178.

Enlistments in the army since February 28th, when voluntary recruiting was resumed, were 1,533 to March 26th. Of these 783 enlisted for one year, 714 for three years and 36, length of service not reported.

Better Keep Liberty Bonds

Liberty loan bonds have lately dropped to new low levels. In some cases they show a theoretical loss of principal more than offsetting the interest earned. There is no question that the bonds are perfectly good and will be paid at their face value at maturity; but so many good investments pay higher rates of interest that many holders prefer to sell and put the money into something else.

Inexperienced investors should not venture to do this. If anybody offers to take Liberty bonds in exchange for some other security that "pays better" it is because he believes the Liberty bond to be worth more than what he is offering in exchange for it.

INCREASED VALUES OF FARM LAND

Figures For The Last Four Years By Department Of Agriculture

Farm lands in the United States are steadily increasing in value. The Department of Agriculture reports the average grade of plow lands was worth about $74.31 per acre on March 1st, this year, compared with $68.38 a year ago, $62.17 two years ago and $58.39 three years ago.

Values show the greatest percentage increase during the last year occurred in the South Atlantic states, in the Carolinas and Georgia and extended to Alabama, Kentucky and Arkansas. Small or no increases were made in New England states, the Pacific Coast states and Louisiana, Texas, Kansas and Montana. Material increases were reported from Nebraska and South Dakota.

Iowa's plowing lands stand first in value, her average being $169 per acre, followed by Illinois, with $144; California, with $121, and Indiana, with $100. Alabama reports the lowest average value of plow lands, at $24 per acre, and Mississippi next, at $25.50.

The average value of plow lands on March 1st this year and in 1918, 1917 and 1916 in Maryland was as follows: In 1919, $53; in 1918, $47; in 1917, $48; in 1916, $46.

Williams Nominated For Mayor

George Weems Williams was nominated for Mayor of Baltimore, in the Democratic primary, last Tuesday by the decisive majority of 3,969. His vote was 24,936, as against 20,967 for Mayor James H. Preston. Mr. Williams carried both the old city and the Annex.

His running mates, Howard Bryant, for President of the Second Branch, and Joseph H. Smith, for Comptroller, also were nominated by large majorities. Mr. Bryant defeated J. Barry Mahool by 5,828, his vote being 24,699 to 18,871 for Mr. Mahool. And Mr. Smith defeated Mr. Thrift by 8,882, the votes being 26,232 for Smith to 17,350 for Thrift. Mr. Mahool and Mr. Thrift now are serving in the offices to which they aspired.

Most of the Preston candidates for the City Council, backed by John Mahon's organization, won. The victory of Mr. Williams and his running mates for the city-wide offices was largely personal.

CHANGES IN ESTATE TAX LAW

Important Announcement By The Internal Revenue Department

Provisional regulations covering changes in the estate tax were announced last Tuesday at the Internal Revenue Office, Baltimore. They were adopted by the committee, of which Mr. Clarence Miles, head of the division in the Maryland District, was a member. They are of primary importance, affecting as they do bequests and gifts of every description. They are effective as of February 25th, 1919, the day on which the revenue act was signed.

The rates of tax have been changed materially, there being a decrease so far as smaller estates are concerned. Up to $450,000 the tax is the same as by act of 1916, when first imposed, and very much lower than by act of 1917. Beginning with half a million they are higher than in the original law, but much less than last year; from $2,000,000 upward, however, they are the same as in 1917.

In addition to establishing new rates, the act provides that the taxes imposed shall not apply to the transfer of the net estate of any decedent who has died or may die while serving in the military or naval forces of the United States in the present war, or from injuries received or disease contracted while in such service, and that any tax collected upon such transfer shall be refunded to the executor. The term "military or naval forces of the United States" includes the Marine Corps, Army Nurse Corps (female) and the Navy Nurse Corps (female), but this shall not be deemed to exclude other units otherwise included within such term.

It will be noted that this provision is retroactive and covers those cases in which the estate tax has already been collected. In any such case where the tax has been paid by the executor of the estate of a decedent coming within the provisions of this section, formal claim for refund should be submitted, necessary proof being forthcoming.

A new provision has been added, including in the gross estate of the decedent the amount receivable by the executor as insurance under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life, and to the extent of the excess over $40,000 of the amount receivable by all beneficiaries as insurance under policies taken out by the decedent upon his own life. The first portion of this amendment is in accordance with the present ruling on the subject, but the inclusion of the excess of insurance $40,000 that is receivable by beneficiaries other than the executor is a change in the law, no such provision being included in the previous acts. The word "beneficiary" as used in this paragraph relates solely to a beneficiary of an insurance policy.

The provision in which the Johns Hopkins University is particularly interested has to do with the exemption of charitable, public or philanthropic bequests. This law is retroactive and deductions may be made in the case of estates of decedents who have died since December 31st, 1917.

The provision in the original law allowing a discount of five per cent. for advance payment has been stricken from the law and no discount can now be permitted.

Washington—Father Of Liberty Bonds

George Washington, father of his country, could have been the first Liberty bond holder. In the Revolutionary War when the young government had no funds whatever to meet current expenses Washington supplied a part of the necessary money from his private fortune. In order to get this ready cash he was compelled to sell property in Virginia. He lent in all about $72,000 to the government.

These sacrifices on Washington's part were cheerfully made to a government in the making, to one in fact that he was striving to establish. Had he failed in his purpose no payment would have been forthcoming, and as it was the loan was made without interest.

Americans of today are not asked to make such sacrifices. The government to which Washington gave of himself and his property so unstintingly to make stable is today stronger established financially than any other in the world, its bonds are backed by better security than any others on the world market.

The father of his country did not doubt nor hesitate, but gave. He had faith against all odds, and his faith was justified. Today the government has all the odds on its side. It asks the loan of its people's money. It will be returned with interest. There is no uncertainty.

Mrs. Robert F. Duer and Miss Ellen D. McMaster spent a few days last week with friends in Pocomoke City.

A BROKEN LIFE

By ALLEN CHAMPNEY.

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"Miss Cayenne, you said?"
"Yes."

"Why the peppery name?"

"You would know if you spent an evening in her company! Rightfully she is Miss Naomi Winters, but in a casual way the other appellation has become common. You may wonder at it, for she is not only beautiful but rich. Her eccentricities are constant and numerous, and young as she is they say she has a satire and sarcasm at command that would make a star of an old Grecian pessimistic philosopher. Some deep disappointment must have ruffled the fair surface of her life, for she is a consistent man hater and her apt ridicule of sham, pretense and affectation has not made her at all popular."

The speakers stood at a window of the lobby of the hotel at Walford, regarding a queenly appearing lady who was just passing by.

They casually discussed her and turned away, but a man of about thirty who had stood directly behind them moved closer to the window. There was something more than interest in his face—a token of deep emotion and a thoughtful expression were in his eyes as he remained staring blankly out on the street. He had become a guest at the hotel and registered as Randal Paxton that morning. At the end of a protracted reverie he turned away with a deep sigh.

The lady who was the object of all this attention was life in harmony, to outward seeming, with the designation that had been awarded her. Her face, though smileless, almost severe, was perfect in its contour. Her eyes, which at times were scornful or haughty, when in repose bore a half-hidden sadness that told of some secret sorrow.

A storm of censure and disapproval greeted her when she selected Alice Wade as her maid. A member of a family poor, obscure, the father of which was a drunkard, herself a deserted wife, Alice had been shunned, despised. With rare human pity Miss Winters took her up, lifting a depressed soul from gloom to sunshine and winning a devotion and love that was almost pathetic.

It was Alice who knew of countless deeds of charity done by her mistress in secret. It was she who knew that in her dark moody moments Miss Winters shut herself up in a room never visited by others. It was Alice who knew that her young mistress had loved and lost, embittering her life in the present.

The stranger at the hotel for three nights in succession passed some time in the vicinity of the house where Miss Winters lived. He was rather mysterious in his actions. He evaded pedestrians and never left his hotel during daytime. One evening he was near to the Winters' home, when Alice was hurrying towards the house. As she passed a hedge a rough looking man sprang into view and caught her arm.

"It's me, my pretty, your roving, un-fortunate husband. I hear you've got a job where there's lots of money and jewels. You've got to get me some."

"I wouldn't give you a penny if you were starving!" protested Alice and broke away. The man started after her. Paxton intervened, knocked him senseless with a single blow, and hurried the girl homewards.

"There, you are safe," he said, "and if that miscreant troubles you again just call the police. Why! what is that?" as a thunderous sound emanated from the house, startling, alarming.

"Something has happened. Oh, my young mistress!" palpitated Alice, and she rushed into the house, followed by Paxton. Into the wing room Alice dashed. At its threshold for an instant Paxton paused. A part of the ceiling had fallen and Miss Winters lay insensible on the floor amid its debris. This was the room where Miss Winters spent so many hours of meditation in solitude. Upon a table in the corner was a framed photograph, marvelously resembling the young man, some trifles of jewelry, a faded bouquet, evidently love mementos of a far past.

Paxton's face was colorless. He quivered like a strong tree shaken by a tempest as he lifted Miss Winters tenderly, carried her to a couch in the next room and telephoned for a physician. A great aspiration of relief swept his lips as an hour later Alice came to him and informed him that the doctor reported Miss Winters only temporarily stunned. Alice looked agitated as she glanced at the photograph and then at the stranger.

"You are the man!" she spoke in a low, intense tone.

"You mean, an old friend of Miss Winters, whom she has remembered?" replied Paxton. "Yes. I was her affianced husband. A scheming sister plotted to prove to me that she loved another. I left home a broken-hearted wanderer. Only a few months since I learned of the cruel conduct of my sister."

"Shall I tell Miss Winters this?" questioned Alice.

"If you will," and Alice went away and returned with a beaming face. "She knew all. She wishes to see you. Oh! make her happy, for I love her, even as you do," and leading Randal Paxton to the room where Naomi Winters awaited him, Alice closed the door after him, and those two, so cruelly parted, were reunited for all the future.

LAUNDRY MOVED WITH THEM

Washing Apparatus on Wheels a Comfort to the Doughboys at the Front in France.

A correspondent with the American army in France, while motoring near Verdun, met a sergeant who asked if he might ride with him to a pile of ruins that had once been a town. The chance meeting threw light on how a "doughboy" laundry operates. After the sergeant had entered the car he asked the occupants:

"You chaps ain't seen my laundry anywhere, have you?"

"Laundry? We didn't know there was a laundry in this part of France."
"Well, there is, and it belongs to us. At least it did yesterday. We've been transferred from the division to the corps. When I got back from headquarters the division had moved and the laundry was gone. I think they stole it. We used to be attached to a hospital; when they moved we hitched our laundry to a truck and went along."

"Your laundry is on wheels, then?"

"Yes, sir. It needs wheels, the way this division is moving. Our laundry is a couple of big tanks on a wagon with a steam-heating apparatus. First we soak the duds in sud; then we steam them; next we bake them. In an hour everything is washed, rinsed and dried. When a bunch comes out of the trenches we give 'em new clothes and run the old ones through the washing machine; then we bake 'em and issue 'em out to the next gang, and keep things going. Fifteen hundred outfits a day—that's our average. Three weeks to launder the whole division."

As they neared the ruined village, he caught sight of the portable laundry, and with a "Thank you" he hurried off to take possession.—Youth's Companion.

TRUE TO TRADITIONS OF SEA

Bluejackets Would Accept No Reward for Their Part in Aiding Injured in Wreck.

Several Indianapolis men were passengers on the New York Central train wrecked near Batavia, N. Y. One of them, in describing the wreck, told the following story:

"When I got into some clothes and got out to see what the trouble was I was surprised to see dozens of sailors as busy as bees helping care for the wounded and making people as comfortable as possible. It developed that our train was carrying two day coaches filled with bluejackets, and a few seconds after the crash came they were out of the cars and making themselves generally useful.

"Some time later representatives of the railroad company came through the crowd settling with the passengers for slight damages. Some asked $50, others $100, and checks for the amount asked were forthcoming. One big man said that $100 would about square things with him, but added that the check should be made out to "those sailors out there." Accordingly the check was drawn in favor of the men who had been working like Trojans ever since the crash. But—

"The sailors refused to accept the money.

"The check was then turned over to the Red Cross to be used in naval relief work."

Uncle Sam Returns Glasses.

As several correspondents have already revealed by means of appreciative letters, the field glasses which the government was forced to "borrow" for the use of its sailors when it went into the war are beginning to come back to their original owners—and to come back almost infinitely increased in value by the marks of hard handling which most of them bear.

For thus these once prosaic utensils have been made into precious relics and souvenirs. Every mark and stain on them is proof that they have helped to win the great victory, and to have one of these war-worn treasures is also evidence that its possessor made a willing sacrifice, small but real, when a need of his country was brought to his attention.—New York Times.

Feeding the Doughboys.

Food stores for the army on hand in the United States, its possessions, France, and in transit to France on Jan. 1, 1919, were valued at $300,000,000. At the time of the signing of the armistice approximately 10,000,000 pounds of food were being consumed by our troops in France each day, and there were on hand in France at that time 1,000,000,000 pounds of food in reserve. All this food has been transported on an average of 5,000 miles. It is estimated by the subsistence division that 3,000,000,000 meals were served to the army during the nineteen months of warfare with Germany.

Average Life Nearly Doubled.

From 1348 to 1350, 25,000,000 deaths from the plague or "black death," occurred, which was one-fourth of the entire population of the world at that time. In 1761, 50 per cent of the English nation died before reaching the age of 20 years.

The average length of life in the sixteenth century was only 21 years, while in this, the twentieth century, the average life is 45 years. In India, however, the average life today is only 24 years.

JUST A LARK

By MILDRED WHITE.

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"Take me with you, Barrie," his sister begged. "I'll promise not to break in on your fishing, and I have always wanted to stop at that inn on the shore."

But her brother shook his head. "I know what that would mean," he complained; "being dragged in with new-made acquaintances for all sorts of entertainments. I am going to indulge myself in a fishing trip, and not to make a target for a lot of angling girls."

"As to that," answered Miss Dulce, "you are too absorbed in your own affairs, Barrie, to notice that I am usually a target myself for confident male attention. Unbelievable as it may seem, I also yearn for solitary pleasure. I'd rather enjoy myself in my own way, with books for company, and no dress exactions to bother. Let me go, Barrie; I will hide away in a corner with magazines and chocolates, and have the time of my life."

"And I suppose," her brother scoffed, "that I wouldn't be halled at evening, tired after a day's sport, to help you entertain Miss New Somebody or other."

"You wouldn't," his sister promised. Suddenly her expressive face brightened. "Barrie," she said, "I'll tell you what: Let us pretend we are a married couple. Just for a lark. Why not? That understanding would prevent the troublesome complications you are conjuring. No one knows us in that out-of-the-way place; we are not likely to see again those; we may meet. Even in that possibility, the thing would be considered a natural mistake—Mr. and Miss Trent, instead of Mr. and Mrs." Dulce jumped to her feet. "Oh! come on, agree, Barrie," she coaxed, and laughingly Barrie agreed.

He was bound to admit the wisdom of his sister's plan, after his first satisfactory day's fishing. The tree-sheltered corner he chose was most restful, and the fish seemed waiting to bite. When he returned joyously weary to the veranda of the inn, Dulce, strangely unattended, loafed happily in her hammock. Her simple midy was comfortably crumpled, and her hair twisted itself in uncareful rings.

"Tomorrow," Barrie told her, "I shall start at five in the morning." And he did. He was forcing his way through obstructing branches, to his chosen retreat, when he paused abruptly, in astonishment. Another fisherman or rather fisherwoman, had forestalled him. Calmly holding a bamboo rod, sat the prettiest girl he had ever seen. At least that is what Barrie thought; others might have disputed his opinion. And Barrie all his young life had been indifferent to female charm.

This girl, who was unlike any other girl Barrie had known, turned upon him frowningly, and bade him, as one man to another:

"Keep still or you'll spoil my bite."

Barrie kept still, until the struggle between the fish, which was large, and the girl, who was small, threatened to throw both into the river. Then Barrie came forward masterfully, and possessing the rod, triumphantly landed the fish.

At which, the girl, whose moods were strangely surprising, begged Barrie to remove the hook and set the poor fish free.

"You see," she naively explained, "I never really expected to catch him."

"Better take him home for dinner," Barrie suggested.

"I'm staying at the inn," the girl objected, "so I have no use for him there."

"I'll keep the fish myself, then," Barrie said decidedly, "to add to my day's sport."

Reluctantly the girl consented, allowing him later to rebait her hook. It is surprising how much environment has to do with the advancement of friendship. Barrie in two meetings at a formal affair, would have been addressing his new-found companion as "Miss Robinson," which she confided was her name. But after a second gloriously long and idle morning in the isolated spot beneath the trees, he was calling the girl of the fishing rod "Little Brown Eyes," and his voice sounded very tender.

"You will come again, Brown Eyes?" begged Barrie.

The charming girl, sadly shook her head.

"I think not," she said. "Mrs. Trent might not like it. We usually visit together afternoons on the hotel veranda."

"Mrs. Trent." Barrie's heart sank in uncomfortable recollection. Dulce's name had been forgotten. And now—how explain?

"Of course," the girl continued, "I should not have become acquainted with you—had I not known—Mrs. Trent first."

The sun had left Barrie's sky and his step its spring as he came scowlingly to face his sister. A white-flannelled young man was now in attendance.

"Barrie," Dulce announced carelessly, "this is Mr. Robinson. His sister was a classmate of mine at Dean's, and she's staying here at the inn. I was telling them yesterday about our little lark. It's all off, Barrie. Mrs. Trent is no more."

But Barrie's face showed no disapproval. A girl's laughing face looked out at him from the shadows of the hall, and Barrie hastened to step inside.

No Farm Too Large or Too Small for a Cleveland

CAPABLE of doing a great volume of work; yet so designed and so easily operated that it gets into the corners.

The owner of a small farm can use the Cleveland just as profitably as the owner of a big one. And another advantage is that it works on all kinds of soils. It lays its own track as it goes along and does not pack the soil.

The Cleveland tractor has proven itself able to plow from 8 to 10 acres per day in medium soil, with a two-bottom Oliver plow.

Use it with an Oliver Plow for best results!

Oliver plows were designed especially for tractor service. The rolling coupler and jointer bury all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow. The stop device maintains an even depth of furrow. A trip rope enables the operator to control the plow from his seat on the tractor. The plow points enter and leave the ground first, affording good clean furrows clear to the ends of the field.

Come to our salesroom any time and I will show you many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

HOW CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE WAS SAVED

New Process Invented to Preserve Surface of Monolith in Central Park.

HIROGLYPHS OBLITERATED.

Rigors of Western Climate Caused Khedive's Gift to Disintegrate. Painting Ancient Obelisk With Special Preparation Stayed Decay—Ruined Portions Restored.

New Yorkers awoke one morning and in their breakfast headlines the news that a zealous park employee had discovered signs of disintegration on the surface of the city's most treasured antique—Cleopatra's Needle. Photographs revealed that the monolith was peeling, large pieces of sandstone having fallen from the tall shaft, carrying with them part of the prized hieroglyphs.

London's twin sister of Cleopatra's Needle was reported as resting comfortably and enduringly on the banks of the Thames, and the rival port wondered whether a preparation would be found to stay the attacks of their harsher climate.

Such a preparation was soon forthcoming. A new paint combination as a preservative for stone was invented

THE OBELISK.

The Obelisk was presented to the City of New York by the Khedive of Egypt.

Lieutenant Commander Corning, U. S. N., after a three years' effort, obtained possession of it and moved it to its present position, at an expense of nearly $100,000. It was finally swung into position at noon, January 22, 1881.

The height of this monument, from base to tip, is 69 feet, 2 inches. The measurement of the base, square through its axis, is 7 feet, 8 1/2 inches. The entire weight of the monolith is 213 1/2 tons.

Since it was quarried near the torrid zone, it has traversed the entire length of Egypt, most of that of the Mediterranean Sea and the width of the Atlantic Ocean—a distance of 6,400 miles, proving itself a first rate traveler for one whose age has early in a few centuries. In the course of its existence it has seen Pharaoh and his host going to their destruction in the Red Sea, Shishak marching to the Conquest of Jerusalem; Cambyses despoiling the land; Herodotus, Plato and other Greek students engaged in pursuit of Egyptian lore; Alexander the Great on his victorious expedition through the land of Goshen; six and a half centuries of Roman sovereignty and Christian struggle at Alexandria; all the long line of Moslem rulers since Caliph Omar; and now, leaving altogether its native land, it stands looking upon the million dwellers in this metropolis, whose site was unknown to the Eastern world at a time when the Obelisk had been in existence for two thousand years.

by Dr. William Kueckro, chemist of the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Many years previous coating with paraffin had been tried, but the application had not entirely accomplished its purpose. The new painting process, however, proved a success. Disintegration was halted and the damaged parts restored. New York breathed easily again.

PAINT PROTECTION AND ITS ECONOMY.

The preservation of structural materials, which may be obtained through the application of paint, constitutes a most vital means of furthering the conservation of our natural resources. It is, moreover, the most economical method of sustaining the appearance and general upkeep of any community.

A structure coated with sheets of India rubber would not be as well protected from decay as a structure coated with a good oil paint. This is due to the fact that a sheet of rubber is not so durable or as waterproof as a thin dried film of paint. The latter material when applied dries to a continuous elastic film containing finely divided particles of metallic, wear resisting pigments. A square foot of such a film upon a wooden surface costs less than a penny, yet it will beautify and protect a dollar's worth of surface for many years. This is a low rate of insurance.

Dwellings, barns, outbuildings, sheds, posts, fences, stock enclosures, wagons, implements, windmills and other structures, whether of wood, iron or cement, should be preserved, through the use of paint, from rapid decay. High grade paint may be used successfully for all such purposes. Colored paints will be found the most serviceable, the coloring matter in the paint adding from two to three years to the life of the coating.

Better Quality Of Permanent Pasturage

The Department of Agriculture, in a recent announcement, calls attention to the importance of permanent pasture lands, and advise that the next few months is the desirable time of the year for the improvement of pastures. Large areas of permanent pasture would respond to proper methods of improvement which might include the following:

Keep the pastures clean by cutting off brush, briars and weeds. Large stumps, stones and dead trees should also be removed.

Those areas used for pasture that would permit harrowing and disking at the time of reseeding, applying lime, fertilizers and manure, etc., may be greatly benefited. In some sections terracing may be practiced with satisfactory results.

The application of lime, acid phosphate and manure can always be relied upon in most sections as a means of adding the necessary increased fertility.

Reseeding, particularly in bare spots, is to be recommended. White and Japan clover, Bermuda, herd grass, carpet grass and blue grass in favored sections are commonly used.

As a rule reseeded pasture should be lightly grazed the first year. At all times it is advisable to keep the cattle off the grass in the spring until well started. Closer grazing during the rest of the season may be practiced where this has been done. It is also advisable to turn cattle off the pasture earlier in the fall than is commonly practiced.

How Diphtheria is Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

BUYING LIVES, ONE PURPOSE OF LOAN

Your Victory Liberty Bond Subscriptions Will Help Pay for Saving of Hundreds of Thousands of "Doughboys"

One of the features of the coming Victory Liberty Loan is that it will, in part, pay the cost of saving the lives of more than 500,000 Yanks and thousands of our allies, according to Lewis B. Franklin, Director of the U. S. War Loan Organization.

"The speed and bravery of the American doughboy affected the Germans on the front line more than it did the men at German general headquarters," states Mr. Franklin, "but the fact that America was preparing for a drive on Berlin struck terror to the general staff.

"And those millions and billions of dollars spent were far from being wasted in an unnecessary preparation. I feel that the fact that money was spent and that an enormous output of munitions was ready was the controlling factor in the weakening of the German general staff, and that it caused their message to the Kaiser that they were beaten and that he must sue for peace. And the way I see it is that this money, instead of being wasted, can be written down as having saved the lives of hundred of thousands of American men who would have been sacrificed had the war continued another year.

"That is the money we are going to ask the American people for in the Liberty Loan. We are going to ask them for the money to bring our boys home safe and sound, instead of leaving them buried in France. And when the people of America realize what this money did, we are not going to find that they are lacking in patriotism to 'come across.'"

VICTORY CROPS GOOD

When you have a chance to lay in a few more government bonds as a good investment for your family, by no means neglect the opportunity.

There cannot be a better investment than a Victory Liberty Bond, with first call on all the resources of the United States. The crops of "Victory Year," as reported by the government, added about $17,000,000,000 to our wealth. Here are just a few of the principal items:

Corn—2,532,314,000 bushels, $3,528,313,000.
Wheat—917,100,000 bushels, $1,374,623,000.
Oats—1,533,359,000 bushels, $1,032,423,000.
Barley—256,375,000 bushels, $235,269,000.
Rye—89,103,000 bushels, $134,947,000.
Potatoes—397,676,000 bushels, $475,731,000.
Hay—75,459,000 tons, $1,522,473,000.
Tobacco—1,340,019,000 pounds, $374,318,000.
Apples—173,632,000 barrels, $229,990,000.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 8, 1919

Prohibition has not yet secured the moral approval of the people who manufacture those breath sweetening concoctions.

Cheaper food soon, say Washington officials. Must be mostly "food for thought," which has always been abundant and cheap.

Another example of reconstruction work is the old man trying to straighten out his desk after the house cleaners have put it in order.

The people who don't plant need trees this spring, will be the ones who will sometime be complaining that they can't get a decent price for their real estate.

The operation of the railroads by the government is considered a brilliant success, as it has been possible to borrow all the money needed to pay the deficits.

A lot of these people who are swapping off their Liberty bonds evidently don't care whether they ever see their principal again provided they get a little more interest.

It is denied that no kind of business is good under Bolshevism rule in Russia, as the demand for coffins for the people dying of starvation exceeds all facilities for production.

The most notable step taken by Congress to welcome the returning hero soldiers, was to almost wipe out the Employment Service that has been finding jobs for them.

Girls who paint in Newark, N. J., are having their faces washed by policemen, with no objection even from the people who most dislike the spring cleansing movement.

Some of the progressive young people of the present day can't attend high school and fit themselves for further usefulness because they want to get married and can't wait.

Some of the people who bought bonds to send the soldiers over when they felt America was in danger, seem to feel that the boys can walk home now that America is safe for the time being.

All together for the Victory Liberty Loan. Meanwhile do not overlook the War Savings Stamps. Government securities are the safest in the world. Our boys offered to give their lives. Will you not offer to lend your money.

THE TRUANCY PROBLEMS

During the war there was said to be a considerable increase in absence of children from school. In manufacturing towns both parents in many families would be at work in factories. They would often leave the younger children in the care of older ones who would not see that the youngsters attended school. These conditions may have let up a little, but it takes steady work to keep up school attendance. It is easy for people who are moving about from place to place, or who live in congested city districts or on remote country roads to be overlooked.

The school truant has sometimes been regarded as a jolly kind of a kid who was too active and vigorous to stand being tied down to dull books in a school. Some people have rather admired his independence in "playing hooky," but in real life the typical truant has little romance.

He is a pathetic and neglected little specimen of humanity. His parents are either too busy and too harassed to look after him, or they may be dissipated or otherwise irresponsible. Bright and vigorous children do not roam around much when all the youngsters are in school. They prefer to go with the bunch.

It is then vitally important that school attendance laws be strictly enforced. It is to be hoped that in Somerset county the attendance officer will still pursue the elusive truant and round him up.

Many people who make failures in life, owe ill success to irregular habits of school attendance. While other children were learning to think and act, they were acquiring habits of aimlessness or vice on the street corners. These years of school life are very precious. Carelessness or misfortune of parents should never prevent the young life from getting what they have to give.

LABOR ADJUSTMENT

The biggest internal problem in the United States today is the harmonizing of capital and labor. The nation can not go on prosperously while large sections of the population are embittered and hostile. It is said that in some shops the employers can't walk through their workrooms without being hooted at by their employes. Without attempting to say who is to blame, what earthly chance is there of efficient production or community progress where the industrial forces are divided by such a spirit?

There is always a tendency to exaggerate labor troubles. If there are 50 shops where employer and employe get along harmoniously, and one where there is conflict, the one instance of friction excites more publicity and attention than the 50 peaceful places. Still, the 50 peaceful places need to see to it that industrial conditions are on a sound basis. Social troubles have a way of spreading.

Where there are long standing quarrels between different elements, there is frequently fault on both sides. The best way to discover where the blame lies is for both parties to get together and talk it out with as little outside interference as possible.

In England genuine progress is being made toward solving their very serious labor troubles by shop councils. Committees of the owners and workers meet for regular discussion of all interests of both parties. This idea is being tried out by a constantly increasing number of concerns in this country. Good results are reported.

Most quarrels occur because people have not known or taken into account the other party's point of view. The more one party hears the other side presented, the more it realizes that it may have force in many respects and the closer the two points of view get together.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. [Advertisement.]

CLUB LIFE IN SCHOOLS

Many city high schools today have their school fraternities, the source of endless heart burning to those who can't enter them. They have no doubt their merits. But their chief activity seems to be the promoting of social amusement of a frivolous type.

The country school has its club life too. But it is not of the society fraternity type. Everywhere rural schools are organizing their own kind of clubs, with a real purpose of service and ambition.

Many rural schools have become centers where boys and girls agricultural clubs are organized. There are corn clubs and potato clubs and pig clubs and calf clubs and so on. These make farm enterprises interesting to young people and give them faith in their ability to conduct farming successfully. No country school work is complete without some of these splendid movements.

Many high schools organize musical clubs, orchestras, bands and choruses. These brighten up the sessions of the school by their cheerful music. They educate young people in one of the great human arts. They provide them with a resource of pleasure for years to come. They inspire the whole community by their bright entertainments. Sometimes these clubs tour the near-by country. Thereby the young folks gain confidence in their ability to do things in public and earn considerable money for community purposes.

You may be lucky at cards and unlucky at love. It all depends on the hands you hold.

Learn How a Silo Can Increase Your Bank Account.

In a West Virginia community droughts and hot weather "burnt up" the crops three years in succession. One farmer built a silo and bought a few cattle. The results were so satisfactory that the next season there were fully a half dozen silos on different farms and more stock appeared.

Today this West Virginia community is studded with silos and is one of the most prosperous farming communities in the state.

The moral is this: That the greatest profits of farming are in feeding part of the crops to live stock. The silo makes it possible to feed the stock at little cost, and you derive profits both from dairying and then selling the stock for market.

Write for our free silo booklet. It tells you all about silos and how one on your farm will greatly increase your profits.

Build Now. We are not only in position to immediately make shipments of silos, but we are also equipped and have in stock for immediate shipment everything needed in building from fencing to houses and barns.

Our Architectural Department will furnish you free of charge plans and specifications for any kind of a building you want to put up. Because of our immense facilities we can serve you better and save you money.

Prof. Sydney S. Handy, of St. John's College, Annapolis, was in Somerset county last week. He made an address to the pupils of Washington High School Wednesday afternoon.

Messrs. Ralph W. Powell and Oley W. Filchard have purchased from Mr. E. S. Learey the goodwill, fixtures and stock of the Lunch Room on Main street. They took possession last Tuesday.

Mr. Charles R. Porter, of Onancock, Va., spent last Saturday in Princess Anne. Mr. Porter was a former resident of this town and is now proprietor and manager of the Hotel Onancock.

The Somerset Medical Society held its semi-annual meeting at the Colonial Hotel, Crisfield, last Wednesday afternoon. Those present were: Drs. G. T. Atkinson, W. F. Hall, W. H. Coulbourne, C. T. Schwatka and C. E. Collins, of Crisfield, and Dr. H. M. Lankford, of Princess Anne. The session was devoted entirely to business.

The annual report of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad Company has just been issued from Broad Street Station. The gross income for the year 1918 shows a decrease of more than $108,000 over 1917 due chiefly to the fact that the compensation accrued under Federal Control is less than the net railway operating income earned by the Company in 1917.

Monday evening of last week while Mr. Frank Collins was returning home from work he had the misfortune to fall from his cart and break a bone in his shoulder. He was standing up in the cart when the horse gave a sudden start and Mr. Collins was thrown backward, his foot catching in the tailboard, which threw him to the ground. The fracture is just above the arm pit in the right shoulder, and the accident will stop him from work for six or eight weeks.

Great Tractor Show Near Hagerstown

Plans are being developed rapidly in Washington county, Md., for the Cumberland valley tractor demonstration, which will be staged on the McKee farm, near Hagerstown, for two days, April 16th and 17th. This demonstration is under the direction of the Washington County Agricultural Association, the Maryland State College of Agriculture and County Agent Thomas L. Smith, and promises to be the biggest event of this kind ever held in Maryland this year, and very probably the largest power machinery demonstration held in the east.

Two days will be filled with power machinery features, including tractor plowing, discing, rolling, oat and clover seeding, manure and lime spreading and belt work for the tractors. A huge tractor parade is further planned and the implement men are vieing with each other to be allowed to pull the brass band in this parade with their tractors. Visitors from a distance are being urged to come prepared to see the work done both days, and the committees in charge and the Hagerstown Chamber of Commerce are making preparations for a record-breaking crowd. The demonstration fields are located within a mile of the central part of Hagerstown, and are easily accessible both by road and trolley. H. E. Bester, President of the Washington County Agricultural Association and chairman of the committee on arrangements, is making ample provision for refreshment booths, water and other conveniences to afford those attending every comfort.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

The great benefit derived from the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been gratefully acknowledged by many. Mrs. Benjamin F. Blakeney, Decatur, Ill., writes: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is by far the best medicine for colds and coughs we have ever used in our family. I gave it to my children when small for croup and have taken it myself."

ANTIQUITY OF DECORATIVE ART

Strange Sources From Which Pigments Used by Modern Painters Are Derived.

PRESERVATION OF SURFACES.

Crude but Effective Processes Employed by the Egyptians and Greeks of Pliny's Day—Noah Prudently Waterproofed the Ark.

Whether paint was invented in answer to a need for a preservative or to meet a desire for beauty is a question as knotty as the ancient one about the relative time of arrival of the chicken or the egg. It was invented, though, and it serves both purposes equally; so whether it is an offspring of mother necessity or an adopted son of beauty remains forever a disputed question.

The first men, cowering under the fierce and glaring suns of the biblical countries, constructed rude huts of wood to shelter them. The perishable nature of these structures caused rapid decay, and it is probable that the occupants, seeking some artificial means of preservation, hit upon the pigments of the earth in their search. It is perhaps natural to suppose that it was the instinct of preservation that led men to the search, although the glories of the sunsets and the beauties of the rainbow may have created a desire to imitate those wonders in their own dwellings.

The earliest record of the application of a preservative to a wooden structure dates from the ark, which was, according to the Bible, "pitched within and without." The pitch was a triumph of preservation whatever it lacked as a thing of beauty.

Decoration applied to buildings first comes to light with ancient Babylon, whose walls were covered with representations of hunting scenes and of combat. These were done in red and the method followed was to paint the scene on the bricks at the time of manufacture, assuring permanence by baking. Strictly speaking, this was not painting so much as it was the earliest manifestation of our own familiar kalsomining.

The first Hebrew to mention painting is Moses. In the thirty-third chapter of the book of Numbers he instructs the Israelites, "When ye have passed over the Jordan into the land of Canaan, then shall ye drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you and destroy all their pictures."

At later periods the Jews adopted many customs of the peoples who successively obtained power over them and in the apocryphal book of the Maccabees is found this allusion to the art of decorating, "For as the master builder of a new house must care for the whole building, but he that undertaketh to set it out and paint it, must seek out things for the adorning thereof."

Although Homer gives credit to a Greek for the discovery of paint, the allusions to it in the books of Moses, the painted mummy cases of the Egyptians and the decorated walls of Babylon and Thebes fix its origin at a period long antecedent to the Grecian era. The walls of Thebes were painted 1,900 years before the coming of Christ and 996 years before "Omer smote his bloomin' lyre."

The Greeks recognized the value of paint as a preservative and made use of something akin to it on their ships. Pliny writes of the mode of boiling wax and painting ships with it, after which, he continues, "neither the sea, nor the wind, nor the sun can destroy the wood thus protected."

The Romans, being essentially a warlike people, never brought the decoration of buildings to the high plane it had reached with the Greeks. For all that the ruins of Pompeii show many structures whose mural decorations are in fair shape today. The colors used were glaring. A black background was the usual one and the combinations worked thereon red, yellow and blue.

In the early Christian era the use of mosaics for churches somewhat supplanted mural painting. Still, during the reign of Justinian the Church of Saint Sophia was built at Constantinople and its walls were adorned with paintings.

In modern times the uses of paint have come to be as numerous as its myriad shades and tints. Paint is unique in that its name has no synonym and for it there is no substitute material. Bread is the staff of life, but paint is the life of the staff.

No one thinks of the exterior of a wooden building now except in terms of paint coated. Interiors, too, from painted walls and stained furniture down to the lowliest kitchen utensil, all receive their protective covering.

Steel, so often associated with cement re-enforcing, is painted before it goes to give solidity to the manufactured stone. The huge girders of the skyscrapers are daubed an ugly but efficient red underneath the surface coat of black. Perhaps the best example of the value of paint on steel is found in the venerable Brooklyn bridge, on which a gang of painters is kept going continually. It is scarce possible to think of a single manufactured article which does not meet paint somewhere in the course of its construction. So has paint grown into the very marrow of our lives.

KHAKI SOLDIERS DID NOT LET UP

And the Nation Will Show That It Stands Behind Them in the Victory Liberty Loan Drive.

More than a million of Uncle Sam's boys are "over there" looking after the common good of the world. And they will have to stay upon the job until it is done; until things are righted again; until order is brought out of chaos.

While they are overseas they must be taken care of adequately; they must be clothed and fed and lodged comfortably. Uncle Sam estimates that it costs $423.27 a year to equip and maintain a soldier in Europe.

Part of the proceeds from the coming Victory Liberty Loan will be devoted to caring for the "doughboys." Part of it will go into the rehabilitation fund for putting the injured soldiers back upon their feet. Part of it will go for insurance claims. The rest of it will go to meet the hundred and one other demands for this greatest of world emergencies since the dawn of civilization.

Every mother's son of them did his part, helped insure liberty and justice for the world at large and restore Uncle Sam to his rightful position in the estimation of the nations of earth.

They did their duty fully, these boys who won. They fought to the end, through fire and flood. They never talked about letting up.

This is no time for Americans to think of letting up. The nation must stand by its guns, by its records; by Uncle Sam and must make the next loan another big success.

FINISH THE JOB

Success of the Victory Liberty Loan, the fifth government war loan, will depend largely on the savings of the people of the nation.

To insure its success, we must save NOW—to practice anew the great lessons of the war, thrift and economy. Aside from the loss of respect for ourselves as a nation, every family will be unpleasantly affected, if the coming loan is not fully subscribed. Uncle Sam's war exchequer is compelled to spend money to maintain the army of occupation, to rehabilitate the wounded, to bring home the victors and to carry out the program of reconstruction.

This money is being borrowed from the banks of the country, and Uncle Sam is issuing short-term certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of the coming Liberty Loan and of the federal income taxes. If the banks were not speedily paid back, their resources would be gone, and as they could make no loans, credit operations would be hampered and business stagnate.

How about it? Will we finish our job—that of paying the war bills, as our immortal heroes finished theirs of vanquishing the Hun? They were not quitters, even when called on to make the supreme sacrifice. Will we be quitters, when there is all to gain and nothing to lose?

A little saving now is all it will cost and this saving will mean a stronger grip on the future. The Victory Liberty Loan will soon be offered. Will you be ready to do your part?

Resolved.

That peace will find us backing Uncle Sam as strongly as we backed him in war.

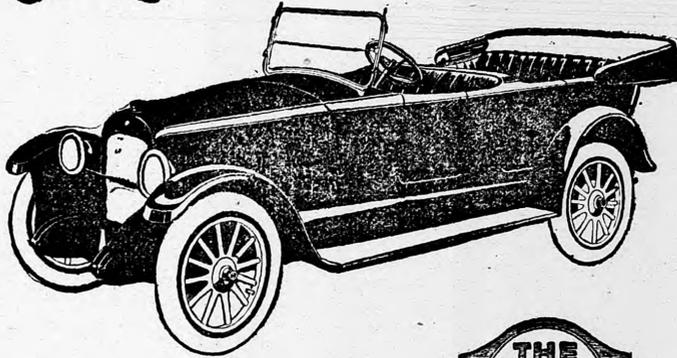

That between now and April we will lay every possible stone of the groundwork for the Fifth Liberty Loan and leave no act undone which will tend to keep alive and quicken the consciousness of the nation that savings and thrift are peace essentials.

That we will exert our efforts to stop trafficking in bonds of the first four loans and will keep our War Savings Stamps.

That we will carry out our War Savings pledge if that is unfulfilled, and make and keep new Savings pledges this year.

That we will work tooth and nail from now till the last day of the April drive to oversubscribe that Liberty Loan.

That we will finish our job.

PAINT AS AN ASSET.

Bankers Say They Lend More Money on Property When Buildings Are Well Painted.

AN INDICATION OF THRIFT.

One Concern Advances 25 Per Cent. More if Repainting Is Done Every Five Years.

Does it pay to paint carefully farm buildings? Does it add to the selling value of a farm when buildings are properly kept up and regularly painted? A careful inquiry of a number of leading bankers in the Mississippi valley, including such states as Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri, reveals the fact that in nearly every case the bankers did not hesitate to say that they would lend all the way from 5 to 50 per cent. more on land where farm buildings were well painted and kept in good condition. They maintain that well kept-up and well painted buildings and fences are an indication of thrift and that the thrifty farmer is a good client, and to him money can be safely loaned. An average of the returns from these bankers shows that the increased loan value because of painted buildings is around 22 per cent.

Some of these bankers make interesting comment. A Michigan concern says that, while not especially prepared to advise definitely in response to this inquiry, the officers would loan more money on farms where buildings were painted than where they were not so treated. This bank also finds that where houses, barns and fences are well taken care of the farm is a profitable proposition, and bankers in general consider the farmer a good client. Another Michigan bank says "farm buildings out of repair and needing paint indicate that the owner is slow pay." Such farms are rated at about one-third of the assessed value for loans. Where the farm buildings are in good shape the rating is one-half. The president of a middle western bank says that when real estate loans are considered, painted buildings are always taken into consideration in making an estimate. The general appearance of the property surrounding the house and barn and also the fields and fences would be carefully observed. He further says that he has no hesitancy in saying that he would absolutely refuse a loan on farms where the buildings were not kept up and well painted. In his judgment, unpainted farm buildings would reduce the loan value at least 25 per cent.

A Minnesota banker says that he is much more willing to loan money where the buildings are well painted. In his particular case he believes that he would loan 20 per cent. more than if the buildings were not properly taken care of. A farmer who will keep his buildings painted takes a much deeper interest in his work than one who does not. Another Minnesota bank says that well painted buildings have resulted in securing from his bank sometimes as high as 25 per cent. more money than where the buildings are not painted. An Ohio concern says that it will loan 25 per cent. more money on a well kept farm where buildings are painted at least once every five years. A southern Illinois bank says that it has no fixed rule about this, but it does make a decided difference when owners of farm lands apply for loans. If the buildings are well painted and thus well preserved the loan rate would not only be cheaper, but the amount of money borrowed would be larger. A northern Illinois bank does not hesitate to say that it would loan fully 50 per cent. more on a farm where buildings were well painted and in good order than where they were not. The vice president, who answers the inquiry, goes on to say: "There probably are many farmers good financially and morally who permit their buildings to remain unpainted, but as a rule the most substantial people who live in the country keep their buildings well painted."

An Iowa bank, through its vice president, states that it would make a difference of at least 25 per cent. in favor of the farm with painted buildings. Another Iowa concern says that it would make a difference of at least 20 per cent.

All this being true, it is perfectly evident that it is a good business proposition to keep the farm buildings well painted. They not only look better and are more pleasing to the owner, but the farm would sell to better advantage, the loan value of the property would be greatly increased and the buildings themselves would last much longer and need less repair.—The American Agriculturist.

PAINT AND ILLITERACY.

Curious Fact Comes to Light That Localities Least Using Books Avoid Paint Also.

Washington, D. C.—A curious fact has been brought to light by the Educational Bureau and the Bureau of Industrial Research here. It is that in the states where illiteracy is most prevalent paint is least used. The paint referred to is the common or barn variety, of course, for the backwoods countries have no need for the finer pigments or facial adornments. It is true, though, that in the sections of all states where white illiteracy is highest painted homes are rare and painted outbuildings and barns are practically unknown. Probably the illiterates do not use paint on their buildings because they do not understand its value as a preservative.

MUST USE CARE IN SELECTING HORSES

Credity play a tremendous part in horse breeding, as it does in breeding all stock and great care should be exercised by farmers in selecting both brood mares and stallions. A good brood mare, mated to a thoroughbred stallion, will produce good colts, but the more care that is used in mating animals the better the results obtained.

The soundness of a horse is one of the first considerations of the buyer and should be of the breeder. If the animal is not sufficiently sound to withstand the use for which he is intended, the logical time to learn of this is before the purchase.

Selection must be based primarily on a thorough, systematic examination; the examination should be based on a clear knowledge of desirable and undesirable qualities.

Not only the presence of unsoundness but also the condition or seriousness of the unsoundness should be noted.

Temporary unfitness should be distinguished from permanent unsoundness.

Observe blemishes, vice, faulty conformation, unsoundness, and general characteristics.

Common blemishes are scars from old wounds, poll evil, scratches, shoe boils, and small ruptures.

Common vices are halter pulling, cribbing, kicking, stall walking, weaving and biting.

Common faults of conformation are straight shoulders, crooked, weak, or improperly set legs, ewe neck, long, weak back, and drooping croup.

Common unsoundnesses are splints, thoroughpin, spavin, curb, extreme fistula, ringbone, side bones, extreme atrophy of muscles, contracted tendons, and broken wind.

In final selection, look for the good qualities and weigh them against the defects.

Enlargements or scars (due to deformity, unusual mishap, or uncommon disease) not conforming to any of those discussed should cause a horse to be rejected unless the nature of the cause and the detriment to the value and usefulness of the animal is self-evident. Experience gained by examining large numbers of horses will aid in quickening the eye and judgment, thereby making it possible to perceive readily any unusual condition, but it should be remembered that a hurried examination is liable to prove a disappointment, consequently plenty of time should be taken in making the examination, because time is much cheaper than money tied up in an unsatisfactory horse.

In some countries nine days are allowed by law to the purchaser in which to learn of the serious forms of unsoundness or vice in a horse, so that in this country it would seem fair to allow at least a day for a fair trial when practicable. If possible, get a history of the animal, and while you are about it, get a history of the person having it for sale. So many defects may be covered up by such unfair methods as drugging that it is a good plan to make purchases only from those with good reputations. Horses offered at auction sales should be thoroughly examined previous to their being brought into the ring, or else they should be tried out in compliance with the rules of the sale before time for settlement.

Finally, it is well not to form the habit of seeing only the defects, for horses, like people, are seldom perfect, consequently in judging them weigh the good qualities against the bad. A horse should be valued by the amount of service he will perform rather than by his minor shortcomings.

This Age, Also, to Pass?

It is an old, old world, indeed, and many are the feet that have traveled upon its highways. And that they who lived and had their being in those far, distant ages knew joy and sorrow, laughter and tears, as we know them now there can be no doubt, although there may be nothing but doubt about all else concerning them. It is fascinating to think that there may come a time when future ages will find us who are here today wrapped in the same mystery that now veils the peoples who went before us on the dusty trails of other centuries and ages.

Wither Without Sunlight.

Miners who work under ground become pale. Flowers that grow in dark places have little color and the leaves are pale. Human beings and animals are affected in much the same way for want of sunlight, excepting those that by nature are adapted to this life. The sunlight does more than tan the surface of the skin. The coloring matter is formed and developed deeper in. The sun's rays strike down and the effect penetrates perhaps for an inch or two into the soft tissues, so that the influence of the sun is felt on the interior of the body as well as on the exterior.

A Question.

"You must be a woman hater."
"Why?"
"You've never married."
"Why should a man who has never married be a woman hater?"

Wholesome Lesson.

"That burglar says he has more respect for the law than he had."
"What caused it?"

THE MOST DANGEROUS DISEASE

No organs of the human body are so important to health and long life as the kidneys. When they slow up and commence to lag in their duties, look out! Find out what the trouble is—without delay. Whenever you feel nervous, weak, dizzy, suffer from sleeplessness, or have pains in the back—wake up at once. Your kidneys need help. These are signs to warn you that your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. They are only half doing their work and are allowing impurities to accumulate and be converted into uric acid and other poisons, which are causing you distress and will destroy you unless they are driven from your system.

DON'T GUESS

The telephone number of a big department store in a large city is 7000. A subscriber whose number was 6000 asked to have his designation changed; he complained that he was called several times a day by people who wanted the department store and who failed to look up the correct number.

They guessed, and guessed wrong. They asked the operator for 6000 and she, of course, gave them the number asked for.

It is an easy thing to guess wrong, and it annoys a third person—the one called in error. Incidentally, the operator usually gets the blame. Always consult the directory.

Lamb And Mutton

The difference of a few cents in the cost of a pound of meat frequently determines whether that meat appears on the table in many households. Yet that difference of a few cents just as frequently is caused by the limited knowledge of the housewife of the meat which she desires.

Take the cost of mutton and lamb; it is regarded as high. But the average housewife who so regards it speaks only in terms of chops and hind-quarters. The fore-quarter of mutton is just as dainty, just as full of flavor, just as eatable in every way if it is properly prepared. It also is many cents cheaper per pound.

A butcher, if he is up-to-date, knows how to bone and roll a shoulder of lamb or mutton so that it may be cut into Saratoga chops or made into a roast of unusual sweetness.

Some objectors to lamb and mutton say that they cannot eat it because of the "woolly taste," and that they know of no way to remove it. That is merely a case of pulling the wool over your own eyes. If the fell, or tough outer membrane that covers the meat, is removed, there will be no "woolly taste."

Facts About War Savings Stamps

War Savings Stamps to the amount of approximately $1,015,000,000 were sold in the United States from December, 1917, to January 1, 1919.

War Savings Certificates were adopted and first issued in England in the spring of 1916. In the United States War Savings Stamps were first issued in December, 1917. In Great Britain, nearly three hundred million certificates have been sold since 1916, to January, 1919, bringing in approximately $1,100,000,000.

War Savings Stamps in forms similar to those of the United States and Great Britain exists in Australia, New Zealand, Canada, India and Japan.

War Savings Stamps of the United States are issued in annual series and each series has a uniform date and maturity. The interest rate is kept uniform by increasing the purchase price one cent each month, beginning at $4.12 in January. British War Savings Stamps are dated when purchased and are due five years from that date. Certificates always sell for the same price, 15s. 6d. ($3.83.)

POULTRY FACTS

CHICKS REARED IN BROODERS

No System Ideal for All Conditions—Success Depends on Individual Handling.

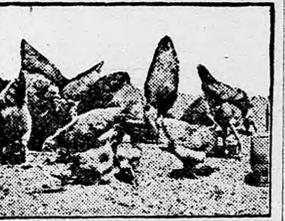

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More difference of opinion exists as to the value of brooding systems than in any other part of poultry rearing, which shows that no system is ideal for all conditions, but that success depends largely on individual handling and care. Many failures in brooding are due to weak chicks which may be traced to faulty incubation or weakness in breeding stock. Successful chick raising depends primarily upon having healthy, vigorous breeding stock.

Some of the most important faults in the management of brooders are overcrowding and lack of ventilation, while the chicks fail to get sufficient exercise. The brooder should supply the proper temperature, be readily adapted to change in weather conditions, be easy to clean and well ventilated. The capacity should not be overestimated. One-half to two-thirds of the number of chickens commonly advised will do much better than a larger number. Brooders and hovers should have from one-half to two inches of sand, dry dirt, cut clover or chaff spread over the floor, and in case they are kept in the brooder house, over the floor of this also. The hovers should be cleaned frequently, as cleanliness is essential in raising chickens successfully.

The best temperature at which to keep a brooder or hover depends upon the position of the thermometer, the style of the hover, the age of the chickens, and the weather conditions. Aim to keep the chickens comfortable. As the operator learns by the action of the chickens the amount of heat they require, he can discard the thermometer if he desires. When too cold they will crowd together and try to get nearer the heat. If it is found in the morning that the droppings are well scattered over the hover it is an indication that the chickens have had enough heat. If the chickens are comfortable at night they will be spread out under the hover with the heads of some protruding from under the hover cloth. Too much heat will cause them to pant and sit around with their mouths open.

It is impossible to state for each case at what temperature the brooders should be kept to raise young chickens; however, it will run from 90 up to 100 degrees in some cases, as some broods of chickens seem to require more heat than others, an average being 93 to 95 degrees for the first week or ten days, when the temperature is gradually reduced to 85 degrees for the following ten days, and then lowered to 70 or 75 degrees for as long as the chickens need heat. This depends somewhat on the season of the year and the number of the chickens, as it can be readily seen that the heat generated by 50 chickens would raise the temperature under the hover to a higher degree than the heat given off by a lesser number, consequently the amount of heat furnished by the lamp or stove will have to be regulated accordingly. As the chickens grow larger and need less heat the lamps may be used only at night, and later only on cold nights. The heat is usually cut off at the end of four or five weeks in March or April in the vicinity of Washington, D. C., while winter chickens have heat for eight or ten weeks, or until they are well feathered. Care should be taken to prevent chilling or overheating the chickens, which weakens them and may result in bowel trouble.

When chickens are first put into the brooder they should be confined under or around the hover by placing a board or wire frame a few inches outside (this would not apply to the small outdoor colony brooders).

POULTRY NOTES

Ducks need the grit for their digestion just as chickens do.

Clean houses, nests, runs, drinking and feeding vessels are important.

Old hens that are not needed for breeders should be fattened and marketed.

There is still a good demand for capons, and all on hand should be marketed.

You should have tight coops for the hens and chickens to prevent rats, weasels and skunks from getting in nights and killing little chickens.

EARLY HATCHING IS FAVORED

Poultryman Enabled to Get Chicks Started Before Hot Weather—Rapid Gains Insured.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In order to have eggs when eggs are scarce begin operations in early spring to plan for early-hatched chicks. Early hatching enables the poultryman to get his chicks started before hot weather, which retards their growth and which, with the presence of lice, causes millions of late-hatched chicks to die each year. Pullets hatched early produce eggs in the fall when hens are molting. Early-hatched cockerels bring the best prices and early layers will brood early the following spring.

Contrary to general belief chicks do not grow or thrive as well during warm months or hot summer days as they do earlier in the spring. Chicks hatched early are stronger, thrive better and have the advantage of a longer growing season. Early hatching not only insures more rapid gains in the growth of chicks but has a favorable influence on the size of the individuals of the flock. Late-hatched chicks rarely if ever attain the size of those hatched early.

Given the same feed, care and attention, chicks hatched in March and April will weigh more when they are four months old than those hatched in May and June. The early-hatched chick, having the advantage of a more favorable growing season, makes greater gains during the first four months of its life than the late-hatched chick. During the early spring months when the temperature is not so varied the growth of chicks is more uniform and constant than it is during the summer. If for no other reason chicks should be hatched early so their growth will not be interrupted by the presence of lice, which are much more plentiful and destructive in hot weather than in the cooler days of spring.

Many farmers and poultrymen realize considerable money each spring from the sale of broilers, the price of which is usually governed by their size when sold and the time marketed. Thus it would seem that in order to increase the amount of money from the sale of broilers and fryers early hatching would be employed so as to have a marketable-sized fowl early in the spring when prices are highest.

WASHING WILL HELP DECAY

Many Eggs Are Spoiled Each Year Because They Have Become Wet Before Reaching Market.

It is estimated that more than 5,000,000 eggs are spoiled every year because they have been washed or in some way have become wet before reaching market. The shell of an egg contains a gelatinous substance which prevents air and germs from entering the egg. Washing destroys this substance and promotes decay.

A system of cleanliness in poultry raising is desirable.

Hens must have things to eat that contain egg-making elements.

The hen as a rule is a better sitter than the pullet for the incubation of eggs.

When mites, lice, ticks, fleas, etc., once get a start they are very troublesome.

Egg testers are to be easily had from manufacturers and dealers in poultry supplies.

To successfully hatch chicks great care should be exercised in the selection of the sitting hen. Any old hen seldom does in these matters.

There are four common breeds of geese, the Toulouse, African, Embden and the White China. Of these the Toulouse is the most popular and most generally raised.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are frequent symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but generally return with greater intensity. Don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up their use until the desired results are obtained. Good work in Princess Anne proves the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

W. T. Gibbons, farmer, Route No. 4, Princess Anne, says: "I was troubled with backache and mornings I felt tired out on account of losing a lot of sleep. When I got up after sitting, pains shot through me like a knife-thrust. My kidneys were acting too frequently, making me get up at night. The kidney secretions were highly colored and I was in a bad way in general. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at O. A. Jones' drug store, and after using two boxes, I was rid of kidney trouble."

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MEET

Shekinah Lodge Receives Handsome Flag For Increased Membership

The fifty-first annual convention of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, Knights of Pythias, convened in Pythian Hall, Baltimore, last Tuesday and was in session three days.

A feature of the convention was the presentation of a handsome flag to the lodge showing the largest percentage of increase in membership since the 31st of December, 1912, to the 1st day of April, 1919, and in that time over 500 new members have joined the order.

Shekinah Lodge, No. 35, of Princess Anne, was represented by Mr. Archie M. Humphreys. During the past three months this lodge has been very active and made the remarkable showing of having increased its membership 65 per cent., and because of this increase it was presented with a handsome American flag 6x9 feet, which will be placed in the lodge room of the local order.

Dynamite Demonstrations This Week

County Agent C. Z. Keller has arranged with Mr. Cobbe, representative of the DuPont Powder Company, to hold a series of dynamite demonstrations in the county Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week at the following places:

Tuesday, April 15th—Morning, 9 o'clock (new time), farm of Henry W. Jones, Eden; afternoon, 2 o'clock, Tony's Branch Tax Ditch, near West's store.

Wednesday, April 16th—Morning, 9 o'clock, farm of Robert Taylor, near Princess Anne; afternoon, 2 o'clock, farm of Charles Dryden; 4 o'clock, farm of H. H. Gibbons, road from West's store to Cokesbury.

Thursday, April 17th—Morning, 10 o'clock, farm of Dr. C. C. Ward, on State road between Marion and Hopeville; afternoon, 2 o'clock, property of E. M. Moore, near Follow Ditch road, two miles from Costen Station.

The practical use of dynamite will be shown in clearing new land, blowing stumps, draining low lands by blowing ditches and also by breaking hardpan and blowing wells for draining the higher land. Farmers interested in the use of dynamite on the farm should arrange to be present at one of these demonstrations to be held at the above places in the county.

Peach Crop Not Damaged

Senator Orlando Harrison, of Berlin, Worcester county, who is the largest peach grower in this section of Maryland, has made a thorough examination of his orchard and says that there has been but little damage done by the cold weather to the peach crop and he thinks that barring the June drop, he will have an exceptional peach year this season. He also says that plums, pears and apple trees have not been injured and that these crops should be very heavy. This report from Senator Harrison is certainly very gratifying as he probably is one of the most expert horticulturists in Maryland and his opinion is worth something.

The only time some people ever climb upward is when they mount the stool of repentance.

MARYLANDERS SLATED FOR HOME

The 29th and 79th Divisions Assigned For Early Return

The 29th, 79th and 33rd Divisions have been released for preparation for return to the United States, the port of embarkation at Hoboken has been informed.

The 29th Division (the Blue and the Gray) consists of National Guard troops of New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia and was released April 5th. The release of the 79th Division, National Army men from Southern Pennsylvania, is effective April 10th, that of the 33rd, National Guard troops from Illinois, is effective April 12th.

News from abroad that the 29th and the 79th Divisions have been released from duty in Europe for early convey home has been enthusiastically received throughout the State. To the relatives and friends of the Maryland men in these divisions it was the most welcome tidings since the signing of the armistice.

The 115th Regiment, composed of the old 1st, 4th and 5th Regiments, Maryland National Guard, who trained at Camp McClellan, Annapolis, Ala., are in the 29th Division. The 110th Field Artillery, composed of men of the Maryland Light Field Artillery—Batteries A, B, C and D—are also with this division, as well as other units which have absorbed the Maryland Ambulance Company and Field Hospital No. 1, Maryland National Guard.

In the 79th Division are the 313th Infantry and the 310th Field Artillery. The 313th is mainly composed of men from Baltimore, while the artillery includes boys from the state generally.

This news means that all the Maryland men are now ready to return home, the 117th Trench Mortar Battery, which has been at St. Nazaire for several weeks awaiting sailing orders, being one of the first to go over and one of the first released from duty.

According to a letter received Tuesday by Adjutant General Warfield from the adjutant general's office in Washington, all Maryland units will be sent to Camp Meade for demobilization. General Warfield announced that as soon as sailing orders and reports from General Pershing showing the composition of the organizations as they sailed were received, it would be possible to go ahead with plans for the reception of the troops.

Community Club At Marlon

A Community Club was organized recently at Marlon and Miss Carrie L. Gunby was elected president; Mrs. Aden Davis, vice-president; Mrs. J. C. Horsey, treasurer; Mrs. G. P. Parsons, secretary, and the following members: Mrs. N. L. Haynes, Mrs. Elizabeth Broughton, Mrs. Lula Horsey, Mrs. Ella Stevenson, Mrs. John Hall, Mrs. E. A. Lankford, Mrs. Grover Somers, Mrs. Charles Day, Mrs. E. T. Landon, Mrs. May Robinson, Mrs. Harry Coulbourne, Mrs. Stanley Adams, Mrs. L. T. Miles, Misses Leila Pusey, Corrine Adams and Margaret Tull.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the school building on Tuesday, April 15th, at 3.30 o'clock.

The organization was started by Miss Stevenson, of the Md. College of Agriculture, and completed by Miss Louise Mills, County Home Demonstrator of Somerset county. The efforts of the club will be directed toward the mental, moral and physical improvement of the children of the community. Housekeepers will also derive benefits from the club in the matter of home work. Other clubs of this class, as well as Boys' and Girls' Clubs, are in process of formation in other sections of the county under the direction of W. H. Dashiell, county superintendent of schools.

The Volunteer Fire Department

The reorganization of the Volunteer Fire Department means a step forward in civic improvement. Each and every man in the company has pledged himself to work and make the fire company one of the best on the shore, all things considered.

The fire company deserves the unstinted moral and financial support of every property owner in Princess Anne, because it will mean protection to their property from fire, and when the insurance underwriters find that we have the men and means with which to fight fire the rate of insurance will be lowered.

A well organized fire department is a business asset to any town, and it should be the duty of every business man in this town to be a roofer for this movement. Watch the fire company, make it grow to what every man in the company hopes it to become. By so doing you will not only be helping the fire company, but yourself as well. Put your shoulder to the wheel and help push and make it a success.

GET BUSY AND CLEAN UP

All Maryland Asked to Join in Spring Cleaning—Those Influenza Germs

There is more need for a general clean up this year than in any other season of the country's history. This is the truth driven home in a letter to members of the Maryland Council of Defense by the Chairman, Gen. Francis E. Waters, also Federal Field Secretary for Maryland of the Council of National Defense.

General Waters' letter is sent out by request of the Council of National Defense which desires to inaugurate at once a campaign of spring activity which will reach every home of the United States. One big reason for the clean up this year is the epidemic of influenza, one of the most dreadful calamities that ever visited the human family. Also the congestion of population centers and the absence of millions of young people left much of the home work neglected.

"Under these conditions," writes Gen. Waters, "we should pay immediate attention to the call of the Council of National Defense for a thorough and effective spring cleaning. We must try to flood every home of the State with sunlight and fresh air." Gen. Waters quotes the letter which he received from Hon. John S. Cravens, Chief of the Field Division of the Council of National Defense as follows:

"The National Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign Bureau has for several years conducted a campaign to educate people to the value of cleaning up and staying cleaned up. The Council of National Defense believes that the state, county and community councils can render a real service to the people of the country by cooperating in every way to bring about the better health conditions which result from such a campaign. You can effectively bring to the attention of your people the value of a thorough cleaning of buildings, streets and alleys, and you can enlist the active support of the health departments and fire prevention authorities.

"A clean up, of course, would be followed by repairs, and this would immediately start a miscellaneous and general useful buying movement of great potential value at the present time."

General Waters said, "We call upon all our members, all our newspapers, all our preachers and all our people to cooperate earnestly in this work. Maryland was one of the states hit disastrously by influenza. The germs may be lurking around. The way to drive them away is to let in sunlight and fresh air—clean up and paint up. The Public Health Service is giving unqualified support to this campaign."

M. P. Pastors Appointed

After perhaps the most important meeting in its history, the annual Maryland Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church was brought to a close Monday night of last week at Lowe Memorial Church, Baltimore, where it has been in progress since the Wednesday morning previous. It was not until after midnight that the final business of a day, crowded with work, was concluded.

Among the assignments made were the following: Crisfield, C. M. Elderdice; Lawsonia, C. S. Larrimore; Mariner, C. M. Adams; Mardela, J. S. Owens, Pocomoke City, J. A. Dudley; Pocomoke Circuit, C. R. Dutton; Quantico, T. E. F. Morton; Salem, J. W. Baxley; Salisbury, R. L. Shipley; Snow Hill, C. R. Strausburg; Trinity, E. L. Bunce; Dorchester, D. W. Anstine; Easton, N. O. Gibson; Lisbon, S. F. Cain; Pipe Creek, R. W. Lewis.

Following a receipt of a letter inviting the conference to meet next year at the First Church, Washington, D. C., it was unanimously agreed to take advantage of the offer. The Rev. C. M. Compher is pastor of the Washington church.

Miss Mary M. Brattan Dead

Miss Mary M. Brattan, formerly of Maryland, died in Washington, D. C., on Saturday, the 5th instant. Her remains were taken to Mardela Springs for burial Monday of last week.

Miss Brattan was a daughter of Susan and the late Joseph Brattan, of Wicomico county. For several years she was an assistant secretary of the National Commercial Congress, whose headquarters are in the Riggs Building in Washington. She is survived by her mother (Susan Brattan, of Mardela Springs, Wicomico county; Miss Anna R. Brattan, of Baltimore; Miss Linda and Miss Susan R. Brattan, of Washington; Mrs. Samuel Hitch, of Norfolk, and Mrs. Cyrus Risher, of New York, and by J. Y. Brattan, a half-brother, of Baltimore).

Intelligent saving leads to success. By putting your money into Victory Liberty Loan Bonds you will be helping yourself and help the government.

PREPARING FOR ATHLETIC MEET

Will Be Held On High School Grounds April 23rd

Plans are being perfected for the Athletic Meet to be held on the Washington High School grounds in Princess Anne on Wednesday, April 23rd. The contestants in the various schools of the county, who will take part in the meet, have been taking daily exercises and drills in the hope that they may be in the front rank of the State Olympic. The Board of Education is making every effort to make the occasion one of interest and profit. There will be no parade of school pupils, but the Park Band of Crisfield has been engaged to furnish music and will do much toward enlivening the occasion. The list of officials for the field meet follows:

Honorary referee, Hon. George P. Parsons; referee, Dr. Wm. Burdick.

Scorer, F. D. Layfield.

Honorary judges, Dr. G. T. Atkinson and Dr. Chas. W. Wainwright; track judges, W. E. Dougherty, J. C. Carver, F. L. Porter, E. P. Wyatt; field judges, Frank Collins, J. B. Robins, F. E. Matthews, C. C. Waller, Harry C. Dashiell, George H. Myers, John C. Horsey.

Inspectors, L. A. Chamberlin, Lafayette Ruark and T. Melvin Horsey.

Clerk of course, Wm. S. Pittman; assistant clerk of course, W. A. N. Bowland.

Chief relay clerk, Dr. H. C. Robertson; assistant relay clerks, Robert H. Jones, W. O. Lankford, Jr., and Harry Cliff.

Scorer, Earl B. Polk; assistant scorer, M. W. Adams.

Announcer, C. Z. Keller.

Time keepers, Dr. T. J. Smith, L. Creston Beauchamp, Dr. H. M. Lankford.

Custodian of prizes, Rev. Leolan Jackson.

Dr. William Burdick, Supervisor of Physical Education for the State of Maryland, gives this advice to teachers and parents:

"The armistice increases our responsibilities for the health and happiness of our children. The big problems facing America during the next decade are those that everyone has strong feelings about and happy so that the solution will be based on sane thinking. Maryland has recognized this in making physical education compulsory in her schools. You and the public Athletic League must make this law a success. You have started well in helping it last year. It needs especially your help this Spring to carry out the program in your community with your children.

"It is necessary that parents as well as children shall be interested in the games and the moral values that come from fair play. It is so much better that children shall learn honesty and right conduct from their mistakes in sport rather than from similar errors made later in life when the results are so much more serious. We hope that your community may become enthusiastic over the success of your scholars. Let us help in your recreation and health question! We want to be of continuous service.

"Maryland must realize that 'education is for character' and shape her plans always for this end. Athletics of girls and boys have already shown results in conduct. We expect you will have your school with you at your County's Championships. Let us know how we together may lead our children to understand their duties as a result of their happy, healthy lives."

State Convention Of Junior Order

The forty-ninth annual session of the State Council of Maryland Jr. O. U. A. M. will meet in Baltimore today (Tuesday) and tomorrow (Wednesday).

W. J. Davis, state councilor, will preside at the sessions this week, to which 275 delegates have been accredited. Charles S. Davis, the state secretary, has just completed one of his most interesting reports, which shows there are 27,803 members in the state and 179 councils. The report last year showed a loss of 768 members, while this year a gain of 221 is recorded.

An interesting phase of the report shows that 1,644 members were serving in the Army, Navy or Marines, of which 28 have been killed in action, 96 wounded and 37 died of disease. This record is not complete, as 45 councils have failed to report to the state secretary.

Pocomoke vs. Princess Anne

A nifty ball game was played in Pocomoke City last Wednesday afternoon when the Pocomoke High School won a ten innings contest from Princess Anne High School with a score of 7 to 6. The score by innings was:

Pocomoke	0	0	2	1	1	0	3	7	10	3
Princess Anne	0	1	0	0	0	3	0	2	6	4

McMichael for Pocomoke fanned 13 batters, walked four and sent one to the initial sack on a wild pitch. Barnes who pitched a pretty game for Princess Anne fanned five men, walked three and sent one to first on a wild pitch.

In these days of the high cost of living it doesn't take a magician to make a dollar look like 30 cents.

Fountain In Baltimore Jail

Isaiah Fountain, the colored man who was arrested in West Chester, Pa., last Tuesday on the charge of having criminally assaulted 13-year-old Bertha Simpson, near Trappe, Talbot county, on Tuesday, April 1st, was taken to the Central Police Station, Baltimore, Wednesday morning by Sheriff Stitchbury, of Talbot county.

A net of circumstantial evidence has been woven around Fountain and feeling against the alleged assailant was so strong in Easton that the sheriff deemed it safer to have the man placed in the Baltimore jail to await trial. When the Talbot county authorities went to Baltimore following Fountain's capture it was expected that he would be taken back to Easton, but a message from that place indicated that it might be unsafe, since the residents of the town are said to have threatened lynching.

28th, Instead of 29th, Assigned For Early Return Home

The War Department announced last Saturday that the Twenty-eighth Pennsylvania National Guard Division, and not the Twenty-ninth, as announced Thursday, had been assigned to early convey. A cable correction to this effect came from General Pershing.

FARMERS LINE UP FOR LOAN

Urgent Appeal Sent Out By Organizations' Heads

An urgent appeal to farmers to line up solidly for the Victory Liberty Loan was sent out last Wednesday night signed by the heads of the principal farmers' organizations. Included among the signers are J. A. Kimble, of Port Deposit, Md., president of the farmers' National Congress and A. B. Thornhill, of Lynchburg, Va., president of the Farmers' Union of Virginia. The appeal follows:

"To the Farmers of America: No finer patriotic service was ever rendered than when the farmers of America, short of labor, credit and farm supplies, still grew the increased crops without which we could not have won the war. The farm women and children gave their labor in the fields, and the farms sent more than a million of their best to join the colors. The more that is known about the war, the more gloriously our farmers' part in it will shine.

"The Victory Liberty Loan drive begins April 21st and continues until May 10th. We appeal to you, farmers of America, to finish what you have so well begun. Make this loan as superb a success as the war crops you have raised. See to it that the farmers lead in putting the Victory Loan over the top.

"Make your participation in the Victory Liberty Loan, both in money and service the measure of your devotion to the great cause of democracy—the democracy for which many of our boys have made the supreme sacrifice. Let your subscription and your effort be both an offering of thanksgiving for the return of peace, and the means by which the world may measure the strength of your patriotism and your determination to see to it that the war shall not have been fought in vain."

BIG BALL GAME AT CAMBRIDGE

New York Americans To Play Rochester International League

Lovers of baseball on the Eastern Shore have a real treat in store, for on Friday afternoon, April 18th, the crack New York American League Club will play the Rochester Club, of the International League, at Cambridge. The New York Americans will stop at Cambridge for this game on the way from Jacksonville, Fla., where they are now in training. They will bring their same team for this game that will open their regular season. In the line-up will be Home Run Baker, Pratt, Shawkey, Shore, Duffy, Lewis, Bodie, Peckinpaugh and other stars. Home Run Baker will report to the team at Cambridge and play third.

Rochester always has a star team and the line-up they will bring to Cambridge will make New York go the limit. This will be a real ball game between two crack teams and not a joke game between one good team and a team of pick-ups. Both teams will present their best line-up and play to win, and a professional umpire will run the game.

The prices of Admission will be reasonable and there will be comfortable accommodations for the attending fans. The Cambridge Ball Park has been put in great shape and the bleachers and grand stand enlarged.

Victory Loan Workers Meet

Secretary of the Treasury Carter Glass and Attorney-General A. Mitchell Palmer, who, as Alien Property Custodian, broke the grip of Germany on the business and industry of this country, made stirring addresses before the convention of bankers, editors of State newspapers and Liberty Loan workers who gathered in Baltimore last Thursday to discuss methods of putting over Maryland's apportionment of the forthcoming Victory Loan.

The greatest optimism prevailed throughout the meeting, both at the session held in the afternoon at the Southern Hotel, which was preceded by a luncheon and at which Attorney-General Palmer spoke, and at the night meeting, which was held at Albaugh's Theatre. About 300 delegates attended, these being largely from the counties, and there was little, if any, pessimism about the loan's prospects among them. Some thought there might be difficulty in putting the thing over, but there was no doubt in their minds as to its going over.

William J. Casey, chairman of the committee on advertising, gave a short talk on methods of securing advertising throughout the counties for the loan, and Benjamin Dobson, chairman of the motion picture committee, told of plans for having motion picture shows all through the State. At the conclusion of his speech he showed the film, "Price of Peace," which will be one of the big features of the campaign. It is a Government picture, was taken on the battlefields and on the sea; it shows the attack of the marines at Chateau-Thierry and the men seen to fall in the picture were actually killed in battle. One of the photographers was killed while he was taking portions of it.

His Official Widow

By T. LEDYARD SMITH

(Copyright)

George Skinner had tried his hand at various undertakings. His lack of stick-at-it-iveness bore, as result, that nervous, unsatisfied eye.

George had tried a little of everything. He had grown courageous once or twice and had attempted work, but soon reformed and went back to his former ways. He even tried matrimony.

He was willing to try anything except year in and year out industry. To do him justice, it might be said that he stuck closer to the general run of affairs surrounding horse-racing than anything else, but his investments at the track were not always made with his own cash.

After some wear and tear of gray matter, he came to the conclusion that a man of thirty who has a wife should be insured; not for any small figure, but for something substantial; as high as he could stand for premiums.

Then he spoke to his wife. Why, yes, of course, a wife should be protected. Not that she wished him to be so soon thereafter robbed in white and starting in the feather-wing business. Oh, no, not at all.

Instead, how much better if he could only die—just officially die—and then come back and enjoy that which they need not work for. Lovely!

And now his mind was too busy with plans and ways; his brain was working on full time and up to its full capacity; working out a scheme and dreaming of the enjoyment of that scheme consummated. Then flight.

They could go to—well, far away, anywhere. George's application to the study of geography had been indifferent. They could go somewhere and be drowned in a new life as easily as he intended to be—officially—drowned in Long Island sound.

He little thought of extradition treaties, which are so broad that a United States citizen can be brought back for no greater offense than stealing a glance at his neighbor's wife, or shooting a man with a kodak. George was occupied with three ideas: to raise premiums; his widow (?) to collect the insurance; flight.

Through the generous odds offered by a bookmaker ten dollars on a lucky horse supplied him with a roll with which he took out a policy for ten thousand. And to celebrate the start of his get-rich-quick scheme he blew his wife to a swell a la carte dinner.

And right here, if he had used glasses with strong lenses instead of strong contents, he could have viewed his finish in the foreground.

In less than six months he had increased his insurance another ten thousand, the premium being acquired partly as before, but on a horse paying lower odds, and the balance on an outside matter, the detail of which he was not disposed to discuss, not even with his wife. Call it speculation, for he did speculate as to his safety in the matter.

The summer was closing and the water would soon be too cold for comfortable drowning, such as he intended doing—to all intents and purposes. It was time to act, but his insurance was not as high as he intended.

The necessity for bringing a third party into the game was unfortunate, but it was necessary and had to be done; not, however, until this third party had supplied cash to increase the insurance to forty thousand, from which, if they were successful, said third party was to have ten thousand.

They arrived at this conclusion after no little discussion, and after the third partner had been introduced to the second partner, who could, of course, as the widow and real beneficiary, draw the full amount, but in whom they looked for honesty when the divvy came.

For conceiving the scheme and carrying it out George was to have two shares—twenty thousand. For wearing mourning and looking sorry his wife was to have one share—ten thousand. For putting up the premium on twenty thousand and helping in other ways the third partner was to get one share. So it was settled.

The third partner in this game had been more fortunate in some ways than George, and more shrewd and saving. He had put his spare dollars and spent his idle moments in a launch.

So in his selection George had picked out the right man. This launch was necessary stage property in the play.

George's first move was to go east on a night boat, and again on another. He selected one that took a course through the middle of the sound.

After two trips east on this boat he calculated to the minute the running time from a certain lighthouse at the entrance of the sound to a spot east in the widest part, some ten miles from land on either hand, and bearing by his pocket compass due south from another lighthouse on the north shore.

This was the exact spot where he was to—officially—drown; ten miles from the nearest land. This was the place where his two partners were to be with the launch, waiting to see him drown.

With the aid of an inflated under-vest of rubber George would be able to float with ease, although he was a good swimmer, until his partners could arrive from out of the darkness to see him—officially—drown. By the aid of a whistle fastened to his waist he could call them, and with the two-candle power light from a pocket electric lamp show at intervals his whereabouts, provided a boat from the steamer did not come on the scene before the launch and thus upset all his calculations.

This would truly be sad, and would necessitate planning a new way to die. But even now his drowning might be a reality in spite of all his careful preparations.

Accordingly, to prove the judgment of his third partner to steer a launch on a course due south from their lighthouse, George made two more trips, throwing overboard at the exact spot, timed from his own lighthouse at the west end of the sound, a counterbalanced bag which floated a small electric light, and on each occasion his partners were within a half mile of the floating lamp, which they rescued and returned to George at Bridgeport on his way back to New York by rail.

The night for the real act arrived. His partners left Bridgeport in their launch upon receipt of a wire.

On the steamboat George identified himself at the office to the purser, and also at the bar. He seemed in the best of spirits and made an appointment to meet the bartender on his next trip to New York, when he would give him some valuable tips on the races.

George was so friendly that he made the acquaintance of a stranger at the bar, with whom he talked races. They made an appointment to meet in New York. After an exchange of drinks the two strolled aft on the upper deck.

He said that just now he needed the air, for it was close, so he went and sat on the side rail. A most careless thing for anyone to do unless he wishes to make a widow of an otherwise satisfied wife.

He was talking a little thick. Then after looking at his watch once more—a habit people have who have drunk too much—he returned the watch to his pocket and then—then there was a cry and a splash.

The deck, save for one or two, was deserted, and in the commotion of a man overboard it was minutes before the steamboat was stopped and more minutes before a small boat was lowered, which was then a mile or more away from the place of the accident. After a search of a half mile astern the boat returned, and the officers used rude, impolite language to express their views upon a passenger who will delay a boat's schedule by falling overboard.

The stranger was much excited, as any stranger naturally would be who had not been let into the details of the drowning act.

For the rest, there were the usual notices. The widow was notified; she promptly had hysteria and could not be seen thereafter, except by the stranger, who two days after called and extended genuine sympathy and related all he knew of the sad accident. He spoke of the appointment they had made, and he offered his services, if needed in any way. They were accepted to the extent of giving his testimony to the insurance company.

George maintained a temporary residence in Bridgeport—not that Bridgeport is a first stop between here and the hereafter, but it was just now convenient. He communicated with his widow through the third partner.

Finally, after a long delay, the company agreed to settle. Then the third partner evolved a new idea. The widow must become his wife. His wife? Why, she was the wife of George!

"George nothing. George is dead." "Yes, but we know that George is not dead."

"True, but the law, represented by the company, says he is dead. He is legally dead, and you are his widow. The company has agreed to pay. Now this is your position—my wife and forty thousand, or the wife of George and exposure."

"Do you mean—"

"Exactly," and the following day they were quietly married in Jersey City and returned to New York, where as the widow she collected her insurance of forty thousand.

Then, with her new husband, they went to an uptown hotel. On the way they discussed in low tones their plans, and agreed to bank the money the next day, he in the meantime to hold the bag in which it was carried.

George could do nothing, he assured her. He dare not even turn up in New York. She felt very sorry for George, and cried—this time because she had lost him.

They entered the hotel and she waited in the reception room while her new husband went to register his Mr. and Mrs. He still carried the bag of money.

While he was gone he developed two new ideas, both of which he put into immediate execution.

He returned to inform her that he had just sent word to George that they were married, and then he excused himself to go on another errand, leaving her thinking and blinking over this new announcement.

His exit to the street by another door caused no commotion whatever. Nor could she complain to anyone about his remaining so long.

The poor widow and poor bride waited, and if she were waiting for the return of the groom she would still be waiting. She did, however, wait a long time, until her patience was exhausted, her nerve gone, also her money, her two husbands—

But what's the use?

Simplicity, of all things, is the hardest to be copied.

America's Bond

Four Liberty Loans have gone into history and the nation is now ready to make a new record by oversubscribing the fifth. Did the boys stop at Chateau-Thierry when told that they could not go on? "Go back!" they cried. "Why hell, we've just got here and our orders are to go forward!"

That answer is history. You know the rest of the story. That has always been the answer of the American people. It will always be the answer of true patriots who refuse to dim the splendor of the nation's achievements in war by an exhibition of avarice in time of peace.

Our orders are to "go forward." There were many who made the supreme sacrifice in that advance. You are out asked to do that. They offered their young bodies. You are not asked to risk a loss in cold cash. Will you disgrace their memories or diminish the glory of their service by pausing in the cheerful performance of an imperative duty?

America's word of honor is at stake. Are you going to dishonor your bond because the guns have ceased to fire? But for the splendid fulfillment of their oaths of allegiance America would still be pouring her men across the seas. No failure is possible. The American people do not know how. The boys finished the fight; now the bill is being handed in. It's up to all of us to see that it is marked "paid in full."

WANTED Men or women to take orders among friends and neighbors for the genuine guaranteed history, full line for men, women and children. Eliminates darning. We pay 50c an hour spare time or $24 a week for full time. Experience unnecessary. Write International Stocking Mill, Norristown, Pa.

No Farm Too Large or Too Small for a Cleveland

CAPABLE of doing a great volume of work; yet so designed and so easily operated that it gets into the corners.

The owner of a small farm can use the Cleveland just as profitably as the owner of a big one. And another advantage is that it works on all kinds of soils. It lays its own track as it goes along and does not pack the soil.

The Cleveland tractor has proven itself able to plow from 8 to 10 acres per day in medium soil, with a two-bottom Oliver plow.

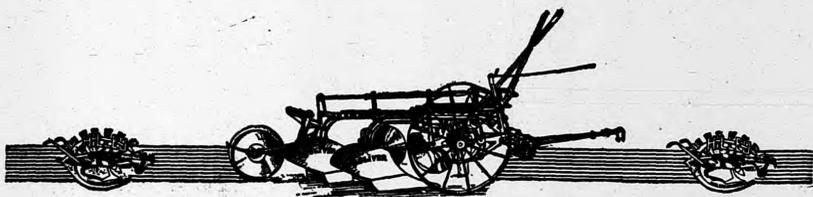

Use it with an Oliver Plow for best results!

Oliver plows were designed especially for tractor service. The rolling coulter and jointer bury all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow. The stop device maintains an even depth of furrow. A trip rope enables the operator to control the plow from his seat on the tractor. The plow points enter and leave the ground first, affording good clean furrows clear to the ends of the field.

Come to our salesroom any time and I will show you many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

Home Town Helps

HOME SHOULD COME FIRST

Proper Habitations Most Important Things in the Development of a Nation Worth While.

Better homes make better people and, therefore, a better nation. Education which will bring about a general appreciation of absolute justice is the need of the world.

Centuries ago all the laws necessary for the good of mankind were summed up in ten brief clearly stated laws. Ever since that time the politicians of the world have been trying, without success, to make better laws. Laws there are without number, but not one is an improvement, not one is necessary if the original ten were generally observed.

The second is "Love thy neighbor as thyself." And in referring to the first: "On these two commandments the whole law hangeth."

Get out the Bible and read the first two and then the other eight.

Rural adornment through gardening is one way to make better homes. Give the family an attractive abiding place—outside and in. Not wealth alone can make a home. There are many attractive and beautiful homes where money is scarce. The memory of a beautiful home is a power for good as long as one of the family remains, or any who know them.

Growing things have a tendency to elevate one's thoughts and aspirations. They cause us to think of better living and show that really beautiful things may be ours for a little effort.

DON'T NEGLECT THE GARDEN

Country Will Be Benefited If Each Lot Is Made a Permanent Food Producer.

If you started a home garden last season how about making it a permanent food producer?

A bed of asparagus is known to have given continuous service for more than thirty years, and asparagus is one of the first of the spring vegetables. A row of blackberries along a garden fence has produced abundant crops for twelve successive years. A few hills of rhubarb have provided delicious sauce and helped with the making of pies season after season, with very little cost or attention. Strawberries require more care, but they furnish the first ripe fruit in the springtime, and a very small plot of ground in one corner of the garden will supply the family.

Put into a home garden a little money, knowledge gained from competent advice and your spare time. Draw from it an insight into the workings of nature, healthful exercise and a reduction in your food bills. A home garden is a good thing to keep going year after year.

Own a Home.

The Chicago real estate board has decided to launch an effort to encourage home ownership throughout the city, that Chicago may regain its title of "The City of Homes."

The department of labor at Washington is engaged in a national campaign to encourage the construction of homes for the purpose of avoiding any disarrangement of our business fabric, because of the discontinuance of war work, and to provide employment for our boys returning from the army.

The idea has been tried with astounding success in many cities. The advantage to the city as a whole, from the standpoint of better citizenship alone, is so great as to more than justify all the efforts that may be expended.

Urges More War Gardens.

Increased efforts of horticultural societies to co-operate with war gardeners and thus continue the fruitful backyard gardening which attained such prominence during the war emergency was advocated by Leonard Barron of Garden City, N. Y., authority on garden topics, in a lecture before the Massachusetts Horticultural society. "Gardening," he said, "is a national asset because it gives outdoor occupation, production occupation, with recreation, education and profit, all at the same time." He believes that the gardening movement will continue.

His Sweet Disposition.

"So you lost your case in court, Mr. Gloom?" said an acquaintance. "Yes," replied J. Fuller Gloom. "And still I am not soured by it; I do not think all lawyers are dishonest. Lincoln was a lawyer, and he was honest. Rufus Choate was honest. Probably some of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were lawyers and honest. And I know the names of several other lawyers, also dead, who are honest."—Kansas City Star.

Buy Good Trees.

It does not pay to purchase poor trees of any kind. Real economy consists in paying reasonable prices for high grade trees. A few good trees are better than more purchased at the expense of quality.

Two Good Ideas.

A splendid plan is for planting memorial trees by church congregations and for planting trees along motor highways.

MIXED COWPEAS AS FORAGE CROP

Quantity of 1918 Crop Harvested for Seed Is Reported Much Less Than Normal.

VARIETY IS OF IMPORTANCE

Whippoorwill is Good General Purpose Pea and is More Generally Grown Than Any Other—Groat is High Yielding.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

It is well to take stock of the seed and varieties of cowpeas desired and to obtain quotations and samples. The quantity of the 1918 crop of cowpeas harvested for seed is reported much less than normal. It is hardly possible that prices will be much lower than those prevailing now.

The variety to be selected is of much importance, depending not only on locality, but on the use to be made of the crop. Where the crop is desired for forage or turning under for green manure, mixed cowpeas answer the purpose and are to be had at a less cost than single varieties. The Whippoorwill is a good general purpose pea and perhaps is more generally grown than any other sort. The Groat is one of the highest yielders, both for forage and for seed, and is adapted to a wide range of conditions. For early varieties, the Early Buff, New Era, Whippoorwill, and Early Blackeye sorts and Groat are most suitable. The later varieties are better adopted for forage and better suitable to Southern conditions. The best late and medium late varieties include Clay, Unknown, or Wonderful, Red Ripper, and Black.

Suitable for Food.

Among the sorts most suitable for food are the varieties of Blackeye, Cream, Gallivant, Conch, and some of the Crowder varieties.

Ordinary varieties of cowpeas are severely attacked by eelworms or nematodes, which infest most of the lighter soils in the South and cause root knot of many crop plants and weeds. To plant such varieties on land infested with the nematode is a dangerous practice, since they will either die prematurely or produce poor yields, and will permit the nematodes to reproduce to such an extent that the next crop may be more severely damaged than the first. Certain varieties, however, the Iron, Brabham, and Monetta—are highly resistant to root knot. Therefore, whenever the planting of cowpeas on fields that are or may be infested by the cause of root knot is contemplated, special care should be taken to plant only the Iron, Brabham, or Monetta varieties.

Be Sure of Seed.

To be certain of having seed of these, the supply of which is limited, farmers should take steps to procure them at once. It is of paramount importance that unmixed seed of these varieties be secured. If Iron, Brabham, or Monetta seed mixed with those of susceptible varieties, such as Taylor, Whippoorwill, or Early Buff, are planted on infested land which contains the eelworms, considerable losses may follow. In addition, the nematodes will be largely increased by having favorable cowpea plants on which to live, and, consequently, subsequent crops planted on the same land are more subject to injury. Many so-called failures of the resistant varieties to withstand root knot are due to planting mixed seed.

As far as practicable, obtain seed from local sources. Such seed seem to be as well, if not better adapted, than those brought in from other regions.

The 1919 Corn Crop

Unless all signs fail, corn ought to be a most profitable crop in the coming year. This, of course, is assuming that weather conditions will be normal. Prices ought to be good. The corn market has been weak until just recently, but now it is gaining strength every day and the 1918 crop bids fair to exceed war-time prices before the new crop comes in. There is every reason to suppose that the market will become firmer as time goes on.

The 1919 acreage must of necessity be relatively small. The acreage in 1918 was only 95 per cent. of 1917. Then, in addition, there was fully a third over normal wheat acreage sown last fall. This spring will see a big increase in spring wheat acreage as well. Naturally, the land sown to wheat will not be available for corn—the more wheat sown, the less land for corn.

Probably the average corn grower will make a special effort to overcome the short acreage with a big yielding crop. This ought to be good business. The price will make it worth while, and the larger, better crop will make the best use of labor, which is still short on the farm.

Punning Lord Rhonda. Speaking of puns, if Oliver Wendell Holmes were alive he would certainly like to add to his "Home for Decayed Puns" the series of puns on the name of the late British food controller, Lord Rhonda. A British officer is reported to have said: "Our poor food controller comes in for a good deal of chaffing. I heard him addressed one day as 'the gay Lord Queue,' and another time a lady called him 'the lord of the manna.' He never really minded, though; but it's true he got rather angry once when a flapper told him her butcher's que was a very popular Rhondavous."—Outlook.

How Diphtheria is Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

UNUSUAL RECORD SET BY INDIANA MEMBERS

Boys Raised 1,009 Bushels of Corn on Eleven Acres.

Average Yield of 91.3 Had Never Been Equaled by a Club in the State—No Worry This Season Over Seed Situation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Eleven Monroe county (Ind.) boys, members of a boys and girls' club organized by the United States department of agriculture and the State Agricultural college at Purdue, raised, in 1918, 1,009.9 bushels of corn on 11 measured acres. The average yield,

A Corn Club Boy With a Bushel of Selected Seed.

91.3, had never been equaled by a club in the state, although there have been larger individual yields.

The highest yield, 105.9 bushels, was secured by Howard Jamison, eighteen. The second best showing was made by Winfred Buckley, fifteen, who raised 98.6 bushels on his acre.

Great difficulty was experienced last year in obtaining good seed corn in that locality, as elsewhere, but by the aid of a former county agent and the local bank each boy who was a member of the corn club secured one dozen ears of high quality seed—enough to plant one acre. This spring there will be no worrying on the boys' part over the seed-corn situation—for before frost last fall they had selected from their own plots enough ears of the best seed type to plant over 100 acres this season.

GOOD QUALITIES OF SILAGE

Makes Healthier Cows Because of Its Favorable Effect Upon Digestive System.

One peculiar inquiry is repeated year after year. Does silage cause tuberculosis? Of course not. A man eating sauerkraut is in just as much danger of contracting tuberculosis as a cow is from eating silage. Teeth falling out, stomachs ruined, tuberculosis, and many other vaporings have been laid to silage, but like hollow tail, they are only the progeny of ignorance. Silage makes healthier cows because of its favorable effect upon the digestive system, and at the same time it permits those cows to produce milk at a lower cost.

TO STORE PERISHABLE FOODS

Every Farm Home Should Have Cellar, Storehouse and Refrigerator to Care for Surplus.

Farmers lose much every year because their facilities for storing perishable foods are poor. Every farm home should have a cellar, storehouse and refrigerator so the surplus foods may be saved till such a time as they may be consumed. The fact that producers have inadequate facilities for saving perishable products gives speculators advantages.

PROFIT AND LOSS ON FARMS

Those Who Raise Truck Crops and Supply Table With Vegetables Save Much Money.

A dollar saved is a dollar made. Those who plant gardens, raise truck crops and supply their tables with tender vegetables in summer and canned vegetables in winter will save cash that would be required from the returns of field crops. The cash thus saved may be the difference between profit and loss in farming.

DAIRY NO PLACE FOR DOGS

Cow Must Not Be Hurried About Farm If Best Results Are to Be Obtained in Milk Pail.

Dogs have no place on a well-kept dairy farm. The cow, to give good results, must not be hurried about or driven on the run to and from the barn or pasture.

Advantage of Records. One advantage of farm bookkeeping: The farmer knows and doesn't guess he's paid a bill when the question arises.

HOW TO USE RAW ROCK PHOSPHATE

May Be Used Profitably as Re-enforcement to Stable Manure or Plowing Under.

PROFITABLE AS PLANT FOOD

When Immediate Results Are Desired Acid Phosphate Is Preferable—Raw Rock Is Used as Absorbent in Dairy Barns.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a cheap and satisfactory source of phosphoric acid, raw rock phosphate merits extensive use on farms in localities where the material is available. Nowadays when all commercial fertilizers are abnormally expensive is the time to make liberal use of raw rock as a re-enforcement of stable manure, as a material to be distributed and plowed under with green cover crops and as a profitable plant food for direct application to soils that are rich in organic matter.

The relative unpopularity of raw rock phosphate in the past has resulted from incomplete and unsatisfactory experimental work. Recently the farm use of raw rock has expanded to 91,000 tons annually, worth approximately $750,000.

Of course when immediate results are desired, the more costly acid phosphate is preferable as its plant food is readily soluble and suitable for rush order use. Raw rock phosphate, although it contains twice as much phosphoric acid as the average acid phosphate, slowly releases its stores of food for crop use. It costs about $6.50 a ton in carload lots now at the mines. For practical results, it is essential that the raw rock be finely ground to the extent that 90 per cent of the material will pass through a sieve having 100 meshes to the linear inch.

How to Spread.

Where the raw rock phosphate is used as a re-enforcement for stable manure, it may be spread at the rate of 50 to 60 pounds over each ton of manure as it is hauled from the barn or stable yard to the fields. A much better practice, however, is to compost the rock with the manure for a period of a month or more before spreading on the fields. On account of its admirable absorptive qualities the raw rock is used as an absorbent in dairy stables. The common practice is to spread about a pint of the material daily behind each cow in the stable.

Where a green cover crop, such as cowpeas or soy beans, is to be turned under, it is a valuable practice to spread about 1,000 pounds of raw-rock phosphate an acre over the green stuff before the plowing is begun. Products are developed during the decomposition of the organic matter which are efficient in liberating the plant food that is slowly available in the raw rock. Where the raw-rock phosphate is applied in half-ton doses an acre to a soil that is very rich in organic matter the same beneficial results are slowly notable as obtained where the fertilizer is turned under with the green crop.

Best Form of Acid.

The presence of decaying organic matter in the soil increases the effectiveness of raw, ground rock phosphates due probably both to greater bacterial activity and the higher content of carbon dioxide in such soils. From a similar standpoint, the effectiveness of raw rock phosphate is usually increased after remaining in the soil for a year or more. Most crops respond more quickly to applications of acid phosphate than to bone, basic slag or raw-rock phosphate. Accordingly, where the early stimulation and quick maturity of the crop are the main considerations, acid phosphate is probably the best form of phosphoric acid to apply.

The question of whether increases in yield ordinarily can be produced more economically by applications of soluble or relatively insoluble phosphates, must be considered in a measure an individual problem for each farmer, since it depends on a number of factors of which the most important are the nature of the soil, the crop system employed, the price of the various phosphates in each particular locality and the length of the growing season.

The Best Breed.

No one question comes to the extension poultryman more often than "Which is the best breed?" and the only justifiable answer, and the one we have made hundreds of times, is, "There is no best breed."

Victory Liberty Loan Sunday May 4th

May 4th has been fixed as Victory Liberty Loan Sunday. Lewis B. Franklin, Director of the War Loan Organization of the United States Treasury, stated that the above date had been set to avoid any conflict with the Easter services of Sunday, April 20th.

Coming just after the middle of the Victory Liberty Loan Campaign it is hoped that this Sunday will be observed as a special day of thanksgiving for victory. Every minister in the Fifth Federal Reserve District will be asked to co-operate to this end. Ministerial unions will also be expected to participate. Sunday schools and Bible classes will be requested to observe Victory Sunday, as the Easter season seems a fitting time for a day of rejoicing and thanksgiving.

FARMERS ASKED TO TAKE BONDS

Special Appeal on Behalf of Liberty Loan Issue is Sent Out by Washington Representative of National Grange.

Every farmer in America is expected to support the Victory Liberty Loan, says Thomas C. Atkeson, the Washington representative of the National Grange Patrons of Husbandry, who has sent the following letter to the officers of every farm grange in the United States:

"'Victory Liberty' is the slogan for the new loan. The drive is to begin April 21, for the sale of six billion dollars in Victory Liberty Bonds. These two words visualize all that is best in American spirit. American farmers must respond to this appeal.

"What the farmers of America did in sacrifice and in accomplishment, in food production and in bond buying during the war is a part of the record it is a war record of which any class may be proud. It must be made good now by meeting the obligations which result from the outpouring of American strength which conquered the enemies of Liberty and civilization. Time to Get Ready.

"It is time to get into this Victory Liberty Bond campaign. No appeal of the war has gone unanswered to the full limit when brought to the attention of the farmers. Men, money, wheat, other food—no matter what the obstacles or the difficulties—the answer has been full and certain. The answer must be the same in this coming drive.

"Millions of soldiers must be brought home; thousands of sick must be cared for; thousands of wounded and mutilated must be made ready for future usefulness. We armed a nation and mobilized its resources into a war machine of such tremendous potential power that our enemies surrendered rather than face it, and thereby months or years of fighting and thousands of lives, were saved. Now we must pay the obligations created by this effort. Who can neglect to pay his just part for that which prevented so great a sacrifice of life and blood.

World Wants Products.
"There lies just outside the doors of the American farmer a hungry world, a world which needs all our products. American farming rests on the safe basis of need and service. The investment of the hard earned dollars of American farmers in Victory Liberty Bonds is a safe investment with a certainty of fair return, and the money will come back into circulation making more business, increasing the market and the demand for farm products, and increasing prosperity. Buying Victory Liberty Bonds will make farmers Victory-Liberty-Prosperity-men. Do your part to put the Victory Liberty Loan over the top.

"Make your investment in Victory Liberty Bonds the measure of your confidence in American institutions and that democracy for which you have offered the supreme sacrifice; a symbol of your determination that the war shall not have been fought in vain; an offering of thanksgiving for peace."

HOW WAR BONDS GO UP IN VALUE

History of All Loans for a Century Shows That Advance Has Always Come with Peace.

Will history repeat itself? That question is in the minds of many bond buyers these days. Records show that the prices of bonds were way down during war times of the past but soon after peace was declared advanced rapidly.

During Napoleonic wars prices of English 3 per cent. consols ranged from 67½, the high and 54½, the low in 1814 to 96½ the high and 84½ the low, in 1824. During the same period French 5 per cent. rentes rose from 38, the high, in 1814 to 104.8 in 1824. They also went as low as 45 in 1814. French 5 per cent. rentes during the Franco-Prussian war ranged in price from 75.1 to 87.3 and 50.8 to 81.1.

United States bonds during the Confederate war sold for 95½, the high and 43, the low, in 1861, but from then on they had practically a steady rise until 1873, at which time the high was 123½ and the low 111½. The ten forty-year bonds, put out in 1864 advanced from 103½ to 116½ in ten years.

Four series of Liberty Bonds have been issued and the fifth—to be known as the Victory Liberty Loan—will soon be offered. These securities have behind them the mightiest protection ever devised—the resources and the pledge and the faith of one of the great nations of the world. The investment value of the bonds can never decrease, for the interest will always be paid and the bonds will be redeemed at full face value at maturity.

WHAT TIME IS IT?

Tick-tock— It isn't much of a clock as clocks go. Just an ordinary, everyday affair, such as one sees on the wall of almost any office. Perhaps you'd never glance up at it unless you happened to be late for luncheon.

It hangs in the counting-room of one of the biggest banks in New York, and there's nothing unusual about it except that it was put up the same day an Austrian princeling got himself killed at Sarajevo—and started the war.

It used to keep pretty good time. After we got into the war and got to going good, some one put a little red sign across the face of it so that whenever you looked up to see what time it was you saw the little sign staring at you impudently; "TIME TO BUY LIBERTY BONDS."

Tick-tock— That clock was ticking off the minutes when the guns were booming along the Somme and while the Crown Prince was battering vainly at the gates of Verdun. It was ticking when the Lusitania went down—when Bernstorff went back—when Pershing went over. It was ticking when there wasn't an American soldier on the Western Front, and when there were two million, with more on the way.

Tick-tock— It was ticking that day four months ago when the German Armistice Commissioner took out his fountain pen and signed his name on the dotted line—ticking at the rate of $555 a second.

Tick-tock— Sixty seconds make a minute—sixty minutes make an hour—$50,000,000 a day. That's what the war was costing America when the Armistice was signed. Quick! Some one! Stop the clock! Well, some one did.

That day of our first Peace Celebration when we all went crazy and tore loose, some wag in the bank did stop the clock. Took out the pendulum and tied a big piece of black crepe on the clock itself. And everybody laughed and yelled their heads off—because the war was over.

That was the end of it. The war was over—the clock was stopped and everything. Well—almost everything.

Other clocks still went on ticking—at $555 a second! They're still ticking. Not at $555, to be sure—but it will run far into millions before next June.

We still have a job to finish. We still have war-bills to pay. And Americans always pay their bills.

We still have an army at the bridge-heads of the Rhine, and we've got to keep it there for a while—if we're going to get a real peace in place of an armistice.

And then there are the soldiers to bring back and the wounded to care for and the crippled to make over and jobs to find—before our job is finished—before we can turn all our energies to making plows and automobiles again.

It's going to take money. And we've got to raise it. That's part of our job—yours and mine and the people's next door.

The bank with the clock can't do it—all the banks in the country can't do it—if we are going to go ahead afterward making plows and automobiles and opening up new mines and planting more wheat fields.

We've got to have credit, if we are going to get back on a prosperous business basis. And we can't have credit, if the banks have all their money tied up in Liberty Loans.

Whenever one thinks of the prosperity and happiness we can have in this country, if we make good use of the opportunities that lie just ahead he should think of that clock in the bank with its steamer of crepe and its little red sign.

And of the millions of other clocks that were ticking off the minutes during the war just as that clock in the bank did and—well—

Tick-tock— Those clocks are still ticking. There's another Liberty loan coming. Tick-tock—

What time will it be by your clock next month when the Victory Liberty Bonds are offered?

Let the nation go dry, said Bill Chancy, Who was fond of his drink—plain or fancy. Twice the price of a round Makes a payment, I've found. On a bond—and there's no row with Nancy.

Twain's Many Abilities. Mark Twain's summary of his own many-sidedness is revealed in one of his letters to William Dean Howells in "Mark Twain's Letters." He was a miner, he says, a prospector, a Mississippi pilot, and a traveling printer. "And," he adds, "I was a lecturer on the public platform a number of seasons, and so I know a great many secrets about audiences—secrets not to be got out of books. . . . And I am a publisher . . . and I have been an author for 20 years and an ass for 55. Now, then; as the most valuable capital or culture or education usable in the building of novels is personal experience I ought to be well equipped for that trade. I surely have the equipment, a wide culture, and all of it real, none of it artificial, for I don't know anything about books."

Modus Operandi. "I met your friend Spongely this morning." "How did he strike you?" "Said he'd left his change at home in his other trousers."

Concentration. "What are your politics?" "Just now," replied Senator Sorghum, thoughtfully, "I'm anti-Hun, and that's as far as I am permitting myself to get."

HOW CAN YOU TELL YOUR FAVORITE TOBACCO?
As Plain as the Nose on Your Face—Just Smell It

Smokers do not have to put tobacco in their pipes to find out if they like it. They can just rub the tobacco between the palms of their hands and smell it. The nose is an infallible guide to smoking enjoyment.

All smoking tobaccos employ some flavoring "to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves," to quote the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Naturally, there is considerable difference in the kind of flavorings used, and the nose quickly detects this difference. TUXEDO Tobacco uses the purest, most wholesome, and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate. And the almost universal liking for chocolate in a great measure explains the widespread popularity of TUXEDO Tobacco.

Carefully aged, old Burley tobacco, plus a dash of pure chocolate, gives TUXEDO Tobacco a pure fragrance your nose can quickly distinguish from any other tobacco. Try it and see.

NOT AS BIG AS BRITAIN'S BILL

Cost of War to America Not Nearly Equal to What English Ally Must Pay.

Twenty-one months of our war with Germany cost the United States $26,356,000,000, the treasury department calculates. Huge munitions and other contracts have been cancelled. Manufacturers are now presenting their bills and receiving payments for materials delivered months ago in the heat of the struggle.

Included in the enormous total of $26,356,000,000 is the sum of $7,875,000,000 loaned to the Allies. When we began lending to the Allies, the government contemplated turning over to them about $500,000,000 a month but actual loans ordinarily ran around $380,000,000 monthly.

Of the total war bill about $18,000,000,000 has been raised so far by the Liberty Loans. The fact that we have not covered our war debt is the reason for the Victory Liberty Loan. In other words we haven't paid for the job.

The cost of the war to Great Britain was $40,640,000,000. Germany is out $38,750,000,000 exclusive of indemnities the Allies may impose.

FOX TROTS ON LIBERTY LEGS

Limbs Blown Off by Shell, But This Man Continues to Trip Light, Fantastic Toe to Jazz Accompaniment.

Lillard Evans is a colored soldier boy who had both legs blown off in action. He lives for the present at Letterman General Hospital at the Presidio in San Francisco. He can and does dance fox trots and one steps. How? Why?

Of course to dance a fox trot or a one-step a fellow has to have legs—good legs. Well, Evans has them—not his own legs of flesh and bone, but his own willow legs with joints and everything. He is going to leave Letterman pretty soon and go back to work and make his living and probably get married and raise children. That's the how.

The why of it is—the government of the United States has gone in for leg and arm making. It is giving a specially built leg or arm or hand or a pair of legs or arms or hands to every soldier who lost his legs or arms in the war. At Letterman in particular they are making Liberty legs and arms and hands in their own workshop. They are making them because they have hit upon a better artificial limb than some manufacturers were turning out.

This is one phase of the reconstruction work that Uncle Sam is quietly carrying on. It is one of the least expensive, but it is costing hundreds of thousands of dollars. Remember that when Uncle Sam comes a-knocking at your door with the Victory Liberty Loan. Much of the money you will lend is going to regenerate these men who gave of their flesh and blood for their country.

SAVING BEATS EARNING: TOO BAD ESAU DIDN'T LIVE TO ENJOY IT ALL.

If Esau and Jacob who lived some six thousand years ago, were still alive, and if Esau had earned $10 every day, and had saved it all, he would have $21,900,000. On the other hand, if Jacob had deposited $1 at 1 per cent. interest, compounded every 100 years, he would have today $576,460,752,303,423.488. Can anyone figure out how much Jacob would have had had he purchased one $5 War Saving Stamp then, which pays interest at the rate of 4 per cent., compounded four times every year? There is an idea in all this: How much would every child have if its parents should start it out with a $5 stamp, and then encourage the youngsters to save?

LET UNCLE SAM BE YOUR BANKER

Offers Far Better Opportunities Than Those Enjoyed by Thrifty People in France Who Claim Leadership.

France has been called the thriftest nation in the world. It claims to be. If we do not watch out she will prove it conclusively. America is the richest country on earth. Our per capita savings increased approximately 45 per cent in the last four years—the period of the war. Last year, for instance, the per capita savings in the South alone was $26.73. That sounds like we have the money, and we certainly have the will to make more.

Uncle Sam is out to show you how. He wants to be your savings banker. He offers you not only 4 per cent interest, compounded quarterly, but the government as security. There could not be a better incentive for thrift than that. The French people have far less, yet they save more. They have no way to put their savings into small government securities, the popular denomination being that of five hundred francs, or $100.

It would not be very convenient to save if we had to put our pennies into an old stocking until we had accumulated $100 as the French do, would it? And the stocking doesn't pay any interest. So let Uncle Sam take care of your pennies—twenty-five of them buy a Thrift Stamp and sixteen Thrift Stamps converted into a War Savings Stamp begin earning compound interest for you immediately. Are we going to let the French beat us in thrift?

DARED GERMANS TO SHOW HEADS

Sergeant of Marines Hurlled Pointed Query at Boches When Fire Was Most Terrific in Belleau Wood.

It isn't nice to swear in type. Neither is war nice. This is a war story. It was told by Brigadier General Catlin in his book, "With the Help of God and a Few Marines." Belleau Wood is the setting.

The General had given his troops the order to advance. His last words were, as they started across the wheat fields under a withering fire, "Give 'em hell, boys."

"Some one has reported," the General continues, "that they advanced on those woods crying, 'Remember the Lusitania.' If they did I failed to hear it."

"Somehow that doesn't sound like the sort of things the Marines say under the conditions."

Then General Catlin tells what they did say. When the lines were wavering under the terrific German fire, a sergeant cried out:

"Come on you ———, do you want to live forever?"

Tell the marines that you are not going to take your share of the coming Victory Liberty Loan.

CHINESE YOUTH WINS WAR MEDAL

General Pershing Pins Award on Breast of Sing Kee, Who Braved German Fire.

Here is a text book on Americanism written in Chinese character and translated for use when a Victory Liberty Loan salesman tackles you to do your duty. It is an official American communication:

"Pvt. Sing Kee, Infantry. Chung Kee, father, 604 North Fourth street, San Jose Calif. For extraordinary heroism in action at Mont Notre Dame, west of Pismes, France, August 14, 15, 1918. Pvt. Kee, although seriously gassed during shelling by high explosive and gas shells, refused to be evacuated, and continued, practically single-handed, by his own initiative to operate the regimental message center relay station at Mont Notre Dame. Throughout the critical period Pvt. Kee showed extraordinary heroism, high courage, and persistent devotion to duty and totally disregarded all personal danger. By his determination he materially aided his regimental commander in communication with the front line."

Sing Kee wears the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States of America.

Sing Kee is for America—for her enough to lay down his life. Are you for America? Are you as good as Sing Kee?

Then buy of the Victory Loan to the limit.

DO YOUR BIT WILLINGLY.

By spending lavishly the United States ended the war, saved billions of dollars and hundreds of thousands of lives. Pay your share of the bills thankfully.

ALL IN ONE GREAT FAMILY

Hindus Draw Relationship Close, Knowing No Word as Cold as "Cousins."

All able-bodied members of the Hindu family must contribute their labor and earnings, whether of personal skill or agriculture and trade, to the common stock, writes Bhupendranath Basu. Weaker members, widows, orphans, and destitute relations, all must be maintained and supported; sons, nephews, brothers, cousins, all must be treated equally, for any undue preference is apt to break up the family.

We have no word for cousins—they are either brothers or sisters—we do not know what are cousins two degrees removed. The children of the first cousin are young nephews and nieces just the same as the children of young brothers or sisters. The family affections, the family ties, are always very strong, and therefore the maintenance of an equal standing among so many members is not so difficult as it may appear at first.

Moreover, life is very simple. Until recently shoes were not in general use at home, but sandals without any leather fastenings. I have known of a well-to-do middle class family of several brothers and cousins who had two or three pairs of shoes between them, these shoes being only used when they had occasion to go out, and the same practice is still followed in the case of more expensive garments, like shawls, which last for generations, and with their age are treated with loving care, as having been used by ancestors of reverend memory.

The joint family remains together sometimes for several generations until it becomes too unwieldy, when it breaks up into smaller families, and you thus see whole villages peopled by members of the same clan.

SET EXAMPLE IN COURTESY

Venetians Were the First to Put Before World the Nobleness of Gentle Manners.

Pompeo Molmenti, the historian, relates that in the sixteenth century the gentle manners of the Venetian people were evident in every department of daily life, even down to the greetings in the street. The very nobles in the Seicento, the period of greatest hauteur, were wont to salute courteously by raising their cap with the left hand and laying the right on the heart. The populace was always obsequious, especially toward patricians and foreigners, and to every question addressed to them would never answer brusquely, "Yes," but always, "At your service," though this humility of expression implied not so much servility as an inborn courtesy of feeling. The penalties for blasphemy were exceptionally severe. For instance, Benigna, in his memoirs, writes, under June 23, 1724: "A certain Bertelli for having used foul oaths was placed in the pillory and had his tongue cut out." Yet, ceremony in Venice was never allowed to degenerate into ridiculous etiquette. As early as the close of the sixteenth century a resolution was passed forbidding the use of glowing expressions in salutations.

Skating Has Patron Saint.

Skating is the only sport that can boast a patron saint. Her name was Lydwina, and she sponsored skating back in the fourteenth century. Her home town was Schiedam, in Holland. Her family name was ancient and honorable, and her father followed the honorable profession of night watchman. Nevertheless, Thomas a Kempis, among other notables, found her interesting, for he met her and wrote the details of her life for all to read. Lydwina was fifteen when some boisterous girl friends dragged her out against her will to skate on the frozen canal. No sooner had they started on their holiday excursion than one of them bumped into poor little Lydwina—and jammed a perfectly good rib. That put her out of the running for all time, it seems, and as she lay on her couch of pain she was comforted by strange visions, and before her death in 1433, it is claimed, wrought several miracles through her piety.

Old-Time Skating Clubs.

As early as 1742 skating clubs were formed in Scotland. The first American club was established in Philadelphia in 1849, and quickly attained the prominence it still holds for artistic performance. Due to the efforts of this club the skate came into its own, for in 1850 Philadelphia brought to bear the skill of the surgical instrument maker to produce the modern steel blade and foot plate. The Boston arena—until its destruction by fire some time ago—held first place among the world's rinks as possessing the largest indoor skating area in the world. This record has now probably passed to Prince's Skating Club in London. The building itself is as solid and enduring as most British institutions, and the walls in the rink proper are adorned with splendid friezes of winter scenes.

Rare Forethought.

"Yus, mum," said Meandering Marmaduke, "I were a very precocious child, mum. Why, would yer believe it, I began to smoke when I were only six years old."

"Why, you degenerate brute!" exclaimed the horrified old lady. "Why did you do that?"

"Well, yer see, mum, by the time I were old enough to shave I 'ad saved up enough coupons for a razor."

CATTLE SCAB IS CONTAGIOUS

Disease of Skin Which Affects All Animals Can Be Eradicated by Dipping and Spraying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Small insectlike parasites, commonly known as mites, are responsible for cattle scab, a contagious skin disease affecting cattle of all ages and conditions. There are several forms of the disease, known by such names as "scab," "mange" and "itch." Though the disease itself may not cause death directly, it is responsible for serious losses by causing a shrinkage in the weight of animals, failure of young stock to thrive and gain weight normally and by increasing the death rate of poorly nourished animals of poor vitality, especially range cattle exposed to inclement weather. Cattle scab can be eradicated by dipping or spraying, dipping being the most reliable method, and lime-sulphur, nicotine and crude petroleum dips can all be used with success.

In the western part of the United States, especially where cattle graze on the open range, the losses caused by common scab have been a serious drawback to the live stock industry. It has been greatly reduced and brought under control, but has not been entirely eradicated from the herds of the Western states, and it is important that control measures be practiced continually to completely eradicate the disease and prevent it from again becoming prevalent.

The mite which causes common cattle scab may attack any part of the body covered thickly with hair, but the first lesions usually occur on the withers, on top of the neck just in front of the withers, or around the root of the tail. From these points it spreads over the back and sides, and unless checked it may involve practically the entire body. The mites attack the skin to obtain food, and in so doing probably introduce a poisonous secretion. A slight inflammation is caused, followed by intense itching. In the advanced stages of the disease large scabs are formed which frequently are stained with blood. The disease should never be allowed to reach this stage, however. In the early stages it yields readily to proper treatment, and heavy losses can be avoided only if the disease is taken in hand early.

While cattle scab can be cured by spraying if the work is done properly, this method is recommended only when the number of cattle to be treated is not large enough to justify the owner in providing a dipping vat. Dipping, however, which consists of immersing animals in a medicated liquid that will kill the parasites, is the only method recognized by the bureau of animal industry in the official treatment of scabby cattle. All animals in the herd should be treated, regardless of the number showing lesions of scab. One dipping generally is sufficient for cattle which have not been exposed to infection but upon which the disease has not yet become apparent. Infected cattle require two or more dippings, according to the variety of the disease present.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

It pays to care well for any animal we keep.

Succulent feed is important any season of the year.

From an economical point of view, it is best not to crowd the horses when first beginning the spring work.

When the sow is about to farrow she should be confined in a rather small area, with a clean, dry bed in a well-sheltered spot away from drafts.

GOOD CARE FOR SETTING HEN

Attention Given Fowl Plays Important Part on Number and Condition of Chicks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The kind of care and attention given a setting hen during the process of hatching eggs plays an important part on the number and condition of the chicks when hatched. See that the hens are made comfortable on the nest, allow them to come off only once a day to receive feed and water.

If there are any that do not desire to come off themselves, they should be taken off. Hens usually return to their nests before there is any danger of the eggs chilling, but if they do not go back in half an hour in ordinary weather, they should be put on the nest. Where a large number of sitters are kept in one room it is advisable to let them off in groups of from four to six at a time. The eggs and nests should be examined and cleaned, removing all broken eggs and washing those that are soiled; in the latter case the soiled nesting material should be removed and clean straw added. Nests containing broken eggs that the hen is allowed to sit on soon become infested with mites and lice, which cause the hens to become uneasy and leave the nest, often causing the loss of valuable sittings of eggs. In mite-infested nests, the hen, if fastened in, will often be found standing over rather than sitting on the eggs. Many eggs that are laid in the late winter and early spring are infertile. For this reason it is advisable to set several hens at the same time. After the eggs have been under the hens from five to seven days, the time depending somewhat on the color and thickness of the shells—white-shelled eggs being easier to test than those having brown shells—they should be tested, the infertile eggs and dead germs removed, and the fertile eggs put back under the hen. In this way it is often possible to put all the eggs that several hens originally started to sit on under fewer hens and reset the others. For example, 30 eggs are set under three hens at the same time, ten under each. At the end of seven days we find on testing the eggs from all the hens that ten are infertile, which leaves us 20 eggs to reset, which we do by putting them under two hens, and have the remaining ten sit over again after she has set only seven days. In this way considerable time can be saved in one's hatching operations.

POULTRY NOTES

The pullets and the year-old hens are the best egg producers.

Market all cockerels not wanted as breeders at as early a date as possible.

A "chicken" is a young fowl, usually under six months of age. It becomes a "fowl" after that period.

One pound of feathers can be secured from five ordinary fowls, or from ten ducks, or from four geese.

Whole corn is the proper food for sitting hens. They should have green food, grit, and pure drinking water.

Eggs for hatching should be carefully selected, well-formed, with good shells, and kept in a temperature of 50 degrees to 60 degrees F.

The chick worth having is the chick that releases itself from the shell with vigor, life and vitality; that comes jumping, as it were, into life.

A time-saving plan is to set hens in pairs, and giving the chicks hatched from both to one hen, allowing the other hen to go back to laying.

In salting the mash dissolve sufficient salt in the water with which the mash is to be moistened. In this way the salt will be more evenly distributed. An ounce of salt is about right for 100 fowls.

Booking "The Price Of Peace."

A complete list of all the motion picture theatres in the Fifth Federal Reserve District has been furnished the War Loan Organization, and it is now arranging bookings for the great war motion picture spectacle, "The Price of Peace," which will be shown in Washington and through the states of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina during the Victory Liberty Loan campaign. Owing to the limited shipment of films from the United States Treasury for this district, the department that has charge of the presentation of the picture cannot say definitely whether or not "The Price of Peace" will be shown in every small town. The films, however, are to be in use day and night, and every effort will be made to present the picture in as many places as possible.

"The Price of Peace" is one of the greatest motion pictures ever shown on the screen. It was photographed by the Signal Corps of the United States Army during the hottest fighting on the American front in France. Activities on land, in the air and on sea are shown and the action is real.

CIRCUIT COURT STILL IN SESSION

Adjourned Last Friday Afternoon Until Yesterday Morning

The Circuit Court for Somerset county convened Monday morning of last week with Judges Duer and Bailey on the bench, and continued in session until last Friday afternoon when it was adjourned until yesterday (Monday) morning.

The grand jury—James B. Tawes, foreman; Gordon Lawson, Fred L. Godman, Thomas H. Long, Robert P. Bozman, J. Frank Riggan, Derrick K. Lawson, Howard Anderson, Robt. P. Bradshaw, Herschel V. Maddox, Luther T. Miles, Benjamin W. Wilson, Jr., Lewis A. Chamberlin, Wm. Tubman Adams, Ira A. Hall, John E. Hartman, Frank W. Murriner, John W. Dize, James H. Cullen, Robt. B. Messick, William W. Evans, Richard W. Mills and Geo. M. Mason—having completed their labors were discharged last Tuesday afternoon.

The committee—H. V. Maddox, J. H. Cullen, L. A. Chamberlin—to examine the jail and Court House, reported that they found one inmate in the jail and the building in good condition; the Court House in good condition, but suggested that something be done to relieve the congested condition of the office of the Board of Education. They recommended that a partition be put through the Election Supervisors' room, thereby enlarging the office of the Board of Education, provided the County Commissioners think this plan advisable.

The committee on the almshouse and insane asylum—Howard Anderson, T. H. Long, L. T. Miles and Benjamin W. Nelson—after viewing the premises, found the kitchen in bad condition. It needed a new roof. In the almshouse there were 8 inmates—three white men and three white women; one colored man and one colored woman. The insane department has five colored men and three colored women. On the farm they found, beside the farming implements, 2 mules, 1 horse, 2 cows, 11 hogs, 300 chickens, 20 bushels of wheat, 350 bushels of corn, 50 bushels of potatoes, 15 stacks of fodder, 1 ton of hay and 1,500 pounds of meat.

The petit jurors are as follows: W. H. Hopkins, John B. Fleming, Ponder C. Culver, Arthur Andrews, Granville G. Vetra, Thos. L. Barnett, George T. Tarleton, Twilley C. Porter, J. Upshur Milbourne, Isaac H. Hickman, Ernest H. Whittington, James A. Carver, Jas. M. Graham, Harold H. Richardson, Mayhew Nock, Straughn Williams, W. J. Brown, Samuel E. French, Edward J. Holland, Robt. J. Mills, Harold H. Gibbons, Henry J. Coster, Sidney F. Revelle, Claude F. Bounds, Vernon C. Sterling.

Some of the cases disposed of follow: Mary E. Gunby vs. L. Cooper Dize, suit for trespass, before jury; jury disagreed.

State of Maryland vs. George Dennis, carrying concealed weapons, before jury; not guilty.

State of Maryland vs. Dewey Bradshaw, for larceny, before jury; not guilty.

State of Maryland vs. Edward Cottman, for non-support of wife, before jury; not guilty.

State of Maryland vs. David Foster, for larceny, before Court; not guilty.

State of Maryland vs. Clinton E. Larmore, begetting illegitimate child; plead guilty.

Minstrel Show For Fire Company

At a meeting of the Fire Company last Friday night the firemen decided to hold a minstrel show for the purpose of raising funds to buy a new equipment for their company. The show is to be held Friday night, May 16th, at the Auditorium. Plans were laid for a very "jazzy" entertainment by the boys, and the object will be to make you laugh. There will also be plenty of good music, singing and dancing. After the show it is planned to have an impromptu dance for all those who wish to indulge in this pleasure. This promises to be an elaborate affair and the firemen want everybody on hand to see and hear the fun.

Our fire company is made up of live wires who are earnestly trying to make the company a success in every way. A good fire company is the greatest asset any town can have. Last Friday night, when a fire occurred at the Princess Anne Academy, it was clearly demonstrated what a good fire company in Princess Anne could do. "Save property from destruction by fire," is the company's motto. Help them do it, one and all.

LEND MONEY FOR VICTORY LOAN

Committee Points Out Duty of Marylanders in Victory Drive

The Liberty Loan Committee for Maryland has completed its plans for the Victory Loan. The drive started yesterday (April 21st) and will continue until May 10th.

Every effort will be made by the committee to drive home to the people of Maryland that the Victory Loan will be the last loan resulting from the war; that this loan will pay the remaining war bills and will help to bring the American boys back to their loved ones; that it will help put the country on a stronger business basis.

Mr. W. B. Spiva, chairman, of the Liberty Loan Committee of Somerset county, has had instructions sent out to all members of the Liberty Loan Committee in the county, asking them to give part of their time in securing subscriptions to the loan and aid in selling the quota of bonds allotted to the county. These bonds will be four year bonds bearing 4 1/2 per cent. interest and are a gilt edge investment. It is hoped that Somerset's quota will be raised during the first week of the drive. Somerset's share in the four and one-half billion loan is $381,850.

An appeal from the Victory Liberty Loan Committee to the people of Maryland:

It is the duty of every patriotic man, woman and child in Maryland to cooperate to the utmost with the Victory Loan Committee in distributing the issue of Victory Liberty notes. To that end the committee calls on every patriot in the State, both man and woman, to work as though the success of the loan depends upon his or her individual effort. If this spirit is lived up to, the committee has not the least doubt that Maryland will go over the top, not only with its quota but with an oversubscription.

The larger the number of buyers of Liberty bonds the stronger will be the foundation of the business prosperity of the country. It would be a grave mistake if the banks had to take a considerable portion of the bonds. It would tie up funds that are urgently needed to promote general business and consequently would delay the return of prosperity which is so vital to the happiness and welfare of our citizens.

The very liberal rate the bonds bear and the attractive terms for paying for them may cause some people to assume that the loan is already as good as marketed. Over-confidence has defeated many good causes, and the committee sincerely hopes that patriotic Marylanders will not fail in their duty to work whole-heartedly to obtain the largest number of subscribers possible. There is no excuse for any person not buying these notes. They bear the highest rate of interest of any loan issued by the Government since we entered the war, and rich and poor can buy them with a feeling of absolute security. This is positively the last loan on account of the war.

Campaign For French Fund

Last Tuesday and Wednesday Mr. H. R. Ewart, representing the American Committee for devastated France, was in Princess Anne and organized a committee—Messrs. Joshua W. Miles, chairman; Harry C. Dashiell, secretary, and L. Creston Beauchamp, treasurer—to help Maryland in the campaign to raise $110,000 for this fund. Somerset's quota is $700 and the committee named immediately got busy and sent out letters, instead of making a house to house canvass.

Those on the committee for Somerset county were: Messrs. E. H. Cohn, E. Benson Dennis, Harold C. Loreman, G. W. Maslin, Henry J. Waters, Robt. H. Jones, S. F. Dashiell, Thos. H. Bock, Mrs. Robt. F. Duer, Mrs. W. H. Dashiell, Mrs. Wm. H. Gale, Mrs. C. P. Lankford, Mrs. Joshua W. Miles, Mrs. Geo. H. Myers, Mrs. T. J. Smith, Mrs. J. D. Wallop, Mrs. Henry J. Waters, Dr. Catherine Lankford and Miss Ellen D. McMaster.

The committee expected to have Somerset's quota of $700 raised by yesterday (Monday), but any one who has not as yet contributed towards this fund are requested to forward a check to Mr. L. Creston Beauchamp, treasurer.

In response to an inquiry for data on conditions in devastated France, Gen. N. Winslow Williams, of Baltimore, chairman of Maryland committee, last week received a letter from Edwin Farnham Greene, of Lockwood, Greene & Co., constructing engineers of Boston. Mr. Greene, at the instance of the French Government, made a survey of reconstruction requirements in the devastated areas and has just returned to this country. His letter gives startling figures relative to the magnitude of the task of reconstruction and emphasizes the need for funds to continue the work.

Perfect gum

Advances for the Victory Loan are believed by the Federal Reserve Board to be greater than those of any preceding Liberty Loan issue.

In its forthcoming bulletin for April, an abstract of which was made public last Tuesday, the Board expresses the opinion that the short term notes will have a greater market stability because of their short maturity and also because they will not be encumbered by uncertainty as to redemption after a specified period, as with the case of long term notes.

"When the investor purchases a Government note with a maturity of four years," the Board argues, "he has the assurance that the obligation thus purchased will possess greater stability of value than could possibly be given by any bond whose maturity is long or which is subject to the possibility of redemption after a specified period, but which has no definite or positive claim for such redemption upon the maker or issuer of such bonds. Far from its being true, therefore, that the new notes are not adapted to private subscription they are eminently so adapted, while the conditions under which they are to be issued should bring them closer to the requirements of the individual buyer than has been true of any of the preceding Liberty loans."

Aside from the attractive investment offered, the notes must be absorbed largely through private subscription, the Board says, in order to prevent further inflation of banking credit and a resultant continuance of high prices. Liberal subscription to the issue is declared to be the dictate of "self-interest."

Princess Anne Academy Burned

A fire that threatened to wipe out the entire Princess Anne Academy, a colored institution and a branch of Morgan College, of Baltimore, was discovered about 1 o'clock last Saturday morning in the main building, which was destroyed. This building contained the administrative offices, recitation rooms, dining hall, kitchen and laundry. The loss is about $20,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from an over-heated stove in the laundry.

The building destroyed consisted of a center portion of brick, with two large frame wings. The center portion was one of the old landmarks of Somerset county, and has been known for more than 100 years as 'Aney Hall.' The property constituted for many years a large estate which was originally owned by Dr. Haynie, who erected the mansion during colonial days. The property later passed into the possession of the Doane family, and during the period just prior to the Civil War was owned by John Doane, who was a prominent official of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. Mr. Doane resided on the plantation during his early life, but later removed with his family to Baltimore.

The academy is situated on the outskirts of Princess Anne, and by the time the alarm was given and the volunteer fire department summoned the fire had gained considerable headway. The blaze spread so rapidly that it was soon realized that the efforts of the firemen were futile in attempting to save the building, so their attention was directed to saving the adjoining halls and dormitories. They and a bucket brigade kept the adjoining buildings from being ignited, and after several hours of hard fighting the fire was confined to the one building. Dr. J. O. Spencer, president of Morgan College, and the faculty of the Academy extend thanks to the local fire department for the excellent service rendered.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company giving rates for Princess Anne and Oriole, effective May 1st, 1919. After that date a toll will be charged from Princess Anne to Crisfield. Like all other public service concerns which the Government has taken over during the war, the public must pay increased rates for the privilege of using it.

Mr. H. W. Carty, District Manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, gave out the following statement:

"The Federal Government assumed control of the property and business of this company on August 1, 1918. Since that time it has been operated under Government supervision. The Act of Congress under which the Government took over the control provided that the corporation should be paid a just compensation for the use of its property, and a contract was made covering this compensation. This contract provides for the up-keep of the property, a continuance of the past high grade of service, and the payment of interest and dividends at the same rates as heretofore. Therefore, the moneys now collected for telephone service belong to the Government.

"But, even under Government control there is no reason why the business should be operated at a loss. To do so means that a deficit must be paid out of taxation. At the rates now being charged, there is not enough revenue to meet expenses, and it is imperative that the rates for local service be increased. The telephone business, just like the individual, has been suffering from steadily increasing costs. Every means possible has been applied to meet this difference between revenue and expenses by economies, but we have reached the point now where the business must have increased revenue if it is to maintain a satisfactory service and not result in a direct loss to the Government.

"With the increased cost of operation due in part to the war, the present rates in Princess Anne and Oriole do not produce revenues sufficient to provide its proper proportion of the compensation, or, in fact to produce an appreciable return on the investment. "Every effort has been made towards making the burden of this increase fall as lightly as possible upon the subscriber and the community, and as a matter of fact, the increased cost to the subscriber is insignificant in comparison with the increased cost of commodities generally."

Next World War In 1926

There will be another world war beginning in June, 1926, according to a writer in the British Journal of Astrology. This prophet, who signs himself "Sepharial," asks for a serious bearing, inasmuch as he claims to have published a year in advance in each case the exact date of the war of 1914 and of the cessation of hostilities.

"The first phase of the next war," he writes, "will begin with Turkey, whose perfidy will lead to its final overthrow in 1921. At this time Prussian intrigue will dominate the position in the Near East, affecting Greece, Turkey and Russia. But according to my calculations the great crisis will not be reached until June, 1926.

"In this great war, which may be regarded as Prussia's counter to the war of 1914-18, the malevolent forces take their rise in Vienna and Berlin, ascend to Petrograd, penetrate through the whole of Russia and descend via the Black Sea and Turkey in Asia onto Syria and Palestine."

275,000 Soldiers Back In April

American troops to the number of 275,000 are returning to the United States from Europe during the present month, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, said last Tuesday on his arrival in Paris from Brest.

In May, he added, the number will fall to 250,000, because of lack of transports, but in June the number probably will rise to 300,000, which will be maintained as the monthly rate until all of the 1,400,000 men still here are returned.

The Secretary said that if any agreement should be reached by which American troops would participate in the defense of the Rhine indefinitely, undoubtedly, the only soldiers used would be those who volunteered for such service.

Dynamite Demonstrations Successful

The dynamite demonstrations held in various sections of the county last week by the County Agent, co-operating with C. J. Cohee, representative of the DuPont Company, was successful in showing that dynamite is practical and economical for blowing stumps and ditches on the farm. Several large ditches were blown through swamp land at a much lower cost than it could be done by hand labor.

About 175 farmers attended the demonstrations who were convinced that dynamite can be used profitably in blowing stumps, clearing land and draining low ground by blowing ditches.

See "The Price of Peace" Next Friday

On Friday afternoon, April 25th, at 3:30 o'clock, and on Friday night, at 8 o'clock, at the Auditorium in Princess Anne the moving picture "The Price of Peace," five thousand feet of feature film showing where the war money went, heretofore censored fighting pictures shown for the first time, producing some of the greatest deeds of heroism, will be shown. It is hoped to have as large an audience as possible at both of these meetings which will be under the auspices of the Liberty Loan Committee for Somerset County. No admission will be charged to see this wonderful picture. Secure your tickets from either of the Princess Anne banks.

Entertainment At Eden

An entertainment will be given in Eden school house on Thursday evening, April 24th, at 8 o'clock. There will be recitations, music and lectures on Community Club work. Refreshments will be on sale. All are invited.

HOME NOT MERELY SHELTER

Problem by No Means Met When Dwellings Are Provided for the Population of a City.

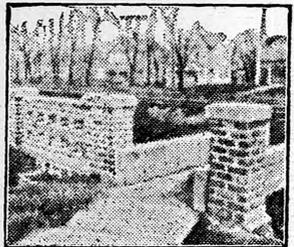

And what is a home? It is not a mere place of shelter, in modern democracy; it must provide conditions that will promote efficiency in labor and strength of character in citizenship.

The home connotes the family, and the family, and not the individual, is the unit of the civic structure. A true housing policy must go further than improving or providing dwellings; it must be part of a comprehensive policy of town and country development. We must apply more thought to the theories and practical tendencies of urban and rural growth, and fit in our housing policies as part of a comprehensive scheme of urban and rural organization. In its broader and more general social aspect it is a problem of national proportions and importance, in regard to which past failure is written large in every community, and success can only be achieved, first, by humble admission of our defects, and second, by building upon nation-wide organization capable of dealing with it on business and scientific principles.—Thomas Adams, advisor of the Canadian commission on conservation in Landscape Architecture.

WALL COST CITY LITTLE

Municipal Employees of Cincinnati Showed Public Spirit and Thrift in Its Construction.

Evidence of thrift and public spirit on the part of municipal employees is found in an artistic brick wall, erected at the end of a blind street in Cincinnati, which spot was the scene of several accidents before this barrier was erected to mark the end of the thoroughfare. The wall was built by the city engineering department at a cost of only $219. Had all the materials and labor been paid for at regular rates it would have cost about $1,200. The saving was made possible by using samples of brick and cement which had been submitted to the department for tests, including the use of a "rattler" for the bricks. The fact that the rattler nicked off the corners of the brick did not detract from their usefulness. The wall was built largely by department employees when other work was slack. It served as a barrier between the end of the street and a ditch skirting a railroad right of way. At either end there were footbridges crossing this ditch.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Individuality in Gardens.

A garden may be just as individual as a house; indeed, the two should, if possible, be planned in relation to each other. In making a new garden, it is as well to give careful consideration to all the natural features of the site, as well as to any peculiarities it may possess; thus, a disused quarry, if such a thing should be available, may make an ideal rock garden; a bog may be turned into a beautiful water garden, while there are endless possibilities about a stream of running water. Tree felling should be given careful thought, and due regard should be paid to the distant views which may be opened up in this way.

"You Drunken Sot"

Margaret's mother, fondly believing that Mother Goose was a classic all children should know, bought a copy one day without a very careful examination of its contents.

The youngster enjoyed the rhymes and she was often heard repeating her favorites. What was her mother's dismay, however, when one day she tripped into the parlor where there was a caller and sang out to him: "Get out, you drunken sot!"—Indianapolis News.

Ancient Botanical Work.

The oldest botanical work in the world is sculptured on the walls of a room in the great temple of Karnak at Thebes, in Egypt. It represents foreign plants brought home by an Egyptian sovereign, Thothmes III., on his return from a campaign in Arabia. The sculptures show not only the plant or tree, but the leaves, fruit and seed-pods separately, after the fashion of modern botanical treatises.

... me," he said. His voice relieved the tension. The instincts of the hostess returned to her. "I have many old heirlooms," said the girl, and she turned hastily and pointed out some rare porcelains, a painting or two, and several old tapestries. The man came nearer. "It's no use," he said; "we can't talk, you and I—we can only feel. There's just one thing for you and me, sweetheart."

And before Alleen knew what had happened the man had seized her roughly in his arms. "Now we understand each other," whispered the man, and he leaned over and kissed her hotly on the lips! Then all Alleen's terror left her. It seemed as if twenty demons gave her strength to resent that desecration. "How dare you!" she gasped. "How dare you!" And the scalding tears of anger rose to her eyes. "Well," sneered the man, "what do you suppose I came for, eh?" Before the lightning in the girl's eyes the man's hold relaxed. She freed herself and faced him with all the fury of her fighting ancestors in her face. "Leave this room, instantly!" she said, her voice trembling with rage. The man with the Greek face bowed. Quietly he took up his hat and coat—and walked to the door. With his hand on the knob, he paused and looked back at the girl. She was standing in the middle of the room as he had left her—not a muscle had relaxed. She might have been a statue of Vengeance and all the Furies. The man turned hastily and the door closed behind him. Then down went Vengeance and the Furies in a little pathetic heap on the floor. When Alleen opened her eyes she was looking into the big, strong face of Jimmie. "Little girl, what's happened?" he was asking anxiously. "I've been such a little fool," sobbed Alleen. "But I don't care, I don't care as long as you are here," and she clung to Jimmie with all her might. "I'm here, dear—everything is all right," he said, and gathered her into his arms as if she'd been a baby. "Jimmie, you'll never leave me, will you?" murmured the girl. "Never," said Jimmie, with conviction. "Will you marry me tonight?" "Hush," said the girl, "I've got to tell you about that—that man!—Oh, I'll never dream about another man as long as I live!" "You needn't tell me about him if you don't want to." "Jim," said the girl, "he wasn't what I thought he was. He didn't love me, Jim. He was a thief—he kissed me by stealth," and her crimson face went down on Jim's shoulder. "I wonder what else he stole," said Jim, looking around. "You don't think!" gasped the girl, "that he was a real thief?" And her hand went mechanically to her dress. The great opal was gone! "Good Lord!" said Jim, his voice trembling with anxiety. "You might have been killed! You're sure you're safe. We'll call up the police instantly. That opal is marked—you're bound to get it back. He's been following you around—that's where you'd seen him before you dreamed about him." "It scares me to death," said Alleen, clinging desperately to Jimmie. "Don't—don't telephone yet. It's way across the room, and I'd be so lonesome till you—got back!" And then her arm stole up around his neck. "For," she said, "why didn't you tell me before how much I loved you?"

Build Now—Build Right and You Can Save Money

Now is the time to build and make improvements. On account of lack of building during the war our stocks are now full and complete and our prices are moderate.

Don't wait until everybody commences to build, a condition which would deplete stocks and tend to force prices up.

Look around your place now and let us figure with you on any buildings that should be erected or improvements that should be made.

With our modern mill and facilities we are in position to supply you with everything needed for building at prices that will save you money.

How Diphtheria Is Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

ART DEVELOPED AS NEEDED

Makers of Cabinets Fitted Themselves to Demands of Increasingly Enlightened Generations.

Cabinet making, as all arts, began with the human needs of people. War and the necessity for hastily moving from place to place during the semi-civilized periods gave place to the making of homes and the effort to furnish them comfortably—one of the strongest impulses in nature and the surest sign of civilization.

The old chests in which they kept their belongings were at last allowed to remain stationary and were used as seats. The name of these chests in England was "cabins," and the maker of them was called a "cabinet maker." As soon as might be, the cabinet maker provided the old chests with backs and they became settees, while others were raised on legs and became cabinets, or, being provided with doors and drawers, became cupboards or "chests of drawers." Tables and beds were also devised, together with wainscoting for entire walls, and people really began to live.

The workmen who made these things were capable of designing and executing an entire department with its furniture. Great skill was required, and notables and royalty prided themselves on having some artist-artisan to do their bidding. In the establishment of these men different degrees of skill were recognized, and the system of apprenticeship obtained. A youth entering one of these studio workshops, having passed all the grades, became a "master." To attain this degree was to be worthy of the respect of the world.

ART WORKS IN ANY LENGTH

Method of Getting Things Done Quickly Is Not by Any Means an Idea to Be Called New.

Hurry is not characteristic of the present century alone; our ancestors were not always immune from the habit. The Dutch artist Vanderstraaten was a master in scheming out short cuts and saving time.

Vanderstraaten had little difficulty. It is said, in painting in a day 30 landscapes the size of an ordinary sheet of drawing paper. He would surround himself with pots of paint, each of which had its particular purpose—one for the clouds, one for the grass, one for the shadows. When he was ready to begin painting he called his assistant, "Boy, a cloud!" and the lad speedily brought the desired pot.

Vanderstraaten, with a thick brush, quickly transferred the clouds to the canvas. With the finishing strokes he called, "There are the clouds; bring the grass!" And so it went, without a moment's waste of time, until the 30 landscapes were finished.

On occasions Vanderstraaten would paint in the manner described a landscape upon a long piece of canvas. In filling the orders of customers he would cut the strip into pieces of various lengths. A purchaser could buy two, three or four feet of landscape, according to his fancy or according to the size of the space he wished to decorate.

Pugilism in 1725.

Jack Broughton, the father of pugilism, fought his first fight over 193 years ago; to be exact, it was on July 9, 1725. He was engaged in many rough-and-tumble fights with other lads, but at that time he knew nothing of boxing, which was just being introduced by James Figg. While attending a fair Broughton was attracted by a boxing booth kept by Figg and was much incensed by the foul tactics used by a big man in boxing a much smaller one. He remonstrated with the big bruiser and an altercation ensued which had reached the stage of fist-cuffs when Figg interfered and invited the two men to the stage to settle their differences. Young Broughton, after ten desperate rounds, completely triumphed over his older, bigger and more experienced opponent. That was Broughton's introduction to the ring. After Figg's death he became champion and by formulating a code of rules to govern the game he became entitled to rank as the founder of modern pugilism.

Stones of Remarkable Power.

Lovers of the occult will be interested in a story told by Lady Blunt in her remarkable volume of reminiscences. Her husband was sick unto death in Constantinople, and the Turkish government loaned her two small stones which had been in its possession since the Conquest, telling her to apply them where the pain was most severe.

Lady Blunt used them as directed with the result that the sick man speedily recovered, although four doctors had previously decided on an immediate operation.

"These wonderful stones," adds Lady Blunt, "are found at rare intervals in the veins of a donkey's neck; perhaps only one stone in a million donkeys."

Anger's Poison.

Biologists have proved, by laboratory tests, that anger is a poison in the blood; that a person who loses his temper is actually self-poisoned. Take a few drops of blood from a man in a violent rage, they tell us; drop them on the tongue of a guinea pig, and it will probably make the little beast sick. Yet we hear people brag, "I gave him a good going over," "I got good and mad," as if one bragged of deliberately contracting a dangerous case of blood poisoning.

Power now established by extensive owner service

The unusual power of the Nash Six now thoroughly established by extensive performance in the hands of owners, is only one of its many superior features. Its Nash Perfected Valve-in-Head Motor has proved itself especially quiet, practically vibrationless, and economical of fuel. A feature is that its valve mechanism is enclosed and self-lubricating.

THEO. A. WALKER Editor and Business Manager All Communications Should be Addressed to the Marylander and Herald

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 22, 1919

After filing the house with dirt by their careless way, the men proceed to grumble about the discomforts of house-cleaning time.

Some folks won't be able to buy any Victory Bonds to get the boys home, as it takes all their money to get themselves home from their joy rides.

Among those who complain of the high price of food are the people who get out and shoot the birds that destroy the insects that kill the crops.

There is a general feeling among the men of Princess Anne that their wives will be tremendously benefited this summer by taking a lot of exercise in the garden.

Anxious inquirer wants to know what she can do with her old hobbie skirts? Well, she might sew a couple of 'em together and let big brother wear 'em for trousers.

The people that justify their lawless acts on the ground that this is a free country usually prove to be right in one respect—when they get free board in jail.

Some of the men who complain because the town doesn't go ahead faster are the same ones who never can arouse energy enough to sweep off their sidewalks and help the town look alive.

Germans who don't salute the army of occupation are very properly jailed, but Kaiser Bill who sent 20,000,000 to death is still living in luxury and apparently will get off without punishment.

You can now buy a used airplane from the government for $2,000, and the hospital operation will cost another $200, while the weeping relatives will take care of the undertaker's bill and the monument.

AN EASTER MESSAGE

A little more than 1900 years ago an event occurred in an obscure corner of the world that completely revolutionized history. Inspired in some mysterious way through the Resurrection of Jesus, a band of fishermen initiated a movement that has become the most powerful force in existence. Wherever this force gains control, it does away with barbarism, cruelty and wrong.

Where in Christian lands there is still evil and tumult, it is because men are self centered and beastly and refuse to follow the light of the Resurrection.

On Easter Day the world celebrates this marvelous event. People with unseeing minds look at the surface aspects. They note the bright flowers and the cheering music and the pretty clothes, and think that is all there is to it.

The loyal heart is once more reminded that God is ever trying to enter the human heart and to mold human life and social institutions into forms of love and justice. His efforts to win human loyalty may be felt in the experience of anyone with the open heart. The most wonderful and historic of these efforts was the mission of Jesus Christ, who revealed God's nature and strove to win men into harmony with it.

Whether the world accepts or rejects these advances of the divine life, it is purely a matter of choice. This is a world of entire personal freedom. People who are made good simply through compulsion have no real character. No force of resistance to evil has been built up in them.

THE EFFICIENCY OF ADVERTISING

Any trade method that merchants have found helpful over a long period of years is pretty apt to be based on sound economic law. Therefore the people who claim that advertising adds to the cost of goods have got to explain away the fact that for generations the most enterprising business men have consistently used advertising.

The writer was recently looking over the files of a newspaper that has been published a full century. Way back before the Civil war, that paper was publishing a lot of advertising. Almost any of the old papers would make a similar showing.

The people who feel that advertising is valueless are attacking one of the foundation principles of business success. It will be interesting in this little series of discussions to consider what trade conditions would be in a non-advertising community and how the introduction of advertising spirit affects sales, prices and service.

KEEP YOUR PROPERTY IMPROVED

A somewhat common way for people to join the campaign of spring improvement is for them to clean up their front yards and to dump all unsightly objects in back of the house. But the neighbors can see it. It is perfectly apparent to close scrutiny. As a consequence, the average American back yard is a place of tumble down fences, ash heaps, disorderly hen-coops, wiring and miscellaneous litter. This is particularly the case along property that borders on a railroad line. In nine towns out of ten the traveller by rail sees the frowny end of a town and he condemns it as a slack and run down place.

Very few back yards are concealed from public view. To get a clean town, litter and disorder must be removed from the rear as well as from the front.

It is amazing how a little improvement work on one's property will enhance its value. When you replace the broken parts of fences, when you straighten up the door or gate or blind that is lopping on one hinge, when you remove the out-building whose roof has fallen in, you add more to the apparent value of your place than the work could cost, even if you hire it done.

One of the most needed spring improvements is to grow new turf in grass plots that are thin and worn out, both on street land and on private grounds. One great difficulty is that so many people cut corners across such plots and spoil their appearance. It makes even a handsome town look seedy and careless. But if people keep their grass growing right up to the correct line, it gives an impression of stye and taste.

Public school teachers should urge the children to respect the grass plots. No man's time is so valuable that he can't spare two seconds to walk around and save the green spots that beautify his community.

GOD'S ORCHESTRA

Country people have little opportunity to hear the world's greatest music. Most of them never hear a grand opera or a great orchestra. But there is a great orchestra out in every rural neighborhood which every one can hear and learn to love.

"God's great bandmaster waves his baton—the rod and gold of the morning. When he waves it over one farm a rooster crows, at another a turkey gobles, and then with a swing to the prairie you hear the far off low booming of the prairie chickens. At the top of the tallest tree a robin is playing his part and soon all the birds are singing in a grand chorus. You listen and wonder and in reverence and worship you stand before this perfect harmony."

So writes Mr. A. J. McGuire of the University of Minnesota in "The Farmer." It is all true. Most country people have the longing for the feverish life of great cities. But when they try it, the novelty soon wears off. They feel an empty space in their hearts. They miss the sweet influences of sky and field and foliage. And sweetest of all the memories that call them back to the dear old country side, is God's orchestra of the birds.

Many a lonely heart has been cheered by their message of hope. They take the solitude of winter, and fill it with a happy tenantry. It is difficult to feel sad and morose with a buoyant bird song rising from the near by thicket.

Every one of these birds should be protected, not merely for its economic value, but as one of the surpassing advantages of rural life. A dead bird is a friend and comrade lost, a neighbor passed on, a messenger of hope and assurance and good cheer silenced. The boys who throw stones at birds and who rob birds nests belong to a past generation. He should feel the disapproval of all his mates.

Trustee's Sale of Valuable Parcels of Real Estate in Mt. Vernon District

By virtue of decrees of the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, passed in two causes depending in said Court, in each of which John T. Hopkins, James F. Hopkins and others are plaintiffs and John T. Hopkins, Jr., Mary W. Dashiell and others are defendants, the undersigned trustee named in said decrees, will sell at public auction, in front of the dwelling house on the premises on the south side of the county road leading from Princess Anne to lower Mount Vernon, in Mount Vernon District, Somerset county, Maryland, where Edgar F. Hopkins resided in his lifetime, on SATURDAY May 17th, 1919 at or about the hour of 3 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate lying and being in Mount Vernon District, Somerset County, Md., namely:

First.—All that lot of land on the south side of said county road, containing 7 1-2 Acres, more or less, being all the land which was devised to Edgar F. Hopkins by his father, Stephen A. Hopkins, in his last will and testament recorded among the testamentary records of said county, in Liber S. C. L. No. 5, folio 450, etc., adjoining the land of James F. Hopkins on the east and the land of George Hopkins on the west, improved by a DWELLING HOUSE.

Second.—All the lot of land on the south side of said county road, containing 7 1-2 Acres, more or less, being all the land which was devised to Emma Arnold, then Emma Hopkins, by her father, the said Stephen A. Hopkins, in his said last will and testament, recorded as aforesaid, adjoining the land of James F. Hopkins on the west and the land of William Hopkins on the east. TERMS OF SALE.—One-third cash on the day of sale, and the balance in two equal installments of six and twelve months from the day of sale, secured by the bonds of the purchaser or purchasers with security approved by the trustee, bearing interest from the day of sale, or all cash at the option of the purchaser or purchasers. Title papers at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers. H. FILLMORE LANKFORD, Trustee.

THE VICTORY LOAN

The size of the new loan, as definitely fixed in the Treasury Department announcement, is considerably less than advance reports had prepared the general public to expect. It was in anticipation that the flotation would be around $6,000,000,000. The conditions upon which subscriptions are invited are such as to render it practically certain that the loan will be fully absorbed—probably largely oversubscribed—within the stipulated time limit from the opening to the closing of the subscription books.

It should not be necessary to urge upon those having money to invest, whether the amount be small or large, the plainly apparent fact that the peace loan—or, Victory Loan, call it what you will—is a gilt-edge opportunity. To the small-sum investor, the four and three-quarter per cent. interest rate cannot fail to look good, and to the investor who talks in $10,000 or $50,000 sums the three and three-quarters per cent. series will probably present a cheerful appeal. The loan is offered in the two interest-bearing series and the series, after purchase, are interchangeable. As to why the three and three-quarters per cent. interest-bearing bonds may be preferred by the big income investors—a casual study of the loan terms will make apparent.

This flotation, according to announcement, is the only loan proposition the government will put out this year, and it may very likely be the final of the war-loan flotations. The apportionment of the Fifth Reserve district, in which Baltimore is the main financial center, is $210,000,000. Baltimore and Maryland will handle their consignments with promptness.—Baltimore American.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars Free. All Druggists, Sec. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. (Advertisement.)

Granville P. Webster, et al. vs. William D. Webster et al.; heirs-at-law of John P. Webster and of Martha W. Webster, both deceased

No. 3235 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate of the said John P. Webster and Martha W. Webster, his wife, both deceased, for the purpose of partition among their heirs-at-law after subjecting the proceeds of said estate of Martha W. Webster to the payment of her debts.

The Bill in substance states that John P. Webster, late of Somerset county, died intestate in the year 1897 leaving a lot of 1 1/2 acres of land in Tangier District, Somerset county, Maryland, which he purchased from Lewis and Samuel Casimer, the said Martha W. Webster, late of Somerset county, died intestate in February, 1919, leaving a lot of land in Tangier District, Somerset county, containing two acres and twenty poles of land, which she purchased of Robert J. Waller, executor of Robert J. Waller, deceased, and which is subject to a lien in favor of the United States and assigned to Granville P. Webster; that the said John P. and Martha W. Webster were husband and wife and left the following children and grandchildren as their only heirs-at-law, viz: Granville P. Webster, who intermarried with Lillie F. Webster; William D. Webster, who intermarried with Ursula Webster; Eva Price, who intermarried with John S. Price; Iva Kelly, Addie Horsemann and Elma Webster, widow and daughters of John P. Webster, deceased; John E. Webster, who intermarried with Mamie A. Webster; Harvey O. Webster, who intermarried with Sophia Webster, all of full age and reside in Somerset county; John E. Webster and wife and Harvey O. Webster and wife, who reside in Baltimore city, and Edith K. Cassidy, who intermarried with Samuel Cassidy, adults who are non-residents of this State and reside in Keyport, N. J., and that said children and grandchildren are entitled to the said real estate in equal shares as tenants in common of the said two lots of land, subject to the lien of the said judgment against Martha W. Webster's interest; that said land is not susceptible of partition without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interests therein; that Martha W. Webster left no personal property whatever; at least none sufficient to pay her debts due at the time of her death; that all the land herein mentioned should be sold and the proceeds divided among the parties entitled to interests therein after subjecting the interest of Martha W. Webster to the payment of her just debts, and especially the judgment lien aforesaid.

It is thereupon the 8th day of April, 1919, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in equity, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset county once in each of four successive weeks before the 7th day of May, 1919, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of May, 1919, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of my father, John E. Muir, who died March 12, 1914:
So bright and beautiful was the morning
That our father passed away;
He seemed to hear a voice calling,
"Leave thy afflicted bed to-day!"
So cheerful he talked of dying;
Nor did he shrink at death's cold look.
For he said the cold, dark river
Seemed to him but a little brook.
In his health he sought the Saviour;
In affliction He was by his side,
And in death He sent his guiding angel
Safely his spirit to Heaven guide.
To live for Christ it was his pleasure;
To die for Him it was his gain,
For on the cross the Saviour suffered
That He and all might live again.
When his voice grew weak and feeble,
And he no more on earth could sing—
Then he whispered, "Blessed Jesus,
Soon with the angels I will sing."
Farewell, dear father,
"Till we meet on the golden shore;
On the bank of the beautiful river,
Where we shall meet to part no more.
By his daughter, Mrs. WARREN I. PUSEY

THE COMMITTEE

By NELLIE GORDON.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Now that the war was a thing of the past, so to speak, Dorothy found time hanging heavily on her hands. No more Liberty loan boosting, and the Red Cross activities had abated considerably in the town of Kentville with the dawning of peace. Dorothy, before the war, had been rather a lady of leisure, but the lure of doing one's bit had gotten into her blood, and she was restless with little to do.

Scanning her mail she found one letter which brought a look of enthusiasm to her very attractive face, replacing the bored, listless look which had settled there lately.

It was from the American Red Cross, asking that she serve on a committee to aid men returning from the service, in finding positions suitable to their various abilities and to help them in general in readjusting themselves to civilian life.

Dorothy literally threw herself into the work with great eagerness. From morning until night she gave of her best efforts to the wonderful work.

One morning, as she was leaving for the "After-Care" headquarters, a caller was announced. And in the living-room she found a tall, bronzed young man clad in olive drab.

"Miss Gray?" he questioned.

Dorothy nodded.

"I understand that you are one of the 'After-Care' committee, and as I have just returned from camp I have taken the liberty of calling to ask if you could aid me in finding work. I suppose it is a little irregular, as I do not belong here, but as I intend to remain here for some time, at least, I thought perhaps you might be willing to help me."

Dorothy considered for a moment, then, assuming her most businesslike manner, said: "It is rather irregular, I suppose, but then, the object of the work is to help all soldiers, and I think perhaps the matter of your not belonging here will not matter."

After noting his qualifications, and securing his address, she promised to communicate with him as soon as possible.

A week later found Robert Birney, Dorothy's protegee, settled in the office of Dorothy's father. And, strangely enough, it became necessary for Dorothy to visit her father at business very much more often than in the past. She had many pleasant chats with the stranger, who puzzled her greatly, as his manner of speech and habits were very much at variance with his apparent position in life.

Some months later came a day of much rejoicing in Dorothy's family. Brother Bob arrived home after a year of fighting "over there." After he had been home about a week he accompanied Dorothy one morning to the office.

And as they entered the outer office a strange thing occurred. Bob cleared the little gate in a jump and landed almost on top of the young man who was studiously working at a desk.

"Bob Birney—by all that's wonderful!" shouted Bob, wringing that young man's hand. "But what in the name of common sense are you doing here?"

Birney, flushed and uncomfortable and avoiding Dorothy's wondering gaze, answered: "I'll see you this afternoon at 5:30 and explain everything. I'm rather busy just now, as I have some things to finish which are quite important."

Promptly at 5:30 Bob's roadster was waiting at the office, and the two young men rode off together in the twilight. After they had been riding a little while Birney began his recital.

"You see, after I got home I was pretty well 'all in,' and dad sent me up here for a rest before getting into harness with him. After I had been here a few days I saw your sister, and then it was all off with me. I just had to meet her, and I couldn't think of a way. Then I found out that she was on this 'After-Care' committee, and the idea came. So I went to her, posed as a man who needed work, and she secured the position in your father's office for me. Oh! It was a caddish thing to do," he added bitterly; "and I suppose you'll think I'm a pretty poor sort."

But Brother Bob was shaking with suppressed laughter. "Pretty clever!" he choked. "Now it's up to you to square yourself with Dot. She's wise that something's in the air after this afternoon, but I didn't say a word to her. I wanted to hear your version first."

Dorothy must have had a premonition that she was going to have a caller, as she donned her very prettiest gown.

When the maid announced his arrival she descended to the living room and found there a young man, tall and bronzed, but with brown eyes that were more somber than merry, as on another occasion.

"I have an explanation to make, Miss Gray," he began, and forthwith began the tale of his peridy. Dorothy at first was naturally very indignant; but she finally decided to forgive him.

Some weeks later found this engaging villain pleading with Dorothy to resign from her position on the committee and to form a new one to be devoted solely and entirely to the "after-care" of one returned soldier. And I almost forgot to add that he was successful.

No Farm Too Large or Too Small for a Cleveland

CAPABLE of doing a great volume of work; yet so designed and so easily operated that it gets into the corners.

The owner of a small farm can use the Cleveland just as profitably as the owner of a big one. And another advantage is that it works on all kinds of soils. It lays its own track as it goes along and does not pack the soil.

The Cleveland tractor has proven itself able to plow from 8 to 10 acres per day in medium soil, with a two-bottom Oliver plow.

Use it with an Oliver Plow for best results!

Oliver plows were designed especially for tractor service. The rolling coupler and jointer bury all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow. The stop device maintains an even depth of furrow. A trip rope enables the operator to control the plow from his seat on the tractor. The plow points enter and leave the ground first, affording good clean furrows clear to the ends of the field.

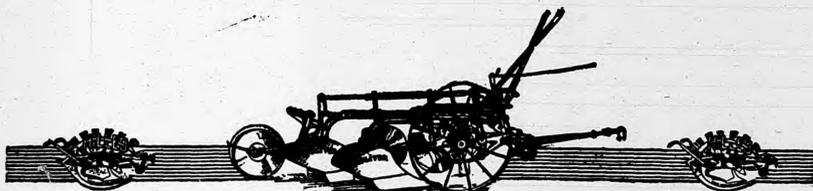

Come to our salesroom any time and I will show you many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

MOTOR TRUCKS PART OF FARM EQUIPMENT

Purchase of Vehicle Not Warranted on Ordinary Farm.

One Man and Team Do All Hauling Necessary to Market Produce in 30 Days—Work Distributed Throughout Year.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

A preliminary study toward determining whether or not a motor truck as part of the farm equipment would be profitable in the corn-belt states, indicates that under present conditions the purchase of a truck is not warranted on the ordinary grain and live stock farm. Only as it makes possible the elimination of some horses is the practice profitable. On 200 farms stocked, ranging in size from 100 acres to nearly a section, one man and team do all the hauling necessary to market produce in 30 days and the work is so distributed throughout the year that the use of the truck would not make possible the sale of any horses. Farmers within reach by motor truck of large cities where better prices obtain for live stock and possibly grain might be justified in buying a truck, but even in such cases it is probable that hiring the hauling done by a custom truck owner would be more economical. With regard to truck farms, the situation is somewhat different. Where produce is taken to market on an average of two or three times a week throughout the year the use of a truck makes it possible to get on with fewer horses. This makes the use of a truck more desirable than on general farms.

KEEPING QUALITY OF SILAGE

Mechanical Pressure Applied Immediately After Silo Filling Improves Feed Value.

Experiments in Italy have shown that mechanical pressure applied immediately after the silo filling increased the keeping quality of silage and improved its feeding value. By this system the air is largely forced out at once and it was found that it yielded a fodder whose acid content was 70 per cent lactic acid and 20 per cent acetic acid, proportions reversed in the usual methods of silo filling. This produces a silage containing less free acid and that does not have as strong a smell. Unpractical methods of applying mechanical pressure are discovered this would approve the advice so often given, tramp and pack the cut corn as thoroughly as possible.

VITALITY OF BLEACHED OATS

Sulphur Process Causes Immense Loss in Germinating Power—Not Good for Seed.

According to advices received at university farm from the United States department of agriculture, oats or other grains that have been bleached by the sulphur process lose immensely in germinating power. One sample tested, which germinated 97.5 before treating, germinated 9.5 after treating.

Sulphur bleaching by commercial dealers is done sometimes to give oats of an inferior quality a bright, clean appearance. Farmers are warned against purchasing seed oats from such supplies.

PREVENT DODDER IN ALFALFA

Infested Spots in Field Should Be Closely Mowed, Covered With Hay and Burned.

Care should be taken not to use alfalfa seed infested with dodder. Dodder seeds may be removed by screening the seed in small quantities through a 20-by-20 mesh sieve made of 34 wire. Dodder-infested spots in an alfalfa field should be closely mowed, the stubble sprinkled with kerosene, then covered with dry hay and burned.

MAKE GOOD CHICKEN ROOSTS

Should Be Built Two or Three Feet From Floor With Dropping Board Eight Inches Below.

Good chicken roosts may be made of two by two inch material with upper edges rounded. They should be built on the same level, about two or three feet from the floor. If a dropping board is used it should be placed about eight inches below them.

Liberal Use of Manure. A liberal use of barnyard manure generally is advisable when the soil is rather thin.

TIME TO IMPROVE PASTURES

Clean Up by Cutting Off Brush, Briars and Weeds—Reseeding Bare Spots is Favored.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

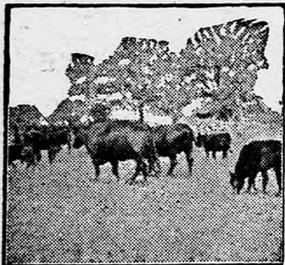

Spring is the desirable time of year for the improvement of pastures. Large areas of permanent pasture would respond to proper methods of improvement which might include the following:

Keep the pastures clean by cutting off brush, briars and weeds. Large stumps, stones and dead trees should also be removed.

Those areas used for pasture that would permit harrowing and disking at the time of reseeded, applying lime, fertilizers and manure, etc., may be greatly benefited. In some sections terracing may be practiced with satisfactory results.

The application of lime, acid phosphate and manure can always be relied upon in most sections as a means of adding the necessary increased fertility.

Reseeding, particularly in bare spots, is to be recommended. White and Japan clover, bermuda, herds grass, carpet grass and blue grass in favored sections are commonly used. As a rule reseeded pastures should be lightly grazed the first year. At all times it is advisable to keep the cattle off the grass in the spring until well started. Closer grazing during the rest of the season may be practiced where this has been done. It is also advisable to turn cattle off the pasture earlier in the fall than is commonly practiced.

DAIRY COW IS ECONOMICAL

Utilizes Coarse Materials, Inedible to Humans, and Turns Them Into Food Material.

Two facts stand out prominently as reasons for the increased production and use of milk. The first is that milk as purchased on the market usually supplies food material together with the growth-producing elements more economically than either meat or eggs. The second reason is that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of animal food. One great law of food conservation is to turn inedible feeds into edible foods in the cheapest possible manner. The dairy cow will utilize coarse materials, inedible to humans—such as grass, cornstalks and hay—and will turn them into milk. Other farm animals also are converters of coarse roughage into edible foods, but are not so efficient as the dairy cow.

GOOD FOR SCOURS IN CALF

Mixture of Formaldehyde and Water is Recommended—Cut Down the Amount of Milk Fed.

This is good for scours in calves: One ounce of formaldehyde (use 4 per cent formaldehyde), 16 ounces of water, mix, give one teaspoonful for each pound of milk fed to calf, stir in the milk. Cut down on the amount of milk being fed. This for two feeds is generally enough. Follow with two-ounce dose of castor oil if constipated.

FEED GRAIN TO YOUNG CALF

When Changed From Whole to Skimmed Milk Little Grain Should Be Put in Youngster's Mouth.

When the calf is changed from whole milk to skim milk, it will begin to eat grain. Place a little grain in its mouth after each feeding of milk. It will soon learn to eat the grain without assistance. The grain should not be fed with the milk. The calf should be allowed to masticate the grain.

TO PREVENT DISEASE GERMS

Healthy, Tuberculin-Tested Cows Are First Essentials—Pure Water is Important.

To prevent the entrance of disease germs into milk, healthy, tuberculin-tested cows, free from any udder inflammation or garget, are the first essentials. Healthy men, and pure water from a protected well or spring, are of second importance. Clean utensils, covered pails and clean cows come next.

IT'S NOT YOUR HEART IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Kidney disease is no respecter of persons. A majority of the ill-afflicted people today can be traced back to kidney trouble.

The kidneys are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers, of your blood.

Kidney disease is usually indicated by weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, dizziness, backache, stomach trouble, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, rheumatism, sciatica, and lumbago.

All these derangements are nature's signals to warn you that the kidneys need help. You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately.

The soothing, healing oil stimulates the kidneys, relieves inflammations and destroys the germs which have caused it. Do not wait until tomorrow. Go to your druggist today and insist on GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In twenty-four hours you should feel health and vigor returning and will bless the day you first heard of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil.

After you feel that you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two capsules each day, so as to keep in first-class condition and ward off the danger of other attacks. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand. Three sizes. Money refunded if they do not help you.

Swedenborg Prolific Inventor.

Among the things Swedenborg invented were tanks for testing the power of ship models, an ear trumpet for the deaf, a method of curing smoky chimneys; to meet an emergency, he invented a method of getting raps fourteen miles inland over galleys. He took a lively interest in machine guns and even sketched a flying machine. His discoveries about the functioning of the human body were 150 years ahead of his times and his publications on this subject show that his knowledge of the ductless gland and the relation of the brain to the respiration have never been improved upon to this day.

Musical Preference.

"What's your favorite tune?" asked the sergeant.
"It varies," replied the corporal. "A great deal depends on what girl is singing or playing."

Her Idea

"Then your wife doesn't think that two can live as cheaply as one?"
"No. Her idea seems to be that two ought to live as expensively as four or five."

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

It is no longer necessary to go into the details describing the practical merits of the Ford car—everybody knows all about "The Universal Car." How it goes and comes day after day and year after year at an operating expense so small that it's wonderful. This advertisement is to urge prospective buyers to place orders without delay as the war has produced conditions which may interfere with normal production. Buy a Ford car when you can get one. We will take good care of your order.

DAY HONORED BY WELSHMEN

March the First Known the World Over as Anniversary of the Country's Patron Saint.

The first day of March has long been observed as a special day by the people of Wales and is called St. David's day in honor of the good St. David, patron saint of the Welsh, who lived in the sixth century.

St. David was said to have been the son of a prince of Cardiganshire, Wales, and is accredited with the working of many miracles, especially among the poor of the country. It was said that when the saint first went into the fields to preach to his followers the ground on which he was standing began to rise until it assumed a goody height, and henceforth was his pulpit.

For hundreds of years the Welsh wore sprigs of leek—a plant with broad bluish-green leaves and yellow flower clusters—in their hats as a symbol of recognition of the day. This custom was brought about, some say, from the fact that in a battle of the Welsh against their old enemies, the Saxons, St. David had ordered all Welshmen to take to battle wearing their native leek, not only to distinguish them from their enemies, but to bring them good luck.

Other writers argue that the badge was worn more as a fraternal sign and because leek was grown in every Welsh garden and was the favorite vegetable of a true Welshman.

Writers of the last century depict a typical Welsh garden as a garden of onions, garlic and leek. Homely incidents are told of Welshmen assisting each other in farming and eating their leeks together, a ceremony symbolic of hospitality and good fellowship.

Keeping Abreast of Books.

There is no patent, simplified method of hitting upon the few good books concealed in the immense output of the year. They do not bear a special mark recognizable by the initiated. You can only consult your librarian, and do as your librarian does—that is, read the reviews. I have often been interested in the carelessness, in the matter of review-scanning, of eager and convinced readers. Many readers have I known who were genuinely anxious to "keep abreast" of the best modern stuff, but who took no steps to be reasonably sure of getting the best modern stuff. Perhaps they expected to be wakened in the morning by the cheerful sound of the best modern stuff knocking at the door.—Arnold Bennett in the Bookman.

London's Coffee Houses.

In the seventeenth century there grew up in London an institution which history has deemed worthy a place in its records, and which fulfilled, for the Englishman of those times a purpose much broader and more useful than could possibly be claimed for the saloon in these. That institution was the coffee house. It first made its appearance in Cromwell's time, but it was not until after the Restoration that it attained its full fashion and flower. What was at first a place of meeting where Turkish merchants appointed to meet their customers and offer a cup of coffee over a bargain, became during the reigns of Charles II and James II a powerful influence in the state.

Ain't It Though?

Puffer—They tell me old Titewodd hasn't bought his wife any new clothes for two years.

Duffer—That certainly is a shabby way to treat her.

Know Any?

Mrs. Casey—And phwat kind of a woman is Mrs. O'Houltham?

Mrs. Mahoney—Bedad, she's the kind that will bite off yer nose behind yer back.

NOT ALWAYS PROPERLY SANE

Scientists Assert Few People Have at All Times Full Command of Their Mental Faculties.

Many people think that the expression "temporary insanity" is merely used by a jury wishing to save relatives pain, but numbers of doctors who have made a study of mental disorders emphatically declare it is no idle term.

One doctor has stated that temporary insanity is a condition of double consciousness, not dissimilar to epilepsy. A person normally quite sane may have attacks of temporary aberration lasting little more than a few minutes, especially after long bouts of hard, continuous mental work, being particularly liable if insomnia supervenes.

Crimes have been committed in the early morning when the perpetrator has not really been properly awake, and has been horrified to find what he has done. This is a true case of temporary insanity, but it is comparatively rare, and a man in normal health would not suffer in this way.

A specialist in mental diseases has stated that he knew a case in which a person was insane during a certain time of each day, and that others have been normal when the patient was quite normal at ordinary times, but suffered from a temporary fit of mania regularly once a month.

Forming Artificial Pearls.

Pearls were valuable as gems in China as early as twenty-two centuries before our era, and the Chinese had worked out a plan for the artificial formation of pearls about 700 years ago, which they have carried on extensively. Large numbers of oysters are collected and the shell gently opened to allow the introduction of various foreign substances which are inserted by means of a forked bamboo stick. These pellets are generally made of prepared mud, but may be bone, brass or wood. The oysters are then placed in shallow ponds connected with canals and are nourished by tubs of night soil thrown in from time to time.

Some time later, from several months to two years, depending upon the size of the gem desired, these oysters are taken out of the shell, the pearls removed and the body of the animal eaten as food. Millions of such pearls are sold annually in China. The most valuable are either round or pear shaped.

Few Old People in New Guinea.

The average duration of life is shorter in New Guinea than in any other country, owing to the peculiar diet of the natives, who devour with gusto the larvae of beetles, dug out of decayed tree trunks, and habitually drink seawater when near the coast. "The people die off at about forty," A. E. Pratt says in his "Two Years Among the Cannibals of New Guinea." "We saw one very old man, who may have been about sixty years of age—the only example of longevity that we came across. He was bent almost double, and had a long, white beard. His fellow tribesmen regarded him as a great curiosity, and brought him to see us. Despite the decrepitude of his body, however, there was no trace of senility; his senses were unimpaired, and the poor old creature showed great gratitude for a gift of tobacco."

Hence the Congestion.

"You have plenty of room in America," said the foreign visitor.

"Oh, yes."

"Then why do you build so many skyscrapers?"

"I guess that's because the average American thinks he can't transact business unless he's within walking distance of the post office."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

"EXCUSE IT, PLEASE!"

Most of us have had the experience of being called to the telephone in error—and many of us have blamed the operator. But the records show she is to blame in only a small percentage of cases.

"Wrong numbers" are often caused by people who do not consult the telephone directory. They rely on memory, and memory is fickle. Often they ask for the wrong number, get what they ask for and then say: "I don't want you; the operator gave me the wrong number."

SOMETIMES a caller gives a wrong number, realizes it suddenly and hangs up, the bell of the called person having been rung in the meantime. When the called person answers there is, of course, no one on the line—and the operator is blamed again.

So let's not be hasty in judging.

SEEK LAW TO DRY UP NATION

Government Legal Advisers Trying To Solve War-Time Problem

Legal advisers of Government agencies interested in liquor regulations examined statutes and executive orders without finding specific legal authority by which the Internal Revenue Bureau might enforce war-time prohibition after July 1st.

President Wilson, under the Overman act, giving him power to transfer functions from one department to another, might delegate the authority to the Revenue Bureau, some lawyers declared. This still would leave the bureau without adequate funds to pay the costs of maintaining a large Federal police force, unless there is some legislation at an early special session of Congress.

Legal advisers of other agencies discovered that an executive order of the President, dated September 2nd, 1917, issued under authority of the Overman act, delegated to the Revenue Bureau and the customs division the enforcement of the provision of the food conservation act of August 10th, 1917, which prohibited the use of food materials in production of whiskey, and paved the way for the restriction of beer brewing.

These agencies, acting under the Treasury, were authorized by the President to employ such additional assistance for this work as the Secretary of the Treasury might deem necessary.

The amendment to the agricultural appropriation act of November 21st, 1918, by which war-time prohibition effective July 1st was established, did not become a law until long after that executive order was issued, and consequently the order would not apply to the prohibition measure.

You—and The Victory Loan

The war being over it is difficult for many people to see the necessity for lending any more of their money to the Government as they will be called on to do when the coming Victory Loan is floated.

At this time there are still nearly two million American soldiers in Europe. To keep these men in food, clothes and provided with shelter, calls for millions in money which the Government cannot supply without your help.

Our individual obligations to our Government are just as great to-day as they were when the guns were firing in France. It will be a mighty poor sample of an American who chooses this time to put his or her patriotism aside.

The True Meaning Of Value

VALUE—not what you put into the clothes, but what you get out of them—not what you pay, but what you're REPAID—that kind of value means satisfaction.

In the old days, when a man bought a suit of clothes for $15.00 or $18.00 he wasn't especially concerned about it—$15 or $18 wasn't a whole lot of money, anyhow. But nowadays if he has to $25 or $35, he wants to know what he is getting for that much investment. This is one big reason why WE are doing such a tremendous early Spring business—thinking men are spending their money where they get VALUE.

FOUNTAIN SENTENCED TO HANG

Fugitive Negro Captured And Taken Back To Easton For Trial

Isaiah Fountain, the negro who escaped from the Talbot county jail, at Easton, Md., Monday night of last week, after the first day of his trial for an assault upon 14-year-old Bertha Simpson, of Trappe, was captured at Hartley, Delaware, at 2.15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Fountain was taken to Easton about 3.45 o'clock, little more than an hour after he was captured. He was taken into the jail with no show of violence on the part of the crowd that gathered although it was feared that they might attempt to take the negro from his captors.

Fountain was caught in a cow shed by W. S. Willis, a railroad detective, Lyman I. Scotten and E. T. Montague on the farm of James E. Clark, about one mile from Hartley, Delaware, and about 35 miles from Easton on the Oxford branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad. It is thought that Fountain followed the railroad in his flight from Easton. When he was taken he was crouched between a pile of hay and the roof of the loft of the barn.

His trial was begun Thursday morning and he was convicted and sentenced to be hanged that afternoon at 5 o'clock in the Circuit Court at Easton.

Fountain displayed no emotion, except for a nervous twisting of his fingers. The negro eyed the jurymen closely as they filed into the courtroom, apparently trying to read his fate from their expressions. Verdict was returned nine minutes after the jury was locked up.

Chief Judge Adkins and Judge Wickes retired to their room for a 15-minute conference before pronouncing sentence.

Within five minutes after the negro had been sentenced to die hardly a dozen persons were left on the courthouse grounds except the State militiamen, police and deputies. Apparently satisfied with the verdict, the great mass of the people left immediately for their homes by automobile or on foot.

Death of James L. Morris

Mr. James L. Morris, of Revell's Neck, near Westover, who was taken to the Peninsula General Hospital, Salisbury, April 18th, died at that institution last Tuesday afternoon of peritonitis, aged 58 years. He had been sick only about three weeks.

Mr. Morris was born January 21st, 1861, at Princess Anne, and was a son of the late Henry E. L. Morris and Emeline Morris. Practically all his life he was engaged in the mercantile business. As a young man he was engaged in business in Dublin district. About 20 years ago he went to Montana, where he resided for 8 years. In 1907 he came back to Princess Anne and engaged in the mercantile business for two years, at which time he closed his store here and moved to Revell's Neck, where he resided and conducted the mercantile business until the time of his death.

Mr. Morris is survived by his wife (Mrs. Elizabeth Disharoon Morris) and three brothers (Messrs. John W. Morris, of Princess Anne; Edward A. Morris, of Montana; and Robert S. Morris, of Washington, D. C.).

Funeral services were held in St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church last Thursday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. Henry E. Spears. The interment was in Manokin Presbyterian Church cemetery. The pallbearers were: Messrs. George W. Brown, S. Upshur Long, J. Sidney Hayman, Daniel Malcahy, James M. Long and Benj. F. Barnes.

Among those who attended the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Morris, of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Disharoon, of Cape Charles, Va.; Mr. James Disharoon, of Newport News, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. McKenney Price and family, of Salisbury.

A German Helmet As A Souvenir

Mr. W. B. Spiva, chairman of the Victory Loan Committee for Somerset county, last week received 7 German helmets to be used as souvenirs of the Victory Loan, which he has distributed to the 7 banks of the county. These are not the ordinary helmets worn by the Germans, but are the so-called dress helmets intended by the Germans to be worn on their entry into Paris.

The Victory Liberty Loan Committee of Maryland has allotted 275 to the counties out of the 700 given to the district, the allotment of 275 being made according to each county quota. These helmets can be seen at either of the banks in the county, and each subscriber to the loan—large or small—will have an opportunity of securing one as a souvenir, as the helmets will be distributed by drawing.

Miss Folkemer Home From France

Miss Elizabeth Folkemer, sister of Mrs. Ralph P. Thompson, arrived at "Workington Manor" Sunday of last week. Miss Folkemer returned from overseas on the steamship Heredia on April 3rd, after being in France for two years. The Lakeside Unit, Base Hospital No. 4, of which Miss Folkemer was chief nurse, sailed for France from New York on May 7th, 1917. This was the first United States Military unit to leave after war was declared, so she had the honor of being presented to the King and Queen of England on their arrival in England. The unit was stationed in Ronece, France, which during the March 1918 drive was only 37 miles from the front, when the hospital was made into a central clearing station. Miss Folkemer will be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson during the months of May and June. The local Red Cross branch will be interested in Miss Folkemer, as this society sent a box of surgical instruments and the junior branch sent a beautiful knitted blanket which was received by Miss Folkemer.

Death Of Rev. John S. Miller

The Rev. John S. Miller, rector of the House of Prayer, of Newark, New Jersey, died at the rectory in that city last Thursday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Miller was a native of Princess Anne. He was about 80 years of age and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Faux, of Newark, N. J. His remains were brought to Princess Anne yesterday (Monday) afternoon and interred in St. Andrew's Church cemetery at 3.30 o'clock beside his wife, who died in December, 1917.

Mr. Miller was the son of the late John Miller and Maria Miller and as a young man he taught school in Princess Anne. Soon after entering the ministry he accepted the appointment as chaplain of the Church Home. He was assistant rector at Old St. Paul's Church, Baltimore, under the Rev. Dr. Maham, and later was rector of St. Andrew's Church, Baltimore. He left that city to accept a parish at Pittsburgh, Pa., and for more than 25 years has been rector of the House of Prayer, at Newark, N. J.

29th Division Will Soon Return

Assignment to early convoy of all organizations of the Twenty-ninth Division was announced last Wednesday by the War Department, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The above dispatch will bring joy to some 7,000 Maryland homes, for it means that all of the units of the old Maryland National Guard which are not home or on their way will soon return to the United States.

This announcement comes as somewhat of a surprise, but not as much as if it had not been previously announced that the Twenty-ninth Division had been relieved of all military duty and ordered to prepare to move to a port of embarkation. The Twenty-ninth Division, it was originally announced, would not depart from France until the latter part of June, which would have made it one of the last to arrive home.

Few, if any, divisions will return to the United States with a more glorious record than the Twenty-ninth. It was with the First American Army in the St. Mihiel drive and later went into some of the hardest fighting of the war—around Verdun and in the Argonne Forest.

A Historical Novel Of The Screen

A gripping historical romance "Why Germany Must Pay," will be presented at the Auditorium, Princess Anne, Friday night, May 2nd.

"Why Germany Must Pay" is a great historical novel of the screen. The crimes of Prussianism against humanity are illustrated in definite form in this vital, heart-gripping story. A young Aletian, Conrad LeBrett, is forced to fight on the side of Germany, though his soul revolts at the hideous acts of brutality of the Huns. Wounded, he is sent to the Brussels hospital where that noble soul, Nurse Edith Cavell, tries to save the lives of men of all nations. She is shot by the command of Von Bisping for aiding an American girl to escape from his advances. Conrad goes home on furlough to find that his little sister, Vilma, has suffered at the hands of a Prussian officer in the enforcement of the Kaiser's proclamation. He escapes to America, and returns with the lads in khaki to avenge his sister and assist in the glorious fight of right against might. The climax of the story is unexpected and thrilling.

No Farmers' Conference This Year

There will be no Farmers' conference at the Princess Anne Academy, the Eastern Shore Branch of the Maryland State College of Agriculture, this year. T. H. Kiah, principal of the Princess Anne Academy, gives the following notice to patrons, friends and the public in general:

"Because of the recent loss we suffered through fire, and because of the gigantic tasks before us in making temporary adjustments in order that the regular school term may not be cut short, together with making preparations for closing festivities incident to the commencement exercises, we find it necessary to dispense with our Annual Farmers' Conference this year.

"Commencement Exercises will take place May 29th, at Metropolitan Church, Princess Anne."

Named Church Commissioner

Mr. Harry Pringle Ford, of Mohawk avenue, Norwood, Pa., one of the very active Presbyterians of Delaware county and a member of Olivet Presbyterian Church, of Prospect Park, has been named as one of the elders from the Presbytery of Chester, who will go as a commissioner to the Presbyterian General Assembly, which meets in St. Louis on May 15th. Mr. Ford is the only elder named from that county.

Twenty-Ninth's Record Told

Capture of more than 2,000 prisoners, 16 field pieces, 250 machine guns, and large quantities of small arms, ammunition and stores is the splendid record of the Twenty-ninth Blue and Gray Division on the French front, according to "The Octagon," the newspaper of the Eighth Army Corps, of which the Blue and Gray was a unit.

The paper relates the history of the Twenty-ninth from the time it left Anniston, Alabama, until it retired for a rest, after it was relieved in the line by the Seventy-ninth, of which the Three Hundred and Thirteenth Infantry is a part. During the continuous fighting between October 8th and October 29th, the division captured such notable strongholds as Malbrouck Hill, Molleville Farm, Bois de Cheume, Bois Plat, Chene, Ormont Farm, Grand Montague, Ravine de Molleville and Etraye Ridge.

Methodist Plan Whirlwind Tour

Prominent churchmen and laymen of Baltimore have enlisted as campaigners to put through the centenary movement program of the Methodist Episcopal Church have perfected plans for a whirlwind tour through cities and towns in Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, to inaugurate the drive for funds in connection with the campaign.

Despite the fact that the intensive financial drive to carry out the centenary reconstruction program does not begin upon an intensive basis until May 18th, the church having given way to government needs, and postponed its canvass until after the Victory Loan, centenary officials, nevertheless, will formulate their financial program in such a way that subscribers to the $105,000,000 relief fund may be quickly assembled.

Church Burned In Crisfield

Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church and the residences of Elwood Maddrix and John Wilson were destroyed by fire last Tuesday morning. The fire was caused by the explosion of an oil stove in the Maddrix home and a colored servant was severely burned.

The church was frame, built in 1874, and one of the most prominent in the Wilmington Conference. The Rev. W. F. Corkran, the pastor, states that plans are under way for erecting a $100,000 edifice, about 50 of the members having already pledged $1,000 each. The congregation will use Lawson's Hall temporarily.

Court Adjourned Last Tuesday

Last Tuesday afternoon the April term of the Circuit Court for Somerset county, which had been in session since Monday, April 14th, came to a close. The petit jury was discharged and the session declared adjourned. The cases disposed of were:

State vs. C. Hubbard Dougherty—Indictment for keeping gaming table. Before jury—not guilty.

State vs. William Sterling—Indictment for keeping gaming table. Before jury—not guilty.

Americans Lost 75,344 In Great War

Revised casualty totals announced last Wednesday by the War Department placed the total of dead in the Army and Marine Corps at 75,344, of which 33,887 were killed in action. Prisoners reported were 4,791, including 15 reported now held by the Bolsheviks. Of prisoners previously held by the Central Powers the records now show 281 died during internment and 118 of doubtful status. The grand total of wounded in the list is 201,230, of whom it has been estimated more than 85 per cent. returned to duty.

PLANNING FARMERS' DAY

State College of Agriculture Hold Demonstrations

Dr. A. F. Woods has announced farmers' day at the State College of Agriculture will be held as usual Decoration Day. Plans for the day are not matured, but a general idea of what is to be done has been formed. Invitations are being printed and sent to all public officials of the county, all the schools and civic and other organizations.

Two features will be the main attractions of the day. One is to be the demonstration of modern cultivating machinery in which labor-saving devices of this character will be shown. Other will be a farmers' victory jubilation, a commemoration of Maryland farmers have accomplished help win the war. Governor Harlan probably will deliver the address in connection with this part of the program. The subject on which he has been asked to speak is "The Farm Contribution to Victory and Their Construction Program."

Besides these things there will be exhibition of all the buildings, laboratories, and the farm. Demonstrations in home economics, canning and drying of fruits, vegetables, etc., will be carried on. Moving pictures are to be shown in the auditorium from 11 to 1 o'clock. A band concert is to be given and the annual commencement exercises of the graduating class of the college also will take place.

It is planned to carry out some actual tests of soil for lime requirement, a samples of soil brought by farmers that day will be given this test immediately. An explanation of the Farmer Day Pure Seed law is to be carried out and explanations of investigations of tomato diseases, brown rot experiment with fruits, hog cholera serum experiments, tests of wheat and vetch, and many other kinds of research being developed in connection with agriculture will be for observation by visitors. Some of these numerous experiments have to do with winter oats, soy beans and cowpeas, variety tests of straw berries, grape training, dwarf orchard and pruning of bush fruits, growing asparagus, Irish potatoes, fertilizer experiments, poultry and the forest nursery.

The Tome Meet May 17th

The program of events has just been announced by Mr. Francis A. Dunlop, athletic director of the Tome School for their thirteenth annual inter-school athletic track and field meet to be held this year on Saturday, May 17th at Port Deposit, Maryland.

The order of senior events will be as follows: 100-yards dash, hurdles, mile run, 440-yards dash, 220-yards hurdle run, mile relay, pole vault, broad jump, hammer throw, shot put, discus will be interspersed county schools; 70-yards dash, 220-yards dash, 440-yards dash, 880-yards run, relay, 80-pour 95-pounds lift, shot put, discus events in all.

TRY NEEDS APPLE TREES

Danger of a Surplus of Production If All of Us Should Get Busy.

Apple a day keeps the doctor away. In all things taken into consideration, the apple stands at the head of the parade. It is the favorite fruit in the market of homes. The apple is not only a productive crop, but from a commercial standpoint a good paying investment.

The war created such a big demand for immediate food that the last four years the planting of apple trees has been neglected. Authorities state that in order to meet the requirements of the ever-increasing apple industry there must be planted 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 apple trees each year for the next ten years.

If you own a piece of ground, no matter how small or large, plant as many apple trees as you can, especially in a suburban town, say 50 by 150 feet. You could plant a dozen trees or more. If you own the lot and have already built your house, start them now; the cost will be small and the value of your lot increased.

Farmers having plenty of acreage could plant apple trees in large quantities. It requires no special skill and only a little attention to bring the young orchard to the bearing age.—Utica Observer.

TREES BENEFIT STREETS

Amplified Demonstrated That They Are of Practical Value in Prolonging Life of Roadway.

It has been demonstrated by those in charge of the work that aside from the purely ornamental value of trees along the highway, many practical benefits would result from their proper use. It is not generally realized that trees, by means of their shade during the hot summer months, prolong the life of the roadway for many years, and road experts in general are heartily in favor of this means for road protection.

Due to the emergencies of war work it was found necessary to keep many of the highways which formerly had not been used for travel in winter open and free from drifting snows. That a demand will be made for keeping these roads open in the future is certain, and in place of many expensive and unrightly snow fences which now line our open stretches of highway it has been found that much of this work can be performed equally as well by the proper grouping of trees and shrubs along the open areas. More general planting of fruit and nut trees along state highways will be recommended.

Need for Library Work.

War conditions in the war camps say the need of libraries in all towns and neighborhoods in the United States is more acutely felt henceforth. The men in the army, when scattered, will, it is held, wish to read, and will be given the opportunity. Although it may be necessary to have the book distributed by some association, it is well in view, and a simplification as to get all the returned books to read and opportunity.

BOY "DROPPED INTO MONEY"

New York Youngster Found Floors of Deserted House Fairly Strewn With Bank Notes.

A coal chute may be a prosaic substitute for Aladdin's lamp, but one found by a New York boy delivered the goods as satisfactorily as ever did the old oil burner of "Arabian Nights" fame, observes the Kansas City Star. Vincent Mastaglio had been dazzling his playmates with great rolls of $10 bank notes and pockets full of jewelry for several days when the police learned of his suddenly acquired riches and took him into juvenile court, where he told of discovering his treasure trove.

He was playing in a New York East side street the other day when he fell through a coal hole. There wasn't much in the cellar to excite his interest, so he tried the upper floors of the house, which he found to be deserted. There, he told the police, he found rooms with their floors strewn with money; $5 and $10 bills had been wadded and thrown in every corner, and jewelry littered the dressing tables.

Investigation by the police verified the boy's statement. They learned that the house had been occupied by Mrs. James Sandham, a recluse ninety years old, who had died a few days before. The boy was the first person to enter the house after the woman had been removed to a hospital, and the money, thought to be rents from her tenants, had lain where she had thrown it on the floor as she received it.

WHITE TRIBE IN CHINA HILLS

Are Said to Resemble Anglo-Saxons, and Are Noted for Their Ferocious Courage.

A tribe of white men whose chief characteristic is their ferocious courage, has been found in the western mountains of China by Dr. Joseph Beech, president of the West China Union university, at Changta. Doctor Beech, who recently arrived in this country to aid in the Methodist Episcopal centenary campaign for $85,000,000 for missionary work at home and abroad, tells also of another race of white men, who greatly resemble Bohemians, to be found in the great hills.

"There are 40 or 50 different tribes," Doctor Beech said, "all speaking different languages and all different in physical appearance in the mountains of west and southwest Szechuen. On our maps these tribes are called a part of China, but they are really independent, and have fought the Chinese from time immemorial."

"This tribe, resembling Anglo-Saxons, lives in the district of Sung Pan. It is described to me as consisting of large men whose bravery is considered a marvel by the Chinese. 'They never run away,' a Chinese friend told me. 'They love to fight.'"

Taking Out the Squirt.

Relief is in sight for the man who, hurrying through his breakfast to get downtown, has had to run for the car with one eye blinded by a generous stream of very acid juice which sprang out of his grape fruit as he applied an overamount of pressure. Department of agriculture experts have taken out the squirt, and incidentally some of the other qualities of the grape fruit which prevented it from becoming as popular as it might otherwise have been. The new fruit has been produced by crossing the grape fruit with the tangerine orange and it is called the tangelo. It is described as being not nearly so sharp in taste as the grape fruit and as resembling a ripe orange. It requires no sugar and the pulp is so tender that it may be removed with a spoon without having previously cut the segments.

Recovered Pocket Piece.

An Odd Fellow's pocket piece, with an inscription showing that its owner had belonged to Keystone lodge, in Bethlehem, Pa., was picked up on a battlefield in France and eventually came into the possession of C. L. Fox of Houlton, Me. An article about the little aluminum disc was published in the Houlton Times and a copy was sent to the lodge in Pennsylvania. C. H. Fogg of the Times, later received a letter from the secretary of Keystone lodge saying that the pocket piece belongs to Walter Schonenberger of Bethlehem, and that if Mr. Fox would send the disc to him he would see that Mr. Schonenberger got it after he returned from France.

To Reorganize Scarlet Riders.

Canada's scarlet riders, the Royal Northwest mounted police, who left the dominion to distinguish themselves further on the battle fields of France, are to be reorganized on a pre-war basis, according to an announcement by government officials. Squadrons of the famous riders who for years have patrolled the prairies, mountains, forests and arctic wastes of Canada, will be returned from overseas and permitted to rejoin their old force, which will be recruited to twelve hundred men.

TOILED HARD FOR SUCCESS
 Great Sculptor Knew Many Vicissitudes Before His Genius Compelled World's Acknowledgment.
 The old, old story of genius toiling against adversity and winning the struggle is ever repeating itself—and is ever interesting. Rodin, the great French sculptor, climbed the ladder laboriously, but with such a persistence that fame could not escape him. In "Rodin, the Man and His Art," Miss Judith Cladel tells how the young artist, in order to live, applied himself to varied occupations.
 He chipped at stone and marble, he drew sketches for the fashionable jewelers of Paris, and he made articles of decorative art ordered by manufacturers. Despite a considerable loss of time he obtained by that means a true apprenticeship in art, and finally was able to realize his first dream—to have an atelier of his own.
 His atelier! It was a stable in the Rue Lebrun, in the quarter of the Gobelins, where he was born. It was a cold hovel-cave, with a well sunk in the angle of the wall that, at every season, exhaled its chilling breath. It did not matter. The place was sufficiently large and well lighted.
 There Rodin accumulated his studies and works until the place became so crowded that he could hardly turn himself about, but, being too poor to have them cast, he lost the greater part of them. Sometimes the soft clay settled and fell asunder; sometimes, becoming too dry, it cracked and crumbled.—Youth's Companion.
WOULDN'T STAND FOR IT.
 In Cleveland they tell a story of a boy who left school to work for a small manufacturer. The boy was dull and his stupidity annoyed his employer greatly. So, after a week's trial, he was discharged.
 "Get your pay," said the manufacturer to him on Saturday, "and let that be the last of you. You're discharged."
 It was, therefore, a great surprise that the manufacturer saw the boy at work in his former place on Monday morning.
 "What are you doing in this shop?" demanded the manufacturer angrily.
 "I discharged you Saturday!"
 "Yes," said the boy, "and don't you do it again. When I told my mother, she licked me."—New York Times.

LIBERTY LOAN

With THEM- to the VERY LAST

LIBERTY LOAN

We've been with our boys since the very first—since that day, two Aprils ago, when the Kaiser's throne commenced to totter.

Shall we forsake them now when, wounded and homesick, they need us most?

Shall we abandon them, or shall we stay with them by buying Victory Liberty Bonds?

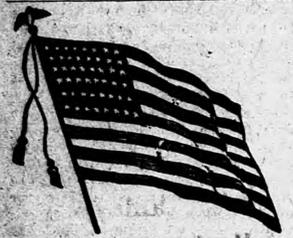

Well, then, buy to your full limit.

Victory Liberty Loan Committee

This space contributed by

 PRINCESS ANNE MARYLAND

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 29, 1919

It is now up to the people who didn't go across to come across.

While the women cheerfully perform the dirty work of house-cleaning, the men sit around and groan about it.

Victory is worth to civilization many times the cost. Buy Victory Liberty Bonds and help the government pay the bill.

It is almost impossible to hire any work done about the place, but if you want any jobs bossed you can get all the help you want.

It is a great sight to see the present generation of free, unshackled and untrammelled women come down the streets wearing the hobbled skirts.

Some people won't clean up their places this spring because they expect to make a good deal more litter during the summer, and they won't clean up next fall because then the season will be so nearly over.

If 3 1/2 per cent. government bonds paying one per cent. less than the Victory issue had been offered only three years ago, they would all have sold without sending out a single solicitor. If so, what is the real value of 4 1/2 per cent. bonds to-day?

Some ungentlemanly and base minded men are unprincipled enough to say that with a general telephone strike, dinner will be more likely to be ready on time. Anyway if the telephones all go on strike, somebody's office boy can't call you up and have you wait five minutes while the 16th assistant clerk gets ready to talk.

A CHANCE FOR THRIFT

The terms offered for the final issue of Liberty bonds are so very favorable that anyone with the least spirit of thrift ought to wish to participate. Never again will a bond of the United States sell so cheap.

In these times of prosperity and good wages, everyone except the victims of special misfortune, ought to be setting aside some money regularly. The business man should like these bonds for his surplus, because they can be turned into cash so quickly. The rate of interest is so good that they are not likely to fall below par. People with little knowledge of investments should appreciate this issue, because it gives them a good rate without the least risk.

Apart from the other far more weighty reasons, and looked at purely as a business proposition, this loan should sell without difficulty.

PAINT WILL BRIGHTEN UP A TOWN

The difference between a bright, cheerful looking town and a discouraged, seedy appearing one, is largely house paint. A town may be built of expensive houses and business structures, but if the paint becomes worn and dirty the town has an air of decayed and has-been elegance. Where buildings are kept painted, the town looks like a place where confidence and enterprise exist.

Of course many people feel that the cost of labor and materials for painting is so high that they can't afford it. But many good authorities say that prices of all kinds have moved permanently to a higher level, including, of course, painting materials and labor. The man who postpones a needed painting job on the hope of getting a lower price is likely to wait some time. And while he is waiting he is encouraging his neighbors and the community to give a constant impression of shabbiness and dilapidation. Also buildings deteriorate fast when worn paint fails to give protection from weather.

A good many people, in these days of Daylight Saving, will find time to paint their own buildings. They may handle the brush awkwardly but they will find the improvement of their property an ample compensation for their effort.

It is poor economy to use cheap paints. These soon show wear and the owner is tempted to allow his buildings to become chronically shabby. Any painter will say that unadulterated leads and oils are cheapest in the long run.

People who contemplate painting should give thought to questions of color and taste. Too vivid colors give a building a loud and bold appearance that is not home like for a dwelling nor dignified for a business building. But when well selected colors have been applied the building looks enough better to a purchaser to secure an additional price twice the cost of the painting.

THE EFFICIENCY OF ADVERTISING

What would be the business condition in a place where the merchants had never formed the habit of advertising, if such could be found?

The first characteristic of such a place would be an absence of competitive spirit. The incentives to activity and hustle would be removed. If a merchant made a special effort, and as a result of his energy, forethought and enterprise, secured a lot of goods representing exceptionally good values, he could not hope to sell them. Without advertising, the public would not know he had them.

Without advertising, the public would continue to buy of merchants where they had always bought before, regardless of the fact that in some other place they could take advantage of a specially favorable opportunity. The result of a community policy of non-advertising, therefore, is to discourage enterprise and to encourage distributors to continue along in the same ruts year after year.

Clean Up And Kill Flies

Now is the accepted time for spring cleaning. Dusty dwellings and damp, dirty cellars are storehouses of disease. Dirty streets and alleys are the distributors of disease. As spring advances and the power of the sun increases day by day germs spring to life, get into the dust and are distributed by the winds. This is a good time to begin warfare upon dirt and get the advantage of disease.

The winds are not the only distributors of poisonous and deadly germs. The active house fly fills his feet with germ-laden filth and then flies into the dining room, if there is an opening and wipes his dirty feet on the food. Therefore, the house fly should be excluded from the house, or, better still, he ought to be killed.

Old people can remember a time when children were taught that it was cruel to kill a fly. We believe that it was Tristram Shandy's Uncle Toby who was trying to get a nap one summer afternoon and was grievously tormented by a fly. He finally captured the annoying insect and instead of killing it raised the window and put it forth, saying, "Go little fly. There is room enough in the world for you and me."

No one would think of doing such a humane act in these practical, germ-killing days. The fly has been arraigned as a public enemy, tried, convicted and sentenced to death. Therefore, the war upon flies must continue all this summer. And the greater the execution during April and May the less work will there be later on. There is no race suicide among flies. A young lady fly becomes a grandmother in an incredibly short time, and an early period should be put to her career.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. #### How Diphtheria is Contracted

One often hears the expression, "My child caught a severe cold which developed into diphtheria," when the truth was that the cold had simply left the little one particularly susceptible to the wandering diphtheria germ. If your child has a cold when diphtheria is prevalent you should take him out of school and keep him off the street until fully recovered, as there is a hundred times more danger of his taking diphtheria when he has a cold. When Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given it quickly cures the cold and lessens the danger of diphtheria or any other germ disease being contracted.

Granville P. Webster et al. vs. William D. Webster et al., heirs-at-law of John P. Webster, and of Martha W. Webster, both deceased

No. 3305 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County

The object of this suit is to procure a decree for the sale of the real estate of both John P. Webster and Martha W. Webster, his wife, in and to the year 1887 leaving a lot of 19 acres Somerset County for the purpose of partition among their heirs-at-law after subjecting the proceeds of the interest of Martha W. Webster to the payment of her debts.

The Bill in substance states that John P. Webster, late of Somerset County, died intestate in the year 1887 leaving a lot of 19 acres Somerset County in Tangier District, Somerset County, Maryland, which he purchased from Levin Anderson, and that the said John P. Webster, late of Somerset County, died intestate in February, 1919, leaving a lot of land in Tangier District, Somerset County, containing two acres and twenty poles of land, which he purchased of Robert J. Waller, executor of Robert J. Waller, deceased, and which is subject to a lien in favor of the United States and assigned to Granville P. Webster; that the said John P. Webster and Martha W. Webster were husband and wife and left the following children and grandchildren as their only heirs-at-law, viz: Granville P. Webster, who intermarried with Lillie F. Webster; William D. Webster, who intermarried with Ursula Webster; Eva Price, who intermarried with John S. Price; Ivy Kellie, Adelle Horseman and Elma Webster, widow and daughters of J. Elmer Webster, deceased; John E. Webster, who intermarried with Mamie A. Webster; Harvey O. Webster, who intermarried with Sophia Webster, all of full age and reside in Somerset County, except John E. Webster and wife and Harvey O. Webster and wife, who reside in Baltimore city, and Edith K. Cassidy, who intermarried with Samuel Cassidy, adults who are non-residents of this State and reside in Kentucky, N. J. and that said children and grandchildren are seized in fee simple, in equal shares as tenants in common of the said two lots of land, subject to the lien of the said judgment against Martha W. Webster's interest; that said land is not susceptible of partition without material loss and injury to the parties entitled to interests therein; that Martha W. Webster left no personal property whatever, at least none sufficient to pay her debts due at the time of her death; that all the land herein mentioned should be sold and the proceeds divided among the parties entitled to interests therein after subjecting the interest of Martha W. Webster to the payment of her just debts, and especially the judgment lien aforesaid.

It is thereupon this 5th day of April, 1919, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset County, in equity, that the plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset County once in each of four successive weeks before the 7th day of May, 1919, give notice to the said absent defendants of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the 15th day of May, 1919, to show cause, if any they have, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

W. JEROME STERLING, Clerk.

A newspaper is in no sense a child of charity. It earns twice over every dollar it receives, and it is second to no enterprise in contributing to the up-building of a community. Its patrons reap far more benefits from its pages than its publishers, and in calling for the support of the community in which it is published, it asks for no more than in all fairness belongs to it, though generally it receives less.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Davis left last Friday morning for Helena, Arkansas, where they expect to reside for some time. They were accompanied by Mrs. Davis' father, Mr. T. Pounders, of Helena, who has been visiting Mrs. Davis since the death of Mrs. Pounders, and Mr. H. D. Yates, who will go as far as Baltimore. The party is traveling by automobile and expect to make the trip in ten days or two weeks.

This probably will present an opportunity for a close inspection of war trophies.

Good Advice To Modern Advertising

The firm of E. S. Adkins & Company of Salisbury is running a series of advertisements in the papers of the Eastern Shore of Maryland, Delaware and Virginia (the Marylander and Herald included) which are out of the usual order of advertising. While the information given in those advertisements are of course bearing on the kinds of business transacted by this firm, there are several of them which show a very fine constructive policy instituted by this concern for the education of the farmers of this territory of the advantages to be gained by new methods to be used on the farms. The firm is not only bringing vividly to mind the fact that the farmers have never been more prosperous than at present, but because of this fact they are entitled to better homes, and that the improvements made in their farm buildings shows itself almost immediately in the advanced price they can obtain for their product if they desire to sell it, but also that it pays the farmer to properly house his cattle, stock and farming implements, which is a matter so often neglected by even the more progressive of the rural residents.

This firm is making a strenuous effort to educate the farmers of this section of the State to the advantages of erecting silos and placing a small herd of cattle on their farms for the purpose of raising their own fertilizing manure and have issued pamphlets which are ready for free distribution showing that every farm which has a silo is destined to be a paying investment.

CURING HIM

By JOAN M. GRAY.

Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Elizabeth sat by the window watching the snow fluttering down. It was a pretty picture, a sleeping garden covered with its blanket of snow, and yet Elizabeth did not see it. One cannot always see beauty when one is a bit unhappy. More often one sees the cause of that unhappiness. That was why Elizabeth, gazing out into the snow, saw Malcolm, handsome, brown-eyed Malcolm, who had been her babyhood playmate, her childhood sweetheart, and was now her sweetheart chum.

When one is only seventeen a sweet heart is a very essential thing; that is, a sweetheart of one's very own. Malcolm had been just that to Elizabeth until two weeks ago. So Elizabeth pondered. The first time, when he had asked her to go skating and had not come for her, she had been surprised. Then he had explained the next day that Bob had insisted on his escorting a girl who was visiting Bob's sister to a matinee. Two days later she had forgiven him and had gone skating with him and Bob and Lella. And tonight he had forgotten that he had asked to "run around with some music" and had taken a visiting girl to the movies. Lella's voice over the telephone had told Elizabeth that, just before she had kissed her father and mother "good night" and had gone to her pretty room to gaze from the window.

"Oh, Betty," Lella had said, "it was the most wonderful picture and the girl was a dear. As for the man, just wait till you see him! And guess who was there? Can't? Malcolm and the girl who is visiting Mrs. Glidden. I was so sure. Oh, you were just going to bed? Well, I'll see you some time. Good night."

It really was too much, and a lump that could not be swallowed threatened to make the tears flow.

Early the next morning her mother called her to the phone. "It's Malcolm, Betty, dear," she said, "but remember we must get the 9:40 train."

"Hello, Betty," said a well-known voice. "You aren't mad, are you?" A slight pause. "I—you know, I was going to bring over some music last night, but I—"

"You forgot all about it," Elizabeth broke in. "Don't worry about that, Malcolm. I was rather busy last evening."

"Oh," said the voice. Then, "Who was he?"

"No one you know. But I must go now. Mother and I are going to town, since there's no school today."

As he waited, as usual, at her corner for her on Monday morning, he saw her approaching with Arthur Ferguson. Unheard of! For a year now he and Betty had walked to school together, and now she passed him by for Art.

A week passed; a week of uneasiness and remorse; a week during which he had seen Betty much cavalled by Arthur. There were others who were taking advantage of his absence. At last he managed to stammer an invitation over the phone.

"I'm going constring with Herbert this evening, Malcolm," she said sweetly, "but tomorrow—"

"Will you go with me tomorrow?" he broke in eagerly. "Oh, Betty! I'll be there at seven sharp."

At ten minutes before seven he rang Betty's bell and was greeted by her mother.

"Is Betty ready?" he asked. "Betty has gone to Helen's party with Arthur," said Betty's mother. "But come in, Malcolm. We haven't seen you for a long time."

"No, thanks. I—I'll go home, I guess," he said. "Good night." He went dejectedly down the steps, leaving Mrs. Norris smiling wisely after him.

The next morning he called for Betty instead of waiting at the corner, and thus had five minutes without Art. "I'll call for you at seven tonight to go skating with me, Betty, and I'm going to walk home with you, and if you go off with anyone else—Oh, Betty, you will, won't you? You won't, will you?"

"I'd love to go," she said casually. "Of course, I'll wait for you. At seven sharp. Oh, good morning, Arthur."

It was with misgivings that he rang her bell that evening. However, it was Betty in red sweater and cap who greeted him; Betty who teased him and raced him to the pond; Betty who chose him to put on her skates, refusing Arthur, who eagerly rushed to her assistance. A wonderful starlit evening!

They were walking home together; she laughing, he silent. Finally she stopped and looked up at him. "Yes! No! Yes! No!" she said. "Talk talk! What's the matter with our Malcolm?"

Then it happened. He put his trembling arms about her there in the snowy lane and drew her close. She felt a surprised little kiss on her cheek and then one, no longer surprised, on her lips.

"Oh, Betty, Betty," he whispered. "You've paid me with interest. I've been a cad, but you are wonderful. Listen, Betty. I—I love you and some day—"

"Really and truly, Malcolm?" breathlessly.

"Forever!" he vowed. "I didn't know before, but I do now. Betty, dear—and the arms tightened a wee bit."

"We'll be glad we did it in the days to come"

"Yes, it takes some sacrifice now, some scrimping and saving. But every penny of it will come back, with interest."

"In the days to come we'll be glad we did it—glad that we did our entire duty to our country and ourselves—glad that we put our money into the safest investment in the world—glad that we bought to our limit in the Victory Liberty Loan."

No Farm Too Large or Too Small for a Cleveland

CAPABLE of doing a great volume of work; yet so designed and so easily operated that it gets into the corners.

The owner of a small farm can use the Cleveland just as profitably as the owner of a big one. And another advantage is that it works on all kinds of soils. It lays its own track as it goes along and does not pack the soil.

The Cleveland tractor has proven itself able to plow from 8 to 10 acres per day in medium soil, with a two-bottom Oliver plow.

Use it with an Oliver Plow for best results!

Oliver plows were designed especially for tractor service. The rolling coulter and jointer bury all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow. The stop device maintains an even depth of furrow. A trip rope enables the operator to control the plow from his seat on the tractor. The plow points enter and leave the ground first, affording good clean furrows clear to the ends of the field.

Come to our salesroom any time and I will show you many other good features of the Cleveland tractor and Oliver plows.

There Should be More Silos in This Community

Forty per cent of the feed value of corn is in the stalk, sixty per cent in the ear. Stop wasting that forty per cent in the stalk. Build a silo on your farm. It turns the stalks into sweet nourishing silage feed, thereby cutting down your feed bills.

By increasing the value of corn crops, cutting down feed bills and enabling the farmers to raise more cattle for less money silos have added immeasurably to the wealth of middle western farmers.

Farmers in this community can do equally as well with silos. We are at your service to tell you how. Write us for free full particulars.

Build Now. We are not only in position to immediately make shipments of silos, but we are also equipped and have in stock for immediate shipment everything needed in building from fencing to houses and barns.

ORGANIZE FOR BETTER HERDS

Farmers Forming Associations for Purpose of Introducing Bulls of Merit of Single Breed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The co-operative bull association is an effective organization for freeing a community from the exasperating experience of the scrub bull that roams at large. There is scarcely a breeder who has not experienced keen disappointment and financial loss through unrestrained scrub bulls. In the territory covered by a co-operative bull association in one state only one scrub bull was found where, prior to the organization of the association, there had been 30 scrub bulls. The 30 scrubs have been replaced with five registered bulls. The organization of farmers into an association for the purpose of introducing bulls of merit of a single breed and the elimination of the scrub bull signifies that a definite plan for community herd improvement has been agreed upon.

There is at present a widespread interest on the part of individual farmers in herd improvement through the use of better sires. The winter season affords an opportune time to discuss the subject with one's neighbors and to perfect the organization of such an association. Farmers' Bulletin 993, "Co-operative Bull Associations," which may be secured through application to the United States department of agriculture, gives information regarding these associations and practical methods of forming one.

TO PRODUCE BETTER HEIFERS

Carefully Select From Herd Profitable Producing Cows and Use Purebred Sire.

Proper feeding of balanced rations, elimination of unprofitable animals in the herd and increasing production by use of purebred dairy sires to produce better dairy heifers are the three important things that will decrease the cost and increase the production of dairy products, says the dairy husbandry extension man at Iowa State college.

The easiest and most practical way of obtaining cows of better dairy qualities is to select carefully from the herd those cows which are found by record to be profitable producers and use on these a purebred dairy sire. If the profitable cows are selected, then the dairyman will be able to make a profit while he is building up a dairy herd.

It pays to select and breed better animals because it means more pay for the amount of labor and feed used and also an increased production of a food which is absolutely essential.

INDICATIONS OF GOOD COW

Best Dairy Animal Has Large Middle Body, Strong Constitution and Perfect Health.

The best dairy cow has a large middle body, a strong constitution and perfect health. A large udder and good sized teats, large milk wells and prominent veins are indications of a good milker. There are many other points to be taken into consideration when breeding for results, but in addition to milk tests, if the cow is well-bodied and built for a milker, as may be judged from a common sense view, that ought to be sufficient evidence of dairy value.

SEPARATOR SHOULD BE CLEAN

Only Way to Secure Highest Efficiency of Machine and Best Quality of Product.

The cream separator should be kept clean if the highest efficiency of the machine and the best product is to be obtained. After each separation the bowl should be flushed out by pouring into the supply can about two quarts of lukewarm water. The parts should then be washed with warm water and rinsed in scalding water, after which they should be allowed to dry in the sun.

Control Texture of Butter.

The grain or texture of the butter is affected and controlled largely by the treatment which the butter receives during the washing and working processes.

NEVER WORE ROYAL DIADEM

Seven Queens of England Who Remained Uncrowned on Account of State and Religious Reasons.

There have been seven uncrowned queens of England. The first was Margaret of France, the second wife of Edward I. Money was scarce in the government coffers at the time, and Edward could not afford the expense of a coronation. The four later wives of Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn's successors—Jane Seymour, Anne of Cleves, Catherine Howard and Catherine Parr—were never publicly crowned as queen consorts. Perhaps it was because Henry thought it would cause ridicule to have coronations occur as frequently as his marriages. Henrietta Maria, the wife of Charles I, being a strict Catholic, refused to take part in a state function which would compel her to partake of the sacrament according to the rites of the Church of England. Sophia Dorothea, the wife of George I, and mother of George II, was never recognized as queen of England, and therefore cannot be classed as one of Britain's uncrowned queens. Caroline of Brunswick, the wife of George IV, was not permitted to be present in Westminster hall at his coronation.

PEEVER'S ROMANCE

By PEARL BRAGG MEYER.

(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Ahem, ahem!" Mr. Peever, posing before the sitting room mirror, cleared his throat vigorously.

"My dear Flossie Jane, may I have the honor of offering—" That sounded all wrong. Mr. Peever sighed. If he made such a mess of the rehearsals how would he carry through the proposal itself? This was the worst job he had ever tackled, he thought dimly. Still, it had to be done.

At this juncture, if Mr. Peever had been like some men, he would have cheered himself by turning his thoughts to his bank account. As it was, however, he commenced meditating on his bald spot. Even here he found consolation. He noted with satisfaction that it did not show—when his hat was on. "There is always something to be thankful for," quoth Mr. Peever.

With thoughtful eye he glanced about the cosy sitting room and wondered how Mrs. Rollins, his faithful housekeeper, would accept the change. Young women were not as precise about a house as settled folks. Of course Flossie Jane would bring that bull pup. And, of course, the bull pup would tear the lace curtains. And, of course, Mrs. Rollins would have a thousand fits.

The distance from his house to hers was not great. The trim maid answered his summons. No, Miss Flossie was not at home.

Crestfallen, Mr. Peever started down the steps which he had ascended with such high hopes.

His meanderings led him back to the park.

Suddenly he started and glanced cautiously over his shoulder.

"Say," came a voice from the gloom, "who's that fellow that hangs around your place?"

"He's a friend of dad's. What do you suppose he calls me? 'Flossie Jane.'" She drawled the words with comic emphasis. "No one else ever calls me that. I can't help the 'Jane.' It was wished on me when I was too little to object," continued the flippant voice.

"Is he rich?" queried the masculine speaker.

"You just bet he is," laughed the girl. "But, oh, you bald spot!" A duet of titters followed this sally.

Followed more talk of a personal nature, such conversation as Mr. Peever himself had hoped to share with Flossie Jane. Finally the two arose to depart. As the sound of their footsteps came nearer, Mr. Peever sat bolt upright, gazing innocently at the starry heavens. He held himself so well in hand that in answer to Flossie's breathless "Good-evening!" he managed to give quite a natural start of surprise.

The couple passed on.

"Do you suppose he heard us?" whispered the girl in a clear voice that carried straight to Mr. Peever's bench. "What do you care if he did?" was the louder, unconcerned response of her escort.

Alone in the comforting circle of lamplight, Mr. Peever clasped and unclasped his hands, clasped them again and unclasped them.

The light from his own sitting room trickled enticingly through the lilac branches that shaded the window. Mrs. Rollins was in there—he could see her bowed head. She was sewing on buttons and darned holes, he thought with a thrill of quiet satisfaction. With a sudden spring in his step, Mr. Peever entered his own door.

On the threshold of the sitting room he halted. Mrs. Rollins glanced up and nodded a greeting. As if he had not seen her, Mr. Peever stood solemnly gazing over her head. After a moment:

"Mrs. Rollins, this is a strange world," he commenced impressively.

Mrs. Rollins dropped her sewing and looked anxiously into his face.

"Why—what—?" she ejaculated. "Strange things happen in it," continued Mr. Peever, still riveting his gaze on the wall.

"Yes—yes—" breathed the widow, an expression of alarm overspreading her round face.

"I knew your late husband very well." Mr. Peever's tones were funeral.

"Yes—" She leaned forward, breathless with suspense.

Mr. Peever inhaled deeply, prepared for the plunge, lost courage and flopped broadside. "He was a good man."

"So he was, Mr. Peever, so he was," Mrs. Rollins sniffed mournfully in memory of the long-departed.

There was a deep silence. Suddenly Mr. Peever flung his arms despairingly in the air and commenced frantically to pace the room.

"Mrs. Rollins!" he boomed, striving to pluck courage from the sturdy vigor of his own voice. "I am trying to tell you that I want to marry you—but you don't seem to understand."

Back flew the color into Mrs. Rollins' cheeks. "Why—why—Mr. Peever," she twittered in a pretty flutter of relieved confusion. "I thought—why—I thought—somebody was dead!"

"Do you mean yes?" persisted Mr. Peever, courage flowering joyously within him.

The widow drooped her head a bit and nodded, just as he reached her side.

"There is always something to be thankful for," quoth Mr. Peever, with beaming countenance, but—he did not say it aloud.

Miss Dorothy Bissell entertained her Sunday School class at her home Monday afternoon.

Mrs. E. D. Long is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Claude Smith in Baltimore.

Mrs. Mills and two children, of Delmar, spent Easter Sunday and Monday with Mrs. S. J. Elliott.

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. J. W. Coard, Thursday, May 1st.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Brewington, were guests of District Superintendent Collins, at Salisbury, Friday last.

Mr. Edward Ritzel has been discharged from the service and returned to his home last Saturday. He has been stationed at Fort Washington since last November.

Mrs. Sena Long Dead

Mrs. Sena Anne Long, wife of the late Theodore F. Long, formerly of Revell's Neck, died at the home of her son, Mr. Charles T. Long, in Baltimore, on April 10th. Mrs. Long was 84 years old and had been an invalid for 5 years. She is survived by five daughters, (Mrs. T. A. Beauchamp and Mrs. Joseph L. Brown, of this county; Mrs. A. J. Revelle, Mrs. Cal. Bosman, of Baltimore; Mrs. John D. Long, of Bayonne, N. J.,) and two sons, (Messrs. Millard F. Long, of this county; Chas. T. Long, of Baltimore). The burial was in the family cemetery in Revell's Neck on Sunday, April 13. The pallbearers were Messrs. Frank A. Brown, W. L. McLane, Millard Long, Jr., her grandsons, and H. J. Nelson, Frederick Nelson, Wesley Bosman, her nephews.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

The great benefit derived from the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been gratefully acknowledged by many. Mrs. Benjamin F. Blakeney, Decatur, Ill., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is by far the best medicine for colds and coughs we have ever used in our family. I gave it to my children when small for croup and have taken it myself."

Allen's Foot-Ease Does It

When your shoes pinch your corns and bunions so that you are tired all over, get Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder to be shaken into the shoes and sprinkled in the foot-bath. It will take the sting out of corns and bunions and give instant relief to Smarting, Aching, Swollen, Tender Feet. Used by the American, British and French troops. Sold everywhere. Don't accept any substitutes.

VICTORY LOAN PUTS VICTORY IN THE AIR

The Spirit of Patriotism permeates Every Section Of The State Of Maryland.

Victory tanks which have seen actual service on the French fighting fronts are just now making a tour of the State of Maryland in connection with the Victory Liberty Loan drive. They will visit this county as well as all others and everybody will have an opportunity to see just what these little fighters look like and how they fight.

And that's not all of the panoply of war—whatever that is that is coming this way. The Government has ordered the distribution of a large number of German helmets to Victory Loan buyers and this county is going to get its share. The manner of distributing these among buyers is left to the local committee.

In the meantime the wonderful war film "The Price of Peace," is on tour throughout the State and before it completes its wanderings it will have visited every section.

It has already been to a number of points and the other dates are as follows: Leonardtown, May 10th; La Plata and Hughesville, May 9th; Prince Frederick, May 8th; Hyattsville, April 29th; Laurel, May 2nd; Beaton, May 1st; Centerville, May 2nd; Betterton, May 3rd; Chestertown, May 4th; Chesapeake City, May 5th; Northeast, May 6th; Elkton, May 7th; Rising Sun, May 8th; Port Deposit, May 9th; Smithsburg, April 29th; Beantonsburg, April 30th; Westminster, May 1st; Boonsboro, May 2nd; Frederick, May 3rd and 4th; Brunswick, May 5th; Annapolis, May 6th; Towson, May 7th.

This is the most stupendous war picture ever produced. Nothing in it is staged. Every scene is of actual military operations, even to the entrance of troops into battle, going over the top, the shelling of American engineers while building a railroad, grenade throwing from the front line trenches, the capture of a hill at San Michel and innumerable other spectacular features of the war.

The allotment of the Maryland counties for the Victory Loan follows: Allegany, $2,250,100; Anne Arundel, $485,900; Baltimore, $700,000; Calvert, $186,100; Caroline, $607,600; Carroll, $1,564,000; Cecil, $540,400; Charles, $201,500; Dorchester, $687,250; Frederick, $2,645,000; Garrett, $274,900; Harford, $723,900; Howard, $176,500; Kent, $407,750; Montgomery, $561,500; Prince George, $397,750; Queen Anne, $334,500; St. Mary's, $1,077,850; Somerset, $681,850; Talbot, $570,250; Washington, $1,947,000; Wicomico, $420,000; Worcester, $449,250.

Already several counties have pledged their quotas and the very attractive features of the loan insure a full subscription in record time.

Everybody is expected to wear a Victory button and have a Victory emblem in his or her window. The boy who comes home will be apt to be disappointed if he finds there are any who did not stick to him to the very last of this war business.

Navy Leads Again

Subscriptions to the Victory Liberty Loan were 100 per cent. at the opening of the Navy Recruiting Station, Baltimore, Maryland, on April 21st, 1919. Every member of the force, both officers and enlisted personnel, subscribed to a bond as soon as the campaign opened. The Navy Recruiting Station is helping in every way to make the last great loan a tremendous success.

The work at the recruiting station has increased materially and Maryland is keeping her place in Navy recruiting. At the present time special efforts are being made for seamen, machinists' mates, hospital corpsmen and colored mess attendants.

Are You Happy?

To be happy you must be well. If you are frequently troubled with constipation and indigestion you cannot be altogether happy. Take Chamberlain's Tablets to correct these disorders. They are prompt and effectual, easy and pleasant to take. [Advertisement.]

Large Porpoise Caught In Tangler

The first porpoise ever known to have been caught in a fish trap in the waters near Crisfield was imprisoned in the trap of Capt. Smith Parks of Tangier, located in Pocomoke sound, near Watts Island. When discovered in the trap, the big fish evidently realized its plight, for it was making every possible effort to escape. All attempts to take it from the trap alive proved in vain, and finally it had to be shot. Six bullets from a Winchester rifle were required. It dashed about from one side of the trap to the other, tearing and rending the trap and throwing water several feet in the air. After being shot the fish still put up a game fight, and it took six men to load it into a boat. It still lived and fought for five hours. The porpoise was 11 feet long and weighed 350 pounds.

The True Meaning Of Value

VALUE—not what you put into the clothes, but what you get out of them—not what you pay, but what you're REPAID—that kind of value means satisfaction.

In the old days, when a man bought a suit of clothes for $15.00 or $18.00 he wasn't especially concerned about it—$15 or $18 wasn't a whole lot of money, anyhow. But nowadays if he has to $25 or $35, he wants to know what he is getting for that much investment. This is one big reason why WE are doing such a tremendous early Spring business—thinking men are spending their money where they get VALUE.
