HUSBAND DRUNK THREE WEEKS WIFE APPEALS TO MAYOR

35 CENTS DAILY
50 CENTS SUNDAY

Is Price Paid For Essence Of Ginger. Mayor Applies To Federal Prohibition Authorities For Power To Make Arrests. Has Ample Evidence Of Violations.

"I appeal to you as Mayor of the Town to do something to stop the sale of ginger in our town as I know there is a law against it."

In these words an "unhappy wife" begs Mayor Kennerly to put a stop to the selling of ginger containing approximately 94 per cent alcohol. Her letter in full follows:

Salisbury, Md.,
September 26, 1920.
"Mr. W. A. Kennerly,
Mayor of Salisbury, Md.
Dear Sir:

It has come a time when something must be done. And I am appealing to you as mayor of the town to try to do something to stop the sale of ginger in our town as I know there is a law against it.

My husband has been drunk on it for about three weeks and has spent what little money he has saved up for winter and now we are broke and he finally gets sober and tells me where he has been getting it at 35c a bottle and 50c a bottle on Sundays.

Here is a list of the places he says sell it:

(There follows a list of some six or seven places reported to be violating the law in selling ginger for beverage purposes. The Mayor, it is understood, has these places under observation and has secured more or less evidence of the alleged violations.)

The letter concludes, "I think there are some others but these are the ones he told me and I hope you will try to have it stopped as soon as possible.

I am yours very truly,
(Signed) AN UNHAPPY WIFE."

Acting promptly on the accusation made in the foregoing letter, Mayor Kennerly wrote the Federal Prohibition Director, Richard S. Dodson, at Baltimore, reporting the violations of the Volstead act and requesting that a man be assigned to Salisbury to break up the illegal practice.

Mr. Dodson replied, stating that such matters had to be taken up through the Supervising Prohibition Agent, Thomas E. Stone. From Mr. Stone it was learned that his force was too small to allow a man to be detailed to this territory.

Mayor Kennerly, however, is determined to stop the selling of such a pernicious beverage. He has written Mr. Stone requesting that Chief of Police Disharoon be given authority to make arrests whenever he finds the Volstead act is being violated. The Mayor's letter says in part: "Mr. Dodson refers me to you as being the proper gentleman to take the matter up with and see to it that this promiscuous selling of Essence of Ginger is abated. The time is now here when all men who wish to live for the betterment of mankind must make some effort to see that the law even on general principles is enforced."

"I would suggest that you deputize Mr. Woodland Disharoon, our Chief of Police, and empower him (Continued on Page 8.)

Tall Cedars Again Have Celebration

"Ladies Night" At Armory Will Be One Of The Biggest Events Of Season. Banquet and Dancing.

Easternsho Forest, of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, entertain the ladies tonight at the First Regiment Armory at eight o'clock. No expense has been spared to convince the guests that Tall Cedars know how to have a good time, and to make others have a good time, too. The event will be one of the most interesting of the season.

Tall Cedars and Saplings from Philadelphia, Wilmington, Baltimore, and other forests will be present, and a splendid program has been arranged, to be followed by a banquet and dance.

PARSONS DEMOCRATS FORM CAMPAIGN CLUB

A mixed mass meeting of the Democrats of Parsons election district was held in the Court House at eight o'clock Monday night for the purpose of forming a club. The name "Democrat Club of Parsons District" was chosen. The membership at the start was 300, and it is expected to be doubled within a few days.

Short talks on live subjects were made by Messrs. A. M. Walls, S. King White, A. R. Lohner, and E. J. C. Parsons. Mrs. W. C. Gullette was elected president; Mr. L. Thomas Parker, secretary, and Mr. E. J. C. Parsons treasurer. The slogan that was adopted was: "Work for the election of Cox, Roosevelt, Smith, and Goldsboro."

BUSINESS PICKING UP IN POLICE DEPT.

Several Arrests Made This Week For Various Offenses. Fourth of July Celebration Costs $24.86.

Charged with carrying concealed weapons, Edward Miles was arrested by Officer Dennis on Friday night on the corner of Main and Mill Streets. Miles is alleged to have disturbed the peace by firing a revolver several times in one of the most crowded portions of the city.

Hearing the shots, the policeman went to the scene. When questioned it is said Miles denied having fired a gun; but search revealed a 38 cal. revolver and he was fined by Magistrate Jones $24.86 for carrying concealed weapons.

A row in front of White's Restaurant on Main street cost an onlooker $13.50. Several men were in heated argument. Intoxicants of some sort, in the report, added to the flames and finally a fight started. Then it is said that Dorsey Porter was struck by Samuel Hawkins, who made his escape when Policeman Dennis arrived on the scene. Porter was arrested and fined $13.50 by Magistrate Jones. Hawkins was apprehended Monday and fined $12.75.

The police department has been kept busier of late than for some time past. For a period of four or five weeks this summer, not an arrest was made and the jail was empty. Within the past two weeks, however, there have been more arrests than in the preceding two months. Cider season is the reputed cause of most of the trouble.

COLORED WALL MAPS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Will Illustrate Important Features Of The Superior Climate Of Maryland And Delaware.

On Tuesday, September 28, an all day conference of the officials of the Maryland State Weather Service was held at the local office of the Weather Bureau, Custom House, Baltimore. Arrangements were made to place in every school and college in Maryland and Delaware a set of large wall maps, printed in colors, illustrating the important features of the superior climate of the two states, so that the pupils may grow up with positive ideas on the subject.

Among the matters discussed at this meeting was the fact that some of our Maryland cities are losing many of their oak trees. These trees do not seem to stand "civilization" very much and when a home is built and the leaf covering removed from the ground under the oaks, they are likely to die.

Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro, of the University of Maryland, who was in attendance at the meeting, stated that it was only necessary to feed the oaks to prevent their death and that the soil under the trees should be fertilized with raw bone meal in the late winter or early spring; it should ordinarily be used at the rate of 500 pounds to the acre, but the first year double that amount should be used.

Mr. Bradley Taylor, who has been employed with the express company at Cambridge during the absence of Mr. Townsend, the agent, has returned to Salisbury for a few days.

LEGION ELECTS OFFICERS SOON

Woodcock Not To Be A Candidate For Re-election. Record Attendance Expected.

The executive committee of the American Legion held its regular meeting in the Legion's rooms at the Armory on Monday evening. A number of important matters were disposed of, and the adjutant, A. T. Grier, told the inside story of the convention which was held at Cumberland the first of September. A full report will be given the Post by the delegates at the next meeting, Tuesday, October 12th.

The meeting next week will be important. The local Post will be hosts to the annual convention next year, and it is essential that plans for impressing the visitors with the Eastern Shore be worked out to perfection.

The election of officers is an additional reason why the executive committee expects a record attendance. Colonel A. W. W. Woodcock, the present post commander, upon learning that a movement was on foot to retain him in office, asserted that he would not be a candidate for re-election and would not serve if elected. He holds the vice-commandership of the State and feels that the local office should properly go to some other member of the organization.

The entertainment committee reported that refreshments would be served at the meeting to elect officers and other things of interest were promised as well. The date was changed from the 11th to the 12th on account of conflicting meetings with other bodies.

World's Baseball Series To Show Here

Pleasant Announcement Is Made By The Arcade Theatre Management.

The pleasant information comes to the baseball "fans" that the management of the Arcade Theatre has made arrangements with the Star Ball Players Company to use their board to reproduce the world's series baseball games this week. This special feature attracted great crowds to the Arcade last year and will doubtless do so again this year.

Telegraph service will be furnished by the Western Union and each play will be shown on the board a few seconds after it actually happens, as a direct wire will be used from the playing field to the Arcade.

The first game will be played in Brooklyn Tuesday, October 5, where the second and third games will also be played on the following days, after which three games, if necessary, will be played in Cleveland, and the games will then continue, with allowances for travelling from city to city, each day until one or the other has won five games.

ADJUSTMENT OF TUITION RATES FOR DORCHESTER COUNTY PUPILS

Several Have For Years Attended The Sharptown High School But The Dorchester Board Refuses To Pay Tuition Bill. Parents Have Agreed To Pay $41.00 Tuition For Each Pupil For School Year 1920-21.

The Board of Education held practically an all-day session Tuesday transacting important school matters. Two or three delegations were before the board on business.

The first delegation was from Royal Oak school district and consisted of the trustees and several others. These patrons of the school requested the Board of Education to rescind the order closing the Royal Oak school for lack of a legal attendance; the number of pupils having dwindled to nine. The delegation assured the board that there are now 14 scholars old enough to attend this school and that they would guarantee an average attendance of at least 12. With this understanding with the patrons the board agreed to re-open the school, but gave the patrons fair warning that they must live up to their promise; failure to furnish the required legal average attendance will certainly cause the permanent closing of Rayol Oak school. Miss Dora Dashiell, who graduated from the

FIVE EXTRA POLLING PLACES NEEDED BADLY

Increase In Registration Will Give Over 800 Voters Each In At Least Five Wicomico Districts.

It will be necessary to add to the number of precincts in several districts if the registration returns show much increase. Trappe, Parsons, Salisbury, Camden and Nanticoke districts bid fair to call for new polling places; but it will not be definitely known what additions will be made until the returns are complete.

Returns last year for the districts were as follows: Trappe, 585; Parsons, 1,126; Camden, 753; Salisbury, 754, and Nanticoke, 501. Naturally the voting strength will be materially increased in all districts by the recent federal suffrage amendment, but these places are already congested. The county supervisors of elections, it is reported, have promised to do all they can to relieve the present situation.

The changed election law provides that where the number of voters in a precinct exceeds 800, two polling places are to be provided. The supervisors are directed in that case to transcribe into a new book the names of all voters in alphabetical order down to and including the letter "M," and the remaining names into another book.

The law also provides that the supervisors can name women to the vacancies that may have occurred before November, adds two more registration days, and provides for cases of women who claim citizenship through marriage.

Big Community Dance Monday

Recruiting Party Returning This Week With Interesting Exhibits. Mass Meeting at Armory.

The recruiting party, combining the regular Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and National Guard, will arrive Sunday. On Monday night a big community dance will be held in the First Regiment Armory at 8.15 o'clock. Music will be furnished by a 23-piece Naval Band and the local military authorities believe the gathering will be a great success.

Lieutenant Harry L. Hagan, formerly captain commanding the National Guard Company at Hagerstown, will be with the party. Lieut. Hagan formed many close friends while he was in Salisbury in the interests of recruiting Company "I" and has said that he hopes to be able to meet all those friends again at the dance.

The local company has held its second regular meeting at which work in the school of the soldier was taken up. The men are taking a deep interest in drill and it is expected that an exceptionally fine organization will be built up. The number of recruits needed for federalization is seven, but Captain Russell has every hope of securing them.

THE COAL SITUATION IS NOT MUCH IMPROVED FOR SALISBURY

IMPROVEMENTS TO BE MADE AT TEA ROOM

The Lantern Tea Room will make several improvements in their quarters shortly in order to render better service during the winter months, according to Mesdames Bradley and Day. It is their plan to add a number of hot dishes to the menu, something that cannot now be done on account of the lack of kitchen space.

The Tea Room was started several months ago and has been a great success, for it was sorely needed in the community. Numerous parties are held each week, and it is particularly popular with the younger set. As soon as the improvements and additions are made, the Lantern will be in a better position than ever to take care of its ever increasing patronage.

LONG SERVICE WITH THE ADKINS COMPANY

James H. Larmore Resigns To Engage In Agricultural Pursuits After Service Of 22 Years.

After more than 22 years of continuous employment in the mill of E. S. Adkins & Company, at Salisbury, James H. Larmore has resigned. For many years, Mr. Larmore had been foreman of the mill and his resignation will be greatly regretted, not only by the firm which he has served so loyally, but as well by the men who have been under his charge.

On the day his resignation took effect he gave a short talk to the men with whom he has been working, explaining that it was hard for him to leave but that he had grown tired and wanted to take a rest. In all his 22 years of constant work, Mr. Larmore has never taken more than half a day's vacation at a time, and this he usually spent in rabbit hunting.

To show their appreciation, the men in the shop made him a parting gift, which was presented by Mr. C. R. Storky, who gave a very short talk.

The retiring foreman will be succeeded by Mr. Twilley Malone, until recently head of the architectural department. Mr. Larmore says it is his intention to take up farming. The News and his many friends wish him true success.

FRUITLAND VICTIM OF VACATION CLUB

Locals Score In First Inning. Winning Run Comes In Ninth. Score Of 5-4.

The Salisbury Vacation Club again came out on top in a game played with Fruitland with a score 5-4. This is the second game in which Fruitland has been cleaned up by the Salisbury team. Fulton Waller's amateurs are picking up, and are playing good ball. Dixon pitched a good game for Salisbury and had Townsend's straight ball and a three inch curve outclassed.

The local team scored their first run, in the first inning, when Disharoon got first on balls. Nock got a hit to centerfield and this pushed Disharoon to third. Dixon, the local twirler hit to short scoring Disharoon and Nock. Two runs were made in the sixth inning when Dixon reached first on error of the first baseman. E. Laws got a hit, to left field and made second on an overthrow to first. Dixon and Laws reached home when Lankford hit to centerfield.

The Fruitland team scored two runs in the sixth and two in the ninth thus making the runs on both sides total the same. At this point it looked as if it would be a ten inning game but Lankford got first on balls and was thrown out at third when Disharoon tapped a roller to the pitcher. Disharoon stole second and third and was scored by E. Dove who hit down third.

Local Dealers Think December May Find Commodity More Plentiful at Lower Prices.

SUGAR MARKET IS UNCERTAIN

Very Little Coal Is Coming To This City, Not More Than A Carload A Week. Price Is Now Near The $20 A Ton Mark. Sugar Has Taken A Turn Downward, Also Flour.

That the coal situation cannot be relieved immediately appeared to be the opinion of a local dealer this week. The demand is far exceeding the supply. Instead of getting a car of coal a day, the dealers here are receiving about a car a week. Owing to the shortage of cars, and the excess demand, it is probable that the price will go even higher than it now is. Hard coal is selling anywhere from $15 to $19 a ton, but since the price of soft coal has dropped it may relieve the anthracite situation a little.

People who have been in the habit of burning hard coal in their furnaces can expect an appreciable saving if they will mix it with bituminous, although the latter will not burn well in stoves. But by conserving the hard coal supply, prices of both may come down.

Following what seems to be a natural law, as soon as an article appears to be on the point of becoming limited in quantity, even for a short time, people try to buy all they can. Thus a shortage is created with a consequent sky-rocketing of prices.

One prominent coal merchant advises that buyers of coal purchase only what they need for the next two or three months, allowing local dealers to catch up. By December it is thought the peak of demand will have passed, the supply will be more plentiful, and prices will be lower. The railroads, too, are attempting to get back to their former efficiency, and by relieving the car shortage they will do much to alleviate the coal situation.

Sugar is still an enigma. It is reported that thousands of dollars have been lost in Salisbury due to the falling sugar market. While some dealers may have lost more or less, there seems to be no foundation that the losses have ranged from $25,000 to $100,000. Of course, until the market has settled, it would be almost impossible to determine the extent of damage done by falling prices. It seems to be certain, however, that unless the market does take a favorable turn, many firms will go to the wall. It is almost equally certain, according to the best information obtainable, that local houses will be able to weather the storm.

Last month sugar sold for 26c a pound; today it is selling for 16c. Importations from foreign markets is given as the cause of the downward trend. Many firms have been selling sugar as close as possible, despite the repeated cries of profiteering, and now have not laid aside profit enough on sugar to take care of the slump.

Hope is expressed in wholesale circles that a definite turn will be taken within the next ten days, and that from then on it will be possible to predict future markets. At present it appears that sugar may drop or may show a decided rise; the situation is entirely too vague for the basis (Continued on Page 8.)

Dr. Fisher Purchases Former Price Home

Princess Anne Physician Will Locate In Salisbury and Occupy The House.

The directors of the Shoreman Hotel Corporation effected a sale last Friday of the former residence of ex-Senator Jesse D. Price, on North Division street, to Dr. Charles Fisher, of Princess Anne. The consideration is reported to be $18,000—the price which the directors of the hotel corporation paid Senator Price for it. Dr. Fisher will move to Salisbury in the near future, so reports go.

The Shoreman Hotel Corporation purchased this property for the purpose of utilizing it for the location of the proposed new hotel, but as the project has failed to materialize it was decided to dispose of it.

Ocean City Entertains W. C. T. U. Convention

Forty-fifth Annual State Convention Entertained Three Days At Maryland's Favorite Resort. Mrs. Gordon, National President, Delivers Strong Address.

The 45th Annual State Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Maryland was held at Ocean City Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, and was attended by delegates from every county and most of the cities and towns of the State—a body of splendid, consecrated, earnest womanhood.

The most of the delegates arrived on the afternoon train Tuesday, and several conferences were held between that time and the first assembly, in the evening. The meeting at a late date of the services of the National President, Miss Anna Gordon, necessitated some changes in the arrangements, and her address was in the Presbyterian church.

Miss Gordon made an inspiring address on the burning questions of the hour. Her recent trip to Europe to attend the convention of the World's W. C. T. U., of which she is vice-president, and her visit to the temperance women of other European countries with their great need of help, was vividly described.

Mrs. Mary R. Haslup, the state president, presided with clearness of speech, tact and dignity. At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the convention adjourned to the Atlantic Hotel, where a reception was given by the entertainment committee.

The morning and afternoon business sessions were held in the Presbyterian church, and were crowded full of interesting reports and discussions, showing progress all along the line.

The evening services on Wednesday and Thursday were held in the largest auditorium to be secured, the State School House. The State Superintendent of Legislation, Mrs. A. B. Bibbins, gave a sprightly talk on the political situation Wednesday evening.

Mrs. W. J. Downing, of Salisbury, the former president of the Tri-County W. C. T. U., gave the address of welcome in cordial words, the present president, Mrs. Waller, adding to their impressiveness.

Miss Rose Davison, of Ohio, one of the national organizers, gave the main address of the evening, a logical and forceful speech on Americanization, in which she has specialized with notable success.

Thursday evening came one of the great treats planned for the occasion—the address of Dr. Poling, considered one of our greatest temperance orators. It was a matter of regret that a pouring rain at frequent intervals during all of Thursday prevented many from attending the last day's services as they had planned.

Attractive Windows Win Much Attention

Fall Displays Alluring.

The merchants of Salisbury always have good window displays, but one of the most attractive this week is that of the Dorman and Smyth Hardware Store, on the corner of Main and Dock Streets. One window is given over to the showing of cooking utensils that must fill with longing every housekeeper who does not possess them, and with pride those who have their replicas at home.

The other window carries a full line of all the things being manufactured by the Winchester Repeating Arms company, of New Haven, Conn. Roller skates, guns, razors, cutlery almost anything that comes under the name of hardware is put out by this famous firm that won its reputation solely in the manufacture of good firearms. Since Dorman & Smyth remodelled their store, their windows have been a decided attraction to all passers by.

YOUNG MAN ELECTRO-CUTED IN FACTORY

Rollie A. Bounds, Sent To Basement On An Errand, Touches A Live Wire Or Socket.

Rollie A. Bounds was electrocuted about noon Thursday, when he came in contact with a live wire or socket carrying 117 volts, in the basement of the Warren Meat Product Co., on Bond street, where he was employed. Although it is not known why he entered the basement, it is presumed that he went to get some bolts that Mr. Warren had sent him for.

The last that the witnesses saw of him was about five minutes before they heard the call for help. The other people employed at the plant were busy at the time and did not take any particular notice where Bounds had gone. Hearing the call for help Mr. Warren rushed down in to the basement and succeeded in getting Bounds to the upper floor. Here they tried artificial respiration, but Bounds was apparently dead. He did not utter any words after the outcry but was gasping for breath. When Dr. Wailes arrived, Bounds was pronounced dead.

At the coroner's inquest Dr. Wailes and Dr. Burris were sent to examine the body and found that there was a burn on the outside of the left hand and one across the end of the little and third fingers. There was a scratch over his left eye, one under his chin and one on the side of his nose, which were probably caused by falling.

Several electricians were sent to examine the condition of the wire in the basement and found that the wires were standard with the exception of the one which was supposed to have caused his death. The damp condition of the cellar and the ammonia fumes from the refrigeration plant, had caused the insulation to rot, leaving the wire bare in one or two places and the socket short circuited. Tests were made and it was found that the voltage was 117 which is sufficient to kill a man if not in good physical condition or if the surroundings are damp. This is about the maximum voltage that could have entered the building without blowing out the fuses.

Bounds was a veteran of the World

War having served 33 months in the 312th Machine Gun Battalion in the 79th Division. He was wounded in action in the Alsace sector, and was in the hospital for three months. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rachel Bounds, one child, Alfred Bounds, and his mother, Mrs. Olivia Bounds. Also five brothers and two sisters, Messrs. Lee Bounds, of Siloam; Or and Floyd Bounds, of Baltimore; Mrs. Mrs. Gertrude Disharoon, of Allen; and Mrs. Alvetta Bank, of Marдела.

The funeral was held at Siloam, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Auto Plants Close; 4500 Men Laid Off

Officials Of Toledo Factories Of Willys-Overland Co. Say The Demand Is Falling Off.

Toledo plants of the Willys-Overland Company were closed down Thursday and Friday following the lay off of 4500 men and women workers.

Less than 2000 remain to operate the plants the rest of the week when they reopened Saturday. Normally there are between 12,000 and 14,000 employed.

Those released Thursday were instructed to report Monday morning, by which time officials say it will be known definitely whether the plants will operate on a three day a week basis or remain closed until conditions in the automobile industry get back to normal.

A PLAIN POLITICAL DUTY.

The long fight for woman suffrage has been brought to a successful termination at least from the suffragist's point of view. Undoubtedly a vast number of women have been opposed to it, and still are. But the expressed will of the majority has decreed that women shall be enfranchised, and that will is the law.

Women have been given the right to vote. A right implies a duty and a duty a right. It is the duty of every eligible woman voter in the country to register and, on election day, to cast her ballot for those who, she thinks, are best fitted to be entrusted with the affairs of the nation.

The franchise is a sacred right and should be protected as are all things sacred. But is not something to be proud of solely in possession; to justify its value it must be used. Women, regardless of their walk in life, must recognize that their votes affect vitally not only themselves, but their neighbors, their state, their nation. At the same time, neglect to make use of the ballot will just as vitally affect their family, their friends, their country.

The Nineteenth Amendment to the Federal constitution is negative in that it simply gives a right to the women of the nation to vote if they so desire. Compulsory voting has been advocated from time to time, but has never met much popular approval, and probably never will. The women, however, should feel the compulsion to vote that naturally goes with their new birthright; citizens of the right type consider it dishonorable not to exercise their right of the ballot.

Unquestionably the women of America will assume the full duties of citizenship as loyally as they have assumed other obligations for the welfare of the nation. The enthusiasm with which they turned out the first day to register in Wicomico County was an excellent example of the right spirit. That all those women who failed, for one reason or another, to register Tuesday, will register at a later opportunity is a consummation greatly to be desired and one that we have not the slightest doubt will be achieved.

The nation is looking to its intelligent women to vote in full force this fall. It would be unfair to American women to believe that they will allow petty social objections and conventions to bar them from the polls. The ballot is theirs; they should make proper use of it.

"A BULL PINE STATESMAN."

A good many years ago a prominent Eastern Shore lawyer, now dead, took a sort of malicious delight in calling the late Governor Jackson and Senator John Walter Smith, by way of sarcastic reference to their business connections, the "Bull Pine Statesmen." But men of business ability and judgment who have gumption enough to succeed in business, as Governor Jackson and Senator Smith, will be remembered for their accomplishments when their sarcastic critic is merely remembered because of his attacks; and experience in the bull pine business is not without its advantage, as Senator Smith proved. He was appointed by President Taft as a member of an unpaid commission charged with the duty of acquiring title for the United States to enormous tracts of forest lands in the mountains of the south as a part of the National Forest Reserve. When timber speculators and sharpers tried to unload their holdings on the Government at unreasonable prices they found that the "Bull Pine Statesman" from the Eastern Shore had learned a thing or two about the value of timber, and was as good on a deal as David Harum. The Senator often would personally inspect the tracts offered, go over them, and get back to Washington to amaze the experts of the Forestry Service, as well as the speculators, by telling them just what could be cut and how much each tract was worth. The preparation the Senator had in the woods of the Eastern Shore and the South was worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to the United States; and worth more than long speeches in the Congressional Record.

A GREAT ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Several leading farmers, under the progressive leadership of County Agent Cobb, met at the Court House last week and formed tentative plans for the organization of a farmers' co-operative association. The association will be incorporated and will be operated in general as is a produce exchange under the management of a competent man to be selected at a later date.

With proper organization of the farmers of Wicomico county will come better times. Produce rotting in the fields because it does not bring a price at the local market will, we trust, be a thing of the past. A fair share of the prices his products bring in the markets of the great cities will go into the pockets of the producer, instead of into the purses of a few middlemen. At the same time, by co-operative marketing, it may be possible to reduce the cost of farm products to buyers in urban centers and allow the farmer a substantial return for his labor, land, and other investments.

It is the conviction of The News that the farmers of this county would do well to affiliate with the Wicomico Farmers' Association, for in so doing they will be assured of receiving money due for their products sold (which is not now the invariable case), even if there should be no other benefit. With the full, free, whole-hearted cooperation of every farmer in the county, the Association will be able to do wonderful things, not only for its members, but as well for the county as a whole.

It is no less the duty of every citizen of Salisbury to favor in every possible way the speedy perfecting of this organization. Salisbury is essentially a country town in that it depends on the farmer for its prosperity vastly more than on any other one industrial group. The Chamber of Commerce might well lend its influential forces in getting the Association under way, and those business men who are not yet members of the Chamber could also do much toward helping the directors of the organization reach their goal.

A little more genuine co-operation between farmer and city dweller, and a little less striving solely along individual lines, would probably be of infinite aid in restoring farm conditions to something approaching the normal. The Wicomico Farmers' Association has been started. All that can be done to make it a success will be done by its directors. The ultimate success of the movement will, however, depend on the people of the county. Surely a progressive movement such as this, formed in a progressive county, will be actively brought to a successful stage within a short time.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AGAIN.

President Wilson says Article X is the heart of the Covenant. Here it is:

Article 10.

"The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. In case of any such aggression, or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled."

Mr. Cox accepts Mr. Wilson's Article X without reservation—pledging the U. S. its life and treasure—to preserve the territorial limits of Empires.

The Senate made the following reservation for which Senator Harding voted and for which he stands:

"2. The United States assumes no obligation to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country by the employment of its military or naval forces, its resources, or any form of economic discrimination, or to interfere in any way in controversies between nations, including all controversies relating to territorial integrity or political independence, whether members of the league or not, under the provisions of Article 10, or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States, under any article of the treaty for any purpose, unless in any particular case the Congress, which, under the Constitution, has the sole power to declare war or authorize the employment of the military or naval forces of the United States, shall, in the exercise of full liberty of action by Act or Joint Resolution so provide."

The Wilson League leaves it in doubt whether the Congress of the United States or a group of diplomats have the power to order us into war. The Senate reservation removes the doubt.

In the name of all that is reasonable, isn't the matter of sufficient importance to have every doubt removed?

U. S. DRINK BILL FOR 1919 WAS $2,108,827,583.

The American Grocer in a recent issue presented some startling figures, secured from authoritative sources, as to the drink bill in this country for the past few years. The Grocer gives these figures:

"The nation's drink bill foots up a cost of $1,578,690,900 for alcoholic stimulants as the annual average for three years.

"The total drink bill for all beverages in 1919 was $2,108,827,583, against $1,745,283,141 in 1918 and $1,985,031,552 in 1917. The trend of the national habit continues toward a more liberal use of mild stimulants, greatly enlarged use of mineral waters and so-called soft drinks.

"The result of anti-liquor laws has been the cutting down of the use of spirituous liquors as a beverage from 22.79 gallons to 9.17 gallons per capita.

"The total consumption per capita advanced from 4.08 gallons in 1850 to 13.21 gallons in 1890, reaching 17.65 gallons in 1900, then to the maximum of 22.79 gallons in 1906, continuing at the high point until 1914, falling to a yearly average in 1915-17 of 19.72 gallons. In 1918 there was a drop to 15.95 gallons, further decreasing to 9.17 gallons.

"The increasing consumption of substitutes for malt liquors; campaign against the use of spirits; decrease in the consumption of tea, with a freer use of coffee since 1913, account for the marked decline in per capita use of all beverages.

"During three years, 1917-19, there were 4,291,365,406 gallons of domestic beer consumed, a yearly average of 1,430,135 gallons, which was 574,494,788 gallons below the annual average consumption for three years.

"The imports of beer almost fell from the record. The imports averaged 1,033,636 gallons annually for three years, 1917-19. This, added to domestic beer consumed makes the annual average consumption of foreign and domestic beer for 1917-19 total 1,377,162,924 gallons."

Nothing is said of the retail cost of spirits to the consumer this year.

Woman is queen of the home. She can be equally royal at the polls. Many problems await her entrance and we believe a new era is dawning for America because of her enfranchisement. It is the duty of every woman to avail herself of this opportunity. Let there be a hearty entrance into this new world.

Gibbs, Jr., of Herring Creek, while in the West Ocean City school yard last week, was bitten on top of his foot by a copperhead snake. The yearly meetings of the Old School Baptists at Nassawango church, Wicomico county, last Sunday week and at Indiantown in Worcester county, last Sunday, were very largely attended by the faithful from the three lower counties and lower Delaware. Good weather prevailed and hundreds of old friends greeted each other and enjoyed a feast of good things. Rally Day in the various Sunday schools of Salisbury was observed last Sunday and the occasion was marked by very large attendances. The work for the fall and winter was mapped out and teachers and scholars evidenced much enthusiasm at taking up the work after the summer vacations, when the work was somewhat demoralized by the absence of great numbers of officers, teachers and scholars. All have now buckled down to hard work for the fall and winter.

LYCEUM ATTRACTION MUCH ENJOYED

The first attraction of the High School lyceum course, secured by Prof. R. Lee Clark, was a great success. The Armory Tuesday night was well filled and the musical and light opera program rendered by the Copley Quintet was enjoyed thoroughly by the audience. Other attractions will be announced at a later date in these columns; and it is the expectation of the Principal that audiences in the future will be even larger than the one this week. The rest of the course embraces a high grade of chautauqua entertainments. Mr. and Mrs. George W. Nealey returned home this week after a short visit to Mr. Nealey's parents in Wilmington. Mrs. Nealey has been quite ill since her return, but is recovering.

FREE TYPHOID INOCULATIONS

Health Officer To Give Serum Treatment To School Children Next Week. Disease Decreasing. The public health officers of the state and county will begin the inoculation of public school pupils against typhoid fever early next week. Pupils who desire to be inoculated, as well as other persons in the county who wish the treatment, may secure it free of charge by applying to the proper authorities. The practice of inoculation was begun last year, more than 3000 people taking advantage of the serum treatment. This was probably the most progressive step ever made in the county for the prevention of disease. The records show that Salisbury has been a healthier place this summer than ever before in its history. Only four cases of typhoid fever have been treated at the Peninsula General Hospital, and only nine in the entire county. Last year the report showed 36 cases. The health authorities attribute this great decrease to the effect of inoculation. The serum used in the treatment is considered by the Government to be good for two years, and every soldier, sailor, or marine who enters federal service is treated with it. The first dose is not usually severe, but the second sometimes brings about a reaction that is anything but pleasant. The effects seldom last more than 24 hours. Few cases of typhoid are reported after October. Flies, largely responsible for the spread of the disease, leave with the coming of cold weather, and with them go many of the ways of carrying germs. With the return of warm weather, the danger returns; but education and active precautions, such as screening, do much to offset the danger. The Rev. William E. Venables, an assistant to the Rev. William A. McClethan, rector of Mount Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore, has accepted a call to become rector of the church of the House of Prayer at Newark, N. J. He will enter his new work October 15. Mr. Venables is a son of the late Richard Venables, of Mardela Springs, this county, and spent his childhood and youth at that place where he has many friends. Mr. Sidney C. Dougherty, of Salisbury, is a brother-in-law.

Glove Style of Today

The glove section is replete with the many ideas that make up the glove style of today.

It is of much importance to every woman to inspect our gloves, for it affords the opportunity to see the best of the seasonable fashions.

It is doubly important this year because of the many different versions of the gloves.

The display of the smart strapped wrist, slip-ons and French Kid dress gloves, all of which will be seen with the long tight fitting tailored suit sleeves--its important enough alone to call for your special visit.

You are cordially invited to call at any time and inspect the gloves. --First Floor

Gracefulness Dominating The Fashions In Coats

The most striking feature of the Autumn coats is the gracefulness and charm of their loose wrappy lines.

We offer a very liberal collection of coats--the newest created models from designers of distinction--emphasizing the wonderful style possibilities of these new types.

The fine warm materials consisting of Bolivias, Pom-Pom, Chinchilla and Silvertones, adorned in some instances with rich furs, represent an important fashion note and add immensely to our good judgment in waiting late to buy them, assuring you of all the advantages of the lower price level prevalent today.

Coats are priced from $25.00 to $75.00.

Suits Embodying Much Distinction

With an eye to ensuring the greatest possible degree of satisfaction to our customers, both as to style and price, we have bent every effort this season to see that your suits--the suits you purchase here--are the embodiment of that designing art and tailoring experience that alone brings success in one's tailor and that the price you pay here is consistent with the market.

At a sacrifice of the early or pre-season business we waited in the purchase of the suits, ensuring to our customers the very lowest prices that will prevail this season.

Here You Will Find Suits Of Many Lines, Lengths and Style Characteristics

We present the tailored suit in all its manifestations of style--

From the tailleur of much simplicity, to the style that is elaborately embroidered.

We present suits with coats of several lengths--featuring them all.

We disclose for your inspection the black, the brown, the blue and all other colors including Taupe, reindeer and greens, colors upon which fashion has set her stamp of approval.

The suits are developed in Velours, Serge, Poplins, Tricotines, Duet-de-laine, Tinsel-tones, Broad Cloth and other fashionable fabrics at prices ranging from $32.50 to $90.00.

A Reliable Hosiery Section

Our customers have indicated many times their gratification that they always find here "what they want, when they want it."

Good hosiery, liberal variety, complete size range is a brief way of indicating why satisfaction in the purchase of hosiery is assured at all times at the hosiery counter.

Kaiser silk hose are a satisfaction having passed the experimental stage many years ago. The patent "Marvil" stripe which prevents a garter run, having helped in no small degree toward the success of Kaiser hose.

This week we are offering $4.00 Kaiser Silk hose in Black or White at $3.50 the pair.

Highly Original Styles in Millinery Color And Contour

"The French Modistes are masters of lines" said a well-known milliner.

Yes, and of color and millinery "inventiveness" too. And there are some New York designers who have a superb knack of vying with Paris in working from the originals, of duplicating with fidelity, and of adapting with initiative and refined taste.

Hats from designers of this class form the substance of our millinery service.

People come to us for a hat of smartness, of beauty, of graceful contour. And they are never disappointed. Either with the hat or the price they pay.

Hats from $8.00 to $20.00.

FORMER SALISBURIAN WEDDED IN NORFOLK

Mr. Carl Schuler and Miss Hanna Warren Married in Southern City. Will Reside in Norfolk.

A Norfolk exchange gives the following particulars of the marriage of a former Salisburyian:

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's father, Alex Warren, in Hardy avenue, when Miss Hannah Anne Warren became the bride of Carl Farenback Schuler, formerly of Salisbury, Md., now of this city.

The lower floor was beautifully decorated with golden rod and fern, and the ceremony was performed before an altar of palms and cathedral candles by Rev. S. J. Battin, pastor of the Memorial Methodist church.

The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a traveling suit of blue tricotine, with hat and gloves to match, and carried a corsage of bride's roses and maiden hair fern, her only ornament being a string of pearls, the gift of the groom.

Miss Eva Warren, the maid-of-honor and only attendant, wore a gown of yellow satin with an overdress of tulle, and carried yellow flowers. Little Misses Catherine and Marianne Richards, nieces of the bride, carried baskets of sunburst roses and wore dainty frocks of yellow and green organdie. The groom had as his best man L. Hope Milby, and Alex Warren, Jr., acted as master of ceremonies.

James Stacky Says, "Rat Cost Me $125 For Plumbing Bills."

"We couldn't tell what was clogging up our toilet and drains. We had to tear up floor, pipes, etc., found a rat's nest in basement. They had choked the pipes with refuse. The plumber's bill was $125. RATS N' AP cleaned the rodent out. Three rats, 25¢ each. Sold at 1¢ each. Sold by LORAIN & SUTHERLAND, 111 N. 1st St."

The usual equinoctial storm failed to materialize this year as far as this section is concerned. We have experienced a little disturbance, but nothing as compared with other years.

The Widely Distributed Service Of The Peninsula General Hospital For Six Years Ending Dec. 31, 1919

The Hospital Campaign Committee gives out the following exhibit of the different sections from which patients treated during the six-year period, 1914 to 1919 inclusive, have come:

Sections From Which The Patients Came	No. Annually	Six-Year Total	Total 6-Years
Sussex Co. (Del.)	62	94	104	122	125	174	681—11.81%
Other Delaware Points	36	1	7	13	1	65
Wicomico County	334	335	327	393	359	318	2057—35.70%
Worcester County	108	125	124	178	188	168	891—15.46%
Somerset County	82	110	174	100	96	93	655—11.36%
Dorchester County	4	17	4	—	10	8	43
Accomac County (Va.)	92	130	131	182	172	232	939—16.30%
Other Virginia Points	26	17	46	25	40	43	197
All Other Places	70	15	70	29	21	29	234
Annual and Period Totals	814	844	987	1031	1015	1066	5762
Salisbury and Wicomico County's percentage
Annually and for Period	41.03	39.69	32.92	38.02	34.48	29.85

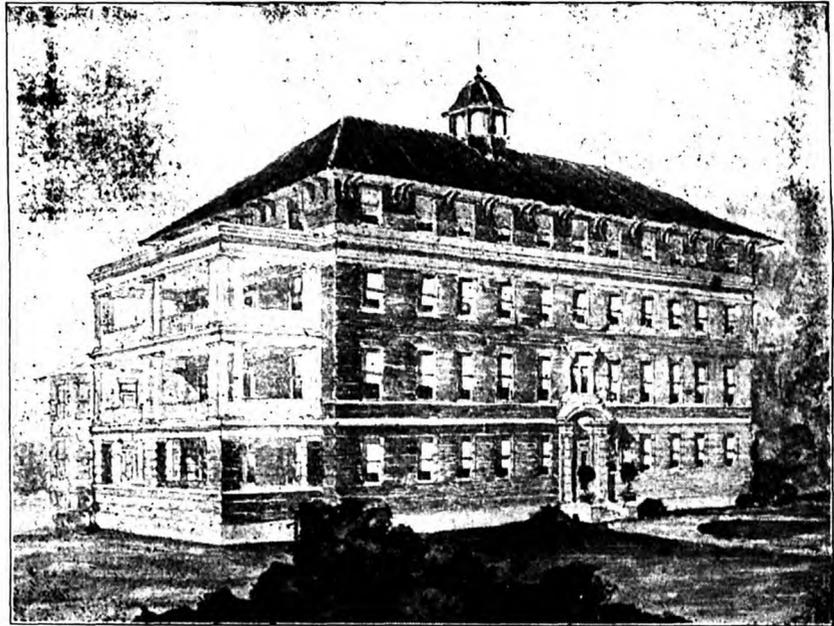

Anyone reading the above statement must be impressed that the Hospital Board has certainly managed the hospital impartially, endeavoring to serve every section without discrimination to the limit of the hospital's capacity. This is emphasized by a comparison of the percentage of patients coming from the five counties of Sussex (Del.), Accomac (Va.), and Worcester, Somerset and Wicomico, in 1914 with 1919, which we give below:

County	No. of Patients	Ratio to Total
Sussex (Del.)
1914	62 (814)	7.61%
Accomac (Va.)
1914	92 (814)	11.30%
1919	232 (1066)	21.76%
Somerset (Md.)
1914	82 (814)	10.07%
1919	93 (1066)	8.72%
Worcester (Md.)
1914	108 (814)	13.26%
Wicomico (Md.)
1914	334 (814)	41.03%
1919	318 (1066)	29.85%

Figures in parenthesis are the total number of patients for the respective years.

Another comparison of interest is that showing the proportion of patients who paid in full for the cost of the service they received, and those who did not, the latter representing the charitable work done by the hospital:

County	Total No. for Period	No. Paying in Full	No. Paying Part
Sussex (Del.)	617	204 (33.06%)	413 (66.94%)
Accomac (Va.)	874	194 (22.19%)	680 (77.81%)
Somerset (Md.)	562	92 (16.37%)	470 (83.63%)
Worcester (Md.)	808	169 (20.91%)	639 (79.09%)

Peninsula General Hospital As Proposed.

Fred P. Adkins, General Chairman of the Campaign Committee, says: "The public should understand that nothing but the sheerest necessity has prompted the Board of Directors to propose this campaign. The Directors of the hospital are: Wm. P. Jackson, W. S. Gordy, Jr., Walter B. Miller, Wm. E. Sheppard, Fred P. Adkins, Robert F. Duer (Princess Anne), John W. Ennis (Pocomoke City), Calvin B. Taylor (Berlin), Dr. Geo. W. Todd, Marion A. Humphreys and Graham Gunby.

"Anyone who knows anything of these men, knows that they are among the busiest throughout the entire peninsula, and already carrying large responsibilities. As directors of the hospital they do not ask, nor have they received, one penny for their services, but give the time and attention the hospital management demands gladly as a service for the common welfare.

"But as, day after day, they see people applying to the hospital for needed cure and treatment, and have to refuse them JUST FOR LACK OF ROOM, they believe the public should clearly understand the necessity. The hospital does not belong to these directors, but to the people, and in the past five years its service has been the equivalent of one patient in every other family in Wicomico county.

"The question for everyone to answer is: 'Is money or property more important than life and health?' Shall I give a small portion of what I have or can earn for the next five years, and help make the hospital large enough to serve me, or my loved ones or neighbors, or shall I withhold such help and jeopardize life?

"The service the hospital has given the poor must commend it to all who have any feeling for the unfortunate. Of the 4,518 people from Sussex, Accomac, Somerset, Worcester and Wicomico counties, cared for at the hospital for the five-year period 1915-1919, 3,551 represent those unable to pay what their service cost the hospital, and 1,712 of these 3,551 were treated free—not paying the hospital a penny for the care they received. Nor did the State appropriation entirely meet the expense of their service, for the State pays the hospital only $1.60 per day as compared with an actual cost to the hospital of $2.39 per patient-day. And if someone had not first given the money to erect and equip the hospital, that State aid for the poor could not have been dispensed.

"I call attention to these facts to show how really the hospital exists for the people, how any and everyone needing care may have it SO LONG AS THE HOSPITAL'S FACILITIES ARE AMPLE TO RECEIVE THEM regardless of race, religion or ability to pay; and how it is the one COMMON INSTITUTION OF THE COMMUNITY through which those who are able may help themselves, and also help the poor."

The District Chairmen for Wicomico county are on the job of getting the organization in line, and County Chairman W. S. Gordy, Jr., gives the following reports of captains from the District Chairmen:

Tyaskin District, Wade H. Bedsworth, Chairman—W. H. Robertson, Mardela, and John F. Hatton, Athol.

Nanticoke District, Wilbur F. Turner, Chairman—John W. Anderson, Bivalve; Mrs. John F. Jester, Jestersville; Mrs. D. W. Mossick, Nanticoke; Chas. S. Evans, Stump Point. Also as captains of colored teams, Ware W. Conway, Jestersville, and John W. Nutter, Nanticoke.

Sharptown District, Wm. H. Knowles, Chairman—W. D. Gravenor, Sharptown, and Elzey Brown, colored, Mardela R. F. D.

Chairman Adkins visited Delmar (Del.) Saturday afternoon, and with the co-operation of a number of the foremost citizens a public meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple Sunday afternoon, October 10, in the interest of the campaign.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Ernest Maddox departed this life Sept. 25, after a lingering illness, age 88. Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

Sometime ago she gave her heart to God and those who knew her best can testify to the consecration, the loyal devotion of a life just closed. She lived to serve her master in the Church, in the Sunday School, in the home. Her illness was borne with Christian fortitude and perfect resignation. As the service of her master was her delight here below, she will enjoy it in its fullness in the Church of the first born, where uninterrupted she can pursue her devotions. She was a kind friend, a loving mother and a devoted Christian.

She was survived by her husband, three children, mother, three sisters, three brothers. 10-7-1920

The husband and relatives of Mrs. Ernest Maddox, deceased, desire to express their thanks and sincere appreciations to the many friends who furnished automobiles also for the beautiful floral tributes. —967

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to tender our sincere thanks to our many friends and public, for their kind remembrance and sympathy in connection with the illness and death of husband and father, John L. Twilley. The many beautiful floral offerings, the letters of sympathy and the kindness of our friends in sending their cars for his funeral services touched us deeply, and we take this method of assuring these dear friends that we shall long remember their many acts of kindness.

DEMOCRATS IN BIG RALLY AT THE LYRIC

Hall Is Filled Early and Hundreds Are Turned Away. Warm Overtures Greet Speakers.

Baltimore city was the scene of two big political gatherings last week—Monday night the big Republican meeting in the Fifth Regiment Armory, and Friday evening a smaller but more enthusiastic gathering of Democrats in the Lyric Theatre. Both were record-breakers for attendance.

The Baltimore Sun's report of the Lyric meetings said "it was one of the biggest meetings that has been held in the Lyric for years, and while in the numbers of those attending, it did not approach the Harding meeting at the Fifth Regiment Armory, it is certain that more persons heard what the speakers had to say than heard Senator Harding."

"The meeting was set for 8 o'clock, but a half hour before that time the main body of the hall and the galleries were filled to their capacity, and all who came after that were compelled to crowd back behind the orchestra chairs and in the passageways behind the boxes. The people kept coming in after 8 o'clock, but hundreds finding it was impossible to get into the building turned away."

"The speakers, Senator Oscar Underwood, of Alabama, and Mrs. Gertrude Bresiau Fuller, of Pittsburgh, were cheered heartily whenever they made a telling point, and Dr. John M. T. Finney received an ovation when he was introduced as chairman of the meeting by Chairman Robinson, of the Democratic campaign committee. "Fully half of the big crowd at the meeting were women. They almost filled the galleries and the boxes and there were nearly as many of them in the body of the hall as there were men. In most cases, husbands and wives attended the meeting together. "Throughout the speeches the point was emphasized that the League of Nations is a going concern, with rapidly expanding functions, and that every nation of consequence is in it except Turkey, Bolshevist Russia, revolutionary Mexico and the United States."

Senator John Walter Smith, who occupied a seat on the platform, was accorded an ovation.

Talbot's School Head Quits, Enters Business

Mr. Orem Says His Reason For Resigning Is To Accept More Attractive Position.

Talbot county has lost a most efficient school officer in the resignation of Nicholas Orem, for the last 15 years superintendent of schools.

Mr. Orem resigned to accept a position with the Merchants Drug Company of Easton. He assumed his new duties on October 1.

Mr. Orem has been interested in educational affairs all his life. He has been considered one of the leaders of the State in school matters. Only recently, it is stated, State Superintendent Cook offered him a lucrative position in the State Superintendent's office, but Mr. Orem declined.

Mr. Orem said his reason for resigning is that his new position is more attractive.

Sweet Potatoes To Be Stored

Mammoth Storage Houses Being Erected To Take Care of Big Crops of Sweeties.

Brokers in Southern Delaware are making extensive preparations for the construction of storage buildings to house the enormous sweet potato crop which is expected to be harvested. One of the largest in this section of the county is now being erected at Frankford by George A. Carey. One with a capacity of several thousand hampers has been completed at Millsboro by Collins & Ryan, while additions are being made to several in the county.

The success in keeping the potatoes will depend to a great extent on weather conditions. If prices prevail at a good figure in the large city markets at the time the potatoes are taken out hundreds of hampers will be shipped without being placed in storage houses.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS REDUCE AGE LIMIT

The Knights of Pythias, assembled in biennial convention in Minneapolis, have recently amended their constitution so that men of 18 years might join the organization. The former limit was 21 years. The reason given for this reduction in the age limit is that if men of 18 were capable of answering the call to arms in serving their country, they are capable of valiantly under the tri-colored banner of the K. of P.

Both Teams Well Matched. Game Drawn Out To Eleven Innings. Nearly Called Thru Darkness.

The Salisbury Fire Department was beaten by the Vacation Club in an eleven inning game with a score 5-4. Both sides were well matched and it was about decided to draw the game on account of darkness.

Loomis was the twirler for the Vacation Club and "Kid" Disharoon pitched for the S.F.D. Disharoon had plenty of smoke but the Vacation boys tapped him for eight hits out of which one was a three bagger, three benign two baggers.

Loomis was tapped for seven hits but did not get a finish his game on account of a split finger. Ted Purnell was put in the box. Bailey played short and Bounds third. Purnell allowed one hit to the S.F.D.

Salisbury scored one run in the 2nd inning, three in the 4th, and one in the 11th. Bailey made two errors, but redeemed himself in the 11th inning when there were two men on bases. He hit to center field and brought in two men, winning the game.

The Fire Department got one run in the first inning, one in the 7th, 8th and one in the 9th. The batting stars for the day were Bouvet who hit a two bagger in the second inning and also a two bagger in the 6th. Jones hit a two bagger in the 5th and Bailey a two bagger in the 9th. Purnell made a pretty catch off third in the 9th and Laws pulled down one that also looked impossible in the 5th. The last game will be played Saturday.

Tried For Violating The Volstead Act

First Case That Has Come To Trial From The Eastern Shore. Judge Imposes Small Fine.

The first case under the Volstead Act that has come to trial from the Eastern Shore took place before Judge Rose in the Federal Court at Baltimore last week.

Roger B. Adams, of Ocean City, was charged with unlawfully having intoxicating liquors in his possession in August last, which was discovered by Revenue Officer Parks in a raid at Ocean City. In the trial of the case the question was raised as to just what was meant under the Act "being on the ground floor of a business place."

It was contended by the defense that the liquor found was in a pantry adjoining the store room of the Adams Hotel, which pantry was used in connection with the hotel, that hotel was the residence of Mr. Adams the year around, and that under the Act the place where the liquor was found was, in fact, a private dwelling. Judge Rose considered the facts and circumstances of the evidence and fined Mr. Adams the small sum of $5, the judge remitting all costs.

A. M. Jackson, of Salisbury, represented Mr. Adams at the trial of the case.

with the authority to make arrests for the above violations when necessary. I will say, Mr. Stone, that I have ample evidence to substantiate my request, and also to state that if you will deputize some special officer for this purpose in and around Salisbury, I feel that much can be accomplished."

Among other items of evidence, the Mayor showed a News reporter several bottles that had contained ginger. The labels state that the contents contain "not over 94 per cent Alcohol." They bear the caution that "This preparation has been made with non-beverage alcohol and the sale or use thereof for beverage purposes will render the vendor or user liable to severe penalties."

Mayor Kennerly has little doubt that conviction will follow each arrest, and he is fully determined to suppress the vice. It is said that residents in the central section of the city have been aroused several nights this week by disturbances supposed to have been created by persons who were drunk and disorderly. It is probable that the municipal authorities will take steps to put an end to this evil very shortly.

Tuition Rates For Dorchester Pupils

rate, however, for the next year may be higher, if the school expenses continue to increase. Dorchester county has long enjoyed the privilege of sending pupils to the Sharptown High School, but the Board of Education of that county has persisted in refusing to pay the tuition charged until the Wicomico board absolutely refused to longer continue to spend the Wicomico taxpayers' money to educate pupils from Dorchester. For the school year 1918-19 nine Dorchester pupils attended the Wicomico school, for which a bill for $15.00 each, or a total of $135.00 for the school year; for the school year 1919-20, 13 pupils attended, at $40.00 tuition each, or a total of $520.00 for the school year.

Several bills were sent to the Dorchester board for $655.00, the amount owed, but the Dorchester authorities absolutely refused to settle. So some weeks before the opening of the 1920-21 school year the Wicomico authorities advised the Dorchester authorities that their pupils would not be admitted to the Sharptown High School unless the tuition of $65.00 per pupil was paid in advance. Finding that it was impossible to get the Dorchester board to agree to any settlement, the patrons came to Salisbury and effected a compromise by agreeing to pay $41.00 tuition for each scholar, for the present year.

There are several pupils from Delaware attending Wicomico High School and the Delaware Board of Education is paying $65.00 tuition per pupil, and paying it in advance.

Coal Situation Not Much Improved

of any forecast. Flour prices will probably not be lower here for a month or six weeks, the time usually taken to affect the local market. Wheat dropped more than a week ago and has been fluctuating ever since. As soon as it reaches a definite level, provided it ever does, the market here will undoubtedly feel it. For the present the advice comes from a local wholesaler that the wise thing to do is buy only what you need, but not to hesitate to buy when you need it. Waiting for lower prices may mean paying higher prices before the purchase is made.

HOME-BUILDING ON WANE; HAS BEEN SO FOR MONTHS

Unable To Secure Financial Accommodations In Proportion To Their Necessities On 1920 Market Valuations. But Little Building Is Under Way At The Present Time.

Residential real estate in Delaware is worth 1914 valuation and 20 per cent, according to the appraisement placed upon it by trust companies and saving banks...

Many men not engaged in trust company or banking business are taking the position that the "conservative policy" adopted by the saving banks and trust companies are entirely too conservative...

Home building in the State has absolutely ceased, although there are several small operations under way. Compared with the needs, they are negligible.

It is said that the country banks of the State have been approached with a proposition to finance home building operations in Wilmington. The ability of any class of country banks to engage in such an activity will be governed by their ability to mobilize a cash balance after the needs of the county districts they serve have been met.

Summing up, it seems that the situation of those who wish to borrow money for home building cannot be accommodated at anywhere near the value of the properties or cost of operations, and therefore home building in this State will be handicapped for some time to come.

Locally, on account of the failures of the crops of the farmers to net anything near an ample return and the farmers on every hand losing money on all their operations this year, the banks will have about all they can do, with decreased deposits over what they would be in a successful season, with deposits from the farmers from their crops swelling the totals, to finance the farmers through this trying period.

COLORED PITCHER BREAKS HIS ARM

During a football game here Saturday night, a colored pitcher broke his arm while trying to catch a ball. He was treated by Dr. S. H. Lynch.

CULVER GETS OFFER FROM MINOR LEAGUE

Seaford's Southpaw is Wanted By Chadbourne, N. C. Club. Considering It Very Seriously.

The gossip in baseball circles on the Delmarvia Peninsula is to the effect that "Dal" Culver, Seaford's clever southpaw, has received an offer from Chadbourne, N. C. club of the Atlantic Coast Line League, and is holding it under consideration.

Culver has also been offered a trial in one of the International League teams. He made a remarkable record while pitching for Seaford last summer and as the club's mainstay during the life of the Peninsula League, the championship of which Seaford captured.

Early last spring he visited Chadbourne, N. C. and while there pitched several games for that team, winning the majority of them. In one of the games he shut out Wilmington, letting them down with one hit.

PATRONIZE YOUR HOME STORES.

One of the things from which Delmar is suffering is the lack of its people to patronize its home merchants. Nearly every citizen of this town are employees of the railroad and as a result nearly every one of them have passes on the railroad.

FORMER TRAINMASTER RETURNS TO OLD POST

J. H. Atwell is Re-Transferred From Wilmington to Delmar. Has Been With Company For Years.

Mr. J. H. Atwell, who was transferred from here to Wilmington early in the summer, has been returned to his old position of assistant trainmaster at Delmar.

Until a little over a year ago there had never been an assistant trainmaster at this terminal. Then Mr. Atwell, who had been in the service of the company for a long time as an operator and later train dispatcher, was sent here to fill that position.

The position of agent here, which was vacated by the death of C. W. Jones, has been taken by Fred Passwater who was previously agent at Rehoboth. It was hoped by most of the business men of the town that Mr. Herthway would get this place in recognition of his faithful service here, but Mr. Passwater was an older man in the service and so was entitled to the place.

Many Delmar Women Yet To Register

Committees Trying To Interest Them So That They Will Qualify To Become Legal Voters.

A large number of the women of Delmar have already taken advantage of the new order of things and have placed their names on the registration books so that they will be able to vote this fall, but there are still quite a few who have neglected to do so.

To this latter class an especial appeal is being made to create interest so they will qualify to vote. It is in this class of women that the hope is centered to make many improvements and cleaner politics.

Every woman should register, and when registering they should also designate to which party they wish to affiliate, as it is only by so doing that they can participate in the party primaries of the future.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ARE BEING LAID OFF

Curtailing of Number of Trains a Serious Blow To Delmar. Many Will Have To Leave Delmar.

One of the principal topics of conversation on the streets of Delmar these days is the large number of former employees of the railroad who have been "laid off" recently and the wondering of those who have been fortunate enough to still be on the Pennsylvania's payroll as to when they will "get the bounce."

The people of Delmar practically depend upon the railroads for their livelihood and this wholesale cutting down of the number of men employed is an especially hard blow to Delmar.

DELMAR BOOK CLUB TO BE REORGANIZED

Mrs. J. Paul Ems, who is reorganizing the Book Club, announces that those who wish to be on the list for this year should do so by October 15th.

What could have proven a very serious railroad accident was so narrowly averted here last Thursday morning, that those who witnessed the occurrence were speechless with fear and sighed with relief when they saw that no serious consequences had resulted from the sheer carelessness of the men responsible.

As the regular southbound train, leaving Delmar at 8:30 a. m., was approaching the depot here on the southbound track, and as the passengers were awaiting its approach to board same, a shifting engine with one car quietly approached on the northbound track without any warning whatsoever. Several of the waiting passengers, unaware of the approaching engine, which was passing directly in front of the regular passenger train, started to board the train and were given their first warning of the nearness of the engine on the northbound track when some one cried, "look out."

They proceeded to scurry in different directions, with the exception of Mr. Orlando Parker, brakeman of the southbound train, who was on his way to his post. He became dazed for a moment, and seemed so completely surprised when he turned and saw the engine almost on top of him that he could not move, and the engineer of the shifter threw on the emergency brakes just in time to stop the engine in about one foot of the spot where Mr. Parker stood directly on the track dazed.

Afterward on the train, Mr. Parker stated that it was the closest call he had ever had in his years of railroad experience, and that the crew of the shifter were violating one of the strictest rules of the Pennsylvania railroad by running the engine directly in front of a waiting passenger train. When asked why he did not report the incident, which easily could have been the cause of a very serious accident, he replied that he did not care to do so, but that someone ought to do so, as it was carelessness of this sort that was responsible for many accidents and loss of life.

The writer of this article was an eye witness of the occurrence, and saw the engine approaching quietly before starting for the passenger train, on which he was to be a passenger. Whether there are any rules of the Pennsylvania system that forbids such a thing as running shifters or other engines directly in front of a waiting passenger train without any warning whatsoever or not, he is not aware, but it is certain that there should be. For the instance, he was struck speechless at the carelessness of the crew in this act, and when the incident was over, and no loss of life was needlessly paid as a result, the relief and gravity of the offense were both very apparent.

U. S. SENATOR WALLCOTT TO SPEAK HERE MONDAY

Hon. Josiah O. Wallcott, United States Senator from Delaware, will lecture on the League of Nations at the Elcora Theatre next Monday evening, October 11th. It is especially hoped that the women voters of this section will be well represented.

Senator Wallcott is noted as one of the most fluent orators in the country. Being exceptionally well read in history and having been in the United States Senate during the last four years, he is particularly fitted to give a comprehensive, instructive and entertaining talk on this subject, and it should be of interest to everyone.

Mr. J. F. Thornton has lately been entertaining as his guests his grandmother, Mrs. R. W. Colona, of Stockton; his mother, Mrs. J. F. Thornton, of Pocomoke, and Mrs. Grover Tull, of Beaver Dam, Md.

LOWER DELAWARE NEWS IN BRIEF

Mrs. Angeli Marshall, who is 92 years old, made the request that she be the first woman of the Tenth district, which comprised Milford, to register and the first woman of that town to vote. The registration officers granted Mrs. Marshall's wish. As she was given the special privilege Saturday morning it is likely that she was the first woman in Delaware to register.

Extensive preparations have been under way all summer by many individuals and groups in this section of the country to handle the large sweet potato crop this fall. Every one who was at all concerned in the sweet potato crop of last year made fairly good money out of it. During the past summer several large potato houses have been erected, in which it is proposed to store the potato crop until the market shall be most favorable for a clean up. A good many of the men, whose business it is to make a careful study of this proposition each year, predict that "sweets" are not going to be worth as much as they have been for the last two or three years.

That seven year old Frances Crockett, colored foster child of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, colored farmers living near Neils School house, met death as the result of beating and abuse on the part of the foster parents, was the finding of a Coroner's jury Wednesday afternoon, several hours after the death of the child became known. Both Stewart and his wife are being held without bail.

The biggest haul of liquor ever made in lower Delaware was reported late Saturday afternoon, after Federal Officer Ira H. Melvin, assisted by Chief of Police Lane, William Cassons and Caesar Rodney Comegys, all of Dover, in their automobiles, visited the farm of Angelo Dorutto, alias "Nick." There they discovered, hidden in all sorts of places, more than 400 quarts of liquor, whiskey and gin, and with them two cans of "jope." The bottles bore the labels of former well known distillers, and many of them had on them seals indicating that they had been in bond. The bulk of the liquor had been shipped to the farm in two large trunks, sent by express to Hartley. Another consignment was sent there on Thursday night, the carrier being a large limousine. The price asked for the liquor ranged from $6.50 to $12 a quart.

The steamer John R. Baylis, which has been lying in Milford river, for several months, has been sold by its owners, the Breakwater Fisheries Co., to the Chincoteague Fish Oil and Guano Co., of Chincoteague, Va. Col. Robert Arnell died suddenly at his home in Lewes Friday after an illness of two hours. He was born in Lewes 85 years ago and always lived in the house where he died. He was active in banking, being a director at time of his death, of the Sussex Trust Co. For many years he had been engaged in the lumber and coal business and had accumulated quite a fortune. In politics he was a Republican. He was a bachelor. Dr. W. D. W. Hall, of Philadelphia, is his nearest relative.

Rains for the past few days have greatly benefited the late potato crop in lower Delaware and has been the means of augmenting the yield. For the past three weeks, during which time little rain has fallen in this section of the State, farmers have been alarmed over the injury being done to the crop of tubers. The late crop in most sections of the country will be held for winter with the hope that there will be a rise in price.

Because of the increase in salaries of the school teachers in Sussex county, many of the ones who had entered other fields of labor have found the increase attractive and are returning. Thus far County Superintendent of Schools E. J. Hardesty has found it necessary to issue 125 permits to teach.

THE VOGUE SHOP SERVICE MEANS PROPER CLEANING

The clothing problem means a lot of worry these days. People have less money to spend for clothes and they get less clothes for their money. Three years ago you could buy three suits for what you now pay for one. Yet, listen! how seldom is it that you actually wear out your old clothes? Do you call a garment worn out when it begins to look shabby because it's faded or soiled? If you could put the original color back into the fabric or take out the soil marks you would have several years more good use of the article. That's just what the VOGUE SHOP is doing. Miss Laura Bunting Becomes Bride Of Mr. L. A. Singlettery, Of Clarkton, N. C.

TAR-MACADAM ROAD THAT STANDS UP WELL

Good Condition of Allen Road Referred To. Would Not Such a Road Be Good Thing For Delmar Road?

Considerable agitation has been manifest in the local press for some time regarding the condition of the Salisbury-Delmar road. From such authorities as the County Roads Engineer comes the information that the road cannot be repaired without a special act of the legislature, and there is no possibility of obtaining that for a long time to come. But even were it possible to obtain authority for the re-building of this particular highway, it is asserted in certain circles that the cost would be prohibitive. Estimates on concrete run in the neighborhood of $50,000 per mile, and estimates on other types of road making are nearly as high.

In this connection the facts concerning the construction of a piece of road leading from Salisbury will be of interest generally. In 1910 the State, with county forces, constructed what is known as the Toxy Tank road, leading from the city limits on Camden avenue to Toxy Tank mill. The details of construction were told today to a NEWS reporter in a special interview granted him by the builder.

The type of construction is what is known as tar-macadam. For the greater part, the old oyster shell road-bed was used as a base for the tar-macadam, being reinforced in places where the depth was insufficient to bear it by the addition of fresh shell. In one or two places the road was graded down to a better level and shells were used to replace the old shell roadbed.

Twenty thousand bushels of shells were used to bring the course to a thickness of five inches. This was then compacted, covered with a course of stone about three inches deep, tightly packed with a steam roller, and covered with hot tar running about one and a half gallons to the square yard. The top surface was composed of stone chips. The cost of construction was about 85 cents per square yard. So far as could be learned, the expense of maintenance has been very small. The roadbed is 16 feet in a 30 foot right of way.

By some of the men who are employed on this road and spend most of their time on the highway, it is estimated that motor vehicles pass any point on it at the rate of sixty an hour. When this great amount of traffic is taken into consideration, together with the low maintenance cost, the long duration, and the splendid condition of the road at the present time, it will be appreciated that the construction of this bit of highway might well serve as an example for other stretches.

COL. THOMAS S. HUDSON DIES IN CRISFIELD

Veteran Leader Of Republican Party In Somerset County Was 83 Years Old. Twice For Congress.

Col. Thomas S. Hudson, prominent for more than a half century in the public life of the Eastern Shore and Maryland, died at his home in Crisfield Wednesday morning, after an illness of several months.

Colonel Hudson was 83 years of age and was born in Dorchester county, but had made Somerset his home since the early life of Crisfield, more than half a century ago. He was the oldest member of the Somerset county bar and one of the oldest practicing attorneys in Maryland.

A veteran of the Civil War, Colonel Hudson served with distinction in the Union Army. He was a graduate of Princeton and practiced law in the courts of Somerset county and the State until a few months ago, when his declining health compelled him to give up his active practice. Colonel Hudson was a Republican and was active for a half century in affairs of his party. He represented Somerset county in the Maryland Senate in the eighties and was three times a candidate for Congress, making his last run for the National Assembly on the Bull Moose ticket in 1914.

Colonel Hudson's entire career was associated with the growth and development of Crisfield and Somerset county. For years he was the leading member of the local bar, the acknowledged head of the Republican party in Somerset and identified with various business, professional and social movements. He is survived by a widow, Mrs. Clara J. Hudson, and two sons, Col. Clarence Hudson and Sheriff S. Hudson.

NEW AUTO PRICES SHOW BIG REDUCTIONS

Several Manufacturers Announce Intention To Get Back To Pre-War Conditions.

The Willys-Overland Co. announces a substantial reduction in the price of its motor cars, the Overland touring and roadster from $1,035 to $895; the coupe from $1,625 to $1,425 and the Sedan from $1,675 to $1,475. The Willys-Knight touring and roadster are reduced from $2,300 to $2,195; the coupe from $2,950 to $2,845 and the sedan from $3,050 to $2,945; these prices to be effective at once.

John N. Willys make the following statement: "We could not possibly have taken this action unless we felt, thoroughly justified in anticipating reduced costs of materials, against which conditions our companies have made provision. It has been commented that the automobile business has been profiteering. The profit in proportion to the increase in prices has been much less in this industry than prior to the war. After two months of personal investigation of conditions abroad, I am firmly of the opinion that this country cannot hope to develop a healthy business and be able to compete with foreign markets unless we re-establish merchandise selling prices more nearly or a par with the conditions existing prior to the war."

In addition to the above reductions a dispatch to the Wilmington Evening Star, dated Tuesday, 28th inst., says: "All Hudson and Essex manufacturers announce the reduction in prices, which went into effect at midnight on September 28. Price reductions range on all open cars at $200, and closed cars at $275 to $450. They also have arranged the price of the new model Essex, known as the Cabriolet, at $2,100 f. o. b. Detroit. The same standard will be maintained by the factory in their production of these well-known cars."

Officials of five other automobile companies revised their selling prices. The Paige-Detroit Company announced reductions running from $175 to $250; Maxwell Automobile Company changes ranging from $160 to $200; the Chalmers Company, $150; Chandler Motor Company, $200, and the Cleveland Automobile Company, $150.

Editorial Comments of Live Local Subjects

Salisbury, Maryland,
Sept. 27, 1920.
THE QUESTIONS.

Gentlemen:
I read your editorial on the League of Nations in the issue of last week with a great deal of interest. As an independent paper I feel that you owe the community a satisfactory answer to these questions:

1. Are you really in favor of the League of Nations?
2. Do you believe Harding is sincere in his promise to start a new one that will not be objectionable?
3. How do you account for the fact that Senator Johnson is proclaiming that Harding's election will mean the death of the League of Nations as far as this country is concerned?
4. Suppose Harding is elected and does try to build up a new League. How do you think he will get the other nations to withdraw from the League that is now operating in order to join his?
5. Why do you intimate that there is any doubt as to how we would be drawn into war because of obligations as a member of the League? Is it because you did not study the Covenant but merely accepted the campaign statements of the "Irreconcilables"?

In regard to the candidates there are some questions that should be answered.

1. What constructive measures have been introduced in the Senate and carried through by Senator Harding?
2. What great work in Committee or what great leadership on the floor of the Senate can you name that causes him to stand head and shoulders above his fellow senators?
3. What executive ability has he displayed that causes you to believe him so well qualified for the office of President?

Very truly yours,
J. L. MORRIS.

THE REPLIES.

The News takes pleasure in answering the following questions addressed to it by Mr. J. L. Morris, in a letter dated Sept. 27, 1920. His questions follow with the News' answers direct after each.

1. "Are you really in favor of the League of Nations?"
If Mr. Morris means the Covenant of the League as brought back from Paris, and whether The News favors the United States becoming a signatory to it, our answer is "No."
2. "Do you believe Harding is sincere in his promise to start a new one that will not be objectionable?"
The answer is "Yes." There is no mystery about Harding's position. He favors the United States being a member of an association or League of Nations so constituted that the United States will have the right to say what its own obligations and duties are, and when we shall use our power to enforce them. In the Wilson League, the former would be decided for us by a small group of diplomats sitting in Geneva, and the latter question is left in doubt and uncertainty. Mr. Morris will see the clear distinction between the two positions.

3. "How do you account for the fact that Senator Johnson is proclaiming that Harding's election will mean the death of the League of Nations as far as this country is concerned?"
The News does not know that Senator Johnson is proclaiming any such thing. Senator Johnson would be perfectly justified in assuming, just as the News does, from Senator Harding's statements and the National Republican platform, that he would use his influence against the United States entering the Wilson League.

4. "Suppose Harding is elected and does try to build up a new League. How do you think he will get the other nations to withdraw from the League that is now operating in order to join his?"
The News will not take the time to describe the usual diplomatic processes by which treaties are negotiated. The News is perfectly convinced that America occupies such a commanding position in the world, both as to disinterestedness and as to power, that she may have what she will. Lord Grey has admitted as much for England.

"Why do you intimate that there is any doubt as to how we would be drawn into war because of obligations as a member of the League?"
The Wilson League, there is no doubt, would draw us into war, as we would be bound to make war, as long as we were a member, that the Congress of the United States would be morally bound to declare war. If it did, we would simply emphasize that our freedom of choice had gone. If it did not, we would be in the position of not keeping faith.

"Is it because you did not study the Covenant but merely accepted the campaign statements of the 'Irreconcilables'?"
In that question, Mr. Morris, you betray yourself as not a sincere questioner at all. Give The News the credit of forming its opinions as earnestly and as from as good sources as you form your own.

Mr. Morris then asks a series of questions respecting Senator Harding. Mr. Morris then asks a series of questions respecting Senator Harding as follows:

1. What constructive measures have been introduced in the Senate and carried through by Senator Harding?
2. What great work in Committee or what great leadership on the floor of the Senate can you name that causes him to stand head and shoulders above his fellow senators?
3. What executive ability has he displayed that causes you to believe him so well qualified for the office of President?

Senator Harding is just completing his first term in the United States Senate, during the greater part of this time as a member of a minority party. If Mr. Morris expects us to picture Senator Harding as a great driver who lashes an unwilling Senate to do his bidding, then he will be disappointed. That thing simply isn't done in the Senate and certainly not by a first term member of a minority party. If such a member can make his influence felt at all, he has succeeded.

Senator Harding has done much more. He has attained the unusual distinction of membership upon the Foreign Affairs Committee and he won a high place in the regard of every Senator for poise, balance, common sense and unusual judgment. One has only to read his speeches to realize that these are the words of a thinker who has thought well.

The News believes that the country needs the Harding type and that it emphatically has had enough of the Cox type. The country needs a man of poise and balance, ready to bring to his assistance the ablest men in the land, willing to submerge his personality and private opinion for the general good. That is Harding.

The country does not need the feverish politician, ready to say anything, to promise anything, to win.

The News is convinced that Senator Harding will make an able president of the McKinley type. But its convictions are undoubted when it thinks of the alternative, Cox.

CUBS' LEAD OFF MAN IS ONE OF THE BEST

Max Flack Has All the Needed Qualifications.

Chicago Outfielder Is Steady Hitter, Fast Runner and Patience to Wait Out Pitcher—Reaches First Base Frequently.

Lucky is the club that has a good lead-off man. Heretofore this was considered one of the most important positions in the batting order, but the managers of today do not seem to look at it in that light, for there are few first-class lead-off men in the major leagues. The player placed at the head of the list not only has to be a steady hitter, but must have the ability to wait out the pitcher and has to have speed. These qualifications are necessary, which makes it difficult for managers to find a man to fill the bill.

One of the cleverest lead-off men in the National league is Max Flack of the Cubs. He has all the qualifications mentioned and one more—he is short and a puzzle to pitchers, says a writer in Chicago News. When Manager Mitchell was chosen to succeed Joe Tinker he quickly realized the possibilities in Flack as head of the batting order. Tinker had him hitting Manager Barrow of Red Sox Doesn't Believe Pitcher Would Intentionally Hit Batsman.

Pitcher Carl Mays has been accused of experimenting with the "bean ball." Ed Barrow, manager of the Red Sox, doesn't think Carl is that kind of a boy. He says in Mays' defense:

Carl Mays.

"Mays is a good fellow, and I don't believe he would try to hit a batsman any more than would Walter Johnson. Nobody ever questions Johnson's fast ball, although sometimes it speeds so close to the batsman's head that it looks intentional. It's unfair to charge Mays with such unsportsmanlike and cowardly tactics. He is a great pitcher and doesn't have to resort to intimidation."

NEXT TUESDAY THIRD DAY FOR REGISTRATION

Next Tuesday, October 12th, will be Registration Day for both men and women in Wicomico County. Registration booths will open at 9 o'clock A.M. and close at 9 P.M. It is vitally important that all women avail themselves of this second opportunity to register, if they did not do so on first day. It is equally important that all men who are not now properly enrolled should either transfer or register, as may be necessary. You cannot vote unless you register. Every good citizen must attend to this most important duty.

CAPTURED AFTER CHASE LASTING TWO YEARS The Colored Schools Of Wicomico Open

Alleged Assaulter of Emory Bell Apprehended Near Bethel, Del. And Placed In County Jail Here.

Raymond Townsend, who has been wanted for more than two years by the local police, was apprehended last week in a tenant house near Bethel, Delaware, by Sheriff Larmore and a posse from Salisbury.

The Sheriff led his men to a tenant house belonging to John Hearn where it was reported Townsend was in hiding. When the latter discovered that the officers were after him, he tried to make his escape by way of the porch roof from an upstairs window. Sheriff Larmore, however, had provided for just this contingency, and the man stationed in a place to command the upper story of the house blocked the flight.

Officer Dennis, of the municipal police force, then went upstairs and brought Townsend down. He was brought to Salisbury and placed in the county jail to await trial. It is believed that Townsend had been in the county for two years.

Officer Dennis, of the municipal police force, then went upstairs and brought Townsend down. He was brought to Salisbury and placed in the county jail to await trial. It is believed that Townsend had been in the county for two years.

Townsend was taken to the Hospital in a very serious condition and remained there for several months. Townsend, it is alleged, in company with several other men, all reputed to have been in a greater or less state of intoxication, went to the home of Emory Bell where he created a disturbance. When ordered by Bell to leave, it is said that Townsend drew a revolver and fired, the bullet having effect in Bell's liver.

Oystermen Very Slow To License This Fall

Only 93 Licenses Issued Up To Sept. 30, As Against 271 Same Period Last Year.

Oyster tongs in Wicomico county are unusually slow in licensing this fall. An examination of the license record in the Clerk's office, September 30th, showed that only 93 licenses had been issued for the period against 271 issued for the same period last year. This shows a falling off of 178.

Last year Chief Kelly issued for the period 271 licenses. It is noted, however, that the figures will show a falling off of 178.

One of the reasons of the tardiness of the oystermen is that so many persons are engaged in other trades which they are unable to leave for the season. It is also noted that the oystermen are not so plentiful in our waters as in former years and they are not so keen on the subject of licensing. It is hoped, later on, conditions will improve in the licensing line, and that the tongs will license about as usual.

Large Attendance Reported In All Sections. Many Buildings Are Overcrowded.

The colored schools of Wicomico county opened Monday with a normal attendance, and full teaching corps. Like some of the white schools, several of the colored schools are overcrowded and many pupils will have to go on half time. Every effort possible has been made by the Board of Education to rent additional quarters so as to accommodate all who attend, but suitable buildings could not be obtained.

In Salisbury the colored primary school has been housed in a building on Cemetery street, owned by Mr. Donald Graham, for several years, but recently this building has been sold to parties who want to use it for warehouse purposes. How soon the new purchasers will want to occupy it no one knows. The Board of Education is endeavoring to hold the building at least until the close of the school year.

It is believed that the building will be held until the close of the school year.

Incident For Hunting Out Of Season

Each On Men Who Hunted During Closed Season.

Arthur Bassett, Robert Collins, William Mulligan and Howard English, county and men resident of Rhode Island, Dorchester county, were convicted in the Federal court and fined $50 each and costs, for hunting wild fowls during closed season. This violation occurred on the north fork of the Nantuxet river, in Dorchester county, on February 19, 1920.

W. T. Collins, District Game Warden of Maryland, and Miss S. B. Knight, U. S. Deputy Game Warden, made the arrest.

Under the Migratory Bird Treaty Act the wild fowl season closes January 31st, and sportsmen should be very careful; not violate the law by hunting wild fowl either before the open season which is November 1st, or after January 31st, which is the close of said season.

The case was tried in the Circuit Court for Wicomico county, at Salisbury, last week.

George Russell, the driver of the truck at the time of the accident, says he will also bring suit for injuries received.

THE MAN-ABOUT-TOWN.

Scraps He Picks Up Here, There And Everywhere.

Slowly but surely the ranks of the Civil War veterans on the Shore are thinning out, and the annual reunions show depletions in the ranks, as the old veterans are answering the last call.

Last Thursday the surviving Union veterans on the Eastern Shore held a reunion at Federalsburg. The number is said to be about 80, of whom 30 were in the First Eastern Shore Regiment from the lower counties. Four companies were from Caroline county. The regiment has only three surviving officers—Col. James Clayland Mullikin, of Easton; Capt. John E. Rastall, of Washington, and Lieut. John E. Mowbray, of Philadelphia. The original association was expanded a few years ago to take in the survivors of the Second Regiment from the upper counties, Smith's Independent Cavalry from Worcester, Snow's Battery of the Purnell Legion from Cecil and two companies of infantry of the Legion from Wicomico county.

Captain Rastall was adjutant of the First Regiment. He was sent by General Dix from Fort McHenry at the beginning of the war to the Eastern Shore to assist in recruiting an Eastern Shore command. He made his headquarters at Potter's Landing, where Col. Arthur John Willis formed the nucleus of the First Regiment. An officer of Company F was Second Lieut. Robert J. W. Garey, the father of Major Enoch B. Garey, now professor of military science at Johns Hopkins University. Colonel Mullikin was an officer of the only company raised from Talbot county—Company H. The regiment was in Lockwood's brigade at Gettysburg, its colonel being James Wallace, of Cambridge. Two companies, A of Dorchester, and K, of Somerset, had been discharged before the battle. A refused to cross into the Eastern Shore of Virginia at the time of the "Accomac insurrection" and was "discharged without honor," although the certificates were supposed at the time to be in the ordinary form. The discharges of Company A and an Ohio command in which Senator Foraker was an officer were the Civil War "precedents" Roosevelt used in the Brownville case. Company K would not march to Gettysburg. It relied upon its understanding of the old Home Guard oath that the Home Guard was not to serve outside the limits of the State. From both company organizations, however, individuals fought gallantly at Culp's Hill.

The Old Manokin church, Princess Anne, Maryland, with a history reaching back at least to 1672, continues to prosper under the leadership of Rev. William L. Freund. The old charter of the church adopted in 1830 was recently amended, and the corporate name of the church changed from "The Committee of the Presbyterian Church at Manokin, in Somerset County," to "The Committee of the Manokin Presbyterian Church at Princess Anne, Maryland." The incorporators in 1930 were Samuel Kerr, William Stewart, Robert Patterson, George Handy, Henry P. C. Wilson, William W. Handy and John C. Wilson. They were all prominent men of their day. The successors named in the amended charter of 1920 are Wilmer O. Lankford, Joshua W. Miles, Z. James Dougherty, Chas. W. Wainwright, E. Herrman Cohn, Columbus Lankford, Robert F. Maddox, Earle B. Polk and H. Fillmore Lankford. The church has a membership of nearly 200. H. Herrman Cohn was recently elected an elder, making the number five. His father, Rudolph S. Cohn, was the superintendent of the school and the leading elder at the time of his death in 1909. The old church, the present building of which was erected in 1765, is located on the Maryland State road, on the northern outskirts of Princess Anne, and occupies the site of one or more preceding church buildings. It is a matter of record that a church standing on this spot in 1747 was at that time old enough to be greatly in need of repairs.

The Washington Post in a recent issue printed an article which impressed me wonderfully and I believe a gist of the article will be read with interest by The News' readers. The article was dealing with the reason why so many young people, male and female, are leaving the rural districts. The Post says:

"It is not the young men alone, but also the girls, who are deserting the rural districts. In fact, the figure for the girls are higher than those for the boys. Of course, there is a reason, and it is revealed in a survey of 10,000 farm homes in 31 States of the North and West recently completed by the Department of Agriculture. In the cases under review the working day of the average farmhouse woman is 11.3 hours the year round, while in summer it is 13.12 hours, and 8.7 per cent have no regular vacation during the year. Only 14 per cent of the women interviewed report hired domestic help, and that for only about three and a half months each year. Yet 94 per cent make part or all of the family bread; 60 per cent churn their own butter; 96 per cent do the family washing, 43 per cent having washing machines and only 32 per cent having running water in their homes, and 92 per cent do all the family sewing and look after the other needs of the family and of the house. In addition 24 per cent of the women assist in the field work; 25 per cent help to feed and bed the live stock; 36 per cent assist in the milking; 80 per cent include milk pails in their dishwashing; 57 per cent wash their separators; 81 per cent look after the poultry, and 56 per cent weed, hoe and tend the vegetable and flower gardens."

Is it any wonder, then, that so many young people are tiring of the drudgery of farm life, and are seeking the lighter work and shorter hours in the cities?

The 28th annual report of the Maryland State Board of Labor and Statistics just published contains interesting facts, chief among which is a statement which seems to indicate that the employment of child labor in the state is on the decrease because of a lack of desire on the part of the children to find employment.

During the year 1919, 17,762 children applied for working permits. This is a decrease of 24 per cent over 1918 when the applicants numbered 23,350. Of the 17,762 applicants in 1919, 14,997 were made by Baltimore children and 2,765 by children living in the counties.

Another striking portion of the report shows that of 19,696 children between the ages of 14 and 16 years examined, more than 25 per cent could not write their names legibly. Nearly 10 per cent had never gone beyond the first primary grade in school, more than 50 per cent left school at the fourth grade or lower, and only about 3 per cent were in the eighth grade. Of the entire 19,696, only 100 had entered high school. Each of the children with the exception of 21, is an American native.

The same report also shows that there are in the United States 8,500,000 people who cannot read or write English and of these, 5,000,000 are native born.

Maryland's showing in this respect is favorable when compared with other states of similar population. Massachusetts, for instance, one of the country's seats of education, has 314,315 illiterate and non-English speaking aliens. Connecticut has 117,902 and Maryland 97,997.

Dr. Charles R. Truitt, Health Officer for Wicomico county, has made a personal inspection of the Wicomico county jail during the past few days, and reports that he found the conditions remarkably cleanly. Dr. Truitt, in conversation with a NEWS reporter, paid a high compliment to Sheriff Larmore and his good wife for the special care they are exercising over the jail. Dr. Truitt said:

"I hereby certify that I have been physician to Wicomico county jail for over 15 years and I am frank to say to my personal knowledge that no more sanitary conditions ever existed than under the supervision of Sheriff W. W. Larmore. He has supplied every cell with metal steads, new mattresses and new covers. The floors are scrubbed week after week and the walls and woodwork have had two coats of paint."

Messrs. Tilghman Lime & Supply Co.,

Gentlemen:—
Regarding the soil testing campaign for acidity, or in other words whether lime was needed or not, I find the following results:
Of the 81 samples that this office has tested to date, 77 farms needed lime.

To date, the Maryland Agricultural College has tested 1,100 samples of soil, and found that 74% needed lime, and practically all of the samples showing no acidity came from fields that have been limed during the past two or three years.

I believe that the proper use of lime will correct many of our ills. Very truly yours,

THEODORE W. DAVIS

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE

THRU DEMOCRATIC GLASSES.

In an address of welcome to President Wilson upon his return from the Peace Congress at Versailles, Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts now the Republican candidate for Vice-President, said: "We welcome him as the representative of a great people, as a great statesman; as one to whom we can assure our support in the working out of our future destiny."

"America first" is Senator Harding's slogan, and it will not be challenged, because it is the slogan of the entire country. But the slogan of the Republican National Committee is: "Boys, Get the Money!"

Elihu Root is at home again, after aiding prominently in establishing the International Court of Justice to be operated under the League of Nations. It would be interesting to know what Mr. Root thinks—no matter what he may say—about Harding's "scrapping" of the League, according to Senator Johnson.

In view of the absolute refusal of the Republican Congress, after a session of more than a year, to take any steps toward the reduction, or even modification, of the onerous Federal taxation made necessary by our participation in the World War, the declaration of the Republican national platform about an early accomplishment of a "real reduction of the tax burden," must be taken as mere empty prattle designed to attract the votes of the unthinking.

No harassed citizen who is restless under misapprehensive and now unnecessary war taxes can hope for any relief by a continuation in power of this do-nothing Republican Congress, which has so conspicuously displayed its inability. And should this Republican Congress be continued in power, with its purchased majority of two in the Senate increased to a larger margin, there would be absolutely no prospect of a reduction of taxation for war purposes.

The election of a Republican administration, with a Republican Congress, would mean the "scrapping" of the League of Nations, as Senator Johnson said Senator Harding already had done in his speeches and with our country would be committed to the policy of armed force to maintain its standing among the other nations of the world. Instead of being arrayed with them in peace and unity, it would stand almost alone with Turkey, Bulgaria, Russia and Mexico as its only associates outside of the great international compact that means peace among all nations instead of war.

Holding such a position, it would be necessary for our country to continue indefinitely on a war basis—with a large standing army ready at any time to respond to a call for action, and a large navy continually on a war footing—with the enormous expense that such a situation would impose upon the people. There could be no evasion of this result, and instead of a material reduction of the present excessive war taxation, it would be continued in full force indefinitely.

THRU REPUBLICAN GLASSES.

The attention of every voter should be given closely to the announcement from Washington that a continuation of war taxation at its present rate may be expected for three or even four years more "unless a changed Administration brings a decided change in idea and methods of national financing."

In the spring of 1912 Col. Henry Waterson said of Woodrow Wilson: "His nomination would be a catastrophe and his election a calamity." The catastrophe happened, and the calamity continues. For eight years the general management of the United States has been disastrously incompetent. The Administration has been Democratic from top to bottom.

Mr. Cox's campaign for the Presidency is a plea to be permitted to continue the calamity that Colonel Waterson foresaw. Mr. Cox asks for permission to take up the work of disorganization when Mr. Wilson shall lay it down. In not a single speech has Mr. Cox advanced any plan for reorganization or reconstruction. He answers proved charges of mismanagement by suggesting further mismanagement of the same sort. The calamity that Colonel Waterson predicted will be prolonged by the election of Mr. Cox and the continuation of the Wilson policies. So the voters propose to end it by their ballots. This is the campaign up to date.

Senator Harding's Baltimore address throughout was redolent of confidence that he would be elected. Instead of saying "If I am elected," he several times said "When I am elected," and indeed he specifically declared that he was confident of election.

Senator Harding scored again when he referred to the President's declining to negotiate the shipping treaties. "If I were president of the United States, as I expect to be, I'd call Congress together and I'd tell them why I could not carry out the provisions of the law," he proclaimed. "America is too big, too generous, too righteous to have our trade policy fixed by any people in all the world," he continued, and applause broke forth.

The National Battle Now Approaches Intensive Stage; Great Advertising Campaign

The Presidential campaign is well under way and will soon be at its most intensive stage. The advertising campaign is being conducted on a scale never before known in our history. The amount of money being spent is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $100,000,000.

That some of the "facilities" being utilized by the Democratic management in the advertising campaign are being secured from the Government is a fact which has been widely known. It is not until the recent campaign in which the Government has been so generous in its aid that the full extent of the "facilities" has been made known.

What Is Life Insurance?

Life Insurance Is, In Reality, No More Nor Less Than:

1. A home for the family.
2. An education for the children.
3. A comfortable and carefree old age.
4. A stabilizer of business.
5. A savings fund that can be drawn on in case of emergency.

Picture a community where every family owned its own home and every child got an education—where every old person was financially independent and every business was on a sound and stable basis—and finally where everyone had a nest egg laid aside for emergencies, and you will have an idea of the kind of a community we are trying to make of Wicomico County.

Sidelights On First Day's Registration In Wicomico; Many Amusing Instances

Many amusing instances occurred in some of the registration offices of Wicomico county, especially on the first day, when the women voters made such a rush to enroll their names on the books.

In Parsons District a News reporter noted several amusing instances. Three lady friends who came together from a remote part of the town had been standing in line nearly one hour and a half, when one, more tired perhaps than the other, suggested that they retire from the line and come some other day. The other two objected seriously remarking: "Not much, we have come to do this work today and we are going to stay until we are registered, if it takes till 9 o'clock, the closing hour." And they did, finally retiring from the election house almost worn out, but proud of their enrollment as legal voters in Maryland.

The women were not at all backward about giving their ages, old and young answering the question without hesitation; they did not take refuge behind the question "21 or over?" but gave their exact ages. One lady in Parsons District, in answer to the judge called loudly "74 years." She was such a well-preserved lady that she would easily have passed for 55.

A colored woman in Parsons District, who gave her age as 70 years, was asked which party she desired to affiliate with. Her prompt reply was "Democratic." As she was the only colored woman in Old Parsons who had thus affiliated during the entire day, the Republican registration judge was a little skeptical and asked her the question over again. The old colored woman, however, answered again that she knew what she was doing; that she was a Democrat and proposed to vote that ticket on election day. This old colored woman will be in such a minority among the female voters of Parsons on election day that she will be completely snowed under.

In the same district a colored woman, in answer to the question as to the party with which she desired to affiliate, said she was "a Baptist." This reply brought forth much merriment.

Hundreds of similar instances occurred in all parts of the county; but, you know it was not to be expected that the women could learn "all the game" in one day. They have done nobly—bless their souls—and you bet they will be posted before election day.

HOSE WOULD BRIDGE ATLANTIC OCEAN

Statistics Show Remarkable Use Made Of Rubber. Railroads Could Not Do Without It.

If all the air-brake, signal and heating hose in use on the 2,570,000 railroad coaches, Pullman and freight cars now in operation in the United States were stretched in a single line, it would reach 3,770 miles—enough to bridge the distance across the Atlantic from New York to Gibraltar.

Amazing figures just compiled by hose experts are enlightening to the public as how essential rubber in its various forms is to the successful and safe operation of railroad trains.

There are six pieces of rubber hose connecting every passenger or Pullman coach, two 22-inch lengths of air brake hose, two similar lengths of signal hose and two 24-inch lengths of steam heating hose. The first allows simultaneous application of the air brakes on every coach, the second permits instant signaling from any part of the train, while the third carries exhaust steam from the engine boiler for heating purposes.

Latest available figures show that 2,500,000 freight cars are rolling in the country; 60,000 passenger coaches, and 10,000 sleeping Pullman cars. This is a total of 2,750,000 cars equipped with two pieces of 22-inch air-brake hose, making a total of 5,500,000 lengths. Hose is replaced every six months because of severe usage, which would make a total of 33,000,000 lengths or 228,000,000 miles of rubber hose used for an average alone.

Each of the 70,000 passenger Pullman coaches there are two lengths of signal hose and heating hose. Figuring four lengths to the coach, it would require 200 miles of such hose as America's annual requirements.

Modern railroad coaches are equipped with electric lights and storage batteries. They are recharged by means of a dynamo beneath the car operated by a rubberized fabric belt connected with one axle of the truck. This belt is 10 feet long. The average life of such a belt is 25,000 miles, but replacements are frequent because of no protection from snow and ice. Figuring one 10-foot belt to the 70,000 coaches in use, about 135,000 miles of belting is used for train lighting alone as original equipment.

Rubber is put to other uses on trains—as tender hose, squirt hose, cylinder head and air pump packing, gauge glass gaskets, rubber flooring, connecting curtains between coaches and window shades.

EASTON BANK CELEBRATES ITS 115TH ANNIVERSARY

The Easton National Bank this week celebrated its 115th anniversary. It was established in 1805 as a branch of the Farmers' Bank of Annapolis. In 1857 it assumed an independent status and has been conducted as such ever since. In 1865 it surrendered its State charter for a national one and then assumed its present name. To celebrate its 115th anniversary it showed resources of two and a half millions, the largest of any other Eastern Shore bank.

Mr. H. W. Carty was in Easton on business last week.

SIX NEGROES BRING SUIT AGAINST SHERIFF

Demand Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars Each For Arrest In The Fountain Case.

The celebrated Fountain case, which caused so much commotion in Talbot county and which cost the county several thousand dollars before he was tried, convicted and finally hanged, bobs up again in a suit docketed in the city court of Baltimore city last week.

Six negroes, arrested and taken to Easton jail after the escape of Isaiah Fountain, colored, from that prison last June instituted suits for $25,000 each last Thursday against Sheriff Charles M. T. Soulsby, of Talbot county. Fountain was under sentence of death when he escaped and other arrests were made in the hope of obtaining information as to his whereabouts.

Those who brought suit are Fountain's mother and two brothers, Fannie, George and William Fountain; Annie May Ross, Eliza Slaughter and Isabella Brooks. All allege they were assaulted in their homes and made to spend "a black night of fear." Two of the women allege they were suspended by ropes in the jail and were swung to and fro like the pendulum of a clock; and George Fountain says he lost 66 turkeys. Most of them say they were kept in jail 10 days, although none had committed any offense. G. L. Pendleton, colored, is their attorney.

The suits are against the Sheriff and Fidelity and Deposit Company, his bonds.

CECIL ROAD BONDS FIND NO PURCHASERS

Lot of $100,000 At Five Per Cent Not Attractive To Bidders. Rate Too Low.

The County Commissioners of Cecil county in session Thursday were unable to sell $100,000 worth of bonds for the permanent improvement of the roads and highways of Cecil county, owing to lack of bidders.

The bonds are dated as of July 1, 1920, and are to bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum and are in two series.

The bonds are exempt from all taxation for State, county, municipal and county school purposes, but owing to the rate of interest, and the fact that they could not be sold below par, Baltimore bankers, who have in the past purchased the county bonds, refused to submit a bid.

Unless some provision is made to dispose of the bonds, the work of improving the county roads of Cecil will have to wait.

The next county to offer bonds for road improvement will be Calvert county, in Southern Maryland. After conferring with a delegation of citizens of Chesapeake Beach and North Beach on Tuesday, the County Commissioners of Calvert county, decided to issue bonds to the amount of $11,400, the county's part, to build jointly with the State Roads Commission the first lateral road under State supervision. The entire cost of the road building will be approximately $50,000. This being a much smaller loan than that of Cecil county will, it is believed, be disposed of at par.

"PUT THE CONVENTION ACROSS" KEYNOTE OF CHAMBER MEETING

2300 DELEGATES TO BE APPOINTED

Governors of Maryland and Delaware Among Group of Prominent Speakers on Program. Phases of Farming and Marketing That Will Interest Growers in Every Line.

The keynote sounded at the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was "putting across the Agriculture Convention." The various committees that have been working on publicity, entertainment, finances and decorations reported progress.

In detail the finance committee stated that they had secured a little more than $1,500 and that their efforts were still directed toward raising the full amount necessary for the entertainment of the convention visitors.

That the convention is purely something for the Chamber of Commerce seems to be the opinion in some circles. Nothing could, however, be further from the truth.

Dr. Symons made a brief talk and suggested a number of things that the Chamber will act upon. The Governor has appointed 2,300 delegates to the Salisbury meeting, a fact which alone indicates the vast throng that will be here.

Arrangements have been made by the B. C. & A. Railway to run special trains, and the ferries from Baltimore and Annapolis will be ready to care for the increased traffic.

Separate meetings will be held at daily sessions for the Maryland State Horticultural Association, Maryland Crop Improvement Association, Maryland State Dairymen's Association, Beekeepers' Association, Vegetable Growers' Association, Sheep Growers' Association and the County Farmers' Federation.

Business Conditions Essentially Sound

Bankers Confident That Business Conditions Will Continue Prosperous. No Reason To Be Depressed.

Many people are depressed over the business situation. They read about scarce labor, insufficient transportation, high prices and think the country is on the verge of some great depression.

Yet trained business observers, the fellows who analyze a business situation the way a crop expert analyzes growing grain, seem to be well impressed by existing conditions.

BIG CRASH IN THE COURT HOUSE TOWER

Cable of Town Clock Parts and Lets Massive Steel Weight Fall. Fifty Feet.

A terrific crash occurred in the court house tower Monday morning shortly after nine o'clock, which was heard hundreds of yards distant and caused consternation to the officials and clerks in the several offices, many of whom rushed from the building.

Luckily no one was injured, but had it occurred a few minutes later Janitor James White might have been caught in the wreckage, as he intended to go up into the tower on some errand.

A similar accident occurred in 1912, when the same cable parted and tore its way down to the first floor, crashing in the top of the fire-proof vault in the Register of Wills office.

DREAM FOR "Y" MAY BE REALIZED

Rotary Club Makes Plans To Secure Recreation and Meeting Place For Youth of City.

The Rotary Club is planning to have the S. Y. M. A. taken over by the national Y. M. C. A., according to proposals made at the last regular meeting. Committees have not yet been named to take up the matter but in a few days it is expected they will be appointed and will take up with the directors of the building some proposition for furthering their plan.

Four thousand dollars will be needed yearly to cover the cost of operating. Public subscription will necessarily have to defray part of this expense, as enough revenue cannot be raised from membership dues alone.

The S. Y. M. A. was opened about two years ago and was run for nearly a year. Owing to the lack of public support, however, and the expense of maintaining the building, a deficit of $1,000 was created. This was paid by the directors and the building was closed.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL DIRECTOR APPOINTED

Miss Minnie Adkins, of This City, Announced As Director For Wicomico County.

Miss Minnie Adkins, of Salisbury, has been appointed director of the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call for Wicomico county. This announcement was made by Potomac Division headquarters, yesterday, who stated that more than 75 per cent of the Red Cross Chapters in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia had completed their organization for this annual event.

Volunteer workers are urgently needed to make the roll call a success in this county and all those who desire to solicit memberships should communicate with Miss Adkins, who will furnish them with supplies and credentials.

With its peace time program fully completed the great relief organization, which has more members than all the combined welfare agencies in (Continued on Page 8.)

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS HOLD BUSY SESSION

Number of Delegations Are Received and Important Matters Are Settled By The Board.

The County Commissioners were in session Tuesday and transacted the following business:

Oscar L. Morris was before the board asking for the privilege of placing a sign on the court house yard for the benefit of the hospital drive. The request was granted.

A delegation was before the board asking for shells for the Wicomico Lane road. On account of the inability to secure shells, the board deferred action on same.

The board agreed to issue county script to the school board for salaries of teachers whenever the cash was not available to meet each monthly pay roll by the 9th or 10th of each month.

The board instructed the Board of Education to close a lease with Feldman Brothers for three years for building on Railroad avenue used as a public school. The rental will be $900 a year.

Treasurer Harry Dennis submitted to the board his quarterly statement, ending September 30, which was approved and ordered spread upon the minutes. The following resolution was ordered spread upon the minutes:

"Whereas, the county treasurer's quarterly report, as presented for our consideration October 12, 1920, is so complete, satisfactory and detailed and makes such a showing of indefatigable effort toward adjustment and collection of the considerable number of old claims for taxes and showing that these taxes are being rapidly closed up, the board wishes to express its appreciation and thanks to the treasurer, complimenting him upon the good showing made by the report."

DELMAR SETS PACE IN HOSPITAL DRIVE

Twenty-Nine People Subscribe $2,025 At Big Mass Meeting. Workers Confident of Success.

Delmar has beat 'em to it—stolen a march on the other sections which will co-operate in the big campaign to raise $200,000 for the new building for Peninsula General Hospital.

After presentation of the reasons why the hospital must be enlarged, and the plans for the campaign by Messrs. Fred P. Adkins, Herbert Riffe and the Campaign Manager, an effort was made to have a big union service in the Delmar church. There was not time to arrange for the union service, however, but it was decided to turn the evening service of the Methodist church into a Hospital Campaign meeting. Herbert Riffe agreed to return to Delmar for the evening and address the meeting. (Continued on Page 8.)

Cost Of Education Was $32 Per Pupil In County

Report For The School Year Ending July 31st, 1920, Shows An Increase Of $10 As Compared With The Previous Year. Schools Cost $210,254.90.

The Board of Education last week reviewed the statement of expenses of the Wicomico schools for the year ending July 31, 1920.

It shows that the cost of educating each pupil of the county was $32.00 or about $11.00 more than the preceding year. The chief increase in cost was due to increase in teachers' salaries.

The total receipts for the year were $210,254.90. From the various sources the money was received as follows: From State school tax, $32,886.30; High School aid, $5,300; free book fund, $3,936.68; salaries, $2,350; colored industrial fund, $1,500; approved High Schools, third group, $1,521.60; materials of instruction, $1,312.20; State free school fund, $535.77; special appropriation from comptroller, $70.39; appropriation for vocational work, $240; making a total received from the State of $49,432.94.

Receipts from Wicomico county were: Balance 1918-19 levy, $5,190.05; amount of levy 1919-20, $133,000.00; account Delmar school, $10,103.75; total, $148,293.80. Other sources from Wicomico county, $1,728.28; miscellaneous, $521.63.

The disbursements include the following items: General control, $6,393.17; instructional service (teachers' salaries, $110,262.19), $113,148.68; text books, $5,030.61; materials of instruction, $2,288.56; other costs of instruction, $231.30; operation of school plant, (fuel, janitors, etc.), $11,945.74; maintenance of school plant, $8,100.53; auxiliary agencies, $3,166.81; fixed charges, $903.61; loans and interest, $1,005.15; new buildings and equipment, $51,949.03; alterations to old buildings, $2,852.23; equipment of old buildings, $3,168.39; total disbursements, $210,254.90.

The report has been audited by Public Accountant Elmer L. Hatter and found to be correct in every way. The board has given it a very careful scrutiny and will have it published in the near future.

The report shows that on July 31, 1920, the Board had outstanding notes and accrued interest, (being old deficits of several former years), amounting to $18,094.26, which the County Commissioners are arranging to pay off in 1921-22, or sooner.

WICOMICO FARMERS ASSOCIATION IS NOW AN ASSURED FACT

Alleged Auto Thief Apprehended Here

Supposed Confederate of Alvin Campbell Is Caught in South Salisbury. Local Police Were Watching.

Clarence Shockley, alleged confederate of Alvin Campbell, who was arrested here recently, was apprehended by officers Williams and Dennis at the house of a friend in South Salisbury this week and lodged in the county jail to await advice from Pennsylvania authorities by whom he is wanted on a charge of automobile theft.

The local police have been on the watch for Shockley for several days, having received a wire from Chester, Pa., that he was working his way down into Maryland. Campbell, it is said, escaped from the House of Correction, stole a car, and made his way to Delaware. The car was traded for a horse and buggy which carried him to Laurel. Here he was arrested for the theft of a bicycle and a watch, but broke jail and was later caught in Pocomoke City by Sheriff Larmore. He was returned to the House of Correction.

FELDMAN BROTHERS BUY LARGE WAREHOUSE

Take Over Large Building on Railroad Avenue Now Used As Colored School.

The large warehouse on Railroad avenue which has been housing the colored school of Salisbury for several years, was purchased this week by Feldman Brothers from Donald Graham. This building was reported sold to Cooper Disharoon some weeks ago, but it is now understood that Mr. Disharoon had only an option on it, which he had expired without purchase.

The reported considerations for these properties were as follows: The Graham warehouse, $15,000; the Star warehouse, $5,500.

Feldman Brothers have also been leasing from Mr. Graham a large three-story warehouse on Railroad avenue, not far from the colored school.

Mr. S. S. Feldman was before the Board of Education last Tuesday morning to inquire if the board wished to continue renting the Railroad avenue warehouse for the colored schools. He stated that his firm would sign a three or five year lease with the board, the rental to be $900 per year. Mr. Graham had been charging a rental of $600 per year, but it was understood that after the close of the present school year, July 31, 1921, there would be a substantial increase in the rent. After consulting with the County Commissioners, the Board of Education instructed Supt. Bennett to close a lease with Feldman Brothers for two years, with the privilege of three years more. The Commissioners agreed to levy the money next year to meet the increased rental.

Meeting At Court House Saturday Representative Of Progressive Element

WILL GUARANTEE PAY FOR PRODUCE

Hope To Get Started In Time To Handle Sweet Potato Crop. Means Will Be Taken To Keep Irresponsible Buyers From Operating At Auction Block.

The Wicomico Farmers Association is an assured fact. At the second meeting of the organization held at the Court House Saturday afternoon, final plans were drawn up and will be put into effect immediately. It is the hope of those who started the movement that work has begun in time to handle the sweet potato crop, the market for which threatens to fall to pieces.

Prior to the meeting, a number of trucks decorated with signs and carrying speakers and the Mardela Concert Band toured the county in an effort to bring out a crowd. While the gathering at the Court House was not record-breaking, it was fairly large and was truly representative.

County Agent Cobb, who had been elected temporary chairman, called the meeting to order and gave a detailed report of the work done by the committee on constitution and by-laws, which will be drawn up somewhat in the manner of those of the Eastern Shore of Virginia Produce Exchange.

Main features of the constitution are that shares shall sell for $5.00 and no one person shall be allowed to buy more than twenty. Only owners of farm lands, or persons actually engaged in farming, will be permitted to become stock holders. This provision makes certain the fact that the control of the association will rest with the farmers, and at the same time its success will, in large measure, be dependent on them.

The management will consist of a Board of Directors, President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, General Manager, General Inspector, and assistants. Mr. Cobb has already had several unsolicited applications for the post of general manager from men who have seen accounts of the organization in the papers, but no action has yet been taken in regard to them. The Board of Directors will be composed of one director from each shipping point in the county.

Twenty or more stockholders at any one shipping point may apply for and obtain a local division, with governing board. About 60 men have already subscribed for, or promised to take, stock in the organization. Those present Saturday elected the following temporary directors to act until final organization is completed: W. C. Mitchell, W. F. Allen, Charles E. Tilghman, Carl Smith, F. H. Wasley, L. H. Wakeman and H. G. Reifenbach.

The association will adopt one or more brands which will be placed on products coming up to the standard set. No produce below that standard will be handled by the organization. Guarantees to the farmer that he shall receive the money due him for sales made is the outstanding feature of the constitution. All members of the association, unless given specific authority to do otherwise, must ship through the organization. In this case, the association guarantees that they will be paid. Steps will be taken to keep irresponsible buyers from bidding at the auction blocks established at shipping points. It is probable that trustworthy buyers will give bond, or will place a certain sum in the local banks; those who cannot, or who are not trustworthy, will be listed publicly. The farmer will then sell to them on his own responsibility.

Provisions have been made to take in colored farmers so that the association may embrace every farmer in the county, and it is quite likely that it may extend to adjoining counties and states. Legal talent has been employed to aid in drawing up the organic law and in obtaining the charter.

THE BALLOT FOR THE ELECTION WILL BE LARGE

Will Require At Least Nine Marks For A Complete Ballot.
12 CROSS MARKS CAN BE MADE

Two Proposed Amendments To The State Constitution To Be Voted On Beside Candidates. Ballot Will Be One of Largest Ever Known In a Presidential Election.

The official ballot to be voted in Wicomico county at the coming election will be one of the largest ever seen here at a Presidential election.

There will be five sets of Presidential electors on the ticket, an unusual big list. The Democrats will have one, the Republicans one, the Debs Socialist ticket one, the William W. Cox Labor ticket one and the Farmer-Labor party, whose Presidential candidate is Parley P. Christenson, one.

In addition to these names, there will be the names of four candidates for United States Senator—John Walter Smith, Democrat; O. E. Weller, Republican; George D. Iverson, Jr., People's Party, and W. Ashbie Hawkins, Independent Republican.

There will also be two Constitutional Amendments to be voted upon and one member for Congress. These will no doubt make a ballot nearly, if not equal, in size to one page of the Wicomico News. This will no doubt frighten a great many voters, especially the women voters, who have had no experience in marking ballots.

But a careful study of the ballot will remove some of the fear of spoiling the ballot and make it quite simple to any intelligent mind. The things to be remembered are:

Each of the five groups on the ballot will contain the names of the President and Vice-President and also the names of eight electors for President and Vice-President. If the voter wishes to mark each one of the eight Presidential electors of the party favored by him or if he wants to split his ballot on the electors he must make an X mark opposite each name he wishes to vote for, being careful not to make but eight cross marks for the electors.

The voter who wants to vote solidly for Cox and Roosevelt, or Harding and Coolidge, or any of the other Presidential candidates may place an X mark opposite the name of the candidate he favors, and that will carry the whole group of electors, but if he votes separately for electors he does not mark opposite the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates.

In addition to these two or eight marks as the case may be, the voter will still have to make his cross mark opposite the name of the United States Senator and the candidate for Congress for whom he or she wishes to vote. And before he or she finishes marking the ticket there will be two Constitutional Amendments to be voted upon, as the voter may elect. These two amendments are usually printed in the last column and at the bottom of the ballot.

One of the proposed amendments to the State Constitution would raise the salaries of the clerks of the courts in Baltimore city from $3,500 to $4,500. The other would give members of the Legislature $300 a year in addition to the regular per diem of $5 when the Legislature is in session. At present the members are paid approximately $450 every two years. If the amendment carries they will be paid $600 additional for each two years, plus mileage.

Thousands of voters who are afraid of spoiling their ballots will no doubt pay no attention to these amendments, for the past elections have disclosed that hundreds of ballots, correctly marked as to candidates, have been rejected in the count by having been improperly marked as to the amendments.

Grip.

Grip usually starts just the same as a cold with a watery discharge from the nose. You are much more likely to contract the grip when you have a cold. For that reason when grip is prevalent you should go to bed as soon as you feel that you are taking a cold and stay in bed until you are well. When you should be taking a cold, you should be taking a cold. These days in bed now a better than three weeks after it.

ROAD BUILDING IS VERY EXPENSIVE

Four Bids Made on Claiborne Road and Price Runs As High as $42,000 Per Mile.

No wonder the counties on the Eastern Shore cannot build concrete roads when the lowest bids ran from $15,000 to $41,000 per mile. The State Roads Commission on Tuesday opened bids for the construction of three miles of concrete road on the Claiborne-Eboston turnpike. The bids are all high, indeed, that the commission has reserved its award in the matter.

According to the estimates submitted the lowest cost per mile is over $38,000, the highest rate known for several years. The lowest was from Dianto & Sharpless, of West Virginia, at $116,401.50. The next was by Farmer & Flick, of Baltimore. Their bid was for $116,878, just $475.50 higher than the lowest bid.

The Griffith Company, of Baltimore, bid $126,697.90 and the Peninsula Construction Company, of Salisbury, $127,980.50.

Big Fish Catch On Chincoteague

Four Steamers of Seaboard Fish Oil and Guano Co. Set New Record.

The four steamers of the Seaboard Fish Oil and Guano Co., Chincoteague, Va., made the largest catch in the history of that company last week, when in one week's time they brought in 7,000,000 fish. The largest catch of the week was made Thursday night when they caught 2,002,000. This has been a very successful fishing season for the factory and it is reported that they have 5,000 barrels of oil lying on the beach ready for shipment.

The sea fishermen have been making good catches also. The largest spots ever seen there are being caught in large numbers. In some instances it is taking only 131 to 133 to fill a bushel basket. Some large trout are being caught and are selling for $30 per barrel.

Mrs. J. W. Keene, of Salisbury, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Taylor, and her sister, Mrs. J. W. Taylor, 2400 Roslyn avenue, Waldbrook. Mr. and Mrs. Lubin will leave again for a week's stay at White Sulphur Springs.

MARYLAND WILL GAIN ONE CONGRESSMAN

Political Effect of The Census Report Is Shown To Be Considerable. Fifty New Seats Added.

Under the new assessment and the new basis of apportionment to be fixed by the next Congress, Maryland will likely gain one more Congressman, giving the State seven members of the House, instead of six, as at present. Not only will it give one more member of the House, but will increase the State's vote in the electoral college by one vote and also a gain in the conventions of the big political parties.

Examination of the final census figures of the country, which place the total population of the continental United States at 105,683,108, indicates that the West and the South proportionately will gain more in a political way than the East and Middle West through increased membership in the House of Representatives, more votes in the electoral college and in larger delegations to the national political conventions.

The result will obtain whatever basis of apportionment is adopted by Congress next winter.

As a result of the increase of 18,710,842 in population during the last ten years, 50 new seats must be added to the House to prevent any state from losing any part of its present representation. Should the present membership of 435 be left unchanged by increasing the basis of apportionment there will have to be a transfer of 13 seats now held by 12 states to nine other states.

For the last half century the precedent has been to increase the size of the House so as to prevent loss of existing representation by any state.

If this precedent is followed this year five additional representatives seats must be given to California; four each to New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan; three to Illinois and Texas; two to Massachusetts, New Jersey and North Carolina, and one each to Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Georgia, Maryland, Montana, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, Tennessee, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Virginia, Arkansas and Minnesota.

Congressional leaders are strongly opposed to any large increase in the House as they regard the present membership of 435 too unwieldy.

By holding the House membership to 435 gains would be distributed with three to California, two to Michigan and Ohio, and one each to Connecticut, New Jersey, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Texas and Washington. To effect these gains Missouri would be forced to lose two congressmen, while Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, Rhode Island, Vermont and Virginia would lose one each.

Annual Reunion Of The 115th Infantry

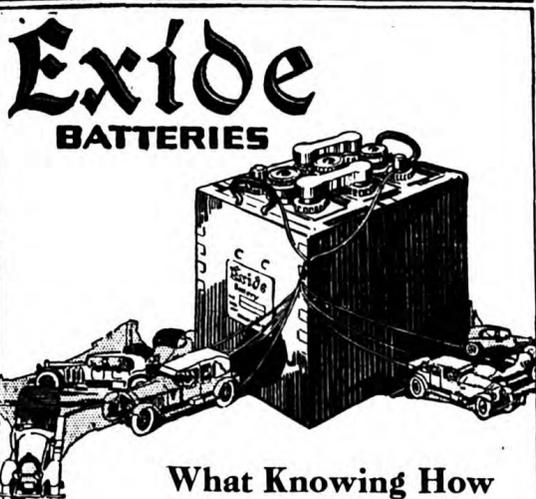

To Be Held At Hotel Rennert, Baltimore, On Anniversary of Relief In Argonne.

The second annual reunion of the 115th Infantry, Maryland's Own, will be held at the Rennert Hotel, Baltimore, on October 29th. The committee in charge of arrangements is making plans for the biggest time the outfit ever had, and is trying to have every member of the old organization notify the Adjutant General that he will be there. Reservations should be sent to room 410 Maryland Trust Building.

As soon as all reservations are made, notices of the program of events will be sent out. The date set for the gathering is the anniversary of the date on which the 115th Infantry was relieved in the Argonne Forest, and is therefore memorable. Salisbury will no doubt have a large representation of men seeking to renew old friendships with former comrades in arms.

FANCIES AND FACTS.

A lady speaker in Salisbury recently, after picturing Governor Cox as the original prohibitionist, said that if there had been the Wilson League of Nations in operation in July 1914, there would have been no world war.

The News cherishes the belief that the entrance of women into politics will ultimately bring more truth and sincerity into the campaigns of both parties. The News thinks, therefore, that this speaker is feeling the influence of the old time spell-binders rather than of the political millennium yet to come.

Bryan doesn't think Cox even a convert to prohibition. Murphy and Tammany Hall were sure of the man they were backing at San Francisco. What more need be said? Can the lady have forgotten the speeches of Cox himself in which he said that he favored the sale of light wines and beers, which every one knows is the one hope and aim of the liquor interests? The speaker, if she remembered, also did not refer to those editorials in the Cox newspapers which condoned the sinking of the Lusitania. How many women and children, many of them Americans, sisters in sweet humanity of the speaker, shrieked and shivered and slowly sank in the bitter waters of the Atlantic ocean that afternoon when they waited for the Lusitania and torpedoed her?

But the News is getting away from fancies to facts. Let's get back to fancies again and away from that awful fact that the Governor's paper condoned the drowning of American women and babies.

If there had been a League of Nations there wouldn't have been any war, so sayeth the prophets. There wasn't a League of Nations and there was a war. Therefore, if there had been a League of Nations, there wouldn't have been a war. Well The News has heard just such utter nonsense from men speakers. Why will not campaign orators give their audiences credit for at least half their own intelligence?

If Lord Grey towards the end of July, 1914, had told Kaiser Wilhelm that if you go one inch into Belgium, England will fight, many thinkers say that Germany would have hesitated. As it was Lord Grey hesitated and Germany did not, and Hell is the result. But who can say?

If Theodore Roosevelt had been president in 1914, and had said to Germany what Lord Grey did not, many thinkers say that Germany would have stopped. It is not improbable, William of Germany had an intimate and personal acquaintance with Theodore of America.

A threat of force will sometimes stop a man. It is said to be the only thing that will stop a man. Any excellent man stop war will work, when the nations really do not want to fight. When they do want to fight, which is another way of saying that when the issue is so vital that it is better to take a chance by war than to give up, then nothing will prevent war. Germany's Imperialism and Kultur were at stake in 1914, so she believed. It was a question of whether German autocracy should have a chance to expand. If the war had made the world safe for democracy, it was not fought in vain. Germany preferred to risk a war rather than to give up an idea. No League of Nations, no statesman could have prevented that war sooner or later.

But what is the issue of the League of Nations?

Shall we go in simply because Portugal and all the other 57 varieties have? The speaker would so imply and it is a frequent argument. No! Let these one hundred and five million of Americans decide that question for ourselves. Let's not have Spain and Greece decide for us.

If we enter the Wilson League, the Council of the League, sitting in Geneva or some other delightful European capital, can direct that the United States make war. If our Congress then declares war, we have carried out orders and emphasized the fact that our freedom of choice to make war or not, is gone. If our Congress should refuse to declare war, then we are guilty of bad faith to the other members of the League.

Isn't we able to recognize our obligations to the world on our own initiative? Is it possible that we would surrender that supreme right—the right to say when we will send our boys to the death—to any group of diplomats in the world?

The Harding idea which is also the Root idea is to tell the world that America will join any association or League for the general good but that she reserves the right to say always and eternally what her obligations are.

That is the essential difference between the Wilson League or the Cox League and the Harding and Root League. Isn't it so plain that a child can understand it? Don't let any lady or man speaker create the impression that Harding and Root and Hoover and the Republicans favor an America either isolated or selfish. No, they favor an America friendly with other nations just, fearless, ready to aid the weak or oppressed but always with the proud consciousness that she is making her own decisions rather than having them made for her.

A hundred and forty years ago the ancestors of the boys who went to France in 1917 won for us our independence of Great Britain—that is they won for us, their descendants, the right to be a self governing, self determining nation. Under that independence we have made the dream of those heroes who starved and froze at Valley Forge, of a mighty self respecting nation come true. In the name of all that is sacred, shall we cast away our independence into the mire of European diplomacy, the independence that our fathers won for us?

If you say yes, then vote for Cox. If you say no, then vote for Harding.

GUARANTEES AGAINST DISHONESTY.

Several farmers lost money at the Auction Block this season, because it was impossible to keep irresponsible buyers from operating. Suit was brought in some instances to obtain the money due, and last week in Princess Anne Justice Miles ruled in favor of the plaintiffs. A number of similar cases are pending in the Circuit Court of Somerset County.

Trials are expensive, worrying, and wearying. The busy farmer has no time to go to court to collect his just debts. Legal action to keep irresponsible men from bidding on produce at the public auction blocks seems impossible. Of course, honest buyers cannot compete with those who are not able, or may not intend, to pay their bills.

Even though honest men cannot compete, and dishonest men cannot be prevented from bidding, the farmer must dispose of his produce. How to do so might seem an insoluble problem were it not for the fact that it has already been solved.

The Wicomico Farmers Association, an accomplished fact, makes its main plea for recognition on the ground that it guarantees the farmer payment for all products shipped through it. What means will be taken to weed out those men who are unable to meet their obligations, is not known. Several methods have been suggested.

One proposal is that the buyers give up or place a certain sum of money in the local banks. Surely no honest man, who has resources enough to carry on a commission business, would object to that. Another plan is to list publicly those men who cannot furnish, or refuse to furnish, credit references. The farmer who has dealt with them would do so at his own risk.

Whatever the plan, the Association guarantees payment and in order to protect itself will certainly adopt effective measures. The only thing that concerns the farmer is that as a member of this Association he will be paid for his produce, and will have neither the fear of losing his money, nor the worry of waiting for his shipments to reach their destination, before being paid.

Unquestionably an organization which can guarantee so much is worthy of the support of every farmer in the county.

AN APATHETIC CAMPAIGN.

The most noticeable thing in this campaign—an issue that is causing much comment—is the marked apathy that seems to exist on all sides.

Such a condition is unusual in a presidential year, when there are so many issues of vital importance confronting the voters. This campaign, especially, has more in it than any other, in that it is a campaign for the future of the nation. It is a campaign that will soon be decided.

To the credit of the people of this county, it may be said that they are not apathetic. They are interested in the issue. They are interested in the issue of the future of the nation. They are interested in the issue of the future of the world. They are interested in the issue of the future of the human race. They are interested in the issue of the future of the planet earth. They are interested in the issue of the future of the universe.

Here in Maryland we have, in addition to the national campaign of overshadowing importance, one of the most significant intra-state fights that Maryland has ever known. This is the contest between Smith and Weller for the United States Senate, the importance of which to both parties is well understood. Added to all this is the enfranchisement of the women voters of the country, which in itself ought to be enough to arouse the keenest interest.

The all-important thing right now is registration. Up to the present time little has been done by the two old parties toward getting the women voters actively interested in this. Organization is absolutely necessary to accomplish this—both in the ranks of the men and of the women voters—and it is to be hoped that from now on activity will be shown and maintained at full pressure to the very close of the campaign.

You can't drive spikes with a tank hammer. Get a sledge and make your blows count. Concentrate your force and you'll accomplish results. Concentrate your advertising and you'll get returns.

To Maryland belongs the honor of having passed the first law dealing with drunkenness. It was effective in 1642 and provided a fine of 100 pounds of tobacco for those who departed from the paths of sobriety. Perhaps the judge was a smoking man.

Think of a pound of prunes on the high cost of living—consider the prune. In the days of the Civil War, prunes were packed like our most expensive bonbons today with fancy boxes, glass covers, and everything. And they sold for $1.75 a pound!

WICOMICO CO. HIGH SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

First Meeting Of The Association For The School Year Was Held Saturday

The Wicomico county High School Teachers' Association held its first meeting for the school year last Saturday morning in the Wicomico High School building. This is a voluntary association of High School teachers banded together for the purpose of holding meetings once each month for the purpose of discussing High School problems. The membership is about 33, and the meetings are held the first Saturday in each month. A representative from the State Department of Education was expected to deliver an address before this body last Saturday but failed to put in an appearance. County Superintendent Bennett, however, filled the gap and made an excellent address.

President—Ida Morris. Vice-President—Clarence Caudrey. Secretary-Treasurer—Mary Powell. Executive Committee—Ida Morris, Clarence Caudrey, Ruth Powell, Mary Powell, Margaret Waller and Alma Lankford.

The State Department of Education has ruled against the Rugby plan of conducting football contests in the schools as being too dangerous and has adopted the Soccer plan. The rough-and-tumble manner of conducting football contests has resulted in the serious injury of many players and a change was found to be necessary.

County Superintendent Bennett reports the installation of the new vapor heating plant in the Camden Primary school as complete and tests are satisfactory. He believes there will no longer be any complaint of the lack of heat in this building, even in the coldest weather we have. This plant was installed by the Enterprise Steam & Hot Water Co., of Baltimore, who were the lowest bidders, and cost about $4,000.

Mr. Bennett also reports the completion and occupancy of the addition to the East Salisbury Primary school, and that there is ample room to comfortably care for the pupils attending that school. There will be no more half-time classes in the East Salisbury school. The improvement, including furniture, cost about $7,000.

HIGH SCHOOL HAPPENINGS

This Space will be used weekly to inform the public of the activities of the Wicomico High School. One or more of the students will be the writers of the articles.

Candidates for the position of editor-in-chief and business manager of the Year Book were nominated at the regular meeting of the Senior Class on Tuesday. Edward Adkins and William Cooper were nominated for editor-in-chief. The nominees for business manager were Kerns Mears, Roland Adkins, William Cooper and Edward Adkins. The election of these officers will take place on Tuesday of this week and the results will be published in this column next week. The humorous editor was elected at a special meeting of the class on Thursday. Mattie Pusey was chosen to fill that position.

The first real soccer meeting of the year was held on Friday. Professor Clark opened the meeting with a few remarks relative to the place where the games will be played. There has been considerable trouble in obtaining a field but it is thought by Monday all arrangements will be made. William Cooper, captain of the team, then gave a short talk asking all candidates to report Monday in uniform for the first practice. Judging from the display of interest among the student body a large number will be on hand.

Friday morning Mr. Jay Williams delivered a short address on the principles of elementary law. Some very interesting facts about the origin of law were brought to light. Mr. Williams himself was a member of the first class to graduate from the Wicomico High School and he enjoyed the privilege of speaking to the students and being with them for a short time.

Warns Against Use Of Canning Compounds

Regarded As Dangerous To Health, and Violation of Federal Food and Drugs Act.

The United States Department of Agriculture warns housewives against the use of any preservative powder or canning compound in home canning. Their use encourages careless and uncleanly work, and in large amounts they may have serious effects upon digestion and health. It is entirely practicable to put up fruits and vegetables so that they will keep indefinitely by processing the products with heat. There is no reason for risk by the use of canning powders.

Boric or salicylic acid is the basis of most canning compounds on the market today. The directions on the packages usually call for one teaspoon of the compound to each quart of fruit or vegetable. The use of boric and salicylic acid, since they may be harmful to health, is regarded by the Department of Agriculture as a violation of the Federal Food and Drugs act. The laws of many States also prohibit the sale of foods containing boric or salicylic acid.

RIFFE AND MORGAN
GET MASONIC EMBLEMS

More Than Six Hundred Visitors at Armory. All Parts of Delmarva
Peninsula Represented. Ladies
Thoroughly Entertained and Convinced of Real Worth of Order.

To prove to the women that politics, profiteers and the income tax have not deprived the world of all means of getting some pleasure out of life, Easternsho Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, entertained the ladies Thursday evening at the First Regiment Armory, and proved to them that Tall Cedarism is synonymous with genuine jollity, fun and frolic.

"Ladies' Night" drew a large attendance, many visitors coming from Wilmington, Cape Charles, Philadelphia, and all parts of the Delmarva peninsula. At the huge banquet table, more than 600 covers were laid. The front of the Armory and the stage were appropriately decorated with evergreens with which the permanent red and green decorations of the drill room blended nicely.

A varied and unique program was rendered by members of this and visiting forests. Recitations, male quartets, violin solos and aesthetic dancing formed the major portion of the entertainment. Assembly singing and short talks were other features.

Amid many manifestations of approval and applause, Herbert Riffe, Grand Tall Cedar of Easternsho Forest, and a member of the Supreme Lodge, was presented with a Masonic emblem. Ex-Senator L. Atwood Bennett delivered the token. Mr. Riffe then presented Dr. W. L. Morgan, of Brandywine Forest, who is also a member of the Supreme Lodge, with an emblem.

Mr. Riffe made a short talk urging those present at the banquet to lend their aid in putting over the Hospital Fund drive for $200,000. He called on all those willing to subscribe $10,000 to stand up. To the great surprise of the banqueters, as well as to the principals themselves, a number of guests arose with alacrity. Chairs charged with electricity were, however, responsible for the seeming generosity. The current switched on at the right moment brought forth a quick response from dozens of guests, and caused much merriment.

The rendition of the program was followed by refreshments. Chicken salad, Maryland biscuits, ice cream and other appetizing things were served. Dancing, at which Kenely's orchestra furnished excellent music, concluded the evening's entertainment.

Easternsho Forest is not yet quite six months old, but it is a live, growing, aggressive organization with more than 400 members. Its principal aim is good fellowship, cheer and fun, and it is doing its share to make the Peninsula a more enjoyable place in which to live.

VERDICT RENDERED IN SPIVA ACCIDENT

Crash, in Which Mrs. Spiva Was Killed, Declared Unavoidable. Drivers Not Speeding.

Members of the Coroner's jury who were summoned two months ago to review the remains of Mr. Wm. Spiva, who was killed in an automobile accident at Grange Hall Corner, between Centerville and Wye Mills, were called in session Wednesday night to render a verdict. At the time of the accident the jury decided to withhold a verdict until Mr. Spiva should be able to testify.

In order to definitely close the case and meet the requirement of the law, the jury assembled in the office of Coroner Robert Coursey, Centerville, Wednesday night, and agreed that Mrs. Spiva's death was due to an unavoidable accident. The drivers of the two cars that collided were, therefore, exonerated from all blame.

The fact that corn fields obscured the view at this crossing, with the possibility that Mr. Spiva had no means of knowing that he approached a dangerous corner, led the jury to render its verdict. There was no evidence to show that either driver was exceeding the speed limit.

Dr. and Mrs. Vaughn S. Collins returned Wednesday to their home on High street after spending the summer at Rehoboth Beach and in New York. Mrs. Collins is much improved in health after a season at the sea shore.

NASH SIX

Nash Prices Cannot Be Reduced

Because

They Have Never Been Inflated

There will be no reduction in the price of the Nash Six.

We think it only fair to state our policy plainly in justice to present Nash Six owners and those who contemplate purchasing this car.

Nash prices cannot be reduced because present prices represent the actual intrinsic value of the product plus a profit sufficient only to maintain manufacturing operations.

That is a plain statement of fact. We cannot buy the high grade materials used in the Nash Six any cheaper.

Here, the Nash Six is manufactured 93% in its entirety.

We cannot buy the skilled labor employed in the making of the Nash Six any cheaper.

These two factors determine price. Until materials are lower or labor is lower, no one can manufacture such a car as the Nash Six for less money.

We say so advisedly because here in this great plant covering 101 acres of ground and employing 5000 skilled workmen, manufacturing costs are reduced to their lowest level.

We have every advantage that large resources and a well established business afford—the purchase of raw materials on a big scale, perfected manufacturing processes and the distribution of costs over a large output.

This insures minimum production costs for each individual car.

That is why the Nash Six has always represented exceptionally high value.

The savings made by our manufacturing methods have been given to the buyer, keeping the price of this car at the lowest possible figure.

Consider this fact.

Since 1917, while prices of all commodities have been soaring, the price of the Nash Six has risen only 31%. Considering the addition of cord tires and other equipment as standard equipment, the actual increase has been only 24%.

During that time, the increased price of other motor cars shows an average rise of 76%. The cost of living has risen 104%. These figures show plainly that Nash manufacturing ability does make possible a car of exceptional value, and that Nash selling prices have always been kept low in accordance with our low production cost.

In view of price changes, actual and rumored, we welcome the opportunity to make this statement: "That the Nash Six today represents more actual value, and is a bigger and better automobile than any other car within hundreds of dollars of its price."

That is our judgment and that it is the judgment of many thousands of motor buyers is evident in the widespread conviction that the Nash Six does represent value impressively above the average.

Under these unsettled conditions it is the only explanation of the fact that today the Nash Motors Company has thousands of unfilled orders on its books and that maximum production schedules are being maintained in our factory.

You may purchase the Nash Six with the assurance that today as always, you are buying a car of exceptional value.

A STATEMENT

Our policy has always been to give the consumer the best automobile and best truck we could build at the least possible cost. We have never asked a dollar more simply because we could get it.

In view of the fact that there is no reduction today in the price of materials or labor entering into Nash products, and that there is no possibility of any reduction for some time to come that can substantially affect manufacturing costs, the policy of The Nash Motors Company will be to absolutely maintain its present prices on both passenger cars and trucks to at least July 1st, 1921.

CW Nash

You buy more power with the Nash Six due to its perfect Valve-in-Head Motor.

You buy comfort and convenience beyond the ordinary.

You buy really exceptional beauty of design and finish.

And you buy a car with the high character of its performance proved beyond question.

Compulsory Attendance Law To Be Enforced

School Board Adopts Resolution To Enforce Law Strictly in Wicomico County. Infractions Of The Law Will Be Subject To A Fine Of $5.00 In Each Case Of Conviction.

The reports coming into the office of the Board of Education of Wicomico county from some sections of the county show that many children who should be attending the public schools are not doing so and that parents are flagrantly violating the provisions of the compulsory attendance law. As an instance of this several of the small rural schools have attendance of only 20 to 25 per cent of the children of legal age residing in the school district. These reports are very disheartening to the county superintendent and Board of Education who are laboring to improve our school conditions.

Frequent discussions of the matter took concrete form last week when the patrons of Royal Oak school were notified that their school would be closed unless the legal average attendance was maintained. The school was closed, but on the promise of the board of school trustees and patrons that the legal average would be maintained, the school was re-opened.

Tuesday of this week the trustees of Deer Branch school were cited to appear before the board and show cause why the school should not be closed for non-attendance. The trustees stated to the board that there were about 16 school children in the school district, but that the parents refused to send their children to school. The report in the office of the Board of Education for September showed an enrollment of 11 scholars, but the average attendance was only four. The board figured that on this small attendance it would cost too much to continue the school in operation. Before ordering the school closed, however, a resolution was adopted that on and after November 1st, 1920, the Compulsory attendance law would be invoked in all school districts where parents or guardians were so unmindful of the education of their children or wards as to willfully keep them from attending the public schools. At the expiration of the above named date the attendance officer will be instructed to enforce the law impartially, in all sections of the county, but rigorously.

For the benefit of our readers we publish some sections of the law, as follows:

Chapter 506 of the Acts of 1916 provides that every child residing in any county of the State, being seven years of age and under 13 years of age, shall attend some public school during the entire period of each year that the public schools of the county are in session, unless it can be shown to the county superintendent of schools that such child is elsewhere receiving regular and thorough instruction during such period in the studies usually taught in the public schools of the county to children of the same age; provided that the superintendent or principal of any school may excuse cases of necessary and legal absence among such children. Mental or physical unfitness is the only excuse that will be valid.

This Act provides, further, that every child in any county of the State, being 13 or 14 years of age, shall attend some public school not less than 100 days, as nearly consecutive as possible, beginning not later than November 1st. And every child in any county in the State, being 15 or 16 years of age, who has not completed the work of the elementary grades, shall attend some public school not less than 100 days, or nearly consecutive as possible, beginning not later than November 1st. The same provision is made as in the first section, relating to mental and physical condition.

The penalty for violation of the provisions of this section is a fine not exceeding $5 for each offense.

Chapter 441 of the Acts of 1918, provides that every deaf or blind child between six and 18 years shall attend some school for the deaf or blind for eight months each year.

Absence from school within the compulsory attendance ages shall be considered only under the following conditions: Death in immediate family, illness of child, quarantine, court of summons, physical or mental incapacity and violent storms.

SANITARY SYSTEM FOR PROGRESSIVE FIRM

E. S. Adkins & Co. have just placed an order with the Kaustine Sales and Service Company for a complete equipment with Sanitary Systems for their plant. The step is a progressive one, and one that means more safeguards for the health of employees.

Other firms are contemplating the same step, and in a territory that is more or less unworked, those that do put in some such system are certainly to be congratulated.

which was in charge of Chairman Adkins. Mr. Oliver Cordry and the Campaign Manager were on hand also representing the Campaign Committee.

Following the splendid address of Mr. Riffe, Chairman Adkins called to his assistance Mr. S. N. Culver, who had been elected at the afternoon meeting as Chairman of the Organization Committee for Delmar and vicinity. Mr. Culver appointed as his aides Messrs. Frank E. Lynch, Harry Gibson, George L. Long and S. Ker Slemmons.

The result of the meeting was 29 subscriptions totaling $2,025, the subscribers being: F. E. Lynch, $250; out-of-town friend, $250; $100 each from S. Ker Slemmons, George L. Long, Irving Culver, W. S. Marvill, Jr., Harry Gibson, Samuel N. Culver, W. B. Stephens, F. N. Faulkner; $50 each from Roland H. Marsh, Mrs. F. J. Scott, W. A. Culver, W. O. Stephens, E. E. Powell, A. H. Hearn, Ollie Johnson, S. F. Stevens, Carl J. Hearn, Mary S. Moore; $25 each from W. P. Bunten, L. H. Hearn, I. J. Nichols, A. M. Williams, F. G. Elliott, John C. Killiam, Howard C. Kirk, E. J. Melson, J. Clyde Truitt.

Saturday afternoon, October 16th, all the captains of teams and as many as possible of their workers are expected to meet at the Armory at 2:30 o'clock for a final conference, and secure their working material, such as subscription blanks, workers' buttons, donors' buttons and literature. Each worker will wear as his credential a handsome purple button showing the hospital full to a poor woman applying for help, and bearing the legend "Helping To Stop This At Salisbury Hospital" and the word "Worker." The people who give $5 or more will receive a button which is a replica of the larger one, but bearing the word "Donor."

"How much can I give toward this new building each year for the next five years?" That is the question for everyone to consider. This is the first time this generation has been asked to have a part in this hospital. With the facilities which the new building will provide, it is likely to be the only one for many years to come.

"Do your share!" Possibly many will ask, "What is my share?" If people who have accumulated property will give but 1 per cent of their net worth, payable in five installments, and the earners will give 2 per cent of their annual income for five years, the $200,000 will be raised beyond any doubt.

the nation, is carrying out a health enterprise in co-operation with other health agencies, that will eventually be taken up in every community in the United States. Included in the general plans for promoting the public health are the Junior Red Cross, the extension of home service to civilian families, health centers, public health nurses, home care of the sick and dietetic classes and first aid methods. The Red Cross is also finishing its obligations to the soldiers, sailors and marines in the military hospitals of the country; is continuing home service in the camps for our peace time forces and is still conducting a system of foreign relief.

The Fourth Red Cross Roll Call begins on Armistice Day, November 11, and ends on Thanksgiving Day, November 26.

TREMENDOUS WASTE IN USE OF GASOLINE

Total Amount of Fuel Wasted Estimated at 1,332,250,000 Gallons Annually.

If each of the 7,000,000 motor vehicles in the United States wasted half a gallon of gasoline a day, the total amount of fuel wasted would be 1,332,250,000 gallons annually—$333,062,500 thrown away yearly.

These figures indicate that the waste of gasoline throughout America has assumed serious proportions and that there is an immediate need of conservation.

If the drivers of all passenger cars and motor trucks were careful to coast up to stops, on down grades, had carburetors properly adjusted, did not race their motors when starting and did not let them run idle, 800,000,000 gallons of gasoline could be saved annually. At an average price of 25 cents a gallon, the total saving in money would amount to $200,000,000—enough to build 5,000 miles of improved roads.

At present it is estimated that the consumption of gasoline by motors is 84,000,000 barrels a year. The total consumption for all purposes is about 91,000,000 barrels.

Production of crude petroleum is believed to be at its peak with an annual production of 400,000,000 barrels. But 100,000,000 barrels of gasoline can be produced from this total, leaving but 9,000,000 for export demands.

Recently oil companies have started a nation-wide movement for gasoline conservation, in some places by rationing so that the demands of legitimate motor transportation may be met.

Wicomico Farmers Assn. Assured Fact

Mr. Cobb says: "The time for talk has past. This is the time for action. I urge every farmer in the county to join this association. We already have enough men to make it go, but your co-operation is needed if we are to succeed as we wish. Get in touch with the committee nearest you, and take out your stock."

It is more than probable that the local association will become the southern member of a northern organization. In that way, their orders for northern products could be taken care of, and the markets of the north would be open to southern products without having to pass through the hands of middlemen.

As regards the erection of a warehouse here, Mr. Cobb states that a well-known contractor has offered to draw the plans free of charge and supervise construction. Lime for water proof cement, stone and pebbles for such a building have also been offered without cost.

A Letter To The Trade.

A great reduction in prices will begin at our store Saturday morning, October 16th, which means many thousands of dollars will be saved by the women of Pocomoke and vicinity.

We are in the movement to cut prices, not because it is a special movement, but it is, and will be our constant custom, to give our friends the benefit of every reduction in wholesale prices, or on every good purchase we may make. Time and time again we gave to our trade, (not even advertised in the columns of the news paper) the utmost values, not because they asked for them but because we had them and were glad to offer them to you.

And so we are doing now. We are offering our entire stock at a reduction from 10 to 30%. Not one item in the store will be withheld, from a pin to the most expensive piece of merchandise.

We have taken advantage of market conditions to a greater degree than any other store, and we are giving you the full benefit of all our savings. Hundreds of items will be sold at a great deal lower price than they will be for months.

When prices began to go up four years ago, our store was always the last to advance prices, straining every resource to the limit to ease customers position.

And today as soon as the prices started downward we are the first to cut the prices and cut them deep—deep enough to give you an opportunity of buying your merchandise from our store with full assurance that you will not be able to buy same goods for those prices, for some time to come.

Come to our store Saturday morning, October 16th, and you will find everything that you ask for is reduced. We cannot give prices of every item in this space as we have so many of them, but call and be convinced.

P. S.—I sincerely hope that my regular customers will avail themselves of this chance. BENJ. GIVARZ.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To our many considerate customers awaiting delivery, and those now contemplating Cadillac ownership, we wish to convey the positive assurance of the Cadillac Motor Car Company that "Present Prices and The Popular Type 59 Models of Today Will Be Maintained to July 1921, at least."

Since the selection of Cadillac made by the U. S. Government—irrespective of price—as the Standard Seven-Passenger Car of the Army, during the World War, and its remarkable performance "Over There," the demand for Cadillacs the world over has ever been far in excess of the greatly increased production.

We feel that the Public must be aware that the price reductions being made by certain manufacturers are made solely with a view to influencing quick deliveries to take care of over-production and inflated prices rather than because of cost production.

That the Cadillac car has ever been built to a Quality Standard and not to a price the motoring public has come to appreciate.

This will assure you that this policy will be maintained.

J. FRANK BROWN IS PURCHASER

Dwellings Sold As a Whole First and Then Sold Separately. Bring The Best Figure At The First Sale, and Are Knocked Down For $14,950. Music During Sale.

Embarrassed by the strains of "The Old Grey Mare is Not What She Used To Be," and other familiar pieces, the sale of the block of brick residences owned by Mr. Jay Williams, of Salisbury, and located at the corner of Elizabeth street and Railroad avenue, in this city, took place at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

A good sized crowd of home seekers was present at this sale and the bidding was very lively at times. The properties, consisting of seven brick houses, formerly owned by Mr. Mitchell German, were first offered as a whole, and were knocked down to Mr. J. Frank Brown, of Delmar, at the price of $14,950 for the whole block.

Next the properties were offered separately, and there were many bidders who hoped to secure for themselves a home. The corner house of the block, which is the best of the lot and has ten rooms, with bath, city water, toilet and attic, and is one of the nicest houses in Delmar, was bid in at $2,800. Then the six other houses, which each have six rooms, two halls, bath room, city water and gas for lighting and cooking, were offered. The separate bids of these ranged from $1,300 to $1,500 each.

After they had been sold separately, it was found that they had not brought as much in this manner as they had as a whole, so they were sold to the high bidder, Mr. J. Frank Brown, at his bid of $14,950.

The sale was under the direction of the Dixie Real Estate Company, of Cambridge. In their advertisements of this sale they had offered very enticing terms to prospective home buyers, a fact which was no doubt responsible for the large number of bidders.

In his bid of $14,950 for the entire block of seven residences, it is said by local real estate men, that Mr. Brown has secured a bargain. He will secure possession of the block on January 1st, 1921. His plans are not known.

This block of brick houses has long been looked upon by Delmar people as very desirable homes, and has always had good tenants, seldom if ever, being unoccupied. Built in the regular city style of a continuous block, with alleys between, they gave Railroad avenue a metropolitan appearance. They were originally built by the late Mitchell German, and he and his family occupied the corner house for a number of years previous to his death.

The entire block has recently undergone considerable repairs and now has practically a new roof over it all. It is in good condition both on the inside as well as the outside. Before the sale the "Merry Band" gave a concert at the corner of State street and Railroad avenue, afterward adjourning to the scene of the sale.

Do You Know This 11-Year Old Lad?

Boy, Said To Have Come From Salisbury, Picked Up In Middletown, Del.

"An 11-year old boy, giving his name as Harold Wetzel, light complexioned, has light hair and large brown eyes."

This is the description of a lad who has been found in Middletown, Del. The story told by the boy is that he formerly lived in Salisbury, Md. After the death of his father he went to Wilmington, Del., with his mother. Both stayed with an aunt there. About three years ago his mother died, and he claims not to have known his aunt's last name, or the number of the street on which he lived, the number being erased from the door. He knew his aunt only as "Aunt Annie." Four weeks ago his aunt died according to the lad's story, told the Children's Bureau, 207 Church Building, Wilmington. He was left in the house with a colored woman who worked for his aunt. This upset him so he walked to Delaware City and after staying around the station for sometime, he was picked up by a conductor on the train and carried to his home, but not liking the place of abode he walked to Middletown.

The Children's Bureau, through many sources, has tried to locate some relative of the boy, but has been unable up to this time to do so. They are interested in locating some one who may know the child, and would be glad to have such person communicate with them at the address given above.

Do you know this boy?

SECOND ATTEMPT TO STEAL AUTO FAILS

Would-Be Thieves Are Immediately Pursued and Make Their Getaway By Jumping From Running Car.

Three men, who in the past three weeks had attempted to steal a Buick, were again seen in an attempt to steal an automobile, and for the second time the effort failed.

On Sunday evening, about seven o'clock an Olds was left standing in front of Mr. Arthur Brewington's. Three men got in the car and started off with it, but Mr. Oscar Brewington saw them and immediately started in pursuit. When near the edge of the town, the clutch of the stolen car began slipping and as a result the pursuing car was steadily gaining on it, when the thieves, seeing that they were to be overtaken, jumped from the car, and made their getaway in the darkness, leaving the car running wild. It continued for some distance, when it ran into another automobile, and then was recovered.

The thieves managed to slip away under cover of darkness, and had not been apprehended at this writing.

It will possibly be demonstrated to these would-be thieves that Delmar is a good place to skip in the plying of their chosen profession. Several weeks ago, two men were captured after an exciting chase and they are now sojourning in Salisbury's jail, and Sunday night's effort meeting with prompt pursuit will have a discouraging effect on those who think Delmar is a good place to work at automobile stealing.

It is to be hoped that the three men who made the latest effort to steal a car in Delmar will be soon captured and brought speedily to justice.

HIGHER RENTS ARE PREVAILING IN LAUREL

An increase in rent of from 10 to 25 per cent, to take effect January 1, is the news received by many families living in rented houses in Laurel. In one instance the rent of a dwelling was raised from $50 per month to $20, and in a number of cases the rent was more than doubled. Houses which could be purchased from $400 to $500 each a few years ago and which could then be neither sold or regularly tenanted at $5 per month, located out on the southern edge of the town, on Tenth street, are now renting for $9 per month, and other cheaply constructed houses in the outlying portions of the town are being rented at high figures.

Seaford public schools have the services of a telephone, but emergency calls only will be given attention.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

With this issue of The News Mr. James E. Byrd has been appointed as editor of the Delmar Section of The Wicomico News, and in the future he will have control of this section of this newspaper.

Mr. Byrd is well known in Delmar, having spent many of his childhood days in that thriving town. He is a practical newspaper man, a printer of years of experience in newspaper offices of the Eastern Shore and elsewhere. He is a native Eastern Shoreman, and in appointing him to this position, The News did so in its effort to give Delmar the benefit of his experience in newspaper work, and to give its people the very best service in its power.

It is the wish of Mr. Byrd and The News that we may be able to give the people of Delmar a real newspaper in our Delmar Section. This section will be absolutely individual in every way. It will carry its own feature stories, its news and its editorials the same as if it really were a separate newspaper. The mere fact that it is a part of The Wicomico News should prove a help rather than a hindrance, for the subscriber is not only furnished with Delmar's news and the happenings of lower Sussex county, but in addition the news of Salisbury, Wicomico county and the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Delaware, as carried by Salisbury's leading paper, giving them practically two newspapers in one, running from 20 to 24 pages of live local news each week.

Mr. Byrd is compelled to depend upon the people of Delmar to a large extent to help him make this page what he and The News want it to be—live and newsy each week. So if you know of anything that you think should be published, he will appreciate it if you would call his attention to it or write it up and leave it at German and Bryan's Restaurant. It will receive his attention.

This will be The News' headquarters in Delmar in the future. Mr. Byrd will be there in the evenings and on Sundays and will be pleased to talk over anything from the baseball leagues to the League of Nations with any of our readers. He will also be glad to receive any new subscriptions to The News or any renewals there at any time, and if he is not present when you call, the matter will be taken care of by those who may be in charge.

As stated before it is Mr. Byrd's and The News' desire and aim to give the people of Delmar a newsy, clean newspaper in the Delmar Section, and we hope that the people of Delmar will come to our assistance and help us to do so.

It is impossible for any one person to "cover" everything. You may know of someone going away. You may hear of someone giving a party, someone you know may die, or some friend may visit you. Someone may get married, as they are doing every day. Or maybe your church may give an entertainment. Just write a note of the happening and it will be covered fully.

Remember that anything that "happens" is news, and news is what we want, and will appreciate.

Finally, we wish to state that Mr. Byrd will have charge of this section of The News and will not be interfered with in any way whatsoever in conducting it. It is Delmar's newspaper and his newspaper, so let's work in harmony to make it a good newspaper, carrying Delmar's news in full each week.

CAMPAIGN STARTED FOR CLEAN ELECTIONS

Non-Partisan Movement To This End is Started. Josiah Marvill In Charge.

Delaware has started a campaign for clean politics and elections and every effort will be made to see that the election on November 2d is clean in every particular.

A non-partisan movement to this end and to create public sentiment so strongly that Delaware in the future will stand foremost with other States in clean elections, has been inaugurated. Henry R. Isaacs, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has requested Josiah Marvill to take charge of an effort to secure an absolute clean election on November 2d.

Mr. Marvill has had the matter under consideration for several days, and has announced a state executive committee as follows:

- Robert H. Richards, Thomas F. Gormley, Pierre S. du Pont, William B. Megear, Caleb S. Layton, Mrs. William K. du Pone, Mrs. Harry T. Graham, of Wilmington; Mrs. Harmon Reynolds, Townsend; John Pierce Cann, Newark; Alexander P. Corbit, Odessa; Harvey Hall, Smyrna; Mrs. Henry Ridgely, Dover; Joseph C. Frazier, Fredricka; George H. Hall, Milford; Catharine Robinson, Georgetown; Dr. Roland G. Paynier, Georgetown.

A meeting of this committee was held at Mr. Marvill's office on Friday morning last at which were organized county, hundred and district committees, so there will be a committee of men and women in every election district in the State to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent the buying or selling of votes.

DIES FROM EXPOSURE IN SEEKING A HOME

Wandered Around Laurel For Days Seeking a Place to Live. Wife (Continued) Ill.

To wander around the town for days in search of a place to live—a home—for self and wife, aged and feeble, with no place to go, finally to find a home, and then to contract pneumonia and die from the exposure, would seem like a tale from a fairy book, and not a real story of any actual happening in this twentieth century of enlightenment and hosted hospitality.

But this is the experience of George H. Shiles, 84 years of age, who died at his home on Townsend street, in Laurel, from broncho-pneumonia, on Wednesday last.

His wife is also in a critical condition from the same malady.

Mr. Shiles and his wife, who is two years his senior, were born and reared near Laurel, and moved to Wilmington about 43 years ago, where Mr. Shiles secured the position as sexton of Asbury M. E. Church, which position he held for 40 years, until the infirmities of advancing age compelled him to resign.

About three years ago he returned to Laurel, where he and his wife lived on the few hundred dollars realized from the sale of their home in Wilmington.

A few weeks ago they sold part of their furniture and went to Marcus Hook, Pa., to make their home with Mr. Shiles' niece, Mrs. Laura Steigerson. About two weeks ago Laurel people were surprised to see a truck bearing Mr. and Mrs. Shiles and their goods come into town. Family troubles, it was said, impelled their return.

For days Mr. Shiles wandered around the town of Laurel, looking for a house, or even a few rooms, to rent. Success finally rewarded his efforts, and he secured quarters with Mrs. Heaster Cooper. They had barely moved into their new home, however, before the worry and exposure, proved too much for them, and both Mr. and Mrs. Shiles contracted colds, Mr. Shiles developing pneumonia from Thursday.

SENATOR WOLCOTT GREETED BY BIG AUDIENCE MONDAY NIGHT

Vehicles Must Carry Lights After Sunset

Cannot Recover Damages in Case of Accident If This Is Neglected, Says Delaware Law.

Owing to the increasing number of automobiles which carry lights after sunset, there has been an unusually large number of accidents recently in which autos have collided with vehicles drawn by horse and which have not carried lights, as required by Delaware law. In the many cases that have been carried to court by the owners of the unlighted horse-drawn vehicle, in efforts to obtain damages, defeat has always greeted their efforts as they were not living up to the requirements of the laws of the State.

For the information of those who are not familiar with the statute bearing on this subject it is printed herewith:

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES.

4210A. Section 48. Every vehicle drawn by horses, mules or oxen upon any of the public streets or highways of this State shall, from one-half an hour after sunset until one-half hour before sunrise, show at least one white light visible not less than 200 feet in both directions in which such vehicle is proceeding and also in the opposite direction. If any person shall drive or operate such a vehicle upon any public street or highway in this State, without so showing at least one white light, then in any such case, such person shall in case of an accident and suit brought by any such person, for damages against another, be deemed taken to have been guilty of contributory negligence per se, and shall not recover in such action.

PLANS TO INCREASE DEL. PHONE RATES

Diamond State Telephone Company Seeks Advance on Business and Residential Service In State.

The Diamond State Telephone Company, a subsidiary of the Bell Telephone Company, has filed with the Public Service Commission, a petition requesting permission to charge increased rates for business and residential lines throughout the State of Delaware over which the company has a monopoly.

The increases asked range from 15 to 25 per cent, and mean an added cost of from $1.50 to $2.00 on business lines and from 40 to 80 cents additional on residential lines.

The company sets forth that under its present rates, it has never been able to pay dividends to the Bell Company $2,000,000 of its stock held by the Bell.

The petition further announces that the company has earned less than 3 per cent in the past six years on actual cash cost of property, and that the net earnings for 1920 will be about 2.4 per cent on actual property. The company states that the actual appraised value of its property is 50 per cent above the book value, an argument to show that dividend on "watered" stock is not sought. It is further stated that the company's credit is seriously embarrassed owing to the low rate in force at present and prevents the corporation from securing loans and credit for needed extensions and that the rates sought are just and reasonable and not discriminatory.

NOSE GROUND OFF BY A RUNAWAY TEAM

Joseph F. Warrington, a well-known farmer and lumber manufacturer living at "Pepper Box," several miles east of Laurel, had his nose ground off and mashed, on Monday, when the horses he was driving became frightened and ran away with him. Mr. Warrington was thrown out and one of the wheels ran over his head, which he rapidly sunk.

Mrs. Shiles is critically ill at her home of the same deadly malady to which Mr. Shiles fell a victim. The attending physician has but little hopes of her recovery, now as she and her husband, in an endeavor to make their rapidly dwindling store of money last their lifetime, had been denying themselves food in sufficient quantity, if not also in quality, to keep up their bodily strength.

Mr. Shiles had two graves prepared more than two years ago in the Laurel Hill cemetery, for himself and wife, and he was interred there on Thursday.

Elcora Theatre Was Packed To Its Doors Long Before The Time For Opening.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS EXPLAINED

Says The Democratic Party Did Not Win The War, President Wilson Did Not Win The War, But the Young Manhood of America Regardless of Party Did.

One of the biggest meetings of the campaign thus far was held in Delmar on Monday evening when the Elcora Theatre in this town was crowded with both men and women, seemingly eager to hear some of the issues of the campaign intelligently discussed.

Long before the time of the meeting the hall began to fill, with an equal representation of both sexes, and by the time of the opening the hall was crowded.

On the stage were some of the most prominent people of the town and by the time Senator Wolcott started his address there was not a possible chance of anyone getting inside the outer doors.

Senator Wolcott began his address with a general review of the accomplishments of the Democratic administration, noting in advance of his subject the criticism of his Republican opponents and especially their criticisms of the administration's conduct of the war. He cited the Spanish-American war which was under the Republican administration, and the fact that the numerous mistakes of that time, such as the canned beef scandal, and the epidemics of disease, were excused by the party in power then as unavoidable on account of the fact that a large army of men was involved, some 250,000, and they had to be transported over 200 miles of water. These excuses at that time were accepted, he said, as sufficient.

Then he compared the late World War where over 4,000,000 men were involved and not only did they have to be transported over 3,000 miles of water, to foreign soil but they also had to be followed by supplies, ammunition, hospital supplies and hospital helpers, doctors, nurses, amusements, and every other thing that 2,000,000 men would need. When you consider, he said, that this was accomplished in a little over a year's time, without one bit of scandal, and without one life being lost in the transportation of 2,000,000 troops across the submarine infested ocean, it was, he stated, a wonderful accomplishment.

Senator Wolcott said that since the Republicans had had control of the congress and the senate they had appointed numerous committees to "dig into the administration of the war" and they had been unable to find one instance where there had been graft and one instance of dishonesty.

Next the Senator took up the League of Nations subject, and stated that there was a general misconception of the American people of this part of the covenant. He said the treaty occupied hundreds of pages, while the section applying to the League of Nations he was able to re-read on the train from Seaford to Delmar.

He went into detail of the application of the principles of the League of Nations, and demonstrated a point by stating that it was impossible for the United States to "keep out" of the European quarrels. The idea of the League, he said, was to settle these quarrels without wars. He said that there were 4,000,000 American soldiers who knew that we could not keep isolated and out of the European arguments, there were 500,000 sailors who knew this. There were thousands of mothers and fathers who had seen the impossibilities of such an argument, and that there were 70,000 Americans buried in France that were mute witnesses that such a proposition was impossible.

"The better proposition," he said, "is to interest ourselves in the everlasting establishment of peace among men, and make it impossible for future wars and then we need not worry about our ever being involved in another one."

"The cost of lives is too great," he said, "for us to allow the matter to enter politics. The question involved is way above the petty controversies (Continued on Page 14.)"

Machinery Valued at $6,781,318. Live-stock, $8,600,000. 650,000 Acres of Land Are Tilled.

There are 10,140 farms in Delaware, representing a value of almost $65,000,000, according to the statement issued by the Census Bureau last week, which figures, however, are subject to correction, although changes are likely to be immaterial. The report continues to detail the farm and farming values of the state as follows:

The 10,140 farms in Delaware contain 944,511 acres of which 654,052 acres are improved land. Since 1910 the number of farms has decreased 6.4 per cent, the total acreage 9.1 per cent, and the improved acreage 8.5 per cent. Seventy-five and one-tenth per cent of all the land in the State is in farms, and 69.1 per cent of the farm land is improved.

The value of all farm property is $80,137,614, as against $63,179,201 in 1910, an increase of 26.9 per cent. The value of land and buildings is $64,755,631; of implements and machinery, $6,781,318, and of livestock, $8,600,000. As compared with 1910, the value of land and building for 1920 show an increase of 21.8 per cent; of implements and machinery, 111.5 per cent, and of livestock, 26.2 per cent. The average value of land and buildings per farm is $6,386, as against $4,905 in 1910.

The value of the 1903 farms, for which complete mortgage reports were secured is $11,422,387, and the amount of mortgage debt is $4,490,416, or 39.0 per cent of the value. Thirty-six and five-tenths per cent of all farms operated by owners are mortgaged, as compared with 37.2 per cent in 1910.

The number of white farmers is 9,268, of which 8,905 are native and 363 foreign-born. Of the native white farmers, 5,334 are owners, 125 managers and 3,446 tenants. Of the foreign-born white farmers, 321 are owners, six managers and three tenants. The 872 colored farmers comprise 353 owners, 13 managers and 504 tenants. The number of female farmers is 207, including 166 owners and 41 tenants.

day. With firewood hovering around $16 a cord in this section, down-state Delawareans have proof of the old adage to the effect that "aste brings want." The re-forestation, or the planting of trees, in the denuded section of the State would be found a wise and economical movement, even though the fruits of the undertaking should not be ready for the gleaners of the present generation.

The Pennsylvania Railroad, through fliers, is advertising a one-day excursion to Philadelphia and return for Sunday, October 24th. A special train will leave Delmar at 6 a. m. on that day, arriving in Philadelphia about 10 o'clock. Returning, the special train will leave Broad street station at 6:05 p. m., arriving in Delmar about 10 p. m., giving the excursionists eight hours in Philadelphia in which to view the many historic places of interest. The reduced fare of $3 for the round trip will, no doubt, attract many Delmar and other Delaware people.

Rumor has it that more men will be laid off in the near future on both the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk and the Delaware Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and in the shops force and clerks. When this wholesale laying off of men will stop no one seems to know, but hope is generally expressed that it will be soon. No relief is held out until "after election." But just what the election and its passing has to do with the employment of men on the railroads is not made plain.

The sand will be utilized in the construction of the new stone road between Laurel and Millsboro.

THE VOGUE SHOP SERVICE MEANS PROPER CLEANING

The clothing problem means a lot of worry these days. People have less money to spend for clothes and they get less clothes for their money. Three years ago you could buy three suits for what you now pay for one. Yet, listen! how seldom is it that you actually wear out your old clothes? Do you call a garment worn out when it begins to look shabby because it's faded or soiled? If you could put the original color back into the fabric or take out the soil marks you would have several years more good use of the article. That's just what the VOGUE SHOP is doing. Helping you to fight the H. C. L. by making your old clothes look like new. Proper cleaning of wearing apparel at regular intervals is the most intelligent economy one can practice. Remember our work is cleaning, pressing, and dyeing and we can give you the very best service obtainable in these lines. We have special machinery to take care of your Palm Beach and Cool Cloth suits. Look through your summer wardrobe and call 1124. We will be glad to help and serve you.

Do You Want Your Kidneys Experimented On?

Kidney troubles are getting more common every day. Government health bureau figures say deaths from this cause are 72 per cent more than 20 years ago.

Anybody who suffers constant backache, who feels blue, nervous and irritable; who has dizzy spells, headache and urinary disorders should suspect kidney weakness. Overworked kidneys must have a rest. Take things easier; live more carefully. Take a good kidney remedy to build the kidneys up again.

But be sure to get Doan's Kidney Pills—the oldest, the most widely used, the best recommended of all kidney pills, now in use all over the civilized world. Don't experiment with your kidneys. Thousands have already tested Doan's. You have their experience to go by. Ask your neighbor. Plenty of cases right here in Salisbury. Here's one:

Miss H. L. White, 609 N. Division St., says: "I was troubled by disordered kidneys and severe backache. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and got a box at White & Leonard's Drug Store. Since I took them I have had no further kidney trouble and I certainly recommend Doan's most highly."

Price 60c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss White had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

The pipe that never interrupts, nor takes your mind off your work is the W. D. C. WELLINGTON The Universal Pipe.

As you smoke your Wellington there's never a bubble nor a gurgle. The well catches all moisture and tobacco crumbs. The smoke comes up away from your tongue, through an opening in the bit. HAPPENINGS IN ALL SECTIONS OF MARYLAND

The first case of influenza this season was reported in Easton by the Board of Health. In other parts of the county scarlet fever and whooping cough are reported.

September farm sales of Somerset properties are reported as follows: Fred Lass farm, 50 acres, to T. H. Kiah, $6,000; Lewis Pusey farm, 170 acres, to C. A. Powell, of Pocomoke City, $13,000; Edward Lovett farm, 10 acres, to Maurice Berre, $2,500; N. E. White farm, 18 acres, to Karl J. Austin, of Manassas, Va., $3,500.

At a meeting of 21 ministers representing nine denominations in Washington county last Tuesday, resolutions were adopted opposing the candidacy of O. E. Weller and favoring the candidacy of Hon. John Walter Smith for the United States Senate. The best people in every section of Maryland, regardless of party, are declaring for Senator Smith.

Miss Florence Phoebus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Phoebus, of Oriole, has tendered her resignation at Wanamaker's department store, Philadelphia, and has accepted a position with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in that city. Miss Phoebus is a graduate of Washington High School, Princess Anne, and also attended Beacom's Business College, at Salisbury.

Thousands of barrels of apples are being harvested in the Cover orchard, about six miles from Easton. This orchard comprises about 6,000 trees and they are heavily laden with fruit. About 100 persons are engaged in picking and packing. The Grimes' Golden variety has been harvested and sold, about 1,500 barrels having been sold last week at a price averaging about $6 a barrel. About 8,000 barrels of other varieties will be harvested before winter.

There was a large gathering of farmers from adjoining counties at the first annual meeting of the Somerset County Agricultural Society, on Thursday at the farm of E. M. Cline, near Princess Anne. Dr. A. F. Woods, president, and Dr. Thomas B. Synons, director of extension service of the University of Maryland, were the chief speakers. An all-day program had been arranged, including farm demonstrations and addresses by leading authorities on farm topics. A farm wood lot demonstration by Assistant State Forester J. Cope was devoted to instruction in the proper thinning of forest trees and the correct methods of handling wood products, especially pine timber.

Figures for the farm census of Talbot county were given out last week and indicate great progress in farm industries during the past 10 years. The value of farm lands and buildings has increased from $9,846,819 in 1910, to $15,470,815, an increase of $5,623,996, or over 57 per cent. The value of the crops raised 10 years ago, and that of the census this year shows a decided increase in value. In 1910 there were 1,297 farms, while in 1920 there were 1,205, a decrease of 7 per cent. The acreage also has decreased. In 1910 there were 163,688 acres and in 1920 only 160,450. The number of improved acres, under cultivation amounts to 115,753, a reduction of 2,000 acres. Of the farms in the county 745 are operated by their owners, or 48 less than in 1910. There are 460 farms operated by tenants.

The Washington County Commissioners sold to Nelson Cook & Co., Baltimore, who were the lowest bidders, 5 per cent. Hancock High school bonds of the par value of $40,000 for $38,452. The next lowest bidder was the First National Bank, Hagerstown, whose bid was $38,450.52. There were several other bidders.

Judge John A. Berkey, at Somerset imposed a fine of $5,000 and committed Steve Malatz, who conducts the Hotel Zimmerman at Meyersdale, for the illegal sale of liquor. Malatz's wife was placed on parole for one year after she paid the costs of prosecution. At the same time Telford Foster, of Johnstown, paid $500 fine for the same offense.

An absolute divorce, with alimony, was granted Mrs. Mary B. Bay from her husband, Dr. James H. Bay, by Judge Harlan, in the Harford county Circuit Court, several weeks ago. Dr. Bay filed a petition for absolute separation which was followed by the filing of a cross-bill by the wife. The couple were married in 1912 at Govans. Mrs. Bay was formerly Miss Mary E. Saulsbury of Baltimore, and is a graduate nurse of the 1906 class of the University of Maryland Training School for Nurses. She is a daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. T.

B. Saulsbury, of the Eastern Shore. Dr. Bay is a leading physician of Havre de Grace and is director and former member of the staff of the Havre de Grace Hospital.

Charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, a young man who gave the name of Amos Fisher, residing near Hancock, was fined $107 by Magistrate W. C. Korns, and in default was sentenced to 60 days in jail. The charge was preferred by State Officers Williams and Ullrich, who testified that Fisher damaged the machine in which they were riding Sunday on Sideling Hill. The damaged car is the property of Col. E. Austin Baughman, late Automobile Commissioner, which was being used by the officers to catch violators.

WORLD WAR MEMORIAL

Will Have Names of 900 Men Who Saw Service.

Somerset county is laying out big plans to perpetuate the memory of the Somerset soldiers who figured in the World War. Present plans contemplate the erection of a memorial tablet on the new bridge soon to be erected in that town.

Impetus was given the movement at a big meeting held last week, when a committee of representative men from each election district was appointed to perfect plans for the erection of the memorial. The members of the general committee are George W. Maslin, chairman; Judge Robert F. Duer, William S. Bennett, I. Henry Hall, M. F. Carver, Bernard C. Dryden, Jefferson D. Webster, Robert H. Jones, Dr. R. R. Norris, H. H. Matthews, William L. Whittington, W. Rolan Parks, John Ross Corbin, Ernest P. Kelly, Dr. S. P. Fuller, E. Bennett Long, Arthur Andrews and Joshua W. Miles.

The memorial is to be erected in connection with the bridge to be constructed over the Manokin river at the north end of Main street, Princess Anne. This location is at the entrance to the county seat and in on the main State highway leading through the county. The State Roads Commission is to erect a bridge over the Manokin river in connection with the building of a State road through the town.

The central idea of the memorial plan is the erection of four large columns at the bridge. Each column is to have thereon four bronze tablets making 16 bronze tablets in all, and upon these tablets is to be engraved the names of the 900 men from Somerset county who were in military service.

The plan for the construction of the memorial in connection with the erection of the bridge was first taken up with the State Roads Commission by Joshua W. Miles and George W. Maslin about a week ago. The Commission heartily approved of the plan and had prepared a plan of the bridge with the memorial columns thereon.

Somerset county is to bear the cost of the erection of the memorial and the plan is to raise the fund entirely by popular subscription among the 5,000 to 6,000 families in the county.

BY REDUCTIONS

Reductions during July and August in the prices of various farm products cost the farmers of the country approximately $1,750,000,000, it was estimated by George P. Hampton, managing director of the Farmers' National Council. The estimate was based on the prices producers received for wheat, corn, potatoes, apples, cotton and beef cattle.

"Under the present system of distribution of farm products," Mr. Hampton declared in a statement, "it is clear that farmers have no assurance of costs of production plus a fair profit."

A most important factor in placing the farmers at the mercy of the middlemen," the statement continued, "is the relative ease with which middlemen hoarders secure credit while farmers are unable to secure credit at all, or can do so only on terms which render their business on the average a non-commercial undertaking."

SOME STATISTICS

BY GOODYEAR CO.

Married Factory Workers Are Much More Careless Than Those Who Are Single.

Married factory workers are more careless than those who are single. According to statistics compiled by the Safety First Department of The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, 154 married men were injured last month compared to 123 single men who met with accidents.

Experts failed to state whether or not there is a psychological reason for this condition. Facetious bachelors, who compose 65 per cent of the personnel declare that the married men have greater responsibilities and more things to think about—thus dividing attention and destroying concentration on their work. They assert that matrimony is distracting and naturally causes absentmindedness—the cause of many accidents.

Another interesting fact established by safety first experts is that the percentage of accidents is greater among foreign-born workers. Approximately 10 per cent of Goodyear employees were born abroad, yet in one month they furnished 20 per cent of the total number that met with accidents.

As the result of a safety first campaign extending over a period of three months, accidents were cut 30 per cent and compensation cases 50 per cent.

Close tabulation of accidents show that most accidents come as the result of carelessness on the part of workmen. Failure to observe safety first rules sends the greatest number to the hospital, while negligence of fellow workers accounts for a considerable number. The safety first campaign is being strongly waged at Goodyear and the number of accidents is decreasing monthly.

Certain-teed Roofing is Spark-Proof

Certain-teed will protect your property against fire due to sparks dropping on the roof from passing engines. It also helps to prevent fires spreading from building to building by means of sparks and burning embers.

Where fires have started in other parts of the building, Certain-teed Roofs tend to smother them and thereby prevent serious damage to other property.

This type of protection is appreciated by all property owners and particularly by those who are outside of the zone of adequate fire-fighting apparatus.

But Certain-teed Roofing is more than an aid in the prevention of fire. It also protects from rain or snow and is guaranteed for five, ten or fifteen years, according to weight.

SEES BUT SLOW DECLINE IN READY-MADE CLOTHING PRICES

The Turning Point Has Been Reached Says An Eminent Authority. Manufacturers And Retailers Will Take Losses, But Pre-War Levels Are Far Away.

Supplementing what was said in last week's issue of The Wicomico News in interviews with some of our leading clothiers, as to the prospects of a reduction in prices of men's ready-to-wear clothing—in which the local dealers gave very little encouragement of material declines—one of the dealers interviewed has since enlarged on the reasons why there will be no decline of consequence in the very near future.

"The turning point in men's clothing prices has been reached," he said, "but the decline must necessarily be gradual." Observers in the industry agree, he said, that no violent slump in prices will be permanent.

Price uncertainty, resulting in curtailment of production, he continued, has worked great hardship on the industry. Manufacturers and retailers will take losses, but prewar levels are far away, if they ever return.

"The public now buying clothing at prices far lower than the cost of manufacturing it warrants. The present Fall goods were made during the last six months, when materials and labors were higher than ever. But, in order to help bring down high-price levels more quickly, clothiers are foregoing profits and selling clothes at prices which would not really be justified until next Spring. They feel that national conditions demand that buying be kept going and labor be kept employed. The public is getting real bargains now.

"Stagnation of business at this time would be disastrous to labor as well as to merchants and manufacturers. The industry is helping all it can to pass through the present very trying period.

"The cost of producing clothing depends on the cost of materials, accessories and labor. During the war the price of wool went up from three to four times the prewar levels, and trimmings and accessory materials went up still higher. Spool silk rose 300 per cent, silk sleeve lining 400 per cent and canvas nearly 600 per cent. "Labor's wages is now three times as high as it was before the war. From May, 1918, to January, 1920, the United States Department of Labor statistics show the clothing workers received a far greater increase than those in any other basic industry.

All manufacturing costs were therefore at their peak when the manufacturers were making clothes for this Fall. Retailers ordered conservatively and production was made only for orders. The result was that one-third less clothing was manufactured for this Fall than for last. The manufacturers and retailers marked their goods very closely as a contribution to the cause of lower prices. Fall clothes are all in the stores of retailers and on dependable goods the prices are stabilized. But there are also on the market some low grade and not the most desirable goods which naturally be sold at reductions.

"There is no doubt that the turning point of high clothing prices has been reached. But the costs which enter into clothing prices are responding very slowly to this tendency. The woolen mills have announced a cut of 20 to 25 per cent for Spring goods—a cut from the peak prices of this Fall, not from those of last Spring. As compared with the last Spring, next Spring's cloth prices are only 5 to 15 per cent less. But the cost of cloth is only one element in the cost of producing clothes so that a reduction in retail prices could not amount to 25 per cent based on the lower prices of cloth alone.

"The best posted observers agree that no violent slump in prices will be permanent. Reduction, they say, will be very gradual. Present price levels were built up during the period of six years and they cannot be broken down overnight. Manufacturers and retailers will take losses, but pre-war price levels are far away, if they ever return.

"If the public desires to have steadily decreasing prices, it must accept each new price level as it comes. Buying hesitation slows up production and even stops it. This results in a shortage of goods and higher prices. In the clothing industry goods are manufactured during the six months before they get to the consumer. They must be ordered months ahead."

Torpid Liver

Black-Draught "has no equal for headache, sour stomach, torpid liver and feverish colds..." declares Mrs. Annie Whitmore, of Gate City, Va. "It is easy to take and does not gripe, as a lot of medicines do," she adds. "It is good to take in a hot tea for colds, or can be taken in a dry powder. I can't say enough for Black-Draught and the sickness it has saved us."

Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT

has been found a valuable liver medicine, in thousands of homes. "I do not use any other liver medicine," says Mrs. Mary O. Brown, of Europa, Miss. "It is splendid for sour stomach, a bad taste in the mouth or torpid liver. I keep it all the time, use it with the children and feel it has saved its many dollars in doctor bills and many days in bed."

Insist on the genuine—Thedford's.

SPLENDID RECEPTION TO DR. WARD AND WIFE

The New President of Western Maryland College Feted at Westminster.

Rev. Dr. A. Norman Ward and wife, formerly residents of Salisbury, were tendered a brilliant reception by the good people of Westminster, Md., last Thursday night. People of all denominations crowded the National Guard Armory to pay their respects to Dr. Ward and his good wife.

The occasion was the assuming of the presidency of Western Maryland College, to which Dr. Ward was recently elected.

Dr. and Mrs. Ward were met at the entrance to the Armory by a large reception committee composed of Mayor Koontz and many of Westminster's leading men and women, and escorted to the stage.

The stage was beautifully draped in the background with college banners and in the foreground covered with flowers and growing plants. Mr. George E. Matthews was master of ceremonies. Mayor Howard E. Koontz presided and announced the numbers of the program.

Mayor Koontz, introducing Judge William H. Thomas, made an address of greeting, and Judge Thomas delivered an address of welcome to Dr. and Mrs. Ward, reviewing the history of the college from its beginning, when through the efforts of John Smith, of Wakefield, Isaac C. Baile and others the institution was founded in 1866 with its first group of buildings that were then valued at less than $50,000 to the structures now crowning College Hill and valued at little less than half a million.

Dr. Ward, in his response, announced that the college would make its new athletic field one of the finest in the State, equipped not only for the benefit of the men, but also of the women students of the college.

Miss Elma May Toudvine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah L. Toudvine, and Mr. Leon Matthews were married last week. Rev. R. L. Shipley, pastor of the M. P. Church, officiated.

No New Assessment To Be Made Soon

State Tax Commission So Advises Several Counties Who Had Been So Ordered.

There is not likely to be any new assessment of property ordered in Wicomico county for next year. Some time ago the State Tax Commission intimated that a new assessment would be ordered so as to be effective for the tax year of 1922, but no direct order had been given the County Commissioners. Four other counties, however, had been ordered to assess at once—Frederick, Washington, Harford and Montgomery.

All five counties sent a delegation to the State Tax Commission and told of the many objections to a re-assessment at this time, and intimated that court proceedings would even be resorted to.

The State Tax Commission was evidently impressed with the reasons advanced and this week notified the four counties above named that the matter of re-assessment would not be urged at this time, or, as they put it, "will not require compliance until further notice."

of party politics and our President wished to keep it out of politics, until it was proven to him that a referendum of the people was the only way to accomplish this great advance for the sake of humanity.

"It has been the one idea of the Republicans in this campaign," he continued, "to pick out the specks and the small mistakes of the Democratic administration, and to forget the large accomplishments.

"President Wilson did not win the war. The Democratic party did not win the war. But the young manhood of the country did. All Republicans, Democrats, or whatever their politics. The Democratic party does not claim the credit, but they do claim that under their administration, the war was conducted as efficiently as it was possible to conduct it, and that as few, if not fewer, mistakes were made, as would have been made under any other administration.

"The Republicans say we are incompetent, but I say, history will state that under the Democratic administration all was done that was humanly possible, and fewer mistakes were made than in any war in American history.

"The great candidate for President asks your support of this plan to save humanity from future bloodshed. Will you support him?" he concluded.

During the "flu" epidemic in 1918, Mr. Phillip C. Hitch became alarmed at the delays and difficulties many families were having in getting their dead interred, and returned to Laurel and arranged for his funeral so that his children would have no worry about it. TRUSTEE OF ALMSHOUSE FINED BY COURT

Superintendent and Matron of Sussex Institution Arraigned on Charge of Embezzlement and Fined.

On the 10th day of September, the trustees of the Alms House of Sussex County, Md., were arraigned in the Circuit Court of Sussex County, Md., on a charge of embezzlement. The trustees were fined $1,000 each with costs.

The trouble between the former superintendent and his wife and the trustees had its inception because of alleged maltreatment of some of the charges, and when they were notified to vacate on September 1st, according to the allegations, they removed from the institution goods amounting to approximately $500. When the trustees started to take an inventory they found that several articles were missing, whereupon they went to the home of the Pettyjohns, and obtained an admission from them that they had removed the articles.

The Pettyjohns, during their term of about three years at the institution brought the farm up to a good state of cultivation, and there was no fault to find with the manner in which they conducted the institution until some of the inmates commenced to make complaints of maltreatment.

The Destructive Storms Of Winter

HAVE no terrors for the farmer whose stores, stock, and implements are well housed. He knows that in the Spring he will find his stock in good condition to till the fields. He knows that he will find his implements free from rust and ready to do their work. He knows that snow, and rain, and ice will not affect the value of his stored crops.

He knows that a comfortable, weather-proof implement house will allow him many pleasant and profitable days repairing his machinery for next Spring. Repairs that could not be made in the sleet and wind of winter without protection from the cold are easy when the implement house affords the necessary protection.

He knows that farm machinery is valuable only so long as it can be depended upon. It can be depended on as long as it is housed from the weather and is looked after intelligently. For this reason, the wise farmer will build his implement house before bad weather begins,—that is, NOW!

NUMBER OF FARMS DECREASE IN WICOMICO DURING DECADE

STATE DECREASE MORE THAN 1,000

Frederick Is Shown To Be The Banner County. It Has 3,817 Farms Within Its Boundaries—Number in United States Increases Slightly in Past Ten Years.

According to figures just given out by the Census Bureau, Wicomico county has in 1920 2,504 farms as compared with 2,678 in 1910, a loss of 174 farms.

In this report the State of Maryland is shown to have had 47,908 farms in 1920. In 1910 the State had 48,923, and in 1900 there was 46,012. The last decade, therefore shows a decrease and indicates that some of the farming lands have been abandoned or turned into building lots and villages.

The census of Maryland farms by counties shows that Frederick county is the banner farming section of the State. That county has 3,817 farms within its boundaries, while Baltimore has 3,587 and Carroll 3,518.

The bureau says, however, that Baltimore county figures are not strictly comparable because of a change in boundary between 1910 and 1920. Baltimore city is accredited with 331 farms and the same proportion applies.

By counties the farming statistics for Maryland are as follows, the first figure given being the number of farms this year and the second figure being for 1910

Alleghany, 99, 1,021; Anne Arundel, 1,965, 2,038; Baltimore, 3,577, 4,178; Baltimore city, 331, 23; Calvert, 1,130, 1,080; Caroline, 2,071, 2,126; Carroll, 3,518, 3,484; Cecil, 1,740, 1,717; Charles, 1,985, 1,623; Dorchester, 2,019, 2,214; Frederick, 3,817, 3,804; Garrett, 1,310, 2,076; Harford, 2,399, 2,512; Howard, 1,297, 1,385; Kent, 1,032, 1,903; Montgomery, 2,145, 2,442; Prince George's, 2,457, 2,288; Queen Anne's, 1,409, 1,421; St. Mary's, 1,799, 1,625; Somerset, 1,820, 1,986; Talbot, 1,205, 1,297; Washington, 2,544, 2,456; Wicomico, 2,504, 2,678; Worcester, 2,334, 2,344.

The number of farms in the United States, given in detail, by states and counties, was announced by the Census Bureau as 6,459,998, as compared with 6,361,502 in 1910, and 5,737,272 20 years ago. The per cent of increase for 1920 over 1910, was 15.

WOMEN LIKELY TO BE CHOSEN AS ELDERS

The Newcastle Presbytery Will Decide Admission To Office At The Next Spring Meeting.

At the closing session Thursday of the one hundred and fifth stated meeting of the Newcastle Presbytery, which comprises the churches of that denomination in Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, which was held in Rock Presbyterian Church, near Fair Hill. A matter of major importance was considered. It was the possibility of women holding official positions in the church.

A number of the ministers made strong pleas for the authorization of the election of women to positions of eldership or deaconship in the church. It was declared that women had achieved their right to participate in the political activities of the nation. Rev. William Gibson, of Georgetown, made a strong argument in favor of the question declaring that giving women a right in this matter was a national issue. The question of giving women the right to hold office in the church was not settled. A motion to adopt such official action was at first carried. Then a motion to adopt an amendment which would provide further consideration in the matter at the spring meeting of the Presbytery in April was advanced. The vote in favor and opposed to the adoption of the amendment was equally divided. Moderator W. S. Kruger, of Snow Hill, Md., who was called upon to break the tie cast his vote in favor of the amendment. The question of giving women the right to hold official positions in the church will, therefore, not be finally decided until the spring meeting of the Presbytery although there was strong indications at Thursday's gathering that the motion will become a permanent rule of the church.

TOMATO CANNERIES CLOSE FOR THE SEASON

Tomato canning has stopped in Wicomico county. It is estimated that from 25 to 30 per cent of the season's crop is still in the fields, where it will rot because of the absence of any market. Although county growers had one of the largest crops in recent years, this year will be remembered as one of the most unsuccessful seasons for tomatoes in the history of the tomato industry. The fewest canneries in years were in operation in Wicomico county this season.

Over 40 Millions War Risk Insurance

War Risk Insurance has been written by the Federal Government for men in the service to the extent of forty millions, according to the latest information from the Treasury Department. How this vast sum has been handled is shown by the very interesting tabulation below:

The Marine and Seamen's Insurance Division has done a total business of $2,390,074,385.00; with premiums collected amounting to $47,585,072.00; on 33,395 policies, resulting in paid claims of $29,830,746.00, and a surplus over expenses and refunds of approximately $17,500,000.00.

The Allotment and Allowance Division has approved 2,098,149 claims for allotment and allowance involving payments for allotment amounting to $290,019,861.35; for allowance amounting to $267,960,875.91; with a total expenditure of $557,981,737.26.

The Compensation and Insurance Claims Division has approved 46,527 claims for compensation on account of deaths in the service, and 200,063 claims for compensation on account of disabilities through service. At present making payment on 43,677 cases of death claims with a monthly expenditure of $1,151,399.85; and payment on 143,580 cases of disability claims with a monthly expenditure of $5,235,178.10; including 31,487 burial awards with a commuted value of $2,221,000.67.

The Insurance Division wrote, during the war and to date, 4,640,049 War Risk Term Insurance policies covering insurance to the amount of $40,331,640,000.00. The gross premium remittances from all sources approximated $356,987,730.29; 130,017 claims for War Risk Term Insurance allowed on account of death are represented by insurance to the amount claims for War Risk Term Insurance allowed on account of permanent and total disability involve insurance to the amount of $29,577,540.00. During the month of August, 1920, alone, the total disbursements on War Risk Term Insurance claims amounted to $7,320,607.46.

The Medical Division through the administration of which the Government became medical advisor to the army of men exposed to all the hazards of war, has developed a medical practice of the following proportions: Claimants ordered for physical examination, 508,973; patients admitted to hospitals under government supervision, 65,129; patients at present receiving hospital treatment, 19,499; potential patients, 641,000.

New Fire Engine Adds Protection

American La France Fire Engine Is Latest Model. Has Capacity of 10,000 Gallons.

The already great efficiency of the Salisbury Fire Department has been materially increased. The new American LaFrance fire engine which was ordered about a year ago by the City Council was delivered last week and is now in the engine house at the City Hall. The new apparatus cost $12,500 and is complete in every detail. It is the last word in fire-fighting equipment.

The new engine is similar to the one bought from the same company about four years ago at a cost of $9,000, which had a pumping capacity of 9,000 gallons per minute, but has thrown as much as 11,000 gallons. The latest addition to the equipment has a capacity of 10,000 gallons, but will probably run as high as 12,000 if necessary.

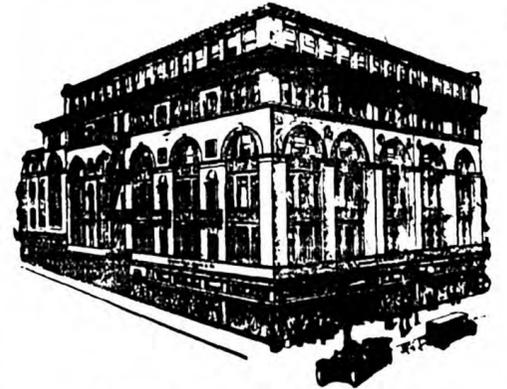

The engine was greatly needed, because the old steam engines used by the Fire Department could not be depended upon, and the first LaFrance machine was used on all occasions. The engine that has been used by the city for nearly 50 years will be kept as a reminder of the first days of the city's volunteer fire-fighting organization. The second one, about 25 years old, will be disposed of.

THE MAN-ABOUT-TOWN.

Scraps He Picks Up Here, There And Everywhere.

A strange story comes from Watts Island, which is vouched for by many reputable people, detailing the doings of the "Watts Island Hermit," how a university student spent ten years on a lonely island, and how he finally sought civilization. The story goes: After living alone on Watts Island in Chesapeake Bay for ten years, Charles H. Hardenburg, of Trenton, N. J., has gone back to civilization. He was a law student at Princeton University and his health not being of the best he made a wager with some friends that he would isolate himself for ten years, away from men and women and alone with his books. He kept his word and now, at the age of 34 years, goes back to the bustling world to see many things that have been created since he became a hermit and a recluse. His brother, Dr. Daniel S. Hardenburg, bought the island for him and there he went.

His life in many ways was strenuous and often he as in dire need of food, but once a year he went to Onancock, Va., or Crisfield, Md., to get supplies. For a time he cultivated the island of four acres, laying between Tangier and Fox Islands, but his horses died and he never replaced them. His nearest neighbor was the lighthouse keeper of Watt's light, several miles distant, and the two had arranged a series of signals whereby Hardenburg could call for food or assistance.

At one time, during severe winter weather, he came near starving, but a timely derelict boat laden with provisions was washed to the shore of his island. At another time the keeper of the light at Tangier, several miles to the north, saw the hermit's signals of distress and managed to send to Watt's Island, over the ice, a sled laden with clothing and food.

When his friend, the lighthouse keeper moved away the hermit was selected by the government to keep the supply of gas in the lighthouse. A new tender will have to be supplied as Hardenburg sold his possessions last week and the island is now in the market. The returning recluse says his health has been restored and he has been able to learn much during his seclusion.

The noble Red Man is at last showing that he is taking kindly to the ways of his pale-faced brethren. He is buying silk shirts at $12 each and silk hose at $5 a pair. Also, he dotes on automobiles, and buys them in flocks, meantime further copying the ways of the whites in demanding that California ranchmen pay $15 a day for shearing sheep, while the squaws exact $3 a day for housework. "Poor Lo" evidently is making a place for himself in these reconstruction times. He is losing out as a picturesque aborigine by substituting silk for yellow or red paint, and in covering his lithe, sinewy legs with the conventional apparel of civilization. Directly the Indian will be no better than the mere white man.

A surprise of the census is revealed in the count of Missouri, which is found to have increased in population only 3.3 per cent in the past ten years. This is the smallest growth made by any State thus far returned, and the enumerators are at a loss to account for it. As an exact fact, the growth of the population has been less than 25,000 in the State as is shown by subtracting from the gain in the State of 110,212, the increase in St. Louis alone, which is reported at 85,868. For many decades Missouri bounded ahead, until she jumped into seventh place in the list of States, and when the detailed returns from other cities and towns are considered, they will show the rural sections to have lost probably 6 to 8 per cent in population. The figures prove that the country has erroneously believed the "away from the farm" move was chiefly confined to the Eastern and Middle States, and had not extended to the agricultural sections where land is so productive and obtainable at such a moderate price as it is in Missouri. The later census reports are showing more clearly than the preceding ones the necessity for a national legislative solution of the great problem of keeping the farms of the country under continuous cultivation.

A Few Facts

Messrs. Tilghman Lime & Supply Co., Fruitland, Md.

Regarding the soil testing campaign for acidity, or in other words whether lime was needed or not, I find the following results: Of the 81 samples that this office has tested to date, 77 farms needed lime.

To date, the Maryland Agricultural College has tested 1,100 samples of soil, and found that 74% needed lime, and practically all of the samples showing no acidity came from fields that have been limed during the past two or three years.

I believe that the proper use of lime will correct many of our ills. Very truly yours, (Signed) G. R. COBB, County Agent Wicomico County.

NO REDUCTION IN THE PRICES OF DODGE CARS

Official Announcement Comes To L. W. Gunby Company. The Dodge Brothers Dealers in Salisbury.

Official confirmation of press dispatches from Detroit, announcing that there would be no reduction in the price of Dodge Brother Motor Cars, has been received by L. W. Gunby Company, the Dodge Brothers dealers in Salisbury. A telegram from C. W. Matheson, acting general sales manager to the local dealers, reads:

"Dodge Brothers' policy has ever been to give full value for the price asked. There will be no reduction in the present prices of Dodge Brothers motor cars. Newspaper reports to the contrary are absolutely untrue." "Dodge Brothers' announcement was no surprise to us," said L. W. Gunby Company. "In fact, it is only a substantiation of Dodge Brothers' business principles. At no time have they ever demanded an excess amount for their product. As in the past, they will continue in the future to demand a fair return for their efforts."

"The mere fact that the demand for Dodge Brothers' motor cars is still greater than the supply, despite the great expansion program at the factory, has absolutely nothing to do with the decision to continue the present prices. In marketing their car Dodge Brothers have never made a point of price and will never sacrifice the quality of their product to enter price competition."

Another Cut In The Price Of Sugar

Federal Company Announces Reduction to 12 Cents a Pound. Lower Price Looked For.

The Federal Sugar Refining Company has announced a further cut in its price on refined sugar of one-half cent to 12 cents a pound. At the offices of the company it was said that there is little demand for the commodity, people making their purchases on a hand-to-mouth scale. This is the second reduction in a week in the price of sugar by this company.

The American Sugar Refining Company is still filling back orders at 22½ cents a pound. This company has withdrawn from the public market and is only filling orders now on its books. The cut in the price of sugar was first noted about a month ago, when all companies were asking 22½ to 23 cents a pound. Since then one cut has followed another with great rapidity.

ISSUES OF 1920 CAMPAIGN AS SEEN BY BOTH PARTIES

THRU DEMOCRATIC GLASSES. THRU REPUBLICAN GLASSES.

President Wilson Thursday night entered the campaign by issuing his first direct appeal to the voters to sustain the League of Nations in the referendum that is to be taken in the November election.

This statement, announced as the first of a series which will be issued by the President in the final month of the campaign, is addressed to "My fellow-countrymen." It forcibly attacks the arguments of the opponents of the treaty, who he says would "substitute America for Prussia in the policy of isolation and defiant segregation."

In this appeal the President deals with one phase of the League of Nations, Article X. In subsequent addresses which he plans to make to the voters, it is announced, he will discuss other vital and controverted features of the covenant. This, it is believed, makes the League the real and only issue of the campaign, which will form the driving appeal of the Democratic speakers in the last days of the fight.

Governor Cox returned home from his 10,000-mile campaign trip and on arrival expressed confidence that the tide had turned against the reactionary leaders, who, he charges, nominated Senator Harding at Chicago in defiance of the will of the people, and declared that they would find themselves repudiated at the polls in November.

Governor Cox has been receiving reports from leaders in many parts of the country that the effect of his campaign is being felt and that the crest of the sentiment, which Republican leaders contended would carry them to victory, had passed.

Chairman George White, of the Democratic National Committee, Senator Harrison, the head of the speakers' bureau, and E. H. Moore, Governor Cox's pre-convention manager, held a conference with the Democratic candidate at Trail's End to formulate plans for the closing week of the campaign. They decided on a strong drive, during which the activities of Governor Cox will be concentrated on the larger states of the Middle West and East where, the leaders believe, a swing to the Governor has now begun, despite the assertion of the Republicans that all is over but the shouting.

The predominant message, which was brought to the Governor at Trail's End, was that evidence was growing of many voters having turned from Senator Harding, and that a driving finish during the last month would bring Cox victory. These reports are based in part upon the apparent apathy among the rank and file of Republican voters in regard to Harding.

As the schedule was laid out the Governor will spend the bulk of his time before election day in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, New York, New Jersey and West Virginia, but will also speak in Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri, and give two days to New England.

FARM MEETING PLANS ARE NOW COMPLETE

Executive Board of Agricultural Society Maps Out Program For Salisbury Gathering.

The executive council of the Maryland Agricultural Society at its meeting in Baltimore last week made arrangements for the annual State Farmers Conference to be held in Salisbury on November 9, 10 and 11 under direction of the society and its affiliated organizations.

The themes to be discussed at the conference will be marketing of farm products, organization of farmers, and farm legislation. Special committees were appointed to bring in reports on these themes for discussion. A special committee also was appointed to draw up an agricultural program for the State.

The Maryland Agricultural Society will hold its meetings in the mornings and evenings, and the affiliated organizations will meet in the afternoons. Among the speakers expected to be present are Governor Ritchie, J. T. Howard, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Secretary of Agriculture Meredith; Governor Townsend, of Delaware; H. E. Jackson, of Washington; Gray Silver, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Charles Lyman, secretary of the National Bureau of Farm Organizations; State Senator Orlando Harrison, who will talk on state legislation for farm-question as he has so frequently stated that he is dry that he did not know anyone could think him otherwise. In fact, he made his primary fight as a dry candidate against Mr. Robertson, the wet candidate.

During the past few days there has been heard quite a great deal about Cambridge acquiring the Wallace property, at the corner of Court Lane and Gay streets as a home for all of the city departments. It is claimed by some that the property is by far the best location that could be acquired; that is convenient to the business section of the city; that there is ample room for the expansion of any department; that there is plenty of room for all and that with very little expense it could be put into such shape as to make it the pride and envy of every city of like size. It is reported that Mr. Phillips, the present owner of the property, would be willing to take the present City Hall and Fire Department in exchange for the property so that the cash outlay would be very small.

Joseph Bantum, a colored man who had at various times worked for Mr. and Mrs. Hooper, in connection with the Hotel Dixon and the Chesadel at East New Market, for the past 25 years, dropped dead Monday morning in the kitchen of the Dixon a few minutes after seven o'clock.

Chamber Of Comrce Is Co-operating With Local Merchants To Make Great Sale.

WILL PROVE SASBURY IS SHOPPING CENTER

Gigantic Sale Planned by More Than Fifty Business Hops Will Test Out Experiment That Has Been Successful Elsewhere and Has Cut Living Costs.

Dollar Day is something that has heretofore been known in this section by repute only. Now it is to become an actuality to the people of Wicomico and the surrounding counties.

The progressive merchants of the city are putting on an intensive advertising campaign to convince the public that Salisbury is really the shopping center of the Eastern Shore. In order to do this, they are holding next week a gigantic sale.

Fifty or more stores co-operating with the Merchant Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and are offering high quality goods at exceedingly low prices. The bargains embrace everything from home strings to wire nails and can be purchased at any time during the week of October 25-30 for one dollar.

The trend of prices at present is to be downward, and there is no certainty that the price will see them brought to a higher level. For this reason, such a monumental sale as that planned by local business men is a decidedly forward step in the direction of economic progress.

The committee has returned no stone that might give Salisbury the prominence the city deserves in fighting living costs. Thousands of circulars have been spread broadcast over the peninsula and a half page of newspaper advertising has been utilized. If the public does not take advantage of the experiment, the public alone will suffer.

There is more to an undertaking than appears on its surface. If this experiment is a success it will mean that other projects of a similar nature will be carried out in the future, with a proportionate lowering of living costs. And it means more, too. It means that if the Dollar Day week is a success, Salisbury will hold the undisputed title as the shopping center of the Eastern Shore.

The city is unquestionably situated in a strategic position. The problem of the Chamber of Commerce is to confirm this conviction in the minds of the people of the surrounding communities. When this belief has taken root, Salisbury will grow as it has never grown before. As it grows, so will each individual who lives here grow.

The Dollar Day experiment is but the first step in a program to inculcate this belief in the public mind. The committee has high hopes, not only of success, but of putting across in full strength the fact that the shopping center of the Eastern Shore is Salisbury.

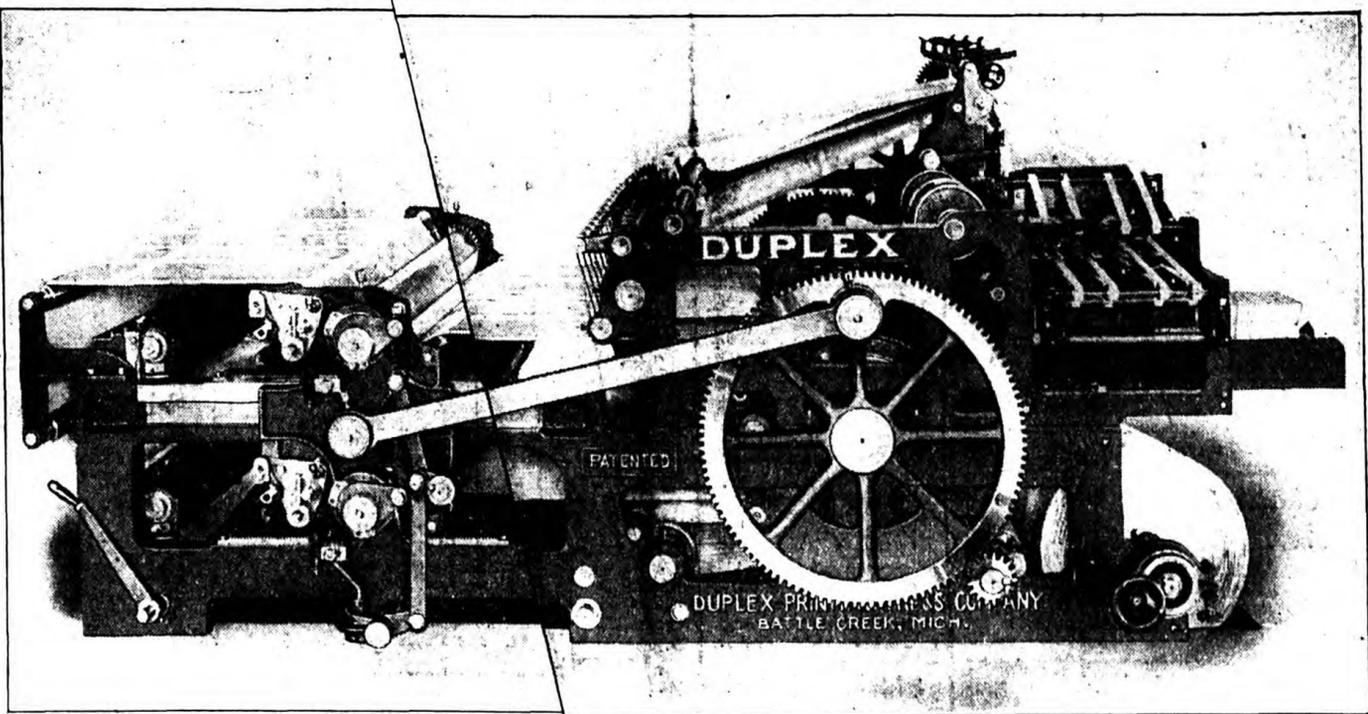

"Rotary Baby" Gives Mother Club Busy Day

Wilmington Visitors Entertained At Luncheon, Dance, Banquet and in Homes. Day Is Enjoyed.

Thirty members of the Rotary Club of Wilmington, many accompanied by their wives, were guests of the local club on Thursday afternoon and evening. The visitors were met at the station and were taken by motor to the home of Mr. F. P. Adkins where a delightful buffet luncheon was served.

In the afternoon, automobiles carried them through the surrounding country and to the Homestead Dairy Farms and the farms of Mr. William F. Allen. A banquet, followed by dancing and vaudeville entertainments from the Arcade Theatre, at the First Regiment Armory were the features of the evening.

The visitors were entertained Thursday night in the home of the Salisbury members and returned to Wilmington Friday morning. Since it was through the Wilmington club that Salisbury was granted a Rotary charter, the spirit of friendship between the two organizations is intense. In fact, Salisbury is now as "Wilmington's Rotary Baby."

NEW DUPLIX HIGH SPEED PRESS FOR WICOMICO NEWS' READERS

Prints 1,800 Complete Papers An Hour And Puts Salisbury Far In Advance Of Other Eastern Shore Centers In Journalistic Progress. New Press Is Admirably Adapted To Hustling City In Which It Is Operated. Marks Another Step In WICOMICO NEWS' Policy Of Progressiveness And Alertness To The Needs Of The People And The Community Which It Serves.

Salisbury is growing so fast. The News. To take care of the growth of a progressive city, and to render adequate service to the great mass of readers and advertisers of The News, a new press has been installed in the new home of the Peninsula's leading newspaper and this issue is the first to be printed on it.

Salisbury has become too large to depend on the old fashioned equipment in use by most weekly newspapers. Realizing this, The News Publishing Company has added to its equipment the latest model printing machinery on the market. To give a faster news service, and one that can take care of happening up until a short time before going to press, the big newspaper press pictured above has been erected in the basement of The News' new home on Main Street. By taking this action, The News shows its faith in Salisbury, in Wicomico county, and in the Eastern Shore.

If it did not believe that this garden spot of Maryland was destined to become the leading section of the Peninsula, such equipment as that described would not have been purchased. It would not have been needed. The News is now ready to meet and help in the development and progress of the future. When the time comes to institute a daily paper, and that time is not far off, The News will lend the way.

The new machine is a Model "A" Duplex Perfecting Press. The copy of The News which you are holding in your hands was printed on this press, cut and folded in one second. Sixty copies like it were run within the same minute. The new press has an additional column in width and about two inches in length. In other words, sixteen pages of the new size are equivalent to more than twenty pages of the old size.

The Model "A" is usually installed only by daily papers, but its adaptability to The News' equipment is indicated by the progressive policy of The News Publishing Company.

The press weighs nearly 24,000 pounds, occupies 140 square feet of floor space and has approximately 4,000 parts. It was built in Battle Creek, Michigan and was erected in The News' plant by an expert machinist, Mr. J. G. Duffield, who came from the home plant. It took nearly a week to set up this new machinery.

The working day might be so that the issue of the day might be printed on it.

The Model "A" will print, cut and fold for making 1,800 paper per hour of four, six, eight pages. The roll of paper from which this is printed weighs nearly 1,000 pounds, is 70 inches wide, and is nearly four miles in length.

At a later date, when the new building is completely ready for occupancy, friends of The News will be invited to a reception at the plant and will have an opportunity to see not only this big press at work, but the linotype machines, automatic presses, and other interesting features of the place where the people's newspaper is published. The new offices will be models of their kind and will prove of interest to many News' readers.

The equipment installed means that The News will be better able than ever to give its readers the service they want and require. Recognized all over the State as one of Maryland's leading weekly journals, The News' reputation for honest service to its patrons, ability to deliver commercial printing that satisfies, and progressive policy of boosting the community in which it is published, will be enhanced by a press that is able to print the kind of paper adapted to a hustling city and a fertile farming territory.

In the future, as always in the past, The News will devote its energy and influence to co-operating with the greatest number of people in the county for the greatest amount of good. That The News is the people's paper is proved by the fact that within the past week more than 58 VOLUNTARY subscriptions have been received. That fact speaks for itself.

The News belongs to its readers. Its columns are always open. Every reader will be benefited in proportion as he uses them for either news articles or advertising both bring the results for which they are written. The staff of The News is always the service of its readers. This service applies not only to news gathering and advertising but as well to other cooperation.

Other Noted Speakers For Democratic Mass Meeting on October 23. Candidates May Be Present.

John Temple Graves, noted novelist and lecturer, will address a mass meeting under the Democratic auspices here on the evening of October 23, according to advice received by the Democratic State Central Committee. His main topic will be the League of Nations.

Several other prominent speakers are to be present, if the plans of the committee materialize. They will be Hon. T. Alan Goldborough, Democratic candidate for Congress; Hon. E. Brooke Lee, Comptroller of Maryland; Judge J. Harry Covington, of Eastern, and Hon. John Walter Smith.

The meeting place has not been determined upon, but the public will be notified in ample time to gather and hear this group of leading citizens speak.

COMPLETE ELECTION RETURNS WILL BE RECEIVED AT NEWS OFFICE

Special Arrangements Made With Central Committees Of Democratic And Republican Parties To Handle All Returns. Screen On Salisbury B. L. & B. Association Building Will Give Information. Results Will Include Full Details From Precincts In County. Telegraphic Service Complete In Every Detail. Delmar Gets Returns.

The Wicomico News, with the cooperation of the State Central Committees of the two great political parties, will give to the people of Salisbury and Wicomico county the complete election returns of the United States on the night of November 2.

The service has been made possible by the co-operation of Democratic and Republican headquarters, The Western Union Telegraph Company, The Associated Press, Ulman's Opera House, and officials of the Eastern Shore Gas & Electric Company and the Salisbury Building, Loan and Banking Association.

A special telegraphic wire will be run into The News' building on the corner of Main and Division streets and the returns flashed to a screen on the third floor of the bank opposite. Through the courtesy of the Raymond K. Truitt Insurance Company, the screen will be placed on the Division street end of the bank building so that through eager to receive the news can gather on the Court House lawn. This arrangement should do much to obviate the usual crowding on streets.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has made plans to obtain the returns in each precinct of Wicomico county and consequently the local returns of the election should begin coming in about eight o'clock. Heretofore returns have been only partially coming in by telephone at a rate of one call about every 15 minutes. The service that The News and Central Committees have arranged for will be complete in every detail. Salisbury will get exactly the same information that is obtained in larger cities on election night from the big daily papers.

Plans have also been made to give the full returns in Delmar. There a special representative of The News will have charge of a bulletin board, which will be placed in the old Galman and Bryan Restaurant, on Railroad avenue, and the returns as they come in will also be announced from the porch on the second floor of the old Veay Hotel. Chairs will be provided for the ladies in the old restaurant building, as it is expected that they will be out there in greater force than ever before. This Delmar service will have special telephone connections with The News office in Salisbury, which will insure immediate bulletining of the returns there as fast as received at the Salisbury office. The telephone number of this office in Delmar will be announced next week, and anyone in Delmar can call these numbers at any time and get what information The News may have.

Mr. O. L. Byrd, manager of the Western Union, will detail an operator for election night. The messages will be received by him in an office on the second floor of The News building and movie slides prepared and flashed on the screen. Simultaneously the news will be telephoned to Delmar and there bulletined by The News representative. Then the message will go to the headquarters of the two parties for tabulation.

Those who are unfortunate enough to be prevented from being in the city on election night can get any available information by calling The News on phone 91 or 1145, the Delmar office on Jones numbers to be announced later; Democratic Headquarters on phone 273; or Republican Headquarters on phone 600. The tabulated totals will be kept at the headquarters of both committees.

The plans for giving Salisbury and Delmar the complete election returns are comprehensive in every detail. Nothing has been omitted that might give the news room to the public. The arrangements have met the unreserved approval of both the Democratic and the Republican Central Committees, and will undoubtedly meet with the same approval from the public.

Proceeds of Week's Sale Go to Hospital Fund

Mr. Michael Schuchman, proprietor of the American Style Shop on the corner of Main and Dock streets, turned over to The News this morning a check for $114.00 to be given to the authorities in charge of the Hospital Campaign fund for a new building. Last week Mr. Schuchman advertised in The News that he would give ten cents on every dollar made on sales in his store during the week to the hospital. That the sale was a success is manifest by the size of the check. It is just one more manifestation of the fact that the drive is going to be a success.

A new insurance partnership has been formed in Salisbury. The contracting parties are Mr. Charles H. Weir and Mr. Thomas W. H. White, Jr. Mr. Weir has been connected for 13 years with the Aetna Life Insurance Company and the Automobile Insurance Company of Hartford.

At a later date, when the new building is completely ready for occupancy, friends of The News will be invited to a reception at the plant and will have an opportunity to see not only this big press at work, but the linotype machines, automatic presses, and other interesting features of the place where the people's newspaper is published. The new offices will be models of their kind and will prove of interest to many News' readers.

The equipment installed means that The News will be better able than ever to give its readers the service they want and require. Recognized all over the State as one of Maryland's leading weekly journals, The News' reputation for honest service to its patrons, ability to deliver commercial printing that satisfies, and progressive policy of boosting the community in which it is published, will be enhanced by a press that is able to print the kind of paper adapted to a hustling city and a fertile farming territory.

In the future, as always in the past, The News will devote its energy and influence to co-operating with the greatest number of people in the county for the greatest amount of good. That The News is the people's paper is proved by the fact that within the past week more than 58 VOLUNTARY subscriptions have been received. That fact speaks for itself.

The News belongs to its readers. Its columns are always open. Every reader will be benefited in proportion as he uses them for either news articles or advertising both bring the results for which they are written. Fill Your Blood With Iron If You Want To Be Strong

WITH PLENTY OF ENERGY AND POWER

Says Physician—Explains How Organic Iron Like Nuxated Iron Often Increases the Strength of Weak, Nervous, Run-down People In Two Weeks' Time.

You cannot expect to forge ahead in life with plenty of energy and power if your blood is thin and watery any more than you can hope to run an automobile on water instead of gasoline. It takes pure, rich blood—rich in iron—to keep the human machine working right. Without iron your every action lacks power, your red blood corpuscles die by millions, the strength goes from your body and you drop among the weaklings and feeblers.

But when such men and women supply the right kind of iron to their blood, a most surprising change often takes place," says Dr. John J. Van Home, formerly Medical Inspector and Chief Physician on the Board of Health of New York City. "The weak, colorless blood which has been moving sluggishly at the veins becomes rich and red and courses through the body, building healthy tissue, giving renewed force and increased strength. Without this rich, red blood with plenty of iron in it, there can be no physical perfection of face to carry on one's work. Yet to take the wrong kind of iron may prove worse than useless just as the wrong sort of food will often fail to give the proper nourishment. Organic iron—Nuxated Iron—by enriching the blood and creating new blood cells, strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the muscles and helps up the whole system with fresh vigor and endurance whether the person be young or old. I strongly advise every man or woman who is faced out by

MARYLAND HAPPENINGS IN BRIEF FORM

Aldon S. Condict, of Keyser, purchased a tract of 5.128 acres of land, situated near Rawlings, at a mortgagee's sale Saturday morning, for $2,000 over the mortgage of $14,000. The property was formerly owned by Mr. and Mrs. Silas A. Condict and is known as "Big Survey" and as "Hoyes Coal, Iron and Lime Discovery."

C. C. Blough, 31 years old, was instantly killed Saturday near Windber when his coat caught in the drive wheel of a threshing machine and he was thrown violently against a tractor. He sustained a fracture of the skull and a broken neck. Surviving are his widow and two children.

A motor house car, 30 feet long, 9 1/2 feet high and 7 1/2 feet in width, equipped with baths, beds, chairs, heating apparatus, cooking utensils and all the paraphernalia of a comfortable home, has been built for Charles A. Hyde, Hagerstown, who conducted a farm for many years near Clearspring. On the sides of the house car portraits of President Wilson and Gen. John J. Pershing and a shield, draped with American flags, have been painted by William Downs, a local artist. Mr. Hyde will take a trip in the house car, with his family, to California.

Mrs. Hester Collins, wife of William H. Collins, a retired farmer, living near Grove, died suddenly Sunday afternoon. With her husband, she had gone to church at Harmony and taken her seat in the pew. Before the service began she had an attack of heart trouble and died in a few minutes and before she was removed from the church. Her husband and four grown children survive: William E. Collins, Mrs. Rose Robinson, Mrs. Bessie Swayne and Mrs. Elbert Taylor.

Fire wrecked the garage building of the Hagerstown Storage and Transfer Company, West Franklin street, and badly damaged 15 used automobiles and three new cars, entailing a loss estimated at $15,000. The fire started from blazing gasoline ignited by friction while Melvin Dusing, an employe, was cleaning an automobile.

A double wedding took place Thursday morning at Money-Maker Farm, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harry Barnes, of Trappe, Md., when their daughter, Miss Cora LeCompte, became the bride of George L. Walker, of Easton, and Miss Mary Neva Seymour, of Easton, became the bride of W. Stanley Macklem. Both ceremonies were performed by Rev. Frank Whitted of Ridgely.

Horace Williams, 28 years old, employed in the Emergency Hospital, Easton, with a bullet wound through his stomach and is not expected to live, as a result of a shooting affray over a game of "craps" at St. Michaels Spady, 30 years old, colored, in the St. Michaels jail, charged with the shooting, having been arrested after he was halted with a fusille of bullet and forced to swim back from his start across the Miles river. The game of "craps" had been going on at the steamboat wharf between negro oyster packers and stevedores. A number of white men were in the crowd. Williams, it seems, was winning all the money. He had succeeded in "fading" about $50 from Spady, when the latter called a halt to the game and accused him of using loaded dice. A tussle ensued, and Spady drawing his gun, shot Williams through the abdomen.

Although Maryland ranked twenty-eighth in population in the 1920 census, only 13 States paid a greater internal revenue tax into the Government during the fiscal year which ended June 30 last, according to an announcement from the Internal Revenue Bureau. Figures made public by the Bureau show that Maryland paid a total of $81,452,867.89 to the Government, of which amount $49,952,391.73 was in excess profits and income taxes and $31,500,476.16 in other miscellaneous taxes. The figures show that in the fiscal year of 1918, the income and excess profits tax from Maryland amounted to $40,003,951.94; in the fiscal year 1919, the total was $30,330,214.85. The increase in the fiscal year of 1920 over the fiscal year 1919 in Maryland was 62 per cent.

Dr. Samuel Alexander Ross, of Crisfield, widely known on the Eastern Shore, was sentenced to jail for four months by Judge Rose, in the United States District Court. Dr. Ross pleaded guilty to a charge of violating the Volstead act by illegally prescribing for whiskey. There were 38 charges against the physician, to five of which, on the advice of his counsel, he entered pleas of guilty. The remaining 33 indictments will probably be nolle prossed. Besides being deprived of his liberty, Dr. Ross will be forced to pay the Government a considerable amount of money in taxes. Internal Revenue inspectors say they will immediately set to work to collect the tax on each of the 35 whisky that was withdrawn from bond through his prescriptions. This will amount to about $1 a gallon, with an added penalty. He will be required to pay another penalty for having sold liquor without first having a Federal retail liquor dealer's license.

There is another side to the picture that is as bright and full of hope and promise as the dark side is of needless suffering and terror and despair.

DOLLAR DAY WEEK.

In spite of declining prices reported in other centres, the high cost of living has not been materially lowered in Salisbury up to the present time.

Comparatively speaking, living costs in Salisbury are below the average costs in other cities. Still everyone would like to see things come down to a lower level.

Without doubt the experiment will attract visitors from all over the shore, and once they have become acquainted with the excellent stores of Salisbury, the city will in reality become the "Shopping Centre of the Eastern Shore."

FAITH IN AMERICA.

Lack of faith in those with whom we have relations, whether social, political, or economic, is undoubtedly the basis of much unrest.

When two men of opposite political faiths indulge in argument, an uninformed bystander would be led to believe that in the triumph of either party the country would suffer catastrophe.

There are those so shortsighted and narrow-minded as to believe that there is no good in the world. That is because they have no faith in anything, least of all in themselves.

History teaches one important lesson; that those who have faith shall be rewarded. It is a lesson that through all the ages have given up hope for first this great nation and then that, but these nations continue to prosper.

Explains Position in Open Letter to Senator L. Atwood Bennett.

L. Atwood Bennett, Esq., Salisbury, Md. My dear Mr. Bennett:—I have your letter in which you so kindly express absolute confidence in my position on the temperance question.

My views are as follows: (1) The Constitution does not permit the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors.

Again thank you for your expression of high regard and respect, which I am sure you are fully appreciated by me, I am,

Very sincerely yours, T. Alan Goldsborough.

How hard work, faith and fertilization turned arid land into a garden and made an original investment of $1,000 thirty years ago grow to a property exceeding $100,000 today, was interestingly told to a special representative of The News by Mr. William F. Allen, a well known plant and fruit grower of Wicomico county.

At the age of 17, Mr. Allen, who was then working on his father's farm near Allen a town, incidentally named after his grandfather—invested $15 in strawberry plants. He borrowed the money for his first purchase from a firm in Philadelphia for whom he was soliciting shipments in this territory. The variety, one of which was the May King, selected at the beginning of the Allen plant industry, are not now grown, but at that time were extensively raised.

Having set out his plants on his father's farm, he began to look for buyers. For the first few years he advertised widely in farm journals and by means of booklets and catalogs. In the third year he used more than $400 worth of advertising space, at a time when space did not command the price it does today. Considering the youth of the project, the advertising appropriation was a decidedly large one.

When the bill for his advertising became due, Mr. Allen had but $100 with which to meet the obligation. He wrote Henry Kendall, for whom his oldest son is named, at Boston, told him exactly how he was situated, that he was a minor and had no security to offer beyond that of an honorable man's promise. Kendall sent him a check by return mail. The enterprise was by this time firmly established.

At the age of 27 he married and came to live on a farm of 50 acres on the Tony Tank road, for which he paid James Cannon $1,000. Five years later he bought 20 acres on the southern side of the Tony Tank road at a cost of $27 per acre. The land was grown up in weeds and brush and was seemingly too poor to raise anything else. But hard work, fertilization and faith did wonders. Today that same land is yielding big returns.

Mr. Allen is 55 years of age and is decidedly active in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the farmer. He is an interested member of the and other professions. The professional man usually works along a given groove; but in hundreds of cases, the farmer has no precedent to guide him. The sooner the people realize that farming is a high grade profession, and insist that only the best in the way of intelligent labor shall go to the farms, the sooner will agriculture become a paying business from which the public will derive dividend.

Mr. Allen expressed his belief that cold storage facilities at Salisbury would be a great benefit to the farmer. Good white potatoes, dairy products, meats, and apples could then be held here until the market became favorable. He does not think, however, that such a project should be cooperative.

Commenting upon present problems, Mr. Allen said that the buying of New York stable manure was proving unprofitable and should be stopped. More live stock and legumes are needed. He also pointed out the wonderful opportunity that the Chamber of Commerce now has to get behind the Wicomico Farmers Association and make it a success. In this connection he pointed out that Salisbury is not only a country city, and that as such is the people, particularly the business people, of the city realize that their prosperity is really dependent upon that of the farmer, all will be better off.

At a time like the present, when farmers everywhere are discouraged by the failure of their products to bring prices commensurate with their intrinsic value, and when there is much talk of a decided curtailment of crop acreage next season, perhaps the simple story of how one man's faith amassed a fortune may prove to be an inspiration. Hard work, fertilization and faith proved a winning combination for him. They will prove a much for another.

34TH ANNIVERSARY OF SALISBURY FIRE

Great Conflagration Which Devastated Wide Territory Recalled By Many On Monday.

Thirty-four years ago last Monday this fair little city was visited by the greatest conflagration that ever devastated a town in Maryland, outside of Baltimore city.

And many of today's inhabitants recalled the great calamity last Monday and rehearsed many stirring scenes incident to that fateful day. A News reporter heard several groups discussing the great fire.

It was on the 16th day of October, (Sunday evening) just as the church bells were calling the people to worship that the swift ringing of the fire alarm bell chimed in with its discordant note and soon the hurrying hundreds of terrified inhabitants were rushing towards Dock street, where the blaze started in a stable not far from where Lowe & Parker's big garage now stands.

Twenty-five acres of burned buildings, with only chimneys standing as lone sentinels, marked the spot where eight hours before stood a prosperous little city.

You ask the losses? From three to four millions of dollars! But heavy as these losses were, the pluck and determination of our people surmounted the awful catastrophe and today the bigger and better Salisbury stands forth—the undisputed champion of Eastern Shore cities!

It was thus that many people recalled last Monday the stirring scenes of October 16th, 1886!

This Estimate Falls Below That of Last Year By 2,000,000 Bushels.

The Bureau of Crop Estimates, U. S. Department of Agriculture, in a review of the corn crop in Maryland for 1920, estimates the total yield at 25,745,000 bushels as against 28,413,000 bushels for 1919.

District No. 1—Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. Corn not maturing as it should do, considerable of it is being cut green; season too cool and wet for corn, much of it is "anouty." Season two weeks late—two weeks dry weather in August slightly injured the corn crop; cutting of corn very late.

District No. 2—Baltimore, Carroll and Frederick counties. Corn, owing to early drought and later to excessive rains, will not equal the crop in 1919 in Frederick county.

District No. 3—Harford, Cecil and Kent counties. Weather conditions during September were generally favorable to all crops, but too dry for pastures. Season is above the average for maturing and cutting corn; no wind storms to blow it down.

District No. 4—Anne Arundel, Prince George, Howard and Montgomery counties. Corn will yield from a fair to a good crop, although grain is not as heavy as fodder would indicate.

District No. 5—Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's counties. Corn generally good.

District No. 6—Queen Anne, Caroline and Dorchester counties. Corn on high land is good but on flat land, heavy rains prevented thorough cultivation, consequently the crop there is not so good.

District No. 7—Worcester, Wicomico and Somerset counties. The greater part of the corn crop has been harvested; in some sections the ears are not well filled out, fodder abundant.

Estimates on the potato yields for Maryland are as follows: White, 5,610,000 bushels, as compared with 5,170,000 bushels in 1919. Sweet, 1,492,000 bushels, as compared with 1,680,000 bushels in 1919.

NEGRO ATTEMPTS ASSAULT ON DELMAR WOMAN

Prompt Pursuit And Pluck Of Miss Polly Culver Rewarded.

ALLEN WILLIAMS LATER CAUGHT

Got Over Back Fence of Home, Secured Ladder and Entered the House Through Second Story Window. S. N. Culver's Quick Wits Help In Speedy Capture.

To be confronted by a negro man in her room at night, pointing a pistol at her and demanding that if she "hollered" or made any noise he would kill her, was the terrible experience of Miss Polly Culver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Handy Culver, at her home on Mill street, Delmar, Thursday night, about 9:45, as she was preparing to retire for the night.

Miss Culver did not scream but immediately wrestled with the intruder and at one time came near getting the pistol away from him. Finally breaking away, she rushed down stairs, and without awaking her aged father and mother, she called Dora Hastings, a neighbor and told him of the attack.

Mr. Hastings, accompanied by William Culver, rushed to the scene of the assault, in the hopes that the negro had not been able to effect his escape, but they were too late.

Mr. S. N. Culver, a prominent clothing merchant of this town, and a brother of the lady attacked, had about this time closed his store and was returning home, when he met a negro, whom he thought he recognized as one who had recently worked for John Culver, on his farm near town, and who had recently left Delmar, near the office of Irving Culver. He called to him and asked when he had returned home, and the negro threw a flashlight in his face and answered, "Saturday." Mr. Culver then said: "What way the trouble, did you get homesick?" The negro did not answer this, but immediately fled. Mr. Culver at the time thought his actions peculiar, but proceeded to the home of his father where he met Mr. William Culver and Mr. Dora Hastings coming out of the house, with drawn revolvers. A hasty explanation of the assault occurred, and Mr. S. N. Culver, on account of the peculiar action of the negro he had just met, and the fact that he was coming from the direction of the house when he met him, took this as a clue and a pursuit was started at once.

Mr. Culver, figuring on his recognition of the colored man whom he had just met, led the pursuing party to the farm of John Culver, a short distance from this town, where they apprehended a young negro, named Allen Williams, aged about 17 years, and brought him to the office of Justice Sam Yingling, here. There, in the presence of Mr. Yingling, P. H. Hearn and the other members of the party he confessed that it was he that had committed the attempted assault. His story was substantially as follows:

The negro had entered the yard of the home over a back fence, and there he had secured a ladder which he had placed to the second story window of the home and had entered in this manner the bedroom of Miss Culver on the second floor. He jumped into the room with revolver drawn and met Miss Culver in the act of retiring. He commanded her at the risk of her life to make no noise, but was completely surprised when she showed fight. The struggle lasted for some time, and finally when Miss Culver broke loose and rushed from the room, he decided to make his getaway. He left the house by the ladder.

On Friday morning the deputy sheriff of Sussex county arrived in Delmar and took the negro in charge, and he was soon lodged in the Georgetown jail to await trial for his act.

The news of the attempted assault spread like wildfire through Delmar Thursday evening and in a short space of time there had been formed several parties who started out in search of the negro. The news of the capture, however, soon quieted things down.

Much credit is given to Mr. S. N. Culver for his ready solution of whom the negro was, and it was certainly through his clear-headed action and Auto Thieves Captured Near Dover, Del.

Had Hidden In a Car of North Bound Train. Carried To Salisbury Jail To Await Trial.

Again the effort to get away with the property of others has resulted in failure, and three men are now lodged in Salisbury's jail to await trial for their offense.

The three men who attempted to steal the Olds Six automobile of Mr. Arthur Brewington last Sunday evening, and who were pursued, but managed to escape by jumping from the running car, were later captured at Dover, in a freight car of a north bound train. They were carried to Salisbury and committed to jail by Justice Turner. Later they confessed and being unable to furnish the $1,000 bail each asked by the Justice, were remanded to jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

The names of the prisoners are Francis L. Moore, 19, Martinsville, Ind.; James Madden, 18, Amherst, Mass., and Carl Althusen, 18, Utica, N. Y. They claim to have left a ship of the United States Navy at Portsmouth Navy Yard and to be deserters from the United States Navy.

This makes a total of five would-be automobile thieves that Delmar has furnished the Salisbury jail for safe keeping until Court.

CLEAN ELECTIONS IN DELAWARE ASSURED

Movement With This Object In View Well Under Way In All Parts Of the State.

The plans formulated and being carried out by the Clean Elections Committee of Delaware, composed of men and women of both the big parties, with the object in view of making this State above vote buying and election frauds, are far-reaching in their effects. Every man, woman and child in the State who wants to be aligned with good government and clean elections whether they vote or not, will have an opportunity of becoming so.

The candidates of both parties have been written to by Josiah Marvil, who is chairman of the State movement, asking that they pledge their support and promise not to use money in the coming campaign for vote-buying purposes.

Secret Service agents in the employ of the Government, under the direction of the Department of Justice, came into Delaware this week to watch for any attempt that may be made to buy votes or the arrangement for the doing so on election day.

Up until this time both parties have been accused of using money to corrupt the ballot and win elections. But from now on, warned by the experience of some politicians in the West, it is expected that those who wish to buy elections will be inclined to go a little slower and more cautiously.

Letters have been sent to every school teacher in the State pointing out that school children should be instructed on the importance of clean elections as the foundation of the government.

Letters addressed to the clergymen in the State have been sent out from the headquarters of the Clean Elections Committee, asking them to bring the question of an election free from vote-buying to the attention of their congregations, and naming committees to help in the accomplishment of this purpose.

Committees have been appointed to watch every voting district in the State for the purpose of detecting every move and to report any irregularities that may appear.

In Wilmington on Friday the first effects of this state-wide movement were felt when four negroes were arrested, accused of fraudulent registration. These arrests, according to the officials in charge, are but the beginning of an effort to clean the registration booths of names that are not entitled to be there.

The movement of the Clean Elections Committee has the backing and endorsement of the leaders of both parties, both men and women, and with the assistance of the officers of the Department of Justice, will be made effective in the entire State in November.

Laurel Farmer Raises Some Huge Pumpkins

Four Grown This Season Average One Hundred Pound Each. Good Pies In Prospect.

There is no likelihood of Sussex farmers being deprived of delicious pumpkin pies this winter, judging from the big crops of pumpkins reported in that county. The biggest specimens so far reported were grown by Samuel F. Foskey, who lives near Hean's Cross Roads, about two miles from Laurel on a farm of William F. Windsor. There were 11 pumpkins on the vine which weighed nearly half a ton; two weighing 110 pounds each, six at about 90 pounds each, while the other three weighed more than 30 pounds each.

William B. Gordy, manager of the Laurel Produce Growers Association, is exhibiting in his office four of the largest pumpkins ever seen in this section. One measures six feet around the long way, 52 inches around the middle, and weighs 110 pounds. The second also weighs 110 pounds and measures 68 by 56 inches. The third one weighs 90 pounds and measures 75 by 74 inches, while the fourth measures 80 by 56 inches and also weighs about 90 pounds.

TWO ESCAPE FROM PRISON FARM SATURDAY

Frank Rickards and Raymond Webb, both of Millsboro, who were serving time at the workhouse, escaped from the prison farm Saturday night.

Rickards was serving four and a half years for manslaughter, and his time would have been out on July 6, 1921. He was accused of killing a man with a bottle. Webb was serving five years on the charge of attempted murder and had only four months to serve to complete his sentence. Both men were considered good prisoners and they were good farm workers as well.

The escape of these two men makes five who have gotten away since Warden Plummer took charge on April 17, 1920. During that time 110 prisoners have been dismissed, of whom 107 obtained jobs outside and are now at work. Three have returned to the workhouse and are awaiting trial. One hundred convicts are working on the outside. Of the five who have escaped two have been caught. At present there are 306 prisoners in the institution.

DELMAR LEADS THE WAY IN HOSPITAL DRIVE.

That Delmar was the first town of this section to take up the campaign in a forceful, earnest and substantial manner for the raising of $200,000 for additions to the Peninsula General Hospital at Salisbury so that worthy institution would be in a position to take care of the many cases of sickness daily applying for admission to its doors, is indeed gratifying to the citizens of this town.

In the space of a few hours from the time the campaign was organized in this place, a meeting had been held and over $2,000 had been raised. To peruse the names of those present at this meeting and the contributors to this fund is to read the list of Delmar citizens who are ever in the forefront of every movement that is for the betterment of its people and their living conditions—but the list is by no means complete and we are sure that it will be substantially larger when the opportunity is presented to the good people of Delmar.

Delmar has for many years enjoyed the facilities of this grand institution. Sussex county has enjoyed its hospitality in hours of need and sickness, and that is when it comes directly home to the people: that is when we know the need of such an institution in our midst. When sickness is present and when death is hovering over the bed sides of our loved ones, then we can appreciate it when, seemingly as a miracle, they are snatched back to us from the grave.

But while this worthy institution has done a wonderful work in this entire community, it has but scratched the surface of the great good it can and will accomplish with larger quarters. For no matter how rich or how poor you are, you cannot be accommodated there if ample rooms or beds are not provided. The calls daily made upon this institution that have to be turned away for want of ample facilities, is a sad story to relate, but one that should be fully realized by everyone. It will be too late to help if we wait until the need is forced upon us personally. When we need the help of an institution of this character, we need it urgently, so we must prepare for this eventuality in advance.

There are hundreds of families scattered all over the Peninsula who today bless those who were responsible for the establishment of the Peninsula General Hospital in October, 1897, when it opened with only seven beds. With a capacity of only 55 beds at the present time, and although handicapped because no more can be added without additional building, it is accomplishing a wonderful work. Nine thousand, two hundred and fourteen patients have been treated there since it opened, and these patients came from 207 different towns on the Eastern Shore. It has trained 32 graduate nurses for vital and honorable service. This accomplishment was only made possible by the foresightedness of those who established this institution in 1897. Let's help now to make its usefulness more effective in the years to come.

The great work of this institution in the past on the entire Eastern Shore is well known by all. This is the first time this generation has been asked to help, and no doubt will be the last for many years to come. All parts of the Eastern Shore, the entire Delmarvia Peninsula will respond to this call, so the people of Delmar can feel justly proud of being the citizens of the town that "blazed" the way in this great charitable undertaking.

DELMAR PEOPLE TO BE GIVEN FULL ELECTION RETURNS BY THE NEWS

A complete announcement of this service will be found on page one of today's News. Telephone numbers and full details of this service will be announced next week. Watch for it on this page.

Through these arrangements the people of Delmar will be able to know the results from the county, state and nation at the earliest possible moment. Seats on the inside will be provided for the ladies. Every detail will be announced next week.

MRS. J. FRANK BROWN DIES TUESDAY MORNING

Prominent Woman Passes Away After Short Illness of Bright's Disease. Funeral Thursday, 2 P. M.

After an illness of only two weeks and two days of Bright's disease, Mrs. Mame Brown, wife of Mr. J. Frank Brown, one of the most prominent business men of this town, died at her home about 2 a. m. Tuesday morning.

The news of Mrs. Brown's death cast a gloom over the entire town for she was well known and liked by every one who knew her. While it was generally known that she was critically ill, word had lately been heard that she was improving, and the news of her death came as a shock to her many friends here, who had hoped that she would recover.

A few days before her death she took a sudden turn for the worse and gradually grew weaker until the end. Mrs. Brown was born on July 8th, 1883, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Sirman. She is survived by her husband and two brothers, Edw. Sirman, of Norfolk, Va., and William Sirman, of this town.

Funeral services will be held today (Thursday) at her late home, at 2:30 P. M.

Prohibition Up To Women Voters

So Says Dr. Robert Watt At State Convention of W. C. T. U. Held In Wilmington Last Week.

That enforcement of the Volstead law depends upon women was the statement of Dr. Robert Watt, superintendent of the Wilmington District of M. E. churches, before the annual State convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which was held in Wilmington last week. Dr. Watt also advised the voter "to sit tight" on the Klair law, stating that it was Delaware's hope in enforcing the Eighteenth Amendment.

"John Barleycorn is a long time in dying," he asserted. "The wet influences are snake-like in reaching out their tentacles to accomplish evil designs. The most serious problems face Wilmington voters at the present time. It is my impression that a much greater number of ignorant voters have registered than intelligent women. The foreign population of this State is already large and growing."

Dr. Watt greeted the gathering as "fellow citizens," adding that he was pleased to be able to call women by their right name for the first time. He advised women to follow their own convictions in voting.

Dr. Watt declared that it had been indisputably shown that liquor possessed no medicinal value. He said further that a compromise in the prohibition law which would admit light wines and beers would be disastrous. "Conditions following such action would result in unparalleled vice and debauchery," he concluded.

GOLDSBOROUGH VISITED DELMAR LAST THURSDAY

Hon. T. Alan Goldsborough, Democratic candidate for Congress in the First Congressional District, was a visitor to Delmar on Thursday of last week in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Goldsborough visited all the prominent Democrats of this town and nearby and received a very enthusiastic welcome on every hand. His recently announced stand on the enforcement of the Volstead law, and against any changes it that would modify its purpose, has met with a popular response among the women voters here, and his visit was at a very opportune time to get in some effective work for his candidacy. He was accompanied by Dr. John M. Toulson, of Salisbury.

Hog cholera in its ravages near here has taken 52 hogs, of a value of $900, from a drove of 54 belonging to Mr. C. A. Veasey, who lives about three miles south of this town.

He has lost 17 fully grown hogs, 20 shoats about eight months old and 15 pigs one month old. Of the remaining two who have escaped alive, one of them had it but recovered.

Mr. Veasey was offered $50 a piece for 15 of the best ones of the drove less than two weeks before they died.

BIG REPUBLICAN RALLY HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Republican Band Wagon Arrives In Town With Colored Electric Lights and Big Banners.

The Republican Band Wagon, fully decorated in colored electric lights and banners asking the readers to vote for Harding and Coolidge, arrived in Delmar Friday evening and was sent on a tour of the town advertising the big mass meeting that was held here in Eleora Theatre in the evening.

The mass meeting in the evening was attended by a goodly number of the Republicans of this town, and the hall for the occasion was decorated with large portraits of the Republican candidates for President and Vice-President, and large American flags.

On the stage were assembled some of the prominent Republicans of the town, both men and women, and in the audience, the average of women seemed to predominate.

After many interesting selections of music on the Victrola, the principal speaker of the evening, Hon. Wade H. Ellis, formerly Attorney General of Ohio, now district attorney of the District of Columbia, was introduced and began his address.

He occupied much of his talk about the extravagance of the Democratic administration, citing figures to prove his assertions. Among many of the instances of this misappropriation of the money of the people and gross extravagance he cited the Hog Island venture, in which, he said, millions of dollars were thrown away; the Housing Corporation, which, he said, spent millions of dollars lavishly, and never failed to draw down big salaries for themselves, even after the need for its existence had passed. He recalled the big ventures at other places and claimed millions were spent for various purposes and then the properties literally given away afterwards. He stated that thousands of automobiles, trucks, etc., were bought and then allowed to stand and decay in the elements without some of them ever being unpacked.

The speaker also dwelt upon some of the features of the League of Nations Covenant, especially Article X, which, he said, would, if ratified, be the means of entanglement of this nation in European quarrels and finally would, no doubt, put this nation at war in Europe again.

The speaker spoke of the fact that we as a country would be honor bound to enter into armed conflict with any nation that incurred the displeasure of the League whether it was our quarrel or that of some foreign country.

The meeting, while seemingly not as large in numbers present as the Democratic one held at the same place last week, did not lack in enthusiasm, and the speaker was frequently interrupted by applause when he made some telling point in his address.

deductions that the capture of the guilty party was made so speedily.

Mr. and Mrs. Handy Culver, the aged parents of the lady attacked, were asleep at the time of the occurrence, and were not interrupted, not knowing anything of the attack until it was all over.

The speedy pursuit and capture of this would-be assaulter is looked upon on all sides today by the people of Delmar as a very fortunate termination of what might have proven a very serious affair. The law will be just as speedy in the trial and conviction of this self-confessed criminal of the worst type, is the hope expressed on all sides.

Later he heard that a horse belonging to Mr. Glen W. Hopkins, of Trappe District, had been stolen from the horse pound near the Armory in Salisbury. The animal was thus returned to its owner, but no information as to who removed the horse from the pound or what was the motive has been secured.

TREASURER DENNIS HAS FINE REPORT

Receipts For Last Quarter Were Unusually Large. Arrears On Old Levies Collected.

The first quarterly report of County Treasurer Harry Dennis, showing receipts and disbursements from July 1st to September 30th, 1920, was submitted to the Board of County Commissioners last Tuesday.

The report is a very comprehensive statement of the receipts from every source during the period covered, as well as every item for which money was disbursed. Similar statements will be submitted to the County Commissioners at the expiration of each three months, as the law requires, and as these reports are published, taxpayers can acquaint themselves of the sources of receipts of money paid the county, as well as the amounts paid out and for what purposes.

The report opens with cash balance in hand of $16,253.46, to which is added the following receipts for July: From levies of 1910 to 1920 inclusive, $19,101.96; for August, from levies of 1909 to 1920 inclusive, $114,020.17; for September, from levies of 1912 to 1920, inclusive, $46,628.11, or a total for the quarter of $292,831.79.

One thing is noticeable in this report and that is, that the County Treasurer has paid particular attention to the collection of taxes several years in arrears, going back to the year 1909.

Another thing is, that collections of 1920 taxes, levied in July last, show large figures, the amount collected in July being $11,546.67; in August, $114,020.17; in September, $40,653.01, or a total for the quarter for 1920 taxes of $116,219.85.

The disbursements for the quarter were $114,075.03, leaving a balance on hand of $58,756.76. These disbursements were segregated under the following heads:

Alms House, $1,125.31; assessor, $215.35; attorneys, $465.00; burial of paupers, $28.00; care of insane, $1,022.61; Court expenses, $1,439.13; Clerk of Court, $1,081.54; elections, $83.47; ferries, $538.29; health office and vital statistics, $1,658.40; orphan's court, $158.00; pensions, $12; printing and advertising, $1,052.50; School Board, $12,676.15; roads, $56,304.99; Sheriff, $366.30; Treasurer's office, $770.00; miscellaneous, $63,232.63. This latter sum includes the large amount paid to the Treasurer of Maryland on account of State taxes, $58,879.78.

The report was highly pleasing to the County Commissioners and they ordered a resolution spread upon the minutes, complimenting Treasurer Dennis on the splendid showing made.

Great Rally Held At Laurel Sunday

Hon. L. Atwood Bennett, of Salisbury, Addressed The Sunday School At Great Church Rally.

The greatest church rally in the history of Laurel was held last Sunday in Centenary M. E. Church. Officers of the church and Sunday School and the teachers vied with each other in making the occasion a memorable one. The log church was packed at each service.

Not only was it "Rally Day" for all church and Sunday School workers, but the Harvest Home celebration was also held. The fruits of the fields were arranged in great profusion around the altar, making a display which was exceedingly attractive.

The day's program began at 9:30 a. m., with an old fashioned class meeting led by Isaac John Elliott; 10:30 a. m., Rev. Thomas E. Terry, of Bridgeville, a former pastor of Centenary Church, delivered one of his big sermons. At 2 p. m. the Sunday School rally was held and State Senator L. Atwood Bennett, superintendent of Asbury M. E. Sunday School in Salisbury, delivered the principal address. Senator Bennett was at his best Sunday and delivered an address which greatly stirred the audience. Several Salisburyans took part in the big celebration.

HYDRATED LIME SHELL

ANALYSIS:

A Few Facts

Messrs. Tilghman Lime & Supply Co., Fruitland, Md.

Gentlemen:—

Regarding the soil testing campaign for acidity, or in other words whether lime was needed or not, I find the following results:

Of the 81 samples that this office has tested to date, 77 farms needed lime.

To date, the Maryland Agricultural College has tested 1,100 samples of soil, and found that 74% needed lime, and practically all of the samples showing no acidity came from fields that have been limed during the past two or three years.

I believe that the proper use of lime will correct many of our ills.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) G. R. COBB,
County Agent Wicomico County.

The quantities of lime which are ordinarily applied to land—per acre—in the various forms, are as follows:

Hydrated Stone Lime..... 1,500 lbs.

Scraps He Picks Up Here, There And Everywhere.

The Board of Election Supervisors and the County Commissioners of Wicomico are showing much concern in regard to providing additional voting places in several districts of this county. Places to rent are not obtainable, it seems and it may be necessary to purchase some collapsible houses, or rent tents to use on the day of election.

President Mitchell of the Board of County Commissioners was before the School Board at its last meeting inquiring if the use of school houses could not be secured for the day. He was informed that as election day is not a holiday in the public schools, the schools would be in session, so that it would be impossible to utilize the school buildings.

Mr. Mitchell stated that it would be necessary to provide two additional voting places in Parsons District and one additional voting house each in Salisbury and Camden district. It was suggested that the problem for Parsons District might be solved by renting two tents and pitch them on the court house yard in close proximity to the election house, and that for Salisbury District space might be secured in the Armory.

The present situation, made so by the large number of women registering, is giving the officials much anxiety, but the problem will no doubt be solved before election day, even though the voters are compelled to undergo some discomforts should election day prove to be cold or wet. The women voters, we are sure, will complain less than the men at any discomforts, as they are so enthusiastic at the chance to cast their first ballot in Wicomico. So let's everybody resolve to make the best of conditions on election day; go to the polls early, vote and then go home so as to make room for others.

While Wicomico county is not much of a wheat-growing section, the recent great slump in wheat to less than $2 a bushel has caused losses of several thousand dollars to farmers who were holding this year's crop for $3.00 per bushel. The influx of grain to the United States from Canada has shot down prices on the Chicago Board of Trade to the lowest mark since 1917. In the last three weeks wheat prices have declined between 50 and 54 cents. Cries of disappointment have gone up from the Middle West. Farmers who had been advised to hold their wheat for $3 a bushel cannot get $2. It is estimated that it cost the American farmer $2.77 per bushel to produce the 1920 wheat crop. The Canadian farmer, with plenty on hand, is glad to sell his wheat around $2 a bushel. If he didn't feel this way he wouldn't be breaking the American grain markets now. The American wheat-raiser is losing heavily because he did not take advantage of high prices a month ago, before the general downward trend of all markets began.

...an outlet at the coming election will be quite large. In addition to the names of President and Vice-President, there will be the names of eight electors for the Democratic and Republican parties, the names of four candidates for United States Senator John Walter Smith, Democratic; O. E. Weller, Republican; Geo. D. Iverson, Jr., People's Party, and W. Ashbie Hawkins, colored, Republican. There will also be printed on the ballot two Constitutional Amendments, and spaces for voting for or against the amendments. All these names will make a large and cumbersome ballot and the work of educating the voters how to mark

PROTECTIVE TARIFF AGAIN TO THE FRONT

Southern Congress Meets This Week In New Orleans To Discuss A Vital Matter.

Although not dominant in the presidential election campaign, the old issue of a protective tariff is coming again to the fore. Last week in New Orleans a meeting of prominent Southerners was held to discuss the need for, and the ways of obtaining, protection from foreign interests.

Governor Parker, of Louisiana, and John H. Kirby, of Texas, one of the country's greatest industrial leaders, as well as hundreds of other men of high standing, called the conference. Invitations were sent to the governors of all southern states, as well as to all commercial organizations and thousands of business men in the South.

More and more the thinking people of the South are coming to the realization that adequate protection for agricultural and industrial interests in their own section is necessary for the life of the nation. The belief that a protective tariff is an economic issue purely and simply is coming more and more to the front, together with an earnest desire to make such an issue strictly non-partisan.

It is interesting to note that the first protective tariff bill ever passed in the United States was in the administration of George Washington. It gave protection to one of the leading states of the South. Alarm over the enormous importations of food-stuffs as well as of manufactured articles of every description has caused Southern farmers to demand protection. Hence the call for a tariff congress.

The congress, according to a recent issue of The Manufacturers' Record, took up the following program:

First—To provide a non-partisan forum for the discussion of public policies as they affect the progress and prosperity of Southern industry.

Second—To recommend to the Federal Tariff Commission and to Congress a tariff schedule on Southern

NEAR EAST RELIEF APPEAL FOR MORE FUNDS FOR WORK

MARYLAND IS ASKED TO SUPPORT 4,200 ARMENIAN WAR ORPHANS.

IS MOST POPULAR PHILANTHROPY

Near East Relief, the American organization whose tremendously successful work in Armenia, Syria, Transcaucasia and Persia has saved the lives of half a million or more people who were starving to death after the close of the World War, is making a new appeal to American philanthropy for funds to continue its work. Practically the whole task now left to it, thanks to the success of the work of the past two years, is the care of war orphans in the orphanages which it has established.

There were about 250,000 of these orphans in Armenia and neighboring lands who were found after the war in roving bands seeking food in the cities and the open country and in all stages of starvation. There are few now to whom some sort of aid has not been given, but there are many thousands who have only America and Near East Relief to look to for food, clothing and shelter. It is for the purpose of continuing to provide this support of these orphans and to prevent their again being brought to the verge of death by starvation, that the appeal for money to keep up the work has been issued.

The people of the state of Maryland have been asked, as their share of this orphan support, to provide for 2,084 orphans for a year. Near East Relief is able to feed an orphan for $5 a month and to provide food, clothing, shelter and education for $15 a month, or $180 a year for each.

The Thanksgiving-Christmas period has been set as the time for the campaign in many Maryland counties to obtain the contributions which will support the orphans assigned to them. Every dollar contributed to this cause goes into actual relief work in Armenia and the neighboring Near East countries, no deductions being made for expenses, which are privately borne.

Near East Relief is a federal corporation, chartered by Congress. Its accounts are carefully audited by certified public accountants and reports made to Congress. It has been investigated and endorsed by the National Information Bureau.

Near East Relief provides food for the hungry. For instance, a few weeks ago 150,000 refugees were being fed in one city in the Caucasus. This food had to be provided every day and if the funds stopped for a few weeks all of these people would have perished.

Near East Relief provides shelter for the homeless. There are 229 orphanages, with an enrollment of 54,600, and also 56,039 other children cared for outside of these buildings. There were recently acquired an additional 60,000 children from Russia who came into the Caucasus ahead of the Bolshevik army.

Near East Relief provides healing for the sick. There are 63 hospitals in the various districts and countries of the Near East, with a large staff of physicians, nurses and helpers.

Near East Relief provides reason for imprisoned women and girls. There are eleven rescue homes full to overflowing. If more funds were provided more homes could be opened and filled immediately. There are more than 100,000 of these Armenian women and girls in Turkish harems, but their release cannot be demanded until pieces of shelter for them are provided or their relatives, if any, can be located.

Near East Relief is building up industrial life. There are employed 23,000 men, women and young people in Near East Relief factories.

Near East Relief desires the cooperation of every American. The Armenians are suffering because of their religious convictions, their loyalty to principle, their adherence to the cause of the Allies for which we are under obligation to them in sacrificing their lives and thus saving American lives by shortening the war.

Near East Relief is perhaps the most popular philanthropy in America because of these facts and also that of all the relief areas in the world the Near East is the only place where no government aid is available. The Armenians are surrounded by neighbors who would rejoice in their extermination. They are the remnant of a martyred Christian race whose fathers and relatives have died for the Christian faith, but this remnant and especially the thousands of orphans whom American dollars are now supporting constitute the hope of the future of the Near East.

Few Sweet Potatoes Canned This Season

Crop Is Plentiful But High Operating Costs Make Selling Prices Prohibitive.

With the sweet potato market uncertain, local canners are shipping their goods as fast as they can find buyers. The price, which is now 35c a basket, threatens to drop daily, and the factories which are operating are purchasing only enough of the commodity to run from day to day.

Buyers for canned sweets are hard to find. One operator here spent several hours the other day trying to find a buyer by long distance and at last succeeded. Other operators have been notified by customers of long standing that they will be unable to handle a shipment of the canned goods this year.

The cause for the slackness in canning operations is not difficult to discover. Labor is costing in the neighborhood of $3.00 a day, and the price of a number ten can is nearly eight cents. Other costs that enter into canning are proportionately high, and the public refuses to pay that cost. Consequently, while the sweet potato crop is plentiful, few sweets are being canned.

The Canning Of Baked Apples

"Housekeeper" sends to The News the following recipe for taking care of the big apple crop now going to waste in some sections:

"Because of the abundance of apples going to waste this fall, may I not suggest a way by which they may be preserved until a time when they are very scarce as well as expensive. It is simply canning baked apples.

"Prepare apples as you would to bake them for table use, adding sugar and nutmeg (or cinnamon) and sufficient water to allow for filling the jars. Just a little more water than usual will be found necessary. If apples are very large or imperfect, halve or quarter them; they will cook more readily and can be packed more easily into jars. Put into sterilized jars without fastening tops securely, process 10 to 15 minutes, then seal.

"The writer has canned apples in this way for several years with perfect success. Indeed, when opened and exposed to the air for an hour or two before using, as all fruit and vegetables should be treated, they are almost like newly-baked apples."

COLOR FARMER SHOT ACCOUNT OLD GRUDGE

Charged with shooting Grant Brewington, a colored farmer of Allen, a colored man giving his name as Polk is awaiting trial in the county jail where he was placed by Sheriff Lar more and Officer Dennis. Brewington is in the Peninsula General Hospital and is expected to recover.

The shooting, it is said, was the result of an old quarrel which originated a year or two ago at a camp meeting, where Brewington is reported to have drawn a gun on Polk. The latter will be arraigned before a justice of the Peace in the near future.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DAY PROCLAIMED

Governor Ritchie Friday last issued a proclamation naming Sunday, October 21, as a day on which the people of the state are urged to "read and study the covenant of the League of Nations" to the end that they may be "better able to cast their ballots wisely and intelligently" in the coming election.

This action followed the request for the naming of such a day, made to all Governors by a committee of prominent men of both parties.

PARSONSBURG CITIZEN PASSES AWAY AT HOME

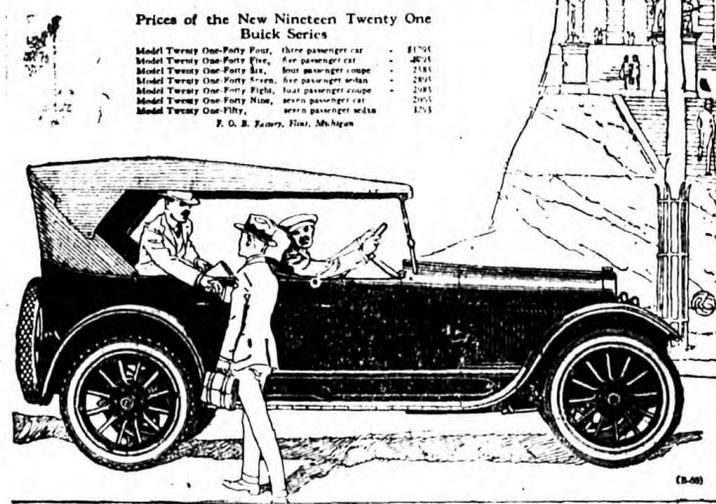

Virgil F. Laws, 29, a respected citizen of Parsonsburg, died at his home last Thursday of heart disease. He had been engaged in lumber business in North Carolina until last spring when he returned home. Funeral services were held on Sunday and interment was made in the old Laws' burial ground at Wango. Elder Mellott, of the Old School Baptist Church, officiated. The deceased is survived by a widow, an infant son, his father, two sisters and two brothers.

Peninsula General Hospital NEEDS $200,000 NOW

Here's One Reason Why?

The noise of building operations adjoining a Salisbury home this week made it adisable to welcome the stork, just about due, at the hospital. The husband applied for a room. "Every room is occupied" was the reply.

The expectant mother now waits in a room in one of Salisbury's hotels, a most undesirable arrangement.

CHILD TRAINING AT

Do I Understand My Children?

This is No. 1 Of The Fourth Series of Articles Issued by the National Kindergarten Association.

By Anne Goodwin Williams, National Kindergarten & Elementary College.

"I just love Miss Brown," said Betty Jane, "she's the understandingest person I ever knew!"

What a wonderful tribute! Is there anyone of us grown ups who does not long to deserve just this sort of approval from the little children whom we love?

As we recall our own childhood experiences, do not the times when we were misunderstood stand out very distinctly and very bitterly in our minds?

A mother told me of a little child who was angered almost into hysterics by having his lisp mimicked and mocked. "Do you want me to thing for you?" little John asked a guest in the friendliest fashion. "Yes, indeed, you darling, I want you to thing for me," the visitor said laughingly imitating his lisp. The child's ears were keen. He recognized the correct pronunciation although his lips could not yet form it and his face reddened as he said in a grieving voice, "I didn't thay thing. I thaid thing." "Oh, you precious lamb, thing for me or thing for me—I don't care. I just adore that lisp of yours."

Did she get the song—the child's offered gift to a guest? No, emphatically no. She killed the joy of self expression. She had grieved the boy and made him sulky and she had truly been guilty of an act of rudeness to a trusting little child.

And yet she thought she loved children! But she lacked the understanding of the sensitive nature of a little child. Ridicule is even harder to endure when one is four years old than when he is fourteen or forty.

But rude and cruel as it is to laugh at the mistakes of children, it is far worse to laugh at their fears! Just because we know that there are no goblins lurking in the dark, we find it difficult to understand the agony, the actual suffering of a sensitive, timid child who is forced to fight for his fears all alone.

All lovers of children condemn the ignorant nurse who threatens, "The Boogey Man will get you in the dark tonight if you don't mind me." I know one mother who came home after making some afternoon calls and found her little son in bed with a high fever and in his delirium he cried out over and over again, "Don't let the policeman get me—Don't let him take me away from my mother—Don't let him—Don't let him!" The thoroughly frightened nurse confessed that she had put him to bed as a punishment and had left him there, saying, "Now, I'm going out to get the policeman to take you away so you won't see your mother again." She had left him there alone, thinking that his screams of terror when a door opened or closed would "teach him a good lesson."

Dorothy Canfield Fisher's "Understood Betsy" is a most delightful study of a child who was sometimes misunderstood, a story so charmingly told that grown people and children can read it together with great enjoyment.

And, after all, is not that the great secret of understanding—the doing of things together, talking together, walking together, sharing each other's joys and sorrows?

"Never mind, honey," said wee Iais to her dearly beloved kindergarten teacher, "never mind if you are hoarse. I will tell the children a story today and you won't have to talk." Isn't this a true illustration of the mutual desire to be of service which we so long to have underlie our relationship to the children who are little children for so very few years?

No Reduction in Price of Oakland Sensible Six

At this time when the public mind is disturbed by sensational announced price reductions of automobiles and other merchandise and commodities, we desire to give assurance to those who require Personal Passenger Transportation, such as provided by the Oakland Sensible Six, that we do not anticipate reducing the price of our cars.

Starting with the production of the raw material required and continuing through to the finished product, over 80 per cent of the cost of an Oakland Sensible Six is labor.

Over 80 per cent of the cost of all other automobiles produced in large quantities is labor.

When wages paid to labor are reduced, or when labor produces more per man, then may manufacturers of honestly priced automobiles legitimately consider the reduction of their selling prices.

We have not heard of any instance where automobile workers are receiving lower wages.

If wages may be lowered eventually we see no immediate trend in that direction.

In the production of so essential a factor in our economic life as the passenger automobile—increasing as it does the personal efficiency of owners by new cent—we believe the workers whose toil produces the vehicle should be large beneficiaries of the character of their work.

If abnormal demand has been responsible for enthusiastic expansion and inflated profits in instances, the wage earner should not be misled as he must if powerful forces effect lower prices whether or no.

True enough, there have been many instances of inflated prices. There has been profiteering. And enough, abnormal profits must be eliminated.

And that is what has been going on all around us recently—the price reductions you have witnessed on automobiles and other merchandise are the result of the abnormal profits. The normal profits are there.

Manufacturers whose goods have been priced at a low cost to produce, plus normal profit, have no figures with which to appeal to the uninformed consumer. Sensational announcements of "Price Reductions" to studious buyers will not be misguided by such principles.

Oakland Price Advance in Five Years, Due to Increased Cost of Labor and Material, Only 27.4 Per Cent.

In 1915 Model 32 Oakland Sensible Six was put on the market at $795 f. o. b. factory.

Since 1915 the wheelbase of the Sensible Six has been lengthened five inches, its weight increased about four hundred pounds, its horsepower materially increased, its frame made deeper, and in many other ways the car has been enlarged, strengthened, improved and refined.

If the present Model 34-C had been built in 1915, it is more than conservative to say that, based on labor and material costs at that time, we would have been compelled to list it to sell at $1095, or more, f. o. b. factory.

We are therefore able to say, also with great accuracy, that the present price of Model 34-C represents an increase, due solely to increased costs of labor and material, of 27.4 per cent. Larger production each year has kept this increase at a low figure.

Compare this increase with the increase of other automobiles and with commodities—with the things you buy every day.

Nowhere have we been able to find a standard of merchandise that has increased as little in price as the price of the Oakland Sensible Six.

In the event of unexpected reductions in the cost of labor and material that enter into the construction of the Oakland Sensible Six, we will, at any point where we may properly and legitimately reduce the list price of our cars between October 1st, 1920, and May 1st, 1921, refund to every Oakland purchaser who buys within the above mentioned period of time the amount of such reduction.

(The above guarantee does not apply to used cars or former models)

The Price of the Nash Six is $1695 with Cord Tires f. o. b. Kenoska

We emphasize the price, $1695, because it is very low.

We have created in this car an actual and exceptional value which we know justifies this statement:

The Nash Six is a better value than any other car selling near it in price and equal to many costing hundreds of dollars more.

Determine this for yourself.

Compare the Nash Six with other cars; compare the power of its perfected valve-in-head motor, its roominess and comfort, and the really exceptional beauty of its design and finish.

And then compare its cost.

AGRICULTURAL CONVENTION

THE GREAT ANNUAL AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY CONVENTION WILL BE HELD IN SALISBURY, WICOMICO COUNTY, ON NOVEMBER 9, 10 & 11.

Salisbury is the metropolis of the Eastern Shore and one of the most progressive towns in the State of Maryland. Its population is approximately 15,000 people; the surrounding country is in a most highly developed state of cultivation and great preparations are being made by the people of the Eastern Shore to make this convention one of the most interesting and educational of any convention that has been held in our state.

The good people of Salisbury are noted for their most generous hospitality. The beautiful homes of the town, in addition to the hotels, will be thrown open on this occasion to take care of the visitors from all parts of the State. Everything is being done to make you comfortable and you will be missing a great opportunity should you fail to attend this great occasion.

This convention, as you know, includes the following sub-divisions: The Horticultural Society, the Crop Improvement Association, the Vegetable Growers Association, the Dairymen's Association, the Bee Keepers Association and the Sheep Growers Association. Each one of these sub-divisions will be provided with very attractive rooms in various parts of the town in which the meetings will be held.

In addition to this, the beautiful and spacious Arcade Theatre will be at the service of the Convention. Music and various forms of entertainment have been provided. To form a fitting climax to the wonderful program arranged, the visitors are to be treated to an old-time Eastern Shore oyster roast. This, in itself, would justify a trip from any part of the State.

Visitors from the Western Shore may make their trip doubly attractive by visiting the State Capitol, and then crossing by Claiborne Ferry to Salisbury and returning by way of Elkton or by Rock Hall Ferry and Baltimore. All of these routes are improved state highways which makes motoring very delightful.

Considerable time has been allotted from the program and special arrangements made for auto tours to a great many points of special interest including such famous nurseries as W. F. Allen's and Senator Harrison's; these two rank as the largest in the United States. In addition, visits will be made to famous Homestead Dairy Farms, owned by Senator Jackson; the home of "Man-of-War"; and a glimpse of the roaring surge of the Atlantic Ocean.

The program includes some of the most prominent speakers in the state and nation, among whom might be mentioned: Governor Ritchie; Hon. E. T. Meredith, Secretary of Agriculture; H. B. Jackson, of Washington, D. C.; Gray Silver, of the American Farm Bureau Federation; T. C. Atkinson, Washington, representative of the National Grange; Charles Lyman, Secretary, National Board of Farm Organizations.

The Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway Company will make special arrangements for additional coaches to furnish the traffic with satisfactory service on this great occasion. En route to Salisbury you would take the steamer from Baltimore to Claiborne, Maryland.

ARMENIAN REPUBLIC NOT TAINTED WITH BOLSHEVISM

Reports that bolshevists are penetrating Armenia, based on the recent establishment of a soviet government in the provinces of Kara bakh and Zangueoor, are misleading, according to a statement issued by Near East Relief. The two provinces in question are inhabited largely by Armenians, but are not a part of the Republic of Armenia. They consist of a mountainous region, the richest mineral district of the Near East, known to possess gold, copper, sulphur, iron and zinc mines, but which is cut off from the Armenian Republic by lack of roads.

The Armenians, the statement goes on to say, have been opposed bitterly to bolshevism from the start and are now calling all men from 18 to 45 to arms to fight the advance of soviet troops, should any campaign against Armenia be attempted. A brief bolshevist revolution in Alexandropol, Armenia, on May 1 was put down by the government within a few days. The menace lies in the possibility of a only danger of bolshevism is Ar- cessation of the relief work now being conducted by the Near East Relief in Transcaucasia, with its resulting starvation of the inhabitants of that country, which might conceivably force them into the arms of Soviet Russia.

As there is no intention on the part of the Near East Relief to cease its activities, this prospect is considered very remote.

lected yet but prospects are bright for an extraordinary good one. Professor Clark outlined fully the work that will be done during the soccer season. All games are scheduled and the season will open next week. In the meantime several inter-class games will be played, the first taking place on Tuesday between the Seniors and Juniors.

Social activities of the school have taken a sudden bound. From the beginning of the year it was seen that there was a good spirit predominating throughout the school. The Junior class, in order to foster this spirit, gave a class party on Thursday night. Games and dancing were enjoyed by all present. Music furnished by the "Novelty Four" also made a hit. Refreshments were served. Much credit is due Miss Ruth Powell as she made the party a success by her untiring efforts.

The Destructive Storms Of Winter

HAVE no terrors for the farmer whose stores, stock, and implements are well housed. He knows that in the Spring he will find his stock in good condition to till the fields. He knows that he will find his implements free from rust and ready to do their work. He knows that snow, and rain, and ice will not affect the value of his stored crops.

He knows that a comfortable, weather-proof implement house will allow him many pleasant and profitable days repairing his machinery for next Spring. Repairs that could not be made in the sleet and wind of winter without protection from the cold are easy when the implement house affords the necessary protection.

He knows that farm machinery is valuable only so long as it can be depended upon. It can be depended on as long as it is housed from the weather and is looked after intelligently. For this reason, the wise farmer will build his implement house before bad weather begins,—that is, NOW!

DESPERADOES CAPTURED BY DETECTIVES

Negro Gunmen Taken After Hot Chase By Railroad Detectives.

HAD SHOT CONSTABLE IN ACCOMAC COUNTY

Threatened Life of Captain Hall, of Steamer Eastern Shore, and Wounded Officer When Arrest Was Attempted, Is Now in the Eastville Jail, in Northampton County.

Officer Walter Nelson, of the detective force of the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, was in Salisbury a few days ago and gave a graphic description to a News reporter of a terrific fight he and a posse he was leading had with two negro men down on the Eastern Shore of Virginia.

Two negroes who gave their names as James Williams and Earl Brooks, both of Baltimore city, had shot and seriously wounded Constable Irving Ennis at Concord Wharf and had succeeded in eluding the officers and were making their way along the line of the railroad.

Officer Nelson and a posse finally got wind of the way the negro gunmen were going, and gave chase. Officer Nelson was riding a slow freight train, searching for the fugitives when they were seen hiding the woods just below Exmore Station. Alighting from the train the officer summoned five of the town citizens as deputies and crept upon the negroes as they lay beneath a tree. When searched they were found to be armed with a .45-caliber revolver and a belt full of cartridges. One negro was carrying a hatchet. That the fugitives were nearly starved was proved by the fact that they had robbed the dinner-pails of railroad employees working near the station.

The negroes were so much surprised at the sudden appearance of the officer and posse, each armed with a revolver, that they did not use their guns.

Feeling was running high when the capture of the negroes became known in the neighborhood and many threats were heard. The prisoners were taken to Eastville jail.

The negroes fired seven shots at Constable Ennis when he attempted to place them under arrest for threatening the life of Captain Spence Hall of the Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic Railway steamer Eastern Shore enroute from Baltimore to Onancock, Va., when they were ordered to work their passage, having boarded the steamer without tickets and refusing to pay their fares.

Wicomico Republicans Hold Tremendous Mass-Meeting

Arcade Theatre Packed With Enthusiastic Republicans To Hear Senator Fernald, Of Maine, Flay The Extravagance Of The Wilson Administration.

With an enthusiasm which could not be restrained, and with an unbounded confidence in the sweeping triumph of their party at the polls on November 2, the Republicans of Wicomico county packed the Arcade Theatre Monday evening and yelled themselves hoarse as the speakers flayed the incompetency and prodigal waste of the Wilson Administration. The meeting was the largest outpouring of Republicans ever seen in Salisbury. Hon. Wm. B. Jackson called the meeting to order and Walter B. Miller was chosen permanent chairman. On the stage, which was prettily decorated with American flags, cut flowers and autumn leaves, were seated more than 50 prominent men and women of this county. Mr. Miller made a short address on assuming the chair and introduced as the first speaker of the evening Mrs. John T. Pratt, of New York city, who was given a warm welcome.

Mrs. Pratt emphasized the fact that ladies, to take their proper place in politics, must work with and through the organization. She spoke particularly to the ladies and of their obligations to fall in with the Republican organization. In her closing remarks, she stated that the women would put their idealism into politics.

Order Of Moose Enjoy Banquet

Members and Visitors Numbering About 75 Enjoy the Festive Occasion.

Friday evening, October 22, Salisbury Lodge 517, Loyal Order of Moose, entertained its members and visitors with an elaborate banquet, about 75 being present. The banquet was held in the Moose Hall, Dr. Norris Pilchard being the chairman of the evening. A poem read by Mr. W. C. Thurston, to fit the occasion, was enjoyed by every one present.

The menu consisted of Chincoteague oysters, on half shell, deviled eggs, celery, olives and mixed pickles, cheese sandwiches and coffee.

Soft drinks, salted nuts and smokes were to be found in abundance. An orchestra of five pieces furnished the music.

BIG ROBBERY IN A DEPARTMENT STORE

Goods valued at from $1,000 to $1,500 were stolen from R. E. Powell & Co.'s store on Main street Wednesday night, October 20th. The articles stolen consisted in part of clothing, sweaters, shoes, watches, rings, suitcases, neckties and hosiery.

In connection with this case three arrests have been made by the local authorities. The first arrest made was that of Ollie Godwin and after a search of his home a part of the loot was recovered. There were found there four suits of clothes, two suitcases, two pairs of shoes and other articles totaling about $200.

The other two arrests made were those of Robert Disharoon and Thomas Mitchell, the latter of Baker and Barclay streets, commonly known as "Cockey."

States Attorney Long says that no charges have been preferred against these two and that they are being held as alleged accomplices awaiting a hearing.

Godwin says that he had company but will not tell who they were. Efforts are being made to ferret out some others who are believed to be implicated in this robbery.

Entrance to the Powell store was made through the skylight on the third floor.

IMPOSTER GETS IN HIS WORK IN SALISBURY

Obtains Quite A Large Sum Of Money From The Women Of Town.

WAS SPOTTED BY A LIVE NEWS' REPORTER

Claimed That He Was An Ex-Soldier And Was Begging Enough Money To Purchase An Artificial Leg. Sympathetic Women Were The Victims.

After having circulated a subscription list from house to house in this city for nearly a week, in which he claimed to be a Salisbury boy, both deaf and dumb, and having only one limb but wishing to obtain money with which to purchase a new one, a young man, who gave his name as Jack Smith, of Jacksonville, Fla., was apprehended on Thursday afternoon through the efforts of a News reporter and Secretary C. M. Freeman, of the Chamber of Commerce.

After having seen the man on Wednesday at his home and refusing to contribute to the fund because of the lack of credentials and having no knowledge of such a person being a Salisburian, the News representative, sitting in the office late Thursday afternoon happened to see Smith pass the door and decided to watch his actions for awhile.

Following him into a drug store on Main street he then listened at a conversation between the alleged mute and the clerk in which the former was attempting to purchase some article which did not happen to be in stock in that particular drug store, whereupon Smith thanked the clerk and went out.

Hastening to the office of Secretary Freeman, the reporter told of the incident which had just taken place and the latter recalled that the same well-dressed young man had called upon him on Monday requesting credentials with which to solicit funds, but was told by the secretary to get someone to identify him and he would be issued the necessary papers, all the intercourse taking place by means of writing. Promising to get some bankers in Salisbury whom he knew to vouch for him, Smith left the Chamber of Commerce office, but never returned.

Secretary Freeman then got in touch with Mayor Kennerly on the phone and stated the case to him, whereupon the latter instructed the secretary to have him detained.

Mr. Freeman and the reporter then got busy on the trail of the impostor and in five minutes had located him and after listening to another conversation between him and a fruit vendor, Officers Dennis and Furniss were called and placed Smith under arrest.

He was lodged in jail and on Friday morning was arraigned before Magistrate Jones charged with being an impostor and obtaining money under false pretenses. The list, containing at least 75 names, representing an amount upward of $100, he did not produce at the trial as he said he had torn it up, although he claimed he had only collected a small percentage of it, intending to return and secure the money later. His evidence regarding the loss of his limb was also misleading, as he claimed to have been a member of the famous "Princess Pat" Canadian Regiment, of which there are only a handful of survivors, but could not produce any evidence of this although he was informed there was awaiting him 160 acres of the best Canadian land if it were true, and it was unnecessary for him to resort to such means to make a living. His testimony all the way through was conflicting.

He pleaded guilty to the charges and was dismissed by Judge Jones upon payment of the costs in the case and ordered to leave town on the first outbound train.

This is not the first case in which some impostor with a yarn like this has appealed to the sympathy of our citizens, especially to the women, as this man did, and gotten away with a large amount of Salisbury money and it is hoped that in the future all of our citizens contributing to such a cause will first ascertain if the solicitor has the necessary card issued by the Chamber of Commerce to all worthy individuals who really need assistance.

Eastern Shore towns should watch for this man, as he is still working.

ODD FELLOWS CONTRACT FOR BUILDING TEMPLE

Building Will Commence At Once. Expected To Be Completed By June 1st.

Newton Lodge No. 56, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, has given out a contract for the erection of a Temple on the property owned by them on E. Main street extended.

On October 13th, the lodge took action authorizing the concluding of a contract between the lodge and the Eastern Shore Construction Company of this city, to build its new home. The new building will be constructed of tapestry brick, three stories and basement, 40 feet by 75 feet. It will have a full glass store front on the first floor. The second story will be devoted to offices for rent, and the third story will be given over to a large lodge room and three rooms for paraphernalia of the various orders who will occupy the building.

The estimated cost of the completed building will be about $40,000, raised by subscriptions from the 400 members.

On Tuesday of this week the Commission to carry on the building of the temple was elected, the following being nominated and elected: R. Jas. Holliday, Chas. W. Bennett, E. W. Windsor, E. J. C. Parsons, and W. B. Stevens, of Delmar.

The Temple will be occupied by Newton Lodge, No. 56; Enterprise Encampment No. 39; Helping Hand Rebekah Lodge No. 23, all Odd Fellow organizations. Several other organizations have signified their intention of occupying quarters in the new building, and it is expected that the lodge room will be kept busy, to judge by present prospects.

For a number of years the membership of Newton have felt that a temple of their own was necessary for the proper growth of the order, and several years ago a lot was purchased from the Salisbury Realty Co., on E. Main street extended. This lot has been paid for and is valued at about $5,000 at this time. A committee has been at work this summer ascertaining prices on building, and other matters in connection with the proposed temple, culminating in a decision to build. The contractors will build on a percentage basis, the lodge deciding, after hearing the bids read, that this would be the most satisfactory method of erecting the Temple. The erection of this building will considerably enhance the value of the other property in this partially developed section of the city, and will in all probability lead to other building in this direction.

EXTRA EFFORTS FOR RECRUITING CO. "I"

Captains Of Three Teams Chosen To Push The Work Of Recruiting To The Full Limit.

Several important things were put before the boys of Company I at the regular meeting Monday night. One of them was to recruit the company to its full quota. Nearly all the companies in the state have gone over their quotas and Salisbury will soon be a back number if the young men do not do their duty and respond to the call and save the pride of this city. Take, for instance, towns like Easton, and Centerville, which have been Federalized and are much smaller than Salisbury. It seems that there should be enough spirit in the boys of this city to raise 50 men. At present there are 37 men and it will probably be raised in the next two weeks by a campaign which is being conducted by the members of Company I.

A vote was taken Monday night by the boys for the captains of the three teams into which the company was divided and resulted as follows:

Lex. Grier, Team 1; John Dulany, Team 2; Oscar Morris, Team 3. There will be considerable interest shown in the present campaign and Captain Russell will give a suitable reward to the winning team.

The basketball equipment has arrived and the boys will meet Wednesday night and whip a team in shape for they might begin practicing and compete with any team on the shore. Pool tables will be in a state of erection in the next few weeks and bowling alleys will be completed in about three months. A player piano has been promised and the Army will be practically a club house for the members in the coming winter.

Mrs. Harry Weber, of Baltimore, is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bounds, at their home on Camden avenue.

BIG HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

WORKERS CONFIDENT OF MAKING $200,000 GOAL

The Interest Of The People All Over The Eastern Shore Is Centered On This Most Worthy Object. Checks Are Coming In By Every Mail. $50,000 Pledged In Two Days.

At last we're off, and the interest of the people in the big campaign for $200,000 for new building for Peninsula General Hospital is shown by the interest the public is taking in the big campaign clock at Main and Division streets.

With the traces hardly stretched as yet, the workers reported over $33,000 already subscribed at the first meeting Monday night in the Armory. This total was made up as follows:

Initial Gifts Committee, W. B. Miller, Chairman	$23,000.00
Team 1, W. P. Nook, Capt.	1,250.00
Team 2, L. T. Parker, Capt.	280.00
Team 3, W. B. Tilghman, Jr., Capt.	120.00
Team 4, M. A. Humphreys, Capt.	348.00
Team 5, W. S. Knight, Capt.	475.00
Team 6, I. L. Benjamin, Capt.	775.00
Team 7, Wm. M. Cooper, Capt.	65.00
Team 8, Herbert Hiffe, Capt.	750.00
Team 9, R. H. Grier, Capt.	370.00
Team 10, E. Dale Adkins, Capt.	418.00
Team 11, L. W. Gunby, Capt.	700.00
Delmas (Delaware and Maryland) S. N. Culver, Chairman	2,125.00
Worcester County	2,500.00
Total	$33,158.00

One of Salisbury's business men recently met an acquaintance while away on a business trip, and casually mentioned the big campaign for the new hospital building. The friend remarked, "I want to be counted in but that." The local business man thought no more about it until on his return home he found a letter from which The News is privileged to quote the following:

"I am enclosing my check for $50 toward the Hospital Fund at Salisbury and will appreciate it if you will see that it goes to the proper authority. I realize that it is a great work, and I am glad to be able to give this amount, and wish that I could afford a great deal more. I feel very close, as you know, to the good old Eastern Shore of Maryland folks, and want to help a little in this good cause."

Senator Harrison, of Berlin, reports that they are getting their forces lined up for Worcester county, and expect to have a very substantial part in sending the campaign to the goal.

The teams that are working on the hospital campaign made their reports Tuesday night, which the aggregated total for today's and yesterday's work amounted to about $50,000, which is about one-fourth of the amount to be subscribed.

A light supper was served by the Lantern Tea Room.

Each night the different teams will meet at the Armory, where supper will be served, and go over their cards, making their report for the day.

The committee wishes to announce that if anyone is not given a chance to subscribe for them not to feel slighted as some of the people will probably not be at home and will not be seen by the respective teams. The committee wants every one to subscribe to what they are able to give, how large or small it might be. The little sums count as well as the big ones.

The hospital has now one-fourth of its quota, which is a good start, and things look favorable to reaching the $200,000 mark.

LARGE POTATOES GROWN BY MR. SAMUEL E. GORDY

We saw this week several fine specimens of sweet potatoes grown on Mr. S. E. Gordy's farm, near town. He had filled in a low place on the farm with several inches of yellow sand, on which he set out potato sprouts, not expecting to produce any potatoes, but to cover the land with green vines. To his surprise, when digging time came he found a big crop of mammoth potatoes, some of which weighed as much as 3 3/4 and 4 1/4 pounds each. Of course, potatoes of these sizes are not marketable, but they show that "sweets" will grow in sandy land as well as in a richer land.

Will Celebrate His Seventieth Birthday

Mr. Isaac Ulman Will Give Big Dinner On the Occasion. Many Relatives To Be Here.

On Friday, October 29, Mr. Isaac Ulman will observe his 70th birthday by giving a large family dinner at his home on East Church street. All members of the immediate family will be present, including those residing in Salisbury and his brother, Mr. Nathan Ulman and wife, his sons, Messrs. Bernard and David Ulman, and their families, all of Baltimore. Last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Ulman entertained at a family dinner in celebration of their 47th wedding anniversary.

Three anniversaries in Mr. Ulman's life come in a single week for on October 28th he will have been a resident of Salisbury for the past 62 years.

DOLLAR DAY SALE IS HUGE SUCCESS

Immense Crowds Thronged The Stores Each Day. Merchants Pleased With The Movement.

The Dollar Day sale which was advertised in the columns of The News in our last issue, is proving to be one of the greatest successes of anything of its kind ever attempted in Salisbury. The advertisement mentioned a very small percentage of the articles that can be purchased for one dollar. In making a canvass of the various stores it is estimated that at least four hundred articles are on sale, a few of which are wearing apparel, farm tools, articles of jewelry, groceries, toilet articles and automobile accessories.

The correspondent was surprised not only at the number of articles on sale but at the immense crowds in the various stores. In several of them passage through the aisles was a difficult proposition.

Many of the merchants have found it necessary to replenish their stock windows due to the enormous crowds.

Not only are the articles valued at one to two dollars in this sale bargains, but general reductions throughout the stores have been made for this sale, showing a concerted effort on the part of the merchants to reduce the High Cost of Living.

The merchants report that they are fully satisfied with the sale and the interest shown by the general public is indicative of their approval. A proposition which is mutually agreeable is the Dollar Day sale.

A good deal of credit is due Mr. Freeman, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Benamin and his committee and in fact every merchant co-operating in this sale.

The coal shortage in Salisbury still exists, and the great majority of consumers are without fuel. They are looking forward with dread to the near approach of cold weather. There has been no available coal in the town. Some of the coal men say the price in Salisbury will reach $21 per ton this winter.

Rousing Meeting Held By Democrats Saturday

The Arcade Theatre Packed With An Enthusiastic Men And Women Eager To Hear The Issues By T. Alan Goldsborough And Robert E. Lee

There was nothing lacking, either in attendance or enthusiasm, to make the Democratic mass meeting held in the Arcade Theatre, Saturday evening, a pronounced success.

Although the meeting was not scheduled to begin until 8:15 o'clock, the big auditorium was well-filled at 7:15 and by 8 o'clock the crowd filled every seat and standing room was at a premium. So interested were the women voters in hearing the issues of the campaign discussed, that two-thirds of the vast audience, estimated at 1,200, was composed of the fair sex, and they were unusually liberal in their applause of the telling points made by the speakers.

There was at first some disappointment expressed at the failure of the star speaker—Hon. John Temple Graves—to put in an appearance, owing to having missed train connections, but this disappointment was short-lived when it was known that Alan Goldsborough, candidate for Congress, and Robert E. Lee, of Baltimore, were here and would address

Widely Celebrated Occasion

All kinds of Mark Events...
The same popularity given to the observance of All-Saints Day on November 1, is shown in nearly every country in the world on the last night in October. In England and Scotland it has long been the custom to observe the occasion by fire-drives, revelleries such as bonfires, shows and ducking for apples in a tub of water. Witches and goblins play an important part in the celebration. Masked balls, with seasonal costumes, are, for the most part, the vogue in America, although the younger generation seem to regard the observance as a wasteful and needless custom, and the proper method of observance.

The old superstition that fairies and goblins were unusually active on All-Saints Day has given way to the revelleries in which, as the old fashioned custom says, "The fairies are of a different type—and most of the elves are gone."

RESIDENT WEDDED

Daughter of Hon. Albert W. Robinson Married to Pocomoke City Man.

At the home of Hon. and Mrs. A. W. Robinson on West street, Laurel, on Sunday afternoon, their daughter, Miss Elizabeth G. Robinson, was married to Eugene S. Maddox, of Pocomoke City. Rev. W. Osborne Bennett, pastor of Sentenary Methodist Episcopal Church, a cousin of the bride's mother, performed the ceremony. The home was profusely and artistically decorated with immense quantities of autumn foliage, ferns and flowers.

Previous to the entrance of the bride, Mrs. J. Osborne Adams performed the "Perfect Day." The bride moved down the broad aisle into the large living room, the strains of the bridal march, "Lohengrin," rendered by the Glee Club, of Pocomoke City, accompanied before an altar of flowers and autumn leaves.

The ceremony was attended in a large hall which was afterwards a dark blue traveling suit with hat to match. She was attended by Miss Jennie Marvil, who was gowned in a suit of brown. The groom was attended by his brother, George T. W. Maddox, of Gibbstown, N. J.

After the ceremony a reception of an informal nature was given Mr. and Mrs. Maddox after which a collation was served by the mother of the bride. Accompanied by numerous friends Mr. and Mrs. Maddox motored to the railroad station where they boarded the 3:38 New York express for Philadelphia. Their honeymoon is being spent in Philadelphia, New York and Boston, after which they will be at home in November in Pocomoke City.

The bride is well-known in Wicomico, her father for years having been a resident of Sharptown.

Carriage Wrecked By Automobile

Occupants of Carriage Thrown Out in Road. One Lady Sustains Broken Arm. Others Shaken Up.

W. C. White, while driving a horse to a carriage, was struck by a car said to have been driven by Oliver C. Jones, of Centerville, and which resulted in the horse running away and breaking the arm of Mrs. W. H. Layfield, bruising and severely shaking up Mr. and Mrs. W. C. White and son, who were in the carriage at that time. White was coming to Salisbury about six o'clock Saturday night when Jones, whom it was alleged was driving without lights, ran into the back of the carriage, throwing the occupants out on the road.

A car which came by a few minutes later picked the party up and brought them to the office of Dr. Potter, where they were given the necessary medical attention.

MOOSEHEART DAY.

From the broad and rolling Prairies From the Southland's sunny sky. From the homes by sorrow laden From the traveler passing by.

Comes today a kinder greeting To the folks along the way. And the kinship of their meeting Is abroad on MOOSEHEART DAY.

And wherever men may wander And happy children play, There a prayer is sent up yonder For his blessing, MOOSEHEART DAY.

From the Church bells in the steeple, From the broad Atlantic's swell, From the hearts of all his people, Comes the answer, "It is well."

And where homeless orphans shiver Comes a bright and cheering ray. To their hearts with hope aquiver In the promise of the DAY.

From the song birds in the forest And the whisper thru the trees, Comes the promise of his love If you minister to these.

By the good deeds of its members To their brothers by the way, Is the family circle widened And made stronger, MOOSEHEART DAY.

Then with strength of noble purpose Let us smooth the rugged way. And bow our heads in reverence On this, our MOOSEHEART DAY. SALISBURY LODGE, NO. 715, 1082 LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Carpenter, of Philadelphia, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Higgins, Division street.

There remain in army hospitals throughout the country more than 26,000 soldiers still being treated for wounds received overseas. Red Cross workers give them the same sort of friendly aid—only more of it—that was given during the war. COMMUNITY CANNING KITCHEN REDUCES WORK IN HOME AND SAVES MUCH WASTE

Exterior and Interior Views of a Community Canning Kitchen.

Community canning kitchens are no longer in the experimental stage, but are established and highly regarded institutions in the many localities which have had the wisdom and foresight to erect them.

Fruits and vegetables have the unfortunate habit of coming into their fullest-bearing right when the season is hottest and the housewife busiest. The added task of putting up the winter's supply of fruits and vegetables seems often "the last straw" to the already overburdened woman. Yet there is much more fruit ripening in the garden than can possibly be used while it is fresh. So she gets out her cans.

Most women freely admit that canning is not particularly hard work in their products to be canned at a fixed price per can or that in which members work in groups on special days with the help of modern large-scale equipment, saves garden products which would otherwise waste because the housewives of the locality have not time or strength to can them. It conserves food for those who are unable to conserve for themselves, and relieves the pressure of work in the home at a busy season.

Various types of canning kitchens are in use today in different parts of the country. The successful one must be adapted to the needs of the locality. Usually much more is canned in one of these kitchens than the families interested in it can use. It is customary to sell this surplus and use the proceeds toward paying expenses.

Some working capital is needed at the outset for the purchase of rent, suitable equipment. Expenses for rent, fuel, salaries, raw materials, and miscellaneous items, too, must be met for some time before returns can be realized from the products canned. It is therefore necessary to make definite plans for financing the kitchen, based on a careful estimate of probable expenses. Community kitchens have been financed in various ways—for example, by school boards, by boards of trade, by business men's associations, by loans from banks or from individuals, and by membership fees. Direct gifts from individuals or a small group of persons is, perhaps, in the end, the least satisfactory method. The membership-fee idea is the best in the opinion of the United States department of agriculture, which is advocating community canning kitchens.

Building and Equipment.

The selection of a building and its equipment should be considered jointly, for the type of equipment frequently depends upon the sort of building to be used. Since a primary object of the community canning kitchen is to secure the best returns for the time, effort, and capital invested, the use of modern labor-saving equipment, thoroughly adequate for the kind and volume of work to be done, will prove economical in the end.

Floor Plan of a Well-Designed Community Kitchen—The Various Operations Follow in Consecutive Order Around the Room, Eliminating Any Retracing of Steps.

Itself. The difficulty is, it must be sandwiched in between numerous regular tasks.

Help Difficult to Obtain.

It is almost impossible nowadays to obtain help in the home; so, especially in those homes where there are small children, as much work as possible must be sent out to relieve the burdens of the housewife and mother. A community canning kitchen, either of the type to which members may bring

COOL AIR IN CELLAR MAY DO WORK OF ICE

Most Essential Part of Keeping House in Summer.

Miniature Iceless Refrigerator is Made by Inverting an Unglazed Earthenware Flowerpot in a Dish or Pan of Water.

Keeping food cool is an essential part of summer housekeeping. With ice and a well-made ice chest, difficulties are few, but without them other methods are necessary. We must have a cool place for storage if we are to have good meals made up of foods properly kept and appetizingly served. When ice is not available we can use devices which make cool air—cold water and evaporating water do the work of ice.

We can usually count upon finding cool air in the cellar, and it is valuable indeed if clean and well ventilated. But one housewife immediately says, "I am too busy to use my time carrying the food up and down those cellar steps." Every housewife is, but how about a dumb waiter on which the food could be sent to and from the cellar?

A shaft made of boards and plaster and extending from the cellar through the roof by way of the kitchen or pantry is another device which has proved useful in some parts of the country for using the cool air of the cellar. Wire or perforated shelves are fitted into the shaft and a door opens from it. As the air in the upper part of the shaft grows warmer the cold air from the cellar is drawn up and the constant upward movement of colder air cools the food on the shelves.

An iceless refrigerator which depends on the rapid evaporation of water for its cooling action is described in "Farm Home Conventness," Farmers' Bulletin 927, United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C. The use of a fireless cooker as an iceless refrigerator is discussed in it, too.

A miniature iceless refrigerator, useful where only small amounts of food need to be cooled, is made by inverting an unglazed earthenware flowerpot in a dish of water. Food may be kept cool also by placing the dish in cold water and changing the water as it becomes warm.

To keep food cool when ice is not available takes ingenuity and care. But others have done it, so why can't you?

Household Questions

Vinegar can be used as a substitute for brandy in sauce.

As spring comes on be sure to serve a salad once a day.

Mouse holes should be covered with tarred paper. The mice will desert these entrances.

In cleaning brass knobs on doors or furniture, put a pasteboard collar round the neck of the knob to keep the polish off the paint or varnish.

For making cloths hot and moist for applications, place wet cloths in top of a steamer or double boiler, which obviates the necessity of any wringing.

When making a meat pudding, if a small piece of crust about the size of half a dollar is cut out in the bottom of the basin the pudding will take one and a half hours less to cook.

IT IS NEVER LATE THAN NEVER.

We wish to apologize to our thousands of readers for any inconvenience caused them by the delay in receiving THE NEWS.

THE NEWS favors Harding strongly for the reasons it has given. It would rather see him defeated a thousand times than to see this community vote from prejudice rather than reason.

A FINAL WORD.

The election will have been decided before another issue of THE NEWS is printed. We advise our readers to vote for Harding and Coolidge.

THE SUPREMACY OF THE WHITE RACE WILL TAKE CARE OF ITSELF AND THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT HAS LITTLE AUTHORITY OVER THE SCHOOLS OF MARYLAND, AS THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS!

THE NEWS favors Harding strongly for the reasons it has given. It would rather see him defeated a thousand times than to see this community vote from prejudice rather than reason.

SENATOR JOHN WALTER SMITH'S USEFUL RECORD.

The voters of this State, irrespective of party affiliation, will be doing their state a great service by returning to the United States Senate the Hon. John Walter Smith, and at the same time will be rewarding an able and useful public servant, who has spent years in the public service with no thought of anything else than doing his best for the advancement of his state.

Alcoholism Caused By Use of Light Wines

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

WHEREAS, The Messenger of Death has thrust in his sickle and removed from our midst Mrs. J. Frank Brown, our esteemed friend and member of Mary Bell Council, No. 33.

NOTICE To the Public!

It is my order that there be no masquerading on Hollowell night in celebration of that event. This pertains to Saturday night, October 30th, and Monday night, November 1st.

Harding impresses us as a sane, sober-minded person with a deep respect for the institutions of our country and anxious to surround himself with the ablest counsellors in the land.

Cox impresses us as an adventurer with all the Wilson faith in one man infallibility without one of the Wilson poise and knowledge. He is the politician type, the opportunist. He did not hesitate to condone in his newspaper the ghastly crime of the Lusitania, to cater to the German vote.

Los Angeles makes four out of every five moving picture films produced in the United States.

There are more than four hundred newspapers in the United States published by negroes.

The largest yield of bone from a single whale was taken in 1883, and amounted to 3110 pounds.

The general H. L. of L. has doubled the price of wives in Central Africa since the war. Market rates are eight cows instead of the former four.

The Federal Bureau of Education prepared and collected 6,000,000 feet of moving picture film in 1919.

The British bought 16,000,000 pounds of American honey in 1918.

Alcoholic insanity is on the increase 5.5 per cent of the recovered cases in 1889, 14.3 per cent in 1909.

Alcoholic insanity is prevalent among the inhabitants of northern Italy and more frequent among industrial workers than in other classes of the population.

Wine the Chief Danger.

The alcoholic liquor which is prevalent in Italy is wine; spirits or beer are of a very secondary importance. For the years 1911-1914, the part of the different liquors in the total alcohol consumption was as follows:

Wine 95.2 per cent
Spirits 4.2 per cent
Beer .6 per cent

Wine consumption greatly increased. It was 75.5 liters (16 gallons) in the year 1881; 125.5 (31 gallons) in the years 1911-1914.

It is a fact that the alcoholism which threatens Italy, is alcoholism provoked by wine consumption. All people who have the occasion to study individual cases of alcoholism, criminals, alcoholics, physicians, are of the same opinion. Wine alcoholism may not provoke such loathsome manifestations as spirits alcoholism. It is nevertheless a danger, for its action on the human organism is on the whole just as harmful; its social effects are undeniable.

On the other side it is very difficult to fight against such a form of alcoholism, as wine drinking is associated with the whole social life. It has in its favor the strongest prejudices and is considered as harmless, useful and indispensable.

But the fact remains, that who wants to fight against alcoholism must fight against the wine habit.

Doan's Regulates are recommended by many who say they operate easily, without griping and without bad after effects. 30c at all drug stores.—Adv.

Tailored Suit Week At This Store

We Announce this as the Biggest and Best Thing that We have done in the Suit Section so far this Season.

We mentioned only briefly last week of a recent purchase of suits and coats, we could not give full information at that time—because all the information that we had at hand was a telegram stating what had been purchased. Since the appearance of the advertisement last week these suits and coats have come into the house as well as all of the information as to their purchase.

Weather, conditions, and supply and demand enter into the extremely low prices on these suits and coats.

As one of the makers whose fine lines are in our collection put it, "Mr. Weather Man and Mr. and Mrs. Supply and Demand, the fundamental arbiters of merchandise and prices, have joined hands in the last six weeks to support the contention that prices must be lower.

There, in brief, is the secret of our plans for the phenomenal dispersals of this week.

This bringing together of these extensive selections of suits and coats, is the result of the common sense of keen business men who are taking their loss, and taking it at exactly the right moment.

Each day this week we will offer liberal selections of tailor made suits and coats that are down to levels that no one could have expected.

This is quite an uncommon opportunity to purchase the best looking, most practical and stylish clothes for street wear.

The selections are of all the new materials and all of the wanted shades—the prices being $41.50 for Suits valued at from $50.00 to $60.00 $26.50 for coats valued at $40.00 $77.50 for fur collar coats that have a value of $125.00 $52.50 to $75.00 for suits valued from $75.00 to $125.00

Prices Which We Haven't Been Able To Put so Low on Suits and Coats of These Grades Since 1918.

$130 RAISED FOR THE HOSPITAL FUND

Entertainment Given By The Old Ladies At The Home For The Aged Friday Evening.

A very delightful entertainment, which was very liberally patronized by the townspeople, was given Friday evening by the dear old ladies at the Home for the Aged. The program was conceived and carried out by the ladies, most of whom have passed the three-score and ten mark. The ladies were costumed as little girls and each acted her part in a most pleasing manner, the program receiving generous and well-merited applause.

In addition to the literary part of the program, the old ladies conducted aazaar, and sold beautiful pieces of fancy work, in each instance being their own handwork.

The entertainment was given for the purpose of raising funds for the hospital drive now on and netted the handsome sum of $130.00, as follows: $52.00 from guests, $30.00 from inmates, $30.00 from sale of fancy articles and candy.

The old ladies are naturally proud of their success in being able to help the hospital fund so handsomely, and have requested The News to express their appreciation of the generous patronage by the people of Salisbury. Before the close of the entertainment Miss Annie K. Bowen read an original poem penned by her cousin, Dr. L. W. Bowen, of Worcester, for the occasion. It read as follows:

OUR LITTLE MITE,
Salisbury has her glories—
Whose proud of her fair name;
Whose glories rest founded
That will endure her fame.
Go round her streets and you will see
The things that need no praise from me.
Her Board of Churches,
God's temples—see them stand,
Attractions and most beautiful,
An honor to our land;
When all their builders shall have died,
They still will be Salisbury's pride.
And then, this noble mansion,
Where we are gathered now;
Name who first conceived it,
An honor to our land;
Let a warbler thrush in bloom
Mention to our Old Ladies' Home,
The way this building
Was the gift of God;
Name with Father and Mother—
Who own and care
For every corner and every Part of this place of rest.

Works on with many a blessing rife,
Combating pain and saving life.

These aims are nobler, grander,
Than hoarding yellow gold.
Go on, thou growing city,
And ever shall be told
The deeds of goodness thou has done,
The seeds of splendor thou hast sown.

Go on and on, Salisbury,
Enlarge more and more,
Till royal banishment
Adorns our Eastern Shore;
This noble cause to expedite
Our Ladies' Home bestows her mite.

WORCESTER COUNTY NEWS IN BRIEF

The tenth annual convention of the Worcester County Sunday school Association will be held on Thursday, October 28, at the Whatcoat M. E. Church in Snow Hill.

Miss Vera McDonald and Ralph Richardson, both of Snow Hill, surprised their many friends when they were united in wedlock on Wednesday evening by Rev. C. R. Strausburg at the M. P. Parsonage. The bride is the daughter of Rev. McDonald, former pastor of the Christian Church, of Snow Hill. The groom is the son of William H. Richardson.

The contract for building the uncompleted section of road connecting Federal street in Snow Hill with the state road leading to Pocomoke City has been let by the State Roads Commission, and that work will be commenced at once. This section of road has long been a source of complaint and discomfort to the traveling public, and the news that it will be completed shortly will be hailed with joy. The contractors who are building the Snow Hill-Girdletree section of road will do the work.

The latest census reports show that the farm values of Worcester County have more than doubled in the past decade. They have increased from something over five million dollars to over thirteen millions. There has been a decrease in the number of farms and in the number of tenants, but an increase in the number of farm owners which speaks well for the generally prosperity.

Mr. Oscar M. Parnell, of Snow Hill, has been appointed director of the Fourth Red Cross Roll Call for Worcester County Chapter. This announcement was made by Potomac Division headquarters, who stated that more than 75 per cent of the Red Cross Chapters in Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia had completed their registration for this annual event, which consists of renewing memberships or enrolling new members.

A conference of the M. P. Church, colored, has been held in Wesley M. E. Church, Snow Hill, during the last week. The sessions began Tuesday and continued three days. Pastors were present from many of the churches in Maryland, Delaware and Philadelphia, and the following District Superintendents: David H. Hargis, Cambridge, Md.; J. T. Fletcher, Philadelphia; J. H. Scott, South Philadelphia; J. W. Jewett, Salisbury, and R. H. Wallace, Centreville. Tuesday night Bishop M. W. Claire, of Monrovia, Liberia, Africa, preached.

STANWOOD SIX

IS READY

$250.00 CASH COUPON

It was ready a year ago but in order to thoroughly test and recheck every unit in the completed car, it was not offered until now, and it comes out as the best buy in a car of its size.

Assembled of standard parts throughout, it has an added feature of an unusually rigid frame that eliminates body weaving and straining—the frame is as strong and heavy as those usually found in cars costing twice as much as the Stanwood Six.

In appearance and finish the Stanwood leaves nothing to be desired. It will satisfy the discriminating buyer who wants a medium size, weight and price car, and a recital of the parts that make up the car, will emphasize the fact that the Stanwood Six is a high grade finished product.

The Stanwood Six is a good car to sell, and a good car to own

Franchise arrangements can be made for the dealership and sale of Stanwood Sixes. Reservations for territory comprising Delaware, Maryland and Virginia should be made promptly. Detailed information and specifications upon request.

The Lookout

By JESSIE ETHEL SHERWIN

"I've got the position! Oh! the rare, dear, good fortune of it all!" Alice Weston burst in upon her father a flame with excitement and delight.

"Good for you, Bright Eyes," he enthused, bestowing a glad glance upon her.

"You know, we heard how, during the summer season, the cape life-saving crew had planned to put a lookout signal station at the old lighthouse, so as to cover pleasure boats and bathers in this direction.

The chief of the crew was awfully good to me. He inquired all about both of us, told me what I would have to do, and by Monday the telephone and the signals will be here for us, and I am to begin my duties. Oh, papa! think of it! Sixty dollars a month!"

Alice's eyes sparkled and those of her father filled with grateful tears.

For over five years life had gone hard with those worthy and deserving souls, for Mr. Weston was too old to take parties out in his boat.

"We are to keep your boat ready for use," Alice went on, "and they will pay you ten dollars a month for what use it may have. They expect us to find some one to be within call of our station, ready to start out if any accident occurs on this side of the cape. You see, in most cases what comes under my notice I phone to the cape, but if there is a capized boat or an accident to a swimmer near us, some one must be ready to start right out to the rescue."

The next morning a bronzed, hardy looking young man appeared at the cottage. He had heard of the position and had been directed to Mr. Weston by a neighbor.

At a glance Alice discerned that the applicant was no ordinary workman. He simply stated that he had met with a serious reverse of fortune, had owned a yacht once, knew all about water craft and would be glad to secure the position offered.

The life saving service chief appeared on the scene a little later, to look after some repairs in the tower that was to be the daily home of Alice, and she introduced North, whose services were at once arranged for.

Monday morning Alice reached the tower to find its top circular room newly whitewashed, the phone in and the place swept out and dusted. A pretty bouquet of wild flowers showed in a tin cup. North had arrived in advance of her.

"You worked all this magic!" and Alice, with grateful eyes.

"That ought to be part of my duty every morning," declared North. "See," and he pointed through the door of an alcove. "I've arranged for board. As to the lodging, could anything be better?" and he indicated a hammock swing across window openings where the sea breeze came in fresh and bracing.

Incidentally Alice learned that North had been left quite a fortune, but had been defrauded out of it by schemers. He had come down to the cape to sail a yacht for a very wealthy gentleman, but the latter had taken him.

"I left me stranded," he explained, "but I'll be able to get along here on what the position pays me for the rest of the season."

He was courteous, well read, refined in manner. During the first month of service he had saved a struggling and exhausted bather who had ventured too far out in the surf, and one stormy afternoon both he and Alice took the oars and reached a capized boat just in time to rescue two young girls clinging to it. He had gone to take a report to headquarters one day when storm signals were up, and, returning, instead of coming up to the lookout, he hurried to the boat, bending the oars vigorously, North drove forward daintily in the direction of the cape. Soon, Alice, her eyes to the telescope, divined his purpose. He was cutting across the track of a light craft holding one man. As he reached it Alice uttered a sharp scream. A puff of smoke and then the faint echo of a pistol report told her of a desperate encounter. The boats were side by side. She saw North, who had fallen, arise, shift his oar, strike at the man who had fired at him and spring beside him. The shore boat floated away. The smaller one, both men apparently helpless, drifted unguided.

Alice sensed a tragedy. She netted like the true daughter of the sea that she was. In a few moments she was garbed in a light bathing suit. She was a superb swimmer, but fairly exhausted as she clambered into the drifting boat. Both of its occupants lay senseless. She got them ashore, called her father and within an hour North was able to tell his story.

"I heard in the town of a great jewel robbery at the hotel," he explained, "and noticed that suspicious boat. It contained the stolen plunder."

The thief was taken in charge by officers sent for. There came back a phone message. "There is one thousand dollars reward waiting here for somebody."

Of course the "somebody" was Gerard North, and his first investment, after a month's nursing by the solicitous Alice, was an engagement ring.

$25,000 SUIT FOLLOWS SPIVA AUTO ACCIDENT

Bank Cashier Blamed By Mrs. M. L. Tarr For Crash In Which Mrs. Spiva Died.

SUIT DOCKETED IN SOMERSET COUNTY

Mrs. Mary L. Tarr, of Ridgely, is represented by William J. Rickards, of Denton, in the Suit For Damages. Case Will Excite Considerable Attention.

Advices from Ridgely, Md., are to the effect that Mrs. Mary L. Tarr, through William J. Rickards, of Denton, her attorney, has filed suit in the Circuit Court for Somerset county, against William B. Spiva, cashier, of the Bank of Somerset, Princess Anne, for $25,000 for injuries alleged to have been sustained by her through the negligence and carelessness of Mr. Spiva in the operation of his automobile.

The accident happened August 2 last on the State Road leading from Centerville to Wye Mills, in Queen Anne's county. Mr. Spiva and his wife were on their way to Atlantic City in a big touring car driven by Mr. Spiva.

This accident has attracted attention throughout the entire state, due to the prominence of the defendant and his wife, Mrs. Spiva having met instant death in the same accident.

Mr. Spiva has practically been incapacitated from work ever since the accident. It was several weeks after his wife's burial that his condition would permit of his being told of his wife's death.

The coroner's jury which considered all the facts in this accident were compelled to wait several weeks, before announcing the verdict and only a few days ago announced its findings, which completely exonerated Mr. Spiva from all blame for the accident.

Fall Strawberries Are Plentiful

Mild Weather of October Has Ripened This Delicious Fruit To Perfection.

This section is becoming quite famous for the raising of fall strawberries. A few years ago small lots were occasionally brought to Salisbury during October and found a ready sale at 25 cents per quart.

During the present month, the supply has greatly increased, so much so that beautifully ripened berries are on sale almost every day at the fruit stores. The price is 25 cents per quart basket.

THE "MAN OF MYSTERY" IS NOT SO MYSTERIOUS

Letters Found On His Person Prove Him To Be Named Hill, From Charlestown, W. Va.

Last week's paper contained an article on the "Man of Mystery," the man who was arrested on the farm of John H. Tomlinson. According to evidence produced he is a very inoffensive man, but has led a peculiar life.

All through his questioning and, as far as can be found anywhere, he has used his correct name, Hill. State's Attorney Long found in Pocomoke a suit case belonging to Hill, in which there were more than a hundred letters. All the letters from his home in Charlestown, W. Va., requested him to come back.

Hill says that he was a volunteer in the early part of the war, was made a first-class baker, but was later discharged on account of physical disability. Then going to New Orleans, he registered for the draft, going from there to Nashville, Tenn., but upon leaving Nashville, failed to leave his address, which, so far as he knows, is the only charge that can be made against him.

He says that everything seemed to be against him, that his work never seemed satisfactory and after giving up his job in a bakery in Pocomoke he picked strawberries and then went out to the Tomlinson farm to die.

State's Attorney Long has followed his record through Pocomoke, Princess Anne and Baltimore and finds it a good one. He has written to Hill's parents, who are expected to come to Salisbury for him.

Two Dwellings Destroyed By Fire

Over-Heated Wood Stove Started Blaze Which Burned Two Dwellings. Others Threatened.

A fire which entirely destroyed two dwellings and seriously threatened several more broke out in the home of Mr. Carl McLane in South Salisbury about 10 o'clock on Tuesday night. It was evidently caused by an over-heated air tight stove.

It is understood that Edwin Ingersoll was the first person to observe the fire. Thinking there was too much smoke coming from the chimney for an ordinary stove fire he investigated and gave the alarm.

The home of McLane was entirely destroyed and only a shell of what was Edward Crampfield's home remains. Only prompt service by the Fire Department kept the fire from spreading to the surrounding buildings.

DEATH OF MRS. WITHAM, AGED NEARLY 90 YEARS

After an illness of several months, due to the infirmities of old age, Mrs. Harry T. Witham passed away Wednesday evening at the home of her daughter, Miss Witham, on Walnut street, aged 89 years. Deceased, before her marriage, was Miss Harriet T. Brown, of Maine, but had been a resident of Salisbury for the past seven years, coming here from the Eastern Shore of Virginia. She is survived by her daughter and one sister, both residents of Salisbury.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the late home of the deceased, conducted by Rev. Dr. Cone. The interment was in Parsons cemetery.

DRASTIC CUT IN RETAIL PRICES WITHIN TWO WEEKS IS PREDICTED

High Government Official Says Merchants Must Reduce Stocks To Get Credit—Consumer To Feel Benefit Of Action.

Within two weeks the consumer will benefit by price reductions to a greater extent than ever, according to the opinion voiced in Washington by a Government official of the highest authority.

The question of prices and price reductions has been discussed to a great extent by the bankers attending the convention of the American Bankers' Association. Out of these discussions grew the suggestion of a Government official who would not permit the use of his name at this time.

Up to this time, it has been insisted in Washington, the ultimate consumer has not benefited greatly by the price reductions. It was charged only recently by the price division of the Department of Justice that retailers were not reducing their prices to the extent the reductions by manufacturers and jobbers warranted.

This situation has caused a violent protest from the ultimate consumer. Having been the first to suffer from price increase at the time of the war, he cannot understand now why he does not get the immediate benefit of price reductions.

According to the word obtained from the bankers and passed along by Government officials, the demand for reductions in credit is soon to hit the middlemen and retailers with tremendous force. Up to this time they have avoided the blow the farmers already have suffered. But the banks will continue to insist on reduced inventories, and they can make this demand emphatic because loans are coming due now from day to day. To obtain credit sufficient to permit him to carry on anything like normal operations the middlemen or retailers must reduce their stocks.

There is only one way at present to reduce stocks, this authority stated, and that is by making drastic price reductions. The consumer has been educated now not to invest in luxuries or in necessities quoted at a high price. He, the Federal Reserve Board has shown, is demanding more and more for his money and refusing to buy unless he gets it.

"It's this way," was the added suggestion. "This shirt had been worn so long that the cuffs were frayed out. I should have a new one and throw it away. But I got my wife to turn the cuffs, and I am wearing it and I am going to continue to wear it until the price comes down to where I think it is something like fair to me."—Baltimore Sun.

DELMAR SECTION

Of THE WICOMICO NEWS

Published Weekly in the Interests of Delmar and all of Delmar's People.

PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1920.

THE NEWS PUBLISHED

FULL ELECTION RETURNS WILL BE GIVEN DELMAR PEOPLE

The News Has Completed Arrangements To This End.

DIRECT TELEPHONE CONNECTIONS SECURED

Results of County, First Congressional District, State and Nation To Be Bulletin At Old German & Bryan Restaurant on Railroad Avenue As Fast As Received.

Delmar is to get the complete election returns on election night. This is the result of the policy of The News to give the people of Delmar the same service it gives its Salisbury readers. When the question of getting the returns on election night was taken up by the management, the editor of the Delmar Section had but to call their attention to the matter and the arrangements for Delmar were at once completed.

The Wicomico News has made complete arrangements for these returns to be the most complete that a news gathering agency can secure. First they have made arrangements with the Western Union Telegraph Company for complete returns from the whole United States as fast as they can be secured, and also for the results from every election district in Wicomico county, from every county on the Eastern Shore, from the state of Maryland and the United States.

Next they have arranged with the telephone company for returns in that direction, and they have made working agreements with both the Democratic and Republican headquarters in Salisbury for any information that they may be able to secure. Capable men will be in charge of the Salisbury end and will handle this information so as to give the results from the county, from the district in the Congressional fight, from the state in the Senatorial fight, and from the nation in the residential campaign.

The News has arranged with the telephone company to install direct telephone connections with their office in Salisbury with Delmar's headquarters and as the returns come in they will be telephoned to their Delmar representative. Here they will be bulletined for any who may assemble, after which they will be tabulated so as to keep in touch with each contest, and from time to time the general tabulated figures will be announced.

The arrangements for Delmar are about completed. The news will be bulletined as fast as received from the Old German & Bryan Restaurant on Railroad Avenue, where chairs will be provided on the inside for the ladies.

As is generally known the polls in Maryland close at 7 p. m. Necessarily, on account of the increased number of voters, occasioned by the voting of women, the returns will be slow in coming in and possibly it will be much later than usual before the start. Once started, however, it is expected that the flow will be continuous and there will be some information to give at short intervals.

To those of the Delmar people who cannot get out, but wish to know how things are going from time to time, arrangements also have been provided to accommodate them if they will call 1-0-3 Delmar phone. Please call this number in preference to The News' Salisbury office, as it will, no doubt, be very busy, and you will be able to secure prompter service and the same information from the Delmar office.

The plans so far prefected are as complete as can possibly be made. No detail will be overlooked to give the people of Delmar the returns just as fast as possible, and we feel sure that the service will be in every way as complete as that furnished in the big cities by the newspapers there, and the people of Delmar will be kept just as well informed as they.

Everybody is anxious this year to know how things are going in county, district, state and nation, more so, on account of this being the first election in which the women of the country have participated, and how the women will vote is worrying the leaders of both big parties just at the present moment.

Time—Election night, from 8 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

Place—Old German & Bryan Restaurant, Railroad Avenue.

Telephone No.—1-0-3—at your service.

Service absolutely free.

Warm Chase After Whiskey Runner

Was Plying His Nefarious Trade In Towns Along the Delaware Coast.

Prohibition Enforcement Officer John Layton, of Georgetown, received a telephone message a few days ago that a motorboat in charge of James Dollinger, of New Jersey, was distributing liquor along the Delaware river coast. Mr. Layton empowered several deputies and the posse was speeded by auto to the Mispillon river.

On reaching the spot Dollinger recognized the revenue officers and jumping overboard swam to his motorboat. Layton impressed another boat but Dollinger stopped its speed with a high powered rifle, firing until the revenue officer was forced to slow down.

Finding they could not catch the boat Layton rushed an automobile to Bowers Beach and there hired another motorboat in charge of Captain Willis Carey. After a hard race, the escaping boat was sighted, but at the moment a heavy fog descended over the Delaware river and Dollinger escaped.

Sweet Potato Crop Large In Sussex

Most of the sweet potato growers in this section have about completed digging their crop, which has turned out a better yield than many had been predicting. The farmers broke a determined effort of some of the brokers to obtain a large part of the crop for 35 cents per basket by refusing to sell, and after a short time the brokers began bidding up the price until now sweets are selling at 65 cents per basket with some sales at 70 cents per basket.

The farmers replied to the brokers by telling them they had lost on their sweet potatoes, cantaloupes and cucumber crops and that they had to make a reasonable profit on their sweets to make up a part of their losses on the others.

ATTORNEY BELL FOUND UNCONSCIOUS IN HOTEL

Had Planned To Go To Philadelphia On Excursion Sunday. Carried To Salisbury Sunday Afternoon.

Mr. George W. Bell, former State's Attorney for Wicomico county, and a prominent attorney of Salisbury, was found unconscious in the hotel in this town on Sunday morning.

Mr. Bell had planned to go to Philadelphia on the excursion which was run Sunday by the Pennsylvania Railroad, and had come to Delmar Saturday night so as to be able to catch the train which left Sunday morning at 6 o'clock.

As the time for the leaving of the train approached and Mr. Bell did not appear, someone went to his room to call him and he was found sitting in a chair in the room unconscious.

A physician was immediately summoned and medical attention given, but Mr. Bell was still seriously ill Sunday afternoon when he was carried on the train to his home in Salisbury.

Upon his arrival in Salisbury he was again given medical attention and on Monday was able to be out apparently none the worse for the experience. The doctors say that Mr. Bell had an attack of his heart and was fortunate that he was where he could secure immediate medical attention.

GOVERNMENT ORDER HAMPERS ROAD BUILDING

Stops Priority Permits For Road Materials In Effort To Relieve The Coal Situation.

A cause of much apprehension in State Highway circles is the action of the Federal authorities in summarily cancelling all permits for the loading of road building material, notice of which has just been received. The cause for this action is stated to be the coal situation and the need of the cars for the movement of this necessity. Fortunately for the State Highway people a large portion of the labor can be shifted to grading work, and as foresight has been exercised restricting the opening up of sections to correspond with the supplies in sight, no great inconvenience is anticipated through the leaving of gaps in the sections under way, if the worst happens.

The Board of Public Roads in Washington will be visited this week by Mr. Upham and members of the State Highway Commission in an effort to secure a modification of this order. There is no question that if the order is strictly enforced by the Federal authorities in Washington it will be a serious blow to the road building plans in Delaware, many of which are just fairly under way, with hopes of making many important connections. However, the need of coal is also severely felt in all sections of the state, so maybe the sacrificing of the one, as bad as it may be, will relieve the other, which is equally as bad, and getting worse as winter approaches.

MR. S. KER SLEMONS FROM PLEASANT VACATION

Mr. S. Ker Slemons, cashier of the First National Bank, this town, has returned from a very pleasant two weeks' vacation. Mr. Slemons visited the scenes of his childhood days in Lexington, Ky., and reports that little Southern city to have grown wonderfully since he saw it last. He said that on the site of a college there is now a fine park and everywhere is seen evidence of the thrift of his former home. He visited the races while there and saw some of the full blooded stock for which the South is famous.

On his return he stopped at Washington, where he attended the meeting of the American Bankers Association. He states that this was a grand affair, the ladies of the capital city doing everything possible to entertain the big crowd of bankers from all over the United States.

DELAWARE STATE HOME NEARS COMPLETION

Started one year ago, a State Home for Feeble Minded, located about four miles from Georgetown, will be completed this week. The institution, the first of its kind in Delaware, will accommodate about 40 patients. The buildings are in the centre of a tract of several hundred acres of land and were erected at a cost of about $19,000. The land cost about $60,000 and much of it will be used for farming purposes, the inmates being used as much as possible in carrying on the farm work.

THE WOMEN'S FIRST VOTE.

On the eve of the great political struggle that will determine who will represent us in the House of Representatives and who will represent us in the Senate, and who will be the President of these United States for the next four years, there come the usual conflicting claims from the headquarters of both the big parties. Never before in the history of presidential elections have there been more important issues at stake than in the campaign just closing, and the claims of the party managers are the same as usual before each election of such importance.

But in this campaign there is a factor that the party managers have never before confronted with before. They are veterans in the political arena, masters of the arts of their chosen professions, and men who, ordinarily, could feel the pulse of the nation and tell easily the trend of sentiment. But this time they are "stumped" and in all the claims that have been made an observant reader cannot but see the touch of uncertainty that is apparent.

The cause is answered in the one question:

"What are the women voters of the country, voting for the first time, going to do?"

There is many a politician, no matter how well versed he may be in politics, in the United States who is striving to answer this question, but it remains unanswered, and will remain so until the ballots are counted next Tuesday night.

The independent vote of the women of the United States is being put to its first test. No better time could have been selected to give them their first ballot, for now is the time that the honest opinions and convictions of the electorate is needed as never before, and it has been conceded that the women will vote their honest convictions—that is, the large majority will.

It has been said that the women would vote as their fathers or husbands did. But the politician who figured this way is due to a sad awakening. Many families will find themselves divided at the ballot boxes next Tuesday. Many a man will vote one ticket which his wife is voting for the opposite candidate.

And she will do so because she thinks it is the right thing to do.

Do not get the mistaken idea that because the women are novices at this voting game, they will not know what they are doing. The wager is a good one at 50 to 1 that the majority of women in the United States who vote in this election will be better prepared to do so than the men.

They have studied the issues involved in the campaign closer than the men ever did, and when they do to the polls will come closer to registering their true convictions than the votes of men have shown for the centuries they have enjoyed the privilege of suffrage.

While this is true even now, as the years go on, you will find the women studying politics and finding out who will better serve them in the offices to which they aspire. In the women we will find the true expression of honest convictions, and that is what is needed in this country, not the sentiment of the wardheelers and political bosses of the past.

You need not have any fear of the votes of the women next Tuesday. Whoever they vote for, they will do so with the firm conviction that he is the best man, and not because they have been told to do so by some petty boss or leader. There are no strings tied to the woman vote, and we hope there never will be.

MASON-DIXON LINE STARTS DISCUSSION

Many Delmar People Want To Know Where Line Is, and The Argument Finally Reaches Salisbury.

Discussion has been rife for some time in local quarters about the Mason and Dixon line. Some said the line was that dividing boundaries between Maryland and Delaware, which passes down State street in Delmar, while other said it as the dividing line between Maryland and Pennsylvania on the north. The argument has continued pro and con for some time in Delmar and finally reached Salisbury where it was also taken up with a vim. Upon investigation by a News reporter, it was discovered that there are comparatively many people who did not know either the states separated by the famous boundary or the reason for its having been established. The reported looked the matter up in authoritative quarters and discovered that the famous Mason and Dixon line is the northern boundary line between Maryland and Pennsylvania and Maryland, and it continues down the eastern side of Maryland between Maryland and Delaware, and across the northern boundary of Maryland between Maryland and Delaware. It was thus found that both side of the recent argument were correct but not wholly so, as the Mason and Dixon line is at both places contended by the different parties, but also down the side of Delaware.

The original marking of this famous boundary line hinged upon a controversy about the interpretation given by two states to two phrases: "The beginning of the 40th degree latitude" and "the beginning of the 43rd degree north latitude."

Although the line itself was not run until 1763, it was early in 1700 that the controversy began. Lord Baltimore and William Penn could not come to an agreement about the boundary between their respective grants. The quarrel lasted for 50 years, causing endless trouble between individuals, and occupying the attention of the Proprietors of both provinces, of the Lords of Trade and Plantations, the High Court of Chancery, and the Privy Councils of three kings.

During the life of Penn, no compromise was reached. His sons, however, after his death succeeded in obtaining from Charles, Lord Baltimore, an agreement by which the boundary line was to be determined by commissioners representing both parties to the controversy.

About 1732 Lord Baltimore went with his commissioners into Pennsylvania but was unable to get the Proprietors of that province to take action. Unsettled conditions continued, therefore, with ever increasing disturbances in the disputed territory.

The Governor of Maryland then laid the matter before the proprietors and the King of England and invoked their aid in settling the dispute. The result was an order from the King's Council for both parties to keep peace and to grant to lands within the disputed territory until the boundary could be adjusted.

While the case was pending before the English Court of Chancery, to which the question was submitted in 1736, both parties agreed upon a provisional line of demarcation. A decision was finally reached in 1760 by Chancellor Lord Hardwicke which provided a further compromise.

In 1760 commissioners representing both sides were appointed and they determined the eastern boundary. Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon were engaged to run the east and west line and fix other points that were unsettled. Both these men were distinguished surveyors.

The engineers at once began their task. By 1767 they had carried the line to a point beyond the mountains 244 miles from the Delaware River. Further progress was prevented by the Indians. Later, however, the line was completed by others.

The boundary was marked by milestones, every fifth one having engraved on one side the coat of arms of Baltimore and on the other the coat of arm of Penn. The line runs along 39 degree, 43 seconds, 26.3 minutes north latitude. A resurvey was made in 1849 and just prior to the Civil War the line was popularly accepted as dividing the free from the slave states.

In 1900 another survey was authorized jointly by the states of Maryland and Pennsylvania. The work was done under the supervision of a commission consisting of the superintendent of the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Secretary for Internal Affairs for Pennsylvania, and the director of the Geological Survey of Maryland.

Sportsmen In High Glee Over Prospects For a Splendid Season's Shooting.

The sportsmen of Delmar are in high glee over the prospects for a great season of quail and rabbit shooting when the law opens next month, for according to one local hunter, young birds and rabbits were never more plentiful in lower Delaware. He says more young birds and rabbits have been seen by him during the past few weeks than he ever saw before at this time of the year.

He accounted for the fact because hundreds of the young birds and rabbits had been left alone during the summer months and in September and October by the dogs which usually get into them at this time killing off any quantity of them.

Tri-State Tomato Pack Below Normal

Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey Output Placed at 3,000,000 Cases This Year.

The three greatest tomato canning states of the country, Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey, have packed 3,000,000 cases of tomatoes this season, which is only a meagre fraction of the usual output, according to information collected by the Tri-State Canners' Association. Maryland alone normally packs 6,000,000 cases.

The big slump in the industry, it is said now, is due to difficulty in securing loans. According to a member of the association, the failure of the industry must be attributed to the banks and the policy of the present administration. The three states normally pack 50 per cent of the country's output. This year they packed less than half that amount.

The canners assert the tomato crop was exceptionally good, but more than half of it rotted on the ground. As a result, the market price of tomatoes is 25 per cent below the cost of production.

According to reports presented the pace of tomatoes and tomato pulp in Delaware was as follows:

Tomatoes, cases No. 1, four dozen each, 2,300; cases No. 2, two dozen each, 164,696; cases No. 3, two dozen each, 399,566; cases No. 10, half dozen each, 80,441; pulp, cases No. 1, four dozen each, 18,292; cases No. 10, half dozen each, 84,701; five gallon cans, 18,946; total, reduced to No. 3 cans, 571,226.

This is the smallest pack for Delaware in many years.

RABBIT SEASON FIXED BY DEL. COMMISSION

Shooting Is Legal Between November 15th and December 31st. Says Board.

The Board of Game and Fish Commissioners has interpreted the confused game laws to the effect that rabbits may be killed lawfully between November 15th and December 31. John P. Le Favre, chief game warden, has made the following statement:

"The Legislature of Delaware at the special session of 1920 enacted among other legislation an amendment to the fish and game laws. The wording of this amendment is such that its meaning or intent, as it applies to the hunting of rabbits is not clear, but, on the contrary is susceptible of different interpretations. As a result of this ambiguity, the Board of Game and Fish Commissioners has received numerous requests to place a construction upon the law for the guidance of interested persons during the approaching gunning season.

"The board has carefully examined the amendment, as well as the numerous other provisions of the game laws relating to the taking of rabbits, and it is unanimously of the opinion that the amendment in question does not change the open season, during which it is lawful to hunt rabbits, and that, therefore, rabbits may be lawfully hunted and killed during the approaching gunning season as heretofore, viz., from November 15th to December 31st."

Mr. S. E. Griffith is still on the sick list.

Mr. John Hickman and Miss Cora Marvil motored to Wilmington on Sunday.

Mr. William I. Calloway, who has been on the sick list for the past week, is improving.

Little Miss Esther Oston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oston, is very ill at her home in this city.

Mrs. Harry Carlett, of Wilmington, who has been spending the summer as a guest of relatives in Delmar and Salisbury, returned to her home on Sunday afternoon.

Over three hundred tickets were sold from the Delmar station for the excursion run Sunday by the Pennsylvania Railroad to Philadelphia and return.

Work was started last week on the grading and scraping of State street by the town officials of both sides of the town. The work will be completed shortly and will be a great improvement to that thoroughfare.

The crop of sugar cane in Southern Delaware is the largest for many years, owing to the fact that the farmers during the summer believed that there would be a shortage of sugar and that high prices would prevail.

The Republicans on the Maryland side held a well attended mass meeting at the Elcora Theatre on Thursday evening. The issues of the campaign were discussed by able orators secured for the occasion. Many women were in the audience.

Mrs. Fannie German, Mr. Hubert German, of Delmar, and Mrs. Harry Carlett, of Wilmington, motored to Cape Charles last week, from which point they continued by boat to Norfolk to visit friends. They returned on Saturday.

Plans are under way for the establishment of an up-to-date printing plant either in Lewes or Georgetown for the publication of a staunch Democratic paper. Georgetown is at present favored on account of its being the central point in Sussex county and the seat of all political activity.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whyland returned on Friday from a trip to Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore. While in Baltimore Mr. Whyland visited his brother, Sewell, who has been in a hospital in that city for about four weeks for treatment. He reports him improving nicely and says that he will be able to return home in a week or ten days.

Fear is expressed that unless Governor John G. Townsend calls a special session of the Legislature, or some method is devised whereby the election laws can be "winked" at, that many voters will not get a chance to vote in Delaware on election day, in the limited time for casting ballots. The vote in nearly every precinct is double what it was two years ago, on account of women becoming qualified.

Mrs. R. M. Pusey gave a delightful entertainment at her home to Class No. 11 of the M. E. Sunday School, of which she is a member, on Thursday evening. Freeny, Mrs. Victor Carmine, Mrs. Clarence Hearn, Mrs. Earl Elliott, Mrs. Charles Trader, Mrs. Edna Parker, Mrs. Riley Parker, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Clarence Cordrey, Mrs. R. M. Pusey and Mrs. F. N. Miss Ida Elizabeth Ellis Becomes The Bride of Mr. Marion Hastings. Both Popular Young Delmar People.

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. when Miss Ida Elizabeth Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Ellis, became the bride of Mr. Marion Hastings, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Hastings, of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. N. Faulkner at the home of the bride's parents on Grove street. The wedding march was played by Mrs. F. E. Lynch. The bride was beautifully attired in blue charmoise with picture hat to match. Her bouquet was immense yellow chrysanthemums.

The home was decorated in autumn leaves and yellow chrysanthemums and lighted with candles with yellow shades. The arch and gate under which they stood was the same used by the bride's parents at their wedding.

A wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple left on the 3:15 train for Wilmington, Baltimore, Staunton, Richmond and Norfolk, Va. On their return home they will reside on North Second street extended.

The bride is well known and very popular in the younger set of this town. Mr. Hastings is one of Delmar's enterprising young merchants.

NEWSY HAPPENINGS IN SUSSEX COUNTY

Things Transpiring In All Sections Of the County To The North Of Wicomico.

Ellendale has had two fire scares within as many months, the latest occurring when a gasoline stove at the home of Mrs. Alfred Clendaniel exploded and set fire to the building. Heroic work on the part of citizens, who formed a bucket brigade, prevented what for a time threatened to be a serious conflagration.

Continued dry weather this month has cut short the buckwheat crop of lower Delaware, which is now being harvested, but since the acreage this year was greatly increased, growers believe they will have enough to supply the demands in this section.

Arthur McBride, who has been teaching French and English in the Lewes High School, has resigned owing to having a more lucrative position, nearer his home, offered him. He returned to Cambridge, Ohio, Sunday. The seniors gave him a farewell send-off Saturday evening.

The trustees of the Rehoboth Presbyterian Church have purchased the dwelling of Samuel Holland at Midway for the manse; consideration $3,500.

The farm at Milford Neck owned jointly by John H. Watson and E. Ernest Watson was sold at public sale Saturday to John H. Watson for $7,500. This farm contains about 110 acres.

The tenth anniversary of the First Methodist Protestant Church, Milford, Rev. E. C. Dryden, pastor, was observed last week.

Hayes & Anderson's fisheries, which have been operating at Lewes Beach, closed Saturday and discharged the fishing crews. This has been a fine fishing season, the largest catch being 50,000 barrels, and the next 40,000 barrels. The fish are very fat, yielding four gallons of oil to the barrel.

On Tuesday two well-known women of Seaford died. They were Mrs. George F. Morgan and Mrs. Samuel Goodman. The former was 62 years of age. She was a daughter of Purnell Messick, retired Seaford business man, who, with her husband, survives. Mrs. Goodman, wife of Samuel Goodman, was stricken while attending a club meeting. She was 42 years old, and leaves besides her husband four children.

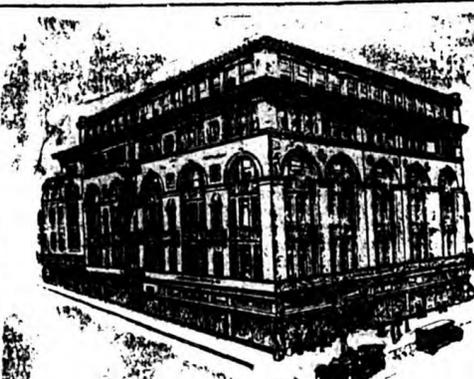

That mid-year evangelistic meetings may not become a thing of the past in southern Delaware, residents in the vicinity of Fenwick Island, Baltimore district, have decided to revive the famous Fenwick camp-meeting, which has not been held for several years. Already more than $1,000 has been subscribed for the purpose of getting the grounds in condition for the holding of the camp during the coming summer.

MRS. WEST TO APPEAL TO THE CIRCUIT COURT

According to advice received by Woodcock & Webb, attorneys, Mrs. Edith E. West, of Princess Ann, will take appeals to the Circuit Court from the judgments of Justice of the Peace J. Frank Miles, recently rendered. The case against the Wests was one in which a number of Wicomico farmers were interested, and judgements for 75 per cent of the claims were awarded the plaintiffs. Mrs. West has now decided to carry her case before the Circuit Court of Somerset county. The Auction Block cases will thus be longer in being settled than was supposed.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Friday night the Choral Club of the school organized, electing as its officers the following: Clifford Dryden, president; Ernest Dickinson, vice-president; Mattie Pusey, secretary and treasurer. Last year the club had its meetings the third period on Wednesday in the assembly of the school, but this year it conflicts with the routine of study and the meetings are now held every Friday night.

The Senior Class is upholding the social movement, this being shown by a party that was given last Tuesday night. The program consisted of a few remarks by the president, games and dancing. Refreshments were served and all went home after having spent an enjoyable evening and pronouncing the party a success. Mr. Bennett, the school superintendent, was among those present.

Soccer is the main topic of conversation among the student body. Much enthusiasm is being shown by the girls as well as the boys and the soccer season looks as if it will be a great success. In order to bring forth all the best material for a good team several inter-class games have been scheduled. The first one on Monday between the Seniors and Juniors resulted in a victory for the Seniors, the score being 2 to 1. On Wednesday the Seniors and Sophomores played a scoreless tie game which was called after the second half, no extra period being played. Several other games were played all being closely contested. The season will open Friday, the game being called at 3.45 p. m. between Wicomico High School and Delmar.

GAME IS PLENTIFUL SAYS STATE WARDEN

Report Made To Conservation Commission In Splendid. Hunters Urged To Get Licenses This Month.

State Game Warden, E. Lee LeCompte, in his report to the Conservation Commission, dated October 7th, on the progress made at the State Game Farm, advised that the number of breeding stock totaled 200, from which stock 5,600 eggs were laid; birds hatched and planted on field, 3,015; birds shipped to the 23 counties of the State, 2,326; birds held for breeding at the farm, 140; and the number of eggs shipped from the farm totaled 1,354. These eggs were shipped upon requests from the public, who agreed to hatch the young birds and liberate them in the covers of our State for propagation purposes.

From numerous reports received by this department throughout the State, we find that game of all species are most plentiful, more so than during former years. This we conclude is due to the game receiving more protection, and being fed by the public during the winter months. The Game Department has expended vast amounts of money in the importation and propagation of game since the hunters license system became effective. It might be well for the public to know, that the Game Department is supported solely by revenue derived through the sale of hunters' licenses, and not one cent is appropriated by the State.

With the success we have already obtained at the game farm during the past season in the propagation of the Chinese Ringnecked Pheasant, and with proper protection which is due from the public, we hope to establish this bird (which is commonly known as the king among game birds), permanently in the covers, not only for the benefit of the sportsmen, but for the agricultural interests as well.

It is gratifying to know through reports filed in this office by the clerks of courts of all counties in Maryland, that the sportsmen are securing their licenses very freely, and we are looking for a banner year in 1920. We earnestly request the public to secure their licenses during the month of October, thereby avoiding the rush at the clerks' offices, which is customary prior to the opening of the regular hunting season. Purchase your licenses now, and help avoid this congestion, and have the license on your hunting coat, and be sure you secure the arm tag which goes with the license, and wear it while hunting on the left arm between elbow and shoulder. By noting this request, we are sure it will avoid embarrassment of being apprehended by one of our deputy Game Wardens, who are stationed far and wide in our State.

The report of Automobile Commissioner Baughman for the fiscal year ended May 20, 1920, shows a substantial increase in receipts, as compared with the previous fiscal year, and a decrease in expenses. The gross receipts were $2,051,135.07, which was an increase of $300,441.64, or 21.5 per cent. The expenses were $163,417.78, as compared with $168,626.99 in the previous year, a saving of $5,209.21. Mr. Baughman also reported that while the total number of licenses of all kinds issued during the year was 318,316, which was an increase of 37.6 per cent over the previous year, the number of deaths resulting from automobile accidents decreased. NEW FUEL IS BEING RECEIVED IN SALISBURY

Owing to the great scarcity of hard and soft coal, a new fuel is being received in Salisbury, but not in large proportions. It is known as A. B. C. Briquets and resembles in shape a Maryland biscuit. It is made of Lykens Valley coal, which is higher in heat units, carbon, and volatile and is lower in ash than any anthracite mined. The briquets do not throw off any smoke, soot or odor when burning, do not sinker, nor do they gas and cause injury to flues or grates. While this is something new in the fuel line in Wicomico county, it is extensively used throughout France and other European countries. One thing which should recommend them to the consumer is that they are cheaper than coal.

All Nash Models Are Now Equipped With Cord Tires

The ability of the big Nash organization to offer unusual values is again indicated by the adoption of cord tires as standard equipment on all Nash models, both open and closed.

This extra value is made possible only because of efficient factory methods and volume production, which result in unusually low manufacturing overhead.

Cord tires insure extra mileage, dependable service and added satisfaction and are in keeping with the high standard of every other detail embodied in the building of Nash Passenger Cars.

CHILD TRAINING AT HOME

ART AND THE LITTLE CHILD.

(By William Byron Forbush.)
Art is a big word to use in connection with a little child who at present is able to distinguish only the primary colors and whose drawing are a fantastic scribble. But all that the child is going to be grows out of what he is, and all that he is going to have depends upon the wisdom of our giving now.

When we ask ourselves what art means to a human being we soon answer our own question by saying: Art is a means of happiness and a means of expression. If we ask further, whether it may be both to all, we reply: It may be a means of happiness to all, and although to only a few can it be a way of adequate expression, yet there is little doubt that everybody, if carefully trained, can to some degree, express himself through art. The importance of art then is not the possibility that we may discover and develop a few masters, but that we may open to all the people new pathways of self-expression and happiness.

How to Begin.

The beginning of every art is in appreciation. The wise mother today does not have her child "begin music" by sitting him down, reluctant, at the piano and having him "take" music lessons, like an inoculation. She sees to it that he hears much good music from the cradle days until he is, as it were, saturated with music, and is eager to find some way of expressing music with his voice and fingers.

And so the way to help a child to art is to help him to feel for color, to rejoice in fire and sunlight and shadows, to enjoy tracing out happy designs, and perhaps best of all, to learn to love pictures.

The homeliest playthings may be used to develop the color-sense. Bright bits of pottery, marbles, scraps of cloths, shells, flowers, gold-fish, all afford daily opportunities, and even a display of bright fruit preserves or aluminum dishes in the kitchen and the use of well-selected paint and wall-papers may accustom a child to good taste in the humblest home.

The Child's Love for Pictures.

All studies that have been made of children's interest in pictures indicate that their first liking is almost wholly for the story. They are not very particular about the color, and they have no inborn taste for the Old Masters. The people in the pictures are their friends, and it is the dramatic rather than the esthetic consideration that affects them.

This suggests what we are to do. Let us select picture books and pictures for the home walls that tell beautiful stories in a beautiful way. Let us implant images that will always be treasures worth while, both because they are good art and because they are eternally inspiring.

The Child's First Picture Making.

Having done what we can, early and often, to help the child enjoy color and see beauty in nature and the home, having made good pictures his friends, we may expect to find him ready to make some efforts at self-expression through pictures. Good sense tells us that we should place within his reach a few strong colors, as easy medium and models largely of his own choosing. Soft crayons furnish the best first medium and adequate colors. His first efforts will be to portray an idea rather than an image. If he starts to make a night picture it will probably consist of a row of stars. Design rather than darning, will be his mood, and his efforts to portray action will be extremely "impressionistic." Freedom, joy and vigor rather than accuracy should be the aim. Tracing is useless and copying vain, but the young child who makes pictures his other language, who tries to say something with his fingers, has begun to climb the "Delectable Mountains."

Apples Plentiful
In The County

Choice Varieties Are Selling As Low As Fifty Cents Per Five-Eighths Basket.

In any section one goes in this county there can be seen quite a plentiful variety of fall apples on the trees. On a motoring trip a few days ago through the western section of the county a News reporter passed several farms where the owners were picking beautiful Grimes Golden and Winesap apples. Stopping at a farm just below Mardela, where the farmer was picking the crop, the reporter was surprised to be told that the price would be 75 cents per five-eighths basket. The fruit was as pretty as can be found on any fruit stand in Salisbury, where the retail price is five cents per apple. The reporter invested in a basket.

On Sunday night, about 10 o'clock, a fire broke out in the barn on the Bozarth farm, near Cambridge and completely destroyed it, together with the contents, including a large Nash truck. The origin of the fire is unknown. It was first discovered by Mr. Keenan, who sent in the alarm. Rescue Fire company responded promptly and succeeded in saving all the adjoining buildings, but on account of the distance out of town and the headway of the fire, the entire building and contents were destroyed.

While working on the boat of Captain Howard Wilson at the yard of the Cambridge Manufacturing Company Tuesday morning, Captain Matthews Travers met with the misfortune of getting his left hand caught in a cog wheel with the result that three fingers were cut off. At the same time Lloyd Roland, colored, who was working with Captain Travers, was struck by a piece of timber and knocked unconscious. He was taken to the hospital where it was found that while he was badly bruised no bones were broken and no serious injuries were inflicted.

At a meeting of the directors of the Dorchester Farmers' Association at the office of County Agent Warren Moore much dissatisfaction was expressed at the high price of fertilizer. Remedies suggested were co-operative buying on a scale sufficient to affect the market and curtailed consumption with increased use of legumes.

Invitations have been received in Cambridge to the wedding of Captain Stella Escott, of the Salvation Army, to Captain Lever Pinder, which will be solemnized at Lynchburg, Va., Monday evening, November 1st, Major Bale, of the Salvation Army, officiating. Captain Escott was very popular in this city where she was in charge of the Salvation Army work for more than two years.

MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION

Eastern Manufacturers' Association Will Not Disband, As Contemplated.

At the summer meeting of the Eastern Manufacturers' Association, held at Ocean City, the matter was taken up and discussed as to whether or not it was advisable at this time to disband the association or to continue it in the interest of manufacturers of packages in the eastern section of the county. After fully discussing the matter, the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas: It is the unanimous opinion of all the members present at the above meeting that the association has been of great benefit to them and that a clearer understanding of conditions surrounding the manufacturing of packages is gained by being members of this association, therefore:

"He it resolved: That we in convention assembled hereby declare un-animously, that we believe the association should be continued and that an effort be made to put new life into the same, and in view of that fact it was decided that the association hold its next meeting at Hotel Dupont, in Wilmington, Delaware, on the last Thursday of October at which time the association would give a banquet to all the members present."

Secretary A. F. Benjamin last week sent out a circular letter notifying members of the meeting in Wilmington today.

Crop Of Sweets Will Be Large

Yield Much Larger Than At First Expected. Quality Is Very Good. Very Few Culls.

Because of the good weather which has prevailed for the past few weeks the farmers in the county are busy picking up the large sweet potato crop.

It was feared that because of the incessant rains while the crop was under cultivation they might be materially damaged but it was discovered that when they began to dig them the yield would be much larger than at first anticipated and the percentage of "culls" was surprisingly small.

The farmers are selling a part of their crop to the canners, some are being shipped to the various markets, but on account of the low prices the bulk is being placed in storage potato houses and the indications are that these, of which there are several in the county will be filled to their capacity.

In these storage houses the farmers can keep their potatoes splendidly all winter and ship them out from time to time as the market price becomes attractive. These potatoes are shipped to all the prominent cities such as Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburg and the West, as well as the New England states.

AGENTS MUST MAKE PROMPT COLLECTIONS

Extended Credits by Insurance Agents To Be Considered a Form Of Rebating.

A new order has been put into effect by the State Insurance Commissioner that the department will strictly enforce the law requiring settlements to be made for all insurance policies not later than 60 days after the policy becomes effective.

In an statement issued the department advises that numerous instances have come to its attention where the premium has not been actually collected at the time the policy became effective but by agreement, either written, verbal or otherwise, has been extended without interest charge. The attention of the agents has been called to Section 162, 163 and 185 of Article 23 of the Code of Public General Laws of Maryland, which provides for heavy penalties both to the giver and receiver of rebates.

The statement further recites that the department, under an opinion by the Attorney General of Maryland, has decided upon the following ruling:

It is ruled that in all cases the legal rate of interest must be charged on all deferred premium payments, or notes accepted in payment of premiums, from the date when the policy is made effective, with an allowance for such brief period of time as may be customarily and generally granted for the collection of insurance premiums, not to exceed 60 days; either the transaction will be considered rebating and render both the assured and the company, broker, agent or solicitor entering in the agreement amenable to the Anti-Rebate Law.

This ruling affects all classes of insurance, fire, life, accident, health, storm, marine, in fact of all kinds of written insurance.

Maryland Woodlands Yield Rich Returns

Report From Board of Forestry Shows Three Hundred Million Feet Are Cut Yearly.

The State Board of Forestry reports that there are 1,168 establishments employing 16,790 men engaged in producing wood and timber products, ranking second in the state in value of products and number of dependent wage earners. This includes production of lumber, ties, poles, posts, piling, mine props, and similar forest products and other concerns which carry further the manufacture of wood products such as wooden boxes, interior finish, ship building, furniture, musical instruments, carriages, cigar boxes, baskets, cooperage, and miscellaneous manufacture.

These industries convert into finished products nearly 300,000,000 feet of wood annually.

The wood used embraces 54 different species derived from many sources. Less than 20 per cent of the wood used was grown in the state, the remaining 80 per cent being supplied from other states and foreign countries.

There are 282 plants in the state employing nearly 11,000 men engaged in manufacturing articles from wood. Considerably more than half are located in Baltimore, while the remainder are scattered over the state, being centered somewhat around Salisbury on the Eastern Shore and Hagerstown in Western Maryland.

Investigations of the Board of Forestry have shown that in many cases woods which grow in Maryland are apparently overlooked and the same species imported from other states at great expense. It is also shown that there is a splendid market for all wood products and that the woodland owners and saw mill and timber operators of the state are not taking the fullest advantage of the home market.

COMMUNITY LEAGUE ENTERTAINS OFFICIALS

The residents of East Salisbury are highly elated over the fact that they have secured a new addition to their school building and in order to show their appreciation the Community League held a special meeting Tuesday evening in the school building, which was very largely attended. The members of the Board of Education and County Superintendent Bennett were present to enjoy the hospitality of the league. Several addresses were made and a general good time was had, followed by the serving of refreshments.

Tomato Canning Was Unprofitable

Selling Price of Last Season's Pack Was Below Cost of Operation This Year. Crops Rotted in Fields.

The tomato canning season which has just closed in this county has not been a profitable one either for the canners or for the growers. Because of low prices many farmers did not attempt to pick their crop at all, letting it rot in the field rather than go to the expense of buying baskets, of picking, hauling and other costs incident to harvesting the crop, when the average price being paid was only 15 cents per basket.

A conservative estimate of the loss to the growers and canners of tomatoes in the county would run up well into thousands of dollars because of these conditions.

The canners were up against the proposition of having on hand a large amount of last year's pack which they were unable to dispose of because prices at the beginning of the season were lower than the actual cost of canning, and dropped even lower after the season had gotten under way.

Many of the canneries in the county did not operate at all while others ran only for a short time. One of the leading canners estimates that the 1920 pack was about 75 per cent of that of 1919, while the 1919 pack was about 30 per cent of the previous year. Therefore the result was not encouraging either to the canner or grower.

Canners who sold "futures" claim they are having difficulties in getting their customers to live up to the terms of their contracts, the latter pleading all sorts of excuses to annul their obligations because of the existing low prices.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION CONVENED IN SNOW HILL

Several Elders Attended The Meeting And Discussed Church Problems. Meets Every Eight Years.

The Salisbury Association of the Old School Baptist Church met in the Meeting House of Snow Hill last week the sessions beginning Wednesday, and continuing Thursday and Friday. The association meets every eight years, and is always a memorable event, bringing together the Elders of the church from several states, and members and friends from near and far.

Elder B. F. Coulter is the elder of the Meeting House of Snow Hill, and visiting elders were the following: Elder J. C. Melotte, of Salisbury; Elder C. W. Vaughan, of Hopewell, N. J.; Elder Joshua T. Rowe, of Baltimore, and Elder H. C. Kerr, of Middletown, N. Y.

The meetings were largely attended, an overflow audience being present at almost every session. There was preaching morning and afternoon and at midday, following an ancient and honored custom, dinner was spread on long tables, and everybody was invited to remain and enjoy a splendid repast. Our friends, the Old School Baptists, dispense hospitality with a free and generous hand, and if there was anything lacking at their dinners, we have yet to hear of it.

After Facts

Messrs. Tilghman Lime & Supply Co., Fruitland, Md. Gentlemen:—

Regarding the soil testing campaign for acidity, or in other words whether lime was needed or not, I find the following results: Of the 81 samples that this office has tested to date, 77 farms needed lime.

To date, the Maryland Agricultural College has tested 1,100 samples of soil, and found that 74% needed lime, and practically all of the samples showing no acidity came from fields that have been limed during the past two or three years.

I believe that the proper use of lime will correct many of our ills. Very truly yours, (Signed) G. R. COBB, County Agent Wicomico County.

The quantities of lime which are ordinarily applied to land—per acre—in the various forms, are as follows:
Hydrated Shell Lime 1,000 lbs.
Hydrated Stone Lime 1,500 lbs.
Raw Shell Lime 2,000 lbs.

GOOD TEETH—GOOD HEALTH

COLGATE'S

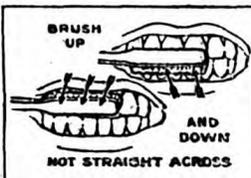

RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

How to Brush Your Teeth

Read this Carefully and Remember that "Good Teeth—Good Health" Depends on the Safe Care of the Teeth

SOME people brush their teeth as they sweep a floor—leaving little piles of rubbish in the corners.

Slap-dash tooth-brushing allows food particles to lodge between the teeth. Decay sets in, protective enamel is destroyed, a cavity appears and finally the nerve is exposed.

Care will prevent much serious trouble—the simple care of proper brushing twice-a-day with Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream and seeing the dentist regularly twice a year.

"Brush Your Teeth the Way They Grow"

Note that we say "proper" brushing. There is a vast difference between merely cleaning the teeth and cleaning them CLEAN.

The simplest rule is the best—"brush the teeth the way they grow"—from the gums.

Study the pictures on this page—especially posed for this announcement under the direction of a dentist of long experience.

With your Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream, sweep up and down—not across. Get between the teeth and sweep them clean. Then, with a brushing of the tongue, gums and inside of the cheeks, your mouth will be refreshed and wholesome.

What is a Proper Dentifrice? The normal condition of the clean mouth in perfect health is mildly alkaline. Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is mildly alkaline and is opposed to the acid condition which causes tooth decay.

Colgate's is safe, too, for every member of the family. And so deliciously flavored that its twice a day use is a treat, not a task—especially for the children.

Start the Day Right with Your Tooth-brush—and Colgate's

Nothing helps to brighten the morning smile more than clean teeth and a fresh, wholesome mouth.

Use Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream every morning—not only for the smile, but because your whole health depends so much on your teeth and digestion. Colgate's cleans thoroughly and polishes the teeth to natural whiteness—safe for you and for the whole family.

... and Go to Bed with a Clean Mouth

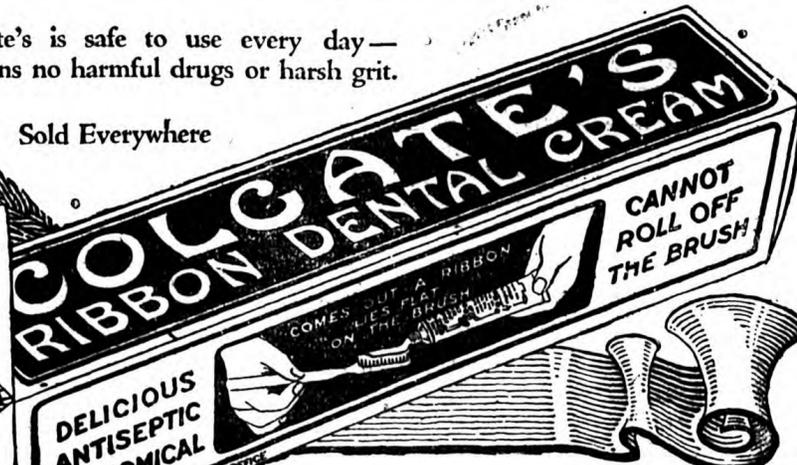

When you go to bed with teeth unbrushed, you give the germs of decay an eight-hour start on their work of destruction.

These enemies of the teeth are most active while you sleep because the mouth is at rest and they can work undisturbed between the teeth where particles of food may remain. Don't let decay get an eight-hour start. Protect your teeth by brushing with Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream every night.

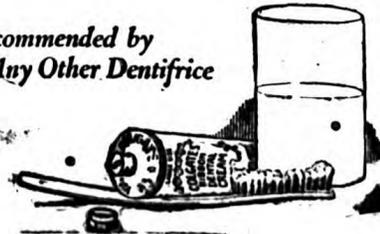

Colgate's is safe to use every day—contains no harmful drugs or harsh grit.

THE OLD KENTUCKY HOME

(By E. Travers Hart.)

"The sun, which bright in the old Kentucky home, ... The summer the birds are gay, ... The corn is ripe and the meadow is in the hay, ... While the little birds sing on the tree, ... The young folks roll on the little cabin floor, ... All merry, all happy and bright, ... By a hard time, some planning to the door, ... Then the old Kentucky home good-night!"

The strains of this old Southern melody, "picked" on a banjo, was such an unusual sound on the streets of New York, that the old man paused to listen. No one, surely, could have produced such an air of plaintive melody from the strings of a banjo but a Southern lady. The music carried him back to his early days. He saw again the golden harvest moon and the crowds of darkies dancing, singing and incidentally—harvesting the grain. As he stood there musing he became aware of an old colored man standing before him, holding out his hat. He raised his eyes with an air of impatience and met those of the other.

"Marse John!" "Toby! How come you here? Where are you living? Where is Dinah? Is she still living? Was that you I heard playing?" "Whoa, whoa, Marse John! One 't' time! Hucome me here? Why, bless yo' ole heart, I ben here thirty years, cum April, and Diny an' me lives over yon," it a vague wave of the hand, "an' it was me yuh heard playing, mos' likely. An' now won't yuh cum home with me? Diny'll be plumb tickled to deff fo' to see yuh."

"Yes, indeed, I will go, Toby. Ah, it will do my heart good to see Dinah. There is so much to tell, fo' I have never seer you since that day when you an' Dinah an' all the rest of you left the ole plantation. But, here, you lead the way and I will follow."

At last they reached the tenement house where Toby and her wife resided, and the old gentleman and Toby ascended the stairs to the rooms of the latter. Poor enough were the furnishings, it is true, but everything was scrupulously clean. The old darky flung the door of the little kitchen wide open, and Dinah came forward to greet them. She curtsied respectfully when she saw the stranger and offered him a chair.

"Don't you know me, Dinah?" said he, holding out his hand. "The good Lord be praised!" she exclaimed, the tears streaming down her cheeks. "It's Marse John! Do sit right down an' stay a while. Oh, I never thought fo' to see yuh no mo' s'ub. An' where is Marse Alice?" she queried, anxiously.

The old man's face saddened, and he said, "You will never see her again, Dinah. She has quit this life."

The old colored woman rushed into a flood of condolences when she heard this, but seeing that she was only bringing back painful memories to the old man, she ceased and begged him to tell her something of the years that had lapsed since last they met. And as the three sat around the old man she ceased, and begged him to tell her something of the years that had lapsed since last they met. And as the three sat around the old darkies' fireside, they talked of the days that had gone, and formed a plan for the future.

I will give a part of their conversation regarding the latter.

"And so you said, Toby," said the old man—John Richards, by name—"That the old plantation, Maple Lodge, is for sale again?" "Yassuh, an' dey do say dat it's a gwine to go purty cheap, on 'count ob it's being all growed up wid briars and bushes an' things."

"Well, if I were to buy the ole place back again, would you and Dinah object to going and keeping house fo' me?"

"Whoop!" cried Dinah, springing to her feet and, despite her eighty years, dancing a jig. "I'd wuk my fingers to de bone, if I could jus' git back to de ole place. Wouldn't yuh, Toby? Whoops!" and she sank exhausted into her chair.

"What do you say to the proposition, Toby?" asked Mr. Richards, who had greatly enjoyed Dinah's demonstrations of delight.

"Me, I see jus' what Diny sez," said Toby, who was as overjoyed at the prospect that opened before him as was his wife.

"Well, then, it's a settled thing, if no one has bought the old place yet." The old gentleman rose as he finished speaking and taking his hat, prepared to leave them. They raised a clamor of protests, but declaring he must go, he stepped into the hall, leaving the old couple with happy hearts than they had known for many a day.

The next day the old man took the earliest train for Kentucky, where he arranged for the purchase of the old homestead.

A week later he and Toby and his wife were bottled at Maple Lodge, when the work of rejuvenation began. It was a fine old place when Mr. Richards had left it 50 years before, but had since fallen into such a state of ruin and decay that he hardly knew it.

The house—a big, rambling old structure—was surrounded and nearly hidden by gigantic maples, and it was hemmed in on two sides by great dismal forests. It the night when the screech owls were hooting, it did indeed seem a lonely and isolated spot, but to the three old people it was home, and they were perfectly happy. Mr. Richards and Toby went to work with a will cleaning up the grounds, and they soon had the old place looking somewhat as it did in years past. Dinah orked in the garden and planted flowers and vegetables which gave a "homey" look to the house. And now if any traveler should happen through that part of Kentucky on a summer's evening, he will be sure to hear the strains of Toby's banjo; for the three old people are fond of sitting on the piazza of a summer's evening, and Mr. Richards always wants Toby to play the song that brought them together that day in New York. "Wep no more, my lady, I weep no more today! We will sing one song for the old Kentucky home. For the old Kentucky home, far away."

Signs Of Autumn Seen Everywhere

The Woods Around Salisbury Are Beautiful These Days With Their Changing Hue

Except for the goldenrod and the chill o' nights which has brought the blankets and comforts from cedar chests, it is hard to believe that October has nearly passed us by and that joyous hallowe'en is knocking at the door. Among the trees only the sugar maple and the gum tree have begun to change, the former into a brilliant red, the latter showing dull reds and yellows.

It is in the beautiful country around Salisbury that signs of the changing year are more noticeable. Though the Weather Man discerns Br'er Rabbits and Br'er Squirrel as weather prophets, the farmer still has faith in them and is preparing for an early and cold winter owing to Br'er Squirrel's breaking all union rules in his efforts to stow away a large crop of nuts for winter consumption. Corn shucks stand like sentinels in the field blue-hued against the gold and red of the sunset, and the pumpkin nestles cozily in its nest of leaves awaiting its transformation into the most pungent of pies.

Many are seized with wanderlust at this time of the year. But it is a feeling that is at best temporary—looking forward not to the long wanderings of the summer, but to short excursions with home on the goal.

THE VOGUE SHOP SERVICE MEANS PROPER CLEANING

The clothing problem means a lot of worry these days. People have less money to spend for clothes and they get less clothes for their money. Three years ago you could buy three suits for what you now pay for one. Yet, listen! how seldom is it that you actually wear out your old clothes? Do you call a garment worn out when it begins to look shabby because it's faded or soiled? If you could put the original color back into the fabric or take out the soil marks you would have several years more good use of the article. That's just what the VOGUE SHOP is doing. Helping you to fight the H. C. L. by making your old clothes look like new. Proper cleaning of wearing apparel at regular intervals is the most intelligent economy one can practice. Remember our work is cleaning, pressing, and dyeing and we can give you the very best service obtainable in these lines. PRESERVE YOUR TEETH FOR THEY PRESERVE YOU

Red Cross Has Instructive Lecture Prepared To Show Necessity of Proper Care of Teeth.

Dental hygiene vitally concerns every man, woman and child on this earth today. For more diseases and ill health come from neglect of proper care of the mouth than the average person realizes.

During a lecture recently delivered before the Royal College of Dental Surgeons in London, the late Dr. William Oiler said: "You have one gospel to preach in season and out of season, early and late, and that is the gospel of mouth cleanliness. There is nothing in the whole range of hygiene as important as there." On another occasion he remarked that unhygienic and diseased mouths and teeth caused more physical degeneration in the human race than alcohol.

Many articles are written on this subject and several leading magazines are spreading this propaganda in an effort to reduce as much as possible the deleterious effects of unclean mouths.

There are but two successfully known methods of spreading information, the press and public schools. The press as a whole is in full accord with the various dental organizations and the schools are rapidly being won over for the cause.

It is much to be regretted that a toothbrush drill has not been inaugurated in the Wicomico schools. It is as essential for a school to train a child in health as in mind. Without the former the latter is impossible.

Some interesting facts were revealed in a clinic conducted in this city during July and August. Of 40 children examined only two used a toothbrush; 98 did not even own one; 90 per cent were found to have defective teeth with no history of having ever visited a dentist except with toothache.

A conservative estimate of the number of adults in this county using a tooth brush was recently requested and a reply of 25 per cent was given. The estimate of children under 12 years of age was placed at 10 per cent. It is to be regretted that parents are so busy that the child's teeth must be sacrificed. Upon examination of children below 12 years of age many mouths are found to be very filthy. The child reports brushing the teeth twice daily but upon investigation it is discovered that the child has brushed its teeth only enough to give the parent an affirmative answer when questioned.

The importance of mouth disease can be realized when we stop to think that the person with untreated tooth cavities or disease of the gums is constantly manufacturing and swallowing pus, often in large quantities. This poisonous material is certain to lower the standard in some way and to cause disease of some kind.

New York City recently spent millions of dollars to purify its drinking water; we wonder what portion of it was contaminated by anachronous mouths before reaching the stomach.

Take good care of your teeth and remember that the mouth is a jewel case containing two rows of "pearls" more precious than diamonds; so keep this jewel case spotlessly clean, thus preserving your teeth, and your teeth will preserve you.

Pneumatic Tires For Farm Trucks

Demonstrate Their Practicality In Exhaustive Tests Under All Sorts Of Conditions and Loads.

The possibilities of modern pneumatically-equipped motor trucks on the farm were demonstrated recently to 25,000 Colorado farmers when a motored caravan of 20 trucks of various makes invaded eleven agricultural states on a two weeks' demonstration tour of 750 miles.

The trucks of the caravan averaged 750 miles—a distance equal to the entire tour—while doing demonstration work on the farms. Half a million ton miles of freight were hauled free for the farmer.

The Rocky Mountain Trades Association under whose auspices the tour was made, challenged farmers along the route to produce a hauling job the trucks couldn't handle. Farmers accepted the challenge—but couldn't "stump" the trucks, although the big freighters performed amazing hauling feats.

For example, a two-ton truck, carrying a 2,100 overload of coal, pulled up an eleven percent grade through bled sand, which no other vehicle had ever conquered. This performance won a bet of $100 made by a farmer that the truck would fail.

Picking their way across ploughed fields with positive traction, the powerful trucks carried big loads of grain from combines and threshers direct to elevators miles distant, performing in from one to three hours hauling jobs that would have taken horse teams a full day to accomplish. Live stock, lumber, coal, barley, rye, oats, wheat, potatoes, cement, shingles, plaster, kerosene and even church pews were transported between farms and railroad shipping points. In many cases loads handled by these trucks in a few hours over distances as great as 30 miles would have kept all the farmer's horse equipment busy for days.

Bad weather turned dirt roads into seas of slippery mud, but despite this handicap, the motored caravan maintained its schedule from county to county without losing a single truck. In addition it pulled out many touring cars that had mired or slid off the road.

Cordial receptions were given the caravan everywhere and intense interest was shown by farmers in both actual demonstrations and in talks and motion pictures showing the advantages of pneumatically-equipped motor trucks on the farm.

While a rule of the tour prevented the sale of trucks during a purely educational enterprise, more than 50 trucks were sold in the wake of the motored caravan.

WOMAN TO VOTE AT AGE OF 92 YEARS

Talbot Has Oldest Woman Voter On Eastern Shore. Will Vote Democratic.

Wicomico has many ladies of advanced age who will participate in the coming election, but so far as we have been able to learn, the oldest woman voter on the Eastern Shore is a resident of Talbot county.

Soon to be 92 years old, with but one good eye, and with the determination of voting the Democratic ticket, Mrs. Elizabeth N. Vandewater of the home of the Aged in Easton, presented herself for registration at the Court House on Tuesday. She is the oldest registered voter in Talbot County.

She was prompt and decisive in her replies to questions propounded to her. While she did not affiliate with any party, she knows just how she will vote.

She says she knows T. Alan Goldsborough very well and thinks he is a man that will be a credit to the state. She is going to do all in her power to help elect him.

Mrs. Vandewater was asked her views on the liquor question. She said: "I am in favor of prohibition and think it a good thing for the country when liquor was officially stamped out of the country."

Judge Covington Barred From Voting

It is Said He Has Legal Residence There—Court Opinion Probably Will Be Asked.

Ex-Congressman J. Harry Covington and Mrs. Covington, of Easton, who were recently registered in Talbot county, have been sworn off the books and it is likely they will be debarred the privilege of voting in November. It is claimed by those in charge of the books that the Judge is no longer a resident of Talbot county, although he has a home in Easton.

In his argument to retain his suffrage the Judge stated that he was educating his children in Washington, D. C., and that his presence was required there for this reason. He further stated that every holiday and all during the summer vacation he and his entire family spent the time in Easton.

T. Hughlett Henry, counsel for the Supervisors of Election, was called in and he gave an opinion favorable to Judge Covington. In spite of this the registration judges ruled that Judge Covington had no legal residence in Easton at this time and struck off his name. The matter in all probability will be taken to court as soon as possible.

Mrs. Covington was the first woman to register in Easton, but if the judges of election have their way she will not be able to vote.

Improve Your Digestion.

If you have weak digestion eat sparingly of meats, let at least five hours elapse between meals, eat nothing between meals. Drink an abundance of water. Take one of Chamberlain's Tablets immediately after supper. Do this and you will improve your digestion. —Advt.

Get Her Good Health Out of a Bottle.

Mrs. Edward Ralston, Wabash, Mo., says that she owes her good health to Chamberlain's Tablets. She had been suffering from indigestion and was completely unable to eat and was completely unable to use of these tablets.

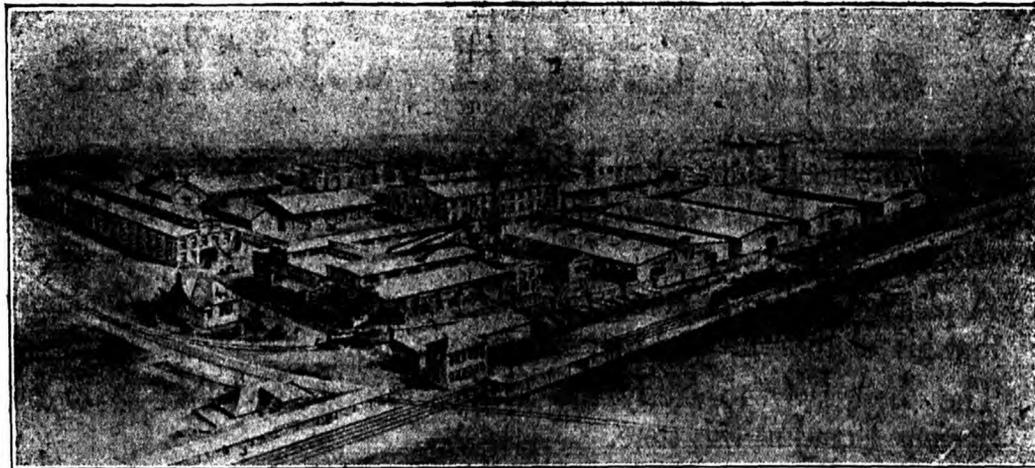

ONLY THE BEST IS GOOD ENOUGH

For that building that you intend to erect. Prevailing prices, the greater or less scarcity of certain materials, and the real scarcity of skilled labor in some lines, make building an undertaking that cannot be entered into in a haphazard manner.

Materials that are right in every detail and that measure up in every respect to the standards and specifications set, are as essential as definite plans. For this reason our service will give you absolute satisfaction.

Careful attention to YOUR plans is one of the characteristics of that service. By checking up your specifications to see whether or not some saving can be effected, our estimating department may be able to save you a good deal of money, or to give capable advice that will lead to its better use. Whether you save dollars or cents, this service is yours for the asking.

Misinformation leads to costly errors. Let us help you plan your building, estimate on the cost, and furnish you with materials that will exactly meet your requirements.

An actual photographic reproduction of one of the largest plants of its kind in the State that is able to place at your disposal not only everything needed for building, but expert advice based on many years of experience as well.
