To the FOOL.

Mr. FOOL,
THE celebrated Mr. Pope says, What Folly we have will buoy up one Time or another; that a little is necessary; and that it is foolish to conceal it. Having so good an Authority, I shall give you a Specimen of mine: Perhaps you may be so indulgent as to publish it to the Brotherhood, if you in your great Folly, should think it deserving; if not, I am pleased with venting it to the Head of the Family.

We live an Age wherein Religion and Virtue is laughed out of Countenance, and Vice struts in Triumph; nay, who dare be less wicked than the rest? An Instance of this is frequent in the wilful and corrupt Perjuries we hear of, the impious, prophane, shocking, and, I might add, blasphemous Oaths, that we cannot pass the Streets without hearing. I wish I could add to this, that this Vice prevailed only amongst the vulgar or meaner Sort of People: But, alas! it is too notoriously known, that the Great Vulgar elegantly tag each Sentence with an Oath, which adds, as they I suppose vainly think, a Kind of Flavour or Grace to their Discourse; and the Little (you know) are apt to imitate the Great, especially in Evil.

It is not in my Power (nor I believe in yours neither, Mr. Fool), to work a Reformation, or so much as stem this Torrent of Wickedness; we can only foolishly tell them of it, and be as wisely laughed at for our Pains.

I look upon this prophane Practice of common Swearing, as the Root or Ground of most of our Public Perjuries; for how can we expect that a Person, who from his Youth would frequently call upon his Maker as a Witness to his Falsities, should boggle, when before a Magistrate, to call upon God as Witness to an Untruth, especially if he thinks he is in no Danger of being detected.

An Oath I take to be a solemn Appeal to the Almighty, as a Witness to the Truth of what we then assert; praying him to prosper us in this World, or punish us in the next, according as we say true or false. This I take to be the Meaning of those Words, at the End of an Oath, So help me God. I look upon Oaths of this Kind not only lawful but necessary on some Occasions; but the too frequent Use of them at Public Offices, &c. I fear has no very good Effect. The Quaker, by the Indulgence of the Government, affirms, instead of an Oath. The Turk, as we are informed, secures his Faith to you by the Touch of his Beard; yet neither of these is scarcely ever known to falsify what is no more but their bare Word. Oh that we of the Established Church, that have some Reason to think ourselves better enlightened in the Truths of the Gospel, could, with Truth, say the same of ourselves!

If we consider the Perjury only as moral, and the Danger it is to Society, of all Crimes it may be most prejudicial. A Knot of perjured Villains combined together, may swear away the Lives, Estates, and Reputations of Numbers of honest Men, and may never be detected. Lamentable Case!

But there is one Species of Perjury but seldom taken Notice of, that is, of those who qualify themselves for Places of Profit or Honour; who take the Oaths that the Government has put for its Security, but with no other View but to break them the first Opportunity, and do all they can to unshing that Government they have sworn to support. I hope there are none such now; but there has been such, and what has been before may be again.

An honest Nonjuror, who, for Conscience Sake, refuses to take the Oaths; and perhaps thereby suffers in his Fortune, is a Cherubim to such as these: He receives the Protection of the Government, and so he certainly ought, as long as he continues a peaceable Subject.

But for such Wolves in Sheep's Cloathing as the abovementioned, (tho' I suppose there is none such, I am sure I know of none) what Punishment can be too great for one that will wilfully and premeditatedly perjure himself, that has no Force, Restraint, or Temptation to take those Oaths, contrary to his Principles, but what his Ambition prompts him to? Let such abandoned Wretches know, that if they should gain their Ends by the Means of Perjury; that the most valuable amongst their own Party will despise them, as knowing they are perjured Villains, and not fit to be trusted.

But I hope there is none such now. If there is either in City, Town, or Country, I shall apply to them what Shakespear says on another Occasion,

Oh Heaven! that such Companions thou'dst unfold,
 And put in every honest Hand a Whip,
 To lash the Rascal naked through the World,
 Even from the East to West.

But again, if they should meet with no Punishment in this World, I would remind them, that there is a dreadful Tribunal, before which they must appear: Where no juggling mental Reservations will stand them in any Stead; and unless they repent, will have that dreadful Sentence sounded in their Ears, Depart from me ye Wicked and false Swearers into everlasting Torments.

I am Yours,
 MEANWELL.

H A G U E, January 18.

IT is now certain, That the Courts of Vienna, Russia and London, have renewed their Alliance, and have added some secret Articles. The States General are earnestly solicited to become a Party in this Alliance; but when, or whether that will ever be effected, is uncertain. The Tediousness of taking Resolutions in public Affairs, with which the Court of Vienna used heretofore to be reproached, is now become customary in our Republic. Thanks to the civiled Cabal who traverses the good Dispositions of the Prince Stadtholder.

The Assembly of the States of Holland, from whom so many Resolutions were expected for the re-establishing of the Finances, and of Commerce, separated at the End of the Year without coming to any such Power has the Cabal. The Prince Stadtholder, however, hitherto triumphs in respect to the Reduction of the Troops, which the City of Amsterdam pushed with so much Vigour, and which has not yet passed; But their High Mightinesses have at length resolved, that the Inhabitants of the East-Indies shall pay the sixtieth Penny, as well as the Subjects of the Republic in Europe. This Resolution was suspended near a Year ago, by the Opposition of the States of Zealand, who have at length agreed to it.

It is whisper'd, that the Farmers will be re-establish'd in Holland; but that in the next Assembly a Tax will be proposed to be put upon all public Employments, and a new Poll-Tax. If this Proposition should be agreed to, it would greatly increase the Murmurs and Dissatisfaction of the People, as they are not accustomed to Levies of real Money; every Thing was supplied to the Support of the State by the Farmer, and whatever the People paid extraordinary on Account of the Farms

Farms, was scarcely felt, so long as Commerce flourished.

The Council of State, preceded by the Stadtholder, did a few Days ago present to their High Mightinesses the Petition and State of War for the next Year; which was accompany'd with a Discourse pronounced by the President, intimating the Necessities the State was under of raising Money to make good amongst other Things, the Engagements which it hath been oblig'd to enter into, in Concert with his Britannic Majesty, for the Security of the Republic, which was threaten'd by all its Neighbours, &c. This Discourse has been printed, and sent to the Provinces, in order to gain their Consent to the Purport thereof.

Florence, Jan. 8. Last Week the News of the Empress Dowager's Death arrived here, and Yesterday the Emperor's Orders, with Regard to that Event, were read in Council, by which the Members of the Regency, the Chamberlains, and all who belong to his Court here, are ordered to go into Mourning for nine Months. The first three are directed to wear black Cloth with the Pile raised like Ratteen, and all other Signs of the deepest Mourning for their Persons only. None but the Emperor's Livery Servants are to be put into Mourning. The Diversions of the Carnival are permitted to go on, exclusive of Masking. On the 24th past the Emperor's Letters Patent were read with the usual Military Formality, in Favour of Count de le Tour, who is promoted to the Rank of Colonel of the Lorraine Regiment of Foot Guards in Garrison in this City, in the Room of Count Givrecourt, deceased. M. de Ruis, Major, succeeds Count de le Tour in the Post of Lieutenant Colonel, and M. Breton, succeeds as Major of the said Regiment. On the 31st the Emperor's Pleasure was publish'd in Council, granting to the Senator Gaetani and M. Libri, the Reduction of half the Term prescribed in the Sentence for their Confinement at Valterra, by which they are at Liberty to dwell in any other Places of Tuscany, forbidding them only to approach within six Miles of the City of Florence. On the 3d Instant Colonel Mill set out from hence on his Journey to Vienna.

Hague, Jan. 27. The States of Holland and West-Frizeland continue their Assembly. Count Viry arrived here on Monday last from Turin, and this Day he presented to the President of the Assembly of the States General his Credential Letters, as Envoy Extraordinary from his Sardinian Majesty to their High Mightinesses. The Prince Stadtholder has appointed M. Augustus Marfelt to be Colonel of a Regiment of Artillery. His Serene Highness has conferred on Baron Amerongen, the Office of Grand Bailiff of Amersfort, vacant by the Resignation of M. Van Voorst.

L O N D O N.

Jan. 17. They write from Petersburg, that it is daily expected the Minister from the States General of the United Provinces will receive Orders to accede to the new Alliance, formed upon the national and salutary Plan of constituting a proper Balance of Power in Europe. The Court has received Advice, that the Turkish Garrisons on the Frontiers have been changed, with less Danger and Disturbance than was expected; and that there was no Appearance at all of any Irruption by the Crim Tartars.

Our Advices from Rome say, that the Pope has thought fit civilly to decline, as unnecessary, the Mediation of his most Christian Majesty, in the Affair of the Patriarchate of Aquileia, and has also rejected the Expedient proposed by the Republic, of transferring that See to Udina, and putting the Subjects of her Imperial Majesty under the Jurisdiction of a new Prelate of their own, his Holiness being rather inclined to extinguish the Dignity of Patriarchs, a Measure to which, on the other Hand, the Republic is absolutely averse.

Some private Letters from Vienna inform us, that the Empress Dowager did not die near so rich as was expected, which is attributed to her numerous Acts of Charity, during the late War, so that her Treasures were gone before her to a better Place.

The Corpse of the Marshal Count de Saxe, after lying in State forty Days at Chambord, was removed on the Eighth, under a Discharge of all the Artillery, being accompanied to a certain Distance by his Regiment of Foot, under the Command of Lieutenant Colonel Baron Le Fort. The Funeral March will take up thirty two Days, escorted by a hundred Dragoons; and the same Honours are to be paid to the Hearse in all the Places through which it passes, as the late Marshal would have received, if he had been alive; and upon the Arrival of the Body at Strasburg, it is to be deposited in the House of Marshal Coigny, till the necessary Preparations can be made for it's being solemnly interred.

Our Letters from the Hague say, that besides the ordinary Appointment of seventy thousand Florins, and the extraordinary of forty thousand, granted to Prince Lewis of Brunswic, a Government is to be settled for him at Utrecht, upon the same Foot with that of Nimuguen, upon his taking Possession of which, he will quit that of Aeth, of which he stands possessed at present.

March 22. Between Ten and Eleven o'Clock on Wednesday Night, died at Leicester House, the most High, Potent, and most Illustrious Prince Frederick-Lewis, (eldest Son of our most Gracious Sovereign George the Second, whom God long preserve) Prince of Great Britain, Electoral Prince of Brunswic-Lunenburg, Prince of Wales, Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay, Duke of Gloucester and Edinburg, Marquis of the Isle of Ely, Earl of Chester, Carrick and Eltham, Viscount of Launceston, Baron of Renfrew and Snawdon, Lord of the Isles, Steward of Scotland, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, one of his Majesty's Privy-Council, Chancellor of the University of Dublin, Fellow of the Royal Society, First Commissioner for Building the Royal Hospital at Greenwich, and Governor of the British White Herring Fishery, &c.

This Excellent and Well-beloved Prince was born on the 20th of January, 1706; and on the 27th of April 1736, married the Princess Augusta of Saxe-Gotha; who, by her close and constant Attendance on her Royal Consort in this his last fatal Illness, kept up the Great Pattern, she has all along been, of Conjugal and Maternal Affection. Her Royal Highness, notwithstanding she is some Months advanced in her Pregnancy, sat up with her late Consort every Night, and had not her Cloaths off for seven Nights. By this Lady his Royal Highness has left Issue five Sons and three Daughters, viz.

Princess Augusta, born July 31, 1737.
Prince George, born May 24, 1738; who succeeds his Royal Father as Heir Apparent to the Crown of these Realms, &c.
Prince Edward Augustus, born March 14, 1738.
Princess Elizabeth Caroline, born Dec. 30, 1740.
Prince William-Henry, born Nov. 14, 1743.
Prince Henry-Frederick, born October 27, 1745.
Princess Louisa-Anne, born March 8, 1748.
Prince Frederick William, born May 13, 1750.

At Nine his Royal Highness thought himself much better, and told Dr. Wilmot he might go home, but a little after Ten he complained of a violent Pain in his Stomach, and died in less than a Quarter of an Hour. His Body was open'd Yesterday, and there was found a large Abscess form'd upon the Lungs, which burst, and is supposed to be the immediate Cause of his Death.

To form a just Estimate of the Nation's Loss by the Death of his Royal Highness, we should be able to do Justice to his Character; but that is more than we dare venture to undertake, and therefore leave it to some masterly Hand to tell the World. That the Joy of Britain is withered, her Hope is gone; The Merchants Friend, the Protector of Arts and Sciences, the Patron of Merit, the generous Reliever of the Distressed, the accomplished Prince, and the fine Gentleman in private Life, is now no more.

The Right Hon. the Lord North and Guilford went to St. James's on Wednesday Evening, to notify the Death of his Royal Highness to his Majesty.

Upon this melancholy Occasion, Orders were sent to contradict the State Coach being got ready for his Majesty to go to the House of Peers, and sign the Bills mentioned in our Paper of Yesterday, which Bills will be signed this Day by Commission. Both Houses of Parliament met Yesterday (agreeable to the Adjournment of Wednesday Evening) but adjourned without doing any Business, to this Day; and after the Bills have been sign'd, it is thought they will severally adjourn for three Weeks.

The Music and Drums were not made use of at the Mourning of the Guard Yesterday at St. James's.

His Majesty is deeply affected with the Loss of his Royal Highness, and we hear that when the Princess sent some Days ago an Account of her dangerous Apprehensions for his Royal Highness, his Majesty was pleased to return a most affectionate and tender Answer,

His Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland arriv'd Yesterday Morning at Nine o'Clock at St. James's, from Windsor Lodge, and was also much affected.

The Lord Chamberlain sent Orders to the Playhouses to forbear acting till farther Orders, but before the Receipt thereof, the Master of each Theatre had sent out their Servants to pull down all the Bills that were stuck up in several Parts of the Town.

The Court of the South Sea Company met Yesterday, and on account of this public Calamity adjourned for a Fortnight. The Remembrancer of the 30th Instant has attempted his Royal Highness's Character as follows, to which he adds several political Reflections. As the condescending Sweetness of his Manners enchanted all who had the Honour to approach him; so that Sweetness arose from a Source of Benevolence and Philanthropy which seemed inexhaustible. How many Individuals has his Charity relieved! How many his Munificence rewarded! How many Families whose Well-being depended on his Bounty, are already in Sack-cloth and Ashes for his irreparable Loss! How high a Place had he assigned the Arts and Sciences in his Esteem! What royal Notions had he entertained of royal Munificence! How studiously had he considered the Difficulties and Distresses of this declining Country! How anxiously had he sought a Remedy! And how determined was he, to apply it when found, if ever the Power of applying it fell into his Hands! His very Foibles, when traced to their Origin, fall very little short of Praise; for they proceeded from an over-ardent Desire to please and to excel, from too long and eager a Passion for Glory, and too impatient an Ambition to be distinguished as much by his Importance as by his Rank; which was no otherwise in his Power than as he had the Dexterity and Ingenuity, to create his own Opportunities.

KINGSTON, in Jamaica, February 13.

We hear by Accounts from Porto-Bello, That a Spanish Register Ship, mounting 24 Guns, just arrived there, sent an Officer on board his Majesty's Sloop Ferret, commanded by Capt. Scroope, then at Anchor in that Harbour, who demanded a Search for contraband Goods, which was positively refused; the Officer then went on board his Ship, and immediately began to warp close to the Ferret, when Capt. Scroope asked them, and told them, that if they persisted in Warping he must be obliged to fire into him, upon which they immediately desisted. The Behaviour of the Spanish Commander was very rude to Capt. Scroope on Shore.

Last Monday Night between eight and nine o'Clock, a Fire broke out in the back House of Doctors Webb and Dodson, on the South side of Port Royal Street, it burnt very fiercely for near an Hour; all that Neighbourhood, and indeed all the lower part of the Town was in very great danger of being consumed. However, it pleased God there was no Wind, and by the joint Endeavours of some of the Inhabitants, Captains of Vessels and their Seamen, but chiefly the Diligence of the latter, it was extinguished with no more Damage than the burning of a few back Houses; most of the Magistrates were present and greatly contributed to the Success in extinguishing the Fire.

BOSTON.

April 29. Saturday Night last, about Eleven o'Clock, the Light House at the Entrance of our Harbour, by some Accident took Fire at the Top, and in a short Time all the Wood-Work both within and without was consumed, with eight Barrels of Oil provided for the Lamps: And Yesterday proper persons were sent down to set up a Light in the best Manner they can, till the House can be rebuilt.

May 13. We hear from Chignecto in Nova-Scotia, that some Time last Month, in the Night, a large Body of Indians (or French and Indians) attack'd the Fort for a considerable Time, and then drew off. Soon after they fired some Hundreds of Shot at a Sloop, Miller, Master, and wounded one Man, who is in a fair Way of Recovery.

May 20. The two Men who were lately committed to York Goal on suspicion of the Murder of the Master and Crew of a Schooner as formerly mentioned, were bro't to Town Yesterday by Water, and after further Examination were imprison'd here, in order for their Trial.

New York, May 6.

Last Week as some Workmen were digging down the Bank of the North River, just back of the English Church, in order to build a Still House, a Stone Wall was discovered between four and five Feet thick, near eight Feet under Ground, and is suppos'd to have been the Breck Work of a Battery, tho' we can't learn that the oldest Men living amongst us, know any Thing of such a Battery being there, which affords some Matter of Speculation to the Curious here.

PHILADELPHIA, May 9.

We hear from Maryland, That about two Weeks since, a Gang of Thieves broke into the House of Mr. Bennet at Chester-Town: But being timely discovered, and his Wife alarming the Neighbours by crying Fire from the Window, while he was getting his Gun, they made off without their intended Booty: after discharging a Pistol through the Glass, some Pieces of which cut Mr. Bennet's Face. 'Tis said there were 6 or 7 in the Gang, all on Horseback; and farther, that they robb'd Mr. Connor's Store the same Night, of near £. 200 worth of Goods.

We hear from the back Parts of Virginia, that they have a Gang of Rogues, who ride arm'd about the Country, and rob by Daylight with open Force, greatly molesting and terrifying the Inhabitants.

ANNAPOLIS.

Last Friday, at the Election in Calvert County, of a Member to serve for that County, in the room of Mr. Bond, deceased, Mr. Thomas Reynolds was chosen by a great Majority.

We mention'd last Week, that Mr. Matthews and Mr. Tolley, were chosen in Baltimore County (in the Room of Capt. Lux and Major Sheridine) but on the Examination of the Honourable House of Assembly, into the Election, it was found that Mr. Tolley was disqualified to sit as a Member, as it is not two Years (which the Law requires) since he served as an Inspector, and Capt. Thomas Franklin being the next on the Poll, the Sheriff was order'd to erase out the Name of Mr. Tolley, in the Indenture, and insert Capt. Franklin's, who now has a Seat in the House.

Last Week, near the Head of South River, Thirty Eight Hogheads of Traff Tobacco, were seiz'd and burnt, pursuant to the late Law for destroying Traff.

Capt. Nathanael Chew, in the Ship Anna, is arriv'd in Patuxent from London; and Capt. Temple Chevalier in Wye-River.

Custom-House, ANNAPOLIS, Entered since May 15.
Sloop Molly, William Smith, from Antigua;
Schooner Katy, John Brown, from Virginia;
Ship Thames Frigate, James Dobbins, from London;
Brigantine Endeavour, John Jones, from Barbadoes;
Schooner Speedwell, Joseph Larey, from Boston;

R O M E, February 16.

THE Pope has issued Orders to raise two more Companies of Horse, and one of Foot, to be employed along the Coast of the See of Rome in the Mediterranean, on the same footing as those upon the Coast of the Adriatic, to prevent any Descent which the Pyrates of Barbary may attempt. On the 3d Instant public Prayers were made for three Days successively, on Account of the continual Rains, by which the Tyber has overflowed for a second Time, the lower Parts of this City, and occasioned very considerable Damages, not only in the lower Parts, but also in all the Country adjacent.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, March 13

We have from Nantz the following Account of a Hurricane that happened there on the 7th and 10th of this Instant. It began they say, about 3 o'Clock in the Morning, with a violent S. W. Wind, which soon after turned to the S. E. and redoubled with such Force as to blow down all their Chimneys, Rafters, and several Houses, accompanied with Thunder and Lightning, and such violent Rain, as to raise the Water to the first Story in many of the Streets; the Trees in the public Walks, tho' of an enormous Size, are all torn up by the Roots, and the Woods and Villages round about, are laid level with the Ground. The Barks in the River are every one destroyed, some beat to Pieces on the Banks, and others surprisingly sunk perpendicular as they lay at Anchor, supposed to be by some heavy Column of Air pressing upon them. Out of 76 Ships that lay in the Road, only three are saved; the rest are cast away with their Crews and Cargoes; about 800 Sailors drowned; and the Loss to the Chamber of the Insurance is computed at 1,200,000 Livres. They likewise mention a greater Calamity; that all their Wind Mills are blown down, and all their Water-Mills carried away. I have had Intelligence of the like Destructions of their Mills at Bourdeaux and along the Banks of the Loire: I leave it therefore to you to judge how far this Calamity may turn out to the Advantage of the English Farmer. I imagine some few Cargoes of Corn, or ruder Flour, would be an acceptable Commodity in these Parts.

From the Paris A-la-main, March 19.

The Storm which we had last Sunday Night, began again with the same Fury on Monday Night. An Image seven Feet high, which was over the Portal of the Church of the Hotel des Invalides, was thrown down, and a Sheet of Lead 12 Feet long, was tore off the Roof, and carried to the distance of 30 Paces. The Seine too has swelled so much in three Days, that at present it overflows its Banks; and Paris is at the Eve of an Inundation like that in 1740. Several more Boats have been lost.

From the Westminster Journal, March 30.

On the Death of the PRINCE of WALES;

Quis desiderio sit pudor, aut modus

Tam chari capitis? Præcipe lugubres

Cantus, Melpomene.

HOR. Carm. Lib. I. Ode xxiv.

NOT to be affected with so melancholy an Event, as that which lately has blasted the Hopes of Great Britain, would seem a culpable Insensibility in a British Subject. Not to acknowledge his Affliction on such an Occasion, and postpone to the Publication of it almost every other Topic, would be unworthy a Man who professes to write in Defence of Liberty, and with a View to the future Felicity of his native Country.

Tho' the Life of a Prince depends on as slender a Thread as that of any other Mortal, yet the Prospects, Hopes, and Expectations, attached to the Continuation of it, are so numerous and great, that it is impossible for any Person not to feel himself somewhat touched in a peculiar Manner, when that Thread is suddenly snapp'd asunder. But where the natural Disposition of a Prince, the Turn it had taken from his Education, and the inflexible Bent it had contracted by long Habitude, were such, that there was the utmost Reason to believe him formed and improved, most especially to promote the Felicity of that People he was in the Course of Nature, one Time to govern; the Stroke, that deprives a whole Nation of such a Security for its future well being, must be extremely afflictive.

Those, who had the Honour intimately to approach the late Prince of Wales, have always spoken in such high Terms of his Condescension, Affability and Benevolence, that, perhaps, they would find it difficult, on this Occasion, to vent in Words the Sense of their own Loss. Those of the first Rank, who had this Honour, have a most obliging Friend, as well as a most gracious Master, to lament. Those of the lower Classes, whose Station did not permit them to consider his Royal Highness in any other Capacity, than that of a Master, will all of them confess, that a more tender, indulgent, and beneficent Master, never had Being. Such is the general Character of the Prince we deplore, that one who never had the Happiness of any other Connection with him, than that which he enjoyed in common with every British Subject, the ideal Connection of the future Prosperity and Glory of his Country with the Continuance of his Royal Highness's Life, may be allowed to repeat the common Sentiments of his Fellow Subjects, and to assist them in bringing together some of the particular Circumstances, which aggravate the present Calamity.

That his Royal Highness had very extensive Views of the Interest of Great-Britain, depending on Liberty and Industry at home, and on Commerce abroad, is undeniable. Almost every public Step he has taken for more than twenty Years, which he has been among us, puts this Matter beyond all Dispute. And a Temper, which could with equal Decorum and Dignity pass through all the Vicissitudes, to which the Rage and Artifice of Factions may have occasionally exposed him, could not be suspected of any Design to encroach on those Liberties, of which he always appeared, in Fact, as well as in Words, to be a constant and zealous Assertor.

That he was heartily convinced the Felicity of a Prince depends on the Love and Affection of his People, is evident from the Means he took, over and above those which constantly operated in his Presence, and were inseparable from his constitutional Character, to procure and cultivate that Love and Affection. His several Tours to different Parts of the Kingdom, the Information he took Pains to procure from Manufacturers and Artificers of different Kinds, the gracious Manner in which he received and answered every Address, the placid and satisfied Countenance with which he looked upon every individual, are such Proofs of an honest Heart, humane Inclinations, and an Ambition of the most laudable Kind, as can scarcely be suspected, by the most malignant Interpreter of other Mens Actions, of the least Equivocation.

The polite and ornamental Arts, which have long enjoyed his Patronage and Encouragement: as the first of Subjects, had the greatest Reason to rely on his Protection and Nurture, if Heaven had permitted him, at a Period, which no true Briton can wish to see approach, to become a Sovereign. That he had a Taste as well as an entire Love of those Arts, and was fully sensible of the Advantages they bestow on a polite and opulent People, almost every Professor of them of any Eminence is ready to testify.

But where it is impracticable to say enough, it is prudent to be reserv'd, even in what might easily be said. It is not a finish'd Picture of the Prince of Wales, that is here aimed at; but some very faint Outlines only; and these we have confined to his public Lineaments, as a Prince and a Master. Every virtuous Wife (there not being any such who has not heard of his conjugal Behaviour) will do Justice to his Character as a Husband. But one there is, who alas! was a Wife, that will bear a constant Testimony to this Virtue in the deceased Prince, till she meets him again in a State, where there is no Separation. Let not us, while she remains among us, forget how much of the same Kind of Praise is due to this amiable and irreproachable Mourner!

The tender Fidelity of this illustrious Pair, and through them of Great Britain itself, has been blessed with a most extraordinary Instance of the divine Goodness, their Issue has been numerous, and every Branch of it continues and promises farther Security to the Protestant Interest of Great Britain. Need we say, 'He was a tender and indulgent Father?' We need not. All the World has said it already. Need we observe, 'that the Children of this Pair in Proportion to their Years, appear to be worthy of such Parents?' Not this neither; since it would only be a Repetition of the universal Suffrages.

But this young and princely Offspring, it is to be feared, will peculiarly feel the Want of such a Father. The Precepts of a Parent are intill'd with an Efficacy, which seldom attends other Instruction; and the Institution of a Prince should consist of such noble and elevated Lessons, that the Youth who is born to Royalty, must be peculiarly happy, if he has a royal Tutor.

That the Life of his Majesty, the most gracious of Princes, may long continue, is the Wish of every Protestant Briton. May it prevent the Necessity of a Regency, and the Crown descend upon the Head of a Grandson of GEORGE II. in the full Maturity of Manhood! But as this is more than we dare promise ourselves from the Age his Majesty has already happily attained to, and especially from reflecting on the Event which we now deplore, the sincere Grief of Britons, for the Loss of FREDERICK Prince of Wales, is, in all Respects, both justifiable and laudable.

March 28. Yesterday the Bill for the Alteration of our Style passed the House of Lords.

H A L I F A X, May 13.

Last Night a large Party of Indians came upon the Town of Dartmouth, and shot the Centry dead on the Spot; then they killed the Sergeant of the Guard, and several other Soldiers, after which they proceeded to the Town, and murder'd several Men and Women in their Beds, whom they mangled in a most surprizing Manner. One Woman escaped their Fury, and came over here this Morning with one Breast cut off by them. Nine Persons are killed, and 13 taken Prisoners, besides a great many wounded. Our People attacked them in their Retreat, and kill'd two or three of them, but were not in Condition to pursue them farther into the Woods.

B O S T O N.

May 16. We have Advice from Annapolis Royal, that on the 22d of April last, Eight Indians came from out of the Woods a few Miles up the (so called) and took Mr. Samuel Hall, and his Wife who was 7 Months gone with Child, and carried them off. They also went to several French Houses in search of an English Woman whom they saw go into the Forest on their Approach to a House at some Distance from the rest, they were espy'd; and a young Man and the young Woman who were in the House were conveyed away by some French Women, so that the Indians in all their Search could not find them; upon which they threatned to burn the House in case they did not discover the said Woman, but they desist her being in the House, which irritated them so much that they immediately went to work and broke open all the Chests and Trunks in the House, and took out the Linnens that belonged to the English Gentlemen and Ladies of the Town and Garrison.

Garrison and carried all off; but the Englishman and Woman happily escaped them. A Party of Soldiers were immediately ordered out, but could not overtake them after 48 Hours march.

May 27. By Capt. Folger in five Weeks from London, we have a Print of the 15th of April, wherein is an Account of the Death of the King of Sweden, who the Day before he died, express'd his great Satisfaction as to the Prince Successor, and that the present King of Sweden, immediately after his Accession to the Crown, wrote a Letter with his own Hand to the Emperors of Russia, signifying his sincere Desire to live in the most perfect Friendship with her.

The two Fellows committed to our Goal about a Week ago, on Suspicion of murdering the Master and Crew of a Schooner near Maryland as mentioned in our last, who went by the Names of Newton and Jones, have since made a free and ample Confession of their Guilt, and will be sent to Maryland to be tried, the Fact being committed within a Mile of the Shore, and so infra Corpus Comitatus. They say their right Names are W. Sutton and G. Wilson.

NEW-YORK, May 20.

By Letters from Capt. Meryer, late of the Brig Sarah, of this Port, bound from South Carolina for Holland, of the 1st of March last, we have the following Account of the Loss of that Vessel, viz. She sailed from South Carolina the 15th Day of January last, and three Days after, sprung a Leak, which kept both Pumps constantly going;—the 6th of February they saw a Ship which was not able to assist them; and in the Night the Wind blowing hard, they lost sight of her; they then endeavoured to get into Bermudas, having six Feet of Water in her Hold, but were not able: On the 13th of February the Water gained on them to 10 Feet, when being spent at the pumps, they were obliged to take all Hands to the Boat, and the Vessel sunk in their Sight, in a few Minutes after:—In the Afternoon a Ship very providentially appeared in their sight, bound to Amsterdam, which took them all up, and carried them safe there, except a Boy, who was washed over-board six Days before they left the Brig.

June 3. Yesterday being the Day appointed by Authority entering into Mourning in this Province for the Death of His Royal Highness FREDERICK Prince of WALES, the same was observed here with a becoming Reverence and decency. Sermons suitable to the Occasion were preached at Trinity Church, and in the Presbyterian Meeting; and their respective Pulpits hung in Mourning.

ANNAPOLIS.

Last Wednesday, Jacob Windsor, who had been convicted at late Special Court in Queen-Anne's County, was there executed pursuant to his Sentence. He was Transported from England to America for 14 Years, and had been four Times whipp'd and Pillory'd, once for stealing a Bible.

By a Law passed here at the late Session of Assembly, the oath of one Convicted Person is made good and valid against others; but against no other Person whatever: This will doubtless bring to Light many works of Darkness, that otherwise might have been committed, and pass'd off with Impunity for want of Evidence.

A Special Court of Oyer and Terminer and General Goal delivery is now sitting here. Yesterday Thomas Poney was found guilty of the Felony, and sentenced to be burnt in the Hand. The next Day On Apborus Lucas was tried for Burglary, found guilty, and is sentenced to be hant'd. They are both Englishmen, and were Transported hither for Felonies by them there committed a few Years ago.

The Commissioners for this Province, for running the Line between this and Pennsylvania, set out this Morning from Annapolis, to meet those of that Government in one of our lower Counties.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE Proposal for erecting a Charity-School in St. PETER'S Parish, Talbot County, meets with vast Encouragement, not only in this Province, where many worthy Gentlemen and Ladies have generously contributed towards it; but in ENGLAND, where upwards of 100*l*. Sterling has been collected by the pious Care and Application of the Rev. Dr. WILSON, Sub-Almoner to his Majesty, and the Rev. Dr. STEPHEN HALES, who are considerable Benefactors to this excellent Design.

The Plan has already been published in this Paper, N^o. 282, and is re-printed, together with an Account of the Subscriptions and Benefactions to the 30th of October last, at the End of a Sermon preached on the occasion, by the Rev. THOMAS BACON, Rector of St. PETER'S Parish, and is to be sold for the Benefit of the intended School, of which public Notice will be given in this Paper, and where they may be had.

Thanks are hereby returned to the worthy Subscribers and Benefactors; and all others who are willing to encourage the bringing up of Poor Children in Honesty, Industry, and the Fear of God, and giving them such an Education as may enable them to be useful Members of the Community, are invited to follow the laudable Example of the first benevolent Contributors.

It may be proper to observe that the Sums already subscribed and given, are too considerable to admit the least doubt of a failure in the Execution of this good Design; and the Trustees are of such unexceptionable Fortunes and Characters, that the Benefactors may depend on the due Application of their Charities in the best and most prudent Manner.

The Trustees are Mr. WILLIAM GOLDSBOROUGH, Mr. JOHN GOLDSBOROUGH, Mr. MATTHEW TILGHMAN, the Rev. Mr. JOHN GORDON, Mr. ROBERT GOLDSBOROUGH, and Mr. ROBERT LLOYD; and their Treasurer is Mr. JAMES DICKINSON, of Dover on Choptank, Merchant.

An annual Account will be published of the Benefactions and Progress of this Charitable Scheme, in which every Subscriber or Contributor will see the Application of his pious Contributions.

The Scholars are to be employed in useful Labour, and inured to early Industry as well as taught to read, write, and account; and are to be supplied with Cloathing, Lodging, Diet, and all the necessaries of Life, during their continuance in the School, and afterwards are to be put out to Apprenticeships or Service, as may best conduce to their own Benefit and the good of the Province. May Almighty God whose kind Providence has hitherto supported and advanced this Scheme in a most extraordinary Manner, continue to protect and cherish it, that under his Guidance it may be brought to such perfection as may encourage others to attempt the like in different Counties, to the Glory of his Name, the Increase of Piety, Industry, and Honesty among us, and the general Welfare of the Province of MARYLAND.

Charles County, May 20, 1751.

From the Universal Spectator. No. 591.

Of AMBITION in its several Kinds and Degrees of Life.

AMBITION, or a Desire of Excellency and Rising above others, is natural to all who would be esteem'd above others, and therefore in Proportion to that Desire is the Ambition of him that has it.

When this longing after Pre eminence actuates Men employ'd in conducting Affairs of State or commanding Armies, it may properly be distinguish'd to be of the tragical Kind; but when the Objects of Ambition and Pride are only the common Views of private Life, they become farcical, and instead of raising Anxiety are diverting. If it should be the Ambition of a young Gentleman or young Lady to commence a finish'd Petit Maitre or modern Belle, Dress, Finery, Balls, with a long Et cetera, are their only Studies, while good Sense and Understanding are totally neglected and undervalued. Hence there is scarce a Beau but is a Blockhead, or a Belle who has common Sense.

Men, who live abstracted from what is call'd the Gaiety of Life, may smile at the ridiculous Ambition of these Characters; they deserve Contempt; yet is the Beau a stranger Creature to the judicious Part of Mankind, than a Man merely addicted to Speculation? Both are equally ignorant of the just Rules of Life; and the Ambition of him who would be a wise Man by Speculation, is equally ridiculous to him who would affect to know the World by making a foolish Figure in it.

The most extravagant Fancies and Actions, if traced to their Source, wou'd be found to take their Rise from some extravagant Ambition.

But of all Kinds of Pride, the greatest is that which affects to consist in Humility; and as the greatest Art is to conceal Art, so in some, the greatest Pride is the Contempt of Pride. I have often observ'd more Haughtiness and insolent Carriage in a plain Quaker like Coat and shining Beaver, than in an embroider'd Suit, and a Hat with a Cockade in it. Much Self-Sufficiency is seen in an artful Simplicity of Garb; and I have known an old Miser as proud of having a Pair of Tape Shoe strings, as my Lord Vainairs of his Diamond Shoe Buckles.

The Female Part of the World, have also their Topics of Ambition: Some fix all their Glory in their Faces, some in their Houfewifery, and some in their Devotion; each of which may equally be liable to Censure; for on Examination, the Beauty in all Likelihood may prove an errant Coquette, the notable Woman no better than a Cook-Maid, and the Devotee a Methodical Hypocrite. However, I must acknowledge that Ambition may be rational and laudable; that is, when it seeks and aims at the Peace and Happiness of human Society, and the Good of our Fellow Creatures.

Ambition is not confin'd to any Degree of Mankind; it is evident in every Class, nor do the lowest give less Proofs of it than the highest. How far the Pride of Man can demonstrate itself among the inferior Sort of People, is very humourously describ'd by Mr. Addison in a Paper, where he observes, that a Cobler near Ludgate had fix'd in his Stall the Wooden Image of a Beau with his Hat off, and with an obsequious Bow extending his Hand to give him Ends and Bristles necessary for his Craft: But this Ambition in our English Cobler did not come up to that Nobleness of Pride of a Flanderkin one. The story runs thus:

Charles V. in his Intervals of Relaxation, us'd to retire to ruffels: He was a Prince-curious to know the Sentiments of meanest Subjects concerning himself, and his Administration;

therefore often went out incog, and mix'd himself in such Companies and Conversation as he thought proper. One Night his Boot requiring immediate mending, he was directed to a Cobler: Unluckily it happen'd to be St. Crispin's Holiday; and instead of finding the Cobler inclin'd for Work, he was in the Height of his Jollity among his Acquaintance: The Emperor acquainted him what he wanted, and offer'd a handsome Gratuity.—What Friend, says the Fellow, do you know no better than to ask any of our Craft to work on St. Crispin? Was it Charles the Fifth himself, I'd not do a Stitch for him now, but if you'll come in, and drink St. Crispin, do and welcome; we are as merry as the Emperor can be.—The Sovereign accepted his Offer; but while he was contemplating on their rude Pleasure, instead of joining in it, the jovial Host thus accosts him.—What, I suppose you are some Courtier Politician or other by that contemplative Phiz.—Nay by your long Nose you may be a Buffard of the Emperor's:—But be who, or what you will, you're heartily welcome—Drink about; here's Charles the Fifth's Health.—Then you love Charles the Fifth, reply'd the Emperor.—Love him? says the Son of Crispin—Ay, ay, I love his long Noship well enough; but I shou'd love him much more, wou'd he but tax us a little less:—But, what the D— I have we to do with Politics—Round with the Glass, and merry be our Hearts.—After a short Stay, the Emperor took his Leave, and thank'd the Cobler for his hospitable Reception.—That, cry'd he, you're welcome to; but I wou'd not to Day have dishonour'd St. Crispin to have work'd for the Emperor.—Charles, pleas'd with the honest good Nature and Humour of the Fellow, sent for him next Morning to Court: You must imagine his Surprise, to see and hear that his late Guest was his Sovereign; he fear'd his Joke on his long Nose must be punish'd with Death.—The Emperor thank'd him for his Hospitality, and, as a Reward for it, bid him ask for what he most desir'd, and take the whole Night to settle his Surprize and Ambition.—Next Day he appear'd, and requested, That for the future the Coblers of Flanders might bear for their Arms a Boot with the Emperor's Crown upon it.—That Request was granted, and as so moderate was his Ambition, the Emperor bid him make another.—If, says he, I am to have my utmost Wishes, Command that for the future the Company of Coblers shall take place of the Company of Shoemakers.—It was so ordained, and to this Day there is to be seen a Chapel in Flanders adorn'd round with a Boot and Imperial Crown on it, and in all Processions the Company of Coblers take place of the Company of Shoemakers.

THE Seine has rose half a Foot every 24 Hours since the 19th. It wants at present only two Feet to be as high as in 1740, which the Continuance of the bad Weather leaves us no Room to doubt it will soon reach to. The Petit Cour and Champs Elisees are full of Water. The Road to Versailles is no longer passable; People are obliged to go by the Way of Meudon. The Provost of the Merchants has sent Notice to those who live on the several Bridges, to move as soon as they can. The Quantity of Deet, &c. which the Seine has swept away in its Course, gives us Ground to fear it has extended over a great Part of the Lands.

From the London Gazette, March 26.

Algiers, Jan. 31. Five of the six Ships, which went upon a Cruise, are returned without any Prize; the Sixth was lost, with about 70 of her Men, near Tangier; but the Captain and the the Remainder of the Crew were saved, and arrived here two Days ago in a Settee belonging to Gibraltar. Ten Kebeques have been likewise out, Six of which are returned without any Success, the other Four were upon the Coast of Italy and Provence, were one was cast away, and three People lost; of the remaining Three, there is one arrived upon this Coast, a little to the Eastward, but we have no News of the other Two. The Dey has dismissed the Commodore, and it is expected more Changes will be made. The French and Spaniards have lately redeemed 332 Slaves, amongst whom were two Irish Officers Wives, and six Spanish Officers; which last eight Persons alone, cost 30,000 Dollars, though none of the Officers exceeded the Rank of a Captain.

Berlin, March 9. A few Days ago a Turkish Officer arrived here; upon which the Wits of our speculative Politicians were immediately set to work, some imagining one Thing, some another, and all seeming to agree, that his Errand must be relative to the opening of a Campaign this Spring: But he is only an Ensign in the Janizaries, who obtained a Furlow to travel hither, in order to sell some fine Turkish Horses which he has brought with him.—Could he find no Market for them nearer Home?

Rome, March 12. The Chamberlain Ammon has imparted to this Court the Sentiments of his Master the King of Prussia, about the Means to procure a solid Accommodation of the Differences between the principal Powers of the North; and it appears by the Answers given to that Minister, that the King very well relishes the Overtures made by his Prussian Majesty, touching that Prince and his Allies being Guaranties of the Term in which Sweden would bind herself, whilst the Court of Vienna and her Allies would guaranty what should be stipulated on the Part of Russia in favour of Sweden: But as such Guaranties cannot be granted but in Consequence of a previous Accommodation, the Overtures made on this Head tend likewise to the assembling of a Congress, for adjusting all Matters in Dispute. Several Conferences have been held with the Earl of Albemarle, about inviting the King of Great Britain to concur in these Measures.

Vienna, March 6. The Fortrefs of Temeswaer, which is the Bulwark of Christendom on the Side of Turkey, is to have several new Works added to it, and the other Fortresses in Hungary are to be also repaired this Spring.

Vienna, March 20. The 15th Instant arrived here an Express from Constantinople, with Dispatches of great Importance; after which several Conferences were held at Court, and since new Instructions have been sent to our Minister at the Ottoman Port. Count de Colloredo, Envoy Extraordinary at the Court of Turin, is appointed Commander in Chief of the Troops in Lombardy, and Count de Strabrenburg is appointed Envoy Extraordinary at the Court of Turin in his Room.

They are constantly sending away new Tents for the Service of the Troops, which are to form the Camp in Hungary, &c.

From the Paris A la-main, March 26.

The late Storm, that did such incredible Damage in the City of Paris, and the Parts adjacent, proved equally detrimental in several distant Provinces; and we have lately received Advice from Tours, that the Wind had proved so boisterous, as to carry away the Roofs of several of their Houses, to tear up Trees from their very Roots, and removed them to a considerable Distance from the Spot on which they were before standing; that the River had swelled to that prodigious Pitch, that it had broke down several Fences, overflowed all the adjacent Lands, and by the Rapidity of its Stream bore down all before it. Several of the Inhabitants round about, as well as abundance of Cattle, &c. were lost through this impetuous Tempest.

A considerable Number likewise of small Vessels, laden with a Variety of very valuable Effects were run aground.

The Damages sustained by this sudden and Melancholly Occurrence amounts (as we are credibly informed), to little less than six Millions of Livres.

The dismal Apprehensions, however, of a general Deluge at Paris, are now all vanished; for on Tuesday last the Weather proved very serene, and the River was very calm all the Night following: In the Evening the Waters began to subside and ever since they have gradually decreased; insomuch that the Magistrate of this City have revoked the Orders which they had some Time before given to the Inhabitants of the several Bridges under their Jurisdiction, to remove themselves and their Effects with the utmost Expedition: No Carriages, heavy loaded are allowed to pass over them, under the Penalty of 300 Livres.

L O N D O N.

Extract of a Letter from Tunis, Feb. 10. N. S.

Our Corsairs have lately brought in several Prizes, among which there are several rich ones. This Success encourages them to continue their Cruizes, and divers Vessels are actually fitting out for that Purpose. Nevertheless, we are not quite free from Uneasiness, because we hear that the Christian Powers are preparing not only to clear the Mediterranean of Pirates, but even to attack us in our Ports with powerful Squadrons, and make Descents upon our Coasts. It is confidently asserted that Spain in particular is making great Armaments in her Ports, and marching Troops towards the Sea Coast; that her Men of War are to be joined by several Portuguese, Venetian and Genoese Ships; and that this great Armament is designed against Algiers, or against our Port: But as such a Rumour was spread last Year, and nothing followed, we still hope it will prove as groundless this Year. However, we take all the necessary Precautions against the worst that may happen, and they are doing the same at Algiers and Tripoli: And moreover, the Emperor of Morocco has offered to assist us and them in Case of Need. It is also said that these three States have resolved to renew their Treaties with France, and to grant that Crown some new Advantages in Trade, the better to secure ourselves from ill Offices from that Quarter.

The last Letters from the Turkish Frontiers, next to Poland and Transylvania, unanimously confirm, that large Bodies of Troops arrive there successively from the distant Provinces of the Ottoman Empire, and that they have enough already to form a powerful Army this Spring, if the Grand Senior thinks fit. These Letters likewise observe, that the late Changes in the Ottoman Ministry are far from being favourable to their Neighbours, the new High Admiral, High Treasurer, and Secretary of the Grand Vizier, being less inclined to Peace than their Predecessors were.

Yesterday Morning, the Commissioners for this Province, for running the Line, returned from Dorchester County; and are again to meet those of Pennsylvania, at Newcastle, on the 7th of October next.

Last Friday a Jury of Inquest sat on the Body of William Sheard, near this City, who was drowned in Severn a few Days before, by means of a Thowl-Pin breaking as he sat in the Bow of a Boat rowing up the River.

We mentioned in Gazette, N^o. 316, the Loss of the Mally, Capt. Boucher, who failed from hence for Glasgow in November last, with whom went Passenger Mr. Robert Swan, of this Place, Merchant, and we were under great Fear and Apprehension that he had perished with the Captain; but we have since the Pleasure of receiving Letters from Mr. Swan himself, wherein he informs us, That after a Passage of six Weeks, they were obliged, on the 14th of January, to put into the Isle of Man, and on the 16th in the Evening, left it in Company with Capt. Blair in the Durham, from Philadelphia, and the Capt. Nelson, of New-York, with a fair and moderate Wind, expecting to dine next Day at Greenock; but terrible was their Surprize, when about Two o'Clock the Ship struck on a Rock, the Darkness and Tempestuousness of the Night heightening their Terror, and the Seas constantly breaking over them, they expected every Moment to be their last: There she lay for about an Hour, when the Seas beat her off, with the Loss of her Rudder, and she drove before the Wind about a League, when she again struck on another Rock with her Hold full of Water; here she remained some Hours without going to Pieces; and about Day-break, they got out the Yawl, and 18 of them got into her, which almost sunk her, and they must all inevitably have perished in a few Minutes, had not the Long Boat with 3 Hands in her at that Instant wash'd overboard; and Mr. Swan, and some of the People getting into her, left the Captain and six Hands in the Yawl, which they made fast to the Long Boat's Stern by a small Rope; and in about an Hour made the Long Boat fast to the Ship's Hawser, and falling off to get clear from the Rocks which were falling on them, the Yawl's Mast broke, and as she could not get back with six Oars, they were obliged to beat WEDNESDAY, June 26, 1751.

From the JAMAICA COURANT, of January 19, 1750||1.

THERE was sometime since, a Marriage negotiated by Bill of Exchange in one of the English Islands in America; the Circumstances of which are so whimsical, that I believe such of my Readers as have not already heard it, will be diverted with the Relation.

A Merchant, originally come from London, having acquired a great Fortune in the Island, concluded with himself he could not be happy in the Enjoyment of it, unless he shar'd it with a Woman of Merit; and knowing none to his Fancy, he resolv'd to write to a worthy Correspondent of his at London. He knew no other Style than that he us'd in Trade; therefore treating Affairs of Love as he did his Business, after giving his Friend, in a Letter, several Commissions, and reserving this for the last, he went on thus: Item, seeing that I have taken a Resolution to marry, and that I do not find a suitable Match for me here, do not fail to send by the next Ship bound hither, a young Woman of the Qualifications and Form following. As for a Portion I demand none; let her be of an honest Family, between 20 and 25 Years of Age, a middle Stature and well-proportioned, her Face agreeable, her Temper mild, her Character blameless, her Health good, and her Constitution strong enough to bear the Change of Climate, that there be no Occasion to look out for a Second thro' lack of the First, soon after she comes to Hand; which must be provided against as much as possible, considering the great Distance, and the Dangers of the Sea. If she arriv'd, and conditioned as abovesaid, with the present Letter indors'd by you, or, at least, an attested Copy thereof, that there may be no Mistake or Imposition; I hereby oblige and engage myself to satisfy the said Letter, by marrying the Bearer at 15 Days Sight. In Witness whereof, I subscribe this, &c.

The London Correspondent read over and over the odd Article, which put the future Spouse on the same Foot with the Bales of Goods he was to send to his Friend, and after admiring the prudent Exactness of the American, and his Laconic Style, in enumerating the Qualifications he insisted on, he endeavoured to serve him to his Mind; and after many Enquiries, he judged he had found a Lady fit for his Purpose, in a young Person of a reputable Family, but no Fortune, of good Humour, and of a polite Education, well shap'd, and more than tolerably handsome; he made the Proposal to her, as his Friend had directed; and the young Gentlewoman, who had no Subsistence but from a cross old Aunt, who gave her a great deal of Uneasiness, accepted it. A Ship bound for that Island was then sitting out at Bristol; the Gentlewoman went on board the same, together with the Bales of Goods, being well provided with all Necessaries, and particularly with a Certificate in due Form, and indors'd by the Correspondent. She was also included in the Invoice, the last Article of which ran thus; Item, a Maid of 25 Years of Age, of the Quality, Shape, and conditioned as per Order, as appears by the Affidavits and Certificates she has to produce. Writings which were thought necessary to so exact a Man as the future Husband, were an Extract of the Parish Register, a Certificate of her Character signed by the Curate, an Attestation of her Neighbours, setting forth, that she had liv'd, for the Space of three Years, with an old Aunt, who was intolerably peevish, and had not, during all that Time, given her said Aunt the least Occasion of Complaint. And lastly, the Goodness of her Constitution was certified, after Consultation, by four noted Physicians. Before the Gentlewoman's Departure, the London Correspondent sent several Letters of Advice by other Ships to his Friend, whereby he informed him, that per such a Ship, he sent him a young Woman, of such an Age, Character and Condition, &c. in a Word such as he desired to marry. The Letters of Advice, the Bales, and the Gentlewoman, came safe to the Port; and our American, who happened to be one of the Foremost upon the Pier, at the Lady's Landing, was charmed to see a handsome Person, who having heard him call'd by his Name, told him, Sir, I have a Bill of Exchange upon you, and you know that it is not usual for People to carry a great deal of Money about them, in such a long Voyage as I have now made; I beg the Favour you would be pleas'd to pay it. At the same Time she gave him his Correspondent's Letter, on the Back of which was writ, The Bearer of this is the Spouse you ordered me to send you. Ha, Madam! said the American, I never yet suffered my Bills to be protested, and I swear this shall not be the first: I shall reckon myself the most fortunate of all Men if you allow me to discharge it. Yes, Sir, replied she, and the more willingly, since I am appriz'd of your Character; we had several Persons of Honour on board, who knew you very well, and who during my Passage, have answered all the Questions I asked them concerning you, in so advantageous a Manner, that it has rais'd in me a perfect Esteem for you. This first Interview was in a few Days after followed with their Nuptials, which were very magnificent. The new-married Couple are satisfied with their happy Union, made by a Bill of Exchange; which was the most fortunate that had happened in that Island for many Years.

From the Paris A la main, March 26.

ON Monday last, being the Anniversary of the Reduction of the City of Paris, to the Obedience of King Henry IV. the Chapter belonging to Notre Dame, went in Procession to the Church of the Grand Augustine; and performed divine Service, at which the Archbishop of Paris himself officiated in his pontifical Vestments.

The several Parishes of this City likewise went in Procession in due Form, first to the Church de Notre Dame, and afterwards to that of the Augustine Friars, where they attended the public Prayers appointed for that particular Solemnity.

Extract of a Letter from Waterford, in Ireland, dated March 24.

The Linnen Trade, which was introduced in this Place in the Year 1746, has increased to such a Degree, as surpasses our most sanguine Hopes; and amongst the many good Consequences attending so valuable a Manufacture to the Poor (which are very apparent to us, who live upon the Spot) it is gaining Place of the Woollen Manufacture, now carried on to a great Extent in this Country, tho' under so many Restraints; and if Liberty was granted to export strip'd and check'd Linnens from this Kingdom, the Woollen Manufactures in England, I am persuaded, would soon find the Benefit of it. The People here must eat, and it is the same Thing to them, whether they get their Bread from the Linnen or Woollen Manufacture; one of them, I think, they ought to have without Restraint, otherwise they must keep what Share they can of both.

Lisbon, Feb. 14. It is impossible to express the Blessing which all Ranks of People bestow upon the King, for having begun to set Bounds to the usurped Power of the infernal Tribunal of the Inquisition. It is hoped that his Majesty will not rest there; for if he would prohibit the Confiscation of Goods, no Body would be condemned in that Court.

Hague, Feb. 20. We have Assurance that France takes the utmost Pains to bring the Barbary Republics into her Interest, and to that End has made certain advantageous Propositions to them.

them, and that she would amply indemnify them for any Losses they might sustain in breaking with Great Britain. We are also assured, that the British Court perceiving this Negotiation, has changed its Tone in regard to these Africans, and has ordered Mr. Keppel may pass over certain Pretensions, and to do every Thing in his Power to defeat the Design of the French.

Tunis, Feb. 10. By the Dutch Gazettes it appears, that the French Court claims Part of the Island of St. Martin, one of the Caribbees, which they say, was possessed in common by the French and Dutch, but the former were driven out by the English in the late War; therefore his most Christian Majesty desires that his Subjects may be again put in Possession of that Part of the Island which they formerly held, and that the English be order'd to evacuate the same. The Marquis de Mirepoux has delivered a Memorial in Consequence to our Court, and 'tis suppos'd that the French will not evacuate Tobago, St. Lucia, and St. Vincent, till they are gratified in this Point.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated March 26. N. S.

A grand Conference is appointed to be held the 30th Instant at the Duke of Bedford's; where will be present, the principal Members of the Privy Council, in order to consider of certain Propositions that are to be made to the Court of Spain, for obviating once for all the Difficulties to which the Commerce and Navigation of the English in the American Seas, are expos'd, notwithstanding the Stipulations in the Treaty signed at Madrid the 5th of October last. At the same Conference or Council, they are likewise to enquire into the Validity and Seizure of 21 English Vessels, taken by the Spaniards in the Bay of Honduras, as we mentioned some Time ago: For though these Captures make a great Noise, and make great murmuring, the Ministry will not take it upon them to make Complaints at Madrid, without first enquiring with what Design those Vessels sailed into the Gulph or Bay of Honduras, who were the Owners of them, what Goods they had on Board, and whether it can be clearly proved that they were sent upon the contraband Trade? And if it shall appear that the Seizure was illegal, and that their being employ'd in a contraband Trade was only a Pretext of the Spaniards to detain them, 'tis not doubted, but that the Affair will be seriously prosecuted at the Court of Madrid, as in this Case one may expect full Satisfaction from that Court, pursuant to the Promise made to Mr. Keene.

Extract of a Letter from Gosport, dated March 7.

There is a Gentleman just arriv'd here from France, who relates that he had been at several Ports there, and saw thirty new Ships almost ready for launching, from 50 to 70 Guns, and great Numbers repairing. In his Way to this Place he came thro' Dunnan, where they were repairing and enlarging the Prison where the English Prisoners are kept, and as he came down the River from Dunnan there were a great many more Ships building.

March 8. We are assured, that the Alteration of the Stile of the Year will take Place the first of next January, and that that will be the first Day of the Year 1752; that eleven Days will be taken out of that Year at Michaelmas following; that all State Holidays will be observed on the same Day of the Month they are at present; that Payments will be made according to the Number of Days, counting from their Date. The Table of Moveable Feasts is made by Dr. Bradley. We are to reckon by the Gregorian Stile, and all Quarterly Payments are to be made at the four great Feasts, as usual.

March 22. From Brest we have Advice, that three Ships of 64 Guns each, and four Frigates, are equipt in that Port, and the Command of them given to M. Du Bois de la Mothe; but the Destination of this Squadron is not yet known; some think it is bound for America, and others imagine it will be sent up the Baltic.

The Floods are so very great up the River Thames, that the like has not been for many Years, occasioned by the high Winds and Rains, that the Barges that come to Town pass over several Meadows and Lands, in some Places a Quarter of a Mile Distance from the Channel; by which many have with great Difficulty escap'd being overset by the strong Currency of the Land flood.

March 25. From Madrid they write, that Orders have lately been sent down to their Sea Ports, to proceed with the utmost Diligence in their Naval Armaments: They also take Notice, that the British and French Ministers are very assiduous at Court, and frequently confer with M. de Cartajal about the general Affairs of Europe, and the Interest of their respective Courts.

Letters from Hanover advise, that they continue to raise Recruits with the utmost Diligence, all the Regiments being order'd to be complete before the End of next Month.

April 15. Last Saturday Night was solemnized the private Interment of his Royal Highness FREDERICK Prince of WALES. The Procession was from the Prince's Chamber, through the Old Palace Yard to the South East Door of Westminster Abby, and being enter'd the Church, it pass'd over directly to the Steps leading to Henry the Seventh's Chapel. At the Entrance within the Church, the Dean and Prebendaries, attended by the Choir, received the Body, and fell into the Procession just before the Officer of Arms, who preceded the Master of the Horse, and so proceeded into King Henry the Seventh's Chapel, where the Body was deposited on Trifles, the Coronet and Cushion being laid at the Head, and the Canopy held over it: The Supporters of the Pall stood by it, the Chief Mourner and his Two Supporters seated themselves in Chairs placed for them at the Head of the Corpse, the Lords Assistants, Master of the Horse, Groom of the Stole, and Lords of the Bed Chamber on both Sides, the Four white Staff Officers standing at the Feet, and others seated themselves in the stalls on each Side of the Choir. The Part of the Service before the Interment, being read by the Bishop of Rochester, Dean of Westminster, the Corpse was carried to the Vault preceded by the White Staff Officers, the Master of the Horse, Chief Mourner, his Supporters, and the Assistants following, Garter going before them, and there placed themselves near the Vault, the Dean of Westminster went on with the Office of Burial, which ended, Garter King at Arms proclaimed the Stile of his Royal Highness, and the white Staff Officers broke their Staves, and threw them into the Vault.

During the Procession, which begun about Half an Hour after Eight o'Clock, the Minute Guns were fired, and the Bells in the Cities of London and Westminster tolled; and each Soldier on Duty held two white Flambeaux lighted.

B O S T O N, May 27.

Wednesday last, in Consequence of an Appointment from his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Commander in Chief, and the honourable his Majesty's Council, public Notice was taken of the Death of his Royal Highness FREDERICK Prince of WALES. At Nine of the Clock in the Morning, all the Bells in Town began to toll, and continued tolling till Ten (the Colours on board all the Ships in the Harbour being displayed) at which Time the Lieutenant Governor, with the Members of his Majesty's Council, the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Officers Civil and Military, and a numerous Train of other Gentlemen, all in deep Mourning, went in Procession from the Council-Chamber to the old South Meeting-House: They were preceded by the Governor's Company of Cadets, under the Command of Colonel Pollard, in military Mourning, and with Arms reversed, the Drums, Colours, and Officers Staves covered with Black, at the Company's Expense. The March was solemn, and the Streets and Windows of the Houses were thronged with Spectators, silent, and with Sorrow in their Countenances. At the Meeting-House there was a crowded Assembly, the Pulpit was hung in Mourning, and a Sermon suitable to the Occasion, preached by the Reverend Mr. Samuel Mather. At the same Time, and upon the same Occasion, by a Vote of the Wardens and Vestry of King's Chapel, the Pulpit there was hung in black, and a suitable Sermon preached by the Reverend Mr. Caner. After divine Service was ended, the Procession returned to the Town-House, in the same Order they went from thence; and during their March and a considerable Time after, the Guns from his Majesty's Castle William, his Majesty's Ship Success, and the Forts of Boston and Charlestown, were fired in a Manner proper for general Solemnities. The Company of Cadets then drew up in King-Street, facing the Council Chamber, and after three Fires were led off and dismissed.—Nor was the Mourning confined to an outward Shew only, and the Pomp of Funeral Ceremonies; but our Grief was real, and our Sorrow sincere, and unaffected. Loyalty to the best of Kings, to whom we wish every Blessing that can make a Monarch great and happy, filled us with the deepest Concern for the Loss which so nearly touched him. Our Attachment to civil and religious Liberty, of which we always regard the House of Hanover as the firmest Bulwark, makes us esteem a Breach upon This, as a common Loss to be regretted by every Protestant. mixed our Tears with those of the mourning Nation, what the kind and generous Sentiments which the Prince had expressed for New England, called forth our warmest Gratitude. His amiable, his endearing Character, for Love to Mankind, for Conjugal Affection, for a most tender paternal Care of his Royal Offspring, touched every Soul that had any Sense of Humanity. In a Word, our Grief was great and universal, from Duty, Gratitude and every virtuous Tie, we reverenc'd the Prince, and we loved the Man.
