FRIDAY, April 26, 1745.

VIENNA, October 21.

HE Desertion from the Prussians is incredible: An independent Company consisting of 300 Men has been form'd out of those who have voluntarily enlisted themselves in the Queen's Service, and they, together with two Regiments of Horse, and all the Militia of Bohemia, will be sent into Maria to reinforce General Bathiani. There are also 1000 Pradins marching for the same Purpose. The Queen has presented a Gold Chain to Capt. Bordonovitz, who when he retir'd from Donawert, with 300 Croats only, made a brave Stand against 4000 Men of the Army under Count Seckendorff.

Bern, October 31. According to the latest Accounts from Burg, of the 25th Instant, the Besiegers had not compassed Draining of the River before that Town, the Frenches were of Water, and the Governor made such frequent Sallies, Marshal Coigni being quite out of Patience, had threatened the red hot Bullets: The Burghers had attempted to engage Damitz to capitulate, and save their Houses; but he erected a Gibbet upon an Eminence in the Town, assuring the Burghers, that he would hang up the first Man who should return with such Proposals.

Austrian Camp at Teinitz, Nov. 9, O. S. Yesterday Morning the combined Army forced it's Passage over the Elbe, near Milschitz, in full Day light. Lieutenant-General Count Schumburg was the first in crossing that River, at the Head of the Austrian Grenadiers: The Courage and Spirit of our Troops on this Occasion cannot be exceeded, and with regard to the Count himself it may be truly said, that he led on his Men like a General, and fought himself like a Grenadier. The Saxons took some hundred Paces higher, and rather later than we did. Tho' they met with no considerable Resistance, they were prepared to oppose any that might have been made. We had 150 Grenadiers kill'd or wounded, and some Officers among them: The Saxons lost about 25 Men. At first the Enemy's Fire was extreme y hot, and lasted for an Hour; but as soon as our Grenadiers had reach'd the other Side of the River, the Prussians went off in the greatest Confusion, tho' they might have disputed the Ground longer, by means of some Battalions, which they had at Teinitz and the neighbouring Parts. We are to march To-morrow, in order to make all possible Advantage of this Event, which will in all Probability be followed by others of great Consequence.

Vienna, Nov. 14. We hear that General Nadasti has taken and brought to the Camp a Prussian Cannon, with the Contributions of all the neighbouring Country.

Hamburg, Nov. 16. O. S. Letters from Dresden advise, that in the first Attack the King of Prussia made against the Saxons, upwards of 700 Prussians came over to them at once, and that the Duke of Weissenfels, since his Arrival in Bohemia, had signed upwards of 2000 Passports for Prussian Deserters. The Number of those come into the Austrian Camp is yet more considerable: And according to the List published at Vienna, it appears that 2706 Prussian Deserters, including 28 Officers, have come over to Prince Charles's Army in seven Weeks.

Prague, Nov. 17. O. S. On the 15th, when the Prussians were preparing to evacuate the Town, a Body of 2500 Austrians entered by another Way into it, attacked the Prussians near the Bridge, and pursued them with a brisk Fire (of which 4 or 500 Prussians took the Advantage, and deserted) to the very Gate they were to go out at. Col. Cogniaz having push'd the Enemy with too great Eagerness, got into the Mine with only a few Men, and was kill'd. They have left us a great Quantity of great Artillery; and 18 Mortars; having neither Time or Time to carry them off. Yesterday and this Day above 1000 Deserters have returned to the Town. For 3 Days before they marched out, the Enemy were employed in throwing 500 Quintals of Powder, several Thousands of Bombs, Grenades, and Cartridges, into the River; and broke 12000 of our Mines. They had dug Mines in many Places, intending to blow up the Works of the Town; but only one took Effect, and that with very little Damage. Amongst the Austrians were about 120 Prussian Deserters, who fell upon their old Comrades with the utmost Fury. The Populace also having drawn upon the Ramparts some great Cannon which the Enemy had left, loaded them with two or three Balls at once, and fired upon the Prussians till they were out of Sight.

Combined Army in Bohemia, Nov. 17. The Prussian still continue to retreat in the greatest Hurry and Disorder, leaving every Thing which cannot easily follow, to the Mercy of the Light Troops, which under the Command of Lieutenant Col. Schwaben, have pass'd the Elbe to harass them, and which are continually fatiguing them by Skirmishes, carrying off many Men, and facilitating the Desertion, which daily increases.

This Day we had Advice, that 40 Carriages full of Baggage, and several cover'd Wagons laden with Bombs and various Stores, had been taken from the Prussians.

Hague, Nov. 20, O. S. The following is the Substance of the Answer which the States General caud to be made to the Treaty, in Consequence of the Declaration which the Emperor made to their High Mightinesses on the Part of his Majesty, in the Night between the 9th and 10th Instant. Their High Mightinesses perceive with causing Satisfaction, that his Britannic Majesty approves of the Conduct which they at present pursue, and the Designs which they have in View to accomplish hereafter: Their High Mightinesses were always strongly perswaded, that the deep Penetration and just Discontentment of his Britannic Majesty, would not permit him to put an evil Sense upon the pacific Conduct which the Republic has hitherto observed, nor to disapprove that which it thought indispensibly obliged to pursue before declaring itself: That there never was any Thing their High Mightinesses more earnestly, and with greater Good-will, entered into, than to employ themselves in forming a powerful Party in the Empire, and in the North, in Favour of her Majesty of Hungary: Their High Mightinesses still thought it their Duty as well as Interest to proceed in the pacific Method, and yet for a while to temporize, in order to put themselves with more Facility into a Condition of making a respectable Figure both by Sea and Land; but as soon as Things should arrive at the Point which their High Mightinesses proposed, and which they had all the Reason in the World to hope would come to pass, the Republic would then be in a Condition of openly declaring itself, and of more effectually convincing his Britannic Majesty, that their High Mightinesses never intended to elude for a single Moment the fulfilling of the Treaty of 1678." This Answer was afterwards delivered in Writing to the British Minister, who immediately dispatched a Courier with it to London.

Hague, Nov. 29, O. S. We have Advices which mention, that before General Bathiani fell ill, he had dislodged the Imperialists from Berglausen, and thereby broken their Chain of Posts which runs along the River Inn.

Nov. 30, O. S. They write from Paris, that a Squadron of 6 Men of War, having 25 Companies of Land Forces on board, has sailed from Brest for the Coast of Africa, to attack the English Forts and Settlements there; and that another Squadron of the same Force, double manned, is to sail for Sweden, to bring to France the Men of War built there, for his most Christian Majesty.

LONDON, November 2.

It is evident that France, notwithstanding all her Power, is far from being able to enslave Europe, unless the major Part of the Princes and States of Christendom wilfully conspire to give themselves a Master; which is never likely to happen. There is nothing to be feared from France: Her Coffers are empty, the Credit of the Court declines, and the People are become weary of Tonnes, Lotteries, Annuities, and such like Expedients for raising of Money.

By a Letter from the Hague we learn, that they have frequent Skirmishes in the Coffee-Houses there, between the Second-Rate Austrians and the French Partizans; They come often to Blows; and the taking of Prague, with the Wagers laid on that Occasion, have revived these petty Wars. A few Days ago happened a very sharp Rencontre, between an Italian Tradesman, who has been a long Time in the Austrian Service, and a Disciple of Æsculapius, born a Subject of the Queen of Hungary, but a declared Partizan of France: The former corrected the indiscreet Zeal of the other with a few Cuffs, and some Blows with his Cane; which the Monsieur of the Faculty received with his Sword by his Side. Very ill Consequences were apprehended from this sudden Commencement of Hostilities; but by the Mediation of a friendly Society, to which they both belonged, a Treaty was set on Foot, and a Peace shortly after concluded between the contending Parties.

January 5. We hear that two large Fleets will speedily be fitted out; one of which is continually to cruise, and the other to guard the Coast, and relieve each other occasionally.

The Lords of the Admiralty have ordered two 60 Gun Ships to be fitted out with all Expedition, which are to be stationed at Carolina, and to be under the Direction of the Governor of that Province.

Jan. 15. His Grace the Duke of Bridgewater was taken ill on Friday last, and died about 8 o'Clock the same Evening at his House in Cleveland Row, St. James's.

'Tis said there will be a new Commission of the Peace for the whole Kingdom.

Jan. 17. His Portugueze Majesty is relapsed, and is likewise thought to be in so great Danger, that public Prayers have been made for 2 Days at Lisbon for his Recovery.

We are informed, that the Mercury Fire-ship was lately lost in a Storm in the Downs, and but 4 of the Crew sav'd.

Jan 27. Last Night three several Messengers arrived at the Earl of Harrington's Office, from Germany, with Dispatches advising, that on the 9th of this Instant Charles Albert, Elector of Bavaria, and Emperor of Germany, died of the Gout in his Stomach, in the 48th Year of his Age; whereupon his Son Maximilian Joseph, about 19 Years old, will endeavour to succeed him in the Imperial Dignity. This Prince has signified to the Queen of Hungary, that he takes no Part in his late Father's Quarrel, and therefore desires that all Hostilities may cease on both Sides. This is confirmed in the London Gazette, and will give a surprizing Turn to the Affairs of Europe.

Jan. 28. Tuesday last two Engineers were appointed to go to the Caskets, to examine whether it be practicable to weigh up the Victory Man of War, lately lost there; and which, at a very low Tide about a fortnight ago, was discovered, sunk in 14 Fathom Water.

Another remarkable Piece of News in this Day's Gazette is, that a Treaty is just upon the Point of being concluded between the Czarina and the King of Prussia; upon the Arrival whereof at Berlin, his Prussian Majesty will re-invade Bohemia.

The late Change in the Administration is disagreeable at Court, that 'tis said his Majesty has not seen the Lord Chancellor these ten Days.

Newcastle, Nov. 14. We are advised from Leith, that Capt. Lake, Commander of his Majesty's Ship the Hector, being informed that a French Privateer of great Force was cruising in those Seas, to intercept the West-India and Virginia Ships, which were expected North about, went in Pursuit of the said Privateer, and fell in with her off Arbroath; and after an Hour's Engagement, the Privateer struck. She had a great many Men kill'd, and 140 are sent Prisoners to Edinburgh. This is the same Privateer which sent her Boat and Crew into Montrose Harbour, and cut out the Concord of Frazerburgh, Alexander Gill, Master, in the Presence of about 3000 Spectators.

Bristol, Nov. 24. The Fryal Privateer, Capt. Wood, of this Port, has taken 3 French Ships, bound from Bourdeaux to St. Domingo; one of 18 Guns and 90 Men; one of 12 Guns, and the other of 10, with 40 Men each. One of them he sent into Aberdovey in Wales, and carried the other two into King'sale in Ireland.

D. C. 15. Yesterday we received Advice from King'sale, that the Old Noll Privateer of Liverpool, on her second Cruise, met with the French Privateer who took her the last Cruise; and after a bloody Engagement of some Hours, sunk her, and taking up 40 of the French Sailors, carried them into King'sale.

Portsmouth, Jan. 14. Yesterday was brought in here the Privateer Ship Mars, of Dartmouth, mounting 20 Carriage Guns; who was taken the 4th Instant, and retaken by the Captain Man of War, Capt. Griffin, on the 6th. the said Privateer brings Advice, that they saw two French Men of War, one of 70, the other of 60 Guns, with 20 Sail of Merchantmen, under their Convey from the West Indies. The Captain, Sunderland, Hampton-Court, and Dreadnought Men of War were in Chase of the French, on the 6th Instant, in Lat. 48. The

From the BARBADOES Gazette, Dec. 8, 1744.

The following is an Account of the late disagreeable Behaviour of Capt. John Prentice, who was Commander of that well fitted Bilander Privateer named the Greyhound, which mounted 12 Carriage, and 24 Swivel Guns, with above 90 stout Men; which had every Thing else necessary, and which, to his eternal Dishonour be it spoken, he did surrender, give, and deliver up to our sworn Enemies the French, in the following Manner; viz. Ten Leagues off St. Vincent, Prentice could but just perceive a Sail; upon which he called out to his Gunner, to know if every Thing was ready for a Defence? who told him, that he had but 6 Guns loaded, and those never having been discharged or unloaded (either through Ignorance or bad Principle), were so foul, that after several Attempts to fire them, only 3 would go off: And when Prentice found some would fire, he immediately demanded and took the Match out of the Gunner's Hand, and with his Foot stamp'd the Fire from it; then turning about to his Men, asked them one and all whether they were willing to fight, or not? upon which, one Pilgrim, second Lieutenant, all trembling and fearful, said, God bless you, dear Captain, we had better give up, we shall be more civilly treated for it! and seeing a Man going to give Fire to a Gun, he snatch'd the Match unawares from him, and threw it overboard. By this Time the French Sloop had got under her Lee-Bow, and was ready to discharge a Broad-side, when they perceived another French Sloop bearing directly down upon them, upon whose firing one Shot, the unfortunate Bilander struck. But Behold! when the French Officers came on board, and found what Metal she had, and how well she was mann'd and fitted, they cried out, Shame, Shame to the English! had it been a Captain of ours who had behaved so meanly, he would have been hang'd or burnt; and they freely own'd, that if he had made the least Resistance, they must have surrendered or got clear, being in a very mean Condition for want of Ammunition. After this, he and all his Men were carried to Martinico, where his Image was form'd, hang'd up, fired at, and burnt in his Presence, to let him see in what Derision they had him (whose proper Coat of Arms ought to be, A Lion Courant, that is, A Lion with his Tail turn'd in between his Legs); and from thence by a Flag of Truce, he and all his Men were brought back to us here, where he must not shew his Posteriors, much less his Face; for which Reason he cunningly and imperceptibly got home, where he has hid himself, to lament for his cowardly Behaviour: But however, the next Day after his Arrival, his and his second Lieutenant's Images were made, and publicly hang'd in the Horse-meat Market.

Where they were mock'd and sham'd by the Common, — And had in Derision by every Woman.

And it is really hoped that they will not go unpunished some Way or other, for such cowardly, unmanly, and treacherous Actions; that others, for the future, may be deterred from taking upon them such Trusts and Employments as they are no Way qualified for.
