

THE MARYLAND GAZETTE, [Numb. 813.]
Containing the latest Advices foreign and domestic.

THURSDAY, December 4, 1760.

His Serene Highness Prince FERDINAND'S ORDERS.

Warbourg Camp, Friday, August 1, 1760.

HIS Serene Highness again renews his Compliments of Thanks, that he gave in general Terms Yesterday, to the General Officers, Regiments and Corps, who were then engaged, and who, by their Valour and excellent Conduct, gained so compleat a Victory over the Enemy; and orders his Thanks to be publicly given to Lord Granby, under whose Orders all the British Cavalry performed Prodigies of Valour, which they could not fail of doing, having his Lordship at their Head; and the other General Officers of the British Cavalry, who, by their Examples, shewed the Troops they led to the Charge, how much they acted with an astonishing Courage, and a Presence of Mind not to be equalled. His Serene Highness is much obliged to them, and gives infinite Thanks as well to them, as to all the Officers in general, and in particular to the whole British Cavalry, and principally to Lieutenant-Colonel Johnson, of Conway's Regiment; the Family of Lord Granby, in particular Captain Vaughan, are hereby desired to receive the same Compliment of Thanks, as they constantly attended Lord Granby in the different Attacks of the Cavalry, and executed his Lordship's Orders in the most punctual Manner.

The Corps of brave Grenadiers, who so much contributed to the glorious Success of the Day, receive by this the justest Praise due to them. His Serene Highness cannot enough acknowledge how much Esteem and Regard he has for them: He orders his best Thanks to Lieutenant-Colonel Beckwith, and Major Maxwell, as also to the three Captains of the British Artillery, Phillips, M'Baine and Stevens, who so well managed their Artillery. All the Regiments under the Command of his Serene Highness the Hereditary Prince, and Lieutenant-General Sporcken, from the Generals down to the private Men, are particularly thanked by his Serene Highness, for the good Conduct and Courage with which they fought Yesterday.

Major General Bredenbeck, at the Head of Cope's Regiment, who signalized himself so much, is especially thanked, as is Colonel Hund, of the Hessian Artillery, by whose Care his Artillery was so well managed.

Major Bulow, who with the British Legion manouvred the whole Day in the Face of the Enemy, and who did them infinite Damage, his Serene Highness returns him many Thanks, and assures him that he shall, on all Occasions, retain a proper Sense thereof. In fine, his Serene Highness gives many Thanks to those who accompanied his Person, as well as to those of his Suit, particularly to the brave Captain Winstenrood, who is very much wounded; Captain Carpenter, who greatly contributed to the taking of several of the Enemy's Cannon; Count Daunaw, who was instrumental in making Prisoners a great Number of Fischer's Corps; Captain Sloper, Major of Brigade Hordenburg; and Capt. Mallortie, who at all Times exerted with Alacrity and Exactness the Orders they received from him.

His Serene Highness desires, that, on the first Occasion, the Army will return Thanks to the Almighty for the Success of Yesterday, and flatters himself that by his Assistance, and the Bravery shewed Yesterday, we shall in the End overcome every Obstacle that offers.

Warbourg Camp, Saturday, August 2, 1760.

His Serene Highness orders that a particular Compliment be made to Lieutenant-Colonel Sloper, for his Behaviour and Bravery in the Affair of the 31st of July; he likewise desires his Thanks to be given to Lieutenant Colonel Clinton, acting as Aid de Camp to his Serene Highness the Hereditary Prince.

LONDON, September 2.

We hear the Judge of the Court of Admiralty of a certain Island in the West-Indies, is superseded; he having, on Proof of a Deposition, taken a Purse of 800 Pistoles for clearing a Dutch Sloop, brought in by one of his Majesty's Ships.

The Duke of Cumberland was so well recovered on Thursday, that he took an Airing on Windsor Forest in his Post-chariot.

Letters from Paris mention, that the Marquis de Choiseul, a Cousin of the Ministry and Secretary of State of that Name, has been taken up, and sent to an unknown Prison, for talking too openly against the Measures of the Government.

There is something peculiarly noble in the last Representation of the Parliament of Rouen; in which they tell the King, he is Master of their Lives, but not of their Consciences and Honour.

The Edicts were indeed registered. But by what Means was that Point carried; Why, by the closing of Members, and the biasing of four of them to act contrary to what they had declared to be their Duty.

Thus, in Acts of Oppression, we see even absolute Power can be made to fear the Application of Means that are openly barbarous. France is an enlightened, tho' unfortunately for her, an enslaved Nation, and one hazardous Excess, might unite them for their Redemption, especially at a Time when the Instruments of Tyranny, their mercenary Soldiers, are mostly out of the Kingdom.

How happy would they have been, to have been the Foreseers of such Evils as they now impotently resist, and are made bitterly to feel. And what an Example should it prove to us of the great Miseries of Slavery, and of the Blessings we enjoy from a legal Constitution.

To be Masters of Fortune, Opinion and Life, are Advantages that, perhaps, we are peculiar in the true Enjoyment of. And the Miseries that we see arise for the Want of them in other Nations, ought to stamp on our Hearts such Impressions of their Value, as no Practices should weaken, nor any Length of Time should remove.

If there are of our Nation those who stand in Need of such Warning, or who are base enough to be willing to become the Betrayers of Liberty; let them learn Precaution from attending to the Calamities of our Foes, and Virtue from the glorious but impotent Exertion of it in Frenchmen; a People whose worst Practices we are prone to adopt, but whose best we are too apt to overlook, as is evident from Instances out of Number.

Extract of a private Letter from London, Sept. 4.

"The Officer who brought over the Invalids, Women and Children, from Germany, had an unlimited Letter of Credit from the Marquis of Granby, to give every Woman a Guinea, every Child a Guinea, and every Woman with Child a Guinea and a Half."

In a Letter from the Bay we are informed of an unsuccessful Attempt lately made by Commodore Hervey, to take Possession of the Island of Grouais, on the Coast of Brittany. The Commodore landed all the Marines, and above 400 Seamen, but found the Island so well secured, and so full of Men, that he thought proper to reembark, which he did with the loss of a few Men wounded. The Commodore endeavoured to surprize them, he was extremely active on this Occasion. He landed among the first, and assisted others in climbing the Rock, but the Ruggedness of the Landing Place, prevented the Men from getting up; and the Island being too strong to attempt it by open Force, he was obliged to retire without Success. This Island is well cultivated, surrounded with Cannon, and finely situated to command the Harbour of Port l'Orient, and would have been an Acquisition had there been Force enough to take it.

By a Vessel arrived in the River from Stettin, we learn that the Gosport Man of War, with the Fleet from the Sound, had put into a Port in Norway, by contrary Winds; and having received Intelligence of a Privateer, with three Prizes, lying under the Land, the Captain manned all his Boats, and cut out the said Privateer, and all her Prizes.

The Blenheim Man of War of 90 Guns is building at Woolwich on such Dimensions, that she will be equal to a First Rate.

There has been, and still continues, a severe Prefs for Seamen; very few belonging to the Fleets lately arrived in the River have been spared.

Dublin, September 10. A Letter by Monday's Post from Waterford, dated Saturday last, says; "Last Night one of the Rockets which were fired on Account of the Victory gained by the King of Prussia over General Laudohn, on the 15th inst, fell on a Quantity of Flax, or other combustible Matter, on board a Galley called the Anne, from Boston, and suddenly set the Vessel all in a Flame, and in less than 15 Minutes she was blown up, as it is supposed, by a large Quantity of Gunpowder which lay in the Steerage of said Vessel. The unhappy Man who conducted said Diversion, perished, together with the whole Crew, being 12 in Number. The Cupola of our Exchange has since fallen down, and dashed an adjoining House to the Ground. Nothing can figure the Horror of the mangled Bodies. Several Boats on the River were sunk and damaged by assisting said Vessel. Many of our Gentlemen, and others, are greatly hurt, by endeavouring to save the Effects of the Vessel. The Damages are variously computed, but the lowest Estimation is 4300 l. exclusive of the Damage done to private Buildings."

St. JOHN'S (in Antigua) October 21.

Yesterday his Excellency the General reviewed his Majesty's 38th Regiment in the Barrack-ground, when the Troops made an exceeding fine Appearance, and went through the Exercise with great Applause. During the Review his Excellency communicated to the Officers a Letter he had just received from Sir James Douglas, informing him of the Surrender of Montreal; which gave Occasion for a Feu de Joye, and gracefully closed the whole.

The Snow Kitty, Captain Ellis, and the Sloop General Duroure, Capt. Bethel, arrived here Yesterday in 12 Weeks from London. On Friday last, about 25 Leagues to Windward of this Island, they were attacked by two French Privateers, the one of 10 and the other of 12 Guns; and after a close and smart Engagement, which lasted near 3 Hours, the Enemy was obliged to sheer off with considerable Loss. The Kitty had 10 Guns and 25 Men, and the Duroure 8 Guns and 19 Men: They both suffered greatly in their Rigging, but had only one or two Men slightly wounded, whilst the Enemy were seen to throw many dead Bodies overboard. During the latter Part of the Action the Duroure was obliged to lay by for want of Powder, otherwise it is thought they could have obliged, at least one of the Privateers to strike.

BOSTON, November 3.

By Capt. Legget, who arrived here in 8 Days from Annapolis-Royal, we are informed, that the Captains Rogers and Cobb arrived there safe about a Fortnight past, with a Number of Inhabitants and Effects, from these Parts; that he has been at most of the Settlements in Nova-Scotia, the Summer past, which go on very fast; and the People are extremely well pleased with the Land, are quite healthy, and in high Spirits.

NEW-YORK, November 6.

The Roofs of a surprizing Number of Houses, in and about London, and in some neighbouring Places, have lately fallen in, by which many Persons have been hurt and killed. So great a Number of Accidents of this kind, was never known before. Thus the want of Care and due Attention to Strength in the Construction of Houses, occasions

These being likewise, in several Parts of England, especially London, to be an epidemical Madness among the Dogs: in some Places it has been found necessary to destroy them all, in others to confine them; a great Number of Persons have been bit by these, and many Remedies have been communicated to the Public to prevent the dreadful Effects of that terrible Accident, but the most efficacious and generally approved, seems to be that practiced and communicated by Dr. Jared Elliot, of Connecticut, which is no other than common Salt well rubbed in the Wound, which it is some Times necessary to open a little by Incision, that the Salt may penetrate all the Parts affected. This is said to be a certain Cure, and it is undoubtedly the easiest that ever was discovered.

Last Night Mr. Matthews, a Surgeon in Brook-street, Holborn, went into a Room at the Pewter-Platter, in Leather-Lane, where was one Sterne, a German, late a Latin Teacher at an Academy. This Man had lodged with Mr. Matthews, but for some indecent Behaviour, had been ordered to leave the House, and upon his refusing, had been taken out of it by a Constable. After having some Words with Mr. Matthews, Sterne, who had kept walking about the Room after the other came in, went to the opposite Side of the Table at which Mr. Matthews was sitting and bring a Pistol over another Person's Head, shot him through the Breast. The Villain immediately fired another at his own Breast; but the Ball only glanced on it; upon which he cried out, that he had missed his Aim, and should be hanged. He was immediately apprehended. Mr. Matthews expired in a few Minutes.

The Baron de Pollnitz, in his Memoirs published above Twenty Years ago, has the following remarkable Paragraph, which, no doubt, will be agreeable to the Public, not only because it contains the Character of our most gracious Sovereign, but also because it is drawn by a foreign Nobleman, but is most prophetic with respect to the Continuance of his Reign.

“THE present King is not tall, but very well shap'd; has a stately Port, a very grave Countenance, and speaks little, but with great Propriety. The French, English, and the Italian Languages are as familiar to him as the German. He reads a vast deal, and knows more than most do who wear the Royal Diadem. Being not puffed up with Pageantry and vain Grandeur, he does not give into superfluous Magnificence, but is an Economist without Avarice; liberal without being profuse; an Enemy to Vice, and a Friend to Virtue; sober and regular in his Ways and Manners; of a lively Temper, full of Spirit and Ambition, but submitting both the one and the other to Reason. He is active and laborious, understands Affairs, has a quick Apprehension, and a wonderful Memory.—His People are happy under his Reign. In England, his only Study is to maintain the Peace and Ballance of Europe, to make Commerce flourish, and to render the Nation one of the most powerful in the World. At Hanover, he endeavours, by good Offices to his Subjects there, to alleviate their Sorrow for his Absence. He has not made any miserable since he began his Reign; and if the Blessings of the People last to prolong the Days of their Kings, his Britannic Majesty may hope for one of the longest of Reigns.”

St. JAGO DE LA VERDE (in Jamaica) September 6.

On Monday sailed from the Keys, his Majesty's Ship Edinburgh, — Langdon, Esq; Commander, with the Fleet under his Convoy, for Great-Britain.

On Monday arrived the Ship Edinburgh, Murray, from Leith, but lost from Barbadoes. He had a smart Engagement, for five Hours, with a French Privateer of 14 Guns to the Eastward of Antigua, but at length beat her off, though the French attempted several Times to board him.

September 27. Last Saturday the Thanks of the Hon. House of Assembly was unanimously voted to be given to the Hon. Charles Holmes, Esq; Rear Admiral of the White, for the Service he has done the Country against the Negroes in Rebellion.

BASSETTERRE (in St. Christophers) October 4.

Upon Saturday the 27th ult. his Majesty's Ship Emerald, Charles Middleton, Esq; Commander, sent in a large Sloop, laden with Rum and Melass, bound to St. Eustatius from Martinico.

Upon Tuesday the 30th, arrived his Majesty's Ship Temple, Lucius O'Brien, Esq; Commander, and brought in a large Snow, laden with Sugar, Coffee and Cotton, bound to Coracoa from Martinico.

October 15. Upon the 12th Instant his Majesty's Ship Emerald, Capt. Middleton, sent in a Schooner, laden with Sugar and Coffee, bound to St. Eustatius from Martinico, and Yesterday Morning a small Schooner, with some Wine and Rum.

Two Prizes, taken by Capt. Reed, in the Brig Emperor of Morocco, have been brought, since our last, into the Road of Basseterre.

October 22. Upon Sunday the 19th Instant, arrived in the Road of Basseterre, in this Island, a French Privateer Sloop, of 8 Guns, and 47 Men, taken by his Majesty's Ship Emerald, Charles Middleton, Esq; Commander.

October 29. The Maria and Francina, and the Don Philip, two Prize Sloops, were brought into the Road of Basseterre Yesterday Morning, by the Brig Emperor of Morocco, Capt. Peter Reed.

A Flag of Truce arrived here since our last, from Martinico. She brought down Captain Bachelor, of the Brig George, from Marblehead; and Capt. Napier, of the Polly, a Schooner from Philadelphia. These two are said to be the only Prizes lately carried into Martinico.

Extract of a Letter from London, dated August 1.

Commodore Moore was most graciously received by his Majesty, and his Conduct highly approved by the Admiralty. The Commodore, at high Change, publicly declared in Lloyd's Coffee-House, that he had been informed that the Merchants intended to complain of his Conduct to the Lords of the Admiralty, and that he wished they would; he being sensible he had acted properly and consistently, whilst he commanded on the Leeward Islands Station. The Merchants were silent for some Time; at last Mr. M. asked him some Questions concerning the Number of Captures the French had made, &c. which were answered by Mr. Moore; and then one of the most considerable Underwriters (whose Name I have forgot) publicly told Mr. Moore, that he had lost more Money than any Person in the Coffee-house, and that every Underwriter there was sensible of it; but that for his Part he was now sensible he (the Commodore) had done the utmost in his Power; and that he would answer for it every one else thought so too; and that the Reason of their being discontented was owing to their not having the Matter properly stated before.

B O S T O N, November 17.

Yesterday Sen'night, about eight o'Clock in the Morning, a small Shock of an Earthquake was perceived by many People in this Town; it was also felt in several Towns for 30 Miles Distance, and the Shake, was pretty considerable, attended with a rumbling Noise.

Last Thursday Night being very dark and stormy Weather, Capt. Kent, in a Sloop belonging to Charles-Town, bound in, run foul of a Schooner from the Eastward, laden with Wood, who carried away his Bow-sprit, and did him other Damage: Four of Captain Kent's People jumped on board the Schooner, thinking the Sloop was sinking. They could see nothing of the Sloop the next Morning, by which 'tis feared she sunk.

Friday last the Captains Nicholls and Davis arrived here, in 20 odd Days from Quebec, who inform, that in coming down the River they saw several Vessels bound up, in particular five large Ships, supposed to be Store-ships from England; also a Brig, a Schooner and Sloop, about 20 Leagues above Gaspey, but spoke with none of them. Captain Davis came very near the Island of Anticosta, but saw no Vessel ashore there.

Yesterday Capt. Tozer, who sailed from hence for Quebec some Time ago, put back: He was obliged, by Streets of Weather, to put into Louisburg, from which Place he sailed for the River 38 Days ago, but meeting with contrary Winds, and bad Weather, in which he received considerable Damage, he was obliged to return hither.

By a Vessel in 30 Days from Guadaloupe, that arrived here Yesterday, we learn, That an Embargo is laid on all the Shipping at Martinico, as well Dutchmen as Privateers, the Inhabitants being under great Apprehension of an Invasion from the English; and were putting the Place in the best Posture of Defence possible.

By a Vessel that arrived here last Week from Halifax, we learn, that Lord Colvil, with 15 Men of War, were arrived there from Quebec. Most of the Ships are to Winter at Halifax.

N E W - Y O R K, November 25.

Last Week a female Infant of about two Months old, was found floating at the Battery, well dress'd: The Coroner's Inquest was immediately summoned; when it appeared to them that on Sunday the 9th Inst. in the North-River, the aforesaid Child, by Accident fell out of it's Mother's Arms, from a Sloop coming down, when the Mother jump'd after it, and both were drowned, the Wind being very high at North West.

On Friday last two Malefactors, Middleton and Brown, were executed for Robbery, pursuant to their Sentence; Middleton seem'd penitent and much concerned, but Brown behaved in a quite different Manner, tho' unwilling to die, he shew'd little Sensibility of Guilt.

Nov. 20. We hear 500 of the Soldiers lately arrived under Convoy of the Dover, are to be quartered on L. Island, the Rest in the Jerseys, &c. and that some of the Transports lately arrived will carry the French Prisoners to Old France, instead of the Vessels intended for that Purpose.

Copy of a Letter from Captain Oman, Commander of the Harlequin Privateer, to his Owners in this City.

GENTLEMEN, October 22, 1760.

“I embrace this Opportunity to let you know of our Misfortune. On the 7th Instant we met with a very hard Gale of Wind, from the E. N. E. and N. E. in the Latitude of 37: 26 North, and Longitude 73: 42 West, which obliged us to stop, but we lying to so dangerously, and the Sea constantly making a Breach over us, and filling our Decks, we were obliged to scud, and under Necessity of lighting us, by clearing our Decks of the Spars and Plank; and that on the next Day, being the 8th Instant, the Wind shifted to N. W. and then at W. N. W. in the Latitude of 35: 9 North, and Longitude 71: 10 West, the Wind still continuing, and rather increasing that abating, was forced, for the Preservation of Life, to throw overboard four large Guns, three Swivels, and all the Gun Carriages, the Oars out of the Cranes, two and an Half Barrels of Beef, and started five Butts of Water out of the Hold, and that on Sunday the 12th Instant, scudding about E. S. E. at the Rate of about eight Knots, at Half past Four, A. M. struck on the Rocks at the Northwest Part of the Island, and beat over several Rocks, after which came to Anchor in about five Fathom Water a-head, and about two and a Half Fathom a-stern, without receiving any perceptible Damage; at which Place we continued, till several of the Inhabitants of this Island came to our Assistance; and safely conveyed us to Anchor, at a Place called Mangrove Bay; the Necessaries being to be had in Mangrove Bay, we were obliged to come to St. George's-Town, and applied to Mr. Jonathan Burch, of that Town, and the whole Necessaries amounted to 174 milled Dollars; and this 26th Instant we are intended to sail from this Port, to proceed to St. Christophers, in order to get four more Guns. All the Officers in general are in high Spirits, and in good Health. We are in Hopes, with the Blessing of GOD, to make our Losses up. I am your humble Servant, JAMES OMAN.

Friday last Colonel Peter Schuyler arrived here from Albany; and the same Day set out for his Seat at Second-River, in New-Jersey.

P H I L A D E L P H I A, November 27.

Captain Campbell, in a Snow from St. Christophers for this Port, was taken by a French Privateer, and afterwards retaken, and carried back to that Place.

From Jamaica we learn, that Martial Law ceased in that Island about the 30th of August; but that it was put in Force again about the Middle of September, on Account of some fresh Disturbances in Westmoreland Parish.

Captain Card, from Rhode-Island, on the 17th Instant, off the East End of Long-Island, saw Captain Ebenezer Simmonds, in a Sloop from that Place for Maryland, a little Way a-head of him, when suddenly his Vessel was struck by a Whale, by which she sunk in a few Minutes; there were seven Hands on board, two of which, Silvester Simmonds, and Jeremiah Brown, with great Difficulty (the Weather being very stormy) were taken up by Captain Card, but the others were lost with the Vessel.

Last Week a Flat-Man was found dead in the Cabin, at one of the Wharfs of this City, supposed to be occasioned by a Pot of Coals he had there, and the Hatch being laid over, by which he was stifled for want of Air.

THURSDAY, December 11, 1760.

TO the entertainment of my fair readers, and to recommend to them an old-fashioned virtue, called prudence, I shall devote this and a following paper. If the story I am going to tell them should deserve their approbation, they are to thank the husband and wife from whom I had it; and who are desirous, this day, of being the readers of their own adventures.

An eminent merchant in the city, whose real name I shall conceal under that of Wilson, was married to a lady of considerable fortune and more merit. They lived happily together for some years, with nothing to disturb them but the want of children. The husband, who saw himself richer every day, grew impatient for an heir; and as time rather lessened than increased the hopes of one, he became by degrees indifferent, and at last, aversive to his wife. This change in his affections was the heaviest affliction to her; yet so gentle was her disposition, that she reproached him only with her tears; and seldom with those, but when upbraiding and ill usage made her unable to restrain them.

It is a maxim with some married philosophers, that the tears of a wife are apt to walk away pity from the heart of a husband. Mr. Wilson will pardon me if I rank him, at that time, among these philosophers. He had lately hired a lodging in the country, at a small distance from town, whether he usually retired in the evening, to avoid (as he called it) the persecutions of his wife.

In this cruel separation, and without complaint, she passed away a twelvemonth; seldom seeing him but when business required his attendance at home, and never sleeping with him. At the end of which time, however, his behaviour, in appearance, grew kinder: he saw her oftener, and began to speak to her with tenderness and compassion.

One morning, after he had taken an obliging leave of her, to pass the day at his country lodging, she paid a visit to a friend at the other end of the town; and stopping in her way home at a thread shop in a by street near St. James's, she saw Mr. Wilson crossing the way, and afterwards knocking at the door of a genteel house overlooking her, which was opened by a servant in livery, and immediately shut, without a word being spoken. As the manner of his entrance, and her not knowing he had an acquaintance in the street, a little alarmed her, she enquired of the shop-woman if she knew the gentleman who lived in the opposite house. "You have just seen him go in, madam, replied the woman. His name is Mr. Roberts, and a mighty good gentleman, they say, he is." His lady. — At those words Mrs. Wilson changed colour; and interrupting her — "His lady, madam! — I thought that — Will you give me a glass of water? This walk has so tired me — Pray give me a glass of water — I am quite faint with fatigue." The good woman of the shop ran herself for the water, and by the additional help of some hartshorn that was at hand, Mrs. Wilson became, in appearance, tolerably composed. She then looked over the threads she wanted, and having desired a coach might be sent for, "I believe, said she, you were quite frightened to see me to-day; but I had walked a great way, and should certainly have fainted if I had not slept into your shop. — But you were talking of the gentleman over the way — I fancied I knew him; but his name is Roberts, you say. Is he a married man, pray?" "The happiest in the world, madam (returned the thread-woman) he is wonderfully fond of children, and to his great joy, his lady is now lying in of her first child, which is to be christened this evening; and as fine a boy, they say it is, as ever was seen." At this moment, and as good fortune would, have it, for the saving a second dose of hartshorn, the coach that was sent for came to the door; into which Mrs. Wilson immediately slept, after hesitating an apology for the trouble she had given; and in which coach we shall leave her to return home, in an agony of grief which herself has told me she was never able to describe.

THE readers of this little history have been informed that Mr. Wilson had a country lodging, to which he was supposed to retire almost every evening since his disagreement with his wife; but in fact, it was to his house near St. James's that he constantly went. He had indeed hired the lodgings above-mentioned, but from another motive than merely to shun his wife. The occasion was this.

As he was sauntering one day through the bird-cage walk in the park, he saw a young woman sitting alone upon one of the benches, who though plainly, was neatly dressed, and whose air and manner distinguished her from the lower class of women. He drew nearer to her without being perceived, and saw in her countenance, which innocence and beauty adorned, the most composed melancholy that can be imagined. He stood looking at her for some time; which she at last perceiving, started from her seat in some confusion, and endeavoured to avoid him. The fear of losing her gave him courage to speak to her. He begged pardon for disturbing her, and excused his curiosity by her extreme beauty, and the melancholy that was mixed with it.

It is observed by a very wise author, whose name and book I forget, that a woman's heart is never so full of affliction, but a little flattery will insinuate itself into a corner of it; and as Wilson was a handsome fellow, with an easy address, the lady was soon persuaded to replace herself upon the bench, and to admit him at her side. Wilson who was really heart-struck, made her a thousand protestations of esteem and friendship; conjuring her to tell him if his fortune or services could contribute to her happiness, and vowing never to leave her, till she made him acquainted with the cause of her concern.

HAD a short pause ensued; and after a deep sigh and a stream of Tears, the lady began thus. "O, sir, you are the gentleman your appearance speaks you to be, I shall thank heaven that I have found you. I am the unfortunate widow of an officer who was killed at Dettingen. As he was only a lieutenant, and his commission all his fortune, I married him against a mother's consent, for which she has disclaimed me. How I loved him or he me, as he is gone forever from me, I shall forbear to mention, though I am unable to forget. At my return to England (for I was the constant follower of his fortunes) I obtained, with some difficulty, the allowance of a subaltern's widow, and took lodgings at Chelsea.

In this retirement I wrote to my mother, acquainting her with my loss and poverty, and desiring her forgiveness for my disobedience; but the cruel answer I received from her determined me, at all events, not to trouble her again. "I LIVED upon this slender allowance with all imaginable thrift, till an old officer, a friend of my husband, discovered me at church, and made me a visit. To this gentleman's bounty I have long been indebted for an annuity of twenty pounds; in quarterly payments. As he was punctual in these payments, which were always made me the morning they became due, and yesterday being quarter-day, I wondered I neither saw him nor heard from him. Early this morning I walked from Chelsea to enquire for him at his lodgings in Pall-Mall; but how shall I tell you, sir, the new, I learnt there! — This friend! this generous and disinterested friend! was killed yesterday in a duel in Hyde-park." She stopped here to give vent to a torrent of tears, and then proceeded. "I was so flattered at this intelligence that I knew not whither to go. Chance more than choice brought me to this place; where if I have found a benefactor — and indeed, sir, I have need of one — I shall call it the happiest accident of my life."

THE widow ended her story, which was literally true, in so engaging and interesting a manner, that Wilson was gone an age in love in a few minutes. He thanked her for the confidence she had placed in him, and swore never to desert her. He then requested the honour of attending her home, to which she readily consented, walking with him to Buckingham Gate, where a Coach was called, which conveyed them to Chelsea. Wilson dined with her that Day, and took Lodgings in the same house, calling himself Roberts, and a single man. These were the lodgings I have mentioned before; where by unbounded generosity, and constant assiduities, he triumphed in a few weeks over the honour of this fair widow.

I SHALL stop a moment here, to caution those virtuous widows who are my readers, against too hastily a disbelief of this event. If they please to consider the situation of this lady, with poverty to alarm, gratitude to incite, and a handsome fellow to inflame, they will allow, that in a world near six thousand years old, one such instance of frailty, even in a young and beautiful widow, may possibly have happened. But to go on with my story.

THE effects of this intimacy were soon visible in the lady's looks; a circumstance that greatly added to the happiness of Wilson. He determined to remove her to town; and accordingly took the house near St. James's, where Mrs. Wilson had seen him enter, and where his mistress, who passed in the neighbourhood for his wife, at that time lay in.

[Conclusion of the story of Mrs. Wilson.]

I RETURN now to Mrs. Wilson, whom we left in a hackney coach, going to her own home, in all the misery of despair and jealousy. It was happy for her that her constitution was good, and her resolution equal to it; for she has often told me, that she passed the night of that day in a condition little better than madness.

In the morning her husband returned; and as his heart was happy and without suspicions of a discovery, he was more than usually complaisant to her. She received his civilities with her accustomed cheerfulness; and finding that business would detain him in the city for some hours, she determined, whatever distress it might occasion her, to pay an immediate visit to his mistress, and to wait there till she saw him. For this purpose she ordered a coach to be called, and in her handstomest undress, and with the most composed countenance, she drove directly to the house. She enquired at the door if Mr. Roberts was within; and being answered no, but that he dined at home, she asked after his lady, and if she was well enough to see company; adding that as she came a great way, and had business with Mr. Roberts, she should be glad to wait for him in his lady's apartment. The servant ran immediately up stairs, and as quickly returned with a message from his mistress, that she would be glad to see her.

Mrs. Wilson confesses that at this moment, notwithstanding the resolution she had taken, her spirits totally forsook her, and that she followed the servant with her knees knocking together, and a face paler than death. She entered the room where the lady was sitting, without remembering on what errand she came; but the sight of so much beauty, and the elegance that adorned it, brought every thing to her thoughts, and her eyes were no other than windows to fling herself into the arms of which she instantly fell to the ground in a swooning fit.

The whole house was alarmed upon this occasion, and every one busied in assisting the stranger; but most of all the mistress, who was indeed of a humane disposition, and who, perhaps, had other thoughts to disturb her than the mere feelings of humanity. In a few minutes, however, and with the proper applications, Mrs. Wilson began to recover. She looked round her with amazement at first, not recollecting where she was; but seeing herself supported by her rival, to whose care she was so much obliged, and who in the tenderest distress was enquiring how she did, she felt herself relapsing into a second fit. It was now that she exerted all the courage she was mistress of, which, together with a flood of tears that came to her relief, enabled her (when the servants were withdrawn) to begin as follows.

"I am indeed, madam, an unfortunate woman, and subject to these fits; but will never again be the occasion of trouble in this house. You are a lovely woman, and deserve to be happy in the best of husbands. I have a husband too; but his affections are gone from me. He is not unknown to Mr. Roberts, though unfortunately I am. It was for his advice and assistance that I made this visit; and not finding him at home, I begged admittance to his lady, whom I longed to see and to converse with." Me, madam! answered Mrs. Roberts, with some emotion, had you heard any thing of me? "That you were such as I have found you, madam, replied the stranger, and had made Mr. Roberts happy in a fine boy. May I see him madam? I shall love him for his father's sake." His father madam! returned the mistress of the house, his father did you say? I am mistaken then; I thought you had been a stranger to him. "To his person I own," said Mrs. Wilson, but not to his character; and therefore I shall be fond of the little creature. "If it is not too much trouble, madam, I beg to be obliged."

The importunity of this request, the fainting at first, and the settled concern of this unknown visitor, gave Mrs. Roberts the most alarming fears. She had, however, the presence of mind to go herself for the child, and to watch without witness the behaviour of the stranger. Mrs. Wilson took it in her arms, and bursting into tears, said, "Tis a sweet boy, madam; would I had such a boy! Had he been mine I had been happy!" With these words, and in an agony of grief and tenderness, which she endeavoured to restrain, she kissed the child, and returned it to its mother.

It was happy for that lady that she had an excuse to leave the room. She had seen and heard what made her shudder for herself; and it was not till some minutes, after having delivered the infant to its nurse, that she had resolution enough to return. They both seated themselves again, and a melancholy silence followed for some time. At last Mrs. Roberts began thus.

"You are unhappy, madam, that you have no child; I pray heaven that mine be not a grief to me. But I conjure you, by the goodness that appears in you, to acquaint me with your story. Perhaps it concerns me; I have a prophetic heart that tells me it does. But whatever I may suffer, or whether I live or die, I will be just to you."

Mrs. Wilson was so affected with this generosity, that she possibly had discovered herself, if a loud knocking at the door, and immediately after it the entrance of her husband into the room, had not prevented her. He was moving towards his mistress with the utmost cheerfulness, when the sight of her visitor fixed him to a spot, and struck him with an astonishment not to be described. The eyes of both ladies were at once rivetted to his, which so increased his confusion, that Mrs. Wilson, in pity to what he felt, and to relieve her companion, spoke to him as follows. "I do not wonder, sir, that you are surprized at seeing a perfect stranger in your house; but my business is with the master of it; and if you will oblige me with a hearing in another room, it will add to the civilities which your lady has entertained me with."

Wilson, who expected another kind of greeting from his wife, was so revived at her prudence, that his powers of motion began to return; and quitting the room, he conducted her to a parlour below stairs. They were no sooner entered into this parlour, than the husband threw himself into a chair, fixing his eyes upon the ground, while the wife addressed him in these words.

"How I have discovered your secret, or how the discovery has tormented me, I need not tell you. It is enough for you to know that I am miserable for ever. My business with you is short; I have only a question to ask, and to take a final leave of you in this world. Tell me truly then, as you shall answer it hereafter, if you have seduced this lady under false appearances, or have fallen into guilt by the temptations of a wanton? I shall answer you presently, said Wilson; but first I have a question for you. Am I discovered to her? And does she know it is my wife that I am now speaking to? "No, upon my honour," she replied; her looks were so amiable, and her behaviour to me so gentle, that I had no heart to distress her. If she has guessed at what I am, it was only from the concern she saw me in, which I could not hide from her." You have acted nobly then, returned Wilson, and have opened my eyes at last to see and to admire you. And now, if you have patience to hear me, you shall know all.

He then told her of his first meeting with this lady, and of every circumstance that had happened since; concluding with his determinations to leave her, and with a thousand promises of fidelity to his wife, if she generously consented, after what had happened, to receive him as a husband. "She must consent," cried Mrs. Roberts, who at that moment opened the door, and burst into the room; she must consent. You are her husband and may command it. For me, madam, continued she, turning to Mrs. Wilson, he shall never see me more. I have injured you through ignorance, but will atone for it to the utmost. "He is your husband, madam, and you must receive him. I have listened to what has passed, and am now here to join my entreaties with his, that you may be happy for ever."

To relate all that was said upon this occasion would be to extend my story to another paper. Wilson was all submission and acknowledgement; the wife cried and doubted, and the widow vowed an eternal separation. To be as short as possible, the harmony of the married couple was fixed from that day. The widow was handsomely provided for, and her child, at the request of Mrs. Wilson, taken home to her own house; where at the end of a year she was so happy, after all her distresses, as to present him with a sister, with whom he is to divide his father's fortune. His mother retired into the country, and, two years after, was married to a gentleman of great worth; to whom, on his first proposals to her, she related every circumstance of her story. The boy pays her a visit every year, and is now with his sister upon one of these visits. Mr. Wilson is perfectly happy in his wife, and has sent me, in his own hand, this moral to his story.

"That though prudence and generosity may not always be sufficient to hold the heart of a husband, yet a constant perseverance in them will, one time or other, most certainly regain it." [The World, No. 4. & 5.]

CIVILITY and GOOD-BREEDING are generally thought, and often used, as synonymous terms, but are by no means so.

GOOD-BREEDING necessarily implies CIVILITY; but CIVILITY does not reciprocally imply GOOD-BREEDING. The former has its intrinsic weight and value, which the latter always adorns, and often doubles by its workmanship.

To sacrifice one's own self-love to other people's, is a short, but I believe, a true definition of CIVILITY: to do it with ease, propriety and grace, is GOOD-BREEDING. The one is the result of good-nature; the other of good sense, joined to experience, observation, and attention.

A PLOUGHMAN will be civil, if he is good-natured, but cannot be well-bred. A courtier will be well-bred, though perhaps without good-nature, if he has but good sense.

FLATTERY is the disgrace of GOOD-BREEDING, as brutality often is of truth and sincerity. GOOD-BREEDING is the middle point between those two odious extremes.

CEREMONY is the superstition of GOOD-BREEDING, as well as of religion; but yet, being an out-work to both, should not be absolutely demolished. It is always, to a certain degree, to be complied with, though despised by those who think; because admired and respected by those who do not.

The most perfect degree of GOOD-BREEDING, as I have already hinted, is only to be acquired by great knowledge of the world, and keeping the best company. It is not the object of mere speculation, and cannot be exactly defined, as it consists in a fitness, a propriety of words, actions, and even looks, adapted to the infinite variety and combinations of persons, places, and things. It is a mode, not a substance: for what is GOOD-BREEDING at St. James's, would pass for foppery or banter in a remote village; and the homely civility of that village, would be considered a brutality at court.

A CLOYSTERED pedant may form true notions of CIVILITY; but if amidst the cobwebs of his cell he pretends to spin a speculative system of GOOD-BREEDING, he will not be less absurd than his predecessor, who judiciously undertook to instruct Hannibal in the art of war. The most ridiculous and most awkward of men are, therefore, the speculatively well-bred monks of all religions and all professions.

GOOD-BREEDING, like charity, not only covers a multitude of faults, but, to a certain degree, supplies the want of some virtues. In the common intercourse of life, it acts good-nature, and often does what good-nature will not always do; it keeps both wits and fools within those bounds of decency, which the former are too apt to transgress, and which the latter never know.

COURTS are unquestionably the seats of GOOD-BREEDING; and must necessarily be so; otherwise they would be the seats of violence and desolation. There all the passions are in their highest state of fermentation. All pursue what but few can obtain, and many seek what but one can enjoy. GOOD-BREEDING alone restrains their excesses. There, if enemies did not embrace, they would stab. There, smiles are often put on to conceal tears. There, mutual services are professed, while mutual injuries are intended; and there, the guile of the serpent simulates the gentleness of the dove: all this, it is true, at the expence of sincerity; but, upon the whole, to the advantage of social intercourse in general.

I would not be misapprehended, and supposed to recommend GOOD-BREEDING, thus profaned and prostituted to the purposes of guilt and perfidy; but I think I may justly infer from it, to what a degree the accomplishment of GOOD-BREEDING must adorn and enforce virtue and truth, when it can thus soften the outrages and deformity of vice and falshood.

I am sorry to be obliged to confess that my native country is not perhaps the seat of the most perfect GOOD-BREEDING, though I really believe that it yields to none in hearty and sincere CIVILITY, as far as CIVILITY is (and to a certain degree it is an inferior moral duty of doing as one would be done by. If France exceeds us in that particular, the incomparable author of L'Esprit des Loix accounts for it very impartially, and I believe very truly. If my countrymen, says he, are the best bred people in the world, it is only because they are the vainest. It is certain that their GOOD-BREEDING and attentions, by flattering the vanity and self-love of others, repay their own with interest. It is a general commerce, usefully carried on by a barter of attentions, and often without one grain of solid merit, by way of medium, to make up the balance.

It were to be wished that GOOD-BREEDING were in general thought a more essential part of the education of our youth, especially of distinction, than at present it seems to be. It might even be substituted in the room of some academical studies, that take up a great deal of time, to very little purpose; or at least, it might usefully share some of those many hours, that are so frequently employed upon a coach-box, or in stables. Surely those who by their rank and fortune are called to adorn courts, ought at least not to disgrace them by their manners.

But I observe with concern, that it is the Fashion for our youth of both sexes to brand GOOD-BREEDING with the name of ceremony and formality. As such, they ridicule and explode it, and adopt in its stead, an offensive carelessness and inattention, to the diminution, I will venture to say, even of their own pleasures, if they know what true pleasures are.

Love and friendship necessarily produce, and justly authorize familiarity; but then GOOD-BREEDING must mark out its bounds, and say, thus far shalt thou go, and no farther: For I have known many a passion and many a friendship, degraded, weakened, and at last (if I may use the expression) wholly flattered away, by an unguarded and liberal familiarity. Nor is GOOD-BREEDING less the ornament and cement of common social life. It connects, it endears, and at the same time, it indulges the just liberty, restrains that indecent licentiousness of conversation, which alienates and provokes. Great merit makes him great; but great merit alone can make him great.

I recommend it to my country-women to such of them as have a taste for those who are victorious, decorated, conquests of beauty, the want of it, it and procures respect not charms enough.

Upon the whole, not, strictly speaking, productive of so much opinion, it may justly mere accomplisher.

provokes. Great talents make a man famous, great merit makes him respected, and great learning makes him esteemed; but GOOD-BREEDING alone can make him be loved.

I RECOMMEND it in a more particular manner to my country-women, as the greatest ornament to such of them as have beauty, and the safest refuge for those who have not. It facilitates the victories, decorates the triumphs, and secures the conquests of beauty; or in some degree atones for the want of it. It almost deifies a fine woman, and procures respect at least to those, who have not charms enough to be admired.

UPON the whole, though GOOD-BREEDING cannot, strictly speaking, be called a virtue, yet it is productive of so many good effects, that in my opinion, it may justly be reckoned more than a mere accomplishment.

HAGUE, September 17.

WE have received Letters To-day, which inform us, that Marshal Broglio had, in the Night of the 12th, quitted his Camp at Immenhausen, and had fallen back with his Army towards Cassel, where he was making Preparations to strengthen himself. Prince Xavier had likewise been recalled from the Neighbourhood of Göttingen, and had retired to Munden and Witzenhauzen. By Accounts from Ferdinand's Army, of the 14th, it appears, that his Serene Highness was to pass the Dymel that Day, with the Reserve under the Command of the Marquis of Granby; and it was expected the whole Army would follow the next Day, or the 16th. Major Bullaw had been sent upon an Expedition against the French, on the Side of Marbourg, has, it is said, been successful in entering that Town, destroying the Ovens, Cloathing, spare Arms, and other Stores of the French Army; that he took eight Officers and several Men Prisoners, with a great Number of Commissaries and their Train; and made a great Booty; and that he pushed Parties forward to Butzbach, and afterwards retreated toward Frankenberg.

Our last Account from Glogau mentions, that the King of Prussia was encamped, on the 8th, between Striegau and Schweidnitz, Marshal Daun was between the last mentioned Place and Hohenfriedberg, and according to Appearances had laid aside for the present his Design of besieging Schweidnitz; and that the Russians were at Hernstadt, and pushed their Light Troops forward, from Time to Time, to the Oder; so that they had not yet entered Poland. General Hulsen maintains himself at Torgau.

Head Quarters of Prince Ferdinand, at Bulow, September 8, 1760. The Grand Army of the French are on the Point of making a Motion; it cannot advance but by going to join the Count of Lutatia, in the Neighbourhood of Göttingen; but, if we may credit some intercepted Letters, it will not venture to do this, unless Prince Ferdinand should pass the Weser. Upon the whole then, M. Broglio must either retire, and pass the Fulda, or come and attack us.

LONDON, September 23.

Some Letters from Silesia mention, that the Prussians had gained considerable Advantages in two different Actions with the Austrians, the Particulars of which were impatiently expected. And that the King of Prussia has detached 10,000 Men into Saxony.

Letters from Vienna hint, that Gen. Loudohn would soon be created a Field Marshal, and a Count of the Empire, and take the Command of the grand Austrian Army, in the Room of M. Daun.

And a Postscript of a private Letter from the Hague asserts, that they were well informed that Marshal Daun was recalled, and had actually set out for Vienna, to give an Account of his Conduct to the Empress Queen, after resigning the Command of the Army to General Loudohn.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman at Cadiz, dated October 10, 1760.

"This Court seems to be steadfast on keeping

Peace; and they find, by Experience, the Success of it.—The Queen of Hungary does not succeed in her Ideas: For by this Post there are some Letters from Germany which denote, that M. Daun was retiring to Bohemia; so the King of Prussia will soon be Master again of Saxony.—The French have had as little Success in Hesse Cassel, and are on the Retreat; so that, in all Respects, we may expect a glorious Peace."

In a private Letter from Boston, to a Gentleman in New-York, it is said that a Mast-ship was arrived from England, which left Portsmouth about the 18th of October; that no public Prints had then come from her, but it was reported that Things looked well both with the King of Prussia and Prince Ferdinand.

MARYLAND GAZETTE,

Containing the latest Advices foreign and domestic.

THURSDAY, December 18, 1760.

HAGUE, September 17.

BY Letters from the Allied Army, we have received the following List of French Officers who were made Prisoners at Zierenberg, in the Night between the 5th and 6th Instant. Of Clermont's Volunteers, 1 Colonel, 1 Lieutenant Colonel, 1 Commandant of a Battalion, 1 Major, 3 Captains, 2 Aid de Camps, and 8 Lieutenants. Volunteers of Dauphiny, 1 Lieutenant Colonel, 1 Major, 5 Captains, 6 Cornets, 1 Aid de Camp, and 2 other Officers; in all 31 Officers, and 392 private Men.

LONDON, September 11.

On Sunday Afternoon his Majesty's Ship Culoden sailed from Spithead, with the Transports for Guadaloupe, with a leading Gale.

Capt. Corren from Oporto, is arrived at Deal, in 14 Days, and brings an Account of an Insurrection at Lisbon.

The Captains of two of the French Men of War, which were engaged with Admiral Pocock's Fleet in the East-Indies, have been shot at Pondicherry for Cowardice.

The Master of a Spanish Ship reports, that the Toulon Squadron had been forced into Malta, where they are blocked up by Admiral Saunders, and must remain to meet the English Fleet.

Some Letters from Petersburg positively assert, that M. Soltikoff is ordered to keep on the Defensive, and undertake nothing against the King of Prussia. This is supposed to be the Effect of the advantageous Offers which his Prussian Majesty hath made to the Czarina; which are warmly supported by Great-Britain.

Private Letters say, that when Prince Henry of Prussia received Intelligence that General Glatz had burnt the Russian Magazine on the River Pomer, he could not help crying out, "Then he has done my Brother more Service than if I had destroyed the whole Vanguard of their Army."

It is strongly rumoured at the Court End of the Town, that new Terms of Accommodation for a Peace are lately arrived, which meet with much Attention, and are likely to be agreed to.

The King of Prussia's Attack of Laudohn is looked on as the boldest Stroke he has struck this War. His whole Fortunes depended on Count Daun's getting no Notice that he had divided his Army; and yet the Noise of the Cannon, which might be heard in Daun's Camp, might have given a Suspicion that his Majesty was engaged with Laudohn.

Sept. 20. A private Letter from an Officer in Germany informs, that the Loss the French Army sustained in the Months of June and July last, by Sickness, Desertion, &c. amounted to above 16000 Men. He adds, that the Sick at present in the French Hospitals, amount at least to 20,000.

Extract of a Letter from M. Broglie's Army, Sept. 6.

"It is assured that on the 9th Instant we shall pass the Fulda, and consequently the Weser. It is the Opinion of the Officers, that we shall keep near to Cassel, our nursing Mother, that gives us Sustainance, and our central Point. We shall protect the Count of Lusatia, who may possibly advance to Hanover. If this should give Offence to Prince Ferdinand, let him prevent it. We desire nothing more than to enter Westphalia. We have still Time enough this Season to do something effectual here."

Letters from Lisbon advise, that an Inquisition is appointed to examine into the Foundation of the second Conspiracy against his Majesty, in order to bring the Authors to Punishment.

A Courier going with Dispatches of Importance from M. Broglie to the French King, has luckily fallen into the Hands of one of the patrolling Parties of the Allied Army; and the Dispatches have been sent to our Court, by a Messenger from Prince Ferdinand.

Sept. 23. It is said that the Isle Dumat, on the Coast of France, which our Shipping lately took, abounds with all the Necessaries of Life; a Proof of which, our Seamen have already experienced.

Advices from Paris say, that the Court upon receiving bad News from Canada and the East-Indies, had taken a Resolution to make, even late in the Season as it is, a great Effort in Germany; and if that fails them, a separate Peace will ensue, as the disordered and distracted State of their Finances, and their total Loss of Credit with foreign Courts, make it impracticable for them to continue the War. Whenever pacific Measures take Place, a very great, if not a total Change of the Ministry will ensue.

Several private Letters from the Hague mention, that the Hopes of a general Peace begins to prevail so strongly, that very considerable Betts are laid, that a Congress will be opened by the 15th of January.

It is now thought that the French Squadron, which lately failed under the Command of M. Rochmore, was at first designed to intercept our East-India Fleet, which is lately arrived.

The Yarmouth Man of War, Admiral Pocock, from the East-Indies, and the Colchester and Rippon Men of War from St. Helena, passed by Portsmouth on Sunday Morning for the Downs, with the following East-India Ships under their Convoy, viz. the Rhoda, M'Namara; Drake, Gibbon; Britannia, Blewet; Tilbury, Manwaring; Prince of Wales, Roberts; Walpole, Fenner; Hector, Williams; Edgecote, Pierce; Essex, Jackson; Chesterfield, Carter; all from China; Calcutta, Wilson, from Madras and Coast and Bay; Delaware, Larkins, from St. Helena, and Bencoolen; Duke of Dorset, Forrester, from Coast and Bay; Clinton, Smith, from Bombay; and the Prince Henry Packet.

The above Ships failed from St. Helena the 6th of June, and are the greatest Fleet of East-India-men that ever failed from that Place at one Time.

It is said that the Prince Henry Packet has brought over 80,000 Pagodas worth of Diamonds; and the Cargoes of the whole Fleet are reckoned worth near Two Millions Sterling.

Teas, from the Number of Ships arrived from China, may be reasonably expected at a moderate Price.

The French Courier, lately intercepted, carried a Plan of Broglie's Operations, for the whole Campaign, and that of a Suspension of Arms, in case the Success did not answer Expectation.

They write from the Camp of the Allies, that Prince Ferdinand was returned to the Army from the Tour he made incognito to Magdebourg. General Sporcken had the Command in his Absence.

Letters from Spain say, that the Communication with Gibraltar is opened again on the old Footing. The Devonshire, Hunter, from Boston to London, is taken and carried into Galicia.

The French Army, under M. Broglie, is in a very bad Condition, and is drove to such Straits, for Want of Provision, that they have employed some Jews to buy up 800 Head of horned Cattle at Geneva, for ready Money, who sent them away in great Halle for the French Army.

CHARLES-TOWN (South-Carolina) October 29.

On Friday last arrived an Express from Ninety-six, with Dispatches to his Honour, from Major Thomson and Mr. Miln; the Gentleman last named, writes as follows.

Fort Prince-George, October 15. "Yesterday arrived here Major Thomson and his Rangers, and has delivered me 2500 Pounds Weight of Flour, and the jerked Beef of 26 Steers, as Provisions for this Fort; with this Supply, and what we had before, I can maintain my Post for seven Weeks, in which Time I expect to see great Alterations in the Cherokee Nation. The Match brought by Major Thomson was as acceptable as the Provisions, we being quite out of that Article. As to forming any Notion of the Designs of the Indians, all that is known on that Matter is, that they said, when they went over the Hills, they were to have a general Meeting there and consult about a Letter proper to be sent to Charles-Town; they talked of going to Colonel Byrd, seemed pretty well pleased, and promised to bring the Prisoners down the first Opportunity. I intend to send a Talk to the Young Warrior of Estatoe, to let him know that the Indian Prisoners are on their Way to Ninety-six, and that I expect they will be there before the White Prisoners are brought out of the Nation, and endeavour to hasten the bringing them down. We have been very quiet since the Warriors went over the Hills, only the next Day thereafter, an Indian Fellow came to the Bottom of the Hill, on the opposite Side of the River, and fired at some of our People who were standing on the Parade without the Fort, this has made us be strictly on our Guard, but we have met with no further Trouble, and the Indians now come into the Fort, as usual. Major Thomson has likewise laid us in a Supply of Fire-wood. A. MILN."

Major Thomson writes from

Ninety-six, October 18. "I this Day returned from Fort Prince-George, without meeting with any Interruption. After I passed the Beaver-Dams I found the Indians had Spies out to observe our Motions. The Night I arrived at the Fort, all the Indians went from the Lower-Towns to the Mountains. In going up Lieutenant Mitchelson died of a Pleurisy, as did Captain Seaberry at my House, where I left him sick. I have dispatched James Jones to Fort Prince George, to bring me immediate Notice as soon as they hear of the Prisoners coming over the Hills. W. THOMSON."

W. THOMSON.

A Company of the Rangers are stationed near Congarees, to be in Readiness to escort the Cherokee Prisoners to Ninety-six. The others are employed in Recruiting and Scouting in the different Districts, agreeable to the Governor's Orders. A Number of the Horses belonging to the Rangers gave up in the March, and were obliged to be left in the Path.

Scarce hath any Article of News been received here with more general Joy than the above Accounts of the Relief of Fort Prince George. Major Thomson and his Men have merited and received great Praise. It is an Event of great Importance to this Province, and the public Interest in general, and reflects much Honour on the Lieutenant-Governor who planned it. Happy will it be, if the Negotiations with the Indians have a like Issue, or if any Measure can be fallen upon, whereby the Lives of 300 of our Fellow Subjects, now in the Hands of the Savages, may be saved, and they restored to their Country.

The following Account of the Transactions of the Cherokees, we have in the Hand-writing of the Person who signs it, and to the Truth whereof he has declared that he is willing to make Oath.

"The Indians, agreeable to their Resolution and Plan for attacking Fort Prince-George, prepared every Necessary for that Expedition. From the Time Capt. Stewart went off, till the 6th of September, they had several Meetings; at one of which, on the 3d of that Month, it was firmly resolved to march in six Days; the Prisoners were ordered to be all present at Chote that Morning, and one Robert Holmes, of Captain Paul Demere's Company, was to chuse as many as he thought sufficient to manage the Great Guns; those Things transacted, the Time to set out was again agreed on. M'Namar arrived with the Governor's Letter, three Days before the Time was expired. Next Day the Letter was read, to which the Indians did not seem to give much Notice; but M'Namar found Means to tell the Cora-Talki, and some more of his Friends, that Fort Prince-George

WEDNESDAY, December 24, 1760.

L O N D O N, September 23.

IN the London Gazette is published, under Whitehall, September 23d, 1760, the Copy of a Letter from Colonel Eyre Coote, who commands his Majesty's Forces in the East-Indies, to the Right Honourable Mr. Secretary Pitt, dated at Arcot Village, the 13th of February, giving an Account of the Situation of our Affairs on the Coast of Coromandel since his Arrival, and of our happy Successes; a Summary of which is as follows, viz. That on the 25th of November, 1759, he took the Field, and on the 27th invested Wandivash, and erected Batteries; and having made a Breach on the 30th, took the Place, and made the Garrison (which consisted of 5 Subaltern Officers, 69 private Men, and 800 Seapoys) Prisoners of War: There were in the Garrison 49 Pieces of Cannon, and a great Quantity of Ammunition. That on the 3d of December he invested Carangoly, and on the 10th, being near the Glacis, and having dismounted all their Guns but four, Colonel O'Kennelly, who commanded, sent out a Flag of Truce; and on Account of his gallant Defence, Colonel Coote granted him the following Terms: "That the Europeans should have Leave to march out with their Arms, two Rounds per Man, Drums beating, and 6 Days Provisions; the Seapoys to be disarmed, and turned about their Business." The Garrison consisted of 100 Europeans (Officers included) 500 Seapoys, and nine Guns. On the 20th Lieutenant General Lally arrived at Arcot, and took the Command; and on the 9th of January the Enemy were all in Motion. On the 10th General Lally marched with all his Army towards Wandivash; and Colonel Coote thereupon moved with our Army along the Banks of the River, in order to observe their Motions, and cover our own Country. That after several Skirmishes and cannonading each other, till the 22d, about One o'Clock, when a Shot striking one of the Enemy's Tumbrils, it blew up, and their whole Army gave Way, and ran towards their own Camp; but finding our Army pursuing them, quitted it and left us entire Masters of the Field, together with all their Cannon, except three small Pieces, which they carried off. The Number of Cannon taken is as follows; one 32, one 24, three 20, two 18, one 14, two 3, and two 2 Pounders Iron; three 6, four 4, one 3, two 2 Pounders Brass; in all 23 Pieces: Round Shot, 2000; Grape, 120; besides Tumbrils, and all other Implements belonging to the Train. Brigadier General Bully, in Chevalier Godrille, Quarter-Master-General, and a Number of other Officers, were taken Prisoners, most of whom were wounded.

The French reckon they had 800 killed and wounded, 200 of which our People buried in the Field; and have taken above 200 wounded Prisoners, besides 40 not wounded. The Loss on our Side is 5 Officers and 48 Privates killed; and 8 Officers and 41 Privates wounded; and among our black Troop, about 70 killed and wounded. The Enemy's Army, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Lally, consisted of 2200 Europeans, including Artillery and Cavalry, 400 Cofferies, and between 9 and 10,000 black Troops; 20 Pieces of Cannon in the Field, and 5 on their Batteries against the Fort; when they blew up a large Magazine of Powder upon their Retreat. Our Army amounted to 1700 Europeans, including Artillery and Cavalry; 3000 black Troops; 13 Pieces of Cannon, and one Howitz. That during the whole Engagement the Officers and Men have shewn the greatest Spirit. That the next Day Col. Coote sent a Detachment of Cavalry to harass the Enemy—and on January 26, finding that General Lally had retired with his broken Troops to Pondicherry, he sent Capt. de Vassiers with 1000 Horse, and 300 Seapoys, towards Pondicherry, to destroy the French Country, and marched the Army to besiege Chettiput. The next Day after, making a Breach, Le Chevalier de Tilly, with his Garrison, surrendered Prisoners of War, consisting of 4 Officers, 64 Privates, and 300 Seapoys, with 73 Europeans wounded; 9 Guns, and a good Quantity of Ammunition. That Capt. Smith had taken a Party he was sent after, of 10 Europeans, 50 Seapoys, and 2 Brass 8 Pounders, a Captain, and 2 French Commissaries. That on February 2d, the Army marched and encamped within two Miles of Arcot—and the Garrison of Timmery surrendered Prisoners of War; there were in it 8 Guns, 1 Sergeant, and thirty Men. That on the 4th of February, Colonel Coote having opened 2 Batteries against the Fort of Arcot, and on the 10th got within 60 Yards of the Glacis, the Garrison surrendered Prisoners of War: It consisted of eight Captains, 8 Subalterns, 236 Privates, and between 2 and 300 Seapoys: There were in it 4 Mortars, 22 Pieces of Cannon, and a great Quantity of all kinds of military Stores. We had during the Siege 7 non-commission'd and private killed; an Ensign and 26 wounded.

On the 5th of September in the Morning, the Hereditary Prince went from his Camp at Warbourg, to Martzberg, and at Eight at Night with five Battalions, and 150 Highlanders under Capt. L'Lean, and 8 Squadrons of Dragoons, passed the Dymel, having left their Tents standing: Proper Dispositions were made to surprize the Town of Zierenberg; Maxwell's Grenadiers, the Highlanders, and Kingley's Regiment, took different Roads, and met with none of their Enemies; when they came within Half a Mile of the Town, the Veterans of the grand Guard challenged them, but did not push forward to reconnoitre. Our Men marched in the most profound Silence, but the Noise of trampling on the Gardens alarmed them, and they began to fire; upon which our Grenadiers, who had marched with unloaded Firelocks, (as had been agreed on) ran towards the Town, pushed the Piquets, and having killed the Guard at the Gate, rushed into the Town, and drove every Thing before them; never was a more compleat Surprize. The Attack was so sudden that the Enemy had not Time to get together in Numbers, but fired out of their Windows. It was about Two o'Clock in the Morning the Attack began; and about Three the Prince ordered the Retreat, after we had taken M. de Norman and M. de Coneras, and 40 more Officers and 300 Men Prisoners; a considerable Number were wounded and killed. Our Men gave Quarter to all who asked it, and refused to take Money from the Prisoners who offered them their Purfes. General Griffin (who went into the Town with the Prince) received a Thrust in the Breast with a Bayonet, but it is a slight Wound; it was done by one of his own Men, who heard him talk French to a Soldier whom he had seized; Lord George Lenox had his Horse shot under him: It cost us but ten Men; though as it was dark it was difficult to distinguish between Friends and Foes. But as Day was coming on, and as we might be cut off from Warbourg, we returned the same Way we came, bringing off two Pieces of Cannon, and arrived there at Eight in the Morning of the 6th without Molestation.

Cork, August 20. Saturday died, about a Mile Distance from this City, James Macdonald; he was 117 Years and two Months old, and of uncommon Stature, being seven Feet six Inches high. His eating and drinking, while his Health continued, were more than proportionable to his Height; for he could eat near four Pounds of solid Meat at a Meal, and drink of strong Liquors in Proportion, without being in the least intoxicated. His Limbs were larger than his Height required, his Hands and Fingers being of that prodigious Size, that a Lady's Bracelet might have served him for a Ring. He was formerly shewn for Profit, but that Way of Life obliging him to be much confined, and his Health requiring a good deal of Exercise, he took to the less profitable Employment of a Soldier; and enlisting as a Grenadier, he served from the Year 1685 until after the Rebellion. In 1716 he returned to his native Country, where he had been a Day-Labourer until within these three Years.

CHARLES-TOWN (South-Carolina) November 1.
The Chactahs mentioned in our Paper of the 15th ult. arrived at Savannah that Day, and have had a Talk with Governor Ellis, who afterwards forwarded them hither, as it is probable good Uses may be made of them at this Juncture; and Yesterday they arrived here. They carried the Scalp they (with Duvall's Landlord, &c.) took to Georgia. Three of them are Men of Consequence in their Nation, who seem very inveterate against the French, and have declared, that should any Attempts be made by the English on the French Settlements at Louisiana, the greatest Part of their Nation would join them; not the Kings, they say, for they are corrupted and bought off by the French, but the Head-warriors and young Men. The following is the fullest Account we have yet received of what passed in their public Conference with Governor Ellis: It is in a Letter from Savannah, dated the 25th ult.

His Excellency, in a Manner peculiar to himself, and always agreeable to Indians, said every Thing that could give them favourable Impressions of us: He accepted their Scalp, as an Attonement for the Murder of a Pack-horse-man among them, by the French Party: He promised, that our Traders should have full Liberty to carry Plenty of Goods to their Nation; but observed, at the same Time, that the Creeks lay between them and us, and stood in the Door through which the Traders must pass; that it behoved the Chactahs to keep it open, for which End they should apply to the Creeks in a national Way, and insist, that no Injury or Interruption might be offered to such Traders as might be destined for their Country; and declare their Resolution to revenge any Attempt to spoil their Path: This, he told them, was what the Creeks had done to the Cherokees, when the War broke out with them, and that, by doing so, they had hitherto enjoyed an open Trade, in Spite of the Endeavours of the French to engage them in a War with us. In fine, he endeavoured to convince these Indians, that their Supplies from the English entirely depended on the Good or Ill-will of the Creeks towards them and us, which he recommended to them to bear in Mind, and represent properly to the Headmen of their Nation; and also, that we desired nothing more earnestly than to establish and maintain a friendly and commercial Correspondence. The Indians said a great Deal in Answer, which I have not Time to recollect; but approved and acquiesced in what the Governor told them; and they assured his Excellency that they would engage their Countrymen to keep the Path open, and take Satisfaction of the Creeks, if they did any Thing to hurt their Traders, or that might deprive them of their Trade. This Visit I look upon as a favourable Circumstance at this Time, as we are pretty sure the Creeks will attempt nothing to our Prejudice while they are among us; and if we can continue to amuse them in this Manner, perhaps we may be soon put into a Condition not to be terrified with every Rumour of their Motions and bad Talks, as we hitherto have been, especially of late. Governor Ellis will embark in the Scout-boat, for Charles-Town, in a few Days. We could not enough regret his Departure at this Time, was not his Place so worthily filled by his Successor, from whose Abilities and Integrity we assure ourselves of continuing as happy as the Situation and Circumstances of the Province will admit."

We hear, that on Sunday the 18th ult. a Party of Cherokees surprized, killed and scalped two old Men, near Pennington's Fort on Enore River, one named Llewelin, the other Hughes; and afterwards carried away Prisoners the Wife and the Son of the said Hughes. This Outrage is supposed to have been committed by a Gang which the young Warrior of Estahowih sent out, to take Satisfaction for the Death of the Indian killed by Captain Dorgan's Rangers, and will no Doubt be desired to be passed over by us as a Thing done in the Dark; which is however no Evidence, that the Cherokees have been humbled by the Terror of his Majesty's Arms, the Weight of which, we hope, they will yet feel.

BOSTON, December 1.

We hear from Halifax, that upon the Arrival of Colonel Montgomery's Highlanders there, the two Battalions of Royal Americans left that Place, to garrison his Majesty's Forts in that Province, and to relieve our Provincial Troops, who, we hear, are soon to be discharged.

Yesterday arrived here Captain Thompson in an armed Schooner of the Board of Ordnance, from Louiburg: In her came the Hon. John Henry Bastide, Esq; one of his Majesty's chief Engineers, and Director of the Works in the Demolition of the Fortifications on the Island of Cape-Breton.

December 8. There were the greatest Rejoicings in England on receiving Advice of the glorious Conquest of Canada.—It is but three Months (this Day) since it was completed, and yet the Account has been Home, and the Particulars returned here in so short a Time.—Major Pricot, who went in a Packet from New-York, with the Advice of the Surrender of La Gallette, was not arrived the Fifth of October, the Day Major Barry arrived from Quebec, with the News of the Surrender of Canada.

NEW-YORK, December 4.

On Monday last arrived here Capt. Cornelius Livingston, from the Musquets Shore. On his Passage here, on the 26th of September, on a desolate Island, or Reef of Rocks, about three Leagues from Attwood's Keys, which lie in Latitude 23. 10. Longitude 73. 35. he saw a Wreck, to which he sailed as near as he could, and sent his Boat, but found no Person on board. The People who had escaped from the Wreck to the Rock, seeing the Vessel, made Fires, and a Signal, and fired a Mufket they had saved. Captain Livingston sent his Boat to them, took them on board his Vessel, and has brought them to New-York with him. They are Thomas Jewison, late Mate of the Schooner Margaret, Capt. Moore, Henry —, a Boy belonging to the said Vessel, and a Frenchman;—from them we have the following Account:

The Schooner Margaret, Capt. Moore, sailed from Philadelphia about the 6th of August, bound to Jamaica; on the 13th, in Latitude 36. 3. they were taken by a French Schooner of 10 Guns, and 50 Men, belonging to Cape-Francois (who had before taken several Prizes) who took out all the Men, except the Mate and a Boy, and put five other Men on board, ordering the Vessel to the Cape. The Prize-Master and three more were Spaniards, the other a Frenchman. The Spaniards formed a Scheme to run away with the Vessel, and carry her to Barracoa, at the East End of Cuba, on the North Side; which Scheme they communicated to the Mate, who acted as Pilot, and promised him the Vessel, and Money to ballast her to Philadelphia. On the Thirteenth of September, they came in Sight of Hispaniola, when the Spaniards took Charge of the Vessel, told the Mate they had no more Business for him, he might go to sleep, they were then Pilots themselves. The Afternoon before, upon some slight Occasion, they stabbed the Boy, but it did not prove mortal; they had also beaten and abused the Frenchman. He then proposed to the Mate and Boy, to join in retaking the Vessel from the Spaniards, which they agreed to, and that Night carried their Design into Execution, by surprizing and destroying the four Spaniards; they then sailed to the Northward, intending for Providence, or the first Port they could make, but on the 14th at Night, run upon the Rocks aforesaid (being not noted in the Draughts of those Seas) they, with Difficulty, got ashore in their Boat, where they remained till Captain Livingston took them off on the 16th.

WILLIAMSBURG, November 28.

Last Week arrived in Town, from the Virginia Camp, Capt. John Stuart, one of the Officers of the unfortunate Garrison of Fort Loudoun, who had the good Fortune to make his Escape out of the Cherokee Nation, by the Assistance of the Little-Carpenter.

PHILADELPHIA, December 11.

On Monday last came to Town, from Pittsburgh, the Honourable Sir JOHN ST. CLAIR, Deputy Quarter-Master General of his Majesty's Forces in North America, and several other Gentlemen.—All quiet in that Quarter, and the Garrison very healthy.

Since our last some Companies of Vaughan's Regiment arrived here from New-York, which, we hear, are destined to the Westward.

December 18. We hear that one of his Majesty's 20 Gun Ships, commanded by Capt. March, was on the 11th of Pines; but that the People were saved, and got to the Savannah.

ANNAPOLIS, December 24.
By a late Northern Gazette, just come to Hand, we learn, That a Ship from London is lately arrived at Boston, by whom there is an Account, That Preparations are now making, with the utmost Expedition, for the greatest and most important Expedition that ever went out. It is said it will consist of all the Land Forces and Men of War that can possibly be spared out of the Kingdom, under the Command of Field Marshal Lord Viscount Ligonier: That on the 17th of October an Action happened between an advanced Guard of the King of Prussia's, and the Austrians, in which the Advantage was intirely on the Side of the Prussians, who, notwithstanding the Superiority of the Austrians, took 17 Pieces of Cannon, and kill'd and made Prisoners some Hundreds of them. That the Siege of Coburg was raised by General Werner, who arrived before that Place, after a most surprising March from Glogau in 11 Days: The Russians went off with great Precipitation, leaving their Tents, Cannon, Ammunition and Provisions, to the Prussians.

By the same Paper, we have an Account from South-Carolina, That all Prospect of a Peace with the Cherokee was vanisht; one Louis Lantier, a Frenchman born, once a Cadet in Capt. Nelson's Company of Independents, after that a Trader from Carolina to the Cherokee, (but now) a French Officer, had arrived with Presents from the French, and persuaded them to take up the Hatchet against the English. And that they were joined by the Creek and Savannah, and are supposed to be in all 6 or 6000, some say 7 or 8000: That they intended to lay Siege to Fort Prince George, and destroy all the Country before them. That they had full stores of Powders and Houses destroyed by Colonel Montgomerie, and had sufficient Supplies of Corn and Provisions (to which some of our own People contributed) so that they were in a Condition to carry on the War, and in a Disposition to do it with the utmost Fury. That they greatly despised the English, and treated their Threats with Contempt; especially since Colonel Byrd with his Army, notwithstanding his Menaces, was so far from being likely to molest them, that they were retired to winter in Augusta County. The Indians refused to accept of the Prisoners of their own Nation, in Exchange for ours, with the greatest Didain. This Account came by Express from the Governor of Carolina to his Excellency General Amherst, desiring his Assistance. 1 Sam. xv. 2. 3. Thus saith the LORD of Hosts, I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, how he laid wait for him in the Way—Now go, and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both Man and Woman, Infant and Suckling, Ox and Sheep, Camel and Ass.

By Captain Taylor, arrived at Philadelphia from Jamaica, we learn, that his Majesty's Ships Hampshire, Boreas and Lively, fell in, and had a smart Engagement, with five French Frigates, of good Force; when they took two of them; run ashore and burnt two others, one of which is said to be M. Chateaux's Ship; and the Fifth, with some Vessels that were under their Convoy, escaped.

Monday Night last Died here, after a few Days Illness, Mr. Patrick Conroy, Merchant, who had long been a very useful, industrious, and honest Inhabitant of this City.
