LONDON, February 27.

TERRIBLE accident happened a short time since at Clermont Ferrand, a town in France. A number of young persons were collected together for a private theatrical. They had chosen for their theatre, a large room in a ruinous house, occupied by a peasant. Having distributed a great number of tickets, the room was crowded. The representation began, the joists gave way, and the whole company, actors and spectators, fell together into a cellar. Notwithstanding immediate assistance was given, 36 of the unfortunate people died on the spot; of those who escaped alive, 57 had broken limbs, or were badly wounded; and the rest were only considerably bruised.

The following story is in circulation at the west end of the town: his majesty is reported to have sent for Mr. Pitt, and stated, that the prince had applied to him upon the subject of his debts in so earnest a manner, that his parental feelings could no longer resist his royal highness's importunity, and therefore begged that Mr. Pitt would move the house to vote a sum adequate to their discharge. Mr. Pitt, upon hearing this, is stated to have respectfully remonstrated with his majesty upon the subject, and urged the utter impossibility of his rising to make a motion of the sort, after having, on the last occasion, pledged himself to the house not again to come forward with any motion of a similar kind.

His majesty is said to have still persisted in stating, that he would not forego his purpose; upon which, after endeavouring in vain, by argument and reason, to persuade the king of the impropriety of the measure, Mr. Pitt returned his majesty his most grateful thanks for his favourable opinion of his former services, and having declined any further responsibility as a minister, respectfully took his leave.

As soon as Mr. Pitt had retired, the king is reported to have communicated to the queen all that had passed, at the same time acquainting her that Mr. Pitt had resigned, and was no longer in office; a communication which it is said gave great pain to the person to whom it was made; but after six hours reflection and consideration with those on whose advice his majesty could best rely, he is reported to have altered his royal opinion; and having seen the conduct of his former minister in its proper point of view, to have sent for him and assured him, that as upon reflection he was perfectly satisfied with his arguments, he desired him to continue in office, informing him that he would pay the whole of his royal highness's debts himself!

It is expected that the minister will move the house shortly for an increase of the income for his royal highness in future.

PORTSMOUTH, (N. H.) March 31.

By a gentleman immediately from Montreal we are informed, that the Messias chief has actually made a visit to that place—that he was in company with him at the interpreter's house—that the accounts we published in the Spy of the 24th instant, were true—would our informant that they had killed 1400 of the whites, and that he was determined to try them once more: his business at Montreal was to procure ammunition, and assemble the chiefs of some other tribes to assist in the next expedition; what success he met with in the second part of his business our informant could not ascertain; as to the first, he was plumply denied, and a heavy fine by government is laid on any person that is known to supply him with one ounce of any kind of ammunition; on meeting with such a disappointment he appeared not a little mortified: our informant is of opinion that the Tories will give him all the assistance in their power; many of them assisted at the late unfortunate defeat.

PITTSBURGH, April 14.

On Sunday the 1st of April two lads were missing from the waters of Wheeling, and three parties in a short time went in pursuit of them.—One party, the first out, had crossed the Ohio, and were on the opposite bank at the place where the Indians intended to cross, at the same time the Indians had reached the river, and our people were unfortunately discovered by them. The Indians fled down the river. Captain Paul, at this time (the second party) was about half a mile in the rear, and the third party lower down the river. Coming up to the place which the Indians left when discovered, found they had tomahawked and scalped the two boys, and also had tomahawked on the left side of the head another lad which they had taken. The boy who had not been missed—they had scalped him and cut his throat, but so high under the chin as not to be mortal, and though he will lose an eye, will however. This lad had come to himself and left the place where he was wounded in this desperate manner before our people came up, and had got upon one of the horses which the Indians had stolen, and which they were obliged to quit, and had rode three miles into Grave creek settlement. On Wednesday following, a woman was killed and scalped near Mr. Brice's meeting house, within two hundred yards of the great road leading from Washington to Wheeling, and fifteen miles within the settlement.—In consequence of the above information Absalom Baird, Esquire, lieutenant of Washington county, has ordered out a party of militia.

A man whose name I do not recollect being on Thursday the 5th instant, at the house of the family of the name of Edgar, they were talking of removing to another house of the name of Humphreys; going back to Edgar's on Friday about noon, he found the family gone, and supposing they had gone to Humphreys, went over there, and when within some distance of the house, saw a number of mangled carcases, instantly made his retreat, and brought in the intelligence. These families consisted of upwards of twenty persons, young and old. The settlement is under a general alarm, and Wolf's old fort is talked of as the place of stand. This is within five miles of the town of Washington.

A letter from Wheeling fort, dated the 4th instant, says, "We are informed by Mr. Whistel, one of our spies, who arrived here last night about midnight, that he made discoveries of two parties of Indians, hunting on the head waters of Capteenah; that he believes a larger party of Indians was not far distant, and supposes they will cross the Ohio at the mouth of Fish creek."

FROM A CORRESPONDENT.

Saturday last two large boats with 100 barrels of flour, and two waggon loads of whisky and beef on board, arrived here from Canonsburgh down Chartiers creek, without sustaining the least damage. What a saving would it be to this country if proper attention was paid by our legislature to the improvement of such streams which by a small expence could be made navigable throughout the year.

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Lancaster, to his friend in Philadelphia, dated April 16, 1792.

Last Thursday, about noon, arrived at Columbia, (Wright's ferry on the Susquehanna) Messieurs Neaff and Keller, from the Standing Stone on Juniata, with their boat, of an extraordinary size, laden with 1050 bushels of wheat, several hundred weight of hemp, a great quantity of gun stocks, &c. &c. The arrival of this boat was announced to us, by a letter from Mr. Samuel Wright, on Friday morning, with an invitation to such gentlemen as had curiosity to see her, to come up. A number of us set out for Lancaster immediately. On our arrival we found, to our surprise, a boat of an amazing size, but simply constructed, without the least particle of iron about her, except the hand pump. She is 80 feet in length, and 14 feet wide. When launched she drew only 8 inches water, and after receiving the above load drew only 19 inches. From appearances and the height of the river, she might have taken at least 2000 bushels on board, without the least risk. She did not cost above 40 dollars. A number of gentlemen purpose purchasing her, and to leave her at the ferry until fall, chafing her, and to leave her at the ferry until fall, for those that have curiosity to see her. Thus you see that our Canowage Falls, which have been for many years considered as so great an impediment to the navigation of the Susquehanna, are now found to be a very trifling obstruction. Large quantities of wheat have likewise been brought down to Wright's ferry upon rafts.

The owners of the boat intend, immediately on their return, to build another of about 100 feet in length and 18 or 20 feet in width, which they say will carry at least 2500 or 3000 bushels. Numbers of raft men, who were at Wright's, have taken the dimensions of Neaff and Keller's boat, and it is expected that grain will be brought down the river from that part of that kind: they are not exact quarters, in boats of that kind: they are not exact quarters, for though they will not do to take back again, yet the timber and boards being at all times worth half of the first cost, the loss will be inconsiderable. Notwithstanding the jealousy of the Philadelphians, who have taken all possible means to prevent a canal being cut through Dr. Harris's land, when a company applied to the legislature for that purpose; and who when they wished to carry their canal, thought nothing of cutting up the lands of hundreds to pieces to answer their own ends. I have no doubt that they have mistaken their object and are blind to their interest.

P. S. I neglected to mention, that several hundred persons attended yesterday at the ferry to see the boat; that a number of millers vied with each other in their endeavours to encourage a good price for the grain, and to promote an emulation among others, in the prosecution of this pleasing business."

Extract of a letter from Lisbon, dated 15th February, 1792.

"The queen being in a very ill state of health, has sent the enclosed decrees to the tribunals, the prince continuing the public business, and signing all state papers in her name. We are all very much affected at the situation of so good a sovereign, the disorder having attacked her head so that she has lost the right use of her senses."

TRANSLATION OF THE DECREES.

The administration of public affairs having devolved upon me by the notorious disability of our lady the queen, and the physicians having declared that all application to public business would be injurious to her health. Yielding therefore to circumstances and unavoidable necessity, and to the will of the said queen, which has opportunely been made known, I have resolved to attend in council and sign public dispatches in her name, without making any alteration in the accustomed forms, so long as the said impediment shall last, or until she shall be pleased to order it otherwise.

(With the flourish of the prince our lord.)

Extract from a letter from major George McCully, dated 14th April, 1792.

"I have the pleasure to inform you, that Dunwoodie's waggons arrived here on Monday the 10th, in the evening. On Wednesday I had captain Smith's company mustered, armed and equipped; and on Thursday they commenced their march to take post at Big Beaver and Yellow creeks. We want but five privates to complete the whole corps under my command, &c.

"It is reported that one woman has been killed within the bounds of Washington county; but I have not official accounts of this from captain Paul, who commands in that neighbourhood: on the contrary, I had a letter from him, dated the 1st of April, in which he says, that no discoveries of Indians have been made, and that all is well.

"To-morrow major Irwine and myself set out to view the lines, and muster captain Paul's and captain Guthrie's companies."

By a gentleman lately arrived here, we learn, that general Bowles, who has figured some time past as an Indian chief, is now on his way to visit Old Spain. He had commenced his passage from New Orleans, on board a government cutter, attended by a military escort.

It is presumed that he may have some accounts to settle in Spain respecting goods that he has taken from certain stores in Florida, without the consent of the owners.

Extract of a letter from an officer of the 2d United States regiment, to a gentleman in Providence, dated Marietta, March 13.

"Such has been the severity of our winter, that the Ohio and Mulkingum rivers have been passable upon their surfaces with teams;—a circumstance very unusual in this country.

"To this inclemency we may however ascribe, in a great degree, the pacific deportment of the neighbouring Indians; they having been confined by the rigour of the season to their respective towns, in consequence of which we have been at leisure to erect an additional block-house, and otherwise strengthen our works.

"The garrison having been reinforced by the arrival of lieutenant Howe and 30 men from Pittsburgh, we are now in a situation to afford these bipeds of the forest a very warm reception, should they possess the temerity to provoke it.

"The settlement has not been molested since the action, nor do we apprehend any thing serious from an escalation. I am much pleased to hear of the spirited exertions for the next campaign, which I flatter myself will enable us to render a more favourable account of the enemy, among whom no small dissatisfaction prevails, in consequence of the partial distribution of their late booty. The Indians inhabiting the western extremity of the Lake were highly disgusted with the conduct of the Miamas, and told them in resentment that "in future they might fight their own battles." The account adds, that the Indian warriors, in the action of the 4th of November, amounted to 1500."

SAVANNA, April 5.

We learn from good authority, that general McGilivray has returned to the Creek Nation, and that the Indians have very lately given the strongest assurances of their disposition for peace. A great number of them are expected at the Rock Landing the 20th instant.

CHARLESTON, April 18.

By a letter received in town from the Rock Landing, we are informed, that on information of Mr. Bowles's having taken possession of the store of Messrs. Panton, Leslie and Co. the Indians had dispatched a party to put him to death, but were prevented by the Spaniards, who previously had sent a vessel with a number of soldiers; on their approach, the boat was sent ashore, to inform Bowles that the vessel was from the West.

Indies with goods for him. In consequence of this information, he came on board, when they seized him and immediately made sail for St. Augustine, where Mr. Bowles is now confined in the cattle.

Mr. McGillivray has wrote to Mr. Seagrove, that he will be at the Rock Landing about the beginning of May, with 3000 of the Creeks, in order to confirm the treaty and run the lines.

Annapolis, January 1, 1792.
At a meeting of the VISITORS and GOVERNORS of St. JOHN'S COLLEGE, in the state of Maryland, on Thursday the 10th of November last,

RESOLVED,
THAT this board, at the quarterly meeting in May next, proceed to elect a VICE-PRINCIPAL of St. John's College.
That it be the duty of the principal and vice-principal to teach some of the higher authors in Latin and Greek, certain parts of the mathematics, logic, and moral and natural philosophy; and that the departments of the said principal and vice-principal shall hereafter be ascertained with precision, on consideration of their mutual convenience and qualifications.
That the vice-principal shall be entitled to receive, for his services, a salary of three hundred and fifty pounds current money, rating dollars at 7/6 each, to be paid quarterly.

That persons desirous of, and qualified for, the office of vice-principal, be, by public advertisement, requested to make application to Mr. Charles Wallace, Mr. Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, and Mr. Alexander Contee Hanson, all of the city of Annapolis.
By order of the Board,
JOHN THOMAS, President.

N. B. The fundamental laws of St. John's college prohibit all preference on account of religious tenets or opinions.
As the appointment of a vice-principal is alone wanted to complete the plan of this rising seminary, the board will certainly proceed, at the time stated, to an election, provided a person qualified, in their judgment, for this important office, can be procured. The personal attendance of the candidate, although not positively required, will be obviously proper.

It may be useful to remark, that the salaries of all the professors and teachers have hitherto been paid with entire punctuality, and that the funds of St. John's college produce a certain annual income superior to all the appropriations which have been or probably will be made.

The Printers of news-papers throughout the United States are earnestly requested to insert the above resolve and remarks, and to repeat the publication as often as convenience will permit.

DUBLIN, February 28. CONFLAGRATION of the SENATE-HOUSE.

ABOUT half past four o'clock, yesterday afternoon, the sheet-iron funnel from one of the stoves, either that in the corridor, or that in the hall forming the western wing of the court of requests, which passed through the roof, close by the base of the great dome, was observed from the street to be on fire, but no further noticed until a few minutes past five, when the members in the house were alarmed by the tumultuous bustle of a number of the people passing and repassing, in seeming confusion, before the windows which, from the base of the dome, threw light into the house.

Immediately an alarm of fire was given, and the house filling with smoke, corroborated this alarm. It was thought, however, too trifling to interrupt the business of the house, when some one of the members who had discerned the fire from the street, and had made his way to the roof, looking down into the house from one of the ventilators, confirmed the apprehensions of those within, by saying the dome was surrounded by fire, and would tumble into the house in five minutes.

The speaker instantly put the question of adjournment—and all the members ran into the street, where they had the mortification to observe the flames bursting forth on all sides from the base of the dome, and the splendid pile crowned with all the horrors of conflagration.

In less than three quarters of an hour from the first appearance of ignition, the whole dome was surrounded by a volume of fire, which soon made apertures on all sides, by melting the copper from the wood work, and thus exhibiting the cavity of the dome filled with flames, like a huge furnace, and vomiting every moment torrents of fire.

The whole pile now presented a grand specimen of the horrible sublime—and struck the mind with the recollection of the Miltonic Pandemonium.

About half past six, the dome, burnt on all sides from its supporting principles, tumbled into the house with one great crash, and communicated the ruinous vicinity of its flames to every thing surrounding.

The house of lords was sitting, in debate, when the flames first broke out.

The flames were seen, from all parts of the town. The bells of St. Andrew's church rang an alarm-peace for two hours. The crowd of people collected was immense, and the regret poignant and universal, for this catastrophe of an ornament to the architecture of the metropolis.—Engines were brought from all sides; but their approach was so tardy, and, when they did come, the supply of water so very scanty, that the rapidity of the flames baffled all their efforts to prevent the total ruin of the place.

Parties of horse and foot from the garrison were immediately brought to keep off the populace, and prevent as well plunder to the chambers, as interruption to the fire men. The flames having spent their fury on the house of commons, spread their ravages to the rest of the building, and blended every thing combustible in the common ruin.

An immense volume of flames that filled the surrounding atmosphere, and the showers of fire that fell on all sides, threatened destruction to the vicinities at the rear of the building, so far as Fleet-Street, and even to the ships moored on Alton's Quay.

Happily and providentially the calmness of the night prevented the mischief that would otherwise have been inevitable.

The horror of this scene was in a great degree heightened by an apparent eclipse of the moon, which formed, in gloomy sadness, to murmur the event.

Thus fell the senate-house of Ireland—the most elegant and best accommodated in Europe.

We have the pleasure to learn, however, that the valuable library—and all the papers of importance, were saved.

About half past one o'clock this morning, the fire, which was then confined within the lower part of the house of commons, was almost extinguished.

March 1. Yesterday the members of the house of commons assembled in the coffee-rooms, as the house had been entirely destroyed by the fire of the day before.

The speaker said, he was happy in being able to inform the house, that notwithstanding the dreadful accident which had happened, none of the records or journals of the house were destroyed, except the roll which contained the signatures of the members, which had been burnt with the table upon the floor, in a chamber of which it lay.

A committee of the house met in the speaker's chamber, which escaped the conflagration. They sat a very considerable time, for the purpose of inquiring into the cause of the late dreadful fire which consumed the house of commons.

None but members were admitted into the chamber. We understand, however, that though several evidences were examined before the committee, nothing satisfactory transpired as to the real cause of that dreadful catastrophe.

BOSTON, April 19. NEWS FROM THE WEST-INDIES.

Since our last, several vessels have arrived from Port-au-Prince; all of which bring the most gloomy accounts of the situation of that island; the distresses of which appear to be owing, not more to the revolt and devastation of the slaves than to the enmity prevailing among the freemen, and the want of subordination to any government.

About the 13th of March, the negroes attacked the town of Leogane, set fire to the plantations on the plain, and were joined by the negroes thereon, who had till then been in quiet servitude: after much fighting and burning, the negroes retreated. Many were killed on both sides—the lowest number, including all parties and colours, is stated at 1000.

Captain Wollman of Salem, who sailed from Port-au-Prince the 23d of March, at evening, informs, that 1000 militia and 500 regulars marched out that morning, said to be on account of the insurrection of the negroes on several plantations on the plain, who had drove their masters into town.—That they were met and opposed by the mulattoes, whose head quarters were only four miles from the town.—That he saw numbers of the wounded brought into town while he was on shore.—That the battle continued all day—and that its issue was unknown when he sailed.

A detachment of the regular troops had been called for, by the municipality, to go to Leogane, at the time of the negroes attacking that place, and boats were prepared to transport them; but the officers refused to embark—as they said their orders were to defend the town of Port-au-Prince—they therefore could not answer for their quitting their station. For the same reason, they had also refused to march to the plains around Port-au-Prince. But the clamours of the populace, and of the private soldiers, being for action, the municipality caused the officers to be arrested, and sent to the Cape, in order to be carried to France. After this, new officers being substituted, the troops marched out, as before mentioned.

Extract of a letter from the house of Otis and Mackay, at the Cape, dated March 22.

"The troops begin to arrive, and we are in hopes something decisive will soon be done."

Captain Slewman, in the brig St. John, arrived at Salem from Cadiz last Saturday, in 45 days passage. A little before he sailed, orders were received at that port for 40 ships of the line to be made ready for sea immediately: this order was executing and several were already manned and equipped when captain Slewman sailed.—The object of this armament was not known. The disturbance with the Moors could not require it.

The French national colours were permitted to fly in the harbour; but the French officers were not suffered to wear the national cockade on shore: which will probably be the case, till the king of Spain formally acknowledges the legitimacy of the present government of France.

April 10. We are told, that a young gentleman, late of this town, now commands a corps in Tippoo SAIB's army, in India.

PITTSBURGH, April 21.

Saturday last sailed from this place, with a detachment of men to protect the settlement at Gallipolis, lieutenant Demler of the 2d United States regiment.

Thursday last arrived here from Fort Franklin, lieutenant Jeffers, of the 1st United States regiment, with a party of Seneca Indians, to scout on our frontiers with the spies and six months levies.

We are happy to contradict, in part, the paragraph under the Pittsburgh head, in our last, giving an account of the murder of 20 persons by the Indians, as from well authenticated accounts it appears, that only one woman and Mr. Edgar were killed.

We are enabled to inform our readers from good authority that captain Paul, who is stationed on the southwest frontier of Washington county, Pennsylvania, has erected a very strong block house on the Dunkard branch of Wheeling creek, a little above Mr. Ryerson's mills, from whence he makes almost daily excursions over the neighbouring grounds; by his vigilance, and the co-operations of his subaltern officers, who have nearly completed two other block houses, one on his left, the other on his right, each at a few miles distance, it is expected he will completely thwart the designs of any small parties of the savages that may approach that part of our frontier.

Besides those Indians which carried off and scalped the two boys mentioned in our last, there are evident signs of several small parties having prowled along the south west frontier of Washington and Ohio counties, particularly on Wheeling west of the Pennsylvania boundary.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.

Extract of a letter from Pittsburgh, dated April 20.

"Yesterday lieutenant Jeffers arrived in town from Fort Franklin, accompanied by 21 Indians of the Seneca nation, to which place he intends returning in the course of a few days, where he will be joined by 100 more, who are now out planting corn, for the support of their women until their return."

ADVICES FROM INDIA.

The French frigate the Thetis, M. Dupois commander, anchored on the 27th of November in the road of Brest. She left Pondicherry towards the end of August, and has had a most expeditious passage. A commissary-general of Pondicherry comes home to France, charged with two sealed mails from Tippoo, containing presents to the most Christian king. It was this ship carried back to Asia the ambassadors from Tippoo to France.

By this ship a number of letters were received in France from Pondicherry. The following is a letter from the gentleman resident there, who transmitted the first accounts of the check received by earl Cornwallis on the 15th May.

PONDICHERRY, August 1.

"All that I communicated to you in my letter of the 17th June last is certain. If the Mahrattas had not arrived so seasonably after the battle of the 15th of May, the English army would not have been able to reach Bangalore. They covered their retreat, and gave them food.

"After Tippoo retired to Seringapatam, and took his quarters, the English cavalry entered the province of Arcot, and encamped at Vellore and Arcot. There are in all not more than 800 white and black remaining, out of about 3000, of which they were composed in the beginning of February.

"Earl Cornwallis had ordered down from Bengal 111 elephants, which were lent to him by the nabob of Oued. Some of them were intercepted and carried off by Tippoo. The rest totally perished with hunger and fatigue.

"After the battle of the 15th May, Tippoo detached Coumordickan, his cousin, the son of Mir-sael, with a large detachment of artillery, to attack general Abercrombie. His army, consisting of between 10 and 11,000 fighting men at least, were alarmed at the sight of the nabob's troops, Coumordickan took advantage of the alarm, and carried off several pieces of cannon, the military chest, with four lacks of rupees, the baggages, the hospital and the sick, and killed and made prisoners a number of Europeans and blacks. The defeat would have been complete, if general Abercrombie had not thrown himself into the defiles of the mountains, where the horse could not act.

"Tippoo reposes himself in Seringapatam. He suffers the season of the rains to pass over, with the intention of taking the field again after the feast of Dassora, which finishes about the middle of September. In the mean time he has married his youngest son and several other of his relations, with great pomp and solemnity.

"I do not know if the English are in condition to make a third campaign, and to fulfil their object of besieging Seringapatam. It is certain that they are under the necessity of renewing entirely their tents and baggage, of remounting their cavalry, and of procuring between 30 and 40,000 draught bullocks, an article more difficult to procure than money. Their finances are exhausted. The premiums which they give with the company's bills are advanced to more than 25 per cent. More than a million of piastres sent from England arrived at Madras very seasonably to support their credit.

"Their army is exhausted by fatigue, and reduced to 15,000 men, of which 4000 only are Europeans; and it is hardly believed, that they can continue the war in their present situation, unless the other powerful princes of India shall assist them.

"Tippoo has brought from the Decan 20,000 horses to remount his cavalry; and he is making the most extensive preparations to defend himself. It is said, however, that a negotiation for peace is actually going on, with the concurrence of the Mahrattas and the Nizam."

FIRE AT MARBLEHEAD.

Marblehead, April 14, 1792.

Early in the evening of last Wednesday, a very alarming fire began in the dwelling-house of Mr. James Bowler, and entirely consumed it, four other dwelling-houses, and several shops and barns.—This melancholy event was occasioned by a child of Mr. Bowler, who had, unobserved, taken a lighted candle into the closet of an upper chamber, and there by some means caught a bundle of laths on fire. The child, frightened at the mischief, shut the doors of the closet and chamber, and ran down stairs, too young to be aware of the consequences, and afraid of correction, as he has since confessed, concealed the circumstance; and it was some time after he came down, that a neighbour, who had seen the fire spreading through the upper part of the house, informed the family of their danger. Mr. Bowler's dwelling house, and a bake-house under the same roof, were very soon wholly involved in the flame; and with the most timely assistance that could be afforded him, he was able to save only a part of his furniture and goods, and suffered the additional loss of many valuable articles and papers. The fire, spreading at first in the direction of the wind, caught a dwelling-house near to Mr. Bowler's, and, very soon after, three other dwelling-houses opposite to his buildings, and separated only by a very narrow street. The burning flakes flying from the houses on fire, and continually falling upon a long range of wooden buildings, and to a great distance, excited the most distracting apprehensions among the people assembled, and obliged many of them, for the preservation of their own goods, to withdraw their help from the immediate sufferers. A brick warehouse, standing upon a wharf at the foot of a rocky descent from Mr. Bowler's, and the wooden roof of which was contiguous to his house, also took fire, and a number of large warehouses on the same wharf were thought to be in great danger. The inhabitants had been very early assembled, with the three engines belonging to the town; but the men were comparatively few in number, a great proportion of the inhabitants being at sea. The wells in the neighbourhood were soon exhausted of water, and the tide being out, much time and labour were required to supply the engines from the harbour. Many women, with uncommon strength and fortitude, lent their assistance in this work, and, in this extremity, it was gladly accepted. But the efforts of the inhabitants, thus divided in the objects of their attention, and weakened by their fears, appeared to be unequal to the occasion. Their relief, however, was at hand; a great number of worthy inhabitants of Salem, on the first notice by the appearance of fire, and the ringing of the bells, set off from there with three engines, and in less than an hour arrived with them at Marblehead. Their order, readiness and vigour, had the desired success; and, by about an hour's unremitting exertions, with the favour of a fall of rain, several dwelling-houses in the most imminent danger were preserved, and the further spreading of the fire prevented. This timely and generous assistance from Salem, in all human probability, saved the town of Marblehead from suffering, in addition to its other late misfortunes, a very extensive ravage by fire. The important service is most heartily acknowledged, and will be very gratefully remembered by the inhabitants.

Mr. Bowler's loss is estimated at £. 1000. Mrs. Giles, a widow, lost a comfortable dwelling house, and almost all her furniture, and is in great distress. The other buildings burnt were not very valuable. It is remarkable, that from the commencement of the settlement in this town, until the late event (which is a period of above 160 years) no instance has happened of the entire loss of a dwelling house by fire.

BALTIMORE, May 5.

A gentleman just arrived at Winchester, from the Western Territory, south of the Ohio, confirms the intelligence contained in the extract of a letter from Roger'sville, in the Repository of Tuesday last. This gentleman further informs, that the Indians killed a family on Clinch river, a few days previous to his departure.—That McGillivray is using every means in his power to restrain the refractory Creeks from their outrages, but with what success time only can demonstrate, that it is certain Bowles has decamped from the Creek nation, that in consequence of his pretended ships, laden with goods, not arriving from England, he told the Indians they had been captured by the Spaniards, and prevailed on a few of them to assist him in plundering some of the Spanish stores, by way of redress—and that, for these nefarious acts, the Spanish governor had offered a reward of five hundred pounds for his head.

FROM THE KNOXVILLE GAZETTE.

KNOXVILLE, March 10. We have the pleasure to inform the public, that a few days past the Hanging Maw, John Watts, and John Taylor, three noted chiefs of the Cherokees, paid a visit to the governor, at this place, and gave him the strongest assurances of the peaceful disposition of their nation.

March 24. We are sorry to inform our readers, there is too much reason to apprehend, that the towns of Running-Water, Nickajack, Long-Island villages, Crow-town and Lookout Mountain of the Cherokees, will join the Shawanese and Creeks, in hostilities against the United States.

The four first of these towns lie on the south bank of the Tennessee, and are the common crossing places of the Creeks and northern tribes, as they pass from one nation to another, which is very frequent; and the fifth is situated on a creek of the same name, about twelve miles south of the other four, all quite detached from the other towns of the Cherokees, being divided therefrom by the Chitanna mountain.

The Little Turkey, the principal chief of the Cherokees, is so incensed at the conduct of these five towns, that he has forbid in positive terms, in a general talk, addressed to his nation, all intercourse with them.

Robert Peter, colonel William Deakins, Benjamin Stodert, Thomas Beall of George, John Threlhold, and Samuel Davidson, Esquires, George-Town. George Walker, Esquire, city of Washington. Wallace and Muir, and John Davidson, Esquires, Annapolis.

This scheme contains several very valuable lots of land contiguous to the city of Washington, whose increase in value will keep pace with the growth of the rising empire of the United States of America—Hence, therefore, without any further definition, it will be evident that for the small sum of one Guinea a valuable and beautiful country seat may be obtained in the vicinity of the capital of America; or a lot in a town now possessing an extensive commerce.

The subscriber proposes drawing this Lottery in George-Town, on the first Monday in May next, or sooner, if the tickets are all sold, which he flatters himself will be the case from his present prospects. Deeds, with a general warranty, will immediately be given for the lots of land, and the money for the cash prizes will be paid on demand. Notice will be given of the drawing in the public papers, and a list of the fortunate numbers will be immediately published. The crop now on the lots is reserved to the subscriber. A plot of the lots may be seen at Mr. George Mann's.

THE last sessions of the Diet have been occupied by the establishment of a new constitution, which has been the subject of much discussion. An object, however, of moment still remains unaccomplished, which is the acceptance of a new crown by the elector of Saxony, and the formation of the new constitution, which will be the result of the new constitution, and heretofore the subject of much discussion. On Monday the following letter, in the name of the king, was received by the mayor and the council:

GENTLEMEN,

I HAVE already mentioned to some reports which are spread about my pretensions to the crown of France. I thought that what I mentioned to you was sufficient for discrediting these reports; but since I have seen that some well-minded people continued to propagate them, I thought it necessary to explain to you my intentions, and to declare that I will explain myself clearly to you.

I know the duties which the constitution imposes on me, I will always fulfil them; but I will never use the power of making use of them. Nothing is more necessary to me, than to see that I am not the cause of any disturbance in the kingdom; and whenever I shall have an opportunity, I shall not disguise them.

I have to add, that if a person is not sensible of the use of his senses, or incapable of entertaining the least doubt of his attachment to the welfare of the nation, he cannot be a citizen of France.

The municipality ordered the letter to be printed, and posted up, and a deputation to express to his majesty the happiness of the nation, and of regard to the welfare of France.

That his Imperial majesty does not intend to form an alliance with France; that he never will interfere in the internal affairs of the kingdom; and that he will only see the person of the emperor in the kingdom threatened with a total conquest, he entered into engagements with the powers of Europe, to secure the tranquillity of the kingdom, if necessary, that the political engagements which France has contracted, and which are necessary to save her from the engagements which she has contracted, depend on what shall pass in France.

MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, MAY 17, 1792.

WARSAW, January 21.
HE last sessions of the diet have been occupied by the establishment of tribunals, which has been regulated to the satisfaction of the king. An object, however, of much greater moment still remains undecided— which is the acceptance of the hereditary crown by the elector of Saxony, and the constitution of the new constitution, which rests entirely on that basis. The matter, we are fully satisfied, since the arrival of count de Riancourt from the court of Dresden, which took place on the 15th instant, is in agitation; and the success of it, it is evident, depends on the manner on which Russia explains herself respecting the new constitution, and her guarantee of that which was given to the republic in 1775. The elector has sufficiently indicated that his resolution depends upon it. We therefore are impatient to learn the result of the opinions which are formed on that subject by the courts of Vienna and Petersburg.

MADRID, January 6.
They write from Cadix, that the Florentine, the king's frigate, is there ready to sail. She has on board 200,000 piasres, and a great quantity of arms and ammunition; amongst the former are 8000 fusils. Conjectures are formed as to her destination, but they dare not advance any thing positive touching it.

PARIS, February 17.
On Monday the following letter, in the king's own hand, was received by the mayor and the municipality:

GENTLEMEN,
I HAVE already mentioned to some of you the reports which are spread about my pretended leaving Paris: I thought that what I mentioned of it would have been sufficient for discrediting these reports; but evil-minded people continued to propagate them in order to alarm the inhabitants of Paris, and to calumniate my intentions, I will explain myself clearly on my way of thinking.

"I know the duties which the constitution imposes upon me, I will always fulfil them; but I also know the rights it gives me, and I will never refuse myself the power of making use of them. Nothing keeps me in Paris but my will of being there, as I think my presence necessary, and I declare, that I will and shall remain there; and whenever I shall have reasons to leave it, I shall not disguise them.

"I have to add, that if a person is not quite deprived of the use of his senses, or incurably perverse, he cannot entertain the least doubt of my inviolable attachment to the welfare of the nation, and the inhabitants of Paris.

The municipality ordered the letter to be entered on their minutes, printed and posted up, and appointed a deputation to express to his majesty their deep sensibility of this new assurance of his attachment to the happiness of the nation, and of regard for the citizens of Paris.

Trial by jury is now established in Paris, and will be so in the rest of the kingdom as fast as the necessary arrangements can be made.

March 1. The three generals are still at Paris. Laxner is supposed to advise war, Rochambeau peace, and Fayette an offensive-war in preference to defensive.

A division is talked of among the ministry, of which the minister of marine is the cause. Two of his colleagues are of opinion that it is impossible to support a man against whom the public opinion is so pointedly declared; and the rest, that he ought not to resign, and must be supported.

The emperor's answer to the king's late representations, was communicated to the diplomatic committee on Tuesday, and is expected to be laid before the assembly this day. It is long and elaborately ambiguous. The substance on the most favourable interpretation is:

That his Imperial majesty does not wish to dissolve his alliance with France; that he never meant to interfere in the internal affairs of the kingdom, nor to disturb the order of things established by the new constitution—only seeing the person of the king in danger, and the kingdom threatened with a total dissolution of government, he entered into engagements with the other powers of Europe, to succour the king and his kingdom, if necessary; that the political state of Europe, and the rank which France holds in it, made such engagements necessary to save her from ruin; that these engagements still exist, but that the execution of them depends on what shall pass in France; and that if the person of the king shall be menaced, if the republican spirit shall make such progress as to attempt the subversion of the monarchy, his Imperial majesty will find himself obliged to interfere, in concert with the other powers, who have an interest in maintaining the order and the balance of Europe. It inveighs against the republican spirit and the Jacobin societies, and concludes with a requisition for publishing it, that France and all Europe may be informed of his Imperial majesty's desire to live in peace with the French nation, as long as the king and the new constitution accepted by him, shall be respected as they ought.

Yesterday the Prussian minister presented a declaration, professing the adherence of his master to all the points of the emperor's answer.

FRANKFORT, February 12.
The emperor's troops certainly march to Brigau, and they only wait the answer to the requisitorial letters for their passage to put themselves in motion: 20,000 men will be drawn from Bohemia, of whom 12,000 will proceed to Franconia, under the command of general count Wallis, and 8000 to Stabia.

This measure, however, is only to cover the frontiers of the Low Countries, and the Austrian possessions in Silesia; but even, on that supposition, it is a measure that cannot fail being attended with bad effects.

They write from Berlin that the foreign department was never so occupied as at the present moment: couriers arrive and depart daily, chiefly to Petersburg and Vienna. The affairs of France and Poland are the object of their labours.

LONDON, February 2.
Never was this country, or perhaps any other, in such flourishing circumstances as we have now the satisfaction of beholding Great-Britain. We are, at length, arrived at that happy era predicted some time ago by Mr. Pitt, when substantial relief can be given to the burthens of the people, with the utmost propriety. The articles upon which the minister means to reduce the duty, are those immediately affecting the lower classes of the community, and even a trifling diminution will be allowed to be of importance to them.

We have heard of "Proud days for England"—but what a truly proud day was Monday last for Mr. Pitt!—A flourishing exchequer, an army and navy establishment to be reduced, and a large annual sum to be reserved for paying off the national debt, and the public to be eased of 200,000l. annually, in taxes.

The enemies of the minister affect to say, that he takes off taxes merely to increase his popularity. That popularity should be the consequence of his having acted so admirably for the public interest, is only ascribing to the people of this country a very moderate share indeed of penetration, honesty and common sense.

Feb. 13. We hear that his majesty has given 500l. as a present to the widow of the late Mr. Sutherland, and had settled a pension of 300l. a year on her for life; but the news of this cheering circumstance had not reached captain Sutherland when he committed the rash and unjustifiable attempt on his life.

The tanning trade in Ireland is reduced to a state of the most alarming discredit, inasmuch that not only the exportation of tanned hides is comparatively trifling to what it was some years ago, but a considerable importation of that manufacture has actually taken place at Dublin.

The very exorbitant price of sugar, we are confidently told, has so lessened the consumption of it in Bristol that the grocers heavily complain of the almost total loss of their trade in that article.

Feb. 16. According to letters from the continent, the Russians have laid up no fewer than 60 men of war at Cronstadt.

Upon an accurate survey, made since new-year's day last, the new buildings round London, which have been constructed in the course of ten years, are no fewer than 70,000 dwellings.

Feb. 20. An attempt is making to add the whole of the Rev. Mr. Wesley's community to the number of the Anti-Saccharites. It was begun by his successor, Dr. Coke, in a sermon on Sunday se'nnight, and is spreading in all their congregations since that period.

The price of sugar will immediately experience a reduction, in consequence of the drawback on that article having been taken off.

BRISTOL, February 22.
Should success attend the enterprise of civilizing the natives of Africa, and it be found possible to lead them from their former practices of making slaves of each other, we are told it will open to this kingdom fifty million of people, who may, in a few years, become purchasers of our manufactures, furnishing us in return with raw materials, from which the ingenuity of our artists may open new sources of trade.

Sunday se'nnight the inhabitants of Portland were alarmed by a great shaking of the earth, which continued, at intervals, until the evening, and in the course of the night the piers, and a great quantity of the rock, gave way, including a space of more than half a mile square.

WINDSOR, (Hertford) April 3.
We hear from Clinton county, in the state of New-York, that three Indians had been hunting the last season, and had procured a large quantity of fur; when two of the Indians agreed to take a tour of hunting for three days with two white men belonging to a town near Plattsburgh, and left the third Indian in the old hunting camp, to guard their skins and fur; and at the end of the three days, when they returned to the camp, to their surprize, they found the Indian murdered, and the camp robbed and plundered of all its valuable contents.—Enraged at the horrid deed, they pursued their course to the nearest settlement, which was about seven miles, where they met a man, of whom they inquired if he had seen two men with large packs of beaver, &c. The man gave them such an unsatisfactory answer, that they determined to turn about and follow him a little way, to see if he was not carrying provisions to the two men they were in pursuit of. They had not followed him far, when they came upon them, feeding upon the provisions which the man had just brought them.— Here was a time for revenge—they immediately fired upon the three men, and killed one of them dead on the spot, namely, Sampson Bean, formerly of Stafford, in this state; the other two men made their escape, and have left the country.—The Indians, in their turn, loaded themselves with the peltry and departed, after cutting and hacking poor Bean to pieces in a most shocking manner.

The most probable conjecture is, that Bean and his partner, being determined to rob the Indian's camp, laid the plan to get them from it in the manner heretofore related.

PHILADELPHIA, May 7.
The following proclamation is copied from the St. Christopher's Royal Gazette, of April 12, 1792.

ST. CHRISTOPHER,
(L. S.) By his excellency William Woodley, Esquire, captain-general and governor in chief in and over all his majesty's Leeward Carribee islands in America, chancellor, vice-admiral and ordinary of the same, &c. &c. &c.

WHEREAS it has been represented to me by his majesty's council, of the island of St. Christopher, that the said island is in great want of all kinds of lumber and provisions for the common use of the inhabitants thereof; I do therefore, by virtue of the power and authorities to me granted, by an act, entitled, "An act to continue the laws now in force for regulating the trade between the subjects of his majesty's dominions, and the inhabitants of the territories belonging to the United States of America, and to render the provisions thereof more effectual"—hereby permit and authorize the importation of lumber, of any sort, until the first day of August next ensuing, and of flour, corn, corn-meal, and ship-stuff, until the 20th day of May next ensuing, and no longer, from any island in these seas under the dominion of any foreign European sovereign or state.

Given under my hand and seal, at St. Christopher, this fifth day of April, seventeen hundred and ninety-two.

Wm. WOODLEY.

By his excellency's command,
JOSEPH WOODYEAR, Secy.

Extract of a letter from major McCully, dated Pittsburgh, April 3, 1792.

"I had the pleasure of writing you by the post, from Greensburgh, on my way to the frontiers of Westmoreland county.—I there mustered captain Guthrie's company, who are now stationed on the frontiers.

"As I mentioned in my last, I have purchased a number of rifles, which the soldiers take as their own property: they have been appraised at twelve dollars, agreeable to your estimate, though they cost more money here.

"I have drawn a bill on you in favour of the bearer Mr. William Irwin, which I will thank you to accept, and deduct the sum out of the next pay-roll. Mr. Danwiddy's waggon has not yet arrived, I have heard they will be here on the 7th instant. Should it be the case in two days after I shall have all my corps at their proper stations. By the next post I flatter myself I shall have the honour of informing his excellency governor Mifflin, that the whole of the corps will be out, and the position they have taken for the cover of each county."

Extract of a letter from major Irwin dated Pittsburgh, April 7, 1792.

"Received per post your letter, with the blank returns, the governor's warrant for mustering the rifle-men under major McCully, &c. Shall, soon as possible, enter on this business, and forward the returns for the month of March: No pains shall be wanting, on my part, to execute the whole, to the satisfaction of the state.

"We have no news at present.—The Indians have not appeared on our frontiers as yet.—The season is approaching, when they may be expected: we hope to give them a warm reception. Our militia at this place are in high spirits, and tolerably well prepared."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman, dated Wheeling, April 25.

"The people of Pittsburgh have laid their plans for the retaining all the troops at that place, and of course will reap all the advantages arising from our western army in furnishing them supplies, &c. and, from present appearances, mean to retain them instead of their being distributed along the river for the purpose of protecting the frontier inhabitants. The Indians are very troublesome in our neighbourhood. Within three weeks they have killed eight people, and within the distance of forty miles have killed more than double the number. They have plundered and conveyed off a great number of horses. We have daily alarms of their making inroads into our settlements, but through the vigilance of what few men we have are prevented from doing that mischief they otherwise would commit. I can't say my situation is extremely dangerous with respect to my dwelling, but still we can't go a mile or two but there is danger along all the roads; our inhabitants are thick settled but still feulking parties steal in and do mischief; as for large parties we are under no apprehensions of receiving any injury from, as they cannot come into our settlement undisturbed."

Extract of a letter from Thomas Rycerson, Esquire, dated Morrisville, April 26, 1792.

"The Indians are cutting us to pieces—my place has been attacked; several killed and made prisoners, and cattle destroyed, we are in great confusion, my horses are all taken by the Indians as you will probably see by the news-papers."

Extract of a letter from major McCully, dated Pittsburgh, April 27, 1792.

"I am this moment going to let out for the frontiers of Washington. I find the Indians are very troublesome in that quarter. Exclusive of captain Paul's company, I detached lieutenant Stevenson with 20 men, to assist in covering the frontiers of that county; yet I find the Indians have come in and taken a block-house, on the line between the state of Virginia and Pennsylvania. This block-house had been manned with nine Virginia soldiers, who, for some causes had been called away; and the day the soldiers left the place, the block-house was taken by the Indians, four persons killed, and eight carried away prisoners, with a number of horses. There have some horses been taken away from Mr. Rycerson's; there were also two horses laden with provisions and ammunition, belonging to captain Paul's company, going from one station to another: Captain Paul immediately pursued, retook the horses and provisions, and ammunition, with a number of Indian articles; but the Indians made their escape. It is a very hilly country, and there is no probability of tracking Indians on the high dry ridges. The Indians have made their appearance on every frontier-post of the state; though no person killed but in Washington county. From the number of Indians discovered, at different places, I cannot help observing, that I think the three companies under my command too few for a complete defence. We have had no assistance from the federal troops as yet."

Extract of a letter from St. Eustatius, dated April 11.

"Our plain is in the utmost confusion, owing to a heavy rain which fell in the three last days of last week. On Saturday it rose to such a height as to overflow all the water courses at once, and in the night when one knew not the situation of another, and every communication was cut off in an instant, from New Path Down. The houses were filled, some gave way, the doors and windows of many burst, and much damage is done; the inhabitants are yet employed in digging their effects out of the earth. No estimate made as yet of the general loss. Mr. —, whose buildings were all new, and the best ever erected in the country, has been the greatest sufferer; I believe he computes in what he has yet discovered from a thousand to twelve hundred joes loss. From the Path upwards, little damage has been sustained; Messrs. —, some small loss; but my place, which from its situation, was considered to be in the most eminent danger of any in the country, has sustained no injury, nor have I lost a shilling that I yet know of."

"Yet are we still in dreadful suspense, the weather continuing a dreadful appearance.—The town of Basseterre, St. Kitt's, has suffered greatly. I enclosed you a slip of a news-paper, that gives a small idea of it; upwards of thirty lives have been lost; in this place only one."

May 10. We hear that a Stockbridge Indian is arrived in town from Canada, with information that a general meeting is shortly to be held at French Creek, to consist of two sachems and two warriors of each of the tribes of Indians now at variance with the United States. The objects of this meeting are said to be—to consult on their general interests—the several deputies to lay before the meeting a statement of the causes of the existing hostilities; and finally to endeavour to bring about a treaty with the general government, for the purpose of establishing a permanent peace."

The American intercourse bill had, when the late accounts left England, undergone a second reading in their parliament; but no commercial prohibitions whatever had taken place, except the enforcement of the act of Charles the second, forbidding American produce to be imported in foreign bottoms into the islands of Guernsey and Jersey."

French papers of a late date inform that M. de la Peyrouse, the celebrated French circumnavigator who was wrecked in the Indian seas, has at length returned to the Cape of Good Hope, with about one third of his crew. They are said to have undergone every thing, in the line of suffering, that it is possible for human nature to bear.

NORFOLK, May 5.

Extract of a letter from Antigua, April 12.
"I can say very little respecting this country, that can afford you any degree of pleasure; therefore think it best to say as little as possible; however, there are some things which I cannot look over, particularly the high prices of rum and sugar; the latter is now selling at 4l. per cwt. on the former there is no standing price fixed, but as high as 4s. 2d. to 4s. 6d. have been given; it is thought it will still rise, and indeed it is not likely that either article will fall in price this crop, owing to the great demand for them in the European markets, and the shortness of crops in this island."

"At present the island is almost burnt up with drought, and the cane fields nearly destroyed by that pernicious reptile the Borer—indeed the whole island wears a most melancholy aspect."

Extract of a letter from Nevis, dated April 9.
"We had on Saturday night last one of the most tremendous rains ever remembered in this island, which has done immense damage; whole acres of land washed away and great trees torn out by the roots. St. Kitt's has also suffered greatly: houses and families have there been carried off."

BALTIMORE, May 12.

The mail of the 9th instant, says—Yesterday the committee appointed to inquire into the causes of the failure of the late western expedition, made report; by which every part of general St. Clair's conduct, during the action of the 4th of November last, and previous to it, is fully justified.

ANNAPOLIS, May 17.

"On the 12th instant, at the seat of Osborn Sprigg, Esquire, in Prince-George's county, departed this life, Doctor DAVID CLARK, in the 26th year of his age. The pleasing, unaffected, and amiable manners, of this worthy young man, deservedly secured him the friendship, and his numerous virtues, which daily became more and more conspicuous, rivetted the affections, of all who knew him."

"Actuated by the purest motives of conduct, discharging all narrow, selfish, sordid views, manly and independent in his principles, he exhibited examples, though in the morn of life, of unshaken firmness and virtue, which would confer dignity on the most established and finished character!"

"He had a heart warmed with the most unbounded benevolence, nor was his hand less ready to keep pace with the source of his liberality.—In the discharge of those duties, which constitute generally the plan of life of all, as master, friend, husband, father, brother, citizen and christian, he was equalled by few, surpassed by none.—He met his dissolution like a christian—with that fortitude and resignation which spoke the most perfect obedience to the will of his God, and with that composure, serenity and piety, which proclaimed a happy hereafter in the land of spirits.—Let his disconsolate widow, and his two infant children, (pledges of wedded love) derive comfort from this pleasing reflection, that he who is the subject of their sorrows, lived universally beloved, and died universally regretted, by every description of persons who partook of his acquaintance. His remains were respectfully deposited the following day in the family burying ground."

force the doors, murder the persons who slept in the bank, and having plundered the vaults, the cash was to be conveyed to an armed boat, which was prepared for that purpose.

LXINGTON, (Kentucky) February 18.

We have heard this morning that the Indians killed a man and woman on North Elk-Horn on Thursday evening last, near Grant's mill.

We are informed that about 50 Indians fired on a boat last week, on the Ohio, below the mouth of Kentucky, without doing any damage.

March 10. On Monday evening last the Indians stole 10 or 12 horses from near Grant's mill on North Elk-Horn; and on Tuesday night burnt two dwelling houses, together with all the household furniture belonging to the proprietors. They having left their routes late in the evening.

KNOXVILLE, April 21.

On Thursday morning the 5th instant, a party of five or six Indians went to the house of Harper Ratcliff, in Stanley Valley, about 20 miles from Hawkins court-house, and killed his wife and three children; plundered the house, and instantly made off. They left behind them three war clubs, a bow and sheaf of arrows. A company started immediately after them but returned without being able to overtake the savages.

We hear, that the company under the command of captain James Cooper, which was ordered to go to Mero district, have received orders to range on the frontiers of Hawkins county, for the defence and protection of the frontier inhabitants thereof.—They are to range from the Virginia line, to the Powder-Spring Gap in Clinch Mountain, and from Powder-Spring Gap to the river Holston.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Cumberland, to the Printers of this paper, dated April 2, 1792.

"The Indians have commenced hostilities against this country upon every quarter; we believe it to be the Cherokees and Creeks from the best information we can receive; they have lately taken a station and committed several murders and depredations upon our frontier settlements."

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.

By a Cape-François paper of the 15th ult. it appears that the rebellion in Leogane is in a great degree crushed. Two chiefs have been taken and have suffered, and the mulattoes in that quarter have laid down their arms.

May 18. By the ship Brothers, captain Anderson, arrived here on Monday last, seven weeks from Lisbon, we learn, that Dr. Willis had arrived there from England for the purpose of taking under his care the queen of Portugal, who has been, for some time, labouring under the dreadful effects of a confirmed derangement of mind, as our readers have been informed through the medium of the British prints.—The Doctor found her majesty in a very alarming situation—for the physicians, dreading her displeasure, had insinuated their medicines into her vitals, which her majesty having discovered, actually refused to take the sustenance necessary for her existence, and upon Dr. Willis's arrival she was in a starving condition.—The Doctor having dismissed her former attendants, immediately altered the mode of treatment, and by severe measures obliged his royal patient to swallow what he deemed necessary, and the effects were soon visible, the queen being so far recovered, when captain Anderson left Lisbon, as to recognise those about her person, and to submit patiently to the Doctor's directions.—Great attention was paid to Doctor Willis for this successful exertion of his abilities, and it was said that his reward would be very ample.

It must be remarked, that the prince-regent of Portugal had acquired much credit for the affectionate regard which he displayed in the course of the illness of his royal mother—having, at all times, shewn the most solicitous anxiety for the recovery of her health.

SECOND CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

At the first session, begun and held at the city of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania, on Monday the twenty-fourth of October, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one.

An ACT to provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions.

BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled, That whenever the United States shall be invaded, or be in imminent danger of invasion from any foreign nation or Indian tribe, it shall be lawful for the president of the United States, to call forth such number of the militia of the state or states most convenient to the place of danger or scene of action, as he may judge necessary to repel such invasion, and to issue his orders for that purpose, to such officer or officers of the militia as he shall think proper; and in case of an insurrection in any state, against the government thereof, it shall be lawful for the president of the United States, on application of the legislature of such state, or of the executive (when the legislature cannot be convened) to call forth such number of the militia of any other state or states, as may be applied for, or as he may judge sufficient to suppress such insurrection.

And be it further enacted, That whenever the laws of the United States shall be opposed, or the execution thereof obstructed, in any state, by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, or by the powers vested in the marshals by this act, the same being notified to the president of the United States, by an associate justice or the district judge, it shall be lawful for the president of the United States to call forth the militia of such state to suppress such combinations, and to cause the laws to be duly executed. And if the militia of a state, where such combinations may happen, shall refuse, or be insufficient to suppress the same, it shall be lawful for the president, if the legislature of the United States be not in session, to call forth and employ such numbers of the militia of any other state or states most convenient thereto, as may be necessary, and the use of militia, so to be called forth, may be continued, if necessary until the expiration of thirty days after the commencement of the ensuing session.

Provided always, and be it further enacted, That whenever it may be necessary, in the judgment of the president, to use the military force hereby directed to be called forth, the president shall forthwith, and previous thereto, by proclamation, command such insurgents to disperse, and retire peaceably to their respective abodes, within a limited time.

And be it further enacted, That the militia, employed in the service of the United States, shall receive the same pay and allowances, as the troops of the United States, who may be in service at the same time, or who were last in service, and shall be subject to the same rules and articles of war: And that no officer, non-commissioned officer or private of the militia, shall be compelled to serve more than three months in any one year, nor more than in due rotation with every other able bodied man of the same rank in the battalion to which he belongs.

And be it further enacted, That every officer, non-commissioned officer or private of the militia, who shall fail to obey the orders of the president of the United States, in any of the cases before recited, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding one year's pay, and not less than one month's pay, to be determined and adjudged by a court-martial; and such officer shall moreover be liable to be cashiered by sentence of a court-martial: and such non-commissioned officers and privates shall be liable to be imprisoned by a like sentence, on failure of payment of the fines adjudged against them, for the space of one calendar month for every five dollars of such fine.

And be it further enacted, That courts-martial for the trial of militia shall be composed of militia officers only.

And be it further enacted, That all fines to be assessed as aforesaid, shall be certified by the presiding officer of the court-martial before whom the same shall be assessed, to the marshal of the district in which the delinquent shall reside, or to one of his deputies; and also to the supervisor of the revenue of the same district, who shall record the said certificate in a book to be kept for that purpose. The said marshal or his deputy shall forthwith proceed to levy the said fines with costs, by distress and sale of the goods and chattels of the delinquent, which costs and the manner of proceeding with respect to the sale of the goods distrained, shall be agreeable to the laws of the state in which the same shall be, in other cases of distress; and where any non-commissioned officer or private shall be adjudged to suffer imprisonment, there being no goods or chattels to be found, whereof to levy the said fines, the marshal of the district or his deputy may commit such delinquent to gaol, during the term for which he shall be so adjudged to imprisonment, or until the fine shall be paid, in the same manner as other persons condemned to fine and imprisonment at the suit of the United States may be committed.

And be it further enacted, That the marshals and their deputies shall pay all such fines by them levied to the supervisor of the revenue, in the district in which they are collected, within two months after they shall have received the same, deducting therefrom five per centum, as a compensation for their trouble; and in case of failure, the same shall be recoverable by action of debt or information in any court of the United States of the district in which such fines shall be levied, having cognizance thereof, to be sued for, prosecuted and recovered, in the name of the supervisor of the district, with interest and costs.

And be it further enacted, That the marshals of the several districts and their deputies shall have the same powers in executing the laws of the United States, as sheriffs and their deputies in the several states have by law, in executing the laws of their respective states.

And be it further enacted, That this act shall continue and be in force, for and during the term of two years, and from thence to the end of the next session of congress thereafter, and no longer.

NOTTINGHAM, March 3.

BETWEEN 8 and 9 o'clock on Saturday evening last, the inhabitants of several parts of this town were visited by a smart shock of an earthquake, preceded and accompanied by a violent rumbling noise and tremor of the earth, which alarmed them to such a degree that several of them quitted their houses and ran into the streets, expecting them to fall upon their heads; the duration, however, lasted but a few seconds, and the consequence not very material. At Grantham its effect was so violent that the house bell, at the George inn, was repeatedly heard to ring during its continuance.— It was also felt at Dunnington, Spalding, Seaford, Freckingham, Bourne, Bingham, and several of the neighbouring villages; also at Derby, Castle Donnington, &c. the houses were very much shaken. Its effect was nearly the same at all the above places.

The earthquake was likewise felt at Stamford, by the shaking of houses, whereby they were greatly alarmed. Also at Biggleswade, with the falling of some old houses, though no lives were lost.

STATE PAPER.

Ordinance concerning the French emigrants, sent by the court of Berlin to the directing minister of Anspach and Bareith.

BERLIN, February 4, 1792.

OUR intention is to grant to part of the French emigrants an asylum in our said provinces, in the manner as it is observed in the Austrian Netherlands.

We do ordain you to let all those who arrive in our said provinces enjoy the rights of hospitality, safety and protection, in the manner as is granted to other travellers; but do not permit them to recruit, to assemble in bodies, to exercise troops, to form camps, to establish magazines or arsenals, to buy horses, or undertake any thing that looks like warlike preparations. As to common soldiers and deserters that arrive with their arms, you ought to conform to the rules observed in the Austrian Low Countries, and in similar cases apply to the government of Anterior Austria; for our will is, that the French emigrants shall be treated with us in the same manner as with them. But in difficult cases you ought to apply to the ministry of our cabinet.

We recommend also to your particular attention the French emissaries, who travel over all the world to propagate the spirit of rebellion.

As soon as they make themselves known through seditious speeches, or publishing of such like writings, you will send them immediately out of the frontiers, and in dubious cases apply to the ministry of our cabinet.

As to the publications in your provinces, which tend to former rebellions, you are to ensure them in a most rigorous manner, and most carefully to prevent their being published.

March 7. The port of Oczakow is to be cleared, during the summer, for large ships of war, and two hundred and fifty thousand roubles are appropriated to this purpose. A great number of rich and respectable Greek merchants are already preparing to reside at Oczakow and the ports of the Crimea; and it is estimated, that within ten years commerce will have nearly changed the present barbarous appearance of these countries.

St. Joshua Reynolds was interred at his own request in St. Paul's Cathedral, which place he visited very privately but a short time before his death. A monument, and a suitable inscription, will be placed in due time to his memory in the body of the Cathedral.

PITTSBURG, May 12.

By major McCully, just returned from visiting the posts at Yellow creek and Big Beaver, we are informed, that no depredations have been committed by the Indians near these posts this spring, and but few signs seen.—The major also left the south-west frontier of Washington county on Thursday the 4th of May, and his discoveries have been made there since the unhappy stroke of Leg's block-house on Dunkard creek.

PHILADELPHIA, May 17.

Very wholesome advice is administered in a Boston paper of last week, relative to the popular choice of legislators. Sufficient caution is there given to the people, viz. to choose no man who is remarkable for a super-abundance of low cunning; such a man in a legislative body will always have his private interests more at heart than those of the public.—2dly. Twisting characters, who are easily swayed, and will assent to any question that promises to favour self or party interest.—3dly. Speculating characters; men who creep into legislative bodies with a design to turn their legislative knowledge of state secrets to private purposes.—4thly. Greek and Latin not to be essential qualifications.—5thly. Legislators ought not to be concerned in pilot-boats, bound for the modern Calchis.

Such, if put to the test, would in all likelihood, sell their country for a scrip.—“Let us not suffer a single ranger, speculator, or swindler in our public bodies—let us purge the tabernacle of all contamination by stock-jobbers, who consider the United States as a lottery-office and the rights and privileges of the people as a discount from their prizes. Let us sweep the legislative floors of such vermin, who devour liberty in the bud, and suck the vitals of the honest industrious farmers, merchants, and tradesmen. Let us unite, to a man, and elect only such as will promote agriculture, the arts, true commerce, and the general good of the country.”

May 21. We have the pleasure to communicate to the public, that letters have been received, at the war-office, from major Hamtramck, commanding at Post Vincennes, on the river Wabash, dated 30th of March last, stating that he had made a pacific agreement with the Wea and Eel river Indians, and expected that the Pyankeshas would immediately become parties thereto.—These tribes, with their subdivisions of villages, embrace a considerable part of the Wabash Indians who have hitherto been hostile.

It would appear, from the information of the chiefs of the said tribes, that the Kickapoos of the Wea have removed to the Illinois river—but that if they return to their former situation, the Wea and Eel river Indians have stipulated, that the said Kickapoos shall become parties to the agreement made with major Hamtramck; or, they themselves will drive them out of the country.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman of the first information at Lisbon, to his correspondent in this city, dated March 18.

“After certain intelligence had been received at Gibraltar that Muley Yazed had defeated his brother's army on the 12th of last month, about the end of the same month the unexpected news arrived there of his having died on the 16th, in consequence of his wounds; as likewise the death of his antagonist, Muley Ithem, who is reported by some to have been killed in the battle; and by others, to have died also of the wounds he received in battle. What is asserted to be lets doubtful is, that Muley Islama has actually been proclaimed emperor at Tangier. He is also asserted to be a much more unexceptionable character than the two brothers who have fallen, and more likely to cultivate peace, upon reasonable terms, with all nations.—The same letter mentions the 22d instant as the day agreed upon for the delivering up of Oran to the regency of Algiers.”

Extract of another letter from the same gentleman, dated Lisbon, March 25.

“The ameliorations in the queen's health are great. Doctor Willis found that the physicians had treated her case in a very improper manner. It seems probable, that, if the same treatment had been continued a little longer, she must have died. At present doctor Willis entertains hopes of her total recovery. Yesterday she was much better than she has been at any other time since his arrival, and entirely in her right mind—I am just informed that the emperor of Germany is dead. This news was brought by a courier from Madrid to the Spanish charge des affaires here.”

On the 28th of February last, count Florida Blanca was removed from his employment as prime minister of Spain; succeeded by count d'Aranda. The same day an edict was published, by which the superintendency over all the departments of the government is vested in the council of state, of which his catholic majesty has declared himself president, and the count d'Aranda senior member.

General William Bowles, who has excited so much attention for a year or two past, both in Europe and America, is now a prisoner in the Moro castle at the Havanna. Three Cherokee Indians (his companions) are in the same situation. It is thought the depredations he has committed on the Spanish settlements will cost him his life.—Our accounts add that this inveterate enemy to the United States was with the Indians in the action near the Miami towns on the 4th of November last.

When the queen of France heard of her brother, the emperor of Germany's death, she exclaimed “If my misfortunes were not before at their height, their measure would now be filled.” Your kings and queens of the present age seem to be mere theatrical characters, whose misfortunes are for the most part imaginary.—Because they can no longer tyrannize over nations, and consider mankind as inherited property, a great out-cry is made forsooth, and they lick over their supposed wounds with as pitiful a yell as a puppy that has been kicked!

Accounts recently received from Sweden (via Scotland) mention the destruction of one fourth part of the city of Gottenburg by fire, on or about the first of March. The computed loss is said to be immense.

WINCHESTER, May 7.

We have received the melancholy information of the Indians having penetrated into the country as far as the head waters of Dunkard creek, within fifteen miles of Morgan-town, where they have committed murders on our innocent fellow-citizens, the bare recital of which is sufficient to stir up every latent spark of American valour to revenge. On the plantation of one Leg there was a block-house, in which nine militiamen were stationed; seven of these having gone to the Pau-Pau station, about eight miles distant, on some business with their officer, and the other two being out, cutting timber for benches, a party of Indians, consisting of fifteen or twenty, came in the interim, took Mr. Leg, two of his children, a man by the name of Honfacre (who was out in a field, and was first wounded by them) a young woman of the name of Baldwind, and five children (part Honfacre's) prisoners. Mrs. Leg was wounded above the shoulder bone, but escaped to the house of one Curlet. Having secured the prisoners, the Indians set fire to the dwelling house and block-house, and then proceeded up the creek about nine miles, and encamped. On the march, Honfacre, being faint with the loss of blood, they pricked him with knives and spears to make him keep up. At the place they encamped, they scalped him and knocked out his brains. Mrs. Honfacre bemoaning the loss of her husband, was tomahawked by them, and her youngest child, who cried bitterly at the tragic scene she beheld, also fell a sacrifice to savage vengeance. A party of militia went in pursuit of them next day, arrived where they had encamped, buried the unfortunate Honfacre, his wife and child, and then proceeded on, but without effect, as they did not overtake the Indians.—The militia returned the Sunday following, and reported, that as they came back, they discovered a fresh trail, from which it is conjectured another party of Indians is still hovering about the settlements. The house above mentioned, said to be set on fire, was extinguished by a person who was passing by, before much damage was sustained—the block-house was reduced to ashes.

ANNAPOLIS, May 31.

Extract of a letter from Philadelphia, dated May 20.

“From what I could learn, there seemed to be a division among the republicans in favour of Clinton for the office of vice-president. The present incumbent, 'tis generally thought, would think better of the people by mixing a little with them. He would find they were mild, amiable, and not disposed to riot; that, in fact, no danger is to be apprehended from them to any of the salutary objects of society. By being under the government of the law, administered by others, without the prospect of wielding any other rod of authority than an ordinary walking cane, he might gradually feel with them, and look with an eye of jealousy toward those who live on public taxes, and despite the source from whence they are drawn.”

SECOND CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES.

At the first session, begun and held at the city of Philadelphia, in the state of Pennsylvania, on Monday the twenty-fourth of October, one thousand seven hundred and ninety-one.

An ACT more effectually to provide for the National Defence, by establishing an Uniform Militia throughout the United States.

BE it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That each and every free able-bodied white male citizen of the respective states, resident therein, who is or shall be of the age of eighteen years, and under the age of forty-five years, (except as is herein after excepted) shall severally and respectively be enrolled in the militia, by the captain or commanding officer of the company, within whose bounds such citizen shall reside, and that within twelve months after the passing of this act. And it shall at all times hereafter be the duty of every such captain or commanding officer of a company, to enrol every such citizen, as aforesaid, and also those who shall, from time to time, arrive at the age of eighteen years, or being of the age of eighteen years and under the age of forty-five years (except as before excepted) shall come to reside within his bounds; and shall without delay notify such citizen of the said enrolment, by a proper non-commissioned officer of the company, by whom such notice may be proved.—That every citizen, so enrolled and notified, shall, within six months thereafter, provide himself with a good musket or firelock, a sufficient bayonet and belt, two spare flints, and a knapsack, a pouch with a box therein to contain not less than twenty-four cartridges, suited to the bore of his musket or firelock, each cartridge to contain a proper quantity of powder and ball: or with a good rifle, knapsack, shot-pouch and powder-horn, twenty balls suited to the bore of his rifle, and a quarter of a pound of powder; and shall appear, so armed, accoutred and provided, when called out to exercise or into service, except, that when called out on company days to exercise only, he may appear without a knapsack. That the commissioned Officers shall severally be armed with a sword or hanger, and espartoon; that from and after five years from the passing of this act, all muskets for arming the militia as is herein required, shall be of bores sufficient for balls of the eighteenth part of a pound: and every citizen so enrolled, and providing himself with the arms, ammunition and accoutrements required, as aforesaid, shall hold the same exempted from all suits, distresses, executions or sales, for debt or for the payment of taxes.

And be it further enacted, That the vice-president of the United States; the officers, judicial and executive, of the government of the United States; the members of both houses of congress, and their respective officers; all custom-house officers, with their clerks; all post-officers, and stage-drivers who are employed in the care and conveyance of the mail of the post-office of the United States; all ferrymen employed at any ferry on the post road; all inspectors of exports; all pilots; all mariners actually employed in the sea service of any citizen or merchant within the United States; and all persons who now are or may hereafter be exempted by the laws of the respective states, shall be and are hereby exempted from militia duty, notwithstanding their being above the age of eighteen, and under the age of forty-five years.

And be it further enacted, That within one year after the passing of this act, the militia of the respective states shall be arranged into divisions, brigades, regiments, battalions and companies, as the legislature of each state shall direct; and each division, brigade, and regiment, shall be numbered at the formation thereof; and a record made of such numbers in the adjutant-general's office in the state; and when in the field, or in service in the state, each division, brigade and regiment shall, respectively, take rank according to their numbers, reckoning the first or lowest number highest in rank. That if the same be convenient, each brigade shall consist of four regiments; each regiment of two battalions; each battalion of five companies; each company of sixty-four privates. That the said militia shall be officered by the respective states, as follows: To each division, one major-general and two aids-de-camp, with the rank of major; to each brigade, one brigadier-general with one brigade inspector, to serve also as a brigade-major, with the rank of a major; to each regiment, one lieutenant-colonel commandant; and to each battalion, one major; to each company, one captain, one lieutenant, one ensign, four sergeants, four corporals, one drummer, and one fifer or bugler. That there shall be a regimental staff, to consist of one adjutant, and one quarter-master, to rank as lieutenants; one paymaster; one surgeon, and one surgeon's-mate; one sergeant-major; one drum-major, and one fifer-major.

And be it further enacted, That out of the militia enrolled, as is herein directed, there shall be formed for each battalion, at least one company of grenadiers, light infantry or riflemen; and that to each division there shall be, at least, one company of artillery, and one troop of horse: There shall be to each company of artillery, one captain, two lieutenants, four sergeants, four corporals, six gunners, six bombardiers, one drummer, and one fifer. The officers to be armed with a sword or hanger, a sash, bayonet and belt, with a cartridge box to contain twelve cartridges; and each private or matross shall furnish himself with all the equipments of a private in the infantry, until proper ordnance and field artillery is provided. There shall be to each troop of horse, one captain, two lieutenants, one cornet, four sergeants, four corporals, one saddler, one farrier, and one trumpeter. The commissioned officers to furnish themselves with good horses, of at least fourteen hands and an half high, and to be armed with a sword and pair of pistols, the holsters of which to be covered with bearskin caps. Each dragoon to furnish himself with a serviceable horse, at least fourteen hands and an half high, a good saddle, bridle, mail pillion and valise, holsters, and a breast-plate and crupper, a pair of boots and spurs, a pair of pistols, a sabre, and a cartouch box to contain twelve cartridges for pistols. That each company of artillery and troop of horse shall be formed of volunteers from the brigade, at the discretion of the commander in chief of the state, not exceeding one company of each to a regiment, nor more in number than one eleventh part of the infantry, and shall be uniformly clothed in regimentals, to be furnished at their own expence: the colour and fashion to be determined by the brigadier commanding the brigade to which they belong.

And be it further enacted, That each battalion and regiment shall be provided with the state and regimental colours by the field officers, and each company with a drum and fife or bugle horn, by the commissioned officers of the company, in such manner as the legislature of the respective states shall direct.

And be it further enacted, That there shall be an adjutant-general appointed in each state, whose duty it shall be to distribute all orders from the commander in chief of the state to the several corps; to attend all public reviews, when the commander in chief of the state shall review the militia; or any part thereof; to obey all orders from him relative to carrying into execution and perfecting the system of military discipline established by this act; to furnish blank forms of different returns that may be required, and to explain the principles on which they should be made; to receive from the several officers of the different corps throughout the state, returns of the militia under their command, reporting the actual situation of their arms, accoutrements and ammunition, their delinquencies, and every other thing which relates to the general advancement of good order and discipline: All which, the several officers of the divisions, brigades, regiments and battalions are hereby required to make in the usual manner, so that the said adjutant-general may be duly furnished therewith: From all which returns he shall make proper abstracts, and lay the same annually before the commander in chief of the state.

And be it further enacted, That the rules of discipline approved and established by congress in their resolution of the twenty-ninth of March, seventeen hundred and seventy-nine, shall be the rules of discipline to be observed by the militia throughout the United States, except such deviations from the said rules as may be rendered necessary by the requisitions of this act, or by some other unavoidable circumstances. It shall be the duty of the commanding officer at every muster, whether by battalion, regiment or single company, to cause the militia to be exercised and trained agreeably to the said rules of discipline.

And be it further enacted, That all commissioned officers shall take rank according to the date of their commissions; and when two of the same grade bear an equal date, then their rank to be determined by lots, to be drawn by them before the commanding officer of the brigade, regiment, battalion, company or detachment.

And be it further enacted, That if any person, whether officer or soldier, belonging to the militia of any state, and called out into the service of the United States, be wounded or disabled while in actual service, he shall be taken care of and provided for at the public expence.

And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the brigade inspector to attend the regimental and battalion meetings of the militia composing their several brigades, during the time of their being under arms, to inspect their arms, ammunition and accoutrements; superintend their exercise and manœuvres, and introduce the system of military discipline before described throughout the brigade, agreeable to law and such orders as they shall, from time to time, receive from the commander in chief of the state; to make returns to the adjutant-general of the state, at least once in every year, of the militia of the brigade to which he belongs, reporting therein the actual situation of the arms, accoutrements and ammunition, of the several corps, and every other thing which, in his judgment, may relate to their government and the general advancement of good order and military discipline; and the adjutant-general shall make a return of all the militia of the state to the commander in chief of the state, and a duplicate of the same to the president of the United States.

And, whereas sundry corps of artillery, cavalry and infantry, now exist in several of the said states, which by the laws, customs, or usages thereof, have not been incorporated with or subject to the general regulations of the rest of the militia; Be it enacted, That such corps retain their accustomed privileges, subject, nevertheless, to all other duties required by this act, in like manner with the other militia.

Robert Peter, colonel William Deakins, Benjamin Stodert, Thomas Beall of George, John Threlkeld, and Samuel Davidson, Esquires, George-Town. George Walker, Esquire, city of Washington. Wallace and Muir, and John Davidson, Esquires, Annapolis.

This scheme contains several very valuable lots of land contiguous to the city of Washington, whose increase in value will keep pace with the growth of the rising empire of the United States of America—Hence, therefore, without any further definition, it will be evident that for the small sum of one Guinea a valuable and beautiful country seat may be obtained in the vicinity of the capital of America; or a lot in a town now possessing an extensive commerce.

The subscriber proposes drawing this Lottery in George-Town, on the first Monday in May next, or sooner, if the tickets are all sold, which he flatters himself will be the case from his present prospects. Deeds, with a general warranty, will immediately be given for the lots of land, and the money for the cash prizes will be paid on demand. Notice will be given of the drawing in the public papers, and a list of the fortunate numbers will be immediately published. The crop now on the lots is referred to the subscriber.
