COBLENZ, September 2.

THE emigrant French princes in a fit of despair, have formed a design to hire ruffians to attempt an insurrection at Paris, and to assassinate Louis the 16th and his family. Such a step they imagine, by the blame being thrown on the patriotic party, will rouse every power in Europe to attack France, in a general combination; and that even England will throw aside the mask, and become a party.

PARIS, September 17.

The enemy are now planning, by their emissaries, to plunder and set fire to Paris. By fomenting hatred between individuals, they wish to bring about a general state of confusion. Let it be our main object then to preserve and inculcate unanimity, by which we may give liberty to Europe. In this capital there are five or six hundred men in the pay of the duke of Brunswick and the French princes. Severe measures are taking against them, and their persons will soon be secured.

LONDON, September 16.

A gentleman who left Paris on Wednesday week, assures us, that the terrible accounts detailed in the London papers of the dreadful cruelties transacted in that unfortunate capital, so far from being exaggerated, are very short of the truth. That 6000 people were absolutely murdered by one pretended jury of twelve, sitting in one of the prisons. That three large waggons were employed, without intermission, for 36 hours, in carrying the dead bodies out of Paris, and throwing them promiscuously in a pit dug for the purpose. The stench caused by the putrefaction of the heads and limbs scattered through the streets, was become intolerable; and plague, pestilence and famine, seemed stalking on with tremendous strides to put an end to those persons whom fire and sword had hitherto spared.

The king, during the tumult on Monday se'night, in Paris, was placed in an interior apartment of the temple, that the populace might not be irritated by the sight of him, and was attended constantly by one national guard. The people once approached the temple, the guard of which unloaded their guns, reversed their bayonets, and contented themselves with placing the barrier of a blue ribbon upon the gates, with an inscription, intreating that it might be respected. Some of the people, after kissing this ribbon, and declaring their resolution, not to violate that barrier, obtained permission to carry the head of Madame Lamballe under the window of the queen, to shew, as they said, "the dreadful result of all plots against the people." The crowd then withdrew, and the temple has not been since menaced.

In Paris, the women, as usual, are among the most eminent in the display of patriotic actions. From five hundred to a thousand work during the whole day, in public places, preparing knapsacks and other articles for the army. This service is entirely voluntary, and they pursue it with readiness, which even the frequent applauses of the populace do not divert. The services of many respectable persons are thus employed.

Two ladies have appeared before the national assembly to require that half the duty of the posts in Paris should be intrusted to women, in order that a greater number of men might be spared for the camp. Mademoiselle Montauzier, the proprietor of the splendid theatre, which bears her name, led to the national assembly 95 workmen employed about the theatre, who were willing immediately to march for the army. Upon a previous report, that arms were concealed in the theatre, the municipal officers made searches, for the satisfaction of the populace, and found only such as were used in the entertainments of the place.

During the massacre on Monday se'night, in Paris, an old man was brought into the hall, where a sort of tribunal was held in one of the prisons, accompanied by a young lady, who had not quitted him for eight days. The man who officiated as judge, upon seeing him, said to the people, "Innocent or guilty, it will be unworthy of us to sully our hands with the blood of this old man." A cry of "Grace, Grace," immediately arose; his young attendant fell upon his bosom, and they were carried home in the arms of the populace.

It is now certain, that the late massacre was first provoked by some renewed preparations for an attack, on the part of the remaining friends of the court in Paris, which several circumstances had, in some degree, disclosed. Arms had been distributed to many prisoners, and at the Bicetre great numbers were actually found. The populace, who took seven cannon to the attack of that place, appear to have known this. Some of the prisoners were overheard to say, that in two or three days the gates would be opened to them. But the circumstance which immediately excited the popular vengeance, was the seizure of sixteen persons armed with pistols and poignards, among whom were the archbishop of Arles and the vicar of St. Feriol of Marseilles.

The populace, who were then running in the utmost agitation to the champ de Mars, where they had been invited by the community to assemble, would nevertheless have conducted them from the court to the palace to the commune of the four sections, when some of them resisted, and one fired a pistol, which mortally wounded a citizen. They were then immediately sacrificed.

Sept. 25. The old constitution of France, in one thing, and we believe in that single point, is superior even to this happy country. By the law, every person who has ever had ten children in lawful wedlock, whether they are alive or not, is exempted from taxes,—a law worthy to be inserted in our statutes.

The decree which enjoins, that the refractory priests shall receive no passports for any country actually at war with France, will now force them to pass into England; for in ten days from this date, France is likely to be engaged in hostilities with every power that is near them.

Several hundreds of French priests and nobles have arrived at Jersey within this fortnight; some of them are reduced to that degree of poverty, that they are obliged to teach French and belles lettres at six sous a lesson, and others are forced to hire themselves as gardeners.

Doctor Priestley has declined the office of sitting in the national convention of France, though he has been chosen for three places.

The hall, now occupied by the national convention of France, is on the first floor of the Thuilleries, and was once intended for a theatre, at the spectacles of which the court only were to be present. The old decorations of the palace have been removed, and ordered to be sold.

Sept. 28. A most violent commotion has taken place in the department of Finisterre, where 500 people, it is said, have been slaughtered. The inhabitants of one of the Commons refused to pay their taxes, and said, that a nation without a king was no nation—they have taken measures to defend themselves, and a large body of troops have been sent against them.

The benevolent action of the king at Dorchester, has been highly extolled at Amsterdam, translated from the English papers into Dutch, and stuck up in the different coffee-houses round the Change, together with an account of the confluence of the French refugee priests, arrived in London—none of them have yet sought an asylum in Holland; the Belgic dominions, which divide these provinces from France, affording them a more certain refuge.

The young prince de Ligne, who was lately killed in an action with the French, is the officer whose gallantry was so much the subject of discourse at the storming of Ismael, in the late campaign with the Turks.

General Luckner has been at Paris these two days; he was beginning to be abhorred in the camp—General Montefiquou has been dismissed by the convention.

PORTLAND, November 5.

Captain Smith, in the ship Eliza, arrived here, on Saturday evening last, from Bristol, in England, which place he left on the first day of October. Captain Smith has favoured us with a London paper of the 27th of September. It contains but little information. The paper says expressly, that during the two last days no advices, of any kind, had been received from France. It was, however, reported, that the city of Rouen had declared, that it was disposed to accept the conditions offered by the invading despots of Germany, in preference to continuing longer exposed to the brutal violence of the party now prevailing. In consequence of this, a body of men had set off from Paris to chastise the city of Rouen.

By intelligence from Vienna, of September 8, it appears, that the emperor has it in contemplation to hold a congress at Coblenz, on the affairs of France. The courts of Spain, England, Holland, and other powers, are to be invited to send ambassadors. At this congress, if affairs go prosperously, the form of government for the provinces which may be taken, will be settled. But it is shrewdly added, that as this must depend upon the events of the war, it cannot be foreseen how far their proceedings may be brought to maturity.

The forces acting against France are to be immediately reinforced with 20,000 men.—Prussia is to prepare a like number. The empress chooses to keep her troops, and send the money.

The republic of Holland have determined to take no part in the war against France, at least until the progress of the foreign armies become more decisive. They will, however, give them every possible assistance; and are now sending troops to the frontiers.

While these things are doing by the government, individuals are supplying the French with horses, mules, &c. by thousands. Government is sorry to see this, but does not pretend to stop it. In Holland they would as soon break the neck of a citizen as attempt to break his contract.

An officer of the Swiss guards has escaped from France, and positively asserts; that the people fired on the guards first. The Dutchmen have considered of this story and doubt it.

Several of the officers who accompanied M. la Fayette, have passed through the Hague, with an intention of going to England, but not a word is said of La Fayette himself. Captain Smith, however, thinks he heard at Bristol, that he had got clear of the duke of Brunswick's army; which, by the last accounts, was within ninety miles of Paris.

French priests, by hundreds, arrive daily in England. Thirty or forty thousand pounds have already been raised for them by subscription.

Madame de la Fayette had a very narrow escape from being arrested. A courier was sent to several sea-ports to stop her. She sailed from Havre-de-Grace only three hours before he arrived. She is gone to Holland.

HALIFAX, (N. C.) November 14.

By a gentleman immediately from Nashville, we learn that depredations are daily committed by the Indians, in the vicinity of that place, that a military force was collected under general Sevier, who was about to march into the Indian country; and that the people were high in the expectation that so important a blow would be struck by this intrepid, gallant soldier, as would secure to them the blessings of peace.

HARRISBURGH, November 19.

A gentleman from Detroit, which place he left the 10th of October, and on whose veracity we may depend, arrived in town last week, has favoured us with the following intelligence, viz.

That the vast supplies brought to the garrisons of Detroit and Niagara, indicate a firm determination of the British court to hold those posts in possession, unless compelled to give them up by force; that a constant and regular communication with the Indians is kept up, by which they are supplied with every necessary in abundance for carrying on the war; that the tribes in contest with the United States, understanding the disposition of the Americans were for peace, were willing to come to terms of reconciliation; for this purpose a council was to have been held on the 1st of October, at the Maumee-towns, about sixty miles from Detroit; but the determination of the council had not arrived when the gentleman left that place.

He further says, that it was the general opinion, that the Indians would make peace on no other terms, than fixing the boundaries of the frontiers along the Ohio. He had several hours conversation with colonel Brandt on the subject, who, with about thirty warriors of the Six Nations, were on their way to the council; but were delayed some time by the indisposition of colonel Brandt. Many of the warriors of the different tribes, he was informed, were willing that the boundary line should run so as to include the towns of Gallipolis and Marietta, and the country immediately dependent on them; but it was thought the former opinion would prevail in the council.

PHILADELPHIA, November 24.

By the latest accounts from Georgia, received from Mr. Seagrove, agent for Indian affairs in the Southern department, it appears that the chiefs of the Creek nation are not unfriendly to any part of the United States—On the contrary, Mr. Seagrove says he has reason to think it is the wish of nine tenths of that nation to be in strict friendship with us. And all danger of an interruption of the harmony, arises from the restless and vicious disposition of some of the white people among us.

Captain Paul, of the ship Amiable, on his passage from Charleston to this port, on the 10th of November fell in fight with the French ship Creole, from Port au-Prince bound to Bourdeaux, which appeared to be in distress. On the 11th captain Paul shortened sail, and the ship came up with him at eight in the evening. Lights were hung out, and in the morning of the 12th went on board and assisted in bending a new main-top-sail, the ship making 39 inches water per hour.

On the 13th experienced a heavy gale, throughout which captain Paul remained with the French ship, she then making fifty two and a half inches per hour.

On the 14th captain Paul went on board, found them in a very distressed situation, the people wishing to leave her, the wind beginning to blow a gale.

The 15th was spent in transporting on board the Amiable what could be saved, and abandoned the ship with eleven feet water in her hold, latitude 38. 38.

Eight Dollars Reward. RAN away from the subscriber, on the 12th inst. a negro man named WILL, about 23 years of age, five feet nine or ten inches high; had on, when he went away, a round felt hat, of snuff-brown; and trousers, and a coarse cloth over jacket, short and round, he had other cloaths with him, which cannot well be described, he is likely, of a very dark complexion, full faced, and has a remarkable fine set of teeth, he is slow of speech, and rather awkward in his manners, is a tolerable good blacksmith, but has never worked as foreman of a shop; he was formerly the property of Henry May, late of this county, blacksmith. This fellow was taken out of gaol at Alexandria, in Virginia, about eight days ago, but has since made his escape; when he was apprehended he had a forged pass in his possession, and it is expected he may have procured another. Whoever takes up the said negro and brings him to me, or secures him in any gaol so that I get him again, shall receive the above reward.
RICHARD BEARD.

N. B. It is probable this fellow may endeavour to pass for a free man, as there are many free blacks passing about the country; when he went to Alexandria his intention was to have made his escape by water, I therefore forewarn all masters of vessels, and others, from harbouring or concealing him at their peril, if they should they may expect to be dealt with agreeably to law.

The fear of punishment for breaking the lock and stealing a neighbour's canoe occasioned his absconding. Their cloathing is not certainly known. DANIEL may have a new hat. MARYLAND GAZETTE.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1793.

LEYDEN, September 24.

We have advice from Coblenz dated the 8th, that a messenger was just arrived there, with accounts that the duke of Brunswick, after a forced march, had attacked the army of Marshal Luckner on the 16th, between Menebauld and Chalons, and entirely beaten it; and taken 8000 prisoners; that the conquerors took the camp, all the artillery, baggage, &c. and that the remains of the vanquished army were pursued to Chalons. We anxiously wait for a confirmation and particulars of this event.

Sept. 28. The fears at first conceived by the friends of the French revolution here, on a report of the army of Dumourier being defeated, have entirely subsided; the intelligence is now proved to have been false. It is at present reported, that Rheims and Chalons are in the hands of the enemy, and that Lisse and Valenciennes are taken; but this appears to be equally ungrounded. It is, however, certain, that both these places are besieged.

A number of papers are now circulated here, which assert, that the principal promoters of the revolution in France are providing a retreat in one of the islands of the Grecian Archipelago, which they intend to purchase from the Turks in case any misfortune should happen; and that their design is to fit out every vessel belonging to the state which may be in a condition to go to sea, and to carry all the gold and silver out of the kingdom. They have already, as is pretended, removed all the crown jewels, and their endeavours to seduce the robbers are only a mere deception to deceive the public.

Many people believe these reports, and they are mentioned in the public journals. It is probable, however, that these accounts are printed and dispersed with a view to alarm the holders of French stock, and bring disgrace upon the revolution.

FRANKFORT, September 18.

It is confidently said, that a congress is soon to be formed for the pacification of the powers now at war, and that it will be held at Luxembourg, or some other town upon the frontiers. The ministers talked of for this congress are, baron Speilman for Vienna, marquis de Lucchefini for Prussia, M. de Simolin for Russia, and lord Elgin for England.

From the LOWER ELBS, September 21.

A courier is said to have passed through Coblenz with accounts of the total defeat of the French army the 16th, by the combined forces under the duke of Brunswick. M. de la Fayette, and three of his brother officers, were at Wesel yesterday, under a strong escort, where they are said to be placed in close and separate confinement in the citadel, and not suffered to see any one whatever.

PARIS, September 30.

TUMULT AT TOULON.

The following is a letter from Toulon, dated September 12.

A plan of a counter-revolution discovered itself some days since. Unfortunate persons confined in prison, forced with sabres in their hands, the galleys, and those malefactors, who were in number 15000, spread themselves in bands over the city, and were able to well-founded fears. The council-general of the community assembled immediately, ordered the gates of the town to be shut, the generale to beat, and the galley-prisoners, who, upon interrogation, avowed, that arms, and the means of ensuring their safety, had been promised them.

The authors of this movement were also arrested and imprisoned. They were interrogated, and declared guilty of conspiracy; yesterday they were executed. M. Flotte, commandant of marine, and M. Chamauré, captain of a vessel, met the same fate. There are still in the prisons many officers, accused of being refused to take arms on the day of tumult.

SECRET EXPEDITION.

M. Barbaroux, on Wednesday, communicated the following intelligence to the national convention:—M. Angélot at Marseilles, had demanded of the king 6000 men, a million of money, and some vessels for a secret expedition. He would not tell where he would go, but, if the city would intrust him, he would bearly give a good account of himself. The king, the vessels, and the million, were all immediately granted him.

It was moved, and immediately decreed, that four millions of assignats, and one in specie, should be sent to the department of Bouches de la Rhone; and the city of Marseilles, was declared to have deserved well their country.

EXPEDITION IN CALVADOS.

An expedition by the French into Calvados has been for some time known to be meditating.

A letter from Lisse, the authenticity of which we will, however, not guarantee, has been received in Paris, announcing the capture of Ypres, Menin, and Courtray, from the Austrians, by general Carles, who commands a detachment from Dunkirk.

It appears certain, that some expedition has been made by the French into the territory of the Austrians in that neighbourhood.

The community of Paris have required two millions for the support of the maison de secours. Their demand produced some debate in the national convention, and much suspicion, as to the use of the former sums voted, which called up M. Pétion in their defence; they were ordered to give an account, within three days, of their late expenditures in this respect.

The municipal officers appointed to guard the king in the temple, have proposed to the council-general to decree, that the grand crosses embroidered in gold upon the royal vestments, the red riband, and all the other signs of feudalism, shall be prohibited to Louis the sixteenth.

The assembly determining to refute all suspicions relative to the safety of letters, have resolved, that from the first of October, each person delivering a letter, shall receive upon demand, a ticket with a number upon it, which number shall be inscribed upon the letter. The giving the ticket renders the directors responsible for the letter. All letters which contain valuables, they desire may be sealed at each end.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

SATURDAY MORNING, September 29.

Marthal Luckner sent a letter to the convention, justifying himself from the aspersions thrown out against him in the sitting of the 27th ultimo. To the charge made against him of having left the incendiary Jarry unpunished, he replied, that the court-martial of the army of the north was not organized; that there was neither a commissary of stores, nor a commissary of accounts; and, that he had requested the minister at war, but in vain, to appoint such officers.

"When I set out for the Belgian Netherlands," added he, "I was assured, that I should be joined by 30 or 40,000 men; but I remained there fourteen days without seeing one of them. I, however, continued at Courtray, from which I wrote to the minister, entreating him to send me a reinforcement, that I might either maintain my post, or march against Ghent, which I could not do without more troops, because the enemy, who were on my flank at Tournay, would infallibly have cut off my retreat."

He concluded by observing, that his papers were among his baggage, which would arrive next week; and that he would then lay before the commissioners the different letters he had received from the ministers.

LIVERPOOL, September 15.

Extract of a letter from Lisse.

"The officers who were accused of treachery in giving up Longwy, to the arms of the duke of Brunswick, have undergone a trial, and been sentenced to receive the following exemplary punishment; to be buried up to the necks in the earth, and to have first kindled upon their head till they are entirely burnt off; which we hope will prevent others from following their villainous example.

Would not a person think that humanity had fled from France, and hell with all its powers, had taken possession of it?

LONDON, September 28.

Several thousand stands of arms are said to have been landed in the north of Ireland, and immediately carried to the mountains; for what purpose has not yet been discovered. There was a gentleman murdered on board the ship by which they were imported, because he would not swear secrecy. All this was discovered by a mariner belonging to the vessel.

At Market-Harborough church, on Sunday last (by way of prelude to the sermon), the clerk rose, and with an audible voice mentioned, as how he was desired to call a vestry to meet at five o'clock in the afternoon, and consult about admitting a company of players into the town. The singularity of such an oration in a church, together with the comicality of the orator, threw the congregation into an immoderate fit of laughter.

Extract of a letter from Lisse, dated September 27.

"We are absolutely surrounded by the enemy, and all the roads are intercepted. The cannonading was kept up all day yesterday from both parties; that of the besieged, as well as the besiegers. We had five men killed by one ball. We see the enemy from the ramparts carrying off their dead in waggon. We set fire yesterday to part of the suburbs; and enabled the enemy to approach nearer to the wall.

In all the places hitherto conquered, the king of Prussia has distributed orders nearly similar to the following:

"The directors of the district of Longwy are ordered to call to the attention of the king of Prussia, the use of its archives, and to surrender all the titles of property, and any others, belonging to the said archives, and also to break all the seals which may have been placed upon them. The officers of the directory are collectively and individually declared responsible for all the papers which may have been taken away. The present order shall be executed within twenty-four hours.

"Given at —, the — day of —, 1793.

October 1. Count Guillaume de Wittgensteln, who after having raised a regiment for the army of the French princes, was arrested at Francfort at the coronation of the emperor; and conducted to Coblenz, where he was confined two months, has been found innocent, and in consequence set at liberty.

Oct. 2. At the same time that the court of London declines to take any active part in the troubles of France, the elector of Hanover, as a member of the empire, furnishes its quota of troops to the Imperial army. In the reign of George II. Hanover was obliged to furnish its proportion of an Imperial army destined to act against the sovereign of that principality.

Letters received from Ostend, dated September 24, advise, that 30,000 Austrians, from the duke of Saxe-Telchen's army, were marched; with a train of heavy artillery, to lay siege to Lisse. This place, if properly defended by a garrison of 20,000 (for so many are required to defend it fully) would hold out long against 100,000 men; but the present garrison consists of no more than 8,000 men, many of them new recruits, and the chief of the inhabitants are in the aristocratic interest. It is doubtless on a knowledge of these circumstances, that the Austrians attempt the siege with so incompetent a force. Dunkirk will soon fall to them if attacked, as I hear they have only about 800 men ill provided and disciplined for its defence.

The Canton of Berne, in Switzerland, has ordered a public mourning for fifteen days, on account of the defeat and slaughter of the Swiss guards at Paris on the 10th of August. During this time all the public spectacles are to be shut up.

A violent storm has been felt in Hungary, which began on the 7th of September, and continued for forty hours. The destruction was great at Presburg, Tyliss and several other towns, where the lightning destroyed a considerable part of the houses.

Extract of a letter from Ostend, 29th September.

"From the combined army, under the command of the duke of Brunswick, we have this day received very great and authentic news. After the defeat of Dumourier and Kellerman's army, the French evacuated Chalons, and the duke of Brunswick took possession of it on the 22d instant; on the 24th Rheims surrendered; and when those accounts came away, the advanced guard of his army was at Méaux, about twelve leagues from Paris, where it is expected to be early in October.

"This afternoon, a letter was sent express to our magistrates from Brussels, bearing the important intelligence, that general Dumourier's army, consisting of 25,000 men, have been surrounded by the Austrians, and have been necessitated to lay down their arms, and surrender at discretion. This we have little reason to doubt the truth of, as it comes from a respectable quarter."

Another account says, "that the combined armies, under the command of the duke of Brunswick, had completely surrounded the French army, commanded by M. Dumourier, who had offered to give up his artillery and baggage, on being allowed to march to Paris with his arms."

"This was refused, and it was insisted that he should lay down his arms.—This happened on the 24th of last month. The express with the account arrived at Brussels the 28th.

"It was not then known whether Dumourier would submit, or make an ineffectual attempt to fight his way through—the former most probably, will be the result of his determination."

Extract of a letter from Tross, September 14.

"We learn that the events which have taken place at Paris, have determined the King of Prussia not to return to Berlin as he intended, but to push forward in good earnest to the capital of France with his army; and we are further assured that to accelerate their march, orders have been given for each horseman to take a foot soldier by turns behind him. The reason why that monarch wishes to reach Paris as soon as possible is, that he foresees the first business of the national convention will be to proceed to the trial of the king and royal family."

BOSTON, November 24.

The King of Great-Britain has refused to recognize France as a republic; in consequence all official communications with the French ambassador at London have ceased.

In the title of their first functionary, the French republicans have omitted their allies of the United States.—M. Bignon is declared president of France.

We are assured, that there are agents in the United States, commissioned by societies in Ireland, and elsewhere, to make large purchases of lands. The property, therefore, which this commonwealth holds in the district of Maine, may rapidly appreciate—situated, as it is, on an extensive sea coast, and removed so far from the distresses of the wilderness.

NEW-YORK, November 24.

The scarlet and putrid fevers rage with great violence in this city; they are very contagious, as is always the case with such fevers, and generally prove fatal to those who are attacked; not being confined to any particular description of people, but both old and young equally feel their malignant effects.

AUGUSTA, (Georgia) November 17.

On Monday last, the circuit court of the United States for this district, was opened by the honourable Thomas Johnson, one of the associate justices of the supreme court of the United States, and the honourable Nathaniel Pendleton, district judge of this district.

Four persons, who sailed from Boston to the island of Martinique, and from thence to Savanna, in May last, were indicted and tried for stealing on the high seas, near the island of Martinique, a number of negroes, belonging to the inhabitants of that island; Samuel Skinner, of Boston, who was supercargo of the vessel, and who appeared to be the principal, was found guilty by the jury, on his own confession, upon the 16th section of the law for the punishment of certain crimes, against the United States, and was sentenced to receive thirty-nine lashes, to pay a fine of one hundred dollars, all lawful charges of the prosecution, and to stand committed till the sentence was complied with. The other three prisoners, to wit: Nathaniel Hickman, Robert Watts, and Nathaniel Ridgeway, were acquitted. The court sat four days, during which time several civil causes were tried, and a general satisfaction seemed to prevail. We hear that judge Blair, was to have rode the southern circuit, but the indisposition of his family prevented it.

Samuel Skinner, pursuant to the above-mentioned sentence, was, on Wednesday last, publicly whipped at the market-house in this town.

KNOXVILLE, November 3.

Since our last, a troop of horse, commanded by captain James Richardson, and several companies of foot, composing the brigade under the command of general Sevier, have arrived in town. The general is now in camp, and, we are happy to add, is in a better state of health than he has been for some months past.

The orderly and regular behaviour of these troops, since their arrival in this town, has gained them the highest honour; and we have every reason to hope that from the activity, bravery, and good conduct of this army, our bleeding country will be well supported and defended, and perhaps entirely relieved from the bloody, barbarous, and unrelenting hands of merciless savages.

Late accounts from the Cherokees say, that that nation, aided by the Creeks, have positively determined to erect three stockade forts, with block-houses; one at the confluence of the Tennessee and Clinch rivers, the second at Running Water town on the Tennessee, and the third at the Creek crossing place, near the Muscle shoals, by which means they expect to be able and convenient to continue, occasionally, their hostile depredations on any part of our southwestern territory.

PHILADELPHIA, December 5.

INTELLIGENCE FROM CAPE-FRANCOIS.

Nov. 3. The commander in chief, d'Esparbes, and the proscribed, have sailed for France. The civil commissioners have signified to them, that they were not to be considered as in a state of arrest; but required them, at the same time, to appear before the national convention, within a month after their landing.

Rochambeau, the provisional commander, left this yesterday for Oceananthe, which he goes to attack. The West Cordon is to make an attack on their side at the same time.

Notes.—M. Rochambeau had left France as commander of Martinico, the inhabitants of which island, being unwilling to receive him, he landed at the Cape, where the national commissioners have appointed him to succeed M. d'Esparbes.

Extract from a letter dated Amsterdam, September 27, 1792, received by the Closterfeld packet.

"The French affairs grow daily more serious; the Prussian army has advanced beyond Chalons, which was the principal rendezvous of the French, who retreated in great disorder.—The duke of Brunswick approaches Paris, by slow and cautious marches, and it is imagined he will reach it about the 1st of October; riots and the most abominable measures continue in that devoted city. As the Prussians approach, it is expected the mob will become more outrageous, that the murder of the king and queen cannot be prevented, and that the city will probably be plundered and destroyed. The new national convention has assembled and declared itself constituent and supreme, they however submit to the mob in every thing, and sanction their vile proceedings. The armies have had several actions, in which the undisciplined French have been generally worsted. As the friend of liberty, I weep over the fate of that unhappy people."

PETERSBURG, November 29.

By a gentleman arrived in Richmond from the south-western territory, we have accounts from that quarter to the 12th instant, from which we learn—That on the 4th instant, there arrived at Knoxville, eight Indians from the Cherokee nation, three of whom were principal chiefs. The object of their visit was to hold a talk with governor Blount; to assure him of the pacific disposition of their nation, and to request that they might be suffered to hunt without molestation.—That on the 18th a party of Indians stole eight horses from Campbell's station, about twelve miles from Knoxville. That on the 10th two regiments of territorial troops, under the command of colonel Landon Carter, and colonel Gilbert Christian, marched from Knoxville, to guard the frontiers and to build forts and stations between the Papo Ford and the junction of the Clinch and Tennessee.—On the same day general Sevier, pursued his route from Knoxville, escorted by a troop of horse, commanded by captain James Richardson, to take the command of the frontier army, amounting from 12 to 1500 men.—That on the 15th the house of Ebenezer Bryan, on Beaver creek, seven miles from Knoxville, was attacked by a party of fifteen Cherokee Indians, two of whom were killed, and the rest made off.

 HAVING engaged a careful young man to join and assist me in my school for the ensuing year, I give this public notice, that we will teach the Latin language, and give a very good beginning in the Greek, at the rate of four guineas per annum. William Miller,

BEGS leave to inform the ladies and gentlemen of the city of Annapolis, that he has provided himself with an ELEGANT COACHEE and HORSES for the convenience and accommodation of those that want for town use, or to go a distance, and as it may be more convenient for many to hire a carriage for town use in the winter season, than to be at the great expence of keeping horses, he will agree to attend any family for a certain time. His terms will be moderate. From his sobriety and assiduity, he hopes to merit the patronage of a generous public.

TWENTY POUNDS REWARD.
 RAN away from col. Lloyd's farms on Wye the 1d of September last negro JACK, and the 6th of November, instant, negro DANIEL. JACK is an African slave about 5 feet 8 inches high and 37 years of age, rather slender made, a dark neck, very black, and recd a little in his walk, by impudent look, and subject to stammer in his speech; he is a noted rogue and runaway, as he will show, and went off with an iron collar round his neck. DANIEL is about 5 feet 10 inches high, 36 years of age, a little upon the yellow complexion, has a low and very wrinkled forehead when he looks up, high eye-brows, and the hair on them and his eyelashes thick and very black, a large mouth and a lisp of speech. The fear of punishment for breaking his lock and stealing a neighbour's canoe occasioned his fleeing. Their clothing is not certainly known. DANIEL may have a new hat. I will give the above reward or ten pounds for either of them, and will pay all reasonable charges for delivering them to the subscriber.

 ASSASSINATION of the A circumstance has occasioned much alarm. On the 1st of October, a person of the profession a dentist, and who has been apprehended, in consequence of having been made that he was the king of Prussia. This person had been employed by the duke of Wurtemberg in her late visit to Prussia. After he was taken, he had received 50,000 livres, which had been promised for a horrid crime.  Letter from general Tauxemick, found upon the French, sooner by the French, September 1st. I have the honour to inform you that general Clairfayt has returned to the troops under his orders at Faleffe, where he has since retreated to the Prussian camp. As our troops are going to pursue him without loss; we kept our ranks, and he returning to the village of Faleffe. Besides prince Charles, several officers of Clairfayt's army were killed, and twelve men killed in the station of Clairfayt and the post of Croix le Boix. The pieces of cannon, which they did not make a use of, were attacked with vigour, they might easily have been taken. The French fire was us with several cannon, and the Ligne had carried the French, but in the end they were so vigorously pursued, that they were obliged to retire. Otherwise this little

 The accounts from the Continent are making terrible impressions on the minds of the people, and a cord of communication with the Continent is cut. The counts Horn, and the countess of Salm, in killing the king of Denmark in the city of Copenhagen in the year 1745, was recognized as the murderer of the king. He was shot with stones, and was slightly wounded. A few days ago, a countess of Salm, took great pains to publish a book on the subject of the king's death, in which she was very right, and very desirable, there was a large fortune at stake, and I will not be surprised if their rich neighbours should be as we may see

LUXEMBURG.

THIS city has become the perfect asylum of death; a day does not pass in which carriages, loaded with bodies, are not brought in; and if reports may be credited, Thionville has not cost the enemy less than 1000 men. The blockade of Montmedy is still continued by general Clairfayt. The king of Prussia's orders are ordered to buy up provisions at any price; but notwithstanding this, the proximity of many numerous bodies cannot fail of producing a speedy and inevitable scarcity.

FRANCFORT, September 24.

ASSASSINATION OF THE KING OF PRUSSIA.

A circumstance has occurred here, which has occasioned much alarm. On application from the prince Conde, a person of the name of l'Eveque, who is a physician, and is established at Strasbourg, has been apprehended, in consequence of a discovery having been made that he was engaged to assassinate the king of Prussia. This person had been employed professionally in the family of the duke of Wurtemberg, and attended the duchess in her late visit to the princess Ferdinand of Prussia. After he was taken into custody, he confessed the truth of the charge; and added, that he had already received 50,000 livres, in part of the reward which had been promised him for the perpetration of this horrid crime.

From the measures which are now taking, it is probable that many additional particulars of this business will soon be known. It may in the mean time be considered as an additional evidence of the principles which those abandoned persons are actuated, who have usurped the conduct of affairs in France.

PARIS, September 26.

Letter from general Tauengin to the duke of Brunswick, found upon the secretary who was taken prisoner by the French, September 14.

"I have the honour to inform your highness that general Clairfayt has returned to head-quarters, with the troops under his orders.—We pursued the enemy as far as Faleffe, where he passed the bridge, and has thence retreated to the left, probably towards Grand Pre.—As our troops were not at first sufficiently strong to pursue him with spirit, he made his retreat without loss; we kept cannonading from station to station, and he returning our fire at a distance.

"Near the village of Boix de la Croix, we found several of their dead, and from the traces of blood on the grass, it appears that they have many wounded.

Besides prince Charles de Ligne, we have three officers of Clairfayt dangerously wounded. Our loss was ten or twelve men killed, and forty wounded. The situation of Clairfayt and the chasseurs suffered most. The post of Croix le Boix occupied by a battalion and 100 pieces of cannon. It is very fortunate that the enemy did not make a greater resistance, and our vanguard attacked them with so much bravery; otherwise they might easily have possessed themselves of the post. The French fired much and very well, firing us with several cartridges of mitraille. The prince de Ligne had carried off two pieces of cannon from the French, but in the moment when he went up to take possession of a third, he was so vigorously charged, that they all perished. Otherwise this little battle has no consequence."

LONDON, September 16.

The accounts from Turkey are very affecting; the plague is making terrible ravages, and has communicated its influence very near the Austrian demarcation. Several families have already retired to avoid this danger, and a cordon of troops is stationed to prevent communication with the infected places.

The counts Horn, De Ribbing, Lillienhorn, and Bernichwardt, who were accomplices with Anker-Johnson, in killing the king of Sweden, have passed through Copenhagen in their way to Italy. Notwithstanding their endeavours to remain unknown, count Horn was recognized at Helsingbourg, and the people pelted him with stones, by which, however, he was only slightly wounded in the foot.

A few days ago a certain gentleman of the name of Wode, (counsellor C—), not far from Ashford Kent, took great pains to explain to a poor Scotchman, PAINE's book on equality and the Rights of Man, having listened with great attention, the wary Scotchman replied, in his country dialect—"True man, this is very right, I am perfectly satisfied, equality is very desirable, therefore let's you and I begin; you have a large fortune and I nothing; give me half your property, and I will advise all my acquaintances instead of robbing and destroying property, to persuade their rich neighbours to divide theirs with them, so that we may all enjoy upon equal terms the blessings of equality, and the Rights of Man." Struck with the poor Scotchman's reply, and not willing to comply with a request so firewily drawn from his own political creed, the lawyer turned upon his heel, and left him without saying another word.

Duelling every day gets more and more into disesteem. The son of a cheslemonger in the Strand, was bound over to keep the peace on Wednesday last, for having written a challenge to a gentleman at Kensington, who lent as his locum tenens to the field of death a justice's warrant, under the guard of two police officers; and they quietly took the belligerent Mr. Parmentier to Bow-street, where, under a penalty of 100l. he has promised to lay by all weapons of destruction in future, except that semi-circular one, which is the necessary implement of his trade, and with which he has killed in his time some thousands of misty chiefs.

A dentist of eminence, and a hair-dresser of fashion, set out from the west end of the town a few days ago for Paris, on an extraordinary speculation. The dentist to purchase heads for the sake of the teeth, and the perugine for the long hair on them—so that the vacancies within and without the heads of our people of fashion in England, this winter, are likely to be filled up by this extraordinary supply from our devoted neighbours.

DUBLIN, September 29.

We are credibly informed from the tillage counties, that the wet and broken weather that has set in for some weeks past, has destroyed more than one third of the corn harvest of the kingdom.—This calamity, though its effects, as to internal dearth has been often experienced in former times, will now be more severely felt. In those days there was little or no exportation from the kingdom; whereas for the last four years, there has, on an average, been upwards of 400,000l. sterling value of grain and flour sent from Ireland to other countries, making a prodigious influx of wealth to the nation.

The latest letters from Hispaniola speak in very flattering terms of the prospect they have of a very speedy termination of all their disputes, whether political or otherwise, from the spirit of unanimity which has at last taken place amongst the inhabitants.

The last accounts from Port au-Prince mention, that tranquillity is perfectly re-established, that commerce bids fair to lift her drooping head, and that there is plenty of all kinds of produce, particularly sugars, at market.

NORWICH, December 4.

On Thursday evening last, a young man by the name of Cook, aged nineteen, was instantly killed in this town by the bursting of a swivel.—The circumstances as near as we can collect were as follow:—In celebration of the day, (being thanksgiving) a large number of boys had assembled, and by pillaging dry casks from the stores, wharfs, &c. had erected a bonfire on the hill back of the landing, and to make their rejoicings more sonorous, fired a swivel several times, at last, a foolish fondness for a load report, induced them to be petty lavish of their powder, and then fill the swivel with turf—the deceased touched fire to the powder—the explosion burst the swivel into a multitude of pieces, the largest of which, weighing about seven pounds, passed through the body of the deceased, carrying his heart and entrails, and was afterwards found in the street thirty or forty rods from the place where it was fired.—While the serious lament the unhappy accident, they entertain a hope that good may come of evil, that the savage practice of making bonfires, on the evening of thanksgiving, may be exchanged, for some other mode of rejoicing, more consistent with the genuine spirit of christianity.

ALBANY, December 3.

Judge Hofner of Ontario county, arrived in this city on Saturday last, from the Genesee country, and has been so obliging as to communicate to us the important and highly interesting intelligence, of a truce having been concluded between the hostile Indians and the United States, on which we take the liberty of soliciting our countrymen.

He says, the chiefs of the Six Nations, lately deputed and commissioned by the president of the United States, on a mission to the hostile tribes, assembled in council at the Miami village, are returned home, having happily succeeded in bringing about a cessation of arms between the said Indians and the United States—to continue till the spring of 1793—and that, in the interim, they are ready and willing to enter into negotiations with commissioners, on the part of congress, for bringing about and establishing a firm and lasting peace with the United States.

The said chiefs add, that the Indians at the council, contrary to their most sanguine expectations, received them with a great deal of cordiality—saying them their eldest brothers, and treating them as such in the most courteous and friendly manner; and that they paid every possible degree of respect and attention to the talks which were delivered them from the president of the United States.

The above information was received in the Genesee settlement (as might well be expected) with the highest degree of satisfaction; and it has already given a new spring to the spirit of improvement, as well as to all kinds of business in that new and flourishing part of the union.

NEW YORK, December 7.

A gentleman of respectability, who is an inhabitant of, and lately from Kingston, formerly Cateraque, in Upper Canada, assures us that the people of that territory are very desirous of having the prohibition on trade with the United States taken off, and that their request being made known to governor Simcoe, he readily complied with it. Their trade will be by the western lake and the Mohawk. [American Spy.]

ELIZABETH-TOWN, December 5.

The ingenious Mr. Pierce, of Paterfion, has invented a gimcrack for extracting the seed of Carolina cotton from the wool, by which much manual labour is saved. With this machine, it is said, one man will clean seven hundred weight per day.

PITTSBURG, December 1.

We hear that some Indians have been discovered near the place intended for the encampment of the army—and that captain Sparks, of the riflemen, fired at one, and it is supposed, wounded him, as he made off without returning the fire.

On Wednesday last the whole army (except a few that are left in this garrison) marched for their winter quarters.

PHILADELPHIA, December 8.

We learn that the measures taken by the supreme executive of the United States, to bring the hostile Indians to a conference, in which all subsisting differences should be adjusted, have issued in a proposal of the said Indians to meet commissioners of the United States at the Au Glaize, on the Miami river, which runs into Lake Erie, the next spring, at the time the leaves shall be fully out.—And that in the mean time they will lay aside the bloody tomahawk.

The Six Nations have invited governor Simcoe to be present at the proposed conference.

On the 16th ult. a letter from Messieurs Herbert, and Co. of Paris, addressed to congress, was read in the house of representatives—in which they propose that congress should make them a grant of land, as near as possible to Philadelphia.

They say if congress are inclined to attend to their request, they would inform them, that they have fifty shares of one hundred pounds sterling each, to be employed in their first purchase—resulting from an instrument signed by the three eldest sons of the king of England—an authenticated copy of which is transmitted with their letter. This instrument is a bond for one hundred thousand pounds sterling, signed by George, prince of Wales—Frederick, duke of York—and William, duke of Clarence.

This sum was borrowed for twenty-five years, at five per cent. per annum, payable in instalments—and is divided into one thousand negotiable shares by consent of the borrowers.

Extract of a letter from Knoxville, dated November 15, 1792.

"We are all under arms in this country, in opposition to a part of the Cherokees and Creek Indians, who have proclaimed war against the United States, and have committed many hostilities and depredations on our frontier inhabitants: but meeting with a pretty warm repulse in an attack they made on one of our frontier stations, losing several of their head men, and doing no damage to the whites in the station, has caused them chiefly to return home; whether to embody in larger numbers, or not is uncertain. We keep ourselves in readiness for them if they should come.

"There are, at this time, about 1500 militia of our territory, in service under continental pay."

Extract of a letter from Cape Francois, October 28.

"A deputy from the island of St. Lucia appeared at the bar of the republican society this day, to give an account of the distressed situation of that island. He informed that the islands of Martinico and Guadalupe, not content with preventing the national constituted authorities from landing, had equipped a small war, a frigate and several other armed vessels, to force the inhabitants of St. Lucia to trample on the national flag; and erect the white standard; and in case of non-compliance, to cut off every commercial communication."

"The deputy requested the influence of the society to back a petition for relief, which he was about to present to the national commissioners."

Dec. 12. Thionville is another Gibraltar; the Austrians constructed four large floating batteries which they let fall down the Moselle; when opposite the town, they were received by a hot fire, so well directed, that in a few minutes they were sent all to the bottom, and every man on board perished. It has cost the Austrians about five hundred men to get possession of a hill which commands the town. On this place they erected eight batteries, which the garrison sallied forth and destroyed.

Monday last arrived here, in the ship Ceres, captain Marth, from Hamburg, Mr. Blanchard, the celebrated aeronaut, with his aerostatic apparatus. The Ceres having sailed from Hamburg on the first of October, brings nothing new.

Extract of a letter from an American gentleman in Dunkirk, to his friend in New-Bedford, dated October the 5th, received per the brig Mary.

"As to public matters, some things are too horrible to relate, particularly the dreadful massacre in Paris. The abominable instrument that set this on foot, is a member of the national convention; and I am rejoiced to find that almost the whole assembly are disgusted at his being one of their body.—Great severity has been poured out upon him there, and many call for a decree of accusation against him; but others I apprehend fearing it will make too great a bustle, have put it by for the present. The desolations of war approach us! Lisle is besieged by 31,000 Austrians. It is a strong city, 48 miles from this: in still weather the report of their cannon are heard here. It is supposed, if no treachery takes place, to be able to withstand a siege of many months, opposed to an army of 600,000 men. The first instant, 6000 women and children were sent out of the town. The enemy have thrown into Lisle 500,000 lbs of iron—have erected 9 batteries of 6 guns each, carrying balls from 15 to 33 lbs. Lisle has sent them in return 57,000 cannon balls—have lost 130 men, and 100 houses burnt. The most horrid part of this siege is out of the common line of war. The Austrians oblige the neighbouring peasants to work on their trenches and fortification, erecting in the front and most exposed part of the army, where many of the poor creatures are killed by their own friends and fellow subjects. On the night of the second, 6000 fresh troops were thrown into the town, and in two days many more will be in its neighbourhood.

"All the fire engines are sent off from this town for that city, to assist in extinguishing the fire kindled by the red hot balls. It is daily expected that Spain and all Germany will declare war against France. The diet of Ratisbon is supposed to have concluded on this measure. Russia is marching her forces from Poland.

"Switzerland it is feared, will be added to the number, on account of the late inhuman massacre of a great many of their officers: and France has declared against the king of Sarlinia, and has marched an army into his dominions: His army has fled before them, and many of the towns have opened their gates, and desired to be under the French government: But as they have declared against war for conquest, they propose only setting the people free their from king and for themselves to form a republic, or any other government, except a monarchy, they may choose. The answer of the municipality of Lisle, to the duke Albert of Saxony, when summoned to surrender the town, deserves to be preserved—We have sworn a few hours ago, to remain faithful to the republic; to defend with all our force and powers, freedom and equality, or to die at our post.—We are not perjurers—Spartans could not have answered better."

AUGUSTA, (Georgia) November 17.

We are informed that a party of white men from the frontiers of this state, has of late made an incursion to the Cherokee nation, burnt one of their towns, and killed three of their people:—That two of seven Indians of the aforesaid nation, who had been invited into the settlements to hold a friendly talk concerning the late murders by Indians, were killed at Ward's mill, in Franklin county, and a squaw at the same time wounded. These transactions are, no doubt, considered by the doers of them as striking the balance on savage account, it is however assuming a great deal, (to leave humanity and policy out of the question) for individuals to take upon themselves to judge (and carry into execution that judgment) on matters which involve the general tranquillity.

RICHMOND, December 3.

On Monday last we mentioned, that eight Cherokees had arrived at Knoxville, to assure governor Blount of the pacific disposition of their nation—the gentleman who furnished us with a verbal account of the Indian movements which appeared in our paper on the above-mentioned day, assures us, that we so far erred in our detail, as their assurance of peace and friendship did not extend to the nation at large, but was confined merely to their own towns.

At the time of departure of the Warrior's Son from Estanula, John Watts had so far recovered from the wounds which he had received in the attack on Buchanan's Station, as to be able to walk about with the assistance of a stick. We the rather notice this circumstance, as a report has got into circulation, that he had died of his wounds.

The Bloody Fellow had gone to Pensacola, to hold a talk with the Spanish governor; from whence he was expected to return fully bent on war against the citizens of these states.

ANNAPOLIS, December 20.

Captain Ignatio Maurice Spiller, arrived at New-Orleans, on his travels for the Royal Society; in that character, was very favourably received by the governor of Louisiana and West-Florida, the baron of Cayon de Let, who not only suffers him to travel through his government, but also means to give him every assistance, to pursue his career for the good of mankind.

CONGRESS

OF THE UNITED STATES. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, TUESDAY, December the 11th.

The following communications were read yesterday: War-Department, December 10th, 1792.

SIR, IN obedience to the orders of the president of the United States, I have the honour to submit to the house of representatives, the copy of a letter from his excellency the governor of Georgia, dated the 20th of November last, with certain enclosures, relative to Indian affairs.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

With great respect,

Your most obedient servant,

H. KNOX, Secretary of War.

The SPEAKER, of the honourable house of representatives of the United States.

State-House, Augusta 10th November, 1792.

SIR,

With respect to some late outrage committed on the Cherokees, I have to transmit the following certified documents, viz. 1st. A proclamation, 2d. A talk to head men and warriors of the Cherokee nation, 3d. The executive order of the 25th instant, to the law department, 4th. A communication to major Gauthier.

From all which it will evidently appear, that there can be no doubt of the mal-conduct of certain citizens of this state, who have murdered some friendly Indians, and committed other depredations.

You will perceive that the necessary steps have been taken to bring to justice those offenders, as well as to preserve a continuation of amity.

I have to remark, that from the very short crops of grain last season, no period has ever been more unfavourable for war than the present, and this, among other considerations, ought to be of great weight to preserve peace, with the neighbouring tribes: Should my endeavours prove unsuccessful on the score of peace, it will be necessary to be prepared, and for this purpose I have to call for the establishments of magazines, of provisions, without which it will not be possible to keep that number of militia in the field; which will be necessary to give confidence to the frontier settlers to keep their ground, should even, war be avoided.

From what I can learn, this violence on the part of the offenders has proceeded from the circumstances of four whites having been killed, horses stolen, and other depredations committed by the Cherokees: whatever palliating point of view this may be considered in, it cannot interfere to prevent the offenders from abiding the execution of the laws.

I have the honour to be, Sir,

Your most humble servant,

EDWARD TELFAIR.

(Signed)

Secretary at War.

Augusta, November 17.

By his excellency EDWARD TELFAIR, governor and commander in chief in and over the state aforesaid.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS it has been officially represented to me, that certain armed men on the western frontier of this state, did of late fire upon and kill several amicable Indians of the Cherokee nation: And whereas by an act passed the 20th June, 1774, in the (then province, now) state of Georgia, it is amongst other things enacted, "that to murder any free Indian in amity, is by the law of the land as penal, to all intents and purposes whatsoever, as to murder any white," and "that by the law of the land, any person refusing any prisoners so committed, is guilty of felony." And whereas such unwarrantable proceedings are not only a daring violation of law, but must if unannounced, involve many innocent persons in all the horrors of Indian warfare, and as it is highly necessary that such atrocious offenders should receive the punishment due their offences: I have therefore thought fit to issue this my proclamation, strictly charging and enjoining all officers civil and military within this state, to use their best endeavours to apprehend, and bring to justice such offenders; and they are hereby further enjoined and required strenuously to exert themselves in preventing the like lawless and outrageous procedure in future.

Given under my hand and the great seal of the said state, at the state-house in Augusta, this fourteenth day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and ninety-two; and in the seventeenth year of the independence of the United States of America.

EDWARD TELFAIR.

By his excellency's command,

JOHN MILTON, Secretary.

GOD SAVE THE STATE.

State-House, Augusta 14th November, 1792.

To the HEAD MEN and WARRIORS of the CHEROKEE NATION,

The TALK of the GOVERNOR of GEORGIA.

BROTHERS,

EVER since the people of the king over the great water, were driven from our land, your people and the white people of this country have lived, until a few months ago, in peace and friendship; no blood was spilt on either side;—trade, mutual intercourse and good will to each other did prevail, and it has been my great desire, that we should continue in friendship with each other, while the trees grow, and the waters run; But, now the bright chain is become dim, and some of its links broken, whilst your all your good people must lament the unhappy fate of those who have fallen by the madmen on both sides.

Then, brothers, let us not charge each other with the acts of our madmen; and, since we cannot bring life back, let each of us, punish those mad people who have spilt the blood of the innocent; and, following the path between us once more, brighten again the chain of friendship, and fasten all its links together, so longer suffer the dark cloud to cover the little mountain that stands between us:—Let the hatchets be buried, and the big sword shall remain in racks; we will then again take each other high by the arm, and fast by the hand; we shall sit under the same tree, the smoke of our pipes shall make one cloud, and we will taste of the same cup.

Brothers consider well this talk, it is the call of peace, and will be sent to the great and beloved superior of all the white towns that he may know that the bad men on both sides have done.

EDWARD TELFAIR.

By his excellency's command,

J. MERIWETHER, Sec'y, E. D. Wm. URQUHART, Sec'y, E. D.

State-House, Augusta, November 15, 1792.

ORDERED, That a copy of the depositions taken to the burning of a Cherokee town, and killing of Indians of that tribe, enclosed in general Charles's letter of the 14th instant, be transmitted to the department of attorney-general, and that they proceed thereon, agreeably to law; and that the judges be served with a copy of this order.

(Attest) J. MERIWETHER, Sec'y, E. D.

Governor TELFAIR to Major HENRY GAITHER.

State-House, Augusta, 14th November, 1792.

SIR,

I have just received two depositions which contain information of such moment, that I find it indispensable for you to call out a considerable reinforcement of horse to range on that part of the western frontier from Fort Matthews to the Tugelo river: my information is of no less import, than that a body of nine Cherokee men, did, in a lawless manner, go to the Cherokee nation, burn a town, and kill several Indians; and that two others, of the same nation, were also killed, within the settlements in Franklin county. Those outrages having been lately committed, there is reason to apprehend that some more and early attack is meditating by the Indians against the settlers in that quarter.

I am, Sir, your humble servant,

EDWARD TELFAIR.

Major HENRY GAITHER, commandant of the Federal troops, Georgia.

WEDNESDAY, December 12.

A report of the secretary of war, was read, and in obedience to the order of the house, which required a statement of the conjectural items which compose the estimate of expenses necessary for the support of the war department for the year 1793. That the sums to be subscribed to such loans be payable in the principal, or interest of the certificates or notes issued by any such of the said states, as the final settlement of accounts, shall have a balance due to them, from the United States, and which shall have been liquidated to specie value prior to the day of last.

That every subscriber to the said loan shall be entitled, to certificates, according to the sum subscribed of the like tenor and description, in the like proportions, and upon the like terms, as are specified, and directed by the 15th and 16th sections of the act, entitled, "An act making provision for the debt of the United States," except that interest on such of the certificates subscribed to the said loan, as bear interest, shall be computed to the last day of the year 1793, inclusively, and that interest shall not begin to accrue upon any of the certificates which shall be issued in lieu thereof, till the 1st day of January 1794.

That in all cases, where the sum subscribed in the evidences of the debt of any state, shall exceed the balance due to such state, the same shall be reduced (in equal proportions) to the sum actually due to such state.

The other calls himself BENJAMIN COMTAL, a luffy fellow, about five feet ten inches high; has on a brown furrow coat, and brown breeches, says he was set free by Thomas Williams, on Patuxent; they appear to be between twenty-five and thirty years of age; they were taken on Poplar Island; they had a large canoe with an iron band in her head to prevent her splitting. TO BE SOLD,
A neat PHAETON,
 With or without a PAIR of young stout BAY MARES.
 Inquire of the Printer.

Eight Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber, on the 12th inst. a negro man named WILL, about 23 years of age, five feet nine or ten inches high; had on, when he went away, a round felt hat, of snabrig shirt and trousers, and a coarse cloth over jacket, short and round, he had ocher cloaths with him, which cannot well be described, he is likely, of a very dark complexion, full faced, and has a remarkable fine set of teeth, he is slow of speech, and rather awkward in his manners, is a tolerable good blacksmith, but has never worked as foreman of a shop; he was formerly the property of Henry May, late of this county, blacksmith. This fellow was taken out of gaol at Alexandria, in Virginia, about eight days ago, but has since made his escape; when he was apprehended he had a forged pass in his possession, and it is expected he may have procured another. Whoever takes up the said negro and brings him to me, or secures him in any gaol so that I get him again, shall receive the above reward.

RICHARD BEARD.

N. B. It is probable this fellow may endeavour to pass for a free man, as there are many free blacks passing about the country; when he went to Alexandria his intention was to have made his escape by water, I therefore forewarn all masters of vessels, and others, from harbouring or concealing him at their peril, if they should they may expect to be dealt with agreeably to law.

ANECDOTE.

Indecent behaviour in a place of public worship can only proceed from a weak head, or wicked heart. I believe the former to be more generally the case, as we observe it only in young persons, who cannot be supposed to have those ill inclinations, that flow from a depraved disposition. To talk loud, and laugh, during the performance of Divine service, is a piece of wit much affected by young gentlemen of genius, and refined taste. I remember to have heard, or read of a youth of this kind, who frequently indulged himself in the humour of interrupting the service by his noise and grimace. The clerk of the parish, who happened to be a waggish old fellow, was determined to be a match for him. For this purpose he procured a drawing of a Brazil monkey, a species of that animal that has very white teeth, and a complexion not unlike many human faces we meet with. He had him drawn to resemble the young gentleman, as nearly as possible, in his grin and gesture, and contrived it so, as that whilst he was exerting, as usual, his talents in giggling, talking, and grinning, to let the picture gently down, by means of a pack-thread, in front of his reading desk, and in full view of the whole congregation. Every eye was alternately turned to the human, and then to the animal grinner. The likeness was admirable, nay so great that many of the congregation thought the picture not only grin'd, but chatter'd. The victory was complete, and the young gentleman himself was so sensible of it, that from that day he was never known to use that species of wit, in which he discovered he had so formidable a rival. The clerk applauded himself much, as well he might, on the success of his scheme, and used often to brag at the vestry meetings, that there was not a grinner in his parish, or in the whole county equal to his Jack-o-Nay, that he had made a greater reformation in the articles of chattering, and grinning in that, and the adjoining parishes, than all the sermons that ever had been preached in them, for says he, the very young ladies now, when they see a pretty young gentleman smile in church, although without shewing his white teeth, think of my Jack-o.

Quere, Would not such a picture be of use in some of our churches?

From DUNLAP'S AMERICAN DAILY ADVERTISER, of December 15.

By an arrival at Newport, we have received the following glorious and interesting advices.

BELFAST, October 10.

We have more than once stated it as our opinion, that Ireland is deeply involved in the progress of liberty in France; and not only Ireland, but the whole WORLD. It is therefore with much satisfaction, we now announce the defeat of despotism, in the person of that redoubtable hero the DUKE OF BRUNSWICK, who the day before his disgrace, had the audacity to renew his bravados, threatening destruction to a whole people, merely because they had thought proper to BETTER THEIR CONDITION! May such a caution ever meet a similar fate.

Letter from general DUMOURIER.

Dated St. Menhould, October 1.

[The place lately occupied by the enemy.] "At length my dear Servan, what I expected and predicted in my letters, has taken place. The Prussians are in full retreat. The brave Buermonville, who has been styled "The French Ajax," has taken from them during the two last days, more than five hundred men, fifty waggons, and above two hundred horses. All the prisoners and deserters agree, that this army is exhausted by famine, fatigue, and bloody flux. The enemy decamp every night, and march only two leagues in twenty-four hours, to cover their baggage and heavy artillery.

"I have sent a reinforcement to Buermonville, who has more than 20,000 men, and who will never quit them till he has exterminated them. To give the finishing blow to this business I shall join him in person.

"I have sent you some copies of my negotiations, which I have caused to be printed, because the commander of an army of freemen, ought to suffer no suspicions to exist respecting his conduct with the enemy. I think that the present circumstance will deliver us from the scourge of war; and as I told you before, if I remember right, I hope, provided you have confidence in me, to establish my winter quarters at BRUSSELS. You may therefore assure the august assembly of the sovereign people, that I shall never seek for repose, until it shall be put out of the power of tyrants to do us any injury.

(Signed) "DUMOURIER"

LONDON, October 6.

Two letters, one from the commissioners sent to the camp at Chalons, and another from general Dumourier, were read in the convention, stating, that the enemy continued to retreat, and that the road behind them was strewn with dead bodies. On visiting the camp, which they had quitted, 300 horses were found dead and half eaten.

These letters further state, that there were four sick in the hospital-general at Grand Pre, and 5000 at Verdun. General Dumourier was of opinion, that the enemy could neither winter at Verdun nor Longwy, and that they would effect their retreat through Luxemburg.

Eight Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the subscriber, on the 12th inst. a negro man named WILL, about 23 years of age, five feet nine or ten inches high; had on, when he went away, a round felt hat, ofnabrig shirt and trousers, and a coarse cloth over jacket, short and round, he had other cloaths with him, which cannot well be described, he is likely, of a very dark complexion, full faced, and has a remarkable fine set of teeth, he is slow of speech, and rather awkward in his manners, is a tolerable good blacksmith, but has never worked as foreman of a shop; he was formerly the property of Henry May, late of this county, blacksmith. This fellow was taken out of gaol at Alexandria, in Virginia, about eight days ago, but has since made his escape; when he was apprehended he had a forged pass in his possession, and it is expected he may have procured another. Whoever takes up the said negro and brings him to me, or secures him in any gaol so that I get him again, shall receive the above reward.

RICHARD BEARD.

N. B. It is probable this fellow may endeavour to pass for a free man, as there are many free blacks passing about the country; when he went to Alexandria his intention was to have made his escape by water, I therefore forewarn all masters of vessels, and others, from harbouring or concealing him at their peril, if they should they may expect to be dealt with agreeably to law.

Anne-Arundel county, June 20, 1792.

COMMITTED to my custody as runaways, two negro men, one calls himself HENRY BROWN, a lusty strong made fellow, about five feet nine inches high, says he was set free by William Johns, at the lower end of this county; his cloathing is of white cotton or kersey, his under jacket has been bound with black. The other calls himself BENJAMIN CONTEE, a lusty fellow, about five feet ten inches high; has on a brown surtout coat, and brown breeches, says he was set free by Thomas Williams, on Patuxent; they appear to be between twenty-five and thirty years of age; they were taken on Poplar Island; they had a large canoe with an iron band in her head to prevent her splitting. Their owner or owners, if any, are desired to take them away within two months from this date, if not they will be sold for their fees.
