ANNAPOLIS, THURSDAY, November 5, 1807.

WASHINGTON CITY, October 27.

It will be perceived by our Congressional Journal that the national legislature have assembled without the least delay. On Monday, on counting the members of the house of representatives, one hundred and seventeen were found to be present, and one delegate from the Mississippi territory. In the senate twenty-one members were present. Such a prompt and general attendance manifests the zeal and attention which may be expected from the new congress.

The hall of the house of representatives was on this day opened for the first time. We risk nothing in pronouncing it a chief d'œuvre of architectural skill. It was anticipated, by those who had paid a particular attention to the plan, and who were acquainted with the talents of the architect, [Mr. Latrobe] that it would be the handsomest room in the world occupied by a deliberative body. Those who have seen the rooms occupied by European public bodies attest the accuracy of the prediction. We shall not attempt a description of it; reserving this gratification for some future period of leisure. In the meantime we shall barely remark, that, on entering it, the spectator feels a new and strong sensation of pleasure, from the splendour and elegance of all that surrounds him.

The vice-president yesterday took the chair of the state at the opening of that body. We have pleasure in stating him to be in good health.

It is with regret we learn that Mr. Macon, the former speaker of the house of representatives, is disabled from taking his seat in the house by a severe disposition.

TENTH CONGRESS.

The tenth congress commenced on Monday the 18th instant, when general J. B. Varnum, of Massachusetts, was elected speaker; and Patrick Magruder, of Maryland, was chosen clerk of the house of representatives.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

to the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States.

Circumstances, fellow-citizens, which seriously threaten the peace of our country, have made it a duty to convene you at an earlier period than usual. The love of peace so much cherished in the bosom of our citizens, which has so long guided the proceedings of their public councils, and induced forbearance under so many wrongs, may not insure our continuance in the quiet pursuits of industry.

The many injuries and depredations committed on our commerce and navigation upon the high seas for years past, the successive innovations on those principles of public law which have been established by the custom and usage of nations as the rule of their intercourse, and the umpire and security of their rights at sea, and all the circumstances which induced an extraordinary mission to London, are already known to you. The instructions given to our ministers were framed in the sincerest spirit of amity and moderation. They accordingly proceeded in conformity therewith, to propose arrangements which might embrace and settle all the points in difference between us, which might bring us to a mutual understanding on our neutral and national rights, and provide for a commercial intercourse on conditions of equality. After long and fruitless endeavours to effect the purposes of their mission and to obtain arrangements within the limits of their instructions, they concluded to sign such as could be obtained, and send them for consideration; candidly declaring to the other negotiators, at the same time, that they were acting against their instructions, and that their government therefore could not be pledged for ratification. Some of the articles proposed might have been admitted on a principle of compromise, but they were too highly disadvantageous; and no sufficient provision was made against the principal source of irritations and collisions which were constantly endangering the peace of the two nations. The question therefore whether a treaty should be accepted in that form, could have admitted but of one decision, even had no declarations of the other party impaired our confidence in it. Still anxious not to close the door against friendly adjustment, new modifications were framed, and further concessions authorized which could before have been supposed necessary; and our ministers were instructed to resume their negotiations on these grounds. On this new reference to aicable discussion we were reposing in confidence, when on the 22d day of June last, by a formal order from a British admiral, the frigate Chesapeake, leaving her port for a distant service, was attacked by one of those vessels which had been lying in our harbours under the indulgencies of hospitality, was disabled from proceeding, had several of her crew killed, and four taken away. On this outrage no commentaries are necessary. Its character has been pronounced by the indignant voice of our citizens with an emphasis and unanimity never exceeded. I immediately by proclamation interdicted our harbours and waters to all British armed vessels, forbade intercourse with them, and uncertain how far hostilities were intended, and the town of Norfolk indeed being threatened with immediate attack, a sufficient force was ordered for the protection of that place, and such other preparations commenced and pursued as the prospect rendered proper. An armed vessel of the United States was dispatched with instructions to our ministers at London, to call on that government for the satisfaction and security required by the outrage.—A very short interval ought now to bring the answer, which shall be communicated to you as soon as received; then also, or as soon after as the public interests shall be found to admit, the unratified treaties and proceedings relative to it, shall be made known to you.

The aggression, thus begun, has been continued on the part of the British commanders, by remaining within our waters in defiance of the authority of the country, by habitual violations of its jurisdiction, and at length by putting to death one of the persons whom they had forcibly taken from on board the Chesapeake. These aggravations necessarily lead to the policy either of never admitting an armed vessel into our harbours, or of maintaining in every harbour such an armed force as may constrain obedience to the laws; and protect the lives and property of our citizens against their armed guests. But the expense of such a standing force, and its inconsistency with our principles, dispense with those courtesies which would necessarily call for it, and leave us equally free to exclude the navy, as we are the army of a foreign power from entering our limits.

To former violations of maritime rights, another is now added of very extensive effect. The government of that nation has issued an order interdicting all trade by neutrals between ports not in amity with them. And being now at war with nearly every nation on the Atlantic and Mediterranean seas, our vessels are required to sacrifice their cargoes at the first port they touch, or to return home without the benefit of going to any other market. Under this new law of the ocean, our trade on the Mediterranean has been swept away by seizures and condemnations, and that in other seas is threatened with the same fate.

Our differences with Spain remain still unsettled—no measure having been taken on her part since my last communication to congress to bring them to a close. But under a state of things which may favour re-consideration, they have been recently pressed and an expectation is entertained that they may now soon be brought to an issue of some sort. With their subjects on our borders, no new collisions have taken place, nor seem immediately to be apprehended. To our former grounds of complaint has been added a very serious one, as you will see by the decree, a copy of which is now communicated. Whether this decree, which professes to be conformable to that of the French government of November 21, 1806, heretofore communicated to congress, will also be conformable to that in its construction and application in relation to the United States, had not been ascertained at the date of our last communications. These, however, gave reason to expect such a conformity.

With the other nations of Europe our harmony has been uninterrupted, and commerce and friendly intercourse have been maintained on their usual footing.

Our peace with the several states on the coast of Barbary appears as firm as at any former period, and as likely to continue as that of any other nation.

Among our Indian neighbours in the north-western quarter, some fermentation was observed soon after the late occurrences, threatening the continuance of our peace. Messages were said to be interchanged, and tokens to be passing which usually denote a state of restlessness among them, and the character of the agitators pointed to the sources of excitement. Measures were immediately taken for providing against that danger: Instructions were given to require explanations, and, with assurances of our continued friendship, to admonish the tribes to remain quiet at home, taking no part in quarrels not belonging to them. As far as we are yet informed, the tribes in our vicinity, who are most advanced in the pursuits of industry, are sincerely disposed to adhere to their friendship with us, and to their peace with all others. While those more remote do not present appearances sufficiently quiet to justify the intermission of military precaution on our part.

The great tribes on our south-western quarter, much advanced beyond the others in agriculture and household arts, appear tranquil, and identifying their views with ours, in proportion to their advancements. With the whole of these people, in every quarter, I shall continue to inculcate peace and friendship with all their neighbours, and perseverance in those occupations and pursuits which will best promote their own well-being.

The appropriations of the last session, for the defence of our sea-port towns and harbours, were made under expectation that a continuance of our peace would permit us to proceed in that work according to our convenience. It has been thought better to apply the sums then given towards the defence of New-York, Charleston, and New-Orleans chiefly, as most open and most likely first to need protection; and to leave places less immediately in danger to the provisions of the present session.

The gun-boats too already provided, have on a like principle, been chiefly assigned to New-York, New-Orleans, and the Chesapeake. Whether our moveable force on the water, so material in aid of the defensive works on land, should be augmented in any or any other form, is left to the wisdom of the legislature. For the purpose of manning these vessels in sudden attacks on our harbours, it is a matter for consideration whether the seamen of the United States may not justly be formed into a special militia, to be called on for tours of duty in defence of the harbours where they shall happen to be; the ordinary militia of the place furnishing that portion which may consist of landmen.

The moment our peace was threatened, I deemed it indispensable to secure a greater provision of those articles of military stores with which our magazines were not sufficiently furnished. To have awaited a previous and special sanction by law would have lost occasions which might not be retrieved. I did not hesitate, therefore, to authorize engagements for such supplements to our existing stock as would render it adequate to the emergencies threatening us; and I trust that the legislature feeling the same anxiety for the safety of our country, so materially advanced by this precaution, will approve when done, what they would have seen so important to be done, if then assembled. Expenses also unprovided for arose out of the necessity of calling all our gun-boats into actual service for the defence of our harbours; of all which accounts will be laid before you.

Whether a regular army is to be raised and to what extent, must depend on the information so shortly expected. In the mean-time I have called on the states for quotas of militia, to be in readiness for present defence; and have moreover encouraged the acceptance of volunteers, and I am happy to inform you that these have offered themselves with great alacrity in every part of the union. They are ordered to be organized, and ready at a moment's warning, to proceed on any service to which they may be called, and every preparation within the executive power has been made to insure us the benefit of early exertions.

I informed congress at their last session of the enterprises against the public peace, which were believed to be in preparation by Aaron Burr and his associates, of the measures taken to defeat them, and to bring the offenders to justice. Their enterprises were happily defeated by the patriotic exertions of the militia, whenever called into action, by the fidelity of the army, and energy of the commander in chief in promptly arranging the difficulties presenting themselves on the Sabine, repairing to meet those arising on the Mississippi, and dissipating before their explosion, plots engendering there: I shall think it any duty to lay before you the proceedings, and the evidence publicly exhibited on the arraignment of the principal offenders before the circuit court of Virginia. You will be enabled to judge whether the defect was in the testimony, in the law, or in the administration of the law, and wherever it shall be found, the legislature alone can apply or originate the remedy. The framers of our constitution certainly supposed they had guarded, as well their government against destruction by treason, as their citizens against oppression, under pretence of it, and if these ends are not attained, it is of importance to inquire by what means more effectual, they may be secured.

The accounts of the receipts of the revenue during the year ending on the thirtieth day of September last being not yet made up, a correct statement will be hereafter transmitted from the treasury. In the mean-time it is ascertained that the receipts have amounted to near sixteen millions of dollars; which with the five millions and an half in the treasury at the beginning of the year, have enabled us, after meeting the current demands and interest incurred, to pay more than four millions of the principal of our funded debt. These payments, with those of the preceding five and a half years, have extinguished of

COMMUNICATION.
Sunday last, 1st November, about 10 o'clock in the morning, one of the barges of the ship Eole, endeavouring to reach the harbour, was surprised by a violent squall, which filled it with water, and made it upset. Doctor Chapel, surgeon in chief of this ship, a cooper, one of the officer's servants, and 11 men, forming the crew of the boat, would unavoidably have incurred the fate of two of them, who have perished, without the celerity with which the citizens of Annapolis went to their assistance. Capt. Ayreau, in the name of the Frenchmen who have been saved, and Dr. Chapel, for the particular care, and the proofs of interest which he received, are eager to render public the testimony of their most ardent gratitude.

A respectable gentleman of this city has received a letter from an intelligent friend in Dublin, of the 10th of September, which states the situation of Ireland as being perfectly tranquil. The same letter adds, that the general opinion was, the resistance of the Danes would be much more obstinate than had been at first imagined. [Phila. paper.]

The Complaint of Sotades, the Athenian.
IS there a man, just, honest, nobly born?
Malice shall hunt him down. Does wealth attend him?
Trouble is hard behind—Conscience direct?
Beggary is at his heels—Is he an artist?
Farewell repose!—An equal upright judge?
Report shall blast his virtues—Is he strong?
Sickness shall sap his strength—Account that day,
Which brings no new mischance, a day of rest.
For what is man? What matter is he made of?
How born? What is and what shall he be?
What an unnatural parent is this world,
To foster none but villains, and destroy
All, who are benefactors to mankind!
What was the fate of Socrates?—A prison,
A dose of poison; tried, condemn'd and kill'd.
How died Diogenes?—As a dog dies,
With a raw morsel in his hungry throat.
Alas for Æschylus! muling he walk'd,
A soaring eagle dropt a tortois down,
And crush'd that brain where tragedy had birth!
A paltry grape-stone choak'd the Athenian Bee;
Mastiffs of Thrace devour'd Euripides;
And God-like Homer, woe the while! was starv'd.
Thus, life, blind life, teems with perpetual woes.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS some nefarious villain did, on the eighteenth day of October, instant, attempt to assassinate judge James B. Robins, on his return from Caroline county court, near Denton, and did, from an ambuscade, fire a ball at him, which entered his right shoulder, and passed out below his right breast, and another ball which passed through the cape of his coat, and struck his ear: And whereas, there is reason to believe the said assassin is a certain John Whirlow, alias John Rigging, formerly committed to Worcester county gaol by said judge Robins, to answer to a certain crime, and who, by two letters to said judge Robins, threatened to assassinate him, which said Whirlow, alias Rigging, was, on the day before the perpetration of said villainy, supposed to be in Denton, inquiring when said judge would return home: And whereas, it is the duty of the executive, in the execution of the laws, to endeavour to bring all malefactors to justice: I have therefore thought proper to issue this my proclamation, and do, by and with the advice and consent of the council, offer five hundred-dollars reward, to any person or persons who shall apprehend and bring to justice the perpetrator of said offence, in lieu of the reward offered by William Potter, Esq. Given in council, at the city of Annapolis, this 21st day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seven, and of the independence of the United States of America the thirty-second.

ROBERT WRIGHT,
By his Excellency's command,
NINIAN PINKNEY,
Clerk of the council.
Ordered, that the foregoing proclamation be published three times in each week, for the space of two weeks, successively, in the American and Federal Gazette at Baltimore, and the Star at Easton.

By order, NINIAN PINKNEY.

IMPORTANT.
BOSTON, November 1.
Sunday, 1 o'clock.—The Aristides, captain Williams, has this moment arrived from Liverpool, in 44 days. Her latest London dates which are to the 14th Sept. announce the following intelligence:
"That the points in controversy between the United States and Great-Britain, had been discussed, by the respective ministers; and that such an amicable adjustment of them had taken place, to warrant a notice, from both parties, that Peace and Friendship might be considered as being again restored between the two countries."
NEW-YORK, November 5.
To captain Rossiter of the ship Laura, from Bristol, we are indebted for Bristol dates to the 12th, and London to the 9th of September, from which we have copied the following articles, corroborating
the intelligence received at Boston:—
"We are assured that the dispatches recently received by Mr. Munroe, were of a very conciliatory tenacity; and that the tone and spirit in which they were conceived, have already had the happiest effect.
It is stated on good authority, that all differences relative to the search for seamen are already adjusted, and that a negotiation has commenced for the purpose of concluding a treaty of commerce equally favourable to the trade and navigation of England, and to the true interests of the Americans.
"We are happy to inform our readers that considerable progress has been made in settling the dispute with the United States. The dispatches which Mr.
Munroe has received were drawn up in a style the most temperate and conciliating. We are glad they were so, for we have learnt from the most indisputable authority, that Mr. Pitt before his death, expressed to one of his political friends his regret at ever having been induced by existing circumstances to relax
the maritime rights of Britain; and his determination to re-establish the system which had been acted upon during the administration of his father.—In a negotiation, therefore, conducted under the auspices of the present ministers, there is no ground for apprehending that any part of the power we have been accustomed to exercise on the ocean, and which is now more than ever necessary we should rigidly maintain, will be relinquished. To consult the interests of trade is always a wise policy, but no commercial facilities, however advantageous, ought to be purchased by the slightest relaxation of those rights which,

while they preserve, at the same time proclaim to all the world our naval superiority."
Copenhagen had not surrendered to the English on the 4th Sept. although the city was completely invested, and all communication with its inhabitants cut off. At this date, the bombardment was going on;
and the suburbs on fire in three or four places.

IN CHANCERY, November 5, 1807.
William Biggs, Frederick Biggs, Joseph Biggs,
and others,
against
Edward Digges, Henry Digges, Frances Digges,
Edward Neale, Joseph W. Clagett and wife, Susanna Digges, Mary Oneale, and Elizabeth Oneale.
THE object of the bill is to obtain a conveyance to the complainants the Biggs, for part of a tract of land called "the Rich Level," situate in Frederick county; the bill states, that John Digges was seized in fee of the whole tract, that for a valuable consideration, which has been paid, he sold the same to Casper Rice and Jacob Shriver, who divided the land between them, that John Digges died, leaving Edward Digges his heir at law, who devised his real estate to two thirds of his two brothers, William and Henry, the remaining third to his three daughters Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, that the purchasers, and those claiming under them, since the contract, which was in the year 1748, have possessed the land, a conveyance has been made for Rice's part; the bill also states, that the defendants are the heirs at law of the said William and Henry Digges, Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, and that Edward Digges, the defendant, has set up a claim to the land, and brought an ejectment to recover it from the Biggs's, to whom the right of Jacob Shriver, by mesne transfers, has been made, that Edward Digges is out of this state.
It is thereupon, on the motion of the complainant, adjudged and ordered, that they cause a copy of this order to be inserted three weeks, before the 30th inst.

The emperor of Morocco issued a decree on the 27th of June last, by which all the Jews at Mogadore, to the number of 7000, were obliged to leave the town at an hour's notice. The ostensible reason assigned for this act of rigour was, that the Jews corrupted the morals of the Moors, but the real one, a confiscation of Jewish property.

Their houses were appraised by the emperor's agents at about one eighth their real value, which was paid to the unfortunate Israelites, and a small portion of ground assigned them to build upon.

NEW-YORK, November 11.
HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

Captain Doane left London on the 2d of October—he informs that the United States schooner Revenge had arrived at Portsmouth, where Mr. Munroe was to embark for America in a few days, his baggage having been packed up for a week. Mr. Pinkney was to act in his absence. It was reported that the British would not give up the right of search, even of ships of war, for their seamen—that there was but little prospect of an accommodation between the two governments—that the British had given orders to detain all American vessels bound to or from enemies ports—that the blockade of the Ems, Elbe and Weser, was raised about the 20th September—that Copenhagen had surrendered; the Danish fleet was to be manned by volunteers sent from England, and was soon expected to arrive in British ports—that another expedition was fitting out, to carry 20,000 troops, supported by South America, and that flat bottom boats were building for this service—that the Madeira expedition had not failed, but rendezvoused off Cork.

A letter from Mr. Hawker, dated London, September 18, to Capt. Stevens, of the Sanfom, says, "Mr. Munroe is going to America, Mr. Pinkney will act, and although you may hear that his going looks like hostility, it is not so; however, I learn that this government have determined to search all neutral ships for British seamen, and it is said a proclamation will be issued in a day or two to this effect."

The London Star, of September 28, says, "We are informed, and we believe our information is correct, that our government is resolved to retaliate on France by a proclamation exactly on the model of the late French decree of Blockade. Not only the coasts of France and Italy, but of every European state under the influence and control of Napoleon; as also, all foreign dependencies so circumstanced, will be declared in a state of blockade, and all vessels going to, or coming from any of them, will be declared legal prizes."

"This will settle at once the clamours of the Americans respecting their right to trade with the French colonies: carrying, or pretending to carry, their produce to an American port, and afterwards to re-ship the same for Bourdeaux and other French ports."

"We understand, that the definitive answer given by ministers to Mr. Munroe (who has not yet taken his departure) was exactly conformable to the principles that are about to be adopted. Mr. Munroe, it seems, was instructed to declare, that should the British government refuse to concede the points demanded by America, the non-importation act would be immediately enforced. The reply was, "I am commanded by his majesty to inform you, that the issue of such an order from the American government, will be considered and held as a declaration of War."

"On the points respecting the right of search, Mr. Munroe was informed that this country will maintain its right, not only respecting goods, but seamen, not even excepting American ships of war."

"It appears, that by the occupation of Zealand, the British have anticipated the measures of Buonaparte, with respect to that island. The Kniphafen ship Minerva has arrived at Sheerness from Bourdeaux, which she left 12 days since. The captain reports that the inhabitants there had no idea of the surrender of Copenhagen to the British; but it was currently reported, that 80,000 French troops had gone to Portugal, and that Buonaparte himself had proceeded to Holstein with 120,000 troops, to endeavour to get possession of Zealand. This captain says there were nearly 200 sail of Danes at Bourdeaux."

Accounts from Algiers mention, that a treaty has been concluded with the regency of that country and Great-Britain, by which the exclusive right of the trade of the ports of Bona, La Cala, and I Col. has been ceded to the latter, for the exportation of hides, wool, wax, and 7,500 fanagues wheat annually; and ceded the coral fishery on the coast.

French troops were marching from Upper Italy to the kingdom of Naples, whence it is concluded that an attack on the island of Sicily was not far distant. French troops have taken possession of Cattaro.

The island of Rugen, including all the Swedish islands on the German coast of the Baltic, have capitulated to the French.

Lord Collingwood sailed from Malta the latter end of July, with a squadron for the Dardanelles.

The British parliament had been further prorogued to the 10th of November.

Gen. Fox and his staff had arrived in England from Sicily; and the command of the army in the Mediterranean devolved on gen. Moore.

The Dutch government have interdicted all intercourse with England. The regulations are drawn up with that severity which characterise every proceeding of Napoleon in matters relative to British commerce. His design is to exclude England entirely from the continent of Europe; and no choice appears to be left her, but to fight him with his own weapons, and destroy at once every vestige of a system of neutrality, and this, it is understood, is the determination of the English government.

Copenhagen surrendered on the 7th Sept. The articles of capitulation surrender the whole of the Danish ships and vessels of war, and possession of the dock-yards, store houses, &c. to the British within six weeks from the date of the capitulation, or sooner, the citadel of Copenhagen and the island of Zealand were to be evacuated, and the prisoners taken on both sides to be unconditionally restored.

LONDON, September 24.

The opinion that a rupture will take place between this country and America gains ground in this city. In what temper of mind Mr. Munroe took his departure is not publicly known, but it is pretty generally understood that our government maintained a dignified tone on some of the points endeavoured to be wrested from this country by threats. On some of these Mr. Munroe is said to have remarked that they had been conceded by the treaty sent some time ago to America. The answer was—"true—and if your government had ratified that treaty, his majesty's present ministers would have considered themselves bound by the act of their predecessors; but the treaty having been returned unratified, has no more weight than any other piece of waste paper."

The question between this country and America may be reduced to a very narrow compass. The Americans contend that they have a right to trade with the French colonies, because France has permitted them during the war. We answer, that in the very nature of things, a war in which they are not a party, cannot confer privileges on them for which they are debarred in time of peace. France does not allow America to trade with her colonies during peace, and allows her to do so during war, because it is of service to France. By the spirit of colonial law, none can trade with the colonies of any country but with the mother country—and it follows that every vessel for trading can have no other protection in that trade than what the mother country can afford them—they become while in that trade the vessels of the mother country.—Star

Return of the Lisbon and Oporto Fleets.

There is every reason to believe that all is now right at the court of Lisbon. The fleet bound to Lisbon and Oporto, upon joining their convoy had their instructions taken from them, and have returned to Falmouth. General Junot's mission is supposed to have a hostile object.

A letter has been received in this city, dated the 11th instant, from a respectable merchant in New-York, stating that a gentleman who came passenger in the ship Sanfom, saw Mr. Munroe on the evening of the 1st of October, who informed him, "that he had hopes of an accommodation with Great-Britain at an end."

[Fed. Gaz.]

From a Boston paper of November 10.

Last evening a report was brought to town, through different channels, from Marblehead, stating, that four or more fishermen had arrived there from the Banks, which had been spoken by the Revenge, on her passage from England, and informed that WAR WAS DECLARED AGAINST THIS COUNTRY!

That a fisherman has arrived and spread such a report, we believe; but whether he is hoaxed or lying, we cannot determine. A story so improbable, wants some better authority to give it the least credence.

THE object of the bill is to obtain a conveyance to the complainants the Biggs, for part of a tract of land called "the Rich Level," situate in Frederick county; the bill states, that John Digges was seized in fee of the whole tract, that for a valuable consideration, which has been paid, he sold the same to Casper Rice and Jacob Shroyer, who divided the land between them, that John Digges died, leaving Edward Digges his heir at law, who devised his real estate to two thirds of his two brothers, William and Henry, the remaining third to his three daughters Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, that the purchasers, and those claiming under them, since the contract, which was in the year 1748, have possessed the land, a conveyance has been made for Rice's part; the bill also states, that the defendants are the heirs at law of the said William and Henry Digges, Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, and that Edward Digges, the defendant, has set up a claim to the land, and brought an ejectment to recover it from the Biggs's, to whom the right of Jacob Shroyer, by meane transfers, has been made, that Edward Digges is out of this state.

THE object of the bill is to obtain a conveyance to the complainants the Biggs, for part of a tract of land called "the Rich Level," situate in Frederick county; the bill states, that John Digges was seized in fee of the whole tract, that for a valuable consideration, which has been paid, he sold the same to Casper Rice and Jacob Shroyer, who divided the land between them, that John Digges died, leaving Edward Digges his heir at law, who devised his real estate to two thirds of his two brothers, William and Henry, the remaining third to his three daughters Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, that the purchasers, and those claiming under them, since the contract, which was in the year 1748, have possessed the land, a conveyance has been made for Rice's part; the bill also states, that the defendants are the heirs at law of the said William and Henry Digges, Elizabeth, Eleanor and Mary, and that Edward Digges, the defendant, has set up a claim to the land, and brought an ejectment to recover it from the Biggs's, to whom the right of Jacob Shroyer, by mesne transfers, has been made, that Edward Digges is out of this State.

[Omitted last week for want of room.]

NEW-YORK.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in New Orleans,
dated September 17, 1807.

"WE have been for some days in a state of confusion, and, I might say, rebellion.—A piece of ground called the Batture or alluvion ground, fronting the upper suburbs of this city, has been in dispute for about two years between John Gravier and the city.
In May last, the superior court entered up a decree in favour of John Gravier, who was then put in peaceable possession of his property. Mr. Edward Livingston has since purchased the property, and on the 14th instant, got a parcel of negroes to work to dig a canal. A posse of Frenchmen, headed by colonels Bellechasse and Macarty, repaired to the place and drove off the negroes—threatened to throw the constables, who were sent there to keep the peace, in the river. Colonel Macarty told a constable that he ought to feign sickness, and not come there to oppose them. The disorganizers were going to do some violence to the constable, but Colonel Macarty told them not to hurt him, as he had been a long time in this country and had married into his family! This Macarty is colonel of Militia, and a member of the legislative council of this territory!! After the most disgraceful conduct that could be conceived, one of the disorganizers addressed them, and invited them to meet the next day by the beat of drum, to oppose the possession of the Batture by the proprietor.
They then gave three cheers approbatory of the address, and soon after dispersed.

On the day following, at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, the disorganizers were summoned to the ground by the beat of drum, in the very teeth of the governor, who was repairing to the spot to endeavour to pacify them. The governor, after some conversation with the leaders, addressed them as follows:

The following is a copy of the Speech delivered by governor Claiborne to the people who were assembled on the Batture:

FELLOW CITIZENS,
Permit me to claim your attention, and as your governor and your friend to submit to your consideration a few observations.

Whatever may be the redress desired, believe me the mode you have adopted is improper; it cannot possibly avail you, and if persisted in, will injure yourselves and your cause.

It is the duty of us all to yield submission to the laws. The supreme court of the territory has pronounced this batture to be the property of Mr. John Gravier, and he, and Mr. Livingston (who claims under Gravier) have been put peaceably in possession thereof, by the sheriff. The supreme court derives its authority from the government of the United States, and its decrees must therefore be obeyed.

It is no less my duty than sin ere desire to promote by all the means in my power, the interests of my fellow-citizens. To the president of the United States, who expects from me a faithful relation of whatever concerns the welfare of this territory, I have already transmitted such information as I could obtain relative to the conflicting claims to the batture, nor will I omit laying before him, such further representations upon the subject as may be furnished me.

The decision of the supreme court is for the present conclusive.—It however does not exclude (in my opinion) all further inquiry into the right of property to the batture; but such inquiry must be recommended and conducted in submission to the government and conformably to the laws.

I have come among you singly and with confidence; I look to yourselves for support; we must all aid in the preservation of good order; I am persuaded that no individual in this assembly would wish to raise his arm against the government—and when, fellow-citizens, your chief magistrate unites to a command, an earnest entreaty, that you should forthwith retire in peace to your respective homes, no one I am certain will be found in opposition.

WILLIAM C. C. CLAIBORNE.
He then explained to them the nature of our government, that no man was above the law, and that we all owed submission to it.

They listened to the governor with great attention;
and after he had concluded, testified their approbation
of his conduct by cries of "Vive la Gouverneur."— Live the Governor. They proposed that col. Macarty should be appointed to represent their case to the general government, and seemed well satisfied with the turn the affair had taken. But when the governor's back was turned, col. Bellechasse the commander of our militia, said, "If Livingston shall prosecute one of us, we will tar and feather him, and throw him in the river." The multitude applauded the speech, and requested him to go to some house and repeat it. Such is the disgraceful conduct of a mob, in opposition to the decrees, made by judges of as stern, unshaken integrity as any in America.

demned to Worcester county gaol by said judge Robins,

say before the perpetration of said villainy, supposed to be in Denton, inquiring when said judge would return home: And whereas, it is the duty of the

our to bring all malefactors to justice: I have

The following message was read.

We have received your dissent to the resolution originated in this house in favour of John Trueman, a veteran of 1776. We should urge to you as an inducement to reconsider the same, the claims which he has upon the justice and liberality of the state, if your message did not recognize them.

The house of delegates entertain a high rate of the propriety and policy of acting with a liberality and justice becoming a wealthy and dignified state, towards those who have spent the prime of their lives in the service of their country; and whenever any individual, or the representatives of such, shall approach this house, with a claim sanctioned by justice and gratitude, they will meet with a prompt attention, and a disposition to extend to them a remuneration equal, if not superior, to their just demands. But, notwithstanding this disposition to act with munificence, we cannot consent to gratify it, by the adoption of a mode which we consider totally inconsistent with the independence essential to correct legislation.

We entertain a high respect for the senate of Maryland, as a co-ordinate branch of the government, and when we say, that the alternative offered by your message, if adopted, may establish a precedent which we consider will be beneath the dignity of the legislative body of Maryland, we beg to be understood as not depreciating from that respect. The sum of twenty-five dollars is not an object of state concern, but to Trueman it may be an object of great importance.

We flatter ourselves, that when you see the solicitude which this house manifests in favour of John Trueman, and reward a meritorious officer.

The clerk of the senate delivers the bill for the relief and benefit of the poor, and trustees of the poor, of Washington county, the bill to alter the time of holding the county courts of Queen-Anne's county, the supplement to the act relating to the public roads in the several counties therein mentioned, and the bill to lay out and make a public road in Baltimore county, severally endorsed, "will pass." Captain Williams, arrived at Salem from Leghorn, confirms the account of the capture of that city by the French; of their laying an embargo which continued until the 16th of September, when it was taken off. He informs, that, Lord Paget, the English minister, was negotiating at Constantinople, with a prospect of success; being backed by Lord Collingwood with 16 fail of the line; who had taken the island of Tenedos, (recently restored to the Turks by Russia) with 6 or 7 fail of the line; that a French army of 60,000 men which had been on the march to Naples, supposed to be ultimately destined against Sicily, had halted, and this was attributed at Leghorn to appearances unfavourable to the French in other parts of Europe. The discontents at Petersburg it was expected would produce a change there in favour of the war party; and it was confidently believed that England would still be able again to combine with Austria and Russia against France, to which the powerful diversion she had made at Constantinople would probably contribute. Such was the view of affairs at Leghorn on the 1st of October. [Boston paper.]

Numerous letters from Halifax, state that orders have been received there from England, to organize the militia, and put the fortifications in repair. One hundred militia were employed daily in assistance on the works: and large reinforcements were expected. [Ibid.]

MORE UNWELCOME NEWS.

Extract of a letter from a house of the first respectability in Antwerp, to another in Bourdeaux, dated September 28, and received at Bourdeaux by express, just before the Sally-Barker-Windfor left the latter place.

"We understand an order has been given out by the emperor, to capture every vessel bound to or from England, and if with cargoes to be considered as good prize. This is a mortal blow to the American commerce; and we fear will lead to a rupture between America and France."

A gentleman who came passenger in the Sally-Barker-Windfor, informs us, "That two cases of capture, [American] made since, and under the decree of the 21st November, 1806, were brought before the prize court at Bourdeaux, a short time before he left that city; but the court had refused to give an opinion until fresh instructions should be received from the emperor. These instructions were called for by the court, and a question demanded—whether the decree was to be put in full force against the Americans? His answer was, that in effect, the law did operate against them as with all other neutrals."

[Boston Gaz.]

Capt. Cleveland, arrived at Boston, failed from on board on the 15th of September. There had been a complete change of ministry; the former ministers, and many subordinate officers, had resigned in disgust, in consequence of the conclusion of the treaty with France, which was unpopular. The new administration are, of course, rather in favour of France. Preparations were entertained of a hostile visit from British, and defensive preparations were making.

Letters from Paris state, that the boundaries of Louisiana have been settled by the French emperor to the satisfaction of our minister at Paris.

The suspension of the "non-importation law" expires on the 14th of next month, after which it will be in its full force and effect, unless a repeal or another suspension takes place.

He departed this life, on Tuesday the 16th instant, RICHARD HIGGINS, in the 66th year of his age, a long inhabitant of Anne-Arundel county—was attacked with a severe and distressing illness, which he bore with resignation and christian fortitude, and amidst the endearing tears of his family and number of neighbouring friends, he paid the last of nature.

This man society has to lament the loss of one of its most useful members, he was an example of piety, and the most strict integrity, in industry and industry he was exceeded by none, as a husband and father he was most affectionate and tender, as a parent he was most affectionate—charitable, humane and benevolent in his neighbourhood—a kind good master and sincere friend—Long, long, shall we deplore the loss of this excellent man, and drop a tear of sympathy with his nearest relations!!

Several articles prepared for this day's paper unavoidably omitted until our next.—See last page.

FRANKFORT, (Ken.) Oct. 22.

The following communication from governor Harrison was received by the last mail.

The undersigned the governor of the Indiana territory and superintendent of Indian affairs, is happy to have it in his power to inform his fellow citizens that there does not at present exist the smallest probability of an Indian war. Confidential agents whom he has employed to visit the several tribes have lately returned, and brought with them the result of several meetings and councils held by the chiefs, in all of which it was unanimously determined to preserve their relations of peace and amity with the United States, even if a war between us and Great-Britain should take place.

The few Indians upon the lakes who are under the British influence, are too contemptible in point of number and character as warriors, to undertake any hostile enterprise without the aid and concurrence of the Indians of the Wabash, who are decidedly for peace. The undersigned pledges himself for the peaceable disposition of the Delaware, Miami, Wca, Piankashaw and Kickapoo tribes.

WILLIAM HENRY HARRISON.

Vincennes, 12th October, 1807.

Information, corroborative of the above, has been also received by us from general Wells, dated at Staunton, on the Miami, in the state of Ohio.

The stories of Indian hostilities and massacres, circulating in several of the public prints, as having been committed at Detroit, are destitute of foundation. No families have been murdered, nor any persons have been injured at all, by the Indians of that place. [Phil. pap.]

A letter from captain Field, at Leghorn, received at Salem, mentions the massacre at Constantinople of fifteen thousand Christians, by the Turks.
