WILL YOU LOVE ME THEN?

By H. ELLIOTT M'BRIDE.

Will you love me when deep sorrow
Closes round my heart of mine—
When my dreams of fame are over
And I go into decline—
Will you love me then?

Will you love me when the money
All is spent and swept away—
When the bills remain unsettled,
And the creditor waits for pay—
Will you love me then?

Will you love me when I'm wrinkled,
Bent and bald, and cross and old—
When I sit all day and grumble,
 Mutter, mutter, find fault and scold—
Will you love me then?

Will you love me when great trouble
Come upon me thick and fast—
When the days of peace and plenty
Have shuddered and are past—
Will you love me then?

Will you love me when deserted
By the friends of former years?
Will you stand with a "kerchief
Wipe" away the falling tears?
Will you love me then?

Will you love me when I'm perishing—
When I have no teeth above—
Will you come to my old home—
Will you love me then?

If you will, then you're a daisy.
You're a jewel, you're a queen;
And our life shall be serene,
If you'll love me then.

THE ROMANS WERE SUPERSTITIOUS

There is perhaps no period in a woman's life that so completely changes her whole existence as marriage, and for that reason she is apt to be more superstitious and fanciful than at any other; and while superstitions are fast becoming a thing of the past, there are very few women who will not hesitate before making Friday their wedding day, or will not rejoice at the sunshine, for "happy is the bride that the sun shines on." June and October have always been held as the most propitious months in the twelve, a happy result being rendered only certain if the ceremony was timed so as to take place at the full moon, or when the sun and moon were in conjunction.

The Romans were very superstitious about marrying in May or February; they avoided the 13th of every month, and the 17th of every month. They also avoided the 14th of May, July, and August, and the 15th of August, and the 15th of the month of August.

A bill to recover twenty dollars was tried another for securing his wife, was tried in a court of that city a few days ago, and decided in favor of the defendant. The woman was secured, but, owing principally to her wearing false teeth, she was rejected. Another woman, to whom he afterwards got married, was secured by himself, and the court decided that under these circumstances the contract did not hold good.

Some heathen, or not as much of the heathen as we think, read a Mahometan proverb, "God has bestowed the good things of this world to relieve our necessities, not to reward our virtues; these will be rewarded in another world." We know of no greater necessity to be relieved, than a stubborn cold, and we know of no better relief than Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Do not think with a cold, thinking it will pass off in a few days, but get a bottle of DuRoi's "Swiss Balm" and see what a few doses will do for you. Affords relief in every instance. Quick, safe and reliable. Price 25 and 75 cts. Sold by Dr. L. D. Collier.

Election statistics show that out of every 100 persons entitled to vote at the recent election twenty-seven were not exercising their right. Indiana led with an average of only seven stay-at-homes to the hundred, while Georgia had sixty-one. New York averaged twenty-two.

The coming Mardi-Gras at Mobile, Ala., on the 16th and 17th of February, promises to excel in beauty and splendor all previous carnivals in that city. The carnival is to be supplemented by an exhibition drill by the Mobile Cadets, one of the crack military organizations of the South.

The March of Mankind.

People come and go on the face of the earth. Every minute of the day 70 new human beings are brought into existence and 67 are removed. The population of the world is steadily increasing at the rate of three per minute, or 4,830 per day, more than 1,000,000 each year. Just think of the yearly increase of man being equal to the entire population of the state of Iowa. Where do they all go? The home of the human race, as we are able to learn, is in Asia, and from there all nations have come. The rapid increase of population in the United States shows the tendency of the race to scatter and seek new fields. Had the Revolutionary fathers forbidden immigration, our great West would still be a great waste. The natural increase of population would not have been sufficient to have populated the country as far west as the Alleghenies. However, instead of discouraging immigration they offered incentives to attract and maintain the population.

THE JOKER'S BUDGET.

THE MODERN SHAKESPEARE.

"So soon returned, Andromeda?"
"Soon!" says the town, "callous creature? Soon?"
"Soon, said I, fervid fairy, simply soon. Time's but a wink in realm of retrospection, love, and days do flash across the track of busy minds."
"Angela of constancy attend the rascal! Oh! have I thank his staid soul o'erflow art with speeches such as these. 'Thou art me heart! Thou art a life and left of heart and life for six long days, he greets his restoration with a 'soon.'"
"Fore heaven thou' wandering from the realm of sense, for he that is of life and heart needs 'so soon' deal, and what is time to him that sleeps in death."
"To him at that, writing, for a sweet apology! This tips thy greeting with 'soon' response, for if to thee my absence were 'soon'—And you did truly miss me, 'soon'?"
"His slight'st missed when morn is all a mist, for 'soon's' a miss in whom is naught amiss."
"I mean 't'hou that thou art a naughty miss, that speech hath won thee twenty kisses, dear; there's ten for value of its compliment, and ten for brilliance of its courtly wit."
"If that's my compliment, I'll soon it tender one, and waver tender one I'll raise me due."
"As rays on dew obliterate the dew, if so thou do, 'thou'll lose thy dew, my dew."
"Adieu to thee, fair duelist, adieu, or else 'thou'll dun thy senses ere 'thou'rt. 'Thou'rt such a writing at this war of wit that 'thou' night's' white till there's not a whit."
"A chipper out, thou axiomatic youth! There's hint therein that I've a wooden mind."
"I wooden mind a hint like that, my love. Let's block this millinery and shingle out some other fuel for our plausibility."
"We will, Henrico, and it please thee so. We'll coax the coke to brighter glow and while I woo thee with my coquetry."
"I beam on me with that purpose, maid for I'm mood to like thy vocal timbre, when I'm mood."—Tomker's Gazette.

UNFULFILLED AMBITIONS.

A young man with a broad back and a sorrowful look was standing in front of the Basil of Trade the other day, when an acquaintance came and called out:

"Hello! Thomas—out of a job?"
"Yes, out of a job," was the sad reply.
"Why were you a porter for a wholesale house for three years past?"
"I was, but I've been discharged."
"Is that so, have you trouble with the boss?"
"No, not exactly. You see I went into the house to work my way up. The first Christmas I ought to have been promoted to salesman, but was not. The second Christmas I ought to have been offered a partnership for my faithful services, but the offer did not come. This year I ought to have married the daughter of the senior partner and found a home and lot in my Christmas stocking, but that prospect has now departed."
"Well, I overhauled the old man on the street car yesterday and intimated that I was ready to do my part but he never let on he knew me. This morning I was told my services were no longer needed."
"But can the boss run without you?"
"It may possibly squeak along, but if there is a failure it must not be laid up again me. Do you know of any bank where a man can begin as watchman and work up to marry the President's widow? I think I'll try that business for a spell."
—Chicago News.

PROGRESS OF SCIENCE.

In 1900, a little boy will run to the corner grocery with a can in his hand, and ask:

"Mah wants a quart of your best electricity."
"How did you make like the last?" the grocer will ask.
"All right."
"That Johnson's Johnson makes good 'tricity,' the grocer will remark, as he turns the little boy on a quart. 'Wot's your mah using for to-day?'
"She's going to wash, and wants it to run the washer and wringer."
"There you've my little mah. Look out and don't spill it." And the grocer will give the little boy a bunch of raisins.
—Pittsburgh Chronicle Telegraph.

A BIRD TO PASTORS.

Chancelor Yeager, meeting Reverend Whangloode Baxter on Austin Avenue, asked him:

"How is your congregation coming on?"
"We are going right ahead, sac. Since we has quit passin' de hat we has taken in lots of money. De kerkesians has increased wonderfully sac, wonderfully."
"I don't understand how you can take up collections if you don't pass the hat."
"We passes de plate, now."
"Well, that's the same thing as passing the hat, isn't it?"
"No, sac, it isn't de same thing. Deacon Webster passed de hat for mah den a year, and de kerkesians were mighty small; but now I passes de plate myselt, and de money just rolls in. De plate am much more reliable den de hat."
"How is that?"
"Deacon Webster put tar in de top of his hat.—Siftings.

THE BOROYER'S FAMILY.

The borrowing family sent their boy Jack over to Mrs. Murphy's for some sugar, and sugar and a plate of butter. Mrs. Murphy was busy, and had no inclination to lend to neighbors who never returned anything they borrowed. At the same time she did not care to entirely offend them. "I'd be glad to accommodate you," she said politely, "but I am in a hurry and haven't the time to wait on you. I've other things to fry just now."
The boy went home and reported that Mrs. Murphy was too busy to attend to him, and had other things to fry, etc.
"And why didn't you go back and ask the mother, breadless?" "Go back and take another plate with you, and tell Mrs. Murphy you're in a hurry, and mother would be much obliged to her for a plate of the fried fish."
RECOGNIZABLE WIFE.
The poor woman had stepped upon an unburned brick, and her condition grew "unpleasantly" as the doctor said. "He was explaining to her," the doctor said.

GEMS OF THE ORIENT.

THREE DIAMONDS FOUND IN AN INDIA—A THIRDS AND CROWN TOGETHER—WORTH $42,000.00.

Augustus Hamlin, in his "Leisure Hours Among the Gems" says: "The history of gemstones is the history of the governing principles, for so often the course of history in the Orient been affected by intrigues about precious stones that they assume a state importance. The traditional diamond in the East is the Great Mogul. The original weight of this stone was 787 carats, but, by the loss of the balance of 279 carats. The stone disappeared at the last Tartar invasion, when treasures to the value of $350,000 were captured by Nadir Shah. It is believed to be at present hidden away in some obscure fortress in Asia Minor, and it may be recovered at some future time. Some idea of the abundance of precious stones in the East may be gained from the fact that when Mahmood, in the eleventh century captured Sumnat, an idol statue was broken open and found to contain three bushels of diamonds, rubies and emeralds. Also, when Mahmood captured the Ka'ba of Maharrat fifty pounds of diamonds and rubies and 175 pounds of pearls. Shah Jehan, the greatest of the Mogul sovereigns, left a treasure of incalculable value at his death, a stone valued at $30,000,000 and a crown worth $12,000,000. The crown was the 'Koh-i-Noor' peacock throne, so called from the image of two peacocks which stood before it, each made of precious stones so matched in color and in position as to resemble the natural colors of the bird. The throne was six feet long and four feet wide, of solid gold and encrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds. Steps of solid gold led to it, while a canopy of gold, fringed with pearls, supported by twelve pillars, embellished with gems, surrounded the whole. On each side was a sacred umbrella made of velvet, embroidered with pearls, the handle being of gold inlaid with diamonds. It was the most costly work of art ever made. Its only rival was the curlew throne of the house of Balahance in the Nizam. This was built in the seventeenth century, was nine feet long by three feet wide, was made of solid gold and encrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds. It was valued at $20,000,000. A late traveler in the East, Mr. Eastwick, has recently given a graphic account of the magnificence of the Persian crown jewels. In the jewel room he found treasures valued at $35,000,000, among them the crown, a pair of earrings, a necklace, a pair of gloves, a bag of a man's egg. The King's belt is a wonder of barbaric magnificence, weighing about twenty pounds and composed of a solid mass of diamonds, rubies and emeralds. As Paris is the native land of the turquoise, it is but natural that the finest stones of this description is to be found in its collection. This royal specimen is four inches long, perfect in color and without a flaw. When the Shah was in Europe, some years ago, he wore a variety of diamonds and other precious stones that kept the detectives in a great state of fever, for one, even the smallest, would have been a fortune for a half dozen thieves. The buttons of his coat were five in number, and each number was a diamond larger than the Koh-i-noor, while every part of his clothing seemed to be useful, not as a covering for the body, but as places to hang diamonds on.

H. Inley of the schooner Ethel, was making his way up the Bay from the Nanticoke river. Capt. John W. Wingate, Deputy Commander in charge of the Corvete Franklin, left soon after Capt. Inley, being sent by the steamer Gov. Thomas, in charge of Capt. Griffith. On nearing Capt. Wingate's boat the Ethel in a boat without license and probably loaded with opium. A large and commodious water-shed tank will be at the disposal of the town of Salisbury. The tank will be situated on the site of the old water tank, and will be used for the purpose of watering the city and its vicinity.

Mr. Samuel H. Townsend has recently improved his property, consisting of 100 acres of land, by putting up a new fence, and grading the sidewalk. Mr. Clayton J. Parnell will shortly vacate his residence, corner of Church and Main streets, by putting up a new fence, and grading the sidewalk.

On Wednesday last, the schooner Mary J. Bond, Capt. W. T. Coulter, sailed for the city. The cargo consisted of 1,000 bushels of wheat, 1,000 bushels of corn, and 1,000 bushels of flour. The schooner was slightly damaged.

The steamer Tropic, being used pretty roughly on her trip up to Baltimore on Thursday night, by the ice, had to be repaired, and consequently did not arrive at Onkfield Saturday morning last. She will leave Baltimore this evening for Onkfield.

Capt. P. Frank Ledford of this county, has been paying considerable attention to sheep-raising of late, and already has a flock of young lambs numbering thirty or more. The weather for the past two weeks has been pretty severe on them, but those that survived it are brisk and gay and are growing fast.

During the winter months several new brooms have made their appearance in our streets and neighborhood. Their owners seem disposed to "keep them shy." Mr. Peter Good, who recently moved to Somerset county is about to purchase all the land in that county now owned by Mr. S. F. Kase, of Philadelphia. There are three tracts, in this property, all on the Manakin river, and they are said to be among the best land in Somerset. It is reported that $30,000 is to be the price for them.

The Commissioners of this County have appointed Capt. S. F. Stone of Wainmount to command the County police boat, and he has entered upon the discharge of his duties. Violators of our city law will not be excused by Capt. Stone, and we confidently expect that a large number of applications will yet be made for license to dredge in our waters.—Criffield Leader.

The members of the Baptist Church, at Popokey City, a few days ago, voted to increase the salary of the Pastor, but he declined positively to accept any increase, stating that he could get along very well on his present salary, and that he was unwilling to impose additional burdens upon the people. The men who resign "flat" positions, are few in number, but the ministers who decline an increase in salary are scarcer still. Rev. S. C. Boston is a conspicuous exception.—Criffield Leader.

Mr. Bruce, counsel for the German Society of Baltimore, was in Princess Anne on Tuesday, and conferred with State's Attorney Miles with reference to the Williams murder case. Mr. Bruce says he has no desire to appear in the case as counsel for the State, but will do so if appointed by the State's Attorney and invited by the German Society. It is supposed that he will accept no compensation from the German Society or friends of the deceased. The courts in this district have decided repeatedly that there can be no volunteer or employed counsel to assist the prosecution, but that all such assistance must be by appointment of the court, to be paid by the county commissioners. The defense will be represented by Messrs. Criffield, Page and Hodson.

John B. Gough, the noted lecturer, will deliver a lecture in Dover, on the 18th inst., on "Peculiar People." The citizens of Millboro, Del., have petitioned the legislature to change the name of that town to Washington. Georgetown is seeking the authority from the Legislature to borrow $6,000 for the purpose of building a new school house. A large loaded coal boat was sunk in the Delaware Bay, opposite Collins' Beach, on Friday last week.—Smyrna Record.

Mr. Leonard, of West Cambridge, on 19th inst., sold the first dozen duck eggs seen in Cambridge this year.—New.

Night-watchman Coates discovered burglars about the premises of Mrs. Johnson, on Race-street, last Saturday night. They were taken to the police station, and the only "police" in town.—Era.

A horse driven by Mr. James M. Hurlock, belonging to the P. W. & B. Railroad at Hurlock's Station, ran away on Thursday evening, turning the carriage over and throwing the driver. Mr. Hurlock was fatally injured and died on Thursday night. He was about 32 years old and a very exemplary young man.—New.

Many signatures have been obtained to a petition for circulation in Dorchester parish the Board of Public Works to allow vessels licensed by the State of Maryland to take and catch oysters up to the old line, defining the mouth of the Great Choptank from Cook's Point to Tighman's Point on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. The petition was signed by Capt. Hunter Davidson many years ago.—Era.

John Tall did at the residence of his brother-in-law, James Johnson, on Friday last week. He was buried on Sunday, in the Episcopal cemetery.—Times.

The county commissioners have placed a ribbon wire fence around the side and back of the Court House square. Messrs. John Hill and John Holland did the work.—Messenger.

The Messenger complains of scarcity of factory help in Snow Hill. It says several factory enterprises are contemplated, but besides those already there, but it is feared the requisite labor cannot be obtained.

Col. Samuel S. McMaster, a prominent citizen of Worcester county, died last Tuesday, in the 67th year of his age. Col. McMaster was born in Worcester county, Md., in 1819, and was prominent in Maryland politics for many years. Paralysis was the cause of his death.

According to the Falcon, there is considerable dissatisfaction with the present board of Town Commissioners of Popokey City, and the ballot of their appointing. The Falcon, for some time past, has been engaged in stirring up the will doers of the ballot, and the fallow of the commission.

Death of James R. Bonds.

Mr. James R. Bonds died suddenly at his residence a few miles from Quantico, last Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. His death was very unexpected, he having been to Quantico only the afternoon before, and assigned to a station on a steamer, and was returning home on the same steamer. He was a well known and reliable citizen. His life was spent quietly and unostentatiously, as a farmer. During the war, he engaged extensively in the wood and lumber business, out of which he made considerable money. He was an unfortunate though, in later years, having lost the greater part of it. He leaves a wife and a large family of children, several of whom are grown and independent.

He Made a Mistake.

A gentleman, who has not been a frequent visitor to the performances at the Opera House, decided to take advantage of Gough's being here, and accordingly went down town to buy a ticket for his lecture last Tuesday night. His want of experience in such matters was his excuse for his display of ignorance. He went in, and calling for a ticket, was shown the diagram of the Hall, so he could select his seat. The gentleman rolled up, put it in his pocket, and taking out his pipe, remarked to the surprised salesman, "It's a new big ticket. How much is it?" The explanation brought a blush of sympathy from the accommodating salesman, and a blush of shame from the purchaser.

Mr. Wm. G. Ellis returned this week from Cuba.

Mr. Marcellus Knowles, a respected citizen of this town, died here on Friday and was buried in the M. E. Churchyard Monday.

The present series of meetings at the M. E. Church is still running. The pastor, with his characteristic earnestness and vim is making the meeting interesting.

Indications of the fishing season are seen. New seines are being kint and old ones overhauled, fishing smacks being repaired and built; and altogether things have quite a feebly appearance. Oysters boats stop now and then en route for Seaford, from which our people obtain very fine oysters at fifty cents per bushel.

The public here are looking forward to some creditable entertainments this week. We have seen advertisements of Duello's illuminated tableaux which will exhibit here next Saturday evening. The people here are as cleverly witted and enjoy a variety of things of an instructive and amusing nature to the community. Public entertainments do much for the instruction and elevation of the people when conducted for that end.

When otherwise, of course, they have the reverse tendency. A couple of impostors were here a short time ago and the people promise them a dose of eggs if they ever put in an appearance here again. Such a deplorable sight is not often witnessed as these two individuals were to be seen and among an intelligent public. Duello's exhibition promises something better. We also hear that the Barnes Creek minstrel will pay next week. The primary school under Miss L. E. McCullough will hold its entertainments in the Hall soon.

The Heaviest Snow for Years.

It has been many years since this section has been visited by anywhere near so heavy a fall of snow as was that of last Saturday afternoon and night. It began falling Friday afternoon, but the ground was not much more than covered Saturday morning. All who had sleighs brought them out Saturday, and the gay jingle of the bells and the merry laughter of the occupants of the sleighs, gave the streets a holiday appearance. Towards the middle of the day, the snow began falling again, and as it fell more and more rapidly, the sleighs were gradually all driven in, and all began to regret that they had not a few more sleighs. It fell from that time continuously till about the middle of the night, and Sunday came pleasant, sunny and beautiful, overhead, but with the earth enveloped in a sheet of snow, in many places several feet deep, and being about a foot and a half on level ground. It was not impossible, and though it was Sunday, men could be seen all over town shovelling out the snow. A few sleighs were brought out Sunday afternoon, and though it was pretty rough on the horses, the inmates seemed to enjoy it. Everybody anticipated the coming of the sleighs on Monday, brought with it a heavy rain that carried away the greater part of the snow. Since then, alternate freezes and thaws have kept the streets and roads in a very disagreeable condition.

The mail driver between Riverton and Seaford failed to make the trip on Monday last, only reaching Sharpshoot. The roads were too much for him, though going through his usual route.

A young lady, residing near Riverton, while returning from a marriage last week had the carriage in which she was riding upset by the horse running into the fence. One of the Riverton team with his usual gallantry took her up and conveyed her home. The night was intensely cold.

The assistant of Riverton School has been called home by the sudden and very unexpected death of her father, Mr. James Bonds, who resided at Revesto Mills.

His family, quite a large one, of whom five are grown, have the sympathy of many friends and acquaintances in their affliction.

The Heaviest Snow for Years.

It has been many years since this section has been visited by anywhere near so heavy a fall of snow as was that of last Saturday afternoon and night. It began falling Friday afternoon, but the ground was not much more than covered Saturday morning. All who had sleighs brought them out Saturday, and the gay jingle of the bells and the merry laughter of the occupants of the sleighs, gave the streets a holiday appearance. Towards the middle of the day, the snow began falling again, and as it fell more and more rapidly, the sleighs were gradually all driven in, and all began to regret that they had not a few more sleighs. It fell from that time continuously till about the middle of the night, and Sunday came pleasant, sunny and beautiful, overhead, but with the earth enveloped in a sheet of snow, in many places several feet deep, and being about a foot and a half on level ground. It was not impossible, and though it was Sunday, men could be seen all over town shovelling out the snow. A few sleighs were brought out Sunday afternoon, and though it was pretty rough on the horses, the inmates seemed to enjoy it. Everybody anticipated the coming of the sleighs on Monday, brought with it a heavy rain that carried away the greater part of the snow. Since then, alternate freezes and thaws have kept the streets and roads in a very disagreeable condition.

From Our Correspondent.

Fruitland boasts of some extra milk cows.

Dulacy & Sons' mills are running every week.

According as supposed, two other buildings are in course of erection. Heavy snow storm has prevented progress of same.

Business is picking up a little. We are to have a new switch,

Wanamaker's

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28, 1886.

If you want to know what sort of spirit Guinet puts into his work, look at his meaneast silk here under a magnifying glass. It is only a 75-cent silk. That price has to pay for the silk, the dyeing, the making, the maker's profit, transportation, the U. S. tariff of fifty per cent, and our profit—not very much for raw material. There isn't a waste upon a piece of it. The cross threads are supposed to be covered—no matter about them. The warp is as bright and even and strong as in the higher grades; but very little of it.

That's the secret of Guinet's strength. His silk is silk. How we manage to put it below competition we'd rather not tell just now. But $1.65 for $1.25 $2.00 for $1.50, and so on. Southwest from the center.

That unprecedented dollar ladies'-cloth for 75 cents—unprecedented is exactly the word; about fifty colors and motives and mixtures; one constant quality of cloth; 56-inch; $4.50 for a $6 dress, six yards.

If we had a lot of unacceptable colors, the cloth might be dollar ladies'-cloth; but there wouldn't be anything unprecedented in our putting it down to 75 cents. If there were some flaw in the making, or if the market were over-full, or if cloths were going out of use—this still might be dollar ladies'-cloth, but it would have to go down to get sold.

Not so. The colors are right, the wool is right, the making is right, the market is comparatively empty, and fashion favors cloths. This unexceptionable dollar ladies'-cloth goes down to 75 cents; and no one but us and another knows why. It doesn't concern you. Just like the black silks.

Silk grenadines have come; three sorts: sewing-silk, plain open-mesh, velvet brocade.

"Sewing-silk" is a taking name; ought not to be taken too literally. The silk is strong and waxed and very strong, though not so strong as sewing-silk. The fabric is perfectly plain and woven almost closely; $1.25 to $2.50; of exquisite fineness.

The open-mesh is plain in the sense of not figured; half-dozen styles; $1 to $1.75, according to weight. The silk is but slightly twisted, quite strong and locked so tight in the meshes as not to slip with a little strain.

The velvet brocade is the usual combination of open-mesh grenadine ground and velvet figures. About fifty styles have come. $2.50 to $5.

Fifteen-cent gingham for 10 cents; chambrays, little bits of checks, little checks and not so little—no complicated plaids. Southeast from the center.

Another roomful of Brussels to-day, best five-frame Brussels $1 a yard; and still another part-of-a-roomful of Brussels not a whit better, $1.25. - The $1.25 Brussels are crowding out the Ingrain best "extra super" at 60 cents.

The Moquette room is full again: $1.25 for the richest-looking parlor carpet! Moquette with its long, full, smooth pile; richness itself. It does not wear so well as Axminster and Wilton at double the money it is quite as rich.

Velvet, two qualities, $1 and 90 cents. Velvet is Tapestry cut. No great mystery about it. The mystery is further back in Tapestry itself.

Tapestry of many makes and grades, but only two prices; best at 75 cents, and all the rest at 60.

Those who want the very best Ingrain for 60 cents a yard had better come quickly. And, if we can say it without conveying a wrong impression, those who want any sort of carpet for three-quarters had better come quickly.

Market Street front, second floor. Take car northward from the center of the street.

JOHN WANAMAKER,
Chestnut, Thirteenth, and Market streets, and City-Hall Square.

PENINSULA HOUSE
AUG. PARKER, Proprietor.

SALISBURY, - MARYLAND.
Everything first-class. A first-class Livery attached. Guests taken to any part of the Peninsula at low rates. Feb. 27-ly.

Poetical.

FAST AND SURE.

Strong in the faith of woman
I'll mine eyes to thine,
And feel that 'tis true man
To love as fond as mine.
Fond as the flower that turneth
To where the sunbeams shine.

What need of words revealing
All that thou dost know full well,
True love hath no concealing,
And eyes will see thee well.
Unmoved the ocean's swell
Within thy hand no laying,
My hand I place secure,
Nor doubt nor fear betraying,
My faith is fast and sure—
Fast as the twining vine,
As close that storm endure.

Nay, if my pulse doth fail,
Or if my throbs do cease,
Or if my blood doth fail,
Or if my heart doth cease,
Or if my life doth fail,
Or if my soul doth cease,
So long as I am true,
So long as I am true,
So long as I am true,
So long as I am true.

—draw me to the gear,
And whispering sweet and low,
And lifting and low,
And chiming water's flow,
Tell me the love thou feelest,
No change can ever cease.

Oh! this heart yearn to learn,
To know thee ever should,
Thy heart may learn the meaning
Of trustful womanhood.
Lending on man her weakness,
With strength to be endured.

Miscellaneous.

HIS FATHER'S CHOICE.

"May I ask you how to direct me to Fairfax station? I undertook to walk from the home, and am hopelessly lost." The speaker smiled as he spoke; the slow, indolent smile of a man of the world; but the red lips of the young girl, who addressed never relaxed their gravity. Her gray eyes were rather scornful as she glanced at the man, as she gave the required directions.

"One moment, please," and, with another slow smile, he drew forth a note-book and pencil. "I will be sure to lose myself again, unless I take it down." Half a mile to the right, and pursue that way for a short distance, probably an eighth of a mile; there is Fairfax's home, recognizable by its tower, which over-tops the highest trees."

"Let me see—by pardon, you are very kind, and I am grateful; but is there no shorter route?"

"You would not care to try the side-paths, being a stranger to them. Good-day, Sir."

"Permit me to thank you for the trouble you have taken. I am deeply grateful. You have been most kind. Perhaps you are very kind, indeed," thought Molly Fairfax, as she nodded her bright head in response to the gentleman's low bow. "I intended being very kind to you, Mr. Guy Stanley, and I am. I could spare you a long walk if I desired, but I fancy a long walk will do you good. Perhaps you will appear at Fairfax with a less ready smile, and perhaps my considerate papa wouldn't fume a little if he knew how kind I have been to you!" and the red lips unfolded in a merry laugh, as Molly spoke.

Meanwhile Mr. Guy Stanley pursued his way, a droll look of concern on his face. "I'm to take more steps than I fancied I would," he soliloquized. "They told me at the station that I had but a mile to walk, and I surely have walked two. I might have received a conveyance of some sort in that beggarly village. But—well, I guess I can get there in time for dinner. They do not expect me, and my fair Destiny will be arrayed for conquest. This is one comfort; and another would be to find her resembling the little beauty I met a moment since. What a graceful dainty creature she was, and as composed as though she was conversing to a greybeard! I always had a soft spot in my heart for gray eyes, and—well, my hand and my fortune I must lay at the feet of the Fairfax heiress, but the heart was not put in the bargain. If I am accepted I will have the pleasure of designing Mr. Stanley for the remainder of her lives. I heartily wish my lamented father had not won such a pledge from my boyish lips ten years ago! But let me consult my traveler's guide. I am sure it is time to start."

He drew out the note-book, smiled a little, and put it back.

"I wonder how long the miles are in this part of the world?" he muttered. "I have gone the first half and see no turn to the left or right."

Meanwhile, taking the well-known route to Fairfax, Molly had reached it half an hour after parting with Guy; she ran to her room, which she left presently, trilling a sweet, low song.

The dowry had had not so much, but she was dressed for dinner; and never had she arrayed herself with greater splendor, for she had dispensed with the services of her maid.

"What a lovely girl!" thought Guy Stanley, as he looked at her. "I have never seen a more beautiful creature. I have never seen a more beautiful creature. I have never seen a more beautiful creature. I have never seen a more beautiful creature."

He looked at her with a look of admiration. "You are all the world to me," she whispered softly. "Our fathers knew best, Guy."

And, ere another Autumn came, Guy Stanley led to the altar the bride his dead father had chosen for him, and he married, as did she for love, and love only.

Latest Fashion Notes.
Frisettes are combined with fine black curls. They form the rest and the under-thing.

The most popular woolen suits consist of a draped skirt, a tulle bodice and a jacket for outdoor wear.

The tasteful combination of stuffed Java sparrows with the fairy-bells of the lily of the valley continues in vogue.

Crepe lace with fine plaids, edged with gilt, crystal or pearl beads, is worn at the neck and sleeves of silk dresses.

Plaid sarongs are shown in great variety. Those with alternating satin and sateen stripes and with brocaded checks are very effective.

Waist-linings of good quality are to be had, cut out of any desired size, thus saving much labor to those who do drumming at home.

Frills and trimmings of the two kinds of dress, bolero as well as skirt, must be alike.

Conservative Gowns.—An old physician retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for his spasm and permanent cure of the Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested his wonderful powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellow-creatures by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering. I will send free of charge to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail, addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. ### THE JOKER'S BUDGET.

EMBARASSING.
"I intended to tell Jane to bring a fresh bucket of water," said the wife of Professor Notchboard, looking up from her sewing. "You doubtless mean a bucket of fresh water," rejoined her husband. "I wish I were so good as to have some little attention to rhetoric. Your mistakes are embarrassing."

A few moments later, the professor said: "My dear, that picture would show to better advantage if you were to hang it over the clock."

"Ah," she replied, "you doubtless mean if I were to hang it above the clock. If I were to hang it over the clock, we couldn't tell what time it is. I wish you would pay some little attention to rhetoric. Your mistakes are embarrassing."

—THE INFLUENCE OF THE CLOTH.—
Three or four commercial travelers were together in a railroad car. One of them, who was a very good-looking man, had just entered a grim-visaged female who had just entered the car, and offered to be the driver for the party that he could seat himself beside her, and be pleasantly greeted. The bet was accepted.

He approached the female, and stooping politely said something to her in a low tone of voice.

She immediately made way for him, and presently they were engaged in an animated conversation.

Later, when the drinks were being dispensed, the loser of the bet asked the drummer what he got advanced of himself after that.

"I simply asked her," he replied, "if that paw was disengaged."

NOT VERY SENSITIVE.
Some Northern people imagine that the Southern African is as full of personal pride as one of Fenimore Cooper's Indians. Uncle Moses, of Austin, is not of that kind.

"What's the matter with you, Uncle Moses?"

"The business manager, Mr. White, has not kicked me in the last two months. Not once has he lifted his foot against me."

"I ordered him not to kick you again. I don't allow anything of that kind in this establishment. I intend that nobody shall hurt your feelings, Uncle Moses."

"I don't get no kicks 'I gwinter quit."

"Are you crazy? Do you want to be kicked and cuffed about?"

"Yes, sah, I do. Ebery time de business manager kicked or cuffed my ears when he was mad, he get advanced of himself after ward and gub me a quarter. I see done lost enough money already wid dis heah foolishness about hurtin' my feelings."

MATRIMONIAL ITEM.
"I believe I'll get married and settle down. I wish you would look around and pick me out a wife," said John Bingham, a Dallas judge, to Mrs. Morris.

"What sort of a wife do you want?" asked Mrs. Morris, who is a very sensible woman.

"In the first place she must be beautiful."

"What else?"

"She must be modest."

"What else?"

"She must be musical and well educated."

"Anything else?"

"She must be worth $250,000 in her own right."

"If that sort of a lady marries a fellow like you, she will have one other qualification."

"What's that?"

"She will have to be crazy."

HEROIC REMEDY.
"I suppose I shall be an old maid all my life," sighed a young woman of twenty-five.

"That's a grievous complaint," responded an old bachelor.

"Yes," again sighed the maiden.

"Do you want to cure it?"

"Of course I do."

"Take me for a husband."

"Do you mean it?"

"Certainly."

"Well, desperate diseases require desperate remedies, and I guess I'll try you."

They fell upon each other's neck.

HEALS SUPERIOR TO HEAD.
It is an interesting psychological fact that stern and inflexible parents often fall to those shining qualities in the young gentlemen whom their only daughters happen to meet.

"Evangeline, my dear," said one of these sharp-sighted parents, "that young gentleman I saw you with doesn't seem to have a great deal of dynamic force in his brain."

"Oh, pa, he is truly elegant. He is—"

"Decidedly the most insipid fat I've seen for many a day. He hasn't anything in his head."

"No, pa, I know he hasn't, but his heels are a room, a symphony, a barcarolle!"

"His heels?"

"Oh, yes, pa, dear. He is the most delightfully lovely fellow I ever met."

AN INSANITY EXPERT.
It was during a murder trial. A witness for the defense was on the stand.

"What do you intend to prove by this witness?" asked the judge.

"That the prisoner is insane," replied the attorney.

"Does the witness know anything about insanity? Is he an expert?"

"Expert?" repeated the witness. "Well, I should say he is. He knows all about insanity. Why, your Honor, he has been as crazy as a loon for these past ten years."

THE WORD OF POVERTY.
"See what it is to be poor?" he exclaimed as he stood shivering in a doorway.

"Hungry?" queried the other.

"Well, I'm always hungry for that matter, but just now a man whom I fell against on the corner got mad about it and offered to lick me for two cents."

"And you hadn't the money?"

"Couldn't possibly raise a red cent, and I told him so and he had to go away disappointed. The rich either offer to come down on their prices, or the poor have some new way of making money. A hoking would have warmed me up for a whole week."

IT'S LEGAL ASPECT.
"Oh, Mr. Smith," said a young lady at a church fair, "I want your help for a moment."

"Certainly," replied Mr. Smith, "what can I do for you?"

"I have just said a tidy for fifteen dollars that cost fifteen cents, and I want you to tell me what percentage that is."

"A tremendous one of that kind," said Miss B., "said Mr. Smith, who is a lawyer, 'gets out of percentage and into larceny.'"

If ever a man looks serious it is when he is learning to skate on eight wooden rollers.

WATCHING FOR HAWKING.

BY FRANK HOLLIS.

How many are watching and waiting For ships on the flow of the tide— Phantom ships, with fancied prizes, Sailing on the ocean wide?

Anxious and eager for fortune, Dreaming of treasures they hold, Ready to grasp at delusion, Moaning and sighing for gold.

Oh, mortals craving hopes delusive, You may wait and watch in vain For phantom ships, and golden prizes, That will never come again.

Time is fleeting—grasp the present, And bid all life fanesies flee, Then your hearts will be at peace If no ships come home from sea.

CONGRESSIONAL BUDGETING.
Do not interrupt when speaking.
Do not find fault, though you may gently criticize.
Do not talk of your private, personal and family matters.
Do not appear to notice inaccuracies of speech in others.
Do not allude to unfortunate peculiarities of any one present.
Do not always commence a conversation by allusion to the weather.
Do not, when narrating an incident, continually say, "you see," "you know," etc.
Do not intrude professional or other topics that the company generally cannot take an interest in.
Do not talk very loud. A firm, clear, distinct, yet mild, gentle and musical voice has great power.
Do not speak disrespectfully of personal appearance when any one present may have the same defects.
Do not be absent-minded, requiring the speaker to repeat what has been said that you may forget.
Do not try to force yourself into the conversation of others. If they give their confidence never betray it.
Do not use profanity, vulgar terms, slang phrases, words of double meaning, or language that will bring a blush to anyone.
Do not intersperse your conversation with foreign words and high-sounding terms. It shows affectation and will draw ridicule upon you.
Do not carry on a conversation with another in company about matters which the general company knows nothing of. It is almost as impolite as to whisper.

Never too Late to Learn
Cato, at eighty years of age, began to study the Greek language.
Socrates, at an extreme old age, learned to play on musical instruments.
Plutarch, when between seventy and eighty, commenced to study Latin.
Dr. Johnson applied himself to the Dutch language a few years before his death.
Ludovico Mondaldeo, at the great age of 115 years, wrote the memoirs of his own times.
Franklin did not commence his philosophical results till he reached his fiftieth year.
Dryden, in his sixtieth year, commenced the translation of the Aeneid, his most pleasing production.
Ogilby, the translator of Homer and Virgil, was unacquainted with Latin and Greek, till he was past fifty.
Boccaccio was thirty years of age when he commenced his studies in light literature; yet he became one of the greatest masters of the Tuscan dialect, Dante and Plutarch being the other two.
Sir Henry Spelman neglected the sciences in his youth, but commenced the study of them when he was between fifty and sixty years of age. After this time he became a most learned antiquarian and lawyer.
Thousands of examples of men who commenced a new study either for a livelihood or amusement, at an advanced age, could be cited, but every one familiar with the biography of distinguished men will recollect individual cases enough to convince him that none but the sick and indolent will ever say, "I am too old to learn."

It is not necessary that they should run outside in the cold. Many breeders who use incubators and brooders find that chicks may be hatched and raised to the age for broilers inside the building exclusively.

Do not trifle with a cold, thinking it will pass off in a few days, but get a bottle of DuRoi's "Swiss Balm" and use it. A few doses will do for you. Afflictions in every instance. Quick, safe and reliable. Price 25 and 75 cents. Sold by Dr. J. D. Collier.

A properly developed, full-grown man weighing 154 pounds weight, according to Professor Huxley, to consume daily 5,900 grains of lean beefsteak, 4,000 grains of bread, 7,000 grains of milk, 8,000 grains of potatoes, 600 grains of butter, and 23,000 grains of water.

The proportion of those who attend public worship to the bulk of the population in the following four European cities is: Berlin 30,000, population 1,000,000; London 5,000, population 4,000,000; Hamburg 8,000, population 4,000,000; Glasgow 500,000, population 700,000.

An Invaluable Article. An article in the "Crown Balm" has long been desired, and now that it is within the reach of sufferers from Catarrh, Hay Fever and Cold in head, there is every reason to believe they will make the most of it. Dr. W. E. Buckman, W. E. Hamman, Druggist, and other Eclecticians have given it a trial, and all recommend it as the "highest remedy." Boston, Feb., Daily Argus. Price 50c.

The talk of the town in East St. Louis is the remarkable case of Sam McGroarty, who has just been cured of Bright's disease by using dog man. Yesterday, after consulting the cure, several parties declared that dog man or dog oil was a most valuable remedy for victims of catarrh, and cited instances where cures were effected by the use of this kind of man. Sam France, who has spent a good portion of his life in the mountains, states that the Indians regard dog man as the most delicious of meats.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

My father has welcomed you to Fairfax, my dear child. How me to add a welcome to my own. But let me assure you that I know your kind motive in visiting me.

He turned the last bit, but after toward a chair for her to occupy. She sank with a slight bow.

"You are kind to remind me that I have a friend, Miss Fairfax," he said gently, "I have come to fulfill the promise of my mother to a good parent whose life was all happiness to me. I confess that I did come unwillingly; but at this moment, I am glad to see you. I wish I could say more for you."

"No, my dear," she was again smiling with humility. "Your part of the promise is to be honorably filled. I am frank with you; why I hardly know, but as there are dreams of unbridled choice in the life of every woman, so there has been in mine."
