AT THE LONDON ZOO.

HOW THE CHILDREN ENJOY THEMSELVES ON A SATURDAY.

Seeing the Animals in London's Great Garden Take Their Daily Meal is a Weekly Attraction in the Big City.

Watching the Creatures Eat. No day is more animated at the London Zoo than Saturday.

When the children appear in full force, marshaled by parents and mammas, who are doubtless glad to visit the center of their own "pleasure."

But who try to look on if they came only as guides and guardians. The little people begin to appear early in the forenoon, when they bring a lunch basket.

The women are not only their own bread and butter but biscuit and buns for feeding the animals.

BISHOP AND CZAR.

A STALWART PRELATE WHO WOULD NOT OBEY HIS MAJESTY.

The Russian Bishop Ambrase, of Pensa, Gave His Order a Terrific Reception on the Occasion of a Distinguished Visit—He Made the Czar Obey.

Bishop Ambrase was an extraordinary man, rich in intellect and in character, the depth of his erudition and the narrowness of his views.

The son of a simple peasant, he owed his elevation to the highest honors of the Russian hierarchy, and especially his ascetic virtues.

He lived in his episcopal palace with the austere habits that had earned him the respect of his flock.

He was a simple peasant, lived in a cell in his palace, and his principal diet consisted of cabbage and radishes.

In fact he was so simple in his habits that for all that he had the strength of a lion.

His salary of 8,000 or 10,000 roubles he distributed among the poor, and he carried the mail to the most distant parts of his diocese.

DIGNITY OF SEX.

A Chicago Girl Carries Down the Line at Being Put in Order by a Woman.

One of the hot carriers at work on a brick building out in the suburbs climbed to the first story Thursday.

Then he fell and the hod, the brick and the ladder fell on him.

When the debris had been pulled away the hod carrier was lying there in a pool of blood, apparently thinking about nothing in particular.

The boss was fuming about kicking blocks of wood into the street and swearing at the laziness of the police.

The big plasterers who could drive a spike into their skulls were standing around as helplessly as children.

At this time a young woman in a blue coat came across the street.

She was wearing a yellow hat drawn up tightly from her head.

She looked at the man in his bright blue eyes. She brushed the big fellows aside and asked briskly: "What's the trouble here?"

"All right," the bishop said, "I can get the man out of the place cleared away, but where can I get the hod carrier?"

"The hod carrier?" she asked. "The hod carrier?" she asked.

"The hod carrier?" she asked. "The hod carrier?" she asked.

"The hod carrier?" she asked. "The hod carrier?" she asked.

THE SECRET OF RECruITING

BOOK ILLUSTRATION.

A LUCID EXPLANATION OF SOME DIFFERENT PROCESSES.

How Many of the Fine Pictures in Books, Magazines, Papers, &c. are Produced? The Difference Between Cheap and Costly Work Made Plain to Buyers.

With the increasing use of half tone work and the numerous processes for book illustration that have been developed during the past ten or fifteen years, there has steadily grown a tendency on the part of publishers, process men, and in some instances among critics to apply entirely inappropriate names to the reproductions that are misleading in the extreme and cannot do an injury to the better classes of work by giving their names to processes much inferior in quality.

Let us first consider the ordinary half tone photographing of which so much has lately been seen in the way of illustrations for the higher class periodicals and works of art and technical nature.

It is a curious fact that the half tone photographing of which so much has lately been seen in the way of illustrations for the higher class periodicals and works of art and technical nature.

The resulting picture is transferred to the metal that is to serve as the finished plate; the chemical action is proceeded with the half tone picture that results shows the picture in relief and the entire surface of the plate a mass of fine points or dots, separated by fine furrows.

CONVERSATION A LOST ART.

People nowadays appear to meet to do almost everything but converse. When any number of persons wish to combine for social purposes nowadays they form a club. The club, however, is by no means a social organization.

The pretext is some sort of mind culture, an arena for the discussion of some subject. Shakespeare's plays, Browning's poems, the stage, indicate the simpler range of topics. Or if nothing better offers, the members set up a man of straw and have him read a sort of intellectual game of Aunt Sally.

The town is honeycombed with such clubs. They are superseding dancing and the other amusements of the young and conversation and cards of the more mature. The common pleasure in meeting one another in good clothes and of duty no longer the only social affiliations that need to be found in the church and in the mission school say remaining power of social cohesion.

It is a curious fact that the half tone photographing of which so much has lately been seen in the way of illustrations for the higher class periodicals and works of art and technical nature.

EXCEEDINGLY EMBARRASSING.

Peripety of a Police Man Who Lost His Equilibrium in a Street Car. I took them for a newly married couple. Certainly if she had been married very long she would have known better.

They got on a south bound street car at Goethe street. She was slender and graceful and had large, fetching dark eyes. He was extremely polite. He helped her on the car very tenderly, and after riding two blocks he turned up the instant a very fleshy old lady entered the car and offered her his seat, with a low bow—a sure indication that he was just married and doing it as from habit.

Then he lunged on a strap and bent down and kept up the conversation, which seemed largely made up of irrelevant remarks and high irrelevant glances. Presently he discovered that he could stop lower if he let go the strap.

He had just availed himself of this discovery when the train swooped around the curve at Illinois street. He flung up his arms and, in a moment, he was hanging by the strap, and the car was moving on its way.

He scrambled half way to his feet and began, "I beg—"

Just as he was in the act of re-establishing his equilibrium, the car stopped at Illinois street. He flung up his arms and, in a moment, he was hanging by the strap, and the car was moving on its way.

THE ASSESSMENT BILL.

The indications are that the general assessment bill now pending in the House will not receive the sanction of that body, at least without many radical changes in its important features.

From every section of the State as represented here, grave objections are raised to the bill. Nearly every member of the House has one or more amendments to offer when the bill comes up on its second reading.

Some members of the House have gotten together recently in frequent meetings considering the features of the bill, and have exchanged views as to its merits and demerits.

Senator Hayes is leading the fight against the assessment bill of the ways and means committee, which has become general all along the line.

The members of both branches are in revolt against the bill in its present form and there is scarcely a possibility of its passage unless so modified as to be radically changed.

Runs the old saying, and everything that is new is part of an old one. The bill must reach its place therein through the blood.

There is a well-known man of some thing like fifty-two years of age in New Haven, Conn., who never knew what it is to have a headache.

For Starving Russia.

The New York Herald of Tuesday says of the steamship that is to take to Starving Russia over 5,000,000 pounds of bread stuff.

There was great activity yesterday on board the big steamer Missouri, which will leave this port on Saturday next for Russia, with a cargo of 2,800 tons of flour and corn meal in sacks for the relief of the starving Russians.

The hatches were opened and the three decks held were thoroughly cleaned. Sailors rushed here and there at the bidding of their superiors, and Capt. Findley watched the preparations with a kindly eye.

It is probable that Mr. Edgar—who, with Mr. Charles McReave, a Minneapolis lawyer, has been chosen to distribute the cargo—will be a passenger on the Missouri.

THE BATTLE OF THE NILE WAS FOUGHT Aug. 1, 1798, between the French and English fleets. Sir Horatio Nelson was in command of the latter, and as the engagement was about to begin, he exclaimed, "Victory or Westminster Abbey!"

Jonathan D. Hearn, Esq., a banker of Cincinnati, whose grandfather, Clement Hearn, removed from Laurel, Del., to Kentucky in 1768, has had prepared what he terms an ancestral tree, and sent to the members of the family in this county and Sussex county, Del. It is an exceedingly interesting family record in the form of an immense tree, whose trunk is William Hearn (then spelled Hearne), who, in the language of Wm. L. Hearn of Wheeling, W. Va., a conspicuous limb of the tree, "shortly after 1681, but I don't know what year, came to the province of Maryland, and was granted to James, Duke of York, brother of Charles II, and by the Duke of York granted to Lord Baltimore." "Mason and Dixon's Line, which was run to set the dispute between Lord Baltimore and William Penn, ran through my grandfather's (Lowe's Hearn) property and his residence on the Delaware side of the line." Mr. J. D. Hearn's great grandfather was Ebenezer Hearn of Laurel, Del., born 1717, whose wife was Priscilla Fooks. From this union came Mr. Lowe's Hearn, the grandfather of Mr. W. L. Hearn (born in 1760) who was the millstone in the quarrel between the two families. Mr. J. D. Hearn's great grandfather was Ebenezer Hearn of Laurel, Del., born 1717, whose wife was Priscilla Fooks. OUR NEW GOODS.

Although the line of Ladies' Wraps we sold last winter won for us a reputation that we are proud of, we are now pleased to be able to say to our LADY CUSTOMERS that we have a much Prettier Assortment, and better still, ladies, you will not believe how cheap they are until you call and see for yourself, for if we were to tell you the kind of that we could sell and at the price we are selling for, you would think us exaggerating, so we insist that you call and see our line before it is broken.

Mrs. Victoria Wray, wife of Rev. Geo. W. Wray, former pastor of Trinity M. E. Church South of this city, died in Portsmouth, Va., March 20.

Fire in Mill Street.
Fire was discovered last Monday night in the building belonging to G. H. Towdvin and formerly occupied for planing mill and box factory, on Mill street. It was discovered by Mr. Wallace who was returning from the 10 o'clock train. When discovered it was burning in the old furnace and had not broken through the roof. The fire department responded promptly to call and extinguished it before any serious damage was done. The building was closed and the grounds shut in by a high board fence, so that only the ladies could enter. The property had not been occupied for more than two years. The fire therefore is unaccounted for.

On the afternoon of the same day appeared in town several suspicious looking characters. One of them, it is said, was seen near the mill street. It is thought that the property was being tampered with. The afternoon apparently making a survey of it.

There is a theory here that the fire was started by these men in this closed building with the expectation that it would break out in the night and that it would call to that point the people of the town and give these men an opportunity to rob safe down town. There is no other theory to the fire. The property was insured.

SATURDAY, MARCH 20, 1892.

Hon. Roger Q. Mills, who made such a noble fight last December for the speakership of the House of Representatives, has just been unanimously elected to the United States Senate by the legislature of Texas.

Looking at the matter from one standpoint, the defeat of Mr. Mills was a fortunate thing, it compelled many men to show hands that otherwise would have been kept under the table, which if nothing else, has brought about a healthy discussion of issues, and men. Among other things it has assisted to some extent to raise this storm of indignation against Hill and Hill's methods.

The New York Sun last Saturday published a long interview with George Alfred Townsend has lately obtained with Senator Gorman, the whole undercurrent of which is—the senator is in the fight for the nomination for the presidency by the Democratic party this year.

The interview is clever and ingenious. It is not a bid for the nomination by his party for the presidency, we fall to see the occasion for bringing out such a document.

It is interesting to note what he considers the greatest question of today, also what he thinks of Cleveland:

"CLEVELAND'S DEFEAT AND THE TARIFF."

"Mr. Gorman, what question do you think is the impending question in the United States?"

"I think that the greatest question is transportation. You hear the proposition made almost every day that the government shall take charge of the railroads. The alliance is going to come to that proposition. The interstate commerce commission, which has done some good, has also been the entering wedge to government supervision of the railroads. Everybody has got to the point of appealing to the government, and that is the next thing to inviting the government in."

"Did not the tariff question lose Mr. Cleveland many votes in Maryland?"

"I think so, more votes than would be lost now, after the score is over."

"Do you consider the republican party to have had more of ability in it?"

"Yes, that has been a strong organization. To a large extent the republican influence has been the prejudicial left over by the war, but during the civil war I thought that the genius of the South was in the military field, which really was the government, for they were fighting for the North, while the genius of the North was not in the military, but in Congress, for they, being the government, had their principle opportunities in Washington. They developed, therefore a galaxy of leaders, one at least for every state. Thad. Stevens, Zach. Chandler, Trumbull and Morton were men of mark. The immense business interests of the Northern states have drawn men back ever and anon to the organization which has been in control so long."

CLEVELAND AND HIS PARTY.

"Yet there is a diminution of sectional feeling, accompanied, perhaps, by some decline of old democratic strict principles. The single term of Mr. Cleveland had for its principal utility to prove to the North that the country was in no danger from the South. Had Mr. Cleveland not been elected Governor by such a great majority I think he would have leaned more on his party, and that would have made him conservative instead of relying on his strong self-esteem. The democracy would have received more benefit by participating with him in his better intentions, instead of being left out of his counsel so much. A good many people will think always, however, that the individual is the government, and Presidents with the best intentions who occupy too much ground themselves will be compelled to pay no attention to their party. That was the case with the last Congress. Its leader, with perhaps one or two assistants, undertook to do all the legislation. The Congress assented, without exactly concurring, and the result was an overthrow of the republicans such as we had experienced three years before."

The interview was a long one and dealt with many subjects. The points were to prove to the people of the North that he (Gorman) was loyal to the Union during the war, and a true democrat while a republican office holder after the war. It was, to say the least, extremely patronizing in its tone. The severe criticism of many prominent men in the state has brought down upon the head of Mr. Gorman a storm of anathema. Mr. Gorman on the other hand disclaims any intention on his part to make a political manifesto. In fact he claims that he never considered it an interview for publication.

But what is a singular coincidence, that while this interview took place some weeks ago, that another article on the same subject by Mr. Gibson, Senator Gorman's college, should appear simultaneously in a St. Louis paper and a Chicago paper. The article of Senator Gibson has all the ring of an obituary notice of "the deceased." Whatever may be said of the Senator, it certainly can be said that he is deceased politically or otherwise, but the general impression throughout the state is that he made a great blunder in not keeping silent. For instance every fifteen-year-old school boy in the state knows that transportation is not the great issue of the day, but the senator expected to interest the West by that "catch."

Senator Gorman is unquestionably a brainy man and a great strategist as Mr. Gibson sees fit to call him, and usually very discreet and free from blunders, but it looks as if he was leading this time by an evil spirit.

THE CAT.

The cat is a very interesting animal. He is a small fur dog that grows, and has whiskers and several other things.

He has four paws—two fore paws and two hind ones—and a tail. He has been known for many years, two of him having been said to be on the Ark, where he must have been tied up, or what would have become of the rats? Cats don't get to be cats until they are a year old, when they stop being kittens, which they are born as. It takes a kitten several weeks to get his eyes open if he doesn't get downed before that time, and he scratches when he is mad. My father says camels used to be cats, but got their backs up one day and couldn't get them down again, and so they became camels. I never heard a camel mew, but I suppose they can because they can do most anything, having seven stomachs and going many days without water.

The dictionary says a cat is a carnivorous quadruped, but that does not sound like a cat. The old Egyptians used to be very fond of the cat, treating him like a member of their own family and making mummies out of him when he died. Some of these mummies still live. They used to hang people for killing cats in Egypt, because the cat was supposed to be a sacred animal, being a sign of the moon, probably because they are generally out at night. We have a cat named Tom, and he has six kittens, which he washes their face every day just like me.

Cats never fall out of anything without making a great noise, and when they are so soft, and they have to be killed nine times before they die, and sometimes they don't even die then. They eat milk when tame, and when they cry like a baby until somebody comes to see what is the matter, and then they are so fat, and they teach people to mind their own business, and not to see what other people's children are crying for.

A cat's eye is a very queer thing, looking like a red machine all day, and at night, seeing better in the dark than in the light, like witches, therefore they are said to be friends of witches and some people don't like them on that account, but I do.

Cats never fall out of anything without making a great noise, and when they are so soft, and they have to be killed nine times before they die, and sometimes they don't even die then. They eat milk when tame, and when they cry like a baby until somebody comes to see what is the matter, and then they are so fat, and they teach people to mind their own business, and not to see what other people's children are crying for.

The Cleveland Movement in New Jersey.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 23.—The initial meeting of the Cleveland Democratic Association of New Jersey was held this afternoon at Taylor's Hotel, this city.

The organization exists for the purpose of electing district delegates to the Chicago convention, and, through the State convention at Trenton, of delegates-at-large who will place New Jersey in the Cleveland column when presidential nomination is in order. Judge G. H. Yeaman, of Morris county, acted as chairman, and William S. McKean as secretary. Nearly all of the twenty-one counties of the State were represented, and all present claimed the existence of an overwhelming demand for the renomination of ex-President Cleveland.

The stories told by delegates were all about alike. Mr. Cleveland was the choice of at least 90 per cent of the democrats of New Jersey. The chairman was empowered to appoint a committee on address to read the address to New Jersey democrats and urge them to work at the primaries in Mr. Cleveland's interest. Dr. Leonard J. Gordon was elected treasurer. The chairman was also authorized to name a finance committee, and the meeting was then adjourned subject to call. Both committees will probably be announced on Saturday.

The Century will take up the campaign for good roads. The April number is to contain the suggestive article on "Our Common Roads," by Isaac B. Potter, editor of "Good Roads," and a practical engineer.

"Et tu Brute," as the young lady who had just carried off the honors from a fashionable boarding school said, as her mischievous band swallowed the last spoonful of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

"The Hood is the Life."

Runs the old saying, and everything that ever makes part of any organ of the body must reach the place through the blood. Therefore, if the blood is purified and kept in good condition by the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, it necessarily follows that the benefit of the medicine is imparted to every organ of the body. Anything simpler than the method by which this excellent medicine gives good health to all who will try it fairly and patiently?
