CORRESPONDENCE.

The Dr. is Right.

Dr. William Lee, Secretary and Executive officer of the State Laryngology Commission, was the guest of Governor Jackson this week while making an official visit to the lower counties of the Peninsula. He inspected the alma houses of this and adjoining counties and expressed himself as greatly pleased at the increased interest manifested in the laryngology act, and notes, with pleasure, that the counties are making satisfactory provisions for their feeble-minded and chronic insane poor. The ladies of the counties are assisting in the work by means of presents, such literature as can be utilized, etc. The Doctor pays the Eastern Shore a glowing but well-deserved tribute. He says if people from other sections of the State would visit the Eastern Shore and see for themselves the attractions offered in almost every avocation of life and the healthy condition of the people, many of them would seek out homes here, and the land helping hands would be greatly increased. SATURDAY JUNE 15, 1889.

A HEALTHY SECTION.

Dr. White's Observations on the Eastern Shore Climate—Many Old People.

From the Baltimore American of Sunday, June 2nd, we take the following: Dr. White, the writer of the article, is well known in Salisbury where he has many relatives, and it was while here that he prepared his eulogy on the Eastern Shore.

"Dr. E. H. White, a well-known physician of this city, spent several months in the lower counties of the Eastern Shore, in recreation and rest. He was ill and weak when he went there. He came away with his health and strength recovered. To a brother physician he sent the results of his observations. They are valuable as showing the changes of climate and conditions in that section. He dwells upon the decided sanitary advantages of this peninsula climate. He writes: 'This conviction was reached not only in the results of my own improvement in health, but in the vigor, energy and favorable appearance of the people everywhere, as well as in the advanced age of so many of its citizens—'

"If you are tired taking the local fashioned gripping pills, try Carter's Little Liver Pills and take some comfort. A man can't stand everything. One pill a dose. Try them."

"This wealth of combined attraction, enjoyment and supply, is destined to be fully appreciated by the public; and with growing improvements and accommodations, will command the patronage, success and reputation, which must make it one of the choicest resorts of our land."

"The June number of Stranbridge's Coddler Monthly furnishes the usual variety of articles of interest to women. Fashion for females of all ages and conditions are discussed and illustrated through many pages. There is an interesting installment of Besant's serial, The Bell of St. Paul's. The illustrated article on fish farming in June is both practical and reasonable, as is also, from another point of view, the instructions given for the treatment of fish-places in summer. Kitchen matters receive due attention; and there is the usual miscellany of readable paragraphs. The pages devoted to the needs of the stay-at-home shoppers will be the most attractive to that otherwise to-be-lit class. The music of this number is a song, written by Homer Maculloch, and composed by John Philip Sousa, Director of the Marine Band, Washington, D. C. These reasonable verses are called, 'There's Something Most Mysterious.'"

"In the fourth installment of Charles Dudley Warner's novel, 'A Little Journey in the West,' Harper's Magazine for July, one of the characters is made to remark to another: 'You've seen Coplan? Well, that is acting as artificial as a sonnet, the perfection of training, skill in an art. You never doubt that he is performing a play for the entertainment of an audience. You have the same enjoyment of it that you have of a picture—a picture, I mean, full of character and sentiment, not a photograph.'"

"The Savings Bank of Somerset County. This is the name given the new banking institution, just organized here on last Tuesday, in the article of incorporation. The stockholders held a meeting Tuesday in the building at which 100 shares of the 250 companies the following named gentlemen were put in nomination to serve as directors and were unanimously elected, viz: Messrs. Levin Woolford, President, Thomas J. Dixon, Wm. J. Brittingham, H. Fillmore Lankford, Wm. P. Horney, James L. Bennett, Joseph S. Webster, of Somerset county, and James Sloan, Jr., and James A. Gaty, of Baltimore city. Immediately after the adjournment of the directors' meeting, the Board of Directors held a meeting and organized. They elected Col. Levin Woolford, President. A resolution was passed authorizing the President and Cashier to provide the necessary furniture for the bank and such gratings, safes, etc., as are necessary to guard the bank's treasure. We are informed that these articles will be on or before the 20th of this month.—Marylander.

"The contractors to build the Baltimore & Eastern Shore Railroad, Messrs. Godfrey & How, of New York, with their assistants, are in Eastern, ready to go to work on the road-bed as soon as the right of way is secured. The railroad company is to furnish the right of way to the contractors, and they are to build the road and turn it over to the company furnished and ready for the rolling stock. Messrs. Godfrey & How have rented four rooms in the Masonic building—two on the first and two on the second floor. It is now the contractors, and not the railroad company, that have the railroad work in hand (except the right of way part of it), and they, and not the railroad company, are responsible for all bargains and bills they make. All the contractors are busily engaged in the preliminary work of examining the route as surveyed, marking it, and definitely locating certain points. Messrs. Godfrey & How are clever gentlemen; they have built many railroads, and are entirely responsible business men. The section between Eastern and the bay shore will be first built, and built very quickly after the right of way is secured.—Marylander.

"We now urge the citizens of Wicomico county to act liberally in the matter by sending any and whatever assistance they can, by subscribing and giving the right-of-way, etc."

Hon. Calvin S. Brice was, at a meeting of the Democratic National Committee, which was held in New York last Wednesday, elected chairman to succeed the late Wm. H. Burman. Mr. Brice was elected a chairman of the Executive Committee during the campaign of 1888.

PARSONAGE ITEMS.

PARSONAGE, June 12th.—There is a very general desire among the inhabitants of this place, for the public generally, to receive as good an impression of us as possible, and of what we say; but, when your type made us our new church bell weighing over five hundred pounds, 'has been heard at a distance of only two miles,' there was a general dropping of fathers, and a smile must have played over the faces of the more knowing ones among your readers. The truth is, and the fact should be italicized, the bell has been heard at a distance of ten miles.

There has been some inquiry about our 4th of July celebration. It is to be held on the camp-ground. The Rev. A. S. Mowbray will deliver the oration, the Pocomoke quartette will furnish vocal music, and the Parsonage Brass Band the instrumental. Miss Florence Bowman, will recite 'Darwin's Great Flying Machine.' Fire works and games will be a feature of the occasion, refreshments will be provided. Posters and hand bills will give details on another page.

Children's Day services will be held at Melson's and Ayres' June 23rd, Jerusalem and Zion, June 30th.

The strawberry season is practically over, but the strawberry leaves up and bids fair to be a very prolific crop. B.

8100 Reward. 8100. The readers of the SALISBURY ADVERTISER will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease, that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is (Cancer). Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Cancer being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength, by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing her work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address, F. J. CHERRY & CO., Toledo, O. June 8-1mo Sold by druggist, 75c.

Mr. Robert D. Ellegood filed a telegram at the Salisbury office last Thursday afternoon at three o'clock. It was a business firm in Providence, R. The following changes have been recently made in postmasters of this county: Mr. A. J. DeLany has been appointed postmaster at Fruitland; vice J. W. Smith; Mr. J. J. Timmons, at Pittsville; vice J. The town clock failed to strike last Wednesday from 10 o'clock in the morning to three in the afternoon, when Mr. E. Harper climbed into the tower and examined into the cause of her silence. He found that a board about six feet long had fallen from the joints above into the machinery of the clock, slightly damaging it. The obstruction was removed and the strike regulated.

Clover and grass never did better in Viacomoco county than it has done the present spring and summer. Specimens were left at this office, which show the growing growth exceed anything we ever seen in this county. Mr. Irving Kennedy has about twenty acres of clover which will average thirty bushels of hay.

Lawrence W. Baller, Esq., of Quantico county, has a lot which has attained an average height of four feet, and like the other clover growers he claims that it produces a "our mixture" of clover and timothy.

DEATH OF THOMAS H. GORDY.

The Days of a Democratic Institution Are Also Numbered.

Thomas H. Gordy, Esq., proprietor of the Quantic Hotel, died here last Monday evening at about six o'clock, and was buried Wednesday morning. Hon. E. Stanley Towdine was among the Salisbury men who attended the funeral.

Wednesday, June 12th, had been set apart as the day for holding the annual turkey dinner, so popular among Wisconsin politicians, at the hotel of Mr. Gordy by whom they were always served, and his burial on that day was a sad coincidence. Mr. Gordy's death very probably ends for all time these dinners, which were, by-the-way, gaining more than local importance. The one that was to have occurred last Wednesday promised to be the most enjoyable of them all, as Hon. Stephen Archer and other distinguished gentlemen were among those who had signified an intention of being present for the occasion.

A bit of the history of these now famous dinners may not be amiss here. In June of 1877 Hon. E. Stanley Towdine, our present Fish Commissioner, Stephen P. Towdine, and a few other gentlemen of the county, accidentally met at Quantic and registered at Gordy's hotel. When dinner-hour arrived their host had a surfer party in the shape of a turtle (snapper) pie. The general crowd seated themselves at the board and as once proceeded to sample the (to most of them) new dish. It was soon manifest that the pie had the sympathies of the party, and it is said the affinity was so strong that it was with difficulty the gentlemen were induced to leave the table, and not until one of the gentlemen from Salisbury suggested that "snapper" pie should be served annually by "mine host" Gordy to which the party unanimously agreed. With this understanding they retired.

When June came round once more on a certain day of the month the same smiling, jovial faces augmented in numbers by other good democrats and still others, not so good democrats, but all with the same good intentions toward the turtle pie, gathered at the Gordy hostelry and spent a full, round, happy day. On this occasion some "State making" occupied a part of the attention of the assembled solons and each year since has shared the honors with the pie, the latter, however, maintaining its supremacy through all the changes of the years.

The democrats set with regret this political stricken from their political calendar.

The Feud of the Clowen-hoofs.

Mr. Henry Dykes, a farmer residing near Parker's Chapel, this county, while walking through the woods, accidentally tore near the house last Sunday, witnessed a very interesting contest between a work ox which had spent many years in his master's service, and a veteran ram that had also trodden the Dykes' domain with his cloven-hoof for several generations, in which the symbolic figure of the zodiac came out victorious. After allowing the ram to bring his head with tremendous force into contact with the ox's square cranium several times, the ox apparently gave the signal for the final and deciding contact. The combatants backed off from each other to a distance of several feet, and at a slight toss of the head from the ox, the antagonist, with his cloven-hoof for several generations, in which the symbolic figure of the zodiac came out victorious.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Programmes at the Churches in Which the Children Participated.

As previously announced through the columns of the Salisbury press by the respective pastors, last Sunday was observed as Children's Day at Asbury M. Church, Wisconsin Presbyterian Church and Trinity M. E. Church, South.

The formal decorations on the occasion were particularly fine, and those of Asbury were positively unique. The music was special and well rendered at all the churches. As was intended, much prominence was given the children and young people who participated in the exercises.

The order of exercises follows below: Sermon by the pastor in the morning, preached especially for the children, from the text "Take this child (Hosea) and train him for me and I will pay thee thy wages." The sermon treated especially upon the training of children. The music was selected with special appropriateness to the subject and occasion.

Miss Jennie Smith acted as organist morning and evening. A throng of "True Success" and the six steps leading up to it, was erected over the pulpit, and all was beautifully decorated with flowers.

The evening exercises opened with a song by the children, followed by the recitation of the Lord's Prayer, by Master Warren Evans, describing the character of the throne. The first step represented Christ as the foundation; the second step, a Pure Heart, which was represented in responsive readings and in a solo by Miss Julia Ellegood. The idea of Purty was further illustrated in a dialogue with Miss Grace Ellegood, leader, and Miss Edna Owens, Louis Smith and Alice Wood (representing respectively hills, daisies and roses) responding in the third step. An Enlightened Conscience, the infant class sang "Growing up for Jesus." To illustrate the fourth step, A Firm Will, Masters Wilson Ward, Willard Baker and Larry Davis recited a dialogue, "I Can't and I Can." In the fifth step, A Well Regulated Body, Miss Beattie Ellegood told the audience of her "Wonderful House." In the sixth step, a Cultivated Mind, Masters Gordon Truitt, Winter Owens, Harold Smith, Willis Hearn, Lucian Humphrey, Linwood Warren, showed the value of an education by quotations. The whole was interspersed with music and responsive readings. The collection for the day was for the educational fund and amounted to about $50.

THE JOHNSON'S ORPHANS REMEMBERED.

About twenty little girls of Salisbury, whose ages range from ten to fifteen years, met at the home of one of their associates, Miss Edna Owens, last Monday afternoon and formed themselves into a society for the relief of the orphaned and destitute children who have survived their parents in the recent great calamity.

Miss Marian Veasey was chosen president, Miss Grace Ellegood, Lizzie Collier and Beattie Dorman, secretaries. They have already canvassed the city most thoroughly and obtained a neat little sum with which to purchase food, cake and other refreshments, which were put on sale at Forest Hill, Thursday evening. Twenty-six gallons of cream were sold, besides an abundance of cake and other delicacies. In fact everything was disposed of that was of a salable nature. By their efforts the little girls have created an orphan fund which, although at the time of going to press had not been completed, we feel safe in approximating at seventy dollars net.

Mr. John P. Owens kindly assisted the children by lighting and decorating the hall free of charge.

KEENE'S PRIZE.

Did you ever witness a baseball game played by amateurs, who were once clever players but "out of practice" had to look at it, isn't it? You see one go to the bat, he swings it with comparative ease, but when the ball comes he deals it a "foul" or what is more likely, "spines out" after changing bats between each strike. The catch, who is a little out of practice, takes every ball but the last one and muffs that, but finally takes himself and the ball together in time to put it down to the first—at least two feet over the head of the first-baseman and to the left of the right-fielder.

Then follows a scene of confusion—everybody yelling and throwing his arms. The runner makes his second base just after the baseman muffs a wild ball from the right field and starts to the third, which he makes in safety just after the ball is securely placed in the hands of the third baseman. He walks to the home-base in disgust, and determines either practice or retire from the field of active baseball to the shades of a pensioner time standing along a cross-fence and watch the current events of his co-laborer the ball club's way!

What we were all in the yesterday, today we perform in an unsatisfactory manner: often with great labor, worry and mental anxiety. But inasmuch as all appreciate this fact, we should overlook these infirmities of the flesh. If the chronicler, under such circumstances, so far forgets his art as to confound the future with the present, especially if he is certain that whatever will be just as certain to take place as though it had been, he should be excused.

Our associate editor was out of the office last week on a billion furlough.

Wisnomoco County is entitled to one Free Scholarship, in the St. Mary's Female Seminary, for the term of three years, beginning with the next Scholastic year, October 1st, 1889. The appointment will be made by County Commissioners and Superintendent of Schools. Persons applying for the Scholarship will have to stand a competitive examination. Applications should be made to the County Commissioners at once. By Order County Commissioners, D. J. Holloway, Clerk.

—Thos. C. Weeks, Esq., labor statistician, accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Thomas Marshall, of Baltimore, has been visiting this county for the past week collecting labor statistics for his annual report. While here he visited all the factories that employ working children, in compliance with a resolution of the Assembly of 1888. Mr. Weeks expected to meet Wisconsin's democracy at the "turtle dinner," but that pleasure was denied him.

—At the request of the W. C. T. U. of Beeson Creek Springs, Rev. Mervin J. Eckels of this city, accompanied by Mr. Wm. Johnson, drove to that town last Monday, preaching and delivering an eloquent temperance lecture in the Methodist Protestant church to a large audience. He reports the Union to be in a healthy condition, as is also its adjunct, the Local Legion. Mr. Eckels returned to Salisbury by moonlight the same night.

—Through the courtesy of Rev. J. T. Whitley, Mr. I. L. Twilley and Rev. W. I. Gooding, we have received invitations to the annual commencement exercises, respectively of Randolph Mason College, June 19th and 20th, and Conference Academy on June 16th, 17th, 19th and 20th, inclusive.

—We owe our Baptist friends an apology for conveying their Association last week, one week earlier than they intended. But it is an ill wind that blows nobody good. The mistake gave our friends next door an opportunity to uncork a two-ounce cask of wit at our expense, which greatly relieved the situation.

—Statistics presented at the convention of the Diocese of Annapolis, which met in Princess Anne last evening, 7,647 people in the diocese, 1,466 families, 7,647 people, 2,877 communicants, 394 Sunday school scholars and 3,267 pupils. Total contributions for the year, $51,741.

—Prof. A. T. Ford entertained an audience of Sharpshooters in the M. E. Church on Monday night.

HORSE AILMENTS.

Reported, 11th, May 26, 1889.

My name is signed on the results of the old remedy called "Horse Ailments" which I have used for some time. It is a very good remedy for all horse ailments, and I have cured many horses with it. I have used it for some time and I have cured many horses with it. I have used it for some time and I have cured many horses with it.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

It convened at Pocomoke City on Wednesday of last week.

The fourth annual convention of the Southern Sabbath School Association of the Presbytery of New Castle, convened in the Presbyterian Church at Pocomoke City on Wednesday evening of last week, at 8 o'clock.

In the absence of the newly elected president Mr. R. S. Cohn, Rev. Mervin W. Eckels was called to the chair and presided during the session.

Mr. F. H. Dryden surprised himself and pleased everybody else by delivering an eloquent and appropriate address of welcome.

The President then introduced Rev. W. H. Logan, the recently elected Presbyterial Missionary who delivered an address replete with striking facts and able arguments in favor of the religious instruction of the rising generation.

On Thursday morning the Association convened at 9 o'clock. The calling of the roll disclosed the fact that there were present thirty three delegates, besides visitors representing 33 Sabbath Schools.

All schools that were represented last year at Snow Hill, sent delegates again and Federalburg, Md., Rehoboth, Md., and Pitts Creek were added to the list.

The reports indicated the greatest advance in Sabbath School work made since this association was organized. Pocomoke City, Rehoboth, Pitts Creek, Lewes and Bridgeville reported the largest number of conversions from the Sabbath School.

OUR CIRCULATING LIBRARY.

Its Present Condition and the Necessity for a Revival of Interest.

Probably very few of the Stockholders of the Salisbury Circulating Library are aware of its actual condition, and some may have even forgotten that they are stockholders, as well as that there is actually a library, and it is thought if the needs of this worthy institution are brought before the public the literary tastes of the people will be excited to place it again in its former field of usefulness.

It is a disgrace and an insult to the intelligence of this community that an institution, one of the pride of the city, and justly too, should be allowed, through actual neglect, to become an eyesore to every intelligent citizen.

Why cannot this institution be restored to its former glory in the same manner in which it was at first established, to become again the pride of the city, and an evidence of the literary tastes of our people and commensurate with its reputation for business enterprise?

Why cannot those in authority recognize that a public office is a public trust in literary circles as well as in the administration of civil authority? It is true that after our calamity of 1886 all exertions of our citizens were concentrated in restoring their homes and extending their business; but this has been assumed and should not be an excuse.

Some kind spirit either, from pity or shame, has taken possession of the key, at least the right key cannot be found, but the writer was able to gain admittance by the aid of a private key.

But what is to be seen in the library itself? It presents the appearance, at first sight, of an attic room of a deserted house, dusty cobwebs cover every corner, the sand on the floor is so thick that it almost cracks under the feet; a half dozen chairs minus legs or backs, arranged with artistic negligence, together with a dilapidated desk, comprise the furniture of the room; lying in one corner is a promiscuous heap of leaves which are left as souvenirs of some of the best books in the library.

The writer saw before him, at a glance, portions of the history of Napoleon Bonaparte, "Attila," "Lord Montague's Page," "The Scottish Chiefs" and "Last Days of Pompeii" and others. Their very condition speaks more forcibly than words for their popularity, while the ledger shows, in almost all cases, that those who have books charged at all were not willing to return one book till they had taken out at least one or two more; and the time of keeping a book seems to be left to the kind, sweet will of the individual.

The sign of the Salisbury Circulating Library stands with its face hidden from shame in one corner behind the back numbers of magazines, the subscriptions to which have expired.

Blood Purifiers.

Boils, pimples, blotches on the skin, eruptions, etc., evidence the fact that the blood is not in a good condition. These symptoms result from the effort of nature to throw off the impurities, in which case should be assisted by Swift's Specific. This will remedy the diseased condition and bring speedy and permanent relief by forcing out the poison, and will build up the system from the first dose.

After recovery from a severe attack of eruption of the skin and stomach, my little son had a number of bad eczema and running sores to come on his head and body, which lasted for four years. I tried all the doctors and many remedies which were recommended by other parties, but the sores still grew worse, until I did not expect him to recover. My friends were confident that if the sores healed it would kill him. I at length quit all other treatment and put him on Swift's Specific, and less than three bottles cured him sound and well, and he is today a sound and healthy child. S. S. also cured a sore on another of my children. R. J. McKINNEY, Woodbury, Texas. Treatise on Blood and Skin Diseases mailed free.

THOMAS JEFFERSON'S DEATH. This Specific Specific Co., Drawer 3, Atlanta, Ga.

Although Thomas Jefferson was a skeptic he frequently spoke in the same strain as the reputed last words, which were: "To God I commit my soul, my daughter to my country." In his "Summary Review of the Rights of North America," he says: "The God who gave us life gave us liberty at the same time."

In the Declaration of Independence he speaks of nature's God and after the celebrated phrase that all men are created equal, he says, "that they are endowed by their Creator with unalienable rights." The phrase that Jefferson is alleged to have used sounds very well, nevertheless, Thomas Jefferson did not use it. His last word was "Ah." There is nothing very striking about that, but it is the truth and that is one advantage. Jefferson knew he was dying and he wanted to die on the Fourth of July. As the time drew near he said to his daughter, Mr. Trist. "This is the Fourth of July, Mr. Trist." "Ah," murmured Jefferson with an expression of satisfaction. Then he sank into unconsciousness.

It is not always so, I cheerfully admit. There are among English journalists, it is my privilege to count such among my own friends—many whose loyalty to principle is unquestionable, whose veracity is unimpeachable, whose motives, whether we agree with their views or not, are beyond suspicion.—W. S. Lilly in the July Forum.

The Divine Plan of Creation. To me individually it has always appeared that a false issue is raised when opponents of Darwinism make their appeal to the anima theologorum. For though it is quite true that the theory of natural selection is incompatible with that of supernatural design in those cruder forms which it necessarily presented under a belief in special creation, I do not see that such is the case with reference to my hypothesis of teleology which deserves to be regarded as in any way worthy of those higher conceptions of deity which the growth of natural science, in all its parts, has been the means of engendering. It is true that these are now required enormously to widen their ideas touching the nature and the method of supernatural design in the realm of organic nature, just as was the case when the astronomer first revealed the utter inadequacy of previous ideas touching on the realm of inorganic nature. But I cannot see that in the former case more than in the latter case, those who on other grounds have accepted the theory of them should find any reasonable cause for allowing themselves to be required to extend immeasurably their conceptions of the Divinity. And I am quite sure that they would be committing the gravest of possible mistakes if they were to adopt the advice which appears to be given them in the words with which I will conclude:

"No wonder that Darwin was reviled by him who had the cause of religion at heart, for his theory tended not only to repudiate creation, but to discredit deity, and so practically to enshrine unbelief as lord of the universe."—Prof. Geo. J. Romanes in the July Forum.

The Name of Iowa.

The State derives its name from the Iowas, a name which is now a name of the Iowas. Much learning, or at least, research, has been wasted in the attempt to show the orthography and definition of this word among the Indians themselves. While Washington Irving with the license allowable to an imaginative writer, states that the meaning of the word is "beautiful," and recounts the incident by which that phrase was first applied to the country, saying that the tribe who in their wanderings arrived at the highest point in the Iowa prairie, looking over the vast expanse of country, and surrounded by hills or swamps, involuntarily uttered the word "Iowa," meaning "beautiful." But probably a better authority for the meaning of the word was Mr. Antonio LeClair, a half-breed of the "Sac" and "Fox" nations, who always asserted humorously that he was the first white man born in Iowa, though his mother was an Indian. He was employed for many years by the United States as an interpreter in their dealings with the various Indian tribes. His definition of the word was, "Here is the spot which is the place to dwell in peace." It is very certain, however, that the name of the State, and the name of one of its secondary rivers, running through a large part of the center of the State, is derived from the name of the tribe.—Mr. Justice Miller, in Harper's Magazine for July.

The Pile Indians have natural taste for drawing the children of all kinds of animals in clay as naturally as white children model play, and even the staidest looking buck will, with a pencil, dash off without the slightest hesitation a map of every portion of the country with which he is acquainted, putting all the rivers, lakes and mountains in their proper places, and giving the whole proportional dimensions.

Miscellaneous Cards.

Water as a Substitue for Beer. Sister Weymouth, who lived in the notable town of Blackmouth, she was notable for her powers as an exhorter, which shone in the village prayer-meeting as brilliantly as those of any licensed preacher whom the villagers heard, and for her quick wit, that found expression in many quaint and pithy speeches, some of which are treated to this day, although she has long been gathered to her fathers and mothers.

A worthless young man named Frost fell in love with Sister Weymouth's daughter. Failing to melt the stern objections of the young woman's mother in any other way, he pretended to be converted under her exhortations, joined the church, and was married to his heart's desire.

Very soon the badblood in Frost's veins asserted itself, and the racial desert his wife after he had lived with her but five or six months. Not long afterward his child was born, while the officiating person was giving the infant a bath. Sister Weymouth came in.

"Look here," said she, "be sure to hold that baby under the water long enough to get all the Frost out of it!"

In an Important Factor. The machinery of the government is run by ink. When Congress is in session it is sometimes assailed by wind, but it is that keeps the thing going all the year around, causing us to be prosperous and contented people. Were it not for the constant and liberal supply of the murky fluid the wheels of government would cease to go around; not even Keely's "etheric" or "lyonospheric" force could make them move! Thousands of little streams of ink pouring in "eccentric" curves keep the machine going. Stop these and the government would stop. Something like 48,000 quarts of ink are used every year for the departments, besides that used in making money and that in stamping the official form of the wisdom of our statesmen at the capital.

London's Ancient Well. Another portion of the old city wall by which London was surrounded has just been brought to light in the neighborhood of Indragate Hill. It stands at the juncture of Little Bridge street, near the corner of Broadway, very near another portion which was laid bare and taken down about five or six years since at the corner of Little Bridge street. It is actually of Roman construction, it is largely composed of Roman materials, and it probably formed part of a bastion or tower at an angle of the city wall. It is about ten feet high and twelve feet in length. Its depth and thickness will be seen when the adjoining wall is removed as will shortly be the case.

A Large Contract. The city authorities of Louisville, Ky., have just awarded a contract for 30,000 tons of granite blocks, 10,000 lineal feet of granite curbing and 50,000 lineal feet of granite grating for gutters. Representatives of twenty-five of the leading granite companies of the country were present at the opening of the bids. All the bids were lower than heretofore made, the last granite purchased by the city costing $8.65 per ton. The award was made to the Mount Pony Quarry Company, of Culpeper county, Va., at $6.90 per ton for Virginia granite. The Maine and New Hampshire granite was offered at $7.40, Georgia at $7.45 and Arkansas at $7.85 per ton.

Vandenberg and His Father. The son was then thirty-two years old, and himself a yachtman. They were on board the yacht Northern Star, on their way to St. Petersburg, William, who was an habitual smoker, was puffing his favorite cigar. "Bill," said the son, "I wish you'd give up that smoking habit of yours. It'll give you ten thousand dollars if you will."

"You needn't give me anything," was the son's answer, as he flung the cigar overboard. "Your wish is sufficient." He never smoked afterward.

"I don't prove we kin," said the dorky, doubtfully.

"At what time was the ham stolen?"

"About eleven o'clock, day after."

"Well, where were you between eleven o'clock and midnight—in bed?"
