The New Water-works.

Ground was broken last Monday by the company for the purpose of laying the conduit pipes for our water-works. The work is progressing so rapidly that Dr. Bell, the Secretary, says they will be in full operation by the first of July. At present, about $8,000 of the stock has been subscribed, and it is estimated that the works, when completed, will cost fully $15,000, and require $20,000. The company's books are still open for subscriptions. It is desired to have as much of the stock as possible taken in the town, and especially by property holders whose property will be supplied. So far only one thousand dollars has been subscribed outside of the town. It is important, too, that all the charter franchises of the company be specific, definite, and well understood, for neither the company nor the town want any suits from misunderstanding. The subject is one that not only interests us now, but will, in all probability, interest the town for the next hundred years. The mains which the company are laying seem to be of a substantial nature and promise great durability and use.

Death of Our Dear Brother.

William H. Causey, son of Dr. L. Causey, was born November 6th, 1849, and died May 16th, 1888. Being drawn away from home in 1869, he went out to Louisville, Ky., and was soon married to the late Mrs. M. J. Causey. He was high with us, as the practical statesman and men of broad ideas of development, say of our general government to day, to prepare to stretch out our lines, open new fields for our commerce, and factory products, cast aside the weak and dependent shackles of limitation. We should not keep our electric light under a cover, but let it emit its rays to the extent limits. We have in our town, men in all branches of business, young, energetic and practical, and I find in talking with them, that they've all imbibed this idea of developing new fields for future operations, in connection with our present trade.

The object of our merchants is to turn the trade that is now going to the cities from the lower peninsula to Salisbury, and not to catch the local trade of that locality. This they are perfectly willing to remain with the home merchants and will make no effort to get it.

The committee were delighted with their reception at the hands of Mr. Cooke, the general agent of the company. He is very cordial, and disposed to assist them in any way he could.

Death of Mr. J. Morgan.

The sad news reached us last Saturday of the death of Mr. J. Morgan, Esq., of Seaford, Del., cashier of the Sussex National Bank, from brain fever. Mr. Morgan was perhaps the best known banking official on the peninsula, certainly one of the most efficient. He was for many years cashier of the First National Bank of Seaford. He took charge of it when it was almost a bankrupt institution, and made it one of the most flourishing banks of the country. Owing to some misunderstanding, his connection with that bank was severed in 1888, when he immediately took steps to organize the present Sussex National Bank. So much confidence had the community in him that this was no difficult task. He succeeded, and lived long enough to see the bank a success.

It was the pleasure of the editor of this paper to know Mr. Morgan personally, even intimately. He always found him a reliable, pains-taking, conscientious business man, and an educated and Christian gentleman. No community can afford to lose such a man.

BUSINESS BOOM.

A Committee of Salisbury Merchants Visit Norfolk to the Interest of our Trade.

The committee of the Board of Trade of Salisbury, consisting of Randolph Humphreys, Col. E. T. Foster, J. R. T. Laws, Charles E. Birkhead, R. E. Powell, L. W. Gandy, waited on the New York, Phila., and Norfolk Railroad Company at Norfolk, May 30th, 1888. The object was to see if the Company would lend such assistance as they could, towards the development of the wholesale and retail business of Salisbury, and to this end asked that the Company make liberal excursion rates to Salisbury and return, the entire year, or as long as they could, practically do so, without interfering with other business, and at certain seasons of the year to run special excursions. The Company agree to make a special round trip rate from Cape Charles to Salisbury and return at $4.00, the rate from intermediate points to be made on a basis of 2c per mile for (a) distance travelled, but not to exceed the rate from Cape Charles, and during the spring or summer season to run one special excursion, or, at least, to be operated to Salisbury at a rate not to exceed $2.00 for the round trip from Cape Charles, also run a similar excursion during the fall, the time and train service to be hereafter agreed upon by the respective parties. It is the purpose to get these excursions to Salisbury early in the morning and get them away in the afternoon so as to give the entire day at Salisbury. The Company will, if it is practicable, arrange a better service for the people going to Salisbury and returning to the Virginia Peninsula every day during the whole season. The sale of special excursion tickets to Salisbury and return will commence June 4th, 1888, from all N. Y., P. & N. Railroad stations. Of course this includes all points on the Norfolk branch.

This Virginia business which we have frequently spoken of as at last taking shape and we shall expect to see something practical grow out of it.

Our merchants and business men are hourly aroused to the necessity of making an effort to attract to our own city millions of dollars worth of trade that is now going to the cities.

The object is to make Salisbury the trade center of the Peninsula. In an interview with Mr. L. W. Gandy concerning this effort to work up a Southern trade, he said: "The fact is, in looking at the city of Salisbury today, with its broadly developed business interests, it has outgrown the fostering care of its immediate vicinity. Its increased facilities, and large stocks of commodities will supply more than the home demand. The line of goods now carried by our merchants was selected specially for the trade of the whole lower Peninsula. We are centrally located and have both rail-road and steamboat facilities. I deem it high time with us, as the practical statesman and men of broad ideas of development, say of our general government to day, to prepare to stretch out our lines, open new fields for our commerce, and factory products, cast aside the weak and dependent shackles of limitation. We should not keep our electric light under a cover, but let it emit its rays to the extent limits. We have in our town, men in all branches of business, young, energetic and practical, and I find in talking with them, that they've all imbibed this idea of developing new fields for future operations, in connection with our present trade."

The object of our merchants is to turn the trade that is now going to the cities from the lower peninsula to Salisbury, and not to catch the local trade of that locality. This they are perfectly willing to remain with the home merchants and will make no effort to get it.

The committee were delighted with their reception at the hands of Mr. Cooke, the general agent of the company. He is very cordial, and disposed to assist them in any way he could.

It's Always the Way.—"Didn't I tell you so?" said a gentleman to an acquaintance who he chanced to meet on the street; "it's always the way." "What's always the way?" inquired a mutual friend of the two men who happened along that time. "Why, just this," replied the first speaker: "you see Smith, here, the last time I met him he had one of the worst coughs you ever heard. He complained of a loss of appetite, of night-sweats, of low spirits and other unmistakable preliminary symptoms of consumption. I told him to get a supply of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery at once. He did so, and look at him now! Did you ever see a healthier looking man?" "The Discovery" has quenched thousands from consumptive graves. Know it would cure Smith. It's always the way.

A Large Contract.—Another illustration of the great development in progress in the South is contained in the announcement from New York that the contract for the construction of the Tennessee and Coosa Railroad has been awarded to a Birmingham (Ala.) firm. The contract will involve over $1,000,000. Work will commence this week, and inside of thirty days over a thousand men will be at work on the line. The road commences at Gadsden and runs from there to Huntsville, a distance of eighty or eighty-five miles, crossing the Tennessee river at Guntersville. It is through a rough and mountainous country, and work will be very heavy. The work will be completed in the last part of the year. Inside of ninety days ten miles of track is expected to be completed.

For dress wear at watering-places lovely dresses are made of white lace or crepe de chine. They continue also to be made of point d'esprit net, Valenciennes and simple muslins.

Col. Wm. F. Cody, the dauntless scout who has become so famous as Buffalo Bill, returned to this country on Saturday with his ideal Western troupe, led by the honor and another continent.

Col. Cody said: "Our success abroad was phenomenal, and I think I may fairly say that our representations and the exemplary conduct of my men did much to give the people on the other side a just idea of the truly novel life on the frontier."

A Warning.

The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is shown by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and it allowed to continue their progress they extend to the lungs producing consumption and the fatal, causing Catarrh. Now when this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness; allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boecher's Germinal Syrup. It will give an immediate relief.

Origin of "Fakes"

The word "fake" has been used for fifty years at least in the theatrical profession to express the idea of a makeshift. Thus, to "fake a dress" is to get up a costume which is not correct, but which can be made to serve its purpose on a pinch. Costumes of this kind are called "fakements." To "fake a part" is to play it imperfectly, without proper knowledge of its lines. If the old days of stock companies a common expression among actors who knew their lines perfectly in the text or lines of their characters was: "Well, I'll fake through it so to come, and I will fake through it somehow." Men much given to this sort of thing were known in the profession as fakers, and I regret to say there are a good many of them.

An Explanation.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem to be afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago you would remember that it was common to find any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions find it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to reabsorb it into the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend Green's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

Wanamaker's.

Philadelphia, Monday, May 28, 1888. We believe there is no Black Surah Silk in the market that is so good as this.

These Surahs are made to our order from the best selected silk, dyed a fast black, and woven with great care to insure good wear.

A finer Black Surah, also 26 inches, $1. Proper weight, mellow, full of good substantial wear.

Better value in India Silks than we ever had before. Light as gossamer almost; but firm, close, even.

And these little prices for Silks come in the face of a sharp fashion drift toward them.

Wool goods for erratic weather. Light in weight and color. Warm as love-it eyes.

Quaint, demure, captivating Challis. At the price, like money set to music, 50c and 60c!

All-wool Henriettes. Genuine Henriettes. You will find plenty of masqueraders with a put-on smooth face. But it isn't the Henrietta face that stays.

Here's a lot, uniform colors and quality. 45 inches wide, and the price 75c. It's been $1.10. Clinging Cashmères 37 1/2c from 50c. Price rises with the quality to $1.25.

Think of a plain Challis. All the softness and delicacy of Challis without the figure-beauty. Something new. In all the going colors, 65c, 75c, and $1. Ask for plain Genevieve.

La Gloria is another novelty. Allabross weave with a decided crepe finish. And it stays crepe while you wear it. 42

CORRESPONDENCE.

News Gathered from All Points by our Correspondents.

PITTSVILLE, June 6, 1888.

EDITOR ADVERTISER.—We are down in the midst of the strawberry fever, shipping from five to eight car loads every day, and if prices keep up so as to justify shipping them they will last some two weeks yet. It is amusing to see the anxious countenances of the shippers as they crowd around the mail train to get their telegrams, which, as you perhaps know, are sent out by the office, and are attached to poles which our people helped considerably toward paying for, in the hope of having an office here, but air is full of rumor that it is doubtful if we even have a rail road much longer.

Not much news of interest. I believe every democrat in the district save possibly one man, is pleased with the nomination of Mr. Gibson for Congress. Four years ago they helped to elect Cleveland and Gibson, and they are anxious to do the same thing again this year.

Owing to the cold and wet weather, the corn crops are looking rather bad, and the outlook for a crop is not very flattering.

VOX.

TYASKIN, June 6, 1888.

The current of affairs flows on in the old channel. Just now, the tide is at the flood for some; those that have berry patches, and the pickers. It is a question which class are most benefited, the growers or pickers. The season is very nearly over. Though not posted as to the exact statistics yet we feel safe in saying the shipments from this section have been considerably in excess of any preceding season. So far as known, "the same old story" some of the growers have realized a fair return, others have little over expenses.

This is the season when the amateur base ball player "bath wounds" with a "cause" and indulges in dreams of future glory and victory. Tyaskin boasts several local nines.

RESUME.

SHARPTOWN, June 6, 1888.

Having occasion recently to travel from Sharptown, near the "Delaware line," to Vienna, I saw many interesting things that deserve special notice. In the first place the route is considerably shortened by the new road leading out from town, crossing Plum creek in a direct line, instead of winding up by the mill. Nothing special in the mill, we arrived at Riverton. There we saw many changes and improvements. The liquor business that long infested and contaminated that place has stopped and near the town a "whiskey shop" now stands a handsome and ornate building, and the people of the place and the surrounding community. These people are on the ascending scale and the very fact of their locality should inspire them to build up the town and utilize their resources and thereby enhance their business prosperity. They have a superior advantage in their school building being one of the best in the county, and the school children enough, within traveling distance, to support it.

A steam saw-mill is the chief laboring improvement and a cannery is in contemplation for this season. Farmers and land owners in this section are beginning to turn their attention more to the cultivation of land, and this wharf, instead of being the centre of a large lumber and cord-wood trade, as it formerly was, is one of the largest, if not the largest, fruit and berry shipping point on the Nantuxite river. Leaving here we find signs of industry and progress all along the road and at Spring Grove, just below Riverton, there is a vast change. A large cannery, a church, store-houses, shoe shop and several new dwellings, together with the level and admirable terra firma, indicate the site of a future town. Here, too, is one of the finest mineral springs in the county. In this locality there are special agricultural advancements. Land, which only a few years ago was thickly set in timber with a dense undergrowth, is now in a good state of cultivation, in spacious fields with thrifty orchards, and here some and convenient residences. The land is well drained and good crops are grown of corn, wheat, potatoes, fruit and berries. The people are beginning to realize their natural advantages and their success is in the utilization of the land and in the propagation of such fruit and vegetables as are best adapted to the soil and climate. These signs of progress are all along down to the saw-mill. The changes and advancements are indeed commendable, and the general appearance is admirable compared with that of a few years back. These people should have encouragement and should be supplied with better transportation facilities.

see every lighting democrat admitted, but that was impossible. The matter was disposed of by referring it to the national executive committee, and it was decided to give up the hall during recess to the uniformed clubs. The trouble was that there were too many democrats in and out of uniform to accommodate more than a fraction of the whole. This is said by the people of Salisbury to be the greatest drawback in their calendar, and they have had numerous popular demonstrations heretofore.

AFTER THE CONVENTION.

When the recess was taken, at 2 o'clock, the mass of people poured out in the street and made their way back to the hotels. The afternoon was comparatively quiet, but this was only by comparison with the tremendous rush of the morning and of Monday. The committee on permanent organization and resolutions met at 5 o'clock. The meeting of the committee on resolutions in the national committee parlors at the Southern Hotel, attracted unusual attention for the reason that the tariff plank of the platform was reported to the platform of the convention. Ex-Gov. Abbott expressed the popular sentiment in the convention when he moved that they should meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning instead of noon. He said that the nomination for President and Vice-President should be made on the second day. The delegates, most of whom left home last week, and have since last Saturday been engaged here in the bustle of preparation, are very willing to go along with their work without delay and start for their homes. Thurman and a fresh stock of bandanas made their appearance upon the streets immediately after the convention took a recess.

Second Day.

The democratic national convention at St. Louis Wednesday nominated Grover Cleveland for President of the United States by acclamation, and without the formality of a ballot. The nominating speech, made by Daniel Dougherty, of New York, aroused such a storm of enthusiasm as is rarely witnessed even in a national convention. Hon. P. A. Collins, the permanent chairman of the convention, made an impressive address, in which he reviewed the results accomplished by four years of democratic administration. The committee on resolutions not being ready to report, the convention took a recess until Thursday without making a nomination for Vice-President.

AN ALMOST UNPARALLELED SCENE.

St. Louis, June 6.—After the preliminary Mr. Daniel Dougherty, of the New York delegation, who had been selected to present Mr. Cleveland's name in nomination, advanced to the platform. In slow and measured tones, in deep, calm voice, with dramatic and impressive gesture, with that flow of reason and rhetoric for which he is famous, Mr. Dougherty performed his task. Wild cheers, huzzas, huzzas and handkerchiefs waved in the air, punctuated his words and sentences, and to the music of applause were added the shrill squeaks of the delegates' hats and the rattling of the buttons of their coats. The last two words of Mr. Dougherty's speech were "Grover Cleveland," and this was the only time his name was mentioned. Mr. Dougherty then left the platform, and a whirlwind of cheers and well-wishes swept back and forth for many minutes. There was not one person on the floor on the galleries but was in one instant standing, Ladies waved their parasols and handkerchiefs, delegates flung their hats and buttons of their coats, and the air was filled with the sound of applause. Now and then the sea of sound would ebb for one brief moment, and then be caught up and rush back with an irresistible force. Among the delegates North and South were men with one arm or one leg. Wonderful use was made of the remaining member, for all of them managed to get in as much stamping and waving as their more favored brothers. The scene, which has rarely if ever had a parallel in any national convention, was kept up until it was concluded by the absolute exhaustion of all those participating in it, and no heed was paid to the knocks for order by the chairman who he thought there had been enough of it.

THE PLATFORM.

Interest is naturally much excited over the composition of the platform, especially as the exaggerated statements as to differences in the committee on resolutions continue to be circulated. Either the sub-committee or the full committee have been in almost continuous session from yesterday afternoon. There has been much difference and the discussion has been extended. It has all been in a conciliatory spirit. Some of the Western members of the committee are well up on tariff questions, and present their advanced ideas with eloquence and ingenuity. Two or three of them went so far that Mr. Watterson could not follow them, and on several points he was compelled to side with the element improperly designated protectionist in the St. Louis Republican, the local democratic organ. The Republican has been violently denouncing Mr. Gorman and others as Randallites for the offense of wishing to construct the platform on the line the President defines. The element for which it speaks seems to be under the impression that it knows better than the President and those who want such a declaration as will secure New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. This afternoon the platform, which was submitted to the President and received his approval, was voted on as a whole and carried by 25 to 20. It is understood to be substantially as follows: "The democratic party of the United States, in convention assembled, renews the pledges of its fidelity to the democratic faith and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the convention of 1876. Chief among the principles of party faith are the maintenance of an indissoluble union of free and independent States, now about to enter upon its second century of unexampled progress and renown; devotion to a plan of government regulated by a united constitution strictly specifying every granted power, and expressly insuring to the States or people the entire unimpaired residue of power; the encouragement of a jealous popular vigilance directed to all who are chosen for brief terms to enact and execute the laws, and are charged with the duty of preserving peace, insuring equality and establishing justice; the democratic party welcomes an exacting scrutiny of the administration of the executive power which four years ago was committed to its trust in the election of Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, and it challenges the most searching inquiry concerning its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which then invited the suffrage of the people. During a most critical period of our financial affairs, resulting from overtaxation, the anomalous condition of our currency, and a public debt unexampled, it has greatly promoted the prosperity of the people. It has reversed the improvident policy of the republican party touching the domain, and has regained from corporations and syndicates, alien and domestic, and returned to the people nearly one hundred millions of acres of valuable lands, to be sacredly held as homesteads for our citizens. While carefully guarding the interests of the taxpayer, and conforming strictly to the principles of justice, it has paid out more for pensions and bounties to the soldiers and sailors of the republic than was ever paid before during the appointment of any President. By intelligent management and judicious and economical expenditure of the public money it has set on foot the reconstruction of the American navy upon a system which forbids the recurrence of equal and inequitable results. It has adopted and consistently pursued a fair and prudent foreign policy, preserving peace with all nations, while scrupulously maintaining all the rights and interests of our own government and people at home and abroad. The exclusion from our shores of Chinese laborers has been effectually secured under the provisions of a treaty, the operation of which has been postponed by the action of a republican majority in the Senate. Reform in the civil service has been inaugurated and maintained, whereby fidelity and efficiency in the discharge of official duty instead of the claims of partisanship alone have become the requirements in making appointments and promotions in the public service. In every branch and department of the government under the democratic control the rights and the welfare of all the people have been guarded and defended, every public interest has been protected, and the equality of all our citizens before the law, without regard to race or color, has been steadfastly maintained. Upon its record thus exhibited, and upon the pledge of a continuance to the people of the benefits of good government, the national democratic convention invites a re-visit of the popular trust by the re-election of a Chief Magistrate who has been faithful, able and prudent."

Third Day.

St. Louis, June 7.—Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, was unanimously nominated for the Vice-Presidency and great enthusiasm. The names of General Black and Governor Gray were withdrawn.

The convention adjourned sine die.

Mr. Dougherty then left the platform, and a whirlwind of cheers and well-wishes swept back and forth for many minutes. There was not one person on the floor on the galleries but was in one instant standing, Ladies waved their parasols and handkerchiefs, delegates flung their hats and buttons of their coats, and the air was filled with the sound of applause. Now and then the sea of sound would ebb for one brief moment, and then be caught up and rush back with an irresistible force. Among the delegates North and South were men with one arm or one leg. Wonderful use was made of the remaining member, for all of them managed to get in as much stamping and waving as their more favored brothers. The scene, which has rarely if ever had a parallel in any national convention, was kept up until it was concluded by the absolute exhaustion of all those participating in it, and no heed was paid to the knocks for order by the chairman who he thought there had been enough of it.

THE PLATFORM.

Interest is naturally much excited over the composition of the platform, especially as the exaggerated statements as to differences in the committee on resolutions continue to be circulated. Either the sub-committee or the full committee have been in almost continuous session from yesterday afternoon. There has been much difference and the discussion has been extended. It has all been in a conciliatory spirit. Some of the Western members of the committee are well up on tariff questions, and present their advanced ideas with eloquence and ingenuity. Two or three of them went so far that Mr. Watterson could not follow them, and on several points he was compelled to side with the element improperly designated protectionist in the St. Louis Republican, the local democratic organ. The Republican has been violently denouncing Mr. Gorman and others as Randallites for the offense of wishing to construct the platform on the line the President defines. The element for which it speaks seems to be under the impression that it knows better than the President and those who want such a declaration as will secure New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. This afternoon the platform, which was submitted to the President and received his approval, was voted on as a whole and carried by 25 to 20. It is understood to be substantially as follows: "The democratic party of the United States, in convention assembled, renews the pledges of its fidelity to the democratic faith and reaffirms the platform adopted by its representatives in the convention of 1876. Chief among the principles of party faith are the maintenance of an indissoluble union of free and independent States, now about to enter upon its second century of unexampled progress and renown; devotion to a plan of government regulated by a united constitution strictly specifying every granted power, and expressly insuring to the States or people the entire unimpaired residue of power; the encouragement of a jealous popular vigilance directed to all who are chosen for brief terms to enact and execute the laws, and are charged with the duty of preserving peace, insuring equality and establishing justice; the democratic party welcomes an exacting scrutiny of the administration of the executive power which four years ago was committed to its trust in the election of Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, and it challenges the most searching inquiry concerning its fidelity and devotion to the pledges which then invited the suffrage of the people. During a most critical period of our financial affairs, resulting from overtaxation, the anomalous condition of our currency, and a public debt unexampled, it has greatly promoted the prosperity of the people. It has reversed the improvident policy of the republican party touching the domain, and has regained from corporations and syndicates, alien and domestic, and returned to the people nearly one hundred millions of acres of valuable lands, to be sacredly held as homesteads for our citizens. While carefully guarding the interests of the taxpayer, and conforming strictly to the principles of justice, it has paid out more for pensions and bounties to the soldiers and sailors of the republic than was ever paid before during the appointment of any President. By intelligent management and judicious and economical expenditure of the public money it has set on foot the reconstruction of the American navy upon a system which forbids the recurrence of equal and inequitable results. It has adopted and consistently pursued a fair and prudent foreign policy, preserving peace with all nations, while scrupulously maintaining all the rights and interests of our own government and people at home and abroad. The exclusion from our shores of Chinese laborers has been effectually secured under the provisions of a treaty, the operation of which has been postponed by the action of a republican majority in the Senate. Reform in the civil service has been inaugurated and maintained, whereby fidelity and efficiency in the discharge of official duty instead of the claims of partisanship alone have become the requirements in making appointments and promotions in the public service. In every branch and department of the government under the democratic control the rights and the welfare of all the people have been guarded and defended, every public interest has been protected, and the equality of all our citizens before the law, without regard to race or color, has been steadfastly maintained. Upon its record thus exhibited, and upon the pledge of a continuance to the people of the benefits of good government, the national democratic convention invites a re-visit of the popular trust by the re-election of a Chief Magistrate who has been faithful, able and prudent."

Third Day.

St. Louis, June 7.—Allen G. Thurman, of Ohio, was unanimously nominated for the Vice-Presidency and great enthusiasm. The names of General Black and Governor Gray were withdrawn.

The convention adjourned sine die.

see every lighting democrat admitted, but that was impossible. The matter was disposed of by referring it to the national executive committee, and it was decided to give up the hall during recess to the uniformed clubs. The trouble was that there were too many democrats in and out of uniform to accommodate more than a fraction of the whole. This is said by the people of Salisbury to be the greatest drawback in their calendar, and they have had numerous popular demonstrations heretofore.

AFTER THE CONVENTION.

When the recess was taken, at 2 o'clock, the mass of people poured out in the street and made their way back to the hotels. The afternoon was comparatively quiet, but this was only by comparison with the tremendous rush of the morning and of Monday. The committee on permanent organization and resolutions met at 5 o'clock. The meeting of the committee on resolutions in the national committee parlors at the Southern Hotel, attracted unusual attention for the reason that the tariff plank of the platform was reported to the platform of the convention. Ex-Gov. Abbott expressed the popular sentiment in the convention when he moved that they should meet at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning instead of noon. He said that the nomination for President and Vice-President should be made on the second day. The delegates, most of whom left home last week, and have since last Saturday been engaged here in the bustle of preparation, are very willing to go along with their work without delay and start for their homes. Thurman and a fresh stock of bandanas made their appearance upon the streets immediately after the convention took a recess.

Second Day.

The democratic national convention at St. Louis Wednesday nominated Grover Cleveland for President of the United States by acclamation, and without the formality of a ballot. The nominating speech, made by Daniel Dougherty, of New York, aroused such a storm of enthusiasm as is rarely witnessed even in a national convention. Hon. P. A. Collins, the permanent chairman of the convention, made an impressive address, in which he reviewed the results accomplished by four years of democratic administration. The committee on resolutions not being ready to report, the convention took a recess until Thursday without making a nomination for Vice-President.

AN ALMOST UNPARALLELED SCENE.

St. Louis, June 6.—After the preliminary Mr. Daniel Dougherty, of the New York delegation, who had been selected to present Mr. Cleveland's name in nomination, advanced to the platform. In slow and measured tones, in deep, calm voice, with dramatic and impressive gesture, with that flow of reason and rhetoric for which he is famous, Mr. Dougherty performed his task. Wild cheers, huzzas, huzzas and handkerchiefs waved in the air, punctuated his words and sentences, and to the music of applause were added the shrill squeaks of the delegates' hats and the rattling of the buttons of their coats. The last two words of Mr. Dougherty's speech were "Grover Cleveland," and this was the only time his name was mentioned. Mr. Dougherty then left the platform, and a whirlwind of cheers and well-wishes swept back and forth for many minutes. There was not one person on the floor on the galleries but was in one instant standing, Ladies waved their parasols and handkerchiefs, delegates flung their hats and buttons of their coats, and the air was filled with the sound of applause. Now and then the sea of sound would ebb for one brief moment, and then be caught up and rush back with an irresistible force. Among the delegates North and South were men with one arm or one leg. A 60 quart crock of berries was near the wharf, and the boat was overturned. The dead body was taken from the water within about five minutes from the time he was last seen on the wharf. Contracts Awarded. The Board of Public Works had a meeting in Baltimore last week. Among other business transacted was the awarding of the contract to build two schooners for the oyster navy, to Mr. Train A. Bonds of Barron Creek Springs in this county, by his bid of $8,850 being the lowest. Mr. Bonds was in town Tuesday and says he will begin the work in about two weeks. The boats will be built at the shipyard on Barron Creek, where the barges of E. E. Jackson and Company are built. We don't know how Mr. Bonds' bid compared with the proposals of other contractors, but it is safe to say the government will get a first class job. No other barges of the Chesapeake than those of E. E. Jackson & Co. built by him. He is both a contractor and connections builder.

At the same meeting Commodore, and Deputy Commanders of the oyster navy were appointed. Capt. James Turner of Trapps District was appointed Captain of the steamer, Governor McLane, and Capt. Geo. L. Lacey of Yorkin, Commander of the sloop, Carrie Franklin. These appointments will give satisfaction to the Democracy of the county.

Building Notes. R. P. Powell, Esq., has closed a contract for the erection of a new residence on the site of the one burned in 1886. The new building will be a handsome structure, if we can judge from the plans. It is to be erected on the same foundation and to have rooms the same. The elevations will be somewhat different. There will be a square bay window at the Northwest corner with gable on the roof. The building will have two other gables on the West and East side. The front will have no tower over the front entrance as the other building did. The building which was burned, including the heating and other fixtures, cost about $67,000. Mr. C. R. Jones is the architect and Mr. T. M. Stenness the contractor.

Work was begun this week on a two-story brick building on Dock St. 119-122 ft., for W. H. Jackson, Esq. The first story will be occupied by Mr. I. H. White for livery stables. The second is designed for a carriage factory. Mr. White has temporarily moved his livery across the street into a building belonging to Mr. S. Frank Toadwin, situated on his wharf property.

The Master Fish, who resided on Main St., before the fire opposite the Peninsula Hotel, began under a contract, with Mr. B. D. Abell, a new residence on Division St. above F. C. Todd, Esq., this week. The lot is that portion of the Sitton property near the front of Tabella and Division Sts. that fronts on the latter street. The building will be entirely different from anything in the town. The first floor will have four rooms. It will be unique and quite handsome. Across the whole front will extend a porch, and to the south side. There will be a two-story octagonal bay window at the South-east corner.

On and after Monday, June 11th, Str. Pr. will be sailing for Baltimore at 10 p. m. instead of 3 p. m., and all landings on the river 2 hours earlier.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Grand Industrial Display for June 27th. Efforts to make Salisbury a City.

In answer to a call a meeting was held at the office of James E. Ellegood last Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a board of trade. Most of the prominent business houses of the town were represented. James E. Ellegood, Esq., was called to the chair and Handolph Humphreys of the firm of Humphreys & Tilghman acted as secretary. On taking the chair, Mr. Ellegood said, the object of the meeting is two-fold: First to take steps for the permanent organization of a board of trade; secondly to make provision for working up the southern trade. When the chair announced that it was ready to entertain business propositions, the committee appointed to confer with the N. Y. P. & N. Railroad Company for the purpose of securing special rates from this Eastern Shore of Va. made its report; the outlines of which were published in last week's Advertiser. A committee, consisting of Col. E. T. Fowler, L. W. Gunby and Handolph Humphreys were appointed to make provision for an excursion from Cape Charles to Salisbury at the earliest possible date. It is expected that this excursion will be run in about two weeks, as soon as the berry season is over. The committee are now making arrangements for the excursion, the expenses will be here. What we want is, to let the people know what we are doing. We want to prove to them that they can be as well supplied with merchandise here as anywhere and that they will find it much more convenient and less expensive to come here than to go to the city of Baltimore or Philadelphia. The committee have charge of the matter have the reputation of making what ever they undertake, a success; so far as they can be from it this district (and we have every reason to believe there can) these men can certainly do it.

Messrs. W. B. Tilghman, L. E. Williams and James E. Ellegood were appointed a committee on permanent organization for a board of trade.

The meeting adjourned subject to call.

SECOND MEETING. A second meeting of the merchants of the town was held at Mr. Ellegood's office Thursday evening 7th, to hear the reports of the committee appointed at the previous meeting. Mr. Ellegood in the chair and Mr. R. Humphreys acting as secretary.

The committee composed of Messrs. E. T. Fowler, R. Humphreys and L. W. Gunby recommended an excursion to Salisbury June 27th from Capt. Charles, Crisfield and Berlin and intermediate stations on the N. Y. P. & N. and the W. & P. Railroad, and on the line of the Maryland Steamboat Company's route. For the purpose of entertaining the visitors, they recommend an Industrial Display consisting of numerous fairs, fair companies, vociferous, fair department, and the purchase of the Industrial Display was at church pronouncing benedictions upon the visitors of his beloved parish, Frank, who has pinned all the spring for a male, visited the peaceful home, and coaxed Eliza away.

The congregation of Union Church, Nutter's district, will hold a festival on July 4th at their church near Mr. Gillis Bassell's farm. The Mispah Sunday school will unite with the church in the exercises of the day. Special music from Salisbury have been secured. The refreshments will be supplied by the church authorities. The Salisbury Cornet Band has been engaged to furnish music for the occasion.

AMONG THE HERMANS.

An Advertiser representative took a trip around the hard work this week. This business you know he grows greatly in our county within the last ten years.

We have now two of the "best retail houses in the county," Messrs. Dorman & Smith's and L. W. Gunby's. They have capital, enterprise and ability. The reporter felt dropped in to see Mr. Gunby. He told his business when he was politely shown around. Mr. Gunby said: "our object is to make the farmer's benefit by the use of improved machinery."

Although our farmers are still slow to take up with the modern idea of farming, yet they are beginning to do so. What do you carry in your wagon? The reporter says, "I have here the best of everything, plows, harrows, mowers, reapers, corn planters, horse-drawn mowers, cow plows, horse-drawn mowers, and a great variety of other machinery. I have also a large stock of agricultural implements, and I am constantly receiving new arrivals. I have also a large stock of agricultural implements, and I am constantly receiving new arrivals. Order of Publication. Alexander W. Cuff et al. vs. Moses L. Cuff et al.

In the matter of the Interlocutory petition of William L. Laws and Asbury Q. Hamblin, partners trading as Laws & Hamblin vs. John W. Cuff et al.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of the payment of the debts due from Eleanor Cuff in her lifetime remaining unpaid after the application of the personal estate of said deceased thereto, out of the proceeds of the sale of the real estate of said Eleanor Cuff.

The bill states that said Eleanor Cuff was indebted to the said Laws & Hamblin in her lifetime in the sum of $1524 and to Moses L. Cuff in the sum of $900, which last claim, since the death of said Eleanor Cuff, has been assigned to said Laws & Hamblin.

The said Eleanor Cuff was indebted to said Laws & Hamblin, and that said personal estate was insufficient to pay the debts due, and owing by said Eleanor Cuff at the time of her death.

This is a business done in a business like manner. Each one pays his share, and does so for his benefit to do, and so on, and so on. If any one is in doubt, please apply to the undersigned for a full and complete explanation.

National Democratic Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT:
Grover Cleveland,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT:
Allen G. Thurman,
OF OHIO.

FOR CONGRESS, FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT:
Charles H. Gibson,
OF TALBOT COUNTY.

The work of the St. Louis convention is peculiar in one respect, that it is the first party convention that ever assembled which selected its nominee without a dissenting voice. The party from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Gulf to the Dominion of Canada, was as unanimous as the convention which represented it. Now this singular unanimity could not possibly have existed upon fiction or mere sentiment. There is evidently something behind it all. Mr. Cleveland is not a stranger, either to the country or to its party. His ability, courage, patriotism and integrity are well known to us all. Besides, he is a man of strong convictions, and above all, sound on the tariff question. He makes wholesome pledges and carries them out. He is a man with a policy, and strong enough to carry it out by calling to his assistance men of the same stamp as himself. The best platform that any party convention can adopt, is to put to the head of its ticket such a man as this. It shows that it has a policy and a determination to carry it out.

The New York Tribune says Mr. Cleveland is a weak candidate. It says: "Morally he is weak. Intellectually he is weak. In executive blunders, in the selection of bad men for office, even when he knew them to be bad, he is weak. In his hypocritical professions of reform, which his whole course as President has contradicted, he is weak."

It will be difficult for the Tribune to get the American voter to believe these weak statements. The people of this country don't call, with such a unanimous voice, any man morally weak to sit where the great Jefferson once sat. Nor do they call, in this manner, upon men weak in intellect to sit in the chair once graced by the immortal Washington.

The country so degraded that it must call to the Presidential chair a man totally devoid of mental and moral character, and endorse an administration of hypocrisy and broken pledges of reform by continuing its chief exponent in power with this unprecedented unanimity? Rejoice! Rejoice! It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks. He labors in vain who attempts to fight the campaign upon this line of action. But it will be fought upon this line. The position of the two parties is this: "The democrats have made their nominations. In so doing they have selected two of the best known men in the country; men of strong personal character, of well-known policies, straightforward, upright, and have the confidence of the country. The issues which these men represent are: A reduction of the tariff to the needs of the Government economically administered, protecting home manufactured goods only to the extent of the difference paid for labor in this country over what is paid for the same class of labor in Europe, taxing luxuries and relieving the necessities of life, as far as it is compatible with reasonable protection to the laborer; to reserve the public lands for actual settlers; and to continue the work of reforming the Civil Service. There are all positive issues with positive exponents in the persons of Cleveland and Thurman to represent them. This is where the democratic party stands to-day.

On the other hand the republican party are without an issue. They are upon the battle field in confusion, where their leader, Mr. Blaine, has just left them. Small groups may be seen upon any part of the field consulting as to whom they shall appoint chief. No two groups agree upon the same man. No issue, no leader, and no organization. This is the situation of the republican party.

Some time ago Hattie, the wife of Edwin Warren, of Norway, Mich., left him and returned to her family. Tuesday she was on the street, when she met her husband. He demanded her return to his home. A meeting will be held at East New Market on Saturday. The June fall of peaches is said to be quite heavy, but Mr. Hickman estimates the yield for the peninsula at seven million five hundred thousand baskets.

A Rare Find.
Mr. James F. Dennis for years has been collecting rare coins and the autographs of notable men and women of the past and present. On last Tuesday in examining some of the law books of Dennis and Bratton's large law library, he came across the autograph and it is a genuine one—of Wm. Paca, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, in a volume of "Albany Reports." The autograph was on the first fly leaf, and is in excellent preservation. The volume is over 100 years old and it is thought it was first the property of Wm. Paca.

PITTSVILLE, MD., June 13, 1888.
EDITOR ADVERTISER:
I saw in your last week's issue a letter, written by some one of Pittsville, saying that every democrat in the district save possibly one man was satisfied with the nomination of Mr. Gibson. I don't know who the writer meant, but I will say in reply that Mr. Gibson was not my choice at all for I was opposed to a third term, but I willingly submit to the nomination and I shall do what I can to keep him up with the ticket in November and I know of several in the district like myself.

Respectfully,
I. N. HEARN.

PITTSVILLE, June 14, 1888.
EDITOR ADVERTISER:
This is the last day the Boston strawberry season will run over our road and so with today the strawberry season virtually closes, there will continue to be small shipments to New York a few days longer if the weather continues cool as it is now. The shippers have not obtained any fancy prices, but they have had a sufficient advance in price to make a very profitable season.

The cool wet weather has been very much against other growing crops, and corn is looking bad. There is not much news of interest.

Our townsman, Wm. E. Sheppard who is employed with Messrs. Laws & Purnell in Salisbury, came home sick on last Friday, and has been quite poorly, but is out again now.

Pittsville was the scene on last Saturday night of a most disgraceful row. The Constable in attempting to quell it was beaten and handled pretty roughly, the cause of which produced it, that is to say the participants were drunk. Pittsville is very much in need of a lockup, and two or three additional constables, and these will soon become a necessity if we do not have fewer grog shops.

The M. E. Church is preparing to build a temporary church building as an experiment, with a view of building permanently if the interest taken in it by our people will justify it.

Hon. Harrison W. Vickers of Chestertown, brother-in-law of John H. White, Esq., paid our town a visit this week. The Advertiser was favored with a call, the editor being an old acquaintance of his. Mr. Vickers says he was utterly surprised when he got here to find what we had done in the way of rebuilding. "Why," said he, "I never saw such a town as you have, anywhere except in the East. They are perfectly enormous. It is not until the town before 20 years. So one may imagine that he was surprised.

B. OF T. OPENING.

The Occasion of a Grand Street Display, 2,000 People Expected.

The Board of Trade are busily at work preparing for our grand display to take place on the 29th (changed from the 27th). It is under the management of the Board of Trade and we expect it to be a success, in fact it will be a success. Arrangements have been made to run an excursion over the N. Y., P. & N. railway from Capt. Charles' house. The Board are negotiating with the W. & P. Road and the Maryland Steamboat Co. to run excursions on their lines. Committees on Public Reception, Industrial Display, &c., have been appointed.

The day's doings have partly been outlined. They will consist of a gorgeous street parade made up of floats representing the goods, wares, manufactures and other industrial enterprises of the town; the Fire Department, with engine and other apparatus; secret societies; grotesque masquerades after the manner of the famous Mardi Gras, with music by Vocophony and five Cornet bands. The visitors will be received at the Uiman Grand Opera House, where addresses of welcome will be made by Mayor Treadwell and others of the town, and responded to by Hon. T. H. Bayly Browne, member of Congress from Virginia, and the well-known orator of the Virginia peninsula. It will give our friends from the lower peninsula an opportunity to come and see the new Salisbury, of which they have heard so much lately; this Salisbury, which, within the present generation, has been twice consumed by fire, the last on the 17th day of Oct., 1886, and stands, in so short a time, the metropolis of the whole peninsula, with her magnificent business places in the construction of which nearly a half million dollars were expended in 1887. The object of the effort is to establish a more intimate, social and business relation between this town and points below her on the peninsula. We want to know what our neighbors are doing and want them to know what we are doing.

Mr. T. H. Garrett's Body Found. The body of T. Harrison Garrett, whose hand-made steam yacht was sunk in the Potomac river last Thursday night, June 7th, and himself drowned by collision with the Joppa, was found floating near the scene of the accident on Tuesday morning by Capt. Lambert Jackson, of the steamer Nantuxon. The body was taken on board and delivered to the friends of the deceased in Baltimore. The floating corpse was first espied by a passenger on the Enoch Pratt, but the mate, who was informed of the fact, thought it a mattress adrift and did not stop. The body of Capt. Vassar, of the Pratt, was apprised of the matter by the ordered his boat turned back; but the captain of the Nantuxon had then rescued the body from the water. Mr. Garrett was a brother of Robert Garrett, recently President of the B. & O. R. R., and a son of the late Jas. W. Garrett. His death is greatly lamented.

Temporarily Suspended. The work of laying the conduit pipes by the Water Company was temporarily suspended last Saturday on Main street, by action of the town authorities upon complaint of citizens that the pipes were leaving the streets in an unsafe and impassible condition. The Council on Friday night took cognizance of the complaint and passed an order designating the street to be closed, and the work done, and instructed the Mayor to see that it was so done. The Mayor refused to do the work and thereby dropped into the embrace of the law. On Saturday night the matter was amicably adjusted, a written agreement entered into, and work resumed. There is now no reason for complaint. The company is doing all that is practicable, but streets where the pipes were laid last week and the week before are still in bad condition.

Jackson Democratic Club. The Jackson Democratic Club met in the Court House last Monday night, pursuant to call. Owing to the absence of Col. E. T. Fowler, President, Thos. Perry, Esq., was appointed President pro tem, and L. W. Gunby, Secretary. Motion of Hon. E. Stanley Treadwell prevailed that the Jackson Democratic Club apply for admission into the National Democratic League. Also motion that the regularly elected President appoint seven delegates and seven alternates to the National League which meets in Baltimore July 4th, was carried.

The President has made the following appointments: Delegates, Thos. Perry, S. S. Smyth, Isaac Uiman, Lee Lankford, E. Parsons, W. Byrd Parsons, G. W. Bell, Alternates: Hon. E. S. Treadwell, J. T. Treadwell, E. E. Bradley, J. D. Williams, S. P. Treadwell, L. H. White and H. W. Anderson.

Rev. Mr. Nichols Asked to Remain. The congregation of the Wisconsin Presbyterian Church of this city held a meeting at their place of worship last Tuesday evening to consider the call of Central Church, Wilmington, Del., lately extended to their pastor. The church was crowded with the members of the congregation and much interest was manifested. Mr. S. S. Smyth was made chairman of the meeting. A committee of gentlemen composed of Dr. F. E. M. Simpson, R. P. Graham and W. E. Wales, was appointed to draw up a series of resolutions expressing the appreciation of the congregation for Mr. Eckels' services to his flock; also, asking him to remain with his present charge. It is understood that an effort is being made to increase the salary of the minister.

A Needed Improvement. The Town Commissioners have passed an order to have the sidewalks on Main and Division Sts. put in condition. Property holders will be notified immediately to begin the work at once. The payments are all to be laid in accordance with the lines established by the surveys made in 1886 by order of the town. We hope property owners will make every effort to get the work done before the 29th, the day of our Board of Trade Jubilee. Let everything that can be done to get our streets and sidewalks in condition.

Children's Day. Last Sunday was Children's Day at Rev. Mr. Martindale's Church. Special services were held. The pastor preached a sermon expressly prepared for the children. The Sunday School gave recitations, and choruses were sung by the classes. A special collection was taken for education.

In the afternoon children's services were held at Rockaway M. E. Church by Mr. Martindale. A very large congregation was present. A big collection was taken for education. This collection goes to what is known as the Education Fund. It is used to educate young men for the M. E. Ministry.

Money Lost. Mr. Sydney Morris, of this county, lost about three hundred dollars last Monday evening at the depot. He has been ship- ping fruit this season, and had just received considerable money from his commission men. Late in the evening he removed a roll of bills from his pocket to pay a fruit grocer; after doing this he replaced the remaining notes as he supposed in his pocket and went home. Tuesday morning about 10 o'clock he had occasion to again draw on the bills in his pocket, when he discovered the absence of about the amount named above. His theory of the loss is that when paying the money Monday evening several twenty dollar bills slipped from the roll.

In his 5th paper in the series on the Great West, published in Harper's Magazine for July, Mr. Charles Dudley Warner pays his compliments to the capitals of three great States—Illinois, Indiana, and Ohio. Keen observation and a discriminating judgment are shown in his estimates, and praise and criticism are distributed with equal frankness. Those who are familiar with the places Mr. Warner alludes to, will find his opinions are in the main just and reasonable. From a political point of view, the most interesting part in this paper, perhaps, is the writer's testimony to the strength of the feeling which pervades these great States in favor of the separation and integrity of State life, as opposed to the idea of centralization. Mr. Warner finds that State life is by no means entirely imaginary. Thoughtful people will also be glad that he sounds a note of alarm against the materialistic tendencies of the West.

Mr. Hillerman, the florist, extended invitations to the people of the town last Monday to visit his green house on Monday and Tuesday afternoon. He has the pleasure of witnessing the unfolding of the Night Blooming Cerusa. As its name implies this beautiful flower blooms at night only, and but once a year. It is an exceedingly delicate and wonderfully colored flower. It is also very odoriferous. Mr. Hillerman seems to understand the art of flower cultivation. His stock is well selected and very healthy.

The merchants here had a right brisk trade in this week. Many people along the shore in Dorchester and Somerset counties have been in town dealing. It would have been considered a big week a few years ago, but the facilities of our merchants, you know, are now much greater than they used to be.

A blind horse belonging to a man by the name of Hastings was turned loose on W. S. Parsons' wharf last Thursday and, unnoticed, walked off the wharf and came near being drowned. The owner was compelled to swim him above Camden bridge before he could get him out.

Jay Williams and James E. Ellegood, Esq., took a ride to Nantuxon last Thursday to make a survey of some land which promised a law suit. Mr. Williams, attorney for the plaintiffs, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Scott soon discovered that his clients had no case and abandoned it.

Col. Howard B. Ensign, President, and Enoch Pratt, Gilmore Meredith and Samuel J. Pentz, directors of the Maryland Steam Boat Company came down on the Pratt, Friday for the purpose of examining some improvements that the Company have been making on this route.

Clement Leonard, a colored boy about 17 years old, at work in G. H. Treadwell's yard, was injured by his fall last Thursday and seriously injured. Dr. J. S. Fulton gave the necessary medical assistance.

Col. Samuel A. Graham has been in Virginia for several days. He returned yesterday.

Alexander W. Cuff et al., vs Moses L. Cuff et al.

No. 520 Equity. In the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, Md.

In the matter of the Interlocutory petition of William L. Laws and Asbury Q. Hamblin, partners trading as Laws & Hamblin vs John W. Cuff & others.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of the payment of the debts due from Eleanor Cuff in her lifetime remaining unpaid after the application of the personal estate of said deceased thereto, out of the proceeds of the sale of the real estate of said Eleanor Cuff.

The bill states that the said Eleanor Cuff was indebted to the said Laws & Hamblin in her lifetime in the sum of $15.94 and to Moses L. Cuff, in the sum of $4.03, which last claim, since the death of said Eleanor has been assigned to said Laws & Hamblin. That administration on the personal estate of said Eleanor was granted unto Moses L. Cuff, and that said personal estate was insufficient to pay the debts due, and owing by said Eleanor at the time of her death.

That the real estate of said Eleanor had been sold by Samuel A. Graham, Trustee appointed by this Court for division among the heirs of said Eleanor, and that the debts due and owing by said Eleanor Cuff in her lifetime and not paid out of the personal estate should be paid out of the proceeds of said real estate. And that all the heirs of said Eleanor Cuff reside in Wicomico County, Md., except Charles Hatfield and Hennie Hatfield, who reside in Dorchester County, Md., and that in view of the fact that the said Charles Hatfield and Hennie Hatfield are non-residents, it is therefore this 28th day of May, in the year eighteen hundred and eighty-eight ordered by the Circuit Court for Wicomico County, in Equity that the plaintiffs, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper printed in Wicomico County, Md., once in each of four consecutive weeks before the first day of August in the year 1888, give notice to the said absent defendants, of the object and substance of this bill, warning them to appear in this Court in person or by solicitor, on or before the first day of September next, to show cause, if any they have, why the decree ought not to be entered as prayed.

HER PRIDE.
BY MRS. E. H. HUGHES.

"It is nothing but your pride—foolish, unreasoning, wicked pride—that bars the way to this understanding not reconciliation between us! I feel that I have done all that ought to be expected of me in the way of concession and apology, and it is just as much your duty to do your part. In fact, I have a right to expect it of you."

That last remark was most unfortunate. The fair, proud face, that had displayed a faint indication of softening and even contrition when he first spoke, steered itself behind an impenetrable mask of icy reserve and hauteur; and as he passed and gazed at her with an eager, entirely animating every lineament of his handsome face, she watched him from her with a cold, impassive gaze of one slender white hand, at the same time receding a step to widen the distance between them.

"I am not aware, Mr. Atheling, that you have acquired the right to expect anything of me, beyond the ordinary interchange of friendly courtesy," she said, in a cold, even tone. "And as to the other portion of your remark, permit me to remind you that I consider myself quite as good a judge of wherein my own duty lies as you claim to be. Have you anything further to say to me?"

Henry Atheling stood for a moment, regarding the woman before him, tall and fair, proud and stately as a young queen, and further—immensely further from him at that moment than if miles had separated them. Then, with a passionate gesture, he came nearer to where she stood, cold and impassive as a marble statue.

"Anything further to say, Elma? I repeated, with bitter emphasis. "Have I not everything to say?"

"You seemed to have assumed as much, certainly," broke in the clear, cutting tones. "But it was an assumption for which you had not the slightest warrant or foundation. I even presumed to assert your fancied prerogatives so far as to prohibit me from dancing with a gentleman against whom you entertain a prejudice, and on my refusing to submit to any such dictation, and declined to act as my escort to the entertainment in question, and even absented yourself from it altogether as a further expression of your supreme displeasure at my conduct. Now you come, and after making what you term an apology, demand, rather than request, to equal delinquency on my part; and you conclude this singular performance by hinting that you have a right to require and expect all this of me. If my pleasure you speak in riddles, Mr. Atheling, but I do not find them either profitable or agreeable! If you have anything further to say, you will please state it briefly, as this interview is becoming a trifle wearisome."

It was a moment before Henry Atheling could command himself sufficiently to speak; then with his hands clinched in the intensity of his excitement, with his eyes riveted upon her face, as though he would pierce through that mask of proud indifference to her very soul, he said in low, agitated tones:

"Elma—Miss Russell—I admit that it has not yet been my privilege to acquire the best and most perfect right to guard and protect your interest and welfare, but the nature of my sentiments toward you has long been an open and untroubled secret between us. I have been too eager—too precipitate, my zeal should be a sufficient excuse. I know the character of Frank Chalmers, and if I was too imperious, and, perhaps, even dictatorial, in urging upon you to avoid his society, it was only because I have been, as I believe, rightfully jealous of the slightest cloud of suspicion that might rest upon your perfect integrity and pure womanhood. Your reckless disregard of my earnest wishes and admonitions wounded me cruelly, and I felt that I was justified in betraying a degree of resentment. Nevertheless, upon calmer reflection, I felt that I had been too impetuous, to exacting, perhaps, and I resolved to come to you and tell you frankly, as I have done, wherein I believed I had erred, to receive from you, as I fully expected, an equally frank admission of at least regret for the pain your willful impudence had caused me, and to ask you to give me henceforth the right to make your life, your welfare, your honor my dearest and most faithful trust: to throw around you that constant protection and vigilance that will be proof against any assault that will be made against you."

"And as to the other portion of your remark, permit me to remind you that I consider myself quite as good a judge of wherein my own duty lies as you claim to be. Have you anything further to say to me?"

Henry Atheling stood for a moment, regarding the woman before him, tall and fair, proud and stately as a young queen, and further—immensely further from him at that moment than if miles had separated them. Then, with a passionate gesture, he came nearer to where she stood, cold and impassive as a marble statue.

"Anything further to say, Elma? I repeated, with bitter emphasis. "Have I not everything to say?"

"You seemed to have assumed as much, certainly," broke in the clear, cutting tones. "But it was an assumption for which you had not the slightest warrant or foundation. I even presumed to assert your fancied prerogatives so far as to prohibit me from dancing with a gentleman against whom you entertain a prejudice, and on my refusing to submit to any such dictation, and declined to act as my escort to the entertainment in question, and even absented yourself from it altogether as a further expression of your supreme displeasure at my conduct. Now you come, and after making what you term an apology, demand, rather than request, to equal delinquency on my part; and you conclude this singular performance by hinting that you have a right to require and expect all this of me. If my pleasure you speak in riddles, Mr. Atheling, but I do not find them either profitable or agreeable! If you have anything further to say, you will please state it briefly, as this interview is becoming a trifle wearisome."

It was a moment before Henry Atheling could command himself sufficiently to speak; then with his hands clinched in the intensity of his excitement, with his eyes riveted upon her face, as though he would pierce through that mask of proud indifference to her very soul, he said in low, agitated tones:

"Elma—Miss Russell—I admit that it has not yet been my privilege to acquire the best and most perfect right to guard and protect your interest and welfare, but the nature of my sentiments toward you has long been an open and untroubled secret between us. I have been too eager—too precipitate, my zeal should be a sufficient excuse. I know the character of Frank Chalmers, and if I was too imperious, and, perhaps, even dictatorial, in urging upon you to avoid his society, it was only because I have been, as I believe, rightfully jealous of the slightest cloud of suspicion that might rest upon your perfect integrity and pure womanhood. Your reckless disregard of my earnest wishes and admonitions wounded me cruelly, and I felt that I was justified in betraying a degree of resentment. Nevertheless, upon calmer reflection, I felt that I had been too impetuous, to exacting, perhaps, and I resolved to come to you and tell you frankly, as I have done, wherein I believed I had erred, to receive from you, as I fully expected, an equally frank admission of at least regret for the pain your willful impudence had caused me, and to ask you to give me henceforth the right to make your life, your welfare, your honor my dearest and most faithful trust: to throw around you that constant protection and vigilance that will be proof against any assault that will be made against you."

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The National Republican Convention met in Chicago last Tuesday. Chairman Jones of the National Committee called the convention to order and named Mr. John M. Thurston of Nebraska for temporary Chairman, Mr. Este of California was made permanent Chairman. The Wise-Mahone episode seems to have created a great deal of interest. The decision of the Committee has virtually laid Mr. Mahone to rest.

The convention held two sessions on Wednesday, meeting at 12:30 p. m. and adjourning shortly after two until eight o'clock at night. At the first session it listened to the address of Permanent Chairman Este, of California, and adopted the reports of the committees on organization and on rules, which latter prescribed the order of business and recommended that Dakota should be given ten votes in the convention and Washington Territory six. The committee on credentials was engaged in the consideration of the Virginia contest, and notified the convention that it would not be ready to report before evening. The committee, after a long session, finally voted to seat the Mahone delegates at large and the Mahone delegates from the first and fourth districts, whose seats were not contested, and to seat the Wise delegates from the second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth and tenth district being ruled out, the committee's decision leaving the delegation, Wise, 14; Mahone, 8.

The report was presented to the convention at its night session and occasioned a spirited debate. The report was finally adopted, with the exception of the ninth district, from which the Mahone delegates were admitted. The committee also decided in favor of the Aisey-Johnson delegates from the third Maryland district, and of the Perry-Carson, or Blaine delegates, from the District of Columbia. It is stated that there was a lively row between the Mahone and Wise factions in the room of the committee on credentials Tuesday night during the consideration of the Virginia cases. A policeman had to be called in to help the candidates yesterday claimed that the Blaine boom had been killed by the speech of Temporary Chairman Thurston, but the claim was not generally admitted to be well founded. A cable dispatch reports that in an interview at Newcastle yesterday Mr. Blaine declined to state whether or not he would accept a nomination. It was reported in Chicago late last night that in a conference between the friends of Allison and others an agreement had been reached which might result in the nomination of Allison and Phelps. If the vote in convention on the Virginia cases be taken as a test of the strength of any candidate for the presidential nomination, it is thought to indicate that Sherman can muster 269 votes on the first ballot. Depew's chances are thought to be waning, while Harrison's are regarded as improving.

The Sentence of the Dis De Barrs.

In the Court of General Sessions of New York, Monday, Judge Gilder gave, in passing sentence on "General" Mmo. Dis De Barr for conspiracy, using the following scathing language:

"The jury that convicted you were distinctly told that the issue before them was not one of religion, as claimed by your counsel. They were charged that Spiritualism was not on trial. They were told that a resident of this country had a perfect right to believe whatever he pleased, and that all were equal before the law. Now, the jury convicted you because they were convinced by the evidence that in your dealings and relations with Mr. Marsh you were not honest; that you had formed a common design to obtain his property by a cheat and a fraud. The evidence satisfied them of that as it did me. Now there is much to aggravate your offense. You disregarded marital relations with a mockery of religious faith by stoutly asserting that you were husband and wife in the highest sense. You sought to obtain profit by other people's misfortunes. Then, in addition to ordinary false pretenses, the female defendant added the denial of her own mother with a boldness, effrontery and presumption upon the equality of men that in all my long experience here I have never seen equaled. I have carefully considered all of the evidence upon which you have been convicted, the relation which Mr. Marsh bears to the case, and your conduct since your arrest. I can find nothing to mitigate of your punishment except the jury's recommendation to mercy. That, in the interest of criminal trials, it is my duty to respect. I stated to the jury that I should fully respect it, and I will do so. The two months you have been already incarcerated shall be taken into consideration. The maximum penalty would be one year's imprisonment in the penitentiary and a fine of $500. You are with out money, I am told, and a fine therefore would involve incarceration for one day for each dollar, which would be a great hardship. I accept the recommendation of the jury as unusual. It was more than the ordinary recommendation to mercy. They were most emphatic. I shall impose no fine, and the sentence of the court is that you, each of you, be confined in the penitentiary for the term of six months."

PARSONSBURG, June 20, 1888.

There will be "Children's Day" services at Melsons M. E. Church Sunday, June 24th, at 2:30 p. m., and at Zion M. E. Church the following Sunday, July 1st. The Parsonsburgers intend to make the celebration on the fourth of July a grand affair. Rev. T. O. Ayers, Rev. Zack Webster, and Prof. Jno. G. Robinson will deliver addresses. There will be a display of fire works and other novelties in the evening. Dinner and supper, and other refreshments will be on sale.

The Anniversary of the W. C. T. U. of Parsonsburg, was postponed on account of the death of a relative of Pastor, but will positively take place next Sunday evening, June 24th.

DELMAR, DEL., June 21, 1888.

Mr. T. A. Vessey of the Delmar Hotel left Wednesday for trip to Washington. The Methodist Mite Society was entertained Saturday evening at Mr. Elijah Freesty's. The thunder storm prevented several from arriving early but by nine o'clock a goodly number were present. Music was furnished by several of the musicians present. The collection amounted to five dollars and thirty cents. The company were invited to the table where ice-cream, cake, strawberries and lemonade were provided. This part of the program was very much enjoyed. The exciting and popular game of "Wild Irishman" was participated in by nearly all present. It was late when we left and we think that Sunday had arrived before the last took their departure. The Society will hold its next meeting at the residence of Mr. Wm. Gordy.

Children's Day Services at the Baptist Church Sunday evening were attended by a large number. Music, responsive readings, an address by the pastor, the reading of the annual letter by Miss Bertie Ellegood and the collection constituted the program. Collection amounting to $10.40 was for the Missionary work of the American Baptist Publication Society.

SHARPTOWN, June 21, 1888.

At a recent festival held here for the M. E. Parsonage about $48.00 was cleared. More improvements are being made in our town, one of which is the new side-walk in front of S. J. Cooper's residence. Str. Nantooke is now making three trips a week from Seaford to Balto. The company will likely put on another boat during the peach season, and run a daily line. A Mr. Talkinburg from Virginia has arrived here with a large stock of fowl, incubators and brooders. He is largely engaged in the hatching of chickens and has a fine lot of improved fowl. The Town Commissioners met Monday night at W. C. Mann's office and elected S. J. Cooper president, W. C. Mann secretary and Wm. R. Robinson bailiff. Wm. W. Selby, formerly of Knowles & Selby, of the town, but now of Wilmington and Miss Lizzie E. Elzey were married at the residence of the bride's mother on Wednesday and left immediately for Wilmington, Del.

Women in Kansas.

A Kansas letter to a Massachusetts paper says: "The women who came here with fair faces are the most Godforsaken looking creatures under the sun now. All their native grace has deserted them. Kansas winds, so hard and dry, have toughened and yellowed their skin. All ideas of beauty in dress have forsaken their minds. A limp calico dress and sunbonnet will describe the ordinary costume of most of the farmers' wives here. Beauty in dress has no meaning for them. What little style they see is all they have to set any standard by, and the present prevailing fashions are too absurd to bear cheap imitations. They become caricatures. The plain materials of farmers' clothes are no preventive of a simple beauty in the cut of a garment."

A Winter Home

Mr. George H. Chapin, a wealthy and enterprising Bostonian, has purchased about thirty acres of land in the suburbs of Greenville, S. C. It is Mr. Chapin's purpose to build a large house on the place and make it a winter home, as well as the show place of the State, especially in fruits and flowers. He proposes to set out for this purpose 100,000 rose plants, that will make the picturesque-situated acres a blooming paradise. It is intended that the place shall not only be a pleasant winter residence for its owner, but an illustration of what can be done in Southern homes by care and good taste. Mr. Chapin predicts a large emigration from New England to South Carolina.

Fair Testimony.

"When I was leaving for Europe a few years ago with my wife," said William G. Dasher, a wealthy banker and republican of Columbus, Ohio, to a correspondent the other day, "I thought to indicate that Sherman can muster 269 votes on the first ballot. Depew's chances are thought to be waning, while Harrison's are regarded as improving."

TYASKIN, June 20, 1888.

The fine weather of past two weeks has brought smiles to the faces of our farmers. Under its favorable influences the growing crops have recovered from the May soaking.

Our merchants are getting a share of change.

Dr. Lankford's cannery has been in operation.

The political situation is quiet. Cleveland's renomination was received in a very matter of fact "I told you so" sort of fashion.

Mrs. Maria Furbush, wife of Hiram Furbush the well known pension agent, died on Monday of last week after a lingering illness. The interment took place at the old Baptist Church Westpique, of which deceased was a member.

Mrs. Garfield's income from various sources is estimated at $25,000 per annum.

Prof. A. N. Ranb, principal of the Newark Academy, has just been elected President of Delaware College.

Albert E. Purdy, aged thirty-three, a well-known business man of Warsaw, N. Y., and his affianced wife, Miss Lettie M. Strouse, aged twenty-two, of the same place, were drowned in Silver Lake Sunday by the overturning of the boat in which they were out fishing. They were brought out in about twenty minutes, but life was extinct.

Hon. George Raines, of New York, who established his reputation as a great orator by his speech in the democratic national convention seconding the nomination of Mr. Thurman for the vice-presidency, declares that he is not in the race for the democratic nomination for Governor. He announces that he favors the renomination of Gov. Hill.

Mayor Hewitt announces that under no circumstances will he accept a renomination for the mayoralty of New York. There is talk, however, of his becoming the candidate of an independent movement, but those closest to Mr. Hewitt assert that he will not be a candidate or even indirectly permit the use of his name.

A Brotherly Split.

The Temple Israel Jewish congregation of St. Louis have been worshipping for nearly two years in the First Christian Church of that city, while their new synagogue was building. In returning thanks for the hospitality Rabbi Sonechkin alluded to it as "one of those precious links in the golden chain of mutual recognition which, under the fostering arms of American civilization, reconciles the disciples of Moses to the disciples of Jesus." He closed by invoking God's blessing on the church and all its aims.

A limely article in the July Century is "Disease Terms and how to Combat Them." The investigating tour of the Directors of the Maryland Steam Boat Co., last week, it is said, was very satisfactory. The fruit traffic on the line has greatly increased from year to year, ever since the route was established. Small farmers all along the river on both sides are engaged in the business. The results this year have fully met the growers' expectations.

The July Century is to contain another article in the series which the Rev. Dr. Buckley, the editor of The Christian Advocate, has been for sometime past contributing occasionally to that periodical. It is entitled "Dreams, Nightmares, and Somnambulism." It will contain a chapter on "Mysterious Dreams Analyzed."

The lawn party given by the ladies of St. Peter's Guild last Tuesday evening at Park Hall, the residence of Dr. E. W. Humphreys, was quite largely attended, and the occasion was a very pleasant one. The managers realized satisfactorily out of the refreshments. Proceeds for the Church. The grounds were handsomely lighted with Chinese lanterns.

The ladies of St. Peter's Guild, in addition to the 25c. lunch which they will serve on the 26th under the Opera House, are preparing to open a "rest" in Dr. Humphreys' yard, where ice cream and lemonade will be served. They expect to provide seating capacity for 200 or 300 persons. It will make a most excellent picnic. In fact, "it's a capital day."

Our streets are being cleaned up and some of the property owners are having their pavements put down. That's right! Let us put on our Sunday clothes for the 26th, we are going to have company, lots of it too. Some of the neighbors on these vacant lots should also be cleaned off. We are going to have something big, so let us make big preparations.

There will be preaching at Mt. Hermon, M. P. Church, (Walston's Grove) at 10:30 a. m., and 3 p. m., on Sabbath next, June 24th. Rev. W. S. Hammond, President of the Maryland Conference will conduct the services. The usual prayer will be held at 8 o'clock at St. Peter's at 11 a. m., by the pastor, and Rev. W. S. Hammond will preach at 8 p. m.

OUR INAUGURAL.

The Committee have at work preparing the program with success.

Salisbury is making preparations for the Board of Trade Inaugural. The committee that have charge of the matter, have thoroughly advertised it on the whole Peninsula from Capt. Charles as far north as Laurel, Del. The N. Y., P. & N. railroad will run a special from Cape Charles to arrive here at 9 a. m., on Monday, June 25th, at 8:30 a. m. The W. & P. will run two trains in the morning, one leaving Berlin at 6 and one at 9 a. m. Trains on the N. Y., P. & N. will leave at 7 o'clock p. m., on the W. & P. & N. The Maryland Steam Boat Company will issue special rates and hold the boat till 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Letters have been received from many prominent men who were invited, most of whom are expected.

The following committees have been appointed by the general committee having charge of the matter:

HOSPITALITY—Thomas Perry, L. E. Williams, W. B. Miller, Jay Williams, R. F. Grimes, and C. C. Walker.

MECHANICAL DISPLAY—U. S. Ghent, Geo. C. Hill, W. S. Brannock, W. E. Wallis, Thos. Mitchell, A. W. Lanford.

The committee on mechanical display had a meeting Thursday night and organized. Everything bids fair for grand display. There will be from thirty to forty floats representing the towns industries. Many of these have been explained to us, but would detract from the curiosity the public have in them, explain them. Many of them will be unique and original. The procession will be fully as long as Main St. We are sorry that the streets will be in such an uneven condition but it is unavoidable. The property holders and the town council are at work, putting them in order. The former are urged to lay their pavements before that time. It can be done. The ladies of the town have taken charge of the lunch department. St. Peter's Guild will serve a lunch with hot tea and coffee, under the Opera house and cream and lemonade at Park Hall, on the grounds. The ladies of some of the other congregations, are also making provision to serve lunches. Everything will be done for the comfort of the visitors.

Business in Salisbury was never more brisk, perhaps, with the merchants than it has been this season. Several days the past week great numbers of people from the country and neighboring towns have visited the metropolis. Many come on the train; many come in carriages, and many by water; all get here, and all buy. In the dry-goods, notion, and millinery stores all the clerks that can conveniently get around the country are employed, and yet customers are obliged to wait tiller's turn. One day this week an Advertiser representative was edging his way down Main street when the visitors were observed to be in the market. He inquired of the clerk the whereabouts of the goods in the Vallambrosa. The store was full, the streets were full, and one boy had elevated himself above the moving mass by climbing the iron frame work of an awning.

It is wonderful that Salisbury is having such a boom? When we consider her magnificent stores with their clerks of polite and efficient clerks, her superior advantages of railroad and water communication, and the general Eastern Shore hospitality of her people, we reply that Salisbury is only reaping the natural benefits of a live, energetic, wide-awake little city, full of life.

As an example of the wonder the modern improvements and appliances adopted by our merchants have caused, we mention an incident that occurred in Mr. L. W. Gunby's mammoth hardware store last Wednesday. A very worthy lady from Worcester county with her son and daughter went there to make some purchases, and while there they were shown through the big building. They declared that it was the largest store they ever saw, and very comfortable at the perfect working of the Lanson Cash Service. The typewriter was an entirely new invention to them and they were much pleased with samples of its work. Their seeming ignorance is not to be wondered at, for Salisbury is nowhere else except in the largest city houses.

Our merchants extend a hearty welcome to the people at all times, and especially to the 25th, to visit their places of business, where it will be a pleasure to them to entertain the crowds.

Wm. Thomas, Esq., draught of Cambridge, has been on a visit to friends in Salisbury this week. Mr. Thomas is well remembered here by our older inhabitants. He established the first drug store ever opened in Salisbury in 1848, taking into his employ Dr. J. Collier, who was then a lad, to learn the business. In 1850 he sold out the business here to Dr. Shipley and moved to Cambridge, Dr. Collier accompanying him. He married a Miss Alice Jones, of White Haven, who has been dead many years. Although an old man, he still looks robust and healthy.

William Guthrie and Edward Adkins got into a difficulty last Saturday night on Humphreys' mill-dam when Guthrie exercised his "grippers" upon Adkins which resulted in taking out of the latter's cheek a large molar, inflicting an ugly wound. Dr. G. W. Todd, who attended the case, says he would have attempted to replace the severed part, but he was unable to find it.

Marion Harland's Opinion of Baking Powder.

Our readers have doubtless noticed the numerous discussions by the scientist and hygienists as to the relative value of various baking powders. A careful sifting of the evidence leaves no doubt as to the superiority of the Royal Baking Powder in purity, wholesomeness and strength from a scientific standpoint. An opinion however, that will weigh more than any other with our practical housekeepers, is that given by Marion Harland, the best known and most popular of American writers upon matters pertaining to the science of domestic economy, of house-keeping, and home cooking. In a recent letter to the Philadelphia Ladies Home Journal, this writer says: "I regard the Royal Baking Powder as the best manufactured and in the best condition for all we have in our kitchen. Since the introduction of it into my kitchen, three years ago, I have used no other in making biscuits, cakes, etc., and have entirely discarded for this purpose the home-made combination of one-third soda, two-thirds cream of tartar."

Every box has been in perfect condition when it came into my hands, and the contents have given complete satisfaction. It is so good, so pure, so clean, and so pleasant to use, that I have also a pleasure, to recommend it unqualifiedly to American housewives. MARION HARLAND. "Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 30, 1887."

A Celebrated Chimney. It is related in the history of the early settlement of Virginia that Capt. John Smith sent a certain Dutchman from Jamestown to Werowocomoco, the capital of the Indian empire, on King Powhatan, to build a chimney to the hill of the Indian potentate. It was built of sandstone, near the confluence of Timberneck (ancient Werowocomoco) creek with York river, in Gloucester county, on an elevation commanding a magnificent view of the river and surrounding country. It was a massive structure, which until the past few days defied storm and time. Intelligence has been received that this noted landmark has fallen to the ground in the recent storm.

A Warning. The modes of death's approach are various, and statistics show conclusively that more persons die from diseases of the Throat and Lungs than any other. It is probable that everyone, without exception, receives vast numbers of Tubercle Germs into the system and where these germs fall upon suitable soil, they start into life and develop, at first slowly and is followed by a slight tickling sensation in the throat and it allowed to continue their ravages they extend to the lungs producing Consumption and to the head, causing Catarrh. Now all this is dangerous and if allowed to proceed will in time cause death. At the onset you must act with promptness, allowing a cold to go without attention is dangerous and may lose your life. As soon as you feel that something is wrong with your Throat, Lungs or Nostrils, obtain a bottle of Boecher's Gurgan Syrup, it will give you an immediate relief.

A Royal Love Story. A story in general circulation, and has not yet been denied, that Prince George of Wales recently became desperately enamored of the daughter of an English nobleman whose name is as short as his string of titles. Now all this family distinctions are lengthy, proposed marriage to her and was accepted. The Prince of Wales hearing of this affair forbade the alliance and separated the pair by sending his son abroad. The girl's heart suffered so severely from the loss of her dearest lover that her father advised her to marry the future sovereign of Great Britain resuming the insult implied in the prince's assumption that the marriage would be a Baptism in Malice. The prince remains obstinate, but it is understood that young George insists upon becoming the husband of the girl he promised in good faith to marry.

An Explanation. What is this "BeeVog" trouble" with which so many countries are afflicted? If you will remember a few years ago the word Malaria was comparatively unknown, today it is as common as any word in the English language, yet this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous disease, as they and Malaria are intended to cover what our grandfathers called Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions finding it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel is compelled to pass it off through the system, causing nervous troubles, Malaria, Bilious Fever, etc. You who are suffering can well appreciate a cure. We recommend German's August Flower. Its cures are marvelous.

The Electric Railway in Allegheny City. This line is about four miles in length, and employs both overhead conductors and conduits. In both cases there is a complete metallic circuit, neither the rails nor earth being used as a return. The road is difficult, with one mile and one four tenths of a mile in length, and numerous others; the average rise in a distance of 4,000 feet being 265 feet—over 6 per cent. Two fifteen-horse-power motors are used under each car, connected with the axle by open gears. There are at present four cars running, with two more to be added shortly.

Humbug. Barnum said "The American People like to be humbugged." This may be true in the line of entertainment, but not where life is at stake. A man with consumption, or any other fatal disease, looking death in the face and seeking to evade his awful grasp, does not like to be trifled with. So, with confidence we place before our readers Nature's grand remedy, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a sure relief for that long train of diseases resulting from impure blood, Consumption, Chronic Nasal Catarrh, Complete Kidney Disorder, Sick Headache, Scrofula and General Debility. Time-tried and thoroughly tested, it stands without a peer as equal to any drug.

Business of Ancient Printing. The London Standard gives currency to a report that a wonderful collection of documents printed on paper made in ancient Egypt, discovered near the tomb of Amenhotep (central Egypt), consisting of 1,000 documents and 2,000 fragments. These papers are printed in five different languages, and treat of the most important events, extending over a period of 2,700 years. The maps were printed by means of a wooden block, and this is true, the art of printing is not a modern invention.

—Some of our friends below here are of the opinion that Salisbury is overbuilt, that all the capital of the town has been put in building and that there is no business to maintain the outlay, so they say. Ask our merchants if this is the case. If one thinks it is, we can prove that there has been twice the business done here within the last 30 days than was ever done before in the same length of time. These superannated corners of the peninsula seem to think it a creditable thing to try to build up a Southern trade by means of excursions etc. Well, it may be in their estimation but we think it shows energy, enterprise and brains. All of which our young merchants have. We don't propose to allow the cob-webs to span our streets more than six hours at a time—from twelve o'clock at night to six in the morning. Now if we have made inroads upon the territory tributary to these places it is because we have offered superior advantages, and if we succeed in interesting people from the south, it is because we have something to interest them in. No, it is not true that Salisbury is wanting, it is actually having a boom, not an artificial, real estate boom but a boom in actual, substantial growth. Those who have been here during the year concede that, at a glance and we expect to continue it.

—Among the last acts of the Chicago Convention was a resolution offered by Mr. Boutelle of Maine that: "The first concern of all good government is the virtue and sobriety of the people and the purity of their homes. The republican party cordially sympathizes with all wise and well-directed efforts for the promotion of temperance, and morality." An admirable resolution so far as it went. It is true it was meagre and indefinite. It was so intended to be, but how does it fit in with that plank in the platform which was adopted a few days previous, demanding "free saloons and free tobacco." Declare a thing an evil then reduce the price of it fifty per cent so that it will be within the reach of all, that's what the Convention has done.

The issue before the country is, therefore, the decision of the surplus. Millions of dollars are in the treasury, withdrawn from circulation, where it is used for commercial purposes, tempting Congress to all kinds of jobbery. The Democrats are in favor of reducing it, by loaning the collections. The reasons assigned there for are so forcible that the Republicans are compelled to concede the necessity of it and now fight the democratic methods of doing it.

The Democrats say lessen the tax on necessities and retain it on luxuries, and on whiskey and tobacco.

The Republicans say keep it on all these necessities, such as lumber, tinplate, woolen goods, etc., to protect the ten per cent of the Nation's population engaged in the manufacture of them and give us free whiskey and tobacco.

This is the issue before the country and not Free Trade vs. Protection. The method of reducing the surplus is the issue. The country must say which method it will take.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

Gen. Harrison for First Place and Levi Morton for Second.

The republican national convention, which has been in session at Chicago since the 19th inst., completed its work yesterday by the nomination of Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, for President, and Levi F. Morton, of New York, for Vice-President. When the convention met in the morning, Mr. Boutelle of Maine read a resolution from Mr. Boutelle in which he said that he thought his Paris letter should be respected, and that he had the right to ask his friends to regard his wishes and refrain from voting for him. After the reading of these dispatches the balloting was resumed. The sixth ballot showed little change from the last ballot taken on Saturday. On the seventh ballot Chicago made a break and gave sixteen votes for Harrison. Before the eighth ballot was taken Allison's name was withdrawn, and when the bulk of Iowa's delegation, with the whole of New York and all of Pennsylvania except one cast their votes for Harrison it was evident that he had secured to receive the nomination. When the roll-call was completed Harrison's vote was announced as 54. Upon the motion of Gov. Foraker the nomination was made unanimous. Sherman held the Ohio delegation to the end, with the exception of a single delegate, Wm. Walter Phelps, of New Jersey, and Wm. O. Bradley, of Kentucky were also placed in nomination for vice-presidency. The vote of the candidates was: Morton 50, Phelps 119, Bradley 103 and B. K. Bruce 11. After the nomination of a candidate for Vice-President and the adoption of a mild anti-slavery plank last night the convention adjourned sine die. Chairman Allison, of the Pennsylvania State committee, states that on Sunday night the Blaine men had assurances of six hundred votes in the convention, and a plan to nominate Mr. Blaine was fully arranged. Before the convention met a dispatch from Mr. Blaine was received and they determined to throw the Blaine vote to Harrison.—Baltimore Sun.

Gen. Benjamin Harrison was born in Ohio, near Cincinnati; was educated at Miami College and moved to Indiana at the age of 20, for the purpose of practicing law.

In 1860 he was appointed reporter of the Supreme Court. When the war broke out he organized a band of Volunteers and went into the army, and was by General Hooper promoted to the rank of Brigadier General. At the close of the war he returned to his state and pursued the practice of law till 1880 when he was elected to the United States Senate, and was succeeded by Senator Turpie, democrat, in 1886 after a close contest.

LEVI F. MORTON.

The Hon. Levi Parsons Morton, the republican nominee for Vice-President, was born in Shelburne, Vt., May 16, 1824. He became a clerk in a country store, soon developed aptitude for business and rose rapidly. In 1850 he was made a member of the firm of Morton, Moore & Co., merchants, of Boston, and in 1854 removed to New York, where he established the firm of Morton & Grinnell. In 1853 he founded the banking-house of Morton, Bliss & Co., in New York, and that of Morton, Ross & Co., in London. The latter were the fiscal agents of the United States government from 1875 till 1884. In the year of 1878 he was elected to Congress as a republican, and was re-elected in 1880. In the latter year he received the nomination for Vice-President of the republican ticket. President Garfield offered to nominate Mr. Morton for Secretary of the Navy or Minister to France. He chose the latter post, and filled it from 1881 to 1885, when he was succeeded by the Hon. Robert M. McLane, of Maryland. He was American commissioner-general to the Paris electrical exposition, the representative of the United States at the submarine cable convention, and publicly received, in the name of the people of the United States, the Bartholdi statue of "Liberty Enlightening the World." He is many times a millionaire.

The New York Herald has summed up its estimate of the candidates in the following fair and unbiased manner:

The two republican candidates, Messrs. Harrison and Morton, are, like the democratic candidates, upright and honorable men. The fact is a great gain to the country. There can be no excuse on either side for a mere personal canvass, and fortunately the positions of the two parties on the question of taxation are so radically opposed that the canvass can be made, and will be made, we believe mainly on this question.

Mr. Harrison has served a term in the United States Senate. He showed himself there, as in the politics of his State, a vigorous and keen, and indeed a bitter partisan; a thorough going high tariff protectionist; a man of strong will, clear headed but somewhat narrow; a party man rather than a statesman. He represents very accurately the present spirit of his party; his determination to keep the taxes high and spend the surplus revenues freely; to resist tariff reform on extreme protectionist grounds, and to get back into power if he can. He is a man of the old school. Mr. Morton would have stood for a more conservative and less adventurous administration of the government than Mr. Harrison. But he is probably a more correct exponent of the present spirit and temper of the republican leaders than his older statesman.

The committee appointed by the St. Louis Convention to notify President Cleveland of his nomination did so at the White House last Tuesday. Hon. P. A. Collins, permanent Chairman of the convention, headed the delegation. In reply to the message the President said: "I cannot but be profoundly impressed when I see about me the messengers of the national democracy, bearing its summons to duty. The political party to which I owe allegiance both honors and commands me. It is the repository of the people's will and power. SALISBURY ADVERTISER.

ISSUED EVERY SATURDAY MORNING. Thos. Ferry, Publisher.

"Nagging." Disagreeable as the habit of nagging undoubtedly is, it originates in a virtue.

It is not the slipshod, haphazard way people that are nagged by the habit of nagging. It is the shrewd, the considerate, the total disregard of every plain duty.

No, they are the painstaking, conscientious souls who are sorely tried by the negligence of others. The habit of nagging and opportunity and assistance it may be, who find their strength unequal to bearing more than two or three times their share of the heat and burden of the day; who have again taken up the neglected task of others less conscientious; who have again and again stood between those who had the consequences of their own indulgence, folly, stupidity and injustice, before the eyes of the world, and who have rendered it impossibly plain. It cleanses the System, cures Constipation, etc. Dr. L. D. Collier, Agt.

That Rarest of Combinations. True delicacy of flavor with true efficacy of action has been attained in the famous California liquid fruit remedy Syrup of Figs. It is pleasant taste and beneficial effects have rendered it immensely popular. It cleanses the System, cures Constipation, etc. Dr. L. D. Collier, Agt.

The Indian's Laundry. The primitive Indians had large quantities of asbestos, which they wore into cloths, and to clean garments made of it they threw them into the fire, from which they came out purified. Ashes from the funeral pile were also preserved in it.

Advice to Mothers. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

"Fred" Douglas is nearly 90 years old. The Emperor of Japan dislikes dancing. Mrs. John Drew has been on the stage sixty-one years.

Queen Victoria has most of the books read to her as they come out. The late Marshal Lannes was one of the handsomest men in France.

Buffalo Bill's daughter is shortly to be married to a young doctor in Colorado. Samuel J. Randall's little son wears glasses and closely resembles his father.

It's thousands of cures are the best advertisement for Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. The Grand Duke Alexis, brother of the Czar, is a tremendous drinker of champagne.

Dr. W. C. Wood will take his recreation this summer by preparing a set of lectures on philosophy. Mr. and Mrs. Chamberlain (the latter formerly Miss Amelia Brown) will make their home in New York.

Some men—fill the air with their strength and sweetness as the orchards in October days fill the air with ripe fruit. Some women cling to their own house like the hollyhock to its stem. They feel like it, fill all the region with the fragrance of their goodness. How great a blessing it is to hold the gifts of the soul that they should be made to all! It would be no unworthy thing to live for, to make the world a better place, to be the breath of ether to all men. All the atmosphere which they may stand in with a brightness which they cannot create for themselves.

There is no happiness in the world equal to that of blessing others. Not only by giving food to the needy, but by the gift, food to the hungry, is this blessing compassed; we gain it as we give it, by sympathy, by self-sacrifice, by seeing that which best in our friends and shutting our eyes to that which is worst, by taking joy in their good things even when our own portion is scant and poor.

Increase of fortune brings increase of cares. Riches and power, so much the aim of all men, are no more capable of giving worldly happiness than of giving health, strength, or beauty. On the contrary, they often become real misfortunes and the bitter source of misery in various ways.

Education rests largely on the sentiment of respect for the young. We often hear the complaint that the youth of the present age lack reverence for their seniors, and the charge is not without cause. The fault is largely due to the lack of respectful treatment they themselves receive.

A man who respects every other man to the respect except that of respect, is in danger of forfeiting them all. A man who respects his own always liable to affront. He is never without dignity who avoids wounding the dignity of others.

Woman was not taken from man's head, that she might govern; nor from under his foot, that she might be trampled on; but from beneath his arm, that she might be protected, and from near his heart, that she might be beloved.

There are two modes of establishing our reputation: To be praised by honest men, and to be abused by rogues. It is best, however, to secure the former, because it will be invariably accompanied by the latter.

Gratitude becomes selfishness when it is too profuse, to be overwhelmed for one favor is in effect to be paying the way for another.

The easiest and best way to expand the chest is to have a good large heart. It saves the cost of gymnastics.

Deal not roughly with thy wife whose strength is less than thine; but be shown a protection into her.

Syrup of Figs. It is Nature's own true laxative. It is the most easily taken, and the most effective remedy known to cleanse the System when Bilious or Constipated; to dispel Headaches, Colds, and Fevers; to cure Habitual Constipation, Indigestion, Piles, etc. Manufactured only by the California Fig Syrup Company, San Francisco, Cal. Dr. L. D. Collier, Agt.

What is this "nervous trouble" with which so many seem now to be afflicted?

If you will remember a few years ago the word "Malaria" was comparatively unknown. It is as common as any word in the English language, and this word covers only the meaning of another word used by our forefathers in times past. So it is with nervous diseases, as they and Malaria are indicated in every child's anatomy. Biliousness, and all are caused by troubles that arise from a diseased condition of the Liver which in performing its functions find it cannot dispose of the bile through the ordinary channel.

The Terrors of the Innocent. "A Baltimore woman," said Mr. McVicker, corresponding secretary of the Artist fund, "called upon me a few weeks ago and said that her little girl, upon whom she was dependent, was sick. What was the matter? Well, the child was employed at one of the dime museums, and she had done her little song and dance for many weeks, times between 10 and 11 at night. The mother wanted the little one sent back to Baltimore. Her wish was complied with, but I believe I did not rest telling her that she herself should be kept from going to any more of these places."

Fashion and Taste Collapsing. Fashion has declined in favor of her ceilings at home. It has been decided that it is very difficult to furnish a living room so that it shall look cozy and inviting. In fact fashion doesn't believe that a room with a large living room properly handled at all. In view of these discoveries it is growing customary to put in the ceiling of a room at a height of about nine feet from the floor. Then the curtains are tucked with padding, or tinting, or handing, with light gilt work, as the decorator pleases.
