A Striking Object Lesson in National Finance.

The protracted struggle to keep a hundred millions of free gold in the treasury is giving the country a remarkably vivid object lesson.

Exports of the precious metal continue, and every dollar of it shipped, with the exception of a few small bars, is furnished by the government, which is conducting a big bank with five hundred millions of notes which it must redeem in gold on demand.

Other banks have in proportion to their needs a larger supply of gold, but they desire to keep their own position strong and will not part with it. The Treasury cannot help itself, because a refusal to redeem its notes in the yellow metal would be a suspension of gold payments and would at once cause a dislocation of the currency.

This morning the treasury's reserve is about two and a half millions under the amount which is regarded as the required reserve—namely, one hundred millions—and the drain continues. Wall street is excitedly following the question whether enough gold to make the reserve whole again will be deposited this week, and the syndicate reported to be passing it hat among the banks to raise the needed specie.

The spectacle of a young financial giant like the United States government helpless in the fetters of an absurd monetary system and being nursed and spoon fed by a handful of bankers at once ludicrous and pathetic. Unless the American people have lost their sense of humor, their intelligence and their pride—three qualities which which they have been richly endowed—they must insist upon Congress putting an end to this farce—a farce which might readily enough end in tragedy.

To see the syndicate docking a little gold from the bank and adding it to the Treasury's reserve, the Treasury's efforts to lengthen his blanket by clipping it on top from the bottom and stitching it on top. Whether the syndicate does or does not piece out the blanket this week is of comparatively little consequence; we must get a new and larger one in the shape of a rational and workable monetary system—a system which will relieve the Treasury from its impossible position of conducting a big national bank with out any means of influencing the exchanges or of getting a dollar in gold except by begging or borrowing it. There is a suspicion that another issue of bonds is under consideration, and this was strengthened by one of Mr. Carr's assistants yesterday visiting the Sub-Treasury and calling upon leading syndicate bankers. If another issue of bonds is sold at this time the fact should make upon the public mind a much clearer and more distinct impression than was led by any former issue. When the Treasury was depleted and revenues were running behind expenses at the rate of several millions a year, the partisan cry was raised that the bonds were being sold to provide for the payment of current bills.

Now however, with a restored revenue and with an available balance of over fifty millions of money in the Treasury it will be impossible to fool the people with any such charade. They must clearly perceive that the distinct and only necessity for thus mortgaging the country is to maintain the reserve on which depends the convertibility of the paper currency. It will be a most impressive and unmistakable object lesson and one which should result in imperatively needed reform.—New York Herald.

World's Record for Fast Lines on a Railroad.

The world's record for fast lines on a railroad was again captured, when the New York Central train, which left New York City that morning, dashed into the East Buffalo station, having accomplished the trip at the greatest speed for a continuous journey of any train over any road in the world.

The distance from the Grand Central Station, New York City, to the East Buffalo station—456 1/2 miles—was covered in 407 minutes, or six hours and forty-seven minutes. This is at the rate of 64.84 miles an hour. The English record, which, up to that time was the fastest in the world, was 540 miles in 612 minutes—or at the rate of 63.24 miles an hour.

The train hauled by engine No. 909, the famous World's Fair locomotive, weighing 304,000 pounds, drew out of New York at 5:05 o'clock Wednesday morning. The passengers were H. Walter Webb, third vice president of the road, General Superintendent Edgar Van Etten, William Buchanan, superintendent of motive power, George H. Daniels, general passenger agent; William Ellis, road master; Professor P. P. Donley, railroad expert; A. G. Leonard, private secretary to Vice President Webb; Mayor Jacob Amos, of Syracuse. The cars, however, could have accommodated the number usually carried on the Empire State Express, 216 persons.

The English train that made the record run of 540 miles in 612 minutes consisted of three standard English railway carriages, having a total length of 126 feet exclusive of the engine, or only about two-fifths of the length of the American train, and weighing much less than half as much.

Marriages that Might Have Been.

The saddest marriages—that might have been—are those disappointments which come from merely worldly obstacles—such as those which are so abundant and gigantic in other countries and so much more easily evaded here. In countries where every place seems filled, where self-support is so difficult as to seem impossible, it may be needful to wait for middle life and a comfortable income before marriage. But here where the openings are so much greater, the standards still so much simpler, it is different. Instead of a gospel of worldly prudence as regards marriage, we need rather a gospel of brave imprudence, that young people who have health and love should not wait to be rich, but rather that the openings are so much greater, the standards still so much simpler, it is different. AN EXPRESSMAN'S HARVEST.

Queer Things the Northern Soldiers Sent Home From the War.

The greatest harvest reaped by the principal express companies was during the late war of the rebellion, when everything was sent and received by express, no matter what the cost. The writer of this sketch had a varied and somewhat tedious experience in the business during that protracted disturbance, and was witness to many scenes of somber and many of a humorous character. These were mostly seen in the returns from the seat of war just after a battle, or the capture of a rebel town, the officers, as well as the soldiers, made practice of sending home trophies they had captured. These often were household effects of comparatively little value, and cost the recipients at home a large tax for express transportation. Sometimes live stock was sent, consisting largely of dogs and donkeys, sometimes a few chickens, or a couple of pigs. On one occasion a stalwart negro fellow was received at the Boston office, sent by an officer who found him an indignant young woman to a friend who had been taken to the "big" at Fort Sumter. The man was a stout fellow, just entered into manhood, and had the last few minutes because a great brute of a man would insist upon crowding up against me and pushing me with his knees. There is nothing in the matter to a modest, refined mind as that. A woman is practically defenseless. "Now tonight the case was crowded, and I was tired enough, as you may imagine, to drop down into that vacant seat with a sigh of relief, which was quickly changed to anxiety when I realized that I should have to endure from the man beside me. I moved over so that he could not touch me without changing his position. Under pretext of adjusting his paper, he followed me, watching me narrowly out of the corner of his eye, or rather I felt he was, for I never looked at him. Finally I moved as far as I could to the other side of the aisle. It was no use, and I just jumped up and held to a strap the rest of the way.

"It is at such times as this that I long for some one—some man with a real, manly heart in him—to teach such a creature as that that there is an unwritten law which keeps men from forcing their attentions upon those who are not wanted. I wonder sometimes if it is because I am obliged to work for a living that I have to endure such things."

"I do not think that fact makes any difference," said her companion, "for I have a pretty little doll of a woman who tells me not to spin just through a similar experience on a Broadway cable car. She stood it as long as she could, and then she thought she would have a little talk with the conductor, who was between her and the obnoxious creature with a thud that made every one stare."

"All the women in the car took in the conductor's remarks with glances at the man who had been kicked out of the car after a block or two."

"The little woman looked relieved, but she forgot to get up, and a little money for Harold N. Fitch Jewell."

A Frog With Four Wings.

The curiousity of tropical Africa is the wonderful flying frog, first described by the English naturalist, Captain Bruce, in the fall of 1844. This oddity of the reptile family is about the size of a common toad, and resembles other members of the order of batrachians in everything but its feet, each of which is webbed and enormously enlarged, so much so as to form extended membranes for true wings. The creature has five toes on each of the other two, which makes four separate membranes on each foot, the wings of the frog can dart through the air at a speed of about ten yards per second and can keep itself going forward at that rate for from 10 to 15 seconds. The average distance covered by these parts of amphibian flight is from 75 to 125 yards. Dr. Blanford mentions instances where the flying frog crossed the Red Sea, and he has known, or like a partially feathered bird testing its pinions for the first time.

THANKING FRUIT.

It makes a more Fruit and more Crop and more Fruit.

The most essential thing after you have got your fruit started, says Mr. J. E. Hale, the Connecticut fruit grower, is a judicious pruning of it. I believe the thinning of apples should begin when they first begin to bear. A well planned and well, led tree will begin to bear early. Only let it bear a little. Allow some of the strength to go into the development of the fruit buds for next year. Next year this fruit closely then by the fruit buds will build up a constant that will have no off years in it. There isn't an off year. It is because the apples are in the hands of an off man, that he believes the balance will be in a constant bearing.

It is good pruning that exhausts the vitality. There are no more seeds in a large tree than in a small one, and a large one doesn't take any more vitality out of a tree. If a Koffer pear tree has on it a thousand pears, and you take off five hundred of them, the balance will be as much as the whole of them and bring more money, weakening the tree only half as much. Our rule for thinning peaches is not to leave one, and a bush of four inches of another. This covers the ground with green fruit and looks like destruction, but at the end of the season there are more bushels than there would have been.

Thin by hand. Put stepladders under the trees and put boys on them whose bump of destructiveness is large, and will thin to go about. We begin when the peaches are three-quarters of an inch in diameter, and take everything that is curculio stung and diseased. These we cart away and burn. The rest that is taken off are dropped on the ground and left there. In future our three or four year old peach trees shall not bear over 250 peaches, one or five year old trees not over 800, and full grown trees not over 600. That means six inches apart; 600 peaches on a tree will make it eight bushels of fancy fruit. Three thousand peaches to a tree won't make more, nor sell for more money, and the trees are ruined.—Hartford Times.

How to Clean Old Book Plates.

To restore old book plates that have been injured by age and damp proceed as follows: Place upon a flat surface a sheet of white paper, somewhat larger than the book plate to be cleaned. Carefully dampen the print on both sides with a soft wet sponge, and then saturate it with a mixture of chloride of lime and oxalic acid dissolved in about equal proportions in a pint of cold water. You can tell when the mixture is right by its turning magenta color. Continue to apply it until the stains are all removed, and then wash with a clean sponge wash the print freely with cold water.—Art American.

Plenty of Room.

Australia has a population of less than 5,000,000, but economists declare it could support 100,000,000 with ease. As a means of showing how far the world is from being overpopulated they assert that the entire population of the United States could live comfortably in the single state of Texas.

IF SOME MEN WILL READ THIS!

They Will Then Learn What Modern Women Think About Them.

"Why will men be so beastly?" said an indignant young woman to a friend as they alighted from the "U." at 21st Street, New York City. Hold by a Hook.

In a gathering of officers after the Franco-Prussian war a French officer claimed that the French nation is the most artistic nation on the earth, and that her artizan can make a thing of beauty out of anything, however ordinary or crude.

The good Prussian general, Von Manteuffel, who was present, plucked a hair from his shaggy beard, remarking, "Let them make something beautiful out of that!"

The French officer sent the hair to a friend in Paris, telling him the circumstances and urging that, as the Prussians had defeated the French in the late war, they should not be permitted to defeat them in the claim to artistic supremacy. Giving the hair to a capable artisan, with proper instructions, the result was a beautiful scepter representing a Prussian eagle, artistically wrought in gold, standing on a rock, and depending from his back was a sword, the hilt of which was a beautiful gold medallion, on one of which was inscribed "Allice" and on the other "Lorraine."

This is a beautiful scepter representing the political situation: Prussia, as the eagle, with its conquered provinces dependent, but held by a hair, for the temper of the people of Alsace and Lorraine was bitter toward the Germans, and the tie which held them was very slight.

Most Valuable of Cents.

The important every state or stock again being stated by those who have investigated the subject with scientific exactness that only about 6 or 8 per cent of the total heat value of coal is utilized in an engine by a heating transformer into power. In tracing up this loss it is stated that there are required some 1,200 degrees of heat, or heat units—100 degrees of temperature—equal one pound of water into steam, while during the absorption of this amount of heat the temperature of the water remains at 212 degrees. This immense amount of steam is rendered latent and does not sensibly affect the thermometer. Scientific authorities explain the cause of this loss in the steam engine as due to the fact that the 990 degrees absorbed by water in being transferred into steam—312 degrees are apparent upon a thermometer, and which, added to 990, make up the 1,302 degrees above mentioned—go into the engine unutilized by the thermometer, leave in the same amount and go to waste.—New York Sun.

How to Clean Old Book Plates.

To restore old book plates that have been injured by age and damp proceed as follows: Place upon a flat surface a sheet of white paper, somewhat larger than the book plate to be cleaned. Carefully dampen the print on both sides with a soft wet sponge, and then saturate it with a mixture of chloride of lime and oxalic acid dissolved in about equal proportions in a pint of cold water. You can tell when the mixture is right by its turning magenta color. Continue to apply it until the stains are all removed, and then wash with a clean sponge wash the print freely with cold water.—Art American.

Plenty of Room.

Australia has a population of less than 5,000,000, but economists declare it could support 100,000,000 with ease. As a means of showing how far the world is from being overpopulated they assert that the entire population of the United States could live comfortably in the single state of Texas.

AN OFFICE-HOLDER RESIGNS.
County Commissioners Deal with Important Subjects at their Meeting Last Tuesday.
 The Board of County Commissioners dealt with several important matters last Tuesday.
 To begin with their clerk and treasurer surprised them and other people by violating that well established rule of office, "For his and some reason." Mr. Holloway did not die, but he did tender his resignation in the following manner:
 MR. HOLLOWAY RESIGNS
 To the Honorable County Commissioners of Wicomico County.
 Gentlemen:—Being ordered by the School Board to give up my school personal attention, and as teaching affords more permanent employment than my present position, I am compelled to tender my resignation as clerk and treasurer, to take effect as soon as convenient to yourself and board. Allow me to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the honor and courtesy shown in giving me the appointment, hoping that my services have proved satisfactory.
 Very Respectfully,
 Salisbury, Md., Sept. 17th, 1895.
 Wm. J. Holloway.
 Our Board unanimously regret having to consider your resignation of this date, as Clerk and Treasurer to our Board. We fully appreciate the good service rendered and wish you a prosperous future.

 President reported that he had had copies printed of a report of the Board of Finance, and had ordered treasurer to pay for same. Action of President approved.
 Board adjourned to meet September 24.

ALIAS LETTERS.
 Though the police is nearly two months off, police seems to be rasing and it looks as though times may be quite interesting on election day, but with all of that the ruling party of this county is still clinging together and is as solid as ever.
 Fodder saving at present seems to be the excitement until we noticed the crowd at the steamboat wharf Monday afternoon ready to start for different points, all eager to see the boat, yet somewhat solemn over the thought of leaving home.
 In the crowd we noticed Miss Lizzie Price starting for St. Mary's Seminary where she has secured admittance with the expectation of becoming more qualified for the work she has begun. Miss Price has been teaching school in Wicomico for several years and has proved herself equal to the task and while we joiner scholars in lamenting her loss we think that our loss is another's gain.
 Miss Nellie Porter left for Westminster where she expects to graduate this year.
 Miss Addie Griffith accompanied her aunt, Mrs. Humphreys, of Washington, D. C. home last Monday where she expects to spend the winter in hope of improving her health.
 Miss Lucy Cooper has accepted a position with Armstrong & Coles and expects to travel for some time. Miss Anna Smith also expects to travel for Armstrong & Coles. Both ladies are quite efficient and carry with them recommendations of the best type.
 J. Fred Measick left Monday for Randolph Macon College, Virginia, where he expects to take up the general course of studies.
 Mr. John Huffington and family returned to Annapolis Monday, after spending his vacation with friends and relatives here.
 Wm. F. Measick has left for Philadelphia where he expects to spend the winter.
 Miss Katie Price spent Sunday with the Misses Layfield of Green Hill.
 The Misses Bena and Daisy Cooper returned home last week after a visit of six weeks among the hills of Virginia.
 Revival services are going on at Shad Point and Solom conducted by the Revs. Bray and Conner.
 Miss Rawlings of Greenboro, Md., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Gunby.
LOST—on Monday 17th on the street, between the residence of Mrs. Margaret Parsons and Mr. A. W. Lankford, a pair of gold rim spectacles, finder will return them to Mrs. Geo. W. Measick, and receive reward.

THE FOLLOWING SERVICES WILL BE HELD IN Spring Hill and Stoney Park, on Sunday next, September 22d, as follows:
 The Holy Eucharist will be offered, and a sermon delivered, in St. Paul's Church, Spring Hill, at 10 a. m.
 There will be Evening Prayer, and sermon, in Saint Bartholomew's Church, Green Hill, at 3.30 p. m. There will also be Evening Prayer, with a sermon, in Saint Phillip's Church, Quantico, at 7.30 p. m.—Franklin B. Atkins, Rector.

Autumn 1895. R. E. POWELL & CO.
 We open autumn of 1895 with the largest stock in the history of this well known store. For weeks our buyers have been on the rush, and the railroads have delivered the efforts of the buyers at four mammoth establishments—everything in original packages—some of them still have the scent of their ocean voyage, so recent are they from the importer's hands. These goods are intensely interesting this season, especially the Dress Goods.
 Every man and woman within the reach of Powell's has a vital interest in this sale—if a care to get shoe comfort and true economy enter into their calculations. No feature of the business calls for such unflinching watchfulness; no other shoe business is handled so masterfully. Unapproachable foot-wear! Unapproachable prices!
 Made especially for our trade by the best makers in New York. This season we have had special care taken in the making of these clothes. They are the best in the line in ten years, you will find them to be such a pleasure. Our clothing is correct in Style, Quality, Fit, and Price.
 Our Fall Millinery is MILLINERY ready for your inspection. We have the latest fashions in millinery and fancy goods. Our Millinery Department, this season will surpass all previous efforts. Call and take a peep at the new styles.

DIAMOND DIGGINGS.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST THEFT IN SOUTH AFRICAN MINES.

It is in the light of all this that the following precautions should be observed.

The South African diamond mines are worked by native laborers—the Kafirs, Zulus, Hottentots and the rest.

These receive good wages, about $125 per month, and are hired for a term of three months.

During this period they are furnished with food, clothing and other necessaries.

They are also provided with a small hut for their quarters.

The mines are worked by a system of rough diamond mining.

The rough diamonds are separated from the waste by a process of sorting.

The sorted diamonds are then weighed and packed for shipment.

The diamonds are packed in small boxes, each containing a few diamonds.

The boxes are then packed in larger boxes for shipment.
