TUESDAY'S ELECTIONS

Democrats Win in New York By A Majority Of 61,414 And Elect A Governor Of Rhode Island. They Sweep The State Of Virginia.

After one of the hottest campaigns ever waged in New York City, George B. McClellan, Democrat, was elected Mayor of Greater New York by a majority of 61,414. The result was a great surprise to the Fusionists, who had until the polls closed claimed that Seth Low, the present Mayor, would be re-elected.

Every large newspaper in the city except one has opposed McClellan, and he also had the opposition of practically all the city-men in the city. But he won over the combined opposition of the Republicans, Citizens' Union, Independent Democrats and many other organizations, and even carried Brooklyn Seth Low's home, a rare feat in the opposition of Hugh McClellan, Democrat's leader of that borough.

Colonel McClellan after receiving the returns said: "I am deeply grateful to my fellow-citizens for their confidence in me. I trust the promises which I made before election. I have no bitterness of feeling for anyone. I shall go at once to Washington to prepare for the extraordinary session of Congress, and as soon as the question of Cuban reciprocity is disposed of I shall turn my attention to affairs of the city. I invite the co-operation of every citizen, whether he supported me or not, regardless of his political views, in the advancement of the city's good."

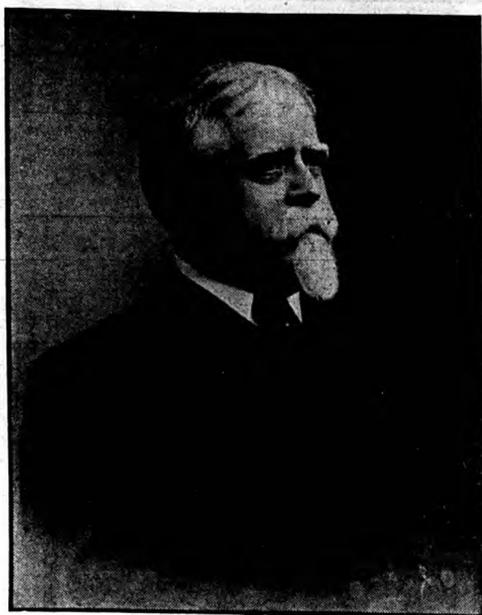

"This victory should encourage and unite the Democrats for the Presidential campaign of 1904."

In The Old Dominion.

Democrats swept the State of Virginia in the election which was for members of the General Assembly and county officers. With a much smaller vote polled than is usual in a Legislative election, the Democratic victory is complete. Returns received indicate that the Democrats have held their own in both branches of the General Assembly and many have made gains.

Principal Results in Brief.

New York city—Mayor, McClellan (Dem.) Defeated Low (Fus.)
Ohio—Governor, Herrick (Rep.) Defeated Johnson (Dem.)
Massachusetts—Governor, Bates (Rep.) Defeated Gaston (Dem.)
Rhode Island—Governor, Gary (Dem.) Defeated Colt (Rep.)
Mississippi—Governor, Vardaman (Dem.) No opposition, Estimated Plurality 90,000.
Kentucky—Governor, Beckham (Dem.) Defeated Belknap (Rep.)
Iowa—Governor, Cummins (Rep.) Sullivan (Dem.)
Pennsylvania—Auditor, Snyder (Rep.) DeWalt (Dem.)

HON. EDWIN WARFIELD,
Our Next Governor.

Mr. Warfield returned to Baltimore Wednesday morning from his home in Howard county, where he quietly passed the eventful election, Tuesday, and his walk from Camden Station to the office of the Fidelity and Deposit Company, of which he is president, was a triumphal march, in which the successful candidate of the Democratic party received a magnificent ovation.

From the minute he alighted from the train until he reached the Fidelity Building his hand was wrung continually by admirers, and he was showered with congratulations. All along the line men and women held him up and accorded him a welcome that would have been gratifying to a prince of the blood.

Nearly every one addressed him as "Governor," and assured him of his personal pleasure in his success. To all of the felicitations Mr. Warfield expressed his sense of appreciation.

Flowers and kind words greeted the Governor elect when he arrived at the Fidelity Building. The former filled his private office and made it delightful with their fragrance.

"My sole aim as Governor of Maryland," says Mr. Warfield, "will be to give the people of the State a good administration, without regard to class, color, political or religious faith. I made a clean, clear-cut campaign, in which personalities were eliminated. The result I regard as a vindication of the principles that I advocated on the stump and in my private utterances."

OVERWHELMING VICTORY.

Democrats Of Maryland Carry The State By Over 12,000 Majority. Elect Two Thirds Of Legislature, All The Judges and Most of The Local County Tickets. Eastern Shore A Banner Victory.

The Democratic victory in Maryland at the election on Tuesday, in the light of the complete returns, is even more decisive than was thought, and there is no room for argument about it. The State is in the hands of the Democrats for four years more, and the majority are jubilant.

The Republicans accept the result this time without the cry of fraud, and the majority is such as to leave no loophole for a contest. The battle of the Democrats was waged upon the negro issue largely, and Republican leaders candidly admit that it was this argument that told against them the most in the campaign. Their defeat is further attributed to: First, disaffection in the party ranks in the city; second, lack of a compact organization in the counties, third failure at the last moment to obtain an adequate amount of money, and fourth, the injection into the campaign of the personality of President Roosevelt, thus giving the Democrats the opportunity to create another effective issue. As is natural, there is now much bitterness between the factions, and accusations of treachery are being freely made.

Democrats Have Two-Thirds Majority.

The success of the Democrats, in addition to giving them control of the General Assembly and of the many offices under the Governor and in the city courts, means also the probable re-election of Mr. Murray Vandiver as State Treasurer and the election of a Democratic United States Senator to succeed Senator McComas.

The Democrats carry three of the four legislative districts of Baltimore city and 16 of the 23 counties. The majority in the Legislature will be the largest for many years, being more than a two-thirds majority of each house. Of 15 Senators elected the Democrats got 12 and the Republicans 3.

The Legislature will be as follows: Senate 10 Democrats and 8 Republicans. In the House 70 Democrats and 31 Republicans.

To propose an amendment to the Constitution requires a three-fifths vote in each house of the General Assembly, and this the Democrats will have in the next Legislature for the first time in many years.

Eastern Shore in Victorious Line.

A feature in the election is the success of the Democrats in every county on the Eastern Shore, except Dorchester, and in that county several of the local Democratic candidates are elected. In Mr. Mudd's Southern Maryland district every county is Democratic except Charles and Calvert, and complete returns have not yet been received from the latter. In Charles one Democratic official is elected, and the size of the Democratic majority in Anne Arundel surprised both parties.

The defeat of Senator McComas' candidate for the State Senate and a portion of the delegation to the House was also a surprise and a severe blow to Senator McComas. The re-election of Senator B. Abner Betts, of Washington county, was a recognition of the admirable record he made as the last two sessions. He was a member of the Finance Committee in 1900 and 1902 and contented steadily for the taxpayers and in the interest of economy. It seems to be pretty well settled that Col. Spencer C. Jones, the hold-over Senator from Montgomery and chairman of the Finance Committee, will be the President of the Senate.

Seven Judges Elected.

At Tuesday's election seven judges were elected in this State.

In the Third Circuit, composed of Baltimore and Harford counties, Mr. George L. Van Bibber (Dem.) was elected without opposition.

In the Fourth Circuit, composed of Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties, Robert R. Henderson, of Allegany, and Maria L. Keedy, of Washington county, (Reps.) were elected over Judges Ferdinand Williams, of Allegany, and William J. Witznbacher, of Washington. Judge Williams and Mr. Henderson were opposing candidates and Judge Witznbacher and Mr. Keedy. In Washington county Judge Williams received 4,011 votes to 3,846 for Mr. Henderson. Mr. Henderson carried Allegany by about 188 and Garrett by over 800 Mr. Keedy got, in Washington county, 4,187 votes, and Judge Witznbacher 3,895. Mr. Keedy carried Allegany by 790 over Judge Witznbacher. Mr. Henderson's majority in the circuit over Judge Williams is about 600 and that of Mr. Keedy over Judge Witznbacher is about 1,500, Mr. Keedy carrying Allegany county by 790.

In the Sixth Circuit, composed of Frederick and Montgomery counties, Chief Justice McSherry (Dem.) was elected over William H. Hicks (Rep.) by about 1,000 majority; 698 in Montgomery and 125 in Frederick.

In the city of Baltimore three judges of the Supreme Bench were elected, namely, Judges J. Uphur Dennis, William Giraud Wright and Thomas S. Baer, all Democrats.

The city vote on candidates for State offices was as follows:

FOR GOVERNOR.
Warfield, Dem. 46,344
Williams, Rep. 39,976
Gieriel, Pro. 678
Crabill, Soc. 807
Warfield's plurality, 6,368.

FOR COMPTROLLER.
Atkinson, Dem. 14,932
Dennis, Rep. 39,123
Atkinson's plurality, 5,800.

FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL.
Bryan, Dem. 46,528

Death Of George B. Perry.

George B. Perry, of Salisbury, died last Monday morning in Dorchester county, where he was staying temporarily, attending to some lumbering interests he had there. The remains were brought to Salisbury and interred in Parsons' cemetery, Wednesday afternoon, by the side of his first wife, after funeral services by Dr. Newton, of the M. E. Church, South, of which the deceased was for many years a member. Rev. David Howard assisted in the services. The deceased was born in Sussex county, Del., near Milton, where the Perry family have lived for more than two hundred years, and were neighbors and friends of the Holland family, of which Judge C. F. Holland is a member. Judge Holland being a schoolmate of one, nephew and pupil of another. The deceased came to Maryland about fifty years ago and has resided in Wicomico county ever since. His first wife was Mary Eleanor Adams, of Laurel, Del., sister of the late John Adams, who resided many years in Salisbury. From this marriage there were five sons, four of whom survive, as follows: Vandalla Perry and Thos. Perry, of Salisbury; John Jay Perry of Millboro, Del. and James A. Perry, of Rich mond, Va. One son, George W. Perry died in 1885. Mrs. Perry died in 1881. Subsequently he married the widow of the late W. H. Farrington, who is also deceased. The family connection of deceased, through the Adamses and Wootens, of Sussex county, is probably as large as there is in that State, but through his immediate family at Milton it was very small, although the seat of the family is over two hundred years old.

The pallbearers were; Judge Holland, W. B. Tighnann, B. H. Parker, Dr. Simons, L. W. Dorman and G. W. White.

The deceased was a member of the orders of Royal Arcanum, Heptasopha and Knights of Pythias.

Official Vote Of Somerset.

The Board of Election Supervisors met in Princess Anne at noon Thursday and canvassed the election returns for Somerset county. The official vote for the State ticket is as follows:

For Governor—Warfield, 2,014; Williams, 1,557; Gieriel, 166.
For Comptroller—Atkinson, 2,009; Dennis, 1,473; Miles, 169.
For Attorney-General—Bryan, 2,000; Whitelock, 1,374; Higgins, 175.

Official Vote Of Worcester.

The official vote of Worcester county on the State and Legislative ticket is as follows:

For Governor—Warfield, 1,907; Williams, 1,551; Gieriel, Pro. 160; Crabill, Soc. 3.
For Comptroller—Atkinson, 1,876; Dennis, 1,441; Miles, 177; Wild, 4
For Attorney-General—Bryan, 1,863; Whitelock, 1,427

District Sunday School Convention.

A District Sunday School Convention will be held at Bivalve on the 21st and 22nd of November in the M. P. Church of which Rev. J. L. Ward is pastor. An interesting program is being prepared. COUNTING IN NEW YORK.

Quick Method As Compared To The One in Maryland. Result in New York Known Before Vote in Wicomico Was Counted.

The extreme slowness of the count after Tuesday's election caused great disappointment to the eager crowds throughout the State awaiting news of the result, and inconvenience to a great many persons in a variety of ways.

It was long after midnight before anything beyond estimates could be formed and late in Wednesday before the actual vote could be closely approximated.

The delay in Maryland, in sharp contrast to the rapidity with which the result was known in New York city, caused many inquiries as to the reason for the difference.

Results are known quickly in New York because of the system of canvassing and with the aid of the police as messengers.

There are 1,586 election districts in the Greater city, in each of which from 300 to 500 votes are polled. The polls close at 5 o'clock. Immediately the ballot boxes are dumped. Each voter's ballot is a single blanket sheet resembling the Australian pattern. The five election officers and their clerk at once begin the count of votes for the first office on the ballot, this year's being that of Mayor.

A canvassing sheet is used, on which tally marks are placed as the votes are called off. The election officers do not wait until their count is complete before reporting to headquarters, which is in the Election Bureau of the Police Department. As soon as the first hundred votes for the highest office are counted the canvassing sheet is given a policeman, who hurries to headquarters. Thus in an hour's time, or by 6 o'clock p. m., 1,586 policemen, under ordinary circumstances, are on their way to the Election Bureau with about one fourth of the entire vote for the highest office.

On the arrival of these first canvassing sheets the results given are compared by an army of clerks with the first returns from the same districts at the last election for the same office.

The Mayorally vote Tuesday night was thus compared with that of two years ago. The percentage of gain or increase is quickly obtained and calculations based on these returns are generally sustained by the reports received upon the remainder of the canvassing sheets, which are returned to headquarters as the count of each succeeding hundred votes is completed.

The newspaper offices are in close touch by wire with the election bureau and in this way the result so far as the chief office is concerned is made public by 7 o'clock in the evening. The other offices follow rapidly behind the first. The result in the Comptroller's fight was Tuesday night indicated by 7:30 o'clock.

Stockholders Of B., C. & A. Railroad Planning Improvements.

The old Boards were re-elected at the annual meeting of the B. C. & A. Railway Co., and the Ocean City Bridge Co., in Salisbury Wednesday. A number of improvements are to be made on the Railway Division during the year. Among which will be the removal of the Salisbury depot to south side of the tracks, and enlargement of the station. The tank will be given another position.

To install these improvements a strip of land has been purchased of Mr. S. King White and the corner property of S. Ulman & Bro., bought. The steamer Virginia, which brought the officials to Salisbury, and included in her voyage Onancock, Pungoteague, Ocohanock, Care Charles and Old Point Comfort had on board:

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Prevost, R. B. Dixon, Mrs. Tucker, Miss Florence Kane, Col. C. A. Chipley, Samuel Bancroft, Jr., Messrs. Willard Thompson, Vice President and General Manager; W. L. Rothstein, Auditor; J. E. McClure, Secretary; H. E. Tripler, Assistant Real Estate Agent; N. P. Bond, Special Solicitor; T. Murdoch, Freight and Passenger Agent; H. F. Kenney, H. B. Ely, Superintendent Insurance Department; J. Uphur Dennis, R. F. Graham, A. J. Benjamins, A. J. County, K. S. Green, H. P. Scott, W. E. Adams, J. M. Harding, J. S. R. Casady, Alfred Walter, P. B. Clark, L. M. Stanford.

Gentlemen: "There is no remedy for a broken-down system that I know of which will so effectually restore health as Peruna."

"Whenever I am overworked or suffer from the consequences of a cold a few doses of Peruna builds me up again more quickly than anything I ever tried. I find it especially valuable for catarrh. Three bottles cured me three years ago of catarrh of the stomach and I have never had the least symptoms of it since."

Young Plants

Every farmer knows that some plants grow better than others. Soil may be the same and seed may seem the same but some plants are weak and others strong.

And that's the way with children. They are like young plants. Same food, same home, same care but some grow big and strong while others stay small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion offers an easy way out of the difficulty. Child weakness often means starvation, not because of lack of food, but because the food does not feed.

Scott's Emulsion really feeds and gives the child growing strength.

Whatever the cause of weakness and failure to grow—Scott's Emulsion seems to find it and set the matter right.

BERLIN.

—Mrs. Stephen Quillen visited her brother in Philadelphia last week.

—Miss Annie Pitts left Wednesday and will visit her sister, Mrs. Dr. Marshall in Baltimore.

—We are sorry to announce that Mrs. Harry Ayers is quite sick at her home on Bay Street.

—Mrs. William West of Baltimore is again in our midst as a guest of her friends, the Hammonds.

—Mrs. Irving Spence of Snow Hill is stopping with the Whalesys for a few days and then on to Salisbury.

—Mr. Henry Godfrey, after spending the summer in our midst, left for Baltimore Tuesday.

—Mr. John Scott, now a merchant of Georgetown, spent a couple of days with the family of Mr. Geo. E. Scott.

—Miss Beattie Bell, who has a position as stenographer in Baltimore, was home for a brief visit returning Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Hudson have taken their departure and will spend the week in Philadelphia.

—Mrs. Joseph Bethards and son William are visiting relations in Wilmington and Philadelphia.

—Mr. and Mrs. William H. Burwell are expected guests at Mr. and Mrs. Levin Dirickson's next Sunday.

—Mrs. Geo. Harrison is making her brother William C. Franklin a three weeks visit in New York.

—Mrs. Godfrey dined and had the pleasure of Mrs. Harmonson and Mrs. Holloway's society Wednesday.

—Tuesday was one of the quietest elections that ever took place in Berlin but we laughed them just the same.

—Mr. Roosevelt seems to be a possibility for 1904. We hope his friends with gratify his small ambitions. He is dead easy.

—A festival will be held at Seaside Hotel, Ocean City, Nov. 11th, 1908. The proceeds are for the public school. All are invited.

—Mrs. Horace Davis after a most delightful visit to friends in Wilmington and Philadelphia returned last Saturday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dehaven Wood of Germantown, also Mr. and Mrs. St. Clair of Philadelphia will be Berlin's guests shortly.

—Mr. William Laws who recently has taken upon himself a bride is at the present domiciled at Mrs. Frank Bowen's on Broad St.

—Mrs. Jno. E. Purnell who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. Fitzhugh near Baltimore returned Wednesday evening after a month's absence.

—Mr. Arthur Burbage after spending several weeks with his father who has been in poor health but very much improved, left for Annapolis, Wednesday.

—Professor Charles Richardson and wife of College Park stopped over in Berlin this week on their journey to Stockton. They were guests at the Atlantic.

—Mr. Emory Bell, Jr. came home and took his part in the election doing his full duty. Mr. Raymond Bell who is attending college in Baltimore was also in our midst.

—Many white and colored republicans for weeks have been wearing a Williams button. Wednesday morning though a reward was offered none could be found.

—The ladies who are busily working for the Bazaar to come off early in December are very much encouraged by the numerous gifts being sent, most especially handsome embroideries for table decorations.

—Miss Genevieve Hastings, formerly of Berlin, now of Wilmington, Del., who is head book-keeper for Merchants Guarantee and Trust Company, paid her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hastings, a short visit on Saturday, returning Monday.

—Rev. Mr. Gantt will be away from his parish on Sunday, and there will be no services at Berlin or St. Martin's brick church. On the Sunday following, Nov. 15th, Bishop Adams will preach both morning and at night at Berlin.

—Miss Harriett Dirickson who has had a six weeks visit to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Frostburg, we are very glad to have return to the Cedars, her home. Mr. Alexander Franz a guest of the family also spent a couple days in our city.

—One of our oldest and most highly respected citizens, Mr. Arba Tucker residing on the borders of Hudson branch near town, had the misfortune to fall and cart run over him breaking his thigh near the hip. Mr. Tucker is 86 years old and has our sympathy.

—Mr. Wm. C. Franklin and friend, Mr. John Horse of Baltimore, who were guests in our town for the past few days, returned to their respective duties Wednesday morning. The result of Tuesday's election suited the boys to the queen's taste.

—Mr. John Farlow has been fortunate enough to purchase the drug store of Mrs. Alice M. Broughton and will open up business in Pocomoke City the first of December. Farlow has filled very satisfactorily for a long time a position at the Dirickson Pharmacy in our town and his many friends sincerely regret to have him leave us, tho our sister town will be a gainer, and hope they will give him a cordial welcome.

—Mr. William B. Prettyman, once connected with the Pennsylvania depot and well remembered by our younger society, stopped off Wednesday on his way home and had the pleasure of meeting a few of his associates. He had been in Snow Hill keeping tally of the election returns. He is making his home now in Stokley, Del.

—Mr. William J. Pitts has resigned his position and severed his connection with Smith Moore & Co., Snow Hill and accepted a much more lucrative one in West Virginia. Mr. Pitts has the reputation of being a first class judge of lumber, and we predict for him a successful future. He left Thursday for his new venture.

—Messrs. Kerbin, Johnson and Station, of Snow Hill, were booked and appeared at the Atlantic Casino, Ocean City, last Thursday night to advocate the cause of Democracy, and were greeted by a large and appreciative audience. The ladies were out in force and not only appreciated the arguments, but fully realized that the band of music was no small feature attending the evening's entertainment. 'Squire Mumford graciously extended the invitation and had the honor of entertaining the speakers and their Democratic friends. Several ladies were also invited and contributed their full share to the wit and humor of the occasion. The writer, fortunately, was one of the participants, and fully demonstrated to the 'Squire that he was a first class judge of roast turkey.

TO CHECK STAMP THEFTS.

The Post Office Authorities Are Considering a New Plan.

Inspectors are anxious to have the post office department adopt a series of marks for stamps which will make it possible to trace stolen stamps with less trouble. Department officials are considering suggestions offered by some of the experienced inspectors.

It would be possible to mark all the stamps sent to each first class post office in such a manner that they could be identified with ease. A slight variation in the engraving which would not alter the appearance of stamps to the casual observer could easily be made. One inspector has suggested that darts, arrows, stars, circles and other emblems be printed on the stamps in such manner that they may be seen only with the aid of a microscope.

A separate mark could not be devised for each of the 75,000 post offices in the United States, and an attempt would be made at any such complex system of identification. It is not likely that post offices below the first class will be given an individual mark, as the number of stamps kept at the smaller offices is comparatively small and the losses from such offices is not great enough to justify the expense entailed in providing them with stamps different from those used at other offices.

It has been suggested that all the stamps for second class post offices be provided with a mark which will designate the class of post office from which they were issued and that a similar mark be devised for all the stamps sent to the smaller offices. This system would narrow the scope of the inspectors' work and might be adopted at small expense.

One official is of the opinion that the best way to mark stamps would be to print visible bars across the face of all stamps excepting those issued to first class offices. He would have two bars across the stamps sent to second class offices, three bars on the third class office stamps and four bars to designate the stamps issued by the fourth class offices. This plan would probably meet with much opposition, as it would mar the artistic appearance of the engraving.

If the plan for the identification of stamps had been adopted last year the theft of $70,000 worth of stamps from the Chicago post office would probably not have occurred. No thief could dispose of such a large number of stamps so well marked that they could be identified as coming from the Chicago post office. Until this time inspectors have not found any of the stamps taken from the Chicago office, and they believe the stamps are still held by thieves. Among the property was $700 worth of special delivery stamps. All the two cent stamps taken were of the type in use last year. If they have not been disposed of before this time it is not likely they will ever be sold, as a large quantity of the old fashioned stamps in one part of the country would immediately arouse suspicion.

The government's loss in stolen stamps is small considering the great volume of business done by the post office department. Aside from the Chicago loss, the stamps stolen during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902, amounted to only $23,000. The report for the past fiscal year has not yet been compiled.—Washington Times.

THE THREE WISE MEN.

THE THREE WISE MEN of Gotham were no doubt wise enough in their way. It is probable that they knew a great deal about a whole lot of things, but they made a mistake when they went to sea in a boat, and that one error caused their undoing.

No matter how much care you take in the selection of your materials for your building or how experienced or reliable your mechanics, if you use inferior shingles you make a great mistake.

The covering of a building is the most important part of the materials used in the construction. "The weakest link is the strength of the chain," and "The poorest shingle determines the last of the roof." And it is poor economy to run so great a risk of having a leaky roof, to save such a trifling amount of money. Act wisely and buy best.

THE ELECTION IS NOW HISTORY.

The election of Tuesday shows, conclusively, that the white people of Maryland by a large majority are well pleased with the existing State government and willing to trust the Democratic party with four more years administration.

It is the sincere hope of the ADVERTISER that the political planks in our campaign platform will be steadfastly adhered to and nailed fast to the next four years of Democratic government.

One fact that stands prominently out as the result of the control by the Democrats of the next Legislature is that it means a determined effort upon the part of the party to eliminate the negro as a political factor in the State.

The present ballot law, passed in 1901 was fully expected to accomplish the elimination, but the fact, was made apparent after the 1901 election, that the negro had voted the ballot, to a considerable extent.

Just what plan will be devised to carry out their ideas and promises along this line by the Democrats is not yet known, but there is a settled purpose among them all that some constitutional but effective step must be taken at the coming session of the General Assembly.

Now for intelligent progressive and conservative government, peace, good order, good will, prosperity and happiness. The election is now an epoch of history, and we believe that time will reveal that the people exercising their freeman's rights have decided wisely and well.

DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT COM-MENDED.

The election of last Tuesday is very gratifying to the Democratic party as it shows that the people of our county approve of the clean business management of the county affairs that the party has given them.

The election was an exceptionally quiet one and the use of money was not in evidence as much as has been the case in years past.

Anyway, whether the League accomplished any practical results or not, the work is to be commended and all good citizens hope they will continue to push the cause of pure elections until the bribe givers and takers are forced out of business and our elections be as they should be, an unbiased and uninfluenced expression of the public conscience.

"SOLID SOUTH" RESTORED.

One result of Tuesday's election is that Maryland after March 4, 1908, will be represented by two Democrats in the United States Senate, of whom Arthur P. Gorman will be one.

Tuesday was one of the most quiet and orderly election days Wicomico has ever known. The Democrats turned out in full force and did their duty, electing the ticket by about the majority the Advertiser predicted last Saturday.

DEMOCRATS PLANNING

To Fill Their Platform Pledges And Eliminate the Negro As a Political Factor in Maryland.

Chairman Murray Vandiver, of the Democratic State Central Committee, in speaking of the approaching session of the Legislature and the probable action of the Democrats on the black vote problem Thursday, said:

"Every promise and pledge in our platform, adopted by the Democratic State Convention, will be carried out. That platform declared strongly for the supremacy of the white man in this State, and the result of the election on Tuesday shows that this was the plank in the platform that made the strongest appeal to the people."

office to which the Constitution does not require the incumbent to be elected by the qualified voters of the county, appointed and given the power of appointment to the Governor.

"Another plan would be to constitute each of the black counties into a municipal corporation and give to that corporation the management of all the local affairs. I see no constitutional difficulty in doing this."

Mr. Bryan's letter is as follows: "I take it that the negro does the most harm in electing improper and unqualified persons to local offices. If this can be prevented, not only will the evils of negro domination be greatly mitigated, so far as it affects local government, but his temptation to vote for general State offices will be greatly lessened by depriving his party associates of patronage with which to stimulate and reward his political activities."

Mrs. J. J. Redden who lives at 808 Naylor street says: 'I have had kidney trouble for four or five years. I caught cold and it settled in my kidneys and caused inflammation. I have been so bad at times I was compelled to stop work as I could not attend to my household duties. I had been subject to boils every year in the spring or some time during the summer. I used a great many remedies for my kidneys and wore plasters but without permanent relief I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and got a box at White & Leonard's drug store. I had not taken them more than a week before I noticed their good effects and when I had finished the box I was very much improved. I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other sufferers from kidney troubles. For the boils or abscesses with which I was troubled I tried Doan's Ointment and found that it is all it is claimed to be.'

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

New Way Of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: 'As a part of that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following. A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy that the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby.' This remedy is for sale by All Druggists.

His Seven Reasons. Bishop Willard Francis Mallalieu of the Methodist church is opposed to the diminutive salaries that congregations are able to do better sometimes pay to their pastors.

'What church?' said I. 'Oh,' said he, 'no church; the wholesale hat business.'

'But why did you leave the church?' I asked. 'For seven reasons,' said he. 'And what,' said I, 'were they?' 'A wife,' he answered, 'and six children.'

In the new method of the study and photography of birds instead of attempting to go to the bird the bird is brought directly before the observer, nest, young, branch and all. The nest, whatever its original position, is moved with its supports to a favorable place for study. A green tent is then pitched beside it, and under this perfect screen the observer can watch by the hour and accurately record the shifting panoramic scenes of nest life. One might suppose that birds would desert their homes under such conditions and thus promptly forget the old site, adopt the new one and defend it with all their customary vigor and persistence.—Century.

THE STOMACH AT WORK.

X Rays Show a Contented Mind is Essential to Good Digestion.

Until within very recent years any exact scientific knowledge of the actual workings of the stomach had been impossible because there was no way in which a normal stomach could be visibly observed while digesting a comfortable dinner. The discovery of the X ray, however, has been utilized during the past few years by Dr. W. B. Cannon of the Harvard Medical school in a study of digestive processes that presents an interesting chapter in modern scientific investigation.

The operations of a cat's digestive organs so far as they are known are very much like a man's, and although the cat's stomach is not impervious to the X ray, if the cat had swallowed a small metal button the X ray, as everybody now knows, would produce a shadowgraph of that button. This fact is the basis of the Harvard scientists' remarkable series of experiments. The cat was given a substantial meal of bread softened with milk and mixed with sublimated bismuth which is harmless, nonirritating powder which presents the necessary condition of being impervious to the X ray—and placed in a position to be observed, arranged especially with a view to the animal's comfort during the ensuing period of digestion.

About five minutes after the meal of bread, milk and bismuth the outline of the cat's stomach, as represented by its contents, appeared on the screen of the X ray apparatus, the screen being above and the mechanism for generating the X ray being beneath the support on which the cat rested. For a few minutes this shadow remains quiet, but from this time on until bread and substrate of bismuth have left the stomach the inner mechanism works under ordinary conditions with clocklike regularity, and the outline of the shadow is in constant motion, visibly undulating in monotonous response to a series of waves passing over its surface and showing plainly the method by which the stomach churns and digests its contents. These waves, starting near the center of the stomach and moving toward the intestines, recur at ten second intervals. When one wave is just beginning several others are visible running on ahead of it, and during a single period of digestion their number reaches the amazing total of about 2,600 succeeding waves.

One of the interesting facts visibly illustrated by this curious shadow pantomime is the close relation between the condition of the mind and that of the stomach. When the cat became angry at any cause, for example, the waves that had been following each other regularly over the stomach ceased moving, and digestion was evidently entirely suspended. On one occasion when the undulations were coursing regularly over the stomach the animal suddenly changed from a condition of peaceful sleepiness and began to breathe quickly and endeavor to get loose from her fastenings. As soon as this change took place the undulations of the stomach stopped, and its outline presented a smooth, rounded appearance. The operator continued his observations, stroking the cat reassuringly, and in a few moments pussy was again purring contentedly and the stomach had resumed its monotonously regular motion. In short, any experience of strong feeling on the part of the animal immediately reflected by the action of the stomach, a scientific observation that should lead thoughtful humans to get mad or worry if they must get mad or worry before meals, but never immediately afterward.

The stomach itself, or, rather, the shadow of its contents as thrown on the screen of the X ray apparatus, naturally becomes less and less visible as digestion progresses and begins to the greatest sufferer may cast off his burden of disease and become well, strong, and happy. It proves, too, that the great medicine maintains more fully than ever before its unrivaled place in the estimation of people of wealth and social standing as well as with the masses.

Mr. Brown says: 'I acknowledge with thankfulness and pleasure the fact that I have been cured of a very painful illness of eight years' standing by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. I had, during the years of my illness, tried almost all the advertised medicines without deriving any good results. I was also treated by several of the best doctors of this city, hoping to find that one of them, at least, would understand my case.'

'I was getting worse, and was told I was incurable. I was lured in a critical condition. I could not go from the house alone, as I was liable to sudden collapse. I tried hospital treatment, but no relief or good results came to me. I could not sleep; anything that I ate increased my agonies; I was extremely weak, restless, tired, and despondent; was obliged to walk about with my hands pressed firmly into my left side to ease my pains; my feet and hands were cold continually; had inclination to vomit, had profuse, cold sweats, quick breathing, and would be racked with pain for hours at a time.'

'After the regular use of Paine's Celery Compound for a time, I am now in the best of health, have good appetite, and can use any kind of food. Thank God I am my old self more, all through the use of Paine's Celery Compound.'

Rescued from Suffering and Death by PAINE'S Celery Compound THE GREAT MEDICINE.

MR. ALFRED BROWN, A Prominent and Popular Citizen, Says: 'After the Use of Paine's Celery Compound, I Am Now in the Best of Health.'

The greatest of modern physicians, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., after years of long practice and close scientific study, gave to suffering and diseased men and women his marvelous, life giving prescription, with the conviction and positive knowledge that it had peculiar virtues and ample powers to cure.

Thousands of the strongest testimonials from the best known and most reliable men and women of our country fully sustain the claims made by Dr. Phelps regarding his incomparable Paine's Celery Compound.

One of the most convincing proofs furnished comes recently from a gentleman widely known in the capital city of the Dominion of Canada. We refer to Mr. Alfred Brown, of Ottawa, Ont. Mr. Brown's letter fully demonstrates the fact that the greatest sufferer may cast off his burden of disease and become well, strong, and happy.

It proves, too, that the great medicine maintains more fully than ever before its unrivaled place in the estimation of people of wealth and social standing as well as with the masses.

Mr. Brown says: 'I acknowledge with thankfulness and pleasure the fact that I have been cured of a very painful illness of eight years' standing by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. I had, during the years of my illness, tried almost all the advertised medicines without deriving any good results. I was also treated by several of the best doctors of this city, hoping to find that one of them, at least, would understand my case.'

'I was getting worse, and was told I was incurable. I was lured in a critical condition. I could not go from the house alone, as I was liable to sudden collapse. I tried hospital treatment, but no relief or good results came to me. I could not sleep; anything that I ate increased my agonies; I was extremely weak, restless, tired, and despondent; was obliged to walk about with my hands pressed firmly into my left side to ease my pains; my feet and hands were cold continually; had inclination to vomit, had profuse, cold sweats, quick breathing, and would be racked with pain for hours at a time.'

'After the regular use of Paine's Celery Compound for a time, I am now in the best of health, have good appetite, and can use any kind of food. Thank God I am my old self more, all through the use of Paine's Celery Compound.'

A JIM CROW LAW

Has Excellent Show Of Being Passed At 1904 Session Of Legislature In Maryland. Eastern Shore Strongly
In Favor Of It.

Democrats who are in a position to know do not hesitate to say that one outcome of their recent success at the polls and their control of both branches of the next General Assembly will be the passage of a Jim Crow bill by the legislature. They claim that such legislation will follow their success as logically as the enactment of legislation limiting the suffrage as for as possible to the white race by constitutional amendment or by an ordinary law, if it is possible to do so.

Asia well known the object of Jim Crow legislation is to provide separate compartments on steamboats, railroad and street cars for the two races. The steamboats which ply between Baltimore and points in Virginia, where Jim Crow car law is in effect, are equipped with separate compartments, one for white and one for colored passengers. The system is practically in effect on the Shenandoah Valley Railroad, which runs through Washington county, though it is enforced by no law. The Shenandoah Valley Railroad extends from Hagerstown, Md., to Roanoke, Va. About 15 miles of this road is in Maryland, and about the same length in West Virginia, where there is no Jim Crow law. But the Norfolk and Western road enforces the Virginia law throughout its entire length. A colored passenger who gets into the train at Hagerstown is compelled to take the compartment for colored people.

Two years ago a colored preacher was ejected from a white car on this road at Charles Town, Va. It was said in the papers at the time that he appealed to the Governor of West Virginia, and that the latter directed the attorney general to inquire into the matter. Before the passage of the Virginia Jim Crow law the Norfolk and Western sold second class tickets to passengers who rode in the smoking car. Now all tickets are for first class passage.

Two years ago Delegate Giles, of Somerset county, made a most desperate attempt to secure a passage of a Jim Crow car bill applying to the whole state, and despite the narrow Democratic majority in the House he almost succeeded in securing the desired legislation. When the bill failed he received assurances from Democrats who had approved the original measure that if he limited the operation of his bill to the Eastern Shore counties they would support it. The bill was amended to have local application on the Peninsula, but it again failed.

MANUFACTURERS JOIN

In Combine Under Name Of Marvyl Packing
Co. With Main Office At Laurel, Del.
Mr. A. W. Robinson of Sharp-
town, Manager. Wicomico
Lumber Co. Absorbed.

A new corporation has been formed under the laws of Delaware by which five large-berry crate and basket factories unite under one management known as the Marvyl Packing Co., with headquarters at Laurel, Del. The firms entered into the combination are Crane, Hynson and Valliant, of Chestertown, with Mr. Valliant, secretary and treasurer; J. D. Marvyl & Co. of Laurel, with H. F. Marvyl of the firm president and J. D. Marvyl vice president; N. Ward & Co., of Laurel; A. W. Robinson & Co., of Sharptown with A. W. Robinson, general manager; Schofield Barnes & Co. of Pocomoke City. In addition to this the Wicomico Lumber Co., which is also a Delaware Corporation has been absorbed by the combination. This company owns extensive gum timber land in the south from which the gum of recent years has come to supply the Sharptown and Laurel factories. One of the objects of the combine is to increase the facilities of transportation and also to increase the use and consumption of the timber and thus reduce in a measure the expense of the timber used in the manufacture of crates and baskets. The capital stock is placed at one million dollars and there will likely be a widening and extending of the business.

The first small baskets are said to have been made in New York State just after the close of the war or about 1866. These were crude and the crating or boxing also crude and met with a very limited sale and did not enter into the history of the now universal crate and baskets. In the year 1870, Joshua H. Marvyl of Laurel, Del., began the manufacture of the regular berry crate and basket and also the peach basket. In 1871, Joshua H. Marvyl and John Robinson of Sharptown procured a patent on the four slab quart basket which came in general use on this Peninsula and thus Mr. Marvyl, together with Mr. Robinson became not only the pioneers of the berry crate and baskets of the Peninsula, but of the world as well. The four slab quart basket was changed to the two slab which is now universally used. In the crates there have been several styles, but the original patent of crates, baskets, and trays has been very closely adhered to and but little change or improvement made save in the material which has been made much lighter in weight.

While the men, women and children on the Peninsula have been toiling at the slab pile, over the tray bench or at the basket forms, eight to twelve months in the year, for more than a quarter of a century, the promoters, financiers, speculators and monopolists have been watching these busy hands with an eagle's eye endeavoring to catch at one great swoop these various plants, that dot not only this Peninsula here and there, but are now to be found in almost every State in the Union. That this great catch will be made, now seems pretty well assured. This new combination is not a new plan. As far back as twenty years ago, and almost every succeeding year, some efforts have been made to secure uniform prices of the products of the various factories manufacturing crates and baskets, but little has been accomplished. The great scheme has lain in embryo waiting for Sharptown to produce the man for the work in the person of A. W. Robinson who has aided largely and almost solely in the great plans which mark a new era in the crate and basket manufacturing, not only on this Peninsula but will affect the business eventually in the various states of the Union. The economy of management, the control of markets, the lessening of the cost of material used by buying in large quantities are business reasons for the combination as seen by the observer. The plan of grouping business enterprises rather than competing in the modern method of promoters and financiers and the manifold benefits are evident from a financial point of view. At present we see nothing alarming in the basket combine from a consumer's point of view, as its material effect will be while at least be limited to those interested in the concern. L. T. C.

ZUG—VEASEY NUPTIALS

Celebrated In The Methodist Protestant
Church Wednesday Evening. A
Notable Event Among Society
Of Pocomoke.

A notable attendance of relatives and friends gathered in the Methodist Protestant Church at Pocomoke City to witness the marriage of Miss Marietta Richards Veasey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Veasey to Mr. Charles K. Zug, of Philadelphia, at seven thirty o'clock, Wednesday evening, the officiating clergyman being Rev. George M. Clayton.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk crepe de chine, trimmed with lace and hand embroidery, and a tulle veil. She entered the church on the arm of her brother Dr. C. A. Veasey, of Philadelphia, and was given away by her father.

After the marriage service a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Zug left on the midnight train for the north and will be at home at The Newport, Philadelphia, after January 1.

The maid of honor was, Miss Carrie Elizabeth Veasey, sister of the bride.

Flower-girl—Miss Winna M. Veasey, niece of the bride.

Best man—Mr. Harry M. Zug, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., brother of the groom.

Organist—Mr. Philip Goeppe, of the Church of the New Jerusalem of Philadelphia.

Bride's Maids—Miss Marian T. Veasey, of Salisbury, Miss Ella F. Schofield, of Pocomoke, Miss Minnie L. Young.

Ushers—Mr. William Sinclair Ashbrook, of Philadelphia, Mr. John M. Rhey, of Carlisle, Pa., Mr. Lemuel F. Appold, of Baltimore, Md., Mr. Milton L. Veasey, of Pocomoke.

Among the out of town guests were: Mrs. S. C. Oswald, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Thomas, Jr., of Mechanicsburg, Pa., Mrs. Wm. M. Stewart, Jr., of Wisabickon Heights, Philadelphia, Mr. A. H. Winsterstein, of Philadelphia, Mr. and Mrs. S. King White, of Salisbury, Miss Mabel Elliott, of Laurel, Del., Mr. A. J. Morse, of Baltimore, Miss Lily F. Hoen, of Baltimore, Capt. and Mrs. W. F. Veasey, Mrs. Gullette, Misses Sadie and Lonise Veasey of Salisbury.

President Roosevelt Again Names
Crum

President Roosevelt adheres to his determination to compel the people of Charleston, S. C. to submit to a continuance of the service of Dr. William D. Crum, the negro Collector of the Port of that city. The nomination of Dr. Crum was again sent to the Senate Tuesday.

The Senate Committee on Commerce reported adversely on Crum's nomination during the Fifty seventh Congress, and it voted of confirmation, without being called on by the Senate. The people of Charleston vigorously opposed this appointment. But on the adjournment of Congress without confirming Crum the President made him a recess appointment.

The course of the President in again nominating Crum and the reintroduction of negro suffrage question in the House are regarded as indicative of a purpose to keep alive the race issue.

District Sunday School Convention At Bivalve Next Week.

A District Sunday School Convention will be held in the M. P. Church at Bivalve on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 21st and 22nd, beginning on Saturday morning at 10.30 a. m.

The first session will be mainly devoted to a prayer and praise service. Questions of vital importance to the success of Sunday School work will be discussed in the afternoon and night. The Sunday service will consist of an old fashioned Methodist Experience Meeting at 9.30 a. m., the delivery of a sermon at 10.30 by the State Superintendent, Childrens Mass Meeting at 2.30 p. m. and a general Sunday School Conference at 7.30. This conference will be preceded by a Song Service.

The District Convention held at Bivalve several years ago was so largely attended that they were compelled to hold the services in the Groves and it is very likely that the approaching Convention will create as much interest.

State Bar Association.

President George Whitlock called a meeting of the committee on judicial administration and legal reform and of the members of the advisory committee of the Maryland State Bar Association to be held at the office of Mr. Conway W. Sams, in the Bank of Baltimore Building, at 12 o'clock Thursday, to consider matters for legislation at the next meeting of the legislature.

The members of the committee on judicial administration and legal reform are: Joseph O. France, chairman; Judge Henry Page, Hope H. Barrall, Thomas H. Robinson, Judge Robert R. Henson, John G. Rogers, Judge Ashley M. Gould, L. Allison Wittmer and Oscar Leever.

Pe-ru-na for Catarrh.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters all over the United States. A recommendation recently received from a Catholic institution in the Southwest reads as follows:

"A Prominent Mother Superior Says:
"I can testify from experience to the efficiency of Peruna as one of the very best medicines, and it gives me pleasure to add my praise to that of thousands who have used it. For years I suffered with catarrh of the stomach, all remedies proving valueless for relief. Last spring I went to Colorado, hoping to be benefited by a change of climate and while there a friend advised me to try Peruna. After using two bottles I found myself very much improved. The remains of my old disease being now so slight, I consider myself cured, yet for a while I intend to continue the use of Peruna. I am now treating another patient with your medicine. She has been sick with malaria and troubled with leucorrhoea. I have not a doubt that a cure will be speedily effected."

These are samples of letters received by Dr. Hartman from the various orders of Catholic Sisters throughout the United States.

The names and addresses to these letters have been withheld from respect to the Sisters but will be furnished upon request.

One-half of the diseases which afflict mankind are due to some catarrhal derangement of the mucous membrane lining some organ or passage of the body.

A remedy that would act immediately upon the congested mucous membrane restoring it to its normal state, would consequently cure all these diseases. Catarrh is catarrh wherever located, whether it be in the head, throat, lungs, stomach, kidneys, or pelvic organs. A remedy that will cure it in one location will cure it in all locations.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address: Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

years' standing, and I would not have been without it for anything. It helped several Sisters of coughs and colds and I have yet to find one case of catarrh that it does not cure."—Sister Beatrix.

From a Catholic Institution in Central Ohio comes the following recommendation from the Sister Superior.

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's Peruna as an excellent remedy for the influenza of which we then had several cases which treated to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Peruna has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, cold, cough and bronchitis."

Another recommendation from a Catholic Institution of one of the Central States written by the Sister Superior reads as follows:

"A number of years ago our attention was called to Dr. Hartman's Peruna, and

Consumption

Salt pork is a famous old-fashioned remedy for consumption. "Eat plenty of pork," was the advice to the consumptive 50 and 100 years ago.

Salt pork is good if a man can stomach it. The idea behind it is that fat is the food the consumptive needs most.

Scott's Emulsion is the modern method of feeding fat to the consumptive. Pork is too rough for sensitive stomachs. Scott's Emulsion is the most refined of fats, especially prepared for easy digestion.

Feeding him fat in this way, which is often the only way, is half the battle, but Scott's Emulsion does more than that. There is something about the combination of cod liver oil and hypophosphites in Scott's Emulsion that puts new life into the weak parts and has a special action on the diseased lungs.

A sample will be sent free upon request. Be sure that this picture in the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

BERLIN.
—Miss Ella Purnell is this week shopping in Philadelphia.
—Mrs. Harmonson attended the marriage in Snow Hill Wednesday.
—Mrs. Jane Powell is visiting in Salisbury for a week.
—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Hudson have returned from their northern outing.
—Mr. W. A. Disharoon spent Thursday in Salisbury where he consulted Dr. Dick of the Peninsula General Hospital.
—Miss Maud Whaley, now residing in Bishopville came on the noon train Wednesday and will make her sister, Mrs. John T. Keas a short visit.
—Mr. E. Stanton Adkins, one of Salisbury's wide awake and up to date lumber dealers, was registered at the Atlantic Wednesday night.
—Bishop Adams will officiate and preach at St. Paul's Church, Berlin Sunday, both, morning and night. Seats free. A cordial welcome to all.
—Mrs. William Holloway visited her friend Miss Nellie Jones, Wednesday, attending the Purnell-Wharton wedding Thursday morning.
—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Savage were in Bordentown, N. J. this week visiting their daughter, Miss Rydie Savage, also Philadelphia on the return Wednesday.
—Bishop Adams, of Easton, on his way to Snow Hill, also Judge Martin, of the same place were in Berlin Wednesday for a brief stay.
—Mr. Jno. Scott came Tuesday and for the present is a guest of his brother, Mr. Geo. Scott. He is a resident of Philadelphia and doing a fine business.
—Mrs. Henry Godfrey and daughter, Miss Jennie, will close their summer home, Ingleside, and will be comfortably domiciled in Baltimore until spring.
—The fox hunt Tuesday was seemingly a drawing card. Miss Kate Hammond and Mrs. William West joined the sportsmen and following the hounds to a finish.
—Capt. Ludlam is still fishing his pound and catching a fair haul, which net him big money, helping him largely to tide over his losses by the late storm.
—Mr. Edward Kurtz, one of our genial associates, and connected with the Atlantic, took his departure Thursday morning for Philadelphia and Westville, N. J., his former home.
—Mrs. Jennie Spence, mother of Prof. Spence, was a guest of the Whaley's last week, also making Mrs. Sarah Franklin a brief visit, leaving for Snow Hill Saturday afternoon.
—Mr. and Mrs. William Borwell, who have been north on their wedding trip for two weeks, were guests of Mrs. Levin Dirickson Tuesday and Wednesday on their return home—Chincoteague, Va.

—One of our ladies who has taken the deepest interest, and is still full of Democratic patriotism, claims herself at least two feet taller since the election returns. Sincerely trust the next election will not take her out of sight.
—Miss Gay Harrington's many Berlin friends are pleased to have her in our midst once more and delighted to see her looking so much like her former self. She is a guest of her sister at the home of the Rev. Mr. Brooks on Broad Street.
—A lovely afternoon and a most enjoyable evening was spent at the Baggot cottage, Ocean City, the first of the week. Our home return by a bright moonlight proved to be most charmingly romantic, pleasantly completing the day's outing.
—Lieutenant Frederick Pitts of the engineer corps, who has passed the last two years in the Philippines, has been a most interesting guest of his cousin, Mrs. Dr. Edward J. Dirickson at the Cedars for a week, leaving Friday for Nebraska.

—Dr. Zadok P. Henry has located and opened his office in Dr. T. Y. Franklin's drug building. Dr. Henry, since graduating has had a varied experience in hospital work that has eminently fitted him for any emergency and we predict for the Doctor a bright and successful future.
—Miss May Hubbell Purnell, oldest daughter of Mr. Clayton J. Purnell, and Mr. Thomas Parker Wharton, of Stockton, a son of Mr. Zadok P. Wharton, were married at eleven o'clock Thursday in the Makemie Memorial Presbyterian Church, Snow Hill, by the Rev. Mr. North. Our town was well represented and wished the bridal couple a happy voyage through life.

—Mr. George Tyson Kenly, father of Mr. E. G. Kenly, celebrated his 89th birthday on Sunday, November 8th, at Malvern farm. Mr. Kenly enjoys excellent health and still takes a deep interest in the affairs of the State, being much pleased by the election of his nephew, the Hon. Edwin Warfield, for Governor.
—Judge Uphur Dennis this week had the pleasure of receiving a 10lb. sea shad from Billie McKew, Ocean City. The Judge will appreciate the donation, but would very much rather have hung him on his own hook. The present catch would most willingly accept a smaller specimen from Billie and be truly thankful.

—The Diamond State Telephone Co., have cause to feel gratified that they have in their employ a gentleman of Mr. Wainwright's ability, energy and push. Berlin has had the pleasure of his society for the past two weeks and his many friends will regret his transfer to some other section of their interest. Mr. Wainwright is by birth a Delawarean.

REPUBLIC OF PANAMA
As Recognized By The United States And France. Its People And Their Occupations. About Same Number Of Inhabitants As Eastern Shore.

The commerce of Panama amounts to about 8 million dollars per annum, its population to about 800 thousand, and its area to 81,071 square miles, or nearly equal to that of the State of Indiana. These figures are supplied by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics, and are the latest available data on commerce, population, and area. Those of commerce are from the reports of the United States consuls at Panama and Colon, which have just been received, and not yet published; those of population are based upon the latest official estimate, which shows the population in 1881, and was based upon the census of 1871; while the figures of area are from accepted geographical authorities and are those of the area of the "Department of Panama" of the Colombian Republic. The principal ports are Panama, on the Pacific coast, and Colon, on the Atlantic side, and these ports are visited annually by more than one thousand vessels, which land over one million tons of merchandise and nearly 100 thousand passengers daily for transfer over the Panama Railway 47 miles in length, connecting the Pacific port of Panama with the Atlantic port of Colon.

Colon, or Aepinwall, as it is sometimes called, has a population of about three thousand persons. The city of Panama has a population of about 25 thousand. It was founded in 1519, burned in 1674, and rebuilt in 1675, while Colon is of much more recent date, having been founded in 1855. The population, which as indicated, amounts to about 800 thousand, is composed of various elements—Spanish, Indian, Negro, and a limited number of persons from the European countries and the United States, especially those engaged in commerce and transportation and the operation of the Panama Railway. A considerable number of the population is composed of persons brought to the Isthmus as laborers for the construction of the canal, and of their descendants. Since the abolition of slavery in Jamaica a considerable number of blacks and mulattoes have settled on the Isthmus as small cultivators and farmers, and in some villages on the Atlantic side they are said to be in the majority, and as a result the English language is much in use, especially on the Atlantic side. Some of the native population have retained their customs, speech, and physical type, especially those in the western part of the province, and claim to be descendants of the natives found in that section by the Spaniards when they discovered and conquered the country.

Of the commerce of Panama, the United States supplies a larger share than any other country. The imports at the port of Colon during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1908, as shown by that report of the United States consul, amounted to $932,684, of which $614,179 was from the United States, $119,968 from France, $118,923 from England, $76,388 from Germany. The figures of the fiscal year 1903 show a considerable increase from those of 1902, in which the value of the imports at Colon were $776,343. Of the $614,179 imports from the United States at Colon in 1908, $200,744 was dry goods, $189,383 provisions, $59,890 coal, $38,642 lumber, $32,600 kerosene, $30,400 liquor, and $31,940 hardware. The value of the importations from the United States in 1908 exceeded those of 1902 by about 160 thousand dollars. The exports to the United States from Colon in 1908 amounted to $178,370, of which $75,482 was bananas, $34,960 coconuts, $12,472 turtle shells, $9,400 ivory nuts, $6,460 hides, and $5,924 c. c.

From the port of Panama the exports to the United States in the fiscal year 1908 amounted to $198,842, of which $56,707 was hides, $49,974 India rubber, $27,805 cocobolo nuts, $16,598 ivory nuts, $13,872 deerkins, and $6,908 coffee. The consul at Panama states that the import articles come mostly from England, Germany, France, Italy, and the United States, but gives no statistics of the imports.
Panama is connected with San Francisco by a weekly steamer schedule operated by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, and with Valparaiso by a weekly steamer schedule operated by the Pacific Steam Navigation Company and South American Steamship Company. Two passenger and two freight trains leave Panama daily for Colon and Colon daily for Panama. The time for passenger trains over the 47 miles of rail-way is three hours.
From Panama there is one cable line north to American ports and one to the south. The actual time consumed in communicating with the United States and receiving an answer is stated by the consul to be usually about four hours. There are also cable lines from Colon to the United States and Europe.

The money of the country is silver, the rate of exchange having averaged during the past year about 150 per cent.

THE THREE WISE MEN.

THE THREE WISE MEN of Gotham were no doubt wise enough in their way. It is probable that they knew a great deal about a whole lot of things, but they made a mistake when they went to sea in a bowl, and that one error caused their undoing.
No matter how much care you take in the selection of your materials for your building or how experienced or reliable your mechanics, if you use inferior shingles you make a great mistake.
The covering of a building is the most important part of the materials used in the construction. "The weakest link is the strength of the chain," and "The poorest shingles determines the last of the roof." And it is poor economy to run so great a risk of having a leaky roof, to save such a trifling amount of money. Act wisely and buy best.

WOODLAND SCENES.

October! She has a light d... altar fires in the woods. The smoke of those fires is hanging beneath the clouds. Every white sparkle on the wing. Echo's passing breeze is freighted with incense. May the time slowly come when those autumn flames shall be quenched! Sa! the sight of empty sites! Sa! the sight of shaded embers. Sa! the sight of ashes strewn on the road and paths. Let the tempest feet of winter, the iconoclast of the year, tarry and his snow-laden hands be stayed.

Home wrote the Illad; Virgil wrote the Aeneid; Milton wrote Paradise Lost; and Bryant wrote Thanatopsis. But it is God who writes the poem of October woods. In fact, the woods of October are a library of poems, each colored leaf a blazing poem, every twig supporting poem, the ground covered with poems. He who has never read the illustrated poem of October woods does not know what true rhythm is. God's music of syllabication outwails all human rhyming as easily as a star cluster outshines a pin-point. There is no poetry like the poetry of God. Man's rhetoric is but "in-el" in comparison with the golden rhetoric of divine genius.

The wonder is that there are so many persons in the world who are blind to the beauty of Nature. They walk beneath a sky that is a treasury of infinitely, seldom or never seeing its living architecture of cloud, indifferent to its art gallery of sunrises and sunsets and beholding not the silver lamps that gleam through the pines, the wider great constellations at night. So are they insensible to the glory of the Lord upon the landscape around them, the hills and fields a configuration of splendor, filled, as in Elisha's day, with horses and chariots of fire, those chariots driven by the angels of the sunshine. In like manner are they dead to the masterpieces of painting that God hangs along the walls of October woods, both within and without, and the wonderful frescoes that God's brush traces across the ceiling of His forest temples in entrancing combination of color.

What is the matter? The trouble often is that the eyes of men are dead shot with gold dust. They can see nothing except what ministers to this passing, ephemeral life. Just as cattle graze in the meadows with no thought above the grass that they crop, so thousands of the world's higher creatures are all intent upon making the most of perishable things, cultivating their animal nature at the expense of that which is spiritual. It would be well if more of us who are immortal, like Bunkin, like Shakspere, like Woodworth, yea, better, like David and Isaiah and Amos, would become acquainted with Nature, thus coming into touch with God and discovering the flashing link that binds us to Him.

It is not a lam-n-able-some that so many of God's images in human life are marred by sensuality? This is the one note of discord in the harmonies of earth. This is the one muddy stream that pours its waters into the ocean of earth's purity. This is the one defiling hand that is smearing the fair picture of earth. Write it not for the presence of sin in the world, this globe might be a suburb of the celestial city. What is sin? Sin is that disorder of the soul which excludes God from the heart. It is sin that dulls the eyes of men against the grandeur of God's world. When God is called back into the life, the gates of Eden open again, and once more is the earth a garden of the Lord.

It is the experience of those who are here to know that when the soul is drawn into right relationship with God the world becomes glorified. Redeemed man beholds the world as he never before saw it. The eyes are cleared. Former things have retreated into the background. Everywhere there is change.

What does that mean? In the Apocalypse John saw the City of God descending from God out of heaven. A life vision comes to those who enter God's blessed kingdom as regenerated spirits. Heaven falls upon their outer world, and it is transparent. That is a fortunate of what Paul terms the "far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

But "the fashion of this world passeth away." That is another lesson engraved upon the leaves of woodland scenes at this time of year. We are passing away with it. As the leaves fade so we fade. Is it a mournful, melancholy thought? Is the expression of it like the sound of a dirge? Not if we are moving on into a happy immortality. The body may fade, the eyes grow dim, the energies fall, the brain totter from its throne of intellectuality, but the spirit is taking wings. Death to the Christian is a call to stretch forth tireless pinions and upward fly—soaring home to God.

It seems to me, as I look at October's woodland scenes, that the faints of autumn may be called dying grace. Imagining the foliage to be golden matter, I heard the leaves saying in the summer, "A breeze from the North came yesterday with a stern message. We must soon die." Then they shivered with fear. But now that the time has come to die, with radiance in their departure! It is as if angels were hovering and supernatural songs breaking through the hazy air. Unseen hands are touching the woods, making death far more beautiful than life.

"The woods are aching for the death of the Christian soul. They are saying, 'Be not afraid, O soul, of death. When death comes, God will give thee dying gladness.'" Death robes life in its decay with the splendor of heaven. Death is not a terror, except to those who are not ready to meet God. To those who dwell in the shadow of Christ's Cross death is an angel dressing autumn woods in rainbow hues.

To Be Made with Trimmings, Oriental Embroidery, of Cloak Materials. Long coats that are tucked at both front and back are among the features of latest styles and give just the long slender lines demanded by fashion. This one is made of black satin faced cloth with trimmings of Oriental embroidery, in dull colors edged with black velvet, but the design suits all cloak and suiting materials. The

The coat is made with a blouse portion, that is fitted by means of shoulder and underarm seams, and the tunic which is joined to the blouse beneath the belt. Both portions are tucked and stitched with silk. The sleeves are made in two parts, the upper portions being exceptionally wide and plaited to form the full puffs.

White Wyandottes.

We herewith present our readers with an illustration of the White Wyandottes. They are of American origin, and are a "sport" from the well-known Wyandottes. They originated some years ago, and now are added to the long list of varieties of poultry. It requires comparatively less time to "fix" the characteristics of poultry than of general live stock, and to perpetuate their peculiarities so they can merit the term of "breed." It cannot be done in a few years. This estab-

IN THE APIARY.

Successful wintering of bees depends, to a great extent, on their management. Late, unsealed honey is poor food for winter, and should never be used for feeding purposes. If extracting be continued late, there is more or less danger, unless full sealed combs have been set aside for this purpose; otherwise the late unsealed honey may be extracted, and good sugar syrup be substituted.

In harvesting fall honey, the extractor is invaluable, for the bees will not store the honey in boxes when combs must be built, nearly so fast as in the brood chamber, where instinct teaches them it must be filled for winter.

Keep no queenless stocks unless it is intended to introduce queens, in which case, one or two combs of hatching brood, from stocks that can best spare them, should be inserted, in order to secure young bees for winter. It is quite necessary to keep the can of the hive warm at night by artificial means, as the bees are very apt to leave boxes when the nights are cool, and thus retard their work to such an extent that we have many unfinished boxes, where, with the necessary warmth, they would have been completed.

Where the honey harvest has ceased, the bees may be divided, giving them young queens. Where any stocks have old queens, these should be destroyed, and young queens introduced. With a little care, the supply of queens can be kept on hand. At this time of the year, should feeding be necessary for this purpose, feed as fast as possible, unless it is desired to stimulate brood rearing, when the entrance feeder may be used with good effect. Keep the queens laying as long as possible, to have a populous stock.—W. B. Treadwell.

White Wyandottes.

We herewith present our readers with an illustration of the White Wyandottes. They are of American origin, and are a "sport" from the well-known Wyandottes. They originated some years ago, and now are added to the long list of varieties of poultry. It requires comparatively less time to "fix" the characteristics of poultry than of general live stock, and to perpetuate their peculiarities so they can merit the term of "breed." It cannot be done in a few years. This establishing new breeds is a pleasant pastime for amateur breeders, and no doubt goes far towards maintaining the interest in thoroughbred poultry; but when it comes to the really desirable, economic and profitable points, there may be some objections raised. The typical White Wyandottes are of medium size, have clean, yellow legs, rose-colored combs, and mature rapidly. The most enthusiastic friends of this new breed even do not claim any special excellence for it, but are now possessed by the standard breed of Wyandottes, except the white plumage, which appears to be its chief, if not its only, recommendation. Thus far we fall to see any decided improvement upon the breed from which they are an offshoot, and while they may be of some interest to amateur breeders, we would not advise one to discard the beautiful laced Wyandottes for these new-comers. Those who fancy solid colored breeds cannot fall to be well pleased with these new claimants for popular favor, for while they are not "better than the best," they are worthy of attention and trial.

Fibroid Tumors Cured. A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. "The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT PEARSON'S MAGAZINE FOR 1904

PEARSON'S MAGAZINE appeals to every member of the family. In the words of a subscriber, "It is the easy-to-read Magazine." It is different from any other magazine, and by that quality, although less than five years old, has taken its place among the very best sellers. Its field is a general one of wholesome entertainment and instruction.

Following are four of the special features for 1904:

- WALL STREET METHODS OF "FINANCE" By HENRY GEORGE, JR. A number of true accounts of some of the Wall Street "deals" by which the savings of the many have been sacrificed to satisfy the voracious few. Read these articles and realize the wisdom of the advice of the late Governor Roosevelt. Follow the party of the friends to "save your money in your pocket."
- MODERN INDIAN WARS By CURYUS TOWNSEND BRADY A brilliant and thrilling history of the border frontier of the past forty years, giving a complete public service of such authors as Miles, Lester, Cannon, Forester, A. Westcott, McKenzie, Howard, Wacker, Davis, Smith, Barry and others; taking Indian facts out of the category of boys' story books and discarding them with their proper place in the history of our nation. A series of six or eight articles.
- TOM NAST, CARTOONIST By ALBERT BIGELOW PAINE Illustrated by the sketches of the world-famous cartoonist of the man who has been described as the "Father of Political Cartoons" and the "Father of the Political Cartoon." The biography of Nast is a very great world's picture of the times when history was warm in the nation.
- THE REVELATIONS OF AN INTERNATIONAL SPY Which ran in 1902 through the first six months of 1903 will be reissued in January, 1904. This new set of detective stories has been arranged for in response to the demands of thousands of readers who regretted the termination of the first series of International Spy.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beats, vigour and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased. Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy, The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling some of Swamp-Root, including all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y. on every bottle.

EFFECT OF ELECTION ON PRESIDENTIAL POSSIBILITIES.

Viewed in the light of their effect upon the presidential campaign, the recent elections are regarded by the democrats as a great victory for the party. The republicans were severely defeated in Maryland, where President Roosevelt labored to aid his party in a contest where he and his unpopular attitude on the negro question formed the main issue.

ency in the schools that give the average boy all the education he ever gets is to be found, it is believed, in the multiplicity of subjects taught at the dictation of faddists, interested publishers and ignorant school authorities. The latter are perpetually adding to the curriculum some new science or accomplishment, thus laying new burdens on the back of the harassed teacher.

The system is at fault. The boys get no thorough grounding in essentials, but are hurried on from grade to grade, digesting such scraps of knowledge as they can. The remedy is to sweep away the ruck ofologies which prevent a thorough training and recur with constant emphasis to the three Rs, Reading, writing and arithmetic, taught with old-fashioned attention to spelling, would satisfy the educational requirements of the great majority of boys vastly better than the present chaotic curricula.

Resolutions, On The Departure Of Rev. Dr. Newton.

At a full meeting of the official board of Trinity M. E. Church, South, held on the 12th day of November, 1903, the resolutions adopted at the quarterly conference by a minority of the board were rescinded and the following adopted as more nearly expressing the sentiments of this official body, and the church membership:

- WHEREAS, Our pastor, the Rev. J. C. C. Newton, D. D., intends at the present year's end, to enter the Missionary work of our church in Japan, and this official body desires to place on record our esteem of his and our appreciation of his labor among us; therefore, RESOLVED, That we earnestly invoke the Divine blessing upon him and his family during their coming days of religious toil among the heathen and the Divine protection against every danger and evil.

Wharton-Purnell Wedding.

Miss May Purnell, daughter of Mr. Clayton J. Purnell, was married to Mr. Thomas P. Wharton at Makemie Memorial Presbyterian Church, Snow Hill Thursday. The bride wore a white lace gown over taffeta, veiled with chiffon, and with pearl collar and girde, and carried Bride roses. The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo with small white roses and a pearl crescent, the groom's gift. Miss Bessie Purnell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore pink chiffon, unplaqued over pink taffeta; a white chiffon hat, with pink roses and white plum, and carried white chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids were Miss Lola B. Moore, Miss Katherine Towne, Miss Helen Gordon Moore and Miss Lucille Collins. They wore white plisse and lace over taffeta and white chiffon picture hats, with white plumes. They carried white chrysanthemums. The best man was Mr. Edward M. Wharton, brother of the groom. The ushers were Messrs. Charles A. Towne, C. V. White, William Wharton and Dr. William A. Taylor.

State Board of Health.

At the meeting of the State Board of Health Wednesday, Secretary Dr. John S. Fulton informed the board that small-pox cases prevailed in two counties of the state—Garrett county, where there was one case; in Allegany, where 14 cases were reported in one house. "The cases are well in hand by the local health authorities," said Mr. Fulton, and "no trouble need be feared by the residents who live near the infected district."

ON THE RACE QUESTION

Mr. Graves, A Distinguished Georgian Orator Advocates Separation Of White And Black Race As The Means Of Settling Problem. Says Eminent Statesman Favored This Plan.

Mr. John Temple Graves, of Georgia, in his recent address at the University of Chicago, presented for the consideration of the people of the United States a humane and practical solution of the negro problem. The remedy which he proposes is separation of the white and black races. Mr. Graves speaks from the standpoint of an American who believes that so long as this problem remains unsolved national unity will be an impossibility. He is not an enemy of the negro. On the contrary, in common with the best elements of the Southern people, he has a friendly feeling for the black race. But he is convinced that under the conditions which have existed since the emancipation enfranchisement of the black it is impossible for the two races in the South to live side by side on terms of political equality and amity.

The experiment has now had 85 years of trial, backed by the power of Federal Government. But, as Mr. Graves emphatically asserts, and as every intelligent student of conditions in the Southern States must perceive, the experiment has failed. "The races are wide apart and more antagonistic now than they were in 1863. There is less of sympathy and more of tension than they have known since the terrible days of reconstruction." In every Southern State where the negro's ballot is a menace to white supremacy it is restrained. The Fifteenth Amendment is practically repealed. The stronger race dominates even in those regions in which the black has a decisive majority. That is the situation after the experiment of lifting the negro to a plane of political equality with the white man has been tried for a generation and failed utterly and ignominiously.

Shall this experiment continue, or shall the American people seek a practical solution of the problem along different lines? That is the question which Mr. Graves puts to the reason, the sober second thought, the intelligence and conscience of the country. "Over the black body of the freedman," says the eloquent Georgian, "we have shed rivers of blood and treasure to emphasize our separate convictions of his destiny," with the result that "the negro is still a slave whipped by circumstance, trodden under foot by iron and ineradicable prejudice." His presence in the South hampers the material development of that region. "The shadow of an unsolved problem largely deters capital from investment there. It depresses agriculture and drives all who can afford the change to the safety afforded by proximity and police protection in the cities."

From first to last it is a race problem—an issue of race, not of politics; a thing of skin and type, not of section. It compasses the progress of the white man with demoralization and difficulty that put his very civilization in peril and disrepute. It wrajs the negro's destiny in unequal competition and leaves him helpless under the weight of a prejudice universal, unlifting, unchanging and overwhelming. "Education is not the remedy, in Mr. Graves' opinion, for by the records of the census the negro's criminality has increased as his illiteracy has decreased, and his race antagonism has grown with his intelligence." "Religion will not solve the problem this side of the millennium." The repeal of the Fifteenth Amendment would "cut hope and motive and ambition from his horizon and leave him sunken and degraded, with nothing to live for but his creature comfort and his lust." Separation of the races is the only solution of the problem according to Mr. Graves. The methods by which this separation shall be effected are not impracticable as outlined by this Georgian student of the race question.

Thomas Fortune, an educated negro who recently visited the Philippines, has published a report that the soil and climate of the islands are adapted to the black race and that there is ample territory for them there. There is room and opportunity for the American negro on other islands which have come into the possession of the United States in the last few years. If it be objected that the black man should not be sent so far away from the help and regulation and influence of the white people of this country, then a place may be found for him in the United States. The Government owns 400,000,000 acres of land in the West, as yet unoccupied and undeveloped. Experts have reported that it is practicable to irrigate this territory to support a population of 60,000,000. Even the transportation of the blacks of the United States to Africa could be accomplished with comparative ease. England has recently agreed to assume a debt of $500,000,000 to purchase peace and tranquility in Ireland. For less than $500,000,000, the separation of the white and black races in the United States could be accomplished and the greatest peril which menaces the nation would disappear. Mr. Graves points out that Thomas Jefferson, James Madison, Daniel Webster, Edward Everett, Abraham Lincoln who did not believe in the negro as a citizen and a voter moved in his public station towards a definite plan of separation. "Some of the ablest of the negro leaders, including Bishop Turner, of Georgia, are in favor of it. Mr. Graves states that he has received thousands of letters from negroes 'thanking me and bidding me God-speed with their prayers.'"

If, as the Georgian orator and student of the race problem apparently demoststrate, there are no unaccountable obstacles in the way of the separation of the races, the conservative, thoughtful and practical men who guide the destinies of this Republic should give serious consideration to his suggestion. "The United States is much richer than England and could well afford to spend $500,000,000 or more to settle a question which will continue to be a menace to the nation as long as it remains in the category of unsolved problems.—Baltimore Sun.

REV. ELWOOD ASKS FOR TRIAL

Before The New Castle Presbytery At Their Next Meeting In January.

The climax of an exciting session of the New Castle Presbytery in Forrest Church, Middletown, was reached Monday afternoon, when Rev. Robert A. Elwood, pastor of Olivet Presbyterian Church, of Wilmington, suddenly demanded that he be brought to trial by that body for his sermon, entitled "Should the Murderer of Miss Bishop be Lynched?" and delivered the night before the negro, George White, was burned at the stake. His request was granted, and the Presbytery will have the subject before it for several more months. The first attempt of the opponents of Elwood to show their hand was made soon after the session was opened, when a motion was put to exclude newspaper men from the session. This motion, however, was lost by a vote of 15 to 12. During the afternoon Mr. Elwood declared that he could not express any regret over the delivery of the sermon, because he had delivered it in all sincerity and with the idea of preventing mob violence. On different occasions he had been asked to express regret and that his sermon had been generally misunderstood, but he could not conscientiously do so.

Soon after the opening of the session, a report was presented from the committee which had the matter under consideration, composed of Rev. Dr. Reigart and Elders George W. Blake and S. M. Perry. The report reviewed the preaching of the sermon, censured it as indecent at the time and when the public mind was in an inflamed condition and declared that the fact that the lynching had followed showed that the sermon had borne fruit. None of the members of the committee favored a trial. After much discussion a special meeting of the Presbytery was ordered to be held in Dover on the third Tuesday in January. On that date the charge will be presented to the accused pastor. Under the church law the next meeting following must be held ten days later for the purpose of trying the case. Rev. J. S. Gillfillan and Joseph Brown Turner were appointed to prosecute the case on behalf of the Presbytery. Mr. Elwood will be defended by former attorney General Robert C. White.

Those present were: Misses Edith and Ruth Holder, Jean Leonard, Dorothy Sadler, Nellie Leatherbury, Rebecca Smyth, Martha Todd and Florence Grier; William Perry, Oscar Grier, Carl Waller, Walter Disharoon, Ralph Grier, Frank Adams, Charlie Hill and Frank Perry.

DEATH OF SIDNEY TURPIN The Fatal Result of An Accidental Shooting Last Tuesday. Sidney Turpin, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Turpin, of Kingstown, Somerset county, died early Thursday morning from the effect of a wound received by accident while gunning. Last Tuesday morning young Turpin went to Mr. Cannon's a neighbor, to go rabbit hunting with him. He set his gun in the corner of the room, and while waiting, Cannon's son, about 6 years old, picked up the gun which shot young Turpin, the load plowing a furrow directly under the heart and leaving that organ exposed to view. The young man lived in this condition more than 86 hours. His remains will be interred in St. Paul's Cemetery. Sidney Turpin was 16 years old and was generally loved by the community. Mr. Turpin, his father, was stricken with paralysis about 10 days ago, and is still in a critical condition. Importance Of Early Vaccinating—Dr. Fulton To Wicomico School Board. "We have addressed a letter to the School Boards of each county at the beginning of each of the last four school years, advising them of the prospect of extensive prevalence of small pox in Maryland. We hoped that the necessity for such advice would be much less this year. On the contrary, the chances for the spread of small pox in Maryland are now greater than ever. The disease prevails in every state contiguous to Maryland, and in Pennsylvania it has reached alarming proportions. The safety of the school-going children is definitely committed to the School Boards, but the subject of vaccination was neglected for many years prior to 1899, so that a good many young people are not protected against small pox. It is most essential that all the children of school going age in the State shall be protected in the manner directed by law, not for their own sakes alone, but equally for the welfare of the community. Please advise us as to the status of public school vaccination in your county. Yours very truly, JOHN S. FULTON, S. C. A Guaranteed Attraction. There are very few attractions on the road today that make a positive guarantee of satisfactory performance. The manager of Clifford T. Venie, presenting Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde, makes this guarantee: If you attend the play and are not satisfied with the performance, go to the box office and get your money back. Mr. Venie is one of the clever actors upon the present day stage, and his support comprises artists, including Miss Charlotte M. Bolton in the leading Emotional Role. There will be plenty of comedy and specialties. At Ulman's Opera House, Thursday evening, November 19. Prices, 25, 35, and 50. The remains of Mr. George W. Rider, who died at the Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Nov. 7th, were brought to Salisbury last Sunday on the steamer Virginia, and interred in the Parsons Cemetery. Mr. Rider was 78 years old. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Margaret Rider, and was an uncle of Mrs. E. E. Jackson, Messrs. William H. Rider, Noah H. Rider and John B. Rider. Mr. William H. Rider and Mr. Hugh Jackson accompanied the remains to Salisbury, where they were met by the following Salisbury Masons, who formed a body of escort to the grave: Messrs. W. S. Gordy, E. C. Fulton, R. D. Grier, F. A. Grier, A. R. Leonard, Harry Mayer, W. B. Tighman, A. A. Gillis, C. E. Harper, S. K. White, Rev. Wilcox, D. J. E. Holt, Harry Phillips, R. Lee Waller, Dr. J. McFadden Dick and M. V. Brewington. The deceased was one of the oldest members of Wicomico Lodge, A. F. and A. M. Itching Skin Distress by day and night—That's the complaint of those who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with Eczema or Salt Rheum—and outward applications do not cure. They can't. This source of the trouble is in the blood—make that pure and this scaling, burning, itching skin disease will disappear. "I was taken with an itching on my arms which proved very disagreeable. I concluded it was salt rheum and bought a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. In two days after I began taking it I felt better and it was not long before I was cured. Have never had any skin disease since." Mrs. Ida E. Ward, Cove Point, Md. Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills rid the blood of all impurities and cure all eruptions. Thoroughgood Sells More CLOTHING Than Any Other Store In Salisbury. Why? Because Thoroughgood has never condescended to handle common clothing. Can there be any comparison between the careful touches of Thoroughgood's tailoring and the loosely-basted-together stuff masquerading as clothes, and made by makers you never heard of. The clothes may look the same, the styles may be the same, but when it comes to the FIT and the WEAR you will see a difference. Men's Suits—Thoroughgood's price, $5.00—other clothes ask $10.00. Almost any Style or Color you can name. Men's Suits, price $12.00—$15.00 where $18.00. Double-breasted—a marvel for the money; the Black Thibet with as fine touches of tailoring as were ever put into clothing. Selling for twice $2.00 elsewhere. You know the style—three button, double-breasted coat, with narrow collar and the long swinging lapels, military back—great for young fellows with good figures—broad shoulders, fine linings. You can pay a tailor $25.00 and not get so good. Look at the cut, look at the way the collar fits, the buttonholes, the stitching, the way the mohair lining is put in. Lacy Thoroughgood is selling more fine suits than ever since he moved to his new store and has room to display them—hundreds of the Suits for Men, young and old. The Suits are ready—so is the weather, the Suits are "killing" lively, because there isn't anything in town that can touch them for the money. The lowest prices in the land for the finest Suits is the land. Remember, you get Trading Stamps; with a $10.00 Suit you get 100 Stamps. Every time you spend ten cents you get one Stamp.

FROM SOUTH AFRICA.
New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.
Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following. A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by All Druggists.

Mr. T. S. Barron, of Camp Parole, Md., who had the contract for rebuilding the pole line of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company between Annapolis, Drum Point and Solomons Island, has transferred his contract, with the consent of the company, to A. F. Arrington, of Harrington, Carroll county. Mr. Arrington has made considerable progress since he took the contract, and hopes to finish before cold weather.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is Pleasant to Take.
The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect." For sale by All Druggists.

The building in Frederick recently purchased by the Frederick County Medical Society for use as a hospital is now being fitted for that purpose and will be ready this week. Miss Maude Miller, who had charge of a hospital in Lancaster, Pa., will be the superintendent and Miss Sutton, of the same city, will be her assistant.

Disastrous Wrecks.
Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from Throat and Lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Crang, of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all Throat and Lung diseases by all Druggists. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The directors of the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington Railroad Company have authorized a $20,000,000 mortgage and decided to issue 4 per cent. 40 year gold bonds for half that amount, to be used for improvements. A new double track bridge across the Susquehanna, it is said, will be one of them.

A Runaway Bicycle.
Terminated with an ugly cut on the leg of J. B. Orner, Franklin Grove, Ill. It developed as tubercular ulceration leading to doctors and remedies for four years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured it. Just as good for Burns, Scalds, Skin Eruptions and Piles. 25 cents at all Druggists.

While awaiting the arrival of the Krag Jorgensen rifles, Company E, Maryland National Guard, of Elkton, is temporarily suspended drilling.

Doesn't Respect Old Age.
It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Fever, Constipation all yield to this perfect Pill. 25 cents at all Druggists.

Don't his Kidney Pills relieve at once and cure permanently.
Read what a local resident says about them.

J. C. Coulburn, farmer living two miles south of Salisbury, says: "My first attack of kidney trouble was felt about four years ago. At that time I was laid up for three weeks. I recovered from it but later on had two more similar attacks and since then I have been no time when I can't say that I was in a state of relief from the distressing pain across my back. I discovered a great deal and I believe I tried every known remedy on the market which was recommended to me, which came to my notice from reading, but all failed to cure me. When I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised I concluded to try them and prepared a box at White & Leonard's drug store. Had the first box not brought me some relief I never could have been induced to get the second nor the third. I have used several boxes and can say that they have given me undoubted benefit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no other.

An English Author Writes:
"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves, - November!" Many Americans would add no freedom from catarrh, which is so aggravated during this month that it becomes a constant trouble. There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption, being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula, completely cures catarrh and taken in time prevents consumption. We cannot see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its radical and permanent cure. It is undoubtedly America's Greatest Medicine for America's Greatest Disease - Catarrh.

Not A Sick Day Since.
"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicine none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of Rheumatism, Liver and Kidney troubles, Neuralgia and General Debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C. writes. Only 50c at all Druggists.

Thirty eight carloads of pyrites for the Scott Fertilizer Company, to be used in the manufacture of sulphuric acid, arrived last week in Elkton. The ore was from Spain, being brought by boat to Baltimore.

In some of the Swiss valleys the inhabitants are all afflicted with goitre or "thick neck." Instead of regarding this as a deformity they seem to think it a natural feature of physical development, and tourists passing through the valleys are sometimes jeered by the goitrous inhabitants, because they are without this offensive swelling. Thus a form of disease may become so common that it is regarded as a natural and necessary condition of life. It is so, to a large extent, with what are called diseases of women. Every woman suffers more or less from irregularity, ulceration, debilitating drains, or female weakness, and this suffering is so common and so universal that many a woman accept it as a condition natural and necessary to their sex. But it is a condition as unnatural as it is unnecessary. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription strengthens the delicate womanly organs and regulates the womanly functions, so that woman is practically delivered from the pain and misery which cut up ten years of her life-between the ages of fifteen and forty-five. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well.

Mammoth Holiday Issue.
The December Delicاتور (Christmas Number) represents the high watermark of beauty and utility, and possibly of circulation also, in a woman's magazine, having a first edition of more than a million copies. It contains 240 pages. To produce this mammoth edition 728 tons of paper and 49 presses working 25 days were required. In addition to exquisite color work, clever fiction and strikingly illustrated articles the number includes a display of charming winter fashions covering forty two pages, letters from the foreign fashion centers, and illustrated articles on the fashionable fabrics and trimmings, millinery, etc.

Among the notable contributors are: Richard Le Gallienne, with a delicate romance, A Wedding Ring in the Garden, containing lyrics in the author's best vein; W. A. Frazier, with an Indian tale, The Net of Love; Albert Bigelow Paine, with a delightful sketch founded on the foibles of the collector; Harriet Prescott Spofford, with a love story of unusual interest; Andrew Lang, with a clever travesty on the usual fairy tale; and Gustav Kobbé, with an interesting paper describing the life of Mme Emma Eames, in her Italian home, with her portrait in colors. There is also the third installment of the Evolution of a Club Woman, the poignant narrative of clubdom by Agnes Surbridge, and a remarkable photographic article by J. C. Hemment.

There are many beautiful art features among them four pages in colors representing Babyhood, Childhood, Girlhood and Motherhood—the work of Bernard J. Rosenmeyer. For the children there are entertaining games and stories, and for the housewife many practical suggestions in cookery and other departments of the home, for the Christmas season.

THE WORLD, FASHIONABLE
What is in Vogue With Metropolitan Style Advocates. Fall Designs in Dress Material and Millinery Fancies For The Fair Continent.

Rough white beavers in millinery, have a soft fall their own and are often trimmed in a manner to produce the strongest possible contrast, as for example, a covering of tulle over the crown or encircling folds around, with frills of summer blossom, among which roses have the highest position. The above remarks, however, do not go into many cases, for trimmings on the style of hat just mentioned, are often very daring. Now and then an unusual bird with wide open wings, reaches or perhaps exceeds the exaggerated circumference on which it lies and torus the sole garment, or cruel in their own execution are seen tiny white birds that form almost entire circles about a very wide crown.

Shiny Beavers
are in great numbers and preferably trimmed with mirror velvet and silk figures largely either laid smoothly or in shirtings and throughout the world of millinery, shirtings in material both thick and thin, are a leading style. O-trich plumage is very conspicuous, leading (of course, an air of elegance that is possible to no competing garment. Lace too, is important, forming a summer like foundation, but always in connection with heavier fabrics.

Skirts
which have been the subject of much speculation and imprudent prophesies, remain largely the same in contour as formerly, the effort to bring in fullness as to the latter, compelling a concession to prevailing fancies, by a close adjustment of drapery about the hips, the majority still clinging and tight as ever as to the upper portion. In connection with skirts moreover, too much cannot be written in praise of the Lily Hair Cloth Flounce. Circular in shape and made of the lightest and best hair cloth it imparts to a dress skirt or petticoat, a style possible to nothing else, quite preventing an unseemly flapping in of material. To protect the lower flounce, it is necessary to bind the same and greatly to be recommended is the S. H. & M. new velvet, braid-which can be quickly attached by one sewing only and affords an elegant finish and perfect protection. Incredibly perfect too, in its resemblance to silk, is the new material Pride de Soie. It is admirably suited to slip skirts and petticoats, having the appearance and rustle of taffeta silk, but far more lasting. As it comes in fast black and new shades, every woman can make trial of it to her satisfaction. In

Out Door Garments.
Preference is given to tight fitting, three quarter lengths. Especially in this the case in regard to garments on suite with the dress, though applicable to coats in general. But for independent gaiters, there is great variety in shape and length, running from short jackets to long and quite enveloping examples. Some are close; others full and destined to flap ungracefully in wintry blasts. In coat sleeves also, there is much room for choice; some being close from shoulder to wrist. Many close-fitting, below the elbow, with close cuffs and others are examples of bagginess from a short distance below the shoulder. Linen jackets are seen once more, but in little numbers only and now and then on a tight, three-quarter or long coat, may be seen a partial Eton to the waist line. The new Eton too, are apt to have longer fronts than formerly, this probably in deference to the sto's fronts that are so fashionable.

Dress Sleeves
do not depart essentially from former styles and small hoppers hold their own against large ones. A sleeve of the summer is good for the winter and in this the economical can well rejoice. Undersleeves too are more of an element in sleeve adaptations than formerly and now and then a light, three-quarter or long coat, may be seen a partial Eton to the waist line. The new Eton too, are apt to have longer fronts than formerly, this probably in deference to the sto's fronts that are so fashionable.

Mammoth Holiday Issue.
The December Delicاتور (Christmas Number) represents the high watermark of beauty and utility, and possibly of circulation also, in a woman's magazine, having a first edition of more than a million copies. It contains 240 pages. To produce this mammoth edition 728 tons of paper and 49 presses working 25 days were required. In addition to exquisite color work, clever fiction and strikingly illustrated articles the number includes a display of charming winter fashions covering forty two pages, letters from the foreign fashion centers, and illustrated articles on the fashionable fabrics and trimmings, millinery, etc.

World's Best Medicine.

PAIN'S CELERY COMPOUND
Has Made People Well When Every Other Remedy Has Failed.

Pain's Celery Compound cures disease! It has saved the lives of thousands of sufferers. It has made the weak strong, vigorous, and happy.
Pain's Celery Compound purifies the blood and builds up the nervous system as nothing else can do; it is pre-eminently the great life-giver and health maker.
Overworked and tired women stand in urgent need of this health-giving prescription to make and keep them well. All women should take advantage of the remarkable power of this best of medicine for restoring vigor to the blood and strength to the nervous system. The all-important thing for nervous, run-down, and sleepless women is that Pain's Celery Compound fortifies the whole physical system, and by correcting digestion and regulating the nerves, it insures sound, refreshing sleep. In every case of sickness Pain's Celery Compound completely and permanently brings back health. Mrs. Mary M. Myers, Baltimore, Ohio, saved by Pain's Celery Compound after the failure of able physicians, gratefully writes as follows:
"I suffered for eight years with nervous prostration and the general debility common to women, and had such pains in my back that I could not get around the house. I used several remedies and consulted several of the best physicians without obtaining any relief. Pain's Celery Compound restored me to health."
"I also want to say to all mothers that Pain's Celery Compound is a splendid medicine for their children."

NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF WICOMICO SENT IN BY THE ADVERTISER'S REPRESENTATIVES.

SHARPTOWN

Elwood Twilley left Thursday for Norfolk where he will join his brother, Capt. H. Twilley.

William M. Bennett's wife presented him with a fine girl on Saturday. Rev. H. W. D. Johnson is now conducting his revival at Mt. Herman Church.

Rev. Mr. Perry of Mardela, was the guest of C. E. Caule on Wednesday.

W. H. Knowles closed down his cannery on Monday, having run since the 22nd of August and has put up some fine goods. He has tomatoes and sweet potatoes. He has canned more tomatoes this year than last and about one third more sweet potatoes this year than last. The quality of the goods put up is said to be much better than last season. His goods are in demand and stock is being sold in several different markets and are said to be very popular.

Miss Estelle Collins of Reeds Grove was the guest this week of Mrs. George E. Owens.

Rev. H. C. Turner of Laurel, passed through town Tuesday en route for Tyaskin.

Thomas L. Twiford of Port Tobacco has chartered the schooner, Clara Garrett of Baltimore, to get him a load of dressed timber from Norfolk, Va.

The Julian S. Taylor arrived here on Monday with a cargo of gum timber.

Revival services are being held at Soanethon, on Mardela circuit.

Mrs. J. F. Anderson returned this week from Baltimore where she spent several days, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. A. S. Venables of Mardela.

Wm. J. Phillips, manager of the Columbian Steam Laundry of Camden spent several days with his many friends in town this week. He is one of Sharptown's successful boys.

W. T. Elliott's mother, of Hebron spent several days with him, returning home last week.

W. D. Gravenor & Bro. have a new horse which they received from Baltimore a few days ago.

Joshua H. Marvill's new launch was launched from the Marine Railway Co.'s yards on Wednesday morning. It was a very pretty launch and was witnessed by a large number of people from Laurel, as well as from this town. The boat is finished in quartered oak costing $93 per thousand. Every detail of the work is neat and well done. In model and workmanship the boat is a real beauty. W. D. Gravenor & Bro., furnished the windows and doors, which will be of a high grade material. The boat will be equipped with two globe gasoline engines of sixteen horse power each. Miss Phrasma Henry stood near the bow, and in the usual form, christened the boat, calling it the "Mary M." The boat is sixty feet long, and when completed will have much speed. —Sharptown Herald.

A Good Business Proposition. It is something that everybody who looks out for their own interest will take time to consider. We have Several Good Business Propositions to make you, and Here's the Point. We do business on business principles. When we sell you a pair of shoes they are as good as can be manufactured for the money. People spend most of their time in their shoes, and this fact makes the quality of footwear a question of prime importance. Our proposition to you is to sell you good honest shoes at a price as low as is consistent with good values. We make this proposition to all prospective shoe buyers, fully believing that it is to your interest to do business with us. We have many advantages to offer you as a reason why you should do your shoe buying of us, the first of which is, we are exclusive Shoe dealers and also the largest buyers of Shoes on the Peninsula. We can offer you the largest and most complete stock to select from. We do not have to give you one size when your foot needs another. Our large stock enables us to carry all sizes and widths in stock. We take pains to see that every foot is properly fitted and also to select the proper kind of Shoe to meet the requirement for which it is intended. We have the exclusive sale in this city of all the best known and most popular makes of Shoes. A person is often judged by the company they keep, so is a merchant by the merchandise he handles, and while we stand behind every pair of fair priced shoes we sell, whether made under some pet name or not. To those who want special lines we can offer such well known ones as the following:

FOR MEN: The Walk-Over W. L. Douglas, Crossett's Long Life. FOR BOYS AND GIRLS: The Rice & Hutchins, Burley Stevens & Co., Excelsior. FOR LADIES: Queen Quality, Zeigler Bros., Cinderella, Allnut Moody, Drew, Selby & Co. All of these are good ones in their class and have reputations established on merit, but the burden of our story is simply Shoes, and not the maker—trust us for that and we will always give you full value for your money or cheerfully refund you the same. Think over our proposition, come and see us and let us more fully explain and show you that we mean business and we feel sure that you will find that our interests are mutual. Yours for Shoes, R. "That Famous Broom."

In the office of the Register of Wills of Wicomico County sets a well preserved broom against the wall. When Mr. L. M. Dashiell, Deputy Register took charge of the office 12 years ago for Mr. Gale, that same broom was sitting up in a corner ready for use, and has been used by Mr. Dashiell ever since and no other has been bought or used. Mr. Dashiell keeps the cleanest office floor in the county, has always used the said broom; not a drop of water has been applied to said floor and it shines like a nut shell. Mr. Dashiell is about to enter upon a campaign of six years more, with his son, J. W. Dashiell, and the people expect to see the same broom do duty for another six years, if he lives. This is Democratic economy, and don't forget it.

Apples At Night.

"Everybody ought to know," says the "Family Doctor," that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid, in easily digested shape than any other fruit. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthful sleep, thoroughly disinfects the mouth, and prevents indigestion and throat disease.

UNITED STATES SENATOR THURSTON,

The Brilliant Statesman from Nebraska, Makes an Important Public Utterance.

INTERIOR OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE CHAMBER.

Ex-Senator John M. Thurston, of Omaha, Nebraska, is one of the most prominent and influential men in the country. He made the speech nominating President McKinley at the St. Louis convention, and was made permanent Chairman of this convention. He was also made Chairman of the convention that renominated the late President McKinley at Philadelphia. He was appointed by President McKinley to be Chairman of the St. Louis Exposition Commission. This prominent gentleman recently wrote the following letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio:

Washington, D. C., April 6, 1901. "I have used Peruna at various times during the past year or two with most satisfactory results.

"It entirely relieved me from an irritating cough—the result of excessive effort in the presidential campaign, and I am a firm believer in its efficacy for any such trouble."—John M. Thurston.

Catarh has already become a national curse. Its ravages extend from ocean to ocean.

Peruna is not a local application or temporary relief; it is a permanent cure. Peruna is a systemic remedy. It eradicates catarh from the system. It cures catarh wherever located. Its cures are radical and lasting.

Fritz Vollmer, President Schwabacher Smogorbund, Chicago, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., says: "My voice was so badly affected from catarh that I was afraid I would lose it entirely. I read of some of the wonderful things your Peruna would do and thought it advisable to try some myself. I am pleased to state that in a very short time I was cured."—Fritz Vollmer.

THE WAY OF THE SOUTH.

Have The Understanding And The Grandfather Clause To Limit Negro Suffrage. Operating Successfully In Several States How It Is Done.

In view of the prevalent belief that the Democrats, having the necessary three fifths majority in each branch of the Maryland Legislature, will attempt during the coming winter to propose a Constitutional amendment intended to limit negro suffrage, it is interesting to know the character and effect of the legislation along that line which has already been framed in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, South Carolina, North Carolina and Virginia. The following is an extract from an article entitled, "Suffrage in the South—Six New State Constitutions," by Chappell Cory, which appeared in the Review of the Reviews for June, 1902.

"What are the devices for shutting out the negro that do not equally limit the suffrage of the white man?"

"On the whole, the Fifteenth Amendment, having been expressly designed to protect the negro's ballot, the result is simple testimony to the skill of its framers. After all that has been said and done—after all the excitement and the attacks and the hot defence—the wisest men of six great States have been able to summon from the vast depths of their ingenuity these two devices, and these two only:

1. The understanding clause.
2. The grandfather clause.

"The first is avowedly intended to discriminate through its administration by white men in their own favor. The second necessarily discriminates by its terms. The 'understanding clause' is a requirement that the applicant to register must 'understand' something to the satisfaction of registrars clothed with arbitrary power to set up different standards for different individuals. While appeals to the court are provided, this is a prohibition thrown in merely because it sounds well. The clause appears in the Constitution of Mississippi, South Carolina, Virginia and Alabama. In the first two the applicants who cannot come in under some other provision may nevertheless pass if he can explain some section of the Constitution when read to him. In Virginia he must understand a section whether he be illiterate or not. In Alabama, whether literate or not, he must understand the duties and obligations of citizenship under a Republican form of government and must show a good character in addition. Manifestly, here is a door which white registers may arbitrarily swing open to white men and close on black men. And that is precisely what they do.

"The grandfather clause," operating without aid from the registrars, is a device by which men are admitted to register provided they or their grandfathers or forefathers did some special thing or enjoyed some specified privilege at some former time. In Louisiana and North Carolina it admits without further question all who voted or had the right to vote prior to 1867 and their descendants. In Alabama and Virginia it admits in the same unquestioned way all who have fought in any war for the country or for the Confederacy and their descendants."

Next Governor Warfield Had A Variety Of Occupations.

In point of professions and occupations Hon. Edwin Warfield, the next Governor of Maryland, is the most versatile executive who has presided at Annapolis. Here is how he has been occupied at different times during his busy career. Farmer's boy, Clerk in county store. Rural school teacher. Register of wills of Howard county. Lawyer. County Editor. Business manager of Baltimore Day. State Senator. President of the State National Bank, at Elkton City. Chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee. Surveyor of the Port of Baltimore. Chief owner of the Daily Law Record, of Baltimore. Organizer and general manager of the Fidelity and Deposit Company of Maryland. President of the same. ACTIVITY IN BUSINESS.

The Ways And Means: Approval Of Holiday Season Finds The Merchants And Business Men Of Salisbury Making Heavy Preparations.

Last season probably witnessed the largest trade Salisbury mercantile establishments have ever experienced. It was generally believed that all previous sales were exceeded.

People from all over the county, and contiguous territory far and near, made our city their headquarters during the shopping season preceding New Year's, and made Salisbury the trade emporium of a large section. This year early preparations have been made on an extensive scale and the stores of Salisbury will soon be clogged with attractive assortments of all kinds of staple goods and novelties for the Christmas buyers. Make your plans to come here often during the next six weeks.

Every merchant wants business. Every store wants all the trade that can be stirred up. Every establishment is directly interested in moving goods. Every buyer wants to buy that which will move from the store to interested purchasers. When the stock is bought there should be some reason for the buying. When goods are displayed there should be such an arrangement as will make the place pleasing. The buying of the stock and the offering of it to the people should be done in a way to create greatest interest. The goods are probably good or the buyer would not have put them in stock. The time for quick sales and large business is at hand and the people could be induced to buy, and at once use, what is offered. The real purpose of the business man is to get business. The success of the stores is what makes most of the prosperity of the community. The activity of business men has its effect on the general feeling of a town. A substantial city is a place where much business is done and where both business men and customers share the good things of the market to day. It is important that the best thing be sold, that a great many of them be moved and that each buyer gets the full worth of what is coming to him. The purpose is accomplished by knowing what is wanted and knowing how to get what is wanted. The activity of the merchant means the success of his people and the moving of stock. The best way to accomplish a given thing is to act on the best lines and to decide which are the best lines by carefully studying them. Every store can succeed if each store is run on lines which command success. The increasing volume of trade makes it possible for every establishment to do better each year, to reach out further and to strive for the betterment of the community by providing better things at prices that the people can afford to pay. Prosperity is in the hands of the business men and they are responsible for its appreciation.

Activity in advertising makes activity in business.

Coming To Maryland From West For Paying Farms.

Mr. Herman Richter, a dairyman of Cincinnati, Ohio has bought Trywaka, a farm of 800 acres, lying in Prince George's county, near the Patuxent river, and will remove to his new home about January 1, to engage in stock raising.

Mr. Richter was induced to come to Maryland by the State Bureau of Immigration and by Mr. J. M. Kolbert, a former neighbor, who has a title in this State. Mr. Kolbert states that he expects a number of other new settlers in his section during the coming winter.

A company of nine Nebraska farmers arrived at Cordova, Talbot county late yesterday. They came in search of homes and are succeeding in getting them. They have purchased the brick Home Farm, until recently the property of the heirs of Capt. Levi T. Dukes, for $10,000. Mr. Lucas, of Ridgely, about two months ago purchased this farm for $8,000. They also bought the farm of Kilby Calloway for $12,000. Register of Wills Charles R. Wooters, who is owner of one of the finest tracts of land in Chapel district, was approached by these gentlemen, who made him an offer of $12,000 for his farm. This offer was refused. Judge Elijah West was offered $9,000 for his fine place. Many farms, some of the best in Wicomico and Talbot county, have within the past few months fallen into the possession of persons from the North and West who are not paying as much attention to the raising of wheat and corn as they are to the production of all kinds of truck. These crops they ship to Northern markets and are realizing good prices.

QUESTION OF SUFFRAGE

Viewed From A Historical Standpoint. Writer Holds Our Government In Its Origin Was Aristocratic, And Universal Suffrage A Recent Product

Messrs. Editors.—Apropos of the question of the limitation of the suffrage so much talked of these days I suppose suggestions would not be unacceptable no matter how humble the source. Of course no one will suppose or pretend to "solve the problem" but we rather very briefly call the attention to some historical and then perhaps legal or constitutional aspects. As to the policy or expediency of restricting the suffrage we may have some suggestions to offer later on.

It may be said of course that suffrage means a participation in the government, not merely to vote for this or that man. In theory, at least the man and measures go together and measures if successful rightly become law. It is undoubtedly difficult to reconcile a government "of the people" by the people and for the people (taken in its broadest sense) with any restrictions on the suffrage whatever. We say every man is a sovereign, and in theory, he governs himself. All power flows from him and it would appear when he is denied his suffrage, he is denied a natural right, an inalienable right. But we are not here to speak of the justice or expediency, or at this time, what should be the true intent and meaning of our institutions. We attempt to trace in the briefest manner our own peculiar government in its practical application on the subject.

Now we shall have to admit and at the risk of running counter to the generally accepted opinions, that our government in its origin was aristocratic to the core. How could it be otherwise? Was not the colonies a part of the mother country, England, which probably maintained the most elaborate system of caste and privilege then known? No one surely can deny that the great families of Virginia, South Carolina, New York, Massachusetts and Maryland absolutely dominated the conventions both of the confederation and the constitution. A very limited suffrage prevailed in all the colonies. But what rendered the suffrage unimportant was, that as compared with the present, and for a long time after the formation of the constitution, there were very few elective offices, appointments were the rule.

Now what has occasioned the gradual trend towards democracy and universal suffrage? There may be said to be two principal causes—Politics manifested in two ways: competition between the States and jealousies of political factions and parties and between powerful families. The aristocracy paved the way for the people by their mutual quarrels.

In all the original 13 states qualification of the suffrage was the rule. Some had 40 shillings freehold and still others tax paying. But in a short time the great west began to open up, population in these states was scarce. So great was the hardship of pioneer life in the west that almost any inducement was offered to attract settlers from the older states. As soon therefore as there were proper authorities "Manhood suffrage" was offered and guaranteed by these or other laws.

The Eastern States had nothing to do but follow their example. Georgia led 1798 abolishing property qualifications; Maryland next 1829; Massachusetts 1821; New York same year; Delaware 1831; New Jersey 1844; Connecticut 1842; Virginia 1870; North Carolina 1854 and 1868; South Carolina 1865; Rhode Island 1838 except in municipal elections. So we see to what a very recent date limited suffrage has been the rule.

Another undoubted cause of the extension of the suffrage was the competition of parties and the warring of mutual factions and individuals. It does not appear that in any of these forces the direct object of making the government more popular was had in view. Universal franchise seem to have been the effect of objects not altogether laudable, but the people will not quarrel as they reap the harvest. Jefferson seems to have been an exception to the rule. He soon saw that the wealth of the country and its aristocratic classes could be easily satisfied if he himself as an aristocrat in the sense of large inherited wealth and broad culture he thoroughly trusted the people, in that he brought the people to see his way without it being believed abandoning his own principles.

In this he was a true leader not follower, and probably gave the first great impulse to suffrage. He undoubtedly had a worthy object in view—"Rights of man and the equality of all men before the law." Warring parties and factions cannot be said to have been as worthily inspired, extension of suffrage however was the consequence. Two warring families of New York would inevitably affect such suffrage. Factions in the parties would call upon the people for help and give them the means too. The aristocracy of the country may be said to have "killed" by factionous differences the goose that laid the golden egg." Parties bidding for popular favor would not be outside in advancing extension of suffrage. Jackson has been called the first people's president.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

What Is In Vogue In Wearing Apparel With Those In The Metropolis. Wedding Dresses, Furs, Evening Gowns. Answer.

Softly beautiful is the typical wedding gown. Materials are dreamy in their own peculiar refinement and in many cases, two of different character are combined in a maze of intricacy that to the average onlooker, seems an impossible combination. Such is the case in regard to lovely dresses of all net showing effective dots at rather long intervals and combined with Irish point. The two are made over chiffon that again lies over silk and as may be divined great softness is the result. Some net gowns are trimmed with narrow ribbon shirred; velvet passementerie is also used and chenille may add a rich adornment. Liberty satin or crepe de chine are chosen frequently as bridal fabrics; chiffon cloth, a comparatively substantial variety of the well known material and lace in elegant entirety, are other favorite materials. Orange blossoms are often now combined with tiny ferns and as a rival to the conventional flower, may be mentioned lillies of the valley or very small white roses.

Furs.

As presented by C. C. Shane, are even more attractive than formerly, since extravagant trimmings give peculiar elegance. Such are handsome passementeries with drooping pendants and fur fringes and equally novel are revers or yokes of silk showing rich embroidery. A wide leap has been made from high collars to collarless garments, for which doubtless the transparent vokes of the summer were a prelude. Women with characteristic adaptability, seem capable of any performance or any deprivation in the cause of Fashion, but for those who must have throat protection of fur, unusual assortments of small accessories with stylish stole fronts or otherwise, are seen in numbers. Sometimes the garment is provided with a shoulder cape that may if desired, be removed to add warmth. Small neck piece which can be folded like a gentleman's tie, are among new presentations. In new fur garments show much variety. Some are long and fit closely in coat shape; others are loose in box contour or much choice is given in short garments belted in with blouse fronts. Persian lamb or broad tail are very fashionable, but not to the exclusion of seal that in its soft, rich brown, remains attractive as ever. Mink and squirrel fur are seen, but chiefly as long, flat boas, accessories on muffs that this year have assumed really huge proportions. Most of them are finished with ermine and passementerie and in general, the finishing of one fur on another, gives peculiar dressiness.

Evening Dresses.

It is evident that spangles are to play an important part in evening gowns and beautiful examples are fairly showered by glittering additions in all new colors on delightful combinations of the same. As purple is a leading color for day wear, its red is seen in amblyst for evening and one of the most captivating dresses noted at an important exhibition, was in a pale pinkish purple, profusely finished by spangles on the same order. It is worthy of note moreover, that among twelve exquisite concert gowns to be worn by Mme. Patti spangles were prominent and a beautiful example in pale pink chiffon was richly spangled. A delightful finish was given by chiffon in a brighter shade, made into fuchsia that almost formed the very short sleeve and were pendent on the corsage. The neck was low round and the skirt tight around the waist with moderate train.

"Mrs. O." Angel drapery remains very fashionable for evening sleeves. Generally speaking, there is much liberty regarding sleeves for evening some being merely a strap with pendants; again the sleeves may be a puff nearly to the elbow or may show a completion of long, floating drapery below.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

PROVERBS

"When the butter won't come out of the churn," is an old time dairy proverb. It often seems to work though no one has ever told why.

When mothers are worried because the children do not gain strength and flesh we say give them Scott's Emulsion.

It is like the penny in the milk because it works and because there is something astonishing about it.

Scott's Emulsion is simply a milk of pure cod liver oil with some hypophosphites especially prepared for delicate stomachs.

Children take it naturally because they like the taste and the remedy takes just as naturally to the children because it is so perfectly adapted to their wants.

For all weak and pale and thin children Scott's Emulsion is the most satisfactory treatment.

We will send you the penny, i. e., a sample free. Be sure that this picture in the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

BERLIN.

Mrs. Robert Keas, of Chincoteague, was a visitor in Berlin last week.

Mrs. George also Mrs. Charles Calhoun left Wednesday for Philadelphia.

Mr. Arthur Scott of Wilmington is visiting some of his old friends and shooting birds this week.

Capt. John Dirickson sailing from New York as his starting place is home with his family for a visit.

Rev. J. Edward Brooks has again been appointed to this circuit and will occupy the same position as last year.

Mrs. Harry Murray of Cape Charles is a guest of her mother, Mrs. Carey, on Main Street.

Bishop Adams preached eloquently to a large congregation last Sunday at St. Paul's Church.

Rev. Mr. Gantt has declined the call to St. Luke's Parish, Queen Anne's county.

Miss Hilda Williams was a welcome guest of Miss Delle Collins from Saturday until Monday, near town.

Dr. Gustie Burwell, of Salem, Va., was a guest of L. L. Dirickson, Jr., Sunday and Monday.

Misses Hennie and Carrie Mitchell are visiting friends in Baltimore this week.

Miss Etta Mumford and her friend, Miss Salter, both of Ocean City, were the guests of Miss Virgalya Trader Friday and Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wood are visiting on Main St., at Mr. George E. Hammond's. Mr. Wood killed seven fine ducks last Friday.

Mrs. William West, of Baltimore, after a charming visit of two weeks with friends in our city, left for home Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Buffington have returned to their comfortable home and ready to receive their friends at the "Heights."

Mr. and Mrs. James Henderson, of Wilmington, who have been the guests of relatives and friends for the past week, left for home Wednesday.

The Rev. Mr. Salter Munster, formerly a Philadelphian, but for the last two years located in Colorado, paid the Rev. Mr. Gantt a visit last week.

Mr. Jno. D. Ayres has taken recently a deep interest in the welfare of Wicomico County inhabitants, and is quite a frequent visitor of late.

Mr. Edward Kurtz who left us last week and visited Philadelphia and Jersey, has returned and resumed his duties, Wednesday.

Rev. Mr. Gantt will hold service and preach at St. Martin's brick church Sunday at 3 p. m. "The Abiding Virtue" will be his subject.

Our old friend, Baldwin Williams has overtaken himself following dog and shooting game and regret to say had to make for home and nurse a severe chill Wednesday.

Dr. Cyrus Dirickson, after a most agreeable and pleasant visit not only in Philadelphia but Hightstown, N. J., has made his return—and home to his patients, Friday.

Bishop Adams preached in old St. Paul's, morning and evening, Sunday to a large and attentive congregation. Both of his sermons were fine and thoroughly appreciated.

Miss Harriet Hickman, one of Pocomoke City's fairest contributions, and for the present a resident of Ocean City, enjoyed the hospitality of our town Saturday.

Mr. Showell Myers, of Philadelphia, spent Saturday, Sunday and part of Monday in Ocean City. Mr. Myers was on a business visit, and returned to the city that afternoon.

Miss Mary Parker, who was unexpectedly called to the bedside of her mother in Pittsville, has returned and resumed her school duties at Ocean City.

Mr. Alfred Collins has made a decided improvement in the general appearance of his home, having recently made many needed repairs. "A stitch in time saves many."

The new home which is being built on the edge of town for Mr. George Williams is nearing completion and presents a comfortable appearance and is a great improvement to that section.

Miss Clara Hammond left Friday morning for a two weeks stay in Philadelphia and Germantown, stopping in Delaware on her return trip, hoping to induce her friend, Miss Catherine Prouse, to accompany her for a lengthy visit.

Robert J. Hobbs' friends will be glad to know that he has located and is now connected with Mr. Jno. Rayne at Ocean City. Rayne no doubt will find young Hobbs a consolation and a great comfort.

Mr. Horace Dale, formerly of Berlin now of Reading Pa., is a guest of the Misses Dilworth at their home on the creek. Mr. Dale has been an invalid from nervous prostration and feels satisfied that the change to old Maryland will be a benefit for his general health.

Mr. Charles Mayo, Ocean City is not only first class as a tobacco artist, but a tenderhearted also. At his rooms can be seen a collection of mounted birds that he excelled by. Mayo seems delighted to have his friends view his collection at any time.

At the home of the bride on the old Stephen Decatur farm near Berlin, Miss Anna Lee Hamman and Mr. Charles H. Rodney were quietly married Wednesday evening by the Rev. G. L. Hardesty. Only a few relatives and friends were invited to witness the ceremony and pray for the good bride provided. May their voyage through life be a pleasant and happy one.

Dr. Thomas Hammond, of Washington City, arrived Saturday night, was met Sunday by his Snow Hill chum, Dr. Sid Barrows, driving early Monday morning for the lower end of the county, hoping to return later laden with both quail and rabbits. Dr. Tom's family are awaiting serenely at home hoping to enjoy a portion of their later results.

At Burley Hall, the home of Miss Kate Hammond in honor of her guest, Mrs. West of Philadelphia, a most enjoyable evening was spent at cards. Both euchre and bridge whis: were the features of the entertainment. De lightful refreshments were served after the game in the dining room and refreshment. Among those present were, Mrs. William West, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. T. Keas, Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilbur Keas, Mrs. Maud Whaley, of Bishopville, Dr. Thos. Y. Franklin, John D. Henry and Gordon A. Marshall.

Those who delight in Works of Art should visit and examine a piece of tapestry now on exhibition, by Miss Maud Baggott, at Dr. Cyrus Dirickson's drug store, and at the same time be given the opportunity to take a chance. If so fortunate as to choose the lucky number, one would be the envy of dozens or one of the most exquisite pieces of handiwork ever seen in this vicinity. Don't fail to view and pass your judgment. The proceeds are intended for a charitable purpose, consequently all are interested.

OCCASION OF TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

Dr. Eckels has proceeded Dr. Robert A. Pastor of Wicomico, Presbyterian Church, in Salisbury Successful in His Philadelphia Labors.

Rev. Dr. Mervin J. Eckels, pastor of Arch Street, Presbyterian Church recently completed ten years of service in his present field of labor. On Sunday, Nov. 1st, Dr. Eckels preached an Anniversary Sermon, in the presence of a large congregation.

Notwithstanding the instantaneous change of population in this community, which has swept away over five hundred of the seven hundred members here when he came, the congregations which worship in this church are about as large as ever, and the membership is nearly as large as ten years ago, five hundred and ten members having been added during these ten years. Only a few Presbyterian Churches in Philadelphia give so much to benevolent objects as Arch Street Church still does, in spite of her constant loss of people of many.

On Thursday evening preceding this Tenth Anniversary the ladies of the Church tendered Dr. and Mrs. Eckels a reception, which was attended by almost the entire congregation. Congratulatory addresses were delivered by Elders of Arch Street Church and neighboring pastors, and Dr. Eckels was presented with a handsome sum of gold amounting to $541.00. The future prospects of this Church are bright.

NEXT ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

Bishop FitzGerald Will Preside at Dover Next March.

The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in semi-annual session at Birmingham, Ala., has assigned Bishop James N. FitzGerald, of St. Louis, to preside at the next annual session of the Wilmington Conference, which will be held in Wesley Church, Dover, in March. James Newbury FitzGerald, D. D., L. L. D., was born in Newark, N. J., July 27, 1837. He was educated for the profession of law, and was an attorney from 1858 to 1893. He entered the Newark Conference in the latter year, and was pastor or presiding elder till 1890. He was recording secretary of the Methodist Society from 1890 to 1898, when he was elected a bishop. He is secretary of the Board of Bishops and president of the Ocean Grove Campmeeting Association. He is a great debater and administrator. He has never presided at a session of the Wilmington Conference, but visited the conference a few years ago.—Peninsula Methodist.

THE THREE WISE MEN.

THE THREE WISE MEN of Gotham were no doubt wise enough in their way. It is probable that they knew a great deal about a whole lot of things, but they made a mistake when they went to sea in a bowl, and that one error caused their undoing. No matter how much care you take in the selection of your materials for your building or how experienced or reliable your mechanics, if you use inferior shingles you make a great mistake. The covering of a building is the most important part of the materials used in the construction. "The weakest link is the strength of the chain," and "The poorest shingles determines the last of the roof." And it is poor economy to run so great a risk of having a leaky roof, to save such a trifling amount of money. Act wisely and buy best.

URGENT NECESSITY FOR IMPROVING SCHOOL FACILITIES OF SALISBURY.

By purchasing a lot in South Salisbury the school has taken the first step towards improving our present facilities. There seems to be some difference of opinion as to whether the site selected is entirely suited for the purposes of a school...

In addition to this we have the spectacle of several schools dotted around town. One of which is situated on one of our most crowded thoroughfares, over a meat shop. The entrance to this school is up a narrow stairway boarded up to protect someone from the weather...

Think of the cruelty of depriving the little girls of our broad and spacious sidewalk, our beautiful streets crowded with teams and wagon for a playground! Cruel, we must admit, but progress always destroys some cherished customs.

The School Board says it is compelled to make out any way it can because it is not given sufficient funds to provide comfortable quarters for the children. If such is the case 'tis time that public policy should undergo a change.

Upon our children depend our future progress and welfare and it is the most narrow minded policy that can be imagined for a community to be parsimonious with its schools. If necessary raise your tax rate. Let the narrow minded bachelor and the still more narrow minded father kick as much as they like.

THE SENATORIAL SITUATION AS VIEWED BY A BALTIMOREAN. In Baltimore, the chief subject of discussion is the new United States Senator, to be elected in January, and the reported stand being taken by Mr. Isidor Rayner that the result of this election is due to him.

It is accepted as a foregone conclusion, that either Governor Smith, who by one of the cleanest administrations ever given this state is entitled to support for anything he wants; or ex Governor Jackson, with much the same claims from an administration a few years less recent, but also good; will be the next Senator.

The idea that Mr. Rayner who did not take the open until three weeks before election, and who finally took the field only after offending the democratic managers, in his fantastic appeal to the "people", should be entitled to any serious support from the party as a whole, is not considered for a moment by politicians interested in this senatorial fight.

Governor Smith and Governor Jackson, on the other hand, have for years been the heaviest campaign contributors in the democratic party, and the friendly fight for the honor will be between these two alone.

There is no intention whatever of dealing in bad faith with Mr. Rayner, however, and the delegates from Baltimore who pledged themselves to him, will, beyond the shadow of a doubt, vote for him.

Mr. Rayner's lead of twenty votes will therefore be easily offset by both of the other candidates, and not even Mr. Rayner expects to hold this lead after the first ballot has shown that his strength is less than that of his rivals.

LARGE GROWTH OF OUR EXPORT TRADE. Five million dollars a day is a snug sum for the people of a single country to realize as the rate of the products of their farms, factories, forests, fisheries, and mines.

The exports of domestic products of the United States in the month of October, 1903, averaged more than five million dollars for every day in the month and for every business day in the month averaged practically six million dollars a day.

The exportation in October, amounting to 160 million dollars, exceeds that of any preceding month in the history of our commerce with the single exception of October, 1900, when the total was $163,389,680.

Imports in October also exceeded those of any preceding October, with the single exception of October, 1902. They amounted to $21,931,005, or a little over 21 million dollars per day.

fisheries. The high prices of cotton during the past few months resulted in a reduction of purchases abroad in the earlier months of the year and thus a shortage of stocks, and as a consequence the first month of the cotton year, October, showed a very large exportation of cotton and at unusually high prices, the average price per pound for cotton exported being 10.1 cents, against an average of 8.4 cents in October, 1902; 8.1 cents in October 1901; 9.9 cents in October, 1910, and 7 cents in October, 1899.

A comparison of October exports with those of October of earlier years illustrates the remarkable growth of our export trade. In 1870 the October exports were 29 millions; in 1880, 85 millions; in 1890, 98 millions, and in 1900, 163 millions, the largest exports for any single month in the history of our commerce, and in 1903, 160 millions, or more than in any preceding month except that of October, 1900.

WASHINGTON A MAGNET.

More and More the Leisure Class Are Going There to Live. Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish's prediction that the social center of the country eventually will be in Washington finds justification in the rapid growth of the social, literary and art colonies in the Capital City.

"If I had a dozen houses I could rent them all within twenty-four hours," was the remark of Major General Corbin as he closed a deal for his own residence just before leaving for his new post on Governors Island.

More and more every year is Washington being selected as the winter home of substantial people from northern cities. The rentals for residences adapted to entertainment are more reasonable in Washington than in New York, Philadelphia or Boston, and the custom has sprung up for wealthy people and those prominent in society to rent their own homes in northern cities and come to Washington for the season, where they can enjoy not only a milder climate, but the refined atmosphere of art and literature and also enjoy the unique flavor of Washington's special attractions, national politics and diplomacy.

The frivolities and absurdities of the Four Hundred that have provoked Henry Watterson's keen satire are not so much in evidence in Washington, and the winter colonies from other cities appreciate the more interesting life at the national capital.

Besides the floating social population that drifts to Washington each season there is every year added a permanent colony of men and women of wealth and refinement who have purchased or built delightful residences there. Within the last year eight or ten immense apartment houses have been erected on plans that appeal to those who wish to spend a part of the year in the city.

Gladstone's Power of Sleeping. Gladstone's habits are rather numerous. A good many of them are demolished in Mr. Morley's "Life." The world used to hear that he never lost his power of sleeping after the most exciting nights in parliament.

Sparrows in Tunis. In France and, in fact, in most European countries sparrows are commonly considered useful to the agriculturist on account of the quantities of caterpillars and other insects which they destroy.

THE NEW LITTLE GIRL.

An Extreme Example of the Modern System of Development. We have, sir, within the past half century effected an enormous advance in many lines. We have women's colleges, we have kindergartens, we have fairs, we have bridge whist and automobiles, we have clubs for the purpose of obviating the frightful necessity of the part of men and women to live at home.

"Hello, grandpa!" exclaimed the child. "Has anybody seen our cat?" "I made no reply." "Speak up," said the child, "if you don't happen to have amputated your voice, I've lost a kind of a tall cat done off in a tortoise shell finish. Her feet don't track, but she's sound and kind, city broke, stands without hitching and answers to the name of Laura Jean Libbey. Where is she?"

"No," said I. "Their son," said the female child. "This, sir, I presume is the result of our system of allowing children to develop along the lines of least resistance." - Syracuse Post-Standard.

—Whatever you do, do your best. The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, and doing well whatever you do without a thought of fame. If it comes at all, it will come because it is deserved, not because it is sought after.—Longfellow.

—Jails are built out of honest men's earnings. Courts are supported from peaceful men's property. Penitentiaries are built by the toll of virtue. Crime never pays its own way. Vice has no hand to work and no head to calculate. Its whole faculty is to corrupt and to waste, and good men foot the bills.

Diabaron was appointed constable in Parsons District.

—Nevada is the only state in the Union which has not gone ahead in the march of progress and improvement. In 1880 the population of the state was 62,000, it has now fallen to about 42,000. Lack of water is the main cause for the migration from the state. It is believed that the extensive irrigation works now in progress will do much to help the state.

—A New York physician has advertised an offer of five thousand dollars for a right ear, 2 1/2 inches long and 1 1/2 inches wide, with perfect curves and full lobe. He will graft the ear on a westerner, who made a fortune in gold mines, and lost his ear in a bowie knife encounter. He is about to get married and wants to surprise his prospective bride.

—Dog barbers in Paris do a flourishing business, as the toilet of the French poodle is very elaborate. They cut the dogs hair so that he resembles a lion, a striped zebra, or they leave a fierce moustache, beard, top knot, or hair braids. They do their business on the banks of the Seine as the river is handy to bathe the animal after he has been clipped.

—Miss Ellegood Phillips gave a "Flinch" party to a few of her friends on Wednesday evening. The invited guests were, Misses Minnie Elliott, Eva Wimbrow, Cora Turner, Sara Fallow, Messrs. —Mr. Chas. E. Harper received intelligence this week of the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Warfield Hillman, of the B. & O. Railroad. Deceased was 85 years of age and resided in Salisbury until recently. He was a member of Diamond Council, Royal Arcanum, of this city. A widow and three children survive him; also three sisters: Mrs. Chas. E. Harper and Mrs. Allison Johnson, of Salisbury and Mrs. Morris of Chester, Pa. Mr. Harper left Tuesday to attend the funeral.

—I saw the Mildred and Rouclere performance Saturday night. The Japanese acrobats are the finest I ever saw, and Rouclere, as a magician, and Mildred as a mind reader, are very clever. Two of the orchestra are from Sousa's Band and the music is very fine.—Col. T. Jefferson Pyle, in The Daily Banner, Monday, November 16, 1903. Col. Pyle is well known here as one of the firm of McDowell, Pyle & Co., Baltimore. At Ullman's Opera House, Saturday, November 21.

—Tuesday night about one o'clock during the rain storm the store houses of D. Edward Downing and L. B. Wilson in Hebron, were destroyed by fire also their entire stock of goods. Mr. Downing's loss is estimated at $700 with $400 insurance and Mr. Wilson's $400. There had not been any fire in either place since the afternoon and the supposition is that a mouse gnawing on a box of matches, started the flame. There was a strong wind blowing and, since there is no means in town of fighting fires, great concern was felt for the postoffice which is situated about fifteen feet away.

ALMOST AN EGG FAMINE

Prevails Over The Eastern States. Great Scarcity In The Cities. Price Reached High Water Mark In Salisbury Yesterday—30c a Dozen.

The egg situation is now attracting the attention of producers, buyers and consumers. The price has been soaring ever since November began. They have been rapidly jumping through the 20's until Thursday they reached 28 cents and went to 30 cents yesterday. In the city markets they are even higher. For this season of the year 80 cents a dozen is stated to be unprecedented locally. Eggs are now very scarce in Salisbury and the county. There are practically none coming in and the supply on hand is very light.

The present prices are much higher than at the corresponding period last year, when strictly fresh eggs were quoted in Baltimore at 26 to 29 cents, Western at 25 cents and Southern at 24 cents. Commission merchants cannot satisfactorily account for the continued scarcity of eggs. Hens always quit laying when moulting, but the moulting season has been in over for weeks. It is said that the cold, wet weather of last spring killed many young chickens, cutting off the flocks of early pullets that should now be reinforcing the veteran hens, and that this in a measure reduces the usual supply.

Market men are also hinting at a prospective turkey famine. The wholesale prices today for first class dressed turkeys are 19 and 20 cents, and the outlook is that the Thanksgiving dinner will prove expensive. The cold, wet spring which killed the early pullets was fatal to the young turkeys, and the flocks throughout the country were greatly reduced and in many cases entirely destroyed. The supply of chickens is abundant and prices remain normal.

TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 15.—In this sermon the preacher makes a plea for the observance and practice of Christian courtesies and of the minor virtues that go very far toward making up the sum of individual human character.

The world's favorite monochrome is the telescope. We admire objects for many different reasons.

Every tourist wants to see Niagara falls. It is the biggest of all falls.

And Mount Everest. It is the highest of all mountains.

And Kilauwa, because that volcano has the largest crater in the world.

And the Eiffel tower. It is higher than any other tower.

And we would circle the Ferris wheel because it is larger than any of the other wheels.

The human race, conscious that it is finite, aspires to explore the infinite.

Its conception of the sublime is not the dwarf, but the giant.

But, though tremendous bulk or magnitude or largeness or immensity may fascinate, yet to-day it is to point out some seeming insignificances which are more essential for the world's peace and harmony than was the Colossus of Rhodes.

Or the hanging garden of Babylon, or the temple of Diana at Ephesus, or the palace of Cyrus, cemented with gold.

Or any of the other seven wonders of the world. I find that, though my watch has its large wheels and bars and regulating hand and mainspring and adamantium jewels, yet it has also its little screws and little wheels and little cogs and little pins, which the jeweler has to study under the clarifying eye of the magnifying glass.

I also find that the absence perhaps of one of these little screws or cogs might stop the whole machinery of my watch as surely as if I should snap the mainspring.

Vital Essentials. Seemingly insignificances may be vital essentials. Some years ago, when crossing the Atlantic ocean, the companion with whom I was traveling one day suddenly flung open my steamer door and cried, "Come on deck! Something has happened to the ship!"

When I arrived on deck I found scores and hundreds of passengers excitedly watching the strange movements of the ship's course. Instead of plowing ahead, we were slowly moving around to the right in a perfect circle.

Just then an officer passed me, and I asked: "What is the matter, lieutenant? Is the rudder broken?" "Oh, no," said he, "we are merely testing a new compass. In order to find out whether it is perfect we had to wait until we were far away from the magnetic effect of rocks and land. Those influences may not seem to be much, but they may entirely deflect the accuracy of the compass needle."

Many years ago a large ship was wrecked because a small piece of steel from the point of a knife was driven into the wood near its compass box and made the compass finger a false guide.

Thus, my friends, I would take for my theme today the "Small Essentials" of life. I would try to show you that many of the seeming insignificances and the despised monads are pregnant with large broods of influences, every one of which will have large progenies.

A cholera germ may be so small that it is not visible to the naked eye. If, however, it is let alone in its work of devastation it can soon crowd the wards of the county hospital with invalids and keep the undertakers' wagons busy by day as well as the nurses' busy by night.

I ask the striking question which Zechariah put in times of old: "Who hath despised the day of small things?"

Personal Apparel. Small essentials: first: Appropriateness and neatness of personal apparel—appropriateness and neatness in reference to the coat a man wears upon his back, and to the shoes on his feet, and especially in reference to the cleanliness of the linen he wears about his neck, and to the modesty with which he is attired in public.

God would never have condemned the "cauls and the chains and the bracelets and the ruffles and bonnets and the ornaments of the legs and the headbands and the tablets and the earrings and the nose jewels and the changeable suits of apparel and the mantles and the whimples and the crisping pins and the glasses and the fine linen and the hoods and the veils" of the haughty daughters of Zion, "who walk with strolling forth necks and wanton eyes, walking and mincing as they go, and making a tinkling with their feet," unless there was a direct connection between a man's inner character and his "Sartor Resartus," or "Philosophy of Clothes."

Paul would never have commended the women of the Corinthian church to veil themselves in public assemblage if he had not been convinced that a woman's disregard of the social customs of the country and the time implied a lack of modesty and purity.

There is, there must be, an unbreakable spiritual link binding a man's personal apparel and his heart. "Cleanliness is next to godliness" is a trenchant statement not found in holy writ, but the substance of its teachings is certainly found within the leaves of the Holy Bible.

The elaborate directions which God gave to the Israelites for careful and frequent ablutions of the body and the clothes show that he is not indifferent to the cleanliness of those who come into his presence. We have, therefore, a right to doubt whether a person who is in public chronically dirty in person or slovenly or immodest in apparel can offer acceptable worship.

Hidden Talents. Yet to hear some slovens talk one might suppose it was a sign of mental degeneracy for men and women to be careful of their personal appearance. They pretend to believe that a well-groomed and neat man is essentially a weak man. Therefore they practically say that one of the signs of genius is a disregard of the decencies of life.

They cite the example of the Greek mathematician whose appearance in the streets shocked all the people who saw him, and the example of Napoleon and Samuel Johnson and Horace Greeley, all notorious for their indifference to ordinary neatness of attire, but such examples are not proofs of genius, but only of the power of genius to win its way in life in spite of disgusting habits.

The genius of Alexandre Dumas triumphed in spite of the degradation of his birth and Henry Fawcett became a statesman and successful administrator in spite of his blindness; so, personal uncleanness and slovenliness may fall to defeat the true genius.

And yet, deluded by this idea that slovenliness and uncleanness are signs of true greatness, many a lawyer, a doctor, a merchant, has ruined his financial chances in life because he would not dress as a gentleman should dress.

There are more ways than one of interpreting that passage of Scripture which says in reference to the one tall and thin man, "And was afraid and would not bid him enter in the earth." Some of "the earth" in which many men hide their talents of life is to be found in the filthiness and in the unkempt conditions of their wardrobes.

If it is necessary to be clean and neat in personal appearance in temporal work, how much more is this neatness essential when we are consecrating our lives to the service of Jesus Christ? The dear Saviour wants us to go first and labor in his vineyard the same way as he used to work. He was taunted with many reproaches during his earthly life, but those who hated him most never charged him with uncleanness or slovenliness, and we may be sure that the Pharisee who invited him to his house and the other hosts who entertained him would never have welcomed him as a guest if he had been careless about his person or his dress.

But we may have been poor, but we may be sure that there were no imputations upon it or upon him. So, Christian workers, if we go forth in Christ's name, some of us must be more careful about our personal appearance. Remember, O minister, when you ascend the pulpit, that your clothes may not be expensive, but they should be neat. Remember, O Sunday-school teacher, that when you expound the Bible lesson, you are not learning from you that it is to be a Christian. They are learning with their eyes as well as with their ears. Remember, O man of God, that wherever you go your clean skin and pure linen as well as your lips preach in Christ's name.

Character Development. Small essentials: next: The little kindnesses and courtesies which we should extend to those with whom we come in daily contact. The little acts of deference which we should show to ladies, such as taking off the hat when we stand with them in an elevator or allowing them to precede us through an opened door. The "Thank you, sir," with which a lady should acknowledge a gentleman's action when he rises in a street car to offer her a seat. The little social calls by which we should welcome a new neighbor or her friends into our community. The little gifts of delicacies which should be sent to the invalid's room of our neighbor's house. All these little attentions and courtesies may not seem to be of much value at the time, but they are mighty in the development or the depletion of human character. They are mighty in deciding whether a man is to live a selfish or an unselfish life.

How a selfish life? Simply enough. Here, for instance, is a man who enters in one seat and his overcoat by his side. Then he stretches out his long legs, puts his feet upon the opposite seat and begins to read a newspaper. After awhile the train fills up, but he does not remove his incumbrances. The man is an incarnation of selfishness. He cares only for his own comfort and is oblivious of the rights of others. He has paid for but one sitting. He has a right to occupy only his seat. He is monopolizing our sittings. When the poor old woman with a heavy bundle comes down the aisle, loudly looking for a place to rest and to deposit her load, he buries his face yet farther in the newspaper and pretends not to see her. The old lady hesitates a little by his side, and then passes on. You say: "That man is not a polite man. He is not a gentleman." I say: "Christ's courtesy means more than the two words 'polite' and 'gentleman.' That man is laying the foundations of an evil future. For if he is discourteous to his fellow men, if he is willing to crowd his fellow passengers in a railroad train out of the seats which rightfully belong to them, he is developing a disposition which, if not checked, may lead him and by to defraud his neighbor of the dollars and cents which by right belong to him. When Paul said: 'Be courteous to all men, as unto the Lord; for he that doeth so shall have a good reward.' He meant 'the honest, be fair, be noble in the little duties and attentions which you should show to your fellow men.'

Character Courtesy. Character is not born; it is developed. It springs not up in a night, as a fawn's gourd. It grows gradually. Lyman Beecher once said: "I took forty years," when one once asked him the question, "How long did it take to write that sermon?" By that Mr. Beecher meant that every year's work was a preparation for the following year's work. Every act of our present day is dependent in more ways than one upon the actions of our past. When a woman peeks out of her window to see the furniture over her head her new neighbor's furniture and then refuses to call upon that neighbor and extend to her the rightful social respect of the neighborhood, she is selling herself to refuse to extend a welcome hand to her humble sister when she enters her church. When a man is willing to push his way through the crowds blocking the aisles of a large dry goods store, forcing frail women to right and left and shoving aside the little children, he is nurturing the spirit which is shown by a criminal chauffeur who drives his automobile at a frightful velocity through the crowded streets of a large city. He drives it ahead, caring not what horses he may frighten or what person he may strike because he knows that, like a full-speeded Cuneader striking a fishing smack, it is the other person who will be hurt and not himself. Christian courtesy is of the tree of righteousness, and discourtesy is of the tree of sin. Let us beware how we ignore that apostolic commendation. "Be courteous" (1 Peter III, 8).

Furthermore, my brother, remember that discourtesy toward others almost invariably has a reactionary effect. The person whose complaints are not about the rudeness of others but generally the one who himself is rudest of all. Some time ago I was riding in a Pittsburgh street car. An aged colored man entered. His hair was as white as was that of Frederick Douglass just before his death. The car started ahead and nearly flung the old man upon his face. I rose and beckoned to him to come and take my seat. All eyes were turned about to me. He thanked me and went to the seat. Even after he was seated he kept on complaining about the people "not being willing to give an old man a seat."

At last I lost my patience. I leaned forward and said: "Friend, these passengers may have done wrong in not arising to give you a seat. They may have been impolite and discourteous. But did you ever stop to think that you yourself were once more discourteous to them? When I went to give you my seat, you were not enough of a gentleman to say 'Thank you' for it." So everywhere we find that the people who most complain about the discourtesy of others are apt, like the old black man, to be just as discourteous themselves. If there is this sin breeding note of impoliteness in the eyes of our brothers, let us be sure that we have not the larger sinful beam in our own.

Avoid Appearances of Evil. Still another of the next: The last lesson of all appearances of evil. The taking care of your life's actions so that they may never be false lights luring your neighbors and friends upon the fatal rocks of sin. The refusal to eat meat, if by the eating you may cause your brother to offend. "All things may be lawful, but all things are not expedient," was the substance of the Pauline injunction to the Corinthian church. "To seem" may sometimes be almost as great a sin as "to be." Mark you this: No man can afford in any way to have his influence cast upon the wrong side of any moral question. Nearly all our great religious teachers have recognized this truth.

We must abstain from all appearance of evil on account of our influence upon others. We must abstain from all appearance of evil on account also of the reactionary evil influence upon ourselves. One of the greatest blessings against sin is the good implanted desire to be thought well of by your neighbors. A man, on account of principle, ought to be ready, if necessary, to defy the scorn and the sneer and the opprobrium and the persecution and the misrepresentation and the ridicule of the human race. But every man may desire that his neighbors and friends think well of him; that they should regard his name as the synonym of honesty and truth and probity and respectability. And when any man comes to the dangerous condition in which he does not care what his neighbors think about him; when he intentionally and recklessly stirs up a hornet's nest of needless criticism; when he tauntingly boasts that it does not matter what others may say, as long as he is not doing wrong, then that man's feet are treading the soft quicksands of temptation and walking along the narrow edge of the precipice of death.

Keep Engagements. My sister, be careful about the character of your associates. My brother, be careful of the officer or member of the Christian church. I would not attend the theater again. You may say you need the relaxation. But you can find that relaxation in some other way. You cannot afford the risk. Young man, I would take down that semivulgar picture from your wall. You may say it causes no evil thought in your mind. You may argue that the nude in art is just as essential for true beauty as the nude in the dissecting room is essential for the study of anatomy and surgery. But you cannot afford the risk. Abstain from all appearances of evil. Perhaps you think this my own personal thought. It is not. Read I Thessalonians v, 22. "Abstain from all appearance of evil." It is the apostolic command.

Small essentials: last: The inexorable duty of keeping an engagement. The necessity of doing what you promise to do. If you say to a friend, "I will meet you at such and such a place, at such and such a time," you should be there. You should be there just as certainly as you would be down at the ship's dock on time when it is about to sail for Europe, and when you have purchased a $100 berth for the passage. If you cannot be on time, according to promise, for your engagement, then you should notify the person with whom you have the appointment. But the great trouble with many people is that they have no moral sense of the duty of keeping an engagement unless they wish to do so. They will promise anything, like a dishonest politician just before an election, and like the same dishonest politician after election they will forget all their promises if it suits their convenience to forget. The result is that the man's character and religious life will be eaten out by these little failures and sins, just as one little worm can tunnel its way into the heart of a great oak and eat out his heart until at last the monarch of the forest will have its backbone snapped by the on-rushing winds.

Despise Not Small Things. It is the foxes, the little foxes, that most often spoil the tender vines, not the elephantine monsters. Once in awhile, however, the heavy foot of an eastern camel might crush them out of the way, but the little foxes do the most mischief. It is the little weeds that destroy the gardens and with their bayonet thrusts of thorns stab the flowers to death, and the mighty growths of the cedars of Lebanon or of the weeping willows. So it is inevitably the small sins, the despised sins, the ignored sins, the sins of insignificance, that most frequently overthrow human character, not the behemoth sins, not the monstrous sins, not the sins catalogued in the biblical codes of man and of nations.

Therefore, O man, I beg and plead with you that you take Christ-into the smallest details of your life. Let the Christ be with you as much in the paying back of a borrowed five-cent piece as in the purchase of a stove. Let him be with you as much in the cleanliness of your wardrobe as in the cleanliness of your tongue. Let him help you in the Christian courtesies which you extend to your neighbors as well as in the Christian exhortations you offer in your church. Let him be with you in the little temptations, and then I know that you will make me able to bear the greater trials. With such a lesson as this for your consideration, who is there who will dare "to despise the day of small things?"

(Copyright, 1908, by Louis Klopfach.)

Bonded by His Repetitions. Holmes discovered that "it is a very serious thing to be a funny man," and one of the younger New England poets is said to have warned a beginner in literature never to publish humorous verse if he wished to make and keep a reputation as a serious poet.

A story, perhaps apocryphal, which is told of Mark Twain illustrates the theory that a humorist's reputation debars him from all other kinds of credit. Mark Twain is a lover of Browning and reads him aloud with excellent power. Once he read several passages to a company gathered in the house of a friend. Among the guests were some young ladies. One of them laughed during the reading. Afterward she confided with Mark Twain for the soberness of his audience.

"I was so sorry for you," said she. "The others did not seem to see the joke in it. I suppose you wrote it yourself. It was a skit on Browning, wasn't it? I understand about as much of it as I do of most of Browning."

The humorist explained humbly that he had tried to give the words as Browning wrote them.—Youth's Companion.

Knew the Voice. Like many other blind people, the late Dr. Milburn, chaplain of congress, could identify people by their voices even when he did not know them well or had not met them for years.

Once when Dr. Milburn was out driving a man stopped the carriage and beckoned the doctor's friend to come across the street. He went, and the stranger said: "When I was eighteen or twenty years old Dr. Milburn was in the habit of dining with my father. I want to see if he will know me by my voice."

The two men walked toward Dr. Milburn's carriage. The stranger said: "Dr. Milburn, do you know me?" "Yes, sir; you are the son of my old friend, the publisher, Mr. Harper." Dr. Milburn had not heard the voice for more than thirty years.

Not long before Dr. Milburn died Bishop Cranston visited him and entered the room without having his name announced. When he spoke Dr. Milburn called him by his name. They had not met for twenty-nine years.

Always For English Bishops. The ways of the Welsh bishops are not always perfectly smooth. The bishop of Bristol the other day told the church congress that a "gentleman" wrote to him a few days ago saying: "You scoundrel! What are you doing for your £5,000 a year?" And the new bishop of Manchester recently had a story on the same lines to tell against himself. Dr. Knox was speaking to a Birmingham audience and impressing them with the fact that Dr. Gore, the bishop of Worcester, was quite overwhelmed with work. "And yet," said Dr. Knox, "there are people who think bishops do nothing. Only the other day I was coming out of Dean's Yard, Westminster, when a man, very unsteady on his feet, lurched up to me, looked me all over from gaiters to the crown of my hat, shook his finger in my face and said, 'Lazy, lazy!'"

Neuralgia of Heart, Weak Stomach.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Her.

Memphis of the heart causes sudden death. It is an acute affection of the cardiac nerve, just as neuralgia is of the nerves of the face, usually, and sciatica is of the nerve trunk of the thigh. One of its most frequent symptoms is derangement of the stomach and liver. Strengthen the heart's action and enrich the blood with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure; tone up the nerves with Restorative Nervine and you will soon be cured.

Nervous exhaustion and liver trouble so affected my wife's health that she was greatly prostrated. Neuralgia of the heart set in and for a long time she was very close to the border-line of life and death. She was attended by two good physicians, who did all they could for her, but in spite of everything she grew worse right along. One day I saw an advertisement of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and New Heart Cure, and the doctor's explanation of the effects of nervous trouble upon the heart seemed so logical that I decided to give the remedy a trial. We now know that the stomach and liver troubles were part of the heart weakness. She improved wonderfully at once. Her appetite picked up, she slept well at night and the pain about her heart rapidly disappeared. Thank God, Dr. Miles' Heart Cure in a few weeks she was able to be up and attend to her household duties, and in a few months every sign of nervous and heart trouble had vanished.

A Good Business Proposition. Several Good Business Propositions to make you, and Here's the Point. We do business on business principles. When we sell you a pair of shoes they are as good as can be manufactured for the money. People spend most of their time in their shoes, and this fact makes the quality of footwear a question of prime importance. Our proposition to you is to sell you good honest shoes at a price as low as is consistent with good values. We make this proposition to all prospective shoe buyers, fully believing that it is to your interest to do business with us. We have many advantages to offer you as a reason why you should do your shoe buying of us, the first of which is, we are exclusive Shoe dealers and also the largest buyers of Shoes on the Peninsula. We can offer you the largest and most complete stock to select from. We do not have to give you one size when your foot needs another. Our large stock enables us to carry all sizes and widths in stock. We take pains to see that every foot is properly fitted and also to select the proper kind of Shoe to meet the requirement for which it is intended. We have the exclusive sale in this city of all the best known and most popular makes of Shoes. A person is often judged by the company they keep, so is a merchant by the merchandise he handles, and while we stand behind every pair of fair priced shoes we sell, whether made under some pet name or not. To those who want special lines we can offer such well known ones as the following: FOR MEN: The Walk-Over W. L. Douglas, Crossett's Long Life. FOR BOYS AND GIRLS: The Rice & Hutchins, Burley Stevens & Co., Excelsior. FOR LADIES: Queen Quality, Zeigler Bros., Cinderella, Allnut Moody, Drew, Selby & Co. All of these are good ones in their class and have reputations established on merit, but the burden of our story is simply Shoes, and not the maker—trust us for that and we will always give you full value for your money or cheerfully refund you the same. Think over our proposition, come and see us and let us more fully explain and show you that we mean business and we feel sure that you will find that our interests are mutual. Yours for Shoes, R. TRADING STAMPS

Found Rather Expensive By Merchants Here, But Most of Them Satisfied. Large Number Of Stamps Distributed. Exhibition Of Premiums.

To day Messrs. Birchhead and Shockley have placed on exhibition an assortment of stamp premiums in both their large show windows. The yellow stamp trading business has established a new feature in the stores using the system. The merchants generally report they have found it rather expensive and considerable inconvenience, although they say it is proving popular with their customers. Premiums are given for collections ranging from 125 to 5000 and the dealers say that by Christmas, many persons will have accumulated the larger number. They expect a rush from now to New Year's, as they think most of the stamps out have been reserved for holiday selections.

The premiums now on exhibition at the store of Messrs Birchhead and Shockley include; side boards, dressers, chiffoniers, dressing tables, couches, extension tables, Morris chairs, Rocking chairs, dining chairs, children's chairs, red rock re, ladies and gentlemen's watches, both hunting and open face, clocks of various kinds, berry spoons, pie knives, gravy ladles, tea spoons, table spoons, cold meat forks, sugar spoons, butter knives, pickle forks, carving sets, cream ladles, sugar sifters, chafing dishes, fruit knives, candle-bras, lace curtains, Webster's dictionary, portfolios, shaving sets, brush sets, toilet sets, fruit stands, sugar bowls, cracker jars, soup tureens, cake baskets, bread trays, water pitchers, jelly dishes, berry bowls, cheese dishes, fern dishes, spoon trays, card stands, spoon holders, tea pots, syrup cups, butter dishes, chocolate pots, baking dishes, nut bowls tobacco jars, napkin rings, cut glass celery bowls, cut glass sugar bowls, cream pitchers, water bottles, urns, lamps of all kinds, images of various kinds, violins, guitars, Mandolins, banjos.

FOR GOOD ROADS.

Representatives Of Counties To Meet In Baltimore Next Wednesday To Discuss Bill Now Drafted. National Aid Is Expected To Follow State Appropriation.

The proposed new law for good roads, which has been drafted and put in the form of a bill to be presented to the Legislature by a special committee appointed at a general meeting of representatives of 18 counties held in the Carrollton Hotel on September 2 last, is meeting with approval, as evidenced by the letters being received by Mr. Samuel M. Shoemaker of Baltimore county from many of the leading citizens of the counties who are interested in the making and maintenance of good roads throughout the State.

The committee which formulated the new law for this purpose, subject of course, to such corrections and changes as may be deemed proper, is composed of Messrs. Samuel M. Shoemaker of Baltimore county, Dr. E. J. Durkin of Worcester county, Dr. Richard S. Hill of Prince George's county, Gen. L. Victor Baughman of Frederick county, Mr. Allison Wilmer of Charles county, who is chairman of this committee; Mr. W. Irving Walker of Queen Anne's county, and Mr. Albert S. J. Owens of Baltimore city. Counties To Approve.

The bill as prepared by the committee will be submitted to the representatives of each county, who will meet on December 2 at the Carrollton Hotel, for their approval, and will be then discussed in detail.

Mr. Walter W. Crosby, roads engineer for Baltimore county, in discussing this proposed new law, said that he is heartily in favor of the bill as prepared, especially as this is a new law entirely for the purpose of obtaining good roads throughout the State, and will act as an incentive to the County Commissioners of the different counties to become more interested in this very necessary line of improvement. He said, also, that this proposed new law will not interfere or conflict in any way with the present road laws of the State Mr. Crosby added:

"The new law, as prepared, was modeled after the New Jersey, Massachusetts and New York laws upon this subject, and, as the laws in those States have been a success, I have no doubt that this law, after a fair trial, will meet with general approval. The proposed law is very plain and simply drawn, and does not need much explanation. The object of the law is for the State to assist the counties in their road work by paying one-half the expense of building new roads.

State To Supervise Work.
"The State is to have supervision of the State Geologic and Economic Survey is to furnish necessary plans and specifications and an estimate of the cost, according to said plans and specifications, upon the petition of the County Commissioners of any county desiring such improvements, and in case the Commissioners of any county are too conservative, they will be required to send such petitions, upon a petition being presented to such Commissioners by the owners of at least two-thirds of the land fronting on the public road in such county, upon their paying 10 per centum of the entire cost of the improvement.

"The proposed law contemplates the making of good roads out of good material, and if the roads are properly built the maximum cost of keeping them in repair will be about $30 a mile, as compared to about $150 a mile as required at the present time. Although the work done under this bill will at first be very slow, the sum of $100,000 being appropriated for this purpose each year by the State, it is entirely possible that, when the advantage of good roads to both the State and county is realized, there will be a much larger appropriation by the State for this purpose, especially if the proposed law is passed by the Legislature.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE FOR UNITED STATES SENATE.

EX-CONGRESSMAN JOSHUA W. MILES, OF SOMERSET COUNTY.

At a dinner given at the Hotel Princess Anne Thursday a formal boom was launched for Hon Joshua W. Miles for U. S. Senate. At the Democratic gathering were Gordon T. Atkinson, S. Frank Dashiell, Henry J. Waters, Thos. Dixon, Lewis M. Milbourn, E. S. Miles, Floyd Riggin, C. H. Gibson, Josiah W. Pollitt, L. C. Quinn of the Crisis Times, Wm. J. Webster, Chas. A. Miller, and C. W. Fontaine and Wm. H. Dashiell, editors of the Marylander and Herald.

After the dinner Wm. H. Dashiell presented the name of Joshua W. Miles to the Somerset county members of the legislature for their support for the U. S. senatorship. He was followed, in addresses, by Henry J. Waters and others.

Mr. Miles said that after due deliberation he would consent to allow his name to be used in connection with the senatorship, as far as his county's delegation in the legislature is concerned, but he expressed the desire that they should refrain from using it in any way to interfere with the harmony at present existing in the Democratic party of the state.

Mr. Dashiell ex-Gov. Smith, Hon. Isador Rayner, and ex-Gov. Jackson. The speaker contended that Mr. Miles' career as a lawyer, as a member of Congress, as a business man and as a citizen, was equal to that of any of the aspirants for a seat in the United States Senate.

Of considerable interest in connection with Maryland's efforts to get good roads is the project fathered by Representative W. P. Brownlow of Tennessee to secure national appropriations for the same purpose. Mr. Brownlow has introduced in Congress a bill appropriating $24,000,000, to be divided at the rate of $8,000,000 a year, upon the basis of road mileage, among the States of the Union for the purpose of building good roads.

One of the essential features of the bill is that no State can receive any part of this sum unless it raises for road work an amount equal to that asked for. This, with the provision for an equitable distribution, will prevent "log-rolling" and political manipulation of the fund. It is argued by those who approve the measure that good roads are of as much importance to the country as harbors and deep channels, and that if Congress makes appropriations for the latter it should help to improve the roadways.

"Weary Willie Walker" To Appear In Salisbury, Dec. 1.
Were it not for the excellence of the company in general it is quite likely the comedy force "Weary Willie Walker" would not have met with so unusual a success. A good company of comedians can make a success of almost any play of a farcical kind, because the actors subject into their parts their personality with abandon and build them up to a farcical standpoint. With a dialogue full of brightness and keen wit, the actors have had an easy task before them. There was little more for them to do than follow the precept of the author, George T. Smith, himself no mean writer of farce. Yet the comedian named, it is said, has even gone beyond the degree of humor of the author by absorbing his ideas and adding to them his own keen perception of characterization.

"Weary Willie Walker" is not the only character in the play. He is the scintillating one, of course, but there are others who figure prominently and enliven the play when "Weary Willie Walker" is not on the stage. Will be seen here on Tuesday, Dec. 1st, at Utman's Opera House. Prices, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Delmar Man Killed At Princess Anne By Car Wheel.
Mr. Obed Marvel, acting baggage master on the 7:35 Norfolk express, fell from a car while the train was being loaded with oysters at Princess Anne early yesterday morning and his head was severed by one of the car wheels passing over him. Mr. Marvel had been in the employ of the N. Y. P. & N. Railroad for about a year as a freight brakeman. He resided at Delmar, where he had a wife and two children.

The north-bound express receives a transfer of oyster cars brought over from Crisfield, at Princess Anne on its morning trip, and it was while handling these that the fatal accident occurred. Marvel was about 88 years of age and formerly resided on the E. W. Hastings place near Laurel.

BASIS OF SUFFRAGE.

Argument To Show It Is Not Inherent But Derived From The State. Cannot Be Classed With Natural Rights Such As Life, Liberty And The Pursuit Of Happiness.

Messrs. Editors—Concluding our historical outline of suffrage progress in our last paper, it might be added that the Jacksonian Era of constitutional development witnessed a strong emphasis of executive power. It may not be impertinent also to add, a fact well known to all students of constitutional government, that power in the people and power in the executive as their representative, go hand in hand.

At this period also the aristocratic method of nominating presidential candidates by congressional caucus had given way to the more popular one of the national party convention system. Suffrage while not entirely free from limitations, was very general in most of the States. Their constitutions had been formed by powerful interests, perhaps mainly large landed proprietors, original granters of manors and manorial rights, as accorded with the old English system.

The aristocracy of the country was largely agricultural and the commercial interest unimportant. But as has been said these landed powers were gradually undermined by the forces aforesaid, and the exigencies of the state and times seemed to demand and found expression in the constitutions by extension of the suffrage whether for better or worse.

Favorable naturalization laws by the national government was not the least of the agencies which greatly augmented the voting population by letting in persons of foreign birth. The last of the great important changes in the sources of governmental power by suffrage was brought about by the 14th and 15th amendments to the constitution of the United States by which a population of six or seven millions of former slaves were given the ballot, or, at least as a result of a great Civil War the reconstruction policy of Congress demanded of the Seceded States acceptance of these Amendments before they could be reinstated in their former positions as States. Suffrage having reached its flood tide, and party zeal having spent its force, conservative people are now asking if sentiment has not played too prominent a part in public affairs and many States are seeking to retrace their steps somewhat and it is hoped, with justice to all parties, in some form of qualified suffrage. Thus much for historical reference.

The careful reader of the above sketch as outlined in last paper will have anticipated to some extent, the governmental or constitutional attitude of the courts towards the suffrage. We will now attempt to supplement the same by tracing however imperfectly some of the salient features of the law. The decisions of the courts upon the subject of elections are pretty largely predicated upon the broad principle that suffrage is not a natural right like "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," but one for the benefit of the State and to be regulated accordingly. In beginning, therefore the examination of the law we should begin with its basic principles or theory of suffrage—the fundamentals, on which the legal superstructure, as it were, is raised.

First, then, the basis of suffrage. In a pure Democracy every man would be entitled to his franchise. But have we a true democracy? The gradual tendency of our country has been towards a democracy. But nations are not born in a day—until that day comes the State must have the power to preserve its own existence. Voting is an expression of the public will. Every voter who is excluded is excluded on the theory he has no will, or no intelligent will. This is the theory upon which the law disfranchises for accepting a bribe. Besides the more numerous the voters without will the greater the power of wealth.

Again the basis of suffrage as regarded by the courts, does not appear (as before adverted to) to be one of natural right—a right we would have in a savage or wild State unconnected with society. There are some rights which law can neither make or unmake. They belong to us absolutely. Constitutional writers say: "A gift from nature must be absolute"—not contingent upon the State coming forward afterwards with uncertain changeable enactments to name the conditions and point out the persons who may enjoy the bounty. It is held that whatever suffrage is calculated to defeat the general purpose—the benefit of the government—to introduce anarchy and the innumerable mischiefs that would follow from the destruction of public order, is "to be condemned by the great Author of government."

In the pursuit of democracies it is impossible that all should participate. Legislatures act upon this theory when they prescribe qualifications for age, sex, citizenship, residence, persons convicted of crimes, paupers and want of mental capacity. Other qualifications which can be overcome and are therefore no real impediments to suffrage are educational and property qualifications, provisions for registration and that election shall be by ballot, etc. So that we may say in general in a government by the people it is limited generally to males, to citizens, to certain specified ages, to sound minds, to certain moral character, to compliance with registry acts etc.

If possible on this subject of "Basis of Suffrage" let us not stop short of full demonstration. Chief Justice Comings, Dec. 9th, Houston reports in a case of failure to pay poll tax said: "It is not directly denied in behalf of the plaintiff, in fact it is conceded, that the power to use the ballot is one of those derived from government, or the political society in which the elector resides. At the same time the contention here is the outgrowth of the idea that the primary object of government is universal suffrage of the electorate. It is of course entirely consistent with the hopes of most men, members of a political body (as one of the States of the Union) that every person recognized by society as acting sine jure should participate in the ballot and all such it is believed are accorded that privilege. But in this State, as no doubt in most of the others, it is conferred only on the condition of contributing to the support of the government. The paramount duty of organized society is not to make the use of the ballot free to every such person, but to provide the means for its own sustenance, which is done by taxation, and after that, but altogether subordinate to it however, to secure to the power of taxes, not the mere "taxable," the privilege or "right" as it is generally called to vote at elections. There is no natural right to vote. It is one conferred by the community at large upon certain of its members, which implies the power and authority to withhold it from others. The whole idea of our original government, that before 1776, was that only those who paid taxes should vote, not that all should vote, but only those who helped to support the government. It was a privilege conferred upon such, and such only. They were the "free-men" out of whose body, in the public aggregate mass, the public officers particularly the legislative council and assembly were to be chosen. Those who had real estate were voted upon it and such as had not were assessed upon the poll."

The subject is further illustrated in our own State of Maryland in the case of petition for mandamus to compel Registration officers to register name of applicant and refusal to take the test oath of 1865. In this case it was held that the right of suffrage is the "creation of the organic law of the State and may be modified or withdrawn by the same authority which can find it without such modifications or withdrawals, being considered as the infliction of a punishment upon those disqualified."

Anderson vs. Baker 284 Md. 5, 81. Again in 32 Florida State vs. Dillon, where the question was of the General Law of the State applied to municipal elections. It was held the right to vote is not an inherent right or absolute right found among those generally reserved "bills of rights," but its possession is dependent upon constitutional or statutory grant.

Subject to the limitations contained in the Federal constitution the election franchise is under the control of the Sovereign power of the State. When the constitution has conferred and prescribed qualifications it is of course paramount until amended.

Resolutions Of Anti-Saloon League Regarding Legislation.

At a meeting of the county Anti-Saloon League held at Salisbury Nov. 24, inst, delegates from the various districts of the county being present the following resolution was unanimously passed: RESOLVED That it is the sense of this meeting that the temperance people of D. Inmar, Nutters and Salisbury districts are entitled to the fruits of their victory won at the polls; and we request and expect our representatives, both in the Senate and House, at the coming session of the Legislature to secure the enactment of such direct prohibitory laws for these districts as will give to the people residing therein, that freedom from the presence of the saloon and its evil influence in their midst, for which they have voted by large majorities.

Lee Cary and his friend Mr. Ernest Ayres of Baltimore, arrived on the late train Monday night leaving Tuesday fully quipped and prepared for a trip down the bay, hoping to make their home run the latter part of the week laden with ducks and geese. Ned Cary was also one of the party passing on to Ocean City intending to join the others later. If health and weight is of any importance in a ducking contest Ned will surely be entitled to his share. -Mr. Milton L. Vessey, representing the Pocomoke Telephone Co's interest, has spent two weeks in our midst and made a very favorable impression, proving himself a most agreeable and highly cultured gentleman. Mr. Vessey is a lawyer in his native city Pocomoke, and he may feel assured his friends in Berlin will always be glad to see him and extend a cordial welcome. His efforts in our community at the present show every indication of being satisfactory and proving successful. -Mr. J. H. Wainwright, one of Delaware's prominent and most highly respected citizens died suddenly Tuesday morning about four o'clock. A son, Mr. Branch Wainwright, prominently connected with the Diamond State Telephone, unfortunately was in Berlin and did not receive the news of his father's departure until some hours later, returning to Seaford on the afternoon train. Mr. Branch Wainwright has made many friends in our town who deeply sympathize with him and the family in their bereavement. Deceased was 64 years of age and died of heart failure. -The ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Berlin will hold the long looked for bazaar, on Friday, the fourth of December at Gray's Hall, Broad Street. The occasion seems to have become annual. Last December it was one of the large features preceding Christmas, and drew many patrons who were enticed by the variety and excellence of the articles exhibited, and the general attractiveness of the exposition. All arrangements have been made with careful attention, and all the important paraphernalia and accessories are in charge of experienced and well managed committees. The bazaar will open at three o'clock Friday afternoon. What A Schoolhouse Should Be. Let us have a Twentieth Century schoolhouse in which it will be possible to educate a Twentieth Century child - in which a well trained, refined man or woman will be willing to teach. Why should the newness or the difficulty of the problem daunt us? What a terrible waste, a rotting of municipal money but of human energy, to keep on building impossible houses and then try to remodel them! Let us cut loose from tradition and have a schoolhouse in which the whole child may thrive - not only his mind, but his body. Not only give him clean air and washing facilities but cheerful, uplifting surroundings and good food; for not the least of modern discoveries is that of the great influence of food upon the bodily resistance to disease and on mental development. Therefore lunchrooms with all the facilities for food both hot and cold, must be included in the Twentieth Century schoolhouse. I believe the day is not far off when the town schools with two sessions will provide a noon lunch instead of sending the children through we, muddy streets to a home from which the mother may be absent, to pick up as they may such food as they find. Even if the food is right, may it not be possible to utilize the noon hour to better advantage in teaching gardening, book keeping or in games? -Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, in the out'ook.

THE BLUES

Don't Wait Until Your Sufferings Have Driven You to Despair, With Your Nerves All Shattered and Your Courage Gone.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way:

She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached, and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling. Her doctor says: "Cheer up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But the doctor has made a mistake. She grows worse day by day, till all at once she realizes that a distressing female complaint is established. Her doctor has made a mistake.

She has lost faith in him; his vanishes; then comes the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting BLUES.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instantly asserts its curative powers in all those peculiar ailments of women, and the story recited above is the true experience of hundreds of American women, whose letters of gratitude we are constantly publishing.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak and sick and discouraged, exhausted with each day's work. If you have some derangement of the female organism try the remedy that has restored a million women to health.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I cheerfully recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my suffering sisters as a perfect medicine for all female derangements. I was troubled with displacement of the womb and other female weakness. Had headache, backache, and such bearing-down pains I could hardly walk across the floor, and was very nervous. A friend advised me to try your medicine, which I did, and after using twelve bottles of your Vegetable Compound, I began to improve. I took in all twelve bottles of your Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills, also used the Sanative Wash and was cured, and have no return of my troubles. I am as well now as I ever was. I am more thankful every day for my cure. I know that your medicine will do everything that it is recommended to do for suffering women."—Mrs. DOBA ANDERSON, North Muskegon, Michigan.

"I want to tell you what your remedies have done for me. Before taking them I used to have a continuous headache, would be very dizzy, would have spells when everything seemed strange, and I would not know where I was. I went to our local doctor. He gave me some medicine, but it did not seem to do me any good, but after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to improve at once. I can honestly recommend your remedies to all suffering women, and advise all to give it a trial."—Mrs. HENRY SELL, Van Wyck, Wash.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

If there is anything in your case about which you would like special advice, write freely to Mrs. Pinkham. She will hold your letter in strict confidence. She can surely help you, for no person in America can speak from a wider experience in treating female ills. She has helped hundreds of thousands of women back to health. Her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice is free. You are very foolish if you do not accept her kind invitation.

A TRAGEDY OF APPEARANCES

PART I.

"Love and lavender," said Alice Mumford, sitting on the edge of the table in the small parlors at Seacombe, "went out with crinolines, my dear mother."

Mrs. Mumford, lying back in her chair, smiled pensively at her only daughter.

"I think we are very much the same as we always were, dear. We only wear different clothes," said Alice.

"That is the theory of the 'eternal feminine,' I suppose, but it is as old-fashioned as—well, the inequality of sexes. Perhaps we marry for love, but we always take care to dispose of our love so that it goes with the money."

"Birth, Death and Love, Alice," she murmured, "are still the three greatest things in life."

Alice jumped lightly off the table, and kneeling down by the side of her mother, put her arms round her neck.

"You dear old thing! Here we are doing our best to keep up appearances on $150 a year in order that our neighbors may imagine that we have at least $1,000; so that I shall have a chance of marrying well. And you are talking in your nice staid way of love, as if life was still a scented valentine."

Mrs. Mumford realized the truth of her daughter's remark, though her nature rebelled against the sentimentality implied. Her latter life had not been cast exactly in pleasant places. She herself, the daughter of well-to-do parents, had married a man whose income and estates were beyond reproach. But those were the days before "The Married Woman's Property Act," and when Mrs. Mumford died Mrs. Mumford suddenly awoke to the double realization that she was a widow and that her late husband had been a gambler and a spendthrift. All that was left to her was a small annuity of $150, for which a kindly-disposed aunt, long dead had been responsible.

She had come to Seacombe because that secluded seaside resort was visited solely by the moderately well-to-do classes who toll not, neither do they spin. She wished her daughter, if possible, to marry a well-to-do husband, but this did not imply successful butchers or belted grocers, and so she had purposely avoided the resorts of the nouveau riches.

So between them they were content to eat little, and stint themselves in every possible way, in order that the one commercial asset of the family, as Alice loved to call herself, might be dressed to the best advantage.

"And now, mother," said Alice, rising to her feet, "the most important business has to attract the attention of the firm this morning. Mr. John Forrester has appeared upon the scene. We have the advantage in this case of having known both himself and his people for some considerable time. Although his parents are dead, and he himself has been traveling abroad for the last five or six years, we know that financially he is irreplaceable. So far we have succeeded in making him believe that we are staying here in order to oblige an old servant who has taken to the lodging house business. This pardonable little fiction accounts admirably for our present position. He still believes that we are well off, as in the days of old, and he has not therefore yet avoided us because of our comparative penury. To-night I am to meet him at the ball at the Assembly Rooms. I do not suppose we shall finally conclude any business arrangements to-day, but he must propose during the next fortnight."

PART II.

"From Alice Mumford's point of view the ball in the Assembly Rooms and the events immediately succeeding it were a decided success. To the meanest feminine intellect it would have been obvious that Forrester was falling rapidly in love. In the even course of life at Seacombe the men and the women had ample opportunity to meet every day, and had Alice permitted it, Forrester would have proposed on three or four separate occasions. But, strange as it may, Alice did not permit it. To the average male intelligence it would have seemed that her interests would have prompted her to allow her lover to lay his heart at her feet. But the way of a maid with a man is a very strange one indeed. It was because Alice had fallen in love with Forrester that she avoided allowing him any opportunity for avowing his affection. Somehow it seemed to her almost irreligious that she should permit him to do so after regarding him previously in the light of a mere money machine.

"I am sorry, however, they were playing a similar part. Forrester was a man whose riches in virtues might possibly be described under one head, 'laziness.' He had gone through life and incidentally most of his money, with lazy good nature. He took the advice of his friends, seemingly because it was too much trouble to think for himself, and the advice in the majority of cases had been of such a nature as to benefit the pockets of his advisers, rather than the moral and material position of Forrester himself. Consequently he had woke up one morning to find that a guileless child of Jerusalem had foreclosed on the paternal estate, and that merely a few thousands were left to him of his former income.

He was too lazy to alter his mode of life, and so, except to a few intimate friends, he kept up appearances without any difficulty. But when the bank balance grew less and less, it became apparent to him that something must be done. As usual, he took the advice of friends. Their advice was to marry money, and though the idea bored him at first, yet when he met the charming Miss Alice Mumford he considered it the best piece of advice he had ever received in his life. He became hopelessly in love, and his embarrassments and the reasons of his applying for the hand of any woman were quite forgotten.

Again and again he tried to propose to the girl he loved, but though a light in her eyes informed him that his affection was not absolutely hopeless, yet she always put off his avowal with some subterfuge or other. The climax of the situation was reached on the occasion of another ball at the Assembly Rooms. They were sitting together under the shadow of a palm, in a cozy corner, and a violent effort Forrester had introduced the subject of matrimony into the conversation.

"A successful marriage," said Alice, "is playing with her fan. 'Is like going. It is an infinite capacity for taking pains.'"

"Oh, come, Miss Mumford," said Forrester, "even in these degenerate days love plays some part in marriage. It is not purely a matter of effort."

"When you talk of love in connection with marriage, it always implies love in a cottage and a divorce six months after date in consequence."

"Yes, I must confess that to me love in a cottage, since it necessarily means that you cannot afford to live in a mansion or a decent-sized house, seems horribly uninteresting. I could not bear to be bored."

"The old adage poverty at the front bell, and love at the back door," retorted Alice.

Forrester felt that the conversation was once more drifting away from the subject which he had so much at heart. He meant to propose that night, and like most lazy men, when he had definitely come to a conclusion not all the king's horses and all the king's men would move him from his purpose.

Before another minute was over he had discovered in himself a latent talent for eloquence. In short, he told Alice that he loved her, and begged her to be his wife.

On Alice the effect of his avowal, so long expected and so long feared, had a curious effect.

She grew very pale, and made no reply. Then the man looked up into her face and wondered.

"Alice," he said somewhat huskily, "you do love me, don't you?"

"For answer the girl disengaged her hand from his."

"Before I answer your question," she said, putting restraint upon her voice, "I must tell you something. When I first met you down here I met you with an object. My mother and I, as perhaps you are not aware, were left very badly off, practically with only enough money to keep body and soul together. I did not take my heart into consideration at all. I tried originally to make you love me because you were wealthy."

She placed a slight emphasis on the word "wealthy," which did not escape the surprised ears of Forrester.

"When I tell you that I am nothing more or less than a scheming woman, do you still ask me that question?"

She looked him straight in the face. He turned away his eyes, a look almost of pain crossing his forehead.

To the girl it seemed as if the knowledge of her plot had killed his love, and a great weariness weighed on her heart.

He did not speak for some seconds. Then at last he broke the silence, which was becoming almost too tense for both of them.

"Alice," he said in a shaken voice, "I, too, have a confession to make. I am not rich as you think. I have lost nearly all my money, with the exception of about $5,000 and I was advised by my friends to look about for a rich wife. It was to be a modern commercial transaction in which the girl was to be my dupe for I was to keep an eye on the cash, and the treatment of my first sought your company because I thought you were rich, as I knew your father was. But I grew to love you almost in spite of myself. Though I can claim for you nothing but your contempt, still I should like you to know that you will always be to me the sweetest thing on God's earth."

With a little gasp, as if pain, Alice rose to her feet. She forced a laugh through her clenched lips—a bitter laugh that was not good to hear.

"So," she said, "we have been playing a little game of comedy—a comedy of keeping up appearances. You bought me for my money, you say. I bought you for yours, and we neither of us have any."

She sank back suddenly on the seat, and putting her hands over her face, burst into tears. Forrester was deeply moved. So, after all, this girl did not love him!

"Comedy!" he exclaimed. "Do you call it comedy to play with a man's soul like this? I call it the tragedy of appearances." Man-like, he suddenly forgot his own deception and the part he had played. "You have played with me, and fooled me, and made me believe you loved me."

For a second there was silence, save for the sobs of the girl.

Then brokenly she spoke. "I did love you and I do love you, and shall love you always and for ever."

With a little cry of joy, Forrester took one of her hands and drew it away from her face.

"Alice," he said, "we have both been foolish. I can make enough money, I am sure, for both of us, though I have never yet tried in my life. And until then—'he paused for a moment—'I love in a cottage so absolutely impossible, after all? Let us try it!'"

And they did—Ladbroke Black, in Black and White.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Old Verbosity.

We prided ourselves that Hawkins was a quiet man. Every time he opened his mouth he seemed to be engaged in a conversation. He would engage our attention for any length of time, and a blissful, dreamy silence. We looked at each other with congratulatory smiles. Hawkins was squelched at last.

But what? We suddenly heard the preparatory little cough with which Hawkins invariably launches his speech against an unoffending people. "And speaking about nothing at all," remarked Hawkins, "and speaking about nothing at all, reminds me of a little—"

And there he was! Sometimes we think we will get married, so that we can vary this frightful monotony. Even if a girl of our choice should have such a flow of language as Hawkins has, we can at least ask her to close her confounded head, occasionally.—New York Sun.

He Couldn't Understand It.

Seymour W. Tullock, whose charges against the Postoffice Department have occasioned a grave scandal, was laid up last winter with a cold that a bad cough accompanied.

His physician visited him one morning and found him worse.

"You seem to cough with much more difficulty to-day than yesterday," the physician said.

"That is strange," Mr. Tullock murmured. "For I was practicing all last night."—Detroit News Tribune.

Rheumatism Cured or No Pay.

This guarantee is wrapped around every bottle of NELATON'S REMEDY. There can be no mistaking its meaning; we will refund the money of any one in whose case NELATON'S REMEDY has failed to effect a cure of any of the following diseases: Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory, Muscular or Neuralgic Rheumatism—Rheumatism of Joints or Heart—Rheumatic or Neuralgic Gout—Gout in Small Joints or Stomach—Neuralgia of Heart or Face—Sciatica.

NELATON'S REMEDY has been used by the public for over 35 years, and our records show that only one out of 200 purchasers has asked for money back. No other rheumatic remedy has a record like this—no other is so good that 199 out of 200 purchasers chafe at its benefits. We could not guarantee it so strongly were it not a wonderfully good medicine. You should never be without NELATON'S REMEDY. It is the handiest kind of medicine to keep in the house. Get a bottle from your druggist, and you will see why we guarantee it positively to cure. Sample free on request.

THE PANAMA TREATY.

By the promptness of its negotiation, and the value of the concessions made by Panama, the Republican Administration is trying to make amends to the American people for its utter disregard for the rights of a sister republic...

FORMAN SMILES AND WAITS.

Some people say Senator Arthur Pae Gorman of Maryland looks like an act or—and he does. Some people say he is an actor—and, perhaps, he is. Nevertheless, he is the strongest individual force on the Democratic side of the United States Senate...

A half hour's conversation with him is a liberal education in suavity and acuity. "Smooth" describes him. He has an expansive, genial, almost affectionate, smile for all comers.

His face is clean-shaven, finely molded and ruddy with health. His powerful nose stands out between two twinkling eyes. He smiles with his whole face. His voice is soft and low. His clothes fit his well filled figure perfectly.

He has seen much service in the Senate, where he was once a page. He learned his politics in Maryland, where politics is an art. He knows how the great legislative machine of the Government runs, understands every cog, eccentric, and lever.

Gorman's great strength lies in the fact that he knows and can execute. He is a strategist. He understands the value of compromise. He can use the battle axe if necessary, but he is most expert with the flag of truce and conference.

His recent speech attacking President Roosevelt for his attitude on the race question shows how the wind is blowing. That was a bid for the votes of the South in the next Democratic National Convention.

THANKSGIVING SERMON

In Part, As Preached by Rev. G. A. M. at Union Service in The M. P. Church. Some of The Pith of His Address.

"We have heard with our ears, O God, our fathers have told us, what work thou didst in their days, in the times of old. How thou didst drive out the heathen with thy hand, and plantedst them; how thou didst affect the people, and cast them out. For they got not the land in possession by their own sword, neither did their own arm save them, but thy right hand and thine arm, and the light of thy countenance, because thou hadst a favor unto them."

Thanksgiving day is an institution cherished in the hearts of all our people. Its origin is far back in the earliest days of our colonial history, and the passing years have breathed upon it a hallowed character.

Among the Jews of old there were three annual feasts of joy and thanksgiving, the Passover, Pentecost and Tabernacles. The prominent thought in all of these was God's goodness and special emphasis was put upon their birth as a nation and their coming into the land of the covenant.

The proclamation of President Roosevelt designating this day as "a day of general thanksgiving unto Almighty God for His manifold mercies," and in harmony with whose recommendation we are here this morning, calls special attention to the blessings of self government which are ours, to the duties and responsibilities which devolve upon us as citizens, and utters the warning that our failure would blot out the stars of hope and faith in the power and righteousness of liberty from the skies of the nations and leave mankind in despair.

Let us look at the pathway along which and in the favor of God our fathers came into this rich blessing for themselves and for us. During the struggle for independence under the leadership of Virginia and Massachusetts everyone of the thirteen colonies had been true and faithful to the cause of American freedom, but with the close of the war and the removal of the common danger, animosities and jealousies began to show themselves.

The States had no firm and permanent bond of union and were without an efficient national government. The Continental Congress was as Boyce says, "A revolutionary body called into existence by the war," the Declaration of Independence did not even pretend to furnish a bond of union and the Articles of Confederation utterly failed in their effort to "establish a firm league of friendship between these states."

Our system of government was the work of the convention held in Philadelphia in 1787 and its blessings are briefly these:

- 1. The Constitution is the firm bond of union between the separate states and guarantees the separate existence and autonomy of the states within the union.
2. The just powers of the government are derived from the consent of the governed and those powers are divided into three separate and distinct departments, legislative, executive and judicial.
3. The doorway to revolution is closed by the Constitution for it reserves to the people the right of amendment.
4. It recognizes the dignity and glory of man and protects him in his rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.
5. Holding man thus valuable it guarantees to him perfect freedom of conscience.

Our achievements in the expansion of our territory, the growth of our population, the development of our resources and the creation of our wealth have been most wonderful, but our true glory does not lie in any of these things, it must be sought in other directions. Our true glory and the pledge of our stability lies:

- 1. In the blessings of education widely distributed among the people.
2. In obedience to law, in a reverence for and an abiding devotion to the laws dignified, just and splendid forms, and
3. In absolute fidelity to the higher law of God.
But the President in his proclamation continues: "Failure would not only be a dreadful thing for us, but a dreadful thing for all mankind, because it would mean loss of hope for all who believe in the power and righteousness of liberty."
Shall we fall? Will our glorious fabric be dismantled? Will howling iconoclasts write "Ruin" across the doorway of the beautiful Temple of our Liberties?
If as I have said our strength and stability rest in the blessings of education widely distributed, in obedience to law and a reverence for its forms, in absolute fidelity to the higher law of God, then these are to be cherished and maintained at any cost.

1. We must be alert and watchful against those enemies of the public schools who in our midst continually seek their overthrow. The plea of Cardinal Gibbons that the public schools be denationalized is not to be listened to.

2. We must be alert and watchful against those enemies of law and order who under cover of the darkness, spurning the forms and processes of law resort to brute force in destiny with the accused.

Lynch law is mob violence and anarchy. It is deadly treason against the government and persisted in means the death of liberty. This monster creeps out in the darkness of the night and in these states with fell intent strikes its cowardly blow at Liberty and Constitutional law. A righteous citizenship should crush it to the earth.

We must be alert and watchful against every temptation to forsake obedience to God's law, and we shall not fail. Christianity call our national life into being and the "Power that made will preserve us a nation. He who guided us through the stormy seas of the 19th will guide us through those of the 20th century and the Republic shall come to the haven of its high and holy destiny:

"Thou too sail on, O ship of State! Sail on O Union, strong and great! Humility with all his fears With all a hope of future years, In hanging breathless in the fate! We know what Master laid thy keel, What workmen wrought thy ribs of steel, Who made each mast and sail and rope, What anvils rang, what hammers beat, In what a forge and what a heat Were shaped the anchors of thy hope! Fear not each sudden sound and shock 'Tis but the flapping of the sail, And not a rent made by the gale In spite of rock and tempest's roar In spite of false lights on the shore, Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea! Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee, Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears, Our faith triumphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee, are all with thee."

Fire Destroys Large Factory Of E. G. Davis At Willards.

Fire broke out at the tacket and crate factory of E. G. Davis, at Willards, 15 miles east of Salisbury, early Wednesday morning, and for a time other buildings in the town were threatened. The place has about 150 inhabitants and the buildings are mostly new frame structures. The fire was discovered in the basket factory, and a large warehouse, in which crates and baskets were stored, was quickly ablaze. The cranning factory was also soon in flames and all three buildings were destroyed. In the warehouse were four carloads of canned goods, which were burned. The loss is estimated at about $5,000, and there is no insurance.

Mr. Davis had the misfortune two years ago to lose his basket and crate factory and sawmill, entailing a loss of near $5,000. At that time he had no insurance on any of the property.

Lank Barn Burned. Tuesday morning fire was discovered on the premises of Mr. John T. Lank, who lives a few miles east of Salisbury. The fire was in his large barn and within a short time the building was burned to the ground. The flames communicated to the other outbuildings and it was with an effort that the dwelling was saved. The stock was gotten out of the barn, but about 1,600 bushels of ear corn, seven stacks of pea hay, a large lot of cow peas, all the farming utensils, drills, mowers, reapers, harness, wagon bodies and soft feed were destroyed. Mr. Lank says he thinks the fire was of incendiary origin. There was no insurance except on the barn, amounting to only $850. The loss is estimated at about $1,200.

The District Sunday School Convention At Bivalve.

Sunday was a great day at Bivalve. From an early hour the church was packed with people and the interest and enthusiasm grew until the final service, which was attended by overwhelming numbers, many having been unable to enter the building. The exercises both on Saturday and Sunday were intensely interesting. Among those who participated were Rev. F. T. Little, D. D., President of Maryland Annual Conference, Rev. E. H. Derickson, Rev. C. J. Burdette, Rev. J. L. Ward, State Supt., Geo. H. Nock, Messrs. J. F. Jester, Esau Larnore, John Messick, and Miss Beatrice Robertson.

The consensus of opinion is that the Convention has accomplished great things for the Sunday School work of this section. Already the introduction of new plans are being considered, including the organization of a normal class, and a teachers meeting.

The Register's Broom, Etc. from An Advertiser Reader.

Mr. Editor:—"That broom you spoke of in your last issue as having been in use by the Deputy Register, Mr. Levin Dashiell for 12 years, and a great saving to the tax payer of Wicomico County would be very commendable were it not a daily reminder that 'that stove' is kept very hot all the time and the use of the county coal is very great on that account. The tax payer would gladly present Mr. Dashiell with a dozen new brooms if he would use less coal. In a sanitary point of view, a little scrubbing of the floor might be conducive to health, but Mr. Dashiell, having studied the question very thoroughly contends that the use of water on an office floor is not necessary and for six years more not a drop goes on that floor! The over heating of the office and a dry floor are questions that will confront the Register of Wicomico County to settle. READER.

Purnell—Laws.

Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock a quiet but pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mrs. Ida Williams, sister of the bride, when Miss Maa Laws became the wife of Mr. Matthew Purnell. The ceremony was performed by Elder Poulson, in a very impressive manner in the presence of a few relatives of the bride and groom, as both bride and groom have had recent bereavements in the family.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. James Laws and a sister of the Messrs. Laws brothers of this city. She is also a niece of Major Laws, of the regular army. The groom is a son of the late Levi Purnell, of Snow Hill. After a brief honeymoon trip the couple will reside near Snow Hill.

Among the out of town relatives who attended the wedding were: Mrs. Annie Messick, of Middletown, Del.; Mrs. Thos. M. Purnell of Snow Hill, Wallace Purnell of Snow Hill, Miss Estelle Truitt of Box Iron, Md. and Mrs. Wm. T. Fowler and Jennie Purnell of Snow Hill.

—The case of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company vs. Governor John Walter Smith, and others, sureties of the late Wm. S. Wilson, was called before the Circuit Court for Wicomico county Monday, but was continued. It is thought that the case will be compromised and settled out of Court.

Shakes' Pears to Be Right. What's in a name? Inquired Shakespeare as if it didn't out any ice whether Smith had left home or Brown had left town or Smith was in town; as if what happened to Jones might have happened to him just the same if his name had been Dennis. Shakespear, even if he did wear knee pants, pillow case lace trimmings on his "West CUT," a cute little flaring stand up cloth collar with three rows of "one, two, three, drop one embroidery all around the edge, and write poetry to females of assorted ages, was pretty clear headed, on most topics, and a good many things that he said a good many years ago seem to fit the present condition of things as if they came out of a Ready-Made-Clothing Store. WHAT'S IN A NAME, any way. There's sixteen letters in Lacy Thoroughgood the way he signs it and it's as good a name among business men as there is in Salisbury. Lacy Thoroughgood has built up a big business in this Salisbury town, but he didn't do it because his name was Lacy Thoroughgood or because he put Thoroughgood on his sign. The name didn't make him, he made the name. What is Lacy Thoroughgood driving at? Only this. In Thoroughgood's down town clothing store are hundreds of the best suits for Men, Boys and children shown in Salisbury. Each suit has Thoroughgood's own special label on it. Three of the best makers of Ready Made Clothing in America, made these suits for Thoroughgood. They are as good suits, as fine suits, as well made suits as anybody, anywhere in any store offers for sale. Thoroughgood believes these suits to be just as good in every way with his name on them, as if they had the name of the maker blown in on the label. These suits range in price from $10.00 to $18.00. This clothing store is an "everybody's store," a store where a man who has got plenty of money and wants to keep part of it, can buy a suit to suit him, and when a man who hasn't got much money don't have to take shoddy, but can buy solid goods that are put together to wear, and that ain't all, you get trading stamps, you get a hundred with a $10.00 suit—Don't buy these suits because they have Lacy Thoroughgood's name on them, but because they are good. Try for Health 923 South Fern St. Chicago, Ill., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie on my back nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me and I told her I had not and she brought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

WINE OF CARDUI

$500 Reward

For Women Who Cannot Be Cured.

Backed up by over a third of a century of remarkable and uniform cures, a record such as no other remedy for the diseases and weaknesses peculiar to women ever attained, the proprietors of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel that they are warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States, for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapse of Uterus, or Falling of Womb which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I used four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,'" writes Mrs. Elmer D. Shearer, of Mount Hope, Lancaster, Pa., "and can say that I am cured of that dreaded disease, uterine trouble. Am in better health than ever before. Every one who knows me is surprised to see me look so well. In June I was so poor in health that at times I could not walk. To-day I am cured. I tell everybody that Dr. Pierce's medicine cures me."

TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 22.—In this sermon, appropriate to the season, the preacher points out the manifold reasons we have as a nation for a joyful acknowledgment of God's goodness to us on every hand. The text is Proverbs xv, 15, "He that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast."

Thanksgiving day! What does this American queen of festivals mean to the average hungry boy—for the average American boy is always hungry! A feast, a great big dinner! A feast which is famous for two characteristics—first, quantity—that is the great essential; second, quality—that is the second characteristic must tread closely upon the heels of the former. Not only should there be plenty of food and not only should the ducks and the fish, the turkeys and the geese, the pies and the puddings and the ice cream be marshaled in courses, but these courses must all be of good quality. Then the gardens should contribute their finest pumpkins, the vineyards their most luscious fruits and the orchards their richest juices. Then the cooks must try to outdo themselves by testing the secret recipes for the merriest pies—these recipes which the cooks guard as jealously as the patent medicine men do the formulas of their "cure-alls" or as that famous Delaware family does the secrets by which it is able to hold as a monopoly the making of gunpowder for the nation. A Thanksgiving day for a hungry boy and no banquet! It would be a farce, an absurdity, a wedding without a bride, "Hamlet" without the Iago, a spring carnival of flowers with no May queen, an orchestra without music, a comedy with no punch, a feast with empty dishes, a Barmecide feast!

We have never truly honored our early respect for the culinary masterpieces of the Thanksgiving kitchen. We hope that we never shall. But today we would interpret our text from a higher standpoint than the hungry boy's stomach. We would apply it, in the figurative sense, to the banquet of gratitude, the banquet of love, the banquet of divine mercy—the banquet which King Solomon described when he wrote these words: "He that is of a merry heart hath a continual feast." It is in order to recount some of the many mercies, both national and domestic, that I preach this sermon. May our hearts, one and all, be joyful on the coming Thanksgiving day!

God's Goodness and Mercy.

My purpose extends beyond the day itself. Next Thursday, by presidential and gubernatorial appointment, we call to mind our national mercies and as a nation render thanks to him who has crowned the year with his goodness, but his blessings to us as individuals are so many and so great that they demand what Solomon in my text calls a continual feast. Not alone on the coming Thanksgiving day, but every day from year to year as we receive daily blessings from his hand, should our hearts be full with love and gratitude to him whose goodness and mercy follow us all our days. Thanking him for past mercies, trusting him for future blessings, let us rejoice that we have a God so good and kind, and thus let our thanksgiving become perpetual and our gladness a continual feast.

Let us rejoice over our national possessions geographical. We have a country, not a little island like England; not a reclined sea bottom like Holland; nor a collection of mountain tops like Switzerland, nor a hairbrush territory like Austria, nor a national chicken coop like Portugal, nor a menaced government like France, with the frowning guns of Metz trained upon her capital, but we have a land stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the great lakes to the gulf stream. Our wheat fields are the Red River valleys of the Dakotas, our coal mines the inexhaustible veins of Pennsylvania and Ohio, our cotton fields the snowlike treasures of Louisiana and Alabama, our fragrant gardens the Floridas, or the "land of flowers," our vineyards and orchards the Michigans and the Californias, our pools of Bethesda the health springs of the Virginias and the Saratogas and the Arkansas. Our rivers are the mighty Hudson, the Mississippi and the Missouri. Nature has given us an altar at which to worship the stormy rain rocks of Mount Washington and Shasta and Pike's peak, which are old enough to have heard God thunder from Mount Sinai and whose hearts may have been shattered at the tragedy of Calvary. Fertile and beautiful our land! Yes, it is situated in the temperate zone, the best of all climates. The intense fires of the tropics cannot burn it, nor the refrigerating blast of the far north freeze it. Truly it is with us as with the people who inherited the promised land. "The Lord thy God bringeth thee into a good land; a land of brooks of water, of fountains and depths that spring out of valleys and hills; a land of wheat and barley and vines and fig trees and pomegranates; a land of oil, olive and honey; a land where thou shalt not lack anything if only thou shalt obey the voice of the Lord thy God, which he hath given thee."

Our National Possessions.

Good not only in reference to its fertility, but also in size. The United States, exclusive of the immense gold fields of Alaska, is estimated to have an area of over 3,025,000 square miles. Few people have any conception of what that enormous territory means. A few months ago a disgruntled statesman of Texas was reported to have declared that in the near future the United States government would disintegrate. He begged the Texans to stand firm together, so that the state of old Sam Houston might become the "republic of Texas," with 30,000,000 inhabitants. But, though this statement excited a smile over the length and breadth of the land and though we do not believe this government of ours will ever disintegrate as long as earthy time shall last, we do believe that the statement in reference to the supporting area of Texas is not overdrawn. Germany in 1895 had a population of 52,270,901 inhabitants, but Texas is larger than Germany. France in 1896 had a population of 38,517,975 inhabitants, but Texas is larger than France. Italy in 1895 had a population of 31,102,833 inhabitants, but Texas is nearly two and one-half times as large as Italy. Great Britain and Ireland collectively have an area of 120,800 square miles and by the 1891 census 37,732,922 inhabitants, but Texas is over twice as large as the areas of Great Britain and Ireland combined. California, Montana or the two Dakotas and are as large as any of the European monarchies as well as the geographical possibilities of our American possessions! A noted English statesman once said: "The American people, in reference to their enormous valuations of land, are like a lot of spendthrift boys who have fallen heirs to a fabulous fortune. They do not know how to appreciate their good fortune. Born with a golden spoon in their mouths, they think all other nations eat their soup with the same kind of a ladle." Let us today thank God first for our national possessions geographical.

Cause for Thankfulness.

Another cause for national thanksgiving is our country's industrial prosperity. It is one thing to possess a country; it is quite another thing to be able to make that fortune telling bearing; one fact to be "land rich" another fact to be "hand poor." Many a man has been buried under a financial wall and his business life squeezed out by the bankruptcy court, but because he did not make marketable at the time the securities he possessed. Many years ago a prominent railroad man was taking Thanksgiving dinner at our home in Brooklyn. During a walk that afternoon our guest made a statement which will never leave my memory. "De Witt," said he to my father, for they were ever school friends, "I live with you here I shall work a million dollars; if I die within six months my estate and investments are in such an involved condition that I shall be worth practically nothing." He died within six months, and his fears in reference to his estate were verified. Now, our country has to be thankful for its blessings geographical during the past year. It has also to be thankful for its business life blessed industrially. Never since our government was founded have there been greater harvests or a vaster tide of transportation west to east and east to west; never a time when our factories have been so overworked; never a time when there has been so much money to spend and in circulation; never a time when labor has been receiving so much for its services. So overcrowded are some of the factories with orders that, though they may work night and day, they cannot supply the demand for shoes, gloves, hats, linens, hosiery and overcoats and umbrellas, wagons and automobiles and all the necessities and luxuries of life. The only scarcity today in the business world is the scarcity of men. Work? There is plenty of work for every mechanic man capable of doing any mechanical work who is not a shirk, a loafer or an idler. Today every man is able to work night and day, they cannot supply the demand for shoes, gloves, hats, linens, hosiery and overcoats and umbrellas, wagons and automobiles and all the necessities and luxuries of life. FROM SOUTH AFRICA. New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following. A neighbor of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by All Druggists.

Apples At Night. "Everybody ought to know," says the "Family Doctor," that the very best thing they can do is to eat apples just before retiring for the night. The apple is an excellent brain food, because it has more phosphoric acid, is easily digested than any other fruit. It excites the action of the liver, promotes sound and healthful sleep, thoroughly disinfects the mouth, and prevents indigestion and throat disease.

The Easton Star Democrat gives the following account of a freak of nature which was recently on exhibition at Cambridge: "Preston Harding exhibited a pig and a half in Cambridge recently. It had one head, two fore feet, four hind feet, two tails and two bodies. From the middle of one body of the pig grew out another with two hind feet and a tail of its own. It was about the greatest pig curiosity that has ever happened around there."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Is Pleasant To Take. The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavor similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Rodrick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after-effects. For sale by All Druggists."

The Best Liniment. "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is considered the best liniment on the market," writes Post & Bilis, of Georgia, Va. No other liniment will heal a cut or bruise so promptly. THE GREATEST BOOK. Containing 11,000 volumes and was the greatest book ever written was the "Yunglo Tattien," which was destroyed during the recent troubles in Peking. It was a most wonderful work, and its destruction is the most appalling literary catastrophe the world has ever seen. It contained the best selections from all the classical, historical, philosophical and literary works ever published in China, embracing astronomy, astrology, geography, the occult sciences, medicine, religion, history, biography and the arts. Every literary production of permanent importance was included in this marvelous collection, which consisted of 22,877 books, bound into 11,000 volumes, says the Chicago Record-Herald. It was prepared by order of Young Lo, the second emperor of the Ming dynasty, under the direction of Hsieh Chin, the leading scholar of the fifteenth century, who organized the work under several sub-directors and a staff of 2,100 persons. Including critics, readers and copyists. It was begun in 1363 and finished in 1407. No additions have been made to it since the latter date.

In 1562 1000 clerks were employed to make two copies, which were finished in 1567. One of these copies and the original draft were destroyed by fire at the time of the capture of Peking and the overthrow of the Ming dynasty in 1644, and on the re-establishment of the Manchu empire, whose contents were lost forever. The remainder of the set, 20,455 volumes, was deposited in the Hanlin Yuan, the imperial academy, which was situated just north of the British legation at Peking. During the siege of the legation in 1900 the Chinese soldiers set the building on fire as a means of forcing the foreigners to leave the British legation, and the most valuable collection of Chinese literature ever made was destroyed, including the "Encyclopedia Maxima." Several hundred volumes were afterward picked up in the ruins by foreigners, Chinese and coolies, and are probably in the British legation. Dr. Morrison, the Peking correspondent of the London Times, secured a dozen volumes or more, and other foreigners were fortunate enough to obtain an example, but the "Yunglo Tattien" is lost forever.

Laborers. To understand the character of La bohemia one must know that this mocking spirit who has broken more knaves and more shams than almost any man, who has figured in a hundred fights to the death in law courts and has never, or rarely, been worsted. It is human, like the rest of us. He is considerate to all those around him. Sometimes even he is shy and timid. It is said that when he rings a bell for a servant with any impatience he runs out of the room before the servant has time to appear. And I have often seen this spirit of almost sardonic mockery blush like a child.

The face shows the contradiction of the character. When first you look at it you are conscious only of its mockery. The eyes—black, cold, penetrating—are made even more quizzical by funny eyebrows that twist and turn as though they were prepared by some theatrical contriver for a harlequin about to play Magdalen. But the mouth reveals that other side of the spirit. It reveals the man of iron resolution, of inflexible opinions, of emitties that do not die. Napoleon used to be called Jupiter-Scapin. I might sum up Lauby as Scapin-Cromwell.—T. P. O'Connor in Everybody's Magazine.

The sublime porte. The "sublime porte" is the French translation of the Turkish term "Babal Ale." "Babal" means door and "ale" superior. Every government seat in Turkey is called the "door," because the door of every office is supposed to be open to those who seek justice and redress. The most important of all government offices, that of the grand vizier and the three principal ministers of state, is known as the sublime porte. The other government offices are not all in the same locality and are merely referred to as the "door." The central ministries are at the sublime porte under the presidency of the grand vizier, and in this way the government of Turkey has come to be known as the sublime porte. Nowadays the sublime porte is merely a name. The seat of the real government of Turkey is in the Yildiz kiosk, the sultan's palace.—Men and Women.

Rheumatism, which does its terrible work in the muscles, joints, and tissues, is caused by uric acid which gathers in the blood. To get rid of this poisonous acid which produces the arthritis, pains, agonies, inflammations, and swellings peculiar to rheumatism, Paine's Celery Compound should be used without delay. No other medicine gives such prompt, cheering, and happy results. It is the only medicine that prevents a return of the dreaded disease. Paine's Celery Compound breaks the nerve, the blood is quickly cleared of all irritating poisons, tissue and muscle are built up, and the digestive organs perfectly toned. Do not treat with indifference the slightest rheumatic symptoms; the early use of Paine's Celery Compound will save you weeks and months of suffering. Mr. S. D. Conway, St. Louis, Mo., was permanently cured by Paine's Celery Compound after repeated failures with other medicines and physicians; he says: "I am 64 years of age, and have lived in St. Louis 27 years, and all this time with the exception of three years, I have served in the Engineers' Department as Inspector. Last winter I contracted rheumatism and was laid up for several weeks, and was unable to do any work until I struck Paine's Celery Compound, which has made a permanent cure in my case. I have recommended it to many, and they have used it with the same result."

Safety Deposit Boxes for Visitors to World's Fair. A novel and useful concession at the World's Fair will be that of the Safety Deposit Vault. This concession, which was recently granted, will be of great convenience to visitors. A fire-proof building containing about 3,000 safety deposit boxes, will be erected. The location will probably be at the northern end of the Model Street. Visitors may leave their valuables and such money as they do not need for the moment in the boxes without danger of loss or theft. For their immediate use, returning to the safety deposit boxes to replace their valuables.

All Stuffed Up

That's the condition of many sufferers from catarrh, especially in the morning. Great difficulty is experienced in clearing the head and throat.

No wonder catarrh causes headache, impairs the taste, smell and hearing, pollutes the breath, deranges the stomach and affects the appetite.

To cure catarrh, treatment must be constitutional—alterative and tonic.

"I was afflicted with catarrh. I took medicines of different kinds, giving each a fair trial; but gradually grew worse until I could hardly hear, taste or smell. I then concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after taking five bottles I was cured and have not had any return of the disease since." EUGENE FORBES, Lebanon, Kan.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures catarrh—it soothes and strengthens the mucous membrane and builds up the whole system.

A Good Business Proposition is something that everybody who looks out for their own interest will take time to consider. We have Several Good Business Propositions to make you, and Here's the Point. We do business on business principles. When we sell you a pair of shoes they are as good as can be manufactured for the money. People spend most of their time in their shoes, and this fact makes the quality of footwear a question of prime importance. Our proposition to you is to sell you good honest shoes at a price as low as is consistent with good values. We make this proposition to all prospective shoe buyers, fully believing that it is to your interest to do business with us. We have many advantages to offer you as a reason why you should do your shoe buying of us, the first of which is, we are exclusive Shoe dealers and also the largest buyers of Shoes on the Peninsula. We can offer you the largest and most complete stock to select from. We do not have to give you one size when your foot needs another. Our large stock enables us to carry all sizes and widths in stock. We take pains to see that every foot is properly fitted and also to select the proper kind of Shoe to meet the requirement for which it is intended. We have the exclusive sale in this city of all the best known and most popular makes of Shoes. A person is often judged by the company they keep, so is a merchant by the merchandise he handles, and while we stand behind every pair of fair priced shoes we sell, whether made under some pet name or not. To those who want special lines we can offer such well known ones as the following: FOR MEN: The Walk-Over W. L. Douglas, Crossett's Long Life. FOR BOYS AND GIRLS: The Rice & Hutchins, Burley Stevens & Co., Excelsior. FOR LADIES: Queen Quality, Zeigler Bros., Cinderella, Ailnutt Moody, Drew, Selby & Co. All of these are good ones in their class and have reputations established on merit, but the burden of our story is simply Shoes, and not the maker—trust us for that and we will always give you full value for your money or cheerfully refund you the same. Think over our proposition, come and see us and let us more fully explain and show you that we mean business and we feel sure that you will find that our interests are mutual. Yours for Shoes, R. LEE WALLER & CO., Boots and Shoes Exclusively, MAIN ST., SALISBURY, MD.
