CHILDREN'S DAY SERVICES.

The Annual Exercises in the Churches of Salisbury are Especially Interesting This Year.

The Children's Day services in the Methodist Protestant Church last Sunday evening attracted a large crowd of people, both the auditorium and Sunday school room being filled and many turned away on account of lack of room. All the exercises showed careful preparation and were well rendered.

The collection taken amounting to thirty dollars will be devoted to the cause of missions, and the entire program was of a missionary character.

The church was beautifully decorated, the front of the platform from which the children delivered their speeches being banked with a profusion of cut flowers.

Next Sunday evening, June 8th, the annual Children's Day exercises will be rendered at Division Street Baptist Church, Asbury M. E. Church, Wicomico Presbyterian Church, and Trinity M. E. Church, South. The children have been under careful training and the services at each of the several churches promise to be very entertaining. The lovely profusion of flowers with which the churches are so beautifully decorated on these occasions are very appropriate to the bright June days.

At Wicomico Presbyterian Church the program is entitled "God's Love," from which will be rendered a number of selections by the church and choir.

The primary class occupies an important place on the program, their exercises consisting of recitations, an aragram by fourteen children, and two choruses, "Little Sunbeams" and "He Shall Feed His Flock." There will also be a solo by Alene Wallop, "God's Work," and a duet by Isabella Spring and Wallace Spring, "I will Follow Thee."

The name of the program to be rendered at Asbury M. E. Church is "Christ the Conqueror," consisting of musical selections and responsive readings. The collection taken will go to the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church for educational purposes.

The exercises by the primary class will be, as usual, one of the most interesting features. The class numbering about seventy will march on the stage and deliver their songs and recitations. The choruses to be sung are, "Suffer the Children to Come to Me," "Joyful Notes," "Song of the Daisies," and "Pledge Song."

At Trinity M. E. Church South the pastor will preach a special sermon to the children Sunday morning. At the evening service the program "Gladness Everywhere" will consist of songs, responsive readings, and recitations by the school.

The primary class will appear on the stage with a number of songs and recitations by the children. Among them are, chorus, "Growing up for Jesus" by class with recitation by Sheldon Jones. Song, "Little Sunbeams" by class, soloist, Mary Brewington. Motion Song, "Fly Little Birds."

Death of Mrs. Disharoon.

Mrs. Ella Disharoon, widow of the late Matthias Disharoon, died at her home on Smith Street last Friday evening, May 30th, after an illness of two weeks from pleuro-pneumonia. She was about forty five years of age. Mrs. Disharoon was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Hayman of Somerset county and is survived by five children, two sons and three daughters.

The remains were carried to Friendship M. P. Church, Somerset county, Sunday morning, from which the funeral services took place, conducted by Rev. Dr. Newton of Salisbury assisted by Rev. Frank S. Cain of West. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church.

Died for Lack of Sense.

A coroner in Nevada recently rendered out a verdict more sensible than one had the verdict usually rendered. It appeared that an Irishman conceived that a little powder thrown upon some green wood might facilitate its burning. Accordingly he directed a small stream from a keg upon the burning pieces, but as he did not possess a hand sufficiently quick to cut this off, he was blown into a million pieces. The following was the verdict, delivered with great gravity by the official: "Can't be called suicide, because he didn't mean to kill himself; it wasn't visitation of God, because he wasn't struck by lightning; he didn't die for want of breath, for he hadn't nothing to breathe with; it is plain he didn't know what he was about, so I shall bring in—died for want of common sense."

PROTECTION AT THE CROSSINGS.

The City Council and the Railroad Officials Discussing the Question.

The City Council was in session Friday night of last week, and again last Thursday evening at which time an adjournment was taken till Wednesday night of next week. The question of greatest interest before the Council is that of protection for the travelling public at the railroad crossings within the city limits.

The officials of the two railroads have been duly notified and representatives have appeared before the Council. There seems to be no division of opinion as to the necessity for safe guards at the danger points, but the kind of protection has not yet been agreed upon. The Mayor and Council have delivered no ultimatum on this point as yet, but will be satisfied with nothing short of protection. Two plans have been suggested. They are the safety gates and the bell system. It is understood that the railroad authorities rather prefer the latter, as it can be more economically maintained, and they claim that it serves all the purposes of the safety-gate in giving timely warnings of approaching trains.

Popular sentiment seems overwhelming in favor of the old and tried safety gate. In support of the safety gate it is argued that the "deaf, dumb and blind" have the same protection as the alert and wary, as an employe of the railroad is stationed at the crossing who is paid to hoist and lower the gates and otherwise assist to safety all those who have occasion to pass that way.

A great deal of interest is felt in the matter and a feeling of relief will be experienced on all sides when the question shall have been settled to the satisfaction of all concerned.

A gratifying feature of the agitation is the absence of any of that too prevalent feeling that because "its a corporation" the railroads should be made to do it whether necessary or not. The people are asking for no more than they think reasonable and necessary for the protection of the public, and the railroad seems to be meeting the problem in that spirit.

EASTERN SHORE LEAGUE.

Base Ball Teams From Pocomoke, Princess Anne, Crisfield and Salisbury Will Form League.

The base ball enthusiasts on the lower part of the Peninsula are organizing an Eastern Shore League to be composed of teams from Pocomoke, Princess Anne, Crisfield and Salisbury. It is intended to have nothing but home players as it is thought the interest in the contests will be just as great and the expense of maintaining the League much lessened by adhering strictly to this agreement.

The present understanding is to arrange a schedule between the four clubs named allowing each club to play two games a week. This will allow all the teams one game on the home grounds and one game away from home every week. With this schedule a large attendance would seem practically assured. Each town in the circuit has a sufficient number of persons interested in the National sport to make the League a big success and it is believed one game a week on the home grounds is sufficient to keep the interest alive.

The Salisbury club has secured the lot in Frankford owned by Mr. Thomas H. Williams and work on the diamond is now nearly completed. The manager of the club stated that a grand stand would be erected if sufficient funds could be raised to build it. The citizens of Princess Anne have raised a fund for that purpose and it is hoped the public here will respond liberally when the "boys" come around. Help the home team along.

Skirt and Shirt-Waists.

The smart girl will seldom be seen this summer wearing a dark skirt and a light waist or blouse. That did very well for last season, but this year to be correctly gowned there should be no such striking color-contrast between skirt and waist. With a light waist a light colored skirt should be worn. Even if it is not so sensible and practical, every girl who aims to be well gowned should have a skirt of fawn-color or light gray canvas or mohair this year to be worn with separate waists. To the common-sense girl a light-colored skirt seems quite out of the question for every-day wear, but nevertheless it is the mode.—Grace Margaret Gould in the June Woman's Home Companion.

Macadamized Streets.

The Delaware Granite and Manufacturing Co., of Wilmington, Del., recently contracted with the Town Commissioners of Princess Anne to macadamize about about 800 feet of street in the town as an experiment. The work of digging up and putting the streets in shape to receive the stone was begun the early part of last week. The contractors started at a point opposite the blacksmith shop of Messrs. Muir & Son and worked up to Antioch M. E. Church and then turned north, and ran up to and opposite the premises of Mr. W. S. McMaster, on Main street. The constructors commenced to put in the stone on Friday. In the first place three inch stone is put down to the depth of nearly four inches, and this is covered by the dirt and shells from the streets; over this foundation passes a ten ton steam roller; then comes a layer of 1 1/2 inch stone, followed by the steam roller. The top is composed of 1 inch stone and stone dust. This is flooded with water and the roller is passed over it several times, and this completes the job. A road of this kind is very costly in the start, but it lasts about 15 years.—Marylander and Herald.

Cora Elizabeth Bennett.

On May 24th Cora Elizabeth Bennett the only child of Wm. J. Bennett and Lucy H. Bennett died at the age of nineteen months, after a few days severe illness. The father was absent from home with his brother, Capt. C. E. Bennett on schooner Hoskins, at Jacksonville, Fla. The remains were interred on Sunday afternoon, May 25th in the M. P. Cemetery, after funeral service by Rev. Mr. Johnson of the M. P. Church.

Lottie Collinson, Edna Bennett, Bessie Ellis and Mary Cooper were pallbearers. There were a great many flowers as tributes from loving friends. She was a very bright girl and loved by all who knew her. "Folded away,—the fair white soul,—Folded away, did I say? Ay, ay, but folded in the goal Of God's included blissful day! Folded away,—the fair white soul,—Folded away! Folded away!" C.

L. P. COULBOURN

In these latter days men everywhere want not only the most for the least money, but they want, when they go to buy, to find an establishment where they will be able to select the goods that are 1902 styles, that fit well and make the wearer show off to good advantage. L. P. Coulbourn has been able, by his painstaking and great interest in the Clothing business, to read "the signs of the times," and has his mammoth store, the largest of the kind south of Wilmington, filled with just such goods as are calculated to satisfy the hardest-to-please, the easiest-to-please person that comes to Salisbury. None ever come to our store and go away dissatisfied with a purchase. Lend us your ear while we give you a few truths that will be helpful during the weeks that are to follow. We are a ONE-PRICE HOUSE, and declare upon the honour of our business to advertise only what is true.

OUR CLOTHING DEPARTMENT

was never so well arranged with extra quality goods. The "High Art" goods which are of the finest material, made according to the latest fashions—suits that will fit well and lend a handsome appearance to him who dons one of them, are piled high in our house.

Men's and boys' Clothing we have by the hundreds of suits, so if we cannot please with one color we can with another, all of which we guarantee to give perfect satisfaction.

..SHIRT WAISTS..

In the sweltering days that are to come nothing will be of greater comfort than a nice, pretty and cool shirt waist. We have the acknowledged leaders in town. They catch the eye of all who will stop only for a moment and examine them. They have been going very rapidly and are still clearing out of the store.

Now, as to Feet

they must be covered with other than shoes and we have the very things in hose that will please the dude, that will gratify the plainly dressed man. Our stock of hosiery is surely handsome. You will think as we do when you call in to get a pair of them.

OUR BELTS

are quite fashionable and the real things for everybody. We dare not go without a belt with a shirtwaist and scarcely do we do without one when we leave off the waistcoat, which we are already doing—so we have the very waistbands you need to make your shirt appear neat and tidy. Prices wonderfully low. We have bought so we can suit all.

Our Youth's Clothing

was never so pretty, never so stylish, as it is this season. Any mother can have her boy nicely fitted out that brings him here and lets us put one of "our latest" on him. We want to suit you in mind as well as in body, so we stand preeminently as the Y. M. B. O. D. house of Salisbury—anything not pleasing, if returned to us, money is refunded as readily as it was received.

FLANNEL TROUSERS

are again much worn; of course, a later style than last year, so we have a handsome line of them together with a nice line of other kinds of up-to-date pants with which we can please anybody both in style and in price. Let us get the tape upon you and you will be assured of our stock of odd trousers.

STRAW HATS

The several hundred dollars worth of straw hats found within our store is a complete lot. They are in so many blocks that is next door to an impossibility to have a customer that cannot be pleased with our stock of straw. They are absolutely new goods and of the latest—very latest styles. Old Sol will soon be doing his hot work amongst mankind and in order to shield yourself from his warm blows buy one of our hats and we pledge you that his strokes will be thus warded off. We can suit everybody in prices for we have them from 10c up.

Our old Standby THE $2.00 NOX-ALL

both in stiff and soft hat is yet within our house and we can still please our patrons with reliable headwear. They have never failed to satisfy; they will continue to satisfy.

SHIRTS SHIRTS SHIRTS

Our line of soft bosom shirts is a beautiful one. We carefully selected colors and styles and we find that we really made a "happy hit" in their selection so we stand ready to serve with shirts of superior quality and can quote you prices that will be acceptable to all.

For full dress we are carrying a full line of the "LION BRAND" white stiff bosom shirts, which have stood the test of time and have ever been proven to be excellent wearers, giving good service to the every purchaser.

UNDERWEAR

An absolute necessity for this weather is thin underwear. We have it, and good stuff it is too. No one grumbles when we hand down our line for it is a superior one and very cheap.

Nor would we forget the line of Overalls and Working Shirts which are upon our shelves and counters. These are well-made, of good material and are giving good service to all who use them. Try them.

Our Line of Neckwear

is simply amazing in beauty and price. We have ties in every shape and in all colors. No man or boy can fail in being suited when he examines this excellent line. The largest stock in the city to select from.

The "Lion Brand" of collars

is still our leader and with it in our front we can assure both the old and the new customer of perfect satisfaction. We sell nothing but the best.

Our Merchant Tailoring Department

is still doing good business and is increasing in magnitude and popularity among the public. We are making many more suits than ever before. Our tailors are doing their best to please everybody and are succeeding admirably. Our line of cloth is cheap, pretty and attractive. Remember, we make clothing to fit and we guarantee perfect satisfaction as to wear. Our shop is now the largest and does more business than any on the peninsula. Let us take your measure for a suit.

We respectfully solicit the patronage of the public who has been very considerate of us in past years. Our clerks are always ready to serve you, to show you goods and to advise you in purchase. The times demand that you wear such goods as we handle and we beg to assure you that our line is really complete. Come in and be convinced that what we have here published is a fact.

To Get Union Central Dividends You Must Insure In the Union Central.

Dividends in Life Insurance regulate the cost of the insurance. The company that pays the largest dividends furnishes the cheapest insurance. The company that combines the lowest death rate, the lowest expense rate, and the highest interest rate, pays the largest dividends. The Union Central excels all companies in these points. Nearly 80 per cent of the assets of the Union Central are invested in first mortgage securities, which, during 1901, earned 6.05 per cent. The average interest rate for twenty years is 6.65 per cent. The one particular advantage of mortgage loans as an asset of an insurance company is their non-fluctuating quality—a Wall street broker is not needed to value them.

An Annual Dividend Policy is the only contract which gives you the full benefits. You know every year just how your investment stands, and your profits are placed to your credit or given to you in cash.

For further argument in favor of the Union Central we refer you to the two letters which are herewith reproduced. One by Mr. B. H. Kroger, a banker and financier of Cincinnati, O., the other by Gen. Horse Sense.

"Any fool can take a horse to water, but it takes a wise man to make him drink," says the proverb. The horse eats when hungry and drinks when thirsty. A man eats and drinks by the clock, without regard to the needs of nature. Because of careless eating and drinking "stomach trouble" is one of the commonest of diseases. Sour and bitter risings, belchings, unnatural fullness after eating, dizziness, headache, and many other symptoms mark the beginning and progress of disease of the stomach.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It cures through the stomach diseases of other organs which have their origin in a diseased condition of the stomach, and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, cures obstinate cough and heals weak lungs.

"I was taken with Grippe, which resulted in heart and stomach trouble," writes Mr. T. R. Caudill, Montclair, Allegheny Co., N. C. "I was unable to do anything a good part of the time. I wrote to Dr. Pierce about my condition, having full confidence in his medicine. He advised me to take his Golden Medical Discovery, which I did. Before I had finished the second bottle I began to feel better. I have used nearly six bottles. I feel thankful for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I can highly recommend it to all persons as a good and safe medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep the bowels healthy.

DEFENDS THE ARMY

President Roosevelt's Address to Veterans at Arlington.

PHILIPPINE WARFARE HUMANE

He Deplored Cruelties and Said the Nation's Defenders Have Their Defamers Today As They Had in the Civil War.

Washington, May 31.—The address of President Roosevelt at the memorial exercises in Arlington yesterday was the most important deliverance of the kind in many years. The patriotic spirit of the occasion furnished him a timely text for the expression of his sentiments towards the country's defenders of today as well as those of a generation ago.

The address was almost wholly devoted to a vigorous defense of the United States army in the Philippines, and partook of the nature of a presidential message to the people on a subject now engrossing their attention and provoking acrimonious discussion in the halls of congress. The president said:

"It is a good custom for our country to have certain solemn holidays in commemoration of our greatest men and of the greatest crises in our history. There should be but few such holidays. To increase their number is to cheapen them. Washington and Lincoln—the man who did most to found the Union, and the man who did most to preserve it—stand head and shoulders above all other public men, and have by common consent won the right to this pre-eminence.

"You whom I address today and your comrades who wore the blue beside you in the perilous years during which strong, sad, patient Lincoln bore the crushing load of national leadership, performed the one feat the failure to perform which would have meant destruction to everything which makes the name America a symbol of hope among the nations of mankind. You left us a reunited country.

"The army of the United States today is carrying to completion a small, but trying and difficult war, in which is involved not only the honor of the flag, but the triumph of civilization over the black chaos of savagery and barbarism.

"The rules of warfare which have been promulgated by the war department and accepted as the basis of conduct by our troops in the field are the rules laid down by Abraham Lincoln when you, my hearers, were fighting for the Union. These rules provide, of course, for the just severity necessary in war. But all cruelty is forbidden, and all harshness unwelcome what is called for by need. Our enemies in the Philippines have not merely violated every rule of war, but have made of these violations their only method of carrying on the war. The fact really is that our warfare in the Philippines has been carried on with singular humanity. For every act of cruelty by our men there have been innumerable acts of forbearance, magnanimity and generous kindness. These are the qualities which have characterized the war as a whole. The cruelties have been wholly exceptional on our part. The guilty are to be punished; but in punishing them, let those who sit at ease at home, who walk delicately and live in the soft places of the earth, remember also to do them common justice. Let not the effortless and the untempted rail overmuch at strong men who with blood and sweat face years of toil and days and nights of agony, and at need lay down their lives in remote tropic jungles to bring the light of civilization into the world's dark places. The warfare that has extended the boundaries of civilization at the expense of barbarism and savagery has been for centuries one of the most potent factors in the progress of humanity.

"It behooves us to keep a vigilant watch to prevent these abuses and to punish those who commit them; but if because of them we flinch from finishing the task on which we have entered, we show ourselves craven and weaklings, unworthy of the sires from whose loins we sprang. There were abuses and to spare in the Civil War. Your false friends then called Grant a 'butcher' and spoke of you who are listening to me as mercenaries, as 'Lincoln's hirelings.' Abraham Lincoln was singled out for especial attack because of his 'spirit of barbarous ferocity.' Verily, these men who thus foully slandered you have their heirs today in those who traduce our armies in the Philippines, who fix their eyes on individual deeds of wrong so keenly that at last they become blind to the great work of peace and freedom that has already been accomplished.

"This should no more be a party question than the war for the Union should have been a party question. At this moment the man in highest office in the Philippine Islands is the vice governor, General Luke Wright, of Tennessee, who gallantly wore the gray in the Civil War, and who is now working hand-in-hand with the head of our army in the Philippines, Adna Chaffee, who in the Civil War gallantly wore the blue. These two, and the men under them, from the north and from the south, in civil life and in military life, as teachers, as administrators, as soldiers, are laboring mightily for us who live at home. All honor to them; and shame, thrice shame, to us if we fail to uphold their hands!"

ASCENDED MONT PELEE

Daring Scientists Stood on Very Edge of the Crater.
 Fort de France, June 4.—George Kennan, accompanied by Messrs. Jaccaud and Varian, arrived here yesterday morning after an absence of 12 days. Prof. Angelo Hellprin, president of the Philadelphia Geographical Society, and Mr. Leddibetter reached Fort de France this morning.

Professor Hellprin, Mr. Kennan and Mr. Varian have ascended Mont Pelee. They stood on the very edge of the crater, and looked down on the incandescent mass within. This ascent was made last Sunday, and it was the second time Professor Hellprin climbed the mountain.

In an interview Mr. Kennan said: "Five of us started for the crater of the volcano last Sunday, and three of us reached our objective. We crossed Lake Palmiste, which is now dry and full of boulders and huge, ragged rocks of trachyte, rhyolite and andesite. We then climbed on up and reached the edge of the crater. We found it to be a huge chasm or crevasse, with perpendicular walls. We could see down into the crater more than 150 feet; it was like looking into a white hot furnace. The chasm opens out towards St. Pierre, but the enormous columns of steam cut off the view in that direction. There were hundreds of fumaroles all about us. What was thought to be a cone of cinders in the crater was learned in reality to be a huge pile of gigantic rocks, piled up one on the other. There were crusts of sulphur everywhere, but we saw no ashes or cinders in or near the crater. The whole, vast bed of the old crater and of Lake Palmiste is emitting steam through thousands of crevices."

Mont Pelee is quiet, but great volumes of steam are issuing from the volcano. The lower mud craters, however, are still pouring forth torrents. The Le Precheur district is said to be caving in, but this report has not been verified. Almost all the newspaper correspondents who were here left on the United States steamer Dixie.

PRESIDENT TO SETTLE STRIKE

Asked to Name Commissioner to Investigate Situation in Coal Regions.

New York, June 5.—President Roosevelt has been asked to settle the coal strike by prominent business men of this city. Formal action in this direction was taken yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the New York board of trade and transportation, at which Oscar S. Straus presided.

A set of resolutions was adopted urging the president to appoint a commissioner to investigate the situation in the anthracite regions and to see if the miners and operators could not be induced to arbitrate their differences. Such power, it was declared, was vested in the chief executive by chapter 1,063 of the federal laws dealing with differences or controversies which may affect interstate transportation and commerce.

May Appoint Hanna.

Washington, June 5.—President Roosevelt spent some time yesterday afternoon considering the proposition of the New York board of trade and transportation that he appoint a commissioner to investigate the strike situation in the anthracite regions, with the view to effecting an arbitration of the differences between the miners and operators. It is stated that the president has not yet decided what action he will take in response to the suggestion.

Senator Hanna, of the Civic Federation, when interviewed last night, professed to know nothing of the New York board's action, but it is intimated in official circles that if a commissioner is appointed the president will look to the senator to undertake the task.

BRITISH STEAMER LOST

740 Persons Perish in Wreck of Camorta in Indian Waters.

Rangoon, British Burma, June 5.—The wreck of the missing British steamer Camorta, from Madras for this port, has been found in 15 fathoms of water, proving beyond doubt that her 650 passengers, all natives, and 90 members of the crew, were all lost. A lifeboat belonging to the Camorta was picked up in latitude 15.30 north, longitude 96 east (Bay of Bengal), on May 14. A lifeboat and boom of the ill-fated vessel were also found near the Krishna Lightship, on the Madras coast.

It is believed that the Camorta went down during a cyclone on May 6. The topmasts of the vessel were discovered protruding above the surface in the Iriawaddy Delta.

Fatal Ending of Children's Quarrel.

Scranton, Pa., June 5.—At Winton yesterday afternoon, during a children's quarrel, Mamie Cubellis, aged 11 years, was struck behind the ear with an iron rivet by Steven Cheyon, aged 10, and died in five minutes. The Cubellis girl was beating the Cheyon boy's 6-year-old sister, when the Cheyon boy threw the rivet which caused death. He was arrested, but afterwards paroled in custody of his parents. The two families live in the same house.

Germany Has Not Recognized Cuba.

Berlin, June 4.—The German government has taken no steps to recognize the Cuban Republic. The official explanation of this fact is that as yet the government has not been notified of a change in the political status of the island, the affairs of which, in theory, are wholly within the military jurisdiction of the United States.

Martinelli's Successor Selected.

London, June 4.—A dispatch to the Central News from Rome says that Monsignor Falconio, the Papal delegate in Canada, has been definitely selected to succeed Cardinal Martinelli as Papal delegate in the United States.

GOOD ROAD MACHINES

THEY ACCOMPLISH WONDERS AND SOON PAY FOR THEMSELVES.

Isaac B. Potter Says That Every Country District Should Have One, Stone Crushers Indispensable to the Roadmaking Outfit.

The season is at hand when the practical side of roadmaking will receive its due attention, and the knowledge and energy acquired by the winter's agitation will be called into play. It is not necessary, much less is it possible, to build macadam and telford roads through all of the farming districts, and if the country pathmasters could be made to understand the great difference in results which follow different methods of "working the road" and that good drainage and good machinery will together accomplish wonders without an extravagant expenditure of funds the solution of the country road question would be vastly progressed, says Isaac B. Potter in Good Roads.

Every country road district should have at least one good road machine

ROAD MACHINE PREPARING EARTH ROAD.

It will do the work of thirty or more men when the conditions are such as to give the machine half a chance. It costs but a few hundred dollars, will save thousands, makes a better road than is commonly made by manual labor, needs but few repairs and rarely gets out of order. Moreover, it cuts out the roots from the weedy patches along the roadside and forms a gutter which receives and carries off the surface water and if faithfully employed will more than pay for itself in a single season.

Then, too, in the matter of gravel and stone a few hours' exploration in most neighborhoods will bring to light plenty of material that is vastly superior for roadmaking purposes to that found in the lines of the adjacent roadways. Most of this material has rested in its original bed for ages and is substantially worthless for any purpose aside from the work of the roadmaker. If gravel, it should be clean, sharp and gritty, and if not naturally of this quality it should be cleaned as fully as possible by passing it through a cheap screen with moderately coarse meshes.

Before being put in the road, unless the original soil is of a dry, sandy or porous nature, a line of three inch drain tiles should be laid beneath the roadway and about four feet deep if possible, for, although this is not commonly regarded as necessary according to the established American practice, it adds vastly to the permanence of the roadway and insures its dryness at times when the gravel would otherwise disappear in the soft mud beneath.

Where stone of fair quality can be easily obtained, a macadam road is neither very costly nor very difficult of construction. It is a common notion among farmers that the construction of a road on the macadam plan is a complicated, difficult and expensive undertaking. Nothing could be further from the truth. A few intelligent farmers, equipped with a few hundred dollars' worth of machinery, can make a macadam road as permanent and efficient as could be desired.

The same engine that drives a steam thrasher will operate a stone crusher, and stone crushers are becoming not only popular, but indispensable to the roadmaking outfit of every intelligent rural community. Great quantities of field stone can be selected from among the harder boulders which lie so abundantly upon the surface in many of our counties, and if each farmer who now works out his road tax in the old fashioned way would contribute a few dollars to the purchase of a crusher and give a little of his time to the hauling of stone to the town stone heap he would be both amazed and gratified at the speed with which the stone breaker would convert those boulders into great heaps of road metal, ripe and ready for a place in the improved roadway.

A practical attempt at this kind of improvement in towns where the wealth of the community is not sufficient to warrant expensive work under the direction of an engineer will lead to the most salutary results and by an object lesson prove to the users of public highways that the biggest tax ever imposed upon the rural population of the country has been the tax of the mud-road.

Good Roads Are the Cheapest.

One main fact of the whole good roads question deserves to be emphasized—the permanence of the highways after they have once been well built, says the Baltimore News. The first cost seems large, but the money is in the end wisely invested.

Europe's Highways.

The cost of maintaining a public highway in England is roughly estimated by the authorities at $90 per mile per annum; in France, $105, and in Austria, $100, per mile per annum.

TO AID STOCK BREEDERS.

Iowa Legislature Asked For an Appropriation For That Purpose.

A bill has been introduced into the Iowa legislature providing for an appropriation of $1,000 annually to the Improved Live Stock Breeders' association of that state. This bill should have the hearty and unanimous endorsement of the live stock and agricultural interests of the Hawkeye State and it will doubtless become a law. There was a time when the Iowa Live Stock Breeders' association was the strongest organization of the kind in the world, and its annual meetings were events of unusual interest throughout the middle west, and its reports were eagerly sought at home and abroad. During late years the burden of maintaining these meetings has fallen heavily upon a few of the more progressive stockmen of that state, and in the time of depression the interest waned. Other states have come to the support of their live stock organizations with annual appropriations, several of them appropriating as much as $1,000 a year to the poultry interests alone. The horticultural interests of the various states have been liberally provided for. The live stock breeders of Iowa have great interests at stake, representing a total valuation of over $264,000,000. The bill mentioned provides for the expenses of the annual meetings of the Live Stock Breeders' association, including all breeds, and for the encouragement of the production of better stock. Breeder's Gazette says, "The live stock breeders of Iowa should unite in appealing to their legislators to pass this bill without delay."

Range Shipments.

The sheep on the great ranges of the west have come through the winter in good condition. The ranges have been blessed with an abundant snowfall, which means plenty of grass. What does this signify to the sheepowner of the farming country? That he will have great competition from range flocks during the late summer and fall months. Range sheep are going to come to market in large numbers and in good condition. The man on the farm who expects to market sheep should get them in ahead of the rush from the west or keep them to finish later in the season if he does not want to take a low price for them. Barring another drought, sheep may sell better than they did last summer, but good prices can hardly be expected in view of the range supplies.

Pastures For Cows.

The distance traveled by a cow in a pasture that does not provide a sufficiency is sometimes many miles a day. This extra work done by the cow is at the expense of the farmer, for the food consumed is partly utilized in the work. No pasture should be used until it is in good condition, and if deficient in grass then the cows must also be fed. One difficulty is that, as cows will seek green food, they will travel over the pasture even when fed, but not so much so as when given extra food. A poor pasture is consequently of no value, and it is better to keep the cows in the barnyard than to turn them out to work all day.

SWINE BREEDING

The hog is a specialist. It is his aim in life to eat and sleep, grow fat and die and raise the mortgage or educate the boys and girls or perform any other post-mortem financial operation the farmer elects, says W. F. McSparran in Breeder's Gazette.

The hog gives 80 per cent of his live weight in dressed meat, while the steer usually can round up not over 50 per cent. To further extol the hog's greatness I might add that the butchering wastes are more easily and completely used than those of other animals. For instance, a thrifty neighbor of mine saves all the hog hair at butchering time to cover his tobacco seed beds in the spring as a protection against chilling. All the available "casings" are used for stuffing sausages, the blood is caught and preserved and concocted into "blood puddings" for the use of the poultry toward greater egg production, and by an ingenious phonographic arrangement he has invented he is going to try the scheme of catching the squeal of the departing porker and use it to amuse his children when they are troublesome.

As an investment the hog is an animated exemplification of the "nimble sixpence," his rapid growth being an illustration of quick returns and large profits. Starting even with the birth of the pig, ninety days after date you will have ninety pounds of pig, and if he is a good one and the feeder not a mean one you will have ten pounds more. His dressed meat will usually sell for as much as that of the steer, and all the matter of cost in favor of the hog.

Giving the calf and pig an even start of life, the pig will have grandchildren going fat to market along with the steer. The steer will help eat three crops of corn. The hog is contemporaneous with each crop. Let the pig be born when the corn is planted, and he will be ready for market before husking is done. He is the emblem of American push and pluck and get there. May he increase and multiply!

Keep Pigs in Barns.

At the Kansas station pigs kept in warm barn during cold weather ate more shelled corn and gained more—that is, pigs in the open yard ate 2,291 pounds of shelled corn and gained 418 pounds; pigs kept in the barn ate 2,487 pounds of shelled corn and gained 483 pounds. This is in line with a number of experiments.

—The announcement of the President that he has determined to appoint Senator McLaurin to the vacancy on the bench of the Court of Claims is at the same time the death knell of the "filly white republican organization" which the Senator attempted to foster in South Carolina. Had Senator Hanna, in his capacity as Chairman of the Republican National Committee, continued to dictate republican policy in the South this effort of McLaurin's might not have "died a boring," but the vigorous methods of the President proved disastrous to the puny infant.

WHY MUDD IS PUNISHED.

1. Jealousy on McComas's part lest Mudd become too strong for him. This accounts for McComas's treatment of Mudd.
 2. Because he stood so manfully, so bravely and so nobly by Admiral Schley. This accounts for Roosevelt's treatment of Mudd.—Exton Ledger.

A FLOOD OF IMMIGRATION.

One of the natural results that has followed the wonderful growth of prosperity in the United States has been a vast swelling of the movement of immigration to these shores. May, 1902, was the banner month in the record. The highest previous record was that of May, 1893, when we took 78,000 old-world people into our fold. Up to last Saturday the figures showed that about 88,000 immigrants had landed during May. This swells the record of the first five months of 1902 to 241,250, against 189,591 for the same period last year—an increase of about 33 per cent. Such an invasion as this by aliens, seeking homes, has never before been made, and it shows emphatically the estimation in which this country is held abroad as a refuge for the homeless.

It shows, too, the wisdom of the Government in instituting a system for the proper examination of immigrants before they are admitted here. When such vast numbers as this come to us in a few months it is literally impossible that among them there should not be some whom it would be unwise to admit. We have no right to burden our land, prosperous as it is, with the cast-off refuse of other countries. We want—and will welcome, heartily—honest, vigorous toilers, who will make earnest efforts to improve their condition, and become a credit to the nation; but we do not want the criminals or the paupers of Europe to hamper us in our forward march. Persons of that class, if they can be discovered by the officers at Ellis Island, should be promptly sent back, and the steamship companies that brought them will have nobody but themselves to blame for the expense that their deportation may involve.

Too much firmness cannot be exercised in passing on the condition of this great horde that is clamoring for admission at our doors. We must draw the line strictly against objectionable classes. The law is all-sufficient to do this, if it is, rigidly enforced, and it depends on the Immigration Commissioners to see that it is enforced. The practice of these officials will be strictly watched during this unusual flood of immigration.—New York Commercial.

Alex. Birchhead and Tobe Pinkett, colored, became involved in a quarrel last Sunday morning at the stables of Mr. John C. Lowe on West Church St., when Birchhead drew a revolver and fired three shots at Pinkett, one taking effect in his right hip, passing under the skin for a considerable distance and coming out above the knee. Drs. Simmons and Morris dressed the wound. A writ was issued for the arrest of Birchhead, but it was found that he had gone to Paris unknown.

GOLDSBOROUGH AND MACE.

Named By The President For Collector of Internal Revenue and Appraiser.

Washington, June 4.—As was generally expected, President Roosevelt today sent in the nominations of Phillips Lee Goldsborough for collector of internal revenue, and Ross C. Mace for appraiser. Messrs. Palett and Torbert failed to resign, and are, therefore, superseded. They become ex's as soon as their successors qualify. The President waited patiently for the resignations, but as they failed to come, he went ahead without them.

The sub-treasurership is still in the air. Mr. Mudd continues to work for his man Bowling, who has no more chance of landing the place than any worker in Charles county. Nor does Mr. Mudd expect to have him appointed. What he is now playing for is another job for Mr. Bowling, which, if not so lucrative is still acceptable, and then name James B. Belt, now clerk of the court in Prince George's for sub-treasurer, thus killing two birds with the same stone.

It is not likely, however, that he will succeed in this, if Senator McComas can prevent him. The moment Mudd lets go of Bowling the nomination will go to some other than the Fifth district. If Congressman Jackson is willing he can name the man and whomever he selects will be endorsed by the other members of the delegation. Nor is it reasonably certain that Mr. Mudd will be able to secure even a place in the postoffice for Mr. Bowling. The rest of the delegation will back Senator McComas in his fight against the Congressman.

Congressman Jackson is wedded to Mudd only so long as Bowling is in the field for sub-treasurer. When Mudd withdraws his name he and Jackson are divorced. Great pressure is being brought to bear on the First district Congressman to name a man from the shore. Should he decide to do so A. Lincoln Dryden, of Somerset, will be his choice. There will be some interesting developments in a day or two.

In Memoriam.

The Philadelphia Presbyterian of last week pays a high tribute to the memory to Mrs. Mary L. Sinclair, whose husband was several years ago pastor of Wicomico Presbyterian Church, this city. The article is in part as follows:

Mrs. Mary Laura Sinclair, one of God's noble women, departed this life at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David M. Skilling, in Webster Grove, Missouri, on Thursday morning, May 8, after an illness of three weeks. In her girlhood she attended the famous Salem Academy, and was graduated also from the Leavenworth School, in Petersburg, Virginia. On August 10, 1858, she was married to the Rev. Alexander Sinclair, who was then pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Charlotte, N. C. After a pastorate of seven years in Charlotte, Mr. Sinclair ministered to the churches of Titusville, Pa., Barnesville and Marion, Ohio, and Salisbury, Maryland. He died in Salisbury in February, 1885.

Mrs. Sinclair was a carefully educated and highly cultured woman, and, as a pastor's wife, proved herself a most devoted help-mate to a faithful servant of God; and through her intelligent consecration, she accomplished a blessed work for the Master, especially among the women in all the churches served by her husband. She was present at the organization of the Philadelphia Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, and raised the first money for the establishment of the school at Woodstock, India.

Don't Like Company.

We stated last week that Sheriff Hart had more prisoners than he knew what to do with, and that he had placed two of them in the cell with Wm. Waite, the confessed murderer of Mrs. Elmer Collins. Waite did not like company, and showed the Sheriff the fact by his actions. Last Monday he took it into his head to get clear of them, and he had a regular circus in his cell for a few minutes. He threw buckets, chairs, and any old thing which came in his way at his fellow prisoners, and two more frightened negroes it is hard to find. He had them running around the cell, jumping over the stove and going through many other acrobatic performances to get out of his (Waite's) way. He says he does not want company.

Another big burly prisoner, (more of Waite's size) was put in the cell with him Monday and he soon commenced on him. The man gave Waite a tap on the left jaw with a right hand swing and Waite soon realized that he was up against the real thing and cooled down as nicely as a baby.

Sheriff Hart thinks he has just the right man with Waite now and one who can keep him quiet. Waite, however, is very mad, and will not have anything to say to any one.—Sussex Countian.

The old brick hotel which has stood for over 100 years on the northeast corner of the square in Taneytown was demolished last week, and as rapidly as possible the work of replacing it with a modern hotel building will be prosecuted.

SENATOR APPELGARTH INDICTED.

Charged with Violating Local Option Law and With Embracery.

Cambridge, Md., June 8.—The grand jury for the May term of court which was recently discharged here returned three indictments against William F. Applegarth of this county.

Mr. Applegarth has been released under bonds for his appearance for the next term of court.

The first indictment charges Mr. Applegarth with violating the local option law of Dorchester county by selling whisky to Thomas Ruark and James Riggin. The other two indictments, which are Nos. 44 and 45 on the criminal docket of the county, charge him with embracery. This offense in law means the attempt to influence a court or jury by other means than evidence or argument in open court.

The news of the indictment of Mr. Applegarth has created something of a sensation among the people of this county, where he has always resided and is regarded as one of the most prominent men among Dorchester's citizens. He is State Senator from this county, having been elected for a term of four years at the last general election. He had already served a full term in the Senate. He has been prominently spoken of as a probable candidate for Congress in the First district. He is reputed to be the wealthiest man in Dorchester county.

The alleged violation of the liquor law is said to have taken place at his store in Lakes district, which is in the lower portion of the county, where Mr. Applegarth resides. It is difficult to ascertain just what information the States' officers have in reference to the case. People generally are reticent about expressing any opinion over the matter other than saying that they are greatly surprised, especially as to the indictments for embracery. "This," said a prominent attorney, "is a grave matter and one that is not common in Dorchester."

Senator Applegarth, it is said, has retained John R. Pattison, Hon. Phillips Lee Goldsborough and Sewell T. Milbourne to defend him.

The next jury term of court will be November, and it is likely that the trial will attract great attention.

The penalty for embracery is a fine, or imprisonment, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Can there be found a store that gives you greater protection on every sale than this store that says "your money back if you wish." Read what follows and join the crowds at Lacy Thoroughgood's.

There has been about $65, contributed to start the team. We have good material from which to form a club, and we have no doubt but what it will prove a success. Let us hope that the boys will play BALL, and bring the trophy to Somerset.—Somerset Journal.

—A small blaze was discovered in the hay loft of the boarding stables of Jno. E. Lowe, on West Church Street, about eight o'clock last Monday evening. The fire department responded promptly to the alarm and by hard work confined the flames to the second floor. All the horses and harness were removed from the building. On account of dense smoke it was impossible to remove the carriages, which were on the second floor, but fortunately escaped any serious injury. The damage to the building was about $150 covered by insurance.

and Truitt's Dainty Soda Fountain is the popular resort for lovers of delicious soda. Why do so many people say Truitt's soda beverages are the best in town? Perhaps it is because we use only the finest fresh fruit syrups of our own make and use them liberally. There is no skimping at Truitt's fountain. We might speak of ice cream sodas, but you've probably heard many of the ladies say—they are just too lovely—most delicious I ever tasted. No finer soda and no daintier service in the world. That's the expressed opinion of those who know. Come in and try our soda and ice cream.

He Was One of the Most Polite Men in the World

He was also one of the most self-possessed. Nothing ever startled him. No matter what happened he kept on in the even tenor of his way. If a cyclone should come along, pick him up and land him in some strange neighborhood, he'd tip his hat to the first person he met and ask pardon for intruding. If the earth should suddenly start to revolve the other way, he'd simply turn around and go with it. He walked up to a house the other day, rang the bell, and when the lady answered the bell in person he quietly remarked: "I see you're going to move this afternoon." "Move! I guess not. You're muchly mistaken. We've lived here for a good many years now and I'm perfectly satisfied to stay. You're evidently mistaken in the number." Have you a 'phone in the house?" "Certainly we have a 'phone." "I'd suggest that you call up central and tell her that your house is on fire, and that you're going to move. I don't want to alarm you." And as the lady rushed for the 'phone he tipped his hat and softly said "good afternoon." He came in Lacy Thoroughgood's Clothing and Hat Store Saturday night at 8 o'clock. He had'n't been in here for over a year. He went back out on the pavement, looked up at the building, came back in and finally, in a quiet way, said to Lacy Thoroughgood "Well, I'll be darned, if you aint doing more business to-night than all the other stores put together. There's always something doing at Lacy Thoroughgood's—there is always a strong tie of confidence between this store and its customers. Lacy Thoroughgood has now served the people of Salisbury for well nigh 16 years and whatever success has crowned his efforts, came as the result of honest effort. Season after season Thoroughgood endeavored to do better by you than in the year before—To sell you better goods and lower the price. Now if any person that reads this wants to buy anything to wear, if they'll come and buy a new Spring Suit from me and will mention seeing the "ad" I'll make them a present.

WHAT THE FIGURES SAY.

A Warning Against National Extravagance and Debt-Making.

(FROM "LE MARTIN," PARIS)

Figures have a language of their own. To be sure it is not the language of flowers, it is a more rude one. It must be said, however, that they have an eloquence of their own, against which no quibbling will stand, which sweeps away all sophistries, which oftentimes is as sharp as the knife of the guillotine and at times even cause a shiver.

I just had this feeling when reading the study of a high American official, Mr. O. P. Austin Chief of the Official Bureau of Statistics, a sort of transatlantic Bertillon.

The "World's Debt" is written at the front of the work, and indeed Mr. Austin deals with the debts of all the countries of the world. He does it with a sort of delight, for in the temple where he assembles the budgets of all the nations the United States have somewhat the right of occupying the place of the Pharisee of the New Testament, and looking straight in the face of the God of Bankruptcy exclaiming: "Oh, Lord! I thank thee that thou has not made me like the Publicans of Europe, who do not know how to put a cent aside, who are given to the most shameful and unbridled squandering, and who by long strides approach bankruptcy and ruin!" And the publicans, particularly we poor publicans of France, can but sigh, strike our breasts, and prostrate ourselves on the ground.

But listen. In 1801 the world's debt amounted in round figures to 15,000 million francs; in 1848, after the Napoleonic wars, it was 42,000 millions; in 1902 the world's national debt was 159,000 millions. The world's national debt, then, increased within the last century by 144,000 millions; but, whereas, during the first part of this century, notwithstanding the gigantic wars which then unsettled the condition of a part of the world, it increased but at the ratio of three to one, the increase during the second part of the century was at the ratio of ten to one.

Listen further. Towards this increase each nation has contributed with all its power. They seem to have been engaged in something like a race, the nations of the Old World especially rivaling with each other, as to which of them would spend the most money, and acquire the most crushing debt burden. Amidst this storm of folly which shook the world only two nations preserved their cool blood. Great Britain, which during forty years reduced its debt by 5,000 million francs; and the United States, which reduced theirs by over 7,000 million francs. All the other nations permitted themselves to be carried away by the whirl.

The Austrian debt, which in 1850 was but 3,000 million francs, reaches at present the figures of 8,500 millions; the debt of Germany has grown from 580 millions in 1870 to 2,795 millions at present; that of Italy, which in 1860 was 7,000 million francs, is now 12,915 millions. The debt of Russia, which in 1883 was 2,000 millions, exceeded in 1900 15,000 millions. France is easily winner in this contest. Her debt, which in 1869 was a little over 5,000 millions francs, amounts to day to about 29,000 millions, or almost six times the amount in the former year, constituting almost one fifth of the total world's indebtedness.

If one analyzes the debts of the group of nations which may be called Germanic, it will be seen that these debts for the last quarter of the century have been due chiefly to the purchase or construction of railways. These nations, which during twenty-five years have increased their debt by no more than 24 thousand million francs, own at present their railways, possessing in them a "physical" capital which almost equals their total debt, and deriving therefrom a revenue almost sufficient for the service of this debt.

Almost the same holds true in the case of the group of Slavic nations. The latter have increased their debt considerably more than the Germanic nations. During the last 25 years the increase amounts to 10,000 millions, but as they well accumulated meantime as an offset of the increased debt assets which are a partial equivalent of their indebtedness.

Quite a different picture is presented by the group of Latin nations. These latter have within the last 25 years increased their debts by 25,000 million francs, Spain and Italy very nearly doubling their debt, France almost trebling hers. In return they cannot be said to have acquired any well-defined material assets. France particularly, which perhaps more than any other nation has spent on her railways, will have to wait until 1954 to acquire ownership of her railways.

If the reader will stop long enough before the figures just presented to his eyes he will not have to wait long to be able to listen to their speech and to know what they say. They say, that a country, as France, no matter how prosperous and great, cannot with impunity increase its public debt by 24,000 millions within 50 years, when other countries equally rich diminish their debt by about that amount within the same space of time. They say, that when a nation, as France, increases its debt by about 500 million francs a year its taxes must fatally increase, and, owing to this increase, its savings diminish. They say that there is a point of time, when a nation, no matter how rich, can no more bear new tax burdens just as a human being, no matter how strong his energy, cannot go beyond a certain limit of effort. They say that France has now arrived at this extreme point of time, and that if during the half century to come she is to continue on the downward grade of her extravagance and made expenditures at the same startling rate of speed which she maintained during the half century just ended, she will break down under the burden, stumble and fall. * * * This is the language spoken by the enigmatical figures which the statisticians arrange and form in an inexorable manner. Let this language be heard, for it is a matter of life.

Among the interesting facts about the great city of London it is stated: A child is born every three minutes, and a death registered every five minutes. The city contains over 700 railway stations, nearly 800 miles of railway line and eleven railway bridges span the Thames. Daily 1,000,000 persons travel on the underground railways, and 2,500,000 in 5,000 omnibuses, 7,000 hansom, 14,000 cabs and 7,000 tram cars. The total population is between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000. Four thousand post men deliver 10,000,000 letters weekly, walking a distance equal to twice the circumference of the globe. Sixty thousand letters are written a day, consuming thirty gallons of ink. Ten thousand miles of overhead telegraph wires almost shut out the smoky canopy which spreads above the London streets, and the number of telegraph messages received in London last year was over 6,000,000. Ninety million gallons of water are consumed daily.

PARK STABLES, SALISBURY, MD.

A horse from a livery stable died soon after being returned, and the person who hired it was sued for damages. A witness was called—a long, lanky stableboy.

"How does the defendant usually ride?"

"Astraddle, sir."

"No, no," said the lawyer. "I mean, does he usually walk, or trot, or gallop?"

"Well," said the witness, "when he rides a walkin' horse, he walks; when he rides a trottin' horse, he trots; and when he rides a gallopin' horse, he gallops; when—"

The lawyer was now angry. "I want to know at what pace the defendant usually goes—fast or slow."

"Well," said the witness, "when his company rides fast; he rides fast; and when his company rides slow, he rides slow."

"Now I want to know, sir," the lawyer said, very much exasperated, how the defendant rides when he is alone."

"Well," said the witness, very slowly, and more meditatively than ever, "when he was alone I warn't there, so I don't know."

Harper's Convincing Test.

During one year two new books (one by a popular author, the other by an unknown) had virtually equal sales. Then the former was sold for another year "with the usual methods of publicity," while the latter was made the subject of a special display advertisement in all the leading papers (one insertion). The results amazed the publishers (Harper's) and the advertising agents. The sales of the book by the unknown author exceeded those of the other by 200,000 copies—clearly the result of one big advertisement in the newspaper.

KEEP YOUR BLOOD CLEAN

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

The presence of this car between the engine and the coaches it believed to have saved the many passengers from death or injury. Some members of the crews were injured, but none seriously.

Mrs. Nancy Gordon, aged 60 years, while returning from the Dunkard love feast at Brownsville, Washington county, Saturday night, was knocked down on the public road by a team driven by young men and seriously injured. Three buggies passed over her in rapid succession and at racing speed.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by R. K. Truitt & Son.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Bitters 50c, Salve 25c at all Druggists.

Saved From an Awful Fate.

"Everybody said I had consumption," writes Mrs. A. M. Shielke, of Chambersburg, Pa. "I was so low after six months of severe sickness, caused by Hay Fever and Asthma, that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvellous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, used it, and was completely cured." For desperate Throat and Lung Diseases it is the safest cure in the world, and is infallible for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

Delaware Officials Indicted.

Sensational developments occurred in Delaware last Monday afternoon as a result of the investigation of Attorney General Herbert H. Ward into county affairs, when indictments were returned against Sheriff Samuel A. McDaniel, Evan G. Boyd, mayor of New Castle; B. Harvey Wigglesworth, a former deputy sheriff under Sheriff McDaniel. The indictments are that Sheriff McDaniel, Mayor Boyd, and Wigglesworth entered into a conspiracy to cheat and defraud the county by presenting to County Comptroller George D. Kelley a "false, deceitful, fraudulent and padded bill" for $2,500 for the alleged commitment and lodging of vagrants in New Castle jail for the months of April, May and June of last year. Attorney General Ward will endeavor to show that the bill contained charges for many vagrants who were never committed or lodged in the jail. When the bill was presented it was deemed excessive by the Citizens Reform Association, and an order to restrain its payment was issued by Chancellor Nicholson on application of the Citizens' Association.

When the indictments were returned Sheriff McDaniel was in the courtroom and seemed greatly agitated by the unexpected action. He immediately left to get a bondsman. Clerk of the Peace Quigley placing the capias for the Sheriff, Mayor Boyd, Wigglesworth and Nash into the hands of Coroner Frick for service. Before the writs could be served the indicted men appeared in court, remaining there all afternoon. At 6 o'clock in the evening they furnished $2,500 bail each.

Letter To C. E. Duffy.

Dear Sir: You buy your horsehoes and nails; your grand-father, if he was a blacksmith, made 'em. You can't afford to hammer them out by hand, when you can buy as good, or better perhaps, ready-made to your hand, for a little more than the cost of the iron.

What do you think of a painter who goes on buying his linseed oil and white-lead, and mixing, and tinting, and hand, and charging his time for work that is far better done than he can do it, done as your horsehoes and nails are made. Mistake isn't it?

He is wasting his chances in the world. There is no better stuff to do business with than good horsehoes and paint; and no better work than putting them on. Good horsehoes well put on: it's the putting 'em on that makes you a blacksmith; no matter who makes 'em.

Who wants to go back to old times, and make his own horsehoes? Between us two, that painter don't know how to make good paint—he used to; but paint has run away from him.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOR & CO. P. S.—L. W. GUNBY sells our paint.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Curran of Loganton, Pa. One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs.

At Port Deposit James Hill, a negro, was shot by Joe Peters, also a negro. Peters fought against arrest, and was twice wounded before he was taken. Charles Jones and Henry Gloss are also under arrest in connection with the affair, which resulted from a quarrel among the four men.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Eversly, Moundsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried."

Happy Time in Old Town.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no counterfeits.

Filthy Temples in India.

Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that is polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid untold misery. They give lively livers, active bowels, good digestion, fine appetite. Only 25c at all drug stores.

Take Care of the Stomach and the Health Will Take Care of Itself.

If people only realized the soundness of that statement the majority might live to a good old age like Moses. "The eye undimmed, the natural force unabated." It is in the stomach that the blood is made. It is from the stomach that nourishment is dispensed to nerve and muscle. If the stomach is "weak" it can't do its whole work for each part of the body. If it is diseased the disease will taint the nourishment which is distributed, and so spread disease throughout the body. It was the realization of the importance of the stomach as the very center of health and the common source of disease, which led Dr. Pierce to prepare his "Golden Medical Discovery." "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." The soundness of this theory is proved every day by cures of diseased organs, heart, liver, lungs, blood,—by the use of the "Discovery" which is solely and singly a medicine for the blood and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is a temperance medicine containing no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicants.

How To Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by R. K. Truitt & Sons.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheerfully recommend Kodol." Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid.

The steamship Storford sailed from Daquiri, Cuba, on Friday, May 23, with 5,400 tons of Spanish American ore. This is the first steamer to come from the new republic to Sparrows point.

The Summer Season.

is full of dangers particularly for the children, who not knowing the result of eating unripe fruit, indulge themselves, with the usual griping pains in the stomach as a consequence, mothers should have on hand at all times a bottle of Painkiller (Perry Davis) which will at once relieve the sufferer: it is a safe, simple remedy and it should be kept in every house. Large bottles 25 and 50 cents.

The merchants and business men of Frederick have decorated their places of business elaborately with purple and white bunting in honor of the Elk's carnival, which opened there Monday evening and will continue for one week.

Big Figures.

100,000,000 bottles of Perry Davis' Painkiller sold in 60 days. Just think! Nearly enough placed end to end to reach around the world. What other remedy can boast such a record of services to humanity in curing stomach and bowel complaints and the many other ailments and accidents constantly occurring even in the most careful homes. There is only one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. Beware of imitations.

TALMAGE SERMON
By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D.
Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, June 1.—In this sermon the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage shows how the dead heroes whose graves are garlanded on Memorial day live again in the spirit which their self sacrifice inspires in the American people; text, Ezekiel xxxvii, 3, "Can these bones live?"

A dark, grewsome valley, peopled with the strangest of all strange hosts, a great army of bleached skeletons, is the scene of the prophet's vision. Amid the millions and billions of dry bones there is not the gleam of one eye, the beating of one heart, the welcome of one handclasp. All are motionless. All are dead. Then, in the silence, there comes a voice asking the momentous question, "Can these bones live?" And, strange to say, as if in answer, the dry bones begin to move, the joints, like rusty hinges, creaking from long disuse. The different skeletons lift themselves and stand up. Then, stranger still, these skeleton forms stoop down, as we would bend to gather the fresh, clean linen after a morning bath, and they clothe themselves in garments of flesh and blood. God first asked Ezekiel whether the dry bones could live. Then God showed the prophet by visual manifestation that they could.

The same question which was asked the ancient prophet I ask you this national Memorial day in reference to the bones, the dry bones, of the soldiers who died in our civil war. I ask it in reference to the dead soldiers of the northern and southern armies alike. Now that the civil war is forty years past, all are agreed that the men who wore the gray fought for motives just as honorable as those of the men who wore the blue. Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson were God's noblemen as certainly as were U. S. Grant and William T. Sherman. Alexander H. Stephens was obeying the dictates of his own conscience as certainly as did Thaddeus Stevens. I ask this question the more boldly because among the last plans of our martyred President William McKinley was one to do justice to the aged Confederate veterans. Can the bones of the northern and southern heroes who suffered death upon American battlefields live again? I ask the question because I intend to answer it myself. I want to prove this morning that the men who met a soldier's death fighting bravely are not dead. They are alive today when their deeds testified to the world that America's heroes and heroines—for I shall speak in reference to both—should be classed among the moral and intellectual forces of their day and generation.

The Inspiration of Example.
The dead of our American battlefields are intensely alive today in their inspiring examples. Every true soldier knows what I mean by the overwhelming power of a personal example. It is the ability which a brave leader, by a deed of heroism, has to instill the courage of his own life into other lives. There comes a crisis in the battle. What does the assaulting brigade commander do? Does he keep his position in the rear of his troops, where he has a right to stay? Does he send one of his staff officers to lead in the charge? Does he look after his own safety? Oh, no. He draws his sword and steps to the front of his brigade. He hurriedly utters a few inspiring words. He says: "Boys, the safety of the whole army depends upon this move. Either we must capture yonder hill and break that opposing line, or else the whole force must retreat or surrender. Some of us may lay down our lives there. Will you follow me, men? I ask no man to go where I am not ready to lead. I ask no man to charge where it may not be possible for him to step over my dead body. Men, will you go? Will you go?" And all down the line of throats there comes the hoarse answer: "Aye, general, we will go! We will go!" This was the way General George Edward Pickett did when he stepped in front of his soldiers at the battle of Gettysburg and led his brigade across those bloody fields until at last his lines were almost annihilated. With tears streaming down his cheeks, Pickett returned to report to his commander, saying, "General Lee, my noble brigade has been swept away!" This was the way Marshal Ney did when he led the Old Guard down into the ravine of Ohain, where the Waterloo tragedy was practically ended. This was the way Richard Neville, earl of Warwick, did upon the battlefield of Barnet. When the great kingmaker saw that his troops were being routed, he rode to the top of a hill and dismounted. There, within sight of his men, he drove his sword into the heart of his noble war charger. Then, having cut off all possibility of personal escape, he called his troops, saying: "The commander of the English forces is here to conquer or die! Will his men be willing to die with him?" The retreating soldiers gathered around their noble leader and died by thousands as the Earl of Warwick himself died. War may be hell, as an American general once bluntly declared, but by the gleam of the hot, hissing, demonic flames of that awful inferno are seen the heroic deeds of many whose noble lives have been tried and purified by the fires of an earthly martyrdom.

This national Memorial day we are living among the glorified scenes of the past. We are ready to suffer for the old flag because its red folds have been dipped in pools of human blood. We are better fathers and husbands and sons because the domestic hearth of many a family has been built out of the tombstones of Arlington Heights and Petersburg, of Nashville and Atlanta. We are better men and women because our dead soldiers have shown us how to nobly live and how to gloriously die.

A Battlefield Request.
The dead of our American battlefields are intensely alive today in the influence of the sorrowing loved ones who were left bereft. Sometimes we are apt to erroneously believe that the only sufferings of war were to be found in the gunshot wounds and the swamp fevers, in the heartrending cries of "Water! Water!" heard at night from the wounded lying between the contending lines, in the colds, the heats, the hunger, the weariness and the homesickness suffered by the men at the front. But I have always believed that the wives and mothers and the sisters and sweethearts who stayed at home to weep suffered far more than the husbands and sons and brothers who donned their uniforms and went forth to die. Think of their sad, weary nights! Think of their startled ears when the rumors were heard that a great battle was about to be fought! Think of their wet eyes, scanning the long newspaper columns of the dead and missing! That awful word "missing!" Think of the poverty which the young widow had to face, with four or five children at her back! Today we honor the dead soldiers who wore the blue and the gray. We ought also to honor the wives and mothers, the sweethearts and the sisters, who were willing to give those soldiers as a sacrifice, as well as the heroes who were willing to die.

To show what the women at home had to suffer I want to read what is perhaps the saddest letter ever penned, by mortal hand. It was written by Abraham Lincoln to a humble woman who lived in Massachusetts. Many such letters could have been written to other women, north and south, who were called upon to suffer in the same way and perhaps to make equally great sacrifices.

Dear Madam—I have been shown in the files of the war department a statement of the adjutant general of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously upon the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from a loss so overwhelming, but I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and the lost, the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom. Yours very sincerely and respectfully,
ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

But, though the noble women of the north and south may have suffered greatly, yet by their very sufferings God was able to heal the wounds, the bleeding wounds, of this nation. The breaking hearts of the north reached out toward the breaking hearts of the south, and they found that in their troubles they were sisters. Some of the bereft mothers had sons fighting in both armies. As such a mother sat in her family plot between the two graves—between the grave of her boy in blue and that of her boy in gray—she prayed that the past civil strife might be forever buried. She pleaded with earnest prayer because her boys who died had come from the same cradle and had looked up into the eyes of the same mother.

When Bunker monument was being dedicated, the crowd was so great that by the pressing and pushing a panic was threatened. The presiding officer tried in vain to still the tumult. Then the orator of the day arose, and Daniel Webster's deep voice called out, "Stand back!" Some of the people cried, "It is impossible to stand back!" Then Webster's flashing eye swept over the multitude as he answered: "Don't use that word impossible in a place like this. Nothing is impossible at Bunker hill." Some pessimists said that the bitterness of the civil war would never end. But, as Daniel Webster said in reference to Bunker hill, so nothing was impossible in the suffering presence of broken hearted American womanhood. Their common griefs and sorrows for ever forbade men to revive the horrors of our civil strife.

Our Consecrated Homes.
The dead of our American battlefields are intensely alive today because they have proved that the strength of this country is to be found in the multitudes of its consecrated homes and not in the size of its standing armies. When the civil war broke out, there were not enrolled upon the muster of the war department more than 25,000 men. The traveler could go up and down the length and breadth of the land without seeing an American soldier in uniform except in a few forts built for protection against the Indians and in places like Governors island and Fort Sumter. All Europe was shaking under the tramp of the martial hosts which were marshaled upon every frontier; yet in America there were not enough soldiers to make a respectable looking national awkward squad. But no sooner did the bugle blast of war sound than the volunteers came from everywhere. They came from the pine woods of Maine and the Louisiana plantations, from among the California flowers and the Alabama cottonfields, from the Dakota prairies and the Mississippi flatboats, from the Pennsylvania mines and the South Carolina tobacco factories. They came by the tens of thousands. They came by the hundreds of thousands. They came by the millions. They came to prove for all time that for this country, at least, there is no need of a great standing army.

When war breaks out, a nation has to use the ships which it has constructed in times of peace. It takes years to build a floating fighting machine. But what I have said is true in reference to a standing army. This country, which in a few months could produce well disciplined armies, as the army of the south and the army of the north, does not need, save in times of war, to call the keenest brains, the strongest arms and the bravest bodies from the vocations of peace and have the nation groaning under the weight of useless taxation. It does not need to have fewer merchants, fewer schoolteachers, fewer lawyers and ministers and mechanics and farmers in order to have more privates and lieutenants and captains and majors and colonels and generals. If we have the right kind of homes, there will be officers and privates ready to protect the country from a foreign foe whenever they are needed.

And what kind of fighting men did these volunteers make? The very best the world has ever seen! When the American civil war opened, the European monarchs looked upon it as a war of mobs. These foreign nations supposed it to be a disorganized mass. But when the civil war was over and Count von Moltke, the great German strategist, the general who brought to a successful issue the Austro-Prussian war in 1866 and the Franco-German war of 1871, studied the campaign in the south he said: "The American war was not a collection of struggling pygmies. It was a war of giants!"

Deeds of Heroism.
An American never fights as well as when he is a civilian, taken out of the ordinary walks of life, to fight for the defense of his own home and native land. Where in all the pages of history can you find greater deeds of heroism than those exhibited in the southern army? The reason I use this as an illustration is because the southern army, being the defeated army, had to suffer more. That army fought until it could fight no more. The Confederate soldiers fought until they had no shoes upon their feet; they fought when they had no food in their stomachs; they fought until their clothes were in tatters, and the southern ladies had to tear up their dresses to bandage up their wounds; they fought until the slightest wound, on account of their depleted physical system, would cause death by gangrene; they fought until they died.

Where can you find a greater example of heroism than that exhibited by the colonel of a Pennsylvania regiment? As he was leading in a charge he looked down and saw the upturned face of his own boy. All that he did was to kneel a moment and kiss his child, saying, "Goodby, my darling; goodby!" Then he turned and waved his sword, crying: "Come on, boys! Come on! Charge and follow me!" Where can you find a greater deed of heroism than that exhibited upon the field of battle when the ambulance corps found among the wounded a boy in blue with both of his eyes shot out. There he sat, holding in his arms the dead body of another boy in blue. They were brothers. As the surgeon's aid came near they heard the blind boy whispering to the dead boy: "Poor Bobby! Poor Bobby! Mamma told me to look after you, and I will. Poor Bobby! Poor Bobby!" Ah, in this land of the free and the brave we do not want a greater standing army! We do need, however, more consecrated homes; we do need more fathers and mothers who will build the right kind of family altars; we do need the right kind of Christian churches, where those children can be brought in contact with God; we need those Christian boys and girls started in the right kind of vocations. Then when war comes, if it must come, the Christian homes of the north and the south, the east and the west, will yield up their sons for the battle and their daughters for the field hospitals.

The Christian dead of our American battlefields are intensely alive today in the heavenly recognitions which have been given to them. Impossible is it to suppose that God would allow his servants who were to be found in both armies and who died upon the American battlefields to go unwarded. In the beautiful sermon upon the mount Christ pronounced a blessing on those whose lives were full of tears and heartaches, poverty and persecution, slander and death. Do not Christ's words apply to those brave men? Did they not suffer enough? Were not their wounds deep enough? Did not their hunger enough and have homesickness enough? Did not many a fair cheeked boy under his blanket at night sob himself to sleep, or, unable to sleep, keep on crying, "Oh, mother, mother, if I could only see mother!" In one of the national museums I saw a Bible which had saved a soldier's life. When the young man left home, his mother gave it to him. In battle he was carrying it in his coat pocket just over the heart. A flying bullet almost cut its way through that Bible, but it was stopped at one of the leaves of the four gospels. Did not many a dying soldier have one of these Bibles in his hand? Did he not weep over it when he was dying far away from home? Can God forget his Christian soldiers who died upon the American battlefields? No, no! The Bible describes the entrance into heaven of a mighty host marching through the gates as before the reviewing stand of an earthly ruler. St. John in apocalyptic vision cried out in rapture as he saw them, "Who are these who are arrayed in white robes, and whence came they?" There must have been many seen by his prophetic eye, who came from our American battlefields to whom the answer that he received would apply, "These are they which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

An Incident of the Crimea.
When the English soldiers came back from the Crimean war, all London turned out to greet them. After they had marched past the reviewing stand Queen Victoria and the prince consort arose to receive those heroes who were to be decorated with medals. As each soldier approached, the queen, with her own hand, pinned the medal upon the breast of the man she wished to honor. Some of those soldiers had an empty sleeve; some came on crutches; some had their heads bandaged. At last there came a litter. In it was carried the physical wreck of a man. Both of his legs had been shot away. One of his arms was gone. His body had simply been riddled with bullets. Then the queen, with tears in her eyes, bade the bearers halt. She left her place and descended the steps of her stand to the side of the litter. She bent over the poor veteran. On account of his sufferings the queen wished to honor him more than any of the rest. So the more the Christian dead of our American battlefields suffered the more Christ has honored them. Therefore the more they are alive today in the heavenly reunions.

My fellow countrymen from the north, the east and the south and the west, this Memorial day let us go forth to decorate with flowers the graves of the American soldiers who died upon the field of battle because their glorious memories still live in our hearts. Let us decorate all the graves alike; let us put just as large a wreath upon the grave of the unknown picket who was shot by the sharpshooter in the moonlight when doing sentinel duty as upon the grave of the most noted general of the war—Albert Sidney Johnston, who fell at Shiloh; Leonidas Polk, who fell at Pine Mountain, Georgia; Jeb Stuart, the cavalry leader, who fell in Virginia; John Fulton Reynolds, shot at Gettysburg; James Birdseye McPherson, killed at Atlanta, or George Armstrong Custer, who was scalped by the Indians a short time after the close of the civil war, receiving the same meed of honor and the same floral tribute at the hands of their countrymen as the humble color bearer who when the regiment was retreating rallied the men just before he was struck by a bullet and leaped up into the air, crying, "Oh, my God; I'm gone!" and fell dead. Give a hero's garland to the farmer boy who kissed his mother for the last time under the shadow of the apple tree when he went forth to die.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Every one of the dead heroes paid the greatest of all sacrifices for his country. They gave their lives in order that others might live. And as we, one and all, fellow countrymen, from the north, the east, the south and the west, kneel down to place the Memorial day flowers upon the graves of the boys in blue and of the boys in gray, may we swear before God by the altars of the dead that we will oppose with inflexible determination any one who will ever again try to stir up sectional strife. The civil war is dead. By the blood of our loved ones we swear it. The civil war is dead! By the northern regiments which followed Fitz-Hugh Lee and Joe Wheeler and the southern regiments that followed Lawton and Merritt in the Spanish-American war, when north and south fought side by side, we know it.

The Lesson of Memorial Day.
Then, as we kneel on Memorial day by the altars of the dead soldiers who fell upon our American battlefields, may we consecrate anew our lives to our country's service. May we realize that when we serve our Lord and Master best, then we serve best our nation. May the sorrow and the sadness, the sufferings and the deaths we see this day commemorate instill in our hearts a profound love of peace and a deeper consecration to him whose name is the Prince of Peace. Let us labor to so disseminate the teachings of Jesus that war in the future shall become an impossibility. Then shall be only gospel peace. Then the American people will not only love the Lord their God with all their hearts, but they shall love their neighbors as themselves. Then the battles of the civil war shall be remembered as the sad result of disensions that are no longer settled by the sword, but are submitted to the arbitration of the Prince of Peace. Then the glory of the Lord shall cover this land as the waters cover the sea. Then the red stripes of the American flag will not be the symbol of an earthly carnage, but of a Saviour's atonement.

Peace upon peace, like wave on wave. This is the portion that we crave; Peace like the river's gentle flow, Peace like the morning's silent glow, From day to day in love supplied, An endless and unending tide.

Peace flowing on without decrease From him who is our joy and peace; Peace through the night and through the day, Peace through all the windings of our way, In earthly toil which may not cease, A deep and everlasting peace.

O King of Peace, this peace bestow Upon our country here below; Peace from the Father and the Son, Peace from the Spirit all his own, Peace that shall nevermore be lost, Of Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

Cheaper Carnations.
"Do you know why carnations have fallen about 40 per cent in price in the last year or so?" asks a florist quoted by the Philadelphia Record. "It isn't because they are less popular—they are more popular than they ever were—but it is all on account of a little wire machine recently invented that costs about 3 1/2 cents. This machine may be described as an automatic tree box of steel wire. It is a couple of feet high and stands upon three legs. As soon as a carnation begins to grow it is slipped within the machine, and thereafter it remains upright, for there is a series of rings that take hold of it and guide it in its growth. Before the invention of this device the majority of carnations spoiled because when they became tall they fell over and the flowers rotted in the dust. Now none of them spoils, and hence their present cheapness."

Religious services in town next Sunday as follows: In the morning at 10.30 in the M. E. Church by Rev. O. L. Martin; in the evening at 8 o'clock in the P. E. Church by Rev. F. B. Adkins, and in the M. P. Church by Rev. F. J. Phillips.

A novel scheme has been adopted by the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. Church in order to raise money for replenishment of parsonage furniture. It takes the form of an autograph quilt. The cost of having one's name inscribed upon the spread being 10c. So anxious have persons been to have their name perpetuated in this manner that a sum of $30 has been raised for the treasury of the society and yet the covering is not entirely filled with names.

Mr. Albert Jones, delegate from Stepney Parish, in company with Rev. F. B. Adkins rector of the same parish attended the convention of the diocese of Easton held in Elkton during the week.

The Misses Tainter will give a lawn party on this Saturday evening at their pleasant home "Locust Grove" in town.

The rays of Old Sol are beginning to take effect upon the inhabitants of this earthly section so it is suggestive by way of prediction that the prettiest things in shirt waists during these sweltering days that are to come will be the Quantico girls. At least, so the young men from Allen, Green Hill, Tysakin and a few other sections seem to think, as regularly on Sunday do we see these gentlemen with smiling faces make their entrance into this town.

The annual turtle dinner, the love feast of the party of Jefferson and Jackson will come off on next Wednesday at Quantico Hotel. Every year do we have the pleasure of entertaining these apostles of Democracy in our midst when they come together to discuss and mediate about the proper persons to be standard bearers in the following autumn. Oft times many slates are made and broken by these pupils in the school of politics but they finally succeed in writing the name that leads the party to victory and override the charges of the foe—the Republicans.

Misses Bailey will be prepared to serve up the snapper in any style desirable and those who attend may feel assured that their appetites will be well satisfied at his board in the old Quantico Hotel on Wednesday next.

Some of the readers of your valuable paper who read in the city papers this week that Ex Gov. Pattison of Penn. is likely to be nominated for the third term as Governor of the Keystone state may not know that this prominent man was born in our town, but so he was in the house now owned by Mr. Wm. Fletcher, serving the purpose of the millinery store of the Misses Brady and the Post Office. His father was a preacher in the Philadelphia Conference of the M. E. Church and was stationed here when Robert came into the arena of life.

The good people of this town with righteous indignation resent the Arlington speech of the great (?) Theodore Roosevelt in which he hurled every dart from his quiver against the South and made charges against them the foundation of which carried him back forty years and also credited to their account many things that belong to the right side of the ledger of other sections and not of Dixie. We resent it because there are many in this locality that sympathized with the "Lost Cause" many to whom the folds of the "Stars and Bars" long since furled forever, were sacred and while the efforts were mistaken yet the people were as honest as those who followed the Union, and taunting the people as the President did a few days ago does no good but serves rather to alienate a large number of loyal hearts from him.

Mr. Ira Disharoon is spending several days in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Messrs. Clifford Cooper of Allen and Hyland Dashiell of Green Hill spent Sunday evening near town.

Mr. T. C. Smoot of Baltimore, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Elmer Disharoon, this town.

Mr. Roland Bailey spent Sunday in Rockawalkin.

The Misses Lillie and Ruth Brady have returned from a visit to relatives in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Kennerly of Nanticoke visited relatives in this town this week.

Mr. Talbot Truitt has returned to Quantico after a two weeks stay in Princess Anne.

The Guernsey Breeders' Association has authorized the premium list committee to double all of last year's premiums in this class at the Baltimore County Fair. Other breeders' associations have been communicated with in reference to taking similar action.

Many Medals Won at Charleston Exposition.

Final reports from Charleston show that Maryland's geological industrial exhibit at the South Carolina Interstate and West Indian Exposition has won the highest award bestowed by the judges upon any state for its display of the same sort of resources. The exhibit, which was installed for the State by the Maryland Geological Survey under the direction of Dr. W. B. Clark, received eleven gold medals. Ten was the number first announced. The one overlooked has been won by the Washington Hydraulic-Press Brick Company at Severn. This puts Maryland at the head of the list of the winners of first honors. The next six states follow her in this order: New York and North Carolina, six each; Missouri, five; Georgia, four; Illinois and Ohio, three each. Maryland also took twelve silver and bronze medals and five honorable mentions.

Only forty nine gold medals were awarded in all to the entire country in the department of mineral resources and industries. Great corporations like the Standard Oil Company took some of these. The exhibit has not cost more than $5000 when every detail of its expense has been added. It represents only about one eighth of the money spent by Maryland for Exposition purposes, yet it is the only result of the State's outlay for the Exposition which has tended strongly to push the State into greater prominence before the thousands of progressive people who visited Charleston this year. With the experience gained at Buffalo, where it also won distinction, and now at Charleston, the Geological Survey is much the better prepared to make Maryland again a winner on the more difficult field to be presented by the great Louisiana Purchase Exposition now organizing in St. Louis.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLUTION.

The Messrs. Grier Brothers Agree To Sever Their Business Relations. Mr. Robt. D. Grier Will Continue The Business.

Messrs. Robt. D. and F. A. Grier, proprietors of the Salisbury Machine Shops, last Thursday agreed to dissolve their partnership, and on that day Mr. Robert D. Grier succeeded the old firm and assumed the proprietorship and management of the business.

Mr. F. A. Grier, the retiring member, said Thursday that his plans for the future were unmaturing, but that for the immediate present he should attempt no business venture. His oldest son, Mr. F. A. Grier, Jr. is at present serving an apprenticeship in the Wilmington shops of the P. W. & B. railroad, where he has two more years. It is just possible, Mr. Grier, senior, says, that when the young man has graduated into a master workman that the two may start a machine shop in Salisbury on the most modern and approved plans from which the highest class foundry work will be turned out.

In the adjustment of the affairs of the dissolving firm of Grier Brothers the plant and business inventoried about $12000. Mr. F. A. Grier, the retiring member, receiving one half that sum for his interest. Although a separation had been pending for some time, it was not generally known that the Messrs. Grier contemplated such a thing until a few days ago, and no doubt this account will be the first news of the dissolution to reach the great majority of the Messrs. Grier's old patrons and friends.

The Salisbury Machine Shops were established by the Messrs. Grier in 1888. The founders of the plant are sons of George Grier, Esq., of Milford, Del. When they came to Salisbury they were, although youthful, both practical and experienced machinists having each served an apprenticeship in their father's shops and in shops in Wilmington. Before leaving his father's shops Mr. R. D. Grier had reached the position of foreman over a large force of men.

Prior to coming to Salisbury they started shops in Laurel, Del. After six months struggle there, for at that time they had little capital beyond their youth, strength, industry and skill, they were induced by the Salisbury Board of Trade—the late A. G. Teod vine being at that time its president—to come here and set up. The only favor they requested was the use of money at the legal rate of interest until they could repay it. This the business men guaranteed them.

Soon the new concern was going, and by degrees rose to an important position among the business enterprises of our tiny little city and now enjoys a high commercial rating. Its founders have built nice homes and are the heads of large families. They are recognized as useful and substantial citizens.

Mr. Robt. D. Grier, who will continue the business, is a man of exceptional force and integrity. He will doubtless carry the business to greater success.

Protection at the Crossings.

Owing to the absence of the President last Wednesday night the City Council did not vote upon the ordinance to provide protection at the railroad crossings.

The Council adjourned to meet next Monday evening when an ordinance will be adopted requiring the crossings to be guarded by the railroads.

The Council has not determined whether safety gates or the bell system will be used. At the meeting Monday night representatives of the two railroads whose tracks run through the city will be before the Council and the question will be discussed in detail. It is understood that the railroad companies wish to use the bell and flag system altogether at all the crossings. Public sentiment, however, seems to favor safety gates at the most hazardous points, for instance at the South Division and East Church street crossings. No other plan suggested would afford the measure of protection that safety gates would.

Mr. A. J. Benjamin, superintendent of the B. & A., in a conversation a few days ago, said it was the intention of his company to at once adopt a policy of extraordinary vigilance all along the line of the road, whereby the risk to the traveling public and to property would be reduced to the minimum.

—Mr. John T. Ellis, the marble worker, has just completed a very pretty cottage monument for the grave of the late Wm. Howard, who died in 1898 and was buried in St. Phillips Church yard at Quantico. The monument is in six sections, and when set up, it will stand six feet and six inches high.

STATE FIREMAN ASSOCIATION.

A Large Number Meet at Lonaconing Which is in Gala Attire. Next Year's Convention in Frederick.

The tenth annual convention of the Maryland State Firemen's Association opened at Lonaconing Wednesday with a big parade, in which nearly one thousand volunteer firemen of Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia took part.

The live mining town was in gala attire, the decorations being on an elaborate scale. Thousands of visitors were present.

The parade was composed of four divisions, with Dr. C. Brotemarke as chief marshal and James Gilchrist, Isaac Bradburn and M. F. Cline assistants. There were many sides. The Lonaconing Silver Band led the procession, followed by the Mayor and Council, officers of the State Firemen's Association, committees in carriages, the Good Will Fire Company, with Juniors and Boys' Brigade bringing up the rear of the first division.

In the other divisions Cumberland was represented by five companies, Frederick three, Annapolis two and each of the following places by one: Meyersdale, Pa., Taneytown, Aberdeen, Cambridge, Union Bridge, Keysey, W. Va., Elkton, Manchester, Frostburg, Hagerstown, Salisbury, Pikeville, Snow Hill, Westminster, Westport and Pocomoke. The Old Veteran Volunteer Firemen's Association of Baltimore brought up the rear. The 100 uniformed firemen from Frostburg were led by the German Arion Band. There were over 250 uniformed men from Cumberland in line, with the Cumberland Concert Band, the South Cumberland Band and the Union Cornet Band of Mount Savage and much apparatus. There were eight bands and drum corps in line, and the procession was a brilliant one, passing under many triumphal arches, erected at the intersection of streets.

In the contests Thursday afternoon for prizes the junior reel team of Frederick, John Markey captain, won the first prize, $100, in the reel race, time 41 9 10 seconds; Westminster won second prize, $25, in 46 2 5 seconds, and South Cumberland was third in 57 1 10 seconds.

There was a dispute in the hook and ladder contest between Westminster and Frederick, which was compromised by an equal division of the prize money, $125. Time, Frederick, 58 1 5 seconds; Westminster, 67 1.

There was an exciting contest over the offices and between Frederick and Elkton as next year's meeting place. Frederick won. The officers elected were as follows:

President—John H. Cunningham, of Westminster.

Senior Vice President—Edward Sickle, of Baltimore.

Secretary—William M. Crimmins, of Frederick, re-elected.

Treasurer—Hiram R. Heck, of Frederick, re-elected.

The candidates opposing Mr. Cunningham for president were A. R. Lohner, of this city, and Edward Stevenson, of Lonaconing.

The delegation from Salisbury were G. E. Sirman (chief), A. R. Lohner, Ralph Murphy, W. W. White, James White, Edw. Mills, Joseph Morris, Ray Truitt, Ran Sirman, Harry Moore and Marzie Ulman.

Surprise Party.

On Wednesday evening a surprise party was given to Miss Ora Disharoon, daughter of Mayor Disharoon, at her pleasant home on Division Street.

Music was furnished for the occasion by the Misses Ruth Gordy, Edith Weisbach and Cora Mitchell. At 11 o'clock refreshments consisting of ices, fruits and cakes were served. The affair was a most enjoyable one and Miss Disharoon requested her guests to invite themselves to her home again very soon.

Those present were the Misses Cora Mitchell, Louise Perry, Alice Carey, Mary Crew, Ruth Gordy, Alma Lankford, Edith Weisbach, Nellie Humphreys, Mary McBrierty and Amy Allen, and Messrs. Waller Williams, Joseph Carey, Wm Sheppard, Wm. B. Tilghman, Jr., Karl Schuler, Claude Derman, Jno. H. Bacon and Arthur Phillips.

ANNUAL TURTLE DINNER.

A Good Attendance On Wednesday—Little Politics Discussed And The Congressional Nomination Still Unsettled.

The pretty town of Quantico, located on the creek by the same name which has its headquarters nine miles from Salisbury, was alive with men on Wednesday who had gone, not to see the town, for little change has been made in its appearance in the last decade, not to see the inhabitants for they may be seen elsewhere, not to drink the water for their thirst could be slaked from other springs, not to dance, although in Indian language the name of the town means a dancing place, but these gentlemen were there to partake of the turtle which had been catered so deliciously by the famous old Quantico tavern and to talk over matters pertaining to the betterment and future welfare of that party which has stood the test of ages and, while having encountered many a wintry blast, is still stalwart and stands firm for liberty and justice to every man.

As the year was considered an "off one" since there is only a member to the House of Representatives to be elected and no county ticket at all is to be made out, the devotees of Jeffersonism were compelled to confine their "late-makings" to one name or else with prophetic vision look away into 1903 and figure out the probable result of the county and state conventions of that year, the propriety of their results etc., or content themselves with reminiscences of former years and note with sadness or joy the loss or gain in the solid phalanx of Wicomico's Democracy. At any rate, they came from the East to the West, from the North to the South of Wicomico to "put up" at Bailey's on Wednesday. So numerously did they pour into the town that when the bell rang for dinner and the believers of this faith of our forefathers began to take their places at the board, their noses numbered one hundred and eight.

This love feast in political circles was continued from 12 noon until three and during that time the cooks about the hotel had established their reputation as understanding their business. Mine host Bailey, with his good wife, had spared no pains to satisfy the appetites of every one who broke bread at his table and well did he please all.

The menu consisted of turtle stew, turtle fry, and turtle pie; the eggs of the snapper served in various styles: lamb, beef, and chicken; beets, string beans and cabbage; genuine Maryland biscuits, delicious rolls and the royal old fashioned corn pone. Hot coffee was employed as a digester and ice cream, cake and strawberries were served for dessert. At the conclusion of dinner the visitors betook themselves about the town, having a friendly handshake for all of their acquaintances in the community and making themselves altogether agreeable to the town's people.

Taken as a whole, the affair, while void of political significance as in other years, was a most enjoyable one and not one soldier in the army which had its headquarters in Quantico on Wednesday regretted having "fallen in" for that particular occasion.

At 5 o'clock the clans began to disperse to their various homes. The final parting clasp was indulged, well-wishes for victory in November were expressed, the turtle dinner of 1902 was over and Quantico again settled down to quietness and industry.

Pretty Trotting Exhibitions.

Four hundred persons assembled at the Country Club on Monday afternoon to witness two very pretty trotting exhibitions. The first was a race between Mr. W. B. Miller's "George" and Mr. Chas. E. Duffy's "Honest John." This was a very exciting contest and thoroughly enjoyed by those present. In the third heat the drivers refused to "come back" when so ordered by the judges and continued on round the track. This was won by "Honest John" but was decided a "dead heat." This was the only heat "John" could capture and the race was won by "George" in the following time, half mile heats, 1.15, 1.14, 1.14.

The second race was between Mr. L. S. Brewington's "Pickaway Paid" and Mr. A. J. Benjamin's "Prince." This was won by "Prince" in three straight heats, half mile, time, 1.20, 1.23 and 1.20. Pickaway Maid showed bursts of great speed but made a number of bad breaks.

The judges were Messrs. W. S. Gordy, J. B. Perdue and Alex. Malone. It is understood that other races will be arranged to take place very soon.

COLLINS BREAKING DOWN.

Terrible Strain Over His Murdered Wife The Cause—Strange Bird's Antics.

Recent developments in the Collins murder case near Laurel, in which two men and two different campaigns are involved by the forces of the law, one of the accused men being Elmer Collins, husband of the butchered woman, have led to the belief that Collins is breaking down under the burden of his grief and connection with the crime, and that he will be a mental wreck long before the day set for his trial at Georgetown.

Unless there is some decided development in the young man's favor he will lose his mind. Fearing that the intense strain the accused man is undergoing may kill him his friends have made another determined effort to establish his innocence and this time have engaged Special Detective Maull of the Pinkerton's New York agency, said to be a remarkably clever man in mysterious murder cases. Detective Maull has gone to work with a zest that inspires new hope in the hearts of Collins' friends, and promises to make an important arrest within a few days.

The great strain which Elmer Collins has undergone since his arrest on suspicion of being the murderer of his wife, has had a serious effect on his mental condition, and his friends fear that if he is not soon freed from the terrible suspicion now hanging over him that he will soon become hopelessly insane. Collins spends hours alone, at the grave of his young wife, and calls aloud to her to come back and free him from suspicion by disclosing the name of the fiendish murderer. He keeps the grave constantly supplied with flowers, and great quantities were supplied by friends of the unfortunate woman to decorate in honor of Memorial Day.

Some superstitious residents near Laurel have become concerned about the appearance of a strange blackbird, similar to a raven, which hovers over the Collins farm throughout the day. At night the bird flies to the farm of George Henry, a neighbor, and one of the chief witnesses in the case, where it remains until the following day and again returns to the desolate farm. It is understood that one of the detectives made an effort to capture the bird, but was prevented by Henry, as it was then on his property.—Smyrna Call.

Enjoyable Trip to Delmar.

Forty one members of Salisbury Lodge No. 56 K. of P. visited Red Cross Lodge No. 17 K. of P. in Delmar on Monday evening. The party was conveyed to that town in a special car leaving Salisbury at 7.30 and returning at 12.

The visitors were received in the Masonic Temple where the third rank, that of Knights of Pythias, was conferred by the Salisbury Lodge upon candidates for knightly honors in the Red Cross Lodge.

After the degrees had been conferred the visiting knights together with the lady friends of both orders, were royally entertained at a banquet given at the Veasey House. There music was furnished and happy remarks were made by knights W. M. Day, Geo. W. D. Waller and others.

The trip was thoroughly enjoyed by Salisbury Lodge and it reports the lodge at Delmar to be in a flourishing condition.

Food Prices Still High.

Food prices are still high says the Every Evening of Wilmington. Cabbage has reached a top notch, $3 to $3.25 per barrel. Eggs are 19 to 19 1/2 cents per dozen in crate lots and 22 to 25 cents retail. Huckleberries sell at 8 to 9 cents per quart by crate, and 10 to 12 1/2 cents for good berries, retail. Strawberries are scarce and out of reasonable purchase; prices 9 to 14 cents per quart wholesale, and 13 to 16 cents retail. The rain on Saturday played havoc with oxbheart cherries, but other varieties sustained but little damage. The prices range from 6 to 8 cents per quart wholesale, and 8 to 10 cents retail. Potatoes are the only product to show a drop in prices, and fine stock is quoted at $3.75 and $4 per barrel.

For the fifth time within a few weeks a fire occurred on the farm of George B. Elliott, tenanted by Alvey Davis, near Pinesburg, Washington county, Tuesday. A large frame barn was destroyed with a lot of household furniture, which had been stored there after the house was burned some time ago; some farming implements, two horses, one mule and a calf. Several tons of hay, 180 barrels of corn, and a quantity of harness were also burned. The barn was insured for $1125, and Mr. Davis had only procured a policy on its contents yesterday. Incendiarism is blamed for the fire, several attempts having been made to burn the residence before it was finally accomplished two weeks ago.

L. P. Coulbourn has been able, by his painstaking and great interest in the Clothing business, to read "the signs of the times," and has his mammoth store, the largest of the kind south of Wilmington, filled with just such goods as are calculated to satisfy the hardest-to-please, the easiest-to-please person that comes to Salisbury. None ever come to our store and go away dissatisfied with a purchase. Lend us your ear while we give you a few truths that will be helpful during the weeks that are to follow. To Get Union Central Dividends You Must Insure in the Union Central.

Dividends in Life Insurance regulate the cost of the insurance. The company that pays the largest dividends furnishes the cheapest insurance. The company that combines the lowest death rate, the lowest expense rate, and the highest interest rate, pays the largest dividends. The Union Central excels all companies in these points. Nearly 80 per cent of the assets of the Union Central are invested in first mortgage securities, which, during 1901, earned 6.05 per cent. The average interest rate for twenty years is 6.65 per cent. The one particular advantage of mortgage loans as an asset of an insurance company is their non-fluctuating quality—a Wall street broker is not needed to value them.

An Annual Dividend Policy is the only contract which gives you the full benefits. You know every year just how your investment stands, and your profits are placed to your credit or given to you in cash.

For further argument in favor of the Union Central we refer you to the two letters which are herewith reproduced. One by Mr. B. H. Kroger, a banker and financier of Cincinnati, O., the other by Gen. J. S. Carr, banker and financier of Durham, N. C. Gen. Carr carries over a million dollars on his life.

OPERATORS' LETTERS

Correspondence With Mitchell on Coal Situation Made Public.

PRESIDENT BAER'S ATTITUDE

Declined to Join in Conference to Fix Wage Scale For Anthracite Regions, Claiming It Was Impracticable, and Refused to Agree to Arbitration.

New York, June 11.—The presidents of the coal roads immediately affected by the strike of the anthracite coal miners made public yesterday letters and telegrams which have passed between the operators and President Mitchell and other representatives of the United Mine Workers. The operators say they have heretofore hesitated about making public this correspondence. "The president of the United States," they said, "having requested Mr. Wright, the commissioner of labor, to investigate the strike, the presidents of the coal companies have given him such facts as he desired, including this correspondence, and it is now given to the public."

The operators preface the correspondence with a brief history of the unionizing of the anthracite coal miners after the establishment of the United Mine Workers, originally an organization of bituminous coal miners, and recite the agreement to an advance of 10 per cent. in wages in 1901, following the strike of 1900; the abolishment of the sliding scale, and finally the invitation of February 14, 1902, to the operators to a joint conference to form a wage scale for the ensuing year. Then the text of the letters and telegrams are introduced.

The first letter on the list is that of President Baer, of the Reading Railroad, dated Philadelphia, February 18, 1902, and addressed, as were all replies, of the operators, to "John Mitchell, president, and others," at Indianapolis. In part Mr. Baer says:

"Gentlemen—I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of February 14, inviting this company to be represented at a joint conference of operators and miners on March 12, the object of the conference to be the formation of a wage scale for the year beginning April 1, 1902, and ending March 31, 1903, and in which you express the hope 'that the methods employed by the miners' organization in adjusting the wage scale in all districts where it is recognized and contracted with will commend themselves to us.' In the judgment of the companies I represent, it is impracticable to form a wage scale for the whole anthracite region. The mining of anthracite coal is entirely different from that of bituminous coal. The distinction between the bituminous and anthracite mines is recognized in the Pennsylvania laws regulating mining, which have been enacted primarily at the solicitation of the mine workers. Special laws are created for each.

"We will always receive and consider every application of the men in our employ. We will endeavor to correct every abuse, to right every wrong, to deal justly and fairly with them. The objection to your proposition is not alone the impracticability of forming a uniform scale of wages, but it is to the divided allegiance it creates. Discipline is essential in the conduct of all business. Your organizations have no power to enforce their decrees, and thereby insure discipline, and we have no powers to maintain discipline except the power to discharge.

"A careful analysis of the results of last year's operations shows that the efficiency of our mines has decreased 1,000,000 tons, because the contract miners have worked only four and one-half to six hours a day.

"With no disposition to interfere with labor organizations in all honest efforts to better the welfare and condition of the working classes, we respectfully decline to join in any conference for the formation of a wage scale for the next year.

"GEORGE F. BAER."

The replies of the other operators follow the same lines, and all decline to join in any conference for the formation of a wage scale. The operators also claim that to grant an increase in wages would result in the further advance in the price of coal to the public, which is impracticable, owing to the competition of soft coal. They offered to allow miners' representatives to examine their books, and after saying that the anthracite mining is a business and not a religious, sentimental or philanthropic proposition, refused all suggestions for arbitration.

SANITARIUM BURNED

Chicago Hospital Proved a Death Trap For Inmates.

Chicago, June 10.—Nine men and one woman were killed and about 30 persons were injured, several fatally, in a fire which yesterday afternoon destroyed the sanitarium located by the Saint Luke's Society, at the corner of Wabash avenue and Twenty-first street.

By far the greater portion of the patients received in the institution were those seeking cure from the drink habit and those who were addicted to the use of drugs. When the fire broke out there was on the fifth floor a number of patients suffering from delirium tremens, and some who were unwell by drugs. Several of these were strapped to their beds, and it was found impossible to save them, so rapidly did the fire spread through the building.

The fire originated in the basement of the building and spread rapidly to the upper stories through the elevator shaft. The blaze was discovered by James Newell, a grocer, who was driving through the alley in the rear of the building. Newell shouted to several men in the alley to give the alarm and to alarm the inmates of the building. Several hurried to do this, but by the time they reached the first floor of the building, the flames had been carried to the roof, had eaten through it and were leaping high in the air.

A FEAST OF ROSES

Manheim Church Pays Its Yearly Rental With One Flower.

Lancaster, Pa., June 9.—The annual feast of roses was celebrated at Manheim yesterday, when Zion Evangelical Lutheran congregation of that place paid to the heirs of Baron Henry Stiegel their yearly rental—one red rose. A crowd of nearly 10,000 people poured into the little town to witness the quaint and beautiful ceremony. The church in which the exercises were held was wholly inadequate to accommodate such a throng. The church was beautifully decorated with roses.

Baron Stiegel, a German Nobleman, in 1770 deeded to the Zion Lutheran congregation ground for their church, stipulating that they should in return pay to him or his heirs forever in the month of June each year one red rose. In 1773 and 1774 this unique rental was demanded and paid to the baron. Then the custom was abandoned and seems to have been forgotten until 1892, when it was revived. Since the latter year it has been celebrated annually, attracting wide attention.

YAQUI INDIANS MASSACRED

Men, Women and Children Shot Down By Mexican Troops.

Tucson, Ariz., June 12.—A prominent Arizona banker arrived here from Pricas, Sonora, with details of a massacre of Yaqui Indians, men, women and children, on Tuesday in Santa Rosa canyon, by a detachment of General Torres' troops.

It appears that the Yaqui forces that were operating in that section had moved further into the mountains, leaving their women and children in Santa Rosa canyon under a guard of 80 men. The Mexican troops came upon them, and without any warning opened a terrible fire, sparing neither women nor children. After the first volley the troops charged down upon the panic-stricken victims and massacred all within their reach. Of the guard of 80 Yaquis not a single one survived, and more than a hundred women and children fell victims to the Mexican bullets and bayonets.

Colonel Mills made an address of welcome, and then introduced President Roosevelt, who presented the diplomas to the graduates. The orator of the day was General Horace Porter, ambassador to France. Last evening a banquet was held in Grant Hall, and covers were laid for 500.

Newport News, Va., June 11.—The dead body of an unknown negro was found hanging to a tree on the Briarfield road, near the city, yesterday. ### PENNYPACKER NAMED Senator Quay Controlled Pennsylvania Republican Convention.

HAD MAJORITY OF FIFTY-FOUR

Philadelphia Was Nominated On First Ballot and Balance of Ticket Named By Acclamation—Quay Elected State Chairman.

Harrisburg, Pa., June 12.—Judge Samuel W. Pennypacker, of Philadelphia, was nominated for governor over Attorney General John P. Elkin, of Indiana county, by yesterday's Republican state convention by a vote of 206 to 152. Ex-State Senator William M. Brown, of Newcastle, and Major Isaac B. Brown, of Erie, were nominated by acclamation for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs respectively. Senator Quay was unanimously chosen chairman of the Republican state committee by a suspension of the rules, requiring the state chairman to be chosen by the nominees and the presiding officers of the convention, and he will conduct the campaign for the state ticket.

The platform endorses the administration of President Roosevelt; reaffirms loyalty to the principles of protective tariff; declares for pure and honest ballot reform; condemns trusts; approves the action of the attorney general in proceeding against the beef trust, and makes no mention of the state administration.

Pennypacker's nomination is a personal victory for Senator Quay. Elkin was formerly one of Quay's chief lieutenants, and when he became a candidate it was thought he was the senator's choice. After delegates friendly to Elkin were elected in several counties, Quay advised against the attorney general's candidacy in the interest of party harmony.

Mr. Elkin was placed in nomination for governor by Robert S. Murphy, of Cambria, and was seconded by Clarence Burleigh, of Allegheny. Major Everett Warren, of Lackawanna, announced that he had been requested by Colonel Watres not to present his name as a candidate. Hampton L. Carson, of Philadelphia, presented Judge Pennypacker's name, which was seconded by J. Hampton Moore, also of Philadelphia.

After the nominating speeches, Congressman Joseph C. Sibley, of Venango, was elected permanent chairman. The platform was reported from the committee and read by Mr. Yardley. Then followed the taking of the ballot for governor. Pennypacker was nominated on the first ballot. The vote by counties follows:

Pennypacker—Adams, 2; Allegheny, 7; Armstrong, 1; Beaver, 3; Bucks, 4;

THE PIG'S PARENTS.

Bare That the Sow Should Have About Farrowing Time.

Immature parentage is the cause of small litters and sickly pigs.

Farrowing is due about 112 days after breeding. Set down the dates.

Do not disturb the sow for twenty-four hours after farrowing unless she appears restless and wants to eat.

Feed sparingly for ten days, gradually increasing the feed until she eats it up clean twice a day.

Avoid feeding buttermilk or very sour milk for the first few days after farrowing.

There is nothing better than sweet milk, ground oats, shorts, middlings and oilmeal fixed into a slop.

Shut the sow up only a few days before farrowing and if the weather is cold cover her with a warm blanket.

A sow fed on corn alone before farrowing will be likely to produce small, weak pigs.

A reasonable amount of exercise of the dam gives vigor to the offspring of any animal.

Select the best sows to breed from. Have vigor, size, bone and early maturing qualities always in mind.

The sire should have a well formed head and ears, well sprung ribs, width and depth of body, good girth and strong, short legs.

Do not let too many pigs run together. Give them a pen where they can run out away from the dam occasionally. Feed them sweet milk in low troughs. They soon learn to eat.—New York Tribune Farmer.

Fighting Animal Disease.

Intelligent and aggressive campaigns against animal disease in this country are evidently more satisfactory than in some foreign countries, says American Agriculturist. Germany has been able to make little or no headway against tuberculosis. Notwithstanding efforts of the sanitary authorities to weed out this disease and the scientific methods employed, the percentage of diseased animals, both cattle and swine, is slowly increasing. Out of more than 1,000,000 cattle annually slaughtered and under the watchful eye of the German government, 14 1/2 to 15 per cent were found tuberculous.

Unique Trotting Race.

On the programme of the Brighton Beach trotting meeting this summer there is a race for four-year-old trotters of the 2:25 class. It is not often that any attempt is made to classify trotters both by age and speed, but in this instance an excellent entry list was obtained, and a good race should result.

Markets For Farm Horses.

The states of Pennsylvania and Ohio and those in New England just now are rare good buyers of farm horses in convenient markets. The first named has bought a vast number of such animals in Indianapolis.

Mrs. Mary Armer of Kingston, Ariz., is the shepherdess of a thousand Angora goats. She has raised them herself, and she stands a unique figure among the stock raisers of the southwest. She does her own buying and selling and is in every other respect the proprietor of her Arizona ranch.

"I went into goat raising for two good reasons," says Mrs. Armer. "I wanted to make money, and goats are a profitable stock in our part of the country. I started twelve years ago. I had at first but a few Garst goats of the Peters flock. These were well known goats in the southwest a few years ago. I have increased my flock until I have now 1,000 goats. I brought 100 does to Kansas City with me and sold them all."

"I am not the only woman in Arizona engaged in the goat industry, but I am perhaps more extensively engaged than any one else. We have two other women in the business at Kingston, but they have about 300 goats and do not come out to the market and shows."

"I went to Kingston when it was a silver mining camp. My husband was a miner. I have been married twice and have raised nine children, principally by my own efforts. I am now in a position to handle my stock in numbers and deal in the finest thoroughbreds."

Goats Make Good Farm Hands.

Goats make successful farm hands in Missouri. G. A. B. Ellis, secretary of the state board of agriculture, draws his conclusion from the results of a twelve months' experiment with goats in the capacity of laborers. When put to graze on bad lands, a herd of Angora goats will consume all the weeds and undesirable shrubbery, eating close to the roots and saving the expense of having the land cleared by hard work. Secretary Ellis advises farmers to invest in goats and says that much land can be redeemed in this manner. The experiments will be conducted on a larger scale in the future, as Missouri farmers have now taken up the goat question in earnest.—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Goat's Habits.

Some stockmen object to goats because of their tendency to trail the pasture. This, however, is a great mistake, as the habit of the goat is not to confine itself to a trail unless confined to very small areas. Regarding their capacity for clearing the brush, it might be said that, while they are very useful for that purpose, it is only when confined to small areas that their work of clearing brush is most effective, while in large pastures, owing to their roaming habit, unless the number of goats is very large, the results realized will be very meager.

BUDDING THE APPLE.

Preparation of Stock and Bud—How to Insert and Tie.

The stock which is to receive the bud should be at least three-eighths of an inch in diameter near the ground. The lower leaves are rubbed off to a height of five or six inches to enable the bud to work more freely. A perpendicular cut is made in the stock as near the ground as possible from an inch to an inch and a half long and preferably on the north side of the tree, as the bud will not be so readily dried out by the sun on that side. The cut should only extend through the bark. Another cut should now be made across the top of the perpendicular one.

The buds are cut from well developed and ripened shoots of the current season's growth of the variety it is desired to propagate. Before the buds are removed the leaves should be cut off the shoots. A piece of the petiole, or leaf stalk, is left, however, by which the bud may be handled after it has been removed.

The length of the piece removed with the bud should be about an inch long and the cut surface smooth. It should be quite thin, as but little of the wood is taken with the bud.

The bud is inserted under the bark by raising the latter with the blade of the knife or the part of the budding knife made for that purpose. The bud is then pushed down and under the bark with the fingers, and finally the piece of leafstalk which was left when it was removed from the twig is pressed with the blade of the knife to bring the bud into the proper position.

Bud and stock should be tied tightly together with raffia or some soft string, taking care not to cover the bud with it. The bud should unite with the stock in two or three weeks, and after that time the string should be cut, as otherwise the bud may be injured.

THE TEXAS STATE FLOWER

Buffalo Clover—Of an Exquisite Blue Color and Delicious Fragrance.

Texas now has a state flower, the blue bonnet or buffalo clover, concerning which there appears to be considerable general interest. Meehan's Monthly publishes the following communication from a Texas correspondent, with the comment that Lupinus subcarneolus is the name adopted by botanists and that the plant is a dwarf perennial.

This flower, improperly called buffalo clover, is no clover at all, but belongs to the leguminous family, the rightful name of this species being Lupinus texensis. There are many varieties of the lupine growing wild all over America and usually occupying the finest sandy soils. Some kinds are perennial and others annual. Some have flowers of yellow, pink, white and purple, but the prevailing color is blue. As the lupine will grow on almost any sandy spot, the seeds are gathered and sown on sandy barrens near the seacoast to be plowed under for manure, with the most satisfactory results.

THE BLUE BONNET OR BUFFALO CLOVER.

Just why this modest, unpretentious little Lupinus texensis has been chosen as state flower in the great ocean of brilliant flowers cannot be said, unless it is its beautiful blue, which almost covers our prairies in the early spring, filling the air with a most delicious fragrance.

Attachment For a Spray Wagon.

A very effective and ingenious homemade device for agitating the liquid used in spraying trees was used last spring by a fruit grower near Geneva, N. Y. This man had rigged up a pulley attachment to one of the wheels of his spray wagon. Over this pulley a belt was run, which communicated motion to an arrangement on top of the tank for moving the agitating paddles. In this way the agitation was very easily and effectively maintained. Such an arrangement could very easily be put on at slight expense by any of the growers of this state. Of course, where steam or other power is employed both agitation and pumping are easily maintained by the engine or motive power.

Woolly Aphis on Apple Trees.

Apple trees are sometimes badly infested with woolly aphis, which attacks the roots as well as the branches, causing knots and swellings to appear. If they are very numerous, the fruit, when produced at all, will be small and imperfect and the trees will make but little growth. The root form can be treated with wood ashes or tobacco dust, and those on the branches can be destroyed with the kerosene sprays or strong tobacco-water.

WHY MISERS ARE MISERS.

How the Disease Was Diagnosed by a Policeman.

An old woman was found dead in her bed in a little tenement house room on the west side some time ago, and there was excitement from one end of old Greenwich village to the other. The neighbor women stood on the curb and gossiped and wondered about it. Even the policeman on the beat was interested. There was a reason for the unusual interest, however—the old woman was a miser.

All the women for blocks around knew the fact, and their ideas of the sum of money she had concealed somewhere about her miserable room varied widely. Some said she had $1,000, which was a fortune to most of the poor people, while others were sure she had $10,000. The policeman heard the stories and decided to search the rooms. Carefully hidden under a loose board in the floor he found $700 in greenbacks. He counted it before a crowd of women, and as the sum grew by tens and twenties their mouths dropped with amazement.

"She ain't had a square meal for a month!" exclaimed one.

"And look at her clothes!" cried another. "That tattered skirt was given to her by a woman whose husband makes $10 a week."

"She ought to have been ashamed to take it," said the third, "knowing all the time she had a fortune hidden away."

Then they tried to figure out what reason she could possibly have had for being a miser. The general verdict was that she was crazy. "Just plumb daffy on the subject of money," was the way one woman put it.

But this did not suit the policeman, who was a man of parts and some education. He had a theory on the motives of misers, and the audience was ready to listen.

"If misers were crazy," said he, "they would not be able to keep from stealing money saved by other people. They would run amuck at the sight of things displayed in store windows, and we would arrest them."

"Well, if misers ain't crazy will you tell me why they don't buy clothes and food and fire with their money?" demanded one of the women. "They know they can't take the money with them when they go into the next world."

"You see," said the man in uniform, "it's like this, according to the way I've figured it out. You've heard of soldiers shooting themselves for fear they were going to be shot in a fight. You've known people to poison themselves because they were afraid they were going to die of some poisonous cancer or tumor. It's the same way with the miser. He starves himself for fear he will starve to death at some indefinite time in the future; for fear of freezing he permits himself to freeze. The first thing he knows he's dead, and the suffering which he has endured is all in vain. There's only one thing to do, and that's to spend your money while you have it and let the future take care of itself."

Then the policeman walked off to the station house with the old woman's savings, some of which were used later on to pay for the expenses of a decent burial. The women followed his big uniformed figure with admiring eyes. "My, but he knows a lot for a cop!" they exclaimed.—New York Tribune.

Thomas Hardy.

Of Thomas Hardy, the writer of a sketch in a supplementary volume of the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "He is a fatalist, and he studies the workings of fate in the chief vivifying and disturbing influence in life, woman. His view of woman is more French than English. It is subtle, a little cruel, not as tolerant as it seems, thoroughly a man's point of view and not, as with Mr. Meredith, man's and woman's at once. He sees all that is irresponsible for good and evil in a woman's character, all that is unreliable in her brain and will, all that is alluring in her variability. He is her apologist, but always with a certain reserve of private judgment. His knowledge of woman confirms him in a suspense of judgment; his knowledge of nature brings him nearer to the unchanging and consoling element in the world."

He Ought to Know.

The story goes that on one occasion when Speaker Gully of the house of commons was enjoying a brief holiday in Scotland he was taken to call on some friends of his host and hostess, being of course introduced to them only as "Mr. Gully." The old lady on whom the call was made flattered himself on his wide knowledge of politics, and, as ill luck would have it, he launched out as to the little known rights and privileges of the chair. Mr. Gully not ungenerously ventured to disagree with some of his statements, whereupon at last the old Scotchman, with considerable cholera, inquired angrily:

"Might I ask you by what right you lay down the law?"

"Well, you see," replied Mr. Gully diffidently, "I am the speaker!"—London Standard.

Divorce.

No one wishes to take anything but a charitable view of individual cases of divorce. No one desires to assume the functions of judge in such delicate and generally obscure matters when presented to one's sympathies in the circle of acquaintance. Indeed, tolerance on this subject is almost forced upon one by the prevalence of that painful social expedient. Tolerance, indeed, is the rule in America, but there may be said to be a conviction on the part of the most tolerant that divorce is "too good a thing to be spoiled," as it is being spoiled, by being, to put it mildly, grossly overdone.—Century.

CONGRESSIONAL OUTLOOK.

In speaking of the Congressional outlook this year the Democratic Advocate thinks the signs of the times point to Democratic success. Among other things it says.

"The Republicans fear it and the Democrats are more than hopeful. Roosevelt is apprehensive, and contemplates taking a hand in the campaign. At Arlington, near Washington, on Decoration Day, he embraced the opportunity to make a stump speech and endeavor to fire the North by a vigorous sectional appeal and waving the bloody shirt.

In the approaching campaign the Democratic party will have nothing to defend and nothing for which to apologize. The money question is not a live one. Mr. Bryan is not an issue, and there are no matters to divide the party.

The Republicans will have to answer for their denial of the Declaration of Independence, violations of the Constitution, making the Monroe Doctrine one of selfishness rather than one of protection and defence, fostering trusts, extravagant appropriations and exacting taxes from the people beyond the needs of even a profligate government thus piling up a surplus in the treasury to the menace of trade and commerce.

From a policy of political isolation the Republican party has plunged this government into the dangerous field of European politics. It has expanded the territory by gathering in the islands of the sea that have impoverished other nations to hold and govern, and which has made an enlarged army and navy necessary. It has waged a relentless war upon a people whose only sin is the love of liberty and self government, and in doing so has sacrificed thousands of American soldiers and expended more than three hundred millions of dollars. It deceived the world in declaring that there was no purpose of territorial aggrandizement in going to war with Spain, and deceived the people of the United States as well. Another deception was practised when to ratify the treaty with Spain, hope was held out to the opposing Senators of the granting of freedom, self-government and independence to the Philippines.

Let strong candidates be nominated and a vigorous campaign be waged in every county, in every district. Let us concede nothing, but go to the battle with a determination to win. If but two districts are redeemed, something will have been done to strengthen and encourage the National Democracy.

Besides, if we achieve success this year, the victory next will be the easier. The efforts this year, if active and vigorous, will materially aid in electing the State and legislative tickets next year, and thus secure the continuation of good, conservative government at home and the election of another Democratic United States Senator to check the mad career of Imperialism and Commercialism."

Fish Commissioner Vincent has published a report of his spring operations. It shows that millions of young shad and white and black perch were distributed among the Eastern Shore rivers. Propagation of shad was more difficult and less successful than in former years, because of the scarcity of spawn, but more white and black perch were hatched and distributed than ever before.

Commissioner Vincent is making an earnest study of the business and is doing conscientious work.

At the meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee of Ohio, Tuesday, John R. McLean was defeated by Tom L. Johnson, who controlled the proceedings and carried his point on all campaign preliminaries. McLean has been conspicuous in the management of Democratic politics in Ohio for a long time, without making any serious impression on the popular vote at elections. It remains to be seen whether Johnson can do any more.

Ripe Tomatoes.

The first early tomatoes shipped from the Peninsula to the northern markets this season so far as has been heard from, went last Tuesday from Mr. Wm. F. Allen's Salisbury fruit and truck farm. Mr. Allen is this season an extensive grower of early tomatoes, having several acres, set in flourishing vines which will be ripening fine fruit from now on into the next several weeks. Other crops now growing on the Allen farm are thrifty and promising. A thing which is attracting much notice and comment is a field of young strawberry plants in each row of which is luxuriantly growing a row of onions. The sets were put between the plants and while the latter are being cultivated the onions may be worked at a very small additional cost. "Watch Allen" should be the "watchword" of our local farmers.

"Snuff Hill" To Be Improved.

The City Council is about to experiment with coal cinders as a surfacer for the sandy street leading from Camden Avenue through "Snuff Hill" to the river. There is a bed of sand through which the carters can hardly get a load of wood or coal to a customer, and the charge for delivering a load to any resident on that street is always more than it is when delivered on a good street. Here, by the way, is food for thought for the tax payer. The Council believes that the cinders put on the sand in sufficient quantities, will make a firm surface. With this idea, several car loads of cinders, from the railroad yard at Delmar will be delivered at the station here at a cost to the city of $4 per car-load. The cost of putting the material on the street will be small, as the city has its own carts and drivers.

Special Sixty Day Sale.

Messrs. R. E. Powell & Co., have inaugurated a sixty days' sale at their big department store here, and say they propose to make it one of the greatest sales in the history of this store. As a preliminary announcement they have issued a four page supplement to THE ADVERTISER this week. Our readers will do well to read this supplement carefully. There are many things therein which will be useful to know. When this firm advertises a big sale, they always live up to what they advertise. See the supplement in this issue.

Brother Haddaway's Way.

So many of our country friends paid their subscription while court was in session we exhausted our supply of subscription receipts. The Ledger's foreman, Jesse A. Lednum, has just printed us a fresh supply that are the acme of perfection in the printer's art. One of these will be given away absolutely without charge to every person that pays his subscription.—Easton Ledger.

Among the graduates of the twenty sixth commencement of The Johns Hopkins University held in the Academy of Music, Baltimore, on Tuesday evening, was Mr. John Aydelotte Siemons of this city. Mr. Siemons after three years study at the University graduated with honor and received the degree of bachelor of arts. He has recently accepted a position on the editorial staff of the Baltimore American and will enter actively into newspaper work. His friends predict for him a bright future in this field.

According to the Delaware State News, the village of Williamsburg, Md., located on the Cambridge and Seaford Railroad, fifteen miles from Seaford is completely cut off from the outside world on account of small pox. The railroad trains go by without stopping, and the residents of the village are not allowed to leave the town limits. As it had only appeared in a light form the people did not take any precaution whatever to prevent the disease, and they freely mingled with each other.

Perhaps the best growing corn and wheat in the whole county may be seen on the Rockwalking farm of the Honorable Wm. H. Jackson. His wheat stands high and appears to be well headed, although the prospects generally for a good wheat crop this year, are poor. The growing corn on this farm is now almost waist high and of a dark green color. The man who loves to see fine growing crops will be pleased to look over the hedge when driving by this farm.

A subdistrict Epworth League Convention will be held at Westover, in the M. E. Church June 18 and 19th, (Wednesday and Thursday). The following Leagues are expected to be represented: Salisbury, Fruitland, Princess Anne, Deals Island, Pocomoke, Cape Charles, Fairmount, Marion, Annemessex, Crisfield, Asbury and Tangier Island. There will be three sessions, the first beginning at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon and closing at 5:30; the second session will open at 7:30 Wednesday evening, the third and last session will begin at 8:30 Thursday morning and adjourn at 12. A splendid programme has been arranged for the occasion.

Resolutions of Delmar Lodge No. 12 A. O.

Whereas, The Divine Ruler in His allwise providence has removed from our Lodge and companionship Brother George C. R. Ellis, an esteemed member of this fraternity. As an evidence of our personal bereavement be it resolved:

1st, That, though we feel our loss and understand not, why in the prime of life he should be so suddenly taken, we bow to the Supreme Power of the Universe and say "Thy will be done."

2nd, That, remembering his loyalty to our order and his trust in us as brethren, we in fulfilling the mutual pledges renew our efforts to yield Charity while living, cherish Hope for the last hours of life, and give Protection to those left here by dying brethren.

3rd, That we extend to the bereaved family our sympathy in their hour of distress and affliction.

4th, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the widow and orphan, and to the Salisbury ADVERTISER for publication.

John Lowe A Sprinter.

One John Lowe of Delmar partook a little too freely on Circus day in Salisbury and had to be turned over to the tender mercies of Sheriff Fooks. Being very dry on the following morning Lowe began to yell for water. The Sheriff's little daughter took the water to the prisoner and upon opening the door Lowe made a dive for liberty. The little girl ran screaming across to the Court House and soon many dignified lawyers, clerks and politicians were in mad pursuit. Mr. James E. Ellegood led the race and soon chased Lowe up to his waist in Humphreys pond. After much persuasion Lowe started back with his captors but after going a short distance, he said, "lets have another race," whereupon he again broke loose. This time however our fleet footed sheriff soon overtook him, but after promising "never to do so again" he was given his liberty and sent home ward.

The Ladies Fancy Work Club and other guests were entertained by Mrs. W. C. Gullett at a Porch Party, Thursday evening, given in honor of her guests, Miss Lydia Davis of Federalsburg and Miss Lee Coston of Pocomoke City. Palms, ferns and lilies were used in the decorations, the dining-room being lighted by candles and the color effect, was green and white. Punch was served during the evening by Miss Marian Veasey. Misses Edna and Bertha Sheppard, Miss Maria Ellegood and Miss Sadie Veasey assisted in serving the refreshments.

Mr. Harley Taylor of this city fell in the river last Saturday afternoon at the steamboat wharf and had he not been seen by one of the nurses at the Hospital would undoubtedly have been drowned. He was pulled out by a boatman, after he had sunk and was lying on the bottom. He was saved by the prompt action of those near.

Under the auspices of the "Aid Society" of Sneathen M. P. Church a festival will be held (D. V.) at the church on the afternoon and evening of Saturday, the 21st inst. Proceeds for the church. Active participation is requested. Sec'y, Wm. W. Wright.

THE PEOPLE WHO BUY CLOTHING KNOW A THING OR TWO A GREAT BUSINESS AND THE REASON FOR IT

Lacy Thoroughgood's phenomenal selling of clothing this spring is without precedent in the history of Thoroughgood's life. Lacy Thoroughgood has doubled his business of last year. Day after day his store has been packed with buyers. It shows that the people who buy clothing and hats know a thing or two. Nothing can stop the victorious progress of this store. It has won the clothing buyers of this community as no other store has ever done. Thoroughgood is going forward to a greater success than has come to any clothing man in Salisbury. While others are complaining of bad conditions, Thoroughgood is doing a larger business than ever. Thoroughgood is doing it because he gives the people more for their money than it will buy anywhere else. Actual comparison shows that Lacy Thoroughgood undersells other stores in Salisbury. Thoroughgood don't want your money if you don't find this true. Lacy Thoroughgood has got competition on the run and has driven them to desperate straits. Every effort is being made by other clothiers to stem the tide that set in early for Lacy Thoroughgood's store, but they couldn't stop it. They couldn't do the necessary things—sell good clothing so cheaply as Thoroughgood. Thoroughgood does not ask anyone to trade with him unless they can do better. Thoroughgood does not want anyone's money who isn't convinced that they are getting more for their money than it will buy anywhere else. Thoroughgood does want every clothing buyer to investigate thoroughly the claims of his store and other stores and compare prices and values. Thoroughgood knows such action will give him the business. It is doing it to a greater extent every day. Thoroughgood's great June sale of clothing, hats, caps, furnishing goods for men, youths, boys and children surpasses any and every sale of apparel ever attempted in this town or any other. The stock which Thoroughgood offers to the public this summer exceeds twenty thousand dollars in value. With this grand stock, and because of Lacy Thoroughgood's policy of strictly cash buying and selling, he is enabled to save clothing buyers many dollars on their purchases. Lacy Thoroughgood does not exaggerate when he says he never had such a grand stock of clothing in his life and is willing to sell it for less money than he ever did. No exaggerations are used by Thoroughgood to draw the crowds and that is why all would-be competitors are left in the lurch while Thoroughgood does a record-breaking business.

Men! what do you think of this? Men! whatever you do, do this: Come to Lacy Thoroughgood for your Clothing, Hats, and Gent's Furnishing Goods. Thoroughgood has $20,000 worth of ready-made Clothing, Hats and Furnishings that have got to go within the next 60 days.

You had better see this immense stock before you buy a dollar's worth of goods anywhere else. Thoroughgood knows what you want and has it ready for you. Thoroughgood sells it very much cheaper than any body else. Queer, too, that Thoroughgood sells the very best Clothing and Hats and sells them for less than anybody else. Why? Just because he's over-stocked and wants the money—that's why. Men you know this is true, that Lacy Thoroughgood sells the very best clothing that is made, and now Thoroughgood is determined to sell it cheaper than any other store in Salisbury will dare do. Do you know why Lacy Thoroughgood sells so much ready-made clothing? It is easy enough to see why, no matter how little you pay, it is good; good cloth, good linings, good trimmings, good fit. Can't a store buy cheaper the more it buys? Can't a store sell cheaper the more it sells? Of course. Lacy Thoroughgood don't want you to come to his store if you can get better clothes (you can't) or styles (you can't) or lower prices for the quality (you can't). Man, if you don't understand what Lacy Thoroughgood is trying to tell you, come and look and learn. If you will only do that you will never buy clothing anywhere else as long as you live.

Perhaps it is because we use only the finest fresh fruit syrups of our own make and use them liberally. There is no skimping at Truitt's fountain. We might speak of ice cream sodas, but you've probably heard many of the ladies say—they are just too lovely—most delicious I ever tasted. No finer soda and no daintier service in the world. "How's Biz? 'Straw' berry Good"

If you'll inquire of Lacy Thoroughgood—How's "BIZ?" He'll tell you its (straw) berry good just now. The business in Thoroughgood's tailoring department is "sew sew." The street cleaners of Salisbury say their business is "picking up." Some bicycle dealers say they've noticed a little "falling off" lately. And only one man in Salisbury reports "biz" being light, and that's the electric light man, but being rich he don't mind. As for Lacy Thoroughgood's Clothing and Hat business, it is better than it ever was before, but not as good as it is going to be. If you want reasons for Lacy Thoroughgood's biz getting better day after day, study his "ads" and see how much more you've been paying where you've been trading than you're going to pay here, where you're going to trade. There are two ways of running a Clothing and Hat store—Thoroughgood's and the other. Nobody has ever tried to run a Clothing Store just as Thoroughgood is running his. Why Lacy Thoroughgood always gives you what you think you're going to get when you buy it. Lacy Thoroughgood has been fishing for your trade in more ways than one since he began selling things for men, boys and children to wear, over 15 years ago, and now he'll "drop you a line" to let you know that he's going to keep it up until he gets you to come to him once, after that it will become a habit to buy things in the fair dealing Clothier's store. "Do you catch?" Don't get caught with the idea that you have to pay $5 to $7 for good tailor-made pants—buy the "Nufangle," they cost $2 a leg—seats free—can't be beat for twice the price, several hundred pairs to select from. Lacy Thoroughgood's odd Pants are better than any other pants you can buy in Salisbury. Never insult your pocketbook for the sake of a friend. Think that over when you go to patronize your clothier. If you only patronize him because he is a good fellow, you pay him too much—If you trade with him because he trusts, you pay him too much. If you trade with him because he's your friend, well, you probably pay more than you'd pay Thoroughgood. Lacy Thoroughgood wants your Clothing and Hat trade, he'll pay you for it. He'll give you more for your money, give you better goods for your money than anybody else will. Lacy Thoroughgood is anxious to sell, but he is anxious to sell right.

NEW YORK FASHIONS.

Wedding Dresses; Accessories; Veils; Flowers; Traveling; Graduating Gowns.

A satin gown in princess shape is not unfrequently the choice of some stately bride, but to many young women, the friendly amplitude and poetic softness of chiffon, causes preference for its atoning possibilities. Crepe de Mignon is a new material specially introduced for wedding dresses, because lighter weight than the genuine fabric; satin finish crepe de Chine is likewise a special bridal fabric, but the delightful grace attendant on the conventional crepe de Chine, causes its retention. After all, however, chiffon is perhaps the oftener seen and fully ruffled, is altogether charming. Lace medallions or borders impart dressiness and as a trimming on other fabrics than itself, this lovely material is still in great demand. As may be noted the making up of some new wedding dresses, with necks out low at the throat and this is in keeping with a decided effort to do away with the very high cut necks that have been so long in favor. Sleeves to the elbow finished by an undersleeve, are such a rage, that bridal gowns follow, but in place of a light finishing, the kid glove is long enough to meet the sleeve. Sashes are used to a considerable extent and show the current idea of knottings on the ends. Trains are round and tulle is still accepted for the veil, which is attached most frequently by orange buds and blossoms; lilies of the valley come next and as an exception, small white roses are noticeable. For long silk cloaks are in extreme favor, so much so as to render the dress of secondary importance and therefore in the former, there are unheard of variety and many times an elaborateness quite unsuited to possible hardship. Traveling conveniences have however reached perfection and by aptitude in appointment, are well suited to days of running to and fro. Particularly worthy of mention is the bureau trunk made on the same principal as an ordinary house bureau, so that articles laid in cannot be crushed by undue weight, yet are kept in right position. A pretty idea, too, is to perfume in a delicate way, each drawer of the trunk after packing, so that on opening it, the articles of my lady's wardrobe will be charged with sweetness, instead of the usual stuffiness caused by packing. The same thought may be carried out with trunks of all kinds and satchels as well. It may be added that no perfume is so well adapted to this purpose as Murray & Lanman's Florida water, which is always carried by experienced travellers who know that after the fatigue of a journey or exposure in the sun, its refreshing qualities are beyond compare.

GRADUATING DRESSES

are models of simplicity, yet none the less attractive. Especial exponents they are of what may be done by the more inexpensive light fabrics of the day, but in view of that avoidance of expensive adornment which, in theory at least, should befit the student, the most frequent finish is that of tuckings or ruffings or both; though the ribbon sash is so inherent a part of young womanhood's dress, that it is almost an essential, either in soft Liberty satin or in chiffon. Soft finished mull is much used for graduating gowns. Mousseline comes in for a share of patronage and an all pervading chiffon lends its own peculiar grace to the young graduate. Lace or other yokes are permissible and elbow sleeves are almost the rule, with open work mitts to meet.

The Bancroft Wins.

Mr. William Ringgold Straughn, son of Rev. J. L. Straughn, is one of the graduates of the Baltimore City College, 1902. He won the gold medal offered by Prof. J. F. Arthur, in the oratorical contest, between the Bancroft and Carrollton-Wright Literary Societies, held in the Lyceum Theatre, on Friday evening, June 6th. The subject for the debate was: Resolved, "The Boers were justified in declaring war against Great Britain." Popular sympathy was against him, but he won the debate, and upheld the cause of the English in South Africa. Mr. Straughn spoke for the Bancroft; his opponent was Mr. David S. Blondheim, who spoke for the Carrollton-Wright.

Mr. Straughn is a native of this county. He was born at Marjela Springs twenty years ago last April, during his father's pastorate of Union Circuit. An attack of typhoid fever last fall kept him out of school nearly three months, but he succeeded in largely making up the last time, and will graduate with credit to himself. He is the Librarian of the college, and college reporter for the Morning Herald. He is also active in all church work.

Mr. Charles O. Smith, also of the Bancroft, won the medal for declamation.

Contract for the grading and reconstruction of a portion of the Old Fredrick road, between Davis' shop and Brown's bridge, near Woodstock, Howard county, was awarded to William Davis for $997.

Exports of Manufactures.

Exports of manufactures show a decided improvement in the record of foreign commerce of the United States for the first ten months of the present fiscal year. The report of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics showing the detailed exports from the United States by articles during the month of April and during the ten months ending with April shows a marked improvement in the record of manufactures exported. The exports of manufactures for the month of April 1902 are four and a half millions greater than those of April of the preceding year, being $88,971,801, against $84,416,279 in April 1901, and forming 86.5% of the total exports in April 1902, against 89.1% in April 1901. For the ten months ending with April the exports of manufactures are $838,920,809, against $839,309,623 for the corresponding ten months of the preceding fiscal year, a reduction of about 54 million dollars for the ten months. This would indicate that the total exports of manufactures during the full fiscal year which ends with the present month will fall little, if any, below those of last year.

An examination of the details of the exports show that the small reduction of 54 million dollars which exists at the present time occurs chiefly in manufactures of iron and steel, the exports of which are $88,388,463, against $99,228,228, comparing the figures for ten months of this year with those for the same months of the preceding year. Thus the reduction in exports of iron and steel manufactures alone is much greater than the net reduction in total exports of manufactures, indicating a marked gain in other classes of manufactures. In iron and steel, however, the figures for the month of April show a marked improvement, over those for earlier months of the year being $9,390,683, against $9,081,223 in April 1901. In iron and steel exports the principal reductions in the ten months occur in pig iron, a decrease of nearly three million dollars; steel rails, nearly five millions; and metal working machinery, nearly a million dollars.

In other articles of manufacture, which some months ago showed a marked reduction, there has been a decided reaction and a return of normal conditions. In manufactures of copper, which during the early part of the year showed a very great reduction, the figures for ten months fall but three million dollars below those of the corresponding months of last year, while those for the month of April are nearly three million dollars greater than those for April 1901. Exports of mineral oil, which also showed a decrease during the earlier part of the year in comparison with the same months of the preceding year, are for the ten months ending with April 1902 nearly three millions greater than those of the same months of 1901, while the quantity exported is about 80 million gallons greater than in the corresponding months of the preceding year. Exports of paraffin, which showed a material reduction in the early months of the present fiscal year, are for the ten months ending with April a million and a half dollars in excess of those of the same months of the preceding year. The largest increase, however, is in exports of cotton goods, which for the ten months ending with April are $26,436,379, against $15,115,561 in the corresponding months of last year and $20,202,272 in the corresponding months of the fiscal year 1900. This increase in the exports of cotton goods is chiefly to China, to which the exports were largely suspended in 1901 owing to the disturbances then existing in that country, but are also much larger than those of any earlier year. The total exports of cotton cloths alone in China from the U. S. in the ten months ending with April 1902 are 292,439,890 yards, valued at $12,314,261, against 44,660,272 yards valued at $4,494,247 in 10 months of 1901, and 164,334,855 yards valued at $7,810,823 in ten months of 1900.

How To Build Up A Town.

Wanamaker, the king of all merchants, whose success is due more to newspaper publicity than to all other causes combined, said not long ago: "A newspaper whose columns overflow with advertisements of business men has more influence in attracting more attention to building up a town than any other agency that can be employed. People go where there is business. Capital and labor go where there is an enterprising community. No power on earth is so strong to build up a town so well as a paper well patronized, and its power should be appreciated. The man who overlooks his town paper injures himself by injuring his town and townsmen."

CHANGE OF LIFE.

Some Sensible Advice to Women by Mrs. E. Sailer.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—When I passed through what is known as 'change of life,' I had two years' suffering,—sudden heat, and as quick chills would pass over me; my appetite was variable and I never could tell for a day at a time how I would feel the next day. Five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound changed all that, my days became days of health, and I have enjoyed every day since—now six years.

MRS. E. SAILER,
President German Relief Association,
Los Angeles, Cal.

"We have used considerable of your Vegetable Compound in our charitable work, as we find that to restore a poor mother to health so she can support herself and those dependent upon her, if such there be, is truer charity than to give other aid. You have my hearty endorsement, for you have proven yourself a true friend to suffering women."—Mrs. E. Sailer, 756 1/2 Hill St., Los Angeles, Cal.—$5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

No other person can give such helpful advice to women who are sick as can Mrs. Pinkham, for no other has had such great experience—her address is Lynn, Mass., and her advice free—if you are sick write her—you are foolish if you don't.

Women's Rights in Various Countries.

Great Britain is by no means a bad second in the United States as a pleasant country for women to live in. The position of women in the British Isles, according to Tit-Bits, has greatly improved during the past half century.

France can hardly be regarded as an earthly paradise for the fair sex. Gallic husbands are accustomed to rely upon the aid of their wives in business, and frequently leave the entire conduct of affairs to their spouses whilst they themselves lounge in adjacent cafes. In the anti-nuptial stage French girls enjoy but few diversions, and their liberty is rigidly curtailed.

Austrian ladies, on the other hand may be said to be moderately well esteemed persons, and in Vienna a woman possessed of culture and beauty is regarded with all due homage. An Austrian husband invariably bows to his wife on entering or leaving her apartment, whilst the generosity of the males toward their womankind in that country is proverbial.

If America may be considered the paradise of women, Russia would certainly rank as "the other place." In that mighty territory the entire female population is practically in a state of serfdom. Women enjoy no privileges, no liberty, no indulgence. Husbands rule their wives with rigid brutality, wife beating is as common as eating and drinking and the very ballet girls are liable to be visited with corporal punishment by police officials should they misbehave themselves at theaters where they are employed.

In the Southern countries of Europe the lot of a woman is anything but enviable. In Italy woman is regarded in the light of a beast of burden, and no peasant will undertake an arduous piece of work if he can by any possible way transfer the same to his wife. Women of the middle class toil from "early morn to dewy eve," whilst their lay spouses are smoking cigarettes and discussing politics in theaters and restaurants, and even the dames of the aristocracy receive small consideration from their martial partners. In Spain and Portugal a similar condition of affairs may be said to exist, whilst in Turkey the social status of the weaker sex is too well known to need more than a passing reference here.

Funny Signs of the Times.

Some persons find as much fun in reading signboards as others do in reading the comic papers. Here are a few oddities reported by observing travelers, the first of which evidently was displayed in front of a butcher's shop: "I kill myself every Tuesday and Friday."

"Ladies and gents sold and healed."

"This is the old shop just come from above."

Letter to Alfred Bradley.

Dear Sir: James Ackley's house in Cairo (Catskill Mountains), N. Y., a conspicuous one in the midst of the village, was painted 14 years ago with Devco; has not been painted since; and the paint is in good condition today. He is going to paint; but there's really no necessity of it.

Devco has been sold in Cairo 18 years. Our agent is Gaston Wynkoop. House owners there want Devco, and painters there paint Devco. It would be a hard job to persuade a Cairo man to paint lead and oil—of course a painter paints whatever his customer wants, even if it's buttermilk.

Marian Van Hoesen, a Cairo painter, has painted Devco for 15 years. There are two or three others; all for Devco, we are told—don't know their names.

It's the same wherever Devco gets into a town; it stays there and owns the whole business. Yours truly, F. W. DEVCO & Co.

P. S. L. W. Gunby sells our paint.

Lewis Green was on Saturday sentenced at Eastern to be hanged for the murder of Carrie Price, his mistress. There is great sympathy for the man, whose previous reputation was good.

William Green was given 12 years penal servitude for the shooting of Deputy Thompson, and "Foxy" Green was given six months in the House of Correction for assault and mayhem on "Sped" Davis. Dick Green was acquitted of being accessory to the Price killing and principal in the second degree in the Thompson shooting.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The interior marble work, including the pillars and wainscoting, of the new St. Francis' Catholic Church, Towson, is now nearing completion. The pillars are high and massive and, when dressed and polished, will be very beautiful. When completed, this will be the largest and finest church in Maryland. All the interior decorations will be rich and elaborate. It is said the edifice, when entirely finished, will have cost $200,000.

Read It in His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by R. K. Truitt & Son.

Fish Commissioner Vincent reports that extensive propagation of white and yellow perch was made during the year in Eastern Shore streams, notably the Nanticoke and Pocomoke rivers. Shad were not so successfully "planted," as it was difficult to obtain ripe fish for the purpose, the same condition prevailing along the coast from North Carolina to the Delaware river. Some hundred thousands of shad were distributed, however, in the Choptank, Wye, Miles, Trev, Avon, Sassafras, Chester, Pocomoke, Wicomico, Nanticoke and other rivers.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sore vanish. Bitters 50c, Salve 25c at all Druggists.

Hisses At A Wedding.

Worcester, Mass., June 4.—One of the most sensational scenes ever witnessed at a church in this city was enacted at St. John's Roman Catholic Church here today, when Mary E. Donaher, a teacher in the public schools of Worcester, was married to Dr. Maurice W. Quinn, a dentist, of Brockton. As the wedding party entered the church it was met by hisses from 1,000 women who had apparently gathered for that particular purpose. A detail of police was present to protect the bride and groom, but they were entirely powerless to maintain order. The women rushed by and around them close to the wedding party and gave vent to their feelings in no uncertain manner.

The demonstrations grew out of the attempt to shoot Dr. Quinn several days ago by Miss Bertha Gordon, of this city, who asserted that Quinn had betrayed her under promise of marriage.

Life.

The poet's exclamation: 'O Life! I feel thee bounding in my veins,' is a joyous one. Persons that can rarely or never make it, in honesty to themselves, are among the most unfortunate. They do not live, but exist; for to live implies more than to be. To live is to be well and strong—to arise feeling equal to the ordinary duties of the day, and to retire not overcome by them—to feel life bounding in the veins. A medicine that has made thousands of people, men and women, well and strong, has accomplished a great work, testifying the richest blessings, and that medicine is Hood's Sarsaparilla. The weak, run down, or debilitated, from any cause should not fail to take it. It builds up the whole system, changes existence into life, and makes life more abundant. We are glad to say these words in its favor to the readers of our columns.

Col. J. J. Hubert Neilson, honorary surgeon to the Governor General and Director General of the Medical Service of Canada, is visiting in company with his wife, Dr. William G. Ridout of Annapolis. Colonel Neilson was representative of the British Medical Service at the recent conference of the Military Surgeons of the United States in Washington.

Leads Them All.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Curran of Loganton, Pa. "One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe and reliable remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs."

President Lewis Sunday preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Western Maryland College in Alumni Hall. All the city churches were closed in order to allow their congregations to attend the commencement services, and a very large audience heard President Lewis' address. His theme was "God as the True World-Fower."

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels mean a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms. DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Mountville, Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried."

Senator Wellington's term closes on March 4 next, and he is being mentioned for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Sixth district. His friends declare that it is the Senator's intention to leave politics for business, but the boom is kept up. It is said to be very unpopular, however, Senator Wellington declined to be interviewed on the matter.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I can't but recommend Kodol. Don't try to cure stomach trouble by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid."

The Belair Aegis states that Mr. M. Barratt Walker, of Harford county, has resigned as chief clerk in the Adjutant General's office, Annapolis, and assistant secretary to the Democratic Campaign Committee, to take effect upon the appointment of his successor. He will connect himself with the legal department of a bonding and trust company in Baltimore.

Saved From an Awful Fate.

"Everybody said I had consumption," writes Mrs. A. M. Shielks, of Chambersburg, Pa. "I was so low after six months of severe sickness, caused by Hay Fever and Asthma, that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvellous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, used it, and was completely cured." For desperate Throat and Lung Diseases it is the safest cure in the world, and is infallible for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

Cephas Moore, the insane murderer who has been terrorizing the Barton district of Allegany county, has not yet been incarcerated. On Saturday he shot at a miner who had refused to "move on" when ordered to do so.

Words On Women.

A plain woman takes pride in her friends, a beautiful woman in her enemies.

A woman will often say no, when she means yes; but never yes, when she means no.

The normal woman is capable of one love and fifty affairs.

A woman's charity sometimes begins away from home, and then remains there.

A young girl is the nearest approach to an angel that we have—and the most exasperating.

It has never yet been decided whether a woman is happier when happy or when miserable.

When a woman is thoroughly tired, she finds nothing so refreshing as a nice long talk.—Smart Set.

How To Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by R. K. Truitt & Sons.

On Sunday afternoon, a large barn on the farm of William Slagle, near Stall's Ford, 15 miles north of Frederick, was burned with its contents, including hay and grain, farming implements and harness, besides five horses, a colt and a cow. The loss is about $1800, partly insured.

Ready To Yield.

"I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for piles and found it a certain cure," says S. R. Meredith, Willow Grove, Del. Operations unnecessary to cure piles. They always yield to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Cures skin diseases, all kinds of wounds. Accept no coun-terfeits.

The battle ship Indiana and the training ship Chesapeake weighed anchor at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and started, with the naval cadets from the Academy aboard, for the summer practice cruise. Commander Colahan commands the Indiana and Commander Ostertrons the Chesapeake.

Happy Time in Old Town.

"We felt very happy," writes R. N. Beville, Old Town, Va. "When Bucklen's Arnica Salve wholly cured our daughter of a bad case of scald head." It delights all who use it for Cuts, Corns, Burns, Bruises, Bolls, Ulcers, Eruptions, Infallible for Piles. Only 25c at all drug stores.

Filthy Temples in India.

Sacred cows often defile Indian temples, but worse yet is a body that's polluted by constipation. Don't permit it. Cleanse your system with Dr. King's New Life Pills and avoid untold misery. They give lively livers, active bowels, good digestion, fine appetite. Only 25c at all drug stores.

On Sunday Rev. Dr. Forrest J. Prettyman of Washington, D. C., preached the baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Maryland Agricultural College, and Monday night the class day exercises were held in the College hall.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid enters to cure stomach trouble by dissolving the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

NEWS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF WICOMICO SENT IN BY THE ADVERTISER'S REPRESENTATIVES.

QUANTICO

There will be no preaching service in town on Sunday. On Sunday evening the annual Children's Day service will be held in the M. E. Church. The exercises will begin at 8.15 and promises to be very interesting and helpful.

The members and friends of Porter's Mill M. P. Church, Quantico circuit, will hold a festival in the grove adjoining the church, on this Saturday evening. Proceeds for benefit of the church.

There was a heavy rain fall accompanied with a terrific thunder storm in this section on Saturday evening. Lightning struck some of the telephone poles just outside the town shivering them almost into atoms, traveled along the wire into town, ran into the sitting room of the hotel where there is a 'phone and passed off from it. Fortunately no one was injured but great consternation was created at the time.

Strawberry season is at an end and while there was, by no means, a full crop yet our people have realized some thing out of this part of the small fruit crop—quite enough to keep any body from grumbling the old familiar "no money in anything now a days."

Mr. O. W. Taylor, already quite an extensive land owner, has recently purchased the "Cherry Walk Farm" tenanted by Mr. James Gambrell and owned by Dr. E. W. Humphreys of Salisbury. The farm is situated two miles from town on the Nutter's Neck road and will make a valuable addition to Mr. Taylor's acreage.

Messrs. Samuel and Andrew Phillips progressive farmers near town have purchased from Mr. Irving Kennerly his excellent farm of wheat and corn land located on the Royal Oak road. The price paid is understood to be $3000. Messrs. Phillips own the adjoining farm and with this addition to their already valuable property they can boast of one of the most desirable farms in the county.

The turtle dinner was well attended and seemingly thoroughly enjoyed by persons from various sections of the county on Wednesday. The quotation from Longfellow's Golden Legend: "Come with me to the hostelry For I have many things to say" seemed to be applicable on that day.

Despite the storm in early evening on Saturday last quite a company of young ladies and their gallants assembled at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Tainter to do honor to Miss Marie Tainter, their younger daughter, it being the occasion of her nineteenth birthday anniversary. Various amusements appropriate to the occasion were indulged in by the company and vocal and instrumental music was rendered during the evening. At 10.30 refreshments consisting of ices and cakes were served. Those present were the Misses Maude Collier, Nellie Brady, Maude Humphreys, Agnes, Kate and Nannie Taylor, Nellie Graham, Mattie Hughes, and Beulah Cooper and Messrs. Clifford Cooper, Ira Waller, Harry and Earle Messick, Clifford and Byrd Taylor, John Graham, Daniel Collier, Harry Jones, Talbot Truitt, Ray Disharoon, and Walter Humphreys.

One of our young men of Quantico in giving his reason for not visiting a certain town suggests that birds fly too high and tailors swim too deep for him. It being well known that the surname of his rival is "Taylor" and his Christian name is "Byrd."

Base ball is still on the docket and Quantico team seems to be of the get up and try it again stamp. While the championship is not yet in view for these runners of the diamond yet they are to be congratulated upon their improvement in play and is lessening the disparity of the score between its team and others. On Wednesday there were two games in town, one in the morning and the other in the afternoon. The former was between picked nines and the latter between Hornstown and Trinity resulting in victory for Hornstown by a score of 20-18.

Miss Susie Gale has returned from a prolonged visit to relatives in Washington, D. C.

The Misses Mamie and Nina Brewington, Beulah Cooper and Mattie Hughes spent Sunday at the home of the Misses Tainter, this town.

Miss Sallie Turpin of Washington visited her father, Mr. J. W. Turpin, this town, during the week.

Mr. Edward Bounds and mother of Sharptown, spent Saturday and Sunday in town with Mrs. Levin Bailey.

Mrs. George Davis and little son, Otto, are visiting Mrs. Davis' daughter, Mrs. Goldener, in Chicago.

Mrs. Martha Waller of Salisbury, is visiting her sister Mrs. Julia Jones, this town.

Rev. and Mrs. F. J. Phillips are spending a few days with Mrs. Phillips' relatives near Crisfield.

The First Quarterly Conference of the M. E. Churches on Quantico circuit was held in the M. E. Church last Saturday, Dr. T. E. Martindale presiding.

Misses Susie Hastings and Blanche Marvil of Delmar were the guests of Miss Lillian Ellis Saturday and Sunday last.

Mrs. Flora Collison and family are in Philadelphia, visiting relatives and friends.

The foxes have made several raids on the poultry yard of Charles Seton near town. He estimates the loss of young chickens and turkeys at about $15.

A new porch and pump house have been erected to Mrs. Lizzie Elzey's property on Main Street.

COLUMBIA

The drouth which prevailed for some time in this section was broken by a refreshing rain last Saturday afternoon. The round potato crop suffered greatly, but prospects are for an average crop.

Some of our young folks attended Children's day services at Mt. Pleasant last Sunday evening.

Tomato plants are being transplanted around here this week.

Berry season is over and berry growers are breathing easier as a big burden has rolled from their minds if not much richer than before.

Last Saturday was school meeting day in Delaware. Most places passed off quietly, but some districts had quite a tilt between warring factions.

The rose bug pest has not been so troublesome this year as in past years. Their appetites seem to crave some things such as Michels Early strawberry Red Astrakhan and Early Harvest apples, but when nothing else is in their way they are content with a few bites of sassafras bushes.

The first Quarterly Conference under the pastorate of Rev. Johnson was held here last Saturday. The regular routine of business was transacted. The old committee on Camp meeting was reappointed and will meet at the camp ground Saturday afternoon, June 28th, to sell the privileges and transact other business pertaining to the camp.

Some of our progressive farmers purchased spraying outfits last Spring, and have been spraying their fruit trees this season. Mr. C. M. Kenney is the pioneer in this section in the spraying business and last year had more perfect fruit in his orchards than all other orchards combined in this community.

Some of our young students in natural history captured what they supposed were young fish and put them in cans, and by careful attention they grew finely but later turned out to be frogs. Their last adventure they captured what they supposed was a young coon. They took the animal to the house for investigation and found out from older folks it was a ground squirrel.

CROP CONDITIONS.

How They Are in Maryland And Delaware.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Maryland and Delaware Section, week ending Monday, June 9th says: A little planting was accomplished during the week in the extreme west, but it was too dry in other parts of the section, and it is now unlikely that further attempts be made to increase the acreage. The crop (corn) shows good stands generally, and keeps a satisfactory color. The week has been favorable for field work, and first and second cultivation has pretty well destroyed the weeds. Some thinning has also been done. The rains of the 7th were beneficial, but more moisture would be acceptable. Considerable replanting has been made necessary locally, owing to ravages of cutworms. There is scarcely any change in the condition of wheat, except that it is slowly turning color where farthest advanced, and that the first harvest operations were expected to have been undertaken in the extreme southern counties on Saturday. Harvesting of the early crop will become general over the southern parts of the section during the coming week, or rather towards its close. The heads of wheat seem to be filling well, but as the heads are short in many sections, and the entire crop, thin in stands, the yields must necessarily be below average, this being especially true of the wheat that was sown late last fall. The yield of straw will likewise be light. Rye is filling well, but like wheat will be below an average crop. Grasses have held up fairly well in the extreme West, where new meadows have made some progress, but elsewhere the week has witnessed a marked deterioration in meadows and pastures. The clover crop has headed unusually low, the bloom being from three to twelve inches from the ground; harvesting of clover has been general during the week in the interior and southern counties, with very unsatisfactory results as to quantity, although the weather has been very favorable for curing, so that the quality is reported as being first class. Timothy will be very short in nearly all districts; in some of the Southern counties meadow lands have already been turned over for grazing. It is feared that the rains of Saturday will be of little or no benefit to the hay.

The fruit outlook is generally unsatisfactory in the Western counties of Maryland, but in the eastern counties and in Delaware they are more favorable. In the mountain peach belt some large growers say that the crop will be very light, in fact the only favorable peach reports west of the Bay are reported from Howard County, where in some localities, a good set has been secured and a fairly large crop is looked for. In Kent and Dorchester Counties good yields are expected, but in parts of Southern Delaware the outlook is not as promising as it was ten days ago. Considerable dropping is reported from all districts. Apples are dropping badly, and will be almost a failure in many localities. Plums and pears are both short crops, in prospect. Early cherries are ripening generally throughout the section, but the yields have been poor, less than half a crop in many instances.

Gardens and truck patches have suffered greatly for want of moisture, and all small vegetables look stunted in growth. The rains of the 7th should be of great benefit to these small crops. Many tomatoes recently transplanted perished in the fields, and they also suffered from the cool nights and from the ravages of cutworms. Potatoes seem to withstand the effect of the drought unusually well; the vines are short but thrifty in appearance, and the crop is generally well cultivated; very little damage has been caused by bugs. The pea crop, which is about over in places, has been from nearly average to much below, having been cut short by the dry weather. Strawberries are now failing, and have given very disappointing yields on account of the drought, although the quality of the berries has been good. Raspberries promise fair yields. Cabbages have been hurt some by worms in the western counties. Blackberry vines are giving promise of good yields. Melons and cantaloupes continue backward.

The seventeen year locusts are extending their area, although in places they are beginning to die. They are eagerly devoured by chickens, birds, and many animals. They have caused some damage to peach and apple trees in parts of Washington and Frederick counties, the loss to young peach trees being serious in places. They puncture the branches and cause the small shoots to break off, or die, the tops of some young trees showing brown with the dead branches.

PITTSVILLE

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. Peter Brittingham last Wednesday morning at six o'clock. The contracting parties were Mr. Garlie E. Dennis and Miss Annie M. Brittingham, both of this town. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. A. Morris. The bride wore a very handsome dress of white with lace and ribbon trimmings. The groom wore the conventional black. Amidst the congratulations of their many friends and showers of rice they left on the early train for Philadelphia where they will reside in the future.

Miss Bertha Richardson of Powellville is visiting her aunt Mrs. J. E. Richardson.

The strawberry season in this vicinity has about closed and huckleberries and tomatoes seem to be the topic of the day.

Miss Bertha Dennis was the guest of Miss Minnie Campbell Saturday and Sunday last.

If you want a new hat just call around at Mrs. J. E. Richardson's, the new trimmer, Miss Katie Clark arrived this week.

Mr. James Farlow and daughter, Mrs. A. W. Shockley are visiting relatives in Mapleville, Va.

The members of the M. E. Church will hold an ice cream supper next Saturday evening, June 21st in the church lot. All are cordially invited to attend.

SHARPTOWN.

W. D. Gravenor and Horace G. Elzey attended the State Council meeting of the American Mechanics at Cambridge this week.

Miss Emma Caulk is home from the Normal School spending her vacation. Miss Emma won some distinction during her first year at the Normal. Her abstract of "To Have and to Hold", by Mary Johnston, was one of twelve, selected out of one hundred and fifty, taken to the Charleston Exhibition.

There is much speculation here in the white potato crop. A great many farmers have sold their entire crop. The general price paid has been about $1.00 per barrel to be dug and delivered here, buyer furnishing barrels.

Marriage of Miss Godwin.

The following is an account of the wedding of Miss Rebecca Godwin, cousin of Mrs. R. P. Graham of this city, and well known in Salisbury.

A very artistic marguerite wedding which took place Tuesday evening at All Saints' Protestant Episcopal Church of Reisterstown was that of Miss Rebecca Godwin, daughter of Dr. William Francis Godwin, who was married to Rev. Flemming James, rector of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, Philadelphia.

The church was beautifully decorated with marguerites, white pinks and fern and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Snyder B. Simes, of Gloria Dei Church of Philadelphia, assisted by Rev. Joseph Fletcher, rector of All Saints' Church.

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given away, and was received at the steps of the chancel, where the ceremony of betrothal preceded the marriage, by the groom, attended by his brother, Mr. Harry D. James, as best man. The bride wore a diaphanous gown of white crepe over white taffeta silk, with a bertha of duchess lace and yoke of embroidered chiffon. A veil of white tulle caught with jewels, fell to the hem of the trained gown, and she carried a cluster of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was attended as maid of honor by her sister, Miss Anna Godwin, who wore a gown of white mousseline de soie, with medallions of lace over white silk, and carried pink sweet peas. The flower girl was little Margaret Graham, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. Rolt P. Graham. She wore a white frock of embroidered mull, with pink ribbons, and carried a basket of marguerites.

The ushers were Messrs. Alfred Randolph James, William McCully James, Carl F. Meyer and Horace Banks.

The bride is of English descent, one of five daughters of Dr. Godwin, whose country place, Sarma, derives its name from the initials of the young girls. The groom is a son of the late Rev. Dr. Flemming James, at one time rector of St. Mark's Protestant Episcopal Church of Baltimore. Owing to recent deaths in Mr. James' family invitations to the wedding were extended only to members of the respective families.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the residence of the bride's father, the drawing rooms of which were adorned with ferns and flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. James left later in the evening for their wedding journey and will spend the summer in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Rev. Mr. James has resigned the rectorship of St. Andrew's Church, to take effect the last of August. He will assume charge of the American Protestant Episcopal Church in Shanghai, China, called the Church of our Saviour.

GROWTH OF REFRIGERATION.

One of the Requisites of Successful Peninsula Fruit Marketing.

A few years ago the average Peninsula fruit and truck grower would have regarded his neighbor and fellow farmer as hopelessly insane if the latter had been so foolish as to invest a part of his hard-earned money in the purchase of ice to refrigerate cars in which to ship his produce to the city markets. Such a thought would have been declared the height of folly, and the man with the courage to so defy public sentiment would not only call down upon his innocent and ignorant (?) head the reproach and disapproval of his neighbors, but by his rash act forfeit his credit in the community.

We have lived to see these conditions changed. From being thought an absolute waste of money and wanton disregard for the ethics of successful farming, it has now begun to be regarded as one of the essential requisites to the marketing of fruits. At Salisbury the pioneer patrons of refrigerated cars were Mr. Wm. F. Allen and Mr. Wm. Jeff Staton. Only a little while back a few refrigerated cars for the whole Peninsula were used each season. The growth has been steady until now the number amounts to hundreds. In the last two years the business of refrigeration has gained by leaps and bounds. For instance in 1901 less than a hundred refrigerated cars were used by berry growers on the lines of the N. Y. P. & N. railroad between Delmar and Cape Charles, and on the B. C. & A. between Ocean City and Claiborne. This year the number of such cars used in the shipment of the berry crop within the above named limits, numbered 297, and 1900 tons of ice, supplied by the two factories at Salisbury and the one at Crisfield, were consumed in the business. Last year Salisbury station shipped 36 refrigerated cars of cantaloupes. The prospects are that nearly 100 refrigerated cars with cantaloupes from Salisbury station will go forward this year.

It is also likely that a few car loads of tomatoes will be shipped under refrigeration this season. Should this prove so it will be the first time in the history of the peninsula. As an evidence of the popularity of refrigerated cars for marketing fruit, the case of Onley, Va., on the N. Y. P. & N. is cited. This year the growers there used eight cars, the first experiment. The results were so satisfactory to the growers they estimate that from 15 to 20 cars will be used at that station next strawberry season.

The reason for this remarkable growth of refrigeration is due to the discovery that the fruit reaches the market in the condition in which it is started from the station, making unlimited distribution possible and always in demand at good prices, even when a glutted market renders unrefrigerated fruit unsalable. Another cause for the growth of the business is the energy of the refrigerator car people.

The Fruit Growers Express handles almost exclusively this business along the lines of the N. Y. P. & N. and B. C. & A. railroads. Mr. Charles E. James, the Company's energetic, attentive and courteous representative, has made many personal friends among the fruit growers of the peninsula.

"Snuff Hill" Rechristened.

Those of our readers who are not aware of it, are hereby informed that "Snuff Hill" has been rechristened. In future that division of our city shall rest under the euphonious and appropriate designation of "Riverview." Whatever may have been the conditions which compelled the name of "Snuff Hill" they no longer exist, but there is reason for "Riverview." The section of the city embraced therein stands back of Camden Avenue, on a sandy elevation which extends to the river shore, at a point nearly opposite the fertilizer factory of Wm. B. Tilghman & Co.

Recently property in that vicinity has improved in taxable basis, and the general progress and prosperity of Salisbury is there manifest.

The most recent and important lift to the section is the movement headed by Mr. R. Frank Williams, whereby "Oak Hill" and surrounding property have been purchased and will be improved.

A Short Poem.

The shortest poem we ever saw was this:

We
Spise
Flies.

This is given as a suggestion to the student poets.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.

Base Ball, Races and Fireworks Being Arranged—Exciting Contests Expected—The New Ball Grounds.

If the present program is carried out there will be plenty of amusement in Salisbury on the Fourth of July. Base ball, horse racing and fireworks are now being planned.

A game of ball will be played by the home team on the new grounds which will, in a short time, be the finest base ball field ever laid off in Salisbury. It is not yet definitely settled what club will play here but a team from Cambridge, Pocomoke or Crisfield will combat with our boys. The local club is now practicing every day and it is expected the line up will show that we have a very creditable "home team".

A number of races are being arranged for the Fourth to take place at the "Country Club." The following is the program at present but is liable to a few minor changes; first race between W. B. Miller's "George", Chas. E. Duff's "Honest John" and W. M. Day's "James S.", second race between A. J. Benjamins "Prince" and Sam'l Duff's "Minnie", third race between R. Lee Waller's "Peter Jackson" and "Unknown" owned by one of the local horsemen. In addition to the trotting races a running race between horses owned by Chas. E. Bennett and Major Phillips is probable. The races will all be mile heats and close and exciting contests are looked for. Some very fast time is predicted and a few of the "knowing ones" say some "surprises" will take place. An effort will be made to arrange the base ball and races so that they will not conflict as most people will wish to witness both exhibitions.

In the evening a display of fireworks or some other form of entertainment is being planned. Every one who comes to Salisbury on the Fourth can expect a royal good time.

Rev. J. H. B. Brooks.

The following memorial of the late Rev. James H. B. Brooks is taken from the Address of Bishop Whitehead, delivered before the recent Convention of the Diocese of Pittsburg, Pa.

It will, we trust, prove of interest to those of our readers who knew him during the time he was in charge of St. Peter's P. E. Church of this city:

"Of those who accompanied with us at our last Convention we have lost several. Most prominent among them we commemorate our faithful Presbyter, the Rev. James H. B. Brooks, for nineteen years rector of Christ Church, Oil City, sincerely mourned by everyone who has come in contact with him. The community possessed no warmer-hearted, more charitable man than he. To everyone in need and distress he was glad to go with material aid and words of comfort. To do something in the way of promoting the happiness of others was his life's incentive, and, surely, there is no grander, better work than that. He was a good man in all that old, homely, honest expression implies, and his life and faith were proved by his works. Always cheerful, considerate and forgiving, he possessed the truly Christian spirit. After an illness covering several months, he died at the rectory, at nine p. m., Tuesday, February 11, 1902, aged 52 years and 3 months.

He was born near Rochester, N. Y., and his theological studies, which were begun early in life, were first taken up at Alexandria, Va., and completed at the Philadelphia Divinity School. St. George's Parish, of West Philadelphia, was his first charge, from which place he went to Seaford, Del., and thence to assume charge of the parish at Salisbury, Md. In 1888 he was called to the parish at Oil City, where he remained continuously until the beginning of his fatal illness.

Of Mr. Brooks, as a citizen and a man, as a husband and a father, as a worker and helper, dispensing cheer and comfort all about him, it is impossible to speak in adequate terms. In all the fundamental elements of manhood he stood pre-eminent, with charity, "the greatest of these," as the predominant characteristic, and he was never without the spirit of the utmost consideration for others.

As a friend and loyal helper of his Bishop, I can testify to his pre-eminent quality, and I sincerely mourn his loss, and pray God's precious consolation for the bereaved."

MARRIAGE OF MR. ALEX. TOADVINE

Ceremony Performed Tuesday Evening By Dr. S. W. Reigart in Wicomico Presbyterian Church.

The friends of Mr. Alexander D. Toadvine and Miss Mary Hunt Reigart, daughter of Dr. S. W. Reigart, were at Wicomico Presbyterian Church Tuesday evening in goodly numbers to witness the ceremony which united the two in the holy bonds of matrimony.

The church had been artistically decorated with palms and daisies, and Mrs. J. Douglas Wallop flooded the edifice with entrancing music from the pipe organ. While the expectant audience awaited the coming of the bridegroom and his bride, Mrs. Wallop rendered these instrumental songs:

Processional.....Clark
Gavotte.....Wolff
Melody.....J. A. West
Pilgrim's March.....Clark
Andante.....Merkel

The hour for the ceremony had been set at 8.30 o'clock, and at this appointed time the first peals of Lobegrin's Wedding march announced the approach of the bridal party. Up the aisle first came the ushers, Mr. Donald Graham and Mr. Wm. M. Cooper, Prof. Henry Covington of Princeton, a cousin of the groom, and Mr. F. L. Waller. These were followed in stately procession by the beautiful white gowned bridesmaids, Miss Irma Graham and Miss Dora Toadvine, a sister of the groom; Miss Katie Todd and Miss Agnes Reigart, a sister of the bride. Then came the bride led by her matron of honor, Mrs. Charles Neisly of Manassas, N. Y. who is a sister. Simultaneously from the lecture room entered the groom attended by his best man, Hon. John P. Moore, of Snow Hill, who is the groom's cousin. Meanwhile Dr. S. W. Reigart, pastor of the church and father of the bride, and Rev. J. Wm. McIlvaine, of Baltimore, brother-in-law of the groom had entered from a rear door and taken a position in front of the altar. Around them the bridal party gathered and the marriage rites were impressively pronounced by the attending clergymen.

The bride wore a lovely gown of white silk muslin trimmed with Brussels lace, and long tulle veil caught up with a pearl pin. She carried a large bunch of Brides roses. Mrs. Neisly, the matron of honor, wore white paris muslin, with heavy chru lace trimmings and pink ribbons, and carried pink roses. All the bridesmaids wore pretty gowns of white paris muslin with trimmings of yellow lace and sashes of pink chiffon caught with rosettes of black velvet. They carried large bouquets of Bridesmaids roses. The groom and other gentlemen of the bridal party were in evening dress.

After the ceremony the wedding party returned down the aisle to Mendelssohn's March. A few invited guests accompanied the party to the Manse where a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Toadvine left on the mid night express for New York. They will spend the honeymoon at Saratoga and vicinity and return to reside in Salisbury where Mr. Toadvine is conducting a large insurance business. They will board at the Peninsula hotel until Mr. Toadvine's new house on Isabella Street, now in process of construction, is completed, which will be next autumn.

One of the most highly prized gifts to the bride was a silver tea-pot from her father which was an heir-loom one-hundred and fifty years old. The groom's gift to his bride was a handsome Knabe up right piano.

The guests from a distance were, Rev. and Mrs. J. W. MacIlvaine, of Baltimore, Mrs. Chas. N. Neisly of Manassas, N. Y., Miss Elsie Lenher of Mechanicsville, Pa., Miss Fels of Philadelphia, Senator and Mrs. John P. Moore and Mr. John P. Moore Jr., of Snow Hill, Mrs. Glover of Haddonfield, N. J., Mr. Henry Covington of Princeton, and Mr. Catanach of Philadelphia.

Ensminger—Francis.

The sun never shone more brightly on a bride than on Miss Edyth Francis, eldest daughter of Elder A. B. Francis of Delmar, when Mr. Joseph Ensminger of Harrisburg, Pa., led her to the altar at noon Wednesday, June 18th. The father of the bride officiated at the ceremony, which took place at their home in Delmar. The rooms were beautifully decorated with cut flowers.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Susie L. Francis while Mr. R. L. Francis, of Philadelphia, brother of the bride acted as best man. The bride wore a travelling suit of dark blue cloth with hat and gloves to match, while the mat of honor was gowned in white french muslin, trimmed with insertion and ribbon.

Lunch was served immediately after the ceremony, consisting of sandwiches, salads, coffee, cake and ices.

Mr. and Mrs. Ensminger left on the two o'clock express for the north. They will be at their home 1316 Wallace St. Harrisburg, Pa., after July 1st.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Francis of Manassas, Va., uncle and aunt of the bride, Mrs. A. G. Cole and son Edwin of Waverly, Baltimore, Mrs. J. G. Jones of Wilmington, Del., Mr. and Mrs. Handy Culver and the Misses Culver, Mrs. Levin Hastings and Mrs. Wm. S. Marvel Sr., Misses Maude Hayman, Susie Hastings, Stella Culver, Marion Hastings, and Blanche Marvel, Messrs. T. J. Hastings and Samuel Culver of Delmar.

Wooten—Parsons.

Mr. Alphonso Wooten of this city was married last Wednesday to Miss Gertrude Parsons, daughter of Mr. Isaac Parsons of Parsonsburg. The marriage was solemnized in the Methodist Episcopal Church at Parsonsburg at eight o'clock in the evening, Rev. D. H. McFaul, the pastor, officiating.

The ushers were Mr. Frank Parsons and Mr. W. B. Hayman, while the bride was attended by Miss Margie Parsons and Miss Mollie Hayman as bridesmaids. The bride wore a pretty and becoming gown of white mull and carried a bouquet of roses.

Immediately after the marriage a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents at which were present a number of the young couple's relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wooten will make their home in Salisbury, the groom being the manager of the Salisbury Brick Company.

Have Not The Authority.

The Board of Election Supervisors for Wicomico county, at its meeting on Saturday last, decided that they did not have the authority to divide Nutter's district into two precincts.

Mr. Geo. W. Bell, counsel to the Board, recently submitted a written opinion on the subject in which he stated that such action would be in direct violation of the law of 1901, which requires the Supervisors to show that there are over 600 voters in a district before they can divide same.

Nutter's District has a few less than four hundred qualified voters.

A bill was introduced in the last Legislature by Mr. White to form a new district of South Salisbury and Camden, thus allowing the residents of South Salisbury to vote within the corporate limits, but as the bill was opposed by the other three members of the Wicomico delegation, the matter was allowed to die on the files.

A Better Road Wanted.

A citizen of Pittsburg district says the farmers and property owners of Pittsburg and Dennis districts want the road from Pittsville leading to Powellville, Whiton and elsewhere in that direction, shelled. Pittsville station is the shipping point for all that country and the road referred to is the main one, consequently traffic is very heavy over it. It is sandy and only a few pounds make a load.

Hard surfacing of this road would be of incalculable value to the people of the two districts, and incidentally increase the taxable basis of the property through which the road runs. It is understood that a number of land owners along the road have expressed a willingness to contribute to the cost of shelling the road from Pittsville to Powellville, a distance of about six miles.

To Get Union Central Dividends You Must Insure in the Union Central.

Dividends in Life Insurance regulate the cost of the insurance. The company that pays the largest dividends furnishes the cheapest insurance. The company that combines the lowest death rate, the lowest expense rate, and the highest interest rate, pays the largest dividends. The Union Central excels all companies in these points. Nearly 80 per cent of the assets of the Union Central are invested in first mortgage securities, which, during 1901, earned 6.05 per cent. The average interest rate for twenty years is 6.65 per cent. The one particular advantage of mortgage loans as an asset of an insurance company is their non-fluctuating quality—a Wall street broker is not needed to value them.

An Annual Dividend Policy is the only contract which gives you the full benefits. You know every year just how your investment stands, and your profits are placed to your credit or given to you in cash.

EDWARD VII.

And His Coronation as King of Great Britain and Ireland and of all the British Dominions Beyond the Seas, Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India

[Copyright, 1902, by W. L. Vall.]
 IN a spectacular sense the ceremony of anointing the monarch of England is subordinate to the crowning and enthroning; nevertheless it is one of the most essential and solemn features of the English coronation service. The ceremony of anointing takes place immediately after the vesting of the sovereign, while he is seated in King Edward's chair, and is symbolic of the anointing of King Solomon by Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet, as described in the book of Kings. The invocation of the archbishop before the holy oil is poured out—"O Lord, Holy Father, who by anointing with oil didst of old make and consecrate kings, priests and prophets to teach and govern thy people Israel, bless and sanctify thy chosen servant Edward, who by our office and ministry is now to be anointed with this oil and consecrated king of this realm," etc.—indicates the meaning of the ceremony.

In anointing, the archbishop pours the oil from the gold anointing spoon in the form of a cross upon the head and the palms of the king. Throughout the coronation ceremony is essentially a religious one and gives to the monarch something of a sacerdotal character. Figuratively, he becomes at once king, priest and prophet to teach and govern the people. For this reason the robes in which the king appears at various stages of the coronation service are a modification of the historic vestments of a priest, the long, sleeveless robe of white linen, the super-tunica or dalmatic of cloth of gold richly embroidered, then the armilla, which is nothing more than the ordinary priest's stole, and finally the imperial mantle fastened in front with a jeweled clasp. Besides these there are articles of regalia, as, for instance, sandals, buskins, bracelets and spurs, which are offered the monarch, but are never worn during the ceremony.

King Edward maintains the sacred traditions of the realm in all the essential features of the coronation ceremony. He dispenses with the "herb strewer" as a relic of the age of superstition, and with the king's champion in armor, for the days of chivalry are gone never to return; but the lopping off of some of the minor and even picturesque customs does not diminish the scale of regal magnificence. The king's robes are indeed marvels of richness and skillful workmanship. The imperial mantle is particularly splendid, embroidered with silver eagles, roses, fleurs-de-lis and the shamrock and the thistle.

The eagles on King Edward's mantle represent imperial destiny, recalling the ancient times when English kings called themselves imperator. The meanings of the rose, shamrock and thistle are well known, and the fleurs-de-lis is a reminder of the union of the French lilies with the English coat of arms under George III. The three national floral emblems appear upon the royal stole, together with the crown and cross of St. George, and also upon the cloth of gold tunic, embroidered among palms.

The robes and coronets of the peers and peeresses worn at the coronation vary according to rank, and no little difficulty will be experienced by the novice in distinguishing the several ranks, which are five in number. The robes of the peers are all of crimson velvet, edged with miniver, the cape furled with miniver pure and set off with bars or rows of ermine, narrow pieces of fur indicating the wearer's degree in the peerage. On the cape of the baron, the lowest degree, are seen two bars of ermine, on that of the viscount two bars and a half, on that of the earl three, the marquis three and a half and on the duke's, the highest in degree, four bars.

These robes are worn over the full court dress, uniform, regimentals or what not according to the official status of the peer. The coronets of the peers are of silver gilt, the caps being, like the robes, of crimson velvet and faced with ermine. The tassel at the top is gold, but no jewels or precious stones are permitted in the coronets worn at the crowning of King Edward. At first sight these peculiar head coverings, the coronets of the English nobility, do not attract admiration. When in close juxtaposition with the commonplace frock coat, severe in its simplicity, their gaudy magnificence appears tawdry, but placed above the red velvet coronation robe, furled with snowy ermine, worn by the peer, they show to much greater advantage, harmonizing well with the rich color of the silken fabric they surmount. The coronet proper is a silver circlet, to which in some cases silver balls are attached, fashioned in certain specified ways, and with the rim embossed in the verisimilitude of the jewels forbidden to all but royalty. They are mounted in crimson velvet caps, lined with silk, which is wadded to the shape of the head it adorns, and bordered with ermine, sewed to the metal rim through holes pierced for that purpose in its circumference.

Each order in the hierarchy of aristocracy has a distinctive mark placed upon the coronet reserved for its own use. The strawberry leaf marks its wearer as one having the right to assume the style of duke, eight of this particular kind of leaves being placed in the low points into which the coronet of his grace is cut. Next in order of precedence is the marquis, whose coronet is adorned with four strawberry leaves and four balls alternately. The earl rejoices in a very ornamental style—eight silver balls sit on points reaching to the velvet crown, being divided by the same number of strawberry leaves. To the viscount, however, strawberry leaves are not permitted; he must be content with balls only, but as a consolation he is allowed to place eighteen just above the rim. The lowly baron is also denied the distinctive leaves. To him are merely given six silvery spheres to denote his rank and to brighten the warm red of his cap.

King Edward has already settled the question as to who among the nobility should attend the coronation. Only those peers and peeresses who have been presented at court can attend. Some of those debarred may be entitled by law to be present, but the king has said it, and who can sue the king for redress? Actors and actresses are debarred, not because they have been upon the stage, but because they have never been presented at court.

Among the numerous and notable functions of the coronation event the ceremonies within the Abbey are sacred to those who are officially at court.

In the matter of foreigners at the coronation King Edward has also made a fast rule to the effect that no foreigner can go to the court of England or attend any court function who has not been presented by the ambassador of his country and who has not previously been presented at the court of his own sovereign. This rule will at least debar some of the Italian aristocracy who do not bow to their own king. A number of Indian princes will of course witness the coronation of the emperor of India, which is a part of the title of Edward VII.

A bewildering yet most enchanting variety of costume, equipment and color will present itself to the gifted American artist, Mr. Edwin A. Abbey, who, after weeks of preparation, including private sittings with the king and the princes and peers, as well as a view of the spectacle, will paint the coronation.

THE PRINCE OF WALES, HIS APPARENT TO THE THRONE.

The United States is officially represented at the coronation by the ambassador to the court of St. James, Joseph H. Choate, and Special Ambassador Whitelaw Reid in the suit of the special ambassador Major General J. H. Wilson represents the army and Rear Admiral John C. Watson the navy. Mr. J. P. Morgan, Jr.; Mr. E. L. Baylies and Mr. W. S. K. Wetmore are also in the suite of Ambassador Reid. In honor of the occasion the European squadron of the United States navy parades in English waters under the lead of the flagship Illinois, commanded by Rear Admiral Crowninshield.

The interest of the English as well as foreign visitors to London during the coronation will be drawn to the heir, who may figure as principal in the next coronation event. This will probably be the heir apparent, George Frederick Ernest Albert, prince of Wales, now thirty-seven years of age, or his son, the heir presumptive, Edward, born June 23, 1894, and therefore eight years and three days old at the time of the coronation of his grandfather.

APPEAL FOR RECIPROcity

President Sends Message to Congress Asking Aid For Cuba.

QUOTES PRESIDENT MCKINLEY

Colonel Roosevelt Says That It Is the Moral Duty of This Country to Grant Cuba Reciprocal Relations, and Lowering Duties Won't Hurt Protection.

Washington, June 14.—President Roosevelt sent a special message to congress yesterday afternoon reiterating his former recommendation for the passage of a law creating reciprocity with Cuba, and presenting additional arguments thereon.

To the senate and house of representatives—Elsewhere I have discussed the question of reciprocity. In the case of Cuba, however, there are weighty reasons of morality and of national interest why the policy should be held to have a peculiar application, and I most earnestly ask your attention to the wisdom, indeed, to the vital need, of providing for a substantial reduction in the tariff duties on Cuban imports into the United States.

Cuba has in her constitution affirmed what we desired that she should stand, in international matters, in closer and more friendly relations with us than with any other powers, and we are bound by every consideration of honor and expediency to pass commercial measures in the interest of her material well being.

This recommendation was merely giving practical effect to President McKinley's words in his message of December 15, 1898, and December 5, 1899, when he wrote:

"It is important that our relations with this people (of Cuba) shall be of the most friendly character and our commercial relations close and reciprocal."

The granting of reciprocity with Cuba is a proposition which stands entirely alone. The reasons for it far outweigh those for granting reciprocity with any other nation, and are entirely consistent with preserving intact the protective system under which this country has thrived so marvelously.

The present tariff law was designed to promote the adoption of such a reciprocity treaty, and expressly provide for a reduction not to exceed 20 per cent. upon goods coming from a particular country, leaving the tariff rates on the same articles unchanged as regards all other countries.

Objection has been made to the granting of the reduction on the ground that the substantial benefit would not go to the agricultural producer of sugar, but would inure to the American sugar refiners. In my judgment, provision can and should be made which will guarantee us against this possibility without having recourse to a measure of doubtful policy, such as a bounty in the form of a rebate.

The question as to which, if any, of the different schedules of the tariff ought most properly to be revised does not enter into this matter in any way or shape. We are concerned with getting a friendly reciprocal arrangement with Cuba. This arrangement applies to all the articles that Cuba grows or produces. It is not in our power to determine what these articles shall be, and any discussion of the tariff as it affects special schedules, or countries other than Cuba, is wholly aside from the subject matter to which I call your attention.

Some of our citizens oppose the lowering of the tariff on Cuban products, just as three years ago they opposed the admission of the Hawaiian Islands. I feel free trade with them might ruin certain of our interests here. In my judgment, no American industries will be hurt, and many industries will be benefited by the proposed action. It is to our advantage as a nation that the growing Cuban market should be controlled by American producers.

Cuba is an independent republic, but a republic which has assumed certain special obligations as regards her international position in compliance with our request. I ask for her certain special economic concessions in return; these economic concessions to benefit us as well as her. There are few brighter pages in American history than the page which tells of our dealings with Cuba during the past four years. On her behalf we waged a war of which the mainspring was generous indignation against oppression; and we have kept faith absolutely. It is earnestly to be hoped that we will complete in the same spirit the record so well begun and show in our dealings with Cuba that steady continuity of policy which it is essential for our nation to establish in foreign affairs, if we desire to play well our part as a world power.

We are a wealthy and powerful nation; Cuba is a young republic, still weak, who owes to us her birth, whose whole future, whose very life, must depend on our attitude towards her. I ask that we help her as she struggles upwards along the painful and difficult road of self-governing independence. I ask this aid for her because she is weak, because she needs, because we have already aided her. I ask that open-handed help of a kind which a self-respecting people can accept be given to Cuba, for the very reason that we have given her such help in the past. Now, I ask that the Cubans be given all possible chance to use to the best advantage the freedom of which Americans have such a right to be proud, and for which so many American lives have been sacrificed.

BLOW TO THE STEEL TRUST

Injunction Against Retirement of Preferred Stock Made Permanent.

Newark, N. J., June 17.—Vice Chancellor Emory yesterday gave an oral opinion making permanent the temporary injunction secured a week ago by Miriam Berger, of Sullivan county, New York. The injunction restrains the United States Steel Corporation from retiring $200,000,000 of preferred stock and issuing $250,000,000 in bonds instead.

R. V. Lindabury, counsel for the United States Steel Corporation, gave notice of appeal. It was agreed by counsel for both sides that the form of order for the appeal should be submitted to the court, which was done yesterday afternoon.

In his opinion the vice chancellor held that the retirement of preferred stock constituted a preferential reduction of the corporation's capital among those assenting to the plan and a corresponding impairment of the right of those not assenting. According to the vice chancellor's decision, preferred stockholders have vested property rights which cannot be impaired by a board of directors without the consent of the holders of preferred stock.

A minority of the stockholders objected to the plan and a restraining order was asked for by Berger. A bill was passed by the legislature last winter for a deal of this kind, and it was supposed then that the way was clear. While the court of appeals may possibly decide against the vice chancellor, this would be most unusual.

PENNSY FLYERS BEAT SCHEDULE

The Pennsylvania crew reported that from one to three minutes to spare characterized the run at every stop between New York and Pittsburgh. Averaged 49 Miles An Hour.

New York, June 17.—The new special train over the Pennsylvania railroad that is to make the trip from Chicago to Jersey City in 20 hours, arrived at the latter place at 8.35 o'clock yesterday morning, three minutes ahead of schedule time. The train's fast trip was accomplished without a hitch.

The New York Central's first 20-hour train from Chicago arrived at the Grand Central Station at 9.26 yesterday morning, four minutes ahead of time. The train averaged 49 miles an hour for the entire trip of 980 miles.

Roanoke, Va., June 19.—A special from Eckman, W. Va., says: The strike situation has suddenly taken on a complete change. It looks now as if there was not the least chance for the strikers to win, as such a large number of them have returned to work that those who would have remained away and fought it out have become discouraged, and many of them have taken up their tools and are going back into the mines. The mine owners are jubilant over the conditions and think the end of the strike is near. Many coke ovens, which have been dark for ten days, have been again lighted up. Guards are still being kept at the mines, but not in such a large number as previously.

CAUCUS ON RECIPROcity

Republican Senators Cannot Agree On Bill For Relief of Cuba.

Washington, June 18.—The Republican senators held their conference on the Cuban reciprocity bill last night in the marble room just off the senate chamber. When Senator Allison called the meeting to order all the Republican senators, with six exceptions, were present. Four of the six absentees were out of the city. Senator Allison made a brief address in calling the conference to order.

The discussion continued until the conference adjourned at 10.45, to meet again on the adjournment of the senate tomorrow afternoon. No conclusion was reached, but the opinion was expressed, even by those who would vote for a reciprocity bill, that there was little possibility of passing such a measure at this session of congress.

The 17 beet sugar senators present each made a speech, saying that they would not support the Spooner bill or any measure of that character. At the conclusion of the speeches, Senator Quay said that what had been developed indicated that neither the original house bill nor the proposed Spooner substitute could pass, and he, therefore, moved an adjournment. Senator Dietrich suggested that the conference might as well adjourn sine die, but this received no encouragement.

PLOT TO KILL KING EDWARD?

Sudden Illness Was An Excuse to Quit Public Functions.

London, June 18.—A sensational story was current in London last night of the discovery of a plot to assassinate King Edward. This story has created considerable discussion in newspaper and other circles, but it is lacking in anything like official confirmation.

According to the current report, King Edward's sudden illness at Aldershot was not due to a cold, but was merely an excuse for withdrawing his majesty from public functions, owing to the discovery by Scotland Yard of a plot against his life. The principals in this plot have not yet been arrested. It is cited in confirmation of this story that King Edward's recovery when he was ensconced at Windsor Castle was as complete as his attack had been sudden.

On the other hand, it must be pointed out that King Edward's journey from Aldershot to Windsor in his motor car and his subsequent drive yesterday in Windsor Park do not seem to indicate any fear of a violent attack upon his person.

TRAGEDY AT COATESVILLE

Widow Shot By Sutor, Who is Also Killed in Struggle For Weapon.

Coatesville, Pa., June 16.—Mrs. Rachel Sahlor, a widow, was yesterday shot and instantly killed by Harry R. Ricer, of Newcastle, Pa., who was also killed by a bullet from his revolver while struggling with another woman for possession of the weapon. The tragedy, it is said, was the result of a quarrel. Ricer was regarded as Mrs. Sahlor's accepted suitor. He appeared at the house and demanded an interview with Mrs. Sahlor. She declined to receive him and was dismissing him at the door, when he drew a revolver from his pocket and shot her through the heart. He then, it is claimed, aimed the revolver at Mrs. Ernest, who grappled with him. During the struggle the pistol was discharged, the bullet taking effect in Ricer's head, killing him almost instantly.

KILLED BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Mrs. Cooper Ran Into Machine and Received Fatal Injuries.

Philadelphia, June 19.—Mrs. Carrie M. Cooper, of this city, was run down and killed on York road near Willow Grove, yesterday by an automobile occupied by J. H. Fisher and William O. Bixler, of Easton, Pa. Mrs. Cooper's skull was fractured, and she died in 15 minutes of concussion of the brain. The automobile had been purchased in this city, and Messrs. Fisher and Bixler were taking it to Easton. In rounding a curve the machine came upon Mrs. Cooper and several companions. The sudden appearance of the auto confused Mrs. Cooper, who is said to have run into the machine instead of away from it. Fisher and Bixler were allowed to proceed to Easton on their promise to appear at the coroner's inquest.

Wild Race For Free Land.

Pocatello, Idaho, June 18.—Exactly at 12 o'clock yesterday 1,300 men and boys of all ages rushed across the line of the ceded Fort Hall Reservation and disappeared in a cloud of dust in their mad rush for homestead and mineral lands. Most of them were mounted on horses and ponies, and a majority were heavily armed. Probably 1,000 persons departed later with pack mules. Before 2 o'clock Pocatello was practically deserted. Many signs of trouble were apparent before the starting signal was given. In scores of instances it was known that three or more men intended to locate on the same piece of land.

THE QUESTION UNSETTLED.

After repeated meetings held especially to consider the question of protection for the public at the dangerous railroad crossings in the city of Salisbury, the City Council adjourned last Wednesday night without taking final action. Two separate ordinances providing for a system of protection have been considered by the Council but neither was adopted. A third, outlined by the President of the Council, is now in the hands of the City Attorney, Mr. L. Atwood Bennett, for preparation. It will be submitted to the Council at the regular meeting the first Monday night in July.

Not wishing to anticipate the Council's action we refrain from publishing the provisions of Mr. Tighman's proposed measure until it is an ordinance in fact. We believe, however, that Mr. Tighman has given the matter a great deal of thought, weighing all sides of the question, and arriving at conclusions which will be just and equitable both to the public and the railroads.

We are confident that it is to the interest of the railroads that a system of protection at the crossings be established. Eventually it will prove economical, for the first accident, the responsibility for which can be fastened upon the railroads, will introduce into the courts a heavy damage suit, and the "blasted corporations" already know too well what to expect of a jury.

A RE-UNITED DEMOCRACY.

At the opening of the clubhouse, known as the "Tilden Club," in New York on Thursday evening of this week, representative democrats from all over the country were present and made eloquent appeals for a re-united Democracy. The Club could not contain the vast crowd of prominent men from nearly every State in the Union. Ex President Cleveland and ex Senator David B. Hill, for many years political enemies, sat upon the same platform and both delivered addresses pleading for harmony and urging democrats of all sections to come together and forget their differences of the past. When Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Hill reached forth over the political gulf that has separated them and clasped hands for a re-united Democracy, the gathering went mad with enthusiasm.

We wish we had the space to publish the entire speeches of these two prominent democrats, so full are they of eloquence and logic, but we can only quote in part as follows. Mr. Cleveland said, "Those of us less prominent in the party—the rank and file—are longing to be led through old Democratic ways to old Democratic victories. We were never more ready to do enthusiastic battle than now."

"It is not in the search of new and gaudy issues nor in the interpretation of strange visions that a strong and healthy Democracy displays its splendid power."

"Democracy will have its doctrines in store as long as the people are kept from their own and just as long as their rights and interests are sacrificed by favoritism in Government care, by inequality in Government burdens, by the encouragement of industrial aggregation that throtle individual enterprise, by the reckless waste of public money and by the greatest of all injuries, as it underlies nearly all others—a system of tariff taxation whose robbing exactions are far beyond the needs of economic and legitimate Government expenditures, which purchases support by appeals to sordidness and greed and which continually corrupts the public conscience."

"I believe the times point to another Democratic opportunity as near at hand; but I believe we shall reap the fruits of it only by following the line of conduct I have indicated."

Mr. Hill in attacking the present administration said:

"The signs of the times point unmistakably to an awakened interest in the promotion of the success of Democratic principles of government."

"There is especially a deep conviction among thoughtful men that there is something radically wrong in the foreign policy of the present Administration.

"President Roosevelt seems to have lost his head when he forgets that this country differs from both ancient and modern France in that here it is not a crime to criticize the army, or the President, or any other servant of the people."

"Loyalty to the Government does not consist in loyalty to individuals or to the policies of those who happen to be in official positions."

"The use of Cuban money for partisan and lobbying purposes in aid of administrative measures pending before Congress serves to emphasize the irresponsible and dangerous character of military rule anywhere, whether temporary or permanent."

"The history of the country does not furnish a more flagrant breach of official duty, as well as official propriety than that presented by Wood."

"The present controversy over Cuban reciprocity in Congress serves to illustrate the hypocrisy, as well as the unsoundness, of the whole Republican position on the subject of tariffs."

"There is no justification for the exercise of the power of legislation to make millionaires of one class of people and paupers of another."

"The people want immediate relief from the present high prices extorted from them. That relief can be obtained by the application of a speedy and effectual remedy in the repeal of all tariff duties upon productions controlled by the trusts."

"With the substantial unity that exists upon the fundamental principles of Democratic faith, we may safely appeal to the people, and in view of that satisfactory situation it would be folly to longer divide upon abstract or unreasonable questions."

"We have no criticisms to make of any Democrat in the land. We are excluding no man or set of men from the party councils. We have no test oaths to administer to those who wish to join us. The Democratic doors are wide open."

The object of the club is thus briefly stated by its president, Mr. Robert J. Dowling:

"We have founded this club to promote the best interests of the Democratic party. For that reason we have invited Democrats from all parts of the country to listen to the words of those prominent in their party. We have named this club after that great statesman, Samuel J. Tilden, and this club stands for the political and governmental honesty for which the name of Tilden stands."

Death of Mr. Lambert Adkins.

Mr. Lambert Adkins died about one o'clock Friday morning at his home on East Church Street, of spinal meningitis. His remains will be interred Sunday morning in Parsons cemetery after funeral services in the O. S. Baptist church at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Adkins was about 49 years old. He was a brother of Mr. B. W. B. Adkins of Salisbury, and County Commissioner E. J. Adkins and Mr. John W. Adkins of Spring Hill.

Surviving the deceased are a widow—who is a daughter of Mr. Robert Hitch, and three sons and three daughters, all of whom are now about grown. One son, George Adkins, was in the volunteer army and saw service in the Philippines during the war against Spain. Mr. Adkins was a skilled mechanic and a valued employe of Messrs E. S. Adkins & Co.

Death of John D. Truitt.

Mr. John D. Truitt, for several years a Justice of the Peace of Salisbury, died at eleven o'clock last Monday morning at his home on East Chestnut Street, after a lingering illness from consumption.

Funeral services were held in Wicomico Presbyterian Church Wednesday morning by the pastor, Dr. Reigart, after which the remains were interred in the churchyard.

Deceased was seventy seven years of age and is survived by a widow, two daughters and a son.

For several years Mr. Truitt also acted as pension agent and succeeded in getting several claimants of this county on the pension rolls.

Two More Horsemen.

Two more gentlemen have been very unexpectedly added to the large number of Salisbury horsemen. This interesting fact came about in this way. Mr. George R. Collier, a day or two ago fell owner to a fine (?) black horse, until recently the carriage horse of Dr. Spring. In a reckless moment Dr. S. A. Graham made Mr. Collier a tempting offer for his possession. It was accepted with an alacrity calculated to "stop" the breath of a more venturesome dealer. About the same time Mr. N. T. Fitch, seeking an outlet for some of the cash which will accumulate in a clever lawyer's coffers, purchased an equally fine animal, whereupon Dr. Graham challenged Mr. Fitch to a trotting contest, owners to drive. The date of the race has not been fixed, but it is hoped that this will be one of the Fourth of July attractions.

Diamond Council No. 632, Royal Arcanum, will hold a banquet in Uiman's Opera House next Monday evening, in honor of the 25th Anniversary of Royal Arcanum, which was organized June 23d, 1887, with nine charter members. The receiving committee for the banquet next Monday evening are: Misses Victoria Wallis, Marian Veasey, Edna Gillis, Edna Owens, Lilly Sirman, Ola Day, Ruth Smith, May Sirman, Messrs. Impaired Digestion

May not be all that is meant by dyspepsia now, but it will be if neglected. The uneasiness after eating, fits of nervous headache, sourness of the stomach, and disagreeable belching may not be very bad now, but they will be if the stomach is suffered to grow weaker.

Dyspepsia is such a miserable disease that the tendency to it should be given early attention. This is completely overcome by which strengthens the whole digestive system

My Golly But Didn't Lacy Thoroughgood Sell Clothing and Hats Last Saturday

THERE'S NO USE TALKING—When you come right down to solid facts there's but one store in Salisbury where you can get the right kind of clothing and hats at the right kind of price. It must be so if so many people say so—that's just it—Thoroughgood looks out for your back and pocket book at the same time. If you only knew the kind of clothing that Thoroughgood is selling and only knew the price he's selling it for, you'd never buy clothing anywhere else.

Lacy Thoroughgood's phenomenal selling of clothing this spring is without precedent in the history of Thoroughgood's life. Lacy Thoroughgood has doubled his business of last year. Day after day his store has been packed with buyers. It shows that the people who buy clothing and hats know a thing or two. Nothing can stop the victorious progress of this store. It has won the clothing buyers of this community as no other store has ever done. Thoroughgood is going forward to a greater success than has come to any clothing man in Salisbury. While others are complaining of bad conditions, Thoroughgood is doing a larger business than ever. Thoroughgood is doing it because he gives the people more for their money than it will buy anywhere else. Actual comparison shows that Lacy Thoroughgood undersells other stores in Salisbury. Thoroughgood don't want your money if you don't find this true. Lacy Thoroughgood has got competition on the run and has driven them to desperate straits. Every effort is being made by other clothiers to stem the tide that set in early for Lacy Thoroughgood's store, but they couldn't stop it. They couldn't do the necessary things—sell good clothing so cheaply as Thoroughgood. Thoroughgood does not ask anyone to trade with him unless they can do better. Thoroughgood does not want anyones money who isn't convinced that they are getting more for their money than it will buy anywhere else. Thoroughgood does want every clothing buyer to investigate thoroughly the claims of his store and other stores and compare prices and values. Thoroughgood knows such action will give him the business. It is doing it to a greater extent every day. Thoroughgood's great June sale of clothing, hats, caps, furnishing goods for men, youths, boys and children surpasses any and every sale of apparel ever attempted in this town or any other. The stock which Thoroughgood offers to the public this summer exceeds twenty thousand dollars in value. With this grand stock, and because of Lacy Thoroughgood's policy of strictly cash buying and selling, he is enabled to save clothing buyers many dollars on their purchases. Lacy Thoroughgood does not exaggerate when he says he never had such a grand stock of clothing in his life and is willing to sell it for less money than he ever did. No exaggerations are used by Thoroughgood to draw the crowds and that is why all would-be competitors are left in the lurch while Thoroughgood does a record-breaking business.

Men! what do you think of this? Men! whatever you do, do this: Come to Lacy Thoroughgood for your Clothing, Hats, and Gent's Furnishing Goods. Thoroughgood has $20,000 worth of ready-made Clothing, Hats and Furnishings that have got to go within the next 60 days.

You had better see this immense stock before you buy a dollar's worth of goods anywhere else. Thoroughgood knows what you want and has it ready for you. Thoroughgood sells it very much cheaper than anybody else. Queer, too, that Thoroughgood sells the very best Clothing and Hats and sells them for less than anybody else. Why? Just because he's over-stocked and wants the money—that's why. Men you know this is true, that Lacy Thoroughgood sells the very best clothing that is made, and now Thoroughgood is determined to sell it cheaper than any other store in Salisbury will dare do. Do you know why Lacy Thoroughgood sells so much ready-made clothing? It is easy enough to see why, no matter how little you pay, it is good; good cloth, good linings, good trimmings, good fit. Can't a store buy cheaper the more it buys? Can't a store sell cheaper the more it sells? Of course. Lacy Thoroughgood don't want you to come to his store if you can get better clothes (you can't) or styles (you can't) or lower prices for the quality (you can't). Man, if you don't understand what Lacy Thoroughgood is trying to tell you, come and look and learn. If you will only do that you will never buy clothing anywhere else as long as you live.

A Hard Dose to Swallow.

There's no use talking, when you come right down to solid facts there's but one store in Salisbury where you can get the right kind of Clothing at the right kind of price. That store is Lacy Thoroughgood's. It must be so if so many people say so. Not a day passes that somebody doesn't come to Thoroughgood and say "I've been buying clothes from you for fifteen years and haven't had a cause to utter a word of complaint." Others will say "I've been buying clothes from you ever since I was a boy and am perfectly satisfied." That's just it—a great many of Thoroughgood's customers started to buy from him when they were "knee high to a grasshopper" and because Thoroughgood takes care of their pocket books they have stuck to Thoroughgood through thick and thin. You can understand with such an army rooting for Thoroughgood why he does more business than any other two stores in Salisbury put together. Think of it, men's good suits $2.50, in almost any cloth and color, pattern and style you can think of. Think of it, men's good Suits $10, single and double breasted. Patterns are beautiful and styles are good, everything as right as right can be—fit, cloth, making. No trouble in finding exactly what you want. Think of it, Coat and pants for $5.00—this two piece Suit is a wonder for $5.00, and $6.50 and $8.50 the Suit wouldn't be any more stylish and right if Thoroughgood asked you twice the price. Made of beautiful goods all the latest stripes and checks in greens and browns. The Suits are selling fast, come soon. Men's summer Shirts, by name they are called the Manhattan, the Emery—These are two of the best shirts made in the world. They don't fade—they don't rip—the buttons don't come off. Made pleated and plain bosom and sell at the same price others charge for common shirts. Now for summer underwear for men—Thoroughgood is agent for a French Underwear, called "Bon Bon." It is the lightest weight balbriggan underwear made. It is actually worth $1 for each piece—now marked 50c., all sizes. Those $6.00 Panama Hats for men that Thoroughgood is selling these days are not received with favor by the opposite sex. A woman has always heretofore regarded it as her exclusive privilege to pay that amount of money for a top-piece and consequently it rather jars her when the poor husband comes home wearing a straw hat that he paid Thoroughgood six plunks for and asserts this season she'll have to get along with a dinky 98 cent Sailor. If you don't want to pay $6 00 for a Panama Thoroughgood has 50 cent ones.

PEACH CULTURE.

An Interesting History of the Development of This Delicious Fruit by the Foremost Man in the Business.

In the June number of The World's Work, a monthly magazine published by Doubleday, Page & Co., of New York, appears one of the most interesting articles the Editors ever read on a horticultural subject. It is a history of the development of the peach and peach industry in this country.

The "historian" is the foremost peach grower in the world, James H. Hale, of Connecticut, whose name and fame are known in all parts of this country. He has originated many varieties of peaches, the oldest, but not best, of which is the "Hale's Early."

Believing that many readers of the ADVERTISER will get much pleasure and some profit out of the article, we have concluded to publish it, although, owing to its length it will appear serially, a part of it each succeeding week until all of it is published. The history of Mr. Hale's early life and struggles as told in the article should prove an inspiration to all boys who want to make their own way in life. The first installment of the story follows:

"A little more than thirty years ago when New Jersey and the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and a few counties of Western Michigan, were the centres of commercial peach culture, a few peaches were grown over a wide range of country for home use, while an occasional surplus found its way to local markets, but it was generally conceded that commercial peach-growing on an extended scale was not possible outside the so-called "peach belts" of Michigan, New Jersey, and the Delaware and Maryland peninsulas.

These peaches were marketed in rough crates, boxes, or baskets, too often with inferior specimens in the middle and at the bottom of the package, and only the best on top. Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, and Boston in the East, and Chicago in the West were almost the only markets to receive fruits direct from the orchards and the fruit was distributed to the near-by cities and towns only when a large surplus was received. "The peach season" covered a period of a month or six weeks, from about the 10th of August to the 15th of September. Poor as the peaches were, compared with present standards, most of them sold at good prices, and fortunes were accumulated by orchardists who employed methods were but a trifle better than the average. Competition was less spirited in those days.

But all this is changed now. There are no more "peach belts"; peaches are planted freely in nearly all sections of our great country, except in Maine, Vermont, and the northwestern States beyond the Great Lakes. Georgia, Colorado, California, or Missouri, any one of them, produce more peaches in a single season than the entire peach regions of American did thirty years ago. The "season" extends now from May till November, and Connecticut today is a greater peach producing State than Delaware.

Having had some part in this great development, it may interest and encourage other fruit growers if I tell my little story, which, of necessity must be somewhat personal.

Born and reared on a little Connecticut farm, with a love of fruits inherited from ancestors on both sides, I have among my earliest recollections the seed ingpeach trees along the fence row. The little Red Rarierpe peaches that clustered on these old bushy trees every Sept. were as beautiful as a Crimson Rambler rose of today. One old tree, more sturdy than the rest, and fruiting every year, strongly attracted me, especially after I had learned that it was more than seventy years old. If a tree could fruit like that under such conditions, what might not be hoped for with better varieties and better culture?

My father died in my early boyhood, and mother and children were kept hustling to get a living and keep up the interest on the mortgage. A shovel a spade, and a little old hand-cart were, our only implements. The question of how to start a peach orchard had to give way to the more pressing question of how to get enough to eat from day to day. At twelve years of age I went out to work by the month for a neighboring farmer, and one September day, cutting corn stalks near the top of a high hill overlooking the beautiful valley of the Connecticut, I came across a seedling peach tree, right there in the corn field, loaded down with ripening fruit; rosy red little peaches, sweet and delicious.

Tired and exhausted from the heavy work of handling the corn-stalks, I sat a long time under that tree, eating peaches and dreaming of the peach orchard I would have if I ever got money enough to buy the trees; and I believe that the joy in the thought put such life into me that the extra work I did that afternoon more than made up for the time lost under the peach tree.

Continuing to work out by the month on farms, the fall I was fifteen found me with savings of nearly $100.00 in cash. The winter following was my last at school. I had been reading everything I could get on horticulture, and by spring I was ready to invest my cash in fruit trees and plants. As quick returns must be had, the start was made with strawberries and raspberries. Some cash came in the following June, and then the quarter acre of my beginning was increased to an acre, and later to 4 or 5 acres. Keeping in view my peach dream, the first peach orchard of a few hundred trees was now started, and the next year during the fruiting season a trip was made to Delaware to study varieties and methods. At that time, so far as I know, there was not a commercial peach orchard north of New York, and the following spring, when I planted out an orchard of 8,000 trees, it was the general opinion that the attempt to grow peaches on a commercial scale as far north as central Connecticut was the crazy scheme of an inexperienced youth, and could only result in failure.

Looking over the situation from time to time and hunting up old fruiting trees in neighboring towns, wherever I could find them, it took but a few years to learn that killing of the fruit buds by the extreme cold of winter was the one great danger to be found. I found that side hills and hill tops had a way of sliding the frost off into the lowlands; and by tramping around with a thermometer just at daylight some of the coldest winter mornings, I found temperatures varying all the way from 15° to 20° below zero on the level and in the valleys, while on the hillsides, not over fifty feet above the tube would show from 8° to 12° below, and on the hilltops of 200 or 300 feet elevation, scarcely a mile away, the mercury would register nearly zero.

Here, then, was the place for peaches, if soil and other conditions were right. By straining to the utmost my slender resources and depending upon the berry fields for ready cash to keep the venture going, I managed to secure and plant nearly 10,000 trees in two blocks. I set about leasing what I thought were suitable lands for further development in the early eighties. One block was on land owned by a widow ninety-four years old, who, after signing the lease with her own hand, said, "Now, I am going to live long enough to see this peach orchard in fruit. How long will it take?" When she was told that it would be four or five years at least, possibly longer if the winters were too severe she smiled and said, "Well I will wait to see one crop anyway." Six years later when the first moderate crop came I took the dear old lady, then 100 years old in a low and easy carriage, and drove among the trees. She picked the luscious fruit with her own hands from the bending branches, and was as happy over it as a young girl. On the way home she reminded me of her promise to stay till I had one crop, and then with a twinkle in her bright black little eyes, said: "Does this really count for a full crop, or must I live a year or two longer to fulfill my bargain?" I assured her that this should not count, and I had the pleasure of showing her two full crops after that, and taking tea with her on her 104th birthday; and it was not until six months later that she left us."

Fruit Prospects.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Maryland and Delaware Section, week ending Monday, June 16th, says:

Generally throughout the western and northern-central districts fruit prospects have undergone a further decrease since last report. In the extreme southeastern counties fruit of all kinds is holding well, but in other sections mention is made of continued dropping. Apples will be quite short, but few remaining on the trees in the counties west of the bay. Plums are growing scarcer with the advance of the season, likewise pears, except that fair yields of the latter fruit are looked for in some of the eastern counties. Cherries were killed earlier in the season by frosts in the extreme west, while farther east light yields are now being received. The outlook for peaches has been slightly reduced during the week in the southeastern districts, where heretofore they have been fairly promising, while in the western shore counties and in the mountain districts the yields are expected to be considerably below average.

The range of the seventeen year locust is restricted to the counties of the western shore; the eastern shore, Cecil County alone excepted, has been free of these pests. In Washington County and others nearby locusts are reported to be dying in large numbers. Much damage is reported to have been done to shrubbery and the young and tender twigs of many trees, especially those of the peach.

New Rule of Living.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper McIntyre, who died in Philadelphia a few days ago at the age of 102 years, gave these as her rules for long living: "Be honest and don't worry." "Marry early and save money." "Love breeds happiness." "Keep at work and don't drink." "A rich girl can be happy with a poor husband if she really loves him." "Eat plenty, sleep long, and don't bother." "When you feel like crying—laugh."

Was Sick Eight Years with Female Trouble and Finally Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have never in my life given a testimonial before, but you have done so much for me that I feel called upon to give you this unsolicited acknowledgement of MRS. JENNIE E. O'DONNELL, President of Oakland Woman's Riding Club, the wonderful curative value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For eight years I had female trouble, falling of the womb and other complications. During that time I was more or less of an invalid and not much good for anything, until one day I found a book in my hall telling of the cures you could perform. I became interested; I bought a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was helped; I continued its use and in seven months was cured, and since that time I have had perfect health. Thanks, dear Mrs. Pinkham, for the health I now enjoy."

Mrs. Jennie O'Donnell, 278 East 31st St., Chicago, Ill. — $5000 forfeit if above testimonial is not genuine.

Useful to Know.

A few slices of orange in a cream of tomato soup just before serving will improve its flavor.

A little salt added to an egg cools it, and the egg consequently beats into a froth more quickly.

To make a good, digestible pie crust, use cream instead of lard, and it will be light and healthful.

A lump of gum camphor placed in the clothes press will keep the steel ornaments from tarnishing.

For cuts, use vitae ore or alum water to stop the blood, and draw together with narrow strips of court plaster.

Keep your piano open on bright days, and if possible let the sun shine upon the keys, as this will keep them from turning yellow.

When you iron embroidery, fold a Turkish bath towel several times and lay under it on the ironing table and iron on the wrong side.

If you want a nice syrup for cooking, buy hogshead sugar, add water to make it the desired thickness, boil, skim and strain. It is much cheaper and better than molasses.

Wash flatirons occasionally with warm water, to every two quarts of which has been added half a table spoonful of melted lard. Wipe thoroughly, and set in a warm spot till perfectly dry.

Sweet potatoes are much richer twice cooked. Baked or boiled merely this vegetable is good, but when the baking or boiling is followed by a subsequent cooking in the pan or in the oven they are far better.

Eggs may be kept perfectly fresh a long time (some authorities say as long as a year) by dipping them into a solution of two ounces of gum arabic in a pint of cold water and packing them (dried) in powdered charcoal.

Silk pocket handkerchiefs should be washed by themselves. Put them to soak in cold water for an hour or two; then wash them in water, soaping them as they are washed. If the stains have not then disappeared, wash through a second water of the same description. When finished, they should be rinsed in cold, soft water in which a handful of common salt has been dissolved; then rinse again in water containing a little bluing.—Phila. Times.

Our Dead Presidents.

A bill was introduced in the House of Representatives last week appropriating $100,000 to remove the remains of all the deceased Presidents of the United States, excepting those of George Washington, from their respective resting places to the National Cemetery at Arlington, near Washington, as soon as the consent of the descendants or legal representatives of the deceased Presidents can be obtained. The removal is to be made under the direction of a commission, to consist of the Governors of the several States where the remains are now interred, together with three other persons to be appointed by the President. The bill provides that the reinterment at Arlington shall be accompanied by imposing ceremonies.

Jail's Tiniest Prisoner.

The Mercer County Jail, N. J., holds the tiniest prisoner ever committed to its fastness. She is Emma Jane Taylor, and her age at the time of her commitment was a half-minute. The child was born on Monday to Bertha Taylor, who is serving a three months' sentence for larceny, and the Jailor informed the County Physician that it would be illegal to keep the newcomer in the prison over night without a formal commitment.

To separate mother and child meant anguish for the former and possibly death for the latter. This was too much for the kind-hearted physician, and assuming the authority of a Magistrate Emma Jane Taylor was quickly entered upon the roll of prisoners. Mother and child are doing well.—Ex.

Never for Boys.

Never cheat or be unfair in your play. Chatting is contemptible anywhere at any age.

Never be cruel. Cruelty is the trait of a bully; kindness the mark of a gentleman.

Never call anybody bad names. You cannot throw mud and keep your own hands clean.

Never lie. What is your opinion of a liar? Do you wish other people to have a like opinion of yourself?

Never make fun of old age; no matter how decrepit, or unfortunate, or evil it may be. God's hand rests lovingly on the aged head.

Never quarrel. When your tongue gets unruly, lock it in—if need be, bite it. Never suffer it to advertise your bad temper.

Never make comrades of boys who are continually doing and saying evil things. A boy, as well as a man, is known by the company he keeps.

Letter to A. U. Toadvine & Son.

Dear Sir: Your business, in which a house burns down, to give the owner some money to build a new one. It is a good business. Queer that the world got on so long without it.

We paint the one burnt down and the new one too. What is better, we paint the houses that don't burn down.

You insure the houses that burn; you insure the houses that don't. You have the ashes and smoke; all the houses are ours.

We paint lead and zinc; Devco. We sell the paint to painters; we don't paint.

Lead and oil is the old-fashion paint. Devco is zinc ground in with lead and linseed oil—same proportions as used by U. S. Government; the best paint in the world; and the cheapest, because the work is all done by machinery.

Nobody wants poor paint; there's lots of it though, in the world.

Yours truly
F. W. Devco & Co.

P. S. L. W. Gunby sells our paint.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by R. K. Truitt & Son.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

S. Artlin: proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores; vanishes Bitters 50c, Salve 25c at all Druggists.

Just Wait.

"Hello, Charley, I haven't seen you since I was married," said a newly married man to a friend he chanced to meet down on Main street.

"No," replied the friend, "you have been so devoted to home of late that no one has seen you."

"Yes; I don't hang around like I used to."

"You are just like I was," said the other, who had been married for some years, "just found the society of the wife enough, eh?"

"Yes; we do not tire of each other." "Just like I was I suppose when you think it will never change, eh? Just always will be the same, I suppose?"

"I don't think I will change." "Just like I was, I suppose she has not asked you for a $50 suit when you only had $25 the day before payday?"

"No of course," and he turned on his heel and walked off down the street.—Salt Lake Herald.

Saved From an Awful Fate.

"I was so low after six months of severe sickness, caused by Hay Fever and Asthma, that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvelous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, used it, and was completely cured." For desperate Throat and Lung Diseases it is the safest cure in the world, and is infallible for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. How To Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the summer is over and if procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by R. K. Truitt & Sons.

A special dispatch from Easton says: While crabs are scarce, the trotline crabbers are doing a profitable business. Last week single crabbers made as much as $35. There is no money in it yet, however, for the crab-packers, as they cannot get enough to run a profitable force, and prices for stock are so high there is very little profit in the meat. The early crop of soft crabs is an absolute failure.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers; they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle by mail. Home of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

As there is a spiritual law in the natural world so there is a natural law in the spiritual world.

The seeds of the flesh by the inexorable law of the fields can only produce the harvests of the flesh.

This statement is an axiom, a self evident fact. So self evident is the law that the seeds which are planted only produce harvests after their kind that a United States agricultural department has been established, the chief purpose of which is to introduce into the different localities the right kind of seeds for the best development of the different kinds of crops.

The official head of this department is a member of the president's cabinet. Every year at public expense thousands of seed packages are scattered over the country. Each congressman has an allotment for gratuitous distribution among his rural constituents.

As there is a spiritual law in the natural world so there is a natural law in the spiritual world. And the sower to the flesh has no more right to expect to reap the harvest of the sower to the spirit than a farmer has a right to expect to gather a crop of barley from wheat seeds or a crop of oats from corn seeds or a crop of rye from cotton seeds or a crop of potatoes from muskmelon seeds. Any sinner who is trying to argue himself into a different spiritual belief is not only mocking God, but making himself ridiculous.

Elou Foster tells us that one day a sinful Roman master told his Christian slave to go into a certain field and sow a crop of barley. When the time of harvest came, the master returned to that field and found there a harvest of oats ready to be garnered. In indignation he called his slave and asked: "Did I not command you to sow here a field of barley? Why, then, have ye sown oats?" The Christian slave answered, "Master, I sowed out seed in the hope that they would grow up into barley." His master gruffly said: "What foolishness is this? Has ever any one heard that oat seeds will produce a harvest of barley?" "Ah, master," replied the Christian slave, "you yourself are constantly sowing in the world the seed of evil, and yet you expect to reap in the resurrection day the fruits of virtue. Therefore I thought also that I might get barley by sowing oats." And the sinful master was ashamed and could not answer a word.

"A Few Wild Oats." Go where you will you will find that the sower to the flesh always reaps a harvest of corruption. Sit with the judge upon the bench, and he will tell you that the young man standing before him for sentence did not think that the seeds of sin which he planted in secret would ever take root and begin to sprout. He did not think that his sowing a few "wild oats" would ever cause his downfall. Yet God was watching him sow those seeds. His employers were watching him. Almost every large business house in the great cities has spies detailed to follow the tracks of its employees. So when the money disappeared from the safe the detectives naturally hunted up the young man who spent his Sundays at the races, the one whose companions were not what they ought to have been. They naturally came to that young man and put the hands of the law upon his shoulder, saying: "Come, young man, the convict's cell awaits you. Come!" Charles Stewart Farnell was one of the keenest, shrewdest, most farseeing parliamentarians Ireland ever produced. For years alone and single handed, he fought the British parliament. But Charles Stewart Farnell, genius though he might have been, was not able to destroy the harvest of his secret sin. How, then, can the ordinary young man who has sown the evil seeds hope to be declared guiltless when Charles Stewart Farnell had to reap from the flesh a harvest of corruption? The physician in the sickroom will teach you that the sower of the flesh always reaps the corruption of the flesh. Upon the bed of suffering lies an invalid. He may pray, he may groan, he may promise to do right in the future, but the physician says: "No, my friend; good intentions do not eradicate the physical wrongs of the past. You must reap the seeds of gluttony, the seeds which once sparkled in the wine cup, the seeds of late hours, the seeds of the defiance of moral laws. Dying man, you must reap the harvest of the sins of the flesh which you have sown." Stand with the minister in his pulpit, and he will tell you that though a man may repent of his sins he must up to the grave's edge suffer from his past misdeeds. God may forgive the sinner and all the results of the past evil may cease when the sinner robes himself in the white garments of the redeemed, but all through the remainder of the sinner's earthly career he must suffer for the evil which he has done. The minister will tell you that one of the saddest sights of Christian work is to see an old man who has been converted at the eleventh hour hobbling along upon his cane through the harvests of corruption which surround him everywhere. He stumbles through the harvests which have come from the seeds of his own planting. Inexorable Laws of the Fields. The seeds of the flesh by the inexorable laws of the fields are expected to produce more of a harvest than the original seeds which have been sown. It would be folly for the farmer to sow 500 kernels of corn if he could only receive in return half a dozen ears of corn; to plant twenty or thirty pens if he could gather in return but a few pods, or to labor at all if for every planted seed there would come up only one kernel in return. But when the farmer has a small bag of wheat seed he says to himself: "Now, if I properly plow and harrow the ground and plant those seeds right I will be able to gather a whole field of golden grain. One of my seeds will be able to reproduce itself many, many times." Benjamin Franklin once said that the reproductive power, the prolificness of vegetable life, is simply inconceivable and without limit. We all remember Daniel De Foë's story of the shipwrecked sailor. He found half a dozen small wheat seeds. From those few seeds he was able to develop all the wheat he wanted, both for himself and his negro servant. It would be a happy solution to the sinner if when he sowed one evil seed he should get back only one evil result. But that is not the way the harvests of the flesh grow. One evil seed will become the parent of many evil seeds, the grandparent of a host of evil seeds and the great-grandparent of a lifetime of evil harvests. A sower into the flesh always reaps more corruption than he expected to gather. A notorious pirate was hanged in New York city about a century ago. Just before his execution he testified that the first time he murdered a man his horror and remorse were so great that he could not sleep for weeks. But after this monster had continued to wet his lips with human blood he declared that he could drive his sword into the heart of a woman or a little child with no more compunction than he would bury his teeth in a piece of bread. He would sleep as peacefully after murdering a ship's crew as when a babe he closed his eyes in his mother's arms. The first lie is the difficult lie to tell, not the tenth, not the twentieth, not the fiftieth. It is the first glass of whisky which the drunkard takes just before he enters the repulsive inhabited dungeons of delirium tremens. It is the first seed of sin which is hard to sow, not the fiftieth nor the one hundredth. And each one of the tares sown in able to reproduce itself in evil habits a millionfold. A sower always expects to reap more than he plants. And if the evil results of tares planting are so awful in reference to our own lives how much more awful must be the results when we plant those tares in the lives of others. A woman who had talked unjustly against her neighbors once went to a priest for confession. After she told the priest the evil she had done her neighbors she asked him what she should do to undo the wrong. The priest gave her a handful of nettle seeds and bade her go and scatter those nettle seeds over a field and then come back to him. After the woman had done as she was told she came back to the priest. "Now," said the priest, "go and gather those nettle seeds up again." "Oh," said the woman, "I cannot." "Neither," answered the priest, "can you ever undo the wrongs which you have done against your neighbors." A awful must be the remorse when a converted man realizes that by his sinful sowing he has developed a harvest of corruption in the hearts of his neighbors. If he has planted there the evil seeds, some of

By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago

Chicago, June 15.—The inevitable results of wrongdoing are forcibly described in the following sermon by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage from the text Galatians vi, 8, "He that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption."

Some familiar texts are like powerful tonics. They have a snap and strength which we do not always find in the water of life when it is held in strange and peculiarly labeled bottles. They are like the lullabies with which we were sung to sleep in childhood. They have been repeated over and over again by the lips of our departed loved ones, so that each word is made sacred by holy associations. Every time we speak them it seems as though these words were the ushers welcoming us into the vestibule of the church in which the service was held when we gave our hearts to God. Or these texts are associated with the sermons of some famous minister, which we have either read or heard.

But though many great preachers have spoken from this text and though many holy associations gather around its words yet I would fain speak upon it for two reasons: First, because I am passionately fond of the country. Therefore any text which has in it the figure of the sower and the reaper, any simile which is scented with the smell of the new mown hay or of the clover tops, any figure which echoes the song of the wood robin or the call of the nightingale, any text which is glit with the golden colors of the wheat fields or reddened with the hectic flush of the autumn leaf, has for me an intense and suggestive fascination. My heart never beats more exultantly than when it is keeping time to the music of the mowing machine or to the wish of the swinging scythe.

The second reason why I speak from this text today is because the spring-time of the year, when the American sower went forth to sow, is only a few weeks past. The plows only a short time ago had the rust of many months rubbed off their sharp noses. The harrow's teeth are yet white from chewing and breaking the sods. And the sower, with his bag of seed hanging upon one arm and his handful of seed swinging at the end of the other arm, only a short time ago, with measured tread, went across the fields, scattering the seeds to the right and to the left. May God help us to teach the lessons of the sinner's retribution in the language of the spring plowing.

The seeds of the flesh by the inexorable law of the fields can only produce the harvests of the flesh. This statement is an axiom, a self evident fact. So self evident is the law that the seeds which are planted only produce harvests after their kind that a United States agricultural department has been established, the chief purpose of which is to introduce into the different localities the right kind of seeds for the best development of the different kinds of crops. A awful must be the remorse when a converted man realizes that by his sinful sowing he has developed a harvest of corruption in the hearts of his neighbors. If he has planted there the evil seeds, some of them will come up. The natural and spiritual laws are the same.

Harvest Comes Sooner or Later. The seeds of the flesh do not necessarily produce the harvests of the flesh instantaneously. A long time may intervene between the time of planting and of reaping. Twice during the year the farmer goes forth to sow. There is the spring planting. Then the rye, the barley, the oat seed is scattered. Then the corn seed is placed in the ground. Then the timothy seed is thrown over the field, so that the farm stock can have hay during the winter months. Hardly are these seeds placed in the ground than the spring showers make the little tender sprouts come up. Then the fields everywhere are carpeted with green.

But there is a fall planting as well as a spring planting. Just before the summer birds migrate to the south in order to escape the blizzards and the howling of the winter storms the farmer goes forth and scatters his wheat seed. These seeds lie dormant under the snows during the long December, January, February and March months. If any gravedigger on his way to exhume a Yorick's skull should stop and drive his pick into that wheatfield and examine those seeds, he might think they were as dead as the king's fester. But when spring comes those wheat seeds which have lain dormant so long are aroused by the blast of the spring's resurrection. And a wonderful fact about nature's laws is that the deeper the snows, the longer the winter and the longer those wheat seeds lie dormant the stronger and more virile is the grain when it begins to grow.

So some of the tares or the sins of the flesh which we have sown in the past may seem to take a very long time in developing. We may think because we have sinned and never yet been punished and have kept on sinning five hundred, a thousand, ten thousand times that we never will be punished, that we never shall have to gather our harvests of corruption. But we will! As the Lord God Omnipotent liveth we will! Christ in the parable of the tares explicitly states this fact. As the householder he bade his servants let the tares continue to grow by the side of the wheat, but when the reapers come they will first gather the tares into bundles and destroy them. Sinner, do not deceive yourself. God is not mocked. Do not think because the day of retribution has been postponed that the seeds of the flesh are dead when they are merely dormant. As the long delayed wheat harvest is the strongest harvest, so the longer the punishment of the sins of the flesh is postponed the greater and the more awful will be the harvests of corruption.

sow to the Spirit Now. But, my sinful friend, even with all your sinful past, is that right? Is that what Christ would have you do? If you had a wayward boy, and he had run away from home and trampled upon your bleeding heart for many years, would you want him to stay away and die hardened against you and bitter merely because he had been sinful and wayward? No! If you knew where he was dying today, you would take the very first train to him. You would go, if necessary, without even a change of garments. You would walk up and down the train while it was in motion, because your anxiety would not let you sit still, and you would rush into the hospital and rush to the ward and throw yourself by his bed just to give him a kiss of love and pardon. So Jesus today begs you to live for him and come to him. My brother, will you let the cross be the plow to change your heart? Will you take the good seed in your hand and go forth to sow to the Spirit, so that you may reap life everlasting? When John Todd was lying upon his dying bed, he had a strange vision. An angel seemed to lead him up and up until the dying man stood upon the heights of a great mountain. Then the angel asked him, "Dying man, dost thou see anything?" And as John Todd shaded his eyes to look he saw away off in the distance a fiend incarnate. The face of that fiend had upon it the look of unutterable woe. The features were so hideous and the sufferings of this lost spirit were so great that John Todd hid his face in his hands, crying: "Enough, enough! I cannot look any longer. Then the angel turned and said: "That lost spirit, O dying man, would have been your own had not your soul been cleansed by the blood of the Lamb." Then the angel of the Lord said, "Look, O dying man, look!" And as John Todd lifted his eyes again, behold, there was seen another spirit. It was garmented with a robe as white as the driven snow. The eyes were as loving as the purest love could express. The lips were moving in joyful praise. The hands were clasped about the figure of a cross. Then again spake the angel of the Lord, "Dying man, that is to be your redeemed spirit, your spirit cleansed by Christ's blood, your spirit which shall never die." Then John Todd awoke. He said he knew not whether he had seen a vision or had been talking face to face with Christ. So, like John Todd's vision, this sermon teaches two lessons: The one points down the road over which are dragged the tares that are to be burned in the everlasting fires. The other points down the road over which the sheaves of wheat are triumphantly carried into the gospel granaries. May the prayers of our loved ones and the sacrifice of Christ plead prevailingly with us not to sow corruption, but life everlasting. Yet all human beings are free agents to do as they will. They can accept or reject Christ. They can gather either harvest. "For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." [Copyright, 1902, Louis Kloosch, N. GIANT STRIKE PROBABLE

President Mitchell Issued Call For National Miners Convention.

MAY INVOLVE SOFT COAL MEN

Should Convention Vote For General Strike, Nearly 500,000 Men Would Be Rendered Idle and the Industries of the Country Paralyzed.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 19.—The long-expected call for a special national convention of the United Mine Workers of America was issued yesterday by National President Mitchell at strike headquarters, to be held at Indianapolis on July 17. The time for the convention was fixed by W. B. Wilson, national secretary at Indianapolis, who has charge of the machinery by which a convention is arranged.

The meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing the advisability of involving all the soft coal miners in the United States in the struggle now going on in the anthracite coal fields. The call for the convention was made by five districts, the West Virginia and Michigan, bituminous districts, and the three anthracite districts of Pennsylvania.

If the delegates should decide to inaugurate a national suspension of coal mining it would have a disastrous effect on the industries of the country. The supply of coal would become so short that large and small industrial establishments would be compelled to suspend operations and many railroads would also seriously suffer. There are approximately about 450,000 coal miners in the United States. Of these about 350,000, Mr. Mitchell says, are affiliated with the union, and an additional 50,000 comply with the legislation of the miners' organization. The anthracite delegates will go into the convention with 142,000 striking hard coal miners at their backs for a general strike. The West Virginia delegates will have approximately 25,000 miners behind them for a strike, and in Michigan, where the union has been having trouble, the delegates will also be instructed for a national suspension. Central Pennsylvania will contribute a certain number of delegates who will want a general strike, as will also Kentucky. It remains for Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana to offset this, as it is unofficially understood that the miners in those sections are not very enthusiastic for a general stoppage of coal production. Central Pennsylvania, with its 45,000 soft coal miners, practically holds the balance of power between the districts which are on strike and those in which peace prevails.

It is not unlikely that the conservative men in the convention will be able to prevent a general suspension and carry through the convention some sort of a compromise. One plan that is talked of is to have only the Central Pennsylvania and West Virginia men help the anthracite workers, and another plan is to have all the soft coal miners work only a certain number of days each week. Failing to gain anything by either of these two moves, then, as a final card, stop the production altogether.

CANNOT IMPORT MINERS

Only Way Collieries Can Start is By Break in Strikers' Rank.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., June 18.—The general strike situation remains unchanged. The miners report that more men came out, and the coal company officials, on the contrary, claimed that they are increasing their forces around the collieries. Some of these men are used in the fire rooms and at the pumps, and others were engaged to do guard duty.

There is a persistent rumor afloat that non-union men will be brought into the coal fields to mine coal. This cannot be done, because practically all the anthracite miners in the country are located in this region, and all are on strike. New men cannot take their places, because under the laws of Pennsylvania no man can be employed as a miner without having first obtained a certificate showing that he has had two years' experience at anthracite mining. These certificates are issued by examining boards, composed of miners appointed by the president judge of each county in which anthracite coal is produced. The only way the companies can start their collieries is by a break in the ranks of the strikers. At present there is no sign that such a thing will happen.

Rev. F. T. Little, D. D. President of Maryland Annual Conference, M. P. Church, preached at Friendship on Sunday last to a large number of persons. Dr. Little was pastor of this circuit thirty years ago, and while many new faces were in the congregation yet some of his old members and friends were present to greet him on this, his first visit.

Strawberries are a thing of the past for this year, and we are now turning our attention to huckleberries, which crop seems to be short. The rain of Monday was much needed, and did a great deal in way of reviving vegetation.

Rev. Frank S. Cain spent last week at the commencement of his Alma Mater, Western Maryland College, Westminster, Md.

Mrs. V. S. Hayman left on Monday of this week to attend the commencement of the Episcopal High School of Alexandria, Va., where her brother will be one of the graduates.

The Ladies Aid Society have decided to serve supper on July 4th., for the small sum of 25 cents. All are cordially invited to be present and enjoy the afternoon and evening with us.

Mrs. S. H. Pusey returned to her home, Belle Haven, Va., on Saturday last.

New Jail for Somerset.

The Commissioners of Somerset county, on Tuesday last, contracted with the B. F. Smith Fire Proof Construction Company, of Washington, D. C., for a new jail to take the place of the one destroyed by fire on March 19th. The structure will be fire-proof, fifty by fifty feet, two stories high, with stone walls and slate roof. The girders will be of steel and the floors concrete. Three Bessemer steel cages will be put in, and one Pauly tool proof cage—the latter will be used for unruly prisoners. A part of the old stone will be utilized. The contract price, complete, is $7,300. This includes heating arrangement, plumbing, bedding and everything pertaining to the furnishing of the prison. The jail is to be finished and turned over to the Commissioners not later than the first of October, 1902. The county will get $1,500 from the company in which the old jail was insured, and this will bring the outlay for the new jail down to $5,700. Mr. Jerome J. Lankford, a native of this county, but now of Virginia, will superintend the work.

Angry, Shot Himself.

Daniel W. Fitzgerald, son of George W. Fitzgerald, of Widgeon, Somerset county, committed suicide last Tuesday at his father's residence by shooting himself in the head with a breech-loading gun. The testimony before the coroner's jury showed that young Fitzgerald had frequently before threatened to shoot himself when angry. That morning he appeared to be in a bad frame of mind, and when spoken to by his father went into the front hall of the residence and, bolting the door behind him, shot himself in the head with the gun. The entire load penetrated his head, blowing one-half of it to atoms. The jury returned a verdict that the deceased committed suicide by shooting himself in the head intentionally and feloniously. State's Attorney Henry J. Waters conducted the inquest for the State before the Coroner.

MOBS RULED PATERSON

Two Men Fatally Shot and Many Injured in Silk Mill Riots.

TROUBLE MADE BY ANARCHISTS

After Bombarding Several Mills, Mob Engaged in Pitched Battle With Police, and Were Only Dispersed After All Mills Were Closed.

Pateron, N. J., June 19.—This city was in the hands of a mob yesterday, and as a result of the riots a number of persons were shot, and two at least will die. The police did their work well, but they were so few in number that they could make little headway against the mob. Mills were wrecked with stones and bullets by the striking silk dyers' helpers or roughs acting for them. There were threats to resort to the torch, but so far the mayor hesitates about asking Governor Murphy for troops.

There seems to be every indication that the riot was the result of a pre-arranged plan to involve the would-be peaceful element in the affair from the start. Agents of anarchist circles have been quietly fanning the flames.

The mob rushed down the street to Bamford Brothers' mill in Cliff street. Here Patrolmen Robinson, Sweetman, Keyes and Detective Magie had taken a stand. The four faced the mob for five minutes, telling them that the employees had gone out by the rear and that the works were closed down. Some one threw a brick through a window, and stones rained against the side of the mill and the windows in a perfect shower. From the mill volleys were hurled at the officers, and all four were struck several times. A section of the mob made for the Bamford home close by. The police sought to head them off, and did so, but a shot was fired, and a bullet went through Robinson's right arm. It staggered him, and as he was regaining his feet a jagged rock hit him on the head, laying open his scalp. Supported by his comrades, Robinson was taken to the Bamford home. The remaining three drove back the mob from the house.

The Hall mill, which shelters four silk working firms, was the next point of attack. A single policeman guarded the main entrance. He was ordered to stand aside and on refusing was attacked. He drew his revolver and began to fire. Lora Salvino, an Italian, received the first bullet, which penetrated both lungs. The mob drew back and the officer retained his post in the doorway. Several shots were fired at him, but none took effect. He replied, firing directly into the crowd until his weapon was empty, when five more uniformed men and one in plain clothes came on a run to his aid. The mob kept on firing and the officers charged, firing when the strikers broke and ran. No doubt that several of the rioters were hurt.

The shooting seemed to scatter the rioters, but it was not long before a dense mob had formed again, this time about the Gaede mill, where there was a crowd of 2,000. The mill was bombarded and before the mob stopped there was not a whole window in the building. Harry Harris, a reporter, was at this point. He was armed with a revolver and had a camera with which he attempted to take pictures, standing on a stoop a short distance down the street. His act of training the camera was seen and he was warned to desist. A moment later a rain of stones fell about him and he was knocked down. As he fell men rushed on him and he was kicked and beaten. He drew his revolver and tried to use it, but it jammed and was kicked from his hand. A man grabbed it and fired at Harris, the bullet entering his chest. He has a slight chance of recovery. By this time the mill was emptied of the operatives and this practically ended the rioting, after all the mills had closed down.

During the day from time to time the wounded were carried to the hospital. Besides those whose names can be given it is certain that many more were hurt. The anarchists, who seemed to be in command, openly threatened that a policeman's life would pay for each wounded rioter.

Swindled 3,400 Women.
Charlotte, N. C., June 19.—Dr. Frank Bright, his father, Rev. T. Bright, C. D. Wilkie, a newspaper man, and G. W. Rollins, C. C. Watkins, M. C. Padgett and C. G. Geer, who were tried in the federal court in this city on a charge of defrauding 3,400 women out of $50,000 or more by an endless chain swindle, known as the "Cherry Tree" case, were told by Judge Boyd that they would not be sent to the penitentiary if they would make restitution to the women. The judge decided that the men must pay into the court by October $12,000, which will be given to the women.

Preacher Rejects D. D. Title.
Chicago, June 18.—The Rev. John Thompson, pastor of Centennial M. E. Church, Rockford, Ill., has declared that he will never use the title of doctor of divinity, which was conferred on him last week by Taylor University. "The question," he said, "is not one to be settled by a decision as to whether the school is big enough, but whether the man is big enough."

Brother and Sister Drowned.
Gettysburg, Pa., June 18.—Dewey, aged four years, and Irene, aged 12 years, children of Jeremiah Small, were drowned near Hendricks Station, this county, by falling into an abandoned stone quarry. The boy fell into the water, and his sister in attempting to rescue him got beyond her depth and

New York and Chicago.

The two great cities of New York and Chicago contain about one-twelfth of the population of the population of the entire country. They transact more than one-seventh of the business and control nearly one half of the total wealth.

Interesting comparisons of these two great cities, based upon the census of 1900, are made by the Chicago Record-Herald. New York upon its 209,318 acres has 2,437,203 population; Chicago has 1,698,575 on 115,164 acres. Chicago has 4,151 miles of streets against New York's 2,519, but Chicago has 2,838 miles unpaved. New York has 6,729 acres of park area, more than three times that of Chicago. In street railways New York has 1,258 miles, about 200 more than Chicago. New York spends on streets $188 per capita, Chicago only 52 cents per capita.

New York has 9,619 school rooms, or more than twice the number in Chicago; 9,228 teachers and a school attendance of 265,314, compared to 199,795 for Chicago. New York spends for schools $16,293,656, or more than twice as much as Chicago. New York has 33,220 recorded marriages, against 10,898 for Chicago. In births New York's 81,721 are almost three times the Chicago figures. The death rate per thousand is 20.619 for New York and 14.683 for Chicago.

The assessed valuation of New York is $3,654,132,193; that of Chicago is less than one twelfth as great, being $276,565,880. New York receives in income from 10,823 saloons $5,674,710; Chicago from 6,395 saloons gets $3,174,003. The total public income in New York is $104,307,884, and in Chicago $26,867,738. Chicago's debt is $32,989,819, New York's more than eight times that sum; Chicago can never have a great debt, because its borrowing limit is 5 per cent on the assessed value, while New York's is 10 per cent.

Cambridge Election.

Cambridge, Md., June 18.—An exciting town election was held in Cambridge for Town Commissioners today, and resulted as follows:

R. G. Henry, Democrat, First ward, no opposition. T. E. Kerr defeated Edward S. Phillips by three votes, both Republicans. John B. Roselle, Democrat defeated James H. Hubbard, Republican, by 83 votes. J. H. Waller, Republican, defeated George T. Johnson, Democrat, by 23 votes. H. M. St. Clair defeated Douglas Holland by 40 votes, both Republicans.

Although there are three Republicans and two Democrats in the board, yet Robert G. Henry, Democrat, the present Mayor, will be re-elected.

The hottest contest was in the Third ward between Kerr, independent Republican, and Phillips, a regular Republican. Last year Mr. Kerr was largely instrumental in defeating Mr. Phillips appeared as a candidate for reelection to the Town Board Mr. Kerr determined to run against him. This defeat was largely assisted by Democratic votes.

Afraid of J. P. Morgan.

Mr. Henry J. Bowdoin, vice president of the Maryland Trust Company, who recently returned from a trip to Europe, said yesterday there is general talk on the other side of the Atlantic about J. Pierpont Morgan getting control of English steamship lines and his other big deals. The people are apprehensive, he said, that Mr. Morgan's influence will extend to other industries there and many funny songs and sayings are gotten off on him.

Among the comic hits, Mr. Bowdoin said, he found stockbrokers and others with cards pinned to the lapel of their coats, upon which was printed, "Please permit the bearer to walk about the earth.—Pierpont."—Baltimore Sun.

Use Paris Green.

John C. Lewis, city forester of Philadelphia, says he is prepared to fight the 17-year locusts and as far as the city squares and parks are concerned he has no fears for the result. "As soon as the locusts appear," he said, "we will begin to spray all the plants and trees in all the squares and parks with a solution of paris green. This, if used judiciously, will destroy the pests. I advise all persons who have gardens to use the same solution that we propose to use. Take one pound of paris green and dissolve it in 200 gallons of water, or proportionately, and spray it on all bushes and trees when the locusts show themselves. A hand syringe can be used with good results, or a small air pump such as is used by a florist."

If The Baby Is Cutting Teeth.

Be sure and use that old and well tried remedy, Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP, for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Kindness To Animals.

One of the highest and noblest tendencies of modern civilization is evidenced by its pleadings for kindness to the dumb animals which Providence created for the pleasure, the profit, and the protection of man.

Be it said to the honor of our instincts, our education, and our country, the instances of wanton cruelty to animals, such as arise from the dark passions of a diabolical mind, or the lack of sympathy of a coarse grained, sordid nature, are comparatively rare. Yet there exists a large class of cases of cruelty to animals that arises from ignorance of the effect of certain modes of treatment, and an undervaluation of the degree of sensibility of the animal.

However, the object of the Humane Society is the same in both cases, i. e., the prevention of cruelty, no matter what form it takes, or what its origin. But the remedy is different. In the one case, the Society must rescue the animal and punish the offender; in the other, a process of education must be systematically followed.

Begin the campaign by organizing societies wherever the soil promises growth, in the schools, in the churches, and in every city, town and village. Get the young people thoroughly interested. Raise funds and apply them to the dissemination of appropriate literature, to the purchase of food, shelter, and equipment, for the protection and amelioration of the condition of such animals as the society must needs care for. Petition the State and National legislatures for the enactment of salutary laws to further the good purpose.

In short, let it be the aim of the Society to create a strong public sentiment against all forms of maltreatment of animals, and a new era will gradually dawn for the long-suffering, ill-requited work animal, the faithful personal protector, the dog, and all the various creatures that minister to the amusement of mankind.

MR. HUMPHREYS ENDORSED.

Congressman Jackson Decides To Recommend Him For Postmaster—His Appointment Seems Assured—Coming Fight in the Primaries.

One of the most exciting contests ever held over a postmastership in the state of Maryland seems to have culminated on Tuesday last in the selection of Mr. M. A. Humphreys as the next postmaster of Salisbury. A meeting of the Republican State Central Committee of this county was held on that day and after thoroughly going over the matter of the selection of a candidate to be presented to the President, it was found that the committee stood two for Adkins and two for Humphreys, Hon. W. H. Jackson and Mr. W. H. Knowles being for Humphreys and Messrs. E. S. Adkins and E. S. S. Turner being for Adkins. Mr. Knowles was not present at the meeting, but it was understood that he was in sympathy with Mr. Humphreys and that he has since signed his application.

Mr. Jackson will now recommend Mr. Humphreys and it is thought his appointment will be made, although the friends of Mr. Adkins have not given up the fight and are now in Washington to solicit Senator McComas' aid in behalf of their candidate. It has been claimed all along by the Adkins people that McComas was backing them in their fight and at the proper time would show his hand.

Thursday's Baltimore American has the following relative to the Post Office fight in this city: "Congressman Jackson will visit the Postoffice Department tomorrow and file with the Postmaster General the papers indorsing M. A. Humphreys for appointment as postmaster at Salisbury. Mr. Jackson will not only indorse Mr. Humphreys' application and papers, but will ask that the President appoint Mr. Humphreys as postmaster to succeed Postmaster Adkins, who has held the office for the last four years.

This will end one of the most exciting contests for postmaster in Maryland cities that has taken place for some years. Mr. Adkins was an applicant for reappointment and made a hard fight for the place. Mr. Humphreys, who is a nephew of Congressman Jackson's wife, is a young man, and has also made a good and a winning fight. Both men tried to secure Mr. Jackson's indorsement some time ago, but he decided that it should be left to the Republican patrons of the Salisbury Postoffice. He decided that whoever secured the largest number of signatures to his petition and secured the indorsement of the County Committee would secure his indorsement and the appointment. Both men some time ago went to work and circulated petitions. Mr. Adkins raised the point that he could get democratic signatures, and signatures along the rural free delivery routes. He applied to Mr. Jackson if this could not be done, and Mr. Jackson decided that only signatures of Republican patrons of the Salisbury office, and those in the suburbs were eligible to sign the petitions. Mr. Adkins appealed and stated that it ought to be decided by the patrons of the office, irrespective of politics. Mr. Jackson laid the question before the Postmaster General, who decided that the Congressman was right—that the petition should only be signed by Republicans, as it was in the nature of a primary, and Democrats should not be allowed to vote. Mr. Adkins then objected to former Democrats who had recently come into the party, but who were now Republicans; but the Congressman overruled this, saying that if he decided this as Mr. Adkins desired he himself (Mr. Jackson) would be barred from indorsing. The fight went on hot and lively. Mr. Humphreys forged ahead, and last week it was decided that the County Committee should meet, receive the papers and indorse the one receiving the highest number of signers on his petition."

The fight has caused much bad feeling among the Republicans of this county and many sores will be hard to heal. It is said the contest will cause a hard battle at the coming primaries between the "old guard" led by Messrs. Graham, Adkins and Miller and the forces that are closely allied to Congressman Jackson and his political fortunes.

No Compulsion.

"Say ma!"
"Yes, Reginald."
"Kin any little boy be President when he grows up?"
"Yes, Reginald."
"But, say, ma."
"Yes, Reginald."
"He don't have to, if he'd rather be a first baseman, does he?"—Indianapolis News.

DRYDEN FOR SUB-TREASURER.

His Name Will Be Submitted By Congressman Jackson.

A dispatch from Washington to the Baltimore American, says: "Mr. A. Lincoln Dryden will be the assistant treasurer at Baltimore. His name may be sent to the Senate tomorrow by President Roosevelt if he returns to Washington in time. It will certainly be sent to the Senate in ample time for Mr. Dryden's confirmation before the adjournment of Congress next week.

The appointment will be credited to Representative Jackson. As explained in today's American, Mr. Jackson has decided that in view of the manifest impossibility of Mr. Mudd's selecting a candidate for the office who will be appointed by the President, he will be unwise not to avail himself of the opportunity of obtaining some share of the federal patronage for himself. Accordingly he has decided to accept the offer made him several weeks ago by Senator McComas, and will tomorrow call on President Roosevelt and formally submit the name of Mr. Dryden as his choice for the office. He called on Secretary of the Treasury Shaw today and discussed the situation with that official very thoroughly telling him that it was his purpose to recommend Mr. Dryden. Mr. Shaw assured him that Mr. Dryden would be in every way thoroughly acceptable to the Treasury Department.

When Mr. Jackson calls on the President tomorrow to submit the name of Mr. Dryden he will find Mr. Roosevelt thoroughly informed on that gentleman's qualifications for the place. Mr. McComas has already indicated to the President that he would like very much to see Mr. Dryden appointed to the place, and has given the President all the information needed to persuade him that the appointment is a good one. Mr. Dryden is the gentleman Mr. McComas had in mind on Tuesday when he announced orally that the President would appoint a "proper man." It is quite probable, therefore, that the nomination of Mr. Dryden may follow immediately after Mr. Jackson's visit to the President. Mr. Mudd has accepted the inevitable. He never had much hope of appointing any one of his friends to the position, but there is no reason to believe that Mr. Mudd regards himself as having made either a losing or an unprofitable fight. On the contrary, there is every indication that Mr. Mudd has accomplished all he started out to do when he first caused the rumpus in the delegation."

Marriage of Former Salisburian.

St. Michael and All Angels' Protestant Episcopal Church was the scene Thursday evening of one of the prettiest of the many June weddings, when Miss Emma Mae White was married to Dr. C. Hampton Jones. The chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers. Rev. Dr. C. Ernest Smith, rector of the church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Dr. Robert H. Paine, rector of Mount Calvary Church. The bride advanced to the altar with her uncle, Dr. John S. Fulton, secretary of the State Board of Health, by whom she was given away. The bride was attired in a handsome gown of white mulle over taffeta, and carried a bouquet of Bride roses. Her maid of honor was Her cousin, Miss Virginia Kelley. She was dressed in white organdie, with a white picture hat, and carried La France roses. Dr. Jones was attended by his best man, Dr. Frank Dyer Sanger.

After the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. John S. Fulton, 1809 St. Paul street, where an informal gathering occurred. The parlor was adorned in greens, palms, sweet peas and asparagus. A small collation was served, the table being adorned with sweet peas and white ribbons suspended from the ceiling. The couple soon after left on their wedding trip North. They will return to Baltimore about the middle of July and take up their residence at 2021 Bolton avenue.

The bride is well known among the social set of the Eastern Shore. For several years she lived at Salisbury, and is especially well known here. She is a daughter of the late William R. White, of Somerset county. During the last few years she has resided in Baltimore with her aunt, Mrs. John S. Fulton, 1809 St. Paul St.

DEATH OF ISAAC JAMES COOPER.

It Recalls a Tragedy of Which He Was Principal.

Mr. Isaac James Cooper died suddenly last Sunday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Joseph A. Phillips, in Hebron. He had been to church and returned at 9:20 o'clock. Almost immediately he complained of feeling ill, and within forty five minutes there after he died.

His remains were interred in the old Cooper graveyard near Columbia, Del., Monday, by the side of the grave of his first wife. Rev. S. J. Smith of Salisbury preached the funeral in Hebron Methodist Protestant Church.

Mr. Cooper was born near Columbia, Delaware, September 1st, 1831. He was the youngest of nine children, all of whom are now dead. His brothers, the late John and Noah Cooper, lived to be old and honored citizens of Sussex county.

When a young man Mr. Cooper married Miss Mary Rebecca Anderson, who was a sister of the late Henry Wesley Anderson. Of this union four children are living. They are Mrs. Cadmus Taylor of Rockawalking; Mr. Wm. H. H. Cooper, of Allen; Mr. F. P. Cooper of Virginia and Mrs. Joseph A. Phillips, of Hebron.

In 1845 Mr. Cooper left Delaware and settled in this county which was then a part of Somerset. He at once became an active and aggressive citizen. In the midst of the prosperity and power of his earlier manhood his wife died, which misfortune, besides orphaning his children and embittering his life was quickly followed by the beginning of a neighborhood strife which had its climax in a bloody tragedy. Its counterpart in the community had never been known before, nor has since.

His mind still disordered with grief over the loss of his wife, he sought and won the hand of another. The unhappy lady who became the second Mrs. Cooper was Mrs. Louisa Byrd, widow of George Byrd of Rockawalking. She now resides with her son in Salisbury.

Mr. Cooper's peculiar temperament was not softened by his recent sorrows, but grew more harsh. His overwrought mind conjured up imaginary wrongs suffered at the hands of his wife and her friends. In his sore heart sprang up that dangerous plant which bears the poisonous fruit of jealousy. Disagreements followed, in the midst of which Mrs. Cooper left the home her husband had provided, and was persuaded by her brother Purnell Johnson and others, not to return. This was the strained condition of their domestic relations when they met on a Sunday afternoon in August, 1866, at the burial of Wesley Hatton, in Rockawalking. Cooper made friendly advances toward his wife which were repelled by her friends. A struggle followed. Johnson received pistol shot wounds which caused instant death. Cooper was a murderer! He admitted it, but excused his act by declaring it justifiable. Many disinterested persons thought the provocation very great. But the killing of Johnson was only half of the horrible event. Mr. Josiah Ellingsworth, a neighbor and friend of them all, tried to intercept the struggle, and himself fell with a fatal bullet wound in the back. Cooper protested to his dying day that he was not responsible for Mr. Ellingsworth's death.

It was generally believed that the shot which killed Mr. Ellingsworth came from a different source. One gentleman who figured in the subsequent trial of Cooper has always said that he had almost positive knowledge that another, in the terrible excitement, of the moment rashly fired that fatal shot.

From the catastrophe the community received a shock which entered every heart. Every home was filled with a gloom that only time could wear off.

Mr. Cooper was tried for the murder of Johnson, found guilty in the second degree and sentenced to a term of 18 years in the Maryland penitentiary. After five years the Governor of the State pardoned him out.

Since then until his death last Sunday he has resided in Delaware, Maryland and Virginia. For a long time after his pardon Mr. Cooper followed sailing, having captained a number of bay vessels. In the meantime, his second wife having obtained a divorce from him, he married a third time. His third wife was a Mrs. John McLaughlin, of Virginia. She is now dead.

In the trial for the murder of Johnson Mr. Cooper was prosecuted by State's Attorney Adam Miles of Somerset, assisted by John W. Crisfield. Some men who afterward became distinguished at the bar defended him. They were Franklin of Worcester, Irving of Somerset, each of whom afterward became judges; and Isaac D. Jones, James L. Martin and Col. Lemuel Malone were also in the case for the defense.

ROYAL ARCANUM BANQUET.

Held Monday Evening in Ulman's Opera House to Celebrate the Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Organization.

On June 28rd, 1877, the order of Royal Arcanum was instituted in Boston. Last Monday evening Diamond Council No. 638 Royal Arcanum of Salisbury, gave a banquet in Ulman's Opera House in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the order. The Opera House was handsomely decorated about the stage with flags and bunting while immediately in front of the stage were arranged five long tables, seating one hundred and sixty persons, laden with an abundance of fruits and other good things.

More than four hundred persons attended the banquet which was held from nine to twelve o'clock. The arrangements of the affair were in the hands of Mr. W. Irving Todd, who is one of the oldest members of Diamond Council. Mr. Todd, with smiling countenance, made a short address of welcome and introduced a double quartet of home musicians which rendered two selections, odes prepared for the occasion. The singers were Mrs. John D. Williams, Mrs. J. D. Wallop, Miss Nannie Gordy, soprano; Mrs. W. S. Gordy and Mrs. Belle Fowler, altos; Dr. E. W. Humphreys, Dr. Spring and Prof. Dashiell, tenors; Mr. Vaughn S. Gordy, basso. Mrs. R. D. Grier was accompanist.

In addition to the vocal selections numerous instrumental pieces were given by Mr. F. A. Grier's Lyraphone attached to a new Franklin piano, which had been loaned by Sanders & Stayman of Baltimore.

About ten o'clock the guests were invited to partake of the refreshments which had been provided in great abundance.

Death of Mr. S. A. Murrell.

Mr. Stephen A. Murrell, who had been suffering for the past weeks from a cancer on the muscle of his leg, passed away about eight o'clock last Monday evening at his home on Park Street. He had been confined to his room since the first of March, and although the best medical aid was employed the disease could not be stayed.

Mr. Murrell was born November 9th, 1845 in Trappe district being a son of the late Wm. J. Murrell who died about eight years ago. His mother, who is now living at Mt. Vernon, Md. survives. Mrs. Joa. Mitchell of this city and Mrs. Thos. Jones of White Haven are sisters, and Mr. John F. Murrell of Washington and Mr. Alex. Murrell of Mt. Vernon, brothers of the deceased. He is also survived by a widow who is a daughter of the late M. N. Wimbrow, and a son, Mr. Herman Murrell.

Mr. Murrell was a highly esteemed citizen and well known for his ingenious mind and mechanical skill. For some time prior to his illness he was connected with the Salisbury Electric Light Company as electrician and engineer.

Funeral services were held at ten o'clock Wednesday morning at his late home conducted by Rev. Chas. A. Hill, after which interment was made in Parsons cemetery. The pall bearers were: Messrs. G. E. Sirman, Wm. J. Downing, Jay Williams, Thos. H. Williams, B. F. Kennerly, and E. E. Twilley.

Died Beside His Plow.

Princess Anne, Md., June 25.—John T. Cullen, a farmer, residing about four miles from Princess Anne, was found dead in his peach orchard about 9 o'clock Monday night. Mr. Cullen was plowing his orchard in the afternoon, and not returning to the house at the usual hour his wife, who is quite infirm, notified their nearest neighbors and a search was made, which resulted in finding his body.

When found the pair of mules with which Mr. Cullen had been plowing were standing quietly harnessed to the plow, and the body of Mr. Cullen was lying on the freshly plowed earth only a short distance from the team, with one of the reins wrapped around his left arm. A jury of inquest rendered a verdict that he died from natural causes. No marks of violence were found upon the body.

Mr. Cullen was born in 1839 near Milton, Del. In early manhood he removed to Somerset county and engaged in farming. He is survived by a widow and two children—Ralph B. Cullen and Mrs. Charles E. Marsh Jr.

EDWARD VII CRITICALLY ILL

His Majesty Operated on For Appendicitis.

Physicians Announce His Condition as Satisfactory.

ENGLAND STAGGERED BY NEWS

A Large Abscess Was Successfully Removed From the King's Abdomen, and the Belief is Strong That His Majesty Will Recover—Foreign Envoys Ready to Start Home—Coronation Stands Being Torn Down.

London, June 25.—With dramatic suddenness the king has been stricken down upon the eve of his coronation. Today he lies in a critical state at Buckingham Palace.

In spite of the intensity of this tragic interruption the lower elements of London last night marched through the flag-decked streets and a portion of society in coronation gowns and jewels gathered at what is called a gala coronation dinner at one of the fashionable hotels. Even at the gates of Buckingham Palace, within which the ablest surgeons and physicians remained in the hope of saving the sovereign's life, the tooting of horns and the sound of other revelries could be plainly heard. It must be admitted that the revellers were misled by the technical language of the bulletins; they having no conception of the gravity of King Edward's condition. The thinking portion of the nation, however, went home numbed by the events which the day had brought forth. In describable consternation prevails throughout the country, and this consternation is reflected in the cablegrams received from all the centres of the universe.

King Edward is in a room facing the beautiful gardens of Buckingham Palace and far from the streets and the crowd. If last night's progress is maintained he will probably die over the effects of his severe operation, which has successfully removed the local trouble. But should any complications occur, such as peritonitis or blood poisoning, it is feared his majesty's present physical and nervous condition would prove unequal to the strain involved. There is consequently intense anxiety as to the outcome. The king's doctors believe that His Majesty would have been dead before now except for the operation. His condition became so alarming Monday night that at one time it was feared death might ensue before the surgeon's knife could afford him relief. Intense swelling of the extremities, accompanied by alarming symptoms of mortification, constituted the emergency which demanded an immediate operation. To the last the king tried to avoid this, and he was willing to be carried to the Abbey for the coronation ceremony in order that it should occur as arranged. The influence of Queen Alexandra was enlisted, however, and at an early hour yesterday morning the royal patient was prepared for the operation which, even in the skilled hands of England's best surgeons, was fraught with grave danger.

Shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon His Majesty was moved from his couch to the operating table and the anaesthetic was administered. Sir Frederick Treves made the incision near the patient's groin and carried it upwards, with an outward slant, for nearly four inches. The obstruction was removed and a tubing was fixed in the affected intestine. King Edward's first words when he returned to consciousness were to ask for "George" and the Prince of Wales, who was waiting in the next room was immediately admitted to his father's presence.

While the operation was being performed the great central court yard of Buckingham Palace was utterly deserted and an impressive silence reigned throughout the building. The equestrian talked in whispers, servants tiptoed about and the tension grew almost unbearable. Then the word was passed around "all had gone well."

Operation Successful. At 2.46 p. m. yesterday the following bulletin was posted at Buckingham Palace regarding the condition of King Edward, who was operated on for perityphlitis:

"The operation has been successfully performed. A large abscess has been evacuated. The king has borne the operation well and is in a satisfactory condition."

Perityphlitis, which is an old name for a form of appendicitis, is the inflammation of the tissues surrounding the caecum or blind pouch situated between the large and small intestines. The king had fallen into a quiet sleep after the operation, showing no signs of sinking from the shock of the operation.

The following bulletin was issued at 11.10 o'clock last night:

"The king's condition is as good as could be expected after so serious an operation. His strength is maintained, there is less pain, and his majesty has taken a little nourishment. It will be some days before it will be possible to say that King Edward is out of danger."

"TREVES, 'LAKING, 'BARLOW."

Queen Alexandra has borne the strain of the past week with the bravest spirit. She was always fearful of what might happen. Her majesty took her part in the festivities at Ascot and elsewhere without revealing any sign of her inward anxiety, and when she was told that an operation was imperative and that the coronation would have to be postponed, she quietly answered: "Have I not felt that this would happen?" and asked: "How does the king bear it?" Upon receiving an assuring reply, Queen Alexandra exerted herself to appear cheerful and to devise means to lessen the king's grief and disappointment, although she was evidently greatly distressed.

A brief notice has been published in the Gazette, as a result of which the entire state social and business arrangements throughout the country are paralyzed. The order is dated from the earl marshal's office, and reads as follows:

"I have to announce that the solemnity of the coronation of their majesties, King Edward VII, and Queen Alexandra, is postponed from the 26th to a date hereafter to be determined."

The best informed public opinion places the date of the coronation in about three months time, provided King Edward progresses well in the meantime.

Work on the stands erected on all sides to enable people to view the coronation procession was gradually discontinued. The lord mayor has instructed the workmen to demolish the stands in front of the Mansion House.

In Piccadilly, along nearly the whole length of which workmen were completing the decorations, and the roadway was blocked with sightseers, newsboys were yelling the announcement of the postponement of the coronation, but the workmen in that part of London stolidly continued to finish the work, which they will only have to take down.

Nothing has yet been decided regarding the movements of the foreign guests. The first intimation which Whitelaw Reid, the special ambassador of the United States to the coronation, had that anything was wrong was contained in a communication canceling the state banquet which was to have been held at Buckingham Palace last night; but no mention was then made of the postponement of the great ceremony of the week. It is understood, however, that the special ambassadors and royal guests will return to their respective countries as soon as more definite news is received of the result of the operation.

KING EDWARD IMPROVED

The Royal Patient is Able to Take Nourishment.

London, June 26.—King Edward's condition last night was even more satisfactory than has been indicated by the last bulletin. He has made a decided improvement, and the feeling at Buckingham Palace is very hopeful. His majesty is able to take nourishment; he had scrambled eggs and a little hock and soda last evening, and with his own hands he opened several telegrams.

The following amended bulletin was issued after 11 o'clock last night: "The king continues to make satisfactory progress. He slept some hours during the day. He complains very little of his comfort and is more cheerful. The wound is doing well."

"TREVES, 'BARLOW."

The welcome words were read in silence, and then the crowds slowly dispersed. Among the comments made on the bulletin one could hear the half-whispered words "Thank God" from women who had waited for hours to hear the best or worst, and the gruffer, "That's good," from the men, many of whom were in evening dress. After midnight the king's palace was practically deserted.

The above bulletin is regarded as intensely satisfactory. This bulletin is generally taken as being the first occasion upon which the king's doctors have allowed themselves to express, even to a small degree, the hopeful feelings they undoubtedly, even though privately, entertain. The absence of complications creates hopefulness in all quarters, although several days must pass before the possibility of danger can be eliminated.

Notwithstanding the fact that this is the intended coronation day, and that London is now even more crowded with people than it was yesterday, the scenes witnessed on the streets were in marked and pleasant contrast with those of Tuesday evening. Traffic pursued its way unimpeded, and even the most popular thoroughfares were comparatively deserted. No illuminations dispelled the natural gloom which settled over the metropolis. The moon failed to penetrate the darkness over the city, and a rather cold wind was blowing.

The first direct expression of opinion from Queen Alexandra was received yesterday by the lord mayor of Leeds. Acknowledging a message of sympathy from the lord mayor, Queen Alexandra telegraphed: "His majesty is progressing favorably."

Today, instead of a day of coronation and rejoicing was one of prayer and intercession; at noon all England prayed that the life of the king be spared.

Thousands of persons visited Westminster Abbey yesterday for the sake of viewing, even from the street, what would have been the centre of the national festivities. Neither inside nor outside has the Abbey been touched, and everything there remains as it was when, with cruel mockery, a dummy king was crowned by the archbishop on Monday evening. Spectators from all parts of the world, who timed their sailings to bring their flags in for the coronation, are being England constantly.

The news of the king's illness, as it came on board there is consternation, and the bitter disappointment of the passengers is quite pitiful to see.

KING WORRIED BY PROPHECY

Haunted For Weeks With Fear That He Never Would Be Crowned.

London, June 26.—At various times during the last year it has been predicted that King Edward would never be crowned. Many believed his health would not survive, and others saw ominous signs of coming disaster in every little turn of the coronation preparations. The king has for weeks been haunted with a superstitious fear, engendered by prophecies that he would never be crowned. Reports have been current in London that he has been much depressed over these prophecies, and at times has appeared moody and morose. It is said that he was apprehensive that he would never see his coronation day.

It became a serious problem how to control his majesty's mental condition, for the conviction seized the king that he was fated never to wear the British crown; in other words, that the prophecy would be fulfilled that he would reign, but would never be crowned. He incessantly studied his own symptoms, insisted that the doctors frequently take his temperature, and brooded in a state of low despair over his condition.

There is an old story that at the time of Edward's birth a prophecy was made which ran: "King shall Edward be, but never shall he be crowned."

Another prophecy of a like foreboding nature was made by Cheiro, the Parisian palmist, who predicted the death of Queen Victoria six months before it occurred. Cheiro said: "The new king, near the months of May or June this year, will be in serious danger of his life."

Some slight idea of what the death of the king would mean financially to England may be gathered from the statistics of the insurance against the king's life that nearly all business men in London and many of the tradesmen of the provinces are carrying. It aggregates, perhaps, $100,000,000.

Mining Town Destroyed By Fire.

Salt Lake, Utah, June 26.—Mercur, the great cyanide gold camp, and the second largest mining town in Utah, was practically wiped out of existence by fire yesterday. The origin of the fire remains a mystery, beyond the fact that it began with an explosion of some kind in the upper story of the Preble block, in which the Quirrah Hotel and a saloon were located. Not less than 40 or 50 stores have been destroyed, and not one is left in the camp. At least 1,000 persons are without food and shelter. A conservative estimate places the total loss between $800,000 and $1,000,000.

Why He Resigned.

For the sake of his duty the late Senator William J. Sewell sacrificed his ambition and for a time threw himself open to misinterpretation. The New York Times prints the real explanation of what people who did not know the facts thought, to say the least, an ungrateful action.

At the outbreak of the Spanish war Senator Sewell sought and obtained a commission as brigadier general. He was a veteran of the civil war and stood a good chance of being sent to the front, but after his appointment the president sent for him.

"You will have to decline the commission," said Mr. McKinley, who then explained that the administration needed his support in the senate.

"I have set my heart on getting into the saddle again," said the senator, "and New Jersey will send you somebody else whom you can depend on to take my place in the senate."

"But a new man cannot take your place on the military affairs committee," replied the president, and then in a gently compelling tone ended the interview by saying, "Your commander in chief needs you where you are."

Senator Sewell went to his hotel and wrote his refusal of the commission to so much coveted. It was not until months after that he explained to his friends that he was simply doing his duty as a soldier.

Lord Dufferin's Great Memory.

Lord Dufferin relates in his recollections delivered in 1891 to the students of St. Andrew's university that he sat down and wrote out every word of his speech and learned it so carefully by heart that he knew that no untoward accident or interruption could interfere with its delivery. The speech lasted an hour and a half, and Lord Dufferin was able to go through it without once looking at a note. Lord Dufferin had a curious practice in Canada, where apparently in those days shorthand writers in many places were not plentiful. He frequently, at the request of the reporters, rehearsed his speech previous to a meeting, and he was surprised to find how this enabled him to clarify and condense what he intended to say an hour later when he addressed his audience.—London Spectator.

Repaying a Loan.

When General Fitz-Hugh Lee was in Cleveland the other day, he received a call from a young man who gave him the name as Lieutenant Ira C. Farley and who prefaced his business by pressing a two dollar bill into the general's hand. "What's this for?" gasped General Lee in blank astonishment. Then the visitor explained that he had served under Maceo in Cuba from 1895 to 1897, and that in August of the latter year, being sick and out of funds, he had applied to Lee for transportation home. The general had assisted him and offered to lend him money, but he would accept only $2. This, Lieutenant Farley explained, was the first opportunity he had had of meeting his benefactor, and he hastened to repay the loan.

Daisy was originally the eye of day, or day's eye.

Mother Always Keeps It Handy.

"My mother suffered a long time from distressing pains and general ill health due primarily to indigestion," says L. W. Spalding, Verona, Mo. "Two years ago I got her to try Kodol. She grew better at once and now, at the age of seventy-six, asks anything she wants, remarking that she fears no bad effects as she has her bottle of Kodol handy." Don't waste time doctoring symptoms. Go after the cause. If your stomach is sound your health will be good. Kodol rests the stomach and strengthens the body by digesting your food. It is nature's own tonic.

Westminster is still discussing a matrimonial surprise of Saturday, when Mr. Burton P. Wade of Ireland was quietly married to Miss Helen Geneva Blanchard, daughter of Mrs. N. and the late B. G. Blanchard. They left yesterday for New York to sail for the groom's home. The couple met in the south of France several years ago. He came to visit her recently, and it was arranged that the marriage should take place two months hence. At the last moment, however, they decided not to part even for a few weeks, and were married quietly at the bride's home by Rev. E. B. Taylor. The groom is the owner of a large estate and the bride's family formerly resided in Baltimore.

Vacation Days.

Vacation time is here and the children are fairly living out of doors. There could be no healthier place for them. You need only to guard against the accidents incidental to most of our air sports. No remedy equals DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for quickly stopping pain or removing danger of serious consequences. For cuts, scalds and wounds "I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve for sores, cuts and bruises," says L. B. Johnson, Swift, Tex. "It is the best remedy on the market." Sure cure for piles and skin diseases. Beware of counterfeits.

It is said that a new route is being surveyed for the Western Maryland railroad from Smithsburg up the Cumberland Valley to Ruessville and thence up the Monterey gap to a point in the mountain where a tunnel will be bored. Probably other locations will be made also, for the purpose of locating the best point for a tunnel and the greatest possible reduction of the grade in the line of the road through the mountain.

In many instances attacks of cholera morbus terminate fatally before medicine can be procured or a physician summoned. The safe way is to keep at hand a reliable medicine for use in such cases. For this purpose there is nothing so sure as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. W. E. Bowerth, of Lafayette, Ala., says: "In June, 1900, I had a serious attack of cholera morbus and one dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy gave me relief in fifteen minutes." For sale by Dr. K. Truitt & Sons.

Fright caused by finding the walls of her home hot during the fire at the butter dish factory, opposite her home, on Friday of last week, has resulted in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Paul at her home on Washington street, Cambridge. The shock caused paralysis of the heart and she died the same evening. She was 70 years of age.

My little son had an attack of whooping cough and was threatened with pneumonia; but for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy we would have had a serious time of it. It also saved him from several severe attacks of croup.—H. J. SPRICKLE, editor World-Herald, Fair Haven, Wash. For sale by Dr. R. K. Truitt & Sons.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is always doing big things quietly and effectively. But the biggest thing mechanically it has ever done was the moving of the thousand-foot bridge across the Raritan River to new piers in less than three minutes without the slightest interruption of traffic. In France the engineers who accomplished such a miracle would be rewarded with the Legion of Honor. Here we simply say, "Oh, yes; the Pennsylvania always does its work that way."—New York Hotel Register.

Postal Telegraph Company Gets Contract.

A matter of some local interest is the report given out by W. H. Baker, vice president and general manager of the Postal Telegraph Company, that a contract between his company and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company had been agreed upon. Mr. Baker declined to discuss the financial part of the contract, but said he considered the arrangement an excellent one both for his company and the railroad company. The announcement to the effect that 100,000 railroad messages a year are to be transmitted free and the remainder paid for is understood to be substantially correct. It is said that the terms finally agreed on with the Postal were not offered to the Western Union which has heretofore done the business. Mr. Kirby Smith has had charge of the Salisbury office of the Postal since that company invaded the Peninsula last year.

Two small houses occupied by colored families, were also blown down. Mr. Phillips bears his misfortunes with the fortitude of a martyr.

No Summer Bowel Troubles

You may say I am safe from all of them and happy. You may not be as safe as you think for the heat of summer causes organic matter to decay everywhere. All dead vegetable or animal matter rot if not kept on ice. All undigested food in the human body will ferment one hundred times as quickly in summer as in winter. Consequence—stomach, liver, bowels poisoned and thrown out of order, sour stomach, gas, colic, diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera, appendicitis. Little children suffer terribly everywhere. The proper thing to do is to use Truitt's Cholera Mixture, the only reliable, safe remedy because it cures diarrhoea, dysentery, cholera morbus, cramp colic, etc.

"Me Wakee, Too."

Puck prints a story to the effect that two competitive restaurant keepers, in trying to outdo or "do" each other, not only kept open all day, but far into the night and finally all night. One of them put out a sign "Open All Night." The other followed with a sign "We Never Close." Suddenly a Chinaman who for years had been half asleep running a restaurant near these Americans, noticing these signs, and fearing that he would lose what trade he did have, woke up, and hurrying for some cardboard and a pot of lampblack, put out a sign "Me Wakee Too." Sixteen years ago Lacy Thoroughgood started his Clothing and Hat business, in fact Thoroughgood revolutionized the Clothing and Hat business in Salisbury and gave Salisbury the most modern and up-to-date Clothing store in the town to trade in. You owe something to Thoroughgood for giving you a chance to buy good Clothing at a reasonable price, and when you see "Me Wakee, Too," bracing up, think this story over and take advantage of Lacy Thoroughgood's fine Clothing and low prices. Listen—What would you do with five or six hundred men's suits more than you wanted? What would you do with several hundred boys' suits more than you wanted? What would you do with a thousand men's and boys' hats more than you wanted? Sell them of course. You would—but could you sell them at regular price? No, neither can Lacy Thoroughgood, so he's decided to cut the price. Now's your chance to buy Clothing and Hats lower than you ever bought them in your life. Don't—when you come in Lacy Thoroughgood's store and are shown a $12.50 Suit for $10, don't say it isn't as good as so and so's Suit that you're wearing now. You probably think it isn't because it don't cost as much. You often get fooled in quality by judging from price. Did you ever pay a big price for a good Suit or Hat and not get it? No, not at Thoroughgood's you didn't. It won't take long, if you'll only come once, before you would rather buy from Lacy Thoroughgood than anybody else because you'll be certain of good goods, no matter how low the price. Now come.

Lowenthals

PEACH CULTURE.

An Interesting History of the Development of This Delicious Fruit by the Farmhand Man in the Business

After five years of thorough culture the trees had just come to full fruiting age when three very severe winters in succession killed all the fruit buds. Deeply in debt as I was and faced with the necessity of borrowing more money to maintain the standard of culture I believed in, my friends and well-wishers now advised the abandonment of the enterprise, without sinking any more money in what seemed to them a hopeless endeavor.

Anyhow, they said, the trees would live awhile without culture, and it would be time enough to spend more money on them when they showed some signs of fruiting. But with my hand once to the peach plow I did hate to turn back, and then, thinking how the Lord hates a "quitter", I began hustling to borrow more money. It was a hard struggle, but a record of reasonable industry, coupled with good habits, enabled me to find bankers who were willing to loan money on faith and energy when there was no better collateral in sight.

A year or so later, when I had reason to expect the first paying crop of peaches, a church society, whose members were largely tobacco farmers, asked for further security above the first mortgage they held on all our property, or else the payment of the loan. These people could not feel that the church money was safe when an attempt was being made to grow so uncertain a crop as peaches, on what might otherwise be good tobacco land. The church authorities gave us, however, three months to adjust matters to their satisfaction.

An offset to this had been a visit to the orchard some few years before by Stephen A. Hubbard, then editor-in-chief of the Hartford Courant, Senator Joseph R. Hawley, Charles Dudley Warner, and Charles Hopkins Clark, the present editor of the Courant. As lovers of nature they were at once interested in the new enterprise, expressed great confidence in it, and from that day on to this the Courant has been an important factor in encouraging this new and important branch of New England agriculture. Both producers and consumers have been greatly benefited by its interest, and many a small farmer in New England owes his first start in the new agriculture to its cheering and helpful words.

In that first crop I was aiming for some peaches better than the market had ever seen before in any considerable quantity, and I deliberately picked off more than three-fourths of the young fruit, greatly to the disgust of friends who could not understand that I was thus insuring larger and finer fruit.

As the fruit approached ripening, plans for marketing that had been years maturing in my mind were licked into shape. It had cost so much money and waiting to reach this first crop that it seemed necessary to get all possible profit out of it. Determined to be my own salesman, I leased a vacant store in the near by city of Hartford, and a month before peaches were ripe, hung out a large banner announcing that a big lot of "Home grown peaches, ripened on the tree," would be for sale there after a certain date. Then I visited the leading towns in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, seeking out in each town one retail grocer or fruit dealer, who handled high grade goods. To him I told my little story of soil and variety selection, tillage, pruning, fertilizing and fruit thinning. I told him how the fruit was to be gathered fully ripe, day by day as it came to maturity, carefully assorted in three sizes, rejecting all unsound or imperfect specimens, packing the selected fruit in new baskets made of the whitest wood obtainable, every basket to be rounding full of perfect fruit of same grade from top to bottom. I told him there would be a label on every package, giving the grade and guaranteeing uniformity of packing; that I was jobbing the fruit myself; that prices would probably be twenty five or fifty per cent above the market rate, but that the fruit would be worth it; and that I was prepared to give an exclusive agency to the one dealer in each town who would push the goods into the best family trade.

Some took these statements one way and some another but to sum it all up, it amounted to about this: "Young man, you tell a pretty good story; you look honest, and probably mean to do as you say; but we have never seen any peaches packed and handled that way, and we question whether it is possible for any farmer to do as you say." A few gave me small orders, and others promised to visit the orchard and sales room when peaches were ripe.

When the crop began to come in, liberal advertisements in the Hartford papers started sales at once. The few outside trial orders gave such satisfaction that orders came pouring in faster than there were peaches to supply them, so that after the first week of the season, the daily orders were far in excess of the supply, and prices were advanced to "what the traffic would bear." It was all cash trade, too!

With a girl to book orders and look after the cash, one boy and I worked in the store every night from six to eleven, taking the fruit from the big wagons as they came from the farm, and making up the "out of town orders." Up again at four a. m. we supplied the Hartford and local trade, after which came a drive of eight miles out to the farm, there to spend the day assisting at the harvest or tending up the weak places in the plan of picking, assorting and packing. I soon found that men, however honest, would occasionally sneak the best peaches on the top, and that women, with quicker eyes, and dexter fingers and natural honesty, made the best graders and packers.

Long days, hard work, and lots of fun there were in that first crop; but the greatest pleasure of it all was the signing of what then seemed a big check for $3,100, that paid off the mortgage on the farm, and gave the church people a chance to re-lend the money on a Kansas farm 1,500 miles away, where they could not see the borrower daily if he should depart from the orthodox ways of the neighborhood to branch off into the heresy of a new agriculture.

That peach harvest rounded up nearly $10,000 profit from the farm that my neighbors thought three months before was not good security for a loan of $3,000. All other debts were paid, and the entire surplus was promptly invested in fertilizers for the orchard. Winter's frosts destroyed all hopes of a crop the next season, and money had to be borrowed to keep things going, but only for a little while; for 1889 gave a banner crop of surplus fruit, which marketed as before, gave net profits from thirty-five acres of over $24,000. Such a fruit harvest was a novel sight in New England, and dealers, consumers, and land owners from far and near flocked to the orchard by the hundred each day. New England received a stimulus in peach growing, resulting in the planting of over 300,000 trees in the season of 1890. Continued planting since shows at the present time over three million trees in the peach orchards of Connecticut, more than 100,000 in Rhode Island, 300,000 in Massachusetts and not less than 50,000 in the Southern counties of New Hampshire.

The Locusts Dying.

U. S. Department of Agriculture, Climate and Crop Bulletin of the Weather Bureau, Maryland and Delaware Section, week ending Monday, June 23rd says: Locusts are dying in large numbers; their drumming is heard less as the days pass by. Their ravages are now beginning to become apparent, but reports show that these States have suffered less than in former years. The brood observed this year is designated as Number X by C. L. Marlatt, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The first record of this brood is that of May, 1715, by a Swedish colonist of Delaware. This year the locusts appeared about the 13th of May. The area covered by them embraces that region north of a line passing through the southern part of New Castle, the boundary between Kent and Cecil, thence across to the southern portions of Anne Arundel and Prince George's counties, and east of the county line between Garrett and Allegany. In Kent, Talbot and Garrett counties extremely localized colonies have been reported.

Grain, grasses, tobacco and garden truck seem to have been damaged but little; however, trees, including fruit, shade, and those of the forest, conifers excepted, have all suffered severely, for beneath the epidermal layer of the tender twigs the female lays her eggs, to deposit which this layer must first be punctured. Under repeated treatment of this sort the twig dies; thus the familiar sight of dead tips of branches while the rest of the tree is perfectly sound. In many sections much of this year's growth will be set back a year, and many young trees planted will be a total loss. The trees most frequently injured are peach, apple, cherry, oak, chestnut, locust and sassafras.

THE SURGEON'S KNIFE

Mrs. Eekis Stevenson of Salt Lake City, Utah, Now Operates Her Own Practice. Her Suffering May Be Avoided.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with inflammation of the ovaries and womb for over six years, enduring aches and pains which none can dream of but those who have had the same experience. Hundreds of dollars went to the doctor and the druggist. I was simply a walking medicine chest and a physical wreck. My sister residing in Ohio wrote me that she had been cured of womb trouble by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and advised me to try it. I then discontinued all other medicines and gave your Vegetable Compound a thorough trial. Within four weeks nearly all pain had left me; I rarely had headaches, and my nerves were in a much better condition, and I was cured in three months, and this avoided a terrible surgical operation."—Mrs. Eekis Stevenson, 210 So. An Important Deep Well in Wyoming.

Recent advices from Wyoming report the completion of the deep well at Cambria, in that State, which has been in progress for several years for the local water supply at that place. This well was started as an experiment, at the suggestion of the United States Geological Survey, as water bearing strata were not definitely known to exist in the region. Early in 1900 a depth of 1,810 feet was reached without finding water, but recently an excellent supply, with a pumping capacity of 300 gallons per minute, has been developed at 2,115 feet, a distance of almost one-half mile from the surface.

Cambria is a coal mining community on the western slopes of the Black Hills. The coal measures in which it is located are estimated to cover an area of 10 square miles and to have a productive capacity of 30,000,000 tons. The experiment is, therefore, extremely important, as it not only throws needed light on the under ground water conditions in all the older formations on the western side of the Black Hills, but also indicates that water supplies may be obtained in wells over a wide area of surrounding country. The prospects and depths of these waters will be shown on maps soon to be published by the United States Geological Survey.

N. H. Darton of the Geological Survey has spent several seasons in an investigation of the water resources of the Great Plains region and has found that the sandstone strata underlying the plains are upturned on the flanks of the Black Hills and there receive most of the water from surface streams which finds its way through their porous material and appears in the artesian and other wells in Wyoming and the Dakotas.

A new and verdant postmaster in a small rural town had received instructions to advertise all letters uncalled for at the end of a certain length of time. He obeyed orders by inserting the following advertisement in the village weekly paper at the end of the first week of his term of office: "There are ten letters in the post-office that nobody has called for. If they belong to don't take notice and call by the end of the month the letters will be sent to the dead-letter office. Anybody expecting letters they ain't got can come and see if any of these letters belong to them. All take notice."

No Danger of Our Wheat Crops Failing.

The fear which was quite recently expressed in scientific circles in Great Britain that the end of our capacity to raise the greatest of all cereals, wheat, was already in sight, had in it much to disturb. The spectre of ultimate starvation for a very large number of the race, however, seems to have been laid for all time by the investigations which have been carried on for the past decade at one of the stations in the great wheat region of the Northwest. This station, a department of the School of Agriculture in connection with the University of Minnesota, has been at work testing old varieties of wheat and creating new ones. Wheat, a self fertilizing grain, goes on reproducing itself through any number of centuries. The grain of one Adams' period would, if planted through all the centuries, produce precisely the same wheat grown in that far time. So, to produce new wheat, man must come to the aid of Nature.

To create a new wheat, pollen from one wheat flower is placed on the stigma of another wheat flower in the drawn of a summer morning, the fertilized wheat is encased in a mask of tissue paper to keep away the birds and insects, and, in due season, that which Nature alone could not accomplish has been done—a new wheat has been added to the plant life of the world. Hundreds of new wheats have thus been created at this station. Hundreds also have been found wanting when tested, lacking in some one essential, or in many; but out of the hundreds a few, less than a dozen all told, have been found to be superior to those from which they were bred—better in yielding power, stronger to resist disease, as rich in food qualities. Selection, too, has been an important feature of the work, the choosing of the choicest types for seed and breeding—From "The New Agriculture," by W. S. HARWOOD, in the June Scribner's.

Letter to S. E. Gordy.

D. R. Sir; Rockland, Maine, is a sea coast town; hard place for paint. About seventeen years ago, Farrand, Spear & Co., Rockland, began with Devos. Their first sale was to paint the Farrington residence, well known there. Mr. Farrand says the house appears, from the street to be well painted now, and has never been repainted.

We should like to know more definitely about a job of paint that has lasted seventeen years on a sea-side house. It is the longest time we have had a report on.

Lead and oil lasts three years—a first rate job—and nobody says it lasts longer. We are content to say that Devos and zinc lasts twice as long; but we know of houses innumerable, on which our paint has exceeded six years.

Yours truly, F. W. DEVOS & CO.

The twentieth annual session of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association began at the Blue Mountain House yesterday, with rather a small attendance, but considerable enthusiasm. President Louis Schulze had the chair, and Mr. J. Augustine Mason of Hagerstown welcomed the delegates on the part of the Washington county drugists. These and others spoke during the session. Reports were heard and other business disposed of.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circular, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

A bill of about $78 for expenses incurred in the isolation of cases of small pox or varioloid in the family of Fredrick B. Donaldson, near Elkridge, last winter was presented to the Howard County Commissioners by John D. Parker, attorney. The Commissioners declined to pay the bill and called attention of their counsel to it.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by R. K. Truitt & Son.

The Thrust of a Lance.

It is scarcely more agonizing than the recurrent pains in the abdomen which follow the eating of improper food or too free indulgence in ice water. The immediate cause of cramps and colic is often the distention of the bowels by gas. Quick relief follows the use of Perry Davis' Painkiller. Careful housekeepers give it the place of honor in the family medicine chest.

The man who wrote "My Bark is on the Sea" never had a dog. The man who wrote "Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!" never owned a tomato can. The man who composed "Just One Girl" is married and has a breach of promise suit on his hands. The man who wrote "Go-Go-Goo Gyes" ought to be shot.

Viralent Cancer Cured.

Startling proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. He believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Bitters 50c, Salve 25c at all Druggists.

A jury of inquest summoned by Justice Hoffman, acting coroner, to investigate the death of Robert Piercy Sanders, a Salvation Army private, after hearing the testimony of witnesses, rendered a verdict that Sanders came to his death from alcoholism. Recently Sanders became a convert of the Salvation Army, and had been taking an active part in the meetings, and was fighting hard to overcome the craving for liquor. It is said he drank a pint of whisky shortly before he died.

Saved From an Awful Fate.

"Everybody said I had consumption," writes Mrs. A. M. Shields, of Chambersburg, Pa., "I was so low after six months of severe sickness, caused by Hay Fever and Asthma, that few thought I could get well, but I learned of the marvelous merit of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, used it, and was completely cured." For desperate Throat and Lung Diseases it is the safest cure in the world, and is infallible for Coughs, Colds and Bronchial Affections. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

Cumberland is so short of water that an appeal has been issued by the Water Board asking the people to be economical with their use of it. It is believed that a fire in the heart of the city would be uncontrollable because of the shortage. Only one ancient pump is working, with a 3,000,000 gallon capacity, the other being in course of repair. An appropriation has been made for new pumping machinery.

How To Avoid Trouble.

Now is the time to provide yourself and family with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, for it is certain to be needed before the summer is over and it procured now may save you a trip to town in the night or in your busiest season. It is everywhere admitted to be the most successful medicine in use for bowel complaints, both for children and adults. No family can afford to be without it. For sale by R. K. Truitt & Sons.

Judge J. B. Henderson of the Montgomery Circuit Court at Rockville has entered the crusade against gambling resorts, on the Conduit road, which draws the "tough" element from Washington. He has given the county constabulary a plain talk, acquainting them with the condition of things, and instructing them to do their duty, which he claims has been neglected in allowing these conditions to exist.

James Devos of Harford county, who had been for some time in charge of Anderson's flour mill, near Clermont mills was caught in the belting on Saturday and so severely mangled that he died shortly after his condition was discovered. He was 27 years of age and a son of Mr. Grafton Devos.

Poisoning The System.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dullness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Biscuits prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress.

Samuel B. Stepney, 25 years old, of Rosertsville, near Pen Mar, fell while coasting on a wheel down a steep hill near his home and was rendered unconscious by striking his head on a stone. He died after being removed to his home. His father was killed 20 years ago by a similar fall from a wagon.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.
Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.
There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. TALMAGE SERMON

By Rev. FRANK DE WITT TALMAGE, D.D., Pastor of Jefferson Park Presbyterian Church, Chicago.

Chicago, June 22.—Timely words of advice and encouragement to young men and women who in these summer days are graduating from college are given by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage in this discourse on the text Numbers vi, 24, "The Lord bless thee."

Last week I received an invitation. It came from one of the large colleges of the east, and it read thus: "The president, trustees and faculty of Princeton university request the pleasure of your company at the exercises to be held during commencement week." That was all the wording the square card had on it, yet those twenty-three words had for me an absorbing interest.

That invitation attracted me because it was sent by one of my old Sunday school scholars. As I held the square card in my hand I seemed to be standing again in the sacred room of the dear old Second Presbyterian church in Pittsburg. I could see this young man, then a little boy in short trousers, sitting at the feet of his teacher. I could hear the sweet young voices singing the old songs we always loved to sing. As I read between the lines of that invitation I soliloquized: "How time does slip away! My Sunday school scholar is now a grown man. Willie's name has been changed to William. He is no longer a child. Graduating from one of the greatest universities of the world, he is about to step forth to the battle of life as a fully equipped recruit. He is about to take his position by my side in the ranks. We must hereafter look upon each other as brothers."

Then as I still read that invitation my study room changed again. I seemed to be a thousand miles away. I was walking through the long corridors of memory. It seemed to me as though I myself, gone back to the time when I myself, gowned and capped, was marching with the senior class to participate in the scenes attending my own graduation. The classmates who were then seated by my side have all scattered. Some are ministers, some lawyers, some doctors, some electricians, some merchants and some soldiers. They are living in the north and the south, the east and the west. Some are dead. That graduation scene was a sad time for many of us. College affections are very strong. We young men knew that we should never be to each other the same again.

Then, as I sat in the quietude of my study with the hopes and anxieties of my own graduation day passing in review before me, I said to myself, "I wonder if some of the young people whom I know and love who are graduating from school or college this June month would not like me to come and sit by their side and tell them what the commencement exercises truly mean in their lives." I wondered as I sat there holding that invitation in my hand if I could not at this critical time of their lives say something to inspire them, to nerve them and to encourage them not only with faith in themselves, but also with faith in God, and I bowed my head over that white invitation and made this simple, earnest prayer: "O God, help me to say something that may be helpful to the young people who are graduating this spring and about to buckle on the armor of life. O Christ, may I be able to bring my young friends nearer to thee, so that thou shalt bless them. May this plea be answered in the noble lives of these young men and women, which shall be consecrated to thee and thy service. For Jesus' sake I ask It. Amen."

A Word of Congratulation.
I congratulate the young men and women who are graduating from the different higher institutions this June because now the financial struggle which many have undergone for the sake of an education is practically over. Here and there a young man who receives a college diploma may be the son of a rich father. He may have had during his scholastic career no ambition; he may have gone through school and college merely because his rich parents compelled him to go; he may have spent most of his time in idleness and only worked enough to just slip through the different examinations by what is known in college as "cramping" with the aid of a tutor. But such a young man does not represent the great mass of college graduates. For most young men and women the acquiring of a higher education has been a struggle, an awful financial struggle. Most of the college graduates come from humble homes, and the education of these young men and women represents intense sacrifice lasting through many years not only on their own part, but also on the part of their loved ones.

Let us study as an illustration the past life of that young man who this year is graduating at the head of his class at Yale or Harvard or the University of Michigan or the University of Nebraska. In all probability he was born in a farmhouse. The family was comparatively poor. In raising enough money to send him to college his mother broke down her health; his sisters for years have taught school or worked in the factory to put him there; the father, to put him there, dismissed the hired man who once helped upon the farm; the boy himself has had to ring the chapel bell, to work during the hot months of summer, to wait upon the college dining room table, to tutor backward students, to work night and day in order to stay there. Few people realize what the struggle of getting a college education means.

One day a classmate was looking very blue and depressed. I said to him: "What is the matter? Has anything gone wrong?" "Yes," he answered, "something has gone wrong, and awfully wrong. You know father and mother do not dress very well. As I went around in the homes of the different boys and saw how well their parents dressed I began to be ashamed of my parents' wardrobe. Lately I have been upbraiding father for wearing such shabby clothes. Last night I again asked him to get a new suit. 'Why, father,' I said, 'you have not bought a new suit for three years, and mother's dress is so old and has been made over so many times that the needle marks make the cloth look like a wire netting all full of holes.' 'With that my father turned and looked at me. Tears came into his eyes as he said: 'Harry, I am sorry you are ashamed of the way your mother and I dress; but, my boy, I have not very much money and it is hard to get along. We do not dress as well as we might because we want you and your younger brother to be able to get an education at college. Harry, we do not dress poorly for choice. We are doing it for you and Charles.' 'Why, Talmage,' added my classmate, 'I felt so bad when I realized all that my father and mother were doing for me that I wept and sobbed like a little child.'"

A Struggle For Education.
To show what a struggle a higher education might mean, the president of Hampden-Sidney college once told this incident: Many years ago a wife and mother was left a widow with four or five fatherless little children to support. The dead father's wish was to have his eldest son follow his footsteps into the pulpit and be a gospel minister. The mother was left penniless, with a large family upon her hands. The wish of the dead father seemed hopeless, but the mother went to work. She scrubbed, she sewed, she struggled. She made her boy study night and day. She pushed him through the preparatory school. She fitted him for college. After awhile this boy was able to help himself a little, but the mother still had to bear the brunt of the battle. The young man entered college. He passed through his four years of study and came to graduation. He went to the president of the institution and asked if his mother could sit by his side when he graduated. The president, who knew of her noble life, gladly consented. When the day of graduation came, the wealth and fame of some of the noblest families about the region of the college town were gathered within the college walls. The exercises went on until they reached the climax. The valedictorian was about to make his address. This young man, the son of the poor widow, stepped forward. He was not only a brilliant scholar, who had captured every first prize in his class, but he was a natural born orator. With his first word a hush fell upon the assembled audience. At times his voice was as low and sweet as the singing birds making love to each other in the harvest fields. Again that voice rolled and swelled as though the stormclouds were crashing together after the forked lightning had hurled its bolt and ripped open the heart of a mighty tree. At times the stiletto of the tongue of denunciation cut and slashed; then the message of love would sob and plead. When the oration was finished, the bouquets of flowers began to fall as the apple blossoms tumble at the shaking of the winds. The young man gathered up the bouquets and piled them into the lap of the little old woman, prematurely aged by overwork, who sat there in her faded gown. As he threw those flowers into her lap he said: "Mother, they are yours. I have done but little; you have done everything." Then, when the president of the college came forward and presented the valedictorian with a gold medal which had been voted to him by the faculty because he had graduated with the highest average ever held by a Hampden-Sidney student, the young man turned and pinned the medal upon the bosom of the faded dress of the little old woman as he said: "Mother, that medal is all yours—it is all yours. You won it, not I."

How You Can Repay.
So, as I see you young men and women coming up to graduation day, I see other faces behind yours. I see those whose sacrifices have made this scene possible. I congratulate you that for you the hard financial struggle of getting an education is over; I congratulate you that the long and arduous struggle of your loved ones in your behalf is also over; I congratulate you because now you can go forth in the strength of God to accomplish some of the acquiring of a higher education in this world by the power of education. You can pay back in a good, pure, true, successful life some of the rewards which the old folks, your brothers and sisters and friends have a right to expect on account of what they have done for you, and I congratulate you further because you cannot only repay them by the results in your own life, but because you can now help your younger brothers and sisters to be educated as you yourself were helped.

Again I congratulate you, young June graduates, because, while your intellect has been trained and molded by the expert minds of a college faculty, your hearts have been spiritually influenced and helped during all these years by the prayers and the encouragement of godly parents. In this age of the specialization of talent it is absolutely necessary for a young man to have a higher education. The land is so filled with colleges and high schools and institutes of technology and schools of all sorts that the young man who has no education or a sadly defective one is mightily handicapped in the race of life. All the different positions of influence will be naturally filled by those who have the best training, just as those who graduated from West Point naturally rose to be the great military leaders of the civil war. Here and there we might find a great volunteer general, like John A. Logan or Alfred Howe Terry or Nelson A. Miles; but, after all, such men were the exceptions. Grant and Lee, Sherman and Longstreet, Jackson and Sheridan, Beauregard and Meade, Polk and Thomas, Johnston and Hooker, were all graduates of West Point. In this age of many schools and colleges I would not be so much of sending my boys forth into life's battle without a higher education than I would expect one of them to become a physician without entering a medical school or a lawyer without studying law.

The Complete Education.
But, my young friend, a man who is limited merely to a mental education is only half educated. The man whose intellectually developed brain is not ballasted by a morally developed heart is heading toward certain shipwreck. The sharper the knife that is placed in the hand of a little child the easier it is for that child to do itself an injury. Aaron Burr was an intellectual giant, but Aaron Burr's wasted life was caused by a heart that was morally bedwarped by sin. Thomas Paine had one of the greatest brains ever placed within the skull of a man; but Thomas Paine's heart was so diseased by sin that he was a drunkard, a reprobate and a practical outcast. Lord Byron "drank every cup of fame, drank early—deeply drank—drank drafts which might have quenched the throats of millions and then died of wretchedness" because his heart was morally diseased. It is absolutely necessary for every young man and woman in order to a happy and successful life to have a truly developed Christian heart, yoked to a truly developed intellectual brain.

Now, young people, while the university teachers have been developing your brain, in all probability the moral teachers, like your Christian father and mother and sisters and loved ones, have been developing your heart. By your training and your past religious life you know what is right and what is wrong. On the day when as a young man James Harper left the home of his birth in Newtown, L. I., his mother placed her hand upon his head and said: "Jimmy, you are now about to go into the great, wide world to make a success or a failure. Remember, my boy, you go from a Christian home and do not disgrace it. If you disgrace this home, remember that on the great day of judgment before God I shall witness against you and tell God that you were brought up right and dedicated by our prayers to his service, and that you went to destruction of your own accord." You know just as much what you morally ought to do as James Harper knew what he morally ought to do.

So on this graduation day of June I congratulate you young people because you have had such competent teachers to develop your intellect, and I also congratulate you because you have had such efficient moral teachers to develop your heart. You were rocked in a Christian cradle. You were started forth with Christian prayers. There has never been a day in all the time you have been away to college that your father at the family altar did not make a morning prayer something like this: "God bless and protect and guard our boy and girl at college. God make John a good man. God make Sarah a good woman." Your mother, kneeling by his side, would say: "Amen, amen! God bless my absent son and my absent daughter." There was not a week in all your college life when you did not receive a letter from home. Perhaps your professor of belles lettres might say they were poorly written, but Christ would say they were beautifully written letters. In those letters your mother always wrote about her Saviour, and she always penned a sentence something like this: "My dear boy, remember that when you are studying about the ancient Greeks and Romans you must not forget to read your Bible and study about Christ. I would have you know nothing but Jesus only rather than have you know everything that worldly scholars might want you to learn if thereby you would neglect to know about my Christ."

Do No Dishonor.
To show how much a young man ought to appreciate the moral training of his old home, as well as the intellectual training which he receives at college, the late J. Sterling Morton, who was once a member of Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, placed this epitaph upon the tombstone of his dead wife: "Here lies Caroline French, wife of J. Sterling Morton and mother of Joy, Paul, Clark and Mark Morton." Then the father took his four sons to the grave of his dead wife and said: "Boys, your mother is buried here. If any one of you does anything dishonorable or anything that would reflect upon her name if she were alive, I will chisel your name from her tombstone." And so, addressing you in the same spirit in which Secretary Morton spoke to his four sons, I now say to you, "Young men and young women, remember the teaching of your parents, who first gave the right direction to your heart and nature, and as you would not dishonor them by ignoring their moral teaching, so I beg of you do not intellectually dishonor or disgrace your alma mater, from whose walls you are being graduated today."

Again I congratulate you, young people, because hereafter you are about to have the inspiration of daily rewards. It is a hard task for a young man to work for something that is to happen ten, twenty, thirty years hence, to work for something that is to take place so far away that it seems as though the fact will never happen, to work for something in the way that a young man pays his first life insurance premium. I suppose my personal experience in getting insured is that of almost every other young man. When I took out a twenty year tontine life insurance policy, I felt as though I was paying for something which would happen at the end of eternity. I paid my first premium very grudgingly; I paid the second in the same way. At the third year I was almost ready to surrender the whole policy, but as the flying years began to go over my head as a flock of migrating birds I began to see that the twentieth year was not so far away. Now, the last investment I would be willing to sacrifice is that twenty year life insurance policy.

So the young student who works at his studies is sometimes willing to slight them because graduation day, like death, seems to be far away at the edge of the horizon. The more the student works the farther graduation day seems to recede. But, my young friends, from now on you shall see the direct returns from your daily labors.

An aged writer once figuratively declared, "The longest half of a man's earthly life is that in which he lives before twenty years of age is reached." I think that statement is true. No matter whether a man lives to be seventy, eighty, ninety or even a hundred years old, the longest half of life is that which he passes during the first twenty years. When we were young, time seemed to have leaden feet. Time, like a snail, would crawl. It never walked or ran or flew. To a little boy the last week before Christmas is almost endless. Every second has the longevity of an adult's hour. The week seems as long as the average adult's year.

But as we grow older the years seem to have seven leagued boots. They grow so fast that they almost seem to be born with gray hairs. To the man in active life January seems almost to tread upon the heels of December, and spring and autumn seem to be twin sisters. My young friends, though you may hardly be out of your teens, yet in the sense in which I speak you have already lived half of your life. During that first half you have had a hard struggle to get an education. At times you were almost in despair. But in answer to your mother's and father's prayers, and also to your own, God always came to your rescue. You were able to get through somehow. Here you are at graduation day. So, in the latter part of your life, if you trust God and do your best he will surely see you safely through. You are going to have troubles, and hard troubles. You are going to stumble over the hillocks of new made graves. You are going to have injustices practiced upon you. But if you will place your hand in the Divine Father's hand He will never let you go.

A Story of Heroic Sacrifice.
He is able to deliver as well as to guide. To illustrate this truth Dr. Newton, the noted English divine, used to tell a wonderful story of vicarious suffering. The scene was laid in the little German village of Ragenbach. One day a number of people were gathered in the large room of the village inn. As the party was merrymaking, suddenly a huge dog appeared at the open door, the only door which afforded egress from the room. The monster's eyes were protruding from the mouth; his lips were covered with a mass of white foam. At a glance every one saw that the dog was mad. Some of the guests were too frightened to even pray. From every lip went the cry: "Mad dog! Mad dog! My God, what shall we do?" With that the swarthy blacksmith arose. His arms were a mass of knotted muscles. "Stand back, men!" he cried. "There is need of only one man dying here. If necessary, I will be that man." So, while the village blacksmith leaped forward and clutched the mad dog by the throat and bore the struggling beast to the floor, the assembled people made their escape. The mad dog buried his teeth in the arms of the blacksmith, but he would not let go until all his friends were saved. Then he flung the mad dog into the room, where the brute was afterward shot. The brave blacksmith then went to his shop and took a long, strong chain. He riveted one end of that chain about his body and the other end about the anvil. Then he turned to his friends and said: "Now I am safe and can do no harm. Bring me food and water while I live. Keep out of my reach when I am mad. The rest I leave with God." Soon the awful paroxysm of hydrophobia was clutching at his throat. In nine days the brave blacksmith's agony was ended. God has made it possible for us all to live right for time and for eternity by sacrificing his only begotten Son for us. As the village blacksmith died in the chain which he had riveted to his own body, so Christ died for us upon the cross which he himself carried to Calvary.

Now, my young friends, who are about to graduate this June day, I commit your earthly and heavenly life into the protecting care of your Divine Father. And as your days of learning are not closed, but have just commenced, as you go from college into the great school of life, I bid you perform your tasks well. If you will do this by the power of the Holy Spirit there shall come a day when you shall be participants in another graduation scene. Then you shall have a diploma taken from the Lamb's book of life. That diploma shall be written in the blood of Jesus Christ. That diploma shall allow you to graduate from an earthly preparatory school into the great university of heaven, where higher lessons and nobler service await you and where you shall never cease to learn about the goodness of God and to sing the praises of Christ and his redeeming love.

PATTISON FOR GOVERNOR

GUTHRIE FOR SECOND PLACE

Real Contest in Convention Was Philadelphia's Representation, Which Was Cut Down to Twenty-nine, Amid Hisses and Cheers.

Erie, Pa., June 26.—For the third time in 20 years, Ex-Governor Robert E. Pattison, of Philadelphia, was nominated for governor of Pennsylvania yesterday by the Democratic state convention. George W. Guthrie, of Pittsburg, was the unanimous choice of the convention for lieutenant governor. James Nolan, of Reading, was nominated by acclamation for secretary of internal affairs. The platform makes no reference to national questions, which indicates that the campaign will be made strictly on state issues. Pattison was first nominated at Harrisburg in 1882. He was nominated again at Scranton in 1890. Both times he was elected. His most formidable rival in yesterday's convention was ex-Congressman James Kerr, of Clearfield, who was chairman of the Democratic state committee in Pattison's second campaign. Pattison appeared before the convention and made a brief speech of acceptance.

The vote for governor was: Pattison, 223 1/2; Kerr, 12 1/2; Guthrie, 32; Woodward, 4.

The convention was held in the Park Opera House. It was called to order by State Chairman Cressy. A. D. Osborne, of Erie, was elected temporary chairman. Robert E. Wright, of Allentown, was elected permanent chairman by acclamation.

The real contest in the convention was on the question of the representation from Philadelphia. Sixty delegates were elected, but State Chairman Cressy ruled that the county was entitled to only 29. The chairman's ruling was sustained by the credentials committee and also by the convention. During the debate on this question the spectators in the galleries interrupted John M. Germain, of Luzerne, with hisses and jeers. The police were called in by the sergeant-at-arms to restore order.

Through the Dead City of St. Pierre.

There was over all the odor of the dead, the smell of the battle field; and with it the scent of sulphur such as one may notice on the Fourth of July, when many fire-crackers have been burned. In another house the family seemed to have gone to death, hand in hand. In a bath tub lying on its face was the body of a man, in a cradle the body of a child, and by its side a doll. Poor child! how swiftly its death must have come. I picked up the doll and it crumbled in my hand, leaving nothing but the eyeless china head. On the wall was a big brass French clock surmounted by cupids; the hands had stopped at ten minutes to eight. It was the same in all houses, nothing but desolation and destruction and death and ruin, all covered with the gray, heavy, sticky volcanic dust, which lay everywhere and covered the whole landscape like a lead covered pall. The northern end of the town lies in a valley which sweeps up northeast to the feet of Mt. Pelee, and here the obliteration was more marked than in the lower part of the city. Down this valley had flowed a great stream of mud following the Riviere Blanche, and that with the fall of ash and sand had buried the houses so that in place of a collection of dwellings there was a level flat of the prevailing insistent dead gray color.

In places ruins showed, and on the shore side you could distinguish buildings sticking in this enveloping mass like raisins in some huge, uncanny cake. This was the better portion of the town and the residence quarter and from its situation the first to feel the effect of the eruption. It was evident that the eruption must have been accompanied by a fierce tornado, for all the trees were blown from the mountain as one sees those on a wind swept coast, and in a number of places I found pieces of corrugated iron roofing caught around stumps and pillars as a rag might be blown and lodged by a breeze. Not a living thing save our own party was in sight; there were no birds, no buzzards, nothing. It seemed as though all life was shunning this dreary, gray abode of death and the dead.—From "The Martinique Pompeii," by ASSISTANT SURGEON JAMES ROBB (CHURCH, U. S. A., in the July Scribner's.

The Southern Forest Reserve.

The measure appropriating $10,000,000 for the purchase of 4,000,000 acres of mountain land to establish the National Appalachian Park in the Appalachian chain through the States of West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Northern Alabama and Georgia seems now assured of final success. It has passed the Senate and the House is already on record in its favor.

The object of the measure is to protect the timber on the mountains, with a view to maintaining the water supply coming therefrom. At present the Tennessee, Savannah and other rivers are fed from hundreds of streams originating in the mountains of the region. This supply is due to a gradual melting of snow. Inroads are being made upon the timber, with the result that the snow supply, instead of being gradually melted, dissolves quickly. Thus the rivers are made to suffer the lack of an all-year supply. To protect the water supply is the principal object of the bill, but incidentally it is designed to protect the timber and all animal life in the reservation.

This is a wise action, and the setting apart of timber reservations in various parts of the country, should be a governmental policy.

Cost of Keeping a Horse.

An experiment has recently been made by the New Hampshire State Experiment Station with a view of finding the exact cost of keeping a horse a year. Five horses were used in the experiment, and it was carried on for two years, the cost being shown as follows: 10,044 pounds of oats at 20 cents a bushel, $118; 25,570 pounds corn at $16 per ton, $204.56; 1,530 pounds gluten at $18 per ton, $13.70; 1,440 pounds linseed oil meal at $28 per ton, $24.36; 225 pounds cottonseed meal at $23 per ton, $2.98; 10,71 pounds bran at $26 per ton, $91.04; 86,540 pounds timothy hay at $16 per ton, $5.84. Total for two years, $743.26; average cost for each horse a year, $74.32.

No account is taken in the above expense of groom, shoes, medical attention and various details that bring the cost considerably above the figures named. The variation in the price of feed in different localities also may serve to change the amount.
